Bomb Lacking Deadly Atom Fall-Out Tested

WASHINGTON (AP)—American atomic scientists may have found the secret of how to blast an intended H-bomb target without spreading radioactivity to other areas.

This possibility was suggested last night when Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission announced that current nuclear tests in the Pacific have shown progress toward achievement of maximum effect in the immediate area of a target with minimum widespread fall-out hazard.

Strauss said the tests have shown "real progress" toward limiting the danger of radioactive fall-out—the fearsome by-product of nuclear explosions—and in development of a variety of nuclear weapons, including those intended for use in defense against air attack.

House Panel Rakes AEC Chief For 'Bogging' Atomic Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Over administration opposition, the House Appropriations Committee today called on the Atomic Energy Commission to speed up construction of government atomic power plants.

The committee majority demanded a shakeup in the commission. It said the United States is "bogged down in inexcusable stagnation" in the race to develop commercial atomic power and singled out AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss for special castigation as the man primarily responsible.

The views were embodied in a stinging report accompanying a bill financing the AEC. The report was drafted by Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.). It was expected to draw a quick rebuttal from Republican members.

It asserted that the United States is behind Russia and Great Britain in atomic power and said "the Russians and the British are going to have atomic electric power sooner than this country."

The committee moved squarely into the middle of a hot congressional fight by recommending 400 million dollars to put into effect a program of government construction of atomic power plants.

The committee took cognizance of claims that private industry is able and willing to keep this country ahead in the atomic field. It said none of the atomic reactors now in use have been built by private electric companies and said the evidence "overwhelmingly forecloses any suggestion that the time is ripe for private industry to take up the task."

"A mere statement of the attendant risks defeats any such proposition," it said. "This transcends any issue of private power vs. public power. Neither group is in a position to undertake the risk of insolvency. The operation and construction of commercial plants (by the government) will thus provide information that can be obtained in no other way."

The committee said "the inherent dangers" in the operation of an atomic power plant "are awesome to consider," and no one can say that an atomic plant "will not get out of control."

No private operator "dares take such a chance," it added. "The problem goes way beyond the possibility of explosion, as industrial explosions are known to us. The problem is the escape of radioactive gases or waters into the surrounding terrain. This deterrent alone is of such magnitude that only the government itself is in a position to go ahead with the vital problem at hand."

Jaycees Due In City For Convention

Junior Chamber of Commerce representatives—from all of West Texas will be arriving in Big Spring late today and Saturday for the annual tri-region Jaycee convention.

About 250 persons are expected for the gathering, host Jaycees said. Some 30 towns will send delegations.

A round of social activities is planned for Saturday afternoon and evening. This will be highlighted by a dinner-dance at the Settles ballroom Saturday night. The Steve Birdwell orchestra of Snyder will provide music.

Business sessions open at 9 a.m. Sunday with a devotional by Rev. Arthur Hoyles, Wolstanton, England, Methodist pastor who is serving as exchange pastor for the First Methodist Church here this month.

Activities also are planned for the wives of visiting Jaycees. The local Junior Chamber of Commerce will furnish transportation to Sunday School and churches Sunday morning. The entire group will gather at the high school cafeteria at noon Sunday for a luncheon-business session.

Texans Scurry For 'Safety' In Mock Attack

By The Associated Press

Sirens wailed throughout Texas Friday as men, women and children scurried for safety in a nationwide A-bomb test.

The A-bomb attack by an unnamed enemy was make-believe but if it had been the real thing an estimated 1,750,000 Texans would have died.

At 7 a.m. Friday a sabotage alert was sounded at Strategic Air Force bases to warn that enemy action of some sort was expected.

At 9:16 a.m. the "yellow alert" was sounded, the signal that "unidentified aircraft" had entered the air defense zone.

Immediately the State Defense and Disaster Relief Organization set up a state control center at the Department of Public Safety in the Austin area.

Woman Admits Killing Gambler

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Betty Barry, 24, was under charges of the murder of Louis (Chicken Louie) Ferrantello today after saying she shot him Tuesday night.

U. S. Holds Biggest Civil Defense Alert

Court Inspects Marshes. S-Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, charged with the death of six Marine recruits, inspects Ribbon Creek where the drownings occurred April 8 at Parris Island, S. C. Newsman in foreground watch as McKeon's civilian attorney, Emile Zola Berman (wearing hat) and Sgt. McKeon (at Berman's right) show members of the court-martial over the area.

Sergeant Says Night Marches Not Unusual

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—A senior Marine drill instructor said today it was not unusual to march recruits into the marshes and waters of this training base for disciplinary purposes.

The testimony came from S-Sgt. Edward A. Huff of Chicago in the court-martial of S-Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, 31, of Worcester, Mass., is on trial for marching a 74-man recruit platoon into a tide swept creek "to teach them discipline."

"If such night marches and treks into the creeks, swamps and marshes are customary at this 5,000-acre training center, Berman holds, that explains McKeon's behavior and the whole incident was but a tragic accident."

Reappears. Eugene H. Robertson, a Texas whose disappearance caused alarm in Los Angeles, tells police he abandoned his auto and fled after two men pulled up beside him on the Hollywood Freeway and fired several shots at him. Robertson said he took the train back to Lubbock, Texas, and flew back to California when he read a column of his disappearance.

Whether those methods had any bearing on McKeon's conduct in leading a 74-man recruit platoon into marsh-bordered Ribbon Creek in which six drowned has become a sharp issue in the trial.

Clement said a man could walk across the creek at some points at low tide. The banks at low tide, he added, are clear of the water.

House Delays Vote On Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today agreed to put off a final vote on the civil rights bill until Monday.

With the agreement, Southern members, their objective of delay accomplished, dropped their filibustering tactics.

Senate Confirms Hoffman U.N. Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today brushed aside protests by a small group of Republicans and confirmed overwhelmingly Paul G. Hoffman's nomination as U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

Blind Man Paints House

Claude VanDorstan, blind furniture worker of Battle Creek, Mich., applies a coat of paint to his family home. Claude spent his two-week vacation painting the house with help only from his sister, Mrs. Audrae Osborne, who painted up near the roof top and eaves. His other helper is Baron, his leader dog, who watches the project.

GOVERNOR RACE

Candidates Indulge In Sharp Words

Candidates for governor had plenty to say about each other Thursday. W. Lee O'Daniel said backers of Sen. Price Daniel were going to "the greedy oil men and demanding big contributions. They're saying 'We must stop O'Daniel.' They're scared and running around like a jack-rabbit with their ears pinned back." Daniel said "How can a man say he's running on the Golden Rule and then make the insinuations he is making?" O'Daniel's motto in the race is the Golden Rule. Ralph Yarborough asserted Daniel "is an integral part of the Allan Shivers machine which has been linked with corruption in Austin for seven years." J. Everts Haley said "George Parr, the Duke of Duval County should throw his support to Daniel because Daniel will need it." Reuben Senterfitt said "so many candidates want to clean up something in Austin it looks like they're running for janitor."

Shrimpers Claim Piracy

BROWNSVILLE — Texas shrimpers said yesterday some of their numbers are threatening to take up arms against "acts of piracy" by Mexican gunboats on the high seas. In telegrams to President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and Texas congressmen, the Texas Shrimp Assn. said: "Some of our members are threatening to arm and protect themselves. The situation is rapidly getting out of hand and bloodshed is feared." Two Texas shrimp boats, the Ann Carinbas and Green's Pride, were boarded about 60 miles south of here Wednesday by Mexican gunboat crews and escorted into Mexican harbors. Two shrimper captains who were in the area said they heard three bursts of machinegun fire over their radios at the time of the boardings. The owner of Green's Pride, Frank Green, said his captain told him shortly before his boat was boarded that the vessel had been fired upon and that the Mexican gunboats had cut the boats' nets in an apparent effort to ram them. The two captains also said they heard a Coast Guard report from the cutter U.S. Boutwell out of Brownsville saying location of nets and buoys indicated the boats were 14 miles out to sea when boarded. The U. S. claims jurisdiction of waters within three marine miles and Mexico claims nine marine miles. A marine mile is about 1.8 land miles.

Old Ike Friend To Legate Post

LONDON — Sir Harold Caccia, one of Britain's top career diplomats and an old friend of President Eisenhower, has been named Britain's new ambassador to Washington. Caccia, 51, was named today to succeed Sir Roger Makins. Makins is returning to Britain as one of Prime Minister Eden's chief aides in the government's battle to bolster Britain's economy.

Britain Renegs On Aid Offer For Egypt Dam

LONDON — Britain joined the United States today in withdrawing its offer to help Egypt finance its proposed Aswan Dam. A Foreign Office spokesman said that after close consultation with the United States "we have also concluded that in the present circumstances it is not feasible to participate in the project."

The United States announced yesterday that it has withdrawn its offer to help finance the giant project. The British spokesman said the same factors which caused the United States to cancel its offer influenced the decision of the British government. He did not enumerate the factors beyond saying they centered around Egypt's "economic capacity" to pay its share of the $1,300,000,000 undertaking.

Under the Western proposals Britain would have supplied 15 million dollars and the United States 55 million dollars to enable Egypt to buy the machinery and equipment to start construction of the dam. Additionally the World Bank of which the United States and Britain are two of the most important members, offered 200 million dollars in loans. The United States and Britain promised also to consider sympathetically subsequent additional loans of 130 million dollars. This program of Western help would have left Egypt to find the remaining 900 million dollars to meet local costs of the dam, which according to estimates would take up to 15 years to complete.

At Houston, Haley said he does not consider the 14th Amendment binding because it was forced on the South after the Civil War. Haley, who bases his campaign on a states rights platform, made the statement in answer to a question on a TV program. The amendment states that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States... are citizens of the United States" and that "no state shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens..."

White Man's Way Too Terrifying

LARAMIE, Wyo. — Edward Behan turned the wrong way into a one-way street in Denver Monday night and in the resulting traffic jam his 15-year-old son scrambled out of the car and ran. The Indian boy was picked up here yesterday, 135 miles from Denver and still 270 miles short of their home on the Wind River reservation at Pavillion, Wyo. Milton Behan related he had hitched rides, slept in trees and bummed meals. "Too many automobiles in Denver," he said.

Top Demos Begin Final Delegate Hunt

WASHINGTON — The three top contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination headed West today on final delegate hunts after joining in praising retiring Sen. Walter George of Georgia for "saving" the Eisenhower administration from foreign policy blunders.

Adlai Stevenson, one of the featured speakers at a $100-a-plate party dinner in George's honor, last night called George the Democrats' "voice of peace." Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), Stevenson's chief rivals for the Democratic nomination, echoed his sentiments at the testimonial gathering attended by nearly 1,400 Democrats. The dinner took on the aspect of a party harmony session. Most of the proceeds were earmarked to help Democrats win or hold Senate seats this fall.

Stevenson coupled his praise of George's role in the nation's foreign affairs with a blast at the Republican administration which Stevenson said has "stubbornly" clung to inflexible foreign policies in the face of Russia's shift in tactics.

Stevenson's contention was challenged by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that George now heads. Smith said in an interview away from the dinner that the Eisenhower administration "consistently has been willing to have constant reappraisal of our position." He added that "flexibility is one of the keys to our policy."

At the dinner, George — retiring next January at the age of 78 after 34 years in the Senate — avoided mention of the coming convention battle in his speech to the Democrats who had come to honor him. Instead, he spoke of peace and the need to be militarily ready to defend it. "If we want peace we have got to be willing to fight for it and nothing will suffice but adequate military appropriations," he said. "We have got to be ready because we will not be able to get ready to meet another world emergency if that arises quickly."

Texan Prevented From Stealing His Own Children

SUSANVILLE, Calif. — By-standers and airport workers prevented a wealthy Texan yesterday from stealing his children from his estranged wife and taking them away in a private plane. James Pardee, Lassen County district attorney, said Thomas Moran, 33, of Dumas, struck his wife, Barbara, 23, and her mother, Mrs. Ben Hazeltine, while attempting to grab the children. Moran was jailed. The children are Daniel, 2, and Jana, 1. Mrs. Moran had sued for divorce in Reno, asking custody. Moran told that court a judge in Texas had granted him a divorce and custody. He asked the Nevada court to recognize the Texas decision. Pardee said Moran had lured the family to the airport by saying he wanted to pick up a brief case before they all went to Reno. Mrs. Moran told the Reno court he was worth $478,486, owned three airplanes, a cattle ranch and a wheat ranch and was president of a prospecting firm at Albuquerque.

Jess Talkin'

There has been a spurge of well-drilling in the area south and west of Stanton since last fall. Not many big wells were brought in, as most of them pump from 150 to 300 gallons.

Ten miles south of Stanton a 250-gallon well was brought in on the John Priddy farm. He drilled it too late in the year, but he will use it for the next crop. He said conditions were bad in that area. They got very little rain, and crops prospects are poor.

The existence of the St. Lawrence community hangs on a hundred little streams of water. Again there are no dryland crops, and irrigation wells are 100 per cent responsible for whatever crops will be harvested.

Those small wells cover a lot of acres and very little water is wasted. Some farmers seem to stretch their water too far, but they're always hoping that a good rain will come along and lighten the load. As it is, most of the cotton looks as if it will average a bale to a bale and a half to the acre.

Very little of it will yield in comparison with the tall cotton at Taran, simply because there is not enough water. Doris Blissard has one of the best crops seen. This year he is irrigating 200 acres of cotton with five wells. With average good luck, he has prospects of making 400 bales of cotton.

Insects are beginning to build up in that area, and yesterday an airplane was making swoops over some of the fields. The most troublesome insect at present is the bollworm.

Edward Plagens Jr., said his field hadn't been troubled too much with worms. He is irrigating 115 acres of cotton with two wells, which pump 175 and 275 gallons per minute. Last year he gathered 125 bales from 103 acres.

Sterling County is drier than it's ever been before, according to Bob Brown, feed dealer. He said livestock numbers had been cut in half the last few years, and ranchers were still selling.

Brown said some ranchers had been feeding for five years now and were getting tired of it. Most of them would have sold all their sheep and cattle long ago if they had known the drought was to continue.

"But a fellow never knows," said Brown. "He thinks that if he can hold on a little longer, the rains will come back and he'll have green grass on his pastures. Now some of us are beginning to wonder if we'll ever have any wet years again."

For the first time in several years local hands have been hoeing most of the cotton. In Martin County few braceros were brought in for this, because local laborers are supposed to have first choice of jobs.

Sterling County drew a blank this year on crops. The farmers on the North Divide, a flat tableland northeast of Sterling City, made fair crops last year, but have bare fields now.

Only five farmers in the county signed up for the soil bank program, according to Mrs. Roxey Brock of the ASC. She said there were only 15 cotton farmers in the county, and most of these live on the Divide.

County Agent Jimmy Taylor recently returned from Denver, Colorado, where he bought 35 lambs for the Howard County 4-H Club members.

Taylor said there was some misunderstanding about his going up there to buy cheap lambs. The trip wasn't for that purpose at all. "The reason I went to Colorado for the lambs," he said, "was because good animals are just not available now here."

Texas may brag but it doesn't advertise. Nearly all the western states do a better job of advertising their historical sites and scenic wonders. New Mexico is probably the best at it. Anywhere one goes in the state he sees highway markers directing him to some natural wonder or old battleground. Nothing seems too trivial to rate a brown and gold marker, just as it happened as long as 59 years ago. If some embattled range cook killed an Indian with an iron skillet, the state has a marker right on the spot. Of course Billy the Kid is the Napoleon of New Mexico. Wherever he trod the ground is sacred.

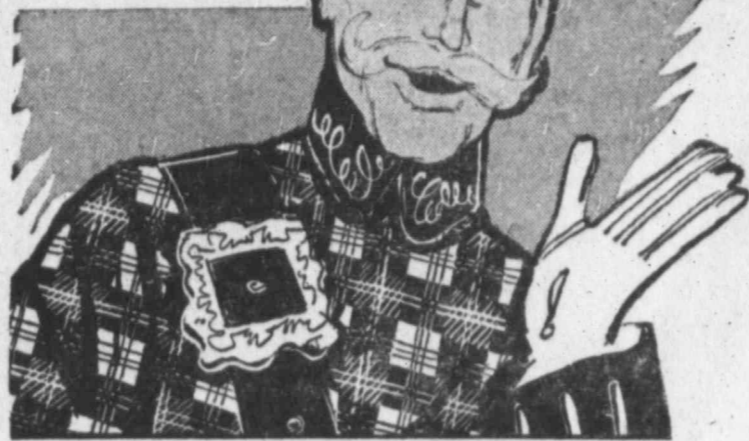

If he had shot a kangaroo rat at some certain place and a historian found out about it in three weeks time a monument would be erected to commemorate the killing. The inscription would probably read like this: "At this spot on July 26, 1877, William H. Bonney, Alias Billy the Kid, shot and killed Rodney Rat. The two met at a bend in the trail whereupon the victim bared his teeth in a snarl and kicked sand into the face of Billy's horse and frightened him. To avenge this wrong, Billy drew his pistol and fired twice, with the second shot tearing off the head of the enemy. This was the 47th time that the Kid had been forced to kill in self defense."

Some of the other states are not far behind New Mexico in the horn tooting department. In coming across the Wyoming-Colorado border, there were to be big signs. One read: "You are Leaving Wonderful Wyoming," and a little farther on the other one: "You are Entering Colorful Colorado." I felt tempted to stop and put up a third sign: "Drive Fast — You are Only 450 Miles From Terrific Texas!"

Quicker FBI Action In Kidnapings

The kidnaping of the Weinberger infant in Westbury, N. Y., found an echo in Congress Tuesday when the House Judiciary Committee approved a bill to let the FBI move in sooner on kidnaping cases. The bill had been introduced more than a year ago by Rep. Keating (R-NY).

Walter Lippman Dulles' Confusion On Neutralism

Mr. Dulles on neutralism has been behaving for all the world like the man who went into a dark room looking for a black cat that wasn't there. The black cat that Mr. Dulles has been looking for is a universal all-purpose definition of neutrality which will announce the exact temperature of our official moral disapproval.

Such a thing ought not to happen in a well conducted government. For it betrays of confusion of mind which is more damaging than the attacks of our adversaries. On June 9 at Ames, Iowa, Mr. Dulles declared that, except under very exceptional circumstances, the principle of neutrality is obsolete, short-sighted, and immoral.

if the victim has not been returned unharmed. Kidnaping became a major crime in the early years of the great depression, when gangsters took it up for the profits involved. By 1931 kidnapings for ransom numbered two or three thousand, and there was an increase in 1932. Until then the apprehension and punishment of such criminals was left largely to the states, in respect to their inherent police powers.

Twins Separated

Surgeons and assistants locate the nerve connection between the Hutchens' Siamese twins in the operating room of a San Diego, Calif., hospital. One nerve was found in the spinal channel connecting Gary Neil and Larry Dale Hutchens and the twins, 17 days old, were separated by surgery. This picture was taken by Aren-Schon, medical photographers.

It Hurts, But Strikers Stick To Their Guns

GARY, Ind. (AP)—What happens when Big Steel's gates are locked, its blast furnaces banked and more than half a city's working population is left without work—and without pay?
That's the situation in Gary, home of the world's largest steel mill, a city born on the Indiana dunes and grown to maturity on the fringe and the wealth of U.S. Steel's sprawling acreage there.
Looking up Broadway, the city's main artery, a month ago, you would have seen the familiar pall of smoke in the northern sky by day and a bright orange glow at night.
Today the sky is clear and people walk slower, because 31,000 of them are in the 19th day of a nationwide steel strike in a city where nearly three out of every five workmen normally labor at "The Mill."

"We wouldn't mind the layoff if we knew it would end next week. It gives us a rest and time to get things done around home. But the uncertain length of it is bad, because you don't know how long to spread your savings."
Some strikers said they make a practice of setting aside money each payday so they'll be prepared "when contract time comes around." Others wait for the time when the United Steelworkers dip into welfare funds to help them out.
Over at union hall Oscar Leonard, representative of the international union, said, "We haven't made any welfare payments yet, but we probably will if the strike continues."
Filling stations, theaters and grocery stores reported almost the usual run of business. One downtown grocery was filling orders with payment not due until 30 days after the strike ends. A chain grocery manager said, "I don't know yet what we'll do if the strike continues."
Up at the main gate of the Gary works a few off-duty pickets played baseball and another group strolled in and out of a refreshment tent where they watched television or ate. Company officials had run a power cable from inside the plant to the tent.
E. C. Roseau, Chamber of Commerce head, said the city probably was better prepared for this strike than any in the past.
"We've acquired a little more stability; people have more money in the banks. I think that's why things have been so easy going the last three weeks."
At strike's end, Gary will probably have spic-and-span neighborhoods. Stores report a general run on paint and do-it-yourself items. But what bothers many is: "We're running out of such jobs, and money too."

Texan Killed By Lightning

Lightning killed one person, crops were wiped out by heavy hail, and some drought-stricken areas received soaking rains as violent thunderstorm struck Thursday in the Texas South Plains.
Aguirre Campo, 20, Mexican farm worker, was killed by a bolt near Littlefield.
Hailstones up an inch in diameter in places covered the ground 5 to 8 inches deep. The hail battered cotton in a strip 2 miles wide and 8 to 10 miles long in the Littlefield area.
From 3 to 4 inches of rain fell around Littlefield. Rains up to an inch and a half fell in the Lubbock area.
Showers fell Thursday night in Lubbock and Abilene. During the early morning hours Friday, Fort Worth, Dallas and Mineral Wells had light rains.
For most of Texas, the weather was hot and dry. More cities were tightening restrictions on water use. Temperatures Thursday ranged from 84 at Amarillo to 107 at Presidio. Temperature before dawn ran from 62 at Lubbock to 81 at Waco.
The forecast called for clear to partly cloudy and continued hot weather with widely scattered thunderstorms.

Wednesday was payday for the 20,500 workers at the Gary works. A steady stream of men and women of all ages went to Municipal Auditorium to pick up their last check for work done before the strike. Some came alone, some with their families. Worry and determination were on their faces.
A woman office worker who'd just been paid said, "We're getting used to the strike. It's not the first one, you know. Like a lot of people, I've saved up money, but it would still be better to be working."
Another man, who wouldn't be named, said in a foreign accent, "It's not good. I'm only getting three days pay. When that's gone, then what? Everyone except these collecting vacation pay was paid for three to five days. The payroll totaled two million dollars.
Broadway was crowded, but there wasn't much buying. Clothing stores and jewelers complained of "few customers and fewer buyers." Dave Stein, who operates a men's store, said, "We've cut prices to the bone to bring in trade, but it hasn't helped much. Business is bad and we look for it to get worse."
A mill electrician, Dave Harms, 28, took advantage of the strike to finish building a home. He said, supervisory personnel in and out of the mills.

Pickets invariably wave or shout a greeting as company representatives pass through the gate, a far cry from days past when feelings ran high and picket line tensions sometimes erupted into violence.
Where supervisors are not kept occupied checking and maintaining furnaces and machinery, they spend some time getting accumulated paperwork out of the way.
Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp. has instituted a special plant training program for foremen and superintendents.
U.S. Steel Corp. has intensified its normal training program, both in its plants and various offices, and Crucible Steel Co. of America plans to step up its program if the strike lasts much longer.
Steel companies are tightening their belts to reduce as much as possible losses during the shutdown.
The only layoffs of nonstriking employees have been reported by Pittsburgh Steel Co., as follows: some 300 hourly rated workers, who have applied for Pennsylvania unemployment compensation; 150 salaried workers who draw half pay or $30 a week, whichever is greater.
About 550 salaried employees continue to receive full pay, but only a relative handful actually are working, a spokesman said. He said 1,500 are drawing salaries.
Pittsburgh Steel has eliminated all advertising for the duration of the strike. Other companies report their advertising programs unchanged.
Nearly all steel firms are "encouraging" nonstriking employees to take their vacations during the shutdown.

Steel Firms Tighten Belts For Duration

PITTSBURGH (AP)—What are the steel companies doing now that operations are shut down by a nationwide strike?
All across the country in darkened mills, supervisors are keeping a watchful eye on banked furnaces and silenced machinery. Most clerical, engineering and other white-collar employees are going about their daily duties as usual. Many others are on vacation.
Nonstriking for the most part haven't felt the financial pinch. Only a few layoffs have been reported. There have been no reports of salary slashes.
As one Pittsburgh steel company spokesman put it:
"Right now we're in a sort of transitional stage. We've been fairly busy up until now. But from here on there's going to be some sliding."
"We have tried to keep our non-striking personnel busy at constructive things. But there's bound to come a time when this won't be possible."
The spokesman indicated his firm might lay off some office and supervisory personnel and cut some salaries if the strike is lengthy.
In the 1952 steel strike Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. pared salaries 40 per cent, the only big steel company to do so. A J.L. spokesman said, "I confidently expect there won't be anything of the sort this time."
J.L. reported its plant supervisors busy on maintenance and other work in idle plants to prevent damage to furnaces and equipment.
Most steel companies have an agreement with the union permitting unhampered movement of

Russians May Move In With Egypt Dam Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new Russian drive to expand its influence in Egypt and the Arab world was foreseen today as a probable consequence of American cancellation of an offer to help Egypt build its proposed Aswan high dam.
The United States' decision was disclosed to Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussara by Secretary of State Dulles in a 50-minute meeting in Dulles' office yesterday. It was announced by the State Department immediately afterward.
The next moves in the tough diplomatic struggle—which could have a fateful bearing on the future of the Middle East—are now clearly up to Cairo and to Moscow.
Russia reportedly has made several offers to help Egypt build the dam. Some officials think she will now push her offers. Others express doubt, and say that even if Russia does agree to back the project, she may not be able to make good on it.
Dulles and his top policy advisers were reported to have weighed carefully the dangers involved in canceling the U.S. offer, and to have decided that in the circumstances the United States must take a calculated risk in order to achieve its own major purpose.
Among these purposes, highly placed informants said, was the need to put an end to the idea of growing in many neutral countries that their best interests lie in playing off the United States and Russia against each other.
The decision not to go through with the Aswan Dam deal was described in State Department quarters as a "stiff warning" that the United States will not submit to bargaining by "blackmail."
"The formal statement said that the United States government has concluded that it is not feasible in present circumstances to participate in the dam construction project."
Two reasons for this conclusion were stated in general terms. One was that Egypt had not reached agreement with other states, notably the Sudan, on the use of Nile River waters to be impounded by the $1,300,000,000 dam.
The other was that Egypt's ability to carry out its 900-million-dollar share of the huge construction project "has become more uncertain" than it was when the offer was made seven months ago.
The statement held the door open to Nasser for negotiations on some new and less ambitious Nile River development program—on two conditions. Agreements would have to be worked out with the Sudan and Ethiopia as well as the British territories of Uganda and Tanganyika for a program that would bring benefits to all the countries on the Nile. Also, officials said, water development work in Egypt would have to be

Siamese Twins Are Parted By Surgery

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Larry and Gary Hutchens, born 18 days ago as Siamese twins, lay in separate hospital cribs today.
Physicians believe the twins face a normal, healthy future as a result of a separation operation yesterday.
Dr. Thomas F. O'Connell, chief surgeon at the operation, said that although there is a chance that complications may develop, he is "extremely optimistic" over the twins' future.
He said it would be two weeks before it can be determined whether there is any brain or other serious damage to either twin. He said the chances of such a complication is "minimal."
The operation was not performed without difficulty. During surgery it was discovered that the twins' spinal channels were joined.

This was severed, along with a single nerve.
The twins, given only a local anesthetic (novocaine), showed no distress during the 54-minute operation, surgeons said. They began to fuss when it was over.
After their separation, the twins were moved to separate operating tables for closing of the nerve ends and the incisions.
Larry and Gary are the sons of Floyd Hutchens, 39, and his wife 33, both of whom were at the Grossmont Hospital in suburban La Mesa during the operation.
The Hutchens, of El Cajon, Calif., formerly lived in Goree, Tex. They have two other sons, Ronald Dean, 5, and Floyd Don, 12.
"I'm anxious to get them home," Mrs. Hutchens said. "We saw the babies just before the operation. They seemed wonderful."
The American Medical Assn. said there have been four authentic cases in which twins have been separated and survived.

Government Has '56 Budget Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in five years -- and the fourth since 1930--the government has ended the 1956 bookkeeping year with a budget surplus.
The surplus on June 30, the end of the last fiscal year, totaled $1,754,357,066.
This was reported by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Budget Director Percival F. Brundage. It fulfilled predictions made earlier this year by the Eisenhower administration and met the goal the administration has been aiming at since it took office.

Cyprus Policy Gets Approval

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden's Conservative government today had a solid parliamentary stamp of approval on its policy for strife-ridden Cyprus.
By a 319-246 vote, the House of Commons last night rejected a Labor motion to censure Edeh's handling of the Cyprus dispute. Greek Cypriots on the Mediterranean island colony are waging a campaign to end British rule and join Cyprus with Greece. British forces have replied with stern measures to an underground campaign of violence.

American Nations Gather For Meet

PANAMA (AP)—The chiefs of state of virtually all America's 21 republics were arriving in Panama today to sign a declaration of hemispheric unity, implied opposition to communism and hope for general prosperity.
The document reportedly warns that the world is threatened by totalitarian forces and calls for greater inter-American cooperation.
President Eisenhower's arrival tomorrow will complete the roster.

on a more modest scale than the Aswan Dam.
Egypt's ability to carry through its part of the bargain was questioned here, officials said, because President Gamdal, Abdel Nasser has mortgaged a large share of his national assets to the Russians for years to come to obtain weapons for his military buildup against Israel.
The United States joined with Britain last December in promising to provide Egypt up to 200 million dollars for the Aswan Dam. The World Bank was to lend another 200 million.
The American withdrawal from the deal after consultation with the British and after informing the World Bank effectively kills off the whole undertaking, officials said.

County Welfare Bill Amounts To About $1,000 Per Month

By SAM BLACKBURN

Howard County spends an average of $1,000 per month year in and year out providing food, rent money, medical aid and occasional transportation for its indigent citizens.

This money is handled through the office of the County Welfare Department. Mary Cantrell is director of this office — a post she has held for 10 years.

Probably no one person in all Howard County is better informed on the problems of the extremely poor of the area than Miss Cantrell.

Name a family reportedly on the ragged edge of bare existence and she can tell you, off-hand, the case history of that family and probably give you detailed reports on just how much public assistance has been provided for it and how much money it is now receiving.

"I like my work," she said. "When I first accepted the position 10 years ago, I was very unhappy with my job. For three years I planned constantly to resign."

"Then, almost overnight, I re-evaluated what I was doing, looked it over from a new vantage point. Since that time, I have enjoyed my job and I wouldn't like to change with anyone."

The county allocates $16,500 annually as the budget for the County Welfare Department. Out of this must come the expenses of the administration of the office and the available funds for relief to needy families and individuals.

"Month in and month out," said Miss Cantrell, "we spend about $1,000 for food, rent, medical aid and other assistance for needy residents of the county."

The money placed in the hands of Miss Cantrell — rather than funds against which she can issue spending orders, since she handles no cash at all — can be spent for groceries, for rent, hospitalization, medical care, transportation (to and from state charity hospitals only) nursing care, child care and funeral expenses.

In the course of a year Miss Cantrell issues orders to defray expenses in all of these categories. An average month will see from 24 to 30 calls for help received by her and handled by her office. When an applicant for assistance comes to her for help, she makes a personal investigation of the situation facing the family or the individual.

If conditions justify, she acts promptly. If it is rent that has to be paid, she arranges for the county to pay it. Where food is needed, she issues orders, acceptable at any food store, for commodities. It is specified that the grocery orders must be for essential foods. Luxury items cannot be purchased with a grocery order; the proprietor is forbidden to provide part of the amount in groceries and give the client the remainder in cash. If hospitalization is the problem, Miss Cantrell finds some institution where the sick person can be admitted.

Where death is involved, she contacts a local mortician and arranges with him for the funeral of the deceased. Under arrangements made with the county, a child's burial expenses cost $45. Those for an adult cost $85. One of her tasks is to step in and provide help for unemployed persons who are nearing the age when they can claim benefits under the federal OAB program. Sometimes a year or so must pass before a person, nearing 65 and otherwise eligible for such aid, can become acceptable to the federal agency. She also helps all such persons in their negotiations with the OAB office or with other state and federal relief agencies in properly filling out applications and completing basic records to make them acceptable.

Sometimes aid from the county to some impoverished person may have to continue for long periods of time. Conditions determine entirely how long aid can be provided by the court for such cases. Generally however, the assistance the county affords to such families or individuals is for relatively short periods.

Miss Cantrell emphasizes one important factor in relation to the activities of the county in assisting unfortunate people within its boundaries.

There are certain requirements which must be met by the applicant in order for him to be eligible for such help as may be within the power of her office to provide.

It is required, first of all, that the applicant be a resident of the county — he must have lived in the confines of Howard County not less than six months and he must have been resident of Texas for a minimum of one year. Otherwise, his application for aid must be routed to some private charity organization or other agency. It is required that the head of the family be unemployable and it is emphasized that such assistance as the County Welfare Department may be able to provide must be on a temporary basis.

Miss Cantrell's 10 years with the department have provided her with a keen insight into the psychology of those who come to her office on the second floor of the courthouse for help.

She has learned to identify at a glance the "professional" — which is to say the inevitable minority in all towns and counties who are constantly asking for charity from all agencies which are available. She can evaluate closely the true situation facing an applicant from the story he may tell her. "I like my work," she says. "I enjoy talking to people. I try to make certain that those who justly need help are given assistance. "I have always been given fine cooperation by the county commissioners and the county judge. Serving the unfortunate who cannot help themselves is and always has been a duty of society at large. It is pleasant to have a part in the fulfillment of this obligation."

Chevy beats own Pikes Peak record...and tops all rivals including cars in every price range!

Last fall, "Chevrolet" broke the Pikes Peak record in a history-making pre-production test.

Chevrolet takes first, second and four of the top six places! Beats its own stock car record by a full minute and 16 seconds! Again Chevy shows the sure-fire handling qualities and great-hearted performance that make it King of the Mountain—and a safer car to drive on any road.

It happened on July 4. Running against the hottest competition in the land, Chevrolet won the Pikes Peak climb—a towering challenge open to all makes of cars.

This is far more than a blazing demonstration of power. It is unquestionable proof of Chevrolet's supreme roadability—the accuracy of Ball-Race steering, the solidity of outrigger rear springs, the traction "bite" that comes from balanced weight distribution.

There is no greater test of a car's road safety qualities than the Pikes Peak climb. For this reason any make of car would be proud to be King of the Mountain. Come in and drive the car that's won the "crown" twice in a row!

Railroad Man Still Clings To Reliable Pocket Watch

When pocket watches were the big rage about the time of the First World War, a man who wore a wrist watch was considered a "sissy."

These days the pocket watch is almost out of style entirely except for the railroad man. He is still required to have a pocket watch, but not just any pocket watch. His has to meet certain standards of the railroad.

The rest of the world today seems to be pretty well settled on good old convenient wrist watches. At least that's what the owners of local jewelry stores think.

As wrist watches were first thought to take away from the masculinity of a man, they didn't really catch on in popularity until the 1930s and then after World War II, they were in solid.

Today wrist watches are available in sort of shapes — round, oval, square. The odd-shaped ones seem to be most popular ones right now. Women like the small, dainty types with an occasional sport style being worn by the more athletically inclined female.

Railroad men seem to attach a kind of a sentiment to their watches. One jeweler said that some of them think that is the only kind of watch to have and they come in and buy their sons pocket watches for graduation or some other occasion. When the jeweler suggested that the sons might prefer a wrist watch, the railroad man said that the pocket watch was what he wanted and nothing else.

As in other personal articles, there are fads among watches which come and go. For a while the lapel watch seemed to be popular among the ladies. These were the dainty little watches that swung from a pendant worn on the collar or pocket of a blouse. Then there was the watch which hung on a chain worn around the neck. This was especially popular with the teen-age set.

Recently the lapel-watch fashion was revived as girls hunted up old watches of their grandmothers and attached them to jeweled pins.

Men prefer the sturdy, dependable watches that are waterproof and shockproof. Catching on with increasing popularity is the automatic watch which winds itself with the movement of the wrist.

But even with all the new and fancy styles, the railroad man will still insist his watch is best.

Hodge Rackets Link Sought

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Investigators tracing some $800,000 in missing Illinois state funds will seek to establish whether there was any link between resigned State Auditor Orville E. Hodge and reputed southern Illinois rackets figures.

State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon made the disclosure yesterday after the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said it learned Hodge had business connections with Frank (Buster) Wortman, reputed East St. Louis, Ill., rackets boss.

In a copyrighted story, the Post-Dispatch also said Hodge had business dealings with Elmer (Dutch) Dowling, an associate of Wortman and Thomas Berry, former Belleville, Ill., slot machine operator.

The newspaper said the information had been gathered by federal agents.

Coutrakon said he would subpoena Wortman, Dowling and Berry after he has finished with the Hodge phase of the investigation "to see if any state money went to those fellows."

Meanwhile, Hodge's right-hand man Edward A. Epping has been labeled only "a messenger boy" in the financial scandal.

This characterization was made by Epping's attorney Hugh Dobbs between two sessions with Coutrakon.

Epping himself refused to speak with newsmen.

Kiwanis Hears Talk On Boss-Worker Relations

There are two sides to the problem of good personal relations in the case of employer and employee. S. H. Womack, public relations counselor, told the Big Spring Kiwanis Club Thursday noon.

If good personal relations are maintained, both employer and employee benefit. If either fails in his share of the responsibility of maintaining such good relations, both suffer.

The employer rightfully expects certain things of an employee and demands that these requirements be met. Unfortunately, Womack said, the employer too seldom recognizes what the employee expects of him and how important it is that he meet these obligations.

Employers who realize there are two definite sides to the question of employer-employee relationship and strive to cope with the problem intelligently and properly enjoy good business and obtain high productivity from their employees. This means more profits and better relationship with the public at large.

Dean Johnson of the Howard County Junior College introduced Womack to the club.

John Deats and Dr. W. A. Hunt were presented and spoke briefly on the forthcoming Big Spring Rodeo. Kiwanians were invited to join with the Rodeo sponsors in the sale of tickets to the big show.

Jack Alexander presented Ronnie Phillips, Big Spring youth recently elected as lieutenant governor for the Key Clubs of the 22nd District of Texas. Phillips spoke briefly on the recent international Key Club convention in Dallas and of the benefits that boys who were at the convention received.

We Belong to a Great Company

TO HAVE FAITH AND LOVE CHARACTERIZES CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Scripture—Acts 2:44-47; Hebrews 10:19-25; 11:1-13:8.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
OUR LESSON today is a sermon on real Christian behavior and a fine study on what can be accomplished by faith.

Our first Bible reference is from Acts 2, telling of how the members of the first church, probably in Jerusalem, lived harmoniously together. Everything was common property. Those who had possessions, sold them and it was shared and shared alike. When someone was in need of anything it was supplied from the common fund.

Many a congregation of a new church has begun with like harmony among the members, but all too often dissensions break out, and how sad it is to see a group of professing Christians divided by quarrels and illwill toward each other.

The aim of every such group should be to obey the words of Jesus: "This is My commandment, that ye love one another."

People were so impressed with the love and harmony of spirit so evident in this Christian congregation, that they were favored, and "the Lord added to the church many such as should be saved."

Now as to the matter of faith. The writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews wrote, "Having an high priest over the house of God; let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith . . . let us hold fast the profession of our faith, without wavering."

Then he reviews some of the accomplishments of the great men in Hebrews' past. Through faith Noah, warned of God of the flood which was to destroy the world, built the Ark and saved his house and many of the creatures of the world.

Abraham had faith to go to a strange country, not knowing where he was going, to establish his family in a new land. Also, when he was commanded to make a sacrifice of his beloved son Isaac, he obeyed God's command.

mand, knowing that he could trust Him and his faith was justified.

Moses, refusing to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, who had taken him from the bulrushes and brought him up, sorrowing for the plight of his people, captives in Egypt, had faith that he would be helped to lead them out of bondage to a land of promise. He overcame all obstacles, and with faith led his people through the wilderness to freedom.

The early believers in Christ had faith in Him and although they were persecuted in the most terrible manner, they kept their faith, "choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season."

"Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sins which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us." Let the teacher strive to inspire the younger as well as the older pupils with the faith to do what is right in spite of temptations, and to have faith that they can accomplish what ideals they have in mind—whether it be good conduct marks in school, good scholastic standing or, for the older ones, the joy of becoming upright, useful citizens in a world that so sadly needs right thinking, and, above all, faith that right will triumph over evil.

We need go no further than our own country to realize that many men and women with little money or influence in the beginning have succeeded in becoming benefactors of mankind by founding schools to teach the ignorant in places which sorely needed such aid. By correcting injustices, helping to repeal bad laws and substituting better ones, etc.

In purely worldly matters how many have risen to financial success and eminence through their faith!

Take your problems to Church this week

-millions leave them there!

The kids in the grandstand are yelling, "Strike him out!" and our young pitcher is going to do exactly that. This is his day for a shut-out game... his day to win.

He's feeling pretty good about it, and who's to blame him? But what if things had gone the other way? What if some other boy had been warming up in the bullpen, about to have taken his place? But he is a well-balanced youngster, and he would have taken that in stride, too.

He has learned about being a good sport, about regard for his fellow men, and about many other equally important things in Church. For, like thousands of other American youngsters, the Church already plays an important part in his life. That is one reason why his parents have faith in the fact that he will grow up to be a pretty fine man.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Uncle Ray: As Lodging Payment Native Took Hair

By RAMON COFFMAN

The discovery of the headwaters of the Niger River was a great thing, but it failed to end the troubles of Mungo Park. Here he was, 550 miles from the African coast, with hardly anything of value which he might use in trading with the natives. Finally Park decided to give up his faithful horse, which had been worn out by its travels. The animal was presented to a Negro who provided him with shelter. In return, the black man gave him a spear.

This Scottish explorer had various adventures as he searched for food. Once he was given meals and shelter, and in the morning his Negro host asked for a bit of his hair as payment! Park agreed, but the native cut and pulled half the hair from one side of his head before he was content!

"That is enough!" the traveler exclaimed, fearing lest all the hair on his head might be taken away. Having no razor with him, he let the hair on his face grow into side whiskers and beard. Although he was a young man in his middle twenties he came to look elderly because of the hair which covered his cheeks and chin.

Falling sick with a fever, Park stayed in the town of Kamalia for several months. There he was provided with a hut, after promising to make a rental payment later. The "landlord" was named Karfa Taura, and at times he acted as a slave trader. In the spring Karfa set out for the coast with a large group of slaves, and Park went with him. The party reached the mouth of the Gambia River. On Christmas Day, 159 years ago, Park got back to London. He had been away from Great Britain for two years and seven months.

Following his return, he wrote a book with the title of "Travels in the Interior of Africa." Many copies were sold, and the volume did much to add to British interest in the African continent.

For BIOGRAPHY section of your scrapbook. Facts about Mungo's people and their customs, also about the ancient Aztecs, appear in the feature called MEXICO AND THE MEXICANS. This feature will be sent to you without charge if you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your letter to Uncle Ray in care of this newspaper.

Bright paths of color shoot into the countryside in this exciting basket weave stripe, "Country Roads." This gay stripe is led by streamers of delustered satin in a coupling of red on black, blue on brown, 2.29 yd. . . "Highways" is a precise pattern that is bound to cut across the country in no uncertain fashion. Bold blocks mingled with a paving of slim white lines in this firm two-ply cotton, 2.49 yd. . . A bright patchwork of local color entwines with the city slick of satin in "Town Hall," an off-beat box check of coral and aqua which is meticulously framed in black, 2.49 yd. . . "Byways" is a meandering path that lazily weaves along a river's edge to reveal nature's forgotten beauty. Pale satins etch their way back and forth on a rich grey or beige ground, 2.49 yd. . . An intricate interlacing of "Winter Needlework" the almost forgotten drawnwork thread design, covers the surface of this burnished gold or darkened blue pattern, 2.49 yd.

Dress Revue Will Feature 4-H Girls

A dress revue will be staged by the County Home Demonstration Agency Monday at 3 p.m. in the music room at H.C.J.C. Clothing which will be modeled is that which was made in one of the four recent clothing workshops sponsored by the Home Demonstration agency. Thirty girls will model in four divisions, dress, blouse, skirt or apron. A first, second and third place winner will be named in each of the four divisions. Judges will score the girls on their personal appearance, which will emphasize mostly neatness, on the way the outfit looks on the girl, construction of the dress and the girl's individual records of her 4-H projects and activities, 4-H leadership and personal development. Judges will be Wanda Roach, Lynn County (Tahoka) home demonstration agent, and Shirley Holbrook, assistant agent in training of Lynn County. Patricia Iden, 4-H Central Club of Howard County, will serve as commentator for the revue. Wanda Boatler, also of the Central Club, will furnish piano music. Awards which will consist of ribbons will be presented to the top girls in each division by Mrs. E. B. Low, County Home Demonstration Council 4-H committee chairman. The top girl in the dress division will be selected as the county winner to represent Howard County at the district meeting in Lubbock Sept. 7 and 8. To qualify for this the girl must be 14 years of age by Jan. 1, and have been an active 4-H Club member for at least four years. Mrs. Bill Sims will instruct the models on how to walk and model their apparel. Users will be Zena Kay Robinson, Coahoma, Gwen Proctor, Gay Hill, and Claudie Self of Gay Hill. The revue will be open to the public. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

Russians 'Err' In Plane Charge, U. S. Note Declares

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told the Russians they were "in error" in complaining about alleged flights by American bombers over Soviet territory. Rejecting the Russian charge of 10 days ago, the State Department last night informed the Soviet government that after a "thorough inquiry" it had been determined that no U.S. military planes in or around the European area at the time of the alleged overflights "could possibly have strayed" into Russian air space. On July 10, Russian Ambassador Georgi Zarubin protested to Secretary of State Dulles that on three previous days twin-engine U.S. medium bombers had flown into Soviet territory east of Poland, penetrating as deep as 200 miles.

Thunderstorms Sweep Mid-U.S.

Thunderstorms with hail and high winds swept parts of the mid-continent last night and today. The thunderstorm activity moved eastward into the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley. Showers spread eastward into the mid and northern Atlantic coastal states and into the Tennessee area. Another area of thunderstorms pelted the mountains of the Southwest. A severe hail storm and cloudburst knocked out the inclined railroad at Royal Gorge near Canon City, Colo. Seventy sightseers were stranded for an hour, some of them suffering bruises from hailstones. A violent thunderstorm last night caused property damage at Dortonville, Tenn. Hail stones up to 1 1/2 inches in diameter caused some damage in Chicago. Wind gusts up to 77 m.p.h. hit St. Louis, Mo. The weather elsewhere was generally fair to partly cloudy, except for some thunderstorms in the Northwest.
