RED PLANET

Mars Will Pass Closest Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Tonight at midnight EDT, thousands of telescopes will be trained on the red planet Mars, which gets more "neighborly" than it has been for 32 years.

The intriguing planet, only half as big as the earth, wheels into view astronomically only 35,163,000 miles away—the closest since 1924.

Mars rises in the Southeast and sets in the Southwest. It will be visible all of the evening hours.

The planet shines red because more than half its surface seemingly is covered with orange-red desert, low mountains, and barren landscape swept by cold winds.

The controversial "canals" will come in for close attention. Some claim to have seen such waterways, but others note that photographs fail to show them clearly if at all.

Mars' comparative proximity revives speculation concerning possible existence of people on the planet.

canal theory, envisioning great irrigation projects to provide the planet with plant life. Mars' moisture is mighty sparse, and is thought to derive only from the seasonal melting of its polar ice caps. And even at that, some scientists say, all the water on the planet would scarcely fill Lake Erie.

Blue-green areas seen from earth were once thought to be "seas." Now they are generally considered to be lichen-like vegetation. In 1964, an area formerly seen only as bright red "desert" showed up green. Astronomers are anxious to know how that section will look tonight.

Scientists say that if "beings" do exist on Mars they'll have to be different from us, because the planet's atmosphere is said to be almost devoid of oxygen and more dependent on nitrogen.

Many astronomers, however, are convinced some sort of life exists on Mars.

And tonight's the night to look in on our neighbor. You won't get a closer look before 1971.

Body Of Kidnap Victim Found

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP)—The body of kidnaped 6-week-old Cynthia Ruotolo was recovered from a lake here today, the medical examiner reported.

Dr. Sterling Taylor came to newsmen held in a roped off area 100 yards from the shore of Lake Whitney and said the identification was definite.

Cynthia was taken from her carriage in the foyer of a store two miles from the lake Saturday. Her mother was shopping inside.

The recovery came only a brief time after a new radio appeal was made for the abductor to return the baby safely. The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ruotolo, had all but given up on appeals to the kidnaper Tuesday.

The latest appeal came from the New Haven County Bar Assn., asking that the baby be returned to a lawyer.

There was no word from police whether the discovery of the body brought with it any clues as to the kidnaper.

The child's body was found floating on the lake and was recovered by the Hamden Fire Dept. rescue team.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruotolo were whisked away in a police car to an unknown destination.

Police converged on the scene shortly after noon. They roped off the lake shore.

The site is not far from a heavy residential area. The body was found near a bridge crossing the lake. The bridge is seldom used.

From the department store to the lake, it would have been possible for the kidnaper to remain under cover of a wooded area.

Two boys walking along the lake, which serves New Haven as a reservoir, saw the body and called police.

Webb Driver Defending Title

A-IC David Souza of Webb AFB is at Tyndall AFB, Fla., today to defend his title as champion truck driver of the Air Training Command.

Souza won the title last year in the ATC Road-E-O. He will attempt to retain the crown for drivers of four-and-a-half trucks. As titleholder, he automatically went to the ATC finals.

2 Charmers Lead Beauty Title Contest

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—A Southern belle and a California charmer held an early lead today in the Miss America sweepstakes.

Miss Alabama, 19-year-old Ann Aerial, won top honors in the talent division of the annual pageant last night with a rollicking song and dance number.

Miss California, Joan Beckett, 18, was the choice in bathing suit competition. A honey blonde with blue-green eyes, she paraded her 36-24-36 charms down a runway in a white swimsuit with halter straps.

The 50 girls seeking the title of Miss America 1957 have been divided into three sections, each to be judged separately for beauty in a bathing suit, for poise and grace in an evening gown and for talent.

County Delegation Gets Date With Highway Agency

R. H. Weaver, county judge, has been advised by the Texas Highway Department that Big Spring has been assigned a place on the program of the department meeting on Sept. 20.

At that time, Weaver and others who will make up the Howard County delegation, will present a plea to add other roads to the highway building program for 1957 in Howard County.

The Howard County group is scheduled to appear before the commission at 3:30 p.m. Plans are for the local representatives to coordinate their appeal with those of adjacent counties.

Under this plan a comprehensive pattern of road expansion by the state for Howard County and for the entire Big Spring area will be presented.

Who will attend the meeting in Austin is not yet fully determined. Weaver said he would go and it is probable that several others, including members of the highway committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Daniel Pledges Fair Seating

AUSTIN (AP)—Sen. Price Daniel promised today to support the seating of "all legally constituted delegations regardless of their political complexion" at the Fort Worth state Democratic convention next week.

Daniel, the party's nominee for governor in a close race over Ralph Yarborough, also said he hoped the convention would be devoted "entirely to state matters as the May convention is devoted to national party affairs."

Yarborough said yesterday he would attend the Fort Worth convention with his main objective to insure "that Texas Democrats keep their pledge" to support Democratic nominees for President and Vice President.

Daniel planned to drive to Fort Worth Monday from his home at Liberty.

Major Development In Suez Canal Crisis

Guardsmen Force Path Through Mob

By The Associated Press
National Guardsmen forced a path through a yelling, punching crowd of 400 to 500 angry men today as nine Negro youths could enter classes at the previously all-white high school in Sturgis, Ky. It took the troops about five minutes of hand-to-hand struggle to escort the Negroes into the building and they then used bayonets to clear the jeering mob of farmers, miners and townspeople from the school area.

The militiamen were armed with machineguns and carbines but no shots were fired and no one was seriously injured. Tanks drawn up outside the school took no action.

After the Negroes were in the building, the soldiers seized five members of the crowd and state police took them away.

While troops were in action supporting segregation in this town of 5,000 in the western Kentucky coal fields and other National Guardsmen passively supported integration in Clinton, Tenn.

Mixed classes continued quietly at dozens of towns in Kentucky, Maryland and other border states.

This first week of school saw no efforts toward integration in the "Deep South" states.

Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky ordered four National Guard units into tense Sturgis last night only a few hours after President Eisenhower in Washington urged that integration problems be solved without violence.

At Clinton, scene of a series of violent riots, the Tennessee National Guard relaxed restrictions somewhat last night and only scattered disturbances were reported. About 100 of the 633 guardsmen rushed to the town Sunday were sent home. Roadblocks were abandoned temporarily and no special details were sent to the courthouse where previous trouble developed.

Eisenhower, at his Washington news conference, was questioned about disorders in Tennessee and Texas. He said federal authorities should intervene only if the states are unable to maintain order. He added he believes the states thus far have handled their problems adequately.

No trouble was reported in Texas yesterday. The effigy of a Negro still hung over the entrance of the Mansfield school where crowds earlier prevented 12 Negroes from enrolling. The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has abandoned, temporarily, efforts to enroll the students.

At Fort Worth, the City Council unanimously adopted a motion for Mayor F. E. Garrison to form a citizens council of white and Negro members to study problems created by Negroes moving into previously all-white areas. A mob tried unsuccessfully Sunday to force Lloyd Austin, a Negro, to move from his house in a previously all-white block. Neighbors reported he has not been at the house the past few days, however.

At Matoaka, a southern West Virginia mining community of 1,500 population, about 300 persons voted last night to keep their children out of newly integrated Matoaka High School. There are 27 Negroes enrolled among the school's 985 pupils.

The meeting followed a demonstration by about 200 persons at the school yesterday morning. There was some loud talk by white adults and one egg was thrown, but no real violence was reported. The Rev. Don Spurlock, minister at the Ashworth Methodist Church, quieted the crowd from a window at the front of the school. An egg was thrown at him as he closed the window.

At Montgomery, Ala., effigies of Negroes and a National Guardsman were hung in front of three Montgomery schools last night. The schools open today. No Negroes are expected to enroll.

Two crosses were burned in front of Frankfort, Ky., High School last night prior to the opening of integrated classes. Police attributed the burnings to pranksters and said they anticipated no serious incidents.

At Miami, Fla., the Dade County School Board yesterday denied the applications of two Negro pupils seeking admission to white schools.

A wooden cross was burned last night on the campus of Texarkana, Tex., Junior College, where two Negro girls enrolled.

Hands Off

President Eisenhower tells his news conference in Washington, D.C., that the federal government should not intervene in racial disturbances over school integration unless the states are unable to maintain order.

Gen. Ramey III, May Retire Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, one of America's most famous air generals, has been stricken ill on the eve of a new assignment and probably will retire soon.

Ramey, formerly Fifth Air Force commander in Japan, returned to the United States last June to take charge of the Air Force Command. He was to serve as deputy to Gen. Earle E. Partridge, chief of the Continental Air Defense Command, at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Ramey, 52, suffered a heart attack at Barksdale Air Force Base, La., before he could check in at his new post. He has told friends the heart attack means the end of his Air Force career. He said he had no post-retirement plans.

Currently he is recuperating at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. His sudden illness has delayed Air Force plans for reorganization of CONAD, which includes not only ADC's 2,000 jet fighters, but also the Army's expanding system of Nike anti-aircraft defenses, and ships and aircraft assigned to a central warning and defense system.

Partridge has retained his responsibility for the Air Force ADC, which Ramey was to take over, along with his command of the expanding Continental Air Defense Command.

Ramey, a native of Emblem, Tex., was commander of the 42nd Bomb Squadron at Hickam Field, Hawaii, at the time of the Japanese air attack there, and fulfilled several Pacific assignments during the war.

In June and July 1946 Ramey commanded the Army-Air Force task force "at combined Army-Navy atomic bomb testing operations at Bikini atoll in the central Pacific.

Parliament Called In Emergency Meet

CAIRO (AP)—A development termed important sent the five-member Suez Canal Committee into private consultations today. A committee source said the members probably will not see President Nasser again until Saturday.

In London, Prime Minister Eden indicated the talks have taken a definite and possible conclusive turn. Without indicating whether a stalemate or compromise was in prospect, he called an emergency session of Britain's Parliament for next Wednesday to hear a report on the committee's mission.

The vacationing lawmakers were not due back until Oct. 23.

The nature of the development was not disclosed by either side here. But the committee, headed by Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, set aside today and tomorrow for private discussion of Egypt's viewpoint.

The discussions between the Egyptians and the committee in four formal meetings have been under a tight lid of secrecy imposed by Menzies himself since the start Monday — though the general positions of both sides are well known. The committee wants to put the canal under international control; Nasser objects to anything that would limit Egypt's sovereignty.

It seems clear the Cairo talks will last longer than either side had expected. Menzies was reported to have hoped to be aboard a plane for London by Saturday.

A committee spokesman said the development did not represent a stalemate in the talks which opened Monday, and added: "I am optimistic that a compromise will be found."

He said no time was set for the next meeting "because the mission is looking into various detailed aspects of things which President Nasser has said so far."

The committee came here with a proposal for international control of the key Middle East waterway backed by 18 of the 22 nations attending the recent London conference on the canal controversy. The conference was called after Nasser announced July 26 that Egypt had nationalized the canal. Nasser has maintained that Egypt has the right of sole control over the canal and that he will not accept any proposal for international control.

Sources close to the Menzies committee and the Egyptian government denied that Nasser had rejected categorically the international control proposal put forward at the London parley by Secretary of State Dulles. They said Nasser had presented his viewpoint, which differed from the Dulles proposal.

"But Nasser presented his viewpoint in a positive and not in a negative manner," an Egyptian source said. "He has always said he would not accept the Dulles plan, but he still has not slammed the door by giving a purely negative reply."

Egyptian informants also denied Nasser has presented a formal counterproposal in the talks here. "From a study of his expressed viewpoint," one source said, "a new proposal could take shape."

A spokesman for the Menzies Committee said the group likely will remain in Cairo until Saturday. He said there had been no change in the atmosphere of the talks and, referring to the last meeting, added: "There were no signs of discontent. No hostility. No heat. The atmosphere is good."

The committee members, in addition to Australia, are the United States, Iran, Sweden and Ethiopia.

The air of optimism surrounding the current stage of the talks appeared to be based primarily on two points:

1. The discussions have been carried out in a good atmosphere. Both sides have presented their views, and differences have been talked over in a calm manner.

2. Perhaps more important — at least in the Egyptian view — the recent attitude of the United States has increased the hopes for a peaceful settlement.

Highly placed Egyptians admit frankly they are counting on the United States to restrain Britain and France from any use of force over the Suez.

Health Official's Trial Set Today In Garden City Court

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Dr. Robert Hale, Midland, director of the tri-county public health department including Howard County, was to go on trial here this afternoon.

Dr. Hale is charged in indictment with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, first offense. The offense allegedly occurred last Nov. 8.

Guilford Jones, district attorney, said that a jury had been selected at the time of the noon recess and that the state would present its initial witnesses at the beginning of the afternoon session.

On Friday morning, John Doyle Gaskins, charged with DWI second offense, will go on trial, Jones said.

Monday morning, all of the defendants in indictments returned earlier this week by a Glasscock County grand jury are docketed. Jones said that the defendants in the indictments returned by the grand jury have signified their intention to demand trial. There were no pleas of guilty although it had been indicated on Wednesday some of the persons in the list planned to do so.

Cases set for Monday include: Jasper Blewett Rufus D. Carr and James H. Jackson, charged with theft of oil field equipment; William Jones and William Carey, under three indictments alleging burglary of a school house, burglary of a service station and theft of an automobile; and Fred Long, charged with DWI, first offense.

Carey and Jones are the two convicts who broke out of the Glasscock County jail Saturday night after slugging a jailer.

S. Texas Gets Hard Rains As Cool Front Moves South

Parts of South Texas were reported receiving heavy rains today as a cool front moving from north to south stirred up turbulent winds.

A hard rain of 3 to 5 inches fell early Thursday at Zapata near Falcon Dam. Heavy rains temporarily disrupted electricity, the Department of Public Safety reported.

Hail and wind storms beat down on maturing cotton in the South Plains.

Farmers feared the damage was severe northwest of Lubbock. Hail the size of marbles piled up 2 to 3 inches deep and up to 1.50 inches of rain fell in the area 3 to 7 miles northwest of the South Plains city.

Just behind the cool front stretched from Texarkana to south of Dallas to the San Angelo area and westward into the Big Bend Country.

Thundershowers dropped light moisture over the San Angelo, Wink, Midland, Amarillo and Dalhart areas. Lightning cracked over South Texas.

Temperatures ranged from a warm 80 at Galveston to a cool 49 at Dalhart just before daylight.

Blowing dust accompanied the cool front across the Panhandle.

Crewman Due Quiz In Train Wreck

SPRINGER, N.M. (AP)—A train crewman was to be queried today at an inquest in Springer into the crash of a railway streamliner and a sideline mail train.

Twenty persons were killed and 35 were injured when the Santa Fe Chief slammed head-on into the waiting mail train in the pre-dawn hours yesterday.

Miraculously, the 312 passengers aboard the Chief escaped death.

A railway official said a Santa Fe workman threw a switch, turning the 13-car Chief onto a bypass where it smashed into the mail train which was waiting for it to pass. The wreck was five miles south of here on rolling rangeland.

The railway spokesman, J. C. Reinhold, vice president in charge of public relations, said the Chief was traveling 40 to 45 m.p.h. when it ramed the mail train at 3 a.m. The debris was cleared about 14 hours later just after the body of the 29th victim was found.

Officials identified the last victim as brakeman Lawrence McCormick, Raton, N.M., and said the body was found in the wreckage of a dormitory car on the Chief, where the victim was riding from Raton to Albuquerque.

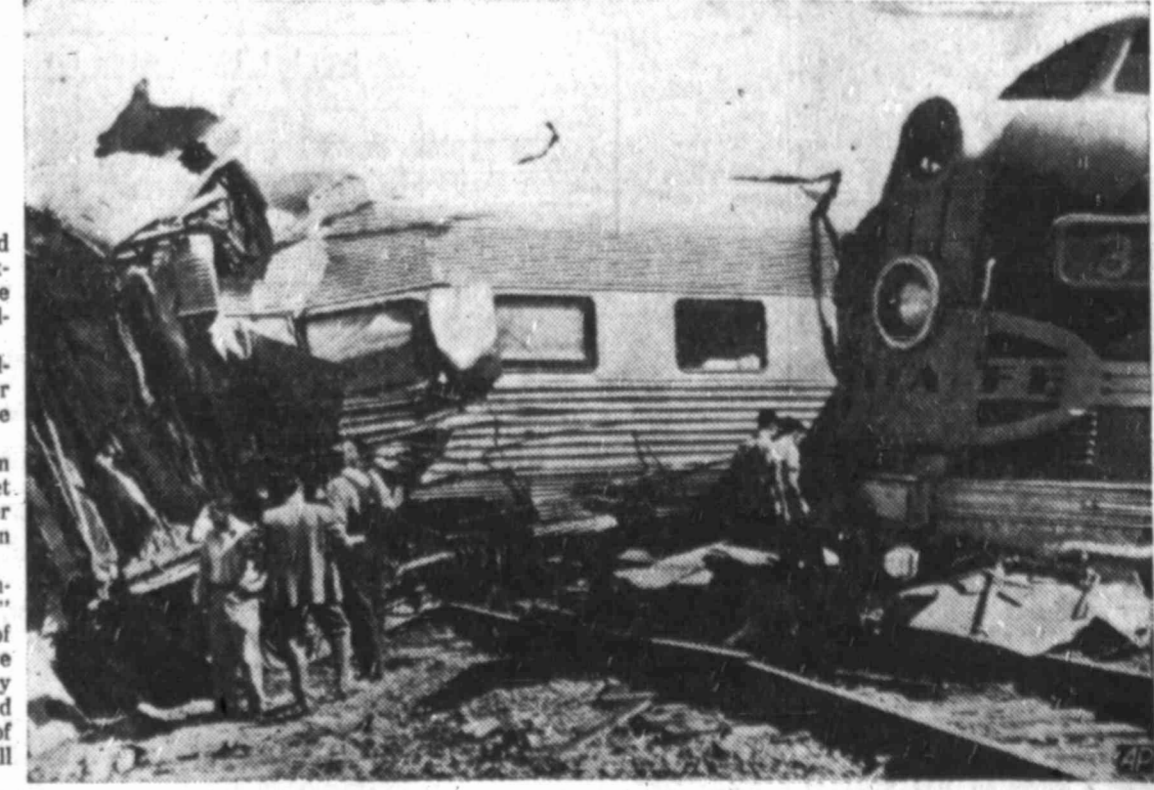

The other dead also were railway workmen, either trainmen or dining car employees. Most were sleeping in the dormitory car.

Officials said the mail train fireman became confused and set the switch the wrong way after his train had pulled off the main line to let the Chief pass.

Reinhold said the fireman committed an "error in judgment," and the mistake was "just one of those things that is hard to figure out. He just does not know why he did it." The official identified the fireman as P. C. Caldarelli of Raton, who late last night still was in a state of shock.

Reached by telephone at his Raton home, Caldarelli was asked how the error happened.

He answered, "I don't know." "It was a great shock... I were my friends," he said, "I don't feel good."

Death Coach

Shown above is the twisted wreckage of a Santa Fe streamliner at Springer, N. M., which smashed into a parked mail train killing at least 18 and injuring 10. Railway officials and rescue workers are shown examining an impossibly small hole in the coach to the left through which some escaped to safety.

Jess Talkin

by Jess Blair

Once again this column will be printed only about twice a week. During summer I'm a newspaper man, but when school bells ring in September, it's back to the school room.

There will be a column every Sunday and perhaps once during the week on Wednesday or Thursday.

Cotton ginning has started in Big Spring but not in a large way. Yesterday afternoon a total of 70 bales had been ginned. One gin has 43 bales, with about 20 of them coming from Glasscock County. The other three gins reports total of 16, 11 and 10.

One ginner said he had a crew of four but would probably use only three the rest of the year.

"As scattering as the bales are going to be this year," he said "three men can handle it."

The cotton bolls are small and knotty but have been giving a good turn out. One manager said most of the bales were running about 30 per cent lint. They won't turn out a good sample, though. He thinks one or two bales from the grading station, but thinks most of the cotton will be spotted.

The Elbow community has been one of the driest in the county for the last few years. This year crops were almost a complete failure.

Ernest Box, farming, four miles southwest of the store, says he may get five or six bales on a field of 20 or 30 acres. This is about the average for several farms in the community, he said, though some of his neighbors never even planted any cotton.

The Howard County Farm Association is still in the good graces of the government and is bringing in a load of 78 Mexican Nationals. The workers will be sent to Martin, Glasscock and Sterling counties, with a few being left in Howard.

Jack Buchanan, association manager, says most of the cotton in the county will be pulled by bracers.

The Vincent community won't make more than 250 bales of cotton, says T. F. Kennemer, who is the postmaster there. He said the only cotton worth gathering was north of the village. Some of it is in Borden County.

There are practically no crops south or west of Vincent.

Some of the sandy rangeland is

Friedlanders Complete Move

The Jackson Friedlanders have completed their move from Arlington, Va., to Big Spring, but they're still trying to get established in the manager's quarters at the VA Hospital.

Mrs. Friedlander has arrived with the couple's household goods. She remained in Arlington approximately a month after Dr. Friedlander left in order to sell their home there.

Dr. Friedlander was chief of professional services at the hospital here until July, 1955, when he was transferred to Washington, D. C., as director of the internship and residency programs of the Veterans Administration. He returned here to take over his old post along with the manager's position.

Wins Award

Girvin Harkins, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Harkins of Colorado City, was recently given the God and Country Award by the Rev. Jack Eltzer, pastor of the First Methodist Church. Eltzer said it was the first such award ever presented by him and the first to be given by the church. The award represents two years of church work and study by the Colorado High School graduate, who plans to enroll at McMurry College this fall. Harkins is an outstanding Scout, having been made an Eagle Scout in July of 1955 and receiving the Explorer Silver Award in July, 1956.

getting bare enough to become an erosion hazard next spring, says Bill Moldenhauer, soil scientist at the Big Spring Field Station. He said much of the shinnery sand is called Tivoli sand, which in scientist language means deep, coarse sand with not much below it but more of the same.

If this type of soil once starts blowing, it dunes up in big mounds like the sand dunes out around Monahans and Kermit, though Moldenhauer said such areas might cover over with thistles and other weeds and give some protection if enough rain falls. Otherwise their is not much to be done about it.

A certain Howard County farmer got provoked yesterday. He had a crew of cotton pickers who pulled a bale or two of cotton then decided to quit. They told someone on the farm that they were going back to South Texas. Down there they could get on relief and not be forced to work.

They were paid their wages and then left toward Lamesa. A short while later the farmer found out they had stolen some cotton sacks and other articles and owed his wife for some eggs.

He grabbed his shotgun and started after them. When he reached Lamesa the law officers helped him search the town, but the thieves were not found. The farmer finally returned home empty-handed.

A few hours later he was putting in an order for Mexican Nationals. From the way he talked, I don't suppose native laborers will ever be working for him again.

Some night there is going to be a serious injury at the rodeo bowl, and it won't necessarily be a contestant. One trouble spot, it seems to me, is the number of people who insist on standing out in the arena. Ordinarily there is not much danger except when the bull riding begins.

I've seen a few near accidents, and some of them occurred because too many people were out there just standing around. If one of those bulls lunges into the crowd and hooks or tramples a bystander, that waiting ambulance will be used in a hurry.

One night at the recent rodeo I counted over 40 people in the arena, besides the clowns and officials. They don't want anyone to get hurt and do their best to get the men and boys out of the arena. But keeping them out is probably an impossible task.

Pause In Paris

Former actress Grace Kelly, every bit Princess Grace of Monaco, turns to her husband, Rainer III, during a press conference in the Monaco legation in Paris. They're spending a few days in French capital before sailing for their first vacation in the United States since their April wedding. "We will be mostly just seeing my family and friends and will be staying mostly in the East," the Princess, formerly of Philadelphia, said. She reiterated she has ended her motion picture career.

Couple To Celebrate Their 72nd Wedding Anniversary

BOYERTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Slotter are observing a wedding anniversary today. Nothing special in the way of entertainment. Some of the children might drop by. But that's about all.

"Nothing to get excited about. Can't understand all the commotion anyway," was the way Reuben put it when newsmen called.

Of course, wedding anniversaries are hardly a novelty to the couple. After all, this is their seventy-second.

Eilamina Crouthamel was a bride of 29 and Reuben, whom she'd known as a neighbor boy all her life, was a year younger when they took their vows at the home of their minister, Rev. Jacob Kehm in nearby Sellersville.

The retired farmer and his wife have a simple philosophy to offer today's newlyweds:

"To have a long marriage requires, of course, a long life. And the healthy life of a farm is the best advice I can offer," Reuben observed.

His wife, with an impish smile had this to add:

"Men can't do without women. Remember this, girls, and live by the Golden Rule, and you'll both be very happy."

Slotter, now 91, and his wife live with their daughter, Mildred. She and her husband, Howard Schanley, have a jewelry store in Boyertown, about 25 miles north of Philadelphia.

Six of the Slotters' seven children are still living. There are also 17 grandchildren, 36 great-grandchildren, and 8 great-great-grandchildren.

So if some of the children do "drop by" today, it might not be such a small party at that.

Graham Transcript Filed With Court

DENVER (AP)—A transcript of a hearing at which plane dynamiter John Graham, 24, said he did not wish to appeal his death sentence for murder was filed with the Colorado Supreme Court yesterday.

Graham was convicted of murder in the death of his mother, one of 44 persons who died last Nov. 1 when the plane exploded and crashed near Longmont, Colo.

Whisky, Gas, Auto Taxes Hit New High

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public paid more federal taxes last year on whisky, gasoline and autos than in any previous fiscal year.

And the current year seems headed toward still another record, because of a July 1 increase in gasoline and other highway user taxes to finance the highway building program.

The Internal Revenue Service reported today that excise taxes yielded the government $10,041,195,000 in the 1956 fiscal year ended June 30.

In that total, the service said, consumers paid record amounts on all types of alcoholic beverages and on gasoline.

Taxes on liquors at $1.50 a gallon piled up to $2,062,242,000—the first time the total ever went over the two billion mark.

Coupled with peak yields from levies on beer and wines, alcohol taxes brought in $2,920,574,000. That was 123 million more than in fiscal 1954, the previous top year.

Gasoline taxes yielded a new

Library Back On School Schedule

Howard County Public Library is now operating on its regular fall and winter schedule.

The library opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. On Saturday, the library will be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. These hours will continue throughout the school term.

In the summer, a revised schedule is employed under which the library opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 5 p.m.

The new schedule is for the convenience of school students who want to make use of the books in connection with school work.

Farmer Finds Wife Slashed By Pigs

LACON, Ill. (AP)—A farmer returned home last night and found his wife dead in a pig pen, her clothing in shreds and her body torn and chewed by pigs. She was Mrs. Milton Seward, 57. Her husband said she was ill and might have collapsed in the pen. About 15 pigs were kept in the pen.

Adlai Makes Spiel For Working Man

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson beckoned to the American working man today to "choose vision instead of complacency" in this election year and "march with the Democrats along the road to the new America."

The Democratic candidate for president accused the Republicans of offering labor and the nation proposals and pious words but no performance.

Stevenson, who roused the American Legion to both bravos and boos in addressing its annual convention in Los Angeles yesterday, continued pummeling the Republicans today.

He came through some rough razzing from some of his fellow legionnaires with no obvious chip on his shoulder.

Stevenson conceded there were "forward-looking parts" in the acceptance speeches President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon delivered at the Republican National Convention here last month. But he said that sitting complacently on the convention floor and "chanting for the leader they seldom follow" was "the old Republican wrecking crew" which will vote to keep those segments of the speeches from ever becoming law.

"We must face the fact, the Democratic nominee said, "that every four years the Republican candidates talk like Democrats. I am always flattered when they borrow our ideas, but they don't keep them long enough."

The audience for which his speech was prepared today was another convention, calculated to be more friendly — a convention of the International Assn. of Machinists in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Stevenson promised that he and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, would "put on the hardest campaign that this country has ever seen." And he told the machinists that with their help they will win in November and "will start next January to build the new America."

The real nature of a political party, Stevenson said, is revealed not in what it says but in what it does. The Democrats, he said, make actions correspond to campaign promises — "we mean what we say and the record proves it."

added, "has been the party of leadership, alert to the needs and challenges which lie ahead. We Democrats propose to meet the changes of the future as we have met the great changes of the past — with boldness, with imagination, and with the energy, wisdom and faith of a democratic people."

Putting it into figures, Stevenson said that 85 per cent of Senate Democrats voted to provide social security benefits to disabled persons at age 50, whereas 86 per cent of the Republicans voted no. He said that is "a fair measure of the difference between the two parties." The measure passed and Eisenhower signed it, along with its provision for lowering the eligibility age for women beneficiaries from 65 to 62.

The advance word from Clayton Fritchey, Stevenson's press secretary, was that "you can bet the speech to the machinists won't be antilabor."

For that matter Stevenson's address to the Legion wasn't antilabor. But parts of it were pretty much anti-Republican. And the reaction from an organization with a membership with divided party loyalties was a mixture of hoors and hoots.

The applause and cheering was more frequent and in greater volume. But the boing still added up to one of the severest hecklings any man running for president has received in recent political history.

Some of Stevenson's associates were saying the boing was a demonstration of bad taste and manners, inasmuch as Stevenson had been invited to address the Legion convention.

But the Democratic nominee himself showed little vexation. And aides who helped assemble material for the speech said they wouldn't change a word if it had to be given over again.

Fritchey told a reporter Stevenson wasn't upset over the boing evoked by what the press secretary called one of the most significant speeches Stevenson will make during the presidential campaign.

"Maybe the mixed reaction will be a good thing, if it sets people to thinking," Fritchey said. Still, some of the people around Stevenson conceded they were surprised at the volume of boing.

Politicians Due At Plowing Matches

NEWTON, Iowa (AP)—Each presidential year of late, something happens to the national plowing matches. The top political campaigners grab the spotlight.

The 1956 event will be held on the Henry Steenhoek farm here Sept. 29-31.

Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for president, has promised the field days committee that he will speak here Saturday, Sept. 22.

President Eisenhower yesterday announced he would speak at the field days Sept. 21.

Their coming would seem to rank the Newton gathering politically with the 1952 event at Kasson, Minn., where the same presidential candidates expounded their farm views; and with the 1948 field days at Dexter, Iowa, where President Truman made his major pitch for Midwestern votes.

Far from being annoyed at the political overtones for their big show, sponsors of national field days—they are annual events—are overjoyed that they have become important political occasions every four years. That helps bring the crowds and 100,000 has become they say, almost standard for field days with presidential candidates as main speakers.

And like most 'midwesterners, the sponsors believe the farm issue will be one of the hottest of the campaign in their areas.

The field days committee remains non-partisan. It worked equally hard to land both speakers. Republican and Democratic state organizations swung behind the effort.

But politics isn't all at the field days. There are many other contests, shows, exhibits.

On the Steenhoek farm and adjacent acres — about 2,000 in all — a city complete will rise for the three-day occasion. It will have post office, a daily newspaper, water and power systems, an airport for flying farmers and others, and a great array of exhibition pavilions and booths. It will be known as "Conservation City."

The important speaking will take place on the Steenhoek farm, in the open.

Asked if he was prepared to entertain the President and Stevenson if they stopped in his yard en route to the speaking rostrum, Steenhoek, 41, a grain and livestock farmer, replied:

"Well, I think we could scare up a cup of coffee or a meal such as us farmers have."

Steenhoek, his wife and three sons, live in an older house on the farm he bought three years ago, but they move into a brand new seven-room house after the field days.

Asked if he is Republican or Democrat, Steenhoek replied: "Well, that all depends. . . . And, in his answer, some politicians say, he sums up the reason that both parties may fire their biggest farm sallies at the national field days.

Easy Way to Wash the Car At Home
It has been hard work to wash the car at home, and too expensive to have it washed. Washing the car, polishing the body, the chrome, and the glass used to be a man's job — a major performance. Today, with Polishampoo, a new product, a woman or a teen aged child can do the job quickly and with no effort. Polishampoo is a scientific liquid formula made only for car washing. It polishes as it cleans, removes dirt and grime, and renews the original lustre.
No Rubbing — No Wiping
Just pour one ounce into a bucket, fill with water, and rich suds develop. Apply to car, rinse off, and that's all. No need to use a chamois or a nozzle. Car dries by itself with no spots or streaks, just the way you always hoped it would after a wash.
Maintains Beauty, Value
Quick, easy, inexpensive Polishampoo helps to maintain the beauty and the trade-in value. 8 oz. (8 shampoos) . . . 98c

Would That Vacations Could Last All Year!

By ANNE LEFEVER
Alas and alack for the end of a summer vacation!
Home never looked so good as you come into the driveway at the finish of a delightful period of time spent just as you choose, but just wait—

The grass, the part, that is, which hasn't turned yellow, has tried to see how fast it can grow! That, of course, furnishes a polka dot pattern over the lawn. Makes mowing a rather disconcerting affair, since the strength exerted on the high spots carries over into the short grass, making a change of pace involuntary and surprising.

Your perpetual enemies, weeds and Chinese elm seedlings have had themselves a ball! The former sprout out in every direction, while the miniature trees hide under rose bushes, vines and even stray papers which have lain too long in one place!

Inside the house, you find that the louvers on the air-conditioner, unintentionally left open, have admitted part of several standstills. A card on the door says that you have missed the services of the man from the water softener company, and the mail is full of bills. (Remind me next year not to take my vacation at the end of the month!)

You forgot to turn the refrigerator down a notch or two, and some of the food, never intended for freezing, could be used for a lethal weapon.

Faced with all this, in addition to the fact that all your clothes are dirty, you suddenly remember how much fun you had; how nice it was to get out of bed just when you chose to do so, with the afternoons and evenings of merriment waiting—(why else did you select that resort?)

Buffalo For The Buffs

This painting was presented Tuesday to Forsan High School during opening exercises for the current term. Mrs. Terry Patterson, above, was commissioned by the senior class of 1956 to do an oil painting of the school team emblem, the buffalo. She first did charcoal sketches from live buffalo on the Carter Ranch in Glasscock County, drawing rapidly as the animals came up to feed. The big painting was presented by Jerry Lynn Stephenson on behalf of the class, and Supt. Joe Holladay accepted for the school. Henceforth it will hang in the foyer of the school.

'Stop Thief' Both Sides Cry As Demos Prepare Convention

By LEDGERWOOD SLOAN
Associated Press Staff

Yells of stop thief echoed from both factions of the Texas Democratic party today as they lined up for a slugfest at their Fort Worth convention Tuesday.

The leader of the conservatives, George Sandlin of Austin, charged that the liberals are trying to steal the convention. The liberals have accused the conservatives of the same design all along.

Sandlin, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, teed off on the leader of the liberals, Mrs. Kathleen Voigt of San Antonio. He said she "is going to have a horrible and revolting surprise when she finds out which way the power lies."

He called Mrs. Voigt's protests that he had lined up most Fort Worth hotel rooms for his team while bedding her pals down 30 miles away at Dallas "a smoke screen."

"Just part of their brazen effort to hide attempts to steal the convention," said Sandlin. "They have been yelling that the conservatives were trying to steal the convention, but they are the ones trying to pull a steal."

Mrs. Voigt claims the liberals control 1,377 convention votes, including 489 of disputed delegations from Harris, Bexar, El Paso, Wichita, Hidalgo, Jefferson and Nolan counties. These could swing the power either way. She also says the conservatives have only 522 votes.

"We have our own totals, but I am not going to say what they are because the liberals would get to work and try to steal them," Sandlin retorted. "Mrs. Voigt doesn't have as many friends as she thinks she has."

"You're another" retort to Sandlin came at Marlin from Melvin Handelman, chairman of the Falls County delegation to the state convention and treasurer of the National Young Democrats of America.

"Sandlin is trying to steal the forthcoming convention from the Rayburn-Johnson leadership to protect his own job . . . and to deliver the state party machinery again to Eisenhower, Nixon and Benson," Handelman said.

The forces of Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson won control of the party machinery at the state convention in May.

Ralph Yarborough said he planned to jump into the convention fray.

"I call on all legally-elected Democratic delegates to attend the Fort Worth convention," he said. "Remember Amarillo in '52, where political treachery was claimed to be a civic virtue. Those who controlled the Amarillo convention in 1952 are trying now to control this convention in Fort Worth in 1956."

The party put Adlai Stevenson's name on the general election ballot at the Amarillo convention but asked Gov. Shivers to work for Dwight Eisenhower. It was the first time a Texas Democratic convention ever went for a GOP nominee.

Sen. Price Daniel, whose victory in the August Democratic gubernatorial primary Yarborough said he would not contest if it is upheld by the official count, also was expected at the convention.

Daniel hasn't indicated how serious a threat he considers W. Lee O'Daniel's charge back into the political arena after running third in the July primary.

O'Daniel has bought time on 74 radio stations in behalf of his candidacy for governor as an independent in the general elections in November. O'Daniel bought five minutes on each station, six days a week, Monday through Saturday, until Nov. 6.

O'Daniel is trying to get enough signatures to put him on the ballot in November. This raised the possibility that Daniel won't be able to rest as easily on his oars as is traditional for Texas Democrats who win in the August primary.

Credential and canvassing committees will meet at Fort Worth Monday prior to the opening of the convention proper.

Leaders of the liberals plan a pre-convention strategy meeting Friday to be planned by a mass meeting of their followers Monday night.

Yarborough may feel out his strength during the convention before deciding whether to run for Daniel's Senate seat.

Daniel may announce his resignation from the Senate after the state convention confirms its apparent Democratic nomination for governor.

Mitchell Denies Pushing Steel Men

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell denied flatly yesterday he had black-jacked industry to bring about a settlement of the steel strike last summer.

The Cabinet official made the denial at a press conference after he addressed the International Assn. of Machinists Convention.

The question developed from a speech by Albert J. Hayes, Machinists' International president, at the Press and Union League Club here last weekend.

Hayes said the Washington Evening Star last August asserted Mitchell had threatened Taft-Hartley action and a mediation board "stacked" in favor of labor to bring the steel companies to a settlement. If that is true, he added Mitchell was guilty of black-jacking industry into an involuntary settlement.

Reporters asked Mitchell if the story was true. He denied it flatly.

He said he arranged a meeting and that was all.

"There were no threats. There was no coercion," he declared.

"I got the two groups together merely as a mediator and walked out and let them settle their own problems."

Asked if that might be construed as government intervention, Mitchell shot back, "absolutely not."

Mitchell told the 1,500 machinists delegates "America must not waste its manpower—our most valuable resource—as it has wasted other resources."

"We cannot afford to waste the potential skills of six million Negroes; neither can we afford to neglect the skills and experience of mature workers over 45."

11 U. S. Marines Drown During Training Break On Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Eleven U.S. Marines drowned off the north shore of Okinawa yesterday while swimming during a break in field exercises, the Marine Corps announced.

The men were knocked off their feet by a strong undercurrent which was believed due to typhoon conditions, it was said.

Brig. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, said a freak ocean current caused the drownings.

At least 12 other Marines were saved by other Leathernecks in the area.

An extensive land and sea search was under way for remains of the 11 who drowned. All available planes were searching the sea within five miles of shore and foot patrols combed the shoreline.

The Marine Corps said that the Marines took a break from their field problem on the coast of Okinawa and went for a swim in apparently calm water.

"Before they got waist-deep, the men were in trouble," an eye-witness was quoted. "They were knocked from their feet by a vicious undercurrent and tumbled seaward on the bottom."

Capt. Jack Westerman, commanding officer of Co. F of the 2nd Battalion, 9th Marine Regiment, immediately called off he swimming and ordered a human chain formed to aid the bathers.

The chain was unable to keep its footing due to the intensity of the current, the Marines said. Lt. Col. James A. Donovan, battalion commander, called helicopters and 2nd Lt. John L. Shanahan, a skin diver, played a large role in the rescue.

Hearing of trouble, Shanahan raced to the beach with a rubber raft and pulled many bathers to safety.

Unable to swim against the heavy currents, the men clung to the raft until arrival of the helicopter, piloted by Lt. James M. Middleton, Balboa, Calif., which dropped a 100-foot rope and towed the raft to shore.

After all visible Marines were rescued a roll call indicated 11 Marines missing. Persons familiar with ocean currents during a typhoon attributed the unusual undertow to Typhoon Emma, now 500 miles south of here.

The names of the Marines listed as missing were withheld.

In Washington, a Marine Corps duty officer said early today he had received no report of the accident.

At Taipei, Formosa, Gov. C. K. Yen told the Cabinet today that typhoon Dinah, which cut through Formosa Monday, caused the death of 27 persons.

New Gas Field In West Colorado

ABILENE (AP)—Utex Exploration Co. said yesterday a new gas field has been opened in west Colorado, two miles from the recently completed Pacific Northwest Pipeline.

The division has its headquarters in Abilene and handles drilling operations for Standard Oil Co.

The discovery well is Standard's 1 Young, 40 miles west of Grand Junction. A drill test in the Dakota at 3,090-3,160 feet, opened one hole, flowed gas at the rate of 6,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The new Pacific Northwest Pipeline carries natural gas from the San Juan Basin area to Washington and Oregon.

A Bible Thought For Today

O LORD of hosts, GOD of Israel, that dwellest between the cherubim, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth: thou hast made heaven and earth. (Isaiah 37:16)

Public Service Vs. Public Sinecure

On its budgeted figures, Howard County stands to spend about $100,000 more during the next year than it will have spent during 1956.

Without going into a detailed drudgery of figures, it may be said that a substantial portion of the proposed increase is represented in various salary raises.

Major elective offices, such as judge, sheriff, county attorney, tax assessor-collector, auditor and district clerk are being raised $1,200 to $7,200, and corresponding provision is made for other officers and their staffs of deputies and secretaries.

These figures probably are not out of line with the resources of Howard County (taxable valuations now more than $46,000,000) and not out of line with other Texas counties of comparable size.

There is another salary item in the budget to which The Herald takes exception, solely on a matter of principle. This is another advance in the remuneration to members of the Commissioners Court. Under the 1957 budget, salaries to these officials would go to $4,500 per year, plus a $300 travel allowance for each. This would represent a $900 increase in a year, since the commissioners' salaries were raised in the spring from $3,600 to $4,500.

Our objection is tied to the proposition, presented in our editorial columns before, that the time has come for the county commissionerships to be regarded as positions of public service and not as public sinecure. We do not question the responsibility or the work devolving upon members of the county court, but submit that men ready to devote their talents to good local government ought to look at it as a civic contribution. The examples of our city commissioners and our school trustees are too outstanding to ignore.

While the county governmental system in Texas is antiquated at best, Howard County has made some progress toward modernization. The major step has been installation of a coordinated engineering system on the county roads, and this alone has relieved commissioners of most of their time-and-energy-consuming duties.

The policy-making responsibilities of the Commissioners Court, we feel, can be met in a couple of regular sessions each month, and there should have to be little or no further call upon a commissioner's time.

If the principle of a man wanting to serve his local government, instead of having it support him, has merit, then the people ought to express themselves in favor of it. It is the people's influence that will bring about this new concept—a concept we would dare predict would be highly acclaimed throughout Texas. Howard County could establish a worthy example here. The pattern cannot be established with continued raising of the pay scale. It has to go the other way.

The people can have their say on the budget at a public hearing next Monday, Sept. 10, at 10 a. m. in the Commission room. That would be the time for some headway to be made toward this principle of public service. It would be the time for the public to assert its ideas. Do we make progress in good local government, or do we stay in the old rut?

Great Contribution To Our Lives

Today and Saturday mark the observance of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, and those of the Jewish faith here will join in hearts and prayer with those around the globe in this solemn occasion.

Our religious and moral concepts and codes lean heavily upon the foundations of Hebrew history stretching into the mists of antiquity. Much of our legal structure finds its ethical justification in the basic laws given from God through Moses.

It is no wonder that the Hebrew children have sought, sometimes with painful digression and sometime with glorious effectiveness, to discover the paths to brotherly love and peace among men. Essentially this is a noble aspect of democracy, and thus all of us are indebted to those great teachings which have enriched our lives.

Party Name Versus Philosophy

WASHINGTON — Apropos of the recent decision of the Republican headquarters here to revert to their custom of a few decades ago in referring to their opponents as "the Democrat party" — instead of "Democratic" — this colloquy is being quoted in the political corridors hereabouts:

Question: "When does a Democrat turn Republican?"

Answer: "When he is an old-fashioned Republican."

Maybe the time has come to question whether either of the parties is sticking to history. For whether the Democrats have a right to call their party "Democratic" and the Republicans may properly call theirs "Republican" depends in one sense on whether both groups are willing unequivocally to champion the main doctrine, namely "states' rights" espoused by Thomas Jefferson, father of "the Democratic-Republican party." It was thus known from 1793 to 1828 when the word "Republican" was dropped.

Jefferson, in his official documents, had always leaned toward the use of the word "Republican" rather than "Democratic." Professor Malcolm Moos of Johns Hopkins in his new book entitled "The Republicans: A History of Their Party," says: "In his celebrated editorial piece of June 16, 1854, 'Party Names and Public Duty,' Horace Greeley (editor of the New York Tribune) urged the title that Jefferson had given to his followers in 1800 and that the party of Henry Clay had taken in 1831 — the National Republicans."

"Unquestionably the name of Jefferson struck a highly responsive chord with these neophyte Republicans of the early 1850's. After the slaveholders captured the Democratic party in 1844, mention of the author of the Declaration of Independence began to be soft-pedaled by the Democrats. And it was not really until 1896, when the Democratic platform reactivated the Jeffersonian tradition under the leadership of William Jennings Bryan, that the sage of Monticello was again championed with great vigor . . .

"The names of both Jefferson and Washington appeared in the first Republican platform of 1856, and on the eve of the presidential election year 1860, Abraham Lincoln declared that the 'principles of Jefferson are the definitions and axioms of a free society.'"

This does not emphasize, however, the sacrifice of constitutional principle made by both parties for the sake of expediency. For there has been a battle going on within each party on ideological grounds from the very beginning of the republic.

The struggle to keep the government from taking over the economic life of the individual and creating a master state has been continuous for decades. The widespread impression that one group or faction or party has wanted progress and the other has preferred stagnation is an oversimplification. The fight always has been against encroachment upon individual freedom through reckless experimentation. It was Ralph Waldo Emerson who in his "Essay on Politics" more than a hundred years ago wrote in effect: "What a pity that one party today has all the ideas and the other party is the only one that knows how to make them work."

This may explain the improvements claimed by the Republican party of today in making practical some of the New Deal reforms.

Today neither party can convincingly call itself the party of Jefferson, and neither today can accurately be called "democratic" with a small "d," for each has abandoned the basic principles of Thomas Jefferson.

Both party leaderships nowadays believe in a centralized government with federal control of education, though they often deny such a purpose. Both believe in superceding state laws whenever political expediency or the rewards from a pressure group dictate such a course. Both believe in federal control of business and of employer-employee relations.

Within each party, of course, there is dissent against such federalization, and a cry to uphold the thesis of Jefferson that the best government is the one that interferes the least with the rights of the citizen. But the dissenters are a small minority. As the mistakes of a centralized government multiply, a new "consensus" or a majority coalition may some day recover the ground lost in the last four decades through abrogation of constitutional rights and disregard of the principles of Thomas Jefferson.

Couple Of Traders

WICHITA, Kan. — The car-hop at the drive-in food and drink spot did a quick double-take when she found two men atop a 20-foot road grader instead of an auto, demanding service.

She told the boss, who called police. The men, tipily still waiting for service, were taken into custody.

They'd just traded a cafe for the grader, they told officers, and planned to trade the grader for something else

WASHINGTON — Arthur Larson, a pleasant, graying 48-year-old lawyer, has a knack of saying not only what President Eisenhower likes to hear but what he likes to say, too.

Eisenhower liked a recent book by Larson so much he got him to help on his speech-writing. Larson worked on Eisenhower's acceptance speech at the Republican convention in San Francisco.

But Republicans like Larson, who has been undersecretary of labor two years, must make Democrats like Adlai Stevenson feel confused enough to scream in pain: "Get off my property or I'll call the sheriff. Or is this your property?"

In his 210-page book—"A Republican Looks at His Party"—Larson attempts to show the "new Republicanism" under Eisenhower has a "genius" for doing the right thing in running the government.

In fact he says the Republicans have discovered the "American consensus" — meaning general agreement among Americans on what to do—and at the same time

Feel Sorry For Yourself

NEW YORK — Curstone reflections of a Pavement Plato: Now is the time to feel sorry for yourself.

If there is any one month in the year when practically everybody gives way to the yearning to be someone else, it is in September.

The child, stricken with the feeling his days of barefoot freedom are over, tells his dad: "Boy, do I wish I was you! Then I wouldn't have to go to school."

The father, if he is equally frank replies: "Boy, don't I wish I was you, and could go to school instead of work?"

And mother, hearing them both, murmurs silently to herself: "My, don't I wish I was either of you. Then I wouldn't have to worry about taking down the summer draperies, and starting fall housecleaning."

Each has his point. The grass always looks greener on the other side of the fence that hems us in during the final days of summer.

The mere mention of fences brings a shudder to the politician. That's all he'll be doing from now until election time — mending one fence after another.

This disease of discontent we're all going through now is like a late attack of spring fever, a regret that vacation time is over and we must return again to the reality of the daily struggle.

But the return to reality is doubly hard when the noon sun still holds a languor and the night is still loud with katydid clamor and the lonesome cry of the whippoorwill.

The wage slave unwilling as any schoolboy, goes back to a desk piled high with postponed chores, and has little heart to tackle them.

He has to shake his head to dispel the recurring daydream of a silver fish leaping at twilight in a quiet mountain lake, the fish he almost caught just a few days before. Or was it years? He can't be sure. It already seems so long ago.

The boss, trying to restore a little pep in the place, calls a conference and tells his salesmen: "All right, boys, the joyride is over. It's time to hit the ball again. We've got a lot of good hard selling to do between now and Christmas to make our housewife, bus driver or business executive, each wonderer if it wouldn't be better to be somebody else. Anybody else."

What we all really need right now is a good heavy snowfall. Then we'd all snap out of our end-of-summer doldrums and get back to the burry-up tempo of normal civilized living.

Around The Rim

I Just Wanta Go Home!

I am a paper cup.
Or a napkin, a beer can, a paper sack, or even a glass bottle or newspaper.
But that is stretching the point; in this case I am a cold drink cup.
Now my natural habitat is in a drug store, cafe, or drive-in stand. I am the guy who holds the cold drink and keeps vandals from running off with the bottle, or keeps glass containers from being broken all over the city.
As I said, my "natural" habitat is the drive-in, but frequently I find myself in some of the most embarrassing situations. Many of my owners seem to get a big bang out of throwing me in the yard of a Big Spring resident while driving down the street—after they have finished the drink. Maybe it is just unthoughtfulness and not done deliberately, but for whatever the reason, I find myself dumped in someone's yard.
To be perfectly frank, that is not my idea of a good place to be. I—personally and for the sake of homeowners in Big Spring—would greatly appreciate being thrown in a trash can and hauled to the city dump to be burned, rather than be left on a beautiful lawn.
Also quite often, I have company in the form of one of my brothers; he has been dumped there only a short time after me—possibly by the car owner chasing my boss. And there we sit embarrassed wait-

Adlai Hits Hard On Specific Issues

DETROIT—In his first major speeches of the Presidential campaign Adlai Stevenson revealed in broad outline the strategy he will follow in the two crowded months leading up to November 6.

Stevenson means to hit hard on specific issues both in the domestic and foreign fields. The high level oratory of the 1952 campaign will be at a minimum and the Democratic candidate will again and again aim at what he and his strategy board believe are the holes in the Eisenhower record.

Above all, as Stevenson showed in his direct appeal to the labor rally in Detroit, he means to hammer hard at the flaws in the Eisenhower prosperity. He stressed the 230,000 production workers laid off in the auto industry with over 50,000 unemployed having exhausted their unemployment benefits for the year.

The geographic outlines of the Stevenson campaign have also been broadly agreed upon by the strategy board. As now planned, the candidate fairly early in the campaign will make a quick swing through the South with a major speech in Texas, probably at Dallas, a speech in New Orleans and in Florida, either at Jacksonville or Miami, with stops elsewhere in the South. From there on out Stevenson will concentrate in the states where it is believed a margin of victory can be won on the base of the Solid South, of which the Democratic strategists now profess to be confident.

These states are Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan. An attack is also being planned on the tier of three Western states, California, Washington and Oregon. Consideration is being given, too, to an effort in three or four farm states where the August drop in farm prices has raised hopes of renewed "discontent with the Eisenhower Administration."

It is the Republican record in Congress and in the White House that Stevenson intends to try to spread before the country as a record of failure on issues affecting both workers and farmers. As one of those close to the candidate put it, "What we are going to try to do is to push through

Walter Lippmann

Starting Integration At The Top

We are now at the beginning of the third school year since the Supreme Court held that segregation in the public schools, as it has prevailed in seventeen states and the District of Columbia, is unlawful. Eight Southern states, extending from Virginia to Louisiana, have taken legal action to nullify the law as applied to primary and secondary schools, and five of them — all but Virginia, North Carolina and Louisiana—maintain segregation in their colleges and universities. Only the District of Columbia, which is under Federal government, has abolished segregation entirely. In most but not all of the remaining nine states — which include all the border states — there are some mixed schools. But they are largely confined to communities where the Negroes are a small minority of the population.

Two years are a very short time in a matter of such gravity and difficulty. But they have been long enough, it seems to me, to raise questions which deserve the most careful study and discussion. These questions revolve around the policy — as laid down by the Supreme Court — for putting the law into effect. This policy, we can now see, is suitable and effective in communities, as for example the District of Columbia, where the public authority and a preponderant public opinion are in favor of observance and compliance. But in the resisting states or communities, in the hard core of the South, the policy is most unsatisfactory. It is, in fact, either ineffective — which discredits the law — or dangerous to peace and order.

The essential policy, which I am talking about, is this: Having declared that segregation in public schools is unlawful, the Supreme Court invited citizens in communities which do not comply voluntarily to come into the District Court for a rescript of their grievances. This means in practice that in segregated communities Negro families who are willing to fight for their children's rights must get a lawyer, supplied usually by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, must go into the Federal court, and must ask the judge to order the local of-

Nixon Urges Sense On Red Problems

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vice President Nixon went before the American Legion Convention today with a strong plea for "more common sense about Communism and less wishful thinking."

He warned against being beguiled by the "new look" of peace in Soviet foreign policy.

"The label differs in various countries but the poison is just the same," Nixon said. "Regardless of his nationality, the Communist has one loyalty and one only—the ruthless power-hungry system that has enslaved almost half the world."

"He listed what he called 10 'complete about-faces in Communist policy' since 1918. This record he said, explains why the United States had demanded actions, not words, as guarantees of good faith from the Communists."

"I am stating our position strongly because there are well-intentioned but misguided people here and elsewhere who contend that our line toward the Communists is too hard, and that we should soften it in view of their changed attitude," Nixon said.

"It is time we realized that well-intentioned but mistaken men can be as great a threat to a nation's security as admitted Communists or fellow travelers."

Nixon said the only way to meet the problem is through maintaining a position of strength.

"I believe that history proves that the leaders of totalitarian states have the type of mentality which respects strength and strength alone. They pay attention to what you say only when you have military and economic strength to back it up."

Nixon, saddened by the death of his father, Frank A. Nixon, 77, in Whittier Tuesday night, was able to work on his address only sporadically. Friends visited the father's home throughout yesterday, extending sympathy, and arrangements were being made for the funeral services tomorrow.

vention today with election of a national commander to succeed J. Addington Wagner of Battle Creek Mich.

After a torrid floor fight, the convention yesterday acted on one of its most controversial issues by voting to sever affiliation with the 40 and 8 organization unless the latter retracts statements accusing Legion officers of "using their organization's funds and assets to further their own aims."

'Wanted' Dog Circulars Out

Circulars printed and distributed by law enforcement agencies relative to wanted men and women are commonplace items in the daily mail of sheriffs and police officials.

Sheriff Jess Slaughter's mail today included one for a badly wanted dog.

A reward is offered for the recovery of the animal.

Dorothy Lauck, Cincinnati, O., is the owner. She has evidently had thousands of these circulars prepared and mailed to authorities all over the southwest and west.

She said that her collie, Mickey, was lost on a trip between Arizona and Lordsburg, N. M. He appears to have jumped out of the car at night.

A witness told of seeing the dog tied on a rope and led by a young boy, obviously the son of a tourist, in Road Ford, N. M.

Miss Lauck offers $100 for recovery of her pet. She wrote in the printed circular:

"It is not hopeless (that the dog will be found) because God knows where Mickey is and if He can take note of such an insignificant and tiny creature as a sparrow, I am sure He will do as much in the case of a faithful companion of many years and many miles of travel."

Evidence Admitted In Brink's Trial

BOSTON (AP)—The first physical evidence—a visored cap, strips of adhesive tape and strands of rope—has been admitted and marked as exhibits in the Brink's trial.

A police detective testified the visored cap was left behind by one of the robbers and that the tape and rope were used to bind and gag the five Brink's employees surprised by the robbers the night of Jan. 17, 1950.

Eight Greater Boston men are charged with the fantastic $1,219,000 robbery, the nation's biggest cash haul.

Detective John T. Hommel, 29 years a member of the department, said he first saw the tape and rope on the floor of the Brink's vault room when he answered the robbery alarm.

He said the visored cap was handed to him by one of the Brink's employees. Earlier testimony brought out that the "five or six" actual robbers all wore visored caps.

Hommel was still on the stand yesterday when Superior Court Judge Felix Forte recessed the court until Saturday. Sessions today and tomorrow were cancelled because of the Jewish religious holidays.

Hommel took the witness chair after Thomas B. Lloyd, 51, chief cashier at Brink's the night of the robbery, testified more than six hours.

Under cross-examination; defense counsel P. F. Smith drew from Lloyd an admission he didn't know of his own knowledge whether "one dollar, no dollars or a hundred million dollars were taken."

Lloyd had testified under direct questioning earlier that the money they were handling was in sealed bags and packages.

The chief cashier also said during the 3½-hour cross examination that he didn't see the face of any of the gunmen.

He said the gunmen wore masks that covered their entire faces, adding: "They looked like a bunch of comics, if it weren't for the guns—but they didn't look funny to me."

He also testified he ordered a fellow-employee to open the grill door to the vault room on command of the gunmen because "all I thought of was to open the door before I got bumped off."

SERVICE WILL HONOR PASTOR

Thanksgiving, 1956, will be observed as "Dick O'Brien Day" in Big Spring.

O'Brien is pastor of the First Baptist Church here. His 15 years as minister of the local church make him Big Spring's senior minister.

Other pastors decided at the meeting of the Big Spring Pastors' Association to stage the annual union Thanksgiving service in honor of Dr. O'Brien.

Rev. Hal Hooker, president of the association, was asked to appoint a committee to work out plans for the service.

Guide Arrested In Jungle Shooting

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Witnesses agreed today there was a loud quarrel over a story in Confidential magazine just before the publisher, Robert Harrison, 50, was shot.

But police waited to get Harrison's own story before deciding whether to prosecute Richard W. Wely, 35, jungle trapper and guide. The New York publisher was in a hospital here suffering from exhaustion, exposure and a slight flesh wound in the left arm.

Wely was under arrest in this city on a holding charge. He acknowledged to reporters at police headquarters yesterday he had shot Harrison Tuesday in woods where the publisher was hunting in the Jarabacoa Mountain district about 70 miles northwest of here. But he said the shooting was an accident.

He said his rifle fell and went off as the two were having a "big argument" over a story in Harrison's magazine. The story told how Wely introduced Peruvian actress Pilar Palete, then his wife, to Hollywood star John Wayne in Peru in 1952. She later became Mrs. Wayne.

"I never had any intention of hurting Harrison," he declared, "although I was sore because of the story in the magazine."

A. P. Govoni, managing editor of Confidential and Harrison's hunting companion, said last night "Wely was shouting and gesturing abuse because of the story in the magazine."

He said he did not see the shooting because he had just stumbled and fallen on his face. He told newsmen he could not say whether the shooting was accidental or deliberate. "Harrison will have to tell you that," he added.

A pretty American woman singer, Geene Courtney, also was on the hunting trip when Wely happened upon the party. Wely and Govoni left her with the wounded Harrison in the jungle.

Both were found yesterday, the day after the shooting, suffering from exhaustion, nervousness and exposure. They were brought to the same hospital in Ciudad Trujillo. Doctors would not let reporters or photographers see them. They said Harrison's arm had merely "a flesh wound—nothing serious at all." But they reported Miss Courtney near nervous collapse.

Wayne told reporters in Hollywood that about the only thing true in the Confidential article was "that I was in Peru." He added, "as far as Wely is concerned, I think he's a nice enough fellow and I hope he's not in trouble. But I deplore the fact he's such a poor shot."

Wely said he was a good friend of the actor.

"I cabled him about my trouble," he said, "and may need his help."

Wely stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 205 pounds.

He presently is a director of Amazon Adventure Tours in Peru and a trapper of rare animals. He came to the Dominican Republic to try to catch an unusual kind of ferret for the sumac tropical fish hatcheries in Miami, Fla.

He said he first met Harrison in Miami some two months ago and talked with him of the possibility of organizing a hunting trip on the Amazon but refused to discuss Mrs. Wayne.

Wely said he ran into Harrison again Sunday night at El Embajador Hotel here. The publisher, an avid hunter, had come to the Dominican Republic for a vacation and to collect information for a story on Porfirio Rubirosa, Dominican diplomat and playboy.

The hefty trapper said he complained about the story about Pilar and "there were some harsh words spoken—but that was all."

Youth Confesses Store Burglary

A 16-year-old Spanish American, arrested in connection with a break-in at the Everett Grocery, 703 NW 5th, has admitted the offense to A. E. Long, county juvenile officer.

The youth took $10 in his raid on the store. He has repaid the money, Long said, and made restitution for damages. Long explained that this was the boy's initial offense and that on his repaying the money, he was released to his parents.

Football Ticket Sales Show Gain

Season football tickets sales picked up slightly at the school tax office Wednesday, but are still far short of what they were a year ago.

Upwards to 400 season ducts have now been purchased by last year's ticket holders. Last year, a total of 1,100 season tickets were sold.

Holders of the 1955 tickets have until Saturday noon to subscribe for the new tickets, priced at $7.50 and good for five home games. The tax office will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and until noon Saturday.

Those not sold by Saturday will be made available to the general public on a "first come, first served" basis.

The Steers open their 1955 home schedule against Snyder the night of Sept. 28. They also play Lamesa, Sweetwater, Midland and Abilene in the local park.

The school tax office is now situated at 602 E. 13th, immediately north of South Ward school. It formerly was on Tenth Street, just off Rannels.

Classroom Bids To Be Opened Today

Bids were to be opened Thursday at 4 p.m. in the high school library for 12 additional elementary classrooms.

Originally, the school board had called for lettings in July, but at that time officials became fearful that the steel strike might cause extended bidding.

Covered in the proposals will be six-room additions to College Heights and East Ward schools.

Police Are Holding House Number Sign

If you live at 1713 and are missing a fancy, yard-type house marker, you may find it at the police station.

The house number was among the group of signs that turned up on the high school steps Wednesday morning. It is the only sign that hasn't been reclaimed.

The numbers are mounted in an ornamental iron frame. Police said they will be happy to turn the marker back to its owner.

Jayes Services To Be Friday

Funeral services are scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday at St. Thomas Catholic Church for Walter F. Jayes, former Big Spring resident who died at his home in Odessa Wednesday.

Father Adolph Metzger will officiate. Chaplain Bill Ludlum is to read the rosary at 8:15 p.m. today at the River Chapel. Interment will be in the Catholic section of the City Cemetery under direction of River Funeral Home.

Mr. Jayes formerly served as grand knight of the Big Spring council of the Knights of Columbus. He was an employee of Texas Electric Service Company here and in Odessa.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sisson, Bill Board and Harold Holman, all of Big Spring, and Phil Altendorf, W. E. Bruce, John Drummond and Pete Capella of the Odessa-Midland area. All Texas Electric Service Company employees will be considered honorary pallbearers.

Stockmen See Area Herefords On Tour

By DON HENRY

SNYDER — More than three score individuals, resuming the annual Howard County South Plains Herford Association tour, today found herds in fine flesh.

They also got a closeup on a new experimental fescue crop, sorghum aluminum.

About 55 stockmen, breeders and others were taking part in the visits to eight herds during the day, and of course the crowd perked up at noon with serving of lunch at the pavilion in Towle Park. After lunch the tour was to swing to the nearby Winston Bros. ranch. R. H. Odum ranch northeast of here, then double back to the F. A. Yonwood place in eastern Dawson County and terminate at the Bar-M ranch of O. H. McAllister in eastern Midland County late in the afternoon.

Jimmy Taylor, Howard County agent, was to give tips on feeding and grooming for show purposes immediately after the luncheon. Outlook for market of breeding cattle in Mexico to be given by Humberto Reyes, field representative of the Texas Herford Association.

Starting at the Charlie Creighton ranch west of Big Spring, the group inspected his herd of 70 registered cattle. Creighton started his operations in 1936 and uses Old Major Mischief 20th, Major Mischief 12th and B Master Mixer 1st as sires.

Visitors looked over the 40 registered cows of the Sam Buchanan herd, established in 1938. Herd sires for this Anxiety 4th line are JRL Choide Lampighter.

Leland Wallace had on display individuals out of his herd of 40 registered Herefords. He started in 1940 and has stuck to the Anxiety 4th line with Choice Lampighter 22nd and B Master Mixer 1st as sires.

Onward Mixer Domino and BG Husky Triumph 1st, sires of the C. A. Walker herd, were in good flesh. Walker has 20 head of registered stock.

Jack Buchanan showed the party 20 Angus planted to sorghum aluminum, a natural cross of sudan and Johnson grass. The crop was imported from Australia about two years ago and is in the experimental stage. It has done well at the Buchanan place and has produced considerable forage.

3 Fines Levied In County Court

H. H. Ratliff, charged by the liquor control board with transporting liquor illegally, pleaded guilty to the charges before R. H. Weaver, county judge, Thursday morning.

He was fined $100.

J. L. Mickler, who was charged with giving the Rite Way Motors a worthless check March 7, pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to serve 10 days in the county jail.

Charles A. Wells, charged with giving Mike Moore a worthless check for $5.94, pleaded guilty. His fine was assessed at $30.

Killingsworth Rites Friday

Henry W. Killingsworth, 57, resident of Howard County for three decades, died in a hospital here Wednesday shortly before noon. He had been ill for several months.

Funeral is set for Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the Nalley-Pickle Chapel with Darrell Flynt, minister of the Birdwell and Eleventh Place Church of Christ, officiating. Burial is to be in the Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Killingsworth was born Oct. 24, 1898, in Yoakum County and came here 30 years ago. He was a veteran of World War I.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Ione Killingsworth; two daughters, Mrs. Novis Womack and Mrs. Helen Monroe, Big Spring; two brothers, C. G. Killingsworth, Dallas, and Harry Killingsworth, Sanger, Calif.; and one sister, Mrs. Carl Hantz, Lindo Park, Calif. He also leaves five grandchildren.

Pallbearers are to be Jeff Sweeney, T. W. Blewett, Jim Marshall, W. L. Cason, Grover Dean, S. M. Smith, Bill Battle, Bob Wren, and Ben Hogue.

Humble Opens Grid Season

Humble Oil & Refining Co. kicked off its 23rd annual season of football emphasis in this area Wednesday evening at Odessa.

Approximately 275 Humble representatives, newspapermen, radio men and coaches from over the district viewed the territorial premiere of the 1955 Southwest Conference highlights. The dinner meeting was held in the Lincoln Hotel. Zolas Mobley and Tink Heibert reminded station operators that increased emphasis on service would bring increased business during the autumn, and that a poor job by one operator would hurt the reputation of all operators.

Attending from here were "Freeland Austin, Tommy Hart, Joe Pickle, Alfred Linn, Tom Conway, Jim Raul, Tom Jones, R. E. Jones, Elgin Jones, Gene Campbell, John Fort, Deweyne Robertson, R. K. Taylor, Everett Freeman, E. R. B. Nunnally, Charles Minchew, C. B. Nunnally.

Condition Of Choate Reported Unchanged

No improvement has been reported in the condition of George George Choate, district court clerk, who is critically ill in the John Sealy Hospital at Galveston.

Curtis Choate, a brother, communicated with the hospital Wednesday night. He was told there was no change in George Choate's condition.

Varel Stakes Clear Fork Test 3 Miles N'west Of Big Spring

D. W. Varel of Dallas has moved in on a location for a 5,000-foot wildcat three miles northwest of Big Spring. Operator was rigging up Thursday.

Brennan No. 1 Roper, wildcat test five miles southwest of Gail, was swabbing 97 per cent oil on test Thursday through perforations below 8,100. Two other ventures in central Borden were recovering load fluid.

Humble No. 1 Koger resumed drilling in southern Dawson after recovering no shows on a drillstem test just short of 12,000 feet.

Borden

R. S. Brennan Jr. No. 1 J. R. Roper, 1,900 from south and west lines of section 9-31-4n. T&P, five miles southwest of Gail, perforated from 8,116-8,151 feet and swabbed 90 per cent oil, one per cent water and four per cent basic sediment. There were no gauges on recovery.

Anderson-Pritchard No. 1 W. O. Keen, 660 from the south and 1,300 from the east lines of section 46-31-5n. T&P, swabbed 296.92 barrels of load fluid in 18 hour drilling through perforations from 6,580-6,600 and continued testing. It is 3½ miles west of Gail.

Anderson-Pritchard No. 1 Pierce, one mile west of Gail, flowed and swabbed 292.66 barrels of load fluid in 24 hours. It is located 770 from the south and 990 from the west lines of section 35-31-5n. T&P.

Standard No. 1-A Griffin, 660 from the north and west lines of section 35-25, H&C, a three-fourth southwest outpost to the Hobo Field in southeast Borden, was shut in to move off rotary. It flowed 24 barrels of load oil by heads in 24 hours through perforations of 5,138-44, from 5,177-85 and 6,169-6,223.

Cosden and Tri-Service No. 2 E. Y. Murphy, 660 from the north and east lines of section 66-25, H&C, drilled below 5,665.

Dawson

Texas Company No. 1 Beckham, 1,990 from the south and 660 from the west lines of section 17-35-5n, T&P, ¼ mile south of Lamesa, progressed to 4,000 in redbeds.

Seaboard No. 1-A J. R. Weaver, 660 from the north and east lines of labor 27, league 3, Taylor CSL, drilled to 7,646 feet and prepared to cut a 50-foot core.

Humble No. 1 Koger, 660 from the south and east lines of section 32-35-4n, T&P, four miles southwest of Sparenburg, was at 12,045 in dolomite. Operator took a drillstem test from 11,865-12,003 with the tool open one hour. There was a weak blow for 30 minutes before it died. Test was through a 1½-inch choke, flowing pressure was 690, the 30-minute shut-in pressure 630. Recovery was 1,000 feet of water blanket and 41 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil, gas or water.

Howard

C. W. Varel of Dallas No. 1-AA Guitler Trust estate will be 330 from the south and west lines of the northwest quarter of section 6-4, Bauer & Cokerrell, three miles northeast of Big Spring, two miles northeast of nearest Moore production and 2½ southeast of nearest Varel pool pay. It will go to 5,000 to test the Clear Fork. Operator was rigging up Thursday to begin operations.

All Three Stations Get Fire Alarms

Each of the Big Spring fire stations has answered an alarm in the past 24 hours.

Station No. 3 at Eleventh and Birdwell extinguished a trash fire in the alley behind Morrison Drive at 10:55 p.m. Wednesday. Station No. 2, Eighteenth and Main, was called to a cotton fire on a farm a mile south of Big Spring at 7:10 p.m. Wednesday, but the blaze was under control when firemen arrived.

Station No. 1, at City Hall, went to Jack's Drive-In, 910 E. 3rd, this morning when a light transformer burned out. No fire occurred.

Three Accidents, But No One Hurt

No injuries were reported in any of the three accidents investigated by city police since noon Wednesday.

Cars operated by Jerry Don Jones, 119 Goliad, and Cecil Howard Washburn, 1802 Scurry, collided at Fourth and State Wednesday afternoon. Machines were driven by Chavez Ismael, 600 NW 4th, and A. B. West, Big Spring, were in collision at Fifteenth and Green last night. Drivers whose vehicles were involved in a wreck this morning were Marvin Carpenter, Fort Worth, and Jack Shirley, 411 Rannels.

Discussions Held

LAMESA — The adult discussion group of the "Great Religions of the World" met Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Campbell. Fred Barbee was the leader with the topic of discussion being "Taoism." Following the discussion a film strip was shown. The next meeting will be Sept. 18 at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John Paul Puckett.

Homework is easier... when seeing is easier

Check study lighting when you check their school supplies

Youngsters need plenty of good light for home study to prevent eyestrain, fatigue and resultant inability to concentrate. Good light makes seeing easier and homework less tiring...

Good study lighting is easy and inexpensive to provide. In most cases, a good table lamp equipped with a 150-watt bulb will provide adequate light. The lamp should be well shaded to prevent glare and tall enough to spread light evenly over the entire work area.

Check home study lighting now... start the school year right with better light!

No One Hurt In Mine Blast

MYTON, Utah (AP)—Black smoke poured from the shaft of the small Pariet Gilsonite Mine today following an underground blast that touched off a fire in the isolated diggings late yesterday.

But, the mine's estimated 25 employees had ended operations for the day and left for home about an hour before the blast. There were no injuries, but mine Supt. Robert Ferron said the mine itself would be a total loss.

A gilsonite mine explosion at Bonanza, Utah, further east, killed eight men in November 1953.

Gilsonite is a solid petroleum substance similar to asphalt. It is used in paints, varnishes, linoleum compounds and other products.

Woman, 70, Held On Theft Charges

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A 70-year-old woman, Mrs. Maggie Reilly, was arrested in a large department store on petty larceny charges.

Police said it was Mrs. Reilly's 108th arrest on pickpocket and purse snatching charges since 1908.

She has been arrested in all the principal cities of the United States and Canada and has used 44 aliases, police added.

The septuagenarian has spent a third of her life in jail.

Cars Collapsed Like Accordion In Train Wreck

SPRINGER, N.M. (AP)—It was though some giant hand had picked up the silvery gleaming cars of the streamliner and crushed them together into a fantastic accordion.

In the litter and the debris of the Santa Fe wreck were everywhere tragic little reminders of routine upset so suddenly in the pitchblack darkness of 3 a.m. Wednesday.

There were two women's shoes. Heaps of bedding lay in a pile where it apparently had been removed for care of the wreck victims.

Trampled in the dust lay a metal sign familiar to all train passengers.

"Watch your step," it read. Sombre spectators drew in their breaths sharply when someone milling among the crowd found a portion of a body in the dust. Someone quickly covered it carefully, almost tenderly, and removed it safely to a distance.

Jammed into the end of one car, so tightly that immediate recovery was impossible, was another corpse. Seven cars of the 13-car Chief remained on the track. The scene was five miles south of this little northern New Mexico cattle town of 2,000. The crash occurred on a flat stretch of gently rolling grazing land.

Generally, the passengers reported there was little panic.

VA Officials Confer Here

Top regional Veterans Administration officials conferred with VA Hospital doctors and members of the registrar's staff here Wednesday.

Dr. Jackson H. Friedlander, hospital manager, and Robert W. Sisson of Lubbock, VA regional manager, headed the two groups in the conference.

The two-fold purpose of the discussions was to permit members of the two staffs to get better acquainted and to acquaint hospital personnel with regulations and procedures to be followed in matters involving both the hospital and the regional office, Dr. Friedlander said.

On hand with Sisson from Lubbock were Dr. A. W. Paulson, chief medical officer for the region; Dr. E. W. Jones, a member of the regional medical staff, and Hugh B. Musick, adjudication officer.

Oil Worker Dies In Derrick Blaze

VAN, Tex. (AP)—An oil field worker was killed yesterday when the derrick he was climbing became a flaming spire of burning oil.

Cozell White, 31, was halfway up the derrick when flames shot up and engulfed him. He fell directly into the well.

Lotus Reeves put on an asbestos suit and went into the well to recover his body.

White, an employe of the Van Pure Oil Co., was with a crew pulling tubing on the well. His widow, Mrs. Bobby White, and four children survive.

Used Car Sales Hold Steady, 'Two Autos In Every Garage'

By SAM BLACKBURN

For the most part, used car dealers in Big Spring say they are selling more older model cars this summer than in several seasons.

There is a steady and constant demand for good 1950-51-52 and 53 models. Most of the dealers report used cars of this vintage are in greater demand with buyers than are later models.

Their explanation for this is that more and more Big Spring area families are falling into the two-car habit.

Families with one automobile have developed a desire for a second car. The best solution to this urge is to buy an older model. It takes less money to acquire such a second car and its new owner feels freer to make use of it as transportation for the rougher and heavier demands that arise. Such cars serve as conveyances for picnics, fishing and hunting trips and for duty as delivery vehicles.

However, the dealers point out the folk with the two-car idea are not just rushing to a used car yard and grabbing the first older car shown them. They shop for their second car with as much care and thought as they display when they buy a new model off the show room floor. Older cars sell well but such cars must look good, run good and be in solid mechanical condition.

Other buyers who acquire slightly later models than the run-of-the-mill "second car" are usually motorists who now own a car prior to a 1950 or 1951 model. These buyers feel they cannot afford a 1956 car but they want to move two, three or four years up the ladder from their present automobile.

The used car dealers across the board say that business this summer has been steady and good. They have been able, they report, to keep their stocks well down and none of those contacted have wholesaled any block of used cars for several months.

As a matter of fact, across the board, stocks on Big Spring used car lots of the principal dealers are low. One used car manager said that at the present time he has only two passenger cars and one truck on hand — the lowest his inventory has been in many months.

Most of the others said that they had a good selection of cars but that there is no surplus of such vehicles on hand. All insisted that close consideration of the second-hand automobiles acquired by the dealers has resulted in smaller but, on the whole, better quality merchandise.

Prices have remained remarkably stable, the dealers say, for the past several months. Most dealers go by the standard prices posted in the national publication of their business. The September edition of this book is now at hand, and dealers said there is no marked change in price range for the various makes and models over that posted in July and August. Last June there was a slight in-

Mars Swings Closest To Earth In 34 Years

By SAM BLACKBURN

Big Spring star gazers, their ranks perhaps augmented by many science fiction addicts, will probably be seen in considerable numbers on Friday night staring in absorption at the southeastern skies.

Their gazes will be concentrated on a reddish "star" which will make its appearance high enough above the horizon for good viewing somewhere around 9 p.m.

These star gazers and their friends will be pondering a question which has stirred the imagination of millions since 1877.

They will be looking at Mars, one of the sun's planetary family, and they will be speculating on the problem:

"Is there life on Mars?"

On that night, Mars, one of the earth's nearest kinsmen, will be the closest it has been to this orb in 34 long years. In its orbit around the sun and, due to the earth's own course around that body, both planets have reached a point where they are nearer to each other than they have been since 1922.

Mars has been looming larger and more impressive night by night as it has steadily proceeded in its journey. For the past several weeks, it has been the dominant feature of the southeasterly evening skies — a sizable red burr of light, looming lonely and awesome in the dark blue of the night. Of course, for the early risers, even now with the Red Planet the nearest it will come to this planet, it has not achieved the size or brilliance of Venus.

This gorgeous celestial sister of the earth with its bright white coloring and its size, always dominates the skies.

But Mars is now and has been for nearly 80 years the center of imaginative interest on the part of lay citizens as well as scientists. The interest hinges on the unsolved mystery of whether that red planet could have life on its surface.

Friday night, Mars will be within 35,160,000 miles of the earth. This seems a tremendous distance but from an astronomical viewpoint, the space is but a fleeting interval.

With the exception of the moon, our own satellite, which is only 240,000 miles from the earth, and Venus, which comes within 25,000 miles of this planet, Mars is our nearest celestial neighbor. And it will not be as close again to us as it will be on Friday night until 1971.

All of this interest in the issue of whether there is life on Mars stems largely from a statement

Mars Visit Due

Shown above is a photograph of Mars which on Friday night will come within 35,160,000 miles of Earth — the closest it will be in 34 years. The photo, made with the 100-inch reflector telescope at McDonald Observatory, shows plainly the ice caps at the poles and dark markings which mottle its reddish surface.

made in 1877 by Giovanni Schiaparelli, famous Italian astronomer, that he had discovered "canals" which he believed carried water across Mars' face just as irrigation ditches serve on the earth. Although Schiaparelli never claimed that the canals he saw were made by intelligent beings, many people assumed that they were. And one such thinker was that great American astronomer, Percival Lowell.

Schiaparelli, being an Italian, used the word "canali," meaning "channels." But someone erred in the translation and made it "canals." Popular imagination seized on that word and has since refused to let it go. Lowell, of course, bears the major responsibility.

Lowell believed that Mars was once possessed of a great civilization and his theory was that, over the years, the water supply on the planet began to fall. Finally, realizing that the only source of water left was to be found in the melting polar caps, the Martians began the task of digging a planet-wide irrigation system. Under his theory, however, even though the canals were completed, the planet was still doomed. There was still not enough water and the available oxygen was depleted.

These are but theories and no one knows.

With powerful telescopes the weird network of lines which Schiaparelli called canals can be seen. And at the present time in many of the greatest observatories in the world, these powerful instruments are trained nightly on the red orb as it spins nearer and nearer to the earth.

The ordinary citizen, unprovided with a telescope and not trained to observe as are the professional astronomers, merely looks into the night skies and is awed by the beauty of this celestial neighbor of the earth's.

It may be that on this "visit" new secrets of the red planet can be unraveled by the observatories. But it also may well be that Mars will make its brief "contact" with earth and then swerve away on its long journey into space leaving no new clues to the question: "Is there life on Mars?"

Washington — President Eisenhower isn't likely to use any makeup during the campaign this year, the White House said today.

Press secretary James C. Hagerly added, the President has not used any for TV appearances for a long time — "for more than a year or maybe two."

The question came up in connection with a report that Eisenhower was made up when he went on TV to accept nomination for a second term at the Republican National Convention.

"He absolutely was not," said Hagerly.

Eisenhower has no particular aversion to makeup, which is used quite often by persons appearing on TV, but his technical advisers have decided he doesn't need it.

Hagerly said "there are no plans at all" for using any makeup on the President during the campaign.

Los Angeles — Actress-model Susan Harrison, 19, wants $100,000 damages for the time she fell 10 feet out of focus.

She said she was posing for Glamour Photos Aug. 20 on a roof patio at the apartment of producer-writer Rick Strauss when she fell through a trapdoor and broke her back.

The trapdoor had been covered with a straw mat, she said. Named defendants in the suit she filed in Superior Court yesterday were Strauss, photographer Peter Baech and Mrs. Charlotte Auerbach, owner of the building.

Nude Model About Ready To Put Clothes Back On

LONDON — Yvonne Howard, who has been posing in the nude for seven years—confesses—between chattering teeth that Britain's cold, wet summer has almost driven her back into clothes.

"Last winter was awful," she said. "I got goose pimples in that terrible winter, and now in this terrible summer I'm getting duck pimples on top of the goose pimples."

Miss Howard, a slim brunette in her 20s, recently won a long service medal for posing in the nude, but because of the limitations of her profession has no place to hang it.

"I could stick it on with tape," she said, "but that might look too dressy."

Oklahoma Slump Cuts Oil Average

TULSA — A sizable slump in Oklahoma led to a decrease of 15,150 barrels in the daily average production of crude oil and condensate during the week ended Sept. 1, the Oil and Gas Journal's survey showed today.

The overall daily average dropped to 7,116,125 barrels. The Journal's estimate of 1956 output rose to 1,751,413,025 barrels compared to 1,645,518,416 barrels a year ago. Oklahoma's decline was 11,700 barrels to 579,500. Production was unchanged in Texas, 3,023,300.

Group To Attend Religious Meeting At San Angelo

A group of about 40 persons from Big Spring plans to attend a three-day religious assembly in San Angelo, Sept. 14-16, according to Lester Rains of the Big Spring congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses.

This is the second of the semi-annual assemblies held by Jehovah's Witnesses for this area in 1956 and is sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Brooklyn, N. Y. The convention will be held in the Municipal Auditorium in San Angelo, and will be for Bible instruction and concentrated gospel-preaching in that area.

Thirty-two delegates from Big Spring attended a larger meeting of Jehovah's Witnesses in Lubbock, July 25-29, where there was a peak attendance of more than 2,500. Delegates from the territory covered from Pecos to Abilene and from Lubbock to San Angelo will be at this assembly.

Adams Favorite Cake Is Delicious Chocolate

This Is Easy

With the aid of this stroller, nine-month-old Pamela Anne, pictured with her mother, Mrs. Ray Adams, keeps up with anyone in the household. "She has been in the stroller since she was five months old," Mrs. Adams said, "and she is certainly independent." Mrs. Adams' contribution for today's food page is two family recipes which her mother handed down to her when she started keeping house. In about 20 years, Pam will probably be using the same delicious recipes.

Have you ever thought about where all those recipes you have come from? It is probable that some of them came thousands of miles from Big Spring.

When you realize that they are handed down from generation to generation and swapped across the back fence with neighbors, it is interesting to wonder where they all came from originally.

One of Mrs. Adams' favorite recipes was handed down to her by her mother when she started her own housekeeping.

"This chocolate cake was always a favorite around our home, and naturally I have introduced it to my husband. It's one of his favorites too," Mrs. Adams said.

Ingredients for the chocolate cake are:

2 cups sugar
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
2 cups flour
5 tablespoons cocoa
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 cup boiling water

Method: Measure and sift flour; then sift with cocoa, salt, and soda. Cream sugar and shortening; add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Add flour mixture alternating with buttermilk. Mix and add boiling water.

Bake in large loaf pan at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Use the following icing:

1/2 cup sugar
2-3 cup cocoa
1 cup butter
1/3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook one minute. Cool and beat until consistency for spreading. Add vanilla and nuts, if desired. For this icing Mrs. Adams stresses the use of butter.

If you really want to have a dessert that is different, Mrs. Adams suggests this recipe for Pineapple Cheese Cake.

1 cup fine gingersnap crumbs
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 no. 2 can (2 1/2 cups) crushed pineapple
2 tablespoons (2 envelopes) plus 1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
4 slightly beaten egg yolks
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel

1/4 teaspoon salt
2 12-ounce cartons (2 cups) small-curd cream style cottage cheese
1 tablespoon vanilla
2 cups heavy cream, whipped
4 stiff-beaten egg whites

Mix crumbs and butter. Press into bottom of buttered 9-inch pan. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup pineapple syrup. In double boiler, combine egg yolks, sugar, lemon peel, salt, and 2 tablespoons pineapple syrup. Stirring constantly, cook over simmering water five to eight minutes, or till mixture is like smooth custard.

Remove from heat; dissolve softened gelatin in hot mixture. Add crushed pineapple, cottage cheese and vanilla. Fold in whipped cream then egg whites. Pour into pan. Chill about five hours, or until firm. In removing cake from pan, first loosen sides with spatula. Garnish with pineapple slices and maraschino cherries.

Besides taking care of nine-month-old Pamela Anne, Mrs. Adams enjoys playing the piano. "I like to play all kinds of music, but I have been playing classical music for many years," Mrs. Adams commented. Her husband enjoys playing golf and he is a salesman for McEwen Motor Company.

Ingredients for the Easy To Prepare Casserole Menu:

Two large red apples, 1 can (1 pound and 13 ounces) sauerkraut, 1 tablespoon honey, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 pound frankfurters, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Method: Quarter apples; core and slice; do not peel. Mix sauerkraut, honey and mustard. Turn half of sauerkraut into a 2-quart casserole. Top with half of the apples. Cut frankfurters in halves crosswise. Place half of frankfurters spoke-fashion around edge of casserole. Repeat layers. Dot with butter; cover. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 40 minutes.

New Idea In Chicken Pie

"Bake it" has long been the slogan of many a busy housewife. Almost, but not quite, as good as a cook, the oven keeps tabs on the baking food and allows the housewife-cook time to be party-goer, baby-sitter, or scrub woman.

1-3 cup chicken fat
1-3 cup flour
2 1/2 cups chicken stock
1/2 cup diced celery
1/2 cup cooked peas
1/2 cup cooked sliced carrots
2 1/2 cups diced cooked chicken.
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/4 teaspoon celery salt

Baking powder pepper biscuits. Melt butter, margarine or chicken fat in a saucepan. Blend in flour. Stir in chicken stock and cook until medium thickness, stirring constantly. Add vegetables, chicken and seasonings. Turn into a 2-quart casserole. Top with baking powder pepper biscuit. Bake 45 minutes or until done in a preheated very hot oven (425 degrees F.). Serve at once. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Ingredients for the PEPPER BISCUITS:

Sift together 1 1/2 cups sifted all purpose flour, 2 1/2 teaspoons double acting baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper into a mixing bowl. Cut in 3 tablespoons shortening to cornmeal consistency. Gradually stir in enough milk to make a soft dough, about 1/2 cup. Knead about 20 seconds on a lightly floured board. Roll 1/4-inch thick. Shape with 1 1/2-inch biscuit cutter. Arrange over pepper pot chicken pie. Yield 16 to 18 biscuits.

Ingredients for the Tuna-Cheese High Protein Combine:

One 6 1/2-ounce can chunk-style tuna (drained), 1 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese (about 1/4 pounds), 1 tablespoons finely grated onion (pulp and juice), 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 8 slices bread, butter (melted).

Method: Mix tuna, cheese, onion and mustard. Spread on bread to make sandwiches. Brush outside of bread with melted butter. Toast slowly on both sides under broiler until golden brown. Makes 4 servings.

Simple Vegetable Dish For Appetizer Or Salad

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
A simple dish sometimes gets a more enthusiastic reception than one that has been slaved over in the kitchen! We were reminded of this recently when we served marinated green beans and onion rings. This combination is a year-round favorite in our household, but we find it particularly useful in summer because it prepares itself in the refrigerator and is delicious with cold meat, poultry, fish or hard-cooked eggs.

The green bean and onion ring dish may be served as a salad or an appetizer. The men in our family are vociferous in liking it as a first course. This never surprises us because when we visited West Point we found that cadets always enjoyed big bowls of salad, greens, radishes, cucumber, and celery if they were served first; they left the raw vegetables strictly alone if they came during or after the main course.

Here's our latest and simplest recipe for marinating the beans and onion rings. Use this dish as it is or in the following salad.

Ingredients for the MARINATED GREEN BEANS AND ONION RINGS:

Two tablespoons olive oil, 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 (15 1/2 ounce) longcut green beans (Blue Lake variety), 1 medium-sized onion, pepper.

Method: Beat the olive oil, wine vinegar and sugar together with a fork in a flat container until the sugar dissolves. Drain green beans. Peel onion and cut into paper-thin rounds; separate into rings. Add drained beans and onion rings to dressing; toss well. Add pepper to taste; the beans are seasoned with salt so more may not be necessary. Cover tightly and refrigerate for 1 or 2 hours. Makes 4 servings.

Note: Choose a package of beans that are cut into about 1 1/2-inch lengths for this recipe.

GREEN BEAN SUMMER SALAD

Arrange mixed salad greens in the bottom of a large bowl. Alternate slices of tomato and cucumber in a row on two sides of the bowl. Place a row of sliced hard-cooked eggs alongside the tomato-cucumber rows. Pile marinated green beans and onion rings (along with any marinating liquid) in the center. Garnish with rad-

Vegetable Salad Good With Fish

A cooked vegetable salad that is delicious with fish.

SALADE RUSSE
Ingredients: Two packages (10 ounces each) frozen peas and carrots, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, romaine, minced fresh dill (if desired).

Method: Cook peas and carrots according to package directions with the amount of water and salt specified; drain; cooking liquid may be saved for use in soup, sauce or gravy. Cool vegetables. Mix with mayonnaise. Spoon into romaine leaves; if used, sprinkle with minced dill. Makes 8 servings. Any of the pea-and-carrot mixture not used should be refrigerated in a covered container; it will be delicious the next day.

OTHER WAYS WITH GREEN BEANS & CREAMED: Add a medium white sauce to drained green beans and reheat; turn into a shallow baking dish — a heat-resistant glass pie plate is fine — and sprinkle with grated cheese. Brown lightly under broiler.

SOUP — Green beans are delicious added to clear chicken soup along with diced carrots, white turnips and green peas.

ASPIC — Fold short-cut green beans into a tomato aspic after the gelatin mixture has cooled and begun to thicken. This salad is good on a menu with lobster chunks pan-fried in butter, baked potatoes, rolls.

SANDWICH — Mix finely cut green beans with finely diced cooked chicken and mayonnaise; season well. Use as a filling for scooped-out soft rolls or between slices of whole-wheat bread.

Tips On Okra
Short chunky pods of okra are usually better eating than the long slender pods.

Mint Leaves
Chop mint leaves from your garden and mix them with currant jelly and grated orange rind for a delicious sauce for ham.

Delicious Coffee Nog

A delicious drink that's vitamin packed.

Ingredients: One egg, 2 cups cold milk, 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk solids, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon instant coffee powder.

Method: Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white. Add cold milk, dry milk, sugar and instant coffee. Beat until smooth. Use electric blender, mixer (hand or electric) or whisk for beating. Chill. Serve in small glasses. Makes four servings.

Brandy flavoring to taste may be added.

New Ideas For That Quick Favorite Dish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
That favorite quickie, broiled lamb chops, will take on extra savor if you season them as we suggest in the following recipe.

Nowadays you don't always have to buy the chops when you are doing your fresh-food marketing; they can be on hand in your freezer. But one caution: If you've thawed frozen lamb chops and then changed your mind about cooking them, refrigerate the meat and use it the next day. Actually it's not necessary to thaw chops before broiling, but naturally the frozen chops take several minutes more to cook per side—and they have to be cooked more slowly—than thawed chops.

The advantage of thawing, in our opinion, is that the chops can be cooked quickly. From this you'll conclude that we are not a staunch advocate of broiling meat slowly. Many modern schools of cookery disagree with us, but we have fine restaurant chefs on our side.

SAVORY BROILED LAMB CHOPS

Ingredients: Eight loin lamb chops (regular or frozen), 2 tablespoons lemon juice (1 small lemon), 2 large cloves garlic (crushed), 1/4 teaspoon paprika, salt, pepper.

Method: If chops are frozen, thaw. Arrange chops (3/4 to 1-inch thick) on broiling pan rack. Mix lemon juice, crushed garlic and paprika.

Spread one side of chops with half of the lemon-juice mixture; broil until browned. Turn chops, spread with remaining lemon-juice mixture and finish broiling. Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Note: Broiling time varies, depending on how close the meat is placed to the broiling unit and the degree of heat under which it is broiled. As a guide, inch-thick loin chops placed about 3 inches from high heat, will need about 6 minutes per side to be medium-well done.

BROILER TIP

It's not necessary to use a range's regular large broiling pan and rack if only four chops are being cooked. Inexpensive small shallow broiling pans, with racks, are widely available and easier to wash than regular pans. If you use either pan (small or large) with aluminum foil, turning up the foil to cover edges and corners, you'll save yourself work.

PAN-BROILING

Pan-broiling chops is a more popular method of cooking in France than it is in the United States. But some Americans are adopting this technique. Use an iron skillet for pan-broiling the chops; heat it slowly until it's very hot; rub a piece of fat over the bottom of the skillet. Arrange the chops in the skillet and cook over moderate heat until well browned on under side; turn and brown other side. Pour off the fat that accumulates a few times; the chops are supposed to pan-broil, not fry. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve at once.

Breakfast Is Balance Meal

Breakfast is, in a very real way, a balance-meal for which there is no substitute. Lunch and supper differ only in time. Dinner is essentially an expanded version of lunch or supper. Breakfast is quite different from other meals and for this reason more important of itself than other meals.

Consider food requirements. Certain of our favorite foods for breakfast are rich in nutrients often short in American diets. Whole grain or restored cereals are important sources of minerals and the B vitamins. Milk, the chief source of calcium, contributes to the cereal-milk serving top quality protein as well. Foods high in vitamin C, notably citrus fruits, are needed daily. Not surprisingly, it has been found that breakfast-skippers seldom have truly balanced diets.

Consider time. From evening till noon is a long time — too long, breakfast balances the meal schedule.

Consider the budget. The basic cereal breakfast of fruit or juice, crisp cereal with milk, bread, butter and a beverage is remarkably low in cost for food value received. Breakfast is a budget-balancing bargain.

Make breakfast an every-morning meal. Breakfast-skippers miss too much!

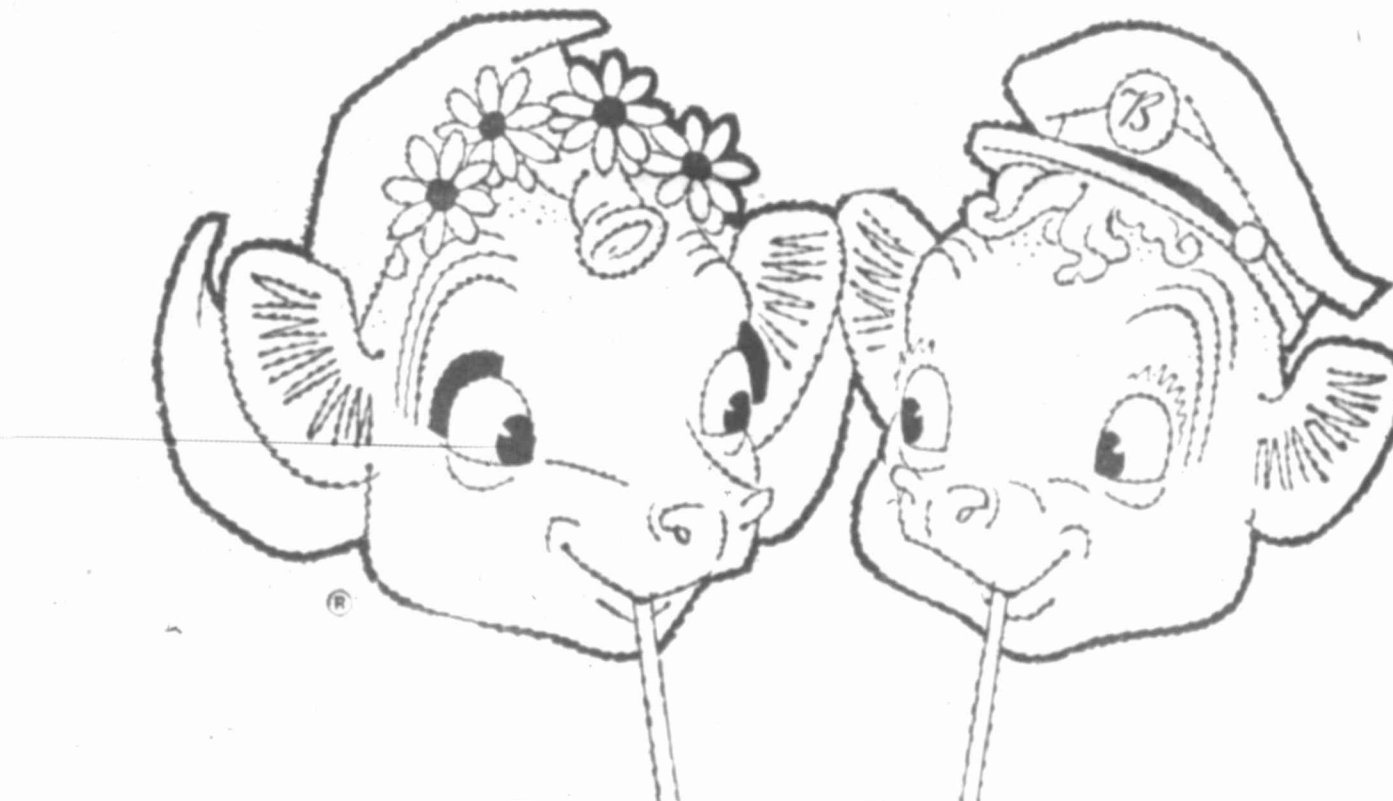

Luscious Topping For Coffee Cake

Here's a luscious topping for a quick bread.

Ingredients: One 1/2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup strawberry preserves, Crumb Topping.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla. Beat in egg thoroughly. Lightly beat in flour, alternately with milk, in 4 additions; beat only until smooth after last addition. Turn into greased baking pan (9 by 9 by 1 1/4 inches). Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Do not remove cake from pan; spread top with strawberry preserves; sprinkle with Crumb Topping. Broil slowly until topping is golden brown — about 10 minutes. Cut in squares in pan and remove with wide spatula. Serve warm.

Crumb Topping: Mix 1-3 cup flour well with 2 tablespoons sugar; cut in 3 tablespoons butter or margarine until combined.

Only One Week Gone, Already Ears Wiggle, Nose Twitches

You're wrong, Boss. I know my ears wiggle and my nose twitches. But, honest, it isn't what you think. I am not qualifying for admission to the booby hatch. It's simply because I've eaten too many carrots and too much lettuce. Eat like a rabbit — act like a rabbit, I always say. And that wild look in my eye you mention. That's not madness — it's merely hunger and is inspired when my gaze falls on anything that looks edible.

If I ever get my finger down from its former 185-pound mark to a trim 165 pounds, this eccentricity you mention will no longer be with me. Or, at least, that is what I hope.

You see, I am on a diet. Now personally, I had never regarded myself as fat or even as portly. Being, as it so happens, six feet tall and weighing around 185 pounds, I considered my weight to be about what appeared normal.

NO FAT, BUT . . .
My doctor, however, has other ideas.

"You've got to get rid of some of this fat," he said, tersely, as he gathered up a loose chunk of my midsection in his hand and gave it a vigorous tug.

"But I ain't fat, Doctor," I protested.

"I want you to reduce to 165 pounds," he went on sternly, not even hearing my protest. "I'm going to put you on a diet. Come back in three or four weeks."

That was a little over a week ago.

The first four days the scales recorded a steady daily loss which finally aggregated eight pounds. The fifth and sixth day, they moved up a couple of notches and hung pretty close to 180.

He put me on what he called a 1,000-calorie diet.

I looked up the word "calories" in Mr. Webster's big book. Best I can figure, it is a substance of the amount of heat required to bring a gram of water to a boil. It is also the measure of energy, says Mr. W., contained in food.

I had never bothered my little pointy head about calories before. Now everything is changed. Food has lost its individuality. Bread is no longer bread. It is a substance per slice. One slice of bread means simply that I have only 900 calories left for my day's quota.

Butter, salad dressings, fat meat, cakes, pies, sugar — they're just words. Other folk may call them those things not I. I subsist on calories.

HERE'S MENU
I am sharply restricted. I may eat an egg for breakfast. That egg must not be fried in sizzling hot grease. It can either be soft-boiled or poached. I can have a half slice of dry toast. For variety I may select three-quarters of a cup of corn flakes and souse them in a half cup of skimmed milk.

For lunch, if I have been a very good boy, I can dine luxuriously on two lean lamb chops (small). These must be broiled. One half slice of bread, provided I forego an Irish potato. If I have the potato, boiled or baked (no butter) I get no bread.

I can have lettuce, tomatoes, carrots, radishes, and other green stuff — not too much and definitely with no salad dressing.

I may eat 12 grapes for dessert or, if I don't want to pig it that much, half of a small pear or a wee bit of watermelon or cantaloupe.

Supper may consist of a half cup of clear bouillon, one ounce of lean boiled ham, a limited number of green beans (cooked without any seasoning other than salt). I also may have more lettuce, or more tomatoes or more radishes. Iced tea is unrestricted if I avoid sugar. The same applies to coffee.

I am free to gorge myself on spinach and other greens but I'd rather lighten my belt two more notches than do so.

SUBSTITUTES
There are other food varieties on the list, can skip the lamb chops, for example, and have an ounce of salmon. Occasionally I am entitled to a hard-boiled egg.

Personally, I've always been a great meat-and-potatoes-and-bread man. I like the bread well lubricated with butter. I am a great hand for cheeses of all sorts and now they tell me that a chunk of cheese no bigger than that is good for I don't know how many calories.

Seems like everywhere I go these days, folks are eating. They sit there and gobble up huge steaks, well surrounded with brown and luscious fat. They dig deep into the butter and completely cover hot biscuits and rolls. They dip out quantities of mayonnaise and stack it on lettuce. They shovel in quantities of French fried potatoes. Then they order huge portions of cake or pie. They pour cream into their coffee and ladle in spoonfuls of sugar.

I see them at breakfast. They order huge platters of fried eggs and enormous slices of luscious fried ham. Their toast is so saturated with butter that the golden stuff drips off the bread.

I shudder as I watch these gourmets. I want to get up and go over to them, and putting my bony finger on each of the dishes before them, state:

"Do you know that this" — pointing to the steak — "represents gosh knows how many calories? And that" — pointing to the dessert — "represents too many more calories? And that calories will make you fat?"

LOOK AND DROOL
Of course, I do nothing of the sort. I just sit and watch them, drooling into my saccharine sweetened coffee, chewing sadly on my tiny piece of dry toast and looking with jaundiced eye at my poached egg.

I have just about quit going to the movies or watching television. I never realized before how many scenes in the films and in the TV shows depict folk stuffing themselves with food. I am reading only such magazines as Popular Mechanics. There are no food ads in full color in that publication.

In the evening I go home roundabout — it is said to smell the flavor-some aromas emerging from so many kitchens as the evening meal is prepared.

"Come back in three or four weeks," the doctor said.

What then? Suppose that this drying out process has been effective and I have whittled my

Rainfall Here Usually Below 18.3 'Average'

Weather cycles don't mean a thing in making predictions of periods of "wet and dry" years.

And Big Spring area farmers and ranchers can expect more years of below average rainfall than years above.

A study of rainfall records made at 31 locations on the high and rolling plains by Dr. R. J. Hildreth and Dr. Gerald W. Thomas of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station show that cycles have little or no part in annual rainfall.

"Average or normal rainfall seldom occurs," Dr. Hildreth said. "The records indicate that farmers and ranchers in the high and rolling plains should figure more years—52 to 69 per cent—will be below average in rainfall than years above average."

Records dating back to 1916 at Big Spring Field Station show more than half the years—59 per cent—have had rainfall below the annual average of 18.3 inches. Half the years had rainfall above 16.2 inches and half below.

"Using past records to predict the future, up to 10 inches of rainfall may be expected 5 per cent of the time; 10 to 20 inches, 54 per cent of the time; 20 to 30 inches, 33 per cent of the time; and 30 to 40 inches, 8 per cent of the time," Dr. Hildreth added.

The seasonal distribution follows the usual pattern with peak rainfall in May and September. The highest average rainfall (2.8 inches) occurs in May, and the lowest (0.6 inch) in January.

The study and publication of results — "Farming and Ranching Risk as Influenced by Rainfall" — is the first of a planned series to include the Edwards Plateau, Trans Pecos and Rio Grande Plains areas of Texas where drought also has severely affected farm and ranch income.

self down to the specified 165 lanky pounds? What after that?

"Do I eat again or do I just go on and on and on looking lettuce and green beans and dry toast in the eye?"

Your famished reporter,
