Rains Drench State, Temperatures Drop

By The Associated Press

Heavy rains almost of gully washing size dented—but did not break—the drought in vast areas of Texas during the weekend, extending into Monday.

Heaviest reported rain was five inches in a part of San Angelo.

The best general downpours occurred in parts of North, Central and South-Central Texas, with scattered heavy rains elsewhere.

Some of the major weekend rainfall totals in addition to San Angelo were—Centerpoint, near Kerrville, 3.50 inches, Rio Medina in Medina County 3, San Antonio 2.32, Hondo 2.07, Karnes City 2.21, Wichita Falls 2.42, Dalhart 2.28, Sanger 1.73, Pilot Point 1.20, Fredericksburg 1.60, Palo Alto 1.90, Boerne 1.98, Floresville 1.20, Killen 1.15, Lufkin 1.22, Junction 1.86, Valley Mills 1.50, Midland 1.52, Valley Springs, in Llano County, 1.50, and Borger 1.07.

The rains were touched off by a cool front which dropped temperatures from blistering heights to football weather levels.

Other unofficial and official rainfall totals included Abilene .65, Big Spring .58, Ingram 1.00, Stone-wall .50, Montague .02, Muenster .09, Denton .30, Gainesville .11, Austin .28, and Kerrville .50.

The front dropped temperatures sharply. At Amarillo, where the Sunday afternoon maximum was only 62 degrees the temperature dropped to 53 degrees at 6:30 p.m. Early Monday morning it was 52 degrees in Amarillo.

Maximum temperatures were in the 90's and 100's ahead of the front Sunday afternoon while at cities in the wake of the cool air mass the readings were generally in the 70's and 90's.

The highest reading Sunday afternoon was 104 at Presidio and the highest early morning reading early Monday was 81 at Galveston. A welcome rush of cool air spread over all but the desert Southwest and the Gulf States today, giving much of the nation weather more like October than August.

Scattered, heavy rains fell in the Southern Plains and the Central Rocky Mountain region.

The cooler air sweeping down as far South as Texas and Virginia, sent temperatures plunging as much as 30 degrees in some areas. Fair weather and mild temperatures were on the weather menu for states west of the Rockies.

BETTE SHAKES CAPE AT TIME

A libel suit for $50,000 against Sports Illustrated, a magazine, will be filed by Bette Ford this week, her attorneys say.

The lawyers claim the built-fighter and ex-model from New York was libeled in an article dealing with a contest between Miss Ford and Pat McCormick, Big Spring, at Tijuana, Mexico, July 22. Time Inc. publishes the magazine.

'Front' Brings Light Showers, Stalls Coolers

There was a strange quiet prevailing over Big Spring Sunday.

For the first time in weeks, the whir of air conditioning equipment was lacking; the cold front which was first reported Friday from northwest Kansas pushed down into this area and sent the mercury hurtling down the tube to levels of comfortable coolness.

And with its arrival, the cold front brought showers. Not heavy rains nor even vitally important precipitation, but showers ranging up as much as .56 of an inch in certain parts of town. The sun was obscured most of Sunday by clouds; Sunday night was chilly enough to drive Big Springers indoors for the first time in weeks.

Monday morning dawned with the same gray overcast and summer resort temperatures still in control.

Sport shirts went in discard and coats and even neckties were increasingly numerous Monday morning in the streets and in offices.

The temperature was unable to get above 79 degrees all day Sunday and it dropped to 63 degrees early Monday morning. Temperature was 66 degrees at 8:30 a.m. U. S. Experiment Station North of town reported that rain Sunday measured .19 of an inch and that an added .04 inch fell early today to bring the total to .31 inch.

In the extreme southwest part of town, gauges showed .30 inch. There were reports of even greater rainfall in other parts of the city.

Governor's Race In Final Week

By The Associated Press

Ralph Yarborough and Price Daniel Monday plunged into their final week of campaigning in their run-off race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Daniel scheduled a TV talk in Dallas Monday afternoon, a night rally at Casa Linda in northeast Dallas and another meeting in a Dallas home.

Yarborough planned stops at Lockhart and San Marcos Monday, moving into San Antonio for a drought meeting with farmers Monday afternoon. The "Yarborough Truth Caravan" with a hill-billy band and speakers, was due to visit Luling, Welder, Schulerberg, Hallettsville and Eagle Lake.

Two state-wide nominations will be at stake in Saturday's second Democratic primary. In addition to the gubernatorial race, Will Wilson of Dallas and Tom Moore of Waco will be battling it out for the attorney general's nomination.

W. Lee O'Daniel Sunday night turned down an invitation from Yarborough to appear with the latter at a Wednesday night rally in Waco.

O'Daniel, former governor and senator, ran third to Daniel and Yarborough in the first primary July 28. Last week he announced that he intended to file as an independent candidate for governor in the November general election.

O'Daniel made his announcement at a press conference after WBAP-TV in Fort Worth cancelled a scheduled telecast on the grounds that he was not a candidate and hence not entitled to political time. The station also said that the speech he planned to make might leave the station open to possible libel suits since O'Daniel would be speaking as a private citizen and not as a candidate.

Yarborough Sunday invited O'Daniel to share the platform with him at the Waco rally and make the "speech you had prepared."

Yarborough's wife to O'Daniel said, in part, "Dear Governor: Although I understand that you were sharply critical of me in the speech you planned to deliver over television last week and which was so ruthlessly suppressed, I will be in fair play and I hereby invite you to share with me the platform on the courthouse square at Waco next Wednesday night at my Central Texas rally."

Sunday night Mrs. O'Daniel sent the following reply to Yarborough: "Thank you for your kind invitation for Governor O'Daniel to speak in the Waco rally Wednesday night. Due to previous commitments, he will be unable to accept your invitation."

Vandals Toss Eggs, Damage Feed Sacks In Davis Store

Vandals had an egg-throwing good time Sunday.

And as a result, employees at John Davis Feed Store were facing a complete clean-up job today.

Also hit — apparently by the same persons — was the Merchants Motor Lines warehouse at 709 E. 2nd.

The feed store at 701 E. 2nd was hit sometime between 9:15 a.m. and 3 p.m. Sunday, employees said. When an employee entered the store at 3, he found eggs thrown over the building. The vandals had also taken a pitch fork and punched holes in feed sacks.

In addition, they had helped themselves to soft drinks there and eaten some candy taken from the freight lines. Medicine had also been poured on the floor of the feed store office.

Officials estimated that approximately a case of eggs had been broken and thrown about. Crews were having a messy job this morning setting the store in order.

Between 12 and 15 sacks of feed had to be resacked also. Damage estimated by the store officials was between $25 and $50. Largest loss was from the broken eggs.

Loss at the motor lines was a much heavier, however. Officials there estimated their loss at $150. A window that was not fastened securely was used to gain entrance.

Biggest loss was in oil field parts. Thirty-four ball and seal valves were bothered. Only the ball bearings were taken, but it rendered the valves useless. At least 11 freight boxes were opened, but in most cases, nothing was taken.

A complete list of missing merchandise could not be compiled until (See VANDALS, Page 2, Col. 6)

Texas GOPers Think Demos 'Easy To Beat'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Texas Republican leaders here for their party's national convention said today they consider the Democratic ticket of Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver relatively easy to beat in their state.

The Texans took the renomination of President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon for granted at the convention opening today and turned their thoughts to the campaign ahead.

The 54 Texas votes are slated to go solidly for Eisenhower and Nixon when the nominations are made Wednesday.

H. J. (Jack) Porter, Houston, the state's GOP national committeeman, told a reporter "certainly Adlai Stevenson has not gained any stature in Texas in the last four years."

John Q. Adams, Harlingen, Republican state chairman, said he is sure Texans "have the same confidence in the President that they had in 1952." Eisenhower carried the state by about 130,000 four years ago.

The GOP chieftains left no doubt they were banking heavily on the so-called tideland issue to help keep them usually Democratic Texas in the Eisenhower column.

The President came out for state control of the submerged, offshore oil lands in 1952, and was able to get a bill through Congress with bipartisan help carrying out his pledge soon after he took office.

Stevenson urged continued federal control of the lands in the 1952 campaign, despite pleadings of Texas Democratic leaders that he not do so.

Porter declared, "The people of Texas are not going to forget Eisenhower's performance on this issue."

Adams said he thought Texans "would be afraid Stevenson would try to reverse it and return them (tidelands) to federal control."

Asked if he believed Eisenhower's popularity would rub off on Texas Republican candidates for Congress this fall, Porter answered "It certainly should be helpful to them." But he made no specific predictions of a pickup in GOP seats beyond the one already held by Republican Rep. Bruce Alger in the Dallas district.

However, Porter said his party would have candidates in a number of districts other than Alger's this fall.

The Texas delegation scheduled its first formal meeting today for between the two convention sessions. It is to be at the Villa Hotel in San Mateo, 15 miles south of the San Francisco business district. Most of the Texans are staying there.

Porter, Adams and Mrs. John R. Black, Dallas, national committeewoman, were to be hosts at a luncheon before the caucus.

Texans who arrived early spent a busy weekend of sight-seeing and attending parties. A full line-up of social activities has been arranged, particularly for women delegates.

Republicans Open Frisco Convention Party Untroubled By Big Problems

AT CONVENTION Republicans Plan Star-Studded Show

By ED CREGGH

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of the biggest shows in television history — maybe the biggest of all — opens today. It's called the Republican National Convention.

It's aimed squarely at your TV screen — not primarily at the delegates. They're here to do what is expected of them, nominate President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon. Any other result would be a political miracle.

An odd situation developed this year.

Both the Republicans and the Democrats wanted to capture the attention of as many TV viewers as possible, especially in the big population centers of the East. After all, that free TV time is like so much gold in the Treasury.

Ahead of time, it looked as if the Democrats had by far the better show to offer. They had a couple of fights in prospect and that made for drama.

Actually, most of the action went on behind the scenes and the Democrats had little to offer the TV watcher beyond last Friday's rip-roaring battle for the vice presidential nomination.

On the other hand the GOP was faced with the prospect of a cut-and-dried convention that, in itself, couldn't be expected to hold the interest for long of anybody but those odd souls who like to watch such things as the call to the convention being read.

So the Republicans called in professional TV programmers, timed their show to catch the maximum TV audience, dreamed up some still-secret gimmicks to keep the audience awake, and recruited a host of talent from the entertainment world.

In the hope of overshadowing the Democrats' brief presentations of Frank Sinatra, Vaughn Monroe and others, the GOP scheduled big productions featuring Wendell Corey, Nat "King" Cole, John Charles Thomas, Irene Dunne, Dennis Morgan, Ethel Merman, Irving Berlin and lots of other big names.

The television industry and related enterprises, such as the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., have gone all out to bring the Cow Palace doings into your living room.

Equipment to handle 40 TV channels has been installed. A temporary microwave tower has been set up on a hilltop to carry the TV signal across seven miles of San Francisco rooftops.

A new coaxial cable from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and a new microwave relay system from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., are handling their first TV programs.

Party Untroubled By Big Problems

COW PALACE, San Francisco (AP) — Republicans, untroubled by any major problems, plunged confidently today into a pageant-convention pitched to blunt Democratic attacks and arguments for reelection of an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

Any earlier doubts in the minds of delegates that Richard M. Nixon would again be the running mate with President Eisenhower had been pretty well removed by the time they began coming into this big arena for the opening session of the party get-together.

Harold E. Stassen had got nowhere with his weekend plugging here for delegates to join his "dump-Nixon" crusade. He was about the loneliest man in town.

And word to associates of Nixon was that Eisenhower would leave the track clear to him by taking no action, publicly or privately, to tab any list of others as equally acceptable to him.

Delegates saw, on coming into this hall, big 10x20-foot pictures of Eisenhower and Nixon at one end.

The nearest thing to a disagreement to crop up in the pre-convention preparations was some argument over a civil rights plank in the platform.

This was wrapped up early today with committee approval of a plank which—as happened with the Democrats—was not all that either side of the argument wanted but seemed acceptable to both.

The wording was not immediately made public but was reported to say the party "accepts" as law of the land the Supreme Court's pronouncement that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional. Further, it was understood to approve, the civil rights proposals submitted to Congress by President Eisenhower.

Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut, chairman of the Drafting Committee, told newsmen he thought the plank was stronger than the Democrats' plank and a "very satisfactory solution to a very difficult issue."

By toning down an earlier draft described as stronger, the GOP hoped to help Eisenhower repeat his 1952 feat of sweeping four southern states and also improve their bids to pick up congressional gains in border states.

In the absence of any real struggle over men or issues, the convention ate asphere took on somewhat that of a society wedding.

The principals were known in advance. So were the ceremonies. Nobody anticipated any surprises. Everybody was confident of a happy future.

Picked as the main speakers were Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania and Sen. Andrew Schoepel of Kansas, heads of the House and Senate campaign committees.

Their argument: Eisenhower needs a Republican Congress so his program will be supported with "whole-hearted cooperation" instead of being hampered by "partisan heckling."

GOP Chairman Leonard Hall got in a few shots at the Democrats in his prepared opening remarks.

"There is nothing," he gibed, "that we need say about Adlai Stevenson that Kefauver hasn't already said. There is nothing that we need say about the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket that Harry Truman hasn't already said."

Kefauver said harsh things about Stevenson in primary struggles.

And Truman, before Stevenson finally won the nomination, battled against giving it to him on grounds Stevenson "can't win."

Of course, Truman took it back after the nomination was settled.

Nixon, even though feeling confident of renomination, was getting in a little spade-work with delegates.

In a breakfast talk before a friendly Minnesota delegation, the vice president said he has been asked whether he intended to campaign for renomination. He said he was delighted to call on various delegations but:

"As far as campaigning goes, I've done my campaigning in the past 3½ years."

After counseling delegates to examine his record, he declared the convention should select the most qualified man for his post.

Sen. William B. Knowland of California, who is supporting Nixon, told a news conference he did not believe Stassen has made "even a dent" with his dump-Nixon efforts.

Stassen, on leave of absence as Eisenhower's disarmament assistant, has been plugging for reluctant Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts. Herter is asking Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., the convention's permanent chairman, to withdraw his name if it is offered for second place on the ticket.

In the absence of any indication from Eisenhower that others are acceptable, Nixon's renomination appeared to everybody—probably including Stassen — as about as certain as the shout of acclamation scheduled to greet the formal offering of Eisenhower's name to the convention by Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana.

The assurance that Eisenhower will not submit a list of names of men acceptable to him as a running mate was described as having come from an intimate presidential associate not in the White House.

It was said by authoritative sources to have come in direct response to an inquiry from a voluntary group of friends set up to work for Nixon's renomination.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, officially opening the party's convention today, said last night that if there was any Eisenhower list of vice presidential eligibles available "I don't know about it and I would."

Nixon team members wanted some confirmation from sources likely to know the President's plans. This group, maintaining close contact with top White House staff members, was organized yesterday to fight for Nixon's nomination on the bare chance that Stassen's campaign results in a serious challenge.

Members said the team will continue on an informal basis to hold itself in readiness for a battle on the convention floor if Eisenhower should change his mind and not remain silent about his running mate.

Adlai 'Whistlestop' Campaign Planned

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson gave enthusiastic approval today to an airplane and "whistlestop" train campaign embracing virtually every key state in the country.

He booked time Sept. 13 for a 30-minute, nationwide television address in a drive that will continue without letup until the eve of the election. And it will cover full participation by former President Harry S. Truman and Sen. Estes Kefauver, Stevenson's vice presidential running mate.

Stevenson's campaign manager, James A. Finnegan, Philadelphia political pro, outlined these plans, still being formulated, as he conferred with the nominee at his farm home near here.

There also was no formal confirmation here as yet of reports Stevenson will make an even earlier campaign opener with a non-televised Labor Day address at Detroit. There were reports, also unconfirmed, that Stevenson might speak in New York and Los Angeles, prior to his major TV opener.

Gov. George Leader of Pennsylvania announced Saturday that Stevenson would speak Sept. 12 at Harrisburg, Pa., at a fund raising dinner.

Campaigning will be concentrated in states where Democratic prospects for victory appear brightest.

The conferees, at a dinner last night in Stevenson's home, rejected any idea of the campaigners making President Eisenhower's health an issue.

"The average American rebels at the thought of a man's illness becoming a focal point in a campaign," Finnegan told reporters.

"You don't trust a man's illness in his face. The health question is one for the American people to consider for themselves."

Finnegan said Stevenson's headquarters will be moved to Washington "as quickly as possible" and his entire campaign against Eisenhower will be directed from there in coordination with the National Committee.

"But don't expect Gov. Stevenson to spend much time in Washington," he added. "He'll be out on the stump from the time the campaign starts."

Held In Acid Attack
Gondolfo Miranti, 37, left, and Joseph P. Carlino, 43, right, enter Federal Courthouse in New York where they were held on bonds of $100,000 each in connection with the acid attack which blinded labor unionist Victor Riesel. Miranti was identified by the FBI as the "finger man" who pointed out Riesel to attacker later slain in a gangland assassination. Carlino, whose hands had been shielding his face, was caught peeking by a New York Herald Tribune photographer.

Riesel Sees Link In Trucker Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor columnist Victor Riesel says the slaying of a truck driver Saturday is another link in a chain of underworld murders that have followed by blinding by acid.

The murders are "indicative of a terrific gang war which is just beginning in New York and will soon spread across the nation," Riesel said in a brief television appearance last night—the NBC-Steve Allen Show.

Riesel, blinded by an acid-throwing hoodlum April 5, referred to the killing Saturday of Fred Mischner, 26. The truck driver was found with four bullets in his body in a hallway of a Lower East Side tenement.

Police said, however, there is "no definite association at this time" between Mischner's death and the slaying of Abraham Telvi, 22, last month.

The FBI has said Telvi was the man who tossed the acid at Riesel for a $1,000 fee.

Two ex-convicts were found dead in a parked automobile in the Pecos Hills and streams for an 11-year-old Santa Fe boy who vanished Saturday while seeking aid for a blind companion.

Seachers Seek Missing Youth

PECOS, N.M. (AP) — Search parties today combed the rain-soaked Pecos Hills and streams for an 11-year-old Santa Fe boy who vanished Saturday while seeking aid for a blind companion.

Bobby Martinez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Martinez of Santa Fe, hasn't been heard of since 2 p.m. Saturday when he and a companion, Albert Gonzales, blind Santa Fe attorney, were caught by a rain storm.

Martin Needs Cotton Pickers

Leon Kinney, manager of the Big Spring office of the Texas Employment Commission, said there is a demand at the present for cotton pickers.

He said that Martin County has sounded a call for 200 pickers who are needed at once. The prevailing scale for picking has been set at $2.05 per hundred. Twenty-five cents to 60 cents a hundred is being offered for hauling and weighing.

He asked all persons interested in this type of employment to come to the office of the TEC at once. Applicants will be sent to Martin County.

There is no demand for cotton pickers in Howard County as yet, he said.

Convention Hijinks

A pretty girl never hurt any convention parade and these Texans knew it as they carried Betty Grant, of Whitney, down the aisle of the convention hall during the Democratic national convention in Chicago. They were part of the delegates in demonstration for Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

CONVENTION

All The Suspense Of A Calendar

By SAUL PETT
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republican National Convention opens today with all the suspense of a calendar.

Almost everyone agrees to what's coming — another Eisenhower-Nixon ticket. In a broad sea of confidence, the only island of contention is a tiny atoll manned by Harold E. Stassen. It is well off the main shipping lanes: Stassen's headquarters in the St. Francis Hotel gets few important visitors.

Picture of President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon are the only ones hanging in the convention hall, in the lobbies and corridors of the graceful old hotels atop Nob Hill and along the alpine slopes of Powell Street. Pictures of any other candidates are harder to find than an empty hotel room.

Everywhere you turn you're handed Eisenhower-Nixon buttons, you see Eisenhower-Nixon signs like "Click with Ike and Dick," you see dancers and singers whooping it up for the incumbents.

Last night a hotel rumor swept past the sedate marble columns of the Fairmont Hotel. The rumor was that one key delegation was badly split—where to have dinner. But it quickly blew over.

Outside of Stassen's small voice, there are just no signs of disagreement here. You don't see candidates racing between hotels to make their sales pitches. You see none of the frantic pulling and hauling, banging attacks and counterattacks and other signs of battle you saw among the Democrats at Chicago last week.

It would take a Harry Truman to stir up this convention. Delegates don't argue candidates. They talk about riding the cable cars, touring Fisherman's Wharf or waiting in line at the "Top o' the Mark" for a look at the city from the heights of the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

The convention hall itself is the big Cow Palace, south of town, at the foot of San Bruno Mountain and near "Boneyard Hill," where animal carcasses are pulverized into fertilizer. Like the Democrats at the Chicago Stockyards Amphitheater, delegates at this convention will not be without a memorable odor.

In a barn near the main hall, the Republicans have 2,000 extras on hand — "volunteers" who will be rushed, 500 at a clip, into the hall to fill any sizable empty spaces that may develop in the spectator seats.

Inside the Palace — which, incidentally, was built by the Roosevelt administration's WPA — pictures of Eisenhower and Nixon hang at the east end. Each is 10 by 20 feet. At the opposite end is a huge gold and bronze display featuring an Eisenhower and Lincoln medallion and the words, "peace—prosperity." State banners hang from the high, brown, cantilevered roof. The mezzanines, boxes and speaker's platform are faced in green. The speaker's platform here is a switch on the Democrats. In Chicago, the floor where the speaker stood could be raised or lowered to adjust to his height. Here the floor remains stationary but the letters will be moved up or down.

Yesterday technicians were busy making last minute adjustments. Robert Montgomery, the presidential television adviser, was there to make certain, he said, the television picture will not be cluttered by distracting elements when Eisenhower speaks.

Also on hand was Leroy Prinz, movie producer, who is impressing the "spontaneous" demonstrations at this convention.

Among other things, Prinz said, he plans sudden outbursts of Eisenhower enthusiasm led by collegiate cheer leaders. From the spectator balconies will come clackety-clack type chants, like "Who do you like—like, like, like." Young Chinese Republicans will whoop it up with dragons.

Conference On Suez In Showdown Stage

LONDON (AP)—The United States laid the Western proposal for international operation of the Suez Canal before the 23-nation Suez conference today.

A few minutes earlier India had proposed a compromise giving Egypt the major role in operating the waterway.

The delegates did not get around to discussing either in the formal meeting.

School Bands To Organize

Junior and senior high school bands will prepare to "hit the ground running" when they hold their first meeting of the autumn season Friday.

Bobby Robbins said that the junior high band has been called to rehearsal at 9 a.m. and the high school group at 10:30 a.m. At these times, a schedule will be set up to permit as many practice sessions as possible before the start of school. The number will depend upon how the schedule can be fitted into the workshop for faculty members next week.

Both Friday sessions will be at the high school band room. Robbins said that Clyde H. Rowe, high school director, and he were anxious to have the band in as good condition as possible because two weeks after the opening of school the first football game will be played. Robbins is junior high band director.

Reader Locked In Bus Station

Heavy concentration on a magazine left an airman locked in the bus station Sunday.

The police dispatcher received a call about 12:15 Sunday afternoon from A.I.C. Donald Carpenter, who said he was locked in the Trailways Bus Station on Scurry. He said that he was sitting on a magazine rack and did not see the manager close the building about noon.

The manager, Frank Rice, was notified and unlocked the building. Carpenter said he could have gotten out, but in doing so he would have left the building open.

Vealmoor Baptists Holding Revival

Rev. Cal McGahey of Palestine, formerly pastor of churches in this area, is conducting revival services at the Vealmoor Baptist Church this week.

Rev. McGahey served as pastor of churches at Fairview and Cuthbert in Mitchell County before moving to East Texas. Revival services will be held at 8 p.m. daily through Sunday.

Ellis Iden is in charge of song services. Rev. Joe Bass is pastor of the church.

submitting the Western "declaration of principles", said a definite system must be established "to guarantee at all times and for all the powers the free use" of the Suez Canal.

He said of the proposals presented here that "no majority—however large—can bind a minority however small." According to the Cairo press, the Western proposals have been rejected already by Egypt's special envoy here, Ali Sabry.

India's V. K. Krishna Menon suggested that consideration be given without prejudice to Egyptian ownership and operation and urged the formation of a group embracing both the user interests and the Egyptian "operating" corporation.

Menon's plan involved the setting up of a two-tier system of operation and control of the canal with the Egyptians in the top tier and the foreign users joined in an advisory group of lower rank.

Menon obviously failed to sway Western diplomats.

The Western proposal would set up a Suez Canal Board, with Egypt as one member.

"This is not a conference to negotiate with Egypt, for Egypt is not here," Dulles said. "This is not a conference through which to deliver any kind of ultimatum to Egypt."

Dulles said the task of the conference is "to arrive at the greatest possible consensus."

This afternoon's session was delayed 45 minutes while Dulles met with Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, presumably to fill him in on the West's firm stand for international authority to operate the canal.

Egypt already has rejected this. In a merry-go-round of last minute diplomatic developments before the roll is taken, there were indications the document which would emerge from the conference would contain a variety of viewpoints but with a majority of the delegates supporting the Dulles plan.

What ever the immediate outcome of the conference, one Western official said he is convinced military action in the Mediterranean is now remote.

Crippled Children's Parents Will Meet Wednesday Evening

Parents of crippled children are invited to participate in a meeting Wednesday evening which might lead to the formation of an organization.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Parks, 1610 Purdue, at 8 o'clock, and notices have been sent to as many people whose names and address are known to those who have been working with the summer water therapy group. However, there may be others who have not received notices, and leaders in the move are anxious that they be sure to attend.

MARKETS

WALL STREET — The stock market closed an irregular course in early trading today. The market turned quiet after a modern active opening.

There was little in the way of major news to influence the market sentiment. In London, some delegates to the important Suez conference reported the danger of a shooting war over the canal dispute was fading.

The early mixed trend was a continuation of Friday's market, when The Associated Press average of 50 stocks slipped 20 cents to $182.80.

Olson L. Martin again was heavily traded today, with an opening block of 7,500 shares up 1/4 at 27. On Friday, Martin was the most active issue on the exchange, gaining 1/4 at 26 1/2 on 25,000 shares. Traders attributed the advance to word of big contract the company has received in the intercontinental guided missile field.

LIVESTOCK — PORT WORTH (AP) — Cattle 6.50; calves 6.00; cattle and calves active and strong to 50 higher; good and choice steers and yearlings 17.00-25.00; common and medium 15.00-18.00; fat 14.00-16.00; yearling weaners 10.00-15.00; slaughter swine 4.00-5.00.

COTTON — NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular today in slow dealings. Most of the activity centered in the near months with trade buying extended to 75 cents a bale. The market eased from the best later on profit taking and hedging.

for a two-tier system of managing the canal. At the top would be an Egyptian directorate and underneath an international body, including foreign users of the canal.

While the Egyptian directorate would have the final word of operation of the canal, it would be bound to seek advice of the international group on such questions as development and financing.

The Egyptians were reported to be not particularly receptive to this idea, although not rejecting it outright. Menon was said to feel there might be a possibility of amalgamating his idea with the American proposal.

Delegates held many private talks.

Water District Board To Meet

A meeting of the board of directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District has been called for Thursday noon, Robert T. Piner, president, announced today.

Principal item of business will be that of a water rate schedule which would become effective Jan. 1, 1957. The water rate committee, headed by J. J. Rhoades of Odessa, is to meet at 10 a.m. on the Settles mezzanine in advance of the luncheon which will open the board meeting.

Under terms of the CRMWD indenture, the rate pattern imposed at the start of the project was to assume a new form after five years. As of Jan. 1, member cities then would pay under a formula which includes each city's pro rata share of capital costs of the dam and pump stations, plus a factor which takes into consideration the distance that water must be pumped to the various members.

$400 In Fines In City Court

Judge in corporation court this morning assessed fines totaling over $400 with a large group of the fines being for drunkenness.

Nine out of the 22 charges ending with assessments were for drunkenness and they brought $194 in fines. The day's total was $484.

Four of the fines cost defendants $30 each, four were charged $15 each, and one got off with a $5 assessment. One of the drunks fined $30 was also given a $60 fine for disturbance.

Four were guilty of driving without a license. Two drew $25 fines each and the others were made to pay $10 each. Two persons were fined $5 for failure to yield right-of-way, while one was assessed $10 for driving on the wrong side of the street.

Speeding violations numbered three, one paying $50, another $25, and the third $10. Fines for making a left turn on a red light and running a stop sign cost two violators $5 each.

Anti-Tank Shell Found At Snyder Moved To Webb

Picking up scattered live ammunition of the sort ordinarily used by Army guns is not an Air Force responsibility, even in combat areas, let alone in peaceful West Texas.

But that was the job required of Capt. Robert J. Leighty, Webb AFB supply officer, during the past weekend.

When police at Snyder learned an unexploded 40 mm high explosive anti-tank shell had been found near the National Guard Armory there, they immediately called the Big Spring Police Department, which in turn relayed the message to Webb.

Capt. Leighty, acting base ammunition surveillance officer, left immediately for Snyder, accompanied by an NCO ammunition expert, M. Sgt. Alvin J. Lovett. They returned the big shell to Webb AFB for storage until a team from the nearest Army bomb disposal center can come here to make disposition of it.

On State Program

LAMESA, Aug. 20.—The Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, will deliver one of the main speeches at the state wide Sunday School meeting in El Paso, Sept. 17-21. The title of his talk will be, "A Successful Church Program of Evangelism." About 1,500 persons are expected to attend the meeting sponsored by the Sunday School Department of Texas Baptist General Convention.

Emotion

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler displays emotion as he talked to the Democratic National Committee in Chicago. Butler submitted his resignation to the group but Adlai Stevenson pleaded with members to reject it and Butler was re-elected by acclamation.

Mr. Blair lived in Lamesa from 1925 until 1954 when he moved to Andrews. He was born in Erath County.

Rev. E. L. Jones, pastor of the Bryan Street Baptist Church, is to officiate in services at the Higginbotham Chapel here. He will be assisted by Arthur Wright, Andrews minister. Interment will be in Lamesa Memorial Park.

Mr. Blair is survived by his wife, four sons, Millard of Andrews, Willard of Felipe, Spain, Leon of Muleshoe, and Fayne of Houston; six sisters, one brother and six grandchildren.

Wounds Described As Suicide Attempt

A Northside resident was taken to Cowper Hospital Sunday after apparently attempting to commit suicide.

The man was rushed to the hospital by police after he stabbed himself in the chest. Officials at the hospital termed the wounds minor and he was released immediately after receiving treatment.

Juveniles Held In County Jail

Two juveniles were being held in county jail in connection with a fight over the weekend. A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, said the pair, with several other juveniles who have been arrested in the past week for various offenses, would be brought before R. H. Weaver, juvenile judge, possibly on Wednesday of this week.

VANDALS

Ill the stock could be inventoried. A small amount of candy was stolen, and the wrappers were found at the Davis Feed Store. Also found at the feed store were two model airplane motors which were stolen from the freight lines.

The vandalism was discovered at the freight lines early today by a driver, E. P. Ross.

Another break-in was reported Saturday, but the burglars in this instance were not paid for their trouble. For the fourth time since Aug. 1, the Kimble Mill was burglarized.

The only thing missing, however, was six cents from a soft-drink machine.

Parked Auto Hit

Only thing near an accident in Big Spring Sunday was a report of someone hitting a parked car. W. S. Goodlett Jr., 1802 Goliad, informed the police that a car had been hit while parked in the 200 block of W. 5th Sunday morning.

A Bible Thought For Today

But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the LORD appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost. (St. Matthew 1:20)

New Adlai In A New Try

When Adlai Stevenson took Florida away from Estes Kefauver by none too convincing a margin in the primary it was a do-or-die turning point in his drive for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination. When he overwhelmed Kefauver with an avalanche of votes in California he was "in."

Until that moment a great many Democrats, and particularly the top-flight leaders of the party, had doubts about Adlai's vote-getting ability. The people were seeing a new Adlai, Adlai not afraid to mix it with all comers, to get out and glad-hand one and all and appear to be having the time of his life doing it.

From that moment there could be hardly any doubt about the outcome at Chicago. Even the Stevenson luck was on the mend, for Harry Truman's extraordinary conduct at Chicago accomplished something of incalculable value to Adlai Stevenson—it destroyed any chance the GOP might have to "run" Hoover time after time.

Stevenson's unprecedented gesture of throwing the vice presidential nomination wide open, and the connotations it bore, was a strategic masterstroke. The vice presidency, he said, had become an office of such vital importance that only the people who chose the presidential nominee himself should make the choice of his runningmate. His seemingly casual reference to the fact that once vice president in five had been called on to take over the reins of government carried its own commentary. No more was said or needed to be said.

The fact that Estes Kefauver came so nearly losing out to Sen. John Kennedy for the second place bore testimony to the spontaneity of the balloting.

His enemies accuse him of adapting President Eisenhower's policy of "moderation" to his own needs. If so, time about is fair play; Mr. Eisenhower's Republican foes accused him of taking over the Democratic program almost literally.

In any case, moderation and party unity swept the boards. Perhaps people are tired of violent argument and vituperative forensics. If the 1956 campaign is to be a contest of the soft impeachment and the down-played billingsgate, Adlai Stevenson will be able to hold his own.

Even his sense of humor, which was derided in 1952, may come in handy this year. A people in the mood for moderation may find it charming and relaxing.

Another Scene, Similar Script

The nation's attention shifts this week from the stockyards of Chicago to the Cow Palace of San Francisco for the second and final round of speechmaking, politicking and parades to select a major party candidate for President.

At Chicago there was some doubt as to the identity of the eventual winner, but not much. There was nothing but doubt as to his runningmate, but the Republicans decided months ago theirs would be Eisenhower and Nixon.

Until Harold Stassen launched his campaign in behalf of Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts as a replacement for Nixon, there had been no spoken thought among GOP leaders that the selection of a ticket could be anything but a formality.

It still probably won't be anything but Eisenhower and Nixon, but the formalities may undergo a slight change. If so, it will be due to Stassen's one-man campaign to "open it up" plus Adlai Stevenson's insistence that his vice presidential runningmate be chosen by the Democratic convention of its own free will and accord, without even a hint from him.

Especially Stevenson's startling innovation may cause the GOP to put on more of a vice presidential nominating show than they originally intended.

Survey Of The Democratic Platform

CHICAGO — The art of politics is the art of "compromise." A favorite device is to manipulate in a convention platform words and phrases in such a way that each side can persuade itself that its own particular version will be accepted as gospel back home.

But while the Democratic national convention wrote a plan on "civil rights" that didn't really satisfy either the North or the South, the politicians tried to convince themselves that it meant "unity" and they let it go at that. Hardly, however, had the platform been published when Adlai Stevenson, the nominee of the convention, issued a statement saying he would have preferred in the platform a "specific endorsement" of the Supreme Court's decision on segregation. And then the spirit of "compromise" seemed to evaporate. But there wasn't much the Southerners could do about it except to pour forth some indignant comments in their speeches, as, for instance, the caustic address by Governor Griffin of Georgia.

For what was really proved is that platform committees may labor long, and orators may wave their arms in oratorical flourishes to get a platform adopted, but the candidate — now as always — interprets the platform to suit his own ideas of campaign strategy. Adlai Stevenson feels that the electoral votes of the South are "in the bag" and that all he has to do now is to win the Negro votes in the big urban communities of the North.

Last week revealed a depressing performance on the platform planks as a whole. They were not as sharply worded and as concise as the platforms of bygone days, and there were many inconsistencies, especially between different sections of the same plank. While denouncing the Communists and approving in a creditable fashion the opposition of the United States to the entry of Red China into the United Nations, the foreign policy plank nevertheless criticizes the Republi-

James Marlow
Good Intentions And Political Bunk

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Democratic and Republican platforms

—those promises of what they'll do if the voters elect them—are a combination of good intentions and plain political bunk.

The prime example: Their planks on foreign policy. The rarest thing in a political platform is a new idea. You won't find a single one in the two parties' foreign policy planks if you search them from end to end.

With perhaps one main exception—arms for Israel—you will find no real differences between the parties' foreign policies.

From 1933 to 1953, while they ran the show, the Democrats put together a number of basic foreign policies and programs. The Republicans took them over lock, stock and barrel when they were elected four years ago.

So the differences between Democrats and Republicans are on how the policies and programs, now the property of both parties, are being handled. The Democrats say they could do it better. The Republicans say they're doing fine.

For example: Both Democratic and Republican foreign policy planks pledge the two parties to continue foreign aid, to help underdeveloped countries, to rely on collective security against Communist aggression, to support the U.N., to back Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese on Formosa, to oppose a seat for Red China in U.N., to continue to seek the freedom of Americans held prisoner by the Red Chinese, to work for the unity of Western Europe, to preserve peace in the Middle East, to intensify cooperation with Latin America.

The Republicans refrain—in saying they will try to keep peace in the Middle East—from saying they will give arms to Israel. The Democrats pledge themselves to help arm the Israelis.

The Democrats, blasting the Republicans' handling of foreign affairs, find nothing good to say about President Eisenhower's performance. And they omit any mention of this fact: That fear of war between the United States and Russia has receded greatly under Eisenhower and since his meeting with the Russians.

But the Republicans, apparently hoping that voters are not too familiar with the details of foreign affairs, shovel out bunk of their own.

They claim "international communism" has shown "hesitance both at home and abroad." That's bunk. The Russians have become economically aggressive since they began talking more peacefully.

They have the administration concerned by their offers of aid to backward countries, by their growing influence in the Middle East. The administration has found no new way to cope with them. It's relying on the tried remedies: Foreign aid and big loans.

The Republicans talk, as if with pride, about the liberation of Austria from occupation rule and the fact she is independent. The Eisenhower administration didn't bring that about.

Austria became free and independent only because the Russians— for whatever their reasons—decided to withdraw their troops. The Democrats had been trying to get the Russians to do that. The Eisenhower administration simply adopted the same policy and finally the Russians withdrew.

Again the Republicans speak as if with pride about the condition of Viet Nam in Indochina which, the Republican plank says, is "now free and independent."

But what the plank carefully omits saying is this: Since the Eisenhower administration took over, the Indochinese Communists forced the French— while the United States looked on helplessly—to split Viet Nam in half. They hold the northern part.

An Air Conditioned Democracy

NEW YORK (AP)—Some things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That air conditioning is responsible for a major improvement in American political practices: The hotel room in which party leaders pick a candidate no longer has to be smoke-filled. Presumably this enables them to see the issues more clearly.

That Betty Furness, the pretty lady icebox peddler, took a 30-dress wardrobe to the two national political conventions... but not to be outdone, Carl King, huckster for a rival TV network, showed up with 15 suits, 20 ties, 5 belts, 8 tiespins, and 24 sets of bvd's.

That Elaine Malbin, the opera singer, has changed her hair style 33 times this year alone.

That there are only about 123 pounds of steak on a 1,000-pound steer—which explains why most of us have to eat hamburger.

That—male motorists probably won't believe this—two-thirds of the women in America don't drive automobiles. It only seems like the other third all get on the highway at the same time.

That if a girl doesn't want too much competition while husband hunting her best bet is to go to college. Two out of three of America's 2,400,000 college students are men.

That a young man seeking a wife who can keep him in the style to which he wants to become accustomed will do better to look for an heiress rather than a working girl. Only 40,000 of the 21 million American women who hold jobs outside the home earn $10,000 or more a year.

That, no matter how many headaches the woes of modern life produce, the drug industry feels ready to cope with them. Does it comfort you to know there are now machines that can spew out a million tablets in 8 hours?

That two-thirds of the rainfall in America falls in the Eastern half of the country—a condition about which Congress has done precious little.

That we may not live as pure lives as our grandparents, but we must be a lot cleaner. The per capita use of water has increased from 600 gallons a day to 1,500.

That only one out of every 10 people who start a diet ever get down to their desired weight—and stick to it.

That the chances are one in four you own some U. S. savings bonds.

That Gertrude Berg—"Molly Goldberg"—gives this leap year tip: "A sensible girl should have enough sense not to look like a sensible girl."

Big Alarm

WILLIAMSPORT (AP)—It took some persistence but city firemen did find out that where there's smoke there's fire.

They were called to the same location within three hours but on the first trip could find nothing.

Receiving another complaint of smoke filling a downtown hotel, they rushed to the spot and finally found a small blaze in a sealed one-foot space between two buildings. Fire Chief Harold E. Kinley said the cause was either a cigarette or the sun.

Knows How

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Judge Edward L. Oast of Norfolk County Circuit Court knows something about criminals but he has added to his experience.

Judge Oast wasn't looking down from the bench but was looking up from a sofa when a masked bandit entered his cottage at Nag's Head, N. C. He caught the bandit off guard, floored him with a right and held him down until officers could be summoned from the sheriff's office.

Around The Rim

U. S. Not What Others Think It Is

American movies, steamship folders and Chamber of Commerce literature must have painted some superlative pictures of life in this country.

In some of the places I've visited, the natives are prone to look upon all Americans as wealthy (which we are, in many ways), boasting boundless energy (which I might have, on the first Monday in April and the third Friday in October) and inclined toward getting as little sleep in a 24-hour period as possible (I've always voted the siesta ticket myself, early enough so that it won't interfere with one's after-supper nap).

If you were from Texas, you were out of character (and oftimes shunned) if you didn't wear boots, roll your own cigars and insist you like jerky beef better than filet mignon.

If you happened to call California home, you were supposed to have better than a nodding acquaintance with Gregory Peck and Spencer Tracy and own an orange grove, planted around a swimming pool, fronting on the Pacific Ocean.

A French girl visiting in this country recently corrected a few of the impressions she grew up with after studying America and Americans at close range.

Where she had formed the opinion that the average American female was a "club woman" and, for that reason, a poor housekeeper, she found American homes neat and well-kept, although the women here devote only one fourth as much time to her household chores, as do the French. The difference, of course, is due to that fact that Americans have the equipment to save time.

To most Frenchmen, wrote the girl, the American man was an "athletic colossus" who, when not killing himself at his work, is away from home playing golf or putting about on some million dollar hobby.

To her surprise, the French lass found many American men pursuing do-it-yourself jobs "around the house," "to save a few francs."

The farmer here, said the Frenchwoman, fits no expected pattern as he does in her country — he may be big or little; but he's a business man and increases his property by buying and selling.

The American, noted she, operates his farm like a factory; the French peasant tills his land like a garden.

She found that men of this country usually speak of women's accomplishments in a tone of admiration. In her country, she stated, the average Frenchman is indifferent to or disdainful of female activities outside the home and the French peasant is downright disdainful toward the idea.

American executives, said she, work harder than do those in Europe. On the other hand, she thought American employees were inclined to take it easier than their European cousins.

The European visitor was afraid all factories over here would be closed to her. Instead, she was not only taken on guided tours but loaded down with informative brochures.

She was impressed by the "suggestion boxes" and the piped-in music, by the financial aid given Americans who want to go to school at night, by the fact that executives and workers called each other by their first names, by the absence of class resentment.

She is of the opinion that French students are more intellectual than American students and added that social life on the American campus is more of an institution than she had imagined.

She got the impression that here there may be too much emphasis on conformity, too much desire for security, too little aspiration for accomplishment.

Foreign Policy And Civil Rights

Although the Democratic convention adopted the platform a few hours after Stevenson's nomination became a certainty, the men who put together the long section on foreign affairs were not thinking very much about any Presidential candidate. For by no stretch of the imagination can this section be read as a serious and responsible statement of what would be U. S. foreign policy if a Democrat became President. The many paragraphs are not a platform on which a party can stand. They are a heterogeneous heap of planks thrown together in the hope of pleasing every pressure group, wherever located, with which politicians have to reckon. The result is not a statement of national policy but a collection of items supposed to appease or attract in the various localities.

The best thing that can be said for the Democratic foreign policy platform is that it is no worse, no more demagogic and no more irresponsible, than was the foreign policy section of the Republican platform on which Gen. Eisenhower ran in 1952. Indeed, there is reason for wondering whether the authors of this Democratic platform did not use the Republican platform of 1952 as a working model.

Gov. Stevenson will, no doubt, have to say now what Gen. Eisenhower said four years ago, that he approves of the platform and will run on it. But if he is elected, he will have to do what Gen. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles have done, which is to hope that the country will forget what the platform says, and that the loose words will be regarded as part of the great game of politics, not to be identified too closely with the conduct of foreign affairs.

There is no evidence, so far as I could see, that the Convention was interested in the platform on foreign affairs. For while every delegation was, no doubt, interested in appeasing or attracting one or another of the pressure groups, none of the delegations was much interested in all the groups. The platform as a whole aroused no interest in the Convention as a whole.

The real and the most serious business in the platform was the part about civil rights. My own view is that the outcome may well be regarded in the future as an event of great significance and great promise in the history of American sectional and racial relations. For who that has known the tension which has followed the decision of the Supreme Court would have dared to hope that the Northern and the Southern Democrats could find common ground, could find it — all things considered — with no rancor, so calmly, with such an overwhelming determination on all sides to be tolerant and accommodating.

The words of the platform are an unequivocal declaration in favor of using persuasion to bring about compliance. Insofar as the words chosen to say this are somewhat muted, are not emphatic and defiant, are couched in the language of understatement, it is because the Democratic leaders, Gov. Stevenson himself and Mrs. Roosevelt, who is the keeper of the party's conscience on this issue, were wise enough not to force the hands of the Southern leaders. There are great masses of the Southern people who are not persuaded, and if they are to be persuaded, it will have to be by people who live in the South and know its problems.

For those who believe that desegregation must be ended, but that it can be ended only by consent, and never by force, there is nothing weak in the civil rights plank. It is, indeed, a courageous act of accommodation on the part of the political leaders of the South, and one which does them great honor.

Humans Have To Run Electronic Gadget

PHILADELPHIA — "Look, General, you're short resistors. You'd better get an order out—and fast."

No sergeant, lieutenant, major, or colonel would speak that brusquely to a general. But the Army's got a machine that will.

And if the general doesn't get a waddle on his signature, the machine will comment the next day:

"Look, you big lug, it takes three months to get these gadgets made. They're plumb out of them at Tobyhanna, Pa. They barely have basic stock at Lexington, Ky. At Decatur, Ill., they're understocked, and Sacramento's just comfortable. Yet, you sit there watching the secretaries go by."

If the general's still impervious to activity, the machine stands its ground. No matter what the justification for exasperation, the machine doesn't blow up, doesn't raise its voice. It just repeats—like a phonograph record that goes round and round in the same groove. And it's all printed out—in plain dignified language. But the meanings indelibly clear: "Get the order out, you lug."

As you've no doubt surmised, this is an electronic date-processing machine—EDPM. It has just been installed at the Army Signal Supply Agency (TASSA) in Philadelphia, and is designed to keep a running check on some 150,000 Signal Corps items valued at a billion dollars.

It will cost the army, as user, and you and me as taxpayers, $15,000 to $26,000 a month. That's International Business Machine's rental for the installation, complete with engineers to keep it operating.

Col. Clifford A. Poutre, a white-haired, mild-mannered, even-spoken man, who's in charge, promises us our money back many times over in (a) better service to troops and (b) improved management of supplies. "If we cut only 1 per cent from our billion dollar inventory," says Col. Poutre, "that is $10,000,000. If we can reduce our annual purchase of $450,000,000 by only 1 per cent, that's $4,500,000."

He really expects more. At present, the Signal Corps reviews its inventory item by item with punch-card machines every three months. If an item runs low in stock just after inventory-taking, it's three months before the Signal Corps catches on and probably another 3 to 6 months before delivery of orders. So, naturally, the general orders the colonel, the colonel orders the major, the major orders the captain, and so on, to the clerk: "Be sure there's plenty of plenty." EDPM permits plenty without too much.

The machine works so fast—and can make so many calculations—that new dimensions have been added to inventory control. It's a labor-saving device. Yet, instead of doing away with people, just as many persons will be needed to keep up with the machine's speed and intelligence. And they'll have to be better trained to carry out its decisions!

Unfortunately, the machine has two basic faults. The data have to be inserted by human beings and human beings have to act on its decision.

MRS. ROBERT GENE ENTZ

Angeline Jobe Is Wed To R. G. Entz

LAMESA—Angeline Jobe became the bride of Robert Gene Entz of Williamsport, Pa., in a ceremony read Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Charrell Jobe of 112 North Ave. I, Lamesa, are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom's parents are the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert S. Entz, 2701 Newberry Street, Williamsport, Pa.

Rev. Entz read the double ring ceremony. The chancel was covered in white with a background of greenery and white tapers. A white kneeling bench was used.

John Lee Bryant, organist, presented musical selections as the guests assembled and accompanied Richard Evans who sang, "Set Me as a Seal" from the Song of Solomon, an original song composed for the wedding by the bride.

"Serenade," Sigmund Romberg; "Father of Lights," and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional professional and recessional were used.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon velvet designed with an empire waistline flowing into a sweeping skirt and chapel train. The neckline was scalloped and the sleeves ended in points over the wrists. The circular veil of illusion, edged with Chantilly lace handing, was attached to a head-dress of crystal sequins and rhinestones.

The traditional old, borrowed and blue were followed with a wrist watch, a gift from the bridegroom; borrowed were earrings belonging to the bride's mother; blue garters, and a lucky sixpence in her shoe was a souvenir of the bride's trip to England. She carried vanilla orchids atop a white Bible, a gift from the Luther Standefers.

Maid of honor was Helen Wood of Midland; Mrs. Raymond Wood, Abilene, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Trotter, Lubbock; Mrs. Bob Rutledge, Abilene, and Mrs. James Hardwick of Eastland. They wore identical dresses of royal crepe satin fashioned in the empire style with scalloped necklines and sleeves. They wore matching orchid shoes and bonnets of velvet and tulle. Their bouquets were of yellow mums and pompon daisies.

Marian Earnest, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. Anita Earnest, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer. The tapers were lighted by Carol Earnest and Karen Holmes, of Lamesa, cousins of the bride.

Ned Entz, of Moses Lake, Wash. was the best man. Ushers were Bob Rutledge, Abilene; Bruce Earnest and Milton Earnest, both of Lamesa, and cousins of the bride; Jim Hardwick of Eastland, and Richard Evans of Lamesa.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The refreshment table was laid with a white organza and yellow linen cloth with appointments of crystal and silver.

Forming the centerpiece was the square tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow and orchid flowers and topped with fresh yellow roses. Juanece Koen and Jimmie Lou Davis were at the bride's table. Mrs. Will Ford registered the guests.

For travel, the bride wore an aqua sheath dress with flame gloves and an imported Italian hat. Her shoes and bag were navy and she wore an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of the Lamesa High School, Hardin-Simmons University and a graduate fellow at the University of Texas. Her husband was graduated from Williamsport, Pa., High School and the Williamsport Technical Institute. He served four years with the U. S. Air Force.

The couple will make their home at Williamsport, Pa.

Major investment in any back-to-school wardrobe is a coat which will see the young fry smartly through a long, hard season, from snowballs to Sunday School.

Mom will be wise, therefore, if she examines fabric labels carefully, selects a sturdy wool or a proven blend that will stand the gaff, dark enough not to show soil easily, cut on the simple lines that always are best for school girls.

This fall there are some new wrinkles in the school coat lineup. Lines are narrower than last year, usually sloping gently from the shoulders, slightly wider at the hemline. Dark, rich colors are the tops, with brown and black combinations high in favor. There's a dark chocolate brown that is particularly good in classic alpaca coats, while dark muted plaids also are important.

The new coats may be either fitted or loose, both styles being equally smart. Linings take on new interest this year, also. There are many milium linings, giving a lightweight comfort. Sometimes a contrasting lining is used, with a scarf to match.

Hooded coats are all over the place for winter, as the younger set catches up with the sports-car trend.

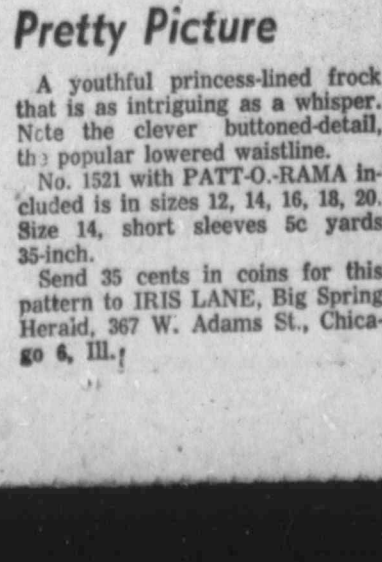

Chesterfields, reeters and the perennial boy-coats are still top favorites for the school crowd, who are inclined to like their fashions classic.

Dorinda Kay Medford was honored with a party on her twelfth birthday Saturday. Hosts were her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Medford, 1810 Owens.

Refreshments were served after games were played and pictures made.

Fourteen guests were present including Dorinda's grandmother, Mrs. R. M. Alvis.

Correct date for the style show sponsored by the Mary Jane Club at Coahoma is Saturday, Aug. 25 at 8 p.m. in the Junior High auditorium at Coahoma.

Kaddatz-Rich Vows Repeated In Lamesa

LAMESA — Sunday evening, at the Grace Lutheran Church, Karlene Lamonie Kaddatz and Robert Harlan Rich of Ponca City, Okla., exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony with the Rev. E. A. Wolf, uncle of the bride, of Plainview, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kaddatz, 1301 Seminole Drive. Mrs. J. M. Garrouette, Ponca City, Okla., and the late Paul G. Rich are parents of the bridegroom.

The altar of the church was decorated with carnations and greenery with an arch being formed by the tapers. Margie Nell Kunkel, organist, played wedding selections preceding the ceremony. Other selections were "O, Perfect Love," "Melody of Love" and the traditional wedding marches. She accompanied Mrs. Robert Pipes, Kerrville, as she sang, "The Pledge" by Black and "The Wedding Prayer" by Dunlap.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore an original model of white embroidered nylon tulle over net and satin. Designed with portrait neckline outlined with scalloped edge of lace, the fitted bodice had tiny sleeves completed by gauntlets. From the deep point at the center front stemmed a voluminous skirt of billowing tiers of scalloped lace, fully shirred.

Her veil of silk illusion was joined to a Juliet cap of lace embroidered with seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was an orchid surrounded by white carnations atop a white Bible; her only piece of jewelry, a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Arthur Noack, Dallas, attended the bride as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Roy Archer, Lamesa; Bobbie Jamison, Clovis, N. M.; Arleen Meyer, Oklahoma City, and junior bridesmaid, Doris Marie Degner of Waco. They wore identical dresses of aqua crystalene over taffeta, designed with scooped necklines and full waists length skirts. Their head pieces were of aqua tulle caught to a matching tiara with small white flowers on either side. They carried colonial style bouquets of white carnations.

Flower girl was Cynthia Hingst of Vernon. Her dress of white nylon dotted swiss was fashioned after the bride's, Billy Kluge of Lamesa was the ring bearer.

Don Baker of Ponca City, served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Gene Kaddatz, Dalton Noack, Lloyd Cleveland, all of Lamesa, and Chris Henry Krebs of Vernon. James Kaddatz, Lamesa, was the junior groomsman. Henry Karcher, Vernon, and I. A. Karcher, Kerrville, lighted the tapers.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held at the home of the bride. The refreshment table, covered with aqua linen, held a center arrangement of white carnations, flanked by white tapers. The three tiered wedding cake was touched with aqua.

Presiding at the table were Mrs. I. A. Karcher of Kerrville and Mrs. Robert Schoppa of Aiken. Margaret Poeske of Kerrville registered the guests.

For travel the bride chose a beige linen dress with a brown cape and beige accessories. Following their wedding trip the couple will make their home in Okmulgee, Okla.

The bride is a graduate of St. John's Academy and St. John's Junior College, Winfield, Kansas. For the past two years she has been on the teaching staff at Holy Cross Lutheran School, Kerrville. The groom is a graduate of Ponca City High School and attended Tonkawa Junior College. He has been with the U. S. Army in Germany. He will resume his studies at Oklahoma A&M Technical College.

After rehearsal on Saturday evening, a dinner was held by the bride's parents in the Mesa Room of the Green Hut Cafe in Lamesa with about 25 in attendance.

The bridesmaids luncheon was given Sunday in the home of Mrs. Bertha Kaddatz.

The bachelor dinner was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kaddatz at noon Sunday.

Nixons Arrive

All smiles and showered with confetti, Vice President and Mrs. Nixon walk to their car after arriving in San Francisco for the Republican national convention. Hundreds of supporters carried signs and banners urging his renomination.

Confident Air Prevails At Nixon Center

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A distinct air of confidence prevails here at the headquarters of Vice President Nixon.

If Nixon was at all worried about staying on the Republican ticket or facing a GOP challenge for his job, he didn't show it in the least.

Appearing cheerful and relaxed, the vice president greeted Republican leaders, appeared on television and dropped in on state delegations on the eve of the GOP convention.

With support building up for his renomination, Nixon had no hesitancy in welcoming an "open convention" selection of President Eisenhower's running mate. He said repeatedly he didn't know whether Eisenhower wanted him on the ticket again and would invite other nominations.

Influential party figures helped to blunt the insistent "Dump Nixon" campaign of Harold E. Stassen, who kept on trying just the same.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, telling why he endorsed Nixon, said "nobody has ever done so well as vice president." Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell said he detected strong pro-Nixon sentiment among delegates thronging in for the convention.

The New York and Pennsylvania delegations gave Nixon a rousing welcome when he visited them last night. The Missouri delegation called on him in his hotel after his return.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, GOP leader in the House, intimated his state would support Nixon even though Stassen has been working to shove Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter into his place. Martin said after joining other high-ranking Republicans at breakfast with Nixon:

"If Gov. Herter nominates Mr. Nixon—I am just guessing—I see no reason why the Massachusetts delegation would not follow Gov. Herter and vote for Mr. Nixon."

Nixon denied during the day that Herter agreed under party pressure to nominate him. He said his "good friend Chris Herter" is not the kind of man who yields to pressure.

The vice president told one TV interviewer he regarded as "a good precedent" the Democrats' open convention selection of their vice presidential nominee — Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

There are more than a half dozen Republicans besides himself qualified for his office, Nixon said. He did not name them. But said "I'll be in there pitching" for the GOP ticket whether or not he remains on it.

Nixon spent 33 minutes in private with Herbert Hoover in the former president's Mark Hopkins Hotel suite six floors above his own. He said he looked over the speech Hoover will deliver before the GOP convention Tuesday night. He said they did not discuss the Republican ticket.

The vice president found time, too, to stop in at a reception honoring his wife, Pat. It was given by Mrs. Leonard Hall, wife of the GOP national chairman.

BRISK ACTIVITY

Speculation Up On Inflation Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospects of brisk economic activity this fall, with no letup in borrowing, buying and price boosts, raised speculation today that the Federal Reserve Board soon may take another step to curb possible inflation.

Such a move would entail another increase in the Federal Reserve discount rate—the interest rate the reserve banks charge on money they lend to member banks for commercial and personal loans.

As usual, there was no comment or indication from the board itself whether another discount rate hike may be in the offing. However, another government source suggested "there are enough elements of inflationary nature on the horizon to point up the possibility, if not the likelihood, of another increase."

Among these elements this source cited the recent wage and price increases in the steel industry and the chance they may form a pattern for other rises.

President Eisenhower and other top administration officials have expressed concern over possible inflationary aspects of the steel-labor wage settlement and its aftermath, a price increase averaging $8.50 per ton.

Another new factor is the start of the multi-billion-dollar highway building program, involving both immediate spending for construction and placement of huge future orders for steel and other construction materials. And employment, already at record levels, will be given another boost.

Advance forecasts of a third-quarter letdown in economic activity did not materialize.

Five times in the last 16 months the Federal Reserve Board has approved hikes in the discount rate to restrain a resurgent demand by business and consumers for credit.

The first, from 1 1/4 to 1 3/4 per cent, came in April 1955 when the current business boom was gathering force. Thrice more in 1955, as boom steam pressure rose, the banks hiked their rates 1/4 per cent at a time.

Last April the rate again went up, this time to 2 1/4 per cent in 10 of the 12 reserve districts, and to 3 per cent in the other two—Minneapolis and San Francisco. It was the first time in 23 years the rate had reached 3 per cent.

Another increase would tighten further the conditions under which money is available to business and the public for expansion and credit purchasing. Both have been rising sharply since early 1955 when the nation came out of a 1953-54 dip in its economy.

A discount rate hike normally causes higher interest rates on bank loans, thus discouraging borrowing.

At the moment corporations and businessmen are in the midst of big expansion programs estimated to reach perhaps $5 billion dollars this year. The construction industry is moving along at an annual rate of 4 1/2 billions. Total production and employment have reached new peaks.

Consumer buying and retail store sales have risen to top levels and consumer credit has been expanding at a greater rate than personal income.

Personal income, after setting a record of 303 billions in 1955, has risen to an annual rate of about 325 billions this year. This, plus credit or installment buying, means consumers have and are spending more money, and prices have been rising.

DAV Opens Convention

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The Disabled American Veterans open their 35th national convention today with nearly 2,000 registered.

The national commander, Maj. Gen. Melvan J. Maas of Washington, was honored last night at a reception.

A joint session of the DAV and its auxiliary officially opened the convention in municipal auditorium this morning. The first business session was this afternoon and the annual memorial service will be at 8 p.m.

Walter Hardin is chairman of the memorial service which will feature a pageant, "Texas Under Six Flags."

Gen. Maas will preside at the convention sessions which end Friday with election of officers and a night military ball.

Tydings Quits Race To Regain Seat In Senate

BALTIMORE (AP)—The dramatic withdrawal of Millard E. Tydings left Maryland Democrats looking today for a new candidate to oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler in the November elections.

Tydings, who was out to regain the seat he held 24 years before Butler defeated him in a controversial 1950 race, announced last night he was quitting his comeback campaign because of ill health.

Now 66, the tall, spare veteran of clashes with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has been suffering from a severe case of shingles.

He was stricken shortly after beating George F. Mahoney, Baltimore paving contractor, by a razor's-edge margin in the May 7 primary.

His successor is expected to be named Wednesday night at a special meeting of the State Central Committee.

Besides Mahoney, those prominently mentioned as possible replacements included former U.S. Solicitor Gen. Philip B. Perlman; William C. Walsh and Michael J. Birmingham.

Tydings, who had been hospitalized 46 days by the shingles virus which painfully attacks nerve endings, told a small group of political associates at his Harry De Grace home last night that doctors had warned him a strenuous campaign might cause a recurrence.

In preparation for the race he had amassed many documents involving the 1950 campaign. It was after this battle that a Senate elections subcommittee accused Butler aides of using "back-street type" tactics.

The subcommittee was specially critical about the distribution of a fake picture. It was composed of separate photographs arranged against a common background to make it appear that Tydings was engaged in friendly conversation with former Communist party chief Earl Browder.

Butler was helped in that campaign by associates of McCarthy who had accused a Tydings subcommittee of a "whitewash". A Tydings subcommittee had reported it found no basis for McCarthy's charges of disloyalty in the State Department.

Tydings, then chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, denied the whitewash accusation and recently said much of his comeback campaign would be devoted to this issue.

In 1952, Tydings scored one of his most notable victories when he successfully resisted Roosevelt's attempt to purge him because of his refusal to support administrative legislation on social security and other New Deal measures. He defeated D. J. Lewis, the Democratic presidential personally endorsed candidate, by 25,000 votes.

Ike To Leave For Convention

WASHINGTON (AP)—A change in his plans will put President Eisenhower in San Francisco in time to take a personal hand, if he wants, in the designation of his vice presidential running mate. But there was no new indication he plans to do so.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday Eisenhower will leave tomorrow—24 hours earlier than he had planned—for the Republican National Convention. He said Eisenhower wants more time "to visit with many of his friends who are delegates."

A key administration official who asked not to be named said the change in plans was "in no way related" to the second-spot nomination. The nomination is expected to go to Vice President Nixon despite Harold E. Stassen's efforts to keep Nixon off the ticket.

This official said Eisenhower allowed himself an extra day in San Francisco "because he does not want to give any slightest impression of remaining aloof from the convention," and so he can talk with friends.

Under the revised schedule, Eisenhower will leave Washington at noon EDT tomorrow and arrive at San Francisco's International Airport at 6:30 p.m. PDT. The convention will nominate the presidential and vice presidential candidates the following day.

Hagerty called an unusual Sunday news conference to announce the change, but cast no new light on Eisenhower's preference for a running mate. Instead, he referred to earlier Eisenhower news conferences at which the President had said that the convention should be "open" with delegates free to make a choice; Nixon was "perfectly acceptable" to him; and he would have nothing to say about a running mate "until after a presidential candidate is nominated." Eisenhower said that last Feb. 25.

Uncle Ray: Ancient Rome Was Pioneer Republic

By RAMON COFFMAN

ROME—I have reached the center of the ancient Roman Empire. The Roman Empire was broken up 15 centuries ago, but Rome remained a center of power. The Roman Catholic Church used Rome as the home of the popes.

Vatican City, the papal headquarters, is cut off from Rome in a technical sense, but people still regard Rome as the governing city of the church.

Vatican City is classed as an independent country. It is a small area which is surrounded by the city of Rome.

The people of Rome point proudly to their past. Here it was that the leading republic of ancient times grew up. Roman citizens chose officers by popular vote. The Roman Senate made laws.

Since reaching Rome, I have paid a visit to the famous Roman Forum. There I saw pillars and other remains of various buildings.

The Forum started out as an open space where farmers and others gathered to trade. It was a market place. Later came the custom of using the Forum for public speeches. Men with special ideas about politics told their views, and were cheered or shouted down.

Temples were built around the Forum, and in one of these special honor was given to Juno Moneta. In that temple many Roman coins were minted. Our word "money" came from the "Moneta" part of the name of goddess.

When Julius Caesar became dictator of Rome, the common people lost control of public affairs. After Caesar, a line of emperors ruled. The old Roman Republic was lost.

Several emperors ordered good-sized areas to be set aside as forums. One of these was larger than the original Roman Forum. Did the new forums mean that the people had gained back their power? Far from it! Some persons spoke of the largest forum as "bigger and better," but it meant nothing in the way of control by the people. The emperors continued to keep the power in their hands.
