Governor's Race Warms For Fourth

Texas Democratic gubernatorial candidates were taking pot-shots at each other and giving their vocal cords a final warmup Tuesday in preparation for a big Fourth of July flow of oratory at picnics, barbecues and celebrations.

All of the gubernatorial candidates, with the exception of W. Lee O'Daniel, that is, were due to include San Angelo on their Independence Day schedule.

In addition to the San Angelo celebration which was due to attract Daniel, Ralph Yarborough, Reuben Senterfitt, J. J. Holmes, and J. Everett Haley, a debate on segregation was scheduled Wednesday between two of the candidates at Palestine.

Rep. Jerry Sadler of Hickory Grove said that Yarborough and Haley had been invited to discuss their views on segregation at a VFW barbecue and political rally at Palestine Wednesday.

Shower Hits City, Little Elsewhere

A late afternoon shower, which concentrated its impact largely on Big Spring and on the south half of the town in particular, brought moisture ranging in quantity from a brief shower in some sections to as much as an inch in others.

A spot-check of the county indicated that little rain fell elsewhere and that the downpour was restricted to a narrow segment.

Most rain reported fell at the extreme south end of Virginia Street, where residents said their gauges showed as much as an inch of rain. The U. S. Agricultural Experiment Station on the north edge of the city had only .08.

At the Big Spring Daily Herald office, the gauge recorded .41 inch. Junior College gauge showed .38 inch. On Dixie, near Eleventh Place, .6 inch was measured.

Considerable wind accompanied the showers. This, too, seemed to vary sharply in force in different parts of town.

Cloudbursts Hit Drought Regions In South Texas

Rains of almost cloudburst proportion fell in the drought area Monday and the Weather Bureau said more thundershowers could be expected Tuesday.

Annabell ranch, in the same general area, had 3.50 inches. Other rainfalls included Bandera 2.50, Carrizo Springs 2.40, Encinal 2.30, Utopia 2 and San Angelo 1 1/2.

Drug Store Worker Dies In Gun Battle

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A policeman shot a drug store employee to death in a blazing battle here last night after the man had critically wounded a bystander who came to the policeman's aid.

William H. Lynn, 37, employed by a downtown drug store, was fatally wounded by patrolman O. J. Meissner who fired from the ground where he had been knocked by Lynn.

Louis Gutierrez, 43, was shot in the chest by Lynn when he came to Meissner's aid, a police report said. He was in a hospital in a critical condition.

The shooting occurred in front of the drug store. Meissner was not wounded.

Harvey Smith, 30, owner of the drug store, narrowly escaped injury when a bullet was fired through his trousers leg as he attempted to disarm Lynn.

Lynn, a former Army lieutenant and free-lance photographer, was dead on arrival at a hospital. He had been shot in the mouth, left side and right leg.

According to police reports, Lynn had been employed at the drug store for several weeks.

Meissner was his day off. Leo Halliday, an employee of the store, told detectives that Lynn had been drinking beer in the store and became abusive.

Halliday told Lynn to leave, he said. A fist fight followed. Halliday and Lynn were separated and shook hands, police reported.

Lynn left, telling Halliday, "I'll be back," police said.

Some 15 minutes later, Lynn returned with a .38 pistol.

"I'm going to kill you, you hit me," Halliday said Lynn told him.

Halliday ducked behind a counter and Lynn fired but missed. Smith wrestled with Lynn and a shot was fired through Smith's trouser leg.

Meissner, who had checked the earlier disturbance during Lynn's absence, was a block away when he heard a shot.

He found Smith and Lynn struggling outside the store and attempted to disarm Lynn. Lynn, a 6-foot-1, 235-pound, three-Meissner to the ground and fired at him, the patrolman reported.

At this juncture, Gutierrez, who had been in the drug store, grappled with Lynn and was shot.

Meissner emptied his revolver at Lynn, then rolled to the safety of a parked car to reload the pistol. Lynn, with a pistol still in hand, slumped to the ground fatally wounded.

Recover Crash Victims
Partions of bodies of persons who perished in the crash June 30 of a TWA Super-Constellation in this rugged canyon killing 70 persons after it had apparently collided in mid-air with a UAL DC-7, are carried in a rubber bag by Army officials from a helicopter at Grand Canyon, Arizona. This picture was made by a Los Angeles Times photographer.

Official Report Airliner Crash Laid To Collision

GRAND CANYON (AP)—An Air Force officer said today there was "a positive indication" that the two airliners which crashed 128 persons to death in the Grand Canyon Saturday had collided in flight.

Capt. Byrd Ryland, head of an air search and rescue unit from March AFB, Calif., said the evidence pointing to a collision consisted of paint scratches found on pieces of a TWA Super Constellation.

The Constellation and a United Air Lines DC7 smashed into nearby buttes in the canyon Saturday. A collision had been the general presumption since the first wreckage was spotted Saturday night.

The first official report to substantiate this belief came shortly after the last remains of victims were removed from the TWA wreckage.

"I saw positive indications of collision in flight at the TWA crash site," Ryland said.

Questioned about the evidence, he said he saw paint scratches. He said he did not see any pro-peller marks on the TWA wreckage.

Jack Parrshall, Civil Aeronautics Administration examiner, refused comment on Ryland's statement or one also made by Coccinno County Coroner Shelby McCauley that the planes collided.

Recovery crews finished their work on the jagged Grand Canyon butte where a TWA Super Constellation smashed to bits. Then, they turned their attention to attempts to reach the more inaccessible peak on which ruins of a United Air Lines DC7 are scattered.

Military helicopter crews, braving treacherous winds, a narrow canyon neck and sharp, rocky peaks, flew out 26 olive drab rubber bags containing remains of the 70 victims aboard the Constellation.

Frank Bush, TWA vice president who combed through the wreckage said that apparently some of the Constellation's outer surfaces—such as stabilizer fins—apparently had come off as the plane plunged toward the bottom of the canyon.

Reaching the TWA wreckage was a difficult, dangerous job. Getting to what is left of the DC7 is even more so.

Many Officials Also Charged In Rebellion

BERLIN (AP)—The Red Polish rulers of purge-ridden Poznan today put on trial the first of the rebel workers jailed after last week's bloody three-day revolt.

A responsible Communist official arriving from Poznan said the workers were taken from prison and put before secret police courts.

But the Communist added that the police trials were only for "secondary" violators among the hundreds of rebel workers jailed by the Communist security forces.

"I know of no executions that have taken place," he said.

The Communist, who is not a Pole himself, asked that his name and nationality be withheld.

Two Danish businessmen who reached Berlin from Poznan today told newsmen that the terrorized city was full of rumors and one of them is that some executions of workers took place as early as June 29—the day after the revolt began.

Other Western businessmen on the last and only train to Berlin for the day said they heard nothing of any executions.

The trials came as Poland's ruling Communist party cracked down on "lax and cowardly" officials charged with failing to head off the Poznan revolt.

ADN, the official news agency of Communist East Germany, said Polish leaders had launched investigations to find out why party members in Poznan "displayed such a lack of vigilance."

It said they were not prepared to "counteract the planned provocation in time."

Trybuna Ludu, official organ of the Polish Workers (Communist) party, ripped into party officers if said scattered to safety when the uprising exploded Thursday and "did not return from hiding until order had been restored."

The attacks by the Communist organs indicated the Polish Communist hierarchy, jolted badly by the Poznan upheaval, was hunting for scapegoats.

Reports reaching Berlin led to speculation the party already may be swinging against party and government officials, as well as against hundreds of workers jailed during the uprising.

"There may be some changes in the Polish leadership," said a Communist journalist on his arrival here from the riot city. He said troops had been withdrawn from Poznan itself, but the city was sealed off by a wall of tanks and artillery.

The Red writer and Western travelers who came out of Poznan agreed that stern police measures made any further general demonstrations unlikely.

4 Orphaned By Drowning

COLORADO CITY—The body of J. W. Lydia, 35, was recovered from Lake Colorado City at 6:40 p.m. Monday after a four-hour search.

Lydia, an employee of the Texas Electric Service Company, fell into the water near the mouth of an outlet channel which discharged 125,000 gallons of water per minute into the lake, from the big Texas Electric power plant a quarter of a mile away.

Lydia had been making some measurements near the outlet and lost his footing and fell into the turbulent water.

Recovery units from the Colorado City, Snyder, Sweetwater, and Big Spring fire departments and from Webb Air Force Base, assisted in the search. The body was found by the Colorado City unit about 220 feet from the mouth of the outlet.

Lydia's wife died in May, and he is survived by four children, a four-year-old son, Jackie, and three older daughters, Nina Lee, Mary Bell and Jane Eva, all of Colorado City.

The body is at the Kiker and Son Funeral Home in Colorado City.

Presbyterian Group Has Program, Lunch

Three programs were combined into one for the First Presbyterian Women of the Church.

Meeting Monday morning, the executive committee held a session before the regular gathering. Mrs. Charles Harwell, vice president, was in charge of the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Tommy Jordan, and she offered the opening prayer.

Various committee chairmen and officers gave reports. Mrs. W. G. Wilson Jr. reported on the recent meeting of the United Council of Church Women.

Mrs. Johnny Johnson, in charge of the program, introduced the topic, "The Community and the Home." Three speakers took part in the discussion.

The first speaker, Bobo Hardy, told of the four phases of the work done by the YMCA. He told how the Y tries to guide the youth of the community, mentally, physically, socially and in a Christian way.

Jewel Barton, county health nurse, discussed the work of her office and told of the TB problem. Dr. Loyal V. Norman described the projects planned for the public schools. A question and answer period was held at the conclusion of each discussion.

Mrs. T. S. Currie dismissed the group with a prayer.

A covered dish luncheon was served following the meeting, with Mrs. Arthur Pickle and Mrs. Elmer Boatler as hostesses.

Seventeen attended the luncheon, with Dr. and Mrs. Norman as guests.

First Baptist WMS Hears Bible Lesson

Study of the book of Stewardship was continued Monday afternoon by the First Baptist WMS at the church. Dr. P. D. O'Brien brought the discussion on the fifth chapter, "Stewardship of Possessions."

The speaker stressed the fact that the ability to make money comes from God, and that He is the owner of all we possess. Dr. O'Brien told the women that we owe a tithe besides gifts. Tithing, the group learned, should be cheerful, worshipful, proportionate and sacrificial.

Mrs. B. T. Faulkner, Sunbeam leader, announced that the Sunbeam Band will take part in the program at the Sunbeam encampment of the district. This meeting is scheduled for July 13 at the Baptist Encampment Grounds.

During the third week in July the Royal Ambassadors will hold an encampment at the grounds. Several days in August will be devoted to an encampment for Latin American boys and girls; the following week will be given over to the colored children.

It was announced that all circles will meet at the church at 3 p.m. Monday, with members of the Lucille Reagan Circle in charge of the program.

Mrs. Leroy Hollingshead dismissed the 25 members with prayer.

A Move Is More Than Leaving An Old Home

By ANNE LEFEVER

When you prepare to move from a house in which you have lived for 37 years, there are quite a few memories to transport as well as an accumulation of "worldly goods."

That's exactly what Mrs. James T. Brooks is finding out in her move from her home at 806 Johnson to a new one at 1311 Settles.

It was in October, 1919, that the late Judge Brooks bought the place on Johnson and he and his bride started housekeeping. "We thought we were living in the country," she told me.

Mrs. Brooks laughed as she remembered that the only things they had to buy were "a dishpan and a 'setter' for the living room. The house was furnished with wedding presents."

That was at the time when cut-glass and handpainted china were most popular bridal gifts. Mrs. Brooks remarked that she probably has two hundred pieces of cut-glass, and enough other varieties of dishes to make the nine barrels which were moved from the old house.

One article of furniture that it takes an oldtimer to remember is a Hoosier cabinet. The newly married pair even received such a cabinet, and Mrs. Brooks still has it.

Their two children, Lorena and James, were born in the Johnson Street home - "there wasn't any hospital here, then." The couple was lucky to live close to her mother and sister, who served as baby-sitters while Mrs. Brooks did her civic work. "We wouldn't have thought of leaving children with outsiders in those days," she said.

Their wedding plans were postponed by World War I, during which Judge Brooks was captain of a company made up of boys from this area. "They came back feeling as if every boy was a brother," Mrs. Brooks recalled, "and my husband felt as if they all belonged to him."

The bride's work in civic affairs began when the Brookses had been married about a year and a half; her husband had been engaged in public interests long before that.

In 1921, he was asked to serve on the school board. Feeling that he had too much to do to undertake that task, the young man suggested that his bride would fill the position. Mrs. Brooks was elected, and thus became the first woman in Texas to serve on a school board.

She laughed heartily as she told of being sworn in. One of the questions asked was, "Did you ever fight a duel?" Thinking it was a joke, the young bride answered, "No, I haven't been married that long!"

Even though they have moved so much to the new home that the garage is worse than Fibber Magee's closet, according to Mrs. Brooks, they forgot their can opener. They have to use a butcher knife to open all the cans, as they did in the old days.

Mrs. Brooks has been president of P-T-A ten different times. She found it was "easier to be president than to do the work of regular members." For several years, she was district parliamentarian and gave parliamentary courses in 16 counties.

In 1938-39, she was president of the 1905 Hyperion Club and the Eastern Star at the same time. "In fact," she said, "I've been president of about everything in town!"

It was announced that a bunco social will be held each first Monday after the business session. For July 15, a Chinese auction is planned; this is the regular social meeting.

The card parties, usually held on Wednesday afternoon at the NCO Club, have been discontinued for the summer, the members were told.

A letter from the Air Force Times was read to the group asking that publicity about the club be sent in for publication.

Mrs. Vincent Best was awarded the special prize of the evening. Hostesses were Mrs. Boris Sursky and Mrs. James Smith.

Impact Of Steel Strike Grows As Talk Date Nears

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Railroads and other freight haulers felt the growing economic impact of the nationwide steel strike today as negotiators for the United Steelworkers and the basic steel industry marked time awaiting talks with the government's chief labor mediator.

The Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads posted furlough notices yesterday affecting some 23,000 workers. It was indicated more unemployment would follow if the strike continues.

The railroads, dependent on the steel industry for much of their business, were forced to cut operations sharply following the walk-out of 650,000 steelworkers at midnight Saturday.

Even as the layoffs were announced, Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service, arranged to meet separately here Thursday with USW and steel industry leaders.

Uncle Ray: Various Elements Exist In Meteors

By RAMON COFFMAN

Additional questions about meteors remain to be answered.

Q. How fast does a meteor move when it strikes the earth?

A. The speed differs a good deal. The differences are due in large part to the direction from which meteors come.

A meteor may be traveling 25 miles a second. If it strikes the earth "head on," we must add the velocity of the earth. The speed of collision then will be about 45 miles a second.

Other meteors are known to "catch up with the earth. If one comes along at 25 miles a second, it enters the air around the earth at the "slow" speed of about seven miles a second.

After going through thin parts of the atmosphere, a meteor reaches thick air and is slowed down to some extent. Nevertheless, it still has terrific speed.

Q. What kinds of material do meteors contain?

A. Many kinds. Some are made of stone, rather like the lava of volcanoes. Others contain iron, nickel, cobalt, aluminum, sodium, silicon and sulphur.

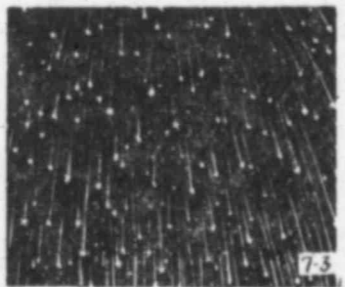

Q. What is a meteor shower?

A. It is a display of meteors. Many more fall than usual. Except in rare cases, a person sees only one or two meteors a minute during a shower. In an hour he may observe 100 or more. Most of the meteors during a meteor shower radiate from a certain section of the sky.

In rare cases amazing displays are seen. Hundreds of meteors streak through the sky.

The great meteor display took place 123 years ago. Observers declared that meteors "fell like snowflakes." It was estimated that 50 thousand of them were seen in one hour!

Meteor showers have taken place in the present century, but they have fallen short of two great showers of the past century.

Morse Urges Ike Intentions Be Told Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Morse (D-Ore) said today it is President Eisenhower's "clear obligation" to tell the country quickly whether he intends to remain in the running for a second term.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said a second term would be "bad for the country, bad for the world." Sparkman said he doubts Eisenhower ever could be more than "a part-time President."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday "I haven't seen anything resuscitated" in connection with Eisenhower's Feb. 29 announcement he was available for the Republican nomination again.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said in a separate interview he has not talked with Eisenhower since his June 9 intestinal operation, but "I think the President is going to run all right."

Morse, who has been critical of many of Eisenhower's policies, said he thinks the time has come for the Chief Executive to speak out on his plans.

"We are all greatly concerned about the health of the President, irrespective of partisan politics," Morse said. "The domestic and foreign affairs of our country are in too critical a condition for the people to be kept in doubt much longer as to whether he can regain his full vigor so that he can assume the full — not partial — responsibilities of his office."

"It is his clear obligation to make known immediately whether he intends to stay in the race or not."

Sparkman, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said that because of his health Eisenhower "hasn't any business running."

"For over nine months since his heart attack last September we have had a part-time president," Sparkman said. "If he should be re-elected we would be destined to have a part-time president for another four years."

"Without regard to the makeup of the two parties' tickets, Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) said Republicans have it in their power to determine whether this fall's campaign is going to be conducted ethically or reduced to a "shambles" of argument over communism.

Neuberger touched off a political flareup yesterday with the assertion that a Senate GOP policy committee document tried to "smear" Democrats by contending that Communists want them to win the election.

The committee says it has no responsibility for such memos prepared by its staff.

Neuberger demanded that the GOP policy committee repudiate the memo, which Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) called an attempt to put a "Red label" on the Democrats.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) sided with the Democrats. He termed the GOP committee's document "shameful" and said he disagreed with it "completely."

"I think it is very shameful that it should have been suggested that any member of either the Republican party or the Democratic party has any Communist leanings," Smith said.

Knowland said that as Republican leader it is his judgment "the members of the Democratic party are as patriotic and devoted to this country as is any (Republican) member who sits on this side of the aisle."

Democrats have complained that Vice President Nixon and some other GOP speakers implied in the 1954 campaign that their party was soft toward communism. Neuberger said in an interview he hopes the Communist issue won't be raised again, adding: "The very fact that Sen. Smith has repudiated this sort of thing puts the responsibility up to the Republicans to campaign ethically."

"If we Democrats resorted to the same tactics, the campaign would become a shambles."

Aspects Of Poznan Rioting

The first open defiance of Communist authority in Poland came just three years after the East German incident of the same nature. As was the case in Germany in 1953, the outbreak at Poznan, an industrial city of 300,000 in an area that was formerly East Germany, came from the very people the Communists pretend to favor most—the workers. It began at a single factory, and as the marchers made their way toward the center of the city crying "Bread! Bread!" and their numbers increased by the thousands.

At first the police used machine pistols on the rioters, but this slowed them down only momentarily. Finally Polish armored cars and tanks intervened, and in the ensuing pitched battle many were killed or wounded—just how many may not be known for some time.

The Red government charged the riot was the work of "imperialists" and the underground. Purposely or not it was timed to coincide with the industrial fair in progress in Poznan when many thousands of Westerners from West Germany and elsewhere were present, thus achieving the maximum propaganda effect. One report said the workers were incensed when they saw so many Westerners wearing good clothing and driving shiny automobiles in sharp contrast to their own plight. In Poland a month's work buys a pair of shoes.

But their anger was directed at their Communist masters, not the visiting Westerners, who were treated with elaborate consideration.

It would be easy to overestimate the importance of this incident for its bearing on the future, but it is bloody testimony to the state of feeling among the hapless victims of Communist tyranny against their taskmasters. Red symbols and shrines were attacked, and the Russian flag torn down and trampled.

The workers of Poznan have given not only their Communist masters something to chew on, but posed an implied warning to the West—a warning that in spite of the "new look" in Moscow and the smiles and posturings of Khrushchev and the new gang in the Kremlin, things behind the Iron Curtain are pretty much the same, and the iron rule of the Reds is still as vicious and effective as ever.

How To Pronounce Them

Place names in Texas sometimes take an awful beating from the natives when it comes to pronunciation. "Ovalo" usually gets chewed up pretty badly by new-comer radio announcers, and "Avoca" isn't far behind. Valera is another stumbling block to the unwary.

Farther afield, Bexar County is the nemesis of all newcomers, and Mexia puts them in stitches. They are surprised that the town of Salado and the river on which it stands are pronounced differently. Casual visitors from up North have all kinds of trouble with Waco and Waxahachie, as do "furrin" radio announcers. Nacogdoches is a stumper for strangers, and we have seen strong men with when confronted with the name of a small river in South Central Texas — the Yegua.

In the Dallas News Thursday Frank X. Tolbert, who conducts "Tolbert's Texas" column for that newspaper, is crawled by a correspondent for the way Tolbert's expert on the pronunciation of place names deal with Pidcocke and Moshelm, in Coryell and Bosque counties, respectively.

ly. Seems the expert rhymed Pidcocke's last syllable with hampock and Moshelm's with that of him.

We're a little hazy on Moshelm, but our impression is that it rhymes with 'm, not him. But with Pidcocke we are on firm ground. That last syllable, dearly beloved, rhymes with cowpoke. We could not possibly rhyme Pidcocke with anything but cowpoke and dead broke and hope-you-choke.

Tolbert's authority on pronunciation of Texas place names is Dr. George Mitchell Stokes of Baylor University, whose method "was to interview at least three well-informed persons in each of Texas' 254 counties and to take the most popular pronunciation."

Dr. Stokes is author of the guide to pronunciation in the Texas Almanac, starting on page 164 of the current 1956-57 edition. In it Ovalo, Avoca and Potasi are correctly rendered. Pidcocke does not appear, but in our copy he does render Moshelm correctly with a long "i."

Walter Lippmann

Western Communists In Trouble

We are now hearing from the Western Communist leaders on the subject of Khrushchev's campaign to degrade Stalin. They are profoundly embarrassed, having for many years been Stalin's obedient servants, now denying that his rule was a reign of terror and then justifying the purges and executions. They cannot plead, as Khrushchev has, that he served the tyrant because he was afraid of him. Togliatti and Nenni in Italy, Thorez in France, not to mention the little Communist politicians in Britain and the United States, did not have to embrace Stalinism. Now that Stalin is being demolished in Moscow, they have lost face and they look very foolish indeed.

To make matters worse, Khrushchev has shown how little thought he gives to them by not taking the trouble to send them a copy of his famous diatribe. The leaders of Western communism have been reduced, as they bitterly complain, to finding out what Moscow now thinks of Stalin by reading a text furnished to the Western newspapers by the Department of State.

Pietro Nenni, the leader of those Italian Socialists who are in partnership with the Communists, is so upset that he is now calling Stalinism "the most vast propaganda hoax in the memory of the world." This raises the interesting question of why he was taken in by this hoax. There were plenty of Italians who were not taken in by it, and the main charges now made by Khrushchev have been published long since. The only thing about them that is essentially new is that they are now officially confirmed by Stalin's successor at the head of the Communist Party. Men like Togliatti, Thorez, Nenni have been the victims of the hoax, not because they have been intimidated and not, I would think, because they have been bribed, but because they were in the grips of their own will to believe.

To believe what? That the revolution in Russia was showing the way, and must therefore be followed, to the construction of that society which they, and European Socialists, had learned to believe in. They became the dupes not only of Stalinism but of Leninism as well because they misjudged the essential character of the Soviet experiment.

As disciples of Karl Marx they should have been on their guard. For Marx taught that Socialism would develop out of the most highly developed capitalism. Yet here was Russia, the first Socialist state, a society which had only a primitive capitalism. Evidently, not only was the Marxist prophecy wrong as to where Socialism would begin but it was wrong also as to what Socialism, when it did begin, would be like. In Russia it has turned out to be quite different from what Marx had led his disciples to expect.

What Stalinist Russia was concerned with was the forced and rapid industrialization of a backward country. What Stalin did, at the sacrifice of the happiness of a whole generation, was to organize an economy which would enable Russia to compete in productivity with Western capitalism. In the Stalin era the objective was not to lead the West to Socialism but to make Russia catch up with the West's industrialism.

If we conceive Soviet communism in this way—as a gospel for the primitive—we have, I think, the key to a number of puzzling questions. Why, for example, has communism made such progress in Asia and the Middle East while it has made no progress at all in Europe on this side of the Iron Curtain? Because what has been done in Russia in the past 30 years is something that might be done in other underdeveloped and pre-democratic societies. In the Western countries, on the contrary, the Soviet system would be not only reactionary but irrelevant. That is why Western communism has been so alienated from the interests and sensibilities of the Western peoples.

In a speech he made the other day in San Francisco Mr. Dulles remarked that while the Russian Communists now "dissociate themselves from Stalin, not even this much gain is registered by the Chinese Communist Party." The explanation may well be that the Chinese are still Stalinists because they are still in the early stages of their own forced industrialization, of which the target date is 1967. The Russians, according to this view of things have now achieved a formidable industrial system, and have therefore outlived Stalinism.

To take this view is to regard Stalinism as in its essence the totalitarian terror required for an inhuman purpose—to compel a generation to sacrifice itself in order to transform a primitive peasant economy into an advance industrial economy.

With this in mind, we can best appreciate the crucial importance to the future of mankind of what Nehru is doing in India. It is to demonstrate that there is a humane and liberal alternative to the Stalinist way of developing a backward country.

Red Answer Won't Satisfy Many

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's leaders, attempting to answer questions raised by their February disclosure of Stalin's tyranny and misdeeds, have issued a 6,000-word explanation which will also fail to satisfy many people.

Their explanation, boiled down with their help Stalin made himself a folk hero and dictator; then they were afraid to do anything about it because they didn't think the Russian masses would understand or back them.

"Where were you? What role, if any, did you play in Stalin's crimes? Why didn't you stop him? Why did you wait till he died to expose him?"

Those were the questions asked by Communists and non-Communists alike after the present Russian leaders, Stalin's closest associates, denounced him as a villain. They had put themselves on a hook.

They also embarrassed all those non-Russian Communist leaders elsewhere who had been Stalin's subservient yesmen. Their own party members could ask them: "Didn't you ever suspect Stalin? Why were you never critical of him?"

The explanation, given by the Russians' Central Committee, is supposed to be an answer. But it is of a kind that will leave non-Communists unconvinced and may deepen doubts about present leaders in the minds of sore party members.

What has puzzled non-Communists ever since the February disclosures about Stalin was why the present leaders pulled out all the stops. Why did they go so far? Did they have to? The Central Committee explains: It was done to prevent ever again a recurrence of despotism in a Communist society.

In short, they wanted to assure a democratic society, as they understand the term. With this explanation they no doubt hope to make Communism more attractive to non-Communist people.

Yet there is a major flaw in their explanation that Stalin was not a necessary part of communism and the present leaders will make sure there can be no dictatorship again.

Stalin became a tyrant because Russian Communists found it expedient to let him become one. By their own words they said a "strict centralization of leadership was necessary." They agreed to it and approved it.

So, their explanation revealed that since they could justify tyranny when communism was under pressure, there is no reason to believe it would not arise and be justified again under new circumstances.

What Is An American?

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Republic is 180 years old tomorrow. From the day of its founding until the very present, the United States has stirred endless controversy in the world.

Just what is America? Just what is an American? What do they stand for? Over the years our government and people have collected a lot of verbal bouquets and brickbats, both from native and foreign sources. The one thing that has remained true — since independence was first proclaimed in this land—the rest of the world has been anything but indifferent to us.

To refresh your memory, here are a few famous comments on Uncle Sam and his family ways: "Driven from every other corner of the earth, freedom of thought and the right of private judgment in matters of conscience direct their course to this happy country as their last asylum." — Samuel Adams.

"The reason American cities are prosperous is that there is no place to sit down." — Alfred J. Talley.

"America is a country of young men." — Emerson.

"The youth of America is its oldest tradition. It has been going on now for 200 years." — Oscar Wilde.

"America is the only place where man is full-grown!" — O.W. Holmes.

"I feel that you are justified in looking into the future with true assurance, because you have a mode of living in which we find the joy of life and the joy of work harmoniously combined." — Albert Einstein.

"America is the last abode of romance and other medieval phenomena." — Eric Linklater.

"The only thing that has ever distinguished America among the nations is that she has shown that all men are entitled to the benefits of the law." — Woodrow Wilson.

"There is nothing the matter with Americans except their ideals. The real American is all right; it is the ideal American who is all wrong." — G. K. Chesterton.

"Oh, America, the sun set in you. Are you the grave of our day?" — D. H. Lawrence.

"We owe gratitude to France, justice to England, good will to all, and subservience to none." — Thomas Jefferson.

"At what point then is the approach of danger to be expected? I answer if it ever reach us it must spring up amongst us; it cannot come from abroad. If destruction be our lot, we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of free men, we must live through all time or die by suicide." — Abraham Lincoln.

"America's present need is not heroes but healing; not nostrums but normalcy; not revolution but restoration; not surgery but serenity." — Warren G. Harding.

"The American people never carry an umbrella. They prepare to walk in eternal sunshine." — Alfred E. Smith.

'Big Story' Hard On Nerves

Every newspaperman dreams of the "big story" and if he is as lazy as I am, he dreams that the story will come to him without his having to run it down.

It happened to me one time and the reality lacked a great many of the satisfactory features the dream offered.

It — the story — began at Huntsville prison farm. Four desperate convicts — including one who had killed two highway patrol officers and was doing two life terms — broke out of the prison. They took along a half-witted kid who somehow had been committed to the same prison.

Outside, they stole a car and headed north. That Sunday morning as I was leisurely taking my ease, my wife was reading aloud the news dispatch relating to the escape. Our Scottie was peeping out of the window into the street.

Suddenly there was a blast of loud explosions right in front of our house. "That sounded like gunshots," my wife exclaimed.

"Probably a car backfiring," I replied. The Scottie who had a birdseye view of the outside, jumped from her perch and scurried under the bed.

My wife raced to the front door and peered out in the street. "There's trouble out here," she called. Out in front of the house were two cars parked almost parallel. Standing at the rear of one of the cars — an old jalopy — were two tall men in drab coveralls. They were holding their hands in the air. At the right front door of the second car stood a policeman. He was pointing a pistol at the two men.

I raced out into the street and toward the cars. Right behind me came my wife. "The cop, a friend of mine, yelled: 'It's those blankety blank convicts from Texas — they tried to blow my head off with a shotgun.'"

I ran to his side. He asked my wife to call the police and the ambulance. Then he handed me the pistol, ran to the police car, ripped a rifle from a rack. "Two got away," he shouted. "Hold these — I'm going after the others."

There I stood. One of the convicts kept plucking at the front of his coveralls. He was reeling slightly. He half slumped against the car fender. "I can't stand up no longer, he mumbled.

"I can't stand up no —" with that he crashed to the paving. A prison knife, ground out of an old file, clattered from his pocket and rolled toward me. Just beyond his outspread arms was a double barreled shot gun.

I looked toward the convicts' car. There were eight bullet holes in the rear door. I looked at the shiny automatic in my hand.

Suddenly I knew that the gun I was holding was empty. The officer had emptied it at the convicts and he had not reloaded it. The shotgun was only a pace from the tall convict who was still standing. All he had to do was reach down and pick it up. Whether it was loaded, I did not know.

The keys to the police car and to the convict's car were in the switches. Neighbors gathered along the sidewalk. None came out where I was.

Finally a freckled faced boy about 10, driven by the curiosity which is the trademark of freckle-faced boys everywhere, came to my side.

I told him to get the shotgun and bring it to me. I broke it open and two discharged shells fell to the ground. I had the boy take the car keys out of the two cars and hand them to me.

And then I stood, my empty pistol trained on the un wounded convict and on the dying man on the ground until officers summoned by my wife came to my relief.

I don't suppose that the convicts realized the pistol was empty and harmless and that all I could have done, had they chosen to make a break for it, was throw the empty gun at them.

I suppose that it was only a matter of perhaps 10 or 15 minutes until a patrol car pulled along side.

But standing there in the chill winter morning — I was wearing only slacks, the top of a pair of pajamas and house slippers — I could have sworn that it was hours.

The story was pretty big and rated national play in the metropolitan press and I got a lot of publicity.

Looking back now, I don't think it was worth it. It's not as exciting to get the story after it has happened but it's a lot less wearing on the nerves.

Time For Restraint On Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—If there was ever a time when American policy-makers could afford a little of this Administration's greatest luxury, which is public silence and restraint, it is now in the face of what increasingly seems to be a deep crisis of conflict and doubt in the Soviet world.

The rioting in Poland is not an isolated phenomenon as was the East German uprising of three years ago. It is symptomatic of the dilemma which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles pointed at his press conference last week.

This is the dilemma of a collective dictatorship attempting a partial relaxation of the iron discipline of the Stalin era to try to prevent a recurrence of the evils of that despotism.

But whether the new dictators can relax part way without encouraging the kind of outbreak that has occurred in Poland is the question. The alternative is to revert to total dictatorship, but the disaffection in the Communist parties of the world may have gone too far for that.

Dulles has been criticized for gloating at his press conference and for implying that Western unity and strength brought about the crisis in Communism. The last is certainly dubious, since the internal stresses and strains following Stalin's death are sufficient to explain the cracks beginning to show in the Communist structure.

But it was almost too much to expect of human nature that the Secretary should have pointed out the painful dilemma of Communism which the Polish outbreak promptly underscored.

Those planning the policy and propaganda approach to the satellites in the wake of the flare-up in Poland would do well to recall the aftermath of the East German uprising of three years ago.

American propaganda blared encouragement to the rioters, seemingly in the mistaken assumption that a spontaneous uprising was in fact the beginning of a genuine revolt. This was reported at the time to have led many Germans to believe American help was imminent and they went on to make gestures — futile gestures, as they proved — that cost the lives of courageous anti-Communists. Recent reports from East Germany indicate that resistance to the Communist regime has subsided to a low point.

Significantly, while the riots were proceeding the Moscow radio was broadcasting a digest of an article by Eugene Dennis, secretary general of the Communist party in this country, questioning the conduct of the present leaders in Soviet Russia.

The skepticism in the Dennis article is expressed far more strongly by Italian, French and British Communist leaders who now raise embarrassing questions about the role of Nikita S. Khrushchev during the Stalin reign of terror.

The consequences of these large events, it is hardly necessary to add, are not confined in the United States to a few Communist circles. They will have their effect — and Dulles' intimation of triumph at the press conference may be a portent of things to come — on the fall election campaign.

It requires little imagination to hear the Republican campaign orator claiming that a resolute Republican foreign policy has brought the walls of Communism crumbling down. Polish-American voters will be encouraged to believe that the Poznan uprising is a forerunner of the "liberation" which Dulles and others talked about in the 1952 campaign.

All this tends to nullify the Democratic charge of weakness and even appeasement by the Eisenhower Administration.

But it is just here in the field of domestic politics that a little restraint is essential. Extravagant claims that may win votes in this country also can be exploited behind the Iron Curtain to denigrate the claim that the unrest is all the work of American imperialists and saboteurs.

Events do speak louder than words, and Washington should write that lesson large on every wall.

Mike Souchak Sets Record At Hoylake

Tough Course, States Yank

HOYLAK, England (P)—Mighty Mike Souchak of Grosse Pointe, N.Y., shot a 68 over the Wallasey Links today, setting a new course record and assuring himself of a qualifying place in the British Open golf championship.

Souchak had a 78 yesterday over the longer, more difficult Hoylake course. Today's score gave him a 36-hole total of 146, well inside the qualifying limit.

The 100 low scorers at the end of the 36 holes will go into the 72-hole tournament proper starting tomorrow, with all qualifying scores wiped out.

Souchak rated the grueling Hoylake links as one of the three greatest tests of golf in the world.

"That's some golf course," said the 220-pounder who turned down a professional football offer to concentrate on golf. "The last five holes on this killing course are out of this world."

"They are the toughest five finishing golf holes I ever played," Souchak said.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
LEO DUROCHER, now a sideline observer in the big league races: "Brooklyn is the best all-around club in the National League. Although Roy Campanella is hitting only .220, the Dodgers are in the race. They will get better rather than worse. It's the Yankees all the way in the American League. Casey Stengel is a great manager. They say he just makes you laugh. That's right, but while you're laughing he has got three runs across the plate."

ABE SAPERSTEIN, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters, speaking of sports in general and baseball in particular: "They don't know how to promote anymore. . . . Treat the patrons with increased prices, longer contests and think customers right, and they'll come out. . . . Stop moaning and stop in terms of entertainment."

CHUCK DRESSEN, manager of the Washington Senators, impressed with the manner in which boxer Archie Moore can take off and put on weight: "I think the story of that guy is the way he can shed weight and be strong, or put it on, like he did for Rocky Marciano, and still not lose any of his speed. Only one I ever remember before him who could do that was Johnny Dundee. Remember how he used to get up to the lightweights, and give the best of 'em hell, and a while later, get down to the featherweights and do the same thing? But when you consider the way this Moore has knocked around, he's really something."

BOBO OLSON, the former boxing champion: "Retire? Why should I retire? Since I've been knocked out by the best, I think I'll stick around and give the worst a chance, too."

DAVE DIXON, an observer at the National Open: "The truly great golfer hasn't yet been born. Unless it happened to be Bobby Jones, whom I didn't see. But I'm certain it isn't Cary Middlecoff, Ben Hogan or Sam Snead, each of whom lacks what the other possesses."

CARL ERSKINE, Brooklyn hurler, when sympathized with by a teammate for all the tough luck he has had this season: "At times like this, it helps to think about all the good breaks I've had."

PAUL RICHARDS, Baltimore manager: "A kid who wants to become a pitcher must eschew football, wrestling, swimming, weight-lifting and the like. Golf and boxing are the ideal sports for the aspiring young pitcher. Of boxing, I don't mean fighting, knocking each other silly. But boxing . . . throwing the arms forward in a straight blow or even hooking for either side, as long as the arm is extended to lengthen the muscles of the upper arm and shoulder. A pitcher must have long, flowing muscles, not the tight, compact sinews that a wrestler or a football player or a lifter develops."

JACK DEMPSEY, former boxing champion: "Archie Moore would be a cinch to whip Floyd Patterson right now. Patterson gives the impression of fighting all the time . . . but he isn't. Hurricane Jackson? He's just a club fighter."

League Can Take Heed; Red Sox Waxing Warm

By ED WILKS
 The Associated Press

It begins to look as if Ted Williams wasn't just batting the breeze the other day when he said the Boston-Red Sox were ready to make their move in the American League race. The Red Sox are hot, Williams' bat is boom! — and there's a pivotal four-game series ahead with the first place New York Yankees beginning tomorrow.

The Bostonians have won five of their last seven and although they're still fourth 8 1/2 games back, they remain within striking distance.

It was Williams, going four-for-five to hike his batting average to .374, who touched off a two-run, two-out rally in the seventh inning as the Red Sox clipped Washington 3-2 last night. Rex Delock, the big man in Boston's bullpen, came through with another splendid relief job, giving up only a pop-fly double over the last four frames.

In the only other AL game scheduled, the second place Chicago White Sox scored seven unearned runs and backed into a 9-3 victory over Detroit, trimming the Yankees' lead to 3 1/2 games.

If the Red Sox can stay hot, they could turn the AL flag chase into a race every bit as hectic as the National League scramble. Cincinnati's Redlegs lead the NL at the moment, having knocked Milwaukee's Braves out of the lead with a 2-1 decision last night. It was their eighth victory in 10 games.

BIG DECISION

Bob Maxwell Will Join Pro Circuit

Bob Maxwell of Big Spring has announced that he is turning golf professional and will join the touring linksters immediately.

Bob is a brother to Billy Maxwell, one of the leading money winners on the circuit this year; and W. O. (Junior) Maxwell, Myl Course pro in Big Spring.

Bob will formally enter into competition against the other pros in the Odessa Pro-Am Tournament, a $7,500 event, July 18.

After the Odessa tournament, he will pick up the tour at Baltimore, Md., the latter part of this month.

Bob, who has yet to complete his work toward his degree at North Texas State College in Denton, announced in Abilene he would probably make the tour with Joe Ed Black, who recently resigned his job as assistant pro at the Abilene Country Club to hit the tournament trail.

Bob will not be eligible for any prize money until Jan. 1, 1957 under PGA rulings.

The lesser known of the Maxwell twins graduated from Big Spring High School in 1947, after winning a letter for the Steers in golf. He later led HCJC to the State Junior College golf championship.

Bob was delayed in getting his college degree when he was called into the service for 22 1/2 months. He spent practically all that time at Camp Chaffee in Arkansas.

BOBBY MAXWELL

where he managed the golf shop. He left the Army in July, 1955, and returned to school in Denton the following September.

Maxwell's victories as an amateur include championships at Big Spring and Colorado City. In addition, he has shared the Partner-Ship Tournament at Amarillo with a fellow Big Spring, Bobby Wright.

The past semester, he served as captain of the North Texas State golf team. He played on one North Texas team that won the NAIA championship and finished second in the NCAA.

DUSTERS SEEK 3RD WIN OVER ODESSA CHIEFS

Still undefeated after eight starts, the Webb Air Force Base Dusters swung back into action here Wednesday afternoon, at which time they meet the Odessa Chiefs in a 3 p.m. contest at Steer Park.

In their late assignments, the Dusters coasted to an easy 11-1 victory over the Midland Black Indians behind the no-hit hurling of Charles McNew.

Art McKinstry, former SMU hurler, will probably hurl for Webb against Odessa tomorrow. McKinstry has been very effective in his appearances to date.

Odessa is managed by Eddie Hammond, former Longhorn League umpire.

Both teams are tentatively scheduled to complete in the tournament being planned by Hammond for Steer Park the latter part of this month.

The Dusters have already defeated the Chiefs twice this season but both games were extremely close. Since that time, the Dusters have lost several key players through transfer from the base.

Odessa's lineup is made up principally of high school and junior college players.

Manager Jim Zapp is seeking more games to fill out the Webb schedule before tournament time.

Welch Lad Signs With Cardinals

LAMESA — Kenneth Russell, 19-year-old Welch community youth, signed a baseball contract with the St. Louis Cardinals here Monday and will be sent to a Red Bird farm club.

He is a pitcher who saw action with the Lamesa All-Stars earlier this season.

Kenneth's older brother, Kelton, is a Cardinal farm-hand. He currently has a 4-3 won-lost record with Rochester of the International League.

Carpenter's Club Is Winner, 61-48

The YMCA Summer Basketball League formally began play in the High School Gym last night with a game between teams captained by Gene Carpenter and Charles Warren.

Carpenter's quintet prevailed, 61-48.

Four quintets make up the circuit. Other captains are Frank Hardesty and Mike Musgrove. Each team is allowed ten players.

Friday at 6 p.m., the clubs led by Hardesty and Musgrove square off.

Officials have announced that the Junior High School Gym would be opened Saturday morning at 9 a.m., at which time any player can practice. The drill will continue until 12 noon.

HERE TOMORROW Country Club Golf Crown On The Line

Bill Crook meets James Lee Underwood and J. R. Farmer tangles with R. H. Weaver in semi-final matches of the Country Club Golf Tournament here Wednesday morning.

The winners clash over 18 holes in the afternoon.

Crook sidelined Earl Reynolds after an extra hole of play Sunday to reach the semi-finals. Underwood was very impressive in decking Son Powell, 6 and 5. He was one under regulation figures at the time he closed out his match.

Farmer was carried to the 10th hole before defeating Eli McCormick while Weaver defeated Weldon Bryant, 1 up.

A new champion is assured since the 1955 champion, Jake Morgan, did not return to try and defend his laurels.

The championship flight four some tees off tomorrow about 9 a.m.

Weaver is a slight favorite to come home the winner but any of the others could slip into the throne room without causing too much surprise.

Wednesday's pairings:
CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT — Crook vs Underwood; Weaver vs Farmer
FIRST FLIGHT — Tommy Minto vs Jack Wallace; W. E. Ramsey vs Frank Powell

SECOND FLIGHT — Sunny Edwards vs James Edwards; Dr. B. Brown vs Dr. J. E. Hogan; Connelions — Bill French vs Matt Harrington; Pat Autry vs Charles Sweeper

THIRD FLIGHT — Bob Bright vs Ervin Daniels; Jasper Atkins vs Dick Pfeiffer; Connelions — Dr. Howard Schwarz vs Harrell Jones; Don Burk has already defeated Travis Reed, 1 up, in other semi-final match to advance to finals

FOURTH FLIGHT — Mike Pheasant vs Wendal Parks; Connelions — Jack Wilson vs Marvin Miller

El Paso Rips Angelo, 7-4

By The Associated Press

El Paso got the most use out of 12 walks and a six-hit pitching performance by Howard Anderson and moved into the second place slot in the Southwestern League Monday night—downing San Angelo 7-4.

Will Siros was tagged with the loss when he lost control and gave up eight passes when he hurt Stan Patchell finished the game, but walked in the final Texan tally.

In other games, Pampa took Plainview 8-3, Midland outlasted Roswell 20-15, Hobbs edged Carlsbad 6-5, and Ballinger beat Clovis 9-7.

Braves Tough, Says Birdie

CINCINNATI (P)—A stripped-down Birdie Tebbetts says the National League pennant race can become like an accordion and he adds, "I don't want to get caught in the middle of it."

His comment came last night just after his Cincinnati Redlegs had gone back into first place for a third time this season with a 2-1 victory over the previous loop leading Milwaukee Braves.

Here is what he said: "The best club doesn't have to win this one. One club jells with everything, that's it. Unless they all jell too," and that's where he brought in the accordion angle.

Calling Milwaukee "the toughest," Tebbetts said, "they've got five pitchers and if they all turn over twice, they've got a ten-game winning streak."

Then he added that Brooklyn has "the equalizer" in reliever Clem Labine.

The St. Louis Cardinals — "they'll be terrific if they get pitching," Tebbetts said.

"There are no more palsies," he said. He called the pitching of Chicago and New York "brilliant" and spotty. He said Philadelphia had the most "underrated" pitching staff in the league. And of course, everyone knows the trouble Pittsburgh already has caused to the front runners.

Birdie mopped his brow and said, "Any manager who doesn't take a vacation after this race needs the money."

Swaps To Post

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (P)—Mighty Swaps shoots for more prestige and money tomorrow in the $100,000-added American Handicap at Hollywood Park.

The fabulous California 4-year-old races against a small field, most of whom will be aiming at the $20,000, $15,000 and $10,000 runner-up purses.

Reporters Are Shut Out, 6-0, By Bengal Brigade

Anthony Pelache fashioned the season's first shutout in Junior Teen-Age baseball league competition when he led the KP Tigers to a 6-0 victory over the Herald Reporters here Monday night.

Pelache set the Newsies down with one hit. That was a two-out single by Johnny Freeman in the fourth inning.

Pelache struck out 12 in the seven inning game and walked only two batters.

The Bengals collected three runs on two hits, two errors and a walk in the second and added singles in the fourth, fifth and seventh rounds.

The Reporters put two runners aboard in the fourth but Pelache struck out Willie Mendosa to retire the side.

The game proved a fitting farewell for the Tigers' manager, Lt. Ed Haydell, who is leaving Webb AFB temporarily. His place is being taken by Floyd Martin, former professional outfielder for Big Spring.

Princess Choice In Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N. Y. (P)—Egyptian Princess stacked up today almost as solid as the pyramids for the $80,000 Hambletonian Stakes, after a world record performance in the Coaching Club Trotting Oaks at the 102-year-old Historic Track.

The grand circuit opened at the half-mile oval yesterday, and the sulky folk won't give the Princess outright possession of the great 3-year-old trotting classic Aug. 8 until they take a look at some of the colts here tomorrow.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKY McCONNELL
 Major League Scout and Instructor

LEARN TO KNOW THE STRIKE ZONE AND DON'T SWING AT BAD PITCHES.

HERE A RIGHT-HANDER FINISHES SWING AND HEADS FOR FIRST BASE. NOTICE HIS BODY POSITION IS STRAIGHT FORWARD.

FOLLOW THROUGH! BODY AND HEAD ARE FACING THE STRIKE ZONE.

A MAJOR LEAGUER WITH GOOD FOLLOW-THROUGH IS GUS BELL OF CINCINNATI REDLEGS.

PITCHER'S MOUND AT END OF SWING.

GUS BELL

Knowing the difference between a strike and a ball often means the difference between being a good and a bad hitter.

Duke Snider was a "strikeout king" until he spent many hours of extra practice watching hundreds of pitches in spring training. When he learned to quit swinging at pitches above his arm pits he became a standout slugger.

Other batters may have trouble with low pitches or those inside or outside. You must find out what pitch fools you and then concentrate on passing up that pitch if it is outside the strike zone.

Good batters, keep in mind that a full swing is essential to success as a batter. Don't lunge at the ball or swing so hard that you end up off balance, but do be sure that you follow through with your bat and body like the players shown in the illustrations above.

Althea Gibson Is Defeated At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (P)—Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., quenched Althea Gibson's hopes of being the first Negro to win a Wimbledon tennis singles championship today when she defeated the New York girl 4-6, 6-5, 6-4, in a quarter final match.

The victory sent Miss Fry into the semifinals against top-seeded Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., who beat Britain's Shirley Bloomer, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3.

In the other semifinal two English players, Angela Buxton and Pat Ward will meet, assuring England of its first women's singles finalist since Kay Stammers, lost to America's Alice Marble in 1939.

Miss Fry's victory today was something of an upset. She had been seeded fifth while Miss Gibson, winner of 18 tournaments during a worldwide tour, was seeded fourth.

Miss Buxton, seeded sixth, advanced to the semifinal by default today when second-seeded Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., withdrew from the tournament on advice of her doctor. Jack Fleitz, Beverly's husband, said she is expecting a baby.

Miss Ward upset third-seeded Angela Mortimer of England yesterday.

The 29-year-old Miss Fry, formerly of Akron, Ohio, looked as if she would be badly beaten during the first set. But she kept at it doggedly, in spite of Miss Gibson's superior court coverage and service, and in the end it was Miss Gibson whose game came in.

WIMBLEDON, England (P)—Gentlemen of the Wimbledon seeding committee grinned broadly today and in cultivated tones said for all to hear: "We told you so."

After a harrowing week and a day, the committee is assured that two of its seeded players will fight it out in the men's singles Friday.

From here on in the committee gentlemen don't really care who wins—they look good anyhow.

The job of the committee is to pick the eight men in the tournament they think are best and hope that out of that eight two will meet in the finals—preferably No. 1 and No. 2.

But on opening day everything started to go haywire.

Fifth seeded Jaroslav Drobny was defeated by an unseeded player.

Then third-seeded Sven Davidson fell, then fourth-seeded Budge Patty, then seventh-seeded Kurt Nielsen.

It began to look as if the semifinals would be populated by gentlemen who should normally use the tradesman's entrance.

Working Out The Bugs

One of the last minute problems for boys entered in the third annual Soap Box Derby is that of correcting conditions which prevent them from passing inspection. Here are a few of the boys busily engaged in whipping their coasters into shape. They had assistance from Shell Oil employees who furnished and manned the inspection rack as well as furnished the official Derby oil. They also were checked on Toledo scales to make sure they came under the 250 boy and racer limit.

IN TALK TO LIONS

Community Is 'Parent' To Schools, Supt. Parsons Says

Schools have a right to look to the community for support because the community is to the schools what parents are to children. Floyd O. Parsons told the Evening Lions Club at Wesley Methodist Church Monday.

Parsons assumed duties Monday as superintendent of Big Spring schools. He was introduced by W. C. Blankenship, superintendent emeritus, who declared that "Big Spring is very fortunate in having a man of Mr. Parsons' caliber and character to lead the schools from good to better."

While no one particularly enjoys paying taxes, Parsons urged that taxpayers "enjoy" their school taxes a little more than others. He once took a survey in Beville, his previous assignment, and found that direct local taxes averaged the individual child.

150 Parents See Youths Perform

About 150 parents were present at the YMCA Monday evening to watch 100 boys and girls take part in the Parent's Night program. Five boys, the winners of archery tournaments at the Y, gave demonstrations of their shooting. Also, demonstrations of tumbling by both boys and girls in age groups 7 to 10 and 11 and up were presented.

Waco DA Campaigns Here For Attorney General Post

Tom Moore, Waco district attorney who sparked the investigation of U. S. Trust and Guaranty Company last winter, visited Big Spring today in his campaign for office of Texas attorney general.

Moore said he is making the race "on my own" because of what he learned in the U. S. Trust investigation. "The corruption brought home to me in that investigation got me into this race. If anything is to be done about it, it must be done by someone not under obligation to any pressure group," he declared.

negligence in Austin costing the people money." Moore has been district attorney for three judicial districts at Waco for two terms. A veteran of Pacific service during World War II, he is married and has three children.

He is the third candidate for attorney general to visit Big Spring in the last 10 days. Others were Ross Carlton and Will Wilson.

35 Apply For Soil Bank Aid On First Day

Agricultural Stabilization Committee officers processed 35 applications of farmers and landowners for participation in the Soil Bank program at the initial day's session on Monday.

Gabe Hammack, ASC manager, said that most of the farmers who signed up for the plan were agreeably surprised at its benefits. A few, however, said they were dissatisfied with the payment allotments.

A drop off in the number of applicants had developed Tuesday morning, Hammack said. They rains between now and the end of the application period — July 20 — would sharply lessen the number of participants.

If the drought holds as it now stands, he anticipates a grand rush of applications the last few days before the deadline for joining the program.

He reiterated that his offices would be closed on July 4 and that no applications will be received until July 5.

3 Lamesans At Key Club Meet

LAMESA — Attending sessions of the 13th annual convention of Key Club International at Dallas this week are three members of the Lamesa High School organization.

They are Willie DuBois, president; John Middleton, vice president; and Franklin Ashton, delegate.

Sessions got under way Sunday evening and will continue through Wednesday. The local boys are among 2,000 who are attending the convention.

Principal speakers, in addition to the international president, Ed Stebbins, a Little Rock, Ark., teenager are Melvin T. Munn of Dallas, Mel Williams, Mayor of the Army Medical Service School; Gene Gagnon, one of the two surviving Marines from the famous Iwo Jima flag raising; Doak Walker, former pro football star, and Merle H. Tucker, trustee of Kiwanis International.

GIMMICK IN TAX HIKES

A variance in the tax law supporting the federal highway bill could cause service station operators pain later on unless they take note.

While the one-cent per gallon increase on gasoline on July 1 applies only to stocks on hand by jobbers, retailers and wholesalers, the special tax on tire stocks applies to retailers as well.

Thus, warned the Internal Revenue Service, while retailers need not worry about gasoline in their tanks on July 1, they had better take an inventory on their floor stocks. The deadline for filing return (on form 2265) is Oct. 15, 1956, but the inventory date is July 1, 1956.

'Barrel Lemonade' Will Be Served At Daniel Party

Sen. Price Daniel, who brings his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination to Big Spring and area this evening, will find a "refreshing" welcome.

An old fashion touch is being added to his reception on the east side of the courthouse square at 6 p. m. There will be barrel lemonade available for everyone who comes.

Sen. Daniel will be here approximately an hour and a half, visiting with his campaign backers as well as with all other friends. During the course of his visit he may speak briefly concerning issues of the campaign.

He comes here from a meeting in Abilene during the morning and visits in Sweetwater and Colorado City. Later this evening he is scheduled in Midland with a conference of his supporters. Wednesday he will be in Odessa, Pecos and San Angelo.

Blasting Caps Found In Auto

Police authorities are investigating a case of appearing — not missing — dynamite caps.

An employe of Burnett Trailer Sales found a collection of dynamite caps in his car at Coleman Courts Monday morning. He took the caps to R. R. Cunningham, an engineer for Clyde Yarbrough, contractor, who said they were not the type they used.

Cunningham then brought the caps to the police department. Police Detective Jack Shaffer checked other groups who use blasting caps but found no one who used the type or size found.

Shaffer said that possibly they could have been taken from a seismograph crew operating in this area.

C. W. Norman's Father Succumbs

Funeral services will be held Thursday for the father of C. W. Norman, who died Monday in Long Beach, Calif., his home.

C. W. Norman is a former resident of Big Spring. He now lives in Wichita Falls. He was en route to Long Beach today.

The senior Mr. Norman was 88. He had lived in Long Beach for many years. His street address was 3620 E. 4th.

On Probation Four Days, Back In Jail

Leroy Lee Edmondson, 18-year-old Knott community youth who was granted a two-year probation sentence on a burglary indictment last Friday, is back in jail in Lubbock today and will be returned to Howard County Wednesday to answer a new charge of robbery with firearms.

Edmondson who told the district court that he would go to work and straighten up" just four days ago, is charged with robbing the Edgar Airhart store in West Knott Monday night.

Five dollars in five dollar bills and $4 in one dollar bills were taken by a man armed with a revolver.

He had his head bandaged and wore glasses, but Airhart said he recognized him and called the youth by name.

The holdup occurred at 10 p. m. Airhart was along in his store seated in a chair when the youth entered.

Liquor Charges Filed On Nine In Dawson Co.

LAMESA — Charges of selling alcoholic beverages were filed here Monday against eight persons arrested in raids by police and sheriff's officers Sunday.

Two possession charges also were filed. Charged with sale were Willie Evans, 35; Nero Keno, 21; Benny Whitfield 55; Elmer Johnson, 56; Lorenzo Williams, 35; Mrs. Leola Baylor, 46; Manuel Lopez, 26; and Helera Covantes, 27. All reside in Lamesa. Williams, Lopez, Covantes, and Mrs. Baylor posted $500 bonds and were released. The others were still in jail this morning.

Mrs. Baylor also was charged with possession of alcoholic beverages. A similar charge was lodged against Juan Conde, 35, of Lamesa.

Records Snarl Delays Hearing

Scheduled disposition of a charge of aggravated assault against Bartolo Moncado in County Court on Tuesday morning had to be postponed when it was discovered the court records in the case were not completed.

Harvey Hooser Jr. said that District Judge Charlie Sullivan has not as yet signed the official order transferring the grand jury indictment returned against Moncado from district court to county court.

Hooser said that he had believed the order had been signed when he brought Moncado before R. H. Weaver, county judge, Monday.

Moncado wanted to plead guilty, but after Hooser advised the court that he intended to ask for the maximum penalty against the defendant, the court decided to hold a hearing on the case and listen to testimony of witnesses involved in the matter.

The hearing was to have been at 9 a. m. today. Hooser said it would be held as soon as possible. He expected the order to come down from district court perhaps today.

Hub Caps Stolen

Ben Caldwell, 1104 Lamesa, reported to police that two hub caps had been stolen from his 1956 Pontiac.

THE WEATHER

NORTH CENTRAL TEXAS: Partly cloudy to clear this afternoon, tonight and Wednesday with isolated thunderstorms. No important temperature changes. High expected this date 102 to 104; low 68 to 70.

Drought Feed Aid Extended

The drought feed program has been extended here, Fred Ross, Farm Home Administration supervisor for Howard-Glasscock counties, announced Tuesday.

The extension is effective as of July 1. Applications, to cover needs to Sept. 30, will be accepted through Aug. 31.

"Effective July 1 the drought feed program is designated for Howard and Glasscock counties," Ross' notice read. Applications for feed grain may be accepted through Aug. 31, 1956. The total amount of feed grain for which an applicant may qualify will be that required to carry basic livestock through Sept. 30, 1956."

Beauties Rehearse

The first of the rehearsals for the beauty pageant to be held on July Fourth was held last night at the City Park Amphitheater.

The main purpose was to introduce the contestants to their escorts, ROTC boys from Webb AFB. Pointers on how to walk and turn on the stage were given by Mrs. C. W. Mahoney-B&PVP program chairman. Suggestions were also offered by members of the ROTC drill team.

Tonight the second of these rehearsals will be held at the City Park. Girls will wear the heels they are planning to wear at the pageant Wednesday night.

After the rehearsal tonight, the B&PVP is sponsoring a dance at the Cosden Country Club for the contestants and their escorts. The dance will last until 12.

MARKETS

WALL STREET: NEW YORK — Slow, pre-holiday trading prevailed in the stock market today. Leading issues improved from fractions.

AN exception was Boeing which opened on a block of 5,000 shares, up 1/4 on following news of a $400 million stock split. Boeing stepped further ahead for a gain of around 2 points.

The steel, which led the market downward yesterday in the first trading session following start of the steel strike, held their ground well. U. S. Steel was up 1/2 at 36 1/2 on an opening block of 2,500 shares and kept its gain. Bethlehem rose a fraction. But Youngstown Sheet & Tube slipped.

Plumbers On Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two thousand members of the plumbers union struck Sunday for wage increases.

Executive Dies

EL PASO (AP)—Carter Womack, 58, chairman and president of the El Paso Electric Co., died yesterday after a brief illness.

Declaration Signed On July 2, 1776

"When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands . . . is the way a document starts that paved the way for our present July 4 holiday.

The document had been in existence for two days and approved when July 4, 1776, rolled around; the record shows that the colonies approved the Declaration of Independence on July 2.

Disliking the treatment they were getting from the British, the 13 original states were grumbling for independence. But it was Virginia that first officially promoted the idea. The state on May 17 instructed its delegation to make the motion for a Declaration of Independence in the Continental Congress. Thus, on June 7, Richard Henry Lee made the motion, seconded by John Adams. Formal action was delayed until July 1, because some delegations wanted instruction from their states on how to vote. On the evening of July 1, the group went to work voting.

The count showed nine states voting for it, Pennsylvania and South Carolina voting against it, Delaware's vote was split, and New York abstained. South Carolina, however, said it would vote for the measure to make it unanimous.

During the night, word was sent to Delaware's third delegate of the vote. As a result, Caesar Rodney traveled 90 miles the next day, July 2, arriving in time to swing his state's vote to the side of the affirmative.

This caused Pennsylvania to reverse its ballot, and with New York refusing to vote, South Carolina also reversed its decision. So the count showed 12 affirmative votes, and no negatives.

Thus, 12 of the states agreed on the motion that "these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved."

The fact of independence has been set and approved, but the document was not signed until July 4.

New York was not a member of the United States for several days. The state convention ratified it July 9, but it was not until July 15 that the Congress delegation joined the rest of the states.

The Union then consisted of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

Draft Names Abuses Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Texas Selective Service official authorized the release of prospective draftees names to Kenneth Simmons of Avinger, Tex., because the official was under the impression they would be used for non-commercial purposes, a House Armed Services investigation subcommittee report has revealed.

House investigators said yesterday that Texas Draft Board clerks were acting under official instructions when they gave the lists of prospective draftees to Simmons, at the time mayor of Avinger and also an insurance agency partner.

The report said that the authorization was cancelled when Selective Service officials learned that the lists were being used for sales solicitation.

1776-1956 INDEPENDENCE DAY

"Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness . . ."

That's what the men wrote, 180 years ago. These were hard-won principles. Aren't you thankful we live by them today?

Enjoy them to the fullest, on this holiday. Appreciate them every day. Be ready to defend them at all times.

C-C To Conduct Poll On City's Business Services, Facilities

Decision to run a test or a sort of "Gallup Poll" on Big Spring's facilities and business services was made by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors in a session Monday noon.

The manager was instructed to make a trial run on a community survey, by sending out 100 questionnaires through the mail. The effectiveness of this survey then will serve as a guide on methods of conducting a wider survey.

Citizens will be polled as to their opinion on general merchandise availability, types of services offered, and on various community facilities. From the final poll response, it is hoped that, where needs are pointed out, such can be filled.

The C-C executive committee was given authority to conduct interviews with prospects for the Chamber managership, so that this post may be filled when Jimmy Greene steps down. He has announced his retirement for the next annual banquet (February), but directors voted that, if a suitable manager is found, it would be practical to have him on the job perhaps by November, in order that a 1957 program of work could be mapped, and an orderly change of administration be effected.

The board also voted a retirement honorarium for Greene, in the amount of $100 per month, from the date of his retirement through the year 1957. Greene will have served the organization 20 years. The manager Monday presented various projects on the C-C program of work through December. Dr. W. A. Hunt reported on completion of an economics study course conducted by the Chamber under United States Chamber of Commerce auspices.

No 'Herding' Of Manpower

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Educational Policies Commission cautioned the nation today that under the American system individuals cannot be "herded" into jobs to meet a professional manpower shortage.

"Dignity and worth for the individual is a cornerstone of American philosophy," the commission said in a report released at the convention of the National Education Assn.

"To forget this or to deny it even temporarily under the pressures of a manpower dilemma is to violate the nation's ideal and to move toward the regulated state. Regimentation is not an acceptable solution of manpower problems in the United States."

The commission is supported jointly by the NEA and the American Assn. of School Administrators but the report was issued only in its own name. The commission pointed out that one reason for the shortage of scientific and engineering manpower today is the low birth rate of the '30s. The productive 20-64 age bracket now is short of replacements.

It added, however, that the post-war increase in births will overcome this shortage in a few years. As one solution to the manpower shortage the commission emphasized "upgrading the whole level of the labor force through increased training." It said that not only handicapped persons, illiterates and racial minorities could be better utilized but that gifted students should be brought to the peak of their abilities.
