'One Mob, One Ranger' Tradition Still Holds

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Sept. 8 (AP) — On the Mansfield High School ground Tuesday, a surging, shouting pro-segregation mob taunted a young Episcopal priest who had shamed them for what he called lack of "Christian action."

The Rev. C. W. Clark of Fort Worth, was white and shaking. His black habit was gray with the dust raised by the trampling feet.

The swarm of angry faces grew fiercer around the slight clergyman. Shouts became louder. Fists were shaken.

It was a moment when disaster could strike or pass away.

Then through the milling crowd a husky, red-faced man shouldered his way. He wore a big white hat on his head and a revolver on his hip.

"I think we'd better go," Texas Ranger Sgt. Jay Banks said quietly to the vicar.

A path opened through the throng as the two walked slowly off the school ground.

The "one mob, one Ranger" tradition still held.

At that crucial moment Banks represented all the respect—and almost reverence—that Texans hold for one of the most distinctive law enforcement organizations in the world.

Five other Rangers and a large body of other armed officers could have helped rescue the clergyman. Highway patrol units and a special armored car equipped with machine guns were only a few miles away.

But that would not have been the Texas Ranger way.

The big white hat, the six-shooter and the bravery of one man daring an angry mob of many are the heritage of a Texas Ranger—whether in fact or fiction.

If the Rangers have a motto it's a quotation credited to a respected old timer of the famed, fast drawing corps:

"No man in the wrong can stand up against a feller in the right that keeps on a coming."

A thin line of 51 Rangers carry on that tradition today in half a dozen companies scattered over the state. They can go anywhere in the state. They take orders from no one but the governor and their commander, Homer Garrison, director of the Department of Public Safety.

Generally, Rangers are not sent into an area until local officers ask for help, or the governor decides the Rangers could work the case better than local officers.

The Rangers had their beginning more than a century ago when Texas was a republic. It was more of a military organization then and did not become a peace officers' group until 1874 when reorganized after the Civil War.

The six-shooters and saddle carbines of the Rangers battled Indians, Mexican border raiders, cattle and horse thieves, train robbers and feudists while civilization slowly spread westward.

Texas Rangers still pack pearl handled revolvers, wear high heel boots and big hats and ride horses—but the horses usually are transported in trailers behind powerful patrol cars. Additions to the force are made by exams similar to the civil service and promotions are on merit.

Soft-Spoken Ranger

Sgt. Jay Banks was the tall Texas Ranger who pushed his way through a mob of white men threatening to harm an Episcopal priest who had shamed them for what he called their "un-Christian actions" in keeping Negro students from enrolling at the all-white Mansfield High School. The "one mob, one Ranger" tradition still held. Sgt. Banks shouldered his way to where the priest was talking and led him to safety. Banks, a quiet-spoken man with a dry sense of humor, attracted the attention of the students who flocked around him in Mansfield to see his gun and touch his silver star — an emblem of the history and romance of Texas. The group around him here are on the school grounds in Mansfield.

The Rangers still stand for the ultimate in law enforcement in Texas.

When a Ranger is assigned to a case, if he dies someone else takes over.

Riots, mobs and other scenes of great violence actually are only a part of the Texas Ranger story, but a vital part.

Ranger Banks' immediate commander last week at Mansfield was Capt. Bob Crowder, head of the Dallas company. About a year ago Crowder walked unarmed into the midst of a violent riot at a state mental hospital. Most rioters were criminally insane and they held the hospital superintendent as a hostage. After about an hour of talking Crowder convinced the riot leader, a giant crazed Negro, to release the officials and end the disturbance.

A few months ago Ranger Lewis Rigler of Gainesville threw down his gun and went unarmed to talk with an insane farmer threatening everyone with a rifle. He got the farmer to give up the gun after agreeing to buy 10,000 pounds of clover seed.

It was the same in the past. Capt. Frank Hamer in 1930 stood on the steps of the courthouse in Sherman and defied a mob trying to lynch a Negro prisoner charged with assaulting a white woman.

"Come on up if you feel lucky but if you try it there'll be a lot of funerals in Sherman tonight." The mob decided not to try it. Capt. W. J. McDonald, a deadly

Militiamen Set For Showdown In School Tiff

By The Associated Press

Militiamen began massing for a showdown at one Southern school integration trouble spot Saturday while steps were taken to set up an emergency civilian enforcement unit at another.

Three more units of National Guardsmen moved into Sturgis and nearby Camp Breckenridge in the troubled east Kentucky hill country. Don Stullig, acting commissioner of public safety, said hundreds of extra soldiers will be on hand Monday for a showdown at the Negro Texas Southern University, 11 miles apart.

At Clinton, Tenn., where guardsmen's bayonets were first used to allow school integration, Sheriff Glad Woodward declared a state of emergency and prepared for departure of the militia. He began recruiting a civilian force of nearly 200 officers, mainly deputies and auxiliary policemen, to take over when the soldiers leave, probably early next week.

A Royal Air Force officer said when Hutchinson picked up must have been a weather balloon—but police preferred the farmer's version.

"Thomas Hutchinson is a level-headed, God-fearing chap," said the desk sergeant at Moneymore headquarters. "He's not the sort of man who would imagine he seized a flying saucer if, in fact, he didn't have one."

Hutchinson said he and his wife Maud saw a flying saucer drop from the clouds into a bog 200 yards from his front door shortly after lunch yesterday.

It was egg-shaped, about 3 feet high and 18 inches in diameter.

Conditions were just as disturbed at Clay, a community of 1,200 with 97 Negro families in the outskirts. When one Negro family said it would enroll two young children in the all-white school, white mobs Friday blocked the street, back a carload of Negroes and drove newsmen out of town for a time.

There were no guardsmen at Clay during the weekend but Sturgis said there will be Monday.

At nearby Sturgis, two FBI agents began investigating possible violations of civil liberties, State Adj. Gen. J.J.B. Williams said.

Elsewhere on the integration-segregation battleground, activity simmered generally to a milder stage.

School officials in Matoaka, W. Va., threatened to enforce the state's compulsory attendance law if parents of white children continue their boycott of integrated classes. Friday only 100 pupils were present at Matoaka High School out of an enrollment of more than 600. In one elementary school, only 113 of the 357 enrollment were present and attendance at a combined elementary and junior high school was 67 pupils out of 243 enrolled.

The Southern School News, published monthly in Nashville, Tenn., by a group of Southern editors and educators, said Saturday that approximately 300,000 Negro students will attend integrated schools in nine Southern and Border states in the District of Columbia this year. It added that while 723 districts will be integrated, approximately 2,400,000 Negroes will remain in segregated schools.

Another Arkansas system, Pine Bluff, the major city of the state's southeastern section, announced plans for beginning integration in 1958. The city, with a population of approximately 37,000, about half of which is Negro, will begin with the first grade and continue each year until all 12 grades are integrated.

Another incident occurred in Texarkana, this time on the Arkansas side of the border city. A Kansas side was burned early Saturday at the funeral home of John Jay Jones, an active member of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Friday, a crowd prevented three Negroes from taking entrance examinations at the Texarkana Junior College. Wednesday two Negro girls passed aptitude tests and became eligible to enter the college.

In Kentucky, the county in which Abraham Lincoln was born has integrated two of its three schools. Supt. Ova A. Haney said the Larue County Board of Education decided to keep Hodgenville's Negro elementary school open after Negro patrons requested it.

Irish Cops Believe Farmer's Tale Of Flying Saucer Bout

MONEYMORE, Northern Ireland, Sept. 8 (AP) — "Level-headed, God-fearing" Irish farmer says he was running to the police station with a captured flying saucer in his arms yesterday, but it escaped.

"I had difficulty in holding it down," Thomas Hutchinson explained today.

A Royal Air Force officer said when Hutchinson picked up must have been a weather balloon—but police preferred the farmer's version.

"Thomas Hutchinson is a level-headed, God-fearing chap," said the desk sergeant at Moneymore headquarters. "He's not the sort of man who would imagine he seized a flying saucer if, in fact, he didn't have one."

Hutchinson said he and his wife Maud saw a flying saucer drop from the clouds into a bog 200 yards from his front door shortly after lunch yesterday.

It was egg-shaped, about 3 feet high and 18 inches in diameter.

ster rose and it nearly pulled my husband off his feet when he tried to hold it.

Asked by police what she did then, she replied: "I started to panic and then I ran home and prayed."

A high ranking RAF officer at nearby Aldergrove said he was "nearly certain" that the strange object was an escaped weather balloon that had broken away from some station.

"These balloons are almost identical with the shape of the object that Hutchinson saw," he added. "It could have dropped to the earth when it encountered some change in the air currents. And it could have gone up again."

Mrs. Hutchinson on a vigorously shook her head in disagreement.

The Hutchinson farm is located in a bleak, boggy land near Loch Neagh, where leprechauns, ghosts and witches have been sighted through the ages.

But never a flying saucer before.

Badly Split Demos Gather For Convention

FORT WORTH, Sept. 8 (AP) — Senator Price Daniel tonight denounced Ralph Yarborough's accusations that he has teamed with Gov. Shivers to campaign in Texas this year for the Republican presidential ticket.

Daniel defeated Yarborough for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas by a narrow margin in the August run-off primary.

He said that a statement attributed to Yarborough yesterday at Austin concerning his intentions in the presidential election is "positively untrue."

Daniel issued a written statement through his convention headquarters as Texas Democrats, more sharply split than ever before in history, battled today toward a non-compromise fight to the bitter end.

The bed-rock issue was whether the party would be controlled by Daniel and a coalition of moderates and conservatives or whether the liberal-loyalist faction would wield the whip end.

In his statement Daniel said "I have every confidence that the executive committee will give all contesting delegations a fair and impartial hearing."

"I shall use all my influence in the convention, which is customarily held by a newly-nominated governor, toward seeing that all contesting delegations have a just and fair hearing in the credentials committee and that legally constituted delegations are seated."

Daniel appealed to Yarborough "to withhold further misstatements concerning my intention with respect to this convention and the 1956 presidential election."

Daniel said he was referring to a statement attributed to Yarborough yesterday "that I am a party to the printing of a film aimed against the national Democratic nominees. I never heard of such a film until I read his statement. This as well as all other accusations quoted from his statement is positively untrue."

Yarborough yesterday said "the Shivers-Daniel team is attempting to control a state Democratic convention and carry on a campaign for a Republican candidate for president x x x."

Asked for comment on Daniel's statement tonight, Yarborough called on Daniel "to clear all doubt and confusion" at the state convention by publicly pledging his support for Democratic nominees for president and vice president and supporting the rights of the senatorial districts caucuses to pick their committeeman and committeewomen.

Yarborough also said if Daniel "will not support the efforts of the rump delegations to throw out the duly elected delegates to the state convention, his actions would result in one of the most harmonious Democratic conventions in the history of this state."

Enrollment In City Schools Up By Six Per Cent; Total: 5,401

Big Spring schools have shown a six per cent increase in enrollment, doubling the rate for last year.

At the end of the first week of school, which normally provides the first accurate checking point, there were 5,401 children in all schools in the district. The same day a year ago there were 5,022. Actual percentage gain was 6.1 as compared with 3.05 the previous year.

One significant development was the heavy development in the junior high level. Where the pressure of increase until last year had been in the elementary (first six) grades, now it is in the junior high grades (7-8-9) where enrollment was up 14.6 per cent. Increase in the elementary level was 3.4 per cent and in the high school it was 3.5 per cent.

Elementary schools had 3,401 pupils enrolled as of Friday, reported Supt. Floyd W. Parsons. Junior high enrollment was 1,211 and senior high 705. The senior high figure was a reversal of the previous year when enrollment showed a slump.

By schools, the total enrollment stacked up this way: College Heights 248, East Ward 322, North Ward 396, Kate Morrison, 334, South Ward 147, West Ward 333, Airport 411, Washington Place 733, Parkhill 189, Lakeview 188, exceptional children 3; Junior High 1,211; Lakeview Junior High 62; Senior High 705; Lakeview Senior High 19.

By grades, totals were these:

First 639, second 622, third 609, fourth 617, fifth 454, sixth 440, seventh 462, eighth 458, ninth 353, tenth 316, eleventh 228, and twelfth 180; exceptional children 3.

Parsons said that the moment there were only four sections on half day sessions, all at Kate Morrison School. This condition for this particular school could become aggravated after passing of the harvest season when more children likely will be in Kate Morrison.

The school board is due to get a close look at enrollment distribution when it has its regular session Tuesday evening. At the same time the board will be faced with a decision on whether to let contracts approximating $104,000 on 12 additional elementary classrooms. There was some discussion Thursday at the bid opening of whether a switch in sites for one or both additions was feasible. Federal Housing officials, through which $144,500 in federal aid was extended for the work, were reported to have said flatly there could be no transfer of plans or sites without going back through the formality of another application, etc.

During the past several years, enrollment in Big Spring schools has been as follows:

Year	Enrollment
1949	3,101
1950	3,835
1951	4,066
1952	4,326
1953	4,423
1954	4,941
1955	5,092

Reviewing The Big Spring Week With Joe Pickle

A lot of people are going to avail themselves of the opportunity of sitting in a new stadium this autumn. An upsurge of sales left the number of season tickets claimed Saturday at 1,000 among previous holders. Monday the general sale of season tickets opens.

Our boys at Webb APB really administered a lesson last Monday in capturing the jet engine championship for the second consecutive year. Their 8 minutes 11.8 seconds was so blistering that it left the other finalist at the National Air Show some four or five minutes behind. Real champs, we'd say!

School enrollment passed the 5,400 mark at the end of the first week — 5,401 to be exact. This was a 3.1 per cent gain over the previous year. Junior high enrollment was up 14.5 per cent, and it is a good thing that the Central Ward building had been converted to junior high uses.

City commissioners are considering changes in the dog ordinance, to put, as our punny deskmen noted, some teeth in it. Part of the proposed change would put a penalty on the pocketbook of the owner of dogs picked up by the dogcatcher.

The complete faculty of Big Spring school wasn't altogether complete at the start of school after all. Dr. Loyal V. Norman, director of elementary education, resigned to accept the superintendent

Hearing Is Monday On County Budget

The Howard County Commissioners Court will take up the 1957 county budget at its meeting Monday.

Lee Porter, auditor, has prepared the tentative budget for the county and for the several offices and copies have been in the hands of the commissioners for some time.

At the 10 a.m. meeting Monday the items will be gone over and official approval given to those finally accepted.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, said that any resident of the county who is interested in the proposed expenditure of county funds is invited to be at the meeting and take part in the discussion.

The budget for 1957 calls for slightly over $107,000 more than was the case in 1956. The expenditures in the budget are set at $817,508.41. Allowances are made in the budgets of each governmental agency for salary increases. These, for the most part, concern the officials in charge more than the deputies in the several offices.

Receipts for the year are anticipated at $865,624 which reflects the nearly $1,000,000 increase in tax valuation.

Special Values For Fall Offered For Dollar Day

It's the traditional monthly event, recognized as one of the strongest bargain events anywhere in West Texas, with most downtown and suburban merchants coordinating sales efforts that will attract thrifty buyers from a wide area.

Fall merchandise will be offered at special values in profusion throughout the city.

Choate Condition 'Not Any Better'

Relatives of George Choate said Saturday that he was still "barely alive but not any better."

Mrs. Melvin Choate said that Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Choate of Phoenix, Ariz., stopped here Friday night and then left Saturday morning for Galveston where George is hospitalized.

Reuben is a brother to George. Mrs. Melvin Choate said the last word they had was that he was still alive but not improving. George, district clerk here, has been in an unconscious or semi-conscious state for a week.

AT SHORT COURSE Unity, Work Listed As C-C Essentials

More than 100 Southwestern Chamber of Commerce leaders left Big Spring Saturday evening with admonitions to "work for community unity" and "plow straight ahead."

The executives, representing practically every Chamber of Commerce in West Texas and others in Oklahoma and New Mexico, were here for the annual WTCC short course for Chamber managers, presidents and office secretaries. Registration for the event reached 110.

Marvin Hurley, executive officer for the world's largest Chamber, at Houston, urged the C-C officials to strive for unity on the local level. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring, advised the group to ignore criticisms which arise and steer a straight course.

Using Benjamin Franklin's disjointed snake cartoon, "Join or Die," as a springboard, Hurley declared that people working together voluntarily are essential in building a community.

Unity and understanding, he declared, are the two essentials of successful community enterprise.

Woman, Facing Surgery, Wants To Find Father

GARDENA, Calif., Sept. 8 (AP)—One big dream dominates Mrs. Eloise Cullinan, and right now it's especially important to her that it be fulfilled—to find her missing father.

Mrs. Cullinan, 43, the former Eloise Hardegree of Weatherford, Tex., is critically ill with a liver condition and complications. Physicians are planning a serious operation in about three weeks.

Before she undergoes surgery, Mrs. Cullinan is praying she can see her father, Lloyd Hardegree, for the first time in 40 years. Until recently, she had always been told her father was killed in World War I. A few weeks ago she learned he survived the war and that he merely left home and never returned.

Hardegree, a former Texas railroad worker, might be in California. The family received information that he was in the state about a year ago.

"I've always wanted to see my dad," Mrs. Cullinan said. "I'm praying that we will be reunited before I have the operation."

She said Hardegree has two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren he has never seen. Mrs. Cullinan's husband, Edward, is a warehouseman for the Douglas Aircraft Co. The couple lives in a trailer park here with their daughter, Pamela, 7.

Mrs. Cullinan's son by a previous marriage, Harold Reed, 26, lives in Pasadena. He is the father of Deborah, 3, and David, 1—Hardegree's great-grandchildren.

Should Hardegree be in Texas, Mrs. Cullinan is hoping he will see her aunt, Mrs. Harry Curtis, at 2250 Cedarcrest Dr., Abilene.

STORY OF PROGRESS

Science Show Is Planned At Webb

Previews of Progress, a dramatic, non-technical science show sponsored by General Motors, will be shown in the Webb Air Force Base theatre at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Wednesday. There will be no admission charge, and the public is invited.

The show will present many of the recent developments in scientific research, which will contribute to a more enjoyable and comfortable life in the years to come.

The purpose of the presentation is to portray the story of progress through engineering and science. Jet propulsion, according to Hunter Stewart, narrator of the show, is more than 2,000 years old. To prove that statement, he will present a replica of Hero's aeolipus of about 200 B. C., which was the world's first modern jet engine.

The modern application of jet propulsion will be illustrated in two ways. First a miniature jet engine, operating on the same principle as the German V-1 buzz bomb, will be placed in actual operation after being anchored in place. The blast of its high pressure flame creates a roar that fills the entire auditorium.

Following this demonstration, models of a jet fighter plane and a V-2 rocket will be driven at high speed the entire length of the auditorium, propelled by tiny but powerful jets of compressed gas.

The "bottle in a temper" will be used to pound a nail into a piece of wood and then will be shattered when the demonstrator drops into it a small piece of abrasive material.

One of the highlights of Previews is the manufacture of synthetic rubber. The narrator mixes two liquids in a pop bottle, shakes for about six seconds, and a mass of fluffy white rubber literally jumps out of the bottle.

Another dramatic demonstration features the "Whirlfire Junior," a working model of the gas turbine engine that powers the XP21 Firebird and the GM Turbocharger, gas turbine powered automobile and transit coach.

Typhoon Emma Hits Okinawa, Causes Widespread Damage

NAHA, Okinawa, Sept. 8 (AP)—Typhoon Emma, 600 miles wide and spitting winds of up to 140 m.p.h., clawed the American fortress island of Okinawa today. It caused widespread property damage, set free 36 "vicious sentry dogs" of the U. S. Army, and took the life of a military policeman.

No estimate in dollar loss was available. Communications were disrupted, power lines cut, windows smashed, homes flooded and automobiles upset. The Ryukyu Command Headquarters said damage there was "excessive" from what was believed the worst typhoon to hit Okinawa in seven years, and the fourth to hit or sideswipe the island this year.

The Army warned all residents of Okinawa to remain inside until the sentry dogs are captured. At a late hour tonight apprehensive Okinawa residents had no word that this had been accomplished. The dogs were set free as the screaming winds ripped open their kennels.

The fatality was caused when the military policeman was trying to either disconnect or plug in an electric fan, the U. S. Army said. Wind velocity measuring instruments were destroyed. Damage to lightly constructed wooden native homes was expected to be extensive, although the natives usually build them in sites where there is natural shelter from frequent typhoons. The Army said windows at its command headquarters building had all been blown out and partitions blown down and scattered about the floor. Hospital patients were moved to typhoon-proof buildings and American planes moved out in advance of the storm. After striking Okinawa the typhoon hovered off the west coast most of the day, edging slowly toward Japan, Korea and Red China.

Murder Charges Dropped Against Boy In Girl's Death

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Commonwealth has dropped murder charges against an eight-year-old boy who admitted kicking to death a nine-year-old girl because she had refused him a kiss.

The boy, Leroy Black, who was the youngest murder defendant on record in Pennsylvania, will go instead to the Lancaster County Juvenile Court, where he will be charged as a juvenile delinquent. Leroy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Black of nearby Columbia, has been held at Rotary Home for boys, a detention house, since shortly after the death June 21 of Darlene Hougendouber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hougendouber of Columbia. The two families live on the same street.

Dist. Atty. William C. Strob filed a petition yesterday in Lancaster County Court to remove the murder charge. He said that because of the boy's age, the state would not be able to prove "an intent to murder" when he kicked Darlene two days before she died in Columbia Hospital.

Students Realize Race Issue Not Matter Of Black, White

CLINTON, Tenn., Sept. 8 (AP)—The students themselves seem to realize that the issues leading to violence over integration of Clinton High School can't be explained away in simple terms of black and white.

Their expressed opinions, and those of some parents, fall in the gray range between complete opposition to all forms of racial mixing and complete acceptance.

A newsman found no white student who actually wanted to go to school with Negroes, but saw evidence these now in school are trying to make the best of it. It was different with Negro students, 12 of whom were admitted Aug. 27 with 800 white children.

They said they wanted to go to school without racial bars. It was not that they were especially eager to be with white children, they said, but that they feel it is the only way to obtain the caliber of education they deserve.

"They (the Negroes) have got to have an education like everyone else," said a 13-year-old freshman girl with a pretty smile and sparkling eyes. "I don't think there's any of us who really wanted to go to school with Negroes—but now that they're here, we might as well make the best of it."

Another white girl, 16 and a senior, agreed in substance, but added:

"I think it's all right as long as there are only 12 of them, but if more come in—and you know there will be more—I think the county ought to build a high school for them."

Anderson County, of which Clinton is the seat, has no high school for Negroes, and in past years had been transporting its Negro high school pupils to a segregated school in Knoxville, 20 miles to the southeast.

"I just want to get an education," a 14-year-old Negro girl who is now in Clinton High explained. Her father added: "I'm not sending her to school to marry white boys. We want her to get an education."

"White folks don't bother me," said a 17-year-old Negro senior boy, who wants to play basketball for Clinton. "I went to school with them in three states." He said he attended integrated schools in Beloit, Wis., South Bend, Ind., and Mt. Clemens, Mich., while living with relatives.

Clinton, of course, is the little (pop. 4,000), town ordered by U.S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor in Knoxville to admit Negro students to its previous all-white—the first state supported high school in Tennessee to mix the races. Mob demonstrations, for which the town was totally unprepared, led to its occupation last Sunday by two units of the Tennessee National Guard to restore law and order.

The frenzied nature of the disturbances—in which no one was hurt seriously—has all but obscured a consideration perhaps more important than any other: how do the children themselves feel?

"I think" one mother said, "that if a vote of the students themselves could be taken, it would show that an overwhelming majority of them would say, 'Let the Negroes come to school.' We don't want to send our children to school with Negroes, but we want to follow the law—and our children do, too."

Her husband, who said he "can't afford" to be quoted—there's a reluctance to take a public stand on the question—added: "Before this thing (violence) happened, I think the Negroes would have come to school and been ignored by the white students. Now, the white students are beginning to feel sorry for the Negroes. It's sort of bred into the American people to feel sorry for the underdog."

LHS Band To Do Precision Marching, 'Rocking Step'

LAMESA, Sept. 8 — The Lamesa High School Golden Tornado Band will present a new concept in marching technique, as it appears at football games, for parades and other marching appearances this fall.

The band will make its initial marching performance of the season at the Midland-Lamesa game in Midland Friday.

After an intensive two weeks of study at Western State College, Gunnison, Colo., band director E. J. Burt began drilling sessions with the band, and for the past two weeks the bandmen have devoted two hours daily to learning the new steps and drills that performances will demand.

Precision drilling will be the main feature of the half-time performances at the Lamesa-High School ball games this fall. The band will use the "Hesitation Strut" worked out by Dr. Robert Hawkins of Western State College, and a new "rocking step" introduced to the band directors training this summer under Al Wright of Purdue University.

Sixty-seven students reported for the Tornado band Monday morning. Burt stated that he anticipates a marching band of 75 pieces when enrollment is completed.

AFT To Build Up Strength In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Tactical Air Force, with more units and planes now deployed abroad than based at home, is preparing to change the balance and build up its continental strength.

This move is the latest in the trend to place more and more reliance on swift mobility and the rapidly mounting firepower of nuclear weapons and missiles. Decreasing military manpower also is reflected in the programs.

The Tactical Air Force operates the fleets of jet fighter-bombers and light bombers, guided missiles, the airlift transports for ground forces and tactical reconnaissance. The reduction in size of nuclear weapons, combined with the high speeds and extended ranges of aircraft, has given the Tactical Air Force striking power approaching that of the Strategic Air Command. During the last two years TAC has developed an aerial combat-transport plane system which provides it with swift global mobility.

Under the new plan to build up the balance of tactical airpower at home, TAC will use only part of a full wing which has been used previously, an Air Force spokesman explained today.

This will be within the framework of the over-all "rotation plan adopted by TAC and similar to that used by SAC. TAC units, under this plan, go overseas for an approximate six-month tour of duty, then are replaced by other units from the United States.

Gen. O. F. Weyland, chief of the tactical command, says the overall strength of the force—now about 46 wings, with a planned buildup to about 50 by a year from now—will remain the same. Under the new program the units of TAC within the "zone of interior" (the continental United States) will be increased by reducing forces deployed overseas.

2 Persons Charged In Justice Court

Two cases were filed in the court of Walter Grice, justice of the peace, Saturday morning.

One named Don D. Swartz as defendant and cited him for child desertion.

The other named Geraldine Bush as defendant and alleged that she had committed robbery. Bond for the woman was set in the sum of $2,000. An examining trial for her was scheduled Saturday morning but William A. Wood, Keith Courts, who was the complaining witness, was not on hand, Guilford Jones, district attorney, said.

Boy, 12, Surprises Juvenile Court

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 8 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy surprised the juvenile court by master-minding 11 burglaries while on probation for having committed 23 others.

Judge John F. Hardin was particularly annoyed that the lad included among his victims the church the court had ordered him to attend.

He was sent to the state training school, where he will remain until he reaches the age of 21.

CD Unit Slates Member Drive

Big Spring and Howard County will see plenty of Civil Defense booths next Friday, as the local organization makes a drive for members.

National Civil Defense Week opened today and continues through Saturday.

The campaign was planned at a meeting at the city hall Friday.

The Howard organization, headed by W. D. Berry, urged every citizen to fill out an application blank furnished at the booths and also in the Herald. These blanks will—at the end of the drive—be sorted, persons classified as to assignment and the persons notified.

A training school will then be conducted, ranging from six to 30 hours depending on importance of the duties.

All but six organizations participating in the campaign next Friday attended the meeting last week. These groups agreed to set up booths in schools and businesses Friday. Berry urged the six groups not attending to pick up their literature and application blanks before Friday. The literature is at the city hall reception desk.

All booths will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Berry added.

Sponsors (and where they will have their booths) are: Red Cross (in the Permian Building lobby, First National Bank, courthouse, and Hemphill-Wells), American Legion Auxiliary (Cosden Building lobby, Settles Hotel, and city hall fire station), VFW Auxiliary (18th Street shopping center, Montgomery Ward, and Safeway), T&P Ladies Safety Council (State National Bank).

Also Rebekah Lodge (post office), Park Hill P-TA (its school, Newsom's Grocery on Gregg, and Edwards Heights Pharmacy), College Heights P-TA (Main Street fire station), South Ward P-TA (its school), Washington Place P-TA (Birdwell fire station and HCJC), High School P-TA (Piggy Wiggly), and Junior High P-TA (Cunningham-Phillips Drug on Johnson and R&H Hardware).

Airport P-TA (its school), East Ward P-TA (its school and Miller's Pig Stand), West Ward P-TA (its school and Newsom's Grocery on Third), North Ward P-TA (its school and G&H Grocery), Negro P-TA (ward school), and Kate Morrison P-TA (its school and Hull & Phillips Grocery on Northside).

At Forsan, the Service Club will have a booth at the school.

Coahoma American Legion and Auxiliary will have booths at Cramer's Grocery, Legion Building, and Brown's Cafeteria.

Booths sponsored by P-TA groups at Knot, Midway, Gay Hill, and Elbow will be in the schools, and at Vealmoor, the P-TA will have booths at Hank's Grocery and Massingill Cafe.

Berry said he hoped at least 3,000 persons would sign for the Civil Defense program in the county. The organization hopes to divide the county into four areas, with a complete group in each area.

Also, he hopes to be able to make each community a separate unit.

Berry added that filling out an application blank does not bind a person, but he hopes that all who turn in an application will seriously work at the job.

Thirty-one different classifications are listed on the form.

They are administrative, block wardens, communication engineers, radio stations, newspapers, commercial mobile and amateur radio, telephone, messengers (Boy Scouts), divisions for building and housing, finance, engineer, food-clothing-seller, worker identification, legal, medical, hospital, personnel information, identification, rescue, supply, traffic control, transportation, and public health.

Other classifications are auxiliary firemen, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Ground Observer Corps, and first aid.

SON PUNISHED

Mother Unfolds Story Of Theft

A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, may not have found the truly honest man whom Diogenes sought so long in broad daylight with his lantern, but he is convinced that he has found the truly honest woman.

Long relates that he was at his home working in the yard when a woman drove up in a car.

She asked if Long had heard of anyone recovering a stolen gun vending machine recently.

Long replied that a battered machine had, indeed, been recently found and turned over to him but that he had not been able to locate an owner nor determine where it had been taken.

"My son," said the woman calmly, "was the one who stole the machine and hammered it open."

Long could only stare open-mouthed.

"My son and another little boy went into a vacant building and this machine was in the building," the woman went on. "They took it, battered it open and removed the gun and the money."

"We learned of it. We punished our son and the other boy has also been punished. We have made them give up the money they found in the machine."

"Now we want you to go to the owner and give him back the money and find out how much the machine was worth. We want to pay him for that, too.

"But we have already punished the boys and we do not think they will repeat their act so we would like for them to be left out of the matter from now on."

"Lady," said Long, "you're about the most honest woman I have ever seen. I'll find the owner and I'll persuade him to let the matter be settled as you suggest."

Long said that he had learned that the machine had been left in the vacant building for over a year and that the rear door of the building had not been locked.

The boys got a little less than two dollars in cash out of the old machine, he said.

Injured Fatally

HOUSTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Lewis Wright, 24, was injured fatally today in a scuffle over a gun in a moving auto. The Channelview man died from a bullet wound in the chest. William Hoffman, 35, a sergeant of the plant guard at the Sheffield steel plant, was charged with carrying a prohibited weapon.

Indian Relics Dating Back 8,000 Years Discovered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Archaeologists cutting down through a cave in Alabama have produced a "culture profile" tracing Indian life back 8,000 years into the stone age.

As the diggers picked out bones, weapons, tools and even traces of a fire that burned 8,000 years ago, they rated Russell Cave "a major discovery."

The National Geographical Society, conducting the excavations with the Smithsonian Institution, said "no other site in North America has yielded such a detailed record covering so long a time span."

Because these ancient cave dwellers covered their litter with fresh layers of earth, the record of their lives could be read like the rings of a tree, simply by digging downward.

The archeological find on a farm near Bridgeport, Ala., near the Tennessee border, was made by four amateurs—members of the downward Chattanooga chapter of the Tennessee Archeological Society.

Led by Smithsonian archeologist Carl F. Miller, the digging now has reached the 14-foot level. Charcoal found there from a manmade fire has been dated by Radioactive Carbon 14 as being about 8,100 years old.

At the six-foot level, they found the skeleton of a cave Indian who lived about 4,000 years ago.

Also uncovered were stone arrowheads of the woodland period, roughly from 1000 A.D. back to 1000 B.C., spearheads and knives, pottery fragments showing gradual changes in hardness and decoration, and a grass fiber basket filled with small charred seeds.

Near the 14-foot level, projectile points from the earliest archaic period were found. A pierced stone was identified as part of an "atlatl," a primitive spear-throwing device. The name comes from the Aztecs.

Even more primitive treasures are expected as the downward probing continues.

Babe To Get Cancer Medal

AUSTIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias will be presented an award Wednesday for contributing "the nation's most outstanding service in cancer education and control."

Dr. William Brumage, president of the Public Health Cancer Assn. of America, said he will make the presentation to the great woman athlete in a Galveston hospital room. Brumage is also director of cancer control division for the State Department of Health.

Mrs. Zaharias is stricken with cancer. The award reads: "To Mildred Didrikson Zaharias as an heroic exemplification of courage and faith that cancer can be conquered in our time, and for her vision in founding the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Fund Inc., to this end."

Wednesday is an anniversary for the Babe. A year ago on Sept. 12, she launched the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Fund, Inc. dedicated to promoting the idea of early detection as a means of saving lives which ordinarily would be lost to cancer.

The choice of Mrs. Zaharias for the award was unanimous among the 7-member executive council. The association is composed of doctors and educators who do full time work in cancer control.

The last recipient was Dr. Leonard Scheele, the former U.S. surgeon general.

Officials Will Urge Approval Of 'Port Site

R. H. Weaver, county judge, and Jack Cook, chairman of the aviation committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, will leave Big Spring Monday afternoon for Fort Worth where they are to meet with the Air Space Subcommittee of the CAA at Meacham Field Tuesday morning.

The local delegation is to speak before the subcommittee on the proposed $500,000 county airport to be constructed here.

Weaver said that the subcommittee has been provided with all data relative to the plans and the proposed site. Object of the conference is to gain the approval of the CAA for the Howard County project.

It is requisite that the CAA endorse the local project in order to avoid difficulty later on when the port is completed and put to use for commercial airline operations.

Clearance of the project with the CAA will greatly expedite the next steps in the airport building plans. Bonds have been voted to finance the program and engineering on the port is well along.

When approval of the site has been achieved, the acquisition of the land needed for the airport can be initiated. A tract of land, a few miles north and east of town, has been selected tentatively as location for the airport.

Cook and Weaver will probably return to Big Spring Tuesday afternoon.

Books Group To Study Confucius At Monday Session

"From the man who paid in dried meat upwards, I have withheld teaching from no man," said Confucius 25 centuries ago.

No dried meat will be needed Monday, however, by anyone wishing to participate in the Big Spring Great Books discussion of the ancient philosopher who taught wisdom, honor, courtesy and kindness in China when most of Europe was peopled by barbarians.

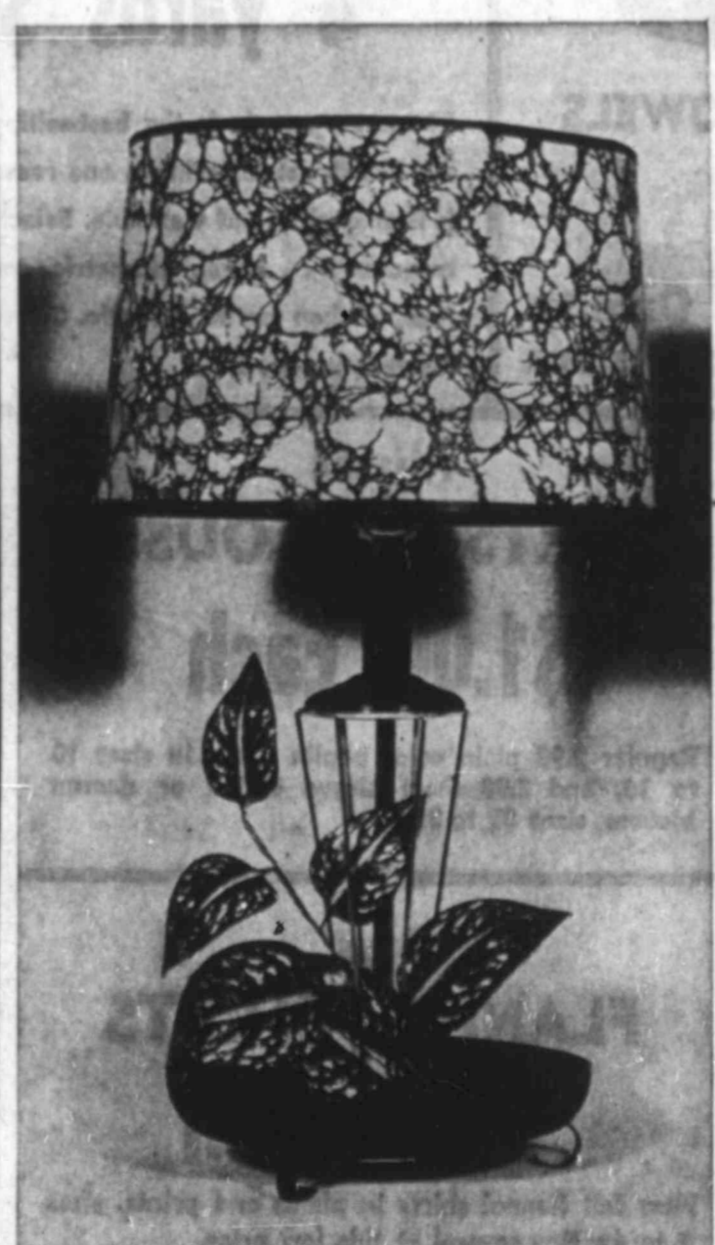

The meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., will be held in the Permian Building, second floor, as will subsequent meetings until classroom space can be provided at Howard County Junior College, which sponsors Great Books activities here.

The Great Books Foundation's complete schedule for the fourth year will be announced after the meeting.

C. A. Benson, leader of the Big Spring group, has requested that members continue to take turns in conducting the discussions.

Meetings will be held the second and fourth Mondays of each month. Membership is free and open to all interested persons.

Registration Begins For HCJC Monday

Some of the new buildings in a $500,000 expansion program will be ready Monday when students begin registering for the 11th annual regular term of Howard County Junior College.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of HCJC, continued optimistic that enrollment would again reach a high level despite the limiting factor of drought. During the past week, 110 freshmen took orientation tests. This was up substantially from last year. Normally, almost as many more freshmen report for the first time during registration.

Enrollment will begin at 8 a.m. Monday and will continue to 5 p.m., resume at 6:30 p.m. and continue to 11 p.m. The same schedule will be followed Tuesday, and on Wednesday classes will begin.

The new bus to transport students from as far east as Colorado City has arrived and will be ready to go into service on Monday morning, said Dr. Hunt. A modest transportation fee is to be charged. Ready for use is the new Science building as well as the enlarged gymnasium and the library extension. Much of the registration will be accomplished in the library area. Most of the other buildings, including the music and industrial arts and the agricultural laboratory hot house, are due to be available within a fortnight, said Dr. Hunt. Meanwhile, the existing science wing has been renovated with asphalt tile being installed in part of the area.

The number of out-of-town students promises to be up. George McAllister, dean of men, and Arah Phillips, dean of women, have been busy trying to place young people in homes and otherwise to secure housing accommodations for them.

Dr. Hunt said that there was a larger number than usual of young people who were in need of scholarship assistance. He said he would welcome calls from individuals and businesses who could furnish all or part of a scholarship ($80 pays tuition for one full time student all year).

No substantial changes are contemplated in curriculum since it is already geared closely to senior colleges and universities in pre-

Thanksgiving Date This Year Due On Fourth Thursday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—In case you have been wondering: Thanksgiving Day comes on Nov. 22 this year, the fourth Thursday in the month.

Sometimes there is confusion when November has five Thursdays as it does this year. According to tradition, the fourth Thursday is the day normally proclaimed by presidents ever since George Washington set aside Nov. 26, 1789, as the nation's first Thanksgiving Day.

Tradition—and calendars—were altered temporarily when President Franklin D. Roosevelt picked the next-to-last Thursday in November for the holiday. Congress later passed a law specifying Thanksgiving should be celebrated on the fourth Thursday.

President Eisenhower probably will make it official this year with a proclamation in the fall.

Big Lake Fugitives Caught In Kansas After Auto Chase

WICHITA, Kans., Sept. 8 (AP)—Two men who said they escaped from the Reagan County jail in Big Lake, Tex., were in custody here today after a high speed chase in a stolen car punctuated by gunfire.

Held were Debs Crawford, 35, and Wayne Cawley, 28, who admitted escaping from the Texas jail Aug. 27.

The chase began when Colwich Marshal Hubert French heard the description of a stolen car and spotted it near the town.

Hubert radioed for help and gave chase. Patrolman John Nail of Sedgewick County attempted to block off the speeding car and was forced into a ditch. At another road block the fugitives drove their car through a nursery at Mt. Hope and abandoned it.

Nail said the two men ran into a field and surrendered only when he began firing "close over their heads."

The sheriff's office said Cawley and Crawford had been awaiting trial in Big Lake on charges involving the theft of oil pipe.

Pleas For Excuses Roll In As Need For Good Jurors Rises

Now that the season of court trials is in progress and as more and more Howard County citizens are scheduled to receive official notices to report to the court for jury service, Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, anticipates the inevitable flood of pleas by prospective jurors to be excused from service.

The judge is extremely lenient in this matter and does grant many citizens release from jury duty, but he has pointed out that service on the juries of the courts in the trial of civil and criminal cases is one of the most important civic responsibilities of any good citizen.

He quotes a Massachusetts Supreme Court justice on the subject.

The jurist said: "The only thing wrong with the jury system today is that too many of the people who talk glowingly about the impartial administration of justice, the right of trial by jury of one's peers, a citizen's responsibility to vote and serve on juries, are unwilling to make the sacrifice themselves."

"There is nothing the matter with the jury system that a better attitude by our citizens about jury service wouldn't cure up instantly."

Judge Sullivan believes that this statement sums up the whole problem.

"If the courts are to function properly," said Judge Sullivan, "and if we are to administer justice in accordance with the laws of the land, the Constitution and the American concept, we must have good jurors. The courts and its servants cannot accomplish the result desired without the aid and cooperation of the people."

Judge Sullivan knows that jury duty is not a pleasant assignment. He understands, he points out, why the average man or woman is most reluctant to sit in the jury box and pass on the guilt or innocence of a fellow citizen.

He knows, too, that oftentimes jury duty does impose a hardship on the venireman — he must take a financial loss from his job or his business in many instances; he has plans which are upset because he is called into court.

Compensation for jury duty is small but the judge points out that jury duty is a civic responsibility and that pay for fulfilling one's responsibilities is not an essential element.

One of the problems that the judge has to combat in finding adequate men and women to fill the jury boxes for the trials is the long list of automatic exemptions now in the law books.

This list includes a wide assortment of professions, businesses and other qualifications which entitle the venireman to claim release from jury duty if he elects to use them.

A physician, for example, does not have to serve on a jury. Others are pharmacists, firemen, postal people over 60 years of age. There are others. Such persons, who may be summoned for jury service, have only to hold up their hand when their particular classification is called and be automatically freed of sitting on a jury.

The judge pointed out one thing which many overlook: The exemption from jury service allowed by these specific conditions does not mean that the individual is arbitrarily disqualified and cannot serve as a juror. If he wants to serve he can serve.

And it is observed that many of the professions and occupations which offer exemption are made up of individuals who, if they desired would make the very best of jurors.

There will be no basic change in the situation in this term of court, Judge Sullivan feels, over that which has always prevailed.

When the panel is seated in the court room he will ask the inevitable question: "Are there any here who feel they cannot serve on this jury?" Immediately a sea of hands will be raised in the air.

Another will say: "I'm the only man in my business establishment. If I have to serve, I will have to lock up the place."

A woman will say: "I have to prepare lunch for my children and husband. If I am not there, I do not know how they will get any food."

And on and on. And the judge will have to excuse a great many of these persons — knowing all of the time that he is oftentimes freeing from the panel the very best jury material he could possibly have.

There are exceptions, though, he observes. Some of the most capable of jurors he has before him in the trial of many cases are men and women who are among the busiest citizens of the community.

They serve, he says, because they feel it their duty to do their part in the administration of justice.

"Judge," one will say, "I have an appointment in Fort Worth. The matter is very important to me."

Another will report: "I have to go to the hospital since March 29 with cancer. She has undergone two operations in her latest hospital stay."

The daily hospital report said Mrs. Zaharias continues to eat and is holding her own. She had been fed intravenously a week ago.

GALVESTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Golfer Babe Didrikson Zaharias vowed today she would win her three-year battle against cancer.

In her bed at John Sealy Hospital, the courageous woman athlete shook her fist and grimly declared: "I'm determined to get up from this bed. I'll surprise you yet, for I'm going to win this battle."

Physicians said every one is amazed by her persistent courage and determination. Mrs. Zaharias, a track star in the 1928 Olympics who turned to golf to win her greatest fame, has been in the hospital since March 29 with cancer. She has undergone two operations in her latest hospital stay.

Verdict Of Guilty In Glasscock Trial

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 8 (SC)—John Doyle Gaskins, charged with DWI second offense, was found guilty of the charge by a jury in 118th District Court on Friday afternoon.

His punishment was fixed at a fine of $500 and 30 days in the county jail.

His was the second criminal case to be tried before Judge Charlie Sullivan at the current criminal docket in Glasscock County.

On Thursday, Dr. Robert Hale, director of the Midland-Ector-Howard Health Unit, had been tried for DWI first offense. Penalty in his case was fixed at $250 and three days in county jail. He gave notice of appeal.

Judge Sullivan will re-open criminal court on Monday.

Gulford Jones, district attorney, said that three indictments returned by the grand jury early last week will be slated for trial. He said he understood all of the defendants would be ready for trial.

New Balloon Record Set

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 8 (AP)—University of Minnesota scientists claimed a balloon record yesterday, by nearly 20,000 feet. A plastic bag they sent up soared 142,900 feet, or about 28 1/3 miles.

The record was set by a pyramidal-shaped balloon 130 feet long. It was constructed of mylar, a new plastic, and its skin, one-thousandth of an inch thick, held a million cubic feet of helium.

Edward P. Ney and John R. Winckler, university physicists working under the Office of Naval Research, said the balloon carried 48 pounds of instruments, cameras, ballast and timers.

Previous altitude mark for unmanned balloons, 125,000 feet, was set last year by a bag sent aloft by Winzer Research, Inc., Bloomington, Minn., in a separate military project.

Ney said the experiments are being carried out to study cosmic rays and meteorology in the upper atmosphere.

Suez Canal Group Fails In Attempts At Compromise

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 8 (AP)—The five-nation Suez Canal Committee has failed on its mission to Cairo and will bid President Nasser goodbye late tomorrow.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency reported the meeting will be at 7 p.m.—noon EST.

Although the official committee spokesman, Noel Deschamps, insisted the talks had not ended, sources close to the delegates said it was all over but saying goodbye.

This was confirmed by reports from Washington, where diplomatic officials admitted the talks had failed to resolve the conflicting views, and by sources close to the Egyptian government, who as long ago as Thursday were saying bluntly the talks had failed.

The delegates reported divided among themselves over interpretation of their mandate which will meet tomorrow morning before their final call on Nasser.

Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, the chairman, and U.S. Delegate Loy Henderson, a State Department troubleshooter, had been reported at opposite poles on the situation.

A difference over whether the mission was dead or still had a chance of accomplishing its purpose of establishing a basis for negotiating became evident earlier today when Deschamps and Hugh Dash, a mission briefing officer, both are Australians. Dash had said last night the thing was over. Deschamps emphatically denied it.

The mission has not seen Nasser as a group since Wednesday when the talks broke down after failure by either side to make any substantial concessions. Nasser presented his views to the committee.

Canal Authority an act which would virtually close the canal. Washington reports today played down the possibility of British-French use of force, but most Egyptians expressed the belief that only firm U.S. action could hold back British and French troops poised on Cyprus.

Without official confirmation, observers said—Menties—promoting the British-French line—was ready to write off the mission as unsuccessful. That would clear the decks for the next move by London and Paris, who are massing armed forces in the eastern Mediterranean even while considering such steps as an appeal to the U. N. Security Council.

Henderson tried to nurture faint hopes that the mission might find an 11th hour formula for negotiations with Nasser on control of the canal which Nasser vows will be kept in Egyptian hands.

Deschamps more than once has categorically denied reports of a rift. So have spokesmen for embassies of the delegations in the mission. But developments of the past 24 hours tend to support the pessimist theory.

Coroner James J. Corrigan had reported John Ruotolo, an 800-a-week salesman, had refused to believe the child found stuffed in a plastic bag in the lake was his. He thought, Corrigan said, this baby was too big to be Cynthia.

Today, as he stood by the grave-site occasionally sobbing, he shook his head in disbelief.

The session will start at 10 a.m. in the Chamber of Commerce conference room at the Sherman Building. In charge will be Milton A. Stinson of Colorado City, the area FHA supervisor, and Fred Ross of Big Spring, Howard-Glasscock supervisor.

Counties to be represented are Ector, Dawson, Midland, Borden, Martin, Andrews, Glasscock and Howard. There are three FHA committees in each county, and 100 per cent attendance is anticipated.

The committee members are farmers and stockmen from the counties they serve. They assist with the processing of applications for loans and other assistance.

Committee members for Howard County are William T. McIlvain, Marion Edwards and Cecil Leatherwood. The Glasscock committee is made up of Clayton Henderson, Aldis Hoelscher and John L. Parker.

LAMESA, Sept. 8 — Saturday night, the pastor relations committee of the First Methodist Church was still looking for a substitute pastor for a three-day conference.

Rev. Jack Thompson of Lamesa will preach for the evening service today.

Koonce Rites Slated Monday UF Organization Meetings Slated

LAMESA, Sept. 8 — Funeral arrangements for Ervin (Doc) Koonce, 67, are tentatively set for Monday here. Mr. Koonce passed away Thursday while visiting a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Ryan, in Dalhart.

Mr. Koonce was a long-time resident of Dawson County and was a member of the Church of Christ.

Mrs. Koonce, at the time of her husband's death, was visiting a son, Maj. Koonce, in Grants Pass, Ore.

Survivors include his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Ryan, Mrs. Audie Lee Womack and Mrs. Zula Deathridge, both of Lamesa; Mrs. Sally Compton of Midland; five sons, Maj. Koonce, James Koonce of Houston, Richard Koonce of Lamesa, and Jake and Don Koonce of Joplin, Mo.

Higginbotham Funeral Home here is handling arrangements.

Pre-campaign activities for the 1956-57 United Fund will be rolling in high gear this week.

At least three important meetings have been set for the week by Campaign Chairman D. M. McKinney.

Meanwhile, United Fund headquarters are due to be established in the Settles Hotel (old Chamber of Commerce office) on the ground floor) the first of the week. Angus Glenn will be in charge of the office work, and will have a clerical staff to start getting records in shape for the drive.

Tuesday night at the headquarters, starting at 7:30, McKinney has called all division chairmen. They will be asked to approve a time-table for various phases of the Fund drive, and also to select various team captains to serve with them in the solicitation.

Monday afternoon at 4:30, a special committee will start work of reviewing prospect cards, to see that a listing is made of all potential givers, both individual and organizational.

And at 5:15 Monday evening, McKinney urged all members of the UF Board of Trustees, plus some other volunteers, to meet briefly to help work out a system to further the payroll deduction system for employees' contribution to the United Fund.

This session will be at the Chamber of Commerce offices, and McKinney urged a full attendance.

He stressed again that citizens will be asked to help generously on this year's campaign, since the project is being undertaken without professional direction. A substantial money saving is thus anticipated, and this is being passed on to participating agencies.

The UF's budget this year is $75,500, same as it was last year, and will serve ten participating agencies — the Red Cross, Salvation Army, YMCA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Milk and Ice Fund, West Side Youth Center, Servicemen's Center, American Cancer Society, and the Summer Recreation Program.

role of the local community as "the most basic unit in the life of our country," he said that is where joint efforts should be started to solve problems and capitalize opportunities.

He cautioned against the dangers of civic apathy, stagnation, apathy, factionalism and group control.

"Panacea for these 'community diseases,' he said, is to 'join and live,' the attitude of 'we-ness' instead of an egocentric approach is imperative.

To exercise effective leadership, Dr. Lloyd told the Chamber members they would have to exert real enthusiasm, "to believe in what you are doing four times as much as the average man." He said they would have to be insistent to the "carping criticism that is everywhere" and plow straight ahead.

"You can't be afraid of hard work and succeed," he added. "Real leadership will be on your own time. And you must believe in the future of your community. If you think this country is doomed to drought and dust, then move out. You've got to believe that tomorrow your community will grow."

Delbert Downing, Midland Chamber manager, presided at the luncheon session where Dr. Lloyd spoke. Mrs. Don Newsom, accompanied by Orland Johnson, was roundly applauded in two vocal selections. George Barber, Mineral Wells manager, urged attendance at the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers meeting, which he said will be beamed to helping the new professional worker. Incidentally, 15 of those attending Saturday were in their first year of work.

Thirty-five of the Chamber executives and staff members received certificates for successful completion of three of the short courses at the conclusion of Saturday's session.

Training was provided throughout the day in separate panel sessions for Chamber presidents, managers and office secretaries.

Most of the 110 attending also were on hand Friday evening for a buffet and social activities at the Cosden Country Club. J. H. Greene of Big Spring, who assisted with many of the preparations for the event, was forced to retire from the activities Saturday morning because of illness.

Thousands Of Children Take Part In Integration Moves

ATLANTA, Sept. 8 (AP) — Thousands of white and Negro children attended school together for the first time this week, a few despite mob pressures and only under protection of soldiers' guns, but the majority without incident.

This third school opening since the Supreme Court outlawed racial segregation found schools moving swiftly toward full integration in all border states of the South—but with resistance still strong in the hard core of "Deep South" states.

The first week of school in 1956 saw additional districts in Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia and Maryland opening classrooms to children of both races. Some schools in those states and in Arkansas began integration last year.

There has been no public school integration in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

The first—and worst—outbreak of the new school year occurred in Tennessee where Clinton High School admitted 12 Negroes under court order.

Demonstrations in varying degrees of unruliness also flared up over Negroes attending or attempting to register at public schools in Mansfield, Tex., Sturgis and Clay, Ky., and Matoaka, W. Va., and at a junior college in Texas.

Negroes attended school in Clinton and Sturgis under National Guard protection. Texas Rangers moved into Mansfield but a mob succeeded in preventing Negroes from registering. A boycott by white pupils developed after Negroes entered the Matoaka school.

Both Clinton and Mansfield were the first schools in their respective states below the college level directed to integrate by court order. In Clinton, only six miles from the integrated schools of the atomic city of Oak Ridge, no trouble had been expected and rioting followed fiery speeches by outside white extremists.

Mansfield is in the former cotton-slave belt of east Texas and

Escorted From School

One of seven Negro boys who enrolled at the high school in Sturgis, Ky., is shown being escorted by armed Kentucky National Guardsmen after the close of school session. An angry crowd of at least 500 people threatened to "get the Niggers if it takes all year."

The mob action there apparently was touched off by local feeling on the issue.

Local sentiment also apparently was at the bottom of the Sturgis demonstration and the Matoaka integration where there was no trouble. However, they were in areas with relatively small Negro populations. And in many the economic load of separate schools undoubtedly played a part in lowering the racial barriers in classrooms.

The situation by states:

ALABAMA—No Alabama public schools have been integrated or plan to integrate. The state has adopted a constitutional amendment providing that parents are not required to send children to integrated schools. A Negro, Atherine Lucy, was admitted to the University of Alabama last fall, but was expelled. Spring Hill, a Jesuit college, has admitted Negroes for two years.

ARKANSAS—Three districts, with about 50 Negroes, integrated last year. Little Rock, Fort Smith and Van Buren are committed to begin integration in 1957, and Pine Bluff in 1958. A few Negroes are attending state colleges.

DELAWARE—Integration is proceeding smoothly and about 4,100 of the state's 11,000 Negro pupils are attending integrated classes.

FLORIDA—Florida has no public school integration, but a Negro attorney attempted to register his son in an all-white school in West Palm Beach and indicated he would test the new school assignment law if admission is refused.

GEORGIA—There is no integration in Georgia in public schools or colleges and the state has a law which bans funds to any which conduct mixed classes.

KENTUCKY—Kentucky began integration last year and officials say "practically all" of the state's 21 districts will have some degree of integration this year. Enrollment estimated at 615,739 of which about 70,000 are Negroes.

LOUISIANA—There is no integration in public or Catholic secondary schools. Some state colleges have been ordered by courts to admit Negroes.

MARYLAND—Seven counties integrated last year. Six more are integrating this year and six have said they will consider Negro ap-lications for transfer to white schools; but so far have received none. The state has 23 counties.

NORTH CAROLINA—North Carolina has no integration in public schools but Negroes were admitted to units of the university under court order last year.

SOUTH CAROLINA—There are no integrated schools. The Sumner district has been ordered to integrate but no date was set. The state has repealed free public school requirement and compulsory attendance law and has an act banning funds for schools gaining or losing a pupil by court order.

MISSISSIPPI—Mississippi has no integration at any level.

TENNESSEE—Except for Clinton, by court order, and federally operated Oak Ridge, there is no secondary school integration in Tennessee. Some colleges are under orders to admit Negroes.

OKLAHOMA—Integration is proceeding smoothly. Of 96 Negro high schools last year, only 44 are left, and nine of them are in all-Negro communities. Of the 35 districts with separate high schools, 11 have announced some integration action.

TEXAS—From 70 to 75 of Texas' 1,857 school districts began voluntary integration last year, and 15 to 25 are integrating this year. Most are in West Texas with small Negro populations. Actually about 300,000 white children will be attending school this year with about 3,000 Negroes. Texas school enrollment last year was 1,853,492.

MISSOURI—An estimated 95 per cent of Missouri's Negro pupils, mostly in Kansas City and St. Louis, were integrated last year. About 35 school districts in central and southeast Missouri still are segregated.

VIRGINIA—Virginia has no public school integration but several suits against segregation in various districts are pending in federal court.

WEST VIRGINIA—With three possible exceptions, integration was reported to some degree in all of the state's 55 counties. Enrollment last year was 458,000 of which about 28,000 were Negroes. State Supt. W. W. Trent estimated that 100,000 were Negroes.

Bearcats Defeat Knott Billies By 27-21 Tab

Strike Finals In Glasscock

Advance Petroleum of Dallas has completed a wildcat in the southern part of Glasscock County.

The well, No. 1 William Howard produced 435.5 barrels of oil through a half-inch choke in finishing. Perforations in the Lower Spraberry were between 7,350-570 feet. Other information concerning the well was not received.

Location is 18 miles southwest of Garden City, 1,332.33 feet from north and 1,824 feet from west lines, 29-35-5e, T&P Survey. It is two miles east of production in the Spraberry Trend Area and also a mile and a half south of a lone Lower Spraberry field.

Sohio Petroleum Corporation announced location of three new projects to plug back and try the Clear Fork and also completed one new well.

Completed was the No. 3-C Cox. It flowed 219 barrels of oil in 24 hours, through a 26-64-inch choke, plus one per cent water. The location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines, 7-36-5e, T&P Survey.

The well is plugged back to 6,883 feet from 7,715 feet, and 519-inch string extends to 7,628 feet. Perforations are between 6,266-72 feet. Gravity is 39.2 degrees, and gas-oil ratio is 983-1.

Sohio No. 4-B Bryans will be drilled 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines, 6-36-5e, T&P Survey, on a 640-acre lease. Location is 22 miles southwest of Garden City. Operator will plug back to 6,460 feet to try the Clear Fork.

The No. 1-B Bryans is 660 feet from north and west lines, 6-36-5e, T&P Survey and 22 miles southwest of Garden City. It will be plugged back to 6,500 feet.

Sohio No. 2-C C. Reynolds, 25 miles southwest of Garden City, will be plugged back to 6,800 feet trying the Clear Fork.

Site is 690 feet from north and west lines, 21-36-5e, T&P Survey, on a 640-acre lease.

Cosden 1st Quarter Earnings Increase

Cosden Petroleum Corporation's net earnings for the first quarter of the year are up by nearly half a million dollars or 34.5 per cent over the same period of last year.

Net profit for the first quarter, reported R. L. Tollett, president, was $1,601,230 as against $1,190,346. This was at the rate of 73 cents a share as against 54 cents a share (on 2,192,618 shares outstanding Sept. 5, 1956).

Gross operating income for the first quarter was $15,824,259, up substantially from the $14,259,472 of the first quarter of the previous fiscal year.

For the past twelve months ending July 31, 1956, operating income aggregated $57,187,635 and net profits $5,408,587 or $2.46 per share. The comparable figures for the previous 12 months were $52,537,720 gross operating income, $3,907,484 net profits, and $1.78 earnings.

The report to stockholders revealed that results of the referendum on a 100 per cent stock dividend, plus 50 cents cash dividend per share of previously outstanding stock, had been approved by all but 4 of one per cent of all shares voted. The stock split and dividend payments have since been effected with shares and checks being received during the past week.

Other highlights of the report included word of the new Rex-former going on stream. This $2,500,000 project continually recycles until an extractor has effected complete conversion to 100 octane plus fuel. This will be used as blending stock at the rate of 4,000 barrels per day.

Outlook, despite a disquieting domestic petroleum situation, is better than at this same time a year ago, said Tollett.

Standard To Re-Enter N'W. Howard Abandoned Test

Standard Oil of Texas is planning to re-enter and test an abandoned wildcat in the northwest part of Howard County.

The location is eight miles south of Vealmoor and will be operated as the No. 1 C. W. Burton. Plotted site is 660 feet from north and east lines, 27-33-2n, T&P Survey. It was originally drilled as the Barnes-Williamson No. 1 Fryar to 8,900 feet in the Pennsylvanian reef. Operators plugged it in December of 1952.

Standard now proposes to clean out and test several sections. The Spraberry will probably be the first strata tested.

The project is in the same section with the Stanolind No. 1 Burton which finished for 223 barrels of oil from the Spraberry in July.

For the second time, A. K. Turner has plugged and abandoned the No. 2 J. S. Walker wildcat seven miles northwest of Big Spring. Operator drilled the last time to 6,916 feet in sand and perforated, and then drilled out to 4,500 feet and plugged. It was originally drilled to 4,500.

Location is 330 feet from south and 2,353 feet from west lines, 27-33-2n, T&P Survey.

In the Moore field, Cosden Petroleum No. 2-D Patterson penetrated to 2,738 feet in anhydrite. The location is five miles southwest of Big Spring, 330 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines, 27-33-1s, T&P Survey.

Three Explorers Are Reported

Reports out of the Railroad Commission office showed three new wildcats in West Texas. They are in Runnels, Nolan, and Gaines counties.

Thomas Humphrey of Dallas has staked the No. 1-A W. E. Hall in Runnels as a 4,400-foot Gardner test. The location 2,310 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of Section 149, ET Survey, is a mile southwest of the Hall (Upper Gardner) field.

It is separated from the field however by a dry hole.

In Nolan County, Norsworthy No. 1-A Unique Parramore will be located. It is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines, 10-1A, H&TC Survey. Contract depth is 7,600 feet in the Ellenburger.

Location is 12 miles southwest of Marneal and four miles southwest of the Nena Lucia field.

W. C. Liedtke of Midland is drilling the No. 1 Nina Ellen Rosenberg 18 miles east of Seagraves in Gaines County. It will penetrate to 5,100 feet. Drill site is 660 feet from south and west lines, 15-C31, PSL Survey.

Holdings Of Cosden Scholarships Leave To Begin Studies

Both of the recipients of Cosden Petroleum Corporation's scholarships have left for college to complete their engineer training. Under the program their regular pay in grade will continue until they have earned their degree.

Cosden also pays the tuition and the IUOE local grants a leave of absence.

William T. Boadle, 1946 graduate of Big Spring High School, enrolled at the University of Texas from whence he hopes to get a chemical engineering degree in 1959. Boadle, father of three children, joined Cosden in 1951 after serving in the U. S. Army Engineers.

Floyd Dixon has entered Texas Tech and hopes to earn his Bachelors and Electrical Engineering degree in 1958. He is a 1938 graduate of Big Spring High School, served 44 months in a Japanese prison camp when the Navy and Marine garrison on Wake Island was overwhelmed, worked two years with airline companies and joined Cosden in 1954. He is father of two children.

Directors Of United Butane Co.

Eight West Texas firms dealing in liquefied petroleum products and appliances have merged operations as the United Butane Company. Headquarters are in San Angelo with Howard P. Bunch as president. He was head of the Bunch Reisen Co. and the heads of other branches in Big Spring, Brackettville, Eola, Garden City, Midland, Ozona, and Winters will continue to operate them as branch managers. L. I. Stewart, Big Spring, becomes a member of the board. As independent firms, the eight units reported gross sales of over $500,000 last year. Members of the board, pictured above, are Bunch, E. E. Vaughn, Winters, A. W. Jones, Midland, and Lee M. Sargent, Eola, vice presidents; Howard N. Bunch, San Angelo, secretary-treasurer; W. Frankie Jones, Ozona, L. I. Stewart, Big Spring, R. D. Williams, Brackettville, and J. T. Cybert, Garden City, directors.

New Research Laboratory

Construction is to begin Sept. 17 on new field research laboratories for Magnolia Petroleum Corporation. The one-story structure will be located at Duncanville, near Dallas. It will house 21 separate laboratories and 34 offices. The digital computer — the electronic brain, will be moved into the new plant. The basement area will furnish space for an instruments shop, electronics shop and photography processing room. The 25,000 feet of floor space will be subject to temperature and humidity control.

Probe Of Competitive Effect Of Compact Is Up To Congress

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — Congress will face in January the question of whether it really wants the Justice Department to determine if the Interstate Oil Compact throttles competition.

Money for the investigation is the big point.

That issue was raised this week in a report by Atty. Gen. Brownell on the compact, created in 1935 and for which authority has been renewed periodically.

On July 28, 1955, Congress authorized its operation until Sept. 1, 1959. The extending legislation contained a provision calling on the Justice Department to conduct a study of the "competitive effects of the system by which oil production is regulated" and make a report to Congress.

"The report provision was intended, therefore," Brownell said, "to require an informed statement by the attorney general which would provide a basis for legislative consideration of the problem."

But the report he now submits, the attorney general continued, is simply a compilation of data and "does not draw any conclusions." He said his department didn't get enough money to conduct a study of the scope Congress indicated it wanted.

"Any such conclusions," Brownell stated, "necessitate a more comprehensive basis of information."

He said the report he is submitting "perforce, is limited to an objective summary of some of the problems of oil production and conservation."

"It is intended to provide a starting point from which further inquiry, within the limits of available appropriations, may be carried out."

The compact was organized to cope with a chaotic situation which had arisen in the domestic petroleum industry because of unrestricted production. In the early 1930s there was a great waste of oil, and the market price had dropped to 10 cents a barrel in some areas.

A Justice Department official said Congress was told, after it called for the investigation, that about $700,000 would be needed to conduct the study. He said Congress belatedly provided only about $80,000.

Some congressmen from non-oil states have criticized the oil compact.

Home, Motor Fuels Pace Demand For Gas Products

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — A boom is on in the petrochemical and liquefied petroleum gas industries.

Production this year is expected to exceed 34 billion pounds, compared to seven billion in 1942.

Marketed production of liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) in 1955 exceeded six billion gallons, compared to less than 700 million in 1942. Last year's output was 17 per cent above 1954.

The Oil and Gas Journal estimates annual petrochemical production may reach 60 billion pounds by which time a current four billion dollar investment is expected to be doubled.

Some 25 years ago liquefied gases—primarily butane and propane—extracted from wet natural gas were considered practically worthless. Market outlets for home heating, motor fuel, chemical manufacturing and synthetic rubber production have been expanded rapidly.

In 1939, some 39 per cent of LPG production was used for domestic and motor fuel purposes, only 12 per cent for chemical manufacturing.

Last year 61 per cent was used for home purposes and motor fuel. Chemical manufacturing requirements had increased to 21 per cent with synthetic rubber production taking another eight per cent.

With the sale of government-owned plants to private industry several new synthetic rubber plants and expansion programs are under way. Production of butadiene, a petroleum-derived chemical used in synthetic rubber processing, is expected to be increased from about 600,000 tons a year to over 900,000 tons.

Dawson Drillstem Test Rescheduled

A drillstem test at a Dawson County wildcat failed when the pipe leaked, and operator is preparing to retest.

The location is the Humble No. 1 R. C. Koger four miles southwest of Sparenburg.

Operator attempted a drillstem test from 12,000-103 feet, but the pipe leaked during the test. As a result, the test will be retaken at the same footage.

The location is 660 feet from south and east lines, 32-35-4n, T&P Survey. Contract depth is 12,600 feet.

Tests Slated On Leases Obtained From Ben Hogan

H. Carl Vandervoort, Jr., president of Leche Oil Company, Inc. of Fort Worth, has announced the acquisition of a 640-acre lease from Ben Hogan. The lease is composed of the east half of section 29 and the south half of section 29-4, H&T CRR, Ward County. Eight locations have been filed on this lease in hopes of extending the Shipley Queen Field. Terms of the sale included $56,000 production payment and an undisclosed amount of stock issued to Hogan.

Leche will begin drilling on the Ben Hogan lease immediately, and continuous development is planned. First location will be Leche Oil Company, Inc. No. 1 Mitchell, et al, 330 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 29-4-H&TC.

Two Spraberry Wells Complete In Southwest Borden County

Seaboard Oil and the Texas Companies brought in wells in Borden County last week producing over 475 barrels oil each.

One was in the Arthur field and the other in the Jo-Mill.

Seaboard's new well is the No. 2-34 T. J. Good, seven and a half miles north of Vealmoor. Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines, 34-33-4n, T&P Survey, on a 12,757.08-acre lease.

It produced 485.04 barrels of oil through a 24-64-inch choke, plus nine per cent water, in 24 hours. Gravity is 38.8, and gas-oil ratio is 314-1. Operator fractured with 15,000 gallons before testing.

Commercial pay in the Spraberry is reached at 7,331 feet, and perforations are between 7,351-92 feet. Total depth is 7,960 feet, and 5 1/2-inch tubing runs to 7,944 feet.

In the Jo-Mill field, Texas No. 2-A-NCT-7 Miller flowed 478 barrels of 31.1 degree oil on a final test. Flow was through a 24-64-inch choke and no water was reported. Gas oil ratio is 807-1.

Perforations in the Spraberry are between 7,151-343 feet and the upper figure tops the pay zone.

Total depth is 7,783 feet, but the well is plugged back to 7,360 feet. Five and a half-inch casing is run to 7,772 feet.

The well in preparing to test was treated with 10,000 gallons fracture fluid and 500 gallons of acid.

Location of the completion is 660 feet from north and east lines, 23-39-4n, T&P Survey, and 15 miles southwest of Gall.

Mitchell County Fields Report Two Completions

Westbrook and Sharon Ridge 1700 field each picked up one new well this weekend.

Fred Shield No. 4 Nettie Hale pumped 91.69 barrels of 24-degree oil in 24 hours on potential. Ten per cent water accompanied the test. The well is in the Westbrook pool.

The well is three miles south of Cuthbert, 330 feet from south and 5,021 feet from west lines, 2-28-1n, T&P Survey.

Perforations are between 3,000-166 feet, and top of the pay zone is 3,000 feet. Five and a half inch casing is cemented at 3,112 feet, which is total depth.

Operator had fractured with 20,000 gallons before taking potential.

In the Sharon Ridge field, Blackwell & Langford No. 1 Bell-German pumped 71 barrels of oil, plus 10 per cent water in a 24-hour test.

Top of the pay area is 1,496 feet, and total depth is 1,524 feet. The 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 1,502 feet.

The well is seven miles northwest of Colorado City, 2,200 feet from north and 730 feet from west lines, 15-27, T&P Survey.

Cosden Petroleum No. 1 Bowen, in the Albaugh (Yates) field, was spudding this weekend. The location is 330 feet from south and west lines of the east half of the northwest quarter, 10-17, SPRR Survey.

It is an outpost test, navigating to 1,500 feet with cable equipment.

Boom Looms In East Colorado

PUEBLO, Colo., Sept. 8 (AP) — Discoveries of oil and gas at several southeast Colorado wildcat wells and statements by major companies that they will drill 10 more wells has touched off a boom east of here.

D. D. Harrington of Amarillo has brought in two producers. One is reported among the biggest gas producers in this area.

The Harrington 1 Lynn, 12 miles north and west of McClave, came in as a gusher which shot oil 60 feet into the air.

Harrington said his firm, Harrington, Marsh and Wagner, has contracted to drill five wells for Continental Oil Co. in Bent and Kiowa counties.

The company is negotiating with the El Paso Natural Gas Co. and the Western Natural Gas Co. to drill five other wells in El Paso County and in eastern Bent County.

Completions Show Thousand Increase

AUSTIN, Sept. 8 (AP) — Texas oil well completions totaled 197 last week to bring the year total to 11,476 compared to 10,432 last year.

Gas well completions reported by the Railroad Commission were 33 for a total of 1,231. There were 125 dry holes, for a yearly total of 5,387. There were 9 oil wildcats, and 5 gas wildcats.

The total average calendar day allowable was 3,350,832 barrels, compared to 3,350,977 Sept. 1.

WILLIAM H. WALLACE

MEET THE 'seniors'

OF THE COSDEN FAMILY...

This is the fifth in a new series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

William H. Wallace of Coahoma is proud of his 15 years with Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

"They may make bigger companies, but they won't make any better ones to work for," Wallace says.

Wallace's tenure with Cosden, interrupted for about four years when the firm disposed of its property where he worked at Graham, dates back to 1937. He started as a truck driver for Cosden at Graham and helped build the old Cosden refinery there.

Later, he got in the company's production department and started working as a pumper, a position he now holds. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace and their son, Glenn Edward Wallace, live on the W. R. Read "A" Lease where he works east of Coahoma.

Wallace was born July 29, 1905, in Indian Territory, at what is now Willis, Okla. He moved to Texas at an early age with his family and attended school in Young County.

After growing up, he ran a cotton gin for the Goodwin Gin Company at Paducah for about 10 years, then worked for a trucking contractor for another year before joining Cosden as a truck driver.

Wallace and the former Edith Ferrell Taylor, a native of Gleason, Tenn., were married Dec. 24, 1932, in Frederick, Okla. Their son, Glenn Edward, was born Nov. 3, 1939, at Graham, after Wallace started with Cosden.

The Cosden booster also classifies himself as a sports fan, with particular interest in football and baseball. The Wallaces are members of the First Baptist Church in Coahoma and he also is a member of the Masonic Lodge, No. 485 in Young County.

During the period between Wallace's employment at Graham and the time he started to work for Cosden here, he worked for another trucking contractor at Graham and in West Texas for an oil field concern specializing in opening and cleaning out wells.

Of all the concerns he's worked for, he says Cosden is his favorite employer.

Texas Highway Experts Plan Roads To Fit 1975 Conditions

AUSTIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—Texas highway experts are building roads for the car that you, or your children, will be driving in 1975. That is the only way road construction can keep up with the fast changing numbers and types of motor vehicles, says State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer. "Texas' share of the modern expressways being financed jointly by federal and state governments will total more than 2,900 miles. "As insurance that the interstate system will not be outgrown by the time it is completed, all design features required to accommodate the types and volumes of traffic that will exist in 1975 must be provided in the initial design of the highways, although, where justifiable, construction may be in stages," Greer said.

Contracts have been let for some Texas projects in the interstate highway system. All projects must meet the design standards adopted recently by the American Assn. of State Highway Officials. In general, there will be no crossovers at grade, Greer said. Crossroads and railroad crossings will either be separated or eliminated. This includes all at-grade intersections of public highways and private driveways. All sections of the interstate system will be controlled-access type highways. This may be accomplished by acquiring access rights outright before construction or by the construction of frontage roads, or both. The designed speed of all highways on the system is to be at least 70, 60 and 50 miles per hour for flat, rolling and mountainous topography and at least 50 miles per hour in urban areas, Greer said. For these speeds, gradients generally must be no steeper than 3, 4 and 5 per cent. Gradients 2 per cent steeper may be provided in rugged terrain.

Traffic lanes are to be at least 12 feet wide. Where the expected traffic volume of 1975 will exceed the capacity of two lanes, a divided highway must be built. For lower volumes, the highway may be two-lane, but must be designed and located on the right-of-way in such a way that another two-lane pavement can be added later to form a divided highway. The interstate standards require that two-lane highways must be designed so there will be sections with sufficient sight distance for safe passing and these sections must be long enough and frequent enough to handle the traffic volume. Where it is not possible to provide enough passing opportunities, a divided highway is to be provided instead. Climbing lanes, such as those provided on many Texas highways, may be added to the two-lane roads to increase their efficiency and capacity. The exact width of right-of-way was not fixed by highway officials, but some minimum widths were given as guides.

The group felt that although wide widths are desirable, conditions may make narrow widths necessary and right-of-way need not be of constant width. In rural areas, right-of-way widths for both two-lane and four-lane divided highways are to be at least 150 feet without frontage roads and 250 feet with frontage roads, plus added widths needed for heavy cuts and fills. For urban areas, the requirement is only that right-of-way widths shall be not less than what is needed for the necessary pavements, shoulders, median, outer separations, ramps, frontage roads, slopes, walls, border areas and other requisite appurtenances.

All culverts and bridges 150 feet or less in length are to be wide enough to accommodate the full roadway width, including the usable width of shoulders, and all structures must be at least 14 feet wide. Indeed, this is a dream come true. Since I am principal of the high school here, your service will mean a college education that I can gladly endorse for the score of more of our graduates who will take advantage of this golden opportunity. Please accept my hearty thanks and be assured that I shall take pleasure in sending as many of our graduates to HCJC as I can sell on the idea that it pays big dividends to attend a good junior college before risking the disillusionment that is the inevitable lot of too many youngsters who are not properly oriented for college life in a large senior college.

"I wanted you to know I appreciate your expanding campus to serve every boy and girl, man and woman, within 50 miles who are ambitious to better themselves."

Adlai E. Stevenson urged stabilization of "farm income at full parity levels" and help for small businessmen as he moved eastward today in his presidential campaign. The Democratic nominee spoke at the Ohio State Democratic Convention after appearing earlier in the day at a "welcome home" affair in Springfield, Ill., where he served four years as governor. In Springfield, he discarded a prepared speech which took note of the GOP "peace and prosperity" campaign slogan and contended that the issues in this election year are "how we make this a prosperity not for just some of us but for all of us" and "how we achieve a lasting peace in all the world."

Stevenson, addressing an estimated 10,000 persons in the sun-drenched courthouse square at Springfield, predicted for himself a November victory, and said he would never rest as long as serious unsolved problems beset the nation. He would not rest, he said, as long as "millions of our children have an inadequate education," as long as farmers are in "trouble," as long as "there are pockets of poverty and misery," as long as there is a "balance of terror existing in the world," as long as the cold war exists, as long as "your sons and brothers are drafted to serve in the armed forces."

In Columbus, Stevenson said that "high, firm price supports" should be part of a program for keeping farm income at parity levels, and that small business should have a tax break and more readily available credit. Stevenson spoke up for maintaining "family farming as a decent, respectable and useful way of life" and said "we can put our farm production to good use" to meet the unsatisfied needs of millions in this country with inadequate diets and hundreds of millions abroad who go to bed hungry every night.

Grade School Music Program Gets Revision

A new approach to the elementary school music program has been made possible by additional teaching staff.

Supt. Floyd W. Parsons said Saturday that this would permit three music teachers to devote time to actual classroom activity for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Formerly, the elementary music program consisted mainly of supervisory work — the supervisor (later there were two) working through teachers. This phase of the program will be continued for the first three grades.

An auxiliary benefit of the teaching program in the upper three grades, the superintendent explained, will be to provide teachers in those levels with half an hour respite. Teachers in junior and senior high have had "off periods" for several years, but the new arrangement makes this possible for the first time for teachers in the top three elementary grades.

Mrs. Bill Briese, who formerly directed the elementary music program, has been transferred at her request to be in charge of the junior high music program. The three elementary music teachers will be Mrs. Mary Jane Zabel, Joyce Howard and Mrs. Mary Christensen.

Mrs. Zabel's schedule for teaching is as follows: Monday, West Ward 9 a.m.-1:45 p.m.; Parkhill 2 p.m.-3:30 p.m.; Tuesday Airport 9 a.m.-1:30 p.m.; Wednesday West Ward 9 a.m.-1:45 p.m.; Parkhill 2 p.m.-3:30 p.m.; Thursday, Airport 9 a.m.-2:30 p.m.; Friday, West Ward 9 a.m.-1:45 p.m.; Parkhill 2-3:30 p.m. She will be available for consultation with teachers of grades one, two and three from 3:30 p.m.-4 p.m. daily.

Mrs. Christensen's schedule is as follows: Monday, North Ward 9 a.m.-1:30 p.m.; Kate Morrison 2 p.m.-3:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Kate Morrison 9 a.m.-11 a.m.; East Ward 11 a.m.-2:30 p.m.; Wednesday, same as Monday; Thursday, same as Tuesday. On one Friday the Monday schedule will be repeated, and on the next Friday the Tuesday schedule will be repeated. She, too, will consult from 3:30 p.m.-4 p.m. daily with primary teachers.

Miss Howard is to confer with the principals of Washington Place, College Heights, and South Ward schools on Monday to fix her schedule.

BE ALERT! YOUR CHILDREN ARE

BACK IN SCHOOL

DRIVE CAREFULLY!

School Time Is Safe Driving Time—

The Child You Save May Be Your Own!

STOP AND WAIT
when school buses are taking on or discharging passengers.

KEEP ALERT for children walking to school in the city or on country roads.

GIVE RIGHT-OF-WAY to children at crosswalks. Be sure they arrive safely.

More and more children are on the streets again — some of them going to school for the first time. Children will be crossing the streets, walking along country roads, waiting for school buses. Children are sometimes unpredictable, and it is up to drivers to stay alert and in full command of their vehicles in case an emergency arises. PLEASE drive extra carefully. Watch for children at crossings and on the streets. Give the right of way to school buses. Be alert. The children may not see you — be sure you see them!

FOLLOW THESE RULES FOR SAFE DRIVING

- Be doubly careful near schools or where children play. Children don't realize the danger and may take chances. That's why you, the driver, must take extra care.
- Keep your car in top mechanical condition. Use chains when roads are slippery.
- Obey traffic laws. Know the traffic laws wherever you travel and don't break them.
- Slow down. Speed is dangerous at any time — doubly dangerous when visibility is cut by rain, fog or darkness.
- If you drive, don't drink — If you drink, don't drive. Remember, death takes no holiday.
- Keep lights and windshield wipers in good condition during rainy or snowy weather. You have to see danger to avoid it.
- Be a courteous driver. Yield right-of-way, even when it should be yours. It's better to stay alive than to be dead right.

Dixie Governors Set Annual Meeting

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 8 (AP)—Southern governors begin a four-day meeting here tomorrow, and nowhere on their official program do they mention the burning issue before them: What happens to Southern education now that the Supreme Court's decision on public school segregation is starting to take effect? Publicly the governors will discuss big but relatively non-controversial subjects—civilian uses of atomic energy and water conservation in the South. And they will listen to Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But you can bet your last Confederate flag that privately they will be comparing a lot of notes on proposals for handling their problem. The Virginia Legislature is in a special session, wrestling over proposed school legislation. Another governor, James P. Coleman of Mississippi, has said he will be unable to attend due to previous commitments.

This leaves 14 governors to fret over regional problems—and talk politics.

Among the Southerners are two Republicans, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin of Maryland and J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware. Their states went for Eisenhower in the 1952 presidential election, as did Virginia, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Texas and Florida.

These last five states have 65 electoral votes and the Democrats must reclaim nearly all of them if Adlai Stevenson is going to get anywhere in his attempt to reverse the decision in his rematch with Eisenhower Nov. 6. This will be the Democratic governors' first chance since the Chicago convention to check with each other on political sentiment in the unruly and often far from solid South.

MEN IN SERVICE

Staff Sgt. Donald W. Cain, 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron welding shop, Webb Air Force Base, this year received the Certificate of Achievement as an outstanding student in the Metals Technician course at Chanute AFB, Illinois. To receive the certificate a student must lead his class with a T-score of 60 or more. Sergeant Cain's T-score was 64.

The course consisted of identification, heat-treating, electroplating, and destructive and non-destructive testing of metals.

Sergeant Cain was the second Webb student to win this award. Staff Sgt. Edmond M. Reschner of the same shop led a previous class with a score of 62.

Sergeant Cain enlisted in the Air Force in July, 1948 and came to Webb from Hawaii in November, 1952. He and his wife, Katherine, and three children, Michael, 7, Cathy, 4, and David, 2, live at 203-B Benton Street. A fourth child, Richard, 5, now in Hawaii with Mrs. Cain's parents, is expected home soon. Sgt. Cain's father, Charles Cain, lives at 209 Gregg Street.

Joe W. Land, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Land of 409 NW Ninth Street, Big Spring, returned to San Diego, Calif., Sept. 1 aboard the attack cargo ship USS Union after a two-week cruise and visit to Vancouver, B. C.

The Union and the inshore fire support ship USS Carronade carried approximately 135 reserve personnel for their two-week Naval Reserve training cruise.

John F. Westbrook, recent graduate of Big Spring High School, has been ordered to the University of New Mexico as a midshipman in the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Westbrook took part in

Teacher Doesn't Teach, But Still Draws A Salary

DETROIT (AP)—A suburban Hazel Park school teacher who drew a $5,900 salary yet never taught a class last year has started a second year without an assignment—and at a pay raise.

Just as she did every school day last year Mrs. Marveta Hine, 52, of Royal Oak, signs in at school Supt. George R. Robinson's office in the morning and out again in the afternoon. For this she is getting $6,200 this year.

Robinson said Mrs. Hine was taken off class assignment last year because school officials felt she was not qualified. But under teacher tenure, a legal safeguard that protects a teacher's job once a teaching certificate is obtained, she must be given a new contract every year. She cannot be removed arbitrarily because school officials believe her unqualified.

Robinson said court action is pending on the case and comes before the state tenure board Sept. 18.

FLUFFY RUFFLES might well be the name of the formal evening dress to be worn by Mary Ann Nugent in the Fall Style Show at the Big Spring Country Club Thursday at 8:30 p.m. The long bodice, with just a hint of empire styling, is of lustrous blue satin. Folds of blue tulle mark the top of the strapless frock, with the tulle repeated in the row on row of ruffles making the skirt. The fashion parade is sponsored by the Ladies Golf Association each year as one of their annual projects.

Country Club Style Revue Set Thursday

One of the first social events of the fall season in Big Spring is the annual style show presented by the Ladies Golf Association of the Big Spring Country Club.

This year the fashion parade will be presented Thursday at 8:30 p.m., with guests seated around the swimming pool. Tickets are priced at $1.50; they may be obtained from members of the association or by calling Mrs. R. E. McKinney at AM 4-4065.

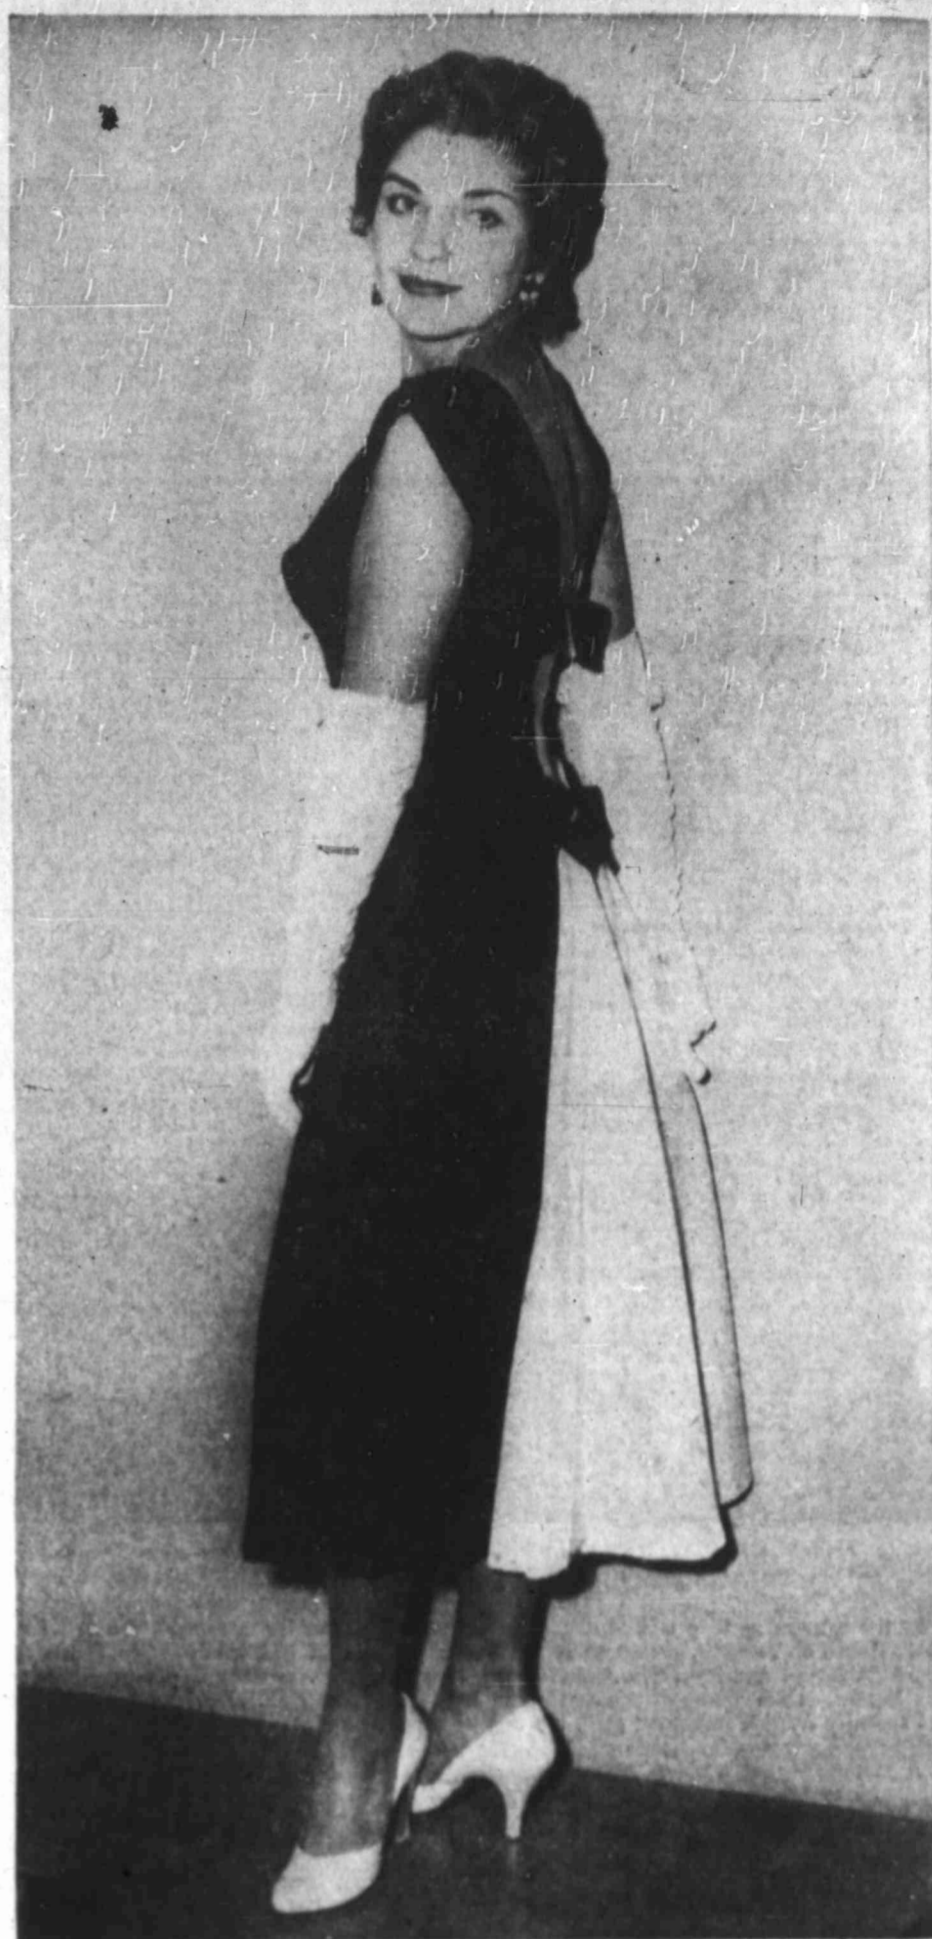

Proceeds from the show will go into the club's fund, from which furnishings are bought. Mrs. R. R. McEwen Jr. is assisting with the financial aspect of the affair.

About 51 models will show fashions for various occasions. Attire will be exhibited by Zack's, with Mrs. Jim Zack serving as commentator, and jewelry shown will be from Lynn's Jewelers.

Mrs. E. L. Powell has arranged for women and girls to wear the costumes; decorations have been under the supervision of Mrs. Doug Orme, Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards and Mrs. Roy Townsend.

At the conclusion of the revue, guests will be served refreshments; these are to be in charge of Mrs. B. D. Pounds and Mrs. Avery Falkner.

SHADES OF 1912! All the elegance of that period is combined with the beautiful lines of today in the cocktail dress to be shown Thursday evening by Mrs. James Duncan. Black velvet forms the high front, with floating panels of white satin in the low-cut back. The black bows, marking the v-neckline and the suggestion of a waistline, are lined with satin. Sponsored by the Ladies Golf Association of the Big Spring Country Club, the Fall Style Show has come to be an annual event in the club's schedule.

TALL BOY PANTS AND TWO SWEATERS combine for the fun separates which make just loafing—and the loafers—so attractive. Turquoise velveteen of the pants matches a stripe in the cardigan sweater, which is worn over a pull-over in white. Bulky knit, the cardigan adds muted gray shades to the blue. Mrs. Peté Harmonson glances through a fashion magazine as she waits during rehearsal of the Fall Style Show scheduled for 8:30 Thursday evening at the Big Spring Country Club.

A KNITTED ENSEMBLE—is the sheath and the coat worn by Mrs. Charles Race. The pale blue of the sheath contrasts delightfully with the smoky beige of the coat, done in the new bulky knit. Deep raglan sleeves can be adjusted in length to show the wristlet type cuffs of the dress. Guests at the Fall Style Show at the Big Spring Country Club will view this and many other enticing fashions Thursday evening. (Photos by Keith McMillin)

ITALIAN-INSPIRED—are the mechanic's "britches" worn by Mrs. Bill French, in a pre-view of the Fall Style Show to be presented at the Big Spring Country Club at 8:30 Thursday evening. Made of black sateen, the casual attire is closed with a diagonal zipper in white. Matching zippers mark the upper pocket and the one holding the "rag for oily hands." (Secret! That's really a filmy white scarf carried in the pocket.)

Presidential Gathering

Caught by the camera as they waited at Cosden Country Club Friday afternoon for the tea honoring Mrs. A. J. House of Yoakum, president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs are Mrs. Louis Stallings, Mrs. House and Mrs. Tip Anderson, left to right. Mrs. Stallings, president of the Junior Woman's Forum, is the youngest president of a local federated club. Mrs. Anderson is president of the most recently formed federated club, the Jubilee Hyperion Club.

Head Of TFWC Visits Local Clubs; Honored At Parties

Women of the local federated clubs gathered at Cosden Country Club Friday afternoon for a tea honoring Mrs. A. J. House of Yoakum, president of the Texas State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Speaking to the group, Mrs. House announced the theme for her year in office as "Abundant Living Through Service." She told her listeners that the happy person is the person who thinks of other people and of the service to be done for them.

Mrs. House announced the Achievement Contest which began Sept. 1 and will run until March 1, 1958. She urged that the clubs enter and strive for cooperation in promoting any project adopted.

The speaker discussed reasons for being a member of a club, namely, to improve one's mind, for the social side, and to serve others. We are better people if we live by ideals of the federation, she said.

Mrs. Joe Pickle, president of the Woman's Forum, was general chairman of the tea, and she introduced four local women who hold state appointments. They are Mrs. Norman Read, chairman of leadership development; Mrs. Leroy Tidwell, hobby chairman; Mrs. Keith Harwood, chairman of community affairs, and Mrs. Obie Bristow, chairman of the state project committee. Also present was Mrs. Howard Hodge of Midland, past president of the federation, and now chairman of public affairs.

Mrs. Read introduced the guest speaker.

Preceding the program, Orland Johnson, music instructor at Howard Junior College, played piano selections. He accompanied Mrs. Don Newsom as she sang "A Romance" by Sigmund Romberg, and "A Maid of Cadiz."

Greeting guests were Mrs. J. P. Dodge and Mrs. H. C. Stipp; in the receiving line were Mrs. Read, Mrs. House, Mrs. Hodge, Mrs. Keith, Mrs. Tidwell and Mrs. Bristow.

Guests were invited to the tea table by Mrs. Marshall Cauley and Mrs. Dan Krause, where Mrs. Clyde Angel and Mrs. John Hill served. They were assisted by Mrs. Louis Stallings, Mrs. Tip Anderson and Mrs. Harold Davis.

Centering the table, covered with a pastel green cloth was an oriental arrangement of bird of paradise in combination with a figurine. Gold fish swam in the crystal container. The centerpiece was in deference to the project of oriental scholarships planned by the president.

The patio at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow was the scene Friday evening for a buffet supper to honor Mrs. House.

The guests gathered at the pool for an hour of visiting before supper. The buffet was lighted with candles in wrought iron candelabra. The foursome tables were centered with hurricane candle holders.

Invocation was given by Mrs. Clyde Angel.

Following the meal, Mrs. House entertained with piano numbers of her own composition. She introduced the "Texas Federation March," which she has composed to observe the 60th anniversary of the state federation.

Other guests in addition to Mrs. House were Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, past state president, Mrs. Harwood Keith, Mrs. Norman Read, Mrs. Leroy Tidwell, Mrs. R. A. Eubank, Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. Marshall Cauley, Mrs. J. P. Dodge, Mrs. Dan Krause, Mrs. H. C. Stipp, Mrs. Clyde Angel, Mrs. Tip Anderson, Mrs. Harold Davis, Mrs. Louis Stallings and Mrs. Joe Pickle.

Another in-honor affair for Mrs. House was given Saturday at 1 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Tidwell.

Mrs. Tidwell was hostess for

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Have you ever noticed how stylish and attractive Big Spring women are? If you weren't at the tea at the Cosden Country Club Friday for Mrs. A. J. House, state federation president, you missed seeing some of the "most."

A young matron who is pretty coming or going is MRS. JAMES DUNCAN. She wore a navy and white polka dot with a most beautiful large white hat. With her was MRS. IKE ROBB who was equally attractive in a light brown fall hat. Her dress was a shade of brown that is a new fall color.

Pretty in a large organdy hat was MRS. BILL ROSSER. Tiny MRS. ROY HUGHES, who has the sharpest dark eyes and dark hair, was becomingly dressed in a black and white checked dress. Her hat was a large black one. She was with MRS. BOB DYER, who wore shades of brown that were definitely her colors.

MRS. HOUSE has a pleasant speaking voice, which is certainly an asset to a woman who must speak as often as she does. She is a charming woman and should have a good response from the club women of Texas. Although she probably doesn't recall it, Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland was a P-T-A speaker at South Ward School here the year after the United Nations was organized, and she had been in New York at a session. I enjoyed her talk immensely. She is a sister of Mrs. John Priddy Sr., of Stanton.

One of the "cutest" additions to local study clubs is MRS. LOUIS STALLINGS... two young women who were at the tea looking pretty in their distinctive two piece dresses were MRS. HAYES STRIPLING, JR. who wore red, and MRS. JOHNNY JOHNSON whose jacket and hat were white.

Mrs. DONALD LESTER wore a beautiful white hat and had her blond hair in a bun. I still can't realize my former little girl neighbor is grown up and married and the mother of a precious little girl who looks just like her.

MRS. TOMMY LUCAS of Houston with her young son is visiting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas.

Back Talk In Hairdos

By VIVIAN BROWN

Hair interest goes to the back of the head.

Every conceivable type of chignon from the tiny Swiss roll variety to the large Danish pastry type is being worn. Short-haired girls merely add hair pieces to accomplish this end. Long-haired girls sweep back the hair and twist it into a little bun to suit their hair length.

One idea is the tinted chignon to match summer clothes and accessories. Mix and match chignons in two-toned tinted hair are the trend. The chignon is worn in a double bun looped and braided in complementary and contrasting colors. Fashion-wise types may choose from 14 hair tints ranging from canary diamond and carotol hues to a gleaming bronze and jet black.

Such combinations as pastel blue and black are chic for summer. Ditto yellow and white. Two shades of green suggest the cool look of limeade.

The interesting point about the return to chignon hair fashions is that it is a spontaneous choice of the girls themselves. There has been no promotion by hairdressers, even though the idea is catching on like wildfire. The new tinted chignon should create even more excitement.

Hair accessories are taking on important airs now that the chignon is wit us again. From the islands come delightful native hair gimmicks. Long Japanese hairpins with jeweled tops that are worn criss-crossed are popular. Hawaiian tourists bring back hair accessories that resemble oversized chopsticks. These are made of wood as well as other materials.

St. Mary's Auxiliary

The first meeting of St. Mary's Auxiliary is scheduled for Monday at 11:30 a.m. when communion will be taken in the church. A sack lunch will be served in the parish house, with Mrs. H. M. Compton as hostess. A business meeting will follow the luncheon.

Luncheon for the state president, the federated club presidents of Big Spring and the local state board members. Mrs. J. Howard Hodge was also present.

Guests were seated at tables in the dining room and in the den. The table in the dining room was covered with a pink cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink nerine.

Triforium was used to fashion the floral centerpiece for the table in the den. It was laid with a cloth of brown linen.

Places were laid for 16.

Robison-Duke Wedding Solemnized In Lubbock

LAMESA — Shirley June Robison became the bride of Lt. William Cordie Duke of Clovis Air Force Base, Clovis, N.M., Thursday evening in a double ring ceremony read in the College Avenue Baptist Church in Lubbock.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Robison of 3803 29th St., Lubbock, formerly of Lamesa, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Irvan O. Duke of Mountain Grove, Mo.

The double ring service was read by the Rev. Abe Hester Jr. before the altar banked by baskets of pink gladioli and emerald foliage with white tapers in branched candelabra.

The program of wedding music was presented by Larry Tonroy, organist, and Mrs. Edwin McAnae who sang, "Walk Hand in Hand with Me," "O, Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore an original gown of white silk Chantilly flounce lace over slipper satin and tulle. It was fashioned with portrait neckline of scalloped lace and full ballerina-length skirt of scalloped lace over satin. Her finger tip veil of imported French illusion was attached to a seed pearl and rhinestone crown tiara. She carried a white orchid nestled in Stephanotis on a white Bible.

The maid of honor was the sister of the bride, Jeanneane Robison of Lubbock. Bridesmaids were Shirley Mullins of Lamesa, Mrs. William J. McKenzie of Kansas City, Mo., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Jamie Robison of Lubbock, sister-in-law of the bride.

The feminine attendants wore identical dresses of carnation pink cotton fashioned with boat neckline, long torso, and full gathered skirts of ballerina length. Their headbands were of white angora, and they carried crescent arrangements of white dody mums.

Best man was Lt. Sai Sung Hong of Clovis Air Force Base. The ushers were Don Edd Robison of Lubbock, and Jerry Cantwell of Clovis; serving as groomsmen were Lt. Paul N. Cohagan and Lt. John N. Brichetto Jr. of Clovis Air Force Base and James Robinson, of Lubbock, brother of the bride.

Cindy Roberts of Lamesa was flower girl, and James Gibson of Lubbock ring bearer.

The wedding reception was held at the church. The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth over pink and held a centerpiece of pink carnations.

Mrs. Jim Prince presided at the guest register, and Mrs. Gaylord Anderson, Lubbock and Mrs. Gerald Roberts of Lamesa were at the serving table. Assisting with the hospitalities were Mrs. A. T. Steward, Mrs. F. B. Tonroy, Mrs. D. C. Lester and Mrs. R. C. Hay.

For a wedding trip to Missouri, the bride chose to travel in a black sheath dress with matching bolero and black and champagne accessories.

Mrs. Duke is a graduate of Lubbock High School and attended Texas Tech. Prior to her marriage she was employed at Texas Tech Library. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Mountain Grove High School, Mountain Grove, Mo.

The couple will make a home at Clovis where Duke is stationed at Clovis Air Force Base.

Two-year-old, Stacia Lei shows her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Hamm, that she too can get the spotlight during the football season. Mr. Hamm is a new coach and teacher at Big Spring Junior High School. The Hamm's have just moved here from Denton, where he received his degree in Physical Education in August from NTSC. Besides his coaching duties, Hamm teaches driver's education at Junior High. His football opener is this Thursday night against Snyder. Little Stacia will be right there cheering Dad's team to victory!

Coach And Family Are New To West Texas

Football season is right around the corner. As a matter of fact, for Hugh W. Hamm it starts Thursday night, when the Big Spring Junior High football team journeys to Snyder for their opening game. Hamm is a new teacher and coach at Junior High.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamm and their two-year-old daughter, Stacia Lei, have just moved to Big Spring, after his August graduation from North Texas State College.

"Looks like we are going to have a pretty good little team," Hamm remarked. "For as much time as he spends with them, he's bound to have," Mrs. Hamm laughed. "I'm just beginning to realize what it's like to be a coach's wife," she added, "not that I don't like it, but I do get lonesome when he doesn't come home 'til late in the evening."

Besides his coaching duties, Hamm teaches driver education. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hamm call Fort Worth their home, and "we even went to rival high schools," Mrs. Hamm joked.

For a young married couple, the Hamm's have already "seen the world," courtesy of the U. S. Air Force. They spent three years in England when he was stationed in Fairford.

"Spring time in England is just gorgeous," Mrs. Hamm recalled, and added that they thoroughly enjoyed their stay over there.

Even little Stacia, who was born in England, will probably remember she was born there, because she automatically has dual citizenship until she is 21. "Anytime she is back in England, before she reaches 21, she will be under the jurisdiction of the Queen," Mrs. Hamm said.

Hamm said. "When she reaches 21, she can apply for English citizenship but can't have both."

Mrs. Hamm is very proud of some of the items she collected while they were in England. "I have a Victrola silver service I bought over there which will be 100 years old in 1960, and I'm quite proud of that," she remarked. Mr. Hamm also bought her a set of Wedgwood china for their first anniversary and they are the proud owners of some elaborate brass wall plaques.

When and if he ever finds time from his busy schedule, Hamm enjoys golfing as his hobby. "This is something he picked up in England," Mrs. Hamm commented, "and he used to ride a bicycle two miles to play over there. I'm still waiting for my first trip to the golf course," Mrs. Hamm laughed.

The Hamm family is residing at 2206 South Monticello.

Make Decorations For Party On Milk Bottle

Tiny tots adore a birthday party from parlor games to birthday cake.

How can little Mary's be different from those of the other youngsters?

One idea involves the trusty old milk bottle, or several of them. A clown of crepe paper is made to go on top of each bottle to delight youngsters who drink chocolate milk or a milk made with crushed strawberries, strawberry syrup or other fruit. Each child may then choose the milk of his choice. Here's how to make the clown bottle topper:

Stretch a piece of white crepe paper over a small rubber ball, tie excess crepe paper at the bottom of the ball for the neck. Stick on gummed stars for eyes, a little disc for the nose and half a circle for the mouth.

A red cone of paper is the hat. Gather a strip, 3 by 18 inches, of bright yellow crepe paper with a needle and thread, lengthwise, through the center and tie under the clown's chin. Make a slip-on jacket for the bottle top from circus red crepe paper 4 in. by 10 in. Paste the seam in back, gather together around top and sew or paste clown's head and ruff to it.

Cut several pieces of bright yellow crepe paper 1 1/2 by 9 inches, gathering it tightly through the center into pom-poms. These will trim the hat, feet and mitts of the clown. Cut large mitts and big flat feet from heavy white paper and tape it to the bottle. Add big blue lawyer's seals for buttons.

Another idea that may be made quickly with a balloon is a cat top for the milk bottle. All you do to create "Felix" is take an ordinary round balloon and add ears and features after it is blown to desired size. Join 2 long pipe cleaners for a tail, wrap them with a 2-inch length of bright blue crepe paper that has been cut into coarse fringe and tape the tail to the back of the bottle.

Fringe two more 3-inch strips of blue crepe paper, gather it along the uncut edge with a needle and thread and draw it into pom-poms. Tape it to front of the bottle for paws. The cat's fluffy neck ruff may be made of two strips of blue and yellow crepe paper gathered into tiny ruffles and placed around the bottle.

Flameproof crepe paper may be used for all decorations and is recommended also for a spillproof decorative table cover. Use a plastic tablecloth or old bed sheet as an underpad, then place red and yellow crepe paper runner fashion

Handbook Of Soils Deals With Helps For Home Gardener

Professor Truog of the University of Wisconsin recommends that home gardeners use compost or other organic matter to promote better physical condition of the soil and then supplement this with commercial fertilizer.

Earthworms are already widely distributed over the country and it is rarely necessary to introduce them artificially in gardens. The secret of increasing earthworm population is to cover your garden with a mulch of organic material each fall, and then rake it off in the spring. Otherwise, most of the earthworms will die in winter.

These are but two of the many soil topics of interest and concern to homeowners to be found in the 80-page "Handbook on Soils," by the professor, the latest in the series of outstanding horticultural handbooks published as a public service by the Botanic Garden. Soil experts at state experimental colleges, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Brooklyn Botanic Garden have contributed chapters covering all phases of soil management.

Included are articles telling how to know when plants need feeding; what is in a fertilizer; what makes a soil "sour" or "sweet" and how to correct acidity with lime.

There is a list of experiment stations of the United States and Canada offering soil testing service, with information for each individual station on how to take soil samples, where to send soil for testing, fees charged if any, etc. How to handle problem soils, building up sandy soils, and how to deal with humus hucksters are of particular interest to all owners of new homes.

The handbook has information on soil conditions, how and with what to fumigate certain soils, and the use of the new slow release fertilizers. Fact is sorted from fancy in articles dealing with the making and proper use of composts, and the value of earthworms in the soil.

Richly illustrated with over 70 photographs and drawings, the soils handbook is available for one dollar from the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, Brooklyn 25, N. Y.

Earbobs Pinch? Try This Kind For Size

Do your earbobs slip, pinch or cut off the circulation in your ears? Or perhaps your earbobs are not long enough to hold the regular style fasteners. If you have trouble of this kind, you will be pleased to know of the new type fasteners on the market.

Earbobs are being made now with a small loop of stiff wire which is anchored at the base of the ear opening. A similar wire at the back of the ear can be adjusted for the comfort of the wearer. You'll forget you have them on, once they are added to your attire.

DUAL ROLE

From Office To Party In This Original Model

Famous American designer Cell Chapman created this dress for women whose lives require them to play a dual role. They work and keep house. Sometimes they must also go direct from office to parties with no time for a change-over at home.

For such occasions, a scarf could be worn with the dress during office hours. Cell Chapman continues to delight and surprise fashion-minded women with her ultra feminine creations for she is expert at draping the figure to enhance its eye appeal.

You'll be pleased with the way this design hugs you in the right places. The original was made in wool crepe but it is excellent in wool or silk jersey, printed silks, sheenings or soft novelty cottons. From this chart select the one size best for you:

Size 10, bust 34, waist 24, hips 35, lgth. from nape of neck to waist, 16 1/2 inches; size 12, bust 35, waist 25, hips 36, length, from nape of neck to waist 16 3/4 inches; size 14, bust 36 1/2, waist 26 1/2, hips 37 1/2, lgth. from nape of neck to waist 17 inches; size 16, bust 38, waist 28, hips 39; lgth. from nape of neck to waist 17 1/2 inches; size 18, bust 40, waist 30, hips 41; lgth.

from nape of neck to waist 17 1/2 inches. Size 12 requires 3 1/4 yards of 54-inch material for dress and 1/2 yard of 39-inch material for lining. # HI--TALK

By CAROL ROGERS

The first assembly of the year was held Tuesday morning as school officially began. Dr. P. D. O'Brien led the invocation and the pledge of allegiance was given. Ronnie King, student body president, introduced Sue Boykin, Valjean LaCroix, Johnny Janak and George Peacock, who gave short talks on the phases of student council work. Principal Roy D. Worley then gave students the names of their guidance teachers and school was under way.

RONNIE KING

Kathy McRee has a very exciting and hard job ahead of her this year. She was selected by the journalism classes as editor of the Corral. Kathy's staff, composed of journalism students, will be selected next week.

The beginning of school brings about the first meeting of the year for the Tri Hi Y and Hi Y clubs. Both clubs have been divided into three separate groups; senior, junior, and sophomore. The first meetings will be held Monday night at the Y and everyone is invited to attend.

Officers of the Senior Hi Y Club met at the home of Jerry McMahan Thursday evening. The boys planned the programs for the first semester and discussed problems of the club.

Officers of the Sophomore and Junior Tri Hi Y Clubs also met last week to plan their programs. The Sophomore girls met at the home of Judy Canible while the Juniors met in the home of Barbara Coffee.

The homemaking classes, sponsored by Nancy Annen and Edna McGregor, gave a party for the faculty Thursday afternoon in the homemaking cottage. Those serving were Donnie Mave, Patsy Potter, Rosalie Ebersole and Bennie Fox.

The FHA clubs will elect officers Friday and the installation will be held in a few weeks. Elaborate plans are being made for the open-air installation which will include a civil defense program. This will be open to the public.

Barbara Coffee's home was the scene of a wiener roast Monday night. The purpose of the party was to "celebrate" the return to amphitheater Friday night. The barbecue, in honor of the 1956 Steer football team, launched the season in good spirit.

As you know, the Steers journey to Andrews Friday night for the first game of the year. Kids, remember there's a twelfth man on the team—the school behind them. Let's all be at Andrews Friday night to see the Steers win their first victory of the season!

Our first Senior-of-the-Week is one of the best-known and well-liked personalities of BSIS, Ronnie King. Because of his smile and friendly personality, Ronnie well deserves the honors he has received during the past years.

Perhaps the highlight of Ronnie's high school career occurred when he was elected as student body president, 1955-57. Ronnie is now serving in that office, and everyone feels sure he will lead the student council to another successful year.

Active in nearly every phase of high school activity, Ronnie is playing his third year of high school football this fall. He had been on the track team two years and will complete his third year this spring.

Last year the junior class selected Ronnie as their candidate for Ranch Week foreman. He is a member of the Key Club, Hi Y, and the Sportsmen, a trio of senior boys. Ronnie was a member of the Spanish Club during his sophomore year and had a leading role in the Follies of 1955.

school. Guests attending were Brenda Gordon, Linda Nickols, Susan Landers, Lynn McMahan, Glen Whittington, Johnny Roy Phillips, Donnie Bryant, Jimmy Simmons, Jerry McMahan, Adrian de Grafenreid, Robert Whittington, Lefty Morris, Wendell Brown, Sammie Sue McComb, Brenda Barr, Whitney Reynolds, Bobby Grant, Prissy Pond, Bettie Guthrie, Gerald Parnell, Sandy Sloan, and Linda Helin.

Something new has been added. BSIS will have a cappella choir this year. Students wishing to be in the choir should meet at 8 o'clock Monday morning in the penthouse.

Superintendent of schools, Floyd W. Parsons, spoke to the students for the first time Friday morning in an assembly. After his speech, a talent show was presented by the student council. Participating in the show were Billy Evans, Robert Stripling, Carolyn Duckett, and Eddie Sweeney.

The student body, led by the cheerleaders sang "Dear Old Big Spring High," and following tradition the seniors left the auditorium before the lower classes.

The Quarterback Club pre-season barbecue was held at the

Lamesa Sorority Chapters Meet; Plan Style Show

LAMESA—Members of the Lambda Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce Building and elected a new president, Mrs. Bruce Moore. Mrs. Herbert Martin was elected corresponding secretary.

Plans were made to have the fall style show as an annual affair. Rush parties which will start in two weeks were planned. Twelve members attended.

The Lambda Epsilon Chapter met Thursday evening in the home of Arlie Moore and heard Mrs. Homer Beal discuss "Orations." During the business meeting, the district session, which will meet in Lamesa in October was discussed. Eight members attended.

Mrs. David Aynes was hostess for the Iota Kappa Chapter meeting held Thursday evening. Mrs. Flora Barnard presented the program on the "Meaning of Happiness" which followed the year's theme of Happiness. About 15 attended.

Nostalgic Note Carried In New Etiquette Book

By DOROTHY ROE
I have come across a quaint nostalgic note in a brand new book, "Etiquette and Protocol," by I. Monte Radlovic, a former London newspaperman of international experience, who writes:

"Your relationship with your own household staff should be marked by extreme consideration for their needs."

The inevitable question that will arise from the average American reader is:

"What household staff?"

Mr. Radlovic, while undoubtedly well acquainted with correct social amenities in the higher international echelons, apparently has not tried recently to hire a maid, general housekeeper or occasional cleaning woman through a New York employment agency. I have. The most recent conversation went something like this:

Maid: "Of course I must have weekends off. You don't expect me to serve breakfast on Friday, do you? I like to get an early start."

Me: "Well, of course we want you to be happy. I guess we don't need breakfast on Fridays."

Maid: "You say there's a radio in my room. Do you mean no TV?"

Me: "Well, you can use the family TV set when we are not at home. There's nobody at home all day, you know."

Maid: "But what am I supposed to do when you all are at home?"

Me: "Well, I had in mind that you might serve dinner and little things like that."

Maid: "That's another thing. I hope you don't plan to do any entertaining. If there are more than four at table I must have help."

Me: "Oh we'll take our guests out to dinner."

Maid: "No laundry, of course. Light cleaning only. And I hope you're not one of those families who sit around and have cocktails for an hour before dinner. I like to serve dinner at 7 p.m. sharp."

Me: "But what if we are delayed and don't get home until 7:30 or 8:00?"

Maid: "No consideration. That's the trouble with people these days."

Me: "You realize that we live outside the city, and have an hour's trip coming home, don't you?"

Maid: "An hour from town? Why didn't you say so? Why, I couldn't even go to the movies at night! I'm sorry, ma'am, but I just don't think you'll do."

This, I believe, is a conversation fairly typical throughout the country these days. The maid interviews the prospective employer—not vice versa. And the weary housewife who finally snarcs one of these jewels feels so flattered at having been accepted that she doesn't dare complain if the soup is cold, the meat burned or the furniture dusty.

After struggling with such delicate problems for some 15 years, I, for one, heaved a sigh of relief when the time came that the children didn't need a full-time babysitter any more.

I've found it's wonderful to be able to have dinner whenever we happen to want it; to be able to dust the piano or polish the silver without hurting the feelings of a sensitive domestic who forgot to do it; and not to have to eat burned potatoes when the maid serves them with the beaming announcement:

"This is the latest thing at the Stork Club. They're called 'Black Hat Potatoes!'"

Me: "You realize that we live outside the city, and have an hour's trip coming home, don't you?"

Maid: "An hour from town? Why didn't you say so? Why, I couldn't even go to the movies at night! I'm sorry, ma'am, but I just don't think you'll do."

This, I believe, is a conversa-

Girls Love Storm Coats

Every girl in America, it seems, wants a storm coat this year, if she doesn't already have one.

This versatile knockabout coat has become practically a stormy weather uniform for everyone from college girls to suburban housewives. The favorite color is beige, the favorite style hooded and the favorite silhouette straight and roomy, with no nonsense.

The storm coat is worn when the weather is too threatening for mink, or when the occasion demands the casual look. Lined in alpaca pile, it usually is water-repellant cotton poplin or other close woven fabric on the outside, made to stand the gaff.

The current rage for sports cars has boomed the popularity of the hooded storm coat even further. And the pet style of the season is the coat with a huge convertible collar which can be worn as a hood or in a dozen different ways—for the girl who craves change.

Cynthia Collins Repeats Vows With Norman Burr Furlong Jr.

MRS. NORMAN BURR FURLONG JR.

In a formal double ring ceremony Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Atlanta, Ga., Cynthia Lynelle Collins, Apex, N. C., and Norman Burr Furlong Jr., Dayton, Ohio, exchanged wedding vows.

Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Tillman Collins, Apex, N. C., and Dr. and Mrs. Norman Burr Furlong, 604 W. 15th, Big Spring.

The ceremony was performed in the Little Chapel of Glenn Memorial Church by the bride's father. The couple repeated vows before an altar decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Bayne Smith, Atlanta, presented the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, John Newton Collins, wore a gown of white bridal satin.

The dress was styled on princess lines with a portrait neckline embroidered with rows of seed pearls in a tiny leaf design. The long sleeves extended to points over her hands and the full length skirt extended into a chapel train.

BRIDAL VEIL

The heirloom veil was of hand-wrought Brussels lace over silk illusion and fell in soft folds to finger tip length. It was a gift from the bridegroom.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of snow white roses and ivy, tied with white satin ribbons.

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. James N. Cather, Atlanta. She wore a waltz length gown of aqua lace over taffeta and carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with yellow roses. Her headband was of yellow roses and she wore white accessories.

Susan Warren Beatty, Atlanta, was flower girl. She wore a formal length dress of white nylon tulle over taffeta and carried a basket of yellow rose petals. C. Stanley Scarborough, Greenwood, Miss., was best man. Ushers were Richard W. Furlong, St. Louis, Mo., and James W. Furlong, Miami, Fla., brothers of the bridegroom. Others were Daniel D. Clinton, Houston, and James B. Cook, Detroit, Mich.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Platt. Receiving the guests were the bride couple, the matron of honor and parents of the couple.

Decorations throughout the house were yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The bride's table was decorated with clematis and ivy and arrangements of yellow roses. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with cascades of white roses.

Serving was done by Mrs. Alvin Beatty and Mrs. James Cook, sister of the bridegroom. Ann Wilkin was in charge of the register.

She Improved Herself

Beautiful Anita Ekberg, Sweden's contribution to Hollywood, tells how she overcame a feeling of being unattractive. Her philosophy of life and beauty can be summed up in the simple statement, "where there's a will there's a way." Anita will soon be seen in Paramount's "War and Peace."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Anita Ekberg's Hints On Being Attractive

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD — "Charm is another word for 'practicing the Golden Rule,'" Anita Ekberg told me when I visited her at Paramount, for whom she made "War and Peace." "It can be developed by anyone," Anita remarked. "I know this from my own experience."
 "As a child I was very shy and unsure. I had six brothers and one sister who were all very handsome."
 "And weren't you?" I asked this beauty from Sweden.
 "I was tall for my age, skinny and hated school so I didn't study, and because I got poor grades my family kept telling me I was stupid. This made me unhappy, awkward and uncomfortable around people."
 "When did the transformation take place?" I wanted to know.
 "You are so poised and easy to talk with."
 "I believe if you want something hard enough and if you are determined to get it, you will. One day I decided I would become attractive. I enrolled in modeling school. This was a fine decision because it gave me the confidence I needed. Soon I began to feel attractive and people began telling me I was. When I look back on the change I realize it was more mental than physical."
 "Shyness can be overcome by making yourself well-informed and by developing various interests, so that when you meet people you can carry on an intelligent conversation. You don't have to be brilliant to know what's going on in the world and to have opinions worth listening to."
 "It is helpful to know about clothes and how to dress," Anita continued. "There are two important rules to remember. One is to be careful in your grooming so that you are always clean, fresh and neat. The most expensive dress in the world would not be attractive if it needed cleaning. And the second point is not to copy anyone. Be yourself and be individual."
 "Don't feel you have to wear the latest trends in fashion just because they're new. Buy clothes that are basically simple, for simplicity never goes out of style quickly. I can attract attention anytime in a black sheath. And I can change my accessories easily to make the dress look entirely different each time I wear it."
 "When I first started my career I couldn't afford to buy the kind of clothes I wanted, so I bought a sewing machine and made my own. I have cut out a dress, sewn and worn it the same day and received compliments, too."
 Anita has no patience with self-pity. "Where there's a will there's always a way."
 We chatted about the part one's coiffure plays in making a woman attractive.
 "I like the independence of doing my own hair. If a last-minute invitation comes up, I am not worried if I can't get an appointment in the beauty salon. And when I have someone do my hair, I choose a style that I can take care of myself that is also becoming."
 "The way you carry yourself is important," Anita stressed. She is quite tall but never has a tendency to slump. "At modeling school they were strict about posture. And in order to develop fluid movements, I was trained to walk with a glass of water on my head and not spill a drop."
 The conversation turned to figures.
 "I have a big appetite," Anita confessed, "but I have no weight problem because fortunately I don't like starches. I could go forever without bread, cake and desserts, and it is amazing how much you can eat if you leave out carbohydrates."
 "I don't like a figure that is too thin," Anita commented. "I don't think men do either. You can ruin your health and your looks by dieting too strictly. If your body needs something you'll have a craving for it, and no matter how fattening the food may be you should eat enough of it to satisfy the craving."

THE GLAMOROUS YOU
 Every girl can have sex appeal if she follows the basic rules of glamour. These rules fall into three different classes—mental side, physical side and material—economic side—and each should be met to obtain the complete picture. Leaflet M-45, "Rules for Glamour," makes the job a simple one. Included are routines to benefit women of all ages. Send 5 cents AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope for your copy of M-45 to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Mary Sue Hale

The past week has been but a stage on which a gigantic amount of frantic, last minute activity has been produced for the departing college students. With promises of communication—via letters and visits—goodbys were said to both friends and families of the departing scholars. Quite a few local young people have already pulled up stakes for college, and a major percentage will be completing last minute preparations this week.
 Morning parties, picnics, and dinner parties have been liberally sprinkled throughout the week, honoring members of this age group.
 Marie Hall, honoring Sue Conley from Madrid, Spain, was hostess to a group of girls Monday morning. Attending were Kenda McGibbon, Nancy Pitman, Peggy and Janet Hogan, Margaret Fryar, Sally Cowper, Frances Reagan and Mary Sue Hale.
 Playing host to a number of his friends Tuesday night was David Dibrell, for a dinner-theatre party. After the meal, the boys attended a movie.
 The last meeting of the Birthday Club, before members departed for college, was held Tuesday night with a dinner party in Midland. Attending were members of the club, Tommie Williamson, Marlene Mann, Kenda McGibbon, Frances Reagan, Sally Cowper, China Carroll, Bettie Anderson, Margaret Fryar, Mary Sue Hale, and two guests, Sue Conley and Marilyn Morris.
 Another party with this same theme was given by Julie Rainwater, Sally Cowper and Frances Reagan Friday morning in Julie's home. Sue Wheat, Maxine Rosson, Carolyn Miller, Iris Jones, Glenna Coffey, Sheila Sutphen, Clara Freeman, LaVelle Wasson, and Mari-Lou Stagg were a few of the 30 girls who attended.
 New freshmen at HCJC were given a preview of campus life Wednesday and Thursday as they gathered in the college auditorium these two days for orientation. As from a general faculty meeting, faculty conferences, and committee meetings, freshman orientation was the first official student gathering on the college campus this fall.
 After the orientation exams were completed, freshmen were dismissed until Sept. 10 and 11, when registration of students is scheduled to be held. Hours for this are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., both days.
 Freshmen who failed to be present on Wednesday and Thursday for the orientation will be given the opportunity to take these exams at a later date.

 HCJC Dean Ben Johnson, announced that the first social would be held Thursday during the activity period at 9:25 a.m.
 Perhaps one of the last of the gatherings honoring students soon to leave for college was the one given Friday evening by Mrs. Nell Frazier, at which Marie Hall was honored. The occasion was a backyard supper and was attended by a number of local college-bound young people including Nancy Smith, Charlie Rose; Kenda McGibbon, Charles Webb; Tommie Williamson, Frank Hunt; Sue Conley, Robert Angel; Marie, and Wade Simpson.
 Maxine Rosson is presently en route to Sacramento, Calif., accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rosson. Not a late vacation of anything of that type.

Maxine assured her friends this past week that this was "for real." Living with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Arcand, Max will work in Sacramento.

Old Clothes Bring Surprise For Finders

ROGERS, Ark. (AP)—When Mrs. Emma Jackson and six other church women began sorting the effects of a woman who willed her possessions to the Central Baptist Church, they did not pay too much attention to one bundle of old clothing.
 However, Mrs. Jackson finally got around to the bundle and opened it.
 Out fell $4,000 in cash. Further search turned up another $2,996 hidden in some trunks. The money apparently was left by the late Mrs. Ollie Graham. It was turned over to the church.

Still Short

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (AP)—Despite an increased number of graduates from Memorial University another teacher shortage is predicted for next year in Newfoundland, because of the increase in pupils. Of 3,000 teachers in Newfoundland schools now less than 50 per cent are fully qualified.

Fruit Stains
 Fruit stains are a nuisance and stains such as orange juice and peach juice are almost impossible to remove when old except with a chlorine bleach. Pour boiling water from a height of 2 to 3 feet through the stain. Repeat if necessary. Launder. If that fails the bleach must be resorted to.

Representatives of the three groups concerned in the 1956 observance of Kids' Day are shown here at a "kick-off" conference. Left to right: J. A. Kids' Day is sponsored jointly by Kiwanis International and the Air Force.

No Slump Noted In Habits Of County Library Patrons

Book reading in Big Spring continues apace and neither vacation activities nor summer heat slowed down the hunger that local folk have for reading.

During August, the Howard County Free Library in the courthouse issued 7,003 books to patrons. Since the library total volume list includes only 13,048, it is obvious that a majority of the books on the stacks are getting a good workout at the hands of the public. It is regarded by observers as a remarkably heavy demand for books when a library's circulation for a single month equals one-half of its total number of volumes.

Actually, of course, the 7,000 books included many which were worked over time — popular novels and non-fiction which everyone currently wants to read.

Circulation of books in the library for the summer months — May through August — was 25,319. This compares with 25,206 for the same months in 1955. During August, 267 new books were added to the shelves and there were eight volumes donated to the library. Fines for the month, paid by book borrowers who were slow in returning their books, totaled $91.50.

Regiment Cited In Welfare Work

HONOLULU (AP)—Japanese Consul General Masahide Kanayama yesterday presented the 27th Infantry "Wolfhound" regiment with a large silver punchbowl from the people of Osaka prefecture in gratitude for the soldiers' assistance at the Holy Family Orphanage.

Since 1949, the regiment donated $215,000. The regimental band played Kimigayo honoring Kanayama and then the Star Spangled Banner.

Kiwanians Mapping Big Show For Kids' Day Here Sept. 22

"Kids' Day for Big Spring youngsters will be Saturday, Sept. 22. This annual event is nationally sponsored by Kiwanis International and the United States Air Force. Locally it is one of the major annual activities of the Big Spring Kiwanis Club. Sole object of the day in Big Spring and over the nation is to pay recognition to the younger citizens of the city and of the nation.

Thursday, the Big Spring Kiwanians devoted their entire time at their regular meeting to discussion of plans for this major fall event. Committees to handle details for the all-day and all-evening celebration were announced and Bob Heine, chairman of the whole show, outlined in general the highlights as now planned for the occasion.

Features will include a free movie in the forenoon; a visit to the air base in the afternoon and a night program at the football stadium where the 1956 Kids' Day queen will be crowned and a football game played.

Refreshments of some type or other will be served. The whole enterprise — forenoon, afternoon and evening — is open to all boys and girls of the Big Spring area and every effort will be made to make them feel that this is truly their day.

Tentative arrangements call for a movie at the Ritz Theatre with a film program designed to please their age group as the opening event. If there are more youngsters than the theatre can handle, overflow will be moved to the State Theatre.

In the afternoon, the boys and girls will be taken to the Webb Air Force Base. All details of what is in store for them there have not been completed but present arrangements call for static display of aircraft and aircraft equipment, a demonstration in fire control; special antics by a helicopter and a moving picture show in one of the hangars. Capt. Allan R. Robertson, information officer at the base, is cooperating with the Kiwanis in this part of the program.

Details of the evening show are still in the process of being worked out but it is definitely planned to crown the queen of the day as one feature. The football game will be staged if arrangements can be made. It is possible that refreshments will be served to the youngsters at this session. Other features are to be developed as the day nears.

Committee assignments: Out of town Kids — Chairman, Jack Alexander; co-chairmen, Bob Heine and Wendall Parks. Publicity — Sam Blackburn, Jack Alexander, Harve Clay, and Ben Ferrell. Theatre — Herb Whitney, chairman; Jack Alexander, Elmer Boatler, Ray Broussard, C. A. Dahse, R. M. Heine, Wendall Parks, Horace Reagan and Robert Stripling. Webb Air Force Base show —

A Little Bracing Makes Building Wind Resistant

COLLEGE STATION — Winds of hurricane force every year hit some section of the state and usually leave behind many wrecked farm buildings. While it is not practical to make farm buildings strong enough to resist the full force of tornadoes, W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer, says the cost of making new or existing buildings strong enough to resist winds of hurricane force isn't great.

To safeguard buildings against strong winds, be sure the foundations are heavy and deep enough to resist overturning and lifting. The superstructure should be anchored securely to the foundation. All joints between framing members should be braced to resist horizontal pressure and suction. In all cases, good materials and workmanship are essential, points out Allen. He also advises the use of preventives against decay and termites.

During stress from heavy winds, building failures tend to occur at the weakest points, which are likely to be at joints. Proper nailing of frame members is essential and can materially affect the way a structure stands up against the wind.

Problem Of School Traffic

The start of school always focuses attention upon many problems, and perhaps traffic is no exception.

Practically every school in town has its peculiar problems, but three of the most pressing are senior high, junior high and Washington Place. Of course, these three schools have by far the greatest numbers of pupils.

Consider the case of junior high school. Enrollment at the end of the first week stood at 1,211, an increase of more than 14 per cent over last year. We have no doubt that this increased the amount of traffic around the school in the same or in a greater ratio.

Senior high school had 705 in school at the end of the first week, which was only a three per cent increase. But here the problem is aggravated because more boys and girls of high school age are given the privilege of automobiles. Many are not the type to drive a car into parking and leave it there; instead they like to drag the campus as often as time allows. Naturally the traffic count is increased.

Washington Place school, second only to junior high in number, has 733 youngsters enrolled. Because of the distance involved, hundreds of these children are transported to school, thus creating a heavy traffic congestion. Firemen at the new station at Birdwell Lane and Eleventh Place are performing a mighty fine service by patrolling the five-way intersection at that point. This is an unusually dangerous crossing because of the five approaches and because of the heavy volume of traffic moving along Eleventh Place and Birdwell Lane, both of them key arteries in the city's street system. Thus, firemen are making a volunteer contribution at noon and in the afternoons that ought not to go unrecognized. It is going a long way toward solving the problems near the Washington Place school.

The worst situations thus are around senior and junior high. One of the most distressing developments at high school is the practice of drivers cutting to the left to reach parking spaces or the driveways in front of the main building and the gymnasium. Sometimes traffic is stacked up two or three blocks away because someone insists on cutting across traffic. Perhaps such a simple thing as no left turns, particularly going east, might help smooth the flow of cars. This street should have been widened at the time the high school was located there, but it wasn't and now we are paying some of the penalties for failure to do this.

Traffic around junior high is frightening. Compounding the hazards is the practice of young people in wandering across the streets at all points as though they were their exclusive property. They seem actually to dare drivers to move at the risk of touching them. Then there are the few who drive (possibly many without licenses) and the high school youngsters who like to thread around the junior high campus for the sport of it. Mix these with cars driven by hundreds of parents and you have a breath-taking condition.

What can be done about it? Well, we certainly don't know the answer, but it is a fit topic for considerable and immediate study. The wonder of it all to us is that someone is not hurt daily.

Polls, Peace And Prosperity

WASHINGTON—Everybody seems to be taking polls nowadays, including the University psychologist who is asking 150 people what they dislike about a candidate and plans to offer the result as a sample of public opinion.

The latest polls to get into the news were taken in and around Minneapolis. A newspaper poll showed Eisenhower and Stevenson splitting about evenly in Minnesota, but now the results of secret balloting behind the canopy of a voting machine at the Minnesota State Fair a few days before and on Labor Day have been disclosed. There were two machines at the fair, and the League of Women Voters had representatives present to teach the visitors how to use the machines and also to monitor the operation. About 19,000 persons voted in the machine booths. This is how it came out on the presidential voting:

For Eisenhower, 12,555.

For Stevenson, 6,582.

On the gubernatorial race, Nelson, the Republican got 11,320, and Freeman, the Democrat, 6,590.

This is so sharply different from the newspaper poll which showed Stevenson and Eisenhower running evenly that it probably will occasion a good deal of comment on the value of polls.

Most people do not realize that there never has been a comprehensive state-by-state poll taken in a presidential election. The reason is that it costs too much. Most of the so-called nation-wide polls are sectional or regional. Yet everyone who knows that a few votes in one state can tip the scales and give the entire electoral vote of that state to one candidate or the other can appreciate how little value sectional or regional percentages are in a close election.

There is some criticism today of polls on the ground that they take too small a sample or else that they admit a possible margin of error, which, of course, upsets all pre-election surveys if there is a close contest.

More perhaps is to be learned in advance of election day about the thinking of the electorate if the issues themselves are surveyed. But even these are difficult to express in question form. Thus, there is a lot of conversation nowadays about the "peace" issue or the "prosperity" issue. Some political neophytes are still talking about the word "peace" as if this by itself epitomizes the problem in the minds of the voters. Some of the Democratic spokesmen, including Messrs. Stevenson and Truman, are asking if there is really "peace" at present—as if the issue could be simplified that way.

The "peace" issue covers a lot of things, and among the highbrow debaters it is called "foreign policy." But voters who do not keep too closely informed about current affairs wouldn't know what you meant if you asked whether they approved of the administration's "foreign policy." If, on the other hand, you asked a housewife whether she wanted her boy drafted and sent to war, you would get a direct answer and a complete understanding of what is really meant by the "peace" issue.

Mrs. Stevenson is beginning to catch on to the importance of dissecting the "peace" issue. He made a speech the other day promising to end the draft at the earliest possible moment consistent with the national safety. To the average voter, it's a question of whether the boy is going to be drafted for military service and whether a war is coming.

The same careful selection of words is necessary in canvassing sentiment on the "prosperity" issue. Many voters don't know exactly what is meant by the word "prosperity." But they do know what it means when you ask them if "times are good" and if they are getting good wages.

For purposes of condensation, such slogans as "peace and prosperity" are used by the politicians and their speech writers, but they will discover that these same slogans have to be explained. The crux of the present campaign for the Republicans is how to remind the voters generally of their satisfactory situation in a material sense and how to persuade them that it's risky to change, while the Democrats have to argue that times are likely to be better if they get in. The paramount problem is related to the wage envelope of the individual and keeping the sons and husbands out of war.

Meter Of Times

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (U.S.)—Times have changed in this southwestern Ohio community, and the boys at the city water works have a unique barometer to prove that statement.

At times the old pumps get going like mad and the boys began to draw conclusions of their own about the local citizenry. Some of the conclusions:

Housewives now like Tuesday almost as much as Monday for washday.

Saturday afternoon is about as popular as Saturday night for the weekly bath.

You can even tell when a popular television program is on, the boys note. The water draw goes down while the program's on and surges back up when it signs off.

Double Trouble

TUCSON, Ariz. (U.S.)—A 29-year-old Tucson man was fined $100 and given a suspended sentence of 10 days on a drunk driving charge. He agreed to pay the fine in installments.

He was back in jail after a short time. Two of the checks bounced.

Fight Fire With Fire

HELENA, Mont. (U.S.)—Military Police of the Montana National Guard were forced to go through an unscheduled gas warfare drill. A family of skunks was found under their barracks. The guardsmen routed the skunks with tear gas.

Early Winner

WABASH, Ind. (U.S.)—Police who raided a blackjack game outside a factory here said a 9-year-old, tobacco-c chewing lad was taking four other young players "to the cleaners" at one cent a game.

Demand For Credit Keeps Pressures High

Karl R. Bopp, vice president and chief economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, was getting in the last words in his course on money and banking at the School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin. His 300 students were experienced bankers—some in shorts and all in the tiestie attire for summer school. They were getting set for the bell, as students of all ages do. They averaged 45, perhaps 50 years old. Some were as young as 25. Others were in their 60's. Evidence that neither age nor youth is a bar to a refresher course.

"Before we conclude," Bopp said, "I'd like to ask a question."

bicker over paying his bank an extra one-half of one per cent interest. The rate doesn't affect short-term demand. The interest rate is not quick-acting. It's delayed in its effect, like a thermostat for a hot water heating system.

First, the furnace goes on. Then the water must heat up. Then the hot water must be circulated throughout the system to warm the radiators. The radiators then must warm up the air. Then, when the air is warmed, it reacts on the thermostat and shuts down the furnace.

So it is with interest rates. The cause-and-effect is never precise

I've been talking about what has happened in the past. Now I'd like you to tell me, from your experience as bankers, what's likely to happen in the future. Your answer will help me when I get back to my job at the Federal Reserve. Do you see any letup in this terrific demand for credit? Those who do please raise their hands."

Two years ago, it was common to say, "Banks have money running out of their ears." Then, banks looked for borrowers. Today, those same banks have would-be borrowers running out of their doors, miffed and money-hungry.

Each refusal of a loan causes the customer to rush off to another bank, or a finance company, or an investment banker. Higher interest rates don't curb demand for bank credit. Which is normal.

Today, the manufacturer who has orders to fill in a hurry doesn't or sure-gauged. We do know that when President Eisenhower took office, prices were rising, prosperity was spreading feverishly all over the U. S. except on the farm, and the Federal Reserve and the Treasury both united to stretch out prosperity by curbing credit. The thermostat, which had been calling for heat, suddenly got enough heat and industrial furnaces turned down. That was the recession of 1954.

Thereupon, the Federal Reserve Board turned the control the other way. Interest rates declined, bankers made free with their loans. Result: Business men were encouraged to expand. Further result: The record volume of plant and equipment expenditure today.

Tight money is having its financial impact right now. It has hit home-buyers, who have to pay higher rates of interest on mortgages. It has hit real estate men and builders who find it tougher to get financing. It has hit banks, which are short of funds and must borrow from the Federal Reserve System to take care of customers (see chart) at rising interest rates. It has hit speculators who can't get cheap money to put in stocks and bonds. It has hit preferred stocks. On Wednesday, for instance, 22 of the 34 stocks that made new lows were preferreds. It has sent nearly all U. S. Treasury bonds below par.

There's an old saying: "The Reserve Board always gets its market," meaning that eventually, if it keeps the pressure on too long, business is hurt and so is Wall Street. The art of monetary control is turning the thermostat on and off at just the right time—always remembering the delayed action, the consequences that occur six, nine, 12 and more months off. A trying art!

What the administration and the Federal Reserve must now bear in mind is that the financing that can't be arranged today will have its economic impact a year or two hence, say just before and just after September, 1957.

Projects which are put off now, because money is too dear, won't get started then. That's when the money squeeze, a decline in plant and equipment expenditures, could tip off a recession. It's a contingency the federal government, operating under the Employment Act of 1946, must be prepared for. But, they are today, it's a contingency which must be risked.

Physical Lack No Criterion In Military Life

LONDON (U.S.)—A British doctor contends a man need not be physically in top shape to make a first class fighting man.

Writing in the Practitioner, an authoritative British medical journal, Dr. H. J. C. L'Etang recalls that President Eisenhower as a cadet at West Point, suffered a knee injury, and a medical board questioned whether to commission him.

In World War II, Gen. Troy Middleton, commanding the American 8th Corps, suffered from arthritis of the knee. Dr. L'Etang quotes Gen. George C. Marshall as saying:

"I would rather have a general with arthritis of the knee than arthritis of the head."

Citing examples from World War II and all the way back to the American Civil War, Dr. L'Etang says:

"Should not the doctor, before he rejects a man for military service, ask himself whether he is rejecting a man who has it in his power to serve his country and even to shape world events?"

Wandering Stone

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U.S.)—Someone put a tombstone in the yard behind the house of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Key.

The couple considered it a practical joke at first, but decided it must have been a delivery to the wrong address because it had been taken all the way to the rear of the house. They found no identification that would help them return it.

So they decided to ignore it on the old theory that if you close your eyes to something long enough it will go away.

A few days later the tombstone did just that, vanishing as mysteriously as it had appeared.

Entering The Jet Age—A Bit Hesitantly

Well, let's get on into the jet age. I'm about ready.

Another ride in a jet trainer has put me in this self-classified position. This wasn't just one of those orientation hops, either, but a straight-away journey up to Oklahoma City, where all the aircraft development up to date was on spectacular display at the National Air Show last weekend.

It might be said that the military is already well into the jet age, even if the civilian populace is not. Aircraft of exciting design, and of all sizes, were on display in Oklahoma City. In the fighter range, they were needle-nose shapes, "Coke bottle" form, swept-back wings, delta wings, and practically no wings at all. In the bombers, they are getting bigger and faster and bigger and faster.

The Navy publicly unveiled its Chance-Vought Crusader, the F8U-1, which claimed the famous Thompson Trophy with a clocked speed of 1,015-plus miles per hour. This compares with the 194 miles per hour established in the first Thompson Trophy event in 1929.

But here was the Air Force at Oklahoma City, looking down its nose a bit at the Navy, since it put on display its F-104, which the gossip says will do 1,400 miles per hour without straining very hard, and the word was that the pilot of the F-104 had a hard time to keep from cracking the sonic barrier while limbing.

The skies over the Will Rogers Memorial Airfield were filled with these zipping planes, cracking through the sound barrier and touching off the booms, to keep you aware that the aeronautical science boys are not asleep.

Where the speed limit is, nobody seems to know, and apparently it is defined only by what a poor mortal can stand.

Which might make this T-33 flight I made, through courtesy of Col. C. M. Young at Webb, seem like tame stuff.

This is owing to your viewpoint, and the fact that we slipped up to Oke City from Big Spring in about 50 minutes—without trying very hard—will serve my purposes, at least until I get in a big hurry.

Matter of fact, a yoke passenger in a jet plane, taking off from Webb, has time to do no more than take one gasp through the oxygen mask and make one frantic pull at the safety-belt catch until he looks down on Lake Thomas. And by the time he has squirmed around in that parachute harness, and got his head turned to look out the other side, Haskell is off to the right. If he kept alert, he could see the Red River snaking across the countryside, seemingly for hundreds of miles, and it's no more out of sight than here is the Canadian, wiggling across Oklahoma. Then it would be time to think about coming in for a landing at Tinker Field.

This second jet ride of mine, which does not quite put me in the veteran class, at least was approached without the trembling that occurred the first time. The Colonel seemed to know what he was doing all the time, so why should I get excited? The first trip up, all I could think of was where to jerk the levers to catapult myself out of that greenhouse. The second time out, I knew right where the levers were, and could look around the cockpit a bit.

I never did deduce what all the dials and buttons, and lights and switches were for, although all the fliers at Webb, from Colonel Young on down, are mighty helpful and patient in describing these things.

I did try to throw in a radio switch, to listen to the guiding beams, and only succeeding in cutting off the plane intercom. From then on, I felt it was the better part of discretion to let the Colonel do the flying, and I would do the looking. Honest, I didn't touch nothing.

Next time, though, I might attack those controls. As I say, it's about time we got ready for the jet age.

—BOB WHIPKEY

Our Role As Mediator In Suez Issue

The Suez affair has found the United States working its way towards the position of a mediator rather than that of wholehearted partisan of Great Britain and France. To some British and French this will seem like a kind of desertion, indeed as presaging the breakup of the alliance. They will be wrong. The United States is playing the same kind of role in Suez which Britain has played in Formosa, Indochina, even in Korea—that of a friendly mediator who intervenes to prevent the war party from getting the upper hand.

There are small circles of Americans who think that it would have been better if Korea or Formosa or Indochina had ended in a show-down with Red China, that it was an historic and catastrophic mistake not to inflict a crushing defeat on Red China before it had time to become a great industrial and military power. They blame the British government for restraining our movement towards war. But the overwhelming majority of Americans are grateful that war was averted, and insofar as they know the story of these affairs, they are grateful to Lord Attlee and to Sir Anthony Eden for the conciliatory part they played.

The Atlantic alliance is a partnership against military aggression into the great basin of the Atlantic Ocean. The partnership has been tested in two world wars and now, due to the experience of these wars and to the treaty which registered that experience, the alliance cannot seriously be doubted. But the alliance has never meant, it could never have meant, that there was identity of interest and of policy in all quarters of the globe.

In the region of the Pacific, roughly speaking north of the equator, the United States has interests which it deems vital whereas Great Britain does not.

In the Middle East, the interests of Great Britain in terms of the oil and of the canal, not to speak of prestige, are truly vital whereas American interests are not.

In the last analysis, that is why Britain is playing a mediating role in the Pacific between China and the United States, while the United States is playing a mediating role in the Middle East between Britain and Col. Nasser.

When Great Britain, acting within the alliance, exerted its influence to restrain the United States from bombing Manchuria in the Korean War, from intervening at Dien-Bien Phu in the Indochinese war, from going too far in Formosa, Britain was not opposing the United States. In all these instances American opinion was divided, and official Washington was sharply divided. The British stand did much, it may have been decisive, to insure the victory of the moderates.

Britain has no reason to apologize for the role she has played in the Far East, to avert war. Nor have we any reason to apologize for what we are attempting to do about Suez in the Middle East.

In the Far East this leaves us with the prospect of having to co-exist somehow with a China, more powerful than any China has ever been, that is unfriendly to us, and determined to oust American power and influence from Eastern Asia and the islands of the far Pacific. In the Middle East we are faced with the prospect of a pan-Arab movement, organized from Egypt, financed by the oil-bearing Arab kingdom, backed by the Soviet Union, and commanding the moral support of nearly all of Asia and most of Africa.

There is no way of reversing these prospects by military action. The British see that this is true in the Far East. We see that it is true in the Middle East. For we are dealing with the revolutionary movement of enormous masses of mankind.

Some day and somehow the Atlantic nations and the liberated nations will have to come to a new understanding and into a new relationship. For the sun is setting in an epoch which began after the voyages of the great discoverers. It may not be foolish to think that the sun is rising again—at least in the minds of the men in the East and the West who are not afraid of the future.

There's A Basic Antidote To Fear

When my wife and I were married, a friend in Syracuse, N. Y., where I then lived, offered us his cabin in the north woods for a honeymoon. We certainly appreciated this kindness, for we had very little money for our honeymoon.

We drove up there right after the wedding. On the way we stopped in Utica and bought a newspaper. In it was a big black headline telling of the escape of an insane murderer from the State Hospital. It stated he had been reported at large in the area toward which we were headed.

I said nervously to my bride, "Maybe this isn't the place for us to go on our honeymoon."

"Why, you aren't afraid, are you?" she asked, surprised. She had read my writings and listened to my speeches on the overcoming of fear, and now that she had married me I had to show her that I could practice what I preached. "We'll go right on up there," I insisted stoutly, but not without some inward perturbation.

So we drove on and got there after dark and if you've ever been in the woods, you know how dark it can be.

Our host had said there was a key under the mat; we found it and opened the cottage. I built a fire and Ruth made dinner. My fire was not nearly as good as her dinner. After a delicious meal we sat in the living room before the fire.

"This place has more creaks and noises in it than I ever heard before," I remarked apprehensively. Just then I heard on the front porch what sounded like a step. I looked out the window and thought I could see a face in the darkness. "You don't suppose that murderer could be around here, do you?"

"I'm sure not," Ruth said "Let's just sit here and enjoy this cheery fire."

But the chills were going up and down my back. And I had to prove to my bride that I wasn't a coward, so I said, "Whatever it is on the porch, I'm going to find out." I walked to the door, acting bravely, but trembling in my shoes, and flung it open. And what do you think? There sat a tiny chipmunk looking at me from his beady little eyes.

I said to Ruth, relieved but disgusted, "Nothing but a chipmunk," and I could see the love light in her eyes. She knew she'd married a courageous man.

This taught me a needed lesson that our fears are often just as baseless as this experience proved. I don't mean to say that everything we have to face in life is as insignificant as a chipmunk. But I do think that all of us tend to build up the thing we fear out of all proportion to its real size.

Basil King wrote a famous book many years ago. It was called simply "Fear" and it teaches the profound principle that if you act boldly, "mighty powers will come to your aid." When I opened that door in that cabin in the woods, I was acting boldly. If the insane man had been standing there, I am sure I would have found a way to cope with the situation, because the very act of boldness calls up from within us the great forces we need to carry on.

But the basic antidote to fear is a deep consciousness of the presence of God. "I will fear no evil," the Bible says, "for Thou art with me." Get this truth deeply fixed in your subconscious mind, then boldly stand up to your fears. You will find they are not as formidable as you think.

Bible Words for Today

MARK 8:34 — "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me." (RSV)

In that day the cross was not a symbol of salvation, but an instrument of torturing execution. It was as if Jesus had said, "Let him get a rope and hang himself." This does not mean to court martyrdom. No reader of these lines is likely to suffer more than mildest persecution, and probably hardly that. Nor does cross-bearing mean those ailments, disappointments, illnesses, disasters and even death to which all humanity is heir. None of these is cross-bearing.

In Jesus' time it would have been foolish to offer a cross-bearing man a fortune or high office, for, being about to die, they could have no meaning. Cross-bearing is living without thought or desire of wealth, honors, power, prestige or glory, but rather spending one's self in giving one's self away where others may be most helped.

Republicans Face Dilemma In Javits

By JAMES DEVLIN
 NEW YORK (AP)—Republicans in New York State face a dilemma and it's spelled Javits.

They must decide Monday whether to pick Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits, a proven vote getter, as their candidate for United States Senator in the November election.

Javits is now fighting — and denying — charges of past Communist associations.

It was Javits, a four-term congressman, who upset the political aspirations of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., in 1954. Javits defeated Roosevelt for attorney general by 170,000 votes and was the only Republican to win statewide office that year when Democrat Averell Harriman was elected governor.

Republicans wondered as late as last week whether they could afford to nominate Javits at their state committee meeting in Albany in view of the attacks against him.

They are wondering now if they can afford not to.

These questions have been raised:

Would passing him over leave the party open to taunts it was intimidated by a "political smear?"

Would rejection of Javits be resented by New York's many voters of the Jewish faith?

These considerations will be on the minds of the 300 committee members at their Monday meeting.

Veteran Democratic Sen. Herbert H. Lehman has announced he will not seek re-election. The Democratic nominee is almost certain to be Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, who has been endorsed by Lehman and other Democratic leaders. The Democrats will also pick their candidate Monday.

Javits, like Lehman, is a Jew. Wagner is a Roman Catholic.

J. Raymond McGovern, state controller under the administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, is an announced candidate for the GOP nomination and is considered Javits' strongest rival.

Numerous other political figures have been mentioned, including Dewey, U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., and National Republican Chairman Leonard W. Hall, but none has shown an inclination to run.

Javits, 46, balding and dapper, has had foes inside as well as outside his party.

Some GOP regulars regard him as a maverick because of his liberal political philosophy. For one thing, as a member of the House of Representatives, he upheld a veto of the Taft-Hartley Act by President Truman.

Democrats do not look with enthusiasm upon his candidacy, if only because he has defeated so many of their hopefuls.

By last week it appeared Javits faced a roadblock.

J. G. Sourwine, former counsel for the Senate internal security subcommittee, had declared in Nevada that Javits was "the protégé of important Communists who had helped push him up the political ladder."

The charge was spread by word of mouth until it reached what Javits called a "rumble" at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

Javits denounced the accusations as an attempt at "political assassination," voluntarily attended a senatorial hearing, and swore he never had any Communist connections.

President Eisenhower said at his press conference on Wednesday that "as of this moment" he thought Javits a "fine American" and would be "greatly astonished" if he were proved wrong.

Other Republicans leaders and even some Democrats took occasion to express their confidence in his patriotism and integrity. To top it off, the Communists said they always had opposed him.

George B. Charney, acting New York chairman of the Communist Party, said in a letter to the New York Times:

"It should be recalled that Mr. Javits, as attorney general, actively joined with the attorney general in Pennsylvania in the appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court to uphold the constitutionality of state sedition laws under which Steve Nelson had been previously convicted and sentenced to 20 years.

"What a protégé!"

Charney said the Communists supported American Labor Party candidates in opposition to Javits in his campaigns for Congress in 1946, 1948, 1950 and 1952 and opposed him also in his campaign for attorney general in 1954.

"We have no love for Mr. Javits, even less for the Republican party," said Charney. "Whatever our differences, I cannot see him made the victim of evil smear tactics."

Javits, born in poverty on New York's Lower East Side, sees no contradiction between his traditional Republican conservatism in economics and his new deal outlook on other matters.

He first was elected to Congress while advocating an extension of price controls, contrary to general Republican position.

In Congress, he voted against giving funds to the House Un-American Activities Committee and the Mundt-Nixon anti-subversives bill on the ground that both violated civil rights of the accused.

He demanded instead a liberalized Senate-House system of rules for subversive hearings. When this was adopted he voted in favor of funds.

Javits expressed hope at the Republican National Convention that the civil rights plank in the platform would call for implementation of the Supreme Court decision declaring segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

As adopted, the plank called for acceptance, rather than implementation of the decision, but Javits said he interpreted the plank as a whole as calling for implementation.

ABINGDON, England (AP)—A jury today threw out a titled Englishwoman's charge that she was assaulted in her bathroom by her handsome Italian butler.

Gaetano (Tony) Bacco, 30, was acquitted of charges of indecent assault brought by Lady Thomson, who testified Bacco tried to kiss and fondle her while she was dressed only in a bra and a garter belt. Bacco said she lied. He told the jury:

"She is lying. Of course she is lying—it is invented so she could send us away because we wanted more wages."

Lady Thomson, a shapely ash blonde in her middle 30s, is the wife of Sir Ivo Thomson, a baronet. She said the assault took place in July—when Sir Ivo was away from Frisham Manor, the Thomsons' stylish country house near Abingdon.

Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor of the First Methodist Church, related his experiences as exchange pastor in a talk Friday to the American Business Club.

Dr. Grooms supplied the pulpit of the Methodist Church in Wolstanton, England, this summer while the Rev. J. Arthur Hoyles was filling his pulpit here.

Two new members introduced were Harold Bentley, football coach, and Garland (Pop) Morrison, Texas & Pacific Railway Company. In charge of the meeting Friday was J. B. Apple. Forty-four members were in attendance.

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Thomas Cochrane, 56, retired advertising manager of the New York Daily News, died yesterday while on a holiday.

County To Urge FM 700 Extension

Howard County delegation to the Sept. 29 meeting of the Texas Highway Commission will press primarily for one major project, R. H. Weaver, county judge, said Saturday.

This will be a proposal that the state extend FM Market Road 700 east from its present termination past the Cosden Refinery to intersect U. S. Highway 80. At present FM 700 terminates at U. S. 87 south of Big Spring.

The delegation also will suggest that the state expand and improve the present route of FM 700 from U. S. 87 west into a wider and more serviceable highway.

Weaver said that the route is badly needed to cope with heavy traffic to the Webb Air Force Base and as a convenient road for the travelers who must otherwise go much longer distance to reach their destination.

Traffic on the present FM 700 segment is extremely heavy and the road, in its present form, is not adequate to handle the burden imposed on it.

A delegation from Howard County has an appointment with the State Highway Commission for a conference on further and future road work in this county at 3:30 p.m. Sept. 29 in Austin.

Several counties in the Big Spring area are reported to be sending delegations to the conference to press for their own programs. It was indicated that where these programs affect Howard County the local delegation might join them in urging the state to take action.

Atom Seen As Peace Factor

WASHINGTON (AP)—A West Point professor suggested today that development of atomic weapons may make a truly general war less likely. He predicted some nations might hold off "to scavenge the global battlefield."

Col. George A. Lincoln said in a speech prepared for the American Political Science Assn. that when the United States alone had the atomic bomb this country "became a sort of focus and switching center for alliances."

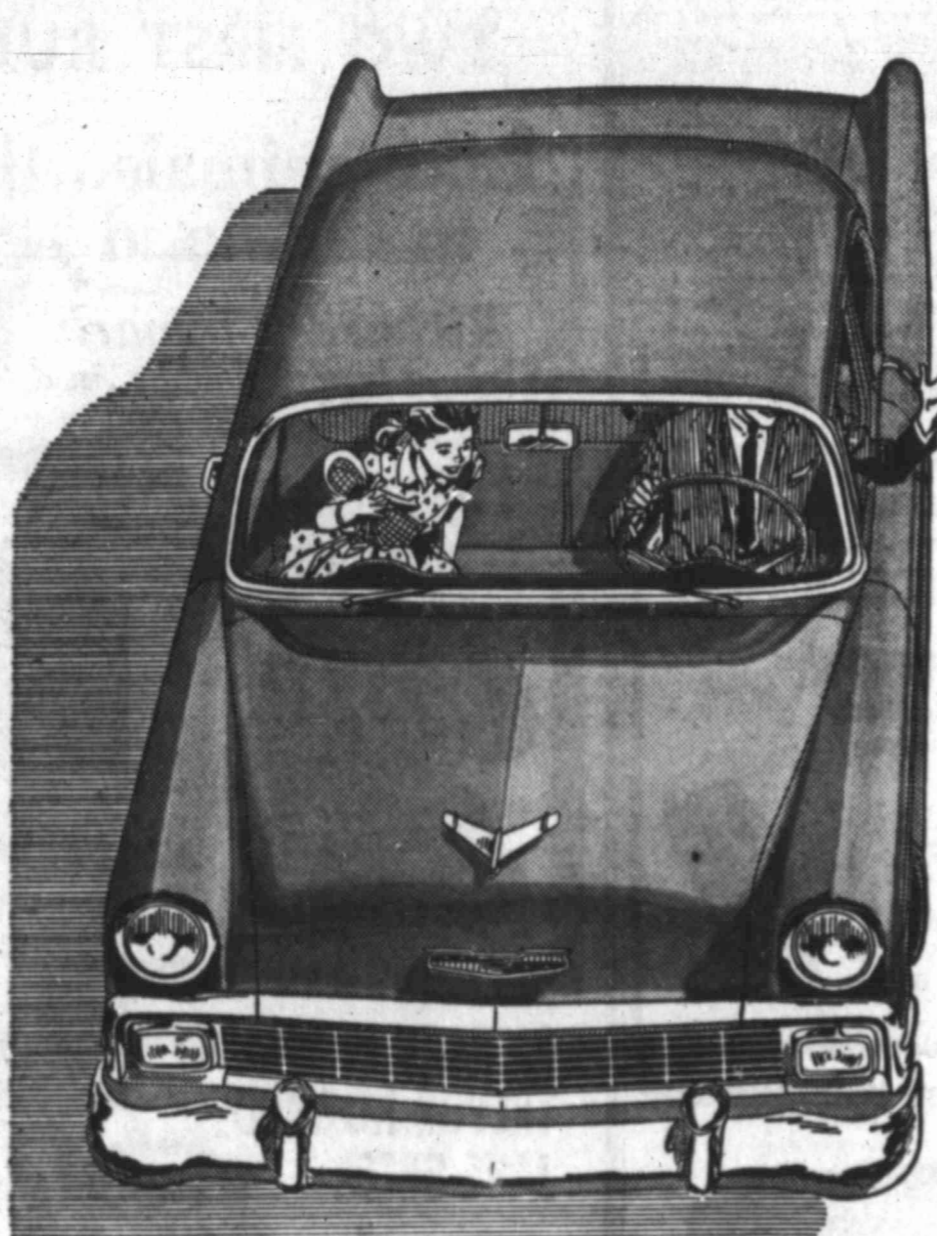

"Now that at least two great powers have such weapons, the effect in international affairs may be more one of repulsion than attraction," he continued.

Lincoln emphasized that he did not present his views as Army or government policy.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

A LIVING FAITH OR TODAY by the Rev. Ernest Gordon Coward-McCann Inc. The Rev. Ernest Gordon, Dean of the Chapel at Princeton University, is the author of a new book entitled "A Living Faith for Today" which Coward-McCann announces for publication on Sept. 28.

Based upon sermons the author has delivered over a period of many years, the book attempts to interpret the basic doctrines of Christianity in a way that will be understood by the men of today. It is Rev. Gordon's contention that contemporary man has lost his way in life. The heady optimism of a past age, which believed in the ability of man to achieve his own salvation and to build the Kingdom of God without the assistance of divine aid, has resulted in his becoming confused, frightened and lonely. In his uncertainty, he is turning to the Church, wistfully looking for an answer to his predicament, for a word of hope in an age of despair, for a word of life in a world where destructive death is all too much in evidence. By turning to the Church he has turned to the right quarter, for it has the saving word he needs so desperately. Its task is that of confessing Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior and living in the gay abandonment of knowing that it is true. But is it doing so? This is the challenge the author brings to professing Christians.

EXPLORING MARS by Roy A. Gallant. Garden City Children's Books. "Is there life on Mars?" Astronomers had a good chance to try to answer this question Friday when Earth came closer to the Red Planet than it has been in 34 years. In his book, EXPLORING MARS just published by Garden City Children's Books, Roy A. Gallant traces the history of man's curiosity about the Mystery Planet beginning with Tycho Brahe who made the first accurate observations of the planet in the sixteenth century. After the invention of the telescope Martian astronomy was on its way, and in 1877 Giovanni Schiaparelli set the astronomical world humming with his discovery of "canals" which he said carried water across the surface of the Red Planet in much the same way our irrigation ditches bring water to dry regions of Earth. This announcement set off an argument which is still going today.

The theories of other astronomers are also discussed in EXPLORING MARS along with theories on how the planet came into existence and facts concerning what has actually been seen through telescopes. It is illustrated by Lowell Hess. Friday, Earth and Mars came within 35,160,000 miles of one another. They will not be this close again until 1971.

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

Tony Martin seems to have placed a little bit of sunshine in his latest hit, "Happiness Street." It isn't just too often that a record carries such a "solid" impact; as this one seems to have.

Rather out of season is the title "Spring Fever," a best seller recorded by Ernie Freeman. The title, however, is perfectly in keeping with the record itself. "Walking the Beat" is the flip side, done by the same artist.

"49 Shades of Green" by the Ames Brothers, is treading toward the goal of high popularity. Another good recording done by this quartet is "98 Cents."

June Christy, whose name you may connect with the record, "Midnight Sun," has a currently popular album on the market containing that particular number. Entitled "Something Cool," this Capitol hi-fi product contains other songs including "A Stranger Called The Blues," "I'm Thrilled," and "I Should Care." Pete Rugolo and his orchestra promote the smooth coolness that defines something modern — with deft imagination.

If you remember the Susan Hayward hit movie, "I'll Walk Alone," in which Miss Hayward portrayed the tragic accident of Jane Froman, you will certainly remember that sound track carried the voice of Jane Froman singing her own songs. You will truly appreciate the latest Jane Froman album, "Faith," containing "One Little Candle," "He," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "The Lord's Prayer," and "I Believe."

Ella Fitzgerald, who holds the standing title of First Lady of Jazz, sounds every inch deserving the honor in one of her currently popular Decca albums, "Lullabies of Birdland." In the variety of styles that have distinguished her career, she sings "Lullaby of Birdland," "Angel Eyes," and "How High The Moon." In "Basin Street Blues," an included number in the album, she does a perfect imitation of her recording partner, Louis Armstrong. From her recent motion picture, "Pete Kelly's Blues," comes her number, "Ella Hums the Blues," also in the album.

The Lubbock National Bank is sponsoring a unique project—the exhibit of great works of art from the museums of Texas. Called "Museum Director's Choice," the exhibit features each month the showing of a work from the prominent museums of Texas.

"It has long been our hope to be able to aid in bringing to Lubbock and the South Plains some of the representative examples of fine painting," said President Charles Maedgen Jr.

The painting on display now is "The Farmer" by Eugene Speicher from the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts.

'Raw Edge' Has A Fresh Touch

"Raw Edge," showing Sunday through Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre, is an action story of the Oregon frontier. Stars are Rory Calhoun, Yvonne De Carlo, Mara Corday, Rex Reason and Neville Brand.

A fresh touch is in a brand new story angle, based on an old territorial pioneer custom that gives a widow to the first man who claims her.

Miss De Carlo faces this destiny after she learns that five men who want her are out to kill her husband, a ruthless dictator of the open range. Calhoun is one of the men out to kill the husband, but his reason is two-fold: he also seeks revenge for the death of his brother. Reason performs the difficult role of a villain who is also likeable. Miss Corday is a faithful young Indian wife in the story, and Brand is the un-likeable villain.

tory theater launched in Beaumont last year, has a success story. Mainer Himes, who directed "The Royal Family" there, graduated to the American Shakespeare Theater and Academy at Stratford, Conn. He had roles in all three of the Shakespeare theater's productions this summer.

From a theater-goer's notebook... Austin's puppet experimental theater played to overflow houses during its first season this summer. Its most recent shows have been "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Robin Hood."

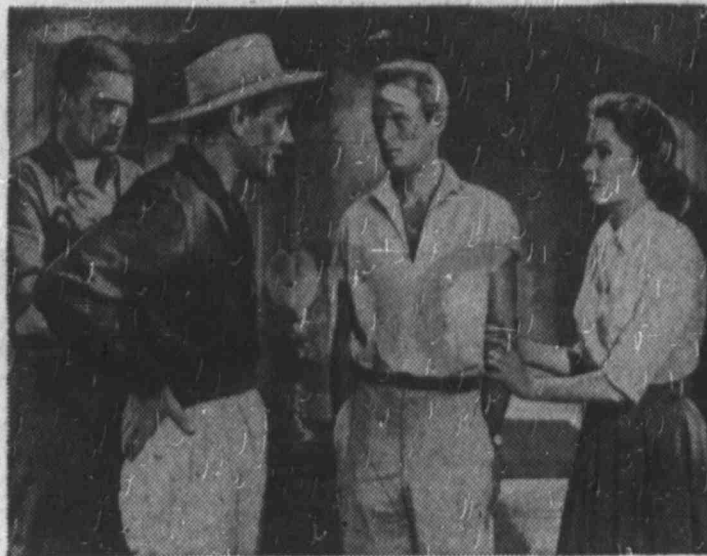

A troupe of young El Paso actors will start their city's first Supper Theater Sept. 14. Called "Artist's Supper Theater," it will feature two one-act plays nightly with a change each week. Its first productions will be Anton Chekov's "The Proposal," and Lawrence Langley's "Another Way Out."

"The San Angelo College Entertainment Course Assn. will have 6 entertainments for its 26th year. Each program will be given two nights.

The Texas Tech artists course opens its new season on the new Lubbock auditorium Oct. 29 with "To Ya Za." "Theater of the Far East."

Among the symphonies... The Amarillo Symphony Orchestra, Clyde Roller conductor, held its first rehearsal Tuesday. Its concert season opens Oct. 2 with Gregory Sander as piano soloist.

Baigio Casciano, energetic business manager of the El Paso Symphony, is conducting a campaign to have the city's recreation department provide funds to build a music shell for the orchestra's popular open air concerts, "Music Under the Stars," next season.

2 Mean Nazis

Trevor Howard and Peter Van Eyck, at left, are the two meanies who chase Richard Widmark and Jane Greer through the Mexican jungle in "Run for the Sun." The chase lasts for 35 minutes, about a third of the film's footage.

'Run For Sun' Is Story Of Chase Through Jungle

The chase is one of the oldest features of Hollywood movies, and most producers admittedly wouldn't do without it. The chase is always a good theme whether it's cowboys chasing Indians, cops chasing robbers, businessmen chasing dollars or women chasing men.

"Run for the Sun," playing on a double bill Sunday through Thursday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre, features a 35-minute chase, nearly a third of the film's footage. The locale is in the Mexican jungle where two particularly odious German war criminals are hiding out.

Richard Widmark and Jane Greer are the ones who get chased. Trevor Howard and Peter Van Eyck are the Nazis who do the chasing with the help of a rack of vicious dogs. Miss Greer is cast as a reporter who tries to interview Widmark, a Hemingway-type writer. They get involved in the chase because the Nazis discover the pair might possibly reveal their whereabouts.

On a double bill with "Run for the Sun" is "Nightmare," starring Edward G. Robinson and Kevin McCarthy.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

"Walk The Proud Land," which will soon be screened in Big Spring, is one of those rare gems—a Western that is not strictly a Western. Starring Audie Murphy, it is the story of John Philip Clum, the first Indian agent to win the love of that most hateful of races, the Apaches.

Based on the biography written by Clum's son, the film story is aided by good acting and excellent direction. There are dozens of tiny, almost unnoticed vignettes that give the film a taste of life as it really was on an Indian reservation, a wide departure from the melodramatics of the usual Western. There are no noble savages and no gun-totin' white heroes. Geronimo is depicted as the cruel murderer he was, and Murphy's role is one many a Hollywood hero would have wanted.

Clum was a deeply religious man, without the narrowminded intolerance that brought many a missionary to grief. He was a man of peace, who never carried a gun, but who had more courage than any ten frontier soldiers. Clum was almost killed on several occasions, but in each case, his faith won over the violence of white man and Apache alike.

In "Walk The Proud Land," Audie Murphy has his second decent role. Previously, the World War II hero had been cast in poor roles in several Grade B films. He found his path to true stardom in the film version of his own life story, "To Hell and Back." And in "Walk The Proud Land" Murphy has moved up another notch.

Those who like Mario Lanza will enjoy "Serenade," in which the famed singer plays the lead role. Songs are excellent, story of medium calibre.

There was a time when Marilyn Monroe, so the columnists said, was on her way to becoming a Great Actress. She apparently isn't quite ready for that yet. In "Bus Stop," she shows definite improvement as an actress, but that's beside the point. The well-known torso wiggles through the now-world-famous motions with complete satisfaction. And the story theme is good, too, for a change. If Marilyn is ever able to combine her sexiness with a great acting talent, some of our top actresses had better start looking for part-time jobs.

"Joe MacBeth" is an honest attempt to translate Shakespeare's immortal play, "MacBeth," into modern times and modern English. But don't be disappointed if it falls slightly on its face. Shakespeare had a genius for transcribing ordinary talk into poetry, and "Joe MacBeth" merely re-transcribes Shakespeare's poetry back into ordinary talk. If you can forget about Shakespeare, however, "Joe MacBeth" is a pretty good movie.

"This Island Earth" is not the most scientifically accurate movie ever produced, but the layman doesn't know the difference, anyway. The drama, the surprisingly good acting by unknowns, and the first class special effects make up for some of the more Flash Gordonish scenes. Among the better science fiction films.

"The Killing" is not what it seems to be. Made on a low budget and making use of relatively little known actors, it is nevertheless a cops-and-robbers picture guaranteed to keep you in suspense until just before the end. It is the story of a big theft attempt, and what follows. Just make sure you miss the phony, crime-does-not-pay ending, and you'll see one of the best films of its type ever made.

Pasture Expert Says Be Ready For Planting

COLLEGE STATION—Prospects right now are slim for winter pastures, but, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, plans, seed and fertilizer should be ready if and when it rains.

The need for winter forage is critical in most areas of the state and winter pastures, if conditions become favorable, can be used to cut wintering costs for livestock and up the output of meat and milk from the farm.

When planting time comes, Trew advises dusting in oats and barley if there is subsoil moisture. Dry planted crops will be up and growing before planting could be done after a rain and the result is much earlier grazing. Don't fail to use fertilizer, emphasizes Trew. If it doesn't rain, the plant food will not be lost for it can be used by a succeeding crop.

The specialist says if possible plant a legume with the grass. The combination often gives greater yields; the forage is higher in protein and minerals and the grazing season is extended.

For early grazing, Trew suggests using an upright type of barley or oats such as Goliah or Alamo in areas where these varieties are adapted. Upright types will give grazing weeks ahead of the prostrate types but don't hold up for mid-winter grazing. The specialist suggests planting about 20 per cent of the acreage to the upright types and 80 per cent to intermediate types in order to get maximum winter grazing.

Generally, the small grains, oats, barley and rye and in some areas wheat, are the best bet for winter grazing.

For detailed information on varieties and seeding rates for different areas, Trew suggests that the local county agent be contacted. When the visit is made, a copy of L-258, Winter Temporary Pastures, may be furnished.

Roads Offered U. S. System

AUSTIN (AP)—Five more roads have been submitted to the government for consideration for inclusion in the interstate highway system in Texas.

Congress added 1,000 miles to the system. The Bureau of Roads requested a listing of highways, along with supporting data, for consideration of eligibility.

The federal government pays for 80 per cent of the cost under the interstate system with the state paying 10 per cent.

These roads were submitted yesterday by the department:

A route from U.S. 89 near Longview via Lufkin to Houston.

From Houston down the Coastal Plain to the Rio Grande at Brownsville.

A direct connection between San Antonio and Corpus Christi.

A route from Fort Worth to Amarillo via Wichita Falls generally along or near U.S. 287.

Also included in the list was the completion of loops around Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston.

Another road proposed was from Amarillo to Lubbock and to an intersection with U. S. 80 along or near the present route of U.S. 87. The Highway Department expressed interest in development of U.S. 75 from Dallas to the Red River.

Newsman Gets Travel Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said last night it is issuing a travel grant for Julio Vielman, a Guatemalan newspaperman invited to attend a New York press seminar.

The action followed a report that the U. S. Embassy in Guatemala had first cleared Vielman for the grant, then withdrawn its approval without explanation.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said Vielman will get the travel funds as a result of a "review" of the case. He did not elaborate.

Vielman was one of a group of 13 Latin American newspaper executives and staff members invited to the seminar, which starts today. It is being conducted by the American Press Institute of Columbia University.

Vielman, a reporter for El Imparcial of Guatemala City and a correspondent for the New York Times, told the Times by telephone he had been unable to learn why the travel grant was revoked. The State Department did not say.
