Nixon Takes Aim At Adlai Defense Policy

Texas Talk Opens New U. S. Tour

FORT WORTH (AP)—Vice President Nixon said today Adlai Stevenson has indicated he would adopt a "wobbly, indecisive defense policy" if elected president.

Nixon hammered at the Democratic candidate's utterances on the draft and hydrogen bomb tests. The Vice President's talk opened his second cross country campaign tour.

Nixon said Stevenson's remarks indicate that in an administration there would be "peaks and valleys in our military preparedness as was the case under the Truman administration."

He said President Eisenhower would never submit the country to a "wobbly, indecisive" defense policy tied to a blow-hot, blow-cold diplomatic policy.

The least that can be said of the policy of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Nixon continued, is that it "led the Communists to believe they could attack (in Korea) with safety and it therefore encouraged them to do so."

Nixon referred to Stevenson's expressed hope that the draft be ended as soon as possible and his suggestion the United States lead in seeking to suspend hydrogen bomb tests.

Nixon said Stevenson "jeopardized our military manpower position at the very moment when the free world was looking to America for consistent guidance and guarantees of continuing strength."

"Even more appalling," the vice president said, was what he called Stevenson's "suggestion that we should quit testing our H-bombs if the Soviet leaders would give what has proved to be their worthless word that they would do likewise."

Starting his 10,000-mile, 14-state tour in Texas, Nixon appealed for Democratic votes for Eisenhower. Those Democrats who voted in the Republican column in 1952, he said, did not desert their party.

Nixon told newsmen, "I think we will have a chance in Texas." He will report to President Eisenhower specifically on Texas, the vice president said.

2 Women Hurt In Three-Way Crash

Two women were injured and another narrowly escaped death shortly before 6 p.m. Monday when an automobile, pickup truck and bridge were involved in a crash on U. S. 87 about 15 miles south-east of Big Spring.

The car struck the back of the pickup, then slammed into the side of the bridge and was rammed by the truck, according to Sheriff Buster Cox of Garden City.

Injured were Mrs. Marie Weeg of Big Spring, driver of the pickup, and Mrs. Patricia Hensel of Burnett, a passenger in the car.

Johnny Howard Banks of Lampasas, driver of the car, and James Smith of Oakalla, owner of the machine, received minor bruises and cuts, Sheriff Cox reported.

Cox said Mrs. Weeg and Banks were both driving south, meeting the truck, a Magnolia Petroleum Company gasoline transport driven by Stuard Leroy Cahoon. The

STRANGE NEW WORLD

Cancer Surgery Leaves Boy Blind

ATLANTA (AP)—A plucky little boy who liked to play cowboy lay in a hospital bed today and fondled a fluffy white toy lamb.

Five-year-old Johnny Pair kept reaching for the lamb. It felt warm and familiar in a strange dark world and there was comfort in that.

Johnny was blind, but he didn't know it. And his mother didn't know how to tell him, thinking as she did of the times he dressed in his cowboy suit and aimed the guns at imaginary targets.

The lamb was the last thing Johnny saw yesterday before he was wheeled to the operating room to have his cancerous right eye removed. The left eye was taken out two years ago in an effort to stop the spread of the malignancy.

Doctors reported the 30-minute operation at Grady Hospital a success and said the "chances of cure from the growth are now reasonably good."

Mrs. Bessie Pair, 32, said her son was "brave and knew he was going to be operated on. But he didn't know he would be blind. The doctors wanted it that way. I don't know what we'll tell him later."

The operation ended a month-long debate between the boy's divorced parents on whether it should be performed. Mrs. Pair wanted the surgery but Arnold Pair, 33, maintained the youngster should have his sight as long as he could.

Pair said, however, that the "doctors finally convinced me that removal of Johnny's eye held the only chance of saving my boy's life. I cried myself to sleep most every night since I decided."

Mrs. Pair, who was awarded custody of Johnny by court decree said doctors told her she could take the youngster home in a day or two if there were no complications.

Bums Win 6th Series Game, 1-0

BROOKLYN (AP)—Jackie Robinson's single with two out and two on base in the tenth inning brought in Junior Gilliam with a run that gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees today and tied the World Series at three victories each.

The seventh and deciding game will be played at Ebbets Field tomorrow.

Robinson's hit broke up a brilliant pitching duel between Bob Turley of the Yanks and C. Labine of the Dodgers. It was only the fourth hit off Turley, who was in occasional trouble because of wildness but struck out 11. Labine, touched for 5 hits in the first 4 innings, yielded only 7 in all.

Walks to Gilliam and Duke Snider, the latter intentional, paved the way for Robinson's winning blow, which sailed over the head of left fielder Enos Slaughter and hit the left field wall.

It was the first extra-inning World Series game since the opening of the 1954 series.

Don Newcombe (27-7), Negro righthander, is Manager Walter Alston's choice to pitch the decisive seventh game. The Yankee pitcher was not disclosed by Casey Stengel.

Texas Gets Cool Days

A cool front sliding across Texas Tuesday was expected to drop temperatures a few degrees below average for the next few days.

The front, which brought no promise of rain, lay along a line through Wichita Falls, Childress and Lubbock early Tuesday. It was expected to reach the Lower Rio Grande Valley early Thursday.

No Speed Limit On Kansas Turnpike

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas Turnpike, a 236-mile four-lane toll highway to be opened Oct. 25 will have no speed limit.

Drivers will be "hailed down" if they exceed 80 miles an hour. It will be illegal to drive less than 40 miles an hour on the new road unless bad weather or other factors make it advisable to go slower.

The rules were adopted by the Kansas Turnpike Authority.

Stella Schubert, Native Of City, Dies At Age 60

Stella Schubert, 60, a life-long resident of Big Spring, died at her home at 1405 E. 15th Street at 6:20 p.m. Monday. She had been ill since August of 1955.

Miss Schubert was born in Big Spring on Sept. 21, 1896, and after completing her high school here, she worked for many years in the historic J. & W. Fisher general mercantile store. She also was associated with the Mellinger's store for a number of years, but for the past 17 years she had been retired.

Services will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Clyde Nichols, her pastor at the First Christian Church, officiating. Burial will be in the family plot in the City Cemetery.

Surviving Miss Schubert are three brothers, Arthur Schubert, Big Spring, Robert Schubert, San Diego, Calif., and James Schubert, Fort Worth; and two sisters, Mrs. Paulene S. Petty, Howard County clerk, and Mrs. Louis Sheen, Midland.

POZNAN TRIALS Marxist Doctrine Turned On Reds

POZNAN, Poland (AP)—Defendants in Poznan's "bread and freedom" riots, who are accused of disarming policemen to get guns to storm public buildings, claimed today that police and soldiers not only willingly surrendered their arms but showed the rioters how to use them.

The citing of the teachings of Karl Marx, father of communism, on behalf of the defense was another ironic turn in a series of trials which have moved all Poland.

Defense attorneys made final pleas today in a trial of nine young men accused of stealing weapons and storming Poznan's secret police headquarters on June 28. Yesterday a prosecutor asked the highest penalty, which would be death.

The defense attorney boldly declared that the entire Poznan trial setup was false. He accused the prosecution of trying to separate the bloody riots — in which 53 Poles were killed and several hundred injured — from the basic causes for the uprising, which were the workers' grievances and strikes. The attorney said:

"This separation of cause and riots is precisely opposite to the teachings of Marxism. Karl Marx taught us that in the movement of the masses one wave cannot be separated from the other."

In another trial — where the number of defendants has been reduced from 10 to 8 — policemen were chief witnesses and were also sharply attacked by defense lawyers.

Poznan continued to be flooded with rumors that there will be no more trials of rioters after the current two are concluded. The rumors were heightened by the mild sentences of 4 to 4 1/2 years passed yesterday on three defendants accused of murder and by a report of the indefinite postponement of at least four other trials. The outspoken testimony of defendants in court appears to have disquieted officials.

Howard Democrats Slate Organization

Howard County Democrats will organize a Stevenson-Kefauver Committee Thursday night, Frank Hardesty, county chairman, announced today.

Hardesty said a meeting of all county Democrats has been set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the county courtroom. A presidential campaign headquarters will be established, a chairman will be named, and committees to conduct the Democratic campaign will be organized.

Hardesty said all Democrats are invited. "We want as many as possible to participate," he added.

State Charges Charter Violation

TYLER (AP)—The state introduced evidence today to back up its claim that the NAACP in Texas took part in politics in violation of its charter.

The evidence was in minutes of the El Paso NAACP branch, obtained by Asst. Dist. Atty. Art LeCroix, he said, in an inspection of the files of the branch Sept. 20 this year.

As introduced, the minutes read, "It was moved and seconded that we endorse and work for Mr. Yarborough as governor of Texas in the runoff." The document later added that the group decided to support him by "not by public acclaim but by working individually with our friends" in the runoff campaign.

Minutes of a meeting Sept. 5, 1954, also introduced by LeCroix, said that the El Paso NAACP executive committee appointed, as it said, "a committee to select a student to go to Texas Western College" in El Paso.

Later in the same minutes there was a notation of a discussion "to give $10 per month to Mrs. (Thelma) White" for attending Texas Western. She was the plaintiff in one integration suit involving the college, but evidence so far presented does not show whether she attended or not. The school was ordered integrated by Federal Court order.

LeCroix testified that he visited NAACP offices in Brownwood, Abilene, San Angelo, Midland and Odessa Sept. 19. The next day he visited NAACP offices in Monahans, Pecos and El Paso. He said he flew to these cities with Texas Ranger George Burmup as pilot.

Much of the morning session was taken up with recesses so attorneys could study documents. The state promised a further charges would be made.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Davis Grant pointed out that reports from several cities had not been made. "And there's the investigation of the New York headquarters," he said. "Some of it's pretty hot."

Grant indicated it might take the state at least two more days in arguing that a temporary restraining order against NAACP operations in Texas should be made permanent.

Yesterday's exhibits introduced by the state included evidence intended to show political maneuvering by at least some of the state branches since 1952. Most of the exhibits were from the Houston NAACP office. The state also offered evidence of a $10,000 contribution from the CIO to the NAACP in 1954. One exhibit offered contained an unsigned report made in 1955 that the CIO gave $10,000 to the NAACP and plans to give more this year.

In Washington, Walter Reuther, who was president of the CIO in 1954, said the CIO did contribute to the NAACP but he said he could not recall any exact amounts or in what years.

An NAACP newsletter, chartered in Texas as a charitable, non-profit group, ordinarily did not take part in political campaigns. Still, the newsletter urged NAACP members to contact precinct leaders and work for the Aug. 28 Democratic primary.

"If Price Daniel is elected you and I will be under the Citizens Council," the newsletter said. "Let's do something about it at the polls."

Minutes of the 1954 Executive Committee meeting said the most outstanding achievement of the year was its political work.

Cotton Picking Wages In Martin Announced Today

The prevailing wage for cotton picking in Martin County has been posted at $2.05 per hundred, the Bureau of Employment Security announced today.

The agency found that Martin County's prevailing wage for cotton picking is $1.55 per hundred pounds. The wage finds were effective Monday and will be in effect until some change is announced.

Ed McDonald, regional director of the Bureau of Employment Security, Dallas, said the $2.05 per hundred is for picking irrigated cotton and the $1.55 is for pulling either irrigated or dryland cotton. Prevailing wages are determined on the basis of surveys made by the Texas Employment Commission branches since 1952. Most of the crats to the 24-member House of Representatives. The election was held in October. In November, Statewide voters gave President Truman a four-year term in the White House. Four years later, Alaskans elected 21 Republicans to the House, and the nation elected President Eisenhower and a Republican Congress. In 1954, Democrats won control of the Territorial Legislature and the national Congress.

Political Trend-Seekers Keep Eyes On Alaska Vote

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Voters in this sprawling territory cast ballots today in an election that will test once more the adage: "As Alaska goes, so goes the nation."

Alaskans do not vote for president, and the delegate they send to Congress has a seat but no voice in the House. The "so goes the nation" adage stems from the outcome in recent years of contests for seats in the Territorial Legislature.

Alaskans point to the 1948 election when they elected 20 Demo-

Chamber Manager Sends UF Aides On Annual Campaign

Calling for unity, civic pride and action, Big Spring's new Chamber of Commerce manager last night dispatched United Fund "runners" on a concerted drive for this year's goal of $87,550.

Wayne (Red) Smith, who will take up C-C duties here next Monday, spoke at the kick-off dinner for the once-a-year United Fund campaign. About 200 workers attended the function in the Settles ballroom where they picked up prospect cards and received instructions.

Most of the group, and others who had picked up cards earlier, spread out over the city this morning. Smith, UP President Champ Rainwater and Campaign Chairman D. M. McKinney urged each worker to complete his assignment promptly.

The drive is for funds for 11 Big Spring and Howard County youth and welfare agencies. The goal is the same as last year, although each agency will receive about 5 per cent more money because the services of a professional fund raiser are not being employed this year. The campaign is being conducted entirely by local people, and McKinney pointed out that prompt action on the part of each worker will help to keep down expenses.

Smith declared that unity, civic pride and action are qualities which are expressed in good schools, good churches and "the kind of city we want to live in."

All are essential, he said, to a successful United Fund campaign. "But if you have all three, raising the objective will be like shooting fish in a barrel," he said.

He called the $87,550 objective "a challenge—not a problem."

Rainwater, who presided, told campaign workers that "a lot of night oil has been burned already in this campaign." He pointed out that Cosden Petroleum Corporation is furnishing an office manager (Angy Glenn) for this year's drive. He called attention to the savings being made by using only volunteer workers in the campaign and urged prompt action to assure that participating agencies will benefit to the fullest extent from the elimination of outside costs.

He announced that the Advance Gifts Division, which started work last week, already has attained a third of its $45,000 quota.

McKinney, predicting a successful campaign, introduced division chairmen and other group leaders, including M. M. Hines, Area Division, J. B. Wiginton, Employee Division; John Taylor, General Division; Dr. W. A. Hunt, Special Gifts; Mrs. Clyde Thomas, Women's Division; and Marvin Miller, out-of-town solicitation.

He also announced that Jack Y. Smith is in charge of the project for Cosden employees, L. B. Griffin for the T&P, Col. John Weber for Webb AFB, Mrs. Irene Kootz for Southwestern Bell Telephone; W. H. Bacus for VA Hospital; Odie Wilson for Texas Electric Service Company; John Knowles for Big Spring State Hospital; and Floyd Jones for the building crafts.

J. H. Greene, retiring manager of the Chamber of Commerce, pronounced the invocation at the gathering.

First reports on the general, special, campaign and area divisions of the campaign are due Friday.

Dulles Scores Use Of Suez As Tool Of National Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today there is little chance of settling the Suez problem so long as it is possible for any nation to use the vital waterway as an instrument of its national policy.

Dulles told the U.N. Security Council that this is the heart of the problem and that the first step should be an acceptance by all parties of the principle that a system should be set up to ensure against any such action.

He did not flatly reject a proposal made by Egypt yesterday for the establishment of a U. N. negotiating body to work out a system of cooperation for the operation of the canal. He called the Egyptian move "constructive," but he indicated this did not go far enough.

Dulles stood firmly behind a British-French proposal which called for negotiations on the basis of the London proposals for international control of the canal. He said he would vote for the British-French plan.

On the basic principle of guarantees against use of the canal as an instrument of national policy, the secretary of state said: "If Egypt accepts that simple and rudimentary principle of justice, then I believe that the subsidiary problems can be resolved. If that principle is repudiated, then it is difficult to foresee a useful role for a negotiating body.

"Indeed, under these conditions it is difficult to foresee any settlement in accordance with the principles of justice and of international law."

Dulles spoke as the 11-nation council wound up its opening round of policy statements and prepared to go into closed-door sessions for detailed discussions. Despite the apparent gap between the Western proposals and those of Egypt and the Soviet Union, Dulles told the council that the "possibilities are good" for a peaceful solution of the problem.

He said: "Rarely, if ever, have comparable efforts been made to settle peacefully an issue of such dangerous proportions. The council knows that it is not dealing with governments bent on the use of force. Even those most aggrieved have shown their desire to bring about a just solution by peaceful means."

Adlai Hits Public Lands 'Giveaway'

By The Associated Press
Adlai E. Stevenson opened a Western campaign swing today with a charge that the Eisenhower administration has permitted public lands to be invaded by and given away to selfish private interests.

His prime target, President Eisenhower, meanwhile prepared to fly to Pittsburgh, reportedly ready to reply to Democratic criticisms with some of his own in a nationwide radio-TV speech tonight.

The Democratic presidential nominee's opening blast came in a speech prepared for delivery in Great Falls, Mont. He planned to speak later today in Boise, Idaho, and Seattle, Wash.

A White House aide said Eisenhower's speech tonight will be a reply to what the aide called "the misstatements that have been made in this campaign by the opposition."

Great Falls was Stevenson's first stop in a flying, four-day tour of Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California. The five states own a total of 55 electoral votes—all of which went to Eisenhower in 1952.

At Great Falls, Stevenson said the administration has "scrapped" a long-standing policy in which he said both parties cooperated in conserving the nation's parks and forests.

From his Libertyville, Ill., farm home yesterday, Stevenson released the third in a series of "major affirmations" he would support if elected president. The latest one called for a federally aided health program.

Goals included: a health insurance program for all, regardless of ability to pay; more funds for medical research; a speeded-up medical training program; and construction of more hospitals.

Stevenson said his proposals are not "socialized medicine," and that he called "the high cost of living," and (2) any instances of wrongdoing in the Democratic party in the past are "infinitesimal" compared to what he termed Eisenhower administration "giveaways."

administration of the program "would rest with the states." The principle is that no American should be deprived of good medical care for lack of funds, he said, but those who can pay all or part of the expense should do so.

Both candidates for the No. 2 spot also hit the campaign trail today. Vice President Nixon scheduled three appearances in Texas and Sen. Estes Kefauver, Stevenson's running mate, sought votes in New Jersey and New Hampshire.

During a busy day in Delaware yesterday, Kefauver said that (1) most American women will vote Democratic this year in protest of what he called "the high cost of living," and (2) any instances of wrongdoing in the Democratic party in the past are "infinitesimal" compared to what he termed Eisenhower administration "giveaways."

In Alaska, a territorial election was set for today, the last such turnout in any state or territory before the national election No. 6. Both parties hoped to pick up some ammunition for the closing national campaign.

In other political developments: In Columbus, Ohio, Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield attacked Stevenson's record as governor in Illinois, saying it was marked by many scandals.

"Certainly," Summerfield said, "His (Stevenson's) one single, short term in elective office reflected no credit on his ability to manage, no credit on his zeal in demanding integrity, no credit on his wisdom in choosing the men about him."

In Washington, the Democratic National Committee's Advisory Committee on Small Business said small business men are in revolt against the administration.

Drugs, Surgery Teamed In Hopes Of Cancer Cures

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Drugs and surgery are forming a new team in hopes of winning more cures of cancers.

Anticancer drugs are given when a cancer is removed in operations. The aim is surer killing of cancer cells which might become seeds for regrowth.

This new technique was described today to the American College of Surgeons by Doctors Gerald O. McDonald, Ernesto P. Cruz and Warren H. Cole, University of Illinois College of Medicine, Chicago.

Then for three successive days anticancer drugs are given by vein. Three months later, anticancer drugs are given again, aimed at killing any such cancer seeds.

Some 45 patients since June have had this two-punch treatment for cancers of the breast, stomach and colon, the surgeons said. Whether it actually does produce better results will take several years to determine.

The anticancer drugs used to date are nitrogen mustards, relatives of wartime poison gas. Others may be used.

Texas Ike Aide Opens Radio Series

AUSTIN (AP)—W. R. Smith, chairman of the Texas Democrats for Eisenhower, opened today a series of tri-weekly radio broadcasts over 47 stations.

Saying he has been "a Democrat all my life," Smith said he had always voted the Democratic ticket until 1952. He said he switched to President Eisenhower because "We needed a change from the kind of government we've been getting from the Truman administration—and that Adlai Stevenson wouldn't give us that change."

He said the tide lands was an issue at that time. "Four years ago we hoped Eisenhower would make a good president," Smith said. "Today we know that he is not just a good president—he is a great president."

He said Stevenson's "campaign is nothing more or less than a collection of charges and smears and unwarranted criticisms of our President. Four years ago we thought he was a sincere, even if misguided, thinker, and speaker who didn't always know what he was saying but who said it well."

"This year, 1956, Adlai Stevenson stands revealed as just another cynical machine politician, with Harry Truman's stamp on his speeches and Walter Reuther's brand on his convictions."

"My democratic views are the same as they always were," Smith said. "It is the present leadership of the Democratic party that has departed from Democratic fundamentals. I find it impossible for me to follow that leadership. It is like who is the real Democrat—regardless of party name."

Smith will speak Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays over the stations throughout the state. Most of the 5-minute broadcasts begin early in the morning at 6:30 a.m. although some are broadcast as late as 1:30 p.m. The series will end Oct. 27.

Vets To Receive Insurance Dividends

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 5,350,000 veterans will receive about 236 million dollars in dividends on Veterans administration insurance during 1956.

Veterans Administrator Harvey V. Higley, announcing this today, said all the payments will be "regular annual dividends, not special dividends."

However, some 20,000 veterans holding U.S. Government Life Insurance term policies will get their first dividend in 25 years, sharing about one million dollars.

A VA spokesman said there was no political significance in the fact that these veterans received their last dividend in 1932, during the Republican administration of President Herbert Hoover, and that their next "annual" dividend, 25 years later, was announced in this election year by the Eisenhower administration.

He pointed to the formal announcement, which said that: "Up until recently the mortality and disability experience among these term policy holders has not been good enough to warrant the payment of a dividend. However, the continuing good trend of recent years has made it possible to pay a dividend on this plan for the first time in 25 years."

There will be 210 million dollars in 1957 dividends for some five million veterans holding National Service Life Insurance, about 25 million dollars more than was made available for 1956 dividends.

The million dollars to be paid the USGLI term policyholders will be part of a kitty of 25 million dollars to be split among holders of various types of USGLI policies. The 26 million dollars is two million more than was set aside for USGLI policyholders this year.

Higley said each of the USGLI term policyholders will be notified by letter of his prospective dividend. It will amount to an average of 90 per cent of the premiums the 20,000 are now paying.

The NSLI dividend will average 13 per cent higher to holders of both term and permanent policies, with higher age groups getting the bulk of the payments that will run above 13 per cent and lower age groups the bulk of those falling below the average.

6-Year Pursuit Of Brink's Robbers Cost $5 Million

BOSTON (AP)—Now that eight men stand convicted of the $1,219,000 Brink's robbery, how much did the 6-year pursuit cost?

That's a tough question. So many agencies used so many men working such a long period it's hard to account for all the expenditure. But the Boston Globe came up with a figure today.

After careful checking, the Globe says it estimates the Brink's investigation cost five million dollars — "better than four times the fabulous amount taken."

The eight men convicted early last Saturday were sentenced today in Suffolk Superior Court.

The newspaper says its five million figure is "strictly an estimate. No one can furnish an accurate amount. So it may have run higher." Scores of incidental expenses couldn't be estimated.

signed to the FBI, the Globe says. It figures agents' salaries and expenses reached "a staggering $2,500,000" — figuring the average pay of an agent about $7,500 annually.

State, county and city governments spent an estimated two million more, the Globe says. And the nine-week trial that ended at 2 a.m. Saturday morning cost another $150,000. Fees, meals and entertainment for the locked-up 14-man jury are figured at close to $20,000.

Recently-Called British Reservists Build Resentment

LONDON (AP)—Two months ago Britain called up 20,000 military reservists to deal with the Suez crisis.

The possibility of a shooting war that led to their mobilization has almost disappeared. The Eden government is facing a problem of what to do with these men.

Resentment among the reservists appears building up to an explosion point. Hundreds are complaining of the financial hardship to their families. Others complain of plain boredom.

The seriousness of the situation was brought out into the open with a "We want to go home" demonstration by reservists last week on Cyprus, where 21 Royal Army Service Corps corporals and privates were arrested and may be court-martialed.

The government takes the view that the emergency created by Egypt's nationalization of the Suez emergency... it looks as though about 14,000 are still wasting their time—and the nation's time—in this country.

Validity Of Jury Panel Attacked

An attack on the validity of the jury panel made by George Thomas, Big Spring attorney, threw a monkey wrench into plans to resume jury trial of county court criminal cases Tuesday morning. As a result, the panel was called into the court, generally examined as to qualifications, and excused until 1:30 p.m. In the interval, Harvey Hooser Jr., county attorney, and R. H. Weaver, judge, were checking into the law to determine if Thomas' position is sound.

Thomas alleged in a motion brought by Mike Coronado that the wording of the official order calling the jurors for duty in the county court made it requisite that Panel No. 1, which served last week, continue as the jurors in the court.

Jury Panel No. 2 had reported for duty on Tuesday morning and the Coronado motion held that this panel is not qualified to try the case. The motion asked that the case involved by continued until such time as Jury Panel No. 1 could be summoned to serve.

Meantime, Monday afternoon two trials without jury were conducted in the county court before Judge Weaver.

Ruben Nimmas Vela, charged with aggravated assault, was found guilty by the court. He was fined $50 and costs.

Bobby Armstrong, charged with carrying deadly weapon, was also found guilty. His punishment was fixed at a fine of $100 and costs.

Both men paid their fines and the court costs and were released from custody.

A long list of cases were tentatively announced as ready for trial when the docket was sounded Monday morning. Hooser said that he expected to have cases for trial Tuesday afternoon.

Judge Weaver asked all of the jurors on Panel 2 to return to the court at that hour.

Mr. and Mrs. George Melear left Tuesday morning for Waco to attend last rites for his brother-in-law, Arthur Prescott.

Mr. Prescott died Saturday from injuries received three weeks ago when, as a pedestrian, he was struck by an automobile. He never regained consciousness.

For the past 35 years he and Mrs. Prescott, who survives him, had lived in El Paso. Services at Waco Wednesday are to be in charge of Compton Funeral Home.

Another bicycle was found by policemen Monday night. It is a silver-colored vehicle which patrolmen found behind Weber's Root Beer Stand on East Fourth. The vehicle is at the police station.

Airport Bond Issue Sold To Low Bidder

Texas Board of Education is not interested in investing half a million of its surplus dollars in Howard County's airport bond issue, the Howard County Commissioners Court was notified Monday afternoon.

The board signed a waiver which freed the court to sell the bonds to the group of investors headed by Columbia Investments, which made the low bid when the bonds were offered last week.

Monday afternoon, the bid of the Columbia group, with an average interest rate of 3.39 per cent, was officially accepted and steps were initiated to print the bonds and deliver them to the buyer as quickly as possible.

It is planned to turn the bonds over to the buyer within 10 days and a check for the half million dollars will be surrendered to the county.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, said that it is planned to confer, possibly next Monday, with the engineers and architects who are drawing up plans and specifications for the county airport, on the progress made to date.

One of the matters to be definitely determined is the acreage needed. Two alternatives have been proposed — construction of the airport on a rectangular tract of land sufficient in size to permit the runways proposed, or construction of the airport on "strips" of land, long enough for the runways, but relatively narrow in width.

Airports, it was said, have been constructed on both of these patterns.

A considerable difference in the total acreage needed would result. However, around the courthouse, it was felt that acquiring long narrow strips in the geographical design required, would be perhaps as expensive as purchasing all adjacent land.

When it is determined what acreage will be required, the negotiations with the land owners will be started.

Tentative site for the airport is about 4 miles north and east on the Snyder Highway. This location has been officially approved by the aerospace subcommittee of the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Members of the Commissioners Court were happier with the bid received for the airport bonds at 3.39 per cent than they had been at the time the bids were opened. Word has been received that a bond issue in Lubbock sold on the day following the local sale drew an average interest rate of better than 3.45 per cent.

Roscoe Gillean is New On TEC Staff

Roscoe Gillean, long-time resident of this area, has joined the staff of the Texas Employment Commission here as an interviewer.

Gillean is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Gillean, who resides just south of Lee's in Glasscock County. He is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Baylor University before he went into the drug business in Stamford, where he lived for many years. Returning here, he was associated for a time with Hemphill-Wells Company.

Burglars Tear Open A Vending Machine

Burglars entered the Acapulco Club, 304 N. Gregg, Monday night and broke into a vending machine. Patrolmen said that the building was entered through an east window. Owner of the establishment, V. P. Ziegler, could not determine how much money was taken from the cigarette machine. The machine was the only item bothered, policemen reported.

5 Tickets By Radar

Policemen gave five speeding tickets this morning to motorists on West Third, while using the new radar set. No tickets were issued Monday.

The department planned to use it as much as possible over the city to try to cut down on the number of accidents and slow Big Spring drivers.

3 Airmen Shaken In Auto Crash

Three Webb airmen were shaken up — none seriously however — in an accident Monday night.

The car in which the three were riding hit a utility pole on East Third.

Injured were James Morgan, David Robertson, and Bill Gastel. All are members of the 3560th Flight Line, Maintenance Squadron. They were transported to Webb in a River ambulance and were checked at the base hospital.

Robertson and Gastel were released, but Morgan was held overnight for observation. He was dismissed this morning.

Police said that Morgan was driving a 1955 Buick which plowed into a utility pole in the 1200 block of East Third. The car belonged to William Gaskill, also of Webb.

Theirs was the only car involved in the accident, which occurred about 11:30 p.m. Monday.

The accident was one of five that happened Monday. Two came in less than 30 minutes Monday afternoon.

One was at 5:10 p.m. It was in the 200 block of N. Gregg. Involved were Ronald Lee Jones, 904 E. 14th; Delbert Davidson, Rt. 1; and Nona Campbell Brunson, 310 San Antonio.

At Fourth and Douglas, a 1956 Ford belonging to R. E. Rhoades, Settles Hotel, was hit by Carlos Antonio Barber, 2201 Kendall. The Rhoades vehicle was parked. The mishap came at 5:24.

Gregory Ballio, 318 NE 12th, and Dewey S. Hodgin, 1509 Scurry, were drivers of cars colliding in the 300 block of Main Monday afternoon. At Edwards and Gregg, Melva Watson, 1208 E. 17th, and Bobby Webb of Webb AFB were in an accident.

More Participants Are Needed For BE-Day Program

Several additional businessmen are needed to participate in the annual Business-Education Day observance here Nov. 14, the Chamber of Commerce said today.

Teachers from all the schools of Howard County expect to be guests of Big Spring businessmen for the day. However, only 27 merchants have agreed to serve as hosts for the observance. They can accommodate only about 150 teachers.

There are approximately 250 teachers in the county.

The Chamber of Commerce mailed 240 letters to merchants, asking the business operators to indicate whether they could serve as hosts to teachers on BE-Day. So far, only 27 have accepted, while 16 have said they would be unable to participate.

Work Starts On Auditorium Floor

Workmen started work on the city auditorium Monday, removing the old tile in the aisles in preparation for retilling.

The work is being done by Pioneer Builders, who received the contract from the city commission Sept. 25. The firm will retile the aisles, the lobby behind the balcony and the stairways.

Cost of the project is $1,347. A tan, cork-colored asphalt tile will be laid.

Architects Ordered To Start Work On Dawson Co. Hospital

LAMESA — The Dawson County Commissioners Court Monday afternoon gave the architects the go-ahead sign on hospital plans.

After an hour with members of the Hospital Advisory Committee and the architects, commissioners authorized the architects to proceed with plans for a 50-bed hospital. The building is to include a laundry.

All floors will be of terrazzo, with a vinyl fabric wainscoting. The building will be cooled by washed air, except for the operating and delivery rooms, which will be cooled by refrigerated air.

Turner Kimmell, one of the architects, told the commissioners that he thought it might be possible to get the 60-bed hospital originally proposed for the approximately $750,000 the court has to spend.

The service portion of the hospital, kitchen, administrative, boiler, operating, delivery and X-ray rooms, will be of sufficient size to serve up to a 75-bed hospital, so that if the hospital needs to be increased in size in later years, the service and medical portions will be large enough to fill the need.

The architects' proposal calls for 16 private rooms, 13 double rooms and two four-bed wards. The private rooms will be of sufficient size to house two beds in case of emergency. Each room will have oxygen piped directly to it, and will have an inter-communication system, controlled from the master-station manned by the nurses.

Members of the committee seemed to be of the opinion that the smaller, but more complete hospital would be more suitable to Dawson County than one larger, but not so well constructed.

Kimmell estimated that it would be March 1, 1957, before bids can be opened on the structure, and that construction will take at least a year. The site for the hospital will probably be selected this week, according to County Judge Aubrey Boswell.

The judge also told the group that he felt that the court could invest about $355,000 until April 1, 1957; and lesser amounts for periods up to completion time of the hospital.

It is expected that it will take about $80,000 to furnish and equip the hospital after the building is completed.

In other action, the commissioners court converted $85,000 of highway bonds into 30-day warrants, to be held by the First National Bank of Lamesa. At that time, they will be converted to bonds.

The balance of the U. S. 87 warrants, $4,191.93, will be paid off in cash by the county.

Big Spring nimrods, with a yen to shoot duck, may be planning a lot of hunting when the season opens on Nov. 2, but they are not rushing down to the Big Spring Post Office to buy the required duck stamp which will legalize their hunting activities.

The post office has an abundant supply of the $2 stickers which all duck hunters must have if they are to stalk water fowl. About 10 have been sold so far this season, the post office reports.

The season, according to the official bulletin issued by the Department of the Interior through which the stamps are handled and distributed for sale at post offices, opens in Texas on Nov. 2 and closes on Jan. 15.

Injunction Against Gins May Be Asked In C-City

COLORADO CITY — City councilmen Monday night requested an injunction against west end gin operators unless gin owners act to eliminate some of the dust and lint thrown off in their operations.

City Attorney John Worrell was instructed to contact gin owners and ask their cooperation in reducing what the council termed a nuisance. In the alternative, he was instructed to file suit for the restraining order.

The action followed presentation of a petition signed by residents in the neighboring areas. They asked the council for relief.

Jailed Ex-Auditor Accused Of Lying To Probe Group

CHICAGO — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) today accused Orville E. Hodge, former Illinois state auditor, of lying to the Senate Banking Committee.

Fulbright, chairman of the committee, made the accusation during an angry exchange of words while Hodge was in the midst of his second day of testimony.

Hodge, a Republican politician, was forced to quit his state position in July. He was sent to prison to serve 12 to 15 years for embezzlement.

An audit of Hodge's thefts has not been completed. But the total has been estimated at 1 1/2 million dollars.

Sen. Fulbright and Hodge were unable to agree how much had been returned to the state.

Members of the committee seemed to be of the opinion that the smaller, but more complete hospital would be more suitable to Dawson County than one larger, but not so well constructed.

Kimmell estimated that it would be March 1, 1957, before bids can be opened on the structure, and that construction will take at least a year. The site for the hospital will probably be selected this week, according to County Judge Aubrey Boswell.

Cotton Harvest Is 43 Pct. Complete

About 43 per cent of this year's cotton crop in Howard County has been harvested, but less than 40 per cent in Martin and Glasscock counties, according to the Texas Employment Commission.

The report stated that through last Saturday, 1,999 bales of cotton had been picked in the county. This is about 43 per cent of the estimated yield this year. T. E. C. predicted that 4,700 bales would be picked in the county.

In Glasscock county, 3,850 bales are in and this represents 37.7 per cent of the estimated total. The county is counting on 10,200 bales. Martin County reported 10,696 bales harvested thus far, or 37.5 per cent of the total. The Employment Commission estimated 28,500 bales would be picked. This estimate is 2,200 bales less than was first predicted.

Leon Kinney, director of the Big Spring T. E. C. office, said that after talking to farmers in Martin lately, he cut the 2,200 bales from his original estimate of 30,700 bales. Kinney said that no figures were available on the total of dry-land or irrigated cotton, but he felt that about 80 per cent of the total picked thus far was irrigation cotton.

Total bales processed in the three counties is 15,545, and total estimated yield is 43,400 bales.

Firemen Called After Pickup Hits Pump

Firemen were called Monday night to prevent and not fight a fire.

When Leonard Crain, 1201 Mulberry, hit a gasoline pump at the Loftin Service Station at 401 N. Gregg Monday night, the fire department was immediately called to stand by in case of an explosion and fire. But it did not develop.

Crain was driving a GMC truck, which ran over the gas pump. No other damage was reported.

Two Cabot Officials Visiting Plant Here

W. S. Dixon, superintendent of production for Cabot Carbon Company in the Southwest, and Carl J. Wright, retired, were visiting here Monday and Tuesday.

They inspected facilities of Cabot's furnace black plant east of here and renewed acquaintances made when Mr. Wright, then head of General Atlas (a Cabot affiliate), located the plant just east of Corden. He has since retired and lives in Fort Collins, Colo.

The records fall to reveal any incidents in the past where motor cars crashed into the boxes. There have been no crashes since the more ornate hues adorned the boxes. So, locally, postal officials just can't quite say if the new color helps or not.

They do point out that the colors make the boxes more readily visible and are of considerable convenience to the patrons who want to mail letters in them.

It is also less likely that the boxes will be mistaken for trash receptacles or, perhaps, as fire alarm boxes.

U. S. Postal authorities, pointing to the red, white and blue color of the official mail "drop" boxes located on convenient street corners, observe that the change in color from the old dark green has resulted in fewer motorists crashing into the boxes.

Big Spring has red, white and blue mail boxes, but whether the color scheme has reduced the number of crashes can hardly be determined.

U. S. Postal authorities, pointing to the red, white and blue color of the official mail "drop" boxes located on convenient street corners, observe that the change in color from the old dark green has resulted in fewer motorists crashing into the boxes.

Big Spring has red, white and blue mail boxes, but whether the color scheme has reduced the number of crashes can hardly be determined.

The records fall to reveal any incidents in the past where motor cars crashed into the boxes. There have been no crashes since the more ornate hues adorned the boxes. So, locally, postal officials just can't quite say if the new color helps or not.

They do point out that the colors make the boxes more readily visible and are of considerable convenience to the patrons who want to mail letters in them.

It is also less likely that the boxes will be mistaken for trash receptacles or, perhaps, as fire alarm boxes.

Forsan Youngsters

The Forsan Buffaloes, poised to open their conference football campaign this weekend in Water Valley, will be counting heavily upon the six players pictured above. They are, left to right, back row, Otto Willis and Roy Newton. Middle row, Eddy Sullivan and Dee Ratliff and back row, Raymond Martin and Randall Fowler.

Two Ponies Are Due To Miss Duke Game

TCU ran through a light drill Monday preparing for the Alabama game Saturday.

The Frogs, who suffered no serious injuries whipping Arkansas 41-6 last week, watched movies of the game. Trainer Elmer Brown said guard Jay McCullough, still hospitalized with pneumonia, will not make the trip to Alabama.

Texas A&M watched movies of Saturday's 40-6 victory over Texas Tech. Then the Aggies who saw most of the action worked in sweat clothes while the others ran in full gear.

Halfback Don Watson was named as the outstanding player in the Tech game.

A&M plays Houston Saturday. Baylor, showing added spark from its victory over Maryland, ran a light dummy drill with offensive play getting special emphasis.

Baylor meets Arkansas Saturday.

Coach Woody Woodard gave SMU some new plays. SMU meets Duke Saturday.

End Willard Deweall and half Lou Slaughter, who missed the Missouri game with injuries, were expected to miss the Duke game. Fullback Ray Masters, who hurt a knee Saturday, worked out Monday and is expected to play this week.

Three backs were on the injury list as Rice started getting ready for Florida. Halfbacks Dan Shuford and G. F. Alsbrook were expected to be ready for the Gators. Fullback David Kelley hurt his knee in the victory over LSU and his condition was doubtful.

Texas made two changes in its starting lineup in preparation for the Oklahoma game.

Wayne Wash, 200-pound junior, was switched from fullback to left end. Mike Trant, two-year letterman, hurt his knee in losing to West Virginia and was expected to miss Oklahoma.

Tackle Charley Baker also will miss the Oklahoma game.

Coach Jack Mitchell sent Arkansas through drills on backfield maneuvers and offensive and defensive assignments. The Porkers also worked on pass defense. The team watched movies of its 41-6 loss to TCU Saturday and Mitchell said as "I think Baylor—as far as we're concerned—is as good as lost to TCU Saturday and Mitchell

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:

TUG WILSON, Big Ten commissioner: "I was in Texas and picked up some new terminology. One writer said of this Roberts of Southern Cal. which ripped up Texas' there in Texas, they offered me a 7 to 5 that Elvis Presley would draw more at the Texas State Fair than Notre Dame does all season."

ART GUEPE, Vanderbilt coach: "Why be pessimistic when you can be optimistic? I've never gone into a football game I didn't feel like we might win. I'm the same way about this season."

GENE O'BRIEN, Wichita golf pro: "Babe Zaharias was awfully nice to a country golf pro like me. She'd brag about the condition of the course, and even take lessons from me. She had only one fault—she played too lax, which is a fault only the great players can have. Over any 72-hole tournament she was at least ten strokes better than any woman who ever lived. The only fault she had to overcome was a tendency to get lazy out there. Great as she was, she would have been even greater playing against men. Don't ever think she couldn't have beaten a lot of men pro."

DUSTY RHODES, New York Giant outfielder: "I live in Montgomery, Ala., and I may get ridden out of town, but I've got this to say: Jackie Robinson is great. If he doesn't make the Hall of Fame, something is wrong with the guys doing the picking."

BOB COBB, president of the Hollywood baseball club: "Minor league baseball is all right. It's the crummy parks we play in. We've got to elevate baseball. It's got to be taken out of the alley. Look at the race tracks. They've made themselves beautiful places. It's smart to be seen at a race track."

HARVEY KNOX, stepfather of the former UCLA footballer, Ronnie upon taking his boy to Canada for a try at pro ball. "We're very loyal to the people who pay us."

CASEY STENGEL: "Jimmy Dykes is my candidate for the master at stalling for time. When that feller (his pitcher) gets halfway in, he remembers he forgot his jacket. He goes back after it. Not until he reaches the infield does Dykes recognize him. It's the wrong pitcher. The third baseman goes to the bench for a drink of water. The shortstop's shoes become untied. The first baseman wants a drink of water—Dykes had the thirdest teams in the league. The catcher returns the ball over the pitcher's head, but the center fielder is tying his shoe laces and ain't on the alert. Dykes did this to me in a game once, and if it wasn't so tragic I'd think it was funny."

JACK MITCHELL, Arkansas football coach: "A big danger is working a senior team too hard, but then another danger is not working them enough to keep in shape. It's tough unless you have a change in coaches. Like we had here last year. All the players are anxious to show the new coaches what they can do. Bud Wilkinson's setup is different. Over there, he can work his seniors just as hard as he wants to. And if they don't work he can put juniors and sophomores in there who are just as good."

Detroit Linebacker Will Be Equipped For Sound

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions are wiring their defensive captain for sound.

Officials of the professional football club said work would begin today to install an electronic device that will enable the coaches to pass along defensive signals to linebacker Joe Schmidt.

It will be similar to one used between Coach Paul Brown and quarterback George Ratterman of the Cleveland Browns.

Schmidt, former University of Pittsburgh star, won't be on a wire leash or anything of the sort. General Manager Nick Kerway explained. Here's the way the system will work:

The Lions will use the regular bench-press box phone setup to relay signals from defensive Coach Buster Ramsey on the field to coaches Aldo Forte and Red Cochran in the press box.

Workers will begin today installing wires about a foot under the Briggs Stadium turf. Those cables will be laid about 10 yards inside the out-of-bounds lines on each side of the playing field and will run the full length of the field.

A device a little larger than a silver dollar will be installed in a special helmet to be worn by Schmidt, and through this device—and with the assistance of the underground cables—he in turn will receive the defensive signals from the coaches in the press box.

Up to now, Ramsey has relayed the signals by hand or by word of mouth from the sidelines.

Star All Alone In History

By ED WILKS

BROOKLYN (AP)—A year ago last winter Don Larsen was somewhere in the middle of 18 men in that deal that brought Bob Turley to the New York Yankees from Baltimore.

Last Friday, Larsen was one of a record seven pitchers Yankee Manager Casey Stengel fed to Brooklyn's bats as the Dodgers took a 2-0 lead in the World Series.

Today Larsen is all alone in baseball history—the only man ever to pitch a perfect game in a World Series. No one ever had pitched even a no-hitter in a series before. Not since Charlie Robertson of the Chicago White Sox stopped Detroit and Ty Cobb in April 1922 had anyone pitched a perfect game in major league baseball.

Larsen, a big, 27-year-old right-hander, has everything going for him, except maybe himself. "He can run, he can hit, he can punt, he can throw," said Stengel. "He's been a fella who should be able to pitch good—but he don't always pay attention to business."

"Now that no-windup of his," Case said. "He did that himself. Thought Boston was stealing signs on him two, three weeks ago. It's helped him, and I suppose everybody will be doing it now."

Brooklyn's Duke Snider had a heckuva time with that lack of a windup. "You wait for him so long and then he goes ahead and throws it. You can't tell when he's going to let it go. And while you're waiting there, maybe you drop your elbow or something and before you get set again the pitch is there."

Peo Wee Reese, like most of the Brooks, figured the no-windup helped Larsen, but it was "his stuff, that fast ball and his control," that beat them.

Larsen was giving no hits. Nor any walks. He went to three balls to only one man—Reese with a 3-2 count in the first inning. He struck out Reese, the second man he faced, on a called strike, just as he had nulled leadoff man Junior Gilliam; and just as he ended the game against pinchhitter Dale Mitchell. All told, he fanned seven.

Of the 97 pitches Larsen threw, 21 were called strikes.

Larsen was a crack baseball and basketball player at San Diego High School and was signed by the Browns after graduation in 1947.

His farm team experience included duty with Wichita Falls of the Big State League in 1950 and San Antonio of the Texas League in 1951 and 1952 before moving to the big leagues in 1953.

Two SWC Elevens Are Underdogs

By The Associated Press

Texas is a 21-point underdog in its game Saturday with Oklahoma and Florida is expected to lose to Rice but other Southwest Conference teams are picked to win by the oddsmakers.

TCU is a 21-point favorite over Alabama. Texas A&M is given a 10-point bulge over Houston. SMU is three points over Duke and Baylor is a 9-point selection over Arkansas.

Florida is rated only one point over Rice.

Three SWC Teams Are In Top Ten

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference's outstanding intersectional record in football is reflected this week in The Associated Press poll.

Three members of the conference are in the top 10—TCU fourth, Texas A&M ninth and Baylor tenth.

Only the Southeastern Conference has as many teams in the top 10. Georgia Tech, Tennessee and Mississippi, ranked third, sixth and seventh respectively, are the Southeastern Conference representatives.

The Big 10 with Michigan State, second, and Ohio State, fifth, has two teams. The Big 7, with Oklahoma ranked No. 1, and the Pacific Coast Conference, with Southern California eighth, have one each.

The Southwest Conference's intersectional record—11 victories against only 3 losses—leads the nation.

McIlhenny Better Than 'Hopalong'

By The Associated Press

Although rookie Howard "Hopalong" Cassidy has been showing up well for the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, the All-America and Heisman Trophy winner from Ohio State has been overshadowed by another first-year man, Don McIlhenny. The ex-SMU star, a big factor in the Lions' two victories in the young season, has proved a dangerous runner. He scored one touchdown in Saturday's 31-14 victory over Baltimore, and also scored a TD the week before against Green Bay.

Stanley Leads Way

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Havel Stanley passed and punted the San Antonio Wolverines to a 26-18 victory last night over a stubborn Monterey Tech team in the International Good Neighbor football game.

Sooners First And TCU 4th In AP Grid Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. The Associated Press

Oklahoma still is the nation's No. 1 college football team, but some people are hard to convince. After rolling up a 66-0 score against Kansas State, setting a major college record with their 32nd consecutive victory and making it 54 without a defeat against Big Seven Conference rivals, the Sooners retained their No. 1 rating in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters. But Michigan State continued to push for the top spot.

Oklahoma was first on 76 of 130 ballots. Michigan State, a 9-0 winner over Michigan in the big game of the past weekend, drew 32 first-place votes.

In the point totals on the usual basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc., Oklahoma piled up a 120-point margin, 1,185 to 1,065.

The also-rans were well behind and closely bunched. Georgia Tech led last Saturday, polled 793 points to hold third place and Texas Christian edged out Ohio State for fourth, 740-735. Then came Tennessee, Mississippi, Southern California, Texas A&M and Baylor completing the first 10.

The top 10 with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Oklahoma (76) 1,185
2. Michigan State (32) 1,065
3. Georgia Tech (4) 793
4. Texas Christian (7) 740
5. Ohio State (1) 735
6. Tennessee (1) 588
7. Mississippi (2) 483
8. Southern California 313
9. Texas A&M 165
10. Baylor 150

11. Miami (Fla.) (1) 137
12. Michigan 109
13. Vanderbilt 107
14. Navy 82
15. Army 82
16. George Washington (1) 79
17. Minnesota 75

Robbie Says It'll Go 7

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN (AP)—"Thank goodness we're back home again," said Jackie Robinson. "We shouldn't have any trouble with their pitching today—and then we'll see Ford again tomorrow."

Robinson and the rest of the Brooklyn Dodgers figure this World Series to go the full seven games—with them winning.

"We never would have won it in four games," said Jack. "We haven't done things the easy way all season."

The world champs, who won the National League pennant on the final day, were one down in the series going into today's sixth game in what has been a "home park" battle. Brooklyn won the first two games in its own park, then lost the next three at Yankee Stadium.

It was the same way a year ago. The Yankees had won the first two games at home; lost three at Ebbets Field, then won the sixth game at home again. It wasn't until the final game that the home "jinx" was junked—with the Dodgers winning it all at Yankee Stadium.

"We certainly won't see anything like yesterday again (when Don Larsen pitched the first perfect game ever in World Series play to beat the Dodgers 2-0)," said Robinson. "No matter who they pitch today we ought to win."

Tech Raiders Seek First Win Against West Texas

By The Associated Press

LUBBOCK, Oct. 9.—Texas Tech's oldest rivalry will be resumed for the 21st time as the Red Raiders are hosts to the West Texas State Buffaloes here Saturday night.

West Texas is the only school on Tech's 1956 schedule—the Lubbock college's first year of existence—still being met. E. Y. Freeland's Matadors capped a 6-1-2 season with a 13-12 win over the Buffaloes.

Other opponents and game scores that initial year were McMurry (0-0), Austin College (3-3), Montezuma (30-0), Clarendon (13-7), Sul-Ross (21-7), Wayland (10-0), Abilene Christian (10-7), and Howard Payne (0-29, the lone loss). Thanks mainly to the lopsided Wayland score, the Matadors wound up with a total of 210 points to their opponents' 65.

Although the West Texas series now stands 16-4 in Tech's favor, more than the law of averages will be working on the side of the Buffaloes Saturday night.

Primarily, of course, Coach Frank Kimbrough has a good team, the product of three years' building. The Buffaloes are rated possibly better than the 1950 edition which blasted Tech 28-13 in winning the Border Conference title en route to a Sun Bowl triumph over Cincinnati.

Returning are nine of the starters and 29 lettermen who participated in the 27-24 thriller taken by Texas Tech last year. Among these are quarterback Bubba Hillman, an excellent passer and runner, and tackle Phil Wright, top-notch lineman.

Psychologically, West Texas also

Pinelli Called 'Em For Larsen

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN (AP)—Don Larsen of the New York Yankees will never forget his history-making pitching performance against Brooklyn.

Neither will Babe Pinelli, senior member of the National League staff of umpires. For it was Pinelli who umpired the first perfect game in World Series history—the last time Babe ever will work behind the plate.

"It was the greatest game I ever worked in," Pinelli said happily as he tried to relax in his dressing room after the game. "And it was also my last behind the plate. Yes, I'm through after this series. Boy, what a way to bow out."

It was as though this thing had been planned for him, as though this whole incredible pitching masterpiece had been staged as a special going-away gift for him.

"It's unbelievable," he declared, "simply unbelievable. What a game, what a game. I never saw anything like it before. I umpired four no-hitters in regular season play but none of them compared to this. The strange thing about those no-hitters is that all were previously pitched by Dodger pitchers. Now I work a no-hitter pitched against the Dodgers—and a perfect game, at that. Boy, I'll have something to talk about and remember to my dying day. What a thrill. Nothing I ever saw could hold a candle to this one."

Swaps Breaks Down While Exercising

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—Swaps, one of the world's greatest race horses broke down during an exercise run at Garden State Park today but X-rays showed no break of a leg bone as was at first feared.

The veterinarian said the horse probably would be out of action for at least four months.

Larsen Was 7th To Perform Feat

By The Associated Press

Don Larsen outpitched today because the seventh pitcher in major league baseball history to pitch a perfect game. The other six accomplished it during the regular season. Larsen's perfect performance was the first in a World Series game.

The list: 1890—John Lee Richmond, Worcester vs. Cleveland, N.L. June 13, score: 1-0. John M. Ward, Providence vs. Buffalo, N.L. June 17, 1-0.

1904—Denton T. Young, Boston vs. Philadelphia, A.L. May 5, 3-0.

1908—Adrian C. Ross, Cleveland vs. Chicago, A.L. Oct. 2, 1-0.

1917—Elliott G. Shore, Boston vs. Washington, A.L. June 23, 4-0.

1923—C. Robert Smith, Chicago vs. Detroit, A.L. April 30, 2-0.

1906—Don Larsen, New York A.L. vs. Brooklyn, N.L. Oct. 8, 2-0.

X-Rays' performance in this game is now classified as a perfect game. Babe Ruth pitched the Boston Pitcher and was removed by Umpire Owens after giving up a base on balls to the first batter, who was retiring trying to steal second base. Shore then retired the next 26 batters in succession.

Durante Astonished At Engagement Fuss

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Jimmy Durante, 63, and his fiancée have returned to Hollywood, a little astonished at all the fuss. News of the comic's engagement to Margie Little, 35, an actress from Plainfield, N. J., was disclosed Saturday night at the opening of a tennis club in Phoenix, Ariz. "Why, we've been going together for 10 or 11 years," the Schnozzola said upon returning here last night. He said they plan to be married "sometime next year." Durante was married in 1916 to the former Jeanne Olsen. She died in 1943.

Diver Fights Off Bends For 6 Hours

THOMASTON, Conn. (AP) — Diver Donald Beauchemin, 28, spent six hours in the cold water of a reservoir last night fighting off the bends. "I'm cold and I'm hungry," were his first words when he came finally to the surface at 10:30 p.m. Beauchemin is one of a team of divers working on the base of the Wigwam Dam here. He went down for his last trip of the day at 3:45 yesterday afternoon. About 40 minutes later he came up but felt pain—one of the symptoms of the bends.

"Fellow workers dumped him back to the bottom of the 68-foot deep reservoir and called Dr. Lawrence Harris. Beauchemin was in a spot. The nearest decompression chamber is 85 miles away at the U.S. Navy submarine base in New London. Prompt decompression is the only treatment for bends, which can be fatal.

Dr. Harris decided to let the reservoir be a decompression chamber and ordered Beauchemin kept in the water and raised to the surface gradually—10 feet an hour. It took six hours to get Beauchemin up. He was bundled into an ambulance and rushed to New London.

Two hours later he was placed in a decompression chamber at the submarine base and began a 20-hour stay. A Navy spokesman said Beauchemin was in favorable condition when he arrived. Bends or caisson disease strikes divers who remain too long underwater, it is painful and paralyzing. Beauchemin talked over a communications system in his diver's suit from below the surface. He joked about his co-workers being home "in a warm bed" but the workers were there helping man the diving equipment. He kept letting them know, "It's cold down here."

Noted Dancer Who Shocked World Dies At Age 76

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Maud Allan, the controversial dancer who shocked the world nearly 50 years ago with her portrayal of a flimsy-clad Salome passionately clutching the papier mache head of John the Baptist, is dead at 76. Miss Allan, bed-ridden for nearly two years, died yesterday at a rest home.

She created a sensation when in 1908 she appeared at London's Palace Theater clad in diaphanous veils to dance her "Vision of Salome." She was a pioneer in aesthetic dancing in revealing costume, but was modest compared with today's bubble and fan dancers. She always defended her dances as pure art.

Her dancing career ended in 1938 when she was seriously hurt in an auto accident. She recovered to write an autobiography and to encourage other dancers on their way up. Miss Allan was born in Toronto Aug. 27, 1880, the daughter of two physicians, Dr. William Allan and Dr. Isble Hutchinson Allan. The family moved to California when she was a child.

Kentucky Demos Are Feuding Again

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 9 (AP)—Kentucky Democrats are feuding again and unless the signs change the feud may hand over the state's 10 electoral votes to President Eisenhower and a Senate seat to the Republicans.

At this point, Eisenhower appears to have advantages continued personal popularity, general Kentucky prosperity and strong support among women and youthful voters. On the other hand, Adlai E. Stevenson carried the state by 700 votes four years ago. Stevenson is better known now than he was then. He has strong newspaper support. And he is the beneficiary of a seemingly national trend among Democrats to go back to their own party.

This adds up to a battle in which Democratic Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler's hardly concealed animosity toward his party's candidates conceivably could tip the scales toward the Republicans. Chandler is feuding with Sen. Earle Clements, seeking re-election, and former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, running for the remaining four years of the term of the late Sen. Alben Barkley.

Although Chandler has announced he will vote the straight Democratic ticket, this obvious low regard for Stevenson has not been lost on the 18,000 state employees and their friends. He has cut off the usual Democratic practice of obtaining "voluntary" contributions from such employees, thus forcing the party to look elsewhere for an estimated $250,000 in campaign funds.

In turn, however, this has stirred the opposing faction of Democrats to greater efforts than before to offset the defection in party ranks which holds out the only prospect for a Republican victory. Prosperity also seems to be working for the GOP. Pike County is the coal mine area in eastern Kentucky. In 1952, Pike County gave Stevenson 12,761 votes to Eisenhower's 9,778. Four years later the Democrats show some signs of worry about carrying it.

Mrs. Francis M. Burke, who works with her husband, an attorney, in the Democratic cause, said she and her husband believe the county is going Democratic again, but she sounded a little uncertain. Her mother and sister, standing nearby, said they are going to vote for Eisenhower.

Down Highway 460, Mrs. Mary DeWitt, a waitress and a widow, said she is voting for Eisenhower because she thinks he is a "fair man." "Somehow," she said, "Mr. Stevenson just doesn't seem to get through to little people like me. I would vote for Mr. Kefauver because I think he understands us, but I just can't seem to feel that Mr. Stevenson is sincere."

It was Saturday afternoon in Pikeville and the miners and their families were out in force. Sidewalks were four deep with men, women and kids. A random check of five miners turned up no conclusive political evidence: two were for Stevenson, two for Eisenhower and one undecided.

West on 460 a score of miles, a country store clerk sliced off a quarter pound of cheese and ventured the cautious guess that "most of the folks around here seem to be for Eisenhower." Further west David Brent, who grows tobacco, said he had to cut his acreage back so much he is depending more on other crops all the time. He said he is sticking with the Democrats because he thinks the farmers got a better break under Democratic administrations.

In the white fence country around Lexington "are the expansive, high breeding farms. It doesn't always reflect the sentiment of central Kentucky in which it lies. Lexington is in Fayette County, which gave Eisenhower 17,376 votes to Stevenson's 14,275 four years ago. But the 6th Congressional Dist. in which it is included, went to Stevenson by 10,000 votes.

Democrats claim there will be some changes in Lexington, now that University of Kentucky and Transylvania College students who are 18 or older can vote for the first time this year under a Kentucky constitutional amendment. Pretty Jean White, a Transylvania coed, said she and most of her friends are voting for Eisenhower because "I think he has been a good president and I don't think Stevenson would do as well."

Republicans have contended that Negro voters are turning to their party this year. This may or may not be true. Mrs. Ida Burnet, Negro elevator operator in a Lexington hotel, said she is sticking with Ike. "I think President Eisenhower is a gentleman," she said. "He has added dignity to the office of president and that is why I am for him."

A Negro hotel maid said she always has been a Democrat but is going to vote for Eisenhower "because he's a good man and me and my boy is doing all right." Eisenhower has whipped up the Republicans with a personal visit to Lexington and may be back in the state again before the election. On how well he runs here may depend the success of the party's two senatorial candidates. John Sherman Cooper, former ambassador to India, generally is regarded as being ahead of Wetherby for the Barkley short term.

Thurston B. Morton, former State Department official, is not given as good a chance against Clements, who has demonstrated he is a difficult man to defeat in Kentucky. While Clements and Wetherby contend there is widespread farm dissatisfaction in Kentucky, it is hard to find any sizable indications of it. Neither does there appear to be any organized and effective labor union opposition to Eisenhower.

Boiler Room Blast Kills 2, Hurts 19

MILWAUKEE (AP)—An explosion in the boiler room at the Ampco Metals, Inc., office on the city's Southwest Side yesterday killed two and injured 19 persons. Mrs. Clara Baxter, 35, an office worker, was killed in the blast. Charles Plenke, 49, a clerk, died in a hospital several hours afterward.

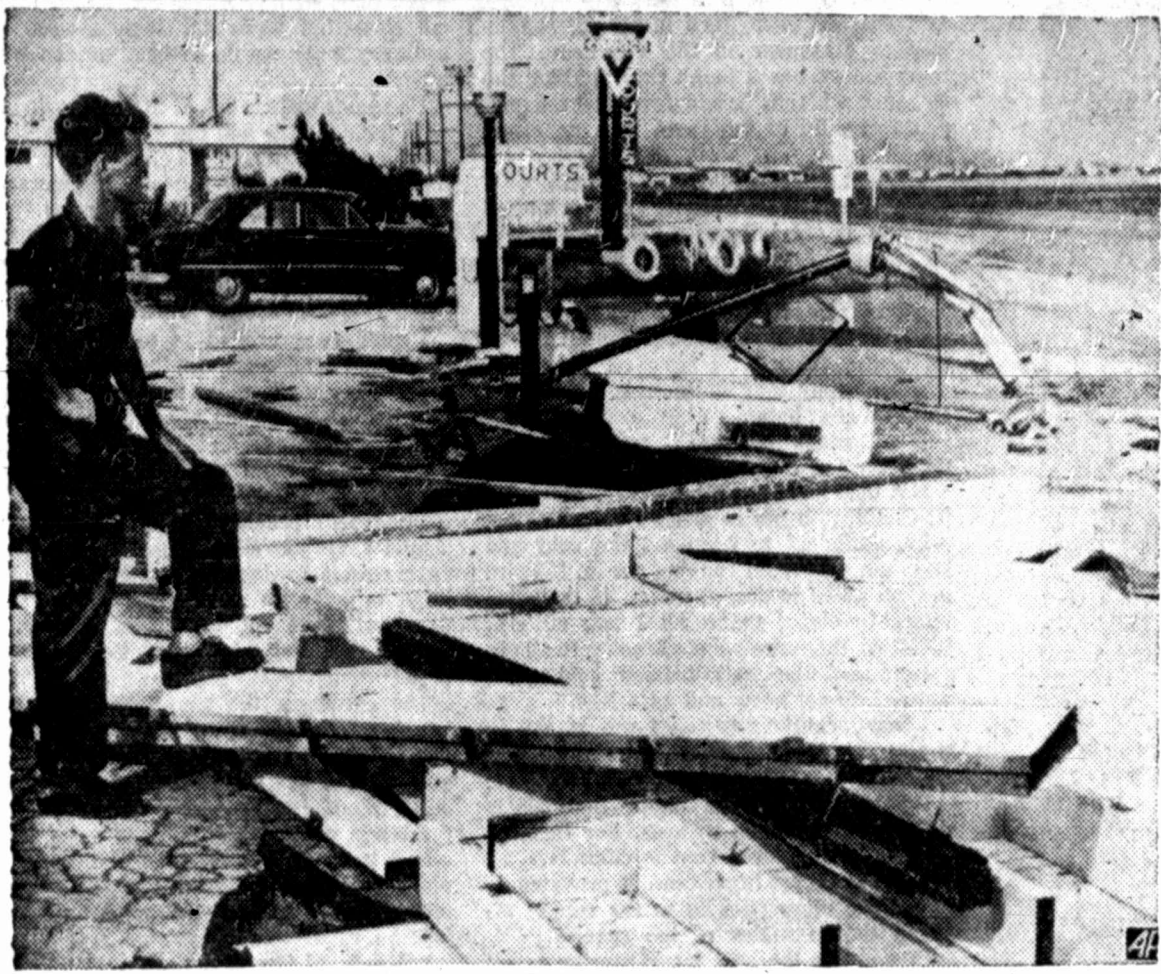

Fire department authorities filed an investigation to determine the specific cause of the blast. Company officials said steam hissing from the boiler used in the building's hot water heating system indicated it may have become overloaded. The explosion tore out two floors in one corner of the glass block and brick buildings used by the firm as its general offices. The company makes castings for the dairy and does gas and extrusion welding. "I was sitting upstairs in the comptroller's office," Paul A. Knudsen, the firm's secretary, said, "when all of a sudden I thought a bomb struck the place. I ran outside and saw the building had collapsed." Several persons remained hospitalized with injuries. Medical aides said their condition ranged from fair to good. There was no fire.

Large Group Of Actresses To Make Debut On Broadway

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—The largest group of young actresses in years will debut on Broadway this season. And each will be hoping for the critical acclaim that launches an overnight skyride to stardom.

Fifteen newcomers fresh to the big time have won important roles in 10 shows due for early arrival. That's about double an ordinary season's total—and half this season's casting is yet to be completed.

The oldest is 28, the youngest 10. Their composite age is 21, their height 5-foot-4½, their eyes blue and hair blonde. One Texas belle speaks with an intriguing Gallic accent, another has had a spat with Marlene Dietrich, a third came to a midsummer audition in overcoat and heavy sweater-for luck.

Two of them hold the title roles in upcoming comedies. Pippa Scott is the "Child of Fortune" who arrives Nov. 13 and Anna Massey is "The Reluctant Debutante" who bows Oct. 10.

Lissome, blonde and 21-year-old Diana van der Vlis is another young Canadian who has had to learn to box, step old-fashioned dances and handle a live alligator for her big chance in "The Happiest Millionaire." She's not complaining—her leading man will be star Walter Pidgeon Oct. 29.

Four newcomers have been assembled for "The Loud Red Patrick" which opens Oct. 3. Teamed as a set of motherless sisters are Peggy Maurer, 25, Phi Beta Kappa from Greensburg, Pa., Lynn Thatcher, 17, of Scranton, Pa.; Kimetha Larue, 12, and Rennee Jarrett, 10, both of New York.

One girl who already has an important role in her acting memory book is Natalie Trundy, 16, a Boston blonde to be seen as Shelley Winters' young sister in "Girls of Summer" Nov. 19.

Another newcomer is Gladys Holland, a curvy, dark-eyed charmer to be seen Oct. 8 in "Sixth Finger in a Five Finger Glove."

Miss Holland started life 28 years ago in Ponta, Tex., but 18 months later went with her mother, a Belgian, to Europe. Now she speaks her native language with a continental flavor. With plenty of stage training in Belgium and Germany, Gladys returned to this country five years ago, has concentrated since on emoting for television films.

The girl who used the strangest of good luck charms to win her Broadway chance is Patience Cleveland, 25 and blonde. Patience grew up in New London, N.H., studied for the theater in Paris and New York, but never reached Broadway.

Last winter she was called to read for a key role opposite Maurice Evans in Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart," but it was a cold day and Miss Cleveland did her scene bundled up in a turtle-neck sweater and overcoat.

Nepal Due China Aid

HONG KONG (AP)—Radio Peiping today announced that Red China will give the Himalayan kingdom of Nepal 60 million Indian rupees—about $12,650,000—in economic aid during the next three years. Nepal now gets a million dollars a year in U.S. aid.

The foreign policy of the little kingdom, which lives between India and Communist-controlled Tibet, previously has been closely aligned with India's.

School's International Flavor Means No Integration Problem

By JIM HARPSTER DENVER, Oct. 9 (AP)—The stocky man behind the big walnut desk looked up in surprise when the word was mentioned.

"Integration?" he asked. He picked up a newspaper and pointed to a headline on a story about moves to desegregate public schools.

"This kind of integration, you mean? Well, that's just another word around here. We don't avoid it by design or by accident. It just doesn't carry any weight in this school."

"This school" is the Emily Griffith Opportunity School. Its principal, a husky ex-Nebraska football player, is Howard L. Johnson, who says it is the only multirace, tax-supported, fulltime school in the United States with a comprehensive program of noncollege studies.

"You want to see what I mean?" Johnson asked. He waved a big hand toward the door. "Step out in the hall."

A bell changed, ending classroom sessions. Doors opened along the shiny corridor of the main building and the hallway was packed within seconds. Negroes, Spanish-Americans, Indians and Orientals surged forth among white fellow students.

"Looks like the United Nations, doesn't it?" said Johnson. "And it is a sort of United Nations, on a small scale. We haven't kept an accurate accounting, but we believe we have had students representing almost every racial extraction enrolled here at one time or another."

"There has never been any race problem. This is because Opportunity School was 'integrated' from the very start."

"In all honesty, we think our multiracial student body is a strong factor in the school's success."

Opportunity school has just marked its 40th birthday, and from its inception it has hewed to a genuine democratic philosophy. There is only one restriction to admission: that of available classroom space. Opportunity School serves anyone and everyone on a first-come, first-served basis.

Different ages, different racial extractions, different backgrounds, different ideas—hot ingredients for prejudice. Yet Opportunity School's students are as alike as they are different.

"The reason, I think, is that these people establish a brotherhood among themselves the minute they register," Johnson explained. "They're here because they want to learn. Whether their skin is black or white, yellow or brown, doesn't make any difference."

By Johnson's estimate, Opportunity School has helped to educate nearly 650,000 persons—more than the current half-million population of Denver. Today it offers 275 different courses, and is licensed to issue high school graduation certificates to students of all ages whose high school education was interrupted.

It was Early who surveyed and laid out Corbin's present main street. And it was Early who built most of the earlier, important city buildings—two Methodist churches and the Masonic and Odd Fellows Hall, a Baptist and a Christian church, and the Wilbur Hotel, still one of the city's largest.

The Judge married twice. Seven of his 10 children are still living and he makes his home with one of them, Police Chief William D. Early.

The Judge still writes his other children, keeps a diary and smokes his cornob pipe. "once a day—from the time I get up until I go to bed."

Early turned to woodworking after a "heap of living" as a school teacher, carpenter, mail carrier and storekeeper. The 12 years he spent as a police judge here earned him the nickname "Judge."

Police Seek Clues In Rape-Slaying Of California Girl

LANCASTER, Calif. (AP)—Authorities sought further clues today in the rape-slaying of a young, highly-religious girl who was stabbed to death with a carving knife.

The pajama-clad body of Jody Diane Burford, 20, was found yesterday sprawled on the living room floor of the house she had managed for her father and younger brother since the divorce of her parents.

Sheriff's deputies said a medical examination confirmed she had been raped. The carving knife was found in the room, its blade broken off near the hilt. Investigators said the victim was stabbed five times.

Officers issued an all points bulletin seeking Charles Raymond Elms, 17, believed to be an acquaintance of Jody's brother, for questioning in the case. Sheriff's Sgt. Ray Hopkinson said the youth has been missing since Saturday night.

Dollar A Year Man

CORBIN, Ky. (AP)—It's bargain day at Robert A. Early's workshop.

"You can buy anything you want for a $1.07," says Early, "because it's my 107th birthday."

Age has slowed the knife which carves various articles from wood but Early's eye for business is still sharp.

"It's a fitting and proper thing to turn an honest penny any time," he said, "and my birthday is no exception. People always buy more then."

Early turned to woodworking after a "heap of living" as a school teacher, carpenter, mail carrier and storekeeper. The 12 years he spent as a police judge here earned him the nickname "Judge."

It was Early who surveyed and laid out Corbin's present main street. And it was Early who built most of the earlier, important city buildings—two Methodist churches and the Masonic and Odd Fellows Hall, a Baptist and a Christian church, and the Wilbur Hotel, still one of the city's largest.

The Judge married twice. Seven of his 10 children are still living and he makes his home with one of them, Police Chief William D. Early.

The Judge still writes his other children, keeps a diary and smokes his cornob pipe. "once a day—from the time I get up until I go to bed."

This is where Tomorrow starts!

The New Ford Station Wagons. This famous line of champions has been redesigned from nameplate to tailgate. These five spacious glamour wagons are lower, longer, livelier than ever.

The New Fairlane 500 Series. Less than 5 feet high, over 17 feet long, largest car ever offered in the low-price field. With the look of tomorrow in its flight-bearded lines, this Club Sedan (above) typifies the beauty of all five Fairlane 500 models.

After today, American cars will never be the same again.

For the Big New Kind of Ford is a brilliant new automotive package—the one fine car in the low-price field!

We've unwrapped the 1957 Fords!

These are the best Fords of our lives. The whole package is new.

The power is new—with Silver Anniversary V-8's to fit every horsepower need.

The style is new—a revolutionary, sharp, brilliant, clear-cut design that will stand out in traffic.

The comfort is new—a rock-solid velvet-road ride.

The braking is positive—silky smooth when your toe says "whoa." The steering is feather light yet firm.

This is a great automobile, from the large honest dial faces on the instrument panel to the effortless loafing way it cruises. At high speeds this new Ford has none of the struggling, humping, stretch-out feeling you sometimes get in some other cars.

The new Ford begins with the "Inner Ford." Its new elegance comes from within, from the way its automotive muscles are put together. There are a thousand and one automotive lessons built into this New Kind of Ford. All of the changes are toward more rugged endurance, toward increased power, toward smoother operation. These are the bases for its "Mark of Tomorrow" elegance. This is the one fine car in the low-price field.

There are actually 19 different new kinds of Ford—the new Custom 300 and Custom Series on a 116-inch wheelbase, the new Fairlane 500 and Fairlane Series on a 118-inch wheelbase, and the famous five Ford Station Wagons, the champions of glamour cruisers. And no matter which new kind of Ford you choose, it's yours at low Ford prices!

How does it look? It's only fourteen hands high—as tall as a child's pony. You can stand beside it and lean your elbows on its roof. And it's over seventeen feet long . . . 21 inches wider than it is high!

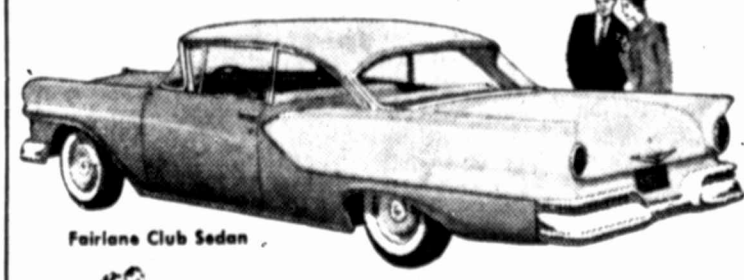

This big new kind of Ford looks like the fun on a travel poster. It's the kind of car that looks sunshiny in the rain.

It looks as fresh as morning.

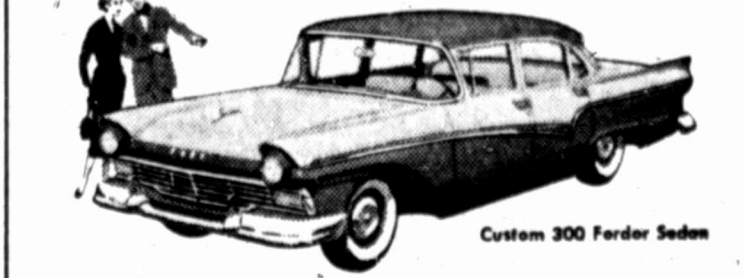

It looks like tomorrow—like the first thing out of Detroit that symbolizes the new Age of Movement.

See it at your Ford Dealer's. Give it your own Action Test. But you'd better leave a deposit . . . for you won't want to bring it back.

A Bible Thought For Today

Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number: he calleth them all by names by the greatness of this might, for that he is strong in power; not one faileth. (Isaiah 40:26)

Inspired Performances Of Series

America is not entirely sane during the World Series, just as Louisville goes berserk during the Derby, and New Orleans at Mardi Gras.

But it is a pleasant sort of madness, and to some extent almost every American from five to 105 catches the fever.

One fellow prominent in the current series once played in Texas years ago. He is Dusty Boggess, one of the four umpires — and probably the biggest umpire in the business.

One reason baseball appeals to so many Americans is that it is the most democratic game ever devised. "Pull" won't get a kid in organized baseball, and "pull" won't keep him there a minute longer than his abilities entitle him to. If he's got it and can deliver it with fair regularity, he can rise to the top and stay there as long as his legs and his timing hold out.

Another reason Americans love baseball is that for 37 years, ever since the Black Sox scandal of 1919, you could count the number of times a player "went wrong" on the fingers of one hand.

It is perhaps the most closely guarded and best policed major sport in the world, therefore the people have confidence in it and feel that every time a player goes to bat or takes his place in the field, he is giving his honest best.

And finally, when some young man, facing one of the greatest pressures in the sports world, comes up as Don Larsen did Monday with an unbelievable no-hit, no-run, no-walk game — a perfect game — well, you can't blame America for going ga-ga over a game that produces such inspired performances.

Nothing Equals A Prime Steak

Second phase of the annual antelope hunt west of the Pecos got under way Friday. Three hundred Johnny-come-lateries were on hand and their numbers were expected to rise to 400 before the three-day hunt came to an end.

In the first round, 408 hunters bagged 385 antelope. Hunters are selected by lot, and game wardens ride close herd on the proceedings, for Texas properly cherishes these creatures and allows only enough to be killed to prevent overstocking their range.

The antelope is probably the most beautiful and engaging wild animal of the plains and foothills. It runs with the speed of the wind and its movements are poetry in motion. Its bump of curiosity is large, and in the old days when there were no restrictions on its taking, the antelope was its own worst enemy. It always wanted to come up and see what the freight wagon, the horseman or the man with a gun was, and it had the deplorable dangerous habit of running across the path just ahead of the moving object.

Once these animals were almost as numerous as the more famous bison. An early settler who "inspected" into this area in early 1881 told us several hundred antelope moved in and "inspected" his overnight camp at an unsafe distance. He had antelope steak for supper.

Some gourmets claim moose meat is the best, some claim the wapiti, or elk, beats them all for fine eating. We don't know about moose, but elk is good and antelope is better, but for real good eat in and out eating nothing on earth equals the sirloin or T-bone of a prime four-year old steer. As for the buffalo, mention the hump and the tongue and you've said all there is to say about it.

Government Innovations And Parties

At Cleveland and Lexington last week the President insisted "that there are deep and essential differences in the beliefs and convictions of the two major parties." I do not believe the facts support this theory. For while there are differences between the two parties, they are not very deep or essential in the field of their beliefs and their convictions. The new Republicanism which the President proclaimed at the San Francisco Convention does not challenge, indeed it accepts and proposes to extend, all the big innovations which were made by Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt. This covers not only the vast structure of the new welfare state, the Federal protection of agriculture, the regulation of business and of banking, but also that most far-reaching of reforms within the western capitalist order—the acceptance of Federal responsibility for full employment and for the management of the business cycle.

modernism and twentieth century reform. The Democrats have been that ever since. As a young man, Franklin Roosevelt was in fact, I think I am right in this, a disciple of his great relative Theodore. But after 1912 anyone who had such ideas joined the Democratic Party.

In consequence, the Democrats have in this century become the agents for bringing our public policy and institutions abreast of the changing times. There have been, as it were, two political cycles each with a period of innovation followed by a period of correction and consolidation. In the innovating phases the country has turned to the Democrats, as with Wilson and with Franklin Roosevelt. In the correcting and consolidating phase, the country has turned to the Republicans, as with Coolidge and Eisenhower.

These innovations which have meant a vast extension of the Federal power have little connection with the essential beliefs and convictions of either party. As a matter of fact, according to their historic tradition which descends from Alexander Hamilton and Lincoln, the Republicans should be the Federalist Party. They were that in the nineteenth century and down through the Administration of Theodore Roosevelt. It has not been ideology but history, the turn of events in this century, which has made the Democrats over into the Federalist party.

There is substantial evidence, I believe, for thinking that for the third time in this century the country is coming into an innovating phase. This, I submit, is the reason for the extraordinary upsurge of the Democrats at the grass roots. The new phase is caused once again by the country's need to bring its policies and measures abreast of the times. In the period of Theodore Roosevelt and of Wilson, there was need to impose social and public standards on corporation capitalism. In the period of Franklin Roosevelt there was the need to overcome the miseries which the great depression revealed and provoked. It led to the welfare state and to the public regulation of the business cycle.

The great reversal of roles took place in 1912. There had been building up for some 20 years before that a strong popular demand for public control of the excesses of the new corporate individualism. President Theodore Roosevelt, that is to say the Republican Roosevelt, undertook to make the Republican party the agent of the reforms which the times called for. Until 1908, while he was still in the White House, he succeeded very well indeed. But under his successor, the party did not follow him. In 1912, the Republicans split over the question of reform, and Woodrow Wilson not only won the election of 1912 but made the Democrats into the party of

Federal Aid Is A Long Story

WASHINGTON (AP)—While Democrats and Republicans blame each other for killing federal aid to education—actually both had a part in killing it—here is a look at the federal aid problem.

For generations the government has been providing money for education in one form or another. There are now at least 56 programs of federal aid to education. This year Congress voted over a billion dollars to pay for them.

Some people express fear that if the government extends such aid to the states to build needed classrooms, eventually the government will try to control education.

There is, of course, a counter argument: Since members of Congress come from the states and it is they who would vote school aid money, they could cut off the money any time they thought the government was inching toward control of education.

Nevertheless, foes of federal aid stick to the old symbol of the camel getting his nose under the tent. Last year the special commission, headed by former President Hoover, which examined government functions, said: "He who pays the piper, calls the tune."

This was the camel symbol in another form. The Hoover Commission reported it saw no need for federal aid in school building. A few months later in 1955 the White House Conference on education said some federal aid was needed. Both President Eisenhower and the Democrats — in statements — agreed it was needed. Congress didn't approve.

No matter who's president, Congress will probably wrestle with the idea next year. It has been doing so for 10 years or so.

Here are some examples of government aid in the field of education:

Billions have been spent on giving war veterans an education. The program continues. No one has seriously argued this money was used to influence what the veterans were taught.

This year Congress voted 31 million dollars for vocational education: money handed the states to pay the expenses of training people in various vocations, such as farming, trades, industries, home economics and so on.

This year Congress voted 100 million dollars for the school lunch program.

Then there is the program called school assistance to federally affected areas. The government makes payments to school districts which suffer a financial burden due to sudden and substantial increases in enrollment because of federal activities. Congress this year voted 113 million dollars for repair and maintenance of schools in these affected areas and 108 millions for building new ones.

Search For Happiness

NEW YORK (AP)—Everyone today seems to be searching for happiness. At 75 Cecil B. DeMille is sure he knows the best way to find it.

"Let the Divine mind flow through your own mind, and you will be happier," he said.

"I have found the greatest power in the world is the power of prayer. There is no shadow of doubt of that. I speak from my own experience."

In the twilight of a fabulous career the silver-haired producer has emerged triumphant from a four-year struggle to create the most expensive motion picture ever made, "The Ten Commandments." It is the story of Moses whom DeMille regards as "the greatest human of all time."

But he says he actually began preparing for the film—his 70th birthday—when he was 12.

"The idea began more than 70 years ago when my father and mother every night read us children a chapter from the Old Testament, a chapter from the New Testament, and a chapter of history," he recalled.

"The Biblical characters became as real to us as comic book figures are to children of today. The nation lost a good deal when the Bible was taken out of the schools. It used to be read in schools when I was a boy, and I still think it should be."

Biographers estimate that DeMille's previous 69 films have drawn 630 million dollars at the box office and been seen by 3½ billion people, or 1½ times the present population of the earth.

He is hopeful that his latest epic will be shown for generations.

Even Hollywood has been stumped for superlatives to describe "The Ten Commandments."

The 24-reel film runs 3 hours and 39 minutes—about 7 minutes longer than "Gone With the Wind" and more than twice as long as a TV spectacular.

The 14 million dollars it cost—"up till now"—is not only far more than any amount ever spent on a TV production. It is even more than any contestant has won on television, although, of course, the 1956 video season is just getting under way.

Austrians Brace For Visit By Russ Delegation

VIENNA (AP)—Austrian government leaders are bracing for a visit this month from one of the Kremlin's shrewdest operators—First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

His prospective visit is the result of one of those casual invitations extended in Moscow at banquets or cocktail parties.

An Austrian government delegation was in Moscow 18 months ago to negotiate Soviet agreement to the long-delayed Austrian freedom treaty. They thanked the Russians for their hospitality and casually extended invitations right and left: "Come and visit us some time, too."

Then the Austrians, happily rid of occupation armies at last, forgot about this. But not so the Russians. In September the Soviet ambassador in Vienna called at the chancellery and remarked that Mikoyan was ready to visit Vienna.

Now they are trying to cook up a welcome that will put Mikoyan on the spot.

Officials would like to tell Mikoyan: Look, you Russians were the last to agree to giving us freedom. The Americans gave us millions of dollars worth of food and other aid and are still helping us. But to the Russians we had to pay a ransom to get our freedom and are still paying. How about cutting the bill?

To get their freedom, the Austrians had to sign up to deliver to the Russians 150 million dollars over six years. This was to be in exchange for the return of so-called "German assets" which the Russians had seized here. In addition the Austrians agreed to deliver to Russia one million tons of oil each year for 10 years.

Around The Rim

Oh, Happy Day? Coat Weather Near!

There's a little nip in the early morning air. The sun is laggard in rising; it hurries to disappear in the afternoon. The temperature has a tough time making the 90 mark whereas just a few weeks ago it could clip up to that spot with no effort at all.

It must be near to the fall season.

The calendar, long since, has proclaimed autumn as officially with us. The earth in its weary journey around the sun has again passed that point where the fall season arrives and is now hurrying onward toward the next important landmark on its long journey.

I am happy that summer is fading and that fall is at hand.

It will mean the time is soon to be with us when I can comfortably wear a coat.

Not that I am a clothes lover. Far from it. Clothing to me is just an exterior covering sufficient to keep out the cold and keep the cops from running me in. If there are no holes in the garment, if they are tolerably clean, that's all I ask of 'em. Whether they are what Brooks Brothers recommend the well dressed gent must wear, I do not know and care less.

I want clothing to keep me warm in the winter; I like light and loose garments when the sun is bearing down in summer.

But, I repeat, I am happy that cooler days are soon to be with us. For then, as I said, I can wear a coat in comfort.

A coat is most important. It provides at least four more pockets to the supply allotted to the males of the species.

In summer the best I can muster is six pockets. Four in the trousers and two in a sportshirt. That ain't enough.

A coat adds four very valuable pockets to the supply. When vests were worn, at least four more pockets were provided. That brought the grand total to 13—and every doggone one of 'em was and is needed. Now that vests are seldom worn by ordinary guys, we do as best we can with nine.

Us males poke a lot of fun at the ladies with their purses and the weird miscellany they pack in those pouches. As I may have said before this attitude is generated by envy and has no sound foundation.

Take me for example I am not wearing a coat or jacket. I am limited to five pockets today since I have but one on the shirt I am wearing.

I must pack around so much junk that every pocket bulges. In the shirt pocket, I stick my cigarettes, my lighter—and a ball point pen. In one pistol pocket I pack my emaciated billfold (emaciated as to money content but bloated with car license, drivers license, identification cards, membership receipts, clippings I feel I should save and other junk.) In the other rear pocket I stick the pocket notebook I have to have in my work. In one side pocket I have all my loose change, a pocketknife, and a few other items of supposed value.

The car keys, the house keys, the key to the office, and some other keys that I am sure fit a lock somewhere (I've forgotten what lock), and a plastic bottle of stuff the doc says I use for sugar fills the other side pocket.

If it happens I have some records, clippings or other material which I should tote with me as I go my rounds, there's just no room left.

I dream of the cool days just ahead—the season when the weather will make wearing a coat or sports jacket pleasant. I visualize how I will re-assort my stock of tatable stuff and stow it freely in those four extra pockets. Oh, happy day!

The Change In Stevenson's Tactics

EN ROUTE WITH STEVENSON — It can hardly be called optimism since most of the managers of the Stevenson campaign have been through this frantic mill before, but they do feel now that they have brought President Eisenhower down from his lofty pedestal to engage in the rough give-and-take of a political contest.

They have seized on one sentence in President Eisenhower's Lexington, Ky., speech in which he said that the issue of the campaign was "which party in these recent years has done more to help all citizens meet the problems of their daily lives."

Stevenson started out at once to make the claim for his party and it is on this line that the balance of the campaign will be fought if those closest to him have their way.

This is a clear recognition in other words that it is a contest not so much between President Eisenhower and Stevenson as between Eisenhower and the Democratic party. On that premise, with the Democratic organization burgeoning in state after state, the Stevenson managers base their confidence.

This is a recognition, too, if only by implication, that Stevenson is not demonstrating the power to draw crowds. As he drove through the industrial towns of Northern New Jersey the crowds were thin to non-existent. What again seemed evident was the difficult dilemma of a man trying to talk about serious matters to people who are preoccupied, complacent, indifferent or just simply unaware.

The Stevenson strategists realized in planning the campaign that their man would have to work at least 10 times as hard as the Republican candidate to make a dent. They were convinced, however, that if they kept Stevenson continually out in the country, they could make the headlines and stay in the public eye in contrast to President Eisenhower, who had announced that he would make only five or six television talks.

What the Democratic candidate must do by wearing out shoe leather and using lung power the Republican candidate, by virtue of holding the office of the Presidency, gets almost effortlessly. The odds have been historically against the challenger, which may be the principal reason why only four incumbent Presidents have been defeated during the past century.

Stevenson must hammer hard at what he believes to be the payoff issues. In his first swing which took him into a number of farm states he hit hardest on the farm issue.

This was not so much with the hope of carrying those states, since the Eisenhower margin of victory there was up to 16 per cent four years ago. The object is to win away a small percentage of the farm vote in such states as Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and Massachusetts where the rural districts are solidly Republican.

New York, for example, is the second largest farming state in the Union and a three per cent switch in upstate New York would, according to Stevenson's strategists, put that state in the Democratic column.

Those planning for Stevenson are concerned, and with good reason, about timing. They ask whether the kind of intensive, hard-hitting attack he has been conducting can be sustained for another five weeks and still bring results. They ask whether the confidence they have genuinely begun to feel has not come too early.

The answer they give is: Organization. It is the answer to doubts about the empty streets. Democrats will come out in numbers on November 6 to vote the Democratic ticket headed by Adlai Stevenson. We shall not know until November 7 whether there is any foundation for this faith.

Lets Reds Witness Politics?—Wow!

This insane invitation of the United States Government bidding the U.S.S.R. and her satellites to send observers here to kibitz on the November election can produce only one effect: it will set democracy back another hundred years behind the Iron Curtain.

If we who are accustomed to the blessings of the secret ballot can't make heads or tails of this one, how can we expect our guests to get anything out of it except migraine?

The Russians, who have already accepted the invitation, will spend the last two weeks of the campaign here, traveling to key cities to attend political rallies and hear campaign speeches. It shouldn't even happen to a comrade!

In any language, this constitutes cruel and unusual punishment, the type of savage treatment we Americans associate with Siberia, the salt mines and forced labor. I give the Russians a week before they throw themselves on the mercy of the International Red Cross or invoke the Geneva Convention.

(In fact, I have been thinking a little wistfully of the Geneva Convention on my own behalf.)

If our Commie guests listen and read as diligently as this inkstained wretch to date, they will doubtless be as amazed as I do to discover that both major tickets are headed by sneaky rascalions who couldn't be trusted with the efficient, much less honest, administration of the dog pound back home.

It probably will confirm their general opinion of democracy when they hear that one candidate beats his wife and the other smokes reefer. Their preconceived ideas of the democratic process will surely be verified when they hear that the United States is certain to totter into moral and financial ruin if the other side wins.

The Russians, who are experts at Potemkin villages, will know enough to write off the lofty campaign pledge that the nation shall enter, full-fledged, into paradise if only OUR side wins.

After the first week of campaign aratry the visitors can be pardoned if they ask for a score card to help keep the record straight. They may find, as do millions of us home folks, that the two major parties are indistinguishable in theories, practice, tactics and campaign strategy.

The Russkies, who are specialists in the one-party system, may even decide that the American method is just a sharp, tricky facade to conceal a one-party practice. It will certainly be all but impossible for strangers to determine which party has promised the biggest and best giveaways, etc., etc.

And, goodness knows, the visitors will find the low road so crowded with members of both camps that it won't hold another vehicle, even a droschky.

Democracy! How many boo-boos are committed in thy name! And this one is a real lulu.

Horse Sense

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP)—A team of horses found its way home from a farm where the two had been taken more than a year ago.

Farmer Charles Myers of nearby Osseo said the horses broke down a pasture fence at his son's farm and trotted back home along a busy highway. Myers found them grazing contentedly in a field near his barn, none the worse for the 10-mile trek.

Dog's Best Friend

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—A little dog came to a point beside the wheel of an automobile at a drive-in restaurant here. The man in the car got out and found that dog was eyeing a dollar bill.

Finders keepers, the man decided. He ordered a dollar's worth of hamburgers, left them for the dog, and drove away to the furious wag of a tail.

Missouri's Pro-Ike Demos Again Hold Key To Election

By OVID A. MARTIN
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—Democrats who strayed to the GOP fold in 1952 and helped give Missouri to President Eisenhower again hold the key to the outcome of the presidential race in this state.

Democratic leaders say that about 165,000 of the party regulars voted the Republican ticket four years ago when Eisenhower had a 29,000-vote majority over Adlai Stevenson, his opponent again this year.

What will they do this year? "They are coming back in droves," says Wilbur F. Daniels, Democratic state chairman.

"Many have become disillusioned with Eisenhower's domestic and foreign policies."

This reporter's soundings of sentiment in travels through the state indicate that Daniels is right about some of these Democrats. But there is a question as to how extensive the "back home" movement will be at election time.

Even Republican leaders agree that Stevenson appears to be gaining ground.

But Perry Compton, the GOP state chairman, figures Eisenhower is leading.

"Ike still has the edge in Missouri," he said, "because a lot of Democrats don't care for Stevenson."

son. The President still is mighty popular because of his efforts in behalf of peace.

This reporter turned to the Ozark Mountain area of southwest Missouri for a possible answer to these conflicting political forecasts. The section long has been the Republican stronghold in the state. It is represented in Congress by the veteran Republican Rep. Dewey Short, who is his younger days, was known far and wide through the hills as "the boy orator of the Ozarks."

This district—the 7th Congressional—piled up an unprecedented majority of 53,000 votes for Eisenhower over Stevenson in 1952. Many Democrats joined the Republicans to build this margin.

The Eisenhower vote in the Ozarks was more than sufficient to wipe-out sizable Stevenson majorities in the state's two big cities—St. Louis and Kansas City—and in Democratic strongholds in other parts of the state.

Halt along country roads where farmers were harvesting what was left of drought-damaged crops, at county seat courthouses, stores and other business places, in a drive through the district, this reporter queried:

"How's the election coming along?"

Almost without exception, they replied that Eisenhower was running well ahead in the area but that this year's majority would be considerably smaller than it was in 1952.

Many "Eisenhower-Democrats," as they were described, indicated they would "go back home"—that is, vote Democratic again. Furthermore, a scattering of Republican farmers, dissatisfied with Eisenhower farm policies—said they planned to vote for Stevenson.

Some sections of the Ozarks are suffering from four and five consecutive years of drought. Farm incomes have been very low. Many farm families have sought work in nearby towns and cities to augment small farm returns.

Yet, there is little complaining, or criticism of government farm programs, or demands for big-scale federal aid.

Take Loren Johnson, operator of a medium-sized grain-livestock farm near Halltown.

"There's nothing wrong with this area that some good rains wouldn't cure," he said, halting from the task of driving a small herd of dairy cows from a browned pasture to the barn for milking.

"Sure, I'm going to vote for Eisenhower again. I think he has made a good president."

This attribution of farm economic difficulties to the weather rather than to the government came from the great bulk of those interviewed. In Iowa a week earlier, this reporter found rather widespread criticism of Eisenhower farm programs and of Secretary of Agriculture Benson. In the view of the Iowans, the Republicans had allowed farm prices to drop too low.

But most Ozarks farmers said they thought farm prices were all right. Typical were these words from Roy D. Upp, a farmer who serves as a member of the farmer committee which administers federal farm programs in Lawrence County.

"There are two things to blame for our farm troubles," he said. "They are the drought and the cost of things farmers buy. Labor and industry are getting bigger than the government. Thinking people know that Benson is not responsible for the situation."

Obviously referring to farm subsidies, Upp added:

"Our people don't want gifts." It is this attitude that is influencing state Democratic leaders to go slow in making big victory forecasts. Daniels, the state chairman, put Stevenson's state majority at 30,000 votes "as of now."

What some Republican farmers switching over, this figure would indicate that many Democrats who voted for Eisenhower in 1952 will do the same this year.

There's the case, for instance, of E. L. Natho, a Texas Democrat who took up farming near Miller several years ago. He came to Missouri to escape droughts in the Lone Star State, but they followed him to his new location.

"I voted for Ike four years ago because of the way Truman handled the Korean War," he said. "I had planned to vote for Stevenson this time, but changed my mind after Stevenson allowed Truman to get into his campaign. Harry would get us back into war."

Natho's son served in Korea. The character of the campaigns being conducted by the leadership of the two parties may contribute to a close race on the presidential level, but a wide majority for the Democrats on races for state offices, including the governorship. Four years ago, the Democrats won all statewide races except for the presidency.

The leaders might deny it, but the Democrats appeared to be placing their greatest emphasis on the state races and the Republicans on the presidency. When asked about the election outlook, Democrats most often would reply, "Blair will win easily."

James T. Blair Jr., present lieutenant governor, is opposing Republican Lon Hocker, St. Louis lawyer, for the governorship.

On the other hand, frequent complaints were heard that the GOP efforts are being concentrated on the presidential race. These complaints came chiefly from "old line" Republicans who backed the late Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio for the Presidential nomination in 1952 and who have not warmed very much toward Eisenhower.

One such Republican asserted that a "postoffice patronage gang" was running the GOP show in the state.

Peacocks Modest Without Tails, Go Into Hiding

BRADY (P)—Mrs. Sim Gamblin likes the peacocks she raises, but they have funny traits.

She says they don't like to be seen in the nude, so every July and August when they shed their tails they hide.

Their scream sounds so much like a human that people often think some person is shouting for help, she says.

Mrs. Gamblin, who lives on a ranch in northeast McCulloch County, has been raising the colorful birds since 1940 "mostly because they're pretty to look at."

At times an ordinary pair of India blue peafowls sells for $40 and the whites and the "black shoulder" birds bring $75.

The extended drought has hurt the market for peafowls, a luxury item, Mrs. Gamblin said.

Peafowls make good mothers, Mrs. Gamblin says and the babies can fly when they are a day old. Even though the birds run freely over the ranch, they seldom leave.

They have a long life up to 45 years. She has sold her birds to customers all over the nation.

"People buy them just to have an oddity on the place. So far as I know I've never sold one for eating purposes, although I understand there are certain cafes that serve them," she said.

Unexpected Guest At 100th Birthday

LOS ANGELES (P)—Walter Moon invited a few friends up to his hotel room to help celebrate his 100th birthday.

When hotel manager Jerry Smith departed with the other guests, Moon reminded him: "Be sure and call me for church in the morning."

Smith knocked on the door shortly after supper, but there was no answer.

He went in and found Mook had died in his sleep.

Pettus Electric Has Skilled Staff

If your needs have to do with electric motors, generators or magnetos, the place to call is Pettus Electric Company, 202 Benton, Telephone AM 4-4189.

Service and repair work on such equipment — from the bushings to automatic switches — is provided in the Big Spring and Colorado City areas by the firm.

Owners and manager of Pettus Electric is Albert Pettus, who is backed by two decades of experience in the field.

In addition to an adequate staff of skilled technicians, Pettus maintains a big stock of parts and supplies to bulwark the speedy, efficient service which has gained him a reputation for promptness and thoroughness throughout this section of West Texas.

Pettus' business has grown steadily since its establishment Feb. 15, 1954. He recently announced expansion to provide a service for two-way radio and telephone users. Pettus Electric now is authorized sales and service representative in this area for Zece-Neville alternators for automobiles, trucks and stationary equipment such as is used around drilling rigs.

Any size of alternator is available, from 6 to 37 1/2 volts. Pettus can install the new equipment and provides a complete service for equipment already in operation.

Pettus also is authorized representative for Baldor Electric Company and Fairbanks-Morse, Wico, American Bosch and Bendix Scintilla magnetos.

Complete motor rewinding and all other repairs are performed in the Pettus shop at 202 Benton, or in the field if circumstances require. No job is too large and Pettus electricians are always willing to tackle the little repair tasks along with the big ones.

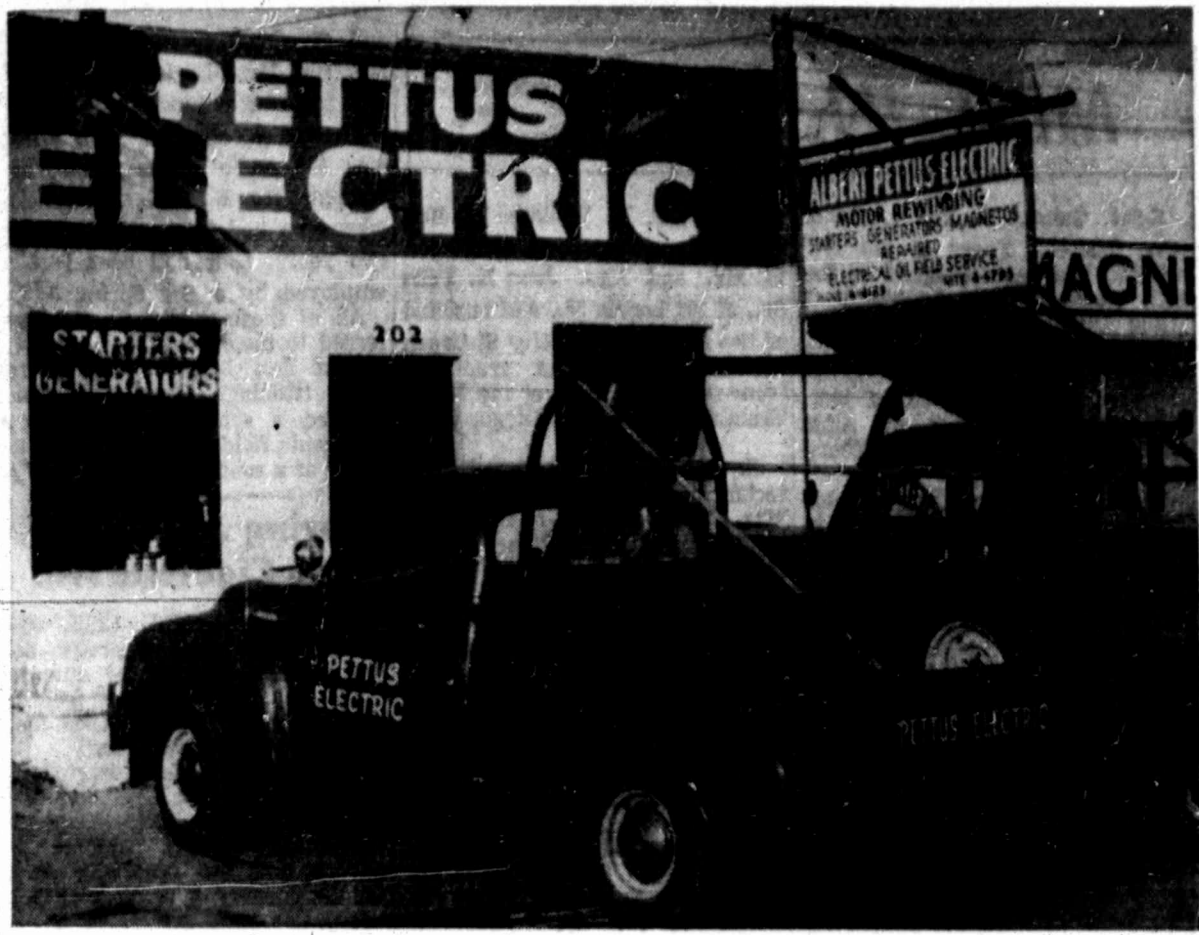

Pettus Electric also provides round-the-clock service. A skilled electrician is available either at the regular shop telephone number, AM 4-4189, or at either of the night numbers, AM 4-8060 or AM 4-6795.

Pettus' representative in Mitchell County in Jerome (Shorty) Sirus, who may be contacted at 1421 Chestnut, Colorado City, or at the Colorado City telephone number, RA 84-4217.

The famous Wedgewood line of kitchen ranges is sold locally by the S. M. Smith Butane Company. The Wedgewood Select-O-Matic gas range boasts a one-piece front top, family size ovens, Select-O-Grill broiler and Pee-Wee pilot light advantage.

It costs no more than the ordinary gas range, so — S. M. Smith asks — why not own the best?

All household appliances at the S. M. Smith Butane Company will be demonstrated upon request.

Pettus Headquarters

Shop of the Albert Pettus Electric Company, above, is at 202 Benton in Big Spring. The firm offers all types of service on electric motors, generators, magnetos and starters, as well as complete oil field electrical service. Pettus' service is available any hour of the day or night. Complete, first-line parts and skilled technicians assure customer satisfaction on every job performed.

Smith Butane Fuins Homes For Using Gas

If you live in a rural area and your home is without facilities for heating, the wise move would be to have your house equipped with a butane gas system.

The local agent for butane and propane is S. M. Smith, owner of the concern bearing his name. Business office of the establishment is located on the Lamesa Highway, at the end of the city limits in the north part of town.

Smith will show you how butane is not only safer but more economical than other fuels.

Butane not only provides heat for a home but can be used in a hot water heater, chick incubator and in your tractor, as well.

Tractors, and other types of mechanized farm equipment, can be converted to the use of butane cheaply and without undue loss of time.

In addition to all the other factors involved, butane systems add to the life of engines.

The S. M. Smith Company is also the headquarters for various household utilities, including smart kitchen ranges, heaters, water heaters and etc.

The famous Wedgewood line of kitchen ranges is sold locally by the S. M. Smith Butane Company. The Wedgewood Select-O-Matic gas range boasts a one-piece front top, family size ovens, Select-O-Grill broiler and Pee-Wee pilot light advantage.

All household appliances at the S. M. Smith Butane Company will be demonstrated upon request.

Fiveash Will Check Plumbing Before Winter

Why wait until the weather gets cold to check your plumbing connections and equipment?

The time is now while you can still have the repairs made and not have to suffer.

Fiveash Plumbing, 821 E. 3rd, is the place to call — their telephone number is AM 4-6111 — and they will give your water lines a thorough check to see if anything needs repairing before cold weather sets in.

Everyone calls for a plumber about December when a pipe breaks, and naturally, delays result from the volume of calls. But by checking with Fiveash now, a person can have prompt service and be assured that their water connections will be in proper shape for the cold conditions ahead.

Fiveash Plumbing is always willing to serve Big Spring residents, and the home owner's worries about cold weather trouble will be over after Fiveash checks.

They will check for water leaks, install new pipe if needed, and put all fixtures in readiness for winter conditions. While they are on a job is a good time also to get that leaky faucet repaired, or that clogged drain cleared.

If your water heater is now in perfect shape, you can forget that item, but if your heater is getting old and doesn't produce the volume of water needed, Fiveash has the answer to your problems in a new model.

They carry Duroglas heaters by General Water Heater Corporation and A. O. Smith models.

Both these firms produce glass-lined models — for longer life and more hot water per hour.

Each comes in 20, 30, and 40-gallon sizes to fit any residence.

Best Way To Kill ROACHES AND ANTS

Scientists recommend that you control roaches and ants the modern way—with Johnston's NO-ROACH. Brushed just where you want it (not a messy spray) the colorless, odorless coating kills these pests. It's effective for months, sanitary, and so easy to use. 8 oz., pint, quart. Available at Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, Hall & Phillips, Newsom's, Bud Green's, Cunningham & Phillips, Big Spring Drug & your local drug or grocery store.

Mississippi Carries Vast Load To Gulf

By RAMON COFFMAN
Rivers carry many tons of sediment. This material is made up chiefly of sand and silt, but pebbles also are swept along by fast streams.

Outline of delta at mouth of St. Clair River.

Q. How much of a load does a large river carry to the sea?
A. It has been estimated that the Mississippi, one of the leading rivers of the earth, carries 477 million tons of material to the Gulf of Mexico in an average year! This means 54 thousand tons an hour or almost one and one-third million tons a day!

The sediment is carried in suspension and in a dissolved state. About three-fourths of it is in suspension, and is dumped fairly close to shore.

Q. What makes a river drop its load?
A. The current keeps the material moving. When the river strikes the sea, the current slows down. Bit by bit a delta is formed.

Q. How much of a load does the Ohio River carry?
A. About one-fifth as much as the Mississippi. It places that load in the larger river, and most of the Ohio River sediment goes along to the Gulf of Mexico.

Q. What about the Missouri River?
A. It takes twice as much sediment into the Mississippi as the Ohio River.

Q. Are there deltas anywhere except where rivers flow into the sea?
A. Yes, there are some at places where on river empties into another. Other deltas exist at the mouths of rivers which empty into lakes.

A good example of a lake delta may be seen on the northern side of Lake St. Clair, between the province of Ontario and the state of Michigan.

Student Due Spy Verdict

JERUSALEM — An Israeli court is scheduled to give a verdict Thursday on charges that Mary Frances Hagan Kayali, 29-year-old American wife of a Syrian diplomat, spied for Syria. If found guilty, she could be sentenced to 28 years in prison.

The woman, whose family lives in Huntington, W. Va., was arrested in Tel Aviv Aug. 27 after a nine-day tour of the country which aroused the suspicions of Israeli security officers.

She pleaded innocent and was tried in secret in the Jerusalem District Court last week before Judge Benjamin Halevy. Censorship prevented publication of news of the case until after the three-day hearing was ended.

American Labor Party Has Died A Quiet Death

NEW YORK — The American Labor party has died a quiet death. State Chairman Peter J. Hawley read a eulogy for the 20-year-old left-wing political organization yesterday. He said the state committee has voted to dissolve the party last Tuesday.

Hawley attributed the party's decline and death to "the cold war with its repressive atmosphere and consequent dwindling of labor support."

The party's once considerable power in New York state vanished along with most of its membership in lengthy internal squabbles over the issue of communism.

In years past the party elected or helped to elect numerous city and state candidates. It sent the late Congressman Vito Marcantonio to Washington for seven terms. The ALP reached its zenith in 1948 when it polled more than 500,000 votes for Henry A. Wallace, the Progressive party candidate for president. After that the party went downhill in a hurry.

In 1954 the ALP candidate for governor, John P. McManus, received only 46,886 votes.

Negro Solon Tells Ike, Adlai Dislike

NEW YORK — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) says that, as a Negro, he cannot campaign for either Adlai E. Stevenson or President Eisenhower.

Powell, pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem, urged his congregation yesterday to "think first as an American and second as a Negro—there isn't anything to the Democrats or Republicans."

"How can I as a Negro campaign for Stevenson or Eisenhower," he asked, when both parties "take Negro money and send it to Mississippi and other Southern states to build separate schools for whites and Negroes."

MEN IN SERVICE

S-Sgt. Gabriel D. Yanez, son of Mrs. Theresa Yanez of 610 NW 4th St., has been assigned to the 96th Motor Vehicle Squadron at Altus Air Force Base.

Airman Yanez attended Big Spring High School, and entered the service in September of 1942. Before being assigned to Altus AFB, he was stationed at Bitburg AFB, Germany.

He is currently residing with his family at 710 E. Sutherland in Altus, Okla.

Three Big Spring men recently participated in the largest fleet review since World War II. Seventy-two ships of the U. S. First Fleet and 160 Naval aircraft assembled at Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 14 for the review.

Participating aboard the aircraft carrier USS Bennington was Robert L. Johnson, airman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson of 707 Wyoming. Aboard the cargo ship USS Union was Joe W. Land, seaman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Land, 409 NW 9th.

Marcus D. Hayworth, radioman 3-C, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Hayworth, 1209 W. 6th, was on the USS Bremerton, a heavy cruiser.

Army Specialist 2-C Joe J. Gilmer, brother of Mrs. Jewel Green, 1600 Main, Big Spring, is now serving with the Seventh Infantry Division in Korea. He is in headquarters company of the 31st Regiment. His wife, Ana, resides at El Paso.

Billly D. Williams, son of Mr.

and Mrs. S. N. Williams of 1009 E. 2nd., and Morris R. Felts, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Felts Sr., of 202 Lorilla St., and husband of the former Miss Betty S. Green of 709 E. 3rd, have graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Jimmie J. Bryant, fire control technician third class, USN, son of Mrs. Ruth F. Bryant of 2111 Johnson, returned to Long Beach, Calif., last Thursday aboard the high speed transport USS Walter B. Cobb.

The ship participated in amphibious exercises as a landing craft control ship. She also engaged in reconnaissance missions and local operations in the Western Pacific area.

Ports of call included Yokosuka, Sasebo, Beppu, Kure and Okoyawa, Japan; Hong Kong and Okinawa.

Chief R. E. LaFon, Navy recruiter in Big Spring, has announced that six youths enlisted in the U. S. Navy through his office during the past week.

These were Homer Eugene Hair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hair, Box 164, Coahoma; Tony Olsson Baeza, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Baeza, Box 91, Big Spring; James Edwin Bachman and Ernest Eugene Royer, stepbrothers; who were residing with a sister at 1103 N. Goliad, and the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bachman, Box 444, Faith, S. D.; Kenneth Olaf Hightower, husband of Mrs. Louise Hightower, 507 SW 11th St., Seminole, and son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hightower, Box 83, Skellettown, and Charles Ray McNew, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McNew, 207 NW 2nd St., Seminole.

At time of enlistment, Hightower was the radio engineer and announcer for KSM-L, Seminole, where he had been employed for two years. Hair had been locally employed by a Big Spring bank. All of these youths were transferred to the Naval Training Center at San Diego, Calif., for recruit training. Hightower was assured a school in the Navy electronic field while Hair was assured of a school if he desires one.

Leaving Jet Like Being Cigarette Ash

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — Imagine you're a cigarette ash thrown from a speeding auto on a freeway. That's how it feels to bail out of a jet at 45,000 feet, says an Air Force pilot.

"Chances of injury in today's new high-speed aircraft are high because of the lack of safety equipment," Capt. Edmund G. Sperry told the American Assn. for the Surgery of Trauma (shock) convention.

Sperry, of Annapolis, Md., holds the Air Force altitude record for a parachute jump.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little PASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy coating, nasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTEETH today at any drug counter.
