Banners Up For Johnson

With the placing of the name of Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas before the convention, his supporters poured into the aisles to set off this demonstration for him. His state sponsored him as a favorite son candidate for the presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket.

Slash Is Ordered In Texas Oil Allowable

AUSTIN — The flow of crude from Texas oil wells during September was decreased today by 73,505 barrels a day under the new allowable set by the Railroad Commission at 3,297,504 barrels.

The permissive flow was based on a statewide pattern of 15 days compared with 16 days for August.

Commission Chairman William Murray said the commission was much inclined toward 15 days because of the possible impairment of supplies from the Middle East where control of the Suez Canal was seized by Egypt.

However, he said since no oil company had requested more than 15 days the commission decided to go along with the 15-day pattern.

The only oil field in Texas which was excepted by the 15-day pattern was the Fort Chadborn field which was set on a 13-day pattern.

Commissioner Olin Culberson said "the daily average supply of domestic crude oil production is only 6.8 per cent above last year but crude oil imports are up 26.8 per cent."

He said there was only enough crude for a 34.5 day supply.

"Crude stocks of all kinds are only 5.3 per cent greater than they were last year while stocks of all products are appreciably down with the exception of gasoline—the long time offender—which is up 13.3 per cent," Culberson said.

The commissioner said crude stocks of Texas origin Aug. 4 totaled 123,400,000 barrels, a reduction from a year ago of 1,100,000.

"West Texas crude is up 3.8 per cent while all other Texas crude is down 16.2 per cent. Other domestic production in the United States is up 3.2 per cent while foreign stocks are up 23.6 per cent," he said.

These were the nominations by companies: 15 days, Sun, Texas, Continental and Humble; 14 days, Gulf, Magnolia, Stanolind, Shell, Sinclair, Atlantic and Cities Service; and 13 days, Phillips.

Carl Jones, said for Phillips the 13 day recommendation "is still more than we can use" but added that it might "create an opportunity to relieve the over supply situation."

He said at the last prorating hearing in July that the company might be forced to prorate its purchases but said today "It appears that we will get through August without having to prorate but we will be in trouble in September under the present allowable (16 days)."

Alfred Hall, for Cities Service told the commission his firm will need 116,800 barrels daily in September, an increase for 94,711 have to be replaced by domestic oil."

He said he thought "we should be ready for such a happening."

Culberson said "I don't know whether the industry locally is bothered by the Suez situation. But if those 10 million Arabs strike, I'm just wondering how much oil the companies are getting from the Middle East will be replaced by domestic oil."

Murray said the commission could increase the allowable in its September hearing for the rest of that month as well as October if necessary.

"Don't count Johnson out," Monroney said.

Johnson called the Texans into caucus to discuss the vice presidential situation. Rumors centering on Johnson flowed freely through the convention hall and hotel corridors last night.

In the vote for president, before the convention made it unanimous, Johnson got 80 including the 56 from Texas.

When Stevenson appeared after he was nominated, he was accompanied by Johnson. They shook hands warmly.

For the first time since 1944, Texas delegates cast their vote for the winning Democratic presidential nomination candidate at a national convention.

They got one foot on the thundering Adlai Stevenson train last night, just barely swinging aboard in time to be registered with his first and only ballot. Texas votes went as a unit for Johnson as the roll of the states was called.

Then, when the Stevenson victory was in the bag, Vice Chairman John Connally of the Texas delegation turned in his front row seat and shouted:

"Is it agreeable with the delegates to make it unanimous at the end of the roll call?"

The majority agreed. Connally waved the Texas standard and called in vain for recognition when Sam Rayburn, convention chairman, asked if any state wanted to change its vote.

Rayburn recognized Oklahoma for a motion to make the Stevenson vote unanimous, and Connally was obviously chagrined at having failed to get the ear or eye of the presiding officer.

The last time a Texas delegation had its votes on the convention winner was in 1944. Texas sent two delegations that year and both were seated. About half of the faction then identified as states righters walked out and the other half put all the Texas vote on Franklin Roosevelt.

The delegations to the 1948 and 1952 conventions voted for Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia to the bitter end. In 1948 the delegation was so badly bogged down in a row at a caucus off the floor that it even failed to register a vote for vice president.

The picture this year was in sharp contrast, with Johnson firmly in control and the delegation showing no sign of disunity or even unrest on major questions.

Connally placed Johnson's name in nomination as a loyal Democrat of "fierce courage" who "can and will work fulltime" to win for the party in November.

Connally praised Johnson's record as majority leader in the Senate, saying he has shown "unhesitating courage and total intolerance of bigotry."

Johnson's nomination was seconded by Sen. Allen Frear of Delaware and Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, both of whom lauded his leadership in the Senate.

Texans To Vote For Clement For 2nd Spot

CHICAGO — The Texas delegation voted unanimously today to cast its first ballot for Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee for vice president.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson, chairman, told the delegation he was not interested in the nomination and they told of the decision after a closed caucus.

Johnson said the situation was "very fluid and could change from time to time" and that Texas would caucus again after the first ballot.

"I will be very happy to cast Texas' 56 votes for Gov. Clement," Johnson said.

Johnson said he did not think the vice presidential nomination would be settled "any time soon" in the convention.

He said the Texas delegation had thoroughly discussed all candidates for the running mate spot before coming to its unanimous decision to go for Clement on the first round.

Johnson has insisted he does not want the job, but Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma said he understood Johnson might now be receptive to the nomination.

"Don't count Johnson out," Monroney said.

Johnson called the Texans into caucus to discuss the vice presidential situation. Rumors centering on Johnson flowed freely through the convention hall and hotel corridors last night.

In the vote for president, before the convention made it unanimous, Johnson got 80 including the 56 from Texas.

Demos In Scramble For 'Veep' Position

Health Likely Topic As Adlai Lays His Plans

CHICAGO — Adlai Stevenson, preparing to accept the Democratic presidential nomination today, laid out a campaign which appeared likely to stress state of the President's health.

In his latest two statements — one yesterday just before he won landslide nomination as bearer of the Democratic standard against President Eisenhower, and the other to the convention last night — Stevenson said:

1. There is "virtual paralysis" of progress under President Eisenhower's regime and this is "not due alone to the President's infirmity."

2. He is leaving it up to the convention to pick a vice presidential running mate, rather than designating one himself as is usual, because a vice president should be "fully equipped" to become president. No one man, he said, should take it upon himself to make so grave a choice.

Stevenson thus indicated "his campaign might be built around the spotlighting of the office of vice president. Such a campaign presumably would jab at what he called Eisenhower's "infirmity" and would also throw haymakers at Richard M. Nixon, expected to be Eisenhower's vice presidential running mate again.

"The choice for that office," Stevenson said, "has become almost as important as the choice for the presidency."

He gave his idea of the specifications for a vice president: "A person fully equipped first, to assist in the discharge of the duties of the most exacting job in the world, and second, to himself assume, if need be, this highest responsibility."

Stevenson goes before the convention tonight to make his formal acceptance speech. He told the bone-tired but still cheering delegates last night: "I have decided that the selection of the vice presidential nominee should be made through the free processes of this convention — so that the Democratic party's candidate for this office may join me before the nation not as one man's selection but as one chosen by our great party even as I have been chosen."

The American people, he said, must choose their vice president "with the utmost care." The reason for this, he said, is that the vice president "will be their president if the elected president is prevented by a higher will from serving his full term."

He recalled that 7 out of the 34 presidents stepped up from the vice presidency then the president died in office.

An estimated 100 persons called at Stevenson's Blackstone Hotel suite after his nomination to congratulate him.

They included Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn of Texas, Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York and several relatives, among them Stevenson's sons John Fell and Adlai Jr., and his sister Mrs. Ernest Ives.

Stevenson walked up to pay a courtesy call on New York Gov. Averell Harriman, quartered in a suite one floor above, but he made no call on former President Truman, five floors higher, who backed Harriman's bid for the presidential nomination.

Stevenson's nomination was seconded by Sen. Allen Frear of Delaware and Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, both of whom lauded his leadership in the Senate.

APOLOGY FOR AN ERROR

Through a mistaken reading of names on a county court complaint, The Herald in its issue yesterday made a gross error in a news item which said John W. Truly had been named in a liquor transportation complaint.

As a matter of truth and record, John W. Truly, an agent for the State Liquor Control Board, filed the complaint in county court, against another individual. The Herald confused his name as complainant with that of the defendant. Certainly, Mr. Truly was not the man charged.

The Herald sincerely regrets any embarrassment caused Mr. Truly, and is happy to set the record straight and extend its public apologies for the error.

No Letup In Sight For Heat Wave

The scorching August heat continued its pressure on Texas farmers, stockmen and citizens Friday.

Pvt. Harold Brody, 29, of Brooklyn died Wednesday at Ft. Hood after a heat stroke. Dallas had four heat stroke victims Thursday in the 107-degree temperature.

Water shortages plagued many cities. Ranges and crops browned and wilted under the merciless sun.

Seymour in North Texas had 110 degrees Thursday.

No rain was reported but scattered showers were forecast.

Dawn temperatures ranged from 84 at Dallas to 72 at Salt Flat.

More hot weather appeared in prospect today for the Southern and Central Plains and warm and humid in the South and most of the East.

France Proposes Suez Compromise

LONDON — French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau proposed today that the Suez Canal be managed by an international authority, but with Egypt acknowledged as the canal's owner.

Egyptian officials, objecting to a Western plan advanced yesterday by Secretary of State Dulles for international control, were dicker behind the scenes with Indians and Russians to block it as the Frenchman expressed his views.

"We consider that there are points on which agreement should be easily reached although they imply sacrifices for some, including ourselves," Pineau told the 22-nation Suez conference. He made these points:

"1. The canal and its installation should be the property of Egypt, which would assure Egypt adequate revenues from it.

"2. The Suez Canal Co., should be properly compensated.

As the owner of the canal, Pineau proposed, the Egyptian government should sign a treaty handing its management to an international authority.

He said the authority should make no profits and excess receipts should go to Egypt after provision for compensation of the company.

The Egyptians said Dulles spoke in "a moderate tone," but declared Egypt could not go along with any plan to take control of the canal out of her hands. Dulles proposed that Egypt be a member of the control board, which would be linked to the U. N.

The Egyptian reaction was not unexpected, but the West hoped to marshal enough world opinion behind its stand to force the Egyptians eventually to agree. Sweden and Portugal promptly expressed support for the plan drawn by the Western Big Three.

Today's session was expected to bring counterproposals from Russia and India to the Western plan.

Dulles, who presented the big three scheme yesterday, today explored the attitude of Asian nations. The latter are sympathetic to Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the canal, but vitally interested in keeping it open to navigation.

Adlai, Truman In Unity Meeting

BULLETIN CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, Aug. 17 — The Democrats began receiving nominations for their candidate for vice president today.

Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee was the first to be proposed.

CHICAGO — Adlai Stevenson, unanimously nominated to carry the Democrats' presidential banner for a second time, met with Harry S. Truman today in a ranks-closing gesture. His party legions scrambled furiously meantime over a vice presidential nominee.

Aides said Stevenson was standing strictly by the word he gave the delegates last night as to a running mate: "The choice will be yours."

This was in a dramatic appearance before the convention shortly after it had snored under the effort by ex-President Truman to beat Stevenson with Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, and had gone on to make the nominations unanimous.

Stevenson's stand on the No. 2 spot on his ticket set off frantic jockeying for the change to stand with him in the second campaign against President Eisenhower and — it was anticipated — Vice President Nixon, the GOP team which won by a landslide four years ago.

Plunging into the race were Sens. Estes Kefauver and Albert Gore, both of Tennessee, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City.

Others, among them Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, were receptive.

Stevenson's decision to leave the No. 2 place up to the convention marked also the opening of the campaign. For he announced it with stress on the importance of the vice presidency and with the observation that seven men have ascended to the nation's highest office through death of the president.

These were words calculated to bring to mind the questions raised about Eisenhower's health and the Democratic charges that Nixon is not of White House calibre.

Stevenson called at Truman's hotel suite after receiving a telephone call of congratulations from the former president who asked to visit Stevenson.

The party nominee, as the younger man, suggested he should go to Truman.

Unquestionably, there was drama in this meeting of the new champion and the "Old Man from Missouri" whom he had whipped and stripped naked of political power in this 32nd gathering of the Democratic clans. But it was behind closed doors and veiled to newsmen.

Stevenson stayed about three or four minutes and emerged smiling. To questions flung by newsmen, he said, "I paid my respects to him."

Earlier, Stevenson had paid a call on Harriman.

From Truman's suite, the nominee went to his law office to work on the acceptance speech he will deliver at tonight's closing session of the convention. Truman is to speak also at this session. He will have the rostrum first, followed by the vice presidential nominee, and then by Stevenson.

Associates of Truman said he might possibly attend the afternoon session where the struggle over the No. 2 spot was in progress.

They said Truman was taking no hand in it.

Among callers at Truman's suite were some who were taking a hand.

James A. Farley, former national chairman and longtime Democratic leader told a reporter he came by just to say hello. Farley is backing Mayor Wagner for the vice presidential nomination.

Some influential party leaders were reported to be unhappy over Stevenson's decision against the traditional course of selecting his own running mate.

Last night's balloting for the presidential nomination was a simply no contest.

Stevenson scored a first-ballot victory with 905 votes. He needed 696½.

Harriman, his only real rival, had 210 before the traditional move to make the Stevenson nomination unanimous. Seven favorite sons divided the remainder.

Kefauver, who withdrew from the presidential nomination race in favor of Stevenson after some bitter primary fights, was propelled into top position for the No. 2 place on the ticket.

The Tennessee senator immediately shed the coy attitude he has maintained toward the vice presidency and announced he hopes to win on the first ballot.

Kefauver was reported to have the backing of a group of union leaders, including President Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers.

They were said to have decided

2 Ex - Convicts Arrested In Acid-Blinding Of Columnist

NEW YORK — The FBI said today a hoodlum found shot to death here last month threw the acid which blinded labor columnist Victor Riesel.

They announced, too, the arrest of two men, alleged to have acted in concert with the dead man. The two were charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The FBI identified the acid thrower as Abraham Telvi, 22, of Brooklyn, who had a police record dating back to 1949. His body was found on a lower East Side street July 28.

At first it was believed he might have been a hit-run fatality. When a bullet wound in the back of his head was found, police theorized he had been a "ride" victim.

The two men whom the FBI called co-conspirators were identified as Joseph Peter Carino, 43, arrested at his home in drab Manhattan's lower East Side and Gennaro Miranti, 37, taken into custody also in the same tenement area. Both are ex-convicts.

They faced immediate arraignment before a U. S. commissioner. The acid throwing occurred just off Broadway early in the morning of April 5 soon after Riesel, hard hitting writer against labor racketeers had made a broadcast critical of Local 138 operating engineers. The local is on Long Island.

He had just left Lindy's Restaurant with Miss Betty Nevins, 30, of Englewood, N. J., his radio-television assistant. They were approaching her car when a man stepped up to him and threw the searing acid in his face. It splashed into his eyes.

He was hospitalized immediately but his sight could not be saved. Upon his release from the hospital Riesel resumed writing his syndicated column.

The FBI said in a statement that Miranti was in Lindy's Restaurant shortly before Riesel left.

They said Carino, under the name of Joseph Pilo, met Telvi here a few weeks after the acid throwing and drove him to a hide-out in the vicinity of Youngstown, Ohio.

The FBI announcement did not say how they established that Telvi was the actual acid thrower.

The FBI declined to say if any progress had been made toward a solution of Telvi's slaying.

Reisel blamed the attack on the enemy his labor racketeering critics aroused. At the time of the attack Riesel was actively cooperating with New York U. S. Atty. Paul Williams in a labor racketeering investigation.

The FBI announcement did not link Telvi, Carino and Miranti with any labor racketeering.

Dumas Flash Fire Fatal To Worker

DUMAS, Tex. — One of the three men injured in a flash fire at the Shamrock Refinery northeast of here early in the day died last night. He was Lester Sanders, 40.

W. F. Bolander and Ed Quance remained in critical conditions after the fire at the same refinery where 19 men were killed in a fire and explosion three weeks ago.

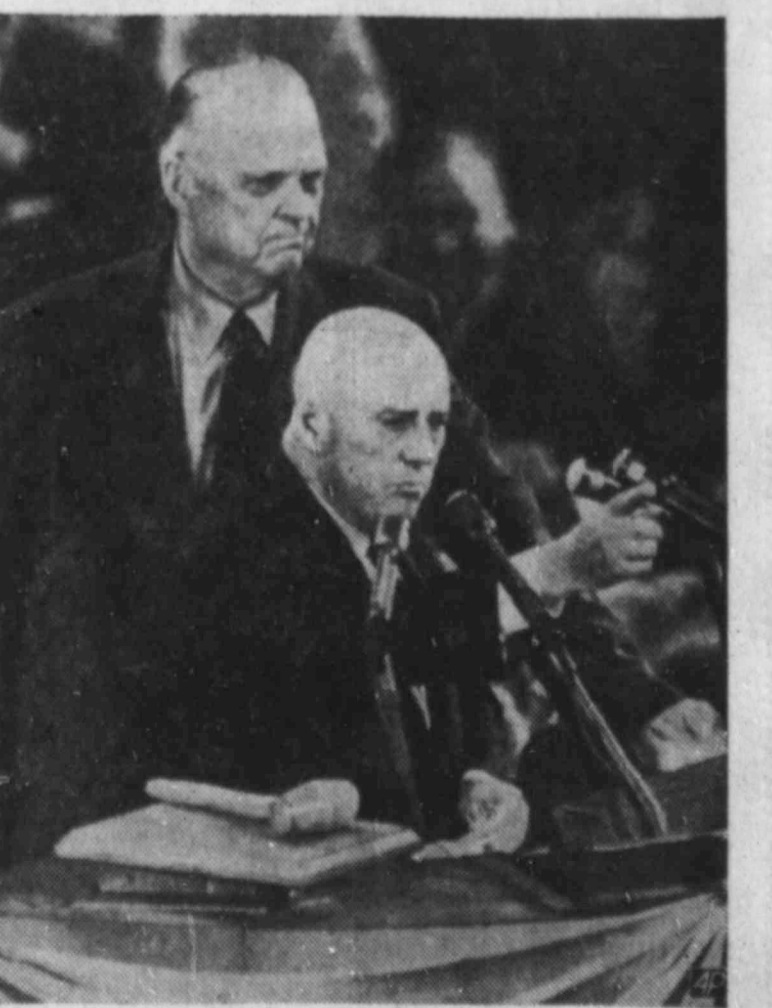

The men were reported to have been opening a valve to let off water when an accumulation of gas was ignited.

Woman Freed In Fatal Shooting

DALLAS — The Dallas County Grand Jury declined today to indict Betty Barry, 24, expectant mother, for the July 17 pistol slaying of Louis Ferrantello.

Ferrantello, 37, a former convict, was shot five times at his office at Anthony's Lounge.

The woman said she shot Ferrantello in a scuffle over a gun. She was shot once in the leg.

Sam Wags A Finger

When a New York banner for Adlai Stevenson appeared on the convention floor in Chicago, Ill., House Speaker Sam Rayburn, chairman of the Democratic Convention, came to the podium to interrupt speech by Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma. Rayburn ordered the sergeant at arms to take the banner away. Kerr waits to continue his speech.

Postoffice Due Ballpoint Pens In 2 Months

A shipment of ballpoint pens should be arriving at the local post office in the next sixty days says E. C. Boatler, postmaster.

Boatler says that a notice was received only a few days ago which expressed hope that the pens would arrive in that period. Boatler said that the delay apparently seemed to be caused by the manufacturer.

He said that they were probably having a time keeping pace with the demand from post offices all over the country for the pens.

The postmaster didn't know exactly how many pens would be sent but he estimated that they would receive around 144. Only about 12 will be placed on the desks for public use. As soon as these wear out they will be replaced by the surplus.

The new ball pens will be chained to the desk to prevent loss. However, Boatler said, these pens were placed in several postoffices on an experimental basis and the chains were broken and the pens removed. This was remedied somewhat by stamping on the pens "property of the United States Post Office."

Boatler said that they did not have too much trouble with the present pens being lost or stolen but he added that they are frequently broken. The present writing tools at the post office are wooden pens which are furnished ink from inkwells on the desks. These pens are not chained to the desks.

Many people who are using the post office pens often forget what they are doing and bear down on the point too hard and break it. The wooden staffs break easily and are often found snapped in two.

There is also some trouble, which must occur after regular post office hours, with people dipping the pens in the ink wells and then slinging the ink on the walls.

People writing in different ways is also hard on the points says Boatler. One person comes along and writes one way which ruins the point for a person writing another way. For this reason fresh pens are placed on the desks each morning.

Boatler said that the new ball pens would probably prove very satisfactory for use in the post office. They will be easier to write with and will not be so messy on the hands.

Bell Museum Dedication Due

BADDECK, N.S. (S)—A museum dedicated to the memory of inventor Alexander Graham Bell will be opened here tomorrow.

A structure of dramatic modern design on the shore of the Bras d'Or Lakes, the houses, working models and notes of Bell's inventions, covering many fields besides the telephone for which he became world famous.

The $375,000 museum, built by the Canadian government, has a triangular architectural motif, based on the tetrahedral kite design Bell used in many of his aviation experiments. Some of the kites are exhibited in the museum.

The museum's high sloping roof dominates the estate where Bell, although a U.S. citizen, spent more than 35 summers and died in 1922.

At Baddeck, Bell pursued scientific research in fields ranging from aircraft to iron lungs. The museum's telephone exhibit includes the original instrument that carried Bell's words in the first telephone call ever made.

Under his direction, four airplanes were built. One of them, the Silver Dart, made the first flight in Canada of a heavier-than-air machine, here in 1909.

YFW Calls For McKeon Review

DALLAS (S)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars called today for an "objective review" of the recent court-martial sentence of Marine Sgt. Matthew McKeon. A resolution was passed at the national encampment.

McKeon was ordered reduced to private, fined $30 a month and sentenced to 9 months imprisonment on charges filed after he led his recruit platoon on a disciplinary march into the swamps at Parris Island, S.C. Six young Marines drowned.

World's Finest Livestock Give Way To Republican Convention

By JOHN H. AVERILL

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17 (S)—A mammoth pavilion, normally the domain of the Western steer and bronco, plays host next week to something new — the Republican elephant.

In the Cow Palace, the cavernous arena on San Francisco's windswept southern flank, the GOP National Convention opens Monday.

Barring unforeseen developments President Eisenhower will accept renomination from the same huge floor that has seen some of the world's finest livestock on parade.

It will be a new chapter in the brief but colorful history of the sprawling, oval-topped building that was denounced just two decades ago as a boondoggle and a white elephant.

The Cow Palace, reputed to be the largest structure of its type in the nation, was erected in the 1930s by the depression era's WPA.

Many San Franciscans criticized the big expenditure. One newspaper editorialized on ground-breaking day Nov. 3, 1935:

"It seems strange that now, in the depths of the nation's deepest depression, with people walking the streets in search of employment and others selling apples to keep body and soul together, the city should be building — of all things — a palace for cows."

That's how the name originated. There were numerous but half-hearted attempts to find something more poetic. But the name stuck and now is official.

Today, Bay area residents are more than a little fond of the 5.2-acre landmark — billed as one of the most earthquake-resistant structures in California. Its giant, cantilevered roof of concrete and steel is mounted on rollers — a feature designed to keep it intact in the heaviest of quakes.

World War II came before the pavilion was completed. But there was time for one livestock show before the military took over the building as a supply depot and motor pool.

At war's end, the government transferred title back to the No. 1-A District Agricultural Assn., the California state agency which sponsors the famed Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo — the livestock extravaganza staged in the Cow Palace each autumn.

State law originally limited use of the pavilion to livestock and agricultural shows. But under pressure, the Legislature relaxed the rules.

Since then the Cow Palace — now valued at nine million dollars — has been the scene of everything from world championship boxing matches and college basketball games to ice follies and a Liberace piano concert.

The building even has had a political baptism. Both Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson addressed packed audiences there during the 1952 campaign. But the Republican convention will be something new.

It is estimated that almost one million dollars has been plunged into preparing the Cow Palace for what GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall predicts will be "the finest convention of any political party in the nation's history."

Pacific Telephone and Telephone Co. says setting up the vast complex of television, radio, telephone and Teletype circuits for the convention was "the most monumental job" it ever has undertaken to prepare for a news event.

There will be 22 TV microwave lines leading out of the Cow Palace to pipe proceedings to viewers all over the nation.

Paraphrasing Cow Palace manager Nye Wilson proudly points out that unlike most conventions the view will not be obstructed by pillars, beams or overhanging balconies. That's because of the arched, cantilevered roof.

The roof, incidentally, is 104 feet above the arena (outfielder Dominic DiMaggio once required six throws before he could hit the ceiling with a ball). But GOP officials say new acoustical installations will bring you every word of the proceedings.

To accommodate the hordes of spectators and press, radio and TV representatives, seating has been arranged for 16,834 persons — including the 1,323 delegates and an equal number of alternates.

To provide for convention news coverage, two huge 11-v-stick beams flanking either side of the pavilion have been compartmented for use by wire services, newspapers, radio and television.

Special arrangements also are being made for President Eisenhower. A two-room suite, paneled in polished pine, is reserved for him a few feet off the arena.

Second Spot On Demo Ticket Is Wide Open

CHICAGO (S)—Democratic historians could not recall tonight any convention in which the contest for the vice presidential nomination was completely wide open.

Adlai Stevenson brought nominations from the 1956 convention when he said he wanted his "free process" to select his running mate. Stevenson himself noted that "historically" the presidential nominee has in effect picked the vice presidential candidate.

Republican and Democratic conventions have been pretty much alike in this respect.

Sometimes the nominee for president has indicated several men acceptable to him and these have fought it out. But Stevenson's attitude apparently was one of hands off altogether.

Since the Civil War only three Democratic vice presidential candidates have had to go through more than one ballot to gain nomination. It took five to name Arthur Sewell of Maine to the ticket headed by William Jennings Bryan in 1896.

In 1900 Bryan was again the No. 1 nominee and the Democrats this time chose — on the first ballot — a former vice president by the name of Adlai Stevenson to run with him. That Stevenson was the grandfather of the man the Democrats chose tonight for a second try at the White House.

The elder Stevenson had been elected vice president as Grover Cleveland's running mate in 1892. But he and Bryan were defeated.

Thomas H. Marshall was extended to a second ballot before he was chosen to run with Woodrow Wilson in 1912. Four years later he was nominated by acclamation to go on with Wilson to a second term.

Harry S. Truman, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's surprise selection in 1944, was short on the first ballot but won on the second. Within a year he was president.

W. Reich Outlaws Communist Party

KARLSRUHE, Germany (S)—West Germany today outlawed the Communist party as unconstitutional.

Within minutes after the Federal Supreme Court announced its long-awaited decision, police squads in major cities throughout the country swooped down on party headquarters.

Property was confiscated and the offices padlocked. No arrests were ordered.

Immediately after the ruling was announced by Court President Josef Wintrich, a police cordon was thrown around the court building to prevent any Red demonstration.

The ban does not affect West Berlin since the old German capital is not now a part of the federal republic of West Germany.

The official East German radio in East Berlin immediately issued a call to West German workers to hold mass strikes and protest rallies against the ban.

The broadcast compared the action with similar steps taken by Hitler's government. The radio charged that the decision would make it much harder to bring about reunification of East and West Germany.

Reliable reports said the Reds several months ago completed preparations to go underground if the court's ruling went against them.

Most independent West German newspapers already have expressed the opinion the Communists would be more or a menace underground, and that a ban on the party would push its followers into greater militancy.

The court also banned all substitute or successor party groups, spelling the legal finish for an estimated 200 Communist-front organizations operating alongside the party in West Germany.

The ruling came on a suit brought by the West German government almost five years ago. The government contended the Communist party sought the violent overthrow of the federal republic and therefore was unconstitutional. Communist party membership is estimated at 80,000.

During the 13-month trial the Communists claimed the action was masterminded by the United States to eliminate the "most determined fighters against West German rearmament."

Adlai Pledges To 'Fight All The Way'

CHICAGO (S)—Adlai E. Stevenson says he will "fight all the way" for the presidency of the United States.

Stevenson gave this pledge to jubilant supporters shortly after he won the Democratic presidential nomination last night. It confirmed word from his press secretary, Roger Tubby, that Stevenson planned a "fighting type" campaign.

"It will be like the California windup," Tubby said.

He was referring to the free-swinging battle Stevenson had with Estes Kefauver of Tennessee when both were clawing for California's convention votes in that state's June presidential primary. Stevenson won.

Stevenson may have given a hint of things to come when he cautioned Democrats this week not to slug away at each other, but to keep their big blows for "the real enemy" — the Republicans.

Some — including former President Harry S. Truman — have said they don't think much of Stevenson as a scrapper.

But most of Stevenson's critics will concede that he has learned a few lessons in how to deal with rank-and-file voters since he was defeated by President Eisenhower four years ago.

Even Truman, who backed Gov. Averell Harriman against Stevenson, gave Stevenson that much.

Even before he won the nomination, Stevenson said he planned to "talk sense" to the voters on the issues of the day, as he said he did four years ago.

Back in 1952, candidate Stevenson would wait for people to come to him. Now, the former Illinois governor walks up to people, pumps their hands and starts talking.

He seems to enjoy the new role. During the convention he got on friendly terms with the maid who took care of his suite in the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel, and with two city policemen who were posted outside his room.

Associates say he is sold on a folksy type of campaign—meeting people personally and making informal talks.

Tubby said an extremely active campaign with a "whole lot of traveling" is the cards.

This will contrast sharply with the Republican campaign. GOP leaders have indicated President Eisenhower's campaign will consist principally of television talks, plus four or five speeches at key cities.

Tubby said the Stevenson campaign still is in the blueprint stage. He said it will start the first week in September with the making of TV campaign films.

At the district Farm Bureau meeting yesterday in Big Spring, several county agents from nearby counties were present. None of them brought any good news.

Ed Hyman from San Angelo said his country couldn't be any drier. Ranchers are selling lambs that weigh from 45 to 50 pounds. Some have sold out altogether and will leave the pastures bare until they have grass.

Hyman said there were no dry-land crops and only a few fields of irrigated cotton. Most of the little irrigation wells out on the Lipan Flats have either gone dry or water is so low the owners are not pumping it.

Leroy Colgan, county agent in Lamesa, said it was dry up that way. Dryland cotton is suffering for want of water. He said the last worm invasion had been stopped but not entirely eliminated.

He will help conduct a farm tour in the northwest part of the county next Friday, where visitors will be shown cotton, soy beans, hybrid sorghums and livestock. The tour will start at 1:30 p.m. at the Dawson School House in Welch.

Fred Cave, who raises Duroc hogs on his farm west of Ackerly, thinks the market may go higher. He's been in the business several years and says he usually makes a little profit, especially when he could grow sudan and wheat for pasture. This year his fields are completely bare.

He says the hog business is not something to get into one year, sell out the next, so he stayed with it, even when hogs dropped to 12 cents. He has 28 shoats and no pasture now, so he doesn't figure on making much profit this year.

The Texas calf crop for 1956 is expected to total 4,219,000 as compared with 4,297,000 for 1955. The number of calves has increased about 12 per cent over the 1945-'54 average.

The national total will reach about one per cent above last year. All the Western states report an increase in calves, with the exceptions of Nevada, Arizona and Oregon.

The Martin County 4-H Club boys are feeding out calves and barrows to take to the Dallas Fair in October. Boys feeding commercial calves are Jimmy Robinson, Weems Williams, Craig Beckney.

Insects of several kinds are working in the irrigated cotton of Howard County, says County Agent James Taylor. The damage hasn't been too severe because farmers have been poisoning regularly. He says they are using 3-10-40, which gives good results at a much cheaper cost than endrin. The endrin has been recommended for loopers, but Taylor thinks 3-10-40 has done just as good a job.

A few worms are found in dry-land cotton. Farmers with any chance of making a crop are also poisoning. The main insects are cabbage loopers, boll and leaf worms and red spiders.

Several of the officials are making plans for the 4-H Club Rodeo to be held here August 30 and 31. This rodeo is not confined to the county but is open to anyone anywhere who has not reached his 20th birthday. Last year it drew contestants from three states.

This rodeo is the only way in which the 4-H Club and FFA members have of raising money for some of their activities. From the profits the upkeep of the county fair barn must be paid, and this alone amounts to quite a sum.

The clubs never have any money left over and are quite often in the red. So this year they are making a special effort to get people out to the rodeo.

One of the home demonstration agents at the Farm Bureau meeting yesterday said there was a growing shortage of HD agents. She said girls were not studying home economics as much as they once were and not as many girls are going to college.

Even when they do finish college as home economic majors, they get married soon afterwards. As a result, many vacancies in the field are left unfilled.

A few days ago I mentioned that I hadn't seen a rattlesnake this year. There are plenty around, it seems; I just wasn't in the right place. Or maybe it's the wrong place, because a rattlesnake scares me half to death.

This column received a letter from Mrs. Waymon Etchison, who lives eight miles southwest of L-max, in which she says their place has been overrun with rattlers this year. They even killed one last February when the snakes are supposed to be in hibernation.

Along in June the snakes started converging on the yard. Her husband killed two while plowing the yard, then a few days later her nine-year-old son found a big rattlesnake under an innertube. Not long afterwards the dog treed one under the house. Mrs. Etchison routed it with fly spray, then killed it.

She says the snakes are more numerous than at any time since the family moved there 12 years ago. The neighbors also report an increase in rattlers. Mrs. Etchison thinks maybe the dry, hot weather has caused the snakes to hunt water, so they crawl to the nearest farmstead.

Ike Won By A Landslide In '52

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrats' nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson and the Republicans' expected renomination of President Eisenhower next week will provide a second running of their 1952 race for the presidency.

Here's the way they finished in 1952:

Eisenhower won 39 states, Stevenson 9 (Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and West Virginia). The total popular vote was EIsenhower 33,936,252, Stevenson 27,314,992.

The vote for Eisenhower set a new record, but Stevenson's losing vote would have been enough to win any previous election except that in 1936, when Franklin D. Roosevelt rolled up 27,476,673 votes in his landslide victory over Alf M. Landon.

8 Others Received First-Ballot Votes

CHICAGO (AP)—Eight others besides winner Adlai Stevenson got first-ballot votes for the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention.

Before the convention made Stevenson's nomination "by acclamation," the 1,372 delegate votes were divided this way among the candidates in the order in which they were nominated:

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, nominated by Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington as a "man of the people." He withdrew.

Stevenson, nominated by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts as "best vote-getter" and "most appealing figure." 905 1/2 votes.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, nominated by John Connally of Texas as a leader of "fierce courage." 80.

Rep. James Davis of Georgia, nominated by Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia as a defender of the "Southern way of life." 33.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, nominated by Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma as "a fighting liberal of new vision." 210.

Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, nominated by Joseph J. Leary of Kentucky as "a seasoned campaigner who likes a good fight." 26 1/2.

Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, nominated by John S. Begley of Massachusetts as a man of "patience, charity and judgment." He released his delegates.

Former Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia, nominated by Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia as possessing "all the qualities essential to the qualifications of president." 32 1/2.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, nominated by Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of Missouri as a "stalwart in the front ranks of our party." 45 1/2.

Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. of South Carolina, nominated by Sen. Thomas A. Wofford of South Carolina as a man who "has made vivid again . . . the fundamental rights and responsibilities of the separate states." 23 1/2.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, not nominated formally. 5 1/2.

Prized Possession

Admiring the Queen's Jug they were presented with in England are Dr. and Mrs. Jordan Grooms. They returned last week from a five-weeks trip to Wolsanton, England. The pitcher was designed for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. The coloring of the main part of the pitcher is in a monochrome tint of brown to give a parchment-like appearance, with the figures in white matt glaze. The scroll around the base, together with the inside of the pitcher, is colored purple to symbolize royalty. On the base of the pitcher are inscribed the names of the genealogical tree, showing the direct connection between Queen Elizabeth, George Washington and Robert E. Lee. The five words, "A Great Lineage of Democracy," between the dates of 1628 and 1953, sum up the detail and meaning of the pitcher. The word "Vivat," inscribed on a scroll at the base of the handle was proclaimed to Her Majesty the Queen, on entering Westminster Abbey, by a chorus of voices at the crowning ceremony.

Rev., Mrs. Jordan Grooms Receive Historic Pitcher In England

By DEIDRA HINTON
"Our most enriching experience for the whole trip to England was the open-hearted way people took us into their companionship," say Dr. and Mrs. Jordan Grooms recently returned from five weeks spent in Wolsanton, England. The Grooms, with their son Barton, 17, and their nephew, Gordon Dickinson, 15, were participating in the exchange pastor plan of the Methodist churches throughout the United States. The Rev. and Mrs. J. Arthur Hoyles were here in Big Spring, while the Grooms were at their home church, St. John's Methodist in Wolsanton.

Among Dr. Grooms' most pleasant memories of the trip will be the fact that he was the only American representative at the National Methodist Conference which was held in Leeds, England. Dr. Grooms addressed the conference while there. They were also guests in the home of A. L. Alton, who was head of that international conference, while in Leeds.

QUEEN'S JUG
The center of attraction for their trip will be the Queen's Jug which was presented to them. The jug was designed and manufactured by a pottery company of England in commemoration of Queen Elizabeth's coronation. "There are only twelve others in the States, and that is one reason we are so very proud of ours," the Grooms said. Most of the other twelve jugs are in embassies or museums.

Another trip which Dr. Grooms will remember for a long time is his trip to Eppworth, England to visit the birthplace of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church. Mrs. Grooms and the two boys will cherish their trip to London for many years to come. While there, they visited many museums; saw Stratford-on-Avon and a summer theatre's production of Hamlet.

Commenting on the Methodist Church of Wolsanton they both agreed that there wasn't too much difference in those and the churches here. "All the people were so sincere and friendly that we just fit right in with their pattern of life," they said. "I did notice that they did a little more congregational singing than we do." Mrs. Grooms said, "and it was certainly rewarding to hear all their beautiful voices."

Another trip which Dr. Grooms will remember for a long time is his trip to Eppworth, England to visit the birthplace of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church. Mrs. Grooms and the two boys will cherish their trip to London for many years to come. While there, they visited many museums; saw Stratford-on-Avon and a summer theatre's production of Hamlet.

The Methodist Men's club will meet at the church Saturday at 8 p.m. Purpose of the meeting is to organize for visitation and get together for plans for the revival which will begin Aug. 26 and continue for a week. Following the meeting, refreshments will be served. All men are urged to attend.

The Rev. L. W. Tucker is holding a meeting in O'Donnell this week. Beverly Brooks has been visiting friends in Fort Worth and Dallas the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Rufus E. Fowler Jr. have returned from a visit in Colorado where they visited his brother and family Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Fowler.

The Tel Class of the Baptist church met this week for business meeting followed by a social. Mrs. Chester Coffman gave the scripture reading and Mrs. T. H. McCann the devotion. Mrs. W. C. Hutchins dismissed the group. Mrs. Jessie Fowler was honored with birthday gifts.

Mrs. Clovis Phinney is confined to the hospital following surgery. She is reported doing fine. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nixon and Pat will leave Friday for a vacation in Eastern states. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Yardley of Andrews visited here this week in the home of Mrs. Jessie Fowler and other friends. The Yardleys are former residents.

Mrs. Felton Smith was hostess Thursday for the meeting of the Gold Star Mothers Club. At the business meeting members decided to give one day a week to work in the State Hospital. They are still carrying on their work at the VA Hospital. Next meeting of the group will be Sept. 20.

Eggs, cheese and fish make excellent substitutes for meat and dried beans and peas are also good.

Raw, unrefrigerated milk sells for about 46 cents a quart in Djakarta, capital of Indonesia.

The housefly is a prolific insect, one pair increasing to tens of thousands in a matter of weeks.

Diabetes is frequently a disease of middle age, and is more common in persons who are overweight.

Bride-Elect Honored At Shower, Tea

COAHOMA — Mary Margaret Massey was honored recently with a bridal tea in the home of Mrs. Smith Cochran from seven till nine p.m. Cohostesses were Mrs. Sam Buchanan, Mrs. Edd Martin, Mrs. A. K. Turner, Mrs. L. W. Tucker, Mrs. Boone Cramer, Mrs. P. F. Sheedy, Mrs. Eleanor Garrett, Susie Brown, Sue Turner, Pat Kinder, Mackie Brooks, and Martha White.

Mrs. Cochran greeted guests and presented the honoree, Miss Brooks was at the bride's register. Mrs. Garrett served from a lace cloth over light green and centered with a fan shaped arrangement of white asters and light pink gladioli. About 35 attended the affair.

Miss Massey is to be married to Ted Hughes Aug. 18th at First Methodist Church. Sgt. and Mrs. Earl Hixon and family have returned from a two weeks vacation spent in eastern Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. Burr Brown and Mrs. Gladys Spikes attended the football game in Lubbock between the north and south, Mrs. Brown's nephew Jack Spikes of Snyder played in the game.

Visitors this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnson are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Johnson of Dickens, Calif., and his grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Johnson of Dumont, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Broderick and Jon of Odessa visited over the weekend in the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lay.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shive and Donnie will leave Friday for a vacation in New Braunfels. Mrs. Charter Hale was surprised Monday by her sisters, Mrs. Bradley McQuerry of Colorado City and Mrs. H. L. Stamps of Plains, calling her to have lunch with them at a local cafe. Guests over the weekend in the home of the Hales were Mrs. Tex Matzka and family of Waco; Mrs. E. E. Dicky and daughter of Gatesville; Mrs. Walker Crump and Mrs. Paul Crump of Hale Center, and Mrs. Evie Guthrie of Big Spring.

Hostesses, with Mrs. R. L. Morris as chairman, served refreshments buffet style. High score in the bridge games was won by Mrs. J. L. Weber; second high by Mrs. R. G. Baker, and low by Mrs. J. L. Combs.

The canasta prize went to Mrs. D. P. Dyer, and winner of the traveling prize was Mrs. B. L. Rich. Special prizes were awarded to Mrs. Eugene Kalnitsky, Mrs. L. H. Levine, Mrs. Alex Locke and Mrs. G. L. Welch.

A picnic theme was used at the coffee given Tuesday morning for the newcomer wives by the Officers' Wives' Club. The affair was held at the Officers' Club. Wives of Section Two served as hostesses, with Mrs. R. G. Thompson acting as chairman. Electrical appliances were demonstrated and discussed for the group.

Table decorations were baskets and barbecue utensils, which were awarded as prizes.

MERKEL — Older youth — high school graduates, who are students, career youth or service personnel, and others — are being contacted in Methodist churches throughout the Northwest Texas Conference concerning the conference camp, scheduled for Butman Camp near here Labor Day weekend.

A project of the conference youth council, the camp will be directed by the Rev. Waid Griffin, pastor at Spearman. Other leaders will include: Barbara Sommersville, Lubbock, conference youth director; the Rev. Charles Lutrick, Lubbock, executive secretary of the conference board of education, and Mrs. Lutrick.

Mrs. Apple Talks To Credit Women
"Values of Credit Associations" was the title of the program presented by Mrs. J. B. Apple to members of the Credit Women's Club when they met for luncheon Thursday at the Howard House.

Thirteen members were present for the meeting. Mrs. Apple won the special prize brought by Mrs. Noel Hull. Next meeting will be Sept. 6 at the Howard House.

Miss Server Is Bride Of Kenneth Russell

LAMESA — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Richard Russell are now on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y., following their wedding Thursday evening. The bride is the former Kay Ellen Server, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Server of Welch. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Russell of Welch.

John McCoy, minister of the Brownfield Church of Christ, read the double ring ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. Vows were exchanged before a fireplace banked with greenery and gladioli. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a ballerina length gown of French lace. The fitted strapless bodice came to a point in the center front and joined a circular skirt, which featured a panel of tulle ruffles down the back further accented by a bow of tulle.

Her short jacket had a flat carved away to a u neckline with brief sleeves. To her fingertip veil of illusion was attached a headpiece of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias atop a white Bible. Buddie Lou Louallen of Welch was the maid of honor. She wore a navy blue frock of crystalene and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations. Harold Sides was best man.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held. The serving table was laid with white lace over blue and centered with the tiered wedding cake and an arrangement of white carnations. Mrs. Harold Sides registered the guests, while Karen Jayroe and Mary Jane Keener presided over the bride's table.

For travel the bride chose a princess style dress of navy blue with white accessories. The bride is a junior at the Dawson High School. Her husband is a sophomore at Sul Ross at Alpine. He has signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals to play baseball for the next season.

The couple will be at home in Alpine after Sept. 15.

Bit Of Gardening Now To Bring Fall Flowers

By ANNE LEFEVER
August is the month to prepare for fall blooming of many flowers which have almost spent their energy in a riot of color. A little cutting back, fertilizing and watering will give many of them a new start.

Cut the withered tops off perennial phlox and water them to give the lower stems a chance to bloom. Cut the blooms from crape myrtle before they go to seed. Remove all dead blooms from zinnias, shasta daisies and other annuals, feed the plants and give them water. You'll be surprised at the new lease on life they get!

Long lanky growths on wisteria vines should be trimmed at this time. Sometimes, such pruning will induce new blooms on the non-flowering vines. Unwanted growth may be cut from flowering shrubs and trees, also, but restrain yourself and don't cut too much away. Feed and water your roses in preparation for their fall blooming period.

GOP Convention To Have Music

If an aura of faint music surrounds busy Bertha Adkins, assistant to the chairman of the Republican National Committee, don't be surprised. She carries the nostalgic melody "Stardust" in a miniature music box bangle from her wrist.

The charm, which hangs from a gold bracelet, has "like" inscribed on one side in rhinestones. If you tire of "Stardust," you can turn to "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," the tune which emanates from a similar charm dangling from the wrist of Ann Wheaton, the GOP Committee's director of women's publicity and its public relations member since 1940. The bracelets were gifts.

Bit Of Gardening Now To Bring Fall Flowers

trees at least every week or ten days as the nuts are forming, and water is needed to fill the shell out. A little fertilizer, watered thoroughly, will help the trees, too. Keep feeding and watering the chrysanthemums; it will help them if you will remove all buds until the end of this month as this will make stronger plants. It is now time to stop pinching the tops back.

Stake chrysanthemums well as well as dahlias and tall marigolds. They will produce much better blooms if they are not allowed to fall over into the dirt. If you start such plants as snapdragons, stock, pansies, calendulas and sweet William from seed, plant them now in seedflats or boxes. Set the boxes in the shade and keep them moist. By fall, the seedlings will be ready to set outside for winter growth and spring blooming.

In case you haven't divided your iris, this can be done now and in September. This division in the fall gives them a good chance to settle before spring, and they will provide better blooms. Trim the foliage of iris in the shape of a fan; plant them with a bit of bone meal and be very careful not to plant the rhizome too deep — have it barely covered with the soil. One of the reasons for no blooms is deep planting.

Water pepper and tomato plants with long slow soaking; cut off the sprawling old growth of tomato plants to increase the yield and prolong the life of the plant. Clean out all beds where summer blooming has stopped and prepare them for a fall garden. Spade the plot, sprinkle over it a layer of well-rooted barnyard manure or a balanced commercial food and spade it in.

Let it stand till until time to plant the garden. If rain falls in it — so much the better!

MRS. KENNETH RICHARD RUSSELL

Mrs. Overton Heads Lees Baptist WMU

Mrs. J. J. Overton was elected president of the Lees Baptist WMU recently when the group met in the home of Mrs. R. W. Dolan. The hostess was chosen first vice president; Mrs. R. L. Overton will serve as second vice president; Mrs. J. C. Ray was elected secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen include Mrs. T. W. Baker for mission study; Mrs. D. Armstrong for community missions; Mrs. A. W. White for Bible study, and Mrs. C. C. Bell for stewardship.

Mrs. Dolan brought the devotion for the group, with the opening prayer offered by Mrs. Baker. Mrs. White discussed "Doers of the Word" before a study of 1st Samuel: 3, 4 and 5.

Mrs. J. J. Overton will be hostess for the organization Aug. 21, when Mrs. Baker will present the second and third chapters of the book "The Tribes Go Up."

Youth Week Continues; Visiting Minister At Church Of Christ

The Youth revival and activities week continues at the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, with George Coats of Knox City leading the services again this week. The revival will close with Sunday evening services at the church.

The vice president of Abilene Christian College, W. R. Smith, will be guest minister at the Main Street Church of Christ. Smith will be filling the pulpit for Lyle Price, who is on vacation.

Baptist

The Rev. A. R. Posey, pastor of the Baptist Temple will have as his subject for Sunday morning services, "Onward," Revelations 14. David Whitaker, associate pastor, will sing a solo at morning worship services. In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren will offer special music.

"The Church That Was Rich—Yet Poor," will be Dr. P. D. O'Brien's message Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church. In the evening his topic will be "God Is Not Mocked."

Billy Rudd, associate pastor of the East Fourth Baptist Church, will speak at both services Sunday. In the morning his topic will be "That Ye May Know."

Catholic

Mass will be said by the Rev. Fr. John Clarkson at 7 a.m. and 10 a.m. at St. Thomas Catholic Church. Confessions will be heard from 5:30 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m. on Saturday. Benediction will follow the last Mass.

At the Sacred Heart (Spanish-speaking) Church, Mass will be held at 7:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. On Saturday, confessions will be heard from 5 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 8:30 p.m. Benediction will be at 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Mass will be said Sunday at 10 a.m. in Coahoma at St. Joseph's Mission by the Rev. Fr. John Ward.

Presbyterian

At the First Presbyterian Church Sunday the Rev. Ben F. Ormand of North Carolina will deliver his last sermon to the group. In the morning services he will speak on "Repentance." Carol Hill will offer the special music. There will be no evening service.

"Gospel That Sets Life Free," is the subject for the Rev. Jack Ware's Sunday morning sermon at the St. Paul Presbyterian Church. He will also sing a solo entitled "Come Unto Me," by Handel. His subject for evening services will be "Here I Am—Send Me." Tuesday night the men of the church will meet at 7 p.m. for a supper. Dr. Loyal Norman will speak to the group.

State Hospital

For Sunday services at the State Hospital the choir from the East Fourth Baptist Church will sing "The Song of God," and "Seek Ye The Lord." Mrs. George Thomas will be soloist in the latter number. C. E. Thiele's subject for sermon will be titled "Spirit Gives Life." Catholic Mass and Mass are held on Thursdays morning.

Webb AFB

"Let Me Be Aware," is the subject for Chaplain Charles J. Fix's sermon at the Webb AFB Chapel Sunday. Sunday school is at 9:45 a.m. in the chapel annex.

Bible Class

The Businessmen's Bible Class meets Sunday at 9:15 a.m. in the Settles Ballroom with Rupert Ricker as the teacher.

Wife Adopts 11 Children

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth J. Duhig, 23, who last February married policeman Martin Duhig, father of 11 children, has become the mother of the children by adoption.

The children are of Duhig's first marriage to Mrs. June Duhig, who died 14 months ago. Mrs. Elizabeth Duhig's first husband, George Casey, died in 1953. They had no children.

The whole family was present in Cook County Court when Judge Otto Kerner approved Mrs. Duhig's petition to be declared the legal mother.

"I love them all," Mrs. Duhig said. "For the last couple of months I've been thinking I might as well be their legal mother. The younger ones occasionally asked if I were their real mother."

Officers Named For Song Group

LAMESA — Temporary officers have been named for a prospective chapter of the Barber Shop Quartet group here.

They include Ed Johnson, president; Grady Acuff, vice president; Ronnie Shepherd, secretary; Earl Hise, treasurer. Richard Crawley has agreed to direct the chorus. It is expected that an official chapter will be organized about Jan. 1, 1957.

Attending the meeting Tuesday night were 19 Lamesa men, 15 from the Odessa Chapter, eight from Lubbock and one from Midland. There also were two Odessa Barber Shop quartets, the Midnight Four and Bass'n Blenders; and a combination quartet from Lubbock, composed of two members of the Caprockers and two members of the Textones.

Love Blossoms In Strange Places

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Love has blossomed for a young couple in the most unlikely of fields—the divorce proceedings and alimony payments branch of Circuit Court.

Louie C. Sneed, 31, and Joan Cournoyer, 28, announced yesterday they plan to marry in November. As clerks, they handle Miami's mountains of correspondence regarding divorces and accept alimony payments for transfer between divorced couples.

Grounds of Christian Assurance

CHRIST SHOWS HOW TO BANISH ANXIETY

Scripture—Matthew 6:25-34; 1 John 3:22-24:28

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
OUR FIRST lesson on the banishment of anxiety comes from Matthew's account of part of Christ's Sermon on the Mount. People in His day were just as much in need of comfort on that ever present problem of needless worrying as we are today.

Talking to a great crowd of people, Jesus pointed to the birds flying overhead. They do not sow seeds for food, nor do they reap it as man does, neither do they store it for future needs. Yet food is provided for them by our heavenly Father, and Jesus said: "Are ye not much better than they?"

Then why worry about clothes? Consider the wild flowers. They do not toil nor spin, yet even King Solomon, in all his glory, could not rival their glorious colors.

"Therefore I say unto you, take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not life more than meat, and the body than raiment?"

We know we must plan for our food, housing, clothes, etc. Christ himself planned for the future. He chose 12 disciples and trained them to preach the gospel when He had left them. Why fret and worry? It does harm and no good. Why not have faith that if you meet with problems tomorrow, you can, with the help of our heavenly Father, overcome them?

"But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

Take therefore no thought for tomorrow, for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.—Matthew 6:34.

You will notice that St. John, in his epistles, addresses his readers as "little children." He is not writing to youngsters, however, but to all Christian people. He is thought to have been about 90 years old at this time.

In beginning the third chapter of his first epistle, John calls attention to the love of God in calling us His sons. "What manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God." Do we appreciate that beautiful fact? Do we try to act as His sons, daughters, children?

If our hearts do not confidence in these things, then we have confidence in God, and whatsoever we ask, we receive of Him, because we keep His commandments.

And this is His commandment, that we should believe on the name of His Son Jesus Christ, and love one another. John warns of false prophets, as Jesus did also. There are many in our world who tempt us to be

MEMORY VERSE
"This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."—1 John 5:4.

disloyal to our faith. Shun them. "We are of God; he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God, heareth not us."

Again, as in our last lesson, John speaks of the need for love one to another. Hatred toward even an evil doer hurts the hater more than the hated. Learn to try to understand others, even if they do us wrong. "Love your enemies; do good to them that hate you," Christ said.

This is a truth that should be emphasized to even small children. Teach them that love is indeed better than hate, and if there is hatred in the heart of any, show that by casting it out and doing a kind deed to the hated one, following the Lord's will, love will replace hate.

"Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God; and everyone that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love."

HOW RESOURCEFUL ARE YOU?

Puppies are generally more resourceful than people! They never take fences seriously. They find a way to get over or under the obstacle.

People take fences seriously. They usually have more respect for their limitations than for their abilities. That's why so many of us live in a narrow, discouraging world without promise or hope.

And even as we speak thrilling words like freedom and opportunity and ideals, some of us wonder secretly just what these are and how they may be attained.

There are spiritual resources in life which can enable any man to achieve ideals. They are the simple, commonplace commodities of religion—things like prayer and faith—but they are the keys to all attainment!

God gave us these resources to use. And He gave us churches to teach us how to use them. Forget your fences—discover your resources in Church next Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

ELECTION

at an informal conference that Kefauver, widely known because of his extensive primary campaigning across the country, could be counted on to help the ticket immediately.

Kefauver, however, had opposition from Southern delegations. He lacked the support of his home state of Tennessee, still plugging Gov. Clement, the convention's keynoter.

But in states the Democrats must carry if they are to win the November election, Kefauver was strong.

He had active backing in California, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio and Pennsylvania. He was credited with appeal to the Midwestern farm states.

Humphrey could command support in the same areas. But his 1948 and 1952 battles for strong civil rights fights left the Minnesota senator still without many friends in the South.

There were some signs that Stevenson's decision to toss the nomination to the convention may have been influenced in part by a belief that if he didn't choose Kefauver he would generate some deep-seated resentment within the rank and file of the party.

Associates said Stevenson could not openly choose Kefauver, who withdrew from the top nomination contest in his favor, without being accused of having made a deal.

James Finnegan, Stevenson's campaign manager, said the presidential nominee planned to remain entirely aloof from today's contest over second place on the ticket.

Mayor Wagner and Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts, both Roman Catholics, had been considered seriously by Stevenson forces before the decision was reached to let the convention do its own choosing.

But Finnegan and Farley, former national chairman, advised against raising the religious issue. Both are Catholics.

New York's ex-Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said he saw "no likelihood" that Nixon would fail to win renomination.

Harold E. Stassen, promoting Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter to replace Nixon, had the rug pulled from under him again. Herter said that if his name were placed in nomination he would ask the presiding officer to withdraw it. He is committed to nominating Nixon.

California's Gov. Goodwin Knight told reporters: "I have no plans to seek the nomination."

However, Mrs. Mary Tibbets, Woodland newspaper publisher, said she plans to nominate him anyway.

"I can't do any worse for the nomination," she said.

Truman's assertion that Stevenson can't win next November and may not carry any more than the past year and a half is a statement that went Democratic record books ago is bound to be used enthusiastically by the Republicans.

But some of Stevenson's associates believe they see a net gain. They argue Stevenson can take the offensive against the GOP without having to spend time defending the Truman record credited by many politicians with having contributed to Eisenhower's 1952 victory.

In contrast to the coolness toward Truman, the Stevenson people are expected to make a measure of peace with Harriman. The Democrats need New York badly. Harriman can help.

Stevenson's appearance last night was only preliminary to his formal acceptance speech tonight. It will be preceded by speeches by Truman and the vice presidential nominee.

However, his running mate is selected, Stevenson is expected to spend a quiet week at his Libertyville, Ill., farm while the GOP convention is under way.

Nixon Due In 'Frisco For Republican Meet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vice President Richard Nixon arrives in Republican National Convention headquarters tomorrow in the midst of continued predictions by top GOP officials that he will be renominated by acclamation next week at the Cow Palace.

To Adlai Stevenson's dramatic gesture in Chicago last night of throwing the Democratic choice of a vice presidential candidate open to the convention there, GOP Chairman Leonard Hall said only: "It doesn't make any difference. They've already dumped Mr. Sparkman, the candidate for vice president in 1952. They aren't in a situation such as we are where we have such a splendid team in Washington who have the record to prove they deserve to be renominated again."

Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams arrived last night, tight-lipped, with assistant White House press officer Murray Snyder, shortly after Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell.

The convention opens Monday. Nomination of both presidential and vice presidential candidates is scheduled Wednesday.

High Republican figures predicted again and again—that Nixon as well as President Eisenhower would be renominated on first ballots.

New York's ex-Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said he saw "no likelihood" that Nixon would fail to win renomination.

Harold E. Stassen, promoting Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter to replace Nixon, had the rug pulled from under him again. Herter said that if his name were placed in nomination he would ask the presiding officer to withdraw it. He is committed to nominating Nixon.

California's Gov. Goodwin Knight told reporters: "I have no plans to seek the nomination."

However, Mrs. Mary Tibbets, Woodland newspaper publisher, said she plans to nominate him anyway.

"I can't do any worse for the nomination," she said.

Truman's assertion that Stevenson can't win next November and may not carry any more than the past year and a half is a statement that went Democratic record books ago is bound to be used enthusiastically by the Republicans.

In contrast to the coolness toward Truman, the Stevenson people are expected to make a measure of peace with Harriman. The Democrats need New York badly. Harriman can help.

Stevenson's appearance last night was only preliminary to his formal acceptance speech tonight. It will be preceded by speeches by Truman and the vice presidential nominee.

However, his running mate is selected, Stevenson is expected to spend a quiet week at his Libertyville, Ill., farm while the GOP convention is under way.

New Grand Jury Called Aug. 27

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 11th District Court, has ordered a grand jury convened for Howard County Aug. 27.

The grand jury will meet at 9 a.m. to officially open the August term of district court.

At the same time, Judge Sullivan said he was convening a petit jury to handle such civil cases as might be pending on the docket. He said that very few cases are ready for trial at this time.

He has notified Guilford Jones, district attorney, that a criminal jury docket in the court will be called Sept. 17.

Petit jury to try civil matters starting on / Aug. 27 is to meet at 10 a.m.—one hour after the grand jury will be empaneled.

Part Of City Has Power Failure

An electric power failure affecting only a limited area in the extreme southwest edge of the city at 9 p.m. last night left four or five blocks of residences without light for approximately an hour.

Texas Electric Service Company said that a transformer must have caused the failure.

A flood of complaints were received—the failure occurred just a few seconds after the nomination of Adlai Stevenson had been announced and while the national Democratic convention was waiting for the candidate to make an appearance. Many of the residents whose lights were darkened were watching the television report of the convention.

Car Is Recovered, Another Missing

A car stolen Wednesday night was recovered here Thursday, but another was reported stolen this morning.

The car now being sought was taken from Hamby-Parrish Used Cars, 809 E. 4th. It was a two-toned gray 1952 Oldsmobile.

The thieves tore down an iron railing on the west side of the lot in making their escape. Another Chevrolet, a 1955 model, was found to have been tampered with, but the thieves were unsuccessful in wiring around the switch.

Patrolmen Sewell and Johnson located a 1949 Mercury that had been stolen from Lone Star Motor Company Wednesday night. It was abandoned in the 100 block of E. 5th.

Former Resident Dies In Arizona

Claude Robertson, 52, father of R. L. Robertson, 700 Gollard, a former resident of Big Spring, died at midnight Thursday in Miami, Ariz., of heart disease.

Funeral services for the elder Robertson are scheduled for sometime Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left at 11 a.m. today to drive to Miami to attend the rites.

Mr. Robertson was a farmer by occupation. He was well known to many Howard County residents.

Juveniles Held

Three juveniles are being held in the juvenile ward of the county jail and A. E. Long, juvenile officer, said that a fourth youth involved in difficulty with the law was to be added to the list today.

Youth Admits $315 Robbery

A 16-year-old Latin American confessed to robbing the R. E. D. Highway Station on the Lamesa Highway early Thursday morning. The station reported that $315.87 was stolen.

The youth had $86 on him at the time he was arrested Thursday and another $110 was found hidden under his grandmother's house on the Northside later in the day. He led police and district attorney investigator, Bobby West, to the cache but denied that he took any more than $86.

The station had been robbed while the attendant was servicing a truck. He said a youth was in the building when he left to take care of the customer and when he returned, the boy and the money were gone.

Another Latin American told police he saw the boy take the money.

Police detective Jack Shaffer said the boy would go before the juvenile judge probably next Tuesday.

Mercury On Rise In Big Spring Area

Terrific heat which has prevailed steadily in mid-Texas for the past 15 days, keeping maximum temperatures in most towns and cities in that area consistently above the 100 mark—is evidently creeping into Big Spring.

Official high recorded at the U. S. Agricultural Experiment Station on Thursday reached 101. This was the first time that it has exceeded the century point for several weeks in this area.

Low reached by the mercury last night was a warm 78 degrees.

Two Collisions On Thursday Report

All vehicles involved in two collisions here Thursday were Chevrolet.

At 1111 W. 4th, a 1955 Chevrolet driven by Opal Branch Merrill, M. L. Vernon, and Wesley Garland Hardy of Roby were in collision. Hardy was in a pickup.

C. F. Leonard, 1202 Blackmon, and Forrest Edward Mangrum, Lubbock, were involved in a mishap in the 100 block of E. 3rd Thursday. Both were occupying 1956 Chevrolets.

Stevenson Made Comeback In Spite Of Truman's Opposition

CHICAGO (AP) — Less than five months ago Adlai Stevenson was on the floor politically. He got up and went on to win the Democratic Presidential nomination.

And he did it against the determined opposition of such a widely known Democrat as Harry S. Truman.

In the March 20 Minnesota primary Stevenson was flattened unexpectedly by Sen. Estes Kefauver then his chief rival.

The clobbering raised the question: Should he fight or quit? He chose to fight. Associates in Stevenson's Chicago headquarters said the decision was his own. He went back to the primary circuit with altered tactics and techniques.

First, he almost literally stopped running and started walking.

In Minnesota he had hustled from platform to platform. He had paused on each to read a prepared speech; and then, with a wave of his arm, he hurried off to his next appearance.

Thereafter, in Oregon, Florida, California and other points, he made a number of set, formal addresses. But he also chattered informally with folks on streets and in squares. And he hunkered down in a Midwestern farm yard and listened to corn and hog growers.

He shook hands with the hundreds, donned outlandish hats—in general, you might say, he went through customs to enter the political promised land.

After Minnesota, Stevenson acted less like an egghead from Princeton and Chicago's society precincts, and more like a friendly fellow from Libertyville, Ill. Only time will tell how this changed technique will work against President Eisenhower in November, but there is no question that Stevenson changed his ways.

He shot ducks in Arkansas and Georgia and fished in Florida. He sounded a bit different too at times. Nettled by "bossism" charges Kefauver had fired at his top-rank supporters, Stevenson told a Los Angeles crowd he was "plain mad"—a term you wouldn't expect him to choose, for in that sense, from his precision-tooled vocabulary.

Roger Tubby, Stevenson's press secretary, summarized their pitch this way: "Stevenson got 27 million votes in 1952, when he was hardly known nationally.

"This time he starts out widely known and respected, even by many Republicans.

"This time the Democratic party isn't on the defensive.

"This time Eisenhower has a record we think is vulnerable on the farm problem, on Dixon-Yates, on the so-called giveaway programs by the Interior Department, on scandals of its own, on confusion and drift in foreign policy and with Nixon considered a handicap in light of Ike's condition.

"All these things give us a reasonable assumption that we can win in November. It will require a switch of only some three million votes.

"This time we think the South will be almost solidly in the Democratic column. Since 1952 there have been nine new Democratic governors and over 500 new Democratic legislators. This means that in many states the Democratic party is a lot stronger."

Stevenson, who many thought

'First Bale' Bonus Stands Now At $476

Merchant's Committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce has collected $476 as a bonus to be paid to Frank Lovelless, who lives north of Coahoma, as a reward for ginning the first bale of 1956 cotton in this county.

The committee has not closed the drive for bonus money and a large number of wrkers have not as yet reported to the Chamber of Commerce on their collections. It was said that lists might be kept open for several more days.

Lovelless brought in the first bale of cotton several days ago. Award of a cash bonus to the farmer who produces and gins the initial bale of cotton each season is a custom established by the Chamber of Commerce in 1941. Aubrey Beaver was the first farmer to benefit from this custom.

In 1950, Cecil Gibbs received $328 as a prize for his achievement. Frank Fryar, whose bonus was $320, topped all money winners in 1951. Ralph White received $440 in 1952; Ernest L. Newsom $443 in 1953; J. L. Smith, $532 in 1954 and Lawrence Adkins, $704 in 1955.

No plans are being made to auction Lovelless' first bale of cotton to further augment his reward. Auctions of first bales have been conducted in some years in the past.

David Wheeler Funeral Rites Set For Sunday

Funeral for David J. Wheeler, 60, former Howard County resident, has been set tentatively for 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the River Chapel.

The time cannot be finally confirmed until the remains arrive from San Francisco, Calif., where Mr. Wheeler died in a VA Hospital Tuesday after a long illness. He has suffered from a heart condition for the past two years and sustained an attack when he came here in July to attend a family reunion.

Rites will be conducted by the Rev. Mark Reeves, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Coahoma, and burial will be in the Salem Cemetery. Mr. Wheeler was born on the old home place north of Coahoma and had lived here until 15 years ago when he moved to Salinas, Calif.

A sharp pickup in interest in absentee voting was manifest in the office of the county clerk Thursday. At 5 p.m. 87 applications for absentee ballots had been received by the office.

There were several applicants on hand Friday morning and the mail brought additional requests to be filled.

Deadline for voting absentee in the Aug. 25 runoff primary expires on next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

3 Burglaries Reported, Vending Machines Hit

Burglars hit two and possibly three establishments Thursday night, continuing their campaign against vending machines.

At the El Patio, 303 N. Lancaster, approximately $50 in change was taken from a juke box. Three were tried, but the burglars were successful in opening only one. The amount was an estimate by the manager, Walter Green.

The burglars broke the glass from a rear window on the west side in making their entrance.

At the 87 Truck Stop on the Lamesa highway, two or three cartons of cigarettes, plus change from candy and cigarette machines, were taken Thursday night. In addition the burglars took a penny gum machine with them.

Correct estimate of the number of cigarettes taken could not be ascertained until checked by the serviceman. The same was true on the amount of money taken from the machine. Police authorities investigating said they thought the amount was gained from the candy machine.

Police said that the burglars kicked in a back door.

A possible burglary of the City Laundry was reported. Patrolmen reported a back door open which appeared to have been entered, but the owner checked and did not find anything missing at the time.

Report of a burglary at the Servicemen's Center, 113 E. 2nd was made Thursday afternoon. When the crime occurred was not reported.

Nothing was taken but the burglars tried to open a pay telephone and a Coke machine. Policemen said that entry was made through a back window.

Adlai, Demo Candidate, Is Egghead Turned Politician

By ED CREEGH
CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, the man nominated for the presidency for the second time by the Democrats, is an egghead turned politician.

He is a witty man in an arena where deadpan earnestness pays off more often. He all but spurned the nomination in 1952. He fought tooth and nail for it in 1956.

There are some political parallels to Stevenson. Woodrow Wilson was an intellectual—indeed, a college president. Franklin D. Roosevelt was a well-to-do man with an itch for public office. Abraham Lincoln was a fast man with a funny story.

Still, no previous American political figure has combined all the special ingredients that go into the complex makeup of Adlai Ewing Stevenson.

Many a professional politician doesn't know what to make of Stevenson—any more than Stevenson seems to understand some of the pros.

The old pro himself, former President Truman, went all out for Adlai in 1952—though with misgivings, as it later developed. This time Truman went all out for Averell Harriman. He said Stevenson couldn't win without help.

Whose help?

"The old man from Missouri," grinned Missouri's Harry Truman. This old relationship between Stevenson and Truman points up the unusual position in which Stevenson finds himself.

Many Republicans pictured him in '52 as a head-in-the-clouds liberal, a captive of the trade unions and Americans for Democratic Action.

This year, Truman sought to write him off as a "moderate" and a "conservative."

The drama of the Stevenson-Truman split, one of the few things to enliven a sluggish convention, was long in the making. Four years, in fact, though you wouldn't have suspected it from Truman's campaign for Stevenson in 1952.

The general outlines of the pre-convention skirmishing that year are plain enough now from Truman's published memoirs and other sources.

Truman was ready long beforehand to support Stevenson, then governor of Illinois.

In 1952, when he polled the largest vote of any unsuccessful candidate in American history, Stevenson was asked by a reporter if he meant to try again.

"Have that man's head examined," Stevenson said bleakly.

But the presidential bug had bitten deep. It wasn't long before he was flailing away at the Eisenhower administration on foreign and domestic matters alike. The plain implication was that Stevenson felt he could do it better. Finally, after another nudge from Truman to declare his intentions, Stevenson announced last Nov. 15 that he'd like the nomination—and that this time he was ready to fight for it.

Four years had wrought changes in the former Illinois governor.

The urbane but slightly distant platform speaker turned himself overnight into a handshaker who could all but out-estee Sen. Keafauer of Tennessee. And the 1952 leader of devoted bands of amateur politicians installed professionals to help his 1956 campaign and to a large extent let them run it.

These were surface changes. Adlai Stevenson at bottom seems largely the man he was in 1952—balding, of medium height, inclined toward a paunch, unconcerned with his wardrobe... a man given to puckish jokes and staccato laughter, yet a man who can be deadly serious about his beliefs.

It was often said that Stevenson talked over the heads of the voters four years ago. The statement annoyed him at the time, but he has come to use shorter words and sentences since then. And he no longer feels obliged to lecture his audiences. Now, like any orthodox politician, he asks for votes.

A comparative newcomer to politics, Stevenson began seeking votes in 1948 when he took the governorship of Illinois from Republican incumbent Dwight H. Green by the biggest margin in the state's history.

Until then few Americans had ever heard of Stevenson, a comfortably well off man who went to Princeton and Harvard, worked a while on the family newspaper at Bloomington, Ill., practiced law and served in a few relatively minor government posts.

Millions of Americans probably still were unaware of Stevenson's existence when he was pushed into the forefront of Democratic possibilities in 1952.

That was one of the strangest episodes in the memory of old-time political observers.

One night at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Washington Harry Truman made the announcement some had hoped for and others had dreaded—he was not going

School Bond Issue Receives Approval

The $900,000 bond issue of the Big Spring Independent School District has been given formal approval by the state attorney general, John Ben-Shepperd.

As soon as the bonds are validated by the trustee bank, proceeds of the issue will be forwarded to the district's account. The issue was voted to finance stadium improvements, junior high improvements and a start on a new junior high, and new elementary classrooms.

Funeral Set Today For Colorado City Former Citizen

Black, Alhambra, Calif., and Mrs. Roy Glover, El Paso. She also leaves a brother, J. C. Cummings, Chaffield; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Smith, Fort Worth; 17 grandchildren and 37 great-grandchildren.

New Furniture At VA Hospital

New color was added to the Veterans Administration Hospital yesterday.

New chairs and a table were placed on the sun porch in the psychiatric ward on the sixth floor. The bright colored furniture follows the current trend of placing psychiatric patients in bright colored surroundings in which they feel more at home, Dr. Jackson H. Friedlander, hospital manager said.

to run for re-election. Scarcely had the momentary surprise worn off when a mass physical movement toward Stevenson developed. Newsmen, cameramen, politicians flocked to the Illinois governor as if by some herd instinct.

Stevenson gave every evidence of being startled by the impromptu demonstration. As for his being a candidate—

"Horsefeathers," laughed the governor. And he kept right on saying it, though usually in more eloquent language, right up to convention time—while Harry Truman fumed and at one stage was ready to back the late Alben W. Barkley for the nomination.

As it turned out, Stevenson's misgivings about running were justified. He still was little known nationally—and his opponent was a world-renowned war hero. The Democrats were in trouble—the Korean War was unpopular, scandals and the appearance of scandals were in the headlines.

Slightly aloof, often ironical, Stevenson campaigned more on issues than on personalities. Sometimes it seemed to his supporters he was going out of his way to lose votes—by stressing what veteran and other groups would not get, rather than what they would, out of a Stevenson administration.

Whatever the reason or reasons, Stevenson suffered a thumping defeat at the polls. He won only 89 out of 531 electoral votes. He took a "never again" year off, practiced a little law, traveled around the world—and then came out fighting for another crack at the White House.

It looked at first as if he might get the nomination by default. Then Kefauver, a leading contender in 1952, scared the daylights out of him by handing him a second licking in the Minnesota primary.

Stevenson bounced back with primary triumphs in Florida and California—thanks in part to a belated discovery that pumping hands wins votes and in part to inept campaign tactics by Kefauver, which the Tennessee senator later ruefully acknowledged—and said he was sorry.

Kefauver saw the handwriting on the wall, withdrew from the race and started to work for Stevenson's nomination. Today he said he would like second place on the ticket.

That left Harriman as the only serious opponent for Stevenson. And even Harriman—a one-time strong Stevenson supporter—didn't look like much of a threat.

But then Truman endorsed Harriman and a race was on.

Well, it was a "moderate" convention with hardly anybody spoiling for a fight and with a pretty general realization that "moderation" was one of the things the voters had liked about Eisenhower in 1952.

So the nod went to Stevenson, with hundreds of votes to spare on the first ballot.

For him, at 56, this is almost certainly the do-or-die presidential bid. To cash in on it, he has taken off his gloves—not only to shake more hands but to throw some bare-knuckle punches at the opposition. He still prefers issues to personalities. But if somebody starts yelling "Give 'em hell, Adlai," it is unlikely that he will wince.

This is a new public personality for Stevenson, a lawyer who—after a brief World War I hitch in the Navy—served as an assistant to the secretaries of Navy and state, helped draft the United Nations Charter and acted in official roles with U.S. delegations to United Nations conferences.

Stevenson is the grandson and namesake of a vice president. His father, Lewis Green Stevenson, was a farm and mine manager and a power in Illinois Democratic politics. Young Adlai grew up in Bloomington, established a law practice in Chicago after his graduation from Northwestern University Law School there in 1926. He had several Washington jobs in the early New Deal years and was named a special assistant to the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox in 1941.

Stevenson's 1949-1952 tenure as governor of Illinois is a matter of controversy, like most state administrations. Critics have charged laxity and indecision. Supporters say the accomplishments included better schools and a lower state payroll.

Stevenson and his divorced wife, the former Ellen Borden, have three grown sons. The former governor is a Unitarian and has served on many philanthropic bodies. Besides a Chicago home he has a farm at Libertyville, Ill., where he likes to pitch hay and perform other farm chores. The farm, by the way, doesn't make a profit. Farmer Stevenson is in favor of rigid, high-level support prices.

That was one of the strangest episodes in the memory of old-time political observers.

One night at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Washington Harry Truman made the announcement some had hoped for and others had dreaded—he was not going

District Leads In Bond Sales

District 16-A, composed of Howard, Mitchell, Scurry and Borden Counties, led all others in the state during the first half of the year in sales of United States Savings Bonds.

The district led by Ira L. Thurman, who also doubles as chairman for Howard County, had reached 62.2 per cent of its annual quota during the first half, outdistancing the Brownwood district, its nearest competitor with 62.6 per cent.

Quota for the year for this district was $1,610,000 and sales for the first six months aggregated $1,081,516.

Howard County had sales of $579,604 or 74.3 per cent of its quota; Mitchell County had sales of $242,032 or 80.7 per cent of its quota, and Scurry County had sales of $259,879 or 42.6 per cent of its quota, or with no bank facilities, reported no sales.

Druggist Honored

LAMESA — Jess West, partner in the Rexall Drug store here, is due to receive the "druggist of the year" award from the West Texas Pharmaceutical Association. Directors of the association met Thursday in Plainview to round out plans for the presentation. Matt McCall, another Lamesa druggist, attended the meeting of the directors.

Lions Give Pool Profits To Chest

LAMESA—Directors of the Lamesa Evening Lions Club have voted to donate all proceeds from the swimming pool, which the club operates here, from Aug. 19 through Sept. 2, to the Dawson County Community Chest. President Bill Nolan, said, "Since we have already made a little profit, and went into the project with only the idea of making it a community service project, the directors felt that the community as a whole could benefit best through the Community Chest."

AS INDEPENDENT

O'Daniel To Enter November Election

By WHITEY SAWYER Associated Press Staff

W. Lee O'Daniel said Thursday he would be an independent candidate for governor in the November general election. That touched off a flurry of opinions as to whether he can do it.

O'Daniel, third in the Democratic primary July 23, blasted the two men who beat him and are leading in the runoff, Sen. Price Daniel and Ralph Yarborough. He spoke out at a Dallas news conference.

O'Daniel's scheduled broadcast over WBAP-TV in Fort Worth was cancelled. WBAP officials said the station's lawyers had advised them O'Daniel was not a qualified candidate and therefore not able to buy political time.

"They cancelled after they got a copy of my script and found I was still opposing their candidate," O'Daniel asserted.

He said the Texas election code allows him to file as an independent if he presented a petition bearing the signatures of one per cent of the number of voters who voted in the last general election. O'Daniel said he would need only 7,000 names on his petition.

George Sandlin, State Democratic Executive Committee chairman, said the petition must bear the signatures of one per cent of the number of voters who voted for governor in the last general election. He said the signers must not have voted in the primary in which O'Daniel was defeated.

O'Daniel said anyone who does not take part in the Aug. 25 runoff would be qualified to sign his petition.

The Dallas News quoted an authority on election law as saying O'Daniel may have a harder time than he thinks getting on the ballot as an independent.

"The secretary of state could, as has been done in the past, refuse to certify O'Daniel as an independent on the ground that he is violating his pledge on the Democratic primary ballot to support the primary's nominees," said the informant, who asked that her name be omitted.

"And even if the secretary of state chose to be broad-minded and accept the petition, local county officials could refuse to go along."

"This would force the candidate to go to court for a mandamus to order his name put on the ballot."

Yarborough and Daniel both have claimed support from those who voted for O'Daniel.

O'Daniel, former governor and

Herter To Refuse Veep Nomination

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts Gov. Christian A. Herter said today if he is nominated for the vice presidency at the Republican convention, convening next week in San Francisco, he will ask U.S. Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.) permanent convention chairman, to withdraw his name.

Harold Stassen, the President's assistant on disarmament, has announced his support of Gov. Herter for the nomination.

Julia Bonifield Wins Scholarship

FORT WORTH—Julia Kay Bonifield, 608 West 18th Street, Big Spring, has been awarded a special high school scholarship to attend Texas Christian University.

Dr. T. F. Richardson, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, said Miss Bonifield has accepted the $100 per semester award and will begin her studies in the TCU School of fine arts in September. Dr. Richardson said that Miss Bonifield was selected because of an outstanding high school scholastic record and other qualifications.

Uncle Roy: Tower Was Placed On Poor Foundation

By RAMON COFFMAN
PISA — Today I shall take up several questions about the Leaning Tower. The first of these was asked of me by a woman tourist, who looked back from a point just ahead of me, while she was struggling up the circular staircase.

Q. Why was the tower built in Diagram of upper part of Leaning Tower of Pisa.

the first place?
A. It was (and still is) a bell tower. Large bells hang in the top story. When they are rung (as I discovered) they make a din which is hard on the ears of a person standing within a few feet.

How does it happen that the tower leans?
A. The architect and others who were responsible for building it failed to prepare the foundation in a proper manner. The tower has sunk to an average depth of more than seven feet.

On one side (the southern side) the sinking has been greater than on the northern side. The height on the northern side is 181 feet, and on the southern side only 177 feet.

Q. Is sinking going on at the present time?
A. Very little! It is estimated that the slant will be three inches greater at the end of 100 years.

Q. Is it dangerous to climb the tower because the first seven stories are without railings?
A. I found nothing dangerous about it. The circular staircase is inside the tower. When a person gets to the top he finds railings to protect him.

The chief trouble is the absence of an elevator. If you want to go to the top you must use old-fashioned leg-and-muscle power.

Q. When was the Leaning Tower of Pisa built?
A. Like various other buildings of the Middle Ages it was reared during a long period. The work was started 783 years ago, and lasted for two centuries.

Hungarian Reds Free Newsman

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Endre Marton, Associated Press correspondent in Budapest, has been released from a Hungarian prison and reunited with his family.

A Hungarian Interior Ministry spokesman in Budapest said Marton had been given full clemency.

Marton, 44-year-old Hungarian national, was arrested in February 1955 in Budapest on charges of spying for U.S. intelligence agents. He had worked as a part-time AP correspondent in Budapest from 1947 until the time of his arrest.

His wife Ilona, who had worked for the United Press for about the same period, was arrested and charged with him. The Budapest radio said last Jan. 14 Marton had been sentenced to six years and his wife to three years. Mrs. Marton was released in April.

Marton telephoned the news of his release from Budapest to Vienna and said he had been permitted to rejoin his wife and their two children.

Three Traffic E's Stressed

AUSTIN (AP) — The three E's of traffic safety—education, engineering and enforcement—were stressed in statewide traffic safety conferences yesterday.

Sponsored by the Texas Safety Assn., the meeting was attended by over 100 representatives of statewide women's organizations.

"Women and Safety" was the topic of Mrs. Agnes Beaton of Washington. She said "Traffic safety is a woman's business" as well as a man's business.

She told how women could dramatize safety engineering needs, such as traffic lights and stop signs. Enforcement of traffic rules can be aided in two major ways, she said. One is by supporting traffic legislation and proposed legislation, including measures to raise money for more pay for state and local traffic officers and measures to increase the number of such officers.

The other aid to enforcement is to set examples for children and other persons.

Homer Garrison, director of the Department of Public Safety, said 1,421 people have been killed in Texas since Jan. 1, 1956 in 139,000 accidents. More than 63,000 other Texans were injured.

Air Force Relief Plane Crashes

COCOA, Fla., (AP) — An Air Force C-124 carrying relief supplies to hurricane-stricken San Salvador in the Bahamas, crashed and burned on landing today, killing one of the 13 men aboard.

The plane, based at Kelly Field, Tex., left Patrick AFB here shortly before 7 a.m. EST and exploded when it hit the approach end of the runway at 7:35 a.m.

Plans Complete For Annual Jr. Championship Rodeo

Final plans for the Howard County 11th Annual World's Championship Junior Rodeo have been completed, according to County Agent James Taylor.

The rodeo will follow about the same pattern as last year, except for one change in the events. The wild mare race has been deleted from the program, and instead there will be a wild goat milking contest to replace it.

The rodeo will feature the following events: calf roping, ribbon roping, flag race, bull riding, bareback bronc riding, barrel race, goat scramble, goat milking and goat sacking.

A down town parade will be held on Thursday afternoon, August 30, beginning at 4:30 o'clock. Jay DeMont, Chairman of the Parade Committee says several floats have already been entered.

The committee has also planned a booster trip for August 25, which will visit Stanton, Garden City, Sterling City, Colorado City, Snyder, Gail, Lamesa and Ackerly.

In addition to cash prizes, there will be a trophy saddle and trophy buckles given to the winner. The saddle and buckles are on display at Ward's Boot and Saddle Shop.

The rodeo events are open to any boy who has not reached his 20th

Chinese Battle Harbin Flood

HONG KONG (AP) — Scientists, artists and university professors and students joined an army of laborers today in a desperate effort to hold back flood waters menacing Manchuria's big industrial city of Harbin.

The mud-yellow waters of the Sungari River, swollen by typhoon rains, rose Thursday to a record level. Peiping Radio said only superhuman effort prevents the collapse of big sections of the dykes protecting the city of 700,000.

Last night Peiping Radio reported a drop of just over 3 inches in the flood waters. River experts believe the danger is over unless more rains hit the area.

The latest floods came in the wake of typhoon Wanda, which the Communists said took more than 2,000 lives and left at least a million homeless.
