Babe Lies In State Today As Hometown Pays Tribute

BEAUMONT (AP)—A hometown Babe Didrikson Zaharias never forgot paid final tribute today to the famous athlete who lost her courageous three-year battle against cancer.

In Better Days

Famed woman athlete Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias is shown in action in the All-American golf tournament at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club in Chicago in 1933. While she was probably more well-known for her golfing feats she excelled at almost all sports and was a 1932 Olympic star.

NEW STRUGGLE FOR POWER

Khrushchev, In Trouble With Russ Leaders, Calls On Tito

LONDON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev was reported in trouble with some Soviet leaders today and may be seeking the support of Yugoslav President Tito for his policies of de-Stalinization and easing up on the East European satellites.

Stalin — came from Belgrade radio. An earlier Moscow radio broadcast reported they had arrived in Sevastopol from Yugoslavia and then "journeyed to the south coast of the Crimea where they will be resting."

Press reports here and in Austria said a new struggle for power inside the Kremlin was back of the surprise trip by Tito to the Soviet Union in company with Khrushchev, the first secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

island of Brioni. Foreign observers believed the main subject of their talks was Tito's independent brand of communism and its relation to the Soviet Union.

Former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and former Premier Georgi Malenkov were reported to believe that Khrushchev had gone too far in his de-Stalinization campaign.

On the eve of Tito's June visit to Russia, Molotov was relieved as Soviet foreign minister. Molotov had played a leading role in the Soviet campaign against Tito between 1948 and 1955.

The independent Vienna newspaper Neuer Kurier, in a dispatch from the Yugoslav capital which quoted a "high ranking personality," declared Khrushchev had been summoned to appear before the Kremlin leadership sitting as a "party court."

Daniel Vacancy Poses Problem

AUSTIN (AP)—When and how to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Price Daniel as U.S. senator was the big problem today.

The Democrats' nominee for governor resigned yesterday, effective when his successor is elected.

Daniel added that he hoped the state Democratic party would select a nominee by primary election and the new senator could be elected at a special election called by Shivers "in time for my successor to take office not later than Jan. 3, the first day of the next Congress."

Shivers replied he would delay calling a special election until he got more legal advice because "there is a legal question, in my opinion, as to whether a resignation to be effective at a future date actually creates a vacancy."

Shivers said he might even ask for a ruling by the attorney general.

Record-Holding Plane Crashes

EDWARDS, Calif. (AP)—The speed and altitude record-holding Air Force plane X2, rocketing above 45,000 feet, developed unexplained trouble and crashed yesterday.

The three commissions acted amid audience shouts of "fire her" which drowned out pleas from two women to overlook what they called the "indiscretion" of the white doctor.

A suggestion from one of the commissioners that final action be deferred until after a meeting Oct. 3 of the Madison Board, when Dr. Coggins had been promised a hearing, was overridden.

Dr. Coggins was not present last night, and the only support she had come from two white women in the audience.

Rhee Opponent Is Assassin's Target

SEOUL (AP)—Chang Myun, President Syngman Rhee's outspoken opposition vice president, was shot and wounded in the hand today as he stepped from the stage of a political convention.

The attempted assassination came less than 24 hours after the Rhee-dominated National Assembly voted 86-6 to warn Chang against continuing his criticism of the government.

Chang, a Roman Catholic and a former ambassador to the United States, has been in off-and-on seclusion since he was chosen vice president May 15 after a turbulent election campaign. The candidate of the opposition Democratic party, he decisively defeated Rhee's running mate.

The assassin, identified by police as Kin Sang Poon, 28, fired two revolver shots at 2:35 p.m. as Chang stepped to the floor after addressing a Democratic party convention in the municipal theater.

One bullet went through the palm of Chang's left hand. A party aide said several bones were smashed. The vice president, after being treated by a doctor attending the convention, shut himself up in his home and refused to see newsmen.

Four hours later Rhee in a statement expressed surprise and regret at the attack on his political enemy and relief that Chang's wound was slight. The President promised the arrest and strict punishment of anyone connected with the assassination attempt.

Police said Kim, a veteran of the Korean War, admitted the assassination attempt and said in explanation:

"I thought he would do a fair job for the nation, but he was trying to fraternize with Japan, which is my enemy."

Chang in one recent statement said it was time for Korea to establish diplomatic relations with Japan, which occupied Korea for years before World War II.

Ex-Miss America Won't Become A 'Waddy Housewife'

DENVER (AP)—Honeymooning Miss America of 1956 says "I tell all the girls I'm not going to become a waddy housewife just because I'm married."

Now Mrs. Don Cherry, the former Sharon Kay Ritchie, dug into a steak as she told a reporter: "I should really be watching my figure. But after all, this is my honeymoon."

The former Colorado Women's College freshman was married here last Saturday night to singer-golfer Don Cherry of Wichita Falls, Tex.

The couple stopped in Denver overnight after spending several days in a lodge at Estes Park, a mountain resort.

They planned to leave today for Dallas, Tex.

Reds Stuck With Exchange Journals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians are stuck today with 75,000 out-of-date magazines because they are bogged down in what they used to call a sordid capitalistic squabble over profits.

Eventually they expect to distribute them to American newsstands—25,000 issues of U.S.S.R. labeled "August 1956" and 50,000 labeled "September 1956."

But that can't happen before October. And who in America pays full price for old magazines?

The first issue of the English language picture magazine was to have been distributed to U.S. newsstands back in July.

A similar U.S. magazine, "Amerika," written in Russian, was to have been distributed inside Russia. Unlike the Russian publication, it bore no date—only "No. 1."

This reciprocal arrangement grew out of last year's Big Four summit meetings. It was announced last December. But negotiations hit a snag. The Russians, it was said, wanted a little more than half the newsstand price of "Amerika" to pay its government agency for distributing the four-color, 64-page job.

After all, they argued, that was the standard arrangement in America and that was what their own publication was paying to its U.S. distributor, the American News Co. of New York.

The Americans balked. The Russians refused to budge. And the magazines are aging in warehouses.

Along with negotiations, the printing of new issues goes on—but with a change.

The Russians shifted to the American style for their next issue. It is now in the hands of the printer, Cuneo Press in Chicago, and it says simply "No. 3."

A First Time For Everything

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Luigi Caruso, 21, became a father for the first time and after a look at his new-born son, fainted.

When he was revived, the exuberant Luigi put his hand through a glass telephone booth in the hospital corridor.

When police came to see what the noise was all about, Luigi, who doesn't speak English, feared he was in trouble and ran up to the hospital roof. He refused to come down until the police went away.

When he came down, doctors gave him a sedative and he was sent home to calm down.

Mother and son were doing much better, the hospital reported.

MRS. OLIVER NICHOLS JR.

Edna Harrell Becomes Bride Of Mr. Nichols

Before an altar arch decked with greenery and pompon mums flanked by baskets of white gladioli, Edna Harrell exchanged wedding vows with Oliver Nichols Jr. Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Knott Baptist Church.

On each side of the arch were palms and candelabra which held white candles.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harrell, Knott and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Nichols, Knott.

The Rev. Fred Smith, former pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Johnny Shortes presented pre-nuptial music. She accompanied Mrs. Darrell Jackson as she sang "Because," "With These Hands," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Chantilly lace and net over tulle gown. The bodice was styled with a Peter Pan collar and long tapered sleeves, which came to points over her hands.

The bouffant waltz length skirt had inserts of lace and net ruffles. Her waist length veil of illusion fell from a tiara of pearls and was edged in lace.

For tradition the bride carried an old handkerchief; her dress was new; the Bible in her wedding corsage was borrowed; she wore a blue garter and had a penny in her shoe.

The bridal bouquet featured a white orchid surrounded by feathered carnations placed on top of a white Bible.

Mrs. Allen Christian, Big Spring, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a dress of white crystallette embossed with flowers and metallic trim. The dress was styled with a low neckline and bouffant waltz length skirt. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

Lavelle Conway and Betty Hester were bridesmaids. They were gowned in pink and blue, respectively, and their dresses were styled as that of the matron of honor. The bouquets were of pink and blue carnations.

Best man was Billy Nichols, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Ike Rupart, Dick Nichols, brother of the bridegroom, Allen Christian and Darrell Jackson.

Sharon Roman was flower girl and Glen Harrell served as ring bearer.

At the reception, held in the church, the bridal couple and their parents received guests.

The serving table was laid with a white lace cloth and the feminine attendants' bouquets were placed on the table for decorations. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Crystal and silver appointments were used for serving.

Serving was done by Mrs. Woody Caffey and Shirley Chapman. At the register was Mrs. Wanda Hill.

For the wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a pink silk faille suit with gray accessories. Her corsage was from the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Nichols is a graduate of Knott High School and attended H.C.J.C. She is employed at Webb AFB.

Mr. Nichols graduated from Knott High School and attended H.C.J.C. He is presently serving with the Army stationed at Ford Ord, Calif.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hogue, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Car' Hogue, Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Crooker, Mrs. Lewis Christian, Mrs. Verlin Knous, Richard, Jerry and David Knous, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Ike Rupart and L.I. and Mrs. C. W. Martin, all of Big Spring.

Lees HD Club Has Officer Election

Mrs. Jim Woodard was hostess to the Lees Home Demonstration Club when they met Thursday at 2 p.m. for the election of officers.

Those elected are Mrs. Earl Woolwine, president; Mrs. Woodward, vice president and Mrs. Joe Carter, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Woodard gave the devotion from the 23rd Psalm. Mrs. Mildred Eiland, county agent, spoke on the planting of fall shrubs and flowers.

Refreshments were served to the ten members, two new members, Mrs. T. D. Crowder and Mrs. M. O. Oppgard and one visitor, Mrs. Jack Edwards.

Check Medicine At End Of Vacation

After vacation, we are likely to put back into the medicine chest emergency items that served us when we were away from home.

It's a good idea to make sure that gauze and cotton are still clean, not soiled and dusty when put away.

Check the thermometer by shaking it down to norm, wash it in lukewarm water and soap before putting it away. If new medicines have been purchased, make sure they are labeled before storing.

Miss Bennett Honored At Midland Luncheon

Local friends of Louise Ann Bennett journeyed to Midland for a luncheon given in her honor Thursday at the Midland Country Club.

Miss Bennett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Bennett, will be married to Jerry Worthing, Oct. 12, in St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Carl Strom and her daughter, Mrs. Herschel Ezell of Midland.

The bride's table featured a Ming tree, sprayed pink and sprinkled with glitter. Tied to the branches were tiny silver wedding bells. Pink carnations formed the base of the tree.

The two other tables, each held a Cupid with pink streamers radiating out and ending with wedding bells. Pink net covered the tables and was caught at several places to form drapery.

Places were marked by cards in the shape of miniature bride's books. The hostess gift was a modernistic copper tray.

For the luncheon, Dr. Bennett chose a winter cotton in a green and brown tweed. Her small hat and accessories were in beige, and she wore a pink carnation corsage.

Mrs. Tom Helton, aunt of the honoree, was attired in a black tulle suit and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The two hostesses wore identical cashmere suits with large beaver hats. Mrs. Strom was in pink and Mrs. Ezell in blue.

The Big Spring group was joined by Mrs. Dixie Kilgore of Lamesa and Mrs. George O'Brien of Midland.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha Plans Two Projects

A hat auction was planned for Oct. 25 by members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority when they met Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Denia Baker.

At the auction, to raise money for their projects, each member will bring a hat to be auctioned to other members. The group also decided to sell candy to raise money.

Mrs. B. E. Reagan, Mrs. Robert Hill and Barbara Ann Eye will represent the club at the district meeting to be held in Odessa Oct. 30.

Mrs. Hill gave a report on the City Federation meeting which was held recently. A report on the ESA retirement home, to which the club contributes $50 dollars each year, was heard.

It was announced that the club will furnish refreshments at the Servicemen's Center on Oct. 6.

Mrs. Glen Addy was presented with a gift of a silver baby spoon.

Mrs. Carl Wilkinson was cohostess for the 11 members and four guests who attended.

R. H. MILLERS WILL OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

In observance of their 60th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Miller, 310 Dixie, will hold open house Sunday afternoon.

They are inviting their friends to call between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

The couple was married in Mason Sept. 21, 1896. The date of the anniversary celebration was postponed in order that all the family might be present.

Their children are Mrs. M. C. Lepard, Dayton Miller and T. L. Miller, all of Big Spring; E. C. Miller of Guthrie Okla.; Mrs. Hugh Carr, Claiborne, and Mrs. M. L. Madden, Abilene.

There are ten grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

Methodist Girls Meet To Form Club

Twenty-eight girls of the First Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. Jordan Grooms Thursday afternoon to organize a Methodist Girls' Club.

Assisting Mrs. Grooms were Mrs. Keith Hansen and Mrs. Glen David. Topic of the program was "Christ Above All." Participating on the program were Linda Nichols, Melinda Crocker and June Vaughan, Delores Howard accompanied them at the piano.

Miss Nichols was elected chairman; Kay McGibbon, hostess; chairman and Mary Jane Weaver, program chairman. Time for the monthly meeting was set for the last Thursday.

Friendship Group

LAMESA — The Girl's World Friendship group of the First Methodist Church met recently in the home of Nancy Powell for the purpose of reorganizing. Sandra Pratt had charge of the program and led a discussion on the book, "The Bomb That Fell." Refreshments were served to 18 girls and the sponsor, Mrs. Raymond Orson, and Mrs. Guy V. Simpson, president of the W.S.C.S.

Couple Wed In Alpine

COAHOMA — Marilyn Joy Nickell, Alpine, and Robert Noble Read, Midland, exchanged wedding vows Sept. 24 in the First Baptist Church in Alpine.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Nickell, Alpine and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Read, Coahoma.

The Rev. Ralph T. Woodten, pastor of the church, read the rites before an altar decorated with white asters and mums.

Wedding music was presented by Judy Crider and Mrs. L. C. Lange.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a two piece dress of white lace. The basque lace blouse was styled with a Peter Pan collar and long sleeves which tapered over her hands. Her halo had held a shoulder length veil of illusion.

The bridal bouquet was of white carnations and feathered mums.

Mrs. Bob Burelsen was matron of honor. Ralph Hines served as best man. Ushers were Bobby Nickell and Bill Read.

The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with pink carnations.

The couple will make a home in Midland.

HD Clubs Elect Officers; Talk About Fall Decor

New officers were elected at the Tuesday meeting of the Knott Home Demonstration Club when they met at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Dick Clay.

Officers elected were Mrs. L. C. Matthies, president; Mrs. Sonny Shroyer, vice president; Mrs. Robert Bram, council delegate; Mrs. W. A. Burchell, secretary and Mrs. P. Coker, reporter.

Nine members and one visitor, Mrs. Mary Riddle, Hartford, Ark., were present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Coker on Oct. 9, at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Mildred Eiland spoke to the St. Lawrence HD Club on growing flowers and fall yard care when the group met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Arnold Lange.

Booklets were given to each member on "Shrubs for Year-Round Color." Mrs. Eiland also spoke about bulb planting for the fall.

The group heard a report on the Family Night party which was held recently.

The next meeting of the club will be Oct. 9 with Mrs. Jay Hoelscher as hostess.

Ladies Society To Celebrate Church District's Founding

Members of the Ladies Aid Society of the St. Paul Lutheran Church discussed plans Thursday evening for the celebration of the 50th anniversary commemorating the official formation of the local church district. The group will meet Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at the church. A supper will be served at 5:15 p.m.

It was also announced that the Women's Missionary League rally will be held in Odessa on Oct. 18.

The group voted to sell Christmas cards to raise money. A report was heard on a donation from Odessa. Eight members were present.

Plenty Of Help

That's what was needed by Mrs. R. G. Woda at the party given Thursday for her at the Officers' Club. Friends gathered to wish her well on the eve of her departure with Maj. Woda, who is transferring to Strategic Air Command. Helping her with the assortment of gifts are, at left, Mrs. John L. Weber, and at right, Mrs. R. D. Whittington.

WMU Executive Board Has Planning Session

Plans for the activities of the coming year were made Thursday at 9 a.m. by the executive board of the Baptist Temple WMU group.

The hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Jack Haptonstall.

The group studied the Texas WMU yearbook with Mrs. Haptonstall presiding. She presented a review on the aims for the coming year.

Mrs. Curtis Reynolds gave a review of the origin of the hymn for the year, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains."

The scripture reading and list of the missionaries with birthdays this week was given by Mrs. James Holmes. A special prayer was offered by Mrs. Holmes.

Officers and chairmen each gave brief reviews of their duties.

The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. Everett Rayburn.

The refreshment table was covered with a white organdy cloth and held finger sandwiches which were in the shape of the yearbook and inscribed with "WMU Yearbook." Blue and white, the colors of WMU, were used for decorations and crystal appointments for serving the 20 who attended.

Church Council Plans For District Meeting

Twenty-one members of the United Council of Church Women met at the First Christian Church Thursday for a covered dish luncheon. Plans were made for the district meeting to be held Oct. 12 at St. Paul Presbyterian Church. Sessions will begin at 10 a.m. with luncheon served at the church.

Announcement was made of the United Nations observance which the group will hold Oct. 21 at the First Methodist Church.

Farewell Tea Given For Mrs. Woda

A pink and silver theme was used for the farewell shower given for Mrs. R. G. Woda Thursday afternoon at the Officers' Club at Webb Air Force Base.

Mrs. Woda will leave soon with her husband, who has transferred to the Strategic Air Command.

With some of the gifts were farewell poems which the honoree read as she opened the presents. About 130 attended the party.

The refreshment table held an arrangement of pale pink roses combined with silvered leaves. Silver candelabra, tied with tiny bouquets of leaves and roses, held silver candles. All serving appointments were silver.

Hostesses, alternating at the table, were Mrs. L. F. Garrett, Mrs. J. L. Weber, Mrs. R. D. Whittington, Mrs. D. A. Fling, Mrs. G. L. Glauser, Mrs. R. L. Alexander, Mrs. L. W. Moellenberg, Mrs. R. E. Ireland and Mrs. R. B. Blahm.

Mrs. Stalcup Hosts Luther HD Meeting

Officers for the coming year were elected at the Thursday 2 p.m. meeting of the Luther HD Club. Mrs. Nathan Stalcup was hostess for the meeting.

Elected officers are Mrs. Regis Fleckenstein, president; Mrs. Nap Wilson, vice president; Mrs. Jim Zike, secretary; Mrs. John Couch, reporter and Mrs. Louis Underwood, council delegate.

Six members present heard Mrs. Stalcup give the devotion. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Nap Wilson.

Chips Really Down In Nat'l League

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

This is it. Forget those past 151 games in the National League season. It's Milwaukee at St. Louis for three, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn for three—and all of them, or any one of 'em—could decide the pennant.

Milwaukee's Braves, holding the lead by one game, need a sweep against the Cards to nail it without worrying about what Brooklyn does. "It's Bob Buhl tonight, Warren Spahn tomorrow night," says Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, "and the whole damn bunch on Sunday." The Dodgers, supremely confident all season that they would catch the Braves and repeat as champions, no longer can do it alone. The best thing they can do is sweep the Pirates and pray St. Louis can take at least one from the Braves. That would leave it a tie-calling for a best-of-three playoff beginning Monday in Brooklyn.

Manager Walt Alton sees his Dodger chances like this: "We've got to have help. If the Cards win one, we'll be all right. We haven't any reason to give up yet," but he added: "I'm not worried about the Cardinals easing up. The thing that worries me is that we've looked pretty lousy lately."

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

In response to numerous inquiries, no, Frosty Robison didn't get into the game for SMU against Notre Dame last weekend. Coach Woody Woodard obviously decided to go with his most experienced players and Frosty, of course, is only a sophomore. He'll see his share of action later on.

Some of Robison's competition at fullback has been moved. Wayne Stankard, who was contending for the job, played at halfback for SMU against the Irish.

Two Midland boys, Wahoo McDaniel and Dick Chancellor, are among the 11 Texans out for the freshman football team at the University of Oklahoma.

The others are Jerry Payne, Breckenridge end; Mickey Jackson, Hillsboro end; Frank Holey, Dallas guard; James Davis, Tyler center; William Marchbanks, Wichita Falls center; Jackie Holt, Galveston back; Bobby Boyd, Garland back; and Bennett Watts, Breckenridge back.

Big Spring's Luke Thompson is now enrolled at Baylor University in Waco, thanks to encouragement offered by Stone Wells of Houston and Obie Bristow of Big Spring.

Thompson wrote back that he recently played against other Baylor University golfers and beat them all in a practice match. Those who know say Luke's game isn't yet fitted for some of the tight courses he'll play on in Central and South Texas, but he'll learn.

In more than one city across the land, round-robin golf leagues consisting of two-man teams are being formed. That might meet with favor here. The linksters could play either at the Munny or the Country Club, or both. Or four teams might be formed at each course and square off against each of the other two-somes.

Think what an SMU victory over Georgia Tech Saturday night might do to the Cotton Bowl lineup New Year's Day.

The Engineers are the No. 1 team right now with the committee which selects the visiting team.

However, Coach Bobby Dodd of Tech has indicated he might be interested in a Gator Bowl bid.

Paul Governali may be the next coach at Columbia University. He's now serving his apprenticeship at San Diego State.

There's talk the Washington American League franchise will be moved either to Los Angeles or San Francisco within five years.

Ole Miss is supposed to have the fastest college football team in the country this year.

Iowa's Hawkeyes should be rough and rugged by 1957. Only four of Coach Forest Evashevski's first 22 players this year are seniors.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Nationals, says the Pacific Coast League now plays no better baseball than the Class A Sally League.

Atlanta To Meet Houston Bisons

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Crackers, Southern Assn. champions, meet Houston, the best in the Texas League, in the best-of-7 Dixie Series at Ponce de Leon Park here tomorrow night.

The Crackers rode past Memphis last night 4-1 on Earl Mosser's pressure six-hit pitching in the seventh and deciding game of the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Manager Clyde King's Atlantans, down three games to one in the Memphis series, eliminated a comeback by taking advantage of a fourth-inning break to produce their runs, all unearned on three hits off Memphis starter Marion Fricano.

Knott To Host Forsan Buffs

KNOTT (SC)—Knott seeks its first six-man football victory of the year here this evening, meeting Forsan, a team that has yet to suffer a defeat.

Coach Morris Molpus will again lean heavily upon the throwing arm of Woody Long, Knott's all-district chunker, who guided the Hill Billies to their first conference championship last season.

Forsan, who have vanquished Ackerly and Flower Grove in games to date, will counter with a versatile offense.

Pat Brunton is the running star of the Buffaloes while George White, Tony Starr and others take care of the passing.

The Knott team received bad news this week when it was announced that Pat McPaul, sophomore center, had been lost for the season with a dislocated hip. He is in a Big Spring hospital.

Freddie Graham has been moved from end to center by Molpus. Buck McNew and Luther White will alternate at Graham's end position.

Bruce Parker, starting end, has been out of school with a bad cold but returned to classes Thursday and is due to play.

Tonight's contest starts at 8 o'clock.

Another Player Leaves Oklahoma

DALLAS (AP)—Frank Holey, former Dallas Forest High School football star who went to Oklahoma and quit because "I didn't like it up there, when I got hurt and they wouldn't do much about it," planned to go to Austin today to see about entering the University of Texas.

Bullpups Trim Roby, 7-0 For Third Straight Win

ROBY (SC)—The Coahoma Bullpups rolled up their third straight football victory under their new coach, Billy McGuire, here Thursday night, turning back Roby Junior High, 7-0.

Tom Hodnett scored the lone touchdown of the game in the second quarter on a four-yard lunge into the line. The play climaxed a 60-yard drive.

Gordon Finley added the point on a run.

Coahoma recovered five Roby fumbles and did not lose a one of its own.

Mike Pate, Sam Buchanan and Robert Cearley played outstanding defensive ball for Coahoma.

The Bullpups, who now have scored 47 points in three games to six for the opposition, play Roscoe at home next Thursday.

Coahoma is currently undefeated in two seasons.

Tatum's Tarheels Seek Big Upset In Norman

The Associated Press

Football Coach Jim Tatum gets his second chance of 1956 to play "ole man upset" when his North Carolina Tarheels meet defending national champion Oklahoma tomorrow.

Just over nine months later, Tatum, now drawing his diagrams for his alma mater, North Carolina, finds himself sending his once-beaten Tarheels against the Sooners who are primed and ready to lay claim to a second national championship and Notre Dame's untarnished record of 39 victories without defeat.

Elsewhere in the nation, many of the top teams are also opening their schedules this weekend.

Friday night South Carolina, already winner of two games, one the heralded 7-0 upset of Duke, takes on one of the country's top independent's, Miami, while on the west coast Southern California, rated No. 6 in the weekly Associated Press poll clashes with Oregon State.

Saturday's schedule provides a multitude of top games with top national interest centered at Dallas where upstart Southern Methodist, upset conqueror of Notre Dame and the No. 5 team in the nation plays host to the Engineers from Georgia Tech. Tech holds a triumph over Kentucky this season and is presently runner up to Oklahoma for national honors.

The nation's current No. 3 team, Michigan State, opens its season at Palo Alto where Stanford's Indians are supposed to be the cream left on the Coast after the recent scandals.

The East will be treated to the formal "first year" of the Ivy League as Columbia and Brown meet at Baker Field in New York. Cornell goes outside the loop to

Veteran Tech Invades SMU

The Associated Press

SMU's brash young men have the chance for the second straight week of striking a resounding blow for Southwest Conference football prestige.

The Methodists got in a mighty lick last week when they knocked down Notre Dame 19-13 to vault into the national rankings. They tackle what appears to be an even stronger challenge Saturday night in Georgia Tech, the No. 2 team in the country.

The SMU-Georgia Tech game, scheduled for the Cotton Bowl at Dallas before upwards of 40,000 fans, headlines a shortened but important Southwest Conference schedule.

Texas A&M will be in Baton Rouge playing Louisiana State. Texas will be in New Orleans swiping at Tulane and Arkansas will be at home to Oklahoma A&M.

meet highly-rated Colgate and Dartmouth meets New Hampshire. Yale plays Connecticut.

But the top Eastern game promises to be at Syracuse where the Orange, No. 7 nationally, take on No. 10 Pittsburgh.

In other games, Army should open its season on a winning note against weak Virginia Military while Navy should do the same with William & Mary.

In the South Mississippi, No. 8, takes on Kentucky and Duke, smarting from its opening day loss, meets Virginia. Penn and Penn State continue their rivalry in the East and Ohio State plays Nebraska. Illinois opens against California and Indiana and Iowa open their Big Ten season. Michigan clashes with the depleted forces of UCLA.

Texas Christian ranked fourth nationally is the only top ten team idle.

The Shriners Are Coming!

Yes, approximately 2,500 Nobles of the Shrine, Novices and their ladies will converge upon Big Spring next week, for the Fall Ceremonial of the Suez Temple, October 5-6.

This great gathering for ritual and fun will attract West Texans from a wide area, meeting in Big Spring for such an affair for the first time. It means one of the greatest convention crowds in the city in many, many years.

WELCOME TO THE SHRINERS

Big Spring's official greeting to visiting Shriners will be extended through a special section of The Herald on Friday, October 5.

Many business houses and individuals will have their greetings in this section, which will be available to all Shriners as a memento of their Ceremonial in Big Spring.

You'll want to have a message in The Herald, to join in making these visitors feel welcome. Just call The Herald advertising department, AM 4-4331, and a representative will be happy to assist you with your message.

The Babe Knew For Months Her Fight Was Hopeless

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
GALVESTON (AP)—"Babe never really asked God for too much," big George sobbed.

He stood in a hospital corridor beside a stainless steel cartload of medicines, cotton pads and steel forceps. Four doors down the corridor, his wife, Babe Didrikson Zaharias, lay dying of cancer, which took her life near dawn yesterday.

"When she prayed she asked Him to ease the pain of everyone . . . not just her own. She never asked Him to win any tournaments for her . . . She just prayed to Him to let her get well and she would do the rest."

"She never wanted anything but life," big George Zaharias said, and wept silently as he looked through a window at the blue Gulf of Mexico.

By turning her tortured face only slightly, The Babe could see the Gulf, too. By now, though, even the slight movement of her head was an effort. Cancer had wasted her wondrous physique from 145 pounds to 80. She stared at the green walls and cream ceiling of her room—409. Silent except for her labored breathing.

Not for more than two months had the greatest woman athlete of the half century, as sports writers called her, been out of the hospital bed.

A doctor paused a moment before opening the door to The Babe's room.

"Yes, Mrs. Zaharias has known for months that her case is hopeless," he said. "No, she never mentions it . . . She is a tremendously brave person."

As the doctor entered her room, The Babe smiled weakly and whispered: "Well, what can you do for me today?"

"I can only advise you to rest," the physician responded cheerfully, seating himself in a leather chair.

STILL SMILED
"Is that all you have to offer?" Her lips still held the faint smile.

"That's about all, I'm afraid." When the doctor left he gave an order putting The Babe under continuous oxygen. "She is weakening rapidly," he said.

Big George, wearing a yellow sports shirt, crowded his 290 pounds into an elevator for a trip to the ground floor.

"I got to get out of here a minute," he said, pulling at a thoroughly cauliflowered ear. "After just so long, I can't take it. We'll drive over and get my laundry."

The laundry wasn't quite ready. George told the laundromat owner he would be back shortly.

"I don't know why I gave a thought to the laundry," George mused as he headed his car over to a boulevard along the Gulf.

Then he said: "This is what she loves to do . . . ride along here and look at the water. It was a big thing to her, but finally it was taken away, along with all the other things."

"Babe always lived full," George went on. "She lived to full operation. When she got sick, she gave up everything as little as possible but every day she had to give up something. She loved those Swedish meatballs her sister, Lillie Grimes, used to bring her, and then she had to stop eating and they started feeding her through the veins. She liked to watch TV but finally she had to quit watching it and could only listen. Then came the day when she couldn't even listen any more and the TV set was turned off, for good."

"There used to be a lot of talking in her room. She and Lillie were always talking about old times in Beaumont, Texas . . . like when Lillie would run along the sidewalks of Doucett Street while Babe jumped the hedges."

SHOWS ABOUT OVER
"Now, there's not much talking. No more anecdotes, no more cute sayings, no more nothing. The show's about over. She has given up everything, little by little, until all she has left now to give is her last breath!"

A look of utter hopelessness crossed his features.

"Today, nobody is kidding anybody," George said. "Babe knows the score." He could hardly go on. "Oh, she knows."

The car again arrived at the laundromat. George opened the door and started to get out. Then he suddenly slammed the door and sped away.

"I don't know what I'm doing, thinking about that damned laundry today, of all days," he muttered fiercely. "I don't care if I never get it."

The first cancer that attacked The Babe was a rectal malignancy and it gave its initial warnings as early as October, 1952, big George remembered.

"She was tiring easily and she started passing some blood. I kept begging her to see a doctor but she gave first one excuse then another. We were on tour and finally she said she wanted to wait and go to her family doctor in Beaumont. I tried to get her to fly to Beaumont from several places, but she didn't do it."

"She didn't see the doctor until April 1953. She waited too late."

Surgery, to stop the spread of the rectal cancer, was performed at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Beaumont, April 17, 1953. The Babe recovered in time to win the National Women's Open in 1954 at Peabody, Mass.

"Oh, how she worked for that," big George said. "She'd play 36 holes a day and then practice more. I don't know how she stood up to it. She thanked God for making her well so she could play."

FIRST ADMISSION
Mrs. Zaharias was first admitted to John Sealy Hospital here April 22, 1954, for X-ray pictures. She stayed only one day.

On June 17, 1955, she returned to the hospital to have a ruptured disc removed from her spine. She had injured herself pushing a car out of sand. The disc was removed June 22, 1955. Then additional X-ray pictures were taken.

That was when the new malignant tumor was discovered in the sacrum, the wedge-shaped bone at the base of the spine. X-ray therapy was started. She left the hospital Sept. 14, 1955 and went to her new home in Florida and doctors knew that her days were numbered.

On Nov. 27, 1955, The Babe came back to John Sealy for additional X-ray therapy. She was discharged from the hospital the day before Christmas but was readmitted Dec. 28. She was suffering chest pains.

Physicians feared that cancer had invaded her lungs, but no tumor was found. She left the hospital Jan. 28 and was readmitted for the last time, March 29, 1956, for further X-ray treatment.

Pain became more intense. In July, an operation called the cordotomy was proposed to The Babe. In this, pain-carrying nerves at the base of the neck are severed so that the full agony of the lower body is not transmitted to the brain.

"I must warn you that in some cases, persons who submit to this operation are never able to walk again," the surgeon warned Babe.

"I'll take my chances," she related. "If I must stay in bed, I might as well be as comfortable as possible."

She took her final steps July 13. Haltingly this woman who had been among the brightest of all Olympic track stars walked from her bed and mounted a rolling cart, to be wheeled to the operating room for the cordotomy.

FORTITUDE
"Here we go again," she sang out to nurses who were watching, and her fortitude wrenched their hearts.

On Aug. 6 an operation was performed to relieve an obstruction of the lower bowel.

"It was another cancer," the surgeon, Dr. Robert M. Moore, said. "Malignancies had spread me, setting everything straight. You ought to see the way she does it. . . quite like so I won't notice and get my feelings hurt. She's so gracious and sweet . . . that's the reason people love her like they do."

Big George wiped his eyes. "I watch strangers in front of her door, saying prayers for her. Every mail brings boxloads of letters. She asked me the other day: 'How's the mail, George . . . are people still remembering us?'"

"Are we getting mail?" I told her. . . "Honey, you're still the main event. She's the main event to me. You can put that down . . . There'll never be any other main event for George Zaharias. There's nothing I wouldn't do for The Babe, nothing under the sun. But here I am standing around helpless."

"Lots of the mail we get tells about so-called cures. Some people beg me to take The Babe to shrines in Europe. The way I feel about that is God must be in Galveston as well as in Europe. We need His mercy here just as much as it is possible to need mercy. All there is left now is our prayers to Him. When it comes to cancer, the doctors know only so much. They do everything they know to do and after that they are just men standing around like me."

As the day wore on, The Babe's condition became increasingly grave. Relatives were summoned to the bedside.

Big George paced the hospital corridor. "There is so much left unfinished," he said, "so many things The Babe planned to do. She was going to have her brother and sisters over to that brand new house in Tampa, Florida . . . the one she designed herself. And after that, Babe and I were going on a world tour."

THE END COMES
Night fell. The doctor visited The Babe's room. When he emerged, he said: "It is only a question of time, now."

So labored was The Babe's breathing it was audible for some distance up and down the hall. Big George tiptoed into the room. His wife's eyes seemed amazingly large and bright in her gaunt face.

She whispered: "I can't talk, honey. I have to conserve my strength."

George came out of the room and walked far down the corridor. He punched one big fist into the other palm. He seemed like a man freshly awakened from a long dream.

"Good God," he said hoarsely. "I didn't know until right now how great she really is! The last round has begun and she knows it's the last round and she's in there giving it all she's got!"

Hours later, The Babe opened her eyes and saw big George standing beside her. "I ain't gonna die, honey," she whispered, and gasped. The five words that cost a great effort.

They were her final words. Three hours later she slept away into death. It was 6:34 a.m., Sept. 27, and the blue waters of the Gulf outside her window glistened with the sunlight of a new day.

The breathing stopped and her husband, there at the side of her bed, waited desperately for the next breath that never came. She was gone.

Pale and shaken, big George shuffled out of the room into the tiled corridor.

"Her agony is over," he said. "The suffering is ended. God's will be done."

PERFECT WIFE
"Babe has been a perfect wife. She's a great cook and she can sew and she loves to clean house. She's a perfectionist in those things, too . . . just like she was in athletics. I'll miss the house up and then she'll come along behind

Adlai Hits Again At Ike For High Cost Of Living

By The Associated Press
Adlai Stevenson hit again at the Eisenhower administration today for the cost of living which he has said is "higher today than it has ever been."

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, made a mid-day speech in Indianapolis, Ind.,—one of the "belly issues" of the campaign.

Later, Stevenson planned to fly to Milwaukee for a nationwide television speech tonight. His subject there was not announced beforehand.

President Eisenhower, the man Stevenson hopes to unseat Nov. 6, was busy in Washington with official duties. His next major political activity will come Monday when he visits Cleveland and then makes a nationally televised

Marine Mimics Voices, Sounds

The United States Marine Corps is proud of the versatility and talent of its members...

Porter, recruiter at Odessa for the USMC, has developed an act based on his imitations of various musical instruments...

He had the Big Spring Kiwanis club members enthralled and raving for 45 minutes Friday with this program...

From that time on he mimicked musical instruments, gave imitations of animals and motor cars and inserted hilarious mis-interpretations of famous speakers and politicians.

He was presented by Harve Clay, Kiwanis president.

Britain Explodes Atomic Weapon

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Britain exploded an atomic weapon today at its new Maralinga proving ground in Australia.

"Scientific records are being collected for accurate evaluation and all safety precautions are in operation," the announcement said.

The Maralinga tests had been held up for several weeks because of bad weather.

It is believed the devices being tested are destined to become warheads in guided weapons being developed in British factories and tested at Australia's Woomera rocket range, adjoining Maralinga.

For the first time a group of American military observers witnessed a British atomic test.

Red Papers Hit New Low In Circulation

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
PARIS (AP)—Every day some 40 Communist and fellow-traveling dailies hit the newsstands of Western Europe despite financial troubles and ideological problems. Their combined circulation has tumbled to about one third of what it was in the first postwar years. Their lot has become more difficult ever since Russia's bosses launched the current de-Stalinization party line. Confusion as to what's going on in the Kremlin was so acute that even L'Humanite, top Communist party organ in France, complained Moscow was not keeping the faithful informed.

L'Humanite — and other Red papers in the West — protested that the first authoritative abstracts of party boss Nikita Khrushchev's anti-Stalin speech to the 20th party Congress came from the U. S. State Department. Other Communist newspapers for a long time refused to follow Moscow's Pravda in attacking Stalin. Some did it months later, others are still groping.

Lack of advertising and lack of readers plague Western Europe's Red press just as badly as the shifting party line. Every few months one of the smaller papers discovers that it cannot compete with the independent press or the journals of other parties. Most recent collapse is Vienna's Der Abend.

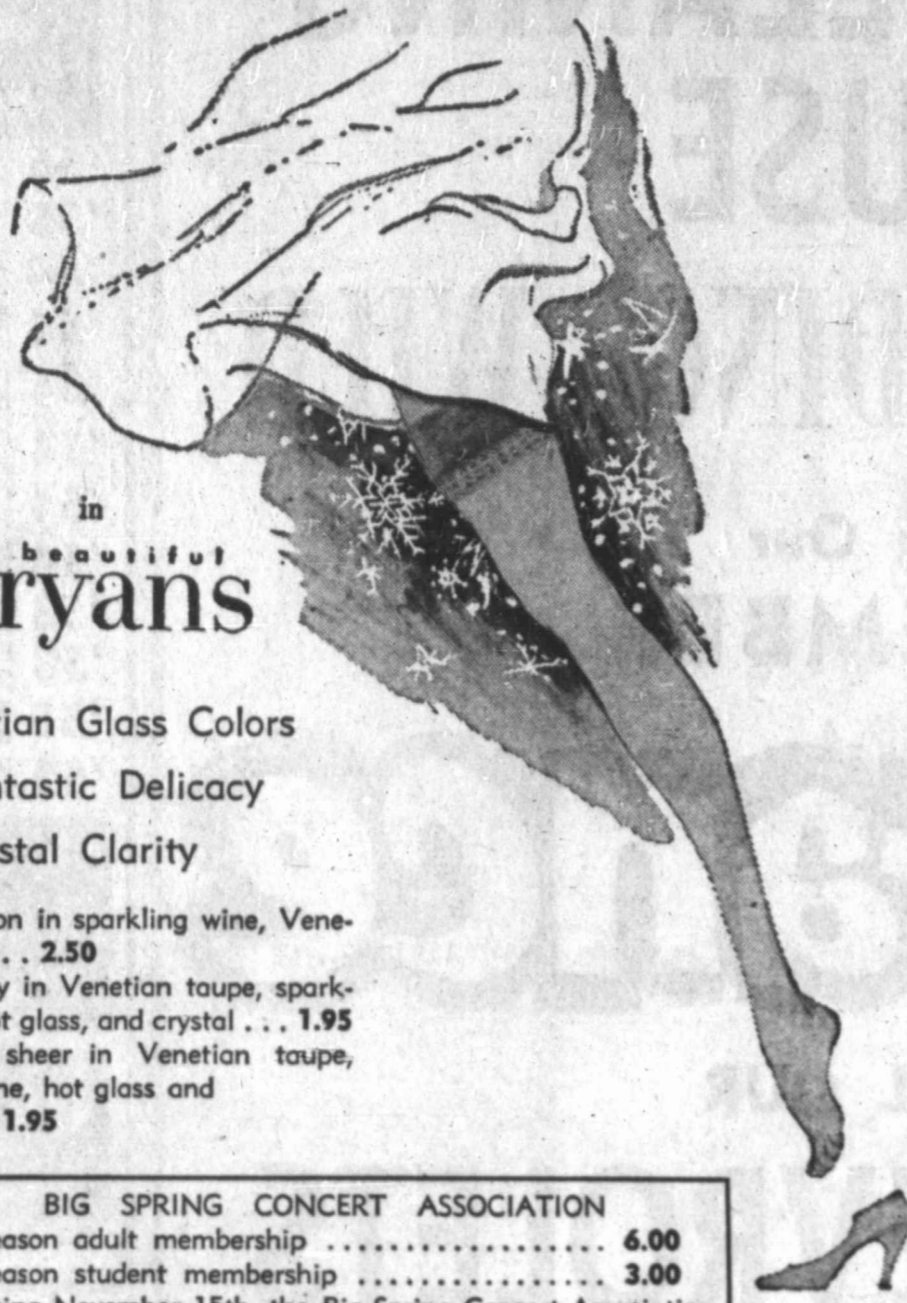

In Italy, three important Communist dailies collapsed financially in the past two years—in Milan, Florence, Leghorn. The most important Italian Communist daily, L'Unita, is published in Rome, Milan, Turin and Genoa. Its combined weekday circulation varies between 275,000 and 285,000.

In France L'Humanite is still relatively strong. Its circulation now stands at about 167,000. An important Paris Communist-line daily is Liberation, with a circulation of about 134,000. There are 11 Communist dailies outside Paris.

The most influential English-language daily is London's Daily Worker, which has a circulation of 80,000 compared with 250,000 just after the war.

In Sweden and Norway the Red press is negligible. In Austria and Switzerland it is also slipping. In Holland the party organ De Waarheid is down to 70,000 from a post-war 250,000.

Zaharias Receives Flood Of Sympathy

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—A virtual flood of telegrams and notes of sympathy were received today by George Zaharias from admirers and friends of his famous wife, Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who died Thursday.

Harry Moffitt, president of the Professional Golfers Assn. of America wired:

"Our entire association deeply regrets the passing of your beloved Babe. She was a great American as well as a great sportsman and golfer. Her contribution to the world in these fields will be remembered with fondest affection and gratitude by the millions she inspired through her good life and remarkable courage."

Griffin Hawkins, former head of the Louisiana State Boxing Commission said, "Babe is not dead. God wants her to grace the fairways of heaven."

Former golfer great Bobby Jones wired: "The entire sports world will want to share your sorrow. The Babe was a wonderful person whose gallantry shone in everything she did. Her life and the wonderful comradeship you two enjoyed has been an inspiration everywhere."

Fred Corcoran, the Babe's personal manager who is flying to Beaumont for the funeral, said:

"The whole world is sorry over Babe's death."

Dr. G. A. W. Currie, administrator of John Sealy Hospital, where Babe ended her fight against cancer, said: "The entire staff of the hospital, not only the professional staff, but people who only had opportunity to serve her indirectly, deeply felt the void which the death of Babe Zaharias has left. 'She was a great person, not only as an outstanding athlete, but as an individual, and there is no doubt that she was one of the best patients any hospital ever had.'"

Harry Paton of the Saturday Evening Post, who wrote Babe's autobiography, "This Life I've Led," wired: "I've just heard the news about the Babe we have been fearing for so long. She was the greatest of all the way."

Will Harridge, and members of the American Baseball League, Chicago, said, "Babe's name will always stand for all that is best in sports."

The Golf Assn. of Puerto Rico wired: "All Puerto Rican golfers mourn Babe's passing and join in your bereavement."

The staff of the Honolulu Globe said, "May her unbelievable accomplishments be an inspiration to all who seek the infinitesimal quality of perfection."

The fugitives, including leaders of the socialist Falange party, main opposition to Bolivia's government overpowered their guards over Bolivia yesterday while being flown to a concentration camp near La Paz. One of the prisoners took over the controls and flew the government airliner, a four-engine DC4, the 450 miles to Salta.

Salta, Argentina (AP)—Forty-seven bedraggled but defiant Bolivian political prisoners, interned here after seizing their captors' plane in flight, pressed an appeal today for asylum in Argentina.

Boy Prefers Operation To Cancer Death

ATLANTA (AP)—A child's small voice has been added to the debate between his divorced parents as to whether they should trade his remaining cancerous eye for a chance to live.

"I would rather be operated on than die," 5-year-old Johnny Pair was quoted last night by his mother.

Doctors have said that unless Johnny's right eye is removed soon, he will lose what vision he has left and it then will be too late to save his life.

Johnny's left eye was removed two years ago when he first was found to be a victim of cancer.

The mother, Mrs. Bessie Pair, favors the operation. Arnold Pair, the father, at first said he disapproved, but now says he is "thinking it over."

Doctors have told the parents that the consent of each must be given for the operation. And even if the operation is performed, they added, there is no assurance of Johnny's survival.

Johnny told me that the doctor told him he had to be operated on or die," Mrs. Pair said. "I told him I knew the doctor didn't tell him, but he insisted and said, 'I'd rather be operated on than die.'"

Then the mother added: "I don't know how he found out about it."

Friends surmised that Johnny apparently learned of his condition and the question of an operation from classmates at his nursery school or heard it reported on radio or television.

Northeast Is Due Some High Winds

NEW YORK (AP)—The Northeast, apparently safe from the weakening storm Flossy, is in for some nor'easter weather today extending from Cape May, N.J., to Cape Ann, Mass.

The Washington Weather Bureau at 6 a. m. termed Flossy "a diffuse elongated center of light winds" expected to continue moving slowly northeastward over the Atlantic Ocean.

Winds were termed strongest along the Delaware-New Jersey coast, with gusts up to 40 miles per hour. High winds were expected all along the New England coast.

Storm warnings still were out from Cape May to Cape Ann, and high tides in coastal areas were predicted.

The bureau said, however, only minor flooding was expected. Occasional rain and some windiness were forecast for the New York metropolitan area.

Moderate rains also were predicted from Virginia northeastward across New Jersey and southeastern Pennsylvania into southern New England. Rains were expected to spread northward in New England today and tonight.

Showers fell in most of the Pacific northwest but more pleasant weather prevailed from the Eastern Plains to the Appalachians.

There was a little cooling in northern areas across Montana and North Dakota, with temperatures some 20 degrees lower than 24 hours earlier. The 43-degree reading at Great Falls, Mont., was 27 degrees lower than yesterday morning.

The cooler air also invaded the far Northwest with most readings in the 40s or low 50s.

Unseasonably warm weather continued in the Central Plains and Mississippi Valley with early morning temperatures in the 70s extending northward across eastern Nebraska and Iowa into southern Minnesota.

Old Boom Town Takes Modern Air

YELLOWKNIFE, Northwest Territories (AP)—When gold was discovered here 22 years ago, Yellowknife became a Klondike-style boom town. Today far richer finds in uranium and base metals have changed the place into a streamlined modern community.

Part of old Yellowknife still remains—a sprawl of prospectors' shacks, stores and warehouses now mainly a headquarters for bush pilots and river men of the Canadian Northwest.

But around it a new town has grown. Here a modern water system links the homes and business of its 3,000 inhabitants. A gleaming new federal building and town hall outline these boasted by most prairie towns. Some 500 cars, buses and trucks travel over 75 miles of new road.

"This is a young man's country," says Mayor Fred Henney, former labor organizer who came here in 1947 and stayed to become a successful businessman.

Mining experts say gold is a mere nugget in a vast treasure house of minerals which covers more than a quarter of Canada.

As yet, prospectors and mining companies have barely scratched the surface in the 1,305,000 square miles of the Northwest Territories. But they are making slow progress.

This summer diamond drills probed-promising mineral deposits in the barren lands within 90 miles of the Arctic Ocean.

Kennarctic Explorations, Ltd., has launched an extensive drilling program northwest of Bathurst Inlet, 1,000 miles north of Edmonton.

About the same distance above the Alberta capital at Burnt Lake, Pickle Crow Mines has crews working on a 450-mile concession which promises rich copper deposits.

Nickel and Uranium mines are being pushed to the production stage in the territories. Rayrock Mines, Ltd., 85 miles northwest of Yellowknife, will become the territories' second producer of uranium within a few months.

Perhaps most significant to the future of the area are the Pine Point zinc-lead deposits on the south shore of Great Slave Lake. It is believed to contain more than 60 million tons of the minerals, and will be mined as soon as a railroad is built from the south.

But the pace of exploratory work is slow. Distance, climate, transport and power are all problems.

Human Chain Halts Traffic

Workmen of the Philadelphia Transportation Company system form a human chain as they walk along the elevated tracks on the 69th Street elevated stopping all subway-elevated traffic between terminals. The stoppage came after a workman was discharged. Fellow workmen claim he was fired because he was "one minute late" for work but a company spokesman said his overall "poor work record" prompted the discharge. Riders on the subway-elevated were transferred to buses.

County Officials Counting On Pay Hike First Thing In 1956

Provided the new County Commissioners Court of Howard County, which will be organized in January, sees fit to go along, there will be a little bigger monthly paycheck for all elective county officials, all of their deputies and clerical aides, for the justices of the peace and for the county engineer.

Only the county commissioner themselves will not share in the pay increase. That proposal died two or three weeks ago by a 2 to 2 vote of the present Commissioners Court.

A reread of the minutes of the meeting at which the 1957 county budget was considered and approved by the commissioners revealed that some confusion could be erased over possible pay boosts for certain officials.

Actually, the budget, as it stands approved for 1957, will include enough revenue to boost all elective county officials pay — with the exception of the county treasurer — a flat 20 per cent.

Such officials are now receiving $500 a month. If the proposed increases are approved by the pay setting meet of the new commissioners court in January, these checks will increase to $600.

This is not the case of the county treasurer, however. That elective official receives $400 a month at present. Under the present plans, her pay could be increased to $450 per month.

For the clerical help in the elective offices and for the official deputies of the several departments, a flat $10 per month across the board is planned. This does not include maintenance crews, it was said. Nor are there any funds earmarked for the constables to get more money.

Their colleagues, the justices of the peace, will benefit by an ante of $25 per month under the plans as they now stand, however.

It had been moved at the meeting at which the budget was under consideration that the county commissioners themselves be given a pay raise. When such a motion was called for a vote two commissioners—Arthur Stallings and Earl Hull voted for it and Ralph Proctor and Red Gilliam voted against it. This left 2-2 tie vote.

County Judge R. H. Weaver voted with the negative faction and the proposed pay boost died on the vine. Gilliam proposed a second motion that the commissioners pay be increased by a flat 20 per cent in harmony with the pay increases promised to other elective officials, but the motion did not get a second.

The county engineer was promised an increase from his present $500 per month to $600.

When the new board forms after Jan. 1, two of the present members will no longer be members. Stallings did not run for re-election. Hudson Landers will succeed him to his seat on the board. P. O. Hughes defeated Ralph Proctor for re-election and will represent that district on the board.

It is stipulated by law that the

Needle In Heart Aid To Medicine

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sticking a six-inch needle through the breastbone into the heart sounds lethal, but physicians are using the procedure in the fight to save lives among cardiac patients.

The technique, enabling better X-ray pictures of the heart, was described by Dr. J. Stauffer, Lehman of Philadelphia yesterday at the American Roentgen Ray Society meeting.

The hollow needle is used to squirt an opaque material into heart valves. While the needle is in the heart as many as 12 X-ray pictures can be taken in three minutes.

No deaths have occurred in 77 such examinations, Dr. Lehman reported. He said there is no pain. Patients are given a few special sleeping pills and some novocaine is applied to the chest; the heart is punctured while patients are conscious.

Babe Excelled At Other Things Besides Sports

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Before she was struck down by cancer, Babe Didrikson Zaharias established herself as the greatest woman athlete of all-time, but her greatest pride didn't come from her Olympic medals and myriad championships.

"I've never seen a crossword puzzle I couldn't work in 30 minutes," she used to boast, but, with her it never had the ring of a brag.

She could type 80 words a minute, whip up a batch of biscuits on a moment's notice and cook Swedish meatballs—her specialty—which would melt in your mouth. She once threw a baseball 296 feet and struck out the great Joe DiMaggio.

WORKED OUT
The latter occasion was at Yankee Stadium where the Babe was hired to give a golf demonstration. She decided she'd like to work out with the team.

Someone suggested she should pitch to Joe DiMaggio. The Yankee Clipper, a retiring sort, demurred. Finally he was forced into it and, with jaw clamped, he went to bat to pole one out of the park.

He fouled off two pitches and on the third the Babe shot a fast one past DiMaggio's ear. DiMaggio fell back, swinging his bat in defense. It was called a strikeout.

At the same game, with 72,000 in the stands, the Babe decided she'd like to do a little fielding at third base — in her tight-fitting skirt. She went wide for a grounder and the skirt split all the way to the waist.

DOVE FOR DUGOUT
"I dove for the dugout," she said later with a broad grin. "I wasn't going to give any striptease for a $3 tops."

In 1937 the fabulous Texan pitched in an exhibition game with the St. Louis Cardinals against the Philadelphia Athletics at Bradenton, Fla. — but with less favorable results.

"I pitched to Jimmy Foxx and gave him my hard, high one," she recalled. "He knocked it into the adjoining county but Paul Dean, then playing the outfield, came out of a clump of peach trees with the ball. He said he caught it."

Once at an outdoor show in Boston she took on Ted Williams and ex-heavyweight champ Jack Sharkey in a fly-casting contest. The Babe won with unerring marksmanship and later remarked: "All that Williams can do is bat."

NATURAL APTITUDE
She had a natural aptitude for sports excellence. She broke 100 the first time she ever played golf, once shot a 64 on a regulation 18-hole course. She tried to get into the men's National Open Golf Tournament but was refused.

The Babe once worked out with the Southern Methodist University football team and awed the athletes with her left-footed kicking. She was good enough at billiards to make a cross-country tour.

Another Fad
Once the Babe decided she'd like to be the world's champion skier. So she started workouts, first on small hills, then on progressively larger ones, but before she could achieve her aim, another fad caught her imagination.

Back in 1931 an enterprising promoter cooked up the idea of a boxing match between Miss Didrikson and the brother of Young Stribling, a ranking heavyweight contender. The fight never came off.

"I'm retiring from the ring," the Babe said. "I'm 18 now, you know, and I intend to be a lady."

Tomorrow: Lipstick and lace for the Babe.

Air Force Lifts Blanket On B52s

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's B52 heavy bombers may take to the air again as rapidly as each plane passes a "rigid inspection of the internal systems."

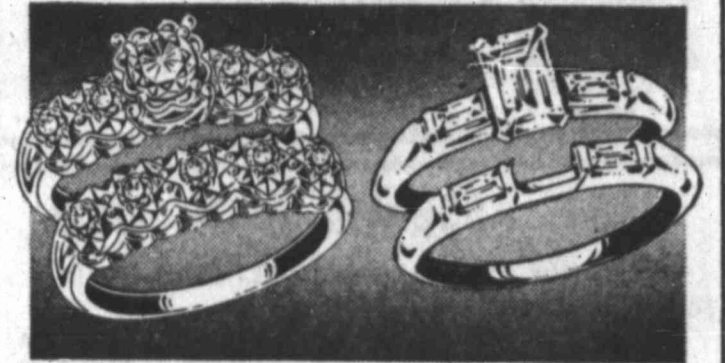

The Air Force imposed that condition as it lifted a blanket order which had grounded all the big jet planes for more than a week. The grounding was ordered as a precautionary measure after one of the planes crashed Sept. 17 near Madera, Calif., killing five crew members.

Frigidaire Float-Over Action gets rid of color-dimming dirt, soap-scum and lint

Turns out the whitest, brightest wash you've ever seen. Here's why! Tiny particles of dirt and soap-scum, too fine for a filter to trap, are literally floated out of the tub and down the drain. Like magic, this Float-Over Wash and Rinse Action gets rid of the color-dimming film on clothes, restores their "just bought" look. The final rinse water in a Frigidaire Automatic is almost as clear as tap water. You can tell the difference, when you see the clothes. Beyond the shadow of a doubt these new Frigidaire Automatics are the "savings" washers ever built. Come see them in action, today.

See the new Frigidaire '57 Automatic Washers

Spectacular New Control Tower—just one setting puts the whole wash, rinse and drying spin into operation.

Saves Hot Water—enough in a year to do 100 extra loads—enough detergent for 125 extra washes. Think of the money this one special feature will save!

Saves Clothes—Wash everything that's washable—safely, thoroughly, without rubbing. Fabulous Rub-Free Action gets everything—from fragile man-made fabrics to heavy-duty cottons—spanking clean without rubbing. Clothes last longer.

Saves Drying Time. Spins clothes practically dry—Many ready to iron immediately. Frigidaire Rapidry Spin whirls more water out of every load than any other method. Clothes dry faster, are easier to handle.

Saves Washing Time! The Frigidaire Automatic does 3 loads in time other well-known washers do two.

More "Most Wanted" Features—Lifetime Porcelain finish, inside and out; Cold and Warm water rinse; Fully Flexible Controls; Underwater Bleach Cup and Suds Distributor; Reliable no-belt, no-pulley mechanism.

M., and will be home on leave this weekend.

The Great Invitation
LITTLE CHILDREN AND ALL HUMAN BEINGS MAY OPEN THEIR HEARTS TO CHRIST

Scripture—Mark 10:13-16; Revelation 3:20; 21:1-22:21

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE FIRST part of today's lesson telling of Jesus blessing little children is one the younger members of the class will readily understand and love. It occurred in February, 30 A.D.
Mothers brought their little children to Jesus that He might touch them, but the disciples seemed not to like this, and they rebuked the mothers.
When Jesus saw this He was displeased and said to the disciples, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not; for such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein."
"And He took them up in His arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them."
I wonder if these children, when they grew up remembered Him and His blessing, and would tell their friends about it as a lovely remembrance of their childhood? Did they become His disciples? We cannot know, but of all the stories in the Scriptures of our Lord's life, this is one of the loveliest.
How can people be unkind to little children? Occasionally, we read in our newspaper of a parent who beat a child so severely that the child had to be hospitalized and sometimes died.
The child may have cried long and hard, or been disobedient, as children are sometimes, but the parent's uncontrolled rage was much more of a sin than the child's fault. Could such a parent ever forgive himself or be happy again after such an act?
In the book of Revelation—the last book in our Bible and written during the last decade of the first century—Christ says: "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him and he with Me."
This applies to everyone, from the smallest and youngest to the oldest. He wants to help us all.

THEY WON'T BE LATE!

Maybe they were slow in dressing ... probably they dawdled a bit over breakfast ... but if you know the gait of those little legs you can be sure they won't be late.

This is one of the fascinating paradoxes of youth. A child may have to be prodded to get to school on time—yet he doesn't want to be late!

And the paradox has implication for parents as they plan the religious education of their children. Jimmy may seem reluctant about his first trip to Church School ... and Susan may shed a tear when Mother "leaves" her in the Beginners' Department. But wise parents never delay their youngsters' religious training. It is unfair to handicap a child with a late start in the vital process of moral and spiritual growth.

Inquire at the church of your choice, and bring your child to Church School as soon as he is of age.

And, remember, parents need religious training too! If you do not now attend Church regularly, start with Jimmy and Susan.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Bible Thought For Today

He hath said in his heart, God hath forgotten: he hideth his face; he will never see it. (Psalms 10:11)

Editorial

Combatting The Litterbugs

Garden clubs in Big Spring are taking the lead, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce beautification committee, in a campaign against "litterbugs."

This drive, which is a continuing one with any number of promotions and activities, is designed primarily to keep streets and highways cleaner. None can deny that we need it. You are torn between wrath and tears when you drive down our highways and lateral roads and see cans, bottles and assorted trash strewn along the right-of-way.

We can't honestly say a lot more for our streets, for the same lack of civic spirit which leads to littering roads seems to afflict itself upon streets, too.

A lot of this is pure carelessness or thoughtlessness. Things which remind people that good housekeeping is for out-of-doors as well as indoors will help reduce the litter from this source. If we can appeal to the pride of decent people — and most of them are — we can go a long way toward freeing our roads and streets of unsightliness.

This appeal to pride won't have any effect on those who throw out beer cans, bottles, and other refuse from pure carelessness. We have laws against this, but obviously we can't have officers patrolling roads just to watch who throws out cans. The general public could, if it would, help by taking license numbers of those who wantonly create a mess for our roadways. Meantime, we may have to reconcile ourselves to the expense and indignity of picking up after these litterbugs.

Determine If We Will Or Won't

A couple of weeks ago there was a joint meeting of representatives of the various taxing agencies relative to the possibility of concerted action in general revaluation of all properties. The City and Big Spring Independent School District expressed keen interest and a desire to proceed; Howard County commissioners expressed an interest, too, but among the smaller independent and common school districts there was less than an enthusiastic response. In fact, several, if not most, of them indicated they didn't want to disturb the present tables of value.

We might be inclined to think "well, that's that." Perhaps this is a fair conclusion as pertains to the smaller subdivisions, but it is not applicable to the "big three" or certainly to the "big two."

If others can't bring themselves to go along, then the city, local school district and county ought to see what can be done. If the county doesn't feel inclined to join hands, why not the city and schools?

This proposition has been kicked around for a long, long time. The time is about here to determine that we will or we won't do something about the matter. If we will, let's get about it; if we won't, let's stop wasting time debating and exploring the matter.

America Too Busy For Politics

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON — Whirling through the country with a candidate for high office is not the best way to find out what is happening in America. But even though the pace is swift and the view kaleidoscopic, one fact emerges which may be more important than all the speeches of all the candidates put together.

The American people are intensely preoccupied with a phenomenon that is only sporadically reported and usually with little comprehension of its national scope. The face of America is being made over.

In every city and town, new underpasses, by-passes, thruways, new housing developments and shopping centers are being constructed and blighted areas are being cleared to make way for underground parking and for parks and plazas.

This is all very immediate and distracting for the millions who it affects. They can hardly spare the time to think about something so remote as a national election. The new thruway is going to go just half a block away and it will destroy (or enhance) the value of one's house, store, vacant lot.

Because they are caught up in this great national remodeling job, it seems likely that many Americans will not only not bother to listen to what the candidates of the two parties are saying but they will not take the trouble to register and vote.

That is why the consequences of this immense distraction can be so important in November, outweighing the claims of Republicans and Democrats alike. And it is why intensive political organization at the state and local levels could decide the election.

Both parties are aware of this. The chief reason for Vice President Richard M. Nixon's comet-like tour of 23 states is to get party workers off their hands and at the task of door-bell ringing in every precinct.

Because of the nationwide campaigning he did in both 1952 and 1954, Nixon has an intimate knowledge of party leaders in almost every state. He is putting this knowledge to the fullest use, sitting down with Republican workers at every stop to give speeches and public appearances, hearing their complaints, urging them to work harder and setting an example by his own zeal and industry.

Nixon has also been trying to reach the distracted and preoccupied citizen by selling the symbol of Eisenhower — a man above politics, above prejudice, an Olympian figure, yet also warm and human with faith in God and faith in his country.

One thing Nixon will recommend when he returns to Washington is that the President get into as many states as he feels he physically can, not to make speeches but to be seen and to talk in the informal, off-the-cuff fashion that he used at the plowing contest in Iowa.

Most people, it is felt, are too busy to listen to speeches. But they will turn out as they turned out at Des Moines and Newton to see the man whose image is imprinted as hero-statesman and paternalist.

So it is very likely that the last two or three weeks of the campaign will see friendly, smiling Ike with Mamie at his side riding in his car with the transparent plastic bubble through the streets of many American cities.

As for the Democrats, Adlai Stevenson's campaign manager, James Finnegan, put by far the greater stress on intensive organization in the key areas where he believes the election will be lost or won through the efforts of party workers. One of these states is Finnegan's own Pennsylvania where his organization work helped to swing Philadelphia into the Democratic column.

Stevenson will spend the first part of next week whistle-stopping in that state which, with its 23 electoral votes, could provide the margin for the Democrats.

For Republican orators, the face-lifting job going on in America is part of the Eisenhower prosperity and the voter should be fully thankful. But gratitude is not an emotion to be counted on in politics.

The remodeling job is an important phase of the current prosperity. Yet it could keep indifferent and preoccupied voters from the polls.

Taking Away All Our Illusions

You and I live in an age of complete cynicism, according to its constant critics, and small wonder! The 20th Century continues to pick off the eternal virtues like Annie Oakley at a trapshoot.

The ancient beliefs by which our fathers lived are, in this day and age, only so much busted clay around our feet. Today I sit stunned amid another mess of broken crockery, trying to digest the fact that monkeys positively do not throw things, particularly coconuts, at human beings.

Those figures over there going out the window are all the comic strip artists, Hollywood directors, etc., to whom a monkey accurately bouncing a coconut off the head of its victim is an indispensable sequence. The figure in the lead, of course, is Tarzan.

Monkeys are just old butterfingers, says the man, and the man is a Smithsonian Institute mammalogist. Monkeys drop things, and the reason people get hit is because they are stupid enough to get in the way.

Monkeys will never replace relief pitchers, and that's that.

While this intelligence about the monkey business is disquieting, another news story really rocks me. It reports that the average person, meaning you and me, could go broke buying diamonds as an investment. Government bonds or blue chip stocks are a better long term investment than sparklers.

A girl's best friend ain't necessarily so, if she bought it herself as a hedge against future necessities. When she sells it, she will probably get only 42 per cent of its retail price. (You mean this poor kid not only bought the stone herself but didn't even get it wholesale? This babe must be a real dog!)

Sure, there's a steady demand for diamonds, even during a depression, and age cannot wither them. Still and all, the face value of a government bond does increase 25 per cent in 10 years, and why bring up inflation at this point?

Anyway, my plans to put my egg money in diamonds instead of banks as soon as there seemed enough in the old sock to buy a chip are now as dead as my illusions.

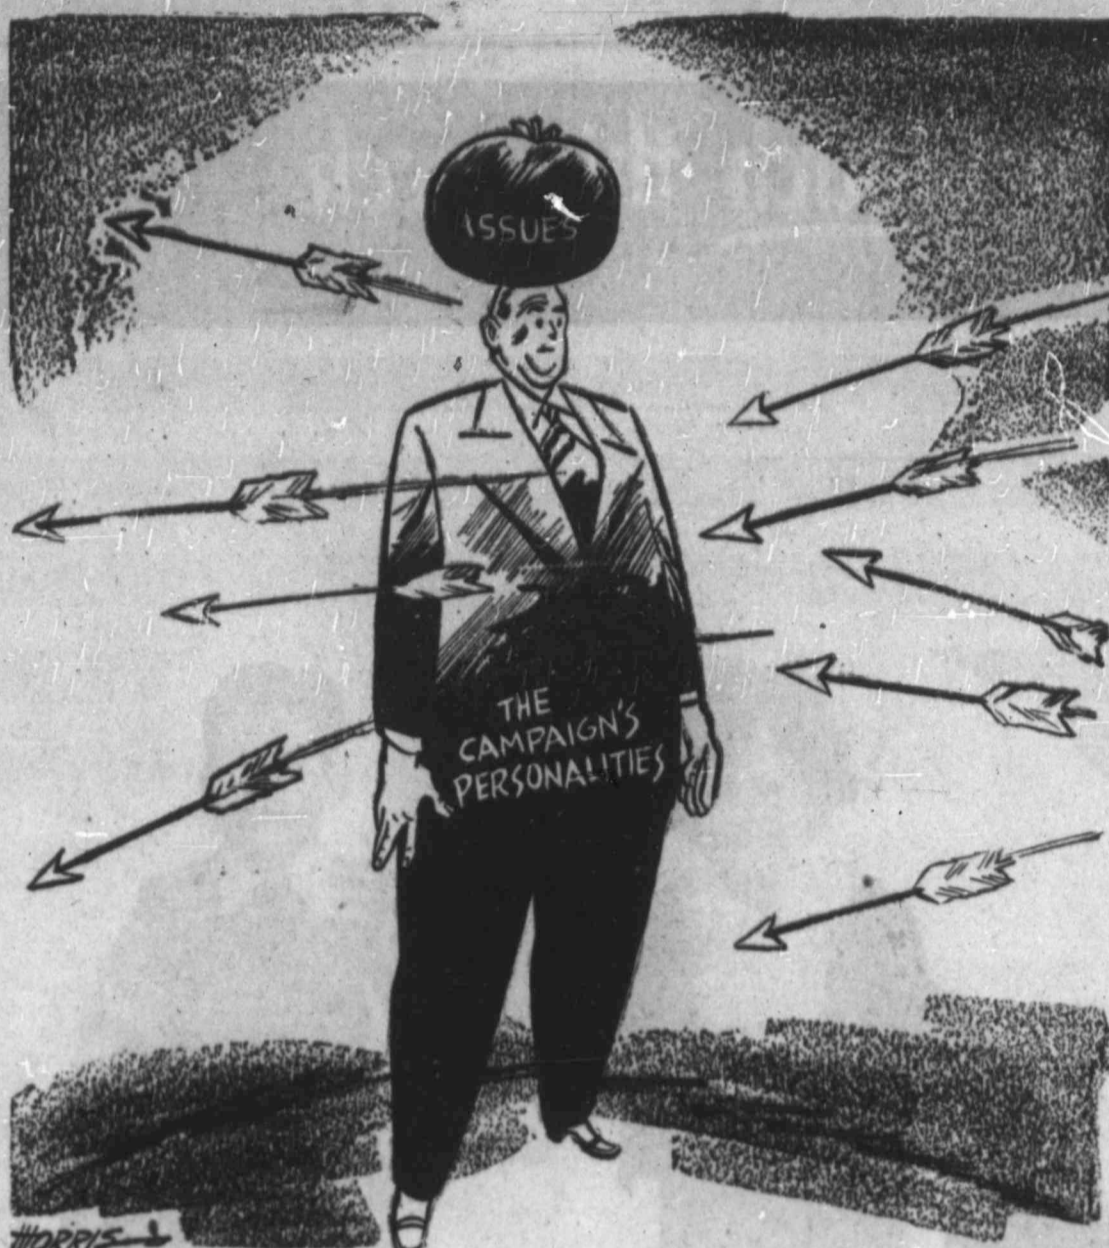

I try to rationalize the fact that the quacks say that the surest way to die is to "stuff a cold and starve a fever." Grandma's tried-and-true remedy. And to grasp the rule that a dog is man's best friend as long as he isn't a postman.

But it is a knife right through my heart to read that a Swiss expedition on Mt. Everest says positively that there is no such thing as the "abominable snowman." Can't these yapping busybodies leave us a few illusions? Must they keep running around the world, destroying our dreams?

Next it will be the Lochness Monster. Or flying saucers. Or some idiot will say a hot toddy is the worst possible specific for a cold.

What I say is: Lay off, MacDuff; we've had enough! Some things are, too sacred.

Nasser Has West In Knots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egypt's strong man, President Nasser, has the West in knots. The United States, Britain and France seem to have run out of ideas on how to handle him.

Ever since Nasser seized the Suez Canal July 26 — he called it nationalizing the canal on the ground that it belongs to Egypt — the Western Powers have squirmed to find some way to make him loosen his grip.

Although the canal lies in Egypt it has been under the international control of the Suez Canal Co.

for 66 years. Throughout the time it collected tolls which mostly went to the company. Egypt got only a part.

Nasser says: enough of that. Egypt will take over the company and collect the tolls. There will be no more international control of the canal, he says. And there he stands, letting the West do the talking.

The Western Powers, whose ships are the main users of the canal, want some kind of international control. They know that if Nasser alone runs it, he can keep out their ships anytime and put an economic stranglehold on them.

They argue that he has violated an international agreement made in 1888 by nine nations — which didn't include Egypt since Egypt was under the thumb of the Turks and British at the time — that the canal is an international waterway.

If the Western Powers had shown as much interest in keeping the canal truly open to all powers — before they themselves were involved — Nasser might not have been able to get away with his seizure now.

Egypt has barred Israeli ships, and ships bound for Israel, ever since 1948, before Nasser came to power in Egypt. Egypt's explanation for that action: she was at war with Israel and never made peace.

Big Business Going Daffy

NEW YORK (AP) — The daffy season is in full swing!

One corporation paved a Manhattan street with soap this week, another made a nationwide offer to buy male beards at $5,000 an ounce.

The Ronson Corp. was the other entrant in the business stunt-of-the-week contest. To launch a new electric shaver, Ronson advertised in 28 major cities for men willing to sacrifice their beards — at $5,000 an ounce — on a weekly television program it was sponsoring.

The offer was made only after a preliminary test showed that even a Rip Van Winkle beard would tip the scales at less than a full ounce.

Throughout the strange exhibition many bystanders hoped for a big rain. All were sure the resulting soda would drown the RCA building.

The rough talk of the British and French worried Secretary of State Dulles, who said this country wouldn't try to shoot its way through the canal. He went to London for a meeting with British, France and other nations.

Eighteen of them agreed on a plan which they submitted to Nasser and which anyone could have predicted would fail.

They proposed an international board, including Egypt, to run the canal. Nothing doing, Nasser said. No international control for him. Dulles in the meantime came home. The French and British started talking tough again.

Dulles had an idea: create a canal users association. He rushed back to London. Another meeting. Another agreement; this time that there should be a Suez Canal Users Assn.

Last Friday they issued their explanation — a hodgepodge of vague phrases that seemed to have no practical meaning except that it was hoped this might start negotiations with Nasser.

Within a day after the ad appeared, hundreds of replies came by mail, phone and wire.

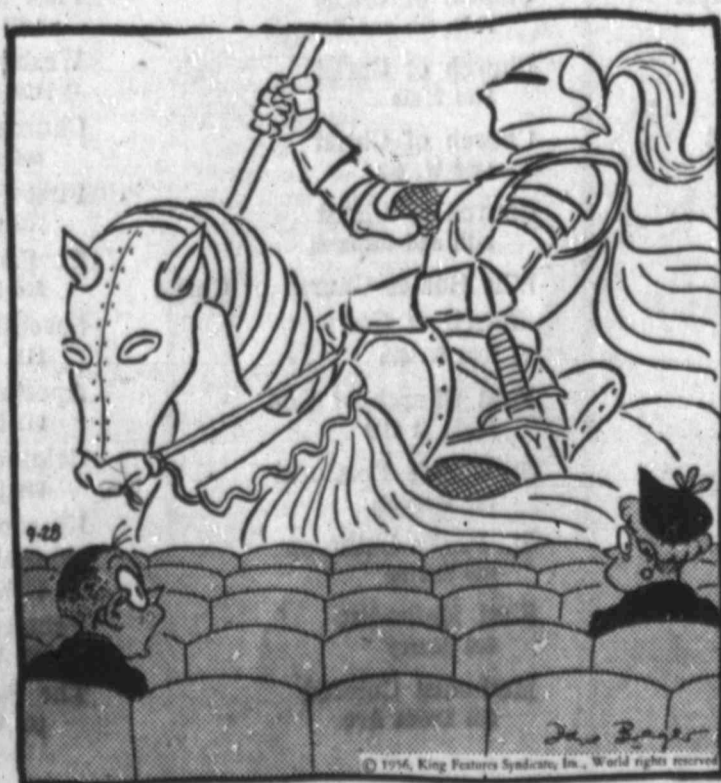

They ranged from a college professor in Philadelphia to a department store's professional Santa Claus, who shakes his living in the off-season selling vitamin pills.

"The Santa Claus demanded $50,000 for his beard — said he'd spent 10 years landscaping it," reported Bernard Dwortzan, the company's ad manager.

Dwortzan has reason to feel worried. James W. Bowser, managing editor of the Barber's Journal, estimates there are at least 140,500 beard wearers in the nation.

"What if a bearded lady shows up?" he said. "We specified male beards, but if a bearded lady showed up and demanded equal rights she could cause us a lot of trouble."

Mr. Breger

"Madam, would you kindly remove your hat?"

The Bane Of The English Language

The misplaced modifier is the bane of the English language. People who should have studied their English grammar in high school still persist in misplacing their modifiers, however, and it is doubtful that this situation will desert in the foreseeable future. Matter of fact, it is the refusal of ordinary people to follow strict rules of grammar that sparks evolution of any language. So if we want to be progressive we may as well learn to live with the ungrammatical. After all, how could we understand each other if we will spoke like Chaucer wrote?

Most grammatical errors are very much beside the point, as there are generally many and varied ways to say the same thing. But there are some such errors that change the meaning of a sentence, and as such are not only ungrammatical but downright confusing. The misplaced modifier is the chief such error. Misuse of the word "only" is the commonest error, one which seeps into the talk even of well-educated and normally well-spoken people.

We take as an example a sentence from a newspaper weather story: "There were gusty winds throughout the county, but it only rained in the northern section."

Written this way, the sentence means the only weather in the northern section was rain — no clouds, no gusty winds, only rain. The sentence contradicts itself. It should read: "There were gusty winds throughout the county, but it rained only in the northern section."

A college English professor once made a collection over several years of his students' misplaced modifiers. Here is a list of some of the more humorous:

It began to rain while we were eating our breakfast in bucketfuls.

I began the study of medicine under the direction of one of my father's friends who was a great surgeon with great reluctance.

The problem of returning to college started many men who wish to get an education in the face.

We bought a can of that new food for our dog which is made of bone meal.

The leak was repaired before much damage had been done by the plumber. We tried to catch the goat which had butted Willie far into the night.

Gasoline is one commodity that if you don't buy good your car won't run as well as.

The manager gave all the employees cigars and said he hoped they were good. Being very hot and dusty, the water felt very good to us.

I attempted to follow the directions that he gave me without understanding them.

The people were urged to exterminate the enemy by long speeches over the radio and articles in the newspapers.

My little brother asked all the neighbors if they had seen the puppy with tears in his eyes.

I walked to the spot where the dead man was lying, shaking with fright.

All the persons in the audience were led out of the theatre before anyone was hurt by the heroic band of ushers.

We rented two large rooms and a bathroom with two beds.

He had been a patient at the hospital where he died on several occasions during the last few years.

The American people are, after all these years since the landing at Plymouth Rock, still puritanical. And we're not insulating anyone's religion. The blue nose carries over to both extremes: teen-agers, for example, in their impatience with the world in general, or "broad-minded" adults who look down their noses at morality and speak with contempt of narrow-minded persons. We're only human, after all, and as such we're all snobs of one sort or another.

A good example of this truism can be found in attitudes on popular music. Fifteen years ago teen-agers had this comment on all music: "It don't mean a thing if it ain't got that swing." We don't know much about present teen-age language, but that same statement today might be something like: "You don't have a soul if you don't like rock 'n roll."

The Sanctity Of Government Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — These are perilous times for the people who give their money and energy trying to make the world economy function — perilous because the confidence of investors is being shaken by the widespread but unthinking applause for "nationalism."

So accustomed have many people become to the idea that governments — and particularly the United States government — must furnish without restriction or limit the capital for "underdeveloped" countries that there has been a tendency to overlook the conditions that could cause both the government and the private investor to shun the so-called "nationalistic" countries.

Perhaps the best statement of principles — what is right and what is wrong on this subject — has just come from M. J. Rathbone, president of the Standard Oil Company (N.J.), in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report."

out regard to concessions given by treaty. Mr. Dulles says "alternatives" to the canal will have to be planned. He points out that "it takes a little time, but you can get tankers — these big tankers — and it's cheaper for them to go around the Cape of Good Hope than it is to use the canal." He added:

"Egypt is losing in other ways far more than the equivalent of canal revenues... ordinary business is dying up..."

So economic force becomes more important in many ways than military force, and it is wholly voluntary. Investors — either private or governmental — cannot be compelled to put their money in countries which violate treaties and take an arbitrary or capricious attitude toward private contracts.

1956, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.

He declares:

"On the question of nationalization and the Suez problem, there is one thing I'd like to say: We think that the great issue there is not whether the government has the right to nationalize property or not, but whether it has the right to abrogate contracts. I don't think anyone questions the right of a government to nationalize something in its country which is not covered by a formal contract.

"For instance, if you should build a power plant in Cairo, just as a business venture without any contract with the Egyptian government, and the Egyptian government wanted to nationalize it, I don't think you would say a word about it. All you would ask is that they would give you satisfactory compensation.

"But where you have a concession contract with a government, it is an entirely different situation. In effect, a concession contract means that the sovereign government has given a private individual the right to do something.

"Now, as you know, the subsoil in practically every country in the world outside of the United States belongs to the government. So that, if you want to come into any foreign country and develop subsoil wealth there, no matter whether it is oil, coal, iron or what, you make a contract with the government. Now, the government itself owns it and it has a perfect right to find it if it can. But when it elects not to do so and gives a concession to a private investor to do that, it is done for a specific period of time and with specific benefits to the government. And under those conditions we think that it is immoral and completely unethical for a government to grant a concession under those circumstances, and then unilaterally to abrogate that concession.

Couldn't Escape

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — When Pvt. R. L. Dornmehausen came home on leave, appearing before a colonel and being told to shine his brass buttons was about the last thing he expected to do.

Appearing in police court on a minor traffic charge, he discovered that acting superior court judge Carl Flom was a colonel in the Army Reserve and a thorough lecturer on polishing brass buttons.

Judge Flom, however, dismissed the private's case.

Missing Persons

ALBUQUERQUE, (AP) — After recently examining the income tax returns of New Mexico ranchers involving a joint venture, a U. S. Internal Revenue Service agent here requested records from the pair to verify the transaction.

One of the partners sent the following reply:

"Well, I'll tell yuh. We sat on a corral fence and figured the deal out on a piece of board. Then I gave Sam a check for his part and threw the board away."

The Bald Fact

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Is baldness beauty? Guillermina Jimenez Vargas says no, sued a beauty parlor for using a treatment which made all her hair fall out.

Animal Disease Lab Is Strictly Security-Minded

GREENPORT, N. Y. (AP) — In some ways the government's new $10 million dollar animal disease laboratory is as security-minded as an atomic plant.

The laboratory was set up to combat the dreaded foot-and-mouth disease. It is on nearby Plum Island on Long Island Sound.

The structure is a windowless building in the middle of a barren field enclosed by two parallel wire fences, each eight feet high.

The most rigid and stringent precautions will be taken to prevent and "leak" of animal viruses which the scientists will study.

That is one reason why the laboratory is on an island. Nothing except personnel will leave it without first being steam-sterilized at 250 degrees Fahrenheit or dipped in lysozyme.

The research workers must scrub and shower before leaving the building, and even before going to another. Animals used for experiments will never leave.

As they die their bodies will be incinerated to a fine ash. All waste material will be boiled and the air swept through fine filters to remove viruses.

Air locks will separate the inside of the building from the outside.

Play Safe While You Drive!

Keep alert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving.

Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavor and real chewing enjoyment.

Watch Those Blue Shirts, They're Practicing For TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — What in suburbia is the guy next door up to? Look at him again, through the picture window. First he sits in an armchair, but very straight and prim. Then he gets up and walks with a kind of slow lope over to the desk and sits on the corner of it. Then he turns his head — so slowly — from side to side. Now he's back at the armchair, starting all over. Notice how he's dressed. Medium-shade suit, conservative tie and blue shirt. Blue shirt! That's it, the guy is practicing to make a political speech on television. And, if he's of the GOP persuasion, chances are he's been boning up on a handy little booklet put out by the Republican National Committee: "A candidate's primer on how to utilize radio and television effectively." Television is intimate, says the booklet. Be simple and sincere. Sitting behind a desk is stiff. Better to sit in an armchair — but don't lounge. "Once, and only once, get up and walk. Don't move too fast — the cameraman has to keep aiming at you and if you pop up suddenly your head may jump right off the screen, an effective 'disruptive' to say the least." If there's more than one camera, watch for the red light that tells you which is in use. Keep

Uncle Ray: Conger Eel Spends Entire Life In Sea

By RAMON COFFMAN
We might suppose that teeth could be found in the mouth of every fish, but there are exceptions to the rule. Electric eels (which live in South American rivers) are without teeth. They must give shocks to provide themselves with food. Small fish and frogs are stunned by the shocks and then are swallowed whole. Q. Where are the electrical organs located? A. If an electric eel is six feet long, the head and vital organs will occupy the first 18 inches or so. Then, for a space of about 40 inches come the electric organs. The tail is behind these electric organs. The fish delivers a series of shocks — hundreds of shocks in a minute. After the shocks are given, the electric eel loses its energy. It rests about one day before it is ready for another series of high-powered shocks. Q. Is the electric eel as large as the conger eel? A. They are almost the same size. Q. How large do conger eels get to be? A. Most of them fall short of

Medic Too Busy To Accept Award

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Henry W. Godfrey, 79, of Newton, was chosen as "Massachusetts General practitioner of the Year." But he was too busy with his medical chores to accept the honor. Dr. Godfrey explained: "It is my responsibility to see that some 17,000 children, mostly in public schools, get ample protection against polio. I'm right in the middle of the ground phase and I just can't take the time off."

Mental Patients Show Increase

AUSTIN (AP) — More mental patients were treated in 1956 in state hospitals than last year but less were retained, the State Hospital Board reported yesterday.

"I recall a line from the poet Kipling who said..."
