3 Children Die As Home Burns

Seven Members Of Family Escape

Three Negro children burned to death at 1:50 a.m. today when fire driven by a wind of 40 miles per hour destroyed their home at 1106 NW 8th.

Dead are: Jesse Lee Gossett, 13; John L. Gossett, 8; Joseph Gossett, 3. They were the children of Cleveland and Juanita Gossett. The mother and six other children were able to escape from the flaming building.

Mrs. Gossett, suffering from shock and minor burns was later admitted to the Big Spring Hospital but was dismissed early Wednesday morning.

Cleveland Gossett Sr., the father, is a cafe cook. He was working at the time.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

The house had no gas connection and a coal and wood stove was used for cooking.

Fire Captain Hubert Clawson, who was at the scene, speculated that the blaze could have originated from smoldering embers in the cook stove. However, he said, it also possible that it was caused by faulty electric wiring.

Mrs. Gossett was awakened by the fire. She sought to arouse her children.

Escaping from the flaming shack were Louis Luther, 14, V. J., 10; Cleveland Jr., 5; George Eugene, 4; Clarence Wesley, 2; and Cathryn Ann, 7 months.

The fire was first seen by employees of the Cotton Compress plant. They thought it was a trash blaze and, because of the high wind, turned in the alarm to the fire department.

It was believed that the oldest boy who died—Jesse—had made an attempt to rescue one of his brothers and was trapped.

It was known that Jesse had been sleeping in another room from that in which his body was found.

His and the body of John L. were in the wreckage of a bed in the front room of the dwelling. The other victim, Joseph, was also in the front room.

Clawson said that when he and fellow firemen arrived at the scene the entire house was ablaze. The kitchen portion had already collapsed and flames were shooting all over the remainder of the building.

"It would have been suicide," he said, "for anyone to have attempted to enter the building."

Walter Grice, Justice of the Peace, was summoned and held an inquest. He said that the bodies of the victims were badly charred. Death by fire due to accident was the official ruling in the case.

The father was notified of the tragedy at the 66 Cafe where he was working.

The house was owned by the Gossetts.

Nothing was saved from the building.

The bodies were removed to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

No funeral arrangements had been made at noon Wednesday.

Heavy Dust Cloud Covers West Texas

Choking dust prevailed over wide expanses of West and North Texas today. An early spring norther was moving toward the coast.

The cold front toppled temperatures into the lower 20s in the upper Panhandle after a day in which heat records fell in North Central Texas.

A few showers developed ahead of the cold air mass in Northeast and East Texas. Texas had a .17 of an inch and Lufkin .16.

Small craft warnings fluttered along the Texas coast and boats were warned to remain in port.

Winds up to 45 miles an hour scooped up top soil by the tons. Dalthart visibility was 1-1/2th of a mile most of yesterday. Temperatures sank to 22 at that Panhandle town.

Laredo had a scorching 58, Del Rio 57, Fort Worth 56 and Dallas 55. Presidio and Waco both had 53 and Abilene 51.

The dust crippled highway traffic in many parts of West Texas. During the night Amarillo had 31 degree weather, Lubbock 39, El Paso 47, Wichita Falls 45, Abilene 51, Dallas 56, Texarkana 57, Waco 59, San Antonio 65, Beaumont 69 and Corpus Christi 70.

Death Leap

Don E. Ferguson, 28, leaped from the 16th floor of a Wichita, Kan., downtown hotel as police crashed through his door and tried to stop him. He was killed when he hit the roof of the Albia Hotel at the third floor level. Ferguson was caught by the camera of J. A. Wampler, Wichita Eagle photographer, a split second after his desperate leap.

MONSTROUS FORMS' Pravda Jumps Into Anti-Stalin Drive

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist party organ Pravda today published a broad-scale denunciation of Stalin as a man whose drive for glory took monstrous forms and harmed the Communist cause.

In a 7,000-word article spread over 12 columns, the newspaper brought home to the general Russian public for the first time the new Soviet leadership's campaign to chop down Stalin's historical stature.

Pravda paid tribute to Stalin's work in the first years after Lenin's death.

"But then certain features and qualities began gradually to appear in Stalin's practice of leadership which later developed into the cult of the individual," Pravda charged.

"The gigantic successes in building a new society, achieved by the Soviet people under the leadership of the Communist party, on the basis of laws of history discovered by Marxism-Leninism, were strongly attributed to one man—Stalin—and were explained by his special merits as a leader.

"He, lacking personal modesty, did not cut short the glorifications and praises addressed to him but supported and encouraged them in every way.

"As time went on, this cult of the individual assumed even more monstrous forms and did serious harm to the cause."

"The Pravda article appeared only the opening gun in a newspaper campaign against Stalin. It made no mention of the most sensational charges which reports reaching the West have said the new Soviet high command has decided to liquidate the cult of the individual so as to re-establish Lenin's principles and norms of life in government work and to establish the best conditions for the construction of communism."

"And the party organ made it clear that the campaign to cut down Stalin had just begun.

"To eliminate the vestiges and survivals of the cult of the individual from our life," Pravda said, "it is necessary to develop a large-scale explanatory campaign."

"The newspaper said Marx and Lenin had 'nipped in the bud attempts at their personal exaltation, no matter who made those attempts."

Tax Agent On Carpet For Raid On Red Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who masterminded the Treasury Department's raids on the Communist party's newspaper, the Daily Worker, was in Washington today apparently to explain his action.

The office of Donald Moysey, New York district revenue director, said he had been summoned to Washington last night. It was assumed the call came from Russell C. Harrington, commissioner of internal revenue.

For hours after the raids yesterday Harrington was unable to explain them. Eventually, it was determined that Moysey conceived the idea himself.

Formerly an auditor in the service's Washington office, Moysey was named director here last Feb. 7.

In sudden raids yesterday, internal revenue agents snapped padlocks on the newspaper and Communist party offices in five cities. The government said the party owed $389,265 in income taxes for 1951 and the Daily Worker $46,049 for 1951, 52 and 53.

"The party took the position that it was tax exempt. The Daily Worker claimed the government move was an effort to force the paper to disclose names of its financial backers.

In Washington, an Internal Revenue Service spokesman said income of political parties which goes for party expenses and not individual benefits is tax exempt. But he said income from profit-making activities is subject to taxation. The Communists long have conducted parties, dances, lectures and the like as fund-raising devices.

Though its editorial offices were locked, the Worker was able to roll an estimated 14,000 copies off the presses today because the paper's typesetting and press work are handled by a private firm.

"Our Office Seized—Here We Are," read the paper's headline. Meanwhile, the Daily Worker's attorney, Harry Sacher, said internal revenue officials assured him that no effort would be made to interfere with actual publication of the paper.

The government crackdown also hit the worker's regional office in Chicago, and party headquarters here and in Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

Communist centers in Newark, N.J., and Detroit were also tabbed for seizure if their assets had any resale value. They were not raided.

The swift raids caught Red leaders by surprise. They quickly protested them as "outrageous... Gestapo-like... lawless... infamous."

Alan Max, managing editor of the Daily Worker, said the Treasury action was "an outrageous attack on the freedom of the press."

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the U. S. Communist party, sent a telegram to President Eisenhower saying the raids were a "lawless attempt to muzzle political opponents by police force."

The Worker said in an editorial today that Treasury agents knew six months ago that the paper had a $200,000 annual deficit but had threatened to force the paper to pay income taxes unless it disclosed names of contributors and lenders.

The newspaper said it was planning to carry the issue to court when the raids came like "a bolt from the blue."

While Communist party assets were the main target of the raids, the government also got hold of Daily Worker subscription lists, and files and documents in the party offices.

The Worker, which has never failed to publish in the 32 years since its birth, made emergency arrangements to handle its editorial work in the offices of a Yiddish-language newspaper in the same building.

This one, a rangy fellow with a calm, unprejudiced manner, seemed harmless enough, but there was a subtle sting in his reply: "Sayest thou this thyself, or did others tell thee of me?"

Pilate swore silently. Rome, the astute mistress! Firmness but conciliation—that was the emperor's command. Would that great Tiberius himself had to deal with this one—not that the fellow's life mattered.

But ambition burned hard in Pilate, whose ancestors had risen from slavery. He knew that diplomatic mastery over these troublesome Jews was the key to power. Personally, he had no use for justice—a plague on it!

But already, his ruthless methods had brought scowls from Rome. He had to be careful, shrewd. He twisted the gold ring on his finger and turned, with sorely tried patience, toward this man called Jesus.

Shaver Jury Is Completed

BELTON (AP)—A jury was completed today to try Jimmy Shaver, 31, former airman charged with the rape-slaying of a San Antonio girl, 3.

Jurors have been qualified for the death penalty. Shaver is accused of killing Chere Horton, whose violated body was found in a gravel pit on the outskirts of San Antonio July 5, 1954.

The last juror chosen yesterday was the only woman selected, Miss Helen Furgerson, assistant Bell County auditor.

Top Priority For Missile Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon has ordered top priority for development of a missile powerful and accurate enough to deliver a shattering hydrogen charge, at supersonic speed, to targets thousands of miles away.

Secretary of Defense Wilson took this action yesterday in appointing Eger V. Murphree to be a new assistant with broad authority to direct the job of striving for victory in the missile race with Russia.

Murphree, 57, is president of the Esso Research and Engineering Co. He will serve without pay while on leave from Esso Research.

Wilson said in a formal directive that Murphree would "devote major emphasis to missiles of the long-range type, particularly ballistic missiles."

The defense secretary designated Murphree to speak for him in all matters pertaining to new missiles within the defense establishment and before the National Security Council and the President.

Wilson said Murphree will start work next week and stay on the job for at least a year. Within this period, the secretary said, he thinks "a great contribution" can be made toward achieving an effective rocket-powered ballistic missile.

Some Democrats in Congress have been critical of Eisenhower administration efforts in the missile field, contending this country has been lagging behind Russia.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash), one of these critics, said of Murphree's appointment: "Better late than never. . . I hope he will take a strong administrative control of the missiles work."

Jackson had urged a single civilian official in the Pentagon to coordinate and supervise the missile program

School Board Plans Vote On $900,000 Bond Issue Proposal

Tentative plans for a $900,000 bond issue election were mapped last night by Big Spring school trustees.

The election won't be ordered until estimates are completed on the cost of expanding Junior high and elementary schools and providing additional athletic facilities. However, trustees decided that the total probably will be near $900,000.

The school board retained Carter Johnson, representative of the Rauscher-Pierce Company, to handle election and bond issue proceedings. The officials said they hope to be in a position to call the election in the next few weeks.

The $900,000 would include $400,000 to meet minimum elementary school requirements, $300,000 for junior high enlargement, and $100,000 for a new stadium and other athletic facilities, according to the preliminary estimates.

Such a bond issue would require the school district to adopt a new state school financing law which permits the setting of an independent tax rate for debt service, leaving much of the present tax levy available for maintenance and operation. Trustees estimated that adoption of the new law would add about 15 cents to the present tax rate of $1.50 per $100 of property values.

The new statute, known as Senate Bill 116, would have to be adopted by voters of the district in a separate election.

Trustees and the bond expert said the district would be unable to issue sufficient bonds to meet building needs under the present financing law which limits the total tax levy to $1.50 per $100.

The school expansion program, aimed at meeting "minimum requirements" for the immediate future, was outlined after discussions of overcrowding and other problems in numerous school board meetings during the past three months.

Board members said at least 15 new elementary classrooms will be needed, in addition to an addition at the Lakeview Elementary School. The tentative plans also call for construction of "all-purpose" rooms at some of the schools, and for conversion of the South Ward building to administrative offices.

Central Ward also would be closed as an elementary school with that space to be devoted to junior high classes. Additional construction is needed to provide more junior high space for both classrooms, library, and physical education. It is proposed to convert the present administrative building on the junior high campus to class use, also, to help relieve the critical junior high situation.

The outlay for athletic facilities would provide for a new stadium, additional tennis courts and possibly other facilities, trustees said.

The 15-room elementary expansion would include six rooms at East Ward, six at College Heights and three at West Ward. Students now enrolled at South and Central Ward would be divided between East Ward and College Heights, under the plan.

The Rauscher-Pierce representative agreed to handle details of both the bond issue and SB-116 adoption elections, including a 11 legal work, for a fee of $2.00 per $1,000 bond. Contract was signed last night.

STORIES OF EASTER—5 Pilate--Weak And Vain

(This is the fifth of an Easter Week series about individuals in the human tide that carried Christ to His death.)

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Newswriter

The high-vaulted chamber was silent except for the swish of the governor's robe as he paced back and forth. He stopped beside a bowl of fruit and plucked a grape in his mouth.

Then, tight-lipped and annoyed, Pilate turned to the prisoner and gazed at Him distastefully. "Art Thou a king?" The country was full of these vagabond soothsayers with fool's dreams and impractical notions.

This one, a rangy fellow with a calm, unprejudiced manner, seemed harmless enough, but there was a subtle sting in his reply: "Sayest thou this thyself, or did others tell thee of me?"

Pilate swore silently. Rome, the astute mistress! Firmness but conciliation—that was the emperor's command. Would that great Tiberius himself had to deal with this one—not that the fellow's life mattered.

Ike Popularity Seen As Key To Ousting Michigan Governor

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan Republicans are hoisting their hopes of defeating Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams on President Eisenhower's name and a single state ballot next November.

In the estimate of Sen. Potter (R-Mich) "peace, prosperity and Eisenhower are unbeatable" in Michigan.

But in a perhaps more realistic appraisal of the state situation, State Chairman John Feikens says the Republican organization is going to put up "a strong, uphill battle against Williams."

"The base of popular support for President Eisenhower which exists in Michigan may be the secret weapon which knocks off Williams," he said.

He said he thinks the Democratic governor signed his political "death warrant" when he signed a bill combining the state and national ballots. The Republicans themselves separated state and national ballots when the late Franklin D. Roosevelt was sweeping national elections and carrying state Democrats into office with him.

Fortified with four victories in gubernatorial contests—including a 253,000 margin in his latest run in 1954—Williams says the consolidated ballot is likely to cost him "a few votes" in his fifth try. But he does not discount the appeal of the Eisenhower name in Michigan.

"It is very difficult to say," he said, "whether the President can be beaten in Michigan, but he can—and I think he will—be beaten nationally."

Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) said he thinks Vice President Nixon, who appears likely to be Eisenhower's running mate again, will hurt the GOP ticket. He said that while Eisenhower's health won't be the principal issue, "the man in the street is more conscious about the health and age of candidates than he ever has been before."

Potter said he thinks that if the Democrats stress the health issue "the people will feel it is in bad taste and react against it." He said he figures the Eisenhower name will be worth 100,000 votes to the Michigan Republican candidate for governor, who hasn't been chosen yet.

The big question mark in Michigan, however, centers around how the farmers are going to vote. They may well play a deciding role in the November outcome.

Organized labor, particularly in the state's automobile plants, is regarded as drifting back into the Democratic camp. Many union members voted for Eisenhower in 1952.

Republicans contend they will get a fair share of this vote. But if there is a serious defection among the state's farmers—about a third of whom work 40 hours weekly in an industrial plant and farm on the side—even Eisenhower could be in trouble in Michigan. The politicians don't agree on the farmer's mood. Feikens says there is "no resentment against Eisenhower" among them. Gov. Williams says there is palpable farm dissatisfaction reaching into the smaller cities where the Republicans traditionally have had their greatest strength.

No cursory examination of farm sentiment ever could be conclusive but here is a cross-section of opinion from farmers attending a Lansing meeting:

Fred Knoblauch, general farmer, Blissfield: "I think farm prices would be the same as they are now no matter who had been in office. I'm not for those farm supports anyhow. I'm voting Republican."

Harold Mitchell, livestock feeder, Grand Blanc: "I voted for Eisenhower last time and I'm going to again. But a lot of the farmers who went for him before won't this time the way the price business is. They seem to be dragging

Wisconsin Vote May Show Demos What Lies Ahead

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin's Democrats, after labeling 1956 their "breakthrough" year in this traditionally Republican state, may get some indication in next Tuesday's primary whether they're right.

The presidential preference primary, with no major contest in either party this year, has created little interest.

Despite this, the relative size of the Republican and Democratic delegate vote could be a barometer of things to come.

Here's the situation:

A group of prominent Republicans, including Gov. Walter Kohler Jr. entered a full slate of candidates pledged to President Eisenhower. Running against this slate will be one headed by John Chapple, Ashland daily newspaper editor. The slate is composed mostly of lesser known Republicans opposed to the President's foreign policy.

Most Republican leaders, including the governor, predict the Republican delegate balloting will be strictly "no contest." They believe the Eisenhower slate will win by 10-1 or better.

Democrats have entered only one slate. It is pledged to Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), surprise victor over Adlai Stevenson in Minnesota last week.

Four years ago there was a rugged three-way fight in the Republican column between delegate candidates pledged to the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and Earl Warren, then governor of California.

The Democrats entered only a slate pledged to Kefauver and two minor favorite son slates that were not complete.

The state elected 24 Taft and six Warren delegates and the full slate of Kefauver delegates.

Republican candidates polled in excess of 775,000 votes while Democratic candidates polled about 243,000. This gave the Republican candidates about 75 per cent of the total vote cast.

If the Democrats can increase that 25 per cent total of the 1952 vote by even as much as 5 per cent, they see some hope for a better future in Wisconsin.

Many Democrats believe that there has been a definite shift of the traditionally Republican farm vote, because of lower farm income.

EASTER STORIES

Pilate's Ambition Brought Downfall

priests—delivered Thee unto me. What hast Thou done?"

The man had some visionary answer: "My kingdom is not of this world. . . Plainly, he was just a paltry mystic—with nothing to do with the weightier matters of running the actual affairs of men."

Pilate smiled. "Art Thou a king then?"

The prisoner didn't see the humor of it. "To this end have I been born," he said evenly. "To this end have I come into the world that I should bear witness to the truth."

Pilate shrugged. "What is truth?" A chimera, an idle fancy! Pleased by his own sage realism, Pilate strode out of the praetorium, up the stairway and through the curtains out on the gallery.

The crowd quieted. "I find," Pilate said, "no fault in the man."

A lull, then a regally garbed priest spoke up gravely. "He perverts the nation. He says He is king. He stirreth up all Judea." A murmur arose in the crowd. Someone shouted, "An insurrectionist!"

Pilate frowned, and went back inside. The rabble! Those priests, worried by their own wandering authority, were behind it—wanting a scapegoat, a pawn to make an issue of Rome's curb on their punitive powers.

The crowd's temper disturbed him. Once before, a mass protest against his use of Temple funds to build an aqueduct ended only in slaughter by his troops.

Again, when he ignored the Pax Romana against offending native religions by affixing imperial medallions on military standards, it stirred a six-day melee. Instead of appreciating the gesture, Tiberius sent a reprimand.

Indecision tore at Pilate. Then he had a crafty idea. He'd turn the case over to Herod Antipas, a native puppet king of the prisoner's home province of Galilee. He also had come to Jerusalem for the tumultuous Passover period.

But Herod, though flattered, sent the prisoner back, dressed as a jest in royal purple.

Dugusted, Pilate returned to the outdoor tribunal seat. He gazed scornfully at the accusing dignitaries, whose very refusal to enter the inner "heathen" court—"it would defile them"—was an insult.

A new stratagem came to him. A Passover custom was to pardon one criminal, and certainly the

Plot Reported To Lessen Influence Of Queen Consort

LONDON (AP)—The tabloid Daily Sketch asserted today a plot is afoot to lessen the public influence of the Duke of Edinburgh, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II.

The Conservative newspaper said some recent newspaper articles reminded it of the way "critics, though much more malevolently, got to work on Victoria's Prince Albert."

Albert, Queen Victoria's German-born consort, often was accused of making up the Queen's mind for her. There have been similar rumblings in some British newspapers about the duke, whose family origins are Greek and German.

Recently the Sunday Express, the Daily Mirror and the Daily Herald have all suggested that Elizabeth's husband caused unnecessarily large sums to be spent on the royal train, the royal yacht and royal aircraft.

"These attacks are being made with one object—to discredit the duke in the eyes of the public," declared the Daily Sketch.

Post Office To Get Ball Point Pens

WASHINGTON (AP)—The old-fashioned and frequently messy post office pen will be a thing of the past in the next six months. Postmaster General Summerfield said today. The department has asked for bids on 500,000 ball point pens and 500,000 refills for use throughout the country.

Tests with ball points at selected offices for the last several months showed few were stolen.

"Few individuals will risk up to a year in prison or up to a $500 fine to steal a pen labeled 'Property of the United States Post Office Department' and held to the desk by a chain," he said.

Cop Gets Blood From Man He Once Arrested

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Patrolman Thomas P. Mulrooney, critically wounded during a holdup March 16, has received blood from a truck driver he once arrested.

"It's real simple to understand if you know what kind of guy this Mulrooney is," said William Hart. When Mulrooney picked up Hart on a minor complaint four years ago, Hart explained, someone was making trouble without cause and he had papers in his hotel room to prove it.

But Hart was in jail after Mulrooney went off duty, he got the papers which cleared Hart.

A Circuit Court grand jury yesterday indicted James Z. Bradley, 20, an ex-convict, and Thomas B. Crews, 27, also a former convict, on charges of assault with intent to kill Mulrooney and Patrolman James Prost. Mulrooney still is in serious condition at a hospital.

FAIRY TALE ROMANCE

Cynics See Monaco Wedding As 'Jack Kelly's Revenge'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY Associated Press Staff There are some cynics who have suggested that the Graustark romance of Grace Patricia Kelly of Philadelphia and Rainier III, sovereign prince of Monaco, is another chapter in a book which might have been titled "Jack Kelly's Revenge." Miss Kelly, an Oscar-winning actress and a top movie star at the box office by vote of film exhibitors, is giving up Hollywood next month to become Her Serene Highness, Princess Gracia of Monaco. Whether the parting will be permanent is not yet clear. The prince said it will, but his bride pointed out on her way to the wedding that she still has a contract with four years to run. Be that as it may, when the vows are pronounced April 18 and 19, the lovely Miss Kelly will become consort to one of the world's few remaining reigning monarchs, and will accumulate 23 other titles, ranging from duchess to baroness. All of this, the cynics maintain, can be taken as a method of showing the world how much a Kelly can accomplish — even without ever breaking into Philadelphia's Social Register. Friends of the well-mannered, coolly poised Miss Kelly scoff at this, however. They say she is a young lady who knows her own mind, who is ruled in this case by her heart and who is genuinely in love with her prince. The story of Jack Kelly's revenge begins more than 30 years ago when handsome, strapping John B. Kelly, two generations away from a County Mayo farm, was collecting trophies as a champion sculler—a sport in which one man rows one small boat as fast as he can. As an American champion, Kelly sought to race at famed Henley Regatta in England, but because he had once "worked with his hands" as a bricklayer, he was ruled ineligible for this "gentleman's" race. Kelly later was picked for the U.S. Olympic team, met and conquered the Henley winner and mailed his sweaty rowing cap to King George V of England. That was not the end. When John B. Kelly Jr. came along, his father coached him too to championship status. In 1947, young "Kelly" went to Henley, qualified and beat all comers. Meanwhile, the onetime bricklayer had built a borrowed $7,000 into one of the nation's biggest brickwork construction companies. Big Jack married Grace Major, once a model and later a director of physical education at the University of Pennsylvania. They had four children: John B. Jr., Peggy, Grace and Lizanne. Grace was the shy quiet one in an outgoing, athletic family. The family grew up in a big house—well off the social main line—were marched with equal regularity off to the nearby Roman Catholic church on Sundays and the Penn Athletic Club for exercise. Kelly has done well. He is reported to be worth several million dollars today, is a big wheel in Philadelphia's Democratic politics. Grace attended a convent school, went on to Stevens in Germantown and unable to go on to Bennington College because she failed mathematics, enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. She took on modeling jobs and made a nice income with her blonde, clean American girl beauty. She also did some television commercials amid making the rounds looking for an acting role. Before she was swept up by

Crucifixion Being Reenacted: Lindley

Businessmen concerned over their profits, politicians willing to sacrifice principles for popularity, and churchmen bound up in self-idolatry were the crucifiers of Jesus, Dr. D. R. Lindley, vice president of Texas Christian University told a Rotary luncheon crowd here Tuesday. "These aren't men of antiquity; they are our contemporaries. Often they resemble the visages we see in our mirrors," Dr. Lindley declared. The TCU official, in Big Spring for a series of pre-Easter services at the First Christian Church, gave the last of a four-week program of Easter addresses at the Rotary Club. He was introduced by Rev. Clyde Nichols, First Christian pastor, also a guest of the club. Other visitors were Dr. Willis Sutton, well-known educator from Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College; Benton Howell of Midland, and Leroy Olsak and Murray Underwood of Big Spring. Dr. Lindley spoke on the subject, "Who was responsible for the crucifixion of Jesus?" He called the talk "one stanza from the symphony of suffering," and declared that the crucifiers were men who banded together in a corporate act to dispose of Jesus—an experience from which any one of them as an individual would have shrunk. "The crucifixion has been repeated in every age since the first century. The tragedy is being reenacted today where businessmen put profits ahead of boys and girls, where politicians (and others) disregard principles for the sake of popularity, and where religious leaders are too intolerant to recognize that others may worship God differently, the speaker asserted. "It ought to be enough to cause us all to be humble and to take account lest we be found in that maddening throng," Dr. Lindley warned.

Surety Probe Nears An End

AUSTIN (U)—Legislative investigation of events leading up to receivership action against U.S. Trust & Guaranty Co., appears near an end. Rep. Wade Spilman, chairman of the House Investigating Committee, said yesterday he felt it was the consensus of his committee that their inquiry is near "the end of the road."

The committee recessed indefinitely after hearing two witnesses yesterday morning, bringing to 28 the total who have testified since the House panel began its probe Jan. 19. Spilman said the committee wants to hear from one more witness, Willis V. Lewis of Little Rock, Ark., president of an Arkansas insurance firm that was organized with a $500,000 loan from U.S. Trust last August. Senate investigators also have delved into the failure of U.S. Trust, in which claims of depositors and creditors total some 7 million dollars. The Senate committee has not met since Feb. 10, and Chairman William S. Fly of Victoria has indicated he feels their work is about complete. Both House and Senate committees have called on help from the State Bar Association and the Legislative Council, research arm of the Legislature, to assist in drawing the line between ethical and unethical conduct for state officials—particularly lawyer-legislators. They also have called for study and recommendations in the field of lobbyist control and anti-influence peddling legislation. Spilman said his committee will turn to investigation of the state land office operation, particularly with reference to tideland leasing activities during the administration of former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles. Such an investigation was authorized by House resolution last year.

Hectic Day For Wedding

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—The wedding day of Italian actress Marisa Pavan and French actor Jean Pierre Aumont was hectic. The bride lost her diamond engagement ring just before taking off this morning for an Hawaiian honeymoon. The diamond and another family heirloom ring Aumont had given her were lost in the powder room of San Francisco International Airport, the bride told police. Pan American's midnight flight for Honolulu was delayed an hour while police organized a search but failed to find the ring. The distressed couple departed on the plane with police assurance investigation would continue. The actor and actress were married yesterday morning in Santa Barbara in the chamber of Municipal Judge Frank P. Kearney. But first a clerk had to hustle back to the license bureau office where they had forgotten the marriage license. Aumont gave his age as 44, Miss Pavan 23.

Negro Holds Off Police All Night

CALLANDS, Va. (U)—A rampaging Negro fought a nightlong battle against a posse of 20 policemen, wounding three of them, then fled into darkness when waiting state police said a hunt was still in progress for Lum Harris, about 50, a onetime inmate of a state mental hospital whom officers were trying to arrest for the brutal hammer-bonnying of his father. The father, Johnny Harris, 87, was taken to Lynchburg Hospital last night with critical head injuries. Hospital attendants said he had a fractured skull. State police and other officers gave this account of the battle: Pittsylvania County Sheriff Henry O. Winn and Deputy Sheriff Edgar Cooper were called to the remote farm home late yesterday by neighbors, who reported Lum Harris was "trying to kill" his father. Sheriff Winn was struck on the head with a hammer when he tried to arrest Harris. He was not hurt seriously. During an ensuing gun battle, Chatham Town Officer Pink Winn—a nephew of the sheriff—was struck in the foot and ankle by a shotgun blast and Deputy Sheriff Tommy English was wounded in the thigh by another shotgun blast. The sheriff said he and Cooper had managed to get the older man outside the building and into an ambulance, but met resistance when they went back to arrest the son. Later, additional deputies and 12 to 15 state troopers hemmed Harris inside the building. Harris in turn kept officers pinned down with shotgun fire. Tear gas failed to rout him out. The armored car, brought from Wytheville, 100 miles away, battered down the walls about 4:15 a.m., and Harris fled into darkness.

Supreme Court Asked To Rule On Parr Tax Evasion Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was asked today to decide whether George Parr, political leader in Duval County, Tex., should be tried in Austin or Laredo on income tax evasion charges.

SPEAKS TONIGHT LAST NIGHT

"Prepare To Meet Thy God" is the subject that Elbert Garretson will discuss TONIGHT, 8 P.M., at the 11th Place and Birdwell Lane Church of Christ. Please come.

in the Corpus Christi division of the district court for South Texas, accused of "willfully attempted evasion of income taxes" for 1949, 1950 and 1951. Papers on file with the Supreme Court do not list the amount of the government claims.

Attorneys for Parr, contending he could not get a fair trial in Corpus Christi because of newspaper publicity, got the case moved to Laredo.

Lawyers for the government contended the prosecution "could not get a fair trial in the Laredo division because of the nearly absolute political control exercised in the Laredo area" by Parr. They obtained a new indictment at Austin and then asked for and got a dismissal of the Laredo indictment, an action upheld by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Everett L. Looney, Austin attorney, and Abe Fortas, Washington lawyer, prepared Parr's plea to the Supreme Court that the 5th Circuit ruling be overturned and the trial be held in Laredo. In a brief filed in advance of arguments they contended the government has made "an unprecedented attempt to circumvent a valid and effective order by transfer" of the trial site.

The government said the original indictment was returned in the Southern Texas District because Parr prepared his income tax returns in that jurisdiction. He resides in San Diego. The indictment in Austin, the prosecution told the high court, was based on the fact that the returns were filed with the internal revenue collector in that city, which is in the Western District of Texas.

Looney and Fortas declared in their appeal brief: "The reinstatement of Parr in Austin and the dismissal of the transferred order constitutes a technique for escaping the consequences of the transfer order which is procedurally indefensible."

Parr's lawyers declared the case "presents a highly important question in the administration of justice" and "breaks new ground." Replying to arguments made by government lawyers, they said:

"The plain truth of the matter is that the government had no proper reason for dismissal. The dismissal was sought in order to avoid trial in the transferee venue (Laredo) which the court had adjudicated to be fair to both parties."

Government lawyers took the position Parr was not "aggrieved by the judgment which he seeks to have 'reviewed'" and that it therefore is not appealable.

They then posed the proposition that the indictments were reinstated in the Southern District (Laredo), as Parr claims to be his right, and added:

"In that event, there would be two indictments pending against him, and the attorney general, acting within his well-recognized powers, would have both the right and duty to elect under which of the two he would proceed."

Concerning Parr's attorneys' contention that he could not get a fair trial in Corpus Christi because of unfavorable newspaper publicity, the government lawyers said:

"If petitioner's (Parr) real purpose had been to avoid the alleged harmful influence of the Corpus Christi newspapers which was advanced as the principal ground for a change of venue, he should have sought transfer not to Laredo, but to the Houston or Galveston divisions of the Southern District, in which their circulation and influence was tremendously smaller, or to a place outside the district."

Shroud Of Dust Covers 6 States

DENVER (AP) — An eerie wall of dust shrouded a six-state area of the prairie West today along an 800-mile path from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Waco, Tex.

The first severe windstorm of the year sent grimy clouds boiling to 20,000 feet and forced rerouting of some airline flights.

In its wake was untold damage to spring crops, grazing land and range animals. In Eastern Colorado alone, federal agriculture officials estimated up to 75 per cent of the state's 3,400,000 acres of winter wheat was blown aloft.

The weatherman predicted relief for southern Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico today. But there was little letup in the ferocious winds that battered Kansas, Oklahoma and North Texas.

Several eastern Colorado towns reported wind gusts to 85 m.p.h. Gusts were clocked at 75 m.p.h. at Cheyenne, and at 54 m.p.h. in Denver.

The Colorado highway patrol closed U.S. 40-287 and U.S. 24 between Limon and the Kansas border for more than eight hours.

Three hundred motorists were given emergency shelter at Kit Carson, where residents reported visibility cut to less than a city block.

As the winds receded at dark yesterday, all roads in Colorado were reported open. Some Colorado schools had been closed during the day.

Bus drivers reported dust drifting two and three feet high along fence rows in eastern Colorado and western Kansas, agriculturally rich areas which have been hammered for four years by severe winds and drought.

United Air Lines reported some westbound flights delayed as much as 80 minutes by strong headwinds and rerouting. Pilots reported a huge dust cloud 20,000 feet high over southeast Colorado.

The area is the same as that inspected last year by Secretary of Agriculture Benson on a flying trip West. Much of it is in the same left in desert wastelands during the Dust Bowl years of the 1930s.

Mother Saves Sons From Fire

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—A mother smashed the door of a burning shed yesterday to rescue her three sons and douse their flaming clothes with water. The mother, Mrs. John R. Wilson, suffered burns on the hands.

The oldest child, Robert, 10, was in serious condition at Boulder Community Hospital. Two brothers, James, 7, and Mickey, 5, had lesser burns.

Police said the youngsters locked themselves in the small frame building and were playing with matches. Straw and lumber in the shed caught fire.

Mrs. Wilson saw the smoke, heard her sons' screams. She smashed the locked door from its hinges with an ax.

Ike Views Talks As Big Success

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported today to regard his experiment in informal diplomacy as such a success that it may set a pattern for similar talks in the future.

His meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines came to an end last night with no agreements sought or made and no problems solved.

But Eisenhower was said to feel the three heads of government and their foreign ministers had gained good will and understanding which would be helpful in future negotiations. The meeting opened Monday night in the swanky Greenbrier Hotel.

"This meeting has achieved exactly what it was called for," said White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly. "That purpose has been most successfully carried out here and the President and Secretary of State Dulles feel just that."

Ruiz Cortines and St. Laurent were reported to hold similar views.

Officials said it is now certain that Eisenhower will entertain Prime Minister Nehru away from Washington, in similar informal style, when Nehru visits him in July.

St. Laurent told reporters it is to be assumed there will be another round of Canadian-American-Mexican talks sometime but that no plans had been made.

The meeting here was relaxed and easy-going. The only table the Big Three gathered round was the dinner table. When they talked business they sat on armchairs and sofas. The one real business session was devoted to a generalized survey of world affairs.

Yesterday afternoon Eisenhower met separately with the Canadian and Mexican leaders for an hour each. He agreed with St. Laurent that Canada and the United States should work out mutually acceptable programs for the development of the Columbia River basin. He agreed with Ruiz Cortines that problems of migratory Mexican labor, working seasonally in the United States, should be solved amicably.

The most nearly tangible results of the conference came in the two-hour business session yesterday and covered these points:

- Dulles made a plea for greater participation of small nations in giving "moral or economic aid" to such countries as India and Indonesia which have become independent in recent years. Canadian and Mexican leaders offered to do all they could to strengthen such countries against "Communist totalitarianism."

- Lester Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs, suggested that the United States and Allied countries offer to exchange blueprints of their foreign aid programs with the Russians as a means of "calling their bluff" on foreign aid offers. Pearson said his proposal could be handled through the United Nations. Dulles was expected to study the proposition.

- Canada and Mexico endorsed United States submission of the Israeli-Arab dispute to the U.N. Security Council, an action taken last week.

A Bible Thought For Today

To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins. (Acts 10:43)

Editorial

Stronger Signs Are Needed

One of the many stories out of Moscow recently noted an increase in the size of the crowd that regularly visits the tomb of Lenin and Stalin on Red Square. This reflects a reawakened interest in Stalin as a result of the hierarchy's attack on him, but not necessarily sympathetic nor even hostile, but merely curious. The people want to know if Stalin's body still lies beside that of Lenin. They have been expecting the old dictator's remains to disappear along with the thousands of statues and pictures now gradually being removed from public gaze.

Surely the ejection of Stalin's body from the tomb would be conclusive evidence that Khrushchev and Company are not just playing tiddlywinks. Next logical step after that would be to bring back the ashes of Stalin's foe, Trotsky, from Mexico City man. If the current masters of the Kremlin are looking for complete proof of total reversal of Soviet "policy," that would be the most convincing.

port presents the views of Nikolai E. Khokhlov on the current upheaval in Russia. This man was for 13 years an intelligence officer under Stalin before defecting to the West in 1954.

According to Khokhlov the Red rulers are desperate. They can trust nobody—farmers, students, workers, or the navy. In denouncing Stalin the rulers of the Kremlin are "leading from panic." Things are getting out of hand, and what we're seeing now is the real start of the revolution against the Reds. Stalin is a convenient scapegoat on which to fasten all the sins of the top command now in control, all of whom were intimately associated with the dead dictator, and trusted by him, at the height of his sway.

"We were terrorized," is Khrushchev's explanation of their failure to cope with the "mad dictator" in his lifetime.

The West can hope that the putative sickness among the Communists is no trivial thing. But beyond the hope is well-founded suspicion of all things Communist, regardless of what they say or do or of superficial evidence.

An Ugly Racket Rises Again

There has recently been noted throughout the country the rise of a racket that started a good many years ago and then seemed to fade away for a time—sending merchandise through the mail to people who had not ordered it, did not want it, and had no intention of buying it.

People who have been annoyed by this strong-armed peddling tactic have asked for laws against it, but it would be technically difficult to make or enforce such laws.

Unless we misread his comment recently, the postmaster general has a simple and direct way of dealing with this problem. He said he simply dumped all such stuff in the wastebasket.

Much of this stuff bears no return postage, or guarantee of the same, which is adding insult to injury. People who throw it away or simply put it by somewhere usually get tough letters demanding its return, but as we understand it there is no law requiring anyone to return unordered or unsolicited merchandise.

The average householder is pestered enough with direct-mail advertising matter without being imposed upon by this dubious kind of forced selling. A large percentage of the mail that goes into everyone's box is direct-by-mail advertising matter which he has never asked for and seldom welcomes. There is the trouble and bother of gathering it up and throwing it into the trash barrel.

It costs the postal service practically as much trouble and expense to handle these throw-aways as it costs to handle a first-class letter, and it is particularly burdensome on the man who walks your postal beat with a pack on his back.

The national longing for a superior station in life is nowhere better demonstrated than in the willingness of many citizens even to drink whiskey to attain the stature of "men of distinction."

Now it occurs to me that both the United States and Italy under mistaken republican precepts are missing a tremendous source of potential revenue when they ban and/or ignore this prime key for titles. Short of naming Bobo Rockefeller Secretary of the Treasury, there is no better way for the government to balance the budget and pay the national debt than to pass a constitutional amendment and then issue genuine patents of nobility— at a price.

It would satisfy the government's need for money and the citizens' determination to get ahead of the Joneses. And it would certainly give a suitable outlet to the lady in search of selt who boasted that her grandmother was the first woman west of the Mississippi addressed as "Madam."

Why Not Grant Titles, For A Price?

It is salutary discipline for us Americans to be reminded from time to time that we do not of necessity have the only half-nelson on democracy.

The late Huey Long failed notably in his worthy campaign to make every man a king in these United States. But through a popular do-it-yourself program, the transformation of every man into a prince or better is well under way in Italy. Self-promotion is rampant throughout the boot.

The Italian republic is not yet quite 10 years old, yet already there are 10 times as many resplendent titles as in the long days of the monarchy.

In the first place, the laws of that republic, unlike the laws of this republic, ignore titles completely. ("No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States"—See U. S. Constitution, Section 9.)

Furthermore, the status of the self-made prince received a substantial boost recently when the highest court in Italy announced that anyone is legally entitled to call himself "prince" if he is so minded.

It is one woman's opinion that the Italians, in knighting themselves, are simply doing what comes naturally. Man everywhere has a universal itch to be distinguished from the herd, to be elevated above the commonality, and in no place is this urge more virulent than in a democracy.

As a reconstructed society editor, I have an unsurpassed working knowledge of the average American's harmless hankering for titles. My compatriots, let's love 'em, will indefinitely supply bed and board for any European of title, no matter how frowzy, just for the privilege of basking in reflected eminence.

We christen our financial tycoons "kings" of this and that; our most famous ballplayer was crowned "The Sultan of Swat," and any woman in any American community who owns oyster forks and an ancestral portrait is its "social queen."

The national longing for a superior station in life is nowhere better demonstrated than in the willingness of many citizens even to drink whiskey to attain the stature of "men of distinction."

Now it occurs to me that both the United States and Italy under mistaken republican precepts are missing a tremendous source of potential revenue when they ban and/or ignore this prime key for titles. Short of naming Bobo Rockefeller Secretary of the Treasury, there is no better way for the government to balance the budget and pay the national debt than to pass a constitutional amendment and then issue genuine patents of nobility— at a price.

It would satisfy the government's need for money and the citizens' determination to get ahead of the Joneses. And it would certainly give a suitable outlet to the lady in search of selt who boasted that her grandmother was the first woman west of the Mississippi addressed as "Madam."

Red Raid Bewilders Tax Bosses

WASHINGTON — Donald R. Moysey, a new tax collector for the Internal Revenue Service, seems to have left his bosses bewildered with his sudden raid on the Communists to try to get back tax money out of them.

At least they give that appearance.

This was a more sudden and drastic step than any undertaken by the Truman administration or by anyone in the Eisenhower administration up to this time. Both had worked steadily to put a halter on the Communists through long court action.

Moysey was quoted by the revenue service's main office here as saying he had thought up the idea himself. For years he had worked as an auditor in the main office.

On Feb. 7 he was made director for the Lower Manhattan District in New York. There yesterday he seized — for back taxes — the Communist party headquarters, its assets and records, and its newspaper, the Daily Worker.

Simultaneously across the country other directors did the same thing to Communist party offices in Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles. The taxes were said to be $389,000 for the party, $46,550 for the paper. The Daily Worker says it operates "at a loss."

Moysey's boss Russell C. Harrington, commissioner of internal revenue, was asked for an explanation. He told me he could give none until he had learned the details. This was hours after the raids.

Could the raids have been made without his permission? He said: "I guess I have to take responsibility for them." Could they have been so well planned and coordinated without orders from him?

He said he had to wait for details. Shortly after this he talked with Moysey by phone. Then one of his assistants phoned Moysey, in the presence of newsmen, and said Moysey told him he did the raiding on his own, this was a tax case in his area, and he had notified other regional directors to make similar raids.

Did Moysey have authority to get other directors in on the raids and could he do this without notifying Harrington? The commissioner's assistant said yes.

He quoted Moysey as saying revenue agents had asked the Communist party's attorneys to see its books and records but were told there were no records and that the party was tax-exempt. Forms were sent the party to fill out, proving its exemption.

The Democratic and Republican national committees, four to five times a year, file with the House of Representatives reports on their income and expenditures. They pay no income tax because their income is from gifts.

Such filing is required under the Corrupt Practices Act if a political committee has income from more than one state. House employees said they cannot recall any such reports from the Communist party.

The Truman and Eisenhower administrations, acting under the 1950 Internal Security Act, have been trying to force the Communist party to register and disclose the sources of its income and its membership. That case is now pending in the Supreme Court.

If the records seized by Moysey reveal the sources of party income, then he has achieved in one raid what the government has been trying to do for years.

But it is not yet clear whether Moysey's raid will give the party new ammunition to fight the case pending in court. If it wins as a result of Moysey's raids, then six years of work will go out the window.

So Why Stop Smoking?

By RELMAN MORIN (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK — About this business of not smoking — since I lit my last cigarette, it still seems like a miracle, difficult to believe after 25 years of heavy puffing. I don't intend to start again.

However, the subject of this essay is not "How I Stopped Smoking."

It is, rather, that the benefits of not smoking may be greatly overstated.

As I understand it, each of us is a special little chemical works, different in some detail from every other. What is harmful to one person may have little or no effect on another. So doctors are by no means in agreement about the effects of tobacco.

My experience, for what it's worth, has been this — I don't find that I work better now, have more energy nor sleep more soundly. My disposition hasn't improved. And writing a simple declarative English sentence is still likely to be an obstacle bigger than Mt. Everest.

In other words, I feel pretty much as I did when I was smoking.

Then why stop? Well, there was an illness — doctor's advice.

However, he is among those physicians who believe that, used in moderation, tobacco eases tension and promotes relaxation. He thinks the beneficial effects of this may outweigh any physical disadvantages.

This, of course, would be the ideal way to smoke.

It seems to me that tobacco is one of the good things of life, one of the rare pleasures, and should be treated as such. A fine cigar, a cool pipe or a few cigarettes are the hallmarks of a civilized man. The trick is not to overdo. I couldn't learn that trick. My daily average was two packs of cigarettes and, under pressure at the typewriter, it would go up to three.

I often lit one cigarette, and put it down beside another already burning. Over-indulgence was my middle name.

So there was no alternative but to stop entirely.

How do you stop? There are a thousand different methods. Some people have had success with the "stretch-out" system. In this, you postpone your first cigarette five minutes each day; after a month, you will have delayed the day's smoking by two and one-half hours.

Another, and similar, plan is the "reward" idea. You don't tell yourself you are going to stop entirely, but you hold off as long as possible, then "reward" yourself with a smoke. Then hold off again.

Trouble with all these is that they focus your thoughts on tobacco, whereas the key is to forget it entirely. I believe it was Mark Twain who said something to the effect that smoking is not the kind of habit you can lead downstairs, one step at a time.

"You have to throw it out the window, bodily," he declared.

Around The Rim

Hope For A Wetter Season

While I hesitate to return so soon to the same subject, the thesis of Dr. Hurd C. Willett is of such encouraging nature that it might help us live in hope during the intolerable gusty-dusty season.

A few weeks ago I raised, or rather added my voice to, the issue of whether we were undergoing a climatic change—a transition into the hotter and drier realm. Alas, statistics supported this possibility all too well. Now comes Dr. Willett, who is professor of meteorology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, with a bold prediction the next half century will become colder and (hallelujah) wetter.

Dr. Willett crawled out on this long range rim last week in an article carried in the Saturday Evening Post. He bases the prediction upon the parallel of weather and sunspots. While being careful not to say that sunspots control the pattern of weather on the earth, he points out that during periods of high activity of the spots or swirls on the surface of the sun, weather on the earth tends to become hot and in general drier. Conversely, when sunspot activity decreases, the cool, damp cycle of weather seems to return. Dr. Willett supported his theory with charts dating back to 1750, which he admits is all too short a period on which to base any irrefutable conclusions.

The good doctor also takes into account the "general circulation," or the large scale wind systems of the hemisphere. He says these are the basis of changes in climate and of truly long-range forecasting. In an over-simplified form, he points out that basic weather is affected by the general circulation of air off the Pacific from west to east. This more or less follows into a stream or belt, possibly like the great currents within the ocean. In those cycles of increased sunspot activity, the belt swings northward so that the southern and even the middle portion of the United States is gradually dried and parched. Then when the cycle has run its course, the circulatory belt swings back southward.

Records (and weather developments in Europe, the extreme northeast and extreme northwest of the United States) indicate to Dr. Willett that the southward swing of the general circulatory stream has started.

There may be lags, and even direct short-term reversals within the framework of the over-all pattern, but he says the general trend will be cooler and wetter weather. Most of his pinpointing is in the upper half of the United States, but the inference is that if those areas become progressively wetter and cooler from north to south, our situation in the extreme southern part is bound to be improved.

At any rate he says the dusty days of the '30s can't happen again. Of course, in this respect it's just as well for Dr. Willett to remain in his ivory tower at MIT than experience the facts of life out in this dusty extreme. As for me, it's just as well we've reached the point that the doctor has just got to be right.

Stevenson Stopped By Farm Revolt?

WASHINGTON — The defeat suffered by Adlai Stevenson in the Minnesota Presidential primary was in part the work of prominent Democrats who decided that the party's standard-bearer in 1952 should be eliminated because he refused to advocate a radical solution for the farm problem.

The upset in Minnesota might have happened anyway with the help of Republicans who went into the Democratic primary with the intention of killing off the Democrats' front runner. But the victory of Senator Estes Kefauver hardly could have been so big without the behind-the-scenes help of Democratic leaders deeply resentful of Stevenson's course of moderation.

These leaders are jubilant today. They are freely predicting that Stevenson will do worse in the California preferential primary, which comes on June 5, than he did in Minnesota. They are convinced that beneath the tranquil surface of the Eisenhower prosperity there are deep discontent not only on the farms but in the cities. Furthermore, they believe that a Democratic candidate who exploits these discontents with an all-out attack can win, even though several Southern states might bolt the party.

At a meeting in Denver, Colo., early in March Democrats from 11 states discussed the outline of a stop-Stevenson movement with special reference to the Minnesota primary. Among those present were Frank McKinney, former Democratic National Chairman who has never forgiven Stevenson for supplanting him after the Stevenson nomination in '52, and Charles F. Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture in the Truman Administration. While Brannan will not discuss what went on at the meeting, he appears to have taken the lead in urging support for Kefauver in Minnesota.

"Stevenson says that he is for 90 per cent of parity on farm prices," Brannan told the gathering, "but he adds so many reservations that this is actually watered down to 60 per cent."

Most of those present were not for Kefauver, except as a useful stopgap. They were for Governor Averell Harriman or New York. The belief was expressed that if Stevenson could be blocked, then the nomination would go finally to the New York governor. While all concerned will emphatically deny it, Harriman money is believed to be behind the stop-Stevenson movement.

For at least three years Brannan, author of the so-called Brannan Plan to have the government compensate farmers directly for the difference between the market price for their commodities and parity, has been trying to persuade Stevenson to take a more drastic farm stand. Two months ago he called on Stevenson in Chicago to go over with him a proposal shortly to appear in a national magazine revising and modifying the plan he first put forward as Secretary of Agriculture. Stevenson rejected it.

Brannan, now general counsel of the Farmers Union, was indignant. He felt that after all his efforts he had been given a brushoff. Even before this, however, reports had reached Stevenson's backers in Chicago that Farmers Union organizers in Minnesota were quietly telling farmers that Stevenson would not do since his stand on the farm issue was too mild. After Kefauver announced on January 27 that he would challenge Stevenson in the Minnesota primary, the war was passed that Kefauver was the man.

Brannan denies that the Farmers Union, which has 35,000 farm family members in Minnesota, played any part in the primary. The Farmers Union has long taken a more radical stand on farm issues in contrast to the conservative American Bureau Federation which backs Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson and flexible price supports.

What is important to realize is that the stop-Stevenson Democrats could exploit an apparently deep-seated revolt. They are saying that this revolt has long since turned from Benson to the President as the real target of blame for the continuing drop in farm prices. If this is true — if the prairies are on fire with revolt — then Republicans as well as Democrats have a serious object lesson in Minnesota.

Work Needed To Get Out The Vote

PRINCETON, N. J.—If the proportion of eligible voters who will vote in November's election is to reach the 1952 high mark, survey evidence indicates that the groups who are interested in increasing turnout will have to roll up their sleeves and go to work.

In 1952, when the efforts of the "get-out-the-vote" groups were so successful, a record 61,547,050 voters out of an estimated voting age population of 98,000,000 went to the polls—the highest turnout in U.S. history, numerically speaking.

To measure the amount of interest building up in the 1956 election, interviewers for the Institute put the following "trend" question to an accurate sample of voters from Maine to California: "Have you given much thought, or only a little thought, to the election for President?"

The identical question was asked in March, 1952 and in March, 1948. Here are the contrasting results:

Young compared the ideology of the Soviets with that of the United States, saying that it was this worship of a Supreme Being that made America free. He congratulated the class on completion of the course.

No British Royal Legate To Wedding

PARIS — A friend of Prince Rainier III said today the British royal family decision not to send one of its members to the Rainier-Grace Kelly wedding has caused His Serene Highness to lose some of his serenity.

The friend said the young ruler of Monaco went to school in England, and has considerable affection for the country, its people and ruling family.

"While Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh may not have been expected to attend the ceremony," said the friend, "there are others who might have been delegated."

"The reported excuse—that the Queen has not met the Prince—seems a weak excuse," said Rainier's friend. "His Highness feels that the crowned heads of Europe are relatively few and that they should, let us say, stick together."

Shivers Blasts Rayburn Plan

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers last night labeled as "cynical and calculated" a proposal that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson be named Texas' favorite son presidential candidate and head of the state's Democratic National Convention delegation.

The proposal was made by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, long a political enemy of Shivers.

The governor, who also is being boomed for Texas delegation chief, praised Johnson for his work as Senate majority leader but questioned his qualifications as "majority leader for Texas Democrats."

Shivers' proposal, Shivers said in a speech, "was a cynical and calculated effort to divide the conservative Democrats of Texas and maneuver the senior senator into the red in its cemetery yard."

Political action committee camp, where he does not belong.

"It was and is their trump card in their game to take over the state convention, the Texas delegation — and Lyndon Johnson."

Shivers and Rayburn's last big fight dates to 1952 when Shivers was among the Southern governors who bolted the Democratic party to support Dwight D. Eisenhower and Rayburn led the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Texas.

They are spearheading rival factions in a fight for control of the party in Texas at a series of conventions in May. The May 22 state convention selects the Texas delegation to Chicago.

Shivers' speech last night was to a shouting, whistling crowd of 2,000. It interrupted him 37 times for applause. Shivers and others of his conservative bloc confidently predicted victory in the May struggles.

The State Executive Committee voted unanimously to make interposition a rallying-point in the conventions. It recommended precinct, county and state sessions decide whether or not to urge that the question submitted in a referendum.

The committee defined interposition as a "legal and democratic" Johnson lead the Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention as a "favorite son" presidential candidate was "a cynical and calculated effort to divide the conservative Democrats in Texas."

The proposal as to Johnson came recently from House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), long a political enemy of Shivers.

Rayburn himself declined any immediate comment on Shivers' assertion, made in a public speech, he indicated, however, that he might have something to say later.

"No one knows better than Allan Shivers that I am not and never have been the creature of the ADA, the DAC (the Democratic Advisory Council in Texas), the PAC and the NAACP, the CIO or any other group the governor may have named."

"Nor have ever been the errand boy of reactionary big business or the Republican party."

Johnson Denies Charges Made At Demo Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) said today he neither the "creature" of any left-wing group nor "the errand boy of reactionary big business or the Republican party."

Johnson commented on a statement last night by Gov. Allan Shivers who said a proposal that Johnson lead the Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention as a "favorite son" presidential candidate was "a cynical and calculated effort to divide the conservative Democrats in Texas."

'Death Knell' For Farm Bill Claimed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Holland (D-Fla.), one of 10 Congress members drafting compromise farm legislation, said today "We may have sounded the death knell for our farm bill this session."

Holland indicated he thinks President Eisenhower may veto the bill if the final version contains two provisions adopted yesterday by the Senate-House conference committee trying to compromise different measures passed by the two branches.

Both provisions would have the effect of raising the level of government farm price supports. The Agriculture Department estimated they would cost the government, assuming an average crop year, at least a billion dollars more in 1956 than would the present program.

Holland, unlike most Democrats in Congress, supports the administration's program of lower flexible price supports.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), also a member of the conference committee and chief Senate spokesman for the administration on farm policy, said in a separate interview that the "situation is not completely hopeless."

"We conferees get through, both the House and Senate still must pass on these provisions," he said. "It is possible to send this back and demand we soften it somewhat."

Sen. Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate conferees, who favors the actions taken yesterday, said:

"I think the President will sign this bill. He's getting about everything he asked for, including the big thing, the soil bank. Of course, there are a couple of little gadgets he doesn't want."

The soil bank, the administration's major 1956 farm recommendation, contemplates payments aggregating up to $1,200,000,000 to farmers who retire land from production of cash crops.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson told newsmen yesterday he does not think Eisenhower will approve a return to rigid price supports for even one year — which is what the compromise now provides.

He described as "indefensible" the action of the conferees' committee in adopting a Senate provision for "dual parity."

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to producers in relation to their costs. The "dual parity" provision would require the government to use whichever of two parity formulas results in the higher figure. A new formula which took effect this year lowered the parity price, and hence the support levels, of some crops.

Benson objected to this and to the conference committee's adoption of a provision in the House bill for rigid price supports this year at 90 per cent of parity for wheat, cotton, corn, rice and peanuts. Under present law, supports for these crops are fixed each year at between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, depending upon the size of available stocks.

198 City Teachers Re-Elected; Board Studies Other Problems

Re-elected for another year last night were 198 of the teachers in the Big Spring school system.

The teachers elections opened a school board meeting that dealt with such other items as building needs, development of the land near East Ward School as a youth and community center, additional tax offices, and other school matters.

WTCC To Hear Cotton Pay Report

LAMESA — A delegation from Dawson County is taking the findings of a labor survey before the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which opens its annual session in Mineral Wells today.

Herbert Green, chairman of the committee, announced that Jack Boyles, member of the committee, and Wright G. Boyd will appear before the agriculture and livestock committee of the WTCC this afternoon. Another delegation will appear Friday morning when a panel of seven congressmen will appear before the WTCC.

In reporting the findings the survey, which covered 341 Dawson County farmers, Green said "we found just exactly what we expected to find. The prevailing wage was $1.55 and not $1.75."

The survey covers the period Oct. 20 through Nov. 6. The U.S. Labor Department has listed Dawson as one of 16 counties in the state that allegedly underpaid braceros for the 16-work-day period last fall. The agreement between the United States and Mexico says that braceros will be paid no less than $1.55 cwt. for cotton pulled or the prevailing wage for domestic labor, whichever is greater. The Labor Department found from surveys made by the Texas Employment Commission that the prevailing wage should have been $1.75, and that in compliance with those figures the braceros should have been paid that amount.

However, the study by the labor survey committee showed that 88 per cent of all domestics was paid either $1.50 or $1.55 cwt. Of the 344 farmers, surveyed, 176 used bracero labor only, and these were not used in computing figures either by the committee or the Labor Department. Of those using local labor, 33 paid $1.50 and 89 paid $1.55.

If the Labor Department is to continue its move to collect 20 cents cwt. for the period, Dawson County could be called on to pay $75,000 according to Boyd.

Large Crowd At Medical Meet

Attendance approached a record Tuesday evening at the meetings of the Permian Basin Medical Society and its Auxiliary at Webb AFB.

Approximately 35 physicians, including 21 members plus staff members at the Veterans Administration Hospital and the Webb AFB Hospital, heard the scientific lecture.

Lt. Col. John A. Moncrief, director of the clinical section of the surgical research unit at Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio, lectured on "Modern Treatment of Burns." Col. Moncrief used lantern slides and other visual education aids in his discussion.

Members of the auxiliary held a separate meeting and heard Mrs. R.B.G. Copwer receive a book.

Col. Robert Whittington, commander of the hospital section at Webb, was host for the dinner at 7 p.m., and Mrs. Whittington was hostess for the auxiliary section. In all, approximately 65 people attended. Dr. Preston Harrison, society president, was in charge of the meeting.

Dusty Winds End Heat Wave

The weather failed to repeat itself and hung up a record new high record for Big Spring on Tuesday but it did the next best thing.

It equaled the record high for this date in March.

A high of 90 degrees was reported for the day matching the previous record of 90 which was registered 31 years ago. Low on Tuesday in Big Spring was 47 degrees.

After a sultry summer-like afternoon and early evening, the wind, which had been predicted for the day, struck at 9:30 p.m.

It reached its peak velocity around 10:30 o'clock and gusts at that time were slightly better than 40 miles per hour. The blow continued until 1:30 p.m. when it began slowly to lessen.

Heavy dust rode in on the wind. Visibility in the Big Spring area dropped to three-quarters of a mile for a time.

Daybreak Wednesday found the air chill, with a brisk breeze still blowing. Heavy dust still clinging in the air and was still much in evidence at noon.

The Big Spring Steers return to Snyder this afternoon for another try at Speedy Moffett's Tigers, still seeking their second victory of the exhibition season.

The youthful Longhorns will carry a 2-1 won-lost record to Snyder. Their only success came at the expense of Crane and Crane wound up with a 2-1 edge in their series.

Roy Baird's contingent has dropped two games each to Andrews and Snyder.

Chances are Coach Baird will dispatch LeRoy LeFevre to the mound today. LeFevre got credit for the Steers' lone win.

Snyder is apt to retaliate with freshman Tim Roberts, a left-hander who shut out the Steers in its first appearance in a Tiger uniform.

Ricky Terry will be behind the plate for Big Spring, with George Peacock at first base, Preston Daniels at second, Bobby Suggs at shortstop, Eugene Hall at third and Billy Johnson, Jerry McMahon and Jan Loudermilk on the picket line.

Billy Blum, T. L. Kennedy and Salvador Sarmiento will be available for relief mound duty.

After today, the Longhorns don't return to action until April 6, at which time they meet Midland in Midland.

The locals launch their district season April 17, in Odessa.

SWC Teams Meet Outside Foes

The Southwest Conference's budding baseball race Wednesday sees three of its teams taking on outside foes after the first round of loop play.

Rice is host to Nebraska at Houston, Texas Christian journeys to Huntsville to engage Sam Houston State and Texas entertains Brooke Medical Center of San Antonio at Austin.

The TCU Horned Frogs and the Baylor Bears eked out victories in two conference tilts Tuesday.

At Dallas the Bears took an 11-9 victory over Southern Methodist after racking up all of their 11 runs in the first four innings. The game gave the Bears a 1-1 record in conference play while the Ponies have dropped both of their first two conference tilts.

Stolen bases helped give the Horned Frogs a 3-2 victory over the Rice Owls at Houston Tuesday. K-B McDaniels was credited with the victory for the Frogs, his second conference win of the season. Rice had lost both of its first two loop tilts.

Longhorns Claim Casaba Crown

West Ward Wins Over Greenies

Earl Penner's West Ward team won its first City Softball League game of the season by beating East, 18-10, here Tuesday.

David Pelache hit one home run and Pat Hill two for the winners. Tommy Wagner pitched the win.

West's won-lost record is now 1-2.

Jones May Not Play In Debut

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies faced the prospect today of starting the National League pennant chase for the second consecutive year without the services of a key player—this time third baseman Willie Jones.

Jones was beamed by pitcher Don Newcombe in the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition game yesterday and while X-rays showed no fracture, Willie gave a possible prolonged hospital stay.

Newcombe shouted, "Look out, Willie!" but Jones couldn't get out of the way of what Newcombe said was "a fast ball that slipped out of my fingers." Jones crumpled at the plate, bleeding from the left ear. He was given first aid and taken to the Phils' dugout, where he lapsed into unconsciousness.

The X-rays taken later at Morton Plant Hospital were negative but doctors reported they hadn't determined the cause of the bleeding and that further tests were to be made.

Three Are Sent To Plainview

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP)—The Oklahoma City Indians continued their spring training activity today with a reduced roster, following the option of three players to Plainview, Tex., of the Southwestern League.

Manager Rudy Laskowski announced that shortstop John McCole, catcher Ray Duke and pitcher Bert Toomey had been sent to the lower classification club for further seasoning. Plainview trains at Kilgore, Tex., only 10 miles from the Indians' camp here.

Seeking Change In Luck

Cards' Showing May Mean Little In Race

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

Considering that the Pittsburgh Pirates put together the best record among major league teams last spring, there's no reason for the St. Louis Cardinals to rejoice because they're making a juicy showing in the Grapefruit League.

But the fact is that the Cards, woefully weak in pitching the past few years, are getting loads of good chukking in the exhibition games. They've won 11 games and lost 7 for the best spring mark among National League teams.

And improved pitching has been evident in just about every one of their 18 outings. In no game did the Cards have more than seven runs scored against them. They've won by 1-0, 2-1 and three times by 3-2. Their losses, too, were squeakers — by 1-2 (twice), 1-3 and 3-4 (twice).

Luis Arroyo and Tom Poholsky each have picked up two victories. The others went to Vinegar Bend Mizell, Larry Jackson, Stu Miller, Harvey Haddix and Gary Blaylock.

Yesterday Arroyo got the win as the Cards nipped the Milwaukee Braves 2-1. The St. Louis trio — Mizell, Arroyo and Kinder — limited the Braves to two hits. The Cards picked up singles by Joe Cunningham and Bill Virdon and an infield out.

Trailing the Cards in the National League Grapefruit standings are the Cincinnati Redlegs, New York Giants and champion Brooklyn Dodgers with 10 victories against 8 setbacks. Pittsburgh, which led with a 19-11 record last spring, is 9-8 this time as are the Chicago Cubs. The Braves are 8-9 and the Philadelphia Phillies bring up the rear with 7-10.

The New York Yankees, idle yesterday, top the American League with 11-6. Then come Chicago with 10-6, Cleveland 11-7, Kansas City 8-7, Boston 7-9, Washington 5-9, Baltimore 5-12 and Detroit 4-13.

The White Sox were knocked out of the lead yesterday, by dropping a 7-2 decision to the Red Sox. Jim Piersall paced a late Boston rally, driving in three of the four runs the Red Sox scored in the seventh and eighth innings.

In other games, the Dodgers beat the Phillies 6-2, the Braves downed the Redlegs 5-4, the Cubs outslugged the Giants 13-10, the Athletics dumped Detroit 7-2 and Cleveland nipped Baltimore 8-7.

COSDEN ADDS TO LEAD IN MIDLAND CIRCUIT

Cosden of Big Spring widened its lead in the Midland Women's Bowling League standings Tuesday by swamping Schlitz Beer in all three games.

The Cosden quintet now leads Bowling League standings Tuesday by 3 1/2 games.

Pinkie's edged by Fashion Beauty, 2-1, to remain in contention.

Cosden posted scores of 811-789-710-2308 in sweeping to victory.

Dot Hood set a fast pace for the winners, with efforts of 204-583. Olive Couble was close, with 191-497.

Pinkie's posted total scores of 816-734-682-2232.

Frances Glenn set a good example for her team, with scores of 195-505 Jesse Pearl Watson was next, with 179-495.

Next week, Cosden plays Basin.

Central Defeats Colonials, 11-3

Central Ward softballers defeated Washington Place 11-3 Tuesday afternoon.

The winners scored eight of their tallies in the opening frame. Bowman Roberts accounted for four of the total with a bases-loaded homer. Central also scored a run in each of the second, fourth and sixth innings. Washington Place got their three scores in the third inning.

Scoring were Roberts, Gene Gilliland, Bobby Sharp (2), Rex Denton (2), Red Schwarzenbach, Skipper Driver, Wayne Bledsoe, and Gary Cunningham. Bryant, Smith and Eubanks scored for Washington Place.

Batteries were Schwarzenbach and Irons for Central and Pierce and Smith for Washington Place.

Wily Arch Moore Is Easy Winner

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Howard King will agree that Archie Moore is a world's champ.

The Reno heavyweight, for the second time within a month, took it on the chin, chest and every other legal spot last night, in a non-title fight that hardly had Moore, the light-heavy king, sweating at the end of the 10th and final round.

Wily Archie, taking it easy and boxing beautifully, dropped his younger opponent in the second and fifth, both for eight counts. The standing-room only crowd of 4,100 in Memorial Auditorium gave the champ a rousing ovation at the final bell.

McNeese's Bill Reigel Is Named To Olympic Squad

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Reigel, the only small-college player chosen for the college Olympic basketball squad, already has acquired a healthy respect for the size of his teammates but isn't overawed by their reputations.

Reigel, who set all sorts of scoring records for McNeese State College in Louisiana this season, is here to play in the Fresh Air Fund East-West all-star game in Madison Square Garden Saturday. He got his first look at the all-stars, including 13 other Olympic candidates, yesterday and his reaction was: "Gosh, they're big."

Reigel is a slim, modest, easily embarrassed kid from Monaca, Pa., who wound up playing basketball in Louisiana after a hitch in the Army. He thinks being chosen as one of 14 college seniors to try for the Olympic team is about the greatest honor that could be bestowed on him.

At 6 feet 5, he has to look up to such players as his West teammates, 6-10 Bill Russell of San Francisco and 6-8 Gary Bergen of Utah and Dayton's seven-foot Bill Uhl, who will play against him for the East.

"I never saw so many big fellows," he gasped. "I don't think I'm exactly moving out of our class, but I'll have to jump a lot to get shots over these fellows."

Asked about his playing record, he said: "It's funny that I seem to be getting all the credit when it really was the team that did it. We had a real good team. We played in the NAIA Tournament and won and they did as much as I did."

What Reigel neglected to mention was that he set an NAIA Tournament record by scoring 158 points in five tournament games. A specialist in jump and push shots, he scored 1,062 points in 31 games before the tournament, an average of 34.3 per game. That made him the nation's leading college scorer this season and one of four college players ever to make more than 1,000 points a season.

Holding To Jump

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Chuck Holding, former East Texas State high jumper, will be one of the top performers in a quadrangular track and field meet that pits Sheppard Air Force base against three colleges here today.

Three-Way Meet

WACO, (AP)—Baylor and Southern Methodist are expected to provide stiff competition for the Texas Longhorns as the three squads get together here today for a triangular track and field meet.

Baggett Defeated

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Willie Pep had little trouble in taking a lopsided decision over Buddy Baggett in a 10-round feature bout here last night.

Pep weighed 127 and Baggett 125.

Outfield Is A Worry To Stan Hack Of Cubs

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—There is enthusiasm and optimism with Stan Hack, highly regarded manager of the Chicago Cubs, when he discusses his pitching prospects, the infield and the catching department.

But Stan comes to an abrupt stop when queried about his outfield.

"Right now, if the National League season started play, I couldn't tell you who would be in the outfield. We're still studying the problem," he said with pleasing frankness.

There is no dearth of candidates for the outer garden. The question is whether such stalwarts as Hank Sauer can return to the form he had in 1954 as the league's most valuable player, or Monte Irvin displayed in that same period as a New York Giant.

Will Walter Moryn, obtained from Brooklyn, deliver the goods, or will it be Sully Drake, Eddie Miksis, Gale Wade or someone else?

Hack is set with his infield, which he considers the best in the loop—Dee Fondy at first, the smooth keystone duo of Ernie Banks and Gene Baker, and Don Hoak, another ex-Dodger, at third.

The club now has five regulars listed as starting pitchers, as against the four it struggled along with last year. Hack reeled off the list—Bob Rush, Warren Hacker, Sam Jones, Paul Minner and Russ Meyer, the latter still another acquisition from Brooklyn.

Hack, one of the Cubs' brightest alumnus as a gifted third baseman, has six catchers in camp, but Harry Chitt and Hobie Landrith, late of the Cincinnati Reds, along with veteran Clyde McCulloch, are the most prominent.

Actually, the Cubs have more good-looking talent in camp than has been their luck in several years.

Don Eaddy, Ritchie Myers, Bob Speake, Owen Friend, Ed Wincelniak, Bob McKee and Frank Keltner are infield candidates.

Bob Thorpe, from Des Moines, has impressed Hack with his pitching promise. The same is true of two hurlers from the Cubs' Los Angeles club, Jim Bronson and George Piktuzis, and bonus kid Don Kaiser.

Veteran Turk Lown returned to Chicago from Los Angeles to bolster the relief pitching department by Jim Davis.

Offensively, the Cubs lead off with Banks, who hit .295 and whose 44 home runs were third best in the league. Potentially, such fellows as Irvin, Wade (310 with Los Angeles), Moryn (.248 before joining Brooklyn from St. Paul late in the season), Sauer, Miksis, and Fondy are capable of breaking out into a rash of hitting.

Sooner Soph Is Grapple King

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union's National Freestyle Wrestling Tournament, which is expected to furnish several members of this year's U.S. Olympic team, was in its championship rounds today.

It already had named one new winner—114.5-pound Dick Delgado, University of Oklahoma sophomore representing the Norman Sooner AC, and had reached the final round-robin eliminations for titles in four other weight divisions.

Looking 'Em Over

With Tommy Hart

They're discriminating against the tall boy in high school basketball again and just at the time Coach Johnny Johnson of Big Spring High School comes up with some height on his club.

The schoolboys are going to use the wider lane starting in 1957-58. Jan Loudermilk, one of the best prospects to come up here in years, will be a senior at the time.

Johnson doesn't think Loudermilk will find it hard to adjust to the new rule, however.

"It'll hurt the slow, awkward slim-jims," reasons Johnson, "but Jan isn't slow or awkward."

Johnson thought the rules committee would do something about reducing the threat of a stall in basketball and still thinks they will act on the problem next year.

The pros make the offending team take a shot at the basket within 25 seconds after gaining possession. He thinks the rules makers will adopt something similar next year. The fans would be all for it, since it would mean more action.

For a long time, there was little if any agitation in Plainview for a new football stadium. Then the powers-that-be upped and decided to call an election on a $225,000 bond issue that would pay for a new stadium, an athletic track and a junior high school site.

The Plainview voters will march to the polls as early as April 10 to decide the fate of the project.

There has long been agitation for a new stadium here. Nothing—but nothing—was being done about it, though the situation compelled attention. Now the issue has been put squarely up to the voters.

The Plainview school board has purchased a 27-acre plot on the northwest outskirts of the city for the proposed stadium.

The acreage for the stadium plot cost $50,000 and came out of the school's maintenance funds.

The proposed stadium would seat 7,800.

How would you like to see an outdoor wrestling show here featuring June Byers, the world's women champion?

George Dunn, who still holds a license to promote in Big Spring, is trying to line up such a program for the local baseball park for the night of April 19. That would fall on a Thursday.

June is a good-looking young woman who assumed the throne room when Mildred Burke was injured and had to retire. She's been a big money-maker ever since and usually plays to packed houses.

Dunn could set up temporary seats at the ball park and take care of a crowd of 2,000 or better.

If the show went over locally, and there's no reason why it shouldn't, Dunn may elect to stage a couple of programs a month here during the summer months.

Roy Scuddry, the Sweetwater scribe, complains area writers who have lapped Snyder and Sweetwater as the two strongest teams in the District 1-AAA football race next season are overlooking a Lamesa team that could take it all.

Scuddry, no doubt, knows what he is talking about.

For one thing, Coach O. W. Follis of Lamesa never conceded anything to anybody before a race began.

For another, he's got a fine line of talent coming back. The presence of John Middleton alone in the Tornado secondary gives the Lamesans plenty of authority. Middleton piledrives into the line like Frosty Robinson used to for Big Spring.

Steer Linksters Swamp Big Lake Schoolboys

Dan Lewis' Big Spring High School links team scored a resounding victory over Big Lake at the Mundy course here Tuesday. The six-man team toured the 18 holes in 92 fewer strokes than did the visitors.

The Steers benefited from three big advantages: They were performing at home. They were playing on grass, whereas the Big Lake team had been playing on nothing but sand. And, they were far ahead of the guests in their conditioning program — Big Lake has been able to practice but few times.

Still, it was an impressive victory, any way you look at it. Fact is, it perhaps is the most one-sided triumph ever achieved by a local team in any sport.

The six Steers had a total score of 493 strokes, compared to 585 for Big Lake.

Eddie Don Harris led the Longhorns with scores of 35-39-74. Par for the 18-hole layout is 36-37-72.

Harris was in great shape until he hit 17, then his sticks responded with two bogies.

Charley Johnson posted a 78 for Big Spring. Roland McKenzie an 81, Stormy Edwards an 82, Donald Lovelady an 87 and DeWayne McCrory a 91.

For Big Lake, Mills had a 93, Featherston 97, Hargrove 95, Lofton 92, Jacobs 99 and Poete 109.

The Steers will host Odessa in a series of matches here next Tuesday, starting at 1 p.m.

The Steers used Tuesday's rounds to wind up qualifying play for the district tournament, which takes place in Odessa April 7.

Harris won the No. One spot on the team with a 36-hole score of 156. Johnson, Edwards and McKenzie each had 164 and must play off the tie. Richard Pachall was fifth, with 165.

Lois Hodges Wins At Country Club

Lois Hodges, one-time Big Spring, now wife of the golf professional at Ozona, won first place honors in the top flight of the Women's Handicap Tournament staged yesterday at the Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Hodges, benefitting from a 14-stroke handicap, finished with a 74 to claim a trophy. She also won four golf balls.

Wyoma French, Big Spring, won first place in the second flight with a 68. Va Couey, San Angelo, was second with 71 and Marjorie Ramsey, Big Spring, third with 75.

In the third flight, Snyder's Mary Dyer was first with a 74 and Lora Hogan of the same town second, with a 76. Lubbock's Mildred Chauncey posted a 78 for third place.

In the fourth flight, Kate Irons of Big Spring led with a 68. Jane Brewer, Snyder, was second with a 70 and Ruby Turner, San Angelo, third with a 73.

Ida Mae Powell, San Angelo, posted the low medal score over an 86. Mrs. Hodges was the only other entry in the 80's. She had an 88.

A total of 64 players toured the course. A similar meet is tentatively set for San Angelo April 24.

Jones Is Fifth In Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones' narrow victory over France's Charley Humez has resulted in a shuffling of contenders' positions in the middleweight division.

Jones, the "spoiler" of the 160-pound class, was elevated from eighth to fifth place for snapping the European champions unbeaten streak of 17, according to the copyrighted ratings released today by Editor Nat Fleischer of Ring Magazine.

Humez was dropped from second to third, changing places with Milo Savage of Salt Lake City. Ex-champion Carl (Bobo) Olson remained as top contender, Argentina's Eduardo Lausse dropped from fifth to sixth to make way for the Tiger, 28-year-old veteran from Yonkers, N.Y.

Welterweight Carmen Basilio, who lost his title to Johnny Saxton of New York, was made the No. 1 contender followed by Tony DeMarco, another former champion. Featherweight (126 pound) ratings included: 9. Paul Jorgensen, Fort Arthur, Tex.

Hogan In Tourney

FORT WORTH (AP)—Ben Hogan accepted today a bid to play in the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament here May 2-6.

Hogan has won four Colonial. He also has won the U.S. Open four times.

Hogan is the 37th entry. The tournament now includes every U.S. Open champion since 1947 and the British Open champion for the last three years. Only 11 places are unfilled.

Jayhawks Meet Odessa Again

The Howard County Junior College Jayhawks pay a return visit to Odessa today for a baseball exhibition with Larry McCulloch's Odessa JC Wranglers.

This one is down for nine innings.

Jimmy Jolley will probably toe the pitching slab for the Jayhawks. Jolley looked good in a two-inning stint against Odessa last Monday, although H.C.J.C. lost, 18-7.

Ernie is set to pitch for the Odessans. The game will be the last practice session for H.C.J.C. before they kick off their West Zone season here with Frank Phillips of Berger on April 6.

Lightburn Favored In Cleveland Go

CLEVELAND (AP)—Those who feel they know enough about boxing to bet money on it were wagering today that the speed and experience of Ludwig Lightburn will prevail over the harder punching of L. C. Morgan in tonight's 10-rounder at the Arena.

The 21-year-old lightweights are meeting here for the second time. Morgan was favored six months ago when he lost a split decision in an eight-rounder. Today the odds were 2-1 on Lightburn.

Tonight's scrap will be televised by ABC, starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

McAdams Is Hurt

Tommy McAdams, Big Spring, suffered an injured nose in an intra-squad football game at McMurry College in Abilene Tuesday and was held out of action the last half.

HOME OF THE W. T. BARBER FAMILY
Big, modern house was constructed five years ago.

CATTLE NEARLY GONE, TOO

Drought Helped Tom Barber Get Out Of Cotton Business

Four years of drought have put Mr. and Mrs. W. T. (Tom) Barber out of the cotton business and just about out of the cattle industry.

The Barbers don't mind about the cotton. They planned to quit it, anyway. But they surely would like to get some grass and cattle back on their 11-section ranch southeast of Big Spring.

Right now, there are fewer than 80 head of cattle on the ranges that normally carry more than 250. The grass is just about all gone.

The Barber place, better known as the former Louie Hutto ranch, was the Mystery Farm pictured in The Herald last week. Mrs. Barber is the former Marjory Hutto. She and her husband have lived on the ranch since he purchased an interest in the place in 1940.

Mr. Hutto first moved on the place in 1900 and later purchased it from John W. Furr.

The Barbers now own about seven sections and lease about seven sections adjoining from the Furr Estate. Barber increased the size of the original homestead three years ago when he bought the quarter-section Moore farm which lies just north of the original four sections.

The Barber house is one of the most modern in this area. Constructed five years ago, the home consists of dining, living and game rooms, kitchen, den, three bedrooms and two baths.

Its comfort and utility is increased by an 80-foot porch stretching the full length of the house on the south. All modern conveniences are incorporated, with electricity coming from the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, gas from a private butane system, and water from a well that was dug in 1909. The home has central heating and air conditioning.

The ranch headquarters is equipped with a huge tractor shed, a large barn, corrals made of pipe, a steel grainery, two houses for cotton pickers, and a residence for a full-time employe and his family.

The cotton picker houses probably won't be much in demand in the future. Barber doesn't plan to raise any more cotton, even after the drought is broken.

He already has started efforts to get a growth of blue panic grass on some of the cultivated acreage, but dry weather has hampered that project. Some land will be left in cultivation for production of livestock feed, of course.

About 450 acres of the Barber land have been cultivated, but some of this already has been turned to grass and more will be.

On the leased land, more than 1,000 acres are in cultivation.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Barber are well known for their civic activities throughout this area. Barber is a member of the board for Howard County Junior College, is past patron and past master of the Masonic Lodge in Coahoma, and is a member of the Shrine Club and American Legion in Big Spring. He served with the Marines during World War II and spent about two and a half years in Japan.

The Barbers are active in the First Presbyterian Church at Coahoma. She also is a member of the 1941 Study Club of Coahoma, the 1905 Hyperion Club of Big Spring, and is past matron of the Eastern Star at Coahoma.

She was born in Big Spring and has spent most of her life in this section. She met Barber while they were students at Texas Tech. He came from Athens.

The couple was married at the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring on March 31, 1934. Barber worked for the Shell Oil Company until 1940 when he acquired his first interest in the Hutto place. His interest in oil has continued, especially since one small producer has been completed on the ranch.

The Barbers have one daughter, Fan, 14, a ninth grade student in Big Spring Junior High School. She takes an active part in the Rainbow Girls program.

13 Indictments In Grand Jury Report

The Howard County Grand Jury returned 13 true bills and two no-bills when it completed its day and one half session at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The grand jury no-billed Clarence H. Wells, Negro Air Force sergeant, in the gun death on March 16 of Herman Lee Johnson. Wells shot Johnson to death while the latter allegedly was attempting to break into the airman's residence.

Also no-billed was Robert Eugene Fletcher, charged with assault with intent to kill Fletcher shot and wounded I. H. Bingham on Feb. 6.

True bills were returned against: Robert Lorez, burglary; Willie Hill, burglary; James Walter Downs, burglary; Jack W. Bellah, burglary; Laurel Bryant Caughey, DWI second offense; Stanley Wayne Cook, forgery and passing; John Joseph Meaney, theft of an automobile; Charles Hart, theft of automobile; Weldon Stark, DWI second offense; Alfred M. Crump, forgery and passing; Everett Melton Reynolds, forgery and passing; Myrtle Steele, forgery and passing, two counts.

Gulford Jones, district attorney, said that all of the defendants named in the indictments have already been arrested.

The grand jury was convened Monday morning.

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, received the grand jury report, thanked the members for their services and recessed the jury until further call.

The court also set bond for the defendants who were named in the bills.

Lorez was indicted for burglarizing the home of M. C. Prevo. Bond was set in his case at $1,000. Hill was charged with the burglary of the home of Mamie Lee Nunez. Bond was set at $3,500.

Downs is alleged to have burglarized the home of John R. Stanley. Bond in his case was fixed at $3,500. Bellah's bond was fixed at $3,500. He is charged with burglarizing the home of Roy Rose.

Bonds in the cases of Caughey and Stark, charged with DWI second offense were fixed at $1,000 respectively. Cook, Crump and Myrtle Steele, forgery and passing, were given bonds of $1,000 while Reynolds charged with a like offense was ordered to post $2,500 bail.

Meaney and Hart, indicted separately but both allegedly involved in the theft of a 1947 Ford automobile owned by Carl Taylor, were granted bonds of $2,000 and $3,500 respectively.

Jones said he did not know when the cases reported Tuesday would be brought before the court for trial.

He has a week of criminal jury trials set for April 30. None of the new cases, he said, would be tried at that time.

New Red Arms Plan Proposed

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union has proposed a new plan for world disarmament omitting the usual communist demand for renunciation of atomic weapons.

Emphasizing cuts in conventional arms, the Soviet proposal was reported to have urged only a ban or strict control on atomic tests. Demands for outlawing of nuclear weapons—immediately or eventually—had been high on the Russian proposal list during previous disarmament negotiations.

To some Western observers, the change seemed to indicate that the Russians believe they have reached nuclear parity with the West—and can depend on their atomic arsenal rather than enormous standing armies for protection and to carry out their policies.

The new Soviet plan was submitted to the five-power U.N. Disarmament subcommittee, where the United States already has proposed conventional arms cuts to reduce U.S. and Soviet armed forces to 2 1/2 million men each.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko presented the Russian plan and discussed it for an hour at yesterday's session.

Details of the Russian proposals were not made public. But informants said they included "substantial" suggestions regarding the limitation of conventional arms.

Most delegations termed the Soviet plan a serious contribution to the current talks. But French representatives saw it as a "backward step," contending it would "allow the atomic arms race to continue."

TV Aid To Ocean Science

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Television promises to open the ocean depths for science, a speaker at an international meeting on marine biology said today.

Dr. Harold Barnes of the marine biological station, Millport, Isle of Cumbrae, Scotland, told scientists from 17 nations that television cameras lowered into the ocean could give a continuing motion picture of submarine life.

Non-pictorial use, he said, could be in such studies as making counts of plankton—the minute organisms that form dense populations over wide areas and furnish the food base for other sea life.

The meeting is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Naval Research and the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Shivers Grants Stay Of Execution

AUSTIN (AP)—A Dallas Negro who asserted he was "railroaded" to the electric chair by Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade was granted a stay of execution yesterday by Gov. Shivers.

The action moves the date of execution for Tommy Walker, 20, to May 12. He had been scheduled to die early tomorrow for the rape-murder of Mrs. H. C. Parker of Dallas in 1954. The pardons board approved the delay after three attorneys asked for more time to present evidence.

Postal Drivers Up Safety Mark

The greatest truck fleet in the world has chalked up one of the best safety records in the books.

The fleet is operated by the U. S. Post Office Department. More than 27,000 of its drivers have earned the National Safety Council award for accident-free driving during 1955. Six of those drivers work for the Big Spring post office.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield says his department's safety record is due to one of the largest safety programs in the nation's history.

"Our experience demonstrates that any driver can reduce substantially his own risks on the highways," Summerfield said.

Accident rate for the department's vehicles has been reduced from 13 for every 100,000 miles in 1953 to about four per 100,000 miles. An even better record has been set in the Texas-Louisiana region where the accident rate was cut to 1.63 for each 100,000 miles traveled in 1955.

Helping establish the records were the six Big Spring postal drivers. Willard Hendrick, Henry Page, Bill Baker, Leo Hare, Bill Bronaugh and Ray Fortson recently were presented the NSC safe-driving awards.

Sparrow Dies After Being Rescued By Dallas Firemen

DALLAS (AP)—A sparrow died at sundown yesterday after being rescued by a fireman and getting the care of a parking lot manager.

The sparrow died in a paper box where R. E. Williams, parking lot manager, had nestled it to recover from its injured neck.

The frantic fluttering of the sparrow attracted attention yesterday. The sparrow had its head wedged in the corner of a triangle-shaped hole 20 feet up the masonry wall of a building.

Employees tried for more than an hour to free the bird. Nothing seemed to help.

A woman who passed called the fire department. A fire engine and its company slipped quietly out of its station and nudged through heavy traffic and halted at the lot. Firemen rigged an extension ladder and up it climbed fireman W. E. McCarter, 22.

"I held the little fella in my hands to calm him, then eased his head free," McCarter said.

"Looked like he tried to fly through the hole to nest inside the hollow tile," he said. "He couldn't get all the way in. And he couldn't get out because the crack pinched his neck."

On the ground, McCarter freed the bird, watched it fly a short distance then flutter to earth. Williams picked up the bird and took it to his office. He put the sparrow in a little box where it died.

Insurance Man Tells Of Negro Beating In Civil Rights Case

HOUSTON (AP)—A Conroe insurance man said yesterday he and a cook were in the jail kitchen when a Negro, who claims his civil rights were violated by two officers, was booked into the jail.

Arnold Senniff, 30, told Federal Judge Allen Hannay he and Raymond Scarborough stepped into the kitchen when the Negro was booked.

Constable Harvey Cotton and patrolman Fred Trammel are charged with violating the civil rights of James Dickey.

Scarborough testified the jail cook said he saw Cotton punch Dickey twice and saw Trammel slug the Negro on the head with a weighted "slapjack."

City Awards Contracts For Oils, Asks Construction Bids

Five oil companies were awarded parts of the city's lubrication orders for the coming year and Cosden received permission to lay a pipeline across the north part of Big Spring Tuesday night at the city commission meeting.

The five companies which will be supplying the city with petroleum products during the coming year are Humble, Cosden, Gulf, Continental, and Phillips.

Humble was low bidder for one type of lubrication oil and for hydraulic oil. Cosden will be handling the city's lubricating grease and diesel fuels, and Gulf will be furnishing the other type of lubricating oils.

Continental had the low bid for transmission-differential oils, and Phillips received contract for kerosene orders.

In addition to the companies getting orders, Westex, Magnolia, the Texas Company, and Cities Service submitted bids.

Contract with Cosden for a pipe line easement through the north part of the city from its plant to Webb was approved. It stated that Cosden would lay the line at least 36 inches below the ground and would be liable for any damages sustained in construction.

Also, Cosden agreed to lower the line in case the city should pave or lower the elevation of the area in the future. For the easement, Cosden paid the city a nominal $10.

In asking for the easement, Cosden stated that approximately 70 truck loads of fuel are carried between the plant and the air base daily.

City and Air Force officials met earlier to discuss water and sewage lines from the proposed military housing unit southwest of Big Spring. And the Air Force—on the local level—agreed to pay for construction of a water line from near the new reservoir to the area and also a pump station.

As to the sewage line, Whitney was authorized by the commission Tuesday night to approach the base on a line from the housing unit directly to the sewage plant around the south part of Big Spring.

A survey would have to be completed, and he was directed to ask the military to pay half the expenses of the field surveys.

The commission approved plans and specifications for the proposed new reservoir to be built in Edwards Heights and also the additions to the filter plant.

The city manager was authorized to advertise for bids on the two separate constructions, with the bids on the two separate constructions, with the bids to be opened April 24 at 2:30 p. m. contracts will then be awarded at the 5:15

p. m. meeting of the commission that same day.

Alternate bids of all-concrete, and steel-walls-and-concrete-type construction of reservoirs are being asked. At the filter plant, being added is a sediment basin, a new flocculator, and a chlorine storage building.

Juan Martinez's request for a one-taxi permit to operate on the Northside was rejected on the grounds that the service was not needed. Representatives from the two existing cab companies were present and stated they were not using all the cabs they presently had.

Mayor G. W. Dabney mentioned making the traffic lights on Third and Fourth on Main and Runnels corners flash or blink 24 hours to slow through traffic during the late hours. No definite action was taken.

Clyde Ryan requested—and the request was granted—renewal of his concession rights in the city park. Renewal is for six months.

Medics Probe Mystery Of Illness On Ike's Rail Car

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Puzzled doctors and investigators dug deeper today into the mystery of the illness of three persons who drank ginger ale aboard a railroad car which President Eisenhower rode three days later.

Physicians reported that one of the three "definitely has uremic poisoning" and that another, also still hospitalized, is "coming along nicely" after being quite sick.

The third person who was stricken was recovered sufficiently yesterday to go out visiting.

All three became ill last Thursday evening after drinking bottled ginger ale aboard a private railroad car in which Eisenhower later traveled from Washington to this resort for conferences with Mexican and Canadian leaders. The President left the capital Sunday night and arrived here Monday morning.

So far, the doctors of all of the persons stricken have been unable to find the cause of their illness.

Meanwhile, Eisenhower arranged to travel back to Washington today aboard the same private railroad car.

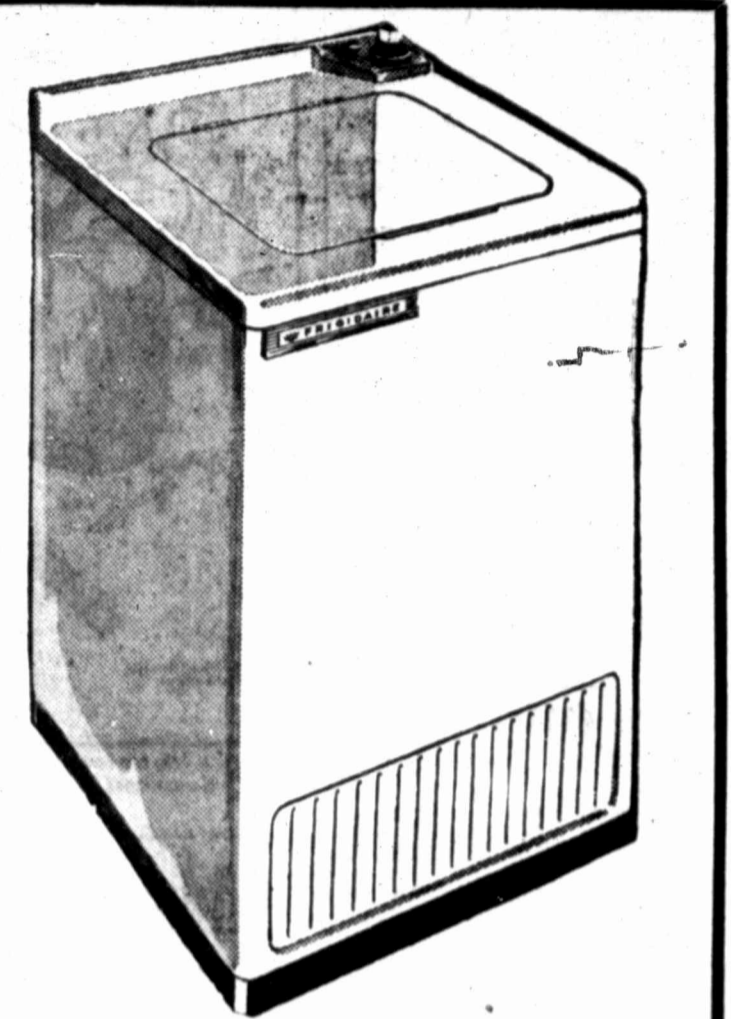

The Secret Service and investigators for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad have launched an inquiry to try to find out whether the ginger ale was poisoned.

Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman repeated last night his men have uncovered no trace of any plot to harm the President.

Baughman said his men still are trying to find out whether any of the ginger ale aboard the train was poisoned, or whether those stricken may have eaten some contaminated food elsewhere. All of those taken ill ate food at the same private home before they visited the train.

FHA Officials Wind Up School

Seventy-five administrative and staff workers for the Federal Housing Administration from four FHA areas are winding up a two-day study session in Big Spring.

The FHA representatives are spending their time in conferences on policies and programs of their organization.

Meetings are being held at the Settles Hotel.

Delegates are from the Colorado City, Fredericksburg, San Angelo and Pecos areas.

Official host for the Big Spring meeting is Milton Stinson, area supervisor, Colorado City.

Officials explained that these meetings are held periodically and that all employees are required to be present.

The meeting, he said, is "strictly a business session."

Adjournment is slated for Wednesday afternoon. The initial sessions were held Tuesday morning.

Youths Admit Two Burglaries

Confessions by two Latin-American youths have cleared up at least two recent burglaries in Big Spring, according to A. E. Long, juvenile officer.

Long said that one of the two suspects was 16 years old and will be turned to the juvenile court for action. The other, Thomas Loret, 18, is in the county jail charged with burglary.

Long reported break-ins at the Ray Grocery on Northeast 2nd, and into the Douglas Service Station on North Gregg. The latter burglary occurred only a few days ago.

He said that the juvenile had been temporarily released to his parents. He has hopes that some of the stolen merchandise may be recovered.

Shriners Plan 2 Ceremonials

Plans for the spring and fall ceremonials were outlined at an area membership meeting of the Suez Shrine Temple here Monday evening.

Several members of the divan were present, including C. D. McDonald, Big Spring, potentate; Frank Smith, Midland, assistant rabban; Ben Godfrey, San Angelo; and Otis Gresham, San Angelo, treasurer. In all, approximately 25 Shriners were present from Lamesa, San Angelo, Midland and Big Spring. E. S. Crabtree represented the Big Spring unit at the session in the Howard House.

The spring ceremonial is set for May 18-19 at San Angelo and the fall ceremonial in Big Spring in November.

Warning Issued On Stolen Checks

Sheriff Jess Slaughter warned Big Spring business houses to be on the lookout for forged checks written on check forms stolen from the Ideal Construction Company of Abilene.

Between 100 and 150 of the printed checks were stolen from the company office, he said.

Two of these have already shown up in Big Spring.

One of the forged checks was signed with the name W. B. McGuire. The other was signed W. S. Riley.

Slaughter anticipates others will make their appearance and suggested that all establishments exercise extreme caution in cashing such checks.

DAV Chapter Wins Citation

The Big Spring chapter of Disabled American Veterans has received the national DAV "Q" citation for exceeding its membership quota this year.

The chapter has boosted its membership to 31. The quota was 25. Two of the new members were accepted last night. The local DAV auxiliary also signed three new members last night, pushing its membership to 11.

Weather Carves Crazy Quilt Of Storms Across The Nation

By The Associated Press
March's capricious climatic capers carved a crazy-quilt weather pattern across the nation today. Almost every type of storm—snow, dust, rain, sleet and wind—was reported. The most severe windstorm of the year struck six western prairie states yesterday, swirling clouds of dust across an 800-mile path from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Waco, Tex. Howling winds, with snow and falling temperatures, brought back wintry weather from the Northern Plains to the upper Mississippi Valley. Rain and thunderstorms, with gusty winds, swept across the lower and middle Mississippi Valley northeastward to the Ohio Valley. Freezing rain and sleet pelted the western Great Lakes region. The blustery March weather missed most of the Southland. Temperatures were summerlike in many areas and mostly fair weather prevailed.

2,500 Expected For Hospital Meeting

DALLAS (AP)—About 2,500 persons are expected at the annual meeting of the Texas Hospital Assn., and allied groups starting here Tuesday.

The dust storms, hitting areas in Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, caused extensive damage to crops, grazing land and range animals.

Some relief was in prospect for southern Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

Up to 6 inches of snow fell in North Dakota and parts of Wisconsin and around 3 to 5 inches in Minnesota.

Fair and mild weather prevailed in the Southeast and skies were cloudy to partly cloudy in the Middle Atlantic coastal states and New England.

American Airman Stabbed In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—An American airman was stabbed in the back early today in downtown Tokyo. His condition was termed serious.

A few hours earlier another airman was beaten by assailants at the same downtown spot. His wounds were not serious.

Japanese police were looking for the assailants. The Air Force withheld the names of both Americans.

Sen. Kefauver Urges Education Meeting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver concluded five days of Southern California campaigning last night with a call for a White House conference on higher education, then left the field temporarily—to rival Adlai Stevenson.

Move To Change Elections Method Founders In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The latest effort to revise the electoral college system of electing presidents and vice presidents has floundered on the inability of senators to agree on another method.

After a week of debate, the Senate last night sent back to its Judiciary Committee various proposed constitutional amendments to abolish the present system under which each state's entire electoral vote goes to the candidate receiving the most popular votes.

Senators Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Douglas (D-Ill.), two leaders of the opposition, said the effect of this action was to kill the issue for this Congress. Sen. Daniel (D-Tex.), a leader on the other side, agreed this was likely to be the case unless an agreement would be worked out that would win over more senators. He expressed hope this could be done.

Texas' senators, Johnson and Daniel, voted together on various proposals.

Both voted for Daniel's bill, which was substituted for an earlier bill. They voted against proposals for direct popular election, for nominations of candidates by direct vote, and for reduction of each state's electoral votes in proportion to the number of its vote-age citizens who failed to vote.
