Neutralists' Parley

QUITE A TALE

Missing Texan Turns Up Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A young Texan, mysteriously missing since his fancy sports car was found shot up and abandoned last Monday night, reappeared today with quite a tale to tell police.

Officers had thought Eugene H. Robertson, 26, might have been murdered as there were four bullet holes in his car windows and blood on the front seat when it was found near a Hollywood hotel. But this morning Robertson telephoned police and told this story:

He was driving along the Hollywood Freeway last Monday night when two men in another car pulled alongside his. He thought they wanted to coax him into a race. Instead, they fired several shots at him.

He sped away and abandoned his car where it was found. He checked into a hotel then left the following morning for Texas by train.

Arriving in Texas, a friend told him of news accounts of his disappearance. He flew back, arriving early this morning and called police after resting at the apartment he shares with his brother, William.

Police were questioning him further.

The last person to see Robertson, who came here last month after selling an auto body shop at Sudan, Tex., was Miss Juanita Walker, 29. She had a date with him on the night he turned up missing.

She burst into tears when she identified photos of the blood-stained car. She said she dated the missing man's brother, William Robertson, first. "But he left town and then I dated more regularly with Gene," she added. "Gene was happy-go-lucky and good-natured, but he wasn't wealthy like some people have said."

Detectives reported that Robertson was rumored to have been a heavy spender in night clubs during his three weeks here but in recent days he had been borrowing money from Miss Walker and from his brother.

When the car was found, his lights were burning and radio was playing. A trail of blood in a nearby park has no connection with the case, officers said. The blood was traced to a drunk who fell and cut his head.

Extortion Attempt Made On Ex-DA

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Former district attorney Z.D. Allen reported to police last night that he received an extortion telephone call in which a man and woman demanded $5,000 on threat of harm to his two children.

An Indian informant said Nehru was cool toward the idea of a stand on Algeria by the three in their Yugoslav meetings. Nehru said during his visit to Paris that the fighting in Algeria must stop, but he added that he thought the French were "earnestly desirous" of bringing peace to Algeria.

Candidate Expense Statements Are Due

Candidates for county office, as well as those seeking election to the precinct and district offices, are warned the deadline for filing reports on primary election campaign expenses expires on Friday afternoon.

All candidates are required by Texas election laws to file a statement of the sums of money they have expended in their efforts to be chosen at the primary on July 28.

These expense accounts must be filed with the county clerk not later than close of business on July 20. Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said that most of the candidates in the current political races have already filed their reports.

A considerable number of the candidates in the county primary have no opponents and their reports list only the filing fee paid to the county Democratic committee and the announcements which were published at their request in the two newspapers in the county.

Candidates who have opposition have had to wage a more vigorous search for votes and their expense lists include other expenditures. These include advertisements and other campaign costs which are not necessary to the unopposed candidate.

Ike Health Center Of Senate Storm

WASHINGTON (AP)—The presidential campaign gathered heat today as the aftermath of a bitter Senate floor exchange over President Eisenhower's health.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.) and Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) challenged yesterday a speech in which Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.) said presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty "is shielding the American public from the truth" about Eisenhower's health.

McNamara called it "one of the most masterful suppressions of the facts ever put across by the advertising techniques of Madison Avenue."

Goldwater took issue with McNamara, saying:

"I deplore the use of the political technique which has been used in this body, where it has been suggested that the President of the United States is operating under sedatives, that the President does not even know his own condition."

Goldwater added that the political campaign can be conducted

"on a much higher plane than that."

This was in reference to McNamara's assertion that Hagerty called in the press and made announcements that the President is making important decisions.

"But does any newspaperman point out that those decisions were made—if they actually were made—when the President was still under sedatives; when he could not be making decisions or should not be if he really was?" the Michigan Democrat asked.

His face flushed, and his voice angry, Knowland said, "It seems to me that the remarks cast reflection upon the integrity of the President of the United States."

They cast reflection upon the integrity of the able and outstanding men of the medical profession who have attended the President.

Knowland said he hoped that no one on either side believes Eisenhower "would deliberately misrepresent to the American people the condition of his health or his ability or his capacity" to serve as President.

Hells Canyon Federal Dam Bill Dies In Senate

U.S.-Egyptian Relations Near A Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States relations with Egypt approached a showdown today in a meeting between Secretary of State Dulles and Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussein.

The immediate issue is a long-standing United States offer, made in cooperation with Britain and the World Bank, to help finance construction of a gigantic dam in the Nile River.

American officials are no longer certain that they want to go through with this project because they fear Egypt may be developing a pro-Soviet, instead of a truly independent, line.

Ambassador Hussein calls that idea unfair and says that his government's policy is one of "trying to preserve our independence."

Hussein returned Tuesday from a seven-week series of consultations with President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Cairo. He immediately declared that his purpose was to speed a final agreement on assistance by the West in constructing the $1,300,000,000 Aswan high dam. He said there never was any question on Egypt's part of its desire to obtain assistance from the West.

The offer last December specified that the United States and Britain would provide an immediate 70 million dollars, and an eventual total of 200 million, to help finance the project along with a 200-million-dollar loan from the World Bank. Egypt was to pay the remainder of the cost. The State Department yesterday whether the United States was prepared to go ahead with the offer.

"I would not want to answer that question," he said, "in advance of seeing the ambassador."

All I can say is that quite a lot of things have happened since the offer was made and those would have to be taken into account and will be taken into account in my talk with the Egyptian ambassador."

CD Unit On Standby Basis

Eight Texas cities will be "bombed" sometime tomorrow and the Howard County Civil Defense organization will be on a standby basis to render assistance in any event that may develop.

This theoretical test of Civil Defense preparedness will be marked by a single long note from a siren at Webb Air Force Base at some unannounced hours.

W. D. Berry, coordinator for CD in this county, said no plans for an active demonstration of his organization will be made. The key groups will be on alert for messages and reports.

No demonstration on a wide basis is possible due to opposition by business establishments, the highway department and other agencies to the inconvenience that such an operation would create to the public, Berry asserted.

The radio stations will be off the air for 15 minutes from 2:10 p.m. to 2:25 p.m.

Two frequencies will be employed in radio messages—640 kc and 1240 kc.

PANEL URGES OBSERVATION POSTS FOR SPACE SATELLITE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Establishment of at least 10 radio and 13 telescope-equipped visual observation stations to study the earth satellite was recommended today by the committee in charge.

The suggested locations were listed by Hugh Odishaw, executive secretary of the U. S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year. His speech, made available here, was prepared for the Western Hemisphere conference of the IGY in Rio de Janeiro.

The recommended locations, Odishaw said, "are but suggestive, for it is hoped that many more stations will be established by the nations participating in the IGY."

Odishaw said American rocket scientists hope to place "at least five or six" satellites in orbits around the world at different times during the 18-month cooperative scientific effort starting next July 1.

The recommended list of observation sites:

Optical stations: White Sands, N. M.; Cocoa Beach, Fla.; Venezuela; Netherlands Antilles; Quito, Ecuador; Antofagasta, Chile; Cordoba, Argentina; Bloemfontein, South Africa; Australia; Maui, Hawaii; southern Japan; India or Pakistan; Egypt or the east edge of the Mediterranean; southern Spain or French Morocco.

Radio-tracking stations: Santiago, Chile; Antofagasta, Chile; Lima, Peru; Quito, Ecuador; Panama; Antigua, British West Indies; Havana, Cuba; Jacksonville, Fla.; Washington, D. C.; and San Diego, Calif.

Photos Allowed At Marine Trial

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—Pictures of six corpses—the bodies of six Marine recruits drowned on a forced march into a swamp—were introduced into the court today.

Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, a former sergeant, testified that he saw the bodies of the recruits in the swamp.

McKeon's attorney, Emile Zola Berman of New York, objected strenuously on the grounds that he already had conceded the deaths and the only purpose of the "macabre" pictures was to inflame the court-martial board.

The 31-year-old staff sergeant from Worcester, Mass., is on trial for leading the six recruits to their death last April 8 in a soggy mud flat over which water flows from Rubber Creek at night.

McKeon is charged with involuntary manslaughter, oppression of recruits, drinking on duty and drinking in the presence of a recruit. All stem from the night march of Platoon 71.

As each photograph was offered in evidence, Berman objected on the grounds that they were "inflammatory and gruesome."

The law officer, Navy Capt. Irving N. Klein of New York City, said the photographs could be used only for the purpose of identification.

His ruling came after Berman said that if McKeon took the stand and the pictures were shown to him, he would submit a motion for mistrial.

"They will not be used," Klein said, "for the purposes of shaking the accused."

Yesterday the court visited the swamp-edged creek into which McKeon marched his recruit platoon.

A misunderstanding barred newsmen from accompanying the court to the creek. Since the court legally was in session, Col. Edward L. Hutchinson of Woodbury, N. J., ruled no pictures could be taken during the inspection. The order was interpreted by subordinates to mean all members of the press were barred.

Members of the court permitted pictures to be taken as the party returned from the creek. Photographers were not permitted to join the court at the water's edge.

Armed Marine military policemen stopped reporters following the group. The newsmen made a protest to the court and Hutchinson then directed the recorder to

Vote Marks Major Victory For Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today killed a bill to authorize a 485-million-dollar federal dam in the Snake River at Hells Canyon on the Idaho-Oregon border.

A roll call showed 51 votes against and 41 in favor. The vote, marking a major victory for the Eisenhower administration, climaxed a hot debate which went far to build up public- vs. private power as an election-year campaign issue.

In the end, Southern Democrats joined Republicans to defeat the bill, tagged by Western Democrats as a symbol of their fight against what they call "resources giveaways" by the Eisenhower administration.

Republicans presented an almost-solid front against the bill. Democrats charged in debate that intensive White House pressure had been exerted on GOP members.

Sen. Murray (D-Mont.) was first up in favor of the bill.

Murray, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, said the proposed 485-million-dollar federal project would produce twice as much power as three private utility dams licensed by the Federal Power Commission.

The federal power, Murray said, would sell at one-third the cost of the private power. He said the big project also would provide superior flood control and other benefits.

"The issue here," Murray declared, "resolves itself into a single question: Shall Congress surrender its prerogatives to an independent agency (the FPC) that is the creature of the Congress?"

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said the private vs. public power issue "is going to be one of the biggest issues in the next few months and Hells Canyon will top the list."

"The basic issue in the Hells Canyon controversy," Mansfield said, "is whether a public resource will be fully developed or whether a part of it will be wasted."

Lamesa Woman Is Found Shot

LAMESA—Mrs. J. W. Henderson, 65, given only a 50-50 chance to live, apparently was "holding her own" at noon today in the Price-Black Hospital.

She was critically wounded by a shotgun blast in her home at 8:20 a.m. today. Her physicians said some of the pellets from the gun struck her heart but did not tear through the organ.

Frank Ashton, a neighbor youth, heard the shot as he worked in the yard next to the Henderson home at 210 N. 13th. He investigated, found both doors to the house locked and entered through a window. He said Mrs. Henderson lay on the floor with the gun under her body.

She was under shock treatment at the hospital at noon. Her husband, a carpenter, was at work at the time of the shooting. Mrs. Henderson has been in ill health for several years, friends said.

Sheriff Henry Mayfield is investigating the incident.

Allowable Remains At August Level

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP)—The Railroad Commission set the August permissive flow of oil in Texas today at 3,384,744 barrels daily based on 16 producing days—the same as for June.

Exceptions to the order were the 13 days of production allowed for the Fort Chadbourne and Sandusky fields.

Humble, Sun and Texas Co. were the only three oil companies recommending the 16-day production pattern. Representatives of other companies at the statewide oil prorating hearing recommended from 13 to 15 days.

Replying to these suggestions, Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson said that Texas crude oil stocks had been decreasing at a rate of 100,000 barrels daily for the last 30 days.

Thompson said present stocks now were six million barrels less than a year ago.

Thompson said stocks were 121,153,000 barrels in Texas compared with 128 million barrels a year ago. National stocks are 273,286,000 barrels.

State Money Probe Brings On Reshuffle

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A sharp reshuffle has taken place in the Illinois auditor's office as investigators press for more information on at least half a million dollars in missing state money.

Orville E. Hodge, who quit as auditor under fire Monday, is in the midst of a lengthy quizzing by the state's attorney.

He spent five hours closeted with State's Atty. George Cottracou yesterday. Cottracou will continue the question Friday.

After the session, the state's attorney made only guarded replies to reporters' questions.

"I don't have any promises of a plea of guilty," he said. "I haven't made any promises. None were discussed."

"Nobody should draw the conclusion of no prosecution," he added. This was in reply to a question as to whether Hodge's stated intention to make restitution, to the extent of his resources, meant a prosecution might be dropped.

Meanwhile, Dr. Lloyd Morey, president emeritus of the University of Illinois who was named by Gov. William G. Straton to succeed Hodge, dismissed two Hodge aides.

He fired Lloyd E. Lane, supervisor of payroll accounts, and Thomas F. Shanahan, custodian of the auditor's warehouse, in which records are stored.

Presidential Deadline Puts Pressure On Steel Parley

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Reports of a presidential deadline for a settlement put new pressure on steel contract negotiations today.

Federal Mediator Joseph F. Finnegan was on hand again for resumption of the talks as the strike rolled into its 19th day.

Despite reports that President Eisenhower has indicated he will intervene unless the contract differences are settled within a week, there was no apparent progress in yesterday's talks. The session lasted two hours. There was no comment from either side.

Finnegan participated in a White House discussion where the President was reported to have gone over the situation with his top economic advisers.

Newspaper reports said the administration warned the steel companies and the United Steel workers to iron out their contract difference within a week. There were implications, the reports said, that the administration might otherwise invoke the Taft-Hartley law.

Under the Taft-Hartley procedure, the 650,000 strikers could be ordered back on the job for an 90-day cooling off period while a government board inquired into the dispute.

Finnegan said he did not know of "anyone" setting an arbitrary deadline for settlement, adding:

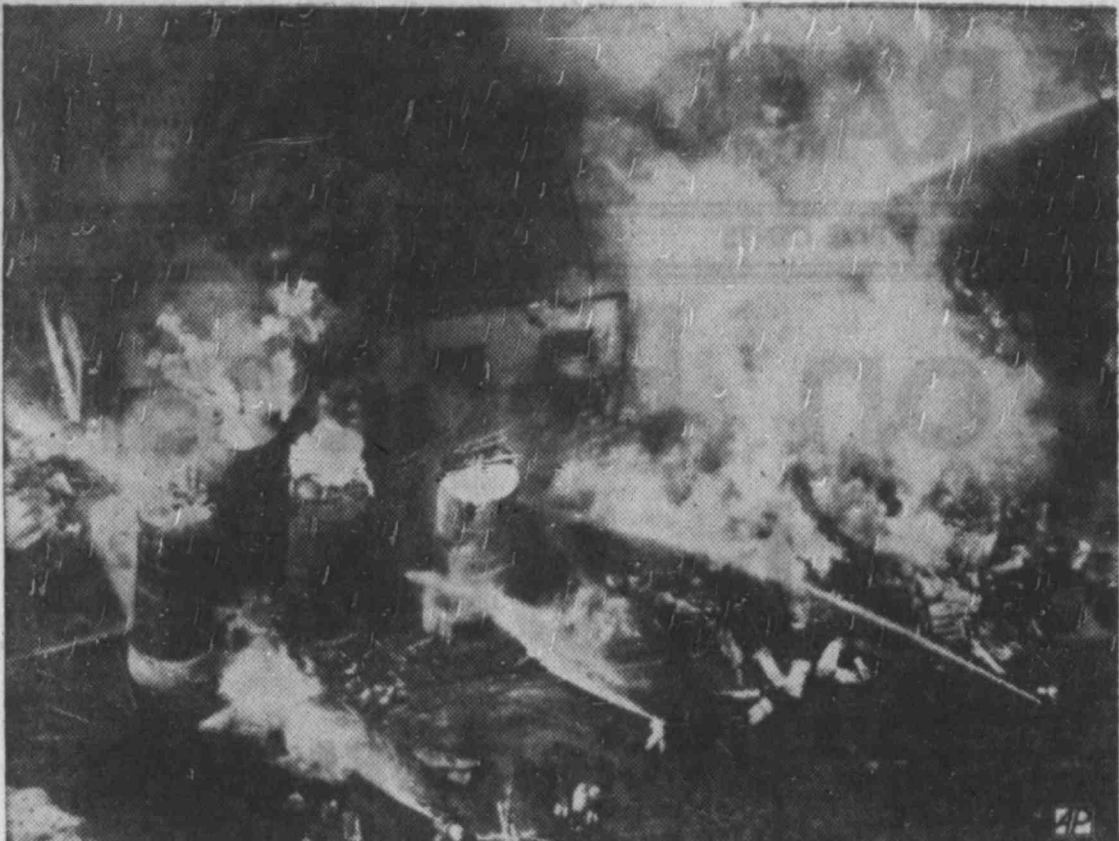

"The whole tenor of the talks (at the White House) was toward solving the difficulty under normal collective bargaining procedure."

Finnegan said Eisenhower sent an identical message to both the industry and union. He declared the message expressed concern about economic effects of the strike "but more important, for the 650,000 workers, who are on strike."

Safeway Reports Further Gain In Net Earnings

OAKLAND, Calif. — For the second time in 1956, Safeway Stores, Incorporated, reported a major gain in net earnings over those for the same periods of last year. Today's report expands the company's new, more profitable trend into three-fourths of a year.

Earnings per share, after all income taxes and after establishing substantial reserves to cover unusual and non-recurring charges, were $1.41 for the 12 weeks ended June 16, 1956. This was 96 per cent larger than the 72 cents reported for the second 12-week period of 1955.

Income upturn commenced in the last 16 weeks of 1955 when net earnings per share increased 57 per cent over those for the same period of 1954. This was followed by a report for the first 12 weeks of 1956 when net earnings per share improved 93 per cent over the initial period of 1956.

Today's second 1956 report shows further improvement. The new gains, continuing through the last three periods, reversed an earlier declining profit trend.

Comparing results for the first 24 weeks of 1956 with those for the same period last year, net income — after taxes and after a substantial reserve — amounted to $9,925,271, 79 per cent larger than the $5,533,500 of last year.

Barbecue Planned By Yarborough Backers

A barbecue for supporters of Ralph Yarborough for governor will be staged Friday evening at the A. E. Stages construction warehouse on East Highway 80.

Frank Hardesty, county campaign chairman for Yarborough, said that persons interested in working for the election of Yarborough as governor are invited. Plans will be made to wind up the campaign next week.

Two Fires Cause Minor Damages

A small fire behind the Settles Hotel Wednesday was started in a pile of trash, but no damage resulted. Actual cause of the blaze was not determined.

Two New Doctors At State Hospital

Two new doctors have joined the staff of the Big Spring State Hospital. They are Dr. Phillip Deza and Dr. William Horboly.

Deza, a native of Argentina, has just finished his residency at Galveston and Horboly, who is from Corpus Christi, recently finished a tour of duty with the service. Horboly is married and has two children but his family has not yet moved to Big Spring.

Absentee Voting Will End Tuesday

Tuesday will be the last day Howard County voters can apply for absentee ballots for the July 23 primary election.

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said Wednesday afternoon that 131 ballots have been handled in her office since the opening date for absentee voting.

Eighty-eight of these were voted by persons who came into the office personally. Nine others sent off by mail have been voted and returned to the office. Remainder of the ballots in the 131 total are still in the hands of the voters. They can be voted at any time to election day.

The deadline on July 24 is for application for such ballots, she pointed out.

Attack Victim Is Former Forsanite

FORSAN — Mrs. Thelma Layton, 42, preacher's wife who was wounded by two Negro boys in Houston Monday night, was reported "resting well" in Methodist Hospital at Houston today.

Mrs. Layton, the former Thelma Shipman of Forsan, married W. Wallace Layton, Church of Christ minister, when he served a church here several years ago. She also is a former resident of Stanton, where she graduated from high school.

The minister's wife received knife wounds when two boys broke into the Layton home Monday night. The boys were apprehended by Houston police.

MARINE

guards... with full knowledge that members of the platoon could not swim," said Thompson of a hypothetical case similar to McKoon's, "it would be maltreatment."

He made the statement during cross examination by defense attorney Emile Zola Berman. Thompson declared that he had never heard of similar night marches in his battalion.

Concluding witness yesterday was this 5,000-acre training center, provost marshal, Maj. Stanley M. McLeod of Spring City, Pa. McLeod a former enlisted man, described the events of the night of April 8 as he figured in them.

He testified he got a call about 9:45 p.m. to come to the creek behind the units of Rifle Range C. There he organized a search for the missing recruits, lost in the tidal waters.

He told of ground search parties, of lighting the area, of organizing boats and finally of the long job of searching the creek bottom with grappling hooks for the bodies.

McKoon sat impassive and rigid as McLeod described the scene. Back among the spectators sat Mrs. Maggie Meeks of Savannah, Ga., mother of recruit Pvt. Thompson, a Guardsman, who drowned. She watched with a narrowed forehead.

The mother and the sergeant met for the first time during a short court recess.

"I hope the Lord will forgive you," she told the sergeant. There were tears in McKoon's eyes.

Later, a big bluff marine sergeant testified he had never heard of anyone drowning in Ribbon Creek before the recruits marched to their deaths.

The blind-folded sergeant, John E. Clement Jr., appeared as an expert witness in McKoon's eyes.

Clement told the court he was present when a skin diver found the last of the bodies.

"As soon as he pulled it out of the mud" in the creek bed, Clement said, "it popped to the top like a cork."

Off and on since 1945 Clement has been stationed here as a member of the water transportation unit. He calls home where he hangs his hat in the Corps he served for 18 years.

Berman asked Clement if he had ever heard of any Marines being marched through the marshes, swamps and creeks surrounding Spring Island.

Sevier objected to the question. "That is the only issue in this case," Berman retorted.

"The government will continue to object," said Sevier.

Clement said he hadn't heard of any drowning.

FORSAN — Mrs. Thelma Layton, 42, preacher's wife who was wounded by two Negro boys in Houston Monday night, was reported "resting well" in Methodist Hospital at Houston today.

District Methodist Youth Picnic Held

LAMESA — Members of the Clark Methodist and First Methodist MYF attended a District Picnic held Monday evening in Big Spring. Registration was held at the First Methodist Church with the picnic being in the park. Rev. Richard Deats, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, Big Spring, was the speaker. The inspirational portion of the program was held in the amphitheatre.

Two new doctors have joined the staff of the Big Spring State Hospital. They are Dr. Phillip Deza and Dr. William Horboly.

Water Problem, Convention Occupy Governor Hopefuls

Water conservation, control of the July 23 precinct conventions and a few side pokes at opponents occupied most of the Texas Democratic candidates for governor Wednesday.

One candidate, J. Evetts Haley, went to San Diego to thank political boss George Parr for not supporting him.

Sen. Price Daniel at Kerrville and again at Lubbock said the "bickering and delay" in solving the state's critical water problem must stop and urged a long-range water and soil conservation program. He also said Democrats must not let "CIO labor bosses dominate the July 23 elections" and the Democratic party out of the hands of labor bosses like Walter Reuther.

Ralph Yarborough met with Valley residents and outlined a water plan to conserve water. He said 80 per cent of the state's rainfall ran into the Gulf of Mexico. Yarborough also challenged Daniel to explain why he voted in the Senate against an amendment to extend social security benefits.

At Cockrell Hill in Dallas County, W. Lee O'Daniel renewed his pledge to build a "big lake in the Panhandle" and pipe water to the rest of Texas. He also repeated his opposition to desegregation and promised veterans' bonuses and bigger old age pensions.

J. J. Holmes, who endorsed O'Daniel, said he had heard of any Marines being marched through the marshes, swamps and creeks surrounding Spring Island.

Sevier objected to the question. "That is the only issue in this case," Berman retorted.

"The government will continue to object," said Sevier.

Clement said he hadn't heard of any drowning.

U.S. Is Industrial Champ, Russia A Hungry Rival

(This is the last of a series of articles and a summation of what a financial expert found on a trip to Russia.)

By J. A. LIVINGSTON
Let's not kid ourselves. We can't draw exact mathematical curves of the Soviet Union's economic progress. We can't say with any year or even five years how long it will take Russia, at present rates of industrial growth, to catch up with this country.

We don't know whether the Russians can maintain their recent pace. We don't know whether America's rate of growth, which also has been high in postwar years, is permanently higher, or will gradually recede to prewar levels.

But we can say this much with some assurance: It will take the Russians about 30 years to catch up—if they can catch up at all. And 30 years is a long, long time.

In which much can happen. We know what the Soviet leaders are doing, and why. They're concentrating on military devices and industrial equipment; this to enable them to impose Communism, the Soviet system, the Russian will, on the world—either by force or persuasion, which means unused force or the threat of force.

NUCLEAR RESEARCH
Let's not underestimate Soviet accomplishments. U. S. nuclear physicists, who have met Russian physicists, report they have knowledge, learnhow, and plenty of money to pursue their research.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of staff for the U. S. Air Force, warned Congress that Russia could procure a "scientific breakthrough and consequent technological surprise in new weapons." Russian scientists, engineers, and industrialists "know their way around" hydrogen explosions and jet planes.

And yet, we aren't underestimate our own strength either. In the battle for industrial leadership, a battle in which we start with a productive capacity two and one-half to three times that of the Soviet Union, we can count these comparative blessings:

1. Technological and industrial depth. American manufacturing, mining, and transportation equipment and methods are generally the most advanced in the world. In the Soviet Union, engineers, technologists, and technicians are constantly studying and copying American methods. The libraries are full of American business and technical magazines—photostated and distributed by the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences.

The U. S. has more executives trained in the techniques of modern production and distribution. Youngsters, coming up through high school and college, have first-hand at-homeliness with mechanical contrivances. Soviet youngsters aren't brought up tinkering with autos. A subway motorman or a taxicab driver is an uncommon fellow. He gets 2,000 rubles a month versus an average worker's 700 to 750 rubles. Driving is an unusual skill in Russia, highly valued by the commissars.

INDUSTRIAL CORPS
The Soviet leaders are striving to build up a well-rounded industrial corps—technologists, engineers, scholars—to foster economic development at home and "export Communism" abroad by building dams or steel mills in China, India, Egypt, and elsewhere. The mere chore of training workers for industry is an imposing task. In the Rustavi Steel Works, near Tbilisi, Georgia, built in 1946, production

Old Chemical May Avoid Skin Cancer

HOUSTON—A peculiar pigment-controlling chemical, used for centuries by Egyptians and people of the Middle East, has been found to be a possible factor in the induction and prevention of skin cancer.

This has been disclosed by the American Cancer Society through research by Dr. A. C. Griffin and M. A. O'Neal of the M. D. Anderson Hospital, Texas University, and Dr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, Oregon University School of Medicine. Dr. Fitzpatrick first experimented with the chemical on mice, but it since has been proven for man. Dr. Griffin orally took a small dose several hours before brief exposure to the sun, and the small amount of sunshine immediately turned his skin into a deep tan.

The same resulted from test spots on Dr. Griffin's arm and leg. In three days, the spots blistered, but in 10 days, they had turned a deep bronze.

The chemical is called psoralen. It can be extracted from many kinds of plants throughout the world, but in the Middle East where it is best known it is derived largely from citrus and fig trees.

Some scientists believe that it may have played a part in Nature's determination of races and their survival. By a "survival of the fittest" rule, according to the theory, it could be that genetically light-skinned people were weeded out of tropical climates by skin cancer, while dark-skinned people were protected over the ages by psoralen they received in their diet and the skin-darkening effect of the compound.

A thorough test of animals and results on them led to human experiments designed to show whether per man is about one-third the average in the U.S., and about one-sixth the level in our most modern plants. One reason: Georgian peasants haven't caught on to the ways of steel mills. For the Soviet Union, industrial greatness is still on the drawing boards and in the school rooms.

2. Excellent agriculture. Of this, the American crop surpluses are the best evidence. In the Soviet Union, on the other hand, hunger and famine are always knocking on the door. About 550,000,000 Soviet acres are arable. But adjusted to climatic hazards—cold, short growing seasons, and light rainfall—production efficiency is rated only 70 per cent of America's 400,000,000 arable acres. Yet there are 20 per cent more mouths to feed in Russia than in the U.S.

Communist Party Leader Khrushchev has embarked on a calculated "risk—poking up new lands—beyond the Urals. V. V. Matako, deputy premier in charge of the agricultural program, told me that the best he hopes for is two excellent years and two mediocre years out of every five. One year in each five would be a failure, as was 1955, the first year of the new-lands experiment.

AGRICULTURE HANDICAP

Agriculture is the Soviet Union's greatest handicap. Technology can do much—machinery, better livestock methods, and fertilizer. But nature—a combination of desert land, cold, great distances, and inadequate and mischievous rainfall is more unyielding than a Soviet "nyet."

3. A population accustomed to initiative, to decision-making. In elections, Americans are expected to choose officers to run the government; in labor unions and clubs, they speak out and again elect officers. In business, men change jobs, invest in machinery, start businesses.

Russia's long history of dictatorship, under czarism and Communism, has developed a nation of disciplinarians and disciples. In industry, workers are told what to do. On collective farms, what to plant and how much is determined from on high. Most industrial managers hesitate to try new ideas.

India compares the Soviet steel mill in India compares the steel plant being built by the Kaiser Co. and the plant being built by an English group.

This is an economic contest for men's minds and hearts. To win it, these are five do's and don'ts for Americans. We must:

CHALLENGES TO U. S.
1. Avoid a depression. For years, Soviet economists have been telling the world that an American collapse is just around the corner; that capitalism is unstable. We are proving, and must continue to prove, "it ain't so." In this, we'd be merely carrying out the mandate in the Employment Act of 1946.

2. Cut tariffs and get the part of a country which is both a great creditor and a great industrial nation. The Russians seem to have a trade advantage. A few men at the top make decisions. If they feel it helps them politically, they'll barter for Egyptian cotton or Burmese rice. Soviet labor or materials can be given away.

American corporations can't dump: they have profits to earn, dividends to pay, shareholders to satisfy. Moreover, in America, trade policies are determined by Congress. We're already providing economic aid abroad. But, in the long run, we've got to demonstrate the feasibility of "trade not aid." We can do that only by buying, by making dollars plentiful abroad—so that other countries, having dollars, will rather do business with the U.S. than with Russia.

Parentetically, it's well to remember that the Russians haven't given much away. They've been tough barterers. And they don't have much to give away. They have so much to do at home.

STRONG MILITARY

3. Maintain a strong Army, Air Force, and Navy, and the research necessary thereto. This has a double purpose: It prevents Soviet aggression. And it puts pressure on the Soviet leaders. If they insist on an arms race plus an industrial race, let's let them have it. I personally believe that the Soviet Union wants a respite from armament production; that eventually, because of domestic pressures for improved living, the Soviet oligarchy will make a move toward realistic reduction in armaments.

But, until that happens, we cannot afford to relax. Peace talk isn't peace action.

4. Open the doors to an exchange of intellectuals with the Soviet Union. This doesn't mean inviting Soviet engineers and scientists to come to the U. S. to inspect all secret installations or new processes. We can give them the welcome, hand-on-door treatment they gave Gen. Twining and give all westerners. But I do think it would be advantageous to try to send U. S. students to Russian universities and permit Russian students to come here; also permit an exchange of professors. If the Soviet bigwigs are willing to expose Russian minds to American ideas, we can readily expose American minds to what the Russians have to offer. We need more Americans to know a good deal more about the Soviet Union—so that we neither overestimate nor underestimate Russian capabilities.

Further, as Soviet industry becomes more complex, the engineers, scientists, and industrial managers will have greater power in making decisions, greater influence in planning. Today, the Red Army gets top priority on steel and scientists. But later on, plant managers, scientists, engineers and others among the intellectual elite may be willing and able to press for less militarism and more for consumers, culture, and a freer way of life.

THE RIGHT ATTITUDE
5. Not poo-poo everything the Russians do. When Khrushchev and Marshal Zhukov announce a reduction in the armed forces, let's act pleased, call it a step in the right direction, rather than criticize and say it's nothing and long overdue. A dog-in-the-manger attitude doesn't help our status with undecided nations, nations that are trying to make up their minds.

6. Finally, we've got to examine our own social order in this age of "competitive coexistence." Ours is a business man's society. The greatest financial rewards go to business men—the men who run corporations, strike oil and get the benefit of depletion allowances on taxes, or speculate successfully. When Charles E. Wilson resigned as president of General Motors Corp. to become Secretary of Defense, he not only had to sell his G. M. stock, but took a 95 per cent cut in salary. Recently Gen. Alfred M. Gruentzer, commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe, announced plans to retire for "private reasons," presumably to accept one of the many offers that industry is known to have made to him. He's 57. And so a distinguished Army career is cut short by the blandishments of business.

GOVERNMENT PAY
In our society, we may not be paying sufficient to the management side—not the management side of business, but the management side of the system itself. We don't give financial encouragement to people who want to go into government—the State Department, the Army, the Air Force—into teaching, into research; to people who have to be as keen, as brilliant, as self-respectful as their counterparts in the Soviet Union, where the greatest rewards go to the commissars, engineers, doctors, professors, industrialists, and intellectuals. By paying the government less, we encourage people to leave the government and go into business. We can't afford to do that.

Washington (AP)—A bill awarding special medals to the four living veterans of the Civil War was signed yesterday by President Eisenhower.

Estimated cost of the medals is about $3,500. They would be given Albert Woolson, Duluth, Minn., who served in the Union Army, and to William A. Lundy, Laurel Hill, Fla., John Salling, Slant, Va., and Walter W. Williams, Franklin, Tex., all Confederate veterans. Each is more than 100 years old.

Pleads Guilty To Bad Check Charges
Although he protested that both checks described as bad in the complaint against him had been paid off, J. B. Dean, charged with passing worthless checks, pleaded guilty in court Wednesday afternoon.

He was sentenced to pay fines of $10 each in the two cases. One of the checks was for $10 and the second for $2. Dean insisted voluntarily to the court that he had "settled" both checks.

Seek Entries In Farm Bureau Queen Contest
The Howard County Farm Bureau is making plans for its annual queen contest and is urging that girls from 16 to 22 years of age enter this beauty contest. Each contestant must be a daughter or sister of a Farm Bureau member actively engaged in agricultural production.

The winner of the county contest will be eligible to enter the district contest, and the winner of it will be sent to the state meeting, with all expenses paid. After each state winner will compete in the national contest at Miami, Florida, in December.

Any girl who wishes to enter the county contest may make application by sending a postal card to the Farm Bureau office at 117½ Rannels Street, or by telephoning AM 4-5612.

Law Enforcement Plan Has Merit

While many of the aspirants to state office are clamoring about cleaning up the "Austin mess," there have been remarkably few proposals on how to go about this chore. Most candidates just say "send me down there and I'll take care of it."

And so a meritorious plan in this direction is that of Price Daniel, one of the stronger candidates for governor, and the one man to offer something specific in the field of law enforcement.

Daniel's plan is to have a sort of grand jury — if you want to call it that — made up of one citizen from each of the state's Civil Appeals districts, a total of eleven. These, to start with, would have been named by a commission from each district, itself having been organized by a grand jury appointee from each county.

What could be created here would be a criminal investigating commission not tied to any state official, not subservient to any administrator, through appointment. The organization of the commission starts back at the grass roots, and the best law-abiding citizens in the counties could have a direct part in naming this law-enforcement commission. Then, given sufficient money to select an able and honest staff, this commission could get work done that probably has never been touched before.

The established grand jury system in Texas is strong within itself, but in the instances of the veterans land and insurance scandals the scope has been so broad that not one grand jury could encompass it all. Indeed, some grand juries may have been at cross purposes.

Price Daniel at least has come up with a definite proposal that is worth consideration. It must be said to his credit that he is the only man in the governor's race who has been this definite. It demonstrates that he is concerned with the welfare of state government — above and beyond the level of demagoguery — and that he can be trusted to be alert to law enforcement needs.

It is this type of action that adds to the appeal of Price Daniel as a choice man for the Texas governorship.

Those 'Integration' Issues On Ballot

Advanced voting by absentee voters indicate a heavy turnout for the July 28 Democratic primary. These are even signs that the large field of gubernatorial candidates can whip up more interest than seemed possible in the early weeks of the campaign, and here and there some enthusiasm has broken out in spite of the man-killing heat and aridity of the weather.

There seems little interest in the three referendums tacked onto the ballot as a sort of afterthought, though a great deal of controversy over their presence there pro and con. Though these "yes" and "no" propositions are couched in different words in different counties, to the confusion of the voters in many instances, an AP dispatch boils them down to this:

"1. For (or against) specific legislation exempting any child from compulsory attendance at integrated schools attended by white persons and Negroes."

It is well to remember that none of these proposals has any force of law; they are mere straw votes, a public-opinion poll. But this particular proposal, if enacted into law, could do infinite mischief to our public school system, for this reason: it would destroy or make unenforceable the state's compulsory attendance law for children of school age, a backward step of 40 years or more.

"2. For (or against) the use of interposition to halt illegal federal encroachment." Interposition is a will-o'-the-wisp, a chimera, valid only as a talking point for politicians. A futile catchword, a gimmick that might interfere with more effective and negotiable approaches to a very grave national problem.

"3. For (or against) specific legislation perfecting state laws against intermarriage between white persons and Negroes." Texas already has, and has had for many decades, strong state laws against miscegenation. Intermarriage is punishable under the criminal statutes by a prison term of two to five years, and under the civil statutes declaring all such marriages null and void.

Marquis Childs Demos Decide To Consolidate

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(Writing for Marquis Childs, who is on vacation.)

WASHINGTON — Simultaneously with the return here of still conventional President Eisenhower to assume the role of Chief Executive in his natural habitat — the White House — which really marks the formal opening of the 1956 Republican campaign, the party's management saw the fizzling out of one maneuver which they had hoped would materialize and disrupt the Democrats.

This happened at Atlanta, Ga., where Democratic state chairman of seven Southern states did the unusual by calling for party harmony and proclaiming: "We do not favor any bolts, walkouts or third parties."

The climax of their weekend meeting seemed to end any prospect of a dramatic party split at the Chicago Democratic convention in mid-August such as occurred at the 1948 and 1952 conventions.

What was supposed to be something that might have been celebrated as the "Second Battle of Peachtree Creek" at Atlanta turned out entirely different from what Republicans had wished for and what originally had been planned by Governor George Bell Timmerman Jr., of South Carolina.

Why was the South Carolina Governor so mistaken in his new back-to-Fort-Sumter movement in this year when tensions over the Supreme Court's public school integration decision and the threat of civil rights legislation in Congress here would seem to make the situation ripe for rebellion? In short, what has happened among Southern leaders?

Before going into what has happened, it might be said that it has happened not only among Southern leaders, but also among Northern leaders of the party. What we are seeing is the result of efforts on both sides of the Mason and Dixon Line to keep the party as united as possible this year.

Soundings among both Southern and Northern leaders here in Congress offer an analysis of what inspires the anxiety for harmony. There are two practical reasons, so far as Southern leaders are concerned:

1. They see a fine chance of holding control of both branches of Congress in November's election, whatever happens about the Presidency, and a divided party could miss up that opportunity.

Continued Democratic control of Congress means continuation of Southerners in key places of power — and that, of itself, means not only the prestige and perquisites so dear to men in politics but also influence upon national policy.

2. By staying in the party and working from within, responsible Southern leaders see a much better chance to get the party to espouse an integration policy shaped for gradual accomplishment than by huffily walking out and making a lot of noise, thumbing noses, and getting nowhere.

Democrats, both North and South, also have learned from Republican promptings and from the party's avenues of publicity how much the Republicans want to promote a Democratic party split. That has stiffened Democratic determination to avoid a schism this year if at all possible.

One thing that has moderated Southern leaders and made them cautious is the confusion about how they should proceed in a way best for their own people, white and Negro, and for the national interest in what they now recognize is the biggest problem that has confronted them in their entire political careers. There is much soul-searching and many heart-to-heart talks among responsible leaders trying to find the way.

"We are going to Chicago in a spirit of moderation to seek some way out of our problem without acting violently," one thoughtful Southern leader said.

"We want to stay in the party and to settle this problem within the party, if that is possible. We are frankly playing it by ear as we go along, hoping for the best. We are trying to keep our minds open."

"And we hope that the lightning may strike there at Chicago and make an insoluble problem soluble," he added, chuckling at his own phrase.

'Gay Nineties' Traffic Cop

James Marlow Less Fear Of War Since Geneva

WASHINGTON — What has happened to the "Geneva spirit" in the 12 months since President Eisenhower had his pleasant summit meeting — it opened a year ago this week — with the Russians in Switzerland?

This much, at least: There is less fear of war. Both sides are talking of making huge cuts in their armed forces too. But the United States and Russia still stiff-arm and belittle each other.

What can't be known is this: How much better would the Geneva results be now if Eisenhower, instead of being ill for months since July, had been in a position to assert leadership and give this country a better sense of direction?

In their closing announcement at Geneva, Eisenhower and Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin laid down three main goals: German reunification; disarmament; increased trade and elimination of barriers between the United States and Russia. The result?

The two sides are as far apart as they were before Geneva on German unity. Disarmament agreement seems no nearer. Exchange of visitors has picked up. And this country has made it easier to ship nonstrategic goods to Russia.

Since last July Eisenhower and Bulganin have exchanged several letters on disarmament. These letters only accentuated the distance between them. But the personal relationship, established at Geneva, may be useful in other ways later.

The Russians speak highly of Eisenhower but of practically no one else here. They haven't stopped their anti-Western attacks. But they've spaced them out more. As if to celebrate the Geneva anniversary like a piety.

Militant Sect Wins 3 Seats In Jap Parliament

TOKYO — A militant sect threatening death to non-believers has succeeded in electing three of its missionaries to Parliament.

The three members of the Soka Gakkai organization polled about 800,000 votes in this week's election. Scores of their campaign workers were arrested on charges of election violations.

Soka Gakkai wants to become the state religion of Japan. The name literally means "Value Creating Academy." Its creed is derived from Buddhism, but its activities are more evangelistic. One slogan is "Let's convert everyone with words and arrows."

Orthodox Buddhists deny any relationship with Soka Gakkai. Many intensely hate the new group, which has a membership of 600,000.

The Value Creators, in 26 churches across Japan and at numerous meetings, conduct Buddhist services sprinkled with their own spiritualistic chants supposed to cast on the listeners a charm against illness and misfortune.

The sect is governed like Japan's old imperial army. It makes converts with a threat that "death and destruction await you in 90 days if you fail to join us." Many members are invalids and old people most vulnerable to such preaching.

During the election campaign, Soka Gakkai missionaries visited the homes of sick persons and preached, "Embrace our faith and vote for our candidates and your sick will be cured; otherwise, death and destruction will befall you."

Police say some poor people have died without proper medical care as a result of believing this.

There has been a sense of drift. The American government — because it seems at the moment unable to think of anything new to offset or counter the Russians — has been sticking to the old tactics which were created when war seemed much closer than now.

If Eisenhower hadn't been ill in this period, he might have offset the Russians, or even brought them into more agreement, with new ideas and bold decisions.

American foreign policy has simply marked time while he was sick.

Some have been critical of the Geneva meeting, feeling that if Eisenhower hadn't gone there, the Russians wouldn't have been able to give an appearance of reasonableness.

This sounds like stand-patting, based on the assumption that the Russians don't have imagination and vitality to do what they did anyway. What is needed now is more American imagination and vitality.

Ancient Names In Modern Egypt

CAIRO — Cheops was the man who built the Great Pyramid. He is also a Cairo lawyer who drives a 1956 automobile.

Many Egyptians today carry over the names their ancestors of 5,000 years ago. Nefretiti, Amenophis and Tut Ankh Amen are just as common names as Tom, Dick or Harry in the West.

A retired Egyptian general calls his sons, Hutmos, Cenephro, Amenhotep and Ahmes.

Ancient customs, however, survive most strongly today among the Egyptian peasants, especially when it comes to medicine and burial.

Almost every village has its "spitting doctor" who claims to heal the sting of a venomous insect by spitting on the inflicted part. In ancient Egypt the god That was said to cure serpent bites or other injuries by spitting on the sufferer.

In Talkha village, in the Nile delta, the family of a sick person places a loaf of bread under the head of the patient to drive away the evil spirits. This custom is mentioned as far back as the 5th

Dynasty and occurs in the famous Pyramid texts.

On the famous statue, in the Cairo Museum, of Zed-Her, a noted healer, are inscribed formulas for different illnesses. This is followed by the note: "If you are suffering of an illness, you have only to pour water over my statue. The water will run into the writing and this will have healing power. Let the sick person drink this water and he will be cured."

The power of the written word as healer prevails today. In some villages, sick persons wear around their neck a prescription prepared by the holy man of the village which is supposed to cure them from their illness.

Ancient Egyptians embalmed their dead. Today in upper Egypt, where the ancient customs survive more strongly, some peasants wrap their dead in 70 meters of cloth. Such a practice is contrary to Moslem teaching which forbids the use of decorative or costly shrouds. The Prophet Mohammed was buried wrapped in his own mantle.

Around The Rim He Even Outsmarts The Fish

This isn't hardly a fish story, although it has to do with fishing, so it'll probably stand repeating here.

The yarn is all about the "Catalpa worm," which lives on the Catalpa tree. The tree grows around here, but it really flourishes in East Texas, where the Catalpa worm abounds.

The tale was told by an East Texas friend of mine, who has had lots of experience with the worm. What's more, he told the story at a Sunday School party, which should add something to the veracity of the account.

Discussion of one of the little Catalpa trees out in the southwest part of town brought on the worm story. Apparently the worm doesn't exist in these parts, although this East Texas friend said it probably would if it were imported.

The way he described the worm, which is the world's best fish bait, it sounds about like a tomato worm, only a little more hairy.

The Catalpa grows long and round like most other worms. He's jointed every so often, and he has a little horn on the top of his head. He bears just a slight amount of fuzz on his back and sides. A real big one is about as big around as a pencil.

Nothing very outstanding about those characteristics. The Catalpa's chief claim to fame lies in its great strength and ability to survive under almost any circumstances. (From here on out, I'm quoting.)

The Catalpa worm season is extremely short down in East Texas, where the wriggler is in great demand as fish bait. Only for a few weeks out of the year can he be found feasting on the leaves of the Catalpa tree. All of a sudden he disappears.

This used to leave East Texas fishermen out of bait, just when the fishing fever hit its peak. But some ingenious down-easter outwitted the worm.

Just on an off chance, this guy decided to try a system for keeping the worms available the year-around. So he captured himself a great quantity of the crawlers, screwed them up in a fruit jar, and put them in a home freezer. Just as he suspected, they kept perfectly.

A few weeks later, when all the Catalpas were gone from the trees, he got out his jar of worms and poured them out in a sunny place. As the sun's rays thawed them out, they began to squirm and wiggle and finally they started crawling off. Back in the freezing compartment they went, as quickly as he could gather them up and get the lid on the jar, to await their turns on the fisherman's hook.

The Catalpas are highly esteemed as fishing bait because of their capacity for endurance. You can put one on a hook and let him down in the water, and he'll live for hours, wiggling and kicking around and attracting all sorts of fish.

There's one drawback to using Catalpa worms for bait, though. You can't afford to go to sleep on the bank when you get one of them on the hook. If they go too long without proper attention, they'll start crawling up the line and pull your hook out of the water.

Fishermen have been known to wake up on the creek bank and find their Catalpa bait starting at them from a perch on the tip end of the fishing pole.

Innocent Bystander Has A Camera

We had a major fire in our end of New York City the other day when the old John Wanamaker store building went up in flames and smoke, providing a two-day Roman holiday for amateur camera fans within a 200-mile radius.

From time to time, New York firemen had as much trouble, I understand, controlling the amateur shutterbugs (and I use that term advisedly) as they did the fire. They—the amateur camera addicts—were on hand by the hundreds, taking shots from every conceivable angle, including the man (apparently a Yogi disciple) who stood on his head.

But it hardly needed the Wanamaker fire to emphasize the great change that has taken place recently in that perennial fixture at the scene of action, the innocent bystander.

Once upon a time, the innocent bystander was a slightly incoherent man, woman or child who tried to tell the police, judge and jury, lawyers or the press exactly what happened when the two cars met head-on, when papa slugged mama or when the dissatisfied customer threw the catsup bottle at the waiter.

The up-dated innocent bystander doesn't depend upon speech. He reaches for his wallet, pulls out his negatives and proves that one slightly out-of-focus picture is worth 10,000 slightly out-of-focus facts.

Any observer who has been at the scene of an accident since World War II knows that instantly every innocent bystander whips out a camera and goes to work immortalizing the scene.

Once upon a time the innocent bystand-er tried to offer comfort or administer first aid. But a victim could bleed to death today before the camera fiend had shot from every angle and was ready to apply a tourniquet.

I can remember a way back between the two World Wars when anyone caught with a camera other than a box Brownie (strictly for kids) was instantly identified as a dirty Japanese spy photographing vital American defense secrets, even if he was caught in the act of taking a picture of the Grand Canyon.

Now every American man, woman and child is hung with three cameras: (1) movie, (2) still and (3) one of those little, blitty things that looks like a cigarette lighter and whose film has to be enlarged 100 times to discover that Grandpa was accidentally guillotined.

Be it ever so humble, every home has a darkroom, and every family harbors at least one practitioner who is making a bum out of Stelchen.

The other day, I read a magazine article that innocently asked whatever becomes of the two billion negatives taken annually by Americans.

I shall be happy to answer that. One billion of these are filed annually in Chez Robb by the Head of the Clan who can't leave the developing fluid alone. We have closets in our house that make Fibber McGee's look like an IBM card index. (The other billion isn't my problem!)

It is one woman's opinion that this country is not so much underdeveloped as overexposed.

Who's To Blame For School Aid Failure?

WASHINGTON—Who killed the school bill with its billions of federal money for education? That's still an unanswered question on Capitol Hill, where it may become known as the "mess of 1956."

"It's too bad the 'right to know' doctrine—espoused by the House Committee which is seeking to rid official Washington of its tendency to suppress news—doesn't extend to the behind-the-scenes maneuvers of party leaders in Congress who pull the strings."

For the full story of what happened ought to be told. Four explanations are being offered. One is that the segregationists of the South killed the bill. The other is that the integrationists of the North did it. Another is that those who didn't want any federal interference in the financing of the schools were influential in the result and that they were alarmed because of recent Supreme Court decisions whittling down states' rights and increasing federal authority.

But Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota has a simpler explanation. He blames it all on "President Eisenhower's health or recuperation or concern over personal political problems" which are supposed to have prevented him from "exerting some personal influence and leadership."

Mr. Eisenhower had already gone a long way in trying to get the bill passed. He had said once before that anything like the Powell amendment, denying federal aid to schools in Southern states which do not adopt integration, shouldn't be tacked on to the bill. This was a daring expression on his part—a concession to expediency over and above principle.

But what did happen? Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Democrat and one of the Negro leaders of the country, offered his amendment anyhow. It presented an issue which Republican congressmen from districts where there are many Negro voters couldn't dodge. No amount of persuasion from Mr. Eisenhower could keep them from voting for the Powell amendment.

As for the Southern congressmen, they abstained from voting so as to make sure the Powell amendment supporters would have a majority. They wanted the final measure to be unpalatable on every side. But there are northern Republicans—about 65 of them—who don't believe in federal control of education and they, too, voted for the Powell amendment because they knew it would help kill the bill. On final passage, they joined with the Southern Democrats to make a majority against the entire bill.

Also important was the action of northern Democrats who helped to defeat amendments, proposed by Republicans, allocating the funds on the basis of the needs of the states. This principle had previously been endorsed, but the Democrats repudiated it. The final bill, therefore, was unsatisfactory to northern Republicans who favored federal aid and Southern Democrats who didn't, and thus was readily defeated.

A significant aftermath of the school bill controversy is the discovery by Southern Democrats of how near they came to being tricked by the argument that, if the measure were passed without the Powell amendment, they should have no objection to it. For the fact is that federal funds could be withheld even without the Powell amendment or its counterpart. The administration has a legal opinion from the Department of Justice which is being used every day by the President's Interracial Commission. It claims the right of the federal government at any time to cancel any contract with any agency, public or private, which permits discrimination in employment on the basis of "race or creed or color or national origin."

It's the knowledge that a threat exists to use federal authority—even in the absence of a Powell amendment—to withhold funds from schools in the South which may prevent any school bill from ever being passed. It may lead to a demand for a specific stipulation in the law declaring that nothing in this or in any other law gives the federal government the right to withhold funds except for the reasons given in the measure itself.

What is surprising about the whole controversy is the assumption made by the "liberals" that those who voted for the Powell amendment should be reprimanded by President Eisenhower for voting their convictions. They are being upbraided for expressing themselves conscientiously. Because they are mostly Republicans, Mr. Eisenhower is being held responsible for their votes.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

From 32 To 36 With One Simple Exercise

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — The compliment Dani Crayne enjoys receiving most is that she looks like Lana Turner. This strong resemblance was spotted by an agent who came to her dancing studio for a mamba lesson. He persuaded Dani to go to Universal-International with him. This visit led to a contract. Her next picture is "The Unguarded Moment" starring Esther Williams.

"What changes did the studio make in you?" I asked Dani as we drove down Sunset Boulevard the other day.
"They toned me down," Dani laughed. "My hair was a brassy blonde and too curly. My eyebrows were too dark and thick so I had them plucked out. I don't know why I thought this was attractive but the first thing the make-up men told me was, 'Let them grow back.'"

"I wish I could show you some of my first pictures. You wouldn't know me. I did so many things wrong. I was obsessed with the idea that my mouth was too large."

I looked at Dani and admired her full blown lips and told her that I thought she had a lovely mouth.

"Well, I didn't think so," she said shaking her head. "I used quite a dark lipstick and made my lower lip smaller and powdered over it. It was very unbecoming. I learned that by using a pink lipstick and following my own line that my lips actually looked smaller. I do hope that pink lips never go out of style."

"Another thing that I noticed from seeing myself on the screen was that I was so dark. I didn't look natural. I love the sun and being a dancing teacher I didn't have to go to work until 4 p.m., so I spent most of the day around the pool.

"And when I heard myself speak I wanted to work out all the nasal twang in my voice," Dani continued.
"Hearing what a studio does to create glamour is very interesting," I told Dani. "Any more changes?"

"I went from a 32 bra to a 36 with one little exercise," she confessed. "But I was conscientious about doing it. I did this exercise for five minutes every night and every morning. Stand in a doorway. Place your hands against the door frame just below shoulder height. Raise up on your toes. Take a deep breath, keeping your back and knees straight. Fall forward in the doorway as far as you can. Then, with relaxed elbows, push back to the first position and lower your heels. Do this 10 times to start with, the slower the better. In about five months I found all my bras were too tight. These things take time and patience."

If you are not satisfied with your bust measurements, why not try what Dani Crayne suggests?

Sandlotters To Open Baseball Tournament

The first annual KHEM sandlot baseball tournament gets under way at 8 o'clock this evening in Steer Park, dark since professional baseball pulled out of here last September. The opening game pits the Big Spring Indians against the Bell Construction Company of Odessa. Immediately prior to the contest, there'll be a fireworks display for the kiddies. Tomorrow night, the Webb Air Force Base Dusters, still undefeated this year, square away with the Children's Orioles. Losers in the two games play at 5:30 p.m. Saturday for third place. The winners decide the championship in an 8:30 p.m. contest. Winner of the tournament becomes eligible to take part in the state NBC meet in Sinton in August. The winner then goes to the NBC meet at Wichita, Kansas. Webb is the favorite in the tournament. The rugged Dusters have taken on all comers this year and have yet to suffer a defeat in 11 starts.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Jan Loudermilk, a stickout on the 1955-56 Big Spring High School basketball team, suffered an eye injury that required two stitches to close in a recent Summer Basketball League game at the High School Gym.

He and Gene Carpenter, the Texas Tech great, were in collision under a basket. The schoolboys, who play as a unit in the league, have shown up well in competition. Playing against such rugged competition, they probably learn more than they would in a full season competing against high school teams.

Big Spring's Billy Maxwell was the first champion of the Lubbock Country Club Golf Tournament, scheduled as a medal-play event Aug. 2-5 this year. Maxwell copped the crown in 1950. Chris Gers, Jimmy Goldman, Dick Jennings, Billy Ehrfurth and Bobby Goetz have since claimed the crown.

Asked if playing in the 1956 All-Star game was his most thrilling baseball experience, Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals assured an interviewer it was, then added: "And you know what I'll remember as most thrilling about it? This is the first time I've ever seen Ted Williams."

The manager of the Newsum Braves Little League baseball team would probably be the first to tell you that a little bit of initiative is a wonderful thing in a player. This is the age of automation in baseball but apparently it hasn't caught up with Benjamin Crockett Ferrell Jr., one of the Newsum players. Opportunity may knock several times but with young Ferrell the first time is the best one of all.

In a recent game, he was at bat with the bases loaded and the count of three balls and no strikes on him. His skipper advised him to let the next pitch go. It sailed down the pike, however, and B. C. Jr. stroked it for a home run and four runs batted in.

This is hard to believe, but the daily betting of the average person who went to the race track in this country last year amounted to $74.19.

Both the College All-Star-Cleveland Brown football game and the Joe Brown-Bud Smith lightweight championship fight will be nationally televised the night of Aug. 8 but the former attraction will probably be the only one available to viewers in this immediate area.

Officials at Webb AFB here have informed Manager Jim Zapp they will "make every effort possible" to get the Dusters authorization to play in the state NBC Tournament at Sinton, if they qualify by winning the district meet starting here tonight.

Ordinarily, the Dusters are limited to travel within 100 miles of Big Spring.

Dub Behrens, the Coahoma football coach, is breathing easier these days. Two of his gridders failed to make their scholastic work the past spring and will be ineligible this year but they didn't figure in his plans for the 1956 season.

Behrens should field one of the toughest Class A clubs in West Texas for the next two or three years, if he can keep all his regular players. Most of the Bulldogs like to play ball.

Tony Zale, the one-time boxing champion, lost out in the casting of Hollywood film of Rocky Marciano's life ("Somebody Up There Likes Me"), for an odd reason. Seems he couldn't pull his punches in fight scenes with Paul Newman, who has the lead role.

Longhorn League All-Star Game Scheduled Tonight

A homerun-happy Eastern team takes on its Western brethren Thursday night in the Southwest League's annual All-Star game at Hobbs, N. M.

The action highlights a week of activity in which the Hobbs Sports have clung stubbornly to a 9½-game league lead, despite two straight losses. The Sports fell Wednesday night for the second time to the Midland Indians, 5-3.

Carlsbad polished off second place El Paso 9-7. In other games, San Angelo out-marshaled Plainview 18-13 and Roswell edged Ballinger 7-6. Pampa at Clovis was rained out for the third night running.

Thursday night's All-Star game matches the East team, made up of players from Plainview, Pampa, San Angelo, Ballinger and Midland, against the West team drawn from El Paso, Carlsbad and Hobbs. Roswell and Clovis failed to place men on the All-

Star squad. Members of the East team have blasted the ball for homers 197 times so far this season. The West crew has done it only 139 times. The West has the average edge. West batters average .367, while the East ten averages .351.

In Wednesday night's play former Roswell manager Tom Jordan, fired by the Rockets last week and hired Tuesday by the Carlsbad Potashers as a catcher, batted out the winning run for his new mates — a two-run triple in the seventh.

Tom Pollet scattered six hits in leading Midland to its win over the league leaders. The winning runs came in the fifth on Ike Jackson's two run homer.

Roswell scored twice in the ninth to clinch its win. Eleven runs in the seventh inning, against the West team drawn from El Paso, Carlsbad and Hobbs. Roswell and Clovis failed to place men on the All-

Boston May Be On Its Way At Long Last

By ED WILKS

After a false start, it looks as if Boston's Red Sox are on their way at last, just as Ted Williams predicted a couple of weeks back. Trouble in, they're sprinting on a treadmill in that American League race.

Williams, blaming early Sox disappointments on injuries, illness and sore arms, figured the Bostonians were healthy and ready to go. And after being side-tracked by New York, the Red Sox now have won 10 of 12, skipping past Chicago into third place and to within six points of runner-up Cleveland.

They closed in on the Indians yesterday, beating Kansas City 7-3 as Mel Parnell followed up his Saturday no-hitter with a seven-hit job.

The Yankees, however, still lead the pack by a plump 9½ games—even after Detroit ended their winning streak at 11 games with an 8-4 and 4-3 double-header sweep. Cleveland split at Washington, losing 7-5 and winning 11-1. And the White Sox were knocked off by Baltimore 4-3 for their 11th straight defeat—longest slump in the majors this season.

In the National, there wasn't one sign of a player brawl as Milwaukee re-established its two-game lead with a 7-3 decision over the New York Giants. Brooklyn defeated second-place Cincinnati 6-3. Rain held Pittsburgh and St. Louis to a 1-1 tie called in the top of the 10th. And Philadelphia swept the Chicago Cubs 6-4 and 6-1.

The Red Sox, enjoying their best surge since winning 14 of 16 in June 1955, have gained only half a game on New York but have packed away 8½ games against Chicago and 4½ against Cleveland.

A four-run eighth inning against Troy (4-9) Herridge kept them going yesterday. Jackie Jensen's single broke a 3-all tie and Don Buddin added a two-run double in the rally.

Paul Foytack and Frank Lary, two right-handers, chilled the Yankees. Al Kaline made a leaping stab of Mickey Mantle's two-out, two-on liner in the ninth inning of the nightcap to protect the slim lead he had provided with his 14th home run in the sixth off Maury McDermott.

Mantle, playing without a brace on his right knee for the first time since July 4, hit his 31st home run in the first inning of the opener — putting him eight games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace in 1927.

The Indians lost right-hander Early Wynn in the second inning of the nightcap when he was socked on the chin by Jose Valdivielso's line drive. Sixteen stitches were needed to close the gash. Pete Runnels and Jim Lemon homered for a 4-0 lead before Herb Score could get a man out in the opener and Ed FitzGerald then homered in a two-run seventh that won it against reliever Bob Feller. Vic Wertz hit his 20th and 21st home runs for the Tribe.

CANTON, Mass. (AP)—At an unfinished golf club, an unsettled, endlessly argued question will be revived tomorrow when play begins in the 38th Professional Golfers Assn. Championship.

That question is whether the familiar sometimes-monotonous stroke competition or the man-against-man, sudden death match play is the best way of settling this contest, which in effect, decides the championship of all the golf professionals.

It has been argued for years, and the debate was revived as a hot issue this year when the PGA eliminated the customary championship qualifying rounds. Now 128 players—survivors of the sectional qualifying tests and top performers who qualify automatically—will get down to knocking heads on the first day—next Tuesday only two will be left to fight it out in the 36-hole final.

The tricky 6,356-yard Blue Hill Country Club course—a bit short by ordinary championship standards—looks like an ideal place to try out a new form of tournament play.

Blue Hill lost its clubhouse in a disastrous fire last winter. Reconstruction has been going on rapidly, and the course itself wasn't harmed. But the situation as play began was such that one local observer said he wouldn't be surprised to see a player reach into the cup at the 18th and pull out a carpenter or bricklayer.

The all-match tournament, the first in PGA history, seems to be just what the 'home' pros want. And they form a big majority of the more than 3,000 members. In effect it's a private party for the guys who spend most of the year selling clubs and giving lessons.

The touring pros, who hog the headlines week after week, are tolerated mainly because they're the ones who draw the galleries. Yet they form the powerful minority which insists that 72-hole medal-play tournaments are a fairer test of golf. They draw strong support from such players as Ben Hogan and Open champion Cary Middlecoff, who think the five days of the PGA Championship are too tough for them.

There's a sharp contrast in idea and in types of golf. And results of the last half dozen years in this tournament indicate there's much to be said for the stay-at-homes. Steadiness is the big factor in stroke play. In match competition, a player can survive one miserable hole and still win.

Looking back to the 1956 Open, the 7 on the 17th hole that cost Ted Kroll his chance of winning the title would have meant the title of only one hole in the PGA.

Fry, Gibson, Bartzan And Larsen Win Impressively

CHICAGO (AP)—Favored men and women players continue to dominate the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament and competed today for quarter-final positions in the singles divisions.

Shirley Fry, who recently won the Wimbledon championship and is top seeded in this tournament, beat Beverly Toland of St. Louis yesterday, 6-0, 6-2. Althea Gibson of New York City, seeded second, defeated Virginia Carpenter of Oak Park, Ill., 6-1, 6-1.

The men's singles also went according to pattern in third-round play yesterday with Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Bernard 'Tut' Bartzan of Dallas, Tex., seeded No. 1 and 2 respectively, winning their matches.

Contract Let For Field Lighting At Stadium

Stadium construction advanced a notch Wednesday when school trustees let a contract for field lighting. And the school board made another move it hopes will result in completion of the facility, or at least make it usable, by the opening of the home football season Sept. 28.

Contract for field lighting went to the Boss Electric Company of Snyder on a bid of $27,956. The firm promised to complete the lighting within 90 calendar days of issuance of work order.

Trustees immediately instructed Jimmy Fox, architect, to proceed with plans for completing the stadium. A tentative date of Aug. 7 was set for opening bids on remainder of the work—construction of two concession stands, six ticket booths, two pressboxes, two restrooms, fences and a public address system.

The lighting contract boosted to $132,504.38 the funds expended on the new stadium now under construction on the Howard County Junior College campus. The outlay includes $93,636 for 10,000-seat stands, the $27,956 for lighting, $7,355.08 for lowers to support the field lights, and $3,557.29 in architect fees.

The expenditures leave about $14,500 in the stadium fund. A bond issue of $140,000 was approved for the project last May and Pat Murphy, school business manager, said another $7,000 is available from a previous bond issue.

Trustees estimated it may require up to $50,000 to complete the stadium. Murphy and Supt. Floyd W. Parsons said they believe the school district could dig up the money.

The Boss Electric bid was the lowest of three submitted on the field lighting. Musgrove Electric Company and C. L. Beard Electric of Big Spring were the other bidders.

Al Kaline Robs Mick Of Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—The clubhouse attendant couldn't believe his eyes and ears as he watched the jubilant Detroit Tigers come storming into the dressing room, laughing and cheering at the top of their voices.

He stared open-mouthed and blurted in a shocked tone: "When Mickey hit it," Kaline said later, "I was sure it was a home run. But you don't give up until it's over the fence. It was not until the last second that I realized I had a chance to get it. I jumped up as high as I could and the ball landed in the glove."

"But," stammered the attendant, more puzzled than ever, "I was listening to the radio right here in this room. They had two on and two out in the ninth with Mantle at bat. You were ahead 4-3. Then I heard with my own ears the announcer scream that Mantle hit a home run. That makes them win 6-4, don't it?"

Yankees Suffer 1st Defeat In National League Play

Roberts, who had singled, came in on a hobble. Roberts was touched for seven hits, one of which was a bases empty home run by Richard Wiesner in the first inning.

Wiesner, Carroll Bible and Wilmer Winchester each drove out two hits for the losers while Roberts collected three safeties and Randy Kattner two for the Owls.

The Yanks had reeled off six wins in a row prior to the game. Manager Joe Mathews saw fit to start his subs and, although they performed creditably, the Vets were not to be denied.

Don Vaughn paced the Vets' four hit attack, driving out three singles in as many tries. He also scored three times.

Billy Pate, on the mound for the VFW, set the Yanks down with three hits. Each came in a different inning.

In the evening's other game, the Owls held on to nose out the Gold Sox, 4-3.

The Owls scored three of their runs in the first two innings and showed the winning tally across in the fifth when pitcher Bowa in

Endlessly Argued Question To Be Revived In PGA Meet

CANTON, Mass. (AP)—At an unfinished golf club, an unsettled, endlessly argued question will be revived tomorrow when play begins in the 38th Professional Golfers Assn. Championship.

That question is whether the familiar sometimes-monotonous stroke competition or the man-against-man, sudden death match play is the best way of settling this contest, which in effect, decides the championship of all the golf professionals.

It has been argued for years, and the debate was revived as a hot issue this year when the PGA eliminated the customary championship qualifying rounds. Now 128 players—survivors of the sectional qualifying tests and top performers who qualify automatically—will get down to knocking heads on the first day—next Tuesday only two will be left to fight it out in the 36-hole final.

The tricky 6,356-yard Blue Hill Country Club course—a bit short by ordinary championship standards—looks like an ideal place to try out a new form of tournament play.

Blue Hill lost its clubhouse in a disastrous fire last winter. Reconstruction has been going on rapidly, and the course itself wasn't harmed. But the situation as play began was such that one

Baptist Camp Has Its Largest Group

The largest group to attend the Baptist encampment series of the year will be completing its activities Friday.

The enrollment this week—the camp for Junior Girls Auxiliary members has topped 475. That figure includes the girls and their sponsors. Some 50 churches have representatives attending.

The camps are for church girls and boys' groups for both junior and intermediate ages of Baptist churches in District 8, which surrounds Howard County. Each camp is held Monday through Friday.

The total this week almost doubled the number of junior Royal Ambassadors, the boys' organization, which attended the camp south of Big Spring last week. Attendance last week was 282.

A worker among the Indians in Arizona, Mrs. Lee M. Roebuck, is servicing this week as camp missionary. Mrs. Roebuck was missionary also last week. Rev. Wayne Randolph of Seminole is camp pastor this week, and Mrs. J. L. Bozeman of Frankel City is director of the activities. Mrs. Bozeman is district Jr. GA counselor.

Last week, at the boy's camp, Rev. Fred Black of Klondike was camp pastor, and Aud Jones of No-trees was director.

Starting next Monday, camp for Latin American youth will be staged. Over 100 boys and girls are expected for the five-day encampment. Rev. E. L. Rios of Levelland will be camp pastor and Rev. A. C. Muller will be missionary.

Rev. Muller is a worker in Mexico. Rev. P. D. Sullivan, missionary to the Latin Americans in Mitchell and Scurry Counties, will be camp director.

Each week, the activities include missionary and Bible study, religious services, handicraft, and recreation.

Market Steady In Most Cattle Lines

The market remained steady in most lines of cattle at the Big Spring Livestock Auction Company's sale Wednesday, at which time an estimated 500 cattle and 75 hogs were paraded before the buyers.

Canner cows brought from $6.00 to $8.00, cutters from $6.00 to $9.00, fat cows up to $11.00, bulls up to $13.50, fat calves and yearlings from $15.00 to $18.00, stocker steer calves up to $16.00, heifer calves from $14.00 to $15.00, cows beside calves from $8.00 to $12.00 and hogs up to $15.00.

Rites Conducted For Lamesa Man

LAMESA — Graveside burial services were conducted at 10 a.m. today for Donald W. Medley, 21, in Lamesa Memorial Park. Burial was under the direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home.

Medley, who was the victim of an accident last Wednesday at Lamesa Cotton Oil Co., died of suffocation. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. at Second Baptist Church here, but burial was postponed until the arrival of his brother, Durl, who was serving with the U. S. Navy aboard the U.S.S. Dixie in the Pacific.

Life Of Blindness
Four-year-old Mike Sibole and his mother, Mrs. James W. Sibole, leave their car for a hospital operating room in Orlando, Fla., where the youngster had his remaining good eye removed. Mike lost his right eye because of the same dangerous tumor two years ago. He was not told until just before the operation that the remainder of his life will be sightless.

Soil Bank Deadline Extended A Week

Farmers and landowners have an additional week in which to apply for participation in the Federal Soil Bank program.

The Department of Agriculture in Washington said that the time has been extended from July 20, which was the original deadline, to July 27 in certain counties where ASC committees have been unable to sign up all landowners wishing to take part in the program.

Gabe Hammack, office manager for the Howard County ASC committee, said that Howard County was one of those included in the list where true extension applies. A dispatch from Washington quoted the Department of Agriculture as asserting that the period between July 31 and Aug. 3 has been set as the final period for plowing under or cutting crops on soil bank land. Previously, the final dates covered the time from July 15 through July 27.

There seemed to be some confusion locally on this phase of the situation. Hammack's office was under the impression — which stemmed from an announcement in College Station, — that the plow-up deadline had not been changed.

Definite information on this phase of the program is expected soon, however. Meantime, the ASC office is setting up operations to continue signing up farmers and landowners under the Soil Bank Program for one extra week.

Howard County ASC has already formally approved 454 applications for Soil Bank Program and will meet on Friday to continue study of others which have been placed before it.

Jury Is Hearing Defense Witnesses

Defense witnesses were being heard by a jury in 118th District Court Thursday noon in the damage suit brought by James C. Clanton Jr. against John Moreland and Charles Engle.

The suit grew out of a collision between two cars last Jan. 3. Clanton is suing the defendants for $46,000.

The case is being tried before Judge Charlie Sullivan. It began Wednesday afternoon. Plaintiff completed his presentation of evidence shortly before 11 a.m.

The trial will be the last in the current civil jury docket before Judge Sullivan.

Farmers To Vote On Wheat Quotas Here Friday

Referendum on 1957 wheat quotas will be held in the ASC office Friday, it was announced by Gabe Hammack, office manager.

Operators who have a 1957 wheat allotment of more than 15 acres are eligible to vote. In Texas, the farmer and his wife are both entitled to a vote on referendum elections.

Hammack said the polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

He said if quotas carry by a two-thirds majority, quotas and penalties will be in effect as in 1956 and price supports will be at 75 per cent to 90 per cent of parity. If the quotas do not get a two-thirds majority vote, the quotas will not be in effect but the allotments will.

Price supports, Hammack said, will be at 50 per cent of parity with no penalty will be involved. Price support on wheat will be available only to those who stay within their wheat allotments in either case, he explained.

Mrs. Castleman Services Friday

Services will be conducted at 4 p.m. Friday in the Nalley-Pickie Chapel for Mrs. Inez A. Castleman, 33, who died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. F. H. McGinnis, Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. Cecil Rhodes, West Side Baptist minister, will officiate. Burial will be in the Trinity Memorial Park.

Mrs. Castleman was born Jan. 19, 1873, in Columbus, Kans. After her marriage she lived for several years in Indian Territory (later Oklahoma) where her husband served as U. S. marshal.

She is survived by her daughter, three sons, J. P. Castleman of Tulsa, Okla., and J. L. and C. H. Castleman of Stockton, Calif.; 18 grandchildren and numerous great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Charles Dublin, Roy Odom, C. H. Forgas, Frank Hardesty, Jess Slaughter and Charles E. Brown.

Two Are Charged With Felony DWI

Two charges of driving an automobile while under influence of intoxicating liquors, second offense, have been filed in the office of Walter Grice, justice of the peace.

Charles W. Born is named as defendant in one complaint and Lee Barber in the second. In each case, Grice set bonds at $1,000.

Lions Auxiliary Has Informal Party In Jack Cook Home

About 20 attended the informal party given for members of the Lions Auxiliary Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. Jack Cook. Co-hostess was Mrs. Charles Havens.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Wayne Bartlett and Mrs. Avery Falkner. They presided at a table decorated with an arrangement of chrysanthemums in combination with cold drink bottles holding straw hats.

During the morning, Mrs. Roxie Dobbins read a letter from the Crippled Children's Home in Kerrville, which is one of the projects of the Lions Club and the auxiliary. The letter was in appreciation of the sum of money sent to the home last month by the women.

Hostesses for next month will be Mrs. Marshall Cauley and Mrs. D. S. Riley.

GIA Makes Plans For Friday Picnic

At a meeting of the GIA of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the women planned a picnic for Friday evening at 7 o'clock in Birdwell Park. All engineers and their wives are invited.

The group met in the 100F Hall for a called meeting to hear a report given by Mrs. C. B. Sullivan. This was on the 13th triennial convention of the GIA held in Cleveland in June.

Twelve were present. The next meeting will be held on Aug. 1 at 10 a.m.

Open House Planned

Children of St. Thomas Catechism classes will honor Sister Rose Ella, Sister Superior, with an open house after 10 o'clock Mass Sunday. Sister Rose Ella has been Sister Superior in St. Thomas Parish for the past 13 years. At the close of this teaching year she will not return to Big Spring. All members of the Parish are invited to attend the open house.

Ball Family Returns

Lt. and Mrs. T. M. Ball, Teddy and Johnny, 1003 Nolan, have returned to Big Spring after an absence of three months. He attended school for two months in Alabama; during a month's leave, they visited relatives in Richmond, Va., and Liberty, N. Y., and friends in Burlington, Vt.

Daughter Of Iowa Minister To Vie For 'Miss Universe'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The dark-haired daughter of an Iowa minister reigned today as the queen of America's entries in the Miss Universe contest.

Stately Carol Morris, 20, of Ottumwa, who "wished upon a star" as she entered Long Beach Municipal Auditorium last night, had that wish come true when she was named Miss United States.

The Drake University junior won out in the final judging of 16 girls who had been chosen from the original field of 43 Americans in the contest.

Twenty-nine foreign beauties will make their first appearance before the judges tonight and 15 will be selected to vie with Miss Morris for the title of Miss Universe in the final stage of the contest tomorrow.

The new Miss U.S.A. is 5 feet 7, weighs 129 pounds and has a 35-25-36 figure. Blue eyes contrast with the dark brown of her hair.

Miss Morris, who serves as a lifeguard in Ottumwa during the summer, risked her chances for success by taking a dip in the ocean yesterday and getting her hair wet.

"I couldn't do anything with it," she said. "I didn't think I had a chance to win but I did wish upon a star, the first star I saw — and it came true."

One of the most poised girls in the contest, she broke down moments of youthfulness when she was called back stage and announced as the winner.

"Oh thank you, thank you very much," she said with sobs choking her voice. "Ever since I got off the plane I've had such a wonderful time. I just can't say —" and she stopped as the sobs became too strong for her to control.

Miss Morris is the only child of the Rev. Laverne Morris, pastor of the Davis Street Christian Church in Ottumwa, and Mrs. Gertrude Morris.

Studying to be an elementary school teacher, she came to the contest without ambition to become an actress. But one of her prizes is a motion picture contract.

Cover Improves Soil Bank Land

Soil protection and improvement at the same time is what farmers get if "soil bank" acres are planted to a mixture of grain sorghum and New Era peas, according to Marion E. Everhart of the Soil Conservation Service.

He says the combination is hard to beat for this area as it protects the soil from washing and blowing and improves the fertility. Several fields have been planted in this manner with good results.

The proper method of planting is to have an attachment which fits down inside the regular planter box, holding the pea seed while the sorghum seed is put around this in the regular planter box. Both types of seed are then planted at the same time.

It is recommended that from three to four pounds of each be planted. The presence of the peas does not decrease the yield of sorghum, but it does put nitrogen into the soil.

If the cowpeas, such as black eyes, Chinese reeds, brabam or New Era peas are planted by themselves they will not furnish enough cover to prevent wind erosion.

The above mixture is recommended for any cropland in the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District, says Everhart, providing there is enough moisture. This planting can be done as late as Aug. 15.

Land taken out of production because of the soil bank program should not be left idle, Everhart said, but should be planted to cover crops.

Uncle Ray:

Mungo Park Reached Headwaters Of Niger

By RAMON COFFMAN Making his way to the edge of the village, he halted again before a humble hut. Then he dismounted and stumbled toward the doorway. He asked an aged woman for something to eat and this time he was made welcome. Much refreshed after a meal, Park gave the old woman one of his pocket handkerchiefs, then went on with the journey. The next day he reached a small oasis, and there he met a shepherd who gave him water and a dish of boiled dates.

A young Nigerian kneeling to show honor to a member of his tribe.

other side was the Negro kingdom of Bambara, and there, for a time, he found plenty of food and water. The natives were hospitable people. Making his way toward Sego, the capital of Bambara, he fell in with two natives who were going in the same direction. Late in July, he caught sight of the Niger! The Negroes told him that the name of this stream was Joliba, meaning "the Big Water." The Niger is one of the main ivers of Africa, and ranks eleventh among the rivers of the world. Its length is about 2,600 miles. Curving through western of Guinea.

Long before this time, the mouth Africa, it empties into the Gulf of the Niger had become known to white travelers, but no man from Europe ever had seen the head waters which were reached by Mungo Park.

Mike Okay After Eye Operation

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Mike Sibole is reported "doing very well" after the operation that traded his sight for a chance to live.

Doctors said in a brief bulletin last night that the 4-year-old lad was "resting nicely, sleeping, doing very well."

Mike may go home from the hospital tomorrow or Saturday. He will wear a flesh-colored patch to cover his left eye socket.

The eye was removed yesterday because of cancer that two years ago destroyed his other eye and spread despite long, intensive treatment.

Whether Mike successfully traded sight for long life will be known in a few years. The surgeon who performed the operation said he has a 50-50 chance of growing to manhood.

A large section of optic nerve was cut out but there is a danger some cancer cells slipped past the removed area. There also is a possibility the operation may have been too late.

If the operation was too late, Mike has only a year or two to live, the doctor said. But without the operation, he added, he would have died soon—and painfully.

Whether Mike knew before the operation he would come out blind was not known. His father, the Rev. James M. Sibole, told news men beforehand he would tell him when he woke up yesterday morning.

But Sibole brushed aside all questions about it from news men. Mike's doctor said he did not know whether the boy was told.

Jess-Talkin by Jess Blair

The 4th of July rain and hail that skip-hopped over several communities did more good than harm. South of Knott several farms received as much as two inches of rain.

M. A. Cockrell lost about a third of his cotton to the hail, but the rest of it benefited from the freakish rain. He thinks that some of the beat-out spots may go ahead and make cotton. Anyway, he left them because it seemed too late to replant.

Cockrell also has a field a mile or so east which was outside the rain area. Some of this is overflow land and the cotton caught runoff water from fields farther north. Cockrell says a lot of water flows across the field at times, so next winter he plans to put up some sort of terrace system to trap this overflow and hold it.

The insects are worse than usual in the irrigated section around Stanton. Floyd Smith of the Stanton Chemical Company says both cabbage loopers and boll worms are eating their way through the fields. He said the loopers were getting a head start this year and farmers were having a hard time stopping them.

All the early insects are gone now, but farmers are putting out poison regularly for the worms and loopers, with some fields having been poisoned six or seven times.

Bill Orson, former manager of the Tarzan Marketing Association, has taken a job as manager of the gin at Walcott. His job has been taken by Coy Welch, who had already been working as an assistant. Mrs. Orson will continue with her job at the Tarzan association.

Dr. G. T. Hall says they have changed from supplemental irrigation to steady watering on his farm southwest of Big Spring. A few years ago they irrigated before planting, then twice during the growing season, and that was all. The last two or three years, however, the pumps have been kept running nearly all spring and summer.

He says the wells have dropped some, but thinks a few good years might stop this drawback. He told about his brother-in-law in Lamb County who recharged his irrigation wells with a wet weather lake. The man cut a big trench in the bottom of the lake. It was about 200 feet long and several feet deep, somewhat like a trench silo. After a big rain the water that usually stood for months soaked into the ground in a few days' time.

Dr. Hall thinks we might have some recharge in this area after good rains, if there was any way to get the rain water below the first few feet of the hard baked soil.

The Wilkinson Ranch west of Big Spring has had little rain since last year, says manager Bill McIlvain. They have only 250 head of cattle on the ranch now, and don't have any kind of supplemental field grazing this year.

He said the mala herd was still in the Osage Hills near Hominy, Oklahoma.

Louis Etheridge, farming north of Ackerley, says crops are scattering in his area. He has some cotton holding up well, but some of the field has very little on it.

He said several farmers had tried to get irrigation water but had mostly failed. Some of them found a little water, but it was not enough to justify buying a pump and irrigation system.

Dawson County has some good cotton and feed, he said, but it varies with different communities, and some of them are almost as bare as Howard County.

The Cap Rock Electric Cooperative of Stanton will hold its annual directors' meeting August 4th. The three directors whose terms expire have already been renominated by the nominating committee and are expected to be re-elected.

These men are as follows: Edgar Phillips, Big Spring; Bill Howell, Lenora, and J. D. Cress.

There will not be an electric show this year, according to manager O. B. Bryan. Instead the cop will give away prizes and provide an entertainer who plays musical instruments and does imitations.

As usual the best irrigation cotton is found in the flatlands southwest of Tarzan. One can fairly well judge the amount of water an irrigation farmer has by the size of the cotton. The men with big wells have tall, bushy cotton, while a farmer with a small well stretches his water over a larger acreage proportionately.

One of the better cotton crops is that of Ralph Pugh, who is farming part of the Ocie Smith place. He says one reason a farmer doesn't get a good kill on insects anymore is because the cotton grows so tall. Sprayers can't cover all the leaves, so the worms just keep eating.

He has some cabbage loopers, but doesn't think they are doing too much damage. By using lots of water and $20.00 worth of fertilizer to the acre, Pugh has some cotton that might make three bales to the acre, if frost doesn't come too early.

Arson Probe Begins

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Two arson investigators have been assigned to work on the case of the 6-foot cross that was burned Tuesday night on U.S. 90 and Fire Chief M. L. Butler yesterday promised to prosecute persons responsible for the incident.

Ceylon May Sell Reds Radio Time

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Ceylon hopes to sell the Soviet Union broadcasting time over the radio station the Voice of America gave Ceylon's government five years ago.

E. Germans, Reds Form Trade Pact

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has promised Communist East Germany more trade and aid. The Russians also agreed to give the Red zone of Germany an atomic power station and have the yearly bill for support of Soviet occupation troops.

The new economic agreement, signed after only two days of final negotiation, in effect ties the East German economy still closer to Moscow.

(The new aid also appeared designed to meet widespread East German grumbling which has aroused Red fears of a workers' uprising similar to that in Poznan, Poland, June 28. The official East German news agency ADN said Russia would ship several billion marks worth of additional goods, making possible a boost in living standards.)

The Soviet and East German delegations toasted their work at a Kremlin banquet at which Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev ridiculed Western democracy as a sham. The picked audience laughed heartily.

"The imperialists could not strangle us in 1917 and 1918, when we stood alone. How can they do it now?" the Soviet Communist chief demanded.

A joint declaration of the two Communist regimes said both would welcome a united Germany but that the only way to bring together the split country "is by means of talks and agreement between the governments of both German states."

West Germany has insisted on free elections and refused to bargain directly with the neighboring Communist regime. In Bonn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government let it be known it would also reject the new unification proposal.

The joint statement called on Britain, France and the United States to reduce their garrisons in West Germany "with a view of ultimately recalling all the foreign troops" from the divided nation.

It said West German plans to conscript troops for the NATO defense forces are a bar to unification.

The new Soviet-East German agreement provides:

1. East Germany "will receive during 1957-60 big additional resources for the development of her national economy."
2. Both countries will increase exchanges of machinery, equipment and "other products and materials." No figures were given.
3. The Soviets will grant the East Germans more hard currency for purchase of "essential goods" from the West.
4. Beginning Jan. 1, the bill to East Germany for maintenance of Soviet troops is to be cut from one billion 600 million east marks to 800 million annually. (The East Germans say the new figure amounts to 47½ million dollars on the open market exchange.)

5. The Soviet Union will provide blueprints, equipment and material for a 100,000-kilowatt atomic power station in East Germany.

6. The two regimes will expand exchange of scientific and technical information and students and will "take other measures leading to the fruitful development of scientific and technological progress in both states."

The statement said the reduction in the Red army maintenance bill was made possible by the recent withdrawal of Soviet occupation troops from Germany. (The Russians previously announced they were pulling 32,000 men out of Germany; the East German news agency said the present Soviet garrison numbers 400,000.)

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and East German Premier Otto Grotewohl signed the document in the Marble Room of the Grand Kremlin Palace. Grotewohl and his delegation left for home today.

The reception after the signing ceremony was attended by Soviet officials and representatives of satellite and neutral embassies.

Khrushchev in his 45-minute tirade asserted that Western democracy's freedom was only for monopoly capitalists to plunder workers "and shear them like sheep." He asserted the Western press and radio served monopolists.

"The Western Powers, that is the capitalist powers, like to call themselves free countries, the free world (laughter), but this is the free world we liberated ourselves from 39 years ago (more laughter) and we wouldn't be tempted back if they offered it to us on a platter," he said.

Farm Queen Contest Opens

Entries are now being accepted for the Howard County Farm Bureau queen contest which will be held late in August.

Girls interested in entering the contest should write, telephone or visit the Farm Bureau offices in Big Spring.

To be eligible for the contest, a girl must be either the daughter or sister of an active Farm Bureau member, be single and be not younger than 16 years or older than 22 on Sept. 1.

The county Farm Bureau queen will compete for area honors at the district Farm Bureau contest which also will be conducted in Big Spring. The district winner gets an expenses-paid trip to the state contest, and the state queen will receive an expenses-paid trip to the national contest to be held this year in Miami, Fla.

Cherry Nut Citrus Mold Uses Juices

This unusual flavored gelatin mold, with garnishes and hot bread will be an ideal luncheon dish or can be used at a buffet dinner.

CHERRY-NUT MOLD

- 3 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
- ¼ cup cold water
- 3 cups orange juice
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup lime juice
- ½ cup lemon juice
- 2 medium-sized grapefruit, peeled and cut in sections.
- ½ cup maraschino cherries, cut in half and drained (about 20 cherries)
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat orange juice to boiling point. Add softened gelatin, sugar and salt. Stir until dissolved. Add lime juice and lemon juice. Mix well. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into 2-quart mold. Chill until firm.
- Serve on lettuce with dressing or as a dessert. Makes 6-8 servings.

Easy Sardine Stuffing Enhances Peppers

For an inexpensive meal for the sardine lovers here is one that is delightfully new and easy to prepare. Use sardines in cans to make an inexpensive and delicious filling for green peppers.

- Wash 6 green peppers and cut out stems making a large hole in the top. Scoop out the seeds and membranes. Cook in boiling water for 10 minutes or until tender. Drain. Mash 2 3/4 oz. cans sardines packed in mustard sauce. Mix in 2 1/2 cups cooked white rice, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1/2 cup milk, and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Fill peppers with sardine-rice mixture. Sprinkle 1/4 cup grated American cheese over the top of the peppers. Place in a shallow baking dish. Pour about 1/2 cup water around the peppers. Bake uncovered in a pre-heated 350 F. oven 30 minutes or until the cheese browns. Serve with a tomato sauce.

Casserole Ideal Dish For Summer

A quick and simple casserole makes an ideal summer-time dish for both cook and company. This easy macaroni casserole is one that the cook will enjoy making and the company eating. It is made with the ever-popular California Dip, that marvelous combination of onion soup mix and sour cream. The tangy flavor of the dip acts as a tasty foil for the blandness of the macaroni.

In this recipe a cup of the onion soup mix-sour cream mixture is blended in with cooked elbow macaroni as well as a half cup of cream and seasoning. These ingredients are then turned into a one and a half quart casserole and baked for twenty minutes.

Serve with a colorful tomato aspic and tall cool glasses of iced tea. For dessert pineapple ice cream. Here's the recipe:

EASY MACARONI CASSEROLE

- Ingredients:
- 1 box (8 oz.) elbow macaroni
- 1 cup California Dip
- 1/2 cup cream
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Freshly ground pepper

Method: Cook macaroni following the package directions; drain. Combine cooked macaroni with the remaining ingredients; turn into a 1 1/2-quart casserole and bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) for 20 minutes. Makes 5-6 servings.

California Dip: — Combine 1 pint sour cream and 1 package onion soup mix just as it comes from the package. For one cup of mix use 1/2 pint sour cream and 3 tablespoons (1/2 package) well-blended onion soup mix.

Mocha Mint Punch Is Cool, Delicious

Summer entertainment is always fun because there are so many tempting and delicious refreshments that can be used to add to lovely table decorations. Here's a punch recipe to cause your guests to ask for seconds.

Ingredients:

- 2 quarts freshly made double strength coffee
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 quarts water and ice cubes
- Peppermint flavoring
- 1/2 gallon chocolate ice cream
- 1 pint heavy cream
- Green food coloring

Pour coffee into punch bowl; add sugar, water and ice cubes; stir until sugar is dissolved and ice is melted. Add few drops of peppermint flavoring. Open carton of ice cream and use ice cream scoop or tablespoon to add ice cream to punch. Stir until ice cream is partially melted. Whip cream; stir in a few drops coloring to tint a delicate green. Spoon on top of punch. Yields 4 1/2-cup servings.

One-Dish Chowders Solution For Summer

For Saturday lunches and Sunday night suppers during the summer when a one-dish meal is called for, seafood, vegetable and variety chowders offer a solution for the busy housewife.

Here are some suggestions:

LIMA CHOWDER

- 2 cups large dry limas
- 2 quarts water
- 1 (2-inch) cube salt pork (optional)
- 1 large sliced onion
- 2 cloves crushed garlic
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 cup chopped parsley
- 2 peeled chopped tomatoes
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 (10 to 12-ounce) can minced clams.

Rinse limas, cover with water and let soak several hours or overnight. Brown salt pork, add onion and garlic and cook until onion is limp. (If pork is omitted, cook onion and garlic in one tablespoon butter). Pour into large kettle with limas and soaking water. Stir in celery, parsley, tomatoes, bay leaf and salt. Drain clams, pour liquid into soup mixture. Simmer 1 to 1 1/2 hours or until limas are tender. Stir in clams and simmer 3 minutes longer. Serves 6 generously (with second helpings).

TUNA-CORN CHOWDER

- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 1-3 cup chopped onion
- 1-3 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 3 cups whole milk
- 1 seven-ounce can tuna
- 2 cups whole kernel corn
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Melt margarine or butter in large saucepan. Add onion and green pepper. Cover pan and cook gently until vegetables are tender, but not brown. Remove pan from heat. Stir in curry powder and flour. Gradually stir in evaporated and whole milk. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat. Drain canned tuna and add with remaining ingredients. Continue cooking for 5 more minutes. Serve piping hot. Makes 4-6 servings.

CHICKEN DUMPLING CHOWDER

- 1/2 pound fat salt pork, diced
- 3 medium onion, sliced
- 1 twelve-ounce can kernel corn

1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate

1 to 2 cups left over chicken or turkey, diced

4 cups water

Stuffing dumplings

1 14-ounce can evaporated milk

Salt and pepper to taste

Fry salt pork slowly in kettle until crisp and golden brown. Remove pork, drain on absorbent paper. Cook onions in pork fat until soft but not brown. Add corn, monosodium glutamate, chicken or turkey, and water; bring to boil; simmer 20 minutes. Drop dumpling batter from teaspoon into chowder. Cover kettle; boil 12 minutes. Remove dumplings; add evaporated milk; heat to serving temperature. Season with salt and pepper. Pour into tureen; add dumplings and salt pork. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

STUFFING DUMPLINGS

Measure leftover chicken or turkey stuffing. Add equal amount biscuit mix. Add milk to make a soft dough. Drop from teaspoon into soup or chowder. Cover kettle, boil 12 minutes.

VEGETABLE CHOWDER

- 4 tablespoons ham fat, butter or margarine
- 1 large onion sliced
- 1 No. 2 can peas
- 2 cups diced potatoes
- 1 cup diced cooked or leftover ham
- Salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Add onion to fat in large saucepan and cook 10 minutes. Add peas, milk and ham. Heat thoroughly. Add salt to taste and pepper. Add parsley and serve. Yield: 4 generous servings.

Hot Weather Treat

Make some rich chicken stock with chicken giblets, wing tips, necks, bony back pieces. Cover the chicken parts with water and add a small onion and a carrot, some celery leaves, peppercorns, salt, whole cloves and whole allspice. When the giblets are tender the broth is ready. Chill, then remove all fat. Mix with heavy cream and curry powder to taste. Serve as a cold soup with chopped chives.

Lucky's A Lucky Bird!

With Kay Nell, 12, and Karen, 5, visiting their grandparents, Mrs. J. G. Turner has the care of Lucky, a parakeet. Lucky doesn't know how well his name applies to him! He was brought into the yard by one of the three Turner cats (at one time there were seven in the cat family!) and was rescued just before he became a tasty meal—with no barbecue sauce! Lucky has been a member of the Turner family about three months and does plenty of chattering to himself; he hasn't started talking yet.

Surprise Sauce Came From Disappointment

"You can't imagine our disappointment when we ordered barbecue in an Alabama town!" said Mrs. J. G. Turner, 300 Park. "For one thing, we expected beef barbecue and this was pork, and it didn't have the color we were accustomed to. She explained that both she and her husband had grown up in Texas, and they were astonished at seeing barbecue looking as if it had been charred. Even the sauce didn't look like what they were accustomed to.

Later, having made friends in the town, they were invited to a barbecue. Capt. Turner very tactfully asked that the sauce be left off his portion. Just let them think he had an ulcer if they wanted to! After the Texan has sneaked a bite of the delicious barbecue from his wife's plate, he was sorry he had spoken up so quickly. The flavor was a delightful surprise! Now, Mrs. Turner has adopted the recipe she learned back in Alabama, and, "with a dash of this and a shake of that," she mixes barbecue sauce, tasting as she works, in the manner of all good cooks.

Here is her basic recipe for Barbecue Sauce, Dixie Style:

- Ingredients:
- 1 stick margarine
- 1 large onion
- 1 clove garlic
- 1/2 bottle Worcestershire sauce
- 1-3 cup vinegar
- 1-3 cup water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika

Nuts-Fruit-Cheese For Unusual Mold

For the lazy, hard-to-please appetite in the summer here's a quick dish that will perk up any appetite.

LIME-CHEESE-SALAD

- 2 three-ounce packages lime gelatin
- 1 quart hot water
- 1 No. 303 can grapefruit sections, drained
- 1-3 cup chopped maraschino cherries, drained (about 15 cherries)
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese

Dissolve gelatin in water. Add grapefruit. Pour 1-3 gelatin mixture into 1 1/2 quart mold. Chill until firm. Chill remaining gelatin mixture until slightly thickened. Meanwhile, fold cherries and walnuts into cottage cheese. Spread cheese mixture over firm gelatin. Top with thickened gelatin mixture. Chill until firm.

Serve with your favorite dressing. Makes 6-8 servings.

New Ice Cream Twist

Stir finely chopped toasted coconut into softened vanilla ice cream, then store in freezing compartment of refrigerator. Serve with chocolate sauce.

Weight-Watching?

Stir grated cucumber (seeds removed before grating) into a diet dressing and serve over sliced tomatoes to the weight-watcher in your family.

For Quick Dessert Use Easy Method

Need a quick easy dessert? Here's one that is good enough for guests and simple enough to make often for the family.

QUICK SHORTCAKE

- 2 cups biscuit mix
- 1/2 cup instant cream
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 cup water

Method: Mix the dry ingredients thoroughly and stir in water. Roll out into six biscuits. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes in oven at 450 degrees F.

Split the shortcake biscuits and make a sandwich filled with canned or frozen pitted cherries or fresh or frozen strawberries. If you prefer, pit fresh cherries and allow them to stand in sugar for a few hours.

Youngster In Kitchen

The toy counters in some shops hold tiny muffin tins, miniature layer cakepans, small loaf pans. Good utensils to have around if you want to interest your small daughter in learning to bake!

Use Green Peppers

Cut the top from a green pepper and remove seeds and white membranes. Slice into wide rings. Fill rings with egg salad.

IF YOU GAINED COMMAND OF THE SHIP, WHAT COULD YOU DO? YOU DO NOT KNOW WHERE WE ARE OR HOW TO SET A COURSE TO STEER BY. FOOD AND FUEL ARE RUNNING LOW, AND—

OH, GOLLY, THAT'S SWEET!

SNUFFY SMITH

I'M AFEEERED SAMANTHY AN' NANNETTE ARE FIXIN' TO LOCK HORNS OVER JUGHAID, PAW—

SIMMER DOWN, MAW—THEM TWO FEMALES WONT TANGLE.

WHEN I WUZ A SHIRT-TAIL YOUNG-UN TWO LITTLE GAALS GOT TO FUSSIN' OVER ME AN'—

WHAT ON AIRTH HAPPENT?

TH' BOTH OF 'EM LEFT ON ME!!

NOW HE TELLS ME!!

GRANDMA

GRANDMA, I DON'T BELIEVE YOU GET OUT IN YOUR YARD MUCH ANY MORE!

THAT'S RIGHT, I STAY IN PRETTY CLOSE, GECIL!

SOMEONE GAVE MY LITTLE NEIGHBOR BOY A SLING—SHOT FOR HIS BIRTHDAY...

AN' UNTIL ONE OF TH' RUBBER BANDS BREAKS, I TRY NOT TO BE TOO CONSPICUOUS.

DONALD DUCK

MADAM LOLO'S DANCING SCHOOL.

THANK YOU... IT WAS DELIGHTFUL!

WELL, WHO WON?

LOLO'S DANCING SCHOOL.

JOE PALOOKA

THANKS FOR TH' COMPLIMENT, LEEBY... BUT, SHUCKS—I WEREN'T THAT GOOD A PITCHER, ANYWAY—I RETIRED TO BECOME A PITCHIN' COACH FOR TH' RAIDERS!

AND GRAMPS IS A TERRIFIC PITCHING COACH.

PREECH... I LIKE YA IF YOU AN' HE IS GONNA HIT IT OFF PERFECT... YER TH' ANOTHER TYPE... JUST LIKE ME?

TELL YA WHAT I'M GONNA DO FER YA, PREECH... I'LL TREAT YA T' TH' HONOR OF A SNEAK-PREVIEW OF THAT NEW PITCHIN' SENSATION, JERRY LEEBY IN ACTION!

BUT... OH, GRAMPS... ISN'T WE SHUPPY HOMERUNNERS? LET'S GO OUT TO THE YARD.

I'LL GO AN' GET INTO MY UNIFORM... TRY T'KEEP YER SHOOTS ON... I'LL ONLY BE A FEW MINUTES...

SCORCHY SMITH

HE'S A CONN' AT ME AGAIN—GOT TO MANUEVER THIS CREEP OUT O' HERE!

CAN'T HOLD OUT MUCH LONGER—TARGET PLANE LOOKS BLOTTED—HEY!

THAT'S SOME FLYING FOR A PILOTLESS PLANE—THE BASE JOCKEYS MUST BE HAVING FUN—OR SOMETHING!!

OAKY DOAKS

I ALLUZ SHIP OFF TH' HEADS O' TATTLIN' SHOOPEERS!

PAPA, GRAN'PA'S OFF HIS ROCKER AGAIN! WHAT'LL WE DO?

RUN FOR OUR LIVES!

TAKE THAT!

HEE, HEE! NOW TRY TO TELL KING CORNY I'M A SMUGGLER!

POGO

NOTHING COULD BE FURTHER FROM THE NOBLE DOG'S HEART THAN TO HURT YOUR FEELINGS, DEAR FRIEND, DESPITE THE OUTRAGEOUS FACT THAT YOU HAVE STOLEN MY SHEETHEART.

HENCE, LIKE I SAY, I SHALL APPEAR ON THE TEEVY WITH YOU TO AID YOUR CHANCES FOR THE PRESIDENCY—NOTHING HELPS LIKE A GOOD DOG ACT.

BUT I AIN'T.

LOOK, WE COME ON IN A BROTHERLY SHOW OF FAWNING FUN AN' GAY, LIGHT LAUGHTER, WEARING FRIGHT HATS AND PONG MAGIC TRICKS...

I KNOW A TRICK—HOW TO MAKE A ELEPHANT DISAPPEAR! YOU TAKE A RAW EGG, A HIGH SILK HAT AN' A MOUSE, THEN YOU—

SEE WHAT VOTE IS YOU TRYIN' TO INFLUENCE?

DICKIE DARE

I FOUND THE TOOL BOX, BRAD! WE DO EAT!

LIFE ON AN OL'-TIME SAILIN' CRAFT... MAN, YOU K'N THROW ALL BUT OTHER BOATS AWAY!

YOU'RE TOO NARROW! MOTOR BOATS ARE RAFTS OF FUN—AND THERE ARE NO OLD-TIME SAILING CRAFT LEFT!

SCUSE ME, DICK, BUT I WANTCHA TO GET A LOAD OF WHAT I'M LOOKIN' AT.
