Wreckage Left By Crash Fatal To Three

2-Car Crash Kills 3, Leaves 3 Injured

Three persons are dead and three others are hospitalized, two in serious condition, as result of a two-car traffic collision 2.5 miles west of here at 4:15 p.m. Thursday afternoon.

Dead are: MRS. JEWEL MANN, about 38, of Sequin.

MRS. INEZ LAUDAN SHIVERS, 30, of Midland.

MISS EUNA TOLTON, 27, of Midland.

Seriously injured are Lloyd Mann, 48, husband of Mrs. Mann, and Jewell Griffin, 29, Midland. Less seriously hurt is E. B. Compton, Jr., Midland. Miss Tolton and Miss Griffin are Negroes.

The three fatalities represent the 15th, 16th, and 17th traffic deaths for Howard County for the current year.

Floyd Moore and Rufus Davidson, sheriff's deputies, were the first officers at the scene which was near the intersection of the entrance road to the Sahara Drive

Henry Assigned To 16th Heat For Derby Classic

By WAYLAND YATES

AKRON, Ohio—Henry Hendricks rolls in the 16th heat of the All-American Soap Box Derby Sunday, as he tries for fame and fortune in the amateur racing classic.

He'll be in the middle lane of three, with his race scheduled at 2:15 p.m. EDT (12:15 p.m. Big Spring time). Heat drawings yesterday matched him in this first try against Charles Conger of Miami, Fla., in Lane 1, and Stephen Cress of Fort Wayne, Ind. in Lane 3.

Henry's car passed the inspectors Thursday with flying colors. Today the Big Spring champ, with 157 other local winners, was getting the feel of the splendid track erected on the outskirts of Akron especially for the Derby. There are contestants here from 44 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Canada, Ireland and West Germany. In their spare time, all the lads are loafing, working and playing at Derbytown, a converted YMCA camp where they will live until Monday morning. Henry headed for the hobby shop the first thing, and started work on a model plane. He's spending most of his time there, although he plans to go with a group for boat rides on the Portage Lakes Saturday.

Also on tap Saturday is a science show, and then luncheon will be served the boys by Akron industrialists. W. E. Fish, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Division of General Motors, sponsor of the All-American event, will personally present each boy with a special Soap Box Derby wrist watch.

Another highlight occurs Saturday evening when Henry and the other champs meet Joe E. Brown, Roy Rogers, Art Baker and Snooky Lanson, movie and television stars who will be on hand to honor the Soap Boxers.

Britain Brushes Off Russ Bid To Delay Suez Talks

LONDON (AP)—Britain today brushed aside Soviet Russia's bid to recast and postpone next week's London parley on the Suez Canal crisis.

This was officially indicated by the news chief of the Foreign Office after high-level talks between London, Washington and Paris. It was later amplified by qualified officials who decline to be named.

At the same time Prime Minister Eden's government, for the second successive day, slowed down its trooplift to the Mediterranean.

Eden and his military chiefs ordered a second 24-hour postponement of the airlift of crack infantrymen to the Suez area. Some troopship moves also were held up.

The slowdown came as Egypt proclaimed formation of a new "national liberation army" and world anxiety mounted over the possibilities of a blowup.

in theater with U. S. Highway 80.

Davidson said a 1954 Ford, driven by Mrs. Shivers, and in which Compton, Miss Tolton and Miss Griffin were passengers, was going west.

The Manns, with Mrs. Mann driving, were proceeding east on the south lane of the four-lane highway.

Davidson said evidence showed the Shivers car suddenly went out of control. It was thought a tire blew out. The vehicle plunged across the barrier dividing the two roads, tearing the pavement in its course. It reached the south lane and turned bottom side up in the immediate path of the 1954 Ford in which the Manns were riding.

Unable to stop, despite braking efforts and sharp swerving, the Mann car plowed headon into the first car, crushing it down on the four persons trapped inside.

Immediately behind the Mann car, traveling east, was a third car, driven by Buck McBee, Abilene, and with G. T. Teagarden, Odessa, as a passenger.

McBee jammed his brakes to avoid piling into the two wrecked cars. His effort resulted in the door of his car swinging open and pitching Teagarden to the pavement. Other than a few abrasions, the Odessa man was not hurt.

He leaped to his feet and ran to the Mann car. McBee dashed to the Shivers vehicle.

Teagarden said he was able to drag Mann from the passenger side of the front seat but that he found Mrs. Mann pinned under the crushed steering wheel and was unable to free her.

Meantime, McBee had been extricating the passengers from the Shivers car. He said all were "piled together." "I couldn't tell who was driving," said the Abilene man.

Mrs. Shivers was either dead or

Truman Believed Ready To Support Harriman

Fate Of Airport Is Up To Voters

Voters who are taxpayers in Howard County go to the polls Saturday to determine the fate of a civil airport.

To be approved or disapproved is a proposed $500,000 county issue which would finance construction of landing facilities and terminal building.

The ballot simply reads "For" and "Against" the Airport Bond Issue.

Voting will be done at the customary polling places in each of the county's 16 precincts. Polls are open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Election judges Friday had supplies and staffs in readiness to handle the vote.

Size of the vote total could not be determined. However, a strong turnout was expected in view of the fact that there was a late flurry of activity, with both proponents and opponents of the issue using advertising media in an attempt to influence voters.

The airport proposition has been a matter of study for many months, and at least two separate petitions had gone to the County Commissioners Court for a bond election.

The current proposition finally was advanced through Chamber of Commerce activity, after studies in an effort to produce air facilities to replace those now occupied by Webb Air Force Base.

Engineering has been done on a site located on the Snyder Highway, about four miles north of the city limits. This is subject to final acceptance by the CAA and the Federal Air Space Committee.

County officials have announced that the bond issue can be handled out of the current allotment for permanent improvement funds, without an additional tax levy.

WHO CAN VOTE, AND WHERE

PROPOSITION — Approval or disapproval of $500,000 in county bonds, to finance construction of a civil airport.

VOTING — All 16 precincts open, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Voters cast ballots in regular precinct voting boxes, as primary and general elections.

QUALIFICATIONS — Only those voters who are qualified by poll tax receipts and who have property rendered for taxation on a county rolls are eligible.

Like Him Or Not, Harry's Still Old Pro

By ED CREAUGH

CHICAGO (AP)—Whether you're on his side or whether you're not, Harry Truman is still the old pro.

You can take that word two ways — "pro" for professor or "pro" for professional politician. The former President stepped zestfully into both roles yesterday — and the crowd loved it.

So did Truman. You'd almost have thought he was running for something himself, the way he flailed away at Republicans on every issue he could think of at the most spirited session Democratic platform writers have held all week.

One platformer, Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York, went so far as to put a question that might well chill the hearts of such presidential aspirants as Adlai Stevenson and Averell Harriman. Celler came right out and asked if Truman would consider heading the ticket himself.

The comfortably upholstered frame of the man from Independence shook with laughter.

"Thank you very much, Manny," he said finally, "but I'm not a candidate for anything. . . . I'm just a private citizen from Missouri."

The Mayfair Room of the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel was jammed and steaming when Truman, to all appearances perky as ever, hand-shook his way through the mob and took his seat on one of the undertaker-type chairs provided for spectators and expectant witnesses.

Mrs. Truman sat on his right. Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, who ran for vice president four years ago, joined the party. So did hostess-with-the-mostest, Perle Mesta, wearing sun glasses, and Irish tenor Phil Reagan.

The atmosphere was so chummy that it called for a song—and Reagan, a onetime policeman who got rich by way of vocalizing and oil wells, sang one: "Irish Lullaby."

This had little to do with the platform which the 107-member committee is trying to write, but it got a big hand. So did star witness Truman when he settled into the witness chair and addressed himself to the platformers and the battery of microphones on the table before him.

He was billed as a witness on the foreign policy plank but, with a bare minimum of prompting from the floor, he proceeded to ax away at the Eisenhower administration on every issue from civil rights to interest rates.

He couldn't resist, either, the familiar Truman urge toward being a professor of history.

Speaking of the 14th Amendment—which guarantees equality under the law to all citizens — he admonished: "Read it. Read it. You need to read it."

And he told a story—which not all historians would accept—about a "deal" by which Republican Rutherford B. Hayes allegedly stole the presidential election of 1876 through a promise by Republican President U.S. Grant that the 14th Amendment would be winked at.

Truman spoke and responded to questions for the best part of an hour.

As he made his way through the throng, a lady in the rear made a plaintive appeal: "Please make way for Mrs. Truman."

The lady was Bess Truman. The crowd made way.

Stirs Confusion Into 'Rights' Issue

CHICAGO (AP)—Harry S. Truman kept a string of top-drawer Democratic callers guessing today about which candidate for the party's presidential nomination he intends to endorse tomorrow.

From the camp of Adlai E. Stevenson, however, came word that Truman may be teetering on the brink of throwing his support to Gov. Averell Harriman of New York. This word came from a long-time Truman friend who is now backing Stevenson.

But for the record, another Stevenson aide, his press secretary, Roger Tubber, said: "We are naturally hopeful that President Truman will come out for Gov. Stevenson."

"If he does come out for Gov. Stevenson, we feel we will have a united party and a strong party and an excellent chance of winning the election in November."

Truman is to announce his decision at a news conference tomorrow afternoon.

Gov. Harriman, here to press his uphill candidacy, breathed confidence he can win the nomination in the convention opening next week, despite claims of Stevenson's backers that they will have 630 of the necessary 699 1/2 votes on the first convention ballot.

Stevenson, who called on Truman at the latter's hotel said after a half hour's chat with the former president: "I feel just as good today (about winning the nomination) as I did yesterday and the day before."

Asked what he and Truman talked about, Stevenson quipped: "We decided to elect a Democratic president."

As a former president whose prestige is at a high point, Truman could throw a strong obstacle in the way of either of the candidates by an endorsement of the other.

While a Truman nod to Stevenson conceivably could force Harriman out of the contest, many Democrats felt that a Truman endorsement for Harriman would not necessarily stop Stevenson's nomination.

Stevenson replied "I think so" to a question as to whether he and Truman agree on the civil rights issue, which Truman left in something of a snafu by conflicting statements.

ADA, Labor Chiefs Urge Rights Plank

CHICAGO (AP)—Leaders of organized labor and Americans for Democratic Action demanded today that the Democratic party pledge federal backing for the Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., Washington attorney and the ADA's national chairman, said the Democrats stand to lose as many or more independent white votes as Negro votes if the party "trims or evades on civil rights or civil liberties."

In another statement prepared for the Democratic Platform Committee, George M. Harrison, AFL-CIO vice president and chairman of the party's advisory committee representing organized labor, similarly called for federal support toward "a peaceful and effective transition to a nonsegregated American educational system."

These views presented by some of the same elements which helped stir a pitched civil rights row at the 1952 Democratic convention were the strongest stands on the issue yet presented to the platform-framing group this time.

They could upset the uneasy truce that has been maintained so far by both sides on the racial question in the interest of party harmony.

Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi, leader of the Dixie group seeking to avoid any platform endorsement of the Supreme Court ruling, said in advance of today's session that his forces were ready for action if necessary.

THE AIRPORT ISSUE

Long Study On Airport Plan; Decision To Voters Saturday

(This is the last in a series of articles concerning the $500,000 county airport bond issue on Saturday—Ed.)

You can vote Saturday on whether to issue $500,000 in bonds to finance a Howard County airport, provided—

- 1) You hold either a poll tax receipt or exemption certificate in the box in which you reside, and
- 2) If you have rendered property (either real or personal) for taxes to the county.

The polls will open in the 16 regular places of the county at 8 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m.

A majority vote settles the issue. These are some of the highlights of the matter:

Big Spring and Howard County had been served by a first class airport until 1951 when it was offered to the federal government as site for an airbase. In consequence, Webb AFB was activated as a jet pilot training station. The base has fulfilled, is continuing to fulfill, this mission in such a distinguished manner that it is destined to remain, at least for many years, an integral part of the nation's defense mechanism.

Until the picture concerning the base's activities crystallized, Big Spring and Howard County made use of Hamilton Field, a small improved private field immediately northeast of town. Because of proximity to the base, topography, etc. it was not possible to develop this into a permanent airport to meet all CAA standards. The commissioners court hopes to move the site farther out the Snyder Highway and there develop an adequate plant and field to meet the needs of a growing community. Because federal aid cannot be secured for this project, the county will, if voters approve, construct it alone.

The volume of landings and of home-based planes at Hamilton Field, plus the pressure of requests for private and business landings at Webb indicate a definite need for a new civilian airport. Col. C. M. Young, Webb AFB commander, has emphasized this by pointing out that he cannot, regardless of desire, yield to constant, increasing pleas of landing permits without jeopardizing safety and the mission of the base. Heads of large businesses, such as R. L. Tollett of Cosden, have underlined the imperative need for convenient, adequate airport facilities.

Howard County is financially able to carry the load of servicing the $500,000 additional indebtedness. This can and will be done without having to increase the tax rate. This is not a hastily conceived program. Actually, few projects ever proposed for the community have been given such meticulous study by local governmental agencies, civic groups, individuals and business heads. More than four years of serious, exhaustive study have gone into the proposal. Its fate is in your hands Saturday.

Ike Calls Suez Meeting To 'Share Responsibility'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today President Eisenhower called a Sunday meeting with congressional leaders on the Suez Canal crisis because the President "feels very strongly about sharing responsibility with Congress, particularly if there should be any risk of hostilities."

Dulles said, however, "I don't see anything in the situation now which would suggest that a special session of Congress would be required."

The secretary talked briefly with reporters at Washington National Airport before taking off for New York to meet with Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold of the U. N. and U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

The meeting was arranged for a general discussion of Middle Eastern problems including Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal.

Eisenhower yesterday called congressional leaders to meet at

BIRTHDAY

Hoover Works On 'Farewell Talk'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Herbert Hoover observes his 82nd birthday today working on his third "Farewell Address to the Republicans." It's part of a normal working day that would fatigue most men half his age.

The ex-President, appearing remarkably young for his years, advised oldsters to follow his example and keep busy at "some kind of productive work."

"Otherwise, you will degenerate into talking to everybody about your pains and pills and income tax," he said in a birthday statement. He didn't recommend his own 12-to-14-hour day. But he did advise oldsters "not to retire from work or you will shrivel up into a nuisance to all mankind."

America needs their skills, he said. "I have no patience with laws that prevent retired oldsters with meager pensions from earning all they can. Their productivity is a contribution to national wealth and comfort."

Hoover declined to talk about politics at a pre-birthday press conference in his "Presidential suite" at the Mark Hopkins Hotel. He said he is saving that for a speech 10 days hence before the Republican National Convention in San Francisco's Cow Palace, an appearance he said he was making only because President Eisenhower demanded it.

This will be the sixth consecutive GOP convention for the ex-President. Twice before the senior Republican statesman made farewell speeches. His last previous goodbye was in 1952 when he intimated advancing years would prevent his return.

Hoover said his speech would deal with the greatest problem facing America today but did not elaborate.

He credited Eisenhower with having "done a tremendous amount to reduce tension" in the world. Because of reduced tensions, he said, prospects of peace

"are better now than they were four years ago."

The ex-President disclosed he is working on a book about his World War I activities — Belgian relief, food administration, European rehabilitation—which include "the only activity in the American government I know of that has not been investigated by Congress."

He expects to have the book finished with a year.

The indefatigable octogenarian, whose longevity is matched by only three other former presidents, talked readily about his favorite subjects:

Government reorganization — The second Hoover Commission "not only proposed to save considerable of your income tax, but its principles would preserve the American way of life and it needs some preservatives."

Twenty million dollars a year is being saved by simplification of government documentations recommended by the commission "and we've only just made a start at it."

Fishing — "That's the way to get away from the radio, TV, telephone and all the other instruments of torture."

Boys clubs for underprivileged "pavement boys" — America has 40 such clubs and is getting a new one every 10 days. Twenty police chiefs reported "delinquency about wiped out" in boys clubs' areas. "They are a much cheaper operation for the community than paying for reform schools."

Private enterprise—It's "utterly impossible" for government to be as efficient as private business.

Republicans — "I've been pretty constant in my Republican faith." He has "no regrets" on his party participation since he first registered as a Republican at the age of 21 in Berkeley, Calif. That time in 1920 he won the Democratic presidential primary in Michigan "was over my protest."

U. S. Asks Creation Of Suez Authority

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has proposed creation of an international authority to run the Suez Canal with complete control over its use, fees, finances and development.

The proposal is set forth in a memorandum sent to countries which will attend the Suez crisis conference in London next week. The document states the principles which the United States hopes will be translated into a new treaty guaranteeing forever international control of the strategic waterway.

It almost certainly will come up for discussion Sunday at a White House conference to which congressional leaders of both parties have been invited in an obvious effort to obtain bipartisan backing for the U.S. position.

The principles set forth in the State Department memorandum are essentially these:

1. There should be assurances that the Suez Canal will continue to function in accordance with the principles of the Suez convention of 1888. The 1888 pact specified that the canal "shall always be free and open" in war and peace to the ships of all nations and "shall never be subjected to the right of blockade."
2. The canal should be operated by an international authority having full control over the fees charged, over-all operations, maintenance and future development and the handling of financial affairs.

3. Egypt should receive a reasonable income from the canal revenues. Officials here believe this should be substantially more than the 10 million dollars or less which Egypt has realized annually from the canal in recent years.
4. The University Suez Canal Co. owner and operator of the canal whose property Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser nationalized two weeks ago, should receive fair compensation for its assets. This implies acceptance of the right of Egypt to nationalize the canal properties within its territory; it also implies that iron-clad arrangements should be made for insuring the compensation Nasser has promised.
5. If Egypt and the company should disagree on such matters as compensation, the issue should be submitted to arbitration by a commission designated by the World Court.

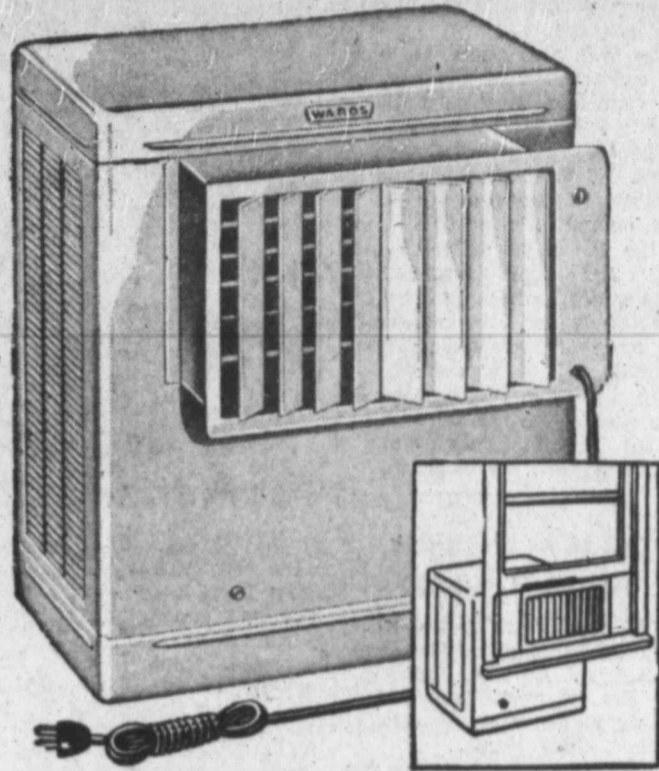

Officials here said a similar set of principles has been circulated by Britain and France to countries which will attend the London meeting. The group, including Russia and India, totals more than 20. Egypt was among the 24 originally invited by Britain but indications have been that she will not accept.

NAACP, CIO, Drought Targets For Candidates

By WHITEY SAWYER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Drought, the CIO and the NAACP were the targets of Texas gubernatorial runoff candidates Friday.

Ralph Yarborough, speaking in West Texas Thursday, announced a proposal for a long range drought aid and water conservation program.

Sen. Price Daniel, stumping the Fort Worth-Dallas area, charged that "CIO labor bosses and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People" were supporting his opponent.

U. Simpson Tate of Dallas, regional NAACP counsel, denied that the organization was taking part in the campaign.

"We now feel compelled to call upon those who have repeatedly and continuously made charges against us to the contrary to come forward and name at least two persons who are members of the NAACP and who have bound themselves to speak for the NAACP in support of or in opposition to any candidate for public office in this state," Tate said.

"We also call upon them to show by ordinary standards of evidence that at least $2 have been 'poured' into any fund to be used as an NAACP contribution to support or oppose any candidate," he added.

Daniel said that in Harris County the vote in 29 Negro precincts was Yarborough 2,882, Daniel 93; in eight Tarrant County boxes, Yarborough 1,712, Daniel 31; in 14 Dallas County boxes, Yarborough 2,145, Daniel 71; in 3 Travis County boxes, Yarborough 954, Daniel 72; in Jefferson County, Yarborough 1,648, Daniel 226.

"If you think the NAACP isn't out working for my opponent, just look at the returns from colored boxes in the first Democratic primary," Daniel said at Dallas.

He also charged that "paid labor organizers" are working for Yarborough and said the CIO "will be putting out marked ballots again for the Aug. 25 election."

Yarborough said at Monahan "we have no state drought laws and the little relief received by our people is all from federal sources."

He said his drought plan included long range planning on a permanent basis to meet the economic shock of drought, immediate cash aid to prevent farmers and ranchers from being driven off their land, a long range water plan with thousands of little ponds on farms and ranches and "a hundred big dams to catch water on the main basins of rivers," expanded soil conservation practices with the government paying 85 per cent instead of 50 per cent, and expanded research on drought, its cause and possible cures.

"We need research on its (drought) recurrence, possible mitigation and on long range storage of water as well as the possibility of increasing rainfall by artificial means and on conversion of salt water to fresh water," he said.

Friday Yarborough headed for Lubbock, Amarillo and Tyler.

Daniel returned to the Dallas area with a statewide telecast scheduled for 7 p.m.

No Shorts

Ann McCarthy, 12, of Kansas City, Mo., holds a Central High School enrollment schedule her mother obtained for her after school authorities declined to give the child an enrollment blank because she was dressed in shorts.

"Ann never had been told anything about shorts being 'unmoral,'" her mother, Mrs. Norman McCarthy, said. "She was shocked and embarrassed." Mrs. McCarthy called police into the matter. The school said it had a policy for a decade to prohibit girls from wearing shorts or slacks in class.

Shorts Ban Ires Mama

KANSAS CITY (AP)—They would not give Ann McCarthy her enrollment schedule at Center High School yesterday because she turned up in her Girl Scout shorts.

Ann is 12. She cried.

Her mother, Mrs. Norman McCarthy, called police.

Sgt. Joe Kleber went around to school.

"I really don't want to get involved," he said.

"The little McCarthy girl looked like about 10 or 12 years old. There were other children in the school yard wearing shorts and one girl in the hall. But I don't know if they were there to pick up schedules."

Kleber went in to see Tom Foraker, principal.

"When this pollegian came out," Mrs. McCarthy said, "He told me Mr. Foraker said it was a school board rule not to admit girls in shorts."

"He suggested maybe I'd better comply, take Ann home, put a dress on her, then come back and get the schedule."

"I said I was going to do nothing of the kind. I told him to wait and I'd get the schedule."

She did.

"I told Mr. Foraker that if my little girl's shorts demoralized him or the building the harm had already been done."

"Ann never had been told anything about shorts being unmoral. She was shocked and embarrassed. She knows shorts are not worn to regular school, or downtown, or to the Broadway Methodist Church where she sings in the choir."

Foraker said it had been school policy for more than a decade to prohibit girls from wearing shorts, slacks or jeans in classes.

He explained:

"It invites comments from teenage boys, remarks which would not be made if a girl is conventionally dressed."

"We school people are in loco parentis—that's Latin for 'in place of the parent'—when the boy or girl comes onto the grounds or into the school. We teachers must make the decisions."

"I served in the 102nd Infantry in Europe and saw all kinds of sights. Nothing can shock me personally. But we have seventh through twelfth grades in this school."

"If some bum bird made a remark to a sweet little 12-year-old girl of mine I'd want something done about it, and so would Mrs. McCarthy—and I would be the one she would want to get something done."

Mrs. McCarthy had the last word.

"If I hadn't been too angry to think of it, I'd have put on shorts myself to go for Ann's schedule."

U. S. Brags About Settling Of Suez Fuss—2 Years Ago

WASHINGTON (AP)—Right in the middle of a big international row over seizure of the Suez Canal, the Defense Department today issued a report claiming that American policy was "helpful in bringing about an Anglo-Egyptian accord" on Suez.

The report was talking, not about present conditions, but about a British-Egyptian agreement of August 1954—two years ago.

The Defense Department document is a report to Congress covering the 1955 fiscal year which ended more than 13 months ago. The Pentagon had no immediate explanation for the delay in bringing it out.

In some ways, the report proved prophetic—as when it noted a Russian "attempt to regularize relations with Yugoslavia." This summer, Marshal Tito visited Moscow, signaling a healing of a breach between the two Communist countries.

Normally, formal reports from the Pentagon deal primarily with defense and military matters. But this volume stressed U.S. policy

Flee From Iraq

Mrs. Helen Subbagh, 27, and her son, 22-month-old Laith, are happy arrivals at New York's Idlewild Airport after a flight from Baghdad and her unhappy married life with an Arab. Mrs. Subbagh, en route to her parents' home in Palo Alto, Calif., said she got out of Iraq with only the clothes she wore when a U.S. vice consul helped them evade a Moslem decree that she could not take Laith out of the country. Mrs. Subbagh married Arab student Abdul Herbar Subbagh at Palo Alto in 1953 and they went to Iraq 11 months ago, where she said he treated her like a slave.

Chicago In Fight With Dread Polio

CHICAGO (AP)—Spurred by a medical expert's prediction that Chicago's polio outbreak will reach the epidemic stage, city health officials are bearing down on efforts to combat the spread of the disease.

Board of Health President Herman N. Bundesen, at an emergency meeting, yesterday directed speedy action in a drive for more nurses, physio-therapists and medical equipment to fight the upsurge.

He also planned a more widespread educational program aimed at urging all Chicagoans to take Salk vaccine shots.

As part of this phase, a ventriloquist, Paul Stadelman, 56, will accompany a mobile vaccination unit starting today at a housing project in the West Side area which has the city's highest incidence of infection. He'll attempt to persuade children not to be afraid of the shots.

The West Side area has 322 or 49 per cent of Chicago's 653 cases—highest in the nation.

Dr. John Brady of New York predicted that the number of cases in Chicago may rise to between 1,500 and 1,800 cases.

Epidemic stage for a city of Chicago's population—nearly four million—would be 1,330 cases, according to U.S. Public Health Service authorities.

The previous record year was 1952. As of this date four years ago there were 211 cases and 11 deaths. There have been 18 fatal cases so far in 1956.

Meantime, in the first precautionary move taken in connection with the forthcoming Democratic National Convention, New York Gov. Averell Harriman ordered Salk shots for the Chicago staff working for his nomination.

However, Dr. Karl Meyer, medical officer for the convention, said this situation is "not serious" and did not advise mass inoculation of delegates.

The Mighty Fall Easier

The people who own the late lamented Italian liner Andrea Doria and the Swedish-American liner Stockholm are sparring like a couple of motorists over a dented fender. The Stockholm people charge that the Doria made a reckless left turn without warning into the path of the Stockholm, and the Italian people come right back with the claim that the Stockholm was at fault—she made a sharp, unannounced right turn and poked her nose into the Doria's midriff.

The insurance people who must pick up the check involving tens of millions of dollars are squaring away behind the steamship companies, and it promises to be a terrific and long-drawn-out battle.

One wonders what would happen if both lines happened to be insured in the same company or group of companies.

But it is an interesting commentary on littleness and bigness to reflect the the selfsame issues are involved in the gigantic squabble as are involved when a 1949 sedan meets a 1954 two-door at the intersection of Main and Oak in dear old Podunk, and for precisely the same reason: human error.

It's Now Or Almost Never

There is little—or nothing that we could say—that would change any opinions one way or the other about the county airport issue on Saturday.

The question simply is whether we need an airport, and whether we need it urgently enough to invest half a million dollars in a site and its development, and whatever else is necessary to support it until such a time as it might become self-sustaining or return an operating profit. When that time would be no one knows.

We believe that the time to do something about it is Saturday, and the place to do something about it is the polls.

But as we say, we have no desire to impose our will upon people. We do hope, however, that every qualified voter (poll tax receipt or exemption certificate, plus property rendered for taxes) will exercise a civic duty and go to the polls. It is our firm conviction if people will not default in their obligations, the issue will carry overwhelmingly. If not, then no one would bow more graciously to the results than we.

But we reiterate, the question of an airport is now or almost never—or at least for many years to come.

People Have No Choice Of Candidates

WASHINGTON—Within a few days there will be dramatized through radio, television and the press what amounts to a spectacular hoax—the idea that in some way the two national conventions are representative bodies which the American people have set up to choose candidates for the presidency and vice presidency.

The direct primary will be ignored and only the wishes of party bosses, group bosses and manipulators of blocs will be obeyed.

Anybody who knows the personalities active in the public life of America would have to concede that the best, the most experienced, and in every sense the best qualified men to become president and vice president will not even be considered by the two national conventions.

There has been much discussion engendered in the last 12 months, mostly by the partisan critics of Vice President Nixon who have managed to focus a lot of attention on the arbitrary way that vice presidents have been selected in the past by national convention. Yet, strangely enough, very little has been said by those same critics about the arbitrary manner in which presidential candidates have been picked.

Everything that has been said about how vice-presidential nominees are chosen by a coterie of politicians can be said also of the method of choosing presidential nominees. There never has been in either political party a genuine opportunity for the voters of each party to pick their candidates. Woodrow Wilson was the first president to argue for a presidential preference primary that would be nationwide. But the politicians killed off the idea.

Does anybody high up in the Democratic party really believe that Adlai Stevenson is the best qualified man to be President of the United States? Does anybody who knows the many outstanding men in Congress believe that General Eisenhower in 1952 was the best qualified man?

Judging by what the Democratic leaders now say, Mr. Eisenhower hasn't made a good President, and yet they would replace him with Adlai Stevenson—a man they know hasn't had any important experience in the national government in dealing with the many intricate legislative problems that come up in Congress. At least Mr. Eisenhower now has had nearly four years of experience and is familiar with the ins-and-outs of international as well as national problems.

The man who has had the next amount of experience in the same field is Vice President Nixon, yet the Democrats and their ally, Harold Stassen, are saying that Mr. Nixon should be replaced by someone else. They usually name someone who has not had the first-hand experience in national or international affairs that Mr. Nixon has.

But in all this the people have little or nothing to say. It is all very well for purposes of convention oratory to argue that the delegates are "chosen by the people." But are they? The custom is for local political organizations to pick the delegates, and more often than not the posts go to those who have the money to spend on the trip or who seek the opportunity for reasons of local prestige to sit on the state delegation.

Perhaps the most conspicuous example of the disregard of "the people's wishes" is to be noted in what happened just a couple of weeks ago when Senator Kefauver announced his "withdrawal" from the contest for the presidential nomination in the Democratic party. He and his associates denied emphatically that there was any "deal" whereby he would be awarded the vice-presidential nomination. But why did Mr. Kefauver withdraw? There had not been a counting of noses. The so-called "open convention" had not even met. But Mr. Kefauver knew somehow that he couldn't win the nomination. He knew the line-up of the bosses in the various states and their power over the balloting. And this is what is called a "people's" convention.

This correspondent has attended ten Republican and ten Democratic party national conventions and not one of these polled the voters beforehand, either through the primaries or by any other nationwide system. Conventions, it must be admitted, are ruled by oligarchies. The wonder is that they do produce some good presidents—but the tragedy is that they also produce some very incompetent presidents. The people have no choice in the November election except between two specific candidates in whose selection they have had no part and for whom there are many able substitutes available who could really make good presidents.

Firemen And The Law

NICHOLASVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It looked like a losing battle for Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Reynolds when their farm home near here caught fire.

They fought the blaze in the basement with a garden hose after putting in a phone call for help.

But a city ordinance prohibits taking the fire truck out of town—and the Reynolds knew it.

Soon, however, Fire Chief Walter Brumfield and several of his men showed up and quickly put out the flames.

The ordinance confining the fire truck to town didn't say a word against volunteer firemen leaving without it.

They just brought the extinguishers.

Harry's Last Time Around?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Truman, who calls himself a living politician rather than an elder statesman, is playing the political role in the grand manner but perhaps for the last time.

He's 72, retired, and still beloved by millions, and like a fire horse hearing the bell once more, he swept into Chicago yesterday for the Democratic convention which opens Monday. He was the center of attraction all day.

One reason: because he was the colorful Harry Truman. Another: because he has whetted political appetites by steadfastly refusing to name the Democrat he'd like to see get the party's presidential nomination next week.

Then he boosted the suspense—and interest in himself—by announcing he'd state his preference by Sunday. Thus he maintains an appearance of political importance which may be all out of keeping with his power in the party.

He has far less influence than he did in 1952 when he was leaving the presidency and helped make Adlai Stevenson the Democratic candidate. He should have even less by the next convention in 1960, if he lives that long.

For what isn't clear is this: How much difference does it make who his preference is?

After this election, if Stevenson wins, he's the one who can repay delegate votes with favors, not Truman. Truman, by keeping his choice to himself until Sunday, has a chance to check the box office.

He's a good Democrat and party man. If he prefers Gov. Averell

Harriman of New York but finds Stevenson has the nomination sewed up, Truman will probably come out for Stevenson. He wouldn't want to wreck the party's chances by sowing discontent uselessly.

She Dreams In Technicolor

NEW YORK (AP)—Miss Jaye P. Morgan, who looks like a vanilla ice cream cone with green eyes, has an odd habit. She often dreams in Technicolor.

"I dream all night long," said Miss Morgan, who in little more than a year has bounced to a top spot among the nation's lady song belters.

About 20 per cent of my dreams—I call them my $5 specials—are in Technicolor. Those in black and white are just marked down 50-cent dreams."

Jaye, one of seven children of a vaudeville performer, was born in a log cabin in Colorado to which her parents had been temporarily forced to retire during the last depression.

She was named Mary, picked up the nickname "Jaye P."—after she was elected class treasurer in high school.

Jaye started her stage career at 3, singing, "When They Cut the Old Pine Tree Down," and left its echoes in practically every small vaudeville theater west of Chicago.

Last year she sold two million records, earned some $250,000. This summer she filled in Eddie Fisher's NBC network spot in an act with four of her brothers—Anch, Bob, Duke and Dick.

Jaye has done so well that the network is reported trying to find a permanent spot for her this fall. She hopes so. After two decades of itinerant show world life, she'd like a permanent place to hang her nylons.

You'd think a girl in her income bracket would dream mostly of the tax collector, but he only haunts Jaye when she's awake.

"I often dream of speeding downhill in a car with no brakes," she said. "I can even feel the wind whistling past."

"Sometimes I have science fiction dreams of the Martians invading the earth, and in one of my favorite Technicolor dreams I walk up a long marble staircase into a lovely bedroom with cel-ings a mile high. Maybe that's because I've had to sleep in so many small hotel rooms on tour."

In another of her recurrent dreams—this one is more of a nightmare—Jaye is singing in an old-fashioned costume. Then suddenly the fastener in her lace frilled bloomers breaks and—Jaye wakes up suddenly.

"I've always wanted to know what my dreams meant, but I'm afraid to go to a psychiatrist for fear I'd find out too much about myself," said Jaye, smiling.

"I feel normal, and I want to stay that way."

Passions Flare Again As Demos Plan Convention

CHICAGO (AP)—Well, here we go again. The fur is beginning to fly among the Democrats. Angry words. Verbal fist-shaking.

But the betting still is that they'll keep it a family fight and close ranks against the Republicans before the national convention winds up next week.

Somehow the heat and light of television floodlights seem to inflame the passions of politicians.

Here in the glare of giant bulbs yesterday was Carmine DeSapio, big chief of Tammany Hall, top backer of Averell Harriman for the presidency, and normally as cool and reflective a fellow as you'll find outside a monastery.

But Carmine was controlling his temper with obvious difficulty and he took no pains at all to control the temperature of his words:

"Wild distortion of facts. . . a Republican-inspired hoax or an act of desperation."

The man in the famous tinted glasses named no names but reporters surrounding him in a 16th-floor lobby had no trouble figuring out he was unimpressed by the first-ballot victory claims put out by the forces of Adlai Stevenson.

Any desperation in sight was more evident in the Harriman camp than anywhere else.

Stevenson's headquarters were opening up in the Conrad Hilton Hotel about the time DeSapio was speaking his piece. And the Stevenson counterpart of DeSapio, Philadelphia's James P. Finnegan, wore the relaxed air of a man expecting good news any minute.

Pink-cheeked and smiling in the glare of floodlights, Finnegan said his man had almost enough delegates rounded up to nominate him already. If this sounded like an invitation for others to climb aboard a bandwagon, that's exactly what it was.

Missing Person

MEMPHIS (AP)—The head of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Miss Sue Lackey, still wonders about the fellow whose letter of inquiry gave a Los Angeles jail as home address.

The Bureau's reply was returned after shuffling through several departments at the jail. It was stamped:

"Trusty."
"Not in jail."
"Escaped."

Around The Rim

Lace Curtains For Marine Recruits

Again, the military mind has triumphed. The military mind—that's a rigid, authoritarian, disciplinary kind of mental reaction that has nothing to do with reason or sanity. It is called a military mind because it is found so abundantly among the military. This is not to say it is not often found elsewhere, nor is it to say that all soldiers are boobies.

But there are, apparently, some highly-brassed boobies in the Marine Corps. And to these prize boobies, we make this suggestion: why not put lace curtains on your barracks windows? There's nothing like lace curtains to take the sting out of vodka-inspired oppression, and nothing gladdens the hearts of young recruits like lace curtains waiting at the barracks window at the end of a night march through the swamps.

Or better still, why not turn the whole kit and kaboodle over to American mothers? In no time at all, we'd have the nicest Marine Corps in the whole wide world.

In case you're wondering, we are alluding to the court-martial conviction and sentence of Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon. He was convicted of drinking on duty and negligent homicide after he led a group of Marine recruits into the South Carolina swamps on a night march, in which six drowned. McKeon was acquitted of a manslaughter charge in connection with the forced march, as well as charges of drinking in front of a recruit and oppression of recruits.

But by the brutality of the sentence, he might as well have been convicted of all charges. Apparently, the only ones who thought McKeon guilty of anything at all were the members of the court-martial board, the prosecution and a few relatives of some of the deceased recruits. McKeon, faced with a batch of difficult recruits, did exactly what he was supposed to do—led them on a night march—and has been fined, imprisoned and ordered given the next thing to a dishonorable discharge.

McKeon's life has been ruined not because he's guilty of something, but simply because he's the goat—he is taking the rap for some highly placed brass who are fearful of public opinion possibly generated by bereaved relatives. One mother of a dead recruit, for example, was particularly vicious in her blame of McKeon, wishing upon him the maximum sentence. She did not think of blaming a system over which McKeon had no control, nor was she willing to admit the fact that the drownings were accidents, with no one to blame.

A mother's grief is understandable, but that does not give the bereaved mother the right to damn an innocent man. She becomes less a woman and mother by doing so.

McKeon may yet find justice through action of the Navy Secretary, through appeal, or even through intervention of President Eisenhower. But not even a full pardon will remove the disgrace from the Marine Corps.

The Battle Of Bergman On TV

WILD OAK FARM, FLEMINGTON, N.J.—Anything can happen in an election year, and third party candidates are no novelty in American politics. But it must be confusing to millions of other Americans, as it is to me, to find Ingrid Bergman heading a ballot.

It appears, however, that the Swedish actress is up for election as Miss Television of 1956 on the Ed Sullivan show.

At the request of Sullivan, Miss Bergman's campaign manager, Americans by the thousands are stuffing the CBS ballot boxes on one of the great domestic issues of this election year:

Does or does not the American public wish the star to appear live and in person on Sullivan's Sunday night variety show, touted as good for man, beast and every member of the family?

As this is written, the great battle of the Bergman ballots shows the "nays" in the lead, but not by a margin which is of any comfort to parents, teachers or youth groups trying to bring up American youngsters to respect the traditional virtues.

The "nays" are leading by a scant 600, and this is small comfort, too, to many men and women in this old community who have worked long and hard to raise $23,000 to build a church youth center here.

It is scant comfort because a number of discouraged persons who have pledged money to the youth center have come to the leaders and said, "What's the use?"

The Hunterdon County Democrat, published here, wraps up the situation succinctly in an editorial that says in part: "Locally, some of the church people are wondering why they should enlarge their facilities for youth work when the Ford Motor Co. and Ed Sullivan can present for the nation's plaudits a person who deserted her husband, her child and her adopted country and went off to Italy to bear a child to a native of that country a few days before they married."

"Let her who is without sin cast the first stone" is sound teaching, but certainly it has little application in this case. Bergman, because of her prominence and the vast rewards she reaped from her American audiences, had a double responsibility to the country of her adoption. Likewise have the Ford Motor Co. and Ed Sullivan.

"Let Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen vie for the honors on who can put on the program calculated to draw the biggest listening audience. Most of us don't care a rap who wins."

"But a good many Americans still have a bit of concern that the winner does not take the honors at the expense of the coming-generation. It is their responsibility to see that those who are held out as the great people of our time have some respect for the rules of decent living."

Of course, the youth center will be built here eventually, no matter what the outcome of Miss Bergman's candidacy. She can make the job tougher. But she can't stop it simply because "a good many Americans still have a bit of concern" that the coming generation knows right from wrong.

Chaos Inherent In Egyptian Crisis

WASHINGTON—While Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was still in London conferring with the French and the British on the Suez Canal crisis, it was determined that his return should be hailed as another triumph for "brinkmanship" or the art of pulling back from the brink of war.

Dulles' argument for restraint did have a calming effect and he successfully pressed his case for a 24-nation conference on internationalizing the canal. But any sense of triumph, as reflected in the Secretary's reiteration of the force of "moral principles" in his White House talk, has long since faded.

The threat to the canal which, in turn, menaces the whole Western stake in the Middle East, including Europe's oil supply, has brought the painful realization that this country has, in fact, had no Egyptian or Mideast policy in any constructive or positive sense of the word.

It is important to recall the sequence of recent events. On November 14, 1954, Gamal Abdel Nasser supplanted General Mohammed Naguib, who had been aiming at military dictatorship. The private boast widely circulated in Washington was that this bloodless coup had been engineered by the Central Intelligence Agency and that Nasser was "our man."

Shortly afterward Henry Byrnes went as American ambassador to Cairo. Those who have seen his first dispatches say that he reported that Nasser was "our man" but that he "could be our man."

There followed a long haggles over the possible sale of American arms to Egypt, with negotiations reportedly breaking down over Egyptian insistence that payment could be made only in British sterling.

Then came the American-British proposal to build the high Aswan dam on the Nile. This went so far that Eugene Black, head of the International Bank for Reconstruction, discussed the project with Nasser not once, but twice. Black believed that with an initial grant of $70,000,000 from the two Western powers—$56,000,000 from the United States and $14,000,000 from Great Britain—the dam could be built to the great benefit of Egypt.

But abruptly, and with almost no warning to officials of the bank who were still discussing aspects of a bank loan, Dulles withdrew the American offer.

One reason is said to have been pressure from Senators from the South, anxious to prevent more world competition from Egyptian cotton, who stipulated that the Aswan dam deal be called off in return for their support of the foreign aid bill. But whatever the motive, the way in which the offer was pulled back seemed deliberately designed to send Nasser off on some new adventure.

Whatever any and all of his critics say about Nasser is less than the truth. But from the viewpoint of Western policy and the effort to maintain stability in the Middle East, to denounce Nasser as a demagogue is irrelevant.

It is irrelevant to the massive and terrifying facts of present day Egypt. As the Population Reference Bureau recently pointed out, Egypt's birth rate is one of the highest in the world. At the same time, the death rate, thanks to modern health techniques, dropped 4 per cent between 1945 and 1952.

The boiling upsurge of population—23,000,000 people in a country in which 96 per cent of the land is desert—mixed with the dynamite of nationalism, spells revolution of one kind or another. It may be chaos and breakdown, with the Western powers trying forcibly to maintain order and the operation of the canal, or it may have a Communist impetus with perilous overtones for the peace of the world.

To the other Arab countries, and even to many of the neutrals, this will seem to be a contest not merely between Arab and Western powers nor even between "colonial" and "imperial" nations but between the haves and the have-nots. For this reason, if for no other, it has the most dangerous implications for the oil supply on which the economy of Western Europe depends.

The question now is whether this is all in the tragic realm of what might have been or whether it may still be possible to check the swift descent into the whirlpool.

Unusual Intruder

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Jackson Jenks thinks the man who entered his home was just looking for a quiet place to get drunk! The prowler took nothing but left a dozen empty cans of beer—the intruder furnished the beer.

Warning

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—The Montana Highway Patrol has adopted a new uniform shoulder emblem—the patrol star with the state seal above the numbers 3-7-77.

The numbers are a symbol of the Vigilantes who ushered law and order into a troubled and unsettled Montana territory.

The most accepted explanation of the numbers is they stood as a warning for undesirable citizens to prepare to occupy a grave 3 feet wide, 7 feet long and 77 inches deep.

Dog Raises Coon

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—A female hound is fondly raising the baby racoons she orphaned by killing their mother.

Robert Hembree, 17, found the young coons after his hound Hattie treed and disposed of the mother during a recent hunt.

Since Hattie had recently lost a litter of pups, she took over the job of foster-mother with no objection.

A Vote FOR The Airport Is A Vote For SOUND BUSINESS

MILITARY FACILITIES

The vast benefits accruing to all Howard County from Webb Air Force Base are well known and thoroughly appreciated. The provision of a County Airport for civil facilities is definitely interwoven with the future aviation picture for this community that includes military facilities. We want Webb Air Force Base to stay and grow, without limitations that might occur from future demands for other types of air transportation.

PRIVATE AND COMMERCIAL FLYING

Until it was transferred to the Air Force as a jet training facility, the local airport ranked among the top in the nation in its provisions for private and commercial flying. The airport operated at a profit, and carried accounts with as many as 40 large business concerns using planes in the normal functions of their business. It was the outstanding West Texas center for private flying. This business, this concentration of interest, can and should be returned to our community.

SOUNDLY CONCEIVED AND PLANNED

The determination to provide a civil airport for the county has not been reached without the most careful study. Representatives of our public agencies and civic organizations have devoted many months of research to the best method of filling a need in the community. An airport that will be adequate without being elaborate has been designed; a convenient location has been selected, subject to acceptance by proper federal agencies; a program is mapped to provide accommodations for the type of planes that mean more business for Howard County.

WORTH FAR MORE THAN THE COST

The airport, in short, will be worth through the years far more than it will cost. Webb Air Force Base alone pours for payroll and supplies into the community more every month than the $500,000 involved in the bond issue proposed for Saturday. Experience has shown that a good civil airport will pay its own way and more. The attraction to private and industrial aircraft wanting to land here is beyond estimate. The county's tax rate will not be increased because of the airport bond issue. Increased county valuations in the years to come—through normal development—will mean the airport cost can be absorbed in the easiest, simplest possible way.

A FACTOR FOR GROWTH

Howard County wants to develop. The competition is keen between areas in West Texas and in other sections. An established factor in a community's development is an adequate civil airport that permits the arrival and departure of business planes, private aircraft and commercial planes. When a landing facility is not provided, the community sees its share of income going elsewhere. The airport is part and parcel of the county's growth.

SECURITY

Security is everyone's byword in this era of tension, anxiety, and bristling competition. It's the goal of government, industry, business, family, and nations.

Security generally means being sure of something, or even someone. But, no one gets security without giving. It is not self-accomplished. Other people and factors contribute in providing our security.

Above all, God alone is the source of security and serenity. Society cancels out our security with finality when we run afoul of its standards, whereas God endows us with the privilege of obtaining forgiveness and mending our ways.

How secure are we against the disasters and perils of life and against our own imperfections? To find the answer, turn to God's Church where we will find the fountain of security.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest fact, on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bethel Church Opens Revival

The Rev. Roy Fish will be the evangelist for a revival meeting beginning Sunday at the Bethel Baptist Church on the Gall Road. The pastor, the Rev. James Gammon, said that services would be held at 8 p.m. daily through Aug. 19. Bud Hill will lead the singing and Doylene Little will be the accompanist. The Rev. Fish is well known in this area, having served several years as pastor of the Salem Baptist Church.

in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul" (Luke 7:22): "Then Jesus answering said unto them, Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached." Among the correlative selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (121:11-16): "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

Christian
The Rev. Clyde Nichols will bring both messages at the First Christian Church Sunday. His morning topic will be "The Peace of God," Phillips 4:7. In the evening services he will talk on "Life In Spirit," John 21:22.

Church Of Christ
The Main Street Church of Christ will hold its first annual homecoming this Sunday. All former members are invited to attend. Melvin J. Wise, former pastor of the church, will be guest speaker at the morning service. Wise is now pastor of the Dallas Preston Road Church of Christ. Singing and dinner on the grounds will be held Sunday afternoon at the church.
Doyle Maynard, pastor of the Northside Church of Christ, will speak Sunday morning on "Put Out Into the Deep." His evening sermon will be "I Do Always The Things To Please Myself."

Church Of God
Morning message by the Rev. Hal Hooker at the First Church of God will be "Tying the Hands of God." The Sanctuary choir will sing "It Is Well With My Soul," under the direction of Cleo Carlisle. Youth Groups will meet at 6:30 p.m. for recreation, Bible study and refreshments. Ladies Prayer group will meet in the church library at 7:30 p.m. with Emma Nell in charge. Men's prayer group meets in pastor's study at 7:30 p.m. The evening service will be at 8 p.m. with Rev. Hooker's subject being "Be Sure Your Sins Will Find You Out."
The choir will sing a special selection. Instrumental music will be featured.

Christian Science
How Christ Jesus healed sickness and discord of every kind will be set forth at Christian Science services Sunday.
The Master's reply to the messengers of John the Baptist will be included in the Scriptural readings.

Presbyterian
The Rev. Ben Ormond from North Carolina will deliver the morning service at the First Presbyterian Church. His subject will be "Indifference." The choir will sing "Praise The Lord Most High."
Jack Ware, pastor of the St. Paul Presbyterian Church, will speak on "The Secret of Christ's Supremacy" at Sunday morning services. His evening topic will be "What Happens When We Compromise?"

State Hospital
Music by the First Christian Church will be furnished at services Sunday at the State Hospital. C. E. Thiele's topic for service will be "Our Authority For Life."
Catholic confessions and Mass are held on Thursday mornings.

Webb AFB
Chaplain Charles Fix will speak on "Shallow Waters" at the services Sunday at the Webb AFB Chapel. Sunday school is at 9:45 a.m. in the chapel annex.
Catholic Mass will be held at 9 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. Confessions are heard on Saturday from 7 to 8 p.m.

7th Day Adventist
Services at the Seventh Day Adventist Church will be at 2:30 p.m. Saturday followed by church services at 3:30 p.m.

Temple Israel
Friday evening services to Temple Israel will be held at room 511 in the Settles Hotel at 8 o'clock.

Bible Class
The Businessmen's Bible Class meets Sunday at 9:15 a.m. in the Settles Ballroom with Rupert Ricker as the teacher.

The Way of Christian Fellowship

LOVE FOR ONE ANOTHER SHOULD BE MANIFEST IN THE FAMILY OF GOD

Scripture—John 13:3-15, 24-35; 1 John 1-2:17; 2 John; 3 John.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.
IN A WORLD torn by strife, with nations set one against another and too, many men and women hating one another, this lesson on fellowship is a very timely one. Also, it teaches humility instead of pride; service instead of selfish grabbing.

Jesus realized that "the Father had given all things into His hands, and that He was come from God and went to God." It was the night of the Lord's Supper, and this is what happened: It was customary to wash the feet of arriving guests when they entered a house. In rich houses a slave performed this humble task, but, of course the Apostles had no slaves, and no one volunteered at this time to perform the service.
But Jesus rose from His place, removed His garments, took a towel and bled it about Him; poured water into a bowl, and to the Christians who have never known the Lord when He was on earth, reminding them that he and other apostles had seen Him with their own eyes "and our hands have handled, of the Word of life."

"That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us; and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with His Son Jesus Christ."
"This is the message which we have heard of Him and declare unto you, that God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all. If we say that we have fellowship with Him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not tell the truth. But if we walk in the light, as He is the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin."
"If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."
The lesson for us? No one should be too proud to perform any humble task for others.

MEMORY VERSE
"A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another."—John 13:34.

washed His disciples' feet. Evidently none of the others objected, but Peter said, "Thou shalt never wash my feet." Jesus answered, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part of Me." Peter then exclaimed, "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head." Jesus answered him: "He that is washed needeth not save but to wash his feet but is clean every whit, and ye are clean, but not all." meaning that there was one—Judas—who was not clean, as he would betray his Lord, and Jesus knew it.
So Christ, Son of God, Lord and Master, humbled Himself to perform this slave's task. After He had finished, He sat down and said to them: "Ye call Me Lord and Master, and ye say well, for so I am. Then if I, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet."

"The lesson for us? No one should be too proud to perform any humble task for others."

Lamesan Arrested

LAMESA—One of the persons arrested last night in a radar check south of Lamesa was a Lamesa Negro, Richard McCurley. Charged with transportation of beer, McCurley allegedly had in his car five cases of the beverage. He was arrested by Texas Highway Patrolman Ralph Ward. He was fined $200 and court costs of $25.40 Thursday.

Band Practice Session Slated

LAMESA — Bill Green, director of the Lamesa Junior High Band, reports a practice session of the band has been scheduled Saturday. The "A" band will practice from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. with the beginners scheduled from 10:30 to 11:30. The beginners band is that group which started just before school let out last spring.

Green said parents of those children who will be in the sixth grade at Central Elementary School, and who want their children to be in the band, may talk to him between 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon. The Junior High Band Mothers Club will meet at the band room at 1 o'clock Saturday.

Party Canceled

The teen-age party usually held at the YMCA each Friday night will not be held this week.

Civil Plane Delay Hits Webb Flying

One factor influential in the campaign to bring a new airport to Howard County has been the fact that civilian aircraft cannot be accommodated at Webb Air Force Base because of the heavy traffic in jet flying training.

A case in point occurred Thursday to demonstrate that even the barest minimum of civilian traffic needs to be moved from Webb.

Continental's flight blew a tire while the plane was on the runway. There was no equipment or replacement available and it had to be pushed in from the military. Nevertheless, the runway was tied up an hour and 45 minutes. Had there been an emergency on the other runway, Webb's entire flying program would have been stalled.

C-City To Skip Rodeo This Year

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City will skip its 21st annual rodeo and roundup usually scheduled in August, officials of the Rodeo Association announced Thursday. "We found it difficult to schedule a rodeo before school starts," Roy Warren, Secretary-Treasurer, said, "and too, we hesitated because of economic conditions in West Texas. Most of our farmers will miss making a crop again this year."

Other officials of the Rodeo Association are Wayne McCabe, president and Jinx Powell, vice president.

Square Dancing Class At Webb

The first class in square dancing will be held at the John H. Lees Service Club at Webb AFB Saturday night beginning at 7:30 p.m. Workers at the service club are urging women from Big Spring to attend the dances to help the airmen who do not know how to square dance. The classes are free, and an experienced caller will be in charge of the dance.

New Chairman

LAMESA — Bob Woodrum was named chairman of the Petroleum Committee of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce Thursday. Other members will be contacted to determine their willingness to serve on the panel, according to Chamber Manager Pat Ryan. The executive committee also approved the current bills, said Ryan.

Jesse T. Blair

Yesterday on the Martin County farm tour we saw a lot of bare ground and not much else except in the irrigated sections. From the Valley View community north toward the C. J. King Store west of Ackeryn not one per cent of the land has enough crop to gather, even if rains fall every week. That area is completely bare, and so dry that even thistles are hardly growing.

"I don't know what those people are doing but one thing is sure, they aren't farming. The houses are still occupied so most of them are probably working at outside jobs."

Around Flower Grove crops are scattering and will hardly be worth gathering. I quit the farm tour there after lunch and drove into Dawson County. Just across the line things looked a good deal better but not so good as last year. Up at Klondike groceryman Jack Pelham said they had had only about five inches of rain at the store this year, but cotton would still make a fair crop with some quick rains. He said westward his own farm things look worse.

Several farmers around there have tried to get irrigation wells but Frank Harris is the only one to succeed. He got a 900 gallon well last year, lost it by a cave-in and drilled another one 15 feet away. On it he got 700 gallons, then drilled in another part of the field last winter to get a 400-gallon well. This is about the extent of Klondike's irrigation.

In Lamesa I got into a conversation with a retired farmer who had come to the country back about 1920. He retired or got out of the farming business a long time ago. "Couldn't make a go of it," he said. "When Roosevelt got in, I says to my wife, 'Woman, that man will drain the country dry. Before he's outta there, a million farmers will be busted.' Well, I was right, for in two years he busted me and I quit farming."

"What kind of business did you get into after that?" I asked. "No kind!" he retorted. "Roosevelt busted the little business man, and shortly the campus was full of business, and besides like I told you, I was busted."

"Still broke?" I ventured timidly. "Sure am — flatter'n a pancake. I told you Roosevelt done a real job on me. 'What do you live on if you've been busted 25 years?'"

"That's what I wonder about a sometimes myself," he growled and walked off. That old ex-farmer and I had sure had an enlightening conversation. Bernard Houston won't be worried much about green feed for awhile. On his irrigated place 12 miles southeast of Stanton he has just put up 600 tons of Sourless Orange Sugo, and has another 600 tons to cut. It will fill three big trench silos.

This type of sargo is a type of African millet, a million feet above seven foot tall under irrigation. Houston says it is supposed to make a very good silage.

The caged-hen business goes up and down. In Mitchell County it is down right now and likely to stay that way. This is the opinion of R. J. Hancock, Colorado feed dealer who sells most of the feed for the caged bidders. He said they had between 7,000 and 8,000 hens in cages now, but are not likely to get any more. The cost of getting houses, cages and pullets has kept some farmers out of it. "The price is not too good either," he said. "We have two big operators who sell locally, and the others must sell to the area egg dealers, which cuts their profit."

Dub Coates of Howard County has done quite well with caged hens, without selling direct to customers. He got into the business several years ago and decided to expand operations this year by building another house and adding 900 cages. These new hens have just begun to lay, but are already rolling out over 300 eggs a day. Coates follows the rules laid down by company experts, but he makes a few of his own as he goes along. He calls only once a month now. The reason for this is that a hen may go into a slight molt or for some reason stop laying for a few weeks then start up again. So he waits until he is certain that her laying days are ended.

"There is no use for such strict culling when the culls won't bring anything," he said. "You can buy around $1.75 for a new pullet to take her place, but get only .35 cents for the cull. "This also applies to old hens starting their second year in the cages. As long as they are showing a little profit, there is no use swapping her for young ones that cost nearly five times as much." Cates now has between 1,400 and 1,500 cages.

Sixty year ago T. K. Boren started working at the gin at old Camp Colorado as sort of a errand boy. He has been at it ever since, and last year at Lenorah completed his 52nd year as a full time gin hand. Last fall the Lenorah gin turned out over 6,000 bales of cotton to set a record for this area, but Boren can remember when 300 or 400 bales were considered a big year. He said the old time Gins were run by steam engines and had to huff and strain to clean 10 bales a day. There were no suction pipes in those days, no power presses, ball cleaners nor a lot of other machinery that a modern gin has. The gin employees would carry the cotton from the wagons in large baskets and dump it into the stands.

Then they would crawl into the press box and jump up and down to pack the cotton with their feet. After a half bale was ginned, a big paper press made like a screw jack was used to press the cotton down still farther. Then another half bale was poured in and tramped and the hand press used again. "The cotton seed were dumped outside the gin," Boren said, and farmers or anyone else could come and haul them off free of charge. A lot of them just lay there and rotted."

Boren is now 69 and will start another ginning season next month. He may retire someday, but says as long as his health holds out he will probably be working around a gin somewhere.

Capt. Allen Robertson Assigned As Webb Information Officer

Capt. Allen R. Robertson has been assigned to Webb AFB in charge of the Office of Information Services. Just returned from a four year overseas hitch, most of it in Germany and France with some opportunity for short duty in the Middle East, Capt. Robertson is returning to a field in which he first served.

He is a native of Weslaco and a 1947 graduate of the University of Texas. He served during World War II for five years, and in 1952 he was recalled to service and sent to Europe. He had been stationed originally in the PIO office at Randolph, but in his European duties he was in administrative work. Webb is his first state-side assignment. Capt. Robertson succeeds Eld. Eldon Clayton, who is being transferred to personnel services.

60 Youths To Leave For Camp

Sixty teen-age boys and girls will leave early Tuesday morning, Aug. 14, for the area Hi-Y Camp at Hunt, Texas to be held Aug. 14-19.

The group is the largest ever to attend the camp from Big Spring. Made up of representatives from Hi-Y clubs in the southwest area of Texas, around 100 people can be accommodated at the camp.

The group will travel in cars and will be accompanied by Truett Mobley of the Y, Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, Mrs. John A. Coffee, Mrs. Toole Mansfield, Mrs. Arch Carsou, Mrs. Zelle Boykin, George Oldham and Ronald Dudley.

Airport Bond Issue Brings Reminiscences Of Aviation Progress

By BRUCE FRAZIER

The Airport Bond Issue is coming up pretty soon now, and just thinking about it makes me go back for many years of Howard County's history. My grandfather would have been out here campaigning for it today if he were still living . . . I can almost see him stirring in his grave thinking about Howard County and its need for this facility, and I am sure that if he were living you would see him making the rounds in his Model T, telling people why they should be for it.

He was that way, though, and maybe some of the older timers will remember him; and remember, too, how it was on his land that the first Big Spring airport was built. I guess I was born into an air age—and when it was in its infancy, too. Even my wife's father, Jimmy Rogers, was in the Air Force as far back as World War I, and of course I served in it during No. 2, but that is another story. I was just thinking how much this country owes to aviation, and how much aviation has done for West Texas.

My first recollection of it was with the show "Wings." I never ever forget seeing that at the Ritz Theatre here. Then the airport being built on our ranch. I can remember, as if it were yesterday, when they had a three-day air meet here and there were all sorts of excitement, parachute jumps, rides, fighter planes and three squadrons of Liberty Bombers with the two wings and the water-cooled motors. There were daredevils who walked wings of flying planes, sham battles of fighters in the sky, and a glider.

All that was the opening of a new era for the Ranch and my life. Most impressive was the old searchlight. It was a revolving beacon, and when it came the coyotes left . . . and good riddance. I was in a deathly fear of them as a child. Once before the beacon came, they attacked our house after fresh pork we had killed the day before.

Then there were the days when aviation began to grow, and I met Amelia Earhart in her Autogyro. I made a model of it and kept it many years. I also met Wiley Post and many others, as a kid hanging around the airport.

Many people here can remember our first airmail service to San Angelo. The pilot would come out and throw the mail bag in the front cockpit and buckle it down with a leather strap. He was dashing in his leather puttees and tight leather cap and goggles, with his white silk scarf that fluttered in the propwash as he roared down the dirt runway. There was Ray Bumgardner and his pusher plane he used to hunt coyotes, wolves, and eagles in—the same plane he was killed in a few months ago. There were the many airport managers who came and went, with Winthiser, and later Jack Cook.

There was the Ford Trimotor . . . so wonderful then and so wonderful now that it is again being produced! And not only that, about half the original ones are still flying in the forestry service and in many places where big pay loads and short runways are the normal thing to expect. There was the time Admiral Byrd's plane came here to take up passengers. Then there was the day of the Zeppelin. I remember seeing the Macon go over, and then there were several tragic crashes that finally, with the Hindenburg's crash, ended that era. I remember, too, the Jennys and the blimps and landings on roads and in pastures. Finally, there came the new planes, the Stearmans, cropdusters, bush pilots and even prohibition with its rumrunners and bootleggers, who kept a lively interest in aviation.

Then everyone remembers Pearl Harbor when it was from the air that the worst blow of all came! That brought into being a new set of planes coming to the airport here next to our ranch. There were the old B-10 Martins, and the newer B-18 with the pot belly but a low wing metal plane, and the first B-17 Fortresses. By that time I was in college at Texas A&M, and one day I saw a huge new plane in the air, and I remember wishing I was up there in it. It was the B-24 Liberator . . . and shortly the campus was far behind and I was in the air. I remember I was brought to my last military hospital in an A-29 . . . Hudson Bomber . . . my last military plane ride, and then home as a disabled veteran to work at that old air terminal for Continental Air Lines . . . in fact to open its office. I was working on Lockheed Loadsters then. It felt good . . . but I was shocked to know there were but 225 commercial air liners in the United States at that time . . . when we had pulled thousand plane rides on Germany in a single night. At that time we had Continental and American Air Lines here, and business was looking up and up.

Working in the air lines as I did, I felt somehow near my friends who died in the air, John H. Lees, James Webb, James Walker, Campbell, Christiansen, Nall, Stewart, Canavespe, Nummy, and a bunch more. There was the time of the Bombardier School, and then I went back to school. By the time I got home the war was past and we had a new terminal building, and things looked wonderful with the private planes coming in, the contract to refuel the navy planes, and all sort of permanent and transient aircraft.

In teaching at Howard County Junior College, I find the regular Air Education Flights we take with the students to Abilene are most interesting. There they see many hangars filled with planes and doing much business.

Well, Webb Air Base came here and things really picked up. The jets came, and American Airlines, the CAA, and the Weather Bureau left. Of course, it was a gain to have the military base put here, in spite of losing the other facilities, but then there was nothing to take its place. Our present field was inadequate and so we lost much ground that had been painfully won and we took a sickening slide backward. Well, now we have a chance to make up for what we lost and to try to recapture our former business.

A new County Airport will help, a good deal more than we can even realize, but without it, we will be hitching our future to a horse and buggy in a Jet Age. Now you know how I stand, and invite everyone to join me in voting for and I mean FOR our new airport . . . and afterwards, let us see what we can do to make it the best in West Texas.

Indian Centenary Choir Here

Visiting in Big Spring Monday night will be the Indian Centenary Choir, to present a program at the First Methodist Church beginning at 8 p.m. The group is composed of 18 young people on a world tour, in commemoration of 100 years of Methodist work in India and Pakistan, and they are graduates of Christian and public colleges and universities. Orchestra numbers will be included on the program, and several Indian instruments, unusual in the United States, will be seen and heard. There is the long, barrel-shaped dholak drum; the stringed sarode, large as a viola and bowed like a cello; and the long-necked sitar, carved from a special kind of pumpkin. More familiar instruments will be the flute, violin and tambourine. The orchestra will present only Indian musical numbers, while the choir's selections will include spirituals, folk hymns of various nations, and songs in three different Indian dialects.

Coleman Bears Hopes Of Dixie In Pulling Reins On Demo Meet

By TIM PARKER
JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The street-corner talk in Mississippi is that J. P. will win for the South at Chicago.

J. P. is James Plemon Coleman, Mississippi's eloquent 42-year-old governor. "At Chicago" is a capsule phrase often heard whenever two Mississippians meet. They're talking about the fight to keep the Democratic National Convention from doing things the South doesn't want.

The South doesn't want any interference with its right to segregate the races and say who can vote. She also doesn't want a presidential candidate who believes otherwise.

Coleman, a one-time plowboy whose 6-foot-2 frame is still tight-muscled, is in some ways well set up to speak for the South. He is a militant segregationist, an able constitutional lawyer, a loyal Democrat and he could talk a bound dog into sharing his meal with a raccoon.

As a Deep South governor sitting on the Platform Committee—which will decide, among other things, on a civil rights plank—Coleman's goal at Chicago is to keep the South, and particularly Mississippi in the Democratic party without any compromise on segregation and state's rights.

He won the right to make the fight—and some say he also will have to take the responsibility for its outcome—by putting down a states rights rebellion at the state Democratic convention. The states righters wanted a date set for a recess convention at which Mississippi Democrats could jump the party traces if they disliked the party's presidential nominee. Coleman spiked the move, but made it plain that he's not rushing into anything.

Some of his recent outspoken quotes: "I know the Democratic party, with all its shortcomings, is the best friend of the South."

But he added: "They could do something (at the convention) which would make it impossible for Mississippi to support the nominee. Mississippi will take no 'loyalty pledge' to support the nominee before seeing who he is."

"I do not now favor the Negro voting in Mississippi. He is wholly unprepared to assume this responsibility."

But he added that Mississippi is spending a large sum to give the Negro "equal education and opportunity."

"I am opposed to any form of coercion by the federal government. If federal bayonets held over the heads of a prostrate people from 1865 to 1877 couldn't do it, how do you suppose it could be done now?"

But he added: "Spending our time cussing the North is no way of getting anywhere."

"Mississippi is the only state which hasn't given an inch on segregation. She never will."

But he added: "Mississippi is a state of laws, not of violence." The governor is not a member of the Citizens Councils, formed in the south to oppose integration.

Coleman, who will head the state's 22-vote delegation to next week's convention, still leans toward Adlai Stevenson as the Democratic nominee, although he and others are not happy about Stevenson's civil rights stand.

"Of those actively running," he said, "Stevenson appears to be the best friend of the South." The delegation is bound to vote as a bloc, but otherwise is uncommitted.

Stevenson earlier this week called for "unequivocal approval" in the party platform of the Supreme Court's school segregation decision.

By heritage and inclination, Coleman is both a devout Southerner and a devout Democrat.

Barbershop Song Chapter Planned By Lamesa Group

LAMESA — A barbershop quartet chapter apparently is in the offing for Lamesa. A group of enthusiasts, in an informal meeting this week decided to meet next Tuesday night at the speech auditorium at Lamesa High School in the initial meeting. All Lamesa men who enjoy singing are invited to attend. A barbershop chorus also may be organized.

Citizens Urged To Vote For Airport Bond Issue

City Manager Herbert Whitney, speaking as a representative of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, urged all Big Spring citizens to vote for the airport bond issue on Saturday in an announcement made at Kiwanis club Thursday noon.

Whitney pointed out that Big Spring is the biggest city in the nation without adequate airport facilities and that air traffic here is heavy and continues to grow.

He summed up briefly the plans for the construction of a county airport and said that the $500,000 proposed was the minimum sum needed to provide the city and county with adequate airport facilities.

Whitney pointed out that the new airport, if built, would have a 5,000 foot hard surfaced north-south runway and one 3,500 foot east-west runway which would not be hard surfaced. An administration building, hangar, aprons, lighting and all other facilities will be provided.

The airport site, favored at this time, is four miles north and west of Big Spring on the Snyder highway, he said.

Voters will ballot Saturday on the proposal to issue $500,000 in bonds to build the airport.

H. W. Smith, program chairman for the day, presented T. S. Currie, club member, who in turn introduced Nolan Van Roder, Snyder cotton breeder.

Van Roder screened films he had made in color of numerous hunting trips he had made in this nation and in Old Mexico.

Deer, antelope, pheasant, coyote and bob cat huntings were depicted as well as a trip to Old Mexico in search of mountain lion which failed to pan out.
