

Legislators Set Opening On Tuesday

AUSTIN (AP)—Tough issues that could stir up heated debate were already being pushed as Texas lawmakers crowded into the capitol for tomorrow's opening of the Legislature.

Among them were school segregation and a proposal calling for a runoff in the special Senate election.

The runoff plan will be offered by Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas over the protest of Thad Hutcheson of Houston, so far the only Republican seeking to succeed Gov.-elect Price Daniel when he vacates the office. Hutcheson suggested a law prohibiting holders of one public office from seeking another.

Legislative leaders have moved swiftly in an effort to pinch off controversy before it starts. Rep. Waggoner Carr of Lubbock, assured of election as House Speaker, has suggested that such delicate and important questions as desegregation be put off until the session disposes of essential money bills.

Carr's proposal was made Saturday while opponents of school desegregation were denouncing plans to establish a downtown office and while East Texas members were proposing to circulate a "Texas manifesto" among lawmakers. It would be similar to the Southern states' rights and pro-segregation manifesto signed by many members of Congress.

Carr said that a "vast majority" of the House members agreed with him that the segregation issue was too delicate and important "to be competing with the main appropriation bill for the attention of members."

That may be the tip-off on the new administration's policy toward race legislation. If it is followed it could be late in the projected 120-day session before it is thrown into committee and on the floor for debate.

Carr also promised to have his committee appointments ready shortly. Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey has not said when his committees will be ready.

House and Senate committee appointments hold the key to progress of legislation. The committee process bills in hearings at which the public has its say.

The Legislature begins at noon tomorrow when members take the oath. There are 58 new House members and 8 new senators.

The session, with a new governor, meets in an atmosphere of political uncertainty partly because of the deadlock over the Senate succession.

Daniel takes office a week from tomorrow. Neither he nor Gov. Shivers has said whether they will attempt to appoint a temporary successor pending the special election.

If Shivers interprets the law and Daniel's letter of resignation as meaning the Senate office becomes vacant any time between 12:01 a.m. and noon on Jan. 15, when the new governor is inaugurated, he may make an appointment. If he does not, Daniel is expected to name a senator soon after his inauguration.

Shivers and Daniel have been at odds over the succession.

Lamesa High Student Dies In Truck Crash

LAMESA — Dawson County's first traffic fatality of 1957 occurred today when a Lamesa High School girl, Helen Guerrero, 16, lost control of her pickup and it struck a power pole.

The crash occurred just inside the city limits in the 800 block of Lynn Street. Highway Patrolman Ralph Ward said the girl was traveling north on Lynn when she apparently lost control of the vehicle just outside the city limits. The crash occurred in the city.

Authorities had not determined shortly before noon whether the girl died of crash injuries or electrocution. A high voltage electrical line fell across the pickup, starting a fire, following the collision.

Miss Guerrero is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gutierrez, 211 N. Boston, Lamesa; four brothers and four sisters.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Higginbotham Funeral Home.

Patrolman Ward said the fatality probably will not be charged to the City of Lamesa since the driver lost control of the pickup outside the city limits.

BEALE, COOK, CATHEY Chamber Of Commerce Picks Officer Slate For '57 Term

R. L. Beale, district manager for the Texas Electric Service Company, will head the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce for the current year.

Beale was named president of the organization at the first 1957 meeting of the C-C board of directors at noon today.

Other officers for 1957 are R. L. (Jack) Cook, real estate and lease broker; vice president; and Chester Cathey, banker, treasurer.

The election of officers was the principal feature of the directors' meeting. Appointment of division coordinators and committee chairmen for the new year was to be made promptly by the new officers.

Beale and his executive committee will start work immediately on the Chamber of Commerce program for this year.

The new officers will take office formally Jan. 24 at the annual C-C membership breakfast. They will take up their duties immediately, however.

Beale, district manager for TESCO for about five years, was head of the company's transmission department here for several years before his promotion to the top office. He has been active in Chamber of Commerce programs and has served as a director of the organization for several terms.

He was one of the sponsors and organizers of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation. He also was one of the organizers of the Howard County United Fund three years ago and served as the first campaign chairman for the agency.

Beale also was a member of Big Spring's original zoning and planning commission and assisted in writing the city zoning code.

Cook, former municipal airport manager, has been a Chamber of Commerce leader, particularly in the field of aviation, for a number of years. He has served repeatedly as chairman of the Chamber's Aviation Committee and was one of the leaders in successful efforts to secure establishment of a Howard County airport after Webb took over site of the municipal field.

He entered military service shortly after graduation from Texas A&M College and in World War II was a pilot with numerous missions "over the hump" in the China-Burma-India Theatre.

Cook has served as president of the Toastmasters Club and a director of the Downtown Lions Club. Since leaving the local airport position, he has been a partner with his father, R. L. Cook, in a real estate and oil and gas agency.

Cathey, cashier at the Security State Bank, served as secretary-treasurer of the Howard County Community Chest before it was replaced by the United Fund. He is a Mason and Shriner and a member of the American Legion and the American Institute of Bankers.

Cathey has 20 years of banking experience, most of it in Big Spring.

Plan Is Termed 'Way To Peace'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told Congress today that the way to peace in the Middle East is to make it clear "that armed Communist attack would have to be met, if need be, by the armed forces of the United States."

"You may feel, I do feel," Dulles told a crowded public meeting of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, "that there is in fact no doubt as to what the Congress would do if international communism set out on a piecemeal conquest of the world by war."

"But until the Congress has actually spoken, there is doubt in the Middle East and there may be doubt in the Soviet Union."

Delay would make such doubts grow, the secretary said, and he told the legislators, some of whom have expressed concern with the sweeping nature of the fight-if-necessary authority sought by the President.

"The purpose of the proposed resolution is not war, it is peace. The purpose, as in other cases where the President and the Congress have acted together to oppose international communism, is to stop World War III before it starts."

As Dulles was testifying on the Middle East policy proposal which President Eisenhower laid before Congress at a special joint session Saturday, the White House announced the appointment of James P. Richards, former chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, as Eisenhower's special assistant for the Middle East program.

Richards, a South Carolina Democrat who retired from Congress last week, will head a mission that will go to the Middle East to explain Eisenhower's plan to the nations there. He will serve with the rank of personal ambassador.

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was on hand with Dulles to back up the administration's presentation of its case for authority to use U.S. forces against any armed Communist aggression in the Middle East.

The administration also wants Congress to authorize a big-scale military and economic support program for Middle East nations wanting to strengthen themselves against the threat of communism.

Dulles said the President's program recognizes there are other dangers in the restless and largely underdeveloped areas besides the possibility of an armed Communist coup.

"There is the possibility of subversion, a danger which is increased if there be a sense of insecurity," he said.

Dulles said there is a danger that economic conditions could be "such as to make communism seem an attractive choice."

Any program to be adequate, he said, must be prepared to meet military action, subversion or economic instability "and any combination of them."

He testified the danger "cannot be met under present conditions unless we make clear now, in relation to the Middle East, what we have already made clear in relation to so many areas; namely, that armed Communist attack would have to be met, if need be, by the armed force of the United States. . . . only thus can we adequately serve the cause of freedom and of peace."

Dulles told the soberly listening lawmakers that "a Communist breakthrough in the Middle East" would be a disaster reaching far beyond the confines of that area.

It would "encourage the Soviet rulers to resort everywhere to more aggressive policies," he said. "It would severely weaken the pressures within the Soviet world for more liberal policies."

Economically, he said, the entire free world would be involved if the Soviets controlled the Middle East.

In a passage apparently designed to press the administration argument that Eisenhower's program is not designed to impose outside policies on the newly independent Middle Eastern nations, but rather to help them safeguard their cherished national and cultural individuality, Dulles said Soviet domination would be "a major disaster for them."

It would be, he continued:

1. A political disaster "because then those nations, like the European satellites, would lose the national independence which they so ardently desire and which now they are beginning to exercise in full measure."
2. An economic disaster because "the principal economic asset of the area is petroleum and only the free nations offer an adequate market."
3. "A disaster for the peoples of the Middle East because they are deeply religious peoples and their spiritual suffering would be grievous if they were subjected to the fate of other religious peoples who have fallen under the rule of atheistic, materialistic communism."

In advance of Dulles' appearance before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, several members posed queries concerning the proposal Eisenhower laid before a joint session of Congress Saturday.

Seabees Build S. Polar Base

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—U. S. Navy Seabees have finished building a U. S. base at the South Pole. It will be home during the approaching Antarctic winter to 18 American scientists and Navy men who will make observations for the International Geophysical Year.

The Seabees in six weeks put up seven buildings on the two-mile-high plateau around the pole. Prefabricated parts for the building were dropped by parachute to the 24-man construction party.

The buildings are connected by tunnels. Eventually all but the weather observation dome, the radio towers and ventilation pipes will be covered by the deep winter snows.

Crane Oil Well Fire Is Put Out

CRANE, Tex. (AP)—An oil well fire that spewed flaming natural gas some 50 feet into the air for four days was extinguished yesterday.

Famed oil-well fire fighter Myron Kinley of Houston supervised chemical spraying operations at the Gulf Oil Corp. well 18 miles west of here.

Another fire was still burning at a gas well of the Magnolia Petroleum Co. near Imperial, Tex. Both fires started last Wednesday. Bill Todd, Gulf district superintendent at Midland, said the gas flow at the Gulf well decreased from some 20 million cubic feet a day to 6 or 8 million cubic feet.

Officials made no damage estimate at either well. The Lee Drilling Co., however, had its rig at the Gulf well insured for $130,000. The rig was destroyed.

If Kinley is hired to fight the Magnolia blaze, he was due to start operations to put out the blaze today.

Oil Prices Hiked

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Phillips Petroleum Co. increased its posted prices of crude oil today by 35 cents per barrel generally.

SHREVEPORT (AP)—Esso Standard Oil Co. announced an increase of 38 cents a barrel today in the price it will pay for crude oil in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Condemnation Due For Airport Land

Howard County will have to resort to condemnation proceedings to acquire title to 407 acres of land it wants for a county airport.

This became obvious Monday morning when the Commissioners Court opened negotiations with the owners of three tracts of land needed for the site.

Two of the owners had refused offers suggested by the court at noon. The third was clearly of the same mind although at noon, no formal offer had been made for the property.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sherrod, owners of 270 acres of the land involved, wanted $200 an acre.

Sherrod told the court: "If you want to pay me $200 an acre for the land you want we can do business. If you don't want to pay that much, there's no use of our taking up any more of your time."

After some discussion, P. O. Gilliam then proposed $85 an acre with no road guaranteed. This was seconded by Hughes.

A first vote on the motion was three to two in favor of its adoption. Hull and Landers voted no. Confusion seemed to have developed over the meaning of the motion, in relation to the road situation. On restatement of the proposition, a new vote was taken. This time, the vote was three to one, with Weaver not voting. Hull voted no.

Johnson said that the $85 was not adequate and he would not accept it.

Mrs. R. S. Anderson, her son, W. G. Johnson, and his sister, Mrs. Edens, then appeared in regard to an 88-acre tract needed for the port. It was disclosed that a fourth owner may be involved in the tract, since the Anderson holdings had been regarded as 160 acres. The Andersons told the court they had sold 40 acres off the tract. The court was discussing with them the value of the land they still hold at noon.

The attitude of the Andersons was that they did not want to sell the land at all and that if any offer was to be made it should come from the commission.

"We do not want to sell an acre," said Mrs. Anderson. "If you take this land, I do not know how I can possibly make a living."

It was obvious that the next step in the long effort to get the county airport project moving would be appointment of a special commission to appraise the property involved.

No objection was had of the issue injected into the question over the new owner apparently holding some of the acreage on the proposed site.

The commissioners planned to proceed with the efforts to clear up the land matter ruling the afternoon.

Hughes made a motion suggesting that Sherrod be offered $125 an acre for his land. This was seconded by G. E. Gilliam. On a vote Hughes, Gilliam and Hudson Landers voted aye. Earl Hull voted no. R. H. Weaver did not vote.

Sherrod said he would not accept the offer.

Earlier in the meeting J. Johnson, representing the Ora Johnson estate, of which 46 acres are needed, told the court that he would sell the land to the county for $100 an acre, provided the county would guarantee him a road into the remaining land in the estate.

Earl Hull moved that the offer be accepted but the motion failed to get a second.

Weaver warned that the court had no power to guarantee that a road would be opened into the area. Johnson said bluntly, "If I don't get a road into the property, there's no deal."

Gilliam then proposed $85 an acre with no road guaranteed. This was seconded by Hughes.

Expelled Jews Tell Story Of Egyptian Mistreatment

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—A shiplod of Jewish men, women and children has arrived here from Egypt, telling a story of terrorism, imprisonment, expulsion and forfeiture of property.

An officer on the Egyptian passenger ship Mizr, which brought the 857 Jews from Alexandria, denied the account. He said the Jews were well treated and left of their own accord.

Many of the arrivals said they expected the rest of Egypt's 40,000 Jews to leave soon. The Egyptian said those he brought out were mostly stateless and that two-thirds of his country's Jews, who have Egyptian citizenship, will choose to stay in the country.

Fewer than 100 of the arrivals have passports — as citizens of France, England, Italy or other countries. The families of many of the stateless have been in Egypt for three, four or five generations. They said it was hard to get Egyptian citizenship.

A once-wealthy Cairo Jewish businessman gave this reason for the exodus:

"It has become a panic. It is a planned campaign of terror."

Another gave this account:

"We were expelled. The police came at night to our homes and threatened us. We were taken into custody, and our shops and factories were closed."

"We or our friends were hustled away in the night to concentration camps where we were not told of any charges against us. We were held in chains or in tiny, crowded cells. Then we were called before the police and were told: 'Sign this paper and you can go.'"

"The paper said, 'We swear that we wish to leave Egypt voluntarily.'"

Sound Was Real

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Frank Rogers, 31, complained to doctors at City Hospital of a "regular roaring sound" in his head. Doctors investigated and last night removed a small, live roach from his ear. Rogers said the insect apparently scrambled into his ear while he slept. The patient left the hospital feeling fine.

Fog Covers Texas Areas

Fog covered much of Texas early Monday.

The Weather Bureau said the fog extended along the Gulf Coast to the Panhandle.

A light drizzle fell Monday at Galveston where .30 of an inch of rain was recorded. Houston has .01.

Dawn temperatures Monday ranged from 28 degrees at Lubbock to 68 at Brownsville.

The forecast called for partly cloudy to cloudy skies and mild temperatures.

Some light showers fell Sunday in parts of south central and south-east Texas. College Station, Beeville, San Antonio and Beaumont each had a trace.

Crash Damages 3 T&P Engines

Extensive damage resulted to a yard engine and two Diesel road units in the Texas and Pacific yards here Sunday morning.

A. C. LaCroix, division superintendent, said the units were being serviced as four road units were being transferred to the roundhouse. The yard engine was engaged in regular switching operations.

The yard engine was badly damaged and was derailed. Two of the road units were badly damaged but the others were not hurt. There were no personal injuries.

Service was halted briefly along the main line about the same time when the trucks on one car derailed between Cisco and Baird. LaCroix said crews performed exceptional service in getting the car back on the track and opening main line traffic.

Dag Asks Unit For Hungarian Probe

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold today proposed the creation of a special U.N. committee with broad powers to investigate and study the Hungarian situation.

The proposal was in line with U.S. views that the U.N. should set up machinery to bear first hand accounts of the Soviet military actions in Hungary and to keep an eye on developments.

Previously, the General Assembly had given Hammarskjold the task of investigating the Hungarian situation. He had appointed special representatives to do this, but they had reported their inability to get sufficient reliable information.

Hammarskjold's recommendations were contained in a report to the 80-nation Assembly.

In view of the refusal of the Communist Hungarian government to permit the entry of U.N. investigators, Hammarskjold said, "the only course of new and direct information, under these circumstances, possibly available might be hearings with refugees from Hungary conducted, in the first place, in neighboring countries."

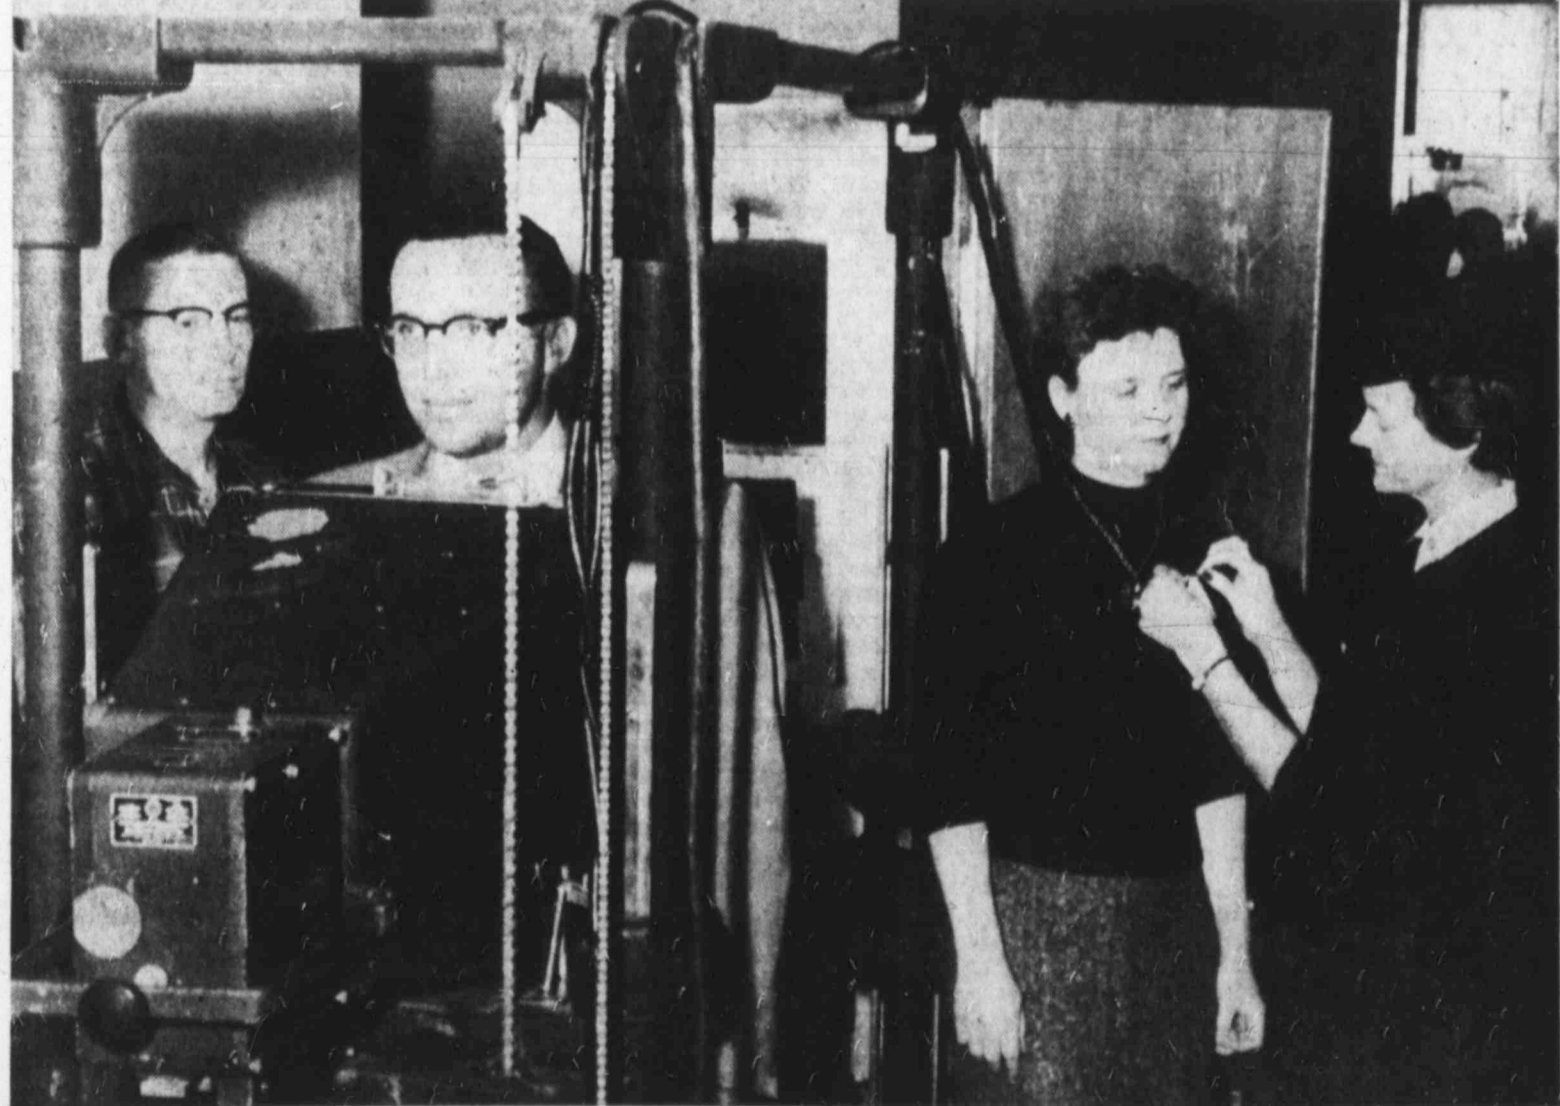

He said, however, that he had hesitated himself to initiate such hearings.

"The secretary general," he said, "has felt that this might be the proper time for a reconsideration of the form to be given to the investigatory activities."

"In view of the active and continued concern of the General Assembly for the development, the Assembly may now wish to establish a special 'ad hoc' committee which would take over the activities of the group of investigators established by the secretary general, and follow them up under somewhat broader terms of reference."

"Such a committee should obviously serve as an organ of the General Assembly your continued observation of developments in relation to Hungary in all these respects which may be of relevance to the Assembly."

He said the committee would report directly to the Assembly rather than to him.

X-Ray Survey Gets Under Way

They got off to a slow start, but technicians for the Texas Health Department had given 192 free chest X-rays by noon today. One of the first to get a chest picture was R. H. Weaver, second from left. Operator of the machine is Carl McElroy of Austin. At extreme right, Be Bowen, city-county nurse, pins a badge showing that Mrs.

V. E. Friedewald has received her X-ray. The machine will be in operation in the court house lobby all this week, administering free X-rays as a part of the Howard County Tuberculosis Association's fight against tuberculosis.

Malthusian Theory Discomfiting

The Rev. Thomas Robert Malthus (1766-1824) propounded the theory that the unchecked growth of population would reduce everyone to poverty. He argued that the system of poor laws, with their indiscriminate system of doles and bounties upon larger families, tended to aggravate the very situation they were supposed to improve. The England of his day poured its wrath upon him, but in the main he stuck to his guns. The Malthusian theory that population tends to overtake and overwhelm the means of subsistence is still as fresh as yesterday's newspaper. Indeed, at the annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in New York last week speakers warned that even the American standard of living might be imperiled by sheer growth of the number of Americans. Fairfield Osborn, president of the Conservation Foundation, said that "assuming that the present rates of increase continue, we shall have 60 million more people in our country within twenty years. Our rate of increase, by the way, is greater than that of India, and higher than even the world average." He thinks the benefits that come from a much larger population "will be outweighed by the disadvantages and problems that will arise." Every city will be twice its present size by the 1950s, Osborn remarked, and the countryside will become "suburbanias, the traffic trickles and streams of 1956 will become ever-flowing rivers in the 80's, the sky above us full of jets, the silent lake and mountain valley hidden beyond 'the last horizon.'" He thinks Egypt's present troubles stem from its immense population growth in the last twenty years while its arable land remains the same. A people such as that, he argues with little or nothing to lose, "is an easy prey for dictatorship and aggressive action by its leaders." One of the remarkable features of our world today is that after a generation and a half of wars, wholesale famines in many parts of the world, and millions of executions in Russia and Hitler's Reich, world population has soared to dizzy heights. Human fertility not only seems unimpaird by repeated disasters, but actually to have been enhanced by them. If old Malthus was right, the outlook for the next 25 years isn't encouraging.

Among Liars, Texas Doesn't Win

The annual Burlington Liars' Club contest in Burlington, Wis., developed an embarrassing situation this year. For the first time in history a Wisconsin man won top prize, a Mr. Albert Hopkins of Madison, the state capital. Usually whatever onus attaches to the championship falls on a resident of some "foreign" state. But Wisconsin need not feel discomfited. The winning story this year isn't likely to reach worldwide circulation, and thereby reflect on the veracity of Wisconsinites. Brother Hopkins' whooper was at the expense of a nightmarish South Dakota scene. South Dakota has a particularly sticky kind of mud called gumbo, which often clogs up the wheels of autos that they won't revolve. Well, averred Brother Hopkins, one time when it rained in South Dakota a farmer lost his hogs when gumbo accumulated on their tails to such an extent and it pulled the skin so tight they couldn't get their eyes shut, hence died from lack of sleep. Honorable mention went to a Kansan, Peter C. Koster of Wichita, who told of a baseball game so perfect that when it started to rain in cloudburst volume at the end of the sixth inning and flooded the diamond, the game was finished in water knee-deep without getting the ball wet. Poor old Texas is slipping. This year's Burlington contest brought from Jacob Sandage of Brownfield an "impossible statement"—once upon a time there was a man who understood women. The dispatch did not say what was awarded Brother Sandage, but whatever it was he probably deserves it.

Walter Lippmann Some Middle Eastern Realities

It would be a mistake, I think, to shape our policy in a way which forces, or appears to force, the Middle Eastern countries to make a public and definite choice, as to who will be their protector, between the Soviet Union and ourselves. It will be tactless and it will be unwise to do this. The natural line of their policy is to avoid being aligned irrevocably with either side, and then to play one side against the other, to profit by the competition of the great powers for their favor. Any declaration of policy that we make ought to take full account of all this. As a matter of fact, the very best we can now hope for in the Middle East is that the Arab countries will remain unaligned and in a middle position. It is, therefore, not only misleading but almost certainly mischievous to keep saying that with the collapse of the British authority in the Middle East, there is a "vacuum of power," which the United States must fill. Whatever else the United States can do, it certainly cannot play the role that Britain used to play. Britain was once not only the paramount military power. It was also the controlling power in Egypt, and in most of the Arab states. Not only has Britain ceased to play that role. The role itself no longer exists for anyone to play. In thinking about the Middle East, there are two general conceptions, one of which we must choose. The first is to think of the Middle East as the stake in the great conflict between the Soviet Union and the United States. That is the way we approach the problem, whatever we offer the Arab states as military protection or economic assistance will carry with it the implication that they must make their choice between Moscow and Washington. The other way to think about the Arab countries is in terms of a balance of power within which they remain independent and unaligned. This is the approach which best reflects the realities of the military situation in the Middle East, and the true

Roaming Bottle

LINCOLN, Neb. — On the spur-of-the-moment one day in October, 1953, the LaVerne Sutton family of Alvo, Neb., placed a note in a bottle and tossed it into the Missouri River near Rulo, Neb. Three years later the bottle turned up on the shores of the Eider River in North Germany, probably 8,000 water miles away. The surprised Suttons learned about it in a German postmarked letter from one Otho Andersen, who said "yor bottelpest" was found on the Eider's shore "by the peninsula Eiderstedt, Germany, near the town Toning, sharp by the village Vollerwiek on the mouth of the Eider."

Slave Revival

HONG KONG — The government recently uncovered the first case of "Mui Tsai" — sale of children for slavery — since the British authorities stamped out the ancient Chinese practice many years ago. A 14-year-old girl and her 10-year-old brother were kidnapped from their home, the Social Welfare Office reports and sold to an elderly farmer for 200 dollars (35 dollars U. S.). The case had an odd ending. Welfare officers awarded the boy to the farmer after the youngster said he wanted to remain with the old man. The girl was returned to her parents.

Ike Action Dramatic But Vague

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration, faced with the necessity of taking some kind of leadership in the Middle East where the British and French have been discredited, has acted dramatically but vaguely. The President went before Congress Saturday with what has been called a program but which is really an outline for a program. And, for the most part, it was not new.

Its vagueness raised questions which may keep the Russians guessing. The questions will also keep Congress and the public guessing until Eisenhower's aides answer some of them. Nevertheless, since action is needed at this time, and since some action seems better than drifting, Congress will probably approve some of what Eisenhower asked. Time and events will show whether his judgment was good or bad. This country has given the Middle East economic aid. Eisenhower asked Congress to increase it. But how it will be used he didn't say. At this time he probably doesn't know since it isn't clear what Middle Eastern nations want it or would accept it. He told Congress he wants to give Middle Eastern countries military assistance — arms — and this idea is not new although Secretary of State Dulles has been hemming and hawing for months about giving that area arms. He held off giving Egyptian President Nasser arms until Nasser got them from Russia. He wouldn't sell arms to Israel but left the door open for American allies to supply the Israelis, which they did. He let tanks go to Saudi Arabia.

Reds Fail In FBI Plants

NEW YORK — The Federal Bureau of Investigation has had notable success in planting its agents in the Communist network for investigative purposes. The question naturally arises, "Why don't the Commies try to plant a few of their key men in the FBI?" The answer is, they have tried again and again—and failed. "The Communists are known to have made numerous efforts to penetrate the FBI, but there is no evidence that they ever succeeded," says Don Whitehead in "The FBI Story," a biography of the mysterious government agency that has become a smash best-seller in the nation's bookstalls. More than a year ago Whitehead, top war correspondent, twice winner of the Pulitzer prize, and now chief of the Washington Bureau of the New York Herald Tribune, set out to find the answer to two problems that puzzled him:

How had J. Edgar Hoover managed to survive for 30 years as director of the FBI in a city as full of political intrigue as the nation's capital? Was there any truth to insinuations that the FBI represented a shadowy menace to civil rights? Like the trained reporter he is, Whitehead went to the fountainhead and asked and received permission to inspect FBI files, except those dealing with national security. The result is his book, subtitled, "A Report to the People," which strips away some of the mystery and perhaps a bit of the glamor that has surrounded the FBI but at the same time documents fully its magnificent record of public service. It is a report long overdue—one that should do much to clear away any mistaken mistrust of the FBI, a mistrust for which in at least some small measure the FBI's own secrecy is to blame. The FBI emerges not so much an organization of superleuths as it does a closely knit group of intelligent, hard-working men who share a fantastic loyalty, a dedicated purpose, and a discipline that any army could be proud of. "Hoover is the FBI," says Whitehead. He makes it clear the reason Hoover has held his top role so long—he has served under five presidents—is precisely because he took the FBI out of party politics and fought to keep it out. The FBI's success in catching all kinds of criminals ranging from landgrabbers to bankrobbers, from kidnapers to Communist spies is backgrounded with enough sensational cases to make a dozen movies. Whitehead also cites many little-known facts about the FBI, such as: Its agents are taught to fire a gun with either hand, and one of their slogans is "Never shoot while running." That only one FBI agent—and that was back in the lush days of prohibition—ever had to be fired for taking a bribe. That, although most of its agents could earn twice as much money outside the service, the FBI in 1955 had a monthly turnover of less than one-half of one per cent, compared with 3.3 per cent for private industry.

Around The Rim

What Excitement, When It Rains!

Perhaps it is because, as they say, it rains only by accident in West Texas, but there's nothing accelerates the pulses of newsmen around here like a bit of falling moisture. When the skies come tumbling down, we all—as Mr. J. R. Williams of "Our Way" comic strip fame likes to say—"feel like we'd like to live a thousand years." The Suez crisis, the retreat to vacation haunts of President Eisenhower, the labor strikes—they can all become rather humdrum. But, ah, the elements, and especially the rain. Nothing gets the telephone lines to buzzing like the Pennies From Heaven. Our correspondents in the outlying precincts, who obviously know a good and sure story when they see one, "protect" us in their areas, unless they happen to be waterbound or are concerned with getting their heirs and heiresses to and from school. Mr. Pickle, our foreman, has developed a splendid talent for writing a weather story, developed, no doubt, by the fact that he relishes the job. He can see drama in every mud puddle, excitement in every running gutter. Before he can dispatch his masterpiece to the back shop, however, each of us contributes what information we might have learned from talking with various individuals from the hinterlands.

If the downpour is heavier on Lancaster Street than it is on East 18th, then naturally that bit of information must be inscribed for posterity. If the creeks get out of their banks and some roads become impassable, so much the better for the story. Time was when it rained here, it didn't take much of the liquid to back up over Third Street in the west part of town. That always made for special interest. The city had to go and eliminate that possibility, however, by improving the drainage problem in that part of town. All heavy downpours are not compared around here with the Johnstown flood or the rise on the Trinity river that inundated downtown Fort Worth, they're likened to the great rain of '23 in Big Spring, the one in which some individuals had to take row boats to get out of buildings at the lower end of Main Street. There's never been anything quite like it since. The cameraman always finds himself busy when the heavens open up and pelt us with moisture. Chickens forced to roost on the top of their coops, a pretty girl leaping in a running brook bare-footed, with shoes in hand—they're always favorite subjects. What excitement. What activity. What a shame it doesn't rain out here more often. —TOMMY HART

When The Old Home Place Is Sold

No matter how long we have been away or how far we have wandered, word that the Old Home Place is on the auction block is like an icicle in the heart. All around the world, the heart will grow a little cold for countless persons when they hear that Malabar Farm, probably the most famous agricultural enclave in the United States, is for sale. For the innumerable friends of the late Mary and Louis Bromfield, Malabar farm was far more than the most famous agricultural enclave in the nation: It was the Old Home Place to which we could always return and find the welcome warm, loving and gay. But now the decision to sell the farm has been made by their three daughters and the executors of the estate. Everything except the furnishings of the Big House is to go. It has been obvious since Louie died nine months ago that no other person had the vitality or will to carry on the agricultural experimentation to which this novelist turned when he and his family came home from their long residence in France in 1938. Between Louie and the land and between him and all animals there was a mystical union that dramatically changed the pattern of his life when he came back, in his mid-years, to the Ohio valley where he was born and reared. The hope of everyone concerned is that Malabar will be bought by some group such as the Friends of the Land, and thus that the conservation program and experimental work begun by Louie will be continued. It is the dream of the Friends, a conservation group of whom Louie was vice president, to acquire Malabar as an agricultural research headquarters and as an ecological center. (Ecology, if you are as ignorant as I, treats of the relations between organisms—man and animals—and their environment.) The Friends can only hope that some big, rich foundation interested in such problems will provide the funds. The farm of 650 acres, together with the Big House, the Bailey house (one of the most beautiful old farm homes in this country), the four tenant houses and all the barns will be advertised for $150,000. Nothing about the impending sale surprises me so much as the asking price: I doubt if the Big House could be built for that sum today. Only a few days ago a man who, with hundreds of other persons, looked upon Malabar as a home away from home said that if the person who had visited at the farm only wrote a check for the Scotch they had consumed there, the purchase price of Malabar could be raised in a week. For years, Malabar was a way station between Broadway and Hollywood (Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart were married there). It sheltered for long periods the children of Bromfield friends who were divorced or fallen on evil days. It was swamped by sightseers from all over the world and by thousands of dog fanciers who wanted to see the famous Boxers. But that era died with Louie and the best we may think of Malabar as a second Old Home Place, can hope for is that it gets into the hands of some dedicated group that will continue there the work Louie began. Impending Crisis From Inflation

WASHINGTON—An atmosphere of impending crisis surrounds the new Congress. There is an air of anxiety, and it stems from internal as well as external factors. The uncertainty about the Middle East and the turbulence in the satellite states of Eastern Europe which could cause a crumbling of the Kremlin are in the headlines every day, but there is something else which isn't—the growing fear that America's economy faces some serious storms in the months ahead. The Congress remains divided on party lines almost exactly as it did after the 1954 election. That's because contests for local issues play a vital part. Hence, the popularity of a President cannot influence the result in Congress, as is sometimes assumed. The main reason why the Republican party didn't get an overwhelming vote in both houses of Congress was economic. There was a business recession in 1954 and a farm recession in 1955. Now the biggest threat that faces the party in power is the prospect of another setback to business. This can come as a result of the wage and price inflation now being experienced in many industries. America doesn't have a free economy, as is so often insisted. If cartels and monopolies were to fix prices, the public would understand, and there would be a demand for vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws. Yet, when an artificial factor that fixes prices and interferes with the free flow of goods to market is imposed by another type of monopoly—the labor-union cartels—then there is little public understanding or complaint. Today's economic danger lies in the fact that a habit has developed in labor-union negotiations to demand more and more each year, irrespective of whether the prices of the goods manufactured are forced upward to a point where the buyers cannot absorb them. "They cry of business men on every side is 'rising costs.' Nobody seems to be able to forecast when the inflationary trend will stop. For when wages go up, prices are raised, too. The doctrine of labor leaders that wage increases can be absorbed indefinitely out of high profits has in it a basic fallacy. For, while profits do decline, wages never drop except when the bottom has fallen out of everything and a depression is on. There is, therefore, no flexibility in America's economic system as at present constituted. The Federal Reserve Board may make money "tight" and limit credit, but it can do nothing to stop the wage spiral which is at the bottom of the money inflation. Companies seek to expand and expand in order to produce a bigger and bigger volume of goods, hoping thereby to get greater productivity and higher profits. But there is on the horizon already some signs that the cycle is coming to an end—the period of rising costs can be halted apparently only by a curtailment of buying due to the price rises. This is called "resistance" to prices, and the big question of the hour is how near is the nation to that point in the current operations of business. The root of the trouble is the failure to understand that the profit system is also a loss system and that the persons who do not invest capital and have no primary responsibility for earning a profit cannot be permitted to force a narrower and narrower spread between profits and costs. The end result of such a pressure is bound to be unemployment for many workers. The prophecies and forecasts for 1957 as issued at the beginning of the new year are, as usual, optimistic. But the situation underneath is not stable. One reason, of course, is that every business must put aside 52 cents out of every dollar of profit for federal taxes, and there is no sign of tax reduction. Congress is still in a mood to spend more and more. The problem of the business man is how to multiply his 46-cent segment of the profit dollar—and that requires a bigger and bigger volume of sales. When this is not forthcoming, then there must be a reduction in costs. Otherwise, red figures appear, and eventually come a liquidation of the business. And in too many enterprises the labor cost is fixed. It not only can't be reduced, but labor leaders are insisting that it must go up every year so they can keep their jobs in the unions against rival candidates. This is the road to economic disaster in America, yet few voices have been raised—and few will be in Congress—to head off the present cycle of wage rises is continued without a corresponding increase in business profits to take care of these costs and to provide reserves for new equipment and plant expansion. Mine Alert

HONOLULU — Hawaii residents have been alerted to watch out for enemy mines — not because of any current crisis, but from World War II and the Korean conflict. The Navy said eight Japanese World War II mines have floated up here in the past 18 months. More are expected. And, the warning said, Russian-made mines sown by the North Koreans are expected to break loose and float here. Several of the mines already have killed persons in Japan, the Navy said.

Frozen Cash

MATADOR — Frozen lettuce was one item Mrs. Harold Campbell had not counted on storing in her ranch home deep freeze near Matador, Tex. Then the Campbell Ranch received an urgent phone call from the butcher in town. He had started looking for the weekend receipts which he had hidden in the freezing department. Had Mrs. Campbell noticed anything unusual in her purchases? Only the unlabeled package. She then discovered, to the butcher's delight, that it contained about $1,200 in cool cash.

in the Los Angeles area where she was held most of Friday. The man gave her whisky and pills, she said.

"I hid them in the hollow of my cheek and later got rid of them," she said. "They apparently thought the pills had knocked me out." It was then, she said, that she phoned Carroll and they started to leave as she told newsmen how her abductors had hit her "more than once." She cried again when a reporter asked her, "Why?"

One of her attorneys, Norman Brand, said: "Marie, you already have given that statement to police. After she was found on the desert near Indio Friday night, police questioned her at an Indio hospital. Detectives at the scene backed up statements of her physician that there was no indication that she had been raped."

When another reporter asked her yesterday if there was any "vindictiveness" in the kidnapping, her second attorney, Jerry Giesler, warned her: "It would be best not to say anything on this matter, as it might be misinterpreted."

Her new conference was her first meeting with newsmen since her disappearance. She covered her face with a veil and dark glasses as her mother and actor Wilding escorted her from the Indio hospital yesterday to a waiting ambulance, which returned her to her big home in this Los Angeles suburb.

A dentist called yesterday prior to her press conference and temporarily repaired two caps broken from her face with a veil and dark glasses as her mother and actor Wilding escorted her from the Indio hospital yesterday to a waiting ambulance, which returned her to her big home in this Los Angeles suburb.

Karl, speaking to newsmen later at his Bel-Air home, said, "This is the first kidnap I ever heard of where ransom money was not mentioned when the kidnapers phoned."

He said he wanted to know "if this is a kidnapping" or not. Detectives said Saturday that they were considering the case a "bona fide kidnapping."

Elvis Hanged In Effigy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Singer Elvis (The Pelvis) Presley was hanged in effigy near Nashville yesterday. The dummy drew a good crowd, but whoever pulled the stunt botched it — no blue suede shoes, not even sideburns. The dummy, with the word "Elvis" emblazoned across its back, dangled from an overpass on a highway southeast of the city. It was clad in a red shirt, blue jeans, light colored leather sandals and a brown duck-billed cap. Its pockets bulged with phony money. When a state trooper hauled down the effigy, shouts from the crowd included: "Don't be cruel," and "Y' ain't nothin' but a houn' dog"—titles of songs made popular by the radio, television and recording star. An ambulance, probably summoned by a prankster, took the dummy away to a funeral home, much to the delight of the crowd, which numbered several hundred. Presley was in New York yesterday, where he appeared on the Ed Sullivan television show last night.

NO MORE LIQUID SODIUM MOTORS TO BE BUILT
Diagrams show basic principles of nuclear power plants of Nautilus and Seawolf

ATOM-POWERED SUBMARINE Navy Drops Motor Design Which Failed On Seawolf

WASHINGTON (AP)—When the Navy began moving into nuclear propulsion development six years ago it announced several types of reactors would be built and tested to decide which were best. It started its work with submarines. The first nuclear submarine was the Nautilus. It was highly successful. The second was the Seawolf. It was a flop. No more power plants like the one installed in that sub will be used.

There is this difference, however: In the Nautilus the heat energy from the atomic firebox is transferred to the steam-producing unit by passing water through the firebox and then through the steam-generating unit. The heat of the pressurized flow of water is transferred, through the walls of pipes, to the steam-generating unit. The steam so generated spins the turbine. In the heat exchanger, radioactivity is not passed on, but remains in the shielded section of the power plant. In the Seawolf propulsion system, the heat exchange medium is liquid sodium metal. To keep the sodium flowing through the heat exchange system, a magnetic "pump" is used. A field of electricity is created by wires wrapped around the pump. The sodium is drawn through by the magnetic action of the field. In theory, the sodium system should be more efficient. The material is a better conductor of heat than water. The pumping system is far smaller, much simpler in operation than the big pressure pumps used for water.

However, when the Seawolf's reactor was started up and run for some time the Navy says it discovered that the chemical reaction of the sodium worked into the pipes, resulting in cracks. The Navy announced several weeks ago that it "hoped" to send the Seawolf out on sea trials in January. However, since then there has been a growing belief that a new heat transfer system will have to be installed in the Seawolf. In addition to the Nautilus and Seawolf, the Navy has seven other atomic-powered submarines in its active building program. Authority has been requested for construction of six more. All of the new submarines will use some form of water transfer, instead of sodium, in their propulsion system.

Arabs View Ike's Mid-East Troops Plan With Misgivings

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's plan for blocking communism in the Middle East was viewed with misgivings today in most of the Arab world. Reaction elsewhere ranged from enthusiasm in some Western European countries to cries of "rude interference" from Moscow. Non-Arab allies of the United States in the Middle East welcomed the program.

Hungary Combines Aid Plea, Stalinism

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Premier Janos Kadar's Soviet-installed government, taking the wraps off its long-promised "new program," combines get-tough Stalinism with an appeal to the West for financial aid. The program was issued yesterday from the Premier's office in Parliament building, ringed by protecting Russian tanks. It was broadcast as a 10,000-word statement over the Budapest radio.

The statement probably got its final drafting last week while visiting Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev looked on. The Hungarians, led by some informants to expect a "surprisingly mild" declaration, were told among other things: "There is a dictatorship of the proletariat in Hungary. . . . The counterrevolutionaries and persons who attack the legal order and the basic principles of the people's democracy have no freedom even if they mask their counterrevolutionary efforts by democratic slogans. The law will always punish them severely. . . . In an obvious reference to the Soviet-crushed revolt in November, the statement said: "People of petty bourgeois thinking or people who were masking themselves as Marxists set as their aim the disintegration of social order and the dissolution of it whereby they used slogans like democratization, de-Stalinization and others. . . . It is therefore a main task to strengthen the people's democratic installations and organizations. . . . The statement said "the government is planning talks with various public figures and non-partisan experts aimed at their participation in leading state affairs with the government." This indicated some sort of coalition government but did not mention any non-Communist parties. The government pledged a continuation of the socialization of agriculture and asserted that "steps will be taken with all the severity of the dictatorship of the proletariat against people who damage agricultural installations. . . . The statement blasted Stalinists leaders Matyas Rakosi and Erno Gero as well as Imry Nagy, who succeeded them and was ousted as premier by Kadar and his supporters with Russian help. The government also proclaimed that it "respects the freedom of belief of all citizens and considers the standpoint of religious questions a private matter. . . . It secures full freedom to the churches and confessions."

restraint, saying many phases of the Eisenhower plan remained to be explained. Many Arabs throughout the area expressed disappointment that the President passed quickly over the Israel-Arab dispute, leaving the United Nations to continue its so far unsuccessful efforts to solve this problem. Sampling of opinion in Beirut showed general disappointment in the doctrine. But a number of Arabs found some "good things" in it, such as an implication of stronger U. S. support for independence movements. One Arab expressed the view that Eisenhower put across "an excellent piece of diplomacy." He explained: "Had Eisenhower mentioned anything about Israel, Britain and France, he would have scared Congress away from giving him standby authority. Once he gets that power, he can do what he wants and he will do what's right."

Boy, 14, Admits Child's Death

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Multilated by 115 stab wounds, the body of frail, blonde Rose Ann White, 8, was found by a railroad track here yesterday. A 14-year-old boy admitted the crime. Roger Brown's "principal concern" was that he might lose the lethal knife, reported Dep. Dist. Atty. J. Clinton Peterson. Young Brown led authorities at 3:30 a.m. to the place where Rose Ann's body was buried loosely under a pile of thistles and grass. Peterson said Roger, the stepson of Sgt. Merrill Brown of the 436th Antiaircraft Battalion at nearby Travis Air Force Base, confessed the killing calmly and told how he later went home to work on a stamp collection and watch television. Last night in the Solano County Jail at Vallejo, Roger wept a little talking to reporters and said he "wished" the girl was alive. An autopsy disclosed that the child had been criminally attacked, her pants had been fractured three times. Roger had been employed to take care of Rose Ann at various times while her mother Mrs. Frank White, 33, worked at her job as a beer parlor waitress. The child's father is an airman in Japan. Roger said while they were playing Saturday along the railroad track, he tripped and Rose Ann fell over him, knocking herself unconscious on a rock. While she was unconscious, officers said, the boy related he beat her on the head with a rock and then stabbed her repeatedly. He removed her pants and buried them, officers said, because he left bloody finger prints on them when he turned her over. Philip Lynch, the district attorney, said a charge would be filed against the boy today so that he could be certified to Juvenile Court.

Ike Does Turnabout On Mid-East Policy

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, who on Oct. 31 criticized the use of force in the Middle East, is now seeking advance authority to use it there if necessary. He also wants to send arms to Middle Eastern nations, although his administration has often stated its determination to avoid an arms race in the Middle East. In his new division of Middle East responsibility between the United States and the United Nations, as expressed to Congress Saturday, Eisenhower has left himself wide flexibility to act or not to act. But he might also be open to criticism that his proposal for U. S. defense of an attacked Middle Eastern country is about what the Russians practiced in Hungary. These points emerged in the wake of the President's dramatic personal appeal for congressional support of his military-economic formula for blocking Communist expansion in the Middle East. Officials concluded about them acknowledged that: 1. The administration considers the situation has changed since Oct. 31, when Eisenhower told a nationwide radio-TV audience that there "will be no United States involvement in these present hostilities," meaning the Israeli-British-French invasions of Egypt. Eisenhower at that time called the British-French intervention an "error" and declared, "We do not accept the use of force as a settlement or proper instrument for the settlement of international disputes." Eisenhower's new Mid East plan calls for fight-if-necessary authority coupled with military and economic aid programs. Its basic premise is use of force, if necessary. 2. The President's message to Congress and the 600-word resolution introduced in the House deal the United States in on any future arms shipments to the Middle East. The resolution would specifically authorize "military assistance programs with any nation or group of nations of that area desiring such assistance." Heretofore, the United States has kept studiously aloof from major arms deals with the area, letting Britain and France fill that role for the West. 3. The message and resolution make clear U. S. awareness of its treaty obligations, especially the United Nations Charter. The U. N. Security Council's role under the charter as the agency of "primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security" is liberally acknowledged. But the U. S. veto in the council there could block any action there which Eisenhower considered unfavorable, officials said. On the other hand, unilateral U. S. action could be held up by the President if he wanted to wait until the council did something first. 4. Basic to the Eisenhower Middle East proposal is the idea that the United Nations is powerless to handle Russia in the Middle East and that any U. S. action would be taken only after a request from a country in the area. The Russians have used similar arguments in explaining why they sent the Red army into Hungary two months ago. They contended that outsiders—"Fascists" instead of Communists—were endangering Hungarian security and that the Hungarian government requested Soviet help.

Peacetime Atoms Industry Meeting Double Challenge

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The new year finds the peacetime atomic industry speeding toward a double challenge—Russian and British threats to U. S. leadership, and the possible entry of the government into A-power production.

Congress authorized the first atomic merchant ship, a 12,000-ton freight-and-passenger carrier. President Eisenhower called it "the forerunner of atomic merchant and passenger fleets which will unite the nations of the world in peaceful trade."

Six companies were at work on the development of atomic warplanes. The atomic instruments industry continued to expand rapidly. Radioactive isotopes found new uses in industrial processes and food preservation.

On the atom-for-peace front, President Eisenhower's 1953 proposal for an international pool of peacetime nuclear materials and know-how made its greatest gains, in these three 1956 "firsts":
1. The government earmarked 40,000 kilograms of U.S. uranium fuel for peaceful uses, half at home and half abroad.
2. The first bilateral agreement was signed — with Australia, France, the Netherlands and Switzerland—fixing terms by which this country will provide materials and information for power reactors abroad. Twenty-five similar agreements, affecting research reactors, had been signed in 1955.
3. History's first international atomic document was signed by 81 nations at the United Nations in New York Oct. 23. It was the statute for an international atomic energy agency which will come into being in 1957, upon ratification by 18 of the countries.

Military Firsts Born In Southwest

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 7 (AP)—Ask any 10-year-old movie or TV fan: Texas Rangers are nude without a pistol.

The preponderance of cloud-free days. And a couple of trouble periods along the Mexican-Texas border and frequent battles with Indians demonstrated the need for new weapons and tactics.

In the light of this record, why all the concern over the country's atomic future? Why the quarrel with the view of Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, who contends private industry is moving ahead just as swiftly as the unfolding knowledge of nuclear science permits?
Strauss' critics reply that most of the projected big power reactors—those which will teach industry how to build plants that can compete in cost with coal and hydro generators — still exist only on paper.

Fight Indians and outlaws without a pistol? Incredible. So the Texas Rangers taught the cavalry how to use a five-shot coil revolver in close mounted fighting, and rifles and carbines when dismounted.

And recent giant strides by the British and Russians, they contend, raise the possibility that one or both of those countries might wrest leadership from the United States in the crucial decade ahead.

Such an outcome, they argue, would be a grave loss of American prestige and an opportunity for Russia to do what this country would like to do — use the peaceful atom to cement friendship and trading ties with the underdeveloped countries.

What the Rangers taught the cavalry revolutionized horse troop tactics, and it apparently set off a love affair between the Army and the Southwest.

Wrecks still obstructing the canal made their passage north to Port Said a tricky navigating problem. Col. Mahmoud Yunes, managing director of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority, estimated it might take until Thursday to get all 13 out of the canal.

The Egyptians themselves undertook the job of moving the trapped freighters and tankers, spurning offers from the U. N. salvage fleet clearing the ships and bridges which Egypt sank in the canal after British and French warplanes began to bombard Oct. 31.

Since then, the southwest United States in what is now the 4th Army area has been the cradle of many of democracy's most awesome weapons and revolutionary military tactics.

The stranded ships were in a southbound convoy which left Port Said Oct. 30. They were caught about seven miles north of Ismailia, the canal halfway point, and most of their crews have been living in Cairo.

Britain, power-hungry, opened the world's first commercial-size atomic power plant Oct. 13. Two more are under construction, three more will be started this year, at least half a dozen more will follow.

In these days, it's atomic weapons and missiles. But in 1840, the repeating pistol was a radically new weapon for cavalrymen.

Russia has had a small reactor turning out some electricity since 1954 but has announced a vast program which tops the British. The Soviets say they will have 2,400,000 kilowatts of atomic power capacity by 1960.

The United States will bring its first big reactor into operation in 1957, the AEC-Duquesne Light Co. plant near Pittsburgh. The industry expects to have five more in operation by 1960. Its present atomic power target is 800,000 kilowatts by 1960, or a third of Russia's intended nuclear capacity.

It's been that way ever since—military innovations springing up in the Southwest. Look at some of these firsts:

The trip north for the ships involved being tugged around until they were headed north, the first time vessels have ever changed direction in the canal.

Moreover, the formally announced plans for U. S. reactors do not tell the whole story. James A. Lane of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory told the American Nuclear Society in June that 172 reactors of all types may be built by 1960. He enumerated:
"Indications are that by 1960 as many as 84 U. S. research reactor prototypes, and 31 reactors, 50 foreign research reactors, 37 U. S. power reactors or foreign power reactors will have been built."

First atomic explosion, military airplane flight, flag and light communications, artillery school of fire, school of musketry, division maneuvers, scouting and photographing from the air, truck companies, triangular division, Army vs. Army maneuvers.

When all were turned, the convoy was to head north under its own power but the ships were to be tugged past obstructions still blocking the normal channel.

However, nuclear progress is not measured by counting kilowatts. The American strategy has been to develop and test a variety of types and sizes of reactor, and this country's technological superiority is acknowledged by neutral experts.

All of these firsts for the Southwest came for a variety of reasons, William Sholl Jr. shows in a survey of the history of the 4th Army area which has headquarters here.

When all were turned, the convoy was to head north under its own power but the ships were to be tugged past obstructions still blocking the normal channel.

One reason is that Southwest land owners often are willing to lease their land for large maneuvers. A group of Central Texans balked at this a few years ago, so large-scale maneuvers simply were moved to Louisiana.

Under eagerly sought government contracts the industry was building a fleet of 15 atomic submarines and starting work on an 85,000-ton atomic aircraft carrier and the Navy's first atomic cruiser.

Aerial firsts can be credited to the Southwest.

Adlai Calls For 'Offensive' To Win Back White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson called today for a four-year "sustained offensive" by the Democrats against the Republicans in an effort to win back the White House.

Stevenson, the 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, said in an interview he believes the best way to get ready for the 1960 and 1962 elections is for Democrats in and out of Congress to work together.

"We must have a sustained offensive throughout the next four years and that is the best way to get it," he declared. "We must have a broad base of operations from which we can bring in government decisions not to become members of it."

House Due Battle Over Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional fight over civil rights proposals seemed likely today to break out again in about two weeks, this time in the House.

Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House Judiciary Committee said in an interview that civil rights bills have "No. 1 priority" with that group.

Stevenson said he will continue to be active as a member of the party's policy advisory committee which pitched up its surface differences with Democratic leaders of Congress in a weekend meeting here.

Passenger Dies In Plane Crash

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Only six miles north of Tulsa Municipal Airport, an American Airlines passenger plane tore into a partially wooded area yesterday, narrowly missing a power line and scrub oak trees and fatally injuring one passenger.

Speed is the keynote of strategy worked out by Celler and other House backers of such legislation. They made their plans even before the House passed a bill last Friday for a rules change that would have made it easier to curb filibusters.

Stevenson said he thought there had been a "misinterpretation" of the advisory group's role and believed it could work closely with the congressional leaders without undue friction.

13 Ships Wend Way In Canal

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—Thirteen ships of seven American flag vessels were on their way out of the Suez Canal today, more than two months after the British-French invasion and Egyptian countermeasures bottled them up in the waterway.

Once the judiciary committee is able to meet, Celler said, a week should be enough to act on civil rights legislation. The group's senior Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.), the House Majority Leader, said on a television program yesterday he looks for "a civil rights program to pass the House this year, with a reasonable expectation of passing the Senate and becoming law."

Stevenson said he will continue to be active as a member of the party's policy advisory committee which pitched up its surface differences with Democratic leaders of Congress in a weekend meeting here.

Violent Deaths In Texas Take Dip

By The Associated Press
Violent deaths in Texas, which soared during the Christmas and New Year holidays, took a dip over the weekend.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), one of those who sought to change the Senate rules to stifle filibusters, said the failure of that effort "meant the death knell to any meaningful civil rights legislation in this session of Congress."

Stevenson said he will continue to be active as a member of the party's policy advisory committee which pitched up its surface differences with Democratic leaders of Congress in a weekend meeting here.

Date Moved Up

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Doctors attending Princess Grace of Monaco again today moved forward the date her baby is expected. This time the prediction is Jan. 20. The doctors at first predict sometime early in February. Last week they said Jan. 25 was more likely.

Stevenson said he will continue to be active as a member of the party's policy advisory committee which pitched up its surface differences with Democratic leaders of Congress in a weekend meeting here.

Train Collision

WELWYN GARDEN CITY, England (AP)—An express train rammed into the rear of a crowded local train today, sending cars sprawling over the right-of-way. Police said at least one person was killed and 24 others injured.

Note Christmas

DELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Most of Yugoslavia's millions of Serbian Orthodox faithfuls celebrated Christmas today although it isn't an official holiday in this Communist country.

Stevenson said he will continue to be active as a member of the party's policy advisory committee which pitched up its surface differences with Democratic leaders of Congress in a weekend meeting here.

Leonard W. Hall replied yesterday in a statement expressing confidence that Democratic Congress members "will give his (Eisenhower's) recommendations serious and careful consideration in the spirit of genuine bipartisanship that has always marked congressional decisions on foreign affairs."

He described the Democratic statement as "petty partisan politics."

new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thirty" colon. A "thirty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

Click's Press Has Steady Growth

Click's Press celebrated its third anniversary last Tuesday, New Year's Day, and the progress made by the firm in that three years is shown in its increase in physical size. When Merrill Click opened shop on Jan. 1, 1954, he was using a garage and working part-time. But today, the business has grown into a new building at 302 E. Ninth, and he employs one full-time man besides himself, and also a part-time worker. The type of high quality work that was given in January of 1954 has not changed, however, and Click promises to maintain the same standard — and better it. After only six months in the limited space in 1954, he moved to 807 E. 3rd. And only five months ago, he expanded again, added a new equipment and moved into the new building. Until he made the move to 302 E. 9th, Click did only commercial printing, but now with expanded facilities, he has added a stock of Remington typewriters and adding machines. He also has facilities for making rubber stamps. During the current income tax-filing season, a new Remington adding machine will solve many problems. And one can be purchased on a payment plan which will prove cheaper than renting one. Payments as low as $1 per week can be arranged on some models. Both machines come in a variety of colors too, which will add to the beauty of home or office. Adding machines come in mist green, desert sage, honey beige, and gray velour. Typewriters are available in white sand, desert sage, mist green, and French gray. Click also gives a year's free service on any model sold. Check with Click before buying a typewriter or adding machine. Also check with him for rubber stamp needs. Click can make a stamp in his shop and give two-day delivery. Check with Click's press for any type of commercial printing. He also prepares personalized stationery and greeting cards.

Cornelison Cleaners Gives Speedy, Convenient Service

Fast, convenient dry cleaning service is afforded Big Spring residents by the Cornelison Cleaners, 911 Johnson. Owned and operated by Roy Cornelison, who is backed by more than a quarter of a century of experience in the profession, Cornelison Cleaners provides a thorough and efficient dry cleaning and pressing service which prolongs the life of your clothing and gives each garment that fresh-out-of-the-show window appearance typical of the "smart" wardrobe. Only the highest quality cleaning materials are used at Cornelison's. Each step of the cleaning and pressing operation is performed by a workman skilled in the craft and devoted to the task of turning out only first-class work. These characteristics, combined with Cornelison's convenient location and service that is prompt as good work allows, have made the establishment one of the most popular cleaners in Big Spring. Two factors provide the convenience which is demanded by a public always on the go and with little time to spend making special trips to the cleaners with clothing to be processed or to pick up garments which have been cleaned and pressed. These factors are: Cornelison's convenient location — at Tenth and Johnson — and the drive-in service which is provided throughout the day. Big Springers have found that they can stop by Cornelison's while on their way to town to attend to other business, or while en route home after a day on the job or in the business district. Soiled garments may be handed to the friendly drive-in attendant, or she will deliver cleaned clothing to the car.

Montgomery Ward Has Big Supply Of Auto Mufflers

Weatherwise, January, February and March are the real winter months of the West Texas season. These are the months when biting cold is likely to sweep in any time and the days when motorists are forced to drive with their cars tightly closed to keep out the biting breath of the blizzard. Motorists who are wise to not shut up their cars too closely if they have any reason to fear that their muffler is not all it should be. The newspapers' recent case after case where drivers have been found asphyxiated due to leaky mufflers filling their closed cars with deadly carbon monoxide. Therefore, smart motorists, aware that there will be plenty of cold days ahead when it will be necessary to close all of the car windows tightly, look to their mufflers at this season. Those who are particularly smart do something about it — they replace the dangerous old mufflers. That's where Montgomery Ward's big store comes into the picture. Their stocks are complete and the potential threat to life that a leaky muffler can pose can be readily averted. It does not take very much money or time to do the job. Ward's at 221 West Third, will replace the muffler and tail pipe on any 1949-1953 model Ford or Chevrolet for only $11.44. The price for 1949-1953 Plymouths and 1954-1955 Fords and Chevrolets is only $13.44. This price includes installation by skilled service department employees. If your muffler is bad and you are afraid some tragedy could develop because of it, the wise thing for you to do is to go to Ward's

Has Hair-Care Secrets

Actress Jeanne Evans whose busy TV life keeps her keyed-up throughout the day, tells Hollywood Beauty readers how she releases nervous tension at the end of her working hours. She also shares her secrets of keeping her lovely auburn hair in a good condition. Jeanne plays an active role on the CBS-TV "Bob Cummings Show."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Made Thorough Tests For Color Of Her Hair

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Until I saw Jeanne Evans in person I had no idea how beautiful she was. Her unusual coloring with contrasting blue eyes and auburn hair brings comments from all who meet her for the first time.

When I frankly admired her hair she said with delightful candor, "It's not the natural color. As a girl I hated my hair because it was so drab. When I was out of school and went into modeling I colored it. I couldn't afford a professional job so I learned to do it myself."

I wanted to know if she had made a lot of mistakes in choosing the right color.

"No," Jeanne replied. "I was very thorough. I took a sample of my hair and tried various tints until I got approximately the shade I had in mind. Since then I've become so expert that I now blend three shades to get the shade that goes best with my skin coloring."

"Do you think others could do a job as beautiful as yours?" I asked.

"Yes, I do," Jeanne responded. "I believe that practice makes perfect. I am all for any girl doing all she can to improve her appearance. If a girl is satisfied with the way she looks it can change her whole attitude on life and give her the confidence she needs."

"I get lots of compliments on my hair," Jeanne admitted, "but then I take good care of it. I wash it about every four days, brush it a lot and never have a permanent. I have my hair shaped by a wonderful hair stylist who encourages my natural wave. Correct shaping is so important that every girl should have a professional do it."

The talk turned to diets and Jeanne told me her favorite way of getting off those two or three extra pounds was to go on one day of liquids.

"It is so simple and quick," she exclaimed.

"Do you exercise much?" I asked.

"I have two favorites," Jeanne explained. "I lie on the floor and come up and touch my toes with my fingers. I do this 15 or 20 times in the morning."

"At night I have one exercise that is wonderful for releasing tension. I stand up straight, stretch my arms out with straight elbows, clasp my hands. I swing my arms in as big a circle as I can — out and up and around — going in one direction five times and then reverse. I can just feel all my muscles relaxing and letting go."

"Then before I hop into bed I stand before an open window and breathe deeply. With this routine I fall right asleep," Jeanne concluded.

Comfort In Clothing Makes The News In '57 World Of Fashion

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—This spring it will be smart to be comfortable. This is the big news New York designers are passing along to long-suffering American women, on the first day of a week of spring previews for the nation's visiting fashion press.

New clothes are designed to conform to the natural lines of the body, to fit loosely and easily and to require no contortions of wrist, bust or hips. You won't have to wear a strangling waist cincher to fit into your new spring suit or dress. You won't have to pad your bustline or struggle to eliminate your hips.

The general silhouette is slender, but not in the sausage-casing sheath manner. Designers employ many ingenious methods to ease the fit of the new suits and dresses while maintaining the slim line. One of these is the peg-top skirt, still narrow at the hemline, but with slight fullness at the top. Front or back panels also give the illusion of longer lines to the new suit skirts.

Jackets of the new suits are short, ranging from just below the bust to just above the hipbone. Some are loose and boxy, some bloused in back, some semifitted, none tightly fitted.

The cape is an important new trend, being used instead of a suit jacket, sometimes as a part of the jacket, sometimes as an addition to the jacket.

The ankle-length dinner and theater costume continues important in all collections, with full-length evening gowns much more numerous than the shorter varieties, except in junior collections. The elegance and formality launched last spring continues, with definite demarcation between daytime, cocktail and evening clothes.

There's also a covered-up modesty in most of the new fashions, extending from bathing suits to evening gowns.

University Women Meet Saturday For Luncheon, Education Program

Members of the American Association of University Women met at the Settles Hotel for luncheon Saturday, with Mrs. Maurice Koger, Mrs. Bill Grieso, Elizabeth Sims and Mrs. B. L. Sweeney as hostesses. Theme of the program was "The Future of Education."

Mrs. E. M. Keese, speaking on the White House Conference on Education, gave the highlights of that meeting.

She told of the importance of the conference; of the need to educate each child to the extent of his ability; and the need to make the teaching profession more attractive. This should be done, she told the group through salary increases and the emphasis on training for teachers.

Mrs. Keese brought out the fact that there will be a need for double the former amount of money spent for education in the next decade. She stressed the importance of all citizens participating in educational affairs. Most of all, she said, we should encourage the young people to continue their education through the colleges and universities.

Mrs. M. L. Gage discussed "The Lesson Our Schools Don't Teach." This dealt with the teachings of communism, and she told the group that there is not enough known about Russia and the members of the Communist party. Mrs. Gage gave a test at the conclusion of her talk. This was based on the rights and privileges, or the lack of them, for individuals in Russia.

A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Nell Brown,

Mrs. W. S. Shropshire, Ina Mae McCollum and Helen Hurt. The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 7, at 7:30 p.m., in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

Sixteen were present for the meeting Saturday.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

It's nice to pass the Howard College basketball tournament championship around. Five years, four different winners. Only HCJC has won the meet twice, in its inaugural year and again two years later. Lon Morris and Odessa earned it and now San Angelo. Perhaps next year will be Wharton's year. Who knows. There are reports Coach Johnny Frank will come up with a 6-foot-11 boy. If so, he'll be hard to beat. As a matter of fact, Wharton would have been tough as a boot this time had Frank been able to field his regular line.

No team nor coach will wear the crown more graciously than San Angelo College and Phil H. George. George has remarked several times in the past that the local meet is one of the best in the land. And he improves it by bringing his team in here every year.

This appears to be George's "year." The Rams' march to the championship was no fluke. Phil has a great ball club, one that could and should win the Region V championship at Amarillo and go all the way to the National Juco Tournament at Hutchinson, Kansas.

Had HCJC played all its games like it performed against Lon Morris Saturday night, it might have swept through to the championship. The return of Albert Phillips to the Bearcat lineup proved quite a tonic for the Jacksonville team. The Hawks had to be at their best to win, and they were just that — sort of like the Harold Davis ball clubs of old. This current HCJC team has possibilities. It could be great before the end of the season and it isn't doing badly right now — ten wins in 12 starts.

The championship game was sort of anti-climactic, after the dingdong bout between Lon Morris and HCJC for third place. San Angelo won about as it pleased, but it was expected. Coach Glen Morrison of Decatur has done a tremendous job with the Indians but he can't pull rabbits out of a hat. You don't fight a five-alarm fire with an eye-dropper. San Angelo exhibited championship class from the start and there were few who didn't concede them the title after they whipped Amarillo in the opening round of play.

Any number of "firsts" occurred during the tournament. It was, of course, San Angelo's first crown and first time to reach the finals. HCJC, Wharton and Lon Morris all suffered defeats in the opening round, for the first time in the history of the meet. And Schreiner had the satisfaction of winning its first game in the local gymnasium, after losing four in a row. (It then proceeded to lose two more before departing).

Kenneth Boren and Tommy Watkins, both of Decatur; and HCJC's Al Kivonen came closest to make the 1957 all-tournament team. Each lacked only a few votes of joining the favored team. Kivonen probably would have made it had he not been hospitalized recently. In top condition, he'll keep up with anyone. He was outstanding in the Hawks' final game against Lon Morris.

There is some talk O. P. Adams, the former Lon Morris coach, may get back in the coaching job. He's now manager of a farm equipment house in Waco. The drought has hurt the business, however. Too, he misses coaching.

Charles Clark of HCJC, a very effective performer in the tournament, finished all by himself as the leading scorer of the meet, with 70 points.

Archie Carroll of Lon Morris and Wharton's Rudy Davalos were closest to Clark in the scoring derby, each with 56 points and a 19-point average. Then came Carroll's teammate, James Cone, and Odessa's Wayne Evans, 55 each; Bob Boyter, Amarillo; and Jerry Dyer, Wharton, 50 each; Cecil Rucker, Schreiner, 48; and three boys tied with 46 each, Frank Trevino, San Angelo; Bobby Atkins, Wharton; and Cordell Brown, Amarillo.

Monkey Is On Steers' Back In Cage League

There's no escaping it now. The Big Spring Steers have become favorites to capture the District 2-AAAA basketball championship — in their first year as a member. The Longhorns won only the consolation championship of the Odessa tournament last weekend but fared better than any of the other conference entries. Along the way, they beat Midland, 60-28, and Abilene, 62-48. The win over Midland was scored with astonishing ease. Coach Johnny Johnson expects the Bulldogs to be much tougher when the conference race comes on. For one thing, the Bulldogs have all their "horses" back — including Larry Cooper. For another, Glen Selbo's team must have played its worst game against Big Spring, rather than Big Spring did against Alpine the previous day. Abilene gave the Steers all they could handle in the consolation finals and could be a factor in the 2-AAAA race. Ted Lucas is Abilene's top threat. He rated the all-tournament team in Odessa. Big Spring will turn its attention to conference play this week, after meeting Snyder here tomorrow night. The Steers visit Midland for the 2-AAAA opener Friday night. The Steers' game with Snyder should pack the local gym. For one thing, the Tigers have been established as the favorite in their own conference, 3-AAA. For another, Snyder vowed vengeance when the Steers clipped them in Snyder the night of Dec. 11. Their supporters pointed out that their team wasn't ready, having worked out less than a week. Their contention was, at that time, "Watch our smoke in January." Their faith in the Bengals didn't go unrewarded. The team has come a long way. It won the championship in its own tournament, the Canyon Reef meet and only last week simply ran off and hid from another 2-AAAA club, San Angelo, winning, 71-51. In Wayne Prince, Robert Dabbs and Milton Ham, the Steers have three tall players who will give them plenty of authority around the baskets. The Big Spring B team, which is creating about as much of a flurry on the courts as the regulars, meet the Tiger reserves at 6:15 p.m. Local followers will be given their first opportunity to see in action Harold Wilde, who recently moved here from Eula. Wilde is taller than the Steers' ace, Jan Loudermilk, and he's been scoring at better than a 20-points-a-game clip.

TEN VACANCIES EXIST

Cal, Missouri, Iowa State Seeking Head Grid Coaches

By SKIPPER PATRICK ST. LOUIS — Ten major college football coaching vacancies exist in many parts of the country and who will be the new Missouri Valley Conference commissioners today provoked most of the talk in preliminary sessions to the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., opening Wednesday. Who will succeed coaches Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf at California, Jesse Hill at Southern California, Darrell Royal at Washington, Bill Meek at Houston, Don Faurst at Missouri, Vince DiRancaccia at Iowa State, Bernie Crammins at Indiana, Buff Donelli at Boston University, John Sauer at The Citadel, and Lloyd Jordan of Harvard?

While the number of head football coaching openings is the largest in many years, the rumors of who will get the jobs are fewest. Most of the deals are expected to be made here although formal announcements will come from the individual institutions. The Missouri Valley Conference likely will name tonight or tomorrow a successor to Commissioner A. E. (Artie) Eilers, who retires this spring. The top candidates reportedly are Don Rossi, of Dallas, football and basketball official who was Air Force liaison officer in the 1952 Olympics; A. J. (Ike) Tomlinson, athletic director at Arkansas State, Jonesboro; and Norval Nove, former athletic director at Wichita University.

The NCAA's 51st convention opens officially Wednesday. By that time most of the work of six allied athletic organizations will have been completed. The other groups are the American Football Coaches Assn., the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches, the Collegiate Baseball Managers Assn., the National Collegiate Track Coaches Assn., the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame and the Navy V-5 Assn.

While most of the meetings are expected to follow a harmonious pattern, there's possibility of a mild struggle over the NCAA television plan. The Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences, although favoring a controlled program, have campaigned for years for the emphasis on regional rather than coast-to-coast telecasts. It's believed, however, the 1957 plan will be similar to those of the last two years—eight national and five regional deals.

The TV committee, headed by Executive Secretary Howard Grubbs of the Southwest Conference, will make its recommendations to the convention today.

The matters of recruiting and financial aid to athletes will occupy an important position on the convention's agenda.

Trampoline Class Begins Tuesday

Boys of high school age are eligible to enroll in the YMCA trampoline school, which begins Tuesday, Jan. 8, and will meet from 5 to 6 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday thereafter, at least through January. Paul Shaffer will serve as the instructor. In addition to the instruction, entries will be allowed to work out on the trampoline four hours weekly. Plans are now to organize a Big Spring Y trampoline team for entry into the Southwest Area YMCA Sports Festival, scheduled in Waco later in the year. Movies taken of experts in the art of trampoline-jumping will be shown. After entries have mastered fundamentals, they will proceed to undergo instructions in several stunts. The top-ranking boys will give an exhibition during the YMCA athletic week starting around Feb. 1.

FAILURES ARE MANY IN TESTS OF FITNESS

Results of the Kraus-Weber physical fitness tests in the Big Spring schools, conducted over a period of days under the supervision of the local YMCA, showed that 49 per cent of the students failed at least one of the six exercises. That compares favorably with the average throughout the nation but is in poor contrast to the average in Europe, where only ten per cent of the students failed the course.

A larger percentage of boys than girls passed the tests in local schools. Fifty-one per cent of the girl students were found deficient in at least one of the exercises whereas 47 per cent of the boys failed. In all, 4,793 students were subjected to the tests. Of that group, 2,371 were boys and 2,422 girls. A total of 1,120 boys failed at least one of the phases of the tests, compared to 1,231 girls. Thirty-four per cent — or 51 of 151 — of high school boys tested were found deficient, whereas only 20 per cent — or 58 of 295 high school girls failed the tests.

Teachers and physical education instructors within the schools administered the tests, in co-operation with the YMCA. Parents of all youngsters passing the tests were notified by postcard. The parents of those who failed were notified by letter, in which were listed the muscle groups in which the youngsters were deficient. In addition, a set of remedial exercises for those particular muscles were included. The six exercises included: (1) Individual stands with heels together and legs straight and touches the floor with fingers, remaining down for the count of three.

(2) Student lies prone, with legs and lower back held down, he raises trunk and holds steady for ten seconds. (3) Lying prone, in same position, with shoulders and lower back held down, and keeping knees straight, he lifts legs ten inches and holds for ten seconds. (4) Lying flat on back, with hands behind neck, knees straight and feet anchored, he rolls into a sitting position. (5) Lying on back, with hands behind neck, knees bent and feet anchored, he rolls into a sitting position. (6) Lying flat on back, with hands behind neck, he lifts straight legs ten inches and holds for ten seconds.

Ex-Webfoot Is Star In Win

HONOLULU — Norman Van Brocklin passed the Pro All-Stars to a 52-21 victory over some of the year's outstanding collegiate players yesterday in the Hula Bowl. The Los Angeles Rams' quarterback completed 19 of 20 throws for five touchdowns and 281 yards before 24,000 fans. Scoring placekicks, the former University of Oregon back dropped kicked four out of eight point after touch-down attempts. One other was a clear miss and three were blocked. Notre Dame's Paul Hornung hit on 10 out of 22 pass attempts for 73 yards and all three of the collegiate touchdowns. He also carried the ball four times for 74 yards. Mississippi's Paige Cothren kicked all three extra points after the Collians' touchdowns. Van Brocklin did most of his passing to Elroy Hirsch, Ram and who also coached the Pro All-Stars. Hirsch scored three times, on 31, 8 and 53-yard passes from Van Brocklin. Linebacker Bob Toney of the San Francisco 49ers was voted the outstanding lineman of the game. Local rules say that only one Pro can be honored and Hornung was voted the outstanding back. Stanford's quarterback John Brodie wrenched his knee in the first few minutes of play and was sidelined for the rest of the game. The Pros rushed for 306 yards and had Van Brocklin's 281 in the air, compared with the Collians' 153 yards on the ground and 181 in the air. Hornung's receivers on scoring plays were Joe Walton of Pittsburgh, Tommy McDonald of Oklahoma and Jim Morse of Notre Dame.

Van Brocklin's scoring passes, in addition to Hirsch, went to Bob Boyd of Los Angeles and Joe Arenas of San Francisco. Arenas scored another time on a five-yard run. The other Pro touchdowns came when Bob Griffin of Los Angeles recovered a fumble in the end zone and on a five-yard run by Johnny Olszewski of the Chicago Cards.

Greenville Will Join D League

SHAWNEE, Okla. — Greenville, Tex., will replace McAlester in the Class D Sooner State Baseball League this season, loop officials said yesterday. George Barr, league president, said the Texas club will become a member of the New York Yankee farm system. McAlester had a working agreement with the Yankees.

Shawnee, which dropped out more than a week ago because of poor attendance, loomed as a possible member. A new group is dickering to get the club back into the league.

Coach Of Year

Charles "Chuck" Moser, Abilene High School football coach, has been named Texas High School Coach of the Year.

Hawks Await Temple Trip

With the consolation championship in the fifth annual Howard College basketball tournament packed away, the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks will rest until the Temple Tournament this week. The meet at Temple starts Friday and continues through Saturday. Pairings of the tourney had still not been drawn up Sunday and the local athletes may not know who their first round foe is until Wednesday, if by then.

Coach Harold Davis was informed that the Temple promoters still had only seven teams entered in the meet. An eighth is being sought.

Davis said he did not book a game for his Hawks after the Howard County tournament this year because "we invariably hit a slump and can't seem to do anything. I thought, for a change, I'd just give them a rest."

Snyder Back's Gain

SNYDER, Tex. — Gary Vice broke his collar bone in practice last football season and that left him with the best "average" per carry in Texas schoolboy ranks. He was called to carry the ball once, and made 49 yards against Weatherford in the second game of the season. The following week he broke the bone and was unable to play again.

Threat Of Upset Hanging Over Heads Of Mustangs

By WHITEY SAWYER Associated Press Staff Southern Methodist, heading for its third straight basketball championship, plays two title games this week with the threat of the upset-riddled Southwest Conference hanging over its head. SMU slammer Baylor 79-64 in its championship opener last week. But Texas and Rice, two teams expected to make a race of it, got clobbered by underdogs. Baylor rose up and slammed Texas 87-76 while Texas Christian whipped Rice 62-50. SMU meets TCU at Fort Worth Saturday. Tuesday the Mustangs meet high-scoring but much-beaten Texas A&M. Arkansas whipped Texas A&M 73-65. SMU, TCU and Arkansas are tied for the conference lead after one week of play, each with one victory and no losses.

The Mustangs' sporting an 11-1 season record, are followed by TCU with 8-4. SMU also leads the season in scoring with 987 points, followed by Rice with 922 and A&M with 900. Jim Krebs of SMU leads the season scorers with 292 points, followed by Ray Downs with 262. Jerry Mallett of Baylor leads the conference point-makers with 43 points and Temple Tucker of Rice is second with 35. Monday night matches Arkansas and Rice at Houston. Tuesday it's SMU against A&M at College Station and Texas vs. TCU at Austin. Friday Rice plays Texas at Austin. Saturday sees TCU host SMU at Fort Worth and Baylor trying the Razorbacks at Fayetteville.

Dickinson Is LA Leader

By BOB MYERS LOS ANGELES — For a little guy who weighs only 125 pounds, Gardner Dickinson faced a monumental task today as he led the way into the final round of the $35,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament. Packed into a spread of only five strokes were Dickinson and 11 other professionals. At stake was a first-money prize of $7,000. Nearest threat to the 29-year-old leader from Panama City Beach, Fla., was a seasoned rival, Art Wall Jr. Dickinson had a 54-hole score of 208, Wall 209.

Just behind were some of the greatest names in golf — Cary Middlecoff, Jack Burke Jr., Tommy Bolt, Dow Finsterwald, Doug Ford and England's Ryder Cup star, Harry Weetman. Add to these names of the so-called hunger for players on the circuit. Doug Higgins, Billy Maxwell, Billy Casper Jr. and Fred Hawkins and Dickinson's problem is easily appreciated. Playing the Rancho Golf Course, a 36-35-71 layout whose 7,131 yards was swarming with an estimated 16,200 fans yesterday, Dickinson shot even par. Was he scrambling? "I scramble every day," he replied with a grin.

Wall moved into the target zone with a flashy 67. Higgins '71 gave him 210. The early leader, Casper, from Chula Vista, Calif., fell back to 211 with his 75 and a tie at 211 with Ford (71), Finsterwald (68) and Weetman (69). Middlecoff (71), Burke (74) and Hawkins (68) were at 212 and Bolt (69) and Maxwell (71) at 213.

Jackie Robinson Finds Self In Midst Of Feud

By ED CORRIGAN NEW YORK — Jackie Robinson — greying, serious and every inch the business executive — today found himself involved in a full-scale feud even though his baseball days are over. The now-partly-bald 38-year-old Robinson, who became the first Negro to play in the major leagues when he signed with the Brooklyn Dodgers 11 years ago, crossed swords with Brook Vice President Buzze Bavasi over the way the announcement of his retirement was made.

Robinson revealed his plans in tomorrow's issue of Look magazine. The story leaked out when some subscribers of Look received their copies before the magazine appeared on the newsstands. Bavasi didn't like that and said so, adding that Robinson let down the reporters who covered the Dodgers and the New York Giants to whom he was traded less than a month ago.

"Believe me," said Robinson, a former UCLA all-around athlete, "I didn't intend to have things break this way. I signed with Look four years ago and it was common knowledge that when I decided to retire, I would do the story for that magazine."

COACH JOE KERBEL VISITS HERE TO DISCUSS JOB WITH TRUSTEES

Joe Kerbel, head football coach at Amarillo High School and formerly at Breckenridge, returned to his home Saturday after conferring with local school officials about the local football post. Kerbel has not been hired, a spokesman for the board emphasized. He had simply responded to an invitation extended him by Supt. of Schools Floyd R. Parsons on behalf of the board of trustees. The invitation was one of about 15 extended to coaches throughout Texas to meet with the board, a number of whom have already been interviewed.

Rumors are rife throughout West Texas that Kerbel is signed, sealed and delivered for the Big Spring position. A Lubbock paper predicted only last week that Kerbel would make the change and the Amarillo Globe-Times commented on that fact that overtures to Kerbel had been made by Big Spring but expressed doubt that Joe would move, at least for another year.

A member of the school board here stated that no one would be hired until the trustees had gone over the list of applicants and conducted as many interviews as possible.

There are definite signs a coach will be hired by Jan. 25 and certainly no later than Feb. 1 — T. H.

ON HARDWOODS Kansas, Tarheels After New Laurels

By BEN OLAN The Associated Press Kansas and North Carolina, the nation's top-rated college basketball teams, will seek to increase their unbeaten streaks this week. There's little reason to believe they'll be stopped.

The Jayhawks, No. 1, can pick up their 11th victory tonight against Oklahoma and take over sole possession of the Big Seven conference lead. Both teams won their league openers Saturday night. Kansas defeated Missouri 92-75 as Wilk (The Still) Chamberlain was held to 23 points and Oklahoma with a 69-67 triumph over Kansas State.

North Carolina's Tar Heels (11-0), well rested after an eight-day layoff, will take on William and Mary tomorrow night. Plenty of action also is on tonight in the Big Ten. Knocked off by Minnesota 91-86 Saturday, Illinois will try to get back on the beam against Iowa. In other games, Wisconsin is at Indiana.

Michigan at Michigan State and Purdue at Ohio State. Indiana, Purdue, Ohio State and Northwestern won their league openers Saturday. Kentucky, third-ranked nationally, meets Loyola of Chicago tonight hoping to improve its 9-2 record.

Most of the conference races look as if they'll go right down to the wire. Here's the way they shape up at the moment: Atlantic Coast — North Carolina and Duke tied for the lead with 3-0. Southeastern — Nip and tuck between Kentucky, Alabama and Tennessee. Big Ten — A tossup. Illinois vs. the preseason favorite. Big Seven — Kansas appears too strong.

Ivy — Harvard off to a quick 2-0 lead. But Columbia is given the edge. Southwest — Southern Methodist should repeat. Southern — West Virginia leads with 4-0. Hot Rod Hundley canned 34 points as the pacesetter's downed Furman, 110-85, Saturday. Skyline — Utah State in front with two victories against no defeats. Brigham Young and Wyoming next with 1-0. Rocky Mountain — Idaho State, the perennial champ, again top with 2-0 although it shares lead with Montana State and Colorado State.

Missouri Valley — Oklahoma A&M is favored. Wichita and Tulsa also are 1-0. Pacific Coast — UCLA has run up 29 straight conference triumphs. The Bruins have 2-0 mark, same as Washington and California.

Dr. Salk Suggests 'All-Virus' Vaccine

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Jonas E. Salk today suggested the bold new idea of a vaccine guarding you against all viruses which attack nerves.

He listed two big reasons for seeking such an all-virus vaccine. 1. Perhaps many diseases which hit adults stem from childhood virus attacks which weakened nerves but gave no sign at the time. These ailments might include back pain, ulcers or high blood pressure.

2. Certain viruses might "sleep" in the nervous system for years until some stress made them active and caused trouble.

Salk, Pittsburgh scientist who created the Salk polio vaccine, made his proposal in a talk prepared for the opening of a three-day conference on cellular biology, nucleic acids and viruses.

The conference is conducted by the New York Academy of Sciences in honor of the 65th birthday anniversary of Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Many kinds of viruses besides polio can invade the central nervous system, Salk said.

In childhood, some of them could damage nerves in an unfeared, unseen way — so that your body couldn't resist stresses and demands encountered later in life.

These viruses could include polio virus, against which there now is a vaccine.

Other viruses, however, might remain dormant or sleeping for years until something happened to stir them to damaging action. An all-virus vaccine or drug could lead them off in the beginning.

Salk said the widespread successful use of polio vaccine might prevent many future cases of ailments whose cause is not clear. This could include some cases of low-back weakness, curved spine, weakened stomach muscles and leg and arm troubles, he said.

2 Negroes Held In Death Of Grid Star, Rape Of Girl

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP) — Police arrested two Negroes last night and spirited them away for questioning about the Saturday night slaying of an 18-year-old high school football player and the rape of his girl friend.

More than 100 possemen fanned out through the southeast Missouri Delta country in a day-long manhunt yesterday, setting up roadblocks and searching Negro settlements house to house.

About 25 high school youngsters gathered at one time in front of the Sikeston jail but there was no disorder.

Lt. Eldridge F. Dampf of the Missouri highway patrol said one of the men under arrest was Claude (Boothmouth) Lacksley, 61-year-old Sikeston handyman.

The name of the other Negro was not disclosed. Dampf said he was a friend of Lacksley and was picked up for questioning about a .32 pistol.

Victim of the shooting was John Mahagan, who lived at Charleston, Mo., 14 miles east of Sikeston.

Police said 18-year-old Jane Castleberry of Sikeston told them she and Mahagan were parked on a country road just outside Sikeston when a Negro approached the car.

She related Mahagan told the man to move on but he pulled a gun and fired, hitting Mahagan in the chest. Miss Castleberry said the Negro dragged her from the car across a cotton field to the porch of a vacant house and attacked her.

Uncle Ray: Polar Bears Are Called Ice Kings

By RAMON COFFMAN

Among the land animals of the world I know of none which can stand cold weather better than the polar bear. Perhaps the Arctic fox can do as well, but nothing in that animal's life suggests that it minds the winter less than the big white bear.

On the contrary, the bear is more ready to expose itself to the bitter blasts of the Arctic. It stays on ice for hours at a stretch, without seeming to worry whether the temperature is at the freezing point or many degrees below zero.

Q. What is the reason for the name of "polar bear"?

A. It refers to the fact that this bear wanders around the polar regions in the North Frigid Zone. It may never make an actual crossing of the North Pole, but it goes within easy range.

There are polar bears in northern Canada, Alaska and Greenland. Northern Europe and Siberia also have some of them.

Another name is "ice king." Surely the polar bear deserves to rank first among land animals which like the ice and seem to enjoy living in the Arctic.

Q. Are there polar bears near the South Pole?

A. No. The Antarctic continent is without a single native beast. It does, however, have penguins around the coasts. These good-sized birds (which lack the power of flight) are able to live there in comfort. They raise their young in the frozen wastes.

Q. Are polar bears good at swimming?

A. They are experts! They are the best swimmers in the entire bear tribe. They are clever at diving, and are quick enough to catch fish.

Q. Do these bears prey on seals?

A. Yes. Sometimes they steal across the ice and surprise seals while they are basking in the sunshine.

A polar bear and cub.

They also swim under water in pursuit of seals.
