Kefauver Crosses Texas Seeking Votes

WACO (AP)—Estes Kefauver dug deep through the heart of Texas for this state's 24 electoral votes yesterday and headed early today for New Mexico, smacking the GOP's farm policies.

He underlined what he called Republican failures to help drought-crippled farmers, and pledge of 100 per cent parity was "the biggest broken promise ever made by a candidate for president."

Speaking half a dozen times in hamlets, small cities and big cities along a 100-mile campaign trail through Central Texas, the Democratic candidate for vice president underlined what he called the GOP's "broken promises."

Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson don't know a disaster when they see one, Kefauver said.

"They don't want to hear about the bad times in Texas because they are too busy trying to win an election with sunshine and smiles," the candidate said.

"They do not want to hear about sun-baked pastures and rivers and streams bone dry. Big business profits are way up, almost everybody is making money, or so they say. So why worry about the small ranchers and farmers on the Great Plains?"

Kefauver began his one-day Texas drive at Dallas and wound it up at the Heart O'Texas Fair. He spent most of his time talking to drought-sick farmers and small businessmen in small and medium-sized towns in between.

He dashed into a country store at Forrester for a quick hand shake around. At Waxahachie he spoke to what local police said was the biggest crowd of the year for any political gathering, with a repeat performance at Hillsboro.

All the way he talked about rain and the lack of it.

Daniel-Johnson Convention Pact Draws Mixed Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mail received by Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Price Daniel since the September state Democratic convention indicates some constituents viewed their coalition with jaundiced eyes. Others approved.

Johnson got a letter from a prominent East Texan who said "I'm still with you, although I have been shaken I find it difficult to sever a loyalty that began 20 years ago."

An equally prominent West Texan, indicating he had always been among the conservative faction fighting Johnson over the years, said: "I am with you since last week's convention."

Daniel likewise got mail from those who like his alliance with Johnson in a moderation stand to win control of the convention, and those who didn't.

One thing was sure, however: As a result of Johnson's helping Daniel win control of the convention and of the latter's pledge to support the Stevenson ticket, there's joy around Democratic National Committee headquarters. They feel Texas is sure to go Democratic in November.

Daniel's staff, anticipating a November victory for their boss now that he has won the Democratic nomination for governor, is making ready for the chance.

Jack Jacobson, newly named secretary of the state Democratic Executive Committee, is expected to go to Austin as executive secretary to Daniel. Jacobson was an assistant to Daniel when Daniel was attorney general of Texas, and has been his administrative assistant here. He is a friendly fellow who can soothe tempers of irate callers before they get in to see the top man.

Also moving back to Austin with Daniel, undoubtedly, would be his personal secretary, Mrs. Emma Ward. She has been with him for years, dating back to when he was speaker of the Texas House.

Daniel is expected to come back to town soon to sell his attractive house.

Looking back over Daniel's four years in the Senate, it seems certain he will longest be remembered for his successful work on behalf of the states ownership of the oil-rich tidelands.

He got elected to the Senate largely on that issue and, although a freshman senator, plunged into the fight and assumed a top role in pressing passage of the law.

He won recognition also for his chairmanship of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee which studied narcotics and his sponsorship of legislation tightening federal laws against dope racketeers.

Vacuum Cleaner's Noise Adds 'Life' To Overture

LONDON (AP)—One of Britain's young composers has completed a "grand overture" which features a vacuum cleaner, an electric floor polisher and repeating rifles.

"My overture," said Malcolm Arnold, 35, "is to be part of a concert at Royal Festival Hall on Nov. 13. I admit that some people may call it crazy, but basically it's a serious work."

He got the idea of using vacuum cleaners while writing music for a British film. "The cleaners have a wild woodnote effect."

How about the electric floor polisher that he plans to plant among the violins and violas?

"This supports the vacuum cleaner, adding a rhythmic whoosh to their song."

And the repeating rifle?

"I'm planning to use four men with the orchestra," he said. "Each will fire four rounds of blanks to establish the key rhythm of the opening movement."

A Chopin nocturne will be played by a quartet of bass tubas.

A highlight will be a symphony based on Haydn.

"The familiar slow movement," said Arnold "will be produced by musicians blowing down the necks of partly filled hot water bottles, a divine effect."

Tropical Guam Is America's Big Mailed Fist

AGANA, Guam, Oct. 2 (AP)—The green, tropical island of Guam is America's big mailed fist in the western Pacific today.

Guam is the Far Eastern roost of the Strategic Air Command. The swept-wing B-47's stationed here are believed capable of supporting a smashing blow against Communist aggression in Asia with a single nuclear blow if that should ever become necessary.

Between 2,000 and 5,000 miles away — well within their range with one refueling hookup — lie choice industrial and military targets, strung in a giant arc across Siberia and down through China.

Shielding them from retaliation by the Communists' powerful air force is an intervening wall of air bases and radar stations, extending from Hokkaido, northern Japan, to the Philippines.

In this strategic pattern, Guam is a key pivot in American policy, and probably one of the greatest deterrents to a new Far Eastern war.

Guam is a 225 square mile volcanic and coral outcropping, 2,000 miles east of the China mainland and 13 degrees north of the equator.

Guam's strategic value goes beyond fine, deep Apra harbor — potentially capable of housing the entire 7th Fleet — and the relatively flat northern end of the island that has made construction of Andersen Air Force Base possible.

"The next war will be over just like that," says tough, muscular Brig. Gen. Nils O. Ohman, snapping his fingers. The commander of the 3rd Air Division sums up Guam's role with a few jabs of a finger at a map.

The Navy, likewise, considers Guam of great importance. Rear Adm. W. B. Ammon, commander of naval forces in the Marianas, points out the island has the only deep water U.S. harbor west of Pearl Harbor in Hawaii.

The wings of B-47's rotating in and out of Guam every 90 days are representative. They work almost continuously.

Ike Begins Firing Back At Stevenson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's campaign foray into Kentucky and Ohio pointed up how he now is firing back at Adlai Stevenson despite a September assertion he would leave the replies to other Republicans.

In a nationwide television-radio address last night at Lexington, Ky., and in a speech during the day at Cleveland, Ohio, Eisenhower replied to his Democratic opponent on a good many points although he never once mentioned Stevenson by name.

The closest Eisenhower came to naming Stevenson was to allude to the Democratic nominee as an "apparently confused candidate" on the issue of federal aid for education. That reference brought one of the biggest rounds of applause from the capacity crowd in the 15,000-seat University of Kentucky Coliseum.

In the Lexington speech Eisenhower also cut loose at the Democratic-controlled Congress — and the Republican rally he was addressing loved that, too.

All told, the crowd applauded 42 times during the President's talk. He also got a rousing ovation when he was introduced and when he concluded.

Eisenhower envisioned 70 million jobs "at good wages" for Americans if he is re-elected. He reported September figures showing 66,100,000 persons at work.

He prefaced his jabs by saying "political oratory . . . at its most reckless has plunged to the wild extremes of charging this administration with such fabulous failings as not guarding the peace — and not caring for the welfare of any humble citizen or any needy family in our land."

Then he added: "We all know that there are people who suffer from living in a world of words and phrases for so long that they can no longer recognize action when they see it."

The applause and laughter that thrust touched off still was echoing when Eisenhower got another round after saying: "And — when it comes to a really critical matter like political leadership — we recall a fact that all of us have seen in our own daily lives: The longest lectures almost always come from those with the least experience."

At a September news conference, Eisenhower was asked whether he would reply to criticism by the Democrats.

Eisenhower replied he was going to answer no criticism — that he would leave that to others.

But only a few days later the President hit back at Stevenson's suggestion it might be possible to end the draft in the foreseeable future under circumstances consistent with national security.

Eisenhower also spoke out against the Stevenson proposal contemplating an end to hydrogen bomb tests, saying it is not feasible at this time.

In his Sept. 25 farm address at Peoria, Ill., Eisenhower swatted at Stevenson's agriculture program. In Lexington and Cleveland yesterday the President loosed fresh salvos at his opponent. Eisenhower talked of an "apparently confused candidate" who; the President said, supported a school aid bill "that we (the Republicans) posed and that his party defeated."

Eisenhower said, too, that among the opposition "there still seem to be some who would like to go back down the old road of trial and error, the road that was not really a road at all, but an endless series of detours around crises—leading nowhere."

Eisenhower said his administration has "unfinished business" which he hopes to complete during another four-year term. He said that if he is re-elected "I can see an America in which every man can eat his own bread in peace, raise his own family in security and strengthen his own mind and spirit in dignity."

Recalled former President Truman's criticism of the Republican controlled 80th Congress in the 1948 campaign. Eisenhower's complaints about the Democratic-dominated 84th dealt with several points.

In addition to hitting the Democratic lawmakers on federal aid for education, which he said they killed in the House, the President contended the opposition party stood in the way of action on:

1. Financial and technical aid to areas suffering chronic local unemployment.
2. Extension of the minimum wage law to more persons.
3. Grants to states to expand and strengthen occupational safety programs.

Eisenhower, who flew back to Washington early today, appeals for support of the GOP ticket generally, including House and Senate candidates.

Accident Victim Spurns Autos

WESTERLY, R.I. (AP)—Mrs. Ce'donia Mewrey, 52, injured five times in separate auto accidents, kept good her vow not to ride in an automobile again. On her discharge from Westerly Hospital after her most recent injury, she went home in a pony cart drawn by a Shetland pony. Her husband, Rochester, even borrowed a black silk top hat, to drive his wife home in the cart.

Parking Violation

Police remove the wings from a light plane at the intersection of 191st St. and St. Nicholas Ave. in upper Manhattan, New York City, after the pilot landed the two-seater Cessna on the busy thoroughfare during the early morning hours. The pilot, Thomas Fitzpatrick, 26, of Emerson, N.J., allegedly stole the plane from Teterboro Airport, N.J., across the Hudson River, and flew back to a tavern where he had been drinking earlier in the evening. He was charged with grand theft.

Future In Doubt For Author's Conservation Farm, Malabar

MANSFIELD, Ohio, Oct. 2 (AP)—They're wondering these days, down around Mansfield, about what is going to happen to Malabar, the 1,000-acre farm of the late Louis Bromfield, celebrated novelist who created it out of the abandoned fields and eroded hills of the once-fertile countryside that had been his boyhood playground, a region known then and now as Pleasant Valley.

The "Friends of the Land" are wondering, too, and they are also doing something. They want to preserve Malabar as a living memorial to the most famous member of their organization, and maintain it as a demonstration of the advanced agricultural methods Bromfield preached and practiced. Over a period of 15 years, Bromfield employed at Malabar what he had been preaching for many years—a grass-roots revolution in farm management and conservation.

His restoration program included the rebuilding of the soil organically, improving drainage, halting erosion, fertilization and the addition of "trace" elements to the soil.

Each year growing thousands of farmers, scientists, economists and visiting experts beat a path to Malabar's door, and in the "big" house he had built on a knoll, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author welcomed all.

Three years after Malabar was established there came into being an organization known as "Friends of the Land." Made up of writers, bankers, professors, farmers, industrialists, forestry experts and government officials, they were all, as Bromfield termed them, "unselfish citizens" alarmed by the waste of our natural resources.

They set out to inform American citizens of the situation. Bromfield worked actively with the group.

Fellow members feared that his death last March marked also the end of Malabar, the shining example of their principles. Not for long though. It was Walter F. Pretzer of Cleveland who summarized the feeling of the group when talk began of establishing Malabar as sort of an institution or foundation for agricultural research, a wish Bromfield himself had expressed.

Officer On New Odyssey

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A Navy officer who 20 months ago ran a diaper derby from here to Greece and back while adopting a Greek orphan is on another Odyssey. Lt. Norman K. (Moose) Donahue left Corpus Christi yesterday on the first leg of his trip to Greece to adopt another child. He is scheduled to leave Norfolk, Va., today.

Donahue nearly two years ago battled dwindling leave time and a rapidly vanishing pile of diapers as he brought home Roni Marie, a then 17-month-old orphan. Beginning last January her work was initiated for the adoption of the Donahue's second baby. This time the child is a 2½-year-old boy, Stephan Amillos. Donahue should be back in three weeks.

Cheating In Food Was A Big Business In 1202 A.D., Still Is

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—In 1202 A.D., King John of England decreed that any baker who cheated on weight should be "drawn upon a hurdle... through the streets which are most dirty, the false loaf hanging from his neck." Today cheating in food is still big business.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration says ruthless chiselers are robbing the American public of millions of dollars a year by outright swindles and high-pressure scare tactics. Most established firms are scrupulously honest. Nevertheless, the situation is serious enough to keep FDA field agents working overtime from coast to coast.

Was that pepper you sprinkled on your breakfast eggs this morning? The FDA has found instances of pepper mixed with cheap grains of paradise, the pungent seeds of a West African plant. Did a turkey ever shrink like a snowball in July a few minutes after you popped it into the oven? FDA inspectors not long ago tracked down a gang of Chicago racketeers using a novel method of "force feeding" freshly killed turkeys—with water. They took a king-size hypodermic needle, hooked it up to a garden hose, turned on the water and gave each bird four hefty "shots" just before quick-freezing them for market.

The treatment magically transformed skinny birds into plump beauties. Housewives who bought them paid 69 cents a pound for two extra pounds of water injected into the meat. Other recent examples of cheating turned up by FDA sleuths included bootleg butter padded with oleomargarine, green-dyed corn mixed with coffee beans, and cheap fish misbranded as expensive varieties.

Even worse than such brazen frauds, as viewed by FDA officials, is a class of diet-fad promoters and self-styled nutritionists who attempt to frighten consumers into believing that the United States—the best-fed country in the world—is suffering from widespread malnutrition.

"The meanest of all in the parade of rascals is the health-food faker who makes false claims of nutrient or therapeutic value for his product," says Frank A. Vorhes Jr., director of the FDA's Food Division.

"At exorbitant prices, common mixtures of vitamins and minerals, virtuous enough in their own limited right, are peddled as boons to mankind, and worthless nostrums are extolled as life savers."

FDA officials estimate that Americans spend half a billion dollars a year on food additives, phony medicines and therapeutic devices they don't need. Altogether, the FDA rides herd on 65 billion dollars worth of products a year. Its total budget for fiscal 1957 is $6,700,000. Pinched for funds by a Congress which allows it only 4 cents per capita to safeguard the nation's health—whereas Canada spends 10 cents per capita—the FDA can make only token forays against another and growing menace.

This is the legion of charlatans and medical quacks who peddle phony "uranium" blankets, "cosmic ray" lockets, "atomic" health machines and a host of other devices labeled as sure-fire remedies for everything from black widow spider bite to cancer.

"Quackery kills untold numbers of Americans every day," says Wallace F. Janssen, assistant to FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick.

"A quack cancer clinic treated more than 6,000 patients in two years. As medicine, it used an alleged 'secret formula' which we analyzed as containing prickly ash bark, red clover blossoms and cascara—utterly worthless for curing cancer."

Probe Chief Decries Red Statement Of U. S. 'Loyalty'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) asserts a brief by 360 Americans supporting an argument of the Communist party before the Supreme Court was "tragic" and was submitted "with the most approved Communist techniques of dishonesty and deceit."

"It is unfortunately a common error to think of the conscious disloyalty to all Communist party members on the one hand, and to ascribe nothing more than misguided idealism to all supporters of the Communist-front apparatus on the other. There are unwitting dupes, as well as writing subverters, among both party members and frontiers."

Gardeners Attending Fall Board Meeting

Local women are to be in Midland today for the pre-convention meeting of the 29th Fall Board Meeting of Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. The official opening of the board meeting is set for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Planning to be in Midland today are Mrs. Obie Bristow, Mrs. J. E. Hogan, Mrs. A. C. Bass, Mrs. P. D. O'Brien and Mrs. Norman Read, all members of the Big Spring Garden Club.

Members of other local garden clubs will attend the convention Wednesday and Thursday. Included on the program are discussions on "Newest News in Flower Shows" and "Newest News in Flower Show Schools," scheduled for Wednesday morning.

The afternoon program will include "Garden Therapy on the March," a talk on the Litterbug Campaign, and a demonstration on holiday candles. An analysis of candle arrangements will be given. "Landscape Illumination" will be a demonstration lecture by John R. Watson, who will be guest speaker at a dinner Wednesday evening.

A presidents' breakfast will open the sessions Thursday morning. During the general meeting, the group will hear news of horticultural interest, a discussion of the conservation of natural resources and officers will be elected.

Horticulture specimens will be judged, and flower arrangements will be analyzed before the luncheon, which will conclude the convention. A tour of homes and gardens will be held Thursday afternoon for those who missed the pre-convention tour.

Presbyterian Women Plan Week Of Prayer

Women of the First Presbyterian Church met for a general business session Monday afternoon at the church. Plans were made for the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial to be held Oct. 15-19.

A covered dish luncheon will be served at the church on the first day of the observance, with meals held in the homes of church members that afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Harwell gave the devotion from the book, "All the Women of the Bible." Her topic was "Potiphar's Wife."

Mrs. Tommy Jordan presided for the meeting, during which reports were heard from committee chairmen. Mrs. J. D. Leonard brought the report of the nominating committee.

Announcement was made of the Presbyterian, scheduled for Westminster Church in Midland, Nov. 6-7. Delegates are Mrs. W. G. Wilson Jr. and Mrs. W. C. Henley. Alternates are Mrs. Harwell and Mrs. A. A. Porter.

Mrs. Wilson gave a report on the recent meeting of the United Council of Church Women. Nineteen were present at Monday's meeting.

Mrs. Jim Engstrom reviewed the book, "Bright Future" for members of the Church Sunday evening at a family night covered dish supper.

Church extension was discussed under the leadership of Lee Milling of Lubbock and the pastor of the church, Dr. George Lloyd. Motion pictures were shown in connection with the extension plans.

Seventy-five attended the meeting.

P-TA Dinner Honor Lamesa HS Faculty

LAMESA — Members of Lamesa High School faculty were guests of the High School P-TA for a dinner held Monday evening at the cafeteria.

Following the covered dish supper, Mrs. Buster Reed was the moderator for a panel discussion on the Fourth Amendment, dealing with teacher retirement. Members of the panel included C. W. Tarter, who spoke from the school administrator's viewpoint; Stainell Clement, the attorney's viewpoint; Mrs. Bob Lindsey Jr., classroom teacher representative, and Pat Ryan, representing the businessmen of the town.

Women's Clubs Feted At Coffee

LAMESA — Mrs. Nancy Johnson was hostess for a coffee Saturday morning, when she entertained members of the American Association of University Women and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

The serving table was laid with a white and yellow linen cloth imported from Panama. The appointments were of brown mahogany imported from Haiti. Featured on the table was a centerpiece of yellow mums, yellow daisies and fall leaves. Mrs. Andrew Essary presided over the serving table with 34 calling during the morning.

Mrs. Booth Speaks To Methodist WSCS

Mrs. Ed Booth presented the program on "Youth in a Restricted Society" for members of the Park Methodist WSCS at their meeting Monday evening.

Two skits were presented on the theme "Island in My Community." Taking part on the program were Mrs. J. L. Webb, Mrs. Jack M. Griffin, Mrs. Brent Hollis, Mrs. J. W. Brigrance and Mrs. Jesse Young.

Plans were discussed for the bazaar to be held on Dec. 1. The bazaar for the bazaar will be announced later.

Mrs. Knoop Speaker For Mu Zeta

"Your Poise and Charm" was the subject of the discussion by Mrs. Lowell Knoop at a meeting of the Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The sorority met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Darel Higley for a model meeting.

In telling members of the method of acquiring poise, the speaker gave the following steps: forget yourself; exercise self-control; get rid of a guilty conscience; rid yourself of fear; live with interior beauty and keep in fellowship with God.

Mrs. Thomas Bauch and Mrs. Ray Pipes were in charge of the meeting, which was attended by 11 members and a guest, Mrs. John Blystone.

The next meeting was announced for the home of Mrs. E. V. Giles, 1100 Pickens.

Mrs. Barrett Feted At Pink, Blue Party

Mrs. J. D. Moseley, 509 Owens, was hostess Saturday evening when she honored her daughter, Mrs. Bobby Ray Barrett, Kernitt, with a pink and blue shower.

Hostesses included Mrs. Alton Rodgers and Eddie, Midland, Mrs. Lorene Robinson and Mrs. Joe Weatherford.

The serving table was laid with a white linen cloth over blue. Pink and blue streamers fell from the ceiling and were caught at each side of the table with miniature baby rattles. Petunia plants and yellow moss were used for other decorations. Serving was done with crystal appointments.

Games were played and movies taken of the 30 guests who called.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Cardyne Hopper, Stanton, Mrs. Billy Schultz, Enid, Okla., and Mrs. Neeta Minis, Colorado City.

Tea Compliments The Ray Taylors

LAMESA — Mr. and Mrs. Owen C. Taylor complimented their son, Ray and his bride, the former Sandra Saunderson of Dallas, with a reception Saturday evening. The couple was married Sept. 7 in Dallas.

Receiving the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Taylor and the honored couple. Members of the house party included eleven.

The serving table was laid with a white Madeira linen cloth and featured a centerpiece of yellow mums, fall leaves and grapes of green and purple in a silver and crystal epergne. An autumn theme was used out in all of the house decorations.

About 75 guests called.

Gift Coffee Honors Mrs. Chester Farris

LAMESA — Mrs. Chester Farris was honored with a gift coffee recently in the home of Mrs. John Paxton. Hostesses with Mrs. Paxton were Mrs. Garner Jones, Mrs. Carlos Chiles, Mrs. W. T. Hamilton and Mrs. Inda Burrus.

The serving table was laid with an eceru crocheted cloth and held a centerpiece of pink sweet peas and mums in a pale green ceramic bowl. Mrs. W. T. Hamilton presided over the serving table.

On the desk where the guests registered an arrangement of red cammas was featured. About 40 guests called. Mr. and Mrs. Farris are moving about the first of October to Lubbock.

'ROUND TOWN With Lucille Pickle

Because their class is to be among those honored at the Big Spring High School homecoming this weekend, members of the class of '26 are busy hunting information concerning their group. MRS. FRED WHITAKER has been running down every lead in order to get little items of interest about as many of the class as possible. She hasn't been able to find out about PHILIP MUSGROVE, or NELLIE PUCKETT. If you know someone who would be likely to know, give her a ring.

"There seems to be much interest among the exes this year. Perhaps we'll keep better informed about each other as the years go on."

When the company he works for moved GRADY DULING from Big Spring, they took one of our most enthusiastic backers. They spent last week here and were guests in the homes of MR. AND MRS. ROBERT STRIPLING, MR. AND MRS. JASPER ATKINS and MARIE McDONALD. Mr. and Mrs. Duling have returned to their home in Tulsa, Okla., where he manages the Adams Hotel.

JON LOU CALLISON who made her home here for many years visited over the weekend in the home of MRS. ELZIE JOHNSTON. She is now living in Brownfield.

MRS. HOWARD LESTER is back home after spending several days in Oden to be with her parents, MR. AND MRS. J. R. TURPIN, both of whom are ill.

MRS. CONA SHIPP plans to return to her home in Dallas this week after visiting in the home of her daughter and her family, MR. AND MRS. GEORGE McALISTER and sons.

C. R. DOUGLAS of Abilene was a weekend guest of MR. AND MRS. MATT HARRINGTON and Jane.

It would appear that a lively weekend is coming up, what with the Shrine convention and the festivities for the ladies. The style show planned for their entertainment sounds interesting. There's something about a pre-showing of pretty clothes that gives the spirits a lift.

Desk, Derrick Club Plans Field Trips

Two field trips were scheduled by members of the Desk and Derrick Club when they met Monday evening at H.C.J.C.

The group plans to attend the Odessa Oil Show which is part of the Oil Progress Week schedule. They will also make a trip to Amarillo to visit the helium plant.

Plans were also discussed for the Bosses' Dinner which will be held Nov. 5.

Before their business meeting the group attended a program on "Fire Power" presented by the Shell Pipe Line Company and Ethel Gasoline Company.

Twenty-seven attended the meeting with three guests, Mrs. C. H. Weir, Mrs. K. L. Brady and Mrs. Johnny Gorman.

As soon as Jim was well again the parents began a steady campaign of treating those boys as individuals. New clothes, new toys were no longer identical. Dad took Jim to the zoo on Saturday morning while Mother took Tim to the airport. Slowly and little by little they weaned the boys away from each other. When it came time for first grade they were put in different classes. They still played together but each formed friendships with classmates. Parents and teachers both encouraged them to have separate interests. Each is now well on his way to being a whole boy and not a half.

Mrs. Raley Presents Baptist Bible Study

Mrs. Ira Raley brought the Bible Study for the Kate Morrison Circle of the East Fourth Baptist Church when they met Monday afternoon.

Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. L. E. Taylor. Mrs. Raley spoke on "Meaning of Stewardship."

The group presented Mrs. Billy Rudd with a departing gift. Prayers were offered by Mrs. H. Reaves and Mrs. Gilbert Webb.

Twelve members and two visitors, Mrs. W. J. Kaiser and Mrs. Elmer Dickens, were present.

Golden Jubilee Is Held By Lutherans

The 50th anniversary Golden Jubilee of the West Texas Circuit of Lutheran Churches was celebrated Sunday afternoon at the St. Paul Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Glen Kollmeyer, San Angelo, gave the opening devotion on the Lutheran Churches' work in Texas. Talks were also presented on the past, present and future work of the Lutheran Church.

Following the supper, which was served at 5:30 p.m., a candlelight ceremony was led by Rev. Kollmeyer.

Eighty-five leaders and pastors of the West Texas Circuit of Lutheran Churches attended the meeting. Towns represented were San Angelo, Eden, Andrews, Ballinger, Brady, Fort Stockton, Pecos, Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Eola, Maynard and Big Spring.

Couple Married

Mrs. Floyd Boyd, 1101 East 14th, and W. E. Simmons were married Sept. 28 in a ceremony performed in Portales, N. M. After a wedding trip in New Mexico, the couple will make a home in Big Spring.

Maglie Big Reason Bums Qualified For World Series

Sal Was Sure He Could Help

BROOKLYN (AP)—It is fairly certain that if the Brooklyn brass hadn't reached into the clouds and emerged with an angel in the person of 39-year-old Salvatore Anthony Maglie, the Dodgers would not be the National League champions today.

For years Maglie was the meanest and most hated member of the New York Giants, a genuine Dodger killer, the difference between the Dodgers winning and losing at least a couple of pennants. This year, Maglie was still mean and once again, he proved the difference between the Dodgers winning and losing the pennant.

Captain Pee Wee Reese voiced what was in the hearts and minds of all the Dodgers when he said, "I bless the day Maglie became one of us. We wouldn't have had a ghost of a chance without him."

Maglie the magnificent, Maglie the quiet old pro, merely shrugs off the praise of his teammates and his 13 victories, including a no-hitter, since he joined the Dodgers in mid-May, saying:

"I'm glad I helped but I knew all along I would if I were given the opportunity."

No matter how he fares in the fall classic, Maglie must be regarded as the baseball story of the year.

Only 14 months ago, the heavy-bearded Barber of Niagara Falls was dismissed by the Giants and the National League as thoroughly washed-up.

As late as last May, after wearing out a spot on the Cleveland Indian bench Sal was waived out of the American League.

Today this crafty pitcher, this sinister looking man who is said to have ice water in his veins, is the idol of millions of fans across the nation.

It is doubtful if many of the millions who thrilled at his no-hitter against Philadelphia Sept. 25, at his clutch pennant-tying victory over Pittsburgh four days later, knew that Maglie was pitching despite a spinal ailment that keeps him from following through on his delivery. Sal sleeps with a board under his mattress and wears a lift on his right heel to keep his spine in alignment. After studying X-rays which showed a definite spine curvature, doctors marvelled that he could throw at all.

Maglie took a long time to get where he is. After six years in the minors, he got a chance with the Giants in 1945. A year later he was blackballed "for life" when he jumped the Giants to play in the outlawed Mexican League.

By 1950, the year that baseball forgave its prodigals and accepted them back, Maglie was an accomplished tactician. He was 33 years old then. The first day he rejoined the Giants, Manager Leo Durocher remarked: "Get a load of that guy—he looks like the barber at the 'third chair.' The nickname 'the Barber' stuck."

After 3 1/2 brilliant seasons with the Giants that included a 23-game victory season one year, 45 consecutive scoreless innings another year, and 21 of his 23 triumphs over Brooklyn, Maglie hurt his back. Although he won his first eight decisions in 1955, Maglie no longer was the Maglie of old. He lost five of his next six decisions and the Giants decided in mid-season he was expendable. They wanted to be relieved of his $35,000 salary and he was waived out of the National League for the nominal $10,000 waiver price.

When the Indians disposed of him to Brooklyn for the same $10,000 fee on May 15, everyone wondered how the old Dodger killer would get along with the Browns. He was supposed to be all washed up. Odds against a comeback were big. But Maglie fooled them all. The first hint that Maglie was his old menacing self again came early in June when he shut out the Braves with three hits. He has been the Maglie of old ever since.

Phillips Back To Drill Field

Ronnie Phillips veteran halfback, returned to practice Monday with the Big Spring Steers for the first time since breaking his toe but did not play.

He is expected to stay clear of most of the contact work this week, as the Bovines seek to get ready for their Friday night engagement with Sweetwater here.

Phillips was injured the week before the first game (with Andrews) and was on crutches for several weeks.

Jan Lundermilk, letterman end, didn't suit out for Monday's workout due to an injury to his knee in Friday night's contest with Snyder. He was present for the workouts, however.

Buddy Barnes, starting halfback, was in uniform but couldn't take part in the contact work. He has a boil on one foot that may require surgery. If that is the case, then he may have to miss the game with Sweetwater.

The Steers start their defensive tuneups this afternoon for the outing with Sweetwater.

Brother Combination

You might not think so if you judged them by their size but these two Knott football players are brothers. They are Jimmy Peacock, a 210-pound junior; holding Ray, who weighs no more than 102 pounds. Ray is a sophomore.

OU Easy Gains First Spot In AP Grid Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. The Associated Press

With a string of 31 straight victories behind them and the end hardly in sight, Oklahoma's Sooners are the nation's No. 1 college football team until someone proves they're not.

The nation's sports writers and broadcasters voted Oklahoma into the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press ranking poll for the second week of the 1956 season. The Sooners also were the pre-season choice. The seasonal debut of the Big Ten Conference teams, many rated high in the pre-season picks, had a distinct effect on this week's ratings. But Oklahoma, first on 60 of 97 ballots, still dominated. After whipping North Carolina 36-0 in the season opener, Oklahoma polled a total of 883 points on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second.

Michigan State, returning to its pre-season second rating on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, drew 17 first places and 773 points. Then Came Georgia Tech, strength of a 21-7 victory over Stanford a week ago, with 662 points.

Tech has won two games, coming through a 9-7 squeaker against Southern Methodist last Saturday. Others in the first ten, which included two new members and in an entirely different order since last week, were Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian, Tennessee and Southern California.

Michigan, a smashing winner over UCLA in its opener, advanced from 13th place to fifth. Tennessee, not even in the first 20 last week, gained recognition by whipping Kentucky.

There's little trouble in sight for top-ranked Oklahoma. The next opponent, Kansas State, already has been beaten twice.

Michigan State vs. Michigan is this week's big one. Then Ohio State faces Stanford in a game that should indicate the balance of power in the Big Ten race. Georgia Tech has an open date. Mississippi plays Houston, Pitt tackles California. TCU meets Arkansas. Tennessee meets an old rival, Duke, and USC visits Wisconsin.

The top 10 teams with first-place votes and two-loss records in parentheses (points based on 10 for first, 9 for second):

Rank	Team	Points
1	Michigan State (17) (1-0)	883
2	Georgia Tech (5) (2-0)	773
3	Ohio State (14) (2-0)	662
4	Michigan (2) (1-0)	622
5	Mississippi (1) (2-0)	622
6	Pittsburgh (1) (2-0)	572
7	Texas Christian (1) (1-0)	522
8	Tennessee (1) (1-0)	472
9	Southern Calif. (1) (1-0)	422
10	Arkansas (1) (1-0)	372
11	Texas A&M (2-0)	322
12	Southern Methodist (1-1)	272
13	Brian Barber (San Angelo) (1-1)	222
14	Miami Fla. (1-0)	172
15	Army (1-0)	122
16	Baylor (2-0)	72
17	(tie) Syracuse (1-1)	22
18	Vanderbilt (2-0)	22
19	Iowa (1-0)	22
20	Arkansas and Penn State each received one first-place vote.	22

A MISSOURI OBSERVER, smiling after Oregon State had come out in black uniforms to play gold-clad Mizou.

"It's a scientific fact that dark clothes absorb more heat than light colored ones. They'll tire much sooner than we will." (Final score: Oregon State 19, Missouri 13).

WILLIAM ROBERTSON of the Thorobred Record: "Despite the great advances made by the sport of racing in recent years toward achieving complete respectability in the public mind, there still clings the faint aura of illicit doings. Legislators are inclined to view revenue from racing not so much as legitimate income, but more as a form of 'ice,' a payoff to authorities for looking the other way when shenanigans are in progress. According to this concept, racing's ability to protest an increase in taxation is just as compromised as a racketeer's ability to retaliate to an increase in the hush money he is required to pay. 'You'd better be quiet, son, or you'll attract attention and that'll be the end of your business.'"

TED KLUSZEWSKI, Cincinnati slugger and former Indiana University football player: "Put it this way. Football is tougher for one game. But over the season you have to be in better shape for baseball. You can play football with the injuries which would prevent you from playing baseball. Broken bones, charley horses, pulled muscles, you can tape them up and go out and play football. Those cases they use to protect injuries in football—just like weapons."

SATCHEL PAIGE, baseball's ageless hurler, telling about his variety of pitches: "I've got bloopers, loopers and droopers. I got a jumpball, a screwball, a wobbly ball, a whipsy-dipsy-do ball, a hurry-up ball, a nothin' ball and a bat dodger."

STEVE OWEN, former Baylor coaching aide: "Football is a game that can't be played with diagrams on a tablecloth. You have to get down on the ground with the other fellow and find out who is the best man. That's the idea of the game to me. It runs the same as life, which is kind of a contact game. You can get some awful licks if you live a long time, and if you don't bounce back you're through."

Yanks 7 1/2-5 To Eject Bums As Champions

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—The well-rested New York Yankees ruled a stout 7 1/2 to 5 choice to dethrone the champion Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1956 World Series which starts tomorrow at Ebbets Field but the National League has plenty of supporters, too.

Bobby Bragan, who gained stature as a manager even in Pittsburgh's three season-ending losses to Brooklyn, picked the Dodgers to win.

"All they have to do is play the kind of ball they played against us in those last three days," Bragan said, "those guys were simply great."

A major league umpire, who will remain unidentified even though he will not work in the series, thought the Dodgers would win "because they are keyed up right now and they have the momentum."

"I've been reading where the Dodgers are supposed to be tired," he said. "Tired of what? Winning? Capturing the pennant on the last day of the season, and the manner in which they did it, was the best pick-up they could have gotten."

Whitey Ford was certain to pitch for the Yankees in the opener but Manager Walter Alton was not expected to name the Brooklyn pitcher until after the workout today.

It was believed that Sal Maglie, Brooklyn's hottest pitcher in the stretch, will get the call. Alton wants Maglie to open things up and late yesterday he had just about made up his mind to go with Sal but reserved judgment when the 39-year-old righthander complained of miseries in his shoulder.

"Maglie will pitch if his arm is all right," Alton said. "If not it will be Clem Labine."

Maglie admitted he felt tired and also complained of a mild stomach disorder but said he would pitch if Alton wanted him to.

The former Dodger killer's 13-5 record for Brooklyn ranks him second only to Don Newcombe (27-7), who will hurl the second game for Brooklyn against New York's Don Larsen. Sal lost his only previous World Series start against the Yankees, failing to go beyond the fifth inning in the 1951 Yankee-Giant series.

Ford, who hasn't pitched since he failed in his bid for a 20th victory last Wednesday, will have a full week's rest. The southpaw ace appeared undaunted by the task confronting him in a park called a left-handed pitcher's graveyard. In Whitey's only series appearance there, in 1951, he was knocked out in the first inning.

"For a lefthander to win at Ebbets Field is a challenge," acknowledged Ford. "But I am anxious to prove I can do it."

Ford said he was surprised when his manager, Casey Stengel, sent him to Ebbets Field Sunday to give the Dodgers a look.

"I didn't learn anything I didn't already know," said Ford, who has two series triumphs over the Dodgers, both in Yankee Stadium.

"I still regard Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson as the two toughest hitters for me but I still don't think the Dodgers are tougher to beat in Ebbets Field than the Red Sox are up in Fenway Park. And I have won there."

Stengel said he planned no lineup changes. Mickey Mantle, though still bothered by a pulled muscle in his left groin, is a certain starter in center field, as is Billy Martin at second base, despite a back ailment. Enos Slaughter has a bad toe but he will be in left field. Bill Skowron at first base, Andy Carey at third, Gil McDougald at shortstop, Hank Bauer in right field, and of course Yogi Berra, behind the plate, complete the lineup.

Jay McCullough To Miss TCU-Arkansas Skirmish

By The Associated Press

TCU prepared Tuesday to meet Arkansas at Fort Worth in the first championship tilt of the season for the Southwest Conference.

Left guard Jay McCullough will miss the game. He was in bed Monday with a high fever, pleurisy and a virus infection. He hurt his knee against Kansas two weeks ago but the injury had been responding well and the coaches had expected to be able to use McCullough against the Forkers Saturday.

Two other injured Frog players, tackle Don Cooper and No. 2 right halfback Jim Shofner, returned to work Monday.

Coach Jack Mitchell took Arkansas behind closed doors for practice. The players filed out after about an hour and watched a movie of last Saturday's clash with Oklahoma A&M, which the Razorbacks won 19-7.

SMU listened to scouting reports on Missouri, this week's opponent. End Willard Dewveall hurt his knee against Georgia Tech last week and will be out this week.

Baylor ran through a light non-contact drill on defensive maneuvers. Reuben Sage, who missed Saturday's game because of injuries, was back at his fullback slot and was expected to be ready for Maryland this weekend.

Texas A&M center Dee Powell, who blocked the punt that gave the Aggies a safety and a 9-4 victory over LSU Saturday, was promoted to the first team. Coach Bear Bryant said movies showed Powell and halfback Loyd Taylor were the outstanding players for the Aggies.

The first-string Aggies worked out in sweat clothes Monday in preparation for this week's game with Texas Tech.

Texas took things easy Monday, working out in shorts on pass offense and defense. Fullback Wayne Walsh, who injured a shoulder against Tulane Saturday, missed the workout. Extent of his injury was not known.

Texas meets West Virginia Saturday.

Rice went through a hard practice in preparation for the LSU game Saturday. Dan Shuford and G. F. Ajsbrook, injured Owls, were back in pads but Shuford didn't take part in the scrimmage and alternated at right halfback with Bobby Williams.

PAID GATE WAS 5,335

PAID attendance at last week's football game between Snyder and Big Spring here, played in the new stadium, was 5,335.

The turnout was considered unusually good, in view of the fact that Big Spring had not won a game this season.

The total receipts amounted to $6,147.15. Receipts are considerably higher than they have been in the past, since reserve seat ticket prices have been advanced a quarter to $1.50.

Season ticket sales amounted to 1,040, down considerably from 1955.

Sonora, Coahoma's Next Foe, Boast Great Back

By The Associated Press

any chances with his prized gridder; he doesn't want him to get hurt. The reason is obvious.

In four games this season Sonora has scored 152 points. Johnson made 126 of them. That's an average of 31 1/2 per contest. And the fellow hasn't averaged playing half the time although he's also a great defensive man and works at that while he isn't running for touchdowns.

At the rate Johnson is going he would establish a new individual scoring record in Texas. Except that Turner isn't interested in a record for Johnson; he's interested in winning a championship. And Johnson will play just enough to get that unless, of course, Sonora meets a team that slows down the great back and he has to stay in all the way.

The college scouts all have this tall 176-pounder on their list. He winds up his high school career this year, but he isn't saying what college he favors.

The main reason for Johnson's scoring is speed. He does the 100 in 10 flat. But he also has deception and is hard to bring down even after he is hummed in.

Johnson also does the kicking and passing. He's tops at both. He averages 45 to 50 yards on his punts unless he's aiming at the coffin corner.

He is so dangerous on punt returns that the other teams won't kick to him but send the ball out of bounds.

High scoring is nothing new to Johnson. He made 125 points last season.

Not only is Johnson a great football player but he's all-star in basketball, a star in baseball and is a top track man.

Coahoma plays host to Johnson and Sonora in an 8 o'clock engagement Friday night.

Attendance Booms At SWC Contests

DALLAS (AP)—Football attendance is booming in the Southwest Conference with the first two weeks of play bringing an average of 37,285 per game.

The season opened a week earlier last year and by this time 12 home games had been played with a total attendance of 375,500—an average of $1,291. Only seven home games have been played this season but they drew a total of 251,500.

San Angelo 3rd In State Poll

DALLAS (AP)—Abilene clung to the top rung of the Dallas News' weekly AAAA schoolboy football poll today.

The state champ whipped Lubbock Monterey 41-0 last week. Wichita Falls clipped Amarillo 23-12 to move up to second spot from third and Port Arthur moved into the top 10 with a 30-7 victory over Odessa.

The top ten with their point totals and spots held last week:

1. Abilene 150 (1)
2. Wichita Falls 125 (3)
3. San Angelo 112 (2)
4. Corpus Christi Bay 91 (4)

TEXANS FOR EISENHOWER

Yes, the Democrats of Texas again are going to bat for Mr. Eisenhower, just as we did in 1952 when more than a million Texans gave him an overwhelming majority.

We were for Ike then because he was the man who could and would end the useless war in Korea, bring back integrity to Washington and return our tidelands.

These things he did. He kept his promises, so let's keep Ike.

The Texas Democrats for Eisenhower believe in the traditional principles of the Democratic Party. Many of us have long supported this party.

But we have measured the standards of the two candidates and by every gauge — politically, morally and spiritually — we have found that Dwight D. Eisenhower is a better Democrat than Adlai Stevenson.

Your vote and your help are needed to keep alive Texas Democratic principles. Let us hear from you!

County Tax Bills To Be Out Soon

County tax statements should be in the mail by early next week and it is possible they will be dispatched this weekend, according to Mrs. Viola Robinson, tax assessor.

She said that her staff is putting the finishing touches to the mountain of paper work involved in preparing the 1957 tax rolls. The department installed new mechanized bookkeeping equipment in the office this summer and the belated arrival of the machines delayed start on the preparation of the rolls. Furthermore, all records had to be transferred from the old system to the new and this process involved much extra work.

The last obstacle to hamper the deputies in preparing the rolls was delayed in arrival of the special tax receipt forms required by the new machine system.

The staff has been making it regular practice to work nights and holidays for a number of weeks in its effort to speed up the preparation of the rolls.

Mrs. Robinson had hoped to have the lists completed by Oct. 1, but missed the date by about a week. She pointed out that next year, with the new equipment and the transfer of all records to the changed system, work of getting out the tax rolls can be materially simplified.

Westbrook Wreck Injuries Fatal To Claude Man

COLORADO CITY—Edward F. Eudaley, 76, of Claude died in the Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City Monday afternoon of injuries received in an automobile accident Friday morning in Westbrook.

Eudaley had been unconscious since the accident, which occurred when his pickup was struck in the right side by an automobile driven by E. R. Mitchell of Andrews. Mitchell said that the pickup turned across the road directly in front of him and he was unable to stop in time to avoid it.

Eudaley was born Sept. 21, 1880, and had lived in Cross Plains. Burial will be in Cross Plains, under the direction of the Higginbotham Funeral Home of Cross Plains.

Knife-Fork Speaker Sees 'Golden Age'

Despite all the worries and all the fogs which grip the people of this nation and the world, the future should be bright and this may, despite its gloomy appearance, actually be the dawn of a golden age, Clayton Rand, editor, author and world-traveler told the members of the Big Spring Knife and Fork Club last night.

Rand, a humorist with an acid tongue, was the opening speaker on the 1956-57 program of after-dinner speakers sponsored here by the Knife and Fork Club.

Topic assigned to Rand on the official program, was "A Cure for Headaches—Personal and International." He admitted at the outset he had no intention of sticking to that topic and used his allotted time to discuss impressions he has gathered of conditions, personalities and trends in his long career as a traveler and public speaker.

He proved a highly popular guest with the Knife and Fork members. They laughed gleefully at his quips, listened with close attention and accorded him a liberal applause at the close of his talk.

Rand declared that the world, throughout the history of man, has been periodically infected with waves of mass insanities and that some of the pessimism and alarm which most people suffer at this time is a phase of this weird disease.

Described by John Taylor, president of the club, who served as toastmaster for the dinner, as an author of several books, Rand observed that he was from the "most illiterate state in the union," which he added, "has produced more literary giants" than any other state.

He mentioned William Faulkner and Tennessee Williams, both of Mississippi as examples.

"You see," he said, "We can't read in Mississippi but we can write."

He said he was fundamentally an optimist by nature—"a sort of pessimistic optimist," who isn't satisfied with many things but who had a fundamental belief that all will ultimately work out for the best.

Approximately 250 members of the club heard Rand.

At a short business meeting after the speaking, Taylor said that the club has reached a point after seven years when it has to do one of three things—Increase its memberships dues, reduce the number of programs it presents, or lessen the quality of its speakers. He said the directors are to send letters to all members asking what they want done—either to increase the dues to a point where sufficient revenue can be obtained to continue the schedule at the high level it now has, and with the same number of speakers each year or adopt one of the other proposals.

Next speaker before the club will be heard on Nov. 1 and is billed as "The Flying Reporter."—S.W.B.

City Tax Payments Show Slight Gain

Collection of city taxes Monday showed over $400 more than the opening day of 1955.

Total for Monday in the city tax office—current taxes alone—was $2,921.60. The figure for Oct. 1, 1955, was $2,485.60.

Most of the total Monday was mail collections, and the same was true this morning. However, a steady stream of property owners was filing through the tax office this morning.

The office is open until 5 p.m. each day during the week and until noon on Saturday. Monday was the first day owners could pay current 1956 taxes.

Fewer Accidents During September

Big Spring had the lightest month on accidents of the year during September. The total was 48.

Four of the total were hit-and-runs, and the remainder regular collisions. Eight persons needed treatment from the accidents.

Ten of the accidents occurred on Gregg, and nine on Fourth. There were seven on Main. Two each collisions occurred at Second and Gregg, Second and Main, and Fourth and Gregg.

First Jury Case Reaches Quick End

First criminal case to come up in the current Howard County court jury docket ended almost as soon as it was begun.

C. A. Aaron, charged with driving while intoxicated, was the defendant.

A jury was sworn, other panel members excused to 9 a.m. Wednesday, and Jimmy Parks, highway patrol officer, was placed in the witness chair.

George Thomas, attorney for Aaron, moved that "no further evidence in the case be heard." His reason was that the complaint against his client had been "altered and changed" since it was originally filed. Supporting his position, he presented a photostat copy of the original complaint and asked Judge R. H. Weaver to compare it with the complaint in the court today.

Weaver studied the two documents and sustained the objection. Aaron was released and the case was dismissed.

Water Customers Request Re-Checks

A record volume of customers calling for a re-read of their water meters descended on the city water office the past week.

Mildred Bell, of the water office, said the number of calls during that time was bigger than in July when many citizens asked that their meters be rechecked. And because of the volume of calls now, many who asked for a check as late as Friday have not been served.

Reason for this is the large number of new taps and cutoffs now being made. Water employees must make the taps and cutoffs before they can take time to recheck a meter.

September is annually a big month for moving, which makes new taps heavier, the department noted. Also a Webb AFB graduation last week brought a large number of added calls for meter changes—both from students leav-

Six Youths Admit Kimbell Break-Ins

Six boys, ranging in age from 9 to 13 years, all Spanish-Americans, have been picked up by A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, and have admitted a series of break-ins at the Kimbell Feed Mills on West First.

Long said he would take the sextet before the juvenile judge as soon as that official can hear their cases.

Three of the boys were picked up on Monday morning. They implicated the others who were apprehended Tuesday. Their lot consisted of cold drinks, potato chips and other small items.

The boys allegedly told Long they had been going into the building regularly for some weeks.

False Alarm

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The teacher in the first grade at Ralph Street School quickly called police when she saw a 6-year-old child slump over her desk. Police, a rescue squad and a doctor answered the emergency call. The doctor reported to police there was nothing wrong with the child — she was just "tired and fell asleep."

Tough Penalty For Students

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — Superior Judge Gregory P. Maushart is tough on high school student traffic violators in football season. Any student cited must spend from 8 to 10 p.m. Friday — high school football night — in Maushart's court taking driver education lessons. The judge started his miss-the-game penalty four years ago. Last year he held Friday night court for only two offenders. "I don't get any this year," Judge Maushart said. "I like to see football games, too."

Cut-Off Video Contestants Get Apology

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson has apologized for knocking out the "climatic last moments" of a television quiz show with one of his filmed political chats. Last Tuesday night CBS presented a paid "spot" telecast starring Stevenson in the last five minutes of the "Name That Tune" show. Honeymooning Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Keil of Herington, Kan., were on the show at the time. Mrs. Keil and her partner, Emil Hardt of New York, had won $20,000 by naming tunes. TV viewers were watching films of the Keil wedding when suddenly the Stevenson telecast came on. Telephone calls, telegrams and letters to CBS protested interruption of the quiz show. Yesterday master of ceremonies George De Witt rejected this telegram from the Democratic presidential candidate. "I'm sorry that Name That Tune last week switched abruptly to name that candidate. I hope you will be able to reassure your large and loyal audience that neither I, Sen. Kefauver nor the Democratic National Committee intend to deprive it of the climatic last moments of your show of suspense. I particularly regret that we cut off Mr. and Mrs. Keil who constitute a happy combination of being Kansans, farmers, newly-weds and Democrats." CBS quoted the Keils as saying: "Mr. Stevenson can cut into our time any day — he's our boy." Stevenson's apology will be read on tonight's show and Mrs. Keil and her partner will try for the top prize of $25,000.

BOMB TESTS Adlai Challenges Ike On Atom Ban

TEANECK, N.J. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson challenged President Eisenhower today to "take the leadership" in a move to ban hydrogen bomb tests and suggested Russia is willing to go along. Renewing his campaign call for an end to testing of large-scale nuclear weapons, the Democratic presidential nominee declared: "The renunciation of such tests is a step which I think the great powers are now willing to take — if there is leadership in this direction. It is a step that can be safely taken, for no one can explode a hydrogen bomb in secret, and each would know whether the others were acting in good faith. It would be a step along a new path toward peace." Since only the United States, Britain and Russia are known to possess nuclear weapons, Stevenson obviously included Russia when he said he thinks "the great powers" are willing to suspend H-bomb tests. Stevenson's assertion that a hydrogen bomb cannot be exploded "in secret" apparently was a reply to Eisenhower's Sept. 19 dismissal of his proposals as a one-sided "theatrical national gesture" in the absence of enforceable international agreements. Stevenson, who accused the Eisenhower administration last night of failing to provide leadership in the field of education, renewed his proposal for suspension of big-scale nuclear tests in a speech prepared for an audience at the Fairleigh Dickinson University campus here. It was one of eight talks Stevenson scheduled in a day of stumping New Jersey after a flight from Washington. Included were an afternoon speech at Newark and a rally tonight at Jersey City. In his prepared Teaneck speech, Stevenson expressed regret that the Eisenhower administration, as he put it, "has not pressed forward along this path to peace as so many have urged — Catholic and Protestant religious leaders, distinguished scientists, prominent educators, yes, and serious politicians." Stevenson said also that the administration "seems to have ignored what appears to be an increasing desire to close the gap between East and West on such subjects as mutual inspection and limitation of armed forces." There is a "danger" in insistence on "perfect, foolproof answers," he said and added: "We must always press toward those answers and not be content until we get them. But we cannot afford to reject small gains." "That the world has never yet achieved a system of universal and enforceable disarmament surely does not prove that it never will." Surely, Stevenson continued, this government should explore disarmament proposals by others "to see whether they were made in good faith and whether they will meet our security requirements."

2 Negroes Die For White Woman's Rape

RAIFORD, Fla. (AP) — Two Gainesville Negroes—one nervous, one calm—died in the electric chair today for the rape of a white woman. Supt. DeWitt Sinclair said there were about 50 witnesses including two women. He said women rarely ask to see an electrocution. Lee Colson was the first to go. Sinclair said "he was pretty nervous and began to mumble while he was being strapped in. Then he tried to sing but the words weren't distinguishable." Moses Dunmore was calm "He just walked in and sat down," said Sinclair.

Gulf Storm Plays Out Across Texas

By The Associated Press

The Gulf storm that kicked showers over Texas Monday was nothing but a low pressure trough up through extreme East Texas Tuesday. More showers were expected in East and South Texas, but the north and west were expected to be dry. Predawn temperatures ranged from 53 degrees at Dalhart to 79 at Galveston. Rainfall reported Monday included: Austin .10 of an inch, Brownsville .05, Beaumont .03, Dallas .85, San Angelo .02, Waco .02, Lufkin .08, Mineral Wells .02 and Ennis 2.20. High afternoon temperatures Monday ranged from 95 at Presidio and Childress down to 63 at Alice. High winds and seas kicked up by the disturbance kept small craft in port along the Texas Gulf Coast most of Sunday and Monday. It was a little chilly in the Northeast and sections of the West but fairly mild weather prevailed in most other parts of the country. Temperatures in Illinois early this morning were in the same range as those in Texas as warm southerly air spread over the Great Lakes region, Ohio Valley and the mid-Mississippi Valley. Readings were as much as 30 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier when below freezing was reported in northern Michigan. Readings were in the 40s in the northern Plains and New England. In other areas they ranged from the 50s in the north to the 70s in the south. One of the lowest marks was 23 at Fraser, Colo. Scattered showers fell in the Rockies but generally fair weather prevailed from the West Coast to a line roughly from Detroit to El Paso, Tex. Eastward to the Appalachians showers and considerable cloudiness were in prospect. Fair to partly cloudy weather was forecast for New England and widely scattered showers from New York to Florida. Heaviest rain during the night was in the Gulf states from Alabama to Texas. Amounts ranged up to nearly 3 inches at Montgomery, Ala.

Mussolini's Widow Wants His Body Back

ROME, Oct. 2 (AP)—Forgotten by the world, the widow of Benito Mussolini lives here in modest circumstances, caring for a crippled daughter and praying that before she dies she can bury the former dictator in a family plot.

"I was left penniless but that does not matter," Donna Rachele Mussolini said in an interview. "The only thing I want back is my husband's body. I will never stop asking that they return it to the family."

The Fascist dictator was executed by partisans in 1945. The government has kept his burial place secret to prevent it from becoming a shrine for die-hard Fascists.

If the body is returned, Donna Rachele says she will bury it in the sun-burned Romagna area of his birth, at the foot of the little mountain-top republic of San Marino.

The woman, who once ranked only behind former Queen Elena in Italy, today is indistinguishable from thousands of other Italian matrons of her age—which she keeps secret but is about 70. She lives on a noisy, littered street in a new Roman quarter, a small, white-haired woman who carries her own shopping bag and bargains with shopkeepers over the price of food.

Home is a modest apartment which she shares with her youngest daughter Anna Maria, now 25 and crippled since childhood by polio. Also with her is her son Romano, 28, a professional jazz musician.

Another son, Vittorio, is a Buenos Aires businessman. A daughter, Edda Ciano, widow of the former Italian foreign minister, also lives in Italy but mixes with an international set strange to her mother. A fifth child, Bruno was killed in a plane crash at the start of World War II.

Mussolini's personal fortune was confiscated by the Italian government when he died. Until recently, his widow lived off what friends and her own children gave her.

Last July, a Roman court ordered the government to pay $192 monthly to Anna Maria and $112 monthly to Romano from her father's confiscated fortune. Now times are a little easier.

Siberia Moving Into Modern Age

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NOVOSIBIRSK, Siberia (AP)—Siberia, long considered a frozen wilderness, is in a vast upheaval, moving at break-neck speed into the modern industrial age.

Its 20 million old settlers and countless new immigrants display the typical traits of persons rushing ahead into a new era—including nostalgia for the old and eagerness for the new.

The fact that this industrial and agricultural surge is directed from above by party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev and other top Communists along strictly party lines contrasts sharply with a similar development of the United States a half century ago.

But it does not lessen the pioneering aspect of those taking part.

This central Siberian city of about 800,000, long forbidden territory for Westerners, is the heart of an effort to create a huge new economic base for the Soviet Union.

Its inhabitants proudly call it "The Chicago of the Soviet Union." It is a microcosm of the Soviet Union's vast interior.

It has a rich agricultural hinterland, grain elevators, slaughterhouses. It is a big railway junction and river port. It is an administrative center. It supports many publishing houses and educational institutions.

All the pulls and tugs currently assailing the Soviet people may be studied here as though a cross sampling had been gathered specially.

The downgrading of Joseph Stalin, for instance, made a profound impact on these people 2,000 miles from Moscow.

"The people were a little hurt in their feelings," a high woman party functionary told this reporter while driving out to a collective farm the other day. "The criticism of the cult of personality was a little unexpected, but the people realized it was just. In general, it has been met very favorably."

The visiting reporters saw a new Novosibirsk television station under construction. The "contingents" were still being used there.

Men, Machines Work In Dusty Heat On Glen Canyon Dam Job

By HOWARD S. BENEDICT
KANAB, Utah (AP)—A big, sun-blackened workman stopped his bulldozer and, stepping into an inch of dust, walked to a nearby water bag. He filled a cup and drank deeply.

"Man, that tastes good!" he exclaimed. He wiped the sweat of the 100-degree heat from his face.

A pickup truck bounced up with two other workers aboard. The truck traveled along a newly graded road, throwing up a screen of dust. Half an hour later, it pulled into a trailer camp and the tired men went to wash, eat and rest.

Working men, bulldozers, desert heat, trailer camps and dust—these are the ingredients that are going into making a dam in north-central Arizona.

The dam is Glen Canyon, the key unit of the 760-million-dollar Upper Colorado River project—the largest reclamation authorization ever granted by Congress in a single piece of legislation.

Most of the work today is on construction of access roads to the dam site in rugged Arizona country five miles south of the Utah border. It will be almost three years before the first concrete is poured for the dam itself.

A year ago the Glen Canyon Gorge of the Colorado River was accessible only by horseback. The nearest highways were at Kanab, 68 miles to the northwest, and at Bitter Springs, Ariz., 40 miles to the south.

Today, crude roads—foreunders of a major highway—reach from Kanab and Bitter Springs to the opposite edges of the 800-foot deep gorge.

Both Utah and Arizona have thrown hundreds of men into the work of road building in an effort to complete by November a road adequate to carry equipment and material for a mammoth diversion tunnel to be built near the dam site.

The diversion tunnel will be 2,600 feet long and 46 feet in diameter cut out of solid rock at the bottom of the gorge. It will take more than a year to build. Then huge coffer dams will be erected above and below Glen Canyon before actual work can start on the dam.

When concrete for the big dam begins to pour, an estimated 4,000 will be employed at the site. Many will bring their families and a town of 8,000 or 9,000 persons will sprout out of the desert near Glen Canyon.

When completed in about 10 years, Glen Canyon Dam will be 700 feet high and about 1,000 feet across. It will be the second highest dam in the United States. Hoover Dam is higher. The dam will create a lake 186 miles long and up to several miles wide, most of it in Utah.

The dam's main purpose will be to provide irrigation water and power for the West. This unit of the Colorado River project especially will benefit arid lands of Utah and Arizona and will generate power for points as far away as Los Angeles.

Glen Canyon is the biggest unit of the Colorado River project. It will cost an estimated 421 million dollars.

The entire project will take more than 50 years to complete. Eventually it will supply badly needed irrigation water for more than 366,000 acres of land and have an installed hydroelectric power capacity of 1,100,000 kilowatts.

Frosh Send Soph Prexy On Long Ride

LOS ANGELES (AP)—About 75 Claremont Men's College freshmen "kidnaped" the president of the sophomore class last night and put him aboard an airliner for New York.

The one-way free ride for 19-year-old Ted Determan of Riverside was explained by a freshman spokesman, Frank Frye, 18, of San Diego, who said: "This year the class of 1960 wanted to do something bigger and better than ever" in theazing line.

The freshmen told Determan they might send him bus fare home.

Real Test For Radar Effectiveness

Big Spring motorists have a few days of grace while the police check drivers with the new radar unit. By the latter part of the week, officers may be cracking down by issuing tickets for speeding.

The radar will have its limitations — numerically, principally — but it should have a salutary effect in dampening the ardor of those of us who believe speed limits are for someone else. Obviously the unit can't be used everywhere at once, but it can be shifted unceremoniously in such a manner that drivers can't be exactly sure whether the gadget is putting the eye on them.

Perhaps it is a commentary on us that we have to lighten our feet out of a sense of fear that we will be caught in the act of breaking the law. But apparently that is about the only sure remedy for excessively fast driving.

We will be interested to watch, after the radar has been in use for a time, to note if the rate of collisions declines. We have an unparagonably high rate of tangles at intersections and it may be that speed is at the root of most of them. Of course, fines will quickly equal the cost of the unit, but that isn't the object at all. If the radar can prevent several collisions per month, its savings will be tremendous, and in the process we will have a safer city.

A Facility To Give Lasting Pride

Our new stadium should be a source of pride, for it is a splendid plant capable of carrying our needs for a long time. There remain a few things to be done, such as rounding out the rest rooms and concession stands, the completion of the press and radio boxes, and the planting of shrubs and trees to serve in a measure as a windbreak at the open ends. The erection of a field house will also serve this purpose as well as making matters handier for participating teams.

The investment is going to run well over the figure first envisioned by the school board, but it is going to provide a value well within the range of cost. Except for maintenance, nothing should have to be done to the stadium for years. If it satisfies needs for 10 years — and we believe it will, and longer — then the cost will figure down to about $2.50 per seat per annum.

There are some developments which seemingly are in order, based on the initial experience Friday evening. Subsequent use may prove us wrong, but it seems that there is a design error in the narrow ramps and the equally narrow passageway in front of the first row of seats. The former is probably to keep from reducing capacity through loss of seats to wider ramps, but the convenience gained would be worth the seats lost.

Most certainly something is going to have to be done about stabilizing the parking areas. For the time being sprinkling may be the answer; ultimately, asphaltic stabilization may be the solution. But something must be done to reduce the curtain of dirt.

Traffic control needs to be worked out to a better degree, although we recognize that this is something which will have to be evolved. It will take some time for officials to get the movement picture of movement in mind. Perhaps as we become familiar with the ins and outs, we can move more quickly to and from the stadium.

Walter Lippmann

New Political Generation

As compared with early August, before the two national conventions, there is something quite different and new in the political situation. Then, it would have been a surprise to find a seasoned correspondent or a professional politician in either party who did not think that Eisenhower was, unless another illness overtook him, unbeatable. Now, there are few who doubt that the election is a contest in which the Democrats stand to make important gains in Congress, and have a fighting chance for the Presidency.

The main cause of this change of mood is, I believe, the increasing evidence that the Democratic party is unexpectedly strong—that it is in one of its periods of revival, as in the early days of Wilson and again of Roosevelt. The Democratic victories in the mid-term election of 1954 registered the beginning of that revival. They showed that the Democrats who had voted for Eisenhower in 1952 were still Democrats; they showed also that in the new political generation which is taking over, the Democrats have by far the best of it. At the Chicago convention last month, the control of the Democratic party passed, after Truman's rear-guard action, into the hands of Stevenson and the new political generation. It is this rejuvenated party which is showing so much bounce and buoyancy.

present and the future. They do not know and they do not care about the quarrels between Truman and his enemies.

There is little evidence of a corresponding revival, due to the rise of a new generation, within the Republican party. That is the real reason I believe for the curious listlessness of the Republican party. In his acceptance speech at the San Francisco convention, the President spoke sincerely and eloquently in the hope that he might be the leader of such a revival. He called upon the new generation to form behind him in making over the party. There is no evidence of such a rally. If his hope was being realized, it is evident that the prime exponent of the new Republicanism would be Nixon, who is a young man and Eisenhower's heir apparent. But nobody supposes that Nixon would or could or that he wished to remake the old Republican party into Eisenhower's new Republican party.

The Republican party lacks vigor because the new political generation has not yet obtained control of the party. The party is in the control of men who are not vigorous.

The President's insight here, as in so many elemental issues, was sound when he offered to lead the new generation in the remaking of the party. But the reality of the matter will be that as he himself does not belong to the new generation, he can advise it, he can inspire it, but he cannot lead it.

Almost surely that will have to be done by men who themselves belong to the new generation.

Backer's Service

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. — Backers of the proposed Buttes Dam, an irrigation project, decided to make it easier for supporters to let their congressmen know of their feelings.

They set up a "Buttes Dam or Bust" headquarters, put in stenographers and offered: "You dictate, we write, you sign, we mail." More than 30 proponents of the dam accepted the offer of free letter writing on the first day.

Famous Symbol

MEXICO CITY — Mexico's most famous symbol is probably the Aztec calendar, seen on every peso bill, most pottery and billfolds, scarves, as a trademark for many firms and as a backdrop to most Mexican events.

The centuries-old calendar weighs 25 tons, is on display at the National Museum.

Did It Himself

NEW PLYMOUTH, Idaho — Gene Kilbrew has sworn off "do-it-yourself" projects after his first attempt. While connecting his new air conditioning system, he hooked into the hot water pipe instead of the cold and wound up with a houseful of steam.

Southern North Pole

NORTH POLE, Colo. — That date line is official now, even though North Pole, Colo. is in the southern part of the state. Santa's Workshop, a tourist attraction at the base of Pike's Peak, got official post-office designation from the federal government.

All At Once

ARLINGTON, Minn. — Mrs. Herbert Tock had never won anything in her life before her ticket at the Sibley County Fair brought her a 14-cubic foot freezer.

Next night she returned to the fair and won a new automobile.

Medicine Shows

James Marlow Campaign Warming Up

WASHINGTON — Either President Eisenhower is mad at Adlai Stevenson for needing him or he has decided to fight harder. What's happening now is beginning to look like a repetition of 1952.

Yesterday was the first chance Stevenson had to hit back since Eisenhower peered sarcasm at Stevenson. The two men belittled each other as a leader.

And Eisenhower is beginning to use some of the very words — "bunk," for instance — he threw at the Democrats when he got fired up in the 1952 campaign.

In the early days of the 1952 race Stevenson, a much wittier man in those days, repeatedly jibed at Eisenhower, calling him a "me, too" candidate and otherwise making light of him.

At last Eisenhower boiled over. Sweeping across Indiana in mid-September 1952, he made one speech after another complaining about Stevenson's humor. He told the crowds:

"I can't be amusing in this business. These are not laughing matters on which we are speaking. . . now as we face the issues of this campaign I see nothing funny about them."

Touches of ridicule for Eisenhower crept into Stevenson's speeches early this year. On Sept. 22 and 23 he said "I respect the kindly intentions of President Eisenhower" and that he was "willing to believe" Eisenhower didn't "understand what he was saying" when he talked of the farm problem in 1952.

Then he added he suspects Eisenhower of "political expediency" in dealing with the farmers this year. On Sept. 26 at Kansas City he made his most scorching attack on Eisenhower so far.

After accusing Eisenhower of failure to live up to his "responsibility of leadership," Stevenson said: "In fact, many people have wondered how much President Eisenhower has had to do with the Eisenhower administration. Sometimes the President seemed to wonder himself."

"There is only one question to be asked about the Eisenhower administration. That is: 'Who's in charge here anyway?' Who, in this businessman's administration keeps the store?"

Yesterday Eisenhower went to Ohio and Kentucky and made two speeches. He didn't mention Stevenson by name, but there could be no doubt whom he meant when he said:

"We all know that there are people who suffer from living in a world of words and phrases for so long that they can no longer recognize action when they see it."

"And — when it comes to a real-life critical matter like political leadership — we recall a fact that all of us have seen in our own daily lives. The longest lectures almost always come from those with the least experience."

British Noble Plays For Pay At Club Piano

LONDON — Robin Douglas-Home, nephew of the Duke of Home and an escort of Princess Alexandra, sat down at a night club piano and started to play for pay.

"I'm not broke, or anything like that," said the 24-year-old socialite. "I'm just doing this for fun. I get paid, but it's really for fun that I play."

The former army captain ran his aristocratic fingers over the keyboard.

"Besides," he added, "a night club is a good place to meet people."

Young Robin already knows a lot of people, including the Duke of Kent and his pretty sister Princess Alexandra. During the recent London "season" Douglas-Home was Alexandra's constant companion. Both like jitterbugging.

Another friend Robin has escorted to numerous swank parties is Anna Massey, star of "The Reluctant Debutante," a stage hit written by another of his uncles, William Douglas-Horne. She is the daughter of actor Raymond Massey.

One of the first requests he received as a professional was from another friend, Sharman Douglas, daughter of a former U.S. ambassador to Britain, Lewis Douglas.

Around The Rim

'None Of Your Blankety-Blank Business'

A man's hobby and why he likes it, I always say, is strictly his own business.

Being a fellow who has many hobbies and who knows that some of those are not in the classification of being ordinary, it has been my bitter experience on many occasions to encounter one of those more repulsive examples of the so-called human race.

I am referring to the individual who watches you as you pursue your particular hobby and then demands in a loud bray: "What do you want to do that for?"

Normally, I am a rather tactful person. I struggle to be courteous and polite, regardless of the difficulty such a course imposes on me. There was a time when I would have sought to explain my interest in whatever hobby it might be that the fellow was so upset about.

Not any more.

When I run into one of these bores, I have a common stock retort that I employ:

"That's none of your blankety-blank business! And if I wasn't such a good friend of yours I wouldn't have told you that much."

It is the only effective squelch I have found to gag these offensive and ill-bred critics.

In the days when I sought to explain my interest and why I was benefited by the particular relaxation I was pursuing, I found I was wasting my breath. The dolls never even listened. They were too busy interpolating observations such as:

"Stillest thing I ever saw a grown man do!"

"I got more important things to do than waste my time at anything like that."

"Why don't you throw that junk in the ash can and take up golf?"

There are answers to these questions. I no longer bother to offer the answers. I stand by my original statement. If he needs amplification, I add that this is supposed to be a free country; that what I am doing is neither illegal, immoral or in any way annoying or damaging to any of my fellows. Furthermore, I never asked for his opinion on the matter; I have no intention of urging or suggesting that he follow my example.

I can go one step further. I can pick up any convenient club or baseball bat and brain — no, that would be difficult in his case.

What you may do as your hobby is your own personal business. There is only one rule to measure its importance: If the hobby you pursue gives you satisfaction and relaxation, it's nobody's business why you chose it or what it may be.

I may not personally get any pleasure out of your hobby. If you mention it to me or if I happen to come upon you in the practice of it, I will not criticize. I will not ask any assinine questions about it.

Should you ask me, in a courteous way, why I like to do whatever it is I am doing, I will reply to you with equal courtesy. And if you should manifest interest, I will go into any detail you may desire about explaining the hobby. But, believe me, unless you request information and I have reason to believe your interest is genuine, I won't tell you a darned thing.

And that's final!

The Key State Of Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The political road shows are moving in and out of Kentucky in such rapid succession that there is hardly time to change the stage setting from one to the other.

The Kefauver signs come down and the Nixon signs go up as the national candidates of both parties recognize that in this state control of the Senate may be won or lost.

The hope is that President Eisenhower's appearance at Lexington will be merely a warmup and that he will come to Louisville toward the end of the campaign. This would be a stop in a final two- or three-day swing taking him toward the end of October to big population centers considered vital to victory in November.

The last is a measure of the change in the President's intentions from his original plan to make only five or six dignified television addresses.

It is a measure, too, of the swift alteration in Republican psychology. A month ago in the aftermath of the convention in San Francisco, which was for the most part one long glorification of the President's personality, there were few who doubted that the magic of the Eisenhower name would carry everything before it.

Then came the rude awakening. The Maine election returns showed formidable Democratic gains, even though the Eisenhower name had been used to the fullest extent in an appeal to back the President.

What has become apparent is that Democratic organization advances in state after state — and this has been stressed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon in reports from his four stops to Republican headquarters in Washington — threaten to overbalance the President's personal popularity.

What the Republicans have come to realize five weeks before the election is that the Democratic party in a large proportion of the states is the majority party.

Reports from many poll-takers is that a sizable percentage of Democrats who voted for Mr. Eisenhower are this year feeling the pull of party loyalty. If they should return to the Democratic fold in considerable numbers, then the seemingly impossible — the defeat of a popular President in a time of wide prosperity — could happen.

There is also the realization among Republicans who have discarded the comfortable illusion of the inevitability of another Eisenhower triumph that if they cannot win with the magic of Ike at the head of the ticket, they cannot win with anyone.

They must win this time, as several have frankly put it in talks with this reporter, or they will be out of power for 20 years. The dissident factions in the party, subdued by the necessity to unite behind the President, would in defeat clash in hopeless confusion and disorder.

Kentucky has primary importance, because the two Republican senatorial candidates fit the prescription of the "New Republicanism" and if the party is to be transformed, as the President believes it must.

Both John Sherman Cooper, until recently ambassador to India, and Thruston Ballard Morton, a former assistant secretary of state, have been unwaveringly loyal to the avowed Eisenhower policy of international cooperation and moderate reform.

Cooper tried, in fact, to save the President from perhaps the worst boner of the past four years — the Dixon-Yates power deal in the Tennessee valley.

It happens that the Democratic candidates for the Senate are also able and respectable men. Senator Earl C. Clements, Democratic whip of the Senate running for re-election at the end of his first full term, concentrates with single-minded zeal on the game of politics in this politically-conscious state.

Lawrence W. Wetherby, governor of the state from 1950 through 1955, is opposing Cooper for the four-year term left vacant by the death of Senator Alben W. Barkley.

Kentucky is normally a Democratic state. The fact that Mr. Eisenhower failed to carry it four years ago by only 700 votes out of nearly 1,000,000 cast was a triumph. At the same time Cooper, running for a two-year term in the Senate, won by more than 30,000 votes.

This year the responsiveness of Democratic registrants has increased in most areas. But what gives the Republicans real hope is a deep split in the Democratic party.

Governor A. B. Chandler, who prefers to be known as "Happy" and who has been given by his more violent opponents the elegant nickname of "Blubber Boy," is mad at just about every Democrat on the ticket.

If Happy passes the knife through his county organization, keeping back the flow of money and patronage support insofar as he is able, then enough Democrats may "slay away from the polls or vote Republican to give Happy his revenge. That is the big if, and a dubious one. Republicans so much depend on it.

Ethel's On The Boards Again

The incomparable Miss Ethel Merman now has a "nodding acquaintance" with Her Serene Highness, nee Grace Kelly, and she hopes she still does after the opening of her new musical, "Happy Hunting," in Philadelphia come Oct. 20.

It is not exactly top secret that the Merman musical as envisioned by the irrefragable Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse is based on a certain wedding in Monaco last April.

"I play the part of a mother with an 18-year-old daughter," Miss Merman said during rehearsals the other day. "I am a diamond in the rough again. I have no breeding, but I'm loaded with dough. In the story, I come originally from Colorado, and there I nurse a Philly Mainliner back to health after an illness."

"Well, the guy up and married me, and I move back to the Main Line. In the story, he's just died and left me millions. Now we — the daughter and I — know the Kellys, and all the time we expect to be invited to Grace's wedding to His Serene Highness."

"But we're snubbed; we're not asked. So I decide to top this wedding with an even royaler one for my kid. I make a pitch for the Pretender to the throne of Spain, played by Fernando Lamas. In the end, it's me, Mama, who winds up with Lamas, and my daughter with a Philadelphia lawyer over whom she's flipped."

"And you know, last spring I read so much about that Monaco wedding, I got fed up and quit in the middle. And now look where I am! But I love the part and I'm crazy about the music!"

For the past three years, since Miss Merman's marriage to Robert Six, aviation tycoon, she and her children by a previous marriage, Ethel Jr., 14, and Bobby, 11, have been living in bucolic contentment in a mansion on the edge of Denver. Her return to "Broadway has really outraged only one member of the menage, Midnight, a poodle.

"He misses the grass," Miss Merman said. "And I couldn't get the kids to go back to the private schools they'd gone to before we went to Denver. They went to public schools in Denver and loved it. So now they're going to New York public schools and they say it's 'the most.'"

"Their only fear is that someone will find out who their mother is and kid them. So I'm a deep, dark secret. Ethel Jr. has no interest in the stage. She's determined to be a lady cartoonist."

Miss Merman isn't certain that Their Serene Highness will see "Happy Hunting." But she supposes the mother of the bride, Mrs. John B. Kelly, will be in the Philadelphia preview audience. The preview of "Happy Hunting," which is to be a charity affair, for a charity in which Mrs. Kelly is a prime mover.

"Just a couple of mothers together," murmured the star. "No, I don't mind playing a mother. Why should I? I've got two kids. Ethel's not 18 yet, but she probably will be before I'm ready."

Brass Collar Democrats Saying 'I Told You So'

By ARTHUR EDSON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Drive east along U.S. Highway 89, and you soon run into what Texans call brass collar Democrats. They are the ones who, no matter what, vote the straight Democratic ticket.

This is the year when the brass collar boys in these parts say "I told you so" to those who four years ago left the Democratic party and gave Texas' 24 electoral votes to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

For a mammoth drought has turned the grass bright yellow, as if the ground were covered with newly threshed straw. Trees are dying. The good black earth appears to be as hard as concrete.

Obviously it wouldn't have rained any more if Adlai Stevenson had carried Texas in 1952. But in times of discontent, it's convenient to blame the party in power.

Anyone touring this state, listening to what ordinary voters say about Eisenhower's chances of keeping Texas away from Stevenson, will find this a good spot to begin.

For it illustrates some of the problems the GOP is up against in a state that only twice has given its support to a Republican presidential candidate. The other time was in 1928, when Texas balked at Alfred E. Smith and voted for Herbert Hoover.

Not that the Republicans are conceding anything. They have strongholds, too.

Furthermore, they have Eisenhower, who in 1952 got 1,102,878 votes to Stevenson's 970,128.

Yet even the most ardent Republican would have a hard time leading cheers in Forney, Tex., a cotton town of 1,500, 16 miles east of Dallas.

John Boles, a staunch Stevenson man, runs a general store in Forney. Boles said farmers haven't had a good year since 1953. "Lots of them are quitting," Boles said. "If something doesn't happen soon, this will be a ghost town."

Roy Stewart came in to buy cigarettes. Another Stevenson man, he had been a farm foreman, but this year he struck out on his own. "Seems like everything I've done, I've done backwards," Stewart said. "I've been watering my jackrabbits. You can't tell when they might come in handy."

At the Farmers' National Bank, Carl C. Senter, executive vice president and a farm owner, readily gave his opinion of Eisenhower.

"The glamor has worn off," he said. "Everything the farmer buys keeps going up. Farm implements went up 5 per cent the 15th of the month."

James K. Brooks manages 5,000 acres on which he raises cotton and cattle. Did he know any voters switching from Eisenhower to Stevenson?

"Not as many as I'd like to," he said. "But I've run into some. The strange thing about it is that we've still got farmers who will go for Ike."

But down the road a piece, in Terrell, a political hunter begins to flush Eisenhower supporters, such as J. C. Stallings, who runs an implement store.

Stallings said he still has to find his first man who is changing his vote from Eisenhower to Stevenson, yet he is pessimistic about what Texas will do.

This may be due to stories of harmony in the Democratic camp, in contrast to four years ago when many leading Democrats supported Eisenhower. Stallings is pinning his hopes on retiring Gov. Allan Shivers, who supported Eisenhower in 1952 and will do so again.

"If Shivers really goes all the way out," Stallings said, "he still can do some good."

Another Eisenhower man, hardware merchant Marvin Fogleman, also is concerned. "Republicans aren't doing enough," he said. "The Democrats are doing a better job at getting to the voters."

Down in the Negro section William David Jackson, a lively 77, has sitting in the front office of the J. L. Brooks Barial Assn. Jackson has a dim view of white politicians.

"It's hard to tell," he said, "which man's your friend."

But Jackson is a Republican and says he will keep right on being one.

Now along State Highway 71 going west from Austin into the hill country, you see mesquite, prickly pear cactus and scrub cedars pushing their way up through the hot, rocky soil.

To Marble Falls, a small town perched beside the dammed up water of the Colorado River, in the hardware store, Duane Michel, 22, said he will cast his first vote for Stevenson because "I can't see where Eisenhower has done much to help small business."

At the bank Carter Stewart and his wife, Mrs. E. O. Stewart, both support Eisenhower.

Mrs. Stewart was disturbed because, she said, more men aren't spunky enough to say they're for Eisenhower. "If you're for somebody," Mrs. Stewart said, "you ought to be willing to step right out on the street corner and say so."

Stewart thinks the Republicans aren't working hard enough in Texas. "If the vote were held today," he said, "Eisenhower would lose."

George Manning, a retired cotton farmer, and John Alley, an electrician, were sure that low farm prices and the drought would hurt Eisenhower. The next man along was George Lyda, who raises registered Angus cattle.

"No, sir," Lyda said, "nobody's switching. Most farmers realize this surplus was piled up under Truman and Roosevelt. I think Eisenhower will carry the state again."

Now to U.S. Highway 59 that leads north from Houston to Cleveland (pop. 5,800). Here grows the stately southern pine, and moss hangs from many of the trees.

H. M. Tyler, a welder who works in Houston, said he's sticking with Eisenhower. "I think most people think Eisenhower means peace," he said.

J. I. Crawford, who runs an appliance store, says voters are changing to Stevenson. "They're afraid of another depression," Crawford said.

But at the feed store M. J. Thomas said he hasn't heard of any Eisenhower backer changing his vote. That includes M. J. Thomas, who will vote for Eisenhower again.

Trying to list any impressions in a state as large and complex as Texas is risky business.

But let's chance a few anyway: 1. Although a few political leaders, notably Sen. Price Daniel, who's running for governor, have switched from Eisenhower to Stevenson, it's hard to find voters who will say they've changed their minds.

2. You hear almost no mention of two topics much discussed in the North and East — Eisenhower's health and Vice President Richard Nixon help or hinder the vote harvesting?

3. Some Eisenhower supporters, even the most loyal, seem dependent over their man's chances in Texas.

Jack Porter, the GOP national committeeman, was asked about this dependency. Porter said this is because the Republicans are slow getting their campaign underway, and Eisenhower supporters who are shaken now will be firm by Nov. 6.

Porter's prediction for the Republicans: "We'll win."

Sen. Lyndon Johnson's for the Democrats: "We'll win, by 250,000 votes."

Selected

Judge William Joseph Brennan Jr. is shown at the White House after the announcement that President Eisenhower had selected him to be an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. Brennan, 50 years old and a Democrat, will succeed Justice Sherman Minton, who is retiring. Brennan now is an associate justice of the New Jersey supreme court.

Farmers Union Sets Meeting For Tonight

A. H. Tate, president, has called a meeting of the Howard County Farmers Union for 7:30 p.m. today in the Justice of the Peace courtroom at the courthouse.

A. G. Goodson, Big Spring, vice president for the third district, Texas Federation of Labor, will speak. Tate said all farmers of the county are invited.

GOP Senatorial Candidate Asks Special Election

AUSTIN (AP)—Thad Hutcheson, Republican senatorial candidate, last night urged Lt. Gov. Ramsey to "call a special U.S. senatorial election immediately."

The State Supreme Court yesterday refused to order Sec. of State Reavley to accept applications and fees for the special election at this time as Hutcheson asked.

Hutcheson said in his telegram to Ramsey he interpreted the court's decision to mean "that a Senate vacancy has occurred."

He added, "The duty now plainly has been placed on you as acting governor to call an election immediately so that fillins can be made before Oct. 6 and election held on general election day (Nov. 6) as intended by Texas Legislature."

Ramsey is acting governor while Gov. Shivers is on a hunting trip in Alaska.

Reavley had refused Hutcheson's application and filing fee Friday, calling it "premature."

"No special election has been called," Reavley said. The high court repeated the statement in overruling the request for a mandamus, but did not give a written opinion.

Richard Burns of Houston, one of Hutcheson's attorneys, said he did not know what action the candidate would take now since he was unavailable for comment. The question remains: When will the election be held to name a successor to Price Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor?

Daniel in a Sept. 26 letter to Gov. Shivers said he was resigning effective Jan. 15, or whenever a successor has been elected or qualified.

Shivers said he did not know if this created a vacancy, and did not call a special election prior to leaving on a 2-week bear hunting trip in Alaska.

Professor Finds Oldest Things Alive

TUCSON, Ariz. — A University of Arizona professor says he has found the world's oldest living things — three small bristlecone pines high in the mountains 20 miles northeast of Bishop, Calif. Dr. Edmund Schulman estimated they are 4,000 years old. The giant sequoias of California, current record-holders for old age, are about 3,000 years old. The scientist bases his estimates on detailed countings of the pine trees' rings under the microscope. He said the trees grow to a maximum height of only 30 feet, with trunks from 25 to 50 inches across, and that the trunks grow just an inch across in 150 to 200 years.

Love For Dog Costs Boy's Life

DENVILLE, N. J. — A 12-year-old boy's love for his dog cost him his life yesterday under the wheels of a train. Police said the victim, Eugene Rickey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rickey, 11, was playing with an 11-year-old companion and his dog, Sixie, when the pet rushed onto the track as a four-car Lackawanna commuter train approached. The boy tossed the dog to safety but he was hit by the train and dragged some 150 feet.

U. S. Crime Takes 14 Per Cent Hike

By JACK ADAMS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 — Major crimes in the United States jumped 14.4 per cent in the first six months of this year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported today.

The comparison was with the first six months of 1955. It indicated the slight dip in the nation's major crime rate last year was a short-lived trend. Hoover called the new figures a "sharp reversal," noting that the last comparable increase occurred in the first half of 1946. "If the current trend continues for the remainder of the year, 1956 will be the fifth consecutive year in which more than two million major crimes will have been committed and the first year in which the crime total will reach the 2½ million mark," the announcement said.

The statistics, assembled from police reports from all parts of the country and published in the FBI's periodical "Uniform Crime Reports," showed an estimated 1,291,120 major crimes occurred from January to June, up 162,770 from the corresponding period in 1955. "There was one major crime committed for each 129 persons in the general population of the United States during the first six months of 1956," the FBI reported. The calculation was made on an estimated population of 166,943,000 as of June 1 of this year.

The renewed upward trend was about the same in town and country. Urban crime increased 14 per cent, rural crime 14.6 per cent. Up sharpest was auto theft, which spiraled 22.3 per cent nationally. The only major crime to reflect a national decrease was robbery, down 1.1 per cent. The FBI offered this picture of the first six months of 1956: A major crime committed every 12.2 seconds.

A murder, manslaughter, rape or assault to kill every 4.1 minutes. For every day, an estimated 37 persons were feloniously slain and 260 other felonious assaults were committed, 55 rapes occurred, and there were 4,377 larcenies, 1,463 burglaries, 164 robberies and 738 thefts of autos.

Larceny was up 18.5 per cent, negligent manslaughter 10.2 per cent, rape 6.8 per cent, burglary, 4.7 per cent, murder and non-negligent manslaughter 4 per cent, aggravated assault 2.8 per cent. The urban increase was paced by auto thefts, up 27.1 per cent. City murders rose 6.5 per cent. In rural areas, larceny showed the largest increase, 22.7 per cent, but murder dropped off 0.5 per cent.

Some 134,320 automobiles were reported stolen during the first half of 1956. Victims of killers totaled 6,670, while 57,340 persons were assaulted by rapists or potential killers.

Cross Hangar Walks On Fire

REYNOSA, Mex. — A 28-year-old Mexican actor staged a fire-walking act in Reynosa's bull ring Sunday after city authorities refused to let him put on a hanging act. The actor, Tagore, who told reporters his real name was Eugenio Garcia, received wide publicity when he allowed himself to be nailed to a cross in the same bull ring in July.

Handicapped Holding Jobs

Luther G. Bedwell, right in top photo, discusses inspection procedures with Capt. Robert Leighty at Webb Air Force Base. Bedwell, who lost his left arm at the age of 15, is supply inspector at the base. Leighty is supply officer. In the lower photo, Hardy L. Harris, another of Webb's 49 handicapped workers, talks with Lt. Leonard LeVine about boiler operations at the base. Harris, left, is a heating engineer.

49 Handicapped Workers Making Mark At Air Base

Webb Air Force Base will observe the twelfth consecutive "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week," Oct. 7-13, with pride, because of the full support given to the handicapped workers program. At present there are 49 handicapped workers employed at Webb, of whom approximately 10 occupy supervisory positions. Last year Webb had only 40 handicapped personnel. The program of the president's committee on employment of handicapped persons is a year-round effort to encourage hiring of the handicapped in jobs suited to their abilities. Earl Bunting, vice chairman of the committee on Employment of Physically Handicapped, said that he has discovered through personal experience that handicapped workers are punctual, conscientious and productive. This was evidenced by the instant support given by the NAM membership to all activities concerning employment of the handicapped, he said. "I am convinced that it is the ability of an individual which is paramount, not disability," Bunting said. Consensus of Webb supervisors agrees closely with this statement by Bunting, emphasizing that production and on-the-job work records of so-called handicapped workers compares favorably with non-handicapped employees.

Uncle Roy: Mother Of Rocks Is Called Magma

By RAMON COFFMAN
All of the many kinds of rock can be classed in three main groups—igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic. Igneous rocks rank first because they existed before the other groups. The word "igneous" came from the Latin language, and the original meaning was "fire." An igneous rock is a "fire rock" or "heat rock."
Q. Where did igneous rocks come from?
A. Within a few miles of the earth's surface (sometimes with a few hundred feet of the surface) there are masses of molten material known as "magma."
Magma is the Mother of Rocks. When it is pushed to the surface by steam or other explosive gases, it may flow out of an opening in the form of lava. Some magma turns into cinders, ashes and dust before it issues from a volcano.
Q. How does lava become hard rock?
A. By cooling. In some places prehistoric volcanoes sent out lava which changed into beds of rock hundreds of feet thick!
Here and there, on the earth today, we have "fissure volcanoes."

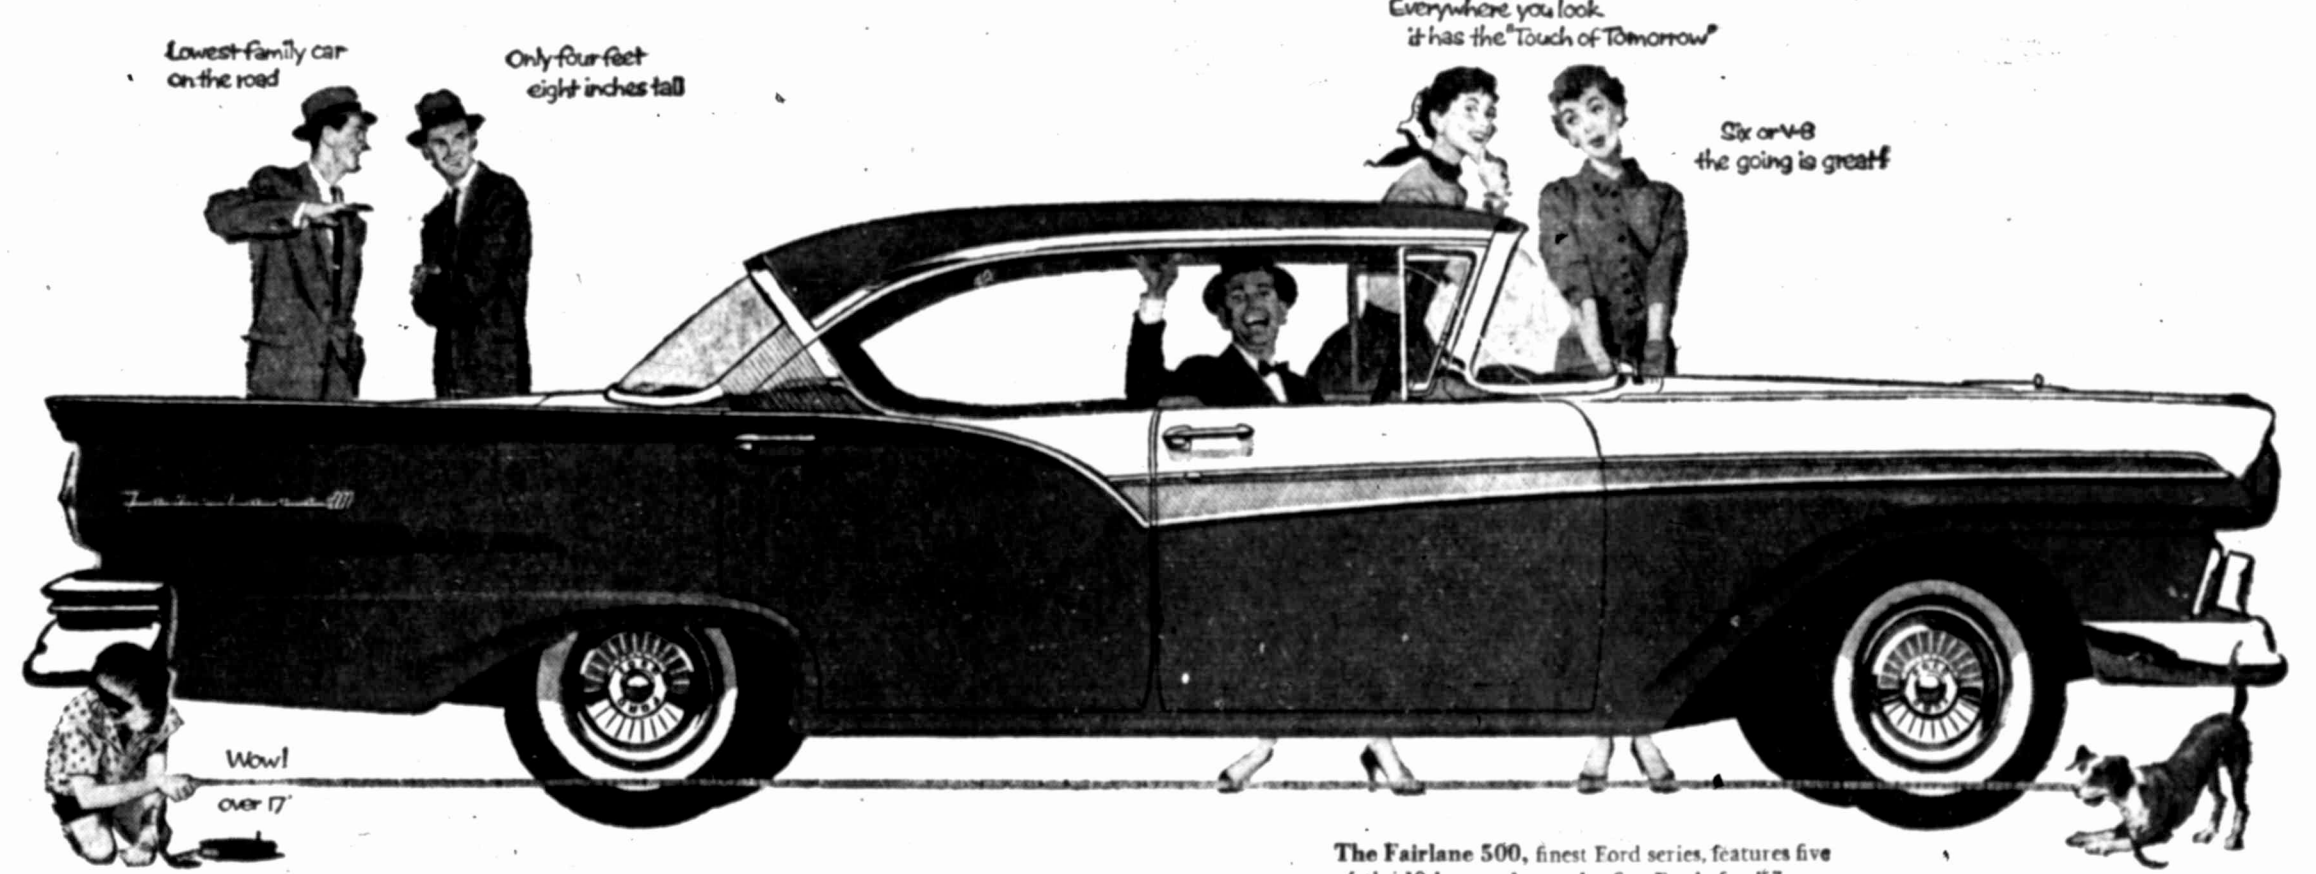

Lake of hot lava in Hawaii. Iceland has some of these, and vast masses of lava come out of the large opening. After cooling, the lava on Iceland turns into the dark rock known as basalt. Fissure volcanoes are much less explosive than ordinary volcanoes such as Vesuvius or Etna. More lava usually comes from a fissure volcano than from the other type. Fissure volcanoes were active in northwestern parts of the United States vast ages ago. Beds of igneous rock, mainly basalt, have been surveyed in the states of Washington and Oregon, also in Idaho and Nevada. In some places the rock is 2,000 feet thick!

A new kind of FORD with the mark of tomorrow

You're in for a thrill when you see this new knockout named Ford! But save your superlatives till you drive it! That's where the fun really starts. It's fun just knowing that others who see you wish they were you. For you're commanding the longest, lowest, heaviest, biggest car ever to sport such a low price tag. There's head room to spare for a new fall bonnet . . . stretch-out space for a "Daddy Longlegs."

You'll find that the tough and ready new "Inner Ford" is built to take the roughest road you'll care to travel. New outboard rear springs and ball-joint front suspension let Ford take the turns without the tilt. New swept-back control arms help take bounce out of bumps.

Best of all, Ford's library-like quiet is built in. And the new "Inner Ford" is why. For never before in Ford's field has there been a body with so much extra bracing, so firmly anchored to its foundation. And you can choose from three big Silver Anniversary V-8's with up to 245 horsepower. There's also a new Mileage Maker Six with 144 horsepower, the most modern Six in the industry.

You can pick your Ford tailored to your desires and your budget, too! Choose from nine over-17-foot Fairlane or Fairlane 500 models or from five over-16-foot Custom or Custom 300 models. Or take your pick from Ford's five longer, lower, new station wagons. Whichever model you select, you'll get a car that's been re-invented from the wheels up!

So there's the new kind of Ford. Big! Gracious! Spacious! A luxury car true—but one that any new-car buyer can easily afford. Come in! See what wonder-cars you can buy now at low Ford prices.
