Yarborough In City On Vote Quest

Ralph Yarborough brought his fight for the governorship to Big Springs today, vowing to "uncover the coverups" in Austin.

Yarborough arrived at the courthouse shortly before noon, made a short speech restating his platform and speaking out against his opponent, and departed for Lamesa. He also planned a short stop at Ackerly.

The candidate told a group of about 750 that he was the only candidate that has been fighting for a stronger program for the mentally ill, a Texas state drought law, and a better old age pension program.

"We need treatment instead of incarceration," Yarborough said, "and I have been fighting for better care for the mentally sick since 1949 — before I thought of running for governor."

"I am daily called on by the mental board in Austin for help—that is the only agency in Austin that calls on me."

He said that the state does not have any form of drought legislation and that "all the help that we get is from the federal government." If elected, he would fight to have 100 lakes built on the lower regions of the state's rivers and a large number on the upper regions.

"More than 90 per cent of the water that falls on the surface of the state ultimately runs into the Gulf. Just think what we could do with that water."

On the subject of old age pensions, the candidate said that he would like to see the aged receive $55 monthly and all the state would have to furnish would be $15. He said that the federal government would put up $40 monthly if the state would add $15.

Yarborough is advocating two parties in the state. He said that the party had been turned over to the Republicans by its leaders.

"The state is now in the hands of political adventurers."

"I am asked if I would support the Democratic candidate no matter who is nominated. My answer is yes. I have been a Demo' at all my life, and I am not going to be a July and August Democrat."

Yarborough stated that he was for a "reasonable" tax on natural gas being taken out of the state. He said that states receiving the gas are putting a tax on it and he would advocate taxing it before it leaves the state.

He would veto a sales and income tax for Texas. He said he had fought such a tax for over 25 years and would continue to. He would tax export gas line companies.

Although not mentioning his opponent, Price Daniel, by name, Yarborough spoke of his stand on the Democratic nomination for president, lack of drought legislation, and in connection of the veteran's land scandal.

Preceding the candidate was his hillbilly band, the Cass County Coon Hunters. Rev. William Boyd, pastor of the St. Mary's Episcopal Church, introduced him.

Shooting Spree

Officers Fred Warner, left, and Frank J. Dyor attempt to keep Mrs. Barbara Mihich, 24, from slipping handcuffs after they and other officers used tear gas to subdue her. Mrs. Mihich barricaded herself in her Van Nuys, Calif., home and held police at bay with a barrage of gunfire. The blonde told police she started the shooting spree because she was "mad at the world."

THE AIRPORT ISSUE

Mixing Of Civilian, Military Traffic At Webb Not Prudent

(This is the second in a series dealing with the $500,000 airport bond election Saturday . . . 5A.)

When the community gave up its airport in order to obtain Webb AFB, it was left without improved civil airport facilities. The base has an urgent mission to perform in training jet pilots; it is neither prudent or practical to mix civilian traffic into this pattern which is heavier than even the biggest metropolitan airports.

"Webb AFB is continually receiving applications from commercial and industrial firms, as well as from private individuals, to use the base facilities for landing their aircraft at Big Spring," noted Col. C. M. Young in a letter to Ira Thurman, president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. "I would like to approve these applications as being in the best interest of the community from a business point of view. However, to do so would interfere with the mission of the base. We fly over 100 jet trainers continually from Webb and our traffic pattern is already saturated."

He went on to explain that fledgling pilots, some of them from allied nations and not able to fully comprehend English radio instructions, could present some problems in safety. There are physical angles, too, such as the case of a plane of an out-of-town oil company. When it suffered a minor mishap on one runway, the runway was out of commission for several hours, disrupting training schedules.

Yet private individuals and businesses have a pressing need for facilities. R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Petroleum Corporation which now makes almost constant use of two planes, stressed the point that saving time through plane flights is fruitless if it is lost in automobile trips to some neighboring city with adequate facilities. The same is true of the large number of planes from companies having business with Cosden; it is true of several large mercantile establishments having connections in Big Spring. People and firms tend to "hitt" where they can secure adequate accommodations.

Under terms of lease for Webb AFB, only Continental Air Lines can land regularly there. If Big Spring and Howard County ever obtain additional commercial air service, there obviously will have to be another airport. Aside from that, passengers and others having business now with Continental must be stopped at the base gate and go through the necessary routine of being passed to the terminal. This is a highly unsatisfactory arrangement.

Business men and oil companies and commercial carriers are not the only ones who make use of an airport. Indeed, there is a growing clan here who have planes for private use and pleasure. Farmers and ranchers are making increasing use of flight aircraft.

At Hamilton Field, where unpaved and short runways have nevertheless helped the community bridge the gap, at least 50 operations a day take place. A score of individuals and business base planes there; an average of 8-10 transient craft a day put down at the tiny port. How much more would the volume by with longer paved and lighted runways and good terminal and hangar facilities?

The answer might best come from the past. When Big Spring had its port which became Webb AFB, the place was an area hub for aviation. Annually the port had more than 40,000 operations and revenues up to a quarter of a million dollars. This is not to say such a condition would be restored magically, by a new civil airport, but in this modern time, aviation will play an increasing, not a decreasing, role.

Kansas Chief Loses Election

By The Associated Press

Republican voters in Kansas yesterday rejected Gov. Fred Hall's bid for renomination.

Hall's defeat by State Rep. Warren W. Shaw marked only the second time in half a century that a Republican governor of Kansas has been denied a chance for a second term.

The campaign that led up to the primary was rated one of the bitterest in Kansas history. One major issue was Hall's veto of a "right-to-work" bill that would have made it unlawful to deny anybody a job for membership or nonmembership in a labor union. Sponsors organized labor in the state backed Hall against Shaw, who favored the bill.

Texas U. Slates Study Of Drought

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas is going to see what it can do about the drought, including possible scientific measures of increasing rainfall.

Tom Sealy of Midland, chairman of the board of regents, named a special committee yesterday to survey all facilities of the university.

The committee will report its findings at the Sept. 21-22 board meeting.

CRMWD To Study More Water Sites

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is going to study the possibilities of another big reservoir on the upper Colorado River.

E. V. Spence, CRMWD general manager, said today he had received confirmation from the State Board of Water Engineers that the district's presentation for the study had been accepted and filed.

"This is part of our over-all development to secure surface supplies for this area of West Texas," Spence explained. "It is an outgrowth of the action of the board of directors last week in authorizing long range studies of water supply."

The area specified in the presentation is on the Colorado River south of U. S. 80 and north of the south line of Mitchell County. The general manager said that topographic surveys would be made of the section to check for feasible dam site as well as the general supply of the potential watershed.

"We also will be making extensive studies of both quantity and quality of water," he continued. "The presentation sets out the fig-

India Agrees To Attend Parley On Suez Dispute

LONDON (AP)—India agreed today to attend the international Suez Canal conference, but Egypt reportedly informed India she would not take part in the parley.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru announced his government's decision to the Indian Parliament in New Delhi. Authoritative sources in the Indian capital said Egypt had already advised India she would not send a delegation to London.

Nehru told Parliament the Indian government recognized "Egypt could not and would not participate in a conference on the Suez Canal to which she is merely invited" and about which she had not been consulted.

Nehru's announcement increased expectations that Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser would try to put the dispute over his nationalization of the strategic waterway before the U.N. Security Council.

Repeats Vows To Let Public Know

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today announced he will undergo another complete physical examination before the Nov. 6 election. If it shows him unfit for a second term, he said, he will go before the people and tell them.

This promise to keep the voters informed of how he feels about his fitness to serve was made by Eisenhower at a news conference. Not until almost the end of the 35-minute session with reporters—by which time Eisenhower looked a little tired—did the question of his health come up.

The President said he had made his position clear at last week's news conference, his first since his emergency ileitis operation on June 9.

But Eisenhower added this: at an appropriate time later this year, before the election, he will have another complete examination to determine that there has been no change in his physical condition.

If there is any reason to believe he is not fit, Eisenhower said, he will come before the people and tell them.

Eisenhower also dealt with these other matters:

SUEZ—Eisenhower said today he has every hope that the Suez Canal crisis will be settled by peaceful means.

He said he cannot conceive of military force bringing a good solution in the tense situation under present circumstances.

Told that his remarks might give the impression he would be opposed to use of force under any circumstances Eisenhower shot back that he had not said that.

"What we are trying to do, Eisenhower said, is to substitute the conference table for the battle field."

His mention of the conference table was an allusion to the 21-nation conference which the Western Big Three—the United States, Britain and France—have called

Britain Intends Peaceful Solution

LONDON (AP)—Britain said today she intends to settle the Suez Canal dispute peacefully.

The Foreign Office statement also declared that the old Arab-Israeli dispute had no part in the Suez issue.

The statement, volunteered by the Foreign Office's news department chief at a news conference: "Our intention is that the dispute on the Suez Canal should be peacefully settled and that this issue is wholly separate from the Arab-Israeli dispute. Any attempt to inject the Arab-Israeli dispute into the Suez Canal dispute would not be helpful to a settlement."

High Court Asked To Halt 'Interfering' In Vote Probe

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Supreme Court was asked today to prevent Dist. Judge R. D. Wright of Laredo from "interfering" in a court of inquiry set up there by Dist. Judge Charles Betts of Austin.

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd asked the high court for permission to file a mandamus proceeding requiring Judge Wright to vacate a temporary restraining order he issued Saturday which stopped one court of inquiry into Laredo absentee balloting.

The court must grant the permission before it considers the case on its merits. There was no immediate action on it.

Wright's restraining order halted for at least 10 days one of two court probes started last week into alleged absentee voting irregularities in Webb County. A second hearing was being held at the time in Wright's court.

The restraining order by Wright halted a hearing being conducted by Attorney Dan Moody Jr. of Austin in behalf of Judge Betts.

Moody joined with Shepperd in filing the mandamus proceedings.

The petition asked that Wright be prohibited "from in anywise interfering with the Attorney General of Texas and Moody in the enforcement of the election code and performance of their duties thereunder."

Three men were free on bond in Laredo following their arrest on indictments returned by the Webb County grand jury in connection with its investigation.

The grand jury returned 11 misdemeanor and one felony indictment yesterday, but Judge Wright said the names of the persons would not be made public until they were arrested.

The grand jury also asked that the impounded absentee ballot box be brought before it today.

Thomas Arispe, 63, Jose Barrinoto Jr., and Juan Guerver, 22, were arrested last night.

Sec. Wilson Sees Crisis Over Suez Canal As A 'Minor Upset'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says he agrees that the Suez Canal situation is a "minor upset" which he thinks will have no impact on American defense planning.

"We can't flip up and down because of a relatively small thing," he told a news conference yesterday. Later he told a reporter who used the words "minor upset" in connection with the tense Suez situation that "you described it well."

His comments contrasted with those of Secretary of State Dulles and of President Eisenhower, who said Friday night he was "vastly disturbed" by the repercussions stemming from Egypt's nationalization of the canal. Great Britain and France have moved toward a war footing in the area.

Wilson was being questioned about the possible impact on overall U. S. military planning.

He acknowledged that the situation could have ramifications, while expressing hope that "it would be a local friction and not something that would involve the East and West."

"Of course," he added, "I have to admit there is always the possibility of any war deteriorating into a big one."

As Eisenhower and Dulles have done, Wilson said he is sure the United States will do all it can to work out a solution by diplomatic methods.

"We should seek all honorable means of reaching a peaceful settlement rather than wave the big stick and threaten people," he said.

Dulles was reported to have told 20 Latin-American ambassadors with whom he discussed the situation yesterday that Britain and France may feel Egypt has used force in "he can't see a right to do so."

The State Department announced that Dulles and the envoys engaged in "informal speculation" concerning "the juridical (legal) basis for the use of force in the canal zone."

The statement added that Western Big Three talks in London, which Dulles attended, were "designed, not to justify the use of force, but to avoid the use of force."

Spying By Teachers Is Ruled Out

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The New York State Education Commission held today that school and college teachers could not be fired for refusing to inform on Communist activities of fellow teachers.

Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. made this finding in lifting suspensions imposed on four New York City teachers and a principal and in reversing the dismissal of a Hunter College professor.

Allen declared that a policy of firing one teacher for refusing to inform on another "would do more harm than good" and that "this type of inquisition has no place in the school system."

However, the commissioner held that a school board was "clearly justified" in expecting a principal to report the names of any persons in his school that he believed were Communists or "otherwise unfit"—and to do so voluntarily.

"There is near unanimity on the part of teachers throughout the state that indiscriminate use of this type of interrogation immediately engenders an atmosphere of suspicion and uneasiness in the schools and colleges. Trust which is necessary to keep morale at a high level is undermined. No one knows when the finger of suspicion may be pointed at him."

"A school system which sets one teacher against another in this manner is not conducive toward the strength and cohesion which needs to exist in order to instill character into the student body. . . . I am convinced in the overall administration of the public school system that the institution of the policy under consideration here would do more harm than good and that this type of inquisition has no place in the school system."

Deaths Near 1,000 In Blast

CALI, Colombia (AP)—The death count climbed grimly toward 1,000 today from an explosion of seven dynamite-laden trucks that ripped through the heart of this fourth city of Colombia.

Latest unofficial estimates put the total dead at about 700. But many others among the hundreds of injured were not expected to live, and rescue workers digging through the shattered blast area continued to uncover additional victims.

It was feared the death toll might exceed 1,000 when an accurate compilation could be made. Officials said employees of U.S. firms probably were among the injured.

President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla blamed political sabotage for the explosion early yesterday, which virtually leveled an eight-block area and was felt for 20 miles.

Politicos Trade Charges Of Dirty Tactics

By WHITEY SAWYER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Sen. Price Daniel and attorney Ralph Yarborough exchanged charges of dirty campaigning Tuesday night in the runoff election for the Texas governorship.

Daniel, speaking at Longview, said Texas people need and want clean politics just as they want clean government. Daniel said he had decided not to engage in personal attacks and mudslinging tactics so he would not meet Yarborough on the same platform in public debate.

"I simply will not engage in the type campaign my opponent is conducting, nor let my campaign descend to the level of wild and false personal charges used by my opponent," Daniel said.

Speaking before a crowd variously estimated at between 2,500 and 4,000, Daniel charged that organized groups outside Texas are trying to capture the governorship so they can control the state.

He mentioned the NAACP, which he charged is "using strong methods to secure bloc votes" among the Negro population of Texas; the ADA, and the CIO national leadership, which he said is unfairly using union dues paid in by working people in Texas to help support the NAACP.

Yarborough said at Abilene, "Pious proclaiming of no name calling and prayerful petitioning for clean politics has been smoke-screening for as cheap and dirty politics as was ever practiced in Texas."

"When he has concluded his note of pioussness," Yarborough said, "the little man who wants to hold all the high offices says in the next breath that I, Ralph Yarborough, am the candidate and tool of Walter Reuther, out-of-state labor organizations and the NAACP."

"To charge me with being a tool of anybody or any organization is a reflection upon my character, my love of Texas and my country," he said.

"I can tell you one NAACP that has a stranglehold on Texas and is doing its best to continue that stranglehold. That Texas NAACP is this: No Action Against Crooked Politicians, Chapter No. 1," Yarborough asserted.

Daniel pledged his support of local control of public schools and reasserted his stand on the doctrine of "separate but equal" schools as "wanted by both white and colored people at the community level."

He promised to work for better public school facilities, for higher salaries for teachers, "to be paid for with Texas money, and not federal funds, with the strings of federal control and dictation attached."

Yarborough said if elected he would oppose both a state sales tax and a state income tax. He told a cheering crowd estimated at between 350 and 1,000 persons that he would actively support the nominees of the Democratic Party and said he would support an increase in the state production tax on natural gas.

The statements were in answer to a poll of the two gubernatorial candidates proposed last Saturday at the Taylor County Democratic convention.

At San Diego in South Texas, Donata Serna, secretary of the Freedom Party, said that the party general in the first Democratic primary and would continue to support him in the runoff.

Only Few Showers Prospect For State

By The Associated Press

The Weather Bureau said only a few very widely scattered showers were in prospect.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from 84 at Wichita Falls to 67 at Dalhart.

High afternoon temperatures Tuesday ranged from 106 at Presidio to 89 at Corpus Christi.

Rainfall reports included .03 of an inch at San Angelo, .05 at College Station and traces at Big Spring and Electra.

No Ballots Yet For Absentees

Ballots for the Aug. 25 runoff primary election, needed to supply the demands of voters who wish to vote absentee, are still unavailable and Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said she had been unable to find out when the delayed ballots will be available.

Officially, the period for accepting applications for absentee ballots opened last Monday. The deadline for such balloting is Aug. 21. County Commissioners court has authorized Mrs. Petty to employ a special deputy to handle these applications during the period but due to the non-arrival of the ballots, there is nothing to be done.

No one seems to know what has happened to the shipment of ballots consigned here. Many applications have already been made for absentee ballots for the Aug. 25 election, Mrs. Petty said. Until the tangle has been cleared up and the ballots are on hand, nothing can be done to serve these applicants.

Commissioners Quizzed On County Road Problems

County Commissioners Earl Hull, Ralph Proctor and Red Gilliam, along with County Judge R. H. Weaver, were on the receiving line for a barrage of questions about roads and road problems in Howard County on Wednesday morning. Asking the questions was James A. Hankerson, interviewer for the Texas Research League, Austin, and Wendell Bedichek, assistant director of the league. The two men are in Howard County as part of a state-wide study the league is making of the Texas highway problem. Fifty counties in Texas out of the 254 in the state have been carefully chosen by the league for special studies. Howard County was one of the 50. The league representatives quizzed the commissioners and the judge exhaustively into all phases of the road program in this county. State, inter-state, farm-to-market and county roads were all covered in the queries. The officials were asked opinions on the effectiveness of policies pursued by the state and federal authorities in road building.

Colorado Cheers Yarrowburgh On Party Loyalty

COLORADO CITY - Ralph Yarrowburgh, candidate for governor, spoke to an enthusiastic group of supporters on the courthouse lawn here Wednesday morning. The crowd of 150, made up principally of loyalist Democrats, applauded any reference to party regularity. Yarrowburgh was preceded by Art and Jay Davis of Cass County, former supporters and musicians for W. Lee O'Daniel, and by the Cass County Counehunters. Colorado City attorney John Worrell introduced Yarrowburgh. The candidates criticized the press in general and stated that a story yesterday in a Lubbock paper contained quotes from a speech which were "as far as the moon from what I said." Yarrowburgh spoke in favor of "better schools," higher old-age pensions, a system of Texas laws to hold the rainfall and told the group "integration should be worked out in each school district."

YMCA To Seek Building Site

Decision to seek a firm contract for acquisition of land from the city for a proposed new Association building was voted by the board of directors of the YMCA Tuesday afternoon. The long-range planning committee was instructed to contact city officials for a definite date. The Y has requested the city to cooperate in providing a new building site just east of Birdwell Park, and the commission has indicated its acceptance. Acquisition of the site was authorized as a prerequisite to pushing any future plans looking toward building planning. They Y's long-range committee reported contacts with various bureaus of the national organization, which would assist in building architecture and design, would assist in a fund-raising campaign (slated for some time in 1957), and offer other services. Directors indicated that these services can be contracted for after the site situation is clarified. Other committee reports on activities, particularly the summer recreation program, were heard at the board meeting. It was decided to make the September meeting a dinner affair.

Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School stood firm Tuesday on their offer for a site for another junior high. Previously the board had offered $1,750 per acre for 2 1/2 acres out of the Cole Estate property south of College Heights. So far negotiations have developed no counter propositions, but Clyde Angel said he gathered the impression from Miss Pearl and Miss Jo Cole that the offer was not satisfactory. Too, they had indicated they would be more receptive to a square tract east of Middle and north of 22nd rather than an oblong one stretching from Gollad to Donley. This alternate tract would comprise approximately 20 acres. However, board members said they felt the offer was entirely fair and they could not go higher. Because of the demands of time in planning for a new plant, they set a 15 day time limit on further negotiations. Meanwhile, said Supt. Floyd W. Parsons and Business Manager Pat Murphy, the transferring of elementary pupils from Central Ward and the utilizing of this space for the junior high would relieve some of the pressures on the present junior high this year. Further relief is anticipated when the present tax and administrative offices are shifted to the remodelled frame plant which has been moved to the South Ward campus. Approval was voted to National Educators Life Insurance Company to be the carrier of student and athletic insurance. Student participation is voluntary at a nominal charge. The same carrier underwrote the program last year. Because applications can not anticipate demands but must reflect conditions as they actually are, the board approved Parsons' suggestion that filing of an application for federal funds under Public Law 815 be delayed. Whether funds are available will depend upon whether President Eisenhower signs legislation now on his desk. A. B. Lillywhite, associate director for federally affected areas, had expressed doubt that all the federally connected children would be shifted to the on-base housing area proposed for south of Webb AFB. The district would like to locate another school there if federal help were sufficient. Hence, he suggested that the district wait until terms of the law are clearer. Bills paid in the amount of $66,678 were approved, and bills of $9,329 were approved and ordered paid.

Vandalism Is Costly, Boys Find

Vandalism has its costly points, a group of boys learned Tuesday night. The boys threw rocks at the car of James Edward Puga, of Lomax, breaking the windshield. He reported the incident to police, giving a description of the car the boys were in. They were picked up shortly afterwards and agreed to pay for the damage.

89 Absentee Votes In Bond Election

A total of 89 Howard County citizens applied for absentee ballots for the Aug. 11 Bond election according to Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk. Deadline for applying for absentee ballots expired on Tuesday afternoon. Meanwhile, Mrs. Petty said that all 18 ballot boxes will be ready for delivery to the county voting precinct election officials on Thursday morning. She suggested that precinct judges pick up their boxes and supplies sometime during that day. Voters will ballot at all of the regular 16 voting places. Hours for voting will be the same as in all regular elections. The election is on the question of whether the county shall issue $500,000 in permanent improvement bonds to finance the construction of a county airport. 868 were approved and ordered paid. The board also voted an additional $250 to its appropriation for the summer recreation program, bringing to $1,000 per annum set aside for the purpose. A request for budgetary provision had been voiced by the Citywide Summer Recreational program committee. Reports from the tax department showed an aggregate of $492,577 collected so far in the fiscal year. This includes 94.2 per cent of the current roll. Building fund reports showed $224,372 expended during July, in addition to $14,450 from the special PL 815 fund. This reduced the balance in the building fund to $3,521 and in PL 815 to $12,815. Disbursements of $42,594 from the athletic fund against receipts of $35,888 wiped out a $6,706 balance.

G. Subt. The serving table was laid with white linen and featured a centerpiece made of a net and satin fan with pink roses against it. From this came white satin streamers with the names, "Angelina and Robert" and the date of their wedding, Aug. 19, written in gold. The hostess gift was a bride's book.

Convention Styles For Lady Politicians

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor Preparing to attend a political convention isn't so simple as it used to be. Now a woman delegate worries about how she'll look on TV. Republican and Democratic women heading for their national conventions this month are in a dither boning up on dress and makeup roles. Ladies of both parties are well-briefed, with advice from women experts of the networks, says Jane Todd, Republican national committee woman from New York. So vital is this question of fashion that Women's Wear Daily recently devoted a full page to photographs and descriptions of various feminine political notables are going to wear, with a view, doubtless, to tipping off stores throughout the country on the correct type of merchandise to feature for their politically minded customers. Republican women expect it to be cool in San Francisco, and are planning to wear wool suits and topcoats, taking along a few simple, suitable wraps. But no big prints, no bold stripes, no black, no white, no shiny plastic or patent handbags, no glittering costume jewelry—these are on the TV list of taboos. They don't photograph well. Democratic women expect it to be hot in Chicago, and so they are packing cool collars for the political fray, being careful to observe the same set of don'ts. The lady politicians have been warned to keep their outfits simple, in medium tones preferably, and to be careful about makeup — no exaggerated eye-shadow, please.

Dinner In Coahoma For 84th Birthday

COAHOMA—Mrs. Bob Parrish was honored Sunday evening with a dinner on her 84th birthday in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Thomas. Gifts were presented the honoree. About 15 attended. Mrs. C. A. Armstrong and Sam will spend the next week visiting her mother in San Antonio. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy New and children spent Saturday fishing at Lake Colorado. Mrs. Susie Brown has received word from her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, who are stationed in Hahn Germany that they are the parents of a son named Michael James born July 29th and weighing eight pounds and five ounces. A. M. Sullivan was honored on his 71st birthday with a chicken barbecue in the home of his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Cochran, Saturday evening. Eight guests attended. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tinner visited Monday in Odessa with their children, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Turlo and Nancy Jane. Mr. and Mrs. Smith Cochran and Phil were visitors Sunday in Goldsmith in the Paul Woodson home. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Miller spent the weekend in San Angelo with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller and family.

Local Youths Leave For Convention

Jeanie McEvers and Garry Girdner have left to attend the Texas Christian Churches Youth Convention to be held in Fort Worth. Opening session will be tonight. The entire convention is planned and conducted by the young people. It will continue through Saturday morning and is conducted on the TCU campus. Miss McEvers, district officer, left from Brownwood where she had attended a planning session. Miss Girdner went with a group of young people from Midland. Principal speakers for the assembly will be Mrs. Harold Glen Brown of Midland, author of a popular book for teen-agers, and Dr. Paul G. Wassenich, director of the Disciples of Christ Bible Chair at the University of Texas. Some 1200 youths are expected to attend the convention.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Mike Fornieles, one-time ace of the Big Spring mound staff, has changed his follow-through while pitching for the Baltimore Orioles and Manager Paul Richards says it will improve his won-lost record.

Up until recently, Mike concentrated solely on his delivery but Paul has been coaching him in the art of flailing his arms and legs, much as Coahoma's Windmill Brown used to do.

He's expecting big things from Miguel from here on down through September, although Baltimore isn't going anywhere in the American League race.

The Daily Herald's representative at the Stanton golf tournament last week, Ray (Shorty) Snyder, ran into an old friend there he hadn't seen in 25 years.

The friend was H. O. (Howard) Gibson, who went all the way to the semi-finals before losing to H. O. Allen.

Snyder knew Howard when both played sand greens in Ranger and Thurber around 1930. Howard was a boy there. Now, he has a son, Ronald, who made the third flight at Stanton.

The pari-mutuel handle at Ruidoso Downs, N. M., for the three-day period starting Friday, July 27, amounted to $588,581.60. The windows took in $165,484.00 on Sunday, July 29, alone.

Three days of racing are carded at the track again this weekend.

Stan Hollmig, who starred for a Hondo Air Force Base football team that played a game against Northwestern University here shortly after World War II and who later performed in the big leagues, recently was sold to Nashville of the Southern Association by San Antonio.

James M. Carver, the local pharmacist, played football on a high school team in Oklahoma against Jim Spavital, now a star in the pro ranks.

Carver played football at Granite, Okla., the last year that school fielded a team.

At one time, his team carried only 13 players on the squad and took the field with only ten boys (three backs and seven linemen) in one game. Injuries kept the others idle.

After the football scandals broke on the West Coast and Stanford people insisted their hands were clean, champions of other member schools started referring to the home of the university as "Halo Alto."

Duke Snider May Give Bums First HR King in 15 Years

JERSEY CITY, N.J. — Barring a horrendous slump, Duke Snider probably will become the Brooklyn Dodgers' first National League home run king in 15 years.

Dolph Camilli won the home run crown in 1941, but since then, no Dodger has been able to do it despite the fact that the team has been No. 1 in the past seven seasons.

Swim Coaches Are Pleased

DETROIT — Just like in track, the United States won't take a world record holder of the 100 to the Olympic games in Melbourne but the water coaches weren't singing the blues today.

Not that Robert Muir, U.S. men's swim head coach wouldn't like to take Bob Moore, 19-year-old Stanford husky to Australia.

It's just that the Williams College mentor still was smiling today over the tremendous battle waged by the eight finalists in the 100-meter freestyle sprint last night of the Olympic Tryouts.

The first five wound up in a blanket finish, less than an arm's length apart, with Hawaiian Bill Woolsey, Michigan's Dick Hanley and Reid Patterson, an apprentice seaman from Pineville, Ky., copping the 1-2-3 places and berths on the Olympic team. They were timed in 57 seconds, 57.1 and 57.4.

Carl Woolley of Michigan was fourth in 57.5 and Moore, holder of the world mark of 46.9 for 100 yards, was fifth in 57.6.

"Three great competitors will represent us," said Muir. "They were all tremendous in the final but these boys had it when they needed it."

Woolsey, rangy, 21-year-old Indiana co-captain and a member of the Olympic champion 800-meter relay team four years ago, clicked off the fastest 100 meters of his still rising career to blaze home first by a razor's edge.

Moore, a comparative newcomer to bigtime swimming, thus joined trackdom's Willie Williams on the Olympic sideline. Williams, who didn't make the squad in the tryouts in Los Angeles, recently became the first man to reel off 100 meters on land in 10.1 seconds.

Moore figures to get another crack at Olympic laurels in 1960.

The three tall aquatic sprinters and three little divers, from Ohio State University, Don Harper, Glen Whitten and Bob Cotworthy, became the first competitors here to earn trips to Melbourne.

Former Gail Coach Hired At Lueders

Paul Mosely, former six-man football coach at Borden County High School in Gail, has been named head coach at Lueders.

A 1950 graduate of McMurry, Mosely has been coach at Goree the past two years.

Lightweights Meet

CHICAGO — L. C. Morgan of Youngstown, Ohio, and Henry (Toothpick) Brown of Philadelphia, a pair of relatively unknown lightweights, met tonight in a 10-round bout at Chicago, Stadium.

The fight will be televised nationally, (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

Local Athletes Plan To Go To FCA Conference Aug. 19

At least three and possibly five local athletes will attend the Fellowship of Christian Athletes conference, which will be held in Estes Park, Colorado, Aug. 19-23.

Some of the biggest names in the sports world will be present at the conference, in which religion will play a leading role.

The three local youths who have already signed to attend are Ronnie King, Johnny Janak and Walter Dickinson.

Richard Deats, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church here, said at least two more boys could attend, if they apply within the immediate future.

The staff at Estes Park will include Forrest (Phog) Allen, basketball coach; Magr. Donald Cleary, speaker; Dean Cromwell, track mentor; Dr. Lewis H. Evans, speaker; Otto Graham, football great; Hom Harmon, one-time All-American at Michigan; Len LeSourd, tennis; Ernie Mehl, sports writing; Biggie Munn, football coach; Dr. Bob Richards, track; Branch Rickey, baseball; Port Robertson, wrestling; Doak Walker, football; Dr. R. J. Robinson, basketball; and Tad Weiman, football, among others.

Roswell Triumphs In Lubbock Play

LUBBOCK (SC) — Roswell defeated Albany, 1-0, in the finals of the Little League sectional playoffs here Tuesday evening.

It marked the first time Albany had been scored on in 35 innings.

Roswell thus became eligible to take part in the regional tournament at San Antonio, winner of which will go to the National Little League meet at Williamsport, Pa.

PONIES SUPPORTED Snyder Among Top AAA Grid Powers

LUBBOCK — Snyder, Port Neches and San Antonio Edison were picked today as top teams of the Class AAA Texas schoolboy football race.

Port Neches, the defending champion, wasn't considered as strong as last season because of loss of its mighty back, Gordon LeBeouf, but still was the probable class of the South, with San Antonio Edison and Lamarque highly rated, and with Nederland giving Port Neches a tough battle inside the district.

In the North the tag of favorite was hung on Snyder but a hefty fight with Sweetwater was forecast. Since these two teams are in the same district, it meant that the winner of their game was expected to be the finalist of the upper eight districts.

Representative coaches of the 16 districts were interviewed at the Texas Coaching School and they picked the district leaders as follows:

- 11, Phillips; 2, Kermit; 3, Snyder or Sweetwater; 4, Vernon; 5, Garland; 6, Paris; 7, Gladewater; 8, Cleburne; 9, Waco University; 10, Bryan; 11, Port Neches or Nederland; 12, Lamarque; 13, San Antonio Edison; 14, Uvalde; 15, Robstown; 16, Pharr-San Juan-Alamo.

Garland, which lost to Port Neches in the finals last season, is coming up with another strong team, the coaches agreed. Twenty-five of the squad of 33 return, including eight starters. It loses its great halfback, Bobby Boyd, however.

Grid Ducat Sales Lag At Lamesa

LAMESA — Although the sale of football tickets to the five home Lamesa Golden Tornado football games has picked up, sales are still behind last year, according to Frank McKinney, president of the Lamesa Quarterback Club.

At the present time, money for 353 has been turned in. An additional 25 are reported bargained for. Last year, 534 season ducats were sold.

PCC Presidents In Parley Today

PORTLAND, Ore. — The presidents of the nine Pacific Coast Conference schools took over the athletic cudgel from their faculty representatives today but whether it was bristling with spikes or made of paperweight balis, nobody knew.

The professors who run the sports show in the sprawling conference wound up two days of sessions yesterday, going over the confessional reports demanded of all the member colleges.

They had been ordered by the presidents to do so, and to make sure the lines and prohibitions they had slapped on UCLA, Washington, USC and California were "equitable." They were ordered also to say nothing until they conferred with their bosses today.

Wright Keeps Links Crown

Bobby Wright retained the City golf championship by defeating Jerry Scott in a humdinger of a match at the Muni course Tuesday afternoon, 1 up.

The match was decided on the 18th hole, when Wright sank a birdie putt.

The champion and the runnerup were nip and tuck all the way. Wright's biggest lead was 2 up. Scott held a 1 up advantage at one time.

When the end came, Wright was four strokes below regulation figures while Scott was three under.

Dodger Ace Closing In On 20-Game Mark

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
Big Don Newcomb, "hummin' that pea" again, is closing in on his second straight 20-victory season and now is within reach of two shutout records while helping Brooklyn's Dodgers keep the pressure on Milwaukee in the National League race.

ONE IS NEEDED Five Coaches Are Added To Staff

Only one man is needed to fill out the high school and junior high coaching staff here.

Five coaches have been added within the past few days. They are John Yates, 29, and Sam Bell, 32, both of whom will serve as high school B team mentors; Bill (Chop) Van Pelt, 24, former Big Spring athlete; Hugh Hamm, 26, Denton; and Jim Marcus, 24, Lubbock.

assistant mentor at Bellville. Both are married men. The Yateses have a three-year-old child. The Bells have two children, age eight and five.

Bell is now in summer school at North Texas State College. The B team positions were vacated by Harold Benley and Roy Baird who will serve as A team assistants this year.

Williams Spats Defiance At $5,000 Baseball Fine

By BOB HOOBING
BOSTON (AP)—Sluggish Ted Williams spat defiance today at his $5,000 fine for spitting at Boston fans — heaviest fine in major league history.

"I'd spit again at the same people who booed me today," the Red Sox great said last night.

campaign may be at an end by saying: "I wouldn't be at the ball park tomorrow if I could stand a fine of $5,000 a day."

Asked if this would be his last season as a player, the fuming Williams added: "Probably."

Bums Defeat Tigers Twice To Strengthen Loop Lead

The Bums bowled over the Tigers in both ends of a Junior-Teen-Age baseball league double-header here Tuesday night to strengthen their hold on first place in the standings.

The Bums won the first game, 11-2, and the second, 14-5. The pace-setters now have an 8-2 won-lost record in league competition.

learned up to hurl the win in the afterpiece, with the former getting credit for the win.

Everett helped his own cause by getting three hits. Carey King, Zubiate and LeFevre each had two blows.

Hobbs Improves Loop Station

By The Associated Press
Hobbs strengthened its grasp on first position to 9½ games Tuesday night with a 10-4 win over Plainview in the Southwestern League.

Pampa whipped second place El Paso, 4-1, and moved to within half a game of second.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Ken Rosewall, the Australian Davis Cup star who is top-seeded among the foreign entries in the Eastern Grass Court tourney, sees the Aussies holding "bit of an edge" over the United States in the Cup Challenge Round in Australia in December.

Paris Lad Hurls No-Hit Contest

DOUGLAS, Ga. (AP)—Jim Allison, 20-year-old Paris, Tex., hurler, pitched a no-hitter last night as Thompson blanked Douglas 9-0 in a Class D Georgia State League game.

Williams' fine came when he spat at the Fenway Park fans after they booed his error on a fly ball. Tommy Byrne gave up the walk, after relieving Don Larsen—who had a four-hitter but took the loss when two errors and a walk loaded the bases. Willard Nixon won his sixth.

would probably be ready for the equipment by the time it arrived.
Much of the concrete work has been completed. The large pipes measuring 54 inches have arrived and are being paid. The pipe will connect the new flocculator and the station.

$45 Collected For
Dumas Fire Victims

Fire Chief H. V. Crocker has collected $45 for the families of voluntary firemen killed in the Dumas tragedy July 29. Of the total, about $15 has come from persons outside the fire department.
Crocker said that he planned to send the money to the State Fire Marshal's Association, which is sponsoring the campaign for funds
Thursday. A $1 per fireman throughout the state has been their goal.
Anyone who wished to contribute to the fund is urged to contact
Crocker today or Thursday.

The Lenorah community is probably drier than it was in 1952 or '53, says Grover Springer. He has been keeping government rainfall records at his store for several years, and this one seems to be the driest of all. There are no crops except on two or three farms between there and Tarzan. The rest of the fields are bare, with nothing growing but a few scattered thistles.

ing coffee with County Agent
Gerald Hanson and Carroll Little, representative of a chemical company, I learned something about cabbage loopers. These are the big, ugly worms that have been ripping
West Texas cotton to shreds.
The looper is a stubborn insect that doesn't act like other worms.
A boll worm moth lays 1,000 eggs at one setting and then gets off the next. She is satisfied. But not the looper moth. She just dribbles them out from 10 to 40 a day and keeps it up for a week. Thus there is no cycle that a farmer can follow in poisoning.
Entomologists don't know too much about the cabbage looper.
They don't thrive in captivity. Once they are put in a laboratory they fall prey to a fungus and die.
The loopers at one time ate cabbage and nothing else. Then about five years ago they learned to like Arizona and since then have been dealing out misery to West Texas farmers.

Oscar Redwine
Rites Scheduled

Oscar Redwine will be buried Thursday, with funeral services being held at River Chapel at 2 p.m.
Redwine, 59, died in a VA hospital at Houston on Tuesday.
The Rev. Cecil Rhodes, pastor of the West Side Baptist Church will conduct the service. Mr. Redwine was a member of the West Side Church.
Interment will be in Trinity Memorial Chapel.
Survivors include three sons, Billy Redwine of El Paso, Dr. Oscar Leo Redwine of Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., and Fletcher
Redwine of Worling, Wyo.; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Lou Crook,
Eunice, N.M.; and one sister.

Sleeping Sickness Diagnosed Among Area's Horses

The year's first case of sleeping sickness among horses was diagnosed yesterday by Dr. H. F.
Schwarzenbach, Big Spring veterinarian. He said this does not mean that there will be an epidemic of sleeping sickness, but there may be other cases if the horses are not vaccinated.
Sleeping sickness is not always fatal, but it is a serious disease.
This first case was a pony in the northeast part of Howard County.
The animal was a little wobbly and uncoordinated but was just taking the malady. Schwarzen-bach said he thought the horse could be cured, since treatment was started so early.
The disease is not contagious but is carried by a mosquito and occasionally by some biting type of fly. The mosquito bites an infected horse then spreads the disease by biting another animal.
The only sure way to prevent horses from taking it is by vaccination. Schwarzenbach said he had already vaccinated about 100 horses this year.

Burglars Ransack
Service Station

Big Spring had another burglary
Tuesday night.
The Pete Hancock Service Station, 511 E. 3rd, was entered during the night. Taken was about $25 in quarters. The money was the only thing missed.
Patrolmen investigating said entry was made through a rest room.

Sewage Plant Adequate For Present Needs

Although the city has needed to double the size of the filtration plant to meet ever-increasing water consumption, no plans have been made to enlarge the sewage plant.

This is not an oversight on the part of the city but a lack of need. City Manager H. W. Whitney said that the two were built to handle needs, and the filter plant is in the process of being doubled. The sewage plant meanwhile is operating at peak capacity but will not need to be enlarged for several years.

Reason for this, said Whitney, is that the extra water load has not been thrown on the sewage disposal plant. The city is using most of its water on lawns and shrubs, and other uses where it does not go down the sewage drain.

Whereas, the water consumption jumps in proportion to the weather, the sewage rises slowly in proportion to the increase in population. The filter plant needed to be enlarged to handle peak days, and the sewage plant does not have any peak days — winter or summer.

Whitney said that the load on the sewage plant would not be quite as heavy on Saturdays and Sundays as on Mondays, but over a period of months, there would be very little fluctuation.

As the population rises, naturally, the sewage will rise, but until the city grows several thousand, there will be no need to spend money to enlarge the sewage disposal equipment.

Stanton Sets Ranch Tour

STANTON — The Stanton Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a farm and ranch tour, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Thursday. Everyone interested in farming and ranching conditions is invited to attend.

The group will leave Stanton and go directly to the Elma Nichols farm just north of town to inspect Nichols' caged-hen project. From there they will visit the farms of Gene Clements, Butch Haggard, Fred Cave and others. Lunch will be served at the Flower Grove school house by the home demonstrations club at $1.25 per person. After lunch the crowd will hear a speech by Loran Walker, manager of the Agriculture Department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The afternoon tour will visit the farms of Ed Smith, Weems Williams, A. C. Powell and W. W. Clements, ending at the Clements place about 3:30 p.m.

The Last Check-Out

Mal Lee Bradford, the student, receives final pre-flight briefing from Capt. Earl Peck, head of the Base Instrument Section, just before check-flight last week. For the major, it was his last check-ride at Webb Air Force Base, although such flights are routine after 14 years of Air Force service. He is being reassigned to Japan.

ALL PILOTS

In AF, You Must 'Stay Learned'

In the Air Force, you not only learn, but you must "stay learned."

This is especially so in the case of such a life and death potential as proficiency in instrument flying. Every year, 90 days before their respective birthdays, pilots are required to enter the instrument training program in the Wing Instrument Section. If they experience any difficulty in passing flight checks, at the end of 30 days, they are given special instructions.

All base pilots, except command pilots, must pass these checks as well as written instrument examinations in order to meet Air Force requirements and to obtain their instrument cards.

The 15-hour course, directed by Capt. Earl G. Peck, officer in charge of the Wing Instrument Section, is offered every two months. Assisting him in conducting the examinations and the flight checks are 1st Lt. Sahid C. Shamsie, 1st Lt. John W. Griffith and 1st Lt. Lowell D. Hale. In addition, they have the responsibility of seeing that pilots take the courses on time.

On Monday, 48 Webb officers completed five days of training and successfully requirements for the course.

Pilots who completed the course Monday are Col. R. L. Downey, Majors R. G. Woda and M. A. January; Captains F. Babcock, D. C. Davis, M. A. Postle, S. E. Corvin, P. J. Kuhn, E. W. Luby, E. W. Rayburn, Archie Tucker, C. F. Porter; 1st Lt. T. M. Ball, F. E. Bailey, D. M. Caraway, E. G. Clayton, B. A. Dean, A. Doty, R. C. Jordan, J. J. Jelinek, W. H. Joyce, A. M. Swanson, R. L. Versteeg, J. F. Wylam, C. D. Youree, W. F. Andrews, E. D. Baird, P. R. Baker, R. Ball, M. R. Brown, K. A. Brown, D. M. Dooley, J. T. Estabrook, F. C. Gryska, D. Holmes, G. McGovern, E. H. Meyer, D. L. Hirsch, W. Square Dances To Be Held At Air Base Club

A square dance will be staged at the John H. Lees service club at Webb AFB Saturday night at civilians from Big Spring are being invited to attend.

The dances are being initiated in an effort to create an atmosphere of friendly life for the airmen, the base reported, and civilians from Big Spring are being invited.

In addition to the weekly square dance, every Sunday afternoon is open house. Visitors are invited to come out and meet the airmen. A birthday party is planned the last Sunday of every month for those persons whose birthday falls in that month.

For August the date is Aug. 28, and the service club is urging civilians to attend.

Rock 'N Roll Fans On Wild Elvis Chase

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — About 50 embarrassed young rock 'n roll fans are consoling themselves with records and trying to forget a 120-mile round trip in pursuit of a rumor.

The teen-agers piled into automobiles one night last week and took off for Binghamton because they had heard that their idol, Elvis Presley, was appearing there. But at the door of the hall in Binghamton, they found only a watchman.

"Presley, who's he?" asked the baffled man. "We don't have anybody by that name works here."

FOR NOMINATION

If Ike Should Drop Out, Nation Would See One Big Dogfight

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

If by some last-minute mischance President Eisenhower should not head the Republican ticket this year, the GOP convention would be transformed from a largely cut-and-dried affair to a dogfight matching anything the Democrats can produce at Chicago.

Ever since the President announced last February that he'd accept renomination, it has been taken for granted that he would be the presidential candidate by acclamation.

But what would happen if something unexpected — say a third siege of illness — should knock him off the ticket?

Would Vice President Nixon move into the top spot? Not if his detractors, who are not limited to Stassen, could help it. A 99 per cent sure bet would be a struggle for the nomination between Nixon, his fellow Californian, Senate GOP Leader Knowland, and as many as a dozen other hopefuls who would blossom out overnight.

Knowland, Senate majority leader, actually filed as a candidate in Pennsylvania and various other states when the President's second-term intentions still were unknown. He did not press his candidacy once Eisenhower announced his own. But nobody doubts he'd go all out should the President prove unavailable.

Who else is in the picture? Not too many. The overpowering prospect of Eisenhower as a candidate has discouraged the usual election-year boomlets. Still, there are some possibilities.

Harold E. Stassen spotlighted one of these in his recent campaign to get the No. 2 spot on the ticket for Massachusetts Gov. Christian A. Herter. Although Herter pretty well punctured that by agreeing to make the nominating speech for Nixon, he certainly would be a possible presidential contender should the unexpected vacancy open up.

Many another Republican governor would start taking his own favorite son status more seriously too. California's Goodwin Knight could be counted on to challenge either Nixon or Knowland. Convention keynoter Arthur B. Langlie of Washington would command support too.

A "natural" among the governors might be William G. Stratton of Illinois.

A former governor, Colorado's

Seizure Of Canal Seen As Prolonging Algerian Rebellion

ALGIERS (AP) — Two Algerian Moslem "moderates" said today that Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal has given nationalist rebels a boost which may prolong the Algeria fight against the French.

The two men talked freely in an interview in the crowded bar of Algiers' leading hotel but refused to let their names be used. Both are in close touch with Moslem public opinion and both favor a sort of "federal solution" which would give Algeria home rule within a sort of French commonwealth.

Both conceded that the rebel forces were getting "tired" and their enthusiasm was waning until Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser precipitated the Suez crisis. One of them said he thought France and the nationalists could have achieved a settlement within two months. But he added this estimate now must be changed because of Nasser's action.

He implied that a setback for Nasser might cause the rebels to cave in more quickly. He himself believes Nasser was right in his action.

Dan Thornton, could count on some sort of boom. He's a handsome fellow, a proven vote-getter and a White House "insider."

It's sometimes said that the Senate consists of 96 presidential hopefuls. Actually, there aren't many among the 47 Senate Republicans with much real hope — apart from Knowland. Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, a repeated contender in the past, has been sidelined by years and events. Whatever hopes his colleagues might nourish are not evident.

Cabinet members and other administration officials seldom get consideration for the top spot — though it has happened, as in the case of onetime Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. This year, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey gets more mention than anybody else though he says privately and publicly he's not interested. (At this stage, it's the vice presidential nomination he's been talking about. Hardly anybody talks about the presidential spot with Eisenhower very much in the picture.)

U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., early active in the successful drive to nominate Eisenhower in 1952, would figure on most "just suppose" lists.

Among the professionals is Sherman Adams, chief assistant to the President and the man who, more than anyone else, kept the White House going during Eisenhower's two illnesses. Adams commands respect but he has made important enemies. He is not widely known outside government and he comes from a small-population state, New Hampshire.

Outside the ranks of Republicans in government the population of possible candidates does not seem dense. The President's brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, gets mentioned from time to time. So do such occasional public servants as Paul G. Hoffman. But so far there is no sign of a Wendell Wilkie who could charge in from outside and capture the nomination.

New Bombay Formula OK'd

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru's government has worked out a new formula it hopes will end months of violence and bickering over the future of the state of Bombay, on the west coast.

The previous plan to set Bombay city apart from surrounding areas that speak different languages touched off three riots in nine months.

The Cabinet approved the new formula last night and it was to be put before Parliament today. The plan envisages a huge new Bombay state — in area the largest political subdivision in India — taking in the present state of Bombay, two other states and eight districts of a fourth state. Bombay would be the capital. The new state would embrace about 48 million people who speak different languages.

Under the old plan Bombay would have been a city-state administered by the federal government. The surrounding area would have been divided according to the language spoken by the majority of inhabitants.

The two predominant language groups, the Gujaratis and Marathas, favored having their individual states but fought bitterly over the plan for the bilingual city of Bombay.

20-Year Term For Assault

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Pvt. Paul E. Gunn, 21, Negro soldier from Birmingham, Ala., was sentenced by a general court-martial yesterday to 20 years at hard labor for assault with a dangerous weapon and attempted rape.

Gunn pleaded guilty to both charges and offered no statement in mitigation, court officials said. The charges grew out of an altercation between Gunn and a 34-year-old registered German prostitute June 20 at Hanau.

must learn to live with drought.

Lewis told the Dallas Agricultural Club that research is seeking ways to fight drought by supplying and conserving water. Too many farmers, Lewis said, live in hopes it's going to rain next year. "Just as soon as it starts to rain, we'd better prepare for the next drought," he said.

Irrigation in East Texas and other areas with occasional rainfall is now under study, he said. "It is easiest to irrigate systematically in an area where there is little or no rainfall, but where water is brought in," he said.

He said the drought has also prompted study of how to grow a farmer might apply two or three inches of water today and a four-inch rain might fall tomorrow.

Experiments are being started in Lufkin, Mt. Pleasant and the Tyler area to study the problems, both economic and mechanical, he said.

Research is also working on how to best store and preserve feeds and harvested crops. Soil scientists are looking below the ground's surface, he said.

"We can greatly increase the total area we farm vertically by use of water and soil building crops," he said.

He said the drought has also prompted study of how to grow more in the winter, spring and fall and less in the summer. Lewis said brush and weeds are among the greatest water thieves. He said experiments are showing how landowners can kill the undesirable plants and bring out grasses with a livestock carrying capacity four or five times greater than the brush and weeds.

Fighting Chance Brooks No Split

In a sense the 1956 Democratic National Convention got under way Monday in Chicago, a week ahead of the actual starting time. Always, and this year in particular, the work of committees is of the utmost importance and that is the work that started Monday.

Also this year the Platform Committee has its own work cut out for it. When it assembled behind closed doors Monday morning in Chicago, with public hearings set for 2 p.m., it had an agenda before it of unusual scope, ranging from civil rights to agriculture, from foreign affairs to education.

Most of the planks will be fashioned without difficulty, but one in particular calls for the greatest skill and ingenuity. That is the civil rights issue.

A Southern leader, Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi, showed up in Chicago with the statement that the Democrats have a good chance to agree on a civil rights plank. It can be done he said, regarding the prospect of North-South agreement on that issue but added significantly:

The question is — will it be done?" On that plank the committee is in for some squally hours. The problem is to frame a plank that will be acceptable to, though not entirely satisfactory, to both factions.

Party leaders believe they have a chance this year to beat Ike, but they know they can't win with a party split down the middle over the civil rights issue. Since all factions would like to win, and most of the responsible leaders are intelligent enough to know they can't win with a divided party, the extremists on both sides of the civil rights issue may be amendable to reason.

That is where the political skill and the persuasive powers of the leaders come in. The fact that the leaders and the rank and file are anxious to recapture the White House as well as both branches of Congress this year may have a placating effect on even the extremists. In short, there is apt to be a marriage of convenience on the civil rights issue.

For Public Service, Or For Money?

Something should have been said in these columns before now, but even belatedly, a salutatory bow is extended in the direction of the Howard County commissioners court, whose members have agreed to hold regular meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

It's wholesome to have a specified time — publicly known — for the transaction of the public's business. City commissioners and school boards always have followed a set schedule and issued proper public notices, but in the past, unfortunately, there have been county court meetings at any and all times, some times in the corridors, or at any hour or place convenient to some of the members.

There's no good reason why the court shouldn't follow established meeting procedure, and we think the public will commend the members for taking this stand.

As long as we are comparing county officials with those of other government agencies, we might as well repeat a point made from time to time: that, sooner or later, the public welfare will be better served when the commissioners can agree to serve for only a nominal honorarium, possibly $10 per meeting. Certainly the type of men who have contributed their talents to city and school posts for little or no financial return are always serving with the best interests of the community at heart. The same principle should apply to county commissioners.

If this ever comes to pass — and the people could bring it about if they chose — we would be in step with the fine old principle of the office seeking the man, and not the man seeking the office.

The professional people who do full time jobs in public office are not included in this bracket. But those citizens of the county who would serve in directorial capacities are those who ought to be motivated by more than the need for a few hundred dollars a month. It's something to think about.

Dulles Made Final Appeal For Reason

WASHINGTON — Sometimes in a busy world of news a great speech and a move of far-reaching significance in the prevention of bloodshed between nations is treated as just a routine piece of diplomacy or as something too far away from the average American's immediate interest to be of much concern.

But the address by the Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, delivered in the presence of and with the full approval of President Eisenhower, deserves more than passing attention. For it is a conspicuous example of the way moral force can be used and must be used in the modern world if large scale or small scale wars are to be averted.

Mr. Dulles had gone to London last week to confer there with the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the Premier of France about the crisis over Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal. His address, delivered before a nationwide television audience, was an expression of the high purposes of all three nations.

It was a skillfully prepared speech, carefully calculated to keep Europe from edging over to the "brink of war." Some dispatches from abroad have hinted that the French and British governments "were being portrayed as "hot-heads" and the United States as exercising a restraining hand. But there was no artifice about it. Great Britain and France have moved in the direction of forcible action to resist the seizure, and the proposals advanced by the United States are indeed welcomed by the British and French governments themselves as a means of advising Nasser that, but for the mediating influence of America, he would be facing military pressure.

"I believe," said Mr. Dulles, "that, by the conference method, we shall invoke moral forces which are bound to prevail."

"It is one thing to defy one or two nations. It is another thing to defy the considered and sober judgement of many nations."

tions which have treaty rights in the canal and which, in large part, depend for their economic livelihood upon the operation of the canal in accordance with the 1888 treaty. . . .

"I believe that most people have a decent respect for the opinions of mankind and that, out of the conference which has been called, will come a judgement of such moral force that we can be confident that the Suez Canal will continue to serve the interests of all mankind."

This is certainly an exposition of the finest statesmanship, and while cynics may despair of its effectiveness, the address nevertheless is a first step that must be taken. Mr. Dulles has since been criticized in some quarters abroad for saying that America has "given no commitments of any kind" as to what the United States will do in the unhappy contingency that the conference may fail. But it was wiser that he say exactly what he did. For in declaring that there are no commitments, he in effect tells Nasser that there is no military pressure being exerted upon him now to come to the conference, that no threats are being made and that moral force is really the only instrument upon which reliance is being placed. The Secretary of State was right also in pointing out that this is the approach which the United Nations charter itself recommends when international disputes arise.

Mr. Dulles debated the issue fairly in his great speech and challenged Nasser earnestly to answer in the court of world opinion. Maybe the Egyptian leader will decide not to attend the big conference, preferring to wait till it has presented to him a concrete formula. That is his privilege. But at least the matter will be in process of negotiation for several weeks during which the opportunities for calmer counsel and self-restraint can increase.

Meanwhile the threat of confiscation of the canal property and what it means to Britain was dramatically outlined the other day in a "London Times" editorial which said:

"Interference with her (Britain's) free use of the Suez Canal would cut at the roots of both her domestic economy and of her survival as a great power. It would mean the severance of her strategic sea links with Asia, the Far East and Australia."

Can world opinion influence a nationalistic dictator? Plain speaking from the United States with emphasis on reason rather than passion has come in the masterful speech by the U. S. Secretary of State. It was reminiscent of some of the finest diplomatic notes written in time of crisis by Woodrow Wilson. If the 24 nations called together in conference can find a way to use moral force as a substitute for military force it will fulfill the long cherished hope of mankind that an age of reason can really be achieved.

Heavy Cherry Toll

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—The past winter, one of Montana's worst, took a heavy toll of the state's 1956 cherry prospects. The Montana Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimates the state's sweet cherry crop will total 150 tons, about 10 per cent of the 1955 production.

Estimated production of sour cherries is 290 tons compared with 520 tons a year ago. Montana's cherries are grown around Flathead Lake in the northwestern section of the state.

Ready For The Isolation Booth?

James Marlow
A Life Of Trouble-Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP)—A State Department official scratched around for words to describe a diplomatic trouble-shooter, like 61-year-old Robert Murphy.

He settled for this: "He must be like a good rewrite man on a newspaper. His job is to straighten out a story that's been all messed-up."

Latest messed-up story assigned to Murphy was in London. The State Department sent him flying there when the British talked angrily of using force against Egypt's President Nasser for seizing the Suez Canal.

For Murphy international jams and jumbles have been a life and a living. He made diplomacy a career, starting in the State Department's foreign service 35 years ago, serving at posts here and abroad while working his way up.

He's as high now as he can go in the foreign service with the title of career ambassador and a salary of $15,000 a year. Only one other man, Loy Henderson, has the same top rank. He's been in career diplomacy 34 years.

What could Murphy do in London? Find out what the British are thinking and planning and keep Secretary of State Dulles informed; relay American thinking to the British; make suggestions; seek solutions; maybe pour oil on troubled waters.

One thing he can't do on his own: commit this country to any agreement or line of action unless told to do so by President Eisenhower or Dulles. And even a Murphy isn't always enough. Eisenhower sent Dulles over to join him.

Besides old-timers like Murphy and Henderson, the State Department has a handful of other men, a notch or two down the scale, to send into tough, tight, hot or delicate spots. They too have made a career of diplomacy.

They are this country's top, trained experts in foreign affairs. They are advisers to the secretary of state. Whether or not he listens to them is up to him. There's a difference between them and their boss, Dulles.

For them diplomacy has been a lifetime job. For Dulles, a lawyer and politician, diplomacy is an avocation. Secretaries come and go but the career officers stay. They never get to be secretary. The President picks an outsider, like Dulles, for the top job.

Statues Follow Lead Of World In Cold War

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—The statues representing war and peace on Lincoln Square now have their backs turned to each other.

The war memorial statues, which used to face each other, were dismantled to make way for a traffic development program.

When they were placed back on the square the statue of the woman with dove and olive branch was back to back with the statue of a man with spear and shield.

Sculptor Carl Paul Jennewein said the delicate symbolism has been destroyed.

City officials said correction of the mistake will be difficult because air spaces which facilitated initial dismantling have been filled.

Hal Boyle

Pets Copy Our Mental Ills

NEW YORK (AP)—Keep yourself mentally healthy. You owe it to your parakeet.

"If you become neurotic, the pets in your home may become neurotic, too," said Rene Gaspard, Gaspard, owner of the Midtown Pet Center, is a specialist in the emotional woes of our little feathered friends.

Although he deals in animals ranging from $3 turtles to $1,200 cheetahs — "just the thing to show off your new sports car" — the dapper, middle-aged Frenchman likes to call himself a "bird psychologist."

This is a title you earn, he said, not by going to college, but by lifelong study of the habits and yearnings of birds.

He has provided pets — or boarded the pets — of such well known clients as Skitch Henderson, Faye Emerson, Ernie Kovacs and Arthur Godfrey, who has two mynah birds.

"People in the entertainment world usually are extraordinarily kind to their pets," he remarked. "They feel nothing is too good for them."

However, he recalled the case of one comedian who liked to tour the bars at night with his pet monkey. The monkey soon began to share his taste for whisky.

"The combination of liquor and late hours killed the monkey," said Gaspard, "but the comedian is still making the rounds — alone."

Birds, he insisted, can have a form of nervous breakdown, just like people. Too many crowded cocktail parties, for example, will upset a canary and cause him to come down with sinus trouble, a psychosomatic episode.

One of his current patients, a talking crow named "Ole," had been used as a photographic model for a beverage concern. He also had appeared on TV, where he spoke a cherry "hello."

After a photographer held him too tightly while posing him for a picture, "Ole" became so frightened his head feathers fell out, he became bald, and clammed up completely.

Birds, also, like their owners, are not immune to snobbery.

"If you put two talking crows in with two talking mynah birds," said Gaspard, "one crow will learn from the other crow and one mynah bird from the other mynah."

"But no crow will pick up a word from a mynah, and no mynah will imitate a crow."

"How much can a mynah bird learn? A smart one can learn 110 words fairly easily."

How does he do it. Simple. It's a triumph of mynah over matter.

Labor Leaders Steering Clear Of Convention

CHICAGO (AP)—Organized labor leaders are staying away from the Democratic convention scene in sharp contrast to four years ago.

They apparently want to avoid giving substance to Republican charges that union bigwigs are trying to exercise a guiding role within the Democratic party.

Only a few union leaders are on hand, watching from the sidelines as observers. At the Democrats' last convention in 1952, they played an active part in the proceedings and in the jockeying for platform and candidates.

The word from Washington is that both James McDevitt and Jack Kroll, political codirectors of the 15-million-member AFL-CIO will stay away from the convention and watch the show on television.

AFL-CIO headquarters is reported to have counseled against union leaders' mixing into convention affairs beyond sending a delegation to appear before the Platform Committee.

AFL-CIO President George Meany is due to testify here Friday and then go to San Francisco and give the same recommendations to their Republican platform group next week.

Around The Rim

The Low Down On Lawns

About this season of the year the topic for conversation is not the weather, the national conventions or the sad state of the American League race. Instead, the average householder invariably and promptly comes to this: "How's your lawn?"

People no longer want to know how the baby is getting along, but rather "do you have brown spots?"

As an expert on the subject (I love to lie in the grass), I therefore address myself to lawns.

The problem of a beautiful lawn is divided into three principal divisions: 1) Sowing, 2) growing, and 3) mowing. These may be stated in three qualities, which sometimes reflect the shades of hope, to wit: 1) Showing, 2) hoeing, and 3) going.

Most of the contemporary lawn-starters hold to the theory that sowing or seeding is the only acceptable way. All in all, if the homeowner can hold off until weather warms sufficiently for growing grass, it offers the fastest approach. The slower and tantalizing, although doggedly sure way, is sodding. Men have been known to measure grass runners daily to see if they actually are growing. In any event, there will be bare spots. The only sure and quick way to guarantee that grass will carpet these troublesome places is to plant a little flower bed there. Once that is done, you cannot fight the grass away.

As grass begins to grow, there arises the concurrent problem of what to do about weeds which keep it company. You can ignore them, of course, but then your neighbors will start an insidious whispering campaign about you. You can hoe them, but that leaves ugly little scars. You can spray them with modern chemicals and wonder if the deadly message on the label got through to the plants. Or, in the final alternative, you can hand pick the patch in a labor of love.

Once that verdant carpet comes on, you have the problem of sustaining it. Here you must first throw caution to the wind and pray for either an occasional shower or a raise in pay to cover the water bill. You must also pray for patience, for the dogs in your vicinity will bring in bones and otherwise will do things to and on your lawn that you wouldn't do to a dog. The answer to this is in the making as soon as I complete work on my hybrid of a corn cob and turpentine weed.

The question of how to mow that grass is not easily resolved. You can crop it close and have firmness, or you can clip it high and have a lot of froth. You can use the old hand model or their power development which whirls the reel, or you can employ the rotary type which chops the grass into infinitesimal pieces and scatters it to the four winds. Horticulturalists contend this is excellent for the grass; the lady of the house will think it is tacky. As for the tidying up around the sidewalk, you can be a beveler or a trimmer (with one of those electric devices) or you can be a shaggy hair devotee.

Now as to those brown spots. Just when you think you have achieved the ultimate in carpety texture—look out! If the ground is still firm, maybe you need fertilizer, rich in nitrates. If the springiness has turned spongy and the color yellow, you've got worms. Your grass, that is. You can doctor this with chloroform, or you can be entirely more sensible; get a shovel, turn up a few chunks, extract the worms, put them in a can and go fishing.

No Yardstick For Moral Values

It beats me that in a city in which juvenile delinquency has increased 41.3 per cent in the first six months of 1956, the Board of Education is again experimenting with a code of moral and spiritual values for public school guidance.

(Yet despite the staggering increase in delinquency in New York City, it is doubtful if the board will succeed in its efforts to frame an innocuous statement of moral values acceptable to wide groups of militantly religious, anti-religious and just plain Nosy Nells. Such groups have fought the board to a standstill on this issue in the past.)

It is an ironic coincidence that Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy announced the alarming increase in delinquency on the same day that the Board of Education presented a watered-down version of its "A Guiding Statement for Supervisors and Teachers on Moral and Spiritual Values and the Schools." The first version blew up a storm.

The instant cry against any moral or spiritual guidance code in New York's public schools doubtless drowned out one of Commissioner Kennedy's more chilling statistics: In the first half of 1956, more than 41 per cent of arrests for serious crime involved persons under 21 years of age.

You would think that Americans everywhere would approve at least lip service to moral values in the public schools. But if you did, you'd be crazy. Throughout large parts of the nation, any attempt to speak well in the public schools of ancient spiritual values that have aided all men in all ages is fought to the death.

The crux of the matter is that in New York and elsewhere in America moral and spiritual values are associated with God. And God cannot be trusted in the public schools!

His influence is at once subversive and undemocratic. It could impinge upon the right of some small agnostic "to be free of superstition," which would be undemocratic! Or suppose the God of one sect proved more compelling than the God of another! Subversive!

This, despite the fact there is not intention in New York to teach religion in any form, but only to emphasize its moral and spiritual values.

I am the first to defend the right of the agnostic not to believe. But surely the rights of the vast majority of children (estimated at 95 per cent) who come from religious homes are important, too. Do not these rights to some moral guidance in the schools bulk as large as the right of the agnostic's child from interference with his beliefs?

But it is not the agnostics who have led the bitterest fight against the moral code in the public schools. The fight has come from religious and educational quarters.

The great majority of Americans—Protestants, Catholics, and Jews—believe in one God. It is tragic that, in an era begging for spiritual guidance and moral values, they cannot agree upon a yardstick that would be valid for all children.

The Gallup Poll

Symington Second In Demo Poll

PRINCETON, N. J.—If Adlai Stevenson doesn't make the grade in Chicago next week, keep your eye on Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

In a final pre-convention poll of the nation's Democratic county chairmen, Symington has jumped from third place into second place as their favorite presidential candidate behind Adlai Stevenson.

Symington's margin over New York's Gov. Averell Harriman is very slim, however, with Symington polling 17 per cent to Harriman's 16 per cent.

There is no doubt about the top favorite of the Democratic "grass roots" leaders. Stevenson leads in the final poll with 38 per cent. And a majority of the county chairmen would pick the former Illinois Governor over Symington or Harriman as their personal preference in a convention showdown.

The Institute sounded the views of the Democratic county leaders by means of a secret ballot. Names of the chairmen were furnished by the Democratic National Committee.

Ballots were sent out during the last part of July and, up to the present time, replies have come from 1,453—roughly half of the group.

Virtually all of the questionnaires were received in Princeton just prior to Sen. Estes Kefauver's announcement of his withdrawal from the race. The Tennessee Senator was the top choice of 7 per cent of the Democratic county chairmen.

Each county leader was asked to name his preference for the party's presidential nomination from a list of eight possibilities, as follows:

"As of today, which one of these men do you personally prefer as the Democratic candidate for President in 1956?"

The vote:

DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN CANDIDATE PREFERENCES

Candidate	Per cent
Adlai Stevenson	38
Stuart Symington	17
Averell Harriman	16
Lyndon Johnson	13
Estes Kefauver	7
Frank Lausche	4
Others, no preference	5

Included among "others" were Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Gov. Robert B. Meyer of New Jersey.

Today's poll results indicate that Stevenson has recouped most of the ground he lost to Senator Kefauver following the Minnesota primary in March.

An April poll of the Democratic county leaders showed Stevenson with 27 per cent, compared to Kefauver's 21 per cent. Symington at that time had 12 per cent and Harriman 8 per cent.

Further evidence of Stevenson's grip on first place comes from two additional questions in today's poll. In a "showdown" vote, Stevenson is a 5-to-4 choice of county leaders over Symington and better than a 2-to-1 choice over Harriman.

County leaders were asked: "If the choice of Democratic candidate comes down to Stevenson versus Symington, which of these two men would you prefer?" (The same question was asked using Governor Harriman's name.)

The vote:

Stevenson or Symington?	Per cent
Stevenson	54
Symington	42
No preference, no opinion	4

Stevenson or Harriman?	Per cent
Stevenson	66
Harriman	31
No preference, no opinion	3

An analysis of the candidate preferences of the Democratic county leaders by geographical regions of the country turns up some interesting results.

Stevenson runs stronger in the Far West and in the East than he does in the Midwest. Harriman runs about the same in every region of the country except the South, where he polls 8 per cent.

IRVINE, Ky. (AP)—It was a clean getaway—for the newweds.

Donald Clay Hardy and the former Miss Ann Stevens drove away from the church without a single tin can or old shoe tied to their car.

But the minister, Rev. Keith Bell, found his car, one just like the newwed's, decorated with a "Just Married" sign and long string of cans.

Panama Safe From Suez-Type Danger

By FRANCES LEWINE
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Could the Panama Canal — the world's second largest man-made waterway — be nationalized as the Egyptians have done with the Suez Canal?
 "Absolutely not," Panamanian Ambassador J. J. Vallarino said today.
 "The situations are entirely different," said W. M. Whitman, secretary of the Panama Canal Co., a U.S. government corporation which operates the canal.
 The U.S. agreement with Panama, under which the canal is operated, "does not entirely fulfill the wishes and aspirations of the people and government of Panama," the ambassador said, but he was firm that his country would continue to enforce the treaty.
 "The affairs of the Suez Canal do not concern us at all," he said, "but it may lead in the future to better understanding and more liberal consideration towards Panama."
 President Eisenhower was asked at his news conference Wednesday whether he thought the furor over the Suez Canal also might lead to requests that the Panama Canal, now operated solely by this country, be turned over to international control.
 The conditions aren't quite the same, Eisenhower said, noting that internationalization of the Suez Canal had been agreed to in an international convention in 1956. While that concession runs out in 1968, he added, the Suez Canal will always be an international waterway.
 The Panama Canal, a 40-mile route linking the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, was opened to traffic in 1914. It saves 7,873 nautical miles on a voyage from New York to San Francisco.
 The United States acquired the Canal Zone, a five-mile strip on either side of the canal, for 10 million dollars in 1904 and agreed to pay Panama $250,000 a year. This sum was raised to $430,000 a year in 1934 and, by a treaty signed last year, the sum was raised to $1,930,000.
 "Panama has granted the Canal Zone to us in perpetuity," Whitman noted, while the Suez Canal was operated by an international company under a 99-year-lease due to terminate in 1956.
 In the seizure of the Suez Canal Co., Whitman said, the point was that the canal actually was within the boundaries of Egypt. Panama has granted the Panama Canal Zone territory to the United States, he added.

The latest U.S.-Panama treaty, which took some two years to negotiate, met sharp opposition when it came before the Senate in 1955 although the vote on ratification itself was overwhelmingly in favor.
 Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.) called it a "bad treaty" and predicted the next step would be a demand by Panama "to take over the zone and the canal itself."
 Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said he feared Panama "may bleed us white," in case of a future war, for land needed to defend the canal and the citizens and government of Panama.
 The basic issue now and when the canals were built was that the waterways be kept neutral — open to ships of all nations at all times in both peace and war.
 Nasser has estimated the Suez Canal's annual collection of traffic tolls reached 100 million dollars.
 The Panama Canal Co. took in $37,450,000 in the 1956 fiscal year. Its traffic of 8,475 transits is about half of the Suez traffic, which carries much of the Middle East oil, Whitman said.
 The Panama Canal is operated and regulated financially by the Panama Canal Co., a government corporation managed by a 13-member board of directors appointed by the secretary of the Army, acting as personal representative of the President.
 It is not part of the Army, Whitman said. The Canal Zone itself, however, is governed by an officer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Maj. Gen. William E. Potter, a 50-year-old native of Oshkosh, Wis., has been governor of the Canal Zone since last May.
 The directors of the Panama Canal Co. are principally businessmen and high government officials drawn from all parts of the country. They serve without salary.
 Income from the canal tolls is used to operate the canal and to replace and enlarge its facilities. Whitman said that since 1951 the company has paid 15 million dollars to the U.S. Treasury toward reduction of the government's investment in the canal.

Evidence Indicates Seeding Of Hurricane Unnecessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence suggesting that the only hurricane ever subjected to artificial cloud seeding "would have turned anyway" was reported today by a U.S. Weather Bureau meteorologist.
 Forecaster Conrad Mook said an intensive study of the October 1947 hurricane indicates that at the time it was seeded it "was either standing still, and therefore likely to recurve soon from natural causes, or it had already started to recurve."
 Mook said in an interview that his findings appear to rule out the suggestion by Dr. Irving Langmuir of the General Electric Co. that the seeding of the hurricane may have played at least a contributory role in the hurricane abruptly changing its course.
 Dr. Langmuir was chief consultant on an armed forces research project during which the hurricane in question was seeded with dry ice.

The hurricane hit Miami, Fla., Oct. 9, 1947, then veered in a northeast direction out to sea. It ultimately swung back and hit Savannah, Ga., doing damage estimated at five million dollars.

Anti-Red Art Clause Rejected

DALLAS (AP) — The City Council refused yesterday to insert a clause into a contract covering operation of the Museum of Fine Arts which would specifically prohibit Communist art.
 Mrs. Sue Boren Barber, president of the Public Affairs Luncheon Club and Mrs. M. C. Turn Sr., appeared at the council session with a club resolution asking that the clause be inserted in the contract between the Dallas Art Assn. and the Park Board. The contract was approved yesterday.
 Earlier the club sparked a row over display at the museum of an exhibit, "Sports in Art," which was alleged to include paintings by four Communist or Communist-front artists.

Oil Stock Acquired

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. acquired more than 99 per cent of the Warren Petroleum Corp. through a stock exchange offer that expired Wednesday. Warren manufactures and markets natural gasoline and liquefied petroleum gas. It has domestic crude oil production of about 15,000 barrels daily with reserves estimated at 50 million barrels.

GOP Has Chance For Texas Senator

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Interest here in the Texas runoff election for governor extends on to the possible effect it may have on the Senate.
 Should Sen. Price Daniel beat Ralph Yarborough, a fight is in prospect for his Senate seat. A special election probably will have to be called to fill out the two last years of Daniel's term.
 In a special election, the man with the most votes wins—no majority is required if more than two are running.
 A half dozen or more Democrats likely would enter the race. At least three Texas Democratic congressmen have been mentioned as possibilities: Martin Dies, Olin Teague and Jim Wright. Some state officials have been mentioned.

House members do not have to resign to run for the Senate in a special election. Should Daniel win and resign his Senate seat promptly, as he has indicated he may do, Gov. Shivers could call a special election to coincide with the November general election.
 A question then may have to be answered by the Texas attorney general as to whether a House member could run simultaneously for the Senate. Presumably he could since the Senate vacancy technically is being filled in a special election. The matter of separate ballots is involved. Dies, who has said he would run for the Senate if Daniel resigns, said he was uncertain as to this point. He said he intends to run so long as he doesn't have to sacrifice his House seat. Dies was renominated in the primary July 28.
 The lineup in the Senate is 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans. The outcome of the November general elections could reverse this narrow margin, and a lone senatorial race could determine who controls the Senate after Jan. 3.
 Texas thus could be the state causing Sen. Lyndon Johnson to be forced out of the powerful position as Senate majority leader.

There's been talk that either of two Texas Republicans with experience in Congress might be put up by their party—Dallas' Rep. Bruce Alger and former Panhandle Rep. Ben Guill of Pampa, now a member of the Federal Maritime Board.
 Alger says his objective now is to get reelected to the House. Guill occasionally visits his former colleagues on the House floor. He won in a field in Congress when about 10 Democrats entered a special election after Eugene Worley resigned to go on to the federal bench.

Wives Confuse Girl's Status

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A smile played on the lips of John Patrick O'Toole, 26, as he was led from the courtroom to begin serving a six-month sentence for writing bad checks.
 Patricia Gregory put the smile there. She is a television actress and dancer. She had told O'Toole yesterday, a few minutes before, that she would wait for him and become his ninth wife. Or perhaps she will be his 10th mate. Her status is a bit confused, because —

Plenty of Zip at a pip of a price

(It's a great time to buy a Buick!)

SERIOUSLY—where else can you get so much snap and ginger at such a peach of a price?
 Where else can you get a big, high-powered, steady-riding hardtop like this '56 Buick Riviera—at a figure that's pretty close to what they're asking for similar models of the well-known smaller cars?

Nowhere else that we know of—which is one big reason why Buick outsells all other cars in America except two of those smaller cars.

BUT RIGHT ALONG with low price is something else behind Buick's big success: Buick is a lot more automobile for the money.

It gives you more room and luxury—more zip and power thrill—fine handling and sure-footed stability.

And it gives you something you can get in no other car—today's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.* It's the only transmission in the world with the cruising thrift and the switch-pitch safety-surge taken from the modern plane's propeller.

So WHY WAIT any longer—when the time to take action is now, so you can start enjoying all the golden months of summer and fall in a new '56 Buick?

Now—when Buick prices are as low as —perhaps lower than—they'll ever be again.

Now—when your present car is at its peak of worth—and when today's high volume '56 Buick sales permit us to make you an even better trade-in allowance.

Come see us—and look into the car that puts you years ahead right now.

Come see us today—and discover the dilly of a deal that will make you wonder why on earth you waited as long as you did.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Methodist Indian Choir To Sing Here

Early in 1956 eighteen Methodist young people boarded a ship in India and sailed half-way around the world. They brought with them a suitcase full of drums, a hand-carved sitar, tambourines, ankle bells, Bibles in four languages and an eager curiosity about the United States.

They arrived in New York March 1 and are on a concert tour of church and civic groups throughout the States including the quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist Church in Minneapolis. They will be in Big Spring on Monday, 8:00 a.m., Aug. 23 and present concerts at First Methodist Church, Rev. Richard Deats is in charge of the local arrangements.

The Director, American-trained Rev. Victor Sherring, holds degrees from Southwestern College (Winfield, Kan.) and Garrett Biblical Institute (Chicago). Dr. Donald F. Ebricht, who organized the world tour accompanied the Choir to the U.S.A. business administration and public relations to home economics, nursery education and political science.

The trip is a corporate dream-come-true that began nearly two decades ago when music-lover Garnet Everley introduced in the Mission Girls' School, Mathura, India, several musical instruments and a department of music. In the course of years that followed one of the boys, Victor Sherring, was sent to the United States; he returned with degrees in music and a Bachelor of Divinity.

Folk music and Negro spirituals were introduced and enthusiastically received; a renewed search began for truly Indian Christian music. Indian hymns or bhajans were taken from villagers, set down and sung by Mathura choirs and successive generations of Mathura school children. Gradually Christian music throughout northern India received a new impetus.

For two years the choir has been rehearsing, separately and as a group during vacations.

President Hedged About When Making Decision On Troops

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) —

There was a time when the President of the United States alone could determine when, where and how the armed forces of the United States would be deployed. But today that is a matter of the utmost concern to the Prime Minister of Iceland, the Sultan of Morocco and the King of Saudi Arabia, not to mention the ministers of the Emperor of Japan. Every one of them wants to have a say in how the United States handles this vital affair, and all of them have some limited veto on what it does because their territories are involved.

America's first line of defense is based on foreign soil. This is a constant headache to U.S. policymakers. It burdens the work of U.S. diplomats in two score foreign capitals.

The Soviets are waging their attack so cleverly — and there are so many factors working in their favor within the countries where American forces are based — that it seems certain the United States will have to curtail and may even have to abandon its use of some important positions. American policy toward paying a high price to retain control of some base positions is hardening.

Even in the case of the very important base at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, the lease of which is now under renegotiation, State and Defense department officials have concluded there is a limit to what this country will pay. The decline of war fears due to Russia's more friendly behavior over the past three years is the major underlying cause of most of the trouble that the foreign base system is in today.

If the United States shows readiness to pay higher and higher prices to keep its troops and planes stationed in positions far from home, then the nations which control the based territories, ac-ording to present thinking, will show a parallel tendency to demand higher and higher prices.

If other countries are coming to feel they no longer need protection—a belief which official Washington strongly rejects—then in some degree the United States will have to yield to this belief and readjust its defense line.

New Industry For Big Spring.

Cactus Paint Mfg. Co. has added new plant space and equipment with complete testing laboratory for the manufacture of General Purpose-Join-Topping Cement and Texture Coating Paint.

This is the FIRST plant in West Texas for complete manufacture, testing and distribution of these types of finishes.

Supt. in Charge of the New Plant is Mr. Chas. R. Horton who moved to Cactus from U. S. Gypsum Co. plant at Sweetwater. He is a native Texan, Chemical Engineer from Texas Tech, and has experience required to handle the manufacturing techniques of all types of Paints and protective coatings.

The New CACTUS CEMENT has been field tested here in Permian Area and the fact of Micropulverization in the new process has proved superior qualities when compared with ordinary products.

Distribution will be made via truck-lots throughout the Permian Area and from the plant on East Highway 80.

Russians Take Split 'In Stride'

MOSCOW (AP)—An American senator says Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev told him the Kremlin's attack on Stalin "was something the Russian people took in their stride."

Sen. Ellender (D-La.) had a 2 1/2-hour conversation with Khrushchev, one of the longest interviews the Soviet party boss has granted a Westerner recently.

Ellender said Khrushchev, asked about his February speech denouncing Stalin, replied the "people of Russia didn't resent the truth."

Khrushchev added that talk of a crisis over the move against Stalin "was only a figment of the imagination of politicians on the Washington level."

Uncle Ray: Legendary Stories Tell Castle Origin

By RAMON COFFMAN
WARWICK — The famous Warwick (pronounced WAR-ick) Castle exists in this town. There are several well-preserved towers.

The origin of the castle has been lost in legend. One legend tells of a fort which was built on the spot 19 centuries ago.

We hear of an earl with a name meaning Bear, and of another earl who slew a giant with a huge staff made from a young ash tree. Today the earls of Warwick use a crest with emblems of a bear and a heavy pole.

In due course the Saxons gained control of Warwick. The Saxon Chronicle tells us that Ethelreda, daughter of King Alfred the Great, built a new fort there 1,040 years ago.

After the Normans invaded England, they took what was left of the Saxon Castle, and built new towers of stone. One of these was Guy's Tower. The record says that the building cost only 395 pounds. At present exchange, that would amount to about $1,130. That seems like "almost nothing," but let us remember that the price of a sheep 600 years ago was six pennies.

Guy's Tower is 128 feet high. Instead of being round, or having four sides, it has 12 sides! The walls are 10 feet thick. There are 13 rooms in Guy's Tower, and some of them were used as prison cells during the Middle Ages. At the base are dungeons, with a single loophole which was supposed to provide enough light and air for prisoners. The poor fellows must have suffered while down there. One of them wrote a message on a wall:

"Master John Smyth... was a prisoner in this place... For TRAVEL section of your scrapbook.

Blazes Set In N.Y. Churches

NEW YORK (AP)—Small blazes were set in seven of Manhattan's biggest churches.

Fires were touched off in the famed St. Patrick's Cathedral and three other Roman Catholic churches. Also hit were three Episcopal churches. All are in the midtown area.

The fires broke out when few worshippers were in the churches. They were quickly stamped out and damage was minor.

Police are questioning a 66-year-old jobless laborer. They said he had matches and a bottle of lighter fluid in his pockets.

The man, Salvatore Sorrentino, 66, was held on a misdemeanor charge. He denied setting any fires.

His apartment was found crammed with religious statuettes, candles and literature.

Typhoon Sweeps Across China

HONG KONG (AP)—Reports from Red China said today that Typhoon Wanda was one of the century's worst, killing more than 2,100 persons and leaving millions homeless on the Chinese mainland.

A compilation of dispatches from the Communist New China News Agency put the number of known dead at 2,161 and the injured at almost the same figure.

Mitchell Farmers Like Soil Plan

COLORADO CITY — The soil bank plan found a wide acceptance among Mitchell County farmers, according to County Agent Jack Burkhalter. There were 493 signing agreements on cotton for a total of 15,919 acres. Most of this was dryland cotton, as very little irrigated cotton was plowed out for government payment.

Also 127 farmers put 4,976 acres of wheat into the soil bank. This was a poor year for wheat, Burkhalter said, and the only acreage harvested was on irrigated land. The dryland wheat furnished slight grazing but dried out during the spring and failed to make grain.

Girl's Freak Death Is Ruled Accident

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP)—The freakish death of 2-year-old Sophia Louise Hair at Sheridan County Fairgrounds Saturday at an All American Indian Days celebration was ruled an "unavoidable accident" yesterday at a coroner's inquest. The little girl died instantly of a skull fracture when Delbert Amiotte, 25, of Rapid City, S.D., collapsed from a seizure and fell on her as he stood for the national anthem.

Death Appealed

LONDON (AP)—Cpl. James Clinton Jordan, 21-year-old U. S. Airman sentenced by a British court to be hanged for the stab-murder of a young Englishman in a cafe brawl, has formally appealed the sentence.

Alarm System Aids Burglars

LYNDBROOK, N. Y. (AP)—A cautious crew of safecrackers has come up with a new burglar's aid—a telephone alarm system from lookout to bank vault.

The thieves, working under cover of night, successfully demonstrated the modern communication setup over the weekend. They looted the Lynbrook branch of the Meadowbrook National Bank of an estimated $100,000 in cash and an undetermined amount in checks.

Police said the burglars first leaped from a Long Island Rail Road trestle to the roof of a one-story building next to the bank. Then, using a ladder, they climbed to the roof of the bank's two-story annex. From there they ducked into the main building through a third-floor window.

The thieves strung communications wire all the way from a lookout point on the railroad trestle right up to the steel door of the bank's night depository. Apparently there were telephone sets on each end of the line.

The lookout could observe any vehicle or pedestrian near the bank and flash a warning in an instant to the gang inside.

The burglars burned open the depository with an acetylene torch. They hauled out the cash and checks that depositors had left there after the bank closed Friday.

The bank's alarm system failed to ring.

Soldiers On Trial For German Rape

WURZBURG, Germany (AP)—Seven U. S. Army soldiers went on trial before a general court-martial today on charges of raping a 15-year-old German schoolgirl July 9 at nearby Bamberg. It brought a request from the Bamberg City Council for withdrawal of American soldiers from the town.

The seven on trial here, all Negroes, are members of the 85th Infantry Regiment stationed at Bamberg.

Maximum punishment on the charge is death.

Thieves Use Own Money On Machine

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—Thieves ripped open a massive safe at the Warwick Building Materials Co. over the weekend and got an undisclosed amount of money. They quenched their thirst while they "worked" with soft drinks from a nearby vending machine. Police said they did not tamper with the light metal dispensing machine, but used their own coins to pay for the drinks.
