Demo Party Leaders Map Campaign Plans

AUSTIN (AP)—Democratic party leaders met here today behind closed doors to plan strategy for the Stevenson-Kefauver campaign in Texas.

Here for the session were Democratic National Committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple; the committeewoman, Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston; State executive committee Chairman James Bladell of Dallas; and Mrs. Max Brooks of Austin, vice-chairman of the state central committee.

The session, Blundell said, stemmed from a preliminary meeting held in Fort Worth last week, the day after the state convention. The convention which adopted a resolution putting itself flatly on record as endorsing the national ticket, in contrast to the session four years ago that endorsed the GOP candidates, specifically put the duty and responsibility of the Stevenson-Kefauver campaign in the hands of the party officers.

This included the two national committee members from Texas, the chairman and vice chairman of the executive committee, and the full 62-member committee.

While these plans for the campaign were taking shape, Sen. Price Daniel, the Democratic nominee for governor, continued to insist that he is not ready himself to endorse the national convention's nominees for president and vice president.

Daniel said last week he wants them to answer two questions before he does take such stand: Whether Stevenson especially plans to reopen the tidelands questions and how they feel about using force to put into effect the Supreme Court's segregation decision.

Daniel bolted from the party, after winning the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in 1952, because Stevenson would not agree with Texas' tidelands claims.

One objective of today's meeting of party officials from the convention which certified Daniel as the Democratic nominee and thus made him titular head of the party, is finding a director of organization.

Seek State Aid For Oil Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government announced today it is seeking cooperation of state oil regulatory bodies in a possibly substantial increase of domestic oil production because of the Suez situation.

H. A. Stewart, director of the Interior Department's office of oil and gas, said he had telegraphed state oil officials in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico asking them to meet with him here tomorrow or to send a representative.

All major oil producing states except California have limitations on the amount of oil which can be produced.

Recent estimates indicated daily productive capacity was about one million barrels greater than present production. Domestic production during the week ended Sept. 8 was 7,637,000 barrels daily.

Stewart's telegram said the "Suez situation may result in necessity for increasing domestic production substantially."

Both the government and private oil industry sources have said Europe's oil needs can be met, though possibly on a reduced basis, without cutting U. S. supplies.

And officials have definitely said there is no prospect of petroleum rationing in the United States.

AF Plane Maps Earth Magnet

HANSCOM AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—A huge Air Force plane, loaded with special instruments, today was on the first lap of a 90,000-mile flight to probe magnetic fields which extend thousands of miles beyond the earth's surface.

The trip, which began yesterday, may provide data to help launch America's planned man-made moon and may yield information valuable for guided missile research. Air Force scientists would not comment. They would say only that the expedition is "of purely scientific interest" with no immediate application.

Measurements of intensity of cosmic radiation is expected to help disclose whether the earth's magnetic field at high levels is different from ground level.

The plane carries a crew of 10 and a 1,500-pound cosmic ray monitor. It will fly a zig-zag path, crossing the equator a thousand miles to the north and south.

DAN KRAUSSE

Cosden Board Promotes Pair

Promotions for Dan M. Krausse and L. T. King were announced for the Cosden Petroleum Corporation by president R. L. Tollett, following the annual stockholders' and directors' meeting today.

Krausse becomes the vice president in charge of manufacturing, while King will succeed A. V. Karcher as the corporation's treasurer. Karcher, former secretary-treasurer, will devote full time to the secretary post.

Dan M. Krausse has risen to his new position of vice president of the Cosden corporation in only seven years with the company. Born in Houston in 1925, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in chemical engineering from the University of Texas in 1947. Upon graduation, he joined the Sinclair Refining Company's research and development department at East Chicago, Indiana. After a year's training, he was assigned to the cracking division and later was made administrative assistant to the manager.

He joined Cosden in November of 1949 as control engineer at Big Spring. In 1952, he became assistant to the president, coordinating the manufacturing activities of the company. Then on April 16, 1955, he was promoted to his last position as manager of manufacturing.

Krausse is a member of Tau Beta Pi, Phi Eta Sigma, and Delta Tau Delta fraternities and is a director of the Big Spring Rotary Club, Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, the Buffalo Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and the Howard County United Fund. In 1954, he received the Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award as outstanding young man of the year in Big Spring.

The Krausses, with their three children, live at 806 West 14th.

King's promotion to treasurer of the Cosden corporation came as a climax to more than 14 years of service to the company. He was born at Temple, in 1906 and attended high school at Sanger, prior to going to North Texas State Teachers College in Denton and to Oklahoma City University.

Following graduation, King joined the Consolidated Gas Utilities Corporation in Oklahoma as a clerk to the division office manager. He advanced to division auditor and general auditor before leaving Consolidated in 1942.

In March of that year, he came to Cosden to work in the tax and insurance department. In November of 1943, he was made credit manager; then chief accountant in 1945. In 1947, he returned to the credit department to manage its reorganization. Since 1949, he has served as assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. Additionally, as supervisor of all accounting, he directs some 30 members of the accounting department.

He is a member of the Lions Club, having served as a vice president of the Big Spring Club. He also is a member of the First Christian Church and is a Mason. An ardent fisherman, he is a director and treasurer of the Big Spring Hunting and Fishing Club.

The Kings reside at 1510 Tucson with their two daughters, Nancy Kay and Sarah Jane.

Returned to the board were R. L. Tollett, Marvin M. Miller and A. V. Karcher, Big Spring; Nelson Phillips Jr., Dallas; Herbert Grindal, San Antonio, and Leo M. O'Neill, Thomas I. Sheridan and William H. Hayes of New York.

Directors re-elected Tollett president, named Marvin M. Miller, Douglas Orme, R. W. Thompson, Nelson Phillips Jr. and Dan M. Krausse, vice presidents; A. V. Karcher, secretary; L. T. King, treasurer; V. A. Whittington, assistant secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Alma C. Golinick, assistant secretary; Mrs. Helen D. Green, assistant secretary.

16 Nations To Set Up Canal Users Alliance

LONDON (AP)—Sixteen out of the 18 nations which originally backed the plan for international control of the Suez Canal were reported today to have accepted invitations to a new conference here Wednesday to set up a users' association.

Still to be heard from, British officials said, were Ethiopia and Spain. Spain is reluctant to join in the talks because of its desire to remain on good terms with its Arab neighbors.

While the acceptances poured in, many of the countries expressed misgivings about the idea of the association and made it plain they were not committing themselves in advance to adopting the plan—denounced by Egyptian President Nasser as a step toward war.

It is likely the first idea of the association—to regulate traffic through Suez—would be radically changed before the new London conference, successor to the 22-nation Suez conference of mid-August, is finished.

Some sources speculated that a complete boycott of the canal was the new long-range Western scheme to force Egypt to give up sole control of the waterway.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, who fathered the association idea, was reported ready to offer half a billion dollars and American oil aid to soften the increased cost to the other nations of sending ships the long way around the Cape of Good Hope. He will arrive here tomorrow for talks with the British and French.

Such a boycott would leave Nasser in control of the canal but with few customers, since the 18 nations invited there for Wednesday's talks represent from 90 to 95 per cent of the shipping through Suez. It would also avoid the use of force.

Besides the Western Big Three, Ethiopia and Spain, those asked to the conference are: Turkey, New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Pakistan, Iran, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Sweden, Norway, Portugal and the Netherlands.

British papers began warning their readers of possible oil rationing and higher food prices because of the increased costs of shipping.

In South Africa, port officials in Capetown began round-the-clock work to handle the increased shipping they expect as a result of the Suez crisis.

The London Daily Telegraph, a staunch supporter of the government of Prime Minister Eden, said editorially:

"As a device to keep the canal open while international consultations continue its course, in the United Nations or outside, the users' association is likely to be stillborn."

The next step will be to concert economic measures against what the ministers at Lancaster House will have to consider is their readiness to boycott the canal."

The Soviet Union warned the Western Powers they were playing with fire.

Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist party, said in an editorial broadcast in English by the Moscow radio:

"The most frank expression of the colonial nature of Western policy on Suez may be found in the idea to set up a so-called association of Suez Canal users—rightly described in Arab countries as an association for a declaration of war on Egypt."

Charges Planned In Kidnaping Case

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Don Keller said he planned to issue criminal complaints today against two women who, says wealthy Mrs. Ruth Latham, kidnaped her and buried her alive and naked.

The accused are Mrs. Victoria Winn, 57, who is involved in court litigation over business matters with Mrs. Latham, and Mrs. Lucille Whisenand, 36, U.S. Customs Service clerk.

Police arrested them Friday, shortly after Mrs. Latham, 51, was found crouching behind a bush alongside U.S. Highway 80, twenty miles west of El Centro. They have been held on charges of suspicion of kidnaping and attempted murder, with bail set at $50,000 each.

The district attorney interviewed Mrs. Latham for 90 minutes yesterday at a hospital. He said several crimes appeared to be involved.

Mrs. Latham, wife of George Latham, investment broker, and an official of several of their corporations, said she was kidnaped from her home Wednesday.

She repeated to Keller her account of being forced to sign checks. She said she was beaten, stripped, bound and blindfolded, then buried alive beneath rocks in a shallow desert grave.

The blindfold slipped, allowing her to see her kidnapers, she said. She struggled free and then walked and crawled five miles in blazing 110 degree heat. Friday night she reached a highway. She shielded her body with brush.

Both Mrs. Winn and Mrs. Whisenand have denied the charges. They said they themselves were kidnaped Wednesday and released near Calexico that night by three men and a woman who talked about getting money from Latham.

Sodomy Cases Are Dismissed

Refusal of prosecuting witnesses to testify resulted this morning in dismissal of five sodomy indictments which named Dr. Keith L. Brady, former Big Spring chiropractor.

Motions to dismiss the indictments were filed in district court by District Attorney Guilford Jones.

Each motion set out that the prosecution witness refused to testify in the cases. Attached to each motion was a letter from the state's witness in that case, in which the witness stated he would not testify and requested dismissal of the charge.

Judge Charlie Sullivan granted the dismissals promptly, wiping the cases off the district court docket.

The chief prosecution witness in each of the five cases was a local boy, of high school or early college age.

Indictments against Brady were returned by a Howard County Grand Jury last Dec. 21. Offenses were alleged on various dates in 1955.

In other action this morning, Judge Sullivan excused a jury panel which had been summoned and started hearing non-jury criminal cases. The district attorney said only three or four cases remained on the docket, and some of the defendants were expected to enter guilty pleas.

Rocket Reaches High Mach In Two Seconds

WOODRIDGE, N. J. (AP)—The Curtis-Wright Corp. has announced development of a research rocket that reaches "several times" the speed of sound two seconds after the takeoff.

The firm announced yesterday that the new rocket, called the hypersonic test vehicle, was developed as a research tool to gather data at hypersonic speeds, such as heating, pressures and aerodynamic shapes.

The development was made in cooperation with the U. S. Air Force Research and Development Command.

Fifteen experimental models have been fired so far at ARDC's Holloman air development center, Alamogordo, N. M., the firm said.

Shafer Linked Anew To Plot

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Labor leader Raymond Shafer, on trial on charges of attempted bombing, was linked anew today with an alleged plot to dynamite the Southwestern Motor Transport, Inc., here during labor troubles in January, 1955.

The accusation came from W. R. Springer.

Springer testified Saturday he had been involved in the bombing of an Austin firm for Shafer. He told the jury today he had talked with Shafer about a week after an unsuccessful attempt to bomb the Alamo Motor Freight Lines here Jan. 5, 1955.

Hagler Fraud Plea Expected

FORT WORTH (AP)—David Hagler, acquitted in a torch murder trial in Oklahoma last April, was to enter a guilty plea in Federal Court today to a charge of fraud over FHA loans.

The indictment accused Hagler of making false statements in obtaining Title 1 loans. He was charged with swearing he had no other FHA loans in obtaining new loans when actually he had another loan at the same bank where he was making the application.

U. S. Oil Exports May Be Increased

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said after a conference with President Eisenhower today there is no American plan to finance the "detouring of the Suez Canal."

Dulles told reporters at the White House the United States is prepared to help finance, through the Export-Import Bank, increased exports of American oil to Western nations if transit through the canal is "impractical or greatly diminished."

Asked whether he was barring financial aid to other nations to help them transport oil around Africa and thus detour the canal, Dulles said he and Eisenhower have planned only as a contingency the financing of American oil exports.

"We have not gone beyond that in our planning and we do not believe we will have to," Dulles said.

He spent an hour with Eisenhower in advance of his scheduled departure later in the day for London.

In London, Dulles will participate in a meeting of 18 governments which failed in efforts to get Egypt to accept internationalization of the canal operations.

Dulles reiterated in a formal statement issued after his conference with the President that the United States "is dedicated to seeking by peaceful means assurance that the Suez Canal will carry out the international purpose to which it is dedicated by the convention of 1888."

"We are not, however, willing to accept for ourselves nor do we seek from other nations acceptance of an operating regime for the canal which falls short of recognizing the rights granted to canal users by the 1888 convention," Dulles said.

He continued:

"We are not trying to organize any boycott of the canal but we cannot be blind to the fact that conditions might become such that transit through the canal is impractical or greatly diminished."

"There must always be ways to insure the development of vital supplies, particularly oil, to Western Europe. Accordingly, we are carrying out planning as a prudent precaution. But our hope remains that satisfactory operating arrangements can be worked out with Egypt."

Dulles added that at London "We will consider developments since the previous conference on the Suez adjourned Aug. 23 and, I hope, find a calm approach to the future."

The earlier conference proposed internationalization of canal operations. This was rejected by President Nasser of Egypt.

Dulles was asked specifically about reports that the United States is ready to put up half a billion dollars to help Western European countries finance the re-routing of their Middle East oil shipments.

In reply, Dulles recalled that he told a news conference last week that if it became necessary to re-route tankers around the Cape there would be a shortage of tankers. He said if there was not sufficient oil available from the Middle East to meet the requirements of the Western nations, export of American oil could be stepped up.

He said he was confident the Export-Import Bank "would find it appropriate to assist in the export of oil" under those conditions.

Dulles said that this would be "merely normal" procedure.

Man Is Crushed Between Rail Cars

Coleman Allen Wilcox, 41, was crushed to death early Sunday morning when he was caught between the drawbars of two railway cars.

Apparently he died instantly at about 3:30 a.m. His body lay on the south side of the track, his bundle of clothes between the tracks.

Railway company officials said they knew of no reason for Wilcox's having been in the yards. Records on his person showed that he had worked for the Glenn-Rex, Inc., oil well servicing concern, at Odessa through Thursday.

The remains were shipped Sunday night by Nalley-Pickle Funeral home to the Oakley-Metcalf Funeral Home in Lufkin. Mr. Wilcox left a wife and five children.

Crews were engaged in classifying cars cutting them into different tracks according to destination at the time. One theory was that he had started across the track and in the dark did not realize another car was about to make contact with the one he was rounding.

Justice of Peace Walter Grice entered a verdict of accidental death.

Mr. Wilcox was born in Houston County on Aug. 1, 1915. He leaves his wife; three daughters, Delores, Wanda Lynn and Gail; and two sons, Larry and Floyd Wilcox, all of 10518 Foy Street, Houston; his mother Mrs. Hattie Ross, Wells; five sisters, Mrs. Della Mae Day, Mrs. Opal Rogers and Mrs. Maggie Lou Fiddle of Wells, Mrs. Gladys Schroeder and Mrs. Lois Todd, Houston; two half-brothers, Bill Foreman and A. Suspect In Lamesa Theft Case Arrested

A Negro entered a service station in Lamesa early this morning while attendants were waiting on customers and walked out with $71 in cash and two checks.

Police here apprehended him shortly afterwards.

The man, who said his name was Freddie Shaw, admitted taking the money. He had both cash and checks in his possession at the time of the arrest. Sheriff deputies arrived before noon today to take him back to Lamesa.

Shaw admitted taking the money from the Southend Service Station on the Big Spring highway in Lamesa.

One of the attendants, Wayne Fretwell, earlier had cashed a $12 check for him.

Fretwell said he serviced a car, put a small amount of money in the register and went to handle another customer. When he returned this time, the cash drawer had been rifled. Shaw had just left, hitchhiking toward Big Spring, so Fretwell caught a ride with a car coming in this direction and followed.

Fretwell said the car he was in passed another car and he recognized the Negro riding in it. To be sure, the attendant then stopped and let the other car pass. He then followed the car to Big Spring.

The description led police to the area where the car stopped, and Shaw was picked up shortly afterwards. He was arrested by patrolman Bill Walton and Sam Roberts about 9:30 a.m.

Shaw told police officers he had served a prison term for forgery. He listed Fort Worth as his home town.

O'Keefe Relates Machinegun Plan At Brink's Trial

BOSTON (AP)—Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe testified to the Brink's robbery trial jury today that Anthony Pino wanted to use machineguns and also a couple of shotguns in the holdup of the money transportation firm's offices.

O'Keefe, on the stand for the second day, said Pino, 48, one of the eight defendants on trial on charges of armed robbery of $1,219,000 on Jan. 17, 1956, made the proposal at a meeting at Pino's home in the summer of 1949. Also present was Stanley Gusciora, 36, who died before the trial, O'Keefe said.

Subsequently, O'Keefe said, he met defendant Adolph Maffie, 45, and told him that "Tony" wanted us to use machineguns. O'Keefe quoted Maffie's reply: "Oh, to hell with him. He ain't going in the joint."

Net Farm Income Expected To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today that net farm income—a potential key to farm state voting in November elections—appears likely to be around 9 per cent higher than last year for the July-September quarter.

In a monthly report, the agency said the net income this quarter could well attain an annual rate of 12 billion dollars compared with a rate of 11 billion dollars during the corresponding period last year.

What happens to farm income and prices between now and November could influence how many farmers vote. Democrats have criticized declines during the Eisenhower administration but Republican leaders contend that the postwar bottom to farm income has been passed and that better times are ahead. The income during the first half of this year was reported at an annual rate about 100 million dollars higher than the slightly more than 11 1/2 billion dollars for the first half of 1955. By net income, the department means the amount farmers have left from gross receipts after paying production costs plus the value of products raised on the farm and consumed there and the rental value of farm dwellings. The department estimated that farm receipts from marketings in the first eight months of this year totaled $17,100,000,000 or 20 per cent more than in the corresponding period last year. Prices received by farmers during the eight-month period averaged 2 per cent below last year but the volume of marketings this year was heavier. The January - August total of cash receipts from livestock and livestock products was estimated at $10,400,000,000 slightly above last year as larger receipts from milk, eggs and chickens more than offset declines for cattle and hogs. Preliminary department estimates indicate that cash receipts in July and August were up almost 4 per cent from last year, with both prices and marketings being slightly higher than in the same months of 1955. The department said that farm operating costs continued to run higher than a year ago.

Benson Tags Demo Farm Plan 'Pessimistic'

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today the Democratic farm plan is "pessimistic because it calls upon government to be the market for which farmers would produce."

In an address prepared for a convention of the National Frozen Food Locker Institute, Benson said "I would like to ask, personally, every farmer across this great land whether he would like to have government tell him what he can grow and how much, what he can sell and how much?"

"Or, would he choose as his alternative . . . a program designed to eliminate market-destroying, price-destroying, income-destroying surpluses that now hang over him—a program grounded in the conviction that government can do much to aid farmers, but that government should operate always in the role of servant and never in the role of master."

Benson said "farmers don't want more surpluses . . . They don't want agriculture socialized." "Only a free and flexible agriculture can stay tuned to markets—and only an agriculture that stays in tune with its markets can be expanding and prosperous," Benson said. The secretary said that under the Eisenhower Republican Administration, government owned surpluses amounting to two billion, 700 million dollars were moved into useful outlets in the fiscal year 1955—"more than ever before in any one year, and five times as much as in the last year of the previous administration."

"At the school we visited, I am amazed at the advanced type of equipment they have," he said. Blanchard said they have made great strides in developing air-to-air refueling, an intercontinental ballistic missile and training technicians and scientists.

JOHN BARR 'Mr. States Rights' Is Methodical Man

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—John U. Barr lounged, smoking cigars the other day while his political "baby" raised a great racket in the hotel ballroom six floors below.

His baby was the National States Rights Conference, an ambitious effort to snatch the presidency from Republicans and Democrats. Or failing that—to give them the scare of their lives.

"I'm resting," explained Barr somewhat guiltily, lighting the day's 15th cigar. "Had to get off the conference floor; too many hands to shake and everybody wants to talk."

Perhaps you've never heard of Barr, a New Orleans businessman of average height, with a thick shock of iron-gray hair and a warm smile. But in the South he's generally regarded as "Mr. States Rights."

He's a methodical man with a head for detail, a flair for organizing. He says he will never run for public office and he seldom steps out front. Behind the scenes he labors mightily. To a great extent, Barr is the man who nursed the "cause" when it faltered, jugged it to new fire after defeat, scoured up money to finance the fight and threw in lots of hard cash of his own.

The carefully controlled conference he fired drew 217 delegates from a dozen splinter parties scattered through 25 states.

All of the parties are committed to the doctrine of more powerful individual states and a weaker federal government. All believe racial segregation is a matter for states to handle. All regard the major parties as "Socialist" carbon copies.

"Our strategy is to win enough electoral votes to deadlock the Electoral College," Barr said. In that event the election would be decided in the House of Representatives.

atives, where each state would cast one vote. "It's not such a long shot," he said. "We'll have independent electors pledged to our candidate on a lot of state ballots. They're already on in 15 states."

"We'll have a lot of grass roots support. And we have broadened our base. I wanted to get away from the idea that this is a Southern matter. States rights is no longer a regional question."

Barr is impartial on the question of which major party he expects the campaign to hurt most. "It'll cut both ways," he said. The thorny problem of racial segregation is expected to help the States Righters. "No doubt about that," said Barr. Under the States Rights doctrine such matters would be left up to the individual states; no "federal interference."

The man who spends a good part of his time pushing the doctrine was born Jan. 27, 1889, in Lauderdale, Miss., the only son of a Presbyterian minister. "I have a country school education, worked as a laborer, spent some time as a salesman, moved to New Orleans in 1910 and took a course in accounting," said Barr. "I love to work."

He considered retiring some time back, sold his major enterprise, a rope and twine factory, and sat down for a while. He gave it up after an unsuccessful struggle. He now has new business interests.

"Politics take up as much time as I can give it," he said. "But I still need to make a dollar because I spend it as fast as it comes in. I am not a wealthy man. I'm not poor, but I'm not wealthy."

One place the money goes is to political financing. Barr won't discuss it, but aides estimated he has sunk at least $150,000 into backing his philosophy since 1944.

A Bible Thought For Today

But the LORD is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting King: at his wrath the earth shall tremble, and the nations shall not be able to abide his indignation. (Jeremiah 10:10)

Accent With A Catfish Flavor

Most of us don't even know we have an accent, until we hear somebody else use one that doesn't sound like the kind we're used to. A great many people are astonished, upon hearing a playback of their own recorded voice, to discover their voice sounds like the muttering of a catfish from the bottom of a river.

And all of us are familiar with the embarrassment of having to pronounce a word aloud that we have been familiar with all our lives, yet never had occasion to utter before.

The Charleston News & Courier, published in a city with a way of life and a manner of speech all its own, presented a dictionary of Charlestonese as compiled by "Lord Ashley Cooper" for the "use of tourists visiting the Holy City."

Here are some samples:

Abode—Wooden plank. A boot—approximately. Air—what you hear with. Bare—

A beverage made from malt and hops. Bull—Nickname for William. Coat—Where they got the judge an' all.

Cup—Place for housing hens. Des Moines—They belong to me.

Faints—A barricade of wood, brick or stone. Flow—What you stand on in a house. Frustrate—Tops; initial ranking. Go it!—An animal that eats tin cans and smells bad.

Hall—the abode of integrationists and other evil spirits. Halo—Greeting similar to "how do you do?" Harmony—Cooked greys. Hawkers—Quadrupeds that eat hay.

Hone—Something of an auto that you blow. Mow—An additional quantity. Packing—Maneuvering an auto to a curb. Pain—What you signa check with. Poach—A verandah. Police—Term of polite request. Rum—An enclosed place within a building.

You get the idea?

Chance For A Part In Miracles

In his current Satepost story of his blinding by a hired acid-thrower, the labor columnist Victor Riesel tells how hundreds of people, including many convicts and condemned felons, offered their eyes to him for transplantation.

He explains none of these offers could be accepted, since the technique of transplanting whole eyes has not been developed, if indeed it will ever be possible.

Riesel's hope of corneal transplantation was blasted because the acid ate into and destroyed or damaged the whole eye structure.

There are more than 20,000 people in the United States today who had lost their vision because of corneal defects but now are able to see because of the advances of surgery and the cooperation of dying people who directed that their eyes be used to help others.

The Eye-Bank for Sight Restoration Inc., 210 E. 64th St., New York 21, N. Y., which handles the work of getting donated eyes to the spot where needed, has run into a curious situation. An increasing number of people are making their eyes available for this work in their wills.

"The provision should never be put in a will because a will is not probated in time, and the magnificent desire to restore sight to those who are standing patiently by for this special operation cannot be carried out," the Eye-Bank explains.

So, if you would like to leave your eyes for the benefit of some person who can use them, address a note of inquiry to the organization at the above address, and the Eye-Bank will send you a donor form together with a booklet describing the functions of that organization.

This simple gesture may mean the difference between sight and blindness for some person who is already blind or who is going blind by stages.

You have a chance to participate in a miracle.

The Secret Of Happiness In Old Age

NAMPA, Idaho—And now, as I bid a fond farewell to Idaho, I cannot leave before setting down a few notes for the benefit of those interested in geriatrics.

Ten days with my two Idaho aunts, Kittie Lee Haven, 82, and Nellie Virginia Sinsel, 83, have, as usual, winded me and given me a good many new ideas.

I look at them both lovingly and admiringly, and wonder what is the basis of a long and happy life. Love, warmth, generosity and kindness, which they have in abundance, are only part of the answer. Heredity (their Grandmother Callaway lived to be 102) is only one factor.

Strength to endure much, for each has had her full share of the world's sorrow, is not the whole answer.

What, then, makes them, in their 80s, so vital and essentially young in spirit? My guess is that their continuing interest in the world and all its works, both great and small, has a lot to do with it. Their keen and intelligent pleasure in life and what it holds for the future is for them, as good as a Fountain of Youth.

They are as interested in the coming election as their mother was in the Bull Moose revolt when she shocked her Democratic family speechlessly by voting for Teddy Roosevelt, whose independence Grandma admired. Since women got the vote, they have never missed the privilege of voting and nothing will keep them from exercising the franchise come November 6.

After all, young as is the United States, few persons survive who can remember, as do Aunt Kit and Aunt Nell, being hurried to a fort when Indians were on the warpath.

It is impossible to imagine either "settling down" to old age. Indeed, Aunt Kit is just embarking upon a new career as a lecturer. A few weeks ago, a Nampa service club invited her to speak on pioneer days at its weekly luncheon.

Small, part and gay, she was such a hit that invitations to speak to other groups are keeping her busy. She also has plans for a new rose garden next spring, but Aunt Nell thinks she will stick to annuals, with which she has such success.

There is even talk of joining a duplicate bridge group for the winter.

Indeed, the two of them play such expert bridge that they regard me as not quite bright enough to be in their league. I am lucky that they have permitted themselves to beat the socks off me at Canasta during the past week.

Oh, the devil never scrounge up work for either aunt. Both are busy as bees.

Dinner is ready, they have just announced. It will be a feast, with the last small, sweet ears of golden corn from their garden to accompany the chicken. They are still superb cooks. When the time comes, it is going to be much, much easier to fasten my suitcases than my clothes! Ten days with the aunts is a broadening experience.

Natural Bait Best

ELY, Minn. — Natural bait is sometimes best for catching the big ones.

Charlie Rawleigh of Chicago saw a big northern pike floundering in Basewood Lake. Closer inspection showed it to be thrashing in an effort to swallow a four-pound sucker lodged in its throat.

Rawleigh merely picked it up with a landing net. It weighed 18 1/2 pounds.

Well-Traveled

GRAND LAKE, Colo. — Frank Southways of Grand Lake has a pair of well-traveled youngsters. Four - month - old Hope Southway has flown 20,000 miles and his brother, Frank Jr., has circled the globe.

Not Here

RALEIGH, N. C. — A cab dispatcher's room at Union Bus Station has this sign on the window: "If you have nothing to do, don't do it around this window."

Backlog Of Cases

MEXICO CITY — Divorce cases are keeping the 15 civil courts of this federal district jammed. Records show that at any given time between six and seven thousand such cases are on file.

Wrong Guess

PASCO, Wash. — Police figured the thief who broke his way into the First Lutheran Church spent about an hour breaking the lock on the door through which he made his entry.

The thief guessed wrong. The door he forced was the only one in the church that was locked. Incidentally, he apparently had a change of heart after he got in because nothing was missing.

Problem Solver

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — There's no problem too hard to crack in the office of Probate Clerk Esther Simkins.

When metal clasps on some records are too tough for ordinary fingers to open, "We just take an old nutcracker and come down on 'em," a deputy clerk said.

Pasture Politics Is Still Around

WASHINGTON — The outdoor political rally with barbecue where voters turn out to gaze on the candidates is still very much a part of the American scene.

Pasture politics still is about as good a way as any for a politician to get down to the grass roots.

Sometimes, though, the folk who make up the grass roots can be a bit confusing, as the Democrats' presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson, found out Saturday night.

When he came to Washington to set up campaign headquarters, Stevenson agreed to cross the Potomac and assist local Democrats in their efforts to recapture Virginia's 10th District House seat from the Republicans—and thus was born the idea for a big barbecue.

While the 10th Virginia District has its particular peculiarities, it still is a product of the trend in this country toward suburbia.

It is filled with white collar workers, many of whom belong to the new station wagon set. These people differ from their counterparts elsewhere only in that a large percentage of them work for the government.

Mixed in with the suburbanites are old line families, who continue to farm their lands.

In this suburb, as in the suburbs elsewhere, there is little real poverty and little great wealth. The educational level is considered high.

About 5,000 of these people turned out for the rally. As a rally with "gala entertainment, music and good food," the affair was a bust. It rained. One of the two speaker systems failed. There was a shortage of barbecue.

In 1952 Stevenson lost Virginia to the Republicans. In that campaign the state's major political figure, Democratic Sen. Harry Flood Byrd, sat on the sidelines. This year, Byrd thus far has been silent, although he criticized the Republicans' civil rights platform plank at a recent meeting.

If Byrd came out for Stevenson, Virginia most likely would be in the bag for the Democrats. There is scant doubt that if Byrd remains quiet Stevenson will be hurt. How badly is anybody's guess.

Living Up A Dog's Life

NEW YORK — If the average man never had it so good in America—well, the average dog is having it even better, because they are more nervous.

Kendall gave this tip for training watchdogs:

"If you want the dog to guard your house at night, feed him in the morning. Then he'll be alert and hungry by nightfall, and won't fall asleep."

"If you want him to be alert during the day, feed him at night."

It seems that Rover, like his master, likes varying flavors in his food. His favorites: Meat, vegetable, cheese, ginger and charcoal. Not even a talking dog has ever been known to murmur, "make mine vanilla."

The dog, like man, often becomes a victim of man's civilization. Just like his owner he is prey to a host of ailments ranging from tonsillitis and halitosis to hepatitis and a seemingly increasing amount of cancer. Cancer in dogs usually, however, is external. This may be simply because internal cancers in pets are rarely diagnosed.

"For this purpose the smaller dogs — terriers, miniature schnauzers and toy poodles — are often best, because they are more nervous."

Around The Rim

There'll Be Days Like This

Some days it doesn't pay to get up. You argue yourself into it and, right away, bang your toe against the bedstead. You lie back down until the flame of pain and anger recedes. Then you try it again.

But it's a day when your timing is all off. The coffee boils over. The eggs are fried too hard. The butter tastes like it got too chummy with the cantaloupe. You start to work and find your car battery is down. That, after the door to the garage comes open only after you kick it three or four times.

You open your mail and the first two or three pieces start with the notice, "Please remit." You nod to a friend and he proceeds to tell you about the good fortune of a friend, you, maybe, envy anyway, how he inherited a million bucks and is going to live happily ever after.

Your wife calls and tells you the baby is sick because he ate the dog food.

At 5 o'clock, you start home and the mopey guy ahead of you takes an eternity to get from one street signal to the other, causing you to miss every light. It's worse than usual, because the sun is in your eyes and you have to ride tall in the saddle because the seat cushions have heated up.

You pass the last traffic light and then you run into a funeral procession or get a cheerful "hello" from a street sign that bears the fact that road repairs are going on down the way.

After you get home and find you can take no shower because the people from the water works are working on the pipes up the street, you bury your nose in a newspaper.

Then, you confirm your suspicions that taxes are going up and the people on some foreign shore are boycotting American goods because a Yankee tourist didn't remove his shoes when he entered a temple built for a sacred cow.

It is any wonder, then, you have to chuckle when you reason all the salt isn't being poured in your wounds, that other people are leading with their chin, too.

Like the 68-year-old railroader in Canada who was looked for passing counterfeit quarters on to his customers just two months before he was to have retired and benefited from a company pension.

Or maybe the fretting gaffer who parks in a "no-parking zone" while on route to the police headquarters to settle a traffic fine and then returns to find another ticket on his car.

It's then you feel like calling up such a party and saying: "Buddy, meet a member of the lodge!"

The American View On Suez

It would be a mistake for anyone in London or Paris to suppose that the American attitude on Suez is softer and more pacific than it would be if there were no national elections. The American view, which has the preponderant support of those who think about Suez at all, is that no case exists which would justify a resort to force, and that the use of force by France and Britain alone would almost certainly involve them and the Western world in incalculable risks. We do not believe that Nasser has as yet committed an aggression which calls for a military reprisal. We do not believe that by the reoccupation of the canal zone and the overthrow of Nasser, the vital interests of the West could be made secure. We believe that reoccupation would be the beginning of an endless and indecisive guerrilla war, a war of sabotage, sniping, ambushes, and assassinations. We think this guerrilla war would be much harder to cope with than the rebellions in Algeria and in Cyprus.

So we very much hope that we shall not be confronted with an accomplished fact, and compelled to say we cannot approve and that we must stand aside.

In our view Nasser's rejection of the eighteen nation proposal for operation by an international board was to be expected and does not justify a rupture of negotiations. It has always been evident that Nasser would refuse, and that the eighteen nations would not use force to compel him to accept, the proposal for international operation of the canal. The task of diplomacy has been, and still is, to inject into Egyptian operation a reasonable and reliable measure of international influence.

There are two ways of going at this. One is to begin at the Dulles end, to propose an international board to operate the canal, and then to compromise at some point where there is Egyptian operation but important international advice, assistance, and supervision. The other way is to begin at the Nehru end, which starts with international advice and supervision, and then to negotiate for ways of making them practically effective.

It is a question whether there is a real difference, a real attainable difference, between the American and the Indian plan. If, as seems probable, international operation is impossible while international supervision would have unified the London conference, it might have been wiser to unite on the Indian plan.

Nasser has big and dangerous ambitions, and his seizure of the Suez Canal is a major overt act in his cold war against the Western power and influence in Africa and the Middle East. He is a shrewdly calculated move. He acted in an unfriendly manner. But he acted entirely within the boundaries of Egypt, and therefore, there was no military aggression. He did what he did, what under international law he had a sovereign right to do. He has, of course, gained great prestige in the Arab world. But if he will agree to an international treaty which makes explicit the international right of the users of the canal, he will not have won an unconditional victory. So far as the canal is concerned, he will have shot his bolt.

What is to happen in the oil fields and on the pipe lines will happen no sooner if we negotiate such a treaty than if Britain and France, with the rest of the world standing aside, resort to force. We are on notice, however, that in the Middle East the old order is changing and that we must get ready for it, that we cannot afford to be as unprepared for other changes as we were unprepared for Suez.

Republicans Weak On Local Fronts

WASHINGTON — Basking in the warm glow of President Eisenhower's personality and prestige, the Republicans seem to have lost sight of the importance of strong local candidates for office in strong local organizations. That is the real meaning of what happened in Maine and it has a direct bearing on the outcome of the primaries in Wisconsin and Utah.

The narrow victory of Senator Alexander Wiley in Wisconsin over his isolationist opponent owed nothing to either the national or the state Republican organization.

The state leaders had sponsored Representative Glenn R. Davis because his ultra-conservative views on both foreign and domestic policy were more acceptable. In the last days of the campaign, the 72-year-old Wiley was called on to explain the use of his frank in mailing out what was said to be campaign literature. He charged that this was an effort to discredit him with the voters.

At the statewide convention at which Wiley had been repudiated by a three-to-one vote of the delegates, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, principal speaker for the Administration in Washington, failed even to mention the Senator's name. Wiley complained bitterly, pointing out how in instance after the instance he had gone down the line for the Eisenhower foreign policy.

His former name on the ticket in November should count heavily, since the winner of the Democratic nomination, Henry Maier, is not widely known.

It should be noted in the Wisconsin returns that a third Republican candidate, Howard Boyle, an ultra-nationalist in the pattern of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, running without any organization support and openly denouncing Mr. Eisenhower's policies, got more than 20,000 votes. If these had gone to Davis, Wiley would have been defeated.

In Utah the defeat of Governor J. Bracken Lee by a newcomer to politics cannot help but strengthen the GOP ticket. Some what to the right of the Bourbons of France, Lee has been crusading against the income tax while at the same time running down the President's major goals in the foreign field.

Republicans in Washington in the wake of the Maine upset have been reaching for the soothing syrup. The Democratic victory — and the Democrats are saying privately that the recount in the hairline district will give them a second Congress-al seat for a total of two out of three — is due to "local conditions."

As Maine goes, so goes Vermont, they say, recalling the hope that Alfred M. Landon took in September of 1936 from the Maine outcome when in November he carried only those two states.

But with her notable New England forthrightness, Senator Margaret Chase Smith dissents. Realizing that the race would be extremely close, Mrs. Smith stayed away from the Republican convention in San Francisco to campaign for GOP candidates in Maine. In a statement after the defeat, she said that her party could take no comfort from the results "whether from a state or a national viewpoint."

Maine may be disputed as a barometer, but the Democrats are counting on what they say is a more sure indicator of the outcome in November. That is the vote in the territory of Alaska, which for nearly 40 years has accurately reflected the Presidential vote that normally comes several weeks later.

In 1952 Alaska elected a Republican Senator and House in the territorial legislature. The majority of the very popular delegate from Alaska, Democrat Bob Bartlett, was greatly reduced.

In 1954 that result was sharply reversed, with Democrats regaining control of both houses. Democratic strategists are predicting that in Alaska's election on October 9 even greater Democratic majorities will be returned to prove the "trend" shown in Maine.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The performances of the juniors on the Big Spring football team in Friday night's football game at Andrews would indicate that the Steers will be on their way back by 1957.

The performances of the sophomores against Andrews would indicate that the locals will be able to wrestle with the giants by 1958. In Wayne Fields and Buddy Barnes, the Longhorns have two of the finest-looking sophomore backs to come up here in years. Fields was the Steers' leading ground gainer, a very rough customer once he wrapped his fingers around the pigskin.

Barnes showed great promise, especially as a ball carrier. The two of them could well become known as "the touchdown twins" by next season.

Prospects will be looking up here, what with the rugged Ninth Graders ready to bid for varsity jobs next year.

Here's one thing on which everyone who saw the Andrews-Big Spring game agreed:

That it is next to impossible to see the numerals on the new uniforms of the Steers. Goals and numerals simply won't show up against such a background under the lights.

Outside of the lettering, the uniforms look very smart. Something should be done about the numbers, even if they have to be ripped off and replaced. The fans (and the press) deserve a better break.

If there is a Class AAAA team in the state capable of wrestling with Abilene, it could be the Amarillo Sandies, where Joe Kerbel has had a year to get his system to rolling.

The Sandies kayoed Capitol Hill of Oklahoma City, 47-6, and Capitol Hill usually has one of the roughest schoolboy teams in Oklahoma. Amarillo never let the Oklahoma game get started until it had done all its scoring.

Jan Loudermilk, the Steer end, had phlebitis in his knee and has no idea how long he'll be idled. It could be a week or two or it could be for the season. The misery doesn't always respond to treatment like it should.

Ronnie Phillips, the local back, should have the cast off his foot this week, however, and expects to return to practice as soon as he can, after that.

Both boys were in the press box at Andrews Friday night, spotting for radio and newspaper.

It's hard for information centers around the state to accustom themselves to the fact that Big Spring is a Class AAAA school now.

The August Associated Press listed the town among AAA teams in its roundup of scores Saturday morning and the Abilene Reporter News stubbornly refused to include the locals among the 2-AAAA teams in its reports.

Perhaps, the boys, in due time, will make them fully aware that they "belong."

Both Big Spring and Plainview had rugged debuts in AAAA ball. While Big Spring was getting beat by AAA Andrews (44-19), Littlefield, another AAA school, was soundly spanking Plainview, 36-13.

The new stadium here, now nearing completion, certainly lends authority to the HCJC campus.

As some one said, it makes HCJC look like a college. The facility looks ample from outside the fence. From the top row in either stand, it really appears immense.

Stamford Next Foe Of Ponies

By The Associated Press

Champion Stamford, which has run over two teams and averaged almost 50 points per game, may be in for a test this week in the feature of the Class AA Division of Texas schoolboy football.

The swaggering Bulldogs encounter a AAA outfit Friday night when they meet Andrews, which blasted Big Spring 41-19 last week. Stamford whipped Ballinger 53-6 in its last outing.

Other important games among the teams that have shown best in the campaign thus far send Canyon against Perryton, Olton against AAA Littlefield, Hillsboro against AAA Emis, Waxahatchie against AAA Edinburg, Mercedes against AAA Monahan and Belton against AAA La Vega.

Other top class AA teams have easier schedules. These include Comanche, Hamilton, Jacksboro, Deer Park, Brady, Commerce, Pittsburg, Luling and Sweeny.

There are 124 games and this third week of play will start pushing the favorites forward.

Nothing has changed the status of Stamford and Deer Park as the outstanding AA clubs. Stamford has been awesome in its easy conquests while Deer Park showed its step up from Class A to AA as well justified. The Deerlicked Class AAA LaMarque in their first test, 26-14.

Dodgers Do 'About-Face' Assume Charge In Race

Odds Favor The Champs

By ED CORRIGAN

Just two weeks ago, the Brooklyn Dodgers appeared to be finished. They had dropped a doubleheader to the last-place New York Giants, their hitters were floundering and their pitchers were unsteady.

They were 3 1/2 games behind the first-place Milwaukee Braves. The picture couldn't have been blacker.

That was 14 days ago, and to Manager Walt Alton it probably seems like 14 years.

Today, the Brooks are at the top of the heap in the tight National League race. They have a working margin of half-a-game over the Braves, are one game up in the vital lost column, and play most of their remaining games in Ebbets Field.

While the Braves certainly cannot be accused of wilting under pressure, there are these facts to be considered:

1. They have lost 8 of their last 13 games.

2. They are at .500 in their last 10 games.

3. In their last 13 games, their pitchers have turned in only two complete games. Bob Buhl has been knocked out four times in a row and Lew Burdette twice.

4. Normally a placid lot, the Braves have been snapping at the umpires, a sure sign of their high tension.

So it is apparent that their own failure, as much as any streak by the Dodgers, has been hurting them.

Their game with the New York Giants was postponed because of rain yesterday while Brooklyn was whipping the Cincinnati Reds 3-2. The defeat was a severe blow to the Redlegs. They now are three games out with only 12 to go.

If the Brooks beat them tonight, they can kiss their chances goodbye.

The Braves play the Giants a two-night doubleheader tonight. The New York Yankees were frustrated yesterday in their effort to wrap up the American League pennant when they could do no better than a split with Cleveland.

The Yanks won the opener, 4-3 but dropped the nightcap, 4-3.

Both the Indians and the Boston Red Sox, who dropped a pair to the Detroit Tigers 5-4 and 8-4, were eliminated. Only the Chicago White Sox, who took two games from the Washington Senators 7-5 and 7-2, still are in the running. The next game the Yanks win or the White Sox lose will end it.

The double-header between Baltimore and Kansas City wound up in a stalemate. The Orioles won the first 3-2 and the A's the second 10-1.

In other NL games, St. Louis won the first game of a double-header from Pittsburgh 3-2, but the Pirates captured the second 3-2. Chicago and Philadelphia also split, the Cubs grabbing the first 7-4 and the Phillies the afterpiece 4-1.

Sal Maglie held the power-laden Redlegs in check for 8 2/3 innings in the Brooklyn triumph.

With two out in the ninth, Wally Post scratched a single to third. Smokey Burgess followed with a home run. Then, when Ray Jablonski also singled, a hurry call was issued for Don Bessent. Ed Bailey singled as a greeting, but Bessent got Stan Palyo on a grounder.

The Brooks collected two of their runs in the second on doubles by Jackie Robinson, G. I. Hodges and Duke Snider, then inevitably proved to be the winning run home in the fifth when Pee Wee Reese singled and Johnny Kilpatstein walked Robinson, Hodges and Charlie Neal in succession.

Tom Sturdivant pitched the Yanks to their first-game victory with an assist from Tommy Byrne. Early Lynn, however, put out the inevitable by beating Casey Stengel's men in the nightcap. Mickey Mantle hit his 49th homer.

In sweeping the Senators, the White Sox pulled back into second place ahead of the Indians. Jack Harshman won the first, driving in four runs and hitting a homer, while Gerry Staley gave up just five hits in the second.

The Tigers helped eliminate the Red Sox mainly through fine relief pitching by Walt Masterson and Jim Bunning. Masterson took over in the eighth of the opener for Billy Hoelt and was given credit for the victory when the Tigers scored three in the ninth. In the nightcap, Bunning was touched for only one hit in 4 1/3 innings of relief.

Freer Champion Of Snyder Meet

SNYDER (SC) — Frank Freer, Lamesa, took championship honors in the Snyder Invitational golf tournament here Sunday, defeating Charley Brownfield of Stamford in the afternoon final, 2 and 1.

Freer, medalist in the meet, turned back Randal Carpenter of Big Spring in the semi-finals, 3 and 1.

Jerry Scott, Big Spring, lost out in the semifinals of championship consolation play to Dr. Dean Strack, Snyder, 3 and 2.

Football Power Vested In Midwest This Year

By ED WILKS

The power in college football again lies in the Midwest this season in the minds of the nation's experts, and Oklahoma is the pick to be the mightiest of 'em all once more in the pre-season Associated Press poll.

The sports writers and sportscasters who took part in the balloting voted overwhelmingly for Coach Bud Wilkinson's 1956 National Champions to repeat, and jammed no less than four other Midwest perennial — Michigan State, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Michigan — among the Top 10.

Michigan State, a surprise runner-up in the final 1955 poll, again took the No. 2 spot behind the Sooners. Notre Dame was third. Georgia Tech, Ohio State, Maryland, Texas Christian, Michigan, Texas A&M and Pittsburgh followed.

Only the Far West and the Rocky Mountain areas were missing from the Top 10.

Oklahoma, favored on 111 of the 150 votes cast for a 1,427 - point total, had a challenge only from Michigan State. The Spartans piled up 1,059 votes, but with only 29 first-place ballots built its count with second and third place votes in the counting system which allows 10 points for first, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

The Sooners, with 30 straight victories, won't wait long to put the vote of confidence to a test. They tangled with Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 27.

Michigan State has its big test for national as well as sectional honors Oct. 30 against Notre Dame.

The South has only Georgia Tech and Maryland among the Top 10, but the voters loaded the second 10 with Dixie clubs, ready to make the big jump. Tennessee, Mississippi, Duke and Miami (Fla.) all made the second 10.

Pittsburgh had just a slim edge to nothing advantage with a 7-5 win over the El Paso Texans, second place team in the final standings.

TCU and Texas A&M, who finished one-two in that madcap scramble for the 1956 Southwest Conference title, again figured to be the class in that section. Both made the top 10, but they're the only Southwest selections in the top 20.

The West Coast, with UCLA topped, has shifted its favor to Stanford and Southern California. The Trojans, ranked 15th, were just about half-way between Stanford and UCLA in the voting, although picking up two first place votes while Stanford had none.

Graham May Be About Due To Join Browns

By The Associated Press

It's getting about time for Otto Graham to come out of retirement again.

There has been no indications that Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns will ask his star quarterback of many years to change his mind about quitting football for good. But the way the National Football League champions have been going in exhibition games, Brown apparently is going to have to do something and quick. The championship season opens Sept. 30.

When the Browns dropped a 31-14 decision to the Detroit Lions Saturday night it marked the fifth exhibition defeat without a victory for the champs. It also was the second loss to the Lions, who have a 4-1 exhibition record.

Under George Ratterman's direction, the Browns took a 14-7 halftime lead but the Lions scored two touchdowns in the third period and added 10 more points in the final quarter. A 56-yard punt return touchdown by All-America Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy of Ohio State put the Lions ahead in the third. The most spectacular play, however, was a 78-yard pass interception play in the final quarter. Joe Schmidt grabbed a Ratterman pass on Detroit's 22, lateraled to Karl Karilviz after 10 yards and Karilviz went all the way.

The Chicago Bears remained the only unbeaten club, turning back the New York Giants (3-2), 21-16 for their fifth straight triumph.

Pittsburgh's Steelers (1-3) edged the Philadelphia Eagles (1-5), 14-12. Green Bay (4-1) continued to show championship form with a 29-21 victory over the Chicago Cards (1-4) and Baltimore (2-3) took the measure of the Washington Redskins (3-2) 21-13.

Lesser Unhappy With Golf Game

INDIANAPOLIS — Since Pat Lesser won the Women's National Amateur golf championship a year ago, you might think she had a pretty good golf game. But tall, tanned Pat from Seattle wasn't satisfied.

"I've made some changes in my swing since last year," she said before starting out against Sally Carol of Wheeling, W. Va., for her first-round match today in the 56th Women's Amateur at the Meridian Hills Club.

That should be good enough to take the 24-year-old Seattle girl a long way, at least to a semifinal match against power-hitting Wilf Smith, and possibly make her the first woman's champion to retain her title since Betty Jameson in 1939-40.

Angelo Goes One Up In Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The southwestern League championship series opened last night with the San Angelo Colts, who finished the regular season in fourth place, taking a one-point lead over the El Paso Texans, second place team in the final standings.

Manager Harry Walker of Houston has nominated his ace, Bob Mabe, to start. Mabe won 21 games during the regular season, the only hurler with more than 18 victories. He also won a game in the playoff with Tulsa, beating the Oilers 7-1 with a 6-hitter.

Red Davis of Dallas will start Murray Wall, a 16-game winner, who whipped Fort Worth 10-0 with a 4-hitter in a playoff game.

Maglie Better Than Ever, Admits Birdie Tebbetts

BROOKLYN — If Sal Maglie isn't the comeback of the year, the Brooklyn box scores must be phony.

The 39-year-old pitcher now owns a 11-4 record for the first-place Dodgers. Even Birdie Tebbetts, Cincinnati manager, admits he's better than ever.

Maglie won another big one yesterday, whipping Cincinnati 3-2 with a last-out assist from reliever Don Bessent. The former New York Giant and Cleveland Indian has won six straight and 9 of his last 10 games. His victories over Milwaukee and Cincinnati helped Brooklyn open up a half-game lead.

Although Tebbetts and other managers have hinted that old Sal was moistening the ball a bit, nobody ever has proved it. His main stock in trade is the curve ball and he throws at least three different varieties.

"I'm getting a big kick out of trying to help this club win the pennant," he said. "After all I did my best to beat them (and quite successfully too) for years with the Giants."

SW 11's Face Rugged Foes

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS — The Southwest Conference shoves off on a gaudy intersectional football schedule this week with prospects of making a good showing in quantity if not in quality. The two games this league would rather win most may be out of reach.

Southern Methodist, a team that reeks with inexperience, meets Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl here Saturday night. Texas, generally ranked about fourth in the conference, engages Southern California at Austin at the same time.

The three acknowledged championship contenders get foes that had poor records last season and don't appear capable of bettering them this time. Texas Christian, big, tough, deep in experienced material and rated the strongest potential in its history, opens with Kansas, a team the Christians walloped 47-14 last season.

Texas A&M clashes with Villanova, which hasn't beaten anybody much in years. Baylor goes out to Berkeley to engage California, not too strong last year and further weakened by the subsidization rhabarb on the West Coast.

Rice plays Alabama, a team that didn't win a game last season. Even Rice, which is green as prairie grass this season, seems to have enough to handle the rebuilding Crimson Tide.

That leaves Arkansas, which gets Hardin - Simmons of the Border Conference at Fayetteville. Arkansas might find Hardin-Simmons with its Sam Baugh aerial ideas a worthy foe, especially since it appears senior quarterback George Walker won't be able to play with the Razorbacks because of injuries.

If this week's games go the way they look, it will pretty well establish pre-season forecasts as accurate.

Texas Christian, whose prospects are so good even the coaches aren't trying to soft - pedal championship talk, might fall victim to that dread disease, overconfidence. Either that or complacency. The fellows on the Frog team won the conference championship last year. That's the height. About the only incentive the coaches can think of to fire the Frogs up is to point out that they still haven't won a Cotton Bowl game, thus should go after another conference title so they can get a second crack at it.

All-America Jim Swink heads a strong running backfield and Chuck Curtis, the quarterback, not only is a magician with the ball but a top passer.

Showing what Baylor has to offer this season, it solved a feared weakness at guard by shifting tackles to those positions. It had too many experienced tackles anyway.

The outcome will decide the league's representative in the Dixie Series against the champion of the Southern Assn. During the season each club won 11 games from the other.

Houston forged into the final playoff by beating Tulsa, fourth place finisher, four games to one. Dallas reached there by swamping Fort Worth, the third place club, in four straight games.

Manager Harry Walker of Houston has nominated his ace, Bob Mabe, to start. Mabe won 21 games during the regular season, the only hurler with more than 18 victories. He also won a game in the playoff with Tulsa, beating the Oilers 7-1 with a 6-hitter.

Negroes End Efforts To Enter School; White Boycott Ends

By The Associated Press
Four Negroes bowed today to a school board order and dropped efforts to enter school at Clay, Ky., thus ending racial tension and halting a white boycott of classes in the little western Kentucky town.

The climax came quickly and quietly when the principal, Mrs. Irene Powell, read the board's order to the Negroes who had been escorted to the school by Adj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams and were accompanied by their mothers.

When Mrs. Powell finished reading, Mrs. James Gordon, mother of James, 10, and Theresa, 8, shook hands with the principal, said "thank you for your kindness," and added she was taking her son and daughter back to Rosewald, a Negro school at nearby Providence where they were enrolled before they started attending classes in Clay last week.

Mrs. Catherine Copeland, mother of Bobbie Carl, 12 and Samuel Lee, 14, said she also would take her sons back to Rosewald.

As the Negroes departed about 150 white children trooped into the school which has an enrollment of 850 and which was boycotted last week after the Negroes were admitted.

While integration received a setback in Kentucky, it went forward another step in North Carolina when John O. Lyon, a 23-year-old Negro from Durham, entered Gaston Technical Institute at Gastonia, North Carolina already has Negroes as graduate and undergraduate students in several of the other units of its consolidated university system.

The Webster County School Board held the Negroes could not be admitted to the Clay school since they already had enrolled at Providence. They based their position on an opinion by Kentucky Atty. Gen. J. M. Ferguson.

But at Louisville, James A. Crumlin, an attorney associated with the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said he will file a suit tomorrow in Federal District Court at Owensboro seeking to require the school to admit the children to the school at Clay.

Meanwhile at Sturgis, 11 miles northwest of Clay, efforts were reported being made to get more white pupils to stay away from the newly integrated high school. Seven Negroes and 241 white pupils were present Friday, the highest attendance since white pupils began a boycott Sept. 5 after Negroes entered under National Guard protection. Total enrollment is 275.

W. W. Waller Jr., president of the Union County chapter of the Kentucky Citizens Council, urged the new pupil boycott in an address to more than 200 persons at Morganfield, Saturday night. "If you keep them at home, there is no force in the land that can take them from you," he said.

In Washington two opposite segregation views were expressed yesterday. Atty. Gen. Brownell, in a filmed television interview, said that progress so far in school desegregation has "been remarkable and fine." Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) on the other hand, appeared on an NBC-TV program and said he believed the Supreme Court's decision on school integration "set back for many years progress being made" in the South.

At Mobile, Ala., Mrs. Dorothy D. Daponte, a socially prominent white woman, said she had accepted an offer of legal aid from a Negro group in her effort to gain admission of her Negro foster daughter to a white school. She did not identify the group. The girl, Carrie Mae McCants, 12, is the daughter of a former domestic servant.

At Frankfort, the Kentucky Council on Human Relations reported that Negro students can now enroll in 29 of Kentucky's 40 colleges and universities.

The council reported the desegregated colleges will have more than 88 per cent of the state's students. Based on last year's attendance, the enrollment figure for colleges open to Negroes amounts to more than 17,000 students.

W. W. Waller Jr., president of the Union County chapter of the Kentucky Citizens Council, urged the new pupil boycott in an address to more than 200 persons at Morganfield, Saturday night. "If you keep them at home, there is no force in the land that can take them from you," he said.

A minor accident involving a parked car occurred in the 100 block of East Third. The parked car, a 1947 Ford, belonged to Gordon Myrick, 2900 N. 10th. Hitting the car was Benjamin Teichman of Webb AFB.

The airman was driving a car owned by Donald Powell, also of Webb.

Junior College Work Completed By Committees

Work of joint committees seeking to define the area of activity for public junior colleges in Texas has been completed.

Dr. P. W. Malone, president of the board of trustees of Howard County Junior College, returned Sunday from Austin where he participated in the third session of representatives from junior colleges and the Texas Education Agency.

The studies have been aimed at remedying junior college laws; to establishing a stable plan of financing junior colleges; to clarify the objectives and scope of junior colleges, and to set up standards for them.

GRANDMA LIFTS BLOCKADE ON ROAD ACROSS HER FARM

BLACKSTONE, Mass. (AP)—A rifle-toting great-grandmother declared a truce today, and removed a road block which had halted traffic the past three days on a new highway through her farm.

Mrs. Kornelia Zariczny, 72, called off her blockade after consulting with her attorney, Norman Theriault, of Milford, after he returned from a conference with police and Judge Edwin F. McCooey at the Uxbridge District Court.

Police were making an investigation of the blockade at the request of the judge.

Judge McCooey said the Blackstone police had produced a release, apparently signed by Mrs. Zariczny, giving the town the strip of land on which the new road was built.

Mrs. Zariczny first blocked the road Saturday with a heap of railroad ties and old lumber.

When police pulled the pile of lumber from the road she returned yesterday with a fallen tree and a sign saying: "The State of Mass. did not pay me for this land. They take (sic) it. Detour. Keep out."

She removed the tree late last night after state police warned her she might be held responsible for any traffic accident.

However, she and members of her family continued the physical blockade through most of the night.

Mrs. Zariczny threatened to "sit it out if it takes the rest of my life."

With her were her three daughters, two sons and two grandchildren. They said that if taken into custody they would call on Mrs. Zariczny's six other sons and daughters, 29 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren to take up the guard.

Traffic did not come to a standstill despite the blockade. Cars used a road paralleling the 600-foot section blocked by Mrs. Zariczny.

States Righters In Deadlock Bid

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The national States Rights Conference has launched a "national conservative movement" to try to elect a president by deactivating the Electoral College.

The 317 delegates from a dozen splinter parties in 25 states approved a platform and "endorsed" candidates in the climax of a three-day meeting Saturday.

A move to formally set up a third national party was beaten down after a brief but uproarious floor fight in which police were called to "insure order."

The 15-point "declaration of principles" that serves as a campaign platform, called for repeal of federal income taxes and condemned "federal invasion of states rights."

T. Coleman Andrews of Richmond, Va., a Democrat and former commissioner of internal revenue, is the States Rights candidate for president.

"Endorsed" as Andrews' running mate was Thomas H. Verdel of Bakersfield, Calif., a former Republican representative. Neither candidate was present.

John U. Barr of New Orleans, a power in the States Rights movement and prime organizer of the conference, led the fight against formally declaring the movement a third party.

"If we form a third party the Republicans and Democrats will kill us," he argued in behind the scenes conference with ambitious delegates. "We couldn't win. This is a federation of independent state parties."

History Group Studies Wells

Looking for every sign of bias — natural, racial, religious, cultural, unaltered, intellectual, social, scientific, esthetic or vocational — the newly organized World History group of Big Spring at its first meeting Sunday carried its discussion of H. G. Wells' "Outline of History" from the introduction through the chapter on Neolithic Man in Europe.

There emerged a picture, members agreed, of the author as a highly intelligent, sincere and courageous man with sympathies wide enough to embrace almost anything except ideas contrary to his own.

Charles Cain, elected leader of the group, presented some comments on Wells by Somerset Maugham and others, and pointed out some of Wells' "slanting" and "coloring" devices. C. A. Benson gave some interesting sidelights on geologic formations, illustrating them with a colored chart.

Others who participated in the discussion were Dolly Benson, Ray F. Broussard, Mrs. Arch Carson, Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, Mrs. J. R. Farmer, S. C. Hardy, Ron Mason and W. C. Moldenhauer.

Meetings are scheduled for the third Sunday of each month. For the many interested persons unable to attend on Sundays an additional midweek unit is under consideration.

The next meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Oct. 21 in room No. 211, Permian building, when the study of Wells will be continued through the last chapter of Book II (Chapter XVII, Serfs, Slaves, Social Classes).

Wilkerson Rites Slated Tuesday

Jewel Wilkerson, 54, former resident of Garden City, died Sunday at Comanche.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Garden City Methodist Church. The Masonic Lodge also will conduct rites.

Mr. Wilkerson had ranching interests in Glasscock and Comanche Counties and had moved to Comanche about six years ago. He was reared in Garden City and reached there most of his life.

He was stricken at his ranch home and died suddenly about 5 p.m.

Surviving him are his wife; one daughter, Juda, 10; his mother, Mrs. Belle Wilkerson, Garden City; two brothers, Cecil Wilkerson and Joy Wilkerson, both of Garden City; and Mrs. H. W. Brunson, Midland. A number of other relatives in the Garden City area also survive.

Boy Dismissed From Hospital

A seven-year-old boy injured in a fall from a slide on the East Ward School grounds Saturday was released from a local hospital today.

The boy, Danny Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lane, 502 Owens, was treated at Medical Arts Hospital. He fell from a slide Saturday and hurt his back slightly.

Troupe Of Dancers Reserves Auditorium

A dance troupe sponsored by a San Antonio firm booked the city auditorium here for two performances on Dec. 2, a Sunday.

The Art Guild of San Antonio reserved the building for Carmen Amaya and her dance company. The troupe of dancers, singers, and musicians will include Sabicas, the world's greatest flamenco guitarist, a brochure stated.

Silver Heels Road Paving Requested

A request for paving the Silver Heels road south of Big Spring and a bid to furnish electrical service to the new county airport were heard this morning by county commissioners.

Commissioners also purchased a new automobile for the sheriff's department and announced that the usual discounts will be allowed for early payment of taxes.

A delegation of Silver Heels residents asked the paving for the road serving their community and public facilities in that area. Spokesman for the group was Zolite Boykin who said that the road is probably the most-traveled unpaved artery in the county. He estimated length of the segment at 1.4 miles.

The delegation pointed out that the road serves the Boy Scout camp grounds as well as radio transmitters of a dozen public agencies and private firms.

County Judge R. H. Weaver said the request will be considered by the commissioners court.

R. L. Beale, local manager for the Texas Electric Service Company, and A. B. Sisson, the company's transmission superintendent, told commissioners that a 12,000-volt, heavy-duty power line is to be constructed in the vicinity of the county airport northeast of Big Spring. They said "good service" can be provided and that TESCO would like to have the business. An REA line also is in the area where the airport will be constructed, Beale said.

Commissioners voted to accept the Tidwell Chevrolet Company bid for supplying a new sheriff's car for $225 plus trade-in. One other bid, from Jones Motor Company, was received. It offered a new Plymouth for $330—45 above the Tidwell bid although the Plymouth would be equipped with accessories not offered on the Chevrolet.

Commissioners said a three per cent discount will be allowed for current tax payments made in

2-Car Collision Kills 8 People

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP)—Eight persons lost their lives when two cars collided last night.

Lone survivor was a small Negro boy in critical condition at Orlando General Hospital.

The impact of the two cars was so great that one was bent in the shape of a half moon.

Troopers A. P. Edin and Ronald Gaiskell said these were the dead: Airman Leonard Johnson, 23, of Winter Haven and Pinecastle Air Force Base, and his fellow passenger, Frank E. Gann, 23, a citrus worker of nearby Eloise. Both were white men together in one of the cars.

Lonnie Stevenson, 56, driver of the second car who lived at Pierce; his wife Altha, 42; Erlene Stevenson, 17; B. J., 4; Ruby Lee, 6; and an unidentified woman, all Negroes.

The survivor is believed to be the son of the unidentified woman.

Trooper Edlin said Johnson apparently was driving rapidly and was unable to handle his car on the long gradual curve where the wreck occurred three miles west of here.

Eleanor Says Nixon Employed False Red Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says Vice President Nixon employed a Communist issue he knew to be false in his campaign for the Senate in 1950.

Mrs. Roosevelt was asked yesterday on the NBC-TV program Meet the Press what she thought of Nixon. She replied:

"I happen to remember very clearly his campaign for the senatorship. I had no respect for the way in which he accused Helen Gahagan Douglas of being a Communist because he knew that was how he would be elected and I have no respect for the kind of character that takes advantage and does something they know is not true.

"He knew that she might be a liberal and he knew quite well, having known her and worked with her, that she was not a Communist."

Nixon defeated Mrs. Douglas, a Democrat, for a Senate seat from California in 1950. Both had served in the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Roosevelt was asked if Nixon actually called Mrs. Douglas a Communist in that campaign.

"Yes, he did," she said.

A search of news files did not show that Nixon made such an accusation. He did say during the campaign that if Mrs. Douglas had her way, Alger Hiss would still be influencing U. S. foreign policy.

Hiss was imprisoned for perjury for denying he passed out State Department secrets for a Russian spy ring.

Turning to race problems Mrs. Roosevelt said the North should move "extremely quickly" to desegregate Negro sections in New York City, Chicago and Detroit.

In the South, she said, "we should move slowly and with wisdom." She said the first step in the South is the protection of all citizens and their right to vote.

"It can't happen overnight, and we don't want violence," she added.

Farmer's Welfare In Political Spotlight

By The Associated Press

The welfare of the U.S. farmer— and how he votes in November— appeared to hold the attention of both presidential candidates and their parties today.

President Eisenhower arranged an early appointment for Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), obviously a preliminary to the President's scheduled appearance Friday at the National Field Days and Flowering Contest at Newton, Iowa.

His Democratic opponent Adlai Stevenson scheduled an afternoon news conference in Washington, with farm topics likely to arise. Stevenson is booked to speak at the Iowa celebration the day after Eisenhower's appearance.

Stevenson accused Eisenhower Saturday of "borrowing" the Democrats' farm program in the 1952 presidential campaign, and of returning it unused immediately after the election.

Stevenson also announced last night he will take off next Saturday on a 7,000-mile airplane tour of 11 states, with heavy emphasis on farm areas.

Eisenhower arranged to address a sendoff breakfast tomorrow for Vice President Nixon, who is departing on a 15,000-mile jaunt through 22 states, and for other GOP campaign speakers leaving that day on campaign tours.

Stevenson's running mate Sen. Estes Kefauver headed today for dairy-conscious Wisconsin after a Cleveland, Ohio, appearance in which he accused the Eisenhower administration of working against "the little people" of the nation.

In Washington, the Agriculture Department said today that net farm income—one of the hottest election year topics—appears likely to be around 9 per cent higher than last year for the July-September quarter.

Eisenhower also plans a televised campaign speech Wednesday night, the first of a half dozen nationwide TV and radio appearances he will make during the campaign. Wednesday's speech, he has indicated, will emphasize world peace.

The Republican National Committee said Eisenhower also has written a letter urging election of a Republican Congress, which will be mailed to millions of voters before election day.

Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall said today former President Truman cannot prove that Vice President Nixon called Truman a "traitor" during the 1952 presidential campaign.

Truman, in a letter to Hall made public Saturday, said "it has been proved rather conclusively" that Nixon made the accusation Oct. 27, 1952, in Texarkana.

Replying today, Hall told Truman his letter "like so many of your speeches, is without foundation." Hall didn't say so, but it seemed apparent he did not intend to pay a $1,000 charity contribution he has offered for proof of such a statement by Nixon.

Worker Loses Race With Death

MOAB, Utah (AP)—An oil worker injured in an accident last race with death and died yesterday en route to Salt Lake City in an airplane.

Pete Donnell of Wichita Falls, Tex., and Artesia, N.M., was hurt at 3 a.m. when a piece of equipment on an oil drilling derrick fell 40 feet and fractured his skull.

A light plane landed on a level area near the rig 80 miles south of Moab and took him to Monticello. There he was transferred to a plane of the Utah Corp. for the trip to Salt Lake City, but he died en route.

Austin Man Named Texas Medic Chief

HOUSTON (AP)—Dr. G. W. Cleveland of Austin was elected president of the Texas Academy of General Practice for 1957 yesterday. Dr. G. V. Launey of Dallas was elected president a year ago and now takes office.

District directors elected were Drs. E. W. Schmidt of Pecos, Cecil French of San Angelo, John Tunnell of Taft, Nelson Schiller of Austin and Charles Willingham of Tyler.

Trial Of Hoxsey Clinic To Begin

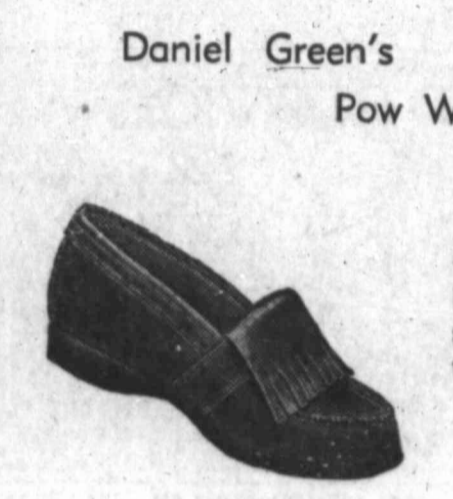

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The trial of the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic in Portage, Pa., on charges of violating Pure Food and Drug Laws by mislabeling pills used in treatment of cancer, was called in Federal Court today.

Federal agents seized more than half a million pills in raids on the clinic about 18 months ago. The clinic is named for Harry Hoxsey of Dallas, where he operates a similar clinic.

Cool Front Brings Shower To Amarillo

By The Associated Press

A cool front moving southward through the Texas Panhandle brought a thundershower to Amarillo Monday morning—the first in West Texas in days.

The Weather Bureau said the cool front would move into the Dallas-Fort Worth area Monday night. No rain is forecast in the area covered by the cool front but temperatures will be lowered.

Skies were clear over Texas Monday morning except in the Panhandle and along the coast where it was partly cloudy.

Temperatures ranged from 80 degrees at Galveston down to 61 at Salt Flat early Monday.

Fairly pleasant weather was the outlook for most of the nation today.

There was a little cooling in the north central section and showers were in prospect from Texas eastward to Georgia and northward along the Atlantic coast states to Maine.

Skies were partly cloudy in the Great Lakes region but fair weather prevailed in other sections of the country.

The cool air moving from the northwest dropped temperatures about 8 degrees from western Wisconsin to Iowa and westward through the Dakotas and Nebraska to Idaho. Readings were generally in the 40s and 50s during the early morning.

There was a warming trend from the Great Lakes through Illinois and Indiana eastward through the central and northern Atlantic coast states. Temperatures were about 7 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier and ranged from the 50s in the North to the 60s in the South.

The cool air was expected to move southeastward during the day and drop temperatures from Virginia through the Ohio Valley, the mid-Mississippi Valley and Kansas and Oklahoma.

Warm weather continued over most of the West and across the Southern tier of states.

Uncle Ray: Italian Pilot Gave Name To Americas

By RAMON COFFMAN

North and South America are the only continents which carry the name of a human being. Their names grew from an explorer who lived during the time of Columbus.

If things had been different nine and a half centuries ago, North America might have been called Vinland or Vineland. The electric telegraph, or even a good system of carrying mail, would have spread the news of the land found by Leif Ericson.

As it was, Europe was without a single printed book or newspaper. The same was true of the islands of Greenland and Iceland. Nothing was printed about Leif's discovery at the time. Notes about it were placed in the sagas or narrative poems, of the Norsemen, but we are without proof that news of Leif reached the mainland of Europe until long afterward.

Before Columbus sailed westward and found the West Indies. Later he entered waters bordering the northern coast of South America, but he failed to recognize that he had seen a continent.

South America might have been named Columbia, and North America, Cabotland. John Cabot and his son, Sebastian, were the first white sea captains to follow the Norsemen reaching the northern continent.

As it turned out, the name of an

21 American Nations To Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives of the presidents of the 21 American republics meet here today to review Latin America's economic problems, and ways of solving them.

The meeting grew out of a suggestion by President Eisenhower. Representing the nations are nine ambassadors regularly stationed in Washington and two other men prominent in government, economics, political and civic affairs of their countries.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, is the United States representative at the conference.

After the conference ends Wednesday, delegates are to consult with their governments, then meet again in Washington, probably early next year, to draft specific recommendations.

Italian was given to both parts of the New World, Americus Vesputius, who was born in Florence, Italy, crossed the Atlantic on voyages which took him to a land mass south of the equator. Besides serving a pilot during those voyages, he made maps of coastal areas and the new land (then described as the New World) was named in his honor.

At first Americus sailed in a Spanish vessel, later under the flag of Portugal. It seems clear that he explored the eastern coasts of both Brazil and Argentina.

Reserve Draft Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sharp lag in voluntary enlistments may make it necessary to draft men for military reserve duty, an advisory group reports.

Congress once rejected the draft idea, but the National Security Training Commission said voluntary enlistments during the first year have provided only 40,000 of the 100,000 men sought for the program.

Under it, youths below the 18½-year draft age limit are encouraged to volunteer for six months of active duty training, to be followed by 7½ years in the active reserve. The volunteers become exempt from the 24-month service requirement of regular draftees, who also must continue service in the reserves.

But the commission said that despite "the greatest effort of its type ever put forward in peacetime... on behalf of any armed forces program," results of the drive for volunteers fell far short of expectations.

Unless the rate of volunteering can be doubled or tripled soon, the commission said in a report to Congress, "we should fundamentally revise the program and take steps to provide the necessary manpower."

Asthma and Hay Fever Relief Comes in Minutes ...and Lasts For Hours

Tiny Tablet Now Available Without Prescription!

New York, N. Y. (AP)—Medical science has developed a new, tiny tablet that not only stops asthma spasms... but brings relief to those who also suffer from hay fever attacks.

Authoritative tests have proved that this remarkable compound brings blessed relief in minutes—and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful spasms.

This fast-acting formula is prescribed by doctors for their private patients who suffer from both asthma and hay fever. And now sufferers can obtain this formula—without prescription—in tiny, easy-to-take tablets called Primatec.

New Primatec opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves taut nervous tension, helps dry up nasal passages.

All this without taking painful injections, and without the inconvenience of nebulizers.

The secret of Primatec is that it contains medicines found most effective in combination for those who suffer from asthma and hay fever distress.

Primatec is available at all drug stores. The price is only 98¢ for a bottle of twenty-four tablets. And remember—if not entirely satisfied, your money will be refunded promptly.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from anxiety by day. Get Primatec today!
