

DEIDRA HINTON

Miss Hinton Joins Staff Of Herald

Have you noticed a new voice this week answering the phone in the Woman's Department of the Herald? It belongs to Deidra Hinton of Abilene, who has joined the editorial staff. She will work on the Woman's Page.

A June graduate of North Texas State College in Denton, Deidra received a bachelor of arts degree in journalism.

While attending North Texas she was a member and officer of Delta Gamma, national sorority; Green Jackets, a selective service organization; Panhellenic Council; Press Club and the Radio Club.

Abilene has been her home for the past 14 years, but she was born in Okmulgee, Okla. Her father, Joseph F. Hinton, was superintendent of schools there.

She attended grade school in Oklahoma City and then moved to Abilene when her father was placed on active duty in the U.S. Army. Deidra was graduated from Abilene High School in 1952.

The Hinton family plans to make Big Spring home in the near future.

College Chapel WMU Hears Mrs. Mrs. Mead Speak

Mrs. Mead brought the Bible study for members of the College Chapel WMU Tuesday morning when the group met at the church. Topic of the discussion was "Prayer," based on a chapter of the book, "Favorite Bible Passages." A new member, Mrs. Larry Priebe, was present.

Beverly Burleson Has Birthday Party

LAMESA — A party Tuesday morning in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Burleson, marked the 10th birthday anniversary of Beverly Burleson.

The Independence Day theme was used in the table decorations, and the cake was decorated in red, white and blue. Party favors, too, were in keeping with the 4th of July theme.

After an hour of outdoor play the guests were served birthday cake and cold drinks. Present were Connie Lou Crowell of Big Spring, Florine Leavelle, Debbie Alexander, Ann Polly and David Miller, Sharon Reed, Karen Kutch, Della and Debra Burleson, Joyce Oils, Randy and Lance Nolen, Basil Thompson, Jerry Berry, Donna Hester, Toni Davis, Vickie Sue and Dan Crowell, Ralph Crews, who helped supervise the play period.

Rebekahs Plan Honor For State President

At a meeting of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge Tuesday evening in Carpenters Hall, plans were made for a banquet. Scheduled for July 11 at the Settles Hotel, the affair will honor the state president, Mrs. Jewell Caldwell of Waco. This will be her official visit to the local groups.

Dining will begin at 6:30 p.m., with a meeting of all lodges at 8 p.m. Guests are expected from Lamesa, Knott, Stanton, and other towns of this area.

Reservations must be made by noon Wednesday by calling Mrs. Jones Lamar or Mrs. Leon Cole. Mrs. Barney Hughes, noble grand, presided for the meeting, during which Leon Cole gave a financial report for the past year.

The charter was undraped for the late R. L. Wynn, past grand messenger to the Rebekah Assembly.

It was announced that Mrs. Lamar, with her installing staff, will install officers of the Lamesa Rebekahs Monday evening. Installation for the local lodge will be held Tuesday evening.

About 24 were present at the meeting.

Tuesday evening. Members are asked to attend in formal attire.

Thirty-three were present at Tuesday's meeting.

Members of the Big Spring Lodge who will arrive as contestants for the banquet honoring the state president also discussed plans for the event. They met at the IOOF Hall Tuesday evening.

Mrs. M. C. Patterson, noble grand, presided. A new member, Lorine Williams, was accepted by transfer from the Coming West Rebekah Lodge of Sweetwater.

Mrs. Gordon Gross announced that an audit of the books will be held at her home, 1405 Nolan, Friday.

Mrs. Henry Roger, installing officer, called a meeting of all incoming officers and the installing staff for Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the IOOF Hall. This is for a practice session in preparation for the installation to be held Tuesday evening.

About 24 were present at the meeting.

Baptist Temple WMU Observes Anniversary

Members of the Baptist Temple WMU met Tuesday afternoon at the church to observe the 50th anniversary of the founding of Royal Service.

The Horace Buddin Circle presented the program, with Mrs. D. D. Johnston in charge.

Opening prayer was given by Mrs. Richard Grimes; the devotion by Mrs. Tom Buckner. The subject of the study was "Publish Glad Tidings."

Special prayers were offered by Mrs. Grimes and Mrs. Garland Sanders. Others participating on the program were Mrs. Rex Edwards, Mrs. Ben Mabe, Mrs. Newell Derryberry and Mrs. Johnston.

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. David Whitaker. Members then gathered in Fellowship Hall for the tea hour.

The table was decorated with an old coal oil lamp and with an antique vase. A picture frame, over 50 years old, held pictures of dress fashions through the 1900's.

In charge of the tea arrangements was the Evan Holmes Circle. Mrs. Grimes and Mrs. Whitaker were introduced as new members.

Next Tuesday's schedule for circle meetings was announced as follows: Evan Holmes at 2:30 p.m., with Mrs. A. P. Barn, 1401 E. 15th; Business Women's Circle at the church at 7 p.m.; Fishers Circle at 9:30 a.m. with Mrs. A. R. Posey, 804 E. 13th; Horace Buddin Circle at 9:30 a.m. with Mrs. Derryberry, 1504 Stadium.

Fifteen attended the meeting Tuesday.

Born In July? Your Birthstone Stands For Contentment

The ruby is July's birthstone and is a traditional symbol of contentment. Because of its beauty and rarity, the ruby has always been given the highest value.

Known as the Stone of Royalty, it was sought by kings and emperors for their crowns and as love tokens for beautiful princesses.

In many lands, every large ruby became, automatically, the property of the ruler.

When cut cabochon, or domeshaped, the ruby will sometimes show a six-rayed star, similar to that in a star sapphire. The most desired color is a bluish red known as "pigeon blood."

Rubies of the finest quality come from Burma, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. Other sources are Ceylon and Siam.

Alone or combined with diamonds or other gems, rubies make handsome clips, rings, earrings, and necklaces. They are also used with diamonds in gold watch cases and at the terminals where the wrist bracelet joins the watch.

The ruby has always been considered a masculine as well as a feminine gem and, because of its durability, is particularly appropriate for rings, cuff-links, jeweled tie clips and studs for men.

OES In Lamesa Has New Officers

LAMESA—Lamesa Chapter No. 363, Order of the Eastern Star, held its first meeting of the new OES year recently at Masonic Hall.

After Ernest Moody, worthy patron, called the meeting to order, Mrs. R. O. Parker, new worthy matron, presided at the business session and presented the yearbooks. She also gave an address on her theme for the year, "Faith, Loyalty and Love."

Her motto is "Love One Another." She also outlined some of the plans for the chapter in regard to charitable and beneficial purposes.

Mrs. Bob Lindsey, junior past matron, gave her report on the past year.

At a reception in the lounge following the meeting Mr. and Mrs. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Moody served refreshments to 26 members. The serving table was laid with a white linen cloth and held a centerpiece of red roses.

My Spring Ambition Is Cause Of Trouble!

By ANNE LEFLER
This is the season of the year when I wonder how I could ever have been so ambitious in the early spring!

Why did I plant any flowers at all; why did I plant grass in the rear of the back yard. It could have remained as it was and there would have been no mowing necessary!

I sometimes begin to wonder why I even planted the three tomato plants, which are the pride of my life—well, I guess they're the second pride. The first is my little black dog, Punkin, who interferes seriously with their growth.

After the tomatoes have formed, the plants like to be let alone except for irrigation. They don't require cultivation; in fact, the root system should not be disturbed. But do you think that matters to that dog? She just adds to my troubles by digging into the cool moist earth for a nap, using the plants for shade.

All of my springtime eagerness has left me, and I find there's just too much work for hot weather.

There are too many weeds. I have even begun to take the underhand method with them and now use weed-killer instead of digging them out by the roots.

And there's too much spraying necessary! Roses need it; chrysanthemums need it, and even the grass could do with a solution to kill grubworms and other pests.

In spite of an enormous water bill I see the lawn dying. The weeds have become wonderfully pardy because of all the moisture applied, and the crabgrass is thriving right along. This happens about the time I decide that next year I will plant everything in grass.

Just give me a few weeks, though; when cooler weather comes, energy returns and my enthusiasm soars. I begin planting for spring blooms. Then with spring, I again start planting annuals and the work begins again.

It's just a form of "spring fever" that gardeners have, I suppose, even though we know we'll be sorry in July!

Best Way to Kill Roaches and Ants

Best Way to Kill Roaches and Ants. COCKROACHES and ants are the most difficult household pests to control. Now you can kill these pests with Johnston's Super No-Roach.

No-Roach is a white viscous substance which you apply with a brush. Within minutes it dries to form a colorless, odorless contact insecticide, that stays effective for months.

Apply No-Roach to cupboard walls, baseboards, near sink and cabinets, on pipes, and wherever you see cockroaches.

Ants. Brush No-Roach around table legs and counter tops, across window sills and door sills, and across ant trails. Ants will not cross the coating. Pour a few drops into ant hills.

No-Roach is also effective against resistant roaches, spiders, silverfish, waterbugs, bed bugs and other crawling insects.

Remember, when you use Johnston's Super No-Roach, you don't have to move dishes, pots and pans, or breathe harmful vapors, as you must with contaminating sprays. Apply No-Roach just where you want it, the invisible coating stays effective for months.

Guard against crawling insects this common sense No-Roach way.

Hope Persists That U. S. Will Keep Iceland Bases

By CARL HARTMAN
PARIS (AP)—Election gains by Icelandic parties anxious to mothball the U. S. air base there are causing concern in this North Atlantic Alliance headquarters. But hope persists that the Americans will stay.
Under the present agreement, the U. S. force need not move out until Feb. 1, 1958. A lot of things can happen before then.
What supporters of NATO hope will take place is a revision of the agreements between Iceland and the United States that will permit the base to be maintained and give Iceland some advantages at the same time.
One such compromise might be the replacement of some U. S. military personnel by civilian Icelanders.
This would serve two purposes: 1. It would cause a source of tension by reducing the number of Americans—more than 4,000 stationed among only 160,000 Icelanders. 2. It would give some Icelanders permanent employment in-

Man Waging Crucial War On Deadly Fly

By E. A. JONES
KAMPALA, Uganda, East Africa, July 4 (AP)—"Africa the sleeping giant," a favorite phrase in the early days of the century, was more literally true than the writer knows. From the Sahara to Zululand, over an area twice the size of Australia, hung the dread shadow of sleeping sickness.
Whole villages sickened, wasted and died. Between 1896 and 1906, 200,000 persons were estimated to have died of sleeping sickness in the little British protectorate of Uganda alone.
The disease is transmitted by the bite of the tsetse fly, whose domain stretches over some 4 1/2 million square miles of Africa.
It was not until 1947 that the full extent of the menace was recognized. During the preceding few years tsetse had invaded 8,000 square miles of new land in Uganda.
The government hastily formed a special Tsetse Control Department with orders to arrest the advance of the fly and drive it back into its traditional strongholds.
There are two forms of the sickness—the Gambian, which covers the western half of the continent, and the more virulent Rhodesian variety, which spreads through east and central Africa. Uganda, in between, has both.
One difficulty in giving prompt treatment is that early symptoms are unrecognizable as sleeping sickness. Occasionally the tsetse bite becomes inflamed. Sometimes a rash covers the skin. Persistent headache is common, but all these symptoms might apply to other illnesses.
Later the glands enlarge, the victim suffers vomiting and begins to become emaciated. Finally the virus invades the brain and spinal cord. Tremors are followed by lethargy, coma and death. It is from the coma state that the disease derives its name.
The onslaught of the tsetse fly has herded man into ever smaller areas, with resultant overcrowding and overcultivation of tsetse-free land. Soil deterioration brings chronic malnutrition and the specter of famine.
In the nine years since its formation the Tsetse Control Department has reconquered some 6,500 square miles from the enemy. No new land has been abandoned.
In west Africa the war has gone well for man. The tsetse is still there, but antitoxins and prophylactic medicines have greatly reduced the incidence of the Gambian-type sleeping sickness.
Bush game is immune to the disease which tsetse brings. Constant vigilance is needed to ensure that the game does not return to newly cleared areas, bringing the fly with it.
The drug antypol, discovered in Germany 25 years ago, prevents sleeping sickness from being a fatal disease, providing it is treated in the first few weeks after infection. The American drug trypanamide has proved effective in more advanced cases of the Gambian type.
But the Rhodesian sickness is a tougher nut. Very recently has a new group of drugs been produced which offers hope to sufferers in advanced stages.
Until these drugs are proved and available in large quantities—with large staffs to administer them—the old choice remains. Get rid of the tsetse or get out.

2 Unsolved Mysteries Deepen As Time Passes

By JOHN BECKER
Associated Press Staff Writer
Mysteries, in the world of fiction, are always solved. But in the harder world of reality they sometimes become more mysterious with the passing of time.
No author would dare concoct such a plot as human nature has contrived in the disappearances of a wealthy West Coast couple and a distinguished Florida judge and his wife.
No self-respecting storybook detective would let his files be cluttered with the kind of folders now gathering dust in every large police department—folders marked "unsolved murders."
But a review of some of the cases in those folders proves again that fact can be stranger than fiction. For example, there was the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. L. Ewing Scott of Los Angeles.
The Scotts were familiar figures in the social life of Los Angeles and Pasadena. They attended a steady round of glittering dinner parties, took annual cruises to Europe and the Mediterranean, and his vivacious, 63-year-old wife was a handsome, popular couple.
They lived in a $75,000 home in one of the most exclusive sections of the city. They went everywhere together. Suddenly it all stopped.
Friends of Mrs. Scott found themselves unable to reach her by telephone after May 16, 1955. Usually no one answered, but sometimes Scott came on to say his wife was ill, or out.
As their concern grew, friends came to the Scott home. But no one answered their knocks, even though one woman later reported seeing Scott sitting in a study when she peered through a window.
Scott finally told persistent callers his wife was ill and had been placed in a sanitarium in Baltimore. But letters addressed to her there were returned.
The disappearance was brought to the attention of authorities by friends and a cautious, quiet inquiry began. It wasn't until last March, however, that the case broke into the open.
Mrs. Scott's brother made out a missing person report on his sister and police, who had been kept in the dark while the district attorney's office handled the secret investigation, moved into action.
They searched the house and grounds and reported finding Mrs. Scott's eyeglasses and dentures buried behind a back yard incinerator. Remnants of her clothing were found in the incinerator ashes.
They searched out Mrs. Scott's friends and learned of many conflicting explanations Scott had given for her absence. And they questioned Scott exhaustively, only to have him refuse to answer most of the pertinent queries on advice of counsel.
A grand jury indicted Scott on 13 counts of grand theft and forgery in connection with the handling of his wife's $600,000 estate. The jury was looking deeper into the case when, last May 1, Scott himself suddenly dropped from sight, forfeiting $25,000 bail.
A short time later his car was found abandoned, bearing two bullet holes.
Police think the tall, debonair investment counselor may be in Canada. Some say he's in Mexico. One report had him driving through a remote northern California town in a car packed to the ceiling with luggage.
But all of these are theories or unconfirmed reports. No one knows where Scott really is. Nor is anyone sure about what happened to his wife.

Then there was the case across the nation of Circuit Judge Charles E. Chillingworth and his wife Marjorie, who spent the evening with friends in West Palm Beach, Fla., and then drove home.
A workman called at the oceanfront Chillingworth home the next morning and found no one there. A deputy sheriff was sent to investigate.
A floodlight that illuminated the back yard was still burning, but a small light mounted on the front porch was smashed.
The clothes the Chillingworths had worn the night before were hanging in the closets, their beds had been slept in, and nothing in the house seemed to be disturbed. A ventilating fan was running.
Both family cars were in the garage.
A dozen drops of blood were scattered thinly along the steps leading from the house to the beach. A full roll of adhesive tape was found on the porch and a nearly empty roll on the sand below.
Chillingworth, 58, was one of Florida's most respected judges. His wife, 57, was described by friends as "the sweetest woman who ever lived."
Rewards totaling $120,250 were offered for information on their disappearance. The offshore waters were searched for bodies. Planes flew hundreds of miles over the lonely Everglades looking for clues.
But nothing has been found. The most common theories are that the couple were kidnapped or murdered, but police have found neither criminal nor motive for the presumed crime.

Missing Girl Found Pinned In Wreckage Of Auto

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A missing California teen-ager was found alive last night after being pinned beneath the wreckage of a car for nine days near the body of her fiancé.
Jean Margetts, 18, Sunnyvale, Calif., was rushed to Salt Lake County Hospital in critical condition. Attendants there said she was suffering from exposure and undernourishment.
Highway patrolmen, acting on a tip from a plane-borne spotter, found the wreckage in Parley's Canyon, a few miles east of Salt Lake City.
The wrecked car had belonged to her betrothed, 22-year-old James B. Hixon Jr., of Salt Lake City. Hixon's body was found about 20 feet from the wreckage.
The two had been listed missing when they failed to return from a June 24 fishing outing.
Lyle Hyatt, Utah Patrol superintendent, said he thought the girl was dead. But as he lifted the car trunk, Miss Margetts cried out.
"My leg hurts. I'm cold."
Officers said the car had plunged over a cliff and struck a shelf 50 feet below, then bounced another 250 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

29 Lunacy Cases Heard By Judge

Twenty-nine lunacy matters were tried at the Big Spring State Hospital on Monday afternoon. This represents a surge back to the high level of cases which were being handled through the office of the Howard County judge the forepart of this year.
Only four of the cases originated in Howard County.
El Paso County had 8 cases; Fector County—4 cases; Shackelford County 1; Fisher County 2; Midland County 1; Winkler County 1; Tom Green County 2; Taylor County 2; Gaines County, Dawson County, Pecos County and Dickens County, one case each.
Commitment to the state hospital may be ordered at the conclusion of hearings conducted before the county court. R. H. Weaver, judge, presided at the session at the State Hospital.

Dangerous Buss

DETROIT (AP)—William H. Kigg, 33, and his wife, Mary Ann, had that romantic feeling as they drove home from attending a wedding.
When Mary Ann leaned over and gave her hubby a kiss, a policeman had to be looking.
In traffic court referee John M. Wise reflected on all the facts. Then he gave King a suspended sentence for reckless driving.

POCATELLO, Idaho—This town is not as pretty as the name implies. Located in a narrow, twisting valley between two mountain ranges, it is somewhat shabby and dark and grimy—grimy from the railroad shops and the coal dust that comes from the chimneys. Evidently there is no Texas gas here, because every home has a blackened chimney sticking out the roof.
There is a nice little river that runs nearby, as it pitches and rolls gustily on its way to join the Snake a few miles to the Northwest.
I've seen a few of those famous Idaho potatoes but not many. South of here a few miles there is some farming, with the valley land covered with hay and potatoes and the hillsides planted to wheat. Some of those hill farms are so steep a Texas farmer would be afraid to plow in one. Some slopes must be at least 15 per cent, yet there were no gullies or signs of soil erosion. One man said they didn't get hard, dashing rains up here and much of the water soaked in the ground. And also much of the moisture comes from melting snow.
The most beautiful country I've seen yet was in Utah—all the way from St. George in the extreme southwest corner on north through Salt Lake City and Ogden. The valleys are green and fertile and Mormon farms by the hundreds are found in every locality except in the mountains.
One thing noticeable about these people is that they haven't changed with the times so much as in other areas. They still raise much of their living and keep cows, chickens and hogs. The houses are old and so is most of the equipment. Second-hand Ford and Ferguson tractors are very common, and there are no four-row rigs at all.
They used to live quite well, but now the units are too small and many of them are still trying to live on the same size income they had ten or twenty years ago.
Another thing I noticed about the Mormons is their pure racial strains. From St. George to Provo, a distance of about 300 miles, I drove through Mormon country all the way and didn't see a Latin-American, a Negro or hardly a dark-complexioned person. The people are nearly all Anglo-Saxon with a tiny mixture of Scandinavian in the northern part of this area. Instead of having an accent like most people from the North and West, they have soft drawl just like West Texas.
As one nears Salt Lake City, he sees a few Swedes and Chinese, and up around Ogden here are dozens of Latin-American crews picking cherries.
From others I learned there were still more wives in Utah than husbands. One man born and reared in a Mormon settlement said he personally knew a man in a Southwestern Utah town who had six wives living on a nearby farm. The Mormon hadn't taken a head count lately, but told his friend that he had either 16 or 17 children of school age.
Occasionally he gets scared of the law and takes a trip to Mexico

City or the West Coast until things quiet down again at home—or as quiet as one could expect with six women and 25 kids living under one roof.
My informer said, that many years ago when the law stopped plural marriages, one Mormon had several families and started hiding them in the numerous valleys south of Salt Lake. He spent so much time chasing over the state trying to keep up with them that he wore himself out before his time and died.
One of these families, with some new recruits moved to Short Creek, Arizona, and formed the nucleus for the group that was routed by the authorities two or three years ago.
Aside from their peculiar beliefs on marriage the Mormons are a nice, friendly people. They live simply and honestly and have the lowest crime record of any group in the nation. You hear no profanity or see no drinking in those little villages; but once you get north of Salt Lake City you realize by the cars lined up in front of beer joints and by the loud cussing that you are back in civilization again.

Reds Set Up Revolt Probe

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Radio Warsaw today announced creation of a special commission to investigate Poznan's "bread and freedom" uprising last week and mete out punishment.
The broadcast described the commission's task as an "energetic and comprehensive" inquiry into direct causes of the bloody three-day insurrection which reportedly left hundreds of dead.
Reports reaching West Berlin yesterday said "drumhead court" trials of Poznan's rebels already had started. A German business map, returning from Poland said Poznan was full of rumors that some revolt leaders already had been executed.

Time To Be On Our Guard

There are those who believe, with every good reason in the light of history, that the current upheaval among Communist parties throughout the world as a result of the Khrushchev attack on Stalin is simply a part of the general overall Communist strategy of lulling the non-Communist world into a sense of false security. Communist leaders may wander astray and fall into disfavor now and then, but they remain Communists and sooner or later they knuckle under to Moscow again. Tito, for instance, he is as good and faithful a Communist as Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev. A personal spat between him and Stalin exiled him from the Kremlin's bed and board for a season, but that's been patched up and now Tito has become a sort of evangel from the Kremlin to the heathen neutralists and the unwary non-Communist world.

Recent signs of "independence" on the part of Communist spokesmen in Italy, France and the United States over the anti-Stalin movement have attracted widespread attention. Even some of the satellite leaders have shown restiveness, and criticism of the Khrushchev regime has appeared in the rock-ribbed Communist press.

Many of the unwary have accepted these at face value, as evidence of an impending upheaval among Communists of the Soviet Union and those elsewhere. Some have taken the hook, line and sinker.

Secretary Dulles seems to be sniffing around this beguiling hook. He says Moscow's control over foreign Communist parties has been "very much shaken and loosened." He even hints that the future of Khrushchev as top dog might be at stake. He says international communism is in a state of perplexity and at interval odds "because certain basic truths have caught up with it."

That is devoutly to be hoped, of course, but not to be accepted as fact. Foreign Communist parties are controlled from Moscow and there is no impressive and unquestionable evidence that this subservience to Moscow has changed in the slightest. We should be on our guard more than ever.

To Be Safe-Be Fit

Few people take thought of the need of preparation to participate in America's most universal and dangerous sport—operating a motor vehicle on congested highways.

R. B. Baillie, president of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators and commissioner of motor vehicles for the Province of Manitoba, Canada, asserts that "driving on today's congested highways is North America's favorite outdoor sport, so you must keep in good shape at all times." He points out that "long drives slow up your reflexes, overtax your nervous system, reduce your seeing ability unless you stop now and then for some exercise and a cup of coffee or some other non-alcoholic alertness beverage."

So, you should be physically and psychologically fit to insure your safety and that of others before becoming a participant in "North America's favorite outdoor sport." That applies especially to the long summer days of the vacation period, when long drives and exhausting weather conditions take a toll of nerves and strength.

Has it ever registered on you that a very large proportion of motorists involved in highway crashes in Texas, especially during the night hours, seem to be tourists just passing through? In the case of many head-on collisions both cars are from some other state, and in what seems to us an unusually large number of them at least one car hails from outside Texas.

Could this be because their drivers have spent too long at the wheel, and fatigue and slow reflexes have overtaken them? Crossing Texas from east to west and vice versa involves more than 800 miles of travel, and drivers who try to make it under two full days in this kind of weather are putting too much of a strain on themselves.

Need For Confidential Informants

WASHINGTON — The United States government used more than $3,000,000 of taxpayers' money from 1946 to 1952 to pay for the education of war veterans in four-schools owned wholly or in part by members of the Communist party.

This conclusion was reached by the Senate's permanent subcommittee on investigations, of which Senator McClellan of Arkansas is chairman.

Clumsy administration in the Veterans' Bureau in those years, and to some extent, lack of alertness on the part of state agencies which had approved the schools were responsible for the situation.

More than $2,000,000 in federal funds were expended to a private high school in New York City that had in it many pro-Communist teachers, but the bulk of the veterans were trained at the school even after the Veterans' Administration was aware that it was Communist-dominated.

The Senate committee has called for new legislation by Congress to prevent any further federal support of Communist-owned schools. It is apparent that some of the existing laws are inadequate to take care of the situation.

Most significant in the subcommittee's report — which, incidentally, is unanimous — is the statement made concerning the importance of confidential informants. The subcommittee does not reveal just what handicaps the investigating agencies of the government may have been under in connection with the ascertainment of the facts concerning the influence of the Communists in the schools, but the subcommittee says:

"These hearings have served to re-emphasize to this subcommittee the important contributions that may be made by confidential informants to the exposure of the Communist conspiracy before the courts and congressional committees. To this end they have made extreme sacrifices of which the American public generally is unaware.

"It is to be expected that Communists and Communist sympathizers will launch smear campaigns against these former party members who have a unique knowledge of the real purposes of the Communist party, U. S. A. However, the subcommittee is particularly disturbed by a recent increase in similar unjustified attacks from misguided quarters avowedly anti-Communist. By such activities they are either unwittingly or deliberately promoting Communist causes.

"The result of such attacks has been an increasing reluctance on the part of former members of the Communist party or undercover agents to testify in courts or before congressional committees. This government is thus being deprived of its best source of facts concerning an organization dedicated to its overthrow by unconstitutional means.

"It is of interest that those groups attacking informants are not heard from when informants on non-Communist matters are involved.

"The very nature of the Communist conspiracy has always rendered its exposure exceedingly difficult. Now that the party has gone underground, that difficulty has greatly increased, necessitating an even greater dependence on confidential informants within the party in order to keep abreast of its activities and at appropriate times to publicly expose its real objectives.

"Reckless and unjustified attacks against all confidential informants and their use by our government are strongly condemned by this subcommittee. They accomplish nothing except the rendering of assistance to the Communist party.

"This subcommittee is firmly opposed to the expenditure of federal funds for institutions owned or controlled by Communists."

Maybe the justices of the Supreme Court who inveighed against "confidential informants" in one of their decisions recently will read what the Senate subcommittee has just said on the subject.

The subcommittee, incidentally, points out that, under existing laws, the Veterans Administration "did not have and does not have legal authority to discontinue payment of federal funds to schools reliably reported as Communist owned." But the senators point out nevertheless that the Veterans Administration "was on notice as early as 1946 of the deficiencies in this area" of public law.

The criticism of the Veterans Administration is phrased this way: "For a period of over 9 years, the Veterans Administration failed to recommend corrective legislation or at least to apprise Congress of the deficiencies of these laws. Such inaction is strongly condemned by this subcommittee. It resulted in an inexcusable expenditure of federal funds in support of Communist-owned schools."

It is interesting to note that the new bill to correct the situation is sponsored by the full membership of the subcommittee, which means Democrats as well as Republicans.

Red Bosses Have Enough Of Criticism

WASHINGTON — Moscow's Communist bosses apparently are trying to head off any more violent criticism among Red leaders of their failure to overthrow Joseph Stalin or at least curb his excesses.

How well they succeed may well determine the degree of success with which they come through one of the biggest crises which has shaken the Moscow-directed Communist movement during its 40-year history.

Responding to far-reaching criticisms by Western party chiefs of the anti-Stalin campaign which Russian party boss Nikita Khrushchev started last February, the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee sought to gag such attacks in a 6,000-word statement issued Monday.

As read by specialists here, its over-all purpose was to say to the Communist faithful in Russia, in the satellite countries and in non-Communist lands that the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee and get on with the job of spreading communism.

If such men as Palmiro Togliatti in Italy, Maurice Thorez in France and other non-Russian Communists.

The view here is that if men like Togliatti accept the Kremlin "explanation" and are silenced, they will face difficulties with their followers because the committee statement does not seem to answer adequately the criticisms already raised.

The end result could therefore be that some leaders would lose their official heads, whether this might mean the end for some of the top bosses in Moscow is problematical.

Moscow had been confronted with two major questions after Khrushchev's February speech in secret to the 20th Party Congress: (1) Had a failure of the Soviet system permitted the growth of Stalin's reign of terror? (2) Why did Khrushchev and Stalin's other lieutenants not halt the Stalin terror?

In essence, the Central Committee said the system had not failed; that Stalin fed upon unusual powers given him at a time when centralized government was needed to protect the Soviet Union; and that the men around him did not act to curb him in part because of his great popularity and in part because they did not fully realize what was going on until after his death in 1953.

Officials here regarded these explanations as phony, and say the Central Committee could not afford to tell the real truth. As Washington authorities understand the situation the truth is simple.

In their view Stalin came to complete personal power because the Soviet system lacks the checks and balances of divided authority which characterize the political structures of Western countries.

Once he had achieved power the system offered no mechanism for ousting him and the men around him—the men who now rule—were afraid to challenge his authority, even assuming that they wished to do so. In fact, there is no objective evidence to indicate that they did not willingly support him during the long years of his rule.

Experts think it probably that many Communist leaders and rank and file members will accept the Central Committee explanation; however, either because they are accustomed to Moscow discipline or because they have no other place to turn.

If men of prominence in the movement, like Togliatti, eventually refuse to accept it, then Moscow bosses will have to decide what step to take next—whether to try to purge such recalcitrants or to undertake to live with badly divided leadership in the world Communist movement.

Capsule Story Of America

LITITZ, Pa. Independence Day holds a special significance for Lititz, known across the nation as "The pretzel town."

The community, deep in the Pennsylvania Dutch country where the first commercial pretzel in America was baked in 1861, is celebrating its 200th birthday.

Lititz, now a thriving agricultural and industrial center of more than 6,000 population, has had an unusual history. In its way it capsules the story of America.

It was founded in 1756 as a Moravian community, and for 99 years the church elders largely ruled its business as well as its social and spiritual life.

You couldn't borrow or lend money, board a stranger overnight, or even go into a new trade without permission of the congregation's all-powerful committee on temporal affairs.

Anyone who was caught in such "gross heathenish sins" as excessive drinking, wenching, gluttony, cursing, lying, cheating, stealing or quarreling and fighting was subject to prompt expulsion from the community.

Swimming and skating were also banned, because of possible injury to the immortal souls of the pious. As one member wrote, "what would the dear Saviour think of such actions?"

But human nature was still human nature even in those days, and the diaries of the church committee note many lapses from grace. Here are a few entries: "Oct. 22, 1779. It was an unbrotherly stroke of business for Heinrich Rauch to charge two poor brethren 18 pounds for their trusses, which he made in half a day."

"Nov. 7, 1783. In our opinion Claus Collin charges too much for the coffins he makes; therefore it will be well to confer with him on the matter."

"Nov. 1809. Members must see to it, as much as possible, that the smoking of cigars by children and youths is stopped, about which parents and masters were recently spoken with."

"Modern youngsters, who start 'going steady' in their teens, would have found the early regulations unbearably strict.

There was no such thing as courtship. Single men and women were quartered in separate buildings. Marriage wasn't by choice; it was by lot.

When a man expressed a desire to marry, the elders decided which girls were eligible. The name of each was written on a piece of paper and inserted in a goose quill. The goose quills were placed in half a coconut shell. The bridegroom then reached in and selected a goose quill at random. The girl whose name it contained became his bride.

This custom died out after 1818 when John Beck, the village schoolmaster, stoutly insisted on his right to pick his own bride—and did.

'Alcodial' Helps Drinker Know When To Stop

TORONTO — Two Toronto doctors have designed a pocket-size cardboard computer for drinkers who can't tell when they've had enough.

The scale on the computer, called an "alcodial," ranges from convivial to carefree and unconscious. With a twirl of a center dial and a few simple arithmetic calculations, a drinker can tell whether he can safely have a final "one for the road" or should settle for a cup of coffee.

Dr. R. Gordon Bell says he and Dr. K. W. Ferguson of Connaught Laboratories at the University of Toronto developed the gadget primarily as a gimmick to interest individuals in the problems of alcoholism.

Around The Rim

'Boom' Replaces 'Buzz Job'

By tradition, the Fourth of July is a season of big booms. From the days of shooting anvils to the modern "salutes" turned out by fireworks manufacturers, the booms have been getting bigger and bigger. Now, the Air Force comes up with one that will become increasingly familiar—the sonic boom.

As fireworks have celebrated the birth of our liberty, so the sonic boom may be a symbol of protection for those liberties so cherished by the free world.

The sonic boom is nothing new. Raymond H. Rice, vice president and chief engineer of North American Aviation, Inc., points out that his company's pilots alone have flown well over 5,000 flights beyond the speed of sound. The Air Force pilots have flown thousands upon thousands more.

Out of consideration for the public, most of these flights have been out and away from heavily populated areas so that the sonic boom is something relatively few people have experienced.

Sound is produced when pressure waves strike the ear. The louder the sound, the greater the difference in pressure on each side of the pressure waves. When the difference is built up to considerable proportions, the ear interprets the sound as an explosive. This is what happens in the case of a big firecracker or a dynamite blast.

When an airplane flies at speeds faster than sound, it creates shock waves in the air, just as a motorboat creates surface waves. Under certain atmospheric conditions, the shock waves from fast moving planes reach the ground and are heard as supersonic booms.

Until now, most of the sonic booms heard have resulted from the plane going into a dive from around 40,000 feet. Pressure waves created by the plane streaking beyond the speed of sound move toward the earth in the direction of the airplane's flight and at the same speed. There also is a trailing tail wave which is shed by the plane. Between the two there may be five or six shock waves.

As the pilot begins to pull out of his dive around 20,000 feet, the plane speed decelerates but not the shock waves. They continue on at the same speed toward the ground. They were cone-shaped when they left the plane, but they rapidly spread into a ball shape. The further they have to travel, the more they are spread and weaken. Hence great distance can wipe out the sonic boom.

As the waves move toward the earth, the stronger waves absorb the weaker ones so that only two or three "booms" will be heard instead of the six or seven that left the plane. The loudness of these explosive sounds depends upon the top speed of the airplane in relation to the speed of sound, plus the rate at which it slows down in pulling out of its dive, and plus its altitude at the bottom of the dive.

Rice reported that one of the largest sonic booms produced so far was by a North American test pilot, George Welch, who nosed his plane to the speed of sound and pulled out only at the altitude of 3,000 feet. This produced a sound much louder than heavy thunder.

As more and more planes begin cutting through the air faster than sound in level flight, we may hear more and more of these sonic booms. Even so, the military as well as commercial fliers are being briefed on avoiding densely populated areas at these speeds unless they are at very high altitudes. There won't be as much "booming" the old home town as there was once "buzzing."

Foreign Teacher Exchange Endorsed

PRINCETON, N. J. — School teachers of the country may one day cover the world as summer-time "ambassadors of goodwill" if an idea that has the blessing of the American public is adopted.

Nearly six out of 10 adults, or 58 per cent, think it would be a good idea for all U. S. school teachers who would like to go to be sent, at government expense, to various countries during their summer vacations to study and write about these nations.

By a smaller margin, the public also thinks it would be a good idea to invite teachers of other nations to visit this country at our expense.

Persons in the survey who attended college are almost equally in favor of both proposals.

The "teacher exchange" suggestions have been advanced not only as a means of increasing goodwill for America, but also to better our understanding of world problems as well as to give citizens of other nations a better understanding of this country.

In today's survey, Institute interviewers asked two questions of a representative sample of adults, scientifically selected from all walks of life to provide an accurate cross-section of U. S. opinion.

The first: "To increase goodwill and our understanding of world problems, it has been suggested that all U. S. school teachers who so desire be sent at government expense to various countries during their summer vacations to study and write about these nations. Does this sound like a good idea or a poor one?"

SEND U. S. TEACHERS ABROAD TO STUDY?

	Per cent
Good idea	58
Poor idea	38
No opinion	9

Undoubtedly many of those questioned see in the proposal a chance to make a teaching career more attractive to more people and thus help overcome the teacher shortage.

The division of opinion on the question is quite similar among the various major groups in the population, including education levels. The most striking difference occurs in the vote by age groups, with young people considerably more in favor of the idea than older people, as follows:

Yrs. yrs. & Over	Per cent
18-29	68
30-49	61
50-69	51
70+	37
No opinion	5

Interviewers next asked: "It has also been suggested that teachers of other nations be invited to visit the United States, at our expense, in order to get a better understanding of this country. Does this sound like a good idea or a poor one?"

INVITE FOREIGN TEACHERS TO STUDY IN U.S.?

	Per cent
Good idea	47
Poor idea	44
No opinion	9

On this question, differences by both education levels and age groups are more pronounced, as the following tables show:

BY EDUCATION

	Col. High Grade	Per cent
Good idea	57	50
Poor idea	39	42
No opinion	4	8

BY AGE GROUPS

Yrs. yrs. & Over	Per cent
18-29	58
30-49	52
50-69	41
70+	35
No opinion	7

An Institute survey in April of last year found sizable majorities approving of a U.S.-Soviet exchange of athletes.

Fifty-nine per cent said it would be a good idea to send U. S. athletes to Russia to participate in athletic contests, 31 per cent said it would be a poor idea and 10 per cent expressed no opinion.

A somewhat larger majority, 63 per cent, thought it would be a good idea to have Soviet athletes come to this country, while 29 per cent were opposed and 8 per cent expressed no opinion.

In a comparison study, the American public was evenly divided on a "tourist exchange" with Russia. Forty-four per cent were in favor, 44 per cent were opposed and 12 per cent expressed no opinion.

Rules For Candidates' Wives

Purely as a public service, I am publishing today a pronouncement to be known hereafter as Robb's Handy Dandy Compendium of Rules and Regulations for Wives of Political Candidates.

Woman and girl, I have been interviewing such badgered ladies for longer than any of us wish to acknowledge, for one of the first laws is that candidates' wives must always be youthful but never young.

If truth must out, I began cutting my wisdom teeth in such matters as far back as the first administration of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

At this time I was in Washington to interview a redoubtable, lively and lovable lady, Cecilia Cummings, the late wife of Homer Cummings, who was Attorney General in the Roosevelt Cabinet. I was under instructions to ask her what she proposed to wear to the first formal Roosevelt dinner in the White House.

After describing her gown, this frank lady said, "I am going to wear a diamond pendant. But for heaven's sake, say it's rhinestones. If Homer ever has to run for office again and if the voters know the pendant is real, he couldn't make dog-catcher!"

This was my introduction to a prime rule of feminine political life: The wife of a candidate should look good, but not too good. The ladies in the audience should always believe they can get something just as nice at Sears Roebuck.

However, it is as fatal for the political wife to look dowdy as best-dressed. It's the middle of the road for her — a nice balance between Mrs. Francis Perkins and Clare Boothe Luce.

It is imperative that the candidate's wife be, on the one hand, an accomplished hostess up to splitting a beer with Mrs. Vanderbilt, and, on the other hand, retain the common touch at the box supper.

It is vital that she be keenly interested in public affairs and yet just a housewife at heart who has been reluctantly dragged from her stance over a hot stove by the insatiable demand of the public that her husband run for something — anything.

She must permit her husband to do all the speaking public, and yet be articulate in private, lest the rumor get around that she is a dumb cluck. She must not discuss the issues beyond saying fervently that she agrees with her husband and the party platform.

The issues belong to her husband, the eternal verities to her. While it might be fatal for her to take a firm stand on labor of disarmament, she can strongly endorse virtue, thrift and motherhood. And she can vehemently denounce juvenile delinquency and man-eating sharks, since so few J.D.s, or sharks turn up at the polls.

She must at one and the same time be her husband's homemaker and his best inspiration. She may suggest but never boss, love the public but treasure privacy, always be visible on the back platform but invisible in the smoke-filled rooms.

What she needs, in short, is a split personality. And what she'll get, in all probability, is schizophrenia.

Correspondent Killed In Crash

Mara Scherbatoff, New York bureau chief for the French magazine, Paris Match, is comforted by an unidentified man (right), as she lies under blanket after car in which she was riding hit a tree near Roxbury, Conn., injuring her fatally. Also injured in the crash was Ira Slade, second from left, of New York, who is aided by his brother, Paul, a photographer for the French magazine. Slade was driving the car which apparently was trying to follow Playwright Arthur Miller and his bride, Marilyn Monroe, who were motoring to Miller's nearby farmhouse. Miller and Miss Monroe were holding a picture session for photographers.

DEMO CANDIDATES

Monroney, Chandler Easily Win Home State Contests

By The Associated Press
Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky easily won home state Democratic tests yesterday. Monroney gained renomination in a primary election while Republican Douglas McKeever won a chance to oppose him in the November voting. Chandler grabbed hammerlock control of Kentucky's Democratic party organization in a state convention that noisily acclaimed him as Kentucky's hope for the Democratic presidential nomination. None of the victories was unexpected, except perhaps the complete shutout in Kentucky of a

Democratic faction led by Sen. Earle Clements and former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby. Chandler capped his triumphs—being chosen national committee man, chairman of the state's delegation to the national convention, permanent chairman of the state convention and presidential "favorite son"—with an appeal for unity. He urged re-election of Clements and election of Wetherby to the Senate seat of the late Alben W. Barkley. Both Clements and Wetherby have fought the Chandler wing of the party in the past. As favorite son, Chandler will go to the national convention in August with Kentucky's 30 delegates votes pledged to him "so long as his name remains before the convention." Chandler told the group he would "use all of our means" to get the nomination if there is a deadlock between current leading candidates. One of those candidates—Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee—told the Senate yesterday that a recent Republican Policy Committee memorandum is "despicable and dirty politics" that President Eisenhower should "disavow." Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said the document was not designed to link the Democratic party with communism, as many Democrats have charged. The memorandum said the official Communist line now is that "the Republicans must be defeated and all support thrown to the Democrats." Bridges said both the Democrats and Republicans in Congress are "patriotic and loyal American citizens" and the staff memo did not intend to suggest otherwise. Another Democratic presidential aspirant, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, returned from a four-day Farm Belt campaign trip, saying farmers "are up in arms and very resentful of the way they have been treated." Harriman said he was pleased with his reception in the Midwest and would seek the support of Southern "liberals" in an upcoming visit to the Southland.

New Fire Station Awaits Furniture

The city will not be able to occupy the new fire station at Eleventh and Birdwell at least until after July 11 because of the furniture. Most of the furniture will not be shipped until that date, Fire Chief H. B. Crocker said, and until it arrives and can be placed, the building will not be ready for use. Open house for the benefit of the public also will have to be delayed until after then. City crews have started landscaping the corner.

Fire hose for one of the new trucks purchased has arrived and the truck has been equipped. The city purchased 6,000 feet of two and a half inch hose and 1,500 feet of one and a half inch for the two trucks. Two thousand feet of the larger hose was rush ordered and has arrived. One truck has been here over a month and the second is expected. The city has had no word as to when it will be leaving the Mack Truck Company factory in New York, however.

Coed Told To Stop Bothering Prof

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The case of the ardent coed and the reluctant professor is closed—at least officially. A warrant for the arrest of 22-year-old Dawn Wolfe, accused of disturbing the peace of Prof. Josef Cohen, was dismissed yesterday by Police Magistrate Virgil W. Burgess.

Woman Gives Up Children To Live With Married Man

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Marjorie Miller, 36, has given up her four daughters — Patricia, 14; Gloria, 3; Rita, 7; and Christiana, 5 — to live with a married sweetheart she first met last February. It took her only three hours to think it over after Common Pleas Judge Samuel H. Silbert told her Monday: "Either you give up your brazen conduct with this other man and go back home as a dutiful wife and mother, or else..."

Airplane Sabotage Bill Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any sabotage of an airplane which results in passenger fatalities would be punishable by death under a bill passed by the Senate and sent to the White House yesterday. The measure applies to planes and buses used in interstate or foreign commerce. Existing laws cover sabotage of trains. The bill stemmed from the explosion, blamed on a homemade bomb, of an airliner over Colorado last Nov. 1. Forty-four lives were lost.

Judge To Study Cotton Review Case Testimony

Testimony ended Tuesday in Amarillo Federal District Court in a case brought by the Department of Agriculture against 12 members of two cotton acreage review committees from West Texas. The matter on trial before the court is whether the review committees have the authorization and jurisdiction to reverse the state and county committees. Judge Joseph Dooley decided to take the matter under advisement. He adjourned court until Monday, July 9.

John Lowther, assistant U. S. attorney, asked the court for an injunction which would enjoin members of the committees from hearing any more review cases until the court has reached a decision. Three members of two of the six committees involved testified they would take no further action until the court has ruled.

Henry Marshall, an administrative officer of the Agricultural Stabilization Office at College Station, told the court that about 2,000 appeals have been filed with the six review committees. He said there are now 1,042 cases pending before the two committees cited in the government suit.

Six hundred of these cases, he testified are in Dawson and Lamb counties.

Bob Scarborough Wins Okla. Office

Bob Scarborough, son of Mrs. Kenneth Manuel of Big Spring, Tuesday was elected state representative to the Oklahoma legislature from Jackson County. He resides in Altus, Okla.

Don is the younger brother of Bob Scarborough, now an assistant football coach at the University of Nebraska.

Bob plans to continue with his schooling at the University of Oklahoma, he informed his mother. He is studying pre-law at Norman.

2 Traffic Mishaps Recorded Tuesday

Big Spring warmed up for the expected holiday accident increase Tuesday by recording two mishaps. Both were on the highways through here.

Weldon Merle Myrick, 2202 Nolan, and Jack Shirley, Tex Hotel, were in collision at Fifth and Gregg. Myrick had a 1956 Oldsmobile, while Shirley was driving a 1955 Chevrolet.

At Fourth and Johnson, Anthony Butler, Kingsford, Mich., collided with Juanera McIntosh, Walden, 508 Settles.

Lydia Services Set At C-City

COLORADO CITY — Funeral services for James W. Lydia, who drowned in Lake Colorado City Monday afternoon, will be held Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the Wallace School.

The Rev. A. F. Douglas, pastor of the Mount Olive Baptist Church, will officiate, assisted by the Rev. C. Beck, pastor of the Mount Zion Baptist Church. Burial will be in the Mitchell County Cemetery, under the direction of Kiker and Son of Colorado City. The Negro Masonic Lodge will hold graveside rites.

Lydia was born Dec. 31, 1920, at Lemp, but had lived in Colorado City since 1939. He was an employee of the Texas Electric Service Company and was working at the plant at the time of his death. He was making measurements near the outlet from the big plant, and fell into the turbulent water and was swept out of sight. Justice of the Peace G. C. Lemons returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Lydia was a member of the Baptist Church. Mrs. Lydia died in May.

He is survived by his grandmother, Mrs. Nannie Walton of Colorado City, a son, Jackie Lydia, about 4, and three older daughters, Mary Belle, Jane Eva, and Nina Lee; and a brother, Leroy Lydia of Midland.

Toy Pistol Used In Knott Holdup

Levy Lee Edmondson, 18, who lives in the Knott community, used a "king-size" toy pistol instead of an actual firearm Monday night in the alleged holdup of Edgar Aihart, West Knott store proprietor, Sheriff Jess Slaughter said today.

Edmondson, arrested at noon yesterday in Lubbock, led sheriff's deputies to a field three quarters a mile east of the Aihart store. There the officers picked up the pistol allegedly used in the holdup.

It is a full-sized, elaborately modeled toy pistol. Sheriff Slaughter said that Aihart, who is an elderly man, had no opportunity to identify the weapon as harmless when a youth, whom Aihart identified as Edmondson, came into his general store at 10:30 p.m. Monday and demanded his money.

Officers recovered $35 of the $54 stolen from the store. Slaughter said that Edmondson had hitchhiked a ride from Knott to Lubbock. He went immediately to the home of a girl friend and gave her $35 as down payment on a car the girl wanted to buy.

The billfold, identification papers, and a check, which were also taken by the holdup man, have not been recovered.

Edmondson, charged with a previous offense involving theft of a saddle and bridle, was indicted last week by the Howard County grand jury. On Friday he appeared before Judge Charlie Sullivan in 118th-District Court and pleaded guilty, asking for a probated sentence. He was granted a two-year probation.

Edmondson was said to be extremely uncommunicative Wednesday morning. He led officers to the gun, Slaughter said, but his answers to questions about the case are limited to "yes" and "no."

Charges of armed robbery were filed against him in the justice court of Walter Grice—Tuesday morning.

Experts Plan To Climb After Plane Wreck

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP) — Expert mountain climbers today planned to scale a precipitous butte to reach the main wreckage of a United Air Lines DC7, one of two airliners which plunged into the Grand Canyon in a disaster that took 128 lives.

The climbing team's main assignment was to look for remains of the 58 persons who were aboard the DC7 when it smashed into the butte last Saturday, presumably after colliding in flight with a Trans World Airlines Super Constellation.

The shattered remains of the Constellation, which carried 70 persons, lies less than a mile from the wreckage of the DC7. The double crash was the worst tragedy in commercial aviation history.

Bill O'Hern, United's assistant public relations director, said four men from the Rocky Mountain rescue team and the Colorado Mountain Club in Denver would attempt to scale the butte today.

They will be joined later by five Swiss mountaineers who are expected to arrive at the canyon tonight or tomorrow morning. They are being flown from Zurich.

At Fourth and Johnson, Anthony Butler, Kingsford, Mich., collided with Juanera McIntosh, Walden, 508 Settles.

Seven Boys Get DeMolay Degrees

Initiatory degrees were conferred on three and DeMolay degrees went to four others last night at a meeting of the Big Spring chapter of DeMolays.

A team from the Lamesa chapter was in charge of the initiation. Receiving initiatory degrees were Bill Engle, Robert Haynes and John Roy Phillips. DeMolay degrees went to Jimmy Simmons, Halley Haynes, Jerry Robinson and Danny Fiveash.

A team had planned a "car wash" as a DeMolay fund raiser. Autos will be washed for $1 or donations Saturday at Sixth and Main.

BB Hits Window

Another report of BB gun vandalism cropped up Tuesday night. Jake Carroll, manager of Rite-Way Motors, 500 Gregg, said that one window pane at the garage had been damaged by BB guns.

Small Fire Occurs

A small blaze developed from an electrical connection at 701 W. 16th Tuesday but caused no damage. Firemen from the 18th Street station answered the call to the residence of M. C. Grigsby.

Fishermen Win

The fishermen won out the Rays, 15-14, in a National Minor League game Tuesday afternoon. Cecil Mills went all the way on the mound for the winners.

Clouds Muster Only A Sprinkle

It tried hard to rain again last night. Locally, the very best that it could do was a light sprinkle south of town in the vicinity of the Cosden Country Club. This dwindled sharply as it progressed northward.

Parts of the town received what might, by using the term broadly, be called a "trace."

Black clouds, vivid lightning and growing thunder marked the evening and on toward midnight. There were intervals when the promise of rain was bright but the whole event passed without development.

A brisk wind accompanied arrival of the late evening flurry. Weather forecast for July 4 called for a clear sky, hot, bracing sun, and a temperature maximum pushing the century mark.

The inevitable "widely scattered" thundershowers in the evening was again tacked onto the forecast. Midland weather station said that its station gauge showed .16 inch rain last night and that another gauge in that city showed .40.

There were no other reports at the Midland office of important rain, the weather observer said.

Housing For Webb Air Force Base

This is an architect's drawing of a single dwelling of the type proposed for Webb AFB. It is a two-bedroom structure with attached carport. Col. Charles M. Young, Web commander, has been in Washington this week to review plans for the 460-unit housing project planned for the area southeast of the base. If the plans are approved at a meeting in the Pentagon, construction should begin early in September and be completed in about a year. Accompanying Young to Washington were Maj. John T. Gaffey, Installations Group commander, and Lee C. Bramlette of the Purchasing and Contracting Office. Of the 460 dwellings, 276 are proposed for enlisted personnel and 184 are to be for officers.

Daniel Outlines Platform At Brief Appearance Tuesday

Sen. Price Daniel, carrying his campaign for governor to this section of West Texas, Tuesday evening reiterated that the issues in the campaign are for "simple honesty and moral integrity," resistance to federal encroachments, stronger support to education and a cost of living increase in old age assistance.

Speaking at a gathering on the east side of the courthouse, the United States senator who wants to be governor also called for stronger narcotics laws, for a stiffer lobbyist registration law, and for cleaner politics. He said that despite top labor endorsement of a competitor (Ralph Yarborough) he felt that he (Daniel) would receive support from many of the dues paying members of labor.

Daniel came here from Colorado City, which followed appearance earlier at Abilene and Sweetwater. He was introduced here by Joe Pickle, a former classmate, who said that the senator was a "clean, honest man who believes that the best path to good government is a straight line."

Daniel brought with him word of his endorsement by 10 former presidents of the Texas State Teachers Association "because of your long and faithful support of our public schools," and especially your untiring and successful efforts in helping save the Tidelands for our public school fund.

Personal reasons weigh heavily in his preference of the governorship over the post of senator, he said, but the issues of the campaign are more important. Sam Houston (who, incidentally, was the great-grandfather of Mrs. Daniel) was the first U.S. senator from Texas who ran and was elected governor of Texas, he recalled. "It's a choice I'll never be called upon to make," he observed, "but I'd rather be governor of Texas than president of the United States."

Some of the highlights of his talk were: Clean politics: "we need honesty and integrity in political campaigns. You can't expect clean government from those who play dirty politics... or those who are intellectually dishonest..."

Schools: "I would like to see Texas with the best school system in the nation. We're going to have to dig up more money for increased teacher salaries and retirement benefits. I am against general federal aid because our schools are the last bulwark against concentrated authority and ought to remain close to the people."

Narcotics: "Texas ought to have as strong laws against narcotics as the United States. Twenty-five per cent of crime is the result of the dope traffic and 50 per cent of it in metropolitan area. Ninety per cent of overland dope traffic in this country flows across the Rio Grande."

Governmental honesty: "The people are entitled to all the facts concerning their public officials. These facts will clear the good name of some, will rightfully bring others to punishment. I propose that grand juries of every county name a delegate to a district meeting; that the districts name a representative to the civil court districts to form a state investigation commission which owes its appointment to the people."

Conservation: "You have done a wonderful job locally on water conservation (the Colorado River Municipal Water District) but not many localities have measured out. We cannot make it rain but we can keep from letting half of our rainfall wastefully runoff to the Gulf. We must increase soil conservation."

Taxes: "I am against a general sales tax and a state income tax. The sales tax turns out to be a gross income tax on low brackets. Invariably, the sales tax is a stepping stone to the state income tax."

Labor: "Even on issues such as the tidelands and anti-gas control which I supported for Texas I still have a better than average record on labor which speaks for itself. I was against Washington setting wages under the highway bill; those of you who had experience with this policy in setting bracero wages know how it can work. I do not want a minority of top labor leaders running all our affairs any more than I want a minority of farmers or manufacturers."

The senator also recounted his fight for the tidelands which he said already had brought $50 million to the Texas school fund from rentals, bonuses and royalties. More important, he said, it had stopped a trend of federal encroachment on state sovereignty. He said as Texas attorney general he had instigated a policy which would have held pensions to about $10 a month from the state; and against the sales tax. As a matter of fact, I was author of the bill calling for full pensions. I'm not going to try to outbid others, but our old folks must have a cost of living increase."

Another report of BB gun vandalism cropped up Tuesday night. Jake Carroll, manager of Rite-Way Motors, 500 Gregg, said that one window pane at the garage had been damaged by BB guns.

SEE YA LATER ALLIGATOR

An alligator is on the prowl again in Big Spring. The animal was caught June 22 on the Northside by city policemen after a resident reported a "strange animal" in his backyard.

He was claimed by his owner, Bill Williams, 311 NE 11th. June 24, but this morning Williams called the police department and said the gator had disappeared Tuesday night.

Anyone locating an alligator about 30 inches in length are asked to call the police department.

House Panel Cuts Foreign Aid Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Appropriations subcommittee members said today they voted to cut President Eisenhower's request for $4,900,000,000 in foreign aid by well over a billion dollars.

The members of the subcommittee handling the foreign aid budget bill declined to be quoted by name in advance of official announcement of committee action, expected later this week.

But they said their group, headed by Rep. Passman (D-La.), decided to slash 200 million dollars more than the billion-dollar cut in military funds previously voted by the House.

Some comparatively small cuts also were made in the economic aid sections of the bill, the Appropriations subcommittee informants reported.

The congressmen acted in closed session this week. Their decisions are subject to a vote by the full Appropriations Committee which normally follows subcommittee recommendations, and later by the House and the Senate.

The Eisenhower program originally called for about three billion dollars in military aid and $1,900,000,000 in economic assistance abroad for the bookkeeping year which started Sunday.

Eisenhower and other administration leaders have maintained that substantial foreign aid cuts would endanger America's security. After the House voted to authorize a total of $3,000,000,000, administration forces succeeded in helping get through the Senate a bill to restore 700 million dollars of the House cut.

A small blaze developed from an electrical connection at 701 W. 16th Tuesday but caused no damage. Firemen from the 18th Street station answered the call to the residence of M. C. Grigsby.

The fishermen won out the Rays, 15-14, in a National Minor League game Tuesday afternoon. Cecil Mills went all the way on the mound for the winners.

Twelve young people have enrolled in the Red Cross water safety and life saving course at Forsan.

Nancy Smith, who is in charge of instruction there, reported that 10 boys and two girls signed up for the 5-hours of instruction. Six of the number are taking the junior course, six the senior instruction. Classes are held at 6 p.m. daily.

At Webb AFB, Lt. Robert Pearson completed a course with four other members of the Red Cross life saving ratings.

Olen Puckett, water safety chairman for the Howard-Glasscock chapter of Red Cross, said that at the classes at the Municipal swimming pool would be completed Thursday evening.

Glenn Wins Trip To Havana Meet

C. Noble Glenn, local representative of Great American Reserve Insurance Co., has earned a trip to the company sales convention in Havana, Cuba, July 16-20. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Glenn.

The Glenns will join 150 other sales leaders at Dallas for the flight to Havana by chartered Pan American World Airways DC-6B planes. Havana's new Comodoro Hotel-Sports-Beach Club will be the headquarters for the five-day meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn will be presented a silver service during the convention.

Uncle Ray: Metals Of Sun Are In Gaseous State

By RAMON COFFMAN
The questions which I shall take up today were provided by 11-year-old Sally Wood.

Q. How do you know that the sun doesn't have any people? Maybe the people have a different kind of skin, or a body temperature which is high enough for them to exist there.

A. If anyone lives on the sun, he must be without a skin! A skin would be burned to a crisp before it reached a point half a million miles from the surface of the sun. Long before the "crisp" skin could fall on the surface, it would turn into gas!

With the help of the spectro-scope, scientists have learned that various metals exist at the surface of the sun. These include iron, nickel, copper, zinc and silver.

The most interesting fact, perhaps, is that all of those metals have been turned into gas! They are far too hot to exist as solids or liquids.

The suggestion has been made that spirits might live on the sun, but a human being with a living body surely would die in a hurry.

The sun during an eclipse.

long before he could "land" on the surface.

Q. Do you think there are hidden planets which scientists do not know about at the present time?

A. In other parts of the universe there may be millions of solar systems. Unhappily we have been able to discover almost nothing about planets which may go around various stars.

In our own solar system, it seems likely that all the main planets have been found. Possibly there is a planet more than a billion miles beyond Pluto, but this is doubtful, to say the least.

From time to time we may read about the discovery of "new" asteroids, but these are small objects and fail to compare in size with any of the nine main planets. They are far smaller than Mercury, Pluto or the Earth's moon.

Prospector Gives It Up

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) - Prospector Earl Sheridan pulled up his stakes and abandoned his uranium claim at the busiest downtown intersection of this southern Oregon city yesterday.

He pitched a tent at Ninth and Main Streets early last Friday and began digging up the street. He said that his Geiger counter showed uranium underneath and that it belonged to him because he was a descendant of George Nurse, founder of the town.

He claimed that Nurse had deeded the town the streets, but that Nurse had retained mineral rights and that these rights had passed to him.

His attorney, said, however, that a search of records failed to show that Nurse had reserved such rights.

Sheridan was philosophical about the loss.

"I've been disappointed before. Anyway, my Geiger counter has been acting up during the past two days. The signal was getting weaker and weaker," he said.

DEMAND FOR WATER HIGH

June was almost a billion gallon month for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Tentative totals, subject to adjustment as meter readings are checked out, show 996,459,000 gallons produced for the month. Actually, the figure on production may be nearer a billion inasmuch as there was some loss of water when the main supply line to Snyder broke two weeks ago.

Included in the total was 41,000,000 gallons taken by the City of Odessa, which is 60 per cent more than for June a year ago. The City of Big Spring required approximately 231,300,000 gallons, including Cosden and Cabot, and the City of Snyder took 77,000,000 gallons, said O. H. Ivie, production engineer.
