Man Who Told Of Bomb Plots Had Ranger Aid

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 15 (AP)—The defense today sought to discredit testimony of the state's star witness against Raymond C. Shafer, San Antonio labor leader, on the basis of the witness's admissions that he had taken part in bombing plots and has received $6,500 from a Texas Ranger.

Buck Owens, 27, truck driver and first witness in the trial, yesterday testified that Shafer gave him $800 for his attempt to blow up Alamo Motor Freight Lines in San Antonio in January, 1955, with dynamite stolen from a powder magazine near Odessa, Tex.

Owens testified today under defense questioning that Ranger Zeno Smith had given him about $6,500 intermittently during the past year in cash denominations including $50 and $100.

"And you are not on the state payroll either, are you?" asked attorney John Peace.

"No, sir, I'm not," Owens said. "No other details about the payments from Smith were brought out. Owens did state that 'the agreement is the payments are to stop when this trial is over.'"

After Owens related his efforts to blow up the freight lines building, Peace asked, "If you are willing to do that, then you wouldn't have any hesitancy about testifying to anything on this stand for $6,500, would you?"

"I'm not telling any lies here. That I can prove," Owens said. "Isn't it a fact that you have a deal in Odessa that if you testify and cooperate in this suit, you will not be indicted and will receive no prison time," Peace asked.

"No, sir, I've not been made any promises in Odessa," Owens said.

Owens also testified that in a December, 1954, San Antonio meeting, Shafer tried to get him to shoot the owner of Southwest Motor Transport Co., Roy Gilbert, and damage the company's warehouse.

DIG THAT CRAZY MIXED-UP CAT; WHO WANTS TO BE A CHICKEN?

DALLAS, Sept. 15 (AP)—The N. E. Utsler kitten, Chickadee, has a very definite opinion that he's a chicken. He apparently is finding considerable confirmation from chickens themselves.

Utsler began noticing a skinny kitten, about 3 months old, in the chicken yard of his home at nearby Rylie, Tex. The kitten would have nothing to do with people or other cats.

Wondering what he ate, Utsler watched after putting out chicken feed, consisting of table scraps, lettuce, bran pellets and bread.

"The kitten would beat any chicken to the door on grabbing a scrap and my old rooster even fought off the hens to let the kitty eat."

"One night after the chickens went to roost, I decided to find out where the kitty slept. I looked into the chicken house, and there he was—aseep on the roof between five big hens and looking as comfortable as they did."

Utsler said he decided the kitten really was mixed up when it tried to peck him.

Mr. DeGarmo is survived by one son, Hall DeGarmo of El Paso, a brother, Arthur DeGarmo of Seattle, Wash., and two grandchildren.

Manpower Smaller, But Firepower Much Greater

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The United States, in this time of new crisis in the Middle East, has about the same number of military units and slightly less military manpower deployed in the European-Mediterranean area than it had four or five years ago.

But in the intervening years firepower available to those forces has been amplified thousands of times through the new availability of nuclear weapons, guided missiles and land- and sea-based jet planes.

The available information seems to support the Pentagon's insistence that there has been no designated augmentation of forces in Europe, the Mediterranean or Middle East since Egyptian President Nasser announced last July that Egypt was taking over the canal.

So far as can be determined—the precise current figures are a military secret—the overall American military strength in Europe, where the great bulk of shore-based forces are located, is about 320,000. These are the personnel of the Army, the Air Force and of naval personnel working at shore establishments. The 320,000 figure compares with a peak of about 350,000 when the deployment of forces for participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense of Western Europe was at maximum.

Convoy Operated By Egyptian Staff

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 15 (AP)—President Nasser received new expressions of Soviet support today and rejected as a "declaration of war" the Western Big Three's latest proposal for operating the Suez Canal.

In a fiery speech at Bilbeis Air Force College, Nasser accused Britain and France of trying to wreck the operation of the canal. He declared triumphantly that their efforts had failed on this first day of Egypt's handling of canal traffic without the aid for foreign technicians.

For the first time in the 87-year history of the canal foreigners were not guiding convoys. An all-Egyptian staff aided by Greek pilots directed a record peacetime convoy of 29 ships northbound out of Suez and a convoy of 13 ships heading south from Port Said.

Nasser boasted proudly: "As I speak to you now the canal thanks to Egyptian and Greek pilots is still open."

There were these developments in the sizzling Suez situation: 1. Two rival conferences were being organized on the canal. The Western Big Three invited 15 nations to attend a conference Wednesday in London on the plan to set up a world body to regulate canal traffic. Egypt announced it was holding a conference to set up a negotiating body to find a peaceful solution to the problem.

No date was announced but the Egyptians said 20 countries headed for the Soviet Union and Communist China had agreed to attend.

2. The Soviet Union, in a new statement on its position in the Suez crisis, charged Britain and France intend to seize the canal and said military preparations by the two nations constitute an "act of aggression." It termed the new big three plan "a dangerous provocation" and marked that an attack on Egypt would lead to immense destruction in Suez and "in the oil fields in the countries of the Arab East as well as in the oil pipelines."

3. Egypt reported no difficulties at a late hour today in operating the canal. Fifteen Russian marine pilots arrived in Port Said tonight to help Egypt handle the canal traffic. Hotel employees said they were accompanied by four Yugoslav pilots. After a period of training the pilots will help alleviate the shortage created by the walk-out Friday midnight of 400 foreign technicians—mostly British and French.

Arab Countries Move To Back Egypt

Informed diplomatic officials in Washington said the Soviet move was mainly a propaganda gesture. At the most, the officials said, Russia could supply from 25 to 50 men with varying degrees of experience. Top officials there gave no evidence of undue alarm, either, over Nasser's attack on the Suez Canal plan.

4. In Damascus, the Syrian News Agency said the Arab League's Political Committee will agree in Cairo Monday on a combined warning to other countries against joining the Western-proposed canal users' association. It also said the Arab countries will sever diplomatic and economic ties with any supporters of "any British-French possible aggression against Egypt."

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, who is going to London for the Wednesday conference, had asked Nasser to reconsider his opposition to the Big Three plan to set up an organization which would use its own pilots to guide ships through the canal, collect fees and share the take with Egypt. But in his speech today Nasser spurned the plan as amounting to "not peace but war and aggression against the small countries."

Nasser said President Eisenhower advocated a peaceful solution of the Suez crisis but U. S. State Department support of the international users' plan "means they will help Britain provoke the Egyptian people into a clash with Britain."

In such a situation, Nasser asserted Egypt would meet force with force.

"Have the imperialists forgotten how 10,000 Algerians are giving half a million Frenchmen a difficult time?" Nasser asked.

Charges British-French 'Pressure'

"Imperialists who attack us will find enough of us a soldier. We have enough arms for everybody. No aggressor will leave Egypt alive."

"Anybody who attacks Egypt will be attacking all Arab countries. His interests in the area will be gone forever."

He spoke after an air show in which Russian-built Ilyushin bombers, MIG jet fighters and Yak training planes were featured.

Nasser accused the British and French of putting pressure on employees of the old Suez Canal Co. to quit, with sending a large number of ships than usual through the canal "to complete their conspiracy of obstructing navigation."

"Today we win in the battle of conspiracy," Nasser declared. "The conspirators lose with their aims of international chaos."

In his remarks on the U. S. position, Nasser said: "The American President has been speaking of 'maintaining peace, so why does America support a proposal for the formation of an association which they call an association for the users of the Suez Canal but which is in truth one for declaring war?'"

Nasser struck out at speculation that without foreign help the canal operations will become all fouled up.

"They say in their papers that the whole thing will be over in 48 hours," Nasser said. "They don't know how strong we really are."

There was anxiety among both Egyptians and foreigners in Egypt. There are 2,144 Americans living in Egypt—544 of them in the service of the U. S. government.

Tax Survey Proposition Undecided

A proposal by the county commissioners court that the county, the city of Big Spring, the Big Spring Independent School District, Howard County Junior College and all school districts consider a county-wide tax revaluation project met with only lukewarm interest.

The proposal was presented Friday afternoon to a group of some 40 men representing most of the agencies concerned in the county court room. R. H. Weaver, county judge, was spokesman for the county.

The plan, as outlined to the group, did not propose an increase in tax rates—as some of those present seemed to believe was its purpose—but a general equalization of tax assessments. Such a program, Weaver said, might increase the overall assessed valuation of the county and its subdivisions, but would not mean that the tax assessment would be higher.

He pointed out that much property in the county is unequally assessed—that is, properties of comparative actual values are assessed at widely differing amounts for tax purposes. He also said there may be some property in the county which should be on the tax rolls but is not.

Present were representatives from the city of Big Spring, the Big Spring schools, Howard County Junior College, Coahoma, Forsan, Vesmoor, Knott, Gay Hill, Center Point and Elbow.

The plan, as outlined, would involve the employment of a professional tax engineering firm to make the evaluation.

It was suggested that each community and each agency designate one man to serve on a committee. This committee would go into the proposal in all its details and then report to their respective groups on what had been found out and the reaction of the committee to what it learned.

A spokesman for the Forsan Independent School District said that the school is not interested in the plan. The system now employed by the school, he said, was entirely satisfactory.

Center Point spokesmen echoed the same sentiment.

Coahoma delegation informed the meeting it had made a complete re-evaluation of its taxable property and drawn up revised assessments on such property within the last few years. There is no need for such a survey in that community at this time.

Mayor G. W. Dabney, Big Spring, said that he was "not too anxious to go into the project unless every agency concerned joined."

Robert W. Currie, president of the State National Bank, who said he was "speaking as a taxpayer," declared that he felt the money spent for such a survey would be money well spent.

Floyd Parsons, superintendent of the city schools, said that Beeville, Texas, where he formerly lived, had conducted such a survey with the city and the school cooperating.

"The taxpayers of that community," he concluded, "were made a lot happier with the tax situation as a result of the survey."

Others present asked questions about the cost and expressed doubt that the benefits to accrue would be sufficient to justify the expenditure.

One spokesman demanded why it was necessary to employ outside help to do the work "the commissioners court and the county tax assessor's office is supposed to do." He was told that with the staff available and the lack of the special training that a tax engineer should have it was not possible for the tax collector's office to accomplish the same results that would be achieved by professional evaluation engineers.

No decision was reached one way or another on the proposal. Weaver asked all who wanted to look further into the plan to sign their names. Three or four did so.

Kills Kinsman, Then Himself

FORT WORTH, Sept. 15 (AP)—W. H. Foster, 68, retired Conover worker, shot and killed his brother-in-law, Homer Mattley, 60, and then killed himself today.

Officers, examining the bullet wounds on Mattley, discovered $2,201 pinned to a seam inside his bloodstained white coveralls. Included was a $1,000 bill, two $500 bills and a $100 bill.

The bodies were found inside the locked house where they lived a half mile east of the courthouse.

Foster, shot once through the chest, was sprawled on his back in the living room of the seven-room boarding house. A long-barreled pistol lay on the floor about three feet from his feet.

The body of Mattley, owner of the house who also was a yardman around town, was in his room across the hall.

Recruiter Says Navy Not A Refuge For Delinquents

The United States Navy is not a refuge for juvenile and adult delinquents, Chief R. E. LaFon, local Navy recruiter, declared Saturday.

He said he was distressed by recent references to juveniles who were seeking to stay court action through promises to try to enlist.

"In the first place the Navy is made up of decent, law-abiding people," he said. "That's the kind of people we enlist because we know that's the type of people parents want their sons to serve with."

In the second place, no juvenile may enlist in the Navy under any circumstances.

Men who have police records are not accepted for enlistment. When a young man has reached his 18th birthday, his parent's consent is not required because he will have attained majority (21 years of age) by the time of discharge from service.

lary service is not an institution of correction, he observed.

LaFon explained that every applicant for enlistment in the Navy has to be cleared through civil law enforcement agencies in all towns and cities where he may have resided since his 12th birthday. If there is any type of civil restraint, such as probation, parole, pardons, etc., or if the applicant has a police record of anything other than a minor nature, he is disqualified and not acceptable in the Navy.

Any applicant must be at least 17 years of age (under Texas law, juveniles are under 17). If he is between 17 and 18 years of age, his parents or guardian must consent. When a young man has reached his 18th birthday, his parent's consent is not required because he will have attained majority (21 years of age) by the time of discharge from service.

Adlai Carries Campaign To Govt. Workers

FAIRFAX, Va., Sept. 15 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson accused the Eisenhower administration tonight of using "shameless political trickery" against government workers in its loyalty-security program.

The Democratic nominee's remarks were prepared for a barbecue and rally in this Virginia county, the residence of hundreds of government workers just across the Potomac River from Washington.

Stevenson said the GOP administration has waged "guerrilla warfare on the people who serve the government."

And he said the Republicans have "placed at the disposal of the Republican National Committee a large number of career jobs to which employees have advanced through years of outstanding service."

Stevenson, spending a week in Washington preparatory to a new campaign swing throughout the country, interrupted his speech-drafting for tonight's foray into a South that he obviously hoped to make solid for the Democrats again this year.

In his speech tonight, Stevenson said the Republicans have waged a "war of nerves" against federal employees ever since they took office in 1953.

"Since then," Stevenson said, "the guerrilla warfare on the people who serve the government from our responsible officials (sic) has continued."

"The worst of all, perhaps, the administration, for partisan political purposes, has pilloried innocent men and women under the pretense of conducting loyalty and security investigations."

Mediator Called In Packing Dispute

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP)—A federal mediator will try to avert a strike of 25,000 employees of Swift & Co. set for Thursday at 40 packing plants.

The mediation service entered the negotiations in August when the merger AFL-CIO unions authorized strikes by 88,000 members against 110 plants of six major packing firms. While negotiations continued, conciliators took no active part in the talks.

Negotiations between the two unions and Swift broke off Thursday. Swift said its negotiators had made "numerous proposals to the unions" to better pay of employees, and were willing to continue negotiations.

William Courtenay draws line of defense.

BRITON SAYS

Atom War Might End Within Week

The victor in a global atomic weapons conflict might be known within the first week, William Courtenay, a British correspondent told Webb audiences during lectures held at the base theatre Thursday and Friday.

Courtenay, who is on a speaking tour of many Air Force bases in the United States, also conducted a lecture on the Suez and Cyprus problems. His Webb engagement consisted of five lectures at the Base, an appearance on KBST-TV and a lecture at the Howard County Junior College.

"The responsibilities resting on our top people to prevent war are magnified because of devastation the unleashing of atomic weapons would cause," the British lecturer said.

He explained that the development in the USAF and RAF of the deterrent doctrine to prevent war by keeping strategic air power strong is the same idea which worked so successfully with British sea power in the 19th century and which kept world peace from 1815 to 1914.

Courtenay pointed out that by the year 1965 bombers will exceed the speed of 1,500 miles per hour and in the succeeding years will be nuclear powered. This will enable the air forces to keep planes in the air at all time on "standing patrol" and eliminate the need for mid-air refueling.

With the coming of the atomic powered bomber, many islands adjacent to continental land masses, where the USAF and RAF are now based, may not have the same strategic importance, for the standing patrol atomic bombers will patrol all parts of the world at altitudes as high as 90,000 feet, the speaker said.

Courtenay added that there is a great need for additional dispersed airfields for NATO to protect the mobility of air forces in Europe from sudden attack.

The free nations cannot first attack and therefore must be prepared to absorb the first blow and then strike back with an even harder blow. The 140 scheduled airstrips along the 4,000-mile-NATO front from the Arctic Circle at Norway to Turkey in the Caucasus will make it hard on the enemy to ground the Western Air Forces with a single strike, the Englishman said.

A 2,000-mile fuel pipeline now being built across the NATO nations to provide fuel to all airfields at all times also will prove a great defense. Russia would have to transport its fuel 2,000 miles from Caspian Sea to battle front, by means other than a pipeline, said Courtenay. He added that no similar pipeline is in sight in Russia.

In his lecture about the Suez Canal crisis, Courtenay said that England is determined to keep the canal open under any circumstances, because more than 64 per cent of oil products used in England and other European nations has to be transported through the waterway.

"People are in pretty bad shape" because of the dry weather, he said.

Today is the anniversary of the Mexican declaration of independence, which occurred Sept. 16, 1910.

Davis, who entered the Naval service June 1, 1956, reported to Chase Field from the U. S. Naval Training Center at San Diego, Calif., and was employed by the Reed Oil Company in Big Spring.

Chase Field is the Navy's only "all-jet" Naval Air Training Station for student carrier pilots. Here they are taught to fly the TV-2 jet trainer and the F9F Pantherjet, a combat-type jet fighter.

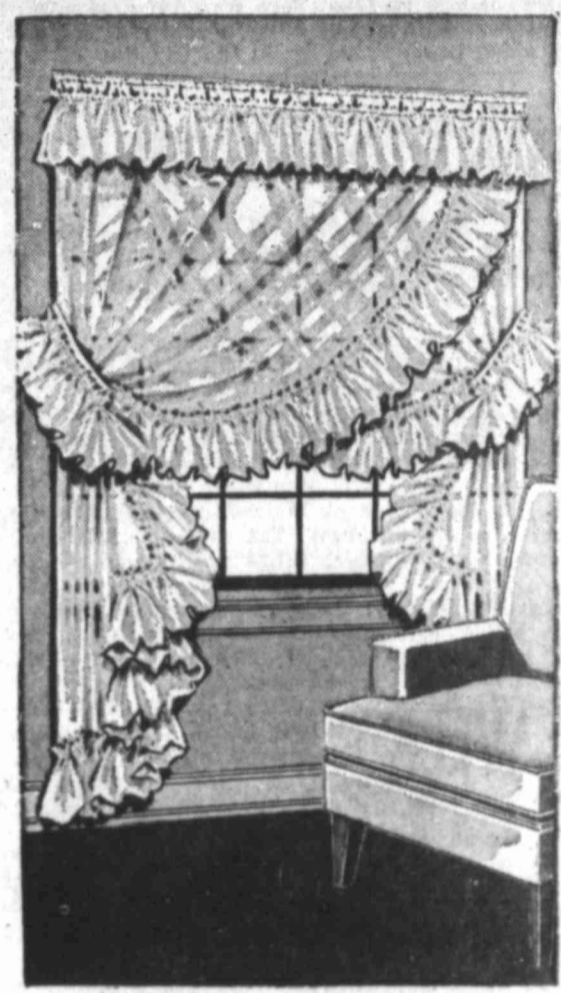

Davis is presently undergoing a week's indoctrination prior to being assigned to one of the divisions of the Chase Field Aircraft Maintenance Department.

Fire Losses In City Decline During August

Big Spring lowered its fire losses in August to $2,805.99 after seeing $13,249.29 go up in smoke during July.

The August total ran the year's record to $31,982.09 or almost half of total for the same period of 1955. During the first eight months of '56, the city's fire losses aggregated $60,836.12.

Compared with August of last year though, the city's losses were up. The figure last year was $2,663.17.

Reason for the comparatively low total last month was because only 14 fire alarms were answered by the department; average total is 25.

Of the total, $2,253.40 was loss of buildings and $552.59 was damage total for contents.

Three of the fires were caused by cigarettes or smoking, while two each were brought on by faulty electrical wiring, use of gasoline and trash, and two came from unknown causes. The department answered two false alarms.

Also, one developed from children playing with matches. Four of the fires were frame dwellings, and five were grass and trash fires. Two each developed in cars, and apartment houses, and one was a brick business structure.

The comparative totals:

Jan.	$ 3,290.00	$ 7,194.47

World Peace To Be Stressed In Ike's Campaign Address

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP)—The White House announced today President Eisenhower will discuss world peace—"the most important subject in the world today"—in his address to the nation Wednesday night.

It will be his formal campaign speech, and the President is already working on first drafts.

Alternating work with play on the golf course and frolics with his grandchildren, Eisenhower was reported to be laying out the pattern of an address which will emphasize American efforts to prevent war.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the speech to be delivered from CBS television-radio studios in Washington from 7:30 to 8 p.m. CST—"will deal with the most important subject in the world today—which is the peace of the world."

The speech will deal with the efforts this administration has made in the last three and a half years, not only to keep the peace but to win the peace," Hagerty said.

He added the speech will not be confined entirely to foreign affairs. He said it will deal with the Suez crisis but only as a part of the general picture of world affairs.

see, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, has complained that he has been handicapped in discussing such issues as the Suez Canal controversy because he has been denied confidential security information.

Kefauver's assertion at Sarasota, Fla., last night that he ought to have the same kind of briefings being given to Adlai E. Stevenson brought the retort from Hagerty that the Tennesseean was taking an "odd" way of making such a request.

Hagerty said the White House has received no Kefauver request for the kind of Central Intelligence Agency briefings which have been promised Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Juvenile Under Probation Is Given Another Chance

R. H. Weaver, county judge, said Saturday that he had decided not to order a 15-year-old Big Spring boy, already under probation for a car theft charge, to Gatesville for his part in a recent attempt to cash a worthless check.

Weaver had had the case under advisement for two days. "It is shown in the testimony," he explained, "that this particular youth had no part in the actual attempt by his companion to cash the forged check other than that he was with him, saw the other boy write the check and was driver of the car in which they were riding at the time."

"While this was a most serious thing, I still feel that it lacked enough gravity to merit ordering the youth sent to the reformatory. I remanded him to his father."

Weaver told the youth's parents, and also instructed A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, that should the defendant be again involved in any infringement of the law—regardless of its nature—there would be no further consideration of the case.

"He will be ordered to Gatesville," the judge said.

Three young Spanish-Americans picked up Saturday night by city police in connection with what officers called a gang fight and riot at the Gomez dance hall were before the court Saturday morning.

One of the youths was arrested by police as he was engaged in a fist fight with another boy. The other two, from evidence, were arrested in a general roundup of possible participants in the difficulty at the dance hall which netted a dozen arrests by police. It was testified that rocks were thrown at a police car as it sought to break up the brawl.

Two of the boys before the court Saturday are 15 years old and were the ones who were grabbed in the general police roundup. The boy in the fight was 16.

All were released to their parents with admonitions from the court not to congregate in places of ill repute.

Campaigners Entering Iowa In Bid For Farmers' Vote

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The battle for farm votes in the November election turns next week to the tall corn state of Iowa.

Standard bearers of both major political parties will appear at the National Field Days at Newton—President Eisenhower on Friday and Adlai Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, on Saturday.

The GOP presidential candidate planned to use his stay there largely for conferring with farmers and party leaders in the agricultural situation. Stevenson will make his visit the occasion of his first major speech on farm issues, which the Democrats are counting heavily to give them a November victory.

President Eisenhower planned to follow with a farm speech a week later.

Because of declines in farm prices and incomes under the present GOP administration, many political observers claim to see a parallel between agricultural conditions now and in the campaign of 1948. In that election, President Truman upset New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, largely on the basis of farmer dissatisfaction with the Republican-controlled 80th Congress.

Stevenson's speech will give him his first big chance to interpret his party's farm plank, which promises more direct financial government aid for agriculture than provided by present GOP programs.

Eisenhower, on the other hand, will stand on the farm policies and programs of his administration. The Republican farm plank endorses those policies.

Few Cases On Calendar For District Court

Criminal docket for the 118th District Court, scheduled to open Monday before Charlie Sullivan, district judge, will probably be of very short duration, Guilford Jones, district attorney, said Saturday.

Due to various factors, only three cases now remain on the district court docket ready for trial. It had been thought at first sufficient cases would be on hand to keep the court in action throughout the week.

Cases left on the docket, Jones reported, are:

M. D. Adams, charged with DWI second offense; and Antonio Sandate and Pat Menchaca, charged with theft from an automobile. The latter two defendants are involved in the same offense but were indicted separately by the grand jury.

M. D. Adams, it was pointed out, was convicted of DWI second offense at the last session of the district court. He gave notice of appeal. He was arrested again on a similar charge a few days after court had adjourned. The grand jury returned the indictment against him at the beginning of the present court term.

Wade Choate, district court clerk, said that 63 citizens have been notified to appear in district court Monday at 10 a.m. for jury duty.

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Reds on the mainland bombarded Matsu today in the heaviest shelling in that sector of the vest-pocket war front so far reported. The Nationalists hit back. The Reds fired 610 rounds. The ministry said the Nationalists opened fire against 65 Red surface craft "active in Tinghai Bay area west of Matsu."

Jury Trials To Be Slated For County Criminal Court

A two-week, possibly a three-week, county criminal jury docket is scheduled to open in County Court as soon as the 118th District Court completes its current docket of criminal and civil matters.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, said that it was possible the first week of the docket in the county court might be opened on Monday, Sept. 24. However, he explained, if the district court is still operating on its civil and criminal cases at that date, the docket will be delayed.

He pointed out that it was not practical to attempt to hold a con-ty docket at the same time the district court was in session. Attorneys who have clients scheduled for trial in the county court are often busy in district court. This would mean, Weaver said, much lost time. He feels it is better to wait until the district court has completed its work before beginning the county docket.

A mountain of cases has accumulated in county court in the past months, Harvey Hooser Jr., county attorney, said. An attempt to bring the docket closer up to date will be made at the two or three weeks continuous criminal docket.

The Democratic farm plank is broad enough to permit Stevenson to put forward several varieties of farm programs. He could embrace the controversial Brannan plan advanced in 1949 by Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture under President Truman, but rejected at the time by Congress.

Or he could promise a return to the high, rigid price support program in effect during the Truman regime and the first two years of the Eisenhower administration. Or he could advocate a combination of the two.

Eisenhower will stand pat on a system of flexible price supports designed to influence farmers to reduce production when surpluses exist and to produce more when shortages threaten, and on a soil bank program and disposal programs to reduce a mountainous surplus of crops.

CTC Secretary To Spend Part Of Week In Lubbock

The new Citizens' Traffic Commission executive secretary will be going to work Monday morning, but he will not be in his city hall office. He will be in Lubbock.

James Eubanks was hired by the city commission Tuesday night upon the recommendation of CTC chairman, Larson Lloyd. With the recommendation came a request that he be sent to Lubbock for three or four days to study the CTC setup.

Lloyd termed the Lubbock organization the best in the state. Eubanks planned to go last week, but after talking to Lubbock officials, he decided to wait until this week. He will be in Lubbock through Wednesday and possibly Thursday.

Lloyd said Saturday that Tidwell Chevrolet had again donated a car and Eubanks will be making the Lubbock trip in it.

The CTC has been without a secretary since Oldham resigned July 25 to enter private business. Oldham had been secretary since CTC's organization three years ago.

Eubanks was hired by the city commission on an approval basis at a salary of $300 monthly. The city will pay maintenance on the car.

Eubanks, who is a part time Church of Christ preacher at Forsan, said the duties there would not interfere with his CTC job. He lives in Big Spring.

Bonds Lowered After Hearing

Bonds in the cases of Billy Edward Davis and Alvin Dee Kennedy, charged with theft of oil field pipe, have been reduced from $5,000 each to $2,500.

Walter Grice, justice of the peace, ordered the smaller bonds at the close of an examining trial in his court on Friday.

The two men were arrested last week by the sheriff's office in connection with the theft of a quantity of pipe from an oil field warehouse lot.

Carmon Dean Taylor is named as defendant in a complaint filed in Grice's court alleging theft of a 1952 model automobile. Grice set his bond at $2,000.

Mitchell Attends Insurance Meeting

Dalton Mitchell left today for Phoenix, Ariz., and the 20th annual meeting of the Great Southern Life Insurance Company's top production club. He is one of 186 field men who qualified for the 1956 Great Southern Club.

The Westward Ho Hotel has been reserved exclusively for the men and their wives and a contingent of home office officials. In addition to four work-sessions, there will be a tour to Scottsdale and other nearby points of interest. Pat M. Greenwood, president of Great Southern, said that the 186 men had produced more than $79 million in new business last year. All other agents added $22 million.

Forsan Methodists Schedule Revival

FORSAN, Sept. 15—A revival will start at the Forsan Methodist Church next Sunday and will continue through Sept. 30.

Dr. R. L. Kirk, Plainview district superintendent, and Rev. J. W. Rosenberg of the Asbury Methodist Church of Midland will lead the services. Meetings are set for 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily, with a prayer service to begin at 7:15 p.m. each day.

To Purchase Car

County Commissioners Court will meet on Monday to consider bids for a new automobile for the sheriff's department. Other than for this business, no other matters are planned for consideration by the court at its Monday meeting.

Formal Showing Of Rexformer Slated

More than three score oil company officials and technicians and petroleum writers will converge here Wednesday for a formal showing of Cosden Petroleum Corporation's new $2,500,000 Rexformer.

Two chartered DC-3 planes will land at 10:30 a. m. at Webb AFB, and several other private and company planes are due during the morning. At 11 a. m. the party—65 already have sent in acceptances—will leave the Settles Hotel for the Cosden Country Club where they will be luncheon guests. There they also will view a motion picture taken during the process of constructing the Rexformer, source of a 103-octane fuel component for Cosden.

Approximately at 2:30 p. m. the group will be taken in air conditioned buses to the refinery for a first hand inspection of the facility. Several of those accepting invitations indicated they would remain here for several days for a closer look at operations.

Among those due here are representatives of the Universal Oil Products, headed by M. P. Venema, which licensed the Rexformer. Others in the party will be A. C. Cookman, M. D. Gilchrist, D. F. Thornton Jr. and H. W. Blankenship. From Froon, which constructed the plant, will come C. B. Whyte, president, A. G. Petkus and J. C. Reed, vice president, and William Grose.

Other companies and their representatives include: Ashland Oil & Refining Co., R. A. Whealy, Tom Paulsen; B. J. Petroleum Corp., R. R. Dean, O. O. Garbrecht, and George Meason; American Liberty Oil Co., A. C. Johnson; The Chicago Corporation, L. A. Whitney and Jack Runc; Cities Service Oil Co. (Delaware), J. E. Woodridge, and L. C. Brannin.

Clark Oil & Refining Corp., J. A. Crawford; Cooperative Refinery Association, R. D. McCrum; Dehltaylor Oil Corp., Lewis Gross; Eastern States Petroleum Co. Inc., R. N. Blaise; Famariss Oil & Refining Company, Walter Famariss

Jr., John Illie; Gulf Oil Corporation, Paul Slecke. Ingram Oil Products Co., J. A. O'Neill Sr.; Lion Oil Company, J. B. Rogerson, H. H. Bible, W. M. Carney, O. H. Rothe; McMurrey Refining Co., O. C. DeLoach; Phillips Petroleum Company, F. M. Waddill; Republic Oil Refining Co., M. E. Houser; Shell Oil Company, J. V. Haslam; Southwestern Oil & Refining Co., G. W. RECYCLING ADDED

New Unit Produces High Octane Fuel Components

The Rexformer is in reality nothing more than a combination of a platformer and Udex extractor which recycles the raffinate (low octane portion of the Udex output) to extinction. Recycling is the feature which distinguishes it from Cosden's platformer and Udex extractor which comprise the BTX plant.

Although Aurora Gasoline Company at Detroit put a Rexformer on stream May 15 by adding an Udex to an existing platformer, the Cosden Rexformer is the first to be designed originally for production of high octane fuel component. Others are now under construction by Cities Service at Ponca City, Okla. and by Dehltaylor and Sunlight at Corpus Christi.

Under BTX operations, gasoline from sour crude is fed to the platformer. Formerly this fed a stock rich in aromatics, to the Udex part of the time and then was blocked out temporarily to produce high grade fuel blending material for the refinery. Now, with the Rexformer on stream, the first platformer and Udex are devoted exclusively to the BTX operation.

Under the Rexformer process, after the high octane portion of the charge is taken from the ex-tracter, the low octane portion is piped back (or recycled) so as to be fed back with gasoline from sweet crude oil as more charge stock for the Rexformer. Thus, what falls to emerge as 100 plus octane fuel component is recycled until it is finally used up.

The output—Rexformate—has a 103 leaded octane rating. Thus Cosden is in position to blend for the super-octane fuels which may be required for its own or custom motor fuels.

Platinum is the catalyst used in the process, hence the name "platformer." The Udex is a device which possesses an unusual selectivity in its extraction assignment. Cosden's Rexformer will take up to 4,500 barrels per day charged stock and will yield around 3,200 barrels per day of Rexformate.

Annual stockholders meeting of Cosden Petroleum Corporation will be held here Monday at 11 a. m. at company headquarters.

Eight members of the board of directors will be elected and other matters of business attended to. Stockholders also are due to see a colored film on the construction of the concern's new Rexformer which will be shown formally to the industry on Wednesday.

Directors will go into session immediately following the stockholders session and officers will be elected for the year.

The present slate consists of Raymond L. Tollett, president; Marvin M. Miller, Douglas Orme, R. W. Thompson, Nelson Phillips Jr., vice presidents; A. V. Karcher, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the board are Tollett, Karcher, Miller, all of Big Spring; Nelson Phillips, Dallas; Herbert W. Grindal, San Antonio; William H. Hayes, Leon M. O'Neill, Thomas I. Sheridan of New York.

All stockholders of record as of Aug. 10, 1956 are eligible to participate in the meeting here Monday.

SINCLAIR WEEKS

M. J. RATHBONE

Oilmen To Hear Top Figures

DALLAS — Sinclair Weeks, a New England businessman who is U. S. Secretary of Commerce, and M. J. Rathbone, New York, president of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), will address oil men attending the 37th annual meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, Oct. 2-3 in Houston.

Secretary Weeks, 63, heads a federal government department that touches nearly every phase of American business.

Rathbone, 56, is president of the world's largest oil company and the nation's No. 1 industrial corporation in assets.

L. L. Colbert, Detroit, president of Chrysler Corp., and L. F. McCollum, Houston, president of Continental Oil Co., already are scheduled to address the gathering of oil and gas industry leaders, Charles E. Simons, Association executive vice president, said.

Secretary Weeks and Rathbone will join Colbert in speaking to the group Oct. 3. McCollum and Association president French M. Robertson, Abilene, will speak on opening day, Simons said.

Secretary Weeks' history in public offices parallels that of his father, John Wingate Weeks. Both were elected alderman and mayor of Newton, Mass. Both served in the U. S. Senate, and both attained Cabinet rank. The elder Weeks was Secretary of War under presidents Harding and Coolidge.

As president of Jersey, Rathbone also serves as vice-chairman of the firm's executive committee (headed by a Texan, board chairman Eugene Holman), which guides operations of the company. He assumed his present post January 1954.

Northwest Howard Wildcat To Be Re-Entered For More Tests

Standard Oil of Texas will plug back another old abandoned wildcat in Howard County for tests to 8,500 feet. The old venture was plugged and abandoned in 1951.

The try, the No. 1 Harvey Adams, is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines, 47-34-3n, T&P Survey, and five miles southeast of Ackery.

Drilled to 9,997 feet originally by Standard, it was plugged and abandoned Sept. 11, 1951. The present test will plug back to 8,500 feet.

Contrary to a report last Sunday, the A. K. Turner No. 2 J. S. Walker wildcat is not plugged. The previous report showed the venture plugged at 6,900 feet. It has been temporarily shut-in while waiting for new pipe.

The prospector is being deepened to 7,900 feet. It was originally drilled to 4,500 feet and plugged. Site is 330 feet from south and 2,353 feet from west lines, 27-33-2n, T&P Survey.

Felmont Oil No. 4-A Settles will be drilled in the Howard-Glasscock field three miles west of Forsan. It is 1,140 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines, 6-32-2s, T&P Survey.

Combination tools will carry to 2,300 feet.

Roark-Hooker-Hill No. 3-D Guitar Trust pumped 86 barrels of oil in 24 hours on potential, and 10 per cent water. It is 2,310 feet from south and 1,650 feet from east lines, 16-A, B&C Survey, seven miles northeast of Big Spring.

Perforations are between 3,192-214 feet, and top of the San Andres pay zone is 3,190 feet. Total depth is 3,270 feet, and 5 1/2-inch string extends to that footage.

Gravity is 29, and gas-oil ratio is 250-1.

In the Moore field, Cosden No. 1-B Barnett-Connally was testing. Site is 2,310 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines, 23-31-s, T&P Survey, and five miles west of Big Spring.

Cosden No. 2-D Patterson, also in the Moore pool, fractured with 6,000 gallons and prepared to test. It is bottomed at 3,091 feet. Drill-site is 330 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines, 27-33-1s, T&P Survey.

Cosden No. 1 6-B Patterson set 114 feet of 9 1/2-inch surface casing. It is 1,650 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines, 23-31-s, T&P Survey, in the Moore field.

Drill-site is 660 feet from north and east lines, 66-2s, H&TC Survey.

Deep Prospector Staked In Borden

Location of a 8,200-foot wildcat in Borden County was reported this weekend, while new wells were added to the Arthur and Jo-Mill pools.

Lone Star located the No. 1 J. L. Higginbotham 14 miles south of Gall as a wildcat. It is 660 feet from southwest and southeast lines, 7-31-3n, T&P Survey.

In the Arthur (Spraberry) field, Continental No. 1-28 T. J. Good finished, bringing 749 barrels of oil through a 22-64-inch choke in 24 hours, plus 18 per cent water.

Gravity is 27 degrees, and gas-oil ratio is 227-1.

The well is seven and a half miles north of Venimor, 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines, 29-33-4n, T&P Survey.

The hole bottoms at 8,110 feet, and drilled-out depth is 8,065 feet. Five and a half-inch casing is cemented at 8,202. Perforations in the Spraberry are between 7,414-64 feet, and top of the pay zone is 6,310 feet. Tubing pressure is 290, and operator treated with 500 gallons acid before taking potential.

The Texas Company brought in the Jo-Mill field well, the No. 6-A-NCT-2 W. L. Miller 15 miles southwest of Gall. It pumped 185.1 barrels of oil in 24 hours, plus 15.3 per cent water. Operator acidized with 500 gallons.

Gas-oil ratio is 783-1, and gravity of the oil is 38.9 degrees. Plug-back depth is 7,481 feet, and total depth is 7,547 feet. Commercial pay in the Spraberry is reached at 7,410 feet, and perforations are set between 7,410-90 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines, 3-33-4n, T&P Survey.

In the Reinecke field 1 1/2 miles southwest of Snyder, Cosden and Tri-Service No. 2 E. Y. Murphy prepared to drillstem test after reaching 6,942 feet. Operator tentatively topped the reef at 6,993 feet, which would put it about 37 feet low to the No. 1 well.

Drill-site is 660 feet from north and east lines, 66-2s, H&TC Survey.

Martin and Sterling Counties slated for new ventures

Martin and Sterling Counties reported locations for new wildcat projects this weekend.

The Martin County venture is being drilled by Ritter and Wilbanks of Midland as the No. 1 Mulkey-White. Drill-site is 330 feet from north and east lines, 28-35-s, T&P Survey, three and a half miles east of Stanton, in the southeast corner of the county.

Operator is rotary drilling to 4,000 feet.

Stroube-Central, Callahan Interests, and Mahoney & Gregg staked the No. 1-B L. Sugg 330 feet from north and east lines, 21-7, H&TC Survey, about 14 miles southwest of Sterling City. Contract depth is 5,000 feet with rotary equipment.

Upward Swing Seen In Basin Drilling

An upward swing showed in rotary drilling during the two-week period ending last Monday, but the total still did not reach the number reported a month earlier.

Completions Show Gain

AUSTIN, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 316 oil well, 35 gas well and 136 dry holes were completed this week.

Total oil well completions for the year rose to 11,752 compared to 10,684 last year. Gas well completions were 1,266 compared to 771. Dry holes reached 5,723 compared to 5,202.

Eleven oil and two gas wildcats were reported during the week, along with 83 dry wildcats.

The total average calendar day allowable was 3,554,857 barrels compared to 3,350,832 Sept. 8.

National Drilling Picture Is Static

Drilling in the United States and western Canada continued its static pattern as of Sept. 10, but activity was down from last year.

The Hughes Tool report to the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors showed 2,762 rigs turning on Sept. 10, down slightly from the 2,787 the week previously. The United States had 2,507 rigs, a decrease of 16 for the week. Western Canada had 255, which was down nine. Texas fields showed 947 rigs going, which was 11 more than for the previous week.

New Type Of Drilling Fluids Being Released To Industry

Drilling fluids which will take temperatures above 400 degrees are being made available to the oil industry generally.

These were developed by research scientists of Magnolia Petroleum Company's field research laboratories in Dallas. This new class of oil well drilling fluids is expected to help open up oil reservoirs too deep to be reached by conventional drilling methods. Under a licensing agreement, it was concluded with Socomey Mobile (of which Magnolia is the southwestern affiliate), General Aniline and Film Corporation will manufacture the products as DMS and DME through Antara Chemicals division.

One type of fluid, referred to as a calcium-surfactant mud, was successfully used last spring in the completion of the world's deepest oil well—the 22,750-foot wildcat eliminate or minimize many of the problems encountered with conventional muds, are expected to make their use desirable in many wells of moderate bottom-hole temperatures.

(Principal purposes of drilling muds are to cool and lubricate drill bits, to remove cuttings from the drilled hole, and to maintain a hydrostatic pressure column to prevent the escape of oil, water, or gas.)

Surfactant drilling fluids represent a new concept in the formulation of drilling muds. Conventional constituents such as lime, caustic soda, and organic thinners are eliminated. These are replaced by a "nonionic surfactant"—a detergent-like organic compound that alters the surface properties of the solid materials in the mud and permits close control of flow properties under conditions where conventional mud systems fail.

Dawson County cotton gins are hitting full stride now, as both dryland and irrigated cotton is opening fast. The county estimate has been set at 65,000 bales, though several gin managers think this is too high, in view of the hot, dry weather the last few weeks. They say irrigated cotton suffered very little, but much of the dryland cotton went down fast.

The Lamesa Gin Company had ginned 660 bales at noon Saturday, according to Otis Green, manager. He said cotton was turning out well, though some of it has been spotted because of angular leaf spot. The worms also colored it a little.

Another Lamesa gin had also passed the 600 mark. Green said cotton was coming out of the fields earlier than last year. The first bale was ginned on Aug. 10, which is much earlier than usual.

Lamesa has also been a magnet for cotton pickers. No matter how good or bad the cotton is, the town is always full of cotton pickers on Saturday afternoon. Yesterday the biggest part seemed to be workers with families.

One of the labor associations reported that hundreds of native laborers had come into the area, which cut down somewhat on the need for braceros.

Broiler prices have hit bottom, according to Jay Cunningham, local feed dealer. They are now selling for 17 cents per pound, which is at least a cent below the break-even point.

He said there are no commercial broiler growers in this area, but a big broiler project has got under way around O'Donnell. There are also a lot of broilers raised at San Angelo, with growers at one time selling three-quarters of a million birds a year.

The egg market has just about held its own, though a leading poultry magazine reports that heavy hatches of laying chicks may soften the market in the months ahead.

Crops were a complete failure west and north of the Brown gin, said Earl Newcomer, who lives northwest of Brown. He didn't even plant the home place this year, though he has some young cotton south of Knott that will make a little.

He said the best cotton in that area was between Brown and Ackery. One small spot covering a few farms got a late rain that

Negroes Seek Court Order To Get In College

TYLER, Sept. 15 (AP)—Two Negroes turned away from Texarkana Junior College this week filed an intervening suit today in Federal Court.

The two said they were joining their pleas with that of another Negro who earlier instituted legal action to force the college to admit her.

The suit was filed on behalf of Jessilyn Gray, 18, and Steve Foster, 17.

He said the two joined the pleading set forth in the case styled Wilma Dean Whitmore, et al. vs. H. W. Stillwell, in which the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People obtained a court order stating the college could not bar Negro students. Stillwell is school president.

The NAACP said yesterday it had drawn up a motion seeking to cite Stillwell for contempt of court. The motion has not yet been filed.

Demonstrators set up picket lines and prevented the two Negroes from entering the college. The regional attorney for the NAACP cited a statement made by Stillwell at a white citizens' council meeting in which he school head said it was not only the right of white citizens to protest the admission of Negroes, but also their duty.

Bill Williams, college trustee, also was named in the proposed contempt suit. The court action claims Williams was a member of the crowd of demonstrators which turned back the two when they attempted to enter the college last Monday.

C-C To Honor Engine Team

Members of Webb AFB's champion jet engine change team will be guests at the Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting Monday, and the group will receive merchandise certificates from the Chamber.

Directors will meet in a luncheon session in offices at the Permian Building, J. H. Greene, manager, said agenda for the session was incomplete Saturday.

The team of mechanics from Webb maintained their hold on the world's title for changing a jet engine at the National Aircraft Show in Oklahoma City Labor Day. It was the second year Webb has won the title. The Chamber of Commerce also presented gift certificates to the champions in 1955.

Arraigned For Fraud

WAGONER, Okla. Sept. 15 (AP)—Frank Easley, suspended administrator of the Oklahoma Emergency Relief Board, was arraigned today on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the state in the payment of $20 relief checks to some 40 political workers.

BE ALERT! YOUR CHILDREN ARE

BACK IN SCHOOL

DRIVE CAREFULLY!

School Time Is Safe Driving Time—
The Child You Save May Be Your Own!

More and more children are on the streets again — some of them going to school for the first time. Children will be crossing the streets, walking along country roads, waiting for school buses. Children are sometimes unpredictable, and it is up to drivers to stay alert and in full command of their vehicles in case an emergency arises. PLEASE drive extra carefully. Watch for children at crossings and on the streets. Give the right of way to school buses. Be alert. The children may not see you — be sure you see them!

STOP AND WAIT
when school buses are taking on or discharging passengers.

KEEP ALERT for children walking to school in the city or on country roads.

GIVE RIGHT-OF-WAY to children at cross-walks. Be sure they arrive safely.

FOLLOW THESE RULES FOR SAFE DRIVING

- Be doubly careful near schools or where children play. Children don't realize the danger and may take chances. That's why you, the driver, must take extra care.
- Keep your car in top mechanical condition. Use chains when roads are slippery.
- Obey traffic laws. Know the traffic laws wherever you travel and don't break them.
- Slow down. Speed is dangerous at any time — doubly dangerous when visibility is cut by rain, fog or darkness.
- If you drive, don't drink—if you drink, don't drive. Remember, death takes no holiday.
- Keep lights and windshield wipers in good condition during rainy or snowy weather. You have to see danger to avoid it.
- Be a courteous driver. Yield right-of-way, even when it should be yours. It's better to stay alive than to be dead right.

MEN'S WEAR OF CHARACTER

HCJC Surplus For '55-56 is $18,950

Howard County Junior College over-spent its budget during the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1956, by $3,588.38, but it finished $18,950.47 ahead of the game.

This was because revenues had exceeded estimates by $22,547.85. Most of the increase in revenues—over budget estimates—occurred in the bookstore where receipts were $5,202 more than anticipated because of heavier enrollment, and in the regular tuition where there was a $10,822 bulge for the same reason. Local taxes also were $4,772 higher than expected. Other figures ran close to estimates.

Principal sources of revenue included $13,002 from bookstore, $5,321 from cafeteria, $3,005 lab fees, $2,172 student activity, $69,920 state subsidy, $183,307 local taxes, $27,622 regular tuition and $4,197 Webb AFB tuition. Receipts totaled $317,127.

By budget divisions, expenditures stacked up like this: Library $5,458 (budget $5,475); athletic $9,812.44 ($7,025); co-curricular $26,270 ($21,100); general and administration $38,750 ($38,643); instructional $122,636 ($138,565); plant maintenance $28,102 ($28,622); bus operations $2,281 ($1,200); refunds $1,205.75 ($1,125); capital expenditures, $48,832 ($32,825); fixed charges $809.55 ($1,000); total $298,168 ($294,580).

The August report on the budget did not include a statement on the interest and sinking fund, but the previous report showed that the college had paid out $64,473 ($37,500 bonds and $26,973 interest) on a budget of $68,261. Thus, total expenditures for the college must have been in the neighborhood of $353,000 for the year.

It may be noted that the only substantial saving was made in the instructional division with a $16,000 under run. This was more than absorbed by the excesses in the athletic, co-curricular, general and administration, bus and capital outlay divisions.

Plane To Make Long Trip For Magnetic Research

HANSCOM FIELD, Bedford, Mass., Sept. 15 (AP)—A giant plane is poised here to start a strange 90,000-mile exploration flight tomorrow afternoon—the first of its kind in history—to learn more about the magnetic field extending thousands of miles beyond the earth's surface.

Whether the world-circling expedition will incidentally provide data that will help in launching America's planned man-made moon—whether the flight will yield information valuable for guided missile research—the Air Force scientists do not say.

The huge four-engine KC97 will airlift a 1,500-pound cosmic ray monitor around the world at altitudes of about 18,000 feet. It will fly a zig-zag path criss-crossing the equator, a thousand miles to the north and south. It will carry scientists of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center and a specially selected crew from the Strategic Air Command's Second Air Force, 10 men in all.

Leapfrogging ahead of the plane will be a C124 Globemaster with an extra crew, equipment and supplies. The expedition will touch Florida, South America, Africa, Asia and Australia, cross the Pacific to the United States West Coast, and return to Mac Dill Air Force Base at Tampa, Fla., to which it heads from this field.

Measurements of intensity of cosmic radiation are expected to help disclose whether the earth's magnetic field at high levels is different from that deduced from ground level data.

The expedition, among other things, is expected to reveal more accurately the relationship between the geographic equator and the geomagnetic equator.

It is believed that increased knowledge of the earth's magnetic field may help with more accurate information for the launchings of earth satellites—such as the one now planned.

P-TA's Launch Year's Projects

ARITHMETIC CLASS is held by the group in the division for exceptional children, taught in College Heights by Mrs. F. L. Bass (photo at right). Learning the mysteries of "two and two" are, left to right, Jerry Worthan, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Worthan; John Clements Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clements; and Tommy Cook, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Wade. Assistance with this class is another in the projects adopted for this year by the P-TA.

A CAKE FOR VA HOSPITAL PATIENTS is packed by Mrs. C. A. Boyd, left in photo at left, and Mrs. Gilbert Cook. Plans for the Parent-Teacher Association project call for units of the system to serve as hostesses at the VA Hospital. Refreshments will be served and a variety of entertainment will be presented. Game parties, dramatic or musical programs, and other forms of amusement for the patients are in the planning stage.

A SCHOLARSHIP TO HOWARD COUNTY JUNIOR COLLEGE is awarded each year to some local student. This year, Betty Earley, left in photo at right, is the recipient of the scholarship, which is being paid for by Mrs. E. P. Driver, treasurer of the P-TA Council, from council funds. Each unit contributes toward the fund used for the scholarships. President of the Council is Mrs. A. C. LaCroix.

THE BIG SPRING HERALD

SEC. II BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, SEPT. 16, 1956 SOCIETY

P-TA Council, Units Plan Mental Workshop

Units of the Parent-Teacher Association of the city will combine in holding a mental health workshop Oct. 16. Scheduled as consultant is Mrs. James Leonard of Fort Worth, state mental health chairman.

Meetings will be held at the high school, beginning at 9 a.m. based on the theme, "Mental Health—This Means You—Your Family—Your School—Your Community." Luncheon will be served in the high school cafeteria, with sessions continued in the afternoon.

Mental health is one of the projects which the P-TA will sponsor this year. Parties for VA Hospital patients are planned as part of the work of the P-TA with each unit to serve as hostesses at a certain period.

Assistance with exceptional children will be given in various ways, and a scholarship to Howard County Junior College will be awarded to a local student. Members helped with the registration of workers in the civil defense membership drive, and they plan other CD activities.

Mrs. Neil Norred is chairman of the mental health committee for the P-TA City Council; serving as chairman of the VA Hospital committee is Mrs. Bill Griese. The exceptional child committee is headed by Mrs. Jack Irons, and Mrs. E. P. Driver is chairman of the scholarship committee. Mrs. Alton Underwood will serve on the CD committee.

Other chairmen for the council are Mrs. Elvis McCrary, parliamentarian; Mrs. A. B. Pachall, safety; Mrs. Vern Vigar, publications; Mrs. W. S. Goodlett, devotions; Mrs. R. E. Gray, publicity and scrapbook; and Mrs. Grady McCrary, education for family living.

Mrs. Della K. Agnell will work with the health group; Mrs. James Johnson, radio and TV; Mrs. Underwood, budget and finance; and Mrs. M. R. Turner, citizenship. Co-hostesses for the hospitality committee are Mrs. Dean Fling and Mrs. E. L. Whately.

Money for projects carried on by the organization is made in various ways. Food is sold at some of the schools on certain days; members hold rummage sales and bake sales.

President of the council is Mrs. A. C. LaCroix. Presidents of the units are as follows: Airport, Mrs. Cecil Earp; College Heights, Mrs. W. A. Cobb; East Ward, Mrs. Elwood Carlile; Junior High, Mrs. J. H. Homan; Kate Morrison, Mrs. Enriqueta Vasquez; North Ward, Mrs. E. L. Fannin; Park Hill, Mrs. Bennett Brooke; South Ward, Mrs. James Jones; Washington Place, Mrs. R. L. Heath; and West Ward, Mrs. Oscar Martin.

Sports Clubs Help To Form Odessa Groups

Members of the local Indoor Sports and Good Sports Club went to Odessa Friday evening to assist in the organization of a club in that city.

Attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. James Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roberts, Dollie Ward, Courtney Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Boland and Mrs. Armour Long. Midland members present were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bucknell and Murray Maddox, and from Borger were Dutch Grant.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Patricia Cobb, who was elected temporary president. First vice president is Paul Goble; second vice president, Floyd Kelsey and secretary-treasurer, Martha Sullivan.

Mrs. Cobb will serve as director of the district. Thirteen members were present for the Indoor Sports of Odessa, with 15 Good Sports attending. H. D. Dennis was elected president of the Good Sports; D. A. Duvall was chosen secretary-treasurer.

A petition for organization was signed to be sent to the national and district offices. The report was made of two meeting places offered to the group.

The group decided to meet the first and third Friday in October as temporary dates. They will set a permanent date later.

Pictures, taken at the national convention held in Tucson last year were shown for the club, as were pictures of the district meeting held in Borger in June of this year.

Refreshments were served following the business session.

Big Lake Girl Named Queen Of Reagan Co.

Mrs. Ross Callihan has received word that her niece, Carole Jean Cauble of Big Lake, has been named Miss Reagan County.

Miss Cauble, sponsored by Big Lake State Bank, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cauble Jr. She was chosen from a field of 20 contestants and reigned over the county homecoming activities which were held this weekend.

Mrs. Virginia Lowe and Mrs. Greely Lowe, Elbow, are also aunts of Miss Cauble.

Philippine Girl Engineer Designs Michigan Bridges

LANSING, Mich. — Pretty Romola Almajose Corcuera is thoroughly accustomed to being the only girl among a group of several hundred men.

When she studied civil and sanitary engineering at National University in Manila, she was the only girl in the class. When she took her Master's degree at the University of Michigan, she was once more the only girl in the post-graduate engineering courses.

Now she is the only girl in the bridge design division of Michigan's State Highway Department.

Back in her native Philippine Islands, most young women consider only one career — marriage and home-making. So Romola created quite a stir when she not only decided to enter the school of engineering, but also was graduated with honors.

She was almost as much of a sensation at the University of Michigan, as a civil engineer majoring in structural design. It wasn't so surprising to have a girl in engineering classes there — but it was a novelty to see such a pretty, feminine coed wrestling with bridge design.

"It's the same thing in my work here," says Romola. "I used to be a little embarrassed about it, but now I'm not."

"I've got used to being around all these men, and they all treat me like a younger sister."

Romola is the daughter of Aurelio L. Corcuera, former professor of physics at the University of the Philippines, who took an engineering degree at the University of Chicago. While his daughter was studying for her Master's at Ann Arbor, Corcuera taught engineering mechanics at Wayne University in Detroit.

Her brother, Aurelio Jr., is an architect for the Manila city engineers. A sister, Ofelia is a chemist. Her mother, Isabel Almajose Corcuera, is a retired pharmacist. All of them came unharmed through the Japanese occupation of Manila.

GOOD COMBINATION

Hacking Jacket, Sheath Winning Pair For Fall

Just in time for the first crisp autumn days is Vera Maxwell's cotton corduroy classic, hacking jacket of cocoa brown and sheath dress of beige, superbly fitted to the figure with darts expertly placed to do the most for the figure.

A touch of orange corduroy as underlay for back kick-pleat in the skirt, making the jacket's brown-edged collar itself as well as the collar facing, enlivens the muted tones.

The brown and beige wooden buttons are practical as well as decorative accents. The Maxwell sleeve is comfortable, well fitting and long enough to turn back to make a generous cuff. The sheath dress has a narrow, stand-up band collar, folded over in front.

This accurate custom cut pattern with instruction sheet so complete and easy to follow guarantees success and professional results even for beginners. Other fabric suggestions are linen, novelty cottons, velveteen, flannel, woolens or tweeds.

From this chart select the one size best for you!

Size 10 bust 34, waist 25, hips 35 inches, length from nape of neck to waist 16 1/4 inches; size 12 bust 35, waist 26, hips 36, length from nape of neck to waist 16 1/2 inches; size 14 bust 36 1/2, waist 26 1/2, hips 37 1/2, length from nape of neck to waist 17 inches; size 16 bust 38, waist 28, hips 39, length from nape of neck to waist 17 1/4 inches; size 18 bust 40, waist 30, hips 41, length from nape of neck to waist 17 1/2 inches.

Size 12 requires 2 1/2 yards of material with or without nap for dress and 3/4 yards of contrasting material with nap for jacket.

Mrs. Young Is Honored

Mrs. David Young, the former Jean Robison, was honored with a bridal shower Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. L. B. Edwards.

Rural Mail Carrier Fills Requests

By PAUL BECK
LOUISVILLE, Ky. — You wouldn't expect a mail carrier to take measurements for a girdle or make an impression for an elderly woman's dentures. But that's what Mrs. Alta M. Monin, one of 325 rural letter carriers in the nation, does on her route. And the Oakland, Ky., woman says "that is by no means the most unusual request I've had."

was making the dental impression for a woman trying to order teeth by mail. Mrs. Monin came to the rescue "but the woman moved away shortly after that and I never did find out if the new teeth fit." The monotony of a solo ride once was broken when Mrs. Monin found a coiled snake resting in a mailbox — dead, of course. "I lifted the letter off and replaced it with one I was delivering and calmly got back into the car as if meeting snakes was a daily occurrence." Mrs. Monin insists her job is the "best job in the world — one that's ideal for women." She took over a route in 1936 when, a young widow with three children to rear and educate, she applied for the job and passed the Civil Service examination.

Bride - Elect Is Given Brunch Today, Party

This morning, a brunch was given for Louise Ann Bennett in the home of Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards, with Mrs. Sunny Edwards, Mrs. Bill Neal and Mrs. Toots Mansfield as hostesses. The honoree, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Bennett, will become the bride of Jerry Worthy at St. Mary's Episcopal Church on Oct. 12. Serving was done buffet-style for the 12 included in the party. Seated at a table centered with an arrangement of individual corsages, each guest was presented with one. These had been a cover for a stethoscope placed on a bank of greenery. (Dr. Bennett is associated with her father in the Big Spring Clinic-Hospital.) The hostess gift was an electric coffee-maker in copper with matching accessories. Miss Bennett was honored Friday afternoon in the E. V. Spence home, when Mrs. Spence, Mrs. Marie Carter and Clara Secrest entertained with an informal party. A Venetian lace cloth covered the table, which was centered with a crystal and silver epergne holding an arrangement of pink carnations and chrysanthemums. About 23 were included in the guest list.

Before You Paint

Deep red paint is becoming popular for house color. It's a good idea before deciding on red or another color to size up the surrounding houses and make sure that it will not clash with colors used on neighboring homes. Ask yourself also, whether "burn red" will suit the architecture of your house.

made by following clues found in various sections of the city. Upon the return to the Higley home, guests danced and were served refreshments. Individual tables held hurricane lamps and seashells. The serving table, covered with a white linen cloth, was decorated with a sea-going vessel. Other decorations also followed a nautical theme. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Calmes, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Green Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gray.

Cheerleaders Spent Summer Practicing

By DON HENRY
The Big Spring football team started working Sept. 1 for the game against Andrews Friday night, but seven other students drilled all summer for the contest. They are the cheerleaders.

These seven girls started their practice sessions shortly after being elected to their posts by the student body last May. Three seniors, two juniors, and two sophomores were selected by high school students.

The number from each class is set, but either boys or girls can be chosen; last spring, however, no boys applied for the job.

Two of the three seniors and both juniors were on the squad last fall, and both sophomores were junior high cheerleaders in '55.

The seniors are Sue Boykin, Lou Ann White, and Sue Barnes. Valjean LaCroix and Sammie Sue McComb are juniors and Judy Reagan and Toni Thomas are the sophomores.

Miss Boykin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. M. Boykin, Silver Heels Addition, is co-captain and is serving her third year as a cheer leader. The other co-captain is Lou Ann White, daughter of Mrs. George White, 1709 Main. She also is a "two-year letter girl."

Sue Barnes, the other senior, is among the group for the first time. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Barnes, 208 Dixie.

Valjean LaCroix is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. LaCroix, 311 Princeton, and Sammie Sue McComb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McComb, resides at 811 E. 13th. Both juniors are cheerleaders from last year.

Toni Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, and Judy Reagan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Reagan, 806 W. 16th.

The seven started practicing their yell routines last spring and worked on through the summer. Four of them have attended a cheerleader's school at SMU. They are Lou Ann, Valjean, Sammie, and Sue Boykin. Miss Tommy Hill, a math teacher, is sponsor. Monogrammed sweaters and gold skirts are their uniforms.

For The Steers All The Way

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Well, friends, I didn't get 'round town much this weekend, but I did get to the style show at the Country Club and I can truthfully say I enjoyed every minute. There's nothing that inspires me like getting out with a great many people even though seeing all these lovely models and beautiful clothes does make me wistful. Nature took care of the lovely angle but the Great Project, our new home, is going to take care of the lovely clothes.

We were happy to meet MRS. BILL JOHNSON, a new resident, who was with Mrs. Roy Reeder. Also there, with Mrs. Jordan Grooms, was MRS. FOWLER FAUBION of Fort Worth.

Remembering back when I wore my hair long, I wish the stylists had thought of something as attractive for wearing in the buns as the chopsticks so many wear now. MRS. E. E. MCCORMICK and MRS. GUS BARR, both of whom have long hair, wore them to the show. Mrs. McCormick's were jeweled and Mrs. Barr's were jet black. MRS. R. E. MC KINNEY wore some fancy ones in a 'just for tonight' bun.

From the showing of casuals, it looks like this might be a panty season and an observance would be if you don't have a panty waist (line, that is) you would do well not to try to wear the lounging pants. They are shown in every conceivable pattern and material but it takes young figures and small hips to avoid looking ridiculous.

A novel touch to the show as the little 'something to hold in your hand' features. MRS. BILL FRENCH carried an oil can dressed up for the occasion with a coat of red paint and sprinkled with glitter. MRS. JOHN HATCH sported an umbrella which appeared to be encased in a shiny black cover. MRS. BILL NEAL and MRS. PETE HARMONSON held baskets tied with bright bows from which they tossed candy kisses. (At least I presumed it was kisses... none came my way!)

Stuffed Potatoes, Romano Cheese

Popular way to prepare potatoes. STUFFED POTATOES SUPREME

Ingredients:
Six medium-sized potatoes (about 2 1/4 pounds), 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1-3 cup heavy cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon white pepper, 3 eggs, 1-3 cup grated Romano cheese, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, paprika.

Method:
Bake scrubbed potatoes in hot (425 degrees) oven until very soft — 1 hour or longer. (Leave oven turned on.) Cut a thin lengthwise slice from the top of each potato; scoop pulp into a large bowl. Put pulp through ricer. Beat in butter, cream, salt and pepper; continue beating until there are no lumps. Beat eggs until thick and ivory colored; add potatoes and fold in or beat gently just until combined. Spoon back into scooped-out shells, piling high. Mix grated cheese and mayonnaise; spread over top of potatoes; sprinkle lightly with paprika. Return to oven (on baking sheet) to reheat and brown tops — about 15 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Couples Make Fourth Of Lamesa Faculty

LAMESA — Though the Lamesa School system suffers from the same "teacher shortage" that schools the nation over face, it can certainly be classified among the more fortunate from one standpoint. About one-fourth of the 135 member faculty is composed of husband and wife teams, whose lives are devoted to the teaching profession. For the most part, these couples are home-owners, taxpayers, and leaders in church and community activities.

Collectively, the 18 couples have a record of more than 180 years as teachers in the Lamesa schools alone.

Individual records indicate that Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ogletree hold the longest teaching record in the local school system. Mr. Ogletree joined the faculty in 1923, and with the exception of four and a half years when he was associated with the Lamesa National Bank, he has a continuous teaching record here. Mrs. Ogletree joined the faculty in 1929, and all but two years, when she was employed by the Lamesa Post Office, she has been a teacher of high school English.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lauderdale are numbered among Lamesa's favorite teachers. Beginning their ninth year as members of the faculty, they moved here from Vega, where he was superintendent of schools and she a teacher in the elementary grades. They are classed as veterans of the teaching profession, and oldtimers in the county.

Other married couples who are back behind their desks in the administrative offices and the classrooms include the Ralph Ransons, C. E. Greens, Abe Holders, O. W. Follisea, Andrew Essarys, C. Raymond Joneses, Don Shortt, H. A. Wilkinsons, V. C. Beardens, Charles Hatchetts, D. H. Hamricks, R. B. Cleavelands, Frank Bittles, and the newest husband and wife team, the "B" squad football coach, Glenn Cleveland and Mrs. Cleveland, who will teach in the elementary school system.

Mr. and Mrs. James McClure and Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Newsome are the married couples on the faculty of the Blackshear schools.

DR. AND MRS. JACKSON H. FRIEDLANDER AND TOBY

Friedlanders Back To Enjoy Living In Texas

What is that condition that is between a newcomer and not being one? Whatever it is, it can well be applied to Dr. and Mrs. Jackson H. Friedlander. The Friedlanders have just returned from a year's stay in Washington D. C., where Dr. Friedlander was associated with the training of doctors and supervision of the VA hospitals. Before their move to Washington, Dr. Friedlander was chief of professional services at the local VA Hospital for three years. Both Dr. and Mrs. Friedlander expressed their happiness at being back in Big Spring and West Texas. "This is really the country," Dr. Friedlander said, "of course, you have to live here a year to appreciate it."

While working in Washington, the Friedlanders lived in Arlington. Fighting the traffic of 200,000 people who work in Washington and live outside that city is really a problem, Dr. Friedlander recalled. Commenting on the local hospital, Dr. Friedlander said it was one of the best equipped in the nation. Dr. Friedlander said he hadn't seen too much change in the hospital since he left, except a complete turnover of staff doctors. For recreation, Dr. Friedlander enjoys watching sports, especially football. Mrs. Friedlander is active in church work. One of the main attractions around the Friedlander home is their nine-year-old boxer, Toby. A possession that Mrs. Friedlander prizes is a silver box, which was presented to one of her ancestors by Queen Victoria. The Friedlanders are both natives of upper state New York but agree that West Texas will always be their home.

HI--TALK

By CAROL ROGERS

SUE BOYKIN

Stepping into the spotlight as Senior-of-the-Week is Sue Boykin. During her high school years, Sue has participated in practically every phase of school activity. She is now serving as first vice president of the student council and senior editor of the El Rodeo staff. Sue has been a cheerleader for three years and secretary of her Tri-Hi-Y for two years.

Nominated for Homecoming Queen last year, Sue was also selected to Who's Who. She served as the student council as second vice president when she was a junior.

During her sophomore year, Sue was chosen as a class favorite and as president of her FHA chapter. She was a district officer in FHA and had a role in the spring all school play.

The beginning of school has brought about election in almost every club and organization in ESSIS. Very important in these is the class officer elections to be held Tuesday. Friday, petitions had been turned in for the following: Walter Dickenson, Lewis Porter, and Jerry McMahan, president; Kathy McRee, Barbara Shields, and Nancy King, vice president; and Deanne Green, Annette Boykin, Cecilia McDonald, and Carol Rogers, secretary-treasurer.

Petitions for junior class officer were turned in for Barbara Coffee, president; Brenda Gordon and Barbara Coffee, vice president and Sue Arrick, secretary-treasurer.

Sophomore petitions had been turned in for Bobby McAdams, Peggy Isaac, and Sharon Creighton. More petitions were expected.

Activity cards will be required before you may vote Tuesday. Kids, be sure to bring the cards.

Ballot boxes will be located in the foyer. Look your best this week because class pictures will be made Tuesday morning. Junior students will have their pictures made all day Wednesday and Thursday morning. Sophomore pictures will be taken Thursday afternoon and all day Friday.

Senior girls, if you did not have your picture made during the summer, call Barr Photo Center at once and make your appointment.

The 1956-57 Corral staff has been chosen by the editor, Kathy McRee. The workers will be: Jean Peters, assistant editor; Jackie Touchstone, Bounce Covert, and Dwayne McRee, business managers; Janice West, and Virginia Johnson, feature editors; Hershel Stocks, Bobby Suggs, Dick Jackson, sports editors; Charlene Laning and Darlene Agee, society editors; Kay Wilcox and Brenda Barr, exchange editors; Ernestine Carrell, Aurora Flores, Billy Rosser, and Dan McPherson, make-up editors; Troy McClendon, circulation editors; and Mavis Martin, cartoonist. Other journalism students will serve as reporters.

The first issue of the Corral was given free to all students Friday morning. Subscriptions for the year will go on sale Wednesday and Thursday for $1. You may buy the subscriptions from your guidance teacher.

Are you planning to be a teacher? If so, or if you are interested in the teaching profession, come to the Future Teachers of America meeting Tuesday night. It will begin at 7 o'clock in the cafeteria.

Bruce Moore was elected president of the local FFA chapter at their first meeting of the year. Other officers elected at the meeting Thursday night were Eddie Whitaker, vice president; George Lowke, secretary; Tommy Buckner, reporter; Charles Engle, treasurer; and Lanny Hamby, sentinel. The boys decided to sell peanuts, gum, and candy at the football games this fall as a money-raising project. Dues for the coming year were also decided on.

Another club selecting officers last week was the Shorthand Club. The girls chose Jean Robison Young as their president in class Monday. Other officers are Linda Coker, vice president; Jacqueline Smith, secretary; and Judy Masters, treasurer. Carol Rogers was elected editor of the shorthand paper, "The Scratch" which comes out in the spring. Barbara Shields was chosen as coeditor.

Activity cards were issued Thursday — a different color for each class. These cards are necessary for participation in many school activities, don't lose them. Second cards may be obtained from the student council for a small fee. The Key Club met Wednesday at noon in the Library. Officers for this year are Johnny Janak, president; Kelsey Meeks, vice president; Tommy Pickle, treasurer.

The first pep rally of the year was held Friday morning. The cheer leaders presented a skit, "Is the Gang all Here?" and several new yells were introduced. Coaches Baird and Bentley introduced the team and gave short talks.

Members of the FHA, Chapter Two elected their officers Friday. The girls selected are Helen Gray, president; Sue Arrick, vice president; Judy Reagan, secretary; Betty Jo Fincher, treasurer; Sharon Creighton, sergeant-at-arms; Rosalie Ebersole, historian; Darlene Williams, parliamentarian; Patay Potter, song leader; and Lynn McMahan reporter. These officers were elected from the class officers. The club mothers for the year will be Mrs. Y. C. Gray, Mrs. John Hogan, Mrs. J. D. Hancock, and Mrs. William McRee. Five members of the El Rodeo staff are attending the Stock Company Tenth Annual yearbook clinic in Austin. The students are Jacqueline Smith, editor; Sue Boykin, senior class editor; Nanc. King, activities editor; Danne Green, organizations editor and Carol Rogers, copy editor.

The group sponsor, Mrs. Erma Steward is also attending. Members left early Saturday morning and will return Tuesday evening. They are staying at the Driskill Hotel where the clinic is being held.

The group will study advanced phases of yearbook production. See ya at Levelland Friday!

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Mary Sue Hale

That cute Dennis the Menace poster you saw in the SUB the past week advertising the all-school picnic was the handiwork of Mary Lou Staggs. Or perhaps you noticed the poster featuring the pair of Jayhawkers in the foyer, advertising the same activity. That work of art can be attributed to none other than Clara Freeman.

Last night a get-acquainted picnic and social was held on the campus honoring all students at HCJC. Hosts and hostesses for the affair were faculty members.

Students were officially welcomed Thursday morning, when a mixer social was held in the SUB. After the first portion, which took place during activity, the student body and faculty adjourned to the auditorium, where entertainment was furnished by Eunice Freeman, who sang two selections, accompanied by Julie Rainwater.

Next on the bill of entertainment was a skit headed by Clara Freeman. Assisting her were Julie Rainwater, LaVern Cooper, Rod Shepherd, and Billy McVain. A second skit was in charge of Mary Sue Hale, Richard Engle, David Dibrell, Marlene Mann and Bettie Anderson were performers in this number.

This year marks the turn-over of a decade in the operation of HCJC. With each year, local folks seem to be amazed at the higher enrollment. This has continued until this semester will witness a record number of students furthering their learning in this college.

Enrollment for this semester will continue until Sept. 24. At that time, all classes will be closed for class change or registration.

One of the busiest organizations of the entire campus at this early date is the journalism staff, which is in charge of the official college publication, El Nido. Editor Betty Early, and sponsor, Elizabeth Daniel, announced the staff for the coming year Friday. Serving as assistant editor will be Marlene Mann; feature editors will be Jo Ann Watkins and Allen McCloud. Taking care of organizations will be Charlie McCarty, while Mary Sue Hale will be straw editor, or in charge of gossip.

Serving as photographer will be David Dibrell, and Lydia McGuire will be exchange editor.

The Jayhawker staff hasn't exactly been wasting any time getting started on the yearbook. Their advertising goal has been met, and the photographer, Max McCollough, manages to be in several places at once, forever taking flash pictures for the annual.

This group must resort to meeting at odd hours of the day to do their tasks, because they have no regular class period in which to work. However, members of the staff are very enthusiastic about their work, making us look forward to the end of the year when we will receive our year books.

Consuelo Fierro, president of the local Future Teachers of America chapter, has announced that the first meeting of this organization will be Tuesday morning. The time will be during activity period in the small auditorium. Consuelo invites all students who plan to enter the teaching profession to be present at this first meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Moore, students at HCJC, are visiting his family in Crowell, this week end.

China Carroll and Frank Long were among the local people who attended the Abilene Christian College - McMurry football game at Abilene Saturday night.

Getting together for a dance on Seaside Monday night were Max McCullough, Mary Lou Staggs, Marylon Harrison, Freddie Stewart, Tommy Black, Betty Hester, Barbara Elmore, Rita Gale, Jimmy Blessingame, Charles Boyd, Julie Rainwater, Billy McVain, Louise Burchett, Buck Drake James Baird, Richard Hood, James Skeen, Mary Forehand, Janette Story, and Buddy Mayes.

Representatives from the Washington Place PTA were on hand Friday at the SUB for the purpose of enlisting students for volunteer work in Civil Defense.

Even though their high school days are forever behind them, some of the recent exes of Big Spring High School just couldn't miss the Steers' first football game Friday night at Andrews, including the ones there backing the old home team were Belva Wren, Jack Cox, LaVelle Wasson, Doyle Maynard, Marlene Mann, David Dibrell, Bettie Anderson, Richard Engle, Ann Green, Louise Burchett, Eunice Freeman, and Jerry Forsyth.

Klondike FHA Holds Election Of Officers

Program chairmen from each class were also elected as follows: Kathrine Johnson, junior, Norma Reid, sophomore, and Sharon Vogler, freshman.

The following chapter mothers were elected: Mrs. Gervaise Medford, junior; Mrs. Bernice Beeman, sophomore, and Mrs. Audrey Robison, freshman.

Take A Three - Way Hairdo To School

By VIVIAN BROWN

Dear school girls: Take a soft, easy-to-manage hairdo back to school with you, and be sure it's one designed for your age.

That's the advice of Ruel, hair stylist favorite of young people. He explains:

"The down line in hairdo is youthful, but many young girls like to wear their hair pulled back in a severe style that will only add years to their features."

Most young school girls are sloppy about their hair, Ruel says. He has observed from dressing youthful heads that they are not washed or brushed enough. Clips are often used to set the hair at night, and these may break the hair.

A high style hairdo usually looks ridiculous on a young modern. Casual, simple hairdos are the best frames for youthful faces, he says.

Select your own hairdo, but take a few tips from your hairdresser and your mother. After all, your mother isn't going to steer you to an unbecoming style, and she'll be anxious to steer you away from one that doesn't flatter you.

The professional haircut is best from the standpoint of shaping, and not easy to do yourself, says Ruel of Coiffures Americana, although a young student should be able to set her hair once it has been shaped properly.

Hairdos that give you the look of a sky-cherper are just fads. If you've chopped your hair to that shaggy loose-ended look, don't expect to get it back in lady-like shape in time for those first holiday dances.

It's more fun and intriguing, too, says Ruel, to have your hair styled so that your one hairdo will suffice for many occasions by using a little different treatment in the setting.

One hairdo can give you a neat, trim, look for school, the "sweet sixteen" look that the family adores—a pulled-back style and an updo that is youthful by reason of its French twists but is sophisticated for dates.

Planned as a fund-raising project is the cook book now being compiled by members of the NCO Wives' Club at Webb Air Force Base.

All local women are being invited to send in recipes for use in the book, which will have a washable, plastic-coated cover. A ring binding will allow the book to lie flat when opened for use.

Mrs. J. E. Watkins, 1812 Owens, is in charge of collecting the recipes for publication, and they should be sent to her. The name of the sender should accompany the recipe.

Members of the club are contributing recipes, also. Since they are from various parts of the country, the book will probably contain some recipes unusual in this section. Kitchen hints will be included in the publication and there will be a division on weight control with diets for losing or gaining weight.

Price of the book has not been announced, but it is expected to be sold for a nominal fee.

Mrs. Avery Is Given Tea, Shower

Mrs. Maple Avery was honored with a shower Friday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. W. L. Clayton, 1810 Donley.

A white organdy cloth over orchid was used to cover the refreshment table. At each end of the table, rosebuds made from paper dillies in orchid and green shades, were tied to the table and green and orchid ribbons fell to the floor.

The centerpiece was of orchid dahlias, chrysanthemums, and jack bean vines. On each side of the arrangement, double candleabra held green candles tied with yellow ribbons.

The yellow cake was encircled by orchid chrysanthemums. Crystal appointments were used for serving.

Other arrangements throughout the house were of orchid sweet peas.

The hostesses presented the honoree with a handmade baby book, fashioned by Mrs. M. L. Kirby.

Assisting with hospitalities were Mrs. Denver Yates, Mrs. Lyndell Ashley, Mrs. L. E. Taylor, Mrs. R. B. Hall Sr., Mrs. B. W. Yater, Mrs. James L. Curry, Mrs. Reuben Hill, Mrs. Elgin Jones, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. George Thomas, Mrs. Dick Davis, and Mrs. Earnest Rainey.

About 70 called at the party.

Moving Day To Bring Clean-Up On Pictures

Moving day at The Herald is just around the corner — we hope!

Won't be long, now, until we begin packing to move to our new location — and we are not going to move the pictures which have accumulated through the years.

If we have taken or used a picture of you or any of your kindfolk — you'd better come by soon to pick it up. (Please make the trip after 10:30 a.m., though.)

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Hair Care Stressed
By Star Terry Moore

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Terry Moore has always been known for her vibrance and beauty, but when we lunched at 20th Century-Fox the other day she was even more radiantly alive. After seeing a preview of "Heaven and Hell," her "It's so wonderful to find the right man," she said with a glowing smile. She is married to Eugene McGrath of Panama.

"Living in a climate where it's hot and humid it's difficult to look well-groomed but I've worked it out," Terry confessed. "I have no natural curl in my hair but refuse to put it up at night now that I'm married. But I have a wonderful system. I roll my hair in dry pin curls and then hold my head over the spout of a steaming teakettle. This gives a moist but not wet spray so in about 30 minutes my hair is ready to comb out. And my curl stays in as well as it did when I had it up all night."

"What a wonderful suggestion," I exclaimed.

"I had to find something," Terry said. "You simply cannot look attractive if your hair is messy. Sometimes if we go out right after swimming, I wear my hair without curl in a chignon.

"Hair has to be clean to look nice," Terry continued. "I think you should wash it as often as needed instead of waiting for a set time. I know in Panama's humid climate I sometimes shampoo my hair every other day."

"It's certainly beautiful," I commented. "You should see my grandmother's," Terry exclaimed. "Her hair is just like silk, and she never washes it in anything but raw eggs. That's what started me using them. You know, in Paris the famous Antoine uses raw eggs and lemon juice on his patrons."

"I always have breakfast with my husband, and though I don't wear a lot of make-up in the morning, I choose an attractive negligee and perfume and try to look my best. I have heard men complain how different their wives look from the girl they dated. I don't want Gene ever to feel that way about me."

Terry feels that good grooming includes your feet.

"They should have just as much attention as your hands," she declared. "With sandals, sheer hose and so much life around a pool, it is surprising how careless some people are about their feet. I oil my feet regularly, keep my toenails neatly trimmed and watch my lacquer to my fingernails."

It was obvious that Terry had no trouble growing long nails.

"I think the trick is to massage cuticle oil in every night. I also take my vitamins regularly and I'm not a worrier so there is no reason why they shouldn't grow."

I knew that at one time Terry had weight problems and asked her about this.

"I don't have a weight problem in the tropics. It isn't good to eat too much in hot weather and I don't seem to have much of an appetite until after the sun goes down. I practically live on those wonderful tropical fruits, nispero (a star apple), red papaya and soft green coconuts which you eat with a spoon like a melon. And coconut milk is delicious! The green coconut has less calories and tastes entirely different from the hard, ripe kind."

"I swim a lot. It's wonderful exercise but I still do set-ups every day. They only take a few minutes and I feel they are figure insurance."

"The screen makes you look ten pounds heavier, so before I start a picture I go on a diet. I can easily take off ten pounds in ten days."

"You must enjoy this diet if you say it's so easy," I commented. "It's not extreme," Terry explained. "It's beautifully balanced so you don't feel weak or hungry."

LOSE TEN POUNDS
It's easy to lose ten pounds with Terry Moore's exciting "Lucky Ten Day Trimming Diet." Leaflet M-13 contains all you'll need to know. You can reduce on nutritionally-balanced menus that are delicious and so slimming. Included is her secret raw egg shampoo, which was passed on from her grandmother. Send 5 cents for your copy of M-13 AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Ten Pounds At A Time

Whenever Terry Moore makes a picture, she follows her secret ten-day diet and loses ten pounds. That's because the camera makes her look heavier than she actually is. You'll find more about this diet in today's Hollywood Beauty. Terry's next picture is "Between Heaven and Hell" for 20th Century-Fox.

Button, Button,
Who's Got
It? Mrs. Crowe!

STANTON, Ky. — Mrs. Guy Crowe never has trouble finding buttons for her husband's shirts. She has more than 12,000—all different.

Mrs. Crowe's hobby started on a Sunday morning 10 years ago when she couldn't go to church. She explains:

"Snow was on the ground and Guy was sick, so I got my button box down and looked through it. I found I had several interesting old buttons."

She's been saving them ever since.

The collection includes a Casey Jones overall button worn by the trainman the year of the famous wreck; buttons from uniforms worn during the Civil War, World Wars I and II; and "hairpulling buttons." They show two children sitting facing each other in high-chairs and pulling each other's hair.

At first the buttons were on string, but they collected dust. Mrs. Crowe then bought frames, usually from second-hand stores, and put her collection in them.

One of her more unusual buttons came from a friend, who won $750 first prize in a national contest sponsored by the Democratic National Committee. The bottom shows a safe with William Jennings Bryan's picture in the center and "commoner" written on it.

Shriners Slate Big Fall Meeting Here

Between 2,000 and 3,000 Shriners from all over West Texas are to be in Big Spring on Oct. 5 and 6 for the annual fall ceremonial of the order.

Cecil McDonald, potentate of Suez Temple, San Angelo, in whose honor the ceremonial is being held in Big Spring, said that indications at this time point to one of the most successful events of its kind in many years. McDonald said there are about 200 members of the Shrine in Big Spring. Most of these are members of Suez Temple. However, a considerable number of local Shriners, particularly railroad men, are members of the El Paso temple.

The Big Spring Shriners, a fraternal club, will be official hosts to the two-day convention.

Big event of the fall session will be initiation of new candidates into the order. Candidates from all of the towns in the West Texas area will be present. A number of L. M. Shrine drill teams will attend.

Wallace A. Moritz is ceremonial master and K. H. McGibbon, Big Spring, is his assistant.

Headquarters for registration will be the Settles Hotel. At 6 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6, the Shrine banquet will be served at the Cosden Country Club.

Saturday morning at 11:30 the big Shrine Parade will march through the business district. A luncheon for the wives of visiting delegates is scheduled at Cosden Club at 1 p.m. This will be followed by an unusual style show. Mrs. Cecil McDonald is chairman in charge of the women's portion of the two-day program.

A barbecue for the Shriners will be served at noon at the ball park.

Formal ceremonies of initiation—section one and section two—will be at the City Auditorium. The ceremonial event will close with a dance at the Cosden Country club on Saturday night.

Servicemen To Participate In Old Age Insurance Plan

Members of the uniformed services on active duty will be brought under the old-age and survivors insurance program of the social security system on a permanent, contributory basis on Jan. 1, 1957, under provisions of the Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivor Benefits Act. This means regular social security credit for service personnel for their years of active service in uniform after 1956 without affecting the military retirement pay of career soldiers and sailors.

The federal government and the servicemen will share the social security tax in the same manner as employers and employees in private industry. For servicemen the social security tax will be on the service person's basic pay and will not be imposed on such items as the value of food, shelter, and various allowances and special pay.

It is contemplated that the service departments will report wages of military personnel generally in the same manner that employers now report covered wages paid to civilian employees. Social security account number cards will be issued to members of the armed forces under special procedures. While contributory social security coverage for members of the uniformed services will not begin until Jan. 1, there will be no gap in social security protection to servicemen and their families, as the non-contributory wage credits of $160 a month provided by the old law have been extended through Dec. 31, 1956. Those special social security wage credits had been given for military service beginning September, 1940, but, until this adjustment was made, had been cut off at March 1956.

Under the new law active service on or after Jan. 1, 1957, may carry with it gratuitous $160-per-month wage credits for military service performed any time in the period after 1950 and before 1957. Those special social security wage credits had even in the same period is creditable towards a retirement payment from the service department.

The gratuitous wage credits of $160 a month for service prior to Jan. 1, 1957, cannot be used toward social security benefits if that service was used in connection with a monthly payment under the civil service retirement system for Federal civilian employees.

UNIQUE RANCH

Matador Records In Tech Archives

LUBBOCK—The American headquarters records of the almost legendary Matador Land and Cattle Co. have been turned over to Texas Tech.

The acquisition gives Tech what is thought to be the greatest collection of records from a single ranching venture ever gathered in one place, Dr. Seymour V. Connor, Tech archivist, said.

Filling approximately 60 cubic feet, the new addition nearly completes the Matador Collection, begun 27 years ago when Dr. H. Bailey Carroll received permission to bring records to Tech from the old Matador ranch house in Motley County. The work was continued in 1932 by Dr. W. Curry Holden.

The American headquarters records have been in Denver since 1919. They include correspondence, ledgers, cash books, ranch manager reports, and other information. These will be added to the previous collection dated from 1887 to 1932 and gathered from Matador and Alamoctas headquarters divisions.

The Alamoctas records were given to Tech last February by R. H. Fulton of Lubbock, who purchased the old Alamoctas pasture land and headquarters house near Channing; and John Stevens, former Matador division superintendent. They aided in obtaining the Denver records.

The files lack only records from Dundee, Scotland, to complete the collection of historical documents from the largest foreign-owned cattle empire in America. The Matador empire began in 1878, when A. M. Britton entered into a partnership with H. H. (Hank) Campbell.

Campbell had purchased a small herd of cattle and made his headquarters in an abandoned dugout at Ballard Springs in Motley County, according to Dr. Holden. Eight thousand "jinglebob" cattle were the next addition to the growing concern. Seeing the unlimited possibilities, S. W. Lomax soon joined Britton, in financing the enterprise, which later reorganized as the Matador Cattle Co. with a capital stock estimated at $50,000. It was this amount of money that suggested the first brand name, 50 M. One year later the brand was replaced by the Matador V, however.

In December, 1882, the Matador Cattle Co. sold out to the newly created Matador Land and Cattle Co., Ltd., of Dundee, Scotland. The transaction involved approximately three million acres of land and sixty thousand head of cattle. The area was spread over Motley, Dickens, Cottle and Floyd counties.

In 1903, an additional 500,000 acres of land was leased from the U. S. government on the Sioux Indian Reservation in North Dakota. Another 150,000 acres was soon acquired on the Swift River, Saskatchewan, Canada.

In 1904, the Alamoctas division of 200,000 acres of XIT ranchland was purchased from the Capitol Syndicate. This included tracts on both sides of the Canadian River in Oldham County.

The original ranch was enlarged again, and by 1910, the company owned 861,000 acres in Texas, and had under lease an additional 650,000 acres in two northern pastures, for a total of 1,511,000 acres.

On June 16, 1951, the Denver headquarters office announced the sale of 800,000 shares of Matador stock at $23.70 a share to an American syndicate, Lazard Brothers. Thus came the end of the last great cattle empire.

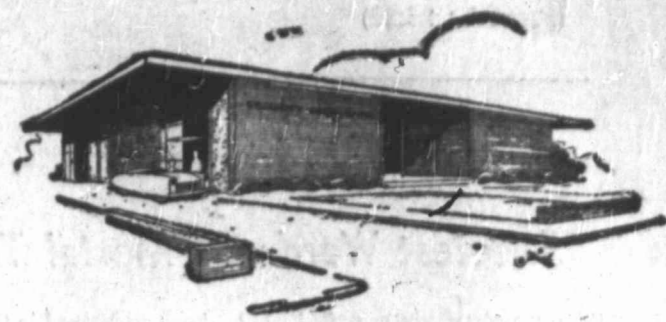

What makes the Matador unique is that in all its long history it retained sight of its original goal to solely produce beef.

A Bible Thought For Today

The words of a talebearer are as wounds, and they go down into the innermost parts of the belly. (Proverbs 26:22)

Editorial

Sweetest Words Of Mortal Tongue

Long time ago somebody compiled what he considered the ten sweetest words in the English language. We cannot recall the entire list, but mother and melody were somewhere near the top.

Well, the editorial writers have revived the idea on a small and non-serious scale. Some survey or other established that the six sweetest sentences in the English language were, in order:

1. Love you. Dinner is served. All is forgiven. Sleep till noon. Keep the change. Here's that five.

One of our exchanges added six more choice selections:

It won't cost a cent. You're elected. We won. You wonderful man! You beautiful thing. You certainly don't look your age.

We suppose we could add our list, since the possibilities seem to be limitless. I didn't mean you. I meant him. Well, old boy, we won't have to operate after all. I heard your business double, partner, and I pass. I emptied the trashcan myself, dear. Why don't we pick you up all, instead? Honey, you look like a million dollars in that hat, really.

From the other side, most people could probably compile a list of six sentences they would much prefer not to hear or have addressed to them in a letter. Please remit. Overdraft or insufficient funds. Hi, there. I hear a noise downstairs. Well, better luck next time. Where DID you get that hat?

Words can lift the spirit or dash the hopes and aspirations of mankind. They can cut like a knife, or soothe like an ointment. They can sting like a scorpion or ease a pain. They can avoid a fight or bring one on, as a soft word turneth away wrath. A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver. (Add things we never knew until now: "pictures" appears in the Bible only three times, "painting" only once, "portrait" not at all.)

The lingo of the military life contains many forceful words, as befits that profession. "Squadron" has the sound of muscle and action. "Battalion" suggests battle.

Most awkward word in English is "yielded." Why not yell?

Our language has few truly beautiful words, judged by the standard of sound. Many that do not sound beautiful suggest beautiful things — rainbow, for instance. But it sounds better than its Anglo-Saxon forerunner: "regnboga."

Pleasant word adopted from the French: Finais.

Lesson In Political Education

Walter Lippmann

Truce Now—But What Of Future?

President Eisenhower's fame as a peace-maker was won in the Far East. When he took office in 1953, there was war with Red China on three fronts — in Korea, where the South Koreans and Americans were engaged, in Indochina where the Vietnamese and the French were engaged, in the Formosa Strait where the Chinese Nationalists, armed and financed and protected by the United States, were engaged. In Korea and Indochina hostilities have ended in a formal armistice; in the Formosa Strait there is a de facto armistice. There has been no peace settlement on any of these fronts. But Red China and United States are now living in a state of armed co-existence.

The truce rests on a series of compromises. In principle neither side has renounced its aims; in fact, each is standing still at the line on each front where to push ahead would mean a very big war. Thus, Red China has not renounced its grand objective, which is to oust the Western powers from the mainland of eastern Asia and the adjacent islands, such as Japan and Formosa. But Red China is willing to wait, having secured her own part of the puppet, buffer state of North Korea and North Vietnam, having been assured also that Chiang will be contained in Formosa.

The United States has not renounced its aim for the unification of Korea and of Vietnam under anti-Communist governments, and in theory the United States still regards Chiang's government in Formosa as the legitimate government of all of China. But, knowing that these aims cannot now be achieved without a great war in the Far East, President Eisenhower has accepted a truce which partitions both Korea and Vietnam, and in fact confines Chiang to Formosa and a few off-shore islands.

For both Red China and the United States this is a truce without victory. Neither has gained its professed political and strategic objective. Each, however, is left holding the strategic position which it regards as vitally important.

Because of the southern part of Korea is vital to the defense of Japan, we fought the Korean War to defend it. It remains within our orbit. Northern Korea has been the gateway for the invasion of China. When Gen. MacArthur marched to the frontier of Manchuria, Red China intervened in the Korean War. North Korea remained within the Red Chinese orbit. Red China has not recovered Formosa, which is her objective. But President Eisenhower has tied up Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. On the basic understanding that Red China will not invade Formosa and that the Chinese Nationalists, backed by the United States, will not invade the Chinese mainland, President Eisenhower achieved a truce in the Formosa Strait.

There is only one aspect of this whole operation, I believe, of which it can truly be said that President Eisenhower made a special and personal contribution. It is that he has made these compromises not only acceptable but even popular in his own party, with the very powerful faction that is best represented by Sen. Knowland. I doubt if anyone else could have made them accept a policy which concedes so much—which concedes the neutralization of Dr. Syngman Rhee, the neutralization of Chiang Kai-shek, and in fact, though not in theory, which acknowledges that Red China is a great power in the Far East with whom it is necessary to co-exist peacefully.

My own view is that by 1952 the United States had become overextended in its commitments in Asia, and that the vital interests of this country called for political retrenchment. This is always a hard thing to do. In 1952, because the war faction was primarily Republican, it needed a Republican president and one with Gen. Eisenhower's military reputation, to make the concession which made possible the truce with Red China.

What bearing does all this have on the future, which is to begin next January? I would say that it belongs to the past, that it marks the closing of a chapter. During the past three years great changes have occurred, the death and degradation of Stalin, the emergence of Soviet Russia as a world economic power, the epoch-making nuclear stalemate which was acknowledged at Geneva, and the deep commitment of Red China to its own industrial and economic development.

The order of the day has become competitive co-existence without war, and the truce which has been effected in Korea, Formosa and Vietnam has brought the new order of things to the Far East.

The making of that truce was not a glorious feat, though it was a necessary and, therefore, a highly creditable work. But it throws no light whatsoever on how we are to live in the new order of things, and what are to be our policies.

For it is one thing to wind up what is passing and another to prepare for what is coming.

Cool Pitch

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The North Carolina Medical Society, nothing if not "cool," enlisted the aid of radio disc jockeys in a campaign to get teenagers to "dig out" for some of that "crazy" polio vaccine.

The society's suggested pitch: "Walk with Salk, so you can rock 'n' roll."

Barefoot Problem

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Shoe producers complain that Mexico is a nation of barefoot boys — and girls. They say that four million adults who should be wearing shoes do not. Mexico's total population is about 30 million. Shoemakers say that very few persons wear shoes in southeast Mexico, and in the tropical areas.

Short Story

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Short shorts story:

A city patrolman off duty at the time so not in uniform, appeared in court to give testimony clad in a pair of Bermuda shorts.

He was sent home promptly to don long trousers.

That's Him

DES MOINES (AP) — While on a recent vacation Mrs. Lloyd Olson of Des Moines visited a lodge at Bear Lake, Colo., and noticed a small boy who she thought looked familiar.

She asked him: "Has anyone ever told you that you look like David Eisenhower?" "That's who I am," said the President's 8-year-old grandson.

Federal Reserve Board Not Blithe About Boom

WASHINGTON — "The fourth quarter will be the best of 1956 from the standpoints of production, gross national product, and consumer income and spending." This is the blithe promise of Standard & Poor's Corp., America's giant publisher of investment manuals and investment advice.

But don't ask the members of the Federal Reserve Board to be blithe. They're convinced business will be good, too; that prices will be straining at the cost-of-living index; and that Americans, by and large, will be neck-high in prosperity. But blitheness, begone. For them, this is a deadly serious business with political undertones.

When I was a kid with the measles, three times a day for a week I had to take an awful-tasting medicine. I got well. My parents were delighted with the physician. But to me, he was a gasted ogre. That's the Reserve Board to many people.

The Reserve Board is telling Americans that too much prosperity is a disease, called inflation. To cure inflation, you have to have higher interest rates and tight money. That puts the squinch on business men, home builders, lumber dealers and lumber men. No stethoscope, no cardiogram, and no microscopic examination is needed to describe the symptoms that worry the Reserve Board:

1. The rise in retail prices. The consumers price index is at an all-time high. For three consecutive months, it has taken sharp jumps:

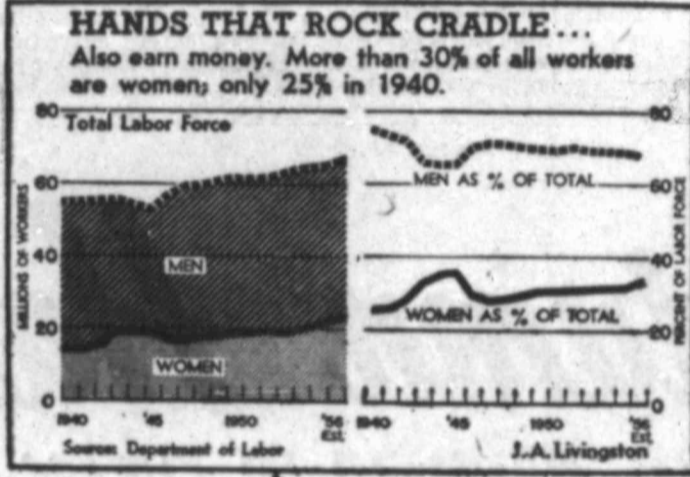

April 114.9
May 115.4
June 116.2
July 117.0

A seasonal drop in vegetable prices might pull the August index down a bit. But that would be a temporary fizzle.

2. The rebound in industrial production. Steel operations are booming along at 100 per cent capacity. This is total recovery from the strike. Auto companies are set for a boisterous fourth quarter. Dealers' stocks are down. The "clean-out" of 1956 models has been and is orderly. Employment in Detroit should begin climbing soon.

3. High retail sales. Department store dollar totals are 4 per cent ahead of last year. Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward reported gains of 11 per cent and 8 per cent respectively over August of last year.

4. Employment is at an all-time high — 66,720,000. (And we used to dream of 60,000,000 jobs!) Unemployment is at a nine-month low, 2,200,000. Not much slack there.

The pressure of work, of job opportunities, is pulling more and more women into industry. They constitute nearly a third (32 per cent, to be precise) of the work force, as against only 25 per cent in 1940 (see chart).

At both ends of the age spectrum, married women are flocking to jobs — young brides, to help start a household in this era of heavy down payments and monthly installments, and older women, after their children have finished school and are out on their own.

For the most part, the economy is operating at the inflation point — close to capacity. Hence, the Reserve's tight money policy. More credit won't produce more steel — not when the steel mills are producing all they can. More credit won't generate an increase in available workers or in machinery. But it would boost prices. And that, say the nation's money doctors, would be constitutionally bad for you and me.

To make credit easy would multiply buyers without creating the goods and services to satisfy the buyers. Prices would rise. Easy money will not be agreeable to the present members of the Reserve Board until:

1. New capacity comes into production and provides more things for people to consume, or

2. Reduced demand creates an excess supply of goods and services.

And that is why the Reserve Board isn't blithe about the boom.

To the farmers, whose income is down; to the small business men, who can't borrow money; to building contractors, who are hit by the shortage of mortgage money; to manufacturers of farm equipment and to the building-materials dealers who have products they can't sell — to all such, the Federal Reserve is a seven-headed ogre, offering mean medicine. The Democrats, in the name of William Jennings Bryan, will argue that the hard-money policy is hard-headed.

Some economists agree. They say that the Reserve Board is holding back needed industrial expansion. That merely prolongs the period of scarcity. But the orthodox point of view is that the Federal Reserve Board is stretching out prosperity. American industry is committed to spend $35,000,000 a year on plant and equipment. It needs materials to that end. The drop in autos and housing this year provided the necessary slack. But now, if automobile output picks up, something else will have to give. When an economist's at the full, argues the Reserve Board, money is what it doesn't need more of.

Argentina May Play Host To Defense Parley

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina may shortly play host to a South Atlantic defense conference, but the purposes of the parley remain vague.

Argentina proposed July 31 that her representatives meet with delegates from Brazil and Uruguay in Buenos Aires to organize a system for the joint defense of this area of the South Atlantic. She has since disclosed that Paraguay also was invited.

Brazil announced yesterday that she would attend. Uruguay had accepted earlier.

The plan has encountered a chilly reception elsewhere in South America. Some diplomats have expressed the opinion that existing hemispheric defense pacts are adequate. U.S. State Department officials have said they knew nothing about the Argentine project.

Argentine officials have not disclosed any details of the defense plan they propose to present except that its purpose would be to "coordinate" the activities of member nations.

Critics of Provisional President Pedro Aramburu have suggested that its chief purpose is to get an aircraft carrier from the United States for the Argentine navy, which is one of Aramburu's strongest supporters.

Bird Collision

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Running for shelter during a rain, Bishop Delaney collided with a low flying blackbird.

The bird fell to the ground dead. Delaney suffered a laceration on his forehead.

Around The Rim Of Ukuleles, Git-tars, And Banjos

A bit of incidental intelligence advises that the banjo is coming back as a popular instrument in American music.

Fellow in Raleigh, North Carolina — and a true Suburban, Suh — waxes somewhat eloquent over this development:

"The venerable catgut on the flat saucer has set more feet dancing and more hearts thumping than anything else. From the torpor of the canebrake to the intoxication of the mountain crest it has historically expressed the hopes of the heart and the ambitions of the uninhibited mind. There is no man among us so beset with travail or so buoyed with success that he can pass real banjo playing without wanting to take off like a big bird and slap the sun smack in the mouth. And the return of the banjo will be worth more to the youth of the land than barrels of cod liver oil. It will enable them to see, to feel, to rejoice in the smack and twang of all that is elemental in this wondrous land of a million sung and unsung songs."

That's a nice thing to say for the banjo. One might hold the further fond hope that the renaissance of this heart-warming instrument will help to push back the git-tar. There are some who hold that the git-tar has been sadly overdone, largely because it contributes itself to accompaniment to so much nerve-searing caterwauling. Now a fellow who sings with a banjo will sing a happy, enthusiastic song. That character who languidly rakes his fingers across the git-tar strings will mourn so lugubriously that the overall result is bad for the country.

Another happy dream would be that the return of the banjo would bring about an alteration in dress for the so-called entertainers. Seems a citizen can't be a git-tar player without sporting a duck-bill haircut, a big creased hat, wide belt with wider buckle, and black attire. Some psychologists are saying that if some changes could be brought about in this uniform, the youthful atmosphere of the nation would be a good deal healthier. Could be that we have the git-tar to blame.

That most happy fella who planks the banjo would at least be attired in bright-striped blazer, perhaps white trousers, a flashy bow-tie and a straw boater with fancy ribbon. This, at least, is more cheerful than the git-tar uniform.

While we're talking for merry music, it might not be treason to mention the ukulele, upon whose precious strings and frets more people learned what an E-string is than on all other musical instruments put together. Nobody ever charged that the ukulele made much music, but think of the illusions it created!

There was a period, back in my ragtime days, when it was deemed important to learn to play the ukulele. Those who could master it, went on to the banjo. Those who couldn't just twanged the ukulele and sang loudly enough to drown it out.

The uke probably served its purpose in the carefree '20's, but if it was the guitar that took its place, look what happened in the '30's. And look what's been happening ever since.

The old banjo, indeed, goes even further back to days of yore, when cotton fields were filled with hands, and when rustic opera houses had hand-painted curtains, advertising the local firms.

Essence of Americana, perhaps? Well, let the teen-ager become acquainted with the ringing of the banjo, and sing of Swansee River rather than of Hound Dog. Might make a difference.

A Road To Self-Improvement

Max Morrison, minister of a Presbyterian church in Pasadena, California, occasionally sends me his interesting sermons. Particularly impressive was a story he recently told about a nationally famous scientist.

The man's name was not revealed, but he was making a major speech to a distinguished scientific body. At the end of the academic portion of his address, he paused and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I would like to tell you about a bit of personal scientific research that may be more interesting to you than the other material I have been discussing."

"You are kind enough to regard me as a competent scientist. I want to tell you that when I was fifty years old — and that was fifteen years ago — I was living in a small California town, doing an unimportant scientific job. I had no reputation. I was personally miserable; I had constant headaches, and as a result lived in agony most of that time. While the headaches lasted I could accomplish nothing at all."

"Then," he continued, "I seriously began to read William James and the Bible and became convinced that my trouble was in my definitely unhealthy thought pattern. So, as a man of science, I decided to experiment with myself and explore the possibility of improving my condition by improving my thought habits. I determined to think only of the pleasant and beautiful things of the past. And, when I thought about the present, I would think only about the great opportunities that the present had for me, and not its frustrations. And, when I thought about the future, I would think of it, not with fear and dread, but with eager anticipation and faith."

"I decided I would try this for one day."

that I would really try it. That was certainly not easy, since it was so contrary to my usual depressive way of thinking, and it was the hardest thing I ever did to stick to the new thought pattern for that one day. But, at the end of the day, although I was absolutely worn out with it and physically tired, it made me feel so much better that I decided I'd try it a second day. Then I tried it a third, a fourth, a fifth, a sixth, a seventh and, on the eighth day, I experienced the greatest sense of relief I have ever had in my life. Suddenly, it was as though the clouds had parted and I had really lived for the first time.

"Then," he commented, "as I continued with this new plan, presently I noticed that I was not having headaches any more." He went on to say that, amazingly, in the last fifteen years he had not had a single headache. It was during that period that he had risen from obscurity to leadership in his field.

This scientist concluded his remarkable statement by saying, "Primarily my improvement came about through two factors: (1) I disciplined my thoughts with the help given me by Almighty God. And (2) I translated these disciplined thoughts into action with His help."

Neither of these things which the scientist did are easy. There is no easy road to self improvement or a better condition in life. But the main fact is that spiritual power works in human experience. With its help the most formidable difficulties may be overcome. The secret is to learn and apply the laws which govern our personalities. No one need put up with an unsatisfactory life.

Wiley Victory And Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — Factionalism and apathy tell the story of the Wisconsin senatorial primaries. Only about 450,000 Republican voters went to the polls out of a total of 870,444 who voted the Republican ticket in the final election for senator in 1952. Also, when Senator McCarthy won his primary contest in that same year, he got 515,481 votes, which is about 65,000 more than the total of the combined votes that all the Republican candidates got this year.

This year's low vote happened in spite of the fact that there was a deep-seated cleavage of viewpoints between Senator Wiley and Representative Glenn Davis — both well-known Republicans.

President Eisenhower stayed out of the fight, and so did Senator McCarthy. But the issues that were emphasized on the stump were national in character and carry with them international significance.

Wisconsin is a state which for a long time has contained a substantial majority in favor of staying out of foreign wars and foreign entanglements. Today it may be said that there is a majority in the state in favor of cutting down foreign aid. If the election this week teaches a lesson, it is that education on the broad aspects of international policy is very much needed and that continued aid to the United States doesn't sit well with the voters.

To say this is not to describe the position of Senator Wiley, the victor in the contest for re-nomination, as favoring a limited aid abroad or entanglement in foreign wars. The debate nevertheless is a clear example of what some of the voters believe can be the result if present policies are not qualified or at least given justification by facts not hitherto available. In short, while the Eastern Seaboard accusation that the Middle West is "isolationist" is overdrawn, the truth is the people don't like to see money poured out to other parts of the world on the vague and intangible basis that so many straggly Republicans and Democrats advocate — to "win men's minds and hearts."

What is understood clearly is money spent abroad for security and for defense — that is, for overseas bases — but not for questionable bondissues.

Senator Wiley was very friendly to the international cooperation policies of the Truman administration when he was the ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Some Wisconsin people thought he went overboard on that issue. But when he became chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he upheld the Eisenhower administration's foreign policies faithfully. He therefore, was able to count on the like following in the state, though he alienated the other group which had been of the reservation because of the brusque way the administration had treated McCarthy.

When the showdown came, a third candidate entered the field, Howard Boyle, who favored repudiation of the administration's foreign policies and particularly wanted to see a substantial reduction made in the amount spent by the United States for foreign aid. When Mr. Boyle's votes are added to the Davis votes, the total exceeds Senator Wiley's vote by about 8,500. This shows a majority of Wisconsin Republicans who have some real criticism of the administration's willingness to spend large sums abroad. The same division probably prevails inside the Democratic Party.

Like all local contests, there were in the Wisconsin senatorial race conflicts in personalities and many votes undoubtedly were influenced by those considerations. Senator Wiley is a widely respected man of high ideals and principles, and it is to his credit that he stuck by his convictions notwithstanding the temptations of expediency which presented themselves. His job now will be to win the support of those who voted for Representative Davis and Mr. Boyle. The Democrats, however, cannot take much comfort out of the situation because these voters are not likely to cross over to the Democratic side.

The danger that exists is among the stay-at-home voters who, by deliberately absenting themselves from the polls, express a form of protest.

Bible Words for Today

ISAIAH 26:3—"Thou dost keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee, because he trusts in thee." (RSV)

True words could hardly be than are these. As a man thinks in his heart, so is his behavior. Whenever one keeps his mind upon God there will flow through his thinking the great attributes of God, His characteristics and His great promises. To the extent that one's thoughts are positively centered on God there will not only be calm, poise and peace, but a power flowing through that is divine—a super-human dynamic that will result in the behavior which brings happiness. If you want to live, keep Life—God—in your mind.

Friend Of Local Stamp Collectors

O. D. Dally, stamp clerk at the Big Spring Post Office, has many friends among local philatelist-stamp collectors, to you. He is shown holding a sheet of the newest United States Commemorative issue—honoring Labor Day. On the desk before him are "blocks" of choice examples of the many other commemoratives which have been put on sale this year. The Big Spring Post Office sells about $4,000 a year in stamps to local collectors.

$4 FOR A FORTUNE

Postman Would Like That Golden Opportunity Again

By SAM BLACKBURN
A good many years ago, when air mail was first making its somewhat uncertain and timid debut in this country, the United States Post Office designed a special eight-cent postage stamp for air mail letters.

This was quite an ornate stamp—outlined in red and with a blue picture of an airplane in the center. Naturally, to print this stamp required two impressions on the presses.

Through some oversight, a considerable number of sheets of these stamps were printed with the airplane image upside down. These stamps were shipped out with other stamps to post offices all over the country.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, Big Spring, ruefully remembers the occasion. But he remembers it well.

Big Spring post office received several sheets of these airmail stamps with their reversed picture. Some were actually sold through the stamp window but not very many. Air mail was not widely used in those days.

"I presume there were letters mailed out of Big Spring with the upside-down stamp on them," he says.

A note came from Washington to send stocks of the off-brand stamps back to the Post Office Department. They would be replaced, the note said, with copies on which the airplane was properly depicted.

Boatler obediently gathered up all of the sheets and shipped them back to the mint.

"If I had been smart," he sadly ruminates, "I would have dug down in my pocket for $4, paid for one of the sheets and kept it."

Yes, indeed! Had Mr. B. done just that and held on to that sheet of 50 stamps, he could trade that same $4 investment today for a new home, or perhaps a new home and a new Cadillac as well.

The Post Office Department destroyed most of the erroneous stamps and the few which are still in existence are worth about any price that the owner may want to put on them.

All of which leads to the issue. If you are a stamp collector—and the books show that there are a considerable number in Big Spring—you are held in very high regard by the Big Spring post office.

The post office, in its turn, bends over backward in serving you. It stocks every commemorative issue of U. S. postage stamps which is printed.

And it sells them, too. Sales of stamps to collectors—as individual stamps, blocks of four or in complete sheets—brought in more than $4,000 last year.

And every day, stamp collectors come to the window of O. H. Dailey, stamp clerk, and buy stamps for their collections. The United States Post office department recognizes the importance of this "trade" and is now pursuing a generous policy in the steady release of commemorative and special edition stamps.

Commemorative postage stamps have been making their appearance at the rate of one a month all through 1956. And, Dailey says, there are more to come.

At least 15 commemoratives will have made their debut on the stamp scene by the end of the year.

They began with the three-cent Franklin commemorative which made its appearance on January 17. On Feb. 22, a special one and a half cent Mount Vernon appeared. On March 19, the new $5 Alexander Hamilton stamp made its debut. April 5 saw the Booker T. Washington commemoratives on sale and April 13, the special Monticello 20-cent issue appeared. April 25 through May 6, the National Philatelic Society met and a souvenir stamp brought out a series of special issues. These, however, were apparently sold exclusively in Philadelphia.

On June 14, the Alamo nine-cent commemorative was on hand. May 5 had also seen the first of a series of three special stamps commemorative of Wild Life Conservation.

Pure Food and Drug Act's 50th anniversary was marked with a special three-cent stamp on June 27. This was followed on July 4 by the 10-cent Independence Hall issue. August 5 a stamp depicting Wheatland, Buchanan's home, was placed on sale. This is a three-cent issue.

Newest of the commemoratives is the beautiful Labor Day three-cent issue which went on sale here Sept. 3. Next to appear will be Nassau Hall issue—a three-cent stamp marking the 200th anniversary of this famous hall at Princeton. It will be on hand Sept. 22. At least one more is already on tap—a stamp showing the Dutch Tower in the west due for its issue date this month.

Boatler says that many stamp collectors regard their hobby as a means of saving money.

He cites one excellent example. A medical man, resident of this city, now retired, began collecting stamps in a small way many years ago. He kept up his hobby. A few years ago, an opportunity to buy a ranch he coveted for $20,000 appeared. He did not have the $20,000 but he did have stamps. So he sold a part of his collection and bought the ranch for cash. He is still collecting stamps more avidly than ever.

Another doctor in Big Spring makes it his regular policy to buy a full sheet of each special stamp that comes out. This policy he pursues throughout the entire series—including the $5 issue. An investment in a sheet of 100 stamps in this bracket calls for the spending of $500.

Year After Peron Toppled, Argentina Still In Crisis

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15 (AP)—Through rain-washed streets a blue sedan crawled in and out of midmorning traffic, winding its way down to the waterfront.

At the wheel sat the ambassador of Paraguay. Beside him slumped a dejected man who for a decade had held in his slender hands the destiny of all Argentina.

Juan Domingo Peron was riding out to board a Paraguayan gunboat into exile. Behind him were the ruins of an empire he had forged as a dictator unsurpassed in Latin America.

Today, Peron dreams from afar of a triumphant return. He boasts that he will ride back to power in a civil war which might cost a million lives.

It was just a year ago tomorrow when a band of revolutionaries rose up in the pre-dawn darkness to ignite a rebellion that shattered in five days what Peron had built in 10 years.

What has happened to Argentina since then?

Argentina today is engulfed in another crisis—a revolution within a revolution. The outcome will affect the nation and perhaps the entire Western Hemisphere.

The current tug-of-war is baffling; the lines of battle not clearly drawn as a year ago when Peron was toppled.

military government with the announced goal of purging the nation of Peronista corruption and preparing for the elections scheduled for late 1957. The exact date has not been set.

But the army is gravely divided, and a strange wedding of embittered revolutionaries and Peronista sympathizers has formed a formidable opposition to the Aramburu-Rojas team.

Roles Reversed: Dobbin Is Now Pulled By Auto

By SAM BLACKBURN
 There was a time not too many years ago when motorists of Howard County, endeavoring to travel over the primitive roads of that era, frequently had to call on old Dobbin, the faithful horse, to yank their stalled gasoline buggies out of rutted or muddy roads.
 Fortunately for today's car drivers, roads have improved sufficiently that the old problem of getting out of mudholes and high centers has passed. Otherwise, they would be in grave difficulty — in the opinion of observers it would be an almost impossible task for a stalled motorist to find a horse to give him that needed assist. Jimmy Taylor, county agent, was asked:
 "Are there any farmers in Howard County who still employ draft horses and mules to do their farm operations?"
 The agent thought this over for a while and then shook his head. "If there are any farmers still using horses for that purpose," he replied. "I do not know who they are. It may be that some small land owner may still have a horse or a mule to do the cultivating in his garden plot but insofar as major farming operations are concerned, there are no horses nor mules being used."
 This does not mean that Howard County does not have horses.
 It has a lot of horses but they are a vastly different kind of animal from those which were the common source of "power" 30 or 40 years ago. Today's horses are sleek, trim, pampered and beautiful. They are largely pets and their owners keep them largely as hobbies.
 In fact, Taylor said, horses on farms are so scarce in Howard County that several of the young performers in the recent junior rodeo had to borrow animals from the few horse breeders of the county to ride in the show.
 Even the big ranchers do most of their work in motor cars. Where it was the old method to send half a dozen men out on horseback to round up a herd of cattle, one man generally does the job today in a pickup truck.
 Ranches still keep saddle horses, however, he added, but the remuda on the average big ranch of this period is small as compared to the many head of horses which were formerly needed to carry on the ranching activities.
 Most Howard County horses are of the quarter-horse breed. This is a highly specialized animal, capable of tremendous speed for short distances and carefully bred to serve that purpose. They are strictly show animals or are loved by men and women who love them for just being horses.
 Horseback riding these days is a pastime. Fifty years ago, it was the principal method of transportation. Today's citizen uses his his car even though the journey he has to make is probably not a block in distance. Half a century ago, the average Howard County resident rode his horse on similar errands.

 In those days, though, a horse was strictly a utilitarian object — a very necessary and important adjunct to the business of making a living. Farmers used horses and mules to plow and cultivate crops. Today tractors and other mechanized equipment do the work.
 Several outstanding horse breeders are operating in the county. Hamlin Elrod, who lives southwest of Forsan, breeds and raises quarter horses which he sells to horse fanciers all over West Texas. Tom Buckner, Big Spring, is another horse breeder whose animals are well known. Jack Wilcox goes in for good horses and so do others.
 However, these are strictly fancy breeds — not one in a hundred would be able to pull a wagon or tug at a plow if they were called upon to do so.
 And if a motorist should find himself stuck in a rough bit of road and needed a team of horses or mules to get him out of his predicament, he would be out of luck. The scoffers of the early years of this century loudly argued about the new gasoline buggies which were making their debut.
 "They'll never replace the horse."
 And they laughed uproariously when a red-faced automobile operator of that day, his car broken down, was seen being pulled along by a team of stalwart Percherons.
 Today, what horses there are left do not pull cars.
 On the contrary they ride behind automobiles, — in their own private trailers.

'Hi, Mom'

Three-year-old Johnny Durham faces his mother at an emergency hospital in Wilmington, Calif., where he was taken after a neighbor found him sitting in a pool of crude oil near his home. His mother, Mrs. Edna Durham, had reported him lost. The oil puddle—seepage from a storage tank—was small and only three inches deep, but Johnny found it. Hospital attendants pronounced him unharmed, and wrapped him in a plastic bag for the trip home—and a long bath. (AP Wirephoto).

'Great Books' Schedule Set For 4th Year

Fifteen authors, in addition to Confucius, whose "Analects" were discussed at the first meeting, are included in the Big Spring Great Books fourth year schedule announced by C. A. Benson, leader. Plato's "Republic," Books VII-VIII is the subject for the Sept. 24 meeting. It will be followed by Aristophanes' "The Clouds"; Aristotle's "Poetics"; Euclid's "Elements of Geometry," Book I; Marcus Aurelius, "Meditations"; Sextus Empiricus, "Outline of Pyrrhonism," Book I; "Song of the Volung" and "Nibelungs"; St. Thomas Aquinas, "On Truth and Falsity"; selections from the Essays of Montaigne; Shakespeare's "The Tempest"; Locke, selections from "An Essay Concerning Human Understanding"; Milton's "Paradise Lost"; Hume, "An Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding"; Nietzsche, selections from "Beyond Good and Evil"; and William James "Pragmatism" (selections).
 Mrs. Ann Houser and Mrs. E. S. Cochran volunteered to conduct the first two discussions. Charles Cain is arranging details for the world history group Sunday.
 Others who attended the Great Books opening session were Mrs. Arch Carson, Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, Mrs. W. B. Currie, Mrs. J. R. Farmer, Orland W. Johnson and Mrs. Olen Puckett.

Range Conservation Men Complete Training Here

Range men from five areas of West Texas have just completed a four-day special training school here.
 Those participating qualified as instructors for range schools within their own area.
 Staffing the sessions were the area conservationists from Pampa, Amarillo, Lubbock, Big Spring, and Pecos, together with range specialists Herschel Bell, Amarillo, Clarence Richentin, San Angelo, and Odie Curry, Vernon.
 Each of the five areas furnished two men for training and those from the Big Spring area are Marion Everhart, work unit leader, and Lynn Dugan.

 Two days of classwork and lectures were held at Howard County Junior College and two days of field work were held on the Tom Good and Dick Simpson ranches. In all, 25 took part in the sessions which ended Thursday.

A Man In Your Life

Eve Arden, as "Our Miss Brooks," has her fortune told in this scene from the film adaptation of the radio-TV show. The film plays Tuesday and Wednesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre, with Miss Arden and all the principal cast members in their original roles. Miss Arden, in the film version, continues her husband-chasing antics while being pursued by a millionaire publisher with a roving eye.

Marilyn Returns For 'Bus Stop' Film

Marilyn Monroe returns to the screen in "Bus Stop," the film version of the William Inge play, at the Ritz Theatre Sunday through Thursday. Miss Monroe, after an absence of 14 months, emerges with a better acting talent acquired at the Actor's Studio in New York, but with the same curves and beauty she has always displayed. Don Murray, a Broadway actor, makes his screen debut in "Bus Stop." Other players include Arthur O'Connell and Betty Field.

Van Johnson Stars As Blind Sleuth

"23 Paces To Baker Street," playing Friday and Saturday at the Ritz, is an off-beat murder mystery in which a blind playwright turns sleuth. Starred are Van Johnson as the playwright and Vera Miles as an ex-fiancee who, in non-sleuthing moments, manages to rekindle the old flame.

TOPS ON TV Football, Politics On The Screen

Football, professional as well as political, spearheads a lively lineup of programs to be seen on KBST TV today when Channel four signs on early for the Washington-Baltimore game, and follows with several political presentations that toss the ball alternately between rival parties in debates, discussions and views of the coming presidential election.

PICK THE WINNER
"Pick the Winner," a special series of weekly pre-election broadcasts to present the views of the leading political figures in the nation before the November election, premieres on KBST TV today with a debate at 5:30 between Senator William F. Knowland of California and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

TIME CHANGES
Effective today, several CBS news and public affairs programs will be seen at new times. Eric Sevareid's "Sunday News" is scheduled at 2:45 p.m. with "Face the Nation" at 3 o'clock. "Bandwagon '56" (an excursion in American politics to give voters a better understanding of this year's election) will be seen at 3:30.

FRED HANEY & BRAVES
Fred Haney, manager, and the entire team of the Milwaukee Braves will be guests on the "Ed Sullivan Show" tonight at 9 when Sullivan returns to the program. Other featured guests will include Marion Marlowe, British comedian Richard Hearner, "The Four Aces" and the Fujiwara Opera Company of Japan.

NEW ON THE NETWORK
Among new shows on KBST TV are "Beat the Clock" which begins next Saturday at 5 p.m. and "Hey Jeannie," at 7:30. The latter is a musical situation comedy starring Jeanne Carson, red-haired English stage and film star. The series deals with the adventures and mis-adventures of Jeanne MacDennan, a pert, but naive, Scottish lass recently arrived in America from Dunfermline, Scotland.

'Ghost Riders' Snag Filming Of Western
"Ghost riders" played hob with filming of the Randolph Scott epic, "Rage At Dawn." The ghosts were jet planes flying in maneuvers over the location sight, sending loud vibrations into the microphones, and leaving vapor trails in the sky. The camera crews had to wait two days to resume shooting.

Ordinary Girl

While singing "Just An Ordinary Girl," Zsa Zsa Gabor appeared at a Las Vegas hotel in this semi-nude chiffon gown topped only by a halter of simulated diamonds. The gown is reported to have cost $17,000.

Low Dress Wows Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Zsa Zsa Gabor opened in a revue here last Wednesday wearing a gown that a local critic said made Marlene Dietrich's famed creation of two years ago "look like a bulky overcoat."

Miss Gabor's dress, reputed to cost $17,000, featured an extremely low cut neckline which is revealed at the end of a modified strip tease act she performs.

Miss Dietrich's eyebrow-raising gown which started night clubbers here in 1954, was renowned for its semi-transparent bodice. Zsa Zsa, in addition to displaying her charms, does a spot of singing and comic routine.

ROME (AP)—Marlene Dietrich, when told today that Zsa Zsa Gabor opened in Las Vegas recently in a dress which made her own daring Las Vegas gown look "like a bulky overcoat," said: "Well, if it's quantity they want and not quality, I have nothing to add."

'Dangerous Years' Theme For Movie
The "dangerous years" in a married man's life is the theme of "There's Always Tomorrow," showing Tuesday and Wednesday at the Terrace Theatre. Starring are Fred MacMurray as the wayward husband, Joan Bennett as the faithful wife, and Barbara Stanwyck as the "other woman." The plot has MacMurray, a successful businessman, trying to spark an old love because he feels he's neglected at home. But his old flame complicated matters by refusing to break up the happy home.

'Ghost Riders' Snag Filming Of Western
"Ghost riders" played hob with filming of the Randolph Scott epic, "Rage At Dawn." The ghosts were jet planes flying in maneuvers over the location sight, sending loud vibrations into the microphones, and leaving vapor trails in the sky. The camera crews had to wait two days to resume shooting.

Abilene Symphony Chief Man Of Ideas

By MARSHALL COMERER Associated Press Staff Burgess Brown, new president of the Abilene Symphony Orchestra, is a man of energy and ideas. "I'm a guy who has long since been weary of patronizing the arts," said Brown, a large man who has played in symphonies and rodeo bands. "Why patronize when you can participate in the arts?"

'Animal World' Is Story Of Life

"The Animal World," the story of animal life from its prehistoric beginnings to the present, shows Tuesday and Wednesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre. The film was produced by Irwin Allen, who won an Academy Award for "The Sea Around Us." "The Animal World" tells a story that began two billion years ago and is still unfolding. It was written, produced and directed by Allen.

The production required over three million feet of film, shot by naturalists the world over. Allen was aided by some of the world's leading paleontologists in producing the prehistoric scenes. Miniature models were created, and some of the top animators were employed to move the models as realistically as possible. These dinosaurs are depicted searching for food, looking for mates and battling to the death with one another.

'Rage At Dawn' Shows At Sahara

The clash of a notorious band of outlaws with a famous outlaw hunter sets the theme for "Rage At Dawn," showing Tuesday and Wednesday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre, with Randolph Scott topping a cast which includes Forrest Tucker, Mala Powers, J. Carol Nash and Edgar Buchanan. Scott portrays an ex-Confederate spy engaged by a Chicago detective agency to round up a vicious band of desperadoes, known as the Reno Brothers. The story deals with their train robberies, bank hold-ups, and eventual capture. Miss Powers provides the love interest with a romance that develops between the outlaw hunter and a sister of the Reno Brothers.

Scott Dislikes Glamorous Horses

Randolph Scott, famed Western star, thinks a cowboy's horse should look the part, and not be prettied up for the cameras. "I don't like to see a Westerner's horse glamorized," says Scott. "By the time you get through putting waves in the mane and tail, painting on four pretty white socks and adding a glamorous bridle and saddle, he looks more like a circus horse than a cowboy's mount."

Blood Brothers

Audie Murphy takes a nick in the arm during blood-brother ceremony with the handsome brave at right, in this scene from "Walk The Proud Land."

Audie Murphy Stars As Noted Indian Agent

"Walk The Proud Land," showing at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre beginning Thursday, presents the true-life story of John Philip Clum, an Indian agent who brought peace to the restless San Carlos reservation near Tucson, Arizona.

Audie Murphy stars as Clum, a young man of great faith and courage, sent out from the East as part of an official U. S. experiment. Indian agents had traditionally been petty office holders, rum guzzlers, and all-around ne'er-do-wells. Clum was a member of a religious service house and had studied for the ministry.

He never carried a gun, even when his life was in danger. Clum almost was killed on several occasions, but each time, his faith and courage carried him through safely.

"Walk The Proud Land" is based on the biography by his son, Woodworth Clum. In starring roles are Pat Crowley as Clum's young wife, too soft for the rugged West; Anne Bancroft as the beautiful Indian widow who teaches Clum the Apache way of life; Charles Drake as a former soldier turned Indian lover; Tommy Rall as a young chief; Jay Silverheels as Geronimo; Robert Warwick as Chief Es-kiminzin; and child actor Eugene Mazzola as Clum's devoted little shadow.

Tedious Job In Animation

Were it not for men like Ray Harryhausen, there would be no such films as "King Kong," "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms," or, currently, the dinosaur sequences in "The Animal World."

Harryhausen is a stop motion animator. That means he adjusts the position of plastic models for each separate frame of the film strip. Such models, averaging about three feet in length, were used in "The Animal World."

Great care and expert handling of the models are required to make the resulting motion picture look realistic. A lot of time is also required. Harryhausen spent an entire year on the "Animal World" dinosaur sequences, which last considerably less than an hour.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

What we said in this column last week about Audie Murphy still goes. So also for "Walk The Proud Land," a film based on the colorful career of John Philip Clum, the Indian agent whose faith and courage made the warlike Apaches into a peaceful race. It was not so much what Hollywood could do for the story, as it was the story itself, that makes "Walk The Proud Land" worth seeing. Still, the acting by the principal stars is good, the photography is of the customary Hollywood excellence and the direction is adequate. The Indian players are superb.

This film is one of the first to show life on a reservation as it really was, with the Indians as real characters and not shadowy stage props for a shoot-'em-up Western. The story also explodes the Hollywood myth that usually gives the U.S. Army a place of honor. Instead, the Army is depicted as the brass-hatted, stupid and inhuman machine that all armies have always been.

John Philip Clum, a quietly religious man who never carried a gun, never tried to see his civilized treatment of the Apaches become official U. S. policy. But his Apaches remember him, even to this day.

Yes, Marilyn Monroe may someday become a Great Actress. She has expressed such a desire on several occasions in the recent past. All of which raises a big question: Why?

"Niagara," in which MM played a sexy floozy, had only an average story, but it still was a huge success. Matter of fact, Miss Monroe has never made a picture in which she was not successful, and in only one did she even have to make an effort toward acting, a Broadway classic titled "The Seven Year Itch." Marilyn, need it be said, is the sex queen of American films, and as such, doesn't need to act. Yet, in her latest film, "Bus Stop," as well as in "The Seven Year Itch," Marilyn has shown a definite (although still potential) talent. Maybe she wants to be a Great Actress for the same reason—a pre-med student wants to be a Great Surgeon. But for the present at least being a Great Actress is beside the point. In "Bus Stop," her acting is good, if anyone is interested in such a mundane point. "Bus Stop" proves she is still the sex queen of Hollywood. And it's a pretty good comedy, besides.

The publicity books sent out by the studio would give a person the impression that "The Animal World" is all about prehistoric beasts. Actually, only the first few minutes of the film are dedicated to that ancient subject, the remainder of the story being pieced together from thousands of feet of film used up on more modern subjects. The prehistoric section of "The Animal World," however, can boast some fairly good art work, plus some good animation of plastic models.

The second portion of the movie more or less follows the classic Disney pattern, with the narrators helping point out the inevitable humorous side to the animal kingdom, along with its more brutal side. The film should be entertaining and educational to those who have any interest in the animal world.

"Our Miss Brooks" will be high entertaining to those who follow her adventures on TV, or who used to listen to her program on the radio. Eve Arden, as might be expected, carries off her assignment with ease.

PLATTER PALAVER

Nowadays, you are hearing more about "Canadian Sunset" than you are about "Song for a Summer Night." Mitch Miller features both numbers on the same record, while Hugo Winterhalter seems to have recorded the locally favored version of "Canadian Sunset."

Although it has been a best seller for quite a few months now, Gogi Grant's "Wayward Wind" is still a standing favorite. Popular from the beginning this disc has sold many copies, and still rates a royal number of disk jockey and juke box spins.

Pretty, perky Peggy King, formerly of the George Gobel TV show, has a very catching ballad release, "The Best of Times." As its accordance with the title of the number, it will very well be a test of time that will determine the life of this record.

If I were a recording artist, I couldn't ask for more publicity than Elvis Presley receives. But I believe I would prefer the nature and type of publicity be reversed. Instead of negative comment on my style, I would prefer approval. But they say that any kind of comment is better than no comment at all.

Incidentally, Elvis' latest is "Loudy, Mr. Claudy," a number that was popular for a fair length of time some time back. It is my guess that this release will tend to revive the oldie.

Jerry Vale's "You Don't Know Me," seems to have caught on the band wagon very nicely. A favorite that is steadily gaining ground in popularity, the tune still has a comfortable future ahead, as the ever-changing cycles of records go. Another record done in similar style is Don Cherry's "Ghost Town." Having been around for several weeks, if not months, this one seems to be slow in really becoming a favorite, although it is still in circulation.

Quite a few versions of the record "Friendly Persuasion," from the movie bearing the same title, are making amazing headway. One of the best interpretations of this is by Lou Bush, with his orchestra and chorus. They present one of the smoothest vocals of this up-and-coming number.

Gene Vincent, with his Blue Caps, seems to be getting pretty good reception with his latest, "Back Up Baby." When Elvis Presley's name was in the forming period, and before his debut recording of "Heartbreak Hotel" was so high on the hit parade, many people confused the two, because of their similar style. At that time, Gene's "Blue Suede Shoes" was just beginning to be noticed. Needless to say, this latest by Gene Vincent is in the same racing style as his former hit. The Crew Cuts have a unique number that has been among the local favorites for a couple of weeks. "Thirteen, Going on Fourteen," is the title of this showcase for precision harmony.

Music in the Morgan Manner — with Russ Morgan and his orchestra, naturally — is featured in a brand new one, "Lay Down Your Arms." As seems to be the current or approaching trend, an old number, "My Best To You," is the flip side.

TALES BY AUNT BESS . . . Roaming with Roddie, by Martha Lavenda, Riddocon Publisher, $2.45.

This is an odd little book. It is written, one presumes, for very young readers but somehow the fantasy seems so far stretched that one doubts if a youngster would be able to follow it.

The publisher says that it is an educational project and asserts that schools in the vicinity of Orlando, Fla., where it was published have bought copies for use in classrooms.

It deals largely with a weird bunch of wee people called the Aqua Faes and of the adventures these almost invisible mites who are 12 inches tall have with a group of children.

The Aqua Faes are possessed of ability to breathe with gills or lungs as they wish.

Many Examples Cited In South's Desegregation

By BEM PRICE
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — After turning up 1,100 examples of racial barriers dropped in all walks of life in Dixie over the past two years, a Southerner concludes: "There is no longer a solid South of segregation."

Reporting on a carefully documented survey of 17 Southern and border states where segregation has been the historic pattern, Harold C. Fleming said:

"The common notion that desegregation just can't work in the South is plainly contradicted by the findings."

The survey turned up examples, by specific location, of desegregation in schools, housing, public health and welfare.

The study, now in the hands of the printers, was made available in the aftermath of recent disturbances in the South over the admission of Negroes to public schools in Mansfield, Tex., Clinton, Tenn., Texarkana, Tex., and Sturgis and Clay, Ky.

In assessing his state-by-state survey, Fleming, a student of his region for 10 years, wrote:

"The 1,100 instances of desegregation discovered were almost evenly divided between the five 'border' states on the one hand and the 12 'Southern' states on the other. Virtually all of them took place smoothly and harmoniously."

"Obviously, a large reservoir of good will and capacity for change exists among private citizens, even in states where the official climate is harsh. There is no longer a solid South of segregation."

The survey covers the period from May 17, 1954 — date of the U.S. Supreme Court decision holding school segregation unconstitutional — to May of this year.

It is the first nationwide attempt to find out what movements toward integration have taken place in the wake of the court's opinion among all segments of Southern life.

The survey did not deal with what was expected to take place, but what has actually happened. The findings in part:

More than 350 school districts in 9 of the 17 states had integrated to some degree. There were no integrated public elementary or secondary schools in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia or North or South Carolina.

Negro children were attending previously all-white Catholic parochial schools in 21 Southern cities located in Arkansas, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Since 1955 some 164 accredited colleges and universities in Southern and border states and the District of Columbia have opened their doors to Negroes. Of these 164 now open to Negroes, 95 have newly desegregated at some level since May 1954.

As of May this year, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina enforced complete segregation in state-supported institutions. However, all but South Carolina had at least one private college which admitted students of both races.

In the field of public service, Maryland stood at the top of the list in the number of Negroes appointed or elected in the two years inventoried. At least 11 Maryland Negroes were named, all but one for the first time, to city and state posts.

Fleming noted here that developments in this field are not a reliable measure of the extent of Negro representation. For example, he said, in 1954 Negroes already were serving on city councils in at least 11 Southern cities and held elective or appointive office in more than 20 others.

In the public housing, Fleming found "segregation not only deeply entrenched but virtually unchallenged in the South."

Even so, this field was not without its exceptions. Negroes were living in public housing projects occupied by whites in Taylor and Crystal City, Tex.; Baltimore; Charleston, W. Va.; St. Louis; and Rayne, La.

As for transportation, Fleming reported that "local transit systems known to have dropped segregation were found in Texas, Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Arkansas."

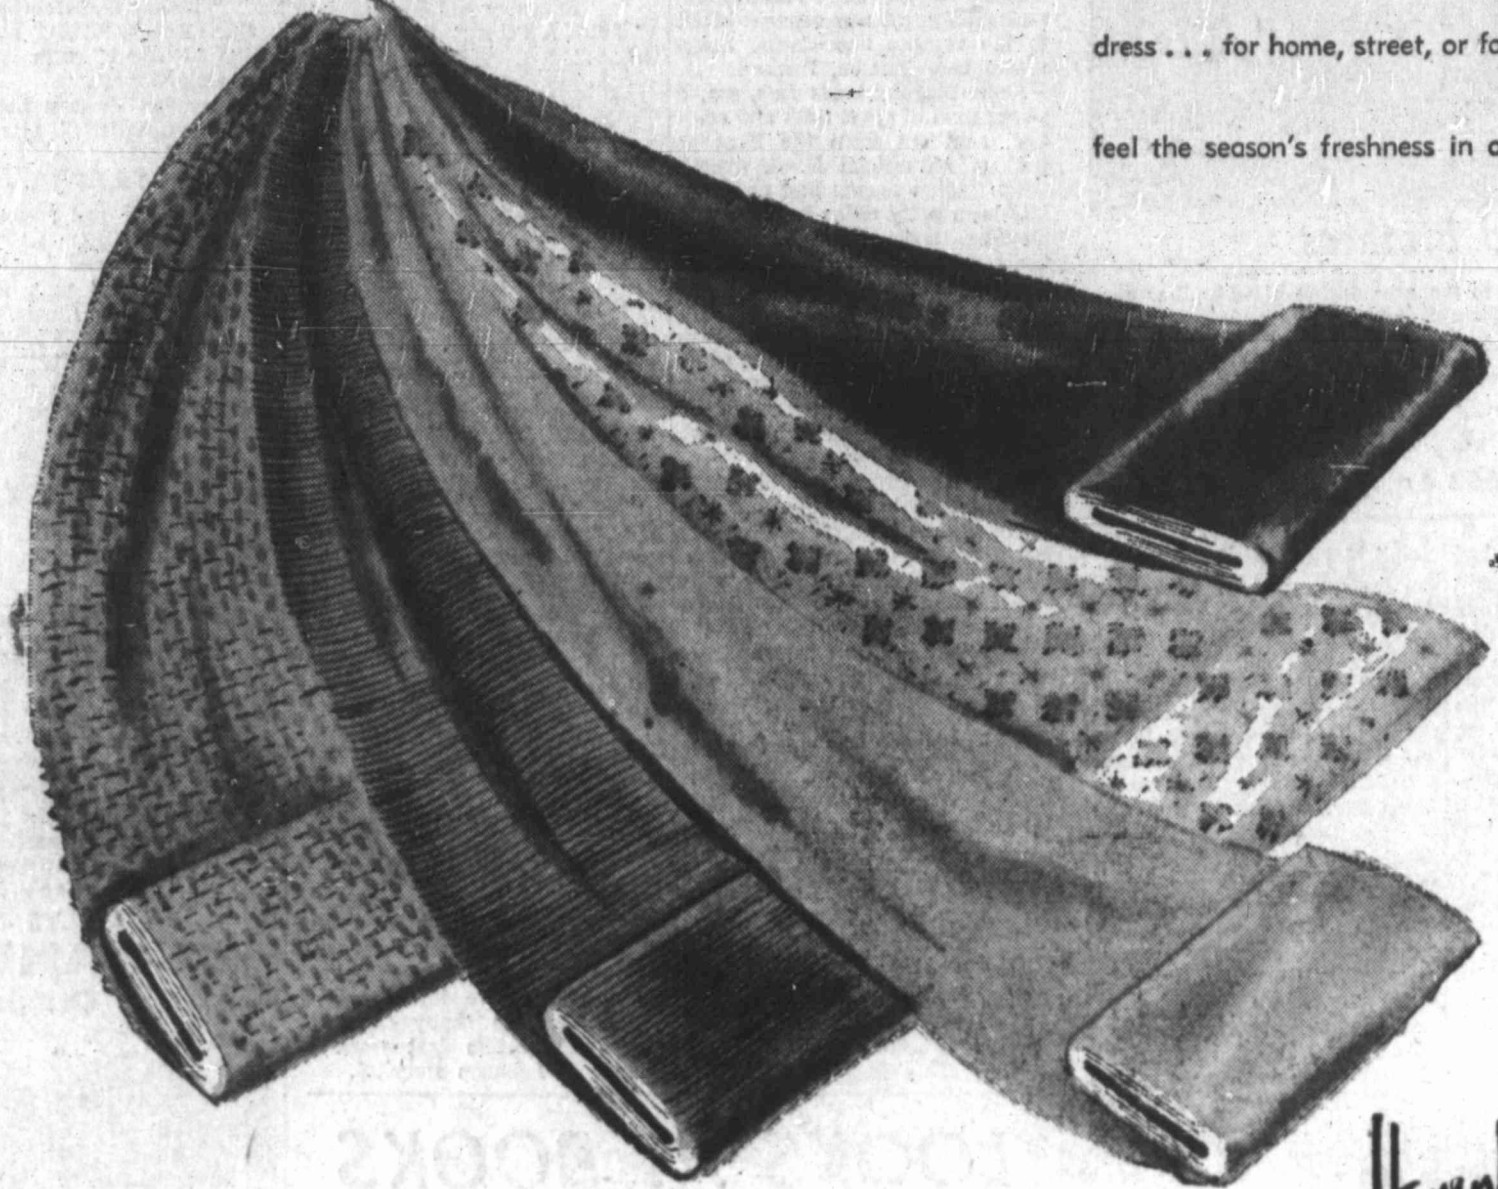

Among religious groups 20 newly integrated ministerial associations were counted — four with elected Negro officers. Fleming noted, however, "the overwhelming majority of churches continue to serve either white or Negro congregations, although at least 10 formerly white churches accepted Negro members."

As for hotels, restaurants and theaters, Fleming observed, "desegregation in public accommodations and theaters has been confined so far mainly to cities in the border states, chiefly St. Louis and Louisville."

"Instances of new desegregated seating in motion picture theaters were found in five border states cities, and some eating places began serving both races in a like number of communities."

Why did the council undertake the survey at this time? Fleming explained in his summary: "It is universally recognized that this is a time of trouble in the South . . . In recent months the dissension and conflict have dominated the news from the region. The danger is that Southerners themselves, to say nothing of people elsewhere, will be blinded to the constructive evidence and will surrender to fear and discouragement."

Uncle Ray:
 Stories Say Crete Had Brilliant Man

A great man lived on Crete long ago, if we may judge by the stories which have come down to us. His name was Daedalus (pronounced DED-uh-lus) and he is supposed to have done remarkable work for Minos, the king.

The truth about Daedalus has been lost in legend, but there may be bits of fact mixed with the tales of wonder. We are told that Daedalus designed the Labyrinth, after a request from the king.

Daedalus is said to have been an Athenian by birth. The ancient Greeks pointed out various statues, carved from wood, as his handiwork.

The Daedalus story which is known most widely concerns a successful trip through the air. The legend declares that he prepared wings for himself, and flew safely from Crete to Sicily. His son, Icarus, also tried to fly, but sunshine melted the wax which held the feathers in place, causing Icarus to fall into the sea and drown.

We can figure the flying story as nothing better than a fairy tale. It is interesting, however, to think that the idea of human beings "flying through the air" existed thousands of years ago.

Other notes about Daedalus suggest that he was a great architect. Possibly he made plans for one or more buildings in the Palace of Minos.

The remains of the Palace include a bathroom with a concrete floor, and a clay tub of oval shape. In addition the Palace has terracotta pipes which carried rain water to the bathroom or to spouts which dropped the water on a slope outside.

Q. Why did the Palace fall to ruins?
 A. It is believed to have been shaken down by an earthquake about 3,400 years ago.

Q. How long did Professor Evans work on restoring the Palace?
 A. He spent much of his time on this project during a period of 32 years, usually about half of each year.
