Interposition Plan Sent To Legislators

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. Shepperd sent a proposed resolution on interposition with reference to regulation of natural resources to all Texas legislators today for their consideration.

Shepperd wrote the lawmakers he would be happy to pass on their recommendations and his own to Gov. Shivers if they feel a special legislative session is needed.

The doctrine of interposition permits a state to appeal to its sister states for a constitutional amendment to settle a question of contested power between federal government and state government.

Shepperd is proposing use of the doctrine to nullify the threat of federal control over natural gas, oil or other natural resources. The issue was brought to a head when President Eisenhower vetoed the Harris Bill, which would have exempted independent producers of natural gas from direct federal control.

"The basic constitutional questions involved in this infringement on states rights are the most important to face us in this generation," Shepperd wrote.

"While proponents of federal control say that this is a 'natural gas question, I feel that Texas would give us all of its natural gas if it would save the rights of the states and constitutional government."

"Interposition is not, in any sense, a rebellious or disrespectful procedure. It is simply a method of protecting the dignity and honor of the individual states against rulings which deprive them of rights and duties and functions properly theirs."

"Therefore, it is a means of protecting the Constitution, the Constitution, and not the courts or Congress, is the supreme law of the land."

"A state, or a group of states, may defy a ruling on one question and remain wholly obedient on other questions, the while remaining in the Union."

Shepperd's proposed resolution for legislative consideration asserts the right and authority of the Texas Railroad Commission to regulate the state's natural resources "with-out federal usurpation or interference with that right."

It makes an appeal by the Legislature to the other states to call a constitutional convention to consider and propose an amendment to the Constitution specifically to reserve the regulatory power to the states with respect to natural resources.

SMITH TESTIFIES

Indictments Due In Insurance Probe

WACO (AP)—Dist. Atty. Tom Moore Jr. said today he expected the grand jury probing the collapse of the U. S. Trust & Guaranty Co. "to return some indictments."

Moore refused to elaborate. The foreman of the grand jury, Dean Abner McCall, declined comment.

The district attorney's prediction was made minutes after the grand jury has spent an hour and 47 minutes questioning former insurance Board Chairman Garland Smith.

Smith said he could not talk about his grand jury experience. McCall said work on the grand jury report would be started this afternoon and the report would be returned Wednesday morning.

Smith, appearing with the grudging consent of his physician, spent an hour and 47 minutes in the grand jury room.

He reappeared, smiling but obviously nervous and tired. Smith had answered the subpoena in spite of his doctor's report that he was still a very sick man following recent hospital treatment for stomach ulcers.

"I can say nothing about what went on in the grand jury room," Smith said.

The handsome former head of the state agency regulating Texas inurance companies was particularly questioned about reports that A. B. Shoemaker, president of U. S. Trust, had made on certified draft sales later than the deadline for a state license to make such sales. Shoemaker shot himself but survived.

"Chairman Byron Saunders and Commissioner Mark Wentz were on the commission at that time and they still are," Smith said. "You should ask them that question."

Smith said he and Mrs. Smith, who waited patiently outside the grand jury room door, were leaving at once for Austin.

He said the jury was through with him for at least today. He refused to say if the jury wanted to question him any more, saying he believed that would violate his oath of secrecy about grand jury proceedings.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey also was in the grand jury room about 10 minutes this morning. He said earlier he presumed he was called relative to a civil suit on file concerning 1954 campaign expenditures.

Smith entered the jury room at 9:53 a. m. and left at 11:30 a. m. Before questioning Smith said he would answer questions "to the best of my ability but my ability isn't much. I'm not well at all."

Reds Re-Elect 18 Members Of Ruling Clique

MOSCOW (AP)—The Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party today re-elected the 11 members of its ruling Presidium. Nikita S. Khrushchev was re-elected first secretary.

Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov, World War II hero, became a candidate (alternate) member of the ruling body, which was known in Stalin's day as the Politburo.

Thus the so-called collective leadership of the Soviet Union remained unchanged at the close of the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party. As first secretary, Khrushchev remains boss of the party, a position he assumed in 1953 when Georgi Malenkov relinquished the job. The first secretary is in a position to control the vast party apparatus throughout the country.

The party elected six candidate (alternate) members, an increase of four. Among them was the first woman ever to serve on the ruling party body. A party secretary of eight members, headed by Khrushchev, also was elected.

These are the presidium members: Khrushchev, first secretary of the party and a deputy in the Supreme Soviet (Parliament). He has been the dominant personality in the party since the fall of 1953 when he took over its leadership, while Malenkov still was premier.

Nikolai A. Bulganin, who succeeded Malenkov as premier early in 1955.

Lazar M. Kaganovich, a first deputy premier, Supreme Soviet deputy and head of a wages and hours commission for Soviet industry.

Malenkov, former premier until he confessed failure at the job and now a deputy premier, minister of electric power stations and a Supreme Soviet deputy. His ministry came under fire at the recent party congress.

A. I. Mikoyan, a first deputy premier, Supreme Soviet deputy and foreign trade expert.

V. M. Molotov, first deputy premier, foreign minister, Supreme Soviet deputy. He continued to an error in ideology recently.

Mikhail G. Perukhin, first deputy premier, Supreme Soviet deputy and Malenkov's boss as a leading Soviet industrialist.

Maxim Z. Saburov, first deputy premier, chairman of the State Planning Commission and a Supreme Soviet deputy.

K. Y. Voroshilov, a Soviet marshal and comrade of Stalin who now is chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet and in effect, President, but without presidential power.

M. A. Suslov, first named to the Presidium last July, former editor of Pravda and long a Central Committee member.

A. I. Kirichenko, named to the Presidium with Suslov in July. He came up from the Ukraine party organization—once Khrushchev's where he was first secretary, Member of the Supreme Soviet.

The candidate members, beside Zhukov, include: Dmitri T. Shepilov, a rising political figure. He served as editor in chief of Pravda and in the Foreign Ministry, where he was entrusted with important jobs, such as the wooing of Egyptian friendship.

Ekaterina A. Furtseva, the highest ranking woman Communist in the U.S.S.R. She has been head of the Moscow party committee secretary and apparently is a favorite of Khrushchev. She is the first woman to be elected to the ruling body.

Other farmers who were at the hearings today in the Justice of Peace Court room prepared to protest acreage allotments included Howard Newton, O. R. Bolinger, C. E. Prather, Albert Robinson and T. A. Norman.

Charles L. Ford, Dallas, who is the office of general counsel, Department of Agriculture, was present to represent the county board and the department in the hearings.

The review board—Glenn Tate, Hermetleigh, chairman; C. N. Webb, Tennyson, and D. M. Womack, Colorado City—indicated it would hear all of the protests at its session.

Ford told the board and the score or more cotton farmers who were present that in matters where the protest alleged discrimination against an individual, a county board, that the review board was empowered to make such adjustments as might be indicated.

It was explained that the hearings today are different from those of last week. In the earlier hearings, it was said, the protests were against the state committee.

Any adjustment of discrepancies in these matters will depend on the outcome of six appeal cases—one taken from the area of each review board—to the United States District Court.

There are some 1,800 such cases pending and it has been stipulated by attorneys for the cotton farmers and for the department of agriculture that outcome of the appealed cases in the United States court would govern settlement of all of the cases.

At Least 11 Die As Plane Hits House

President Eisenhower smiles and waves his hat as he and Mrs. Eisenhower leave the presidential plane, Columbine III, upon their return to Washington following an 11-day vacation in Georgia. Following them down the steps is Mrs. John S. Doud, the President's mother-in-law.

Bodies Found In Huge Jet Bomber

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—At least 11 people died today in the crash of a four-engine B50 Superfort on a farm 10 miles south of Dayton.

The big plane exploded and burned after crashing into the ground between a barn and the farm home of Mrs. O. C. Henderson. The flames ignited the barn and house which burned to the ground.

No one was in the farmhouse or barn.

Deputy sheriffs said they recovered bodies of nine airmen and two civilians and were searching for others.

A helicopter from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base was hovering over the scene within a short time after the crash, which took place shortly after noon.

Witnesses said the aircraft apparently was attempting an emergency landing.

Mrs. Myron O. George said she heard "a big noise" as the plane flew low over her home. She notified authorities.

The Superfort was being used as a test plane of the Wright Air Development Center, a division of the Wright-Patterson AFB.

Europe Cold Wave Begins Breaking Up

LONDON (AP)—Europe's killing four-week cold wave was breaking up today but violent rainstorms and landslides struck terror in Italy.

For the first time in the month-long arctic siege, government meteorologists confidently predicted an end to the freeze.

It has claimed 919 lives and cost an estimated two billion dollars in crop and property damage.

Slowly rising temperatures were reported nearly everywhere, though the mercury still hovered around freezing in many regions.

Flood barriers were hastily strengthened against the approaching thaw. U. S. Army Engineers in West Germany were ordered to blast giant ice jams if floods threatened along the mighty Rhine River.

Violent rainstorms hit central and southern Italy, drenching villages snowbound only a week ago. The Pescara River burst its banks, flooding several towns. At Vasto, on the Adriatic, a creeping landslide still edged down on the city of 18,000 at the rate of 20 inches a day.

No deaths were yet reported from the slushes or floods.

The cold kept a stubborn grip on Yugoslavia, where more light snow fell during the night. The Yugoslav air force bombed ice jams in the Morava River to free rising waters in that north Serbian stream.

Britain basked in comparatively mild weather for the first time in weeks with temperatures ranging up to 45 degrees. West Germany reported seasonal winter temperatures over most of the country.

The French Riviera for the first time in weeks looked something like the sunshine vacationland advertised in the winter holiday posters. Nice recorded 47 degrees and the mercury was rising.

Jarring ice packs prowled the northern seas, creating a big hazard to shipping.

Guest Makes Clean Sweep Of Hotel

DANVERS, Mass. (AP)—A man checked into the Coronet Hotel and when he checked out management found these items missing: two table lamps, a pen stand and pen, a mahogany night table, an ashtray stand, four sheets, two pillow cases, two foam rubber pillows, two blankets, two bedspreads, two bath towels, two hand towels, two ashtrays, two glass tumblers and a shower curtain.

Navy officials said the House Armed Services Committee was notified last week of this effort to speed up the marriage of nuclear power and the lethal potentiality of far-ranging missiles.

These officials understood the submarine will be built at Mare Island, Calif.

Surgeon Produces Cancer In Rabbits With Tobacco Tars

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Everts A. Graham, noted chest surgeon who made the first extensive study of the possible relationship of cigarette smoking to lung cancer, says that painting the ears of rabbits with tobacco tars has produced "very malignant cancers."

He said in a speech last night this disclosure is "additional evidence that cigarette smoke contains a factor that will produce cancer in experimental animals of unrelated species." He and his staff had produced cancers in four strains of mice in recent years.

He said these studies, combined with "strong statistical evidence of a causal relationship between heavy cigarette smoking and lung cancer," constitutes "about as strong evidence that cigarettes can cause lung cancer as can reasonably be expected."

"However," he said, "it should be stated that, in exceptional cases, cigarettes are not the cause of the lung cancer but that other factors are operative" and in some cases "the cancer-producing factor in cigarettes may be working with another cancer-producing factor from industrial pollution of the atmosphere."

Dr. Graham made his remarks while accepting the 1955 award for outstanding service to medicine and pharmacy by the Alumni Assn. of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy and Allied Sciences.

The cancer in the rabbits was "even more malignant than those obtained in mice," he said. "The cancer spreads to practically all of the organs of the rabbit including the heart, the lungs and the liver."

He said the "first extensive statistical study on this subject," (the possible relationship of tobacco to lung cancer) showed that all but 1.3 per cent of the 905 men with cancer of the lung were cigarette smokers and 97 1/2 per cent smoked more than one pack a day.

He said the statistical relationship was confirmed by 12 other studies in four different countries based on more than 6,000 human cases of lung cancer.

In a study published in 1953, he said cancer was produced 44 per cent of 81 mice by painting the skin of the back three times a week for one year with tar from cigarette smoke.

He cited the production of experimental cancers in three additional strains of mice as further evidence. Both in the mice and rabbit tests, he explained, it took about half the life span of the species to produce the cancer.

Relating this to humans, he said if a man smokes cigarettes excessively for 25 or 30 years, he would be between 40 and 50 years old "and by our findings be on the threshold of developing lung cancer."

Rice Plan Offers Farm Solution

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Congress and President Eisenhower accept the farm bill drafted by the Senate Agriculture Committee the United States will start a two-price plan for rice this year.

It would be the first time such a plan has been tried on a national scale for rice and if it works, might offer a way out of the surplus and support problems of other basic crops.

A two-price plan means, in effect, that rice growers would receive one price for the crop consumed domestically and a lower price for that sold for export.

If the plan works out as proposed, the rice producer this year would get 90 per cent of parity for his share of the domestic consumption and 55 per cent of parity on the rest of his crop.

The price paid by consumers in this country would remain about what it now is, and the price of rice for export would be reduced to compete with foreign production.

Average controls would be continued about on the present level.

The rice industry, plagued by a mounting surplus despite acreage cuts for two years, generally has agreed to the plan. The plan in the bill follows closely proposals made to the Senate committee by the industry.

Under present law the rice price is supported at 75 per cent of parity. The 1956 rice acreage allotment is 1,630,000 acres but would have been less except for a proviso limiting the 1956 cut to 15 per cent of the 1955 allotment. Next year prospects are the acreage will be cut about 50 per cent unless the two price plan is adopted.

Under the plan the Secretary of Agriculture each year would determine the primary market quota for rice—meaning the amount consumed in the United States or exported to Cuba.

This quota would be divided among the rice producing states and then subdivided among the various growers.

The committee figured that of 1956 production of some 53,617,000 bags of rice, the primary market would take 28,950,000 bags or something more than half the crop. The rest would be available for export. A bag of rice is 100 pounds.

As the next step in the plan the secretary would determine a price support at a level to encourage sale of rice abroad. This level could not be below 55 per cent of parity this year nor below 90 per cent thereafter.

Senators Symington (D-Mo) and Jackson (D-Wash.), both of whom carried their criticism into week-end public appearances, were included on the five-man group named Saturday by Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Others are Senators Ervin (D-NC), Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Duff (R-Pa).

Symington, who was designated as chairman, declined today to discuss his plans for the investigation or to indicate how soon it will start. He served as secretary of the Air Force under former President Truman.

Russell said the subcommittee will check "the condition and progress" of the Air Force "to ascertain if present policies, legislative authority, and appropriations are adequate to maintain a force capable of carrying out its assigned missions."

Oilier Flows From Two Formations

Stanford Oil & Gas Company No. J. B. Stevenson, bidding as the first deep dual completion in Howard County, flowed 146 barrels of distillate in four hours of testing from the Strawn during the weekend.

Monday this important test, which previously rated 234 barrels per day in the Strawn, was flowing from both zones. For more oil details, turn to page 6.

Motorboat Flips, Kills Five People

LA PLATA, Md. (AP)—A motorboat speeding over the windchopped waters of the Potomac River yesterday suddenly flipped over, throwing seven persons into the water. Five drowned.

Drowned were Kay Roundtree, 20, Washington; her niece, Glenda Stafford, 18, and her 16-year-old sister Kay, River Springs, Md.; Russell Walling, Colonial Beach, Va.; and Peyton C. Wodzell, Warrenton, Va. Wodzell was owner and operator of the boat. Both men were in their 30s.

Rescued by a Maryland Tidewater Fisheries Commission boat were Linda Knight, Washington, and Barbara Ann Russell, 19, River Springs. They were treated at a hospital for shock and released.

Miss Roundtree was to be married this week to a sailor stationed at Bainbridge Naval Air Station, Md.

The tragedy occurred off Cobb Island, Md., in southern Maryland. All five bodies were recovered. The sheriff's office said the boat was traveling so fast in the rough water the bottom was ripped open.

Defense Critics Head Air Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special subcommittee including two of the Senate's sharpest critics of administration defense policies will look into the strength and growth of the U. S. Air Force.

Senators Symington (D-Mo) and Jackson (D-Wash.), both of whom carried their criticism into week-end public appearances, were included on the five-man group named Saturday by Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Others are Senators Ervin (D-NC), Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Duff (R-Pa).

New Routes For Mail Authorized

Extension of city mail delivery to College Park Estates and the south part of Monticello Addition, both in east Big Spring, has been authorized, Postmaster E. C. Boatler announced today.

However, the delivery service cannot be started until at least half the residents of the two neighborhoods install rural-type mailboxes at their curbs, Boatler said.

The Post Office Department has authorized "mounted delivery" to parts of the two additions. Consequently, mailboxes must be installed at the curb. And the rural-type boxes are required to protect mail from winds and other adverse weather, the postmaster said.

Extension of delivery has been authorized for the 1700 blocks of Harvard, Yale and Purdue and the 1800 and 1900 blocks of Kentucky in College Park. In South Monticello, the service is authorized for the 1700, 1800 and 1900 blocks of Morrison Drive.

A survey a month ago showed 200 people living in 65 new houses in the two areas. However, population is much denser now, since new families have been moving into the developments almost daily.

Boatler said that at least half the houses must be equipped with the curbside mailboxes before the delivery can be started.

COTTON QUOTAS

Protests Heard By Review Panel

F. M. Holly, Coahoma cotton farmer, told the ASC review committee today that he felt the Howard County cotton allotment committee had dealt unfairly with him in allocating his cotton acreage quota for 1956.

Holly, first of six cotton farmers who appeared before the review committee to protest cotton allotments, said that his 1956 acreage had been cut from 71 to 62 acres—a reduction of 13 per cent. He pointed out that the average cut for cotton acreage in the county had been between 6 and 7 per cent and that the reduction for the state as a whole had been slightly less than 3 per cent.

Other farmers who were at the hearings today in the Justice of Peace Court room prepared to protest acreage allotments included Howard Newton, O. R. Bolinger, C. E. Prather, Albert Robinson and T. A. Norman.

Charles L. Ford, Dallas, who is the office of general counsel, Department of Agriculture, was present to represent the county board and the department in the hearings.

There are some 1,800 such cases pending and it has been stipulated by attorneys for the cotton farmers and for the department of agriculture that outcome of the appealed cases in the United States court would govern settlement of all of the cases.

Deaf Artist, Losing Sight, Will Attend School For Blind

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—A 13-year-old Navajo artist, David Chee, who is deaf and going blind, expects to leave for the Perkins School for the Blind at Watertown, Mass., tomorrow.

Although the youngster can still see well enough to draw likenesses of his classmates, he is the victim of a disease that eventually clouds the eye to blindness.

Marshall Hester, superintendent at the New Mexico School for the Deaf here, says that people all over nation have read about the boy's plight in newspaper stories and have contributed over $2,000 from 42 states.

"The boy must learn to 'hear' words by placing his hands on the lips of the person who is speaking," Hester said.

Marilyn Monroe Back In Hollywood Again

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn Monroe is back in town. Feeling "a bit tired," the shapely actress arrived by air from New York Saturday night to do "Bus Stop," her first film for 20th Century-Fox since she and the studio called off a yearlong feud.

12-Nation Atomic Conference Begins

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twelve nations today began a conference that shapes up as a contest between the United States and Russia over the form of a proposed world atomic-peace agency.

The Russians want it set up under the United Nations Security Council, where their veto can be effectively used in running its affairs. The United States wants it to have more autonomy—as a specialized agency tied to the U.N. only by a commitment to report once a year.

American officials are reported optimistic that the closed-door conference, expected to last about two weeks, will reach agreement on a proposed charter which already has been approved by eight of the participating nations.

Officials are said to believe there is a good chance that the Soviets will accept the charter without the veto provision. They say that under Moscow's new line, emphasizing peace and cooperation with the rest of the world, Soviet leaders cannot afford to refuse to do so.

In the alternative, U.S. officials are reported confident that most of the 10 other nations will join the United States in setting up the agency without Russia.

These 10 are Australia, Belgium, South Africa, France, Britain, Portugal, India, Brazil, Czechoslovakia and Canada.

The meeting was called to consider a charter draft which would give life to an agency suggested as a result of President Eisenhower's atomic-for-peace speech Dec. 8, 1953. The draft was drawn up in an eight-nation meeting last summer which included all of the 12 in the present session except Brazil, Czechoslovakia, India and the Soviet Union.

There is still some hope that the proposed agency might be a bank for nuclear materials and know-how, as originally envisioned by Eisenhower. But it is considered more likely that it would emerge, if agreement is reached, as an information clearing house which would have no stockpiles of its own.

Whatever plan is decided on at this Washington meeting will be submitted to a conference of 84 nations, all of whom have been invited to submit their comments in advance.

Radar Net Reaches Far Across World

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is slowly assembling a radar warning system—in the air, on the ground, at sea—which will reach around almost half the globe.

The Distant Early Warning Line (Dewline) being built in secret places on the polar rim of the North American continent is only a component of the vast system intended ultimately to give warning to this country of enemy aircraft (and perhaps later missiles) approaching from almost any point of the compass.

Stations somewhat similar to the powerful radar installations going into the Dewline sites apparently are beginning to appear in far corners of the world—in Okinawa and other far Western Pacific Islands; on the Hawaiian group; up in the strategically critical archipelago of Alaska; in Greenland; far southward in the Caribbean.

Texas towers are being built in coastal waters to extend the fixed position stations of the radar chains across Canada and the United States.

Unlike the continental American radar systems, the overseas stations cannot be considered a warning "chain." There are, of course, huge gaps of thousands of miles which the mainland and island stations cannot cover by overlapping range of their radar units.

Into these gaps, the United States through its Navy and Air Force is putting plugs. They are planes and ships.

A comparatively large number of stations now are in operation. More are being built.

Chiefly, these are the four-engine Lockheed aircraft which the Navy calls the WV2. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. recently announced another 60-million-dollar order from the Navy for the planes.

The company says the radar beam of a WV2, flying at only 10,000 feet altitude, searches more than 45,000 square miles of surface. The aircraft can fly much higher than that. It carries six tons of radar equipment including a dozen different scopes which operate separately. This makes it possible for the combined combat information center and interceptor director to track several different groups of friendly and enemy aircraft simultaneously.

These flying radar-command post aircraft are, in addition to the closer-in surveillance conducted by Air Force and Navy fighter-interceptors operating constantly on patrol and search missions.

At sea, the Navy has a substantial force of radar picket vessels of various types, including submarines, destroyers and a new type being built from converted cargo hulls. To them will be added within the next couple of years the newest of the Navy's picket vessels—atomic-powered submarines with unlimited cruising range.

The 100-year-old, two-story dwelling in the center of suburban Itasca was the home of Josephine and Cecelia Schroeder—last survivors of a family that settled in Itasca when the region was virgin farmland. They lived there with 16 pet cats.

Josephine died April 23, 1954, at the age of 89. Cecelia died last Sept. 7 at 78, leaving to charity a handful of old 2-cent and 3-cent U.S. coins of the Civil War period, and a few old nickels and Indian-head pennies.

The value of the old coins or of other antiques in the home has not been determined. They will be added to Cecelia's Schroeder's estate, most of which will be used to support Protestant and Catholic orphanages.

Other boxes disclosed frilly and romantic Valentines—addressed to the sisters in 1906—old magazines, the hide of a pet cow they kept on their 6 1/2 acres of land, and numerous other items the sisters had collected.

The house lacked running water or a bathroom.

Brown Fog

Dust blowing heavily across the Canyon-Amarillo highway appeared as a heavy fog, slowing motorists to a snail's pace. This picture was taken just outside Canyon as the area experienced the worst dust storm of the season.

SPINSTERS' HOUSE Treasure Found In Secret Room

CHICAGO (AP)—A secret room in a ramshackle house has produced a treasure box filled with money and gold and some intriguing side-lights about the life of two spinster sisters who earned a fortune on the stock market.

The 100-year-old, two-story dwelling in the center of suburban Itasca was the home of Josephine and Cecelia Schroeder—last survivors of a family that settled in Itasca when the region was virgin farmland. They lived there with 16 pet cats.

Josephine died April 23, 1954, at the age of 89. Cecelia died last Sept. 7 at 78, leaving to charity a handful of old 2-cent and 3-cent U.S. coins of the Civil War period, and a few old nickels and Indian-head pennies.

The value of the old coins or of other antiques in the home has not been determined. They will be added to Cecelia's Schroeder's estate, most of which will be used to support Protestant and Catholic orphanages.

Other boxes disclosed frilly and romantic Valentines—addressed to the sisters in 1906—old magazines, the hide of a pet cow they kept on their 6 1/2 acres of land, and numerous other items the sisters had collected.

The house lacked running water or a bathroom.

Charles E. Newton, executor of Cecelia Schroeder's estate, told last night about stumbling into a hidden room while making an inventory. He pushed aside a dresser and discovered a doorway into a room cluttered with boxes and other items. He picked up one box and the flow began.

Inside was $4,460 in present-day $100, $50, $20 and $5 bills, gold watches and chains, $300 in old gold coins, $100 in gold certificates, a handful of old 2-cent and 3-cent U.S. coins of the Civil War period, and a few old nickels and Indian-head pennies.

The value of the old coins or of other antiques in the home has not been determined. They will be added to Cecelia's Schroeder's estate, most of which will be used to support Protestant and Catholic orphanages.

Salesman Fills Up His Church

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Although few of the invited celebrities came, salesman Kenneth Ritchel kept his promise to fill the First Methodist Church for the Sunday evening services.

Ritchel took it on himself to get more people to attend the services. Going on the theory that almost everyone will come to church if someone invites them, he invited members of all denominations, entire clubs and a whole host of celebrities.

He received thanks from such persons as President and Mrs. Eisenhower, Gov. Allan Shivers, State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepherd and showman A. R. Godfrey.

Ritchel estimated that more than 2,700 persons showed up. If extra chairs hadn't been available, there would have been standing room only.

Nearly everyone in town heard of Ritchel's challenge to himself to pack the church. He used prayer, persuasion, personal letters and invitations.

Newspapers, radio and television helped spread his invitation to "come fill your cup with good fellowship."

The entire congregation sang the Lord's Prayer at Ritchel's request. Car salesmen along the nearby "automobile row" listened with interest. Earlier, one car dealer had asked passers-by, "Are you going to help fill the church?"

Dr. Robert E. Goodrich Jr., pastor, presented Ritchel with a hymnal. Ritchel thanked everyone for coming, invited them back and said:

"When you tap the resources of God, nothing is impossible."

Louisiana Catholics Accused Of Aiding 'Sinister Forces'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An Orleans Parish (county) School Board member who is pledged to maintain racial segregation has accused Roman Catholic institutions of perhaps "unwittingly aligning themselves with sinister forces."

Emile A. Wagner Jr. made the assertion yesterday after a non-segregated interracial meeting at Loyola of the South, a Catholic university. Hulan E. Jack, Negro president of New York City's borough of Manhattan, shared the speakers' platform with Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel.

Wagner, a Catholic and Loyola alumnus, said in a statement criticizing the university that "certain institutions and agencies in their zeal to foster racial integration upon an unwilling and intellectually sincere majority may be unwittingly aligning themselves with sinister forces which are working to bring about... the destruction of the democratic way of life."

Rummel, in his speech, had similar charges to make of segregation defenders. The archbishop said they may be "doing the work of those striving to introduce the principles of atheism and infidelity and the principles of communism in the United States."

Wagner strongly objected to the appearance of the New York speaker. "I am not going to say Mr. Jack is a Communist or anything like that—I don't know," he said. "But the public is entitled to know the facts."

He released to the press four typewritten pages allegedly containing information associating Jack with organizations listed as subversive.

Jack, categorically denying the associations, said, "I never had any activities with these organizations of any nature."

The typewritten pages, undated and unsigned, were marked "information from the Files of the Committee on Un-American Activities, U.S. House of Representatives."

Wagner was quoted as saying the files were sent to him by Mrs. Juliette Joray, acting clerk of the House committee. In Washington,

Mrs. Joray said she sent the data to Wagner on orders of Richard Arens, acting counsel for the committee.

Jack, who came to this country from the British West Indies 49 years ago, praised the archbishop and said Rummel has "stimulated the admiration of every right-thinking citizen in every corner of our country."

He said he was an American citizen "and proud of it." Jack, a member of the Democratic party for 25 years and former member of the New York State Assembly, said his election to the presidency of Manhattan was a "practical demonstration of democracy in action which the Communists can never challenge."

15 Escape In Crash-Landing

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—Fifteen persons aboard a West Coast Airlines DC3 escaped serious injury last night as the plane crash-landed in the midst of a snowstorm.

The plane landed on a hill, about three miles northeast of the Moscow-Pullman Airport. The pilot, A. H. Whithead, and Dr. D. M. Loehr, a Moscow physician who was on the plane, walked to a nearby farm house.

Josephine Boyd, who lived at the house, went to the scene with his tractor and brought five women passengers to the road, where an ambulance picked them up. The passengers were taken to a Moscow hospital for a checkup. All but three were released and sent to a hotel for the night.

One passenger, Donald Cissal, Idaho Falls, said, "The landing was a bit bumpy but it wasn't bad. Neither of the wings dug in. The ship came in on its belly."

46 Charged In Drag Race Riot

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Criminal charges were on file today against 46 persons in connection with a Saturday night riot that required action by the National Guard before order was restored.

Police said "drag race" fans formed the core of a mob of several thousand that sparked the riot. Many persons in the mob were from out of town.

The race enthusiasts were drawn to Daytona by tests held in connection with the two-week racing program sponsored by the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Drag racing is an acceleration speed run from a standing start for measured distance. Two or more autos at a time make the runs.

Cyprus Peace Feeler Seen In British Official's Visit

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A hurried surprise visit by British Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd spurred speculation today that a new peace move was imminent in the bitter dispute over the future of Cyprus.

Lennox-Boyd's pre-dawn departure from London yesterday underscored the urgency of his mission. The Colonial Office declined comment.

The Cabinet minister on arrival would say only that he had come to obtain first-hand information and that he hoped for happier relations on the strife-torn island.

Cyriots seeking union with Greece have been waging a terror campaign against the British for months. Britain earlier this month tendered an olive branch offer of home rule on domestic affairs, with the British retaining control of defense and foreign policy.

Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, leader of the Mediterranean island's Greek-speaking majority who favor union with Greece, appeared to favor the British proposal as a stopgap.

But the plan reportedly foundered on the archbishop's demand

Bellhop Gets 10 Years In Slaying

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Bellhop Henry Addington of Los Angeles faces a life term from 10 years to life for the fatal shooting of his ex-wife, 46-year-old Mrs. Carmen Pedrin.

Mrs. Pedrin was the mother-in-law of tennis star Pancho Gonzales.

Addington, 50, pleaded guilty to a second-degree murder charge in superior court here yesterday. He will be sentenced March 7.

Mrs. Pedrin was shot on the morning of Jan. 2 in her Phoenix apartment. Addington was arrested here about a week later. He said he killed her after they had an argument about her keeping company with other men. Mrs. Pedrin was a jewelry store clerk.

Ike May Tell His Plans This Week

The Associated Press
President Eisenhower may announce this week whether he will seek a second term—perhaps in "one syllable" which Adlai E. Stevenson says will signal the course of the Republican party.

where they always have stood, the 1952 nominee added. Eisenhower returned to Washington Saturday from an 11-day vacation in Georgia, possibly with a yes, a no or even a two-syllable maybe fixed in his mind.

Searching Wreckage

Miss Avanel Brown, Chicago, and Jerry Brown, Detroit, search the wreckage of their mother's home in Summerfield, Ill., after it was damaged by a tornado that struck in southern Illinois killing at least six persons. Although five persons were sleeping in the house at the time, including a small baby, no one was seriously injured. Miss Brown and her brother were the overnight guests of their mother.

Mayor Asked To Resign Over Russian Letter

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Controversial Paul Egan, who came off the relief rolls to become mayor in 1953, has been asked to resign because he wrote a letter to a deputy premier of Russia.

Egan, 57, protested to Anastase I. Mikoyan, the Soviet official, that freedom of speech is dead in the United States.

In his recent letter to Mikoyan, Egan said he had been denied the right to speak up at the National Conference of Mayors in Washington, D.C., Feb. 16-17.

He also asked the Russian deputy premier if the Soviet Union would pay for a tour of Russia by some 200 U.S. mayors.

The request for Egan's resignation, which he turned down yesterday, came at a special meeting yesterday called by Egan to hear his report on the Washington conference. It was attended by some 350 persons and soon became a boisterous affair punctuated by catcalls and noisemaking.

After reporting on the mayor's conference at length, Egan read his letter to the Soviet leader. It said in part:

"I believe the bells of the world should be tolled for the death of free speech here in the United States of America.

"In a meeting called by the President of the United States to inform the mayors . . . of the dangers lurking in the world today and to hold a free and open discussion of all the ramifications of this peril, I was shut out and the meeting adjourned."

Egan told Mikoyan he proposed to the conference that the U.S. provide funds for a good will tour of Russia by the mayors and their wives but was informed no funds were available. Egan said he suggested to Mikoyan that the Soviets underwrite the trip.

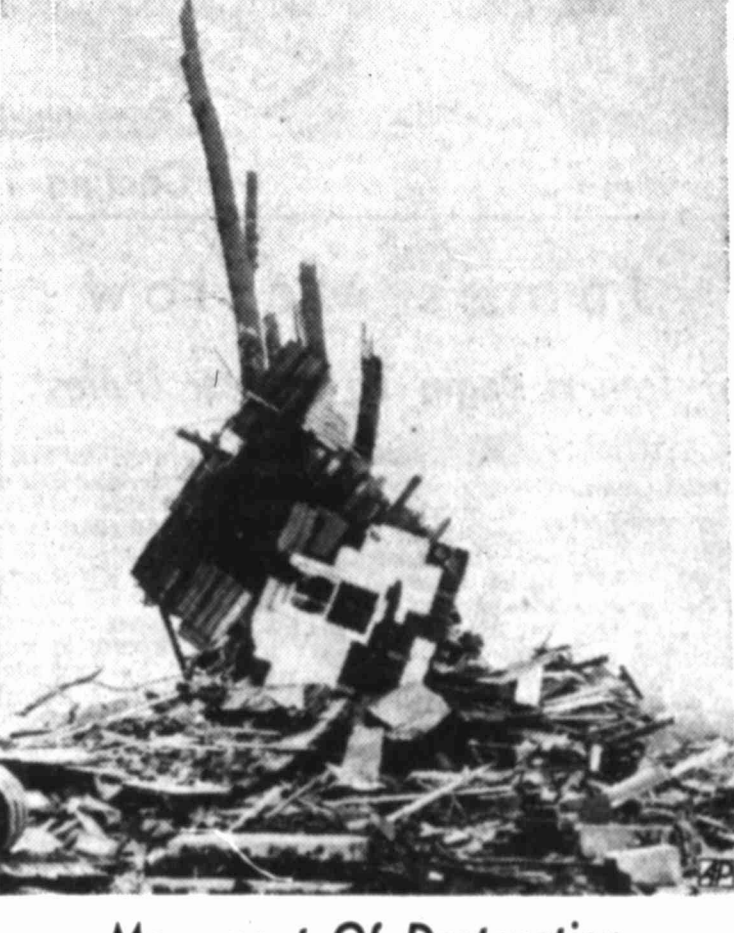

As Egan finished reading the letter, Commissioner John P. Thill offered a resolution condemning it as "most degrading and insulting to people of this city, state and nation." His three fellow commissioners joined in passing the censure motion and asking for Egan's immediate resignation. Egan abstained.

2 Youths Held In Auto Theft

KEOKUK, Iowa (AP)—Burlington authorities were expected here today to pick up two youths, reportedly AWOL from the Air Force, for questioning in an auto theft.

Sheriff Harold Delahoye said he arrested Albert Harper, 18, of Howland, Me., and Garnet Lane, 20, of Granger, Mo., Saturday night after they tried to sell a sun visor to get gas for a car they were driving. He said the car was stolen at Burlington Tuesday.

Harper and Lane told Delahoye they have been AWOL from an Air Force base at Amarillo, Tex., since Feb. 2 and had been hitchhiking over the country.

Monument Of Destruction

The complete wreckage of a tree and house lean together to give the appearance of a monument of destruction after the tornado in Summerfield.

Not All Farmers Are A 'Problem,' Banker Avers

DALLAS (AP)—The "farm problem" does not include all farmers because some segments of agriculture are not in any difficulty, a Dallas banker said today.

"In our typical political generalizing we throw all the agricultural statistics into one hopper and call it the 'farm problem,'" Dr. Arthur Smith, vice president of the First National Bank, told the Dairy Products Institute of Texas.

"If the government supports prices so that average or below average farmers get 'what they should,' then the best and above average farmers are going to benefit far out of proportion," Smith said.

The president of the institute, Ralph Eyer of Wichita Falls, said one problem is getting executive-type young men into the business. Eyer said. Other big industries furnish terrific competition for talented young men, and the nature of the dairy industry makes it a very demanding profession, he added.

Eyer pointed out that just as cows have to be milked regularly, so does milk have to be processed regularly.

"The United States, as you know, does not have a monopoly on nuclear developments. Nor is the United States the only nation in the race for sea supremacy. The Soviet navy is and has been engaged in an unprecedented shipbuilding program. The Soviets have also made significant progress in the field of nuclear energy. Some of their progress has surprised us in the past. We could be surprised again."

Burke reported that the Navy is shifting from guns to guided missiles for anti-aircraft defense and "developing surface-to-surface missiles that will increase our long-range offensive capabilities."

He also claimed that "we now have the fastest operational fighter in the world." He did not specify the plane.

Bill Would Raise Political Fund Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new election bill which would permit individual senatorial candidates and their backers to spend from $100,000 up to a maximum of $1,910,000 in their campaigns may be introduced in the Senate this week.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, told reporters he has "every reason to believe we will have complete and wholehearted cooperation" from members of both parties in support of the new bill.

"We are going to insist that action be taken in this session of Congress on a complete, realistic measure encouraging the fullest public participation and the fullest public review of all elections," Johnson said.

"The unrealistic limitations in present statutes will be changed. I have no doubt that a new, modern election bill will be passed by Congress which will put all contributions under the scrutinizing eye of public opinion. And it will carry the machinery for its enforcement."

Johnson said he has talked to influential House members and believes they will support a bill similar to that he is working out in cooperation with Sen. Knowland of California, Senate GOP leader.

In its present form the bill would raise the present election law limitation of $10,000 personal expenditures by a senatorial candidate to 30 cents per vote cast in the last previous election, with a minimum ceiling of $100,000.

In New York state, the maximum on the former basis would be $1,910,000. That would cover all committee expenditures in behalf of the candidate as well as those he personally authorized. In states where the 30-cent-a-vote ratio added up to a smaller amount, $100,000 still could be spent in a campaign for a six-year office which pays $22,500 a year.

House members, who are paid the same amount, would be permitted to spend at least $25,000, or more if figured on the basis of 30 cents a vote, in their general election campaigns. They now are limited to $2,500 in personally authorized outlays.

All expenditures for candidates in excess of $100 would have to be reported to the Senate, House and Federal District Court in the candidate's home area.

The Johnson-Knowland bill would not apply to primaries. State laws limiting expenditures to smaller amounts would have priority over the proposed new federal law.

The bill also would raise the present three-million-dollar limit imposed on the Democratic and Republican national committees to 20 cents per vote for the highest vote cast in any of the preceding three presidential elections.

On the basis of the 1952 vote, this would permit an expenditure of $12,310,000 for each major presidential candidate. But this would have to include not only the national committees but all citizens groups and other committees which might be set up for a candidate.

Johnson previously disclosed the bill would provide for federal tax exemptions for the first $100 political contribution made by any taxpayer.

It also would permit television and radio networks to give free and equal time to federal office candidates whose party polled at least 4 per cent of the popular vote in the previous election or who could present petitions signed by voters representing 1 per cent of that total.

Johnson said the move to introduce the bill in no way will bypass any recommendations made by a special bipartisan committee of eight which will organize Wednesday for an inquiry into campaign contributions, lobbying and influence peddling.

Navy Applying Atom To Ships

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said today that "the most powerful, most destructive weapons of the age are being installed on board ships in increasing numbers."

The Navy "is hard at work on new developments," Burke said, adapting nuclear power to ship propulsion and creating both carrier-based aircraft and seaplanes which he said are "moving rapidly into the super-sound age."

In an address prepared for the Citadel, famous Southern military school, Burke did not spell out in detail his reference to the powerful weapons installed aboard ships.

"The United States, as you know, does not have a monopoly on nuclear developments. Nor is the United States the only nation in the race for sea supremacy. The Soviet navy is and has been engaged in an unprecedented shipbuilding program. The Soviets have also made significant progress in the field of nuclear energy. Some of their progress has surprised us in the past. We could be surprised again."

Burke reported that the Navy is shifting from guns to guided missiles for anti-aircraft defense and "developing surface-to-surface missiles that will increase our long-range offensive capabilities."

He also claimed that "we now have the fastest operational fighter in the world." He did not specify the plane.

Regal Grace For Monacan Stamps

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—Prince Rainier III has selected the photograph of his bride-to-be that will appear on a commemorative stamp of the wedding. It is a portrait of no studio publicity agent would have selected.

It shows actress Grace Kelly bare-shouldered and unsmiling with hair severely swept back and a look of regal severity on her face. The portrait makes Monacan happy, however. The stamp-makers had complained previous studio photos were too "smiling."

A Bible Thought For Today

And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him. (St. Mark 15:20)

Showing High Degree Of Good Faith

The only strings attached to President Eisenhower's release of 88,000 pounds of uranium 235 for peaceful uses were two in number: none of it would be available to nations which have their own programs of U-235 under way, and none would be released to the Soviet Union and its satellites.

In addition to that to be distributed internationally, the President set aside a like quantity for release for all licensed civilian purposes, "principally power and research purposes." Abroad as at home power and research get the emphasis.

The administration was practically pushed into this action by criticism at home to the effect that the U. S. was letting Russia get ahead of her in using atomic energy as a lure to foreign nations. Only this week Premier Bulganin called on the Communist Party to use atomic energy to achieve victory for communism — that is, as bait for wavering or neutral nations to orient themselves with Russia economically, a first step toward political orientation.

This is undoubtedly a long step toward making the Atomic Age a reality, for with scientists and engineers of all nations able to work with the actual stuff of the Atomic Age it stands to reason the long, slow process of research and development will be speeded up.

Militarily, the risk is small; for Russia probably knows as much about the atom as we do, and some fear more.

The eventual effect of atomic energy on our world is incalculable, in science, industry, health and scores of other ways. Not the least surprising aspect of the President's announcement is the revelation that this country has a sufficient stockpile of U-235 to set aside such huge quantities of it for peaceful purposes. It is a secret, of course, as to just how much of the stuff it takes to create a bomb, but it must be relatively small.

The 88,000 pounds involved in this peaceful enterprise, if converted into atomic weapons, would make quite a pop-

Not Exactly A 'Grab'

When Texas "joined the Union" in 1845 the state retained all its public domain, after an unsuccessful effort to palm it off on the U. S. in exchange for the U. S. assuming all the public debts of the Texas Republic. The honorable senators as good as told the Texas negotiators, "Keep all that junk, your public lands; we have more than we can say grace over already."

At that time Texas laid claim to 237 million acres of land, some of which extended into New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and even Wyoming. If you don't think Texas had a valid claim to that part of the land now lying in other states, think again: Uncle Sam paid the old boy a cool $10 million for it in the compromise of 1850.

This deal left Texas with 172,000,000 acres of land, including the submerged land extending three Spanish leagues to seaward. All but about a million acres of the public domain has been disposed of in one way or another, exclusive of the tidelands, (over 3 million acres) which probably never will be sold. Of what earthly use would the submerged land be to anybody, simply as land?

In Houston last Wednesday Rep. Joe Martin (R-Mass.) told a Washington Day meeting of the Houston Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution that Uncle Sam has already realized $252 million from submerged oil leases that remained to the U. S. after the states had been confirmed in ownership of tidelands within their historic boundaries. And that, said the former Speaker, is just a beginning; ultimately these revenues will amount to $13 billion. The tidelands deal was no giveaway, Joe Martin said.

Texas has profited from its share of the offshore oil leases too. As of last June 1 the Permanent Public School Fund had received more than $48 million from leases, renewals and bonuses. But that is just a beginning. Ultimately the school fund may reap a harvest of billions from that source, though there is reason to believe Uncle Sam will get the lion's share of all underwater oil development.

Who Pays The Campaign Expenses?

WASHINGTON — Every now and then somebody comes up with the idea that the federal government should finance political campaigns. It has bobbed up in Congress again and again in the last half-century, but it isn't often exposed for what it really is—a scheme to protect mostly those who are in office as against those out of office.

Under a government-financed plan, the independent candidate would have little chance, and the political organization bosses would reign supreme. The department or bureau in the government that had the function of interpreting or deciding the rules would have the power of life or death over the candidates. It would inevitably redound to the benefit of the man in office.

Most of the new proposals would provide for a system of allocating money to the voters on the basis of the number of votes they cast in previous elections. Yet a third party or fraction of a party would not have the means of becoming a majority because it would be denied the funds it needed to get there.

Not only would independent candidates be frustrated, but the whole system of nominating candidates in a primary would be broken down because only party selections could get in the race or obtain the public money to help them win. It might, of course, be provided that candidates in primaries could keep on getting their money from private contributions. It would then be asked why campaign contributions would be allowed to a man who is running in the primaries and yet not to the nominees in the election campaign itself.

There would arise, too, the question of what to do in those states where there are no contests in the primaries and where nominations, as in New York state, are made by a convention of hand-picked delegates. Also, in the one-party South, whoever wins the primary almost always wins the election. The more the proposal to finance campaigns for federal office by appropriations from the U. S. Treasury is examined, the more it emerges as impractical and as hardly having a chance to fulfill the pious hopes of its sponsors.

Contributing large sums of money to candidates for public office by persons with an axe to grind, or with a selfish interest to serve, is a bad system only because of the size of the amounts permitted. The evils would vanish when contributions are by law limited to $50 or $100 for each citizen.

When, however, this reform is accomplished, what shall be said of the method by which candidates for federal office now get themselves elected through sums of public money derived from the taxes of those living not merely in their own districts or states but in other districts and states?

Thus, the Tennessee Valley Authority, for example, which supplies electric power to local areas in the South at relatively low rates, is subsidized by taxpayers in other parts of the country. Many a candidate for public office who helped to get those appropriations passed has been re-elected because he brought material benefits to the people of his own district and state.

There is nothing unlawful about this or any other method by which a congressman gets what used to be known as "pork barrel" appropriations of direct benefit to contractors and others in the areas where he depends for votes to keep him in office. His campaign contributions in effect, therefore, come from all the taxpayers.

Maybe the Senate's select committee about to investigate campaign contributions will not look into all this, but anyone who has been in Washington for any length of time knows that public money is already used to elect congressmen and senators. That's why private funds have to be collected in campaigns against those men, and it will not be done by a system of allocating campaign money, either.

Many reforms in the election laws are sorely needed, but they lie primarily in the direction of more publicity instead of organized suppression. Today, with all the hue and cry about the way the government withholds information the public wants, the interested press groups have not bettirred themselves about the scandalous way the detailed records of campaign contributions are kept from the newspapers that want to print them. Records are systematically destroyed after a specified period of time. One can't find out, for instance, today the details of the 1952 campaign contributions. They have been ordered destroyed.

Also, if a newspaperman wants to photograph any records filed in the House of Representatives, he is forbidden to do so. There is nothing in the present law, moreover, which requires that business or professional connections and other identification data be filed along with the names of the contributors. It's a messy way to keep the so-called "records" on how members of Congress get elected.

Holdup Foiled

MALDEN, Mass. (AP)—Gunnmen who "cased" the variety store of Samuel Cohen, 67, for more than a week decided he kept his money in a cigar box.

"Give us that cigar box on the shelf," they ordered. Cohen complied. The box contained a half dozen cigars.

The robbers weren't aware that Cohen frequently changed the hiding place of his money.

Demos Begin To Answer Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—It may be Secretary of State Dulles talks so much that when the Democrats get mad at what he says they forget he said it before and, between times, perhaps just the opposite.

That the Democrats are getting very vocal in an election year may be only coincidence. But it is pretty vocal himself. He has not only traveled more than any secretary of state in history but may hold the record for speeches and statements too.

He set the Democrats off over the weekend by his testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday when he said Russia's policy of "intolerance and violence" had failed because of free world "firmness" over the past few years.

He had made the same statements a number of times before without this reaction from the Democrats. He might have added, but didn't, that the policy of firmness had been laid down by the Democrats under President Truman.

Yet, Dulles last December seemed to say the exact opposite when he declared the Russians' zigzag policy had ended and they were opening dangerous new cold war fronts in Asia and the Middle East.

Why were they doing it? In December Dulles said it might be they were more confident because they were stronger. Friday he said they were in a "very bad way" although he acknowledged they were making great progress in heavy industry and in war industries.

In December he suggested there was a rebirth of Stalinism in Russia. On Friday he said the new Russian leaders had to ditch Stalinism. In December he said Russia's new tactics "do not mark a change of purpose," meaning world communism.

He said the same thing Friday. But then he added something which threw the Democrats into a tizzy. He said the Russians are changing their tactics because they realize "they must bring their system closer to ours rather than the other way around."

If this sounds rather optimistic, it is not unusual for Dulles, whose optimism sometimes has been badly upset by later events.

Not long after President Eisenhower's summit conference with the Russians in Geneva last July Dulles said a "new spirit does, indeed, prevail" and he expressed belief the cold war might be ending and the Russians might let Germany be unified.

Then he went back to Geneva in the fall for the foreign ministers' conference. When not even a baby step was taken toward German unification, Dulles said the cold war was on.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) asked Dulles Friday if he didn't think the Russians "seem to be making progress, especially in the Middle East." Dulles said he didn't think so, that they have made very little progress in the past few years.

But on Jan. 11 Dulles, with Eisenhower's approval, issued a statement calling on America to "wake up" to "all the implications" of Russia's changed tactics.

Age 45 Is Another Turning Point

NEW YORK (AP)—I used to worry that when I became 45 years old teen-agers would stop me in the street with the request:

"Old man, say something wise."

I needn't have worried. When you're 45, the average teen-ager doesn't seek you out for your wisdom, perhaps because he figures anything you know is already out of date. On the other hand, he doesn't bother to laugh at you either. The truth is he doesn't know whether you're alive.

However, somewhat to my surprise, I felt very much alive the other morning when I awoke to find I had reached my 45th milestone.

Unlike on my 40th birthday, a time of true horror, I felt no urge to draw up a new will, or lie lowing in bed, afraid that if I got up I might fall apart by nightfall.

As I shaved myself before the bathroom mirror on my 40th birthday, my hand shook to see on the ravages time had wrought. But on my 45th birthday I performed this new freshness in his Indian summer humming, cheered by the fact so much of the old rind still remained.

Though much had been taken, much abided—particularly around the stomach—though I might not be able to throw a football 50 yards, I sure threw an important-looking silhouette.

There was one big disappointment in the day, however. In earlier years I started the custom of kissing all the girls in the office on my birthday.

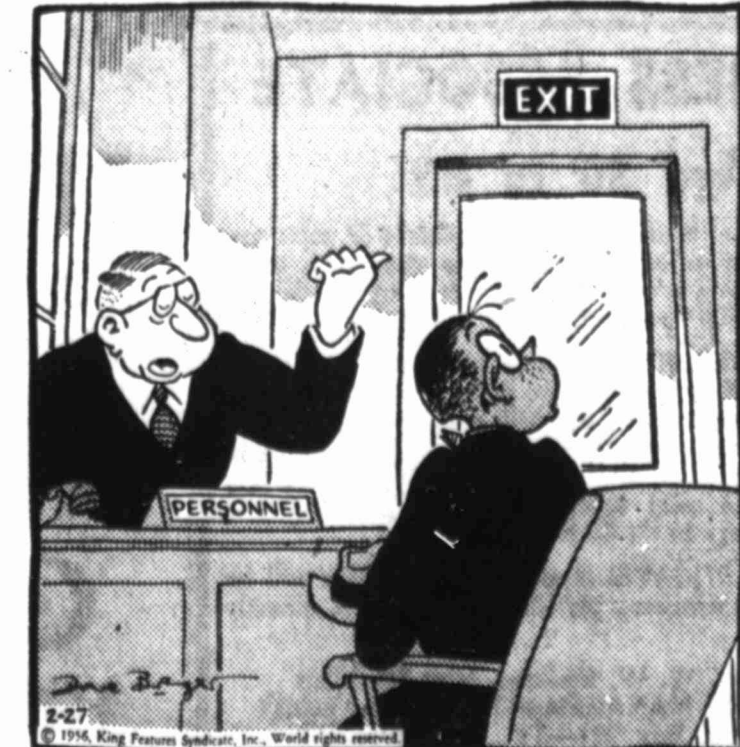

On my 45th birthday I got only one kiss. Only one girl showed up—a new girl. All the old girls stayed home from work. I guess there must have been a virus going around, or something.

At 40 a dark tunnel of terror descends on many men. They see the brightness of youth departing and before them only the black nightmare of age.

But by 45 a man can see light at the other end of the tunnel. He makes his compromise with time.

He no longer is panic-stricken at the thought of being middle-aged. He no longer is wistfully envious of the young. He finds life here a new freshness in his Indian summer prime.

Around The Rim

Offhand Observations On Offhand Items

It's only the way I look at it but—I let people who give Harry Truman Holy Ned talk into my bad ear.

I get my biggest kicks in the comics out of (1) Beetle Bailey, (2) Peanuts, (3) Grin And Bear It, and (4) Ferdinand. First appearances in athletics are quite often deceiving. All too often, frail, young basketball players who looked like they might be keeping books for the team turn out to be eagle-eyed artists.

I'm ready to agree that "movies are better" but I can't understand why there is a sameness about all new releases. The "beat" of the photographers seems to be limited to Buckingham Palace, the steps of the White House, the ski mountains, the New York docks and the fashion salons.

Why is it that some things are so hard to throw away?

"Listeners" are invariably regarded as the nicest people around.

Among the nicer ways people can be flattered is to be told they look better than the pictures they have had taken of themselves.

I should think it would be easier for a barber who has to do all those "flat top" haircuts on youngsters to have installed one of those electrical devices that makes all hair stand on end.

It may be more than coincidental that Californians, who maintain they live in America's "Eutopia," also inhale more intoxicants, on the average, than people from any other state. They may continually be celebrating the first allegation.

Did the fellow who named Walla Walla migrate to Pago Pago?

"I've never seen a real plain-clothes policeman in a trench coat and very few movie detectives in anything else."

I'm much more apt to read a lengthy weather story in a newspaper than I am on "foreign policy" of equal depth. I never climbed into a ring with Jack Dempsey, just to see how it would feel to get knocked out, or got put in jail to get an "exclusive" story from a criminal. The best I could do was let a Model T Ford run over my toe to see how much it hurt—and I was too young to write about it then.

After seeing ruffled shirts catch on like they did, it wouldn't surprise me to see men go back to buttoned shoes and powdered wigs any day now.

Children Know About Brotherhood

Now that Brotherhood Week has passed, we grownups can comfortably lapse back into the big prejudices and little hates that keep this world in a stew—and which we all nobly denounced just a short time ago.

But perhaps the hope of the world and of brotherhood lies in our children, as the world has been saying since Adam. Kids, if left alone, are apt to cut through to the fundamentals, as I rediscovered when I was one of the judges of a brotherhood essay contest held in the public, private and parochial districts of my neighborhood.

They—the younger generation—are for brotherhood and no nonsense, even if their ideas on the subject cover a lot of territory. One Fourth grader was mighty indignant because he felt General Custer hadn't been much of a brother to the Indians and that, by and large, the general got just about what he was asking for.

A little girl in the Third grade, obviously with a practical turn of mind, adjured everyone to be good but added, "Of course, if you are too good, most likely you will get on your family's nerves."

A lad in the Sixth grade, embroidering on this theme, wrote, "It is not likely that you will be gentle and sweet to your little brother when he is about to ruin your best possession. But still, respect him and his needs."

A Fifth grade moppet felt that brotherhood should even extend to parents and insisted, "If your mother has just waxed the floors, don't come in and start practicing the Irish jig."

However, we judges were unanimous that the best essay submitted in the 12 to 13-year-old group was by Ellen Frankel, 13, who goes to New York's P. S. 3. She began her essay with the tart observation:

"If as much energy was spent in being brotherly as is now spent in writing essays on this topic, perhaps there would be less need to call our attention once a year the necessity for increasing brotherhood."

This contest is sponsored annually by the Brotherhood Synagogue and the Village Presbyterian Church, two groups that have long practiced brotherhood. When the synagogue was destroyed, the Presbyterians asked their Jewish neighbors to hold services in their church until they could build a new place of worship.

Both approached the project with misgivings and reservations. But that was some years ago. Today, years later, the two congregations happily share the lovely old Village Presbyterian Church at 139 West 13th St., with its big white columns and wide portico.

Brotherhood takes a beating all over the world. It is something that each of us thinks ought to be put into practice by the other fellow.

But the joint Brotherhood Council of the synagogue and the church have demonstrated that it works through two able and dedicated men, Rabbi Irving J. Block and the Rev. Jesse William Sitt.

The Gallup Poll

Some Areas Like 'Daylight Time'

PRINCETON, N. J.—The annual confusion over daylight saving and standard time will be compounded this year if the plan of some communities to turn all clocks ahead one month sooner and keep them advanced one month longer is carried out.

New York, New Jersey and Connecticut last year experimented with extending daylight time through the last Sunday in October instead of September, to the consternation of many travelers and radio and television fans.

The New York Board of Trade is now urging that an extra hour of daylight be picked up by the first Sunday in April rather than the customary last Sunday as a means of saving lives. They point out that fewer fatal accidents occur during daylight hours and that more crime is perpetrated at night.

How do Americans react to daylight time? How many favor it, and how many oppose it? How many would like to see it extended? The American Institute of Public Opinion has just completed a new survey on this "Spring perennial issue."

The results show:

1. If the question were put to the nation, a majority of adults (57 per cent) would favor daylight time.

2. In areas which have daylight time, the vote is better than 2-to-1 in favor of adding one month at the beginning and at the end of the usual daylight time period.

3. More than half, or 52 per cent, of all people questioned said that they live in communities which have, or are immediately affected by, daylight time. Fifteen years ago, an Institute survey found only 28 per cent lived in daylight time communities.

4. It is the nation's farmers who overwhelmingly oppose the idea which is the delight of most city folk. Few issues divide urban and rural residents as sharply as the question of the time change.

To discover where the country stands today, the Institute interviewed a representative cross-section of adults in cities, small towns and on farms on the following question:

"Are you in favor of daylight saving time or not?"

Yes, favor 57
Reaction varies in direct ratio to the size of community, the poll shows, with farm residents the least in favor, small towns more in favor, and large cities the most favorable of all, as follows:

Favor Op.	Per Cent
2,500 or under	61 49
2,500 to 50,000	53 47
50,000 to 500,000	58 42
500,000 & over	77 22
People in DST areas	77 22
People in non-DST areas	35 65

The farm attitude is typified in the comment of one farmer who exclaimed when interviewed: "You can't change a cow's milk habits to fit the clock, or evaporate the morning dew an hour earlier."

Sentiment is particularly favorable in the 12 New England and Middle-Atlantic States. The combined vote for those states is 79 per cent in favor, 21 per cent opposed. The South is least enthusiastic, with 38 per cent in favor, 62 per cent opposed.

Those persons living in daylight time communities were asked:

"Would you like to have daylight saving time start one month earlier—that is, at the beginning of April instead of the end of April each year?"

"Would you like to have daylight saving time extended one month to the end of October instead of the end of September each year?"

Among residents of daylight time areas expressing an opinion, the vote in favor on both questions is better than 2-to-1.

Crossing Ocean Brings Difficulties

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why do some English performers succeed in the United States while others fail?

This question has long intrigued observers of show business. Some British stars can be comedy favorites in their own land, yet they lay eggs here. A few are hits on both sides of the Atlantic. A prime example is Gracie Fields, who can make any audience laugh or cry with her songs and stories.

Miss Fields reflected on the matter of intercontinental comedy over lunch at the Hotel Statler, where she is appearing nightly.

"Most American comedy stars are well received in England, but the reverse is not always true," she said. "The main reason is that we in England are accustomed to all the American dialects through years of seeing your pictures. But Americans aren't familiar with all the English dialects."

She mentioned a British star whose Cockney humor makes him a big hit in England, yet he flopped here.

"A performer has to have his confidence," she explained. "When a comedian tells a couple of jokes and they aren't understood, he gets panicked and the rest of his performance is no good. That has happened to a lot of English stars."

Gracie, as perky and winsome as ever, is playing her first night club date in 10 years. She seems to be bearing up under the strain of two shows nightly, but she admitted she was slowed down by performing on a television last Saturday night.

"I did it after the last show," she explained, "and I didn't get home until 4 in the morning. I went to it feeling like Jack Benny's 39, but came home feeling 58, which is my real age."

Like Sir Harry Lauder, Gracie admitted she is always retiring. But she claimed it is the newspapers that announce her retirement, not she.

"I'll keep working as long as the pipes are loud and clear," she said. "When they get rusty, then I'll quit."

State Dinner Will Honor Mrs. Philips Party, Tea Highlight Activities In Lamesa

LAMESA — Friday evening the first of a series of rush parties held by members of the Iota Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was given in the home of Mrs. David Aymes, 703 N. 7th. Members and pledges came dressed as their favorite song titles. Mrs. B. L. McGregory, a rushee, was dressed as a paper doll and was awarded the winning prize. Silhouette is available.

Binge and charades were played during the evening. Refreshments were served to the 11 attending. The next meeting will be March 1 in the home of Mrs. Tommie Estes.

Mrs. Keith Ball was complimented with a gift tea Friday afternoon from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Lamesa Women's Study Club. Hostesses were Mrs. O. W. Folis, Mrs. Carroll Wilkinson, Mrs. Carol Chiles, Mrs. Buck Griffin, Mrs. Thad Reeves, Mrs. Edwin Matthews, Mrs. Stansil Jones, Mrs. E. R. Marshall, Mrs. Hillburn Roberts, Mrs. Milburn Hanley and Mrs. Buster Herndon. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Roberts, and in the receiving line were Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Vernon Fleninger, Mrs. C. C. Ball, Mrs. Jones poured the punch, and Mrs. Griffin registered the guests.

The serving table was laid with a white crocheted cloth with the centerpiece an arrangement of pink spiderdragons.

Five members of the Lamesa High School Library Club and four members of the Lamesa Junior High School Library Club attended the Teen - Age Library Association convention in Waco over the weekend.

Pearlie Lee Bryant, high school librarian, was the sponsor. High school delegates were Letha Swope, Jan White, Janice Sheppard, Marilyn Cox, Sandra Pratt. The Junior high delegates were Mickey McCarty, Peggy Sue Roberts, Kay Edwards, and Nancy Taylor.

The Natural Look

That gets emphasis from English star Julie Andrews, who also gives advice on relaxation. Julie stars with Bing Crosby in "High Tor," scheduled as a CBS-TV spectacular on March 10.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Break That Tension, Suggests British Star

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD — Although the name of Julie Andrews is new to some American theater and television fans, this young English beauty became a Broadway star overnight with her performance and beautiful coloratura voice in the musical comedy "The Boy Friend." She next won a leading role opposite Bing Crosby in a forthcoming TV spectacular entitled "High Tor."

"I've been studying voice since I was a child," Julie told me as I visited with her in her dressing room. "When the schools in England were closed because of the bombing, my father taught me singing."

As we chatted about the contrast of life here and in England, I asked Julie about her first impressions of our country.

"The very first thing I noticed when I arrived in New York was the fast pace," she quickly answered. "Everyone is rushing somewhere. They hurry through their meals and fit their appointments too close together. Before I realized it I found myself caught up in this mad race, and for the first time in my life I began to find it difficult to relax."

"What did you do about it?" I asked, because Julie appeared to be completely relaxed and free from tension.

"I made plans to lead a calmer life," she said. "I made fewer appointments in a day so that I wouldn't feel the pressure and fear of being late, and I moved from my hotel into an apartment where I could make my own tea the right way, which is the English way," she added with a little laugh.

"I think afternoon tea is wonderful," she continued. "It breaks your tension and the tea itself gives you a pleasant pick-up. To make tea the proper way the water must be freshly boiled and poured over the tea leaves—please not a tea bag! You must warm the teapot first—even the spout—and let it steep three minutes and then pour it into a warm cup."

"Do you take cream and sugar?" I asked.

"Milk and sugar," Julie replied. "I think taking a tea break between scenes or in an office is an economy because it helps you feel so much fresher and more relaxed."

Mrs. Gene Bledsoe Honored At Party In Hollis Home

Mrs. Gene Bledsoe a recent bride was honored Friday evening by a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. J. B. Hollis, her aunt.

The honoree is the former Frankie Alice Marstrand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Marstrand, 1312-B Sycamore. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bledsoe, 207 Jefferson.

Mrs. Hollis presented the bride as guests arrived. Serving was done by Mrs. Kenny Cobb and Charlotte Marstrand, sister of the honoree.

The tea table was laid with a lace cloth over yellow and centered with an arrangement of yellow spiderdragons. A decorated cake followed the yellow and white color scheme with its yellow frosting roses.

For the party, Mrs. Marstrand was attired in a beige linen, princess-styled, with short sleeves and low neckline. Her pumps were white, and she wore pearl jewelry.

Some 'Sale' Roses May Be No Bargain, Advises Authority

"Don't look for bargain roses—a No. 1 grade, two-year-old field-grown bush is worth the modest price a reliable local or mail-order nursery asks," advises Dorothy H. Jenkins, Garden Editor of the N.Y. Times and one of the foremost authorities on America's favorite flower.

Miss Jenkins lists nine other "don'ts" in her new book, "The Complete Book of Roses, which has just been published in a pocket-size edition by Bantam Books: Don't buy or plant more roses than there will be time and energy to care for. Don't buy only hybrid teas—there are other fine classes of roses—if there isn't time to spray them every week during the rose-growing season. Don't skip on soil preparation. Don't let bushes, especially their roots, dry out before or during planting. Don't neglect the spray schedule during the growing season. Don't water in the late afternoon or evening, and don't spray in the evening. Don't sprinkle rosebushes. Soak the soil instead of using a sprinkler or other means of overhead watering. Don't let seed pods form; snip off faded blossoms. Don't be afraid to prune hybrid tea roses (correct pruning every spring is essential to good bloom). These essential "don'ts" are just one page out of Miss Jenkins' unique and practical guidebook to beautiful roses. Drawing from her own personal experience and research she discusses each variety of rose plants in detail, with information on the climates best suited for each type, the proper soil, care, protection and pruning needed for healthy blooms. The Complete Book of Roses is illustrated with eight full-color plates and numerous black-and-white line drawings.

'Anything Goes' In New Spring Suits

By DOROTHY ROE
 This is the spring anything goes in the line of a suit jacket. The woman who is hard to please should have no trouble finding a flattering jacket style when she goes shopping for her Easter suit. Because practically every possible jacket silhouette is available. Though skirts are almost uniformly slim, jackets may be loose and boxy, fitted or semi-fitted. They may be the briefest of boleros, waist-length, hipbone length or they may turn into full-length coats. There are fewer tunic-length jackets this spring than last, but otherwise the variety is infinite.

Suits do many tricks, often coming in three pieces such as jacket, skirt and matching short topper, or skirt, bolero and coordinated blouse. The idea in all cases is to make them do double or triple

Guild Selection For June Is By A. J. Cronin

The Literary Guild has announced as its June selection "A Thing of Beauty" by A. J. Cronin. A contemporary novel, "A Thing of Beauty" tells the story of a minister's son who is disowned by his parents when he gives up his heritage in order to paint.

A. J. Cronin, a former physician, wrote his first novel, "Hatter's Castle," while he was recuperating from an illness. Its success (it sold over three million copies) persuaded the surprised author to devote his full time to writing. He is best known for "The Stars Look Down," "The Citadel," "The Keys of the Kingdom," "Shannon's Way," and "Beyond This Place."

"A Thing of Beauty," Mr. Cronin's third Literary Guild selection, will be published by Little, Brown on May 21.

Surprise Party Fetes Shermans On Anniversary

A surprise party honored Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Sherman on their tenth wedding anniversary in their home Friday night.

About 50 attended. Forty-two was played following presentation of gifts.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shorters, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Findley, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Faulkenberry.

duty and be at home in any weather.

The suits in the 1956 Easter parade will be distinguished by beautiful and varied fabrics, also, with some of the new chiffon-weight wools taking top honors. Tweeds that are light as a feather are favorites of the season, coming in handsome heathery tones that look like the traditional tweeds but are light enough to wear well into warm weather.

There are interesting new pettipoint weaves in suit wools, popular in pale beige and pastel tones as well as in the important navy.

The perennial men's wear in banker's gray is handsome and butter-smooth as usual, but comes in the traditional tweeds but are light enough to wear well into warm weather.

Store Yeast

You can put compressed yeast in your freezer. But when you are ready to use it, thaw it at room temperature and use it at once. Test it before using, however; if it crumbles easily between your fingers, it's still in good condition.

Youthful Classic

There's plenty of youth and charm in this clever shirt-waister. Button-trimmed collar and cuffs add a sparkling note.

No. 1466 with PATT-O-RAMA included is in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 12, 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch, 1/2 yard contrast.

Newsman Finds Antarctic Spectacular, Not Beautiful

By SAUL PETT
The abiding memories of a correspondent just returned from the antarctic:

Infinite white expanse. Throbbing silence. Black volcanic peaks rising abruptly like grotesque Salvadori Dali figures out of seas of ice.

Many find the antarctic beautiful. I thought it frequently spectacular, rarely beautiful. To me it always looked exactly like what it was—the end of the world, incredibly still, forbidding, completely lifeless just beyond the coasts, always deathlike.

We saw two kinds of terrain. The peaks towering over the bay ice of McMurdo Sound. Black or dark brown with dead volcanic ash except where they're covered by snow. And the Ross Ice Shelf, as big as California, fed by millions of years of snowfalls and countless billions of tons of ice and snow pouring down from the mountain glaciers and plateau to the south.

If you would imagine the Ross Shelf, think of the flattest, broadest expanse you know. Think of a Kansas wheat field. Now remove the wheat, remove all the houses and trees and grass and bushes. Remove the telephone poles and fences and all moving things and all signs of human, animal or plant life.

Cover it all with snow and ice reaching into flat infinity north, east, south, west. Drop the temperature to about 8 below and bring up the wind from the south to 40 or 50 miles an hour. Let the wind blow a thin, deathlike veil of snow powder around your boots. Let it whip tiny ice particles into your face—sharp, jabbing needles until you unconsciously reach up to touch what you think must be the blood of scratches.

This was the Ross Ice Shelf when we first arrived to set up Little America V.

Most of the time, it being the antarctic's summer, the temperature wasn't so cold. We had many days warmer than those in New York. But the scenery was always grim.

We had perpetual daylight and the only difference between night and day was that at night the shadows were longer. But the sun always stayed up above the horizon with curious psychological effects.

At night, even in a darkened room, you could not sleep well. Also because the days had no familiar beginning or end, you rarely remembered what day it was.

There is something wonderful about the humor of enlisted men in a grim situation. The grimmer the situation, the sharper, the more ironic the humor. Thus, on the desolate slope of a volcanic ash hill at McMurdo Sound, the

W. E. Cooper Rites Conducted Today

Funeral for W. E. Cooper, 74, was to be held at 3 p. m. today at the East Fourth Baptist Church.

Mr. Cooper, a retired ginmer and resident of this area for 24 years, died Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Cecil Rhodes, West Side Baptist pastor, was to officiate and interment was to be in Trinity Memorial Park under direction of River Funeral Home.

Palbearers were to be Henry Hodges, Palmer Smith, Leon Cain, T. E. Stringfellow, Charles Lacy and George Zachariah.

Fusselman Field Venture To Get New Test At 9,635 Feet

Stanford's venture in the Big Spring (Fusselman) field in northeast Howard County, the No. 1 Stevenson, is being tested again after reaching a depth of 9,635 feet. The project flowed 146 barrels of distillate through a 12-64 inch choke in a four-hour test.

Previous reports had shown the venture flowing 55 barrels of distillate in a five-hour test.

After testing the Strawn, operator then went back to the Fusselman, which has been killed in the order to make the Strawn test. Well had been completed originally in this zone for 234 barrels per day.

According to latest reports the section had not cleaned out entirely but was making satisfactory progress. Both the Strawn and Fusselman, according to reports, were being flowed.

In Borden County, Tennessee No. 1 Thomas has plugged back to 9,960 feet and is running tubing to test the Dean sand. Operator plans to test through perforations between 8,230-80 feet.

The Thomas project is a wildcat about three miles northeast of Acrylic and on the edge of the Stripling (Spraberry) field.

Twenty Five Years Later

Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd and members of his antarctic expedition stand under the waving Stars and Stripes in December after reaching the site of Little America No. 1 and Little America No. 2. The tower in background was erected by Byrd's 1925 Little America expedition and is 75 feet high. All but eight feet of the radio tower are hidden by the snows which have continued to cover the tower. This picture was taken by Associated Press Staffer Saul Pett who accompanied the Byrd expedition.

Seabees were living in tents while trying to build permanent buildings. The temperature was always below freezing inside the tents and twice the wind blew them over completely. The Seabees posted the sign:

"There is no place like this place anywhere near this place. So this must be the place."

At Little America, even after the base was built and occupied several hundred acres of the Ross Ice Shelf, the camp still looked like a tiny outpost lost in white infinity. If you stood a mile away from it, you saw a few low buildings hugging the horizon and you half expected Arabs or Indians to attack any moment from behind the snow dunes.

Said one young sailor: "This spot is in the midst of miles and miles of nothing but miles and miles."

If you haven't lived aboard an icebreaker, you don't know what insomnia is. You live among diesel motors which roar 24 hours a day. The noise becomes worse when the ship attacks the ice.

It moves in head on, bow climbing up on the ice. Suddenly there is a complete expanse of unbroken white, now there are thin vein-like cracks dancing out ahead of the bow across the ice. The ship tries to follow these cracks or "leads," as they are called.

If it can't, the icebreaker backs up, gathers full speed and charges again, battering the ice with its force or with the weight of its bow riding up. Inside, you hear the thunder and shake with the vibration of huge ice cakes pounding against the hull. Sleep?

It's like trying to sleep in a factory going full blast during an earthquake.

Killer whales which abound under and around the ice of McMurdo Sound have a strange way of acting as their own periscopes. The first time we saw one was under the strangest of circumstances.

About eight of us were between ships. The glacier had deposited us on the McMurdo ice and began to disappear over the horizon while its replacement, the Edisto, steamed toward us. It was supposed to be a two-hour wait, but came closer to eight.

Anyway, there we were, huddled around our duffle bags like misplaced Long Island commuters in the middle of a white nowhere. As the glacier receded in the distance, the only noise we could hear was the wind. Then the wind stopped, and the silence was incredible, seeming actually to exert pressure on our eardrums.

Suddenly I was vaguely aware of movement behind me. Turning quickly, I saw half a dozen killer whales about 100 yards away along the edge of the ice rising silently, raising half their 20-foot length completely clear of the water. They were not only getting air, they were also rising up to scout the next lead in the ice.

We crossed the ice on foot once to inspect the penguin rookery at the foot of Mt. Bird. It looked like a mile walk but turned out to be five. Coming back we reached a point where old ice joins new ice and the joint is weak. I fell in, so suddenly there was no time to break the fall with my arms on the edge of ice.

Despite the weight of my heavy boots, the buoyancy of my antarctic jacket and trousers kept me from sinking below my chin although the water there was 300 feet deep. The first sensation was pleasant, that of warm water in a cold day. Then I remembered killer whales and started scrambling out.

For weeks I had been listening to old explorer types say that if they once got over the pole they would drop flags and letters and cigarette lighters and family pictures, etc. This, at the time, struck me as rather silly. For after all, isn't the South Pole just another mythical point on the map? But as you approach the pole, a strange compulsion overtakes you. Suddenly it becomes vitally important to record the event and to document your presence there.

Even though whitout stopped us from seeing the pole, I became as busy as a small boy with his first set of trains. I quickly rolled up an improvised AP flag and a flag made a bedspread for my shipmates on the USS Wyandott.

I added a copy pencil. None of this seemed enough. Frantically, I wrote out my name and the names of my wife and two daughters on a small page of notebook paper and added that to the pile.

All of this was wrapped in an aluminum tube and dumped out through a flare shoot. Nobody will ever find the tube in the snow at the South Pole. Then, why did I do it? I can't say. But suddenly when you're over the pole, you become aware of the difficulties in getting there, of the few people who have been there, and you must document it. It is, I suspect, a kind of compelling vanity, perhaps in a tiny way similar to the drive which carried Robert Falcon Scott to the South Pole and his death.

Negro Pastors Give Sermons On Boycott

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Several of the 24 ministers arrested for leading the Negro boycott of segregated buses based their Sunday sermons on racial and religious issues touching on the protest.

One minister said the protest to racial segregation "has become a spiritual movement."

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., preaching to a capacity crowd at the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church, said, "Segregation can't survive because God is against it."

King said he talked to several white students at Vanderbilt University last week while in Nashville, Tenn., and 90 per cent of them favored racial integration.

The Rev. R. W. Hilson told his congregation at St. John's African Methodist Episcopal Church that the bus boycott "has become a spiritual movement with us."

He noted that bishops of his church had aligned themselves with the Montgomery boycotters and had issued protests in Washington Saturday in the arrests of the 89 Negro leaders here last week.

The Rev. J. W. Bonner, pastor of the First Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, called on his congregation to "seek God's guidance" in the racial controversy.

Negroes here have refused to ride city buses since Dec. 5, when a woman was fined for refusing to obey state and city laws requiring segregated seating for whites and Negroes on buses.

Barber Equipment Found In Trash

A large quantity of barber shop equipment, stolen Saturday night, was recovered Sunday in northwest Big Spring, police said today.

The Courtney Barber Shop said five pairs of clippers, five pairs of straight shears, two pairs of thinning shears and seven razors were taken by someone who dropped through a skylight.

J. M. Flores, 505 NW 4th, found the items in a trash can in an alley between the 500, 600 and 700 Northwest Third and Fourth Streets Sunday evening.

R&H Hardware Has Gardening, Yard Equipment

According to the poets, Spring is that season when gay young blades' thoughts are prone to turn to thoughts of romance and such. This may be true with the gay young blades but with the blades which have suffered a little dulling by the passage of time, and under encouragement from their wives, this is that time of the year when thoughts are more likely to shift to plans for lawns, flower beds, shrubbery and other horticultural subjects.

Anticipating this inevitable trend on the part of the average family, the R&H Hardware at 504 Johnson, is ready for the equally inevitable grand rush of home gardeners and home beautifiers.

F. D. Rogers, manager, points to his huge stock of essential materials the man and woman with a bent to planting will need. The store is stacked high with a glittering array of tools which are well nigh irresistible to the dyed-in-wool gardener.

These run the gamut from the traditional hoes rakes and shovels to mechanized gadgets which do the job so much quicker, easier and better. The man or woman with a desire to dig in the earth, plant seeds and shrubs and watch them grow can't go wrong in filling his needs at the R&H Hardware.

Rogers said the store has a complete stock of fertilizers especially adapted to this area. The seeds for flowers and grass are on hand. Hundreds of yards of garden hose are coiled and waiting to be put to use.

Rogers and his colleagues anticipate a particularly heavy interest on the part of Big Springers in this field this spring and have prepared accordingly.

In addition, of course, to the stock for this particular phase of life, the store has complete lines of hardware of all kinds. Nationally known trade names abound and the price range runs the gamut to suit the desires of the customer.

The R&H Hardware invites its customers to drop in early and look over the material it has on hand to make spring planting activities around the home more fun and bring happier results.

Master Watchmaker

J. T. Grantham, owner of the watch repair department at Lynn's Jewelry, has 20 years of experience in his profession. He served as an apprentice under a skilled German watchmaker and worked for several years with a firm which cared for the timepieces for seven railroads. Grantham has worked in Big Spring for nearly 10 years.

Report Assassination Try On China Leader

HONG KONG (U.S. Nationalist Hong Kong Times said today that the Russians had tried to kill Mao Tse-tung by sabotaging his private plane but the aircraft exploded and crashed before the Chinese Communist leader was to board it.

No word of any such crash has come from Peiping radio or Communist agencies here or on the mainland.

Modern Machine Dismounts Tires

Perhaps the most modern tire repair service equipment in West Texas can be found at Humble Service Station No. 1766, located at 1301 Gregg Street in Big Spring and operated by Jim Raoul.

Tires are mounted and dismounted electrically and are repaired and made ready for use within minutes.

The Raoul station also maintains equipment for vulcanizing tubeless tires, on which many of America's automobiles are running today.

A number of the gadgets being used in the operation Raoul himself designed.

The concern stocks a fairly complete line of Atlas accessories, including tires, tubes, batteries, oil filters, gasoline tank caps, and sparkplugs.

Both regular and tubeless tires are sold by the establishment. Premium and white sidewall tires are among the casings in stock.

As an added inducement to customers, Raoul and his employees give S&H Green Stamps with each purchase of 10 cents or more. They, of course, can be redeemed locally.

The Raoul station maintains a pickup truck for emergency service to any motorists who might be in need of a fresh supply of gasoline or a tire change.

Humble Service Station 1766 operates on a 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. schedule seven days a week.

Raoul has been doing business at that location for about five years, during which time he has earned friendships with countless of local and transient motorists from over a wide area.

Business telephone number of the Raoul Humble Service Station is 4-8591.

French Is Favored In AAA Playoffs

By The Associated Press
North Dallas, Beaumont French, Jacksonvile, Buna and Avoca were given the favorites' roles Monday as 24 teams prepared to move to Austin for the Texas Schoolboy Basketball Tournament.

The fight opens Thursday and runs through Saturday. Buna and Avoca are defending state champions, the former back with a stronger team than the one that racked up the Class A crown last year, and the latter the outfit to beat in Class B since it still has the great Max Williams.

French is the only other member of the contingent that was last year's state champion.

Contesting for the Class AAAA crown are Odessa, North Dallas, Laredo and Houston Milby.

Class AAA will have the high-scoring Dons of Amarillo Palo Duro, who offer a serious threat to French, Marshall and Harlingen.

In Class AA, where Phillips ousted the defending state champion, Seminole, in the regional tournament, are Waxahachie, Webster, Jacksonville and Phillips.

Buna returns seeking its straight state title with a fine 34-4 record and considered better in the overall than last season. Troup, Big Lake and Deer Park are the other teams in Class A.

Eight teams contest in Class B and the team that appears most likely to topple Avoca is Central of Polk.

Others in Class B are Gruver, Krum, Laneville, Kyle, Pawnee and Van Horn.

Here's how the five classes will shape up when the tournament starts at 8:45 a. m. Thursday with the Class B teams in first action:

Houston Title To Ted Kroll

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP)—With Ted Kroll as its new leading money winner, golf's winter tour troupe stopped in Port Arthur, Tex., today for a $3,500 pro-amateur event while en route to the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open.

Kroll posted a "cautious" 69 yesterday and won the $30,000 Houston Open with 11 under par for the 7,122-yard Memorial Park course. He pocketed $8,000.

The only player from a starting field of 160 to break Memorial's par-72 four consecutive rounds, Kroll finished three strokes ahead of Jack Burke Jr. and Dave Douglas, two former Houston champions.

With the $6,000, Kroll jumped from tenth to first place as the leading money winner of 1956 with $8,300. Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., dropped to second place with $7,568.75.

A Pennsylvanian playing out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Kroll won with rounds of 70, 67, 71 and 69 but thought he played "pretty bad all week."

He began the final round one stroke ahead of Burke and increased this to two after the first nine holes. After hearing that Burke ran into early trouble on the back nine, Kroll took no chances.

"After that, I played a rather cautious game," he said in explaining nine straight pars on the back nine.

Douglas, of Newark, Del. missed a three-foot putt on the last green to drop into the tie with Burke. Each won $2,700.

Collecting $1,425 each for a four-way tie at 283 were Jimmy Demaret, Kiamasha Lake, N. Y.; Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa.; Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill.; and Jimmy Clark, Laguna Beach, Calif.

Jerry Barber, the little pro from Los Angeles who led the first round and shared the second with Kroll, tied at 284 with Jim Turnesa, Spring Valley, N. Y., and Bill Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif. Each won $900.

Heap Big Catch

The black bass exhibited by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hines in the above picture represents only part of the catch they made at Lake Colorado City last week. In all, they caught about 20 fish. The six pictured here weighed about 19 pounds.

Two 1-AAA Players On All-State Team

Only one repeater—Dale McKeehan of Sweetwater—is on the Class AAA schoolboy basketball All-State team selected by the Texas Sports Writers Assn.

Averaging 24 points per game, McKeehan easily made the team his second season in a row. Gene Arrington of Amarillo Palo Duro pairs with McKeehan at forward, Jackie Crawford of Grand Prairie is the center and Jay Arnette of Austin McCallum and Johnny Bourgeois of Harlingen are the guards.

Palo Duro and Harlingen are two of the teams in the state tournament at Austin this week. Beaumont French and Marshall are the other two. David Reynard of French and Bobby Bogue of Marshall each landed on the third team.

Moore Battles Dunlap In 10 At Oakland

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press
Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore has figured out the way to beat the training camp expense and earn while he loses weight.

Instead of setting up a camp and hiring the likes of Howie King and Bob Dunlap, the 39-year-old 175-pound king takes them on in regular 10-round fights and picks up some move-around money at the same time.

Last week, Archie scaled a hefty 197 when he outpointed King in a non-title 10-rounder in San Francisco.

Tonight Moore picks on oft-beaten Bob Dunlap of Oakland in another overweight 10-rounder in his home town of San Diego. Nearly four years ago, Moore stopped Dunlap in six rounds.

The veteran light-heavyweight ruler plans to keep busy in these type of fights until a month or so before his scheduled June 5 title defense against Yolande Pompey in London. By then Archie expects to be a lot closer to the 175-pound limit.

Scrappy little Miguel Berrier, winner of his last two fights on knockouts, meets Bobby Bell, Youngstown, Ohio, veteran, in a television (DuMont-TV, 10 p. m., EST) 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Berrier, a comer in the featherweight ranks, is from Puerto Rico.

Another Monday night bout matches hard-punching Vince Martinez, Paterson, N.J., and Italy's Paolo Melis, at Bangor, Maine, in a welterweight 10-rounder. Martinez, the No. 4 contender, is seeking his 21st straight victory.

Scrappy little Miguel Berrier, winner of his last two fights on knockouts, meets Bobby Bell, Youngstown, Ohio, veteran, in a television (DuMont-TV, 10 p. m., EST) 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Berrier, a comer in the featherweight ranks, is from Puerto Rico.

Another Monday night bout matches hard-punching Vince Martinez, Paterson, N.J., and Italy's Paolo Melis, at Bangor, Maine, in a welterweight 10-rounder. Martinez, the No. 4 contender, is seeking his 21st straight victory.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

An unidentified four-year-old to a referee at a Webb AFB basketball game:

"I've got me a new job down at the Ford house."

"What you doing down there?"

"Digging worms for the Thunderbirds."

(Ouch!)

This one comes from New Glau, who writes for the New Orleans Item:

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist, will be a solid favorite for the 1956 Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga. (April 5-8). Middlecoff is the defending champion and his 279 total, with Ben Hogan trailing at 286, was the greatest winning margin in Master's history.

It was at the Masters a few years ago, during a practice round, that Middlecoff asked his caddie what his name was.

"Po?" the boy answered.

"Poe, P-o-e."

"Are you by any chance related to the famous Edgar Allan Poe?" Middlecoff cracked.

The boy looked Cary straight in the face, solemn and big-eyed. "It is Edgar Allan Poe," he said.

This window received a letter recently from Jim Tongate, dean of the minor league umpires last year, now getting ready to go to the Pittsburgh Pirates' minor league farm camp at Huntsville, Mo. Jim won't be trying to break into the Buc chain as a player. He'll scout for the Corsairs this year and will help with the conditioning program in the camp.

Player who will eventually be assigned to New Orleans, Mexico City, Lincoln, Neb., Williamsport, Pa., Waco, Billings, Mont., Salinas, Calif., and a club in the Arizona Texas League will be there.

In all, about 300 athletes will be in attendance, in addition to team managers, coaches, scouts, farm directors and umpires.

Tongate completed his 29th year as an arbiter in the Longhorn League in 1955.

Ackerly High School returns a line of girls' basketball team next season, losing only Patricia Iden, the third leading scorer on the team, from the entire squad.

Coach Cliff Prather says his job won't be easy, however. Loop, which won't start every one of the season, doesn't lose a starter. Neither does Dawson, which finished third during the regular season. And Flower Grove, which lost to Loop by a mere two points in the district tournament, will return all but one starter.

The going was extremely close for those four clubs all season. Ackerly lost only six games all season and Delphie Richter, an all-district guard, was missing from action in two of those games.

Incidentally, Dorothy Williams, who trailed only sister W

Scotland Is Old
Home Of Brownies

When I was about seven years old, a book with the title, "Adventures of a Brownie," came into my hands. I read only a little of the text, but I studied the pictures with enjoyment. The chief brownie had friends and relatives, and the pictures showed them jumping about and having a merry time. Brownies are imaginary beings of small size. The tales about them have come largely from Scotland, but the part of England known as Cornwall also has a number of brownie stories. Similar figures, with different names, belong to the folklore of Ireland, Germany and other lands. A brownie is supposed to have a brownish skin, and this explains the name. Stories about brownies describe them as little fellows about one foot in height, and tell us that they sometimes perform good deeds. They are said to spend most of their time about the homes of farmers, and to churn butter or thresh grain at night, while the farm folk are sleeping. Very much like brownies are the elves mentioned by storytellers of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Germany. The elves are described as small people who live in the woods, in caves or (in the case of light elves) in the air. 'Tis said that elves have kings and queens, and they gather to hold feasts and wedding parties. The light elves are spoken of as good friends. Now and then (the stories declare) they enter the homes of full-sized people and help to clean up the kitchen and do other chores. The dark elves of the woods and caves have different tales about them. They are supposed to cause more mischief than good. Very much like a brownie or an elf is Robin Goodfellow, a character in English folklore. Robin is said to be helpful toward those whom he likes, but something of a danger to others. From time to time he plays tricks on people who have hurt his feelings. For GENERAL INTEREST section of your scrapbook.

Easy To Find A Fight, Though
 PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Parker Pyatt can testify that it's getting pretty difficult finding a parking place in downtown Peoria. Pyatt, 25, of Galesburg, Ill., finally found a space to park his car after circling a block. But another motorist—unidentified—raced him to squeeze into the space first. Both men jumped out of their cars and scuffled. The other man bit Pyatt's thumb so severely the nail had to be removed at a hospital.

No Foreign Policy Revision Needed, Ike, Dulles Decide

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has decided that no radical revision of American foreign policy is needed to meet the new Soviet political and economic offensive. President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are determined to concentrate instead on getting from Congress one new cold war weapon—authority to make long-range foreign aid pledges. It is by no means certain yet that they will make an all-out fight for this. These basic administration decisions have been disclosed in a series of statements by Dulles, the latest being a speech in Philadelphia yesterday. In it he conceded the Soviets are winning "considerable popular prestige" in the free countries of Asia and Africa with their new line. What Dulles called the "notable shifts" in Soviet policy, his estimate of their meaning and the reaction of his Democratic critics assure a wide-open political debate on foreign policy this election year. Dulles' assertion Friday that Moscow has changed tactics because its old programs "have failed" drew weekend rebuttals from Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Democratic Gov. Averill Harriman of New York. Harriman, former U.S. ambassador to Moscow, said in a statement: "The truth is just the opposite—the Soviets reaffirmed and intensified their economic and psychological offensive because it has been so spectacularly successful throughout Asia and the Middle East." Humphrey said in a statement yesterday: "When Mr. Dulles states that the Soviets have changed their tactics because their previous methods have failed, he reveals naive about Communist methods which should frighten any American citizen. . . . An administration that fails to understand the meaning of the recent Communist offensive is not only soft on communism, but is unbelievably ignorant as to how to meet the threat."

Late Gangster's Daughter Weds

FORT WORTH, Feb. 27 (AP)—Carole Ann Eggleston, 14, daughter of the late Tincy Eggleston, and Lanny Bevers, 16, were on a honeymoon today. They were granted a marriage license yesterday after waivers were signed by their mothers. Eggleston, an underworld character, was killed in gangland fashion last year.
