Henry Outfitted For Race

Henry Hendricks is shown as he tries on the special racing helmet and uniform in which he hopes to ride to victory today, in the 19th All-American Soap Box Derby. The outfit, which marks him as a champion during race week, was issued when he arrived in Akron, Ohio, for the great racing event.

Truman Gives Support To Averell Harriman

Adlai Optimistic On Nomination Bid

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP) — Scraggy Harry Truman, the Democratic party's old champ, went all out for Averell Harriman today as the best man for president in these times of "mounting crisis in the world."

In a strategem that could throw next week's Democratic National Convention into uproarious, harmony-shattering battle, the former President gave his unequalled blessing to the New York governor.

AYERELL HARRIMAN
He's Harry's man.

HARRY TRUMAN
"... No trial and error."

The reaction of Adlai E. Stevenson—still the man to beat for the nomination:

"I expect to be the Democratic candidate."

Truman, reading his statement to the press and to the nation via TV and radio, did not even mention Stevenson, though he did perhaps include him in the remark that the party has "many qualified men to choose from."

But in the next breath he aimed what looked like a triple thrust at Stevenson, the pacesetter candidate:

1. He implied that Stevenson is a neophyte who might have to be educated to the presidency when perilous times call out for experience. The convention, he said, must pick a man with experience and ability to act as president "immediately upon assuming office without risking a period of costly and dangerous trial and error."

2. He scoffed at bandwagons—Stevenson's admirers are trying to start one here.

3. And he belittled polls as unreliable. The polls show Stevenson ahead in the tussle for the presidential nomination.

The best Truman could do for Stevenson, and that only indirectly, was to say he knew there were several Democrats who could "wage successful campaigns with much credit to the party and the nation and they are men for whom I have great admiration."

LONG EXPERIENCE
But Harriman, he said, has had long experience in top government positions, he will "make a fighting and successful candidate," and in the light of his own experience as president he believes Harriman is "the man best qualified to be the next president of the United States."

Truman's dramatic announcement, made to a news conference that overflowed a hotel ballroom, and its adjacent stairways, was unexpected only to the degree that it spoke up for Harriman and ignored Stevenson.

The Stevenson people had thought the former President at least would say that if the National Convention prefers to entrust the nomination to Stevenson as it did in 1952, he would accept the decision and support the former Illinois governor once more.

The Harriman camp was overjoyed at the announcement. Harriman workers danced up and down in corridors outside his headquarters.

Stevenson forces were grim and gloom—but still predicting an early ballot victory for their man.

Harriman still had an uphill fight ahead. While Truman's endorsement offered a psychological lift to Harriman on the eve of nose-counting caucuses among state delegations, it was a highly debatable question how much help Truman provided where it counts —in the vote column at the convention.

Significantly, several Southerners spoke up at once on Stevenson's behalf—although some of them have been in his corner right along.

Stevenson backers said in advance that if Truman so much as gave Harriman a pat on the shoulder it would drive many previously uncommitted Southerners into the Stevenson fold. Now they are counting on the strong, Truman endorsement to persuade even more Dixie delegates to go along with Stevenson.

While Harriman claims some Southern support—small clumps of delegates from Louisiana, Texas and Tennessee visited his headquarters today—much of Dixie has no unbounded love for the man who wants to revive and carry on the principles of the New Deal and Fair Deal.

Said unpledged convention delegate George Wallace, a circuit judge from Clayton, Ala.:

"The people of the South want Harriman defeated for the nomination and would take anyone in (See HARRIMAN, Page 4, Col. 6.)

Henry Awaits Beginning Of The Big Race

By WAYLAND YATES
AKRON, Ohio (SpI)—Optimistic over prospects for a first round victory, Henry Hendricks left the wraps on his racer Saturday and turned to meet screen and other celebrities and have a barrel of fun.

Henry spent the morning at a big science show. At a luncheon served by Akron industrialists, he received an official Derby wristwatch and got acquainted with the king of the cowboys, Roy Rogers, and with comedian Joe E. Brown, TV celebrities Art Baker and Snooky Lanson.

He weighed in for Sunday's race at an even 250 pounds—the limit. Then he scooted down the track at Derby Downs in 28.3 seconds, about average, although Henry was only half a second slower than the fastest trial run.

Henry's hopes soared because he made the last run before he cleaned and oiled the wheels of the car which won the championship in Big Spring. Now carrying the Herald banner, he hopes to pilot it to victory here Sunday. His first heat—the 16th—will match him against boys from Miami, Fla. and Ft. Wayne, Ind. If he wins that he will draw for a place in the second round.

During Saturday afternoon, he joined other local champs for a boat ride on Portage Lakes southwest of the city.

Henry's mother, Mrs. Clifton Hendricks, was one of the honored guests at a reception and luncheon Saturday. His Dad spent most of the day at Derbytown, after keeping an eye on Henry's preparations in the Derby pits Friday.

Celebrities will vie in the Oil Can trophy race preceding the Derby, and the largest parade in Derby history, led by the Navy band, is scheduled as a colorful event. CBS will broadcast the races from 3 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. CST.

The banquet of champions—and Henry has his sights set on being one of them—will be held Sunday evening.

OFFICIAL BALLOT

FOR THE ISSUANCE OF AIRPORT BONDS 1415

AGAINST THE ISSUANCE OF AIRPORT BONDS 426

Airport OK'd 1,415 To 426

By a ratio of almost three and a half to one, Howard County voters Saturday wrote a "yes" verdict for a new civil airport.

A proposition to authorize $500,000 in bonds to finance construction of the landing facility was approved, 1,415 to 426.

The total poll of more than 1,800 votes was considered a good turnout for a referendum limited to property-owning taxpayers.

The overwhelming lead for the bond issue was piled up in the six Big Spring precincts, all of them favoring it by odds of up to six to one. Proportionately, however, Vincent went stronger, favoring the issue by 7-1. Strong affirmative totals also were recorded at Cosham and Forsan, and the Morris box favored the proposal 4-3.

Negative opinion prevailed at Gay Hill, Center Point, Moore, Knott, R-Bar and Soash.

Approval of the bond issue means that the County Commissioners' Court can proceed on planning and engineering, looking toward land purchase and contracts for new terminal facilities which will gain open up the city and county to private and industrial air traffic, which has been largely denied since the municipal airport was leased to the Air Force for Webb Air Force Base.

A proposed location has been established on the Snyder highway, four miles northeast of town. This is subject to approval by federal agencies directing air safety. Preliminary plans also have been done on the landing strip—one 5,000-foot surfaced runway running north and south, and another shorter east-west runway made suitable for emergency landings. Also included in plans are surfaced aprons and taxi-ways, and lighting for night use.

A terminal building has been drafted in preliminary stage, and plans are for "T" hangars suitable for housing smaller planes.

Puckett & French have been working on the terminal building, while the engineering firm of Benson, Thompson and Nash is engaged on field engineering.

The County Court is expected to canvass returns of the election Monday, so that further details of handling financing and planning may proceed.

Dawson's First Cotton Bale In

LAMESA — Dawson County's first bale of the 1956 cotton crop came to town Saturday — and it took almost everyone by surprise.

R. L. Holder was the producer of the bale which rolled off the Lamesa Gin Company platform at 3:50 p.m. Because the bale came in a couple of weeks before anticipated, the Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee was cranked up and thrown into high gear on a campaign to raise premium prizes. The bale will be auctioned but no date has been set.

Holder raised the cotton on a tract 2½ miles east of town. He had irrigated three times since planting the cotton on April 16-17.

Reds Refused 'New Trial'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Subversive Activities Control Board, which ruled in 1953 that the U.S. Communist party was a tool of Moscow, today refused it a "new trial."

SACB rejected the party's demand for a full-scale reopening of long drawn out proceedings which ended with the board requiring the party to register with the Justice Department, list its members and give an annual financial accounting.

Adopting one of the two alternatives given it by the Supreme Court last April, the board decided to expunge the testimony of three government witnesses—Paul Crouch, Manning Johnson and Harvey Matusow. This made it unnecessary for the board to hold further hearings. But it still will have to make a new determination of the Communist party's status.

The Supreme Court, saying it wanted to make sure the board did not rely upon "tainted" evidence, told the SACB it could either disregard the testimony of Crouch, Johnson and Matusow or give Communist party attorneys an opportunity to try to discredit it.

The party had called the three witnesses "professional informers" and alleged they had committed perjury.

Hurricane Betsy Smashes Through Leeward Islands

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP)—Hurricane Betsy smashed through the Leeward Islands with 100-mile winds today, then appeared to turn a more northerly course.

Hurricane warnings were posted immediately from Antigua to Puerto Rico. Its new position is 270 miles east-southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and 1,350 miles southeast of Miami.

"This is a dangerous storm and is expected to increase in size during the next 12 hours," the San Juan Weather Bureau said.

It is expected to move at about 15 miles an hour to the west-northwest at about the same speed for the next 6 to 12 hours, the San Juan Weather Bureau said.

It will "pass a short distance off the south coast of Puerto Rico about midday Sunday."

Tides along the north and east coastal sections of Puerto Rico will be four to five feet above normal, the bureau said. It advised taking precautions against "dangerous winds, high tides, heavy rains and floods and rough seas."

EVERYBODY WHO'S ANYBODY LEAVES FOR THE GLORIOUS 12TH

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—"Anybody, dear, who is anybody at all," said the debutante, "wouldn't be caught dead in London after today."

The reason: London's social season that begins in May and ends at midnight tonight shifts to the highlands and lowlands of Scotland for what is known as The Glorious 12th.

Strictly speaking, The Glorious 12th means Aug. 12—the opening of the grouse shooting season—but it's also the signal for the beginning of hundreds of tony house parties in the land of the heather.

"Prospects have improved," said Ewan Ormiston, who runs a hunting, shooting and fishing hotel in Invernesshire, "but for one reason and another grouse are scarce compared with the years of plenty before the war."

"I should estimate that at least 500 Americans will be shooting in the Highlands this year."

Lord Shuttleworth summed up prospects: "I do not think we shall get as many grouse as we usually do, but the shooting and the fun will be just as jolly as ever."

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

What can we do about curbing the shocking death toll on our highways? Last week we added No. 15 (Mrs. Inez Shivers of Midland), No. 16 (Mrs. Jewel Mann of Seguin), No. 17 (Euna Tilton of Midland) to our unbridled roll of carnage. We are almost certain to have our worst year since 1951 and possibly our worst on record—unless somehow we can convince people that a few minutes is not worth a life.

The first step in carrying out a decision by the directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District was taken last week. The board decreed a long range study of water supplies. The State Water Board accepted a presentation granting permission to explore possibilities of damming the Colorado River in southern Mitchell County. Rough estimates are that a lake 1½ times bigger than Lake J. B. Thomas could be impounded there and demand. Only time—several years—will tell.

The days of vacation are numbered for school children. Already superintendents are talking about the start of school. Coahoma will begin with a full day on Sept. 4; Ackerly will start on Sept. 3 (high school registration Aug. 31); Big Spring will begin Sept. 4 (elementary).

HUSBAND SHOT 'Russian Flier' In Bizarre Abduction

NORTH BRANFORD, Conn., Aug. 11 (AP)—State Police reported finding Mrs. Grace Drepper, 29, and her alleged abductor today in a field at nearby Durham. She appeared unarmed.

Mrs. Drepper and an unidentified man wearing a bizarre green uniform were brought here quickly to the Drepper home, where her husband, T-Sgt. Albert Drepper, was shot last night.

Police said the man fitted the description Drepper gave of his assailant.

The shooting of the Air Force man was described by a veteran state policeman as one of the most fantastic cases in his experience.

Police said Drepper told them he was shot without warning by a man who invaded his isolated home last night, and that when he recovered consciousness his wife had disappeared.

More than 30 state policemen set up road blocks and combed surrounding woods throughout last night, but found no trace of Mrs. Drepper. Police said she apparently was kidnapped.

Drepper, 26, a .32 caliber bullet in his left cheek bone, was reported on the critical list at a Middletown hospital.

Neighbors cared for the Dreppers' small child.

Police said Drepper described the intruder as speaking with "a heavy Russian accent."

This was the airman's story: He and his wife had settled down to watch TV when a man rang the doorbell and identified himself as a state policeman.

Admitted to the house, he drew a pistol, berated Drepper and his wife as "lousy Americans" and said he was not a state policeman but a Russian flier who had been forced down.

Drepper said the man then shot him, and he knew nothing more until he regained consciousness and called neighbors for help.

He said his wife was clad only in shorts, a light shirt waist and sandals.

The Drepper home is only a short distance from the sandpit in Durham where John H. Davis Jr., 22, of Durham, was shot to death in an unsolved slaying two weeks ago. He was parked in a car with his 19-year-old fiancée, Carol Brookes of Haddam, who was shot in the arm.

Earlier this week the Kremlin, in its hedging acceptance to the London conference had proposed that it be "enlarged by the addition of 22 Communist, Arab and neutral nations, that it be transferred to Cairo and the date postponed for at least two weeks."

Moscow's note also declared the conference was totally unfitted to deal with Suez' future, but acknowledged that keeping the canal open was of international interest and said it would attend in the hope of reaching a peaceful solution.

A British spokesman said all these objections were spurned in a reply sent to the Kremlin today after discussions with French and American diplomats.

Iraq, the only Arab nation in Britain's anti-Communist Baghdad Pact in the Middle East, was reported by informed sources in Baghdad to be engaged in a "secret diplomatic effort" to reach a peaceful solution acceptable to all.

Britain Overrides Russ Suez Protests

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Britain today overrode Soviet objections and went ahead with plans to convene the international Suez conference on schedule even as Iraq was reported making a dramatic late-minute effort to mediate the dispute.

Despite the rebuff, Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov applied for a British visa in Moscow to attend next Thursday's conference.

But Greece, to the surprise of the British Foreign Office, refused to attend. At odds with Britain over Cyprus, the Greeks said that under the conditions in which the conference was being held they would be unable "to contribute by participation in attempts to find a peaceful solution."

With the world awaiting a likely "no" from Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser tomorrow, it thus seemed that 22 of 24 invited nations will attend the conference in Lancaster House.

With Arab trade union leaders in the Middle East threatening a scorched earth war in their oil-rich homelands against any West-

Ike Seeks Support For Suez Policy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower is expected to make a strong bid tomorrow for bipartisan support of his policy of seeking—by measures short of war—international control of the Suez Canal.

Daniel Pledges To Restore Demo Harmony

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Sen. Price Daniel promised Saturday he would do his best to restore harmony among Texas Democrats.

"There are a few extremists, both to the left and to the right," Daniel said in a gubernatorial campaign speech at Waxahachie, "but as shown by my 164,000 vote lead in the first primary a great majority of our people want to pull together for progress and good government."

"I am not carrying the banner of any clique or pressure group. I have had no dealings with those who want things run their way or not at all. I did not enter this campaign in a spirit of vengeance or hatred, but with the hope that unity and good will could be achieved."

In Henderson the other runoff candidate, Ralph Yarborough, accused Daniel of trying to divert public attention from misdeeds of some public officials.

"My opponent loves to attack the labor racketeers," Yarborough said. "He is awful silent about Veterans' Land Board racketeers, insurance scandal racketeers and other forms of piracy from inside our government."

"I am against labor racketeers as much as any man is, but I also am against the racketeers vested with office who are wrecking our state and robbing our people."

Yarborough visited Rusk, Alto, Palestine, Fairfield, Crockett and Lufkin Saturday.

Daniel said he would appear Monday at Gatesville, Temple, Cameron, Taylor, and Georgetown with a live telecast that night in Austin over KTBC-TV. Tuesday he will be in San Marcos, New Braunfels and San Antonio with a live telecast on KENS. Wednesday the Daniel campaign will visit Corpus Christi and Kingsville, then return to Corpus Christi for two live TV speeches over KRIS-TV and KVDO-TV and a workers meeting.

The runoff candidates for attorney general, Will Wilson and Tom Moore, both asserted voters were switching to their side.

"In campaigning across the state, I find people are changing their vote to me, because I am the only independent and unfettered candidate in the race," Moore asserted in Wichita Falls.

"Everywhere I go, people tell me that they want a qualified lawyer to serve as their attorney general. They know from examining my record that I will serve the people and not waste time promoting factional political disputes," Wilson said in Austin.

Lyndon Opens Door To Nomination Bid

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas left the door open today to become a serious bidder for the Democratic presidential nomination if a deadlock develops at next week's convention.

Johnson, the Senate majority leader, said if the delegates should decide "they would like me to be their standard-bearer, I will do my duty."

Questioned before former President Harry Truman had made known his preference, Johnson obviously was keeping himself available as a rallying point for Southern and other delegates who might not be pleased after Truman tapped Gov. Averell Harriman of New York as his choice.

Johnson said his name will be placed before the convention as the "favorite son" of the 56-vote Texas delegation. He said he doesn't believe there will be any "handwagon jumpers" among the Texas delegates who might go over to any other candidate on that ballot.

Indications have been that if Johnson chose to swing his support behind Adlai Stevenson, Stevenson might win the nomination on the first ballot even without Truman's backing.

Asked about a possible first ballot change of the Texas vote, Johnson said he regards it as "very unlikely."

Johnson made it clear he doesn't think he is barred from taking the nomination himself because of a heart attack he suffered a year ago. Tanned by the Texas sun, he appeared healthy and vigorous.

Johnson asserted he worked "16

NOW 133 MILES OF FREEWAY

Four-Lane Highway Segment Is Accepted By The State

A 17-mile segment of U.S. Highway 80, running eastward from Big Spring to the Mitchell County line, was officially declared completed Friday noon and was accepted by the state as a finished job.

Completion and acceptance of the segment of highway provides an unbroken stretch of four lane super road on U. S. 80 beginning at Westbrook in Mitchell County and extending without interruption to Monahans. This 133-mile strip of four-lane freeway is the longest segment of such highway in the state.

Ultimately, U. S. 80 is to be completed as a four-lane highway from California to Georgia. Many pieces of the road have already been opened and contracts in this and other states are underway for other portions of the route.

Jake Roberts, Abilene, district engineer for the state highway department, inspected the Howard County portion of the route Friday afternoon. He congratulated Pete Gilven, of Gilven-Terrell, Inc., contractor, on "building an exceptionally fine piece of highway."

Gilven has been working on the $1,300,000 job since September. He completed the work ahead of the deadline stipulated in his contract. Actually, the final touches of the route were finished at 11 a.m. Friday — less than two hours before Roberts made his inspection ride over the 17-mile stretch and officially accepted it for the state.

Eighteen Big Spring civic leaders met with Roberts at noon for a luncheon just before setting out on the inspection tour. Roberts was accompanied by Big Spring by Pat Shields, chief inspector; George Smith, assistant district engineer; and W. H. Shaw, senior designing engineer out of his office in Abilene. Also on hand was Ben Wilkinson, resident engineer and Joe Smoot, another resident engineer. Other officials of the state highway department local office were present.

75 Accidents In City During July

Big Spring averaged 2.5 accidents per day during July, recording 75 mishaps, but in only one were persons injured.

The 75 accidents included four hit-and-runs.

Third Street was the main accident alley in July, with Fourth Street close behind. Previously, Fourth had monthly recorded the most in the city.

Two each accidents were reported on Third and Gollad, and Fourth and Johnson.

There were four days during the month when the city went without an accident. They were July 5, 15, 18, and 29.

Trio Arrested On Charges In Utah

LAMESA — Dawson and Lynn County Officers Thursday afternoon cooperated in the arrest of two men and a woman wanted in Moab, Utah, for the contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Donald Joe Howell of O'Donnell was arrested first and tipped off officers as to where the others wanted might be found. They are M. L. Cathey and his wife, Jeanie, also of O'Donnell. After being brought to the Dawson County jail, the trio waived extradition to Utah.

Making the arrest were Dawson County Sheriff Henry Mayfield, Lynn County Sheriff Norvell Redwine and Lynn County Deputy Sunny Ewin.

Texas Delegation, Pledged To Lyndon, Converges On Chicago

ENROUTE TO CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Texas delegation dedicated to following favorite-son Lyndon Johnson wherever he leads in the Democratic presidential race converged on Chicago and the national convention today.

Some traveled by the Katy's special cars, some took the Santa Fe and some rode the airplanes, but they all followed the Johnson line in politics.

Whether Sen. Johnson would lead his 56-vote delegation dangerously far out on a pre-nomination political limb, or whether he could line it up at the strategically-correct moment on a winner's hand wagon remained to be seen.

Some Texas delegates still believed that if the convention should find itself hopelessly deadlocked, the majority leader would get the call.

But most professed to have no idea what Johnson's ultimate plans were for placing their votes when the chips go down in the presidential balloting that may start Wednesday night.

Johnson, who has hidden himself on his ranch 65 miles west of Austin, has kept strict silence but remained in close contact with his elaborate Conrad Hilton Hotel headquarters in Chicago.

The Senate majority leader and speaker Sam Rayburn were both due in Chicago for a conference today.

The Texas delegation was hammered together by Johnson and Rayburn at the May 22 state convention in an effort to unify Texas Democrats in what Johnson called a "moderation" party.

The coalition included numerous conservatives, who formerly had lined up with Gov. Shivers, and liberals of varying shades who have opposed the governor.

The convention strictly bound the delegates to cast their votes for Johnson until he released them. In the bidding for support that followed Sen. Estes Kefauver's withdrawal from the pre-convention campaigning, Johnson was besieged with requests for comment, but refused.

That has led many observers to believe that Johnson, always a confident politician, may be playing the Chicago situation strictly by ear and holding out until the facts and his instincts tell him when to commit himself.

There have been no signs that the Texas delegation would openly question Johnson's leadership.

Yet it is a delegation of widely-varying political philosophies bound together only by the rules of the state convention that created it to back Johnson for president as a unit.

The Texans held their first caucus Sunday night.

Included in the Texas delegation are two Negroes, numerous labor leaders, longtime "liberal - loyalist" Democrats aligned with Rayburn against Shivers and Eisenhower in 1952, oil millionaires, big business men and industrialists. Holding them together on many touchy issues such as segregation and labor platform planks will be a big job.

Many top Texas Democrats are always in Chicago.

They include John Connally of Fort Worth, vice-chairman of the delegation and Johnson's right-hand man; Vann Kennedy of Corpus Christi, one of the most potent behind-the-scenes figures who helped Johnson organize and hold the May state convention together; and Mrs. H. H. Weinstert of Seguin. Kennedy and Mrs. Max Brooks of Austin were Johnson's choices to represent Texas on the convention platform and resolutions committee. Mrs. Weinstert, concluding many years as national committeewoman, was called to Chicago early by National Chairman Paul Butler.

Mrs. Weinstert is being replaced as national committeewoman by Mrs. R. D. Randolph of Houston. Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey is being replaced as committeeman by Byron Skelton of Temple.

Among the Chicago-bound passengers were Kathleen Vought of San Antonio, liberal leader who was named director of party organization at the May convention; Jerry Hollerman of Austin, state Federation of Labor official; Fred Schmidt of Austin, CIO leader; Bob Bryant of the railroad brotherhoods; Judge E. D. Salinas of Laredo; Jim Sewell of Corsicana, liberal leader; and Edwin Smith of Houston, longtime loyalist leader.

Dutch Protest Action On Debts

THE HAGUE (AP)—Indonesia's repudiation of debts to The Netherlands was protested by the Dutch Government today as a "flagrant violation" of an agreement. A foreign ministry communique called on Indonesia to reconsider the decision.

The Indonesian Government announced Saturday it was writing off millions of dollars in debts to The Netherlands, acknowledged in 1949 when the Dutch relinquished their southeast Asian colony. The Jakarta regime claimed that the Dutch Government in fact owes money to Indonesia.

The foreign ministry said it had instructed its charge d'affaires in Jakarta to make a strong protest against the "flagrant violation of the agreement concerning taking over part of the debts of the former Netherlands East Indies Government made voluntarily by Indonesia."

New Information Officer At Webb

Capt. Allen R. Robertson (right) here familiarizes himself with The Herald's format as Lt. Elden Clayton looks on. Capt. Robertson has succeeded Clayton as head of Public Information Services at Webb Air Force Base, and the latter has gone into the personnel section. Capt. Robertson has just reported to Webb after a four-year hitch in Europe. A native of Westaco and graduate of the University of Texas, he saw duty in World War II, was recalled to the Air Force in 1952. He served at one time in the Public Information Services at Randolph Field.

99 Marine Planes Land At Webb AFB For Refueling

Navy blue filled West Texas skies today as 99 naval aircraft, piloted by Marines, put down here for refueling and minor maintenance. The fliers were en route to El Toro, Calif., for two weeks of active duty training. Marine reserve forces are required to make annual tours of active duty "with the fleet" and the flight Saturday was part of the obligation. Points of origin for the pilots were at Hensley (Navy), Memphis (Navy), Lincoln, and Olathe, Kan. Included in the blue fleet were F9F-7 Cougar jets, a swept wing version of the earlier Gruman Panther jet, and the Navy TV-2, which is that branch's version of the T-33 jet trainer in use at Webb AFB. A nostalgic touch to the operation at Webb was added Friday when a "privateer" of World War II vintage arrived with crews to assist in refueling of Saturday's visitors. The Privateer is the old B-24 bomber type such as was used in the famous Floestil oil field raids.

"The price seems a little high"

Yes, some prescriptions are necessarily high-priced. That's because basic ingredients are costly to produce. This is true because huge sums have had to be spent in research and on the development of new drugs. But your Doctor has a special reason for prescribing such products. He wants to hasten your recovery and thus reduce the cost of your illness. The "high-priced" specialty is often the most economical in the long run.

Services Today For Victims Of Wreck

Funeral rites for the three victims of Thursday afternoon's tragic two-car collision west of Big Spring on U.S. 89 are scheduled for this afternoon in three Texas cities.

One of the three other persons injured in the same wreck was reported as "being in an unchanged condition" at the Big Spring Hospital. No report on the condition of the other two victims was available but it was said their condition is serious.

Lloyd Mann, 48-year-old Seguin resident, whose wife, Mrs. Jewel Mable Mann, 41, was one of the fatalities in the crash, was said to be in serious but not critical condition.

E. B. Compton, Jr., who was in the second car, as was Jewel Griffin, also seriously hurt, are in Medical Arts hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Shivers were scheduled for 4 p.m. today at Corsicana. Her body was sent to that city at 11:30 p.m. Friday by rail. Services are scheduled in the Corley Funeral home there with the Rev. Marshall Boyd, Baptist minister of Midland, officiating. Interment is to be in Oakwood Cemetery.

Survivors include her husband Edward B. Shivers, two children, Carl Stephen, 4 and Karen 9, all of Midland; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Laudan; a sister, Mrs. Winnette Norris of Corsicana. She has three brothers and a half-brother. River Funeral home was in charge of arrangements in Big Spring.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jewel Mable Mann, will be in Brownwood at 3:30 p.m. today at the Davis-Morris Funeral Home. River Funeral Home took the body overland to Brownwood Saturday morning. The Rev. R. J. Elkins is to officiate and burial is in Greenleaf cemetery.

Mann, Jr., Seguin; one daughter, Mrs. Warren Morris, Alice; her father, Curt Reynolds, Brownwood; one brother, Clyde Reynolds, Brownwood; three sisters, Mrs. Raymond Elms, Brownwood; Mrs. Tommy Thompson, Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. Alfred Thorn-

Cap Rock Shows Great Boost In Power Sales

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, having by far its biggest year, has sold almost as much power in the first seven months of this year as it sold in all of 1955.

Sales of 5,822,359 in July were not only the largest single month on record for the system, but they boosted the total sales for the year to 24,400,016 KWH. During all of 1955, sales amounted to 26,079,685.

Caprock purchased 6,270,670 KWH during July, raising to 27,167,000 KWH purchased thus far in 1956. The July figure was larger by nearly a million and a half than the June total.

The phenomenally increased rate of consumption of power is occasioned by heavy pressures put on irrigation wells due to prolonged drought. Cap Rock serves practically every irrigation well in the irrigation belt which runs from Tarzan to below Stanton.

At the end of July there were 1,872 miles of line energized, serving 3,441. In June there were 1,866 miles serving 3,419 customers. Density of customers per mile raised one point to 1.84. Average KWH consumption rose from 1,252 to 1,692, the average bill from $2 in June to $25.04.

Army Spends More On Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Army, fitting itself to the atomic age, now is spending about six times as much money for procuring guided missiles than goes for purchase of traditional artillery. And by 1968 the Army probably will have no "tube"—gun type—artillery left, except for mortars to fire at close ranges of from 50 yards to two miles, one research official predicted today.

His forecast appears to be in line with the trend indicated in budget records of the Defense Department.

They show that the estimated Army expenditures for artillery in the fiscal year started last July 1 will be about 48 million dollars. But the expenditure for procurement of guided missiles during the same period will be about 300 million dollars.

Six years ago, Army spending for procurement of artillery was 44 million dollars—with nothing spent for procurement of missiles. But as the end of the Korean War neared and the modernization program got well under way in 1953,

The deaths in the two car collision brought the traffic fatalities in Howard County for 1956 to 17—ten above the total for 1955 and pushing close to the all-time record of 24 for the full year 1951.

Harriman Endorsement May Open Door To 'Dark Horse'

By JACK BELL
CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Harry S. Truman's endorsement of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York pried open the door today for the possible selection of a dark horse Democratic presidential nominee.

The former President's well-staged announcement for Harriman dealt a heavy psychological blow to efforts of Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 standard bearer, to win the nomination on the first ballot at the party convention opening here Monday.

But while it may have allowed the Stevenson blitz, the impact of Truman's unequivocal support of Harriman fell short of giving the New York governor the kind of immediate momentum needed to climb the hill on which Stevenson is perched with a claimed 530 of the needed 6894 nominating votes.

One Man Killed, Two Injured As Auto Overtakes

COLORADO CITY, Aug. 11—One man was killed and two others injured when the car in which they were riding overturned on Highway 80 two miles west of here early Saturday morning.

Dead was Floyd Edward McCauley, 53, who was said to have been driving. In the Root Memorial Hospital here were Harry Tom Stapler, 21, of Grandfalls, and Paul Richardson, 33, of Odessa. The hospital reported their injuries were not serious.

Lyndon Stakes Out 'Dark Horse' Role

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas flew into this convention city today and immediately staked out a role for himself in the blossoming fight for the Democratic presidential nomination.

First off, Johnson told a heavily attended news conference that his name would stay before the convention as Texas' choice unless and until he himself gives the word to release the 56 Lone Star delegates.

Gov. Martin Griffin of Georgia quoted Johnson as saying he would be "delighted" to have Georgia's 22 votes for the presidential nomination.

Johnson himself said he would seek to use his influence in two ways: (1) to help draft a platform acceptable to all varieties of Democrats and "appealing to the people," and (2) to unify the party behind his presidential choice so it can launch a winning campaign.

Among those whom Johnson met in his suite were many of his fellow Democratic senators, including Gore (D-Tenn.), Humphrey (Minn.), Ervin (N.C.) and Sparkman (Ala.). He also talked with Rep. John McCormack (D-Mass.), chairman of the platform committee.

Johnson told his news conference flatly several times he was not at all interested in the vice presidency.

efforts to pledge delegates from other states to him. He has Texas' 56 votes in hand and had told associates he did not want to make any bid for the nomination.

But Johnson's mood seemed to have changed on his arrival here. He fenced with newsmen about whether he was a "serious" candidate. He didn't answer a question as to whether he really would want the nomination if he could get it.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (Tex.) added his weight to the Johnson boomlet with the statement on his arrival here that Johnson is his first and second choice for the nomination.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who has most of Ohio's 58-vote delegation behind him as a "favorite son," might be acceptable to the South. But Northern members of the party were not charmed by his recent announcement that if he were elected to the Senate he might vote with the Republicans to organize that body.

Such a bloc of votes would give Johnson a chance to be one of the convention's kingmakers, a role he is thought to cherish. His supporters, however, sought to counteract the idea that he is merely a rallying point for the same southern states who tried and failed to put over Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) in 1952.

Johnson himself at his news conference said he would seek to use his influence in two ways: (1) to help draft a platform acceptable to all varieties of Democrats and "appealing to the people," and (2) to unify the party behind his presidential choice so it can launch a winning campaign.

Ex-President Herbert Hoover poses in his suite at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco. Prospects of peace are "better today than they were four years ago," Hoover said as he prepared to celebrate his 82nd birthday Aug. 10 with his customary 12-hour work day. Not since 1836 when James Madison died has a former president of the United States lived to be 82. Only two lived longer: John Adams, 90, and Thomas Jefferson, 83. Both died July 4, 1826.

Six Accidents Reported Friday

Six accidents were reported Friday. At Third and Lancaster, Herman Lee Hasey, Rt. 1, and Janie Campbell, 516 Canary, were in collision. Hasey was driving a truck belonging to Sunset Motor Lines.

At Eighteenth and Main, Aleta Daniel of Forsan and Ralph David Grantham, 1906 Scurry, were involved in an accident. Both were driving 1951 Chevrolet. Police officers reported that Grantham made a left turn into the Forsan resident.

It's worth mentioning here that the new champion of the Little League circuit is the Cabot Carbon team. It had begun to look as if the Yankees (like the New York Yankees) had a corner on the title, but this year things changed.

Reports on the initial response of Stanolind No. 1 Burton, plugged back from the Canyon Reef to the Spraberry, indicated that more heat will be generated on Spraberry play northwest of here. While part of the 240 barrels in 11 hours might have been due to treatment reaction, the fact that it was new oil, and there was no water, meant quickened interest in the area.

The YMCA has decided what amounts to taking the first step toward a building project. The board voted to actively seek a site of a new plant. Once this is done (and the city has been favorably inclined to giving one near Birdwell Park), the way would be cleared for more detailed and active planning.

Texas research League representatives came here last week to ask questions about highways, roads and streets. They made no bones about their pleasant surprise in Howard County's road progress this year. Nearest thing in Texas to a pure unit system, they said.

The Howard County Junior College board hearing drew one person (the was out of county) Thursday on a $388,000 proposal. Maybe if we ruled that people couldn't have a say, they'd flock to these hearings.

Contests For State Posts Loom At Executive Meeting

Want A Mob Scene? Call Harry

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Any time you happen to need a mob scene, there's a fellow in town who can arrange one for you. Name of Harry S. Truman.

The former president decided to say something to the press today and it took the combined sweating efforts of the Chicago police department and the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel staff to keep woman and children from being trampled.

Truman? He loved every minute of it.

Maybe he was a kingmaker and maybe he wasn't. He might be able to sway the Democrats' convention to his man, Averell Harriman, though the betting was against it. But he was having a whale of a time. And he sure summed up a whale of a throng.

Reporters, delegates and total strangers jammed the entrance to the crystal room of the hotel. Cops with arms linked tried to preserve order. It was a forlorn hope. Late comers could barely hear a word of Truman's statements.

But the word they did hear was the all-important one. "I believe," said Truman firmly, reading from a statement he'd written himself in longhand, "that the man best qualified to be the next president of the United States is Gov. Averell Harriman of New York."

Then all—well, you know that short semi-swear word—broke loose. Reporters stamped for telephones.

Harriman supporters sent up a roar that rattled the crystal chandeliers.

Truman, beaming like the class orator on the last day of school, wasn't finished, though. He read the whole thing again for the TV cameras. And not without difficulty, either.

"Please be quiet," he asked repeatedly. "But the uproar continued."

And he read his statement above it, making one change from the original version. "I never did think much of polls," he ad libbed, in a gibe at the public opinion surveys which predicted he would lose the 1948 election. (As it happened, he won it.)

One interested spectator, who acted as if she didn't know what was coming, was daughter Margaret Truman Daniel, who had a reserved seat at the right of the ex-president. Margaret's mother, who can take crowds or leave them alone, stayed in the family suite upstairs.

History may show whether this was or was not one of Harry Truman's greater hours.

There's no doubt, however, that it was one of the noisiest.

16-Year-Old Wife Brought Before Juvenile Court

A 16-year-old wife of an ex-convict, arrested here by officers in connection with a charge of conspiring to commit forgery, was brought before Juvenile Judge R. H. Weaver Friday afternoon.

Despite her married state, it was pointed out her age classifies her as juvenile under the law, and the charge against her had to be dealt with in juvenile court.

Judge Weaver probed the young woman to her older sister on good behavior.

Charge against the husband is not in the jurisdiction of the juvenile court and will be handled later.

Another juvenile, a 16-year-old boy, charged with participating with an older youth in a burglary, was also before Judge Weaver. He was probed to his father.

Band Practice Set

LAMESA — The first of a series of one-day practice sessions for the Green Warriors (junior high school band) was held here Saturday by Bill Green, director. There were 65 members of the band on hand for the two-hour stint beginning at 8:30 a.m. Fifteen beginners turned up for their one-hour period immediately following. Green, who is attending McMurry this summer, will hold another such session Aug. 26.

Jubilant Harriman

preference to him. I have always been against Harriman as much as it was possible to be against him."

Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina spoke up along similar lines—that the South would prefer anybody to Harriman. And former Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia said Truman's declaration for Harriman will "help Mr. Harriman's opponents in Virginia."

"BOOMERANG?" Ervin and Battle are Stevenson men. But that was the kind of Southern talk Stevenson people were banking on now to turn Truman's plug for Harriman into boomeranging support for the former Illinois governor.

Both Harriman and Stevenson looked in via television on Truman's news conference that wasn't a news conference.

The former President banned all questions this time, but said maybe reporters could see him again next week.

After stirring up the day's big excitement in the pre-convention going on, Truman went upstairs to the presidential suite at the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel and daughter Margaret told photographers who wanted a Truman-Harriman picture:

"Dad's taking a nap right now." Not Harriman. He took over the rostrum vacated by Truman, held a news conference of his own, and said:

"I am deeply moved by this mark of confidence from my old boss. Nobody knows better than he the responsibilities of the presidency."

He had called on Truman and thanked the former President personally.

And, he said, he had pledged to Truman and the Democratic party and the American people that he would "fight relentlessly for the liberal principles that have guided his career for the benefit of people everywhere."

Harriman and his wife were smiling radiantly.

Across the street, at his rallying headquarters in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Stevenson was ready with a statement of confidence that he still is counting on getting the nomination.

Stevenson said he thought the best gauge of what his party wants now was the way he said his views "have been endorsed by millions of Americans in 1952 and more recently in a succession of primary contests in every section of the country."

While Truman said he realized his expression of a choice would cause disappointment and resentment among some persons, Stevenson said it "in no way alters my respect and regard for him, and I am grateful for the many things he has said about me in the past."

In advance of his announcement Stevenson forces were practically resigned to a Truman nod toward Harriman. While it could derail their designs on a first ballot victory, they said it couldn't stop Stevenson or even deadlock the convention. Some said it still is Stevenson on the first.

Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico told a reporter he fully expected Truman to come out for Harriman—"I can't see how he can do anything else."

MORE RADICAL Anderson was one of those who figured the result would be a first ballot win for Stevenson, on

Referendum, Vote Results In Spotlight

FORT WORTH, Aug. 11 (AP)—The possibility of contests when the State Democratic Executive Committee meets here Monday to canvass the July 28 primary loomed today.

All candidates for state offices and the courts of civil appeals have been invited to attend by George Sandlin, committee chairman.

Dist. Judge Jesse Owens of Vernon, unsuccessful candidate for the Court of Criminal Appeals, said today he might contest the victory of W. A. Morrison.

Owens said at Vernon that it had been called to his attention that in Bell and Travis counties, Morrison was listed on the ballot as being from Travis County while other ballots listed him from Milam County. Owens also charged that there were voting irregularities in Harris County which he said would affect the race.

The unofficial totals gave Morrison 663,583 votes, Owens 574,385. There was also a possibility that the legality of votes from the three counties which left the referendum questions off the ballot might be challenged.

The three referendum questions were for specific legislation exempting any child from compulsory attendance at integrated schools attended by white and Negro children, the strengthening of state laws against intermarriage of whites and Negroes, and the use of interposition to protest federal action.

When the executive committee ordered the questions placed on the ballots, several county committees refused to do so. Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd in an opinion said it was mandatory that the referendum questions be placed on the ballot.

At that time, Sandlin indicated that votes for state candidates may not be legal where ballots did not carry the referendum questions, and said that the state executive committee might not count or certify votes from those counties.

The questions were left off the ballots in at least three counties—Brewster, Kibbey, and Uvalde.

The proposal for legislation against compulsory attendance in integrated public schools was approved 838,941 to 246,647, the proposal for stronger laws against intermarriage was approved 856,916 to 220,110, and the proposal for involving interposition was approved 829,941 to 198,291.

Although the questions were not on the ballots in at least three counties, Texas Election Bureau officials said it was apparent that a number of voters in other counties ignored the questions. There were 1,569,990 votes cast in the governor's race, approximately a third more than were cast on the referendum questions.

The question of candidates who withdraw will probably be considered at Monday's session, which is to start at 10 a.m.

State Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., of Paris has withdrawn from the Aug. 23 runoff race for lieutenant governor. Sandlin has said that Aikin's name should not appear on the ballot and that if ballots are already printed, Aikin's name should be blocked off.

In the attorney general's race, Curtis Hill of Dallas withdrew several days before the first primary. He received 79,515 votes.

Should Hill's vote not be certified, Will Wilson of Dallas would have a slight majority in the four-man race. However, Wilson has said that he is requesting the committee to certify Tom Moore of Waco, who was second in the July 28 primary, as his run-off opponent.

Wilson, in an unofficial tally, received 668,068 votes, Moore 484,264, Ross Clark of Dallas 130,041, and Hill 79,515.

Honing, was attempting to lay the ground work for blaming Bascom Giles for any irregularities in which Sheffield might have been involved.

Wallace said Gov. Shivers, Atty. Gen. Shepperd and Giles, then land commissioner, rarely attended board meetings or examined records until after Jan. 1, 1955, when Giles failed to qualify for the job for which he had been reelected. Giles is serving a six-year prison term for his part in the veterans land scandals.

Wallace said that policies and procedures of the Veterans' Land Board were set by Giles and carried by administrative personnel of the land board and land office.

Introduced as evidence were minutes of the Land Board from Sept. 15, 1953, to April 25, 1955. The minutes show that in January of 1955, affidavits were made by Shivers and Shepperd stating that representations and actions reflected in the minutes as taken by them were untrue.

The trial may last two or three weeks.

Ray F. Broussard and members of his Howard County Junior College Monday evening history class will participate in the discussion, which is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. The number of the room to be used will be posted at the office of the president of the college, or may be obtained from the college librarian.

At this and the Aug. 27 meeting, neither of which is included in the series scheduled under the auspices of the Great Books Foundation, two new year-long programs will be planned — the new Great Books series, to begin in September, and a wholly independent project for prolonged and thorough study of such world historians and philosophers of history and commentators on life as Toynbee, Wells, Faure, Spengler, Russell, Durand, Nehru, Havelock Ellis, and Lin Yu-tang.
Both series will be open to everyone interested in analysis of ideas, and the history discussions will be of special interest to persons who feel the teaching of history, in the Western world at least, is archaic and provincial, and that new views of the interrelations of civilizations are essential to modern living.

Hearing Set On Zone Changes

Public hearing on proposed zoning changes will be held at the city hall Monday afternoon.
The meeting will be held in the city commission room at 5:15 p.m. The proposed changes are from a "B" zone to "F". The areas considered are the half block west of Scurry between Seventh and Eighth, and the northeast quarter of the block bounded by Scurry, Gregg, Sixth, and Seventh. The other three-fourths of the latter block are now an F zone, as is the other half of the former tract.
Two-party residences are allowed in a B zone, but F is for commercial buildings.
The zoning board only has recommendation power; the final decision is left up to the city commission. Should the zoning board approve the measure Monday, it will be submitted to the commission Tuesday night for ratification or rejection.

City Pre-School Registration Set

A citywide pre-school registration for all students in grades one through six has been announced by Supt. Floyd W. Parsons.
All except those in the Yormer Central Ward district will register on August 20 with a makeup the following day for those unavoidably detained. Central Ward children, who will be assigned to other schools, will register Aug. 22.
Mechanics of the pre-school registration are being worked out by Dr. L. V. Norman, director of elementary education.
Purpose of the early registration is to help gain a more even distribution of pupils to classrooms throughout the system. Parsons pointed out that the district has 18 new elementary school classrooms this year, six of them at East Ward, six at Washington Place and six at Airport. There, together with four being utilized at College Heights for instructional purposes, may make it possible to place all youngsters on a full-day school basis.
According to estimates, based on surveys last spring, there will be 3,490 pupils in the first six grades. This would make an average class load of 29 children in each of the districts, 117 elementary level classrooms. The big problem, of course, is to maintain classes as nearly at the average as possible to prevent the under or over-loading of teachers.
First grade pupils will not begin a full day's activity until after the second week.
Youngsters whose surnames begin with the letters A-M, inclusive will register at the school for the district in which they reside, on the morning of Aug. 20; those whose surname begins with letters N-Z, inclusive, will register in the afternoon of the same day. Those provisionally hindered from meeting this schedule may register at the same schools on Aug. 21. This covers the Lakeview, Kate Morrison, North Ward, East Ward, Washington Place, South Ward, College Heights, Park Hill, Airport and West Ward schools.
Elementary pupils in Central Ward district, whose building is being utilized for junior high purposes this year, will register at the Central Ward building Aug. 22 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. They will be assigned to other schools for the year, probably East Ward or College Heights.

Rate Hike Plea Puts Emphasis On Railroad Passenger Problem

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Planes in the sky, buses and family cars on every highway—have they now built up a crisis for the passenger train on the tracks?
This week six Eastern railroads asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase first class fares by a whopping 45 per cent. They admit this is a bold step and some railmen, looking at comparably lower airline fares, say it would mean the end of long-haul train travel.
Do the railroads stand at a historic juncture? Where do they go from here? Is the Pullman car becoming obsolete?
The Associated Press asked presidents of leading rail lines to supply the answers.
Their replies all agreed on one point: The railroads are in deep trouble so far as passenger operations go.
Some say they are operating their passenger service at a direct out-of-pocket loss. Others make a small profit, but none said profits were big enough to pay the fully-rated share of line maintenance and overhead.
And what about the future? Is there a chance for train travel to survive and become profitable?
Here the railroad chiefs disagreed, and the split was generally on a regional basis.
Southern and Western railroads are not ready to give up the fight. Most say they are now operating several profitable passenger trains.
They take hope from this, despite the fact they are also required to keep some passenger trains in service at a considerable loss.
There was less optimism in replies from Eastern railroad presidents. These are the lines that on Friday applied to the ICC for a big fare boost.
Pennsylvania Railroad President James M. Symes reported his passenger service deficit was nearly $60 million last year, and nearly 42 per cent of freight profits were needed to offset it.
In a statement on their ICC petition, Symes and New York Central President Alfred E. Perlman said they "found it imperative to take bold action" to pay fares on a paying basis.
Railroad statistics show that from 1944 to 1955 the airlines have increased their share of commercial intercity passenger business from less than 2 per cent to more than 29 per cent. In the same period the railroad share has dropped from 74 per cent to 36 per cent.
This trend developed while plane and first class mail fares were closely competitive. The proposed Eastern rail increase would give airlines a huge price advantage in their campaign to get an even bigger share of passenger business.
Railroad officials in other parts of the country say they have no plans to join the Eastern lines in seeking a huge fare boost.
Harry A. Debutts, who heads the Southern Railway System, second largest in the South, stated "We do not believe that long-haul passenger business is doomed. It is our thought that railroads should concentrate on comfort and dependability."
While railroad presidents differed in opinions about the passenger train's future, most agreed on steps that would help solve the problem and brighten the future.

considerably. They were:
1. Freedom to drop money-losing lines where patronage is small.
2. Equal treatment of railroads, buses and airlines in regard to taxing and maintaining the facilities they use.

Party Loyalty Issue May Explode At Monday Meet

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Bids by two Southern groups to support their state's regular organization delegations in the Democratic national convention suffered a sharp defeat today. Signs were that the party loyalty issue which they raised might explode before the delegates Monday.
The Democratic National Committee approved a recommendation to accept the regular South Carolina and Mississippi delegations.
Monroe Sweetland, committee man from Oregon, gave his vote only after assurances that he could go into the question of the party loyalty of some regular Mississippi delegates before the convention's credentials committee Monday.
"If there is evidence that designated delegates are members of 'Citizens for Eisenhower' committees, would this disqualify them from serving as delegates?" he asked.
Sweetland said he was not questioning the party loyalty of Gov. James Coleman, head of the Mississippi delegation, but added there were reports other Mississippi delegates would not go along with the convention's actions.
The loyalty issue split the convention four years ago, but Southern delegates successfully resisted a plan to push through a pledge that would require them to support the national nominees.
State delegations have been required this year to include two resolutions adopted by the committee in November as part of their national convention call.
They state that it is "the understanding" that the state convention in naming delegates "undertakes to assure that voters in the state will have the opportunity to cast their election ballots for the presidential and vice presidential nominees."
Another resolution states it is the "understanding" that certified convention delegates are "bonafide Democrats" who have the interest of the party at heart.

The First Of Four

This 185-ft. tower, designed as the styrene recovery unit, is the first and smallest of four towers which will be in the new styrene plant of Cosden Petroleum Corp. It is nine feet in diameter and weighs 110 tons. It is so long that four flat cars were required to transport it to the site. (Keith McMillin Photo.)

Initial Tower In Quadrangle Of Styrene Plant Now On Site

The first of four towers which will go to make up the mighty quadrangle of Cosden Petroleum Corporation's new styrene plant has rolled into town.

Perhaps "snaked" is a better word, for the massive steel cylinder required four flatcars for the T&P Railway Company to haul it into the yards here, and finally to the site of the new plant.

Although it is 185 feet in length, nine feet in diameter and weighs in at 110 tons, the tower is actually the smallest of four which will become the heart of the new styrene facility. Its 185 feet, nevertheless, top the peaks of the stack on the cat cracker, presently the highest structure at Cosden's refinery, by five feet.

The three remaining towers each will be 200 feet long. In reality they are one gigantic fractionating tower, which, at 600 feet, would be a trifle high to keep aloft in West Texas wind. So the tower has been cut into three sections for fractionating ethyl benzene from the mixed xylene stream of Cosden's enlarged BTX operation.

The tower which arrived here Thursday was so long that it had to be placed on two swivels in order that it could protrude as cars bent in on curves. Two of the cars bore all the weight, the other two serving the simple function of holding the train together.

In about two weeks, according to Dan M. Krausse, manager of manufacturing, the first of the 200-foot towers will arrive. Contractors then plan, probably sometime in September, to raise these two into their place in the tower quadrangle.

The column arriving here last week is the styrene recovery unit. It will separate the ethyl benzene from the styrene. The styrene, which emerges at the bottom, will flow to a finishing section.

The remaining two towers have been delayed by the steel strike and are not due here until December. Completion of the styrene facility is projected for February of 1957.

Another Jo-Mill Spraberry Producer Rates 534 Barrels

The Texas Company brought in another Jo-Mill producer this week-end 15 miles southwest of Gail for over 500 barrels daily.

The well, No. 3-A-NCT-4 W. L. Miller, flowed 534 barrels of oil, plus three per cent water, in 24 hours through a 24-64 inch choke. Gravity is 39.1, and gas-oil ratio is 249-1.

The well is 660 feet from south and west lines, 14-32-4n, T&P Survey. It is plugged back to 7,767 feet from 7,800 feet, and 5 1/2 inch casing extends to 7,788 feet. Top of the pay zone is 7,247 feet, and perforations are between 7,247-342 feet.

Tubing pressure was 300-400, and casing pressure 500-475. Operator had acidized perforations with 500 gallons acid.

A wildcat five miles southwest of Gail, Brennan No. 1 J. R. Roper, has drilled past 6,534 feet in lime and sand after coring from 6,402-54 feet. Recovered from the coring was 50 feet of lime and sand, with one foot of heavy porosity.

The venture is 1,900 feet from south and west lines, 9-31-4n, T&P Survey. Contract depth is 8,200 feet.

Still waiting on orders is Southland Royalty No. 1 L. C. Dorward. The wildcat venture has been stalled awaiting further instructions since March. Last reported depth is 9,929 feet.

Nine miles northwest of Gail, it is 330 feet from north and west lines, 1-32-5n, T&P Survey. It was originally drilled to 9,970 feet in the Ellenburger by Heimerich and Payne but was plugged in June of 1953.

Tech Professor To Make Log Research

LUBBOCK — Better oil well log interpretation that may speed up field location and help evaluate reserves is the goal of research at Texas Tech by Dr. Harold A. Blum, associate professor of petroleum engineering.

Interpretation of logs is sometimes uncertain, especially in limestone formations. Much of the oil produced in the West Texas area comes from limestone.

The oil man uses a number of logs, each designed to tell a certain part of the underground story. Singly, however, no one log can always predict the presence or absence of oil.

The neutron log determines porosity — the arrangement of pores in subsurface strata — but does not distinguish between oil and water in the rock pores. Both fluids give the same type reading on the log.

Other logs, however, tell other things. The basic electrical survey log records resistivity, or resistance to the flow of electricity. Since various formations and different fluids have varying resistivity, these findings help immensely.

But the differences between the logs of producing wells and non-producers are sometimes very small, Dr. Blum said. He hopes, by a careful study of all the material he can obtain, to find clues that will help in future interpretation.

Dr. Blum's plan sounds simple — but it isn't. He will compare the various logs that show porosity and resistivity with the actual well history of what the driller found at different levels. Core samples and even water samples will be studied in his search.

He reasons that there should be some relationship present in the data available to the oil man. If research can find that connection, future oil field operations should benefit greatly.

Well records and other data from area fields would be very helpful in the Tech research program, Dr. Blum said. Of course, the more complete a set of records he can obtain on each well, the better able he will be to compare fully all the differences and similarities.

Drillstem Test Shows No Oil

A drillstem test at a Dawson County wildcat failed to promise any production.

The venture, Humble No. 1 R. C. Koger, is four miles southwest of Sparenburg, 660 feet from south and east lines, 32-35-4n, T&P Survey.

Operator took drillstem test from 10,600-710 feet, with the tool open one hour. Recovered was 42 feet of salt water-cum mud. Flowing pressure was 0, and shutting pressure for 30 minutes was 2,760.

It has now deepened to 10,772 feet.

Seaboard No. 1-A J. R. Weaver has drilled to 700 feet. The wildcat prospect is 600 feet from north and east lines, Labor 27, League 3, Taylor CSL Survey, and four miles east of Welch.

It is also a mile and a half north-east of the Humble No. 1 Weaver wildcat which was plugged at 12,219 feet.

Baxter No. 1 Minton, in the Felkhan field, is testing Spraberry perforations — no gauges on production. Perforations are between 7,576-82 feet. Site is 14 miles northeast of Lamesa, 660 feet from south and west lines, 6-33, HE&WT Survey.

Car Raided Of Full Set Of Hub Caps

A Lubbock resident was relieved of a full set of hub caps here Friday night.

Gerald Horton reported the hub caps stolen while his 1952 Cadillac was parked at the Ritz Theatre, C. W. Lollar, 804 W. 6th, reported to the police that he was robbed of $24 Saturday morning. He told police officers that he was talking to two Negro women on the Northside earlier Saturday and when he returned home, he missed the money.

He did not report who the women were.

Suez Reflects Import Danger, Brown Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Suez Canal controversy, oil imports and increased steel prices caused concern among oil people this week.

The Bureau of Mines expressed alarm about a congressional cut of $18,000 in its appropriation for oil statistical activities this year. Officials said unless $18,000 in cooperative funds can be obtained from the oil industry, reductions must be made in statistical services.

The Interior Department kept an eye on Suez. The Office of Defense Mobilization said Hugh Stewart, director of the oil and gas division, had attended conferences with the industry's voluntary supply committee in New York.

The canal is the main waterway for oil from the Middle East to Europe and the U.S.

Russell Brown, counsel of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA), said the seizure of Egypt "illustrated the insecurity of dependence on remote sources of supply over which we have no control at the supply source or the transportation of oil from these sources."

"This same insecurity also is applicable to those who become entirely dependent upon these sources, whether the oil is to supply our armed forces, our factories or heat for our homes."

Brown, on behalf of 19 oil and gas producer associations, petitioned Defense Mobilization Arthur Flemming to recommend to President Eisenhower that oil imports be cut at once to their 1954 relationship to domestic production — 16 1/2 per cent. The IPAA contends the ratio now is 29 per cent.

Crucial Week For Explorer

This may be a crucial week for a northeast Howard County deep wildcat, John Grappe Drilling Co. and Cosden No. 1 Cranfill.

Saturday the venture had penetrated to 6,550 feet in shale. Within the next 500 feet reef markers could be picked up. However, the wildcat is projected to the Fusselman, which should be topped somewhere around 9,500. It is a three mile southeast stepout to the Big Spring Fusselman field. Location is 660 feet from the north and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 31-31-1n, T&P.

Defense Demand For Helium Gains

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Rising defense demands for helium have halted delivery of the light gas for use in toy balloons and other advertising gimmicks, the bureau of mines said today.

A spokesman for the bureau, only producer of helium in quantity, said:

"The demand is going up all the time from the defense agencies and the atomic energy commission. We'll have to try to turn out a little more."

The bureau reported a record 235 million cubic feet of helium was shipped users during 1955. The bureau now is expanding its helium facilities at Exell, Tex., to increase total production by about 50 per cent.

Return From Rites

Mr. and Mrs. C. Spears have returned from Overton where they went on learning of the death of her brother-in-law, Fred Imel, Mr. Imel, who had a chronic heart condition, died last Sunday and was buried on Tuesday. He had visited here on several occasions.

DRILLING OFF EARLIER PACE

Drilling in the United States and Western Canada slackened somewhat during the past week and fell considerably under the comparable week of 1955.

One of the chief reasons for the decline was pipe shortage brought on by the steel strike. As of Aug. 6, there were 2,738 wells drilling, down from the 2,783 of the previous week and considerably below the 2,951 of the same week last year. The United States had 2,520 rotary wells drilling, a loss of 16 for the week, and oddly, Texas had 971 turning, an increase of eight for the week. Western Canada, with 238, was off nine.

Three Counties Draw Wildcats

Crane, Ector, and Crosby Counties have filed new wildcat sites this weekend.

The Crane project will be Gulf Oil Corporation No. 101 M. F. Henderson about seven miles southeast of Judkins. Plotted site is 660 feet from south and west lines, 5-B23, Public School Lands Survey. It will be drilled to 10,000 feet with rotary equipment to test the Ellenburger.

The British American Oil Producing Company and Seaboard Oil No. 1 Pool will be the new location in Ector County. It will be drilled 1,900 feet from east and 660 feet from south, 25-42-2s, T&P Survey.

Location is a mile northwest of the Gulf No. 1-B Pool, an active wildcat, and also about a half mile south of the east side of Odessa.

It will be trying for the Devonian at 12,000 feet.

General Crude No. 1 Ella Murphy will be an 8-900 foot venture 13 miles south of Crosbyton in Crosby County. It is 660 feet from north and east lines of the northwest quarter, 97-8, HE&GN Survey, on a 320-acre lease.

Two Outpost Completions In Prospect For Local Territory

Two outpost completions were in prospect at the end of the week, one north of the Reinecke area in southeast Borden, and other between the Snyder and the Howard-Glasscock pools of southeastern Howard County.

Cosden and Tri-Service Drilling Company No. 1 E. Y. Murphy picked tentative top of the reef at 6,922 on an elevation of 2,301, giving a datum minus of 4,621. Operator drilled to a total depth of 6,922 and found oil in the reef. The 5 1/2-inch casing had been run Saturday to 6,931 feet and operator waited on cement to set before drilling plug to test.

Location is 1,650 from the north and east lines of section 66-25, HE&TC, half a mile north of nearest production.

In southeast Howard, Basin Oil Company No. 1-A M.M. Edwards, 330 from the south and 990 from the west lines of the west half of the southeast quarter of section 44-30-1s, T&P, was bidding for production. Hole was carried to a total

Will Canvass Bond Returns

Howard County Commissioners Court will meet Monday morning to canvass the returns from Saturday's bond election.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, said that insofar as he knew there was no special business, other than the canvass of the votes to occupy the commissioners time.

Lee Porter, county auditor, said that copies of the recently completed county audit made by an auditing firm in San Angelo, have been received but that he has no word from the firm when representatives will be on hand to formally present the audit to the court.

depth of 2,308 and the 7-inch string was cemented at 2,206 with 75 sacks of cement. Operator was preparing to test for completion.

C. W. Guthrie No. 3 Cherry, laid down 3,065 feet of tubing and prepared to test as another producer in the Moore pool southwest of Big Spring. Operator moved off location, in section 23-33-1n, T&P to an adjoining lease.

In general, capacity for production in the area is expected to be maintained.

At the meeting, the following names will be called:

At the ballot committee of W. D. Edwards, judge, and Bob Elms, capacity for production in the area is expected to be maintained.

The ballot committee for absentees is as follows:

Martin Prospector Is Making Hole

A Martin County wildcat is reported drilling below 5,000 feet in lime this weekend.

The venture is BBM Drilling Company No. 1 G. H. Cowden seven and a half miles northwest of Midland. Last reported depth was 5,485 feet. Location is 1,900 feet from south and east lines, 31-40-1n, T&P Survey.

Contract depth is 12,000 feet to try the Devonian.

Veteran Postal Worker At C City Tries Rural Route

COLORADO CITY, Aug. 11.—Edwin J. Moeser, 56, assistant postmaster at Colorado City, has transferred to rural carrier, effective Saturday according to S. A. Palmer, Colorado City postmaster.

Moeser began work at the post office in 1919, when he was 19 years old. A senior in high school, he worked during the summer vacation and then mornings and evenings at the post office.

"I used to come down at 5 o'clock in the morning," Moeser says, "to sweep out and build fires in the coal stoves."

Moeser has been assistant postmaster since 1938, and was in charge of the office for seven months in 1946, when the office was without a postmaster.

Moeser has seen the office grow from a third class office to a first class office during his postal career, and the population of the city has tripled.

Moeser is filling the vacancy left by the retirement of E. E. Smith, May 31st. The route has been carried by a temporary carrier since that time.

An appointment has not been made to fill Moeser's place, but Postmaster Palmer says that

EDWIN J. MOESER

Homer Dennis, of Fort Worth District Manager of the Postal Department has interviewed several of the senior employees at the Colorado City office, and an appointment will be made before the end of August.

Absentee Ballots Available Monday

J. W. Purser, Democratic county chairman, said Saturday he has been guaranteed that ballots for the Aug. 23 run-off primary will be available Monday morning.

Copy for the ballots was prepared by the Democratic Committee on Friday and turned to the printers.

Meeting in the county commissioners courtroom, the executive committee drew names of the candidates to establish a place such names will appear on the official ballot.

At the same meeting at which the ballots were prepared, the committee announced appointment of W. D. Berry as precinct election judge at Voting Box No. 16 and Bob Eisler to serve in the same capacity for Voting Box No. 3.

The ballots which go into the hands of the voters on Monday—for absentee balloting—will read as follows:

GOVERNOR
Ralph Yarborough.
Price Daniel.
LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR
Ben Ramsey.

ATTORNEY GENERAL
Tom Moore
Will Wilson.

SHERIFF
Miller Harris.
Jess Slaughter.

COMMISSIONER Pct. 1
Simon (Cy) Terrazas.
P. O. Hughes.

COMMISSIONER Pct. 3
R. H. (Hudson) Landers.
R. L. (Pencho) Nall.

CONSTABLE Pct. 1, Place 1
W. O. (Orion) Leonard
J. W. (Wes) Patton.

Mrs. Paulin Petty, county clerk, said she has a sizeable number of applications for absentee ballots which have been filed with her office. Many other voters, unaware that the ballots were not on hand, have appeared at the office and requested absentee ballots.

Mrs. Petty has been authorized by the commissioners court to employ a special deputy for the remainder of the period such voting is specified. With the ballots on hand Monday, the office will be ready to accommodate voters who wish to vote absentee.

Rail Retirement Benefits Going Up

Benefit checks to retired railroad employees are due to be higher by October or November, it has been announced by the Railroad Retirement Board district office in Fort Worth.

This week President Eisenhower signed a bill amending the Railroad Retirement Act which raises, up to 10 per cent, the monthly benefits for over 400,000 of the 650,000 persons now on the Board's monthly benefit rolls.

In general, the higher rates became effective with annuity payments for July. However, because of the enormous job of making all the necessary adjustments, the increases cannot be reflected in benefit checks until October or November, the Board's statement said. All persons on the benefit rolls will receive notices with their September checks advising them of the new provisions.

About 300,000 of those who will receive higher benefits are retired employees, and most of them will get the full 10 per cent increase. In addition, some 40,000 wives and 25,000 survivors will also get benefit increases, although not as much as 10 per cent. The annuities for some 20,000 employe annuitants, 70,000 wives, and 145,000 survivors will not go up. This is because they are already receiving benefits calculated under special maximum or guaranty provisions, which are just as high as they could get under the newly amended law.

The amendments also mean higher benefits for most retired employees and for some wives and survivors who will enter the benefit rolls in the future. The railroad retirement tax rate remains the same.

GI Called Mentally Incompetent At German Rape Trial

WUERZBURG, Germany, Aug. 11 (AP)—A U. S. Army psychiatrist testified today that one of the seven Negro soldiers on trial for the alleged rape of a teen-age German schoolgirl has the mentality of a 7½ year-old child.

Dr. James L. Hedlund, attached to the Army's 97th General Hospital in Frankfurt, said he made an examination of Pvt. Clifton Franks 21, of Omaha, Neb., one of the defendants.

The doctor took the stand shortly before the prosecution introduced a statement by Franks describing the events of the night of last July 9.

The girl, whose name was withheld, testified earlier that she was raped five times by several American soldiers.

MEN IN SERVICE

Maj. Warren R. Lockhart, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Lockhart, had the pleasant experience recently of showing a group of Honolulu newspapermen what it is like to "feather" an engine. Just to demonstrate that feathering a motor is perfectly routine, he took a MAATS C-97 (the military transport version of the 90,000 pound Constellation) aloft with a couple of dozen newsmen. At 7,000 feet he cut out the No. 1 engine and reporters couldn't tell the difference. Then he cut out the No. 2 engine and no shuddering was heard. Under certain conditions he could have cut another engine and still remained aloft, or if necessary could have glided in deadstick to Hickham Field, he told the group. Maj. Lockhart entered the service in 1942 and was in North Africa during World War II, later flew in the Berlin airlift, before returning to the States. He has been assigned to Hawaii for the past three years.

Thomas Alvin Thigpen Jr. is among the 410 Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets who were commissioned second lieutenants in the Army Reserve Saturday. The ceremonies took place at a final review of the engineer ROTC Summer Camp at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. where 701 cadets from 22 colleges had been assigned. Lt. Thigpen, a graduate of Big Spring High School, is also a graduate of the University of Texas. His parents reside at 1209 Pennsylvania.

Army PFC Jimmy G. Hamill, 20, son of Pam E. Hamill, 1503 A. Lexington, Big Spring, is scheduled to become a member of the 101st Airborne Division when it is formally organized at Fort Campbell, Ky., Sept. 21.

He has been serving in Japan with the 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, which is now being airlifted to the U. S.

Hamill, who was a supply clerk in Service Battery of the team's 320th Field Artillery Battalion, spent one year in the Far East. He joined the Army in September, 1954 and completed basic training at Fort Bliss. Hamill is a former student at Big Spring High School.

Specialist Third Class Charles E. McCarver, 28, grandson of Mrs. Nola McCarver, Rt. 3, Colorado City, Tex., is scheduled to leave

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., Aug. 12, 1956 — 7

Alaska for the continental U. S. this month as part of the Army's unit rotation plan.

He is a member of the 71st Infantry Division at Ft. Richardson, Alaska, which is changing stations with the 2nd Infantry Division at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

McCarver, who arrived in Alaska in March 1955, is a radio repairman in Company C of the division's 271st Engineer Battalion.

Sgt. I-C J. D. Nobles, whose wife, Elsie, resides at 2118 Chestnut, Colorado City, completed two weeks of active duty training at Fort Polk, La. on Thursday. He is a member of the 871st Engineer aviation battalion company B, regularly stationed at Brownwood.

He is employed by the Wowell, Inc., and is in the reserve. During World War II he served in the European theatre and Far East, and he holds the combat infantryman's badge.

Top Gun-Club Layout To Be Shown To Public Today

People in this area will be privileged to see one of the most versatile and best gun-club layouts in the nation starting at 2 p.m. today.

Western Sportsmen's club is holding open house for the new facilities of the club, located south of the Andrews Highway two miles west of the city. There will be a marker at the turn off of the club road from the Andrews road, and the half mile road to the club property is paved.

The facilities now include, or will include, provision for any distance and bore of shooting recognized by national organizations. Many clubs major in one field or another, but the Western Sportsmen's Club covers them all.

Part of the program today includes a turkey shoot with anyone welcome to participate.

Improvements at the club—which is nestled in a long hollow surrounded on the west and east by high caliche escarpments—include a 150-foot L-shaped steel structure covered for the firing area.

Ranges are designed for pistol, small bore varmint and bag bore at 25 yards, 100 yards, 200 yards, 300 yards, 600 yards. Provision will be made also for firing up to 1,000 yards, which is as far as competitive firing is ever done.

Regulation automatic shotgun traps, utilizing the latest in equipment that hurls clay targets in random but uniform patterns, are in operation. Later, if there is sufficient demand, skeet facilities can be added.

An auxiliary building contains storage, space for a caretaker as well as modern sanitation facilities. There is a well nearby, which produces water for the restrooms and miscellaneous uses other than for drinking.

The entire area around the firing sheds, the traps, restrooms, is paved as is all the parking area. Westward from the firing pavilion, target sections are heavily bunkered for safety of those who will man the targets. The same is true of the pistol area which is principally on the north leg of the L.

Western Sportsmen Club has one of the lowest membership fees in the country, especially in view of its facilities. Life memberships go at $50, the initiation fee is $5 and the annual membership dues only $6. Strict rules govern the conduct of those using the firing ranges.

The club has ordered five model 75 Winchester target rifles, costing a total of $370, which will be used by juniors in an educational shooting program planned by members.

Both boys and girls interested in supervised shooting on the range at appointed times will be able to register in the schools.

Contests will eventually be staged for the juniors and medals will be supplied to winners at the club's expense.

The program for the juniors will be in charge of Leslie Snow.

Gun enthusiasts who donate as much as $50 toward the program for the juniors will, in turn, be given a life membership in the club.

Air Program Must Move To Stay Ahead Of Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining says Russia has "thousands more jet combat planes in operational units" than the U.S. Air Force and Navy combined.

The Air Force chief of staff reports, however, the United States still holds an advantage in aerial "striking power," but could lose that edge unless it starts next year the stepped-up, multi-billion-dollar research and production program he had advocated before.

In appraising Soviet ability to design and mass produce top-quality warplanes and other weapons, Twining told a Senate Armed Services subcommittee July 19 "we should not ever downgrade them." The testimony was taken at a secret session and a censored version made public today.

Twining said "I was quite shocked" by the speed with which Russia has produced MIG fighter planes. He said he has not changed his estimate that they produce 10 times as many all-weather fighters a month as this country.

On the subject of warplane numbers Twining stressed one point—a belief that if war should come Russia would need more bombers than the United States because there are more target areas in this country than in the Soviet Union.

His words and those of Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, chief of Air Force research and development, were spoken from the background of their recent trip to Russia, where they were allowed a restricted look at Soviet Airpower.

ROTC Cadets Tour Caverns

Three bus loads of ROTC cadets, who this week will round out their summer training program at Webb AFB, left Saturday for Carlsbad, N. M.

In all there were 110 of them and they planned to spend the night at a motel, going through the Caverns early today.

Climaxing their month of active duty for special training at Webb, special exercises will be held Friday at the base chapel with Dr. F. D. O'Brien, First Baptist pastor, as the speaker. Nine of the young men drawn from colleges across the nation will receive their commissions.

City Dads Will Purchase New Police Car, Pickup

City commissioners will be purchasing a car for the police department and a pickup for the city electrician at their regular meeting Tuesday.

The meeting will be held at 5:15 p.m. at the city hall and could possibly be held without one member; Ward Hall is on vacation and is not expected back.

The group authorized advertising for bids on the car and pickup at their last meeting, July 24. Policy concerning police cars is to trade models when the vehicles reach 50,000 miles. To be traded in on the new car will be a 1955 Chevrolet.

Specifications for the pickup call for a half ton model with a service utility body. It will be used by Roy Rogan, city electrician. The pickup he is now using will be turned over to the heavy equipment foreman in the street maintenance department.

The new pickup will be equipped with a lift for use when the electrician is working on traffic lights and other high electrical connections where a ladder could not be used safely.

Commissioners will also be considering a possible amendment to the ordinance prohibiting butane tanks in the city limits. Officials of the Western Compress have petitioned the city for permission to build a tank on their property.

Whitney found that other cities allowed them and that the late fire insurance commission sanctions them if they are placed a "safe distance from buildings and property lines."

The compress has loading equipment using butane, which necessitated the storage tanks.

Coaching Was Difference: Jerry Graves

Jerry Graves, Big Spring's representative in the North-South All-Star football game at Lubbock Friday night, credited "superior coaching" to the North's 32-13 victory.

"As you probably know, we staged our workouts in pads, they didn't," Graves said. "We took wind sprints and they didn't. I think we were in better shape." Jerry pulled a groin muscle on the Tuesday preceding the game and was used almost exclusively on offense, as a result. He saw action on only two defensive plays. He attributed his injury to the fact that he didn't "get warm" before going all out in practice. The big all-stater will have a week to rest before he goes to Wichita Falls to begin training for the Oil Bowl game, which pits Texas schoolboys against Oklahomans. Graves who himself was singled out for praise by the North coach, Abe Martin of TCU, paid tribute to the ability of such players as Jack Spikes, Snyder; Wahoo McDaniel, Midland; Don Meredith, Mount Vernon; and Larry Druitt, Corpus Christi Ray, among others. He said both Spikes and McDaniel ran with tremendous power. Meredith, he added, is only an ordinary runner but a standout passer, one of the best he's seen. Like Graves, Druitt is headed for Rice Institute. Spikes is bound for TCU, McDaniel to the University of Oklahoma while Meredith is committed to attend SMU. Like the other member of the two teams, Graves received an expensive wristwatch.

Tourney Course Will Be Tougher

At least five members of the Big Spring Tiger baseball team—Guy Lara, Minnie Mendoza, Pat Martinez, Ray Leos and Manager Elias Gamboa—were born in Pecos. When friends sought to introduce Dale Long, the Pittsburgh first sacker, to Lefty Gomez and Lefty Grove at a Pittsburgh party recently, Dale argued against it. "I don't want to meet any more lefthanders this season," complained Long. The Big Spring Country Club course will be tougher than it ever has been for the Big Spring Invitational tournament field this year. No fewer than 14 sand traps are to be added to the nine-hole course. All greens but the fifth will have traps of some sort added. The observers will also get a better idea of how matches are progressing on the final days of competition. If plans now in the making jell, Judges will accompany the players, armed with data mounted on cardboard, which will keep the gallery informed on the score in the matches. Bill DuBose, football coach at Lubbock Monterey, picks Amarillo's Sandies as the outstanding football team in District 3-AAA. He put the Sandies ahead of Berger and Pampa, both of which he rated close to the top. DuBose also singled out Dickie Mauldin, Pampa, halfback; and E. J. Holub, Tom S. Lubbock tackle, as the outstanding players in that conference. Caddies in the Tam O'Shanter golf tournament now going on in Chicago picked Gene Litter, Julius Boros, Peter Thomson and Mike Souheak, in that order, to win the meet. They say Bob Turley, the New York Yankee hurler, is better at discovering give away signs of enemy pitchers than any other player in the American League. Mickey Mantle has been one of those who has profited from Turley's deductions.

Sledge Pilots North To Win

LUBBOCK, Aug. 11. (AP) — Jack Sledge, a slick ball-handler, faker and passer from New London, had TCU unworried today over who will replace its great quarterback, Chuck Curtis, when he finishes his string this fall.

Sledge quarterbacked the North to a crushing 32-13 victory over the South Friday night in the All-Star football game of the Texas with the flourish Abe Martin of TCU, who coached the North, predicted for him.

He piloted the North to two touchdowns with the game only about 15 minutes old. His passing, running, faking and generalship did the lion's share of the job. He piloted his team to the biggest score ever registered in the 22-year history of the game. He was voted outstanding back, beating out Wahoo McDaniel, the wild running back from Midland who was the leading ground-gainer with 32 yards. Attending TCU with Sledge will be two more North backfield stars, Jack Spikes of Snyder and Marvin Lasater of San Angelo. These two were just behind the smashing, crashing McDaniel. Spikes slammed the faltering South line for 38 yards and Lasater carved out 50. It showed in the scoring, too. McDaniel made two touchdowns, both on short plunges. Spikes got one and Lasater one, also on short smashes through the line. The other North touchdown was made by Robert Robinson of Dallas Sunset, a halfback converted to an end. He took a 16-yard pass from Don Meredith. He kicked two points after touchdown. The sports writers picked him as outstanding lineman. But he barely beat out James Shillingburg, Kermit tackle, who was a tower on defense for the North. Meredith was the outstanding passer of the game. He threw eight and completed five for 73 yards. Bobby Lackey of Weslaco was the top quarterback for the South. He rolled up 59 yards passing and ran for 42 to lead his team in both departments. His 33-yard pass to Bernie Ramirez of Hebronville scored one of the South touchdowns. Gordon Leboeuf, the heralded halfback of state champion Port Neches, showed flashes of brilliance but most times he was smothered by the charging, rangy North line that limited the South to 118 yards rushing. His 53-yard kickoff return in the third period set up the South's first touchdown and Leboeuf made it with a 1-yard smash at the line. Again, in the fourth period, Leboeuf took a kickoff back 30 yards to the South 35 and then helped Lackey and Larry Fuetit of Corpus Christi Miller sweep to the final touchdown for his team. It came on the pass from Lackey to Ramirez.

BY WRITERS

Horned Frogs Are Favored In Race

LUBBOCK, Aug. 11. (AP) — Nineteen sportswriters Friday picked TCU to win the 1956 Southwest Conference football championship.

TCU rolled up 16 first places and three seconds as the writers made their selection after a mass interview with the conference football coaches.

TCU got 130 points, Texas A&M 107, Baylor 86 1/2, Texas 77 1/2, Arkansas 58, Rice 37 and SMU 36. Points were given on the basis of 7 for first, 6 for second and so on.

Coach Abe Martin of TCU, last year's conference champ, last year admitted that his team should be favored on the basis of "experience and what happened last year."

He reminded, however, that "last year those who thought they would have a real good team got beat."

Coach Paul Bryant of A&M said he would have to depend largely on sophomores but said his first team would be stronger than the team of last year.

The newest head coach in the conference, Sam Boyd of Baylor, said his team would be improved over last year. He said he would have a bigger line and more speed. Half his team will be sophomores.

Texas Coach Ed Price said the Longhorns would be as strong or stronger and that his two passers, Joe Clements and Vince Matthews, would "match or overmatch any two passers on any other team in the conference."

The assistant coach at Arkansas, Dixie Walker, said the Razorbacks would be improved in the technique of the Split-T. He said that personnel wise Arkansas would not have as many good men as last year. SMU's Woody Woodard said he would have one of the most inexperienced teams at SMU in a long time. Rice was not represented at the interview.

First Baptists Win Y Crown

The 1956 champion of the YMCA Church Softball league is the First Baptist Church club, which topped the St. Mary's Episcopal Church nine in two straight games the past week.

The Baptists won the first game, 6-4, and the second, 9-6.

Ronnie Jones and Theibert Camp pitched the wins for the champs. Marvin Haley was the losing hurler both nights.

Truett Newell and Bill Bradford paced the attack for the titlists. Newell banged out a home run and two singles in the second game, after Bradford had bombed a pressure triple in the opener.

George Farda and Glenn Brown also did some timely hitting while D. A. Miller and C. W. Proffitt starred at bat for St. Mary's.

Sidney Clark served as manager of the winners while Tommy Weaver masterminded the St. Mary's club.

BOTH TEAMS SLUGGISH IN BOUT AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO Aug. 11. (AP) — Lou Groza kicked four field goals Friday night, and as the All-Star football game wore on to a 26-0 Cleveland Browns' victory, there was a feeling that a swift kick all the way around would have enlivened proceedings.

Temperature in the 80's at Soldier Field undoubtedly added to the seeming sluggishness of the graduated collegians as well as the National Football League Champion Browns.

The 75,000 fans who attended may have done as much sweating in the heat as the players. The game was televised nationally.

The Browns used basic, simple plays. Nothing could have been simpler than Groza's four field goals which measured 38, 30, 24 and 27 yards from the line of scrimmage.

It was a record production in the All-Star series. Injuries and lateness of some players to report for drills were hurdles in head All-Star Coach Curly Lambeau's effort to weld mobile units among his group of collegians.

Only once did they get beyond midfield. Defensively, the collegians did a pretty good job holding the Browns to 191 yards rushing and 8 passing.

Groza, an 11-year veteran for Cleveland, also converted twice after touchdowns to taking scoring honors with 14 points.

The Browns thrust 80 yards in 12 plays for a touchdown in the first period.

In the final two minutes of the game rookie Gene Filinski of Vilanova bolted across the goal from the 2 after quarterback Vito Parrilli set it up with keep-it plays. The pros hold a 14-7 edge in the series with two games ending in ties.

All-Stars Vie On Wednesday

MEMPHIS, Aug. 11. (AP) — The West will still be trying for its first victory when it goes up against the East in the eighth annual "All-American" high school football game Wednesday night. The best the West has managed so far was a 6-6 tie in 1954.

Harold (Red) Drew, former head coach at the University of Alabama, has coached the East every year since the first game at Corpus Christi, Tex., in 1949. His assistant: Johnny Vaught of the University of Mississippi.

Slingshot Sammy Baugh, head coach at Hardin-Simmons, took over the West last year. He'll be back along with one of his assistants, Wayne Millner.

The 44 players are all 1956 high school graduates, with the teams roughly split by the Mississippi River.

The game annually attracts many of the top prep players in the nation—amply proved by the number that go on to college and professional stardom.

A list of a few of the game's more prominent alumni includes Rick Casarea of Florida; Notre Dame's Johnny Lattner; Paul Cameron and Ronnie Knox of UCLA; Michigan State's Don Doherty; and Bobby Marlow of Alabama.

Burkemo, Thomson, Kroll Tied For Lead In Tam

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—The pressure third round of the $101,200 "World" golf tournament took its toll at Tam O'Shanter today as U.S. Open champion Cary Middlecoff faded with a borrowed driver and three players shot into a 54-hole tie at 207, nine-under-par.

The trio deadlocked for the top spot in the chase for golf's greatest first prize, $50,000, included Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, winner of the last three British Opens; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich., the 1953 National PGA champion, and Ted Kroll, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 1956 PGA runner-up. Burkemo was one of five players to stroke six under par 66 in today's play on Tam O'Shanter's par 36-72 layout which offered soft greens and good scores for early starters and then got tougher as brisk winds and the sun dried out the course.

IN TAM O'SHANTER

Texan Leads Fems; Wettlaufer Ams

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Betty Jameson, San Antonio veteran who won the "World" title in 1952, took over the third-round lead today in her quest for another women's pro title at Tam O'Shanter with a sparkling 73 for 222.

Miss Jameson coupled 36-37 against par 38-38-76 to continue her steady shooting, six strokes under regulation for the 54 holes. Moving up, however, in the chase for a $6,000 winner's share of a $15,000 purse, were Patty Berg and Marlene Bauer Hage. Patty, who has monopolized the "World" crown for the last three years, scored the best round of the day with a 72.

She had drawn even with Betty at the 52nd hole. But the Texan went ahead with great approaches that gave her birdie 3 putts of 1 and 4½ feet on the last two holes. Locked with Patty at 224 was Marlene, winner of five tournaments this year and leader on the women's money list. She fired a 75.

Carole Jo Kahler of Roseburg, Ore., an 18-year-old who plans to enter the University of Oregon this fall. The half-way leader, Mickey Wright of Chula Vista, Calif., soared to an 82 to share fifth place at 225 with Alice Bauer and Louise Suggs, last week's All-American winner.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Ward Wettlaufer of Buffalo, N. Y., today maintained a five-stroke lead through the third round of the men's amateur "World" golf tournament with a 73 for 216, even par. The 29-year-old golf team captain at Hamilton College in Clinton, N. Y., was out in 35 to chop one stroke from the Tam O'Shanter par, but skied to a two-over 38 on the back side.

He took bogey 5's on four of the last six holes, hitting the trees on one of them and three-putting the others. Five strokes behind in second place was 250-pound Martin Stanchiv, Tam O'Shanter Club mem-

Local Woman's Son Missing After River Barge Mishap

Mrs. Gladys Ellige was rushing to New Orleans Saturday when her son, Joseph (Ed) Clanton, was reported among those missing when a big oil barge capsized in the Mississippi Friday.

With her was Mamie Clanton, aunt of Joe Clanton. They received word Friday evening of the tragedy, and Cecil Hamilton flew them to Dallas at 4 a.m. Saturday for a connection with Delta Air Lines to New Orleans.

According to Associated Press reports, Joe Ed was working top-side with Herbert Ray, Kilgore, who also was listed as missing, when the big structure began to list. The other two missing, Lawrence J. Boudreau, 23, Racedland, La., and Clinton Bennett, 25, Silled, La., were said to have been below deck when the structure toppled. There were 30 men aboard at the time and all but the four were able to jump and swim to safety, although five were injured.

The barge rolled over near the docks of Avondale Marine Ways, Inc., which had built it for Southeastern Drilling Company of Dallas and the California Company. The $1½ million self-propelled barge had been designed to drill in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

Rare Document

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Here's an item for a rare-documents collection:

A letter in which motorist Kenneth Lang writes of the traffic officer who arrested him: "He acted in a most courteous manner, approached me like a gentleman, and talked to me in the same manner."

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

If you are curious as to what kind of singing voice Princess Grace possesses, spare a few minutes to listen to "True Love," with vocalizing done by Grace Kelly and Bing Crosby. The flip side of this Capitol recording is "Well Did You Ever" by Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra.

This record, plus two more, are now singles from the soundtrack album of "High Society," the movie. "Now You Has Jazz," a duet by Bing Crosby and Louis Armstrong, is backed with "High Society Calypso" by Louis Armstrong and his band. The third single from this best-selling soundtrack album is "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire" by Frank Sinatra and Celeste Holm, and "Mind If I Make Love To You," with Frank Sinatra the sole vocalist.

Right in tune with the season is Eddie Fisher with a new RCA Victor record entitled "I'm Elected." Only Eddie isn't seeking a public office, just someone's heart. Hugo Winterhalter's orchestra and chorus outdo themselves for the other side of the record, "Oh, My Maria," with Eddie Fisher again in the spotlight.

Don Cherry has a relatively new release on the market that is showing a great deal of promise. "Ghost Town," on a Columbia label, is the title of this latest by Don Cherry. Bill Haley and his Comets, on Decca, have come back with another up and coming tune, "Rip It Up." The flip side, "Teen-Ager's Mother" should see action.

You James Dean fans take note of a new single done by Dick Jacobs and his orchestra on Coral. From the Warner Bros. film, "East of Eden" comes memories of this star in the form of the theme from "East of Eden."

"Tribute To James Dean," with eye-catching cover to match, is given by Art Mooney and his orchestra on MGM label. Themes from "East of Eden" and "Rebel Without a Cause" are featured on this pure instrumental disk.

A song to watch is "When the White Lilacs Bloom Again." Several artists have placed their bid for success by placing early renditions on the market. Billy Vaughn's version of this up and coming, number on Dot is one of the best, as is LeRoy Holmes' waxing on the same, on MGM.

An excellent buy, if you are a Stan Kenton fan, is "Sketches on Standards" by Capitol. The nation's most exciting modern band presents songs in everybody's gallery of favorites including "Sophisticated Lady," "There's A Small Hotel," "Begin the Begon" and "Shadow Valley."

VA Hospital Activities Set

Various activities have been planned for the Veterans Administration Hospital for the next week.

On Monday the movie, "Man From Bitter Ridge" will be shown at 1:30 and 7 p.m. to patients in the recreation room of the sixth floor. That same day the American Legion will visit the wards and the radio program conducted by the hospital chaplain, C. O. Hitt will be heard over the hospital channel at 11:30 a.m.

Tuesday evening, entertainment and refreshments will be provided by the American Legion Auxiliary of Stanton at 7. Tuesday morning, the library cart will be taken through the wards for the use of patients who cannot visit the library themselves.

A sports movie will be shown Wednesday in the recreation room. The American Red Cross will visit the wards.

Thursday, entertainment and refreshments will be provided by the DAV of Lamesa. The Chaplain's radio program will again be heard at 11:30 a.m.

Teacher Pay At Lamesa Boosted $200 Annually

LAMESA — Classroom teachers in the Lamesa public schools have received notice that their salaries are being increased $200 annually. The Board of Education took action on this matter Monday night, issued public notice later in the week.

The increase brings the starting level to $2,895 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree. Teachers also receive an additional $50 each year of teaching experience.

C. W. Tarter, superintendent of schools announced Saturday that two more faculty members have been named. Everett McAuley, who graduates from Sul Ross this month, has been named director of choral music at the High School. James McCollum, a graduate of the University of Texas, has been named sixth grade teacher at Junior High.

Both will report here for the first faculty meeting on Aug. 29.

Tarter is still looking for a choral music director for Junior High, and has other vacancies to fill.

Cotton Now At Critical Stage

LAMESA — The most pressing need in Dawson County right now is rain, says E. D. David, local banker. Cotton is at a critical stage and must have rain the next few days if the county is to produce as much cotton as last year.

David said the county had several new irrigation wells and the irrigated cotton looked better than it did in 1955. However this may be offset by lower yields on dry-land fields. He said there is a dry strip along the east side of the county and in the southeast near Ackerly where dryland crops are very poor. The maize crop is very definitely poorer than last year.

"We won't have too many complaints if we can get rain the next few days," David said. He then drew some doodles on a scratch pad, and one little sketch looked like a fat cloud just bursting with water. "Rain, that's what we need right now," he repeated. "This would certainly be a good country if we could figure out some way to get rain when we need it."

Legion Lends A Helping Hand

One of the services provided by the local American Legion post is the loaning of hospital beds, wheel chairs and crutches to persons needing these aids. Business has been so brisk that the post has on loan all its four beds and five wheel chairs, and has only a few pairs of crutches available. Accepting the use of a wheel chair, as pictured here, are Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Chandler, 1900 Eleventh Place, who need the equipment for his mother, Mrs. A. M. Chandler. The elder Mrs. Chandler, of Bowie, recently fell and broke her hip at age 80, and is coming to live with her son and his wife. The Chandlers receive the chair from Culin Grigsby, service officer of the Legion who is in charge of the equipment service program. The Legion has financed this project through revenues derived from sale of magazine subscriptions.

No Brink's Jurors Yet

BOSTON (AP)—The first week of what promises to be a marathon Brink's trial at Suffolk County Court House has ended with 400 veniremen called but not one seated as a juror.

Judge Felix Forte, seeming to lose his patience at intervals, continued the questioning yesterday as the fourth group of 100 marched in and out. Of that number the defense challenged 23, the prosecution 2 and 39 others were excused by Judge Forte.

To date, two-thirds of those called have been excused by the court on the grounds they had formed definite opinions on the case which would not be changed by evidence.

The fifth group of 100 veniremen from a pool of 2,000 Suffolk County residents will start parading before the eight defendants Monday when court resumes. At that time chief defense counsel Paul T. Smith will have 168 of his original 262 peremptory challenges remaining.

Smith has claimed the defendants, charged with the $1,218,211 armed robbery of the Boston office of Brink's Inc. Jan. 17, 1956, cannot receive a fair trial because of the publicity attending their arrest last January.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Flouting Of Traffic Laws Means More Enforcement

To The Editor:
Eighty-eight per cent of last year's highway victims died because of violations of traffic laws. Nine of the 10 traffic fatalities are not accidents, but could more accurately be classified as "murder, manslaughter, or suicide by homicidal maniacs." Lawbreaking killed 33,700 of last year's 38,000 nation-wide highway victims. The quickest action that could be taken to reduce accidents is strict and impartial enforcement of traffic laws.

How can a death that results because of a violation of the law really be classified as accidental? When a life is lost because a law is broken, isn't it closer to murder or manslaughter?

In our country, we seem to have a peculiar double standard when it comes to the law. Traffic laws don't get the same respect our other laws are recorded. Many drivers, in fact, actually take great pride in bragging about how they break traffic laws and get away with it.

But the driver who breaks traffic laws is a potential killer, and the pedestrian who breaks the law virtually is committing suicide. Such flouting of traffic laws is a poor example for young people and contributes to delinquency.

When they see parents and oldersters defying traffic laws, they follow suit, and statistics show they are causing a disproportionate number of accidents.

That vast majority of drivers who are law abiding deserve protection from the small but dangerous group of homicidal highway maniacs.

If this group of potential killers won't obey the law voluntarily, strict and impartial enforcement of realistic traffic laws and stern justice must be employed to deter them.

The evidence that stepped up law enforcement will reduce traffic smashups is conclusive. In every city and in every state where law enforcement has been stepped up, the traffic toll has gone down.

Our highway patrolmen are doing a wonderful job, considering the many miles they necessarily must travel to cover the areas of assignments.

Here in Howard County, the average fines paid in my court from complaints filed by our patrolmen, are running above $2,750 a month. This amount does not include fines paid in other courts.

FROM ALABAMA TO TEXAS come Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. F. Garrett and their two daughters, Leslie Ann, 5, and Cheryl, 8½. The two girls are pictured sitting on the beautiful llama rug which the Garretts bought on their tour of Peru. Col. Garrett is new wing personnel officer at Webb AFB. In Montgomery, Col. Garrett was in a command and general staff school for one year. Seated on Mrs. Garrett's lap is their amber-colored cocker spaniel, Turbo. "What Air Force family wouldn't have a dog named Turbo," Mrs. Garrett laughed. Seen in the background is a hand-tooled leather lamp table they also got in Peru. On it is the driftwood lamp Col. Garrett constructed. The Garretts have been in the Air Force 13½ years. Some of their tours of duty are represented in the places where the two girls were born; Cheryl at Bolling AFB in Washington, D. C. and Leslie at Ramey AFB in Puerto Rico. The Garretts have toured most of the Caribbean countries. Col. Garrett was a fighter pilot in World War II and served in both campaigns.

Newcomers To Big Spring

ALL DRESSED UP TO CELEBRATE Kitty's birthday are the E. B. Pierson family. Pierson is seated with his son, Benjie, age 6 and Mrs. Pierson holds Kitty Grey who celebrated her fourth birthday Saturday. Pierson is the new vice principal and counselor at Big Spring High School. He holds his BA degree from Texas Western College in El Paso and his Master's degree from East Texas State College in Commerce. The Piersons are all natives of Texas and Pierson was born in Big Spring and attended junior high here. Mrs. Pierson was born and raised in Baird. Before coming to Big Spring Pierson was counselor of guidance at the schools in Beeville. "We just love Big Spring and find the people extremely friendly and courteous," Pierson commented.

THIS IS THE WAY TO PULL THEM IN says four-year-old Michele Roupe, demonstrating fishing techniques to the rest of her family, Staff Sgt. and Mrs. C. A. Roupe and her eight and a half-year-old sister, Denise. Fishing is a hobby and pastime enjoyed by all members of the Roupe family. Sgt. Roupe is the crew chief for the helicopter at Webb AFB. Before moving to Big Spring the Roupes lived in San Marcos. Mrs. Roupe is a native of Ireland, having been born in Belfast. She met and married Sgt. Roupe when he was stationed in Ireland in 1946. Sgt. Roupe has spent eight years of active duty with the Air Force and has five years of reserve credit. Their daughter, Michele, was born while they were stationed at Las Vegas, Nev., and Denise was born in Winchester, Va. They have made two trips back to England and Ireland in 1949 and again in 1953 to visit relatives of Mrs. Roupe.

ADMIRING THE FINISHED PRODUCT are members of the B. G. Webb family; the "finished product" being an owl which Webb has stuffed himself. Webb is a graduate taxidermist from the Northwestern School of Taxidermy in Omaha, Neb. At the present he is working on a seven point, 160 pound deer he killed last season. Webb became interested in taxidermy work when he realized that preserving some of the wild life made people think more before they merely killed for sport. He and his wife both love any outdoor sport and Mrs. Webb said when people ask them why they didn't have a TV set she always replied, "We don't ever stay inside long enough to watch it." Mrs. Webb has an interesting collection of rock formations she has gathered on their various trips to the Colorado mountains. Pictured with the Webbs are their two children, Richey, 2½ and Vickie, 5.

MRS. THOMAS EDWARD ANGEL

Wedding Vows Taken In Stanton By Linda Bryan, Thomas Angel

STANTON—The First Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage, Friday evening, of Linda Bess Bryan and Thomas Edward Angel in a double ring formal ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Bryan and Mr. and Mrs. Jess Angel of Courtney.

The Rev. Wallace Kirby, pastor of the church, officiated for the exchange of vows as the couple knelt on a white satin pillow.

The altar was marked with an arrangement of white gladioli and Marcot daisies, with a background of candelabra. These were flanked by baskets of gladioli and daisies.

Ima Joy Williamson, organist, played selections of nuptial music and accompanied Joyce Howard of Big Spring as she sang "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Walk Hand in Hand."

BRIDAL GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original model of white silk taffeta and French lace over net and taffeta. The fitted bodice, with scalloped neckline, was fashioned with tiny sleeves, complemented with lace gauntlets.

A skirt of taffeta, cut on circular lines, was attached to a yoke of lace and was encircled with deep inserts of lace. Worn over layers of net, the skirt swept into a cathedral train.

The bridal veil of illusion, waist length, was attached to a half-hat shell of pleated tulle and lace, encrusted with sequins and pearls. An arrangement of white carnations, centered with an orchid, was carried on a white Bible. A handkerchief, which had been carried by the mother, the grandmother and the great grandmother of the bride in their weddings, was part of the bridal attire.

Betty Berry attended as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara Jane Smith, Kay Bryan, a sister of the bride, Mrs. Don Swearingen of Ruidoso, N. M., a cousin of the bride; and Betty Moore of Munday. Candle lighters were Janelle Jones, Jan Nichols, Jane Blizzard and Annie Jo Estes of Lamesa.

All feminine attendants were attired in identical manner. Frocks of antique taffeta in pastel shades were made princess style with sweetheart necklines and bouffant skirts. Bandeaux in matching shades were adorned with flowers and half veils. They carried colonial bouquets of carnations.

Flower girls were Merlae Angel, sister of the bridegroom, and Cathy Hazelwood, his cousin. Their frocks were of pink taffeta with harmonizing mitts and bandeaux. They carried baskets of ribbon and tulle holding rose petals.

Jess Angel was his son's best man. Ushers were Carl Bradley of Big Spring, Shirley Chesser, Nolan Sorrells and Richard Lewis, all of Stanton.

RECEPTION

A reception followed at the home of Mrs. Simpson.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Mary Sue Hale

A mere two weeks remain before the summer session of HCJC will be dismissed. Much activity, however, is still on tap. English themes have long since been finished, but they tell me that a "mountain" of territory must be covered in the remaining time.

In order to wind up the present phase of study in biology, several more field trips are forthcoming. Other classes are much the same, with two-thirds of the work behind them, but with a portion of things still to be mastered.

As old as education is the less pleasant part, cramming. After this week, that time will gain an approach, but with it comes the end of this session of learning, and that makes it appear more pleasant.

After spending several days of swimming et cetera at Corpus Christi, Benzie Compton came home to Big Spring Sunday afternoon. He went down with his parents on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Mrs. Dell Barber of Colorado City, who is a summer student at HCJC returned to school Monday after spending the previous week at Palsano, a Baptist encampment. She visited natural history museums and studied the wild life in that area to report to her biology class upon her return. Having been accompanied by her family, she laughingly reported that she enjoyed mountain climbing with her three boys, though hers was done in a car.

A preview of things to come can be viewed by passers-by of the junior college. Buildings seem to be springing up everywhere, some destined to be devoted to music, agriculture (one of these will be a green house), and enlargement of the library. This is merely a bare sketch, but there will be more about it at a later date.

To you girls who are planning to attend HCJC next fall, let this serve as a reminder: The Lass-O Club, with the assistance of Mrs. Marshall Box is going to have a shumber party next Saturday night in the SUB in honor of girls who will be in HCJC for the first time this fall. The only requirement is that you bring your bedding and a midnight snack for yourself.

Perhaps the most exciting event of this week was the All-Star football game at Lubbock. Big Springers were particularly interested because Jerry Graves, BSHS graduate, played in the game. Jerry was chosen to help represent the North Friday night.

Los Ann White, Gerald Lackey, and Sue Boykin made the trip with Lou Ann's mother to Lubbock to see Jerry play. Sue joined the group in Odessa as she was returning from the Student Council workshop.

These were not the only ones from Big Spring however. Others included Cecilia McDonald, Julie Rainwater, Johnny Janak, Walter Dickenson, Opal Hancock, Billy Johnson, Carlene Coleman, Ed Slate, Mary Lane Edwards, and Lefty Reynolds.

Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y members planning to attend the Y Summer Camp this week met Friday to make last minute plans. The group will leave Tuesday and return late Sunday.

Carol Letcher began a nice vacation last week. The Letchers are touring Yellowstone National Park and then plan to go on to California. The trip will last several weeks.

The beginning of school was the favorite topic of conversation Tuesday night at the party at Betty Anderson's home. The party was given in honor of Wanda Posey who is visiting here from Mt. Pleasant. Wanda is a cousin of Billy and Bobby Blum and spent several days here last summer.

Although football season has not officially begun, the 1956 Steer team has begun working out. The boys have been practicing late every afternoon. Looks like, even with stiff competition, the season will be successful.

Lawrence, Kan., was the destination of Kathy McCre and her family when they left Thursday. They planned to spend a week with Kathy's grandmother there.

A miscellaneous shower was given for LaRue Casey Hickman in Joyce Horne's home Thursday night. Hostesses for the affair were Sandra Webb and Joyce.

Several teen-agers from other towns have been here this week. Celia Holbrooks from Seminole is visiting Carlene Coleman. Celia plans to stay in Big Spring until Tuesday.

Another sophomore having company this week is Opal Hancock. Barbara Freund from Needville is here. Opal lived in Needville before she moved here, and she and Barbara were friends. Barbara plans to stay till next week.

Carol Bailey Sparks was honored with a shower Monday night at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Charles McLawin. The shower was given by Mrs. O. O. Brown, Mrs. Alva Porch, Mrs. Gordon Marchant, Mrs. Roger Sessions, and Mrs. McLawin. Some of those attending were Mrs. Paul Lawrence, Carol's mother, and Mrs. Jack Sparks, Jr., her mother-in-law. Carlene Coleman, Lucy Thompson, Loretta Bennett, Brenda Barr, Sue Arrick, Prissy Pond, Joan Washburn, and Arlinda Griffith.

Lynn King has really taken a liking to Big Spring. She has been here two weeks and plans to stay for two more. She is visiting Lynn Porter and is from Pueblo, Colo.

If any of you have moved here since school was out and have not registered, please go by the high school and register during the next two weeks. It will save a lot of time and trouble if you have your schedule made out before school starts.

MRS. BOB JONES (Photo by Bradshaw)

Jones - Williams Wedding Held In Garden At Home Of Harmon

The garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Harmon Jr., 405 Edwards Blvd., was the scene of the wedding of Nelda Kay Williams and Bob Jones Friday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Williams, 307 West Third; parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Jones, 1020 Stadium.

As the Rev. Maple Avery of the East Fourth Baptist Church read the wedding vows, the bridal party stood before an arch of white wrought iron. This was laced with huckleberry greenery and was flanked by white columnades holding white gladioli.

White tapers in hurricane lamps lighted the wedding scene for the informal double ring ceremony.

At an organ, LaVerne Cooper played a pre-nuptial prelude. She accompanied Carolyn Pate of Pecos, a cousin of the bride, as she sang "One Alone" and "Wonderful One."

White swiss organdy fashioned the dress of the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Worn over cotton satin, the fitted bodice featured a square neckline and short sleeves. These were extended with gaudlets of organdy matching the dress.

The walk length skirt was enhanced by a gathered inset of organdy. Seed pearls and rhinestones attached a fingertip veil of imported tulle.

couple, Linda Williams and Lynda Jones, were flower girls. They were frocked similarly to the feminine attendants, and they scattered flowers in the path of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony, with the mothers of the couple, joined by the junior Mrs. Harmon assisting in greeting guests.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over satin with bows of ribbon and lilies of the valley at each corner. Placed in front of a picture window, the table held a three tiered cake, which was served with punch by Mrs. Ben Hiit and Dorothy Arnold.

As a background for the table, the window held a row of blue tapers in white wrought iron holders. These were beneath a pair of wedding bells, sprinkled with glitter.

Mrs. Cain registered guests, and Mrs. Noel Hull helped with the hospitalities.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pate of Pecos and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moore of Searcy, Ark.

BRIDAL TRIP

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride was dressed in a beige cotton satin ensemble with bouffant skirt and square neckline. Her accessories were black, and she wore a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Jones is a graduate of Howard County Junior College and is employed by Texas Electric Service Company.

The bridegroom is a member of the sophomore class in HCJC and is employed by Hemphill-Wells Co. The couple will make a home at 710 Johnson.

The Harmon home was the setting of a rehearsal dinner Thursday evening. The bride's table was marked with a tiny bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley. Other tables were centered with miniature bags of rice. These were tied with blue maline and topped with wedding rings.

The dinner was served buffet style to about 30, who were then seated at foursome tables.

Changeable Wardrobe For Kindergarten Set

By DOROTHY ROE

Smart mothers have discovered the changeable wardrobe for the kindergarten set.

Grown-ups have been enjoying the mix-or-match idea for years, in blouses, skirts and jackets. But the younger set can achieve the same results with suspender dresses.

One New York designer, Celeste, has come up with the "duette" dress for pin-size glamor girls. It consists of an outfit in two parts, which may be worn separately and interchanged with other things.

The idea starts with a jumper and a coordinated under-dress, instead of the usual blouse, which is always pulling out at the waist. This acts as both blouse and petticoat, and is so carefully styled and finished that it can be worn separately, as another dress for school or play.

An added attraction is a separate petti-blouse in white pique to be worn with the same jumper, the top precisely tailored in the best blouse fashion, with tiny tucks and minute ocean-pearl buttons, attached to a full skirt with ruffled flounce.

Thus Mom can buy the jumper outfit, complete with under-dress, add a white petti-blouse, and have three outfits for her small school belle. All three are cut to go together, and extra petticoats are unnecessary.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Young of Lamesa.

She chose a matching hat of seed pearls and lace with white accessories. She carried a white Bible belonging to her sister, Otha Brown, with an arrangement of pink roses atop it.

MRS. KELLEY EDWARD LAWRENCE II

Joyce Edwards Repeats Vows With Kelley E. Lawrence II

In a formal candlelight ceremony Friday evening at 8, Joyce Eileen Edwards exchanged double ring wedding vows with Kelley Edward Lawrence II.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Luther Belton Edwards, 1412 East 11th. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Edward Lawrence, 543 Hillside Drive.

Vows were exchanged in the First Presbyterian Church before an altar arch decorated with seven branch candelabra surrounded by baskets of white stock and banked with commadore fern. The bridal couple stood before an arrangement of white stock flanked by two white columns surrounded with fern and topped with white tapers.

The chancel rail was lined with rows of lighted tapers. Marking the path for the wedding party was a white altar cloth bordered with pew candelabra and decorated with fern and white satin bows.

The formal, double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Richard Copeland, from San Antonio, cousin of the bride.

Wedding music played by Mrs. Louis G. Talley included "Arioso" by Bach, "Fragment From An Elude" by Chopin, "Intermezzo" by Provanst and "Within My Heart of Hearts" by Chopin.

Mrs. Talley accompanied Louis Loveless, Coahoma, cousin of the bride, as he sang "How Do I Love Thee" by Elizabeth Barrett Browning and the "Wedding Prayer" by Dunlap.

For the benediction Loveless sang "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Italian lace and tulle over taffeta. The gown was fashioned with a square picture neckline traced with scallops extending into brief sleeves. Long matching lace mitts ended in points over her hands.

The fitted bodice was complemented by the full tulle skirt featuring an overlay of lace panels and extending into a chapel length train. Her triple veil of French imported illusion fell from a tiara crown of Queen's lace encrusted with iridescent sequins and seed pearls.

Featured in the bridal bouquet of a yellow-throated white orchid and stephanotis trimmed in pearls, was a heirloom fan, 135 years old, which had belonged to the bride's great, great grandmother.

HEIRLOOM FAN
The fan was the traditional something old; for something new the bride wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom; for something borrowed, she had a lucky penny in her shoe, a gift from Janice Livingston, and the something blue was her set of blue garters.

Mrs. Wayne DeVaney of Lubbock, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Janice Livingston of Brownsville, Tenn., Margy Beth Keaton, Glenna Coffey and Maxine Rosson, all of Big Spring.

The attendants wore identical floor length gowns of misty pastel-toned organza. They were designed with molded bodice, featuring a soft-shouldered fold extending into panelled sashes which fell over their full shirred skirts. They wore matching short mitts and picture hats complemented with tiny fresh flowers.

The attendants' bouquets featured the theme of the wedding, "The Butterfly of Love." They were butterflies of tulle, sequins and tinted carnations. Each attendant's bouquet was in the same shade and tone of her individual colors of blue, pink, orchid, yellow and green.

John Arthur Lawrence, served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Richard Laswell, Farmington, N. M., William Satterwhite, Lamasa, Carl Burnett, Austin; Sam Thurman, Carol Belton and George Clark, all of Big Spring.

Flower girl was Brenda Copeland of San Antonio, dressed in a misty blue organza gown with matching hair flowers. Brandt Copeland of San Antonio carried the rings on a satin pillow covered in Chantilly lace.

Altar taper lighters were Rosalie DeVaney and Kennard Lawrence, brother of the bridegroom. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the garden of the home of Mrs. Leon Moffett, grandmother of the bride.

Assisting the bridal couple in the receiving line were each of the parents and the bride's attendants. Tall hurricane lamps lighted the path to the receiving line and those receiving stood before a background of greenery and snow mist. The entire garden was indirectly lighted to give a "moon-glow" appearance. Hurricane tapers were at vantage points.

The organ, played by Betty Guthrie, was centered with baskets of white stock.

BRIDE'S TABLE
The refreshment table was laid with a white deep-ruffle skirted organza cloth. It was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and pastel butterflies. At one end of the table the bride's three tiered wedding cake was placed. The cake was decorated with white roses and trimmed with white satin leaves which were placed in a froth of maline and topped by a miniature bride and groom. At the opposite end of the table was the crystal punch service.

Rice was distributed in a silver serving bowl to guests by Jean Robinson.

Serving was done by Mrs. H. Richard Copeland of San Antonio, Mrs. John A. Deffebach of Abilene, Mrs. Ray H. Shaw and Mrs. Savoy Kay, both of Big Spring.

In charge of the register was

Mrs. Elven DeVaney of Coahoma. Other members of the house party included Mrs. A. L. Lawrence, San Antonio; Mrs. C. H. DeVaney, Coahoma; Mrs. Escot Compton; Mrs. Jack Robinson; Mrs. Ross Boykin; Mrs. Raymond River; Mrs. H. G. Keaton; Mrs. Gilbert Gibbs; Mrs. Frank Martin; Mrs. Friend Talbot and Mrs. Coy Nalley.

For the wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado, the new Mrs. Lawrence chose a traveling suit of Italian combed cotton in spice tones of brown and black. The suit was fashioned on sheath lines with a scoop neck and brief sleeves and topped with a waist jacket with a black velvet collar. She wore black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

After the honeymoon the couple will make their home at 1505 A. Sycamore in Big Spring. The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Christian College in Columbia, Mo., where she was a member of the Drama and Art Guild and a reporter on the college newspaper, The Microphone.

The groom was graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Texas University where he was a member of Kappa Alpha, men's national fraternity. Lawrence is now employed by Cosden Petroleum Corp. in the chemical sales division.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. James Fowler and Mack of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. John A. Deffebach of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lawrence of San Antonio; Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Petteway of Midland; Mrs. E. C. Middlebrook of Kilgore; Mr. and Mrs. Strauss Baker of Hobbs, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Livingston of Brownsville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Ewert, Pauls Valley, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Edwards, Kermitt; Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Edwards, Odessa and Earnest Morrow of Hobbs, N. M.

Miss Fletcher Is Wed To Jimmie Roy Porter

FORSAN—In a semi-formal, double ring ceremony Friday night Lela Maye Fletcher became the bride of Jimmie Roy Porter in the Main Street Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Fletcher of Forsan, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Alice Porter, 1607 State St.

The ceremony was performed by C. C. Gobbelt, uncle of the groom, from Santa Fe, N. M., before an altar decorated with a basket of white gladioli in the center and white cathedral tapers on each side. Three tall palms in the background completed the decorations. A group composed of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conley, Mrs. C. A. Boyd, Mrs. Edsel Maddox, Lou Ann Nall and Stanley Peurifoy sang "O Promise Me," "The Wedding Prayer," "The Wedding March," and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." Mrs. W. M. Romans of Forsan gave the reading, "How Do I Love Thee."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of Chantilly lace over imported cotton with a fitted bodice and cap sleeves. The dress was designed with a V neckline and was accented by short lace mitts tapered at the hand.

A shoulder length imported illusion veil was secured to a tiara of seed pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls with matching earrings.

The bridal bouquet was a white glabella centered on a white Bible and showered with white picot ribbon and white agapanthus.

For something old, the bride carried a silk handkerchief that had belonged to her grandmother, Brailey. Her bridal apparel was new and the Bible she carried was borrowed from her aunt, Mrs. Pearl Qualls of San Diego, Calif. She wore a blue garter with a penny in her shoe.

Lovelle Fletcher, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of blue antique taffeta fashioned after the bride's dress. Her headpiece matched her dress and was finished with clusters of small roses at the sides. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of glabella.

Bill Earley of Big Spring was best man. Doyle Maynard and Don Swinney served as ushers.

Sherrice Fletcher, sister of the bride, and Enola Whitworth of Denison, cousin of the bridegroom, were altar taper lighters. They wore dresses identical to the bride's and wore wristlets of white carnations.

Mrs. Fletcher wore a sheath dress of tulle in rose-beige, black accessories with a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a black sheath dress of Italian raw silk featuring a wide sailor collar. With this, she wore black and white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

For a wedding trip to points in South Texas, the bride chose a brown linen coat dress with self covered buttons. It was princess style and opened down the front. She wore beige accessories and a corsage from the bridal bouquet.

A reception was held after the wedding in the church parlor. In the receiving line were the parents of the bride, the bridegroom's mother, and the bride couple.

Flowers from the wedding were the decorations, and the refreshment table was laid with a white linen cloth.

A three tiered cake with white roses was topped with the traditional bride and groom and was served by Myrna Sprunt. Punch was served by Paula Lewis.

Barbara Whitworth of Denison, cousin of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest register. Mr. and Mrs. Porter will make their home at 1607 State until the school term opens at A&M College at Bryan.

The bride was a 1954 graduate of Forsan High School and attended Howard County Junior College for two years where she was editor of "El Nido," the college paper, sophomore favorite and listed in Who's Who. She is now employed by Cosden Petroleum Corp.

The bridegroom was graduated from Big Spring High School in 1954 and is in the ROTC program at A&M College, where he will be a junior at the beginning of the fall term.

Activities, Responsibilities Helpful To Mental Patients

By NITA HEDLESTON

Ever think of patients in a mental hospital being shut off from the rest of the world with nothing to do but sit idly in a cold, dark room?

This isn't the picture at the local State Hospital. Many of the over 700 patients have responsible duties and jobs which they perform daily contributing to the welfare of the patients as well as the hospital.

The local hospital is very dependent on the contributions of work done by the patients themselves. Patients find work in the kitchen, general hospital, and in many other jobs around the hospital.

The responsibility of doing a certain job is a great help to the patients. Walking through some of the wards, some of the patients may be found sitting on the steps holding their hands. If these patients are given a job such as shining silverware in the kitchen they soon feel that this is their own special job, that no one else can do it. They feel important because they have a responsibility.

A thick, green carpet of grass covers the ground around the hospital buildings. This is the result of hours of watering and mowing done by men patients.

A beauty shop operator is able to keep women patient's hair looking nice. One operator is provided by the state. She gives permanents in a little shop in one of the buildings. A patient assists her by visiting the wards and taking care of those patients who cannot come to the shop. Two other patients assist her.

Flowers are taken to one of the buildings after the Sunday Church service. A committee of patients arranges the flowers for the service and is then in charge of distributing the flowers to the buildings.

A patient is in charge of the library. Although only about 5 books may be used each day, there is a responsibility in the job. Other jobs are responsible for seeing that books are taken to the ward patients.

The spotless, light-colored walls and shining floors are kept that way—yes, by the patients under the supervision of a housekeeper. Certain patients mop the floors every day. As a result the hospital is almost sterile with cleanliness.

Many patients do their own personal laundry. There is one ironing board and iron in each of the women's wards and more could be used. Many of the ironing board pads are worn out quickly and need replacing.

The occupational therapy program in the hospital keeps many of the patients occupied. Three workers are employed and three or four clubwomen from Midland and Big Spring volunteer their services in this work each Tuesday and Thursday.

Some of the projects carried on by the women in the therapy are embroidery, crocheting, Swedish weaving, cutting strings for rugs, and weaving the rugs out of the strings and also out of silk stockings. Any old scraps of material or worn-out hose are welcome donations at the hospital. Scraps as little as an inch wide and of any length are used in the rug-making.

In addition to this the women also clean and paint ceramics.

They do appliques and make corsages out of ribbons and artificial flowers.

The men work with leather and turn out beautiful hand-tooled billfolds, belts and purses. They also weave rugs and do some wood-working.

Most of the equipment is provided by the state. The rest has been donated.

Around 20 to 40 patients are accommodated each day in the occupational therapy ward. Here it is felt that the best set-up would be to have one worker to each three patients. This, of course, would call for more volunteer workers. With the patients who are in the worst state of mental health, there is really a need for one volunteer to each person because it is harder for this type of patient to learn unless someone does the project along with them. Such jobs as winding string into a ball are done by these patients.

Besides the jobs open to the patients, there are various kinds of entertainment provided for them, although the activities slack off during the summer because most of the organizations usually providing the entertainment are taking vacations.

Patients are taken outside for walks in the park on days which are not so hot. One side of the park is for the men patients, the other for the women.

Games such as horseshoes can be played and there is hope for a shuffleboard court to be set up in the future. Many patients enjoy playing the piano in the day room of one of the new buildings.

many of the radios are old and almost worn out. All of these have been donated to the hospital.

Movies are shown on Tuesday nights and each Wednesday night a group from town plays music for a dance. Patients with party privileges are allowed to attend.

Sunday, church services are held in the afternoon with choirs from various churches providing the music and the hospital chaplain, Clarence E. Thiele bringing the sermons. Catholic services are held on Thursday.

Patients in the local hospital can keep occupied by the activities

DeMille Turns 75, Is Still Champion

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11 (AP) — Cecil B. DeMille, a vigorous living legend and the man who gave the world Hollywood, will be 75 tomorrow.

And still champion!

It's a matter of glee in the Paramount accounting office that DeMille's epic, mostly based on biblical themes, have been seen by an estimated five billion people—roughly twice the earth's inhabitants. Box office returns total nearly three quarters of a billion dollars.

The biggest is yet to come — "The Ten Commandments," which has occupied DeMille's 12-hour working days for the last five years, will be released in November.

It started out with a tentative budget of six millions but DeMille now has the cost up to 13 millions. It may be the first 15-million-dollar production in movie history.

Y. Frank Freeman, head of the studio that's financing the movie, hasn't even seen a rough cut yet, but knows that any DeMille epic, no matter the cost, always makes money.

A movie maker who spends money like water yet with the judgment of a banker, DeMille shrugs off the cost of "The Ten Commandments."

"It's not the money that counts. What is important is whether I'm good enough to do justice with the story. The story of Moses is needed in a world tense with the threat of the H-bomb."

To DeMille, the story of Moses is the second greatest story of mankind. He made the first in 1927 as "The King of Kings," the life of Jesus. It has never stopped playing some place in the world since its release—almost 30 years ago.

DeMille boasts that he never earned a cent from "The King of Kings."

"And," he adds, "I won't take a cent from "The Ten Commandments." It will all go to charity."

It will be DeMille's 70th picture, but not his last.

"I would rather wear out than rust," he says. "I'll never retire."

Upcoming under the DeMille banner is a musical version of an earlier hit "The Buccaneer." Others will direct and produce it.

"I'll just be the chairboy," insists DeMille.

The chairboy is an important cog in the DeMille machine. When DeMille wants to sit down, he does so without ever looking back. It's the chairboy's chore to see that the chair is there. It always has been.

DeMille is an amazingly fit man. His bald head is tanned from gardening. In his off hours he spades, digs ditches, hauls dirt. There's a little stoop in his shoulders now, his hair fringe is a little whiter, but his thinking, talking and seeing are those of a man a good 10 years younger.

The Patchwork System On Tax Values

The board of equalization which has been reviewing values for the city and the school district has gone into a ticklish situation, which is no novel circumstance for any panel assigned to adjust taxable values.

After considerable review, the board has increased the taxable rate on practically all property along Fourth Street, on the theory that the opening of this street as a main traffic thoroughfare has enhanced this property.

This, of course, has merit insofar as many parcels of property are concerned. It would seem that other pieces of real estate and improvements may already have been in line with other comparable downtown property.

Such things can be arrived at, of course, only through sound survey and judgment of men who are familiar with ground and building values. There certainly is no intent here to question any particular item that the board may have entered upon the books. An equalization board's chore is difficult enough at best. Nobody is ever completely satisfied, and it is fairly certain that some protests will be lodged when public hearings are held August 15 and 16 on the new value ratings.

The obstacle before any board of equalization is really the point we wish to make plain. The obstacle will remain for this board and that of any future years until some steps are taken for an overall valuation survey for the city and school district. The county values ought to be in there, too, for re-study, but that makes another long story.

Two things are pointed up, it seems to us, in the Fourth Street action. One of these is the need for a complete re-evaluation, and the other (actually part of the same) is due consideration for the new trend in business properties. If business is going to the suburbs, then there is a possibility that downtown values cannot go above current levels, and that the new business area values correspondingly may be higher.

The base arrangement for city and school property values is still that of 1940. New construction and improvements have taken place since then, and have been duly taken note of on the tax rolls. But we have outgrown the old tax value tables, and good governmental business would indicate that it's time for a general overhaul. The continued patchwork system is not good business, and probably never entirely fair and equitable.

No Entry Into China For Newsmen

WASHINGTON — Secretary Dulles is getting some brickbats for it, but he is eternally right in insisting that American newspapermen should not be granted any preference over other Americans who wish to pursue their particular businesses on the territory of Communist China.

The government of the United States has a definite policy, which is to refuse passports to any American who wishes to go to the mainland of China. Permission, for example, was refused to the parents of the American fliers who were imprisoned by Red China. The Red China government invited them. It was a tough thing to have to refuse parents a chance to see their loved ones. Similar permission has been withheld from businessmen seeking to make deals with the Red Chinese in disregard of existing embargoes on trade.

Newsmen naturally feel they are in a different class and that, in seeking information, they are not engaging in business, but, so far as the Department of State is concerned, it must treat all Americans alike, whether they are in the publishing business or the grain business. It cannot today let Americans engaged in the newspaper business pursue their work in Red China and tomorrow turn down the requests for similar privileges sought by other Americans engaged in other businesses who may wish to enter Red China for brief or prolonged visits.

An argument can, of course, be made that the newsmen will bring out new facts, that they will not be "brainwashed" and that they will be objective and impartial. But the State Department cannot be concerned with the quality of the work that might be done by any American. It is not refusing to validate passports just because it is in any way afraid that American newsmen will be unduly influenced. What it is afraid of is that, if the doors are opened to one set of Americans, they must be opened to all other Americans in business, and this is not considered a desirable step to take at this time.

One reason for the policy is that the Red China government has refused to release imprisoned Americans, notwithstanding solemn promises given more than a year ago that this would be done. Another reason is that the United States, as a member of the United Nations, is really in a state of war with the Red China government. Even the members of the Neutral Commission, like Sweden and Switzerland, who were supervising the Korean war armistice signed at Panmunjom have not been permitted to go north of the armistice line to make the inspections which the armistice agreement expressly provided for.

Under such circumstances, the invitation by the Red China government is plainly a propaganda trick which the United States government must expose as such and must insist is transparently insincere. For there are hundreds of Americans still in jail there—the exact number is unknown—and Red China refuses to let any neutral Red Cross personnel go in to find out the truth.

Strictly speaking, the United States government is obligated to protect the lives and property of its nationals abroad. If those citizens to whom passports are issued are made captive, they can, in accordance with tradition, rely on the armed forces of the United States to come to their rescue. It doesn't help the State Department at this time to say that in all probability the Communist Chinese wouldn't really harm the American newsmen if they went to China. The State Department couldn't make a convincing case to the American people later on if harm befell the American newsmen—it couldn't say that the Department let them enter a war area on the supposition that the Red Chinese leaders would refrain from doing them harm. The record of Peking regime is the record of gangsters in government. Pledges and agreements have been broken right along.

But supposing every American newsmen would sign a waiver of liability and free his government from any obligation to protect him or to intercede for him if he were taken prisoner, so that all newsmen who entered would be doing so at their own risk, it might be asked if this would satisfy the State Department. The answer would be negative. For other American businessmen might choose to apply for the same privilege, and the result would be commercial intercourse of a clandestine nature which the American government could not even tacitly encourage.

It is more important for the American newsmen to support their own government's efforts to secure compliance by the Red China with international obligations, and particularly adherence to agreements already signed with the United Nations, than to assist the Red Chinese in attempting to embarrass the American government. For the Red Chinese, who have never atoned for their crime in killing 33,500 and wounding 103,000 American boys in the war of aggression in Korea, have achieved their objective. They see American newspapers severely criticizing their own government for "erecting the bamboo curtain," and all this because the State Department can make no exceptions between businessmen when the stakes are so great and the moral issues so clear.

No Complaints

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Judge M. C. Lewis Jr. reports that a marital triangle case was settled out of court — in fact, right outside the courtroom.

The wife was accused of making telephone threats to another woman. The judge took no punitive action, but admonished the two women to leave each other alone.

Wife, hubby and the other woman left the courtroom together. Seconds later there was a sound of a vigorous slap. A witness told the court it was delivered by the "other woman."

No further complaints.

"Whenever a horse gets loose, everybody around here thinks it's mine. I only own six," he said.

World Wants Goods, And Is Ready To Pay For Them

This pulsation, this expectation of boomier things, is worldwide. It overshadows the ruckus over the Suez Canal. It transcends the coming election in the United States. It helps to explain why so many American business men say, "No matter who wins, Eisenhower or somebody else, the country's going forward."

The $3.50-a-ton advance in steel prices is one of the pulse beats. So is the strength in copper, after a period of weakness. The world wants goods. And is ready to pay — with cash or credit. The pause in production — from late last year into the spring — seems to be drawing to an end. Recovery is well under way — on a world scale.

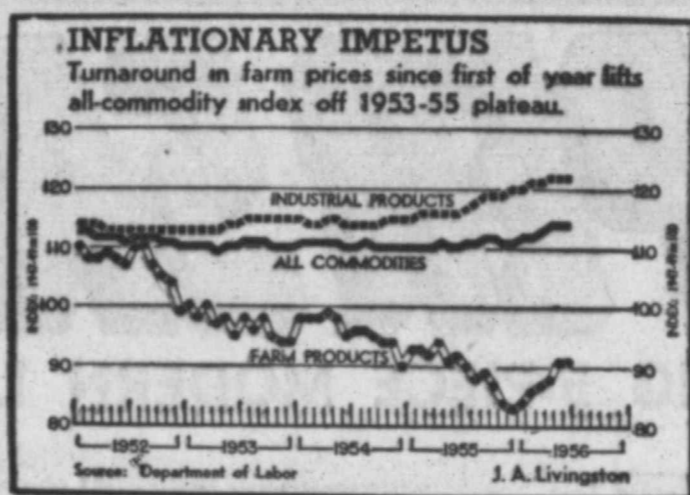

That's why prices creep higher — in Canada, in Chile, Egypt, France, Denmark, India, Israel, Japan, Mexico, The Netherlands, Switzerland, the United Kingdom, and Yugoslavia. And now in the United States.

Here, divergent trends produced a prolonged price plateau during 1953, 1954, and 1955 (see chart). Farm products were declining, much to the discomfiture of farmers, farm equipment manufacturers and dealers, and the Eisenhower administration, especially Secretary of Agriculture Benson. But industrial prices kept climbing, which also annoyed farmers. They had to pay more for what they bought.

However, since the first of the year, agricultural prices have joined the dance. Hence, renewed talk of creeping inflation here, talk which was stimulated by the wage settlement in steel.

This pulsation is dramatically indicated by world production trends. We know what has happened in the United States. Industrial activity climbed to a peak in December — 144 in the Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production. Then, automobile sales skidded; so did home building. By March, the index had fallen to 141. It rose a bit, then in June fell back to 131. In July, the steel strike probably pushed it down to about 135.

Now recovery has set in. But production won't get back to its pre-strike level until September — largely because so many steel plants lost the first two weeks of August, waiting for contracts to be signed, getting men back to work, and building up output. This optimistic forecast is supported by the economic goings-on in other countries.

Two patterns stand out. In some countries, such as Austria, Belgium, Denmark, western Germany, Italy, and Sweden, industrial production hit a 1955 high late last year — along about October or November. Then activity dropped until about January or February. Then upturns began — upturns which have not carried activity to the 1955 highs. Here are some examples (1953 equals 100):

Period	Belgium	Italy	Sweden
1955-High	128	125	122
1956-Low	115	114	113
Latest	125	122	120

In some countries, notably France, Japan, Canada, and The Netherlands, industrial production has already pushed up to or above the 1955 peak, thus:

Period	France	Japan	Canada
1955-High	131	131	114
1956-Low	128	119	104
Latest	136	140	114

Neither the United Kingdom nor the United States fits into either pattern. In both countries, the government introduced monetary restraints — to curb inflation. Neither has yet had a perceptible recovery, after the drop from the peak.

The boost in interest rates in the U. S. did not disturb confidence or the propensity of people to spend — notwithstanding Harlow H. Curtis, president of General Motors Corp. He blamed the slump in automobile sales on the Federal Reserve Board's credit policy. A parent, consumers had their fill of 1955's 8,600,000 cars, but not of general merchandise. Department store sales this year are 4 per cent ahead of 1955.

The Reserve isn't anticipating isn't rushing in with restraint. It wants to see if automobile production booms, if steel runs short, if employment rises from its already exceptional high. If so, further credit curbs are certain.

Wall Street's different. Investors and speculators figure inflation's around the corner, if not here. That's why government bonds have fallen and why stock prices rallied so promptly from the Suez-Canal drop. Wall Streeters reasoned that is unlikely, whereas the general economic pulse, as indicated by prices and production, is beating faster and more strongly.

Snakes Alive

HYDEN, Ky. (AP)—Snakes alive, that was the trouble at Greasy Creek.

Sheriff Carl Farmer got a report a man was poking a big rattlesnake in the faces of pedestrians and motorists—reaching inside the car to waive it in the driver's face.

"People were running in the mountains through the dryer, and some were leaving their cars on the road," a newspaper account said.

The sheriff said he arrested the gent—who had been drinking considerably and had parted ways with the snake.

The five-year-old Reading youngster tumbled from the top of the 18-foot high board to the ground below.

Hospital attendants said the boy didn't suffer a scratch.

There's An Art To Peeling Peaches

There are mice in our house, but this does not necessarily mean we have to get personal about it. No man, I suppose, cares to admit to any degree of mousiness, yet where is the man who can forever resist the pleas and demands of his soul-mate in a household emergency?

Take canning peaches. I suppose that constitutes an emergency. Or at least the peach-canning came as a sort of surprise. Some fine friends over North Texas way sent us a basket of peaches, right out of the blue.

Beautiful ones, too. Just right for eating, ice-cream making — and preserving.

I like peaches, and even peach preserves, but always proceeded on the theory that the preserves were much tastier if my only contribution was taking the top off the jar when time came to eat.

So, my own suggestion was that we just eat the peaches, as is. The Dream Girl felt like this might be overdoing it a bit, from a diet standpoint, and that we might get tired of even the delectable North Texas peaches. OK, I said, then freeze some of them. As you would automatically know, fellows, there is absolutely no more room in the freezer, and if we had a bigger one, which has been suggested on numerous occasions, the peach-freezing might be possible. But as of today, no.

All right, then, my next thought was to give peaches to our friends. For one thing, friends also have peaches — as seen as though the crop all moves in at one time — and besides, it's much more neighborly to give friends a jar of peach preserves than just fresh peaches. Don't ask me why. That's the way it is.

Now, we are down to preserving. This calls for somebody to mount a precarious stepladder to drag out some jars off the top shelf of the storage room in the garage, and guess who fell off the ladder, breaking half-dozen jars in the process?

But one can always get more jars, so the next step in the procedure is to get the peaches peeled. This is where we get back to the man-or-mouse routine. A self-respecting head of the household would grab his golf clubs and take off, leaving the peaches to be peeled by a feminine hand. The male with the mousy characteristics would be prevailed upon to sit down, put a bowl between his knees to catch the peelings, grab up a paring knife and start this fruit surgery.

There is more art to peeling peaches than you would at first think, unless you are an old canner hand. It's easy to let the peeling be real thick, but this consumes too much of the peach. It is also easy to get juice all over you until you feel like a outside piece of flypaper. It is also easy to develop multiple arthritis in finger joints long ago withered away from non-use of a paring knife. It is also easy to contract grave respiratory troubles from breathing too much peach fuzz. And even if the peach fuzz doesn't get up your nostrils, it stings like heck over all other parts of the body.

It was quick to see that the peaches at our house would not do for pickling, since a blue-ribbon jar of pickled peaches has to have the fruit entirely uniform. If the peeler messes 'em up a bit, you can manage preserves, or, as a last resort if the fruit is entirely mangled, you could try peach marmalade.

We've got some new peach marmalade at our house, and I am so proud of this stuff that I don't hardly feel mousy no more.

Stassen Finds Support Against Nixon

WASHINGTON—Regardless of what the Republican regulars and the professional say—and they believe that they have already slammed the door on his "open convention" proposal to substitute Governor Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts for Vice-President Richard M. Nixon—a sampling of the thousands of letters coming to Harold E. Stassen shows a wide response from almost every part of the country.

Stassen, who drew down the wrath of the Republican organization when he came out for an Eisenhower-Herter ticket, says the mail is running about two to one in his favor. Many letters contain contributions ranging from $1 to $1,000. The contributions in one morning's mail added up to nearly $2,000.

A sampling by this reporter of favorable mail received over four or five days shows several things.

First of all, it indicates that the letters are not from the extremists or screwball fringe but from solid citizens, with a preponderance of lawyers, doctors, ministers and other professional people. Many are from independent voters, many from Democrats who say they voted for President Eisenhower in 1952. Some are from lifelong Republicans.

A large majority say they want to vote for President Eisenhower again but they cannot do so if Nixon is on the ticket.

Geographically, California leads, but the populous industrial states on the eastern seaboard are close behind. Letters have come from every state in the Union.

"We voted for President Eisenhower in 1952," a Los Angeles minister writes, "but we will be very reluctant to vote for him this time if Nixon is the Vice-Presidential candidate in the light of all the circumstances. Keep up your crusade to get a free convention and the strongest possible ticket."

"I am chairman of Ward 8 of the Republican party in my town and I know there are many people who would be inclined to vote Democratic if Mr. Nixon is again the running mate of our beloved President," writes a lawyer in a small Massachusetts community.

"In a recent informal canvass of some of my friends in the Independent Voters League, I determined that of 51 people with whom I spoke, 48 registered Republicans will vote Democratic if Nixon is forced upon them as Eisenhower's running mate for the next election," a Philadelphia correspondent says.

Some writers say that they have nothing against Nixon and they even express admiration for him, with the limitation that they do not believe he is up to being President.

One correspondent in Buffalo, N. Y., says he is 25 years old, a member of the New York Young Republican Club who voted for Mr. Eisenhower in '52 but is "dead opposed" to Nixon out of a conviction that the Vice-Presidential nominee "should always, and rarely is, viewed in the light of Presidential successor."

"I like Ike," a writer in a small town in Missouri told Stassen, "and I want him to win, but just as sure as Nixon is nominated for Vice-President, the Republican party is out."

"If Mr. Nixon is renominated as Vice-President," a writer in a small town in California declared, "I shall be compelled to go back to the Democratic party."

"You've voiced the hopes and wishes of millions of independent and articulate voters who will not vote for Mr. Eisenhower if Nixon is on the ticket," a lawyer in Hartford, Conn., wrote an expensive engraved stationery.

Vice-President Nixon's associates have let it be known that he, too, has received a large volume of mail since Stassen touched off the controversy, and virtually all of it is favorable to Nixon: The belief in the Stassen camp is that this comes from regular Republicans whose loyalty to Nixon cannot be doubted. But Stassen's point is that if the GOP is to win, the support of independent voters is vital.

Technique In Bringing Out The Best

It is the assembling together of God's riches, His powers, His greatness and His goodness. It is in you, and, by wise and proper use of it, you can change anything in your life that needs changing and overcome any difficulty.

There is no reason at all why any of us should not be our best selves, giving and doing our best. There is no reason why we should be defeated and victimized by anything. You can draw a bow across the strings of a violin and, if you know how to do it properly, if you know the technique, you can awaken that instrument and bring out the most beautiful music from within it. How do you awaken a human being and bring out the best within him? You must know the technique.

Fortunately for all of us, the technique is relatively simple. It is thinking and believing in terms of faith. And what is faith? Faith is the releasing mechanism of a human being. It is not merely intellectual assent to some doctrine, proposition or creed. It is belief, and the Bible uses that word in its real Anglo-Saxon sense, deriving, as it does, from a word meaning "akin to God."

So, the secret is to achieve a real sense of being akin to God. It is more than merely affirming that you have faith and that you believe — it is living by that faith and that belief. And, when you actually live by it, you are bound to bring out the best that is within you.

There is nothing theoretical about this process. I have seen it happen to thousands of people and am certain it can happen to you. Never forget the basic fact about yourself — you are greater and finer than you think. Follow the technique I have suggested and you will awaken yourself to a better life than you have ever known before.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 10:10 — "I came that they may have life, and have it abundantly." (RSV)

Too many people think of religion as a straight jacket. They see its fetters, they fail to see its wings. They forget that true release can only come through restraint.

The athlete restrains himself in his eating that he may be free to win races. The musician accepts the drudgery of practice that he may win mastery in his art. The Saint disciplines his body that his soul may soar.

One would hardly say that Jesus of Nazareth lived a narrow life. True, he renounced some things, but what he found through such renunciation far exceeded what he lost. And what he found he wants his disciples to find. He came that they might have life. His ultimate gift is not a straight jacket but a crown.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

Big Springers are summer book readers. Howard County Library statistics show that more folk borrow more books in the summer months than they do in the cooler months of the year.

For example, the circulation report for the library for the current month, if present trends hold, will be more than 7,000 volumes. There

LETTER

Public Service Idea In County Government

To the Editor:

I want to commend you on your editorial August 3 pertaining to County Government. I certainly agree with your thoughts along this line, and I think that the time is here when the people in Howard County should begin thinking of electing men that will devote their time and knowledge to the benefit of our County. There certainly isn't any more responsibility in handling the county's business than there is in handling the City's or School's business affairs, and we certainly have capable men in these positions that are giving their time without any remuneration.

Target Device Saves Money

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M. (AP)—A rocket target device developed by New Mexico A&M College has saved many thousands of dollars in rocket operations here.

The target device is itself a rocket, called "Pogo," which vaults very quickly to extremely high altitudes and presents a parachute-suspended radar target appearing much like an airplane on radar scopes.

Capt. J. C. Parham, Jr., of the Navy range here said that in two years' use the rocket has saved probably enough money to pay for several days' operation of the entire range.

In many shoots, it was explained, it is necessary to use a speeding target. The expenditure of such an expensive "drone" as a B-17 bomber, an F-80 jet or similar conversion is no longer an obstacle.

Eleanor Reports Doctors Told FDR To 'Go Ahead'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times quoted Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today as saying doctors told her husband less than three months before his campaign for a fourth term that he "could quite easily go on with the activities of the presidency."

Mrs. Roosevelt recalled, the Times said, that the President underwent a series of physical examinations in May, 1944. She said the only advice given by the doctors, who found him "well and active," was that he should "rest every day" to ease a weakened heart.

The Times said this utterance of Mrs. Roosevelt's took on significance in view of President Eisenhower's statement yesterday that he planned to have a further physical examination before election to determine his own fitness for another term.

Roosevelt died of a cerebral hemorrhage April 12, 1945, at 63, about three months after his inauguration for a fourth term.

Converiplane Clocked At 200

ST. LOUIS (AP)—McDonnell Aircraft Corp. reports its XV1 converiplane hit 200 miles an hour, unofficially exceeding the speed record for helicopters.

McDonnell said the revolutionary craft, a combination of helicopter and airplane, reached the speed during a flight evaluation program conducted by the Air Force's Research and Development Command.

Capt. Wayne W. Eggert, test pilot, made 39 flights in which five conversions were accomplished from helicopter rotor takeoff to airplane forward flight and back to rotor for landing.

Hot Job

DENVER (AP)—Destruction of 30,000 napalm incendiary bombs, a fearsome World War II weapon, Mountain Arsenal.

"The bombs are obsolete and there is no alternative but to destroy them," said Col. William A. Johnson, acting commander of the Army chemical corps at the arsenal.

He estimated it will take at least two years.

The 500-pound bombs are burned in a large pit in a corner of the arsenal. Only a few of the bombs are destroyed a day because they burn so fiercely. The steel casings will be sold for scrap.

libraries in other cities restrict the number of books a patron may remove at one time to two or three. In the Howard County Library, the standard time for all books is two weeks—regardless of whether the books is a battered veteran in the stacks, or a brand new book which has just been officially enrolled in the book family.

Most libraries restrict the newer and more popular books to a single week and in some instances to even less time.

The system employed here seems to work smoothly. The low number of delinquent borrowers—reflected in the volume of fines collected—indicates that the average patron returns his volumes on time.

Meantime, a nearly constant flow of new books is received at the Howard County Library to augment the total of available volumes.

The library staff is hard pressed, because of the heavy traffic of borrowers, to find time to list, number and check in the shipments of new reading material which arrive.

New books on the shelves now include those of special interest to teen age boys and teen age girls, as well as a wide assortment of fiction of appeal to the adult readers.

In addition to the books listed, the library has a big assortment of new western novels and the always popular mystery stories.

Here's a list of some of the more

London's Browns Are Closing In On Smiths

By RAMON COFFMAN

LONDON -- In this enormous city, I have spent some time studying the names in the telephone directories. As a result I have discovered a few interesting facts, and am especially concerned with the fact that the Browns are threatening the Smiths for first place among families!

Four telephone directories in my hotel room cover various sections of the alphabet for Greater London. The Smiths are in one volume, the Browns in another, the Browns in a third. The A to D volume is thickest of the four, indicating that the early letters of the alphabet have more than their share of family names.

In the directories 15 columns of Miller are listed, and 30 columns of Taylor. There are two columns of Short families, and four columns of Longs.

The Thompsons (and Thomsons) fill 18 columns, and the Greens (and Greenes) account for the same number of columns. There are 21 columns of Johnsons, but this name is less popular in London than in some other big cities, including Chicago.

The Jones family continues to be important in London, as in other cities where English is the prevailing language. The Joneses account for 31 and a half columns in the London telephone listings.

At the top, nevertheless are the Smith and Brown families. The Smiths (and Smythes) fill almost exactly 63 columns, and the Browns (and Brownes) account for 57 columns.

It so happens that companies with Smith in the name have taken more telephone directory advertising than the Brown group. For this reason the Smith columns average a bit shorter than the Brown columns, and the Browns are even closer in number to the Smiths than the 63 and 57 figures suggest!

Cats Are Costly

SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP)—In Pottawatomie County cats are worth more than either horses or mules. County assessor Roy Black presented a report which showed six cats were assessed at $25 each, while 272 horses were valued at $5 apiece and 10 mules at $10 each.

You get more car when you buy it... more dollars when you sell it! Chevy has the highest resale value of the leading low-priced models!

Why people who used to buy higher priced cars are changing to Chevrolet

Sales and official registration figures show that the higher priced cars are losing more and more buyers to Chevrolet. And it isn't just because Chevy costs less, either!

If you buy a higher priced car instead of a Chevrolet, what do you get in return for those extra hundreds of dollars?

More room? No, because the difference in room is usually measured in fractions of inches—often in Chevrolet's favor!

Better roadability? Not with Chevrolet's wedded-to-the road stability and sure-footed cornering ability. Better performance? Well, Tom McCahill, automotive expert for Mechanix Illustrated, called Chevrolet "the greatest performance buy ever offered at any time in America!"

Smarter styling? A matter of opinion, of course. But Chevrolet shares Fisher Body styling with some of America's most expensive cars.

So it comes down to this. More and more buyers are deciding they'd rather drive a frisky, sweet-handling Chevrolet even if it didn't cost less! Wouldn't you?

Harry's Trouble

Little Jerry Mathers discovered Harry Werp lying in the Vermont woods, but who killed him... who buried him... and why won't he stay buried? The answer may be seen at the State Theatre. Name of picture: "The Trouble With Harry."

Hitchcock Has Gay Time With Murder Story

"The Trouble With Harry" is he's dead—and furthermore, he won't stay buried—but the reason for Harry's reappearance is something Director Alfred Hitchcock has asked those in the know not to tell.

The outrageous plot is all very simple to the star, Edmund Gwenn—a retired sea captain—he's been out hunting in the woods, mistook Harry for a rabbit and potted him—or did he?

Or did artist John Forsythe help Harry shuffle off? He has a painting of the dead man, and zany artists will go to any lengths for a model.

Hitchcock has only begun. An oddly calm Shirley MacLaine admits she's Harry's widow and, with a satisfied smile, says she conked him with a milk bottle after he left her sitting in her finest negligee on their wedding night.

Up pops Mildred Natwick, a prim spinster, with a tale about whacking Harry over the head with her hiking shoe after he made a pass at her in the woods.

Then the sheriff turns up a hobo wearing Harry's shoes. Forsythe admits he's in love with Harry's widow, Miss Natwick gets a crush on the captain, and the sheriff's wife remains oddly silent.

And meanwhile, Harry won't stay buried.

By this time there is suspicion and situation enough for Hitchcock to work with. He stirs in some racy dialogue and a little suspense and comes up with one of the year's top comedies.

"The Trouble With Harry" may be seen Sunday through Tuesday at the State Theatre.

Heiress Sued For Slander
LOS ANGELES (U)—An oil heiress has been sued for two million dollars by two Miami women she named as correspondents in her divorce complaint.

Mrs. Ann Meyers and Miss Faye Lyons charged yesterday that they were "slandered and libeled" by Mrs. Elsinore Machris in her cross-complaint for divorce from Roy Gilliland, Hollywood promoter.

Mrs. Machris, widow of oilman George Machris, was awarded a divorce June 13.

Mrs. Meyers, mother of three, charged in her complaint Mrs. Machris said she stayed with Gilliland in his Phoenix, Ariz., home in July, 1955.

Miss Lyons' complaint alleged Mrs. Machris accused her of intimacy with Gilliland at his Phoenix home and at a Las Vegas, Nev., resort during the same year.

Mrs. Machris and Gilliland began their marriage with a $30,000 champagne party at a Sunset bistro. It ended two years later with a property settlement that gave Gilliland $2,000 a month for life or until he remarries. He received community property including a home and motel in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Machris died in 1952 leaving his widow 15 million dollars.

Chandler Stars In Saga Of Pacific War

"Away All Boats," showing Sunday through Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre, is the saga of an amphibious war as seen through the eyes of one skipper from the deck of one attack transport.

The skipper is Jeff Chandler and the battle-scarred ship is the U.S.S. Belinda of the best-selling novel by Kenneth Dodson. Chandler is cast as the rugged veteran of a dozen ocean campaigns who builds a raw crew of officers and men into the toughest and most efficient amphibious team in the South Pacific.

Outstanding among supporting performances is George Nader as a boat group commander. Also starred are Lex Barker as executive officer, Richard Boone as ship's lieutenant and Keith Andes as ship's surgeon. The lone female of the cast is Julie Adams, who portrays Nader's wife.

Another star to whom due credit should be given is the U.S.S. Belinda, the pen name author Dodson gave the ship he actually served on through the battles he described in his book. The Belinda takes one of the worst beatings of any ship in the war.

Away All Boats!

That's the order shouted by Jeff Chandler in the above scene from the film of the same name. The film's title was taken from the "battle-cry" of the Pacific in World War II. With the shouting of "away all boats," the assault craft left the attack transports and headed for the beach. Life and death aboard an attack transport is the subject of the film.

Ryan Cast As Man Who Dodged Fight

Robert Ryan is cast as a man who once ran from a fight in "The Proud Ones," a top Western showing Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre.

Also starred are Jeffrey Hunter as a youth who seeks to avenge his father, killed by Ryan; Virginia Mayo as the girl who had urged Ryan to run; Walter Brennan, Robert Middleton and Arthur O'Connell.

Pleasant Murder?

It's just like Alfred Hitchcock. He figured the most pleasant setting for a murder would be autumn in the Vermont woods. Thus, his "The Trouble With Harry" boasts some of the most beautiful autumn scenery ever filmed.

Channel 4 Turns Time To Democratic Convention

At least 25 hours of telecast time will be included in KBST TV's schedule for coverage of the 1956 Democratic convention which gets underway at the Chicago International Amphitheater Monday.

In addition to pre-convention coverage this afternoon from 3:30 to 4 p.m., Channel 4 will televise proceedings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Monday. The local CBS affiliate will join the network on Tuesday from 7:30 to 10 p.m., and will hit a heavy schedule on Wednesday with eight hours from 1 p.m. to 5 o'clock and from 7:30 to midnight.

Thursday's slate for convention coverage runs from 1 p.m. to 5 o'clock, and 7:30 to 9 p.m. Final presentations are slated on Friday from 1 to 5 p.m., and from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

CBS has dispatched a crew of 225 people covering more than 50 different job categories to the convention site to present a full coverage of the presidential convention. It's a first for viewers of the Big Spring area who will have an opportunity to witness the historical proceedings as they take place in convention hall.

According to information from the network, a vest-pocket television camera, tiniest in the world, will be used by CBS News to provide viewers with close-ups of off-the-floor convention activity in crowded hotel-rooms, and lobbies normally inaccessible to standard studio cameras.

In addition, some 22 tons of massive technical equipment is presently being installed to present convention proceedings to an estimated audience of 100,000,000.

Fifty-six microphones have been installed on the floor to enable each delegation to be heard and viewers will join a squad of newsmen equipped with "walkie-talkies" as they range the convention floor.

The convention coverage means that several Channel 4 programs will be changed from their regular schedules:

MONDAY — Life With Father changed to 7 p.m.; Texas In Review changed to 9:30 p.m.

TUESDAY — Circle 4 Ramblers moved to Thursday at 7 p.m.; Liberate moved to Sunday, Aug. 12 at 7 p.m.; Gildersleeve changed to 10:20 p.m.; Waterfront moved to Friday at 9:30 p.m.

THURSDAY — Climax moved to 9 p.m.

Esther Loses Bathing Suit

LONDON (U)—American swimming star Esther Williams today ordered a new and lighter fitting bathing suit because the one she was wearing slipped off.

Performing her act at nearby Wembley Pool Miss Williams donned a special rhinestone bathing suit for her first entrance last night. Earlier in the day the shoulder strap had been re-lined to prevent it rubbing her neck. But no allowance was made for stretch.

Esther dived in, felt the strap pop and then in her horror, felt the suit slip off. She went to the bottom of the pool, hitched it up and tied it on with a necklace, while other performers cavorted above to divert attention.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH
You can always count on Director Alfred Hitchcock to come up with the unusual and the unexpected. He outdid himself in splicing together a difficult combination: murder and humor. "The Trouble With Harry" is an uproarious film about a man named Harry whose trouble, it turns out, is that he's dead. Naturally, a murder tends to bring complications of a sort into the lives of those who find themselves involved. Edmund Gwenn, the lovable counterfeiter of "Mr. 880," takes the lead in "The Trouble With Harry" with one of his best characterizations.

"Away All Boats" is rated top action fare in this milkytoast day and age when all too many "war" films are concerned with every point of the plot except the war. The producers can't keep away from inserting other themes, such as romances, but all-in-all, it's one of the best war stories. It is billed as the story of those Navy units whose main job was the landing of troops on Pacific Islands. Jeff Chandler stars.

"Jubal" is going to be worn out if it appears in Big Spring many more times. Still, if you missed it before, you would probably enjoy seeing it. That is, if you like Westerns.

"All That Heaven Allows" is good for the heartstrings. Strictly for those (particularly women) who like a good cry, but excellent for those purposes.

One of the late Charles Coburn's last pictures was "Has Anybody Seen May Gal?" It was also one of his best. Setting is in the "Roaring Twenties," when the song from which the film's title was taken was popular.

"Three Coins In The Fountain" is a semi-fantasy based on an old legend that those visitors who toss coins into a certain old Roman fountain will find true love ere they leave. Three lonely American women toss their coins, and sure enough, up pop three eligible. Rated as good light comedy, with romantic overtones.

Ed Sullivan To Stay In Hospital

DERBY, Conn. (U)—Ed Sullivan will be kept in the hospital five days more.

The complications of a bronchial condition have caused the longer stay for the TV master of ceremonies and syndicated columnist. He was one of four persons injured in a head-on automobile collision Monday. He suffered a fractured rib and abrasions of the nose and body.

Comedian Phil Silvers will substitute for Sullivan as "emcee" of the variety show Sunday.
