Sen. Byrd Hits Administration Hike In Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today the Eisenhower administration is trying to "pile up IOUs" of the kind it criticized the Truman administration for leaving behind.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and long-time advocate of spending cuts, said in an interview:

"The President's new budget proposes an increase of nine billion dollars in appropriations over the amount Congress voted two years ago."

He said congressional appropriations in the 1954 calendar year were 57 billion dollars, climbed to 62 billion dollars the following year and are recommended at 66 billion dollars in the new budget.

Congress authorizes government expenditures by appropriations. Most of the money involved is spent in the same year but some of it goes into a backlog for future spending.

The new budget request was the first in which Eisenhower has asked Congress for larger appropriations than the amount he estimated the government would spend. Byrd called the request a reversal of the policy by the President.

"When President Eisenhower came into office he and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey criticized the Democrats for leaving behind a tremendous amount of commitments in unexpended balances of funds," Byrd said. "They couldn't balance the budget because of these commitments. Now they are trying to pile up IOUs of the same kind."

Byrd said the predicted surplus of 35 million dollars represents "precious" budget balancing, inasmuch as Eisenhower included in his revenue estimates an increase in postal rates Byrd said he does not believe Congress will vote.

"There certainly isn't any room in this budget for tax cutting and in the end I don't believe Congress is going to cut taxes," he said. "Any reductions that were made would have to be so small that they wouldn't be worth anything politically to their sponsors."

Humphrey told an NBC-TV questioner last night a tax cut might be possible if the budget surplus were to reach three to four billion dollars. But he said he would take a close look before advocating one with a smaller balance.

He said the past year was the most prosperous in the nation's history "and if we do as well in the coming year I think that's about as well as we ought to estimate under present circumstances."

There were indications that Eisenhower's economic report to Congress tomorrow will follow that same line of thought, while predicting, however, a record 400-billion-dollar production rate through 1956.

Administration economists were represented as feeling the economy will expand at a slower rate than in 1955, with some slackening already visible.

Rescuers Find 30 Dead In California Train Wreck

FROG AND GROG

Minister Lands With Both Feet

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The jumping frogs of drink are everywhere cursing the land. A Baptist minister said yesterday in criticizing presentation of Mark Twain's famed tale of the jumping frogs of Calaveras County.

The Rev. Claud J. Bonam, pastor of Huisache Baptist Church, spoke on "The Jumping Frog," or are we really concerned about juvenile delinquency."

His sermon followed the San Antonio Symphony Society's musical adaptation of Twain's story, which was presented for two days recently to thousands of school children in Municipal Auditorium. The Rev. Mr. Bonam charged the celebrated frog leaped about in an atmosphere that was "shameful." He said he had no objection to Twain's account of the frog, but objected to the presentation seen by children here.

"They have changed it. There's no nice game in the original version, and it doesn't end with all the characters rushing to the bar for another drink of liquor," he said.

"The jumping frogs of drink are everywhere cursing the land. They have come right into the public school room, even on the stage of our municipal auditorium," he said.

Mangling Of Bodies Slows Identification

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A two-car Santa Fe diesel train, its engineer apparently blacked out, rounded a curve too fast last night and toppled over, killing an estimated 29 persons and injuring at least 90 in one of California's worst railroad disasters.

Bodies were so badly mangled and dismembered—some were decapitated—that the coroner's office had difficulty identifying them and determining exactly how many were in the morgue. At least two were children.

Deputy Coroner Richard Davis said, "We believe that there are 30 bodies here."

The highest rail death toll in this state was 32 in 1907.

The train last night was en route to San Diego—125 miles south here—with 161 passengers, about 40 per cent of them servicemen returning to their bases. The two cars overturned on their left sides a few minutes after leaving the station here at 5:30 p. m. It was dark.

"The people sitting on the left side where sucked right out of the window and caught on the ties when the train crashed on its side," said flagman Bill Hines, one of the crew of five. "Those people didn't have a chance."

Sparks showered as both overturned cars skidded along with a deathly screeching sound for about 200 feet on the outside of the curve. Each car contained a diesel unit and room for 88 passengers. The accident happened inside the city limits, about four miles from Union Depot.

Thousands of homebound motorists, hearing of the wreck on their car radios, drove to the scene, creating a serious traffic jam and delaying some ambulances.

Stunned, injured survivors lay, sat or stood along the ground. Some searched for missing relatives. Many of the badly injured screamed in pain and panic.

Santa Fe President Fred G. Gurley said in Chicago:

"All indications are the accident was caused by undue speed."

Raymond D. Shelton, general manager for Santa Fe's coast lines, said, "Engineer Frank Parrish estimated his speed at the time of the derailment at 50 m. p. h. I think this would take about 40 m. p. h."

Parrish, 61, of San Bernardino, Calif., who has been with the railroad 37 years, said he had slowed the train after passing a 35 m. p. h. marker and apparently blacked out. The next thing he remembered, emergency calls went out for doctors, nurse, clergy and blood. Scores of ambulances lined up at the scene. Clergymen of all faiths circulated among the dead and injured, administering final rites or giving comfort.

The first ambulance attendant to reach the scene, Daniel J. Cesarotti, said:

"We gave them morphine until we didn't have any more—and still there were people screaming out in pain. It was like a nightmare."

"When we got there we found the two cars tipped over. We climbed on top of them and broke windows so we could climb inside."

"There were screams and moans all about us. It was horrible."

"Bodies and parts of bodies were everywhere. Many of the passengers had been crushed in their seats."

"Others had been thrown through the windows of the railroad cars and crushed under them."

"We saw the bodies of two children."

"This is the worst we've ever seen."

Firemen used axes and sledges to smash into the cars for victims (See WRECK, Pg. 6, Col. 5)

GOTTA BE LOVE

Don't Leap On Leap Year, Star Advises

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As every epistole knows, this is leap year. But one of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors, Dorothy Malone, advises the dolls not to take advantage of it.

According to the dictionary, every fourth February "leaps" over a day of the week, pushing the whole calendar ahead two days instead of one. According to tradition, leap year gives unmarried females the right to pop the question of marriage to dainty males.

"Not me," said Miss Malone, 30, who doesn't lack for suitors anyway. But even if she did she would not propose.

"I think it would be a dreadful mistake," she reasoned. "Supposing the marriage didn't work out. Then I would always regret that I was the one who provoked it."

Chicago-born but reared in Dallas, Dorothy doesn't believe in hurrying romance. That's why she isn't impatient about getting married.

"A great deal of the fun in life is anticipation," she remarked. "I love to look forward to things; if I had my way, I wouldn't open my Christmas presents until March."

"Love is something that can't be rushed, said she, and she certainly has held to that theory. Once she abandoned her movie career because of a Texas. She went home to live and spent a year contemplating matrimony, finally deciding against it. She came back to Hollywood.

"I know a lot of oil millionaires back home," she said. "I grew up with them, and it was a real thrill to watch some of them make their fortunes."

"Oh, I couldn't do that. I would never marry just for security, even if I didn't have any myself. Security has never been important to me. It's gotta be love."

No Hurry

Dorothy Malone, Dallas' gift to the movies, has plenty of boy friends but she's in no hurry to marry. She figures the fun in life is anticipation. "Why if I had my way," she explains, "I wouldn't open my Christmas presents until March." Love is something that can't be rushed, said the pretty Miss Malone.

Editors Blast TV, Radio At Meeting

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. condemned "suppression of news in any form" in a resolution at their annual meeting yesterday.

Rod Watts, managing editor of the Houston Chronicle, was elected president and Galveston was chosen as the site for the next meeting.

Other officers named by the executives of daily newspapers throughout Texas included: Bill Collins, editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, first vice president; Felix McKnight, managing editor of the Dallas Morning News, second vice president; Ed Wischmeyer, managing editor of the Abilene Reporter-News, secretary; and Bill Latham, managing editor of the El Paso Times, treasurer.

Charles A. Guy, publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, criticized the AP in a luncheon address in which he also told of humorous incidents in the association's history.

Guy, a longtime leader in the Texas APME, said he would preach to the text of "The New Daze in the AP."

Guy said:

"This is an era during which the Associated Press, like its allegedly altruistic competitors, frequently is more interested in cognizant of and sympathetic to its new sources of revenue: to wit, the 'moon-pitcher-in-the-front' clients—sometimes called television stations, and its 'yak-yak brigade,' embattled radio."

"Today if an AP man accidentally happens by your office, it's to ask you if you'd like to buy 'Merry Mogrit McZilch's' column, sign you up for a Sunday feature called 'This Here House'—or suggest that you file your local and area news a little earlier for the convenience of the yak-yak and moon pitcher customers."

Guy also called the radio and TV editor a "combination engineer and disc jockey who wouldn't even know how to mark a transposition."

He added the radio and TV reporter "got all his news experience prattling about the price of pork and beans." He said the radio and TV station newsmen "is a broom closet housing a printer machine."

Latham, agreeing with Guy, said that newspapers print "more news in one dad-blamed issue than they (radio and TV) put out all week long."

Catholic Racial Integration Seen

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Racial integration may come in Roman Catholic schools here this year, a high church official reports, despite protests and demonstrations from parents.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles J. Plauche, chancellor of the New Orleans archdiocese, told newsmen yesterday Archbishop Joseph Rummel intends to proceed with integration.

Msgr. Plauche said the timing of the integration was under study and "no definite decision has been made." He said, however, "it's very possible that it may be this year."

Msgr. Plauche's remarks came after a panel discussion at Ursuline Academy on integration, a topic that split up a meeting of the parents club at Jesuit High School two weeks ago and is becoming a hotter issue in this Deep South city where half of the children attend Catholic schools.

A large block of the 600 attending the Jesuit meeting walked out when the principal, the Rev. Claude A. Smallwood, refused to entertain a resolution calling for continued segregation. A similar resolution was passed with only two dissenting votes at Holy Name of Mary High School last month.

Asked to explain the Catholic Church's position on intermarriage of the races, Msgr. Plauche said it was permissible in the church and "would be a lot more desirable" than Louisiana marriage laws that produced mulattos through adultery.

"Is anybody here going to say a couple in love should be refused marriage," he asked, "because their grandmother or grandfather were Negroes? We are opposed to marriage laws as they exist."

He indicated that the social stigma usually would be enough to deter mixed marriages.

27 Injured In W. Virginia Train Wreck

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Jan. 23 (AP)—The engine and four cars of a Norfolk and Western Railway west-bound passenger train derailed on a curve east of this West Virginia-Kentucky border city today, killing the engineer and injuring about 20 other persons.

The steam locomotive, tender and three cars of the Norfolk and Cincinnati train, the "Pocahontas" tore across the eastbound tracks and plunged over a 40-foot embankment. The engine overturned.

Walt Willard of Bluefield, W. Va., the engineer, was found dead at the throttle, his watch still running and his glasses unbroken and in place.

Fireman Ernest Hoback, 27, also of Bluefield, was one of nine injured admitted to Williamson Memorial Hospital. Their injuries were not immediately determined.

In addition, a hospital spokesman said "about 12" others were given emergency treatment and released. Additional passengers were treated for minor injuries by doctors at the scene.

The train included five sleepers, three passenger coaches, two mail cars and one express car.

Senators Charge Stassen Tried To Snag Grain Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee said today Harold E. Stassen tried to "hinder and impede" its inquiry last spring into a Pakistan grain bin project he had approved in his old job of foreign aid director.

In a majority report to the Senate the subcommittee said its investigation uncovered "strong evidence of collusion" by others which Stassen should have detected, and against which he should have taken precautions.

Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) filed a vigorous dissent that the majority report is "inaccurate and unfair."

Stassen now is President Eisenhower's top adviser on disarmament problems. He was not immediately available for comment.

The inquiry dealt with a decision he made in December, 1954, as director of the Foreign Operations Administration. The decision was to award to the Agricultural Construction Co. of Los Angeles, a swing government contract to build two 15,000-ton grain storage elevators in Pakistan.

After the investigation started Stassen rejected all the bids and the contract never was awarded.

The majority report, filed by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.), said the investigation was "hampered by the delaying tactics of Mr. Stassen. He was most uncooperative for a public official."

It said Stassen had attempted to withhold documentary evidence from the subcommittee last March, and had forbidden aides to submit to preliminary quizzing unless FOA officials were present.

Bender's minority report said Stassen had objected to "star chamber" questioning of his staff, and that "in this he was right."

The majority said the inquiry showed evidence of collusion between Agricultural Construction Co. of Los Angeles and Robert Pinger, the project engineer, to swing the contract to that company.

Butch Cook Shows 2 Champion Lambs

By DON HENRY
GARDEN CITY—Butch Cook exhibited two grand champion lambs and the champion pen of three lambs at the 19th annual Howard County Livestock Show this morning.

A large crowd was on hand for the judging and the year's major barbecue dinner at noon today. Annual sale of the 4-H and FFA livestock was to be held this afternoon.

Young Cook showed both the champion crossbred and champion finewool lambs. Reserve championship in the crossbred division went to Baylor Pruitt, and Gary McDaniel had the reserve finewool lamb.

Ben Cox was exhibitor of the grand champion calf, a milked entry, Hugh Bryan Schaefer's entry, also a milked animal, was picked for the reserve honors. Jim Smith's calf, the only entry in the drylot division, won his class, of course.

Ike Asbill exhibited both grand and reserve champions in the capon show. Aubrey Asbill had the third and fourth place entries.

Ralph Schaefer had the grand champion ram and Kenneth Robinson was exhibitor of the champion ewe.

The FFA showmanship award went to Jim Davee, and Fred Chaney won the 4-H award.

Gary McDaniel also grabbed a big share of honors in the finewool lamb class, winning first and second places in the medium weight class and first in the light class.

Thugs Brutally Beat Student

CHICAGO (AP)—A gang of young thugs brutally beat an 18-year-old high school senior with a jack handle last night for what police described as "just a lark."

Sixteen stitches were required to close the cuts in the head of Donald Stevens. He was described in fair condition.

Stevens, who plays semipro football with a South Side team, was pulled from his car near his home. He had stopped there to drop off one of his four companions at his home after a night of bowling.

Authorities held four youths and hunted for two more. Those in custody were James Walsh, 18; Eugene Siemek, 19; Anthony de Grado, 19; and Jack Grabowski, 19.

R-Bar Votes 10-1 For Reallocation

R-Bar voters balloted 10 to 1 for the county tax reallocation proposition in Saturday's election.

The R-Bar returns boosted the count for reallocation to 293. The county-wide vote against was 36. Returns for the other 15 voting boxes were reported Saturday night.

County commissioners planned to canvass the election returns today.

4 Bodies Found At Bridge Site

HEMPSTEAD, Tex. (AP)—Bodies of all but one of the five men killed in Friday's bridge collapse had been recovered today from waters of the Brazos River.

The body of John Hoff Jr., 26, of Bellville, engineer in charge of steel construction of the new State Highway 159 structure, was found yesterday pinned under the boom of the crane that fell with the bridge.

Still missing was W. O. Sethman, 40, of Hempstead. Divers said they couldn't find the body in the tangled wreckage of the bridge and believe it had floated downstream.

Walter P. Duncan's body was found Saturday night with grappling hooks. Duncan, 48, was from Ennis.

Two other bodies were found Saturday morning and afternoon. They were W. D. Boyd, 32, of Buffalo, Tex., and William G. Bethea, 24, of Dallas.

Fire Station Plans To Six Contractors

Six general contractors and about 12 sub-contractors have taken copies of the plans for the new fire station to be constructed at Eleventh and Birdwell Lane.

Bids on the new building will be opened at a special meeting of the city commission Feb. 7. Bonds to pay for the building were authorized by voters last summer in a special election.

Two Armed Thugs Rob Congregation

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two men walked into the Good Faith Baptist Church last night during the evening services.

They ordered at gun point the congregation of six to lie on the floor and then moved to collect the purses and valuables. A woman screamed and fled. The pastor, the Rev. Charles Dillard, advanced on them with a chair.

The men fired two wild shots and fled with one purse containing about $15. No one was hurt.

Bank Heist Marked By Human Drama

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Hollywood would be hard pressed to plot a bank robbery with more human drama than the one that ended here yesterday with the arrest of three men and recovery of loot estimated at between $10,000 and $50,000.

An assistant bank cashier, his wife and mother-in-law were held as hostages by the robbers. All safe and unharmed after a five-hour, early-morning ordeal, they are Ralph C. Hurr, a bank employee for 29 years, and his wife Alma, both 66, and her mother Mrs. Carolyn Sulzer, 88.

Taken into custody were Willard Lee Cloia, 20; Duane Charles Parker, 26; and Donald Francis Kimberling, 23. All live in the Marion area.

Police Chief Thomas Coon said the trio would be charged today with bank robbery and kidnaping. Here are some of the elements that made this bank robbery attempt a little different than the usual:

The father of Cloia is the bank janitor.

Cloia's brother is one of the Marion patrolmen in on the capture of the three.

Police said they knew in advance the robbery was going to take place, and they had "staked out" the area. They did not elaborate.

The attempt occurred at the National City Bank of Marion during the early hours yesterday morning, rather than on a busy banking day.

The chain of events began shortly after midnight when the robbers gained entrance to the Hurr home through trickery. At gunpoint, they obtained his bank keys and the combination to the night depository safe at the bank.

One man went to the bank and attempted to open the safe. He failed and returned to the Hurr home. Two of the men then accompanied Hurr to the bank and forced the assistant cashier to open the safe. But they took Hurr back to his home, where their companion held the women hostages, before returning for the money.

On the third trip to the bank, the police, who had been in hiding nearby, closed in and caught Cloia and Parker with little difficulty. Kimberling was arrested at Hurr's house.

10 Million Killed By Chinese Reds

TOKYO (AP) — A veteran Japanese diplomat said today "reports I have heard" indicate the Chinese Communists have executed "more than 10 million" persons since taking over the China mainland six years ago.

Shinkichi Yoshizawa, former foreign minister and former ambassador to Nationalist China, told the Japan People's Diplomatic Assn. "I believe they have killed more than 10 million antirevolutionaries."

Army Edging In On Air Force's Missiles Field

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army may be edging into a field where the Air Force lays claim to primary interest—strategic air attack against distant enemy war goods centers far behind battle lines.

The Air Force has waged some long and wordy battles with the Navy over the same issue during the last decade.

The impending development of long-distance rockets, which can be designed and used by any of the three services, has broadened the ground for argument.

A weekend public showing of a scale model of the Army's new Redstone missile pointed up the matter. The Redstone itself, with a comparatively modest range of about 300 miles, probably can be considered a tactical weapon for the Army's traditional tactical role.

If anyone is going to bombard targets 1,500 miles away, the Air Force feels that should be the mission of its Strategic Air Command's medium and long-range bombers.

Airmen Digging Out After Big Blizzard At Labrador Base

ST. JOHNS, Nfld. (AP) — Five thousand American and Canadian airmen at the Goose Bay air base in Labrador are still digging out after the worst blizzard in the history of the base.

Thirty-six inches of snow fell there Jan. 19-19, bringing the total for January so far to a record 58 inches. The previous high mark—56 inches for all January—was recorded in 1952.

Winds piled drifts 15 feet high across the 10,000-foot runways. An emergency strip was kept open but only one plane flew in during the storm.

The U. S. Northeast Air Command said no one was injured and "prompt corrective action" kept property damage to a minimum.

Bridge Collapses At Hempstead

Five men were trapped beneath the wreckage in the Brazos River when the 180-foot center section of a 662-foot bridge being constructed on State Highway 159 collapsed seven miles south of Hempstead. Four men were injured. Four others escaped injury. An official of Austin Bridge Co. said one corner of a concrete pier jutting 60 feet out of the water collapsed.

Adlai, Kefauver Each Due Wins In Primaries

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) appear likely to win two unchallenged victories each in the nation's first four presidential primaries.

Those primaries are scheduled in New Hampshire, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

Unless there is a last-minute change in his plans, Kefauver is expected to pass up a chance to challenge Stevenson on his home grounds in Illinois. Both are seeking the Democratic presidential nomination which Stevenson won in 1952.

Filing time for the April 10 Illinois primary expires today. Stevenson already has signed papers for the entry of his name on the presidential preference ballot which is advisory but not binding on the state's 64-vote delegation.

On the Republican side, the schedules of President Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur have been filed. Eisenhower said he neither assented nor dissented to the entry of his name by Gov. William G. Stratton.

Vice President Nixon, arriving in Miami, Fla., yesterday for a week's vacation, said he has noted a "decided increase in optimism" among Eisenhower's friends that he will run again.

He said this represents a "very definite change in the attitudes" of Eisenhower's friends and associates, adding: "What the change is based on I don't know."

"The majority seems to be hopeful or optimistic about the President's plans for the future," Nixon told Miami Herald newsmen.

BOUNDARY PLAN Nehru Seeks Way To Curb Violence

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru's government today searched for ways of meeting the violent protests ignited by its plan for redrawing the boundaries of India's states along language lines.

The protests erupted in savage rioting last Monday in Bombay and spread in the form of demonstrations, strikes and street clashes to other parts of the country. Bombay police put the death toll there at 56 in the weekend outbreaks.

Nehru met four hours yesterday with the high command of his ruling Congress party and made what a party member described as "one of the most moving speeches ever heard, bringing tears to many eyes."

He said Nehru asked, "Who lives in India dies, and who dies in India lives?"

The prime minister appealed to opponents of the government plan to use constitutional methods and not take the law into their own hands, the informant said.

He reported that Nehru referred to the "necessity for repeated firings (by police) and the resulting loss of life," and asked, "What government can afford to sit on the fence and watch hoodlums take over affairs, indulge in arson, looting and murder?"

While the violence generally simmered down over the weekend, authorities moved to take precautionary measures against possible outbreaks on Thursday, Indian Republic Day.

Troops moved into Bombay's exclusive bay area and began throwing up barbed wire enclosures around plush apartment buildings. Searchlights swept wide areas during the night.

Deaths Are Ruled Murder-Suicide

PALOS VERDES ESTATES, Calif. (AP)—Police termed it suicide and double murder yesterday when the bodies of a mother and her two small children were found huddled in a car 100 feet from a church.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Betty Lou Brewer, 32, her son Terry, 4 and daughter Susan, 3. Police Chief J. A. Smith said a vacuum cleaner hose ran from the exhaust into the car.

Mrs. Brewer's husband Everett told officers he knew of no reason why his wife, a former airline stewardess, might want to kill herself and the children.

Sen. Russell in Hospital For Cold
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.) was in a hospital today for treatment of what his Washington aide called a cold.

Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, had attended a testimonial dinner here Thursday night for Florida's Sen. George Smathers.

Also adding to fears of renewed violence was a move by Gujaratis living in Marathi areas to organize themselves for defense. Many fled to the north during last week's fighting when they became a chief target of attacks, looting and arson.

The fundamental purposes and objectives of the YMCA are achieved primarily through volunteer workers. From the beginning of the movement in London more than a century ago this has been true, James M. ### Uncle Bill Capitulates At Last

One third of the strength of the Confederate Army buried the hatchet finally at Crestview, Fla., this week when the townspeople threw a little party on his 108th birthday.

He was William Allen (Uncle Bill) Lundy, and his capitulation came when Miss Terry Broderick, 20-year-old Ohio State University co-ed, leaned over and kissed him on the cheek.

"That's the first time that I know of that I was ever kissed by a Yankee woman," said Uncle Bill. "Liked it fine. . . I love everybody. Glad to be here."

His recipe for a long life? "Look after your own business, keep away from doctors and look at every pretty girl you see."

His meal for the day, his favorite, consisted of fresh pork ham, turnip greens and corn pone. This is substantially the same fare O. Henry declared enabled one Confederate to lick 3.5 Yankees for four years—"hog and hominy."

Uncle Bill Lundy shares with two others the distinction of being the last of the Confederates. The other two are John Salling of Slant, Va., and W. W. Williams of Franklin, Texas. The last survivor of the hosts who wore the blue is Albert Woolson of Duluth, Minn.

Why are there more surviving Confederates 91 years after Appomattox than Union soldiers, although approximately twice as many men wore the blue as wore the gray? Certainly climate and living conditions couldn't have had much to do with it.

The explanation is that the Union soldiers were older when they went into service than their opposites, therefore died earlier. Especially in the final years of the war teen-agers bore the brunt. Boys of 14 and 15 went into the Southern armies by lying about their age, and enlistments at 16 and 17 were quite common. Survivor Lundy must have been only 17 when the war ended, and his service was in the home guard at Elba, Ala. There were plenty of tough veterans wearing the gray who hadn't had their first shave.

Correct Mistakes And Make More

"Typos," meaning typographical errors, are the bane of the printing industry in all its phases. They can be merely a misspelling or a transposition of letters, readily understood as such by the casual reader. Some are made in the original copy, some are missed by the proofreader, some are made in trying to correct the original error. Whatever their source they are an annoyance to the reader, a headache to the publication, and a general all-around nuisance.

In Benton Harbor, Mich., this week the News Palladium announced the "blessing of the water" at the local Russian Orthodox Church. Voda means water in Russian, and the full phrase is "voda kreschenia."

But the voda came out "vodka" in print, and vodka as everyone knows means firewater in Russian. Officials of the Church of Our Savior protested they didn't want people to think they were blessing whisky, and asked for a correction.

Gallantly the News Palladium complied—but in the correction the word again came out "vodka." Once more the paper squared away and the third time got it right with the notation: "Two proofreaders and three editors proofread this story."

All of which reminds us of a very old story. In the old days after the War Between the States nearly everybody was a "colonel," or at least a "captain," especially in the South—and oddly enough most of the titles were genuine enough.

In referring to one of the gallants a newspaper spoke of him as a "battle-scarred veteran," but one of the r's failed to get in there and it came out "battle-scared."

There was, of course, the very Dickens to pay, but on a promise to correct the mistake in a future edition the veteran put way his shootin' arm and departed.

Next week the paper gave a conspicuous place on the front page to its amended honorable, but this time it came out bottle-scarred veteran." End of story.

How Do These Stories Get Started?

Although I have not yet seen the story, several of my near-and-dear — say, five hundred — have informed me that Humphrey Bogart in a current publication describes me as a splendid reporter and a perfect lady.

With such modesty as I can summon, I bow to this sweet impeachment, and only marvel at the story the Hollywood boyman tells to prove both charges.

According to Mr. Bogart's story, I once—in pursuit of editorial duty—tracked him to a bathroom, whose door I flung open without knock or ceremony. Within stood Mr. Bogart, clad only in a soupcon of shaving cream. (Someone ought to buy this boy an electric razor.)

To prove that I am a great reporter and a perfect lady, Mr. Bogart relates that I proceeded to interview him, never once letting my eyes stray from his purty face.

Well, sir, as Mr. Bogart says, this story certainly proves something, chiefly that (1) he is talking about two other fellers, (2) that he is adding fiction to his other many talents or (3) that he is hitting the pipe.

It is probably my loss that I have never interviewed Mr. Bogart on the half-shell. But the fact remains that the only two times I have ever interviewed Mr. B. he was fully clothed and in what has always passed for his right mind. As proof in the first instance, I offer as my witness Louise Bromfield and, in the second, Mr. Bogart's wife, the redoubtable Baby. All clothed, on each occasion, and accounted for.

I have interviewed persons in all kinds of situations, but never in the raw, except that nudist convention in New Jersey some 15 years ago. Once I cornered Clark Gable in a barber's chair and Bad Man George Raft in a ladies' beauty parlor.

And, on separate occasions when each was recuperating from an appendectomy, I interviewed Jack Dempsey and Victor (Beautiful Hunk o'Man) Mature on their respective beds of pain. And once I chatted with the Duchess of Windsor in the ladies' room of a New York restaurant.

But in a bathroom, NO. And without clothes, NEVER. The one thing that pains me most is that a man of Mr. Bogart's wit and invention should stop to rework one of the oldest Joe Millers in the book. Why, I first heard a bowdlerized version of that story at my grandmother's knee.

The Bogart tale is of a piece with another pretty bit of published fiction that haunts me wherever I go. This relates that during the African phase of World War II, when I was a timid war correspondent, I dispatched to the British fiancée of New York Times correspondent Dred Middleton a girle autographed by all the boy correspondents. The inference is that the girle was autographed while in use.

In the first place, I was a skinny little thing who didn't own a girle and, in the second, what I really sent Mr. Middleton's fiancée was two lipsticks.

Considering the mousy type I am and the mousy-type life I lead, I probably should rejoice that such glamorous fiction featuring me is in circulation. But, truth to tell, I am in the same position as the man who was about to be tarred, feathered and ridden out of town on a rail and who opined that if it weren't for the honor, he's just as soon walk.

The Gallup Poll Federal-Aid-To-Schools Gets Sanction

PRINCETON, N. J.—The American public is solidly in agreement with President Eisenhower's proposal to grant Federal Aid to the public schools.

All major groups of the population, all parts of the country, and the ranks of both the Republican and Democratic parties approve of government financial help for the building of new public schools, in the latest Institute survey.

In a special message to Congress earlier this month, President Eisenhower proposed an emergency five-year $2 billion Federal Aid program for school construction.

Interviewing in today's survey was completed before the President made his proposal. New polls will be taken to determine the effect of his message on U.S. public opinion.

The issue was posed to a scientifically drawn cross-section of the public in the following manner:

"Some people say that the Federal Government in Washington should give financial help to build new public schools, especially in the poorer states. Others say that this will mean higher taxes for everyone and that states and local communities should build their own schools. How do you, yourself, feel—do you favor or oppose Federal Aid to help build new public schools?"

The results for all adults:

Favor	Percent
67
Oppose	24
No opinion	9

Although every population group is in favor of such a proposal, the following differences are observed:

1. Democrats are slightly more in favor of the proposal than are Republicans and Independents.

2. By regions of the country, Far West-erners give proportionately the greatest indorsement to the Federal Aid plan. Southerners on the other hand, show the least inclination to favor such a proposal.

POLITICS
	Rep.	Dem.
Favor aid	64	70
Oppose aid	28	21
No opinion	8	9

REGION
EAST
(Conn., Me., Mass., N. H., R. I., Vt., Del., Md., N. J., N. Y., Pa. and W. Va.)
Favor aid	69
Oppose aid	23
No opinion	8

MIDWEST
(Ill., Ind., Mich., Ohio, Iowa, Kan., Minn., Mo., Nebr., N. Dak., S. Dak. and Wis.)
Favor aid	69
Oppose aid	22
No opinion	9

SOUTH
(Ala., Ark., Fla., Ga., Ky., La., Miss., N. Car., Okla., S. Car., Tenn., Tex., and Va.)
Favor aid	60

FAR WEST
(Ariz., Colo., Ida., Mont., Nev., N. Mex., Utah, Wyo., Calif., Ore. and Wash.)

Today's survey is one more example of a general public sympathy toward educational problems.

Questions On Sick Presidents

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's heart attack—and the possibility he may run again—raise three questions which are seldom mentioned but always are present with any man seeking the highest office.

What happens if, after nomination by his party's convention, a presidential candidate dies or is disabled?

(1) Before election day? (2) After winning the election but before the College of Electors can formally vote him in? (3) After winning the election and getting the electoral vote but before he can take office?

The first and third questions are easier to answer than the second. No. 1—The Democratic or Republican National Committee, depending on which party nominated him, would name someone else as its party's presidential candidate. It could choose the vice presidential candidate into the top spot and pick another person to run for the vice presidency.

The committee gets the authority to take care of this kind of emergency through a specific resolution approved every four years by their parties' national presidential conventions.

If a candidate died too close to election day—say, perhaps the day before—the national committee might not have time to agree on a candidate to replace him because the members are so widely scattered.

No. 3 — If a man who wins the election and is formally voted for as president by the College of Electors dies or is disabled before the College of Electors formally votes him in? The election this year is on Nov. 6; the electors meet Dec. 17.

Remember: On Nov. 6 you do not directly vote for president or vice president. You vote for a slate of electors chosen by their party. The electors have generally felt morally bound to vote for their party's candidate. But under the Constitution they are not legally bound to do so.

Thus if the winning candidate died before the electors met, they could if they wished vote for anyone they liked.

A lawyer for one of the national committees said this would happen: The national committee would pick someone to replace the candidate who died and expect the electors to vote for him. But if he had not been on the ticket, meaning the voters never had a chance to approve or disapprove him, there might be turmoil.

What the national committee would probably do—this is only a guess—is this: name the successful vice presidential candidate as the presidential choice.

U.S. Wives Exploit Their Mates

NEW YORK (AP)—Do American wives really exploit their husbands?

Mrs. Sidonie Gruenberg, an authority on family life, detects a tendency in young wives to take advantage of their husbands by having them do too much housework.

Mrs. Gruenberg, who headed the Child Study Assn. of America for 25 years, objects to this "selfish use of a husband for a wife's personal advantage without regard to his own need."

She feels this husband-exploitation is probably an unconscious feminine reaction against past generations of wife-exploitation by husbands.

But, warning that a man who is forced to do too many maid chores may start staying away from home, Mrs. Gruenberg advances this revolutionary thought:

"Men have a right to find in their households a little peace, and are entitled to 'a little pleasure, a little protection.'"

Well, naturally, kind words like this are enough to make the average husband break right down and cry out of pure gratitude. He isn't used to being appreciated. He is more accustomed to being ridiculed.

The European male for some time now has looked down on the American husband as a forlorn puppet of his womenfolk. Manhood in America takes a beating from almost every quarter. It is drummed into men from birth now that they are intellectually inferior to women, emotionally more unstable, shorter-lived, and more susceptible to disease and accident. The knight has lost his armor. Man has become the second sex.

In television the husband is generally portrayed as an oafish dolt around the house who is eternally being outwitted by his children and who couldn't even hold his job except for the shrewd behind-the-scenes machinations of his wife. He never gets a raise from his boss. She gets it for him.

America's march toward matriarchy goes steadily forward. Frankly speaking, Mrs. Gruenberg's friendly pat on the back for the U.S. husband, as welcome as it is unexpected, has probably come too late.

It is too late to stave the steady reversals of the traditional roles of husband and wife. The man has come into the kitchen to stay. He's at home by the range there.

No, don't take away papa's manly pride he has left in his belief that, while mama may beat him in any other field, he at least can equal her as a housekeeper.

Hearing Aid Would Help—To Shut Out Noise

Musings and mutterings:

Perhaps, in time, a hearing aid will become the handiest thing you can carry around.

If things get any noisier, then chances are you'll need two of them, to tune out everything you don't want to hear.

That would include automobile horns and exhausts, alley cats that obviously set their alarms and work the midnight shift and radio commercials. Not to mention theatre audiences who think they can supply wittier dialogue than that being heard on the screen.

Noises, they tell us, are going to get worse before they get better. As airplane engines gain more power and speed, they also pick up added noise. Airplane mufflers are being improved but the mufflers who toll on them must think they are fighting a hopeless battle.

The only good thing about the newest jet airliners, as far as noise goes, is that they will require shorter warmup periods and thus the noise won't last as long.

Do you take pride in recognizing the great names in history? Have a try at these, then:

George Shaw, Robert Eden, Thomas Wilson, John Hoover, Stephen Cleveland, John

Adams, Arthur Doyle, John Booth, John Morgan.

All took their unique places in history, but are far better known if their full names are used. Here they are:

George Bernard Shaw, Robert Anthony Eden, Thomas Woodrow Wilson, John Edgar Hoover, Stephen Grover Cleveland, John Quincy Adams, Arthur Conan Doyle, John Wilkes Booth, John Pierpont Morgan.

If you're troubled with bats in your belfry or attic or chimney, there's a simple way to get rid of them, science says. Sprinkle a little paradichlorobenzene or moth crystals around his roost. The mammal hates the smell of the chemical and quickly "un-haunts" a house, probably flying back to a cave, where he belonged, in the first place.

Here's a helpful hint for the ladies, especially those who have trouble removing milk scum from baby's bottle or residue from fruit jars, jugs, vases and decanters:

Fill the bottles half full of hot, soapy water and add a sprinkle of lead shot, the kind packed in shotgun shells. Nos. 5 and 8 work best, they say.

The idea isn't new. Fact is, Grandmother found it useful in her day.

Reds Know Our Nuclear Tests Will Continue

WASHINGTON — Big news is breaking on all fronts.

First, it has been made clear by President Eisenhower that, if he feels up to it physically and can serve the country, he will in due time announce his candidacy for a second term. This means if he is re-elected, that a continuity of America's present leadership in world affairs is assured.

Second, Prime Minister Anthony Eden of Great Britain, in a public speech, has seconded the warning of Secretary of State Dulles that no aggressive-minded nation must have any doubts that nuclear weapons will be used in retaliation if any attack comes.

Third, official information comes from the Atomic Energy Commission that the so-called "fallout" from testing atomic and hydrogen bombs does not have harmful effects at points beyond the immediate area where the testing is done and that there is no indication whatsoever of any harmful effects, now or to posterity, from any of the tests.

For several days the unthinking pariahs here in the capital have been trying to give the impression that America's allies have been "frightened" by the comments attributed to Secretary Dulles in the "Life" magazine article and that an episode of earth-shaking proportions had occurred to alienate our allies. But the British prime minister, in a speech just made, says even more forthrightly than Mr. Dulles that the aggressors must not misunderstand the allied position and assume that nuclear weapons will not be used, Mr. Eden declares.

"If there is less fear of world conflict today, this is due to the deterrent of nuclear weapons. Remove the deterrent, or take risks in pretending that it is not there, and the world outlook would be terrifying indeed."

The justification of both the atomic and hydrogen bombs is that they are deterrents, so awful that no country will risk their use against itself. It is, therefore, true that the danger of world war should decrease unless an aggressive-minded nation gets it into its head that the bomb will not be used against it, whatever it does.

The Communist regime in Moscow, of course, wants the western world to ban tests of nuclear weapons and has carried on a propaganda to that effect for several months. Many persons in the scientific world without the slightest sympathy for Communism have thought that the tests might be dangerous. Even the Vatican has been persuaded at times to inveigh against nuclear tests, much to the delight of Krishna Menon and Nehru of India. But there is much misunderstanding abroad about the facts.

Now, fortunately, the official facts are coming out after the completion of "project sunshine" by the Atomic Energy Commission. Dr. Willard F. Libby, a member of the Commission and noted scientist, in an address prepared for delivery at Northwestern University this week says:

"On the basis of the information so obtained, it is possible to say unequivocally that nuclear weapons tests as carried out at the present time do not constitute a health hazard to the human population—insofar as radioactivity is concerned and it is believed with good reason that radioactivity is likely to be the most important of the radio-activities produced. It is well to note that since radioactivity is assimilated in the human body it constitutes essentially no genetic hazard, because its radiations do not reach the reproductive organs."

Dr. Libby says that, while the main part of the radioactivity from high yield weapons is dissipated in the stratosphere, "the small but very significant part which falls out within a few hundred miles of the site of the explosion for weapons fired on the surface constitutes a very real hazard." But he adds that all weapons tests "are conducted with great attention to this and the other dangers" and that the local precautions taken "should be entirely adequate and the world-wide health hazards from the present rate of testing are insignificant."

Thus one of the biggest propaganda offensives of the Communists — to ban these tests — has been squelched by official information based on exhaustive investigation. For the Communists, knowing America is far ahead of them, want the nuclear tests abandoned and a moratorium declared while they catch up. This happened before under the Truman regime when certain American scientists discouraged continuous experimentation on the hydrogen bomb — but it will not happen again.

Business Mirror

U.S. Changing Its Outlook?

NEW YORK (AP)—Easing of federal restraint on mortgage credit—and a split drive to reverse the tight money policy aimed at discouraging installment buying — has businessmen wondering if Washington is changing its thinking on the state of the economy.

A few months ago the big bogey in the administration's mind was the fear that inflation might threaten again — in other words, that the business boom might get going too fast.

This week's actions — and talk — have businessmen wondering if Washington is now more worried about the chance that business may be at past the peak.

There are suspicions that the Federal Reserve Board is shifting from its policy of active restraint on credit to a milder form called just restraint. The board, many thought, would hike its interest rates again at the start of the year. It hasn't.

And New York bankers say the money supply may get a little easier soon.

The two spots in the economy where a downturn is now apparent are: auto production and sales and home building.

The Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration have taken note of the drop in home building and canceled part of the restraints on credit they ordered last July. The agencies again will permit 30-year mortgages instead of a 25-year limit, as decreed last summer. They eased up on the reins just when builders gathered in the capital to predict a 7 per cent cutback in home building because of tight money.

On the auto front, Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, has protested against the credit curbs imposed by federal reserve policy. He blames the tight credit situation as a chief cause for the prospects that the auto industry won't sell as many cars this year.

Applications for federal mortgage financing have dropped sharply in recent weeks. Since it takes some time for these applications to result in actual starting of new homes, builders foresee a slump coming in the spring. And to forestall this may be why the 30-year mortgages were reinstated.

The FHA also is asking Congress to liberalize the terms under which the federal agency insures loans for home repairs and improvements. The government men think this sort of spending could increase this year to 14 billion dollars, a 25 per cent gain over last year — and a new prop to the economy, if any should be needed.

Thinking along this line is far from unanimous, however. Fears of a reaction from the great expansion of consumer credit in the last year or so are still widespread in the banking fraternity.

New Look Is Feminine

By DOROTHY ROE
NEW YORK (AP) — A woman should never look severe in the opinion of Hannah Troy, who softens the straight silhouette this spring with feminine and frilly lingerie touches, ranging from a wide cape collar, a crisp, white, embroidered organza on a navy silk afternoon dress to a discreet little collar of linen and lace on a sheer beige wool sheath.

The white-collar girl is this designer's favorite for spring, and her crisp accents of linen and lace give a fresh and flattering look to the new fashions, viewed today by the nation's fashion press.

Many of the Troy outfits achieve a two-piece look in a one-piece dress by simulated boleros and jackets. Others have real jackets which may be removed to turn a tailored costume into a cocktail dress.

For after-five wear, this designer presents varied silhouettes, ranging from slim shafts of silk to draped harem skirts and full, gauzy skirts of chiffon or net.

Oleg Cassini dramatizes the feminine figure in new ways this spring, using various devices to make a simple and carefully shaped sheath look daintily, haughty. A case in point is his black linen sheath called "Hands Off," in which a cut-out section just above the bust provides airconditioning and manages to give the high neckline a definitely daring effect.

Who skilful drapery and fluid handling of fabrics, Cassini builds his dresses around the figure of the woman, considering that the principal purpose of fashion is to make women look more exciting.

George Carmel shows a distinguished group of trim spring suits with soft dressmaker touches that still look tailored. A highlight is a belted suit in navy shantung weave worsted, edged with silk braid down the front closing and on collar and pockets.

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Melissa Hayden, one of the prima ballerinas of the New York City Ballet took time out to have a baby and surprise everyone with her quick return to the stage and her svelte-like figure.

"How did you do it?" I asked when I visited her in her dressing room.

"Dancers have very healthy muscles," she explained, "and mine remained firm throughout my pregnancy. I still have a half inch to take off at the waist, but that will be gone soon."

"Do you exercise any way other than dancing?" I asked.

"Yes, I am doing an exercise to literally twist off my waistline," she told me. "The secret in exercising to reduce is to work with speed and discipline. You can't exercise haphazardly and expect your muscles to respond."

Melissa stood up with her feet about a foot apart and held her hands high above her head. Keeping her hips still she turned from the waist as far to the right as she could, came back to her original position then turned all the way to the left.

"This is my twisting exercise that whittles down the waist," she said.

"Twenty of these twists in the morning and twenty in the afternoon or evening will bring fast results, but if you are just beginning, of course, start out with less and work up to twenty."

"Spot exercising is fine if you want to reduce certain parts of the body," Melissa continued, "but exercising all of your body will

Children Should Have Leisure Of Their Own

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE M.D.
Joan was 9. Her mother brought her in to me for a complete examination.

"I don't know what's the trouble with the child," said her mother. "She is tired and cross, but she doesn't go to sleep when she goes to bed. She nibbles at her food and I think she has lost weight recently."

Joan did look pale and wan, and my records showed a loss of 4 pounds in the last 4 months. However, the examination did not show anything organically wrong with Joan.

I questioned Joan's mother about the child's life. This is what I found.

Joan got up at 7 a.m. with her parents. Dad had to be at work at 8:30. Joan never wanted much breakfast. She made her bed, then she practiced the piano from 7:30 to 8:30. Then she went to school, about a 15-minute walk.

Joan was a good student, but lately her teacher has been complaining that she wasn't paying attention in class.

At lunch time Joan helped serve the trays in the school cafeteria. This left very little time to eat her own lunch, but she wasn't very hungry anyway.

After school Joan had something to do every day. Monday and Thursday she had a music lesson and dashed away from school to get there in time.

"Joan is really very musical," her mother pointed out. "She is going to play in a school assembly next month."

Tuesday afternoon Miss Frisby, the science teacher takes a group on a nature trip whenever the weather is good. Joan just loves those trips and never wants to miss a one.

Wednesday is Joan's day to help her room teacher. Joan's been making lists of all their books and at the next P.T.A. Joan is to give a little talk about what new books they'd like to have.

Friday is Brownies. Joan's mother is a den leader. Joan dashed home to help mother with the meeting.

Every night there is homework to do that has to be sandwiched in between TV programs that must be seen.

Saturday mornings there is art class at the church and they hope to have a dancing class later in the year. Sunday, of course, there is Sunday School.

Joan is very much interested in movies. Sometimes mother lets her go to an early show on a school night because there doesn't seem to be any other time. "She doesn't go to sleep anyway when she gets to bed early," justified her mother.

Is it any wonder Joan was tired? She spent her life dashing from one activity to another. She was keyed up, tense, worried about not having time to go to the movies she wanted to or time to go skating when the pond froze over.

Children need leisure to loaf, leisure to just play without learning something. They need unplanned time to use as they want.

Dr. von Braun, who headed the group of scientists and engineers that developed the new weapon, holds his hand to show the height of a man as compared to the length of the missile.

Sir Alexander Korda, Top British Movie Man, Dies

LONDON (AP)—Sir Alexander Korda, leading British film producer, died today. He was 62. The Hungarian-born movie magnate was noted for his lavish film productions with which he made—and sometimes lost—fortunes. He made pictures for 40 years and since the early 30s had been a leader in the British film industry.

Korda died as his latest epic, Sir Laurence Olivier's filming of Shakespeare's "Richard III," was moving the silver-haired producer back to the peak of Britain's film heap. The star-studded picture will have its American premiere on television in March. "The Private Life of Henry VIII" was his first smash hit. It catapulted him to film success and a career which included such successes as "The Ghost Goes West."

Oil Shows Found On Tests At Wildcats In Dawson, Sterling

Two areas of wildcats have reported shows of oil on tests. In Sterling County, Sun No. 1 Stringer, swabbed load and five barrels of new oil from perforations between 1,426-36 feet. The test lasted 5 1/2 hours after being treated with 290 gallons of mud acid. Monterey No. 1 Vogler, Dawson test, recovered 644 feet of gas in the drill pipe and 30 feet of oil and gas cut mud in the Spraberry. Operator is drilling ahead to the contracted depth. Pan American No. 1 Singleton, Martin County wildcat, had a core that recovered only dolomite. This project is in the Devonian at 12-371 feet with no shows of oil or gas reported to date.

Borden Southland Royalty No. 1 Higginbotham is making hole at 7,230 feet in lime and shale. This wildcat is three miles northeast of Vealmoor and is C NE SE, 7-31-36, T&P survey.

Berber Tribal Leader Dies At Age Of 78

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Si Thami el Glaoui, the chieftain whose word once was law among thousands of fierce Moroccan Berber tribesmen today, died at the age of 78. He recently underwent an operation for cancer of the stomach. For a long period El Glaoui was recognized as leader of the Berber tribes in the Atlas Mountains of southern Morocco. As Pasha of Marrakech he was outstanding in the group of tribal traditionalists supporting the French in North Africa. The role played by the chieftains resembled that of feudal lords of the Middle Ages, both in the power they wielded and in the loyalty they commanded.

There were signs in recent months, however, that aging El Glaoui's iron-handed control was slipping. Nationalist groups banded up the pro-French stand of the traditionalists, referring to them contemptuously as the "Bent Ou Oul"—or tribe of yes men. In July of last year a wave of rioting ripped through Marrakech during a visit to the city by Gilbert Grandval, then French resident general of Morocco. Shouting demonstrators blocked the street in front of El Glaoui's car after a welcoming ceremony for the visiting government chief. Shots rang out as the car came to a halt. The bullets missed El Glaoui and the fiery old leader seized a rifle from his car to blaze back at the crowd. French police intervened before he opened fire. El Glaoui escaped an assassination attempt in February, 1954, when three grenades were thrown into a mosque in Marrakech where he was praying. Two persons were killed and more than 20 others injured, but he escaped unhurt.

He played a key role in support of the French in the deposing and exile of Sultan Mohammed ben Youssef in 1953 and the installation of Sultan ben Moulay Arafat. At that time El Glaoui called his Berber warriors from the hills to insure the departure of the nationalist Ben Youssef. "Catherine the Great," "The Scarlet Pimpernel," "The Fallen Idol," "The Third Man," "The Winslow Boy" and "Tales of Hoffmann," King George VI knighted the producer in 1942. "Henry VIII" also gave him his second wife, Merle Oberon, who played the unlucky Anne Boleyn. They were married in 1939 and divorced in 1945. He and his first wife, a Hungarian, had been divorced in 1920, while he was working in Hollywood. In 1953 he married a Canadian, Alexandra Irene Boycon. His only son, Peter, is the son of his first wife. The first producer to get worldwide distribution for British pictures, Sir Alexander was often critical of the American movie industry. Though for a time he was one of the producer-owners of United Artists, he often complained of Hollywood's "restrictive atmosphere" and ran into trouble because, he said, he refused to be a "yes man."

COOLING STOPS TOO FAR APART

Five Negroes dismounted from an automobile in record time last night when Highway Patrolman Jimmy Parks formed them the car was on fire. The five had parked the old-model car at the side of the road. They were sitting in the car waiting for the brakes to cool. "It runs good until it gets hot. Then you have to stop and let it cool awhile," the driver explained after Parks told him one of the rear wheels was a blazing.

The officer said the brakes apparently were too tight, causing the brake drums to heat. The fire was extinguished by the patrolman and the Negroes started a new leg of their trip.

Recent Moisture Gives Life To Grain, Legumes

DALLAS (AP)—Small grains and legumes received new life from the snow and light rains which fell across North and East Texas last week, the Dallas News reported in its weekly crop survey of district extension agents. Ted Martin of Denton, district agent for 19 North Texas counties hit hard by winter drought, said the snow will do "considerable good to the grain crop."

It will also condition the ground for spring planting, he said. In the district to the west, the snowfall ranged from a trace to inches, but completely missed some sections, Dist. Agent J. A. Scofield of Vernon said. "The snow had very little moisture content, but it will greatly benefit small grains that were in critical need of surface moisture. It will keep crops alive for two or three weeks, and we hope additional moisture will be received by that time," he added.

The moisture was better in North-east and East Texas. In the 19-county northeast district of J. H. Surovik of Mount Pleasant, from one to eight inches fell. The snow was preceded by about an inch of rain. "This by no means broke the drought, but will keep the winter legumes and small grains," said Surovik. But he added that the extremely cold weather is retarding the growth of small grain and winter legumes. The moisture was not enough to help those who were getting low on stock water supply. Good rains fell in the 21-county East Texas district of Walter Scott of Nacogoches.

"They will help to stop grass and timber fires, and winter legumes and oats will grow now," he said, "but we need some warm weather."

Poujade To Appeal Fine For Slander In French Election

PARIS (AP)—French political phenomenon Pierre Poujade is going to appeal a 500,000-franc ($140,000) fine leveled against him for slander during the recent election campaign. Judicial sources said the overburdened courts wouldn't be able to get around to the appeal for four months at the least. Poujade, whose newly organized union of tax rebels won 52 parliamentary seats in the general election early this month, was convicted of defaming former Assembly Speaker Pierre Schmitter, a member of the Catholic MRP (Popular Republican Movement). The court rejected Poujade's defense that he acted in "good faith" when he accused Schmitter of implication in the execution of a French woman after the liberation. Poujade said he based his accusation on a letter from a friend, Leon Dupont. Dupont already has been fined 400,000 francs ($114,286) for the same slander.

At the rear door were parts of two or three other bodies. Other victims were strewn along the right-of-way in the wake of the sliding cars. More than 40 physicians were there. Others were dispatched to hospitals. The Red Cross made 1,500 pints of whole blood available. A detachment of soldiers joined hands forming a human chain to keep back the throngs of morbidly curious who jammed the area near Washington Boulevard and Soto Street in the southeastern part of the city.

Marine Capt. Roger Barnard, 26, of Triangle, Va., en route from Los Angeles to Camp Pendleton, near San Diego, said, "The train tilted. I saw the suitcases start coming down, but I got down on the seat. 'I felt like a die in a dice game. The lights went out and then came on again. I got out through the window on the left side even though the car had fallen on its left side. There was still some room to crawl through the window and roll ourselves out. I got only a small bruise.' Many servicemen struggled to avert a panic among survivors. The four represented 852 unidentified dead at a ceremony led by Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer, commander-in-chief of the United Nations and Far East Commands. The Manchester, with the first 50 caskets, sailed for Hawaii where they will be interred at Punchbowl Cemetery overlooking Honolulu. The rest will follow aboard other ships.

POLITICAL HOT POTATO Cheap Stock Feed Not Always Best

By OVID A. MARTIN WASHINGTON (AP)—Cheap livestock feed may be to the livestock farmer what candy is to a child. But developments of the past year show clearly that it is not always good for him. Certainly this was recognized in the special message President Eisenhower sent to Congress last Monday recommending improvements in federal farm-aid programs. It is a fact too that's likely to play a major role in the forthcoming campaign for votes in the politically important Midwestern and Western hog and cattle areas. Livestock farmers are in greater economic trouble than any other group. Prices of hogs and cattle have dipped sharply during the past 15 months, carrying incomes of their producers to lowest levels of the postwar period. The situation has brought numerous demands for more aggressive action to bolster hog and cattle prices. So far, the government has done little beyond buying a small quantity of pork products for the school lunch program. Hogs brought producers a national average of $10.60 a hundred pounds last month. A year earlier the average was $17. This is a decline of almost 40 per cent. Two years ago the hog price average was $23. Thus, in a two-year span, prices dropped about 54 per cent. Beef cattle prices averaged $13.50 a hundred pounds in December compared with $15.20 a year earlier. This was a loss of about 12 per cent.

The major factor in the price drop was a sharp increase in the production of meat animals, particularly hogs. Late in 1954, when farmers started breeding plans for 1955 crop hogs, it looked like a profitable thing for regular hog producers to breed more sows and for many other farmers to go into the hog business. At the time, many dairy farmers shifted from cows to hogs because hog prices were much more favorable than milk prices. Hogs looked good because prices were relatively high, particularly in comparison with feed prices. At the time prevailing prices, a farmer could make more money by feeding his corn and other feed grains to hogs than he could by selling the grain or storing it under government price supports. Furthermore, there was a growing supply of feed grains. Government farm policies in 1954 operated to provide "cheap feed." Millions of acres of land taken out of the production of such surplus crops as cotton and wheat under rigid control programs were diverted to the production of feed grains—corn, oats, rye, barley and grain sorghums. The government inaugurated a program at one time to prevent such diversion of acreage, but later withdrew it. Largely because of this extra acreage, the production of livestock feed grains during the past two years has been large enough to lift total supplies to a record level. The feed grain acreage last year was 12 per cent larger than 1953 and 9 per cent above the 1949-53 average. Thus, encouraged by the favorable hog prices and abundant supplies of low-priced feeds, farmers produced 10 per cent more hogs last year. As these reached butcher weights and started moving to market, prices began to go down, finally dropping about 40 per cent in less than a year's time. The result was a loss for many farmers. Some did not get enough to pay for their feed. Others who produced their own grains would have been better off financially if they had unloaded the feed onto the government under price support guarantees. Remembering that in the past there often has been a close relation between hog prices at election time and hog prices at election time, Democrats are preparing to make a big issue of what they call the GOP administration's "cheap feed" policies — policies which they say misled farmers into producing too many meat animals for their own economic good. Undoubtedly with this criticism in mind, Eisenhower told Congress in his farm message that there is need to cut down on crop production, including feed grains, under a soil bank proposal. Payments would be made — both in cash and in surplus commodities — to farmers who reduced plantings. "Establishment of the soil bank," he said, "will alleviate the undue stimulus to livestock production and the resulting downward pressure on livestock prices which arise from using for feed-grain production much of the acreage already diverted from wheat and cotton."

In discussing possible changes in farm programs for corn — the major livestock feed, the President said there is need to reduce feed stocks which, he said, currently depress the market and provide an incentive to farmers to produce excessive supplies of hogs and corned cattle.

Prayer Provides Health, Safety, Speaker Claims

No situation is beyond the unlimited power of prayer, John J. Selover of Long Beach, Calif., said in a lecture on Christian Science here Sunday.

"No matter how serious a circumstance may seem, there is salvation, safety and healing right at hand for those who turn humbly and completely to God in prayer," he said.

Selover spoke at the local Christian Science Church. He is on tour as a member of the Christian Science board of lecturership.

Men and women throughout the world are proving prayer effective in meeting every human need, Selover said. "The means by which we are brought to the enjoyment of health and harmony is the humble, fervent prayer of spiritual understanding."

The lecturer claimed that disease, want, insecurity and other discords are caused by living or thinking in conflict with the law of God. "As God's greatness and presence are accepted and understood, there will be a lessening of the tendency to look to matter for health, happiness, and security," he declared.

Commenting on the availability of lasting security, he emphasized the need for seeking an ever-improved understanding of God. "God's spiritual ideas, which appear as we pray, compel us to do the wise and loving things in our personal and business affairs, and the result is an abundant supply of the needed things," he stated.

"In reference to any human need we should look to heaven, to divine consciousness, for help and not to the realm of human wish or desire," he said, adding that prayer "should never drop to the level of mortal or wishful thinking."

Split Reported On Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said today members of the Senate Agriculture Committee appear "to be farther apart now on details of the soil bank legislation than when we started hearings."

Ellender, chairman of the committee seeking to draft new farm legislation, said he hopes to end a week of hearings today "and then began drafting actual legislation tomorrow."

"We have listened to a lot of conflicting testimony and there will have to be some compromises if we ever get a bill," Ellender said.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), senior GOP member, agreed some changes would be made in the broad program outlined by Secretary of Agriculture Benson and President Eisenhower. One disagreement is whether the program should be voluntary, as proposed by the administration, or compulsory. "I think we must put some teeth in it," Ellender said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials hope to get agreement from British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden here next week to hold the line for another year against seating Red China in the United Nations.

American officials believe Eden will not press for any changes in basic U.S. and British policies. Britain recognizes Red China; the United States does not. There have been growing pressures in Britain for several years to support Russia's effort to seat Red China in the U.S. The United States is opposed to Red Chinese membership. Britain has gone along each time the issue has come up and voted to shelve it for the duration of each General Assembly session.

Officials say there is no doubt but that Russia will raise the matter again next fall. Administration leaders expect Eden will realize the problems that face the government here in a presidential election year and will not do anything to make them more difficult.

Graham Preaches To 6,000 In Chill Of India Morning

MADRAS, India (AP)—American evangelist Billy Graham addressed more than 6,000 Indian Christians today in the sharp chill of an unusual morning meeting.

Some of those present had walked 400 miles to hear him. A much larger crowd was expected to attend a meeting tonight. "In America," the evangelist said, "people would be asleep at this time. I have never in all my travels addressed a crowd of people like this on such a cold morning." The congregation, made up of peoples speaking many different tongues, listened in silence to Graham's address. When he finished they moved forward in a body to surround him. Few spoke but some shook his hand. Graham is making a tour of the Far East.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

No fewer than 14 coal car loads of base cinders have already gone onto the new track at Howard County Junior College and another shipment is due shortly.

In all, around 1,300 cubic yards of cinders will be used toward making the track one of the best in the country.

The cinders cost $7,600 FOB. Another $600 was needed to get the slag delivered to the track and spread.

The college got a real break in the curbing and concrete work done on the track. Clyde McMahon agreed to do the work for $1,000, then knocked around $3 per cent off that figure. The school wound up with a bill of only $638.

The final job of topping the track will be held up until Coach George McAllister returns from California. (He went out to the coast to confer with the USC and Occidental College track mentors). George is due in this weekend.

McAllister never realized the magnitude of the job when he started the track. There was probably ten times the work connected with it than he thought there would be. However, it didn't dampen his enthusiasm in the least.

Oble Bristow took up a collection among his friends—at least 200 of them, he said—to provide funds with which McAllister made the trip to the Coast.

Incidentally, John Curtis has quit the Jayhawk basketball team to concentrate on track.

John was injured several weeks ago and since has seen little action with the Hawks.

The state champ in both the 100 and 200, John looms as a certain point winner in practically all the meets the Hawks enter this year.

He's a "picure runner," John is, a boy it is a pleasure to watch thunder down the track.

He excelled here last year, even without the cinder track. With it to practice on this year, there's little telling how far he will go.

Metz LaFollette, who gave up professional baseball after being sold to Big Spring by Lubbock several years ago (along with Jess Jacinto), recently was named head football coach at Seminole High School, succeeding George Zollar.

LaFollette previously had served as head basketball mentor, a position he will retain.

Jimmy Feagan, who played end for the Sweetwater Mustangs last football season, will be moved into the quarterback slot for the Ponies this spring, according to Coach Elwood Turner.

Jimmy comes from a long line of football players, most of whom have distinguished themselves with the Mustangs.

The top five scorers in the Big Ten this year are all 6-foot-3 or less.

The leader is Robin Freeman of Ohio State, who stands only 5-11.

The way it shapes up now, George Peacock will play offensive center for the Big Spring Steers next fall and Gerald Davenport will spell George when the Longhorns go on defense.

Bobby McAdams, coming up from the Junior High School, may make both boys basketball, however. He's growing fast enough to be a contender for a first team berth, and he loves the rugged work.

Big Jim Zapp, who has been employed at the local cotton compress since last baseball season, still is under contract to Fort Arthur of the Big State League but he says he'd like to play in the Southwestern League the coming season.

Zapp capped 29 home runs for Big Spring last year, although he played in only 89 games. His mace average was .311.

Rory Calhoun scraps Jerry Luedee in New York Arena

By JACK HANDBY
By The Associated Press

Rory Calhoun, a young middleweight from White Plains, N.Y., who had to go West to make a name for himself, finally breaks into the main event class in his home arena Monday with a 10-round match against Jerry Luedee of New Haven at St. Nicholas Arena in New York.

Frank Bachman, manager of the unbeaten Calhoun who has had only 18 pro fights, insists his boy should have been named "Rookie of the Year" for 1955 instead of Boston's Bob Murphy. Calhoun's latest success was a knockout over Charlie Salas at Los Angeles, Dec. 1.

This is a rematch, giving the 22-year-old Luedee a chance to get even with the only man who beat him. The first bout, a prelim at Madison Square Garden, in November, 1954, was cut from six to four rounds to fit a time limit.

Calhoun and Luedee will be seen on television (DuMont) starting at 9:00 p.m. (EST), the day before the fight. The bout will be debated before the New York State Athletic Commission.

Willie Pastrano, the 20-year-old impressed many as a future champ, faces a rugged night: Friday at Miami Beach (NBC radio and TV) when he meets Chuck

SOUCHAK WINNER

Maxwell Has 286 In Caliente Play

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—The touring professionals headed back across the border today for tournament play in California and leading the procession was Mike Souchak, who was loaded with loot.

Hefty Mike won the $12,500 California Open with a 72-hole card of 281. The victory netted the engaging young pro $2,200 in cash and a trophy that is three feet high and must weigh a small ton.

It is topped by a statue of the last king of the Aztecs, by name Cuauhtemoc.

"That's the biggest prize I ever got," said Souchak, who will keep it until the 1957 Caliente Open.

The presentation was made by Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, former president of Mexico and president of the Tijuana Country Club, where the event was staged.

The 28-year-old ex-Duke football player had to come from behind to nail Tommy Bolt and win, and he did it with a last-round 71.

The outcome for other name players: Gene Littler, a 73 for 285; Billy Maxwell, 68 for 286; Lionel Hebert 69, and his brother, Jay, 70, both for 287. Bo Wininger, 80 for 292, and Frank Stranahan, 78 for 291.

Jamison Wins Top Award

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City's Wolverines—the pep squad organization—honored the 1955 Wolves at their annual football banquet Saturday night and coaches and teammates presented Tommy Jamison with the top award available to a Wolf grider—that of "Hustlingest Wolf."

The award which is presented annually to the football player who has tried the hardest—both on the practice field and in play—amounts to an "A" for effort, and was presented by Coach Bob Reilly.

Fullback Jamison was also named—along with Billy Simmons as co-captain for the past season and, as an additional honor, was presented Saturday night as the Wolverine Sweetheart.

Miss Ramona Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Billings of Midland, was presented as the sweetheart of the football team.

The theme of the banquet was "Memory Bowl" and speaker Bill Austin, pastor of the Oak Street Baptist Church, told the group of youngsters that "What your memory does for you—depends on what you do for your memory."

pointing out that ugly and shameful memories made unpleasant companions in after years.

"The pleasantest memory you can give yourself," he said, "is something you did by yourself and for yourself—that good tackle you made last fall—the theme that you wrote for yourself that the teacher liked so well."

"We're all getting too many too soon," he continued, "too many things are handed to you a silver platter. You now have things that your parents didn't get until they'd been married for years."

"If your parents want your memories to be the sweetest and best," he added, "they will let you work for them."

The "A" string letterman, introduced by Head Coach Bob Reilly and Assistant Don Powers included one soph, seven juniors and 14 seniors. They were: Don Black, sophomore; Bob Carpenter, Dra Vowell, Jim Windham, Delbert Lewis, Sande Hume, Roy and Troy Maple, all juniors; Reid Biggs, Larry Gaylor, Chill Black, Perry Barber, Billy Simmons, Jimmy Johnson, Tommy Jamison, Don Fite, Lee Williams, Jimmy Hock, Jesus Valdez, and Doug Sherman, seniors.

Jerry Jones and Sandy McSpadden received manager's letters.

The B Team lettermen were named by coach Ode Lambeth and included: Barton Smith, Ray Griggs, Tommy Stewart, Richard Compton, Charles Palmer, Wesley Richards, Jimmy Northcutt, David Visser, Walter Van Duesan, Banker Cade, Doug Chandler, Don Powell, Jay Maddox, Bob Aycock, Leslie Hatfield, James Goff, Cecil Darr, Gene Blessingame, Jim Richardson, Charles Hubbard, Lynn Ray Carpenter and Paul Free.

Miss Carolyn Geer, president of the Wolverines, acted as Master of Ceremonies. Decorations were by the Wolverines and sponsors Misses Jane Merrill and LaVerne Springer. They included two dummy football stars and a cheer leader on stage and table decorations of red carnations in football helmets flanked by football shoes—"Most expensive decorations I ever saw," muttered Coach Reilly. "those shoes cost $30 a piece!"

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—George Mikan, basketball's onetime scoring colossus who risked his reputation by coming out of retirement, told his fans and critics today to save their sympathy.

He said it firmly and a little impatiently, despite his Minneapolis Lakers' 100-95 defeat by the New York Knickerbockers last night, their third setback in the last four games.

National Basketball Assn. observers glimpsing the retired Mikan in the first week of his comeback have shaken their heads.

"Mikan may help his team" is the consensus, "but he's not the player he used to be. Better he should be remembered the way he was."

Mikan, at 31 still the proud competitor, disagreed.

"Give me two or three weeks more conditioning," he argues, "and I'll be as good as I ever was. I don't think I'm doing so bad right now. I'm averaging nearly a point a minute. What do they want?"

"I don't want anybody's sympathy. I'll stand on my merits."

His merits, while somewhat diminished after a year and a half absence from the game, are important enough to the Lakers. Six times champions in three different leagues since their formation eight years ago, the Lakers were stumbling along in the bottom half of the NBA's Western Division when Mikan came back. They've won four of eight since, and Mikan has averaged about 9.5

HC Jayhawks Invade Odessa On Thursday

The basketball championship of the West Zone could well be decided Thursday night in Odessa, when Harold Davis' HCJC Jayhawks of Big Spring meet the Odessa JC Wranglers.

Odessa is smarting from an 81-69 defeat handed it by Frank Phillips of Borger last Saturday night in Borger.

The Wranglers proved easily superior from the court but the Plainsmen won it on the free throw line, having made good on 31 gratis pitches.

Odessa entered the race as the favorite to finish first. HCJC is the defending champion. The Hawks got off to a fine start in Zone competition by defeating Amarillo, 64-59, in Big Spring a couple of weeks ago.

HCJC will carry a winning streak of seven straight to Odessa. Overall, the Hawks have an 11-8 record. Odessa won the recent Howard College Tournament after beating some of the finest clubs in Texas junior college circles along the way.

Last year, the Wranglers finished just back of the Hawks in conference standings with a 6-2 worst record.

Odessa will carry a 10-7 record into the contest against HCJC Thursday.

Coach Larry McCulloch's boys have defeated Decatur, 83-61; West Texas Frosh, 53-75; Cisco, 106-80; HSU's Buttons, 78-74; Sayre, Okla., 57-36; San Angelo, 68-61; Lon Morris, 76-75; Wharton, 80-78; HSU again, 65-63; and Angelo again, 78-75.

They've lost to the Texas Tech freshmen by scores of 76-69 and 81-70; Schreiner, 66-64; San Angelo, 63-62; John Tarble, 70-61; Henderson County JC, 82-85; and Frank Phillips, 81-69.

The Hawks will be returning to court action after a layoff for mid-term examinations.

The locals played only one game during that period, beating the ACC reserves in Abilene, 57-49.

The rest has given the Jayhawk a chance to recover. It appears Coach Davis will field his strongest team in weeks at Odessa.

Betsy Rawls Is Tampa Winner By 5 Strokes

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Betsy Rawls, the Phi Beta Kappa swinger from Spartanburg, S.C. is $900 richer today after winning the $5,000 Tampa Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Rawls, four strokes behind Patty Berg as the final round opened, went all out and luck was with her. She knocked four strokes off par with a 71 and wound up with 293 and a 5-stroke victory margin.

In winning her second Tampa Open, Miss Rawls started out with even par 75 for the 6,207-yard Palma Celsa course and got better each succeeding round.

"Everything I did went right," she said of yesterday's round. "I had been worried about my short game but it was fine."

Just as luck smiled on Miss Rawls, nothing went right for popular Betty Sutton, 78-74; West Okla., 57-36; San Angelo, 68-61; Lon Morris, 76-75; Wharton, 80-78; HSU again, 65-63; and Angelo again, 78-75.

American Bobsled Team Is Nosed Out In Olympics

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO (AP)—Italy's Eugenio Monti piloted his two-man bobsled to a split second lead over America's Bud Washbond today in the first official elimination race for the Winter Olympic Games.

Italy's little ex-ski champion whooshed his garish red and yellow sled down Cortina's 1,700-meter course (109 yards, 22.36 seconds) in one minute, 22.36 seconds after setting a course record of 1:22.38 in an earlier trial run.

Washbond, a gaugemarker from East Hartford, Conn., plunged down the 16-curve track in 1:22.91, the best time ever by a non-Italian on the run.

Bobsters from 14 nations vied in the opening day of eliminations designed to pare the 25-sled entry list to 20.

Each bob drove one official heat today after a purely practice trial run. Each will drive another official run tomorrow and the eliminations are based on the best two times for two heats.

Umberto Dalla Costa, also of Italy, placed third in 1:28.48.

After making a brilliant halfway time of 49.3 seconds, America's Art Tyler skidded on a curve and finished in 1:24.53—good for fifth place. Tyler, of Rochester, N.Y., is the No. 2 American pilot in the two-man.

For the second straight day of this often perilous event there were no accidents. The only misfortune befell Washbond's American-made sled after the heat was finished.

An Italian workman guiding his sled down the ramp for loading on a truck failed to brake it properly and the sled plunged 4 feet to the ground.

Washbond and brakeman Sgt. Pat Biesiadecki of Ware, Mass., inspected the sled and said it appeared to have suffered no serious damage.

Bud's father, U.S. Coach Alan Washbond of Keene Valley, N.Y., said, "I think we can fix it up before the trials tomorrow. But fall like that could make some difference."

San Francisco tries for its 40th successive success Saturday in a game with California as college schedules, in a hull because of mid-term examinations, stage a comeback.

Demos Work Up Adlai Legates

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—A committee today was working to draw up a slate of delegate candidates "favorable" to Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The New Hampshire primary March 13 is the first in the nation. Stevenson already has said he would not campaign in the primary, where Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) has been active for the state's eight convention votes.

However, a candidate's consent is not necessary when a slate runs as "favorable" to a candidate, compared with a slate that is "pledged" to a presidential hopeful.

The committee is scheduled to meet tonight to plan for a gathering of Democratic leaders next Sunday. The pro-Stevenson slate is expected to be announced at that time.

Chairman of the committee is William L. Dunfee of Hampton, president of the Young Democrats of New Hampshire.

YOUR INCOME TAX

About Time For That Annual Chore—Here Are Some Hints

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Staff

It is just about time for you to sit down and figure out whether you owe Uncle Sam some additional income taxes for 1955, or whether Uncle owes you a refund.

You can fill out your income tax return anytime after Jan. 1, as soon as your employer provides you with his record of how much taxes he deducted from your pay during the year — Form W2. If you are self-employed, of course, you can file as soon as you like, using your own records of how much estimated tax payments you made during 1955.

The tax deadline, April 15, falls on Sunday this year, so you get until midnight (your time) Monday, April 16, to get your return in the mail to your district tax director's office, listed in the instructions that come with your tax forms.

Everyone who had income of $600 or more in 1955 must file a return, regardless of whether any tax is due, except that for persons 65 years of age or older, the minimum amount is $1,200.

The revenue Service has redesigned its tax forms this year. The revision should make the tax filing chore easier for something like 40 million taxpayers — about 68 per cent of the nearly 59 million expected to file individual tax returns this year.

THIS IS THE FIRST of a series of 10 articles on how to file your federal income tax return. The series is a guided tour through the new tax forms, to help you take advantage of the changes.

The first three stories of the series will tell how the vast majority of taxpayers can complete their tax filing chore on no more than pages one and two of the newly revised Form 1040, so long as they have income only from wages and salary.

This — the "wage earner's short form" — is the big change in income tax filing this year. There have been no major changes in the tax law.

The remaining seven stories will discuss treatment of other types of income, your exemptions, how you can exclude part of your income from the tax collector's reach, and will include special articles each for retired taxpayers, the self-employed and farmers. Two question-and-answer stories will give answers to the questions most frequently asked by taxpayers and revenue officers.

IN ADDITION to the new forms, the Revenue Service has also completely rewritten—and has much improved—the instructions mailed with your tax return. Persons with wage and salary income only will in many cases need to read only the skeleton instructions on Page 3 of the pamphlet. But those skeleton instructions contain page references to more detailed explanations on each topic.

Filing your income tax report is basically just this one simple process—reducing your total income to the amount of income on which you must pay taxes. This series of articles aims at helping you to locate and apply to your income the exclusions, exemptions, deductions and credits which whittle your income down to the amount of which you must pay a tax.

Your first problem is: What form to use?

The answer—use the simplest form that the kind and size of your income allows. Here are the choices for the individual taxpayer:

1. Form 1040A — Card board, check size, the simplest of the tax forms. You just give the Revenue Service the information called for in the 13 lines of the form, and Revenue will compute your tax liability and bill you for more money or send you a refund. You can use it only if your income fits the following description: Total income in salary and wages from which taxes have been withheld, of less than $5,000 (this includes the combined income of husband and wife who file jointly). The $4,999.99 may include not more than $100 of other wages, or of income from dividends or interest. No other types of income (for instance, pension payments) can be reported on the card form.

The standard 10 per cent deduction for personal expenses must be accepted if you use the card form. This year, the card form does not allow you to report sick pay (which can be excluded from your income), or other special credits. But you can get the advantage of special tax treatment of dividend income on the card form. The law provides that you do not have to pay tax on the first $50 of dividend income. You take advantage of this on the card form by the simple process of not reporting up to $50 of your dividend income (or up to $100, if it is a joint return and husband and wife each had at least $50 of dividend income).

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS come with the card form. If your income does not allow you to use it, you must use Form 1040.

2. If your adjusted gross income (your income minus your business-connected expenses, not your total income, as in the case of the card form) is under $5,000, and is all salary and wages, you may be able to get by on only page one of the big form. In doing so, you can claim a sick pay exclusion, deductions for business-connected expenses, credit for over-payment of social security tax, and you can get the special tax benefits allowed to heads of households and to widows and widowers. None of these special benefits can be claimed in using the card form. But using page one of Form 1040 only, you may report only salary and wage income, whereas on the card form you can report up to $100 of some other kinds of income. Here, as with the card form, you must accept the standard deduction.

3. The wage earner's short form—instead of the other income schedules which used to be on page 2 of form 1040 you will now find there, at the top, a box for claiming exemptions other than for yourself, wife and children. Below that is a section for itemizing your personal deductions. At the bottom of the page is a box where you can compute your tax. This links to a new set of tax tables, on page 14 of the instructions pamphlet, that eliminate a good deal of arithmetic.

This rearrangement of Form 1040 created the "wage earner's short form." Remember that, contrary to past experience, you can now use the short form—provided your income is all salary and wages—regardless of the size of your income, and whether or not you itemize your deductions.

4. Persons with other than wage or salary income will find special schedules on pages three and four of Form 1040 for handling their income, and must fill them out, where applicable.

With your choice of form made, your next decisions—and the subjects of the next article—are: Should my wife and I file a joint return; am I in the special "head of household" category; can I claim the special benefits for widows or widowers; what exemptions can I claim?

Mad Church Aide Kills His Wife, 2 Sons

MARTINSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A 31-year-old Sunday school teacher who police said thinks he is Jesus Christ killed his wife and two sons with a shotgun yesterday.

"This is Wednesday and I sent them to heaven," Robert Heckman, a truck driver, told Sheriff Victor Young after he was picked up at the home of his father.

The naked bodies of Rick, 11, and Chad, 10, were found lying in a bathtub full of water in the Heckman home at Brooklyn, 11 miles north of here. Outside the bathroom in the hall lay the body of Mrs. Jane E. Heckman, 30.

Young said Heckman told him in an oral statement that he shot his wife, then killed the boys.

The sheriff said Heckman, a former farmer who taught Sunday school classes at the Brooklyn Methodist Church, "believes he is Jesus Christ. He gave that as his name when I asked him."

The Morgan County grand jury will be called tomorrow to consider the case, Sheriff Young said. No charges were filed.

Young said he was told Heckman was treated at a private mental institution in Indianapolis last September.
