Aboard Missing Plane

Ground Parties Begin Hunt For Missing Plane

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Ground search parties prepared today to enter the rugged Mt. Silvertip area about 125 miles east of here to look for a Trans-Canada airliner missing with 62 occupants since Sunday night. Eight of the 59 passengers were Americans. Search leaders said their "most promising lead" was a report of a "big blast" in the vicinity of 8,550-foot Mt. Silvertip. The report came from nine persons who were at a ski lodge on the Hope-Princeton highway north of the mountain.

People at the lodge said they heard the blast Sunday night soon after the four-engine North Star, Canadian version of the American DC4, radioed it was returning to Vancouver with an inboard motor disabled.

Air search in the Hope, B. C., area yesterday was fruitless. The plane had taken off from Vancouver for Calgary and points east about an hour before the pilot, Capt. Allan Clark, 35, Montreal, reported the inboard motor on the left side had failed near Hope and he was turning back to Vancouver, some 100 miles away.

Hungarian Delegation Stages U. N. Walk-Out

AND NEW LIVES

200 Refugees Heading For U.S.

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Two hundred fugitives from Communist oppression in Hungary took off today for new lives in the United States at the start of one of history's most spectacular airlifts. The group was the first of 10,000 refugees to be flown before Christmas to the United States in giant C-119 Air Force transports. There were some tears but many more smiles as the fugitives, many of whom had never before left their homeland, departed across the ocean for a mysterious new land with little idea of what was in store for them.

Four planes took off today, carrying 50 women, 41 children and 109 men. They ranged in age from 6-month-old Johanna Toth to 57-year-old Etel Szabo. The flight was to take 26 hours to McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey. Flying weather was reported good.

From McGuire the refugees were to be taken to specially prepared Army barracks at nearby Camp Kilmer. Some hoped relatives, whom they had not seen or heard from in years, would help them find jobs. Others could trust only in a warm-hearted American response. By the weekend, the schedule calls for 500 refugees to depart daily from the U. S. air base in Munich. The military transports are operating from West Germany rather than Austria to avoid any Soviet complaint that Austrian neutrality is being violated. Some 125,000 refugees have crossed from Hungary into tiny Austria in little more than six weeks. All told, 10,000 refugees are to fly to the United States in Operation Safe Haven by Dec. 22.

REDS SEIZE PROPERTIES OF REFUGEES

VIENNA (AP)—The Hungarian government announced over Budapest radio today that property of all persons who have left Hungary since the start of the rebellion Oct. 23 will be seized by the state. More than 130,000 refugees, who have registered in Austria, presumably will be affected by the new government measure unless they return before March 31, 1957. This is the amnesty date previously set by the government for persons who have fled from Hungary. Janitors in Hungary were ordered to report within three days the names of all persons who have left their homes. Authorities then will make an inventory of all property left there.

'Interference' In Internal Affairs Cited

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Hungarian delegation today walked out of the General Assembly in protest against what it called U.N. interference in Hungary's internal affairs.

The surprise move came as the 79-nation Assembly debated a U.S.-sponsored move to condemn the Soviet Union for refusing to withdraw its armed forces from Hungary. Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath led his delegation from the room after charging that some delegations, influenced by the United States, "have attempted to interfere in Hungary's domestic affairs."

"We reject these attempts and shall continue to do so in the future," he said. Horvath told newsmen later he planned to leave tomorrow for Budapest. In his statement to the Assembly, he declared that the U.N. had offended the Hungarian delegation in a way inconsistent with the honor of the Hungarian people. "Therefore," he said, "The Hungarian delegation will not participate in the work of the General Assembly as long as the present situation continues."

All Dressed Up
These two tiny refugees appear prepared for any eventualities as they arrived in San Francisco, Calif., aboard the American President liner "President Cleveland." The boys, Wan Liang Chung, 4½, and his brother, Shing Liang Chung, 3½, were part of a group of 100 refugees coming into the United States under the Refugee Act.

Wild Anti-Russian Riot Reported From Poland

WARSAW (AP)—A wild anti-Russian demonstration was reported today from the big Polish port city of Stettin. Demonstrators marched on the Soviet consulate, smashed windows and tried to break in.

Communist authorities finally recalled in troops and "workers' militia"—club-wielding strong-arm men—to disperse the crowd. Official reports blamed the outbreak on "drunken hooligans." But reliable sources in Stettin said it was the outcome of a planned demonstration by students and young factory workers against events in Hungary.

The demonstration started early last night and continued until midnight. Government papers reported several policemen were beaten up and an undisclosed number of demonstrators arrested. Stettin, on the Oder River estuary 80 miles northeast of Berlin, was the major port of German Pomerania until Poland seized it after World War II. It reportedly was the scene of shooting—still unconfirmed—between Polish and Soviet troops during Poland's "October revolution" which culminated in Moscow's grant of considerable independence to the government of nationalist Communist Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Widow Testifies At Murder Trial

Mrs. Hugh Emmett George, young widow of the Cabot Carbon Company employe who was shot to death on the night of Oct. 3, testified this morning that she had heard her husband had had difficulty with some people in his lifetime but that she had never heard of him making use of a knife in these altercations.

Mrs. George was the final witness before the noon recess in the murder trial of O. R. (Bud) Cross, 24-year-old tavern keeper charged with having shot George to death in his establishment on the night of Oct. 3.

A jury had been chosen from a special venire called for the trial Monday. Court then recessed until Tuesday morning. Cross, after hearing the indictment read, pleaded not guilty to the charge. The jurors are: C. E. Higginbotham, Roy Winans, Charles A. Weez, C. W. Lomax, Tommy Pool; R. B. Thomason, Earl Huzbes, T. Willard Neel, H. L. Bohannon, E. L. Powell, C. H. Wasson and L. B. Hodnett.

Trial got off to a slow start Tuesday morning. Initial delay arose when George Thomas, defense counsel, attacked activities of investigating officers in the search they made of the Cross drive-in. The drive-in, located two miles west of Big Spring, was searched by investigators, it was revealed, after Cross had been arrested and placed in jail.

Thomas contended that such search violated the provisions of the law on search and seizure and argued no search warrant was issued. After a recess in which cases to support or oppose the contention were sought, ruling was delayed and the trial proceeded. Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney's office was the first witness for the state. He testified that he and Floyd Moore, another deputy, received word of the affray at around 12:30 a.m. on Oct. 3. When they reached the place, they found city police already there. The defendant, Davidson said, had already surrendered himself to the police. The deputies took custody of the man and brought him to jail.

At the jail, Davidson said that he asked Cross for the key to the establishment which he related the defendant gave him. He testified he told Cross he and Moore were CHEER FUND BELOW PAR

Lamesa Woman Is Killed In Collision

A two-car collision east of Gail on U. S. 180 at 6:30 p.m. Monday claimed the life of Mrs. B. A. Crumley, 61, of Lamesa. Mrs. Crumley was dead on arrival at the Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder.

Seriously injured was Mrs. Audrey Reese, Plains, a passenger in the car with Mrs. Crumley. W. H. McGee, Colorado City, driver of the pickup truck which was the other machine in the collision, was hurt but not seriously.

Cold Front Headed For State Stalls

A cold front which was headed toward the Texas Panhandle stalled along the Kansas-Oklahoma border Tuesday and the U.S. Weather Bureau said there would be little change in temperatures until at least Wednesday.

The front was first expected to reach the Texas Panhandle Tuesday night. But the weather bureau said a new low pressure area has developed in the Pacific Northwest and the northerly southward movement stopped temporarily. It was mild over most areas of Texas Tuesday.

Temperatures partly cloudy to cloudy over most parts of the state except for some clear patches in West Texas. The only precipitation during the 24 hours ended at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday was in far West Texas. The weather bureau said it was too light to be measurable.

If the Canadian cold air mass reaches the Panhandle Tuesday night as originally forecast, temperatures were expected to plunge as low as 18 degrees. The overnight minimum Tuesday was 32 degrees at Amarillo. Other minimums ranged to 56 degrees at Galveston. Blowing dust, whipped by brisk winds, obscured vision in the Abilene and Childress areas Monday. Temperatures Monday ranged from 63 at Alice to 41 at El Paso, where .31 of an inch of rain fell.

Hungarian Strike Begins As Partisan War Sweeps Nation

BUDAPEST (AP)—Tens of thousands of Hungarian workers today launched a widespread protest strike in defiance of the Russian-imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar.

Transportation in Budapest was badly crippled, but the work stoppage did not appear to be 100 per cent effective. Some business activity apparently was continuing under the pressure of guns of the Hungarian police and Soviet troops.

But many workers did not report to their factories or sit idle when they reached their posts. The call to strike for 48 hours beginning last midnight was issued by the Budapest Central Workers' Council to protest the "antipeoples, antiworkers activities" of the government.

It was not immediately known how effective the strike appeal had proved in the provinces, although there were reports that stoppages had started yesterday in some outlying towns.

The government again clamped down with a partial blackout on long distance telephone service outside the country. The Kadar government replied to the general strike call with new repressive measures, including a decree of martial law, the arrests of some worker leaders and a decree dissolving the Central Workers' Council and its regional bodies.

Refugees crossing into Austria from Hungary said the strike appeared to be spreading over the country despite Kadar's martial law decree and possible Soviet reprisals. Hungarians who left Budapest by train Monday said workers all along the route reported they had been alerted to the strike appeal. Accounts reaching Belgrade said the Hungarian countryside had been swept by outbreaks of partisan warfare in the past two days. They described Budapest itself as relatively calm but said the city was encircled by a steel ring of Soviet armor and guns.

ARGUMENTS END Judge Charges Mail Fraud Jury

HOUSTON (AP)—The month long legal battle to convict South Texas political leader George B. Parr of mail fraud was over today. The fate of Parr and eight associates accused of using the mails in a scheme to defraud the Benavides Independent School District of thousands of dollars was in the hands of the jury.

Federal Judge Allen B. Hannay gave his charge to the jury this morning. Final arguments were completed yesterday. In its effort to prove the complicated case, the government presented 82 witnesses and some 170 exhibits. The defense took the position that the entire case was politically inspired.

U.S. Atty. Malcolm Wilkey charged that Parr and his associates used the school district funds "as one vast personal check account." But Defense Atty. Percy Foreman denied this and said that the prosecution of Parr was a "political persecution directed by State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd."

Parr and eight of his associates and two banks are charged with a mail fraud scheme which the government says lasted more than four years and defrauded the district of more than $200,000. Foreman said he agreed with Wilkey that "there has been a conspiracy in Duval County" but he said "I name as principals in the conspiracy that resulted in this indictment Donato Cerna, John Ben Shepperd, Allan Shivers and Sam Burris." Cerna is a Freedom Party leader in Duval County and Burris is district attorney.

Clothing Collection For Hungary Sunday

One of the great demands for the thousands of people who have fled persecution in Hungary is for clothing. Men, women and children are caught up in the frontiers without a possession to their name. Big Spring people are being urged to help supply this need.

Next Sunday, Dec. 16, has been designated as collection day for clothing for Hungarian relief. A fleet of trucks, manned by volunteer drivers and Boy Scouts, will tour the entire city, from 2 to 5 p.m. You are asked to place bundles of good clothing on your front porch, and these volunteers will pick up the parcels for central handling. The program is under supervision of the Big Spring Pastors' Association. In cooperation with the Church World Service, the full cooperation of the public is urgently solicited. People who are to operate the trucks are asked to meet at the old Herald building (where clothing is to be accumulated for packing) at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Assignments will be made, and the collection carried through swiftly. Meanwhile, request was renewed for additional money to help in the Hungarian cause. Additional gifts today brought the total to $94. A minimum of $533 has been asked of this community. If you will help, please make checks to RED CROSS, and mail them to The Herald for acknowledgment.

Hal March Is Elvis Presley Of Matrons By 'Being Himself'

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP)—When a young man who looks a little like Cary Grant and a little like Perry Como walked into a crowded restaurant the other day, a number of ladies on the weathered side of 50 gazed at him with a teen-aged expression in their eyes.
One at a table of four matrons obviously in from the suburbs for the day stopped him, and loud were the "oohs" and the "ahs." He was gracious and charming, and then he came on to the table where another fellow awaited him.
"How about this?" the fellow asked him. "How did you get to be the matrons' Elvis Presley?"
"I don't know," replied Hal March with a trace of embarrassment. "I don't know anything about it. I only know that the teenagers want no part of me. But Candy loves me and I love Candy and that's all that matters."

Candy Toxton is the pretty model and starlet whom March married last February. He talks about her constantly. It's love, ladies, true love. They're going to have a baby and March doesn't worry about things like careers and stuff because he loves Candy and Candy loves him. So let's just stay maternal about March, ladies.
As everybody who owns a television set knows, March is the master of ceremonies of "The $64,000 Question." An established actor before he began asking the expensive questions, he has appeared in several dramatic television roles this year, most recently with Nanette Fabray and Don Ameche in "High Button Shoes."
Did you know that he turned down his role on the bit question when it was first offered him?

"Sometimes when I remember that I think I must have had rocks in my head," he said. "But I was thinking of myself as an actor and I didn't see how I could add much to a quiz show. But they came back to me and I took the job—somewhat reluctantly." He shook his head wonderingly.
His job on this show he visualizes not as a role but as simply being Hal March. By being relaxed and acting naturally he set rather a new style in quiz show masters of ceremonies—a style which others have tried to imitate with only moderate success.
"Because it's really not a style at all," March says. "It's just being me."
Whatever it is, he certainly has appealed to the television audience. His fan mail averages about 500 letters a week, the great majority of it from persons of mature years. This, he believes, is because the program has many aging contestants.
The vast majority of the letters are complimentary, but once in a while, when March makes a slight slip, the corrective letters pour in. Some time ago when a clergyman appeared on the program, March called him "reverend"—and received nearly 1,000 letters reminding him the proper term of address was "the reverend mister."

Northwest Winds Sweep Cold Air Into Midwest

By The Associated Press
Strong northwest winds swept cold air from the Northern Plains into the snow-covered Midwest today.
The stormy weather lashed Montana, sections of Wyoming and the Dakotas yesterday and during the night. Winds gusts of 70 m.p.h. were reported in some areas. There was considerable blowing and drifting of snow, causing blizzard conditions. Temperatures plunged rapidly as the cold air moved southeastward, with drops of more than 40 degrees reported. Readings were near zero in parts of Montana.

Cold wave conditions were indicated for Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, parts of Minnesota, Nebraska as well as the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming.
A mixture of freezing rain and snow was reported in the belt in the line of the storm, from South Dakota through Upper Michigan. Snow also fell in the colder air zone.

U.N. Ouster Of Russian Uroed

DALLAS (AP)—Rogers Kelley, national chairman of the American Legion Foreign Relations Committee, said yesterday that Russia should be thrown out of the United Nations because of "its murderous rape of Hungary."
Kelley, a state senator from Edinburg, Tex., spoke at a meeting of the Dallas American Legion.
He said Russia could be expelled from the U.N. under terms of the U.N. Charter's Article 6, as a "persistent violator of the principles contained in the charter."
The United States, Kelley said, should abandon its present "hypocritical policy of associating with representatives of Soviet Russia and its satellites in the U.N."
Kelley said he frankly doubted that the U.N. would ever take the necessary action to expel Russia and its satellites.
The only sensible alternative, Kelley said, is for the United States to "re-evaluate its dependence upon the U.N. as a basic instrument of American foreign policy. Certainly the events of the past few weeks demand a re-evaluation."

U.S. Disturbed By Signs Of Unrest Of Okinawa Natives

By JAMES CARY
NAHA, Okinawa, Dec. 11 (AP)—Down the main street of Naha the long column of demonstrating students from Ryukyus University surged.
"Go home Yankee! Go home Yankee!"
It was July 27, 1956. The United States was getting its first bitter taste of unrest on Okinawa. More was to come. Soon the chant would be, "Tear down the American flag" and, "Reversion to Japan."
How did the United States become involved in this semicolonial mess with all its overtones of a revived Japanese nationalism? What is it doing about it?

American problems on this teeming 462-square-mile island arise primarily from taking 40,000 acres of land for military purposes and our announced intention of taking 12,000 more.
Of Okinawa's 296,206 total acres, only 80,000 are arable. The United States already is using 16,000 arable acres and will take 3,000 more with the new acquisition.
Since the war the population has soared to 801,000 on an island that can adequately support only half that number.
At least three other factors can be added to this recital of sources of Okinawan unrest.
First, President Eisenhower, on Jan. 17, 1954, said U.S. troops would remain in Okinawa "indefinitely," a term difficult for simple farmers to grasp.
Second, the State Department has emphasized Japan retains "residual sovereignty," but is showing no signs of returning Okinawa to the Japanese.
And third, the tremendous physical and social changes that have come with the U.S. occupation, ripping up the old, traditional and familiar, and substituting the strange, the new—and therefore suspect — ways of the Western world.

The Okinawa Peoples Party—OPP—called "Communist controlled" by two U.S. deputy governors of the Ryukyus—has been the chief troublemaker within Okinawa. It is led by ace propagandist Kamejiro Senaga.
Probably even more dangerous to the U.S. administration are the Japan Communist—JCP—and Socialist—JSP—parties. Top confidential sources pinpoint both as principal sources of agitation flowing into Okinawa from the outside.

going to return to the tavern and search it. It was this testimony which precipitated the first of the technical trials between Thomas and Jones. Frank Glasscock, a city patrol car officer, was called as the next state witness. Glasscock related that on the night of the shooting he was patrolling on West Third, when he saw an ambulance pass him going west.

The ambulance asked him by radio where Bud's Drive-In was located. He set out to guide the ambulance to the scene. He did not, he said, hear any word on his police radio, which he said was on, of any difficulty at the tavern. When he reached the tavern, he said the ambulance made an error and went to another location. While it was returning to the scene, he drove up to the tavern.

Cross, he related, was standing in front of the tavern. The proprietor came to the police car. He told Glasscock, the officer testified, that he had shot a man. Asked if the man was dead, Cross was a quoted by Glasscock as saying he did not know — but that he did not believe he was dead.

Cross sat in the police car and Glasscock said he went into the tavern and took possession of a .25-caliber pistol which he found where Cross had told him the weapon would be. He picked the gun up in a paper sack, Glasscock said and did not examine it closely. Later, he said, he turned the weapon over to county officials. When Moore and Davidson arrived, Glasscock said he relinquished custody of Cross to them.

The shooting, he explained, was outside the city of Big Spring and not in police jurisdiction. In the meantime, Jones had identified a pistol, a clip from a pistol, a shirt, pair of trousers and other garments which West had identified as belonging to the dead man. Part of these, West said, he had picked up at the hospital where George died and the others at the mortuary. Jones did not introduce the clothing at the time. Mrs. George was then called to the stand. She identified the clothing as belonging to her late husband.

She said that her husband to whom she had been married five years, worked from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. daily. He did not come home on Oct. 2 until 6 p. m., she testified. They ate supper, she said, and then George left the house in their car. It was on cross-examination by Thomas that the widow admitted she had heard of her husband having difficulty with other people but she denied any specific knowledge of the instances. She also denied any knowledge of Thomas' suggestion that George had been known to have drawn a knife on people with whom he quarreled.

Thomas' efforts to pinpoint specific difficulties in which George was involved brought objections from District Attorney Gil Jones. When cross-examination of the widow had been completed, Judge Charlie Sullivan recessed court for lunch. More than two score spectators were in the court room today — a majority of whom were women.

Employees at Cunningham and Phillips Drug at 905 Johnson found an old typewriter behind the building this morning. The typewriter had been used by one of the employees who was missing one day. It was brought to the police station.

MARKETS
WALL STREET — Stock market prices did not rise in early trading today. Except for aircraft, pivotal issues showed losses from fractions to around a point. Brokers said the market was apparently continuing its late decline of yesterday on profit-taking after the big rise of the previous week. In addition, Treasury borrowing costs on 15-day bills rose to still another 23-year high, a further reminder of the tight money situation. After a fairly active opening, the pace of trading slowed. Small losses prevailed all day, but there was nothing emphatic about the decline. There were a few gains. Youngsters, which was off nearly a point at the opening, recovered for a slight gain. U. S. Steel was fractionally ahead. Boeing, United and Lockheed led were all fractional gainers. But Du Pont was down around 2. Kennecott Copper, Anaconda and International Nickel lost a bit of ground. Most leading rails eased. Among losers were Santa Fe-Pennsylvania Railroad, Ford, Goodrich, Goodyear, Westinghouse Electric, A.T. & T., Texas Co., and U. S. Gypsum. Gulf Oil and Royal Dutch lost about a point each.

grenades at police and said the miners' group harbored Fascist elements. Budapest radio gave a similar account and said similar incidents had occurred at Tata, Bekescsaba and Battonya. Budapest had a Sunday appearance in wintry sunshine today. Many shops were closed. There was no private car traffic and no buses or taxis. A few street cars operated. Nearly everybody was walking.

Some of the biggest public utility plants were working, but most of the factories and mines were closed. There was a complete work stoppage in the huge iron and steel works on Csepel Island, in the Danube south of Budapest. The same situation prevailed in Standard Electric's plant, now called the Bejlanis Factory. This factory has nearly 6,000 workers, but only members of its workers' council and some Communist party functionaries showed up. The Ganz Railway Car Plant was deserted except for a Russian armored car out in front.

Cotton Future Discussed Here
Cotton raisers were meeting with representatives of the National Cotton Council here today for a report on the competitive position of cotton in relation to other fibers.

The meeting got under way at 2 p. m. at the city auditorium. John Gregg, Lubbock, and other NCC leaders from Memphis, Tenn., were conducting the discussions in cooperation with local farm leaders.

The NCC representatives reported on an analysis of cotton's competitive position and outlined steps producers can take to improve the outlook for cotton. They explained that markets can be broadened through research and promotion.

A similar meeting was held in Stanton Monday. About 110 persons attended. Gerald Hansen, Martin County agent, was in charge.

Vincent Astor Carries On An Old Tradition Of The Family

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP)—Vincent Astor is carrying on a family tradition as a major New York City real estate holder, but with a decidedly new twist. Where previous members of the famous family, starting with the original John Jacob Astor in 1784, traditionally had been content to hold their land while it grew in value, Vincent Astor also is acting as a large-scale land developer. Astor Plaza, his latest project, will turn a New York block of apartment buildings, brownstone houses and stores into a graceful, 46-story office building with a million square feet of office space and a 75-million-dollar lab. The project, which may turn out to be a sort of memorial, is typical of the business philosophy of the last of the really rich Astors. He and several associates also started construction last year on a 17-million-dollar office building in Cleveland, the first major modern office building in the Ohio city in nearly 30 years. In addition, Astor has an interest in the new produce exchange building planned at 2 Broadway in the heart of New York's downtown financial district.

The Astor Plaza project is still taking shape. "We've just moved a tower 20 feet," he said joyfully in an interview—but applications for space have been coming in fast. While, gratifying, this comes as no great surprise to Astor. He is concentrating his holdings in the midtown, Park Avenue section, which he believes will become "the finest headquarters for business and industrial firms in the world." The change in Park Avenue in a way symbolizes another change Vincent Astor is making in the family tradition. Earlier generations had extensive holdings in homes, apartment houses and even some tenements. Now, however, the emphasis is on office buildings, and the last tenements were sold years ago. Astor declined to make an estimate of the worth of his real estate holdings other than to say they were worth "more" than the 40 million dollars he pegged them at in 1938. Pressed for qualification, he said their value is "substantially more" than in 1933. Astor also has interests in oil, shipping, hotels, securities and publishing, but he declined to estimate their worth.

What will happen to the family fortune in the future, since Astor, 65 years old Nov. 15 and three times married, is childless. "Well, I have a small foundation presently," he said, referring to the Astor Foundation. "I hope it will be a good deal larger when I'm dead."

The foundation, whose aim he described as "the alleviation of human misery," does mostly medical work, concentrating especially on cancer and surgical research.

Vincent Astor has kept away from the extensive social life once practiced by the family. It was his grandmother, incidentally, who gave the name "400" to the upper levels of New York society, for that was the capacity of her ballroom in the gay nineties.

Vincent Astor came into the 70-million dollar fortune, started by the original John Jacob Astor with five golden guineas (about $2.94), when his father went down with the Titanic in 1912. Vincent, then a 20-year-old student at Harvard, left his school books to look after the family's books. He's still at it.

British Receive International Loan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Great Britain has been extended credits of $1,300,000,000 by the International Monetary Fund to help her ride out a financial storm brought on primarily by the Middle East crisis.

The action was announced last night by the 60-nation fund created in 1947 to help nations caught in such situations to maintain stable currencies.

Of the credit advanced, $361,740,000 is designed to add to Britain's monetary reserves, which have sunk below the two-billion-dollar figure regarded by the London government as a minimum for safe financial dealings.

The additional $738,530,000 was made available upon request of the British government at any time within the next 12 months.

Britain will be charged from 2 to 3½ per cent interest on the credits, depending on when she repays the money advanced.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It can cost more to hate Elvis Presley than to love him here. A downtown stand sells "I hate Elvis" buttons for 15 cents. "I love Elvis" emblems cost only a dime. The vendor says he had to cut the price of the "love" buttons because they weren't selling.

'56 Gold Star Winners Are Honored At Stanton

STANTON (SC) — Meet the Gold Star boy and girl of Martin County for 1956.

They are Craig Beckmeyer who made a bale of cotton to the acre on five inches of rain and Jonnie Rhodes who climaxed five years of 4-H Club work by also winning the 1956 leadership award.

The Gold Star medals were presented at the annual Achievement Banquet of the Martin County 4-H Clubs last night. About 275 persons attended the event in the American Legion Hall.

Numerous other awards also were presented by Farm Agent Gerald Hansen, Home Demonstration Agent Mildred Filand, and district agents Ray Siegmund and Vida Holt.

Young Beckmeyer also climaxed five years of club work with a double victory last night. He received one of the field crops awards before being recognized as the Gold Star winner.

Beckmeyer's winning project was a five-acre patch of dryland cotton. The field received only five inches of rain during the year, but he harvested 555 pounds of lint per acre.

The other field crops award went to Bobby Kelly who harvested about two bales per acre from a patch of irrigated-cotton.

Miss Rhodes, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rhodes, was presented with the leadership award before receiving her Gold Star. She has been in the 4-H Club five years and has conducted demonstrations in foods, clothing, home improvement, yards and gardens, and has served on the 4-H council for two years. She has been the district council representative this year and was a delegate to the 4-H Roundup at College Station.

Beckmeyer's five years of 4-H Club participation included membership on the livestock judging team and numerous cattle, sheep and swine projects. All commercial animals he has raised graded prime. He exhibited the champion gilt at the local show last year.

Bobby Sale was winner of the district J. T. Rutherford Award. Sale and Ronnie George received the boys' achievement awards. Phillip Bryant and Daniel Leon Cave were recipients of the meat animal awards. Fred Houston won the boys' recreation award. Jimmy Miller copped the leadership badge and David Poe and Steve Springer received poultry awards.

In the girls' division, Virginia House won the public speaking medal. Alice Sim the clothing award. Joyce Green the frozen food award. Barbara Hill, Brenda George and Marsha Bristow, the dress review awards and Sandra Miller the achievement award.

Dawson Commissioners OK Purchase Of Airport Site

LAMESA — The Dawson County Commissioners Court Monday approved purchase of site for an airport from Ray Orson.

The measure gave the county judge, Aubrey Boswell, authority to go ahead with plans to purchase the site in cooperation with the city of Lamesa when the two receive official notification of approval from the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

The Court approved the bonds of incoming officers of the county, and approved a $300 annual raise for P. G. VanderLinden, court reporter for the 106th Judicial District.

In other business, the commissioners approved a $700 charity hospital bill at Lamesa General Hospital. The county pays about 40 per cent of the total billing to the indigent patients at the hospitals here.

THEN ANOTHER Commission Sets Early Meeting

City commissioners will start their regular meetings 15 minutes early today in an attempt to finish in time for another meeting later.

The city is host to the Permian Basin Water and Sewage Association tonight, and a chili supper is scheduled for the visitors at 6:50 p.m. Commissioners plan to start their meeting at 5 p.m. and try to finish in time to attend the supper and meeting.

Zoning changes and a dog ordinance are the only important matters facing the group. City Manager H. W. Whitney said this morning.

At a meeting Monday night, the planning and zoning commission approved changing the zone on a block and a half area. The area is west of Main between Ninth and 10th Streets and extends to the alley between Scurry and Gregg.

The zoning board approved changing the area from a B (two party residence) to an F (business) zone. The half block from Gregg eastward to the alley is already zoned F.

Final decision for the change is left to the city commission which will act on it tonight.

The zoning board also approved a plat for an addition to the Monticello Addition, and that plat will also be submitted to the commissioners tonight.

An ordinance that gives the city tighter control over dogs here will also be submitted to the group tonight. The ordinance was drawn up by City Manager H. W. Whitney and Walton Morrison, city attorney, last week.

It will take three readings at separate commission meetings to pass the ordinance should the commission approve it as it stands. The ordinance would call for a pound and food fee for any dog

Ceilings Set For Braceros

Ceilings on the number of Mexican nationals which can be employed in Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties through Jan. 31, 1957, were announced today by the Texas Employment Commission and the Department of Labor.

The number of braceros in Howard County for the period from Dec. 1 through Jan. 31 may not exceed 185.

The Martin County ceiling is 235. Glasscock farmers and ranchers may use up to 35 Mexican nationals.

The ceilings are determined by the demand for labor in comparison to the number of domestic workers available for the jobs.

Parents Association To Meet Wednesday

The Howard County Handicapped Children's Parents Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the science lecture room at the Howard County Junior College.

Mrs. F. L. Bass, a teacher in the Big Spring schools, will speak on "Methods of Teaching the Handicapped." A color film of last summer's water therapy program here will be shown.

Missionaries Speak

LAMESA — Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Thompson, missionaries to Bucaramanga, Colombia, South America, spoke at the United Pentecostal Church last weekend. The Thompsons, who are natives of England, are on tour from their mission post, and related their experiences of the past two years spent in Colombia.

Parks Director Hired At C-City

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Council voted Monday night to employ a Parks and Recreation director at a salary of $4,600, which includes car expense.

The council approved the appointment of William Brown, 30-year-old Norman, Okla., man. Brown had held a similar post with the city of Norman, but following the discontinuance of the recreation program at Norman, Brown had been employed at Tinker Air Force Base.

City Manager Rollin K. Sneath told the council that the program would cost about $15,000 per year and that the money could be raised in three ways — by raising the tax rate 25 cents on the hundred dollars of valuation, by an increase in water rates, or by making a charge of 75 cents to $1 per month on garbage collections. Sneath pointed out that presently, the garbage pick-up is operated as a city service and no charge is made.

Sneath said that until the next budget is prepared, the expenses of the program would have to be met by a transfer of funds. The council approved the transfer of $1,000 from a contingency fund and $7,000 from a fund earmarked for park equipment, to the new program.

The council also voted to buy two new police cars from the Frank Motor Company. The council accepted the low bid of four received.

The council voted to bring the cemetery, rodeo grounds, and Rudwick Park within the city limits. Sneath said that this would give the city police powers within the area.

Chaplain Ludlum Finishes Course

First Lt. William J. Ludlum, Catholic chaplain, 3660th Pilot Training Wing, Webb AFB, was awarded the certificate of successful accomplishment upon completing the course on marriage counseling at Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C.

Chaplain Ludlum was one of 29 priests, all Air Force chaplains from bases in 21 states, who attended the four-week course at the institute. This is the first time so extensive a course in marriage counseling has been given to U. S. Chaplains.

The institute, under the direction of Dr. Alphonse H. Clemens, of the sociology department of Catholic University and head of the University's marriage counseling center, featured lectures by outside speakers, including psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, social service experts, and heads of family movements.

Lamesa Scouts Sell Christmas Trees

LAMESA — Boy Scout Troop 22 began sale of Christmas trees Friday according to Joe Spikes, scoutmaster.

The annual tree sale, which has been a fund raising project of the troop for the past several years, will continue through Christmas week. Trees of the "non-shed" variety came from the Rockies of Montana and range in size from two to 12 feet.

Local Students To Offer Bills At Youth-In-Government Meet

Twelve Big Spring Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y members will go to Austin this week for the annual Youth-In-Government conference and while there, they will present a variety of bills for consideration.

These bills will range from state problems to teen-age matters. Each group will sponsor one bill.

The three-day conference begins Thursday, and the 12 will be accompanied by Mrs. Lee Rogers, Mrs. Clyde Thomas, Mrs. Barbara Maves, Bobo Hardy, and Clyde McMahon.

Attending will be Lewis Porter, Jerry McMahan, Johnny Phillips, George Peacock, James Howard Stephens, Sue Boykin, Lou Ann White, Jacqueline Smith, Barbara Coffee, Kathleen Thomas, Peggy Isaacks, and Toni Thomas, who will be a committee chairman.

Each group selected a topic for a bill and then asked civic leaders to talk to them about it. After these discussions, the members drew up the proposed bills, complete with saving clauses. Saving clauses state that if any part of the bill is contrary to the Constitution, that phase will be deleted.

The standard forms used in the state Legislature were followed in preparing the bills.

Seba Tri-Hi-Y went to a civic matter for its proposal. This bill will be presented to the conference by Kathleen Thomas, Peggy Isaacks, and Toni Thomas. The group wants a bill passed to require cities to use all money collected from parking meters and overtime parking tickets exclusively to purchase and maintain meters and to purchase additional off-street parking areas.

The bill would cover all cities in the state that use parking meters.

Seba Tri-Hi-Y contends that the persons who drive and park downtown bear a greater part of the expense of city operation than other citizens when parking money is channeled into the general fund. The bill would make it a prison offense for a city official to violate the regulation.

Iota Tri-Hi-Y's bill calls for all persons above 17 years of age to be able to vote in Texas and without a poll tax.

All persons 18 and over would have to register with the county tax collector and pay a 25-cent fee to cover administrative costs. Persons over 65 would not be required to pay the administrative fee, however.

The group felt that 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote and that no poll tax should be needed. A survey at the high school showed the same result, the petition said. Barbara Coffee will present the bill at Austin.

The Sophomore Hi-Y wants a bill passed making drag strips mandatory for all cities in the state with a population over 20,000, where it is needed and interest in

This proposed drag strip would be operated by an auto club only on certain days and would not be a part of a state highway. The group's bill also contains a clause covering punishment for persons violating the rules of the drag strip.

Stephens is a member of the soph Hi-Y and will present the bill for consideration this week.

Feta Tri-Hi-Y will propose a bill ordering a revision of the state Constitution. Sue Boykin, Lou Ann White, and Jacqueline Smith will present the bill.

The group stated in its bill that since the present Constitution was ratified in 1876, it had been amended 121 times. The bill would call for a constitutional convention before June of 1957.

Stronger punishment for hot check passers is the idea of a bill drafted by the Junior Hi-Y, which will be presented by Phillips and Peacock. It would make worthless check passing a greater offense than it is now.

Senior Hi-Y wants compulsory driver education for schools with an enrollment of over 200 in high school.

Special two-control cars would also be required and each student would be instructed to take one semester's work in driver education.

McMahan and Porter will present the bill in Austin.

CRMWD Officials On Water Program

E. V. Spence will be principal speaker for the monthly meeting of the Permian Basin Water and Sewage Association to be held here tonight.

The city will be host to the group and will serve a chili supper at 6:30 p.m. After the supper, the meeting will be held in the city auditorium.

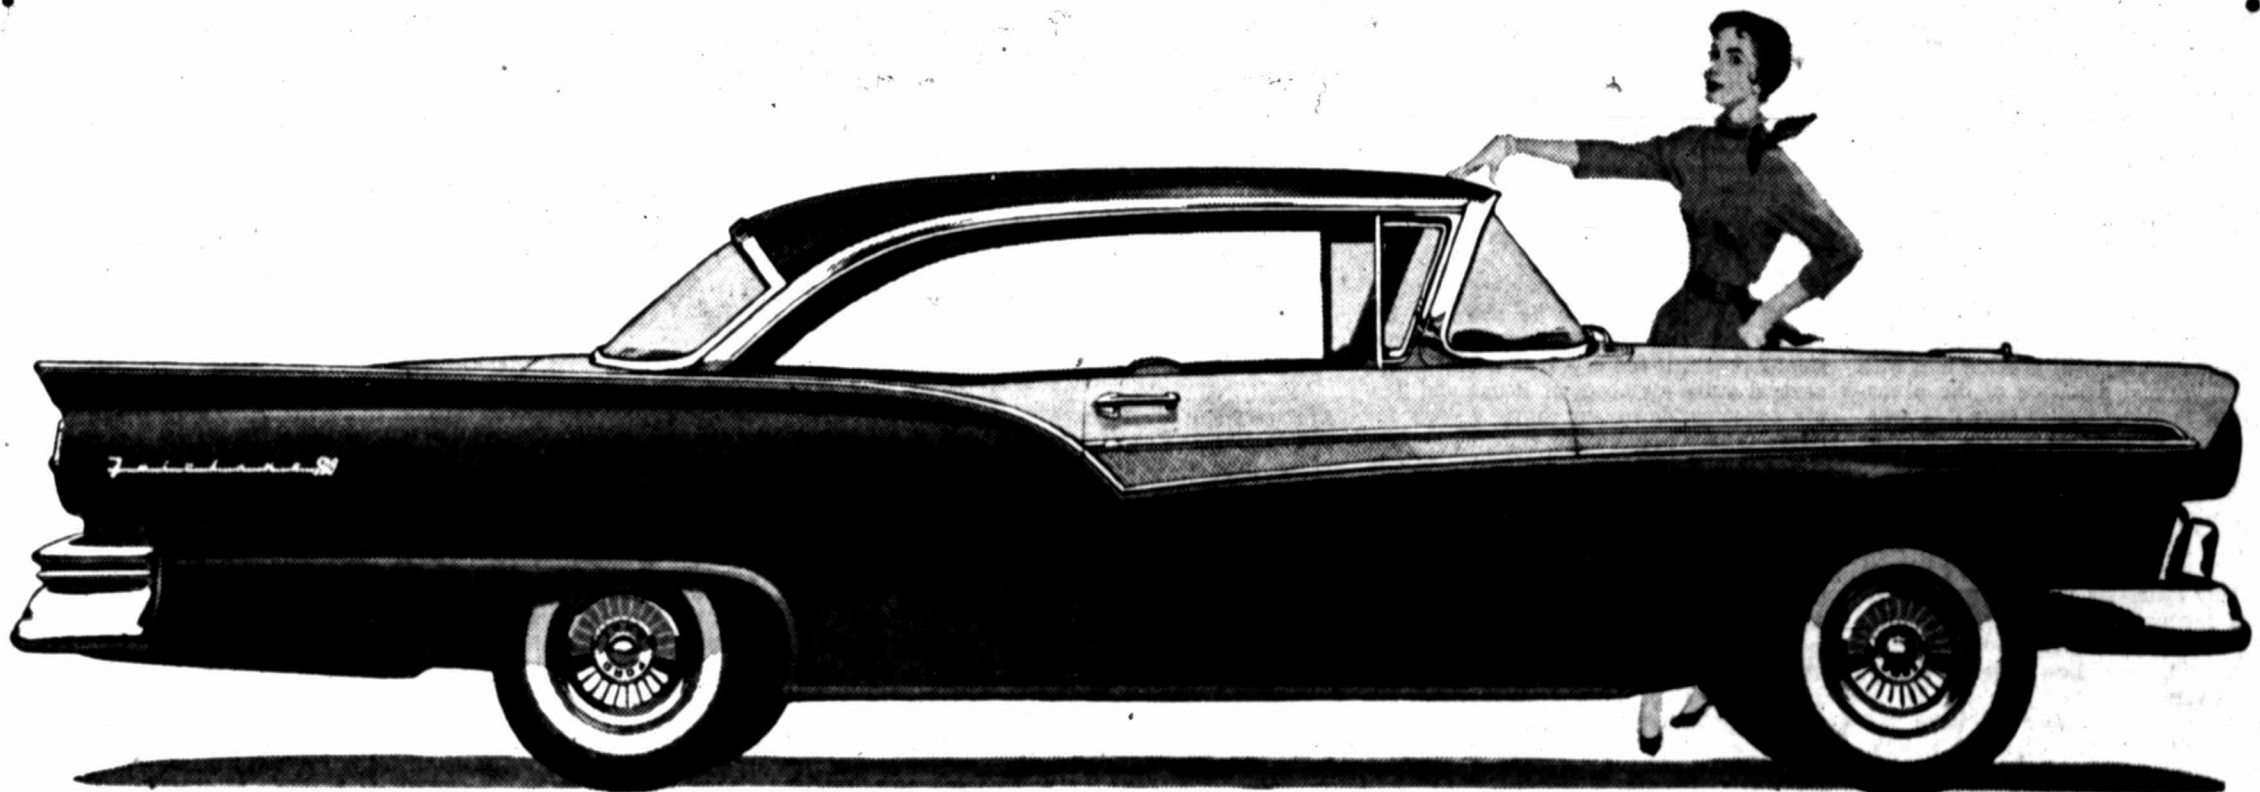

Spence will speak on personnel problems, and following his talk, O. H. Ivie, production manager for CRMWD, and T. K. Richardson, production superintendent for the same organization, will lead a panel discussion.

Roy Hester, water production superintendent for the city, is vice president of the Permian Basin group and planned the program.

Lamesa Yearbook Receives Award

LAMESA — The Lamesa High School "Turned" yearbook received an "All-Texas" award at the annual Texas High School Press Association meeting at Denton Saturday.

David Olson, editor of the annual, was on hand to receive the award. Don Emory, a former Lamesan now attending Amarillo High School, won first place in newspaper in the contest. Special features on the program were a speech by Boyce House, noted Southwestern humorist, and musical selections by Rise Stevens, Metropolitan Opera star.

You can see that Ford's longer, lower Sculptured Look makes other cars look downright old-fashioned. But the part you can't see—the new "Inner Ford"—is what shows its stuff when you drive a Ford. It's completely revolutionary from the wheels up! And it feels it.

Ford's remarkable new, wider frame lets you sit sweet and low. It lets Ford hug the roads because of its lower center of gravity. And Ford's new front suspension, rear springs and new easy handling are part of the scheme to make you think every road is cloud-smooth.

The magic touch of the new Ford power plants makes mountains disappear. What looks like uphill feels like downhill. You get this surging power in a wide choice of new Silver Anniversary V-8 engines. Or you can choose Ford's new, more economical Mileage Maker Six, the most powerful Six ever offered in the low-price field.

There's magic in Ford's price tag, too! You won't believe this big new Ford is still priced Ford-low. But it is. Come in and test the magic of the new kind of Ford. It's a real "Wizard of Ah-h-h-h's!"

A Bible Thought For Today

Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied. (I Samuel 17:45)

Free World Watches Great Test

The free world watches anxiously as one of the great experiments in modern history is carried out in blood and turmoil. What is being tested in Hungary today is whether a people virtually unarmed except with courage and determination, can throw off the galling yoke of a foreign conqueror who does not hesitate to use every barbarous trick of a soulless totalitarianism to break their necks and their spirits.

Reason would tell us that the heroic effort of the Hungarian people is doomed to failure. But just as it is difficult to imagine the ruthless lengths to which fanatic and unrestrained communism will go to hold its gains, so it is impossible for people who have never tested the humiliation and terror of absolute oppression to understand how multitudes of thousands of people gladly and heroically offer their lives as a sacrifice on the altar of freedom.

It has been demonstrated time and again that a comparative handful of troops employing terroristic tactics can cow and browbeat millions of people into submission. That has happened countless times in history, no longer ago than Hitler, Tojo—and Stalin.

But where a whole people—men, women and children, and in the case of Hungary, tens of thousands of professing Communists as well—make up their minds to resist to the last ounce of their strength, we have a situation not without parallel in history, but so rare as to arouse the astonishment and admiration of all the free world.

A people who refuse to count the cost in personal sacrifice and danger, who are not only willing but eager to pay the supreme price of liberty, confront the Communist "masters" in Hungary today, Russian as well as native.

Such people are hard to handle, and in the end they may prove to be impossible to handle. They refuse to work. They refuse to take orders from men with blaring machine guns in their hands. They refuse to take orders from puppet and invader alike.

They are ready to die to free their country of the hated oppressor. They are dying in countless secret recesses of city and countryside. They are being deported—even little children—to suffer and die elsewhere.

What the world is witnessing in Hungary today is a brave people, almost with empty hands but with determination to be free or to die, testing in behalf of all free peoples everywhere whether naked tyranny and ruthless oppression can conquer a people who refuse to be conquered.

The outcome of their struggle could very well determine whether the world of the immediate future is to live in freedom or to waste away in savage oppression.

President Will Have Plenty To See

President Eisenhower's scheduled tour of inspection of the Southwestern drought area in mid-January will provide him with plenty of physical evidence of the seven-year blight that has settled over this area, and no doubt he will get a store of information regarding its economic effects; but just what use the information and impression he gains can be put to isn't clear.

After all, this drought has been going on a good long time—six to seven years. The plight of farmers and ranchers has been brought to official attention time after time, resulting in some federal action, none of it very effective.

Many ranchers and farmers have lost everything they had. In recent months even the breeding stock has been sold off under distress conditions, and once the great drought is broken with the coming of the rains there will be need of substantial help in financing the costly and laborious rebuilding of herds that have dwindled to the vanishing point or altogether disappeared.

The information he gathers on his trip to the area will stand the President in good stead in recommending congressional action and in pushing through whatever legislation may be indicated or desirable.

But perhaps it would be more to the point, and more productive of congressional action, if the dry area could induce several score members of House and Senate to come down and have a look for themselves.

For this drought is a national calamity of no small magnitude, affecting not only the income and well-being of several million people over a period of years, but creating conditions that will affect the food-and-fiber production of the area for some years to come.

There are no short-term answers to the many problems posed by this natural phenomenon, except insofar as federal aid may be given in tiding its victims over the hump for the time being. But in the long haul, and as a guarantee that this condition won't be repeated, a complete revolution in the agricultural practices of the vast region subject to periodic drought will be a necessity.

Millions of acres in the Southwest should never have known the plow. While the soil bank idea may result in the retirement of some of this acreage by slow degrees, the great need is to find a way to retire it from cultivation forever and a day, and return it to the grazing role for which nature seems to have devised it.

U.S. Needs To Accept Responsibility

WASHINGTON—What must be done to restore the Western alliance must in large measure be done in Europe. But there is a great responsibility which the United States cannot evade, and this is to supply leadership and all that this means in terms of positive, constructive plans for the troubled areas of the earth.

It is all very well to say that we are only one member of a partnership and that we will, therefore, wait for what comes out of the collective effort of the United Nations or the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. With respect to the U. N., following the British-French fiasco in Egypt, this may have been in the immediate aftermath a necessary fiction.

But for the long pull it simply will not suffice.

The most persistent question put to almost every American in Europe is: When is the United States going to come forward with a comprehensive plan for the Middle East? Without such a plan, difficult as it may be to formulate in view of America's widely conflicting interests, there can be no settlement.

Perhaps the hardest lesson America has had to learn in the decade since the end of the war is that with America's vast wealth and power there must go a commensurate degree of responsibility if the West is to win out in the struggle with Communism without resort to war.

In the Middle East, the fact of America's wealth and power has aroused dark suspicion. It is common belief in France and England that the American oil companies have been scheming and plotting with the backing of the American government to drive British and French interests out of the region.

This is the interpretation put on America's stand since the French-British invasion of Egypt. How far it has gone is illustrated by a piece of folklore whispered from one end of France to the other and which has had currency in England, too.

Shortly before the Egyptian invasion the French arrested five Algerian rebel leaders who had been conferring with the Sultan of Morocco in Rabat by arbitrarily rerouting the plane in which they were traveling, a plane technically under the control of the independent Moroccan government.

This was, incidentally, an act of unparalleled folly which inflamed anew the rabid Nationalists, not only in Algeria but in Tunis and Morocco.

Taken with the principal of the five leaders, Ben Bela, was a mass of documents that the government in Paris has been translating and studying ever since.

You can hear from practically anybody you talk to in France that one of these documents is a letter from the Arabian American Oil Company (Aramco) to Ben Bela promising him active support for his independence movement if, in return, he will pledge that Aramco can develop in cooperation with a new independent Algeria the huge oil resources that are said to have been discovered in the Sahara desert.

So widespread was this report that after Premier Guy Mollet had privately given assurances that no such document existed, the American embassy took the unusual step of asking if he would be willing to issue a public denial.

Apparently the only reference in Ben Bela's papers to America was the name and telephone number of an official in Washington. As this is written no denial has been issued.

In past years the rivalry of the big oil companies, with the backing of their respective countries, has undoubtedly played a part in the violent intrigues of the Middle East. If the untouched oil wealth of the Sahara—some reports put it as greater than that of the entire Middle East—is half of what current belief would have it, then this same rivalry would very likely be part of the struggle for Algerian independence in the pattern so long prevailing.

What this points up is the need for an over-all plan sponsored by America which would include some means of allocating oil revenues on a more equitable basis.

Such an effort for the area, that would among other things undertake gradually to diminish the Arab-Israeli hatred, calls for what has been lacking in the Middle East—knowledge, skill, determination, courage and above all infinite patience and a willingness to use American aid for a commonly accepted goal.

It will not be enough to hand out help to the men at the top—to the sultans, the kings and the sheiks. To do merely that would be to court a repetition of the China disaster when American policy was based on Chiang Kai-shek and the clique around him while Communism appealed to the masses and succeeded in winning them over in sufficient numbers to consolidate a dictatorial grip on the country.

In their approach to the Middle East, American policy-makers have just ahead a singular opportunity in the visit of India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

If out of Nehru's talks with President Eisenhower there could come agreement on the general outline of a common policy in the area, a long step forward would have been taken. Nehru's cooperation would greatly enhance the prospect for acceptance of such a plan.

This may sound like a visionary hope. It will have little chance of realization if V. K. Krishna Menon sits at Nehru's elbow with his counsel of jealousy and suspicion. But the shock of recent events has been so great and the threat of total loss is so formidable that only a large and bold outlook can hold any hope at all. Locking One In, The Other Out

British Loan May Clear The Air

WASHINGTON—The loan of $1,300,000,000 to Britain by the International Monetary Fund last night may clear the Washington air for a while, at least. It was getting confused toward the end of last week.

Britain had suffered economic damage from her joint attack with France on Egypt. For one thing, the invasion cost money. For another, oil supplies from the Middle East were shut off when the Suez Canal was blocked.

The United States is going to make up a part of the oil loss by shipping oil from here. Nevertheless, Britain showed she still was in an economic squeeze by asking this country to waive nearly $2 million dollars in interest on previous debts.

Keeping the British economy healthy is in the interest of the United States. A collapse in Britain would be felt around the world, particularly in Western Europe.

Last Thursday some high authorities in the government were talking of increased aid to Britain, not as big as the Marshall Plan, but, nevertheless, sizable. But the talk was vague.

On Thursday night Vice President Nixon touched on the same subject in a New York speech although he too was vague when he said:

"I believe it is in our interest as well as theirs (the British) in this hour of difficulty, and I am confident that there will be strong bipartisan support in Congress for granting such assistance."

It seemed unlikely Nixon would talk like that unless he knew he was stating administration thinking.

As if to make it official, James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, said that:

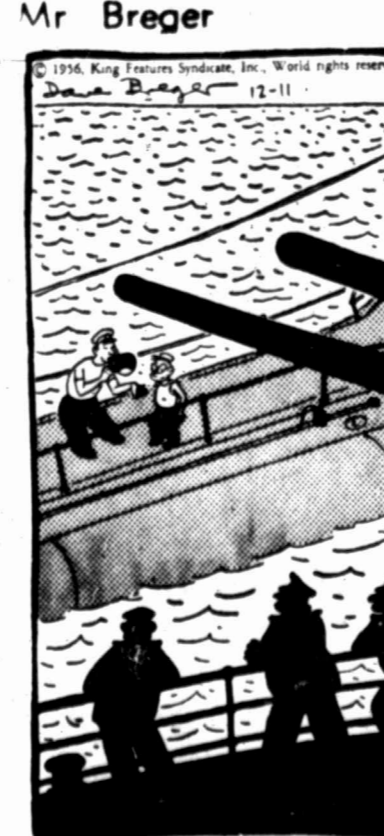

Jury To Jug

DETROIT—A man here was quickly demoted from the jury to the jug. He was sentenced to two days in jail when he showed up drunk for jury duty in suburban St. Clair Shore.

Not Playing Possum

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Police Officer Jack Hazel was called to the scene of an office building where an opossum was found taking a nap. Hazel removed the sleepy animal and presented it to several young boys who may make the possum a pet... or a meal.

Mr Breger

"Man here wants to transfer OUT of submarine squadron—says he can't sleep with all the windows closed..."

while Eisenhower didn't see the Nixon speech beforehand, "the vice president knows the policies of the President."

So administration thinking seemed to be in the direction of fresh aid for Britain, to be voted by Congress. But on Saturday night Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey appeared to throw cold water on this notion. Speaking in New York, he said:

"Some of the estimates for financial support have been greatly exaggerated. The fact is that in all probability existing institutions will be able to provide most of the assistance that may be needed."

Diamonds Man's Best Buy

NEW YORK—The husbands of America may hate me for disclosing this, but—

Diamonds are a better buy this year than Santa Claus will probably find them for many a Christmas to come.

Most of women's other necessities—brassieres, motor cars, and toenail polish—are higher than they were 10 years ago. Diamonds are cheaper.

A 1 1/2 carat diamond that sold for $110 to $225 in 1946, during the postwar marriage surge, sells for $90 to $220 today. A one-carat diamond that ranged from $665 to $1,275 in 1946 can be had now for $345 to $1,175.

But not for long, an industry spokesman warns.

"This will be the last year for a long time in which diamond prices will be lower than they were in the top price year of 1946," said Albert Haase, president of the Jewelry Industry Council.

"The number of marriages is increasing again, and should continue rising until about 1975. And the demand is getting bigger in other ways. More diamonds are being used in wedding rings. Men, too, are again wearing more diamonds—in cufflinks, lodge rings and fraternal pins."

As a matter of fact diamonds were regarded as a man's best friend until about 500 years ago.

The king of gems was reserved for the adornment of the male sex. Women were nothing but chattels, and to give them diamonds would have seemed as outlandish as to put a gold ring in a pig's nose.

The gal who changed this sensible way of life was named Agnes Sorel, a brassy dame in the court of Charles VII, who ruled France from 1422 to 1461. "The bum!"

Aggie had her eyes out for dopey Charles, but she was no prettier than a dozen other dames with the same idea. What could she do to charm him?

Well, sir, she borrowed all the diamonds owned by her male relatives—and may they burn where they belong for going along with her skulduggery—took them to a jeweler and had him secretly make them into a necklace.

Then she put them around her throat over a low-necked dress, and waltzed into court. The courtiers stood ready to run their swords through this brazen jade who dared to wear diamonds. But first they looked at the King to see how he took it.

The simple-minded monarch stared, then, dazzled, smiled and beckoned Agnes to him. Aggie had won, and lived happily ever after, dipping her bread in the King's own gravy.

"From that date on," said Haase, "diamonds became a girl's best friend. Now 85 per cent of women wear most of it."

Some other things you may not know about diamonds:

Seventy-five per cent of the world's gem diamonds are sold in Uncle Sugarland.

The average price for a diamond engagement ring is $211. The average size is 30 points—a carat has 100 points.

A survey in 1949 showed that over 80 per cent of married women under 30 had engagement rings—and 99 per cent of these were wearing them, even while doing house work.

Only 10 per cent of American diamonds are owned by men. Detectives, for some reason, often like to wear diamond rings.

About 4 per cent of diamonds are bought for hoarding.

The largest sized diamond rings are in demand in Texas (who'd have guessed that?), Oklahoma, California, Chicago and New York.

Office girls often are more insistent than heiresses in demanding a large diamond engagement ring, because it is a prestige symbol.

Rings exceeding 10 carats are rare, but film actress Elizabeth Taylor is reliably reported to have a 30-carat engagement ring. (She was recently hospitalized for treatment of a strained back.)

If you can afford only a tiny diamond engagement ring, give it to your girl in a cathedral.

"A cathedral is the best place to look at a diamond," explained Haase. "The stained glass windows bring out all its hidden beauty."

Around The Rim To End All Strife...

There is no such thing as "a common cold."

Calling that most prevalent of all human ailments "common" is a misnomer. Any disease which can be so effective in breaking down the morale, efficiency and basic human philosophy of so many people is not entitled to be called "common."

Oh, I know!—the "common" means that we all have it. Still, to my way of looking at it, the designation is neither suitable nor proper.

You have all heard the old story of the man with the bad cold who went to see his doctor. The medic looked solemn and very learned. "My friend," he said, "you have a bad cold. Now if I undertake to treat it, I will have you up and about in two weeks. But," here he frowned sternly, "if you insist on treating the cold yourself without my help, you are going to be sick for a fortnight."

The combined energy of all sneezes each second, if they could be unified into a single terrific "cach-ew" would be sufficient to make a hydrogen bomb look like a penny fire cracker. And if all the drippy noses which do their stuff at any one stated interval could be channelled into one outlet, we could dig a new Grand Canyon in ten seconds flat.

If all of the wasted time caused by workers in industry, stores and offices having to stop whatever it is they are doing to blow their noses could be saved, billions of dollars now wasted could be put into the cash registers of the land.

Few if any of us are immune to the attack of the common cold. It takes no skilled diagnostician to recognize the symptoms. Any passerby can take one look at a cold sufferer and know exactly what's ailing him.

And every passerby, even though his own cold may be more severe than your own, has a sure fire remedy. What's more, he will, at the slightest provocation, tell you that remedy. In fact, you can hardly keep him from telling you about it.

The funny thing about all sure-fire cures—none will work. And usually the man who recommends one specific method as the very best of all, is suffering at the same time he speaks from a cold in most advanced stages. Yet every sufferer seems to have complete and unflinching confidence in his own pet panacea.

If you go to a good doctor, that gent will tell you the thing that you should do is to go right home, get into bed, stay in bed. He may add that you should drink plenty of liquids and get all of the rest possible. And the simple truth is—if you do this, you will soon be rid of your cold.

The difficulty stems from the fact that few of us can afford to do what the doctor says to do. We have to work for our living. We are not sick—in the sense that we are too ill to move about and go through the gestures of our daily employment. Most of us never go to bed because we are sick until we can no longer stand on our feet.

Some day some smart researcher is going to delve into the dollar value of the time, energy and morale destroyed each fall and winter by the common cold. His figures will show that colds cost this nation billions each year. When he publishes the result of his research, the nation is going to be so shocked that there will be a universal, coast-to-coast uprising of the people. They will stand in streets and demand that something be done about it.

They will insist that scientists, who are now fiddling away their time and talent on such problems as nuclear fission or some new formula for a better toothpaste, turn their attention to the common cold.

The protest will be so loud, so long and so insistent, that the frightened scientists will push aside their busted atoms and mysterious new compounds. They will combine their talents in a massive united search for a cure for the cold.

When this is done, the cure will be found.

Once it is found, and put to work, the world will be so happy and relieved that it will discard all discord, look with beaming and happy smiles on all mankind as brothers. The golden age will be here and crime, poverty and greed will be shoved into the ash-can.

It will be a great day—pardon me! I gotta sneeze.

How To Be Exclusive, With So Many Rich

PALM BEACH, Fla.—An old Texas proverb opines that "the rich have mighty pretty ways." And in few places on the globe is that thesis more handsomely confirmed than in Palm Beach, where the sun and society go to spend the winter.

De Mille himself would be hard put to arrange a purtier landscape, what with sun and sand and an infinite variety of rampant tropics where the hibiscus hedges are full of scarlet blossoms and a kind of common weed known as poinsettia is now flaunting its great red flowers on plants that grow eight and 10 feet high.

Oh, this is the place where every prospect pleases—and man ain't so much vile as just plain loaded. With money, it's real nice to be permitted to stand around here, hoping a little of it will wear off.

But don't think that the rich don't have their problems. Two they have always with them: Servants (the scarcity of) and taxes (a plethora of). But it is the third problem that is really the most constant and harassing. That is the problem not of keeping rich but of keeping exclusive.

Golly! There is the real rub. When I first came here in the winter of 1929, just 11 years after the end of World War I, society's old guard was fighting a running battle to keep out nouveau riche who had sprung full-fledged out of that conflict.

And now, just 11 years after the end of World War II, society's old guard is fighting a running battle to keep in their place what in 1956 is known as "the peasant rich" who made a bundle in World War II.

Only, the old guard, circa 1956, is composed of the nouveau riche, circa 1929. (The old guard, circa 1929, has either gone to its reward or joined the old guard, circa 1956.) And I have every confidence that if I can make it here via wheelchair in another 25 years, I shall find that the old guard of 1981 is composed of today's peasant rich, putting up a stiff rear-guard action to snub the coolie rich of that future day.

It's one thing to be rich, but to be ritzy, too, is something else again. Eternal vigilance is the price of exclusiveness. And the real reason it is so difficult to keep the peasant rich in their place is because America, land of opportunity, produces so many of 'em.

One look at Palm Beach will convince the most pessimistic economist that innumerable people are making money hand over fist in the U. S. A. Approximately four times as many persons will spend the winter season here in 1956-57 as spent it in Palm Beach in 1929.

In this great democracy, what is good enough for the Vanderbilts in one decade isn't a mile too good for the Joneses in the next.

Just to give you an idea, 29 new and private swimming pools have been built here in the past few months. (Really, the ocean is frightfully common. Anyone, but anyone, can swim in it.) And though the winter season has scarcely begun, Lake Worth is full of impressive yachts.

If you have money, this is certainly the place to live it up, and if you haven't—well, that is another story. (Copyright 1956 By United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

A Suspension For Budapest Government

Contrary to what the Secretary General of the United Nations had been led to believe by the Kadar delegate in New York, the Kadar government in Budapest is not now willing to discuss arrangements for a visit on Dec. 16. For all practical purposes that government is not only refusing to admit the observers from the U. N., it is refusing to admit the Secretary General himself.

How can this refusal be reconciled with the obligations of a member? Surely there can be no real doubt about the inherent right of the official agent of the United Nations to discuss with the United Nations any question with which the United Nations are concerned.

In the Egyptian affair no one, not Britain, France and Israel, not Egypt, not the governments which are hesitating and abstaining about Hungary, has questioned the right of the Secretary General to go to Cairo to implement a resolution of the General Assembly. On what ground can his right to go to Budapest be questioned now? And on what ground could any member of the U. N. justify its own failure to uphold the authority and to defend the rights of the United Nations?

Kadar's delegate in New York, Mr. Imre Horvath, should be refused the right to speak or to vote in the General Assembly until his government in Budapest admits the Secretary General. This would be the appropriate reply to what is in substance a refusal by the Kadar government to maintain full diplomatic relations with the United Nations. It does not, of course, mean the "expulsion" of Hungary, which as a nation is a lawful and welcome member of the United Nations. Nor is it a withdrawal of the recognition of the Kadar government, even though in law it is not the legitimate government of Hungary. The proper rule for the United Nations is to deal with de facto governments. But the refusal to let Horvath speak or vote in the General Assembly would be to suspend in New York the diplomatic relations which have been suspended in Budapest. Nobel Prizes Are Given Out

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Amid royal splendor, eight men of science received 1956 Nobel prize awards today. Five Americans, a Briton, a German and a Soviet Russian were honored at the annual ceremony in Stockholm Concert Hall.

King Gustav VI Adolf of Sweden personally presented the prizes, established in the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite, "to those who have been of the greatest benefit to mankind."

Sweden this year canceled the gala ball that ordinarily would have been held tonight. But none of the formalities of the awarding ceremony were diminished.

The Nobel Peace Prize was not awarded for 1956. The science recipients were: For physics, the transistor, Prof. William Shockley, John Bardeen and Walter H. Brattain of the United States.

For medicine, Dr. Werner Forssman, West Germany, and Prof. Andre G. Courmand and Dickinson W. Richards Jr., of the United States.

The prize in each category amounted to $38,533 and was split two or three ways according to the number of co-winners.

Dog Lovers Protest Use Of Canines In Red Space Flight

LONDON (AP)—A delegation of indignant British dog lovers, led by a snarling bulldog named Joz, protested to the Soviet Embassy today about Russian scientists using mongrels to probe the mysteries of space.

"An act of gross cruelty," declared delegation leader, Harvey Johns, secretary of the National Canine League.

"Things like that lead to war," a petition stated. A startled embassy official promised to take the matter up with Ambassador Jacob Malik.

The dog fanciers were outraged by a report that Soviet scientists had shot two space-suited mongrels 68 miles into space and brought them back by parachute.

Changeun's No. 1 motor vehicle plant is a 257-million-dollar example of the swelling industry that is transforming this wasteland of Manchuria 700 miles north of Peiping into an immense manufacturing belt.

Industrialization of the province and the establishment of a huge governmental organization here have transformed Changeun into a prosperous, bustling, semi-modern city of 930,000. New, Western-designed construction is going up on every block.

The bewildered local peasants, in their padded cotton coats and towering fur hats, look out of place, wandering through the five newly erected department stores owned by the state, or strolling wondrously along wide, American-looking boulevards flanked solid with half-completed buildings.

On July 15, three years to the day after construction of the motor works was begun, the first "Liberation Trucks," pride of China's five-year plan, rolled off the assembly line.

Before the end of the year, 4,000 of the six-wheeled trucks will be on Chinese highways. Eventual production, by official prediction, will be 30,000 a year.

The end product is a four-ton open body truck similar in design to a low-priced American model costing about $8,500. It has a six-cylinder, 50-horsepower engine of Soviet design. It is all Chinese, with 409 parts such as glass, tires and gauges coming from factories all over China.

Russia helped design and set up the plant. Eighty Soviet specialists still work here.

"We owe a great deal to the Russians," said Li Tai-sun, assistant director. "Never having produced automotive machinery before in China, we had to start from the beginning."

All heavy machinery in the 13 sheds of the hastily built plant was made in the Soviet Union. But many of the lighter lathes and gear-cutters are clearly stamped "Made in the U. S. A."

The machines, which instruction plants in Russia bolted to the frames, are obviously brand new. There is also some light British equipment.

"All our machinery is supplied by the government," said Li. "We have no idea where it comes from or how it gets here."

Buses and small trucks are on the plant's drawing boards. The government has not announced when manufacture of these vehicles will start.

No passenger automobiles will be built in Changchun. Another vehicle plant is scheduled for construction under the second five-year plan (1957-62), but its location has not been disclosed.

Surrounding the No. 1 plant is a community of 113 barracks-like dormitories which house a large percentage of the 18,000 employees and their families. A self-sufficient suburb, the project includes stores, a hospital and a movie.

Chief assets to the technological and administrative staff are 500 men who were sent to study in Russian auto works while the plant was under construction.

Executives admit the plant is as much a training school as a production unit.

Pay is roughly equivalent to that in other Manchurian plants. Salaries range from 25 yuan (about $11) a month for apprentices to 105 yuan (about $45) for highly skilled machinists. Merit awards of 25 to 30 per cent of the monthly scale are paid to model workers, and employees with large families are subsidized.

Results of the overquick construction methods are beginning to show in cracked walls and buckling floors of the plant.

Despite immense production increases in the past three years, China is obviously still far from self-sufficient. Parked outside the Changchun plant were a dozen American cars and a fleet of official Polish sedans for the use of the Russian technologists.

Next — The extent of Soviet influence in Red China.

Failure to ransack offering boxes in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Boston's West End Sunday and at St. John the Evangelist Episcopal Church on Beacon Hill, Boston, Nov. 19, also led Whelan to set those churches afire, Detective John F. Galligan said.

The fire at St. Joseph's caused damage estimated by the church at $2,500. Damage to St. John's was negligible, police said.

Whelan was booked last night on suspicion of breaking and entering in the nighttime and of arson, and was held for arraignment in Cambridge District Court.

Another man, a 26-year-old Boston art student, had been charged with arson yesterday in connection with the fire at St. Joseph's. He was committed to Boston Psychopathic Hospital for observation.

Chest Hike Seen

NEW YORK (AP)—The American public is expected to contribute an estimated 378 million dollars, 12 per cent more than last year, to the 2,000 United Community Campaigns this fall. The estimate was made today in a report by the United Community Funds and Community Chests of the United States and Canada.

Uncle Ray:
Cats Do Most Of Hunting At Night

By RAMON COFFMAN
Cats are strong enemies of rats and mice, and this helps to explain their widespread use as domestic pets.

In early time it became a custom for a sailing vessel to have at least one cat. Cats kept down the number of rats and mice on board, but they failed to prevent the pests from being carried from one country to another.

Farmers adopted the custom of keeping cats to attack rats and mice which might destroy their grain. This may have been the reason that the ancient Egyptians tamed cats, in the first place, to save their wheat from rodents.

Q. Can cats see in the dark?
A. They can do that in a sense, and they hunt chiefly at night. To see anything, however, they need at least a dim light — say as much light as comes through a cellar window from a starlit sky.

The eyes of cats (like those of other furry animals) have pupils. The pupils are openings which let in light.

In a dark place, the pupils become large. This enables the cat to take full advantage of very dim light.

In complete darkness a cat would fail to see anything. Its sense of smell might help it to locate a mouse, but that is something else.

In bright light, the openings in a cat's eyes become small — mere slits, as we may say. This keeps

Professor Defends The Slow Reader

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A Michigan State University English professor has a word in defense of the slow reader. Dr. E. V. Lechly, criticizing the stress in recent years on speed in reading, says, "Because good books not only record thought but also provoke it, justice can seldom be done them in a hurried reading, or even by a single careful reading."

Traffic Ignores Overturned Auto

WAYNE, N. J. (AP)—A 27-year-old motorist claims he lay unconscious for 10 minutes in his overturned car on a busy highway yesterday and no one stopped to help him.

Joseph Quinn, Bloomingdale, told police his car hit a patch of ice on Route 46, one of the heaviest traveled east-west roads in the state.

He said the vehicle turned over and skidded 20 feet on its top. He lay stunned in the back seat for about 10 minutes. When he came to, he said, he forced his way out of the damaged car himself.

Police said he suffered no serious injuries.

Modernization Completed At Gound Store

A modernization program that started several months ago has been completed at the Gound Pharmacy, 419 Main.

The store has been modernized throughout, and new fixtures and other equipment have been installed. Interior of the establishment also has been rearranged to facilitate service to the many customers of Gound's.

The entire project was conducted principally to expand the Gound Pharmacy's capacity for meeting the prescription drug needs of the Big Spring area. The pharmaceutical service, of course, the main facet of the Gound business.

The prescription counter runs the full breadth of the store since the modernization. Extending diagonally across the building, it separates the prescription preparation department in the rear from the general sales area at the front.

Striking shades of a variety of colors are used in the decorative scheme. The various colors also were selected to finish a series of panels which mask storage space along the upper portion of one entire wall.

Giving the store a widened effect is the corlon floor covering with broad stripes of brown and white running diagonally across the building. This extends from the glass and aluminum front to the prescription department.

Gound's Pharmacy is served by six telephone lines—three connected directly with local hospitals and three regular, public lines—assuring prompt service. Deliveries of all prescriptions also are made by the firm, as rapidly as the orders can be filled.

In addition to the pharmacy department, the concern has a full line of non-prescription drug preparations, cosmetics and toiletries of all kinds, toys, photographic supplies and other products.

The New Gound Pharmacy

Wayne Gound, left, and Paul Keele stand at their stations in the modernized Gound Pharmacy, 419 Main Street. The store has been remodeled and redecorated throughout, and boasts new fixtures as well. Complete prescription service and prompt delivery service are features of the business.

U.S. Royal Safety Tire Passes All Tests Easily

The U. S. Royal Safety 8 tire, now being sold locally by the Phillips Tire Company at Fourth and Johnson Streets, has undergone all tests by company test drivers and, in each instance, has come through with flying colors.

U. S. Royal's large test fleet devoted many months to proving the mileage and endurance of the radically new casing.

Special fleets in remote areas proved its high-speed safety. Hundreds of drivers proved its performance on cars in daily use.

Night and day, in all kinds of weather, the new U. S. Royal Safety 8 was tested with other tires on every conceivable kind of road and highway — across sizzling desert roads, up and down twisting mountain roads and over the roughest kind of non-paved roads.

The result was a clear-cut victory for the U. S. Royal Safety 8 — a proven advantage of thousands of extra miles.

The U. S. Royal Safety 8 boasts a broader, flatter tread — more working rubber to even up and slow down wear. It has an exclusive reverse tread pattern, with the broadest rib in the center, placing the greatest amount of tread where the most wear normally occurs.

The Safety 8 also has a new anti-abrasive tread compound, a formula employing costlier ingredients — expressly compounded to defy wear.

The narrow "silencing ribs" at the edge of the casing's tread serves to banish the squeal on turns. Scientific spacing of slots and rib angles hushes tire hum a distance.

Piano Is Ideal Christmas Gift

What better gift could be presented at Christmas time than a piano from Adair Music Company?

Adair Music, located at 1708 Gregg, stocks Baldwin and Wurlitzer pianos, and no gift could outshine or outlast an instrument bearing either of the two brands.

The wise purchaser has an eye for the future, and the future is assured with a piano. A Baldwin or Wurlitzer piano will be as permanent years from now as it is today.

But before you buy a Wurlitzer, check into the product. Check the name: every piano made by Wurlitzer proudly bears the name Wurlitzer. All Wurlitzer pianos are built to the same high-grade standards; no second line brands, ghost or stencil names.

Prosecution Must Establish Identity In Negro Beating Case

BUSHNELL, Fla. (AP)—The prosecution still must prove that seven white men on trial here were the ones who yanked a Negro laborer from jail at Wildwood and flogged him. The trial is in its second day.

Family In Sherman Suffocation Victims

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—The bodies of three persons were discovered yesterday in a tightly closed two-room apartment. They apparently suffocated in the stifling heat from a stove turned up full blast. Dead are Mr. and Mrs. Basil Waggoner and Hubert Waggoner, a visiting brother believed from Huntington Park, Calif. Waggoner and his wife were found on a bed. Hubert Waggoner was on a couch. All were fully clothed.

Jesse Woods, 39, the flogging victim and the state's star witness, said he didn't know who beat him. Two other state witnesses, police chief Ed Mullis and patrolman E. H. Barry of Wildwood, gave no clues on the identity of the floggers.

State atty. A. P. Bule and defense atty. George Scofield pointed to each of the seven men yesterday and asked Woods if any one was seen on the night of the flogging. Woods said he never saw any of them and had known only one of them — George Altman — slightly before the incident. Woods was arrested Oct. 27 at Wildwood on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Arresting officers said he made the remark: "Hello there, baby" to a white school teacher. The Negro testified he did not make the remark after pretty Miss Mary Evelyn Hill, 24, was

Farmers To Vote On Controls Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers in wide areas of the country vote in five separate referendums today on federal control programs for 1957 crops of corn, upland cotton, extra long staple cotton, rice and peanuts. The outcome of the balloting—held under Agriculture Department supervision—could upset government efforts to reduce farm surpluses. The issue is one of continuing rigid marketing quotas assigned individual farms in an effort to hold down production. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required. Officials expected favorable votes on the quota proposals on the two cotton crops, peanuts and rice.

SWC Teams Win Three Of Five Cage Starts

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference won three and lost two in intercollegiate basketball Monday.

Oklahoma A&M defeated Arkansas 59-50, Rice damped LSU 87-72, Baylor downed North Texas 71-58, Loyola of New Orleans nipped Texas A&M 71-68 and TCU beat McMurry 97-50.

SMU takes on Wichita at Dallas in Tuesday's only game.

Temple Tucker and Tom Robbitt led Rice in a second half spurt that sent the Owls to victory over LSU. Tucker dropped in 23 points and Robbitt 20.

Tom Kelly, Jerry Mallett and Larry Barnes sparked a second half surge for Baylor which crushed North Texas. Kelly dropped in 17 points and Mallett had 15 and 20 rebounds.

Pete Gaudin and Crit Lorio each made 16 points in the second half as Loyola rallied to nip Texas A&M. Neal Swisher got 18 points for the Aggies. A&M led 36-20 at the half, but a Loyola switch to man-to-man defense apparently threw A&M off balance.

TCU ran its undefeated streak to four against McMurry. Coach Buster Brannon substituted freely as the Frogs raced to a 45-24 halftime margin. Dick O'Neal tallied 28 points, although playing only about half the game.

Arkansas led Oklahoma A&M 29-28 at the half and A&M took over midway in the second half. Eddie Sutton of A&M was high man with 16 points. Joe Dickson got 13 for Arkansas.

Chicubs Get Pair Of New Backstops

By JOE REICHLER

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, who only 24 hours ago were desperately seeking to strengthen their catching department, had two new backstops today after the purchase of Charlie Silvera from the New York Yankees and the acquisition of Ray Katt in a 10-player trade with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Katt, a 247 hitter who clubbed 13 home runs last season, came first. With him came pitchers Tom Poholsky and Jackie Collum and infielder Wally Lammer, who was immediately shipped to the Cubs' Los Angeles farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Two other players, of minor league caliber, have been promised by the Cardinals no later than March 1. These players will be sent to the Yankees along with $10,000 for Silvera.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:

DR. DAVID H. MORGAN, president of Texas A&M, after the Aggies had defeated Texas in Memorial Stadium at Austin for the first time in history:

"This is more than a game. This was the end of a jinx. No longer will they have a psychological advantage. We play on a par from now on."

GENE SARAZEN, the veteran golfer:

"Jack Fleck had no business winning the National Open. It was a bad thing for Fleck and it was a bad thing for golf. Until he won, he was a nice guy out of Davenport, Iowa, leading a happy life. Winning the Open ruined him. It was too big for him. It made him miserable. I doubt if he'll ever win another tournament. The only thing he'll win is the cornhusking championship of Iowa."

AL LOPEZ, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, on why he is bringing coach Tony Cuccinello with him:

"We've been together so long, that Tony thinks right along with me, even when I'm on the bench and he's out at third base. He never misses a sign or a situation. He knows what I'm apt to do and he's ready for his part. It's just a matter of working as a unit for so long that you hardly have to talk to one another."

JOHNNY LUJACK, former Notre Dame grid star:

"I would rather see one pro football game than six played by top-ranking collegiate teams."

JESS NEELY, Rice Institute football coach:

"There were more good backs this year than at any time in the last 10 years. The quality of line play was very high — particularly among the tackles. The ends were bigger, and they spent more time blocking and tackling than catching passes. The power-house teams with good running backs stayed mostly on the ground, preferring to grind out touchdowns rather than risk loss of the ball on a pass interception."

BOB ADDIE, Washington scribe:

"The Washington Senators have made money without exception for 29 consecutive seasons, even though the attendance has been light. No other major league club can say that."

COACH JOHNNY JOHNSON of Big Spring, after watching the District 2-AAAA basketball favorite — Midland — perform against Lamesa the other night:

"I wouldn't trade my ball club for theirs."

WALDO FISHER, Northwestern basketball mentor, after watching Will Chamberlain and Kansas take his team apart:

"Chamberlain is not the type of player you enjoy watching, like Bill Russell. Russell is nearly perfection in action. He is not the strict sort that Russell is. But you can't stop him on shots off rebounds and high passes. Our guys felt like they were in a hole with Chamberlain's teammates throwing the ball in high to him maneuver him. Players with a little speed could give Chamberlain some trouble."

MIKE SOUCHAR, the pro linkster, after winning a Texas Open with a record 257 strokes for 72 holes:

"Yes, the good Lord was with me all the way. I couldn't have done it without His help. Of course, I was putting awful good, too."

Hickey's Bills Upset Wildcats Again, 71-70

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Kansas has a myth playing center, Oklahoma A&M already has lost at home and Nebraska has beaten three Big Ten teams in three tries. But everything's "normal" in college basketball after all — Eddie Hickey and his St. Louis Billikens have knocked off Adolph Rupp's Kentuckians.

Hickey has a penchant for hitting the bluegrass baron like sour-mash on an empty stomach, and he did it again last night. Hours after the Wildcats had been granted the No. 3 spot in the first Associated Press poll of the season, the unranked, once-beaten Bills up and bopped 'em 71-70.

Harold Alcorn of the Billikens, a senior guard, outscored Kentucky 12-8 all by himself in one five-minute spurt midway through the final half and then put it away with two foul shots in the closing minutes. He finished with 24 points.

Since coming to St. Louis, Hickey has beaten the Rupp four out of seven.

Kentucky was the only member of the newly elected top 10 in action last night, although three teams in the second 10 were at it. Western Kentucky (No. 12) made it 3-0 with a 95-74 breeze past New Mexico A & M; Oklahoma A & M (No. 19), after dropping a home game to Washington, made it 4-1 with a comeback, 59-50 decision over Arkansas; and Seattle (No. 20) gained a 4-1 standing with a 47-44 job on Santa Clara.

In conference play, Maryland gained a tie for the Atlantic Coast lead with Duke by defeating Wake Forest 59-53.

Nebraska kept the heat on the Big Ten by defeating winless Wisconsin 53-51 at Gary Reimers and Don Schmidt hit two foul shots apiece to break a 49-all tie with 3:25 left.

Planners Of 'Tight Money' Face Critical Congress Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the architects of the government's plans for inflation control—popularly called its "tight money" policy—face questioning today by critical Congress members.

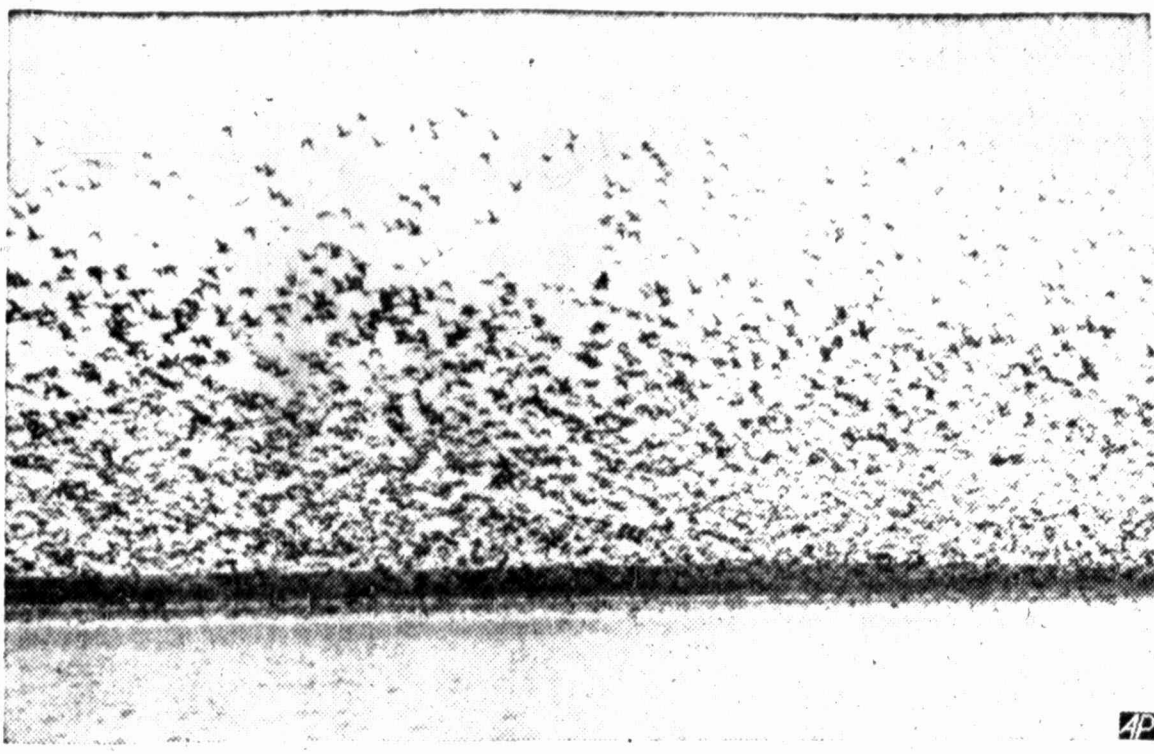

Chairman William McC. Martin Jr. and other officials of the Federal Reserve Board were summoned to testify before a Senate-House economic subcommittee which opened hearings on fiscal policy yesterday.

Teachers Paid Less

DETROIT (AP)—Teachers in Detroit get less pay per child than the average babysitter, says School Superintendent Samuel M. Brownell.

In The Dark

CORRY, Pa. (AP)—It someday soon might be a little difficult to find your way home at night in this central Pennsylvania community.

Feather Bed

Ducks by the thousands are resting on Buffalo Lakes 35 miles southwest of Amarillo. The scarcity of lakes over the area due to drought conditions is the reason for the concentration of the water fowl on the lake.

Masked Bandits Rob Jewel Salesman In Dallas Hotel Room

DALLAS (AP)—Police said masked bandits mugged, tied and blindfolded a New York jewel salesman in his downtown hotel room last night and escaped with $40,000.

Earl Woodnorth, River Edge, N.J., salesman for the New York wholesale firm of Harold Cohen, Inc., said he was mugged and scratched by two natty hoods who hid in his Statler-Hilton Hotel room until he returned from visits to Dallas jewelry dealers.

Woodnorth, about 65, told police one hoodlum muttered death threats constantly. He said they wore handkerchiefs over their faces.

Congress To Act On New Anti-Red Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ineffectiveness of two congressional efforts to provide punishment for Communist-led labor unions raised the prospect today that the nation's legislators may try again next year.

The first effort was contained in the 1947 Fair-Hartley Labor Relations Act, the other in the Communist Control Act of 1954.

The Supreme Court yesterday vetoed a four-year drive by the National Relations Board to punish unions with leaders found to have filed false non-Communist affidavits under the 1947 law requirement. The court said the leaders could be punished, but not their unions.

The Communist Control Act vested in the Subversive Activities Control Board the power to strip Red-infiltrated unions of the NLRB's vital help in obtaining and enforcing bargaining rights.

But two cases initiated over a year ago under that law by Atty. Gen. Brownell never have gotten past legal preliminaries.

The Eisenhower administration is presently planning a new set of proposed revisions in the Taft-Hartley labor law to present to Congress in January. Consideration of any such proposals inevitably would include the matter of dealing with Communist-led unions.

In its unanimous ruling yesterday the Supreme Court held in two cases that the sole penalty in the Taft-Hartley law is one against officers who file fake affidavits from officers of unions which wish to use the NLRB processes.

The two cases involve the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the International Fur and Leather Workers Union, the latter now a branch of the AFL-CIO Amalgamated Meatcutters. Both the Mine-Mill and the Fur-Leather Unions were among those the old CIO ousted for alleged Communist domination.

Ben Gold, former Fur Workers president, and Maurice Travis, former Mine-Mill secretary-treasurer, were convicted of filing false non-Communist affidavits, quit their union jobs and are now appealing their convictions.

Twin Careers

HUDSONVILLE, Mich. (AP)—The parallel careers of twin physicians have diverged slightly now that the two have joined the armed forces. Dr. Robert D. Visscher is in the Navy. His twin, Dr. Harrison C. Visscher, is in the Army.

Both were noted athletes and scholars in high school and college; they attended medical school together and each married his college sweetheart. They each have one child. And both entered private practice as associates of other physicians prior to going into service.

Bradley Brown, Jefferson County revenue director, says it happens every year. The taxpayer purchased his car April 2, 1956 and this was entered on the assessment form as 4 2 56—and misinterpreted by the owner as being the assessment.

Reading Wrong

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The angry taxpayer stormed in to protest an assessment of $4,256 on a car that only cost $2,800 "and didn't have any of that extra stuff either."

Bradley Brown, Jefferson County revenue director, says it happens every year. The taxpayer purchased his car April 2, 1956 and this was entered on the assessment form as 4 2 56—and misinterpreted by the owner as being the assessment.

Wausau, Wis. (AP)—Lost or stolen bicycles laying unclaimed at police headquarters for weeks at a time are a sign of a new attitude by youth toward such possessions, says Chief of Police Everett Gleason.

"There was a time when a youngster ran all the way to the police station when his bicycle was missing," said Gleason. "Today they apparently get their bicycles with so little difficulty they don't bother to report their losses."

Filial System

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A suburban mother has worked out a system so she can sleep at night and know if she awakens. If her two teen-age sons are home.

She has pictures of each boy on a table near her bedroom door. Each boy, when he comes home, turns his picture to the wall.

Intra-Business Mail Is Headache

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Coping with the increasing flood of mail in and out of business firms and with the ubiquitous office memo taxes the ingenuity of many managements today.

Sometimes it seems an airmail letter can fly across the country in less time than it takes an office memo to reach another office on the floor below.

Mechanical devices to speed delivery and collections, new methods of sorting on the run, intricate machines for weighing and stamping and figuring foreign postage—all are being tried in the fight to dig a way out of the growing mountain of paper work under which today's business increasingly is being smothered.

An endless chain links all floors from the 12th to 30th in the new Socony Mobil Oil Building in midtown New York. Automatically it ejects mail and picks up returning letters, packages and memos, and in turn leaves them on the floor where they belong.

The longest time element involved is seven minutes. The system handles an average of 2 1/2 tons of paper and cardboard a day.

Conveyor belts speed mail through 13 floors of the Mutual Life Insurance Building on Broadway. The company knows it answers 20,000 letters a month, but doesn't count mail needing no reply (for example, premium payments) or the stocks of interoffice correspondence.

Attendants on each floor take the mail baskets, sort the incoming for the various divisions on that floor, and send back interoffice paper work for other floors, or outgoing letters for the mail room, where 15 persons handle the flood. There are one to three attendants on each floor, depending on the traffic in paper there.

Marines Meet
MARION, Ohio (AP)—Two former Marines who hadn't seen each other since 1945 met recently, but it wasn't a planned reunion.
R. Darl Caldwell, manager of a supermarket here, was robbed of $5,000 and kidnapped by four bandits. They dumped him, bound and gagged, in a roadside ditch, Caldwell managed to free himself and hail a passing car.
In the car was Alfred Becky of Delaware, Ohio, who served with Caldwell in the Marine Corps during World War II. The two hadn't seen each other since April, 1945. They plan a less hurried get-together later.
