Tumultuous Tumulty

T. James Tumulty, rotund Congressman from New Jersey, squats in front of Hoboken, N. J., fire house as firemen douse him with stream of water during initiation into Hudson County Forty and Eight, American Legion funsters. The 300-pound-plus Democratic representative, painted orange and black and stripped to his shorts, was one of 30 inductees. He was supposed to blow the horn but it soon became water-logged.

LIONS CAUGHT IN MIDDLE

Daniel, Yarborough Trade Words On Proposed Debate

The camps of two Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination — Ralph Yarborough and Sen. Price Daniel — engaged Tuesday in a hot and heavy battle of words over a June 21 public debate proposed by the North Central Lions Club of San Antonio for the benefit of handicapped children.

Yarborough challenged Daniel to appear on the same platform with him Thursday. Noting that the senator was to be in San Antonio on that date, Yarborough said he would cancel his Panhandle speeches to take part in the debate.

The offer was rejected by Daniel's headquarters which said "the entire affair was conceived and sponsored by one of your state campaign managers of your unsuccessful 1954 campaign, one Harry O'Connor."

A Yarborough spokesman replied that O'Connor had been as an announcer on some of the Austin attorney's television programs but never had any managerial or supervisory duties.

Legal Fight Looms Over Referendum

A full scale legal battle loomed this midweek on the question of whether individual counties must place on their July 28 ballots the racial and states' rights referendum questions ordered by the Texas State Democratic Executive Committee.

Three of the largest counties, Harris, Bexar and Jefferson, have said they won't put the referendum questions on their ballots.

The chairman of the State Executive Committee, an assistant district attorney, and the man who initiated the petitions asking for the referendum, said Tuesday that all counties would have to put the three controversial questions on their ballots.

The proposals are: 1. Repeal of the compulsory school attendance laws when white and Negro children are mixed in the public schools.

2. Perfection of the state law barring intermarriage between Negroes and whites.

3. Use of interposition to "halt illegal federal encroachment" on states' rights. The state committee last week ordered the questions submitted in a referendum after petitions signed by 153,968 persons were presented calling for the vote. The committee acted after verifying the names in spot checks, and after noting that the law requires it to take such action on demand of 10 per cent of the qualified voters of the party.

In county committee meetings this week at Houston, San Antonio and Beaumont, the three counties denounced the referendum question as "illegal efforts" to cover up the "scandals" in the administration of Gov. Allan Shivers "by appealing to Ku Kluxism for a campaign of hate."

State Democratic Chairman George Sandlin questioned the legality of votes to be cast for state candidates in counties where the three referendum proposals were left off the July 28 primary ballot. He said such ballots would be illegal and the State Executive Committee might not count them, and certify votes for candidates.

Mrs. Kathryn Carter, who formerly worked for the farmers home agency in Montana, testified Monday that at a state meeting two years ago, McLeish and Carl O. Hansen, then the agency's Montana director, became "highly inebriated."

Mrs. Carter, of Bozeman, told of the girl-kissing incident. She said it happened during the three-day Montana state meeting in June 1954. She said, "Some of the husbands pulled their wives away, but that those who thought they might get a nice big fat job just sat and watched."

Another witness, Floyd F. Higbee, said he saw McLeish put away almost a fifth of whisky in a Denver hotel room after a meeting with Eisenhower on problems growing out of the 1954 drought.

J. M. Ferguson Jr., president of the Houston Fire and Casualty Insurance Co., testified the agency canceled last September a contract under which its firm wrote policies to cover Farmers Home Administration Loans. He contended a replacement contract — held, he said, by the Stock Companies Assn. — provides less coverage at higher rates.

As Ferguson told the story, McLeish once asked him if the Houston firm could "change to agents who were Republican friends." Ferguson indicated he didn't take the hint. About a year and a half later, he said, the contract was terminated.

NO NEED TO WORRY ABOUT ANOTHER LOSS

There's one consolation—it can't happen anymore. For the third time in the past two months, thieves have raided the storage yard at Coahoma, where the city has stored discarded brass water meters. The meters were recently replaced by more modern devices and the old meters were stacked up on a vacant lot.

Last night, thieves moved in and carted away 100 of the meters. A few weeks ago, the yard was raided and 125 of the gadgets were taken. A little earlier in the spring, 200 meters were lifted from the yard. Value of the current haul is estimated at $275.

Officers, becoming a little annoyed, at least had one consolation. The thing can't happen again. The thieves cleaned up the lot last night and left only three meters untaken.

Whether this was for manner's sake or simply because the prowlers didn't see them, no one knows.

AIRLINER FALLS INTO ATLANTIC, 74 KILLED

Worst Disaster In Regular Air Service

NEW YORK (AP)—A Venezuelan airliner burst into flame early today and hurtled nearly two miles into the Atlantic Ocean, killing 74 persons. It was the world's worst disaster in regular airline service.

A rescue ship which reached the site, some 32 miles east of Asbury Park, N. J., radioed it had found much debris and two bodies. It added: "Found no survivors. Expect to find none."

The pilot of a Coast Guard plane—sent out to try to guide the stricken four-engine, Super Constellation back to New York's Idlewild Airport after it reported engine trouble—said later of the falling airliner: "It was a frightening sight. It was a big ball of flame. It all happened very fast."

The plane began to jettison fuel and then five seconds later a ball of flame broke out. The plane caught fire and took a spiraling dive into the water.

"It was falling 4,000 feet a minute. It hit the water with terrific impact. The plane was enveloped by flame on impact."

It was nearly two miles up when it began the fatal plunge.

The Coast Guard pilot, Lt. Cmdr. Frederick J. Hancock, 35, of Wantagh, N. Y., said the airliner dived through bright moonlight at an angle of about 60 degrees until it hit the water at 1:32 a.m.

He said there was a "loud explosion" and that there were flames on the water for about 10 minutes. He said he couldn't land his own craft, although it was an amphibian.

Later he spotted an oil slick and debris, including "clothing, handbags and miscellaneous items in the water."

The airliner crashed about 32 miles east of Asbury Park, N. J., and 40 to 50 miles south of Idlewild—just 10 minutes of flying time.

It had taken off for Caracas, Venezuela, from Idlewild at 11:18 p.m. Approximately an hour later the pilot, Capt. Luis E. Plata of Venezuela, radioed that he was having engine trouble and was turning back.

He was then 250 miles east of Norfolk, Va.

Later he calmly advised that he was "dumping gas"—a routine fire-preventing measure when an emergency landing is anticipated—and then came his final, dramatic words: "Gas caught fire."

Hancock, whose amphibian had just come in sight of the airliner, said one engine was feathered on its left wing—that is, the propeller was idling.

Then, he said, the fire appeared to have broken out on an engine on the right wing. The craft quickly dived into the sea.

There were 64 passengers and a crew of 10 on the airliner. Eighteen of the passengers and two of the crew were Americans. One passenger was an infant.

A Navy transport ship, the Lt. Robert Craig, which sailed from New York at midnight for Bremerhaven, Germany, was directed to the crash scene and picked up the bodies.

An Eastern Air Lines plane crew also saw the flaming crash, as did a fisherman on the beach at Avon, N. J.

The fisherman, John Doman, 45-year-old carpenter and a Navy veteran of World War II, said: "I made my cast and when I came up the beach to lighten my line I saw this thing coming down."

He said it appeared to be 15 or 20 miles offshore and that it had a glare of light around it as if burning.

"It plummeted down quite sharply and then seemed to level out in a glide. It seemed to hover there for 15 seconds and then it dipped again and went down."

He added: "I made tracks for the Coast Guard station."

Capt. Plata's terse messages told a gripping story of the tragedy.

At 12:24 a.m. he radioed that his No. 2 engine had failed and that he was returning to Idlewild.

At 12:46 a.m. he sent out a distress call.

At 1:25 a.m. he reported he was "dumping gas."

At 1:30 a.m.: "Gas caught fire." That was all.

Then came the word from the Coast Guard amphibian hovering overhead: "Into drink, loud explosion."

The Coast Guard immediately marshaled ships to head for the scene.

The restaurant at Idlewild, notified earlier that the airliner was returning, had started to prepare meals for the passengers.

Harry Truman Gets Degree From Oxford

OXFORD, England (AP)—Harry S. Truman, who was too poor to go to college, today received an honorary degree from Oxford, one of the world's most distinguished universities.

Tears filled the eyes of the former U. S. President when Lord Halifax, chancellor of the university, conferred the degree of doctor of civil laws with this eulogy: "Trust of allies, direct in your speech and in your writings, and ever a pattern of simple courage."

Truman smiled, choked up and then quickly whipped out a handkerchief and blew his nose.

"Never, never in my life," he whispered to a reporter, "did I ever think I'd be a Yank at Oxford."

He had explained to correspondents that his father's business reverses had prevented him from going to a university after a boyhood on a Missouri farm.

Asked by a reporter how many honorary degrees he had received, Truman replied: "My God, I must have a couple of dozen. But this is really a big one."

The auditorium of Oxford's ancient Sheldonian Theater rang with applause as the degree was conferred. It swelled in volume as Truman faced 94 crimson-robed professors in the packed auditorium and flashed a broad smile.

"I've attended a lot of these convocations," said an old professor after the house became quiet. "I don't remember when there was every so much applause. Mr. Truman is very popular in this country."

Mrs. Truman, sitting several rows behind her husband, also wiped the tears out of her eyes. But the ceremony wasn't all serious.

The public orator, Thomas R. Higham, speaking in Latin, roused a round of loud laughter when he referred to Truman's sensational election to the presidency in 1948 when public opinion polls predicted his defeat.

Referring to Thomas E. Dewey, Truman's Republican opponent, the orator said Virgil may help in describing his plight.

"The seers saw not your defeat, poor soul, vain prayers, vain promises—vain Gallipoli."

Truman, who had been shown an English translation, shook with laughter.

He posed again, right, wearing the same type clothes 116 days later, after he had dropped 116 pounds and was down to 180 pounds. Before going on a diet of only two meals a day, Waitt, a bachelor, would go to the ball game and stow away 36 hot dogs, six ice cream bars, three bags of peanuts and 20 bottles of pop. Since going on the diet Waitt said girls are becoming interested in him and he is having dates for the first time in 30 years.

COTTON BATTLE

12 West Texans Called Into Court

LUBBOCK (AP)—Twelve West Texans, who as members of a Review Committee permitted increased cotton acreage allotments have been called into federal court.

The involved suit, filed in Federal District Court here yesterday, was said to be aimed at forestalling approximately 1,100 appeals by West Texas farmers in connection with their 1956 cotton allotments.

Technically the move is described as a civil suit for declaration of judgment brought by the United States in behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture against the defendants in their capacities as members of Review Committee to enforce the provisions of the Agriculture Adjustment Act of 1938.

"A case of genuine present and substantial controversy thus exists between plaintiffs and defendants," the complaint states.

Magnitude of the suit is indicated by allegation of the plaintiffs that "great and irreparable injury to public welfare" will result unless the court intervenes.

The action thus is described as questioning the Review Committee's jurisdiction under a federal act.

Each of the Review Committees named in the suit heard a test case on cotton acreage allotment and in each case ruled in favor of the farmer, granting him additional cotton acreage from that allotted by the State Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee and the county ASC committee, the complaint said.

The defendants have been ordered to appear at Amarillo by 10 a.m. July 3, to show cause why an injunction should not be granted by U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph Dooley.

Named in the court suit were Jim H. Bridges of Lamesa, O. O. Hunt of Loop, W. P. Allbright of Andrews, Florence Wilde of St. Lawrence in Glasscock County, W. E. Figg of Midland, and G. T. Randolph of Dawson who sat as a Review Committee for the counties of Dawson, Gaines, Andrews, Midland and Glasscock; and Henry Schuster of Muleshoe, Henry Gilbert of Littlefield, Arley Hartzog of Parmer County, T. R. Davis of Castro County, Neal Smith of Lamb County and James H. Dobbie of Bailey County, members of the Review Committee for Lamb, Castro, Bailey and Parmer counties.

WASHINGTON (AP)—French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau ends his round of foreign policy talks with Secretary of State Dulles today confident of vigorous American backing for France's continuing battle to crush an Algerian revolt.

CRMWD Pumps 40 Million Gallons Of Water Per Day

The Colorado River Municipal Water District has been pumping at the rate of approximately 40 million gallons per day to supply demands for water.

This rate has persisted for several days, according to O. H. Ivie, production engineer. About 60 per cent has been coming from Lake J. B. Thomas and the remainder from the Martin County and city well fields.

Odeesa peaked out last Friday at 17.3 million gallons, which is 3.3 million more than last year's peak. Since the middle of last week

Odeesa has not dropped below last year's peak.

There was a momentary lull in production during the weekend when a section of the main supply line to Snyder broke. SACROC and Sharon Ridge repressing projects were shut off for about a day and Snyder was left on its well. Repairs were effected late Sunday.

A respite from the heat wave eased the demand slightly, but with failure of showers to cover any of the member cities, the daily draw has been climbing up again.

Senators Probing Collaboration Claim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigating senators sought explanation today for testimony that a third of all U.S. troops captured in Korea "to some degree collaborated" with the enemy under Communist brainwashing.

More witnesses were summoned by the Senate Investigations subcommittee in its exploration of the nature of brainwashing and how troops can be trained to resist it.

Most witnesses in yesterday's daylong sessions said deep religious faith, a better knowledge of both Americanism and Communism, and awareness of how brainwashing operates provide the best hope for resisting.

Capt. Bert Cumby, a Negro specialist on the Army adjutant general staff, gave the testimony that "roughly a third" of the 7,100 recorded U.S. POWs yielded to some degree.

Cumby based that estimate primarily on his report that a third of the prisoners who first were forced to listen to "vicious" anti-American lectures continued at tending them after compulsion was removed.

He said that information has been "checked all the way down the line" and confirmed.

The fact a third of them "continued to give their presence to something designed for one purpose only, to discredit our country," Cumby said, shows they at least "to some degree collaborated."

He said "hard core" Communist POWs encouraged them to attend.

Cumby said the evidence is conclusive that Russian officers bossed the brainwashing operations.

Subcommittee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said he will seek more light on Cumby's estimate of the number who collaborated to some degree, and particularly on whether the indoctrination efforts may have made a continuing impression on these men.

Dr. Harold G. Wolff, head of the neurology department at Cornell University Medical School, testified the effects were apt to be "transient."

Ike Aide Quits Amid Probe Of 'High Jinks' By Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert B. McLeish — citing high blood pressure — quit yesterday as farmers home administrator. He did so while a Senate committee investigated charges of heavy drinking and high jinks among top agency officials.

McLeish, an Eisenhower administration appointee, was summoned to appear today before the Senate Civil Service Committee, which has heard testimony that he often drank excessively on the job.

The senators also have been told of a party in Montana where Farmers Home Administration officials allegedly went around "kissing all the girls," including wives of subordinates.

And yesterday, a witness testified a Texas insurance firm lost a contract it had held with the agency since 1939 after ignoring a suggestion from McLeish that it hire agents who were "Republican friends."

Mrs. Kathryn Carter, who formerly worked for the farmers home agency in Montana, testified Monday that at a state meeting two years ago, McLeish and Carl O. Hansen, then the

'New Look' In Family Groups

Phil Grozier, master "do-it-yourselfer," holds his two children, Phyllis, who is 2½, and Milton, 18-months-old, in the swimming pool which he constructed in the back yard at their home, 1512 Stadium. Taking it easy after a refreshing plunge in the water are

Mrs. Grozier and their six-year-old niece, Judy Spivey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spivey. Later this summer, the Groziers will have a canopy over the fence to provide protection from the afternoon sun. (Keith McMullin photo).

Dig That Swimming Pool! Grozier Did

Seems the tops in "do-it-yourselfing" is to build a swimming pool. And that's exactly what Phil Grozier, 1512 Stadium has done. In one corner of their spacious back yard is a fenced-off section which encloses a concrete pool with plenty of space surrounding it for sunning and lounging; and he built it.

Inspiration came to him because "it was so hot, and we just kept wishing we had a pool to jump into." He had studied the method of pool-construction at a previous time, but he just hadn't gotten around to working on one until last summer.

After investigating the possibility of having the excavation made, he discovered that the back fence would have to be taken down to enable the machine to come into the yard.

Rather than disturb the concrete blocks forming the fence, Grozier decided to "do it the easy way" and dig the pool himself. And he did — with a shovel — he "didn't even have to use a pick."

Best Way to Kill Roaches and Ants

COCKROACHES and ants are the most difficult household pests to control. Now you can kill these pests with Johnson's Super No-Roach.

No-Roach is a white viscous substance which you apply with a brush. Within minutes it dries to form a colorless, odorless contact insecticide, that stays effective for months.

Cockroaches
Apply No-Roach to cupboard walls, baseboards, near sink and cabinets, on pipes, and wherever you see cockroaches.

Ants
Brush No-Roach around table legs and counter tops, across window sills and door sills, and across ant trails. Ants will not cross the coating. Pour a few drops into ant hills.

No-Roach is also effective against resistant roaches, spiders, silverfish, waterbugs, bed bugs and other crawling insects.

Common Sense Way
Remember, when you use Johnson's Super No-Roach, you don't have to move dishes, pots and pans, or breathe harmful vapors, as you must with contaminating sprays. Apply No-Roach just where you want it, the invisible coating stays effective for months.

Guard against crawling insects this common sense No-Roach way.

Adlai Continues To Lead The Pack In Nomination Contest

By The Associated Press
Adlai Stevenson continued to lead the pack today in Democratic National Convention vote strength but still had less than half the delegates needed for the presidential nomination.

A new Associated Press tabulation of pledges and expressed first ballot preferences gave Stevenson 301 1/2, Sen. Estes Kefauver 265 and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York 110 1/2. A total of 688 1/2 votes is needed for nomination. Harriman's total rose yesterday with the naming by the New York Democratic State Committee of a 12-vote at-large group to complete the state's 98-vote delegation. The apparent division in the delegation is 94 1/2 first-ballot votes for Harriman and 6 1/2 for Stevenson.

Other Democratic presidential possibilities represented in the tabulation were Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas with 57 votes, Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio, 34 1/2; Gov. Symington of Missouri, 40 1/2; Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, 44; others 13 and 356 uncommitted. Democrats have yet to name delegates with 224 votes.

Republicans have picked 1,179 of their 1,323 convention delegates. Some 1,108 favor renomination of President Eisenhower and only 662 are needed for the nomination. Others favor Eisenhower with a state "favorite son" holding the votes for him.

The newest poll showed Stevenson picking up a few votes in rechecks in Illinois, West Virginia and elsewhere, putting him a little further in front of Kefauver.

Harriman—who did not announce until Stevenson and Kefauver had fought a number of primary battles, and engaged in no primaries himself—picked up 11 1/2 new votes in his home state.

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler outlined a program yesterday pointing toward selection of the Democratic candidate on the third day of the convention.

The convention is expected to last five days. Any convention deadlock apparently would delay such a speedy decision.

Speculation continued in Washington, meanwhile, over the Democrats' choice of a national convention keynote speaker. The names of Senators Kerr (Okla.), Pastore (R-I) and Humphrey (Minn) and Gov. Clement of Tennessee led the list.

In Kentucky the Democratic

State Committee named former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby to run in November for the remaining four years of the Senate term cut short by the death of Sen. Barkley.

The action pointed up a factional split, since Gov. A. B. Chandler already had named Frankfort Atty. Joseph J. Leary to serve in Barkley's stead until the November election.

The committee is dominated by supporters of Sen. Clements, who himself won renomination over another Chandler-supported candidate.

Kentucky Republicans this Saturday will choose their nominee to oppose Wetherby.

In New York, Harriman added his support to efforts by Kefauver to restore "a major portion" of cuts made by the House of Representatives in Eisenhower's foreign aid request.

Kefauver had asked both Harriman and Stevenson to join him in urging fellow Democrats in the Senate to put back some of the $1,100,000,000 cut by the House from the $4,900,000,000 request.

President May Stay In Hospital Till Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower now is expected to remain in Walter Reed Army Hospital until the latter part of next week.

Yesterday's final medical bulletin said, however, that Eisenhower is recovering "very satisfactorily" from the major intestinal surgery he underwent early June 9.

Eisenhower originally was scheduled to be discharged from the hospital around next Sunday but his private physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, told reporters it looked as though the President would remain at least a few days later.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty later confirmed this. He said Eisenhower would remain in the hospital until "about midweek at the earliest."

Asked if Eisenhower's stay at Walter Reed might be later than midweek, Hagerty replied: "Well, that's all we can say at the present time."

Eisenhower took it fairly easy yesterday. He was visited by his grandson David, who was driven in from Ft. Belvoir, Va., where David's father is stationed. He had worked on official business for about 45 minutes during the morning.

One of the President's doctors, Dr. Isidor Ravdin of the University of Pennsylvania, told reporters he did not expect Eisenhower to have another flareup of ileitis, the intestinal inflammation that led to the President's operation.

There had been published reports, quoting other physicians, that the ailment tends to recur.

Ravdin, questioned by reporters, replied: "I have never seen a recurrence in a patient of the age of the President." Eisenhower is 65.

Earlier, Hagerty had relayed similar queries to the team of doctors attending Eisenhower and returned with a statement that they "have no intention of engaging in controversy with other doctors who have no personal knowledge of the case."

Luscious Diana Dors Finally Answers Howl From Hollywood

LONDON (AP)—Eye-filling Diana Dors, Britain's luscious retort to Marilyn Monroe, said today she has at last yielded—with strong reservations—to the seductive rustle of the big folding money in Hollywood.

Miss Dors, a spectacular platinum blonde, told newsmen she leaves tomorrow to star opposite television comic George Gobel in the movie "I Married a Woman." She said she intends to treat Hollywood as gentle as possible, but firmly.

"Already," said Diana, "I have had to tell Hollywood one or two things about money. When they offered me the part, the terms suggested were $40,000 for the film and about $250 a week for living expenses."

"Now, from what I hear, $250 a week won't go very far out there and $40,000 is hardly a star's salary. So I cabled back asking what else they had to suggest. Now I am being paid $75,000 for the film, plus $750 a week expenses."

She continued: "Next there was an offer for me to appear on the Ed Sullivan TV show—a top program there. Good publicity, they told me. "I thought it would be good too until I found they were not proposing to pay me. 'Nothing doing,' I said. 'I don't cross the road to appear for nothing, unless it is for charity.'"

Miss Dors made her mark in British films as a dumb blonde, usually clad to expose the greatest expanse commensurate with the qualms of Britain's rather liberal movie censorship. Recently, however, she got rave notices playing the dramatic role of a killer condemned to hang in "Yield to the Night."

"I am not going to Hollywood in need of fame or fortune," said Diana. "It will be fun working there and I hope the film will help me to become an international star. But I have made my reputation—and money—in England, so I don't have to go begging to anyone."

And now for some impressions of Hollywoodians she has already met.

"I have met some of these Hollywood stars here in Britain and at film festivals.

"The young men are fine beefcake boys and many are good actors. But they seem to have had so little experience."

Scientist Ruled Insane In Knifing

PASADENA (AP)—A court has decreed that Dr. Robert J. Dwyer, government scientist, was insane at the time he stabbed four fellow scientists in a South Pasadena laboratory last February.

Superior Judge Kenneth C. Newell found Dwyer, 49, guilty of assault with a deadly weapon but agreed with psychiatric reports which termed him insane during a sudden knife-wielding outburst. All four stabbing victims recovered.

Judge Newell ordered another mental hearing July 10 to determine whether Dwyer is to be released or hospitalized.

Religious Liberty Threats Described

LYNWOOD, Calif. (AP)—An official of the Religious Liberty Assn. says religious freedom in the United States is being threatened in five areas of activity.

Dr. Frank H. Vost, speaking at a Seventh Day Adventist camp meeting, listed the areas as:

The use of public tax money for the support of religious institutions; the teaching of religion in public schools; boycotts by religious organizations; passage of laws enforcing the observance of religious days of worship upon the general public; and refusing the right of door-to-door religious visits.

Dr. Vost is editor of Liberty, official publication of the International Religious Liberty Assn.

Top Yankees Of Day

These three New York Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 7-4 at Detroit, Mich., with the deciding blow a three run homer by Mickey Mantle (right) in the 8th inning. Mantle's blast, his 25th of the season, was the second ever hit out of Briggs Stadium. The ball, hit off right-hander Paul Foylack, cleared the roof about 110 feet above the 370-foot mark in right center. Don Larsen, (center), pitched a 5-hit ball in relief over the last 6 innings and Gil McDougald, (left), added a home run. (AP Wirephoto).

Cook Defeats Webb AFB, 8-5, In Odessa Meet

ODESSA, (SC)—Cook Appliance Company of Big Spring defeated Webb Air Force Base, also of Big Spring, in a battle for survival in the Odessa Softball Tournament here Tuesday night, 8-5.

Earlier in the evening, Cook had lost to Humble of Wink, 6-3, while Webb suffered its first loss Monday night, yielding to Shell of Midland, 7-6.

Cook sees action again Thursday at 8 p.m., at which time it opposes the winner of tonight's Texaco-Blue Top engagement. Both are Odessa clubs. They square away at 6:30 p.m.

Texaco edged Phillips of Odessa Monday, 4-3, while Blue Top turned back Texas Company of Odessa, 3-1.

Cook led Humble, 2-1, going into the fifth but the Wink club picked up three runs in that round at the expense of Cotton Mize and went on to pad its lead with a two-run sixth.

James Tidwell clubbed a first inning home run with Darrell Snider on base while Truett Newell drove one out with the bases empty in the seventh for the Big Spring club.

Mack Keith pitched the win, setting Cook down with four hits.

Troy Wetsel authored the victory for Cook's against Webb, pitching five-hit ball. Dan Souza and Steve Hennessy each clubbed two safeties for Webb while Ookie Hagood and Wetsel each had two for Cook.

Cook banked all of its runs in the opening inning. Webb never really got started until the 1st inning, when it counted three times.

Only Three Yanks Seeded In Meet

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Only three American men were seeded yesterday for the annual All-England Tennis Championships June 25. Australia's Lew Hoad and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., drew the top-seeded singles spots.

This represented one of the weakest challenges the United States has ever made in the men's singles competition. The highest ranking American was Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris who was seeded fourth.

Corpus Employs Power To Win

Home run power maintained the status quo with the Big State League leaders Tuesday night.

Front-running Corpus Christi used over-the-fence clouts to subdue Waco's Pirates, 12-4, and stay 3½ games to the good over second place Wichita Falls.

Joe Christian hit a 3-run homer in the first inning and Keith Carpenter, Preacher Williams and Leo Posada parked the ball in the second frame—and Corpus Christi had a 9-0 lead before Waco realized what had struck it.

Gene Hurych blasted a 2-run homer in the eleventh inning to give Wichita Falls a 3-1 decision over Beaumont.

Port Arthur pulled into third place by mauling Lubbock 11-0 while Abilene was losing to Victoria 6-5.

Summerlin Risks Career In Satterfield Battle

CHICAGO (AP)—Young Johnny Summerlin of Detroit, hopeful of edging into the heavyweight title picture, tonight seeks his 13th straight victory against Chicago's explosive but unpredictable Bob Satterfield.

The 24-year-old Summerlin (30-4-2) is an 8-5 favorite in the Chicago Stadium 10-round. He risks his No. 6 ranking in the Ring magazine ratings and a chance against Pittsburgh's Bob Baker.

Satterfield, 32, a dynamite-fisted "spoiler," has a 40-21-4 record. He is a big hurdle for Summerlin's aspirations to get in the swim for Rocky Marciano's vacated heavyweight crown.

At the moment, the pending Archie Moore-Floyd Patterson scrap is pegged to determine Marciano's successor, but the retired champion had a good word for Summerlin in a Chicago visit last weekend.

"I've seen Summerlin on television and he impressed me with his youth, gameness and ability to take a punch," said Marciano, here for a civic celebration at suburban Forest Park. "He's got a future if he gets by Satterfield, who can knock out anybody he can hit."

ABC will telecast at 9 p.m. EST.

Find Challenges Robbins' Horse

BOSTON (AP)—Mid-afternoon's recent domination of the stakes racing scene is expected to meet its biggest challenge today from Alfred Vanderbilt's Find in the 22nd running of the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Mid-afternoon, the 4-year-old colt owned by Mrs. E. E. Robbins, is coupled with William Ewing's Alibhai Lashes. The entry is expected to go to the post as 6-5 favorites.

Nine horses are scheduled to break from the starting gate at 4:30 p.m. (EDT) for the mile and a quarter test.

Emperor Of Links Almost Quit Game

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Twice in his career Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the new emperor of links, came within a hair's breadth of tossing aside his clubs and returning to his Memphis dental practice.

Tough breaks and dwindling funds brought the first crisis, less than a year after he turned pro in March, 1947. The second resulted from a strange malady for a man in the golf profession—allergy to grass.

"I was on the winter tour and things weren't going well at all," Middlecoff recalls. "I hadn't been up to the pay window for two and a half months."

"Going into San Antonio, Edie (Cary's wife, the former Edith Buck), and I counted our resources and found we had exactly $210. That was enough to pay our hotel bill and caddy fees and our way home. We decided to give up the tour."

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Tom Higgins, a retired railroad man here, asks as to the whereabouts of Tony Rego, who ran a professional baseball club here in 1939.

The last I heard, Tony was running a bar in Tulsa. As far as I know, Rego never ventured back into pro ball after departing here.

Higgins gives Rego credit for a lot of baseball movie. He recalls Tony batting once, when the sacks were jammed and Big Spring needed a run desperately.

Tony couldn't hit very well but he used his noodle that time, according to Higgins. He tried to crowd into a delivery and let it nick his thigh. He failed his first time and his design went unnoticed by the umpire. So he tried it again and that time succeeded to get a home run, which came about as infrequently as West Texas rains these days.

If you've lost track of Jim Tugerson, the former Artesia Longhorn League barrier, he wound up with Amadio of the Western League, after leaving Dallas.

There were more than a few around the Longhorn circuit who thought Tugerson was bound for the big leagues when he was active out here. Count me in that group.

Arizona University, which pushed into the finals of the NCAA baseball tournament recently before losing to Nebraska, played 55 games before taking part in the tournament at Omaha.

Tom Farquhar, one of the most zealous workers in the Teen-Age baseball program here, was in the stands in the old Katy Park in Waco back in the '20's when Gene Rye hit those three home runs in one inning in a Texas League game.

Tom recalls that Gene was built along the lines of Potato Pascual, a-time mound hero of the Big Spring Broncs.

Billy (Chop) Van Pelt, the local boy who will try for a career in professional football this fall, will be paid $5,500 for one season's work. If he makes good with the Los Angeles Rams.

Chop was offered a $5,000 contract with LA a couple of years ago but had to pull a tour of duty with the Navy.

The Rams obviously took into consideration the fact that the cost of living has gone up, in forwarding him his new contract.

When Gene Tunney fought Jack Dempsey in that historic second fight for the heavyweight championship of the world back in 1927, his part of the gate came to $990,000.

He prevailed upon Promoter Tex Rickard to make the check out for an even million dollars, in exchange for $10,000.

LeRoy LeFevre, a baseball-basketball letterman at Big Spring High School the past school term, is helping his uncle, Clifton Patton, operate a swimming pool at Clyde.

LeRoy will probably wind up at Texas A&M on a non-athletic scholarship this fall.

CARDS TROUNCE CATS, 9-5, IN LOOP DEBUT

The Cardinals got off to a roaring start in Senior Teen-Age baseball league play here Tuesday night, making the most of three hits and ten bases on balls to win a 9-5 verdict over the ABC Cats. The Felines, managed by Glen Barnes, outbit the Red Birds, 9-3, but enjoyed only one big inning, the third, at which time they scored four times.

Terry Stanley collected three hits and Jackie Thomas two for the losers. One of Stanley's blows went for two bases.

Charley Johnson, on the mound for the Cats, struck out 16 but was wild.

The Cards took what proved to be an insurmountable lead in the sixth on a base on balls, two fielders' choices and an error. David Abreo and Billy Blum crossed the plate.

Blum went all the way on the mound for the Cards, who are piloted by Al Valdes.

Bernard McMahon drove out a home run in the first inning for the Cards.

Dark Big Help To Cardinals

BROOKLYN (AP)—If Alvin Dark has slowed up, it is not noticeable to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Brooks were unanimous in their opinion today that the former Giant captain will give the St. Louis Cardinals the impetus they need to become a serious pennant contender.

"I don't know which team got the better of the Giant-Cardinal deal," said Jackie Robinson, "but I know the Cardinals were not shortchanged when they landed Dark. He not only will plug the gap at shortstop but he will be a good influence on the rest of the club."

Dark has been with the Cardinals less than a week but already he's become their spark plug. His teammates' respect for him mounts with each game.

"I remember the night before the tournament I spent a lot of time changing the grips on my clubs—I thought they might be too large. Both Edie and I were very depressed. But at San Antonio I finished fourth and got $300. It was the sweetest check I ever received. It kept us on the tour and things began picking up after that."

Middlecoff, 35, son of a dentist and a dentist himself, learned his golf at swank Memphis country clubs, not as a caddy but as a player. He attended the University of Mississippi and the University of Tennessee Dental College, served in the Army and played golf at every opportunity.

As an amateur he was one of the country's finest, four-time Tennessee state champion and member of the Walker Cup team in 1947, although he withdrew when he decided he wanted to turn pro.

He could have played on the Walker Cup team and furthered his pro career, U. S. Golf Assn. officials still hold up his action in turning down the Walker Cup post as an example of the "highest sportsmanship."

When he turned pro, Middlecoff made one reservation. "If I can't prove to my own satisfaction that in two years I can be as good as Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, I'll go back to dentistry," he said.

An office, with his name on the door, was kept in readiness. It is still there. But Cary's not coming back.

Two years after his big decision—1949—Middlecoff proved himself Open champion. But he hadn't firmly established himself. There were seven years in between and valleys between 1949 and 1956 when Middlecoff proved himself definitely the cream of the modern golf crop.

Normally a pleasant, talkative person with an effervescent enthusiasm, he had temperamental outbursts which got him labelled "a gentleman Tommy Bolt."

Once the tenses-up doctor pulled out of four tournaments in a row on the Southern tour. He was called on the carpet by the Professional Golfers Assn., and fined $100 for "conduct unbecoming a professional."

In the 1953 National Open at Pittsburgh, Cary came to the 10th hole of the third round, hit his approach shot into the bunker and then slammed the ball over the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Then he walked to the clubhouse in a huff, leaving his partner, Walter Burkemo, stranded on the course.

"I'm tired of getting bad starting times," he complained.

Many of the doctor's temperamental outbursts could be traced to his allergies, although he never used the condition as an alibi.

"I sneezed and sniffled until I couldn't stand it any more," Middlecoff says. "Then I had to quit. I thought I'd sneeze my way right out of professional golf. But I started taking my fever shots—and still do, in fact—and I'm not having as much trouble any more."

Charles Winner In Phoenix Go

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles was awarded a technical knockout Tuesday night when Bob Albright of San Fernando, Calif., failed to come out for the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round bout.

The one-time champion from Cincinnati weighed 197 and Albright 209.

Houston Edges Up On Dallas

An eventful night in the Texas League saw Dallas win its eighth straight to stay on top, Houston sweep a long double-header from Austin to pull within a half-game of Dallas and San Antonio forge back into the first division.

Dallas whipped Oklahoma City 9-5—the fourth in a row over the stumbling, hapless Indians—by using its home run power, Jim Davenport socked a 3-run homer in the third and Andre Rodgers parked one with a mate on base in the fourth.

Houston struggled five hours and forty-five minutes to lick Austin 6-5 and 11-0 and tumble the Senators out of fourth place and down to sixth.

Stan Holmig continued his sensational hitting streak in leading San Antonio to an 8-4 victory over Shreveport. He got four hits and drove in four runs.

Tulsa beat Fort Worth 8-7 to remain in the first division. Ray Belino did the honors—he singled in the eleventh inning to drive in the deciding run.

Coe's 68 Wins T-Miss Medal

By WILBUR JOHNSON OKLAHOMA CITY — There was no doubt in anybody's mind today about the favorite in the 53rd championship of the Trans-Mississippi over the Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club course.

The 70s shooters included Jim English of Topeka, Kan.; Sig Harpman Jr. of the host course; Rocky Thompson, Wichita Falls, Tex.; Orville Goens, of Des Moines, Iowa; Abe Justice, a former Oklahoma State champion from Oklahoma City, and L. W. Scott Jr., Oklahoma City.

Coe shot the 6,830-yard, par 35-71 course in 33-35 to pace a field of 215 players. His round would have been much better with a little more accurate putting.

Coe met a youngster, Max Cole of Wichita, in his first match. There were a whole host of players who could give the low qualifiers a tussle.

Webb Air Force Base's $27,000 golf course will be ready next spring, it has been announced.

Planting of grass seed on fairways and greens is expected to be delayed until cooler weather arrives.

Pipe installation for the irrigation system is now being completed. The sprinkler system will cost an estimated $5,000 and will be paid out of the base's non-appropriated funds.

The actual labor involved in greens' construction, earth moving, shaping and planting is being done by military and civilian personnel hired by the Personnel Services Office.

The game was sponsored by the Washington Star.

John Cain, Lubbock, Tex., and Bill Webb, of Kansas City.

Coe knocked in six birdies but had three bogeys to offset what otherwise would have been an almost perfect round. He left three putts hanging on the lip from less than five feet and his longest putt was a 13-footer.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Eight Texans qualified yesterday for championship flight play in the 53rd Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament which started here today.

The Texans, and their scores, are Jack Jones, El Paso, 76; Rocky Compton of Amarillo, 70; John Cain of Lubbock, 71; Ricky Kuentler of Alice, 76; Raleigh Selvy of Tyler, 76; Rex Baxter Jr. of Amarillo, 77; Milo Childress of Amarillo, 77; Floyd Adington of Dallas, 72, and Ed Hopkins of Abilene, 75.

GOP Catcher Lands In The Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annual Congressional baseball game recorded a new "first" today—a hospital case—as House Republicans gloated over their second victory in nine years over House Democrats.

The Republicans broke a tie in the fifth and final inning of last night's charity contest, at Griffith Stadium to make it two in a row over the Democrats. They won 8-7.

The GOP's catcher, 45-year-old Tom Curtis of Missouri, wasn't on hand at the finish but heard the good news at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Curtis was rushed to the hospital after being knocked over in the fifth inning by Democrat Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, who scored from third during a six-run rally. Curtis suffered a dislocated left shoulder and won the acclaim of the 1,684 paid spectators as he was carted away on a stretcher.

The game was sponsored by the Washington Star.

Cabot, P-Wiggly Win ALL Settos

Cabot Carbon registered a narrow 10-8 victory over the Cubs and Piggy-Wiggly chalked up its second triumph of the season in American Little League play here Tuesday night.

The Grocers, behind the expert tossing of Robert Wilson, defeated the Flicks, 14-5.

The Cubs led Cabot, 5-3, going into the top half of the fourth but Jerry Dunlap clubbed a bases-loaded home run to put the Cabot team out front.

The Bruins again captured the lead but in the sixth Larry Holmes, Neal Robinson and Ronnie Cunningham hit successfully to give the Cabot team the lead again.

Tony Herring paced the Flicks' futile 14-hit attack against Piggy-Wiggly, collecting three safeties.

In games tonight, the Gold Sox oppose the Yankees in the opener while the Owls play the VFW in the afterpiece.

Russian Visitor Lauds America

DALLAS (AP)—A Russian woman who ignored her country's "no fingerprinting for visas" edict yesterday praised the friendly people in America but shied away from political questions.

Mrs. Eva Tseuril of Riga, Latvia, accompanied by her 8-year-old daughter, Dolores, settled down here for a lengthy visit with her mother, Mrs. Rosa Brodsky. It was the first time that Mrs. Brodsky had seen her daughter since 1937.

Mrs. Tseuril told reporters she was proud to be the first private Russian citizen to see the United States in many years.

But when asked about her being fingerprinted for a visa—which Premier Nikolai Bulganin had called "an indignity reserved for criminals"—Mrs. Tseuril said: "I'd rather not discuss about it."

Surrounded by relatives at the home of her sister, Mrs. Barnett Goodstein, she said, "All the people here are very nice to me. And that's what I expected."

"She talked eagerly about good times in Russia.

"Climate at home is nice. It's summer there—year a little bit colder than here. We have everything—flowers, fruits, we swim, go to the seashore, enjoy the beach and relax with picnics," she said.

Mrs. Tseuril, who speaks without too much of an accent, said her husband is an engineer in Latvia and earns about 1,200 rubles a month—about $300 in American money.

Asked if he had tried to make the trip with her, Mrs. Tseuril said, "No...he let me have this pleasure."

TB Association Board Hears Panel, Sets Budget

Members of the Howard County Tuberculosis Association board of directors, meeting Tuesday evening at the Health Unit, heard a panel discussion of the various phases of anti-tuberculosis work.

Taking part in the discussion were Jewel Barton, county health nurse; Mary Cantrell, county welfare worker; Zack Gray, chairman of the local chapter, and Dr. B. Broadrick.

Miss Barton told of the mass chest x-ray and of the procedure after a suspected infection is found. Miss Cantrell discussed the assistance given by the county to the family of a TB patient.

Dr. Broadrick spoke of the cooperation between doctors and the county organization in placing TB patients, after the treatment of the hospital, and the treatment for those who remain at home.

Gray described the working of the association in case finding, in the mass X-ray and personal X-ray. He discussed health education and publicity through pamphlets and articles dealing with TB.

A question and answer session followed the panel discussion. The proposed $4,240 budget for the coming year was introduced and was accepted by the group. A proposal was made that a sum be invested to draw interest; this was accepted.

George Melear reported on the assistance to be given the Howard County patients in the sanatorium at Carlsbad.

Jim Smith, in reporting on a TB Association conference held recently in Austin, told members that about four per cent of all Tex's have their chests x-rayed during the annual mass X-ray.

Fourteen members attended the meeting. The next session was announced for Aug. 21 in the Health Unit.

RESUME OF CRASHES
By The Associated Press

The worst commercial plane crash in the United States until today occurred Oct. 6, 1955, when 65 persons died in the crash of a United Air Lines plane near Laramie, Wyo.

The worst commercial crash in the world was March 12, 1959 near Cardiff, Wales. Eighty persons died when a transport fell while carrying soccer fans on a return trip from Dublin Ireland.

Other commercial crashes in the United States in which the death toll was high included:

On June 24, 1950 an airliner bound from New York for Minneapolis crashed into Lake Michigan, killing 58.

On Dec. 18, 1951, a C-46 non-scheduled transport operated by Miami Airline, Inc., crashed in Elizabeth, N.J., killing 56.

On Nov. 1, 1949, an Eastern Airlines plane and a P-38 fighter plane collided near Washington, D. C., killing 53 persons.

The greatest loss of life ever recorded for a plane mishap was when a military C-124 went down near Tokyo in 1953 with 129 servicemen aboard.

Eighty-seven lives were lost in Washington state in 1952 when another military C-124 cracked up during a takeoff.

Self-Reliant Woman Scores Selfish Wives

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—An outspoken woman with the iron of self-reliance in her blood says that many a modern American husband dies too soon because his wife saddles him with endless household tasks.

"Young wives are killing their husbands by expecting them to do too much work when they get home from their jobs," asserted 70-year-old Mrs. Agnes Ferguson Murdoch.

"And it's all done in the name of cooperation!"

"All this talk you hear these days about cooperation. Which really means things like the husband taking over the children as soon as he walks in the door, pitching in on a lot of housework, and all the rest of it. Oh, it's all so familiar, as the men know."

Mrs. Murdoch reared six children of her own and had a big hand in the upbringing of three stepchildren besides. For most of the 44 years of her married life she took care of a 15-room house with little outside help.

What's more she thrived on it. Not many would guess that she's crowding 80, nor question her proud boast of "grand" health.

Her husband Alexander has done all right too. He's a sunny, pink-cheeked, eye-twinkling 91.

On the subject of what she calls men's rights, Mrs. Murdoch said: "I think a husband deserves a chance to relax when he gets home after working all day. And I believe wives are pushing their husbands into heart attacks by demanding too much of them."

As Mrs. Murdoch sees it, too many modern women fall victim to self-pity, and self-pity leads to general flabbiness of mind and spirit.

"I managed fine," she said, "even if we didn't have the benefit of all these automatic appliances and other labor-saving gadgets, to say nothing of synthetic fabrics and goods you don't even have to iron."

"We mothers didn't have kaffeeklatches as I believe the daily habit now is called. We didn't have time. But did take about an hour each day to rest and to be alone just to think."

Man Sought

The letter, written by Mrs. Nettie Sneed Stanley, said that Sneed was last heard of in the Big Spring area and she wished the department to send them any information it had about him.

Any person knowing him or knowing where he might be reached is asked to call the police department.

He told policemen investigating the accident that he was at the time more interested in the counting procedure than in watching the street.

First Step Taken At Meeting On Physical Fitness Of Youth

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—An important first step has been taken by American leaders who met here to consider ways of bettering the physical fitness of American youth in an age of automobiles and escalators.

A prominent group of youth leaders left a two-day conference on the subject today with assurance from President Eisenhower that he will follow their recommendation and establish a "President's Council on Youth Fitness."

The President's concern over failure of American youths to pass a basic "minimum fitness" test which European youths breeze through resulted in the calling of the conference at the Naval Academy.

Vice President Nixon told a dinner meeting closing the conference that such action as naming committees to keep exploring the problem "can be the beginning of a solution to the problem or the shelving of the problem. I can assure you, though, that there will be a follow through in this field."

President Eisenhower's confirmation that he would name such a committee came within hours after the conference had recommended the action as a start toward keeping the nation from getting soft in the trend toward more mechanization and easy living.

Making up the conference were persons prominent in sports, medicine, education and other fields.

In his letter to the delegates last night, the President said he believed the delegates shared his feeling that a good fitness program was essentially a home and local community problem, and that a federal program should not be necessary beyond the coordinating and encouraging of local efforts.

Study groups at the conference also made these proposals: Daily physical education programs in schools and better health instruction for every child.

More financial support for recreation and youth programs "which the nation not only can afford but cannot afford to deny."

And all such groups in the community — schools, churches, social organizations and others — should cooperate.

Fitness programs should begin in the home, and adults as well as children should participate. Play areas should be set aside in homes for this purpose.

Youths themselves should have a part in planning such programs. (Many delegates noted that there were no youths at this conference called to plan for their fitness.)

More adults should be recruited for volunteer youth recreation programs.

Better use should be made of present athletic and recreation facilities and additional facilities provided where needed.

Two Persons Hurt
In Highway Mishaps

Four highway accidents in three days this week are scored on the investigation report of Ben Walker, state highway patrol officer.

Two persons were injured, one seriously, in the accidents, and a damage to vehicles will run to a high figure.

In each accident, only one car was involved. There were no collisions.

Fire Station Due Completion About July 1

Contractors and city officials look for completion of the fire station at Eleventh and Birdwell to be about July 1.

City Manager H. W. Whitney said this morning that the contractors, Pioneer Builders, are putting the finishing touches on the building, but some materials have not arrived, causing a slowdown on work.

Principal items include fixtures for lockers in the dormitories, the contractor said.

City park superintendent Johnny Johansen has drawn up a landscape diagram of the area and will start planting grass and shrubs next week. The work by the city crews will not interfere with work on the building.

The city is screening applicants for positions on the fire department staff needed at the two new stations. The lieutenants for the substations will also be named before the station is opened. They will be named from the present force, however.

No date has been set, but the city is planning to hold open houses at the Eleventh Place station shortly after completion of the project so citizens can inspect it.

STOCK MARKET
NEW YORK (AP)—Prices were irregular and activity quiet in early stock market trading today.

Most leading issues fluctuated from fractions to around a point.

After a moderately active opening in which the market showed a tendency to slip, the pace slowed and mixed prices prevailed generally all day.

A 10,000-share block of Panhandle Oil, up 1/4 at 1 1/2, featured the opening. This block was headed by the most active list for the past three sessions following news of a merger proposal with American Petroleum.

The cast includes Lt. George Jacobus (as Joe Pendleton), Al Everest (messenger Jordan), Libby Jones (Julia Farnsworth), George Lambert (Tony Abbott), Clara Freeman (Rettee Logan), and Nick Trepatzas (Max Lewens).

San Antonio Flooded; More Storms Threaten

Fickle Texas weather, which sent a flash flood over portion of San Antonio and churned up turbulence along the Gulf Coast Tuesday, threatened isolated sections of the state Wednesday with more thunderstorms.

More than three inches of rain flooded streets and homes in the University Park and Loma Park areas of northwest San Antonio. Water four to six feet deep coursed down some streets, trapping four unidentified boys in a car. Highway patrolman Eddie Strelzick rescued them.

Good rains fell over Atascosa County, below San Antonio. A tornado dropped out of black clouds seven miles west of Kenedy in Karnes County, ripping out telephone lines.

Earlier, three small twisters swirled through the air near Houston, causing no damage. A fifth tornado was sighted southeast of Beaumont, but never touched the ground.

LAMESA — Funeral services for Andrew Jackson Wilcox, 78, of Lamesa, were held at the Riley Funeral home in Hamilton Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m.

He died in a hospital here early Tuesday. He was a retired farmer and had lived in Dawson County since 1949.

He was a Mason, and a member of the Missionary Baptist Church. Survivors are three sons, H. G. and Haskell Wilcox of Lamesa and Rubert Wilcox of Big Spring, two sisters, Mrs. T. A. Hale of Moline, Mrs. George Connell, McLean; three brothers, Tom Wilcox of Artesia, N. M., Jim Wilcox of Houston, and R. T. Wilcox of Hamilton; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Dawson Land Suit Settled

LAMESA — R. A. (Skeet) Noret and Dawson County settled their differences over the sum to be paid for Noret's land being taken for highway purposes by the county.

The parties in the condemnation suit agreed on a settlement of $1,500 plus up to $125 for moving a sign. The county had offered Noret $1,965 for the land and he had demanded $5,000.

The settlement came after testimony had started in the case. Noret called eight witnesses for testimony Tuesday.

The suit to determine the amount of payment due Noret for 2.457 acres of land for Highway 87 right-of-way was being heard by a six-man jury and a Taboka attorney, Truitt Smith, named by Dawson County Judge Aubrey Boswell, to preside.

Members of the jury are Carroll Tune, Pat Fortenberry, Lawrence Vogeler, Forrest Necks, O. L. Green and E. L. Allen. Witnesses taking the stand during the first day were A. W. Partain, resident highway engineer; Noret, a Lamesa theatre operator; Harold Moore, Dallas theatre expert; P. L. Alexander, a realtor; Howard Allen, architect; Truman O'Neal, trucking firm operator; Lee Billingsly, farmer and feed store operator who owns land adjoining Noret's; and Alton Addison, county commissioner.

Noret termed his 25-acre tract ideal for a drive-in theatre or other commercial use, but said it had been leased for agriculture since he purchased it in 1951.

Lamesa Lions To Operate Swimming Pool This Season

LAMESA — The Lamesa Evening Lions Club voted last night to enter a contract with Dewey Koslosky to operate the swimming pool here.

The pool will not be open until the first of next week, according to Billy Corbin, chairman of the operations committee of the club. Repairs are needed.

Boss Lion Bill Nolen named Jimmie Edwards to head the concessions committee. Corbin, Edwards, Earl Henderson and Nolen have been the committee computing arrangements with Koslosky, owner of the pool. It was operated by the City of Lamesa last year.

Admission charge will be 25 and 50 cents. Lions will employ a manager and life guards.

Alabama Given 9 Days To Appeal Bus Decision

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — City and state officials have nine days from today in which to appeal a federal court decision against bus segregation laws in Montgomery or see enforcement of the laws stopped June 29.

A three-judge federal panel in a 2-1 vote yesterday issued an injunction against both the Montgomery and Alabama bus segregation laws. The panel suspended the injunction for 10 days, however, to allow time for its decision to be appealed.

The vote was the same by which the three jurists declared the laws unconstitutional June 5.

Officials said they would have to study the situation before deciding whether to appeal the case directly to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Negro attorneys who won the legal battle that came during Montgomery's half-year-old Negro bus boycott also said they were temporarily uncertain of their next move.

The federal judges said that a notice of appeal during the 10-day period would keep the injunction's suspension in effect until a new suspension order can be written to last until the appeal is decided.

If no appeal is made by June 29, the injunction will automatically go into effect.

Tito, Soviets Sew Up Rift In Red Bloc

MOSCOW — Yugoslavia agreed today to cooperate with the Soviet government and Communist party "on a basis of equality" and Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov told Yugoslav President Tito that the two countries will fight "shoulder to shoulder" in any future war.

Zhukov, wartime associate of President Eisenhower, spoke out after a Kremlin ceremony at which Tito and Soviet leaders signed two communiques outlining agreements reached during the Yugoslav leader's three-week visit to Russia.

The communique on relations between the two governments expressed their agreement that (1) Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations, (2) that Germany should be unified through negotiations rather than the elections which the West has advocated, and (3) that Formosa should be handed over to Red China.

It also said both governments looked forward to future personal contacts between them.

Tito was to leave Moscow two hours after the signing ceremony for Kiev, in the Ukraine, and then home.

Awaiting him was another major diplomatic effort—to try to convince the United States that he still is an independent Communist and not completely back in the Soviet camp. During his visit Tito has insisted that the agreements he was reaching with the Russians would not affect his relations with the Western nations who aided him after he broke with Stalin in 1948.

Missing Boy Is Located

Big Spring's missing boy was located today at the home of his grandfather in Santa Anna.

A. E. Long, juvenile officer, said that parents of Robert Dennis McCullough, 14-year-old Big Spring missing since Saturday, located him.

The mother left last night for Santa Anna to check with relatives. Mrs. McCullough reported to city police Tuesday that she received a letter from Robert and it was postmarked Santa Anna.

Thieves Even Take Car Door Handle

Vandals took a car door handle with them when they picked up a hub cap Sunday night.

E. T. Thorpe said that one hub cap and a door handle were stolen from his 1953 Dodge sometime Sunday night. He reported the incident Tuesday.

The hub cap was the 15th reported stolen since Friday.

Mrs. C. J. Sullivan, 311 NW 9th reported that a child had damaged her car by scraping paint off it. Damage was estimated at $5.

High Court Denies Plea For Rehearing

Texas Court of Civil Appeals in Austin today overruled a motion for rehearing of applications for writs of error involving a Big Spring case.

The case in which the motion was denied: O. D. Daniel versus Southland Royalty company, sent up from Howard County.

U. S. Gets Denial Of Tito Statement

WASHINGTON — The United States, it was learned today, has received an informal denial from Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito that he ever predicted that his country would march "arm in arm" with Russia from now on.

The Tito assertion, which could have an important bearing on the development of the United States policy toward Yugoslavia, was made to U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in Moscow and reported by him to the State Department this week.

Bohlen reported that Tito said he had been quoted incorrectly as saying that Russia and Yugoslavia had marched arm in arm during the war and would go arm in arm now. He contended he had said that the partnership existed during the war but that he had made no reference to the future.

Tito's denial could be quite significant — aside from any question of accuracy — as representing a continuing effort on his part to keep some kind of association with the United States and other Western Powers.

Administration leaders are showing increasing concern over Tito's increasingly warm declarations of friendship and cooperation with the Soviet Union, eight years after a bitter break made Tito the target of Russian invective.

Tito has said on several occasions that his closer friendship with Moscow would not hurt his relations with the West. He is still trying to maintain, it seems, at least the appearance of neutrality.

What has United States officials most worried is whether Tito's continuing "neutrality" has any meaning any longer and if so how much.

What counts in this kind of a situation is not necessarily a single incident so much as the sustained record of attitude. Experts here see Tito's general line of conduct on his three weeks Soviet tour as one broadly favorable to Russian aims in the political and economic struggle.

Several Apply For Red Cross Course In Water Safety

Several applicants for enrollment in the Red Cross Water Safety and Life Saving program had reported to the Red Cross office today. Deadline for enrolling in the first class which is to be conducted at the Municipal Pool is Monday.

Mrs. Moree Sawtelle, executive secretary of the chapter, urged all persons interested in qualifying as life saving experts to contact her office at once.

It is hoped a class of at least 30 can be enrolled.

First session of the class will be at 5:30 p. m. Monday.

Terrace Work Is Continuing On Area Farms

Terrace construction is still continuing at this late date, according to the Soil Conservation Service.

Among those constructing terraces at this time are D. F. Bigony on the W. J. McAdams ranch which he operates 20 miles north of Big Spring; and J. O. Haney on his farm in the same vicinity.

Cooperators of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District are also in the process of seeding blue panic grass. Those who have just completed their seeding are T. Wilford Neel, Big Spring, and C. H. DeVaney, Coahoma. Dr. A. L. Hamilton has just seeded 12 acres of range grasses on his place southeast of Big Spring. He seeded K. R. bluestem, blue grama, and blue panic in a mixture.

Many farmers who farm mixed land and who have a hard time controlling wind erosion have planted sudan in normal width rows and plan to seed blue panic in the middles as soon as the sudan gets large enough to control the blowing. If conditions never get right to seed the panic, they will have the sudan to graze.

If they seed the blue panic, they plan to kill the sudan with a sweep to eliminate competition for moisture as soon as the rains fall that will bring the blue panic up. Those who have already planted the sudan and are now ready to seed the blue panic should contact the Soil Conservation Service if more information is needed.

To obtain the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District grass seed, see the Walker Brothers Implement Company on the Lamesa Highway.

IT would stand to reason that automobiles selling in the same league, so to speak, would be pretty close in their engineering specifications.

Like in "torque multiplication"—the twisting force a transmission delivers to the drive shaft. (The greater the torque multiplication, the greater the performance).

But what do you find?

You find that any '56 Buick with advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo* delivers a higher torque ratio than any standard-production car in America.

And you find that this high-torque performance is one reason for Buick's best-seller standing. For Buick is now more strongly positioned in the Top 3 of the nation's biggest-selling automobiles.

That's news—and there's plenty more where that came from. For the '56 Buick is jam-packed with new engineering and styling advances to make it the best Buick yet, by far.

That new Dynaflo, for example, brings you the world's only switch-pitch performance in cars—plus a new part-throttle getaway response that's swifter, surer, and a gas-saver to boot.

The new V8 engine is 322-cubic-inches big, and packed with the highest horsepower, the highest compressions in all Buick annals.

There's a joyous new ride, too—a new steering magic—a new "sense of direction" in your every handling maneuver.

Thing to do is come see for yourself. That way you can also look at the prices that have helped move Buick to a new sales success—outselling all other cars in America except two of the well-known smaller ones.

Will you do that, this week?

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

5-Day Work Week Worries Merchants

The five-day work week is worrying Big Spring businessmen.

Many of them want to get their operations on the five-day schedule, which is growing in popularity.

The problem was discussed, but no action was taken, at a meeting of the Merchants' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Retailers pointed out that they are in competition with government agencies and other groups that offer employees the advantages of a five-day week.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of this country's long-range bomber force, says the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) has been blown up all out of proportion to its real importance.

Denies ICBM Is 'Ultimate Weapon'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of this country's long-range bomber force, says the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) has been blown up all out of proportion to its real importance.

"It is not the ultimate weapon," he told the Senate Appropriations Committee. "It will be another weapon in our arsenal."

LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, testified in secret on June 11. The committee released his testimony after it had been censored to prevent military secrets from getting out.

LeMay indicated doubt that Russia had developed an ICBM capable of speeding a nuclear warhead to targets as much as 5,000 miles away.

will have both the ICBM and an intermediate range missile by 1960.

But even when the ICBM is a practical reality, LeMay said, "all of our studies indicate that the most effective attack for a long time to come" will involve a combination of missile and manned bomber forces.

"The manned bomber," LeMay said, "will be in the picture for a long time to come."

After his closed door appearance LeMay was quoted as urging appropriation of an additional $3,000,000 a year for five years for purchase of B52 all-jet intercontinental bombers.

The day before yesterday, the Appropriations Committee voted to increase Air Force funds by $1,300,000,000 over the 1955 billions the House had approved.

The censored version of LeMay's testimony showed that he expects Russia to have "twice as many of the heavy bombers as we have" by 1959.

intelligence reports show that by that date "the Soviets will have the superior strategic air force."

Gibbs called the session for discussion of prospects for getting Railway Express Agency deliveries on Saturdays restored.

The committee voted to ask the agency to renew the Saturday deliveries.

The committee also voted to inquire why no air mail is dispatched from Dallas to the Big Spring area on Saturday afternoon airlines serving the section.

A survey of consumers in this area, to determine their opinions of merchandise, services and retail facilities available in Big Spring, was sanctioned by the committee.

Proposals for the survey will be returned to the Chamber directors who Monday voted to ask the Merchants Committee for its reaction.

Congregational Meeting Begins

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Congregational Christians convened today at a crucial point in the life of a church that grew up with America.

Up for decision — and perhaps stormy debate — is a proposal to unite this independent-minded, old church of the Pilgrims with a long-time Christian neighbor, the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The two would become the United Church of Christ, and the name "Congregational" — first applied to the early New England churches about the time of the American Revolution — would officially be no more.

The plan, simmering for 14 years and thrashing through the courts in typical, free-swinging style of congregationalism, has generated some climactic heat as the final steps near.

About 3,000 church representatives and officials are here for action by the church's top policymaking body, its General Council.

Although past votes by the council and the 5,361 individual congregations have indicated only minority opposition to the merger, recent weeks have produced some impassioned protests.

"Attitudes resembling those of civil war have developed in our Congregational Christian fellowship," says a letter of objection circulated by Dr. Marion J. Bradshaw, of Bangor, Maine, theological seminary.

A committee against the union, headed by the Rev. Malcolm Burton, of Pontiac, Mich., has submitted proposed legislation to specify that individual churches won't be bound by council action.

'CAPITALIST TOOLS'

Reds Snatch Support From Brazilian President, Aide

RIO-DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Brazil's outlawed Communist party — once an embarrassingly enthusiastic supporter of President Juscelino Kubitschek and Vice President Joao Goulart — has decided that both are against the people.

In an about face, the party now calls Kubitschek and Goulart "tools of imperialist Yankees."

When Kubitschek, leader of the Social Democratic party, and Goulart, top man of the Labor party, were campaigning for their offices, the Communists were as noisy as an illegal party can be in singing their praises. Chief mirror of the party's sentiment was the Communist-line newspaper, Imprensa Popular. It repeatedly attacked other Social Democrats and Laborites individually and collectively, but had only nice things to say about Kubitschek and Goulart.

This month Imprensa Popular printed a Red manifesto declaring, "Juscelino Kubitschek and Joao Goulart put aside their election promises and placed themselves against the people."

The manifesto charged the President and vice president with "granting concessions to North American monopolies, seeking conciliation with those who would overthrow the government and defend the selfish interests of the landowners and great capitalists."

It cited no specific examples in making these charges, but Goulart, who was a particular darling of the Communists in the election, was accused specifically of promoting the United States that laws which put Brazil's oil industry under government control in 1938 would be modified.

The party also repeated its charges that Brazil's raw materials for atomic power production are being given away and that the country is headed for a Fascist dictatorship. For the first time it placed the blame for both on Kubitschek and Goulart.

The biggest Communist grievance seems to be the chief executives' rejection of the party's bid to be made legal again and refusal to grant amnesty for some Red leaders who have been fugitives from arrest for five years or more.

Death Ends Cyprus Party

This is the wrecked interior of the Nicosia restaurant where U.S. Vice Consul William P. Boteler was killed and two other Americans injured by terrorist bombs. Three suspects were arrested by British troops in connection with the bombing which brought a tragic end to the dinner party attended by six Americans, all civilians employed by the U.S. State Department in Cyprus.

Garner Not Going To Miss Hunting

DALLAS (AP)—Former Vice President John Nance Garner isn't going to miss out on any hunting trips even if his shooting eye isn't as good as it used to be.

State Highway Engineer DeWitt Greer, paying a recent visit to the 87-year-old Garner at Uvalde, said he asked:

"Do you still go hunting like you used to, Mr. Garner?"

"No, I still go along on the hunt but I let the other fellows do the hunting," Garner told him. "Son, I can't see much farther than from here to you.

"I let the other boys do the hunting, I just drive the truck."

Revolt By Italy Red Boss Hinted

ROME (AP)—The Communist newspaper L'Unita hinted today that party boss Palmiro Togliatti is asserting Italian communism's independence from Moscow, just as Yugoslav boss Tito did in 1948.

A startling interview with Togliatti in which he was outspokenly critical of Soviet leadership appeared Sunday in the non-Communist magazine New Arguments.

The Italian party chief declared Soviet Communist Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev and other Kremlin leaders were wrong in placing all blame on "the cult of personality" when they denounced Joseph Stalin.

He demanded they explain how Soviet society under Stalin could have departed from legality and democracy and arrived "even at degeneration." Khrushchev and his colleagues lost prestige in criticizing themselves, Togliatti observed.

A L'Unita editorial today said: "The interview has shown that Italian Communists know how to tell that which is alive from that which is dead in the experience of the past and how to go forward toward the future in an original, autonomous way."

Adlai Picked In New Poll

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson is the No. 1 choice among Illinois delegates to the Democratic National Convention who took part in a new poll.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri has gained second-choice support.

Those were among the findings in a survey conducted by The Associated Press.

Ballots were mailed to the 78 delegates who will cast 64 votes at the August convention. Each was asked to name his first choice for the party's presidential nomination; his second choice, if any; or to list himself as undecided.

Replies were received from 37 delegates with a total of 29 votes.

A compilation of the returns showed:

First choice: Stevenson, 19 1/2 votes; Symington, 1; Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, 1.

Second choice: Symington, 4 1/2; Stevenson, 1; Gov. George Leader of Pennsylvania, 1; Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, 1 1/2.

Undecided: 9 votes.

The Associated Press also made a survey of delegate candidates before the April 10 Illinois primary. Of the delegates elected at that time, 12 had announced for Stevenson and two for Kefauver. Symington and the others were not listed in any April returns.

Whisky, Moisture, Shock Fatal Mixture

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—Two 17-year-old boys were killed today by whisky, sweat, rain and 200 volts.

The pair, after a night of drinking with older friends, collapsed against a window wired against burglars and were electrocuted. Investigators said the 200-volt current ordinarily would not have killed anyone, but the boys' clothes were soaked from rain and perspiration and they were too drunk to pull away from the shock.

Estimate Upped

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Earl Jensen, a Boise contractor, climbed into the attic of the public library to estimate his bid on a roof repair job. One of the items he'll have to include now is a broken skylight. He crashed through the glass and dropped 20 feet to the floor below. He wasn't badly hurt.

Gov. Long, Official Trade Hot Words

BATON ROUGE, La. June 20 (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long and Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. almost came to blows as they shouted in hot anger at each other today in a legislative committee.

Martin, speaking in opposition to a Long-backed bill which would oust him from his post as state insurance commissioner, heatedly demanded that the governor stop interrupting him.

A full-scale uproar broke out with spectators and Committee Chairman Robert Angelle rushing in between them.

Long had attempted to ask a question and Martin interjected, after listening to Long interrupt a previous witness continuously.

"You're just proving you're not fit to be state insurance commissioner," Long shouted.

Martin roared back, "And you've just displayed you shouldn't be governor."

Martin was loudly applauded.

Long jumped up to ask a question, grabbing the microphone.

Martin snatched it back, shouting, "Let's have order, Mr. Chairman." The crowd applauded.

Later the two state officials started a struggle for the microphone, almost coming to blows.

As the tension mounted, Rep. A. T. Anders Jr., of Baton Rouge, moved the meeting be adjourned.

Allow Yourself More Time

From E. C. McFadden of Dallas, president of the Texas Safety Association, comes a good piece of advice.

"Allow enough time to make the journey without pressure," he said. "If you do happen to get a late start, don't try to make up time on the way. It's better to get there late than not at all."

This sagacious suggestion hits most of us; it also fits right into the slogan of "Arrive Alive—Slow Down and Live."

Too frequently we find ourselves falling behind schedules in departing on a trip. Then we burn up the road trying to reach our destination at the time we had set before our late start. Most of us couldn't honestly say why it is so imperative that we reach a certain point at a certain time; or if it is so all-fired important to get to the destination at an appointed time, why we couldn't leave a few less important things undone and get that earlier start.

McFadden makes this point: "Much of the dangerous haste that involves ordinary drivers in traffic accidents comes from the too-prevalent habit of not allowing enough time for the daily schedule. Trying to make up a few minutes in traffic can be deadly. The driver who is obsessed with making time will not slow down for heavy traffic, slippery or rough roads, reduced visibility, fatigue or other physical disability. Moreover, his preoccupation with the time element will impair his judgment."

Well, if the shoe fits, wear it... and live longer.

Salute To Our Guardsmen

Several hundred National Guardsmen from this area are converging on North Fort Hood for their customary two weeks of summer training. If anyone thinks this constitutes a "vacation" for officers and enlisted men a few hours following one of the Guard units around on their chores and exercises would quickly correct that erroneous impression. Fort Hood isn't exactly a resort area, and officers and men "get the works" on summer maneuvers.

These citizen soldiers compiled a brilliant record in two world wars, and their place in the national defense picture is more important today than ever, with most of our in-being military strength scattered all over the world. And let it not be forgotten that two Guard divisions did their share of fighting in Korea.

Officers and men keep as physically and militarily fit as regular weekly drill and summer camp can make them. Many of their employers cooperate by paying their regular wages while in summer training, and in addition allow them at least one week, instead of two, for the usual vacation with pay. The same policy is pursued in the case of reservists. For this employers are to be congratulated for cooperating in what they recognized as important operations in national defense.

So, to maintain a vital ingredient in national defense, the Guardsmen sacrifice in most cases a part of their vacation and in some cases all of it, and some of them get no regular pay from their employer while in camp. On the other hand, employers who continue to pay wages while the men are in camp and provide at least part of the usual vacation period with pay, often find themselves short-handed during the training period, and are put to some inconvenience not to mention the expense.

All the same, they do it, and it seems to us they are due the thanks of having it recognized. Without this cooperation on the part of employers the National Guard would suffer a slump in enlistments, and the national defense thereby be impoverished.

Labor Influenced By Larger Issues

WASHINGTON—Is there such a thing as a "labor vote"? Or, do workers vote and react to political issues and candidates in much the same way as any other segment of the electorate?

Some interesting answers have just been revealed in a study of the political behavior of members of the United Automobile Workers Union as derived from interviews in the Detroit area conducted before and after the 1952 election. The survey was financed by the Auto Workers Union through a grant of funds to Wayne University. The results are presented in a book entitled "How Labor Votes" published this week, which was written by three researchers—Arthur Kornhauser, Albert J. Mayer and Harold L. Sheppard.

In the main, the study can be interpreted as confirming a view held by persons with long-time experience in politics who have felt that relatively few voters are swayed by labor legislation and by specific labor issues which the small minority of union officials and those immediately occupied with labor-union affairs may regard as paramount but which the rank and file do not.

Those interviewed revealed that 89 per cent had voted in 1948 for Truman and 11 per cent for Dewey. But in 1952 this changed so that only 75 per cent voted for Stevenson and 25 for Eisenhower. This was a concentrated area, and the Gallup Survey figures show that the workers gave a far bigger percentage to Eisenhower on a nationwide basis.

But it is interesting to examine the reasons for the shift in the Detroit area, where it is evident from the results of the new study that labor-union issues as such played a secondary part.

It was the Korean War rather than any feeling about labor-union issues which motivated the workers who, when interviewed in 1952, said they intended to vote for Eisenhower. In fact, "employment, security and prosperity" was designated as second in importance by these same Eisenhower voters. Actually, less than one per cent of this group listed any interest in issues described as "labor problems, interests of working people, labor versus big business, repeal of Taft-Hartley Act."

What was cited as important to them as issues, which presumably caused them to shift from the Democratic side, was the Korean War. This got a 46 per cent rating, while "employment, security and prosperity" rated 13 per cent, and a variety of percentages were noted on other issues.

As for the workers who said they planned to vote for Stevenson, it is to be noted that such issues as "corruption, mess in Washington, domestic Communism, government waste and inefficiency, foreign policy, defense, and relations with Russia" seemed of little importance. As for the Eisenhower voters, they prominently mentioned all of these issues in answers to interviewers.

The after-election survey showed that 52 per cent of those who voted for Stevenson said they liked the Democratic party, its traditions and background and general attitude toward the workingman and people of low incomes. Among the workers who had voted for Eisenhower, 34 per cent said the country "needed a change," and another 14 per cent said they had voted for Ike because he promised to end the Korean War. Another 31 per cent made mention of General Eisenhower's experience in Europe and his general qualifications.

The new book makes this comment on the matter of incomes: "Contrary to the opinion of some political analysts, auto workers residing in better income neighborhoods voted Republican no more than those in less favored districts."

What the study confirms, incidentally, is the theory concerning the party affiliation of the low-income groups—they are predominantly Democratic. The authors further say:

"Union people registered and voted in approximately the same proportions as the public at large, a phenomenon not usually observed in blue-collar groups. This would indicate that union efforts to get out the vote may have had some degree of success. One third of the membership did not vote, however, even though the great majority of these non-voters were legally eligible."

"Analysis of the workers' replies to questions asking about campaign issues indicates that the Stevenson supporters were inclined to emphasize labor's interests and economic conditions affecting working people while Eisenhower voters leaned more toward an emphasis on Korea and foreign relations and on economic issues seen by taxpayers."

The writers of the book, which is published by University Books, Inc., of New York, think "the trend may be toward a type of political program that is broad in scope, aiming to satisfy workers' varied tangible and intangible wants and at the same time keeping the general welfare prominently in view."

This is but another way of saying that workers are not always labor-union conscious when they vote and are far more affected by broad issues.

Reds Confused By New Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world's Communists—particularly in this country, Italy and France—have been having a time trying to get straight on the new line laid down by Moscow.

That line was given by Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev last February in Moscow in the same speech in which he attacked Stalin as a maniacal murderer.

He said Reds in the non-Communist countries should shift tactics; they didn't need to try civil war if they could take over peacefully, through parliamentary means, by forming united fronts with Socialists and others.

Violence, he said, would still be necessary where united front tactics failed. And he told them, in effect, that if they wanted to gain support from non-Reds in their own countries they'd have to show some independence of Moscow.

The way he put it was that Communism could be achieved in various countries in various ways. That meant they would sometimes find it expedient not to appear to be following the Moscow line.

This sounded simple. But he had actually put Red leaders in the non-Communist world over a barrel by his revelations about Stalin's monstrosities, because during the lifetime of Stalin, they had been Stalin's blind, dumb and obedient yes-men.

How could their judgment be trusted any more? How could they now convince anyone to form a united front with them? In the end the answer may be—to give the various parties a new look—that the present leaders may have to step down.

They took time thinking it over. A month after Khrushchev's speech the American Communist party leadership at a secret meeting decided to shift tactics, seek a united front, and try to give the appearance of independence of Moscow from time to time.

The program was outlined by the really party boss, Eugene Dennis, who had been a 100 per cent Stalinist. But John Gates, editor of the party's newspaper, the Daily Worker, apparently got his signals crossed.

On June 6—after a 25,000-word portion of Khrushchev's speech had been printed in the American press—Gates, also an absolute Stalinist, wrote an editorial which blasted Stalin but also challenged Khrushchev and Stalin's other crimes occurred while they were around him.

It is reliably understood that the party leadership jumped on Gates' neck for going too far. This wasn't the kind of criticism they had in mind. Meanwhile, Dennis put in writing, now published, the American party's new look.

And on June 16 the Italian Communists were heard from but only after, it seems, their losses in the Italian elections last month had shocked them into a realization they had better start talking.

The talking was done by their boss, Palmiro Togliatti, also a complete Stalinist. He praised the new Russian leaders but challenged them, as Gates did in the Daily Worker, to explain their own roles in the period of Stalin's "errors."

Then, following Khrushchev's line, he said Communist parties in the future would have to be their own bosses. This is the same impression the American Communists are trying to give.

But the French Communists were even slower talking than the Americans and Italians. They finally opened up on June 18, two days after Togliatti.

They must still be confused on what to do or say. They issued a statement saying they really couldn't say very much because they hadn't been given the full text of Khrushchev's speech.

Miss A Lot By Going Steady

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk reflections of a pavement Plato: Do you feel hopelessly immature in the presence of the younger generation?

Many older people do today. Particularly parents. They feel their children are outgrowing them too fast.

One reason is the widespread custom of earlier weddings. Marriage at 18 and 19 is becoming commonplace.

"But the worst thing is they start going steady so young," one father moaned to me. "Girls only 12 years old seem to think they should have a steady boy friend. And if you raise a holler they say you're old-fashioned. They say all their girl friends the same age are starting to go steady, so why can't they?"

Kids that age, of course, are only aping the high school teenagers, among whom the custom of "going steady" is now a nationwide problem.

Some educators see it as only a passing fad, such as the wearing of denim pants or pony tail hairdos. Other think it is senseless, dangerous and should be discouraged as much as possible.

Parents are as mixed up as the educators. Fathers generally are opposed to daughters in their tender mid-teens having a single beau. They have to restrain an urge to boot the young scoundrel down the front steps everytime he whistles at the front door—or walks in without knocking.

Mothers are more tolerant. "I'd rather have my daughter go steady with a boy who I knew was a good boy," said one, "than to date half a dozen, all of whom I couldn't be sure of."

The high school proms, as remembered by most middle-aged folk, are now a thing of the past. "There is hardly any cutting-in any more," a mother said. "The couples that are going steady dance with each other all evening. There isn't much changing of partners."

That, of course, makes it pretty tough on the kids who don't go steady. They feel as out of place as an old maid at a party where everybody else is married.

Somewhat this custom of teenagers going steady doesn't seem as alarming to me as it does depressing. Adolescence is a time when lifelong emotions are excited, but it is the time when they should be set in an adult pattern?

Charting Old Trails A Good Project

Ben Moore, of O'Donnell who has made West Texas history a hobby along with collecting Indian artifacts, once made a suggestion which strikes me as good sense.

Mr. Moore, with his near evangelistic zeal for preserving the marks of the pioneers, wanted someone to lay out the old hack route from Big Spring to Lubbock, and the variations from Colorado City to the north. He made the point that there may be a few men left now who could retrace the old trail so that it could be plotted and perhaps marked suitably at proper points. Within a few years, the sources for this information will be silenced and there will be no way to pinpoint these routes which once were the connecting bands for frontier communities. Hack drivers, like cowhands, followed the easy, practical trail; they didn't log it on a map or accord to compass degrees such as did Capt. R. B. Marcy and the other Army trail blazers.

If this is a good suggestion, why couldn't it be extended. In a broad sense, we know that the Comanche trail came through here, probably forking at the "big spring" with one branch swinging southward to Horsehead Crossing on the Pecos and into Mexico and the other swinging to the upper Conchos to the southeast.

Indeed, Capt. Marcy, in his epochal account of his journey from Fort Smith to Santa Fe and then to Dona Anna and back over an uncharted wilderness to the "big spring" which he logged so dutifully in his journal on Oct. 3, 1849, left a detailed account of his route.

Yet there is nothing to show us exactly where it was that Capt. Marcy and his party travelled in getting here or going on toward Ft. Smith. There is no marker to tell approximately where Lt. Harrison was scalded by the Indians somewhere above Vincent. But this trail could be marked with remarkable fidelity from the field notes that Capt. Marcy left.

There doubtless were other important trails in this area which old timers can recall and can plot accurately. The time when this can be done so that rough field notes could be made to preserve them for posterity is fast fading. The old main trails for cattle drives, or even the old Garden City road may be covered over and forgotten.

All this isn't exactly earth-shaking in importance, and yet there is a certain obligation of a people to preserve their footprints so that those who come after may see and note.

Assembling and preserving information about these old trails is worthy of some research and writing. It may be that we have capable and energetic historians who would be interested in such a project; it may be that some of our young folk with history majors would find the subject suitable for a thesis.

I can furnish information about the trail from home to school, followed twice a day by the Thomases, Pickles, McCrarys, Earnests, Earleys, Caubes, Creaths, et al from Donley Street east and south of Flat Top, thence south across the draw near west end of new East Ward extension, thence south-southwest over the brow of a hill and between where the hospital and apartment house now stand, south again across another draw and up the slope across where the drug store now stands on Johnson, from whence the parnasuss of knowledge loomed on the hill.

Just What Is A True 'Neutral'?

This Administration is in hot water again because its spokesmen have been riding off in all directions on the subject of neutrality.

President Eisenhower says there is room in this best of all possible worlds for neutral nations. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles opines that in this worst of all possible worlds there isn't even a toe-hold for 'em.

If the world beyond our frontiers is confused, what about us home folks?

With such a pretty kettle of contradiction to start with, it surely can't fowl up the situation much more to hear from a third party. So here goes:

It is one woman's opinion that both the President and his Secretary of State may be the victims of semantics—"that branch of linguistics concerned with the nature, structure and, especially, the development and changes of the meanings of speech forms," according to my dictionary.

The root of the trouble stems from the fact that the old, time-tested and honorable term "neutral" is being confused today with an upstart, Johnny-come-lately to our vocabularies. This is the term "neutrality," a piece of gobbledegook spawned since World War II.

For centuries, a genuine neutral in man or nation was one that kept his/its nose clean and sternly looked the other way no matter who was trying to attract his/its attention to the fight in the alley. But you can't hardly get that kind no more since the invention of neutralism. Neutral, in my dictionary, is defined "as not taking part in either side of a quarrel."

That's the definition we grew up with.

and it has been difficult for most of us to adjust to "neutrality," a diplomatic invention which allows a politician or a nation to be neutral FOR one nation or political philosophy while being neutral AGAINST another country and its governmental form or credo.

(This home-made definition of "neutrality" is offered here only because the concept is too recent to rate even a line in my 1953 dictionary.)

Neutrality in diplomacy is akin to Caesar's wife. It permits a neutralist statesman or nation to be all things-to-all men. Pandit Nehru, the father of neutralism, is a case in point. Neutralism permits Nehru to look sanctimonious while playing footsie with Communism and the U.S.S.R. and simultaneously stepping on Uncle Sam's pet corn.

Neutrality is a comforting international invention that allows a nation to take all the material aid that isn't nailed down from the Western World while taking political aid and guidance from Russia.

Maybe when Secretary Dulles blasted neutralism, he was thinking of this new-fangled, postwar diplomatic stance that permits its follower to face in all directions while his feet are firmly planted in one.

When President Eisenhower spoke a few kind words for genuine neutrals recently, perhaps he was wistfully thinking of the old-fashioned type that said "a pox on both your houses" and meant it.

In these trying times, I have a hunch that most of us would be only too happy to settle for a true neutral who would keep his feet out of the aisle and his trick cigars to himself.

The Gallup Poll

Public Puts Confidence In Guided Missiles

PRINCETON, N. J.—If extra money for the Armed Forces is voted by Congress, one American in every three would like to see the money used to build more guided missiles and rockets.

More than half again as many persons would spend the extra appropriation to develop and produce more guided missiles as would spend it for building more big bomber planes.

The guided missile program would also come ahead of building more big aircraft carriers, increasing the number of men in our ground forces and making more and bigger H-Bombs.

This is shown in the results of personal interviews with a cross-section of adults, representing all walks of life, who were asked by institute interviewers:

"If Congress votes extra money for our Armed Forces, which ONE of these things do you think the extra money should be used for?"

	Per cent
Build more guided missiles and rockets	32
Build more big bomber planes	20
Increase the number of men in our ground forces	14
Build more big aircraft carriers for the Navy	11
Make more and bigger H-Bombs	7
None of these	4
No opinion	12
	100

Among persons who attended college, the group which includes the opinion leaders of the country, more than three times as many would spend the extra money on our missiles program as would spend it on bigger bomber planes.

Today's vote by education levels:

	Col. High Grade	Leg. Sch'l	Per cent
Guided missiles	50	34	18
Bomber planes	16	20	23
Ground forces	10	13	18
Aircraft carriers	7	12	10
H-Bombs	4	7	9
None of these	8	4	3
No opinion	5	10	19
	100	100	100

What makes today's results especially significant is that they show signs that the man-in-the-street, for the first time, is placing greater stock in guided missiles and rockets than in airpower.

While the average American—no expert at military strategy and logistics—has comparatively little knowledge of the details of our defense program and needs, his judgment, however untrained, has been ahead of the military leaders just as it has been ahead of political leaders.

Airpower became a major "love" of the American people even before military experts were willing to admit the importance of its role in warfare.

As far back as 1935, just two years after Hitler came to power, the American public was definitely air conscious. In an Institute survey at that time, the public showed its farsightedness in not only favoring a larger Army and Navy, but in voting by 84 per cent for a larger Air Force.

This was at a time when Congress was whittling down military appropriations and when our airpower consisted of a comparative handful of airplanes of ancient make.

By 1939, just before Hitler precipitated the war in Europe, the public favored a larger Air Force by the overwhelming majority of 91 per cent.

A few months later, in March, 1940, when the Armed Forces asked Congress for money to buy 1,200 planes, Congress appropriated enough for only 59. Yet at that time the common people were not only for a bigger Air Force, as indicated above, but were also willing to pay extra taxes to get it.

As a matter of fact, the public in general has consistently been far out in front of the leaders in approving larger military establishments in the face of developing international crises.

Boom In Eggs

KENANSVILLE, N. C.—One of A. Q. Brinson's hens just couldn't stop once she got started laying. Brinson said he watched her lay one egg, and he chased her off the nest to get it. The hen ran a few steps and laid another egg. And a few minutes later she brought forth a third.

School Gift

OSCEOLA, Neb. (AP)—Last September, Dr. Charles W. Jeffrey, Rawlins, Wyo. physician and a native of Osceola, bought $200,000 worth of bonds sold to finance a new school here. When Dr. Jeffrey returned to attend a high school alumni banquet he announced he will cancel the last 14 years of the bond issue, a move that amounts to a $140,000 gift to the school district.

No Questions

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (AP)—The Carnegie Library here has hit on a plan for overcoming a serious shortage on its shelves. It granted a one-week amnesty for the return of all overdue books—no fines and no questions asked.

Nehru Plans Trip To U. S.

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru, who often attacks the United States with a vigor and bitterness usually reserved for an enemy, is leaving Thursday for a monthlong tour that will take him to Washington.

American diplomats hope the visit with President Eisenhower in July will help clarify the motives of both sides and provide a more friendly atmosphere for future cooperation.

Indian leaders are not so optimistic, though recent statements by the President and Secretary of State Dulles indicate the United States is doing some new thinking about its position toward neutrals. India still sees itself as completely neutral, friendly to all and without links to either side in the world's cold war.

Many outsiders see this nation of 370 million people, only eight years old in its independence, dangerously close to Soviet Russia and Red China and moving steadily to the left both politically and economically.

India is still hailed as the strongest democracy in Asia. But the whole trend of Indian thinking seems toward closer relationships with Moscow and the Communist bloc.

Visitors from Russia and her satellites are swarming over friendly India.

What causes Indian editors to give large headlines to each gesture of Soviet assistance and pass over with relative inattention more substantial American gifts and loans? What has happened that Indians in general and Nehru in particular find so much to praise in Soviet policies and so little that pleases them in Western policies?

Probably two basic factors, relatively minor to the West but vital to India, lie behind the trend. They are the question of Kashmir, over which India and Pakistan have battled to the verge of war, and the question of American military assistance to Pakistan.

Portuguese Goa too figures in Indian thinking but not to the extent of the other factors.

All three issues have caused the average Indian to think of Britain and the United States as unfriendly, even as supporters of colonialism, while the Russians, who have plumped on the Indian side of these controversies, are thought of as friends and supporters.

Indian leaders say they never will be reconciled to American arms aid to Pakistan. Even though India is four times Pakistan's size and has much greater political and economic stability, India has

Mrs. John Eisenhower, wife of President Eisenhower's son, and her three oldest children enter Walter Reed Hospital at Washington, D. C., to pay a Father's Day visit to the recuperating Chief Executive. Mrs. Eisenhower is carrying a tray of plants in gaily painted flowerpots, decorated by eight-year-old David; Susan, 4, and Barbara Anne, 7. Note the baby's bottle and comic books clutched by David. Hospitality on the Highway!

Own Car May Stop Thefts

BALTIMORE (AP)—A young man who told the judge he stole cars only to get to work on time after sleeping late is going to get his own car.

The defendant, Thomas F. Ford Jr., 21, who recently pleaded guilty in Criminal Court to eight cases of car theft, already has got something else — suspended sentences for auto theft totaling four years.

Judge E. Paul Mason said he didn't think very much of the suggestion of Ford's father that the young man's troubles would be eased by a car of his own, but explained he had decided the idea might be worth a try.

Ford told the court he abandoned the cars as soon as he got to work. He was arrested after a squad of detectives staked out a small area of the city where some 50 cars had been stolen in a short time.

Britain Explodes An Atomic Device

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Britain exploded an atomic device off Australia's northwest coast today in the second and final blast of its current series of nuclear experiments.

A brief announcement by the British Ministry of Supply said the explosion was successful and all safety precautions were in operation in the remote Monte Bello Islands, 12 miles off Australia. It added that scientific records were being collected for evaluation.

The announcement gave no hint as to the nature of the device, but it has been generally accepted that the tests were planned to develop a trigger for Britain's first hydrogen bomb.

The British H-bomb, still being developed, is to be tested next year.

Delay In Traffic Safety Day Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Advisory Council of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety has recommended that its next nationwide safe driving campaign be put off until next year.

It suggested spring as possibly a better time for Safe Driving Day. The last two years it has been held in December. It said consideration should be given to "selecting a period when the maximum number of people will be most likely to read and heed the traffic safety messages."
