Successor To 'Supe'?

Floyd Parsons, right, offered the job of superintendent, goes over some Big Spring school records with 'Supe' W. C. Blankenship, who is relinquishing the post. The Beeville educator is to decide by Friday whether he will accept the Big Spring contract offer. (Staff Photo.)

Beeville Man Offered Post As Superintendent

Trustees Saturday offered Floyd W. Parsons of Beeville a three-year contract as superintendent of Big Spring schools. Parsons, now superintendent at Beeville, said he will notify the school board Friday whether he will accept.

The contract offer wound up a four-hour conference between trustees and the school administrator. The meeting was the third for Parsons and the school board in the last few weeks.

A salary of $12,000 for the first year, $13,000 the second year and $14,000 the third year was provided in the contract offer. Trustees also agreed to purchase an automobile for the superintendent's use and to pay expenses of moving his household goods to Big Spring.

Parsons said he wanted to confer with the Beeville school board before reaching a decision on the Big Spring job. He told the trustees a meeting with the Beeville board is planned for Friday night and he will give Big Spring officials his answer Friday.

During the talks which lasted from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Parsons outlined his "school philosophy," organizational plan and administrative practices.

He said he believes school administrators must be careful not to become so involved in finance, personnel and "other extraneous problems" that they lose sight of their objective.

"Every dime we spend must be for building schools purely in the interest of our boys and girls," he told the board.

He described his staff method of school administration, explaining that he expects to depend on principals and other members of the administrative staff in the formulation of policies of instruction.

This is accomplished at Beeville through weekly staff meetings and annual week-long staff "workshops," he said.

As for organizational changes in the Big Spring system, Parsons said he probably would study the operation for a year before making any major alterations.

Parsons declared he is confident he can "work in harmony" with W. C. Blankenship, retiring superintendent who will become a member of the school staff in a non-administrative capacity.

"I feel that he will be a great asset," he said. Blankenship is retiring and will become superintendent emeritus on June 30. He has been superintendent for 28 years. Parsons' contract would start July 1.

State Picture Held Favorable For Liberals

AUSTIN, March 3 (AP)—Texas' liberal Democrats may have their best chance this year since 1936 to elect a governor and seize control of the official party machinery.

Political professionals are wondering if they will muffle or come up with a smart double play to tag their old conservative enemies out at those two vital points.

Gov. Shivers cleared the political air considerably this week when he said he would not seek his fourth elective term. Some speculation remained that he could be induced later to run for the Senate.

Political pros are saying that if the liberals can get together on a single candidate in the July primary they might win the governorship without a runoff in the face of a conservative vote that seems bound to be split.

Former House Speaker Reuben Setteritt, a conservative, is an announced candidate. Sen. Price Daniel is expected to say on March 12 that he will run. He is a conservative. Another right wing candidate is Everts Haley. J. J. Holmes, another who says he will run, is an uncertain quantity politically who drew relatively few votes in 1954.

Presuming Daniel and Setteritt would both make strong bids and draw a great deal of conservative support, the liberals would do very well if they could concentrate on one man.

Yarborough has not said he would run, but he is regarded as an almost certain candidate. He would count largely on liberal support. So would Agriculture Commissioner John White if he runs. So would James Hart if he gets in the race.

Shivers' withdrawal was considered a tacit go-ahead for his friends to line up for Daniel with votes and significant and necessary financial backing. Some of it would also normally flow to Setteritt or other conservatives.

Arab Bloc Stirring Crisis In Mid-East

West Fears That Reds Will Move In

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb came home tonight urging that nothing be done to disturb friendly relations between Britain and Jordan, which fired him as its Arab Legion commander.

The fabulous desert soldier was sad-faced and tired as he stepped from his plane into a rainstorm. He told reporters he had no complaint about his treatment. Less than 53 hours earlier, King Hussein had summarily dismissed him.

But Britain was shocked by his dismissal. For years Glubb had personally symbolized British influence in the Middle East—an influence that now appears to be crumbling in a floodtide of Arab nationalism.

The little general will tell his story to Prime Minister Eden over the dinner table at Eden's country home, Chequers, tomorrow. U. S. Ambassador Winthrop W. Aldrich had lunch at Chequers today. Presumably Aldrich and Eden talked over the Middle East problems and the undoubted loss of Western initiative in that oil-rich region.

Wants 'Bi-Partisan' Rule Of Campaign Gift Inquiry

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today that, insofar as possible, Republicans and Democrats should have an equal voice in the direction of coming investigation of lobbying and campaign expenditures.

Bridges is the senior GOP member on a special committee set up to look into any improper or illegal attempts to influence senators or other government officials.

He has been working with Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) to hammer out an agreement on operating rules for the inquiry.

Gore is expected to be elected chairman and Bridges vice chairman of the eight-member committee, equally divided between Democrats and Republicans.

Bridges told newsmen that the Republican members of the committee "want a definite settlement of the rules before we elect a chairman, a vice chairman, and a counsel."

While no final agreement has been reached, both Bridges and Gore have reported progress since the first meeting of the committee last Wednesday bogged down in a partisan dispute over rules of procedure for the $350,000 investigation.

The investigation was ordered as a sequel to a separate inquiry into whether a $250,000 campaign contribution which Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) refused to accept from an oil company lobbyist was an attempt to influence his vote on the natural gas bill.

Lines Drawn In Farm Battle; Senate Will Ballot Thursday

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Riviera camps staked out conflicting victory claims today in the hot political battle over rigid vs. flexible farm price supports.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.), spokesman for a group that wants rigid mandatory supports restored, said in an interview "We ought to win by about five votes."

"I don't agree with him," said Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), who wants the present flexible supports continued. "My guess is that rigid supports will be defeated by from five to seven votes," Aiken told a reporter.

The Senate is under agreement to start voting Thursday. The initial test should come on a move by Sen. Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, to eliminate a rigid support provision for cotton, corn and peanuts from an omnibus bill that has been debated for most of the past two weeks.

Two years ago the Senate by a 49-44 margin voted to end rigid wartime supports and approved a system of lower, flexible supports. Those favoring the flexible supports then included 39 Republicans and 10 Democrats. On the losing side were 26 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

"We should win this time by about the same margin that we lost two years ago," Ellender said. "The other side is counting some senators who won't vote for them."

Aiken said the Senate is closely divided again but that he is confident of the final result as he was in 1954. So far only two senators have announced they have changed positions.

17 Lost As Jinxed Plane Goes Down

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—A U. S. Air Force Globemaster carrying 17 persons crashed in flames in the stormy Atlantic early today at the same jinxed spot where it almost ran into disaster a week ago.

Two bits of wreckage—a flame-scattered oxygen bottle and a shattered piece of smoked plywood—were picked up in the area where the giant military transport sounded its last frantic distress signal.

Lifelines, rescue ships and search planes pined steadily today and tonight over the area 250 miles southwest of Iceland in a waning hope of finding survivors.

Most of those aboard were Air Force personnel. The plane—a C124—was flying from Iceland to Goose Bay, Labrador, and New York with its ultimate destination Warner-Robbins Air Force Base in Georgia.

Just after midnight the plane radioed May Day—extreme distress—signals that three of its four engines were dead and that it was losing altitude rapidly. Then the radio went dead.

Last Saturday the same plane radioed from almost exactly the same position as today—that two of its engines were out and that it was preparing to ditch. But that incident had a thrilling—and happy—ending. While the pilot nursed his remaining two engines, air-sea rescue planes shepherded the ailing craft in to a safe landing at Keflavik base in Iceland.

King Hussein Gains Power In Arab World

BEIRUT, Lebanon, March 3 (AP)—Jordan's King Hussein fired Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb for refusing to reorganize his Arab Legion to meet a possible Israeli attack, his government's radio said today.

The King—hailed as a new hero of the Arab world—immediately drew a pledge of all-out aid from Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia "in event of aggression," a dispatch from Damascus reported.

The 20-year-old monarch's sun was rising in the tense Middle East as that of Britain—and the United States—sank lower.

The radio in Jordan's capital of Amman said Glubb was dismissed because he defied the King's demand that the legion be reorganized to meet any aggression from Israel on Jordan's Western frontier.

U. S. Trust Claim OK'd At $374,000

AUSTIN, March 3 (AP)—Unable to track down a mystery $90,000, the receiver for U. S. Trust and Guaranty Co. today secured court approval for $374,000 settlement of a claim against Arkansas Fire & Marine Insurance Co.

The total claim was $500,000—the amount U. S. Trust and Guaranty loaned on Aug. 8, 1955, for illegal formation of the Little Rock Insurance company by two former employees of U. S. Trust.

Arkansas Fire & Marine had spent $36,000 for business expenses when U. S. Trust was tossed in receivership Dec. 15.

Willis V. Lewis and J. H. Hope, the company organizers, have filed sworn affidavits they handed $90,000 in cash to A. B. Shoemaker, U. S. Trust president, between September and December last year.

State receiver J. D. Wheeler told Dist. Judge Charles O. Betts in 98th District Court his recommendation for settlement was based primarily on inability as of now to refute affidavits of Lewis and Hope that they gave Shoemaker the $90,000.

Wheeler told the judge: "To refute those affidavits, it's going to have to be done by Mr. Shoemaker, and he's not physically able to answer questions."

Lists Closed For City Races

The ballot for the city commission election April 3 was complete last night as the candidate filing deadline passed.

Five candidates, including all three incumbents, got into the race for three places on the commission. The filing deadline was at midnight.

Candidates for the school board still have two weeks in which to file. Three trustee posts also come up in this year's election, and so far there are three candidates. Deadline for getting a candidate's name on the school ballot is March 21.

Election of city commissioners will be held the first Tuesday in April—which this year is April 3—and the school board election will be on the first Saturday of the month—April 7.

Five candidates for three commission openings are Dr. Lee Rogers, Charles Reidy, and incumbents Alfred Goodson, Curtis Driver and Roy Bruce. City commissioners serve for two years.

Three men have entered the school board race. They are Joe B. Neely and incumbents Robert Stripling and Clyde Angel. R. E. McKinney, the third member of the board whose term expires this year, has not said whether he will run.

Settlement Is Proffered In Westinghouse Strike

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Government mediators today submitted a formal proposal to company and union for complete settlement of the 139-day Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike.

Details of the "package" plan were withheld, but it was reliably reported the proposition is to be made public in a few days whether or not it is accepted.

Mediators obviously held high hopes for acceptance. Representatives of the company and the striking International Union of Electrical Workers were asked to give their answers on Monday.

The settlement proposals were prepared by a three-man panel of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, after two weeks of steady work in an "all-out" drive to end the strike.

Director Joseph F. Finnegan, in a letter transmitting copies of the plan to company and union, said:

"The settlement recommendation terms are made on a package basis and constitute the considered judgment of the members of the panel, arrived at after careful consideration of all the factors involved in this complex situation."

All State Chiefs Invited To Wedding

MONTE CARLO, March 3 (AP)—The chiefs of state of all countries with which Monaco maintains relations have been invited to the wedding of Prince Rainier and Grace Kelly, a palace official said tonight.

That includes President Eisenhower, Queen Elizabeth of Britain, and other leaders of the 35 to 40 nations with which this tiny principality maintains domestic ties.

Mercury Slips In Middle West

By The Associated Press. A fast-moving cold front dropped temperatures into the 30s in parts of the Midwest Saturday, but no severe weather was in prospect.

In advance of the cooler air, showers and thunderstorms sprinkled Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and parts of the Southeast.

Showers also dampened parts of Oregon and snow fell in Washington in the wake of gale winds that lashed these areas Friday night.

There were snow flurries in the northern Rockies. Midday temperatures ranged from 87 at Laredo, Tex., to 17 at International Falls, Minn.

Big Springers Hurt In Mishap

ROBERT LEE, March 3—Jerry Scott, 23, said to be stationed at Webb Air Force Base, is in the Robert Lee Hospital with painful back and shoulder injuries as a result of a car accident 7 miles southwest of here at 7 p.m.

Three other youths, whose homes are said to be in Big Spring, were in the car but were not injured.

Deputy Sheriff O. B. Jacobs, Coke County, said the owner and driver of the car was Doss B. Vaster, Big Spring.

He said that Vaster told him that he had just bought the car Saturday in Big Spring.

Names of the two other men in the car were not available. The car was demolished.

Jacobs said that the youths were en route to Oak Creek Lake, near Bronte, to go fishing. The car failed to make a curve on Highway 138 and turned over.

Mental Health Meet

SAN ANTONIO, March 3 (AP)—Dr. Virginia Hufstetler of Austin was named president-elect of the Texas Society for Mental Health at the closing business session of the convention here today.

Dr. Hufstetler, who has been in the field of education administration and sociology, is a graduate of the University of Texas and is a teacher at Beeville.

Pa. sons said he has completed 18 semester hours of work toward his doctorate. His two degrees are in the fields of education administration and sociology.

The conservative Shivers group would be delighted to see the liberals split—both in the race for the governorship and in the battle for control of the precinct conventions.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons have three children. Lou Anne, a high school senior; Bill, a freshman, and Paul, 4 years of age. Mrs. Parsons also is a member of the Beeville Kiwanis Club, and is a deacon in the Baptist Church. He is a member of numerous teachers' school administrators' organizations and has held various offices in the associations.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week With Joe Pickle

For potential import on activities, we would rate the Strawn completion of the Stanolind No. 1 Stevenson, nine miles northeast of Big Spring, as tops in the news last week in becoming the country's first distillate months have gas producer, the well made 140 barrels of super-high gravity oil and three million cubic feet of gas per day. Of course, only big boys can play at this depth, but this ought to stir up considerable activity.

Although the tempo dropped off sharply from the January boom, building held steady at $315,000 for February, pushing the year's total to about $1,100,000. Postal receipts held the margin of a five per cent gain established in January.

About the only unpromising element was the elements—the weather, that is. So far this year has been acting suspiciously like 1953. The first two months have accounted for only 37 of moisture, about a fourth of normal for that period. The total since September is 2.37 inches, or about 70 per cent below normal. No wonder we get a duster with every breeze.

Business men have an opportunity to repay the visit of teachers last autumn—and the occasion is B-E Day on Tuesday. Around two score laymen have indicated they will go back to school for that day, inspect facilities and see how teachers teach.

Record With Perfect Scores

Five members of the Drivers Education Class at Junior High School have set a record—locally and possibly statewide for 14-year-old drivers—by making a perfect score on state tests. Shown with them here are their instructors, John Moreland, left, and Jack Everett. In the car is Longenia Smith, while Esco Hamlin, Phillip Riddle and Joe Moring are standing. Jeanette Culwell, who also had a perfect score, was out of town at the time the picture was taken.

Special Events Scheduled By New 'Hot Rodders' Club

Two special events have been scheduled by the Aces Auto Club, the organization sponsored by the YMCA for young "hot rod" operators. At the meeting Friday evening at the YMCA, with the advisory council, club members set March 25 as the date for an invitational "reliability run." Object of this unique test will be to judge ability of the drivers to estimate his speed and to engage in certain specified practices. On May 12, the club plans to sponsor an automobile show. In the meantime, sponsors are assisting in the search for some garage accommodations so the boys will have a place to work on their automobiles.

Paul Holden and Gordon Myrick will represent the club Tuesday at the Citizens Traffic Commission meeting to receive a certificate of appreciation from Ed Ware, police chapter chairman, for the club's car washing project during the MOD drive. Sponsors attending were Sgt. O. E. Bice, George Oldham, executive secretary of the CTC, Chief of Police Conrad L. Rogers and Clyde McMahon, Y president.

Fish Poison Said Unsafe

AUSTIN (AP)—Toxaphene, a new poison for killing unwanted fish, poses a threat to humans, stock and wildlife if used incorrectly, the Game Commission's chief aquatic biologist warned today.

Marion Toole said technicians are "going slow" about embracing some of the new poison creations. He said toxaphene has been widely heralded as an improvement over rotenone for treating over-populated fresh water lakes, streams and tanks.

The principal recommendation for toxaphene was that it killed everything in the treated water area at a much cheaper cost. Reports indicate effect of the mixture might be lasting in some waters in Texas, thus making these locations unfit for fish for years to come, said Toole. He urged that toxaphene "never be used without advice from one of our qualified aquatic biologists."

Water Consumption Is On The Rise

With the temperature rising, the city's water consumption has been accordingly rising.

Average daily water consumption for the month of February was about 2,800,000 gallons.

But during the first two days of March—Thursday and Friday—the amount almost doubled.

Thursday's total was 4,094,000 gallons, the city water department reported, and then Friday, the consumption jumped to 4,370,000 gallons.

Do-It-Yourself Injures 700,000

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Some 700,000 Americans are injured each year in do-it-yourself job accidents which, in many cases, end up as being more expensive than if professionals had done the work, a safety expert said.

"The accident rate is further boosted in the home accident field by a growing women's auxiliary corps of home fixers," added Arthur A. Burroughs, a safety engineering expert for the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co.

Lamesa Sells $101,000 Bonds

LAMESA, March 3 — Lamesa City Council Friday sold $101,000 in waterworks and sewer revenue bonds. Purchasers were the Central Investment Co. and First Southwest Co.

Interest rate on $15,000 of the bonds will be 2 1/2 per cent and on the balance 3 1/4 per cent.

The city council authorized City Manager Carroll Taylor to proceed at once with engineering plans to seal coat several streets in the city.

He was also instructed to proceed with plans to pave North Main Street between N. 4th and N. 7th.

Preliminary study for water and sewer lines north of the Essie Moore Addition and the Main Street Addition were authorized.

British Official In Huddle With Nehru

NEW DELHI, Indian, March 3 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd conferred today with Prime Minister Nehru after flying here from the troubled Middle East. Official sources said one of the main topics in the 2½-hour meeting was the Baghdad Pact, a chief cause of friction between some Arab states and the West. In the past Nehru has denounced the pact, among whose members are Britain and Pakistan. India and Pakistan are at odds over several points, including the future status of Kashmir. The informants gave this account of today's talks: Nehru and Lloyd gave their governments' views on military pacts generally and the Baghdad Pact in particular. Nehru often has criticized all military blocs. The two also discussed Indochina, including Red China's request for another full-scale Geneva conference on the situation there. Nehru reportedly told Lloyd India prefers a meeting of the cochairmen for the Geneva talks, including Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, rather than another full-dress 19-nation parley. The other cochairman, Britain's Sir Anthony Eden, now is prime minister and presumably would be replaced by Lloyd under the Nehru plan. Meanwhile, the Indian radio broadcast a recorded talk by Lloyd on the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. He called them "purely defensive in character." Earlier today Lloyd's party stopped at Bahrain, oil-rich British protectorate island in the Persian Gulf. An angry mob of 1,000 persons stoned their automobiles, members of the party said. No one was hurt. The demonstrators shouted, "Down with Britain!"

They are Robert Earl Garver, son of Clayton Garver, 1401 W. 2nd, and Raymond LeRoy Spencer, son of Iver Spencer. They have been sent to Great Lakes Training Center for their training.

Stevenson Argues Anew For 90 Pct. Parity Price Support

MINNEAPOLIS, March 3 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, continuing his drive for support in the March 20 Minnesota presidential primary, said today more than the soil bank program is needed to check falling farm income. "We are going to need price supports at 90 per cent of parity," he told an audience of more than 600, most of them farmers, in Litchfield, 70 miles west of here. "We need a program of farm credit which will help the farmers get loans at fairer interest rates. We need a farm program which is administered by democratically-elected committees of farmers to administer the price support, storage, acreage allotment, crop inurance and conservation payment plans. "Above all, the entire farm program must be in the hands of people who really want to do something about the farm problem instead of sitting on their hands." The former Illinois governor accused the Eisenhower administration of failing in its job toward education. In earlier talks in communities north and west of Minneapolis—Big Lake and Waverly—Stevenson said the Republican administration is "seeking to sabotage" the Rural Electrification Administration by denying funds, and renewed his discussion of President Eisenhower's health as a campaign issue. "Is the presidency to be a full time job or a part time job?" he asked. "Is it to be a chairman of the board? Are we to have government by committee? Are we to have government by advisory board? This is a new dimension that has been introduced into this campaign." Monday and Tuesday Stevenson goes to western Minnesota in a contest with Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) for Minnesota's 39 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Ike Spends Time With Old Friend

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower spent several hours at his desk in the White House today but had no official appointments. He did talk for about 30 minutes with an old Army friend, retired Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, former undersecretary of state who is now in private industry.

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—Anthony Head, British war minister, said today he is leaving London during the weekend for a two-week tour of army units and installations in the turbulent Middle East.

To Try Again For State Job

AUSTIN, March 3 (AP)—C. T. Johnson, who failed in his bid to win the lieutenant governor's race in 1954, said today he will again seek that office. Johnson, 45, said he would begin an active campaign within the next few weeks and planned to visit every Texas county. The only other announced candidate is state Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey has not told of his plans but is reported ready to run again. Johnson has a $36,000 suit against Ramsey and Vernon Sanford of the Texas Press Assn. asserting they conspired to evade the law on reporting campaign expenses in the 1954 race. Sanford was indicted on two counts this week by the Waco grand jury charging the TPA's general manager with making "unlawful campaign contributions" to Ramsey's 1954 campaign funds.

TB Association To Name Officers

A buffet dinner will be served at the annual meeting of the Howard County TB Association Thursday at 7 p.m. in the ballroom of the Settles Hotel. Members will elect new officers and directors. Jewel Barton, city-county health nurse, has arranged for two former patients of TB hospitals to discuss the program of activities in some of the institutions. A special guest will be Linnie H. Davidson of the Midland County TB Association. The meeting is open to all, with tickets priced at $1.50 each.

Hunting-Fishing Licenses At Peak

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Americans are doing more hunting and fishing than ever. The government reported today the states issued 33,046,361 licenses in the year ended last June 30. This beat the previous record of 32,654,199, set the year before. Hunters and fishermen paid $86,655,113 for licenses, tags and stamps.

Pan-American 'Summit' Parley Slated March 26

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The chiefs of state of the United States, Canada and Mexico will confer informally on mutual problems March 26-28. The site of this "summit" session will be the Greenbrier Hotel at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. A formal White House announcement today confirmed the date and site of the meeting among President Eisenhower, President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico, and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada. The Greenbrier had figured in earlier reports that Eisenhower wanted the meeting in an informal setting which would promote friendly talk and cut down on ceremony. The meeting apparently will be without formal agenda, but will provide each country a chance to bring up problems on which it feels mutual discussion is needed. Eisenhower, using his two-engine light plane, will fly directly to the Greenbrier airport about midday March 26 and will return to Washington two days later. Both Ruiz Cortines and St. Laurent will arrive in four-engine planes at Roanoke, Va., and drive to the meeting site.

Knife, Fork Club Stimulates Thinking, Informs Members

Good companionship and friendly conversation; an informal forum for a general exchange of views and for absorption of new thoughts from the "outside"—

These, in general are some of the things brought about through membership in the Knife and Fork Club, an organization that has been functioning smoothly in Big Spring for some seven years.

It differs from familiar service clubs in the respect that it undertakes no civic missions, does not call upon its membership for extra projects, wages no campaigns.

The general idea behind the Knife and Fork Club—and members find it entertaining and educational—is to bring about a gathering of people whose interests are varied enough to prompt them to keep up with what's going on in the world, and to stimulate thinking along democratic lines.

The dinner club as it is generally known today dates back to 1898 when Herbert Hadley, who later became governor of Missouri, and some of his Kansas City friends held an informal dinner for the president of an Eastern university who was stopping there on his way west.

The exchange of ideas was stimulating, so much so that dinner sessions of the sort began to grow. Meetings were held in Kansas City until the "Knife and Fork" club resulted.

This idea grew until it became nationally chartered. In the 20's there were about 29 cities in the organization, but when the national secretary died, the movement fell dormant.

E. M. Avery, one of the founders of the Lincoln Knife and Fork Club, and Benjamin Franklin, active in the old chautauqua field, joined in reorganizing the Knife and Fork International, in 1936. Ten years later, the Associated Clubs, Inc., was founded to serve as a central organization for all such units, some of which had been functioning under names other than the Knife and Fork.

The Big Spring Knife and Fork came into being in 1949, with Lewis Price, one of those assisting in the organization, as its first president. Membership quickly was successful since.

Presidents of the organization, following Price, have been Dr. P. W. Malone, Dan Krausse, Dick Simpson, Dr. Lee Rogers, Dr. C. B. Marcum, and John Taylor Jr., who currently is in office.

The present board of directors, with Taylor and Marcum, includes Mrs. Allen R. Hamilton, Mrs. E. H. Boullion, C. O. Valley, K. H. McGibbon, Dr. W. A. Hunt and Elmer Tarbox.

There are 153 "dual" memberships now, accounting for 306 people. The idea has been from the beginning to accept a membership as large as a local banquet hall can accommodate. In Big Spring's case the Settles ballroom. There has been nothing "exclusive" about the organization, and applications for memberships have been accepted as rapidly as there was room for them.

Since it is seldom that the full membership can attend one single function, the Knife and Fork Club is able now to receive new members. At times there has been a waiting list.

Initiation fees are $20 per dual membership, and half this sum goes to the national organization for its services. These include assistance in lining up a season's slate of speakers, dissemination of information about affiliated clubs, and making available guest facilities of members when they are in other Knife and Fork towns. Annual dues after the first year are $10. Members pay $2.50 each for each dinner session, this covering cost of meal and club administrative items.

Ordinarily, six engagements per year are scheduled, in October and November, and in January, February, March and April.

A varied array of lecturers, humorists and entertainers of different appeal usually makes up a year's program, chosen by the club's board of directors, in keeping with member preferences, availability of certain personalities, the club, budget, etc.

The local club has had such people as Dr. Walter H. Judd, Sydney R. Montague, Robert Kasnauer, John Morley, and Dr. Gerald Wendt.

There have been lectures on the future of science, on world affairs, on national issues; there have been humorists, and novelty entertainers. Almost without exception, they have been pleasing to members. Regardless of the topic or the nature of the evening's program, a meal amid pleasant surroundings, good companionship, and an enlightening program, have combined to make the Knife and Fork Club meetings a relaxing pleasure.

Taft Bloc Will Help Ike--With Reservations

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Sen. Alken (R-Vt.) said today that supporters of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft should play an active part in effort to re-elect President Eisenhower "but we're not going to turn the campaign over to them."

Alken's comment was made in an interview in reply to suggestions of Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) that room be made for more members of the Taft wing of the party in the Eisenhower administration and in the party campaign organization.

Knowland, a prospective candidate for the GOP presidential nomination until Eisenhower announced he was available, was personally picked by Taft as his successor as Senate Republican leader. Alken is a member of the Senate GOP Policy Committee who classes himself as a liberal Republican.

It is all right with him, Alken said, to give Taft's backers representation. But he said he felt it would be a mistake to grant what he called the "extreme right wing" any determining voice in the formation of campaign strategy.

"Bob Taft himself was far to the left of some of the people who tried to make him their idol," Alken declared. "He certainly did not stand for some of the things they support in the name of conservatism."

"It is all right to have this viewpoint represented in the party councils, but we are not going to turn the campaign over to them."

Knowland observed that in calling for greater participation by Taft's followers he was reflecting "a feeling in some parts of the country that the Taft people are being ignored." He said he plans to carry this complaint to President Eisenhower himself.

"The people I am talking about are regular organization members or were until they were moved out," Knowland said. "They are not after jobs, they merely want to help in the campaign and have their viewpoint recognized."

National 4-H Week Observance Opens

Howard County's 333 4-H Club members and its 40 adult leaders have sounded a call to all residents of the county to join with them in observation of National 4-H Club Week.

The week officially opened Saturday and closes on next Sunday. County Judge R. H. Weaver has officially proclaimed the week in Howard County and in his proclamation urged every resident to devote his time this week to better informing himself on the work and objectives of the 4-H organization.

Across all of Texas and over the entire nation similar observances of the week are under way. In Texas, 121,044 boys and girls will join the 2,100,000 members of the organization in all of the 48 states in celebration of the week.

Jimmy Taylor, Howard County Agent, said that objectives of the week is to provide members a special occasion for looking backward at past achievements and making plans for future activities on their farms, in their homes and communities.

A second purpose is to inform the public of the value of 4-H training; to recognize the contributions of local leaders and to enlist the support of public-spirited, youth-minded citizens in leadership roles.

Emphasis will be laid this week on the 1956 4-H theme — "Improving Family and Community Living."

Special work will also be done during the week to enroll additional boys and girls in local 4-H clubs.

Taylor said that Howard County, in accord with all of the counties of the state and over the nation, is to have a week-long program of in observance of the occasion. As these events develop, a cordial invitation is to be extended to all parents and others to attend and participate.

The present 4-H clubs are the development which came from corn clubs for boys and tomato clubs for girls. These organizations made their appearance in 1908. The first corn club in Texas was organized by a county agent in Jack County. The late Tom Marks was the founder of this organization.

Out of that small beginning has come the organizations which now covers every county in Texas and which boasts of its enrollment of more than 121,000 farm boys and girls.

Today's 4-H Clubs have a much broader field of activity than was probably envisioned by Marks when he succeeded in forming that first-corn club nearly half a century ago.

Modern 4-H Club members conduct demonstrations which touch every phase of farming, ranching and home life. Their classrooms are their farms, ranches and homes in Texas.

In their work, they learn by doing.

Contribution of 4-H clubs to betterment of agricultural conditions in the state and in the nation can hardly be overstressed.

The benefits the members derive from their membership are many. Not only do they learn how to farm scientifically and produce the best possible products, they also become extremely proficient in many other ways. The club activities develop sportsmanship, the ability to work together; a spirit of confidence in the member and a skill at expressing himself when occasion arises for him to voice his opinion.

Many of the nation's outstanding farmers and stockmen of today are former 4-H Club members who were first impelled to follow that profession by the lessons they learned as club members.

LARGE TRANSFORMER INSTALLED EAST OF BIG SPRING
 Giant unit is one of largest in Texas Electric Service system.

TES Installs Huge 168-Ton Transformer

One of the largest pieces of electrical equipment ever shipped into the Big Spring area has been installed at Texas Electric Service Company's Big Spring switching station, according to R. L. Beale, district manager.

The equipment is a new 168-ton transformer. The transformer changes electrical voltage from 138,000 to 66,000 volts and has been installed in conjunction with the new 137-mile, 138,000-volt transmission line between Big Spring and Graham. The switching station is two miles east of Big Spring.

The transformer has a rated capacity of 80,000 kilovolt-amperes and will provide additional electric power for future growth and expansion of the Big Spring area, Beale said.

Various parts of the giant transformer were shipped here by rail, and Texas Electric Service Company men assembled the transformer at the switching station.

The transformer contains 13,692 gallons of special insulating oil. The oil was shipped in two tank cars from a refinery on the Texas Gulf Coast.

Beale said the transformer is one of the largest on the company's power system.

No Intention To Bar Jews, Truman Says

KANSAS CITY, March 3 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today there was no intention of barring American Jews from a U. S. Air Force base in Saudi Arabia when the United States signed a mutual defense assistance pact with the nation five years ago.

The point was raised by the New York Post which said the 1951 pact between the United States and Saudi Arabia contained a clause that the United States would not include among members of its military mission or civilian employees "any individual who is objectionable to the Saudi Arabian government."

"There never was any intention of barring Jews," Truman said today when asked about the 1951 pact. "It is the same sort of wording that is included in almost every agreement of that kind."

In New York, the Post said Truman told it also "there never was any intention of barring Jews. I'm sure of that."

On Feb. 24 the Defense Department said no Jews are assigned to the Dhahran air field although no groups are named in the pact as objectionable to Saudi Arabia.

At a recent news conference Secretary of State Dulles said the agreement was an "inheritance" from previous Democratic administrations.

50 Couples Want Homeless Children

The task is not to find a home for the four youngsters who were ruled dependent and neglected children in District Court on Friday.

Rather, the problem is to assign the two children left of the group (two have already been placed) and satisfy more than 50 couples who are eager to adopt them.

Harvey Hooser, county attorney, faced this difficult but inspiring task over the weekend.

When a report of the plight of the youngsters was printed Friday, Hooser's phone began to ring. It continued to ring steadily on into the night.

He estimated that between 2 p.m. and midnight, at least 50 couples had called and manifested a desire to adopt the four little waifs.

Meantime, there were only two left. The younger pair of the four were already claimed and spent Friday night happily in the home of their foster parents.

The proud parents reported that the youngsters showed amazing adaptability to their new surroundings. They played contentedly until bedtime, marched quietly to their new rooms and slept soundly. Saturday morning they were up and about, happily inspecting things, investigating new and wonderful playthings and manifesting no disturbance over the fact that they have been separated from their real parents forever.

The two older children, a little girl of 8, and a boy who is 9 were at the home of their uncle and aunt.

Hooser said that he hopes that he can find some couple willing to adopt both of these children.

"The two younger children," he said, "are now in the same home and will be together as they always have. Now, I want to place the two older ones in the same way."

"If it wasn't for this plan, I could have found homes yesterday for both of them. I feel that they will be happier if they can be kept together."

He said he knew of two Big Spring families who are definitely interested in this idea and his program for the weekend was to let these prospective parents see the children, talk to them and make a decision.

"I am certain," he said, "that the youngsters will all be in good homes by Monday night."

He said that the phone calls he received about the children included several long distance calls. These were the ones that came late in the night.

"It was a very happy experience," Hooser said, "I know now that the inherent goodness that is in so many people. The promptness of the response indicates the kindness of good men and women and it's a most inspiring thing to consider."

The four children, abandoned by their parents in an Odessa trailer house, were brought before Judge Charlie Sullivan on Friday by their aunt and uncle. These relatives have had to rescue the youngsters many times in the past when their mother and father had abandoned them.

Judge Charlie Sullivan heard the testimony and ruled the children dependent and neglected. Hooser, who presented the case to the court, immediately began his campaign to find new homes for them.

They were trapped for a time in the wreckage, but got out. The Beechcraft Bonanza was piloted by C. U. McClellan of Pittsburg, Kan., en route from Pittsburg to Hobbs, N. M. His passengers were his brother, R. R. McClellan and Fred Doss of Pittsburg.

Is There a Cure for Diabetes?
 There is no cure for diabetes. Ever since diabetes was discovered about 1552 B.C., some 200 years before the birth of King Tut, charlatans have claimed they had a "cure." Beware of all such claims. In 1921, however, a dependable treatment, although not a cure, was developed for diabetes. This preparation is Insulin. Your physician is thoroughly familiar with this product and how it is employed to control diabetes. If he finds Insulin necessary in your case, we can supply it in exactly the right strength.

Big Tire Burglary Reported At Loraine

Sheriff Jess Slaughter has been notified by authorities at Loraine that burglars had looted a store there of 30 new Firestone tires sometime Friday night.

The tires are all white wall and are of various sizes.

The Howard County officials were asked to assist Mitchell County officers in locating the stolen casings.

Mishap Is Fatal

FORT WORTH, March 3 (AP)—Walter Lanham, 49, of Dallas was killed early today when his car tumbled down a 20-foot embankment off Highway 80 half a mile west of Arlington. The car failed to make a curve.

He said he knew of two Big Spring families who are definitely interested in this idea and his program for the weekend was to let these prospective parents see the children, talk to them and make a decision.

"I am certain," he said, "that the youngsters will all be in good homes by Monday night."

He said that the phone calls he received about the children included several long distance calls. These were the ones that came late in the night.

"It was a very happy experience," Hooser said, "I know now that the inherent goodness that is in so many people. The promptness of the response indicates the kindness of good men and women and it's a most inspiring thing to consider."

The four children, abandoned by their parents in an Odessa trailer house, were brought before Judge Charlie Sullivan on Friday by their aunt and uncle. These relatives have had to rescue the youngsters many times in the past when their mother and father had abandoned them.

Judge Charlie Sullivan heard the testimony and ruled the children dependent and neglected. Hooser, who presented the case to the court, immediately began his campaign to find new homes for them.

They were trapped for a time in the wreckage, but got out. The Beechcraft Bonanza was piloted by C. U. McClellan of Pittsburg, Kan., en route from Pittsburg to Hobbs, N. M. His passengers were his brother, R. R. McClellan and Fred Doss of Pittsburg.

Is There a Cure for Diabetes?
 There is no cure for diabetes. Ever since diabetes was discovered about 1552 B.C., some 200 years before the birth of King Tut, charlatans have claimed they had a "cure." Beware of all such claims. In 1921, however, a dependable treatment, although not a cure, was developed for diabetes. This preparation is Insulin. New County Salary Scale Due Approval

County Commissioners Court is scheduled to approve the new schedule of salaries for county officials and their deputies at the regular meeting of the court on Monday.

Lee Porter, county auditor, said that no change in plans has developed insofar as he has heard and that he assumed the commissioners would proceed with the project as planned.

County Judge R. H. Weaver, in announcing the proposed new salaries said there were one or two items on the list which the commissioners may want to consider further but that he believed the proposed schedule would be adopted much as it was announced.

No protests have been lodged and apparently, officials said, the proposal meets with public acceptance.

Weaver was out of town Saturday and none of the commissioners was in the court house.

The new schedule increases the salaries of all of the regularly elected county officials from $440 to $500 a month with the exception of the county treasurer. Pay for this office was increased from $350 to $400.

County commissioners salaries were increased $42 per month from $300 to $342.

All deputies in the several offices will get increases which vary with their positions.

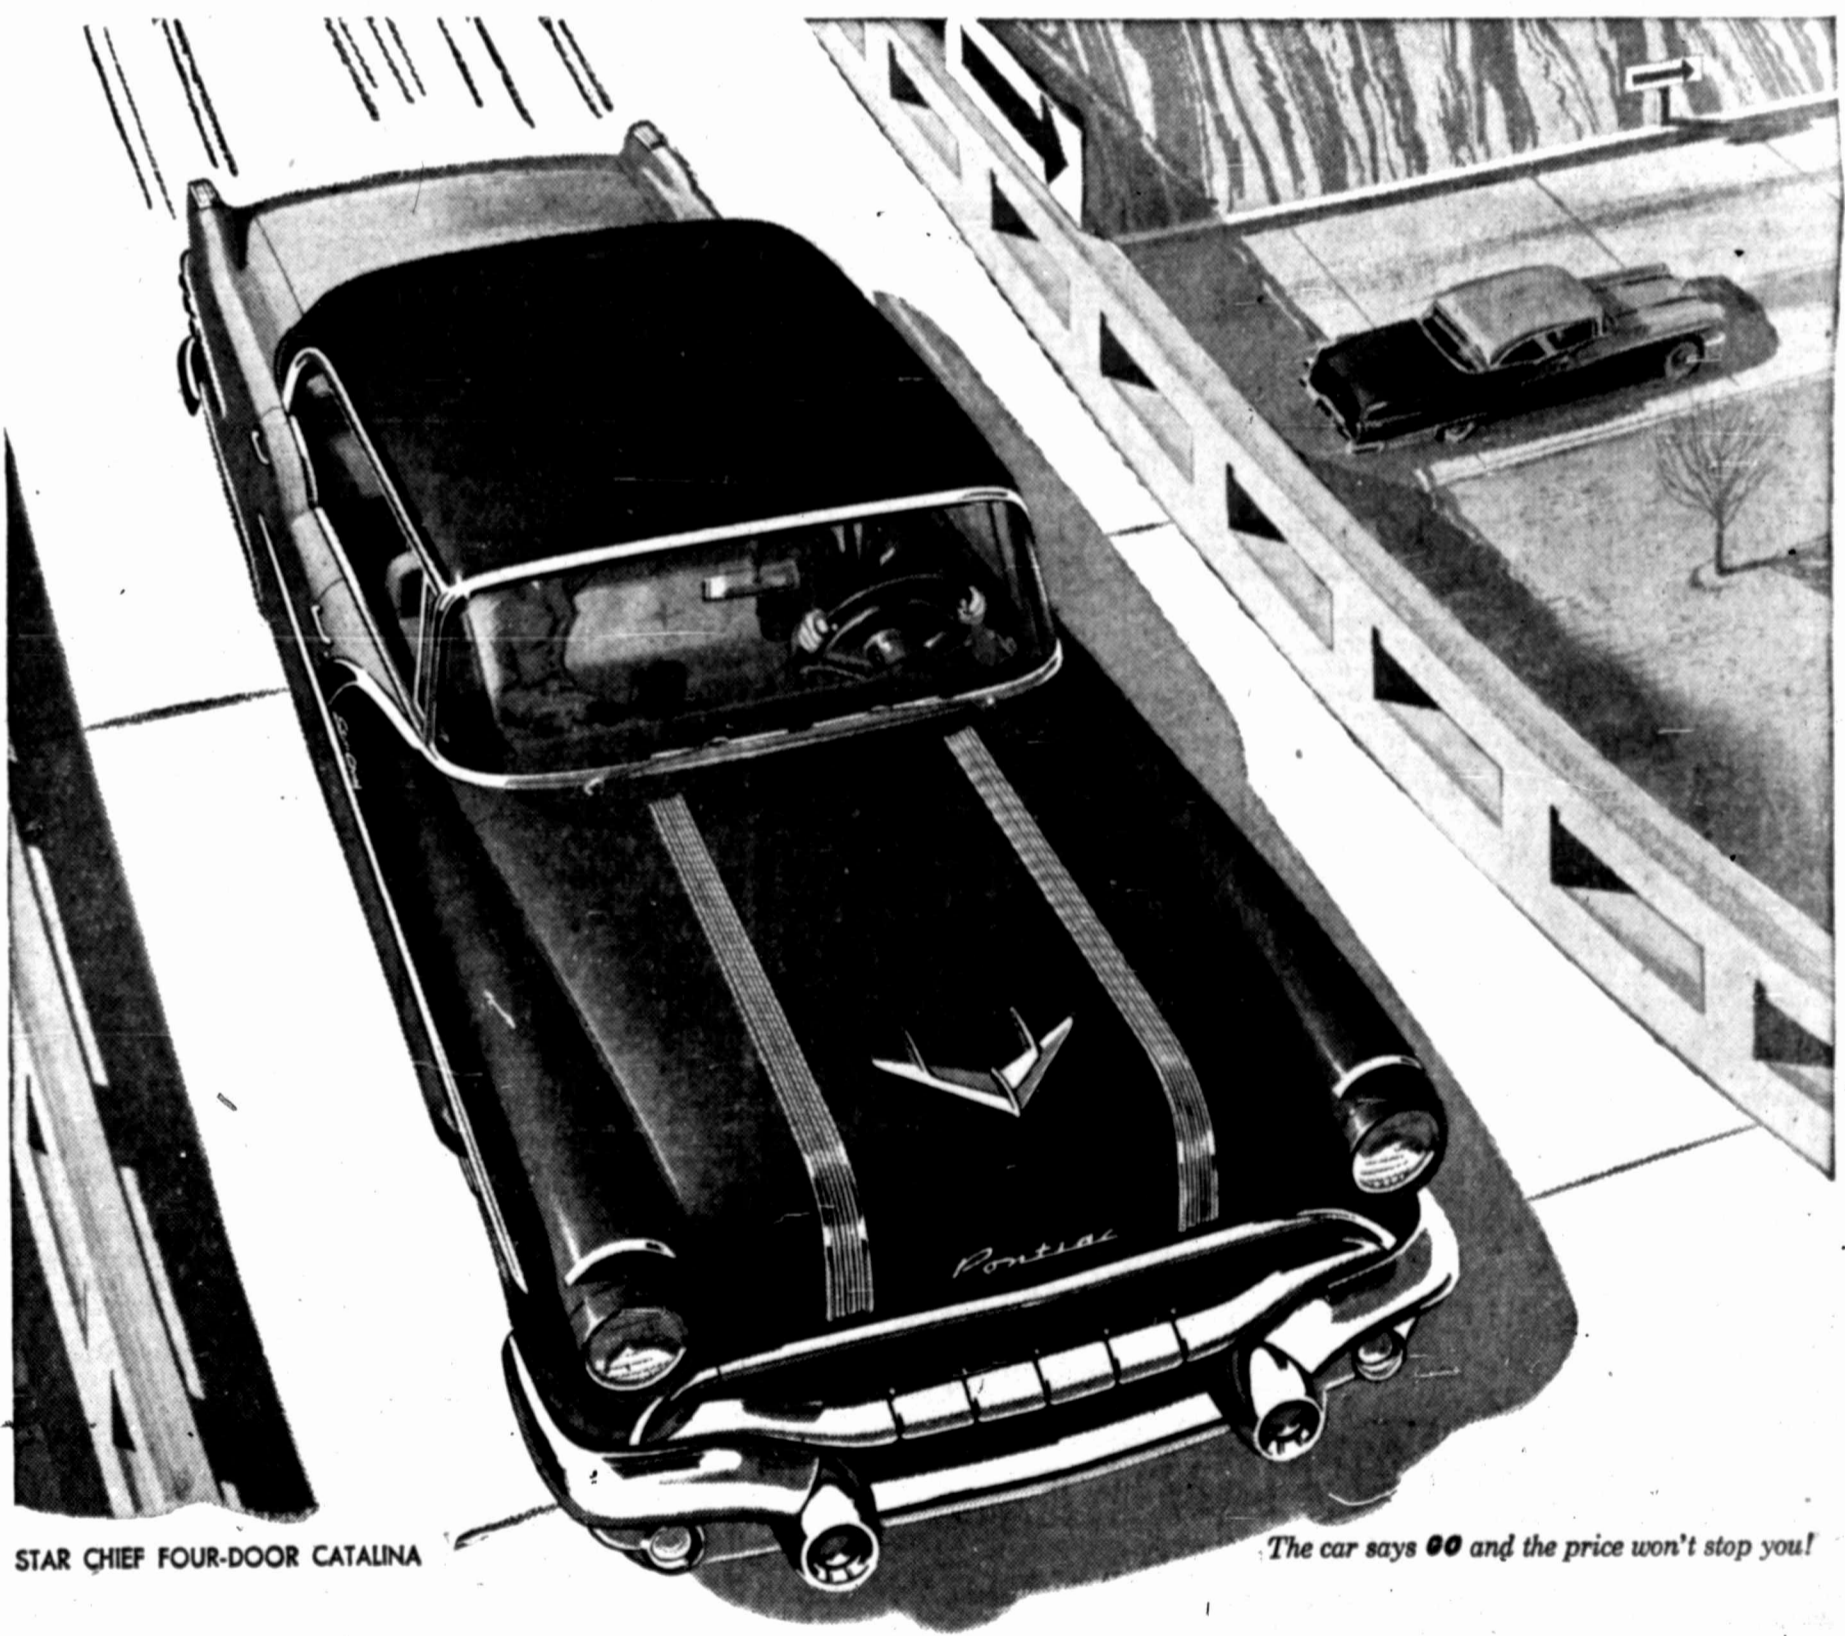

Weaver estimated the overall increase at 14 per cent.

After the commissioners approve the new pay rates, as they are expected to do Monday, official advertisement of the resolution will be posted. The plan is to make the new pay rate effective as of March 1 and applicable for the remaining 10 months of the year.

Nixon Top Favorite Among GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Vice President Nixon is a 131-choice for a second term among Republican party leaders taking a definite for or against stand at this point.

The ratio is even more lopsided—16-1—if those who want him to remain in office are counted in the Nixon camp. Eisenhower isn't saying at the moment.

An Associated Press poll of organization Republicans—governors, state chairmen, and national committee men and women—showed today that few more are uncommitted than those who should run with Ike. Like Eisenhower, many of the uncommitted have kind words for the vice president.

Only a few GOP leaders say they prefer somebody other than Nixon.

None of the organization regulars attack him outright. Those who speak well of him vary their expressions from "nice" to "wonderful." Some attribute to him such virtues as "tact, capability, great humility, youth, courage, smartness, energy, integrity, intelligence." Some contend he has been a victim of Democratic "smears" because of his opposition to "radicals" and because he is "dangerous on the platform."

The survey brought responses from 112 out of 165 GOP organization leaders—two out of three—in almost all states. It shows:

If the views of governors prevailed, or of state chairmen in the absence of governors, Nixon would go into the convention in August as the odds-on favorite for renomination. He still would lack enough sure votes to win.

The vice president seems to have his strongest backing in the South and West—except in his home state of California.

An unusual and perhaps significant fact is that none of the four top party leaders in California is endorsing him. Nixon has feuded with Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who may have some thought about the vice presidency himself. Knight said: "The vice president is up to the President and the Republican convention and I have no comment."

There is no solid support in California or elsewhere for anybody else, either in preference to Nixon or as second choice to him.

A scattering mention was made of 16 other possibilities, mostly on a home-state, favorite-son basis.

The name of Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts, popped up more frequently than any other; three times in his home state, as well as in Florida and New Hampshire. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey was mentioned in Ohio, Georgia and Missouri.

The only others named more than once were former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, in Colorado and Nevada; and Sen. Knowland of California, in Ohio and Oklahoma.

One Republican official from the Far West, who favors Nixon publicly, says privately he would like to see a Southern Democrat nominated in an effort to bring about a party realignment on the basis of beliefs instead of labels.

Participating in the poll were 20 of the 21 Republican governors, 39 of the 48 state chairmen, 33 of whom also are members of the national committee; 32 of the 48 regular committeemen; and 21 of the 48 committeewomen.

Their current position on Eisenhower's running mate is this:

Noncommittal or not commenting, 60, or 54 per cent.

For Nixon, 39, or 35 per cent.

For Nixon if Ike is, 10, or 9 per cent.

For others, 3, or less than 3 per cent.

Among those getting honorable mention in the event Nixon isn't the vice presidential nominee were Gov. Knight, Gov. Langlie of Washington, Gov. Craig of Indiana former Gov. Dewey of New York, presidential assistant Harold E. Stassen, U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Sens. Bridges of New Hampshire, Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Bricker of Ohio, and Rep. Halleck of Indiana.

Eisenhower, Nixon Have Had A Confab

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon have talked with each other since Eisenhower announced on Wednesday he is willing to run for a second term.

Word that they had met came today from Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, in answer to questions about a report in the New York Herald Tribune that Nixon had discussed his political future with the President on at least one occasion this week.

The story added that Nixon also had conferred privately with a number of close friends, including Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

There have been reports that some Republicans would like to see Eisenhower choose another running mate this year on grounds that Nixon, constant target of Democratic attack, is too controversial a figure.

The President himself at his Wednesday news conference paid warm tribute to Nixon but declined an opportunity to say he wants Nixon on the ticket again. Eisenhower said it is traditional for the vice presidential nomination to await the party convention's decision on a presidential candidate.

Snyder told reporters the President talked with Nixon a number of times during yesterday's Cabinet meeting. But Snyder added he did not know what they discussed or whether the two had talked privately.

Nixon is known to have seen Hall at least once since the President made his second-term announcement. The GOP chairman lunched with Nixon at the Capitol Thursday, but on this occasion, too, there was no report as to what they discussed.

CTC To Hear City Engineer, Present Award

Monthly meeting of the Citizens' Traffic Commission will be held at the courthouse Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., with the program including a talk by the city engineer, C. N. Bellamy, and presentation of a certificate to the Aces Auto Club.

Bellamy will give a report to the Commission on a week-long traffic engineering course he attended recently at College Station.

The Aces Auto Club will be presented a certificate of appreciation for their contribution toward the March of Dimes campaign. The T&P Ladies Safety Council, the T&P ladies group has been responsible for bringing a safety film to Big Spring for showings to school students from the first grade through high school.

The Commission will discuss sending delegates to state and national safety conventions. The President's Committee for Traffic Safety (southern region) convention will be staged in Miami Beach May 14 and 15. Each city is allotted two delegates.

In addition, the CTC is invited to send representatives to the Texas Safety Conference and Governor's Highway Safety Conference in Dallas March 25-27. Jack Smith and Paul Holden will be attending the conference representing Costen.

THE WEEK

made, we are in for the bloodiest year in history on highways in the vicinity. Howard County had its ninth traffic fatality of the year on Wednesday, and a Big Spring man, Roy E. Black, was hurt fatally in another county. In all, we had seven killed within an arc of 35 miles northwest to northeast of here.

Howard County Junior College had an unusually large array of honor students who won awards at a special assembly Wednesday. They had an unusually sharp speaker, too, in Dr. W. R. Woolrich, dean of the University of Texas, who urged them to use their heads—or as he put it, exercise creativeness, and inventiveness.

Martin County boys have a penchant for winning capon shows. They barely missed the title at Houston, but Delbert Donaldson did have the reserve bird, and Bobby Carille had the third place capon. Butch Haggard broke all records for size with his three, judged the top trio of the show.

The big show of the year for Boy Scouts comes up this weekend at the Round Up grounds southeast of the City Park area. If the weather is good, officials are expecting more than 1,200 boys and leaders to camp out Friday and Saturday, and engage in a round of contests. Visitors are welcome.

Young people in the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs acquitted themselves quite nobly at the area concert last weekend in Wichita Falls. Sue Boykin was elected first vice president, Bill French won the talent contest, Richard Engle the speakers event, and had there been a sweepstakes sports competition, they would have won it.

School trustees interviewed Floyd W. Parsons of Beville Saturday as a prospective successor to W. C. Blankenship as superintendent. They talked turkey for four hours and it boiled down to this—Parsons can have the post if he wants it. His answer is due by Friday.

Debaters Enter Plainview Tourney

Big Spring high school debaters are entered in the Wayland College Debate Tournament at Plainview on March 10.

Forty-three teams from 12 Panhandle Plains high schools have already registered.

The question to be debated is: "Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Guarantee Higher Education to all Qualified High School Graduates Through Grants."

Andrews and Midland have also announced that teams will represent their schools at the tournament.

Compton Third In Speaking Contest

Bennie Compton was judged third in the regional oratorical contest held in Lubbock Saturday by the American Legion.

Compton was the winner of the Big Spring contest and was representing the city at the Lubbock contest. Finishing first was Tracy Crawford of Slaton. Second place went to Harrold Hammet of Lubbock's Monterey High School.

Five high school students were entered in the Lubbock competition.

Compton spoke on the "U. S. Constitution—Worth Having and Worth Defending."

Sanford Gets Vote Of TPA Support

AUSTIN, March 3 (AP)—Directors of the Texas Press Assn. today adopted a resolution of "complete confidence" in Vernon T. Sanford, the association's general manager.

Sanford was indicted at Waco last week on two counts of "unauthorized contributions to a political campaign," in having placed two advertisements for more than $25 each in Waco newspapers on behalf of the candidacy of Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey in 1954.

A civil recovery suit under the election laws is pending, in which C. T. Johnson, a defeated candidate, is seeking double recovery on a total of $11,500 of what he claims was unreported campaign expenditures by or for Ramsey. The suit is against Ramsey, the Texas Press Assn. and Sanford.

The association's board said San-

Mrs. Angel Heads Civic Concert Assn.

Mrs. Clyde Angel is the new president of the Big Spring Civic Concert Association.

She succeeds Mrs. Arch Carson. Mrs. Angel and other officers were elected at a Thursday evening meeting of the board when talent possibilities were reviewed. No actual bookings for the 1956-57 season have been made, however.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Floyd Mays and Mrs. Toots Mansfield, membership vice presidents. Mrs. Mays was re-elected and Mrs. Mansfield succeeds Mrs. Truman Jones. Re-elected secretary-treasurer was Mrs. Vic Alexander.

Dr. P. W. Malone was returned as program chairman, and Bill Crooker and Joe Pickle were named to the publicity committee.

Another meeting of the board will be called soon in order to begin booking for the next season. One program remains on the current season, the Mia Slavenska Ballet on March 20. Others presented during the season were the Fiesta Mexicana, the Dublin Players and the Virtuosa di Roma string ensemble.

Big Spring Teacher Wins Post On TASC Board

Mrs. Betty Lou Ratliff, Big Spring teacher and student council advisor, was elected to the executive committee of the Texas Association of Student Councils Saturday at the annual TASC conference in Midland.

Election of "officer schools" for the next year also was held. The presidency, held by Big Spring High School for 1955-56, went to Highland Park of Dallas.

Around 1,600 high school students from all sections of the state attended the conference which opened Thursday evening.

Tom Henry Guin of Big Spring, president, delivered the keynote address Thursday night, calling the students' attention to their responsibilities as citizens. Dr. William H. Alexander, pastor of the First Christian Church of Oklahoma City, followed up with an address on the same theme at Friday's general meeting. Three discussion periods, at which some 150 topics assigned by the Big Spring council were discussed, also were held Friday.

Other officer schools named Saturday were Ray High of Corpus Christi, vice president; Ball High of Galveston, secretary; and Monterey High of Lubbock, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Ratliff takes the place of Mrs. W. B. Burkhalter of Amarillo on the executive committee. Mrs. Burkhalter was named executive secretary, succeeding Don Wood of San Antonio.

Other Big Springers participating in the conference were Supt. W. C. Blankenship, Principal Roy Worley, an student council representative, Gary Tidwell, Johnny Janak, Lou Ann White and Valjean LaCroix.

Soap Box Derby Entries At 41

The number of Soap Box Derby entries rose to 41 Saturday.

Seven more boys got on the dotted line, and there were a number of others who indicated that they will be along by next Saturday, deadline for entering the race.

Those who signed Saturday to take part in the colorful event which holds its first prize trip to the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio were:

Jerry Dunlap, 1417 Tucson; Leonard Lee Gibson, 705 Cherry; White Foreman Jr., 710 Wyoming; Michael Bishop, 1517 Vines; Ronnie Lewis, 1100 E. 16th; Arvin McInley, 908 Ohio; David Haley, 1005 Scurry.

Information may be had at Tidwell Chevrolet Company, where the sign up will be continued next Saturday. Several entries from Colorado City and Snyder are expected by that time.

Kefauver Hits T-H Statute

GROVETON, N. H., March 3 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) blasted the Taft-Hartley Act today as he bid for organized labor's vote in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary March 13.

"Our labor unions shouldn't be cut to pieces by such legislation," he told applauding union audiences in Berlin and Groveton.

Kefauver said the Eisenhower administration promised to repeal "repressive features" of the Taft-Hartley Law but failed to carry out its promise. "Just as it failed to keep the promises it made to the nation's farmers and small businessmen."

In Berlin, heart of northern New Hampshire's huge forest empire, Kefauver toured pulp and paper mills and ate sandwiches with employees of the Brown Co. in their lunchroom during their noon break.

Workers cheered him when he declined to leave the lunchroom to eat in a downtown hotel and, instead, asked an employee if he could "borrow some coffee from that thermos jug of yours."

Heavy Winds In Pacific Northwest

SEATTLE, March 3 (AP)—Storm conditions eased in the Pacific Northwest today after a night in which wind gusts reached a peak of 81 miles an hour in the Seattle-Tacoma area.

Gales hit a wide area of British Columbia, Washington and northern Oregon. One death was charged to storm conditions in interior British Columbia. A loosened boulder crashed into a Pacific Great Eastern train about 125 miles northeast of Vancouver, killing one man and injuring four.

Merle G. Pellusch, former Big Spring now living in Midland, lost two fingers Saturday afternoon in an oil field mishap.

"An oil well driller, Pellusch was working at a rig near Midland when a length of pipe fell, catching his hand. The two outside fingers were severed and the index finger was broken. He was hospitalized at Midland. He is an employee of the Lomax Brothers Drilling Company.

Racial Crisis Is Immediate Throughout The Deep South

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3 (AP)—Here in the self-styled "heart of Dixie," the time of racial crisis is now.

In the past three months surface racial tensions repeatedly have broken through the thin crust of apparent peace.

Alabama, of course, is not alone in battle against any shift in the South's racial patterns.

There have been riots at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa over the admission of a Negro woman.

In Montgomery, a Negro boycott of the public transportation system is now in its 14th week, though 99 of the movement's leaders were indicted under an old labor law.

The number of strongly pro-segregation White Citizens' Councils has grown from about 40 to more than 60 in Alabama in the last eight weeks.

The Alabama Legislature has approved a resolution declaring the U. S. Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954, to be "null, void and of no effect."

In that now historic decision the Supreme Court held that segregation in public schools because of race was unconstitutional.

The voices of moderation in Alabama have been few. Gov. James B. Folsom called the nullification resolution "hogwash." He also has appealed for an interracial committee to seek means of lessening racial tensions.

Another Alabama House resolution asked for an investigation to determine whether the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People is Communist controlled.

The NAACP has been the guiding hand behind the fight against segregation throughout the South.

The running fight to maintain racial barriers was not confined to Alabama during the past week.

In Mississippi legislators also called on Congress to submit a constitutional amendment to the 48 states, declaring that the states alone have the right to regulate public schools.

Virginia is another state which has protested the court decision in a legislative resolution. Georgia declared it to be "null, void and of no effect."

In Louisiana the state brought action to dissolve the NAACP under an old anti-Ku Klux Klan law.

The suit, filed by Atty. Gen. Fred S. LeBlanc, asked the state court also to ban NAACP meetings.

LeBlanc's action came after the NAACP twice had shaken Louisiana in a matter of days. Actions brought by the NAACP ended with a federal court ruling knocking out the state's 1954 laws designed to get around the U. S. Supreme Court's ban on school segregation.

The NAACP followed this decision with a suit last Wednesday asking for integration in New Orleans public schools.

The two Alabama cases which have attracted the widest attention, of course, are those of Miss Autherine J. Lucy, a 26-year-old Negro secretary and ex-school teacher, and the Montgomery bus boycott.

For 29 months Miss Lucy sought the right to enroll at the University of Alabama through the federal courts. She won and became the first Negro ever admitted to the 125-year-old school.

It was a short-lived victory. Riots broke out on the school's campus. The Board of Trustees suspended the Negro woman. She sought a contempt of court motion against 13 trustees and university officials. Federal Dist. Judge H. Hobart Grooms rejected the contempt motion, but ordered Miss Lucy returned to school by Monday.

Within hours after that court action, the trustees met again in secret session and ordered Miss Lucy "permanently expelled" on disciplinary grounds.

The next move is up to the NAACP and there was no immediate indication when it would come or what it would be.

The Montgomery boycott began almost immediately after the Dec. 1 arrest of a Negro woman for refusing to take a seat in the section of a bus reserved for Negroes upon orders of a bus driver.

The transportation company's business fell off an estimated 60 per cent. Bus fares were hiked from 10 cents to 15 cents to meet the increasing deficit.

Finally, a grand jury in Montgomery, a town of 125,000 with a Negro population of 46,000 indicted 99 boycott leaders for violation of a 1921 law making it illegal for two or more people to conspire to hinder a business operation. Originally, the law was adopted as the result of a labor union dispute. Hearings on these boycott cases will be held March 19.

Fear Labor Strikes In Plane Factories

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Government labor experts expressed fears today that a rash of East Coast airplane plant strikes may spread to key plane and guided missile factories across the nation.

Labor union contracts with virtually all major aircraft and missile producers from coast to coast have either expired or are running out in a matter of days or weeks.

These are the giant plants of such producers as Douglas, Lockheed, Convair, Republic, Fairchild Boeing and North American which make the long-range bombers and missiles that form the keystone of the defense program.

Because of their importance to the nation it is believed certain that President Eisenhower would invoke the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act to stop a spreading wave of strikes.

Walkouts so far have been confined to the New York metropolitan area where four Long Island plants of Republic Aviation Corp. have been idled for two weeks. The AFL-CIO machinists are seeking higher wages and a pension plan. Negotiations appear stymied but are to be resumed Monday.

A second strike was begun Friday by the same union against a division of the Fairchild Airplane Engine Co. at Bay Shore, N. Y.

A third strike, by the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers, threatens on March 12 at the Fairchild engine division at Farmingdale, N. Y.

Well over 200,000 workers represented by the same two unions are jockeying into a strike position at various points across the country.

While strikes already are under way on the East Coast, the government labor experts feel the shutdown may come in West Coast bargaining, where the biggest group of plants and workers is concentrated in California.

FBI Joins In Wide Hunt For Bank Robbers

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., March 3 (AP)—Twenty-seven FBI agents joined Port Chester police and district attorney's investigators today in a search for clues to solution of the $188,000 holdup of the County Trust Co. branch bank.

One man who stuck up here yesterday but he got assistance in the early stages from a companion who is believed to have been waiting with a getaway car.

The two bandits kidnaped Mrs. Mary Kostolos, 32, a widow, and a teller at the branch, from her garage three blocks away from the bank Thursday night, held her captive in the car until they drove to the bank and entered it by using her key.

Two other bank employees, both were ambushed when they reported for work before 8 a. m. yesterday. One of them, J. Purdy Ungermach, 43, assistant treasurer, was forced to open the safe and help carry the currency to the car outside.

It was Westchester County's biggest bank robbery.

Blacks Return From Visit To Sacramento

Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Black, 1411 Sycamore, have returned from a Sacramento, Calif., where they attended the golden wedding anniversary celebration of their parents, Mrs. W. B. Burkhalter and Mr. W. B. Burkhalter, who have resided in Big Spring for several years, and he has been engaged in the insurance business since his discharge from the Air Force about two years ago at Webb AFB.

Photographers Are Operating In City Without License

The police department has been advised that unlicensed photographers have been seen or are operating here.

The persons reportedly are operating under the name of "National Photographers" and they have not applied to the city for a permit to sell here, officers said. They urge citizens not to place orders with the people without first learning if they have obtained a permit.

Hub Cap Thefts In Vogue Again

Big Spring had its first theft of hub caps Saturday in five days.

Mrs. Esther Brien of Ellis Homes reported one hub cap had been taken from her 1949 Chevrolet Saturday between 3 p. m. and 5. The car had been parked in the 290 block of Gregg.

The report was the first since last Monday when five were stolen—one from one car and a complete set from another. The Saturday theft raised the three-week total to 64.

NEW BOOKS

THE OUTLAWED BANNER, by Garland Roark. Doubleday, $3.95.

Garland Roark has a special knack for writing adventure stories in which swash-buckling events pile rampant over one another and yet make the combined whole "read" with remarkable reality.

In his "Wake of the Red Witch" and "Fair Wind to Java" he achieved a sizable following which grows steadily with each new book.

In his latest novel, "The Outlawed Banner," which will be published on March 15 by Doubleday, he deals with one phase of the War Between the States which has been somewhat overlooked by novelists. This is rather amazing in view of the mountainous number of novels which have been written particularly in recent years, about that period in American history.

His story is a tale of the adventures and deeds of naval forces of the Confederacy and the Union. One seldom realizes that in that bloody conflict not all of the fighting was confined to clashes between armies. The navies of both sides were much the war and Roark's stirring new story deals with their adventures.

There are vivid word pictures of battles at sea; a strong love story and a series of thrilling episodes and events which will be of pleasure to all readers with a taste for sea stories and an appetite for "period" novels.

NIGHT FELL ON GEORGIA, by Charles and Louise Samuels. Published by Dell Publishing Co., $2.50.

Most folk have a fascination for "crime" stories and books which are based on actual trials of cases celebrate have a special appeal.

"Night Fell on Georgia," is one of a series of "true" crime cases which are being published by Dell Publishing Co. in 25-cent editions.

This is the story of the trial of Leo Frank, a Jewish factory operator, who in the days before World War I was charged with the brutal murder of a young girl who worked in his Georgia plant.

It is taken from the transcript of his trial, from the newspaper accounts of the day and from official records—the police who investigated the case.

It begins with the crime itself and goes on through the whole sordid and tragic story to the lynching of Frank by a mob of maddened Georgians.

When you have read it you will be perhaps confused. The question will remain in your mind "Was Frank guilty of the crime or was he framed?" The authors do not know.

It is an excellent addition to the series of paper bound "True Crime" books that Dell is publishing.

'Miss Coahoma High School' Title Awarded To Joyce Hill

By MYRNA THOMAS
COAHOMA (SC)—Joyce Hill has been chosen Miss Coahoma High School of 1956.
She was selected from a field of five finalists at a contest held here last weekend. Originally there was a field of 16 nominees by boys of the four classes.
Other finalists were Jeannie Bobo and Dolores Lindley, the runners up, and Peggy Francis and Leta Smith.
In addition to winning the title, Miss Hill is editor of the school yearbook, The Bulldog, and is the senior class president. Earlier in the year she had been elected as the most representative girl by the CHS student body.
The contest was staged under the direction of Mrs. Fred Salling, sponsor of the senior class, and the selection was made by a panel of out-of-town judges.
Original script for the show was written by Art Dodds, who played the part of the director, Cecil B. Windmill. Others in the cast in addition to the contestants and their escorts were Ricky Phinney (Bob, the cameraman) and Jeffie Gore (Katherine Knight, the script girl).

Of course, the show could not be complete without the appearance of the preceding year's winner, Charlene Williams, Miss CHS of 1955.
Novelty acts were displayed at intervals in the program. Participating were Biddie Dodds, Lenora Wilkerson, Jan Graham Gilmore, Mollie Niell, Lefty Lewis, Robert Alexander, Ray Null, Alice Lay, Bill Tindol, Patsy Bennett, Charlene Williams, Jaynet Graham Gosoulin, Art Dodds, Rosalie DeVaney. Mrs. Salling expressed appreciation on behalf of the class to all who helped and to Mrs. Dorothy Whitaker for art work, Mr. Wyatt for producing the skits, Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Fortune and Myrna Thomas who served as pianists.
Saturday two bus loads of wide-awake Coahoma teenagers left on two school trips. Going west were the Future Homemakers of America, who were en route to a district meeting at Odessa. Going to the northeast was a bus carrying members of the Coahoma High School band.
A minstrel show is to be presented at the school auditorium Monday evening, and Hoyle Nix and his cowboy band will play before and during the occasion.

Council Changes Time Of Meeting

LAMESA, March 3 — Lamesa City Council Friday afternoon changed its meeting time for the future from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.
The City Council meets on Thursdays for regular sessions.
The new time schedule is made effective as of March 15.

Interposition, By Amendment, Cited As A Lengthy Procedure

A feeling that no advantageous purpose could be served by a special session of the Legislature on the "interposition" question is expressed by Rep. Obie Bristow, member of the Texas House of Representatives from this district.
Bristow, with other legislators, has received a proposed resolution on the interposition matter from Attorney General John Ben Shepherd, who said he would pass upon such a plan if members felt a special session is needed.
The theory of interposition is that which permits a state to appeal to its sister states for a federal constitutional amendment to settle a question of contested power between the federal government and state government.
It has been suggested in some states on the racial segregation issue, has been talked in Texas over the control of natural gas.
Bristow said he had not yet replied to the attorney general's communication, but that it would be his answer that the matter could be accomplished in due time, through regular legislative procedure.
He cited Article V of the federal constitution which sets up procedure for constitutional amendments. "It seems to me," Bristow said, "that the people should be informed that when 'interposition' is spoken of, it simply means that steps are going to be taken to seek a constitutional amendment. This, I believe, has not been entirely clear to everyone."
"The constitutional amendment process will take a long time."
He was making his observation on the mechanics of the principle, and said he was not commenting on the merits.
Article V sets out that the Congress, upon two-thirds vote in both Houses, can call a convention for proposing amendments; or the legislatures of two-thirds of the states can call such convention. Any proposal coming from such convention would then have to be ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states to become an amendment.
The act of interposition would mean that legislatures of 32 states would have to join in application for a constitutional convention; that an amendment would have to be perfected out of that convention—and then would have to be ratified by legislatures in 36 states.

CHILD IS THE KEY

Adoption Not Hard, Cost Is Moderate

By SAM BLACKBURN
Fifty times a year, on an average, adoption hearings are conducted in the 118th District Court in Big Spring.
This means that 50 couples each year, concerned for the happiness of some unfortunate lot or eager to provide their childless homes with children, avail themselves of the opportunity provided by Texas state law to become foster parents.
There were 50 adoptions in the county last year and District Clerk George Choate said that 1955 was on a parity with most years.
Some years, he said, the number goes above 50; in other years it drops a few lower than that number.
Just how does a couple go about adopting a child?
Choate said the procedure is relatively simple. The cost is small and the time involved seldom exceeds two months.
First and foremost, it is up to the couple to find a baby available for adoption. This, he said, may be the most difficult of all of the steps involved. While there is no dearth of unwanted children, the difficulty arises from the would-be foster parents not knowing the whereabouts of such children.
However, they are found—scores of them in the county and thousands in the state each year.
Once a baby is located which is open for adoption, the procedure of the law steps into the picture, Choate said.
The first step is to file an application for adoption. This document must be filed with the district clerk in the county where the couple seeks to adopt the child.
As soon as this application—which is a typical legal document in phraseology and should be prepared by an attorney—is in the hands of the clerk, a certified copy is transmitted to the State Department of Public Welfare in Austin.
The would-be foster parents must obtain a written consent from the natural parents of the child in question and this must also be filed in the court.
When the application is on file, an order is issued by the District Judge setting a date for hearing.
At the same time, the court names an investigator. This investigator can be any reputable, competent citizen whom the court selects. He is instructed to make a thorough check of the applicants. He must determine their character, their cultural background, their economic position. He also investigates the child—to determine as many essential facts about and how it happened to become available for adoption as he can.

The law specifies that an adoption hearing cannot be less than 40 days nor more than 60 days from the time the certified copy of the application reaches the department of public welfare in Austin.
On the date designated, when all investigations have been completed, the court will hear evidence from the applicants and from any other competent person with an interest in the proceedings.
If the court finds that the foster parents are suitable, he issues an order authorizing them to adopt the child. The applicants must be represented by counsel in the hearing. He conducts the questioning of witnesses as a general rule. However, the judge can ask questions if he feels additional information is needed to guide his decision.
When the order is issued, the district clerk certifies the pertinent facts to the State Bureau of Vital Statistics and a birth certificate is issued to the child in the name of his new parents.
The parents are then privileged to take possession of their new child.
The cost?
Court costs, the clerk said, run from $23 to $25.
Attorney fees, naturally, will be different in nearly all cases.

Southerners Protest Use Of Hall For Civil Rights Talk

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The General Services Administration, rejecting protests of 30 Southern congressmen, ruled today a government auditorium here could be used for a civil rights meeting beginning tomorrow.

However, the 30 Southerners, all Democrats, appealed to President Eisenhower to forbid use of the interdepartmental auditorium for a three-day national assembly on civil rights. They called the meeting "political in nature."

The White House took no immediate position on the controversy but promised the Southerners an answer "shortly." Murray Snyder, White House press secretary said the answer would not be today.

The GSA is the government housekeeping agency with supervision over some buildings. Rep. John Williams (D-Miss), one of the protesting congressmen, released a letter from Charles K. Ford, acting GSA regional director, which said officials were advised the meeting was not political but rather "one to discuss nonpartisan social problems."

It added that the Labor Department, in whose building the auditorium is located, decided use of the auditorium for the meeting was proper, "not in violation of our regulations" and that there were no grounds for canceling the meeting.

The assembly is sponsored by the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, the chairman of which is Roy Wilkins, head of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. The protesting Congress members said they forbid use of a federal auditorium for a sponsored meeting.

They described the planned meeting as "a mass lobby meeting which is avowedly political in nature."

After receiving Ford's letter, Williams fired back a telegram saying that "it is quite evident that your agency is surrendering itself to the political pressures of the NAACP and its fellow traveling affiliates."

Ranges in Midland County have never been more barren. The long drought has killed off grass until some of the pastures look almost like cultivated fields. Southeast of Midland the cattle numbers are down to about 20 per cent of normal.

A few ranchers have a little grass left, according to Johnnie Williams, owner of a farm supply store in Midland. He said every one was feeding, however, and had been for a long time.

Southeast of Midland the cultivated section looks like a desert. None of the land has been put up and fields are blowing every time the wind gets up. In this area several fields that once grew cotton and maize are now lying idle and were not farmed in 1955. A few small fields have been out so long that scattered clumps of needle grass are beginning to cover them.

John King Jr., farming in the Greenwood community southwest of Stanton, says dryland farming has reached bottom in his area. They have had a series of dry years, though he made a bale to every four acres this last year.

"That's not enough to keep going on," he said, "considering the cotton allotment and dry years when you don't make anything." King used to feed out around 100 head of cattle every winter but stopped the practice a year or so ago. At present prices, he said a feeder would be well to break even.

There is quite a lot of irrigation near him, and he recently put down a 500 gallon well, which will be used to irrigate his cotton.

Several changes have been made in gin managers for the coming year. E. A. Hargrave, manager of the Planter's Gin at Ackerly, has gone to Ragtown, which is a few miles northwest of Tahoka. He will manage a gin there.

his place west of Lomax, and will soon have it ready to start watering this year's crop. Haney has been section foreman of the railroad at Stanton almost all his adult life, and has owned the farm a number of years.

The 4-H Club members in Glasscock County specialize almost altogether in sheep for their projects. They entered quite a number in the El Paso, Abilene and Odessa shows, as well as the local show at Garden City.

Next week they will carry 33 fat lambs and three breeding sheep to the San Angelo show. The lambs have been quite awhile and are now in good condition, according to County Agent Oliver West.

West says he doesn't have any spare time anymore, since the irrigation boom was renewed at St. Lawrence. He has been running lines for water ditches whenever a new well is brought in.

Most of the wells average about 150 gallons, he said, but farmers grow a lot of cotton from such a small stream of water. They start watering in the winter and soak down all the land they can get over to a depth of three or four feet.

Then when cotton is planted, they reduce the acres their wells will cover. West says this pre-planting irrigation will put enough water into the soil to make a good crop, even if rains are scant during the growing season.

Baby chick sales are getting off to a slow start. Two feed dealers who handle baby chicks say this looks like a poor year for both broilers and fryers. Red Sullivan says he had a good run in January, then the cold weather set in and people stopped buying.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

TAMPA, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Mrs. Joe Campai has her pocketbook which she lost here nine years ago—$11, baby bottle and all.

She received the pocketbook in the mail from Mrs. I. W. Bravo Jr., Atlanta, who wrote that while going through a trunk she ran across "your long ago found but never returned pocketbook."

Mrs. Bravo said she was sorry she kept it so long "but to be honest with you I had packed it away when we moved up here with the intention of mailing it to Tampa then I completely forgot about it."

Teachers Going To Midland Conclave

Friday will be a holiday for the school children of Big Spring but not for the 230 teachers and administrators in the city school system.

They will be at the 21st annual convention of the West Texas Teachers Association in Midland. Contract stipulations make it obligatory all teachers and administrators attend the annual convention of the association.

At this meeting, General Carlos P. Romulo, former aide-de-camp to General MacArthur and ex-president of the Philippines, and Dr. Alice V. Kehliher, national authority on childhood education, of New York, are to be featured speakers.

Initial event on the convention program will be the house of delegates banquet which is set for Thursday night at 7:30 at the Scharbauer Hotel.

Big Spring school delegates who are to attend this conference are W. C. Blankenship, city school superintendent; Dell McComb, Ross Turner, Mrs. Inez Turner, Mrs. Dorothy Norman, Dr. Loyol Norman, Lev D. Spradling and Mrs. Louise Spradling.

Also on the official delegate lists is Walker Bailey, Howard County Superintendent of schools. He is chairman of the credentials committee.

Big Spring band ensemble, under the baton of Clyde Rowe, director, will provide music for the second general session of the convention Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

Romulo will speak twice at the convention—at the first general session and again at the afternoon meeting. His topic is "America's Stake in Asia." He is presently Philippine ambassador to the United States.

Dr. Kehliher is to be the speaker at the third general session on Friday afternoon at 4:30. Dr. J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education, is to be speaker at the administrators luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Friday.

Miss Eulalia Mitchell, Big Spring, will preside at the class-

years ahead. Delinquency, he said, is not confined to any one stratum of society or type of community.

"Among the complex and various causes spawning juvenile crime," he wrote, "there certainly is no more basic nor common factor than apathy or failure of parents in properly discharging responsibilities to their children. This basic failure is appallingly prevalent; and the regrettable fact is that the irresponsible parents who neglect their duty continue to do so because they are not held accountable for their dereliction."

"It is my firm belief that juvenile crime could be abated if parents were made to face legal and financial responsibility for the criminal acts of their children."

General Departs TOKYO (AP)—Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, U. S. Far East Air Force commander, left today for a three-week trip to the United States.

Hoover Would Put Penalty On Parents Of Delinquents

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today suggested legal penalties for delinquent parents who permit their children to run wild.

"The startling juvenile crime conditions existing today reflect that in America the home is failing in its traditional function as a place of learning how to live as well as a place of living," he said in a signed editorial in the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

Hoover noted that more than a half-million youngsters between the ages of 10 and 17 were arrested in this country in 1954, and said that the current record birth rate foreshadows a steadily increasing juvenile problem in the years ahead. Delinquency, he said, is not confined to any one stratum of society or type of community.

Legion Opens Push To Double Membership

The American Legion post is launching a membership campaign Monday with the objective of trying to treble the number on the rolls.

George Zachariah, commander, said that members had been urged to attend a breakfast at the Settles between 7 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. as a prelude to the special effort.

During the day a booth will be maintained by the American Legion Auxiliary so workers report on results. Goal for the drive is a minimum of 270 members, said Zachariah.

While the campaign will continue for two weeks, he explained that officials hoped to obtain as much increase as possible on Monday in order to get the drive rolling successfully.

Every effort will be made to conclude the campaign by March 15. Membership as of that date determines the number of delegates which a post may send to the Boys State project.

Climaxing the affair will be a membership barbecue at the Legion Hut south on U. S. 87 on March 17 at 6 p.m. Tickets for $1 for the event will be available in the Settles Lobby and will be sold later by members.

Irish Gal Bids For Lieutenant's Job

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 3 (AP)—One name stood out today in a list announced by the New Haven Civil Service Commission.

It contained the names of 26 police department members who passed examinations for lieutenant—25 men and Mae Gilhuly.

Det. Sgt. Gilhuly, to give her official title, placed fifth with a grade of 84. Top grade was 89.

How many lieutenants will be chosen has not been decided. Police Chief Francis V. McManus says that at least six are needed.

Snowstorm Halts Search For Plane

DARRINGTON, Wash., March 3 (AP)—A heavy snowstorm closed down around 8,820-foot Whitehorse Mountain in the Cascades today, and the white curtain blocked every major attempt to search for two missing F89 jet interceptors and the four men they carried.

A full-scale search operation was organized by armed services and civilian organizations, but only two small ground parties were able to take to the field. They plowed through deep snow in the foothills, far below the 4,000-foot level where the two planes are believed to have crashed yesterday afternoon.

Viet Nam To Vote For New Constitution

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, March 3 (AP)—The southern republic of Viet Nam chooses an Assembly tomorrow to write a constitution.

Between five and six million voters will elect 123 deputies from 468 candidates who will have 45 days from their first meeting to agree on the new constitution. If they do not succeed in that time the Assembly will be dissolved.

Supporters of President Ngo Dinh Diem without doubt will dominate the Assembly. The results of the election are not expected to be known until March 10. The Assembly will meet in Saigon a few days after that.

The government of the chunky, ascetic President, who has driven sin underground in this former rip-roaring sin-spot of the Far East, paid all the expenses of the candidates. It allowed them free radio time and printed their posters and campaign placards. Government-appointed committees weeded out 32 "undesirables" from the original list of 500 candidates.

The campaigning, limited to a two-week period, ended last night with a fireworks display. The first firecrackers caused panicky merchants to close their shutters. They still remembered the gunfire of last year when Diem drove the private army of the ex-reever pirates Binh Xuyen out of Saigon.

Except for a few rumors of the arrest of some opposition leaders, none confirmed by official sources, the campaign was almost without incident.

Military Men Get Lectures On Satellites, Space Ships

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Satellites, space ships and the science of pinpointing missile targets half a world away are getting classroom attention of the armed forces' future commanders.

The Defense Department has been circulating to various higher echelon service schools a filmed lecture by Dr. Werner von Braun famous for his work on German V2 missiles and American Army weapons. He is also an authority on space travel.

The hour-long lecture and question and answer session for members of the Armed Forces Staff College by Von Braun covers developments which will occur within the next couple of years—the Vanguard project for small satellites; and projects well in the future — space ships. Among the points made are:

1. The satellite programs for the International Geophysical Year of 1957-58 can "improve our knowledge on the location of the continents with respect to each other." At present the distance between the American continent and the Eurasian land mass is known within an accuracy of 500 yards. But by using the man-made satellites this may be narrowed to "within 10 or 20 yards." The precise location of places will be of vital importance to future commanders attempting to hit targets thousands of miles away with intercontinental ballistic missiles.
2. Bombing practically any place on earth from a future space ship, using a guided missile launched from the space platform, should be comparatively simple. Indeed, the crew of the space ship probably will be able to aim the missile at the target by ordinary "line of sight" method. Such bombing could be carried out with "unprecedented accuracy."

3. From a space station orbiting 1,075 miles above the earth, using an optical telescope system, it would be possible to "distinguish as much detail as you can see from a plane, say, four or five thousand feet up." And "this of course offers tremendous possibilities to reconnaissance in the civilian sense as in the military sense"—the ability to spot icebergs in the path of ships at sea, to keep track of expeditions on arctic ice and "to keep a watchful eye on countries not accessible to aerial reconnaissance aircraft." Here Von Braun seemed to be referring to Russia. The Soviet Union has given a cold reception to President Eisenhower's proposal for mutual aerial reconnaissance as part of a peace program.

4. The Russians "certainly realize the feasibility of an orbiter"—satellite. "I believe they are working hard at it and I still hope we will be first up there of course, but I think we have no time to lose if we want to be first in the orbit."

Von Braun says that a space ship, at 1,075 miles altitude, with the earth rotating under it as it completed an orbit once every two hours, would allow the crew to see every point on earth during each 24 hours. He adds: "And this is one of the reasons why I believe that such a manned orbital station will have a terrific military importance both as a reconnaissance station and possibly even as a bombing platform."

Motorcycle, Bike In Traffic Crashes

A motorcyclist was hospitalized and a juvenile riding a bicycle was examined but not admitted as a result of accidents Friday.

Lonnie Campbell was admitted to Big Spring Hospital with a fractured skull and bruises after the motorcycle he was riding was involved in an accident with Johnny Calvin Petty at Fourth and Goliad Friday night.

Petty was driving a 1951 Chevrolet. Campbell was listed as being in "fair" condition by hospital officials Saturday.

Renolds Sanches, 12, of 630 NW 3rd, was riding a bicycle in a collision with a 1956 Pontiac driven by Ernest R. Autrey, 207 State. The lad was taken to Big Spring Hospital but his injuries did not warrant admittance.

The mishap occurred at Lamesa Drive and N. Lancaster.

Rosie Gilbert Hobbs, 1004 Main, and Ella Strickland Gill, Gail H., were in collision in the 1900 block of S. Gregg. The former was driving a 1953 Chevrolet and the latter a 1951 Buick.

An accident at 1215 Lamesa Drive Saturday morning involved Royd Clifton Mills, 1200 Michael, and Charlie Jones, 405 NW 11th.

Mills occupied a 1954 Plymouth and Jones a '52 Ford.

Police were called to a reported mishap at Fourth and State Friday night, but when they arrived, no one was there.

Airplane 'Buzzes' Residential Area

Police officials and the municipal airport were swamped with calls from irate residents in the southeastern section of Big Spring Saturday afternoon.

The reason: someone in a private plane was "buzzing" that section of town.

The police contacted the Civil Aeronautics Administration, and CAA officials said they were investigating the incident.

Bicycle Stolen

Cars are not the only vehicles being stolen.

Jimmy Garrett reported to police officials Saturday afternoon that while he was in the Ritz Theatre someone took his bicycle which was parked in front of the show.

Russians Agree To Free All Danish War Prisoners

MOSCOW, March 3 (AP)—The Kremlin's top leaders promised today to release any Danish war prisoners still held in the Soviet Union. Then the Russians gave a lavish champagne luncheon for visiting Danish Premier H. C. Hansen.

There was a difference in opinion on the number of prisoners involved, persons present at the talks said. The Danish delegation said there were believed to be 15. The Russians said there is only one "and he was a very bad criminal, but you're welcome to him."

Hansen negotiated the agreement with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev. Final details are expected to be announced Monday after further negotiations between the Danish Embassy and the Soviet Foreign Office.

Russia has negotiated similar agreements with West and East Germany and other countries for returning war prisoners.

The luncheon was given in the Kremlin's most magnificent room, Catherine Hall. The entire 11-man Presidium of the Communist party attended. Bulganin drank a toast to Denmark's King Frederik IX. Then the Soviet Premier locked arms with Hansen while Khrushchev did the same with Danish Education Minister Burnholt for another toast.

Persons present said the Danish-Soviet talks may lead to resumption of normal trade relations.

Auto Inspections Due By April 1

Warning was sounded this week by the Department of Public Safety that motorists have but one month left in which to have their cars inspected for safety.

Deadline for the safety check is April 1. It was indicated a large number of motorists have neglected to comply with the requirement that their automobiles be given the required inspection.

Modes For Spring, 1956

TYPICAL OF SPRING — navy and white! Mrs. J. G. Lewis displays the perennial favorites in a suit of imported pure silk in a nubby weave. Interest in the boxy jacket centers in the back, where a belted effect is given by a strip of the fabric. To top the straight skirt, there is a blue and white print blouse of cotton, with a high neck set off with a tie of self-material. Her hat, of balibundle straw, is a bounteous, or dome shape, bound in blue tone-on-tone maline. It uses a single ornament for sparkle.

STONE-ON-TONE — is the highlight of the mogashel linen being worn by Mrs. R. D. Whittington Jr. Made of fabric in a nude shade, the three piece suit is embroidered in a lighter, almost white, thread. The blouse is of a solid material, matching the boxy jacket and straight skirt, with a bib of the embroidery. A large rhinestone pin sparkles on the lower right side of the jacket and she wears rhinestone earrings. Black pumps and a black straw make the accent color. (Photos by Keith McMullin.)

PIRATE RED — is the straight linen duster shown by Mrs. John Taylor, who wears a red and white all-silk print underneath it. The skirt is slim; the sleeves are short and the neckline is boat shaped — simplicity to play up or down. Mrs. Taylor carries a lucite bag, clear, with a straw lining. Her pumps are black, and she has matching bracelet and earrings of red composition stones with rhinestones. The duster, slit on each side, shows a lining of the dress fabric. Her coolie hat of white straw has a red border underneath the brim, and tiny clusters of red berries and leaves spill across the top.

TIME WAS — when the color of the two piece suit of Mrs. E. H. Boullion would have been named "luggage." This season it is "sun-tan." Modestly trimmed, it employs an inset of tiny white triangles and circles on the left shoulder, allowing great leeway in the ornaments chosen. Here, Mrs. Boullion wears costume jewelry of gold and pearls. Her roller brim is of black strawcloth, with a crown of white straw. A narrow band of dull gold ribbon joins the two.

Stay Clean, And Rest

Good suggestions on diet, relaxation and complexion care are passed on by popular actress Nancy Kelly. Nancy is back in Hollywood now where she is starring in "The Bad Seed" for Warner Bros.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Cleanliness Is No. 1 On Her Beauty List

BY LYDIA LANE HOLLYWOOD Nancy Kelly, who has been dedicated to the Broadway stage for the past few years, made one of her infrequent appearances in Hollywood recently.

"This is like a homecoming for me," Nancy told me when we lunched at Warner Bros. "I began my acting career here, you know."

Nancy won the Antoinette Perry award for her performance in "The Bad Seed" on Broadway and Warner Bros. engaged her to enact the same role in the screen version of this hit play.

She looked very fresh and pretty as usual but I noticed she was wearing very little make-up.

"I'm giving my skin a rest," she explained.

I asked her to tell me about her beauty routine.

"It can be summed up in two words," she replied, "and cleanliness is number one. I've tried many ways of removing make-up to get my skin really clean and the thing that works best for me is a detergent."

"But don't you find this drying?" I asked.

"No, because I follow with a lotion to prevent dryness," she explained.

"What's point number two?" I asked.

"Sleep," was her answer. "No matter how much primping you do, it will be ineffective if you don't get enough rest. There is no make-up in the world that can substitute for the proper amount of sleep. I have to have lots of it. I try to have a siesta every day—I'm a great one for cat naps," she confided.

"Life in New York is pretty hectic and the demands of the theatre so great with matinees twice a week that I simply had to work out a schedule for relaxation. I made a habit of lying down for at least twenty minutes during the day. I found that even if I couldn't sleep the rest was beneficial.

"In order to relax completely you must learn to control your thoughts. Try to block out whatever you've had on your mind and wipe your mental slate clean. Breathing rhythmically and making the room dark are conducive to sleep. If you can do this every day you'll find that soon you can drop off to sleep without any trouble. Your responses will become so grooved that you'll be able to nap whenever you have a few moments free."

I noticed that Nancy studied the menu very carefully before ordering lunch.

"I love to eat," she said with zest. "Especially the starches—hot bread, baked potatoes dripping with butter, spaghetti. So I'm always faced with a weight problem. While I try to curb my desire for these things I'm against starvation diets. I think they can do a lot of harm."

"What's your method of losing weight?" I asked.

Elwyn Lynn Sealy Is Bride Of Alvin Raymond Harris

LAMESA — Gowned in voluminous white lace and satin, Elwyn Lynn Sealy became the bride of Alvin Raymond Harris at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 3, in Bryan Street Baptist Church.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sealy. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris, Ackerly. Before an arch entwined with white satin, the Rev. E. L. Jones read double-ring wedding vows. Baskets of white stock, palms and candelabra with cathedral tapers formed the setting.

Traditional music was played by Mrs. Gene Sealy, pianist. Shirley Spencer sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Crinoline-stiffened pink cotton satin billowed into circular skirts for the costumes of the matron of honor, Mrs. Melvin Harris, Ackerly, and the bridesmaid, Helen Keel, Midland.

The gowns were designed with fitted bodices, cut low. Headresses were pink shirred tulle. Pink streamers tied bouquets of white carnations.

Lace appliques outlined the sheer dropped shoulder yoke. Sleeves were long and petal-pointed over her hands.

The bridal veil of silk illusion was attached to a net bonnet beaded with rose seed pearls and ruffled with pleated net. White rosebuds topped the bride's white Bible. Other members of the wedding party were the bride's father, who gave her in marriage; Melvin Harris, who served his brother as best man; Doyle Archer, groomsmen, and Bill Craddock and Carl Anthony, of Lamesa, who were ushers.

Wedding guests assembled in the home of the bride's parents for a reception following the ceremony. White lace over pink satin covered the refreshment table, which was centered with the bouquets of the attendants and a tiered wedding cake, served by Freida White.

Alva Ruth Brown served punch and Sandar Moss registered guests. For a wedding trip to Corpus Christi, the bride chose a brown linen suit with beige and brown accessories. Her corsage was white roses.

The couple will live on Route 1, Ackerly. Mrs. Harris, an employe at the office of the County Clerk, is a Lamesa High School graduate.

The bridegroom graduated from Klondike High School and attended Texas Tech in Lubbock.

'Family Clown'

Three-year-old John Underwood, left, holds true to his mother's description of him as the "family clown," as he giggles over his father's tape recorder. The Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Underwood, John and Chris, moved to Big Spring from Carolina Beach, N.C., during the beginning of the duster season. Rev. Underwood pastors St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

J. W. Wares Prefer Sand To Hurricanes

To be washed away or blown away? This seems to be the choice in homes for the family of the Rev. J. W. Ware, who recently moved to 643 Manor from Carolina Beach, N. C. But they shrug off sandstorms. In fact, they prefer them to the hurricanes which caused them to evacuate their former home three times. Reverend Ware is pastor of St. Paul Presbyterian Church. He and his wife, Betty, have two sons, Chris, 6, and John, 3. The youngsters say they don't miss the Atlantic, which used to be a block and a half from their front door. Chris is already acquainted at East Ward School, has a girl friend and a role in a class P-TA production. The Wares moved on Feb. 17 during a mild sandstorm. The giant duster a week later was an unusual experience for the newcomers. It sounded like a hurricane to Mrs. Ware. "But we all love it here," she added. Touches of the beach, two untreated pieces of driftwood, make modernistic focal centers on one side of their living room. Rev. and Mrs. Ware met through mutual Presbyterian friends during the last year of World War II. He was stationed at Portsmouth, Va., as a chaplain in the Navy. Most of his tour was spent in the Pacific. Reverend Ware is a native Californian, originally from Fresno. He took undergraduate work at the University of California and later attended Princeton Seminary. The Wares have also lived in Brooklyn, N. Y., where he pastored a church. Mrs. Ware attended Flora McDonald College in North Carolina and studied sacred music at Union Seminary. She is from Clinton, N. C.

Texas Day Observed By Woman's Forum

Mrs. Roscoe Cowper was guest speaker for the Woman's Forum Friday afternoon, when the group met in the home of Mrs. Charles Sweeney. Mrs. Cecil McDonald was cohostess. Discussing the subject, "Texas Day," Mrs. Cowper reviewed the history of Texas, beginning with the travels of Cabeza de Vaca over 400 years ago. She told the group of Coronado's wanderings in his search for silver and gold. Others followed, only to be destroyed by Indians. Priests set up small colonies, the one near what is now Juarez being successful. The reason given for its being spared was that the priests furnished the redskins with meat. Members were told of the Apache uprising in 1880, when the survivors went to El Paso, Del Norte, which, in the next 100 years, became a trading town. The first English-speaking people came to El Paso in 1807. The gold rush in Colorado and California turned the town into a stopping place for all kinds of people. Very few found gold, but they discovered a location for ranches, farms and a passage for the railroad. Mrs. Cowper spoke of the Texas Rangers, of the stage line out of San Antonio in 1850 and of the tales of buried treasure and lost people. In a description of the Big Bend Country, she told of the variety of scenery and climate in that section of the state. April 11 was announced as the date for the Federation Day luncheon. Mrs. L. B. Maulden, hospital-affair chairman, told the club that the affair will be held at Cosden Country Club. Ethel Foster of Sterling

City will be guest speaker. A report on the State Hospital project was given by Mrs. Clyde Johnston. The group voted to sponsor a style shop at the hospital. The women will also contribute funds to the Big Spring Pastors' Association. For the tea hour, the table was laid with a green cloth and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and carnations. Refreshments were served to 17 members and a guest, Mrs. G. A. Odum of Denton, mother of Mrs. Cowper.

Cooking Ham

You'll need to bake a two-inch thick center-cut slice of ham from 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Be sure to cut slashes in the fat edge of the meat, about two inches apart, before baking; this will prevent curling. Insert whole cloves in the fat and baste the ham with sweetened pineapple juice several times during the baking.

Dessert Sauce

Put a half cup of sugar, a half cup of water and a tablespoon of so of lemon juice in a small saucepan; stir over low heat until the sugar dissolves. Boil, without stirring, for five minutes. Use this sugar syrup over grapefruit sections mixed with sliced banana for a fruit dessert.

New Bean Flavor

Some cooks like to add tiny cubes of American cheese to a can of baked beans before heating in the oven. Then they season the combination with Worcestershire sauce and mustard.

Elegance Refreshes Accessory Picture

By PAT HENRY
Fresh—ladylike—elegant. Springlike, exciting words coming up on the fashion accessory horizon. The Easter Parade is predicted to chime a refreshing new note, accessory-wise. Toss away your feed-bag totes and heavy hobs of jewelry. This will be the season to dramatize delicately — an airy spray of pastel stones on the slim shoulder of your sheath, or a tiny cluster of violets peeping under your lapel. Select a special piece of jewelry for your new outfit. Free-form, long the word on the contemporary art scene, now shows up in fluent, textured metal pins, sometimes flecked with pearls or rhinestones. Fragile porcelain stones and lacy enamels are perfect for the full silhouettes of summer georgettes, chiffons and organdies as well as for the vertical-lined costume, which dominates the picture. Bolder stones in bolder tones also suit the unbroken line costume. Contours and dimensional interest are the features to look for here. A tailored bell-shaped porcelain set in gold and rhodium might prick your fancy. Or perhaps you'd prefer big-pearl baubles sprinkled with rhinestone rondelles. Bracelets for denuded arms may get a big rush this season, but no single fad is expected. Understatement is the rule. If your budget buckles under the expense of regal costume jewelry, or even if it doesn't, you may want to substitute fake blossoms on some of your ensembles. In both Paris and New York designers are nesting small bouquets under the high Empire waist or at the hip line. The paisley prints, which make their mark on the jewelry line, also show up in the "look of luxury" handbags. But the fabric to watch in the new slim bags is a shiny straw for dress up. Belts, also slimmer, get the same straw or paisley treatment. Don't ever wear a belt over two inches wide. Gloves are again long enough to feel like gloves. Last season's shorty will look skimpy beside the wristbone-covering three "buttoner" lengths for five or eight-button lengths. A safe bet, if you choose a three-quarter-length sleeve, is a love that meets and matches the sleeve. Leather, or at least looks-like-leather, and finely worked cloth materials will be popular in gloves. Another about-face is in the scarf division. Gone is bulk. A long, flimsy wisp is knotted in an Ascot or tucked in a low neckline.

Ham And Corn

Cover a slice of browned tender ham and a can of cream-style corn and bake in a moderate oven for about three-quarters of an hour. A little grated onion or green pepper, or both, may be added to the corn if desired.

Leftover Potatoes

Dice leftover potatoes and add them to a package of frozen mixed vegetables (cooked and drained). Mix in a tangy French dressing and refrigerate to allow flavors to develop. Serve on crisp salad greens with sliced cold meat.

Bridal White Ceremony Unites Lila Turner, Frank D. Chafey

MRS. FRANK D. CHAFEY (Photo by Barr)

In a candlelit, bridal white setting, Lila Jean Turner was wed to Lt. Frank Dean Chafey March 3 at 8 p.m. in First Baptist Church. The bride's pastor, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, read the double ring ceremony before a background of greenery and jade trees.

Mrs. Chafey was led down a white standard-marked aisle by her father, E. A. Turner. Mr. and Mrs. Turner reside at 1410 Eleventh Place.

The standards were white wrought-iron and silk. Fern and satin streamers marked the pews. Seven-branched candelabra were entwined with emerald foliage. The kneeling bench before the altar was covered with white satin.

The bride was preceded to the altar by her maid of honor, Glenna Coffey, and two bridesmaids, Barbara Bowen of Lubbock and Shirley Chafey, the bridegroom's sister, of Indianapolis, Ind.

They were dressed in bouffant, waltz-length powder blue taffeta and wore blue satin hats. White Frenched carnations nestled in their blue nosegays.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a flowing, bell-skirted white gown with a chapel train. Imported hand-clipped Chantilly lace fitted tightly over the white satin bodice and extended to an overskirt on nylon tulle and satin. The lace overskirt was cut high and scalloped in front, revealing lace appliques on the tulle.

The bodice was designed with a wide, square neckline and short, scalloped lace sleeves.

Her veil was attached to a pearl and lace circlet.

For the traditional something old, she carried a handkerchief of her great-grandmother. She borrowed an English sapphire from Mrs. Russell Scott and wore it in her slipper. Something blue was a garter, a gift of Mrs. Ross Boykin.

Bridal flowers were gardenias and stephanotis with handmade lace leaves and stephanotis atop a white Bible.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Chafey, Indianapolis. He is stationed with the Air Force in Waco, where the couple will live.

His best man was Lt. C. R. Virden. Groomsman were Robert Morehead and Charles Rose. Ushering were twin uncles of the bride, Leonard and Lonnie Coker.

The reception serving table in the church parlor was appointed in crystal and silver on white satin and net. White carnations and two silver candelabra formed the centerpiece.

Punch and the three-tiered white cake were served by Barbara Lewter, Mrs. Scott, Marilyn Staggs and Peggy Hogan.

The bride's traveling costume was an imported brown plaid cotton suit with a box jacket. White pique trimmed three-quarter length sleeves and formed a stand-up collar. She added a white pique blouse and a tiny white hat, scattered with rhinestones. Accessories were bronze.

The bride, a Baylor University student, was graduated from Big Spring High School, where she served as cheerleader, and junior class secretary and belonged to the Shorthand Club, Tri-Hi-Y and Rainbows. She was a member of the Corral staff.

Lieutenant Chafey was graduated from Butler University in Indianapolis.

Out-of-town guests included Margaret Yelvington, Boerne; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stanley, Wichita Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Cales and Janice Cales of Eldorado.

"DO NOT JUDGE FROM MERE APPEARANCES"

—Author's name below—

The average cost of a prescription is just about the charge for a good meal. This is a tribute to the pharmaceutical industry that spends millions on research yet keeps ultimate costs so low.

Some medicines appear to be expensive. Judging by appearances a dozen capsules may not seem to be worth as much as six dollars. Your Physician knows their higher cost and true value. When he prescribes them for you he knows that your eventual cost will be much lower because they will do you more good in less time. Trust his judgement. We will cooperate by pricing them fairly.

Penningtons Will Hold Open House
LAMESA — Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Pennington of Patricia will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary today with open house at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. O'Brien of Patricia. Guests will call between 2 and 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Pennington were married on March 4, 1906, in Breckenridge. They moved to Oklahoma and later to Eastland County. For the past twelve years they have made their home at Patricia, where they are active in the Baptist Church.

They have three sons, Bill, who is at home, John of Farmington, N. M., and Merl of Lovington, N. M., and two daughters, Mrs. Robert Booth of Welch and Mrs. Grace Joplin of Lovington.

Surprise Shower In Martin Home For Mrs. Bledsoe
Another in the series of bridal showers for Mrs. Gene Bledsoe was given Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Martin. Hostesses were Patty Gregory, Marcella Hill and Alice Ann Martin.

Mrs. Bledsoe is the former Frankie Alice Marstrand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Marstrand. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bledsoe. Kitchen and bathroom articles were brought to the honoree in the shower, which was a surprise affair.

Miss Martin registered guests at a table decorated with an arrangement of yellow gladioli and renunculus in a deeper shade. Serving was done by Miss Gregory and Miss Hill.

The tea table was laid with a lace cloth over pastel green. Centering it was an arrangement of two love birds nestled in a base of fern and candytuft under an arch of flowers and fern.

Mrs. Bledsoe was attired in a black blouse, with wide, low neckline, and a full skirt of gold. Her accessories were black.

The guest list included 30.

Remove Wax
A big help if you're trying to remove a little spilled candle wax from a table top is to hold an ice cube on the wax for a few seconds — but wipe up melted ice immediately so there won't be any water spots.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Margaret Pierce

With classes beginning at eight o'clock last Monday morning, most of the students who were away returned Sunday afternoon or night. The instructors returned from their convention, which was held in Austin; the ski trip girls came in Sunday afternoon. All were tired but reported a very good time!

The Women's Recreational Association met Monday night after a basketball work-out, and chose the WRA candidate for the "Ugly Boy Contest," Jimmie Joe Robinson. A Saturday "Play-Day" was discussed. It will be held April 14 for senior girls in the surrounding schools, with lunch served to the visitors.

Those attending the meeting were Wilella Hanks, Jan Burns, Betty Earley, Louise Burchett, Mary Forehand, Sue Neal, Marjion Harrison, Lela Fletcher, Myrna Sproul, Mary Ann Fairchild, Margaret Pierce, Myrtice Jones, Yvonne Peterson, Arlene Hartin, Belva Jo Wren, and Rita Gale. Dr. W. A. Hunt, at the convention held in Austin, was elected one of the directors of the Texas Junior College Association.

Twelve students who made the highest grade points and who head the Dean's honor list are: Betty Waters, Betty Earley, Alice Ann Martin, Pat Dunn, Pete Ghiglieri, John Alva Richardson, Joyce Nix, Pat Duncan, Kenneth Honeycutt, Sue Neal, Frank House and Martha Winans.

An assembly was held Wednesday morning to honor the students who were on the Dean's honor list. The special assembly was addressed by Dr. W. R. Woolrich, dean of the College of Engineering of the University of Texas.

The Hawkettes have had another active week in basketball. Tuesday night, they journeyed to San Angelo College for one of their most exciting games of the year. At the end of the game the score was tied and a two-minute overtime was played. San Angelo came out on top with the score being 53-52. Mary Forehand was high score player with 25 points, Wilella Hanks was second scoring 16 points.

The students who went to San Angelo were Nancy Rogers, Sue Neal, Myrtice Jones, Wilella Hanks, Yvonne Peterson, Mary Forehand, Myrna Sproul, Patsy Reaves, Betty Earley, Rita Gale, Margaret Pierce, Louise Burchett, Marjion Harrison, Betty Walker, Dee Phillips, and Jimmie Airhart.

Thursday night the Hawkettes were hostesses for the Knott-Hillbillies girls. One game was played with the final score being 51-42 in favor of the Hawkettes. Edna Harrell was high point player.

The Sigma Delta Phi met Thursday night. Their candidate for the "Ugly Boy Contest" was chosen. He is Eddie Gill.

Betty Earley will represent HCJC at the Future Teachers of America convention to be held in Amarillo, March 23-24. She will be a candidate for "Miss FTA of Texas." Good luck, Betty.

The big Hawks have received an invitation to the regional tournament to be held in Amarillo beginning Monday. They will leave this afternoon or Monday morning. The track team from HCJC will journey to Gorman for a track meet March 10.

A Mexican supper was held Tuesday night by the Aggies for members and their dates.

The Business Club met during activity period Friday. Bob Jones was elected their candidate for the "Ugly Boy Contest."

There was excitement in the air Friday as time for the sophomore hayride drew near. A weiner roast was also one of the main interests that night. It was attended by Laura Holland, Lynn Laws, Wilella Hanks, Marvin Wise, Myrna Sproul, James Lee Underwood, Evelyn Cummings, Harold Baker, Jan Burns, Wayne Medlin, Peggy Bradford, Jimmie King, Alice Ann Martin, Wiley Brown, as well as a host of others.

See you next week!

Spring Into Summer Fashions

These gay spring styles were shown Thursday evening at a fashion show held at Montgomery Ward's. From left to right, Jenny Shumake wears a silk and cotton frock in a soft blue with a white polka dot; Emma Puga shows a shirtwaist dress of cotton, in a gold print. A linen weave cotton in beige with a leaf print, worn by Virginia Moore, has a tiny bolero, solid, lined with the print fabric. Renee Howell's jacket is also lined with the print of the dress she wears. It is of white, with an avocado figure. All dresses are washable.

Chapped lips may be remedied easily if a lip pomade is applied before going to bed and before going outdoors.

Hot Sandwich

A hot sandwich or sausage and apples is a satisfying luncheon entrée that's quick and easy to prepare. Shape sausage meat into patties about 1/4-inch thick. Fry and remove from pan but keep hot. Core unpeeled red Washington Winesap apples and cut in thick slices. Saute apple slices in a little sausage fat. Place a sausage patty and a slice of apple on buttered toast. If desired, garnish with bacon curls and serve with cole slaw.

Keep Lips Smooth

Chapped lips may be remedied easily if a lip pomade is applied before going to bed and before going outdoors.

Look to GAS for the fastest team that ever whizzed through the wash

Don't let your good automatic washer put up with half-hearted help. See how two efficient Gas appliances actually cut laundry time... make your laundry really AUTOMATIC.

1. An automatic Gas water heater is 3 times faster than non-flame heaters... gives the plentiful extra-hot water necessary for cleaner, whiter washes. You never have to run a load through again because it looks dingy. You save on bleaches, soap, agitator time. Yet you pay less to buy, less to install and use a Gas water heater.

2. An automatic Gas clothes dryer is the speediest dryer made. It does away with long warm-up periods, takes clothes fast as they come from your washer, and delivers them fluff-dried and ready to put away. Imagine, your ironing is cut by one-third. Automatic gas operation is cheaper, too.

Is it any wonder that professional laundrettes—obviously concerned with efficiency—prefer Gas 30 to 1? Take a tip and make sure your laundry is GAS.

HI--TALK

By Mary Sue Hale

An active participant in many BSHS and local organizations, Richard Engle, senior of the week, was practically a "name in the news" this week by winning first place in the boys' division of the Hi-Y Speech contest at the spring conference last weekend. Especially active in Hi-Y work, he is a three-year member of the organization and is now serving as chaplain.

Richard also seems to have chosen DeMolay work in which to excel. He was recently installed as senior counselor, and has previously held the offices of first and second preceptor, senior steward and chaplain of the installing team.

A scholarly inclination can be attributed to Richard, as he was selected as outstanding typing student and has been listed on the honor roll the entire first semester of this year.

Track is the sport entered by Richard, and he is a three-year Key Club member. Local vice president of the MYF at the First Methodist Church, Richard serves as sub-district vice president of MYF.

This past week being Student Council Week, the Texas Association of Student Councils staged a conference Thursday through Saturday at Midland. "Life—A Matter of Choice" was the theme assigned both the conference and the opening speech, given by Tom Henry Guin, president of our student body and president of the Texas Association of Student Councils. He spoke Thursday night and presided during general meetings Friday.

Sally Cowper, corresponding secretary, was in charge of distributing more than 150 discussion topics that were assigned to different schools of the state. Other members of the student council who participated in the events at Midland were Gary Tidwell, Johnny Janak, Lou Ann White, Val Jean LaCroix, Sally Cowper, and Mrs. Betty Lou Ratliff and W. C. Blankenship, faculty representatives.

In order to acquaint local organizations with the responsibility of the student council in relation to school activity, members visited local organizations this week.

Sally Cowper, Bennie Compton, Tommie Williamson, Gary Tidwell and Tom Guin spoke to the Lions Club, Wednesday. The ABC Club was visited Friday by Kenda McGibbin, Rodney Sheppard, and J. T. Baird.

The second conference game of the volleyball team was played and won Tuesday night in the Steer gym, Odessa, the visiting opponent, was beaten 32-14. With 16 points, Carolyn Miller was the high point scorer. Starting line-up was Jean Peters, Nita Beth Farrar, Eunice Freeman, Carolyn Miller, Freda Donica, and Elaine Russell.

The Lamesa tournament has also been entered by our volleyball team with a first win Thursday night. McDonald was defeated by our girls 48-4. The tournament continued through Saturday.

Make plans now to attend the junior class box supper in the high school cafeteria Thursday at 7 p.m.

Future Homemakers Club No. 1 has extended its goal for the March of Dimes campaign. Books of favorite recipes, the recipes being obtained from students and faculty members, are being sold for $1 each. This project has met with remarkable success and the supply of books is limited. As yet, however, a purchase can be made from any member of FHA No. 1.

The Future Teachers of America state conference was held this weekend at Denton. Local members participating in the scheduled round of events were Betty Cain, Joyce Lankford, Charlie McCarty, Melva Turner, and Terrell Turner. Donald Green, club sponsor, accompanied the group.

An American Legion speech contest was sponsored this week in our high school. This assigned topic dealt with different phases of our constitution. Bennie Compton, first place winner, will be presented with a medal and will present a trophy to the school. Sally Cowper and J. D. Adams, second and third place winners, will receive medals. Bennie competed for distributing Saturday in Lubbock where first place winners from the surrounding area gathered for judging.

Debate teams journeyed to Fabens this week with their sponsor, Dell McComb, to compete in a debate conference, in which Texas and New Mexico high schools entered. Members of the local team making the trip are Rodney Sheppard, J. T. Baird, Nita Jones, Prissy Pond, and Dennis Jones.

Twenty-two FHA members attended the FHA area meeting Saturday in Odessa. Morning and afternoon sessions were held in which next year's officers were elected. Opal Hancock, local president of the FHA Chapter I, and incoming district vice president, was a stage guest for a portion of the day.

Frances Reagan, outgoing area vice president, presided for a portion of the afternoon sessions. Darlene Agee, Agatha Cagle, Annette Boykin, Deanne Koger, Bella Veris, Reba Crian, Carol Self, Sandra Sloan, Elvira Mendoza, Nelda Stewart, Beatrice Gonzales, Nita Greenhill, Hanna Moore, Carol Holmes, Gloria Autrey, and Patsy Potter composed the group from Club No. 2.

Mojie Henson, Opal Hancock, Loreta Bettet, Carlene Coleman and Arlinda Grifford attended from Club No. 1. Sponsors Edna McGregor and Mrs. Nancy Annen accompanied the girls.

In a three-day track meet with Stanton and Coahoma, the Steers wound up with 90 points, while Coahoma finished with 14, and Stanton with 10 1/2. Johnny Janak won both the 100 and 220, while Bobby Fuller won the 180-yard low hurdle. Other Big Springers figuring in the meet were Don Anderson, Ronnie King, Clyde McMahon, Guinette Gibbs, Bobby Laufermilk, Darrel Sanders, Don Collins, and Richard Engle.

At a banquet, held Thursday evening at the College Mission Baptist Church, the program was given mostly by high school students. Tommy Pickle and Sandy Sloan presented a skit which concerned baby talk vs. wealth. Included in those attending were Ben Faulkner, Brenda Gordon; Patsy Potter, Charlie McCarty; Frances Reagan, Walter Wheat; Carol Rogers, Charles Johnson; Sheila Holmes, Bobby Fuller; Johnny Roy Phillips, Susan Landers; and Linda Coker, Rendel Hamby.

Ladies Golf Group To Landscape Club Site

The Ladies Golf Association of the Big Spring Country Club voted to accept the landscaping plans for the club grounds at their luncheon Friday.

Mrs. Pete Harmonson gave a report on the second project—that of setting up a playground with any funds left over from the landscaping.

Mrs. C. A. DeWees reported on the ladies' day golf games. She announced that the last Tuesday in the month would end the current contest, with dinner to be served to the winners by the losers. Mrs. DeWees also announced a Scotch Foursome in costume for this afternoon.

A new member, Mrs. Akin Simpson, was introduced. Guests were Mrs. Harvey Williamson, Mrs. J. L. LeBleu, Mrs. R. D. Whittington Jr., Mrs. Kimball Guthrie, Mrs.

Julia Bonifield, Mrs. Eleanor Beckham and Mrs. Don Henry.

Members and guests were seated at quartette tables, covered with white cloths and holding a cluster of tiny chenille cattails in a styrofoam base.

Decorations on the buffet table also followed a springtime theme. An arrangement of bronze snapdragons and talisman roses filled a straw hat, placed on a brown tablecloth. Harmonizing ribbon tied the flowers, flanked by yellow tapers in iron holders. Wooden bowls and baskets were used in serving.

Winner of the floral arrangement was Mrs. Bennett Brooke. Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. R. E. McKinney, Mrs. Don Newsum, Mrs. Floyd Mays and Mrs. DeWees. Mrs. Jack Cook is chairman for the April luncheon.

HCTA Announces Alternate Delegate

FORSAN — Mrs. Bill Conger has been elected alternate delegate of the Howard County Teachers Association to attend the West Texas Teachers Association Convention in Midland Friday.

Mrs. Conger teaches the seventh grade.

Mrs. Belle Overton celebrated her 80th birthday recently at a surprise party in the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jesse Overton.

The lace-covered refreshment table was centered with a white decorated cake with red roses inscribing a birthday message. Gifts were displayed.

SEC. III BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MARCH 4, 1956 SEC. III

THIS WEEK

Schools Open For Public Visitation

Texas School Week will be observed in Big Spring and other Howard County schools during this week.

Proclaimed by Gov. Allan Shivers, this week will be the occasion all over Texas for encouraging patron visitation in schools. In Big Spring, Mayor G. W. Dabney joined in the proclamation, calling upon all citizens to take advantage of the special opportunities to know their schools first hand.

"Nothing would be better for schools than for every patron and friend of education to take time to inquire into the program, the aims and the needs of our schools," he said. "People are most interested in the things they know about, and our schools are too precious to be dealt with by apathetic people."

There will be two days during the week which will feature special events. The first is Tuesday when business and professional men will go into the schools and see first hand some of their normal functionings. A busy schedule has been arranged for the day with visits to the high school, elementary schools, and the junior college. Visitors will be guests at a luncheon in the high school cafeteria, and then during the afternoon they will divide into small groups and be assigned to "go to school" in various classrooms. This is the reciprocal program to the E-E Day last autumn when teachers took off a day to go into the city's businesses and industries.

The other special day will be Thursday when patrons and all others interested will be urged to visit in the school.

W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said that he and the entire staff hoped that every parent who possibly can will make it a point to visit in the classroom where his or her child is taught.

L. V. Norman, director of elementary education, announced that every school in the system would plan and present a 15-minute radio program over either KBST or KTXG during the week. In addition, there will be five programs presented over station KBST-TV.

At Coahoma, Superintendent H. L. Miller asked parents to visit all during the week. Refreshments will be served each afternoon in the elementary library and the high school to those who call on the schools. There will be a band concert at the high school at 12:45 p.m. Tuesday, and on Thursday the Lions Club will have its regular weekly meeting in the high school cafeteria. Another special event will be the minstrel show presented Monday evening in the auditorium.

Band Boosters Slate Meeting

March monthly meeting of the Band Boosters is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the High School auditorium.

Clyde Rowe, band director, said a short concert by the High School band will precede the business session.

Mrs. Charles E. Marstrand, president of the Boosters, will preside at the meeting.

Plans will be reviewed for the annual spring concert by the bands which is to be set for sometime in late April or May. The band also will have its annual banquet and awards event about the same time.

These events, highlights of the year, are to be set in motion at Monday's meeting. A general invitation to all members and others interested in the band to attend has been extended.

Reading Plans Much Improved

This is one of a series of articles dealing with local educational processes and services. It is presented in observance of Texas Education Week—Ed.

Most learning, especially in schools, is based upon the ability to read.

Much has been said and written on the subject of reading instruction — and much of this has been couched in generalities and fabricated to support a particular thesis. About the only thread of consistency in conclusions is that "they don't teach reading like they used to in my day."

"They" certainly don't. But that doesn't mean the time-honored elements such as phonics have been abandoned. There's more reason than rote in the reading program of Big Spring Schools.

Oddly, the first thing in a reading program has little outwardly to do with reading. For the first six weeks first graders go through a readiness program. They are taught to listen. In reading they will hear this phrase over and over: "Listen while I say..." How well they are able to listen may determine ultimately what kind of pupils they will become.

Thus, the first actual contact with reading is phonetical. The child listens while the teacher says "mother... mother." He watches the mouth, the eyes, the expression, and hears the sound.

Soon the time comes for work in the basal reader. You won't see this book unless you visit your child's room, for it is not to be taken home. It is the tool for giving new meaning to words already in the child's listening vocabulary.

New words are introduced, at the rate of about two to a page. They are repeated at least 10 times subsequently. By the time a child reaches the second grade he has a visual understanding of 224 of these words. The rate steps steadily in the second and third grades. By the time he reaches the fourth grade, a child is ready to go to the dictionary.

Reading — in the concept of the program of understanding, attitude and skill. One of the foremost problems is to capture and sustain interest. Pictures furnish a prime means. Under the subtle guidance of the teacher, pupils pick out the things in the picture which will be spotlighted in the lesson. They notice, for instance, that the dog is unusually big and that he is purple (perception and curiosity). They hear the ditty about the purple cow and laugh (humor).

All the while the teacher is jotting down words on the board as the pupils discover them. One of them is "story." This is a new word. It has the same starting sound as still, style, start (phonics again). They study this word silently, and are taught to understand its meaning in relation to how it is used in the sentence. They are helped to relate it to their own experiences.

After the board exercise, pupils may read silently. The teacher suggests they think what is in the story. They are reminded that Dr. McKee (who wrote the reading series) couldn't tell the story in person so he wrote it, thus each sentence should be read just like Dr. McKee would say it (expression).

Next comes a period of talking over what they have read silently. This sets the stage for oral reading. Everyone gets to read some. Readers are divided into groups according to reading ability — fast, average, slow. These groups are flexible and change frequently as children progress or remain static.

Word analysis (more phonics) teaches the child to recognize the word in different settings. Find "story" on page six, he is told. Pick "story" out of a list of words which begin with "st." How is "story" like "star," "step," "steep," "stir"? Which word is different in story, stone, stop, struck, brown, stick? Children clap their hands when "brown" turns up.

A list of words is placed on the board. Children find them as they are called. Questions on the board are read silently, then orally. "Drop 'm' from 'more' and add 'st' and you have 'store'." Thus, you can make "may" into "stay," "tick" into "stick," "jump" into "sump," etc. Thus, word building, transferring of sounds and blending of consonants is accomplished.

Children go to their practice books. Here the words introduced in basal readers are repeated in such a way as not only to drill, but to test comprehension, to distinguish the phonic elements, and perceive structure.

Youngsters are taught to recognize words — not letters. Letter recognition comes later and naturally. At the outset a letter is meaningless — but a word is full of meaning. From the start the child captures the idea that reading is like talking in print, that words are ideas and pictures and a means of expression. In dealing with words day by day, seeing the alphabet written around the wall, the child (if proud parents hadn't already taught him the alphabet) logically and almost inevitably learns the alphabet.

One other thing must be mentioned in this all to brief sketch of the reading processes. It is the use of supplemental readers. There are literally scores of these bearing at specific word or grade level. Every child is encouraged to read in a book where he is at ease and enjoys it. When that book is finished, another one is given. Gradually, books with new words are given. If a child has had his interest whetted in reading as he should, he can literally read himself up the ladder. He can even catch up with his fellows if he were a grade level or so behind.

There is one final thing to remember about reading. Not every one learns to swim, to walk, to run, to figure, or sing alike. The same will be true in reading. (More local education articles on page 8 of this section.)

They Tell About Teaching Reading And 'Riting

Seated around a conference table containing books which the average second grade youngster will master during the course of a year, teachers and administrators last week answered questions by a Herald reporter on some basic subjects such as reading, writing and spelling as taught in Big Spring Schools. In this group are L. D.

Cooperative Action Worth Study

Building problems constantly confront a growing community and except in places where unusual resources present great tax bases, the most judicious and efficient application of funds becomes a prime point. Where cooperative effort can get the job done better and at less cost to the taxpayer, possibility of such action ought to be explored thoroughly.

A case in point is the matter of an athletic stadium. For some time now the Big Spring Independent School District has been faced with the urgent prospect of having to enlarge its present facilities. The cold economics of the situation might not justify such a step, and yet we are caught in the web of having not only to look to our local needs but also to the demands of our colleagues in the inter-scholastic league.

For instance, the seating required for Big Spring fans and those of a comparable or lesser size community is one thing; that of Big Spring and a city like Midland, Odessa, San Angelo, Abilene is quite another. This is the class of competition against whom we must move and who will bring a far greater concourse of fans than we have heretofore experienced.

The time when Howard County Junior College undertakes a football program, may be several years away, but if the growth of the college continues at its present rate, that time might come sooner than most of us think. There is a point (though we do not have any idea just where) of enrollment that will bring on demands for the sport, even though it may not be financially sound. Ultimately, for a variety of reasons, the sport may have to be added.

This poses the question of a joint undertaking between the Big Spring schools and HCJC. Trustees of the Big Spring schools have given the matter some rather serious thought, and there has been some general conjecture on the part of the HCJC board. Perhaps the time has come for some direct overtures and concrete analyses of the factors.

One school of thought is that a stadium might be built around the new HCJC track. Another is that it would be about as economical and more satisfactory to construct a bowl-type stadium on the south-east side of the HCJC track. There is ample land (even allowing for a tremendous amount of building expansion) for a stadium and parking area. It could be that part of the surrounding area could be stabilized with asphalt for reserved (paid) parking area and help pay for operation and contribute some to amortization.

There is probably much to be said for either course, but to us there seems vastly more to be said for the general idea of cooperative action. The details could be worked out as seems best if the major decision can be reached. Thus, neither would face an extraordinary financial burden in producing a plant that would be out of the reach of one or the other individually.

The old saying goes that two heads are better than one—so we submit that the time may now be ripe for getting the two heads together.

Guessing Turns To Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower ended one guessing game—and involuntarily started another.

Mr. Eisenhower will accept if nominated but who will be his running mate? Will there be just as vigorous a campaign for presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket as before? Is it a sure thing that Ike will be elected?

These questions may get one set of answers in March, and a different set several months from now.

If the election were held tomorrow, Ike would win but not by as big a margin as he did in 1952. For this time he will not carry some of the Southern states he won before. Nor will the Democrats win all of them back, as there is a good possibility of a third bloc—state's rights' ticket—being formed to mobilize electoral votes in the South.

The health of the President will be an issue but not as important as the Democrats think. Of all those Democrats who commented on Ike's decision to run, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee made the most sensible and in many respects the best statement from a political standpoint when he said: "I am glad President Eisenhower feels that his health will permit him to make a campaign seeking another four years in the presidency. Having been responsible for the record of the past four years, the President is the best qualified man to defend that record. The campaign can be waged on its merits without muddling but with no punches pulled."

This is in good taste and emphasizes that, in America, debate on issues rather than personalities is what counts most with the voters. They resent any effort at personal attack or disparagement of a man's physical condition. The Republicans never made an issue of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's physical handicaps, and the Democrats would be making a grievous mistake if they tried it now with respect to Mr. Eisenhower.

For basically the American people ought to have the right to pick a President for a month or a year or four years and rely on their vice-presidential candidate to succeed him if fate wills it.

There will be an effort to "stop Nixon." Some Republicans, with a favorite candidate in their minds, may oppose the vice president's renomination, but most of the noise will come from Democrats and their sympathizers here in Washington. Thus, although Mr. Eisenhower, sticking to political custom, made it clear at Wednesday's press conference that he wouldn't want to announce himself for any vice-presidential nominee until he himself has actually become the presidential nominee.

Market Has Decided There Can Be Ebb And Flow

"What makes Wall Street so cuckoo?"

That question, propounded by a fellow newspaperman, calls for a psychologist.

Just before and just after President Eisenhower said yes, "BUY" orders poured on to the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

But so did "SELL" orders. These two irresistible forces met head-on about 10:32 Wednesday morning.

Later, the ticker fell 19 minutes behind transactions.

Yet, stocks got exactly nowhere.

The buying came from cautious persons who follow the adage that a wise prophet makes sure of the event first. Such investors and speculators reasoned: If the President runs, profits will rise, increased dividends and stock splits will follow. Therefore, stocks will be a worthwhile buy.

But there were plenty of others who felt that the President's decision wouldn't make "that much" difference to business or Wall Street. Stocks were high enough. Therefore, they'd lighten up their holdings. And when professional traders noticed that, when stock prices didn't advance, they became bearish. They reasoned: "If this much buying can't put stocks up, then the line of resistance must be down."

The statement in Wall Street sums up the probable effect of the President's decision. It's more reasonable than the enthusiastic comments of business men—"Reassuring and confidence-inspiring"—that greeted the announcement. Fling your memory back to late September and early October, just after the President had his heart attack.

At first, there was deep concern and worry. Corporation executives omitted rationalized that Republicanism and Democratic policies weren't different underneath. Corporations make money, regardless of who's in the White House. If production doesn't run, production, employment, and profits work is less would not go to pot. For business, plentiful. Everyone's waiting—cause for a runaway boom now.

On this, Wednesday's cuckoo stock market performance was reassuring. After the mad early buying came sanity, reappraisal, and stalemated. An acknowledgment that this is a big country, that the ebb and flow of business isn't controlled by one man's decision. Which is what the market last fall had decided. Quite sensibly.

But investors are paying amply for prosperity. At the moment, automobile production is down 30 per cent from a year ago. Home-building is still well below last year. And overtime work is less would not go to pot. For business, plentiful. Everyone's waiting—cause for a runaway boom now.

Around The Rim

Big Job On Highways—The Interstate System

This projected new routing of the U. S. 80 freeway is a ticklish matter on some fronts, and I would not want to add another tickle right now.

Got to looking at a map and reading an article on the national highway program, though, and the thing looks mighty big from the overall viewpoint, so big that individual segments must of necessity have to be brought into it, at some time.

The administration, with others, has been pushing for some time for an accelerated highway program, but, important to us, is the fact that singled out for special attention is a 40,000-mile interstate system. I take it this particular network of roads was carefully charted by engineers, on the basis of military needs, of national traffic flow, and similar broad factors. While this special network comprises only one per cent of the national highway mileage, it carries 20 per cent of the total out-of-city traffic. The system connects 42 of the 48 state capitals, and touches 182 of the 199 cities with more than 50,000 population.

If you see this network on a map, you'll note that Highway 80 is one of the key east-west routes. Between the Mississippi and the West Coast, the transcontinental lines thin out a bit, until there are only about a half-dozen of the freeways envisioned.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads estimates it would take around $27 billions to bring this system up to a standard adequate for the traffic demands of today and those anticipated by 1970. A target date for completing this work within 10 to 15 years has been set by exponents of the interstate system.

These same exponents are bringing up again the old phrase of "too little and too late." The figure of 61 million vehicles now traveling U. S. highways is nearly double the 33 million being operated just ten years ago. By 1965, the experts say, there will be 81 million vehicles in this country—all of them, I suppose, going some place.

Well, by the best standards the nation's roads in 1946 were inadequate for the needs of the time. They seem to be inadequate for today's needs. So, if the construction program is not kept up, chaos on the highways can result.

Texas itself passed the 4 million mark in motor vehicle registration last year, whereas it had only 1.7 million the decade before. The expectation is that the figure will be 6 million by 1965.

We all know that the highway problem is not static. It progresses with the growth of the country, the state, its towns and cities. It takes a lot of forward-looking to stay ahead of the immediate pressures. The interstate network is one example of forward planning.

Certainly the freeway system will keep developing. It obviously will encounter obstacles here and there—obstacles of financing, of public acceptance, of proper planning, routing and construction.

It would appear that, as highways develop more in importance—and nobody has ever sold them short as a means of developing better cities—the interstate system takes on more significance than ever. It can mean a lot to towns on the routes as well as to the national picture.

Wonder what the reaction would have been, had the national planning incorporated Highway 180 into the freeway network, instead of U. S. 80—if the four-lane system had traveled from Fort Worth to El Paso via Breckenridge, Anson, Snyder, Lamesa, Carlsbad? Some towns would have been scratching.

Don't Take Ike's Re-Election For Granted

WASHINGTON — Will he or won't he has now been moved onto the somewhat higher and far more controversial plane of should he or shouldn't he.

The chorus of those who want President Eisenhower to run has been deafening. But the opposition is bound to make an issue of the President's health and his capacity to function fully and effectively in the most difficult office in the world.

That issue has, in fact, already been drawn, although discussion has been muted since the President's heart attack of last September and while he reached his decision.

It has been charged that the country is being governed by a regency, with the President as a part-time executive, carrying only a fraction of the burden of the office. From here on out, that will be the theme of the Democrats.

This obviously puts the President under a great responsibility. Between now and November, a single canceled television performance, even though the cause is only a bad cold or a touch of grippe, will feed the doubt that the Democratic opposition has fostered.

The President must give every outward appearance of doing a full-time job in the White House. For a man who has suffered a heart attack officially described as "moderate"—some doctors who have examined the records believe it was severe—this is a strain.

If another cardiac accident were to eliminate the President as a candidate for re-election, the Republican party would be under the necessity of calling a new convention and selecting a new man to head the ticket. That is, unless prior authority had not been granted to the national committee to find a substitute.

Should this occur at the end of the campaign, the chaos that would ensue is evident. Of course, as the President's health pointed out, cardiac accidents may happen to any man at any time. The popular assumption, however, is that a person who has had one attack is more likely to have another, and there are statistics to support that belief.

DO IT YOURSELF Desk Can Be Built Profitably, Easily

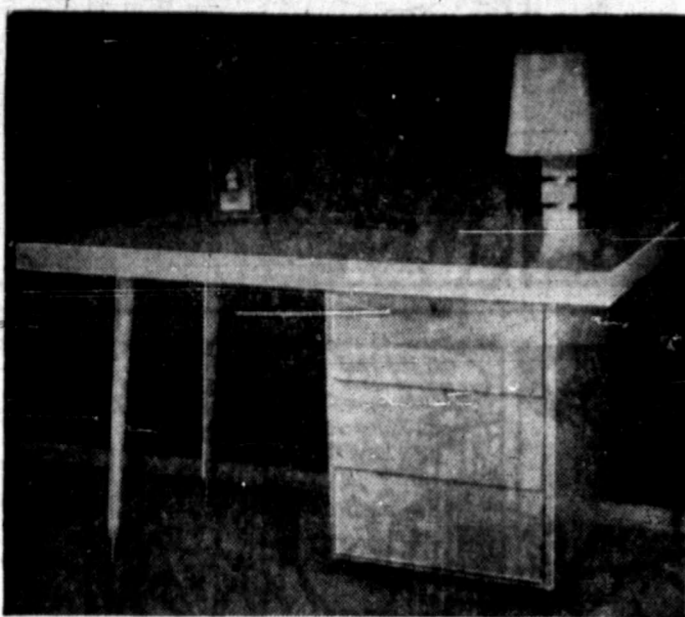

By BILL BAKER
So, you've been wishing that you could own a desk! Well, why not build one for yourself?

Even if you've never had wood-working experience, you'll be able to build an exact copy of the desk pictured above. Worth much more than a hundred dollars, the desk can be built for a few dollars worth of materials and a few pleasant workshop hours.

Skill isn't needed in wood-working when you have the right pattern available. And the right pattern is available in my pattern package No. 114.

Much like a woman's dress pattern, you'll discover that each section of the desk is duplicated in heavy-weight paper. All you'll have to do, then, is to tack down the pattern pieces, trace and cut. You are assured an exact fit when you assemble the desk.

A complete material list and full directions are also included with the pattern. You'll especially like the size of the finished desk—the top measures a big 31 inches by 53 inches. Standard 28-inch wooden legs, as pictured above, or wrought iron legs can be used.

DESK OF CLEAN AND SIMPLE LINES

Here's how to get your pattern: send only one dollar ($1) in check, cash or money order together with your name and address (clearly printed), to Bill Baker, Big Spring Herald, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, Calif. Be sure to say that you want pattern No. 114.

French Soaks Up English

PARIS (AP)—Guardians of the French language are frowning their brows over the number of English words that keep sneaking into the Frenchman's vocabulary.

Reaching for an English word himself, a writer for the respected morning newspaper Le Figaro blamed it all on "snobism." Such terms as cocktail, scooter, football, pool, score, mixer, surprise party, and snack bar are well known to the average Frenchman. French cuisine is being invaded by sandwiches, hotdogs, hamburgers and cheeseburgers. They are readily available, often with French improvements.

In making the jump from the United States or Britain, English words sometimes get pulled a little out of shape.

Cocktail is pronounced by the French something like "coke-tail." And a cocktail in France is a party as well as something to drink. But stay away from the French version of the Martinee cocktail.

A sur-preeze part-ee in France isn't an occasion where you barge in on someone unexpectedly and shout "Happy birthday." A surprise party over here is more like a potluck affair in America, where the guests bring along something to eat or drink.

A group of French language watchdogs, known as the "consultative Committee of the Scientific Language," recently renewed its opposition to foreign terms.

Too often, the committee said, the words are badly defined when adopted by the French, and anyway "our language is rich enough to respond to all the needs of expression."

Men Not Made For Outer Space

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 3 (AP)—The human body wasn't made to penetrate deeply into outer space in the era of rockets and satellites. Extreme low air pressures a scant 13 miles above the earth would cause body liquids to boil in the absence of pressurized suits or cabins.

After two desperate minutes, a man would die. His circulation would stop after gas from the boiling turmoil in his body reached his heart.

These observations were reported recently by researchers at Ohio State University, studying what effects low air pressures would have on the heart.

Dr. Fred A. Hitchcock and Dr. John P. Kempf have photographic evidence of the heart reaction when the "boiling" develops.

They used animals in specially constructed low-pressure chambers and took X-ray shots while the animals were subjected to sudden reductions in air pressure, such as might occur if a pressurized aircraft cabin should fail more than 13 miles up.

The X-rays showed that blood circulation continued no more than 16 seconds after the pressure dropped to that found at more than 13 miles; gas appeared in the heart shortly afterwards causing "what an engineer would call a vapor lock," the scientists reported.

Previous research indicated that two-minute exposure to the low pressure was fatal in most cases but complete recovery usually followed exposure for 1 1/2 minutes, the researchers said.

Man can survive these pressures, the doctors report, with the "adequate protection" given by Air Force and Navy pressure suits.

Reds Report On Heart Disease

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union reports 3 1/2 million persons suffering from heart disease.

This amounts to 43 per cent of all invalids in the U.S.S.R., Minister of Health Maria D. Kovrigina says. She gave no figures on the incidence of cancer but said Soviet death rates from heart disease and cancer are lower than those in the majority of capitalist states.

The report said heart ailments can best be prevented by "reduction of the working day, combining rest with work, balancing diet and participation in athletic activities."

Charge Against Negro Dropped

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A charge of unlawful practice against Negro attorney Fred D. Gray, legal spokesman for bus boycotters, was dismissed in Circuit Court Friday when the state admitted it does not have jurisdiction.

Circuit Solicitor William T. Thetford said the state could not prosecute the young attorney because the offense for which he was indicted took place in a federal building.

Gray, 25, was indicted for unlawful practice growing out of an antisegregation suit attacking Alabama bus segregation laws which he filed in U.S. District Court in the name of five Negro women. He was indicted after one of the women, Mrs. Jeannette Reese, said later she had not given permission for the action.

He was indicted two weeks ago by the Montgomery County grand jury which later charged some 100 other Negro leaders here with violating Alabama's antiboycott law by their prolonged protest which has been in effect since Dec. 5 against racially segregated buses.

Profit-Sharing, Stock Plans Announced By Anthony Co.

A profit-sharing plan and a stock-issue plan for qualifying employees is being put into effect by the C. R. Anthony Company, it is announced by M. C. Grigsby, manager of the local Anthony store.

Stockholders approved the programs at their recent annual meeting in Oklahoma.

Based upon 20 per cent of the company's annual profits after taxes, with certain deductions for costs and capital requirements, the profit-sharing plan provides that one-half of the profits to be shared will be paid out annually direct to qualifying employees below the level of store manager, with the other half to be paid annually to a trustee to provide retirement and other deferred benefits. Employees become eligible to share after one year's service and will contribute no money to the plan.

The employees' stock issue plan will make it possible for every employee to acquire for cash or upon installment basis up to 25 shares of the company's capital stock. The new benefits established by the Anthony company are in addition to others in effect, such as pensions, group life, sickness, hospitalization and accident insurance, bonuses, sick leaves and vacations.

C. R. Anthony Company with headquarters in Oklahoma City, operates 238 stores in 18 states, employs more than 7,000, and has an annual payroll of approximately $5,500,000.

Sleep Walker Is Now Sleep Driver

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The driver of a mud-stuck automobile told police he must have been "sleep driving."

He had no other explanation for the fact he was clad only in underclothes and shoes.

He said he was all the time sleep-walking but believed this was his first snooze at the wheel. The man's mother confirmed he was a sleep-walker.

The Rains Come Again

Richard Burton as the East Indian, Lana Turner as a fairer type of maiden, are principals in "The Rains of Ranchipur," booked for the last three days of the week at the Jet Drive-In. This is a new version of Somerset Maugham's notable story, "The Rains Came," and is in CinemaScope.

Miss Stanwyck, Robt. Ryan Star In 'Escape To Burma'

Barbara Stanwyck, Robert Ryan and David Farrar provide a co-star combination in "Escape to Burma," which plays at the Terrace Drive-In Thursday and Friday. They have out-of-the-ordinary roles, thanks to a film that offers novelty, color and scenic excitement. Miss Stanwyck portrays a self-reliant woman who lives a contented life as mistress of a teak forest plantation, until Ryan, a stranger, seeks haven in her iso-

'Violent Men' Has Glenn Ford, Edw. Robinson

Power and excitement are promised in "The Violent Men," one of two features offered at the Terrace Drive-In tonight and Monday. It's drama of the desires and passions which tear apart a frontier valley when men fight for life, land and love. Starring are Glenn Ford, Barbara Stanwyck and Edward G. Robinson, Dianne Foster, Brian Keith, May Wynne and Anderson are featured players. The picture is in CinemaScope and Technicolor.

"The Violent Men" has its setting in the post-Civil War period when small ranchers faced the challenge of the land barons, and either succumbed to their push for empire or died trying to stop them. In the story, embattled ranchers organize under the leadership of a former cavalry officer who uses his military science to combat the army seeking to destroy him and his fellows.

Coupled with this war for the land are the emotional conflicts between the "violent men" and their women. Ford watches May Wynne, his fiancée walk on him, and on the other side of the battle for land, Robinson, Miss Stanwyck and Brian Keith are involved in a desperate triangle. "The Terrace offers, along with "The Violent Men," an action-romance with a more familiar locale. It's called "Lady From Texas," and has Mona Freeman and Howard Duff as the stars.

'World In My Corner'

Audie Murphy and Barbara Rush have principal roles in a story about the prize fight business, "World In My Corner." It shows at the Ritz Thursday through Saturday, and traces the life of a boxer from his youth in the slums to a position of world champion welterweight.

Jeff Morrow is a millionaire meedler who nearly upsets Audie's ideals. Miss Rush is his daughter who at first scorns the young fighter, then learns to love him. Boxfight scenes in the picture are filmed with technical perfection and with excitement. Some real-life fighters in the story are Chico Vejar, Art Aragon, Cisco Andrade and Baby Ike. The admirers of sports stories will be attracted to this one.

Seeks Information On 'Beer' Hunting

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho highway department says it receives some odd requests for information. This one, for instance, had employees stumped for a couple of seconds: "I would like information on elk deer and beer hunting in Idaho." It came from Balboa Island, Calif. Seems someone had hit the "e" instead of the "a" on the typewriter when asking for information on "beer" hunting.

Bombing Mission Furnishes Action In 'Hell's Horizon'

An exciting story of a dangerous bombing mission—a solo radar attack on a Yalu River bridge—is brought to the screen in "Hell's Horizon," on the State theatre's bill for Friday and Saturday. Starring are John Ireland, Marla English, Bill Williams and Hugh Beaumont.

Ireland is seen as the ambitious captain of a lone bomber ordered to blast the "world's most dangerous target. He faces difficulty with a crew that has been demoralized by months of boring inactivity, and he has to solve a problem with daring leadership. Williams is his co-pilot, a steady influence who looks to the return home.

The picture's action occurs as the plane presses home the attack despite lack of protective cover of clouds, finds itself mauled by enemy fighters. The mission is accomplished, but there's drama ahead for the trip back home.

Frontier Drama Told In 'Foxfire'

Jane Russell, Jeff Chandler and Dan Duryea are in Universal-International's "Foxfire," coming to the Terrace Drive-In Tuesday and Wednesday.

In Technicolor, this film tells a fiery love story of a young heiress who marries a half-breed Apache Indian miner. Joseph Pevney directed, and the cast includes Mara Corday, Barton MacLane and Frieda Inescort. On the same program is a romantic comedy, "Katie Did It," with Ann Blyth and Mark Stevens.

Trapped

That might be the word for Frank Sinatra, but when the trapper is Debbie Reynolds, he likes it. They are featured in a gay bit of romance called "The Tender Trap," which headlines the bill at the Jet Drive-In tonight and Monday. The story might be termed applicable to Leap Year.

Goodman's Career In Swing Dramatized In Ritz Picture

Benny Goodman is no old man in retirement (he's packing 'em in the Waldorf Astoria right now), but he's reached that pinnacle of success that justifies a movie about him.

The result is the tuneful "Benny Goodman Story," a new production of high appeal that opens today at the Ritz for a four-day run. It originally had been scheduled for opening last Friday, but there were booking changes.

The word is out the "B. G. Story" tops that film version of Glenn Miller's life. A lot of entertainment is packed into one story. Combining a musical revival of some golden years of swing with a simple love story, the production will refresh memories of one generation and introduce a musical artist to a newer generation.

Steve Allen of television fame carries the title role, although the musical sequences are handled by Benny himself. Donna Reed plays the part of the society girl who eventually became the bride of the kid across the Chicago tracks.

Others in the cast are Herbert Anderson as the music critic who boosted Goodman's career; Sammy Davis Sr., as the Goodman arranger, Fletcher Henderson.

Playing themselves in handsome fashion are such jazz greats as Harry James, Gene Krupa, Teddy Wilson, Lionel Hampton, Ben Pollack, Kid Ory, Ziggy Elman, Martha Tilton, Stan Getz and others. Musically, the picture hits a high note, as dozens of the great tunes Goodman made famous are presented. There's Dixieland jazz, swing music, and even those super numbers as offered by Benny in his famed Carnegie Hall concert. It's a Technicolor production from Universal-International.

Pupils Learn Writing Along With Reading

Writing dovetails into the reading program in Big Spring schools. It is not taught as a separate subject, with the push and pull exercises and the making of ovals, at least not in the elementary level. When a child reaches junior high level he may take writing or penmanship as an individual subject.

Earliest writing by youngsters is taught in manuscript (printed) rather than the cursive (long hand) variety. The reason is simple. Small children still lack a high degree of development of muscle control and coordination. Manuscript involves only simple curves and straight lines, whereas cursive writing is highly complex.

There is another reason for using manuscript writing at the outset. The child is undergoing a new experience in learning to read—and he reads from the printed word. Manuscript writing, therefore, does not confuse the young mind.

Before a child gets to write, he is told why we write—that words can tell a story, and that we write stories so others may read them and enjoy the stories just like we do. Writing, after all, is just printed talk.

Pupils have work books which give them an opportunity to identify and to practice lines and curves. While the teacher writes their words on the board, youngsters make up a story about Willie. After they have completed the short story, they then copy the words from the black board to a sheet of paper.

Teachers are not surprised when they copy the words or letters in vertical order, and even more frequently from right to left. Thus, one of the earliest problems is to teach the youngster that we write from left to right (because we read that way) and that we write in words which follow laterally after each other (and not vertically).

The next step is to build notebooks. Again they listen to stories about farms, countries, industries, etc. and gradually print little stories. They clip pictures to paste in with these and finally end up with some pictures they draw and a simple cover page. The finished product is taken proudly home. Not only are youngsters learning to spell, but they are learning about such things as farms, countries, industries, about how to appreciate their homes, etc.

When a child reaches the third grade, he begins to learn the art of cursive writing. Here again the process is repeated in an effort to make writing legible and yet remain an enjoyable experience to the writer.

Spelling Is Better Now Than Before

One of the most common charges leveled at schools today is that children don't learn to spell.

Educators argue that this is not true. They concede there are perhaps more poor spellers today than two or three generations ago—but two or three generations ago there were a whole lot of people who couldn't spell at all. The point is that now almost every child, regardless of mental ability, goes to school, whereas half a century ago only the better pupils, for the most part, stuck with school.

In spite of a fairly firm conception in the popular mind, the better student of today can outspell the better student of a long, long time ago. Surveys and checks of examination papers as far back as a century (given to modern youngsters) substantiate this.

The big difference in spelling instruction today and a half century ago is that spelling is not taught as a subject per se. Rather it is a part of the reading program. Instruction stems from word recognition rather than letter recognition.

After reading stories, youngsters then are given word exercises. They learn to spell by filling in blanks for those words. They learn to spell more according to the long vowel sound or the short vowel, and not by special rules such as "i" before "e" except after "c" etc. Spelling becomes a functional exercise—that is a part of reading and writing and is not exploited competitively such as in the spelling bees.

This does not mean there are no spelling tests. On the contrary, even the first, second and third graders have a unit (10 to 16 words) of spelling each week, involving a summary or "test" each Friday. This gets into spelling of specific words, perhaps in relation to other words or by themselves.

Because more emphasis is placed upon the phonetics of a word in spelling, teachers can almost tell the grade level of a child by the errors he makes in spelling—like "kat" (first grade) or "fore" (the fourth graders impulsive spelling of four).

Pranksters Move U. Of Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Motorists entering Louisville blinked when they saw this sign: "Lexington—Home of the University of Kentucky." The sign was taken down but the pranksters weren't identified.
