WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee voted today to chop $1,405,955,000 out of President Eisenhower's five-billion-dollar foreign aid money request for this year.

The 28 per cent slash, applying mostly to proposed arms aid for free world countries, went 300 million dollars deeper than previously voted House cuts which Eisenhower said would "seriously impair" U. S. and free world security.

Those cuts were made by the House in an authorization bill setting a ceiling on the program. The new measure, subject to House and Senate changes, would provide the actual money.

The committee approval of a $3,665,920,000 bill marked a sharp setback to strenuous administration efforts to win congressional passage of nearly the full amount Eisenhower sought.

The committee voted also a "thorough investigation" of foreign aid, saying there has been vagueness and a lack of information about the program.

The House group said the U.S. overseas assistance plans are frequently put together "with little or no consideration of the needs of the country or countries concerned."

It said the new bill plus $6,670,000,000 in previously voted funds still unspent would allow the program to continue another two to three years at its present rate.

The committee figured Eisenhower's total appropriations proposal at $5,071,575,000 plus $211,900,000 in requested reappropriation of carryover funds. It voted to chop the total to $3,665,920,000 including:

1. $1,930,500,000 for military assistance abroad, $1,236,100,000 below the administration-proposed $3,166,600,000. The House had cut the military figure a billion dollars in the authorization bill but, heeding strong administration protests, the Senate voted to restore 600 million dollars of that cut.

The House committee said that along with five billion dollars in previous military aid funds still unspent, the new appropriation would allow continued military assistance spending for about three years at the present rate.

WADDLED WRECKAGE OF WEBB JET
Student pilot killed when plane crashed.

Unexplained Jet Crash Fatal To Webb Student

Lt. Stephen B. Bray, 22, was killed late Thursday afternoon when his T-33 crashed just across U. S. 80 from Webb Air Force Base.

The Webb plane was in the landing pattern and apparently had just turned into the final approach. Webb officials said they were unable to determine immediately any reason for the crash.

The craft hit in the edge of a plowed field, about 250 yards from the Ranch Motel and a few yards further from the Frontier Lodge. The student pilot was killed instantly and his body was recovered from beneath the wreckage.

Hassell Elliott, an employee of Charlie Creighton, was plowing in the field about 150 yards from where the plane struck the ground. He watched the plane approach, and said it appeared to be heading for a perfect landing.

Suddenly, Elliott said, the jet went into a dive, plowed into the ground and exploded.

Creighton said the crash was the fourth on his property in the last four years.

The death was the 36th due to plane crashes since Webb AFB became operational early in 1952, according to Herald calculations.

Lt. Bray was a member of Class 57-C and had been here only about two weeks. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bray of Nobleville, Ind. The remains are at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in Big Spring.

Several other Webb jets were in the air at the time of the crash which occurred during the landing period at the end of the day's operations.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Kidnaper Makes Ransom Contact

Police Hold Back For Baby's Safety

Kidnaped Baby

This is Peter Weinberger, four-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger who was kidnaped from the patio of the Weinberger home in Westbury, N. Y. The kidnaper left a note demanding payment of $2,000 and threatened death to the child if it wasn't paid. The baby was taken from a momentarily unattended carriage.

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—A person believed to be the kidnaper of month-old Peter Weinberger telephoned the parents' home today, saying the baby was alive and well. Morris Weinberger, the child's father, told the caller he was prepared to meet a ransom demand.

Weinberger said the call came at 9:40 a. m. and that he told the caller, "Am ready to meet your demand, awaiting your call."

It was not made clear just why the response was worded in such fashion, and Weinberger revealed little else about the conversation, or whether he would seek to make a private effort to get the baby back.

Police have said they could not legally pull out of the case, but that their prime concern is the safety of the baby and they would do anything possible in this connection.

Missing Girl Says She Was Kept In Closet

HOUSTON (AP)—Cathy Faris, 8, object of a widespread search by police for 24 hours, last night told officers that she had been neither lost nor abducted, but had been kept in a closet most of the time.

Mrs. Eunice Faris, 30, Wednesday night reported to police that Cathy, her adopted daughter, disappeared from their apartment as the woman was talking on the telephone.

The child, crying and still dressed in the white shorts and halter she was wearing when reported missing, was found last night walking down a street.

After questioning Cathy and members of her family for several hours late last night, Police Captain R. J. Clark said "her disappearance was definitely a hoax."

Brought to police headquarters after she was found, Cathy told officers and newspaper reporters she was wearing when reported missing, was found last night walking down a street.

After questioning Cathy and members of her family for several hours late last night, Police Captain R. J. Clark said "her disappearance was definitely a hoax."

Cathy said her mother put her in a closet at the grandmother's apartment and left. The girl said she spent the night and most of yesterday in the closet. She said the door was left open most of the time and her aunt brought her food at mealtimes.

Cathy said that when officers came to the apartment to question her relatives, the closet door was kept closed.

The girl told officers that last night her aunt put her in a car, drove some distance and let her out. She said her aunt told her to walk down the street, stop at the first lighted house she found and ask for help.

Shortly afterwards the crying child was found on the street.

The mother, the grandmother, and the uncle and aunt were questioned by officers until early this morning.

Mother Collapses

Mrs. Morris Weinberger collapses in the arms of detective chief Stavros Pannell during the making of a radio appeal for the return of her missing son, Peter. The mother broke into sobs as she tried to read a prepared appeal over radio set up in county police headquarters at Mineola, N. Y.

Panel Chops $1.5 Billion From Foreign Aid Bill

Hot, Cloudy Weather In Texas Follows Storms

Hot, cloudy weather prevailed in Texas today in the wake of blinding hail and rainstorms that thrashed North Texas.

The heaviest rainfall was at Lake Dallas where 1.30 inches fell. High winds accompanying the storm damaged boats and trees.

Hailstones 3/4 of an inch in diameter whipped Denison. Electrical power was disrupted by the storm.

Winds up to 50 miles an hour struck south Dallas. An inch of rain fell during the storm.

Other rain in 24 hours included Wichita Falls with .33 of an inch, Sherman 25, Junction 18 and Dalhart .65.

Early Friday skies were clear over most of the state except in the Red River Valley area in North Texas. Wichita Falls had an early morning shower. Early morning temperatures ranged from 64 at Dalhart to 79 at Waco. Seymour with an unofficial reading of 108 reported the highest temperature Thursday. Presidio had 105; Wichita Falls and Elberta 104; Laredo 103; Cotulla 102; Austin, Fort Worth, Alice and Mineral Wells 101; and Dallas, Del Rio, Waco, Junction, Salt Flat and Childress 100. The lowest maximum reported was 89 at Corpus Christi and Galveston.

The forecast for Friday and Saturday called for continued partly cloudy and hot weather with widely scattered thunderstorms.

Skies cleared in most of the Midwest today but more wet weather was the outlook for the eastern quarter of the country, the Southern Plains and the northern Rockies.

Scattered thundershowers and light rain hit areas yesterday and during the night in New England, the Ohio and the Mid-Atlantic Coast states. Ground fog also was reported in the wet belt, mostly in eastern Ohio, Pennsylvania and western New York.

A Lamesa resident was brought to the police station Thursday night claiming that a man had attempted to assault her.

Pat Hale, Don Shore, and Pat Berry brought Bertha Goolsby of Lamesa to the police. She was found on Lovers Lane, and the incident was reported about 10:35 p. m.

The man who attempted the crime was in a car registered to a Howard County resident.

Vote Is Planned On Airport Bonds

Unless present plans have to be changed, Howard County voters will go to the polls on Aug. 11 to say whether they want the county to issue bonds to build a modern county airport.

Probable amount of bonds to be asked at the election will be $255,000.

Decision to go ahead with the airport came at a conference today of the county commissioners and two members of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce aviation committee. Herb Whitney and Jack Cook were present representing the committee.

Benson, Thompson and Nash, engineers named by the commissioners to study the proposed airport, submitted sharply revised figures on the probable cost of the project. This reduced the total from more than $700,000 as at first estimated to $402,000. There was no change in the estimated cost of the administration building and the hangar, these remain at $100,000.

It was estimated that an additional $20,000 or more would be needed for incidental expenses and the proposed bond issue will probably be for the amount of $255,000, if the bonding company experts accept this figure.

County commissioners will meet on July 16 and issue an official proclamation calling the election for Aug. 11, if no further developments change the present plans.

Sharpest reduction in the costs of the airport in its revised form was accomplished by eliminating one surfaced runway from the program.

The plan now calls for one 5,000 foot surface north and south runway and one 3,500 foot earth surfaced east and west runway.

County Judge R. H. Waver said an application for a conference with the CAA air space subcommittee on the program has been filed and that a county delegation will probably go to Fort Worth on July 20 to talk with the federal agency.

Bonding company experts have been asked to prepare a schedule of the bonds on the basis of $255,000.

Probation Is Revoked

Levy Lee Edmondson, who was granted two years probation on June 29 in 11th District Court, heard that probation set aside this morning. He was ordered committed to the state penitentiary for the full two years.

Edmondson appeared before Judge Charlie Sullivan and pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery committed last Monday night. He told the court he held up Edgar Airhart, Knott storekeeper on that night, taking $55 in cash.

Judge Sullivan granted the request of Guilford Jones, district attorney, that the probation granted Edmondson be set aside.

"Can I have credit for the time I have already spent in the county jail?" asked the defendant.

"You can't have anything," snapped Judge Sullivan. "I ought to sentence you to seven years in prison."

Edmondson was remanded to the custody of the sheriff for removal to the state penitentiary.

Prisoners Escape Air Base Stockade

AMARILLO (AP)—Five prisoners in the Amarillo Air Force Base stockade slugged a guard and escaped at about 5:45 a. m. today.

The five, afoot and unarmed, were recaptured without resistance about three miles north of the Air Force base at 8:10 a. m. by State Highway Patrolmen.

DAY OF CONFUSION

GOP, Demos Trade Charges In School Aid Bill Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans and Democrats sought to fix responsibility on each other today for House action burying a federal aid to education program under a 224-194 vote.

It was a defeat for President Eisenhower, who had strongly urged such a program to help ease a nationwide shortage of school classrooms.

Capping a day of rare confusion and reversals, the House yesterday finally killed off the bill which would have authorized $1,600,000,000 in federal grants for school construction in the next five years while denying aid to states which continue to segregate children by race.

The ensuing uproar over who was responsible prompted to carry over into the fall election campaign.

Democrats noted they produced a majority for the bill while the Republicans voted against it. Republicans said the Democrats were at fault for not supporting Eisenhower's plan to give weight to the needs of each state in dividing up the proposed grants. The Democratic-sponsored measure would have allocated the money solely on the basis of school-age population in each state.

Northerners blamed a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. And Southerners blamed an antisegregation amendment and what some of them called a threat of federal control over local school systems.

Before the House knocked the whole measure in the head, it nailed onto the bill 225-192 an amendment by Rep. Powell (D-N.Y.), a Negro, to deny school aid to states failing to "comply with decisions of the Supreme Court."

In a confused situation earlier, it had eliminated a somewhat similar provision, first approved on a tentative vote Tuesday.

That provision had foreshadowed trouble for the bill if it ever reached the Senate, since Southern Democrats had indicated they would talk to death a bill containing any such feature.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), a backer of the bill, said House Republicans had "stuck a knife in the back of school aid." A few Republican votes could have saved it, he declared.

Humphrey said that if any school aid bill is to be passed this year, "it will take some presidential political oxygen to revive it."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), senior Republican on the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, told a reporter "it looks very difficult" to get any school legislation this year as result of the House action, although he added he will canvass the chances for reviving it in the Senate.

Mother's Screams Scare Kidnaper

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A terrified mother told police today that she awoke to find a masked man taking her child from its bed.

Mrs. Eula Phillips, 33, said her child's cries woke her and she saw the man carrying her baby. She said she screamed and the intruder dropped the child and ran from the house. The child was not hurt.

The child, Phillip Phillips, 2, was sleeping in an adjoining bed near his parents. The father was awakened by his wife's screams, in time to see the man leave.

Flower Arranging Discussed For OWC

A discussion of flower arranging was given for the Officers' Wives Club Thursday at a luncheon held in the Officers' Club. Mrs. Obie Bristow was the speaker; she is a member of the Big Spring Garden Club.

Several arrangements, made with garden flowers, were displayed by the arranger; she told the history of flower arranging and listed the things necessary for effective work in that line.

We were delighted to be a guest of the Webb Officers' Wives' Club at their luncheon Thursday. Believe me, grass doesn't grow under their feet. And such an impressive financial report!

I never thought I would be particularly fascinated with flower arranging, but after hearing Mrs. Obie Bristow speak on the subject I believe that I could be at least a good listener. I don't think I could acquire the "knack."

Haley Rounding Up Votes For Governor

J. Evetts Haley, who nearly two score years ago rode out of here on his first full time job as a cowboy, rode back into town Thursday to round up votes for governor.

Haley, who was the third gubernatorial candidate to grace the local scene this week (Reuben Senterfit and Sen. Price Daniel were here Tuesday afternoon), said that he was making real headway. Reports from Southeast and Northeast Texas were that he is gaining strength, he declared, and of course hopes to do well in his native West Texas.

"For one thing," he observed, "I find the people of Texas are wanting a fresh face; for another, I find that they want a candidate who will speak without equivocation on the real issues."

To Evetts Haley, "the real issue is states rights, and interposition is the way to preserve them."

Mrs. Haley accompanied him here, and they hurried on to an engagement in Midland, Odessa, Monahans and Kermit. They were to be at a barbecue on the John Wilson ranch between Poyote and Petos and then at the Fort Stockton rodeo Friday.

This was familiar country to Haley, who was reared at Midland, where he got all his elementary and secondary schooling and put in a year and a half at old Midland College. Upon graduation, he caught the train to Big Spring in 1918 and the hack here to the Long S (Slaughter) headquarters to begin a full time assignment as a cowhand.

"It was the coldest day I ever saw," he recalled. "I thought I'd freeze to death before that model T got there."

There's nothing cold about the way Haley was campaigning.

He passed out his literature which called "integration the disintegration of the white race and substitution of immoral force for

J. EVETTS HALEY

Christian exercise of free will"; and which lashed at "federal control of all labor, agricultural and industrial; against confiscation of wages and profits by immoral graduated income taxes; against federal control of gas, oil finance, marketing; against all corruption of the Constitution by executive or judicial usurpation; against all forms of federal control of education."

A leg injury sustained on his ranch two years ago gave him a little wobble, but it didn't slow his speed in distributing the pamphlets.

"Mine is a personalized, hand-shaking campaign," he said, "and I believe that I'm really getting somewhere now. Even though it is my first time in politics, I'm getting a lot of good reports."

Many local people may remember Haley as author of "Fort Concho" and for his personal appearance here a few years ago in connection with the book.

Jess Talkin' by Jess Blair

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho—About noon today a cold rain blew in from the north, and I unpacked a coat for the first time this trip. There was nothing to feel sheepish about, though, for half the natives had on coats and jackets. At 1:00 p.m. the thermometer stood at 56 degrees, and now after dark it must be a couple of degrees lower.

This part of the state is potato country. I spent five hours today at Blackfoot, a town of 6,000, which claims to be in the champion spud growing county of the nation.

The potato grower is one farmer who can have steak and French fries every meal if he wants them. The market has been good the last two years and a farmer can plant every acre in potatoes, as there is no acreage allotment. The average yield is around 250 bushels per acre, with a steady demand for Idaho potatoes everywhere. Some producers who held their spuds over until spring got as much as $4 a bushel for them.

A potato crop is expensive to make, however, and sometimes costs $200 an acre from the time they're planted until they're put in the drying barns. They are not usually susceptible to insects, though this year the Colorado potato beetle has caused owners to do a lot of spraying.

Potatoes are planted as early as possible after the last frost, though up here they have only a 115 to 120-day growing season, with the last frost coming about the first of June and then the winter frost arriving by the middle of September. The growing season is so short that potatoes, alfalfa and sugar beets are the only crops that can be grown commercially.

They do grow quite a lot of alfalfa and sugar beets, in addition to the potatoes. Mostly the hay is fed to dairy cows and hogs, and the sugar beets are de-juiced and the pulp used as roughage for dairy herds.

About three years ago an irrigation project was opened out on the desert west of Blackfoot, with land selling as low as $20 an acre. Farmers cleared the land of sagebrush and drilled wells to a depth of 80 to 160 feet. Some of those wells have never been measured, but the county agent said they would pump from 3,000 to 4,000 gallons a minute. Several farmers are irrigating 160 to 320 acres with just one well, mostly with a sprinkler-type system.

At present, over 50,000 acres have been put into cultivation, and they advertised the project in Los Angeles, Phoenix, Seattle, Dallas and other big cities, but got few replies. Most buyers shied off because of the short growing season. But it would be a nice opportunity for a farmer with capital, if he didn't mind wearing an overcoat nine months a year.

The most amazing things about this country are the rivers. These streams don't flow lazily along, stopping at every log or deep hole, but they twist and snarl and turn somersaults as they race down the valleys to the west. The Snake is only a few hundred yards from my cabin, and could almost be heard-roaring if it weren't for the traffic noises.

It is really a he-man stream. At the bridge near Blackfoot it measures a full 200 yards across and looks to be from five to eight feet deep of cold, clear water. And it's not meandering along either; it's going in full overdrive.

The Snake is all that keeps agriculture up in this area. One poultry owner said they got only 10 inches of rain a year; but the irrigation water from the river was unlimited.

They say a lot of big trout lurk in its icy depths. There are two kinds—the rainbow and a bigger, fiercer fish called a cut throat. One man said a four-pound cut throat could tear a light line to pieces. In fishing the Snake, though, a fellow wouldn't have any use for a boat, because the water is too swift. He'd have to do his casting from the bank.

This place is about 100 miles west of Yellowstone Park and is near the Shoshone Indian Reservation. These are the Indians who helped Sitting Bull Crazy Horse wipe out Custer's regiment at the Little Bighorn.

No one could blame them much, because this is some of the most beautiful country in America. The faraway mountains, the green valleys and grassy mesas that fed great herds of buffalo must have been a happy land for the Shoshones, and they fought bravely to hold it.

I saw nearly a hundred Indians in town today. They are not short like the Apaches and Yaguais, but are tall, broad-shouldered people with slim hips and straight legs. A few of the older ones run to fat, but some of the young bucks would make a football coach drool. Two or three of them looked strong enough to hold a white man down and scalp him with their fingernails.

Clay Reports On Kiwanis Meeting

Harvey Clay, president of the Big Spring Kiwanis club, and who recently returned from San Francisco where he attended the annual International Kiwanis convention, Thursday noon told his fellow members some of his experiences at the big meeting.

Clay was official delegate of the local club to the International convention.

"It'll be a much better Kiwanian for having had the opportunity to be your representative at the convention," he said.

Kiwanis sponsored Boy Scout Troop leaves this weekend for summer camp and an effort is under way to sign up enough cars and trucks to convey the troop to the camp.

Sam Sonntag is spearheading the movement and any Kiwanian who can provide a car or a pickup truck is asked to get in touch with him.

Damages Awarded For Clipped Nose

DENVER (AP)—Superior Judge Mitchel B. Johns awarded $109.05 damages and $50 for "pain and suffering" to Joseph D. White from a barber who nipped his nose with scissors.

White alleged that while Don Gean, 63, was trimming the hair in his nose he snipped a membrane with the scissors.

White said he made 23 trips to the doctor and received eight shots of penicillin.

Gean testified that White made a move as if he were going to sneeze and got nipped by the scissors.

No Horsensense From Inanimate

From Anthony L. Ellison, the District of Columbia traffic safety director, comes this comment:

"There were just as many reckless drivers 50 years ago — but in those days they drove something that had more sense than they did."

That was all of this comment that reached us, and we still don't know if Ellison was referring to horse and mule drivers or automobile drivers of fifty years ago. There were not many motorists in those days.

People used to get bugged up and even killed by runaway horses — and mules in the old days — mostly horses, for mules have more sense than horses in that respect. A runaway horse will run over, into, around, under or through anything whatsoever, but a mule exercises discretion when he pretends to be scared. No mule will ever really be scared of anything. A mule will eat all he wants and quit short of gluttony, but a horse will founder himself if you don't watch him.

A mule has something practically no other dumb brute possesses — a sense of humor. He gets a kick out of aggravating his "master," and most of his stubbornness derives from a desire to annoy, frustrate, thwart, rib and razz his supposed master.

Fifty years ago there were some pretty smart horses, too. Many a cowpuncher overtaken with an excess of spirituous liquors made it safely home because his mount was smarter than he was. If his boss fell figuratively off the wagon and literally off his horse, the horse would stop dead in his tracks and stand absolutely still until his rider came to himself and climbed back on board.

Many an imbibor in the old days would start home across the wide open spaces loaded to the gills, wrap the reins of a two-horse team around the buggy whip and go to sleep, secure in the knowledge that his faithful team would carry him safely home.

In those days to which Ellison refers the driver really had more sense than the driver, but in these days of high horse power and high speed none of the 250 horses under the hood has a lick of sense.

Priority And The Pocketbook

Earlier this week the Big Spring Independent School District Board of trustees opened bids on lighting, auxiliary buildings, etc. for the new stadium. They ran so much more than had been anticipated that all bids were rejected. We think the board acted wisely.

As matters turned out, the timing was bad, but this was something that could not be foreseen and which could not be prevented because of the time element. It so happened that the bids were opened just at the time the steel strike came off and had left in its wake a wave of uncertainty. This uncertainty attended not only the direct steel trade, but in a measure most building supplies. None can blame a contractor for seeking to protect himself from eventualities of a tighter situation which might force him into paying premium and exorbitant prices for key materials in order to fulfill his end of the contract.

That time element may also have played a part in the proposals, for the prospect of having to drop something else in order to complete the work before time for the football season might well incline a builder to again provide this margin of protection.

Perhaps the board can secure just as sharp or a sharper proposal on the lighting alone. It then could proceed by adding the restrooms on its own. The press, radio and TV facilities could follow, then the dressing rooms, concession stands, etc.

It would be nice to have all of this wrapped up in one package. But lacking the means, the board wisely had indicated a policy of chewing its bites under a system of priority and with an eye cocked on the pocketbook.

The Gallup Poll

GOP Chairmen Would Favor Harriman

PRINCETON, N. J., July 6 — In their speculations concerning the Democratic nomination race, more Republican County Chairmen venture the guess that Gov. Averell Harriman will wind up as the Democratic nominee than do Democratic county leaders.

Republican "grass roots" leaders see the Democratic contest shaping up today as follows: 40 per cent think Adlai Stevenson will walk off with the nomination, 29 per cent think it will go to Harriman, 9 per cent think the nominee will be Sen. Stuart Symington.

As reported in late April, 35 per cent of Democratic county leaders thought Stevenson would get the nomination, while 18 per cent thought it would go to Harriman, 16 per cent said it would be Symington and 14 per cent guessed Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Today's special poll of Republican county leaders also finds nearly eight out of every 10, or 78 per cent, naming Vice President Richard Nixon as their top favorite for the Number Two spot on the party's ticket.

Nixon polls nearly 10 times as many votes as his closest competitor, Sen. William F. Knowland.

The Institute sounded the views of the leaders whose names were furnished by the Republican National Committee.

Ballots were sent out during the latter part of June and, up to the present time, replies have come from 1,535 GOP leaders — or more than half.

Every county chairman was asked to give his best guess as to who the Democratic candidate for President would be, as follows:

"As of today, who do you think will be DELANO, Minn. — A trend back to epitaph-personalized memorials is reported by an executive of a large cemetery monument firm. Don Gilmer of the De-Iano Granite Works said "this expression of sentiment is the essence of commemoration. These symbols of sentiment carry a message to posterity."

Less than one per cent of the Republican county leaders today think Senator Kefauver will be the Democratic nominee.

By way of contrast, here are the guesses of Democratic County Chairmen, as reported in late April:

Democratic county leaders also were asked about their candidate preferences. Stevenson was the leading favorite of 29 per cent of the Democratic county leaders, Kefauver had the support of 21 per cent, Symington was third with 12 per cent and Harriman next with 8 per cent.

A new poll of Democratic chairmen is now in progress and results will be reported shortly.

Republican county leaders were asked to name their preference for the party's vice presidential nominee from a list of six possibilities, as follows:

"As of today, which ONE of these men do you personally prefer as the Republican candidate for Vice President this year?"

The vote of the GOP county leaders:

GOP COUNTY CHAIRMEN PREFERENCES
Per cent
Richard M. Nixon	78
William F. Knowland	8
Thomas E. Dewey	5
Harold E. Stassen	2
Henry Cabot Lodge	2
Christian A. Hecser	1
Others, no preference	4
100

"Others" receiving mention included Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, former Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California, former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado and Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Also Gov. LeRoy Hoegh of Iowa, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seston, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Chief Justice Earl Warren, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas.

Today's poll represents a departure from the type normally conducted by the Institute, which usually confines itself to polling the general public rather than the political experts.

No, only are many of the county chairmen themselves delegates to the convention, but they also have an important voice in selecting delegates and their views generally reflect those of the high command of the party.

Reds Have Changed Line Before

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even when Communists change their line they still can act according to their four gospels, for when Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin wrote them they did not always say the same thing.

This isn't the first time Communists have talked of trying to win the world peacefully.

The problem of the West is to determine whether this is just another change or whether it's sincere and, if it is, to try to meet it sincerely.

Recently the Russians startled the world when they told other Communists it was all right to try to win in a parliamentary way, peacefully, because the Marxist-Leninist doctrine on the inevitability of war was out of date.

There was nothing basically new in that. In their earlier days Marx and Engels considered revolution the only road to power, but as they grew older they began to think in terms of trying to win by parliamentary means. And Lenin wasn't always rigid about violent clashes either.

Remembering some of the Communist switches may be a helpful guide to the future.

In 1919, after Lenin took power by bloody revolution, the Communist International (Comintern) in Moscow called for violence as a means to victory elsewhere.

Lenin took a softer line two years later when Russian Communists were in serious economic trouble. He suggested cooperation with Socialists. That lasted about six years. In that period Lenin died.

Then Stalin, Lenin's successor, in 1928 exacted from the world's Red leaders agreement that the defense and interests of Russia came first, above any hopes or aspirations of other Communist parties.

From that time to this — with some exceptions—the rest of the world's Communists have followed the Russian line through all its reversals.

After the war Red parties presented an unusual sight, perhaps because they were still imbued with their wartime national feelings: in Europe they quarreled among themselves over the division of territory.

But they shut up and backed

Moscow when Russian interests were involved. And Stalin put the European Communists back in harness in 1947 by creating the Cominform as a successor to the Comintern, which he had abolished in 1943.

Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia was a member of the Cominform. When he broke with Stalin in 1948, his former cousins in the Cominform denounced him and, for a while, there was fear they might attack him.

But Stalin's heirs, after his death in 1953, realized they had better patch things up with Tito. If he continued to thrive outside the Russian fold, he would be an encouragement to the satellites to follow his path. So the Russian Reds made peace with Tito. The Cominform somersaulted.

This year Moscow broke up the Cominform, an action which gave European Communists some appearance of being independent of Moscow. Now Russia is talking of trying united fronts again and using parliamentary methods to win.

In the midst of these side chores he is still concocting three "Tonight" shows a week and seeking to overthrow Ed Sullivan's virtual 2-year monopoly on Sunday evenings.

How can he keep so many irons in the fire without falling apart? "I was born with a relaxed nervous system," Steve said, smiling. "I don't worry. And I get 9 hours sleep a night. Sleep is basically important to me."

"But, oddly, the thing that has done the most for me is the ability to sit in front of a camera and still feel and act like a human being."

"For some reason, very few can. Dave Garroway, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Par, Garry Moore can, but it's hard to name more than half a dozen."

The NBC-CBS struggle for peak ratings on Sunday night doesn't seem to perturb Steve unduly.

"The two people who have the sanest attitudes toward it are Ed Sullivan and myself," he said.

"We are friends. Both he and I have no interest in gambling for the Presidency at the price of dividing and confusing the Democratic Party."

The Democrats, who are dissatisfied with Stevenson have usually said that as a "moderate" man he has raised no fighting and winning issue against Eisenhower. Behind these complaints there is the assumption, quite unexamined, I venture to think, that fighting and winning issues could be raised by a bold stand on the farm problem, on labor legislation, on degeneration, on national defense, on foreign policy.

There must be something wrong about that assumption. For not only have the Congressional Democrats and Gov. Stevenson failed to raise such issues, Sen. Kefauver and Gov. Harriman have done no better. Sen. Kefauver has promised a little more and Gov. Harriman has denounced a little more. But what are the great issues against Eisenhower that they were going to raise?

The reason that there are no issues of this sort is that the President has made it his particular political business to deflate the issues. As soon as there has appeared to be a grievance which looked as if it meant votes the President has made a concession which took the heat out of the discontent. His method, to change the metaphor, has been never to leave the Democrats a target at which they could keep on shooting. Does it appear that they have the aim on a political bull's eye? He has shifted the target, usually to the left, causing them to miss.

Is there discontent over farm income? He has vetoed the farm bill and then conceded so much of what it promised to the farmers that it is no longer obvious how much smaller is the Republican subsidy than would have been the Democratic. Is there feeling in the Northwest about the give-aways of natural resources? He replaces Mr. McKay with a Secretary of the Interior whom the conservationists like and trust.

Is there complaint about foreign policy? He lets most of the steam out of the criticism by recognizing that in a measure at least it is valid criticism. The critics are vindicated. But the opposition is frustrated, and finds itself lunging fiercely at something that is no longer there to be hit.

Gov. Stevenson has shown wisdom and great political good sense in not trying to pretend there is any radical difference between the Eisenhower Republicans and the Democrats on these specific problems. For the paramount question before the voters this year is not this "issue" or that but continuity in the administration of the government. The country would like to re-elect Eisenhower and to have him continue. The question is can he continue, and if he cannot, who will replace him.

It is to this question that the Democratic leaders in Congress and with them Gov. Stevenson have addressed themselves. They have set out to prove to the people that they can take over responsibility effectively. With Stevenson and with the Congress, as proved by its performance, the Democrats have a formidable alternative in Eisenhower. They are in the best possible position to appeal to the Eisenhower Democrats who, almost certainly, hold the balance of power.

This does not mean that Stevenson would be a carbon copy of Eisenhower. Though they are not far apart on immediate problems, such as the farm, the desegregation, defense, foreign policy, there is a difference between them about the future. If there is a case against Eisenhower, it is that he lives too much in the immediate present, deciding issues only when he has to and when they are brought to him by his staff, but is not alert to anticipate the future and to prepare for it. As he grows older, this case against him is likely to become stronger, and for many a voter this will be a decisive consideration.

Around The Rim

Elemental Quality Of Democracy

We are disappointed with the Turks. Here we've been bragging on them as valuable allies, as a democratic people whom other Arab nations would be wise to follow. Now, the Turkish government has decided to crack down on its opposition. Seems the work of Kemal Ataturk, the man who remade Turkey into a modern democracy, is going to rot.

The present administration of Turkey claims that the opposition is "sabotaging" its program, and has banned meetings of minority political parties, and muzzled both the parties and the press.

Sabotage? The Democrats and Republicans in the United States have been "sabotaging" each other for 180 years. And in England, "His Majesty's loyal opposition" flourished under old Anglo-Saxon common law. Fact is, it is the duty of the opposition to oppose, by any means short of actual violence.

If the Turks can't learn this, there is little hope for their budding democracy.

We're going to stick our neck out and make the Greeks mad. (Remember what happened to the Trojans, says a wee small voice.) Well, the British should have remembered, too. Now they're paying for it.

Cyprus belongs not to the Greeks nor the British but to the Turks. Cyprus is traditionally Turkish, but was taken by the British after World War I. The British then allowed many Greeks to immigrate, pushing the original Turk population into the minority.

The Turks, many generations ago, had allowed Greek immigration. They were notably more tolerant of their own minorities than their European counterpart parts. Now, the Greek majority is demanding union with Greece, and a Greek underground is scoring that claim with bloodshed.

Cyprus is Greece's second Trojan Horse.

About 800 miles to the south, the British made the same mistake, and allowed Jews to immigrate into Palestine, a land that was traditionally Arabic. A British ban on immigration went unheeded. To worsen matters, the British had made a pledge of a "promised land" to be opened to the Jews.

Now the British lion is sitting on a hot box in Cyprus, and has been chased out of most of the Middle East. What the British apparently didn't realize is that when two races or nationalities are brought together in the same land, friction results. Unless there is an amalgamation, as in Brazil, of the two groups, there will be trouble.

Men' In Shorts 'Ain't No Dish'

All right. So yesterday I set down as one woman's opinion the inescapable fact that women in short shorts and a brief bra top are no improvement on the landscape. And if the girls incline to be leaty, the result is an over-drape shape. Bra-bra, black sheep —

But as long as I have walked into the lion's cage, leave me look right down the occupant's throat and say that men in short shorts and no tops at all are not my idea of a Sunday treat, either.

At least women, if they're lucky, have pretty legs. Or so the boys tell me. That's why so many of 'em — men, that is — come home with a crook in the neck on a windy day and laryngitis where the wolf whistle used to be.

Granted that women can have pretty legs, granted — likewise, I'm sure — that men just have legs: If there has ever been a male limb that aroused the best in women, I have yet to hear the tale, even though I am inclined to think that Sir Laurence Olivier has a mighty tasty and well-turned ankle in doublet and hose.

It is no secret that I am just mad about men. But, still and all, it beats me why so many of the boys feel they are irresistible in shorts when what sticks from beneath the shorts are not so much legs as shanks. Or, in thousands of instances, just so many broomsticks on which hair tonic, by some miracle, has taken effect.

Long pants — if men would only grasp the fact — were invented mercifully to conceal nature's slipshod work in the gam department, just as skirts, if women were only smart enough to know it, were devised to give my sex a break in the region of the beam.

Twenty-four-hours ago I admitted to being a fuddy-duddy in my preference for women wearing at least a modicum of clothing in public. But my preference for men in tops — even T-shirts — is based purely on aesthetics.

Why a fellow who resembles a leaky mattress or an invitation to a brush fire thinks he looks purty in nothing above the equator is something I don't dig. Even on the beach, he's no bargain — any more than the Big Bertha in the bikini.

In a way, I feel like a heel, writing so tartly about the opposite sex which has taken centuries to free itself from the hot shackles of conventional clothing in summer. For as long as I can remember, I have felt that the boys must have an invisible hole in the head to swaddle themselves in so many layers of clothing under the burning summer sun.

So here I am, damning them if they do, and damning them if they don't. What it all boils down to is an honest desire for the boys to wear comfortable attire but not to abandon ship entirely. For goodness sake, man, don't throw out the baby with the water! Abandon that necktie, if you must, but don't lose your shirt in the process.

Steady, lads. What is indicated is a cool head and a body to match.

President Has Pictured Issues

There is general agreement among seasoned political correspondents that Gov. Stevenson has recovered from the setback he suffered in Minnesota and, barring accident, is virtually certain to be nominated. The opposition, which came from two directions, has failed to raise an issue against him and is fading away.

Sen. Kefauver's case was not based on anything more substantial than a claim that he was a better vote-getter, and that the claim was refuted in the California primary.

The Harriman candidacy has fed on the hope that Mr. Truman would move actively against Stevenson. His candidacy has made no progress. Why? Because the Democratic leaders and politicians in the North and in the South are opposed to the Harriman strategy which is to gamble on splitting the party, to drive the Southerners out by taking extreme positions which would be supposed to pull in Negroes, labor, discontented farmers in the North.

This strategy is imitated from Truman's in 1948, and is meant to be a gamble at long odds for the Presidency against the heavy popularity of Eisenhower. But the Democrats in Congress and the Governors in the State House have no interest in gambling for the Presidency at the price of dividing and confusing the Democratic Party.

The Democrats, who are dissatisfied with Stevenson have usually said that as a "moderate" man he has raised no fighting and winning issue against Eisenhower. Behind these complaints there is the assumption, quite unexamined, I venture to think, that fighting and winning issues could be raised by a bold stand on the farm problem, on labor legislation, on degeneration, on national defense, on foreign policy.

There must be something wrong about that assumption. For not only have the Congressional Democrats and Gov. Stevenson failed to raise such issues, Sen. Kefauver and Gov. Harriman have done no better. Sen. Kefauver has promised a little more and Gov. Harriman has denounced a little more. But what are the great issues against Eisenhower that they were going to raise?

The reason that there are no issues of this sort is that the President has made it his particular political business to deflate the issues. As soon as there has appeared to be a grievance which looked as if it meant votes the President has made a concession which took the heat out of the discontent. His method, to change the metaphor, has been never to leave the Democrats a target at which they could keep on shooting. Does it appear that they have the aim on a political bull's eye? He has shifted the target, usually to the left, causing them to miss.

Is there discontent over farm income? He has vetoed the farm bill and then conceded so much of what it promised to the farmers that it is no longer obvious how much smaller is the Republican subsidy than would have been the Democratic. Is there feeling in the Northwest about the give-aways of natural resources? He replaces Mr. McKay with a Secretary of the Interior whom the conservationists like and trust.

Is there complaint about foreign policy? He lets most of the steam out of the criticism by recognizing that in a measure at least it is valid criticism. The critics are vindicated. But the opposition is frustrated, and finds itself lunging fiercely at something that is no longer there to be hit.

Gov. Stevenson has shown wisdom and great political good sense in not trying to pretend there is any radical difference between the Eisenhower Republicans and the Democrats on these specific problems. For the paramount question before the voters this year is not this "issue" or that but continuity in the administration of the government. The country would like to re-elect Eisenhower and to have him continue. The question is can he continue, and if he cannot, who will replace him.

It is to this question that the Democratic leaders in Congress and with them Gov. Stevenson have addressed themselves. They have set out to prove to the people that they can take over responsibility effectively. With Stevenson and with the Congress, as proved by its performance, the Democrats have a formidable alternative in Eisenhower. They are in the best possible position to appeal to the Eisenhower Democrats who, almost certainly, hold the balance of power.

This does not mean that Stevenson would be a carbon copy of Eisenhower. Though they are not far apart on immediate problems, such as the farm, the desegregation, defense, foreign policy, there is a difference between them about the future. If there is a case against Eisenhower, it is that he lives too much in the immediate present, deciding issues only when he has to and when they are brought to him by his staff, but is not alert to anticipate the future and to prepare for it. As he grows older, this case against him is likely to become stronger, and for many a voter this will be a decisive consideration.

Late Early Mail

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — On a sunny day last May, Postmaster Frank Sweeney, an advocate of early posting of Christmas mail, found in his filing cabinet 84 cards his wife had given him to mail last Christmas. The shamefaced postmaster "promptly" mailed them.

Egypt Has

Easiest Method Of Divorce

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt leads the world in divorce cases. And no wonder. Moslem law requires only that a husband point a finger at his wife and shout, "I divorce you," three times.

If he says it only once the wife is divorced all the same. The difference comes in case of a reconciliation. A wife divorced three cannot return to her husband unless she marries and is divorced by another man. In case of one oath the wife can return to her husband by setting a new dowry.

A husband can divorce his wife in absentia. He may write her a letter sometime informing her of her new status. No court procedure is necessary.

A wife can also be divorced in advance and still remain legally married. This is called the conditional divorce. Suppose the husband does not want his wife to visit her neighbor. "If you visit Om Ahmed Farag," he warns, "you are divorced."

If a month later the wife visits Om Ahmed Farag she is automatically divorced.

The law cannot interfere in stopping a divorce but can exact alimony for the wife and children.

According to the national Egyptian census, half the marriages in Cairo end in divorce. The rate of divorce throughout Egypt is 35 per cent.

The census reports say two-thirds of the divorces are a result of "hatred and disharmony." Polygamy ranks second and is responsible for 18 per cent.

The Ministry of Social Affairs has worked out a program to check divorce but this has to be approved first by the leading sheikhs of Egypt. The program restricts polygamy except in cases of sterility or similar circumstances to be decided by court. It also advocates that divorces be obtained only in court. The government has drawn up a complete educational program to be studied in schools and universities on "how to build a successful marriage."

A wife can divorce her husband in Egypt only if it is agreed in the marriage contract that she may do so.

State Bar To Vote On Radio, TV In Courts

HOUSTON (AP)—The State Bar of Texas tomorrow will vote on a proposed resolution which may have far reaching effect on the television or broadcasting of criminal court trials.
A convention resolutions committee yesterday approved the sweeping measure by a vote of 34 to 28 after heated debate.
Such a ban would have to be promulgated by the State Supreme Court before it could be considered as binding on the Texas courts.
Dist. Atty. Tom Moore Jr. of Waco, who headed the prosecution in the televised December murder trial of Harry Washburn in Waco, argued that many lawyers are against courtroom television "simply because they don't know what happens when a trial is televised."
The author of the resolution, Glenn Lewis of San Angelo, said TV would hinder justice. Lewis said witnesses would say they did not want "to go up there and let everyone see some lawyer make a fool out of me."
As for the Waco trial in which Washburn was convicted in a San Angelo car bomb slaying, Moore said it "revived interest of our people in the operation of justice... it brought the court house back to the people of McLennan County."
Lewis replied that newspapers are now "pretty well entrenched" in the courtroom and that if television were given a chance "it might be tough to get them out."
Woodrow Seals, Houston attorney who proposed the resolution, said the radio-TV ban also would prevent still and motion picture news coverage of court trials.
Frank Taylor of Fort Worth, arguing against the proposal, said, "I don't think it's fair to try them in absentia... to condemn them without even a hearing is pretty poor public relations." The chairman of the State Bar Committee on Public Information, Homa S. Hill, Fort Worth, called it "an ill considered and poorly thought-out move."
The committee suggested the rule be adopted as an addition to the bar's canons of professional ethics. It also asked that similar state legislation be enacted.

Gives Birth To Twins Alone

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Alone and without help, Mrs. Betty Jordan, 25, gave birth to twin daughters last night in her small cottage.
"When you have to do something, you do it," Mrs. Jordan remarked a short time later to a policeman responding to her telephone call for aid.
Bob Crabbe, San Jose Mercury reporter, said Mrs. Jordan explained she asked for aid only because one of the babies seemed to have trouble breathing. A physician later said the infant was all right.
Mrs. Jordan said her husband is a serviceman in North Africa. She said she hadn't heard from him in some time and declined to give his name.
She told Crabbe the births took place "very quickly" in her bathroom. When Crabbe and police arrived, Mrs. Jordan sat in a black house coat on a sofa beside her babies, wrapped in a blanket. She told a physician she didn't want to go to the hospital, and he said, "She doesn't want to go and there's no reason to send her."
But the babies were taken to O'Connor Hospital Nursery.

Wife Unaware Mate In Jail

NEWCASTLE, England (AP)—They chatted about the future as he sat by her hospital bed. But Harold Mercer knew his cancer-stricken wife Sarah would not enjoy that future.
"It's nice to see you again, love," Sarah murmured.
Harold tried to hide the tears as she patted his hand.
He also hid from Sarah the fact that he faces trial on charges of trying to kill her with 13 sleeping pills to relieve her suffering.
Harold has pleaded innocent to the attempted murder charge, but guilty to another one—attempted suicide.
Sarah did not know her brick-layer husband had been in jail awaiting trial. She believed he had been in a hospital after collapsing from the strain of nursing her for four years.
Nor did she know that while Harold sat beside her two warders from Durham jail waited behind the door.
The reunion was made possible by the efforts of two members of Parliament, a neighborhood petition and the consent of the jail governor.
Earl Rudder, campaigning for land commissioner, spoke at Terrell, Palestine and Bryan.

THROUGH THE RYE?

BALTIMORE (AP)—When the moonshiners creep up on the chances are they won't be comin' round a mountain. More likely, they'll be creeping across the flatlands.
Figures released by the alcohol and tobacco tax unit of the U.S. Treasury Dept. show that Maryland's moonshine activity has been increasing in the flat southern counties and has remained at a low level in the mountains of western Maryland.

Take your problems to Church this week

-millions leave them there!

HOLD TIGHT!

Ever find yourself caught out in the middle of a storm, with your umbrella blowing itself inside out?

There you are, clinging like mad to that ragged bit of cloth and metal... and you realize that if the wind gets one whit stronger your "protection" is going to blow right out of your hands.

Fortunately, it doesn't hurt to get wet, so losing your umbrella wouldn't be much of a tragedy. But when you're caught in one of the other types of storms life deals out... a storm that buffets at your inner sense of security... or your idea of right or wrong... a storm that tries to undermine your marriage, or your career... or a storm of sickness or strife... then it's a very different matter.

How fortunate that in those more difficult moments you don't have to rely upon something as flimsy as an umbrella. How fortunate that you can turn to the Church and find in it solace, protection, courage, and the faith to keep going. You will find that the Church is a shelter that will always protect you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The 21-year-old prisoner slipped away from a work detail and climbed 60 feet up a rain spout when it evidently broke. He fell to a macadam roadway and ended up in University Hospital with two broken legs, a fractured jaw and possible head and internal injuries.

Disney Attends Hometown Affair

MARCELINE, Mo. (AP)—Walt Disney returned to his hometown yesterday to dedicate a swimming pool, reminded that in his boyhood here "we swam in a cow pond, after we chased the cows out."

Jesus Is the Son of God

HE ALONE IS TO BE WORSHIPED

Scripture—Matthew 3:13-17; Hebrews 1:1—3:3; 6:1-3.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IT HAS been suggested that we begin this lesson by asking the younger children if they can name one outstanding character in each century since the fifteenth, whom they particularly remember.

In the fifteenth, of course, Christopher Columbus would suggest himself to most. Martin Luther might be thought of as a great man of the sixteenth century. The great poet, John Milton, was renowned in the seventeenth, John Wesley in the eighteenth, President Abraham Lincoln for the nineteenth. Now for our own century, Sir Winston Churchill is one who would come to mind, and some of the children might name President Eisenhower.

However, there is but one whom all will agree on as being the most wonderful of all down am well pleased."

Our editor of the Notes states that the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews is unknown, but the Bible attributes it to Paul. It is thought to be the only book of the Scriptures that begins with the name of God. The purpose of the epistle is to reveal to Christian Jews of that time and of every age that Christ Jesus is our Lord and Redeemer.

"God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken to us by His Son whom He hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also He made the world."

"Who being the brightness of His glory and the express image of His person, and upholding all things by the word of His power when He had by Himself purged our sins, and sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high."

Christ was made better than the angels who are God's servants and messengers. The teacher will study these somewhat difficult passages in Hebrews and try to impress upon the children the glory of Christ that is set forth in them.

In the last three verses assigned to us, Paul writes: "Therefore, leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God."

"Of the doctrine of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of the resurrection of the dead, and of eternal punishment. And this will we do, if God permit."

"Going on to perfection?" None of us can achieve it, but we can all try, with Jesus' help.

MEMORY VERSE
"God . . . loved us and sent His Son."—I John 4:19

the centuries—Christ Jesus, Son of God and Redeemer.

The first Bible reference we are given is a scene that we have studied not so long ago—the occasion of Jesus' baptism by John the Baptist. John, the Baptist—"forerunner of Christ," must have been surprised when He whom John had named as the Messiah came to him and asked to be baptized.

At first he refused, saying: "I have need to be baptized of Thee, and comest Thou to me?" Jesus answered: "Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness."

Then John baptized Him and as Jesus stepped from the water "the heavens were opened unto Him, and He saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon Him, and lo! a voice from heaven, saying, This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

Coahoma Elects Two Teachers, Okays $300 Hike In Salaries

COAHOMA (SC)—Two staff members have been added to the Coahoma faculty. H. L. Miller, superintendent, announced. The board has elected Margaret Douglas of Olney to be director of the band. She attended Littlefield and Olney schools and holds her degree from TSCW. For the past three years she has been director of the junior high band at Pecos. Currently she is serving as a counselor at a girls camp at Hunt. Miss Douglas was to be here Friday to meet with prospective band members and to make a selection of 40 new band uniforms. The board also elected Rayburn A. Foster to be the Vocational Agriculture instructor. He is from Marietta, Okla. and holds his Bachelor of Science degree from Oklahoma A&M College. For the past four years he has been teaching at Huckaby. The board voted a two-year contract to Foster. Resignation of Mary Katherine Denson was accepted. Noting an increase in revenues, both through reduced bond requirements and increased valuations, the board voted to raise the annual teacher pay by $300. The board has been paying $200 over the Gilmer-Aken scale; now it will pay $500 over the scale. An increase of approximately $500,000 in the valuations put the roll at $7,457,953, so the board set the rate at 18 cents for debt service and $1.32 for local maintenance. Last year the rate was 25 cents to debt service, $1.25 to maintenance. Bonded indebtedness has been reduced to $193,000. A named lunchroom supervisor for the year is Mrs. Rita Baker. The board also received reports of painting and miscellaneous repairs on seven teacherages by the custodial force.

Dominguez was captured by city police inside the cleaning plant.

Water Use Drops Under June Rate

Water usage for the first five days of July has topped the June daily average on only one occasion, as the city—with the aid of local showers—is consuming less water this month. The average for a day in June was 7,157,000 gallons, and only on July 1, last Sunday, has consumption thus far topped that. The water used that day was 7,197,000 gallons. Other daily totals this week were Monday 6,511,000 gallons, Tuesday 5,237,000, Wednesday 4,430,000 gallons, and 6,681,000 Thursday. Average is about 6,011,000 gallons daily.

Ministers Told Of New Values

Baptist ministers got tips Thursday on how to make best use of publicity, especially in newspapers. Here for the quarterly district No. 8 meeting at the Baptist encampment grounds, they were told by Jim Lindsey, managing editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram that a newspaper story was their most important means of publicizing their church. "It is unfortunately true that most ministers and fewer laymen know how to make the fullest and best use of the news media," he declared. Lindsey is a member of the public relations committee of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and last year received the Baptist Press award for outstanding journalism work in the religious field. Foy Valentine, Dallas, head of the convention's Christian life commission, also spoke to the ministers on the value of public relations. In addition, he was the featured speaker at the general session which emphasized the Christian living theme. More than 50 ministers and lay workers attended the quarterly meeting. The Rev. J. W. Arnett, district missionary, presented the speakers.

The baby, left unattended a few minutes in the carriage at right, was taken by a kidnaper described by police as "an amateur... and a badly mixed-up person." Three Choices In Bracero Pay Fuss

SNYDER (SC)—Farm and business leaders of 13 counties were informed today that they face three alternatives in the back-pay-braceros controversy. Red Raney, president of the Dawson County Farm Labor Association, said farmers can: 1. pay the back wages demanded by the Department of Labor, 2. refuse to pay and risk a Labor Department black list, or 3. go to court. Farm groups from Dawson and Cochran County are leading the fight of West Texas farmers against paying the back wages. Raney said that Dawson alone would have to dig up $75,000 if the back pay demands are met. The Labor Department claims that Dawson County braceros were underpaid 20 cents a hundred pounds for cotton harvested during a 10-day period last fall. Department of Labor officials have ordered that farmers pay the difference between the sums paid braceros and what the department claims was the prevailing wage for domestic laborers. Raney led the Dawson County delegation at the meeting called by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Representing Howard County cotton men were Ralph White of Coahoma, president of the Howard Farm Bureau, and J. H. Greene, Big Spring Chamber of Commerce manager. The wage differential for Howard County was said to be only about five cents a hundred pounds. This would amount to a claim of about $10,000 against Howard farmers.

No Accidents On Thursday

Big Spring eased through Thursday without an auto accident but barely — one occurred at 12:35 a.m. today. The accidentless day was the first this month; there was also just one in June. The mishap this morning concerned Luis Chavarria Ramirez, Big Spring, and Arnold Odell Tomm, 1900 Mittel. It occurred in the 300 block of N. Gregg. Ramirez was in a 1944 Buick, and Tomm had a 1952 Pontiac. The wage differential for Howard County was said to be only about five cents a hundred pounds. This would amount to a claim of about $10,000 against Howard farmers.

Bike, Watering Equipment Stolen Here Thursday

Thieves took bicycles and watering equipment Thursday. Dale Cheek, 1111 E. 4th, reported that a bicycle was taken from the Ritz Theatre between 2 and 4:14 p.m. Thursday. It was located by police later and Cheek picked it up at the police station this morning. The lawn equipment, a roller-type sprinkler and 50 feet of green hose, was taken from J. B. Ward, 1804 Morrison, sometime Thursday night. It was reported this morning. Ward valued the equipment at $18.60.

Number Of Wrecks Shows A Decline

Big Spring notched 18 accidents in June than the previous month, but Fourth Street continued to be the big accident lane. A total of 58 mishaps were reported to the police department during the month, as against 74 during May. The 58 is also the lowest month of the year, according to police records. Of the total, five were hit-and-runs. In only two were injuries sustained. Fourth Street racked up 12 of the mishaps, with eight occurring on Gregg. Three each occurred on Eleventh and Washington.

Drive On To Aid Wreck Survivors

Clubs and individuals at Webb AFB are participating in a spontaneous effort to provide financial assistance to survivors of Mrs. Ann Garcia Choquette, wife of A-1C Robert Choquette.

Airman Choquette is still unconscious as a result of a basal skull fracture suffered in the car wreck that took his wife's life early Monday.

Mrs. Choquette, who was 17, is survived by her husband, her widowed mother, Mrs. Helen Garcia of New Bedford, Mass., and seven younger brothers and sisters. Both her father and brother were killed in car wrecks within the past 10 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Choquette of New Bedford, parents of the airman, used money they had saved for a honeymoon for the young couple to come here Wednesday to be at the bedside of their son. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Two other persons hurt in the wreck are improving at the Webb AFB Hospital. They are A-2C and Mrs. Roy Zack. Mrs. Zack has regained consciousness and was improving rapidly. She no longer was classified as in a critical condition. Zack, less seriously hurt, should be out of the hospital in two weeks.

In addition to contributions from officers, airmen's and wives' clubs, the Air Force Aid-Society has extended a $500 grant to the Choquette and Garcia families. Squadron fund drives also were on today. The base said anyone wishing to help should contact M-Sgt. Vincent Best at Extension 206, Webb AFB.

Critics Ignore Air Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining's estimate that this country is ahead of Soviet Russia in the quality of its airpower and can stay ahead seemed unlikely today to still administration critics.

Twining, the Air Force chief of staff, reported to President Eisenhower on his eight-day visit to Russia and then told newsmen "there is no question about" superior quality of U.S. airpower.

He attached carefully worded time qualification on his appraisal, however. He said the United States has a better Air Force "now," should be able to remain ahead in the "next few years" and that the administration's military aviation programs are satisfactory "at this time."

Twining said also that Russia might surpass the United States by 1960 if this country "does not keep moving."

Geology, Biology Students At HCJC Back From Tour

Biology and geology students at Howard County Junior College have been seeing what they have studied.

They returned Wednesday evening from a field trip that took them through northern New Mexico and into southern Colorado. In all there were 28 in the party, but this number included children of some of the participants.

Going northward up the Pecos canyon, they followed the stream to its source in the Holy Ghost area near Santa Fe. They also followed the Rio Grande to its source in the Wolf Creek Pass area around Alamosa, swinging to Pecos Springs, Colo., they continued to Mesa Verde Park for two days of lectures on biology, geology and on Indian customs and diseases.

On the return trip the group came through the Navajo Reservation, by Shiprock and into the uranium territory near Grants, N. M., where they also saw one of two lava beds (the other was near Mescalero). They also stopped in Taos and then proceeded southward to the Lincoln National Forest where they stayed all night.

The group "roughed it," camping out for six nights. Seven cars, bearing HCJC signs were used.

Heading the party was James Bruce Frazier, biology and geology instructor at the college. Mrs. Frazier and their children, Jim B. Penny, Mack, Beth and Eddie, also went as did Mrs. Cliff Wiley, Mrs. Nell Frazier, Mrs. Miller of Knott, Mrs. Thomas J. Williamson, Tommie Williamson, Trent Williamson, C. A. Dahse, Bob Hinkley, John Pool, Mary Archer, Shirley Ward, Mary Sue Hale, Jim Parker, Darlene Sneed, Sally Baber, Frank Hunt, Jerry Choate, Wade Choate, Jim Jolley, Sharon McRee, M. R. He said that his office will be open again on the usual days on July 19.

Teachers Meeting Enters Final Day

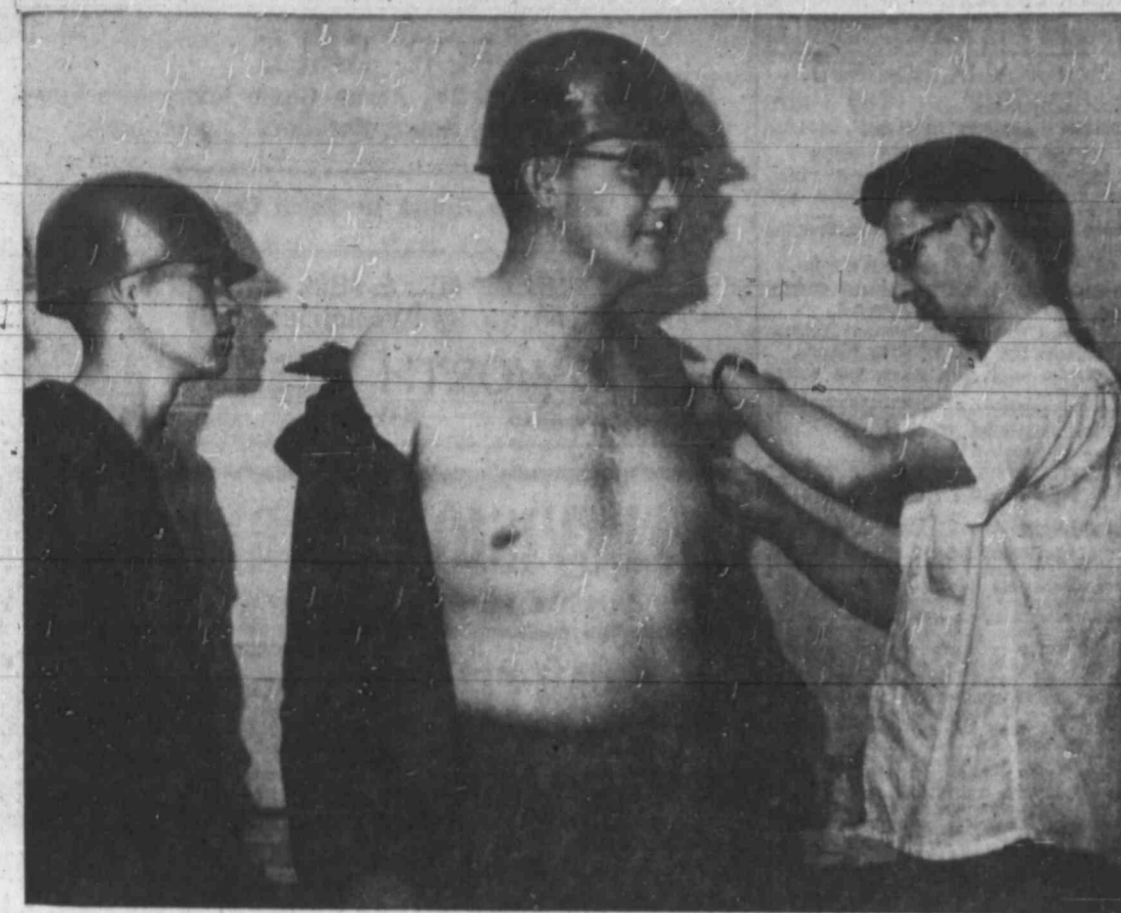

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Smartering at defeat of federal school building aid, the National Education Assn. girded today for a fresh attempt to gain passage of the bill in the next Congress.

The NEA entered the final day of its convention here with the prospect of a floor fight over one proposed resolution on a discrimination issue, but another bearing on school segregation apparently had been sidetracked.

Deserted Mother Leaves Young Son As State Ward

A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, has a special sort of juvenile in custody today.

This youngster, who will be two years old tomorrow, is not a delinquent. Actually, he is a bright-eyed, grinning, brown-skinned half Mexican and half Anglo boy who is badly in need of a home.

His mother, of Anglo descent, appeared in 118th District Court this morning to ask that her young son be made a ward of the state and that a foster home for him be found if possible.

The mother testified that she and her Mexican husband were separated and that she does not know the present whereabouts of the man.

She cannot support the child on her meager wages, she said. She has no relatives with whom to place him.

Harvey Hooser Jr., county attorney, who was counsel for the woman, was busily ringing phones trying to find some family who would like to take permanent possession of the little lad.

Saturday will be his second birthday.

Contract Signed For More Blasting

The city has settled with Clyde Yarbrough, contractor from Odessa, to blast remainder of the rock at the site of the new reservoir.

At the regular meeting of the city commission June 26, City Manager H. W. Whitney was authorized to work out a settlement with Yarbrough or another contractor for the dynamite work.

Yarbrough has contract for building the million-gallon water reservoir in the southwestern part of Big Spring. The site is large enough to possible construction of another water tank at a later date if such is needed.

The ground at the site was so hard it had to be blasted, and before another reservoir could be built that area would also have to be cleared by blasting. Blasting at a later time however would probably damage the reservoir now being built.

Thus, the city asked Yarbrough to quote a price for the job. His estimate was $3,750, which the city commission considered too expensive. Whitney was then authorized to bargain with him.

Youth Choir To Present Program At E. 4th Baptist

A 30-minute program of choral music will be presented Sunday at 7:30 p.m. by the youth choir of the East Fourth Street Baptist Church.

Members of the choir will leave on Monday morning for a five-day music camp at Paisano Baptist Encampment in Paisano Pass near Alpine.

The program will be presented in three groups as follows: Group 1. God of Our Fathers, Warren; The 100th Psalm, Mueller; With A Voice of Singing, Sham; Group 2. Deep River, Hickman; He's Got The Whole World In His Hand, Reynolds; Balm in Gilead, Shaffer; and Group III. A Prayer, D. A. R.nell; I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked, O'Hara; Raise Me Jesus, Cace.

The program is open to the public.

The contract for the present project included a clause to the effect that if additional work was needed, it could be done on a cost plus basis. And the city and Yarbrough came to such an agreement.

Under the agreement, Yarbrough will do the blasting work for cost plus 15 per cent profit. Consulting engineers will keep a record of the costs.

The cost, however, covers just field expenses and no administrative work. Everything though will not exceed $3,550 or at least $200 less than the price first quoted to the city by Yarbrough, according to the contract.

Commissioners and Whitney did not favor asking for bids on the work although a better price might have been obtained. If bids were asked, about 30 days would have been wasted in waiting, plus delaying Yarbrough on the present reservoir.

TOO OLD FOR FOOLISHNESS

A middle-aged Negro woman seeking a divorce decree told Judge Charlie Sullivan in 118th District Court this morning that her husband "gambled, owed everybody and was running around with other women."

"Judge," the plaintiff told the court solemnly, "I just can't put up with that."

"I'm too old and I'm too religious,"

"Divorce granted," responded his honor.

'Soil Bank' Ban On Grazing Lifted

Howard County farmers and ranchmen are included in the list of 64 counties in Texas where exemptions are granted from the non-grazing provision in the soil bank bill.

The USDA said the exemption was granted because of the severe drought conditions which prevail in the area.

The counties named "may graze acreage reserve to and including Sept. 30," said K. L. Scott, director of the USDA Agricultural Credit Service.

"The grazing of acreage of reserve is expressly prohibited in all other areas," he said.

The exemption applies to most counties in this area including all of those adjacent to Howard County.

Equipment Takes Dive

CEDAR BREAKS, Utah, (AP)—As two uranium prospectors were standing and admiring the view in southern Utah's Cedar Breaks National Monument, their station wagon, trailer and drilling rig rolled over the rim of the jagged cañon. It came to rest some 475 feet down.

Now Vernon P. Parker and Earl Anderson are trying to figure out how to reclaim the wreckage. The park service says it must come out. It's against the law to leave it there.
"We had just gotten out of the jeep to take pictures," Parker says, "when Earl yelled that the outfit was moving. I turned around and made a grab for the door as the jeep went by but couldn't get it open. I had to let the whole thing go over the edge."

Hike In Science Enrollment Seen

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A spokesman for the American Assn. for the Advance of Science predicted today that high school mathematics and science enrollments will "increase sharply" next fall as a result of alarm at the nation's manpower shortage in these professional fields.

John Mayor, director of the AAAS's Science Teaching Improvement Programs, here to speak at the convention of the National Education Assn., said in an interview: "The campaign that we and other professional organizations have been carrying on seems to be gaining results."

Uncle Ray: Moon's Night Would Freeze An Eskimo

By RAMON COFFMAN
Several questions about the moon were asked by a group of boys and girls. Here is some of them:

"Why is the moon so cold?"
"The moon, at any given time, is hot on one side, cold on the other. After dark, it becomes so cold that the toughest Eskimo in a good igloo would freeze to death before sunrise.
Night on the moon lasts two

Diameter of moon compared to width of United States.

weeks. Daytime also lasts two weeks.
At noon on the moon the ground is baked to a point far above the boiling point. At night the temperature of the moon sinks to at least 150 degrees below zero Fahrenheit!

The reason is this; the moon is without an atmosphere. Sunshine heats the ground to a high point, but the heat is lost after darkness comes.

On our earth, the atmosphere acts as a kind of blanket, keeping most of the heat in a day's sunshine from escaping at night.

In addition the air saves us from being baked (too hard!) by sunshine. It softens and spreads the rays of the sun.

Q. If someone went to the moon, and took with him a hose long enough to reach the earth, could he breathe through it and live?
A. That question was asked by an 11-year-old girl.

There are several reasons why such an attempt would fail. A hose of that length would weigh too much to be carried on a rocket.

If such problems could be solved, there would come many others. Air inside the hose would expand it, and doubtless would break it in many places. Even if the air kept going through the tube, the motion of the moon around the earth would cause a great trouble. Along with the earth, the moon makes a yearly trip around the sun, the same as does the earth. In addition, the moon revolves around the earth at a speed of more than 1,700 miles an hour. Instead of trying to use a hose, I would take along an oxygen tank!

9-Day Wreck Victim Better

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Doctors reported last night that X-ray pictures showed no sign of a skull fracture in Jean Margetts, the pretty girl too tough to die during nine days' imprisonment under a wrecked car.

The 18-year-old Sunnyvale, Calif., girl was found Tuesday night, pinned at the bottom of a 300-foot embankment in Parleys Canyon east of here. Twenty feet away, her fiance James B. Hixon Jr., 22, Salt Lake City, lay dead.

Last night's medical bulletin said her general condition remained satisfactory and added that "preliminary X-ray studies do not show evidence of a skull fracture which was previously suspected."

Although she was described as more alert, hospital attendants still would allow only her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Margetts, to see her.

Jean and her fiance crashed into the canyon while driving back to Salt Lake City from a one-day fishing trip June 24. The wrecked car was screeched from busy U.S. Highway 40 by the precipitous canyon wall, trees and heavy underbrush. An airplane searcher finally spotted the wreck.

Wide Throat

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Doctors operated to retrieve the open pen-knife 12-year-old Lee Reeves swallowed accidentally. "I was lying in bed picking my teeth and the knife slipped," he explained.
