Judge To Decide On State NAACP Ouster

TYLER, Tex. — Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan will decide today whether the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People can continue to operate in Texas. Whatever his ruling, it is expected that an appeal will be made. The defense rested yesterday after 16 days of testimony had been heard. The state has asked that a temporary restraining order issued against the NAACP by Dunagan be made a temporary injunction. If such an injunction is ordered it will remain in effect until a full-scale trial finally decides the issue. Thurgood Marshall, chief NAACP attorney, and Roy Wilkins, chief administrator of the NAACP, were principal defense witnesses. Other important testimony came from NAACP regional attorney U. Simpson Tate of Dallas. All three denied that the NAACP had ever solicited or encouraged civil rights suits in Texas; that the NAACP endorsed political candidates or parties; or that the NAACP was a profit-making organization. Those were the state's main charges. The NAACP is chartered as a charitable, non-profit organization and most of the charges, if true, would be in violation of the state charter. The state's evidence was based principally on evidence gathered by the state attorney general's assistants in a series of investigations of NAACP branches throughout the state.

Negro Solon's Ike Quotation Released

WASHINGTON — The White House today made public a statement by Rep. Powell (D-NY) retracting Powell's report that President Eisenhower had told the Congressmen he favors jailing anyone who disobeys court orders to desegregate schools.

Marshall ended up his appeal at times highly emotional, by saying: "I do not believe there are sufficient grounds in this case for this court to have jurisdiction particularly over the NAACP legal defense and educational fund."

"One thing Negroes rely on is the strength of our government and their belief that they can get justice in court." Marshall said the state's investigation apparently started about Sept. 18.

Pioneer Farmer Of Dawson Dies

LAMESA — August Gustav Barkowsky, 80, pioneer Dawson County farmer who settled 47 years ago in the Sparsberg community, died here Monday evening. Mr. Barkowsky had been ill for a year. He had been retired from actual farming for several years. Services have been set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the First Methodist Church in Lamesa with the Rev. Carl Nunn, pastor of the Sparsberg Methodist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Elra Phillips, Wolforth and former pastor of the Sparsberg church where Mr. Barkowsky had been a member for 47 years.

"I want to correct a mistake made by me a week ago last Saturday, when I delivered an extemporaneous speech at an open air rally in New York, quoting the President at our meeting on Oct. 11. "I want to set the record straight by stating he did not make the remarks on enforcement of school integration which I attributed to him. "I inadvertently confused this interview with my recollection of what the President said at his public press conference on Sept. 11 when he did mention the subject of enforcement of school integration."

At the Sept. 11 meeting with reporters, Eisenhower described what he understood to be the duties of federal marshals in the enforcement of law.

U. S. Officials Fear Russia May Use Force In Poland

WASHINGTON — Top U.S. officials fear Russia may yet take drastic action — possibly including force — to smash Communist Poland's drive for independence. In their view, the most dangerous phase of the struggle for control of Poland is just beginning, with the Kremlin apparently undecided about its countermove. American diplomatic officials said Soviet leaders scarcely will sit back and let Poland slip out of their control because: 1. If successful, Poland's example in defying Moscow may be followed throughout Russia's satellite empire.

2. Kremlin leaders, led by Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet Communist boss, undoubtedly realize their future may be in jeopardy if they can be accused of fumbling away a chunk of the satellite domain left by Joseph Stalin. 3. An independent Poland would cease to be a buffer against the kind of surprise attack Nazi Germany launched in 1941. Further, it might imperil communications with Soviet army and air force units in East Germany.

Reliable intelligence reports reaching Washington show that from two to four Soviet divisions in East Germany were moved to the Polish frontier last Thursday. The Kremlin was caught by surprise. Now that the initial shock has eased, they said, Khrushchev and other top Kremlin leaders undoubtedly are considering counter-steps. These U.S. officials said the possibility of outright military force cannot be ruled out even though Soviet leaders apparently have avoided resort to any such steps thus far.

American economic aid likely will be made available to the new Polish regime, if it survives, but U.S. officials said they would wait a while before acting. The Soviet troops apparently did not cross into Poland, however, and may have returned to their East German bases by now, officials said. Officials said Soviet leaders undoubtedly realize that resort to force might wreck the image of a new "reasonable" Russia which Moscow has sought painstakingly to spread before the world since Stalin's death.

Immigration Agents Quizzed In Custody Case

WASHINGTON — The chairman of a Senate investigating committee today called for expulsion from the United States of two Soviet officials who he said aided in spirited little Tanya Chwastov out of this country. Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), acting head of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, said at a public hearing that the State Department should take immediate action to oust Fedor Solomatim, second secretary of the Soviet embassy here, and Konstantin P. Ekmov, first secretary of the Russian delegation to the U. N. in New York City.

Tanya, 2 1/2 years old and born in America, was taken to England on the liner Queen Mary by her father Alexei Chwastov, over protests from his former wife, now Mrs. George Dieczok of Detroit. Mrs. Dieczok has brought a custody suit in London which has prevented Chwastov from taking the child on to Russia. Before the Queen Mary sailed Oct. 3, U. S. Immigration Service officers searched the ship with instructions to prevent her departure. There was testimony to Jenner's subcommittee that the Soviet officials had a hand in thwarting the efforts to get the child off the ship.

Jenner said top U. S. immigration officials would be called to testify before the committee. He demanded the order to stop sailing of the liner until the child was found. Robert Morris, subcommittee counsel, said the child's birth certificate shows Tanya is the illegitimate daughter of Chwastov and Mrs. Dieczok. Morris said the father has no legal right to hold her, and may have violated U. S. law by taking her out of the country without first getting an American passport for her.

Michel Stcherbinine of New York City, administrative assistant to the Russian Church Outside Russia, testified he and a reporter interviewed Chwastov at Passaic, N.J., Sept. 28. He said they found Chwastov "in a state of panic." Stcherbinine said Chwastov "was fully aware" that if he did go back to Russia he probably would be sent to a Soviet labor camp. Roland Elliott, immigration director of Church World Service, said he believed Chwastov "was held in protective custody" by Soviet agents from Oct. 1, when the Russian dropped from sight, until Oct. 3 when Chwastov sailed. Elliott described the Chwastov case as a "one instance in a worldwide campaign to get escapees from communism to return to Russia for propaganda purposes."

Poles Break Out In Anti-Russian Riots

What's In A Name? Trouble For The Law

HOUSTON — What's in a name? A lot of trouble for city traffic warrant officers. Officers Charlie Nix and Harry Holman were issued warrants yesterday for the arrest of a James Taylor and a James Overshown. The officers inquired about Overshown at a paint and body shop. "Sure," said a husky young laborer, "that's me." Nix asked Overshown, "wouldn't know a James Taylor, would you?" "Sure," said Overshown, "that's me." Overshown insisted he was Taylor. "My mother's name was Taylor; my pop's name was Williams. Common law marriage," he explained. "Where does Overshown come in," Nix asked. This guy, whatever-you-call-him, explained that, too. His foster parents were named Overshown. James Taylor Williams Overshown was jailed on a $90 traffic commitment. Just for the record, he was given a number, too.

Janitor Killed, Student Hurt In School Blast

SOUTHMAYD, Tex. — A shattering explosion virtually wrecked the upper floor of the elementary school at 10 a.m. today, killing a janitor and very critically burning a high school junior. All the pupils and teachers in the elementary school were in the school yard for a recess. The janitor and the junior, Larry McGee, 16, had gone to the second floor to do a repair job. Authorities blamed heating gas for the explosion. Supt. H. L. Richardson said the explosion occurred in the old school cafeteria, which was no longer used for that purpose. The two-story structure was known as the "old building" and had been converted to an elementary school. The newer, one-story high school building nearby was not involved. Between 250-300 pupils are in two schools in this town of 2,000.

Texan Says Oil Imports Sabotage U. S. Security

WASHINGTON — A Texas oil man told government officials today that excessive petroleum imports are sabotaging the nation's security.

L. A. Douglas of San Antonio, director of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. (TIPORO) spoke at a hearing called by the Office of Defense Mobilization on a petition by 19 independent oil groups for a cutback in oil imports. He said steadily increasing imports have adversely affected domestic production and exploration for reserves. The ability of the United States to provide fuel for defense, he said, would be impaired if the situation continues. "The present greedy, excessive imports are sabotaging our security as much as if enemy saboteurs were dropping bombs in our wells," he added. Douglas read statements by Olin Culberson of the Texas Railroad Commission and Sen. Price Daniel.

Both said imports have forced wells in Texas to be shut down 15 days production a month. This has meant, they said, a loss in tax revenue to the state last month of $9,784 a day. They said importing oil companies had refused to restrict imports voluntarily to the same ratio to domestic production which existed in 1954. Congress has authorized the President on recommendations of the defense mobilizer, to restrict imports to the 1954 ratio if the foreign shipments are found to affect adversely national security. Rep. Rogers (D-Tex) urged action to restrict imports. Jack W. Abernathy of Oklahoma City, president of the American Assn. of Oil Well Drilling Con-

Officials, Police Stand Idly By

WARSAW (AP)—Wild anti-Russian demonstrations were reported from three major Polish cities today. Angry crowds in Wroclaw, the former German city of Breslau, stormed the headquarters of the Polish-Russian Friendship Society and tore down and trampled on Soviet flags.

A Western eyewitness said the crowds yelled "Rokossovsky to Siberia!" and "tell the truth about the Katyn murders!" Marshall Konstantin Rokossovsky, a Soviet Red army hero of World War II, is the Polish defense minister who was ousted Sunday from the United Worker (Communist) party politburo in a purge of Stalinists. The Katyn Forest was the scene of the machine gunning of 10,000 Polish officers in 1940, before Russia entered the World War. The Russians, who had moved in to occupy eastern Poland, denied Western charges they did the killing.

Similar demonstrations were reported from Szczecin (Stettin) and the university city of Krakow. Wroclaw and Szczecin are near the Polish border with Communist East Germany. Krakow is on the Vistula River 155 miles southwest of Warsaw. The demonstrations came as Parliament was called into session here amid public celebration of the nation's newly proclaimed independent course. A government shakeup appeared imminent. (Warsaw radio, in a broadcast heard in London, said there had been a shakeup in Rokossovsky's defense ministry. It said Gen. Marian Spychalski, once purged with Wladyslaw Gomulka, the new chief of the politburo, had been appointed deputy defense minister and chief of political officers in the Polish army. He took the place of Gen. Kazimierz Witaszewski, who had played a key role in exerting Stalinist control over Poland's armed forces. The radio said the action was taken by the new politburo "in accordance with the motion of the minister of national defense"—presumably Rokossovsky.

The Western witness said the Wroclaw demonstrations started with a meeting in the city's university and an orderly parade through the town. The meeting acclaimed resolutions supporting the new leadership of the Polish Communist party and demanding more democracy. Then, with banners and torches the march through town started. Thousands of cheering Poles lined the streets to watch. People poured out of restaurants and homes to join the march. Polish flags were hung from windows. The crowds cried "Long live Gomulka," the new chief of Poland's land's Communist party politburo who has proclaimed a policy of independence in relations with Moscow. Others in the crowd chanted "Long live free Poland" and "Release Cardinal Wyszynski, R."

The demonstrators also tore down a sign reading "Long live Polish-Russian friendship," and burned it, then stormed inside the building through broken windows. Cooler heads in the crowd shouted, "don't destroy, don't destroy," however, and the witness said no damage was done inside. Authorities made no effort to stop the demonstration. One truckload of soldiers stood nearby quietly. A policeman who arrived on his motorcycle was seized by the crowd and tossed jubilantly into the air. "The militia is with us," the crowd cried, and the policeman (See POLES, Page 6-A, Col. 1) man Catholic primate of Poland, was arrested by the Polish government in 1953. He was reported released from prison in 1955, but is believed to be living in a monastery where he is not allowed to exercise any functions of his office. The crowd also shouted, "Legnica for Poland." Legnica is the main Soviet army headquarters near the East German border. The students' demonstration, which started last night, was over at 8 p.m. But at 10:30 p.m. another demonstration started through the streets. It did not end until about midnight and threatened to get out of hand. "There were still young people," said one witness, "but this time there were some rough looking characters as well."

Thousands Of Hungarians Hold Anti-Russian Demonstration

BUDAPEST, Hungary — The crowd and did not interfere. They sought only to prevent cars and trucks from running into the demonstration. The Hungarian Communist party leadership has announced government reforms looking toward a "new leadership, democratically elected," but begged the country to be patient. The official party newspaper, Szabad Nep, carried one of the frankest party public statements to date, directing it to the impatient youth of the country who have been demanding in meetings the reconstruction of the government under former Premier Imre Nagy. Nagy, purged from office when Matyas Rakosi was the party boss, has been restored to prestige and Rakosi is in virtual exile in the Soviet Union. The newspaper promised a "Hungarian road" to communism, meaning a degree of independence from Moscow direction. "The Soviet, Polish, Yugoslav or Chinese roads to socialism do not absolve us from mapping out a Hungarian road," it said. "No foreign experience can replace the ideological work we must do ourselves." The statement took on added significance in the wake of a series of student demands for more freedom and better living conditions, coupled with demands from the powerful Hungarian Writers Union for free elections and a new leadership. The indication was that this country was following the example of Poland in seeking release from tight Moscow political control.

A return to power by Nagy would be a close parallel of what occurred in Poland with the restoration to authority of Wladyslaw Gomulka, once-condemned anti-Stalinist. Szabad Nep did not call for Nagy's return as premier, but its front page editorial said: "Our party and its newspaper side with youth, approve of their meetings and wish them much success." The Communist Youth Organization paper, Szabad Ifjusag, devoted a full page to reports of meetings last night of university students throughout the country. The students demanded, among other things, an immediate party central committee meeting, government reorganization under Nagy as premier, new parliamentary elections with resurrected non-Communist parties taking part, full freedom of speech and press, expulsion of Rakosi from the party and Parliament, public information on the nation's economic situation and its trade dealings with the Russians.

Lucky Driver Missed By Train

TULSA, Okla. — Truck driver Fred Robert Brown and his vehicle plunged over a bluff west of here. He soon discovered he was luckier than he first thought. Knocked out for about four hours, and still inside his truck, the 23-year-old Brown learned his pickup truck had come to rest on the Frisco Railroad tracks only 10 minutes after a freight train roared past. He wasn't seriously hurt.

Judges For Show Are Complimented Today

Complimentary to the judges of the flower show sponsored by the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs, the committee in charge of judges and hospitality entertained Tuesday with a coffee and luncheon.

Mrs. J. G. Lewis, chairman of the committee, was hostess in her home for coffee. Committee members who assisted her were Mrs. David Barker, Mrs. Tip Anderson, Sr., Mrs. Jack Cook and Mrs. C. M. Boles.

Attending in addition to the judges were the clerks, the committee heads and presidents of the local clubs.

The table was covered with a white organdy cloth laced with pink ribbon and laid over a pink skirt. Pencil thin tapers were on either side of an arrangement of pink and wine blossoms. The china used carried out the pink and white theme.

Following the judging at the show at the Cosden Country Club a luncheon opened to all members of the garden clubs, was held.

A fall theme was used in the table decorations which centered around a table piece fashioned of pyracantha berries, painted dried material and persimmons. The arrangement was held in a black container.

Judges for the show were Mrs. D. E. Smith Jr., Mrs. Fred Girdley, Mrs. J. D. Dillard, Midland; Mrs. O. W. Sires, Mrs. Roy Bearden, Lamesa; Mrs. M. R. Hurt, Mrs. W. T. Henderson, Mrs. V. H. Cooper, Odessa; Mrs. Jack Gore of Snyder.

Creole Beef With Broccoli Spears

Here's a variation for a favorite way of using leftover meat.

Ingredients: One package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli spears, 2 cups diced leftover roast beef, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) meatless tomato spaghetti sauce, grated cheese.

Method: Cook broccoli according to package directions; drain and keep warm. Meanwhile mix roast beef, mushrooms (drained) and spaghetti sauce together in a saucepan; heat gently.

Arrange broccoli spears in bottom of baking dish — a heat-resistant glass pie plate that is 8 1/2 by 1 1/4 inches deep is fine. Spread meat and sauce mixture over broccoli; sprinkle with grated cheese.

Put under broiler a few minutes to brown cheese. Makes 4 to 6 servings. Serve over rice.

Method: Separate caps and stems of mushrooms; chop stems fine. Melt butter in 8-inch skillet; add mushroom caps and cook until lightly browned, turning often, over moderate heat. Remove caps from skillet; add chopped mushroom stems and onion to butter in skillet. Cook slowly about 5 minutes. Stir in parsley, salt, mustard and lemon juice. Make Old-Fashioned Cake With Two Mixes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Now's the time to bake an old-fashioned layer cake.

Line ungreased bottoms of 3 layer cake pans (each 9 by 1 1/4 inches) with brown or waxed paper; paper need not be greased. Empty cake mix into large mixing bowl; add 1 cup water and unbeaten eggs. Beat for 3 minutes with rotary beater (hand or electric) or until smooth and creamy. Divide batter into three equal parts—about 1 1/4 cups in each. Stir melted chocolate, baking soda, sugar and 2 tablespoons water together; add to one part of the batter, folding it in gently but thoroughly. Leave third part plain. Pour batters into prepared pans, one batter in each pan.

Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 20 to 25 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Stand cake in pans on racks to cool for about 5 minutes; turn out; remove paper.

When cold fill and cover with Seafoam Frosting.

SEAFOAM FROSTING

Ingredients: 2 egg whites, 1 1/2 cups firmly packed dark brown sugar, dash of salt, 1-3 cup water, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Method: Put egg whites (unbeaten), sugar, salt, and water in top (1 1/2 quart) of double boiler. Beat with rotary beater 1 minute or until thoroughly mixed.

Then place over boiling water and beat constantly (high speed if using electric beater) until frosting will stand in stiff peaks. This may take as long as 7 minutes.

It is important to stir frosting up from bottom and sides of pan occasionally with rubber scraper, spatula or spoon. Remove from boiling water; add vanilla; beat 1 minute or until thick enough to spread.

Tweeds For Evening

Tweeds go dressy this fall as shown by these new fashions. For after dark drama the flame tweed evening coat and matching brocade sheath is shown, left, in Vera Maxwell's collection. The theatre coat, center, is of black tweed lined in white wool by Anthony Blotta and at right is the pale blue British tweed teamed with silk brocade also created by Maxwell.

Tweeds Not For Hiking Any More

By DOROTHY ROE

Time was when the mention of tweeds brought to mind visions of briar pipes, tramping over the moors and the bluff camaraderie of the hasty set.

But tweeds have changed, along with the times, and now a day some of the most feminine and elegant cocktail, dinner and theater outfits are made of British tweeds sheer as a whisper and light as a fluff of thistle-down.

In a season notable for the return of elaborate formal fashions, some of the most dramatic are done in tweeds, alone or in combination with rich satins or brocades. Notable examples are Vera Maxwell's striking evening ensembles which combine tweed and silk brocade in tender or vivid colors. She does a full length mandarin evening coat in flame tweed lined in broadcloth to match the long sheath beneath. Another version is a short dinner ensemble in pale blue tweed and matching brocade, coat lined to match the dress.

Black tweed is another innovation of the season, used by Anthony Blotta in a strictly elegant theater coat lined and faced in white wool.

Other designers are employing tweeds in dressy separates such as an embroidered gray tweed skirt and cashmere sweater, or tweed coats trimmed with mutation mink.

Installation Theme Set Around 'Hands'

Using the theme of "Hands," officers of the North Side Baptist WMS were installed by Mrs. W. B. Younger, associational president Monday morning. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Arnold Tonn, 1900 Mittel.

The group opened the service with the group singing "Ready" after which Mrs. Artie Williams led in prayer. Rev. Calvin White brought the devotion from Luke 9:60, 61, 62. A solo, "Take Up Thy Cross" was sung by Mrs. Billy Scott.

Mrs. Younger used a prayer mot to set the background for the installation. As each officer was installed she told what type of hands should be to carry out her job.

Officers are Mrs. Arnold Tonn, president; Mrs. Sage Johnson, first vice president; Mrs. Charles Simmons, second vice president; Mrs. L. D. Herrington, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Artie Williams, Bible study chairman; Mrs. Bert Matthews, mission study chairman; Mrs. W. R. Weatherford Sr., and Mrs. C. A. Tonn Sr., co-chairmen of community missions; Mrs. Scott, prayer chairman; Mrs. Dick Denton, social chairman.

To close the meeting the women sang, "Take My Life" and Mrs. Younger led prayer.

Mrs. Herrington assisted the hostesses in serving refreshments to 14 members. The table was laid with a pink cloth and was centered with a floral centerpiece.

The meeting next Tuesday will be at the church at 2:30 p.m.

Service Guild Has Study On Asia

For the second in a series of lessons from the study book "The Church in Southeast Asia," the Martha Wesleyan Service Guild met Monday evening at the First Methodist Church.

As director of this study, Mrs. Lina Flewellen discussed Indonesia and Taiwan, the geography, American influence and progress there.

Lucile Hester's subject for discussion was "Religions of Indonesia." She traced the growth of different faiths and gave statistical data.

The Women's Division of Christian Service was the topic of Mrs. Miller Harris. She told the group of the growth of the missions and their achievements.

Robert Gay discussed "The Historical and Political Background." Mrs. B. M. Keese told of "The People in Indonesia."

The closing prayer by Mrs. E. W. Alexander dismissed the 24 members who attended.

Faith Is Discussed For Baptist WMS

Mrs. Floyd Parsons' prayer opened the Monday meeting of the First Baptist WMS when the group met at the church.

"Faith" was the topic for discussion by Mrs. Ira Thurman. Scriptures used were from Proverbs 3:3 and Phil. 1:3.

Committee reports were heard from Mrs. J. C. Pickle, Mrs. B. T. Faulkner, Mrs. Charles Upton, Mrs. R. D. Ulrey, Mrs. G. G. Moorehead, Mrs. Della Kay Agnell and Mrs. F. W. Bettie.

Mrs. O. N. Green was appointed chairman of a committee to meet with the Cheerio Club and decided when the club wanted aid from the WMS.

It was announced that Monday, Oct. 29, the group would hear a book review by Mrs. Parsons on "Japan Advances." They will meet at the church at 3 p.m.

New Garden Club Schedules Meet

Initial meeting of a newly organized garden club is slated for 9:45 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. F. H. Talbott, 105 Canyon. A name is to be selected at this time.

Mrs. J. E. Hogan is temporary chairman and Mrs. Obie Bristow is the advisor. They are members of the Big Spring Garden Club.

Mrs. Floyd Parsons and Mrs. W. F. Taylor have been appointed to set up the by-laws. Mrs. Talbott and Mrs. J. L. Milner are serving as the nominating committee.

At a recent meeting the group set the membership at 15. Seven were present and heard a short talk by Mrs. Hogan on work done in the garden clubs.

Folklore Established Some Wedding Customs

By DEIDRA HINTON

One of the most unusual and interesting facts dealing with a wedding is the origin of the best man, honor attendants and the entire wedding feast.

In the records of ancient folklore is the tenacious belief that supernatural beings interfered in the personal life of man. Both gods and demons were thought to be enamored with beautiful human maidens and, in order to capture their affections, would assume human or animal form.

Mortal man then, wishing to wed a mortal maid, had to go to tremendous pains to keep it secret from the supernatural beings who could inflict such severe punishment.

The idea that the gods were jealous of man's happiness was an extremely prevalent one and we find it today in the habit of some people knocking on wood when they boast of some good fortune. The solution in the past was to fool the gods and demons.

If several maids wore long veils and white dresses, if one of them seemed to be more important than the others (maid of honor) and if a man other than the bridegroom had the ring and appeared to be the favorite (best man) how could the demons distinguish who was really the bride and groom? Sounds mysterious, but perfectly logical, doesn't it?

Some authorities in America say the ring bearer is the successor of the English page boy, who still carries the bride's train in the elaborate Westminster weddings.

FLOWERS SYMBOLIC

Flowers have always been a symbol of female fertility. The wearing of fruit blossoms in the hair, particularly orange blossoms; the bouquet thrown to some bridesmaid to guarantee her becoming the next bride; the little girl strewing rose petals before the couple are all tributes paid to the goddess of fertility.

Sharing food with anyone has always been a sign of unity and good will. In medieval days it was a custom to carry sheaves of wheat in the wedding procession, all grains being representative of male fertility. In a later era, the wheat was ground to flour and small heart-baked cakes were made, later to be eaten by the bride and groom.

Gradually, as time went by, these little cakes were elaborated into much larger brides' cakes and trimmed with sugar icing. Often, the bridesmaids look them to the church to have them blessed. This added to the belief that a portion of cake, put under one's pillow would cause her dream to come true.

Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue goes the old saying that every bride should heed to bring her good luck. Why is the something blue, usually a garter? Actually it goes back to the knightly process so familiar in Sir Walter Scott's novels. The Noble Order of the Garter is the oldest of all orders of knighthood. Its regalia includes a collar, a star and a blue velvet garter.

GARTER CUSTOM

One explanation for its origin is that the Countess of Salisbury was one of her garters while dancing. King Edward III retrieved it, and after trying it on his own leg, restored it to her saying, "Shamed be he who thinks evil of it." This is now the motto of the Order of the Garter.

As only queens and noblewomen are admitted to its membership, the custom of a bride wearing a blue garter became popular, symbolizing that she is queen, for a day at least.

The honeymoon was originally associated with honey. It was the occasion when the bride and groom, alone at last, drank a cup containing mead sweetened with honey.

The modern honeymoon trip probably developed simultaneously along with improved roads and transportation. However, water scenes, ranging from Niagara Falls to Bermuda cruises, still seem to be considered the most romantic. Even this has its root in ancient folklore. It was notorious that no demon or ghost or supernatural destroyer of any kind could cross water.

Whether these are actually established facts about the beliefs of the wedding process or merely one adaptation I don't know. But, the ideas sound probable enough, and certainly can be used as a basis of some of the customs and traditions of the wedding event.

Due Cause

DENVER — Domestic Judge Joseph E. Cook granted a divorce to Mrs. Sarah Chinn after she complained, among other things, her husband wouldn't let her take a bath "because he needed the hot water for his restaurant." She said her husband, Harry, 59, wouldn't give her more than two meals a day while he ate three at the restaurant.

Church Duos Is Latest In Trends

The new theme is church dating. Boys and girls are making dates to attend church just as they do parties.

As one mother put it, "I was against the all-night prom parties. But look what came out of it? I relented at the last moment because finally the community sponsored the party at a local restaurant, and all the young people were properly chaperoned. The idea was for the boys to stay at the girls' house after the party. The young people got home at 5 o'clock, went to sleep and then got up and went off to church."

It was continued. Church pews are filled with young couples, and even the church functions — socials, auctions and suppers are attracting them.

The routine is that boy meets girl for church, then returns to girl's house for late breakfast or early Sunday dinner. "Very much like when I was a girl," one granny said. "In those days church was a standard date on Sunday, only usually the rest of your family tagged along to make sure you'd get there safely."

One popular girl, with several beaux, says she alternates her church dates.

"Sometimes," she says, "I go to my date's church and then go back to his house for dinner."

Along with new ideas in dating, there is a trend to spurn spend-money dating. One girl says, "She thinks girls have a better sense of values nowadays, and do not insist that their dates spend money just to prove they like them." A few young people, she says, go out to dance and dinner spots as their older brothers and sisters did. They'd rather save money for some special project.

Polar Expedition Has Lady In Midst

WASHINGTON — Attractive re-haired Peggy Keenan, a former concert pianist, who expects to be the first woman ever to stand on top of the North Pole has packed a beauty kit along with her "woolies" and the Eskimo garb she will wear on the expedition.

The only woman among the 16 members of the privately financed American Polar Expedition organized by her husband, C. O. John F. Stanwell-Fletcher, she expects to broadcast news of the group's progress and assist in its transportation part of the way by driving a team of sled dogs.

The expedition which leaves from New York aboard a DC-3 this month (October), will make a ski-landing and establish its base camp at the North Pole. Teams of scientists who have been planning the trip for more than two years will fan out from here by dog sled to gather data on the Arctic region.

Because she says she wants to look "feminine at all times," Miss Keenan is taking along lipstick, nail polish, eyeshadow and mascara as well as shampoo to wash her hair.

Art Club Meeting

A special business meeting of the Las Artistas Art Club will be held this evening at 7:30 at the St. Paul Presbyterian Church. All members are urged to attend. Plans for the sidewalk art show to be held in the near future will be discussed.

Lamesa Young People Attend Convention

LAMESA — Four young people from the First Christian Church attended a Youth Rally and District II convention in Muleshoe with their pastor, Rev. Rush Barnett, Sunday afternoon.

Those attending from Lamesa were Tahita Neimeyer, Janet Benson, Bobby Wilson and David Schroner. About 150 young people from 30 churches in the district attended the meeting.

Fate Of No. 5 In Serious Doubt

Constitutional Amendment No. 5 to be voted on next month is a proposal to increase the amount of state bonds to provide veterans with land from the present $100 million to $200 million.

Land for veterans was conceived in 1946 in lieu of a general state bonus. The sum voted then in the original amendment on the subject was $25 million, but in 1951 there was another amendment raising the total to $100. At that time, too, the benefits were extended to include all Texas veterans who had served after 1945.

Using funds acquired by the sale of long-term bonds, the Veterans Land Board acquires land which it sells to veterans under long-term mortgage arrangements at low interest rates.

There are, it seems to us some fundamental faults with this program. One is the fact that out of the 1,100,000 Texas veterans only two per cent, or around 17,000, had received any benefit from this program up to now. If the $100 million additional is voted, the number of beneficiaries would rise to four per cent.

Meantime, nothing of a comparable nature has been offered to the remaining 98 per cent, or 96 per cent of the case may be, who served in the military service during World War II or subsequent to 1945.

Experience up to now indicates a considerable trafficking in the disposition of these land "permits" or whatever they are called, so that the actual number of veterans who used this method of acquiring farms for the purpose of living on and developing them was even smaller than the potential two per cent.

The scandals that rocked Texas in connection with the administration of the veterans land program are still fresh in mind. Greedy land agents and careless or complaisant public officials combined to write some sordid pages in Texas history.

Amendment No. 5 changes the structure of the Veterans Land Board. It would remove the governor and attorney general from the board, and name two appointive members in their stead, one of whom shall be versed in veterans affairs and the other in finance. The governor would make these appointments and the Senate would confirm. As under the old law, the land commissioner, an elective public official, would be the third member of the board, and its chairman.

When he took over as land commissioner after the scandals broke Earl Rudder of Brady, a forthright and vigorous officer in World War II, reorganized the veterans program, and as long as he has anything to do with it the people can be assured of honest and alert administration. Undoubtedly from past experience, however, a great deal of public prejudice must be overcome to expand the land-purchase program by 100 per cent, and the fate of Amendment No. 5 is in serious doubt.

Sunny Jim And Gloomy Gus

WASHINGTON — This presidential campaign — as happens every four years — looks like a contest between Sunny Jim and Gloomy Gus.

President Eisenhower, head of the party which has been running things and must stand on its record, thinks things are pretty dandy and getting better.

Adlai Stevenson, head of the outs who want in, sees dark spots all around.

Time may show the most important question of the campaign — foreign policy and how to improve it — was not really much of a campaign issue.

Stevenson said early in the campaign it should be debated. And he's discussed it far more than Eisenhower.

The President has dwelt on foreign policy at length only twice: at the Republican convention in August and in his opening campaign speech Sept. 19.

Stevenson has accused the Eisenhower administration of lacking new ideas in foreign policy.

Basically, he's right. Eisenhower is following the Truman-Acheson foreign policy: military alliances and foreign aid.

Whether that's right or wrong, now that the Russians have shifted their tactics, remains to be seen. But when it comes to new programs, Stevenson so far hasn't been very productive either.

When you cut through all Stevenson has said, the difference he seems to see between himself and Eisenhower on foreign policy is not so much a difference in programs, or the lack of them, but in attitude.

He suggests the Eisenhower administration has alienated other peoples by bluster, and he says he would show them respect as individuals to win them over.

Both men agree disarmament — when it can be worked out with safeguards — is a key to peace.

Both agree this country is in a contest with Russia for the heart and minds of men and that they must be helped with American aid.

Some may think Stevenson has suggested something brand new regarding H-bomb tests. It can hardly be called a solid proposal until Stevenson has made it clear whether he thinks such tests should be stopped whether or not Russia agrees to do the same.

On the problem of colonialism both men have been blanks. Eisenhower hasn't mentioned the word in this campaign. Stevenson has mentioned it a couple of times but without conveying any understandable meaning.

Life's Little Mysteries

NEW YORK — Life is full of little mysteries, and did you ever wonder—

Why the American people have never elected a doctor to the White House, or a psychiatrist to the U. S. Senate?

That only one career farmer ever became president, although the one who did made a pretty fair record? His name was George Washington.

Why the two things that give a man the greatest feeling of mortality are having a tooth pulled—and getting a scratch on his new motor car?

What a weather forecaster says to his wife, who goes shopping because he promised a sunny day, after he returns home and finds her still wet and furious because she was caught in an afternoon shower?

Why the average parent, who himself would dread being called an intellectual, insists that his children go to college?

Why so many mild-looking women have become wild-eyed wrestling fans? Do they get a vicarious satisfaction out of seeing one big chunk of male beef man and another one? Is it because they have a secret grudge against all members of the masculine sex?

How fireflies know when it's light-up time?

Why women love to look at themselves in a three-way mirror but it almost frightens a man to see himself in one?

Whether anyone ever had a shoestring break while he was on vacation? It never happens to me except when I'm in a hurry.

Why the style experts, now that most American men look like walking lumps of coal, suddenly have decided that charcoal is a better color for a barbecue pit than a man's suit?

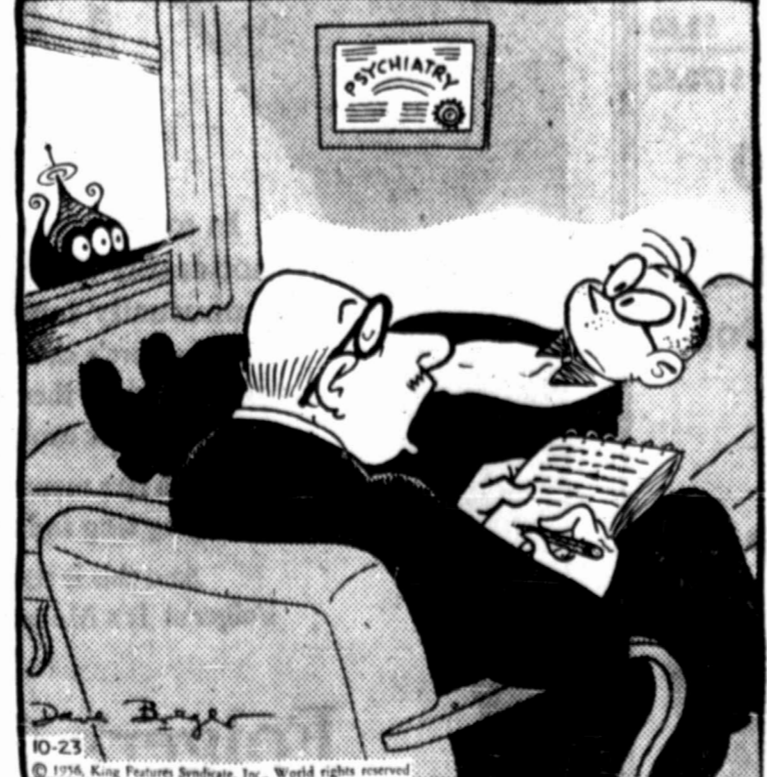

Why old maids often leave a bequest for cats but few ever will money for the care and feeding of elderly bachelors?

Whether doormen in their own home ever get up and politely open the door for their wife? Odds against—10 to 1.

Just how a professional dog catcher goes about explaining to his kids why he had to take the job?

Why a man gaining weight doesn't mind having his trousers let out, but will choke to death before he'll buy a shirt with a larger-size collar?

Around The Rim

Partial Deafness Has Its Advantages

They tell me that a great many persons who suffer from faulty hearing are too vain to wear one of the electronic devices to improve their condition. They prefer to endure the difficulties of partial deafness rather than be, as they see it, embarrassed by having to employ a mechanical aid.

It so happens that I am partially deaf. One of my ears doesn't function well and the other, I think, lacks considerable of being up to par. It is not vanity which prevents my having a hearing aid. According to the advertisement for such machines, they are expensive. Money is a commodity of extreme rarity in my hands and so I pass on the gadgets which, I am told in the ads, would bring all of the sounds of this good earth pouring into my ears at full volume.

However, being a little on the hard-of-hearing side isn't all bad. Those who have acutely sensitive ears roll and toss unhappily at night because the constant drip of a distant faucet pounds on their brain like the beating of a bass drum. The raucous ticking of the alarm clock shatters the quiet of their night hours. Wind causes branches of shrubs to sway and the raking sound of the limbs creates a cacophony which blasts their peace of mind.

Not for me. The faucet can drip to its heart's content; I never hear it. I do not hear the tick of my wrist watch even when I have it against my ear. Even the clatter of the alarm on the clock sounds remote and I never hear its ticking.

Much conversation, to be brutally frank, matters very little. Often I miss the endless chit-chat going on in the crowd about me. I do not go about in the crowd to be interested by smiling brightly at the proper times and shaking my head at others, the illusion prevails that I am following the discourse with complete clarity.

There are unhappy aspects to the condition, however. I strain my ears to break up the staccato phrases of the radio and television speakers. I miss the fine shade and delicate coloring of musical compositions. High peaked sounds fall to register with me and I cannot discern the distant songs of wild birds.

Soft-voiced folk, who insist on speaking in modulated tones on the telephone, drive me crazy. Here in West Texas, in particular, it is the prevailing habit of most people to keep their voices at low level. Unlike the crowded cities of the east, verbal exchange here is low-pitched and the average speaker tends to run his words together. For the partially deaf person, this poses a grave difficulty. In the east, where stridency is the rule and the yell is more frequently used, there is no question of sufficient volume. There the difficulty hinges on the interpretation that one may make of weird accents and dialects.

It is most annoying, alike to the speaker and to the listener, for the latter to be forced to constantly ask "How was that?" "I didn't hear what you said," and other remarks.

Difficulty also arises in the matter of names. Most of us are highly prone to be slipshod in the simple ceremony of introducing strangers. To folk like myself, handicapped by defective hearing, most introductions come out something like this:

"I'd like to present Mr. Farchentdok. This is Samblackburn."

Probably the person I am meeting for the first time has a name which in no way actually resembles Farchentdok. That is just the way it sounds.

If it is important that I know the name — and that is the rule because of the business I happen to be in — I have to push forward and ask: "What was the name, please?"

And often as not, the name is some difficult or unusual one, like Jones or Smith.

Across the board, I would say that faulty hearing is certainly a handicap. And somehow it seems strange that so many folk afflicted with this handicap, show no embarrassment at all in wearing glasses to correct fading eyesight and yet refuse to employ a mechanical device to help them hear better.

Artist Sans Bohemian Flavor

This souped-up Bohemian life of the artist is for the birds and Broadway, in the opinion of one of the nation's foremost artists.

"I'm as normal as blueberry pie, and I'm tired of people hanging around nowadays, waiting for me to detach myself from my ears," said Harry Sternberg as he stood in the middle of the American Contemporary Art Gallery on New York's East 57th Street, where his latest one-man show has just opened.

"As a personality, I'm real dull. I commute, just like those other characters in the gray flannel suits," said the man whose pictures hang in the permanent collection of dozens of the most important galleries at home and abroad.

"And," he added as the final clincher to normalcy, "I have no intention of deserting my wife and child and running off to the South Seas. No one in Hollywood would waste a plugged nickel on my life or the life of any of my artist friends, and they're all top men. We're all as conventional as hell. We don't even chase each other's wives at parties like the Madison Avenue and the country club sets."

I reeled under this bleak picture of life among the palettes, but Sternberg went relentlessly on.

"All of the modern literature, the theatre and the movies are knee-deep in emphasis on the artist as a psychotic, wildly operating on the lunatic fringes of society. He's a drug addict. He's a sot. He descends his family. He's a moron.

That's the way we are pictured, when the truth is, a lot of us are Republicans. Yet the public wants to believe we're nuts, so much so that Harvard recently published a paper, 'The Artist in the University.'

"This report says, 'It is curious to what extent this myth reserved for the visual arts. Few persons believe that an author, poet, or a composer might be slow-witted, if not frankly insane. The thought encounters little difficulty, however, that an idiot or a madman might produce drawings, paintings and sculpture of a high order, indeed, on occasion, masterpieces.'

"So there you are," went on Sternberg. "People think an artist is a freak, when the only mad thing about us is our obsolete 24-hour devotion to a trade or profession that doesn't bring in big material rewards. Art doesn't pay well. It sure as hell doesn't. And we can't keep up with the Joneses.

"But we're in love with what we do, even if we have to do all kinds of odd jobs to earn the time and the money to paint. I've kept body, soul and family together by teaching at the Art Students League for the past 20 years. I've written two books, and I do a good bit of industrial designing. I've just designed and am now producing a combination seat and cased that a lot of art schools are buying.

"I have a happy home life. I love my wife and my little girl. And I'm crazy about gardening. You should have seen my tomatoes in August! It's just like I told you, I'm a real dull character."

The Gallup Poll

GOP Both Gains And Loses

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 23.—There is a marked contrast in presidential voting sentiment today in the East Central and West Central regions, with the Mississippi River the dividing line.

In the four agricultural and industrial states east of the Mississippi—Indiana, Michigan and Ohio—the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket is running 2 points stronger today than it did four years ago.

In 1952, President Eisenhower polled 56.2 per cent of the popular vote in the East Central area to 43.8 per cent for Adlai Stevenson. Today, among voters who have made up their minds, the GOP ticket polls 58 per cent to 42 per cent for the Democratic ticket.

But westward across the Mississippi, in the eight predominantly agricultural states of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin, there has been a 7-point shift away from the GOP and in favor of the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket, and the contest shapes up as a real horse race.

In 1952, the West Central area gave President Eisenhower 60.4 per cent of the popular vote to 39.6 per cent for Stevenson. Today, among voters who have made up their minds, the vote is 53 per cent for the GOP ticket to 47 per cent for the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

Trends of the last three weeks of the campaign could reverse this situation. With 8 per cent of the voters in this section still undecided as to how they will vote, the Democrats could gain the advantage.

The latest Institute test of presidential voting sentiment among a cross-section of voters living in the East Central and West Central regions shows the following results:

"If the presidential election were being held today, which candidates would you vote for—Eisenhower and Nixon or Stevenson and Kefauver?"

EAST CENTRAL STATES (Ill., Ind., Mich. and Ohio)

	Per cent
Eisenhower-Nixon	54
Stevenson-Kefauver	39
Undecided	7

WEST CENTRAL STATES (Minn., Iowa, Mo., Kans., Neb., N. Dak., S. Dak. and Wis.)

	Per cent
Eisenhower-Nixon	53
Stevenson-Kefauver	47
Undecided	4

Today's results are based on those people who indicated that they will vote on Election Day. The figures represent sentiment for the entire section and not for any individual state.

Political observers will point out the fact that the drought, which has hit the West Central region hard, stopped at the Mississippi's edge.

In the election four years ago, President Eisenhower won all 12 states, picking up the 68 electoral votes in the West Central area and the 85 electoral votes in the East Central area.

The only one of the 12 states in which the race was close was Missouri.

Here is the percentage of the popular vote in each of the 12 states in 1952.

1952 ELECTION

	Rep. Dem.	Per cent
East Central:
Indiana	58.6	41.4
Ohio	56.8	43.2
Michigan	55.8	44.2
Illinois	55.0	45.0
West Central:
North Dakota	71.4	28.6
South Dakota	69.3	30.7
Kansas	69.3	30.7
Nebraska	61.2	38.8
Wisconsin	55.6	44.4
Minnesota	50.8	49.2
Missouri	50.8	49.2

If the shift were reflected equally in all eight states within the West Central area, then 7 points would be added to the Democratic figure for each West Central state.

Warming Up, But Hardly Hot

Only two weeks and from today remain of the great national election of 1956.

Both sides in the presidential contest are working like beavers, and the competition for control of Congress is red-hot in many states where the two major parties are more evenly divided.

It is likely that a very high percentage of the qualified voters will go to the polls on Tuesday, November 6, but the high vote of 1952 is not apt to be duplicated for the simple reason that fewer voters are qualified this year.

In New York state registrations are down seven per cent, and pretty much the same story prevails elsewhere. In Texas polltax payments are off this year, and it isn't likely Texas will, in the foreseeable future, get as excited about this election as it did in the terrific year of 1952.

But if vigorous campaigning and strident oratory can bring out the voters, as is usually the case, a good turn-out of voters can be expected in Texas two weeks from today.

Pre-election guesstimates of the probable winners can be made to look pretty silly on the day after the polls close — and that goes for the so-called "public opinion polls."

At this time, however, it looks like the presidential contest will certainly be much closer than in the lop-sided year of 1952, and the votes of one or two key states may well determine the winners.

In any case, qualified voters should go to the polls and vote their choice.

No Halt Warranted In Testing

WASHINGTON — A call for the withdrawal of Adlai Stevenson as the presidential nominee of the Democratic party and the naming of a replacement by the Democratic national committee would surely develop if Democrats generally throughout the country fully understood how official facts about nuclear-bomb tests are being distorted in the belief that the public will not grasp the truth.

The alarmist speech delivered by Mr. Stevenson Monday night to a nationwide television audience was a deliberate maneuver to scare the country, in spite of the official evidence to the contrary about the lack of danger to the people as a whole in the tests.

The National Academy of Sciences, in a recent report made by 150 of the nation's highest level scientists — the most reputable body of men in the scientific world — declared that all the biological damage from the testing of atomic bombs "has been essentially negligible."

The same report said that radioactivity from medical and dental X-rays is far more extensive than all the tests from H-bombs could be for 30 years to come.

Mr. Stevenson admitted that "until there is an agreement on an effective system of balanced arms reductions with adequate safeguards," the United States must maintain its defenses. He then adds:

"All our efforts to work out any safe, reliable, effective system of inspection to prevent evasion of arms agreements have been blocked by the Soviet rulers. They will not agree to let us inspect them; we cannot agree to disarm unless we can inspect them. And the matter has been deadlocked there for eleven years."

But further on in the same speech Democratic nominee returns to the idea of a one-sided discontinuance of H-bomb tests by anticipating a broken pledge by the Russians. He says:

"In short, H-bomb testing requires no inspection. We will know it when it happens anywhere, and by studying the dust from that explosion we can determine what progress the other country has made. This means that if any country broke its pledge we would know it and could promptly resume our testing."

But why take any chances, especially since officials of the Atomic Energy Commission say it takes many months — and not a few weeks — to make preparations for H-bomb tests? There is some evidence, too, that tests can be concealed. Mr. Stevenson himself isn't sure that any good would come from abandoning our tests while the Russians, even though pledged not to do any testing, failed to keep their word. He says toward the end of his Monday night speech:

"In the meantime — and frankly because bitter experience has proved that we cannot rely even on the firm agreement of one bloc of world powers — we will proceed both with the production of hydrogen weapons and with further research in the field."

Then why trust the Communists now? Also, what is meant by "further research"? Scientists say research without tests is not adequate.

Mr. Stevenson has been misled by his "left wing" advisers into the worst bungle in modern politics. He is gambling that the public will not understand or give weight to the truth as revealed to them by the highest standing scientists of the country.

Heater Units Spark Fuels Competition

NEW YORK (AP)—With a smaller market for home heater units this year, competition between the various kinds of fuel is growing keener. So does the race between hot water, hot air and various radiation devices. Fuel oil and natural gas are fighting harder for first place. Coal is trying for a comeback. Electricity is making an all-out effort to capture more of the heating market. For the householder the outlook is given normal winter weather—is for adequate supplies in most sections, but with fuel oil prices a little higher and coal prices tending that way because of wage increases at the mines. Some burner makers report sales of new equipment slowing down this year—blaming the slower pace of home building. Others claim higher sales this year, either through relative price changes among the fuels or through advances in equipment performance. New types that can be switched from heating to cooling as the seasons change are also racking up sales gains in both the home and the apartment house fields. The Better Heating - Cooling

Adlai Criticizes Ike Rejection Of Atomic Plea

Adlai Stevenson said yesterday President Eisenhower erred in rejecting the latest Russian proposal for an agreement on ending nuclear tests. He said it should have been explored "immediately and all the way."

In another development of the fast-closing presidential campaign the White House said Eisenhower will undergo a top-to-toe physical examination Saturday, with results to be made public not later than Monday. Eisenhower said in August he planned a pre-election test of his health and would report promptly to the people if it showed him unfit for a second term. Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerly told newsmen Eisenhower's health is "fine" right now.

Meanwhile, debate raged on in the wake of the Russian proposal for an agreement to end nuclear tests—a proposal already wedged firmly into the U.S. political campaign.

Eisenhower denounced the Bulgarian note Sunday as an attempt to meddle in U.S. internal affairs and a violation of usual diplomatic procedures.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, said he shared Eisenhower's "resentment at the manner and timing" of the Soviet message, but the American reply was "unfortunate."

The real issue is not Mr. Bulganin's manners or Russian views about American politics," Stevenson said, but what can be done "to save the world from hydrogen disaster."

Stevenson was expected to expand yesterday's statement in a nationwide radio-TV speech from New York tonight. Time: 8 p.m., EST.

The administration has taken the position that a test ban agreement would be worthless without a foolproof mutual inspection system. Democrats have maintained tests could be ended without damaging U.S. security or retarding research.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said last night Stevenson "has created a situation by his stand on ending H-bomb testing which, by his own admission, permitted Soviet Premier Bulganin to 'interfere' in the current American election campaign."

Stevenson's vice presidential running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, said in Rock Springs, Wyo., Democrats will take whatever political risk is involved in going along with the Russians or any other atomic power on an end to atomic testing.

Vice President Nixon, campaigning in Michigan, said he was sure "America's workers are not going to play politics with their prosperity" by voting Democratic next month.

In Erie, Pa., Secretary of Agriculture Benson told a farm group that critics of administration farm policies are the "new reactionaries," who want to go "backward" to policies that feature "controls, not freedom."

Texas Ike Demos Challenge Loyalists On Atom Test Ideas

By WHITEY SAWYER
The Associated Press
Texas supporters of President Eisenhower have challenged pro-Stevenson leaders to say what they think about the Democratic candidate's H-bomb test proposals.

Gov. Shivers and Mrs. Oveta Hobby, Houston Post publisher and former member of the Eisenhower Cabinet, sided with President Eisenhower, who has opposed proposals to abandon the H-bomb tests.

Shivers issued a statement challenging Sen. Johnson and Speaker Rayburn, leaders in the Adlai Stevenson campaign in Texas, "to say how they stand on Adlai's H-bomb plan."

Mrs. Hobby, speaking at Texas Democrats for Eisenhower meetings in San Angelo and El Paso, said Stevenson "seems to urge that we give up our hard-won advantage in nuclear research in the fond hope Russia will follow our example."

Byron Skelton of Temple, Democratic national committeeman, issued a statement saying that Shivers has "started" the usual Shivers campaign of "smear" in the presidential contest.

Skelton's statement said that "according to the newspapers, Shivers said that Adlai Stevenson was 'without common sense or morals or both.'"

"This is in accord with the methods Shivers has used in campaigns in the past and came as no surprise to anyone," Skelton said.

Johnson was not available for comment. Rayburn said through National Democratic Headquarters that he fears the Eisenhower administration has fallen into a propaganda trap by rejecting summarily Russian Premier Bulganin's latest proposal on ending nuclear tests.

Eisenhower sharply rejected Bulganin's suggestion for an international agreement to ban the testing of atomic and hydrogen bombs. He accused Bulganin of meddling in the American election.

President Eisenhower should be concerned with how "to save the world from atomic death" more than with diplomatic niceties, the Texas Democrat said.

Rayburn made no direct answer to Shivers.

Meanwhile, at Brownwood, Sen. Long of Louisiana criticized Monday night the interest rate policies of the government. He charged that President Eisenhower "has not tried" to do anything about them.

"The best month of the Eisenhower administration has not measured up to the worst month of previous Democratic administrations," Long charged. "The profits of small business have been reduced by 41 per cent under the Eisenhower administration and the rate at which small businesses go bankrupt has doubled."

"High interest rates of the present administration have benefited few and hurt many. They hurt small business and do not help any business except lenders."

Long speaks in San Angelo Tuesday night and in Laredo Thursday night.

Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts, another Democratic senator pushing Stevenson, speaks at El Paso Tuesday night, at Laredo Wednesday and at San Antonio that night.

Sen. Daniel, the Democratic nominee for governor, will appear at the San Angelo, Laredo and San Antonio rallies.

Mrs. Hobby was to speak in Lubbock Tuesday afternoon, at Midland Tuesday night and Amarillo Wednesday night.

Speaking at El Paso, she scored Stevenson for what she called his "terrifyingly naive and irresponsible suggestion."

She said Eisenhower has met the challenge of the hydrogen age "with boldness and yet with prudence."

Blast, Fire Rock Beaumont Refinery

BEAUMONT (AP)—An explosion and fire which roared out of control for a time today in the sprawling Magnolia Refinery may have temporarily knocked out all gasoline production at the plant.

An explosion in a gasoline treating unit just before midnight last night touched off flames which were but of control for 90 minutes. Two men were critically burned as flames leaped 100 feet into the air from about 16,000 gallons of gasoline.

Tom Carter of Magnolia said the unit was a vital link in the gasoline refining system and said the damage probably would force the gasoline production to shut down for an undetermined time.

C. A. Reeves, night superintendent at Magnolia, said the fire occurred in the "sweetening" plant where gasoline is treated for odor. He said a small pipe or a gauge apparently broke, flooding the area with gasoline. He said the fumes apparently were ignited from a welding machine working on a nearby unit.

A large explosion was followed by several lesser ones. Reeves said the burned employees, Russell Byrom and James Rivet, were about 150 feet from the two drums. He said they apparently were caught by the flash. Both men are from Beaumont and were listed in critical condition.

Reeves said refinery firefighters were able to confine the flames to the two small tanks. He said several others were in the area.

There was no damage estimate. The flow of petroleum into the fire area was shut off, reducing the danger of spreading the fire into other units of the refinery, which dominates the southeastern edge of this southeast Texas city.

The refinery is one of the largest on the Texas Gulf coast.

A government shakeup, placing all the organs of the state firmly in the hands of the new party leaders, may be announced through the Parliament in a few days.

The Warsaw radio took notice of the demonstrations in a broadcast today. It gave few details, but said such "demagogic and nationalistic" outbursts were of no service to the workers and might actually serve the interests of "other elements."

The reorganization possibly will include the removal of Soviet Konstantin Rokossovsky as defense minister. Rokossovsky led the pro-Moscow faction that was ousted from the Politburo, the ruling group of the party, when Gomulka and his backers took over Sunday night.

Meanwhile a responsible source confirmed that a Russian cruiser and three destroyers anchored off Danzig on the Polish north coast yesterday. The ships were not visible in the haze today.

Street demonstrations hailed the new course proclaimed by the 51-year-old Gomulka, who was jailed by Stalin as a Titoist and traitor to Moscow after an earlier term as Polish Communist boss.

Similar resolutions of support for Gomulka and his "socialism with freedom" policy were announced by Communist party members in the U. S. (secret police) and the public prosecutor's office.

Reports from other parts of the country told of similar pledges of support to Gomulka.

Saves Four

Floyd Lydum, 26, of Firth, Idaho, was credited with saving four lives from a fire that swept a men's dormitory at the University of Idaho, killing three students. Lydum, up late studying, grabbed a rope, ran next door to the adjoining hall and pulled four students to safety. Officials said the fire was set and they called it arson and murder.

These resolutions demanded an end to unjust methods of administering the law.

Most rumors of new Soviet troops and warship movements in Poland and near Polish ports were discounted here. Most Poles thought the peak of the danger of Soviet military intervention in the situation had passed.

Year-Round Comfort

Summer heat and winter cold are no problem for this "hen house" for this Indiana poultry flock. The birds live underground in an abandoned quarry which knows no seasons. Temperature remains nearly constant at around 60 degrees.

NO CAGES

Hens In Cave Lay More Eggs

CORYDON, Ind.—The laying hen, who not too many years ago used to roam the barnyard at will on any farm, has gone underground near here to air-conditioned comfort. A. J. Martin of Ramsey has 25,000 laying hens in a four-acre cave located in an abandoned quarry at Milltown, Ind. The novel setup is an extension of the trend in modern hatchery operations that sets up controlled conditions for hens rather than permitting them to scratch their way around the barnyard. Martin noted egg volume increased under the controlled conditions. He reasoned that a big, empty underground area would be an ideal site for providing his hens with year-round steady temperatures so he moved the big flock into the abandoned quarry cave. The results after two years of underground operations have sustained Martin's theory. The percentage of eggs that have hatched during hatching season, and constant high level of market eggs have kept up regardless of season. The cave, after modification by Martin, is no ordinary cavern. Ten ventilating fans provide fresh air, 40-watt bulbs burn in the daytime, and 7 1/2-watt bulbs are lit at night to encourage additional feeding. Tunnel entrances are walled off with cement and sealed doors help keep uniform conditions. But no refinement is made on the basic raw material of the cave—a constant 60 degree temperature. That's what makes it desirable for hatchery operations. The percentage of eggs hatching has jumped 20 to 25 per cent as the practice of placing newly laid eggs in warmer temperatures now can be avoided. The normal summer slump in laying also has disappeared. In the cave, 185 feet below the surface, seasons do not exist.

Local Studies To Learn Adult Needs Proposed

LUBBOCK — A fact-finding conference is one of the best ways to determine adult education needs in a community, representatives of West Texas colleges and communities decided at a Texas Tech meeting Monday. A cross-section of a town's citizenry can best determine educational needs of individuals and groups that have not been filled, the group concluded. Institutions sending participants were San Angelo, Odessa, Howard County, Clarendon, and Wayland colleges. Conferring with them were citizens from Floydada, Brownfield, Hale Center, Plainview and Lubbock, and representatives of the Texas Tech Adult Education Program.

Dr. Bonard Wilson of Chicago, resource consultant for the meeting, pointed out that extension of adult education is one answer to a community's social problems. "Someone has said that juvenile delinquents are mimics of adult delinquents," he explained. "If that's so, then helping adults find more constructive pursuits should help a community as a whole." Many persons in small communities are eager to continue their education; they just don't know how to get the help they want, one of the community representatives declared. Conference participants included Marvin L. Baker, Howard County Junior College.

Candidates For 'Y' Posts Named

Big Spring Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs last night chose their candidates for two state offices to be filled during the Texas "Youth-In-Government" program in the state capital Dec. 18-19. The candidates will vie with others from West Texas at the pre-legislative conference to be held on the Texas Tech campus in Lubbock Saturday. The local YMCA groups plan to send a delegation of 50, plus nine sponsors, to the Lubbock meeting. The Big Spring clubs named Wesley Grigsby as their candidate for chaplain of the house and Sue Boykin as the Big Spring nominee for secretary of the senate. Grigsby is a member of the Junior Hi-Y and Miss Boykin is a member of the Feta Tri-Hi-Y. Sue was unopposed for the Big Spring nomination, but Grigsby went into a spirited runoff with Bobby Grant of the Senior Hi-Y for the house chaplaincy nomination. Toni Thomas of the Seba Tri-Hi-Y was chosen as candidate for committee chairman in another contest, defeating Sue Boykin and Dennis Jones of the Senior Hi-Y on the final vote. Elected reporter without opposition was Jacquelin Smith of Feta Tri-Hi-Y.

No Action Taken Against Teacher For Racial Ideas

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga.—The Gwinnett County School Board disclosed today that it has decided not to fire a teacher whose racial views brought complaints from some parents. As the result of a prolonged hearing held Oct. 10, the board decided Mrs. Colleen Marie Wiggins "probably made unwise or indiscreet expressions" about integration "but the evidence submitted does not justify" her dismissal. Joseph E. Chealey, Buford, Ga., lawyer representing the protesting parents said his clients have not yet given him instructions "but it is my opinion they will appeal it" to the State Board of Education within the 30 days allowed for such a move. Mrs. Wiggins, now a seventh grade teacher at the Bethesda School near Lawrenceville, became a storm center last May when she was teaching in high school and discussed integration in a history class, saying she would not mind teaching mixed classes if she were where integration is practiced. She said also in response to a student's question that she would not try to prevent her daughter from marrying a Negro if she loved him and he were an honest, decent man but added that she did not mean by this that she would want her daughter to marry a Negro. She would not, she said.

Johansen May Return Home

Johnny Johansen, city park superintendent who has been in an Abilene hospital with bulbar polio, is to be brought home Wednesday. Doctors at Hendrick Memorial Hospital at Abilene thought that he has recovered sufficiently to be brought back home. Final decision however will not be made until after an examination in the morning, but they felt today he would be strong enough to make the trip. Johansen was hospitalized here Sept. 22, and at that time doctors thought he had encephalitis. Less than a week later, he was transferred to Abilene where physicians diagnosed the case as bulbar polio. He has improved decidedly in the last two weeks, doctors said. Oct. 14, he walked for the first time, and last week he was strong enough to write a letter. He has been taking a regular diet for the last few days and was able to sit up for about two hours last Sunday. When brought back to Big Spring, he will be taken to his home and will not have to be hospitalized, doctors said.

Motorcycle Rider Hurt In Collision

A 14-year old boy was slightly injured in a motorcycle-car accident here this morning. The boy, Ronnie Lewis, son of Stanley Lewis, 1100 E. 16th, was traveling south on Runnels at the time he was in collision with a car driven by Marilyn Kaye Chadd, 606 Dallas. The car was going east at the time. The mishap occurred at 17th and Runnels. Ronnie was rushed to Big Spring Hospital for treatment and was admitted. He was taken in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance. Doctors said he had cuts on the left ankle and leg. He was x-rayed for additional injuries and hospitalized awaiting a check of the x-rays. There were no apparent fractures, however. In an accident Monday, Clem Alfred Dahse and Emery Odell McNeese, 1407 Eleventh, were drivers of cars colliding at 601 E. 1st.

First 18 Miles Of Paving For County's 1957 Program Mapped

Approximately 18 miles of county roads were scheduled for construction during 1957 by the Howard County Commissioners Court at its meeting Monday. P. O. Hughes and Hudson Landers, commissioners-elect, were on hand at the meeting and sat in on discussion of the roads placed on the construction program. It was emphasized that the roads slated for building at Monday's meeting will not represent the total mileage proposed for paving in 1957. Additional segments of highway will be placed on the list but the plan for scheduling some of the road jobs for next year at this time was to enable Walter Parks, county engineer, to proceed with preliminary plans. Initial road action taken by the commissioners dealt with a road on this year's calendar. Right-of-way easements for seven pieces of Hill road, were placed in the hands of the officials. As soon as the right-of-way is secured, work on this job will be started. Roads placed on the calendar for 1957 are: Salem church south to Highway 80, five miles, and Salem church south to Highway 80, three miles. Road beginning two miles east of Coahoma and extending three miles south. Intersection of U. S. 87 and Silver Heels road, one mile east to Boy Scout camp. One mile of road north of the Terrace Theatre a mile west through new housing development. Three miles of road to connect Moore and Fairview road projects. Two miles of road to connect Wasson and Elbow roads.

Asks Wisdom Of Solomon

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Cass Thorpe must visit Jodie Loftis every week for two years and pay him $10 a month, by order of the court. "I pray for the wisdom of Solomon in trying to decide a case like this," said Circuit Judge Theodore McMillan. Loftis, 62, lost his right foot when he was hit by a car driven by Thorpe last Dec. 8. Thorpe, 24, pleaded guilty to felonious wounding and leaving the scene of an accident. Officers testified Thorpe was drunk. Judge McMillan found these extenuating circumstances in putting Thorpe on probation for two years: His wife is a semi-invalid and requires expensive medical care. He also supports his mother-in-law. He has never been in trouble before.

ELECT JAMES R. HORTON AS YOUR DISTRICT CLERK OF HOWARD COUNTY (Paid Pol. Adv.)

Grand Jury May Finish Its Investigations Today

The Howard County Grand Jury was about half-way through with its list of investigations Tuesday morning. Seven of the 14 matters which were to be presented to the body for investigation had been considered. It was said that the grand jurors were hopeful they could complete their work today and submit their report to Judge Charlie Sullivan in 118th District Court. If the work is completed it will be late in the afternoon before the last case can be heard, observers predicted. The grand jury was impaneled Monday morning. Guilford Jones, district attorney, said that he had 14 or 15 cases he wanted to present to the body. The grand jury is for the October term of the 118th District Court. J. B. Wiginton is foreman of the group. Members are Mrs. C. H. DeVaney, J. D. Jones, Mrs. C. D. Read, Mrs. Sue Ratliff, James C. Barr, B. D. Lee, Arnold Lloyd, Chon Rodriguez, Ross Hill, Edgar Phillips and H. C. Blackshear. Jones stated that most of the matters he had to air before the grand jury were more or less "routine." He said they involved, for the most part, check violations, drunken driving and wife and child desertion matters.

Legion Urges New GI Loan Program

COLORADO CITY — Nineteenth District Legionnaires at Colorado City Sunday called for changes in present home loan laws to allow the Veterans' Administration to make direct GI home loans, where lending agencies would not make the loan without the payment of a bonus by the veteran. Ernest Davis, Legion service officer stationed at Lubbock, said that many veterans' in the Lubbock area had paid from 4 to 7 per cent "bonus" on GI home loans. Davis pointed out that certain areas were designated in which this direct loan was already in force, and added that Colorado City had recently been added to the list. The Legion's resolution would make these "no bonus" loan available to GI's throughout the United States. The convention also endorsed Hilton Lambert of Snyder for Department Commander in 1958. Lambert is a Snyder mail carrier and is the present Fifth Division commander of the American Legion. The convention also passed resolutions:

- (1) Asking any Legion post from outside the 19th District to refrain from soliciting funds within the district without the approval of the post where the solicitation was being made. (2) Requesting an investigation as to the reason for different rates of pay for like jobs in Civil Service. The Big Spring post pointed out that a difference in pay rate existed between Webb Air Force Base civilian employees and those employed by the Veterans Administration Hospital at Big Spring. (3) Supporting proposed Amendment No. 5 to the State Constitution, which will supply an extra $100 million for the veteran's land program. Lambert, principal speaker at the joint session of the Legion and Auxiliary Sunday morning, asked Legionnaires to devote more time to community service, pointing out that this should be one of the principal objects of each Legion post. Warren Limer of Seminole, 19th District commander, presided at the convention. Mrs. Mike Fry, of Lubbock, president of the Auxiliary was the presiding officer at the business meeting of the Auxiliary Sunday afternoon.

U.S. NATO Personnel Are Well Satisfied With Assignments

Editor's Note: Charles A. Guy, editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, recently toured many North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations in Europe. Here are excerpts from the last three of his articles.

By CHARLES A. GUY

The Associated Press

What about American service personnel, officer and enlisted, in North Atlantic Treaty Organization commands, or in U.S. installations adjacent there-to? By and large, Americans of all ranks and grades are well satisfied in their NATO and auxiliary assignments. Many are there by choice rather than by order. Conversation with dozens of individuals boil down to this, as a general summation of the attitudes of Americans overseas with, or because of, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization:

"It's more interesting in the States. It gives me a chance to go places, do and see things that I probably never will have again—and I get paid while I'm doing it. It's not all beer and skittles, but, over-all it's interesting and I like it. I wouldn't want to stay here forever—but for a hitch, it's OK."

Although made up of 15 nations with often diverging, even conflicting, national interests, NATO has proven these past seven years that men can give and take when it's wisest to do so, sublimate their own desires and move for the good of the whole.

Many have lost sight of the fact that diplomats, as well as military men, have had a major role in the operations and policies of the alliance.

Since the military side of NATO has worked so well, numerous officials of the member nations—including the U.S.A.—have asked themselves if it wouldn't be wise to broaden NATO's base to permit it to serve more actively in the field of international economics.

A so-called "committee of three" was appointed last June by Secretary General Lord Ismay to study various plans for closer economic cooperation.

Most European NATO members, if not all of them, are enthusiastic about broadening NATO's base . . . and U.S. Secretary of State Dulles has had some kind words to say about the idea.

Since the U.S.A. is the largest and strongest NATO member has put up the most money (about 20 billion dollars) for the military alliance to date, the expectation is that it also would be expected to contribute heaviest to an enlarged economic program.

American opponents of NATO's making international economics a major part of its program . . . point out that the biggest thing to recommend NATO, outside its success thus far as a deterrent to war, is its practicability—it's hardheaded approach to the problem of free men keeping the peace and their own liberties. They note, with considerable logic, that the world already has the United Nations for "pie in the sky" operations and for playing around with beautiful theories.

Why, they ask, take a good business-like organization like NATO and put into the global WPA field?

On the other hand, NATO has contributed, more or less accidentally, to the economy of member nations — including the United States. This has come through its needs for tanks and planes and guns and ships, for ammunition housing, food and clothing; for materials and replacements of many kinds.

NATO's purchases from northern Italian industries have formed the basis for Communism's most crushing defeats since World War II. Plenty of jobs at good pay, coupled with the failure of Communist management, have delivered Italy's factories back into the hands of their private owners and cut red political strength in industrial cities from 75 to 25 per cent.

So proponents of more economic activity within the NATO "family of nations" also have a leg to stand on.

Just how broad an economic program will come out of NATO within the next year or two is wholly a matter of guessing. It is relatively certain, however, that the "committee of three" will come up with some proposals which will be accepted; that there will be some broadening of the NATO base to permit greater activity in the international economic field.

As the man in the street might put it, "This much is for sure." NATO has proven, for seven years and continues to prove every day, that men of good will and similar aims can work together, even though they speak different tongues and have been reared in widely different atmospheres.

Soldiers can stand together in the causes of liberty and human dignity in peace as well as in war; so, if military men can cooperate for the good of the whole, isn't it logical to believe that men of like desires can cooperate in the fields of business and industry or, if you prefer, "bread and butter?"

This may be getting into Utopian areas, but in a complex civilization such as the world has today, it is something with which to con- jure and, perhaps, a goal toward which to strive.

The latter goal is especially inviting if someone can find a way to make "haves" out of "have-nots," rather than "have-nots" out of "haves."

Chemist Involved In Fiancee's Poison Death Is Deported

NEW YORK (AP)—The government has deported an Israeli chemist whose American girl friend was found dead of poisoned wine in his hotel room Sept. 12. The Immigration and Naturalization Service disclosed that Hugo Seinfeld, 34, had been flown out of the country last Wednesday. He is not eligible to return.

Seinfeld told police that Miss Avis Gray, 25-year-old Brooklyn schoolteacher, died on a "farewell date" during which she spurned his offer of marriage. He said he despairingly poured a glass of wine laced with cyanide for himself, but she talked him into leaving the hotel and going for a walk alone.

He found her dead when he returned, he told police. He said she had drunk the poison intended for him. Seinfeld came to the United States from Israel last June on a student visa.

Egypt Pressuring Sudan, Ethiopia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Gamal Abdel Nasser's Egyptian government is bringing heavy pressure to bear on Ethiopia and the Sudan in an attempt to form an "African tier" to counter the Baghdad Alliance. He is having some success in Sudan, but little with the suspicious Ethiopians.

One of the Egyptian purposes is to protect Cairo's interests in Nile waters, which mean life or death to Egypt. The Blue Nile rises at Lake Tana in Ethiopia, joining the White Nile at Khartoum in Sudan. The White Nile, rising in Lake Victoria, has its source in the British-controlled protectorate of Uganda.

But more than the Nile is involved. The pressure obviously is part of the Nasser campaign to drive Western influences from Africa entirely.

Nasser's campaign against Ethiopia began with abuse and graduated to soft wooing. About a year ago the Egyptian radio blasted away steadily at Emperor Haile Selassie's government. It accused Ethiopia of plotting with the British and Americans to establish military bases from which Egypt could be besieged. It accused the Ethiopians of posing as Sudan's friend to lure the Sudanese away from Egypt.

This served only to make the Ethiopian regime even more suspicious. Since then, there has been a change in the political picture in Sudan, with the rise of Premier Abdullah Khalil there. Egypt's propaganda turned once again to the prospect of a working union between Ciior and Khartoum.

For Ethiopia, instead of abuse, came blandishments. Egypt and the Arab press in general began mentioning prospects for a three-way conference of Emperor Haile Selassie, Premier Khalil and President Nasser in November.

If there is to be any such conference in November, the Ethiopians haven't heard of it. Nasser had, indeed, invited the Emperor some time ago for a state visit on an Asian tour. But a check in Addis Ababa shows that not only is Selassie avoiding the bloc deal—he has postponed the state visit to Egypt until February.

Recently the Sudanese foreign minister, Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub, was quoted by the official Egyptian news service as saying he considered a strong African bloc necessary because of joint interests in "liberating the peoples of Africa." This sounded like a direct quotation from the broadcast ambitions of the Nasser regime.

Court Upholds Odessa Worker

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Justice Brennan today joined a five-man Supreme Court majority in reinstating the $40,000 damage award won by a Texas oil plant worker.

The case was one of the first acted upon by the new justice, who took his place on the bench last Tuesday.

It also prompted Justices Frankfurter and Harlan to protest that the high tribunal shouldn't act on appeals "involving a local controversy of this sort."

The worker, Joe Gibson, of Odessa, Tex., was awarded the $40,000 from Phillips Petroleum Co., by a jury in U.S. District Court in Pecos, Tex. The jury was told a barrel which once contained kerosene exploded while Gibson stood on it to operate a cutting torch. Gibson contended he was not provided a safe place to work.

The company appealed to the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans and the judgment was set aside. Gibson then appealed to the high court and won reinstatement of the $40,000 award.

The Supreme Court announced its action in a brief order which said Justices Read, Burton, Frankfurter and Harlan dissented. This meant that those voting in favor of Gibson were Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Douglas, Clark and Brennan.

Unrest Spreads In N. Africa Following Arab Rebel Arrests

ALGIERS (AP)—Angry demonstrators clashed with police in Tunis today and unrest spread elsewhere in North Africa in the wake of the surprise arrest of five top Algerian rebels by the French.

Hope dimmed for a "Peace in Algeria" meeting in Tunis between Sultan Mohammed V of Morocco and Tunisian Premier Habib Bourguiba. The Sultan was considering returning immediately to Rabat. Several hundred students ran through the streets of Casablanca waving the green flag of the Algerian rebellion and shouting for "free Algeria." Another crowd gathered in front of the French embassy shouting rebel slogans. Labor leaders called general protest strikes in Tunis and Casablanca. Crowds in Tunis were described as in an ugly mood. Frenchmen were reported fearful of outbreaks of violence directed at them. Tunisian mounted police clashed with the demonstrators as they tried to march on government buildings.

The five captured rebel leaders were held incommunicado in Algiers. French sources said they were questioned throughout the night. Security measures were stepped up throughout Algeria in expectation of rebel reprisals.

Dramatic capture of the Algerians was made possible by the French pilot of an airplane who duped them into thinking they were landing on friendly soil. It evoked bitter protests from both Tunis and Rabat. Big prize for the French was Ahmed Ben Bella, veteran Nationalist who has been masterminding the insurgent movement from sanctuary provided by Egypt.

The seizure touched off a flurry in Paris. In Rabat, the Moroccan government charged the capture of the Algerians was "pure piracy." Morocco's Acting Premier Edriss M'hameddi said he had called on the United States, Britain and Spain to intervene on behalf of the rebels.

In Tunis, Premier Habib Bourguiba told newsmen, "This is an extremely grave event — not only for its effect in North Africa, but for the effect it may have on relations of Morocco and Tunisia with France."

The plane, a DC3 owned by the French-operated Atlas Airlines, was manned by a French crew. It took off from Rabat and is heading for Tunis when French authorities made contact with the pilot and invited him to land in Algiers.

The rebel leaders, obviously convinced they were in Tunis, climbed unsuspectingly out of the plane and into the arms of a waiting police squad at Algiers' Maison Blanche Airport. They were in Western clothes and had been traveling under assumed names.

Besides Ben Bella, the captured rebels included Mohamed Khider, Mostafa Lachref, Hussein Ait-Ahmed and Mohammed Boudiaf. Ben Bella, 40, a sergeant in the French army during World War II, played a key role in the rebellion since it began in November 1954. He headed the National Liberation Front (FLN) from his refuge in Cairo.

Khider, 44, former deputy in France's National Assembly, directed the FLN political committee.

Ait-Ahmed was FLN emissary to the United States.

Since it began, the Algerian rebellion has spread from the Aures Mountains in Algeria across the huge terrain — four times the size of France.

Reports from the outlying areas showed a revival of rebel activity over the weekend.

Receiving special recognition were 21 juniors whose averages were above 90 per cent, but were not in the upper 10 per cent, and are therefore ineligible for membership this year. If they maintain their high standard of work they will likely become members of the society during their senior year.

Receiving recognition were Barbara Bearden, Lynn West, Bobbie Joe Wright, Ollinda York, Nina Bourland, Charlene Short, Lyndell King, Klata Woodall, Bobby Clement, Marilyn Cox, Wanda Debnam, Beth Ann DuBoise, Ruth Fleniken, Charles Allen, Gayle Harris, Dennis McClure, Linda McPhaul, Marianne Peterson, Mike Schmidt, Alan Bratcher and Ronnie Acuff.

Mrs. Dan Ogletree and Abe Holder, school principal, are the sponsors of the Lamesa chapter of the society. Parents of the 31 students admitted to membership were the special guests at the assembly meeting.

LAMESA — The ninth annual birthday party and regular Court of Honor of Boy Scout Troop 25, scheduled for the Lamar Forrest Community Center Tuesday night, has been postponed, according to Scoutmaster R. L. Price. The postponement was made necessary by the admission by Alvin Carsen, Explorer Advisor of the troop to the Lamesa General Hospital Monday for emergency surgery.

More rain fell in sections of the Northeast and the Far Northwest today but generally fair weather prevailed in most other parts of the country.

Rain fell during the night from the Carolinas to Maine, with the heaviest amounts reported in Pennsylvania. The rainfall in a six-hour period at Philipsburg, Pa. measured 1 1/2 inches.

Rain was expected to spread over most of the North Atlantic Coast during the day with showers in prospect for the Middle Atlantic Coast states. Fair and mild weather was forecast for Southern areas from the Southern Plains to the Atlantic.

Fog was reported over wide areas of the eastern Great Lakes region and parts of the Ohio Valley.

31 Pupils Make Honor Society In Lamesa High

LAMESA — Thirty-one students were admitted to membership in the National Honor Society at a special program held Monday afternoon during activity period at the Lamesa High School. Eighteen of the group are members of the senior class and 13 are junior class members.

Membership in the Lamesa chapter of the National Honor Society is limited to juniors and seniors who have maintained a scholastic average of at least 90 per cent for the preceding two semesters with eligibility considered in terms of character, service and leadership.

Not all students meeting the requirements are elected to membership, as the constitution of the organization provides that only the highest 15 per cent of the seniors and the highest 10 per cent of the juniors may become members. Because the membership is limited, this seeks to inspire students to achieve the highest degree of achievement.

After becoming a member, each student must maintain the standards which were the basis for his election, or he forfeits his membership.

Seniors receiving membership were Ben Alexander, Franklin Ashton, Carlene Barron, Beverly Brewer, Josephine Bridges, Richard Evans, Leta Cape, Charles Hatchett, Conrad Herman, Joan Osborn, Louan Parks, Linda Peterson, Duronell Phillips, Jeannene Pieper, Sandra Pratt, Joan Stringer, Glen Toles and Charline Whitlow.

Juniors admitted were Carol Beard, Nancy Bowers, Jay Claiborne, Linda Edmond, Kay Hoskins, Linda Jeter, Julia Holder, Lynda Lauderdale, Jim Martin, Frank McKinney, Connie Nix, Nancy Ray and Linda Shillingburg.

Receiving special recognition were 21 juniors whose averages were above 90 per cent, but were not in the upper 10 per cent, and are therefore ineligible for membership this year. If they maintain their high standard of work they will likely become members of the society during their senior year.

Questionable Votes Gave Hayes Victory

By RAMON COFFMAN
Eighty years ago two leading New York Republicans, John C. Reid and Zachariah Chandler, sent telegrams to the heads of their party organization in three southern states, saying:

"Hayes is elected if we have carried South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana. Can you hold your state?"
The telegrams were sent after the voting had been completed, but before the returns had been certified.
The states mentioned were, at that time, under the control of the so-called "carpetbag governments" in several southern states.
Q. Who received more popular votes in the Hayes-Tilden election?
A. Tilden.
Q. What was the difference?
A. According to the Republican count, Tilden had 248 thousand more votes than Hayes. The Democratic count gave Tilden 264 thousand more votes. There was only a small difference (16 thousand votes) but the difference was enough to decide the electoral votes of three states.
Q. What happened?
A. An electoral commission was appointed, and the members voted on party lines. Eight Republicans accepted the Republican figures while seven Democrats said that the Democratic figures were correct. As a result, Hayes was declared elected with a single electoral vote more than Tilden.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

Q. How did the public feel about the decision?
A. There were angry feelings among the Democrats. Some persons feared that a new civil war would break out. Tilden, however, poured oil on the waters by asking his followers to accept the result.

Wisconsin Believed Still In GOP Ranks

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
MILWAUKEE (AP) — The state where the Republican party was born just 100 years ago apparently remains unshakably Republican in 1956.
Down through this past century, Wisconsin has gone Republican most of the time. Unless advance signs are wrong, it will go for President Eisenhower again Nov. 6.
Leading Democrats in the state have all but written off Adlai E. Stevenson's chances of getting Wisconsin's 12 electoral votes.
That doesn't mean the Democrats aren't pulling up. They have been gaining for months.
So Eisenhower can't expect another victory of the landslide dimensions — Eisenhower 990,000, Stevenson 622,000 — of four years ago.
Republican politicians concede that disgruntled farmers will cost Eisenhower votes, but not enough to lose the state.
For one thing, it would take a farm revolt of somewhat massive proportions to defeat Eisenhower. The state's 146,000 farm families can cast only about one-sixth of the state's votes, people tied to the farm economy another sixth.
And, while the farm issue is the one big one that is helping the Democrats here, a majority of Wisconsin farmers traditionally vote Republican and a lot of them still like Ike.
With many farmers and their wives, peace is the big issue. The Wisconsin Agriculturist and Farmer found that out in a poll.
The bimonthly magazine reported in its Oct. 6 issue that a far larger proportion of farmers think the Republicans will do a better job of preventing war than the Democrats, but that far more say the Democrats will do a better job in helping raise farm income. Of the two issues, farmers rated peace more important than prosperity in a ratio of about 3-2.
As for prosperity, that's likely to help the GOP in Wisconsin's normally Democratic industrial cities. Things are booming there and in suburbia.
Employment in the state has dropped only a little below the peak set in July. Unemployment is low, although there are annoying spots of it in auto and farm implement plants that have felt the impact of decreased farmer purchasing.
On the whole, Wisconsin seems to be enjoying a feeling of relaxed, comfortable well-being. This troubles the GOP more than anything else. Consequently, party candidates are putting in some heavy lifts with their own people to stir them up enough to turn out and vote.

Sitting silently on the sidelines is Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, with nobody beseeching him to jump into the campaign.
Eisenhower has classed McCarthy as a senator to whom he can't look for help in putting over a program "for the good of the country." McCarthy was on the losing side in an attempt to prevent the renomination of his fellow senator from Wisconsin, Alexander Wiley.

Wiley looks like a handy winner Nov. 6 over Democratic challenger Henry Maier, the minority leader of the State Assembly.
Democratic leaders figure their best chance of capturing a top office in the state is with William Proxmire, their nominee for governor. They also are eyeing two or three congressional seats now held by Republicans, but more in hopes than certainty. The GOP has 7 of the 10 and is counting on gaining at least one.
As for the presidential race, a prominent farmer, Wilbur Renk, summed up a rather widespread sentiment throughout the state: "The Democrats have definitely staged quite a comeback, although I don't believe the farmers are as dissatisfied as they were last spring. The only thing that would wreck Ike and the Republicans would be if he had a little stomach ache about Oct. 25 and missed one or two TV appearances."
One of the top Democrats in the state, a person who understandably uses a more optimistic tone in his public pronouncements, sized up the presidential contest like this: "I do not think the national ticket is running well in the state. Stevenson is not popular with the masses of the voters and has done little to correct it. His TV appearances have been flat. If he would mingle and mix more, it would help."
"Eisenhower still has a lot of popularity with a lot of voters."

Burglars Take $40,000 In Gems

NEW YORK (AP) — Rooftop burglars ransacked the home of Broadway actress Ruth Gordon Saturday night and stole jewelry valued at $40,000.
They also broke into the house of film star Katharine Hepburn next door but apparently left empty-handed.
Miss Gordon said the thieves took 10 pieces of jewelry, including a massive 75-carat emerald ring worth $15,000. All the jewelry was insured.

New Kind Of Smear

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Democrats' ire has been aroused by what they call a new kind of smear — with shoe polish. Party workers found their headquarters window and signs defaced with long, thick daubs of black polish. Police blamed youthful vandals.
