British Remove Curfew On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The British rolled away the barbed wire from around Nicosia's medieval walled town today, ending a 34-hour curfew ordered to keep down violence on the Greek Cypriot underground's first anniversary.

Nicosia, the island capital, was quiet during Easter Sunday. But elsewhere in Britain's east Mediterranean colony the underground Eoka kept up its year-old hit-and-run battle to unite Cyprus with Greece.

One man was slain, six persons were wounded and 12 bombs were thrown.

The slaying occurred at the south coast port of Limassol, a Communist stronghold with a record of violence. An unknown gunman pumped three bullets into the back of an elderly British civilian as he took an Easter stroll. A stray bullet hit a Cypriot mother, seriously wounding her.

Police cordoned off the area and confined all residents to their homes while they hunted the killer.

At Panagusta, Ktima, Kyrenia, Karakoumis, Larnaca and Kalogres, bombs were thrown at the houses or cars of British servicemen. Five persons were injured slightly.

The man slain yesterday was the first British civilian killed by the pro-Greek Cypriots. The shooting brought the total casualties in the past year of violence to 49 dead and 424 wounded. The dead included 24 British servicemen, 24 Cypriot civilians, 8 police and 12 alleged rebels.

The weekend curfew in Nicosia sealed off an area three miles in circumference in the heart of the city. Inside, an estimated 35,000 persons were bottled up from 6:30 p.m. Saturday until 4 a.m. today.

Despite the continuing tension, Britons on the island flocked in the warm sunshine to Easter church services. The 400,000 Greek Cypriots observe the Greek Orthodox Easter May 6.

GONE TOO FAR Only A Miracle Can Save Algeria

By PRESTON GROVER

ALGIERS, French North Africa—The rebellion in Algeria has progressed so far that to people on the spot it seems only a miracle can save it for France.

And even if it is "saved" for France in one shape or another, it is sure to be a vastly changed relationship. It will not be the "part of France itself" which has been the boast of French legislators and officials for many years.

But unless the passage toward the new relationship is made more smoothly than now seems likely, there could be a nasty civil war—and no clear indication of how it would turn out.

That is the shape of things, in the rough.

Like Tunisia to the east and Morocco to the west, developments in Algeria are likely to come fast, much faster than the French Assembly seems prepared for.

It could mean a change of great importance to America and the Western World as well. For years the French have assured the West a friendly shore south of the Mediterranean. An Africa where French influence is reduced or eliminated could present the same global problems as the Middle East.

The Russian gestures in Egypt which trouble the whole Western World could also be made in North Africa. Communists can be counted on to gain quick control of the labor unions. After that, no port or airport is a secure base.

After 10 years, during which Arabs were promised, but never given, a real voice in Algerian government, the French Assembly has voted to give enormous powers to the new left-center Republican Front government to remedy the Algerian situation.

Socialist Premier Guy Mollet has proposed a new plan, a three-decker job:

1. Arabs will be brought more largely into the government and financial help will be extended to make jobs for some of the two million jobless among the nine million population.
2. The rebellion will be put down. Two more divisions have been ordered to Algiers and military authorities have been given wider powers to deal quickly with Fellagha rebels caught bearing arms.
3. Within three months after peace is restored, elections will be held to choose Arabs with whom the French may negotiate a new relationship.
4. The two first operations go on together. The reforms are intended to make pacification easier.

Elections? No Arab would dare run for office. The rebels operating in the mountains have already done that much in Algeria. The rest of the Arabs are either helping them or staying out of it altogether.

As to the "men in the bush," or "men in the mountains," as the Fellagha often are referred to, they already have laid down their conditions, unofficially:

1. Agreement upon immediate independence for Algeria.
2. Release of all political prisoners, rebels included.
3. Algerians, not French will decide when and whether there will be elections.
4. Frenchmen who take out Algerian citizenship will be treated like other Algerians. No favors.

It amounts to a demand for outright capitulation by the French.

Any approach to that kind of a deal would bring the French planters up in arms. First put down the rebellion, then talk of reforms later. That is the cry of the most aggressive of the planters and French businessmen.

In terms of sheer power, France probably could put down the rebellion. With planes, guns, ruthless treatment of prisoners, and destruction of villages which failed to cooperate, they could probably break it. But it would raise a storm of protest in the Arab world which the West would have a hard time facing, and it would bring a storm of protest from within France, which is a bit fed up with sending its sons abroad to save its overseas colonies.

What makes the French especially bitter is the realization that they have done great things for Algeria and now get no credit for it. Moreover, they feel that their bitterest critics, the Arab countries of the Middle East, are the most backward among the free countries.

Which of these countries, the French ask, can boast of the 3,500 miles of railroads, 50,000 miles of roads, 48 hospitals, 11 irrigation dams and the 2,500 schools which have been built in Algeria under French occupation?

No Frenchman likes to admit it, but the ones who got the most good out of this were the French. The Arabs profited too, but not at all in the same measure.

Already vast parts of Algeria—at least a third—have passed completely out of control of the French. In that respect it is much like Indochina. But by the Indochina was taken over by the rebels and the cost of keeping the rest grew so high that even with American help the French could not hold out.

One of the clearest statements of what the problem is in Algeria was given to me not by an Algerian but by a Moroccan.

"In Morocco, and it was the same in Tunisia, we always had our own traditional government to look up to," he said. "That has never been true in Algeria. The French conquered Algeria and imposed their own government on it."

"It was a type of slavery and the Algerians now have rebelled against it. They have made it clear already that they are not a part of France," as the French say.

Algerian soldiers, who long have fought alongside the French, have begun to turn their guns on French soldiers, killing them and fleeing into the hills to join the rebellion, carrying guns and ammunition.

That sort of thing began to happen in Indochina in the brief months before the end.

Nehru Admits British Arms Order, Denies Russian Deal

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru confirmed today that India has ordered military supplies — apparently planes and tanks — from Britain but denied a report he had rejected a cut-price offer of Soviet arms.

Nehru did not specify exactly what India is buying in Britain except to say, "We have discussed buying tanks and aircraft in the last two years, and it is true we recently finalized details of an order."

Russia, he told a news conference, "has made no offer to us, but we made inquiries in Russia. The inquiries did not concern arms as such but military and civil aircraft."

The Indian leader did not say what had been the outcome of the inquiries to the Russians. But he emphasized his government is interested in Russian civilian aircraft.

"We are not committed or tied down to any country for arms," he said. "It is for India to decide where, when and what arms to buy."

He added that India traditionally buys her arms from Britain because the Indian army is based on the British style.

But that is a matter of convenience which can be changed where, when and what arms to buy, he said. "And if we change we won't do it behind anyone's back."

Nehru was commenting on a London report that India had placed a multimillion-dollar order for British jet bombers, tanks and other weapons after rejecting a Soviet offer.

British sources said their country would supply the Indians up to 40 Canberra jet bombers to replace obsolete U.S. World War II Liberators. They added about 40 Centurion tanks and other weapons also had been ordered.

'Moon Madness' Link In Slayings?

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—Was it moon madness which prompted the knife slayings of two pretty teen-age wives two months and 50 miles apart?

Detectives investigated this fantastic possibility today in the killing of Mrs. Barbara Jepsen and Mrs. Oleva Johnson.

"Far-fetched as it may seem, records show that some psychopathic criminals are influenced by the moon," said Detective Sgt. Al Ortiz. "It's a theory that must not be overlooked."

Mrs. Jepsen was knifed to death Jan. 31 in Van Nuys, four days after a full moon. Mrs. Johnson, of Houston, was slain here March 28, two days after the full moon.

Other similarities occurred in the deaths, leading investigators to suspect the same killer. Both women, each 18, were stabbed in the chest. Both bodies were found on their beds. One body was partially disrobed, the other completely.

Mrs. Johnson's body was discovered Wednesday by Pvt. Harold Johnson, 19, in their auto court cabin. Johnson told authorities he was not married to her, but that she had come from Houston two weeks before for a marriage ceremony. They have a prematurely born son who still is in a Houston hospital. They had lived together more than a year as man and wife, he told officers.

Johnson took a lie detector test Saturday which military investigators said backs his contention that he knew nothing about the killing.

Detectives questioned several soldiers at a Nike guided missile installation here in the Johnson

'Tony' Awards Given Duo For Stage Success

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway stars Julie Harris and Paul Muni have won "Tony" medallions for outstanding dramatic performances during this theater season.

"Damn Yankees," chosen the outstanding musical comedy, ran off with six awards. For show, players and production staff.

"The Diary of Anne Frank" was named the top drama.

The "Tony" awards are presented by the American Theater Wing, an organization of performers and stage craftsmen. The awards are in memory of Antoinette Perry, the Wing's World War II chairman.

Broadway generally looks upon the awards as equivalent to Hollywood's "Oscars."

Helen Hayes and other theater notables presented the "Tony" awards at the Wing's annual banquet last night.

Muni won his award for his performance in "Inherit the Wind." Miss Harris was cited for her portrayal of Joan of Arc in "The Lark."

Top awards for musical comedy performances went to Gwen Verdon and Ray Walston of "Damn Yankees." In the same show, awards went to Ruggs Brown for supporting player; Robert Fosse for choreography and Hal Hastings for musical direction.

In the drama division, Ed Begley was selected outstanding supporting actor for his work in "Inherit the Wind." The supporting actress "Tony" went to Una Merkel of "The Ponder Heart."

Electronics Plant Destroyed By Fire

GARLAND, Tex. (AP)—A raging fire, spurred by a series of explosions, destroyed more than 80 per cent of an electronic equipment plant last night.

Varo Manufacturing Co. officials immediately imposed a tight censorship for "security reasons."

The firm makes airborne electronic equipment for the government.

Fire Marshal R. K. Flanagan said the loss would exceed one million dollars, but company officials declined to comment.

Two guards discovered the blaze. More than a dozen fire companies, including equipment from Dallas and other neighboring cities, fought the fire.

Emergency police were needed to hold back hundreds of spectators attracted by billowing clouds of dense smoke. Traffic was tied up for blocks.

The fire was uncontrolled for more than an hour and flames were visible in scattered parts of the plant four hours after the initial alarm.

Smoke overcame four firemen. One security guard who would not permit use of his name reported hearing several cannon-like explosions shortly after the flames were discovered in the rear of a building.

Garland Fire Chief Harry Grantham said three minor explosions inside the plant were heard shortly after he arrived.

"I counted three explosions and each time I heard them the fire seemed to flare up more," Grantham told reporters.

He said the unexplained blasts seemed to spread the fire to other parts of the building.

One company official said the blasts might have been set off by magnesium castings stockpiled in the plant.

The building was located in a thinly settled area and was almost out of reach of fire hydrants.

The first firemen at the scene were blocked by locked doors.

"The flames kept the guards from getting to the doors to let us in," Grantham said. Firemen hacked through the doors, only to be turned back by boiling flames.

"It seemed to be burning in two parts of the building—at one rear corner and up front," Grantham said, adding that the blaze had "a considerable lead" when firemen arrived.

The intense heat kept firemen at long range.

Uncle Ray:

Celts Were Early Invaders Of England

By RAMON COFFMAN

The island known as Great Britain has a long and exciting history. It has played a big part in the life of Europe.

Q. Was the term "Great Britain" used in ancient times?

A. No. For a long period the island was known simply as Britain.

Q. Who were the first people in Britain?

A. There are remains of Stone Age people, but only a little is known about them. Rings of stone were set up in several places during the Late Stone Age. The chief ring was at Stonehenge, where the huge stones can be seen at the present day.

There is reason to believe that those who built Stonehenge prayed to the sun. The ring provided a rude outline of the light of day.

In the course of time there was a landing of Celtic people from the mainland of Europe. They knew the art of making tools and weapons from copper and bronze. We may suppose that they defeated the Stone Age residents easily, and drove them to the hills.

Historians sometimes speak of the Bronze Age Celts in Britain as the Goidels. Hundreds of years later came the Celts who were called Brythons or Britons. They knew the art of working with iron.

The Celts also knew how to twist

Roman soldiers, with Celts in background.

wool into thread, and how to weave the thread into cloth. They also made linen.

Q. Were the Celts conquered by the Romans?

A. The Celts fell under the rule of the Roman Empire. Julius Caesar made raids on Britain, but more than a century passed after Caesar's death before Roman power became firm. Even then the Picts and Scots held the northern end of the island.

Real Issue And Responsibilities

Tomorrow, voters will have the first of two opportunities to go to the polls this week.

They will be balloting to fill three places on the city commission. On Saturday, three places will need to be filled on the Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees. They also will select two board members for the Howard County Junior College board of trustees, as will voters all over the county. In addition, other school districts will be selecting their trustees and naming some members to the county board of trustees.

Although the record of turnout on occasions such as these would indicate that the general public cares very little about who represents them, it is nevertheless true that we cannot underestimate the importance of picking the best talent available for local service.

People who are loudest and most righteous in proclaiming that grass roots government must be preserved from the inroads of state and federal agencies all too frequently are the ones who stay at home and fail to vote when city commission and school board elections roll around.

If we really believe in preserving strong local government, we will be actively and militantly interested in whom we elect to serve us.

Fortunately, we have paid no attention to partisanship on local governmental affairs, leaving only one clear, overpowering rule for sound balloting. That rule is, of course, to vote for the person whom you honestly believe to be best qualified to serve our city or our schools. Whether he has a business in your block, works at a bench next to yours, belongs to the same lodge, wears the same colors you like, etc. all have nothing to do with it. Pick the person you believe to be best qualified.

The Gimmick That Boomeranged

Two young men students at San Diego Junior College in California strolled into a used car lot, looked over and agreed on a price of $1,200 for a 1954 model, and professed 48 napkins in payment.

That's right, napkins. The youths had picked them up at a cocktail lounge. They bore them the legend: "This napkin good for $25 toward purchase of any car," and bore the dealer's name.

The dealer tried to laugh it off, saying the napkins were "an obvious advertising stunt." But he hastily inserted advertisements in the newspapers proclaiming all outstanding napkins to be worth only as much as the paper they are printed on.

His haste was understandable, for the lads were not amused at his refusal to trade for napkins. They filed suit in municipal court. We wouldn't say they were too dumb to see the joke. They were smart enough to smell a business opportunity and take advantage of a legal technicality. Maybe the court won't overlook the "stunt" nature of the ad either.

There is a moral in here somewhere, but we haven't time to dope it out. Maybe it's that honesty, instead of gimmicks, is the best policy even in advertising.

The Complex Of Integration

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is deeply concerned — in fact, very much worried — about the emotional disturbance in America today over the problem of racial segregation in the public schools. He talks a good deal about it to some of his visitors. He tries in an unspectacular and earnest way to encourage a public understanding of the issues involved, in the hope that there will be no outbreaks of passion or violence. He believes the churches can do a great deal toward this end. He is well aware of the complexities of the issue and doesn't believe the solution is simple or easy to achieve.

There's something innately conciliatory about Mr. Eisenhower's whole personality. It is his nature to search for ways to unite human beings who hold conflicting views or who nurture deep-seated prejudices against one another. All his life that's been dominant in his makeup because he maintains an abiding faith in the power of human love in the world to reconcile differences between groups within a single nation as well as between nations.

Mr. Eisenhower has always been convinced that, where there are extremes in a controversy, there is a middle way. Sometimes this is called "moderation," but even that word sounds like "compromise" to those who are sincerely convinced of the absolute correctness of their own legal or moral position.

The President, however, is more inclined to approach questions of a highly controversial nature with the thought that it is a condition and not a theory which often confronts the government. Thus, he realizes that as President he is charged with upholding the Constitution, but this doesn't necessarily mean that the only way available to him to uphold it is to use force. The mere mention of coercion only serves to inflame many citizens who believe that a law which rests on force alone can never be accepted as morally right. There must be acceptance by the majority of the principle involved and, if it takes time to secure that acceptance, then the necessary time must be taken to accomplish that purpose.

What can the President do? He has conferred with Chief Justice Warren about the question of gradual application of the court decree on desegregation in order to explore what is the best way for the executive branch of the government, which must present the matter constantly to the courts, to find a way to chart its course of action.

Thus, it may be that the South, by majority vote of the people of each state, will choose to separate the sexes in the schools so as to meet to some extent the fears about social mixing and intermarriage. It may be that the southern states will consider leasing some of their public school buildings to private organizations and let the people decide whether to send their children to mixed public schools or to segregated private schools. There are lots and lots of legal questions which have yet to be settled, and the important factor is time — to avoid precipitating emotional clashes while the American method of rational and non-violent solution of difficult questions is in process.

Many Americans in the North have forgotten what "force" meant before. Mention of the possible use of "force" brings bitter memories to the South. Arthur Krock, writing in the New York Times the other day, said:

"A common impression is that slavery was abolished after Appomattox without difficulty. Actually, slavery was made unconstitutional, not by a Supreme Court decision with this effect, but by a constitutional amendment submitted, after the House once declined to approve it, in January 1865. Even then only twenty-three states of the required twenty-five ratified, Kentucky and Delaware rejecting, and the amendment became effective only through the action of provisional governments, put and held in office by the Union army, in disenfranchised states of the beaten Confederacy."

For many decades the Supreme Court of the United States has held that, as long as equal facilities for education were provided by the states, they could be separate. But now nine men in the Supreme Court say the other judges in the past were wrong, and that segregation by race in public schools violates the Fourteenth Amendment which guarantees "equal protection of the laws" to everybody. Has "equal protection" been achieved by separate but equal educational facilities or does it mean only compulsory integration? Merely to state the problem is to show how far from simple it is.

It is easy enough to say that the Supreme Court now has decided it and that all must obey. But obey what? How shall "integration" be carried out? What are its limitations? That's why the Supreme Court left all questions to be worked out in individual cases in the lower courts. This will take time.

Meanwhile, Mr. Eisenhower's role will not be to use or to threaten force but to try to bring about in an orderly way an adaptation of the school question to the circumstances which are faced in the South. His whole concern now is how to lessen the tension between the races that has risen as never before to plague the people who for generations have lived amicably together.

Senators Burn Over Trade Probe

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles, who has been around the world with a diplomatic fire extinguisher, should spray it at the Capitol. Some of the senators are burning.

They're hot because Dulles' aides and other government officials have refused to give the Senate Investigations subcommittee answers to these two questions on trade between American allies and the Communists:

(1) What items have been agreed to by this country as all right for its allies to sell to the Reds, and (2) who in the government took part in the recommendations leading to this agreement?

The questions have roots in the past.

During the Korean War, the allies had a tight embargo on trade with the Reds because then almost anything shipped them had strategic value—that is, helped their war potential—by filling a need, relieving pressure.

But by August 1954, the allies had an itch for trade. This country met with them in Paris. It was agreed many items formerly considered strategic could be taken off the embargo list and sold with Red China have been kept tighter.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), subcommittee chairman, said these agreements went to the "very destruction of peace and security" by making it possible for Russia to get goods which still should be treated as strategic.

His subcommittee called in Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., Secretary of Commerce Weeks, Foreign Aid Director John B. Hollister and Harold Stassen. President Eisenhower's assistant on disarmament.

In brief, these officials said it was none of Congress' business who in the executive branch made recommendations. This is the age-old protest against Congress intruding on the executive branch's internal operations.

The senators were told they could see secretly — but not make public — the list of goods taken off the strategic list at Paris. Why secretly? This was the reason given: U.S. allies — in part because of conflicting political factors in their own countries, some of them Communist — don't want disclosed their agreements on what can and can't be sold Russia.

Lavern J. Duffy, subcommittee investigator, testified that while he was refused details by this government on items taken off the embargo list he was able to get some information from debates in Britain's Parliament.

Eisenhower himself has said the Paris agreements were necessary to bolster allied economies—by finding a Russian market for their goods—and thus cut down on U.S. foreign aid expenses.

This year he asked Congress to vote almost five billion dollars in aid for American friends and allies.

McClellan, some at the administration's stone wall, asked the Senate not to act on Eisenhower's foreign aid request until the subcommittee got some answers on foreign trade.

He said he is convinced the administration's "policy of secrecy" is "designed for hiding errors, inefficiency, and the bad judgment of government officials."

B.V.D.? What's That?

By REELMAN MORIN (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK — In a Broadway show of recent date, there was a joke that sometimes drew a laugh, and sometimes a ghastly blank, depending on the average age of the audience. It was built around a reference to B.V.D.

Does that take you back, brother?

Does it carry you back to the Stutz Bearcat and the Stanley Steamer? Can you still see Wallace Reid and Mary Miles Minter and "Baby Peggy" and Charles Ray? Does it remind you of meatless and wheatless days, a song called "The Rose of No Man's Land," a place called Chateau Thierry, "Over the Top," Woodrow Wilson's 14 points, and Charles G. Dawes' upside-down pipe?

It did me.

Somewhat though, while we weren't looking, a whole new generation has come along and these youngsters find nothing automatically funny about B.V.D.'s. To them, this could mean any number of articles of apparel, for the firm has branched out considerably.

But in my day, sonny, it meant underwear, a one-piece suit of underwear.

You kind of backed into it, as I remember, stepping first into the legs which were knee-length, and then fighting your way through the arms. Then it buttoned down the front, and there you were.

Well, the firm is celebrating its 80th anniversary this year, and the officers are having a lot of fun looking back.

The trademark came from the initials of the founders, Bradley, Voorhees and Day.

A big seller in the early days, however, was not men's underwear. It was the "spiral bustle."

A fetching advertisement from an old magazine shows a lady with an hour-glass figure (and not bad, sport, not bad) examining a spiral bustle with demure approval. It resembles the skeleton of a small mountain lion. The text says it's "the coolest and most durable bustle made."

Then the famous men's underwear began to catch on. Somebody coined the slogan, "Next to my skin, I like B.V.D. best."

The late William Allen White, in one of his brochures on American business, credited this with making the product "familiar to the natives along the Gold Coast and to the wild man from Bornéo."

The ads were illustrated with long lean gentlemen, telephoning, reading letters, chatting or just looking pleased, all in underwear. I believe Howard Chandler Christy drew them, and they were beautiful guys with profiles and crisp, curly hair. Wow!

Then, the present-day shift-and-shorts began to move in on the orthodox B.V.D.'s. Nobody is quite sure why.

Some of the officers believe it was just the public being fickle, as usual. Others think it may have had some connection with World War I and the talk about "cooties," junior, was a louse that infested the trenches, and made his home in the seams of the soldiers' uniforms.

In due course, the one-piece suit was definitely passed in popularity. I was surprised, however, to hear that about a million of these are still sold every year.

Guess who buys them. Lumberjacks, and north woodsmen, mainly, the firm says.

There was an interesting milestone in 1934, too. That was the year when Clark Gable took off his shirt in the movie, "It Happened One Night." He was wearing no undershirt! Sales fell off 40 per cent, the B.V.D. executives say.

They don't even like to think about it.

Mr. Breger

"Better keep a sharp eye open... they say there might be quicksand somewhere around here..."

Around The Rim

Stay On The Right Side, Brother

Maybe they need a screen wire running down the middle of all highways.

Maybe that will come before radar-controlled brakes or chocolate steering wheels. Maybe it will have to.

Safety expert Lewis C. Markel, whose head wheels have long been turning on the subject, says the average motorist has a subconscious fear of objects on his right and, for that reason, hugs the center line.

This fear manifests itself in two prime driving idiosyncrasies, says he, (1) Fear of going into the ditch and (2) Fear of misjudging distance to objects on the right.

The fear is so pronounced, points out Markel, that at speeds in excess of 35 miles an hour, most drivers have a tendency to move to the left where they would drive at lower speeds. This deviation increases two to three inches for every ten miles an hour over 35 m.p.h.

I'm thinking they should have three or four center lines running parallel to each other, taking Markel's word for granted, the one farthest to the left simply a series of angels' wings.

The safety expert says a motorist moving around a curve at 65 miles per hour is likely to be as much as nine inches over the center line. The quirk makes for head-on collisions, Markel explains.

Our authority says objects on the right shoulder or even completely off the road will cause a driver to shy like a frightened horse. If the road is narrow, the deviation may extend to three feet. If the road is extra wide, the veering is reduced to half.

The object which the motorist is dodging could be a mail box with a hungry lip or a hitchhiker who looks like Jack The Ripper.

I have those failings, the same as the next guy.

I also have another — that of being seized with panic when a woman driver in front of me uses a hand signal for a change in directions. It is then I become one of those objects to the far right.

The New Disunity Among The Democrats

The Democratic Party, it is now evident, is in another of those periods of inner conflict which it passes through about once in each political generation. The party was sharply divided in the days of William Jennings Bryan. Then Woodrow Wilson united it. After Wilson, it became bitterly divided over prohibition and Ku Klux Klan until Roosevelt, in the days of the great depression, united it in the New Deal. Since the death of Roosevelt at the end of the war the tension between northern and southern Democrats has been increasing. Gov. Stevenson, who is a national leader in the line of Wilson and Roosevelt, has been trying, but not successfully, to reunite the party.

There is a real and important issue between Stevenson on the one hand, Truman, Kefauver and Harriman on the other. It is not about whether Stevenson is too moderate in his criticism of Eisenhower, or whether he can give the Republicans bigger hell than Kefauver or Harriman. There is at issue the deep question of party policy and party strategy: is there to be a united Democratic front or are the Democrats to run, as under Truman in 1948, as a northern party?

Shall they aim to win the Presidency by preserving the united front with the southern Democrats who are in control of Congress? If so, Stevenson is their man, indeed their only possible man. Or, shall they let the erring southern brothers go Republican or Dixiecrat while they fight the election as a militant northern party appealing to the farm belt and to the big cities? If so, they can make their choice of Kefauver, Harriman, and perhaps some others in an open convention in which former President Truman, the hero of 1948, will be dominant.

The New Hampshire and Minnesota primaries indicated that among northern Democrats the balance has turned rather emphatically against the policy of a united front under Gov. Stevenson. Why is this? It is because there is not now any national issue which overrides, as in Wilson's time and in Roosevelt's, sectional and local interests. A united front policy means giving the local interests something less than they want. It can work only when there is something so big, such as a war or a depression, that local interests are not all important.

Although they have by no means proved that the Truman pattern could win again in 1956, what has happened since Gov. Stevenson announced on Nov. 15 has done much to justify their view that this is not a favorable year for a united Democratic front.

It is, however, only fair to remember that Nov. 15 was seven weeks after the President was stricken, and that there was no good reason then to think that he could or would conduct a genuine campaign for re-election. Last November there were the best of reasons for supposing that the Democratic candidate would be pitted against Nixon, either as candidate for President or as candidate for Vice President along with a frail Eisenhower. Against Nixon, the Democrats had every prospect of winning with Stevenson and the policy of a united front. For Stevenson, more than any other man in either party, possessed the unifying spirit which is the secret of Eisenhower's appeal to the people. The Gallup Poll was insistent upon Stevenson's ability to beat Nixon.

It is the President's remarkable recovery which has transformed the situation.

Stevenson and the united front have had no effective support either among the northern or the southern Democratic politicians. The first allegiance of politicians is to the constituency in which they have to be elected, and for that reason a united front policy can never be the first choice of politicians. The southern Democrats, who are in control of Congress, have in this session done nothing to make it easier, much to make it harder, for Stevenson to carry on the policy of the united front.

The southern Democratic politicians in Congress have followed a sectional policy which, no doubt, helped them in their own constituencies. But it divides the national party. They began with Sen. Lyndon Johnson's natural gas bill and they went on to Sen. George's manifesto about segregation. Since then, the Democratic Party has been so deeply divided that it is almost impossible to imagine how a common platform can be agreed to at the national convention.

The situation could change in the months to come. But on the prospect of an Eisenhower-Nixon Republican ticket, one may have doubts whether any of the leading Democratic politicians in the North or in the South are really interested in the Presidency. In part, that may be because they feel that the Democrats have only an outside chance to win the Presidency. But it may be also because they have done well enough, very well indeed, with Eisenhower in the White House and themselves in control of Congress and of so many of the state capitals. They may, in other words, regard the present division of powers between the two parties as not at all unsatisfactory.

No Servant Problem For Grace

Miss Grace Kelly is shot with luck, and you can read that again!

And it's not so much that Miss Kelly is marrying the gypsy fortune teller's dream: a feller who is tall, dark, handsome and loaded. Or that she is going to live in a principality that is the next best thing to paradise regained. Or that she is beautiful, talented and solvent on her own, although all of this adds up to a particularly pleasant state of grace.

When I say the bride-to-be is shot with luck I am referring to the fact that an exalted official of Monaco has just told me that when she marries into a 200-room palace Miss Kelly isn't going to have any servant problem. Devoted family retainers, young, old and middlin', go with the lease.

Let me be the first to congratulate Miss Kelly on this stunning piece of good fortune, although what she will do in a pinch for small talk goodness only knows.

In my travels from Texas to Timbuktu during the past 15 years I have found that two problems are universal and ineluctable — the servant and the farm.

Women of the world who are hanging on the American-Monaco romance will not envy Miss Kelly such wedding gifts as a new Rolls-Royce, a crooked roulette wheel (from Hollywood conferees), an antique chess set or small yacht half as much as the domestic tranquility promised by a cook who won't walk out as the guests walk in.

This is really living!

Also, incredible as this may seem to Miss Kelly's legion of admirers, it will be Miss Kelly who will be waiting at the altar on her wedding day and not Prince Rainier III, always providing that standard continental wedding customs are observed for the royal nuptials. And it is believed they will be.

The bridegroom and his best man on the continent do not emerge from the right side of the altar and stand in the chancel awaiting the solemn march of the bride and her attendants down the central aisle of the church.

On the contrary, the bride and her attendants make their grand entrance and wait at the chancel while the bridegroom escorts his mother down the aisle to her seat in the front pew. Then, and only then, after Miss Kelly's future mother-in-law is seated (the last person to be seated before the ceremony begins), will the bridegroom join his waiting bride.

Many continental brides must have a few anxious moments at the chancel, peering anxiously down the aisle to see if the bridegroom is really going to show.

But, obviously, not Miss Kelly. It would be prima facie evidence of insanity on the part of any man who kept Miss K. waiting any longer than it takes to get Mama down the aisle on the double.

Miss McClanahan Is Wed To Mr. Hickson

Baskets of white gladioli formed the background for the wedding of Rita McClanahan and Johnny Hickson Sunday afternoon in the First Church of God.

The Rev. Hal Hooker read the informal double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Weldon McClanahan, 507 Owens, Mrs. Ethel A. Hickson, 107 E. 17th, is the mother of the bridegroom.

Patsy Hayworth, pianist, accompanied Richard Hughes as he sang "Always" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street length frock of white lace over taffeta. A flared skirt joined a bodice fashioned with scooped neckline and bracelet length sleeves. Her hat was of white satin with a short veil.

For wedding tradition, she wore the wedding band of her grandmother, Mrs. J. J. McClanahan, for something old; her hat was new; she had borrowed the cover on the Bible she carried from her cousin, Mrs. Shot Hudson of Tulsa, and she had a penny in her shoe and wore a blue garter.

White carnations were used atop the lace-covered Bible.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Carol Laird of Dove Creek, Colo. She wore a street length dress of pink silk with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Doyle Phillips was best man; guests were seated by the bridegroom's two brothers, R. F. Hickson of Big Spring and Eddie Hickson of Arlington.

A reception was held in the R. E. Hickson home, with the parents of the bridal pair assisting in receiving guests. A lace cloth over the refreshment table, which held a floral and candle arrangement. Punch was served with a three-tiered cake, decorated with a tiny bride and groom.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Eddie Hickson and Linda Hickson, a sister of the bridegroom. Carol Ann Burks was at the guest register.

'Dubs' Introduced At Leap Year Party

The Leap Year rush in the nation's capital got off to an amusing start during the height of the recent debutante season with the staging of the annual "Dubs-Tante" dance. Making their bows were 13 good-looking young college boys.

The "stag" line was composed of 26 of this year's debutantes, who cut in on the dubs during the evening's dancing session.

Each girl who approached the receiving line to ask a boy to dance was kissed by all 13 boys.

Instead of the usual black tie outfits, the boys wore calypso type attire—white cotton trousers, torn in strips from the knee, loud-colored jackets, tennis shoes and battered straw hats. The girls all wore their prettiest ball gowns.

Pair Exchanges Vows In Easter Ceremony

The Easter Sunday wedding of Roberta Sue Gay and Thad R. Magee took place at 5 p.m. before a hily-banked altar in First Methodist Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Gay, 1104 Wood. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Magee, lives in Savannah, Ga.

While the couple knelt before the Rev. Jordan Grooms, Joyce Howard sang, "Oh, Perfect Love." The organist, Roberta Gay, the bride's aunt, played traditional music before recitation of the double ring vows.

White French lace and tulle over taffeta was chosen by the bride. The gown was cut waltz-length with a sweetheart neckline and embroidered with rhinestones and pearls. An oriental headpiece held the imported French net veil, which reached her shoulder.

The white-orchid atop a bride's Bible was surrounded with spring flowers.

Pink net and lace gowned the maid of honor, Patsy Bess Gay, the bride's sister, and the bridesmaid, Helen Witt. They wore flowers in their hair and carried spring bouquets.

The flower girl, Joyce Yvonne Bate, the bride's cousin of Odesa, wore a dress copied from the bride's. She carried a basket of rose petals and had a floral head-dress. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Best man was Roger *Dennis.

1955 Queen Of Cotton Stays Right In Groove

By SAUL FELDMAN
OKLAHOMA CITY—What does the 1955 Maid of Cotton do after a hectic year of promoting the fiber across half the world? She starts right in selling cotton.

DeLois Faulkner, the beautiful maid from Sallisaw, Okla., thought she would like nothing better than to lounge around the house for months after she gave up her reign.

After all, she had put on 300 fashion shows under all sorts of trying conditions, appeared on more than 200 radio and TV shows and made innumerable speeches.

But after a few weeks at home, the statuesque daughter of an Oklahoma cattle raiser decided inactivity wasn't for her.

She's now trying her hand at something new—arranging cotton exhibitions.

"It's a challenge trying to do something different," she explains as she flashes the beautiful but natural smile that has become her trademark. "I don't know how good I'm doing but it's a wonderful experience."

Her boss, James Burge, who is directing the exposition, is unreserved on how DeLois is doing. "She's sensational," he exclaims. "I just wish I had three more salesmen like her. We wouldn't have any worries."

Violence Breaks Out In Detroit Milk Strike

DETROIT (AP) — An easing of Detroit's milk shortage was reported today as tank trucks under police escort ran blockades of farmers using stones, pipe and sticks as weapons in their fight to cut off supplies.

Two men hauling milk to a creamery in Saranac, in Ionia County, were pulled from their cab today and roughed up by pickets. But other truckers yesterday brought in enough milk to put the city's supply at 50 to 75 per cent of normal.

Fifty pickets at the Saranac Milk Co. stormed a truck driven by Gerald Price, 41, of Lake Odessa. The pickets smashed the windows with sticks and pulled Price and his helper, Richard Landis, 17, from the cab. They ripped the shirts from the two men before sheriff's deputies ordered the pickets back.

One group of farmers opposing the strike conducted their own escort for six milk trucks going to Fort Huron. An Ingham County circuit judge issued an order limiting the number of pickets to 12 at a Mason milk depot.

Milk trucks running a strike blockade to Detroit jumped to 112 yesterday. Only 20-odd made it Saturday.

Three major Detroit creameries predicted they could make 60 per cent of normal home deliveries. A fourth forecast it could serve 75 per cent of its route customers.

Store shelves, bare or almost the last several days, were expected to remain thus, at least for today.

The strike entered its second week today. It was called by the Fair Share Bargaining Assn. (FSBA) to support demands that the farmer's price of milk be raised from $4.41 per hundredweight (4 1/2 quarts) to $5.

It is opposed by the Michigan Milk Producers Assn. (MMPA), which yesterday called off a threatened strike of its own. The MMPA said a majority of Detroit creameries had agreed to its demands for a $5 price to farmers.

One dairy announced a 1 1/2-cent-a-quart increase in retail prices. Others agreed they would do the same on a $5-a-hundredweight scale to farmers, adding that a $6.50 rate would result in a 4 1/2-cent increase.

Before the strike milk retailed for 22 cents a quart in stores, 23 cents delivered.

The fair share group is made up of members of the MMPA who expressed dissatisfaction with the older organization's bargaining and said that, in effect, MMPA could not bargain under antitrust laws because it operated creameries itself. The FSBA insurgents remained MMPA members.

There were reports which MMPA leaders declined to confirm or deny, that MMPA promised creameries agreeing to a $5 rate that MMPA would guarantee certain delivery.

FSBA termed the $5 agreement "only a bone thrown to the dog" and said it would continue its strike. It insisted farmers were losing money at $4.41 per hundredweight and likely wouldn't do more than break even, if that, at $5.

MMPA said the strike was as good as over and was promoted by FSBA "to gain recognition." FSBA said the strike was continuing.

RED PARTY LEADER Supreme Court Overthrows State Right In Sedition Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled a state cannot prosecute an individual for acts of sedition against the federal government.

The high tribunal overturned the state court conviction of Steve Nelson, Communist party leader of western Pennsylvania.

Nelson was convicted in the state court under Pennsylvania's sedition laws and drew 20 years' imprisonment. Later he was convicted in federal court under the Smith Act and got a five year sentence for plotting violent overthrow of the government.

Nelson appealed his Smith Act conviction to the Supreme Court but it will not be acted upon this term.

The high court split 6-3 in today's decision.

Chief Justice Warren wrote the majority opinion. Justice Reed wrote a dissenting opinion, joined by Justices Burton and Minton.

Warren was joined in the majority by Justices Black, Frankfurter, Douglas, Clark and Harlan.

Today's decision upholds the Pennsylvania Supreme Court which had set aside the state court conviction with a finding that the federal Smith Act superseded the state's sedition law.

Pennsylvania had appealed. Attorneys general of 27 states supported Pennsylvania's appeal.

Solicitor General Sobeloff also supported the states' arguments. He said the federal government did not believe enforcement of state sedition laws was barred by the Smith Act and got a five year sentence for plotting violent overthrow of the government.

Court Rejects Appeal From Integration Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today rejected an appeal from an order calling for the immediate end of racial segregation in elementary schools of Hillsboro, Ohio.

The order was issued by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, but was held up pending action by the highest tribunal on an appeal filed by the Hillsboro School Board.

The Circuit Court overturned a ruling by U. S. Dist. Judge John H. Druffel of Cincinnati, refusing to grant an injunction which would have required admission of some 20 Negro children to the Webster-Washington school.

Druffel said the Supreme Court's 1955 opinion on the manner of ending segregation gave federal district judges the right to determine how soon integration could be achieved.

He found a program of integration being carried forward by the Hillsboro School Board was in fact a "good faith" implementation of the abolishment of segregation. The program included building of two new schools and a goal of complete integration by Sept. 1.

The board said some Negroes were attending the Webster-Washington school and the refusal to admit more was only because of lack of room. Negro children denied admission to the school have been getting private instruction in the present school year.

Wilson Orders Data Closure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department wants nothing published about new planes and guided missiles until they are in actual production. Even then, few details will be made known.

These and other restrictions, applying to all the Defense Department and to private firms working on its contracts, were included in a new directive from Secretary Wilson released last week.

"Preference is given to the public of advance information about missiles, planes, engines and components, the directive said, "may constitute a grave threat to national security."

Aides said the directive was written to set up uniform guidelines for everyone to follow, with no intent to shut off or modify the normal flow of defense information.

Building Total At $1.5 Million

Construction projects in Big Spring during the month of March have pushed the year's total almost to $1.5 million this year.

Through April 1, building permits filed with the city show that $1,461,245 in construction projects have been started this year. The March total was $373,450.

Biggest month of the year's first quarter was January when $770,910 was reported.

During the first three months of 1955, only $330,965 in building permits were reported or less than the month of March this year. March 1955 showed a total of $119,490.

District Court Is Quickly Recessed

Judge Charlie Sullivan opened 11th District Court Civil Jury docket this morning with 11 cases on the list. It was immediately announced that nine of these had been disposed of by agreement or continuance.

The jurors, who had returned, were sworn and the two remaining cases were called.

Neither was ready for trial and continuances were granted.

Judge Sullivan thanked the jurors for reporting, expressed his regret they had been inconvenienced and court was recessed for the week.

Justice Of Peace Requests Aide

Walter Grice, Justice of the Peace, appeared before the County Commissioners Court today with a request that he be provided with a clerk to help him handle work of his office.

Grice said that he needed a clerk at least two days a week.

He claimed that increasing burden of litigation in his court had made it impossible for him to keep up the records.

The commissioners referred the request to the county attorney. Members said they were not certain that it was in their power to employ an assistant for the peace justice.

DEMAND FOR REBEL CASH DEVELOPING

Three Big Spring boys may profit yet from the Confederate "treasure" they found north of the city.

Offers ranging from two bits to $2 have come in for one of the bills.

School children and collectors of old money have written police and the Chamber of Commerce concerning the $1,800 in Confederate currency the boys found at Reed's Tank. The letters are being forwarded to the youths and their addresses are being sent to persons asking about the money.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Jess Slaughter is holding the currency. He says it eventually will be returned to the boys unless someone claims it.

Boys who found the money two weeks ago are Herman Lee Wright, 12, LeRoy Paul, 10, and James Palmer, 11.

Postal Receipts Hold Increase

Big Spring postal receipts increased nearly five per cent in March over the same month in 1955.

The total was $22,190.92. Postmaster E. C. Boatler reported today. The March, 1955, total was $21,196.66.

An increase of about 25 per cent in substation revenues helped to boost the total. The four sub-post offices took in $3,478 last month and $2,704 in March, 1955, Boatler said.

Substations are located at Hemphill-Edwards Heights Pharmacy, Lewis Variety Store and Webb Air Force Base.

Postal revenues for the first three months of the year are about five per cent ahead of the first quarter of 1955. The three-month figure is $69,912.13. Last year it was $57,953.85.

COAHOAMA (SC) — Voters balloting in the election for trustees of Coahoma Independent School district will have three names from which to fill two places.

Those on the ballot, following Saturday's filing deadline, are Ed Carpenter, president of the board, the only incumbent running; Smith Cochran and Joe Hill. W. M. Morrison, other trustee whose place is to be filled, has moved from the district. Voting will be Saturday from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the American Legion Hall with Bud Tanner as election judge.

YMCA Launches Membership Drive

With an objective of at least 300 members from the general membership campaign, more than 200 volunteers turned out Monday to launch this year's YMCA enrollment.

Approximately another 20 men and women will take part in the campaign which is due to be concluded within a two weeks period.

On the theory that "lets George do it," all of the 46 persons at the kick-off breakfast in the First Methodist Fellowship Hall wore name tags of "George." Bill (George) Daves got a red lantern for bringing up the rear, but he promptly wished it off on a bona fide George — George O'ham, who had the least number of workers present. O'ham must carry it until his term passes another.

Clyde McMahon, YMCA president, was hopeful that the enrollment could be accomplished quickly. For one reason he pointed out, at least one third of the YMCA's budget is dependent upon membership support. That means that if less than $6,000 is raised from this source, the program may have to be curtailed. The remainder of the support comes from the United Fund.

"We want to emphasize," McMahon continued, "that YMCA is essentially a membership organization. It is directed and operated by its members. We like to place membership more on the basis of what people can do to strengthen the YMCA rather than what they might receive. It is an opportunity to serve and support with others a common purpose, and to grow through service."

"Those who respond to the invitation to become members thus express a plus interest in the YMCA and thus join hands in dedicated backing for a strong and vigorous YMCA."

No Trace Of Stolen Auto

No trace has been found of the two hitchhikers who left a South Dakota motorist unconscious under a culvert near the Couden Refinery after relieving him of his money.

Sheriff's deputies said they had received no report on the stolen car.

The owner of the car, Jack Duke, Rapid City, S. D., told officers that he picked up a man and woman hitchhiker in Oklahoma and gave them a ride. At Big Spring, the three went to a beer tavern.

That, he said, was the last he remembered until he awakened hours later under a culvert on a country road. His car and all of his personal belongings had vanished.

4 Mishaps Occur Over Weekend

Two accidents occurred at the Fifth and Rannels corner over the week end, and two minor mishaps were reported on Bell.

Billie Turner, 604 W. 16th, and Charles Wright, Gail Rt., were in collision at Fifth and Rannels Sunday. Mrs. Turner was taken to Medical Arts Hospital for a check but was released. She was driving a 1951 Plymouth and Wright occupied a 1951 Studebaker.

The other accident at the Fifth and Rannels corner involved Lois Dean Sanders, Texas Hotel, and Clyde M. Stroper, Odessa. The former was driving a '56 Pontiac and the Odessa man had a 1953 Chrysler.

Denny Edward Pittman, 1219 Lloyd, and Wanda Burgess Schrimshire, Dallas, were in collision at Third and Bell Saturday. The Dallas man occupied a '53 Dodge, and Pittman had a 1953 Ford.

The Fourth and Bell corner was the scene of a mishap between Jacky Duane McDonald, Monahans, and Burt Cate, 605 Main, Saturday. Cars involved were a 1953 Pontiac driven by McDonald, and a 1955 Plymouth, driven by Cate.

Line Still Long For Car Plates

Prediction of Mrs. Viola Robinson, Howard County tax collector, that a great many motorists are still lacking 1956 tags was borne out Monday morning.

Her office was thronged with car owners—almost as many as were on hand last week.

Motorists who neglected to buy their current tags and have them on their cars by midnight Sunday were facing a 20 per cent penalty for their oversight.

Only escape from the penalty was to make an affidavit that the car had not been used on the roads and highways after midnight and would not be used until the new tags were attached.

Some of the applicants Monday were signing such statements. Others philosophically made out their checks for the extra 20 per cent and probably resolved not to let it happen again.

Cafe Burglars Get $25, Beer

Burglars carried off about $25 in change and a case of beer from the B&C Central Cafe, 501 1/2 NW 4th, early Sunday morning.

The burglary was reported to police authorities Sunday, and the owner, Luven Flores, claimed the break-in occurred between 1 a. m. and 9 a. m. Sunday.

Entry was made through a window in the men's room.

Approximately $25 in change was taken from three coin-operating machines.

Line Still Long For Car Plates

Prediction of Mrs. Viola Robinson, Howard County tax collector, that a great many motorists are still lacking 1956 tags was borne out Monday morning.

Her office was thronged with car owners—almost as many as were on hand last week.

Motorists who neglected to buy their current tags and have them on their cars by midnight Sunday were facing a 20 per cent penalty for their oversight.

Only escape from the penalty was to make an affidavit that the car had not been used on the roads and highways after midnight and would not be used until the new tags were attached.

Some of the applicants Monday were signing such statements. Others philosophically made out their checks for the extra 20 per cent and probably resolved not to let it happen again.

MEN Atomic Powers Resume Arms Talks Tuesday

Troubled with GETTING UP NIGHTS Pains in BACK, HIPS, LEGS Tiredness, LOSS OF VIGOR

If you are a victim of these symptoms then your troubles may be traced to Glandular Inflammation. Glandular Inflammation is a constitutional disease and medicines that give temporary relief will not remove the causes of your troubles.

Neglect of Glandular Inflammation often leads to premature senility, and incurable malignancy.

The past year men from 1,000 communities have been successfully treated here at the Excelsior Institute. They have found soothing relief and a new zest in life.

The Excelsior Institute, devoted to the treatment of diseases peculiar to older men by NON-SURGICAL Methods, has a New FREE BOOK that tells how these troubles may be corrected by proven Non-Surgical treatments. This book may prove of utmost importance in your life. No obligation. Address, Excelsior Institute, Dept. W-13, Excelsior Springs, Missouri.

LONDON (AP)—The U.N. Big Five atomic powers resume their disarmament talks tomorrow with Russia's new proposal to reduce armies sharply and freeze atomic tests still a chief topic of discussion.

U. S. officials in Washington called the plan a helpful base for negotiations but said it is far from acceptable.

The U.N. subcommittee on disarmament—Russia, Britain, the United States, Canada and France—has been in recess since the Soviet Union presented its plan last Tuesday.

The Russians called for (1) a three-month freeze on armies and armaments at the Dec. 31, 1955 level; (2) regular cutbacks to a 1953 level of 1 1/2 million troops or less for each of the United States, Russia and Red China, 650,000 each for Britain and France and 250,000 or less for other nations; (3) an international disarmament control agency; (4) a European buffer zone including East and West Germany where foreign troops would be limited and atomic weapons banned; and (5) a freeze on nuclear weapons tests.

The Russians dropped their usual demand for a ban or limitation of nuclear weapons as the first step in disarmament before anything is done on conventional arms and troop strength.

Driver Hurt In Truck Smashup

Police examine wreckage of a lumber truck which struck a divider, ran off the road and overturned on the Ridge Road at Highway 5, ten miles north of San Fernando, Calif. Lumber was spilled over the highway for one-quarter mile. Driver, Leon Onyz, 31, of Los Angeles, suffered possible fractures of both hips and neck and internal injuries.

FOR FARMERS Ike, Kefauver In Wisconsin Contest

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin's presidential primary tomorrow will be regarded as an indication of how the voters feel about either Eisenhower or Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) is more popular with the farm voters. The primary also may show whether there is political unrest among the farmers.

The primary, designed to pick 99 delegates to the Republican National Convention and 56 to the Democratic National Convention, shapes up as a popularity contest between Kefauver, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, and the President.

Kefauver's slate of delegate candidates is the only one on the Democratic ballot. President Eisenhower's slate is opposed only by a group headed by John Chapple, Ashland publisher, as a favorite son. Chapple's slate is regarded as only a token effort.

Wisconsin's election law permits no write-in votes for president or vice president or for any delegate candidates other than those who have filed and are named on the ballot.

The fact that neither President Eisenhower nor Kefauver has any intraparty opposition contributes to the lack of interest.

Delegate candidates have made optimistic statements but have done little active campaigning.

Wisconsin will also choose a Supreme Court justice and act on Human Relations—World's No. 1 Problem

By W. G. VOLLMER, President The Texas and Pacific Railway Company

The months and years which lie ahead bring with them our opportunities and challenges, together with an age-old problem which has plagued mankind since the dawn of civilization.

It is the problem of man's inability to achieve good human relations throughout the world. Like the pot of gold at the rainbow's end, the solution always is just over the horizon . . . always evading the grasp of man.

Despite man's failure to achieve the goal of worldwide good human relations, he has progressed materially and morally, socially and spiritually. Never before in the long annals of history have so many people worked so earnestly and resolutely for universal good human relations, as they are doing today.

The greatest measure of good human relations is to be found in those nations of the world where the climate of freedom exists . . . where the rights and liberties of man are recognized as coming from a power higher than the state.

A Matter of Respect Good human relations, whether worldwide or local, are founded upon faith in, and respect for, the rights and freedom of others . . . upon faith in God, ourselves and our fellow men.

Bad human relations thrive on doubt and fear, suspicion and distrust, greed and selfishness and indifference to the rights and freedoms of others.

Human relations, in some form, are with us always. They are a vital part of everything we do. They exist in the home, on the job, in business and industry, in the professions and in government.

America Sets Example. The progress and prosperity of our nation provides abundant evidence of the high quality and character of the good human relations we long have enjoyed. No other people on earth have so much freedom, so many opportunities, so much respect for the rights of others, so many of the good things of life, as does our nation.

The personal well-being of each of us . . . of business and industry everywhere . . . of our nation and of the world, is measured by the quality and character of human relations.

The achievement of good human relations the world over is one of man's most pressing problems. Its solution would bring joy and happiness to the hearts of people everywhere . . . and peace to a troubled world.

In our dealings with our friends and neighbors, and with the men and women of the T&P family, we strive constantly and earnestly to maintain a mutually pleasant and profitable relationship. It is our conviction that good human relations, like charity, should begin at home.

Christians Note Easter Holiday

As new strife cast darkening shadows over the Holy Land this Easter, Christians throughout the world celebrated the resurrection of Jesus with prayers for peace.

Fresh shooting incidents marred the peace around Jerusalem, where Protestant pilgrims from many lands crowded the quiet garden outside the Old City's walls. Standing before an empty tomb, they heard the ancient words: "He is not here; He is risen."

As the faithful went through their timeless ritual, word came that an Israeli farmer had been wounded in a night attack on Israeli road traffic near the tense Jordan border. An Israeli spokesman said Jordanians fired on an Israeli team which went up to investigate the attack. Israel asked an emergency meeting of the U.N. Mixed Armistice Commission.

Fear of a major Arab-Israeli outbreak together with raw weather resulted in a relatively small attendance at this year's Jerusalem services.

In Vatican City, white-robed Pope Pius XII warned that mankind is racing forward on the road of suicide and extinction from atomic bombs and guided missiles.

Addressing some 350,000 persons in St. Peter's Square below his balcony, the 80-year-old pontiff spoke of how the atom's vast energy might be put to peaceful use.

"All are aware," he said, "that other uses have been sought and found suitable for producing, instead, destruction and death."

His message, broadcast to millions throughout the world, appealed for "light and strength from the risen Christ for those who control the destinies of nations."

There was little peace on the Cyprus Mediterranean island of Cyprus, where Greek islanders seeking union with Greece are defying British rule. Rebels gunned down a British civilian out

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Catcher Ricky Terry of the Big Spring High School baseball team didn't get to play when the Steers took on Snyder in Snyder the other afternoon.

Seems he left his spikes at home.

Kenneth Dismuke won't be back as head football coach at Stanton High School. Neither will Bowden Cook, his assistant there last fall.

Dismuke, who grew up in and played football for Sweetwater, and the school board couldn't get together, so he's job hunting.

Cook was asked to remain, but he's going into the Armed Forces.

Stanton may have trouble finding a successor to Dismuke, since the salary scale over there isn't very high, and it's getting well on into the year.

The Buffs' won-loss record wasn't very impressive last fall (W-L-T) but the school's athletic program had gone downhill, because football training down in the grades hadn't been authorized. Dismuke deserved another chance, however.

The Micks will tell you that the reason Nashua didn't win that St. Patrick's Day race down in Florida was because he had an Italian rider (Eddie Arcaro) and was wearing Orange colors.

Nashua is supposed to have Irish forefeet.

When Palo Duro High of Amarillo competed in the ABC Relays here last week, the team was looking for its first point, or a portion thereof, in track and field competition. It didn't get it.

Wayne Bonner, the former Big Spring coaching aide who is now head man at Anson High School, said he realized he was getting a tiger by the tail when he booked LeVellford for a football date for next fall.

"It's the way to build football teams," Bonner says, however. Wayne has nine lettermen back from last season and expects his boys to show some improvement. They went to the post ten times last fall and came home a winner only once but the Tigers compete in a mighty tough AA league.

Nobody expects Anson to win its district title next year, what with Mike McClellan and a flock of veterans returning to Stamford.

Jimmy Wall, that prize fighter who got suspended in Connecticut recently before quitting after two rounds in his match with up-and-coming Floyd Patterson, had lost ten straight fights going into the ring, six of them by early-round knockouts.

Perhaps the commission reasoned it would prove a lucky number for Wall.

National League officials are expecting an upswing in attendance in Pittsburgh, a really fine baseball city, now that Branch Rickey has stepped out as general manager.

And a gain at the gate could save the jobs of both Bobby Bragan and Joe L. Brown, even though the Buccos leave the gate last and stay there throughout the upcoming campaign.

Brown, by the way, was a frequent visitor to Big Spring while working in Lubbock's front office back in 1938 and '39.

Longhorns Play 'Dogs Friday

The Big Spring Street baseball crew sees action only once this week, meeting Midland in Midland Friday afternoon.

Dub Headrick's Bulldogs rank as favorites to cop the District 1 AAA title for the second year in a row and will be a heavy choice over the Big Springers, who have yet to find their batting eye.

The two teams play a return game here a week from tomorrow.

Trotters Lead By Two Games

NEW YORK (AP)—The famed Harlem Globetrotters and the College All-Stars moved on to Boston today with the Globetrotters holding a two-game margin after starting their cross-country tour with afternoon and night victories at Madison Square Garden.

The Globetrotters won the afternoon game yesterday 61-52 before a straight at night, winning 72-64 with 10,085 spectators on hand.

Olympic Players Are Due To Be Picked In Playoff

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Four teams of the finest amateur basketball players in the nation tonight began a round-robin playoff to determine personnel for the United States' entry in the coming Olympic Games.

The playoffs run for three nights.

The Phillips 66ers, runners-up in the National AAU Tournament at Denver a week ago, and the armed forces team start the action, followed two hours later by the AAU champion, Seattle Buchanan Bakers, against the College All-Stars.

From the fastest array will come the 12-man team that represents this country in the world games at Melbourne, Australia, beginning next November.

Tops In ABC Relays

Champ Bums Troubled With Injury Outbreak

If many more injuries pop up among the Brooklyn Dodgers they may have to defend their National League pennant and world championship by proxy.

Latest casualties are right-hander Billy Loes, so depressed by a chronic arm condition he says he may "go home and quit baseball," and outfielder-infielder Sandy Amoros, laid up for a week or so with a badly twisted right ankle.

Loes, 26, probably won't make the trip North with the club from Florida, taking hospital treatment instead.

"They've been taking X-rays of my arm for two years and haven't found a thing," he says. Amoros was injured in yesterday's 4-3, 11-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox. He twisted the ankle sliding into second base.

Also on the shelf is reliever Don Bessent, sidelined for two or three weeks after removal of a blood clot from his stomach wall.

The walking wounded include shortstop Pee Wee Reese, with an aching back; Duke Snider, with muscular pains in stomach and back; and short-pitchers Karl Spooner and Carl Eskrine.

Spooner was disappointing yesterday against the White Sox. In his first appearance of the spring, the 24-year-old lefty stayed around only one inning. He gave up two runs and threw nothing but soft stuff.

The Brooks won't get a single by rookie Gino Cimoli. He came off Sandy Consuegra and scored Gil Hodges, who earlier smacked a three-run homer off rookie Bob Fischer.

Elsewhere, the Detroit Tigers battered Boston ace Frank Sullivan while whipping the Red Sox 6-3. Harvey Kuenn opened one of two three-run Tiger rallies with a single and prodded the other with a two-run single. Ted Williams, who had been out of the Red Sox lineup since March 13 with a groin injury, got a single in four trips.

Mickey McDermott, the hoped-for starter for the New York Yankees acquired from Washington, went a full nine innings for the first time this spring and set down the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 on six hits. The Yankees had lost five straight.

Herb Score of the Cleveland Indians breezed through five innings to beat Baltimore 5-3. He gave just one hit and upped his strikeouts to 13 for 17 innings.

New York's Giants thumped the Chicago Cubs 7-2 with Dusty Rhodes, Daryl Spencer and Gail Harris snacking homers in a five-run first inning.

Bob Friend became the first Pittsburgh pitcher to go nine innings, 4-0, in the Kansas City Athletics have just four hits for an 8-1 victory.

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven Kentucky Derby eligibles go on display today as New York's 1956 horse racing season opens on two fronts.

Mrs. Anson A. Bigelow's Nail, 1955 champion 2-year-old; C. V. Whitney's highly rated Head Man and the speedy Polly's Jet from John McShain's Barclay stable head a field of 10 2-year-olds in the 6 furlongs of the $20,000 Experimental, which has replaced the Paumonok as Jamaica's opening feature.

And then a few hours later, after the runners have been bedded down, the lights will be turned on at Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, N.Y. for the opening of the trotting and pacing season. A field of six, including three two-minute performers, tangle in the $7,500 Inaugural Pace.

Today's programs initiate 196-day seasons for both types of racing.

Nail is the top weight of the field in the Experimental with 125 pounds but Head Man is the probable favorite with 119 pounds in the saddle. The fact that Head Man's jockey is Eddie Arcaro isn't likely to hinder him either on the track or at the pari-mutuel betting windows.

Nail, known best for mud-running ability, won $289,930 in 1955. That was the second highest amount ever banked by a 2-year-

Mayer Is One Stroke Behind

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Mike Souchak has regained his putting touch—just in time for the Masters Golf—Tournament opening Thursday at Augusta, Ga.

The 210-pound, 28-year-old former Duke University football end putted his way to victory by a single stroke over Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., in a rousing finish to the $12,500 Azalea Open yesterday.

Mike came to the final green 3 under par. He had to sink a five-foot putt for a birdie and a 68 to match Mayer's closing round and stay one shot ahead.

Souchak, who plays out of Grossinger's, N.Y., stroked the ball and turned his back on it. The crowd's whoop told him what he said later he had known as soon as he hit the ball—it was in the hole.

Mike's 273 total was 15 under par for the 6,795-yard Cape Fear Country Club course and meant $2,220.

On the 14th he putted one in from 50 feet for an eagle 2 after a mighty drive reached to the fringe of the green on the 310-yard hole. He also dropped a 10-footer on the ninth for a birdie to keep ahead of Mayer as each turned in 33.

Mayer, won $1,500 second money. Gene Litterer, Palm Springs, Calif., leader through the first two rounds and in a three-way tie for the lead at the start of the last 18, had his poorest round, 71, to finish third at 276, good for $1,170.

Doug Ford, Mahopac, N.Y., was fourth with 277 for $980, ahead of George Bayer, Cincinnati, and Art Doering, Cedarhurst, N.Y., who tied at 278, each winning $790.

Bobcats Blanked Twice By Snyder

SNYDER (SC)—The Snyder Tigers added new misery to the woes of the San Angelo Bobcats by defeating the Concho City team in a doubleheader here Saturday, 8-5 and 3-1.

Snyder now boasts 9-4 won-loss record. San Angelo has won only twice in 12 starts.

Ronnie Baker pitched the win in the opening game, scattering eight hits.

Alan Sneed went to the mound in the nightcap and set the Cats down with four safeties.

First game: San Angelo - 400 000 1-5 8 3 Snyder 050 003 x-8 7 1 Peoples and Johnston; Baker and Fowler.

Second game: San Angelo - 001 000 0-1 4 5 Snyder 120 000 x-3 5 1 Stapp and Johnston; Sneed and McNew.

Seven Derby Eligibles Go On Display At Jamaica

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven Kentucky Derby eligibles go on display today as New York's 1956 horse racing season opens on two fronts.

Replaces Allen

Tech Freshmen Lose But Once

LUBBOCK (SC)—A well-balanced group of freshmen basketball players will move up to Texas Tech's varsity, judging from the season statistics of the Picadors.

All five starters, who helped compile a 13-1 mark, averaged in the double figures. Each of Gene Gibson's starters was a high-point man more than once during the season.

Behind Berger's Gerald Myers, who had 19.5 points per contest, were Wade Wolfe of Lubbock, 14.1; Leon Hill of Sudan, 13.4; Chuck Key of Lubbock, 12.9; and Charlie Lynch of Sudan, 12.1. Myers' best one-game mark was 37 against White Sands Proving Ground.

Best field goal percentage among the starters was the 51.8 mark of Wolfe, who hit 71 of 137 tries. Of the entire squad, Aledo's Don Apple was the best, connecting on 35 of 59 for 59.3 per cent.

Hill, 6 foot 6 center, had the best rebounding mark, 151 for an 11.6 average. His best was 20 against Odessa College.

Jayhawk Tracksters Will Go To Austin This Week

Coach George McAlister is making plans to take his Howard County Junior College track and field team to the Texas Relays at Austin next weekend.

McAlister was not disheartened over his team's showing in the recent American Business Relays, although the Hawks failed to win a first place.

The Hawks wound up with a total of 21 points to finish third in team standings, behind Tarleton and Ranger.

McAlister is still confident John Dale Curtis will come onto his own as a sprinter. John Dale was beaten in both the 220 and 440 last Friday but he's still carrying a few pounds of excess weight, which he's working to eliminate.

The Hawks will again be pitted against the crack senior college freshman teams at Austin but McAlister reasons the experience will be good for them.

On April 14, the local collegians will compete in a dual meet with Odessa Junior College here.

Conley Is Key To Brave Bid

By JOE REICHLER

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP)—Pennants, as a rule, aren't lost in March, but that's exactly what may have happened in the case of the Milwaukee Braves when Gene Conley, their ace righthander, suffered a recurrence of his chronic back and shoulder miseries.

Although slightly encouraged by the latest medical report on the ailing shoulder of the 6-8 pitcher, which showed "definite improvement," nobody in the Braves' camp knows for sure when Conley will be able to pitch again, if at all. He was left in Bradenton when the Braves broke camp the other day.

Milwaukee must have a sound Conley if it is to make up the 13½ games that separated it from the pennant-winning Brooklyn Dodgers last year. If Conley can't take his regular turn and contribute the 15-20 victories expected of him, the Braves will be lucky to do as well as last year when they finished second.

Manager Charlie Grimm, a sincere and forthright person who doesn't try to sell you a bill of goods, put his finger on the Braves' situation the day before the Conley injury hit the camp like a ton of bricks.

"We've never had a full team since we've moved to Milwaukee," the Braves' pilot continued. "Injuries to key men killed us. If we can only stay solid this year, we can go all the way."

Even if Conley is available all year, Grimm realizes he is not out of the woods by any means. "Our problem is left field, second base and the bullpen," he said. "Not only must we get something out of Conley but Bobby Thomson has to come through and we've got to clear up the second base situation."

"We simply have to get more hitting from O'Connell. He does the job all right definitely, but we can't afford to carry his .225 batting average."

"Last year we had no bullpen at all. Dave Jolly did a good job for us in 1954. Last year he couldn't get anybody out. In the bullpen now we'll have Jolly, Ernie Johnson, Red Murf and Lou Slesler. It looks good right now."

Grimm has no worries at all about third base and shortstop where Ed Mathews and Johnny Logan may be the best at their positions. It's his theory that Joe Adcock will be the first baseman

'New Look' Taken At Farm Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is taking a new look at the legal authority it already has, seeking means to strengthen its farm program this election year in the event no new farm law is enacted.

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said the department "obviously is taking a new look at the whole farm program to determine what more might be done to help improve the farm situation."

No decisions on possible new actions have yet been made, he said, but he indicated officials are weighing carefully steps that might be taken to hold down production of livestock feed grains already in surplus.

The administration has been pinning its hopes for improving economic conditions in agriculture on a proposed $1,200,000,000 soil bank program. Payments would be made to farmers for taking land out of production of crops already in surplus.

Agriculture Department officials said the possibility of a soil bank program "helping farmers this year now appears 'very slim.'"

They based this appraisal both on the possibility that President Eisenhower may veto the pending farm bill and on the shortness of time for putting a soil bank plan into effect this year.

The bill as it now stands provides for the soil bank, but also would restore higher, rigid price supports and other features strongly opposed by the administration. Secretary Benson has predicted a bill with the high supports would be vetoed.

The bill is now being redrafted by a Senate-House conference committee, which will resume its work tomorrow. Both House and Senate must vote on the committee's compromise recommendations after Congress reconvenes April 9.

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the House conferees, said at his Nashville, N.C., home he expects a Republican move to fix parity supports on basic crops at 87 1/2 per cent of parity instead of the 90 per cent provided in the farm bill. Parity is a price determined under farm law to be fair to the farmer in relation to his costs.

Cooley reported "a clear indication that a compromise would be offered," but he predicted the House would reject it. The House voted 206-201 last year to abandon the administration's flexible support program and return to the 90 per cent level.

Republicans and Democrats, meantime, accused each other of stalling on the new farm bill. The Republican National Committee said in a publication for party workers that "farmers will be denied the full benefits" of the soil bank this year "thanks to a deliberate slowdown by Democrats in Congress led by Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota."

Humphrey replied in a statement that the administration already has ample authority to put the soil bank program into effect, and needed only to ask Congress for money to finance it. He said the administration asked for a new soil bank law in order to stage "a show for political effect of 'doing something new' for farmers."

Benson has disputed the contention that he already has authority to set up a soil bank. In a letter to Cooley last week, he declared that "if Congress had provided the authority, this soil bank would be in operation right now."

Department officials are known to be surveying other possibilities if no new law is enacted this year.

The economic as well as political need of the moment is to get more money into farmers' pockets. The administration could accomplish this by raising price support levels for crops and still stay within the scope of the flexible price support system.

Rain Would Help Oat, Grain Crops

DALLAS (AP)—District farm agent R. G. Burwell of Stephenville says if rain comes to Central Texas within 10 days, farmers likely will make a good crop of oats and small grains.

The surface soil moisture from last winter's show and ice is about gone. High dry winds have added to the dryness and there is no sub-soil moisture, Burwell said.

MEN IN SERVICE

William Robert Moss, brother of Harold E. Moss, 631 Caylor Drive, has enlisted in the United States Navy at the Big Spring Navy Recruiting station in the basement of the U. S. post office.

Moss is a graduate of Boerne high school. He had lived in Boerne most of his life, coming to Big Spring recently to make his home with his brother.

He had been working at the Pro-

Con Construction Company project at the Cosden plant before enlisting in the Navy.

He has been transferred to Naval Training Center at San Diego, Calif. He will undergo nine weeks training at the center. Since Moss is a graduate of high school he will be permitted to choose the school that he desires when he has finished basic training.

He has said he proposes to enroll in the Navy's Engineman School where he will learn to operate and maintain gasoline and diesel engines of all sizes.

Moss will receive a 14-day leave when he completes recruit training.

South Wind Warms U.S.

By The Associated Press
Southerly winds brought warmer weather over the eastern portion of the nation today after much of the country experienced a sunny but chilly Easter.

The mercury rose an average of 10 to 5 degrees in the Southeast and as much as 20 to 30 degrees in the Ohio Valley and in the central portions of the Mississippi Valley.

While the warming trend pushed into the East, cooler temperatures prevailed over the area from Montana southward through Wyoming, Utah, western Colorado and Arizona.

The greatest overnight temperature slide occurred in Arizona, where falls of 20 degrees were common.

Leaders Push For More Negro Votes

By The Associated Press
Negro leaders urged steps be taken to increase voting registration among their race and called for prompt congressional action on civil rights legislation as a means of lessening Southern resistance to racial integration yesterday.

Rep. Diggs (D-Mich) told a membership rally of the National Assn for the Advancement of Colored People at Montgomery, Ala., that Negro registration should be stepped up "so that when our children go to bed at night they can dream realistically that someone like the Rev. King can be a congressman from the state of Alabama."

Diggs referred to the Rev. M.L. King, Negro Baptist minister, who recently was convicted of violating Alabama's antiboycott law in connection with the prolonged Montgomery bus boycott. King has appealed a $500 fine.

The Negro congressman warned that the boycott method of protest should not be used "indiscriminately" unless "a carefully drawn set of circumstances makes this a reasonable method of retaliation."

He was the featured speaker at a rally at which NAACP officials reported they had signed up 1,300 new members. The NAACP said Saturday that there were fewer than 1,000 members in the city.

At Washington, Clarence Mitchell, director of the NAACP's Washington office, said much Southern resistance to racial integration "will disappear" if Congress acts promptly on civil rights legislation. He declared that "basic civil rights bills" have cleared Senate and House judiciary subcommittees and can be enacted this year if leaders of both parties "really get behind" them.

Mitchell said, "It should be obvious to everyone that . . . something is wrong with the election system" when "officials in states like Mississippi, where half the population is colored, offer the greatest resistance to integration."

He expressed his views in a statement commenting on President Eisenhower's latest call for a bipartisan commission to investigate race relations problems.

Eisenhower, in a letter to Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, Saturday called for "moderate and responsible" leadership to solve racial questions and said he may set up conferences on the subject should Congress fail to act.

Collins, who asked the President to call a conference of Southern governors and attorneys general for a review of race relations, said he appreciated "the President's willingness to be cooperative and helpful."

Other segregation developments over the weekend included:

A statement by the school board of Chattanooga, Tenn., that there will be no integration of white and Negro schools there for probably five years or more.

Thomas R. Waring, editor of the Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier, told a Cleveland, Ohio, City Club forum that the people of the North should "stop pressuring the South to mix the races in public schools." He said Negroes dissatisfied with life in the South should be admitted to new homes in the desegregated North.

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., a procession of some 100 men dressed in Ku Klux Klan regalia drove through Tuscaloosa and the University of Alabama campus Saturday night. Police Sgt. S. T. Shirley estimated the number involved and said the men wore white robes and hoods used by the KKK but their faces were uncovered. No trouble was reported. The university campus was the scene of mob rioting over the enrollment of Negro Autherine Lucy, who later was expelled.
