Agents Probe Poison Drinks In Ike Rail Car

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Secret Service agents and railroad investigators joined today in trying to find out whether "poisoned" soft drinks were put aboard a private car later used by President Eisenhower.

Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman said in an interview, "It may take another three or four days to run this thing to earth." A spokesman for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad said its investigators are working with Baughman's agents.

Howard Skidmore, C&O public relations director, put out a statement last night saying three persons who drank ginger ale aboard one of the railroad's private cars last Thursday evening later became ill. Two were hospitalized.

Baughman said he wanted to emphasize that the soft drinks in question were not aboard the car when Eisenhower rode from Washington to this resort for conferences with the leaders of Canada and Mexico. Eisenhower boarded the train Sunday night and arrived here yesterday morning.

"We don't think there has been any plot aimed at the President," Baughman said. "But we do want to find out all there is to know about the situation."

"We want to find out whether the soft drinks were poisoned, or whether folks affected may have gotten some bad food before they ever came aboard the car."

Skidmore's statement said: "C&O office car Chessie 29, the car of Walter J. Tuohy, president of the C&O, was in the C&O shops at Huntington, W. Va., last week for a routine mechanical inspection."

"On Thursday night it was taken on a test run to Washington with three mechanical service people and one of two crew members—the chef—aboard."

"Before the car left it was visited briefly by the wife of one of the mechanical men, his 11-year-old son, two women cousins of his wife, and one of their young sons, also 11. In all, nine people were on the car."

"The family group, plus the other two mechanical men, had all dined together at a home and the women and children came down to see the men off."

"Ginger ale was served but not all drank it. Some of those who did drink it commented on its unpleasant taste."

"The train left and the women went home without unward incident. Later that night three persons, also 11. In all, nine people were on the car."

Canadian, Mexican Chiefs Meet With Ike

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Canadian and Mexican leaders looked to President Eisenhower today for a full exposition of U. S. world policies, including a discussion of the war-threatened Middle East.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were understood to have prepared such a report for the only scheduled business session of the good neighbor conference which opened here last night.

Aside from today's business session, the conference schedule included a luncheon meeting and a closing dinner tonight with Eisenhower playing host to Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines.

The North American Big Three opened their unprecedented meeting with a dinner last night. Ruiz Cortines sat on the President's right, St. Laurent, at his left. Their foreign ministers and other advisers were ranged around the long table in the Greenbrier Hotel.

The talk was entirely informal and the atmosphere cordial and friendly, said White House Press Secretary James O. Hagerty.

Although no formal toasts were proposed, Eisenhower raised his wine glass at one point and declared his "hope and desire for health, happiness and friendship among us."

Robert Farquharson, press officer for the Canadian delegation, told reporters: "The President was in great form and carried the conversation, and everybody enjoyed himself."

If any serious business was discussed at the dinner spokesmen gave no hint of it. All official comment indicated that the main result of the sessions here would be to dramatize friendly relations among the North American powers.

The U. S. resolution would have Hammarskjold, in conferences with all governments concerned, to agree on measures to reduce the explosive tensions along Israel's frontiers with the Arab states. The United States had hoped he could leave next Monday.

Britain, France and Australia full support of the U.S. proposal. Belgium, Iran and Peru supported it in principle. But those three, the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and Cuba said they wanted to hear from Israel and the Arab countries before taking a definite stand.

The council finally agreed to meet tomorrow and again next Tuesday.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told reporters he would decide his position on the U.S. plan only after the bottled beverages left were taken from the car. "Three bottles of ginger ale and samples of ice were sent to a laboratory in Baltimore where tests found nothing wrong. Eight other bottles of ginger ale were sent to the West Virginia State Hygiene Laboratory at Charleston. The tests will not be complete until tomorrow (today)."

"At Washington Friday the second crew member, the steward, went aboard Chessie 29 and with the chef gave the galley a complete cleaning as is customary before a car is put back in service after overhaul."

Mid-East Peace Mission May Hit Arab Snag

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A new Arab delaying action today threatened a U.S. plan to send U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on a Palestine peace mission.

In Damascus, Premier Said el Ghazzi told the Syrian Parliament his government wants the U.S. proposal shifted from the Security Council to the General Assembly.

Western sources feared the Soviet Union, in line with its recent pro-Arab policy, would support such a Syrian move.

The 11-nation council agreed yesterday to postpone a vote on the American proposal at least until Tuesday so Israel and her four Arab neighbors—Syria, Egypt, Lebanon and Jordan—could speak on it.

The delay was opposed by Chief U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., who called on the council to wait no time in setting into motion the full authority of the United Nations to deal with the present ominous drift.

Should Syria succeed in getting the American proposal transferred to the General Assembly, the largest U.N. group might not be able to act on it until late fall or early winter.

Syria made no secret of her opposition to the U.S. plan. El Ghazzi told the Damascus Parliament the proposal is contrary to Arab interests and contains "completely new matters that should be debated and voted upon in the General Assembly and not the Security Council."

Resident's Kin, Noted Educator, Dies In Dallas

Miss Ela Hockaday, 81, founder of the fashionable Hockaday School in Dallas and brother of Albert Hockaday of Big Spring, died Monday in a Dallas hospital.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the First Presbyterian Church of Dallas with the pastor, Dr. John F. Anderson Jr., officiating. Interment will be in Hillcrest Memorial Park at Dallas.

Miss Hockaday served as head mistress and president of Hockaday School for 33 years, retiring in 1946. She established the school for girls in 1913 in a rented frame house with $1,200 worth of equipment. The famous institution started with 10 students.

Since 1913, the school has expanded into a million-dollar institution with an enrollment of 425 students.

Miss Hockaday attended the old Denton Normal School, which is now North Texas State College. She served as school principal at Sherman before moving to Dallas to establish the private school on invitation of a group of Dallas residents.

In addition to her brother, she is survived by several nephews and nieces, including Mrs. Ruth Johnson Kyle of Dallas and Mrs. Elizabeth Walker. Miss Hockaday regarded both girls.

Albert Hockaday plans to go to Dallas this evening to attend funeral services.

LONDON (AP)—Twenty-three passengers of a British European Airways airliner missed death by inches today when an RAF Vampire jet fighter screamed into the plane's path over Central England.

It seemed impossible. But it had happened. Like water seeping into a storm-lashed boat, fear had crept through his body and the great, brawny, indomitable Peter had blurted out his thunderous lie.

"I know not this man, Jesus."

Now the words beat in his mind like the hammering of an angry sea. "I know Him not. . . I know Him not. . . What sayest thou? . . . I know Him not." Three times, with rising truculence, he had said it, venom breeding venom.

SAYS BENSON

Soil Bank Delay Is Costing Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today that each day's delay in congressional enactment of the administration's proposed $1,200,000,000 soil bank program is costing farmers "badly needed income."

"Time is running short," he said. "Already it is so late that it would be difficult to put the soil bank fully into operation so as to help farmers this year."

Benson made his remarks in a statement submitted to the House Agriculture Committee. That group is making a study of the Senate's farm bill while a Senate-House conference committee tries to iron out differences between the measures passed by the two branches of Congress. The conferees called two sessions today in a drive to send a compromise to President Eisenhower this weekend.

The omnibus bill passed by the Senate last week carries provisions for the soil bank as well as provisions which would boost—against administration opposition—price support levels for a number of crops and dairy products.

Under the soil bank, farmers would be paid to hold some land out of production until farm surpluses are reduced. The House bill, based on a return to high level fixed price supports for basic crops, contains no such plan, but the House is generally expected to accept the idea.

Benson had been invited to appear before the House committee today but Chairman Cooley (D-Nebr.) canceled the invitation. Cooley said he did not wish to give the secretary opportunity to price support system he continued.

Conceding Cooley's right to cancel his appearance before the committee, Benson sent copies of his statement to the group and made it public.

"Remedial farm legislation has been placed high on this administration's priority list," Benson told the committee.

He reminded the congressmen they have had the Eisenhower recommendation since Jan. 9, reviewed the proposals in the White House message, and restated administration objections to price support features of the Senate bill.

From that he went on: "There remains very much to be done," the secretary said, "to shape the bill into the kind of legislation now required to deal effectively with agriculture's difficult problem. That is the challenge which confronts the House and Senate conferees as they work on the bill, already too long delayed."

Benson denied—as some congressmen have argued—that the administration already has authority to set up the soil bank program.

"This has been carefully reviewed by our legal staff and the answer is that there are definite legal reasons for the necessity of new legislation. In order that there may be no misunderstanding, I wish to make clear that if Congress had provided the authority this soil bank program would be in operation right now."

Seek Formula For Control Of Convention

HOUSTON (AP)—Conservative Democratic leaders worked today on a possible vote-catching formula on interposition to stir up interest in their battle for control of the May convention.

The State Executive Committee wheeled rapidly through a short morning session and recessed while committees prepared a report on the interposition referendum question and other matters.

Gov. Shivers has suggested that interposition be submitted to the voters in a referendum on the July primary ballot to give him a weapon in his state's rights campaign within the state and national parties. He has urged interposition as a method of fixing the Supreme Court's integration decision and other federal steps in what he calls over-centralization of power in Washington.

Committeeman Elmer Stahl of San Antonio was named chairman of the legal committee to work out a recommendation on whether to submit interposition to the voters. He said the committee worked late last night and it still faced some problems.

Some of Shivers' conservative friends, faced with the present difference of their partisans in advance of the precinct conventions, have urged that the interposition question would help stir the voters up for a big turnout.

First blows in a no-compromise battle for control of the party in the Supreme Court's integration role this year in national politics were being planned at the well-attended executive committee session.

A showdown contest for a winning majority at the May 22 state convention is being quickly shaping up. Friends of Shivers and Sen. Lyndon Johnson were apparently showing them into a head-on collision over which would be chairman of the big Texas delegation to the national convention at Chicago.

The committee's executive committee meeting will be given over to a full review of strategy to win the first precinct, then the county conventions in May as a prelude to the Dallas meeting.

Shivers speaks tonight at a reception, promising to say "in detail" how he feels about Rayburn's suggestion that Johnson head the delegation and also that Johnson go to Chicago as the favorite son presidential hopeful for the Texans.

"If what he said in a national 'Meet the Press' program Sunday is the tipoff, Shivers will reject both ideas. He said if the convention wanted him, he would accept the leadership even though Johnson may also be in the running."

Dusty Cold Front Moves Into State

A pre-Easter cold front, loaded with blustery winds and dust clouds, shoved its way into the Texas Panhandle Tuesday.

The Weather Bureau said it appeared to be a toss-up whether West Texas was in for a major dust storm or just a regular weekday dust storm.

Public Hearing On City's Budget Being Held Today

Big Spring's budget which will go into effect next Sunday will be presented to the public today at the regular 5:15 p.m. meeting of the city commission.

The meeting will be held in the commission room of the city hall.

Also slated for discussion will be letting of bids for the year's petroleum supplies, a look at plans and specifications for the new reservoir, and a request for a taxi permit.

The proposed budget includes blanket five per cent raises for all city employees except the police department. The policemen will be going on an eight-hour shift in place of their present 10 hours while their pay is remaining the same.

In addition, salaries of department chiefs and some others are being adjusted.

Bids will be opened for six types of petroleum products. The bid will be for a year's supply.

Juan Martinez has applied for a permit to operate a taxi, but before the commission can act, a hearing must be slated with all taxi owners present. In addition, Martinez wants the commission there is a need for more taxi service.

Prince Heads For Monaco

PARIS (AP)—Prince Rainier III left for Monaco today to set the elaborate stage for his marriage next month to American film star Grace Kelly.

"The prince ordinarily doesn't get up early," said the sleepy maid at his Paris apartment, "but he got up early this morning—and left."

She said he personally loaded most of his luggage, including a wedding present he bought here for his bride-to-be, and roared off in his new American station wagon on his Riviera home.

The prince told an interviewer yesterday he was worried that a spell of bad weather Monaco has been having might continue and put a damper on the wedding festivities April 18-19. He said it's rained every day for the past week in his tiny Mediterranean principality, and "even a prince can't do anything about the weather."

Kelly, could certainly spoil Miss Kelly's, romantic impressions of the place," he added.

Shireman said the first person who approached him about working for U.S. Trust was Tracy DuBose, a young attorney who was handling legal matters for the firm's branch office in Corpus Christi.

Lanning, who testified yesterday, received $10,000 from U.S. Trust for legal and public relations services from January to June last year, while the Legislature was in session.

He swore yesterday he never knew during the session that various legislators were on retainer to U.S. Trust at a time when legislation to bring the company under strict state regulation was being considered.

Gets 2-Year Prison Term In Slaying

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Richard P. Kluckhohn drew a one to two-year sentence yesterday in the slaying of a woman shopper behind a hotel in Raleigh.

Kluckhohn, 21, pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Last June he was sentenced to 5-to-10 years after a jury convicted him of a similar charge in the May 13 pistol shooting of Miss Bernice Seawell, 43, of Arlington, Va. He appealed to the State Supreme Court, which granted him a new trial because the judge's charge to the jury was faulty.

Miss Seawell was waiting for a parking lot attendant to deliver her car during a rainy day when she was felled by a bullet.

Kluckhohn, who described the shooting as a "horrible accident," acknowledged that his German Luger pistol had discharged while he was in a hotel room, but said he did not know it had hit anyone.

Kluckhohn was in this area as a representative of a publishing firm. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde K. Maben Kluckhohn, are on the Harvard University faculty.

Judge Hamilton Hobgood of Wake Superior Court could have sentenced Kluckhohn to a maximum of 20 years in prison.

More Shaver Jurors Sought

BELTON (AP)—Seven more jurors were sought today to try Jimmy Shaver, 31, for murder in the rap-slaying of a San Antonio child.

The defendant from Grapeland watched impassively as five jurors were qualified for the death penalty in the slaying of Chere Horton, 3, whose violated body was found in a gravel pit on the outskirts of San Antonio July 5, 1954.

Shaver, married and the father of two, was an airman at Lackland AFB when the little girl was slain. Shaver was convicted and sentenced to death at Brady in September, 1954. The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the conviction.

STORIES OF EASTER—4

Peter, The Rock Of Faith

(When a mountain falls, great is the fall. This, the fourth in a series of Easter Week stories, is about a mountain of a man—and yet, only a man.)

By GEORGE CORNELL

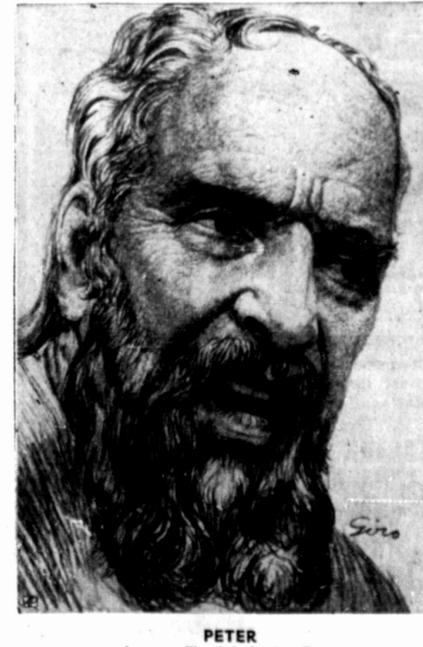

It seemed impossible. But it had happened. Like water seeping into a storm-lashed boat, fear had crept through his body and the great, brawny, indomitable Peter had blurted out his thunderous lie.

Then he had begun to curse and swear, hating himself, hating all of them, hating the sound of that cock crowing in the distance, a cock in Jerusalem where no cocks could be kept, but a cock crowing, all the same.

It was like the mocking death-howl of the wind, like far-off bitter laughter. In the trembling, ominous dawn, as the hooting guards led their bound victim away, Peter sat hunched on a stoop, sobbing convulsively.

New Plant At Elbow School

Above is an exterior view of the recently dedicated gymnasium and cafeteria building at Elbow School. Below, F. L. Bass, principal, gives some tips on volleyball to a group of girls in the gym proper. The structure, erected at a cost of $80,932 for general, electric, heating, plumbing and stage equipment, is roughly 107x77 feet. It is of rigid steel frame construction, painted concrete tile faced with brick. The plant also contains a kitchen and cafeteria, permanent bleachers on the north side, a stage and two small dressing rooms. Puckett & French designed the building and A. E. Suggs was general contractor. The playing area of the gym is 76x44 feet and accommodates a regular high school basketball court. Asphalt tile is used for flooring.

JayCees To Induct Officers Thursday

A barbecue dinner, to be highlighted by the installation of new officers, is slated at the City Park Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, by the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Plans for the affair were discussed at the JayCees' regular luncheon Monday.

To assume office will be David Sims, president; Jack Buchanan, first vice president; Rusty High-tower, second vice president; and Ralph McLaughlin, secretary and treasurer. Simms will succeed John Taylor Jr.

JayCees Monday heard a report on the American Red Cross activities of 1955, given by Mrs. Miree Sawtelle, executive secretary of the Howard-Glasscock chapter. She reported on the national organization's work in disaster relief, principally following the floods in New England and California.

Senate Beins Elections Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate begins voting today on proposals to change the constitutional method of electing presidents and vice presidents. Opponents voiced confidence all versions would be beaten.

The principal plan is a two-part compromise which originally had 54 Senate sponsors. Some have since withdrawn support.

This led Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) a leading opponent, to predict it would be defeated along with any variations which are offered.

To be adopted, a constitutional amendment must be approved by two-thirds of those voting in the Senate and House, and must be ratified by three-fourths of the states.

These are the alternatives under the compromise proposal:

1. A state's electoral vote could be divided among presidential candidates in proportion to the popular vote they received, or
2. A state could choose its electors as its selects its senators and representatives in Congress — two on a statewide basis and the others by congressional districts.

Special Material Used To Fill Dam

Maintenance work at the dam impounding Lake J. B. Thomas is progressing on schedule, according to E. V. Spence, general manager for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

So far nearly 30,000 cubic feet of grouting material have been pumped into holes drilled into the upstream side of the dam. The material, under moderate pressure, is to fill all possible cracks in the structure due to settlement. Weight of the volume of water trapped last summer, plus the weight of the dam itself, produced a more rapid rate of settling than would have been the case in event of a gradual fill up.

A mixture of sand, bentonite and concrete is being used to fill any subsurface cracking. So far the operation has cost a total of $40,259. McClelland Engineers, consultant on the special maintenance work, estimated that as much as 166,840 cubic feet additional grout might be required, although this will depend upon how the sub-surface material of the dam takes the grout.

So far, virtually all of the cracking has been horizontal and on the upstream side, indicating that the natural soil under the dam on the upstream side has undergone settlement due to increased weight and penetration moisture.

Personna No Gratia, Ad Nauseam

Perhaps you saw some of those television shots in Britain featuring a smiling, half-fledged well-meaning, Georgi Malenkov in the midst of what appeared to be a milling mob of people for all the world like a movie idol or swoon-singer being paid court by his devoted fan club admirers.

For a moment there it looked like old home week in Moscow, but Malenkov wasn't the only Russian in Britain at the time. At the moment rolypoly little Georgi was basking in the sunshine of his adolescent worshippers — the same type of gushing innocence would make just as much fuss over a visiting orangutan from Sumatra if the press agents had done a proper job on him — another type of Communist operator made his arrival in Britain under different circumstances.

Malenkov's arrival wasn't exactly in the cards as the advance agent of Khrushchev and Bulganin's impending visit. He came ostensibly to study British power plant operations in his capacity as chief of Soviet power plants, but actually if reports be true he was arranging a "summit" conference between the Soviet and Britain — behind Uncle Sam's back.

The later unexpected arrival was Gen. Ivan Serov, chief of the Soviet police who is the successor of the late unlamented Lavrenti Beria as the he-con of the Communist bullies.

The British press jumped on Serov like a duck, a rooster, a jaybird and a turkey in combined operations jump on a Junebug. He was denounced as an "odious thug" and a "jackal." He was called a murderer and a butcher in print, and with one voice the British press demanded to know how he got there and why he came.

Finally the British government gave answer. Serov came, it said, against the advice of the British government; the Soviet just sent him along anyway, regardless.

To make it look good, but implicitly insulting to Scotland Yard, Serov said he came to check on security arrangements. After visiting the Yard he pronounced the security arrangements "very good."

Just A Happy Coincidence

To these jaded old eyes has come the annual report of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, including a ten-year review of its operations. The copy we accidentally ran across, bore a tab saying the report had been sent "at the request of the M. A. Hanna Company," of which PCCO is one of the numerous subsidiary or associated companies.

We were particularly struck by the "digest of operations" which forms the frontispiece of the beautifully printed 24-page report. The first item reads: "Received from customers for sale of coal and other goods and services, etc., $170,466,361." That was for the year 1955. For the year before, 1954, receipts had been only $151,155,911. The net income for PCCO in '55 was $14,156,218, as against $11,108,249 in '54.

Longtime president and board chairman of M. A. Hanna Company is and was George Magoffin Humphrey, who held the board chairmanship at Pittsburgh Consolidation likewise.

Mr. Humphrey is now Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, and widely regarded as the strongest man in the Eisenhower administration outside the President himself. It was persistently rumored that along with Attorney General Herbert Brownell he was one of the bill restoring control of natural gas to the states. It is true that the veto was announced while the President was quail hunting with Mr. Humphrey on the latter's Georgia plantation.

Of course it's just a happy coincidence that the Hanna Company subsidiary, large seller of coal enjoyed a very fine business year in 1955, at a time when natural gas was under federal control — the only fuel so dominated by federal bureaucracy. The coal business is looking up, staging a comeback generally.

Some government functionaries have been severely criticized and one or two have been kicked out of office for being caught with what is called a "conflict of interest."

No invidious comparisons, please.

People Not Concerned With Primaries

WASHINGTON—Why did so many people stay away from the polls in Minnesota last week? Do the American voters regard primaries as of little importance?

More Republicans than Democrats failed to vote, and this may have been due to the existence of a contest inside the Democratic party, whereas there was no such contest inside the Republican party. But it still doesn't explain the absence of more than one-third of the Democratic vote cast for U.S. Senator in the final election of 1954, when Senator Humphrey won.

Some idea of the large number of voters of both parties who ignored the presidential primary can be gotten by comparing the approximately 196,000 votes cast by Republicans last week as against 763,211 for Eisenhower in the final election of 1952 and the 785,649 votes obtained by Senator Thye, Republican, when he ran ahead of Mr. Eisenhower to win in that same election. This means that in this year's presidential primary in Minnesota approximately 75 per cent of the Republicans who voted in 1952 didn't show up at the polls.

In the Democratic party primary, where the organization was hard at work and a bitter contest between Stevenson and Kefauver was in progress, the proportion of Democrats voting was higher than among the Republicans. But the total of about 420,000 for both Democratic candidates was far below the 642,193 which Senator Humphrey got in 1954 and also far below the 608,458 which Stevenson himself polled against Eisenhower in 1952.

There was something unusual, too, in the 1952 presidential primary in Minnesota. Harold Stassen won the Republican primary with 129,076 votes, but there were 108,692 Republicans who wrote in the name of Mr. Eisenhower, which was not on the printed ballot. On the Democratic side, Senator Humphrey won with 102,527 votes.

New Weapon For Red Probes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department, armed with a new weapon just handed it by the Supreme Court, will now go ahead with the job of trying to make reluctant witnesses unravel some Red conspiracies in the United States.

The court yesterday upheld the immunity law passed in 1954 by Congress to make unwilling witnesses—Communists or non-Communists—testify in court cases involving national security. Spying, for instance.

This law says that if a witness before a federal grand jury or congressional committee investigating a case involving national security refuses to testify—on the grounds he might incriminate himself—

He can be guaranteed that he won't be prosecuted. What if he still refuses? He can be cited for contempt and jailed.

But the court limited itself to saying this law could be used by the Justice Department in making grand jury investigations. It did not—and specifically said it did not—say it was all right for congressional committees to use it.

The court may rule later in the committees' favor. Grand juries and congressional committees have been hampered in their inquiries into communism by witnesses' use of the Fifth Amendment, which says a man cannot be forced to testify to anything which might incriminate him.

Once a man claims up behind this amendment neither a jury nor a committee can tell whether he really has anything to fear or is just refusing to talk to protect friends or acquaintances.

Yet, the amendment is intended to protect only the witness himself from saying anything which might lead to his own prosecution.

Congress two years ago passed the immunity law, which applies only when a witness in a national security case invokes the Fifth Amendment before a grand jury or congressional committee. This can be done; the Justice Department or the committee can ask a federal judge to promise the witness he will not be prosecuted for anything he says, even though he involves himself in a crime in the security case in question by his testimony.

This wipes out any need for the Fifth Amendment in his case. The promise of immunity takes the place of the Fifth Amendment in protecting him from prosecution.

Having been offered immunity in exchange for his testimony, if he still won't talk he can be cited for contempt and jailed. This is what happened when a federal grand jury, making the first use of the 1954 law, questioned William Ludwig Ullmann about a wartime Washington spy ring.

He invoked the Fifth Amendment, was granted immunity, refused to talk, was sentenced to six months in jail, and appealed all the way up to the Supreme Court.

Now, with the court upholding the law, a Justice Department spokesman said it will go ahead with its investigations.

Anyone Want An Oil Man?

By BELMAN MORIN

(For Hal Boyle)
NEW YORK (AP)—This being Leap Year, ladies, I thought you might like to know about a particular bachelor with an unusual story.

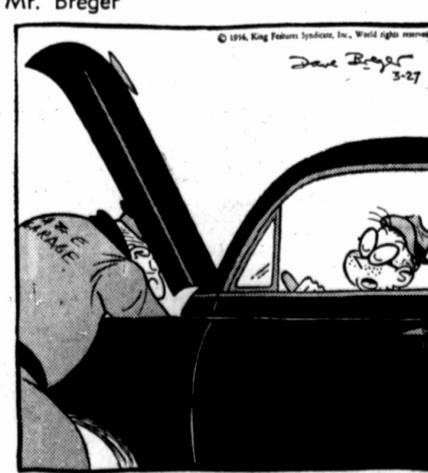

His name is Martin Lerman. He is 25, tall, slim, dark and handsome, with an engaging—so pun intended—personality, which is an important part of his story, and, for a young fellow just getting started, his prospects look pretty bright.

He owns an oil company. Now they tell me it is always a good idea to get a man talking (A) about himself and (B) about his work. And if a girl can come in here and there with a knowledgeable comment, so much the better. So here is young Lerman's story.

He was a sophomore at Washington U. in St. Louis when, during the Christmas holidays of 1952, his father entertained at dinner. One of the guests was a Greek, a former resident of Athens. He began talking about oil.

He told about the island of Zante, in the Ionian Sea, where perhaps the oldest producing oil field in the world is located. The historians, Pliny and Herodotus, described the lake of pitch which is there. It may be that the ships that carried the Greek army to Troy to rescue fair Helen were calked with pitch from Zante.

Lost Dining Rooms

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A five-year study by a Michigan State University researcher indicates dining rooms are on the way out in modern living.

Mrs. Alice Thorpe, a home management researcher, says her studies show most families do much of their eating in the kitchen, although many homemakers feel dining rooms are necessary if they are to teach their children good table manners and how to entertain guests.

Cash Demanded

MT. STERLING, Ky. (AP)—The two policemen had cause to wonder if the city's credit was any good. "Charge it," said the officers as they left Mary Childs Hospital with a prisoner who lost an argument with them.

But a hospital official insisted the $5.50 bill be paid immediately. The officers paid and City Council later voted to repay them after a $100 fine was levied against the prisoner.

Disease Hierarchy

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Hillsborough County school officials have ruled a teacher gets "line of duty" sick pay if she catches measles or diphtheria but not if she comes down with mumps, chicken pox or whooping cough.

"Line of duty" illness entitles a teacher to 10 days sick leave with pay. On other illnesses she has six.

Cracked Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City police aren't making any special effort to crack an egg burglary case. They said a burglar broke into a creamery buying station and took a crate of eggs. The eggs were all cracked. They had been sorted from good eggs and placed in a special crate.

Around The Rim

Where Does The Fruit Come From?

To the best of my personal knowledge there has never been a year in my lifetime when there was a fruit crop produced in these United States.

Each spring, all through the years I have been old enough to notice such things, the fruit crop has inevitably been destroyed by late frost.

Experts announce solemnly that the cold weather of each spring has completely doomed all prospects for fruit.

How it happens there are so many tons of peaches, prunes, apples, plums and all of the other fruits available for us to eat annually I do not know. Undoubtedly, black magic must be used somehow. Or, perhaps, in the years before I found out that each year's crop is always destroyed before it ever gets going, there must have been bumper yields and we are still eating these.

This spring is no exception to all of the others. Once again, unseasonable cold which has swooped down belatedly after the fruit trees have blossomed forth, has, I read in the papers, killed off the fruit crop.

No fruit again this year.

Just as there was no fruit last year, the year before or the year before that. It worries me.

I like fruit.

I relish apples, peaches and other tasty samples of Mother Nature's workshop. I keep fretting over that day (which, I am certain must ultimately come) when whatever magic reserve we have been enjoying in all these frost bitten years will have been consumed.

When that dread day arrives, we will have no more fruit.

The long gleaming lines of canned goods in their fancy jackets which now abound on the shelves of the grocery stores will be empty. Or, I suppose, be replaced with canned dog food or some other repellent concoction.

Instead of delicious Elberta halves with whipped cream which we can now have frequently as dessert, we will face empty bowls.

All because a perverse and stubborn weather gremlin insists on sneak attacks on our fruit trees each spring after the trees have been lured into believing that spring is really at hand.

Frost which kills off the fruit crop entirely always happens each year. It is a proper partner of the heavy rains which always fall "too late" to save parched and dying fields from disaster.

It always will freeze just in time to frustrate the fruit producers; it will always rain after the drought has already killed off the crops.

And I suppose there's nothing I can possibly do about it.

Systematic Saving Means A Jackpot

A short while back, a government employee died, leaving a hundred-thousand-dollar estate. He'd never been in the big-money class, never struck it rich on the $64,000 question, never found oil, and never received a legacy from some wealthy and long-forgotten relative.

One reader wanted to know: How?

The answer is: Systematic saving. Month after month, he put some money aside, preparing for the day when his pension benefits joined his savings to make it possible for him to live a well-off life in retirement — without help from children and relatives. His earnings when he died had got up to $9,000 a year. So he was in the above-average income bracket.

But persons in lower-income brackets can have a comfortable old-age nest egg, too — by a we-don't-have-to-keep-up-with the Joneses scheme of living. The scheme won't appeal to the average American. Children will protest. Their margin for candy, movies, dances, or fine clothing would be narrowed. To go to college, they'd have to work. It's a strenuous and restricted regime. But it shows what can be done.

For the purpose of this article, I'm assuming a man starts working at 19, at $3,000 a year — just under $60 a week. He develops a skill, learns a trade, and his income increases slowly over the years, partly because of promotion in the job and partly because of increases obtained by the union. He gets $3,800 a year at 26, $4,700 at 36, and $5,200 at 46. By the time he is ready to retire, at 65, he's earning $5,800.

He counts up that he has 46 productive years — from 19 to 65 — in which to provide for his old age. So, he figures, he has to build up his old-age security steady-like, tortoise-like. He starts off saving, say, $100 a year out of his initial $3,000. Then every time he gets a raise, he puts one quarter of the increase aside as additional savings.

When his pay goes up to $3,400, one quarter of the $400 raise, or $100, would be added to the $100 (32 a week) he's already saving. For a married man, that's not easy. Federal taxes would take $80 of the increase, additional savings, $100. So he and his wife would have only $220 toward better living. After youngsters come, the program becomes even tougher. Children multiply household costs.

Under this plan, weekly savings would eventually rise to about $15 a week, or $750 a year. That's 13 per cent of the assumed total income — a percentage well above that of the average U. S. family. But, then, as noted, the persons who take on such a program would have to be well above average in determination.

Over the 46 years, bare savings would amount to $23,700. Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby, Inc., nationally known pension planners, calculate that, with interest at 3 per cent, compounded annually, the next egg would come to $42,100 when the husband quits work after 65.

Annual interest would then be coming at the rate of $1,263 a year, or $105 a month. Add that to the Social Security pension (if both man and wife are 65) of $162.80 monthly, and monthly income is $267.80 — entirely tax free. (Social Security income is not taxable. And the $1,263 annual income from interest would be more than covered by personal exemptions — $1,200 each.)

The spendable income — $267.80 monthly — would not be up to the income of $354 the man had just before he retired. Then, he was earning $5,800 a year. He put aside $750 for savings. His federal income tax came to $528 per year, and his Social Security tax to $84. Net left: $4,288. But, then, he probably has no family obligations by this time.

Further, if he gets a company pension, he might be better off than he was earlier. And he'd still have that $42,100 jackpot. He could use some or all of it to buy an annuity. He could use some of it to travel, etc., etc., though that would cut his interest income. Or he could hold it as a legacy for his children.

But beware. The program makes assumptions that the man will be a steady worker; that no heavy medical expenses (other than those covered by hospitalization insurance) will require use of savings; that a life of economic and social simplicity doesn't get the family down. It's a program that many have tried, but haven't completed — because of the American desire for more comfortable living.

Yet, it shows what can be done by systematic saving and good health — without benefit of prizes or stock market profits.

Today's Scientists In A New World

Well, sir, I have put away my space comics and renounced Buck Rogers and his breed. They are hopelessly outmoded. Kaput.

The place to dig what the modern alchemists are up to is in the classified advertising sections of any metropolitan newspaper. Many of the great American corporations are advertising — nay, begging — young engineers, chemists and physicists to join them for work in weird and wonderful fields.

The truth is that scientific fact today is so much stronger than science fiction that the latter can't keep up. It's also a lot more incomprehensible, as I am about to prove in one easy lesson.

Did you — now, be honest — ever hear of "inertial navigation"? Neither did I until I became a space fan via the classified columns. Companies like Sperry, American Bosch Arma Corp. and the Aero Division of Minneapolis Honeywell are combing the type for ambitious young engineers who want to tinker in this field, whatever it is.

Now the Arma ad said for interested parties to get in touch with its Ralph G. Morris, administrator of technical personnel. So I did.

"What I want is a rundown on inertial navigation," I said. "Preferably in words of one syllable."

"Inertial navigation," began Morris, taking off right out of this solar system, "implies a completely self-contained, pilotless aircraft or missile, wholly independent of any elements of earth, sea or space."

"The guidance system and all the information such a missile needs for perfect performance and ability to hit any given target on the nose is built into such a missile and enables it to operate under any conditions."

"You mean, it would be able to make its own decisions in midair to meet changing conditions?"

"Well, yes," said Morris. "Inertial navigation is distinguished by two prime factors. First, it does not require external information, such as radar or radio, to aid it because the information is all built-in, and second, it does not radiate a detectable signal."

"So an enemy wouldn't ever know what was on the way to hit him?"

"That's correct," Morris concurred. "Do we already have any of these gadgets laying around handy or are they just in the drawing-board stage?" I asked.

"That am not privileged to discuss," he replied.

"Well, then, why is this ultimate in automation called 'inertial'? I asked next. "Because this guidance system," Morris said patiently, "is dependent upon the gyro and inertial space reference, and is not dependent on other factors."

Now a gyro is a dingus that keeps a ship and its passengers steady. Any fool knows that. But "inertial space reference"? I haven't the foggiest idea. And Morris had begun to seem piqued.

The principal component of this guidance system, he went on, is a "high precision fluid emersion gyro." And, friends, I don't know that from my elbow, either. All I know is that this whatchit — when, as and if — sounds like the ultimate weapon to me. It makes those fishbowl helmets as dated as Ben Franklin holding a key and a kite is a rainstorm.

The Easter Bunny arrived early at the Dewey Mark home, 1903 Mittel. Mrs. Mark created this seasonal centerpiece with daisies, pussy willow and leather fern on a milk glass cake plate and stand. Candy eggs nestle in green grass around the base.

For Me?

Gleeful Stephanie Dickens asks Mommy if she can pick the Easter egg tulips prepared for the arrival of the Bunny Sunday. Stephanie, three and a half, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. E. Dickens, 609 Circle.

Decors To Welcome Arrival Of Bunny

By PAT HENRY While the Easter Bunny is busy dyeing eggs, local homemakers are setting the scene with festive decorations.

In the U. E. Dickens home the Bunny will sniff an arrangement of eggshell tulips. Colored just like regular Easter eggs, these empty shells are first rinsed then carefully trimmed with scissors into a tulip shape.

Mrs. Dickens used eggs that had been broken just at the tip of the small end. With a nut pick she bored a hole in the base of each "tulip" and fastened it to a stem of heavy wire wrapped in green crepe paper.

Using the finished tulips and artificial fern, she then arranged the centerpiece.

Mrs. Tip Anderson Sr., 912 E. 12th, put real flowers in her arrangements this season. At a recent Sunday School class luncheon yellow pansies took the spotlight.

On the main table, sitting in the center of a brown cloth, was an arrangement of yellow shrub with two bright daffodils placed low for a focal point. A copper bowl was used for a container.

The pansies centered smaller yellow-covered tables—six flowers floating in white demitasse saucers. Fuzzy little yellow chicks perched on the edges of the saucers.

TASTY AS WELL "I just grabbed and snatched for these decorations," says Mrs. Anderson, who also suggests an easy getalun centerpiece idea for table-for-four luncheons.

A lime fruit gelatin salad may be surrounded by candy Easter eggs and a quartet of yellow pansy nosegays—one for each guest. An additional nosegay tops the salad.

Another tasty decoration, popular with the five Bruce Frazier children is an Easter cake. Last year Mrs. Pearl Cole presented the cake to the Fraziers as a "welcome neighbor" gift when they moved into their new home, Cedar Ridge.

The white-frosted cake was topped with a nest of green coconut and candy Easter eggs. The children placed a sugar rabbit in the middle and, since they "even like to eat peanut butter and jelly sandwiches by candlelight," Mrs. Frazier flanked the cake centerpiece with pink candles in wrought iron holders.

BUNNY NEST The Easter bunny has already arrived at the Dewey Mark home, 1903 Mittel. He is nestled amid pussy willows and jonquils with a grass nest of eggs at the base of a milk glass cake stand.

Mrs. Mark used yellow lazy susan dishes with frogs to hold the brown and yellow flowers. As greenery she chose Creeping Judas.

For company coffee, she frosted the rim of saucers with white cake icing and sprinkled over it artificial green grass and jelly bean Easter eggs.

A more complicated arrangement is a favorite of Mrs. V. A. Whittington, 1800 W. 17th, who recommends a simulated hollow log filled with jonquils and iris. In the ends of the log protrude a head and a tail of variety store Easter bunnies.

Easter eggs which surround the logs are drained and colored by dipping in melted wax. A crayola melted with the wax gives the desired color.

For a more formal arrangement, she likes white calla lilies and greenery in a white madonna vase against a black background. The lilies are also striking in a crescent design in a black vase.

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE M.D. "Damn that stinky doll," said sweet little four-year-old Annabelle. "She's a dope and I'm going to throw her in the garbage."

Annabelle's mother was shocked. Where did her little girl pick up such words?

Almost every child goes through a phase of using offensive language. It can be anything—from frank cussing to variations of bathroom language or silly "dopey" words.

Some of these silly words children make up themselves—poop-poop-doop. But most of the truly offensive words they hear. There's hardly a family who doesn't sometimes use a cuss word. It's pretty natural to say something explosive if you hit your funny bone, cut your finger or drop a dish of mashed potatoes. The words have fire and the small fry pick them up. Maybe you don't use very bad words even under most provoking circumstances, but Annabelle's playmate down the street hears a slightly different brand of explosives with which she experiments. So Annabelle's vocabulary is enriched not only with your occasional lapses but also with your neighbor's.

Some of children's bad language is thus imitative, given forth without much vehemence. But this kind of talk usually gets a special response from the adults. You are shocked and annoyed. You react with a bang. So quickly the youngster discovers that these words do have special value. They get a rise out of you. The word becomes something to remember, a weapon to use, a tool with which to tease you.

If you can pass off the words lightly, ignoring them, laughing a little with the child over this new word you will live through the bad language stage more easily and quickly than if you try to put a stop to it with spankings, scoldings or washing out the mouth with soap.

A few little tricks often help. Children are interested in sounds, often more interested in the feel of a word than in its meaning. Try rhyming an offensive word. You don't like damn—try fam, mam, ram. If you can do it with fun and laughter it works wonders.

Another trick is to use the word back to the child again with lightness and play. "Come on, my stinky little dope," you say. "It's time for lunch." It takes a great deal of the kick out of these words to hear Mommy use them in an ordinary playing voice.

The important thing about bad language is our attitude about it. If you let the child feel that it is wicked and that he is bad for using it you either don't stop it at all, or else you just push it underground. If your feelings are hurt, if you feel guilty because you think you have failed in keeping your child pure, your child will hang onto the bad language.

If you can be free and easy about this or about many other types of childish experimentation you can more easily and quickly help your youngster grow through and past this phase of growing up.

Warming Trend For Southeast

There was a warming trend in the Southeast and cold weather in northern and western sections of the nation today. Although temperatures were a little higher in the Southeast they still were below seasonal normals. Biggest warming was along the South Atlantic Coast. Advances also were reported along the northern Gulf Coast and in Florida. The 59 at Savannah, Ga. compared with 41 yesterday. The colder air extended from the northern and central Pacific Coast to the Rockies. Below-freezing temperatures extended across most of the Great Lakes region, New England and in the northern Rockies and the Great Basin in the West. More fair and warm weather was the outlook for southern areas.

EASTER STORIES Peter Learned Meaning Of Faith

(Continued from Page 1) The Master had given him then. The words tumbled back on him: "I say also unto thee that thou art Peter and upon this rock I will build My church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." But he, Peter, the big, brusque, stalwart leader of the 12, had collapsed like rotted timber when the gale struck, when the peril came, when club-wielding soldiers swarmed the garden and tied up Christ like a thief. With the others, he had fled in craven alarm, and then furtively followed to the scene of the Master's trial before the Sanhedrin. Caught lurking at the door, he went sick with fright at the suspicious questions. "Aren't you one of them?" they kept demanding. "Weren't you with Him?" "Man, I am not! . . . I know not what thou sayest . . . I know Him not!" At that moment, across the room, the bruise-marked Jesus turned and gazed at him silently. Peter went to pieces crying, hurling oaths into the night. Too late, too late! Just a few hours before, when they all supped in the upper room and Jesus spoke forebodingly of coming death and of Peter denying Him, the roughshod, impetuous fisherman had sworn he'd never do it—never. "Even if I should die with Thee,

Italian Actress Is Angry Over 'Censorship'

ROME (AP)—Gina Lollobrigida angrily charged today that Hollywood censorship has retouched still pictures of her famous curves until "my figure looks like Gary Cooper." She notified United Artists Film Corp. through her lawyer that she retouched pictures of her must not be released. Her contract gives her control of all stills. The photos show the bosomy Italian star in circus costumes and leotard dresses in "Trapeze," in which she costarred with Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis. Trade sources said the retouching was ordered by the Johnston office, which enforces Hollywood's production code of self-censorship. The reason: "Too much cleavage." Miss Lollobrigida recently won an action against a magazine which said she wore nothing under a translucent raincoat during filming of a scene. She also sued a photo agency for releasing photos she said showed too much Lollo and too little can-can costume. Today, however, she was hopping mad that her public might be shown too little Lollo. "It's rather ridiculous," she said. "I don't understand why they did it and it is not right to have done it. I have notified United Artists through my lawyer that the pictures cannot be released. It is my face and the body of Gary Cooper."

Texas Politics Erupts As 3 Candidates Lock Horns

By The Associated Press Texas politics erupted into a multi-ring circus Monday with three gubernatorial aspirants, one hawking insurance policies, taking to their rostrums. The arena for a knock-down, no-compromise battle for control of the Democratic party was being set up. Sen. Price Daniel, in a state-wide TV and radio hookup, said he would run for governor. He declared he had made no political trades nor deals and if nominated would time his resignation from the Senate so his successor would be chosen at a special election. Ralph Yarborough, twice beaten to announce for governor again within a few days, charged at Baytown that Daniel has "given his unconditional promise" to place Gov. Shivers in the Senate if Daniel is elected governor. Lee O'Daniel made a radio appeal to his friends to buy insurance policies from him so that his insurance companies can meet state requirements and enable him to devote his full time to running for governor. At Houston the state Democratic

At times, all of them had blundered—their petty, foolhardy arguments over who would be first in the Lord's kingdom, their cringing fear in the storm at sea, Peter's vain attempt to walk on water only to lose heart and sink. Often, Jesus had to set them straight, to put their values aright, and shore up their convictions. But Jesus had thought, finally, that they would hold fast—even under stress, even though "sifted like wheat." Like the sealing of a bond, He had divided the loaf at the meal last night and shared it with them, calling it His body, and passed the wine, His blood "shed for many." You, He told them, are the light to the world. But they had dashed it to shame. They had done it in the garden when they should have watched. They had run, covered and denied. Peter's head hung heavy, his body leaden. For him night didn't end as the sun rose that day. From far off, he watched the crucifixion until he could watch no longer. Whither now, "rock"? Back to the nets? Back to the Galilee lake to cast for the gray mullet and the blenny before the Jordan carries them down to death in the salt of the Dead sea? No longer a "fisher of men?" Then it came back to him, faintly at first, ever so faintly, but with a rising beat, the Master's unworried knowledge. "All ye will fall away . . . The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak . . . But let not your hearts be troubled." The words—the significance—pounded in Peter's veins. "Ye shall be scattered . . . and shall leave Me alone, and yet I am not alone because the Father is with Me . . . It is expedient for you that you go away . . . I go to prepare a place for you . . . Ye shall weep . . . but your sorrow shall be turned into joy . . . Abide in Me, and I in you . . . I am the vine, and ye are the branches . . . In the world, ye shall have tribulations, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world!" A great warmth flowed over Peter. Even in his ignominy, the Lord understood and pardoned, not once, not seven times, but seventy times seven, a Lord undaunted by denials and death. So, too, Peter breathed his own stinging hurricane, and the Lord's unshakable assurance abode in him. A rocklike pillar of faith, he spread a foundation for Christ that spread across three continents. It is said he himself was crucified in Rome, head downward at his request in obedience to his Lord, the friend who had told him, "Greater love has no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend." FAIRY TALE ROMANCE

Wedding A Profit For Tiny Monaco

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
The Associated Press

Set like a tiny gem on the mild blue waters of the Mediterranean, with the chilly majesty of the maritime Alps rising behind it, Monaco—where next month the prince will marry the beautiful commoner in the culmination of a fairy tale romance.

For almost a thousand years, Monaco has managed to remain an independent state. One reason, no doubt, is its size. It occupies 370 acres, could be dropped neatly into Chicago's stockyards with room to spare.

While Monaco is much more than the gambling tables at Monte Carlo, it still is essentially a country of hotels and resorts, thriving on tourists. It exports perfumes and liqueurs, oranges and olive oil, ceramics and postage stamps, but mostly it imports travelers, preferably with money.

Yet this land whose ruling Prince Ranier III will soon marry movie actress Grace Kelly is a nation, even though in miniature. It has a national anthem. It has a standing army—65 men in sky blue uniforms who double as palace guards and the police force. It has a flag of red and white.

It also, of course, has its Victorian gambling palace. But for some years that has been a rather ghostly structure, its gilt flaking, its red plush wearing smooth, its habitués often on the dowdy side.

Monaco's history, also in miniature, is almost as bloody and exciting as its giant neighbors: France, which surrounds it on three sides, and Italy, a few kilometers away.

The Grimaldi line, which originated in nearby Genoa, has ruled the principality for more than 600 years, except for 21 years during the French Revolution.

The first Grimaldi gained admission by disguising himself as a Franciscan monk. Inside, he raised a rumpus, diverting the ruling German lords long enough to permit his followers to enter and conquer the fortress.

Once entrenched, the Grimaldis depended on brain and brawn to remain. They made shrewd political alliances, most often with France, and usually turned up on the winning side. Through wise marriages, they allied themselves with some of the richest, most powerful and noble houses in Europe.

In the 18th century, in return for favors rendered under Spanish protection, a Grimaldi was given the right to collect tolls from ships passing Monaco's port. This painless means of filling the nation's coffers was unequalled until 1861, when Ranier III's great-great-grandfather set up a gambling concession in Monte Carlo, one of the principality's three towns.

Eight years after the "Sea Bathers and Foreigners Club of Monaco" was founded, Monaco abolished direct taxes. Ten years later it attracted 150,000 visitors; in 1910, half a million. It was the beginning of the Monaco legend.

Through the Victorian period until World War I, Monte Carlo was the world's most fabulous playground. But after two wars, there were few crowned heads left to disport themselves in the resort. Rival gaming halls, in Nice and Cannes, cut into what was left of the gambling business. There was still no direct taxation; but the income was coming from a government monopoly on cigarettes, matches and a brisk business in postage stamps. Last year, for the benefit of collectors, Monaco put out more varieties of postage stamps than did the United States.

Prince Ranier ascended the throne in these critical times. Shortly afterward, the Sea Bathing Society got a new boss: a slightly mysterious Greek with an Argentine passport and a 300-million-dollar shipping fortune. His name: Aristotle Socrates Onassis.

He announced grand plans for the rebirth of Monaco as a resort. At the moment, Monaco's prospects do appear great, although not as a result of Onassis' plans. Tourist business has taken a brisk upward turn, due entirely to the forthcoming marriage.

Much of the storied principality's future may depend upon the prince's marriage to the commoner. In the first place it may result in again swelling the innkeepers' purses. And secondly, it may result in the birth of a young Grimaldi to succeed Ranier.

This is extremely important, for under a 1918 treaty with France, the little country will be annexed by its protective neighbor if there is no successor to the throne. That means mandatory military service for the 4,000 Monacans and the 17,000 other residents. It also means direct taxes.

Symington, Harriman Gain Support In Democratic Race

By The Associated Press

Sen. Stuart Symington and Gov. Averell Harriman gained new support yesterday as possible candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Neither is now an active candidate.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who is, followed a slightly less strenuous campaign trail yesterday in California, where he is campaigning for votes in the June 5 primary.

He will clash there with the other currently active candidate, Adlai Stevenson, the party's unsuccessful standard bearer in 1952. Kefauver won their first direct test, in Minnesota a week ago.

The boost for Symington, a Missourian, came in the form of an endorsement by that state's Democratic committee. Adopted unanimously, the resolution made no reference to Symington as a "favorite son." The resolution is subject to approval by the Democratic State Convention.

Harriman, governor of New York, was boosted by Frank E. McKinney of Indianapolis, a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee during the Truman administration.

"If and when he announces," McKinney told newsmen at Indianapolis, "he will find that he has quite a militant group backing him in the states west of the Alleghenies."

Harriman, vacationing at Hobe Sound, Fla., declined comment.

An aide to the New York governor said at Albany there has been no change in Harriman's status as a "not active" candidate. Harriman had been quoted Saturday as saying he is "available" for the nomination, but the spokesman said the governor dehed using the word "available."

McKinney said he had presided at a March 4 meeting in Denver, at which people from some 14 states were represented.

"It was a conference solely in the interests of Gov. Harriman," McKinney said. "Now, there has been talk in the papers that this was some what tied up with stopping Stevenson in Minnesota. That is not true."

McKinney said also that former President Truman, a personal friend, asked him several weeks ago to "spike . . . any movement for me for president." He quoted Truman as saying he would not be a candidate under any circumstances.

In Washington, Symington said, "I am not a candidate," and expressed himself as "humbly grateful for the confidence expressed in me" by the Missouri Democratic committee.

Latest Arms Idea Studied

LONDON (AP)—The U.N. atomic powers today studied the latest in the series of U.S. proposals to reduce the threat of war in the atomic age.

Harold Stassen proposed that nations joining in a disarmament pact should give advance notice if they send armed men outside their borders.

Stassen, President Eisenhower's specialist on disarmament, "is meeting with representatives of Russia, Britain, France and Canada as a subcommittee on the U.N. Disarmament Commission."

In short, Stassen's argument was that worldwide publicity on troop movements would rule out surprise attack and thus reduce the danger of war.

Andrei A. Gromyko, a deputy foreign minister and head of the Soviet teams, gave no hint of the Russian reaction.

Previously at the current series of meetings, the United States had suggested the setting up of test inspection areas in the United States and Russia, an exchange of technical missions and a 2½ million-man limit to the armed forces of the United States and the Soviet Union.

U.S. Propaganda Stepup Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Information Agency proposes to step up its propaganda efforts by more than half in hopes of countering Russia's new political-economic offensive.

USIA Director Theodore C. Strelbert asked a House Appropriations subcommittee to recommend 135 million dollars in the fiscal year beginning next July 1, an increase of about 55 per cent over what Congress appropriated for this year.

The meetings end today. Smiling and relaxed after yesterday's session, Beck said he thought withdrawal of the ILA loan should satisfy AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meany had threatened to suspend the 1,300,000-member teamsters from the big labor federation if it went through with the loan.

Union Chief Seeks To Smooth Dispute

HONOLULU (AP)—Teamster President Dave Beck is armed with full power today to try to smooth over a dispute that threatened to blow his giant union out of the AFL-CIO.

Beck said the power granted him unanimously by the teamsters Executive Board meant a controversial $400,000 loan to the International Longshoremen Assn. would not go through.

But he said the teamsters will continue to work closely with the ILA, which was thrown out of the AFL in 1955 as racketeer-infested.

A full-day meeting of the board's quarterly session in a Waikiki penthouse left the chunky, 61-year-old president in apparent full command of the nation's largest union.

Besides handing the hot ILA issue to Beck, the resolution gave him sweeping power to:

1. Clean up corrupt elements in teamsters ranks, especially in New York and Minneapolis.
2. Launch a huge organizing drive under his personal supervision aimed at bringing a quarter-million new members into the teamsters.

The meetings end today. Smiling and relaxed after yesterday's session, Beck said he thought withdrawal of the ILA loan should satisfy AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meany had threatened to suspend the 1,300,000-member teamsters from the big labor federation if it went through with the loan.

But Beck made it clear his powerful union will be working closely with the ILA, a union currently being opposed by the AFL-CIO's own international longshoremen brotherhood.

"We're going ahead with the mutual assistance pact with the ILA," he said.

Situation In Holy Land Not Much Changed By History

By WILSON WYNN

JERUSALEM, Jordan, March 27.—When Jesus made his triumphal entry into the Holy City on the first Palm Sunday, he was welcomed by a wildly nationalistic mob, revive under foreign domination.

On Palm Sunday 1956, Jerusalem presents many points of contrast with the Biblical scene. Along with the automobiles of the 20th century, many an inhabitant of biblical Bethpage rides his donkey into the old walled city of Jerusalem daily. Palm branches still are waved by crowds when a popular hero rides triumphantly through the streets. And the ancient mob spirit still is here, expressed in a surging nationalism determined to throw off foreign control.

The population of Jerusalem is reminded of its grievances daily. Looking across a strip of no man's land, many Arabs in Old Jerusalem can see their homes in the Israeli-held sector of the city, occupied by Jews since the 1948 Palestine War. And looking from the Mount of Olives, they can see the flag of the United Nations—architect of the partition of Palestine—flying above U. N. truce headquarters on the same "Hill of Evil Counsel" where the priests and Pharisees plotted the crucifixion of Christ.

The army keeping peace in this volatile city is called the Arab Legion, but to the man in Jerusalem's flagstoned streets this army is as foreign as the Roman legions which trod the city's stones in the time of Christ. The Arab Legion is financed and commanded by the British, and to the average Arab in the Holy City the legion is a symbol of foreign control. As recently as mid-January, savage rioting against this foreign control rocked the Holy City for days, finally controlled only by imposition of round-the-clock curfew which brought life to a standstill.

Order has been restored. Officials of the government bureau of tourism say tourists and pilgrims may come to Jerusalem for Easter with complete assurance of security. And even during the worst rioting, the basically friendly Palestine Arab leveled his sights at symbols of Western imperialism but not at the individual visiting Westerner.

The burning nationalism still is there, however, and religious observances which commemorate the entry of Jesus on Palm Sunday serve to underline the remarkable political similarity of Jerusalem then and now.

At the time of Christ, the main road from Jerusalem to Bethpage and Jericho ran through Bethpage. It was the logical point from which Christ should have mounted a donkey to ride into the city. The main road takes a different route today, and the direct trail from Bethpage to Jerusalem is passable only on foot or donkey-back. Bethpage itself is a tiny village of small stone houses, rebuilt many times over the centuries. Its principal shrine is a rough stone three feet square inside a Franciscan chapel. Since the time of the Crusaders, this stone has been regarded as the point at which Jesus mounted the donkey to ride into Jerusalem.

On the four sides of the stone are fragments of ancient paintings depicting the Disciples going to get the donkey with its owner, Jesus mounted on the donkey, the entry into Jerusalem, and a scene showing Martha and Mary in Bethany at the time of the resurrection of Lazarus.

The Palm Sunday procession begins at this point. Led by the patriarch, the group will proceed to the summit of the Mount of Olives

Runaway Girls Are Sent Home

Three girls, two 14 years old and one 17 years old, from Odessa, who ran away from home Saturday were apprehended here and returned to their parents.

A. E. Long, juvenile officer, said that the three girls left their home in company of two Webb Air Force men.

They spent the night Saturday in a car on the highway near Big Spring.

Later they pawned a record player owned by one of the airmen with a local pawnbroker. Conduct of the five aroused the pawnbroker's suspicion and he notified police.

The three girls were picked up shortly afterwards.

Guilford Jones, district attorney, told the jurors he had about 20 matters to lay before them for consideration.

and then down the slopes on a rocky trail flanked by terraced olive groves. From this slope looking westward across the Valley of Kedron can be seen Old Jerusalem, with its domes and spires skylighted above crenellated walls. At the foot of the Mount of Olives, the procession stops briefly at the Garden of Gethsemane, now enclosed by a Franciscan cloister. In the nearby Church of All Nations, an altar covers the rock where Christ prayed during the night of his agony just before the Crucifixion.

After leaving Gethsemane, the procession joins the modern paved Jericho Road which winds up Mt. Moriah to St. Stephens Gate in the wall, with swarms waving palm branches on either side of the road.

Jesus probably entered the city through the Golden Gate farther down the wall, but the Golden Gate has been walled up for centuries. St. Stephens gate today is the main eastern entrance to the city, used largely by simple people from the countryside riding in on their donkeys to procure necessary provisions for the coming week or month.

Many of these are refugees whose homes lie on the other side of no man's land in Israel. Once a month these refugees leave their wretched homes in caves or huts to ride scrubby donkeys in through St. Stephens Gate and pick up the meager United Nations ration which has kept themselves and their families alive for seven years since the Israelis occupied their homes in the 1948 Palestine War.

These are the embittered multitudes who blame the Western Powers as well as Israel for their fate. These are the ones who hope against hope that some day another "saviour" will ride into Jerusalem to lead them to victory against the foreign oppressor and take them back to their homes.

Young exhibitors who participated in the recent Howard County 4-H and FFA Livestock show received $13,421.42 for the animals they sold at the auction sale which climaxed the two-day event.

This total was not as high as the total for last year's sale but there were more animals sold in 1955 than in 1956. A new method of conducting the sale lessened the number of animals in the auction ring this year.

The checks for the sale of animals sold at the sale have been dispatched or are being sent to the 4-H and FFA members who took part in the exposition.

Eighteen steers, 70 lambs and 54 capons were sold at the sale. Seventy-nine additional lambs were sold at resale to packers.

Official Seeks Road Easements

A. J. Stallings, county commissioner, said today that he is working at top speed to sign up all easements on the proposed five miles of paving on the Wasson road.

Stallings said that Walter Parks, county engineer, has completed survey of the road and turned over the right-of-way easement needs to him.

There are 15 tracts and 11 owners involved in the five mile strip of highway. Stallings said that all but two of the owners have already signed easements and that he had not had opportunity as yet to contact these two.

The road is to be widened from 60 feet to 80 feet which will require 10 feet on each side of the highway.

The five miles of road which will serve the Moore oil field will begin at intersection with the old San Angelo highway and extend westward. It will come within two miles of connecting with a new farm-to-market road being paved in that district.

Ultimately, Stallings said, the plan is to extend the road the additional two miles to connect with this new highway.

The road is to be built with county road crews. Work will be started on the project as soon as crews can be released from the Vincent job which is now under way.

Stallings indicated he anticipated that the easements for right-of-way would be completed within a few days.

Parents Urged To 'Know' Their Child

Know how old your boy or girl is, Dr. Willis Sutton, veteran educator, advised some 300 parents and teachers here Monday night in outlining a formula for "Growing Up With Our Children."

Dr. Sutton, superintendent emeritus of Atlanta, Ga., schools, has been in Big Spring for the past six days visiting with students and addressing school groups.

He illustrated his talk to parents last night with the story of "Mildred and Henry," adolescents who found it necessary to slip away a year from home for dates because of parents who failed to understand the significance of their physical "awakening."

He told the same story to high school students last week, and pointed out in talks to both groups that both students and parents were at fault in not reaching an understanding on their common problem.

The educator warned parents that they must prepare their children in advance of the physical and mental changes they will undergo during the period of adolescence.

First step for the parents, in growing up with their children, is to equip themselves with the knowledge of the changes that follow the emergence of the subconscious yearning to "preserve the race," he said.

Then, said Dr. Sutton, the parents must transmit that knowledge to their children with "a sympathetic and understanding soul." Discipline must be enforced in a similar fashion.

Dr. Sutton advised parents to use the "divine art of encouragement" in guiding their offspring. "Stay with them—not too much, but let them know that you know they are not yet mature. Let them know that you are willing to help them get their feet on the ground," Dr. Sutton urged as the final step in his formula for a successful parent-child relationship.

Dr. Sutton spent Monday at Howard County Junior College. He planned to work as counselor for public school students today and Wednesday and will return to Georgia during the latter part of the week.

Tonight's meeting will be at the school tax office on the junior high campus.

Pay 'N Take Has Abundant Parking

In these days of heavy traffic and shortage of parking space, the average customer regards it as a special distinction for a store to have abundant area for customers to park while shopping.

Such a store is Shorty's Pay 'N Take Drive-In Grocery. In fact, such stores are both of the Shorty establishments in Big Spring.

One is located at 1009 E. 4th and the other at 708 Lamesa Drive. Both stores are literally "one stop" groceries. The customer finds everything he may need at the store and has no necessity to go elsewhere.

Shorty's features a wide variety of fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables. The meat department is complete and features the very best in quality. Famous brand names are standard stock in canned goods and other lines on the store's shelves.

In addition, Shorty's carries a complete line of school supplies—very convenient in these days when Junior is always in need of some article required in his school work.

Dairy products are featured at Shorty's and every demand can be readily filled at either of the two stores.

One of the lines of merchandise given special attention at these two busy establishments is the lunch meat counter. The shopper can find all kinds of lunch meats for that quick snack or picnic lunch. Shorty's also has ice docks and sells beer.

Top Prescription Service Is Given

Expert and accurate prescription service is the major feature of Edwards Heights Pharmacy, 1909 Gregg.

Bennett Brooke, proprietor, points out that even in these days, the primary function of a drug store is the preparation of prescriptions and the prompt handling of such orders.

He personally handles all prescriptions, using only the purest of ingredients and the most careful and scientific methods in com- pounding.

A graduate of the Texas University College of Pharmacy in 1949, he knows the importance of prompt and proper service in the prescription field. It has been his constant policy since July 1955 when he opened the pharmacy to provide that type of service.

Free delivery on prescriptions is a feature of the Edwards Heights Pharmacy. The prescription tele- phone number is 4-7122.

Important as Brooke regards prescription work in the operation of a drug store, he also has the most complete pharmacy in all Howard County. If it is in the drug store line, you can get it at Ed- wards Heights Pharmacy.

It is the original self-service drug store in Big Spring. There is al- ways plenty of free parking space available; the store is readily ac- cessible to patrons. Store is open from 8 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. seven days a week.

S&H Green stamps are given with all purchases.

In addition to the prescription department (which occupies near- ly a third of the big building), the store features a clean, complete and sanitary fountain.

A special department is the sec- tion devoted to baby's needs. In this department baby milk is sold at wholesale.

Poll Reveals Only Tech Will Be Added To SWC

Round-Robin Plan Favored

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Results of a poll of Southwest Conference schools asking their attitude on continuance of the round-robin schedule in football indicate there will be no expansion of the conference other than to take in Texas Tech.

Dave Campbell, sports editor of the Waco News-Tribune, says close observers see significance over and beyond Baylor's announcement that six league members fully favor continuance of the present round-robin system.

The announcement was based on replies received by Baylor President W. R. White.

Those replies, informed sources report, were so emphatic and their wording was such as to strongly suggest that additional conference expansion is out of the question.

"Most of the conference schools apparently feel an eight-member league, which permits a round-robin schedule plus three non-conference games, is the absolute limit."

There are seven members now and Texas Tech is expected to be admitted soon.

"The announcement also means still another potential roadblock standing in the way of Texas Tech's admission has been cleared away," Campbell continued. "In fact, if the tenor of the various replies can be accurately judged, the Red Raiders are in."

Baylor supporters warned that a split league or any setup not involving the round-robin could have highly adverse effects on Baylor's athletic program.

Misplays Prove Costly As Jayhawks Defeated

ODESSA (SC) — Errors betrayed HCJC as the Jayhawks dropped an 18-7 exhibition baseball game against Odessa JC here Monday afternoon.

The Hawks got off to a fine start, scoring three runs in the first, but were stopped after that.

Jolley went up two hits and one run in the two innings he worked. He walked one and fanned three.

Kidd Waddell surrendered four hits and five tallies in two rounds, while walking two. Don Isham gave up six safeties and seven tallies in three innings. He walked five and fanned three.

Alex Lewis paced the Odessans' 18-hit attack, with five hits in as many tries. Houston Kirby accounted for four of Odessa's hits while Jimmy Coulter rapped out three drives that fell in safely.

Odessa accounted for eight earned runs, HCJC four.

Baltimore Due To Improve, Says Skipper

By BOB MYERS
SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Paul Richards, the boss and brains of the Baltimore ball club, believes the team will be somewhat improved this year over 1955, and well it may be.

No one in the camp, however, expects any miracles, and one of the Baltimore baseball writers, Neal Eskridge, may have pegged the situation correctly when he observed, with a melancholy sigh: "Washington is about the only club we'll finish ahead of, I'm afraid."

So it went with the seventh-place finishing Flock last year, 4 games ahead of the Senators and 6 games behind Kansas City.

Richards describes himself first and foremost as a defensive manager, and defense is probably the Orioles' strongest point.

With the bright exception of at least one rookie, Tito Francona, however, the long ball, the knock-out punch, has not been evident thus far this spring.

The key players may be regarded as Hal Smith, the No. 1 catcher, and Gus Triandos, the first baseman who also spells Smith on occasion behind the plate.

The manager has expressed satisfaction with Smith and Triandos, and with Willie Miranda at shortstop and his outfield performers.

He also feels that of the pitchers, Jim Wilson, whose 12 wins was the most for the Oriole hurlers last year; Bill Wright, Ray Moore and Irv Palica are fairly well established.

Art Schallcock has shown good form in relief throwing. Richards is still studying the chances of such other candidates as George Zvernik, Fred Besana, Bob Harrison, Harry Dorish, Don Ferraresi, Hector Brown and one or two others.

Baltimore has four bonus kids who, by baseball rule, must occupy places on the roster, for better or for worse. They are Tom Gastall, a catcher; infielder J. Wayne Causey, and two outfielders, Bob Nelson and Jim Puybun. Neither has the American League started tomorrow, it is probable that the infield would list Triandos and Miranda, Fred Marsh at third, and Bobby Adams, acquired from the White Sox, at second.

The outfield might include Jim Dyck, Chuck Diering and Dave Pope, with another veteran, Dave Philley, available and adequate.

City Little League Play Begins Monday, May 21

Formal play in the city-wide Little League program will get under way May 21 and continue through July 21, it was decided at a meeting of operating personnel here Monday night.

Each team in the three circuits will play 18 games, or two a week. The lights of the Little League park here will remain on, Mondays through Saturdays.

Roy Bennett, league commissioner, said the entire Little League movement would be co-ordinated into the local schools' athletic program.

Spring training can begin in all leagues as early as April 23 and continue for two weeks. At the conclusion of that time, teams can start playing practice games.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart
Sports dialogue: TOMMY BYRNE, explaining his comeback with the New York Yankees: "I came up with a new pitch—a strike."

BILL BOLIN, Knott High School athletic coach: "There's more interest in track at our school than ever before and it could be because we're keeping the boys busier, trying to arrange a meet every week for them. The boys like action but don't especially care to work every day if they compete only once or twice a season."

A BIG LEAGUE COACH: "Birdie Tebbetts is one of the best at noticing telltale things a pitcher does. When the Reds got Johnny Klippstein from the Cubs, Tebbetts told him he could call his pitches and the pitcher refused to believe it. So Tebbetts sat in the dugout and Klippstein made 50 assorted pitches. A record was kept by the pitcher and by Tebbetts, and Tebbetts called 49 of the 50 pitches correctly. That made a believer out of Klippstein."

TOMMY HOLMES, former big league outfielder: "Brooklyn is the only metropolitan city in the United States that has no railroad station, no daily newspaper and no leftfielder."

TOM FERRICK, Cincinnati pitching coach, when asked by a newsman what he thought was the greatest danger in baseball today: "Some day, Ted Kluszewski is going to hit one back through the box and the other team will have a permanent vacancy on its pitching staff."

FRANK LANE, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals: "That Jim Rivera (of the Chicago White Sox) loves to play baseball. If Mickey Mantle loved the game like Jim does, he'd be the greatest of all time. I'd love to have nine Rivers in a lineup. There are so many ways he can beat you—with a long hit, stolen base and like that."

JIMMY POWERS, New York Scribe: "Joe Louis doesn't want to be a millionaire, he just wants to pay his taxes like one."

GOOSE TATUM, star of the Harlem Magician basketball team: "I remember best a game we played at Earl, Arkansas, one time. We got there and found out the court was laid out in a two-room gym. One basket was in one room and one in another, with a door separating the two halves of the court. The local team really gave us a going over. Those fellows sure knew how to get through that door ahead of us."

EARL RUBY, Louisville writer: "A member of the U.S. Senate has denounced as cruel and unfair the barring of Wes Santee from amateur track events. Actually, the only thing wrong with the decision is that it was late in coming."

PUTT POWELL, Amarillo writer: "Is Texas Tech getting the run-around by the Southwest Conference again? It was announced that the conference's pre-season basketball tournament would have Navy as its guest team this year. With only seven members, a guest team is invited each year. If Texas Tech is going to become a member in May, why would a guest team be needed?"

BUD WILKINSON, University of Oklahoma football coach: "If you're going to be a champion, you must pay a greater price than your opponent will ever pay. Some people don't want to pay this price, but I don't want them around, because we aren't going to win with them."

Winner Takes All In Texas Scrap
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Two Texas boxing championships will be at stake here tonight with one of them a "winner take all" affair.

Danny Cardenas and Al Jurgens meet for the welterweight championship in a 10-round bout in which the loser will get only $1. Cardenas recently won a split decision over Jurgens.

In another 10-round match, Ray Riojas of Fort Worth, the lightweight titlist, meets Eddie Brant, 30-year-old ring veteran.

Champion In Ring
HOUSTON (AP)—Paul Jorgensen of Fort Arthur, Texas featherweight champion, will meet Davey Walden of Houston in a 10-round bout here April 2 but Jorgensen's title will not be involved. Walden is under the 21-year limit. He is 20.

Forsan Licks Garden City

FORSAN (SC)—Merritt Roman's Forsan team clinched first place in the regular round-robin district girls' volleyball standings by defeating Garden City here last night, 35-13.

The Buffettes thus sewed up the title for the second year in a row. Pairings for the district tournament, which will be held at Garden City next Tuesday, have been drawn up.

Knott opposes Garden City at 6 p.m. while Forsan tries Sterling City at 7 p.m. The winners meet at 8 o'clock.

The district winner becomes eligible to compete in the Regional Tournament at Odessa April 21. Forsan teams scored a clean sweep in games last night. The B team won, 46-13, after the junior high contingent finished on the long end of a 43-22 score.

Young Player Dies

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP)—Twelve-year-old Hubert Dolly collapsed as he crossed the plate yesterday after homering in a baseball game. He was dead when he reached a hospital. Deputy Coroner Guy Robinson said the overweight boy apparently suffered a heart attack induced by strain and excitement.

Kit Kats Win Net Crown

The TFI Kit Kats won first place in the volleyball tournament concluded Monday by the Girls' Physical Education program at the local high school, defeating the Dizzy Dames in the final round, 24-20.

The Kit Kats advanced to the finals with a 40-9 triumph over the Conquistadores while the Dames were measuring the Rancheritas, 30-10.

First round results: Kit Kats 29 MWI Spikerettes 18, TT2 Masterpieces 23 MW2 Net Bottoms 20; TT3 Conquistadores 25 NW3 Red Stockings 22; NW4 Rancheritas 51 TT4 Wonder Girls 38; TT5 Dizzy Dames 32 MW5 Crazy Kittens 27.

Second round results: Kit Kats 35 Masterpieces 9; Dizzy Dames 30 Rancheritas 10. Each of the ten PE classes entered teams and each chose its captain, manager and coach from its own group. No girl playing on the regular school team was allowed to participate.

West Wins Over East

KANSAS CITY (AP)—San Francisco's fabulous Bill Russell scored 18 points and snagged 10 rebounds last night to lead the West to an expected victory over the East, 74-62, in the fifth annual Shrine All-Star basketball game.

The West clicked well at times, with Russell's San Francisco teammate, K.C. Jones, doing the ball-leading. But teamwork was not conspicuous in the game, played before 9,000 fans. The result widened the West's edge in the series to 4-1. Last year the East won 90-77.

Overweight Archie Moore In Action

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Archie Moore, an overweight lightweight-heavyweight champ if ever there was one, goes against Howard King of Reno tonight in a 10-round non-title fight at Memorial Auditorium.

Moore, minus a goatee and with just a slip of a moustache, said he figures to weigh in at about 195, some 20 pounds more than King. The Reno fighter stayed 10 rounds with Moore last month in San Francisco.

The State Athletic Commission ordered Moore to remove the chin whiskers, but Archie said he would have done it anyway. He says he grew the goatee for a movie in which he played the villain.

No Plan Afoot To Widen Lane

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas high schools apparently will use the present rule of basketball next season and wait until 1957-58 to convert to the 12-foot freke throw lane.

Dr. Rhea H. Williams, athletic director of the Texas Interscholastic League, said today he knew of no plan for the schools to use the 12-foot lane next winter.

The National Basketball Committee, in making the rules change for the high schools, specified that the widened lane would not be put into official use until next year but that if schools wanted to use it next season they could do so if the system is put into effect on a state-wide basis.

Hiskey Honored

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The annual team medal trophy for the Southwestern Interscholastic Invitational Golf Tournament here this week has been named the Marlon Hiskey Memorial Trophy in honor of the young golfer who was killed in an Air Force plane crash last week.

MANY MEN ARE NEEDED TO STAGE TRACK MEET

It would be an exaggeration, of course, to say that it requires as many persons to run off a meet such as the American Business Club Relays here Friday as there are actual entries. It only seems that way to individuals planning such a show.

Walker Bailey, director of the meet, had to devote more than a little time lining up persons to fill the numerous jobs associated with the meet.

In all, 61 individuals have been assigned jobs, practically all of whom are members of the ABCUB. Here is a list of them, complete with the jobs they have been assigned:

CATCHERS: 1. Johnny Johnson—in charge, 2. Roy Hand, 3. Fred Balling, 4. Clyde McManis.

Kluszewski Just Starting Training, Says Tebbetts

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs threatened today to leave Ted Kluszewski, the club's big slugger, behind when the team begins its northward trek next Monday.

"Klu's just starting spring training right now," Tebbetts said. "He is taking light workouts and coming along pretty good. But he says it still hurts him to swing and his thigh is all taped up. When we break camp, there's a strong probability that Klu will be left either in Tampa or in one of our minor league camps in Douglas, Ga."

Tebbetts tried his best to sound optimistic but there was a definite suggestion of annoyance at the length of time Klu has taken to begin working himself into shape.

He expressed confidence that Kluszewski would be in the opening day lineup but said he was prepared if he isn't.

"If he isn't ready by opening day, then I probably will play Frank Robinson, a fine-looking young player, still on the Nashville roster," he said.

Kluszewski was hurt the second day of training, swinging in batting practice. Until March 19 he did not appear in the lineup. On that date, he tried it for three innings against the Pirates.

"He was struggling so hard I decided to get some competent

North Vanquishes Cowboys, 19-6

Jack Everett's North Ward team registered its third straight softball league victory in Ward School League competition here Monday afternoon, defeating West Ward, 19-6.

Every member of North's starting lineup hit a home run, Mike Martinez pitched the pitch, giving up eight hits.

The North scored a dozen runs in one big inning.

Medical man to tell him it wouldn't hurt him to keep playing," said Tebbetts.

Kluszewski was sent to see Dr. George Bennett of John Hopkins Hospital, who was vacationing in the Florida Keys.

"Dr. Bennett diagnosed the injury as a pulled muscle deep in the hip," Birdie said. "He said it was an injury common to athletes and assured us while it was painful and aggravating, it wasn't serious and certainly not permanent. He prescribed wet packs, massages and light workouts which should be increased gradually."

CRMWD Revenues For February Total $93,137

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is off to a good start for the year, records of the first two months indicate. Total revenues for February amounted to $93,137, boosting the year's total to $193,590. This compares with $88,156 for February of 1955, or a total of $137,844 for the first two months a year ago, said E. V. Spence, general manager. Sale of water in February accounted for $91,788, including $27,125 from Odessa, $18,798 from Big Spring, $9,362 from Snyder, $27,888 from SACROC, $6,069 from the Sharon Ridge Unit. Rural users and the Texas Gulf Producing Company supplied the remaining water revenues. Receipts from their recreational facilities amounted to $1,349.

Total expenditures for February stood at $23,859, and for the first two months of the year at $52,369. Excess of revenues over disbursements for February was $69,278 and for the first two months $141,221. The net excess to be transferred to the net revenue fund was $135,278 for the period. During February Odessa required 116,762,000 gallons of water. Big Spring 89,308,000, Snyder 36,539,000, SACROC 232,408,000, Sharon Ridge, 80,744,000, others, 2,609,000. Bulk of the production was supplied by Lake Thomas, from which was pumped 408,990,000 gallons, the remainder coming from the Martin County well field.

Swindlers Snatch Victim's Purse When Plot Fails

ST. LOUIS (AP)—When a swindling attempt failed, a woman grabbed a purse containing $5,000 from a 75-year-old housekeeper yesterday and escaped. Mrs. Mae Smith told police two women said they found a package containing $9,000 in a downtown store. Mrs. Smith agreed to put up some cash of her own as a good faith gesture in return for a share of the money. The two women accompanied her to a bank, where she withdrew $5,000. Mrs. Smith became suspicious when one of them led her into an alley but as she started to leave the woman snatched her purse and fled.
