Shivers To Step Out Of Governor's Chair

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Shivers was ready today to relinquish public office after 22 years so he can devote full attention to the battle for states' rights.

Speaking to television viewers throughout Texas last night, Shivers said: "It is my belief, and my decision, that I can best continue this fight if I am not a candidate for any public office."

He thus dispelled the possibility—which he suggested last week—that he might try for an unprecedented fourth elective term.

Instead he will use the states' rights battle cry to rally his conservative forces in an all-out effort to control the state.

He said interposition can become a strong instrument to reassert the division of powers between state and federal government and to protect local control and local self government from federal interference.

Shivers said his interpretation of interposition is that "it simply means the right of petition by the people of the state, a right as old as government itself."

of those who have cooperated, the other elected officers, the Texas legislators, and you, my friends."

Shivers said that despite former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles' defection and the disclosure of 46 fraudulent veterans land deals, the veterans land program has been "a fine and a great program."

He predicted the state in the long run will make up to 25 million dollars profit on its original 100 million dollar investment.

Regarding insurance failures, Shivers commented that companies with only 3 per cent of the total assets have had 60 per cent of the failures in Texas, while those with 92 per cent of the assets have had only 5 per cent of the failures.

But he added that "One failure is one too many." He predicted that his administration will convince Texans they have the soundest insurance industry in the nation. He said the industry now is "second only to oil and gas in value, in soundness and in worthiness."

Shivers said improvement of public education, state highways and state hospitals were some of the brightest spots in state government since 1946.

He said 300 million dollars is being spent for public education this year, a 350 per cent over the 100 million dollars of 1946.

Eats His Words

Adlai Speaks For Individual Liberty

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Adlai Stevenson told a University of Minnesota audience today that the nation cannot ever be secure until the liberties of every individual are secure.

He came to Minnesota for a five-day campaign for Minnesota's delegates to the Democratic National Convention. He will contest with Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) in the state's March 20 presidential primary.

In his prepared talk, Stevenson discussed civil rights and accused the present administration of using foreign policy for domestic politics.

The former Illinois governor said civil rights are "a matter of grave national concern when a girl in Alabama is denied her constitutional rights by mob violence or subterfuge, or when murder goes unpunished in Mississippi or when American citizens are denied peaceful occupancy of their homes in my own state of Illinois."

"Before we cast a stone at Alabama," he continued, "it might be well for those of us who live in some of the great Northern cities to ask ourselves in candor how the Negro minority is faring in our own communities."

Senate Lobbying Probe Winds Up; Report Promised

Sharpened Conflict Marks Hearing End

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate inquiry into activities of oil lawyer-lobbyist John M. Neff wound up today with sharpened conflict over whether Neff went to an Iowa Republican official with offers of campaign money for Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa).

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the special investigating committee announced the end of public hearings shortly before noon.

George said he considered the inquiry had been a "full, fair and complete" one, and predicted the committee would have its report ready by the deadline, March 10.

George said also he was "satisfied we have received all the facts in the matter we were empowered to inquire into."

In the windup session, the committee briefly recalled Elmer Patman, Austin, Tex., attorney for Superior Oil Co., as a witness. It was Patman who retained Neff, of Lexington, Neb., to work for Superior.

Most of the final hearing was concerned, however, with the conflict of testimony over Neff's activities in Iowa.

BEAM AND BOSOM

Soviet Fashions Follow 'B Line'

MOSCOW (AP)—The latest from Paris may be Dior's "F" line, but Soviet dress designers this week came out strongly for a "B" line.

Their new spring models allow ample room for bosom and beam. They resemble American-made stylish stouts. The buxom mannequins at Moscow's Dom Modelle—house of models—stress the natural line by wearing low heels and omitting girdles.

Before the spring showing opened, the director of Dom Modelle made the surprising disclosure that Soviet fashions are influenced by the West. He said the Soviet Chamber of Trade buys models from France and Britain and from other European countries for reproduction in Soviet factories.

Moreover, he said, the designers here study Western fashion magazines carefully. His statement was supported by the most exciting model in the spring show—an adaptation of a butterfly-sleeved dinner dress that was a highlight of the Fath collection in Paris last fall.

A sharp eye also can detect Balenciaga influence in tweed coats and suits, including such details as below-the-waist belts popular in France a year ago.

Soviet designers clearly have no illusions about the average figure they are dealing with. Most of their spring numbers are loose fitting, raglan sleeve styles suitable for size 40. The only dress with a nipped in waistline has zippers on both sides for easier exit.

Dom Modelle is a center for the 16 fashion houses in the Soviet Union and has the most important influence on what the Russian woman will wear. Its models are reproduced in factories, workshops and the sitting rooms of neighborhood seamstresses. They also can be copied by the wearers themselves.

Fashion-hungry Russian women turned out in subzero weather to see the latest show. Huddled in shawls and boots, they watched stoically and offered no applause, although they did gasp with pleasure at that Fath-like dinner dress. It was one of only two formal in the collection.

They snickered at a white wool wrap that can be transformed from coat to cap by pulling out the sleeves.

Styles for men and teenage-age girls were shown at the same time. The latter were attractive, imaginative and well fitted to the superior figures of young girls. Western influence is sternly restricted in men's clothes, the tight jackets and wide trouser bottoms still prevailing.

GOP Will Enter Governor Race

AUSTIN (AP)—The Republicans' main spokesman in Texas promises there will be a GOP candidate for Texas governor, and maybe one in the senatorial race if Price Daniel resigns.

GOP National Committeeman Jack Porter of Houston said yesterday at a news conference and in a speech to local Republican women that the Republicans planned "a very active campaign" for President Eisenhower in Texas and would have a candidate in the governor's race.

If Daniel quits as senator to run for governor, Porter said, then Texas Republicans "would definitely have a strong candidate for senator and I think we can win it."

Porter said he believed Texas would go Republican again this year by a bigger majority than in 1952.

Porter said he did not think Texas would support what he called the socialistic national leadership of the Democratic Party.

"I believe in private enterprise," Porter said. "National leaders of the Democratic Party are just as socialist as they can be."

Porter was questioned before speaking to the Austin Republican Women's Club. He attended a meeting of the Travis County GOP Executive Committee, at which Ben Guill, former Panhandle congressman and now a member of the U.S. Maritime Commission, spoke.

Porter said Republicans would wage a "very active campaign" to carry Texas into the Eisenhower camp.

Bank Robbers Take $175,000

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Two men robbed a drive-in bank today of an estimated $175,000 after kidnaping and holding captive all night a woman bank teller.

The teller, Mrs. Mary F. Kostolos, was reported unharmed. The holdup began at 10 o'clock last night. As Mrs. Kostolos drove her car into the driveway at her home, two men got into the car and forced her to drive them around for five hours.

At 3 a.m., they made her drive to the drive-in branch of the County Trust Co.

Retiring

Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, above, hero of the Battle of the Bulge in World War II and now commander of U. S. Army forces in Europe, has requested retirement according to announcement by the Army in Washington.

business could be conducted as usual.

The County Trust Co., is Westchester County's largest bank. Its drive-in branch at Mount Vernon was held up and robbed of $97,564 Sept. 24, 1954.

Using Mrs. Kostolos' key, the men entered the bank and took her with them, holding her captive in the building in preparation for the 8 a.m. opening for business.

Child Dies Of Strangulation

Lloyd Leon Winn, 4 1/2-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Winn, 1607 E. 3rd, strangled to death in the front seat of a car at 4:30 p.m. Thursday. The car had been parked on Main Street while the mother was shopping in a nearby store.

Three other children were in the car at the time.

Jess Slaughter, sheriff, said he was sitting past the car when he repeatedly honking the horn. He stepped off the curb to investigate arriving at the car almost at the time the mother appeared.

He said the baby was on its back in the front seat. It was not breathing and he could not feel a pulse. He summoned an ambulance and the child was taken to the hospital where artificial respiration was applied. The child was said to have been dead on arrival at the institution.

Abandoned Boy Is Identified

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP)—Supt. Elise Cardullo of a Delaware home for handicapped children, definitely identified today a child found abandoned here as Jimmy Trout, 3, of Wilmington, Del.

Miss Cardullo said she would seek custody of the child, who was made a ward of New Mexico's courts after he was found whimpering in the cold Feb. 13.

The child was badly bruised and scarred when found. Sheriff A. P. Garnett has issued an abandonment warrant for his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Trout, who left Wilmington early this month on a vacation.

Miss Cardullo said she had papers from Mrs. Katherine Trout, Jimmy's grandmother, authorizing her to take the child to Happy House, her institution.

AT ALABAMA U.

Miss Lucy Case In State Of Confusion

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The case of Atherine Lucy, Negro student who wants to continue her studies at the all-white university of Alabama, was in a state of confusion today.

Miss Lucy, 26, was "permanently expelled" by the Board of Trustees of the 125-year-old university at Tuscaloosa at a secret meeting Wednesday night.

The trustees' action came within hours of an order from Federal Judge H. Hobart Grooms ordering her readmission to the university. She had been suspended Feb. 6 after riots on the campus over her presence.

Her attorney Arthur D. Shores said he had no idea what legal course he would pursue in an additional effort to have the 26-year-old former schoolteacher readmitted.

Miss Lucy herself was in New York for medical attention and "rest, peace and quiet."

She left Birmingham yesterday with Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP has been backing her efforts over the past 29 months to be admitted to the university.

In expelling Miss Lucy from the university, the trustees accused her of making "false, defamatory, impertinent and scandalous charges" against university officials.

The expulsion resolution said, "No educational institution can maintain necessary disciplinary action if any student, regardless of race, guilty of the conduct of Atherine J. Lucy be permitted to remain."

The Negro woman was enrolled at the university Feb. 1 in compliance with a Federal District Court order issued July 1, 1955.

In the wake of the riots, the Board of Trustees ordered her suspension for "her safety" and the "safety of others."

Miss Lucy's attorneys promptly filed contempt of court proceedings against 13 university officials and trustees. In the contempt motion Miss Lucy charged these officials had conspired with members of the mob to keep her from attending classes.

The petition called the mob action a "cunning stratagem."

In the court hearing Wednesday, however, Marshall moved to amend the contempt proceedings, striking all references to a conspiracy.

In his findings, Grooms exonerated the trustees and officials of the contempt charges on the grounds they acted in good faith in excluding her from the campus after the riots. However, he ordered her readmitted by 9 a.m. Monday.

A federal court employe said unofficially the next move now is up to Miss Lucy's attorneys since the readmission order was predicated upon the fact that at that time she was a legally enrolled student.

Meanwhile, the Alabama House of Representatives in Montgomery whopped through a resolution to establish a committee to determine if the NAACP is controlled by Communists.

Under the terms of the resolution, which now goes to the Senate, Miss Lucy would be called as a witness.

The Senate approved a resolution by unanimous voice vote asking for federal funds to settle Negroes outside the South.

Answering any suggestion of Communist influence in the NAACP, Marshall angrily declared in New York: "Anybody who calls me a Communist is a bare-faced liar—and so is his mother."

Miss Lucy declined to discuss her case with newsmen as she arrived in New York late yesterday.

Marshall said, "She appears to be very calm but her insides are a mess... she needs rest, peace and quiet." He said she will stay at his home while in New York City.

At a news conference in New York, he said of Miss Lucy: "At this point she is too ill and upset. She needs the care of a doctor now, not the care of lawyers or newspapers. She took everything anyone could physically take and we felt it best that she get some much needed rest and care."

Marshall said Miss Lucy must make the decision whether to continue her fight for admission to the University of Alabama. He added that if she decides to continue the fight he will meet with other lawyers to plan further legal moves.

Court Battle Looms Over NAACP Ouster

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana's dramatic legal move to outlaw the NAACP under an anti-Klan law brought promise today of a hot court battle.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said it would "be compelled to defend" itself against the civil suit in a state district court.

Behind the state's sudden counterattack is the hope of segregation leaders that it may blunt the NAACP's drive for public school integration.

Atty. Gen. Fred S. Leblanc asked the court to dissolve the NAACP in Louisiana and ban NAACP meetings.

He acted under terms of a 1924 law requiring about every type of organization to file annual membership lists with the secretary of state. It was enacted to drive out the Ku Klux Klan.

This NAACP has failed to file in the last three years, the state petition charged. The law directs the attorney general "to proceed by injunction or otherwise" to dissolve noncomplying organizations.

In the first court step, Dist. Judge Coleman Lindsey ordered the NAACP and 12 defendants to show cause March 19 why a preliminary injunction should not be issued.

He also directed the defendants to answer state questions, which are listed in the petition. They are an attempt to show by the defendants' own answers that the NAACP failed to file its membership lists.

Recently a federal court decision in New Orleans overruled the state's 1954 laws attempting to skirt the U.S. Supreme Court ban on public school segregation. Last Wednesday, a second NAACP suit in the New Orleans federal court attacked classroom segregation in the capital city here.

State Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, said his group had spent nearly a year with the attorney general and executive office planning the lawsuit to outlaw the NAACP.

Child Support Plea Spurned

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Why should he pay $20 a month alimony and child support, William M. Chapin wanted to know when his children's television salaries are more than his own?

Seeking to have the payments suspended, Chapin told Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle that his son Billy, 12, earns as much as $1,000 a week as a free lance actor.

He said his daughter Lauren, 10, gets $285 a film as Kathy in the Father Knows Best television series. He said he makes $460 a month as an insurance executive.

But Judge Doyle denied the petition after Mrs. Chapin testified the children's salaries are spasmodic and savings clauses in their contracts keep net earnings at a minimum.

Under the terms of the resolution, which now goes to the Senate, Miss Lucy would be called as a witness.

The Senate approved a resolution by unanimous voice vote asking for federal funds to settle Negroes outside the South.

Samaritan Says Saint Works Overtime Aiding Charity House

NEW YORK (AP)—Miss Dorothy Day feels certain that St. Joseph, patron saint of workers, has been laboring overtime ever since her "House of Hospitality" was condemned as a firetrap.

And she can thank poet W. H. Auden for what she terms a heaven-sent assist.

Miss Day—a serene, slender, white-haired lady—gave up a writing career 23 years ago to minister to the poor and unfortunate. She became co-founder of the International Catholic Worker Movement, and conducts a refuge for the homeless on the lower East Side.

The Good Samaritan's troubles stem from a fire almost three years ago in the four-story, red brick, former settlement house. The blaze, caused by a careless cigarette smoker, resulted in injury to six persons. Five suffered minor burns. One man died later of pneumonia.

This made the house, under city ordinance, the site of a fatal fire.

Miss Day keeps her charitable abode spotless. Sixty persons now live in the building, and no charge is made for lodging and meals. In addition, a breadline outside feeds between 200 and 300 derelicts twice a day.

The good lady must depend on donations, which trickle in enough to keep her going—but with meager funds to make major repairs. Even so, last January fire escapes were being installed and the basement kitchens were fire-proofed. It was, however, too little and came too late.

Law is law, and Miss Day was fined $250 last Wednesday as the landlord of a firetrap and ordered to evict her charges by March 13.

Yesterday she set out for Upper Manhattan Court minus funds, praying fervently to St. Joseph and planning to throw herself on the mercy of the court.

As she stepped outside the mission door, a group of needy men huddled in the cold awaiting the distribution of clothing.

Out of the group strode a man who pressed a slip of paper in her hand. The man was Auden.

"I just read about your troubles," he said. "I want to help out a little bit toward the fine. Here's two-fifty."

Miss Day, not recognizing Auden, thanked the man and hurried to the subway. En route uptown, she glanced at the paper—a check for $250.

Magistrate Jack L. Nicoll considered the case in his chambers. He said he realized the frantic efforts being made to comply with regulations, and he told Miss Day to have plans ready by March 21 to finish fireproofing the building.

The structure, which cost $30,000, will need about another $30,000 in repairs to comply with the law.

Then the magistrate set aside the fine.

Miss Day was jubilant. Two hundred and fifty dollars looks small in comparison with many thousands, she said, but St. Joseph—through good-willed people—would work mightily in her behalf.

Miss Day was profuse in her apologies at not having recognized the noted poet.

"Poets do look a bit unpressed, don't they?" she said.

Gusty winds in West Texas kicked up dust Thursday afternoon.

Light rains fell at widely scattered points in Texas early Friday. The Weather Bureau said that at the best the moisture wouldn't be more than a sample.

During the night light sprinkles splattered Midland, Wink and San Antonio. Fog prevailed at Palacios, Galveston, Cotulla, and San Antonio. Traces of rain fell at Victoria, Beaumont, Lufkin and Texarkana Thursday.

Dawn skies were cloudy over most of the state except in Southwest Texas. The forecast was for partly cloudy and slightly cooler weather.

Early morning readings ranged from 27 degrees at Dalhart to 69 at Brownsville. Laredo with 86 degrees Thursday reported the highest reading. Amarillo with 66 had the lowest.

MP Railroad, Out Of Receivership, To Name President

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Directors of the newly reorganized Missouri Pacific Railroad, out of receivership after 23 years of bankruptcy, met today to name a president.

Paul Neff, chief executive officer under the court-appointed trustee, has been nominated.

The 15 directors also will elect other officers.

Federal Judge George Moore issued the order for consummation of the reorganization yesterday for the nine-state system. Missouri Pacific and its 24 subsidiary railroads, large and small, were merged into a single company with 9,710 miles of mainline track.

GOP Concentrates On Congress Races

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans confident of winning with President Eisenhower focused their strategy for 1956 today on sweeping congressional candidates to victory with him.

The strategy looks a little into the future, beyond the current two-party sparring over Eisenhower's second-term bid and his health, and beyond current Republican uncertainty over a vice presidential nominee.

The GOP campaign planning will crystallize in more detailed form at a party powwow of members of the national committee, state chairmen and Republican Senate and House members. Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall says it will be called soon, probably in Washington.

Such a session is bound to produce more talk about whether Vice President Nixon should again be second man on the GOP ticket.

Hall forecast it will again be Eisenhower and Nixon. So did Sen. Knowland of California, a political rival of the vice president in their home state.

Announcing his own availability, Eisenhower declined to say Wednesday whether he wants Nixon as a running mate. He said he will wait to see what the GOP convention does in August. At the same time, as he has often done before, he praised Nixon highly.

Still, there is some Republican grumbling that Nixon is such a controversial figure that the party might do better to drop him.

Nixon was sitting tight, accepting no calls from reporters.

The New York Times, in a dispatch from Washington, said today Eisenhower will support Nixon for renomination if Nixon "wants it." The Times continued:

"This was the word being passed today by a highly qualified source to influential Republican leaders to head off a developing battle over second place on the party's ticket."

"It was emphasized that the decision about running again was up to Mr. Nixon and he has not made it yet."

The Times also said the qualified source—"while declaring President Eisenhower's unreserved support of Mr. Nixon for whatever post he might want"— said it was conceivable that Nixon might decide his own political ambitions for an eventual try at the presidency in his own right would best be served by not seeking re-election.

If that were to happen, the story added, Nixon could have a Cabinet post, or anything else he desired in a second Eisenhower administration.

The GOP campaign planning, in its preliminary stages, puts about as much emphasis on Senate and House candidates as on the top of the ticket—with a hope that Eisenhower will run as well as in 1952 and that congressional nominees won't trail as far behind him.

Four years ago, Republican congressional candidates lost 93 districts Eisenhower carried. The GOP barely gained control of Congress in a year of a landslide win for its presidential nominee. Two years later, the Democrats won Congress.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday the White House and Congress "should properly be in the same hands, so that there can be responsibility fixed without crimination and re-crimination."

Hall followed up yesterday, telling newsmen there will be an all-out attempt to give Eisenhower what he wants—an end to Democratic control of Senate and House.

Hence the GOP will concentrate on close congressional districts, tight Senate races, and those 93 districts the Republicans remember from 1952.

Hall went another round yesterday with Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler, who riled the GOP with cracks about "part-time President."

Hall pronounced Eisenhower a "full-time president" and said Democratic attempts to capitalize on the health issue would backfire and cost them votes. Butler came back with a statement last night that Eisenhower, not the Democrats, made health an issue—first by saying Jan. 19 that it was idle to pretend his health could be "fully restored" then by talking about his health in a TV-radio report to the people Wednesday.

Saudi Arabia Wants To Buy Jet Planes, 18 More Tanks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Saudi Arabia million dollars worth of U.S. military goods authorized for shipment to Saudi Arabia in the past six months.

This represents almost half the 16 millions in arms shipments to the Middle East for which export licenses were granted since August. Of the rest, six million went to other Arab countries and three million to Israel, it was understood.

Israel's big request for 63 millions in defensive weapons is still "under consideration." This figure was revised upward from 50 millions as a result of changes made in the arms list first submitted Nov. 18 by Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban.

The embargo was imposed amid controversy over a previous shipment of light tanks.

The Saudi request for an undisclosed number of jet planes and 18 M47 Patton medium tanks, officials said, is in addition to seven

Boy Offers His Dog As Gift To Blind Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has turned down with thanks the offer by 12-year-old Edwin Litcher of Lake Geneva, Wis., to give his "German sheppard dog... as a guide" for some blind soldier.

"I think you are the most generous boy I've ever heard of," Veterans Administrator Harvey V. Higley wrote Edwin. "Very few grown folks would make an offer of their dog so that a blinded soldier or veteran could train his dog to be their eyes."

On a sheet of paper torn from a notebook, Edwin had written on Feb. 14 from "Lake Geneva," General Delivery, Lake Geneva:

"I am Edwin Litcher age 12, and I have a German sheppard dog about 6 mo. old. And I would like to give him to the blind soldiers, as a guide for some one. The dog is a nice one, his name is Smokie Boy, please come and get him, it would make my 2 sisters, and 2 brothers and I very happy to know our dog can help some one. Thank you."

The Milwaukee Veterans Administration office forwarded the request on to Higley, who made it public today with his reply.

He explained to Edwin the VA no longer advises use of dogs for the blind. Thanking the boy on behalf of the nation's 22 million veterans, Higley said:

"I know he must be a fine dog to have such a wonderful master but, honestly, Edwin, I think you should keep 'Smokie Boy' because every boy should own a dog."

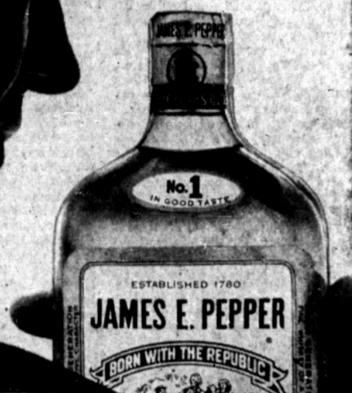

"You see, Edwin, we train blinded veterans to have their eyes" by teaching them to use what we call "the long cane." Once they get the knack of using the cane they don't have anything to worry about and—after all—a cane is so much easier replaced than a dog which must become old and die. When one gets attached to a dog he misses it so much after the dog dies, but with a cane, it's only a piece of wood."

Higley added he was going to ask Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) to have Edwin's letter printed in the Congressional Record "so that everyone in the United States will know what kind of boys we raise in Wisconsin."

"I'm from Wisconsin too, you know—from Marinette, way up north of you," Higley said.

Wind Without Rain Equals Waste

Years and years ago, before ever we dreamed of developing a beard, we read a brief poem in some magazine, perhaps the old Everybody's, which began: "The winds of March go roistering by." On this the first day of March we feel confident in predicting that there'll be plenty of wind roistering around here before the month is out. That is the nature of March, known as "the windy month," the third month of the Julian and Gregorian calendar, and named for the god Mars.

It was the first month of the early Roman calendar until Julius Caesar started monkeying with it after which it became the third. But for hundreds of years after that dictator bit the dust many European countries continued to regard March as the first month legally. In England January did not become the legal first month of the year until the middle of the 18th century.

Unlike some of the other months, March has always had 31 days. Easy way to tell what months have 31 days is to start counting on the knuckle of your index finger and continue on around the hand; each knuckle has 31 days. Each space between the knuckles has 30, unless it happens to be February. (Of course we knew you knew this, but we've got to fill up this space with something.)

There are a lot of sayings about March, in addition to its windiness. If March "comes in like a lamb" it will go out "like a lion," or vice versa. It used to be said that the last three days of March were borrowed from April, and that the first three are "blind days," supposed to be unlucky. There was a time when farmers refused to put any seeds in the ground during March 1, 2 and 3 for fear they wouldn't germinate.

Wind, frost and water made our world what it is today. It is the abundance of the former and the absence of the latter that is combining to make West Texas a wilderness in 100 years unless definite and effective steps are undertaken and continually carried out to halt the waste of our priceless soil.

The Hem Outstrips The Garment

The Economic Unit of the U. S. News & World Report has completed a study and this week announces the results of a survey of probable population trends in the U. S. in the 20-year period ending in 1975.

The results are rather startling. There will be a sensational growth for city and suburban areas, and suburban areas in many cases will double their number of inhabitants in the next 20 years. In some cases the suburbs will have more population than the city they surround. Example cited in the survey: New York for 1955 had an area population of 13,763,000 divided as follows: New York City, 8,000,000; suburbs, 5,763,000. By 1975, says USN&WR, these figures will be: New York area, 17,418,000, divided as follows: New York City, 8,625,000; suburbs, 8,793,000.

For Dallas, the 1955 area population is estimated at 780,000, with 511,000 in the city and 269,000 in the suburbs. By 1975 the survey says the area population of Dallas will be 1,600,000, with 875,000 in the city and 725,000 in the suburbs.

But Los Angeles by 1975 will present these figures: Area population 10,600,000, of which only 3,350,000 will be in the city and 7,250,000 in the suburbs.

These figures may be fairly accurate as to the future populations of the areas concerned, but they imply a situation that we cannot regard as tolerable or economically supportable. How can Los Angeles, a city which already occupies more area than any municipality on earth, or so we understand, exist with almost two-thirds of its population living and to a large extent earning its living in the suburbs, find the tax revenues to support the ordinary functions of municipal government? For an "area" of such a vast population must have the means to protect the public health, furnish the necessary facilities and utilities, and otherwise serve as the heart of the area.

The only way that could be done would be to extend the city limits continuously as Los Angeles has already done, and there must be a limit to that expedient.

Firm Commitment To Protect Israel

WASHINGTON — The United States and her allies are determined to preserve the territorial integrity of Israel and to use physical force if necessary to do it.

This is the big news of the Middle Eastern situation. It was made plain enough to the members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but, instead of recognizing its significance, some of the Democrats played a disgraceful game of politics and attempted to badger the Secretary of State. They preferred to give the Communist world the impression that American counsels are divided, wavering, and without resoluteness.

There is a good chance of achieving peace in the Middle East if all Americans, irrespective of party, will get behind the policy laid down by the United States and her allies. This was first given public emphasis in a statement issued just after Prime Minister Eden visited President Eisenhower in Washington a few weeks ago. But the other day Secretary of State Dulles amplified it significantly to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when he said:

"By our pledges, of the United Kingdom, France and the United States, we have undertaken to stand ready to put our power behind a United Nations action to save Israel. After all, Israel is a creature of the United Nations. The armistices were negotiated by the United Nations. There is no country in the world which has as strong a call upon the United Nations as the state of Israel has, and we believe that if the members of the United Nations will put their strength behind the United Nations' action to save Israel, that is a far better assurance for Israel than if we get into an arms race, because any amount of arms which Israel can buy from the United States can be topped. Like that, by more arms which the Soviet Union will plow into the situation, and you get into an arms race which Israel cannot possibly win, because Israel, with a population of about 1,700,000 and a very small area, cannot absorb arms comparable to what can be absorbed by the surrounding Arabs, with their capacity to absorb arms, now that they have access to the arsenals of the Soviet Union."

This text should have been widely disseminated by all the press services. It was more important news than the picayunish and captious questions of Democrats seeking political publicity at the expense of their nations' interests.

For the American policy in the Middle East is firm and unequivocal. It proclaims that action will be taken either "within or without the United Nations."

This could mean military force as a last resort and a blockade of the Middle East area by Allied naval forces. But before such a contingency is ever reached, Mr. Dulles pointed out to the senators, the "lead" would be taken by the United Nations, adding this important comment:

"Now, if that lead were balked by Soviet veto, then we would face another problem, either of going to the General Assembly and seeking action there, because you may recall that in 1950 there was adopted a so-called uniting-for-peace resolution, which provided that if there was a veto in the Security Council which prevented giving aid and assistance in the event of aggression, then a special meeting of the General Assembly could be called on 24 hours' notice to deal with the problem."

"So that there are various alternatives that we have in mind that might be availed of if there were aggression, and if there was a veto in the Security Council so that could not invoke assistance to the victim of aggression."

Notwithstanding this forthright expression of American policy—which should be a warning to Soviet Russia, too—certain Democratic senators chose to belittle the efforts of the Secretary of State and argue with him on the intangible question of whether the Soviets are or are not changing their global policies and propaganda. It was an excursion into the realm of abstraction.

These tactics are the usual story of selfish partisanship taking hold, in a political year, above patriotism and the national interest. The opposition parties in the British and French parliaments are afflicted with the same disease.

It's a sad state of affairs to find so many of the partisans playing politics with human tragedy. In the end they will succeed in encouraging the Communists to take chances in the Middle East, and the result might be war or a crisis that could easily bring on war. This is a time for forbearance and the avoidance of partisanship.

Nixon's Feeling Self-Conscious

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon—tall, dark, 43, and an unusually active vice president—can't help feeling self-conscious. At this moment he doesn't know whether the Republicans will pick him to run again.

But he has plenty of time—between now and his party's convention next August—to work to keep his job and wonder what, if anything, he's done wrong.

He has worked hard for the Republican party—and for himself, of course, since he is ambitious—when for President Eisenhower, who has repeatedly praised him. He has strong Republican support in Congress and among state chairmen and national committee-men. But there is some Republican sentiment for ditching him. He has been a controversial figure—certainly among Democrats. When the time came for Eisenhower to say he'd run again—as it did Wednesday—he lauded Nixon on once more but declined to say whether he wanted his vice president as a running mate again in 1956. He will wait until the convention, he said.

Eisenhower knows that because of his health the voters this year will give solemn thought to the President and vice president they choose; that a vote for the vice president on Eisenhower's ticket may be a vote for president.

Nixon was a hard campaigner in 1952, and again in the 1954 congressional campaign, which the Republicans lost. The Democrats, shooting around Eisenhower, made Nixon a main target just as he did with them.

Nixon said the usual things. He called the Democrats "Doomocrats" and "Dumocrats" and he spoke of then President Truman as that "piano-playing letter writer."

Those weren't the things which turned the Democrats' fury against him. It was the way he charged them with being "soft" on communism and with letting Communists penetrate the government.

Truman apparently despises him. Last November Truman was quoted—later denied using profanity—as saying "I don't like the ——— and I don't care who knows it."

Last Feb. 3 Truman exploded hardest. He accused Nixon of having called him a traitor. Nixon on Feb. 13 denied he had called Truman a traitor or the Democratic party the party of treason. Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said he'd give $1,000 to charity if Truman could prove Nixon called him a traitor.

Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said Hall was "splitting hairs" and trying to "clean up" Nixon for the 1956 campaign. He didn't show where Nixon had actually called Truman a traitor.

But he said Nixon tried to give that impression and accused him of being the "leading practitioner of a cruel and malignant political weapon — the not-quite-liberal smear."

Without calling them traitors to their country, Nixon once did use the word in speaking of Truman, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and 1952 Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson. On Oct. 27, 1952, he said those three men were:

"Traitors to the high principles in which many of the nation's Democrats believe. Real Democrats are outraged by the Truman-Acheson-Stevenson gang's toleration and defense of communism in high places."

Those Retirement Blues

NEW YORK — There are people who do want to do it in this world—whatever there's to be done—and there are those who don't care.

John R. Crooks always did what was to be done. He always smiled, but he also held behind his smile the fierce pride all true craftsmen have in a job they love.

Last summer, after 52 years in the same old salt mine, Johnny Crooks was put out to pasture on a well-earned pension. But like many another retired man, he became desperately unhappy. He cursed himself by going out and taking a job in a new field.

"The best remedy for retirement blues" might be interested in Johnny's story. Here it is.

In 1903 Johnny, a bony-legged fellow of 14, solemn in the dignity of knee britches and bowler hat, applied for and received the post of night office boy for The Associated Press, then as now the world's largest news gathering organization, for a salary of $4.50 a week. The day office boys got $3.50.

It was a big sacrifice for Johnny. In his heart he really wanted to be a jockey. He was built for it in slinness of body and a whip-like agility of mind.

Instead he became a typewriter jockey, one of the fastest of his day.

For 40 years he was the news librarian of the Associated Press, filing on cards the history of a generation of news as it was made from day to day.

He also filed it in his heart, and when you asked him for it—well, it was there. Johnny was a long lesson in loyalty. He was strictly an organization man. He didn't get to travel much himself—there was a family to be raised—but he traveled and suffered in spirit with scores of foreign correspondents.

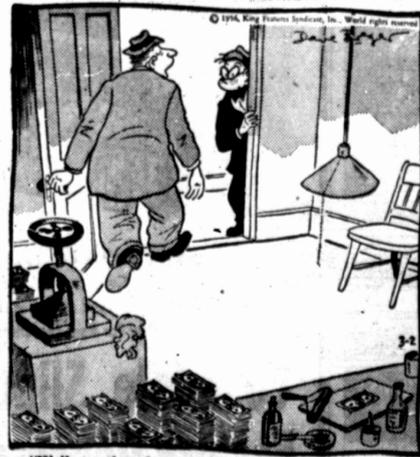

When Johnny Crooks, this skinny reservoir of news history, went to pasture last summer there was a big gap left in the office where he had worked for so long. It was a spiritual thing.

After nine endless, restless weeks, Johnny heard of a part-time stenographic job in a Wall Street law firm, applied for it and got it.

He found age no handicap in adjusting to a new job technique. He is buoyant again, happy in new loyalties. The name of the firm that gave him this break—Johnny says if I mention it please make him a partner—is Flood, Conway, Walsh, Stahl—and Johnny Crooks.

Johnny, chirpy as a cricket now, says idleness is a curse to a long-time working man. He advocates a new start.

Brother Marcus Believes In Compost

In my journalistic heyday at the University of Texas, I sometimes went out on assignment for the Austin paper seeking, like many another journalism student, not only experience but to make ends meet. Those were the good ole days when the returning veterans brought maturity and families to the campus, and the families brought the wolf to the door. It was on one of these extra-curricular excursions that I met Brother Marcus Coogan, a hard-working and rather hard-headed teacher at St. Edwards University.

Perhaps he was hard-headed because he was cloistered, or maybe it was his Irish ancestry. Anyhow, his ideas were to me at the time rather new and startling. Like most Americans, I had become accustomed to man's growing habit of replacing nature with manufactured articles, and was unprepared for his thesis that chemical fertilizers do more harm than good.

It was on the St. Edwards experimental farm that I first ran into compost, a thing common enough even today around the average farmhouse, but not much to be taken seriously. But according to Brother Marcus, the use of compost holds the only true answer to erosion and related problems. Compost, for the uninitiated, is a mixture of animal and plant wastes and dirt which is allowed to set for awhile. It makes excellent fertilizer.

Lack of space prevents a description of Brother Marcus' experimental techniques, but the results are simple enough. He displayed rows of corn grown on sloping composted land for several years straight.

with no evidence of erosion. He showed other rows of corn on comparatively level land on which only chemical fertilizers were used. This land was eroded and the growing power of the soil diminished. Results of heavy composting on other crops and varied soils were approximately the same.

Most experts think some composting combined with chemical fertilizing is best for keeping up the health of cultivated land, but Brother Marcus was hard-headed about that. He hinted that chemical fertilizers (or, conversely, the lack of any kind of fertilizer) may be at the root of many health problems peculiar to America, such as heart disease and cancer. He also stated his belief that insect damage can be attributed to lack of heavy composting.

His reasons may be stated in one word: naturalism. Compost, he said, is natural fertilizer, but manufactured chemicals interfere somehow with the natural chemistry of living things, and these gradually wear out the heart or bring on cancer. Insects, he added, take naturally to weeds that grow on bad land, and not ordinarily to human food crops, but the bugs are attracted to crops grown with chemicals or without natural fertilizers.

Brother Marcus Coogan's ideas may seem somewhat fantastic in this day and age. But, he may be right. Many experts in the last ten years have blamed America's heart and cancer diseases on nutritional causes.

The Gallup Poll

Ike's Popularity Higher Than At Start

PRINCETON, N. J. — The consistently high level of President Eisenhower's personal popularity through his days in office is dramatized by an "anniversary audit" just completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

In the initial check, conducted in February, 1953, after his first month in office, the President's popularity rating stood at 68 per cent. That's the percentage of voters who approved of the way he was handling his job as Chief Executive.

Today, three years after the first poll, the President draws a nod of approval from 76 per cent, as follows:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Eisenhower is handling his job as President?"

The year-by-year trend:

EISENHOWER POPULARITY

	Ap- prove	Dis- approve	No opinion
	Pct.	Pct.	Pct.
Feb. '53	68	7	25
Feb. '54	71	19	10
Mar. '55	71	16	13
Feb. '56	76	14	10

A continuing feature of the Gallup Poll since 1935, the presidential popularity index has been conducted at periodic intervals during the administrations of Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower.

By way of comparison, the highest and lowest approval vote obtained for each of the three Presidents is as follows:

EISENHOWER: High of 79 per cent, in August, 1955, following the Summit Meeting at Geneva; Low of 57 per cent, in November, 1954—for a range of 22 percentage points.

TRUMAN: High of 87 per cent in July, 1945, three months after he had taken over the reins of government; Low of 23 per cent, in November, 1951—for a range of 64 percentage points.

ROOSEVELT: High of 84 per cent, in January, 1942, following Pearl Harbor; Low of 50 per cent, in November, 1935—for a range of 34 percentage points.

Mr. Eisenhower today receives an overwhelming vote of confidence from members of his own party. More than nine out of every 10 GOP voters (93 per cent) say they approve of the way he is handling his White House duties.

Even among rank-and-file Democrats, six out of every 10 approve.

The important political fact is that among Independents—the shift voters who swing one way or the other, depending on the issues and candidates—eight out of every 10 approve, as follows:

	Rep.	Dem.	Ind.
	Pct.	Pct.	Pct.
Approve	93	60	81
Disapprove	2	27	8
No opinion	5	13	11

Figures reporting the popularity of the President should be interpreted as a vote of general confidence or approval in his handling of state affairs. Obviously, the figure does not represent the number who would actually vote for him in a presidential election, because of straight party voting.

In many ways, Eisenhower is a strange political phenomenon. His popularity, which extends beyond the limits of his own party, can be explained in several ways. Probably best is his lack of strong identification with either party.

In the years before Ike tossed his hat into the ring, there was much discussion as to whether he was a Democrat or a Republican.

(As late as August of last year, an Institute survey showed that Ike is thought by the average voter to be, at heart, neither a Republican nor a Democrat—but "somewhere in between" the two in his personal political philosophy.)

What is perhaps even more amazing is that both parties thought of him as a possible candidate on their ticket for the presidency. In June of 1951, Eisenhower actually led the list of preferred candidates among the rank-and-file of both parties in polls taken at the time.

One fact is that, since he took office, the President has steered a middle-of-the-road course. His sustained high popularity is evidence that he has alienated few of his original followers and also that center groups dominate the American political scene today.

Grace Has The Shipping Line Upset

By tradition it's the mother of the bride who is always in a dither just before a wedding. But it is doubtful if Miss Grace Kelly's handsome and efficient mama is in an emotional state even half-way comparable to the American Export Line.

It is on Export's luxury liner Constitution that Miss Kelly, her parents and her sisters, cousins and her aunts, as well as her brothers and her bridesmaids will sail on April 4 for Monaco and her marriage to Prince Rainier III.

Naturally, American Export Line is jumping up and down with joy at the very idea of ferrying Miss Kelly to her wedding. But it is also wringing its hands with despair over the problem of where to stow all the customers.

Even before Miss Kelly requested reservations on the Constitution, the liner had long since been sold out for its April 4 crossing, the last eastward sailing on which reduced winter rates will be in effect (higher summertime rates go into effect on the next crossing).

To date the line, by prayer, fasting and some last-minute cancellations, has been able to set aside an even dozen first class staterooms for the Kelly party which already numbers in excess of 24 persons.

The line, at the request of Miss Kelly's parents, is trying to scrounge up additional staterooms for this party. And if any other persons should be added to the bridal party! Well, the line probably will have a nervous breakdown.

As it is, a spokesman for the line said yesterday—his spearmen dripping with regret—it has been impossible to assign to Miss Kelly and her family even one of the four super-deluxe suites that are the pride of the Constitution.

Each of these suites had been engaged long before the American-Monaco romance blossomed.

The American Export Line has a sentimental interest in doing the best by Miss Kelly and her party, since the actress starred in one of her first movies aboard the Constitution and her matron of honor, Mrs. Francis C. Gray Jr., of Belmont,

Mass., was the first—and prettiest—stow-away ever discovered aboard the liner.

In late May, 1951, when the brand new Constitution made its delivery run from the shipyards at Quincy, Mass., via Boston to New York, a pretty blonde girl named Grace Kelly, then better known as a model than an actress, was engaged by Jack LeViene of Pathe News to make a two-minute, newsreel fashion story of the event.

When the liner docked at Boston, Mrs. Gray went aboard to visit friend Grace. What with catching up on the gossip and inspecting the wonders of the new ship, the two girls forgot about time, and the first thing Mrs. Gray knew, she was a stowaway en route to New York.

But instead of putting her in frons, company officials put her in a handsome stateroom and she had a gay introduction to the liner on which she will sail for Monaco.

The Constitution, which ordinarily stops at Cannes, will make a stop at Monaco in honor of Miss Kelly and her fiancé, providing the U. S. Maritime Board grants the line permission to do so. The line has applied for such permission.

The American Export Line only means when asked where it will put newsmen who hope to sail on the Constitution, too. At the mo', only the lifeboats are available.

Woman Labor Chief

MYSTIC, Conn. — The Connecticut Cabinet Corp. local of the International Assn. of Machinists has the only woman labor union president in southeastern Connecticut. Mrs. Edna Wallington defeated two men in an election for the office.

Rapid Growth

DES MOINES — Iowa had greater industrial growth last year than in the two previous years, adding 40 new industries which created 2,938 job possibilities, the Iowa Development Commission says.

For Fun, For Comfort

That's the mission of the casual attire shown by Mrs. Harry J. Coates for the Officers' Wives' Club Thursday afternoon at Ellis Hall. She chose a pair of skinny pants in black pique and topped them with a gaily colored, hip-length overblouse of pique. Random colors of the blouse are coral, chartreuse, green, black and white. The combination cowl and boat neckline in the front of the blouse is repeated in the back. A fringed Italian straw hat adds a bit of interest—as well as shade.

Fashion Show Presented By OWC At Thursday Luncheon

"More taste than money" was the theme of the style show given for the Officers' Wives' Club Thursday afternoon at Ellis Hall. The show was preceded by a luncheon.

Commentator for the afternoon was Mrs. Jim Zack, who told her listeners that good taste was the same with $500 or with a signed check on a bank.

"It's the eye for the good and new that's invaluable in selecting clothes," she said. "There is no substitute for fashion inclination, and it is worth a pound of uranium!"

Introducing the trend toward white or off-white, a band of lace trimmed the top of the white sheath worn by Mrs. Thomas Graham. Narrow black velvet ribbon was run through the lace, also used on the pockets of the red linen boxy jacket. She wore white gloves and red pumps and strolled with a red umbrella in a black patent case.

A probable preparation for the high wind was the lining of the jacket. Made of the same material as the dress, it was whimsically sprinkled with rhinestones, which added glamour as the inside of the coat showed.

Worn over many petticoats was the black and white checked cotton of Mrs. William J. Schroeder. Short strips of black patent marked the gathers at each side of the princess style frock. Zippered in the back, it was trimmed the length of the waist to the high collar with tiny buttons in front. White flowers at her neck were similar in design to her chalk white and rhinestone earrings.

Mrs. Jack McMillen wore a butcher linen suit in a gold shade.

The straight skirt was topped by a high-necked blouse, in brown, gold and white stripes. Red pumps picked up the touch of red in the strip of embroidery on the boxy jacket. This bar, similar to decorations worn on service uniforms, appeared just over the heart.

A startling but lovely combination was the pink sheath and cherry red duster worn by Mrs. William Booth. A criss-cross fastening on the pink sheath was accented with rhinestone-studded pink buttons, and her costume jewelry was a perfect complement. Pink maline formed her toque-like hat, which was perked up with a single rose.

Mrs. Peter L. Hershey tied a ribbon of burnt-orange velvet around her hair done in a bun. This picked up the burnt-orange embroidery combined with a chartreuse and a metallic thread on a background of natural linen, which fashioned the sheath she showed.

The dress was sleeveless and was made with a wide scoop neckline. Her jewelry was gold and her pumps were of natural lace mesh.

About 285 attended.

On the head table, pink carnations were entwined on white tapers in silver candelabra. The centerpiece was a black straw hat nestling in pink net. Carnations were strewn through the net.

Balloon "ladies" in spring colors decorated individual tables. On each balloon a red lip and brown eye were drawn. The hat was a lace doily topped with a baking cup and tiny flower. A small silk scarf was tied around the "neck."

During the preceding business session, conducted by Mrs. O. E. Rogers, president, a special guest, Mrs. Carlton Virden, was introduced. Mrs. C. J. Fix will be the April guest.

The club voted to continue supporting two German war orphans. Mrs. R. G. Thompson introduced new members and guests. Blocks Five and Seven were hostesses. Mrs. R. C. Jordan was chairman.

Special prizes were won by Mrs. E. H. Eide, Mrs. F. D. Harkey, Mrs. L. D. Hale, Mrs. R. B. Dube, Mrs. G. D. Jefferson, Mrs. J. W. Lewis, Mrs. N. Marx, Mrs. J. J. Kelley, Mrs. J. F. Wylam, Mrs. R. D. Baird and Mrs. Duane Zink.

BY JORDAN KING

Britain's Famed Gen. Glubb Fired

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, famed British "Glubb Pasha" who created Jordan's crack army, has been dismissed by King Hussein. The King and Premier Samir el Rifai's government acted to satisfy strong anti-Western elements demanding that the army—the Arab Legion—be put under complete Arab control. There was no immediate word how Glubb's dismissal from the post of chief of the army general staff would affect the nearly eight million pounds ($22,400,000) which Britain pays Jordan annually for support of the legion. The subsidy constitutes more than half the government's budget. The dismissal ended 30 years of Middle East service for the tough, wiry little 59-year-old soldier who learned the ways of the Arabs on camelbacks and around the desert campsfires and built the Arab world's best army from scratch. His enemies called him "The Uncrowned King of Jordan."

Glubb left by plane with his family for London today. An official announcement said his dismissal took effect yesterday. The announcement said he would be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Radi Ounabb. To further meet the opposition demands that the army be "Arabized," Hussein also dismissed two senior British officers who had been serving with Glubb. Extreme Arab Nationalists long had opposed Glubb. Opposition to him took a sudden upsurge after the British late last year tried to get Jordan to join the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact, setting off a violent reaction from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and other opponents of that alliance. The British move sparked violent anti-Western riots in almost every Jordan town. Fifteen or more persons were killed and Jordan governments fell almost daily. Glubb's legion finally crushed the riots but opposition leaders from left to right warned that Arab generals must take over the army. The opposition said Britain should consider the subsidy as rent for British bases in the country, or Jordan could get the money for her army from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

Glubb came to the Middle East in 1926, resigning his commission in the British army to become administrative inspector to the Iraq government. He transferred to what was then the British protectorate of Transjordan in 1930 and two years later became the colonial service officer commanding the desert area. Wearing Arab dress and riding a camel into remote desert areas, he coaxed the Bedouins into military service and fashioned them into the Arab world's best army—the disciplined, 20,000-man Arab Legion. In 1939 he took formal command of the Arab Legion. When Britain recognized Jordan as an independent kingdom in 1946, he became the army chief for the desert nation. Under his command Jordan's troops scored the major Arab military successes in the Palestine war, annexing much of Arab Palestine and swelling the half-million population by a million more Arabs. Explaining his action, the King said in a radio speech, "To serve our country certain alterations were found necessary."

Snowslide Kills 103 ROK Troops

SEOUL (AP)—A thundering snowslide that roared down the mountainous slopes of Korea's famed Punchbowl battleground crushed 83 South Korean army barracks and left at least 103 South Korean dead or missing. No Americans were in the area, 100 miles northeast of Seoul. Officers just back from the isolated Korean War front placed the toll at 78 known dead, 25 missing and believed dead and 54 injured. Officials expected the death toll to rise when communications cleared up. Rescuers were encountering great difficulty in reaching the scene. Snow was piled up to 19 feet deep from a heavy three-day fall. The snow had massed on crags and precipices above the barracks. Suddenly it let go with a great, rumbling roar. Many of the soldiers were buried alive. U. S. Army helicopters flew in almost immediately.

Construction in February of 1955 was $144,150 from 71 permits.

Demos Shift Farm Issues Aim From Benson To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Democratic senators set out today to criticize to President Eisenhower rather than Secretary of Agriculture Benson. Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), who has been one of Benson's most vocal critics, took the initiative yesterday. He told the Senate that he and others may have been unfair to Benson—"a very fine man"—because he said Benson was "only carrying out Eisenhower's orders." Senators Kerr (D-Okla.) and Olin

D. Johnston (D-SC) also said in the debate that Eisenhower should share the responsibility. Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) added that "Republican members of Congress had to be sold on the Eisenhower-Benson farm program" at special conferences. After four days of the Senate debate, Humphrey joined Sen. Anderson (D-NM) last night in a CBS-TV discussion of farm problems arranged as a reply to a similar appearance by Benson last week.

Kefauver Shakes Thousand Hands In New England Tour

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Iowa) shook a thousand hands last night as he carried his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination into New Hampshire's largest city. In six hours, the senator also held a news conference, visited an Air Force filter center, spoke to students at St. Anselm's College, walked up and down the city's main street "to meet the voters," and popped up in a furniture store, luncheonette, hardware establishment, department store, City Hall and a social club. His goal: victory in New Hampshire's March 13 presidential primary, the first test of voter sentiment in this presidential campaign year. His method: a smile, a handshake and a personal plea for support—the strategy that paid off with an upset victory over President Harry S. Truman in the 1952 New Hampshire primary.

Jesus Faces the City

CHRIST WEEPS OVER JERUSALEM WHICH WOULD NOT HEED HIS MESSAGE

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL WE ARE now studying the events of Sunday, the beginning of Holy Week that ended in Jesus' death on the cross.

Jesus and His disciples were on their way to Jerusalem. As they neared Bethany, Jesus told two of His disciples to go into the village where they would find a colt tied. They were to loose him and bring him to Jesus. If the owner asked why they did this, they were to say, "Because the Lord hath need of Him."

When the disciples returned with the colt, His companions put their garments upon the beast and set Jesus on him. As they started on their way, they spread their clothes in the path, and when they arrived at the descent of the Mount of Olives, the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with loud voices, saying, "Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord; peace in heaven, and glory in the highest."

The Pharisees who had joined the welcoming crowd, told Christ He should rebuke the disciples, but He answered that if He silenced them, the very stones would take up the cry.

When Jesus first glimpsed his beloved city, He wept because He knew that in a matter of years it would lay in ruins from the action of its enemies.

"If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes."

Then Jesus described the horrors to come when the beautiful city of Jerusalem would be destroyed by enemies.

Going into the temple, Christ found it like a bazaar—bargaining, selling, buying going on in the house of the Lord. He began casting out both buyers and sellers, saying, "My house is the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves." This was the second time that Jesus had cleansed the temple of such people.

Jesus continued to preach daily in the temple, and the chief priests, scribes and principal men sought to destroy Him, but they dare not for the people were very attentive to hear Him. This happened on Monday of Holy Week.

The chief priests, scribes and elders came to Jesus next day, asking Him by what authority He did what He did. He, in turn, asked them a question: "The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men?"

They dared not answer that because the people looked upon John the Baptist as a prophet, so they answered that they could not tell, so Jesus said: "Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things."

To show how wicked and vindictive these men of the church were, they set spies, posing as good men, to question Him. They flattered Him by saying that they knew that He taught and preached rightly, but was it lawful to give tribute to Caesar?

Jesus, of course, saw through their hypocrisy and asked for a coin. "Whose image and superscription hath it?" He asked. They answered, "Caesar's." "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things which are God's," Christ answered, which ended that matter. All these evil men could do was to marvel at His answers.

Now the Sadducees, who do not believe in resurrection, came to Him asking a very ridiculous question. According to the ancient Hebrew law when a Hebrew died leaving no children, his brother should marry his widow and raise children. If seven brothers married the same woman as each brother died, whose wife would she be in heaven? they asked. Jesus pointed out that in heaven there would be no marriage relationship.

We will have to omit the last verses assigned to our lesson, as we have no more space. We may, however, write briefly of the terrible denunciation of the scribes, whom Jesus says are those who "desire to walk in long robes, and love greetings in the markets, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts; which devour widows' houses, and for a show make long prayers; the same shall receive greater damnation." Jesus had no use for hypocrites.

Times have not changed much since Christ's day. We still have insincere people, scoffers of those who are trying to better the world. We can only strive to follow in Christ's footsteps as well as we can, and train the children under our care to do likewise for the Saviour who suffered and died for us.

ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN!

A child's roller skates left on the stairs . . . a man deeply engrossed in his paper . . . one more step . . . fate closes in!

But it isn't fate. Just the careless, thoughtless preoccupation of humanity.

No religion can guarantee our safety from accidents like this one.

But the Christian Church offers man safety from greater perils. It teaches him the dangers inherent in his own impulses . . . it shows him his responsibility for the lives and faith of others . . . it stimulates his soul-deep yearning to know God . . . it assures him that life has eternal meaning through Jesus Christ.

Accidents will happen—but spiritual tragedy need not! For the eternal safety of all men, the careless, the thoughtless, the preoccupied: Christ died.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Records Shattered As Phillips Wins

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas schoolboy basketball tournament moves into its major classes today but they're still talking about a couple of games last night that set a raft of records and exalted a youngster named Carl Mitchell as the top scoring expert.

Steer Vaulter

Frank Powell (above) of the Big Spring track and field team didn't get to vault in Thursday's three-way meet between Stanton, Coahoma and Big Spring because he had no competition. He'll see action in the Possum Kingdom Relays in Graham March 10.

Steers Score 90 Points To Win Three-Way Meet

The Big Spring Steers rolled up 90 points in sweeping a triangular track and field meet from Coahoma and Stanton on HCJC's new track Thursday afternoon.

Coahoma wound up with 14 while Stanton finished with 10. The Longhorns, who their coaches, Harold Bentley and Emmett Broderson, said were farther along in their training program than at any time in recent years, scored first places in each of the 12 events staged.

Competition was not held in either the pole vault or the broad jump. Frank Powell of Big Spring was the only vaulter on hand while there wasn't time to stage the broad jump.

The standard of the practice meet perhaps was Johnny Janak, Big Spring junior, who won both the 100 and 220 and anchored the winning sprint relay team.

Janak finished the 220 in the time of 22.2 and wasn't pushed in any event he raced.

Bobby Fuller, Steer distance star, won the mile event in 4:56. Merle Miller, Stanton, second in the event, finished far in Fuller's wake.

The Longhorns are getting ready for the Possum Kingdom Relays at Graham, which will be staged a week from Saturday.

Summary: 100 High Hurdles—Don Anderson, Big Spring, 1:12 (Only entry). 100-Yard Dash—Johnny Janak, Big Spring; Ronnie King, Big Spring; Kinsey Drewery, Coahoma; Harold Barnhart, Coahoma, 16.4. 400-Yard Run—Milton Davis, Big Spring; Clyde McMahon, Big Spring; Guineo Gibbs, Big Spring; Joe Hill, Coahoma, 55.8. 100-Yard Low Hurdles—Jerry Barron, Big Spring; Bobby Loudermilk, Big Spring; Bill Burns, Stanton, 21.6. 440-Yard Relay—Big Spring (Janak, Ronnie Phillips, King, Davis); Coahoma, 4:11. 800-Yard Run—Darrrell Sanders, Big Spring; Art Dodd, Coahoma, 23.8. 1,100-Yard Run—Janak, Big Spring; King, Big Spring; Richard Engle, Big Spring; Bill White, Coahoma, 21:2. 220-Yard Dash—Janak, Big Spring; King, Big Spring; Richard Engle, Big Spring; Bill White, Coahoma, 21:2. Mile Run—Bobby Fuller, Big Spring.

Crusaders Rout BCAs Heinsohn Gets 51 Points

By ED WILKS

Tom Heinsohn and Darrell Floyd, a pair of spanking new All Americans, shared the spotlight with an upset and a couple of close shaves in college basketball last night.

Heinsohn did everything but put out the cat for Holy Cross, popping in 51 points and clearing 42 rebounds as the Crusaders, warming up for the NCAA Tournament, routed Boston College 111-75.

Floyd, Furman's 17-two-time All America, was only a step or two behind in point production with a total of 43 for a Southern Conference Tournament record while leading the Paladins to an 84-70 elimination of Virginia Tech.

It was the Southern's survival-of-the-fittest shindig at Richmond, Va., that unveiled the upset, with Washington and Lee's four-star General laying the wood to George Washington 63-60. George Washington had been cofavored with West Virginia in the three-day tournament which opened last night to determine the Southern champ and NCAA entry.

Davidson almost made it a complete sweep by the underdogs, giving West Virginia a tussle before bowing 59-53. The Mountaineers meet Floyd and Furman tonight in the semifinals with Washington and Lee paired against Richmond, which held William and Mary to four first half field goals to win 79-62 in the first round.

The Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament at Raleigh, N. C., had its share of first-round scares too. North Carolina State, ranked No. 5 in the nation and the defending ACC champ, had to scramble before blowing a 17-point lead to Carolina 68-64. North Carolina, ranked eighth nationally, came out of its game with Virginia huffin' and puffin' with a slim 81-77 decision.

And Wake Forest, No. 20, didn't see daylight until the last 10 minutes in its 79-64 victory over South Carolina. Wake meets North Carolina tonight. The last time they met, it led to a postgame brawl that cost both $500 in ACC fines and each lost a player by suspension until March 5.

Duke, ranked No. 11 and slated to meet N. C. State in the other semifinal tonight, was the only easy winner, thumping Maryland 94-69.

Pee Wee Reese Feeling Like A Kid In Camp

By BEN OLAN

Harold (Pee Wee) Reese, who got his nickname because he liked to shoot marbles as a youngster, still feels "like a kid" as he prepares to start his 14th season with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Maybe an injury will stop me," he said today. "But a 21-year-old can get hurt, too. And barring something of that nature, there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind about my ability to have another good year."

Pee Wee batted .282 in 145 games in 1955 and there are some who will argue that he—not Roy Campanella or Duke Snider—was the most important guy for the Dodgers, who swept to their first world championship.

"I'm more confident this year than I was last spring," said the 36-year-old shortstop. "I had some serious doubts a year ago. My legs were giving me trouble and one day I told my wife that it looked like the beginning of the end."

He said that when the team reached the North, he looked up Leslie MacMitchell, the retired track star who had been the running coach in the Dodger camp for several years. MacMitchell told him that running over a hard indoor track was the worst possible thing for a ballplayer to do.

"And I had done just that," Reese admitted. "This winter, I did no running at all. Just some bicycling to keep my legs in trim."

Meanwhile, Stan Musial, another guy who knows his way around the National League, was bubbling over with enthusiasm in the St. Louis Cardinals' camp in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"I feel better this spring than at any training time I can remember," said the six-time batting champ.

The managers made most of the news in the other camps yesterday.

19-B All-Star Girls' Sextet Is Announced

Two players each from Forsan and Sterling City and one each representing Knott and Garden City were named to the All District 19-B girls' basketball team chosen this week by the coaches.

The first team: FORWARDS—Mary Lancaster Knott; Winona Blair, Sterling City; and Mary Lovelle Fletcher, Forsan.

GUARDS—Nettie Mae Gartman, Sterling City; Patsy Jean Shoultz, Forsan; and Patsy Gotcher, Garden City.

Honorable mention went to Alice Clark, Garden City; Ann Williams, Knott; Ann Martin, Forsan; Jean Sample, Knott; Joyce Railsback, Knott; and Latrelle Venable, Garden City.

Garden City was selected to be the recipient of both the boys' and girls' sportsmanship trophies.

The selections were announced by O. T. Jones of Sterling City, 19-B president.

Rockets To Play Odessa Tonight

The Lakeview Rockets will carry a 13-12 won-lost record into their basketball game here tonight with the Blackshear Leopards of Odessa. Game time is 7:30 p.m., scene of action the Rockets' own gym.

Three Rockets will be playing their final high school game. They are Ernest Byrd, the team's leading scorer, Alvin King and Billy Weatherall.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Leroy Fenstemaker, the ex-Rice Institute griddy who attended grade school in Big Spring, recently resigned the position as head football coach at Llano to take a job at Post.

Economics probably dictated the move, since the position at Llano pays "double wages."

Leroy gave Llano a winner last fall but his successes probably didn't get him much of a raise.

There's little doubt about which team will be favored in the Region V basketball tournament, which starts in Amarillo Monday.

Cameron's Aggies of Lawton, Okla., will enter the three-day meet an overwhelming favorite to cop the title and gain the right to represent the area in the National Junior College Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan., later this month.

Cameron has an 18-3 record for the season. Included among its victims was Arkansas City, Kan., former National Juco king. In the Oklahoma JC Conference, Cameron is 12-0.

The tall and experienced Aggies have averaged 73 points a game. That in itself is unusual, since Coach Harvey Pate usually goes in for clubs that stress defense.

Cameron has four starters back from last year. The only freshman who has been able to break into the lineup has been Carl Raleigh, 6-foot-10, one of the leading scorers on the team.

Two all-stars — 5-foot-7 John Carver of the 1953-54 Bowie, Tex., club and 6-4 Fran Seubir of Kansas — are in Cameron's starting lineup.

Cameron declined an invitation to attend last year's Regional Tournament because one of its starters was declared ineligible. There are those who reason the Aggies could have won the title, even without the regular.

Pate says Taliegh is destined to be one of the truly great basketball centers in the country. He should make Cameron tough to contain for this season and the next, anyway.

Larry McCulloch, Odessa JC's coach, says now he won't bring his Wrangler track and field team to the ABC Relays March 29.

Mac is going to let his boys take advantage of the Easter holidays that weekend. A few of the boys may show up here, anyway, as sideline observers.

John Kovatch, a new assistant football coach at the University of Kansas, says the most difficult technique in the grid game is tackling.

Observers in the sport have been going along with the theory for years, he says, that tackling was the most natural and one of the easiest fundamentals to master.

He disagrees and makes a good case. "Good tackling is opposed to kinesiastics (origin insertion and action of the muscles) of the body. It is opposed to natural leverage and function. The natural thing to do in approaching a ball-carrier is to curve the spine and drop the head. That's because the way the body is constructed. Of course, you want the spine extended and the head up when you hit. The uncurling from this kind of action has terrific force that can jar a ball-carrier's ancestors in Europe."

Insurers Sew Up Top Spot

Tate Bristow and Parks Insurance Company made sure of its hold on first place in YMCA City Basketball League standings by defeating Texas Electric, 64-18, here Thursday night.

The Electricians held the insurers on fairly even terms in the first half but the pace setters had it all to themselves in the final two periods.

Cuin Grigsby paced the T-B-P quintet with 18 points. Frank Hardy had 14 and Ricketts Gilmore and Horace Rankin ten each for the winners.

In the night's other game, Nabors Paint Store belted Mort Denton's Pill Rollers, 49-23.

Central Completes Season Without Loss Of A Game

The Central Ward Calves, coached by I. D. Spradling, have finished their City Ward School Basketball League season without the loss of a game.

The Calves completed the sweep by beating Park Hill Wednesday, 26-17. Central had already clinched the crown by trouncing College Heights last week.

Central led most of the way in its game with Park Hill, boasting a 12-7 advantage at half time.

Bowman Roberts led his team to victory, scoring 11 points. Bobby Sharp potted seven, Skipper Driver six, and Gary Cunningham two.

For Park Hill, Don Alexander and Dick Ebling each tallied six. Winning basketball championships is an old story with Central and Spradling. Only once since the Ward School League was organized has Central failed to win the title.

Spradling has also coached championship football and softball teams at Central.

Central's record:
Central 25 West 12
Central 23 Morrison 18
Central 27 Washington 14

Arlington Is Asked To Meet

Arlington State College, coached by Tommy Tinker, has become the eighth school invited to the Region V Basketball Tournament, which takes place in Amarillo Monday through Wednesday.

Winner of the tournament becomes eligible to compete in the National Junior College Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan., later this month.

Howard County Junior College of Big Spring is an entry, along with Frank Phillips of Borger, Amarillo College, Decatur, San Angelo and two Oklahoma schools, Cameron and Conners State.

Pairings for the tournament are to be drawn today. Following a layoff of several days, the HCJC team has returned to workouts.

Helms Is Hired At San Benito

SAN BENITO (AP)—J. W. Helms, head football coach at Martin High School in Laredo last year, has been named head coach and athletic director at San Benito High School.

Helms succeeds Ralph Curtis, who resigned to become head coach at Alamo Heights High School in San Antonio.

Fish Were Biting

The fish were biting at Lake Colorado City this past weekend — Ed Moerer, assistant postmaster at Colorado City, caught this seven-pound bass and a smaller three-pounder not shown. In a previous outing, he had reeled in a six-pound 7-ounce and a two-pound 4-ounce bass. (Photo by Wilson Studio)

Burke Leads By A Stroke

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Jackie Burke Jr. of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. today took a one-stroke lead and an aching back into the second round of the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

Burke fired a record-equaling 7-under-par 32-35—65 in the opening round yesterday over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course. He shares the tourney record with three others.

Burke missed a 15-inch putt on the 18th hole that would have given him a 64, tying the course mark.

Uncle Ray: Tattoo Marks Are Covered By Skin

By RAMON COFFMAN

The custom of tattooing is widespread among the savages of the world. We find tattooed people on New Guinea, the Philippines and many other Pacific islands. Tattooing of a rude kind exists among Negro tribes in Africa and in the blackfold tribes of Australia. The African and Australian tattooing is mainly the raising of welts by scratching the skin deeply so as to produce scar tissue.

A Maori woman with tattoo marks on her chin.

Q. Why did savages develop the custom of tattooing?
A. They wished to identify themselves as members of certain tribes and clans. They also used tattooed figures as signs of their religion and supposed that special outlines would guard them from harm.

The Naga tribesmen of India say that tattoo marks will be carried into the world of spirits! They allow tattooing on their skin so that, after death, they will be able to tell one another apart.

In the Maori tribe of New Zealand, women have had their faces tattooed to a smaller extent than the men. The Maoris have become better civilized during the past century, and the custom of tattooing has just about died out.

Q. How is tattooing done?
A. Several methods are used, including the use of the electric needle. All methods place markings under the surface of the skin. The old savage custom is to scratch the skin, and then to put coloring (green, blue, purple, red or what-not) inside the scratches. When the skin heals over, the coloring is out of reach of water, and will stay in place through the years.

Q. Is tattooing allowed in civilized countries?
A. Some countries forbid it by public laws, but others allow people to be marked up as they choose.

Casino Sells For $14 Million

RENO (AP)—Harolds Club, which in 21 years grew from a $500 bankroll and a white mouse into the world's biggest gambling casino, was sold last night for close to 14 million dollars—cash.

The vast enterprise, by far the biggest moneymaker in Nevada—the nation's only state with legal gambling—was sold to a San Francisco property-management firm headed by Jules J. Agostini Jr. Agostini, in his early 40s, will be called a "square" in Nevada's gambling fraternity because he never has had a connection with that business.

His firm, the Morgan-Agostini Properties Co., owns 23 San Francisco Bay area buildings.

In acquiring Harolds Club with its 70 gambling games and more than 800 slot machines, the firm also comes into possession of the club's huge parking garage, a million-dollar motel, a plush trap-shooting country club, several warehouses, several hundred acres of ranchland near Reno, extensive business property and numerous subsidiary holdings.

Also included are more than 2,500 "Harolds Club or Bust" highway billboards in 41 states which have helped make the casino familiar to motorists.

Known in local gambling circles as "The Factory," Harolds Club takes in more than eight million dollars yearly. Of this, it pays almost half a million a year in gambling taxes to the State of Nevada alone.

It was a family corporation—brothers Harold and Raymond A. Smith and Harold's former wife Dorothy—from its inception in 1935. However, the sparkplug of the organization has been colorful, 68-year-old Raymond I. Smith, father of the two brothers.

Now Monroe's
A Producer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Warner Brothers Studio welcomed its new producer last night amidst the most excitement on the lot since the original Rin Tin Tin nipped Jack L. Warner's leg.

The producer is Marilyn Monroe, who appeared at a news conference in the capacity of president of Marilyn Monroe, Inc. She wore a form-fitting black dress.

The conference was called to announce that Miss Monroe's "Sleeping Prince," in which she will costar with Sir Laurence Olivier, will go out under the Warner banner. Miss Monroe will get co-producer credit with Olivier. The famed Englishman will direct.

Studio boss Warner disclosed that Miss Monroe will get a healthy hunk of the profits of the picture, which will be shot in England.

Someone asked Marilyn to compare Hollywood cocktail parties with those in New York.

"You meet a better class of hors d'oeuvre in California," she answered while munching caviar.

Brazilian Landslide Kills 50, Hurts 100

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A landslide has killed an estimated 40 to 50 persons and injured 100 in Santos, the world's biggest coffee port and a city of 200,000 population. A cloudburst loosened the earth on a hill.

Peron Divorce Law Suspended

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's provisional government has suspended ex-dictator Juan D. Peron's controversial law allowing divorce in this Roman Catholic country.

The new move is part of Provisional President Pedro Aramburu's campaign to re-establish friendly relations with the church.

The government decree suspended the Peron divorce law until Congress—now dissolved—can act on the issue. It said Peron's government had proclaimed the law "in the course of religious persecution" without the knowledge of the people.

Passage of the divorce law in December 1954 precipitated a major break between Peron and Catholicism, Argentina's established church and the faith of 90 per cent of the people.

Many Cabins Going Up On The Shores Of Lake Thomas

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Fri., March 2, 1956 11

An elongated but sizable community is blossoming along the line which divides southeastern Borden and southwestern Scurry counties. Its components are the cabins being erected along the shore line of Lake J. B. Thomas.

Estimates are that something like 200 structures have been completed, or are in the process of being raised by sportsmen and others who want a place to take it easy evenings and on weekends.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District, which impounded the huge lake, has leased 182 lake-shore lots this season. At the present rate, the number will exceed 200 by the end of March.

In addition, there is an undetermined but substantial number of cabins on private lands including the Sterling, Murphy and Davis tracts. Some few are located on the Conrad lands.

Records of the CRMWD show that 14 lots have been leased in the southeast division, leaving 21 others; 13 on the southwest subdivision, leaving 21; and 155 on the north side, leaving 180 available. Demand for the lots since the first of the year has been the greatest in the district's experience, said E. V. Spence, general manager.

Residents Ask Ban On Plane Motor Tests

DALLAS (AP)—An injunction restraining Southwest Airroute Co. from operating an airplane motor testing operation at Amon Carter Field was asked yesterday by 31 Dallas County home owners. They alleged the "explosive, ear-splitting" operation was a "continuing nuisance." They said noise drowns out their radio and television sets and shakes their homes.

Congress Boosts Fund For Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today voted a big boost in funds to fight cancer, heart trouble and other diseases as it recommended $8,301,508,041 in new money to finance 24 government agencies.

The money is for use during the fiscal year starting July 1 and is $154,155,641 more than President Eisenhower had requested.

However, the increase was more than accounted for by the committee's decision to add 305 million dollars more than Eisenhower had requested for the Civil Service retirement fund.

The committee said the extra money would help keep the fund on a sound actuarial basis. It noted that the fund technically has a deficit of $13,400,000,000 because the government hasn't been regularly paying its share to supplement the six per cent contributions of federal employees.

One of the sharpest cuts, $37,100,000 below the President's request, was made in funds for the Civil Defense Administration, for which the committee voted $68,100,000.

For operation of the National Health Institutes, which conduct research in medicine, the committee voted $135,525,000. This is a million more than Eisenhower requested and $7 million more than the NIH received this year.

The National Cancer Institute was allotted $34,437,000, a boost of 2 million over the President's proposal; the Mental Health Institute $23,749,000, up 2 million; the Heart Institute $25,106,000, a 3-million hike; the dental program $3,471,000, a boost of $500,000; the arthritis and metabolic diseases program $15,845,000, an increase of $500,000; and the neurology and blindness programs $14,196,000, a hike of 2 millions.

For microbiology activities the committee voted $8,799,000, a cut of a million.

In a report written by Rep. Fogarty (D-R.I.), the committee voiced optimism over prospects for new tranquilizing drugs for mental cases and for "solid advances" in control of high blood pressure.

The report criticized the Labor Department for what it called slow progress in developing programs to promote employment of older workers, and to train nurses. More than half of the total was voted for the Veterans Administration by Eisenhower, but included all money asked for benefit programs for veterans and some increases for rehabilitation of hospitals and facilities.

Here's how other larger agencies fared compared with the amounts

Dawson Farm Bureau Sets $11,080 Budget For Year

LAMESA—The Dawson County Farm Bureau board of directors Thursday night adopted an annual budget of $11,080.

Income was based on 850 estimated members, plus $2,050 in insurance commissions, and $30 mailing list sales, according to Bill Snellgrove, chairman of the budget committee. Included in the $10,890 estimated expenditures is $4,250 for state dues.

The group last night laid initial plans for its annual membership drive slated for October. Fred T. Roney, FB president, named Ben Mac Dopsos and Sanford Frothingham as the bureau representatives on the Lamesa Citizens Traffic Commission.

Names as a committee to study the possibility of the FB constructing its own building here were Snellgrove, chairman, L. D. Echols, Ralph Gary, and Alvin Riley. The committee will study the needs of the bureau and the cost of a suitable building and report to the board.

Stolen Articles Are Recovered

LAMESA—Dawson County Deputy Sheriff Morris Zimmerman reported Friday that a check writer, a typewriter and more than 200 checks belonging to Howard Holmes Drilling Company of Hobbs, N. M., have been found.

They were recovered from a field near Taboka late Thursday afternoon. However, a number of checks on the firm are still missing. Arrested in Odessa last week in connection with the case was James W. Richardson, now confined to the Dawson County Jail on charges of forgery and passing a forged instrument.

The check he is accused of having forged was drawn on the New Mexico firm.

The checkwriting machine and other materials were discovered by a farmer plowing in his field.

36 Businessmen To Visit Schools

Thirty-six of the businessmen who entertained Big Spring teachers last fall have announced they will return the visit next Tuesday. Tuesday will be "business and education day" of Texas Public School Week.

Chamber of Commerce representatives are contacting all business operators who had teachers in their places last fall on the B-E Day of American Education Week. Teachers and school officials have invited the business people to a day-long tour of schools.

Forty-five businessmen entertained the teachers and it is hoped all 45 will be guests of teachers next Tuesday.

IN CITY TRAFFIC where tensions usually mount, Chrysler's cast-iron flexibility brings a confident sense of calm. And those admiring glances conform your judgment that this is America's biggest fine car buy.

THEY'LL THINK YOU PAID $1,000 MORE when you drive the year-ahead car!

The only cars with which you can compare a Chrysler Windsor V-8 are the other luxury cars... because that's what the Chrysler Windsor V-8 is. But you can own this car for the cost of a medium-priced car! And at this price, it simply defies comparison.

Take the way it handles in city traffic. Something quite wonderful happens. Instead of feeling tense, you're utterly relaxed—thanks to Chrysler's full-time Power Steering System and a host of other brand new Chrysler exclusives. You're handling a big, powerful car that responds like a mind reader. It does the work for you. Your Chrysler is beautifully balanced between the forward thrust of its mighty airplane-type engine and the most powerful brakes in the industry. This car flows! Yet, if you can afford any car in the medium-priced field, you can afford to step up to a Chrysler Windsor V-8. Compare its year ahead new-car features with the other leading cars in its price class. We think you'll agree that it looks and acts like a car that costs $1,000 more than it does!

MEN IN SERVICE

Cpl. George E. Ferguson, son of Mrs. Mandie G. McCuller, Rt. 4, Lamesa, is scheduled to leave this country for Germany this month. He is a member of the Third Armored Division, which will replace the 4th Infantry Division in Europe. He is a supply specialist and has been in the Army since 1947. His decorations include the Army of Occupation ribbon for both Japan and Germany, the U.N. service medal and the Korean service medal.

Richard L. Werther, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker of Route 2, Big Spring, has been promoted to airman, U. S. N., while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Hornet, which operates with the Pacific Fleet. Before entering the Navy in October 1954, Werther was graduated from Big Spring Junior High School and was employed by Wilson Bros. Construction Co.

Pfc. Billie R. Lawson, 23, recently completed a battalion test with the 1st Corps in Korea. The test, held in snow and sub-zero weather, measured the combat efficiency of Lawson's unit.

Richard L. Werther, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker of Route 2, Big Spring, has been promoted to airman, U. S. N., while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Hornet, which operates with the Pacific Fleet.

Pfc. Ralph W. Winterrowd, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Winterrowd, 805 Runnels, Big Spring, recently jumped in Bangkok, Thailand, with units of the 500th Airborne Regimental Combat Team as part of a SEATO exercise.

Glenn Williams, son of Mrs. Louise Mitchell, 209 N. Nolan, was sent to the Great Lakes Training Center after enlisting last Monday. All three will be given 14 days leave after completing their training.

Guilford Jones, district attorney, said that he has been notified that Dr. Charles Dowling from Maywood, Ill., has been signed by Governor Shivers.

The papers have been dispatched to the governor of Illinois. Dowling is wanted in Howard County on charges of illegal removal of mortgaged property. The application for his return to Texas to face charges was filed by Jones on Feb. 26.

He is alleged to have left Big Spring on Jan. 30 with a car on which he owed payments and with having failed to post notice of his new address.

Thailand, the Philippines, Australia and Britain joined 7,000 U.S. participants in the land, sea and air maneuver, the first held by South East Asia Treaty Organization forces.

Winterrowd is regularly stationed in Japan as a senior wireman in Battery B of the combat team's 320th Field Artillery Battalion. He entered the Army in September, 1954, and received basic training at Ft. Bliss.

In civilian life, the 20-year-old soldier attended Big Spring High School and was employed at the Equipment Service Company in Aztec, N. M.

the 19th Infantry Regiment's 2nd Battalion. The battalion topped all previous scores with 92.6 per cent. A rifleman with the battalion's Company G, Lawson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Lawson, 608 San Jacinto St., Big Spring. He entered the Army in January, 1950, and arrived overseas in June 1955. His wife, Willie Mae, lives at Buda.

Jackie Cottongame, son of Mrs. Mary Cottongame, 405 NW 9th, is to report back to San Diego Friday for duty on the USS Essex. The 19-year-old sailor spent a leave here following basic training at the San Diego Navy Station. He grew up in Big Spring and attended city schools.

Specialist 3-C Eduardo G. Gonzales, son of Mrs. Amalia Gonzales, 605 Douglas, recently completed a winter training program on Mount Fuji, Japan. Gonzales is a radio operator in Company I of the 8th Infantry Regiment. The 8th is a part of the 1st Cavalry Division. He was stationed at Fort Lee, Va. before going to the Far East.

White said he thinks the high rate of heart disease is attributable to lack of exercise more than to faulty diet or excessive smoking, adding: "Nobody has proved that tobacco is related... but it can be an aggravating factor when you have the disease."

White, president of the American Heart Assn., gave his view last month to a House appropriations subcommittee considering the budget of the National Health Institute. The subcommittee today made public the testimony, taken behind closed doors.

"Certainly," White said, coronary thrombosis is an epidemic. That may be true of cancer in the lungs. That is in this country, not in others. I think we are one of the unhealthiest countries of the world today.

"Some people think this is due to the fact that we make the diagnosis sooner. I admit that we do diagnose more cases. I don't think that is the answer."

Heart disease, he said, is "a disease of young people, and mostly men," and he continued: "Two noteworthy changes have taken place in our way of living... We now have so many pushbuttons that we have stopped the use of our muscles, and that may be more important than anything else. This is a big question mark. Also, our diet has become richer and richer."

He added that he didn't think "stress and strain cause arteriosclerosis. Hard work never killed any man, hard work, both physical and mental," he said. "Most cardinals can't only work but should. It is a limit to the work of anybody; you have to apply common sense."

White said exercise is "especially beneficial for the muscular man" and "I have a suspicion that it may be protective of the coronary arteries too."

It was wet and windy in some sections of the South and East and showery in the Far West but fairly mild and clear weather continued in broad areas of the nation today.

A narrow belt of rain showers and gusty winds extended from the lower Mississippi and Ohio valleys to the Appalachians. Precipitation amounts were light with the heaviest amount, around an inch, at El Dorado, Ark.

Skies were cloudy and temperatures higher—as much as 25 to 30 degrees above yesterday morning—in the Atlantic Coast states. At Portland, Maine, the temperature rise was 29 degrees, with a reading of 31.

Fair and mild weather prevailed in the northern and central plains and the middle Mississippi Valley although temperatures were a little lower than yesterday morning. Dust whipped up by the high winds yesterday filled the air in many places from western Nebraska to New Mexico's eastward into southeastern Missouri.

Police stood by in case volcanic experts, who watched closely through the night, decide that villages must be evacuated.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is "one of the unhealthiest countries of the world today," says Dr. Paul Dudley White, chief medical consultant to President Eisenhower since his heart attack last year.

Etna Erupts Lava Flow

ZAFFERANI, Sicily (AP)—A terrific explosion has ripped open a huge new lava mouth on the side of flame-spouting Mt. Etna.

Anxiety increased in Saliferina and half a dozen other villages on the volcano side as a 500-foot-wide tide of molten lava surged down ominously toward orchards and outlining homes.

Police stood by in case volcanic experts, who watched closely through the night, decide that villages must be evacuated.
