Conference Unit Studies Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee takes over today the task of rewriting the election year farm bill. Subject to later approval by both the Senate and the House, the five senators and five representatives will decide between rigid and flexible price supports, means of determining parity prices, provision of the soil bank plan and other regulations governing farmers' actions this year.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and head of the Senate conferees, still talked hopefully of an agreement before Congress begins a 10-day Easter recess Thursday. Major differences between the two bills made that appear unlikely.

Rep. Cooley (D-Mo.), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, called off a scheduled appearance tomorrow by Secretary of Agriculture Benson before his committee. Benson was to have discussed various provisions of the Senate bill with committee members, but Cooley said he wanted to head off "any more propaganda" by Benson.

Cooley said he acted after a news story quoted Benson that his meeting with the House group would give him a chance for further "missionary work" on the farm bill.

Talks Set For Sutton, Aiken

Two addresses of interest to parents will be given today and Tuesday by Dr. Willis Sutton, who is working with junior high, senior high and junior college students here.

Dr. Sutton, superintendent emeritus of Atlanta, Ga., is to speak at a meeting for junior and senior high faculty members and parents at 7:30 p.m. today in the high school auditorium. He will speak on the topic, "Growing Up With Our Children." W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said that he was anxious that as many parents as possible hear the highly regarded educator.

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—An XB-51 three-engine jet bomber, the only one of its type in existence, crashed and burned yesterday, killing one man and seriously injuring another.

IN SOUTH Violence Marks Segregation Scene

Scattered violence and a declaration that the South is not bluffing in its determination to win a legal reversal of the U.S. Supreme Court decisions highlighted the tense segregation scene yesterday. At Pensacola, Fla., about 100 Negroes attacked and beat two white men after a Negro was shot, and in Atlanta five Negroes escaped injury when an explosion damaged a home in the northwest section into which they moved last Friday.

The Pensacola incident developed in a predominantly Negro section while two Pensacola white

Westinghouse Pact Reached

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Top officials of the independent United Electrical Workers and Westinghouse Electric Corp. agreed last night on a five-year contract to end a 153-day strike.

Membership ratification is needed, but James J. Matles, UE director of organization, says he is recommending acceptance. The pact does not settle a local strike of 6,000 UE members at the firm's South Philadelphia plant. They walked out last Oct. 14, protesting a proposed change in wage payment plans.

The contract covers 3,200 at eight Westinghouse plants where the UE has representation. Terms of the agreement also would be applied to workers in Philadelphia once their local dispute is settled.

Westinghouse said economic clauses in the contract are the same as that signed with the 44,000-member AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers last Tuesday. That agreement ended a 156-day strike.

Negotiations aimed at bringing peace to the big turbine-producing plant in Philadelphia will be resumed there today.

Engineer Calls For More Machinery

County Commissioners devoted most of their Monday morning session to a conference with Walter Parks, county engineer, over his request for additional road machinery.

men, Johnnie J. Maloy, 50, and Hillary Calhoun, 41, were selling oranges from a truck. Sheriff's deputies said Maloy accused a Negro of stealing a crate of oranges, drew a gun and fired twice. A bullet struck Foster King, a 34-year-old Negro, in the leg. Deputies said Love Andrews, 29-year-old Negro, took the gun away from Maloy and then other Negroes swarmed over both men. Maloy suffered a brain concussion and a compound fracture of the leg. Andrews was held without bond on a charge of affray. Calhoun was arrested on the same charge and then freed under $100 bond.

The Atlanta explosion occurred in a predominantly white section where some homes have been sold to Negroes. A similar blast was reported Feb. 25 in the same area. Police did not determine what caused the blast which shattered part of the foundation of the frame structure and tore a hole in the living room floor. A white neighbor whose home suffered minor damage told police three Negro adults and two children moved out of the house with their belongings about five hours after the explosion.

In Washington, Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said one purpose of a manifesto signed by 101 Southern senators and House members was to alert all sections of the nation to what he called Southern determination to win a legal reversal of the Supreme Court decrees outlawing segregation in the schools.

"People in other sections of the nation think we are bluffing about this," he said in a TV interview. "We are not bluffing."

The Mississippi Democrat said there was "lots of room" for enactment of a constitutional amendment to permit continued racial segregation in the public schools but did not indicate such a move is planned.

In another radio debate on the issue, Rep. Forrester (D-Ga.) insisted the Supreme Court's decision outlawing segregation is "illegal" and called the Southern manifesto an "immortal" document.

Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) said it seemed to him "ridiculous to claim that a decision of the Supreme Court is illegal" and said the segregation decision "is a good decision and it is one which must be lived up to."

Shaver On Trial For Rape Slaying

BELTON (AP)—Jimmy Shaver, Lackland Air Force Base airman, was called to trial today for the murder of Chere Jo Horton, 3.

Shaver was tried at Brady in September, 1954, in the rape-slaying and was given the death penalty. The decision was reversed. The child disappeared from her parents' car parked outside a San Antonio tavern late in the evening. Her partially clothed body was found in a gravel pit a few hours later.

Three workers who had driven into the gravel pit identified Shaver as having emerged from the brush near the scene of the attack.

No Jurors Chosen For Adame Trial

DEL RIO (AP)—The trial of former Daval County School Supt. R. L. Adame opened in 63rd District Court today but by noon no jurors had been selected.

Adame's previous conviction on a charge of felony theft of school funds was overturned.

He said he first became aware of their connection with the Waco firm when he "read about it in the newspapers" after the company was thrown into receivership.

McDaniel was an attorney for U.S. Trust some two years and was a vigorous opponent of bills which threatened U.S. Trust with strict state supervision in 1955.

Shoemaker has agreed to repay to the receiver a $3,000 cash fee paid him by Shoemaker.

Other morning witnesses were Sens. Warren McDonald of Tyler and Jop Fuller of Port Arthur, two of nine senators invited to tell about fees received from U.S. Trust.

Jury Is Ordered For County Court

County Judge R. H. Weaver has scheduled a county court jury docket to open on April 10. The docket is to extend through the week.

Daniel Will Seek Governor's Office

Ike Prepares For Talks With U. S. Neighbors

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—President Eisenhower pulled into town hours ahead of time for his good neighbor conference with Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada.

He arrived aboard a special train from Washington after a leisurely overnight ride, breakfasted in a private car and drove to the huge white Greenbrier Hotel about 45 minutes later. There in late afternoon he was due to be joined by the Canadian and Mexican leaders, flying in from their distant capitals.

The first thing the President did was to make a morning golf date with Sam Snead, the Greenbrier professional. A chill wind whipped across the fairways from the surrounding mountains, which got a light sprinkling of snow during the night.

About 150 persons were waiting at the railroad station to cheer Eisenhower on his arrival. Another 200 or so were assembled at the entrance to the hotel. The President responded to their applause with smiles and waves.

Reds Launch Jet Airliner Challenge

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Russia—with a big new twin-jet airliner reported in mass production ahead of Britain and the United States—has launched a bold challenge for air routes in Europe and Asia.

The conference is to be held in the Virginia wing of the huge 600-room Greenbrier Hotel. American officials said the usual conference table has been dispensed with. The principals, together with their advisers, will hold their talks, other than at mealtime, in the living room of the $250-a-day Presidential Suite.

Supreme Court OKs Immunity Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld validity of the 1954 immunity law intended to compel witnesses to testify in national security cases.

The law provides that when a witness is reluctant to testify for fear of incriminating himself he may be directed by a federal judge to speak with the assurance that he will be immune from later prosecution as a result of anything he might disclose.

Stories of Easter-3

(This, the third of an Easter Week series, is about a respected member of the Jewish government who spoke up for Jesus after His regular friends deserted him.)

ON SATURDAY Junction's Famed Easter Pageant Set

JUNCTION (AP)—Two hours before Saturday midnight, a light high on a rocky hill overlooking the Llano River will signal the start of this West Texas city's unusual Easter observance.

Carefully picking his way between large boulders and twisted, water-hungry shrubs, the rider will descend the slope to join devoted friends who climb to meet him.

So will begin the Junction Easter Pageant, depicting Jesus' last sad week on earth.

The membership of a non-sectarian men's Bible class began the pantomime portrayal of the Easter story on the eve of Easter Sunday, 1951, before a small audience of townsmen.

Shoemaker Aide Denies 'Gifts'

AUSTIN (AP)—R. C. Lanning of Austin, one of the men who handled U.S. Trust & Guaranty Co.'s 1955 legislation problems, swore today he never gave any member of the Legislature money or other remuneration.

Lanning, who received $10,000 to represent the defunct banking insurance firm for six months, also insisted he never knew during the session that various legislators were on retainer to U.S. Trust.

He is a former state senator and former member of the state Board of Control by appointment from Gov. Shivers. Lanning testified as the House Investigating Committee resumed its inquiry into the rise and fall of U.S. Trust.

Asked if he knew Rep. Bert McDaniel of Waco, Sen. Carlos Ashby of Llano or Sen. William Shireman of Corpus Christi were on retainer to U.S. Trust during the past session, Lanning said he did not.

He said he first became aware of their connection with the Waco firm when he "read about it in the newspapers" after the company was thrown into receivership.

McDaniel was an attorney for U.S. Trust some two years and was a vigorous opponent of bills which threatened U.S. Trust with strict state supervision in 1955.

Ashley was an active leader of Senate opposition, which helped kill one bill adverse to U.S. Trust and which sought to exempt U.S. Trust from regulation by the state Insurance Department under the Insurance Securities Act.

Senator Makes Plans Clear At News Parley

DALLAS (AP)—Sen. Price Daniel made it clear today that he would announce tonight as a candidate for governor of Texas.

The senator, looking eager and energetic, held an early morning news conference with most of the talk revolving about his scheduled statewide radio and television broadcast tonight.

Daniel said he had received 29,352 replies to his request two weeks ago that voters tell him if they wanted him to make the race.

"The replies are favorable by a ratio of about 65 to 1," he said. "I assure you that if the response had not been favorable I would have been guided by that."

(Questioned about his possible resignation from the Senate Daniel said:

"We would certainly time it so that neither I nor anyone else would handicap my successor if I'm nominated for governor," then he added, "and if I run for governor."

Daniel arrived last night for the speech, which will be carried at various times by radio and TV stations beginning at 6:30 p.m. (CST) but the address is scheduled on the Texas Quality Network and Texas State Network at 8:30 p.m.

The senator said his speech tonight would be "a definite and direct announcement of what I'm going to do about the governor's race."

He said the response to the "sincere and frank request I made to the people has been very encouraging and heartwarming."

"My position was a little different from other prospective candidates," he said. "I did not feel free to seek a change without the wholehearted approval of the people I am working for."

Daniel still has two years to run on his Senate term. He said he plans to remain in the Senate unless "called to higher office. I have said before that if I ran for governor I would time it so my successor would not be hand-picked," Daniel said.

The voters, he said, should be the deciding factor in making a successor to him in the Senate if such is needed. By his wording, Daniel indicated he would time his resignation so that a successor would be named by special election.

"No, sir, I do not intend to engage in personalities with anyone," he said in reply to a question on charges made by candidate Reuben Senterfitt.

Told that Senterfitt has challenged him to public debate, Daniel said, "I don't intend to comment on anyone that's doing a lot of name calling. I want to stay above that."

The probable entry of Daniel into the race would pit him against Senterfitt, Evetts Haley of Canyon, J. J. Holmes of Austin and Lee O'Daniel of Dallas.

O'Daniel, whose whirlwind campaign for governor in 1938 ended in the biggest upset in Texas political history, also is to make a radio address tonight (5:15 p.m.).

Daniel was asked if the possibility of the names of Daniel and O'Daniel on the same ballot might give rise to confusion. "That's a matter of speculation," the senator said.

"If so, I hope it would be in my favor." He declined to comment on the entry of O'Daniel into the race and said "let the others do that."

Daniel also steered clear of the "favorite son" campaign boosting Sen. Lyndon Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination. "I've got business of my own here today," he said.

The senator, who supported President Eisenhower in 1952, said that "I am a lifelong Democrat" and "plan to support the Democratic presidential nominee this year unless forced by my conscience to do otherwise."

Twirling a half-burned cigar in his hand, he by-passed a question on the subject of interposition. Daniel was one of the authors of the recent "southern manifesto" signed by southern members to Congress.

The senator arrived last night. He plans to fly to Washington after his address tonight.

He was to attend a public reception in a Dallas hotel late in the afternoon. He planned to pay a noon-time visit "for sentimental reasons" to a Dallas barbecue stand.

He said the stand was the site of his headquarters in his first state-wide race for office when he ran for attorney general in 1946.

"That's all the headquarters I have right now also," Daniel said. The afternoon reception is to be sponsored by Ralph Baker and Judge Bob Hall, both of Dallas.

British Lift Unprecedented Cyprus Curfew

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The population of Cyprus went back to work as usual today after the British ended their unprecedented 24-hour curfew on the east Mediterranean island colony.

One killing and some minor violence were reported during the 4 a.m.-to-4 a.m. restriction the British ordered to prevent an outbreak yesterday on Greek independence day.

But with Cypriots free to roam the streets and countryside again, there was a fresh threat of violence from pro-Greek islanders seeking to get rid of their British colonial government. There were recurring reports, also, that another general strike might break out later this week.

British intelligence agents pressed a search during the curfew for the mysterious chief of the Cypriot rebels. They had been tipped off that the shadowy rebel leader, known only as "Digenis" after a legendary Greek hero, was disguised as a black-robed Greek Orthodox priest.

The British governor, Field Marshal Sir John Harding, ordered an absolute curfew in 15 cities and a limited curfew elsewhere to avoid possible violence on the 15th anniversary of Greece's independence from Turkey.

More than 160,000 Cypriots were sealed in their homes in the 15 cities during the curfew. Outside the cities, the rest of the island's 500,000 Cypriots were restricted to the immediate vicinity of their homes. Virtually the entire 18,000-man British garrison and the entire police force moved about on the alert to throttle any violence.

VOLCANOES Is Mars Building An Ocean System?

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Reporter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Peculiar clouds on the face of Mars could be vast billowings of volcanic dust and steam, a Michigan astronomer said today.

If so, the clouds are added evidence for a theory that Mars is raked by volcanoes. Wind-blown deposits of volcanic ash could cause some of Mars' strange markings, including, perhaps some "canals."

By this theory, Mars might still be in early stages of changes such as the earth experienced before life appeared on this planet. The volcanic theory is advanced by Dr. Dean B. McLaughlin of the University of Michigan. He has proposed that some dark areas—sometimes thought to be vegetation—could be drifts of volcanic ash. Some so-called canals might be pathways of fallen ash, and others might be cracks or faults on Mars' face.

The Earth's oceans came from water brought up from its interior by volcanoes. Mars might be in the same process now, with oceans yet to come to spawn life.

Dr. McLaughlin told the American Astronomical Society that some observations of Martian clouds are at least consistent with the theory of volcanic activity.

From a check of various astronomers' sightings of clouds, he said that clouds have been observed intermittently for the last 25 years over one particular area. These clouds therefore seem associated with some mechanism at a fixed spot on the face of Mars. On earth, clouds often rise regularly along mountain chains, but Mars has no large mountain ranges, Dr. McLaughlin said. And apparently there is not much water vapor on Mars to form ordinary clouds.

Within past decades, the shape of some of the dark-colored areas near cloud spots has changed, he added. The way they have changed, with some lines fanning out from them, suggests changes in the way volcanic ash is being deposited or blown about. The dark areas could be near active volcanoes.

"The coincidence of the area of cloud formation and the area of conspicuous surface changes is too close to be dismissed as accidental. Whether correct or not, the hypothesis of volcanic activity at least gives a fully consistent explanation of the observed facts," Dr. McLaughlin said.

Bob Newton, Noted British Actor, Dies Of Heart Attack

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—British actor Robert Newton, the wily, gravel-voiced Long John Silver of television and the movies, died at his home yesterday of a heart attack. He was 50.

Although he had had a heart ailment, his death was unexpected. His wife, the former publicist Vera Badnick, sobbed as she told a reporter: "He was having a glass of water. He just keeled over. There was nothing anyone could do."

Newton returned to Hollywood last June after a year in Australia, where he made a film version of "Long John Silver" and filmed 26 half-hour television shows based on the character. Only last year he said he intended to take out American citizenship.

The veteran of stage, screen and television was one of the top character actors in the business, especially in the role of Long John Silver.

He was married to the actress Patricia Newton, who died in 1948. He has three children: Kim, 18 months, by his fourth wife, Vera; Nicholas, 5, by his third wife, the former Natalie Newhouse of London, and a daughter, Sally, 24, by his first wife.

Teacher Held For Rape After Marrying Pupil

NEW YORK (AP)—A high school art teacher has been charged with abduction and rape in his secret marriage to a petite brunette student half his age.

George Wald, 34, was arrested yesterday after the parents of Sydney Silverman, 17, found out the two eloped last Jan. 9. It was his third marriage.

"Don't worry, honey, this is only a dream," Wald told his teenage bride. "Being with you is worth a night in jail."

"I love him and I'll stick with him," Sydney sobbed.

Police said the six-foot, 235-pound teacher and his former student were married at Elkton, Md. They have seen each other only on weekends because they feared to tell her family.

Growing tired of his lonely life, Wald decided to tell Sydney's parents the secret.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Albert Sclafani gave this account of what Wald did: He went to his bride's Brooklyn home, waded the marriage certificate and announced, "She's my wife—I want her home with me."

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Silverman, called police. "Lack of parental consent and alleged falsification of the girl's age in the marriage license application were involved."

"She's only a baby—she's a man who's been married twice," protested Silverman.

Sydney said she met Wald while he was a teacher and she a student at Manhattan's Industrial Arts High School. At first she turned down his requests for a date but finally agreed on graduation night last June. They were engaged in August.

Sydney is now a secretary for the Boy Scouts.

Wald has two children, 7 and 9, by his first wife, who died in 1949. He was divorced from his second wife in 1953 after eight months of marriage.

Uncle Ray: Sultry Doldrums Have Some Winds

By RAMON COFFMAN

March, the "windy month," usually has more wind in the North Temperate Zone than any other month of the year. Every month, however, has windy parts, and it is seldom that the air condition stands at zero.

Q. What is "zero air condition?"
A. It is a time when the air is calm, with a movement of less than one mile an hour.

Q. What is a light breeze?
A. It is a breeze which moves between one and seven miles an hour. A gentle breeze moves from eight to 12 miles an hour. A moderate breeze has a speed of from 13 to 18 miles an hour.

Q. How fast must the wind blow before we may say that it is "blowing a gale?"
A. A wind which blows from 39 to 54 miles an hour is classed as a gale, and in the next bracket (from 55 to 74 miles) it is called a whole gale. Hurricane winds start at 75 miles an hour, and sometimes go far about that figure.

Q. What are the doldrums?
A. The doldrums (pronounced DOLL-drum) are parts of the earth where the air usually has little motion. The doldrums make a belt which extends much of the distance around the earth, but not the entire distance.

The doldrums are in the Torrid Zone, near the equator. Sometimes they are said to extend across low-lying land, but the term is employed more commonly for parts of the ocean. A modern ocean liner can steam through the doldrums without worry. In the past it was a different story; sailors dreading the doldrums because their vessels might be held in an area for weeks at a stretch, without winds to fill the sails.

Winds do blow in the doldrums now and then, but they are largely squalls, or light breezes which keep changing direction. The air tends to be sultry in the doldrums.

Flash bulletin from Mobilgas Economy Run FORD WINS IN ECONOMY TOO! V-8 WINS CLASS A In this year's Economy Run a new Ford V-8, with Fordomatic was the official victor over every car in its field, with a winning average of 47.7643 ton-miles per gallon. This means that the sturdier, heavier Ford carried more weight, with greater gas economy per pound, than any car in its field. This latest Ford victory was scored over a rough and rigorous 1,468.8-mile route running from Los Angeles to Colorado Springs. The winning Ford threaded its way over the tough and twisting course averaging better than 40 mph. Through the heat of Death Valley and over the chilling height of an 11,000-foot mountain peak . . . through the gas-eating stop-and-go of city traffic and over the straight-line open road . . . Ford proved anew its traditional reputation for economical performance. The winning Ford was a regular-production model taken right from the assembly line and officially impounded until the starter's gun sounded. It was no different than thousands of '56 Fords you see on the road and in dealers' showrooms. This proves that Ford, the Performance, Style and Safety leader, leads in Economy, too! That adds up to four big reasons why the '56 Ford is worth more when you buy it, while you drive it, and when you sell it, too!

the house of the High Priest Caiaphas, after getting word that Jesus had been secretly arrested. The military party — so Nicodemus learned later — had taken Jesus first to the house of Annas, aged former high priest who still was a powerful leader and who apparently arranged the seizure. There, in an irregular session, Jesus had been questioned about his beliefs and associations to try to get damning evidence, despite rigid Jewish laws protecting a man against self-incrimination. Jesus, sensing the trap, had retorted: "I have spoken only to the world in the synagogues and the temple. In secret, I spoke nothing. Ask them that have heard Me what I spoke." A guard slapped him. Then he was brought before the council, a body already smarting at Roman supervision of its religious-social authority, and keenly sensitive to any new attack. He stood there, Nicodemus recalled, a tall, slender man in a drab tunic, with a firm, unruffled calm. Caiaphas, in his fittid, embroidered kuttoneth and jeweled mitre, called several witnesses. They gave varying accounts of Jesus having said he would destroy the temple made with hands and in three days build another made without hands. Caiaphas arose, eying him sternly. "Answerest Thou nothing?" Jesus stood silent. His gaze level. Caiaphas frowned, and his voice rose with judicial imperiousness. "I adjure Thee by the living God

Party Leaders Lock Horns On Ike's Duties

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler says President Eisenhower has indicated he plans to delegate some of his duties. GOP party chief Leonard W. Hall says Eisenhower is "president in every meaning of the word." The two party chairmen engaged in heated debate yesterday in the concluding session of the Bulletin Forum, carried over CBS television network. In addition to the President, the chairmen touched also on the subjects of foreign policy, the farm issue, the Minnesota primary and segregation. Butler quoted from a radio talk to the nation by President Eisenhower last Feb. 29 in which he said he had spent his first 2 1/2 years in the White House "clarifying our own thinking" with respect to the problems of national peace and security, foreign policy, the nation's farmers, schools, and social welfare. And, said Butler, the President then told his listeners: "In many cases these things can now be done equally well by my close associates." That, said the Democratic chairman, was a statement the President intends to delegate some of his duties if re-elected. Not at all, said Hall: "You know as well as I do that Dwight D. Eisenhower in not one way has ever said he is going to delegate the official duties of his office. You and I know down there today he is carrying on every duty of the office of president."

Pennsylvania Gives Signs Of Becoming Political Storm Area

By JAMES DEVLIN PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvania — President Eisenhower's adopted state—gives signs of becoming a major battleground in this fall's presidential election. That's the impression gained by a reporter talking with politicians and voters in sample communities in the eastern part of the state. Pennsylvania is a rich political prize. It has 32 electoral votes, the same number as California, and second only to New York's 45. Eisenhower, now registered to vote at Gettysburg, took the Keystone State by 259,000 votes over Adlai Stevenson in his 1952 landslide. In 1954, Democratic Gov. George M. Leader was elected by a 279,000 margin. How will it go in 1956? There are indications of a stiff and possibly close contest. Republicans note that the 1952 vote was larger than when Leader won. They are counting on Eisenhower's popularity and the GOP's "peace and prosperity" theme to attract voters who apparently stayed home in 1954. On the other hand, the Democrats have some reasons for optimism. Their capture of the State House at Harrisburg for the first time in 20 years gave them a life-greater incentive and confidence. Also, it gave them patronage—the distribution of state jobs. That in turn, has tended to strengthen the Democratic party organization. Further, the Democrats made gains in county elections last year. They now control 29 of the state's 67 counties. None of these factors favorable to them existed in 1952, or even in 1954 when they elected Leader, a virtual unknown before the campaign. Whether they can offset the Eisenhower popularity is something that only the voters can decide. A spirited contest for the U.S. Senate will add interest to the Nov. 6 balloting. Republican Sen. James H. Duff, a former governor and an original Eisenhower booster, is seeking reelection. It is regarded as a foregone conclusion that Duff's Democratic opponent will be Joseph S. Clark Jr., former mayor of Philadelphia, a "reform" Democrat who helped break the Republicans' old-time grip on the city. Duff already has lambasted Clark as a "left winger" because of his connections with Americans for Democratic Action. Clark has termed Duff a "do-nothing" senator who he says sponsored no major legislation and was absent on many roll call votes. Duff, taking note of Clark's criticism, commented in Washington: "Personally, I worked vigorously all over America for Eisenhower's nomination and election, and since his election I have supported him consistently in the Senate in all key legislation, which apparently Clark would be completely unwilling to do." Eisenhower and Sen. William F. Knowland of California will be listed on the Republican presidential preference ballot April 24, but Knowland is waging no campaign. His name was entered before Eisenhower's second term announcement and could not be withdrawn. Stevenson is unopposed on the Democratic side.

that Thou tell us whether Thou be the Christ, the Son of God." Jesus looked at him, almost pityingly, and said softly, "Thou hast said it." He paused, then added firmly: "Nevertheless, I say unto you, henceforth, ye shall see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of power and coming on the clouds of Heaven." Caiaphas' face darkened, and he burst out angrily. "Blasphemy! What further need have we of witnesses, now that we have heard this blasphemy?" The others chorused agreement. Few dissented. In the hot wave of indignation at this religiously insubordinate, this threat to established institutions, there was no way to stop them, then or anytime. Nicodemus remembered a note before when Caiaphas, distraught by Jewish unrest and anxious to demonstrate his control to Roman authorities, had sent guards to arrest Jesus in the open. But the guards came back empty-handed, deterred from their mission by the Man's sway over large audiences. "Never man spoke like this man," they had reported. At that time, Nicodemus, despite his usual quiet, retiring role in affairs of state, had spoken up courageously, protesting the flaunting of laws involved in ordering an arrest without evidence or a hearing. All that gained him was a snide innuendo about his own loyalty. Actually, Nicodemus, in his modest, conscientious way, had made a private, night-time visit to Jesus when he was in Jerusalem a year ago to inquire directly into the Man's teachings and healing genius. Jesus had spoken of the need of being "born again" and Nicodemus had asked, puzzled: "How can a man be born again when he is old?" Jesus explained it was a rebirth of the spirit, not the flesh, an inner freshening that exposes a man's ordinary arrogance and makes him like a child—knowing he is small—but exuberantly sure someone is caring for him. And then he said something about God so loving the world that He had sent His son—in man's likeness—to suffer the burden of men's sin, and thereby show the way to eternal life for all who accept this truth. So now, Jesus had been taken before Pilate and sentenced to die as a revolutionary, to die as a part of man's sad, perverse confusion and sin. "He showed us the way!" Nicodemus thought suddenly. He stood up, his frail old back straight and determined. One thing he could do! He knew Jesus' followers had abandoned Him in the crisis of danger. But not all would forsake Him—not Nicodemus—not this rich, old Jewish leader. Casting caution and his normal reticence aside, he presented himself at Pilate's castle in late afternoon. He found a ruling Jewish colleague also there—Joseph of Arimathea. Both, jeopardizing their social standing by showing partisanship for this convicted rebel, had come to see that Jesus got a decent burial. Pilate, cynically surprised, gave his permission. Joseph offered for the purpose a tomb he had prepared for himself, and together, he and Nicodemus and their servants took Jesus' lifeless body down from the cross and carried it to Joseph's "long home." Nicodemus had brought 100 pounds of aromatic myrrh ("rock-rose") and aloes juices to sprinkle in the linen with which they wrapped the body and limbs to retard decomposition. Tradition has it that Nicodemus later was baptized by John and Peter, and consequently deprived of his office and banished, an inquiring, philosophical old man who found it necessary to suffer in order to break the ageless wrong-doing of mankind. Next: Peter. Father Of 14 Killed CORNICANA (AP)—The father of 14 children was killed today when his car and a Burlington Rock Island freight train collided near Mildred, five miles southeast of here. He was O. E. Mesker, 43, an oil field worker.

A Bible Thought For Today

For what glory is it, if, when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is acceptable with God. (I Peter 2:20)

What Do You Know About Traffic Law?

One of our lawyer friends has mailed us a four-page brochure titled "It May Be Your Turn Next!" Subtitle: "What to Do in Case of an Auto Accident and How to Safeguard Your Driver's License."

This little folder was prepared and issued as a public service by the Iowa State Bar Association, 1101 Fleming Bldg., Des Moines 9. Copies are available on request.

Iowa traffic laws may differ in some respect to Texas', but the advice this little folder hands out is largely applicable to any state. It tells the driver what to do in case of accident, including these sub-headings: Assist Injured, Notify Police Authority, Identify Other Driver, Take Notes, Assist Police, and so on.

We imagine a distressingly large percentage of our Texas drivers honestly don't know their rights and responsibilities when caught in an accident. If they knew the rules they would be more law-abiding drivers. If they knew their legal rights and responsibilities they would be more diligent in protecting and discharging them. In short, they would be better drivers, there would be fewer accidents and fewer dead and injured.

Passengers in cars involved in accidents and the casual witnesses of accidents also have a role to play, and this brochure tells them how to proceed—at least under the laws of Iowa.

Perhaps the Bar or some other agency has issued a similar service to the driving, riding and walking public of Texas, but if so we've never seen one.

Most drivers learn their way around only by experience, and experience can be a costly teacher.

We quote once more from the Iowa folder: "The purpose of this pamphlet is to help you form a plan of action, in case you should be involved in an accident. Three plans are offered: I, for drivers; II, for passengers; and III, for witnesses." It can be read in a matter of a very few minutes.

Be Quiet Until After The First Cup

Who should get up first in the morning, the husband or the wife? That question touched off a tremendous howdy-do in Memphis recently when someone innocently projected it into a gathering of husbands and wives, according to Lydel Sims, a columnist on the Commercial Appeal.

In no time at all a hot argument was running, and raged far into the night—decisively, of course, since half the arguers were wives, half were husbands. We gather it was pretty evenly divided between the two sexes, though some sissies on both sides crossed the battle line and spoke up for the opposite sex.

In the old days, and perhaps even today down on the farm, there was little or no doubt about who got up first. It was always Pa. He usually started the fires and took off for the barn to tend the morning's chores, while Ma prepared breakfast in the meantime.

At our own hogan the subject has never been raised, much less argued; whoever happens to wake up first gets up first, and that's all there is to it. Any possible argument over it was interdicted when we got rid of that disturber of slumbers, that monstrous mechanism known as an alarm clock. The alarm aggravates the delicate question of who gets up first; it puts both on the spot and both hesitate to make the first move, hoping the other will oblige.

When one awakens naturally one doesn't mind being the first out of bed. It's one way of building good will with one's partner. Of course if there is no stirring from the mate after a decent interval, say a couple of minutes after one has risen, the temptation to slam the coffee pot around or drop a dish on the floor is wellnigh irresistible.

It can be done and gotten away with, too, if one is careful to say "excuse me, dear. I'm sorry. It was an accident."

This disarming device usually works. Otherwise, the main thing is to keep your big fat mouth shut until after the first cup of coffee. He who opens his mouth before then is a goner.

Our Many Problems Over Foreign Aid

This is the time when each year the President has to go to Congress, asking it to vote American money for the use of foreign governments. Congress is always reluctant to do this. It has never been so reluctant as it is now. There are not only those who do not want to give away American money. This year, there are also those who, though they have been supporting foreign aid, are quite unhappy with the way it is now working.

The administration will, it seems to me, do better if, in arguing its case, it takes Congress more clearly and candidly into its confidence. The central fact in the whole business is that the old policy of foreign aid has now to be thoroughly re-examined and drastically revised—that these changes cannot be worked out before June 30 when the time for appropriations expires—and that Congress is really being asked to keep the flow of funds going while a new policy is being worked out. Though almost nothing of the sort is said plainly in the President's message, this is what is implied in the request for greater "flexibility."

Our post-war foreign aid policy was originally conceived at the time of the Marshall Plan in 1947-48. Since then there have been very great changes in the world situation. There we still had a monopoly in nuclear weapons. We now have arrived at a balance of power which has produced a military stalemate. Furthermore, when the United States foreign aid policy was first adopted, the Soviet Union had not yet emerged from its economic isolation to become a competitor in the economic world. There have been other great developments, such as the economic recovery of Western Europe, the re-emergence of Germany and Japan as big powers, the rise of China as a great power in Asia, and a very large increase in the power of the peoples of South Asia and North Africa.

We have come to the end of the time when the non-Communist world is willing or is compelled to look solely to Washington for economic aid. We are living in a time when almost all of the countries which have been receiving aid from us feel that we have a competitor in the Soviet Union, and that they are now in a position to bargain with both of the two superpowers.

The military stalemate is having a profound impact on the whole business of military aid, which is, of course, the preponderant part of our existing program. In all the countries which do not themselves have nuclear weapons, and the means of defense or retaliation against nuclear weapons, there is a deep tendency to down-grade their interest in military defense. This is plainly visible in Germany, in France, and in Japan, and there are signs of it even in Great Britain. The fundamental strategic fact of the world situation—that there are only two powers with truly modern armaments—has produced, as it was bound to produce, various forms of military neutralism in the countries which do not have nuclear armaments. It seems almost certain therefore, that our emphasis on military aid will have to diminish.

The emergence of the Soviet Union as an economic power in the world will require deep changes in our conception of foreign aid. We have thought of that aid as at bottom a contribution to consolidate our allies, and to prevent inflation and economic collapse which Communists would then be able to exploit.

This conception is still, broadly speaking, valid in the countries that are wholly dependent upon us—in South Korea, Formosa, and South Vietnam. But in India, the rest of South Asia, in the Middle East and North Africa, the situation is radically different. The countries there are not dependent upon us because they now have an alternative supplier of capital and technical aid. The emergency of the Soviet Union as a competitor is one of the great historic developments of our times. It is altering radically the position of the United States and of its European allies, and it is enhancing enormously the power of the native peoples who were once part of the old European empires.

It is necessary to adapt our foreign aid policy, and in fact our foreign policy, to a situation which no one took into account when post-war foreign aid was first conceived about eight years ago. This is that the uprising against the West, which has been smoldering, has now gotten the backing of the great power of the Soviet Union. The President says in his message that his program of foreign aid "is a demand of the highest priority on our resources," and "as fundamental to our own security and well-being as the maintenance of our own armed forces." This is, of course, true and it is an essential reason for continuing foreign aid. But it is not the sole reason. Beyond the urgency of obvious self-interest, the United States has, I hold, a moral obligation to the less fortunate people. We cannot justify the enjoyment of our high standard of living without helping other countries to proceed along the same road. Without our help, the gap between the richer and the poorer countries is bound to widen.

Although our obligation is humanitarian, it is not only that. We have a deeper moral obligation. With less than 10 per cent of the non-Communist world's population, and only 8 per cent of its area, the United States is consuming more than half of the non-Communist world's supply of such fundamental materials as petroleum, rubber, iron ore, manganese and zinc. In 1950, we were consuming 10 per cent more materials than we produced; in another twenty-five years the percentage will be far greater.

At the very least, we owe it to the world to return in some form and in some part the resources which with our greater power and wealth we have been able to command from the under-developed regions of the world.

Demos Warned Against Poor Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic National Committee has just told the Democratic leaders in Congress, in effect, they're not doing enough to build a record for the party against the Republicans in this campaign year.

Paul M. Butler, committee chairman and therefore the party's pilot in the campaign, has written to some congressional Democrats a letter which he said reflects the committee's wishes.

It went to the two Texans who are the Democrats' leaders in House and Senate—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, who has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate—and to some others.

It was this kind of letter: "If you don't put up, we may have to shut up. If this was ever intended to be strictly intraparty, private correspondence it didn't remain so. The letter became public over the weekend.

The Democrats have been accusing the Eisenhower administration of the giveaway of natural resources ever since the middle of 1953 when the Republican-run Congress gave the oil-rich submerged lands to the states.

That was not entirely a Republican performance. And the Democrats don't seem to be saying much about it now although they said plenty at the time. Some of them did, that is, Johnson and Rayburn voted for it. So did many other Democrats.

The Democrats have been running Congress since the beginning of 1955. With the Republicans in control of the White House and the executive branch of the government, the Democrats naturally look to their leaders in Congress to set a party record for the next election and point up, if not create, the issues.

This would be expected in the field of natural resources since the Democrats have been banging away at the Republicans on the "giveaway" theme for years. But in his letter Butler wrote: "I am fearful that our party and its nominees for president, vice president, the Senate and the House next fall may be in a very weak position on the area of natural resources unless some action is taken to bolster our legislative record in this session of Congress."

Being thus told he's not handling the leadership of the House right may simply anger Rayburn, an old professional in politics. A nudge like this from his own party may pain Johnson, who seems to be growing increasingly sensitive to criticism.

Siamese Love Water; Well, We Do Too

Thailand and West Texans should have great sympathy, each for the other.

The Siamese love water. They like to be near it, live over it, caress it with their hands.

West Texans like it, too. Fact is, nothing is discussed more out in this part of the world than a good rain. The only trouble is, West Texans never have very much of the substance to caress.

The Siamese never have to worry about a lack of the precious liquid. They have their monsoon seasons, at which time the H2O comes down in bucketsful, in barrelsful.

At such times, mud-puddles fill up and become lakes and lakes become oceans.

Downpours never bother the Siamese, or any other people where it rains a lot. Whereas, we Texans will don galoshes and rain coats if it thunders twice, the Thailanders go about their business during the rain as if they're web-footed, which some visitors from the outside suspect they are.

Rather than build their homes high on a hill overlooking a body of water, Siamese families see to it that they get as close to the water as possible. They place their houses on stilts and straddle the water, even if they live near a drainage ditch of a stagnant pond.

If there's no water around, the people over there simply dig their ditches, build their homes over them and wait for a rain. One always comes along.

Furthermore, the insects bother them not a whit. The Siamese mosquitoes must stay awfully depressed most of the time. The Siamese pay no attention to them, for the most part.

Of course, the Thailanders have to live with malaria and polio, too, but they are convinced harmless little insects like the mosquitoes couldn't spread any kind of germs—they're too puny for such toll and trouble.

Armed with spray guns and DDT, the Texans would probably change places with the Thailanders, at least during the months of February and March.

Wonder who you have to write to for a monsoon or two?

It May Take Truman On Demo Ticket

WASHINGTON—Maybe Harry Truman will have to run for the Democrats as a last resort. Certainly the Minnesota primaries show the Democrats to be badly split as between Senator Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson. Mr. Truman is cocksure that he can unite them and beat President Eisenhower.

What happened in the Minnesota primaries cannot be taken, however, as conclusive evidence that Stevenson is on the way out. The votes in presidential primaries, after all, mean very little to the bosses of a national convention. The Democratic party bosses and organizations in most of the big cities have been for Stevenson, and they can bring about his nomination if they so desire. They did so in 1952, when Stevenson didn't enter a single primary, while Kefauver campaigned actively in several state primaries and was generally victorious.

There is, however, a natural prejudice among the voters against anyone who has been defeated before in a presidential election. Grover Cleveland, Democrat, is about the only man who ever made a comeback—he was elected President in 1894, defeated in 1888, but elected in 1892. William Jennings Bryan got the Democratic nomination in 1896, 1900 and 1904 but was defeated each time. Thomas Dewey, Republican, was nominated twice—in 1944 and 1948—but defeated both times.

Adlai Stevenson might qualify for the vice-presidential nomination this year. His grandfather, a Democrat, was Vice President under Grover Cleveland. There has been a lot of solicitude expressed recently by Democratic party spokesmen about the quality of the Republican vice-presidential nominee. Symposiums and radio forums have been conducted in the last few months to emphasize the need for a "first-rate" candidate for the vice presidency. Most of this effort has come from the so-called "liberals" who don't like Vice President Nixon, now they have an opportunity to provide a first-rate "liberal" for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination, as the radicals interpret the word "liberal."

Sometimes a single presidential primary in a key state is decisive. Wendell Willkie, Republican, who was the party nominee for President in 1940, found the tide turning against him in his first big primary contest—in Wisconsin—in 1944 and threw in the sponge. He accepted the political tradition that, once beaten, it is hard to win favor again with the voters.

Mr. Stevenson says his defeat in Minnesota will not change his plans. But already there are hints that Governor Harriman of New York will step in with the Tammany organization behind him to woo the Stevenson vote. A Harriman-Stevenson ticket might be offered as a bait to the former Illinois governor.

Primaries do not usually tell much about the relative strength of the parties. But it is significant that the Democrats polled a much larger total vote than did the Republicans in Minnesota. President Eisenhower, of course, was, for all practical purposes, unopposed. There was no contest and no reason for Republicans to vote on the presidency except to complement Mr. Eisenhower.

There are widely current reports that in Minnesota many Republicans voted in the Democratic primaries and that Senator Kefauver benefited by such a shift. There could hardly have been a plot by the Republican leaders to bring this about. In the first place, such a drive is hard to organize and in the second place, it is of doubtful value because the lessened total vote of the Republicans is already being interpreted as a farm revolt of Republican voters, and that's not the kind of publicity the Republicans would seek.

Unquestionably there will be a big defection of Republican votes in Minnesota this year due to the farm issue. Minnesota is of the states that the Republicans are very much worried about. The primary result there this week give the Republicans little comfort.

Senator Kefauver has proved himself a good campaigner and seems to have retained much of the vote-getting strength he exhibited in 1952 in the Democratic pre-convention battle. But he is very far away from the nomination. A few victories in the primaries aren't enough to win him the support of the big labor and political organizations which dictate the presidential nomination in the Democratic party. Only Harry Truman can unite all the factions of the party and, despite his own professions of disinterestedness, there is under way a quiet but powerful movement in his behalf.

Get Busy, Kids, On College Scholarships

This is a public service type of column today, mainly because I have a warm spot in my heart for high school kids who want to go to college but are short on the cash department. I was short in that department myself when I was a senior in high school, but a scholarship bailed me out in the nick of time.

The good news is that today there are a minimum of 140,000 scholarships worth at least $31,000,000 in the aggregate, for needy and deserving students whose eyes are fixed on college in the autumn of 1956. And there are no less than 15,000 available fellowships worth a tidy $10,000,000.

These figures are contained in a U. S. Government pamphlet called "Scholarships and Fellowships," Bulletin 151, No. 16. It is available through the Federal Security Agency, care of the Office of Education, Washington D. C. It also contains extensive information on scholarships and fellowships available in many fields.

These facts and figures are substantiated by Clarence E. Lovejoy, famous educational counselor and the Baedeker of the collegiate world. Lovejoy, author of the college's bible, "Lovejoy's College Guide," and "Vocational School Guide," also recommends "Sponsored Scholarships" and other pamphlets of the College Entrance Examination Board and the Educational Testing Service, 425 West 117th St., New York, 27, N. Y.

In the meantime, and the sooner the better, high school seniors with an itch for higher education (a term probably deriving from the present cost of the stuff), should start pestering their high school principals and school superintendents for all available information on scholarship opportunities.

School authorities are already overburdened, but the superintendent or principal who is not thoroughly informed on the endless aid and scholarship possibilities of freed American boys and girls is seriously derelict in one of the most important duties of his office.

More than 17,000 scholarships went begging in 1949-50, according to government figures, undoubtedly because kids who could have used them and their teachers were ignorant of the opportunities.

Seniors do not have to be eggheads or Phi Beta Kappa material (although there's nothing wrong with either) to win a scholarship. The key words are "needy" and "deserving."

Scarcely a day passes without some American corporation, labor union, fraternal group, service organization or individual announcing the creation of new scholarships. The stupendous Ford National Merit Scholarships are a case in point.

How to pick a plum? First, pest the school authorities whose duty it is to know the answers. Get the bulletins listed above. Then, write eight or ten colleges of your choice and ask about the scholarship and aid opportunities in your chosen field. But DON'T write either Lovejoy or myself.

One more bit of advice: Get on the ball, kids. Time's awastin'.

Dr. O'Brien Makes Talk For Bykota

"This is the fulfillment of one of my wishes." Dr. P. D. O'Brien told members and guests of the Bykota Sunday School Class at their annual breakfast Sunday morning.

Dr. O'Brien said that 15 years ago, in attending the breakfast for the first time, he expressed the wish to attend for at least 15 more years. He gave the invocation for the group, whose name stands for "Be Ye Kind, One To Another."

This was the 22nd annual breakfast of the class. The teacher is now Mrs. Ira Thurman, with Mrs. George O'Brien as the associate teacher. The affair is always held on Palm Sunday.

Midland Center Has Open House Sunday

The 11 local children who go to the Midland Cerebral Center have a treat as well as a treatment in store for them on their next visit!

The new building was opened Sunday afternoon, with dedication service and open house. Hostesses were members of the Children's Service League, volunteer workers who assist at the Center.

Variations of turquoise are used for the walls; a pale blue turquoise colors the walls of the waiting room, with a mural of birds, trees and flowers adding interest to one corner of the room. Chairs of turquoise blend, while chairs of coral are used as a bright accent.

The same shade continues into the offices and some of the treatment and therapy rooms. A green turquoise covers the playroom. Here are to be found bean bags, peg boards made into puzzles to fit together, tying and lacing boards for teaching a child to tie a knot or to lace his shoes. Zipper boards are also provided.

Another room has a table for prone treatments and therapy, and there is a table with openings to enable the tiny patients to stand as they work with blocks and toys. A walking bar is in one corner, and a finger exercise bar is at one side. There are portable walking bars, a fire engine and a tricycle.

The speech therapy room is provided with mirrors placed at different heights with tiny chairs before them. At first glance you'd think they might be merely dressing tables for the small fry! The Center operations are financed by Easter sales, memorial contributions and local organizations. At present it is staffed by a registered physical therapist and a speech therapist. These have the help of the volunteer workers.

The facilities are open for any child in need of its care. There are no boundaries, geographical, racial or economic. The Center has provided treatment for children from eight surrounding counties and from New Mexico. No charge is made, but any contributions are welcome.

Local people attending the dedication and open house were Mrs. F. L. Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, Mrs. Joe Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Clements, Mrs. Marguerite Smith, Mary Cantrell, Jewel Barton and Mrs. B. L. LeFever.

Paramount actress Lori Nelson, who's making "Partners" with Martin and Lewis, talks with Lydia Lane about her "planned wardrobe" in today's Hollywood Beauty.

White Iodine A Help Against Split Nails

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — When I was at Paramount, visiting the "Partners" set, I was startled by the realistic manner in which this stage had been transformed into a rodeo.

Dean Martin and Lori Nelson, clad in buckskin, were playing a scene next to a prize-winning Hereford bull for which the owner received a rental price that many an actor would joyously accept.

Later, I asked Lori how she managed to look so chic in buckskin.

"I'll tell you a secret. Edith Head designed this ensemble from glove suede," said Lori smiling.

Since Edith was on the set, I complimented her on Lori's costume.

"When I have a girl as candy-box pretty as Lori, I try to play against the mood," Edith commented.

"Introducing contrast is always a good rule," she added in parting.

"Do you have a planned wardrobe?" I asked Lori.

"Yes. Going on personal appearance tours has certainly taught me the necessity of having a planned wardrobe," Lori remarked.

white iodine to keep my nails from splitting and peeling. You can get a bottle of iodine from any leading drug store, but be sure that you get the white iodine. Apply the iodine on each nail with a pad of cotton. Buffing the nails also helps to keep them from breaking."

While we were talking, Dean Martin poked his head into the dressing room.

"Isn't she beautiful?" he asked me as he gave Lori an admiring glance and vanished.

"Do you find it difficult to remain the same with so many people admiring you?" I asked Lori.

"Heavens no!" she exclaimed with genuine surprise.

"The one thing that I have had to fight is extreme shyness," she added. "I have been told that this shyness is a form of inferiority complex. I try not to worry too much about other people's opinion of me."

She's A Graduate - 36 Years Late

LINCOLN, Neb. — Thirty-six years after enrolling at the University of Nebraska, the former Gladys Rozell of McCook, Neb., has received her Bachelor of Arts degree.

The coed, now Mrs. Leroy L. Lundberg of Lincoln, had to quit school and go home in her senior year in 1923 to take care of her mother, who had broken an arm.

Marriage and family obligations developed later and Mrs. Lundberg decided to postpone more schooling until her children were educated.

With her three children through the University of Nebraska, Mrs. Lundberg herself enrolled. To any other grandmothers contemplating something similar, she offers this encouraging observation:

"You will be accepted as a fellow student by the young people on the campus."

Household Records Cut Income Tax Returns

NEW YORK—Do you keep good household records? Income tax time is here again and you can probably save the deductible family important sums if your records for the past year are in good shape, says S. Jay Lasser, tax expert.

If you failed to keep complete accounts, here are some things Lasser suggests you watch this year:

How about clothes, food, books, furniture you give to organizations authorized to accept tax-free contributions? If you will get a letter from the organization indicating the value of what you give, you can take a tax deduction on that value.

Do you drive your car for the Red Cross? Expenses for which you are not reimbursed are deductible. These can include not only gas and oil, but even car washes and flat tires.

Food you contribute to a church supper, picnic baskets and similar items are also deductible, if you donate them to authorized organizations, like churches.

Your medical bills can also be important and can include items that might be easy to miss. Did the doctor tell you to buy special socks for Junior's athlete's foot? They can be included as a medical item.

Lasser also suggests you save your drug store receipts. They can count up in a year's time. But remember that only health items are included in the medical bill, not beauty supplies. Baby oil is medical. Toothpaste, shampoo and cosmetics are not, and rental of health supplies like a vaporizer can go on the medical bill.

Another medical expense sometimes forgotten is the cost of traveling to and from a doctor. It can be important if you are going to a pediatrician regularly with an infant. And if your doctor should

MIDDLE EAST

U. N. To Discuss Peace Mission

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. Security Council gathered today to take up a U. S. proposal that would send Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on a peace mission in the Middle East. Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. was expected to introduce such a resolution formally soon after the 11-nation council convened this afternoon at his request to discuss the potentially explosive situation along Israel's borders with her Arab neighbors—Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

First informally requested postponement of today's meeting. Later, instead of following through with formal requests for postponement, they said they would ask permission to participate in the council debate without a vote. If the Arab side will Israel, and this will prolong the debate considerably. The Lebanese government, meanwhile, announced it would ask the council to postpone further discussion for a month and then to permit all four of Israel's Arab neighbors to speak.

Choirs Do Majestic Work With Fine Easter Cantata

A majestic work of music was handled majestically Sunday afternoon. In the presentation at the First Methodist Church of Theodore Dubois' "The Seven Last Words of Christ." A crowd which all but filled the auditorium thrilled to a smoothly powerful presentation. The cantata was offered by the combined choirs of the First Methodist Church, the Howard County Junior College and the Webb (AFB) Choraleers. Director Orland Johnson was provided with forceful volume in the choral passages, and he showed an expert hand in combining these choirs into one mighty entity. The sheer power of the Dubois' climax was made all the more impressive by professional work of Lt. Charles Webb at the organ and Jack Hendrix at the piano. Webb carried a heavy load with a sure hand.

solo passages, each of them handled by fine voices. Mrs. Don Newberry and Joyce Howard were soprano soloists; and two visiting ministers were the male soloists: the Rev. Charles Cook of the Clark Street Methodist Church, Lamesa, tenor; and the Rev. Julian Hendren of the First Presbyterian Church, Snyder, baritone. It was a cause of wonderment that these two men are in another chosen field of devotion, when singing might have been their profession. "The Seven Last Words" catches sheer tonal beauty in the solo passages, and each of the singers responded to the demand; and the mighty climax of a historic drama — death on the Cross — is done with potent force and volume through the choirs. The judgement Sunday was that this program was so expertly done, that it ought to be presented over and over again, to more and more people. — BW

EVEN JUDGE'S MONEY UNSAFE

It's getting so money just ain't safe regardless of where it may be. Take the case of the transient woman from Lubbock and Walter Grice, justice of the peace. Saturday afternoon, Grice had a caller at his office in the courthouse. She was a Lubbock woman here to see her husband who is in the State Hospital. Grice had to leave the office. When he returned, his caller was gone. He discovered that $85 in cash which he had in his desk drawer was also gone. Fortunately, the woman had been sent to the County Judge's office in the course of the conversation about her husband and had given the judge's secretary her name. She was readily located. She still had the $85. All she had in addition to the stolen money was $3. No charges were filed.

Convicted Boycott Leader A Prophet Or Publicity Seeker?

By WATSON SIMS NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—The Abyssinian Baptist Church, one of the oldest (1807) and probably the largest (9,200) of America's Negro congregations, was jammed as its pastor spoke on issues facing his race. An occasional "amen" sounded from the balcony as Adam Clayton Powell Jr., minister, congressman and advocate of passive resistance, assailed plans for avoiding the Supreme Court decision against school segregation. At times the spacious, high-ceilinged church was stirred by cries of "Yes, Lord" and "Oh, yes." The minister, a light-skinned, powerfully built man who stands 6 feet 3 and weighs 190 pounds, used few gestures. Emphasis was conveyed by his voice and expressions on his face, which is dominated by piercing eyes, a large nose and a black mustache. His voice rose at times to a shout, fell again to a barely audible whisper. The climax came when he called for an end to racial discrimination and exhorted his congregation to join in "massive passive resistance to everything that's wrong." "There is something you can do," he shouted. "Montgomery, Alabama, is an example of what Christian men, marching together, can accomplish." The reference was not new in this bluestone church in the heart of Harlem. Powell and his followers have given close and sympathetic attention, even financial support, to a boycott in which Montgomery Negroes, protesting segregation laws, have refused to ride city buses since Dec. 5. The Montgomery demonstration was a primary factor in a call by Powell for next Wednesday to be observed as National Deliverance Day of Prayer. "Dozens of Montgomery's Negro leaders have been indicted for illegal boycott activities. In issuing a call for the observance Wednesday, Powell said, "We want all our brothers, black and white, Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic" to pray one hour for "deliverance of our brothers in Montgomery and all Americans who are the victims of prejudice." Powell says that if the response is sufficient he will resign both from his pulpit and from Congress, where he is known as the most militant Negro spokesman, to devote full time to fighting racial prejudice. "What kind of man is Powell? Depending on where the ques-

Juvenile Held In Burglary Check

A. E. Long, juvenile officer, said he is holding a 16-year-old Spanish American youth, for questioning in connection with an epidemic of burglaries last week. The suspect has made no admissions, Long said. However, the officer added that he had reason to believe that he is connected with another boy arrested last week by police in the cases. Long believes that the two suspects hold the key to the break-in episodes and that with their arrest the cases can be cleared up.

Ike, Snead Team Up For Golf Round

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Sporting flaming red hair slacks, President Eisenhower teamed up with Sam Snead for a bone-chilling round of golf here today. The President ignored a pelting, near-cry rain to get in a few holes in advance of the scheduled arrival later in the day of the President of Mexico and Canada's Prime Minister. Eisenhower himself arrived at this fashionable resort area from Washington by special train. The three leaders of North American nations are getting together for a discussion of matters of mutual interest and to get better acquainted. Eisenhower had breakfast aboard his private railroad car before going to the presidential suite at the plush Greenbrier Hotel. On the patio there he made a date with famed golfer Snead, the Greenbrier pro, and 25 minutes later was on his way to the course, called the Old White. The temperature was in the high 30s when Eisenhower arrived on the first tee. About 10 minutes later, on the second fairway, it started to rain. The President already had donned a rainproof windbreaker over a lightweight blue sweater, and when the rain began Snead persuaded him to put on bright red oilskin slacks over his gray trousers. Greeting as he pulled them on, Eisenhower remarked: "I look like Jimmy Demaret." Demaret, a top flight golfer who has won a good many championships, is noted for his flashy attire on the links. Eisenhower was followed around the course by the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder. Snyder told newsmen he wasn't too much concerned about the President golfing in the rain so long as it was hitting him from the back. Newsmen were permitted to follow the President for only the first two holes. Eisenhower walked the first two holes and set off on foot for the third green, spinning an electric golf cart which tagged after him with a Secret Service agent at the controls. The President usually rides such carts part of the way. Eisenhower and Snead teamed against two White House aides.

Probers Note Rising Sadism In The Movies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee said today it had found increasing emphasis on "sadism, brutality and violence" in the movies.

In a report on "Motion Pictures and Juvenile Delinquency," the subcommittee said the movies along with comic books and television "have a tremendous influence on the young child in his early development."

"While once again, as with the comic books and television, no wealth of scientific data can be given as a casual relationship between delinquent behavior and the mass media," the report said, "it is quite clear that professional people generally view the presentation of brutality and violence in these media as 'definitely deleterious to the personality development of normal, pre-delinquent and delinquent children.'"

The subcommittee said it was advised that motion pictures "could provide the many so-called 'trigger mechanisms' that may initiate and provide the content for antisocial behavior on the part of emotionally disturbed children."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), the subcommittee chairman, said in a statement the report "culminates a year of intensive study" by the group.

"Once the industry realized that we were not concerned with the entire motion picture output, but only those pictures that dwelled on brutality, violence, sadism and crime, they quickly joined with us in taking a critical look at a certain portion of their product," Kefauver said.

The report said "It is honestly believed that the majority of the people in the film-making business, the great majority, are sincere in their efforts to make good products."

Nevertheless, it went on, the production of Western and crime movies "has remained constant or increased slightly" while "the production of noncrime movies has decreased greatly."

The report said the subcommittee definitely was opposed to censorship of movies and felt "the industry generally does a fine job in regulating itself."

However, it said it had found many difficulties in administering the industry's motion picture production code, among them that the administrators can only recommend, but not force, changes in a script.

DEMO CONVENTION Shivers 'Happy' To Head Delegates

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers said yesterday he would be happy to head the Texas Democratic delegation to the national convention even if it means competing with Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) for the chairmanship.

The governor declined to say whether he would back the U.S. Senate majority leader for the Democratic presidential nomination, and named only Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio as one he could support.

Shivers replied "I am not ready to say" to repeated questions on the national television network program Meet the Press about whether he would support Johnson.

Panelist Jack Bell of The Associated Press asked Shivers to name a Democrat he could support for the Democratic nomination.

"I probably could name several," Shivers replied. "Lausche, for instance, but I can't name any others at the present time."

Denying that he has any "political ambitions," Shivers said he would be "happy to serve" if the state convention names him to head its delegation to the Chicago convention.

He replied "yes, it would" to a question if this would hold true if he were in competition with Johnson for chairman of the delegation.

The program originated from the studios of WBAP-TV at Fort Worth.

Shivers said that Johnson was "personally a friend and we agree on many things politically, but if Johnson is sponsored by the DAC (Texas Democratic Advisory Council) I would not support him."

Panelist Elizabeth Carpenter of the Houston Post asked Shivers what he thought of the proposal by House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) that Texas Democratic name Johnson a "favorite son" for the nomination.

Shivers said that the proposal actually came from Byron Skelton of Temple, "who used Rayburn as his voice."

Skelton is chairman of the Democratic Advisory Council, self-

Adlai Galloping Into California On The Heels Of Estes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Adlai Stevenson is coming galloping into California this week on the heels of rapid-running Estes Kefauver in their race for the state's 68 Democratic presidential delegate votes.

Sen. Kefauver arrived in San Francisco last Thursday and today enters the fourth day of strenuous campaigning in southern California. He'll be in these parts until tomorrow night.

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic nominee who last week lost resoundingly to Kefauver in Minnesota, evidently decided it was high time he visited California again. His Chicago headquarters announced unexpectedly that he will fly here for conferences with campaign workers and appearances Wednesday and Thursday in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

A spokesman for Kefauver said the senator was aware of the Stevenson-California plans but was not commenting.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Red Lewis, the one-time athletic coach who is now a teacher at HCJC, says you can't always tell about people from first impressions.

As an example Red cites Glenn Morrison, who now is basketball coach at Decatur Baptist College.

Back in the late '40's, Lewis was coach there and Glenn wrote in for a football tryout. Red went around to see Glenn in person and Morrison struck him as much too fragile and small for the rugged junior college sport.

He invited Glenn in for a tryout anyway, but the first year Morrison never got to play a down. He went on the shelf with injuries in an early practice and laid out a year.

Morrison played the next season, however, and turned in a man-sized job at end for Red and Decatur, although he weighed only 145 pounds.

Lewis found out after talking to Glenn that first time that Morrison had been declared the outstanding player in Far Eastern service football, when serving with the Armed Forces.

The Tony Bajan booked by George Dunn to wrestle in Lamesa next Friday night is, really one of the six Balerao brothers, all of whom have made the ring their career.

They hail from Quebec, Canada, and are well known over most of the United States, though few of them have appeared in this immediate area.

All the brothers boast tremendous physical builds, having practiced weight lifting down through the years.

Lee Daniels and E. H. Davis, who between them scored 20 1/2 points for Cisco in that triangular junior college track and field meet here last weekend and who will be back Friday to compete in the ABC Relays, decided to attend the Cisco school after their former coach, Arnett Weeks, took over as head track mentor.

All hail from Granbury. At least, Weeks coached there, although he is a native of Lawn.

Glenn Tankersly, Cisco's pole vaulter, is also a Granbury product.

Clint Hartung, called the Paul Bunyan of baseball when he departed the service following World War II and signed a fat bonus contract with the New York Giants, won't even be in professional ball this year.

He's committed to play for the Fyrmouth Oilers down at Sinton, the team that went all the way to the finals in the National Semi-Pro tournament at Wichita, Kansas, last year before losing to the Wichita Bombers, 9-3.

Incidentally, Sinton earned $4,411.89 plus mileage money for its final showing at Wichita last year and is sure to make a major effort toward winning the US crown this year. First prize up there is $10,000.

The $1,000 bonus HCJC voted track coach George McAllister (for having supervised construction of the new cinder track) came as a complete surprise to George, who had assumed the job because of his love for the sport and his desire to boost the school.

George deserved the grant. HCJC bids fair to become the most "talked about" junior college in West Texas in the next few years and the track may be largely the cause. Too, he built a $30,000 track for something like $15,000, a real bargain.

If you want to be coldly mercenary and break it down into man hours, George was paid about 50 cents an hour for his work on the track. He put in that much time on the project.

Tyra Overshadows Bill Uhl In Finals Of NI Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—There are champions with silver cups and trophies with the National Invitation Basketball Tournament had both.

The champ with the hardware was Louisville, which after four unsuccessful tries to survive the quarter-finals, finally got the idea and mastered Dayton 93-80 in Saturday's finale at Madison Square Garden.

Charlie (Moose) Tyra, a 6-8 junior with a dandy hook and smart rebounding, was the big man for the Cardinals and an unanimous choice as the NIT's most valuable player.

The champ with the tears was Dayton's Bill Uhl, a seven-foot senior and nominee for the U.S. Olympic basketball team whose biggest foe wasn't Louisville or Tyra—but himself. He has performed impressively elsewhere but never has approached his top game in the Garden—the one place he's wanted to look best of all.

Like Dayton, never a champ and four times an NIT runner-up in five chances, Uhl missed again Saturday. It may have been one of his better games in the Garden, but it was hidden in Tyra's shadow. The Louisville pivot time and again got position on Uhl to sink hook shots and get the jump on rebounds.

Tyra outscored Uhl 27-19 and rebounded him 19-10.

Uhl felt the defeat deeply. After accepting one of the wrist watches

A's Lean Heavily On Bobby Shantz

By ED CORRIGAN
By The Associated Press

The sad, sad Kansas City pitching staff is looking hopefully to a pint-sized left-hander who has won just 11 games in the past three years to take over as the big winner.

If Bobby Shantz, 5 feet 6 1/4 and 138 pounds, can come back, the A's will throw their weight around the American League. They may not finish any better than their 1955 spot, sixth, but they won't be pushovers either.

Shantz was the toast of Philadelphia in 1952. He had won 24 games for the A's and had been named Most Valuable Player in the league. But on May 22, 1953, he went to the sidelines with a strained muscle in his pitching arm.

He hasn't been the same since. That year, he pitched only 106 innings. In 1954, he threw just eight innings and won one game. Last season, he began to climb the long road back and compiled a 5-10 record and a far-from-sensational 4.54 earned run average.

Last December, his arm was declared "sound" by a physician and when he signed his contract in January, he said it felt good.

Shantz, now 30, has been in three games this spring. One was a bad one. He was tagged for seven runs by the Chicago White Sox in 4 2/3 innings. The other two were good. He held Milwaukee to one run in three innings, and yesterday at West Palm Beach he took his longest test, handcuffing the Washington Senators for six innings. The A's won the game 13-1.

He was ahead of the hitters most of the way and scattered seven hits while fanning five.

Another big question mark, Saul Rogovin, who has been in and out of the majors for more than a decade, turned in a fine performance for Philadelphia in Clearwater. He tossed four scoreless innings against Boston and the Phillies finally won out in the 10th, 1-0 on Gramy Hamner's home run.

At Tampa, the Chicago White Sox licked the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-1 with Jack Harshman giving up just four hits.

Ancient Tommy Byrne, aided by fuzzy-cheeked Ralph Terry, shut out the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-0 for the New York Yankees at Miami. Byrne held the Brooks to two hits for six innings, and Terry, up from Denver, doled out two more the rest of the way.

Elsewhere, the Cleveland Indians edged the New York Giants 4-3 at Tucson; the St. Louis Cardinals topped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4 at St. Petersburg; the Chicago Cubs battered the Baltimore Orioles 10-5 at Los Angeles, and the Milwaukee Braves whipped the Detroit Tigers 5-2 at Bradenton.

In 1956 Debut Today

Jayhawks Open Season Today

Coach Harold Davis takes his 1956 Howard County Junior College Jayhawks to Odessa today for a seven-inning baseball exhibition with Larry McCulloch's Odessa JC Wranglers.

The game is down for seven innings and play is due to start about 4 p.m.

The contest was due to be played here but was transferred to Odessa because the local diamond is not ready. The two teams will meet again in Odessa Wednesday.

These are the only two exhibition contests the Hawks will be playing before they plunge into West Zone play here April 6 against Frank Phillips of Borger.

Odessa has played two games. Probable starters for HCJC are Mike Powell pitching, Glenn Bralley catching, Ralph Murphree or Phil Gore at shortstop, Melvin Murphree or Jack Morrison at shortstop, Truett Newell at third base and Lefty Reynolds, Gerry Hoover and Jimmy Montgomery in the outfield.

Powell is also a shortstop and will see some action at that position.

Coach Davis can also call upon Don Isham, Jimmy Jolley and Kidd Widdell for mound duty.

Although catcher Dee Phillips quit the squad recently to spend more time with his studies, the Jayhawk team appears to be deeper in most positions than at any time in recent years.

The Hawks looked good in a recent scrimmage against the high school team here.

Jimmy Coulter will probably hurl for Odessa this afternoon. He's a sophomore from Winona

Midland, Snyder Split Twin Bill

SNYDER (SC)—The Midland Bulldogs halved a doubleheader with the Snyder Tigers here Saturday afternoon, winning the first, 6-0, and dropping the second, 1-0.

The twin bill was the third and fourth straight game in which Snyder had been involved in a shut-out.

Jim Owens fashioned the win for Midland in the opener, giving up only four hits.

Ronnie Baker outpitched Larry Cooper in the nightcap, although Cooper gave up only one hit.

First game: Midland 000 006 0-6 6 1 Snyder 000 0-0 4 3 Owens and Sanford; Sneed and Merritt.

Second game: Midland 000 000 0-0 3 2 Snyder 001 000 0-1 2 Cooper and Sanford; Baker and Fowler.

Crane Decisions Andrews Twice

CRANE (SC)—Crane defeated Andrews twice in baseball here Saturday afternoon, 9-6 and 8-5.

Bill (Pres) Preslar hurled the opening win while Lowell Adams received credit for the victory in the afterpiece in a relief stint.

High School Teams To Use Wide Lanes

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Basketball Committee, rules-making body for colleges and high schools, adopted six rules revisions in winding up a two-day meeting yesterday.

The committee voted to extend the 12-foot free-throw lane to high schools in the 1957-58 season and approved proposals on five minor rule changes.

Among these was a rule used by the Western Conference this year where the defensive team assumes both positions under the basket on a free throw instead of the home-and-visiting team setup. Players in the future will no longer be able to leap into the free-throw lane before the ball hits the backboard or cylinder.

Olympic Trials Are Set April 2

By The Associated Press

The NCAA, NIT, AAU and armed forces champions have their title trophies in hand and all that remains in amateur basketball this season is the task of selecting the U.S. Olympic team that will compete in Melbourne next November.

The Olympic committee has set up a three-day, four-team round robin to decide the team members at Kansas City April 24. Under Olympic rules, the roster will be limited to 12 men—with the round-robin winner contributing at least five but no more than seven.

The other Olympic team members will be selected by the committee from the round-robin rosters.

Each of the four teams will

Rumors About Sens' Skipper Are Not True

By JOE REICHLER
ORLANDO, March 25 (AP)—

Charlie Dressen's recent announcement that he intends to remove himself from the coaching lines this year was construed by some as an indication that the Washington Senators manager does not expect any of his hirings to reach base.

That is not true. It means that Dressen believes he has a better chance to make the Senators resemble a major league team by masterminding from the bench. Whether Charlie directs from the coaching lines or from the bench, it still is a tremendous undertaking.

The Senators figure to battle the Baltimore Orioles for last place, if for no other reason than they're composed mainly of players who haven't made good anywhere else.

Except for Roy Sievers, Eddie Yost, Pete Runnels and Clint Courtney, there isn't an established major leaguer on the roster.

The present pitching staff won a total of only 25 major league games last year. The big winner was Dean Stone, and he won only six games.

The offensive picture is no brighter. The current team hit a combined total of 59 home runs in the majors last season. Of this number, Sievers collected 25. The only 300 hitter is Courtney, who batted .309 in 94 games.

Dressen, normally a voluble optimist, isn't saying much. He realizes if the Senators are going to climb out of the American League basement, they must get major league performances out of players who have little or no big league experience.

Bennett Calls LL Conclave

All adult leaders connected with the Little League baseball program will gather at the court room in the city hall at 7:30 o'clock this evening to lay plans for the 1956 season.

Roy Bennett, city-wide commissioner, will be in charge of the meeting.

Odessa Pro-Am Opens July 18

ODESSA (AP)—The eighth annual Odessa 7,500 Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament is scheduled July 18-22.

That's the same time as the national PGA, but the conflict of dates is expected to make the Odessa tourney the best ever.

Many young pros not eligible to play in the PGA (a man has to be a pro for five years) will enter the pro-amateur. Also officials prefer the Odessa tourney to the hard grind of the national PGA.

Raton Macias Is Winner In Scrap

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Raul "Raton" Macias knocked out Leo Espinosa yesterday to retain his NBA bantamweight crown and now would like to take on Robert Cohen, recognized as champion by the European Boxing Federation.

For his part, Espinosa would like a return bout with the Mexican champ, but in his own country.

If yesterday's fight had been in Manila, Leo said afterward, "things would have been different."

Maxwell Blows To 75 And Yields Title At Miami

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Gardner Dickinson Jr., who surprised even himself by winning the Miami Beach Open, is further proof that brawn is not required in championship golf.

So thin he scarcely casts a shadow standing sideways to the sun, the young Panama City, Fla., pro weighs only "about 125" with a pocketful of change.

But his steady 69 in yesterday's final round edged out by one stroke two husky members of golf's younger set—Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., and Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio.

Although Dickinson pocketed top money of $3,400 for his 16-under-par 272, the tournament probably will be best remembered as "the one Maxwell lost."

Ferrari Winner In Grand Prix

SEBRING, Fla., March 25 (AP)—An Italian sports car's great response to canny sprint timing rocketed the fire-engine-red Ferrari to a Grand Prix 12-hour endurance race win Saturday, a solid boost toward international honors.

The Ferrari, manned by Juan Fangio of Argentina and Eugenio Castellotti of Italy, clawed past Mike Hawthorn's leading British Jaguar in the 11th hour. It hit the finish line with record mileage of 1,008.8—10 miles better than any log in the 60-car field. The old record, set last year, was 946.4 miles.

Wilt The Stilt's Play May Be Hurt By Rule

DALLAS (AP)—Coach E. O. (Doc) Hayes of SMU thinks only one basketball rule change will materially affect the game next season—it will remove a certain menace of big men like Bill Russell of San Francisco.

The National Basketball Committee adopted six rules changes at Chicago yesterday. One of them said "no offensive player may reach above the cylinder to guide an attempted shot into the basket."

Hayes said that Russell used his hands "like sideboards to guide the ball into the basket."

Russell is graduating and the rules change will have no effect on him but Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, the Kansas freshman, will be playing varsity basketball next season," Hayes observed. "This rule change will prevent him doing the same as Russell did with so much effect."

Chamberlain is a 7-footer. Hayes, whose team was Southwest Conference and Western NCAA Regional champion and lost to San Francisco in the NCAA semi-finals, said he figured the thinking of the rules committee in adopting this rule change was to not let a team dominate the game as did San Francisco.

The committee also adopted the 12-foot lane for high schools, although this is not to go into effect until 1957-58. Schools wishing to use the 12-foot lane next season may do so only if the system is put into effect on a state-wide basis.

John Rowland, coach of North Dallas, which played in the Class AAAA schoolboy finals this year, said he was definitely opposed to it.

Rowland declared that this was aimed at handicapping the big boys, that the high schools had not been using the tall boy to dominate the game, "so why penalize him?" He added that it would move the boy out from the base line so that he would be unable to use the hook shot that was so effective.

Bulldogs 7th In Ozona Meet

OSONA (SC)—The Coahoma Bulldogs finished seventh in the fourth annual Ozona Invitational Track and Field Meet here Saturday, scoring a total of eight points.

Junction's Eagles won first place with 38 1/2 points while McCamey was second with 25 1/2.

Ackerly wound up with two points in the meet.

Ricky Phinney, Coahoma, was fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles and third in the 180-yard low hurdles.

Eugene Lewis added two points to the Bulldog aggregate by placing third in the 220-yard dash. Art Dodds managed another point for Coahoma by running fourth in the 80.

The Coahoma team also finished third in the mile relay, which was won by Junction.

Ackerly's two points were scored by Dub Griggs in the 100. He placed third.

Big Turnout Due For All-Star Go

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A West team anchored by Bill Russell of San Francisco and an East squad that includes high-scoring Darrell Floyd of Furman met tonight in the fifth annual Ararat Shrine All-Star Basketball game.

The tilt is expected to attract a capacity crowd of 10,000 to Municipal Auditorium.

If there's a favorite, it's the West on the basis of Russell's presence in the lineup. Russell, who just got through leading San Francisco to its second-straight NCAA championship, is regarded as one of the greatest collegiate defensive goal tenders of all time. Playing with him will be San Francisco teammate K. C. Jones.

The West, coached by Floyd Stahl of Ohio State, also will offer a great scorer in Robin Freeman, who averaged 32.4 points for Ohio State last winter; Art Bunte of Utah, 21.4, and Russell, 20.6.

The East is coached by Lyles Alley of Furman.

This Is 'New Faces' Week In Television Fisticuffs

By MURRAY ROSE
By The Associated Press

This is "new faces" week in television boxing with three young gladiators slated to make their debuts over the networks.

The three are welterweight Larry Baker, Mt. Vernon, N.Y., lightweight L. C. Morgan, Dayton, Ohio, and Cherif Hamia, French featherweight champion. They're all underdogs, too.

Baker, 25-year-old native of Indianapolis, risks an up-bate in a streak of seven against the more experienced, harder-hitting Pat Lowry, 26-year-old ex-Marine from Toledo, at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Monday night (DuMont TV, 10 p.m., EST).

Lowry has a 40-9 record with 23 knockouts. Baker, making up for a bad start, has an 18-10-3 record with seven kayos.

Morgan, whose first two names are Langston Carl, bumps into the best young prospect in the lightweight division in Ludwig Lightburn at the Cleveland Arena Wednesday night (ABC-TV, radio, 10 p.m., EST). Ludwig, 21, has won seven straight and is ranked as the No. 5 contender. His streak includes a split decision over Morgan. His record is 33-6 with 13 knockouts. Morgan's only loss in his last 10 was to Lightburn. His record is 13-2 with nine kayos.

FHA Training School Set Here

About 60 representatives of Farmers Home Administration offices in all parts of southwest Texas are to be in Big Spring Tuesday and Wednesday for a personnel training school to be conducted by Walter T. McKay of Dallas, state FHA director, and his staff.

The training will cover policies on loans, and farm and home practices including poultry, crop and livestock management. The school is one of a series being held in Texas by the FHA.

Four FHA areas are to be represented here, said Fred Ross, director of the Big Spring area, who will be closing during the two days the school is in session, Ross reported.

48 Sign For C-C 'Workshop'

Reservations have been made for 48 members of the Chamber of Commerce for the "membership workshop" to be held next Monday, J. H. Greene, C-C manager, said today.

Greene said he is expecting a large crowd for the event, on the basis of the volume of early reservations. Six teams of workers are to contact all Chamber members this week to urge participation in the workshop.

Two officials of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce will conduct the meeting at the Settles ballroom. They are James G. Roberts of Dallas, Southwest Division manager, and Lester Flesner of Houston, a district field representative.

Mr. Alexander was the only person injured in the crash. Burkett was traveling east on Fourth.

Educators Get Blame For Pro-Stalin Youth Riots

MOSCOW (AP)—Educators in Stalin's home state of Georgia have come under Communist party fire for failing to keep rebellious pro-Stalin youths in line.

The party action came after reported student demonstrations in Tiflis against the downgrading of Stalin.

A current issue of the Tiflis newspaper Dawn of the East told of a recent party meeting in Georgia at which V. Kupraze, rector of Tiflis University, and others were charged with failure to keep discipline.

Kupraze, who denied reports of student disturbances in Tiflis in a telephone conversation with The Associated Press Saturday, was hauled over the coals for not giving satisfactory explanations of shortcomings.

In the U.S., the New York Times said information reaching the United States told of trains arriving in Moscow from Georgia and other parts of the Caucasus with windows broken, apparently by demonstrators en route.

The Times said Georgian representatives had been summoned to the Kremlin to report to party leader Nikita Khrushchev and other high officials on the situation.

The Kremlin's campaign to deflate the Stalin myth also has touched off rumblings of revolt inside Europe's Communist parties. Open doubts about the desanctification program have been expressed by Red leaders in several countries including:

Britain: The Communist Daily Worker in London published letters from readers expressing misgivings about the new policy. One blasted such "somersaults" as humiliating and said they raised doubt about the "moral integrity" of communism.

Italy: Rome's anti-Communist Socialist newspaper La Giustizia quoted a "very reliable" source as saying Italian Red leader Palmiro Togliatti had predicted his party would lose one million votes as a result of the anti-Stalin campaign.

East Germany: At a party Congress attended by 5,000 comrades, Deputy Premier Heinrich Rau condemned what he called "hysterical attacks" against party boss Walter Ulbricht, who has approved the new Kremlin line.

120 Flee As Fire Razes Dance Hall
 DALLAS (AP)—About 120 dancers and musicians fled to safety last night as fire destroyed Nita's Place.

No one was injured, but a caged monkey "screamed like a woman" inside the night club, making firefighters fear a human was trapped. The monkey burned.

A reported $4,000 in cash was reduced to cinders by the heat. The cause of the fire was not determined. Owners estimated the loss at $20,000.

Anti-Stalin Drive 'Desperate' Attempt To Stay In Russ Saddle
 WASHINGTON (AP)—A former Soviet intelligence officer says the Russian leaders' denunciation of Stalin is a desperate attempt to retain their power. It indicates, he said, "the revolution has already begun."

Nikolai E. Khokhlov, who defected to the West in 1954 after 13 years in the Soviet intelligence service, gave that appraisal in a copyrighted interview published today by the magazine U. S. News and World Report.

The 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party in February, he said, "openly and publicly confirmed that dictatorship cannot exist any longer in the Soviet Union. Without publicly saying so, it actually confessed the complete bankruptcy of the Soviet system."

Some of Stalin's actions and his system of one-man rule were openly criticized by some Soviet leaders at that Congress. Reports reaching the West since then have said that Nikita Khrushchev, Communist party boss, himself denounced the former dictator as a murderer and a ruler who hurt Russia.

Western leaders, attempting to assess the developments, have come up with varying ideas. The moves have been interpreted as a further effort of Khrushchev to seize power and alternatively as a possible means of keeping any one man from emerging as dictator.

Some have contended the present Russian rulers dared denounce Stalin only after they felt secure in their present power.

Khokhlov discounted that idea, saying "if they were really strong, they could simply have reformed the government, started a new kind of regime and explained it all by saying that conditions had changed and so the government was changing. They would not have felt it necessary to go to all that trouble of blaming Stalin."

He said Khrushchev tried and
