Every recruit has as equal chance for assignment to one of the schools at the end of his training period, which lasts approximately two months. Candidates are chosen through aptitude tests, and those who are not selected are sent to sea for practical experience. EYESIGHT WITH I.E.S.

Fireproof Cotton Materials is now Practical

Fireproofing clothing, curtains, and other household fabrics is quite simple.

Mrs. Bernice Claytor, specialist in home improvement for the A. and M. College Extension Service, says the prevention-wise homemaker can fireproof any cotton fabrics which water will not damage. This is done by dipping them in a solution of borax and boric acid and water. It is necessary to re-dip the cloth whenever it is laundered, because the solution washes out.

"Make a solution of seven ounces of borax, three ounces of boric acid, and two quarts of hot water," the specialist directs. Keep stirring it until the water looks clear. Then dip the article you want to fireproof into the solution just as if you were rinsing it in water. Wring it out, hang it up to dry, and press in the usual way with a warm iron."

Here is one caution the specialist offers. The cloth must be dry when it is dipped-for otherwise the solution will be diluted and much less effective.

It is practical to fireproof such things as man's work suit this way, or curtains for the kitchen, a cotton rug which lies in front of the living room fire, cloth pot lifters, an ironing board cover, or cotton insulation, Mrs. Claytor says. She adds that it is also possible to fireproof large articles of cloth such as upholstery, slip covers, or large rugs by spraying the solution on them.

Nazi Invaders.

LONDON .- Jugoslavs are striking back at the reign of terror Nazi agents are waging in occupied Europe with a newly formed "executraitorous public officials who help the Axis.

Reports reached refugee govern-40-4tc police forces had unearthed a number of plots to sabotage the German war effort and stir up unrest in the occupied nations.

An unimpeachable source asserted that in occupied Jugsolavia the Axis had reason to fear for the lives of its puppet officers, as the Jugoslav government here has given patriot General Draja Mikhailovitch full powers to brand as traitors all Slavs and Croats who work for the occupation powers and to order their death by members of his new corps. The corps already has begun its work, this source said, by killing a Professor Bulic, assistant chief of Serbian Fascist forces, at Cacak, 70 miles southwest of Belgrade.

Lists have been tacked up at night in all regions of Jugoslavia, bearing names of men marked for death because of their collaboration with the invaders, and the Jugoslav government here warned in a broadcast beamed to the homeland that all who co-operate with occupying authorities have been condemned to death.

General Mikhailovitch has freedom to direct the corps in his own way, it was said, "making sure that all puppet officials sooner or later are assassinated and the country rid of traitors."

Accidents Increase as

Auto Tires Wear Thin RALEIGH, N. C .- Rapidly thinning treads on automobile tires as a result of the rubber shortage and a jump of 250 per cent in fatal accidents from tire failures for North Carolina, figures for June made public by the highway safety division reveal.

"This is an alarming condition and is destined to become worse," T. Boddie Ward, commissioner of motor vehicles, declared. "It is a serious menace and a challenge to each motor vehicle driver."

In June of this year, 60 persons met death in 53 traffic accidents on streets and highways of the state. Ward, stressing the danger to motorists, declared that thousands of "border-line" tires are now being operated on the state highways.

"Very few of these drivers have any chance of relief from the death menace to themselves and their families through the channels of tire

CROWDED WITH THE CALLS OF WAR

It's true we usually can put through quickly your long distance telephone calls to towns near-by. But when you send your voice to far cities, it may travel on lines jammed to the limit with calls that help move troops, make planes, build tanks.

We can't put up more lines, because most of the metal has gone to war. So please help us in a vital job. Make as few calls as possible to war centers or cities far away, and please plan to keep such calls short. It will help clear the way for the calls of war.

Telephone System Helps Workers on Big Planes

BUFFALO, N. Y. - Employees working on the final assembly of the new Curtiss-Commando, largest twin-engine military cargo plane in the world, have a two-way telephone system to aid them in their work.

The plan was devised when it was found that due to the Commando's tremendous size and the din of nearby shop and flight test sounds at the Curtiss-Wright corporation plant, shouted orders from one section of the plane to another were unintelligible.

The phone system proved the answer to the handicap, enabling crews to relay messages back and forth between cockpit and tail and cockpit and wings or landing gear. The electrical impulses for the telephone lines are generated by three small dry cell batteries in a small metal box that can be carried in a jacket pocket.

A permanent telephone plug-in jack built into the Commando's fuselage enables refueling service men to connect a portable phone for conversation with the plane's cabia.
