Accident Hungry Vehicle

For the second time in less than 10 days, this 1953 Ford truck owned by Clyde Yarbrough, contractor of Odessa, has been involved in a mishap. And for the second time, it was the lone vehicle involved. Thursday, the truck rolled free from where it was parked and rolled into a residence at 422 Ryan, owned by D. O. Stevenson. On May 15, the truck overturned with a water tank at the corner of Manor Lane and Westover less than a block away.

Ray Nichols Renamed Methodist Lay Leader

Ray H. Nichols, Vernon, a leading figure in national councils of Methodist lay activities, was renamed Northwest Texas a Conference lay leader here Friday.

The selection of the conference and district lay leaders for the year highlighted the morning session of what is Laymen's Day on the 47th annual conference agenda. Gifts totalling $20,272, plus $1,819 in supplies, were reported for the Methodist Home at Waco.

In accepting the report of the board on world peace and social and economic relations, the conference went on record to "move with open mindedness in the direction of leveling racial barriers in the Methodist Church according to plans set forth in the General Conference." The conference also was urged to increase its prayers for peace and brotherhood and to support agencies, such as the UN, which might bring about a greater degree of international understanding.

Thursday afternoon Methodists tore into beverage alcohol business with the board of temperance calling for congressional action to curb radio, television and other interstate media advertising of liquor. Bishop Watts, the conference preacher, and Bishop W. C. Martin both turned their guns on the liquor traffic.

The all-college banquet was held Thursday evening and the laymen's breakfast Friday morning at the Settles. The annual tea honoring Mrs. W. C. Martin and the wives of district superintendents was set for 3 p.m. Friday at the home of Mrs. G. T. Hall, 704 Texas. At 7:30 p.m. Bishop Watts will bring his concluding sermon.

Ministers and laymen were to have separate sessions during the afternoon. Most of the ministerial agenda dealt with change in status. Friday evening executive committee of the Woman's Society for Christian Service was to be held. The Saturday schedule calls for Bishop Martin's final morning devotional at 8:30 a.m., final reports of boards and commissions during the morning; luncheons for the PK's (preachers' kids) at the Wayne Ground home, 802 W. 18th, and for ministers' wives at the First Methodist Church. The Methodist Youth Fellowship convenses at 2 p.m. and at 5 p.m. there will be a picnic on Scenic Mountain. Conference youth night at 8 p.m. will feature a drama, "Captains and the Kings," presented by Big Spring youth, with music by the McMurry Chanters.

By district, gifts to the Methodist Home were: Abilene $11,492; Amarillo $12,402; Big Spring $11,317; Brownfield $5,369; Childress, $5,825; Lubbock $11,477; Pampa $8,715; Plainview $9,792; Stamford $5,801.

R. B. Bryant and Dr. E. D. Landreth were named to three-year terms on the board of the home, and J. S. Bridwell and H. W. Meredith were named directors at large. District commissioners were: Abilene, Clyde Grant, D. D. Dennison; Amarillo, H. B. Fain, H. Thurston; Big Spring, Guy McBill; Clarence Collins; Brownfield, Maurice Bray; J. B. Stewart; Childress, Joe Anderson, Conrad Ryan; Lubbock, Garland Newson, John English; Pampa, Travis Lively Sr., A. B. Cockrell; Plainview, James M. Willson Jr., Alby Cockrell; Stamford, R. O. Henry, David Edens.

Dr. C. A. Bickley, Lubbock, who was recommended to continuation as conference leader for the Texas

Mission Home and Training School, reported that the conference had given $19,298 to a new building program nearing completion. J. E. Stewart and Mrs. A. N. Gamble were re-elected trustees.

Golden Cross contributions (for charity hospital cases) amounted to $16,265, an increase of 30 per cent. (In addition, the Methodist Hospital at Lubbock did $62,000 other charity work). Golden Cross goal for 1956-57 was set at $20,000. Wayne Cook, lauded for his work, was recommended again for chaplain.

Hospital board members named were Retha Martin, Joe Salem, Clarence Whiteside, Dr. Ralph Grant, J. O. Haymes, Preston Smith, Robert Maxie, G. P. Koy-

The President called Baylor "a great school of great traditions, of great achievements, of great goals."

He said it was dedicated to true education which "implies, over and beyond mere knowledge, understanding of men's relationship with their fellow men in a world created for their stewardship by a God in whose image they are all made."

"You have been taught here to do justice and to love mercy and to walk humbly before your maker," the President said in remarks addressed specifically to the graduation class.

The hood was placed on the President's shoulders by two Baylor vice presidents, Dr. W. T. Gooch and Dr. R. J. McKnight.

It was draped so its lining of the green and gold colors of the university made a brilliant splash upon the dark background of academic robes on the rostrum.

While the possible political implications of the President's visit and the import of his foreign policy speech received great attention to Baylor University it was basically a solemn academic occasion.

Eisenhower is the third president or former president to be awarded an honorary degree by Baylor, an institution controlled by the Baptist General Convention of Texas and founded in 1845.

In 1920, on Baylor's Diamond Jubilee, William Howard Taft was awarded the degree in absentia.

In 1947, President Harry Truman was similarly honored.

Baylor had not originally planned to give the honorary degree to Eisenhower at this commencement.

He had been invited and declined to speak at a law building dedication last October. The invitation was left open and several weeks ago the university was notified the President would be receptive to a renewal of the invitation to speak.

The commencement program had already been arranged, but it was hastily revised to add this morning's special convocation.

Many university officials expressed deep disappointment that the last-minute revision of Eisenhower's plans — which they said stemmed from Washington — eliminated a visit to the campus. But there was no official reaction from the university to the change in plans.

LAMESA — Old timers of Dawson County will be honored at their annual reunion in Pioneer Park Saturday.

The program includes a luncheon, speeches, several awards, music and other entertainment. A brief business session will be held between the luncheon and the other activities.

Henry Norris, president of the old timers' association, will introduce the "King of the Pioneers," who has been selected by a committee of early settlers in the county. He will be crowned by Mrs. Gus Ragsdale.

Ike Urges Educational Help To Free Nations

Baylor Makes Ike Honorary Doctor Of Laws

WACO (AP) — Historic Baylor University made President Eisenhower an honorary doctor of laws today in a ceremony hailing him as "the leader of the forces of freedom" in war and peace.

He was so cited by Dr. W. R. White, president of Texas' oldest Baptist institution of higher learning, as Eisenhower received the diploma and the purple-edged black hood symbolic of the degree.

The President wore his own cap and gown. The latter liberally marked with insignia of his earlier academic and honorary degrees.

Eisenhower was presented for the degree by Dr. W. W. Melton, pastor of the Columbus Ave. Baptist Church and president of the Baylor trustees.

The President called Baylor "a great school of great traditions, of great achievements, of great goals."

He said it was dedicated to true education which "implies, over and beyond mere knowledge, understanding of men's relationship with their fellow men in a world created for their stewardship by a God in whose image they are all made."

"You have been taught here to do justice and to love mercy and to walk humbly before your maker," the President said in remarks addressed specifically to the graduation class.

Capital Awaits Red Visit Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official Washington cocked an eye on the postman today to see if he would bring an invitation to the Joint Chiefs of Staff to visit Moscow.

In what appeared on the surface to be a hint for such an invitation, the White House and the Pentagon said yesterday none had been received but if one was forthcoming without too many restrictions, the nation's top military men probably would accept.

That left the next move up to the Russians, who had suggested they would welcome two or three Air Force officers to Aviation Day ceremonies in Moscow June 24.

There was no official word, however, that they had in mind the top uniformed officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, the Joint Chiefs chairman.

The most complete version of what has taken place came from the usually close-mouthed Soviet Embassy here.

It said that on Monday a Russian colonel attached to the embassy asked a U.S. Air Force colonel to convey to Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, an invitation to send several high American Air Force officers to the Aviation Day celebration.

Late Tuesday, it was learned, Twining reported this invitation to Radford, who saw President Eisenhower and presumably mentioned it.

Somewhere along the line a decision was made to say enough publicly to encourage the Russians to extend a welcome to the Joint Chiefs.

Reaction on Capitol Hill was generally favorable while somewhat skeptical toward the Russian overture. Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee said: "I do not trust the Russians but I see no harm in accepting their invitations for legitimate interchange."

He added that "some good could come from intermingling and a fair exchange of information."

Senate Passes Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-passed bill to authorize 135,000 new public housing units a year headed today toward the House, which has voted for the last three years to knock out all such authority.

The House has not yet acted this year on the recurring controversy. Housing legislation still is pending in the House Banking Committee. President Eisenhower asked a two-year program limited to 35,000 units a year.

The Senate's much larger figure was included in an omnibus housing bill passed by voice vote last night. Among other things, the bill for the first time would establish a federal program of providing homes for elderly persons.

It also would increase Federal Housing Administration loan insurance authority by three billion dollars, extend the GI home loan program for one year, continue provisions for military, farm and college housing, and provide an other 100 million dollars for slum clearance grants.

Automobile Show Set For Saturday

The Aces Auto Club will stage its first "Motorama" Saturday afternoon and evening in Steer Park.

Primarily an automobile show, the Motorama also will include exhibits of motorcycles, house trailers, tires, and possibly a two-decker Greyhound bus.

Several dozen automobiles are to be on display in classes for hot rods, sports cars, custom-built vehicles, stock cars and relics.

Aid Of American Colleges Needed

WACO (AP) — President Eisenhower, terming Communism essentially "a gigantic failure," urged America's great universities today to help provide needy free nations with modern science education centers in a "dynamic" move to promote world peace.

The President also sounded a strong new appeal for a European union. He declared it "seems nearer today than at any time in centuries" and would amount to "a mighty pillar of free strength in the modern world."

"A free United States of Europe would be strong in the skills of its people, adequately endowed with material resources, and rich in their common cultural and artistic heritage. It would be a highly prosperous community."

In a major foreign policy address at Baylor University commencement exercises, Eisenhower hammered at the idea of need for free world cooperation in the struggle against communism — and at the idea of need for the United States to play a leading role in providing help.

In what seemed to be a plea for enactment by Congress of the administration's $4,908,000,000 foreign aid program, the President spoke out against being "penny wise" in this field, saying it could lead "only to greater risk and greater cost."

The House Foreign Affairs Committee voted earlier this week to trim the program by more than one billion dollars, mainly in military assistance.

Speaking in his native state, the President said in a nationally televised address (CBS): "Today a militant, aggressive communistic doctrine is dominant over much of the world's surface and over hundreds of millions of the world's people."

He called communism "cruel, intolerant, atheistic, committed to conquest by lure, intimidation and force," and added it "poses a threat from which even this mighty nation is not immune."

But even so, Eisenhower said, "communism is, in the deepest sense, a gigantic failure."

Even in the countries it dominates, he said "hundreds of millions who dwell there still cling to their religious faith; still are moved by aspirations for justice and freedom that cannot be answered merely by more steel and bigger bombers; x x x still dream of the day that they walk fearlessly in the fullness of human freedom."

The President flew here from Washington for his address and to accept his 38th honorary degree, a Doctorate of Laws.

Eisenhower's proposal that American universities set up science-education centers in needy free nations was set forth in the broadest of general terms. He said nothing about any U.S. Government role in such a program and left the impression it would be a private enterprise venture.

In leading up to his proposal the President called for cooperation among the free nations in fostering mutual trade, advancing "legitimate political and economic aspirations," respect for cultural traditions, and help for the weaker nations from the strong.

Then he outlined his education proposal in this way: "The ways in which progress along these four roads can be achieved are legion in number. The first x x x is the need for the growth and spread of understanding among our own people. The next is that peoples of other nations must, through similar study and thought, recognize with us the need for this kind of cooperation. This, in itself, is not easy. "Many nations, though their cultures are ancient and rich in human values, do not possess the resources to spread the needed education throughout their populations. But they can wisely use help that respects their traditions and ways. "For example, the whole free world would be stronger if there existed adequate institutions of modern techniques and sciences in areas of the world where the hunger for knowledge and the ability to use knowledge are unsatisfied because educational facilities are often not equal of the existing need. "Do we find here a worthy challenge to America's universities and to their graduates? I firmly believe that if some or all of our great universities, strongly supported by private foundations that exist in number throughout our land, sparked by the zeal and fire of educated Americans would devote themselves to this task, the prospects for a peaceful and prosperous world would be mightily enhanced. "In no respect should the purpose of these institutions be to transplant into a new area the attitudes, the forms, the procedures of America. The staffing, the conduct, the curriculum of each school would be the responsibility of the people where the school might be built. "Each school would help each nation develop its human and natural resources, and also provide a great two-way avenue of communication. We would gain new knowledge and wisdom out of the priceless values of other peoples' traditions and proud heritage. They would gain knowledge in the technical and scientific fields where we have had an earlier start. "Summing up the proposal he set forth, Eisenhower said: "Such a voluntary effort in people-to-people partnership would be a dynamic, a fruitful corollary to three elements already effectively at work in our governmental foreign policy. "Dealing with the world situation generally in relation to the Communist menace, Eisenhower said: "Security cannot be achieved by arms alone, no matter how destructive the weapons or how large their accumulation. "So today it is vitally important that we and others detect and pursue the ways in which cultural and economic assistance will mean more to free world strength, stability and solidarity than will purely military measures. "Stressing a need for cooperation among the free nations in the struggle against communism, Eisenhower picked Western Europe as an example. He said the statesmen of that area "have long been aware that only in broad and effective cooperation x x x can true security for all be found. "The President said "much progress has been made" toward European unity despite continuing obstacles. One phase of the progress, he said, is reflected in the recent decision of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to have a committee of foreign ministers study "ways and means to improve and extend cooperation in non-military fields and to develop greater unity within the Atlantic community. "In that connection, Eisenhower noted that Sen. George (D-Ga.), planning retirement from the Senate, has agreed to be his personal representative and special ambassador in the NATO setup. "The President called that decision by George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, gratifying.

THROUGH CHANNELS

Army Is Pushing For Air Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is pressing—this time through channels—for more air power of its own.

It says it needs new planes to track missiles on which it is working, and others to transport troops and cargo. The Army arguments, set forth in the form of a "fact sheet," said nothing about another frequent Army demand—for control of airborne operations and close air support for front-line troops.

Unlike some other proposed policy papers leaked to reporters recently in a renewal of interservice feuding, the fact sheet was sent through official channels to the Army Chief of Staff and distributed by the Defense Department. The New York Herald Tribune, in a Washington dispatch today by Rowland Evans Jr., reported "a hitherto secret staff paper written for a Hoover Commission task force was disclosed. To raise the most serious questions about the operation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

The paper was submitted late in June 1955, the newspaper said, by four experts to the Hoover Commission task force on military procurement. Portions of the study were included in the task force's own report to the Hoover Commission, the newspaper said, and it also contained "a wealth of new material which never has been publicized," including:

"1. Service plans for new weapons systems and procurement are prepared largely on a 'single service' basis."

"2. The present system 'promotes a partisan service view rather than a broad national view on vital questions of missions and force levels.'"

"3. The Joint Chiefs are 'overburdened' by duties which should be carried out elsewhere and there is no adequate system for defining requirements realistically to support future integrated forces."

In Washington last night, a Hoover Commission spokesman said there were "no secret papers."

The Army's "fact sheet" seeking more airpower said that during both training and combat some types of aviation must be "under the unconditional command" of the field Army commander.

The paper said that during both training and combat, some types of aviation must be "under the unconditional command" of the field Army commander. Its aviators need a basic understanding of all phases of ground warfare, the paper added, and "the Army's interest must be their interest, undivided by other allegiances."

Acceptance of the Army's arguments would require a revision of a formal agreement between the two services, signed Nov. 19, 1952. That agreement specifically limits the Army to operation of aircraft weighing not more than 5,000 pounds and normally operating in a combat zone 50 to 100 miles deep.

Safety Council Refuses Award

CHICAGO (AP)—For the first time in many years, the National Safety Council today declined to present any state or city its grand award for all-around traffic safety performance in 1955.

A worsening traffic safety situation throughout the United States was given by the council as its reason for withholding its award of honor, the council's top recognition for safety performance. Only one state—Minnesota—and four cities—Dallas, Seattle, Oklahoma City and Palo Alto, Calif.—were granted awards of merit for achieving a grade of 70 per cent or more in all sections of the traffic safety award program. The program formerly was known as the National Traffic Safety Contest.

In addition, the council awarded certificates of achievement to 24 additional states and 396 other cities for activities in various phases of traffic accident prevention, although their total grades were insufficient to win major awards.

The award-winning cities included 125 which had no traffic deaths during 1955. In addition, 667 cities in the under-10,000 population group, not eligible for the award program, were cited on a special honor roll for having no traffic deaths.

Judge Rules Reds Must Pay Taxes

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge has ruled that the U.S. Communist party and its Daily Worker can't escape paying taxes on the ground that the payment would put them out of business. "No entity has a right to restrain the collection of taxes... on the mere ground that continuance of such entity is threatened," Judge Richard H. Levet declared yesterday.

The ruling cleared the way for the Internal Revenue Service to collect tax assessments from the party and its newspaper. Levet denied motions by counsel for the party and newspaper for an order to restrain Donald C. Moysey, district revenue director for Lower Manhattan, from collecting further money to satisfy the tax judgments.

The judge said: "There is no inherent right in any organization to avoid payment of taxes solely by reason of the fact that it may be engaged in publicity efforts which will perforce cease if it neglects or refuses to pay its taxes. 'A newspaper is subject to the same general laws of the United States as is any other industry conducted for profit. The fact that the Daily Worker may be forced to discontinue publication is a hardship which is no reason for this court's equitable intervention."

The judge said he found no violation of due process or invasion of the freedom of the press in the tax case. The Communist party, contending that other political organizations are not taxed, charged it was being denied "equal protection under the law."

To this contention the judge answered: "No facts are shown in any of the (legal) papers submitted here that other political parties have a like organization, like financial records and like sources of income." The Treasury Department last March assessed the Communist party $386,265 and the Daily Worker $46,047 in back taxes. Levet ruled that his court had no power to review the assessments. Brief seizures of party and Daily Worker properties followed the levying of the assessments. Publication of the Daily Worker was not interrupted.

Same Old Gracie

Between her act at the Statler Hotel and rehearsals for a TV show, Gracie Fields chats about her show business success for almost 50 years in today's Hollywood Beauty.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Gracie Fields Makes Success Of Sincerity

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Gracie Fields holds an enviable position in show business. This Lancashire lass has been singing for nearly half a century. She was so beloved by the public she became the highest paid entertainer in the world receiving $19,000 a week for her ballads, comic songs and inimitable jokes. There were better voices than hers, many were more beautiful. What was the secret of her success? I wanted to know this when I called on Miss Fields at the Statler Hotel here, where she was entertaining. Although she was rehearsing Barrie's "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" an hour TV show scheduled for May 23 on CBS, she took time to talk to me. I found her wearing a simple but well cut blue suit, small hat and no make-up with the exception of lipstick. "I admire frilly clothes on others but my motto has always been 'neat but not fancy.' I don't have patience for shopping. When I am forced to shop and see something I like, I buy several of it. I may seem to be wearing the same clothes," Gracie grinned, "but really I'm not. Coming to the point I asked, 'What secret lies behind your great success?' 'I love people. They interest me and I want to give them more than they pay for. I keep trying to do better. I am never satisfied,' Gracie confided. 'You get back what you give out. I have always tried to be myself. Lack of sincerity shows. When I had my first West End success (the Broadway of London) Sir Gerald du Maurier said, 'Now that you are no longer in the music halls why don't you do something about that Lancashire accent?' 'Why should I change?' I asked him. 'I have no big education and putting on airs makes a person look ridiculous.' Gracie's skin is unlined, clear and amazingly beautiful. 'How can you spend so much time on the sunny island of Capri and keep such a lovely complexion?' I asked. Miss Fields has had a beautiful home there for many years. 'I've always been careful to remove my make-up. I use a good cleansing cream and then scrub with soap and soft water. When I lie in the sun I put olive oil on my face. In Capri we use lots of olive oil and rain water. Everyone has receptacles for catching the rain. It is wonderful for the face because it is soft water with no minerals in it,' she concluded.

Mrs. Apple Speaker For Altrusans

Members of the Altrusa Club heard Mrs. J. B. Apple speak on "The Shining Quality Of Age" at their luncheon meeting Thursday. They met at the Statler Hotel. Mrs. Apple told her listeners that age is a state of mind quite often, and she cited instances of women's beauty increasing with the years. Mrs. Ruby Billings reported that the district convention of Altrusa Clubs will be held in Mexico City in October. The announcement was made by Mrs. Willard Sullivan that some work is being done on the city cemetery, and that more will probably be planned. Mrs. Obie Bristow was introduced as a new member of the club. She gave an impromptu report on the Regional Conference on Safety which she attended in Miami, Fla., recently. Mrs. Bristow expressed pride in the fact that Big Spring has formed a Citizens' Traffic Commission, such as officials recommend for all towns and cities. She told members that there is need for a change in the thinking of the American public along traffic lines. Twenty-four attended the meeting.

Sorority Plans Final Session

Miss Bowen also reported on the City Federation meeting for which she is sorority representative. Mrs. John Nobles and Mrs. Glenn Addy will be hostesses for the meeting June 14, which is to be a business and social affair. Secret sisters will be revealed at this time and the new corps of officers will be in charge. There will be no summer meetings other than called ones. Fourteen members answered roll call. Mrs. Fred Stitzell has returned to her home in Denison after spending a week in the home of her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Stitzell.

TV Announcing Is Man's World; Aren't We Glad!

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK — Did it ever strike you as curious that, among hundreds of television announcers and newscasters, so few are women? Certainly there are many women swabbing themselves with lipsticks and unguents, and swabbing their floors with polishes and mops, and there are women like Wendy Barrie and Betty Furness who are expert promoters of certain specialized products with appeal to women viewers. But for the most part, salesmanship on television is left to men. In fact you often come across a man making an effective pitch for a strictly-for-women product. There's Arthur Godfrey, for example, who wanders through the feminine world of cake mixes and home permanents, and, less fortunately, Red Barber sitting beside a can of shortening bravely exhorting the little woman to race out and buy some. The predominant use of the male for sales promotion is no accident but a result of considerable discussion through the years. While many advertising men will confess they don't understand women, including their wives, a number of them have been telling me why TV salesmanship remains primarily a man's world. It's because women want it that way, the boys insist. "Women," explains one important agency vice president, "don't like to have other women lecture to them." "Women feel that men are the experts," says another agency executive. "When they hear a man's voice approving a product — whether it's the way a woman looks after using it or its quality — they have a tendency to believe him." "Men's voices are better," declares a third. "They carry more authority. They sustain better, and don't weaken as they go along." "Ever heard of that old thing called sex?" inquires a fourth. There still are other reasons, apparently, why men are more popular as television salesmen and they don't come under the heading of theory. One is the shortage of convincing saleswomen. "There just isn't enough good talent," was one down-to-earth (female) explanation.

Kidney Transplant

Twin sisters from Oklahoma at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, Mass., are shown together just before a daring operation, the first ever performed on women there, in which Mrs. Wanda Foster (standing) of Chandler gave a healthy kidney to her ailing twin, Mrs. Edith Helm, in chair, of Sand Springs. Doctors said the 21-year-old twins faced the risky operation designed to save the life of Mrs. Helm with "courage."

AIDS SISTER
2 Twins Survive
Kidney Transplant

BOSTON (AP) — Identical 21-year-old twin sisters who underwent a kidney transplant operation at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital were reported in "very good condition" today.

In the first such operation involving women, Mrs. Wanda Foster of Chandler, Okla., donated one of her healthy kidneys to her ailing sister Mrs. Edith Helm of Sand Springs, Okla. The operation yesterday took 4½ hours.

The right kidney was removed from Mrs. Foster and transplanted to a spot below Mrs. Helm's own left kidney. Temporarily, Mrs. Helm will have three kidneys, the ailing ones to be removed later.

Mrs. Helm, pronounced incurably ill of glomerulonephritis (inflammation of the kidneys) came to Boston in April with her sister to undergo extensive preoperative tests to determine whether they actually were identical twins.

Doctors say that in the present status of transplant surgery, a transplanted organ can live only in an identical twin; it cannot survive in "alien" flesh.

The operation on the women, both of whom weigh less than 100 pounds, was performed by the same surgical team that twice before performed the same operation on twin men.

Dr. John P. Merrill, director of the hospital's kidney research laboratory, and Doctors Warren Guild, J. Hartwell Harrison, Joseph E. Murray, David Hume and Leroy Vandam were assisted by other members of the kidney research team.

Doctors had explained to the twins and their families the element of calculated risk in such serious surgery. The doctors said the twins accepted "with courage and optimism" the possibility of thus saving Mrs. Helm's life.

Bluebloods Egg
Guests To Dive
Into Thames

LONDON (AP) — River police hovered anxiously around today as champagne-inspired young British bluebloods climaxed a debutante party by egging two guests to dive fully clothed into the Thames.

The fun-loving Duke of Kent, 20-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, was one of the 300 revelers aboard the 190-foot motorship Royal Princess. But he didn't take part in the swimming.

The party off the picturesque Chelsea section of London celebrated the social coming out of Felicity and Penelope Drew, 18-year-old twins who were presented to the Queen in March.

Young Kent—son of the Duchess of Kent—attended with a pretty blonde whom newsmen could not identify.

Midway through the celebration somebody cast off the mooring lines and the boat began to drift. Skipper Herbert Whincup hurried to the bridge, started the engines and brought his craft back to dock.

More champagne corks popped, then one guest shouted, "How about a swim?"

A friend offered to bet him 5 pounds ($14) he wouldn't jump in. The guest took the bet, popped his bowler hat on his head and leaped off the bow end, yelling, "The river is mine."

A lifebelt was tossed to him and he was retrieved, still wearing his bowler.

A second guest then offered to jump in for 10 pounds.

Amused at this inflationary trend, some of the other stags tossed him into the Thames.

He was rescued by a passing vessel manned by British Sea Scouts. They ceremoniously piped him back aboard the Royal Princess amid cheers.

At this point a police patrol boat arrived to investigate and Whincup said it might be a good idea if they stood by.

"I didn't want things to get too much out of hand," he told a reporter later.

Wealthy Mrs. H. M. Drew, mother of the twins, commented: "Everybody seemed to have had a splendid time. I had no idea two men had jumped in the river until we were saying goodbye. Then when I shook hands, I noticed they were terribly wet."

Students Pay For Panty Raid Damage

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Male students at the University of California are being assessed $3.00 and $3.50 to repair the $10,000 worth of damage done in a riotous panty raid on sorority houses May 16.

The Faculty Committee on Student Conduct levied the $3.50 assessment on fraternity members, $3 on dormitory residents.

"The committee regards the panty raid as a grave offense," it said.

Raymond Kellner, 23-year-old junior from Fresno, Calif., the only student arrested, was fined $20 in Police Court on a battery charge.

Tax Agents Pull Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — A second series of revenue service raids on alleged slot machine and bookie joints in six states left at least 14 persons facing criminal charges today. More arrests are expected.

Sixteen establishments were raided yesterday by the government agents following up leads from a similar effort April 19. Eighteen persons were arrested at that time.

The agents, directed from Washington, operated without the knowledge of local authorities as they hit social clubs, restaurants, a fish market and a number of private homes.

Those arrested were charged with violating the federal wagering law of 1951, which among other things requires a $50 occupational stamp for gamblers and imposes a 10-per-cent tax on wagers.

Some of the raiders found nothing, but other confiscated slot machines, scratch sheets and other equipment used allegedly for horse track and baseball betting.

Four persons each were arrested in a Bridgeport, Conn., fish market and a private home in New Haven, Conn. Three others were arrested in Newport, Ky., where agents reported finding 25 slot machines. Two Nashville, Tenn., men and one in Cleveland also were arrested. In Cleveland, agents reported seizing six telephones, bookie equipment and race scratch sheets.

Four private homes and a waterfront cafe in Arabi, La., a New Orleans suburb, were among the places raided with no arrests. One raid was staged also in the California border town of Dulzura.

No Broken Bones Sets A Record

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Three-year-old Michael Tener hasn't had a broken bone in 55 days now. It's a record for Mike.

"Both of his arms and both of his legs were broken at birth," Mrs. Loyd Tener explains. "Since then we couldn't begin to guess how many fractures he's had."

He was in a cast seven weeks after his most recent misfortune.

Mike's case of brittle bones is uncommon because the disorder usually doesn't show up until a child reaches 3 or 4. His parents were advised he probably would not live.

Dr. R. Palmer Howard of the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation explained the condition is due to some kind of a failure in the body's process of making protein.

"We hope to slow down Mike's fractures and get him up old enough where nature will sort of take care of this thing," Dr. Howard said. "If a child gets up to 14 or so he usually gets by."

Mickey Mantle Wants Only To Play In All 154 Games

DETROIT (AP)—Mickey Mantle leads the American League in almost every hitting department, but he says what impresses him most is that he has played in every game.

"I don't set any goals as far as hitting goes," said the New York Yankee center fielder. "But just once in my life, I'd like to be able to play in every game of the season. Then maybe I could do some of these other things people are always talking about."

Not since Mickey came to the major leagues in 1951 as a 19-year-old sensation has he played in more than 147 games a season. And in many cases, his appearance was nothing more than a pinch-hitter.

"These things that other people talk about include breaking Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs, and winning the triple crown — batting, runs-batted-in and home runs. The free-swinging kid from Commerce, Okla., elects to leave that kind of talk to others."

Chant In West Is 'Yankee, Go Home!'

About the only printable thing Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City and Detroit — the American League's Western Division — can say about New York today is "Yankee go home!"

After 10 days in the West, the Yankees have pocketed an 8-2 record, including a three-game sweep that shattered Chicago's ambitious six-game winning streak.

It was strictly a get-well-quick trip for the Yanks, who left home May 13 with only one game edge over Cleveland after losing four of six. Now the Yanks have a three-game bulge over the Indians.

Yesterday the Yankees clubbed Detroit 11-4 to wrap up the tour. It was the second straight day they socked Tiger pitching for 17 hits. Mantle had a homer—putting him 12 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record pace—and four singles for his third perfect day of the tour.

The only other game scheduled was in the National, and Philadelphia dropped Brooklyn into a fourth-place tie. Joe Collins and Willie Jones drove in four runs with two homers and a single.

New York's picnic at Detroit was a pretty fair example of how the Yanks have operated in the West. Bob Turley didn't go the distance, but Tom Sturdivant produced 5 1/3 scoreless relief innings with one-hit ball.

Robbin Roberts won his fifth of the Philis, although giving up homers by Duke Snider, Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson. The veteran right-hander — who holds the one-season record of "home runs off" at 41 — now has given up 12 gofers, all this season.

Stewart, Three Others After Jumping Record

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Four fellows who like altitude make a concentrated assault tomorrow on the 7-foot high jump, a feat yet unattained in a decade that has seen the 4-minute mile and the 60-foot shot put.

Russell had decided to skip this meet and jump only once more before leaving with the U.S.A.F. basketball forces for a South American trip. His success at Fresno when he went the highest of his career, and tied Dumas has apparently changed his mind.

BIG CATS CAUGHT Bass And Crappie Biting At Thomas

Fishermen were reporting good luck at Lake J. B. Thomas and Colorado City during the past week. Catching the most biting at Lake Thomas and Colorado City were striking fairly well at Lake Colorado City.

There were reports of varying fortune from other points, too. For instance, Truman Mason came up with a five-pound yellow cat at Moss Creek Lake 10 miles south of Big Spring, and he had a big bass to get away.

Hiram Reid reported that bass and crappie had started biting at mid-week at Lake Thomas as water cleared, but then another slight rise came in Thursday. Elevation of the lake was 2,253.38, which is about 4 1/2 feet below spillway level.

Clyde McMahon was in Thursday with reports of a seven-pound and a three-pound cat, along with several smaller ones, and two large bass taken near his cabin at Lake Thomas. Some of his associates had taken several similar sized ones Wednesday evening.

DON JANUARY LEADING IN DALLAS TOURNEY

DALLAS (AP)—Don January, a Texas freshman in professional golf, led the $30,000 Dallas Centennial Open into its second round today.

Another Texan, veteran Henry Ransom, who plays only a few tournaments a year, was close behind.

January put together a 6-under-par 64 yesterday. The field of 153 was decimated by three who fell out in the wake of a subpar onslaught that saw regulation figures over the light 6,216-yard Preston Hollow course slaughtered 33 times.

Ransom, the 45-year-old Bryan, Tex., rancher who still plays under the banner of St. Andrews, Ill., had a 65. Bunched at 66 were Mike Souckach, the big ex-Duke football star from Grossinger's, N.Y.; Mario Gonzalez, the National Open champion of Brazil; and hulking Bud Holscher, Apple Valley, Calif.

Few of the big names and heralded favorites could stand the pace. Souckach was the only fellow among those rated strongest for top money to offer a severe threat. Mighty Mike slammed the second nine in a blistering 5-under-par 30 in a grand effort to overtake January.

Ben Hogan, Fort Worth's favorite, ran into putting trouble and settled for a 1-over-par 71. The field will be cut to the low 90 professionals and ties plus 10 amateurs with today's round. There will be a further slash tomorrow when 30 pros are trimmed from the roster.

January never has won a major tournament. In fact, he has been playing as a professional only one year after a brilliant career as a college golfer at North Texas State. Ransom last won a tournament in 1955 when he took top money in the Rubber City Open at Akron, Ohio.

The Preston Hollow course is hazardous for those who don't drill their drives and iron shots straight — but experts wouldn't be surprised if it didn't yield at least a 62 before the tournament ends. January's 64 bettered the competitive course record by a stroke. The record was set last year by Bill Trombley of Dallas in a $5,000 pro-amateur.

The 26-year-old January, of Abilene, has finished in a tie for...

This thesis goes beyond the boundaries of a nation, he continued, for while "Russia is the business of Russians, and America the business of Americans, both Amer-

Young Urges Hike In Serviceman Pay

Sixty per cent of the young men who enlist in the Air Force are incapable of absorbing highly technical training and cannot acquire skill in the degree the Air Force requires for its complex operation, Col. Charles My Young, commander of Webb Air Force Base, told the Big Spring Kiwanians in an address Thursday noon.
Such men, he said, have to be employed by the Air Force in jobs that do not require specialized training.
This leaves, he pointed out, 40 per cent to actually carry on the main task of the Air Force. Young men of this group, he said, "are the cream of the crop."
The defense of the nation, to a large degree, is dependent on them and the abilities they have to do their job well.
Major problem of the Air Force — and the armed forces generally — is to find ways and means to induce young men of skill and ability to make a career of the service.

St. Mary's Church Schedules Two Special Programs

Two special events are scheduled for the congregation of St. Mary's Episcopal Church Sunday.
The first is an address by the district chairman of the presiding bishop's committee on Laymen's Work, A. T. Barrett Jr. of Midland. Barrett will address the congregation at both the 9:30 a.m. family service and the 11 a.m. morning worship.
Barrett was elected to his position at the recent annual convocation in Midland. He has long been associated with the Laymen's Work of the Episcopal church having represented the District of North Texas at regional and provincial meetings of the bishop's committee.
The second special event will feature the young people's choir under the direction of Sally Cowper. This group will sing a special service of evensong at 4 p.m. in the Chapel. Miss Cowper has had the group working on special hymns for this occasion during the spring, and the members of St. Mary's Auxiliary have recently completed new vestments for the group.
There will also be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a.m.

Coahoma Slates 'Clean-Up Week'

COAHOMA—Mayor W. C. Hutchins has proclaimed May 28-June 2 as "Clean-up week" in Coahoma. The work will be sponsored by the Coahoma Lion's Club and it will have trucks and men to pick up all trash and rubbish. All are asked to have the trash to be hauled off stacked in alleys. The trucks will start on Monday morning.
LAMESA — It has been another good week for Dawson County landowners.
In addition to good rains in the southern part of the county, another $25,000 has been received for oil and gas leases and mineral and royalty interests. Records at the county clerk's office show that about $860,000 has been paid to the landowners during 1956 in new oil pay.
County Clerk Walter Buckel said this morning that the filling of oil instruments has slowed down some, but is still far ahead of last year's pace.

2 Dawson Candidates Don't Pay Filing Fee

LAMESA — Only two candidates who had announced for office in Dawson County failed to pay the filing fee, said Ralph Kinsey, Democratic chairman.
J. W. Griffith did not post the fee for office of constable and Charles T. McReynolds did not pay fee for representative from 99th District.
Kinsey withdrew from race for county attorney prior to the deadline date.

Lamesa Garage Is Destroyed By Fire

No Strong-Arm Tactics Allowed On U.S. Aliens

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told Communist "come-back-home" campaigners that strong arm tactics will not be tolerated on refugees in this country.

A White House statement yesterday declared that "the right of asylum is one of the treasured traditions of free peoples," and it added:

"The United States is taking action against instances of improper and irregular pressure by officials of foreign governments seeking to influence persons who have sought asylum in this country."

"The United States has already taken steps which make clear its determination to extend the full protection of American laws to all aliens residing here."

The statement was issued shortly after the Senate Internal Security subcommittee demanded expulsion of Arkady Sobolev, Soviet chief delegate to the United Nations, and a top aide. It said Sobolev's staff used "coercion, force and duress" on five Russian seamen who suddenly flew back to Russia under heavy Soviet escort last April 7. They had been granted U.S. sanctuary.

The State Department took the subcommittee's demand under advisement. But officials said privately they saw little likelihood Sobolev would be expelled. Two of his lesser aides were kicked out soon after the April 7 incident.

Officials said the prime U.S. aim is to reassure any persons subjected to pressure that the force of the U.S. government is behind them if they want to resist.

Presbyterians Consider Merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The 168th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. today took under consideration a merger with the United Presbyterian Church, a major move in the Church's drive toward unity.

The merger originally was devised as a three-way plan, including the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., a southern states branch.

The issue of a precise stand on segregation and other matters intervened, however, and last year, the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. rejected the merger proposal. The other two then decided to go ahead with a two-way plan.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., convening here for seven days ending May 30, has 2,736,000 members. The United Presbyterian Church, with Presbyteries primarily in the state of Pennsylvania, has 235,000 members.

Proponents of the merger propose to call the combined church the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and therein lies the greatest hitch.

In such mergers, the principal opposition comes most often from the smallest party involved. In this case, the opposition, such as it seems to be, comes from the larger one on the grounds the name of the new church should not "play up" that of the lesser or smaller group.

There appears little doubt, however, that the merger will be approved by the General Assembly here, name change or no. There then would remain a vote of approval by the United Presbyterian Church General Assembly at Knoxville, Tenn., next June 13-18 and a vote of confidence by the majority of both group's presbyteries.

Today's session, the second of the seven-day meeting, will be the first under the gavel of the newly-elected moderator, David W. Proffitt.

Proffitt, a 64-year-old merchant-farmer from Maryville, Tenn., emerged yesterday as somewhat of a surprise winner in the three-way race for the church's most important post.

More and more, the moderator has become the spokesman, the "voice" of the church.

Proffitt is the first lay moderator—a non-clergyman—in the last nine years. The one-year job is non-paying but considered a great honor, both to the individual and to the church he serves.

He defeated President Eisenhower's Washington pastor, the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson of the National Presbyterian Church, an "odds-on" pre-election favorite. Trailing in third place was a "dark-horse" candidate, the Rev. Ramon M. Kistler, president of Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pa.

After the Proffitt-Elson-Kistler votes of 474-323-108 were announced (with a 453 majority necessary for victory), the assembly moved to make Proffitt's election unanimous.

British In Uproar Over 'Alphabet'

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—A severe skirmish is raging here over A for 'orses, B for mutton, G for police and X for breakfast. The issue is, who invented them?

So far, only one thing is clear: it wasn't the Russians.

As any bright child can tell at a glance, the samples given are a lazy-tongue method for identifying the letters of the alphabet.

It goes A for 'orses (hay for horses), B for mutton (beef or mutton), G for police (chief of police), V for la France (vive la France), X for breakfast (eggs for breakfast), and so on.

In the dizzy '30s Britons had all kinds of fun with it at cocktail parties and it even had a name of its own—the surrealists' alphabet.

In World War II it was taken up by bored British soldiers in signal units. Came the peace (or cold war) and it died a natural death.

So matters stood until, on a recent day, the Times published an editorial spoofing the new international airline phonetic alphabet which goes A for alpha, B for bravo, C for Charlie, etc.

The editorial writer thought the surreal version was much more amusing. In passing, he remarked that it was "evolved in the Western desert by the signals squadron which served with the 22nd Armored Brigade." A stream of dissenting letters set in forthwith.

Reginald Bennett, a member of the House of Commons, said the alphabet was in fact "evolved" by the British comedy team of Flanagan and Allen "in the early 1930s."

G. Newell Roberts of Exeter distinctly remembered it as the work of the American comedy team of Abbott and Costello in 1936.

Geoffrey Burton of Leicester said the British comedy team of Clapham and Dwyer dreamed it up.

What may, or may not, be the last word came today from N. Young of Ferry Boatyard, Harling, Norfolk, who declared the alphabet "in essence is as old as the telephone."

And, said Young, the brief version of it he likes best was concocted by a Cockney trying to pass the word "Ealing"—a suburb of London—over a poor telephone connection.

"E for 'eaven," shouted the Cockney. "A for what 'orses eat. L for where you're goin'. I for me. N for what lays eggs, and G for gawd's sake keep yer ears open!"

Milk Stolen At 'Source'

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies are considering a unique complaint to police but they're not sure if it comes in their jurisdiction.

The complainant, who didn't leave his name, contended that his milk supply had been stolen at the source.

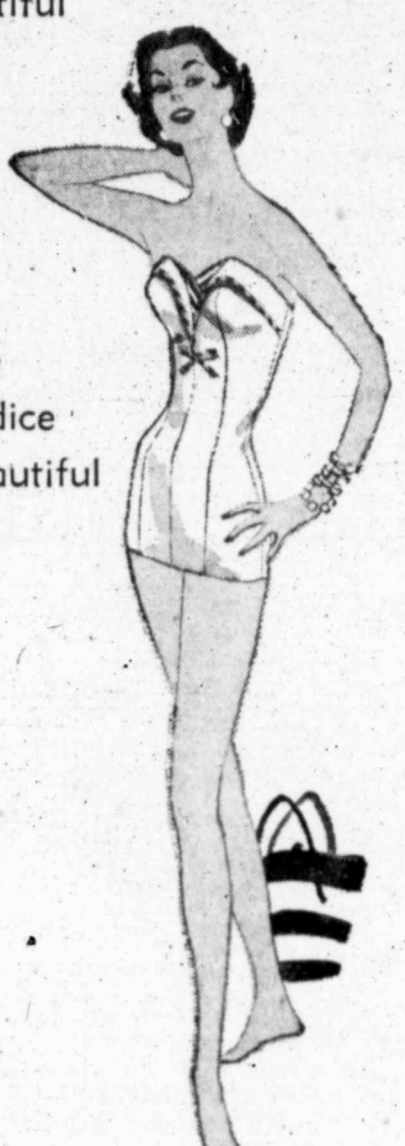

"I normally get five quarts of milk from my cow," he said, "but tonight I only got one quart. Somebody is stealing it at the source."

30 Million Italians Will Cast Ballots

ROME (AP)—Nearly 30 million Italians will vote Sunday for city and town officials in elections considered among Italy's most important since 1948.

In that year pro-West forces led by the late Alcide De Gasperi beat down a Communist-led popular front drive for political power.

Sunday's elections are expected to reflect future prospects of Italy's two-million-strong Communist party, the biggest in the West, in the light of such Moscow developments as the downgrading of Stalin.

They will test the stability of the Christian (Roman Catholic) Democrats, still Italy's major political force, and half a dozen other groups, including the Socialists and the Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI).

Italians will elect officials in 7,143 communities.

Major prizes include Rome itself. Through his vicar general for the city, Clemente Cardinal Micara, Pope Pius XII has expressed concern for the possible outcome. The cardinal called for prayer to preserve the Christian character of the city.

Christian Democrats and their allies won Rome 363,652 to 214,045 in 1951. Since then, Rome's voting population has increased by about 100,000.

Bitter balloting is expected also in Bologna, Ferrara and the port of Taranto in southern Italy, major cities still controlled by the Communists.

Stalin Peace Prize winner Pietro Nenni, who this week reaffirmed his Socialist party's working pact with the Communists, predicted a shift to the left.

In 1950 and 1951 administrative elections, Christian Democrats and their allies stripped Communists and extreme left Socialists of control of some 1,000 cities and towns, leaving them with control of 1,733.

Airliner Sought
GUATEMALA (AP)—Parachutist teams and a medical aid plane prepared to resume their search today for a Guatemalan airliner missing with 31 persons aboard. The Aviateca Co. plane left Puerto Barrios yesterday morning for La Tinta. The La Tinta airport control tower reported that bad weather prevented the craft from landing there and it headed on toward Guatemala City.

Senate Probers Urge Red U. N. Delegate Be Ousted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators urged the State Department today to throw out of this country Arkady Sobolev, chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, and one of his top subordinates.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee made the request in accusing Sobolev's staff of using "coercion, force and duress" in an effort to induce nine Russian sailors to return to their Communist homeland after obtaining asylum in this country.

Five of the sailors suddenly left New York by plane on April 7, under Soviet escort. Dispatches from Russia quoted them as saying they went home voluntarily. Four associates who remain here said the men were coerced.

The subcommittee rebuked the State Department and the Immigration Service, saying they failed to take effective action to protect the youthful sailors.

It said there were no "realistic efforts" to learn whether duress was used on the seamen that unjust concessions were made "in response to Soviet pressures and truculence."

Secret testimony made public by the subcommittee as part of its report disclosed government officials learned of the seamen's impending return to Russia the night before but concluded there was no evidence then to warrant blocking their departure.

The five seamen were among nine crewmen of the Soviet tanker Tuapse who were granted asylum in this country last October after their ship, bound for Red China with a load of jet fuel, was captured by Chinese Nationalists on Formosa.

In recent hearings, the subcommittee heard testimony from the four crewmen still here and from others, indicating that the five who "redefected" to the Soviet Union were kidnaped by Soviet agents.

The subcommittee urged the expulsion of Sobolev and Konstantin Ekimov, first secretary of the Soviet U. N. delegation.

CHICAGO (AP)—Thomas A. Harris, 29, a State Street bus driver, called police yesterday when an elderly man handed him a transfer which Harris said was out-of-date.

Harris told police a new date had been pasted on the transfer given him by Walker Theis, 72. Police said many of the "dates on the near, 100 transfers found in Theis' pockets also had been altered. They said he also had a bank book showing deposits of $12,000. A bank confirmed his deposits. Theis, charged with disorderly conduct and using a scheme or device to perpetrate a fraud, was jailed when he refused to put up $25 bond.

Cost Of Living Rises A Bit, Gives Million Wages A Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today living costs increased slightly in April. The rise of 2-10ths of one per cent was enough to give about a million workers a one-cent-an-hour wage boost.

The wage rise will go to auto and other workers who have union contracts tied to the government's index.

The Labor Department said the April rise in its living costs index was chiefly due to seasonally higher food costs for the average American family.

The index kept by the Bureau of Labor statistics rose to 114.9 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This is one-half of one per cent below the peak set in October, 1953, when the index was 115.4.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, said the prospect for the summer months is a further gradual rise in food prices, with perhaps lower prices for some consumer times such as automobiles and household appliances.

He said he hesitated to forecast that living costs will continue to rise through the summer but saw no sign that they will decline at least until fall.

The one-cent hourly pay boost will become effective in the first pay period in June for about a million employees in the auto, aircraft, farm equipment and some other industries.

Most auto industry workers will get seven cents an hour pay boost in June.

This will include the cent added living cost allowance, plus a negotiated increase of six cents or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater. General Motors Corp., said the one-cent living cost allowance will apply to 422,000 hourly rated employees, and that an equivalent monthly raise of $3 will go to 106,000 salaried workers, a total of 530,000 employees at GM alone.

13 Ex-Workers For Reds Restored To Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thirteen former employees of the U. S. Communist party have been restored to social security rolls as eligible for retirement benefits.

The Social Security Administration had denied them benefits on the ground that work done for the party did not constitute covered employment. The law prohibits disclosure of their names, but one is known to be William Z. Foster, ailing national chairman of the party.

Their restoration to the rolls was based on a decision by Reference Peter J. Hoegen of the administration's appeals council. He held that the law bars the government from disregarding wages on which social security taxes were paid in the 1937-52 period.

Pending further study, Hoegen delayed a decision on the basic issue of whether employment by the Communist party is covered by the Social Security Act.

"take home pay"—that is gross earnings less deductible taxes—for the average factory worker set an April record.

It was calculated at $71.94 a week for the worker with three dependents and $64.61 for the single worker. While a record for April, these figures were 31 cents less than the March figures. Weekly April take home pay this year was $2.70, or about 4 per cent, greater than in April, 1955.

Retail food prices rose six-tenths of one per cent in April in what the Labor Department termed a normal seasonal pattern. Grocery prices still were 1.4 per cent below April last year.

The bureau reported substantial price increases for meat, poultry, fish and fruits and vegetables but a decline for milk, eggs and some other foods.

Consumer cost items other than food averaged the same as in March. Housing, medical care, reading and recreation cost edged upward slightly, clothing prices remained the same, and transportation costs declined.

The price of fresh tomatoes which had jumped spectacularly earlier in the year because of crop freezes declined nearly 20 per cent in April as supplies increased.

Clague attributed the April living cost increase almost entirely to the seasonal increase in food prices.

The Church in Asia Minor

THE GOSPEL IS SPREAD INTO ALL THE WORLD
Scripture—Acts 12:25-15:35.

TODAY we hear that the people of America are flocking to the churches in greater numbers than ever before. They are seeking the peace of mind in religion that the troubled world takes from them. They are looking for help to the Lord who is our help in time of trouble. It is heartening to read of the people of ancient times listening gladly to the message the Apostles brought them, although the missionaries to foreign lands met with resistance and persecution from the orthodox Jews. Many incidents are included in the lesson, so we must be brief and not go into too much detail. Paul and Barnabas were in Antioch where there were "certain prophets and teachers—Barnabas, Simeon who was called Niger, and Lucius, foster brother of Herod the Tetrarch, and Saul, whom we will now call Paul. These fasted and prayed and the Holy Spirit directed them to send Barnabas and Paul on a mission to Asia. John was with them, as a personal attendant. They first visited Seleucia, in Asia Minor, and from there they sailed to Cyprus, the home of Barnabas. preach to them the following Sabbath, and when he did so "the whole city" came to hear him. This made the Jews envious, so much so that they stirred up the chief men and women of the city who expelled the Apostles from the city, so they went to Iconium. Here they talked in the synagogue, but were driven out by the enmity of unbelievers. Fleeing to Lystra they preached, then saw a man whose feet were useless. He never had been able to walk in his whole life. Peter said to him, in a loud voice: "Stand upright on thy feet!" And the man stood and leaped and walked. When the citizens saw this, they thought the Apostles were gods and they had a difficult time explaining that they were just men like everyone else. Paul nearly lost his life here when some Jews and iconians came and stoned him. They left him for dead, but as his followers stood around him, Paul rose and departed from the city, and landed finally back in Antioch from whence the two started, and reported all that they had done. About this time an argument arose in the church, certain men, teaching that unless a man was circumcised, as a Jew, according to Moses' law, he could not be accepted into the church. This, of course, grieved the Gentiles, and they sent Paul and Barnabas to Jerusalem to the Apostles and elders to decide the matter. Before the Apostles and elders Paul said that God declared the gospel was to be preached to the Gentiles as well as the Jews, and that he had sent His Holy Ghost to Gentiles as well as to Jews, "putting no difference between us and them." Paul and Barnabas wondered what miracle and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them, and then James suggested that they send a letter to the Antioch Gentiles advising them that if they obeyed a few simple rules, they need not obey the law of Moses for the Jews. This was done and Judas and Silas were sent to Antioch and delivered the epistle to the Gentiles and they read it and were rejoiced. So the differences that arose were settled peacefully and in the spirit of goodwill, and the Gospel continued to spread to different lands by these fearless and noble Apostles. MEMORY VERSE
"Turn . . . unto the living God, which made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein."—Acts 14:15.

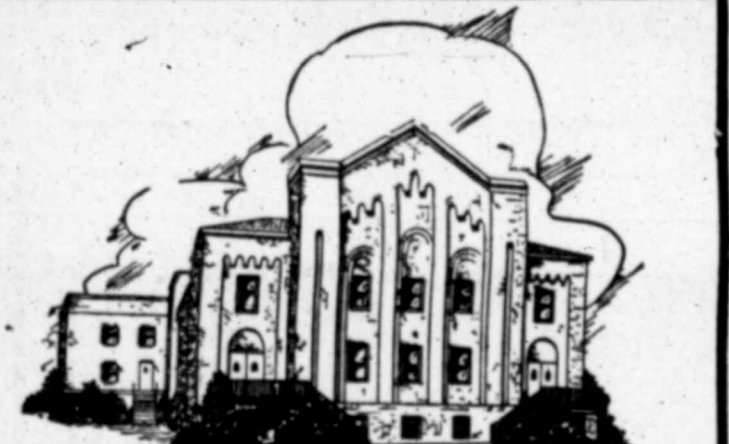

They preached and taught in Salamis, chief city of Cyprus, then went on to Paphos. There they encountered a Jew, a sorcerer, by the name of Elymas or Bar-jesus. He was with a Roman deputy, Sergius Paulus, who was interested in this new religion, and had sent for Paul and Barnabas. Elymas was doing everything in his power to turn Paulus away from the Christian teaching. When Paul set eyes on this sorcerer he was very angry, calling the man a "child of the devil," and telling him that the hand of the Lord was upon him and was making him blind. And so it was that "there fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand." Paulus, seeing this, believed, seeing the power of the Lord. The Apostles then went to Perga in Pamphilia, and John left them. Their next stop was Antioch in Asia Minor, not to be confused with the first city of the same name mentioned. In Antioch they went into the synagogue and the rulers there asked if they had any word of exhortation for the people. Paul stood up, and addressed his audience as men of Israel, and yet that fear God. After his sermon with these few fearless and noble Apostles. So the differences that arose were settled peacefully and in the spirit of goodwill, and the Gospel continued to spread to different lands by these fearless and noble Apostles.

Uncle Ray: Johnsons Outnumber Smiths In Some Cities

By RAMON COFFMAN
Five hundred years ago there lived in England a man named Ralph Full-of-Love. He was a clergyman and preached at a church in the county of Norfolk. Other English names with the syllable "love" in them became more common two centuries later. Both Puritans and Cavaliers had family names marked by "love." There was, for example, the Good-love family. Other families were known as the Winloves, the Dere-loves and the Lovejoys. To this day there are people named Love—a Love family used to live across the street from me.

Yesterday I spoke about a few names which were supplied by occupations. Many other examples can be given. The popular name of Cook (also spelled Cooke) came from men or women, or both, who earned their living by cooking, or else were known for their ability to cook well. Other names from occupations include Butler, Carpenter, Shepherd, Baker, Merchant and Chandler. The Chandler, or candlemaker, filled an important place a century ago. English names sometimes have "son" in them, but to a larger extent this is true of the names of Scandinavia. Hanson (also spelled Hansen) was the son of Hans, and the Johnson name started with the sons of John. The name of Johnson, by the way, is extremely common in various sections. In some cities, the Johnsons outnumber the Smiths. In a Chicago directory, for example, I found John-

Trade For Auto Proves Fatal

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Twenty-one-year-old William C. Kidder of Aberdeen, Ohio, traded his motor boat for his first car yesterday. Less than two hours later he was crushed to death when his car ran beneath the bed of a truck. Police said Kidder lost control of the car about four miles from Maysville. Witnesses said he was speeding. Sheriff Merrill Walton said he carried no drivers license.

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Laugh makers Jack Benny and George Burns have teamed with tire maker Leonard K. Firestone to raise grapefruit. The trio, capitalizing at $20,000 apiece, yesterday filed a limited partnership agreement to operate a grapefruit ranch in the Indio area.

Take your problems to Church this week

-millions leave them there!

THE CALL TO THE LIVING

A cross—a hundred crosses—marking the graves of men who died in the service of their country. But why a cross?

Is this the symbol of our gratitude for the sacrifice they made for us? It is not!

Is this the emblem of democracy and freedom in whose cause they laid down their lives? It is not!

But this is the symbol of a crucified and risen Christ. The One who unfolded for mankind the truth of God's love, the truth out of which democracy, freedom, and sacrifice have come.

The cross on a soldier's grave is a call to us—a call to the living to fill our churches. It is a call to serve with eager and sacrificial devotion the Lord whose Truth men have died to preserve.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Bible Thought For Today

Behold, I am the LORD, the God of all flesh: is there any thing too hard for me? (Jeremiah 32:27)

Editorial

Embers Of An Old Fire

Ex-President Harry S. Truman's remark on visiting the battlefield of Salerno, Italy, to the effect that that battle and the one that followed at Anzio were "totally unnecessary and planned by some squirrel-headed general," set off reverberations in this country and Europe.

Mr. Truman subsequently denied the remark attributed to him, but the correspondent who reported it stuck to his guns.

It was a new play on an old controversy. Since General Eisenhower was the top Allied commander in that theater at the time of Salerno, his name naturally came into the picture, but a White House aide, asked if the President had any comment replied: "Ask the squirrels."

But General Eisenhower in his book, "Crusade in Europe," made it quite clear that the Salerno-Anzio "left punch" designed to finesse the Nazis out on position in Southern Italy had been the decision of the Allied High Command, and that he personally objected to Anzio in particular to Winston Churchill and the new Allied commander in the Mediteranean, British Sir Henry Maitland Wilson. Eisenhower said the Allied command picked Salerno after considering "every spot of the beach from Rome to the toe of the (Italian) boot."

The controversy over Salerno-Anzio consists in two parts, strategic (referred to by Truman) and tactical. It was the tactical aspect of the Salerno-Cassino campaign that brought General Mark Clark under the critical guns of former officers, mainly of the Texas 36th Division, after the war, who accused him of blunders in the Rapido River crossing, where the losses were frightful. Clark contended he was carrying out orders by superiors, and the effort to block his confirmation as a major general proved unsuccessful.

Mr. Truman was, or would have been merely reopening an old controversy regarding the handling, or mishandling of part of the Italian campaign. Certainly Allied generalship did not shine at Salerno and Anzio.

Perhaps Mr. Churchill's obsession with "the soft underbelly of Europe" set the stage for the Italian misadventure.

Compromise And Moderation

The Democratic State Convention in Dallas Tuesday, in its enthusiasm and up-roaring jollification, was unlike any seen in recent years. One has to go back to the old torchlight days to mark its equal, and for the amount of energy, excitement and elbow grease displayed, its theme song might have been that of an older day—"Happy Days Are Here Again."

It was not Lyndon Johnson all the way, but the demonstrations staged in his honor would have done credit to a national convention at its liveliest.

"We have achieved unity," Senator Johnson told the delegates at one point. "We have restored the Democratic Party to its rightful place in the hearts of Texans."

Johnson did not get all he wanted in the latter stages of the session, especially in the matter of national committeeman and committeewoman, but as Dave Chayens of the Associated Press summed it up: "It (the convention) gave him the favorite son presidential designation, leadership of the state delegation to the National Democratic Convention, a delegation that will support the party nominees, and a "moderate" way of doing business aimed at unifying the once badly shattered state party."

Not the least of the Johnson triumphs was the defeat of certain "liberal" groups who wanted to go all out in slapping down what was left of the Shivers political empire. The senator had said he wanted to unify the whole party, extend the hand of fellowship and amity to the "bolters," and restore the party to harmony and cooperation. Those who thought he might not have meant it soon found out he did. They were beaten overwhelmingly on the issue of ousting the Shivers-picked state executive committee who, instead of being thrown out, will serve their full term to next September.

Asking that bygones be bygones, Johnson declared: "I welcome back to our party all those who subscribe to our principles. I think we should roll out the carpet and make the path easy for those who want to vote Democratic."

If the Russians invite the Joint Chiefs, and they go, the way has been cleared for President Eisenhower to ask his old World War II friend Marshal Georgi Zhukov to Washington. It's been rumored Eisenhower wanted to do that.

After such an exchange of visits the door naturally would be open to invite Russia's Premier Buldner and Communist party boss Khrushchev here. The two Soviet leaders reportedly have been hinting they'd like to come.

As this story unfolds there are two points to keep in mind: (1) some unnamed person who gave a story to the New York Daily News and (2) American officials' statements that the Russians have not yet invited the Joint Chiefs.

This is what happened: "Last Monday the Russians say they suggested to the U.S. Air

David Lawrence Congress Over The Constitution

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court of the United States by unanimous decision has ruled, in effect, that even a system of fascism can be imposed in America by Congress and the Constitution cannot be invoked to prevent it.

This is just the reverse of what the Court by unanimous opinion ruled in May 1953 when it invalidated the code system of the National Recovery Act as an unconstitutional delegation of power by Congress to an artificial system of government administered by private groups.

The Supreme Court — composed today of a different set of judges — now rules that Congress is within its rights in passing a law permitting a railroad employer to compel a worker to give up part of his earnings to finance a union organization in which he conscientiously doesn't believe. The penalty for non-payment is the loss of his job.

The Supreme Court says Congress has the power to order such a system of compulsory unionism and that neither the constitutions of the states nor the federal constitution can be invoked to prevent the confiscation of a worker's earnings by a private organization for a purpose to which he does not wish to give his assent. There is no limit to the taxes that now can be levied on a worker's wages if only a union and an employer have the right between them to consider what is a beneficial use of a workman's earnings.

The Supreme Court lately has been solicitous about "civil rights" and there has been a lot of hysterical talk about "due process and the loss of the right of dissent," especially for Communist sympathizers. But the high court, was deaf to the plea of the several workmen who petitioned the nine justices to uphold the right to work as provided in the constitution of the state of Nebraska. The Supreme Court of Nebraska had ruled that compulsory unionism violates both the state and federal constitutions.

What the Supreme Court here said, however, was that no state constitution and no state law could be regarded as in force if the Congress passed a contrary law on the subject of regulating trade unions. There are 17 states which have passed "right to work" laws or incorporated such provisions in their constitutions. When the workers pleaded that their rights under the federal constitution were being violated, the Supreme Court here simply answered by saying there was no constitutional issue at all before the tribunal. It waved aside what the Nebraska Supreme Court found to be a constitutional issue. The nine justices of the highest court here refused to listen to the argument that a man who doesn't believe in trade unionism has a constitutional right to that view and declared that the only issue before the court is whether he should be forced to pay a part of the expenses of the collective-bargaining process from which he theoretically benefits.

The high court didn't take cognizance of the fact that the employer could share that expense or could even collect portions from the worker if he agreed to it and that this could be done without forcing him to become a union member. The decision simply affirmed that a worker must join such a union to keep his job — even though for the present under the law he cannot be disciplined for any other reasons by the union.

"Wide ranged problems are tendered under the First Amendment," wrote Justice Douglas in behalf of the court. "It is argued that the union shop agreement forces men into ideological and political associations which violate their right to freedom of conscience, freedom of association, and freedom of thought protected by the bill of Rights. It is said that once a man becomes a member of these unions he is subject to vast disciplinary control and that by force of the federal act unions now can make him conform to their ideology.

"On the present record, there is no more infringement or impairment of First Amendment rights than there would be in the case of a lawyer who by state law is required to be a member of an integrated bar. It is argued that compulsory membership will be used to impair freedom of expression. But that problem is not presented by this record."

What more of a record does the Supreme Court of the United States require than a worker's own argument before the lower court that he doesn't want to join a union because he doesn't believe in it, and that he doesn't want to support it because he doesn't choose to become a member?

As for the statement that membership in a private labor union is analogous to membership in a bar association, this is an astonishing argument. For a lawyer is an officer of the court itself and admission to practice is subject to rules of a court. The court, actually a part of the government, makes its own rules as to who can practice before it. But no bar association can compel a non-member to pay dues nor does it represent him in any fixing of fees for his services.

The Supreme Court lately has been sweeping aside the rights of states to regulate their own affairs and has even held that a state cannot punish sedition or arrest a man suspected of treason. Certainly recent decisions are not based on historic precedents of law but on ephemeral concepts of what are supposed to be the dominant "psychological" and "social" factors of the age.

A Blessing, Or A Sentence?

James Marlow Looks More Like A Poker Game.

WASHINGTON — You need more than a scorecard to follow the players in this one. What happened may be high diplomacy. It looks more like a poker game.

Did the United States try to maneuver the Russians into voting the Joint Chiefs of Staff to Moscow? Or did the Russians try to maneuver the United States into saying whether they'd accept before they were invited?

If the Russians invite the Joint Chiefs, and they go, the way has been cleared for President Eisenhower to ask his old World War II friend Marshal Georgi Zhukov to Washington. It's been rumored Eisenhower wanted to do that.

After such an exchange of visits the door naturally would be open to invite Russia's Premier Buldner and Communist party boss Khrushchev here. The two Soviet leaders reportedly have been hinting they'd like to come.

As this story unfolds there are two points to keep in mind: (1) some unnamed person who gave a story to the New York Daily News and (2) American officials' statements that the Russians have not yet invited the Joint Chiefs.

This is what happened: "Last Monday the Russians say they suggested to the U.S. Air Force that it send two or three high-ranking Air Force officers to see Russia's celebration of Aviation Day in Moscow June 24. This would not be the Joint Chiefs. Yesterday morning the New York Daily News said it had learned from a source at the United Nations that Russia had sent word to Washington it would welcome a visit by the U.S. military command—the Joint Chiefs—"for inspection of Soviet services."

A few hours later Eisenhower's assistant press secretary, Murray Snyder, said he "wouldn't be surprised" if the Joint Chiefs accepted such an invitation if it arrived. A spokesman for the Joint Chiefs said they would give "serious consideration" to an invitation.

The fact that Snyder and the Joint Chiefs' spokesman made any comment at all was pretty good evidence this country would welcome such an invitation. It was like saying: go ahead.

If the New York Daily News' unnamed source at the United Nations was a Russian, you could draw this conclusion: By leaking on an invitation not yet extended, the Russians could learn whether such an invitation would be rebuffed or accepted.

If the reaction was had they could get some propaganda out of it, claiming that a simple, friendly gesture had in mind was dismissed by the Americans even before it was made.

If the source was an American, you could draw this conclusion: "Knowing the Russians had invited a couple of lower ranking air officers, the United States could nudge the Russians publicly—through such comment as Snyder gave—into inviting the Joint Chiefs.

If the Russians took the hint, but put heavy restrictions on what the Americans could see in Russia, this country then could refuse to let them go and at the same time make propaganda about the Soviets' continued secrecy.

Aging Cherokee Remembers Past

PINEY GROVE, N. C. — Time is winning a slow victory over Mrs. Aggie Lossiah, custodian of a dying past.

Aggie, who is going on 76, is one of the few remaining Cherokee Indian women with a first-hand knowledge of old tribal ways and customs.

As a young girl, Mrs. Lossiah, now a widow, walked 170 miles across the mountains to set up housekeeping on a small hill-side farm where she has lived more than half a century.

Sitting on the cabin porch, her stockinged feet comfortably stretched out to feel a cooling breeze, Aggie said gravely: "It's all gone to the modern times. Things are changing just as fast as they can change."

The honk of a motor car echoed up from a modern highway where stumbling oxen once plodded. The sound stirred Aggie to reverie.

"We sold our last ox to send our oldest boy off to college," she remarked.

Aggie and her husband raised eight children and five of their grandchildren.

"I got so many grandchildren I can't count them," she said.

Mrs. Lossiah is full of ancient Cherokee hill lore. She used to make her own soap. She still knows the art of making such Indian delicacies as bean bread, possum-grape drink and meal-skin soup. She knows how to brew the native herb remedies—ginseng for colic, boneseed for pneumonia, wild cherry for measles, Christmas fern for fever.

"But when people get sick now they run to the doctor to get a pill," she remarked. "I never had a doctor until this spring, when I spent a spell in the hospital."

As I got up to leave, Aggie asked where I lived. When I told her I came from New York City, she nodded and said politely: "Is it a big city? I've heard of it, yes, I've heard of it. I heard it's a terribly muddy place."

Viruses A Cause Of Cancer?

Scientists reported recently on a promising new avenue in cancer-killing drugs. They found that some anti-biotic preparations had a slight effect against cancer cells. The idea of using anti-biotics against cancer is relatively new—the drugs the scientists described work only under laboratory conditions, not in the human body.

This particular method of attack may yield results, but only time will tell that. Meanwhile, it points up one theory of cancer that has caused considerable controversy among scientists—that cancer is caused by a virus.

Many cancer experts, especially the surgeons, deny the theory. Others, at the other extreme, believe all types of cancer are virus-caused. Most scientists are either neutral or accept the virus theory as a theory, and not yet as a fact.

But there is a good argument in favor of the virus theory, and should it prove true, the way to conquest of cancer would be open. We know plenty about viruses, but relatively little about the inner workings of the cell.

Viruses are akin to enzymes and genes—they're all complex protein molecules. It is a moot question whether these molecules are actually alive or are simply big molecules with the power of reproduction. Genes are important not only in the reproductive process in the control of heredity—the genes, located in the cell's nucleus, also control the entire range of activities of the whole cell. There is, therefore, a gene which controls normal growth, just as there is a gene that gives you the color of your eyes.

That's where the virus cancer theory comes in. It is possible that some virus, closely resembling a growth-control gene, finds its way into a human cell and disrupts its normal activities. The result is an uncontrolled and rapid growth of the original cell into millions of cancer cells.

A scientist at the University of Texas once tried a series of experiments to prove the existence of viruses in cancer. He started with a bit of cancer tissue which he placed in an incubated egg. The cancer was transplanted successively into other incubated eggs, and the chicken embryos studied for signs of tumors. After many transplants, the chicks did develop tumors, but of a different type from the original cancer tissue. This tended to support the virus theory inasmuch as viruses are able to mutate—to change into new strains.

The possibility of transmitting the tumors through actual contact or through bits of tissue coming loose and finding a way into the embryo was taken care of first by placing the tumor away from the chick, and then by grinding up tumors, straining them through filters that would pass only viruses and injecting the resulting liquid into new eggs. The result: new tumors. Then a filter was used which would not pass viruses, to cut out the possibility that it was certain chemicals, and not the viruses, which spread the cancer. There were no tumors resulting.

It is believed by virus proponents that the various known causes of cancer, such as certain chemicals, merely serve to knock holes temporarily into the cell membrane, the "skin" of the cell, opening the way for cancer viruses.

Some kinds of anti-biotics are useful against germs, and finding the right antibiotic to fit the right disease is like finding the proverbial needle in a stack of hay.

But, if the virus cancer theory be true, we know it won't be long before this particular killer is doomed. The scientists have ways of reducing haystacks to a few scattered straws, leaving the needle in plain sight.

The Gallup Poll

Only Farmers Unhappy With Ike's Program

PRINCETON, N.J.—If it were not for the farmers, the Eisenhower administration would have a clean bill of health on the question of fair treatment of all the major groups in the population.

But the important political fact today is that more than four out of every 10 farmers across the country feel that they have not been treated fairly by the Eisenhower administration.

While a substantial majority of all voters today believe that no one group has been unfairly treated by the Eisenhower administration, about one voter in every eight (13 per cent) thinks that farmers have not been treated fairly.

This is in marked contrast to the picture just six years ago.

Under President Truman, voters of the country felt that the farmer got the best treatment from Washington, labor the next best, and business the least favorable treatment.

Here are the results of today's survey, when a cross-section of representative voters from coast to coast was asked this question by Institute reporters: "Is there any group in this country that you feel has not been treated fairly by the Eisenhower administration?"

The vote nationwide:

Yes	Per cent
Yes	23
No	77
No opinion	2
Each person who said "yes" was asked "Which group?"
Farmers	13
Negroes	2
Labor unions	2
Working class, common man	2
Small business	1
Poor people	1
Others	4
	25

The table adds to more than 23 per cent because some voters named more than one group.

Included under "other" were scattered mentions for white-collar workers, civil service workers, minority groups, and Southerners.

As might be expected, a person's views on today's question depends to a great extent on whether he is a Democrat or a Republican.

More than three times as many Democrats as Republicans charged the administration with not treating all groups fairly. Even so, virtually two out of every three Democrats felt that there was no one group that had not been treated fairly.

The vote by party affiliation:

Rep.	Dem.	Ind.
Yes	20	33
No	80	64
No opinion	1	3

Among farmers questioned in the survey, 42 per cent said they felt that farmers had not been getting the breaks from Washington.

An interesting sidelight of the 1950 survey, when President Truman was in office, was that farmers thought labor was getting the best treatment, while labor thought the farmers were.

As reported earlier this month, 62 per cent of the farmers in the Midwest today approve of the way Eisenhower is handling his job as Chief Executive, and 52 per cent think the President did the right thing in vetoing the farm bill.

On the other hand, 57 per cent of farmers in the Midwest disapprove of the way Secretary of Agriculture Benson is handling his job.

Decisive Test Run

DETROIT — Traffic Judge John D. Watts called for a test when Chester S. Bragiel argued he could not have been doing 80 miles an hour when arrested for speeding. "Why my car couldn't get over 50, your honor," Bragiel complained.

The judge had a policeman take Bragiel's car out on an expressway for a test run. The officer telephoned back that the car hit 80 miles an hour easily and could have gone faster. Bragiel was sent to jail for five days and ordered not to drive for a year.

Jet Transport Is A Mighty Purty Plane

A dingy old loft building hard by the Hudson River is a Mecca these days for a small but steady stream of New Yorkers and visiting firemen who are being given a glimpse of the jet air age just around the corner for all of us.

Inside this unimpressive building is imprisoned the purtiest airplane I've ever seen. It is a $500,000 "mockup" or full-scale model of the interior of the huge jet airliner that the Boeing Airplane Co. will begin delivering to the airlines in late 1958.

On the outside, this first American passenger jet may look like a bat-out-of-hell, which it is supposed to be out-of-hell. But on the interior, it is as lush as a Hollywood boudoir, and passengers have never had it so gay. It seems a pity that it will only take five hours and 55 minutes to fly to London in a plane as pleasing to the eye as this Boeing 707 jet transport.

Walter Dorwin Teague, the industrial designer, and his associates, who are responsible for the interior of the plane, have used ice cream pastels in technical profusion to make the jet passenger plane as airy as the stuff through which it flies.

They have used blocks to break up the interior of this huge plane, which is capable of carrying from 98 to 122 passengers on domestic routes and as many as 146 passengers on the still larger intercontinental, which will span the oceans.

One block of seats—sometimes in three, sometimes in four rows—is done in coral. The next block is periwinkle blue, and all against a background of soft gray carpeting and white walls printed with geometric designs in melting pastels.

The high, arched ceiling looks like the kind of strawberry ice cream that Mother used to make. Set into this ceiling are big, circular flat domes to light the cabin in a manner to compete with any planetarium in the nation.

At night, the opaque light changes to midnight blue, through which myriad stars twinkle, exactly as the ceiling at El Morocco (only no cover charge on the jets!) As dawn comes, the midnight blue fades to rose dawn and the stars twinkle out as these talented domes return to their daylight status. Passengers of all ages will love this jet innovation.

Even the pillows and the blankets for the passenger who wants to snooze are a delectable strawberry pink.

The two galleys and the four powder rooms on the big plane, which is both longer, wider and higher than any passenger plane in which I have ever flown, are pictures in pastels, too.

Even imprisoned in an old loft building (the only structure Boeing could find large enough to accommodate the huge mockup), this is an exciting plane from the passenger point of view. Since seeing it, I can't wait to join the Jet Set.

East Texas Sports 'New Look' While Western Ranges Worsen

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Farm conditions in the eastern half of Texas have taken on a "new look" while West Texas and the Plains still are in the tight grip of a drought which prevents planting and growth of crops and deteriorates further the vast rangelands.

East from a line generally from Vernon south through San Saba and San Antonio to the Rio Grande, crops have sufficient moisture for recovery and growth, said Texas A&M Extension Director G. G. Gibson. More rain will be needed throughout for growth and maturity of crops.

The Department of Agriculture summed up conditions as "late but promising" for many spring planted crops over much of the state.

The harvest of another short wheat crop started in the Seymour-Benjamin-Crowell area. Panhandle wheat crop is "gone," Gibson said.

Grain and cotton in North Texas is making good growth, said Ted Martin at Denton. Ranges are recovering normally and furnishing some grazing. Cotton pests and yellow pea aphids are causing damage to vetch around Kaufman and Greenville.

In South Central Texas, where dry weather delayed planting and growth of crops earlier, V. G. Young at Gonzales said all crops, especially cotton and row, were helped by rain. Prospects are good for tomatoes and watermelons. The harvest will begin in early June. Ranges still have not recovered and cattlemen are feeding.

The pecan crop prospect is reported much improved. Some grove owners are spraying to control heavy infestation of pecan nut casebearer in some sections.

In the Coastal Bend area cotton is growing good and vegetables are being harvested, said Joe Rothe at Weslaco. Ranges in the general area of Uvalde and Zavala counties remain poor. Insects are damaging cotton and vegetables.

About all of the Gulf Coast and southeast Texas, rice and cotton acreage has been planted, Silver Whitsett at Richmond said. Early corn is tasseling and farmers are poisoning cotton insects. Ranges and cattle are in good condition.

The big blackberry harvest of 6,000 acres in the Lindale area near Tyler has begun, reported John Surovik at Mt. Pleasant. All field and truck crops and pastures are making excellent growth. Stockmen have begun baling hay.

In deep East Texas crops and ranges are growing good and more oats and vetch are being baled. The plum harvest is on, added Walter Scott at Nacogdoches. Newton County which has the highest rainfall average in the state, 55 inches, is now reported the driest county in East Texas.

Hot weather in far West Texas has brought ideal conditions for irrigation farming and has raised the hopes of ranchmen in the Davis Mountains area for rain showers to begin, said Joe Glover at Fort Stockton. The shearing season is at a peak and ranchmen are getting heavy fleeces after feeding their sheep. Ranges and dryland farming don't exist except in widely isolated spots, and even brush needs rain. Cattle conditions are declining.

In the Edwards Plateau farmers in the San Angelo-Brady section are unable to plant cotton and grain but crops are up in the Abilene-San Saba area, added R. S. Miller at San Angelo. It is extremely dry in the Bandera and Kerrville area.

To the east in Central Texas some peanuts being planted in the Stephenville section, corn is in all stages and peas are maturing fast but with light yields due to earlier dry weather, said R. G. Buryell at Stephenville. Pecan and sorghum prospects are good. Ranges in the western section of Central Texas remain short and need rain.

Scarcity of showers in the Rolling Plains were of very little benefit, reported J. A. Scofield at Vernon. Cotton and grain sorghum is being planted in Seminole-Throckmorton section but it's still too dry to plant in Spur-Childress area. Ranges are recovering very slowly. Stock water is low.

Knox Parr at Amarillo said hot weather and high winds deteriorated moisture conditions which are becoming more serious for row crops and summer grass which must grow in April and May before the grain sorghum but there's no moisture. The wheat crop was destroyed earlier due to drought. Irrigated cotton and grain sorghum is up to a good stand, and alfalfa is being cut for the first time. The potato and tomato crop in the Hereford-Parmer-Castro area is in good condition.

New Farm Bill To Hike Cotton Export

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new farm bill which has gone to the White House contains a provision to hike exports of U.S. cotton considerably.

Cotton state congressmen hope it will help solve some of the industry's most pressing problems by a big reduction in the government held surplus.

A reduction in this surplus, they say, eventually should have a beneficial effect on domestic prices and remove pressure for further cuts in cotton acreage.

The provision, one of several dealing with cotton, was termed "vitality important" by Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) and Rep. Gathings (D-Ark).

It would require the Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC) to offer its stocks for sale on the world market at competitive prices in an effort to regain for this country a fair share of the export market which the secretary of agriculture indicated is near five million bales a year.

The proviso, in effect, tells the CCC to offer its cotton at 25¢ a pound or less. The price isn't in the bill but it directs that cotton shall be offered at prices brought by a million-bale sale early this year, and that cotton went for about 25¢ cents.

Reduction of the huge surplus of around 13 million bales by Aug. 1 to a more manageable size may take some time but cotton state congressmen hope it will result in a better market and less need for further acreage cuts.

In addition to this export provision, the bill fixes the 1957 and 1958 national cotton acreage allotment at the 1956 level of 17,391,000 acres.

An amendment also protects states against losses in acreage through shifts brought about by production history. It provides that no state should lose more

Putting Pets Above Husband Is Ruled Divorce Grounds

DENVER (AP)—It wasn't only that Frederick J. Betts of Denver had to share his home with 11 chinchillas, a parrot, a dog and three large bowls of tropical fish. It was also, he told a District Court jury in seeking a divorce, that his wife Anonia reminded him repeatedly that she preferred the animals, bird and fish to him.

The jury agreed this was "extreme and repeated cruelty" and granted Betts a divorce.

Undoing Of Prank Proves Disastrous

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—P. Wilson Schiller, a Syracuse University official, was disturbed at the appearance of an 'old car overturned on the street in front of the Beta Theta Pi house.

So he asked the Phi Gamma Delta boys, who had done the deed to the rival Betas, to please right the jalousy and move it into the driveway.

The Phi Gars obliged. But nobody remembered to set the brakes.

The vehicle rolled backward out of the driveway — and smashed into Schiller's car.

Riesel Plans Return To Work

NEW YORK (AP)—Blinded labor columnist Victor Riesel is out of the hospital and says he expects to be back at his desk no later than Monday.

Riesel is continuing his nationally syndicated column with the aid of staff assistants.

The writer, who was blinded by an unidentified acid thrower April 5, walked out of a branch of St. Clare's Hospital yesterday after being discharged as a patient.

His wife Evelyn offered him an arm. But he shook it off and walked down the eight steps at the hospital entrance by himself. His eyes were covered with bandage patches.

An aide told newsmen that Riesel "has categorically refused a Seeing-Eye dog."

Police have assigned a 24-hour guard to Riesel.

A young man threw sulphuric acid into Riesel's face on a mid-Manhattan street in the early morning dark. Riesel has said the attack was motivated by his attacks on racketeers in the labor movement.

15 Filipinos Die When Boat Burns

MANILA (AP)—A boat loaded with 100 Filipino Catholic pilgrims burned off Leyte Island yesterday. At least 15 persons were reported dead and 12 missing. There were 20 injured.

The Philippine news service said most of the victims were ailing men, women and children en route to receive the annual blessing of a local patron saint in northern Leyte.
