'This Ole House' Ain't Finished Yet

Probably the oldest residence in Big Spring in anything like its original form, the old home above is being remodeled for further usefulness. Unless it is stricken by fire or some other disaster, it probably will round out a century on the Big Spring scene. The structure, now owned by George Jeffrey, is approximately 75 years old. It was constructed and first occupied by the family of the late J. B. D. Boydston. Records show the Boydstons moved into the house on Feb. 12, 1882. The home is situated just east of the north end of the Benton Street viaduct. It is still a solid old structure, according to Joe Hartwell, who is in charge of remodeling. Jeffrey is having the roof replaced. Outside of the building will be stuccoed and interior will be plastered. Tall, narrow windows will be replaced with modern openings and other repairs will be made. (Keith McMillin Photo)

4 Candidates File Petitions In Clerk's Race

Four candidates filed petitions with the county judge Monday afternoon asking that their names be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 7 general election as independent candidates for the office of district clerk of Howard County.

The candidates who submitted petitions bearing more than 5 per cent of the total vote cast in last general election are Wade Choate, who is now serving an interim appointment as district clerk; R. C. Thomas, Denver Dunn and James R. Horton.

A quick check of the petitions indicated that Dunn had obtained the signatures of 359 residents of the county on his petition. Choate's petition bore 327 names. Horton secured 219 signatures and Thomas 114. It had been estimated that between 104 and 110 names would represent the required five per cent of the vote in the last general election in the county.

AMID SCREAMS

Liberace Brings Light To England

LONDON (AP)—Liberace arrived in London today on a special train and got a shrill welcome.

"I understand that you've had a rather unpleasant summer—perhaps we will bring a little sunshine to England," the pianist said.

"Wheeeeeee—" screamed a crowd at Waterloo Station. "He's lovely," screamed one young girl brandishing a bouquet of artificial roses.

"You are wonderful—" Liberace began. He was interrupted by boos from a group of men carrying a sign that read: "We hate Liberace—Charlie Kunz forever."

Charlie Kunz is an over-50 British pianist whose jazz has been admired by two or three generations of English debutantes.

Station foreman Frank Fowners said the welcome was on a scale which the British gave to royalty.

Liberace has been a great television favorite here—on film. He begins a concert tour next week.

Today he was accompanied by his mother, brother George and a squad of retainers. He arrived by ship at Southampton this morning and rode to London in a special train with four cars.

"Liberace special," said a sign on the engine.

"That special cost him over 700 quid ($1,960)," said a railway official.

"Call me Lee," the entertainer advised newsmen.

His real name is Wladziu Valentino Liberace.

Constitution Party Claims Vote Illegal

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Supreme Court rejected again today the Constitution Party's plea that Sen. Price Daniel had been illegally named Democratic nominee for governor.

This action came soon after a new District Court effort to bar Daniel from the general election ballot had been set for hearing at 10 a.m. Friday in 53rd District Court.

The Supreme Court, without a written opinion, refused the Constitution Party's motion for a rehearing of the original high court order seeking to force Secretary of State Tom Reavley to certify W. Lee O'Daniel as the party's nominee for governor.

The court had upheld Reavley's action in barring O'Daniel because he had taken part in the Democratic primary in July, saying he "assumed a high moral obligation to support the nominees of the Democratic party for governor in 1956, regardless of whether a second primary was or was not necessary."

The new attack on Daniel's candidacy continued and was still alive in District Court. Judge Harris Gardner set the hearing for Friday, he said, because a crowded docket made it impossible to consider the case any earlier.

He will consider whether to grant a temporary restraining order against Reavley to keep him from certifying Daniel as the Democratic nominee for governor in the Nov. 6 election.

The suit was brought yesterday by Joseph Rummel of Houston, Constitution Party state chairman.

Discussion continued on the question of holding a special party's primary to select the election which will be called to fill Daniel's post when he resigns.

Rummel hopes to obtain a permanent injunction in his action aimed at Daniel's general election candidacy.

The suit alleges Daniel was not eligible either in the July 28 primary or the Aug. 25 runoff, or to be certified by the State Democratic Convention, because Daniel was still a member of Congress. It claims Daniel could not be a candidate under those circumstances because to do so would violate the State Constitution.

Teacher Tells Solons She 'Feels Uneasy' Over Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Washington school teacher told House investigators today she felt in a "precarious position" as a result of being asked to testify publicly about conditions in the public schools here since races were mixed. She mentioned a statement by a Negro Board of Education member.

The testimony from Mrs. Mary Seath, a fifth grade teacher at Emory Elementary School, came hesitantly under questioning by William Gerber, Memphis, Tenn., counsel for a special District of Columbia subcommittee, and Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.), a subcommittee member.

The House group is investigating the schools.

Gerber said to Mrs. Seath that she did not appear to be speaking her views as freely and fully on the stand as she had when he questioned her earlier in private.

"Are you afraid to testify now that there has been all this publicity about reprisals?" he asked.

She said that "perhaps" that was so and added that she is a temporary teacher and needs her job.

Under questioning by Rep. Williams, Mrs. Seath said no one had approached her about her testimony but "I read in the papers where some principals and one member of the Board of Education were having a little difficulty. I wouldn't want to have anything like that."

Questioning brought out that she was talking about a statement by Wesley S. Williams, a member of the District Board of Education, that on the basis of their testimony about the difficulties they had had in handling integration problems, perhaps a recheck of the ability of some school administrators should be made. The board member subsequently denied that his remark was meant as a threat.

Rep. Williams asked Mrs. Seath whether she considered the statement to be a "veiled threat" and she said "I don't know, I really don't."

Mrs. Seath said she had been told by her supervisor that she had to come and testify when called by the subcommittee.

Murder-By-Auto Charge Filed In Edwin Cordes Traffic Death

A former Oklahoman, who said he is an ex-convict from that state, Monday afternoon was formally charged with murder by an automobile.

The charge grew out of the traffic death on Sunday afternoon of Edwin Cordes, 27-year-old Big Spring man fatally injured when the car in which he was riding was struck and wrecked by a hit-and-run driver.

Guilford Jones, district attorney, said that the man charged with murder in the case is Alvin P. Milligan, 47, who said his present residence is Andrews. He told the officers that he recently came to West Texas from Oklahoma. He has served a term in the McAlester State Penitentiary in Oklahoma for car theft and burglary, he said.

A 1956 Mercury which was in his possession at the time Milligan was arrested in Big Spring Monday morning by city police, is being held by officers. Jones said that it is believed the car was stolen from a man who lives in Montgomery, Ala. The Oklahoma license plate which was on the vehicle at the time it was impounded was traced to a Ford car in Oklahoma. Jones said that Milligan admitted that he had bought the spurious tag at a junk yard for $1 in Ada, Okla., and placed it on the Mercury.

After his apprehension here by city police, officers began an investigation into dents and abrasions on the right rear fender of the Mercury.

At noon, Milligan who had been under constant questioning all morning made a statement, according to Jones, to Ben Walker, state highway patrolman.

In this statement, Jones reported that Milligan admitted that he was the driver of the car involved in the fatal accident.

Funeral rites for Cordes, who was the 19th person to die in traffic accidents in Howard County this year, are to be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the River Funeral Home chapel. Burial is to be in the Trinity Memorial cemetery.

Benjamin Alfred Aivis, 23, San Antonio, and Jean Couch, 27, of Big Spring, who were with Cordes in the car, are recovering from injuries received in the crash. Both are said to be making excellent progress at the Big Spring Hospital.

The accident occurred 15.5 miles northeast of Big Spring at 5:45 p.m. Sunday on the Snyder highway.

$3,500 In Yule Prizes Planned

Prizes ranging from a $1,000 fur coat to an electric train will be given away by Big Spring merchants during the 1956 Christmas season.

Plans for the daily presentation of prizes were approved by the Chamber of Commerce this morning as it completed mapping the pre-Christmas program for the city. There will be 25 of the prizes, with a combined value of $3,500. In addition to the fur coat and train, there will be a $1,000 diamond ring, portable television receiver, movie camera, rifle and other items.

One prize will be given away daily during a program on the courthouse lawn. First of the awards will be made at the opening of the Christmas program Nov. 26 and the last will be given on Christmas Eve.

A big Christmas parade will officially open the Christmas season Nov. 26. The committee plans to post prizes of $125, $100 and $75 for the three best entries in the parade.

Santa Claus will ride in the procession and will hang around to visit with the kiddies after the parade ends.

The Merchants Committee adopted a budget of $3,555 to finance the pre-Christmas activities. This will cover the parade prizes, street and courthouse square decorations and other expenses of the Yule project.

Hurricane Flossy Subsides Into Drought-Breaking Rain

By The Associated Press

Hurricane Flossy subsided into a vast, drought-breaking rain-storm as it moved slowly over southern Georgia today after causing nine deaths and some property damage in its journey across the Gulf of Mexico and the north-west Florida coast.

The once dangerous storm was reported centered just west of Albany, in southwest Georgia, with its top winds at 50 miles, short of full force and only half of the velocity reached before it moved inland.

It continued heading between northeast and east northeast at about 10 m.p.h.

Gusty winds of 25 to 35 m.p.h. extended outward 300 to 350 miles north and east of the center and 150 miles to the west.

In its overland path from Fort Walton Beach, Fla., to Dothan, Ala., to Albany, the storm apparently did nothing worse in the property damage line than to down some trees and power lines.

On the other hand, its accompanying rainfall was breaking the back of drought conditions across southern Alabama and Georgia and northern Florida so that, on balance, Flossy was probably more of a blessing than a disaster in those areas.

Flossy packed winds up to 100 miles an hour into the Florida mainland at dusk yesterday. The hurricane slammed into Fort Walton Beach, generating fierce sandstorms that blasted the point off automobiles in its path but did little damage to property, early reports indicated.

The Weather Bureau said the heavy rains would spread north to central Alabama and across Georgia into South Carolina and eastern North Carolina.

Along the way Flossy was expected to slacken her pace and lessen her force.

The potential casualty list of the storm took a sharp drop early today when the Coast Guard reported the motor vessel Carport located near Grand Isle in the Gulf of Mexico. Missing since Sunday, she was disabled but the 15 aboard her were safe.

The hurricane did most of its damage in the Gulf of Mexico with two dying in accidents aboard the motor vessel Carport which was found today after being missing several hours. Others missing in the Gulf included 2 persons in an oil company helicopter, about 12 fishermen and an undetermined number aboard the missing tug Rosalie E.

The Coast Guard at New Orleans today reported all personnel aboard two offshore oil rigs are safe, 11 on one and an undetermined number on the other.

Lost from the Carport Sunday were Third Mate Charles Ayers, 47, Brooklyn, and Second Mate John Ritter. An expectant Negro mother and her three children were killed near Tallahassee yesterday when a jet training plane crashed into their home after colliding with another jet in flight.

The planes were being evacuated from Tyndall Air Force Base near Panama City, Fla., because of the hurricane. Dead were Mrs. Mary Ella Walker, 23; Philip Jr., 3; Dorothy, 2; and Mary Lee, 1. One of the jet pilots, Capt. Robert B. Willeford of Tyndall, was still missing. The other, Lt. Roderick B. Adams of Panama City, parachuted and was slightly injured.

VA Plan Set For Handling Disaster

With a disaster program all its own ready for any emergency, the Big Spring VA Hospital is prepared to make its personnel and facilities available to the local Civil Defense organization.

Dr. Jackson H. Friedlander, VA manager, announced Monday that his staff has perfected an emergency plan and has launched a program of drills to keep personnel in constant readiness for any natural or man-made disaster that might strike anywhere in the Big Spring area.

Friedlander said he will contact W. D. Berry, county CD coordinator, to offer the hospital services for use in an emergency.

"Having the greatest number of hospital beds available anywhere in this section, we feel that we should offer all our facilities to the Civil Defense program," Dr. Friedlander said.

The hospital's emergency program already has been tested, and Dr. Friedlander said the entire operation "ran smoothly."

The test was run on the basis of 50 casualties. One entire ward of the 250-bed hospital was evacuated to make way for the 50 mock casualties. "Patients," arriving by ambulance, were wheeled into the ward, the dispensary for treatment of minor injuries, and into the surgical department where a battery of surgeons and assistants was on duty.

Both litter and ambulatory cases were theoretically received. The emergency ward was evacuated and made available for the mock patients within five minutes after the emergency alarm was sounded.

Dr. Friedlander said the facilities of the VA Hospital will be available for use in case of plane, train or traffic crash, storm or other disaster. He called "constant drill" for an emergency, and announced that a program of regular drills is being mapped for the hospital staff.

12 Persons Die When AF Plane Runs Into Mountain

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (AP)—All 12 persons aboard an Air Force C47 were killed yesterday when the twin-engine craft plunged into the sheer northwest edge of 14,172-foot Mt. Yale.

A joint Army-Air Force team equipped with mules started an ascent to the 11,900-foot level to return the bodies.

Among the victims, who included both civilians and military personnel, was a red-haired Women's Army Corps enlisted woman. The bodies were found by a seven-man team which rode and climbed for five hours to reach the scene.

The Air Force identified three of its members killed in the crash. The others were civilians or attached to other military services. The Air Force dead were Col. Charles Miller of Kemper, Tex.; WAF Sgt. Helen Schuyler, of East Brentwood, N.Y., and Sgt. William McKenzie Jr., of Oakland, Calif.

The plane was attached to the Continental Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo. A spokesman there said it left about 9:30 a.m. on a flight to Hamilton Air Force Base, near San Francisco.

Watches on the bodies of the victims had stopped at 10:10.

Allen Fitzgerald, an employee of the Colorado Reformatory here, flew over the crash scene at midday, and later guided the first rescue team to the site.

"It was the most gruesome spectacle I've ever seen," he said.

"The impact must have been so great that all their shoes were ripped off. Only one man still had on a shoe."

The scene is near the top of the Continental Divide, 12 miles west of Buena Vista.

Thanksgiving Set Nov. 22nd

As far as Big Spring business establishments are concerned, Thanksgiving will be observed on Nov. 22.

The traditional fourth Thursday was approved as the holiday at a meeting Tuesday morning of the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce. There had been some question about Thanksgiving observance, since there are five Thursdays this November, and the public school schedule has called for holidays on the 29th and 30th.

November 22, however, is generally being recognized nationally as Thanksgiving, and local merchants felt that this should be the holiday here. They said that the Webb Air Force Base schedule calls for the 22nd, and other federal facilities will have that day as a holiday.

Oxygen Tent For Babe Is Resumed

GALVESTON (AP)—John Sealy Hospital said today the use of an oxygen tent for Babe Didrikson Zaharia has been resumed "intermittently," and that she feels "less rested than usual."

She has undergone four operations for cancer. Three have been performed since March 29. The hospital warned Sunday that her condition could become critical at any time.

Egypt Comes Up With Its Own U. N. Plea Over Suez

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Egypt has come up with its own call for U.N. Security Council intervention in the Suez Canal dispute. The Egyptian request will be taken up by the council tomorrow along with an earlier British-French demand for action.

Cairo's move came late yesterday, a day after Britain and France had asked the council to consider the situation created by Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the 103-mile waterway.

The 11-nation council's first task will be to decide whether to debate the complaints together or

Oilfield Death Under Probe

Authorities were investigating the death of a man in an oilfield accident southwest of Big Spring shortly after noon Tuesday.

There was no official word, but tentatively the man was identified as E. L. Kuykendall. A River ambulance rushed to the scene but the man was said to be already dead. Justice of Peace Walter Grice was conducting an inquest.

Details of the mishap, which occurred in the Moore pool, were not available.

Egypt Comes Up With Its Own U. N. Plea Over Suez

separately, and if separately, in what order. The council is not expected to get down to the issues in the canal dispute before next week.

When the debate reaches the meat of the controversy, it is expected to bring the participation of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Pineau, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi and perhaps Secretary of State Dulles.

Egyptian Delegate Omar Loutfi presented Egypt's request for council consideration in a letter to Emilio Nunez-Portuondo of Cuba, council president for September. It asked that the council consider "action against Egypt by some powers, particularly France and the United Kingdom, which constitute a danger to international peace and security and are serious violations of the charter of the United Nations."

Britain and France had asked that the council meet to consider the "situation created by the unilateral action of the Egyptian government in bringing to an end the system of international operation of the Suez Canal, which was confirmed and completed by the Suez Canal convention of 1888."

The convention guarantees freedom of the canal to all ships in peace and war.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said early this week that Britain wants the council to endorse the plan for a Suez Canal Users' Assn. put forward at an 18-nation meeting last week in London. Most of the 18 nations—representing more than 90 per cent of the normal canal traffic—are expected to join the association at an organizing meeting set for Oct. 1 in London.

JUDGE'S RULING

Heiress Loses Part Of Estate

CHICAGO (U.S.)—Mrs. Mollie Netcher Bragno, 29-year-old heiress named sole beneficiary to her grandmother's 12-million-dollar department store fortune, is not entitled to the full inheritance, a Superior Court judge ruled yesterday.

The estate of her grandmother Mrs. Mollie Netcher Newbury was ordered placed back into the estate of Mrs. Newbury's first husband Charles Netcher, founder of the defunct Boston store.

Superior Judge George M. Fisher's ruling upheld a report by a master in chancery recommending a $16,728,742 judgment against Mrs. Bragno in a suit filed in 1950 by other relatives of Mrs. Newbury.

In effect, the court ordered the assets of the Newbury estate to the principal trust set up under Netcher's will. Netcher died in 1905 and Mrs. Newbury died in 1954 at the age of 87.

Mrs. Bragno, whose attorney said he will appeal Judge Fisher's decision, is one of the beneficiaries of the Netcher estate and thus will not lose all the inheritance. Mrs. Bragno, who was named

Dog Solves Cable Running Problem

GREENVILLE, Ky. (U.S.)—Workmen laid 600 feet of wide pipe as a protective covering for a telephone cable, but nobody told them to insert the cable as they went along.

T. H. Wells, telephone company technician, solved the problem. He sent his cocker spaniel through the pipe, a rope tied to his collar. The cable was tied to the rope and workmen pulled it through the pipe.

Testimony In U.S. Tomato Case Resumes

EDINBURG, Tex. (U.S.)—Testimony continued today in a U.S. Department of Agriculture hearing into a proposed tomato marketing agreement for the Rio Grande Valley.

Four witnesses testified yesterday. Only about one-fourth of the 95 points of the draft of the proposed marketing agreement were covered by the proponents, who must show a necessity for each of the points.

Witnesses explained how Valley tomatoes were sold by the grower to the shipper and then to northern and eastern buyers.

The witnesses said cull tomatoes sold to Mexico would have no great effect on top quality fruit in the American market. But, they said, it seemed a great percentage of culls went to upstate markets and tended to displace the better grades because of their lower price.

Travis Jennings of Brownsville, sales manager for a growers cooperative, said the proposed agreement should also standardize the packings used for tomatoes.

Horace Etchison of McAllen, a pioneer tomato shipper, said he felt that tremendous grower interest in the proposed agreement came from what he called a recent breakdown in compulsory inspection agreements of all kinds of Valley perishables between the state and federal Departments of Agriculture.

Raymond Miller of Alamo, a tomato grower and president of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers Assn., said he thought regulations of the marketing agreement should be changed from year to year as the conditions varied.

Polish Flier Asks Asylum

ROENNE, Denmark (U.S.)—A man identifying himself as a Polish air force lieutenant crashlanded a jet fighter plane on an uncompleted airstrip here today and asked for political asylum.

Air force officers on this Danish island of Bornholm in the Baltic said his plane was a revised version of the Russian MIG15 featuring a much taller rudder than any seen on a MIG fighter known outside the Iron Curtain. They withheld comment on its probable performance.

A big canvas was thrown over the plane and army and air force troops guarded the area. The pilot was taken into custody for questioning.

One of the plane's wing tips was damaged slightly in the landing. Before police arrived, the pilot displayed a map of the small military airport 60 miles north of the Polish coast. He expressed surprise that the runway construction had not been completed and mildly scolded airport workers for not moving planes parked on the strip while he circled the field.

Stockholm Mate Testifies Doria Lights Looked Okay

NEW YORK (U.S.)—The third mate of the Stockholm said the position of lights on the Andrea Doria told him the two liners could slip past each other "with no risk of collision."

Ernest Carstens-Johansen, 26, continued his testimony yesterday in a pretrial federal inquiry into the fatal crash of the two ships off Nantucket Island, Mass., last July 25.

Carstens-Johansen, who was navigating the Swedish liner the night of the collision, said he first saw the lights of the Italian ship a little after 11:05 p.m. The Stockholm knifed into the Doria four minutes later.

"I saw two white lights and a weak red light on our port bow," he said.

He explained that the white lights were the Doria's fore and aft masthead lights. He said there was space between them and they were not on a straight line, indicating the ships were moving parallel and not headed toward each other.

"When I saw the masthead lights were open and I saw red against red," said the third mate. "It indicated to me that we could pass safely port to port with no risk of collision."

Red against red meant that both ships were on courses to the left of each other so that their red port lights were visible to each other.

Fifty lives were lost in the collision. The Doria sank but the crippled Stockholm made it safely back to port. The Swedish American line contends the Doria made a sharp left turn into the path of the Stockholm.

The Italian Line is seeking 25 million dollars in damages. The Swedish American Line is countering for two million. More than 10 million in additional damage claims are being consolidated for the eventual trial of the case.

White Students Urged To Join Walkout Protesting Negroes

HENDERSON, Ky. (U.S.)—White students in all city and county schools today were urged by a segregationist citizens group to join a walkout protesting enrollment of five Negro children at an elementary school.

The appeal by the White Citizens Council of Henderson County followed a walkout by some 570 white children at Weaverton Elementary School in this western Kentucky Ohio River city yesterday.

The walkout, which left only 300 white students in the first through eighth grade classes along with the Negro children, was led by parents and the recently organized Citizens Council.

The Negro children were expected to return today to the Weaverton school, where Robert R. Martin, state superintendent of public instruction, ordered classes to be conducted as usual.

A crowd of about 100 persons gathered outside the school yesterday but began to disperse before classes were dismissed. There were no demonstrations by the crowd which was described as orderly.

5 Are Dead In Tenement Fire

CHICAGO (U.S.)—Five persons perished and at least five others were injured in a fire which swept a four-story brick tenement building on the near North Side early today.

Scores of persons fled from the building. Several children were dropped from the second floor to persons on the sidewalk below before firemen arrived at the alarm blaze. None of the injured were in serious condition.

Deputy Marshal Richard Daly said arson was suspected in the fire. He said the blaze started under the stairs in the basement and spread rapidly up the stairwell. He said the stairway was fully aflame when first firemen arrived.

Killed in the fire were three women, a man and a boy about 4, all Negroes. They were not identified immediately.

Anarchy Proves Jury Duty Excuse

DALLAS, Tex. (U.S.)—"Do you agree in the law that will convict this man?" the prosecuting attorneys asked a prospective juror in a liquor violation case.

"My religion prevents me from punishing a man for a crime," the man answered.

The next man asked was more direct in his reply. "I just don't believe in the law," he said.

Both men were excused and the jury ended up with all women.

This Dog Has Say On Be-Kind-To-Dogs Week

By ANNE LEFEVER

Musing of Punkin, a badly spotted cocker spaniel, who owns me:

In several of the papers I have chewed up recently, I've learned that this is Be-Kind-To Dogs Week. Well! I should think they would set aside one week in the year for us — as much as we dogs do for the creatures who live in our houses!

Take that one who lives here in my house — every morning, she gets dressed up and leaves me, saying, "I have to go to work." I don't know what that means, but it must be fun.

Sometimes, even in the evening, she tells me she must go to work, but I know better than that! For one thing she goes out the front door, instead of the back; she gets into another car, rather than her own, and when she and her friends come back, they talk about a show or a dance, whatever those things are, or a dinner. (I know what that means — food!)

And what do I have to do while she is gone? I keep the birds out of the peach tree in my yard; I also scare away those funny-looking things called bicycles and the noisy ones called scooters.

Sometimes, after my creature has been digging in the ground and burying queer things that look like onions, I dig them up to see if they are all right. She doesn't seem very pleased when she sees what I have done, but I've just been trying to help her.

Installation Is Held By Baptist WMU

Mrs. W. B. Younger was officer for the installation of the new officers of the First Baptist WMU Monday afternoon at the church.

Each out-going officer served as instructor for the one who was to follow her. This was done against a background made of a blue and white placard bearing the aims of the group for the coming year.

Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, outgoing president, was presented with a gift by Mrs. W. F. Taylor.

Preceding the installation, a business meeting was held. Mrs. J. W. Arnett was elected recording secretary. It was announced that the church will be host to the Baptist Workers Conference, Oct. 15, which will begin at 5:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at the church.

For the tea after the meeting, the tea table was laid with a pink linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations in a silver bowl. Silver serving appointments were used.

Hostesses were Mrs. Alton Underwood, Mrs. C. O. Hitt and Mrs. H. B. Reagan. Forty-two attended, including a new member, Mrs. R. E. McClure.

SC To Lead Workshop On Respect For Property

At a meeting Monday morning, the student council of Big Spring High School received the discussion topic to be used at the district meeting. This is scheduled for Oct. 13 in Eldorado. The local group will have charge of the workshop on "How Can Student Councils Develop Respect For Private and Public Property?"

Plans for decorations for the Homecoming celebration were discussed and the gift set-up was completed and a field for the queen was decided upon. Arrangements are complete for the publicity, it was announced.

Mrs. Harold Hall will assist Toni Thomas with the activities for the exes. A leadership program was scheduled for Oct. 11.

Paid assemblies for the coming year were arranged, and a discussion was held on the Halloween carnival. It was decided that each class may have one nominee in the queen's race. Any organization may set up a booth at the carnival.

The budget for the workshops and other activities was set at $675. The council voted to raise the funds in various ways.

Twenty-two members with the sponsor, Mrs. Betty Lou Ratliff, attended the meeting, which was opened with a prayer by George Peacock.

Modern Patterns Change With Women's New Sizes

The shape of American women has changed considerably in the last 50 years—and at least home-sewing dress patterns have caught up with the change.

For many years the pet gripe of home seamstresses has been the peculiar measurements of patterns, alteration and often resulting in uncertainty fit.

Now, however, the measurement standard committee of the pattern industry has agreed on new standardizing for all patterns, conforming more nearly to dress sizes in the ready-to-wear field.

Time was when the standard of womanly beauty was a "perfect 36," with other proportions in accordance, but today every woman works for the ideal 34 bust, 24 waist, 34 hip measurements.

The modern figure has changed since grandmother's day. Today the bustline is higher, the waist and hips smaller. And now all patterns sold in department stores and local sewing centers have been changed to fit the new national figure more accurately.

All new pattern catalogs have insert sheets showing the new measurements. However, the changeover is not yet complete on the pattern envelopes, though the pattern inside is cut to the new sizing. The trick is to select the pattern size from the chart in the catalog and ignore the measurements printed on the envelope. New pattern envelopes have the new measurements, but older ones may not. The patterns themselves have all been changed and it is practically impossible now to find a pattern with the old measurements.

Here are some tips from local sewing center experts on picking the right size pattern according to the new measurements:

Today's size 12 misses' pattern is scaled to 32-35-34, as opposed to the old measurements to 30-35-33. All the pattern companies have adopted the new measurements, and the only difference between individual patterns now is the amount of ease allowed through the bustline. This varies from 4 to 6 inches. If your bust is 33 inches, you have a choice of the size 12 or the size 14 pattern, and in most cases the size 12 would be right. The exception to this rule will be in the case of a garment that requires considerable ease, such as a sports outfit.

Buy your patterns by your actual bust measurement, and don't worry about allowing ease. That's all taken care of. The patterns are still slightly different from ready-to-wear sizes, but the alterations required will be fewer and less complicated than before.

When buying a suit or coat pattern, buy the same size you require for a dress or blouse. The extra ease, again, has been provided for in the pattern. For slacks or skirts, buy your pattern by the waist measurement, unless your hip measurement is larger than that shown for the size. In that case, buy by hip measurement. Remember that it usually is easier to take a pattern in than to let it out. If you are taller or shorter than average, you need not let that affect your pattern size. Both lengthening and shortening are easy adjustments to make.

The change in sizing follows through the entire range for women, misses, half-sizes, juniors and teens.

When you go to buy your new patterns, get the salesgirl to take your measurements if you are in doubt as to your correct pattern size, and let her advise you.

You'll find your fitting problems

Test Yourself As The 'Perfect Secretary'

By DOROTHY ROE

Probably the most dreamed-about and sought-after woman in America today is that elusive character, the perfect secretary.

She may be almost any age, say the wisest bosses. She doesn't have to look like Marilyn Monroe — in fact it's better for office efficiency if she doesn't. But she must have that rare gift of anticipating the boss' wishes and making both him and his office run like a precision watch.

Required specifications for this paragon are set forth in a new booklet "The Girl with the Halo," which lists results of a survey among American businessmen in which they were asked to list the qualities they considered most important to the perfect secretary.

No. 1 requirement of a majority of the bosses was initiative. This, they said, was the most important characteristic of their dream secretary. Surprisingly, it came ahead of typing skill, accuracy and neatness, which they probably looked for granted. This highly prized quality was defined by one executive as "the ability to think and the initiative to act."

Initiative can be a pretty vital quality in a trusted secretary. For instance, if the boss forgets his wife's birthday and can't be located for a reminder, the perfect secretary would have the initiative to send flowers, with his card. Or if the typewriter breaks down

Use Leftover Ham For Stuffed Rolls

Good way to use up leftover ham.

Ingredients:
 Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/4 cup finely diced onion, 1 clove garlic (minced), 1 can (6 ounces) sliced broiled mushrooms, 8 slices (about 1/4-inch thick) baked or boiled ham, 1/4 cup cooking sherry, nutmeg.

Method:
 Melt butter in 10-inch skillet; add onions and garlic; cook, stirring a few times, over low heat until onion is wilted — about 5 minutes. Drain mushrooms and add to skillet; heat rapidly. Spread stuffing mixture over ham slices; roll individually and tie each with string. Return to skillet; add sherry and a dash of nutmeg; reheat. Remove strings before serving. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

BILLY HERMAN, Brooklyn coach, who played his first big league game as a member of the Chicago Cubs 25 years ago: "I was a scared kid when I came up. And I made the mistake of getting a hit in my first game at bat. The next time I got hit in the head. Silas Johnson, the old Reds' pitcher, was the guy who wounded me."

DON McLENNEN, Detroit Lions' rookie back, from SMU: "I think the big difference between college and pro ball is the line play. The pro linemen adjust themselves from play to play. In college, we had to wait until half time to make adjustments."

WALLY BOCK, trainer for the Cleveland Indians: "They don't come any tougher than Early Wynn. This Washington infielder Valdivieso smashed a line drive back at Wynn and it hit him right under the chin. It was hard enough to have felled a horse, but Early never went down. When I got to the mound, he was weaving and blinking but still upright. All he said was, 'Doc, I couldn't see nuthin' for a minute, you're the first thing that's come in clear.' He had a gash under his chin you could put two fingers in. But he walked off the mound."

TOMMY HEATH, manager of the Sacramento Solons: "I once managed a team that was so lousy with a bat that we could play a whole series with only one baseball."

JERRY BARBER, the pro golfer: "Sam Snead is just a shell of the old Snead who used to let the air out of the ball with the smoothest swing ever invented. When he curls his left hand around the grip on a club a piece of bone sticks out almost an inch, right in the middle of the back of his hand. I honestly believe an operation by a bone specialist would cure him. Given a good left hand, Sam could go on and win tournaments for ten or more years. But Snead won't have any part of surgery."

EARL (RED) BLAIK, football coach at Army: "American colleges have failed in their physical fitness and training programs. For the most part in both high schools and colleges it's the varsity, or gifted athlete, who benefits... 90 per cent of the rest merely go through the motions... West Point is the one school where participation in athletics can be, and is, forced upon the cadets as part of the curriculum. Some may not like it, nevertheless it's the essential part of their training from which they derive lasting benefits."

A TEAMMATE of the former St. Louis Brown hurler, Bobo Newsum, after Bobo had insisted the reason he had developed the practice of stuffing his cap full of leaves when scheduled to pitch on a hot afternoon was to keep from getting sunstroke: "Isn't it too late?"

RED FABER, one-time Chicago White Sox hurler, nominating Frank Isbell as baseball's champion lobby sitter: "He played with the White Sox before I got there, but I knew him when he was managing Des Moines. You could talk to him or leave him alone, made no difference. He'd just sit and sit and sit. I believe he held the indoor plus the outdoor record, because on a nice night (in the days of day baseball) he'd move a chair out onto the sidewalk and sit until it was time to go to bed."

ANDY PILNEY, coach at Tulane, when asked if he'd ever seen anyone enjoy as much success as did the University of Texas' Joe Clements: the night Joe completed a string of 12 consecutive passes against Tulane last year: "I had a high like that once. I completed 16 passes in a row. Then, just as I was about to let go of that 17th one with a receiver in the open all by himself, someone woke me up."

JOHN PERRY YATES, who scouted Abilene and Sweetwater for the Big Spring Steers last weekend: "I finally discovered a weakness of the Abilene club. The water boy is a little slow coming off the field."

Southern Cal Rated First In Dunkel Power Index

By DICK DUNKEL
Southern California, Syracuse, and Mississippi have emerged as the new top rates in college football after a weekend packed with surprises.

The Trojans, last year's No. 1 team, pushed their Power Index to the current national high of 112.4 by walling Texas, 44-20. Correspondingly, Texas dropped 24 points below, to 89.4, to start a new season's average in the rela-

New Synthetic Rubber Revealed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new synthetic rubber recently developed could free the United States from its dependence upon imported rubber, says Harvey S. Firestone Jr. He said in an interview that in a national emergency the new synthetic-called Coral—could be used in lieu of rubber from other countries.

Firestone said, however, that it will not replace natural rubber in the near future and that the United States will continue to use all the natural rubber it can import.

LP Gases In Tires Are Called Hazard To Life And Property

A group of Howard County farmers are indulging in one of the most dangerous practices possible, Fire Chief H. V. Crocker reported. The farmers, according to Crocker, are putting butane and other liquefied petroleum gases in tractor and truck tires. A report from Crocker to the State Fire Insurance Commission brought an immediate letter of alarm and request to publicize the danger of the practice.

The farmers are using the petroleum gases in their tires rather than air, Crocker reported. He could find no reason for the practice other than it saves time when they don't have an air compressor or do not want to pump up tires with a hand pump.

The gases will maintain a constant pressure and keep the tires inflated even if part of the gas escapes. This again is a time saver a costly expense for the farmer, Crocker added, but it is the chief reason for using it.

Crocker, when he first heard of the practice, wrote the Fire Insurance Commission about it. The Commission immediately mentioned it to the Railroad Commission and both groups expressed alarm. F. E. Harvick, director of the Railroad Commission reported that there was no law, rule, or regulation pertaining to use of butane or related products in truck or tractor tires.

He did emphatically state however, "that it is a hazardous use and is dangerous to life and property."

In a letter to Crocker, Eugene Sanders, director of fire prevention, stated, "we feel that it is a life and fire danger for the reason that it always happens that some individual does the wrong thing, or uses a product in the wrong way, whereby danger is involved. "It is human to err, and most people are careless and some indifferent, and it is these practices that give cause to fire often resulting in great property damage—and sometimes in serious injury or death."

Crocker voiced the same opinion as that of the state agencies and urged all farmers who use the gas to go back to compressed air.

He said that a tire could get a small leak, and all it would take to cause an explosion would be a cigarette or spark from the vehicle.

The fire chief accidentally discovered the dangerous practice while talking to a farmer. The man mentioned that another farmer sold his air compressor; he didn't need it any more since he started using butane in the tires.

Crocker said that several farm implement dealers here knew of the practice, but they did not show any concern over it.

R. H. Barber Of C-City Dies

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Death claimed Rupert Harold Barber, 64, a resident of Colorado City for 35 years, at 1:20 a.m. today. Barber died of a heart attack. He was confined to Root Memorial Hospital at the time.

Barber was born in Comanche County Feb. 29, 1892. He married Zelma Harmon in Indiana May 1, 1918. His wife survives him.

He formerly operated a cleaning shop here. At the time of his death, he was employed as a shoe salesman in a local department store. He was a member of the Church of Christ and a World War I veteran.

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 p.m. today at the Fifth and Elm Street Church of Christ. In charge will be Floyd J. Spivy, minister.

Burial will take place in the Colorado City cemetery under the direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home.

Survivors, in addition to his wife, include a son, Billy H. Barber, Colorado City; two daughters, Mrs. Rufus Almond, Abilene; and Mrs. Paul Prescott, Alamogordo, N. M., and eight grandchildren.

Nurse Shaken In Auto Crash

A VA Hospital nurse was shaken in an accident at Fourth and Gregg shortly before noon today, but no serious injuries were reported.

Mrs. Helen Lois Hill was driving south on Gregg when her 1953 Chevrolet collided with a truck driven by Bobby Lee Ryans of Lawton, Okla. Ryans was going east on Fourth.

Mrs. Hill said she was going to the hospital for an examination but said she did not think she was injured seriously. No one else was injured in the collision, but damage to both vehicles was considered heavy.

Jury Hearing Case On Will

District court civil jury docket moved into its second day Tuesday with court attaches asserting that all of the day would be required to complete the first case to be brought to trial.

Judge Charlie Sullivan is presiding in the hearing of litigation over a will. Six other civil cases are on the week's docket and listed as ready for trial.

Jurors reported at 9 a.m. Tuesday for duty and the same hours will prevail the remainder of the session. Court opened at 10 a.m. Monday.

Office Managers Of ASC Meeting

Office managers from eight West Texas counties in the ASC district organization, are in Big Spring today for an all-day conference on the current and future programs of the agency.

Bland Harrison, district field man for the ASC in the Howard County district, is presiding at the meeting. He said that the meeting would continue all of Tuesday.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Sealed proposals, addressed to the Board of Trustees, Howard County Junior College, Big Spring, Howard County, Texas, for the moving and alterations to a Field House for Howard County Junior College will be received at the office of the Architect, 505 Permian Building, Big Spring, Howard County, Texas, until 5 o'clock p.m. on the 3 day of October 1956 and then publicly opened and read. Bids must be clearly marked with titles of projects proposed.

The successful bidders will be required to enter into a contract with the Board of Trustees, Howard County Junior College, Howard County, Big Spring, Texas, however, the Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A cashier's check, certified check, or acceptable bidder's bond, payable without recourse to the order of Board of Trustees, Howard County Junior College, Big Spring, Texas in an amount not less than five percent (5%) of the contract price, shall accompany each bid as a guarantee that, if awarded the contract, the bidder will promptly enter into contract and execute bonds as outlined in the specifications and instructions to Bidders.

A performance bond in the amount of one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price will be required.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids for at least thirty days.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum rates prevailing in the locality in which the work is performed for work of a similar character, and not less than the general prevailing rate of per diem wages of legal holidays and overtime work, shall be paid to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed in the construction of public works. The minimum wages to be paid laborers and mechanics on this project, as determined by the owner are listed in the instructions to Bidders.

Plans and specifications may be examined without charge in the office of the Architect, 505 Permian Building, Big Spring, Texas.

DAV Chapter Reaches Quota On Membership

Big Spring's Disabled American Veterans Chapter No. 47 is one of the first chapters in the nation to surpass its membership quota for the current fiscal year of the organization.

As a result, it will receive a special citation in recognition of its achievement. As of Sept. 1, this year the chapter had 39 members. The chapter gained 10 members during the year, reporting 29 Sept. 1, 1955. The 39-member report was made before the national convention in August, and since that time, the chapter has gained another four members.

The citation and possibly a trophy will be presented to the chapter at the next regional convention slated for Oct. 29 and 31 in Lamesa. Robert McKinley is commander of the local group.

American veterans who have been disabled while serving in the armed forces in America's wars are eligible for DAV membership.

Local DAV's hold their meetings twice monthly and will meet in the county court room at 7:30 p.m. today.

Book Talk Varies On Plato

In an animated discussion which swung repeatedly from Plato's "Republic" to Eisenhower's, the Great Books group at its Monday meeting heard Plato called one of the three greatest thinkers, a spiritual teacher comparable to Jesus Christ, a fuzzy-minded writer of beautiful prose and the grandfather of modern totalitarianism.

Debate on his educational theories developed into an attack on mass production of depreciated degrees and diplomas, and a search for ways of improving education in the United States.

Mrs. Ann G. Houser presided. Others who took part were C. A. Benson, leader of the Big Spring Great Books group, Mrs. Arch Carson, Mrs. E. L. Cochran, Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, Mrs. W. B. Currie, Charles Cain, the Rev. Richard L. Deats, Mrs. J. R. Farmer, Dr. and Mrs. N. B. Furlong, Mrs. Ralph Gossett, Mr. and Mrs. Orland W. Johnson, Mrs. Olen L. Puckett and Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle.

Mrs. Cochran has volunteered to conduct the next meeting Monday, Oct. 8, in Room 211, Permian building. The subject will be Aristophanes' "The Clouds."

Odessa Official To Urge Bond Issue

Dick Pepin, city manager at Odessa, has announced that he will ask his city council to call a $2 million bond issue for street, water and sewer improvements.

The street proposal would be a tax bond but the water and sewer items would be on a revenue bond basis. Biggest item is for a water filtration plant, anticipating that Odessa would begin as soon as construction could be completed, to take water from Lake J. B. Thomas.

Roberts In City For Road Talks

Jake Roberts, district engineer for the state highway department, was in session Tuesday afternoon with the Howard County Commissioners court on road plans for the ensuing year in this county.

The meeting was in the commissioners court room at the court house.

Roberts was expected to advise the commission on the plans the state has formulated for further development of farm-to-market and other highways in the county. The commissioners had indicated on Monday they each would submit his own proposed list of road projects which are favored for 1957.

Goes For Prisoner

Floyd Moore, deputy sheriff, is enroute to Roseburg, Ore., to seek extradition to return here in the jail there on a Howard County warrant. The man is identified as Henry W. Storms, who was sought all along the west coast, to answer charges of wife and child desertion here.

Governor Thinks Scorn Best Thing For Bad Drivers

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams says "we've got to make the bad driver unfashionable and scorned by his friends."

"He's a potential killer," Williams said, "and we've got to change him. More police enforcement and even higher and higher numbers of license suspensions will never really win this battle for us.

"We've got to catch people in their minds and in their driving habits before they ever get to the point that the police have to flag them down."

The Governor made his remarks at a convention of Michigan wine and beer wholesalers.

Israelis Claim Egyptian Attack

JERUSALEM (AP)—An Israeli army spokesman said an Egyptian position across the Sinai border fired on an Israeli patrol last night, wounding one soldier. He said the patrol returned the fire.

The exchange was the only incident reported after two days of shootings along the Israeli-Jordan border. Israel reported five persons were killed and 18 wounded in the two days of violence.

Sec. Wilson Okay Following Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson was described as being in satisfactory condition at Walter Reed Army Hospital today after undergoing surgery.

Wilson, 66, was operated on yesterday to correct what the Pentagon called a "benign prostatic condition." It said was discovered during a routine physical examination last week.

Wilson is expected to be away from his office about 20 days.

Plan Texas Rally For Nixon Speech

HOUSTON (AP)—Republican leaders polished plans for a giant rally tonight for Vice President Richard Nixon's "Texanized" speech.

Nixon, who planned to be here for a 17-hour visit, faced a full schedule.

Republican National Committee man Jack Porter said an effort is being made to get President Eisenhower to visit Texas during the campaign, but the President may not be able to make it because of a full schedule.

Porter said tonight's affair may be the biggest GOP rally in Texas before the November election and party leaders have concentrated on making the speech a statewide event.

Nixon is scheduled to make a major campaign speech at the Music Hall. The hall holds 4,000 persons and an overflow crowd is expected.

Nixon's speech was termed "Texanized" and will discuss campaign issues of special interest to Texans, GOP leaders said.

Aides said the speech, which will be carried over a statewide television and radio network at 8:30 p.m., will not take final form until after Nixon arrives and talks with Texas Republicans.

Vice President and Mrs. Nixon are scheduled to arrive by air at 5 p.m. They will be met by a band, Young Republicans, and a welcoming committee composed of GOP leaders.

A motorcade will escort the vice president from the airport downtown, where a welcoming demonstration is planned.

Tomorrow morning, Nixon will visit the Houston Republican headquarters.

Mrs. Nixon will visit the Texas Children's Hospital.

The Nixons will be guests of former Gov. and Mrs. W. P. Hobby tonight. They leave at mid-morning for Springfield, Mo.

State Chairman John Adams of Harlingen will preside at the rally.

'Miss Football'

Donna Cason, 20-year-old fashion artist major from the University of Oklahoma, holds the trophy that goes with her new title of "Miss Football of 1956." She was crowned at the Coronation Ball at Berkeley, Calif., by California's Gov. Goodwin J. Knight after winning over 13 other coeds from the United States, Canada and Hawaii. Miss Cason is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 112 pounds. She has brown hair and brown eyes.

22 Pakistanis Die In Bus Accident

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Twenty-two men, women and children were killed and three injured when a tire blowout sent a passenger bus tumbling 150 feet from a mountain pass into the River Jhelum yesterday. The accident was discovered five hours later by another passenger bus.

Premonition Saves Child

DALLAS (AP)—Paul Gabriel, 2, was saved from drowning yesterday when he was pulled from a private swimming pool by a neighbor who had a premonition something might be wrong.

The tot apparently squeezed under a gate guarding the fenced pool behind the home of C. P. Van Horn, then leaned over and fell into the pool, Van Horn said.

"Something made me go out in the backyard to see if everything was all right," Van Horn said.

When Van Horn saw the child lying at the bottom of the pool in three feet of water, he jumped in, pulled him out and applied artificial respiration.

The child was breathing again before police arrived.

Secretary Is Willed $200,000

DETROIT (AP)—For 19 years Miss Helen M. Eaton worked as private secretary for Charles A. Bray, Detroit financier. Now she has learned that he left her "about $200,000" of his two-million-dollar estate when he died Sept. 12. The bulk of the estate went to his widow, said Miss Eaton: "He was the most generous man I ever knew."

Information Is Main Snag In Water Problem

FORT WORTH (AP)—Misinformation and plain lack of information are keeping Texas from solving its water problem, R. M. Dixon, chairman of the State Board of Water Engineers, told the American Public Works Assn. Congress today.

"Texas must get serious if it ever intends to do anything in the way of water development and if it does not get serious, our economy will suffer because water is necessary to expand our economy," Dixon said.

"Texas has a great storehouse of ground water but it is using up that water in some areas at a rate faster than nature is putting it back in the ground.

"In other words, we are lowering our ground water tables and the people need to be told before they drill wells for industrial or agricultural development and for municipal and therefore not be gambling on their investments."

Dixon said there are about 100 counties where there is little or no basic data on ground water resources.

"We are also short on basic data on evaporation of water and we are short on data as to the amount of silt that reaches our streams. In fact we are quite ignorant about a lot of things," he said.

Dixon called for a topographic mapping to determine where water reservoirs can be located and the extent to which they will impound water. He said the state also needs a master plan for water resources "but no master plan is possible until we have an inventory of the water resources, both ground and surface, and a better knowledge of the interchange and inter-relationship between our ground and surface waters."

He said such an inventory would be costly but pointed out that California is spending 5 million dollars a year for a water management program but that Texas spends only about one-tenth of that amount.

"Sound developments will be predicated upon sound engineering data and that data should be extensive and it should be complete but we do not have that kind of data today," he said.

Chevy Announces Injection System

DETROIT (AP)—A mechanically operated fuel injection system will be introduced by Chevrolet as an optional extra cost equipment item with presentation of its 1957 model line.

This was confirmed today by Edward Cole, general manager of the Chevrolet Division of GM. What the system will cost has not been disclosed.

Fuel injection systems replace the conventional carburetor. They have been tried out on European cars and it is said they provided a marked economy in fuel consumption. In the fuel injection system, a mixture of gasoline and air are injected directly into the combustion chambers of each cylinder through a pump that forces the fuel through very closely designed nozzles.

Golden Days

Golden haired Lila Jeanfreau of Texas City was the beauty chosen to extend the formal invitation to the Golden Days festival held in Galveston Sunday. A Swedish-born girl, Kem Bergman, of Houston, was named "Miss Golden Day of 1956" and A. J. Fickerson was the "Mr. Texas of Galveston's Golden Days" contest. The festival marked the opening of the winter tourist season.

NLRB Orders New Waterfront Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board today ordered a new bargaining election held within 30 days between rival New York waterfront longshoremen's unions.

The board expressed hope that the unions will hold off any threat of a waterfront strike until the balloting can be held.

Present contracts expire Sept. 30 and apparently there is no prospect of conducting the election before then.

The election's date is to be fixed by NLRB Regional Director Charles Douds of New York "as early as possible" after the election arrangements are made.

The balloting will give the dockworkers in New York area a second chance to choose between the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) and the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Longshoremen (IBL).

William Bradley, head of the ILA, said he was "double-crossed" when AFL-CIO President George Meany recently rebuffed him.

The portly president of the independent dock union assailed Meany yesterday in a speech to 1,500 cheering cargo checkers.

He said an ILA strike in East and Gulf Coast ports Oct. 1 hinges on the outcome of a union wage scale committee meeting here tomorrow.

Meany turned down Bradley's request Friday to admit the ILA to the AFL-CIO. Meany said the ILA "has done nothing to rectify conditions for which it was expelled."

The dock union was thrown out of the AFL in 1953 as being racketeer-controlled.

Bradley said the ILA is not "strike happy" but will follow recommendations of the wage scale committee.

He indicated the committee might call off its planned "no contract, no work" stoppage if the New York Shipping Assn. agrees to make any contract gains retroactive to Oct. 1.

The union's contract with the employer group expires Sept. 30. A walkout would hit ports from Portland, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex., the union says.

Struck Twice By Thievery

DALLAS (AP)—"I feel like a guy who's been struck twice by lightning," Felix Einsohn, certified public accountant, said today.

On Friday, Sept. 14, Einsohn's white Cadillac, with red top and chromium fenders, was stolen from a Dallas parking lot.

Two days later it was recovered on a city street. The only thing missing was the ignition key.

Friday, Sept. 21, the Cadillac disappeared from the front of Einsohn's residence.

Authorities believe the culprit who took Einsohn's car the first time used the key to steal it again.

Today it had not yet been recovered.

Mergers Of State Union Units Proceeding Despite Setbacks

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite some setbacks mergers of state AFL and CIO organizations are coming along steadily.

But the national AFL-CIO eventually may have to step in to force consolidations in some of the reluctant, more populous states.

Once-rival AFL and CIO organizations have already amalgamated in 14 states. Mergers in nine to a dozen more states are in prospect before the first of the year.

Where there are delays, jockeying among individual labor leaders for the top jobs appears to be the main deterrent. With all the fuss over integration in the South, the racial problem seems to be having little or no effect on the mergers.

That's the merger situation as shown in a nationwide survey by The Associated Press.

Here at national AFL-CIO headquarters a spokesman said that in all states organized labor forces are pulling together politically more than ever before. The AFL-CIO has endorsed the Democratic ticket of Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

States where former AFL and CIO state organizations have already merged are Arkansas, Missouri, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arizona, Montana, Vermont, Colorado, Virginia, Wyoming, Oregon, Iowa, South Dakota and Utah.

Generally these are the smaller industrial states, mostly in the South and West, with relatively small numbers of AFL-CIO union members. Absent from the list of completed mergers are such heavily unionized states as New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and California.

States in which mergers are in prospect in the next few months include Alabama, Delaware, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, Florida, Maine, South Carolina and Texas. Here again are none of the largest industrialized states.

Several months after the national AFL-CIO merger last December, efforts began to get state mergers rolling. The national AFL-CIO constitution allows two years, until early December 1956, for state mergers. After that, the AFL-CIO plans to lift charters and compel mergers.

Mergers have been voted down in two states, Mississippi and North Carolina. But in Mississippi locals which voted last June against merger now say publicly they approve it. Leaders predict merger early next year.

What blocked the Mississippi merger and probably also North Carolina's was a national jurisdictional squabble among former AFL building trades unions and former CIO industrial or manufacturing plant unions. This was a revival of an old AFL-CIO feud over which type union's members should do construction work around factories.

The building trades ordered all their unions in the states to block state mergers until this fight was settled. Then, on urging by AFL-CIO President George Meany, the building trades revoked the order. This has led to confusion in many states and has temporarily delayed mergers in such states as Ohio, Oklahoma, Michigan, Texas and West Virginia. It is being straightened out in most places.

But stronger measures, including headquarters action, may be needed in Michigan, where the jurisdictional question is just one of many fiery issues between rivals Walter Reuther of the auto workers and James R. Hoffa of the teamsters.

"Generally speaking," said an aide of Meany, "our problems are no more or less than the problems of any two organizations which decide to become one. Naturally there's the question of who's going to take the top jobs in the new outfit. That's what we're running into."

In all states joint merger committees are going through the motions of working out details and new joint constitutions. The national AFL-CIO has a set of standards on general things that must go into all the state merger constitutions.

Delay in most states are occurring because top men on both sides are conducting a waiting game hoping to stall their rivals into taking lesser jobs in the merged organizations. But as the December 1957 deadline for forced merger gets closer the tempo probably will pick up.

Also, some of the AFL and CIO state rivals have been fairly bitter foes in the past and it just isn't too easy to forgive and forget, although they all realize sooner or later they will have to get together.

"Some of these guys have been fighting each other for 20 years," laughed one union official, "so just getting them in the same room is a job."

Dues are also a problem. Rival state organizations have usually had different dues rates. In North Dakota, for example, the much larger AFL's state federation earlier this month decreased dues from 17 1/2 to 15 cents a month trying to get down to the CIO level, but the CIO organization claims it wants a 10-cent per month rate.

Preoccupation with other problems is delaying mergers in some states. In the state of Washington, for instance, leaders say they are too busy working to defeat in the November election a proposal to outlaw compulsory union membership.

A Means Of Reassuring Patrons

One manufacturer has undertaken to establish some standards in servicing of household appliances as a means of assuring customers of reasonable promptness and reasonable charges.

The concern (General Electric) has established some requirements for minimum standards of service provided by its distributors and dealers. These cover promptness in responding to service calls, training and technical proficiency of the service man, stocking of parts to avoid delays when new parts are needed, and the establishment of charges commensurate with complexities of the job and time needed to do it right.

This, of course, does not guarantee perfection in servicing, but if adhered to conscientiously, it will make for better relations between customers and distributors. The real strength of such a program is in whether something similar can pervade the industry as a whole. There are so many products that codes of servicing need to be applicable to independents as well as those connected directly with brand names.

To seek a compulsory conformance to a code would be fruitless and perhaps undesirable in that it would affect the right of choice and intrude on the right of free operation. But the public in time would be educated to the fact that it paid to do business with those who could point proudly to the fact that they were members of an association or that they had been approved under such and such a code.

This would be similar to the reputable standing accorded to some of the professions, quasi-professions and trade groups which now display the banners of their association as assurance of reputable, competent service to the public.

Come And See—And Boost

This is a trifle early to ballyhoo a Friday evening football game, but we would like to plead for a record turnout Friday when Big Spring and Snyder meet on the gridiron.

There is more involved here than a contest between two schools. Based on prospects for the season, observers pointed out that perhaps the old stadium, with its top of some 4,500 seats, would have been adequate for this and some succeeding seasons. Perhaps this assumption was correct, but we had to do something in keeping with our advancement into class quadruple A football.

Although we got a late start, incredible progress has been made in the erection and equipping of this new structure capable of accommodating 10,000 fans. In the facility we have the plant equal to most of the best in West Texas and far better than most. The light is at least three times as good as we have had. The parking areas promise to be adequate as well as in proximity.

All in all, we think it is the sort of plant which will give all of Big Spring and Howard County considerable pride. Aside from the game, we hope that there will be a huge turnout Friday as an expression of appreciation for this community improvement.

Our showing in the first two games has been a little less than glowing, but we feel that a big turnout Friday would be taken as an expression of support on the part of all fans. Several years ago when our football fortunes were low, fans and boys alike turned the wheels of fortune upward simply by putting out more than the occasion seemed to demand. The team began winning and the crowds continued growing. That might happen again.

Energetic Nixon Always On-Stage

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON — Stepping off his chartered plane toward the end of the first day of his punishing campaign tour, Vice President Richard M. Nixon was met by a cheering squad that wildly welcomed the hero home to his native California. He quickly mounted an improvised platform and responded with the eager earnestness that is his hallmark.

Then, in the pattern he has set for this tour, he held a press conference in a room in the airport for local reporters and for newsmen accompanying him. He already had made a half dozen talks at the start in Washington and then in Indianapolis and a full-length address opening his campaign ahead of him.

Yet quickly and unhesitatingly he replied to the questions put to him, ignoring the television lights that glared in his face and the heat that soon sweat pouring down his face. There were the usual questions on the give and take of campaign oratory and then a reporter asked:

To watch him in action even briefly is to sense that the key is action itself. Beliefs, issues, ideas are subordinated to the drive of a very powerful and highly disciplined personality.

In embracing the Eisenhower philosophy and the "New Republicanism," Nixon has gone against his own conservative voting record when he was in the Senate and the House.

The ardor of his embrace is indubitable, demonstrated in this incredibly demanding tour and the praise he pours out at every opportunity on the Eisenhower program of moderate social reform. He has translated his ardor, as he has done at every turn in his career of one crowded decade in politics, into furious action.

This is not, it should be added, merely action for the sake of action, a mere flexing of the muscles of a political strong man. For Nixon as an operator understands perhaps better than anyone in American political life today the techniques of mass communication.

Newspaper reporters who have traveled with him through many campaigns and on his journeys overseas as Vice President respect his intimate and thorough knowledge of their business.

Nixon will say to reporters accompanying him, "Now around four o'clock I'll get you something that will serve as an overnight lead." Or, "At the press conference at the airport I'll hope to have some hard news that will help you boys who write for afternoon papers."

In the same way, he understands the uses of radio and television as do few public figures — the relative importance of statewide network coverage versus concentration in an urban area.

He has a professional knowledge of how money should be spent to get the largest potential audience in a particular area. His own technique on TV has been criticized as being almost too perfect — the pause for just the proper length as the applause comes up, the flashing smile, the head thrust forward in challenge or rebuke.

Mr. Bregger

Perfection is another important word in the Nixon lexicon. He drives himself incessantly to perfect this performance. As one of those who has observed him most closely expresses it, "He is almost always 'on stage.'"

Even chatting informally, the young man on his way is front and center. He seldom relaxes and his sense of humor is restricted to the limited uses he makes of it in his speeches.

For all the remarkable dedication to his party, to his own career, to the business of communication, Nixon has difficulty communicating.

His critics say that he is still the college debater who could, by the flip of a coin take either side of a question and champion it with the same skill. In other words, it is skill — that is to say technique — which comes through instead of conviction.

The mistake that many of his critics and doubters make is to underestimate both the man and the politician. He has extraordinary ability, a keen analytical mind, a retentive memory that never misses a detail, an almost superhuman physical equipment.

But the end to which he will devote these resources, his own career to one side, is still uncertain.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Communist leaders have now publicly acknowledged errors in a document which is sickening testimony to the wasted lives of thousands who were, or still are, party members giving blind obedience to the Kremlin leadership in the belief it knew what it was doing.

The list of errors is in a resolution drafted by the party's national committee for submission to the party's convention next February. Many of these errors, in one form or another, were admitted publicly earlier this year in various party publications.

While the leadership of the American Communist party claims it is not a Russian agent, it is a fact these errors were admitted only after Nikita Khrushchev, Russian Communist party boss, last February confessed mistakes in Russia and suggested other Communist parties become self-critical.

The self-criticism was not simply for breast-beating. Khrushchev suggested it is part of a change in tactics but not in goals. He said Communist parties will still take over where they can — peacefully, if that's possible, by working with other groups until they gain power; violently if necessary.

The U.S. Communist party, according to the committee document, will now try to work with other groups more than in the past. Thus the admission of errors is a part of a general facelift job.

But the U.S. Communist party, which for more than a quarter of a century has held itself up as the one organization fit to run the country, makes itself ludicrous by its admissions of stupidity, blindness and utter lack of an elementary understanding of the forces in American life.

Here are some of the mistakes the leaders concede they made: They expected the United States to start World War III; they reduced their own membership too much deliberately and then lost additional thousands needlessly by their tactics and bad judgment; they predicted, planned for, major depressions in this country in 1945, 1949 and 1954; they misunderstood and underestimated this country's economic strength; they misunderstood the American labor movement; they misunderstood American Negroes by thinking their struggle for equality was some kind of subconscious anticapitalism.

Tax Axe Goes Chop Chop

NEW YORK (AP) — An interesting thing happened to my wife last week.

"Uncle Sam has asked me and a friend of mine to come in tomorrow and explain our 1952 and 1953 income tax returns," she said.

"That so?" I asked. "Who's the friend?"

"You," said Frances sweetly. "You'll have to go by yourself."

I told her, "I'm awfully busy tomorrow. Couldn't possibly go."

"Maybe you'd rather go to Alcatraz," said Frances. I suddenly decided I could make it after all.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans are being called in now to defend their back income tax returns. Word has been spread around that the experience is no worse than a bad cold, and that you aren't really a social success until it happens to you.

Since you might be next, maybe you'd like a little rundown on what to expect.

Warned by the direful tales of friends who had survived the tax man's inquisition, we spent a sleepless night going through desk and dresser drawers looking for old financial records. We found my grade school diploma class of 1924, our marriage diploma class of 1937, a picture of me in my first long pants, and a newspaper clipping predicting Alf Landon would beat F.D.R. hands down.

But all that was left of 1952 and 1953 was a handful of scattered checks. They showed we had spent a lot of money but didn't say what for — except a check for $15 on which Frances had, rather meanly I thought, scribbled: "For Mr. Bigshot's poker lesson."

Red-eyed from lack of sleep we showed up at the local office of the Internal Revenue Service. In a long room sat 75 agents at desks surrounded by taxpayers. No infighting, red-eyed taxpayers, sleepless for the same reason we were.

We drew a handsome, soft-spoken young agent any mother would be glad to have as a son — that is, if she didn't have to appear before him as a taxpayer. He put us at ease at once.

"Our job isn't to collect more money from you," he said genially. "It's to determine that you have paid the exact tax. We often refund money."

Instead of a winter vacation in Florida I began to dream of a trip to Europe.

That bright vision faded quickly as the agent began checking our returns, item for item, demanding specific proof for each deduction. The canceled checks I handed him feebly turned out to be only circumstantial evidence.

"Not detailed enough," he said crisply. "That's the biggest mistake taxpayers make — failing to keep adequate records."

"Salesmen seem to be the worst, but writers—"

The agent scribbled and frowned, then frowned and scribbled, finally said, "The amount comes to—" and he named a figure that sounded like the national debt, give or take a few decimal points.

"You owe us?" I asked, at the rope's end of optimism.

"No, it's what you still owe, including interest at 4 per cent," he said, holding out a piece of paper. "Of course, you don't have to accept this as final. You have the right to appeal."

For The Kids

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Flint's nine city commissioners gave up a trip to the Michigan Municipal League meeting so children won't have to pay an extra five cents to swim in the city pools.

The commission turned over $1,350 set aside for the league trip when advised that a deficit in park funds would make it necessary to boost swimming pool fees from 5 to 10 cents.

Some Return

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — A hot check artist fleeced merchants here of around $900 in cash and merchandise in a little more than one day.

Camden got something out of the check-passer, though. Police said a 50-cent parking meter violation fine was collected on the automobile used by the check artist.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida will have all its U. S. Highways marked with route signs of different colors within two years.

The colors are expected to make it easier for motorists to keep on the right route, especially at points where many signs are posted.

Around The Rim
How Caesar Missed The Boat

Mr. Shakespeare in his justly famous play "Julius Caesar" has Caesar stand staring at one of the men he suspects of conspiracy.

Mr. Caesar remarks: "Yond Cassius hath a lean and hungry look — he thinks too much. I would have fat sleek men about me — men who sleep o' nights."

Cassius in the play is cast as a lean, cadaverous character. He looks gloomy and worried. In the play he is supposed to be fretting over the climb that Caesar is making toward emperor. And in the bloody climax of the play, he takes the lead in the assassination of the hero.

I wonder what the real situation was. Perhaps Cassius did not think too much as Caesar believed. At least perhaps he did not think the thoughts that Caesar believed he was thinking.

Yond Cassius (I used to think that perhaps Mr. C. was a Scandinavian from that first name but I understand I was wrong) may not after all have been preoccupied with plots to bump off Caesar.

Maybe he was on a 1,600 calorie diet. If so, naturally he had a lean and hungry look. He was lean and I know he was hungry.

What he was thinking about was food. That his temper was short and that he might easily be induced to join with Brutus and the other boys in the plan to put well-fed J. C. on the spot is readily understandable. Caesar, insofar as I know, was not on a diet. He could — and, from the records, did — eat anything anytime he liked. He may have been an epileptic, but this affliction did not in any way handicap his appetite.

I think that poor old Cassius was one of those ill-starred mortals who went to the doctor one day.

The medic looked him over.

"Mr. Cassius," he said ponderously, "there's nothing radically wrong with you, but you've simply got to get rid of some of that excess weight."

And with that he handed him a wax tablet setting up in Latin the restricted

Truth Sometimes Isn't Believed

Freedom is a heady dish. It is also a confusing and often indigestible one to a generation of young Europeans who have never known anything but totalitarianism, either Nazi, Communist or Fascist.

It is the confusions of freedom with its endless choices that, in the opinion of a German expert in East-West defection, send approximately 20 per cent of all East German youths who defect to the West behind the Iron Curtain again within 18 months.

This inability of many of the totalitarian young to cope with freedom, once they encounter it, is at once a prime problem and challenge to the West, in the opinion of Ernst Tillich, the German who heads the clumsily if aptly named Fighting Group Against Inhumanity, organized to help the victims of totalitarianism.

"There ought to be some kind of individual guidance or classes to help these young people adjust to freedom and a way of life so radically different than anything they have ever known," said Tillich to whom I talked just before his return to Germany after his first visit to the United States. He came here to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee on present Russian cold-war tactics.

"The jazz, movies and ice cream, no matter how appealing, are not enough," continued the man who was a theological student when the Nazis arrested him in 1936 and threw him in a concentration camp.

Stevenson Definitely Could Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — More and more people who know politics from the inside are beginning to speak of "a close election" for the presidency. A few are saying privately with a certain degree of confidence that Adlai Stevenson will be elected.

Some of this talk is being erroneously explained as the usual attempt to scare Republican party workers into action, but a good deal is based on early reports of how effectively the Democrats are registering an increased vote over previous years in the big states.

Unquestionably the facts about the Maine election are beginning to seep in and, the more they are examined, the more startling they seem to Republican managers. Thus, in the first and second congressional districts in Maine, where the Democrats won one seat and nearly won the other, there are eleven cities and in these the total Republican vote over 1954 showed a net gain of 196, whereas the Democrats made a net gain of 18,215. In the city of Portland, for example, the Republican gain was 582, while the Democratic party's gain was 5,009.

It has been argued that the strength of the popular Democratic governor who was re-elected overflew into the congressional races, but the real answer probably is that better organization work won.

Maine, however, is not an isolated case. The same kind of reports are coming in from other parts of the country — that the Democrats are getting registered a large number of persons who haven't been in the habit of voting regularly.

The big news of this 1956 campaign, therefore, is already visible — it's apathy on the Republican side and intensive organization on the Democratic side.

Many observers who take a look at the big majorities piled up by General Eisenhower in 1952 are inclined to scoff at the idea that he can be defeated this time. It is theoretically true that, when times are good, the party in power benefits but there's one important proviso. It's that the party in power get out its vote

Think We Got Problems With Earthly Traffic?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 25 (U)—Would you like a trip to the moon, or maybe some planet like Mars? You'll probably have to consult a road map. The traffic problem may be considerable.

That space between the nine planets and the sun looks empty, but it isn't. In addition to cosmic dust, there are mountains flying around out there—little planets called asteroids.

And then there are comets and meteors. Millions of objects.

Interest in space travel got another boost this summer when Prof. Donald Menzel, director of the Harvard College Observatory, predicted that rockets to the moon will be possible in 10 years.

He was speaking of a rocket without passengers. But he didn't say that a passenger rocket was impossible—just that its great cost would delay such a venture.

The first moon rocket, as envisaged by Dr. Menzel, will be a scientific instrument, maybe to televise areas we can't see—like the side which the moon always keeps turned away from us.

As for a passenger rocket, Dr. Menzel says we'll have to do a lot of study and charting of conditions in space to make it practical.

Underworld Believes 'The Cat' Gained Vengeance From Grave

By WHITEY SAWYER
DALLAS, Sept. 25 (U)—Did Herbert (The Cat) Noble reach up from his grave to get the man who killed him?

That's the talk in the Dallas and Fort Worth underworld.

Members of that shadowy set point out that a prime suspect didn't live a month after Noble's death and other lesser suspects have died violently since.

The underworld grapevine has it that Noble set up a fund to finance vengeance of his own death. Perhaps someone collected.

Noble was killed on a hot August day in 1951 as he reached to take mail from his rural mail box. A land mine, detonated by electrical wires leading a few hundred feet away, blew him to pieces.

Suspects were legion at first. Noble always blamed his troubles on a "man 1,500 miles from here," but he never named names.

Noble reportedly defied a once-flourishing mob in this area by financing gamblers to buck floating crap games.

Fort Worth gambler Leroy (Tincy) Eggleston was picked up, questioned and released. That started the parade. Jim Thomas, another Fort Worth suspect, was released after questioning.

Forty men were rounded up, some from as far away as Beaumont, 300 miles to the southeast. But in each case, alibis and lack of evidence frustrated police.

Thomas was the first to die. A shotgun blast snuffed out his life in Oklahoma about two weeks after Noble died. If the death was connected with the Noble slaying, it never was proved.

Early in 1955, Eddel Evans, Fort Worth gambler, police character and considered an associate of Eggleston, disappeared. His body was found weeks later in a shallow grave.

May 2, 1955, Cecil Green, a mobster in his own right, went for a drive with Eggleston. When they pulled up in front of a Fort Worth drive-in restaurant, a charge of buckshot came through the windshield. Eggleston rolled from the car and was found crouched in a nearby home, slightly wounded and his gun in his hand.

Green didn't get six feet from the car. He died in a Fort Worth hospital without regaining consciousness.

Aug. 25, 1955, Eggleston received a telephone call, grabbed his automatic pistol, leaped into his car, and sped away—for good.

The car, smeared with blood, was found the next day on a north Fort Worth parking lot.

A few days later his body was found in a well a few miles from Fort Worth, ripped by shotgun slugs.

Were they killed in a fight for the power that once was Noble's? Or did they die because he died? Or were the deaths just coincidence?

The lives of each had been lived in the shadow of violence. Many had connections dating back to the Clyde Barrow-Bonnie Parker gang which terrorized this area in the '30s.

But the general opinion seems to be that murder trials in any of the deaths are unlikely.

Officials Ignore Fainting Fad

SAN ANTONIO (U)—An epidemic of fainting among Jefferson High School girls attending the Jefferson-Milby football game in Houston Saturday night was minimized by school officials today.

Principal Clyde Gott and Miss Bess Richards, sponsor of the Lassos Drill Team, both insisted that dispatches saying 25 fainted were exaggerated.

Gott, who put the number at "maybe a dozen" among the 400 attending, ascribed the faintings at the end of the game to the heat and the fact that the girls "needed a little attention."

Miss Richards, who estimated the total faintings at "about eight at the very most," laid the attacks to heat, humidity, excitement and disappointment. Jefferson lost the game.

Negro Teen-Agers Take Over Bus At Knife Point

DALLAS (U)—Six Negro teen-agers commandeered a special school bus by force today, threatened its white driver with knives and bottles, and stole about $5 in a coin-changer, police and the driver reported.

The Negroes took over the Dallas Transit Co. bus in Oak Cliff. Richard Carnaghan, 25, the driver, reported a "whole gang of kids" came in through the back door and windows of the bus. Inside, they refused to pay their fare, he said.

"I told them 'I'll sit right here until you pay your fare,'" the driver told police.

Carnaghan said about 12 of the teen-agers then came toward him with knives and soft drink bottles. They grabbed control of the steering wheel and gas pedal while he was still in the driver's seat, Carnaghan said, and started the bus moving.

At an intersection, a line of cars were waiting for a red light and the driver pulled the bus' emergency brakes to get the vehicle stopped, he said.

The Negroes poured out of the bus, Carnaghan said.

As the bus stopped, officers pulled up in a squad car. Robert Brinton, who was on the bus, identified two Negro teen-agers as leaders and they were arrested. As they did so, a Negro 15, swore at them, the officers reported. They arrested him.

Another squad car drove to a site near Madison High School where they saw seven Negroes walking toward the school. Three were identified as having taken part in the fight with the bus driver, and they were arrested.

19 Hurt As Bus Rolls On Turnpike

HIGHTSTOWN, N. J. (U)—An excursion bus with 39 persons aboard went out of control and overturned on the New Jersey Turnpike early today injuring 19.

Police said 17 passengers were treated at St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, and released. Two were hospitalized with lacerations.

Police quoted the driver of the vehicle as saying the bus would not respond to its controls.

He said the vehicle ran off the road and rolled over on its side.

Good Barbecue Is Ross' Trademark

Tasty, delicious barbecue, cooked slowly over real old-fashioned wood fires according to a recipe that has been in the L. M. Ross family for two generations, is the trademark of the Ross Barbecue Stand, 904 E. 3rd Street in Big Spring.

Ross' barbecued meats are famous throughout the Big Spring area because Ross customers for years have been accustomed to getting only the choicest cuts of meats barbecued to a mouth-watering goodness at that establishment.

At Gound's

Burt Varner, above, is new credit manager and bookkeeper for Gound Pharmacy, 419 Main. Formerly a sales representative for the wholesale drug firm of McKesson & Robbins for six years, Varner has lived in Big Spring for four years. He is a native of Baird, where he also acquired experience in the drug business. He and Mrs. Varner live at 105 W. 7th. Wayne Gound announced addition of Varner to his staff as another step in meeting an increasing demand for Gound's high quality pharmaceutical service in the Big Spring area.

L. M. Ross, the present owner of the business, employs the same formula for the delicious, old west barbecue that his parents used when they were in the same business here.

The meat is prepared in such a manner that none of its natural flavor is lost. It is cooked slowly and evenly over wood fires which impart that distinctive "hickory flavor" prized by so many barbecue lovers.

The Ross Barbecue Stand is situated on the west-bound segment of U. S. 80 in the eastern part of Big Spring. The address, 904 E. 3rd, is easily reached from the east, but a more involved route must be followed from other directions.

Persons attempting to drive to Ross' from other sections of town must go to the area by way of Second or Fourth Streets. That's where the trouble arises. Ross has installed no signs at Fourth or Second, and motorists can't tell where to turn toward Third to reach the popular barbecue stand.

Ross pointed out that his establishment is just a half block west of Donley on Third. To reach the popular dining place, motorists should turn on Donley and Second or Fourth, and then back west on Third until the barbecue stand is spotted.

The Ross Barbecue Stand is famous in Big Spring and throughout this area for real, old-fashioned barbecue. Ross, a veteran in the profession, barbecues the choicest cuts of beef over real wood fires. What's more, he prepares the delicious food according to an exclusive formula which has been handed down in his family. That's why Ross barbecue has that distinctive, palate-pleasing flavor you'll find in no other barbecue. The food is prepared for serving at the stand, either by the plate or in sandwiches, and "to go." Persons wishing to take some of the barbecue home with them for family meals or as a treat to neighborhood gatherings can have any size order filled at the Ross stand.

Ross Barbecue Stand

Well known to residents of the Big Spring area as the home of fine, old fashioned barbecue is the Ross Barbecue Stand, above, located at 904 E. 3rd Street. L. M. Ross is owner and manager of the establishment. His barbecue is prepared according to a recipe which has been handed down in the Ross family for years.

Caught With 'Doodle Oil'

Ben Beach, left, and Wayne Mills pose with the 45-pound yellow cat they caught at Metcalf Dam, near San Angelo, recently. Beach said 'Doodle Oil,' a fishbait appetizer manufactured by Alfred Collins of Big Spring, apparently was responsible for the catch, as all efforts were fruitless until the oil was applied to the bait. Collins manufactures 'Doodle Oil' according to an old Indian formula which was handed down to him. The oil is on sale at the Collins Brothers and Walgreen Agency drug stores in Big Spring.

Philgas Is Ideal Fuel For Homes Not On Gas Systems

With colder weather not far ahead, it might be wise for the householder to convert to Philgas, the ideal fuel for modern living.

Philgas, stocked locally by McGibbon Oil Company, is suitable for use both in the suburbs and on the farm.

There are many uses for safe, economical butane and propane and each year new uses for safe, economical fuel are developed.

Today, the farm, home, trailer home and factory are finding new satisfaction in the use of butane and propane.

In the home, Philgas can be used to supply kitchen ranges, hot water heaters, room heaters, central heating systems, refrigerators, floor furnaces, hot plates, pot burners and even cigarette lighters.

Commercially, the fuel is used for such things as cattle branding irons, weed burners, paint burners, poultry brooders, farm tractors, irrigation wells, truck fuel, factory-sealed blow torches and drilling rigs.

When the supply of Philgas is exhausted at a home or farm, the user needs only drop a post card or phone the McGibbon Oil Company for a new supply.

Philgas used as tractor fuel saves the user money in two ways: (1) Generally it costs less per gallon than gasoline or diesel fuel, and (2) it cuts maintenance costs in half, at least. This has been proved time and again by farmers.

Entrances onto Third Street and also to the lobby of the Howard House make for convenience, both to patrons of the hotel and to townspeople who have learned that they cannot find a better place to eat than here.

Howard House Provides Best Of Services

The crowds always seek out the place where they can get the best service and accommodations, and in Big Spring, those crowds are going to the Howard House and the Crystal Dining Room.

Since the Douglass Hotel became the Howard House in July of 1955, the establishment has been completely refurbished for the convenience of its patrons.

Service to its customers has not been sacrificed, however, at any time during the remodeling. Customers now find television in the air-conditioned lobby, the Crystal Dining Room adjacent to the lobby, a parking lot behind the building and entrances on two streets, plus one from the parking lot.

The Howard House's two entrances are from Third and from Rannels Streets, and the parking lot is directly behind the building. With a direct entrance to the lobby, there is no long walk around. And with the parking lot handy, patrons have no worries of having to leave their cars on the street or hunting for a parking spot.

There is no long walk to get to the building either, with two entrances from the two street sides of the Howard House.

In its effort to improve service, eight air-conditioned apartments were added, and all 80 units were completely remodeled.

Service is supreme also in the Crystal Dining Room. Either booths or tables are available in the quiet, comfortable atmosphere of the dining room.

Entrances onto Third Street and also to the lobby of the Howard House make for convenience, both to patrons of the hotel and to townspeople who have learned that they cannot find a better place to eat than here.

Collins Drug Offers Aid To Sufferers Of Arthritis

Collins Bros. Cut Rate Drug, Rannels and Second, is amazed at the enthusiastic reports it is receiving from arthritis sufferers who have tried that astonishing new compound called Citru-Mix.

Dozens of Big Spring and Howard County residents who have long been afflicted with the agony of rheumatism and arthritis have told Collins Bros. they have found Citru-Mix most helpful.

The many repeat orders the store received for this compound proves that its buyers are clearly delighted with the benefits it is providing them.

Collins Bros. invites any person who suffers from these afflictions to come to their store and talk over their needs with them. The new treatment is available and all any person has to do to prove its effectiveness, the store insists, is to give it a trial.

Collins Bros. Cut Rate Drug, in the heart of the town, has long been a headquarters for persons who have need for drugs, prescriptions and sundries. The store boasts a widely varied stock and can supply the needs of any customer promptly and properly.

Whatever your requirement may be in the drug line, Collins Bros. can fill it. The proprietors invite you to drop in and look around anytime you are on the corner of Rannels and Second.

Collins Bros. also features a modern soda fountain which is a veritable mecca on hot days. Prices at Collins Bros. Cut Rate Drug are always attractively low on hundreds of items.

Biologists Work On Oyster Population

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Biologists of the Marine Department are working to build up the population of oyster beds off the Mexican coast. Yield of the beds had been declining. Among other reasons, officials say, has been fishing in off season, which reduced the number of reproducers.

Uncle Ray:

Huge Fish Are Found In Valley Of Amazon

By RAMON COFFMAN
When we think of big fish, our minds are likely to go to the ocean. The largest fish (including gigantic sharks) live in salt water. Nevertheless there are some big fish in fresh water. I am thinking, in particular, of large members of the sturgeon, pike, catfish and piraruca families.

Q. How big do sturgeons get to be?
A. Before I answer that question, let me remark that sturgeons live in both fresh and salt water. Some stay in the ocean except when they go upstream in rivers to lay their eggs. The white sturgeon has been described as "the largest fish of North America." Many white sturgeons swim up the rivers in northwestern parts of the United States, behaving somewhat like salmon. Sometimes a big white sturgeon weighs half a ton.

Indian seated on a piraruca which he has caught.

The huso, a gigantic sturgeon of Russia, reaches a length of 23 or 24 feet, and may weigh more than a ton! Husos spend most of their time in salt water — the Black Sea or the Caspian — but they go upstream in rivers to lay eggs.

Q. How large are giant pikes?
A. The largest pike is the alligator gar. It is found in rivers which flow into the Gulf of Mexico. Some alligator gars reach a length of 10 feet and weigh 500 pounds. The largest catfish (often called "channel cats") occasionally reach the same length and weight as alligator gars.

Q. What about pirarucas?
A. They live in the Amazon basin, also in rivers of the Guianas. They fall short of some sturgeons in size, but probably are the largest fish which spend all their time in fresh water.

An eight-foot piraruca is a big one, but much larger ones — ranging up to 15 feet in length — have been reported. Now and then the weight is given as more than a quarter of a ton.

3-D Color TV Predicted

HOUSTON (AP) — Three dimensional color television by 1975 is predicted by Ray Campbell, Western Division executive vice president of the Foote, Cone & Belding advertising firm. He also predicts by 1960 more than half of all television sets will be color. "Within 10 years," he told an advertising men's meeting, "we can expect to see closed circuit television in every room in the house. It is likely that in the living room you will find mural television—on a wall, almost flat and measuring possibly five feet by seven feet."

Despite the television boom, he said, newspapers still control most of the nation's 10 - billion-dollar advertising budget. Newspapers now receive three billion dollars against one billion for television, he said.

Speeder Knocked

CENTRAL FALLS, R.I. (AP) — Robert E. Croteau, 18, of Woonsocket, was fined $15 for speeding after he told a District Court judge he was trying to find out if a repair job had eliminated an annoying engine knock.

Navy Seeks End To Jap Co-Habitation

TOKYO (AP)—The commander of a U. S. Navy air base in Japan today announced a "drive to keep American servicemen from living illegally with Japanese women."

Cons Dislike New Electronic Prison Guard

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—An electronic prison "guard" got a thumbs-down vote from Southern Michigan Prison inmates who term it "a horrible thought."

The inmate newspaper, The Spectator, happily reported that cost of the device "is still prohibitive—fortunately."

Television sales engineers recently demonstrated the system to prison officials. It is a closed television circuit that permits guards through a pushbutton arrangement to view activities in different parts of the prison.

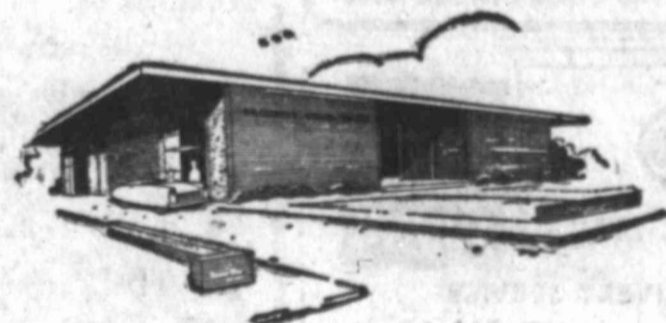

Speculating on prison life with such a spy, The Spectator said: "Imagine a telephone ringing in the shop with this conversation from the deputy warden to the shop officer: 'Tell those men at the far end of the shop to break up that crap game and get back to work.'"

Or, over the public address system in the prison yard: "Pick up that man in the northwest corner who just handed a parcel to 99999!"

Or: "Officer Doe, stop that man coming out of the kitchen with the bundle under his coat."

The paper commented: "It's like a convict's nightmare, even to think about it."

A similar system now is in effective operation at Alcatraz federal prison, whose hardened offenders call it the "automatic stool pigeon."

The Casbah Won't Have That Old Romantic Flavor For Long

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—A whole generation still throbs to the words in that throaty accent: "Come with me to the Casbah . . ."

That generation should be aware, however, there probably won't be any Boyer-Lamarr type Casbah much longer.

Instead, Algiers may have something like the "Algerian Village" at the last World's Fair if the city fathers have their way.

As part of the modernization of the Algerian capital, city architects have prepared a plan to clean up this hillside complex of narrow alleys and shrouded pas-

Bouquets of praise will come your way when you wear this Evelyn Pearson wasp-waist swirl-skirted housecoat. It's made of quilted cotton in a quaint calico print, zipped down the front for a snug, sleek fit. Rickrack trim, corduroy belt and solid color lining add a festive flash of color. Royal blue and red on white background, all washable. 10 to 18 . . .
