WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson picked Iowa State College at Ames, a school he once attended, today as the site for the government's new 13 million dollar animal disease laboratory.

Congress Ups Penalties For Dope Pushing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has sent the White House a bill prescribing stiffer penalties, including death, in the hope of discouraging the peddling of narcotics.

The measure is expected to be signed into law by President Eisenhower since it carries out recommendations made early this year by a Cabinet committee.

The bill, passed by the Senate and House yesterday, would increase present penalties for narcotics law violations and permit the death sentence for persons who sell or give heroin to children under 18. The death penalty would apply when recommended by juries in states permitting capital punishment.

Without a jury's recommendation, the penalty for the heroin law violation could be 10 years to life, even for a first offense. In addition, the bill would outlaw heroin in this country except for research and require all heroin to be turned over to the Treasury Department within 120 days.

Penalties for dope peddling are more than doubled by the bill. They are increased from the present 2 to 5 years for a first offense to 5 to 10 years and from the present 5 to 10 years for a second offense to 10 to 40 years for a second or subsequent violation. Maximum fines are increased from $2,000 to $20,000.

Eisenhower ordered a narcotics study late in 1954 by a five-member Cabinet committee in an effort to stamp out dope addiction and the crimes it causes.

Proponents of the bill, along with Harry J. Anslinger, chief of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, contend the new law will make dope peddling unpopular in the underworld.

City, School Meetings Set

City and school policy makers have meetings scheduled today.

The city commission is to meet at 5:15 p.m. to hear the report on the annual audit of municipal records, to be submitted by Neil Hilliard. Several other matters, mostly of a routine nature, are on the agenda.

School trustees are to gather at 7:30 p.m. for their first meeting with the new superintendent, Floyd W. Parsons. Parsons said that only a few routine matters are to come before the board.

Area TB Meet Set

About 35 representatives of local tuberculosis associations throughout West Texas and the Panhandle are expected here Wednesday for the annual area Christmas Seals sale conference.

Mrs. Evelyn Gray, executive secretary of the host Howard County TB Association, said plans will be made for the promotion of Yule seal sales in November. The program also will include an educational session for new workers in the fight against tuberculosis.

Frances Rains, Austin, state seal sales chairman, will be in charge.

The meeting will start at 9 a.m. and be concluded about 4 p.m. All sessions and a luncheon will be staged in the Colonial Room of the Howard House.

Rain Falls In Dawson

LAMESA — Early morning thundershowers poured out as much as 1.4 inches on the Hatch community six miles north and east of Lamesa.

There were no indications that this shower covered any appreciable area and in Lamesa there was no measurable precipitation.

Texas Electric Service Company last night reported .06 of an inch moisture in a blustering storm which moved across this area. Most reports told only of wind and sand.

Candidate

John Sherman Cooper, ambassador to India, talks on the telephone at his residence in Washington after agreeing to accept the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate in Kentucky.

Cooper, who said he was honoring the wishes of President Eisenhower to make the race, will seek the seat held by the late Sen. Alben Barkley (D-Ky.). His Democratic opponent will be former Gov. Lawrence W. Weatherby.

Legion Aide Hits Sending Negro Legate

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—The national vice commander of the American Legion said yesterday he deplored the action of his native Texas in sending Negro delegates to the Democratic national convention.

Everett Page of Carthage told the Mississippi convention of the American Legion:

"Texas is sending the attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People to the Democratic National Convention as a delegate, along with two other super-suburbaned delegates, and I have refused a post as a delegate because I didn't want to sit with them."

"I am ashamed to tell you good Mississippians that we have sunk to such a level in one section of our state."

Page said the three Negroes got on the delegates list in Dallas as a result of a coalition of the NAACP and CIO unions there.

Mrs. Allen Shows 'No Improvement'

Mrs. Price Vanal Allen, 1215 E. 18th, injured Saturday night in a car collision, continued to cling precariously to life in Big Spring Hospital Tuesday.

"She is showing no improvement," the hospital said.

Mrs. Allen, suffering from serious chest injuries and a possible punctured lung, was brought to the hospital Saturday night after the car in which she was riding collided with another on Snyder Highway near the Big Spring city limits.

Ministers See Disaster As 'Beacon To Progress'

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Two men of God saw the Grand Canyon air disaster as a possible beacon to progress in the air at a mass funeral and burial attended by friends and relatives of the crash victims yesterday.

Sixty-seven coffins were lowered into the ground on a pine-covered knoll of the Flagstaff Cemetery. They symbolized the bodies of the 70 victims aboard the Trans World Airlines plane that presumably collided with a United Air Lines DC7 on June 30, killing all 128 aboard. Remains of three victims were sent home for burial.

"Someone asks: 'Where was God when these two planes came together?'" said the Rev. Wynburn Skidmore of the Protestant Flagstaff Federated Church.

"Ah, he was in the same place as He was when Jesus Christ was hanged on a cross. His heart knows agony along with ours."

"This sudden agonizing loss is not altogether bad because much progress may result from it."

Elder Delbert L. Stapley of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints in Salt Lake City said God "is not responsible for these tragedies, but imperfect man is victimized by his own inventions."

Such disasters serve a purpose of stressing the need for advances in technology, the Mormon elder said, and "the sacrifice of life therefore is not always in vain."

Most of the 1,500 at the funeral stood and listened without any display of emotion. Few of the mourners wept.

United Air Lines said it would have an announcement on its funeral plans today. An inquest into the UAL crash was scheduled to begin at the Coconino County courthouse.

Ike Will Keep His Hat In Presidential Ring

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower is going to run for a second term.

Republican Senate Leader Knowland disclosed this at a dramatic news conference on the Gettysburg College campus today.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stood by nodding. Knowland said the President told a meeting of Republican congressional leaders he feels in better shape than he did when he made his Feb. 29 announcement that he would seek re-election.

"We are looking forward to a very vigorous and active campaign under his leadership," Knowland said.

"Are you telling us," a reporter asked, "that the President is going to keep his hat in the ring?"

"I'm telling you precisely that," Knowland replied.

He added that Eisenhower "left no doubt in anyone's mind" that he will run again despite his June 9 intestinal operation.

Eisenhower himself appeared before reporters and photographers before and after an hour strategy session with the Capitol Hill leaders.

He looked a little pale and obviously had lost weight. The rough-textured sport shirt he wore was loose around his neck. But his color was better and his step was firmer than when he left Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington a week ago last Saturday.

Knowland was asked whether Eisenhower had given thought to his decision to run again in the light of his recent illness, which followed by nine months his Denver heart attack.

"The fact remains he's in the race," Knowland replied.

The senator said he regarded Eisenhower's comments today as a "continuation" of his Feb. 29 announcement that he would accept renomination.

Knowland also was asked whether Eisenhower had authorized him to make the statement.

"No," Knowland replied, "but he knew we were going to meet the press afterward and he knew we always try to make frank reports."

Eisenhower's second major illness had touched off a new worldwide outbreak of political speculation on whether the President would stay in the race for a second term. The first big round of speculation—generated when Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in Denver Sept. 24, 1955—had subsided only three months earlier when the President announced he would seek another term.

During the three weeks the President spent in Walter Reed recuperating from his major abdominal operation he dropped not a single public hint as to what his political course would be as a result of the new illness. Aides insisted that he did not discuss the matter with any government official who visited him in the hospital.

Eisenhower's silence had served to underscore what he himself had told a news conference March 7, just a week after he announced his second term intentions.

At the March meeting the President was asked what he would do if he found out before the Republican nominating convention "that your physical condition was below the par you had expected." Eisenhower replied:

"I have said, unless I felt absolutely up to the performance of the duties of the President, the second that I didn't, I would no longer be there in the job, or I wouldn't be available for the job."

Following up on that, another reporter remarked:

"Mr. President, xxx you seem to be saying if at any time you feel that your fitness is not up to carrying the burden of the presidency, you will withdraw from the race. Is that correct?"

"Well now," Eisenhower replied with a smile, "don't hold me down if I get a week's case of the flu or something else. xxx I am talking about my general, let's say, organic fitness for the job, as I see it, and that means carrying a burden of hard work right on through the year and through the months.

"Now, any time I believe that has failed to the point of inability to perform the job properly, then that goes before the American people instantly."

In making his bid for a second term Feb. 29, Eisenhower said he was "as well as before" his heart attack occurred.

The meeting with the leaders was the longest step Eisenhower has taken toward the full resumption of official responsibilities since his operation.

Claim Drunken Russ Leaders Insulted Envoys

LONDON (AP)—Two British newspapers asserted today Nikita Khrushchev drunkenly insulted Western representatives at a big Moscow party recently.

A British Foreign Office spokesman, questioned about the reports, commented: "I have no reason to believe that anyone was insulted."

Other Western diplomats here said they felt the reports were exaggerated.

The occasion for Khrushchev's alleged outburst was a banquet and garden party given by the Soviet Defense Ministry July 24 to celebrate Red Air Force Day.

Among those attending were Gen. Nathan F. Twining, U. S. Air Force chief of staff; Nigel Birch, British air minister; envoys and military men representing all the leading Western Powers.

The British papers—the Daily Mail and the Daily Telegraph—declared in front page stories that both Khrushchev, who is Communist party chief, and Soviet Premier Bulganin were drunk. They gave this account:

"The two argued violently as to who should speak.

"Khrushchev apparently went. He then insulted nearly every guest of nearly every nationality present—personally as well as nationally. The nature of the insults was not specified.

The Daily Mail, attributing its information to "An American who was present," said Khrushchev and Bulganin angered other Russian ministers by their behavior. It said the other ministers later apologized personally to Twining and Birch.

Both papers said the performances of Khrushchev and Bulganin have posed the question even in Moscow.

How long can the two men keep up the pace of such drinking?"

The Daily Telegraph described the affair as "the most incredible episode to date in the incredible career of Mr. Khrushchev" and said Moscow censorship has held up "all reports on the subject."

Its version, dated Washington, said in part:

"Mr. Khrushchev... chose this moment to beat even his own record for drunken behavior. This time he was joined in his cups by Marshal Bulganin.

"The two leaders fell into a violent argument as to which should make a speech. Mr. Khrushchev tried to shout Marshal Bulganin and ordered him to sit down since he (Mr. Khrushchev) was going to talk.

"Mr. Khrushchev then managed to insult nearly every guest of nearly every nationality present. These insults were both national and personal. Some guests did not get the point since Mr. Khrushchev was speaking in Russian. Others did and they replied with vigor.

"The Moscow party was the last such incident, needed to convince the Western Powers that Mr. Khrushchev's behavior goes beyond a tiresome individual psychosis and that it has in fact become an important factor in evaluating Russian policy."

Pooch With A Lot Of Crust

Eileen Stillwagon, of New Hyde Park, N. Y., brings her dog, Pluto, into the act to help her devour a portion of her share during a pie-eating contest at Rockaway Playland amusement park in Queens, N. Y. Pluto's licks proved to be Eileen's undoing, for although she succeeded in putting away the most pies, she was disqualified for using the pooch to help out.

FACING PRISON Ransom Demands Prove To Be Hoax

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—A longshoreman and a one-time bartender face up to 25 years in prison if convicted of tormenting Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger with a false claim they held her kidnapped baby boy.

The two young men, both unemployed, were to be arraigned today in Ridgewood Felony Court, Queens. They are charged with attempting to extort $5,000 from the heartbroken mother and giving false information about a kidnaping.

Meanwhile, there was no trace of 5-week-old Peter Weinberger or any solid evidence he is still alive. The blue-eyed baby was snatched from his carriage in the patio of the Weinberger home here last Wednesday.

The FBI plans to enter the case in force tomorrow—one week after the kidnaping. Under the Lindbergh law, the FBI can move into a kidnaping case after seven days or after the victim has been transported across state lines.

Arrested were Robert F. Giebler, 27, longshoreman, Jackson Heights, Queens, and Gordon T. Rowell, 24, ex-bartender, Sunnyside, Queens. Both are married and Giebler has three children.

Police said the two hatched the hoax in a Queens bar Sunday night.

The two allegedly made four telephone calls to the Weinbergers. They told Mrs. Weinberger she would find her infant son in a Queens church if she paid the $5,000 ransom, police said.

Twice the 32-year-old mother took $5,000 and drove off from her home in desperate hope of embracing her baby again.

The first telephone call ordered her to drop the money in a parked car in Queens. She spent an agonizing 70 minutes at the location but no one showed up. Then she returned home.

Later, another call told her to leave the money in a Queens bar. Again the contact failed.

A telephone operator informed police that in collecting overtime

Illness No Barrier To Staying In Race

Greek Sailors Comb Ruins For Quake Victims

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Greek sailors combed the rubble of Thira island today, seeking 20 persons reported missing since death-dealing earthquakes and tidal waves rocked the Aegean islands south of Greece.

Prime Minister Constantine Karamanlis' office announced the casualty total from yesterday's upheaval also included 42 killed and 31 injured. All were on Thira—most in the town of Santorini—except five injured on the neighboring island of Amorgos.

An earlier report that 10 died on Thira appeared incorrect.

Thousands of homeless spent the night in the fields. Minor earth shocks continued through the night and into the morning. The Athens observatory said 257 tremors of varying intensity had been recorded.

The first eyewitness reports from Greek reporters on Thira, southernmost island of the Cyclades group and the home of some 10,000 persons, said the first quake lasted 45 seconds and struck just after sunrise.

Most of the casualties were women and children. Their men already had left for the fields to cultivate the wine grapes for which the island is noted. The screams and moans of those trapped guided them as they rushed back to devastated Santorini, perched on a cliff above the water.

Serious property damage also was reported from Amorgos. 25 miles northeast of Thira. Tidal waves flooded low-lying farmlands on other islands and washed up or wrecked fishing boats.

U. S. Agents Fix Thursday For Steel Strike Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal mediators today fixed Thursday as the "probable" day to begin joint meetings in Pittsburgh of industry and union representatives in an effort to end the steel strike.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal mediation and Conciliation Service, announced at the same time that mediators will hold preliminary meetings with both sides today and tomorrow.

Finnegan said he would meet at 3 p.m. here today with David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, and Arthur G. Goldberg, union counsel.

There will be a preliminary session tomorrow, probably in Finnegan's office here about noon, with an industrial group headed by John A. Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel.

The 10-day strike has idled some 730,000 workers.

During the long weeks of contract debate, the federal government remained entirely out of the picture. But after exploratory talks in Pittsburgh, it decided to take the initiative.

Negotiations collapsed July 1, six hours before the strike that has idled 650,000 steelworkers and cut the nation's steelmaking production by 90 per cent.

Neither side has made any move toward resuming contract talks, indicating they have not retreated from their position.

Industry offered a 32-month contract at terms valued by the industry at 17 2/3 cents an hour per employe for the first year. The union pegged the offer at about 14 cents. Steelworkers had earned $2.46 an hour.

In another development, the government again has moved to conserve steel products for essential defense work.

Site For Dawson Hospital Chosen, Bond Issue Sells

LAMESA — Speculation over a site for the Dawson County Hospital ended here Monday evening with an announcement from the Commissioners Court that a tract from the Weaver Estate in the northwest part of town had been chosen.

County Judge Aubrey Boswell said that the hospital tract would consist of eight acres to be purchased by the county at a cost of $2,000 per acre. It will front on the Brownfield Highway. Exact metes and bounds are to be worked out by the court and J. R. Weaver.

The commissioners spent most of the afternoon inspecting three sites from which the selection was made. Also considered in the final analysis were the Kolosky land south of town near Forest Park, and the Ben Cason land in the western part of town off North Seventh.

"We selected the Weaver tract because in our judgment it is the best located for a county hospital," said Judge Boswell. "The overall difference in cost of this land compared to other sites approved by the state health department will be quite insignificant. Utilities will be available to this location.

"In helping to ferret out sites, the citizens advisory committee, appointed by the court, has been very helpful in making the final recommendation."

The cost of the site must be borne entirely by the county because matching federal funds can be used only for construction and equipping of the hospital.

The $400,000 bond issue voted by the county was sold Monday to Harry Seay & Black of Lubbock at 3.44 per cent on 24 years. The bonds are callable after 15 years. The successful bidders were represented by Ransom Gallaway.

Mass Funeral For Airline Dead

Mass funeral services for 67 persons who lost their lives in the crash of a TWA Super Constellation over Grand Canyon, June 30, is held at Flagstaff, Ariz., with nearly 400 relatives and friends attending. Three of the identified dead were returned to their homes for burial at the request of relatives and the others were buried in a common grave.

Inventory Made Of HD Quarters

The home demonstration council committee took inventory of the equipment in the Home Demonstration office at the courthouse Monday.

of representatives from the home demonstrations clubs in the county had four of its members working on this inventory to see what equipment is now in the office and what equipment is desired.

Women working Monday were Mrs. H. S. Hanson, chairman, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. O. D. Engle and Mrs. J. F. Skalicky.

World Gets Look At No. 1 Woman Red

MOSCOW (AP)—The West this week gets its first close look at Ekaterina Furtseva will head a 16-member Communist delegation.

Mrs. Furtseva, who looks much younger than her 46 years, took over the post as secretary of the Moscow city party organization March 31, 1954. It is the largest party group in the Soviet Union and the secretary's post is one of the most important jobs in the land. Among those who held it in the past is Soviet party head Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Reaching heights no other woman has attained in the Soviet government structure, Mrs. Furtseva is first secretary of the Moscow city Communist party group, a Supreme Soviet deputy and a candidate member of the Communist party's powerful Presidium.

Webb May Get That Money Yet

That $90,000 appropriation for Webb Air Force Base has passed another hurdle in Washington.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson wired The Herald today that the outlay has been approved by the Senate. It already was passed by the House, and the bill now goes to the President's desk.

No one at Webb knows what the money is for.

29 Men Measure Cotton in Dawson

LAMESA, July.—(Special)—Work on measurement of 1956 cotton acreage is expected to be complete within the next two weeks, Eddie Brown, manager of the Dawson County ASC office said Monday.

Final reports on the measuring are expected about a month after the field work is completed. At the present time there are 29 men in the field measuring acreage.

Long active in Communist party circles, Mrs. Furtseva received special prominence on May Day, 1955, when Khrushchev summoned her to join him atop the tomb of Lenin and Stalin on Red Square to review the traditional parade.

Mrs. Furtseva entered the top policy making level with the current Kremlin leaders in the fall of 1954, when she accompanied Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin to Peking for talks with Chinese Communist leaders.

A sturdy well-proportioned woman, Mrs. Furtseva has light blonde hair waving softly away from her face and gathered in a bun at the nape of the neck. She uses no makeup and has sparkling blue eyes.

She also has a lusty sense of humor which she brings into play at official receptions where she always engages Western correspondents in conversation.

Over the past year marked improvement—by Western standards—has been noticed in her style of dress. Her wardrobe for public appearances now includes a considerable number of well-tailored suits, her usual costume.

Mrs. Furtseva has one daughter by her marriage to the Soviet Union's ambassador to Yugoslavia.

Mrs. Marjorie Jean Miller, 36, told a Cleveland, Ohio, court that she would forsake her home, husband and four daughters for another man — an interior decorator.

Adults May Get Salk Shots Soon

AUSTIN (AP)—Texans over 20 may be able to get Salk polio vaccine in a "month or two," an official of the State Health Department said yesterday.

Dr. J. E. Peavy said this would depend on when the vaccine demand by persons under 20 could be absorbed.

The vaccine is available to pregnant women and persons under 20. Texas has returned some vaccine recently to allow other states to catch up. When the supply meets this demand, all restrictions probably will be removed, Peavy said.

Peavy said indications are that the "Salk vaccine has prevented a major polio year in Texas." Texas, for the first time this year, now has fewer polio cases than a year ago. Earlier it appeared the state faced a high polio rate.

Through the week ending June 30, there were 492 polio cases reported this year compared with 499 last year.

The department said there was a sharp comparative drop in cases since the start of the polio season in May. For the first 17 weeks, there were 224 cases compared to 167 in 1955.

Since May 1 there have been 269 cases reported compared to 375 for May, 1955.

Prejudice Cuts Jobs For Blind

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There are more jobs for blind persons than there are blind to fill them, but so many employers have mental blocks against hiring the blind that only 20,000 of 90,000 blind employables have jobs.

That picture was given to the American Assn. of Workers for the Blind at its annual convention yesterday by President Joseph F. Clunk of Philadelphia.

"In no case is blindness of itself a bar to gainful work, and the big task we face is to overcome prejudices in hiring," Clunk said.

Quake Recorded

NEW YORK (AP)—The Fordham seismograph recorded earth tremors today some 1,500 miles southwest of New York. The shocks were in the Gulf of Mexico area and probably were felt in Yucatan.

George Seeks Top To Long Career

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) said today he hopes to cap his 34-year Senate career with a victory for his proposal to set up a program of Social Security benefits for disabled persons.

George, retiring from the Senate at the end of this year at 78, introduced yesterday the compromise amendment on which the Democrats are pinning their hopes for a Senate triumph on the disability program.

"If we can get this through, then I am ready to go away from the Senate," George said. He told a reporter he does not regard his plan as a final answer to the disability question, adding:

"But it will be liberalized and improved over the years, just as other parts of the Social Security law have been."

George has been either chairman or a member of the Finance Committee, which handles Social Security legislation, through the 20 years the system has been in existence.

The veteran Southerner said he believes his compromise will win the support of most Democrats and also of a number of Republicans, despite Eisenhower administration opposition to the disability program.

The Social Security bill, of which George's proposal would be a part, is one of the major pieces of business remaining for the 1956 session. It now is expected to come up for Senate debate next week.

The disability program is a new concept. The Social Security system heretofore has provided only retirement and survivor benefits.

The House last year voted in its version of the bill to set up payments for persons totally and permanently disabled at age 50 or higher. But this was knocked out of the measure in the Senate Finance Committee this year. The administration objected to the cost and said the program would be extremely difficult to administer.

George's plan, like the House bill, would provide benefits for those disabled at 50 or older. And it would set up a special tax for the payments and segregate revenues in a separate fund.

This would meet the objection voiced by many senators, including some Democrats, that the cost of the disability program is unpredictable and might cause heavy inroads on the trust fund built up for retirement and survivor payments. This fund now exceeds 22 billion dollars.

The tax George proposes would be one half per cent of payroll, one quarter per cent each for the employer and employee on the first $4,200 of earnings annually. The rate for self-employed would be three eighths per cent. This would be added to the 2 per cent each now paid by the employer and employee, and the 3 per cent levy for self-employed.

Oil, Mining Boost Fast Development

By HOUSTON HARTE
MONTREAL, July 10 — Canada is on a boom which resembles Texas in the roaring 20s.

The casual visitor feels the pulse of progress as soon as he crosses the fertile, green frontier that separates this vigorous dominion from "The States."

Toronto and Montreal are locked in a dead heat in the race for honors as the largest city of the land. To the American visitor it looks as though Toronto is winning this race. Toronto's residences are of the ranch-type so popular just now in our own country while the French of Montreal prefer apartments of "flats."

Canada's present day prosperity is based on the development of its newly found natural resources:

WILDCATTER'S DREAM

Canada's prairie provinces have been the answer to the wildcatter's dream. Here oil and gas have been found in quantities over a third of the width of the continent.

Oil has been a boon to Canada in many ways. The billions which American oil companies have spent in Canada developing oil properties have switched the U. S. dollar to a discount position in Canada.

MAY BE EXPORT

Canada had to import all its fuel before the discovery of oil. Today it approaches an export position in both oil and gas.

Hospital Has Charity Unit For Old Age Pensioners

Comparatively few of the old folk who are on the rolls of the Old Age Benefit program of the State Welfare Department in Howard County seem to require hospitalization or surgery.

However, there are occasions, as might be expected, where such help is needed.

Ervin Fisher, district welfare office chief, doesn't have to do much hunting around to find a place for such persons.

Gaston Hospital, a large private institution in Dallas, provides the solution. That hospital maintains four rooms in its establishment reserved for old age pensioners in need of hospitalization and minor surgery.

"If we do not send them a patient from time to time," Fisher said, "we get a letter from the superintendent. The letter reiterates that the four rooms are available and that the only obligation the patient must meet is that he make his way from his home town to the hospital. There is no addition-

Big And Small, Old And Young In Common Grave

By BILL BECKER
Associated Press Reporter
Big and small, young and old, rich or in moderate circumstances, 123 persons shared a common grave in the Grand Canyon.

Death came alike to captains of industry and lesser workers when the United and TWA airliners tangled with fate, and apparently each other, less than 90 minutes out of Los Angeles on June 30.

Carl J. Snyder, 59, Chrysler Corp. director, vice president and operating manager, was returning home to Bloomfield Hills, a Detroit suburb, after attending the funeral of his uncle in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Snyder was unable to get a seat on the United airliner. She went back by train after the crash was verified.

On the TWA plane were Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Noel of Scarsdale, N. Y. Noel, 65, was a partner in the Wall Street brokerage firm of Van Alstyne, Noel and Co. and director of six companies.

The Noels had visited a son in San Francisco, planned to stop a day with a daughter in St. Louis.

Another executive lost was Gerald Murchison, 51, vice president of an Indianapolis jewelry firm, Herf-Jones Co. Murchison, a former University of Pennsylvania and Illinois athlete, was the younger brother of former Olympic sprinter Loren Murchison.

A young guided missiles expert, Noel Gottesman, 30, of Huntington Woods, Mich., died because he liked to make movies while flying.

Gottesman, rated a mathematical wizard by his employer, the Bendix Aviation Corp., headed an analytical group of six who had been looking into a project on the West Coast. Most of the others took a plane back to Detroit the night before. But Gottesman wanted daylight for his movies.

Ironically, storm clouds covered his best potential subject — the Grand Canyon — when the plane arrived over it. At 21,000 feet the United airliner, some conjecture, might have been zig-zagging to afford passengers some sort of view of the big gulch, fairly common practice among airline pilots flying the route.

Whether Gottesman got his pictures probably will never be known.

Walter M. Fuchs, 75, head of a Detroit blueprint firm, returning with Mrs. Fuchs, was the proud recipient of a plaque presented to him at a Los Angeles convention. His industry had acknowledged his 30-year contribution.

Women of importance in their communities, many of them mothers or grandmothers, were on both planes.

Mrs. Gertrude Coyne Book, 62, was the wife of the owner of the Book Building, Detroit skyscraper. She had been with her daughter when a new granddaughter arrived in San Diego.

Mrs. Phyllis Berman, 46, Milwaukee, had been consulting with officials of City of Hope, Duarte, Calif., a charity cancer foundation. Mrs. Berman was national volunteer chairman of auxiliaries.

But the cross-section ran much deeper on both planes. Those pretty girls on TWA were Janice Haas, 20, college senior of Springfield, Mo., and Sally Cressman, 22, Leavenworth, Kan., nurse. The score or so passengers traveling on TWA passes included an extra stewardess, clerks, stenographers, a pilot's wife, various officials and their relatives.

Lillian Carple, 39, a Los Angeles elevator operator, had saved up for a Kansas City vacation. Miss Lillian Hahn, 46, was making her first flight to see relatives in Detroit.

Mrs. Esther Sharp, 40, East St. Louis, Ill., was corresponding secretary for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

A Los Angeles secretary, Roberta Wilde, almost missed the United airliner when she forgot her handbag and had to return to her apartment for it. She was headed for a visit with her parents in LaGrange, Ill.

Stanley J. Weiss, 37, Detroit arsenal research chief, was hurrying to get home for the arrival of his fourth child.

Perhaps Robert Perisho, 30, an abalone diver, with a booming laugh, will be remembered as long as anyone.

The night before he took off he had a few drinks with friends at a Long Beach cafe. He had never flown before and, as he put it, he'd feel more at home in 10 fathoms of water.

"Why, if that plane so much as hits an air pocket," he laughed, "I'll die of heart failure."

His pals roared.

Saturday morning he boarded the TWA plane for St. Louis, where his sister Mrs. Fred Huddleston, Casey, Ill., was waiting when the news came of the crash.

That night, after his Long Beach pals heard what had happened, they went back to the cafe and drank a final toast to Perisho.

They then smashed their glasses on the floor.

Russia Behind In Trimming Strength

LONDON — Prime Minister Eden has told Soviet Premier Bulganin Russia is more than 10 years behind the West in trimming her armed forces.

Eden said in a letter to Bulganin, made public last night, that he welcomes Moscow's recent announcement it was demobilizing 1,200,000 men.

But, the Prime Minister said, Moscow was only copying what Western Powers have been doing since 1945, the end of World War II.

Eden rejected as "not practicable" at this time Bulganin's suggestion the West make a similar cut in its over-all armed strength and also trim its forces in West Germany.

Bulganin made his proposals in letters last month to Eden, President Eisenhower and the government heads of France, West Germany, Italy and Canada. The Soviet chief said his government was taking 30,000 of its troops out of East Germany. Italy already has rejected the proposal.

Eden's answer left the door open to a further study of the Bulganin troop reduction proposal. The Soviet leader had called it a possible "first step" toward a complete withdrawal of foreign troops from Germany and a final peace settlement.

Eden replied that "existing guarantees" for the security of West Europeans must be maintained in any East-West understanding in Europe.

"My own feeling is that unilateral reductions of this kind are helpful," Eden said. "I do not think, however, that they are of themselves sufficient if international confidence and security are to develop as we wish."

There is no substitute, the Prime Minister said, for an international disarmament agreement providing for effective control and inspection and adequate measures for protection against surprise attack.

FORT LARAMIE, Wyo.—According to reports, the tourist travel is up 17 per cent above last year. The resorts up here in the cooler areas are jammed with humanity, and don't have enough rooms to take care of visitors, especially on weekends.

The biggest attraction, of course, is Yellowstone Park, with thousands of people coming in every day through the five entrances. If you plan to make Yellowstone this summer and are not equipped to camp out, it would be a good idea to write for reservations. They have enough rooms to take care of the crowds of five years ago, but have a shortage of cabins and hotel rooms now. Plenty of camping space is available but remember this is not Ruidoso. It's not just cool here; it's downright cold at night.

I came up through Jackson Hole from the Idaho-Wyoming border and then entered Yellowstone at the south entrance. There I asked the ranger about a room for the night, and he said my car would probably be it. I learned a lot of people sleep in their cars every night in the park.

That didn't sound appealing, not at 7,700 feet elevation and with snow piles only 100 feet out in the trees—maybe bears, too. I saw most of the park, watched Old Faithful burp, then about 9 p.m. decided I'd just as soon be driving as freezing.

On eastward all motels were filled, and finally at Greybull, Wyo. over 100 miles of Yellowstone, I pulled off the road and went to sleep. It was different from Yellowstone, though. Up there a mile and a half high the temperature was around 45; two hours to the east at half that altitude it was a pleasant 65.

There's not much to be said about Yellowstone except that it's the biggest of them all and has the most trees. Also, it's the only place with geysers, which are found in several places in the park. However, Old Faithful is the one that draws out the crowd every 64 minutes when it erupts in boiling water and white steam. After the first few seconds the steam shrinks the place so much that the water is hardly visible. Yellowstone has a wonderful lake. It covers 140 square miles and fishermen can get down to it nearly anywhere. This year the weather has been a little too cold and fishing is not as good as normal. Park officials think it will improve now with warmer weather.

I liked the Jackson Hole country better than Yellowstone, because it has the same rivers and lakes and pine, but it's also got a lot of open country, with green meadows and sage-covered pastures. And it has the snow-capped Tetons with their jagged peaks that resemble faraway church spires. Travelers I've talked to in the parks say the Tetons are the most beautiful mountains in America, and that Jackson Hole is the most scenic area.

The lake in Jackson Hole is 1,000 feet lower than Yellowstone Lake, and the season lasts somewhat longer.

Wyoming is the eighth biggest state but ranks next to last in population, with only a third of a million people. The name means mountains with valleys alternating. It has been aptly named, as there is very little of the state that isn't rugged. Besides the high mountains in the west and a few other sections, there are thousands of square miles of dry mesa land fit for nothing but grazing, and it's not very good for that.

There are a few farming valleys, but they're widely scattered and may be a hundred miles from the next one. One of the best is Big Horn River Valley that flows through Worland and Greybull. Farmers irrigate a sizable acreage of beans, sugar beets and alfalfa.

Few of them have the big units of the prairie states, mostly because the land is limited, and the crops require quite a lot of hand labor. Another drawback is the short growing season that lasts only about 115 to 120 days.

Winters up here come early and drop the temperature below zero for days at a time. Often it gets to 20 or even 30 below, yet nearly every native you talk to says the climate is wonderful.

At one store an old man from near Corpus Christi had come up to spend the summer with his daughter and son-in-law. Now every morning when the air is a bit nippy, the old fellow wants to pack his suitcase and leave for South Texas. He is afraid an early storm will blow in and he'll be snowbound for the winter.

Wyoming has some nice cattle country, particularly in the central and southern part. The most noticeable thing about ranches up here is the absence of brush. They don't have mesquite and very little cedar except on the higher land. A few streams have trees along the banks, but over 90 per cent of the land I've seen and been told about is bare of everything but grass and sagebrush. You find sagebrush through all the states, but most noticeable in Utah.

Today I drove from the northwest part down to the southeastern corner and passed through rolling hill country where one could see for 30 miles. There were a few far-apart ranch houses, an occasional herd of cattle and lots of space.

Wyoming has had a drought but not to compare with the one in West Texas. However, range cattle have decreased, grass is almost gone in some places, and the stream flow is down. At Casper, a business man said that many farmers had to abandon their crops. They water out of the Powder River and this year the thing got almost as dry as powder.

Farther East the North Platte was running a good stream, and here in the extreme southeast looks like the Brazos at flood stage.

Cantinflas Gets Suit Settlement
LOS ANGELES (AP)—An out of court settlement has been reached in the $30,000 suit brought against Mexican film comedian Mario Moreno, better known as Cantinflas, by theatrical agent Margaret Cook. The amount she was paid was not disclosed.

Tax Collector Has Crystal Ball
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The South Carolina Tax Commission and State Auditor J. M. Smith missed guessing the state's 1955-56 tax take by $4,000. That figures out an error of 0.0003 per cent.

The prediction—made in December 1954 for revenue that would not all be collected until June 30 of this year—was $119,946,000. The take was $119,950,000.

Would It Pay For Damage Suits?
MEXICO CITY (AP)—A Mexican fireman has invented a pushbutton device to subdue holdup men preying on taxi drivers.

Oscar Romer Berumen's device won't cost much to make. By simply stepping on a button on the floor, Romero says, his invention will:

1. Throw open the driver's door, permitting him to escape.
2. Lock all other doors automatically.
3. Shoot the cab full of tear gas.

Romer says this will trap the holdup man, and so incapacitate him he can't escape. He admits the same thing could happen to an innocent fare if a foot-happy driver stepped on the button accidentally. But he doesn't think this would happen often.

God Of Fire Gets A Cool Bath
NEW YORK (AP)—Prometheus, Greek god of fire, got a cool bubble bath yesterday in Rockefeller Plaza.

Some prankster poured a bottle of liquid detergent into the fountain beneath the huge gilt statue. In a few minutes white foam bubbled up around the statue.

Attendants shut off the fountain and washed away the foam.

Rock 'N Roll Sneaks Into Sunday School
POLK, Neb. (AP)—Donnette Ostberg, 4, didn't seem to like Sunday school singing at the Methodist church.

After several starts, she would plunk her elbows down on her knees and put her head down. "What's the matter, Donnette, don't you like to sing?" someone asked.

"Yes," came a firm answer, "but I'd rather sing 'The Rock and Roll Waltz'—I know it better."

Cop Finds New Courting Tactic
HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Patrolman Kay Rupert followed for several blocks when he saw two cars driving awfully close together. They were so close the man driving one car was holding hands with the girl driving the other.

Patrolman Rupert wrote out traffic tickets for Barbara Maxine Newman, 20, and Charles Dale Pike, 21.

The charge: careless driving.

First Presbyterian Circles Meet Monday

Members of the First Presbyterian Women of the Church met in various homes Monday for their study.

The Ruth Circle met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jack Wilcox, 305 Washington.

Mrs. Wilcox, who is chairman of the circle, presided and Mrs. Elvis McCrary brought the devotion on "Church In Thy House." A general discussion followed on Christian relations from the magazine, "The Survey."

Refreshments were served to four members and two guests, Mrs. Gage Lloyd and Mrs. Tommy Jordan.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Lucian Jones.

The Business Women's Circle held a covered dish supper Monday evening in the home of Mrs. A. B. Brown, with Elizabeth Massey as cohostess for the affair.

Mrs. Minnie Allsman gave the invocation. Mrs. Leon Kinney presided for the meeting, during which Mrs. L. G. Talley brought the devotion. Her topic was the same as for the Ruth Circle.

Scripture readings were taken from various sections of the Bible. Mrs. Lee Porter dismissed the 14 members with prayer.

Mrs. Bob Eberly and Mrs. C. E. Suggs were hostesses for a covered dish supper in the garden of the Eberly home Monday evening with members of the Ella Barrick Circle attending.

Mrs. Eberly, circle chairman, presided for the program, which was opened with a prayer by Mrs. George Neill.

Mrs. W. G. Greenlees, using the circle topic for the day, brought the devotion. Mrs. Neill discussed the Survey article, "Let's Talk About Christian Relations."

Twenty attended the meeting, including Rev. Lloyd, his son, Gage Jr., and Mrs. R. M. Heine.

OWC Block Meeting

Members of block five and seven of the Officers' Wives' Club are urged to meet at the swimming pool of the club Thursday afternoon at 1:30, according to Mrs. J. S. Wylan.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Be there a woman with soul so dead who never to herself has said "If there's a sale in town I'm going to it!" I could say from personal experience that there were very few housewives at home Monday morning. Most of the calls we made were made to empty houses.

MR. and MRS. TILMAN BRYANT and their children, Nancy and Wayne, of Dalhart were to leave today for their home after a visit here with his mother, Mrs. E. E. Bryant, and other relatives. Mr. Bryant is education and music director of the First Baptist Church in Dalhart.

MRS. DAVID BARLOW and son will leave here Thursday for Hillsboro where they will spend some time with relatives. After several days there they will go to Fort Worth, where they will take a plane to their home in White Plains, N. Y. Mrs. Barlow has been here for a month to visit her mother, Mrs. Nell Frazier, and a brother, James Bruce Frazier and his family.

MRS. J. D. ELLIOTT has returned home from Dallas where she took her father, Joe Hardesty, for a checkup.

Here from Odessa for the weekend with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, were MRS. ERNEST WADE GREER, and MR.

Convention Attended By Mrs. Merrick

Mrs. Charlie Merrick has returned from Galveston, where she attended the 51st annual convention of the State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs. She was a delegate from the Stokes-Parker District. The meeting was held July 4-7.

Included in the district are clubs in Midland, Big Spring, San Angelo, Colorado City, McCombs, Odessa and El Paso. Mrs. Merrick, who is vice president of the district, joined a group of 34 women at San Angelo. They left from the city on a chartered bus.

Meetings were held in the Union Baptist Church in Galveston. The convention passed a resolution to obtain support for a score comprehensive program of driver education in the public schools.

An appropriation of $5,000 was made for securing a chapel at the Crockett State School for Girls.

Mrs. Glen Persons, who was elected queen of the district meeting held here, was named queen of the state meeting. She was crowned "Miss Federation" Saturday evening.

Local Pair Take Vows

Before an altar decked with greenery, white candles and arrangements of white summer flowers, Gwen Baillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Baillo, exchanged double-ring wedding vows with Charles Woods. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Woods.

The ceremony was held Saturday at 6 p.m. in the First Christian Church. Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiated.

Betty Earle, organist, played traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a blue polished cotton dress with an overskirt of blue nylon lace. Completing the bride's ensemble was a white flowered hat. She carried an arrangement of white carnations on a white Bible.

June Birdwell, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Billie Woods served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Chester Barnard, Billy Wayne King, R. L. Birdwell, Edward Baillo, and Jackie Touchstone.

Both the bride and groom attended Big Spring High School. They will make their home in Lake Charles, La., where the groom is stationed in the Air Force.

The reception was held at the church. In the receiving line with the bride and bridegroom were each of the parents.

The refreshment table was laid with a blue cut work cloth with a crystal punch set and summer flower arrangements completing the arrangement. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

FORT LARAMIE, Wyo.—According to reports, the tourist travel is up 17 per cent above last year. The resorts up here in the cooler areas are jammed with humanity, and don't have enough rooms to take care of visitors, especially on weekends.

The biggest attraction, of course, is Yellowstone Park, with thousands of people coming in every day through the five entrances. If you plan to make Yellowstone this summer and are not equipped to camp out, it would be a good idea to write for reservations. They have enough rooms to take care of the crowds of five years ago, but have a shortage of cabins and hotel rooms now. Plenty of camping space is available but remember this is not Ruidoso. It's not just cool here; it's downright cold at night.

I came up through Jackson Hole from the Idaho-Wyoming border and then entered Yellowstone at the south entrance. There I asked the ranger about a room for the night, and he said my car would probably be it. I learned a lot of people sleep in their cars every night in the park.

That didn't sound appealing, not at 7,700 feet elevation and with snow piles only 100 feet out in the trees—maybe bears, too. I saw most of the park, watched Old Faithful burp, then about 9 p.m. decided I'd just as soon be driving as freezing.

On eastward all motels were filled, and finally at Greybull, Wyo. over 100 miles of Yellowstone, I pulled off the road and went to sleep. It was different from Yellowstone, though. Up there a mile and a half high the temperature was around 45; two hours to the east at half that altitude it was a pleasant 65.

There's not much to be said about Yellowstone except that it's the biggest of them all and has the most trees. Also, it's the only place with geysers, which are found in several places in the park. However, Old Faithful is the one that draws out the crowd every 64 minutes when it erupts in boiling water and white steam. After the first few seconds the steam shrouds the land is limited, and the crops require quite a lot of hand labor. Another drawback is the short growing season that lasts only about 115 to 120 days.

Winters up here come early and drop the temperature below zero for days at a time. Often it gets to 20 or even 30 below, yet nearly every native you talk to says the climate is wonderful.

At one store an old man from near Corpus Christi had come up to spend the summer with his daughter and son-in-law. Now every morning when the air is a bit pippy, the old fellow wants to pack his suitcase and leave for South Texas. He is afraid an early storm will blow in and he'll be snowbound for the winter.

Wyoming has some nice cattle country, particularly in the central and southern part. The most noticeable thing about ranches up here is the absence of brush. They don't have mesquite and very little cedar except on the higher land. A few streams have trees along the banks, but over 90 per cent of the land I've seen and been told about is bare of everything but grass and sagebrush. You find sagebrush through all the states, but most noticeable in Utah.

Today I drove from the northwest part down to the southeastern corner and passed through rolling hill country where one could see for 30 miles. There were a few far-apart ranch houses, an occasional herd of cattle and lots of space.

Wyoming has had a drought but not to compare with the one in West Texas. However, range cattle have decreased, grass is almost gone in some places, and the stream flow is down. At Casper, a business man said that many farmers had to abandon their crops. They water out of the Powder River and this year the thing got almost as dry as powder.

Farther East the North Platte was running a good stream, and here in the extreme southeast looks like the Brazos at flood stage.

Cantinflas Gets Suit Settlement

LOS ANGELES—An out of court settlement has been reached in the $20,000 suit brought against Mexican film comedian Cantinflas, by theatrical agent Margaret Cook. The amount she was paid was not disclosed.

Mrs. Cook alleged Cantinflas had refused to pay her 10 per cent of the $300,000 he received for his role in the film "Around the World in 80 Days," although she said the contract called for such payment.

Tax Collector Has Crystal Ball

COLUMBIA, S.C.—The South Carolina Tax Commission and State Auditor J. M. Smith missed guessing the state's 1955-56 tax take by $4,000. That figures out an error of .0003 per cent.

The prediction—made in December 1954 for revenue that would not be collected until June 30 of this year—was $119,946,000. The take was $119,950,000.

Would It Pay For Damage Suits?

MEXICO CITY—A Mexican fireman has invented a pushbutton device to subdue holdup men preying on taxi drivers.

Oscar Romer Berumen's device won't cost much to make. By simply stepping on a button on the floor, Romero says, his invention will:

1. Throw open the driver's door, permitting him to escape.
 2. Lock all other doors automatically.
 3. Shoot the cab full of tear gas.
- Romer says this will trap the holdup man, and so incapacitate him he can't escape. He admits the same thing could happen to an innocent fare if a foot-happy driver stepped on the button accidentally. But he doesn't think this would happen often.

God Of Fire Gets A Cool Bath

NEW YORK—Prometheus, Greek god of fire, got a cool bubble bath yesterday in Rockefeller Plaza.

Some prankster poured a bottle of liquid detergent into the fountain beneath the huge gilt statue. In a few minutes white foam bubbled up around the statue. Attendants shut off the fountain and washed away the foam.

Rock 'N Roll Sneaks Into Sunday School

POLK, Neb.—Donnette Ostberg, 4, didn't seem to like Sunday school singing at the Methodist church.

After several starts, she would plunk her elbows down on her knees and put her head down.

"What's the matter, Donnette, don't you like to sing?" someone asked.

"Yes," came a firm answer, "but I'd rather sing 'The Rock and Roll Waltz'—I know it better."

Cop Finds New Courting Tactic

HUTCHINSON, Kan.—Patrolman Kay Rupert followed for several blocks when he saw two cars driving awfully close together.

They were so close the man driving one car was holding hands with the girl driving the other.

Patrolman Rupert wrote out traffic tickets for Barbara Maxine Newman, 20, and Charles Dale Pike, 21.

The charge: careless driving.

Old Keyboard Holds Its Own

Perhaps you remember some months ago the developers of the typewriter were said to have made a terrible blunder by placing the keys in an unscientific sequence and this blunder had been religiously followed and was now costing the government a lot of time and energy due to lost motion.

It was suggested that the government rearrange the keys on its 800,000 typewriters. The claim was made the new arrangement would increase the average typist's output by 35 per cent.

Well, sir, the gummit assigned a task force from the University of Pennsylvania to make a study of the problem, and after a four-month test the simplified keyboard failed to support the claim. It was estimated that it would require 100 hours of instruction to break typists of the old finger-work. Those who had qualified for the new system were put up against some of the standard operators, and the results failed to show any "significant difference."

But on five-minute drills the report said the standard keyboard results were "better in both speed and accuracy and that the differences are significant." There was one variation, however; when typists were just beginning to learn the new system their accuracy was good.

Basic objection to the standard keyboard, in theory, was that it placed far too much work on right handed. For instance, in frequency of use, the next-to-top line of the standard keyboard, beginning "querty," furnished 52 per cent of the letters used, while the "home row," second from the bottom beginning "asdfg," supplied only 32 per cent. The bottom row "zxcv" only 16 per cent.

The new Dvorak version switched the letters around until the next-to-top row supplied 22 per cent, the next-to-bottom row 70 per cent, and the bottom row only 8 per cent on the right side.

The findings do not necessarily condemn the new system, but do mean Uncle Sam ain't working over his 800,000 typewriters and re-training his 800,000 typists—not just yet anyhow.

Sensible Ounce Of Prevention

Dallas has a really serious situation on its hands because of rabies.

Last week City Health Officer J. W. Bass declared that a rabies epidemic exists in Dallas and ordered all dogs to be quarantined from noon Monday until Oct. 17.

The provisions of the order are very specific. It says all dogs in Dallas must be "confined" to their premises by a substantial fence, inside the house, or secured by a leash, consisting of an iron chain.

This is the first time since the turn of the century that such an all-inclusive quarantine has been imposed in Dallas, Dr. Bass believes. He said his order had been approved by the Dallas County Medical Society, the Animal Control Advisory Board, and State Health Officer Henry Holte.

Similar drastic steps have been taken in various parts of the country to put down outbreaks of rabies. In some areas skunks, foxes and wildcats have become involved, indicating the widespread nature of the current outbreak of this dread disease.

Big Spring has laws requiring dogs to be confined to premises and not allowed off unless on a leash. It also requires all dogs to be licensed and immunized against rabies.

Dog-owners and dog-lovers who fulfill these reasonable regulations should not complain when there is any concerted drive against loose or ownerless dogs to rid a community of the threat of the most horrible of all diseases.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Wouldn't it be wiser to get rid of roaming dogs before we are confronted with an emergency similar to that in Dallas?

We like dogs and we own one, but all the dogs in town aren't worth a single human child.

Challenge: To Surpass The United States

(Second in a series—Ed.)

By J. A. LIVINGSTON

Nicolaï A. Bulgianin, chairman of the Council of Ministers of the Soviet Union and, hence, one of the most powerful men in the world, reminds me of an old college professor, Marion Clyde Wier, who taught English at the University of Michigan and later at Brown. His gray-blue eyes twinkled. His short goatee gave him a scholarly mien.

At the reception given French Premier Guy Mollet in beautiful, anachronistic St. George's Hall in the Kremlin—its carastie marble and alabaster walls contrasting with the proletarian portrait of Lenin talking to a collection of workers—Bulgianin was chatting with a group of newspapermen when he sighted Anastas I. Mikoyan, one of the Soviet Union's first deputy premiers, a member of the presidium of the Communist Party and an old-line Bolshevik, who like Bulgianin, survived Stalin's purges.

"Why, there's Mikoyan," said Bulgianin. "I wonder if he's still a first deputy. I'll ask him—and at the same time find out what he's cooking up." Off Bulgianin went, trailing a trail of newspapermen. He caught up to Mikoyan, and the two laughed when Bulgianin told him what he'd said. They were men at ease with one another.

This is something new in the Kremlin and the Soviet Union. It is of political significance outside the Kremlin—a fact to be analyzed, pondered, and, above all, recognized. Under Stalin, the deputies lived in a perpetual quagmire, each suspicious of the other, each fearful of the head man's crochets. This reign of terror by one man has been made clear to the non-Soviet world by Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist Party. In a speech to the 20th Party Congress in February, a speech only recently written out in the Soviet Union, Khrushchev praised Stalin for his "positive role" in fighting the ideology of "Trotskyites, rightists, and bourgeois nationalists," but assailed him for purging as an "enemy of the people" any one who disagreed with him, including members of the party.

Khrushchev announced a new era—a return to Leninism, to collective leadership, to "democratic centralism." There's even talk of two names on party ballots at the lower levels than ever.

There are over a quarter million men in the present rulers of Russia at receptions, you are at once struck by their at-ease with one another. These don't act like scared men. They have a sense of their own security and well-being.

Marshal Tito and Khrushchev actually walked side by side down 300-foot wide Gorky Street into Red Square among throngs of people.

Khrushchev is making himself a baby-kissing politician, a man of the people in contrast to the precautionary exclusiveness of the eyes-darting Stalin.

The easy manner of 1956's top Communists is not put on. Bulgianin, Khrushchev, Mikoyan, and the rest act like the heads of a giant corporation who know where they're going and where they stand with one another. That statement included two men who have "stepped down"—former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and former top man, Georgi M. Malenkov.

On the day Tito arrived in the Soviet Union, Pravda and other Soviet newspapers carried a brief announcement that Molotov, Stalin's No. 1 or 2 man, had resigned as foreign minister. Molotov, together with Stalin, had "excommunicated" Tito from the Communist Party. So Molotov's head was offered Tito as a trophy. Yet, that same evening, Molotov appeared at a reception at the Italian Embassy along with his successor, Dmitri T. Shepilov. He was full of smiles and self-assurance. He looked more like a man who had recommended his own removal than a man who'd been fired.

Malenkov, too, although demoted to the Ministry of Electric Power Stations from his No. 1 post as premier, enjoys himself at parties.

When Stalin died, Malenkov decided to step up the already stepped-up production of consumer goods. But his emphasis was still on machinery and machine tools—capital goods.

It's believed that Khrushchev and Bulgianin, on the other hand, felt that the already-planned increases in consumer goods were enough to satisfy Soviet citizens, that the more important job was to increase military and industrial might. Khrushchev and Bulgianin are No. 1 and the 20th Party Congress.

The countries of socialism are giving unremitting attention above all to the development of heavy industry, which is the foundation for the continuous expansion of social production as a whole.

In the production of pig iron, steel, aluminum, copper, machinery, electricity, cement and coal, the Soviet Union long ago outstripped France, western Germany, and Britain, and is steadily catching up with the United States.

A little thing suggests much. When Stalin was "bored," the cast of characters was ranked by the order of their listing at a reception. Just before Stalin's death, the last indication was Malenkov, Beria, Molotov. Today, in official documents the listings are alphabetical. But at receptions and conferences, it's clear that Khrushchev and Bulgianin are No. 1 and 2 men in the collectivity.

You sense that the challenge of American power unifies the group. America's so mighty, industrially and militarily. And never, do Khrushchev, Bulgianin, and the rest of the collective ever forget what they, as Communists, aspire to—with respect to that power. The new Soviet leaders are all for one and one for all in their purpose: To surpass the U. S. in industrial and military might. But have they, in denouncing Stalin, fashioned a new dynamism within the Soviet Union and the world that will upset their plans? (The third in this series follows tomorrow—Ed.)

What Effect On Big Dope Pushers?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has tried to make dope-peddling a truly hazardous occupation—and save thousands from the drug habit—by voting to boost the penalties on both selling and possessing narcotics.

President Eisenhower is expected to sign the bill written and sponsored by Sen. Price Daniel of Texas.

For a peddler who sells heroin—the most habit-forming of all the narcotics—to a child under 18 the proposed penalty is toughest of all: death, if a jury brings in that verdict, or life imprisonment, or 10 years to life.

This death penalty may chill the blood of "pushers" or peddlers who do the direct selling to addicts.

It remains to be seen whether it scares the big-time operators who sell to peddlers and not to addicts.

In this country there are at least 60,000 addicts—according to government figures—who spend a minimum of 350 million dollars a year on drugs. But more is involved. Since many can't afford the drug they crave, they steal to get the money.

"Mr. Blackburn," he finally said in a different voice, "I heard you on the radio last night."

"Yes, I did," I responded. "And I sure liked what you said."

"Why, thanks," I replied. He hesitated for a few minutes. Finally he blurted:

"I'll tell you, Mr. Blackburn," he replied. "I been watching you in this town for a long time. I have noticed that you're usually nice to folk. I think it's time someone was nice to you. That's why I been sending the packages."

"Look, Bud," I told him, "I appreciate your thoughtfulness, but we might as well get something straight. Sooner or later, you're going to get shook down. There may be trouble. If this happens, you get the same publicity as any other bootlegger. Do you understand that?"

He looked hurt. "Why, shore, Mr. Blackburn," he said. "I know that's what would happen."

Around The Rim

Just Wanted To Be Nice

My former home state, Oklahoma is technically a "dry" state. Sale of intoxicating liquors is illegal and has been since Indian Territory days prior to 1907. My former home town was so dry that it would often require as long as 10 minutes to have any beverage desired delivered to your door. Of course there was a price penalty of 60 to 80 per cent for this service.

Bootlegging, therefore has grown to be a big business. Bootleggers run the gamut from tough characters—rough as a cob and with records for law violation from theft to murder.

Some are very mild mannered individuals. I know one who happened to find me reading a copy of "Benevento Cellini" one time. He asked about the book, his interest grew and he borrowed it. For two years, I lent him every classic I had in my own library and when my limited supply was exhausted, I made up lists for him to fill at the library.

What's more, when he had read the books, he knew what was in them and he could discuss—in colorful language, I will agree,—every character, each episode. He loved Shakespeare and committed page after page of the plays to memory.

For six years, I had a radio program on a local station. Three times a week, I would talk for 15 minutes on any subject that I elected to use. I spoke one night on the subject of juvenile delinquency.

Next day, I was seated in a coffee place. Two stools down the counter was a gent I knew by sight as one of the kingpin bootleggers in the county. I had never met him socially. Or, for that matter, in a business way.

"Mr. Blackburn," he finally said in a different voice, "I heard you on the radio last night."

"Yes, I did," I responded. "And I sure liked what you said."

"Why, thanks," I replied. He hesitated for a few minutes. Finally he blurted:

He looked hurt. "Why, shore, Mr. Blackburn," he said. "I know that's what would happen."

"Mr. Blackburn, do you ever take a drink?"

I confessed that I had done so. The bootlegger asked me where my car was parked. I told him.

When I went to the car at noon, there were two fifths of whisky in a paper bag on the front seat.

Once each month thereafter, a Cadillac would drive up and a shifty looking prole of the bootlegger would ring the doorbell. He would thrust a package in my hand and vanish into the night. In the package would be the inevitable two fifths.

One day I cornered the bootlegger. "Look, Bud," I told him, "I appreciate your thoughtfulness, but we might as well get something straight. Sooner or later, you're going to get shook down. There may be trouble. If this happens, you get the same publicity as any other bootlegger. Do you understand that?"

Bipartisan Policy Faces Test

WASHINGTON — It is becoming increasingly evident that the election campaign this fall will be a make-or-break test for the foreign policy of the United States and the bipartisan support that during the past decade has sustained a policy of aid for and cooperation with the free and the neutral nations of the world.

How important this test is likely to prove is obscured momentarily by the dispute over President's Eisenhower's availability and capacity. But those who have studied the record of the debate and the roll calls on the foreign aid bill in the Senate are aware that with the new Congress in January there may well come a sharp reversal.

On several roll calls, conspicuously on the issue of continuing aid to Yugoslavia, a majority of Democrats supported the position of the Eisenhower Administration while a majority of Republicans voted against the Administration. In so doing, many Democrats up for re-election felt they were sticking their necks out dangerously far.

In October Vice President Richard M. Nixon conducted the kind of campaign he conducted in 1954, accusing the Democrats of being soft on Communism, if anti-Eisenhower Republicans charge these same Democrats with disloyalty to Ike and call for a Congress to back the President, then an Eisenhower Administration in a second term will find itself in grave trouble.

Gov. Clement, Adlai Friend, To Keynote Demo Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee, regarded as friendly to Adlai E. Stevenson, was selected yesterday to keynote the Democratic National Convention. The young governor was named by the party's Convention Arrangements Committee after a three-hour meeting. Clement, a fiery orator and considered a possible vice presidential candidate, did not receive a unanimous vote of the committee, National Chairman Paul M. Butler said. Butler said the committee's 13 members gave a "full discussion of each of 17 or 18 possible selections." Clement was picked, he said "because of his familiarity with the issues and his capacity to discuss them fluently and capably, and the impression he has made around the country. 'I wouldn't say it (Clement's selection) was unanimous but I feel that a good decision was made. I don't consider it a victory for anyone except the Democratic party.'"

In Nashville, the 36-year-old governor, informed of his selection to keynote the convention on opening night Aug. 3 in Chicago, said: "I did not expect this assignment. There were many other capable men who could have done an excellent job. But I'll do the very best I can to represent the Democratic party and the American people." Although Clement has shied away from publicly committing himself to any candidate, he has expressed himself as friendly toward Stevenson. At the recent Governors' Conference, he described Stevenson as the "greatest candidate ever to be denied the presidency of the United States." Democratic leaders apparently closely considered Clement's views on the potentially explosive segregation issue within the party. The Tennessee governor has avoided taking strong stands either way. He was quoted at the Governors' Conference as saying that no public schools in Tennessee had been or would be desegregated without a court order. The only exception, he said, was Oak Ridge, Tenn., which is operated by the federal government. Butler said he felt Clement would discuss the desegregation issue "in a way that is not offensive to anyone."

The selection of Clement met with approval among the party's presidential aspirants. Stevenson said he was "very glad to hear" of it and predicted Clement would be a "forceful spokesman for the Democratic party." Sen. Estes Kefauver, a fellow Tennessean, termed the selection an honor for Clement. But, said Kefauver, it in no way would affect his determination to win the nomination. Kefauver and Clement are not considered to be politically close. Clement had insisted on heading an unpledged delegation to the national convention, thereby denying Kefauver possible home state delegate support. Sen. Stuart Symington, Missouri's favorite son candidate, termed the selection of Clement as "great." New York's Gov. Averell Harriman, also a presidential candidate, had no immediate comment. But W. Neale Roach, assistant director of Harriman's Chicago prevention campaign office, said, "I am sure Clement will make a great keynote speech." Clement had been mentioned as a possible keynoter along with such others as Senators Kerr of Oklahoma, Humphrey of Minnesota, Jackson of Washington and Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Lamesa Bank Deposits Soar

LAMESA—Total deposits in the three Lamesa banking institutions soared to $18,236,279.73 at the end of June, 1956, compared to $16,493,840.75 at the end of June, 1955. This is an increase of more than a million and a half dollars over a year's period. Observers attribute the increase in part to two crop years which, though they were far from "bumper," gave a majority of the farm population a small surplus for savings. The increase in deposits also reflects a good year for business in the Lamesa trade area. Trade has shown a decided increase over previous years, and businessmen anticipate it will continue through 1956. The $18 million figure is still below the all-time high for deposits which reached a total of $22,600,189.33 in two local banks in 1950. Totals on deposit in Lamesa Federal Savings & Loan was not recorded at that time.

C-City Council Okays Study Of Recreation Programs

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Council voted Monday night to send members of the Parks and Recreation Board to other nearby towns to study their recreation programs. The action came after Rev. Earl T. Clary, chairman of the board, presented a request for the council to act to set up a salary for a recreation director. City Manager Rollin K. Sneath recommended a salary range from $3,600 to $4,000 for the position. The council deferred action on the board's request pending further study of similar programs elsewhere. The council also passed a new ordinance for the regulation and enforcement of parking meters. City Attorney John Worrell presented the new ordinance to plug loopholes in an older ordinance which was difficult to enforce, he said, in cases where the automobile owner denied that he left the car in the parking place where it received a ticket. City Manager Sneath said that the new ordinance will not extend parking meters to new sections which do not have them at present. The council also: (1) Voted to close a 25-foot alley or street, and give a quit claim deed to the property to the Col-Tex Wholesale Company for a warehouse site. (2) Voted to credit $2,411 in uncollectible taxes from city tax rolls, on the recommendation of Ford Merritt, city secretary. (3) Bought a front end loader from Shurtleff Brothers on the low bid of $465. Three bids were received.

Promising, But Only A Duster

Fairly promising clouds which hinted that they might bring a few drops of rain to the parched countryside Monday afternoon degenerated into a brief duster and disappeared. The sandstorm swept in from the east and northeast, obscuring the view of the Cosden refinery and whipping up white clouds of drifting dust for a few minutes. It lost its impetus as it swept across town and failed to do more than cause housewives to close their windows and shut their doors for a short time. Official high temperature for the day was 97. Low last night was 73 degrees.

ELECTION NEARS Candidates Renew Their Word Wars

Candidates for governor renewed their word wars on political flesh Tuesday. Ralph Yarborough and Sen. Price Daniel blasted each other for having received in previous campaigns the support of George Parr, Duval County politician whose affairs are under state and federal investigations. J. Everett Haley asserted at Lubbock that "Price Daniel's moderate conservatism" continues to be a polite term for cowardly compromise.

and change the policies of our local school districts. He said he was convinced that "both white and Negro citizens and most of our districts want to continue their separate schools and, as governor of Texas, Price Daniel pledges to uphold the decision of the people of our local school districts." Daniel also said some of his opponents "are carrying out their threats of personal vilification, name-calling and mud-slinging." Daniel denied issuing "any statements of abuse or criticism" of his opponents. Haley said that "despite legislation in Congress and despite Price Daniel's shallow claims we have not yet regained our rights to the tidelands."

W. Lee O'Daniel also took a shot at Daniel, saying at San Antonio "The junior senator was backed by millionaires and special interests." "You just have to look at the telephone poles. There's his name all over the place. You turn on the television, there is he," O'Daniel said. Reuben Senterfitt was in southeast Texas. He said he was confident Gov. Shivers was supporting him. Shivers has not announced his support of any candidate. Parr said Friday he would back Daniel and the senator hastily and repeatedly disavowed Parr, saying his first act as governor would be to press the Duval County investigation. Yarborough issued a statement saying Daniel had Parr's support in races in 1946 and 1952. Daniel's campaign manager, Joe Greenhill, said Yarborough was backed by Parr for governor in 1952 and 1954. Yarborough's campaign manager, Jim Boern, countered: "Joe Greenhill won't cover up this. Joe Greenhill, as first assistant attorney general to Price Daniel, sat on the Veterans' Land Board and voted for deals."

The head of an anti-Parr faction in Duval County, County Judge Dan Tobin Jr., said he and his friends would support Daniel. Tobin said he thought Parr's public endorsement of Daniel was a "prepared trick to hurt the candidate." In a statewide broadcast from Beaumont Monday night Daniel said that "outsider pressure groups are trying to take control of Texas and dominate Texas politics this year." Daniel charged that CIO leaders are contributing to the NAACP to try to see that suits are filed to integrate our schools

Injured Airman Transferred

A-1C Robert Choquet is wheeled to an ambulance for transfer by air to Sheppard AFB Hospital at Wichita Falls. The airman has been unconscious for more than a week, since suffering a skull fracture in a traffic mishap. The Air Force reported Saturday that he had contracted pneumonia, but Webb AFB Hospital authorities denied the report Monday. Attendants pictured are Peggy Friedlein, Margaret Fallon, Willie Jackson, Robert Jones and James R. Fielding. (Air Force Photo.)

LATE BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Home runs blasted by Willie Mays and Stan Musial paced the National League to a 7-3 victory over the American League today in the 23rd All-Star baseball game at Griffith Stadium. Ted Williams and the injured Mickey Mantle homered for the Americans.

New Fire Truck Due This Week

The city's second new fire truck is due in Big Spring Friday or Saturday, Lt. John Waddill of the fire department reported today. The new equipment will be given its performance tests next Monday. The truck, as well as another new vehicle received recently, will be housed at the new station at 11th and Birdwell until a substation is opened on the north side of town. One of the vehicles then will be transferred.

Thrift By Baile Charge Is Filed

LAMESA—Marian T. Carroll, 37, has been returned to Andrews to face charges of theft by bailee. She was arrested here Sunday night by Sheriff Henry Mayfield who found Carroll asleep in a pickup truck belonging to the Virgil Day Plumbing Company of Andrews. The charges were filed in Andrews. Sheriff Mayfield made the arrest eight miles northwest of here.

Man Arrested In Highway Incident

An Austin man who tried to stop a Hobbs, N. M. woman on U. S. 87 near Sterling City early today found himself putting on the brakes at Big Spring. The motorist was halted here by city police after the incident was reported by Sheriff Bill Green of Sterling County. The woman identified the man as the one who had attempted to molest her, but said she would file no complaint. He was released.

Daughter Born To Dr. Glenn Allens

A daughter, Mary Catherine, has been born to Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Allen, 1414 Sycamore. The little girl, weighing seven pounds and three ounces at birth, is the third daughter for the Allens. She was born July 7 at Big Spring Hospital.

Borden Discovery Is Awaiting Storage After Making New Oil

A Borden County discovery shut in for storage Tuesday after rating 135.18 in the Spraberry section three and a half miles southwest of Gall. A northeast Borden wildcat was abandoned. At the same time preparations were made for a drillstem test in Humble No. 1 Koger, a southern Dawson exploration, below 7,900 feet. Cosden spotted an outpost in the Reinecke area of southeast Borden County, and there were inside locations in the Howard-Glasscock, the Moore, and Iatan-East Howard pools of Howard County and the Sharon Ridge pool in Mitchell County.

Borden

Anderson and Prichard No. 1 Clark, the Spraberry discovery southwest of Gall, awaited more storage after making 135.18 barrels of water in 24 hours. Production was from perforated zones at 6,490-6,525 and 6,556-70. Location is 1,580 from the north and east lines of section 3-31-3n, T&P, and is in a hole previously abandoned at 8,252 feet by Nelson Bunker Hunt Estate.

Howard

Continental Oil Company No. 15-A H. R. Clay will be a rotary test to 3,250 feet. Location is 900 feet from the north and west lines of section 129-29, W&NW, 3 miles southeast of Forsan.

THE CHART SAYS

Days Are Getting Shorter Again

The days are getting shorter — or had you noticed? For the past week, the sun has been making its debut just a fraction later than has been its wont and disappearing a little sooner than it was 10 days ago. Sunset on today is two minutes earlier than it was on July 1. Sunrise in the morning will be six minutes later than was the situation on July 1. The U. S. Department of Commerce has issued an official timetable on sunrise and sunset. The table lists more time statements — no explanatory notes are attached.

One would think that the old world in its steady march around the sun and its clock-like revolutions on its own axis would never vary. In other words, sunrise should steadily follow the same systematic seasonal interval of increase or decrease in time from day to day. Likewise for the time when the sun sets.

Not so, according to the official table. There are variations in the time for both. For example, one might think that if the sun rose at 5:45 a.m. on July 4, it should rise just a little later on July 5. The table records that the official sunrise time on both July 4 and July 5 as being the same. Sunset on the same days were also at the same minute each day.

Or take June 3. The sun officially appeared according to the table at 5:39 on that date. However on June 6, it got on the job a minute later. Then it makes up for its laziness, it showed up two days in a row — June 7 and June 8 — at the same time it had appeared on June 5.

All of which is puzzling to the lay sunbather but probably of not much significance. What should be pointed out — the days are now becoming shorter again.

of section 46-31-4n, T&P, was at 7,790 in shale. Continental No. 2-33 Good, C SE SE, 33-33-4n, T&P, was continuing at 7,912 on a core started in sand at 7,872. Cosden Petroleum Corporation and Tri-Service Drilling Company No. 1 E. Y. Murphy will be located 1,650 from the north and east lines of section 66-25, H&TC, as a 7,000-foot reef test. Its elevation is 2,319 ground level and it is on a 152.4-acre lease.

Dawson Humble Oil and Refining No. 1 R. C. Koger, C SE SE, 32-35-4n, T&P, was at 7,975 in lime and sand and was preparing to drillstem test the interval from 7,905-7,975. Superior Oil No. 1 Barnes-McGrayer, 330 from the south and west lines of Labor 24, League 271, Loving County CSL, was at 11,637 feet in sandy lime and chert. Warren Petroleum Corp. No. 1 Herman Burkett, C NE SW, 42-35-4n, T&P, was below 6,440 feet in shale. This test is located eight miles south of Lamesa.

Martin BEM No. 1 Cowden, 900 from the south and 660 from the east lines of section 31-40-1n, T&P, spudded and was at 153 feet in sandy clay.

Mitchell Hamerson Jordan Blackwell No. 2, Hamilton, 900 from the north and 330 from the east lines of section 9-27-1n, T&P, completed in the Sharon Ridge (1700) pool for 131 barrels of 27-gravity oil plus five per cent water. Total depth is 1,589, the 4 1/2-inch casing was set at 1,567, and top of pay was picked at 1,567.

Beckman No. 1 Butler, 330 from the north and west lines of section 28-29-1n, T&P, completed for 71.63 barrels of 28.5-gravity oil after topping pay at 2,945 and bottoming at 3,139. Production was through perforations from 2,945-65, 3,033-53 and 3,074-96. The 4 1/2-inch casing was set at 3,118 and the section was treated with 30,000 gallons. Gas oil ratio was negligible.

W. W. Holmes et al No. 2-B L. S. Patterson, 900 from the south and east lines of section 26-33-1n, T&P, six miles southwest of Big Spring is to go to 3,200 feet with rotary. Elevation is estimated at 2,350 feet. Phillips No. 1-B Johnie, C NW NW, 7-31-1n, T&P perforated from 6,494-49 and from 6,450-78 in the Spraberry and was pulling tubing and packer. It has shown no signs of commercial production. Phillips No. 2-B Johnie, 2,006 from the west lines of section 7-31-1n, T&P, was fishing at 9,575. Williamson and Alstrin No. 1 Buchanan, C SE SE, 13-32-1n, T&P, progressed to 9,182 in lime and shale.

Fleming Oil Company & Fleming & Kimbell No. 5-G Denman will be an Iatan-East Howard venture to 3,200 feet. It is to be 990 from the north and west lines of the south-

Soil Bank Sign-Up Starts In Dawson

LAMESA — Dawson County farmers have begun signing up for participation in the acreage reserve program of the soil bank, according to Eddie Brown, manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. Less than a dozen farmers had reported to the ASC office late Monday evening to sign up for the program, Brown said, and he made an appeal to all cotton producers in the county to sign up before the deadline, July 20. This is particularly important because in some cases various time consuming details make it important for the farmer to register in the program before the final day.

Twining Ran Up Against 'Blank Wall'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining said today he ran up against "a blank wall" when he tried on his visit to Russia to learn something about Soviet bomber production, guided missiles and nuclear weapons. "Though the welcome mat was laid out with a flourish, a careful hand was kept on the door," the Air Force chief of staff told senators.

"It was also our general conclusion that in the latest operational types as well, Soviet designers are having trouble achieving stability at high speeds," Twining said. "This was evidenced, among other things, by their extensive use of wing fences and foils to adjust the stream of air over wing and control surface."

Twining said he and his party got the impression the Soviet aviation command is made up of "rough, aggressive, resourceful leaders."

Telephone Firms Engaged In Suit

Two telephone companies are litigants in a civil suit filed in the office of George Choate, district clerk. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is suing the SCVAK Telephone Company, a local organization serving several West Texas communities in the Big Spring area. The plaintiff company says in its petition that it entered into an agreement with SCVAK to provide certain services at a stipulated fee and that efforts to collect the money due for these services have failed.

DAV Chapter To Meet This Evening

Disabled American Veterans of the Big Spring chapter are to meet at 7:30 p.m. today. Robert McKinney, unit commander, announced. Leaders of the chapter said some important business is on the calendar. The meeting will be in a new gathering place, the county courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse.

Radio Station Gets Reports On Reception

Radio Station KHEM, which started broadcasts Sunday, has received reports of reception as far away as Abilene, Stamford, Seminole, San Angelo and Odessa, Ken Welch, manager, reported today. Welch also announced that a new announcer has been added to the station.

Education Committee Will Meet Thursday

Chairman W. A. Hunt has called a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Education Committee for 5 p.m. Thursday. Plans will be completed for the short course in human relations to be conducted at HCJC next week. Other matters may come up. The session will be held in the Chamber conference room at the Permian Building.

Bond Is Posted In Dawson Rape Case

LAMESA — David T. Rowland has posted $750 bond on a charge of rape. The 17-year-old defendant is charged with having twice criminally assaulted a 15-year-old Latin American girl Friday night. The complaint alleged that he forced her into the car and then threatened her. He waived examining trial before Justice of Peace Jim Edwards.

Lions Receive Stadium Report From Murphy

Pat Murphy, business manager for the Big Spring Independent School District, gave members of the Evening Lions Club a verbal picture of the new stadium Monday. The structure, said Murphy, will have 5,000 seats on either side with 10x40 press boxes and 12x40 concession stands on each side. There will be three ticket booths and five entrances, and fans will enter the stands from ramps at the rear. Restrooms will be at the north end of the stands. There will be three 100-foot poles on each side of the field with clusters of 24 lights with 1,500-watts power each. In addition, the facility will contain public address system.

4 Wrecks, But No One Is Hurt

Four traffic mishaps, none producing injuries, occurred in Big Spring Monday. Police said Melburn Clark Mitchell, 1011 W. 3rd, and Ronald Eugene Smith, Webb AFB, were operators of cars in collision at Third and Johnson. Donna Scarber, 1922 Mittel, and D. F. Fenney, Mesquite City, were drivers of machines involved in a wreck in the 300 block of Edwards.

Storms Hit Central Texas

Late afternoon thunderstorms, which have been striking parts of the state the past week, concentrated on Central Texas Monday, bringing hail, high winds and downpours. A violent thunderstorm with 2.12 inches of rain ripped the roofs off barns, and broke tree limbs in Troy near Temple.

Angelo Oldster In Dawson Trial

LAMESA — Robert Elbert Lindley, 72, San Angelo, was due to appear in County Court today on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was picked up Saturday on U. S. 87 some five miles north of Lamesa by highway patrolmen.

No Date Secured With CAA Unit

No confirmation of a request made by Howard County Commissioners Court for an appointment with the CAA air space subcommittee at Fort Worth has been received by H. Weaver, county judge, said today. Weaver said that the county group had asked to consult with the committee at its July 20 meeting relative to plans under way here to build a county airport.

Officers To Pick Up Man In California

Rufus Davidson, deputy sheriff, and A. E. Long, juvenile officer, are on their way to Bakersfield, Calif. to take custody of a man wanted here to answer charges of theft and forgery. The two officers left Tuesday morning to pick up Tom Lee Glover who is being detained in Bakersfield for local authorities. Davidson and Long are expected back in Big Spring on Friday night.

LAMESA — David T. Rowland has posted $750 bond on a charge of rape. The 17-year-old defendant is charged with having twice criminally assaulted a 15-year-old Latin American girl Friday night. The complaint alleged that he forced her into the car and then threatened her. He waived examining trial before Justice of Peace Jim Edwards.

ASC Runs Out Of Soil Bank Blanks

Gabe Hammack, manager of the ASC office in the Howard County courthouse, had to make like Paul Reverse Tuesday morning. He had to dash to Stanton, to borrow a supply of application forms for the current soil bank benefit sign-up program. "I thought we had plenty of the applications on hand when the program began," he said. "I do not know just how many were shipped but I felt there were enough to carry us through the month."

Mishap In Old Courthouse Subject Of Civil Jury Trial

A suit for compensation which had its origin in 1954 when the old Howard County courthouse was being demolished was on trial before Judge Charlie Sullivan and a jury in 118th District Court this morning. Eduardo Mendosa, who speaks no English, is the plaintiff in the action which is brought against the Houston Fire and Casualty Company. Mendosa asks that he be awarded compensation for 401 weeks at the rate of $25 per week or a total of $10,025.

Edward Evans Dies In Sleep

Edward W. Evans, 72, retired farmer and a Howard County resident for 30 years, apparently died in his sleep this morning. Mr. Evans was found dead in his bed about 10 a.m. He had arisen about 7 a.m. but returned to bed for more rest. He had been in ill health for some time. Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the River Chapel with Vincent Larson officiating. Interment will be in the Trinity Memorial Park. Mr. Evans was a member of the Christian Church.

21 Absentee Votes Processed Monday

Twenty-one absentee ballots were handled in the office of the County Clerk Monday—first day that such voting was permitted under state election laws. Seven of the absentee ballots were issued over the counter to applicants who appeared in person to request permission to vote ahead of the July 23 primary date. Others were sent by mail.

CTC Engineering Panel To Meet

Engineering committee of the Citizens Traffic Commission is to meet at 7:15 a.m. Wednesday in CTC offices to round out recommendations to be submitted to the full commission at its Thursday meeting. George Oldham, executive secretary, said the group will spend part of the Wednesday session inspecting potential traffic hazards and other points involved in the recommendations. The CTC membership meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the county courtroom.

$319,000 HCJC Budget Proposed

A budget anticipating revenues and disbursements of $319,079 was proposed by the board of trustees of Howard County Junior College at the regular monthly meeting Monday. Public hearing on the suggested fiscal guide for the college has been set for 5:15 p.m. on Aug. 9 at the administrative offices in the college. (Details on the budget will be carried subsequently by The Herald.)

Rodeo Tickets To Go On Sale Soon

Distribution of tickets for the annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo will be started sometime this week, E. P. Driver, secretary, announced Tuesday. Patrons are urged to secure these as soon as possible to help solidify the financial picture for the annual celebration. Driver pointed out that the rodeo is a non-profit community enterprise, and it is wholly dependent upon support at the gate for its success and maintenance. "A long time ago," he said, "the association was set up so that no officer or stockholder or any one else connected with it could profit from its affairs. If and when the association makes any money it is placed back into improvements or is made available for 4-H Club and other youth programs."

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY MCCONNELL
Major League Coach and Instructor

GEORGE KELLS

In the game of baseball, it is generally the team that makes the most mistakes that loses. And the player who makes mistakes not only hurts his team—he also stands more chance of being injured. And it doesn't take much thought to determine that an injured player doesn't help his team or himself.

How many pennants have been lost because a key player didn't slide properly and thus received a serious injury? Perhaps two in the last three years in the major leagues. So you see how important it is to have your arms in the air, your feet off the ground and turned sideways as you slide into a base.

One of the commonest mistakes in backing up bases is that the player backing up doesn't get far enough behind the base.

The player who knows what to do on every play and is ready to do it as the play develops is the athlete who makes the most of his ability. He can even overcome physical handicaps as George Kells has done throughout his career to become of great value to his team.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
CHICK WERNER, Penn State track coach:
"We could keep our first team at home, then pick another team which would win the Olympics."

JOE WILLIAMS, New York sports scribe:
"Harry Kessler, the 'millionaire referee' out of St. Louis, says refereeing is his hobby. He should have picked out one that involved less responsibility... bird watching, for example."

ALVIN DARK, shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals:
"I don't intend to preach to anyone or moralize for them, but I believe the Lord gave us our bodies to care for, not to injure."

The late BILL KLEM, after Al Lopez had flung his bat high in the air in protest of a called strike:
"Young man, if that bat come down, you're out of the game."

COACH JIMMY DYKES of the Cincinnati Reds:
"Wally Post's home runs look like just another big can of corn. The outfielders get set to take them, but the ball keeps going, and going, like a balloon caught in the wind. Most of Post's homers keep rising up and up and float away like the ball was filled with helium or something."

HENRY E. BOLTE, premier of Victoria, Australia:
"We have at least 10,000 tennis courts in the city of Melbourne. Most of these are public courts. Night tennis is a big thing. This is the reason Australia does so well in world tennis."

ROCKY MARCIANO:
"As a fighter, Joe Louis was the greatest. I learned a lot from him. He was one of the big influences in my life. I read everything I could about him. I learned from his mistakes, too."

Writer EDWARD MURPHY, about one of Brooklyn's poorer teams years ago:
"Overconfidence may cost the Dodgers sixth place."

DeHART HUBBARD, ex-sprinter:
"I never knew of a record being broken when the athlete was trying to set one. On those occasions, he over-presses, becomes tightened and generally performs below average."

TALLULAH BANKHEAD, the actress, a great baseball fan:
"At the crest of his fame, Babe Ruth had a boy window and was 30 pounds overweight. But Babe's home runs kipped the box office. Fascinated by money, the club owners hunted for other Babes. None being available, they created ersatz Babes by hopping up the ball and pulling in the fences. Through this shabby device, home runs became cheap and frequent, but the box office boomed. It's easier to hit a home run in the Polo Ground or Ebbets Field than it is to hit a double or triple. If football were comparably corrupted, a first down would count more than a touchdown."

EDDIE ARCARO, famous jockey:
"While I'm riding I'm Eddie Arcaro. If I retire, I'd be just another little man."

Tut Bartzen Wins First Match In Western Play

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Top-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia swung into action today in the Western Tennis championships which saw only one ranked U.S. player eliminated in the opening day's play.

Allen Morris of Atlanta, seeded No. 5, yesterday fell before Joaquin Reyes of Mexico City, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Morris and Seixas will team in the men's doubles, which start this afternoon.

Second-seeded Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., the defending champion, downed Leslie Longshore of Anniston, Ala., 6-3, 6-3, after finding himself down 3-1 in the first set.

Bartzen, with two legs on the Western trophy, could retire the cup this year. Billy Talbert of New York, who won the Western in 1945 and 1946, had entered this year but defaulted yesterday.

Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J., seeded third, and Sam Giammalva of the University of Texas, No. 4, advanced through the opening round by an easy victory and default, respectively.

Women's play starts today with the No. 1 ranking given to Janet Hopps of Seattle. Karol Fageros of Miami is seeded No. 2, followed by Barbara Green, Los Angeles, and Mary Ann Mitchell of San Leandro, Calif.

Pension Credit Is Due Baseball Vets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major league baseball owners are expected to approve pension credit for ballplayers who served in the armed forces during the past five years.

Commissioner Ford Frick said the recommendation was agreed to yesterday at a meeting of the major league executive council and the ballplayers' pension committee.

Charles Segar, Frick's executive secretary, said approval is expected when the proposal is submitted to the 16 club owners at a meeting in August.

It's Friend Vs Pierce Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The selection of Pittsburgh right-hander Bob Friend and Chicago White Sox left-hander Billy Pierce as the starting pitchers for today's annual All-Star Game brought no change in the 6-5 odds favoring the American League over the Nationals.

A sell-out crowd of nearly 29,000 was certain to jam Griffith Stadium.

The game will be broadcast and telecast.

Manager Casey Stengel of the American League team had no trouble deciding on Pierce as his starter but Walter Alston, the National's skipper, did not settle on Friend until he was convinced the Pirate ace was fully recovered from a mild throat ailment that had sent him to bed Sunday.

"I talked with Friend," Alston said, "and he assured me he was feeling fine. He said there's nothing wrong with his throat. He has a little soreness there but it doesn't bother him at all."

Stengel, explaining the choice of Pierce over his own Yankee Whitey Ford, said: "Pierce has the best record in the league. I know he pitched Sunday but he went only five innings and that shouldn't bother him at all. I've got to start him after what he did against those guys (National League) before. He's pitched six innings against them and they haven't scored against him yet."

Stengel, a man of many innovations, said he may throw three southpaws against the power-laden National-Leaguers. His plan was to follow Pierce with Ford and Herb Score, the Cleveland fireballer.

Stengel's plans were subject to change, however, if Alston decided to send in his available right-handed hitting lineup as soon as possible. And the Dodger boss indicated he planned to do just that after the third inning. Under the rules he must play the players named in the fan vote for at least three innings.

Alston said he wasn't sure who would follow Friend to the mound. He thought he would use a left-hander for the middle three innings but the middle three innings were not decided.

"It all depends on the moves Casey makes. That is, what players he has in the game as it goes along."

Friend's work was cut out for him since six of the Americans' starters had left-handed, including the switch-hitting Mickey Mantle.

"If our first-line pitching won't go so well, there's no telling where we'd be. We've just got to get more hits before we press our luck too far."

Since Haney took over from the "resigned" Charlie Grimm at Brooklyn June 16, the Braves have scored an average of 4.7 runs a game in 25 games. They've won 17 of them, mainly because the opposition had been held to an average of 3.4 runs a game.

Burdette leads the staff and the National League with an ERA of only 2.12. Then, in order come Spahn, a left-hander who has been around a long time, with 2.81; Conley, 3.12; Crane, 3.19; and Buhl, 3.32.

Last year at this juncture in the race, the same Big Five had a combined ERA of 3.60.

Sports Claim Pair Of Wins

Shreveport's Sports finally have pulled themselves together, are on the move and threatening to climb into the first division of the Texas League after a dismal stay around the bottom.

Right now they're using the leading clubs as stepping stones. They had just finished beating the top club, Dallas, two out of three. Monday night they took on third place Fort Worth and licked the Cats in a double-header 5-0 and 5-4.

Pitching and the thundering bat of Ken Guettler put them over against the Cats. Ray Knoblauch hurled a 2-hitter and allowed only four runners on base in giving Shreveport victory in the first game. Guettler drove in three runs with a homer and a double to furnish the power that allowed the Sports to top the nightcap. It remained for Jack Wilkinson to win the ball game, however. He singled in the deciding tally in the tenth inning.

Shreveport moved into fifth place a game back of fourth place San Antonio. The Sports did it because Tulsa lost to Austin 5-4 and dropped to sixth.

Second place Houston was downing Dallas 6-2 in their struggle for the leading position. The Buffs licked the Eagles with a 5-run spurge in the third inning plus a 5-hit pitching job, by Tom Hughes.

Oklahoma City at San Antonio was postponed because of rain.

31 Courses Host Amateur Golfers

NEW YORK (AP)—Sectional qualifying rounds for the 56th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship will be scattered over three days at 31 locations, the U.S. Golf Assn. revealed today.

The qualifying rounds at San Francisco will be held August 21, those at Chicago, Portland, Ore., and Salt Lake City August 27 and the others August 28.

The 36-hole sectional tests will reduce the field to 200 players for the championship at the Knollwood Club, Lake Forest, Ill., Sept. 10-15.

Exemption from sectional qualifying is granted to all former American and British Amateur champions who enter, along with the 1955 Canadian Amateur champion.

San Francisco's Harvie Ward, who won at Richmond, Va., last year by handing William Hynemann III of Philadelphia a 9-and-8 beating in the final, is expected to defend the title.

Eight To Compete Against Swaps

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—A field of eight or nine is likely for Saturday's $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup at a mile and one quarter.

Swaps, after resting his split heel since the American Handicap July 4, had a long gallop yesterday. Trainer Meshach Tenney plans to blow out the big fellow Thursday.

Accepting the issue with Swaps will be Porterhouse, Llangollen Farm's winner of the $100,000 Californian; Bobby Brocato, stand-out horse of Santa Anita's winter meeting; Mister Gus, Honey's Alibi, Blue Volt, Alidon, Six Fifteen and possibly Colonel Mack.

Hollywood Park renews the Charles S. Howard $25,000 added stakes at 5 1/2 furlongs today. The race is for 2-year-old colts and geldings and will draw a field of eight, with Lucky Mel, winner of his last six starts, teamed with Mr. Sam S. and Joe Price, his stablemates, as the betting favorite.

Curfman To Trinity

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Raymond (Babe) Curfman will become assistant football coach of Trinity University July 16. He comes here from Stephen F. Austin College, where he was on the coaching staff.

Delighted

Shelly Mann of the Walter Reed Swim Club, Washington, D. C., emerges from the pool at Tyler, Tex., after setting a new world record in the 100 meter butterfly in the National Women's AAU swimming championships. Her time of 1:13.7 set by A. Vooij of Holland in 1955. The Walter Reed team, sparked by Miss Mann, who was high point winner of the meet with 21, wrapped up the team championship with 104 points. (AP Wirephoto).

Jesse Bogart Wins

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Jesse Bogart of Monterrey, Mexico, won a unanimous 10-round decision Monday night over Al Juergens, Texas welterweight champion, in a non-title bout.

Davis Triumphs

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Red Top Davis, 138, Hartford, Conn., won a split decision in 10 rounds Monday night over Rudy Jordan, 135, Los Angeles. The verdict was unpopular with the crowd of 1,100 at Cushman Field.

MIDLAND RIPS PACE SETTERS

By The Associated Press

Midland's second division Indians scalped the Southwestern League-leading Hobbs Sports 2-0 Monday night, 'n Hobbs retained its 7 1/2 game edge on its nearest opposition.

Second place El Paso dropped a 9-4 decision to Carlsbad, another second division club with a habit of beating the winners.

In other games, Clovis and Pampa split a doubleheader, with the Oilers taking the first 7-4 and the Pioneers the second 10-6. Ballinger outthrew Roswell for a 13-9 win and Plainview beat San Angelo 5-2.

Bill Stadnicki upset the league leaders for the Indians, setting the

Kenny Lane Wins Over Orleanian

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Michigan's Kenny Lane said today he was ready to pit his puzzling southpaw style against "the best in the division" after an upset victory over second-ranked lightweight contender Ralph Dupas of New Orleans.

The muscular Lane probably earned a spot among the division's top 10 with his 10-round showing against the stylish Dupas last night. He ran up a top-heavy margin in the early rounds and nullified Dupas' speed in the late rounds with superior punching power.

Dupas outweighed Lane a quarter of a pound at 139.

Brown To Tulsa

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Willie Brown is fast running out of Texas League clubs.

He joined his fifth yesterday when he was released by San Antonio and picked up by Tulsa. He started the season with Austin. Previously the hard-hitting outfielder had played with Dallas and Houston.

Dunagan Winner

Charles Dunagan defeated Lillian Burnett, 6-6, in the finals of the '11 years and above' mixed tennis tournament conducted by the YMCA Monday.

Baseball Tournament Starts Here July 19

Under the sponsorship of Big Spring's newest radio station, KHSM, an NBC district baseball tournament will be staged here the nights of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 19-20-21.

Tournament director will be the NBC district commissioner, Eddie Hammond, formerly of Big Spring and now of Odessa.

Hammond announced late Monday that at least four teams are entered in the tournament and several more "are trying to get in."

Webb Air Force Base of Big Spring will field a team. In addition, the Midland Tri-Services Colts and two Odessa clubs, the Eagles and Bell Construction Company, are tentatively committed to play.

Other clubs seeking entry, Hammond stated, include the Alpine Internationals and Grandfalls. Hammond said he also understood that a group of local college kids may form a team and try for the crown.

Winner of the meet here becomes eligible to compete in the state tournament at Sinton, Texas, in August.

Each team will be charged $10 to compete. That money will go to help pay for trophies and other expenses. Individual awards will be made during the meet, too.

Hammond has stated Admission fee will be 50 cents per person. Children under 12 will be admitted free, if accompanied by their parents. Hammond stated a special invitation would go out to Little Leaguers to walk through the gates free, if they are in uniform.

Box seats in the tournament will sell for $3 for the entire series. The lights are to be moved back from the football field to the park poles, the commissioner has announced. Steer Park has been dark since the professional ball club moved out after last season. However, it has been used for afternoon play on several occasions by local sandlot clubs.

Hammond said he discussed the possibility of holding the tournament in Lamesa with Odessa people at one time but decided against it, although that city had better facilities.

He thought interest in the game was higher here than it is in Lamesa, after gauging public interest.

Little League Stars Named To Perform For Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — Seven boys were named unanimously to the Lamesa Little League All Star team that will represent the league in the district tournament to be held later this month. The exact time and place of the tournament has not yet been set, according to Perry Roberts, Lamesa Little League president, who announced the balloting.

Four members of the Kiwanis team were named unanimously to the All Star team. They are Don Lybrand, Robert Snell, David Harris Jr., and Charles Wayne Burleson. The Jaycees furnished two to the unanimous balloting named Wayne Derstine of the Rotary team.

Lacking one vote of being named unanimously to the team were Larry Rosson, Kenneth Foster and Rex Cotton of the Lions team and Orville Russell of the Jaycees nine. Also named were Nicki Jackson, Lions; James Woods, Kiwanis, and Bob Sam Finnenkin, Rotary.

By Little League regulations, the All-Star team is composed of 11- and 12-year-old members of the teams. Eleven-year-old members are Woods, Burleson, Derstine and Foster.

Also getting votes to the dream team were Arnold McNeil and Kenneth Tomlinson, Lions; Larry Nance and Joe Woodrum, Jaycees; Keith Leatherwood and Thomas Zackary, Kiwanis; and Larry Carpenter, Rotary. The manager of the league winning team will manage the All Star Team with the second place manager being his assistant.

Each team will be charged $10 to compete. That money will go to help pay for trophies and other expenses. Individual awards will be made during the meet, too.

DAV Blasted By Fishermen

The Fishermen routed the Disabled American Veterans team, 33-7, here Monday afternoon to improve their chances for a second half championship in the National Minor Little League race.

The Fishermen started off with an 11-run first and added ten in the third.

The winners managed only ten hits but benefited from 19 bases on balls, handed out by four DAV hurriers, Tommy Erhardt, Curtis Saunders, Vernon Long and David Anderson marched to the mound for the losers.

Nashua Is Given Extra Poundage

OCEANPORT, N.J. — Nashua is expected to arrive here tomorrow by van from New York to try to collect some more folding green for the syndicate in the $100,000-added Monmouth Park Handicap Saturday.

The big 4-year-old son of Nasrullah, who scored a brilliant victory over Dedicate July 4 in the Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park, was assigned top weight of 129 pounds.

Five Starting Hurlers Ease Boss's Woes

MILWAUKEE — What are five reasons why Fred Haney is the envy of the other National League managers these days?

The round little manager of the Milwaukee Braves has that many starting pitchers — with a glittering combined earned run average of 2.91.

Where the second-place Braves would be today without Lew Burdette, Warren Spahn, Bob Buhl, Ray Crone and Gene Conley is open to conjecture.

"Figure it out for yourself!" Haney said before the All-Star break. "We're hitting around .260. We're doing right well when we score five runs in a game."

The Pirates, who were in the thick of the National League race until recently, already have surpassed their home attendance of last season. With 532,666 in the till, Pittsburgh should double its attendance of 1955 when it wound up with 469,397.

Cincinnati's surprising Redlegs have pulled 497,193 fans through the Crosley Field turnstiles for a gain of almost 125,000. They had 373,412 at this time a year ago and finished with 663,662.

Kansas City's huge decrease may be an indication of the novelty of major league ball is wearing thin in the A's backyard. Kansas City was one of eight big league clubs to exceed the million mark in 1955, collecting 1,393,054 customers. This year, however, the last-place Athletics, have played before 516,812 for a drop of more than 200,000.

Senior Circuit In Gate Gain

NEW YORK — The drawing power of Mickey Mantle and the New York Yankees, renewed fan interest in Pittsburgh and Cincinnati and a tumbling turnstile count in Kansas City are reflected in a mid-season survey of major league attendance figures.

The survey, by The Associated Press, also discloses that the National League, with a total of 4,038,907 customers, is more than 400,000 ahead of its 1955 figures. The American League, showing an attendance of 3,922,960, is more than 200,000 behind at the gate.

While the tight National League pennant race largely is responsible for the senior loop's gain, the Yankees are the prime reason the AL does not show a more marked decrease.

Casey Stengel's Bombers, comfortably in front in the flag chase, have attracted 676,638 fans at home for a gain of only 29,082. But with Mantle as the big attraction, the Yankees have played before 797,024 on the road for an

South And West Set The Pace

SAN FRANCISCO — The South and the West set the pace today as the 31st annual Amateur Public Links Championships went into the second and crucial round of qualifying play.

With Californian Scotty McBeath of Palo Alto holding a one-stroke lead among the individuals and the Memphis, Tenn., team ahead of the field, the play today determines the team championship and which 64 golfers will enter tomorrow's match play.

$150 PER WEEK
If you are willing to work hard for $200 and up per week don't pass up this ad! If you are a person of average intelligence, neat appearance, own a car, and won't be satisfied with less than $200 a week, I want to talk to you. I don't care what your previous experience has been, whether it was selling books, magazines, vacuum cleaners, appliances, pictures, brushes, or working in any other position. Experience not necessary. We give you complete training.
If you are able to open your mouth and talk to me, I will show you how easy it is to make $300 per week and more with this company. If you are accepted, you will be employed by one of the oldest and largest concerns in the country. You will be backed up by several million dollars of advertising. You will be given qualified contacts to keep you busy constantly, sent in by people demanding that our representatives call on them. This is a position with security for the rest of your life.
Get in on the ground floor now. You owe it to yourself and family to answer this ad. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

Aussies Warn Against Red Asia Strength

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Australia warned today against any big-power disarmament agreement that would leave the Communists with the largest military forces in Asia.

Australian Delegate E. Ronald Walker delivered the warning to the 15-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission. The commission is discussing the unsuccessful London talks of its five-country subcommittee held March 19-May 4 by Britain, Canada, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Walker remarked that disarmament proposals advanced by both major Western Powers and the Soviet Union emphasized the European and North Atlantic area. He conceded that was probably now "the determinant area in terms of world strategy and military and economic power."

But he said any formula fixing the size of various countries' forces must "take account of the responsibilities of the great powers in relation to collective security problems in Asia as well as in other areas."

"It is common knowledge that present Communist military manpower in Asia (particularly if Soviet Asia is included) enormously outweighs the military strength maintained by the non-Communist countries in Asia and the Pacific area," he said.

"Very considerable political consequences might flow from sanctifying such military predominance through levels of forces arrived at in purely global terms."

"The negotiation of force levels must therefore take account of the effect of any such agreement upon the security of smaller countries in various parts of the world."

In London, the United States and the other Western Powers proposed that first-phase disarmament reduce armed forces to 2 1/2 million men each for Communist China, the Soviet Union and the United States; 750,000 each for Britain and France; and 500,000 each for other countries. The Soviet Union proposed cuts to 1-1 1/2 million, 650,000 and 150-200,000, respectively.

Lamesa Church Youth In Camps

LAMESA — Members of the Junior Royal Ambassadors left Monday at noon to attend the District No. 8 camp being held this week at Big Spring. Under the leadership of Roy Byrd, chapter attending from the First Baptist Church are Gary Bradbury, Cecil Hatch, Earl Hatchett, Jimmy Henderson, Sherrill Kidd, John Minor, Rex Nolan, David Riker, and Jay Watson.

Attending with their pastor, the Rev. Giles Hankins, from the Northside Baptist Church are LeRoy Elmore, Max and Gary Jones, Johnny Allen, Bobbie Carter,erville Stevenson, Billy and Ray Barfield.

The Presbyterian Youth Encampment near Buffalo Gap is attended by Kathryn Koger, David Olson and Mike Schmidt. Their camp runs through Friday.

Delegates to the Methodist Youth Assembly of the Northwest Texas Conference being held this week at McMurry College in Abilene are Pam Price, Linda Peterson and Dell Davis.

Insect Infestation High In Dawson

LAMESA—Dawson County Agent Leroy Colgan said that boll worm and flea hopper infestation in parts of Dawson County is high.

Colgan urged farmers to check their fields as soon as possible to determine the extent of the infestation, either of worm or eggs. The Texas A&M extension service advises the use of insecticides when four or five small worms per 100 terminals appear. The fields should be checked regularly.

Don Fields, assistant agent, reported that flea hopper infestation is high in just about every field checked in the past several days. In at least three areas, Key, Welch and Woody, Colgan said boll worm infestation was high.

Sponsor Of Aid Bill Cut Predicts No Restoration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sponsor of a heavily cut foreign aid bill said today he does not expect the House to increase its amount despite an appeal from President Eisenhower for a "substantial" restoration of funds.

Rep. Passman (D-Ala) referred to scheduled House action tomorrow on the $43,600,000,000 foreign aid measure approved by the House Appropriations Committee. The bill is some $1,400,000,000 below Eisenhower's request.

"I do not anticipate an increase" by the House, Passman told a newsman, adding that if the Senate later votes for a bigger amount he will not "capitulate" in his efforts to keep a Senate-House compromise close to the lower House figure.

House Republican Leader Martin (Mass) handed to the Senate yesterday responsibility for any move to add funds to the bill. He announced at the start of debate that the House GOP leadership would make no concerted floor effort to restore money although, he said, "we believe the President is right" in protesting the cut.

Eisenhower mentioned no specific amount in a statement issued in Gettysburg, Pa., where he is convalescing from an intestinal operation. He indicated earlier he would be satisfied with about 4 1/2 billion dollars.

He asked that "a substantial part" of the funds cut be restored, and said it is his "earnest conviction that the successive slashes that the committees of Congress have made in Mutual Security funds are not in the best interests of the United States of America."

As the statement was issued, Congress was in the process of completing action on a compromise four-billion-dollar authorization bill setting terms and ceilings for the aid program—but not providing the money—in the book-keeping year which started July 1.

Both House and Senate passed the bill by voice vote and without debate, sending it to Eisenhower for his signature.

The House then went on to debate the separate appropriation bill, but put it on the shelf until Wednesday when leaders could muster only 57 of the 100 members required on the floor to transact business.

In the 1 1/2 hours of debate that did take place, Martin said he expects the Senate will "exercise better judgment" and "correct the errors that we made here" by the foreign aid cut.

"It makes no sense at this time, when the Soviet empire looks like it might be tottering or at least in serious trouble, to hold back on the defense of our country," Martin told the House. "That's exactly what this bill would do."

"My friends, I ask you with all seriousness, can we afford to cut the amount below what he (Eisenhower) says is necessary for the security of this nation?"

Passman argued with equal vigor for the reduction made by the Appropriations Committee on the basis of a recommendation from a subcommittee he heads.

As for the Senate correcting House "errors," Passman told his colleagues, the House itself has responsibility for looking after national security and it is composed of "435 of the finest Americans you have in this country."

He added that even "10 of the healthiest men in America" could not be doing all that Eisenhower is credited by aides with doing, and said congressmen should realize presidential requests are not all made by Eisenhower himself but frequently by others in his name.

Passman noted in an interview some $6,000,000,000 remains in funds unspent from previous years' foreign aid appropriations.

"We could have gone through this year without one dime and it would have never hurt the program," he said.

"As the House committee figures it, Eisenhower's total appropriation request for the fiscal year amounted to $5,071,875,000 — $4,859,875,000 plus $211,900,000 in requested reappropriation of carryover funds that would otherwise have reverted to the Treasury July 1.

The committee chopped the total to $3,665,920,000, a reduction of $1,405,955,000. Most of the slash was $1,236,100,000 cut from $3,166,600,000 Eisenhower sought for military aid to free world countries.

The authorization bill passed yesterday involved a somewhat different set of figures. However, both measures can be figured in terms of cuts—the authorization $744,900,000 below Eisenhower's request, the appropriation nearly twice that much.
