Members Of Notorious Swindler Family Nabbed

GREENVILLE, Tex., Jan. 19 (AP)—Seven adults and a baby, identified by the sheriff as members of the notorious Williamson family of swindlers, had a day-long session with police today that left two of them in jail charged with taking $300 from an elderly man.
Northeast Texas officers picked up the itinerant family after Otto (Kid) Gray, 65, reported that $300 was taken from a tobacco can inside his shirt pocket while two women prayed for him.
Three of them—Mary Wilson, Mary Ann Williamson, 28, and William Williamson, 19, were taken to Dallas for lie detector tests.
Dallas detective Paul Bentley, who gave the tests, said neither Mary Ann nor William would give the "right time of day" when questioned.
Mary, called Granny by the family, broke down, he said, and made a written statement saying that William had dressed like a woman, taken the money while praying and then gave it to her.
William was charged with unlawfully taking the money. Mary

Berserk Man Wounds Wife, Kills Himself

SAN MATEO, Calif., Jan. 19 (AP)—"An intensely intelligent" man went berserk today, critically wounded his wife with a hatchet and killed himself by thrusting a carving knife into his throat.
Victims of the sudden burst of rage were Robert E. Fenske, 38, a U. S. Forest Service accountant, and his wife, Margaret, 35, both graduates of the Augustana College and Theological Seminary at Rock Island, Ill.
Mrs. Fenske was slashed on the head and right arm.
Lance Fenske, 12, heard his mother scream shortly after the Fenskens arose this morning. Corner Paul B. Jensen quoted the child:
"Daddy was holding mommy and hitting her on the head with a hatchet. I hit daddy in the back and said 'leave mother alone.' Daddy came after me."
Lance ran from the house and returned by another door, to find the blood-covered body of his father lying on the living room floor, and his mother locked in the bathroom.
His brothers, Mark, 4, and Eric, 1, were huddled in their bedroom. Robert Doynton, a neighbor and long time friend, said Fenske had told him he feared losing his job with the Forest Service.
The Fenskens were married in 1943.
Coroner Jensen said Joseph Hoare, Mrs. Fenske's brother, gave him his description of his brother-in-law:
"He had the most enormous inferiority complex I ever saw. But he was immensely intelligent."

Israel Warned To Pull Out Of Egypt

'Round-The-World Bombers
Three huge B52 Air Force Superfortresses are lined up at March Air Force Base, Calif., after completing their history-making non-stop flight around the world. The eight-jet bombers averaged about 325 miles an hour for the 24,325 mile flight. The trip took 45 hours and 19 minutes. A huge crowd of airman, relatives and newsmen were at the field when the flight ended. Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of the Strategic Air Command, decorated each of the 27 crewmen.

U.N. Leader Gets 5 Days For Solution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—The U.N. Assembly today prodded Israel to pull out of Egypt and gave Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold five days to work out arrangements for the withdrawal.
The delegates emphatically stated in numerous speeches they meant for Israel to withdraw from the hot spots of the Gaza Strip and the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba. But they also made it clear they believed Hammarskjold should deploy units of the U. N. emergency force in those areas until a permanent settlement can be worked out.
The Assembly concluded three days of debate by voting 74-3 for an Asian-African bloc resolution supported by the United States and Britain. France broke away from Britain, its partner in the invasion of Egypt, and stood alone with Israel against the resolution. Cuba and Costa Rica abstained. Hungary and South Africa, boycotting the Assembly, were absent.
The resolution noted with "regret and concern" that Israel had not complied with four previous Assembly resolutions to withdraw from Egypt. It requested the secretary general to continue his efforts to obtain this withdrawal and report within five days.
Delegates said later they construed this provision to mean that Hammarskjold should try to get Israel out of Egypt by Thursday night.
Hammarskjold lost no time in setting to work. He arranged with Eban for a conference tomorrow afternoon to go into the situation. Israeli forces said the talks would hinge around three points, all noted by Eban in his speech to the Assembly:
1. A discussion of the Security Council resolution of 1951 calling on Egypt to keep the Suez Canal open to all countries. Egypt refused to obey the resolution on the grounds she is at war with Israel but Israel demanded today that Egypt must comply with resolutions if Egypt expected Israel to comply with U.N. decisions.
2. Reciprocal duties of Israel and Egypt—in other words, each country to carry out what it expects the other country to do.
3. A definite role for the U.N. emergency force—how long would it stay on the Arabian Peninsula between Egypt and Israel as well as in the key points of Gaza and Sharm El Sheikh if indeed it is deployed there.

Nixon Plunges Into Battle For Ike's Middle East Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Vice President Nixon plunged today into the forefront of the fight for the Eisenhower Middle East policy. He said the latest Communist blast against it dramatically underscores the need for leaving "no vacuum" in the strategic Middle East area.
Nixon and other administration leaders felt the Eisenhower resolution got a big boost, rather than a setback, when Soviet Russia and Red China condemned it last night. The Red leaders voted to give Middle Eastern nations "any necessary support" against "aggression" or interference in their affairs.
Some congressional critics of the Eisenhower plan indicated they were about ready to throw in the sponge. Administration leaders hopes rose for a whopping vote of approval when Congress votes on the resolution.
The resolution would empower President Eisenhower to use military force, if he deemed it necessary, to combat any Soviet Communist aggression in the Middle East and would authorize him to step up foreign aid to the region.
Nixon said:
"Coming as it does at this time, the Communist statement dramatically illustrates why the free world must not leave a military or economic vacuum in that area."
Rep. Zablocki (D-Wis.), leader of a Democratic move to revamp the Eisenhower resolution, said he may wind up voting for the President's measure.

Hungarian Rebels Are Executed

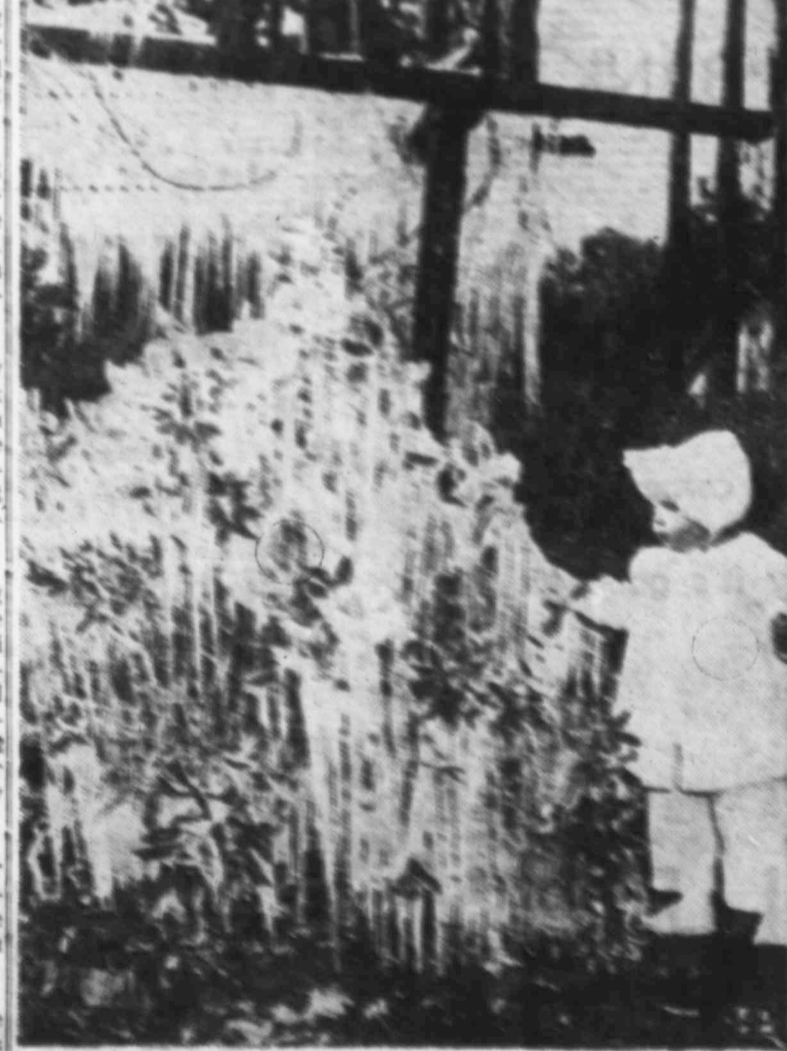

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 19 (AP)—Josef Dudas and James Stabo, two leaders of the Hungarian rebellion, were put to death this morning in a Budapest prison, Radio Budapest reported tonight.
Dudas headed a group of insurgents that stormed the Hungarian Foreign Ministry and seized the Communist newspaper Szabadseg during the fighting. On the rebel radio he appealed to the U. N. Security Council to dispatch armed forces to Hungary, the newscast said.
Stabo was leader of a group of freedom fighters which distinguished itself by its stand against superior Soviet forces in the battle on Budapest's Moscow Square. After the fighting he went into hiding but refused to flee the country. Some time later he was caught by Soviet troops in the Gili Mountains northwest of Budapest.
Radio Budapest said Stabo had been convicted of espionage, illegal border crossing and of escape attempts.
Radio Budapest's announcement of the deaths of Dudas and Stabo brought to 24 the number of officially named death sentences imposed on Hungarian rebels. Nine have been executed.
Radio Budapest also announced the "temporary" dissolution of Hungary's Union of Journalists by Premier Janos Kadar's government.
An official announcement said the Union of Journalists engaged in activities "which did not correspond with its statutes."
Earlier this week the Hungarian Assn. of Writers, numbering about 400 members, was suspended.
By disbarring both associations the Hungarian government apparently hopes to get rid of two of the most important rallying points of revolutionary intellectuals.

Addict Holds 15 In Doctor's Office In Search For Narcotics

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—A gun-wielding young drug addict held 15 persons in an hour-long siege of terror at a Park Avenue doctor's office today as he roamed about searching for narcotics.
At one point the wild-eyed gunman, about 22, fired point-blank through the physician's clothing but without a scratch to him.
The addict finally left the 19-room suite of Dr. Henry Haimovici, a vascular specialist. With him he took $500 to $1,000 in cash and considerable jewelry obtained from the doctor, two nurses, patients and relatives accompanying them.
In desperation he also took several medical syringes, needles and a bottle of procaine—an anesthetic.
The frightening drama began shortly after 11 a.m.
The man walked into the ground-floor reception room of the suite used both by Dr. Haimovici and Dr. Jacob M. Leavitt, a gastroenterologist, at the corner of Park Ave. and 90th St.
He politely told Dr. Leavitt's wife Lillian, who was acting as receptionist, that he had had "pain in my side for two weeks." She led him to a consultation room where the man drew a gun and said: "I'm not sick. I'm an addict. I want narcotics."
Mrs. Leavitt said she offered him some phenobarbital tablets but this seemed to confuse him. He asked, "Can I inject them?"
Told that he couldn't, the man put a handkerchief across the lower part of his face, forced Mrs. Leavitt into another reception room occupied by patients and their relatives, and told them:
"You don't be afraid. Do what you're told and you won't get hurt."
He ordered everyone into another room, telling them to leave their valuables on a desk as they

Budget, Program For C-C Proposed

Chamber of Commerce directors will be asked to approve a $24,734 budget and an extensive program of work for which the funds are earmarked at their luncheon meeting Monday.
Both the tentative budget and the work program have been approved by the Chamber's executive committee. Both must be approved by directors to become effective.
The 1957 budget is about $1,300 higher than actual expenditures in 1956. The outlay is equal to "prospective dues income" for the year.
The revenues are about $8,000 higher than dues income for 1956 and a general reevaluation of membership fees is expected to make up the difference. The reevaluation will be undertaken Tuesday when scores of members will be asked to increase dues to the average level of this area.
The proposed budget provides expenditure of $2,735 for building expense, compared to $2,668 in 1956; $7,322.80 for membership service and operation ($8,180 last year); $23,462 for administration ($33,678 in 1956); and $3,825 for committee activities and projects ($4,800 last year).
The program of work which will be presented provides for continued support of the county airport project, efforts to make Webb AFB a permanent base, a soil conservation awards program, continuation of Business-Education Day, additional parking and widening of T&P railway overpasses, support of the county road program, a general reevaluation of taxable properties in the city, county and school district, and the continuation of established programs.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week With Joe Pickle

One of the most significant news developments of the week was Couden's reclassification in the small business category. For geographical as well as other reasons, this puts Couden in a position to bid more effectively for aviation fuel contracts now up for letting.
Herschel Romine had a good week at the rodeo in Denver, sacking up nearly $1,500 for his 15.2 seconds. This was good enough for first place in the first go around, and made him the man to beat for show honors.
Webb AFB graduated its first class of jet pilots this year in colorful exercises Friday evening. There were 30 young officers in this class. The base stays right on schedule in performing this all-important mission of training.
Our weather turned off plenty crisp the latter part of the week and Saturday morning brought a little sleet and rain. It laid the dust — but not for long. In testimony of the uniqueness of West Texas, we had blowing dust by Saturday afternoon.
Poll tax payments are coming along at a better rate, but they are still far off last year's pace. Added to the possibilities of votes on special issues as well as school and city balloting, there is now a certainty that we will vote on April 2 for a United States senator. Better protect your right on this early this week.
Congratulations are in order for Cliff Epps Jr. who last week obtained the highest rating possible in Scouting. He was presented with his Eagle award.
Probably Gary Voyles could have thrown his rope over a clothes line standard a thousand times and nothing would have happened. But Monday the box he was standing on slipped and the rope looped around his neck. He held on to a

240 Banquet Tickets Sold

Only about 100 tickets are available for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet which will be held Thursday evening in the Couden Country Club.
Ticket sales are being limited to 245, and Chamber officials said about 240 had been disposed of Saturday.
The banquet will start at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Principal speaker will be Rev. Sterling L. Price of the University Baptist Church in Abilene. Constantly in demand for banquet talks and other inspirational addresses, Rev. Price has been a leader in Abilene civic affairs since he moved there about eight years ago.
The annual membership gathering also will be highlighted by the installation of new officers and directors, including R. L. (Jimmie) Beale, president; R. J. (Jack) Cook, vice president; and Chester Coffey, treasurer.
A committee directed by Raymond River has been named to handle ticket sales. In the group are Bob McEwen, Jim Lewis, George Zachariah, V. A. Whittington and George Oldham. The tickets also are available in the Chamber offices.

Tactical A-Bomb Tests At Nevada Site Are Considered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—New tests of tactical-size atomic bombs are being considered for the next series of experiments at the government's Nevada proving ground.
These tests, if they develop, may include the first drop of a nuclear weapon from a faster-than-sound jet fighter-bomber.
This report seemed to be in line with a statement made by President Eisenhower in his budget message last Wednesday. He told Congress that in nuclear armament "emphasis will be placed on weapons for tactical purposes with reduced radioactive fallout."
The Atomic Energy Commission up to now has made no official announcement of plans for any new series of tests at its Nevada proving grounds near Las Vegas. However, there have been reports that preparations were under way for a series in the spring involving smaller weapon designs in the kiloton—thousands of tons—force range.
There also had been some speculation that Eisenhower might call off tests of the smaller weapons in the continental United States, as well as any big H-bomb experiments in the Pacific, pending further efforts toward a world nuclear disarmament agreement.
But the President appeared to scotch this idea in his budget message. He said that "until an agreement for limitation of armaments is negotiated and an effective inspection system is functioning, this nation will continue to increase the number and variety of nuclear weapons." Then he mentioned that emphasis will be placed on weapons for tactical purposes.

Industry Foundation Board To Discuss Fund Campaign

Leroy Tidwell, president of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation, has called a meeting of the organization's board of directors for 5 p.m. Monday.
Foundation stockholders are invited to attend. The organization's campaign for funds to establish an industrial annex just east of the city will be discussed, Tidwell said.
The drive for $50,000 was launched last Monday. The foundation must raise at least $38,000 by Feb. 19 if it is to exercise an option on approximately 190 acres of land east of the Couden Petroleum Corp. and Cabot Carbon Company facilities. The other $12,000 is being sought for improvements which will be required in development of the tract.
Everyone who has invested in foundation stock is considered a member of the organization, and those who have put in $100 or more are entitled to vote.
Leaders of the campaign to place the $50,000 of stock have pointed out that industrial foundations are the principal instruments of industrial development in the Southwest. In fact, such organizations have been responsible for around 90 per

Parr Trial On Conspiracy Slated Monday

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., Jan. 19 (AP)—Judge J. R. Fuchs said today the trial of South Texas political leader George B. Parr on charges of conspiring to steal Benavides School District funds would be called Monday. The judge said he expects to receive attorneys' motions at 10 a. m. in 22nd District Court. A venire of about 50 has been summoned. Parr is one of three men charged with conspiracy. B. F. Donald Jr. was convicted last Oct. 26 and sentenced to five years in prison. He is free under $2,500 bond pending an appeal. A third, Givens A. Parr, is scheduled to be tried later. The state charged that a number of checks were issued by the school district to non-existent persons for work that never was performed.

Talks Tentatively Set On Utilities

Tentative discussions with the Air Force concerning financing of sewer and waterline construction for Webb's housing unit have been slated for Tuesday night at the city commission meeting. Air Force officials arrived last week and tentatively planned to attend the meeting Tuesday night for additional talks. Because of the short time between their visit Thursday and the meeting, they did not know definitely whether they would be able to attend. The Tuesday night consultation is the regular meeting of the city commission, and should the Air Force not appear, a slate of other matters will face council members. H. W. Whitney, city manager, said Saturday that several unfinished matters will be discussed and probably brought to a close. He indicated commissioners would consider the proposed gates for the cemetery, and also furnishing the new police building. Also, the city's three banks were asked to submit bids on proposals concerning depositories for the coming year. In the past, the city alternated given 60-40 business to the two banks. But with the addition of the third bank here last year, the problem of allocating the money arose.

Integration In Houston Nears

HOUSTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Houston Public Schools will have to adopt some kind of plan for integration by May, although it will not have to admit Negro students to presently all-white schools during the spring semester, it appeared today. The development came in a closed door conference between Federal Judge Ben C. Connally and attorneys representing the schools and Negro attorneys representing two Negro girls seeking admission to white schools. The Negro attorneys representing the two girls agreed to withdraw their petition for a temporary injunction restraining the school board from assigning pupils to schools on the basis of race. The judge agreed to hear the case on its merits in late May or June. It was learned that in the conference Judge Connally told representatives of the school district that they will have to show a definite plan for the May hearing—in effect, set a date—or he will have to issue an injunction forcing admission of the Negroes. Meanwhile, a new citizens group appointed by the Houston School Board to study the problems of integration scheduled a meeting Tuesday. Joe Kelly Butler, temporary chairman of the new group, said he "assumes" that the May setting for the court suit puts a definite deadline on the committee's work.

Aviation Progress Traced For Pilots

Eighty new jet pilots emerged from flight training Friday night when Class 57G graduated at ceremonies in the Webb AFB Chapel. The officers are already on their way to swell the ranks of nearly every major command. Second Lt. Earl R. Murphy, Newcomerstown, Ohio, distinguished himself by attaining the highest academic standing of his class. He received a T-score of 74, and Lt. Col. Dean A. Fling, commander of the 3560th Pilot Training Group, added his personal commendation when he said, "A T-score of 74 is very, very high." More than 200 persons crowded the chapel to see the officers receive their wings and hear H. A. Hensley, Centralia, Wash., address the class. They later attended the reception for students and guests at the Officers' Club. Hensley, a former cadet at Brooks and Kelly Fields in 1925-26 gave a talk amplified by the use of slides that emphasized the progress of aviation since that time. He particularly pointed out the improvements in air traffic control and safety regulations. Several pictures of collisions on takeoff were shown. Among the graduates was Hensley's son, 2nd Lt. Rodney W. Hensley, whose wife, Doris, pinned on his wings after the ceremony. On the speakers stand were Hensley, Col. Fling, Maj. Roy B. Bluhm, Maj. William R. Evans, Maj. Robert W. Hall, Maj. Sherrod H. Osborne Jr., Capt. Allen R. Robertson, and 1-Lt. William J. Ludlum, chaplain, who gave the benediction.

Youthful Chemical Industry Blows Up

HOUSTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Two Bellaire youths went into the manufacturing chemistry industry this week and as a result were fired out of school. Bellaire School Principal Harlan Andrews said the 15 and 16-year-old boys bought sulphuric and nitric acids and glycerine from a drug store and compounded a crude explosive. They gave the bottle to 13-year-old Billy Reid who took it home and sat it on top of the family piano. When the mixture blew up, father G. W. H. Reid reported, "It made one hell of a noise. No one was hurt but it damaged the sheet rock on the wall and ceiling. It also messed up the piano top."

Elderly Residents Shocked By Poison Murder Charges

By EDDY GILMORE EASTBOURNE, England, Jan. 19 (AP)—The melodic strains of Franz Lehár's "Merry Widow" echoed across the vast palm court of the Grand Hotel. A white-haired, elegant old lady fingered her sparkling emerald necklace and croaked in a stage whisper above a dainty tea cup: "It's simply dreadful the things they're saying about dear Dr. Adams." The other old lady, almost identical with her friend except that she wore a thick rope of costly pearls instead of emeralds, nodded her snowy coiffeured head. "Awful, my dear Lady Blanche," just awful. I've had such a sweet note from the doctor saying he'd see the soon." The two rich and widowed old souls were typical of Eastbourne, a prime seaside resort where elderly people with big money come to live out their last years in the scant sun of the English Channel. One in every four residents of Eastbourne is over 65. The huge proportion of aged makes its death rate the highest in England—15 to the rest of Britain's 11 out of every 1,000 population. Into this highly respectable community came a young Irish doctor 34 years ago. Born of poor Belfast parents, he worked his way through college and journeyed to Eastbourne, where there's always room for another doctor. Many people know Dr. John Bodkin Adams, now 57, red-faced, with a neck like a bull, and a voice as soft as a summer breeze. Known by many patients as "Dr. Adams" or "Dr. John," and by constables as "Old Bodkin," he worked up a large practice and a reputation as a medic never too busy to see a sufferer. Dr. John Bodkin Adams became a solid figure of the community. He owns one of England's great gun collections. A dead shot, he pots grouse in Scotland and pheasant in Sussex. He is a well known figure at Eastbourne banks, having accounts that run into five figures at three of them. He has a housekeeper, a staff of servants in his grey stone house and a chauffeur to drive him. But he likes to drive cars himself, and adores driving fast. His arrest on a charge of murdering a rich old patient was the biggest piece of news here since the end of World War II. Scotland Yard swooped on the doctor after long weeks of snooping around Eastbourne, asking startling questions and digging through 400 dusty wills of the dead. The will-makers were patients of Dr. Adams. The man who arrested Dr. Adams is Scotland Yard's gentleman detective, Supt. Herbert Hannam, hawk-faced, grey-haired sleuth who dresses in impeccable clothes, wears a bowler (derby) and is said to own a dozen pairs of gloves and five dozen handkerchiefs. The two men—the detective

Moisture Totals .07

An unexpected but most welcome light shower — made up of sleet and rain — which was evidently not anticipated by the weather observer, struck Big Spring shortly before dawn Saturday. The rain gauge at the U. S. Experiment station recorded the fall at .07 inch. This brings the total precipitation for January to .88. A shower which was officially recorded at .01 fell early in the month. The weather prediction for Saturday had not included even a vague hint that any moisture was in prospect. The show came on the heels of a night which was much warmer than its two predecessors. The temperature on Friday night and Saturday morning never got to freezing. Official low for the period was 35 degrees. On Friday morning, the temperature hit 11 degrees for the coldest weather of the current season. Total rain for January, 1956, was .30 inch.

with the ramrod-straight back and the 280-pound rhyolite doctor who wears old-fashioned clothes over thick suits of heavy underwear, are the key figures in what some crime experts call the most fascinating case of the century. The past week has been spent in taking police evidence against the doctor in a packed court room before five examining justices of the peace. They will decide if the case goes to London's Old Bailey for trial. Two eminent lawyers, both Q.C.S.—Queen counsels, the mark of the British bar's most eminent practitioners—oppose one another over the doctor's fate. For Scotland Yard is Melford Stevenson, 48, square-shouldered and of medium height. He is an eloquent and logical pleader. For the doctor, small, simblewitted Geoffrey Lawrence, a judge from nearby Canterbury, who speaks with the diction of a Shakespearean actor and moves with the cleverness of a master juggler. Adams has been accused of drugging his rich patients to death in order to benefit from their wills. Scotland Yard blames him for the deaths of two rich widows and one rich old man. The accusations have been sweeping — but after Lawrence took the prosecution's 38 witnesses over the legal hurdles, the case against Dr. Adams looked far less damaging than when it began. Scotland Yard will put Supt. Hannam on the stand Monday or Tuesday in an attempt to support the prosecution's charge that the doctor is a cold and calculated killer. The prosecution says Hannam will swear on a Bible that when he arrested the doctor for murder the medical replied in his soft Irish brogue: "Easing the passing of a dying woman is not all that wicked. She wanted to die. That could not be murder. It is impossible to accuse a doctor."

'LUM' TO SPEAK

Banquet To Honor Station Operators

Service station operators of Big Spring and their wives will be honored at a dinner Tuesday evening in a gesture of appreciation from their wholesale suppliers. It will be the third annual banquet of its kind, and is under sponsorship of the Big Spring Oil Men's Club. More than 200 are expected at the affair, to be held at the Cossion Country Club beginning at 7:30.

CHESTER L. LAUCK

Principal speaker is to be Chester L. Lauck, now an executive assistant for the Continental Oil Company, and more widely known as the character Lum in radio's "Lum and Abner" program. In recent years Lauck has trooped widely as a speaker before varied organization groups, and at numerous banquets.

A one-time banker and a civic leader in Miami, Lauck teamed up with a friend, Norris Goff, in 1921 for the Lum and Abner show. The program soon became a national favorite, and it was the first major network broadcast — in 1932. Later, movies were made around the rustic characters.

164 Bills Slide Into Legislative Hopper

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 — A legislative push by representatives wanting to reserve their good numbers for bills saw a total 164 slide in at deadline time. Mrs. Dorothy Hillman, House chief clerk, today said there also were 18 House joint resolutions calling for constitutional amendments filed before the deadline at 3 p.m. yesterday.

The number was about average as compared to the last three sessions, she said. Legislators entered bills calling for annual sessions and more money for themselves, for creating new boards, for reorganizing the old boards, and doing away with the poll tax. They also are asking more money for workmen's compensation.

Rep. Robert Sutton of Dallas filed a bill which would require the governor to investigate state agencies' operations and recommend reorganization, if any, to the Legislature. House Joint Resolution No. 1 by Rep. Truett Latimer of Abilene would provide for annual sessions and boost legislators salaries to $7,500 annually. His resolution, which calls for a constitutional amendment, also would increase the lieutenant governor's and speaker's salaries to $12,500 annually.

Rep. DeWitt L. Hale of Corpus Christi has a bill to increase the maximum under the workmen's compensation law to $5 a week, and the minimum to $12. A joint bill by Rep. Wade Spillman of McAllen and Rep. Don Kennard of Fort Worth would reorganize the Accident Board, remove present medical limitations on injured workers and up the maximum from $25 a week to $40 a week.

Plea Of Guilty Draws Sentence

Charles Meyers, charged with attempted burglary, pleaded guilty before Judge Charlie Sullivan in 10th District Court Friday afternoon. Judge Sullivan followed the recommendation of Guilford Jones, district attorney, and Meyers was sentenced to two years in state penitentiary. Meyers was recently returned from the West Coast where he was arrested and held for Howard County officers.

C-City Pledges Cooperation On Lake Proposal

COLORADO CITY, Jan. 19 — The Colorado City council pledged full cooperation to the Texas Electric Service Company in the latter's search for a new lakesite near Colorado City. In a special meeting Friday afternoon, the company plans an expansion of its generating plant on Morgan Creek about seven miles southwest of Colorado City and will need more water for its operations than is now provided by its Lake Colorado City. The company proposes to dam Champion Creek south and southeast of Colorado City and will pump water from the new lake to Lake Colorado City to keep the latter lake at a constant level. Lake Colorado City presently holds six and a half billions of gallons of water and is about nine feet below spillway.

Mayor Trevor Crawford, City Manager Rollin K. Snelten, City Attorney John Worrell, H. L. Bertram, Chamber of Commerce president, Bill Quimby, Chamber of Commerce manager and other city councilmen and businessmen met with J. B. Thomas, president of the electric company in Fort Worth Wednesday to discuss the new lake. Thomas said it would be necessary to have a restricted area on the new lake, similar to the restricted area on the lower part of Colorado City, which is policed by armed guards. This caused councilmen to discuss the possibility of the city building the dam and impounding the water for city use, but councilmen were almost unanimous in rejecting this proposal because of construction costs and city taxes.

The council's resolution passed Friday called for a 10-year extension of the company's franchise. The city entered into a 30-year contract with the company on March 1, 1948, to buy water from Texas Electric from Lake Colorado City at the rate of five cents per 1,000 gallons. The city is required to use $12,000 worth of water per year under terms of the contract.

The council appointed Charley Thompson, Frank Kelley, and Pat Bullock to obtain options on behalf of the Texas Electric Service Company for the purchase of land for the lake.

Khrushchev Seems On The Way Down

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Foreign News Analyst Publications in the Soviet Press of Communist party boss Khrushchev's latest unguarded remarks about Stalin provides another clue to forthcoming changes in the Soviet leadership. It implies criticism of Khrushchev and appears to bring him a step closer to losing his pre-eminence as the chief spokesman for world communism.

There were obviously urgent reasons behind this unusual step by the Soviet press and radio. In the light of the statement of world Communist policy issued Friday by the Russians and Red Chinese, the decision to publish Khrushchev's rambling remarks takes on added significance. Stalin is being rehabilitated, as much as the present collective Soviet leadership dares to rehabilitate him. The Soviet leaders now appear to be intent on going back as far as they can to Stalinist methods to keep their empire intact. They cannot go back all the way, but in the light of what Khrushchev said about Stalin a year ago they can hardly go back any distance at all without first removing Khrushchev from the position of policy maker for all the world's Communists.

When Khrushchev suddenly announced he was pictured as making the remarks in a rambling way, waving his arms and refusing to be shushed by his partner in power, Premier Bulganin. One got the impression Khrushchev was required by other members of the collective to start the ball rolling back to Stalinism, and that as usual, he overacted the part and succeeded in making the performance look a bit clownish.

The stage apparently is being set for an announcement concerning Khrushchev. He may be given another job in the collective leadership but the curious behavior of the Soviet press in recent days indicates he cannot long remain as boss. The party Central Committee recently held important deliberations. Following this, an announcement was made that the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) would meet Feb. 5. The meeting of the rubber stamp Parliament ordinarily might be considered routine. But the Parliament serves frequently as a platform to announce party decisions. This was the case when Georgi Malenkov resigned as premier.

Arab Neighbors Agree On Fund For Jordan Aid

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 19 — Three Arab neighbors agreed today to give impoverished Jordan $6 million dollars a year for the next 10 years to replace a subsidy she has been getting from Britain. Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria joined in this commitment to reimburse Arab unity and strengthen Jordan's hand in dicker with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's London government for abrogation of a 1948 treaty giving Britain military bases on Jordanian soil.

They are to put up the money on a 2-2-1 basis, with Egypt and Saudi Arabia each supplying the equivalent of $1,400,000 and Syria $7,200,000 annually. The agreement means Saudi Arabia's King Saud—due to start talks with President Eisenhower Jan. 30 on Middle East affairs that are certain to include the Eisenhower Doctrine — is going to Washington as a representative of a solidified "southern tier" Arab grouping.

King Saud, who has an income of roughly 200 million dollars a year from oil, was one of the signers. He flew to Italy later to take a ship for the United States. The others offering this aid, never before extended from Arab nation to Arab nation on such a scale, were Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Syria's Premier Sabri Hassani. King Hussein, 21, signed for Jordan. Though his Parliament has called for cancellation of the British-Jordanian Treaty, which is due to run until 1967, his government wants Arab cash on the barrel-head before making the break. Jordan's Foreign Minister Abdullah Fawzi has emphasized Jordan will negotiate with Britain to end the treaty on a friendly basis rather than kill it unilaterally. Most of the British money has gone to support Jordan's army. Britain has earmarked $3 million dollars for the military this year, and seven million for economic aid.

Solidification of the southern tier is not necessarily bad news for the West, Arab sources say the four governments hope King Saud may act as a bridge between them and the United States for better understanding and cooperation. They insist, however, that the agreement should blast any American intention to divide these Arab states or to isolate Nasser. The agreement may be regarded as an anti-Western move in the sense that it strengthens the ties of the five-nation Baghdad Pact and heralds the end of the British-Jordanian Treaty.

Winds Die Down, Workers Go Back To Biggest Video Aerial

ROSWELL, N. M. Jan. 19 — Winds, which had caused top sections of the projected tallest man-made structure in the world to lean eight feet out of plumb, died down today and workers prepared to go ahead on the television tower which will reach 1,610 feet upon completion. Searchlights from Walker Air Force Base in Roswell and from El Paso, Tex., were brought to the scene last night and were played on the tower as workers watched to determine what effect the wind was having on the structure. An examination this morning showed that there were no structural breaks in the tower in spite of its leaning out of line.

Famed Toscanini Never Interviewed

By W. G. ROGERS AP Staff Writer NEW YORK — Arthur Toscanini was the most unapproachable man in music and that's part of the reason I remember so clearly the only time I ever shook his hand.

It was a pretty Christmas by NBC-TV. Toscanini finally did come. This was not his show but his countryman Menotti's, and he hoped he was not being in the way.

But Toscanini watched the show, the heart-rending story of the little boy who in this one miraculous night at last throws away the crutch on which he has limped all his dozen year years. As a rule newsmen don't cry, but they were hard put to it not to by "Amahl." When it was over, a couple of us were introduced to Toscanini. His eyes, too, were streaming wet.

It was a pretty limp handshake he gave me. But he was thinking of "Amahl." People couldn't break him down, but music could. Get through that harsh crust, and he was as soft-hearted as a woman.

Commissioners May Discuss Airport Site

Howard County Commissioners Court will meet Monday but there was no definite agreement around the courthouse on what business will be brought before it for discussion.

It was not certain that engineers working on plans for the Howard County airport would have a recommendation ready to submit on the slight revision of the site which was proposed at a recent meeting.

Acquisition of the land needed for the airport has been held up pending this new development.

Owners of the land on which it is proposed to build the airport have already made it clear they will not accept the tentative offers made them for their property by the commission.

When the land was being studied by the commission, it was discovered that a portion which had been regarded as being the property of one owner had been sold to another person. This brought a fourth owner into the negotiations.

The commission has been working on a plan to work out a "swap" by which this situation could be clarified.

When agreement is reached on this phase of the problem, it is probable that an appraisal board will be named to evaluate the land and set a price to be paid to the owners.

Lamesa To Call For Federal Financing Of CRMWA Project

LAMESA, Jan. 19—The Lamesa City Council has authorized the city's two representatives on the CRMWA board to vote to ask once again for federal financing of the project.

The two directors, Sam Richardson and Ray Remmer, painted a rather dull picture of the present status of the project. Both pointed to Amarillo as the key to the project.

While the Department of Interior Regional Office at Amarillo has turned down a joint private-federal financing plan, it has agreed to assist in other ways, and to study any plan brought forth by the authority.

The bureau, said Richardson, could have only approximate costs. Until the dam and pipeline are paid off, they would remain the property of the federal government and the Bureau of Reclamation would supervise the operation of the authority.

"It rubs me the wrong way to admit we are stymied at present," Remmer said, "but that's the way it is."

Remmer pointed out that the Federal Government has never gone into the municipal water supply business and probably will not want to get into it now.

Richardson pointed out that the major expense of CRMWA had already been made and paid for and that future costs will continue to be very small.

Said Remmer, "Someday, it's going to be built, and if we are going to keep our feet in the door, now is the time to do it."

On the vote which followed, Councilman Williams abstained from voting, while Councilmen Dyer, Fred Flanniken and Ray Evans voted for the continuation of the city in the Canadian project.

A. C. Bowden, representing Roberts, Merriman and Bowden of Lubbock, the engineering firm which has studied the city's water problem, told the council that it will take approximately $200,000 to develop the Walls Field and bring the water into the Roundtree Reservoir.

The council authorized Bowden to proceed with plans and specification of the pipe line to the Walls field.

Taylor asked the council to consider calling a bond election to develop the Walls Field and any other that might become available in that area, and also to call an election for at least $50,000 to meet Fire Insurance Commission recommendations.

The Council called the regular city election for April 2. The terms of councilmen J. D. Dyer and J. Ray Williams expire then.

Lee Roy Colgan was named to replace Walter Buckel on the city Parks Board. Buckel's term is expiring.

Robert, Merriman and Bowden were authorized to proceed with plans and specifications of the pipe line to the Walls field.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Landowner Writes On Airport 'Deal'

To the Editor:

Noticing an editorial on Jan. 4th issue "Disappointment to the public" it seems you see as hundreds of others see. In Jan. 2nd issue we noticed the commissioners voted themselves a raise, over a week's protest, it seems the voters have no voice. Neither do we the land owners have a voice in the sale of our land.

One of the commissioners court informed us that the majority voted for it. True, but I wonder how many voters would have been cast if it would cost you giving up your land or property at the other man's price. I don't know if I am afraid to vote for it, but it looks easy and sounds good when the money is on the other man's book.

We the owners, were never at any time given consideration or courtesy of being asked if we wanted to sell or price. All we knew, like everybody, was what we read in the Herald.

They voted the bonds, sent surveys out, drew all over our farm and crops, never asking permission — not that they had to — but it would have been a little more decently handled. Then when everything was cut and dried, they called all land owners in and asked us what we wanted for our land, and in the same breath told us what they would give. Why go to the trouble of asking? That's just making a mockery of democracy.

In all their offers, they state surface rights only. That's fine for them as they know what it will do to our minerals as none would be allowed to drill in line of flight on a ruling of CAA. Our land will have a cross way of runways and terminal and hangars, so you see what chance we have, but they still do not want to pay for the loss of our minerals or buy them either. We are in two miles of flowing oil wells and drilling is still going on. We do not feel we owe Howard County that much.

at $200 an acre. We are half a mile closer to town on the Snyder Highway and for a more improved farm — every last drop! broke Judge Weaver informed is it was a farm in the hands of the court the way will be clear for the county to proceed with the next step in the construction of the airport.

If the owners do not approve of the value set by the appraisers, they can appeal the matter to the county court where it will be tried out before a jury. However, filing of the special appraisers commission report clears the way for the county to proceed with its plans to use the land.

Hungarians Aided

SEANTON, Jan. 19—Ralph Cain, chairman of the Martin County Red Cross chapter, said the county's quota of $10 for Hungarian refugee relief has been raised.

We are not questioning the need of an airport, just the way it has been handled to obtain this land. I am sorry it had to do this to about all this up in the minds of the people.

Dr. J. W. Eiger, state commissioner of education, explain the school district reorganization recommendations of the state board according to Deyle Form of Gay Hill, vice president of the state association.

The group has adopted a resolution which will be presented to the Texas Legislature in event a recommendation from the State Board of Education is submitted in the form of a bill.

The resolution asks that districts without 12 grades or without accredited high schools be forced to either consolidate with a 12-grade accredited school or pay tuition to the receiving district on students not being taught in the local district because their grades are not included in the school program.

From said the problem also was discussed at a meeting of small school administrators and board members at Gay Hill last week. Some 200 persons attended from a large area around Howard County.

It was the second regional meeting held at Gay Hill for the purpose of providing information on the state board's recommendations.

From said that if the state board recommendations are adopted by the Legislature, some 1,200 school districts in the state will be dissolved.

Small Schools To Fight Dissolution

The Texas Small Schools Association, organization of administrators, is preparing to fight, it is necessary, to keep small school districts intact, according to Deyle Form of Gay Hill, vice president of the state association.

The group has adopted a resolution which will be presented to the Texas Legislature in event a recommendation from the State Board of Education is submitted in the form of a bill.

The resolution asks that districts without 12 grades or without accredited high schools be forced to either consolidate with a 12-grade accredited school or pay tuition to the receiving district on students not being taught in the local district because their grades are not included in the school program.

From said this would be advised as a substitute for the state board's recommendation that every school be required to have 300 average daily attendance. The proposal will not be submitted, however, unless the recommendation is offered for passage by the Legislature.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks

New Super Taskmaster VS performance suited everybody on hand, drivers and AAA officials alike.

As a special test, two of the engines (a VS and a 6) went all the way without being turned off once!

New Chevrolet trucks have proved they know how to save time and money! Six of them, heavily loaded, covered the rough and grueling Alcan route in less than 45 hours. That's better than a full day shorter than the normal running time! They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel.

In fact, the Alcan proved new Chevy trucks through and through. This highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up high-climbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pounding gravel.

That's the gas mileage reported by the Cameo Courier after covering the entire length of the Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! All six new Task-Force trucks that made the run turned in top scores for performance and economy!

Proved on the Alcan Highway Champs of every weight class!

What Will You Invest For Progress?

We're All After The Same Goals

Everybody wants to see his community prosper and grow.

Everybody wants to see activity that will create more dollars for more people. Everybody wants projects that will improve the welfare of the city and county. Everybody is for improvement.

There's a price for improvement. Or rather, there's an investment that has to be made for progress.

Central Agency Is Your Chamber Of Commerce

The desire, the planning, the direction, the work for progress has to have a central agency. Efforts for community improvement have to be coordinated.

The agency available to all interests and to every person in Big Spring and Howard County, is the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. Its major mission is to translate community improvement ideas into action.

Fair And Equitable Support Essential

Your Chamber of Commerce operates solely from membership dues. These vary widely, from individual memberships to larger business affiliations. But, for effectiveness, the Chamber of Commerce must get fair and equitable support from everyone. The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce enters into a new year with sound planning, with a list of worthy aims. These aims will be met, if full support is given. Progress will come, if everybody meets the challenge for interest, for work, and for money. These are the factors that will determine community success.

Examine The Size Of Your Own Investment

If you think your investment in Big Spring's progress should be a little more, won't you please examine your Chamber of Commerce subscription and determine if you can increase this investment?

You will be called on soon, by a Chamber of Commerce member, with a request that you consider what your fair share of Big Spring's progress investment should be. He will be interested solely in the same thing you are — further advancement for the community. Won't you receive him courteously and sympathetically?

If you want to make your fair investment in

Big Spring's Progress, you may use this coupon. Just clip and mail.

Jayhawks Spill Cisco Wranglers, 90-78

The Howard County Junior College Jayhawks boosted their victory count to 13 games in 16 starts this season with a 90-78 verdict at the expense of Cisco JC here Saturday night.

Mike Powell paced the Hawks with 18 points, but high point honors went to George Callaghan of Cisco who scored 20.

The visitors outscored the Jayhawks from the floor, sinking 28 field goals to their hosts' 26. But the Hawks made their free pitches pay off, scoring 38 points by that route while the Wranglers were making but 22.

Fouls hurt both teams, but Cisco suffered the most. The Wranglers lost Robert Ryan, Jerry McWilliams, Jim Hudson and Barkley Edwards to penalties. Across Board Policy Is Hailed By Independents

AUSTIN, Jan. 19 (AP)—Independent oil men have won another battle to keep oil production in Texas at a stable level despite cries from major oil firms for a boost in allowable.

The Texas Railroad Commission, following a statewide production hearing yesterday, set the February allowable at 3,543,672 barrels daily, an increase of 92,970 barrels based on 15 producing days. This is an all-time high.

January's schedule calls for 16 or 17 days, said stocks were about as low as they should go and some firms said they could not meet present demands for heating oil.

Humble said since January was set on only 16 days that tankers with a capacity of 4,490,000 barrels "are currently being diverted to the Middle East around the Cape of Good Hope."

It was trying to preserve our ability to keep an across the board policy. Any greater increase would have caused pipeline proration in certain areas," he said.

GARDENER, NURSE, HOMEMAKER AND AVID READER are some of the titles you might apply to Mrs. R. L. Beale (right), wife of the newly-elected president of the Chamber of Commerce. She's also a very enthusiastic grandmother, whose appearance doesn't fill the popular conception of a granny at all. Member of the Oasis Garden Club, she is the possessor of a "green thumb" and plants and flowers seem to take delight in growing for her.

Photos by Keith McMillin

CHECKING WITH FRIENDS ABOUT THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE banquet to be held this week is Mrs. Jack Cook, whose husband is new vice president of the organization. Their lovely new home at 1706 Harvard is the perfect place for entertaining friends for dinner. The Cooks have two daughters, Jackie, 7, and Suzanne, 11. Club work is an interest which Mrs. Cook enjoys. She is a member of the Rosebud Garden Club and 1946 Hyperion Club.

EVEN AFTER SCHOOL HOURS you'll likely find the teachers making lesson plans and grading papers as Mrs. Chester Cathey does. Reading and just "relaxing" are enjoyed by Mrs. Cathey after a busy day of teaching second grade at Washington Place School. She received her teaching degree from McMurry College in Abilene. Her husband will be installed as treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce at Thursday's banquet at Cosden Country Club.

WHEN WOMEN GET TOGETHER, the conversation invariably gets around to clothes! Here, the question is, "Will this do to wear to the dinner?" — the dinner being the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet for the installation of officers and the executive committee. Mrs. Gil Jones holds up a dress for the inspection of Mrs. Herbert Whitney, center, and Mrs. Champ Rainwater, whose husbands comprise the executive group. Mrs. Leroy Tidwell, whose husband is the fourth member of the committee, was unavailable for the picture.

SECTION B

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JANUARY 20, 1957

SOCIETY

But I Tell You Brother, I'm A Texan

The old saying "You Can't Hold a Texan Down" runs true to form as Scott Mulledy tries convincing his brother, Bruce, that his native headress is a cowboy hat. Bruce seems to be a little dubious about the whole affair, but thinks his Bavarian hat is about tops! Actually, all four of the children of Capt. and Mrs. Robert W. Mulledy own one of the hats which they collected on a recent tour-of-duty to Germany. Each of the "charms" on the hats represents a different town or country they visited in Europe. Pictured with the Mulledy family are their two Siamese cats, Damon and Pythias. Capt. Mulledy has served in the Air Force for 14 years and the Texas of the family, Scott, was born in San Angelo, where the Mulledys were stationed before going to Germany.

Robert W. Mulledy Family Is Just Back From Germany Tour

Seven-year-old Bruce Mulledy just doesn't like cold weather. So after a three-year "hitch" in Germany, he was eagerly looking forward to that new home in Texas, where the weather was reported to be nice and warm. So it's no surprise that the recent "coldest weather of the year," wasn't too welcome to Bruce.

Bruce is the son of Capt. and Mrs. Robert W. Mulledy, recent newcomers to Big Spring.

Furstenfeldbruck AFB in Germany was the last home for the Mulledys. Living overseas for a while definitely has its advantages the Mulledys believe. Their children, Bruce, Arra, 10, Susan, 8, and Scott, 3, can all understand the German language, and all but Scott can carry on a very good conversation in German.

Capt. and Mrs. Mulledy both agree that this is a part of education that children that young usually don't acquire.

Arra and Susan are both proud of their foreign doll collection acquired while they were overseas. The collection includes dolls from Germany, Paris, Turkey, Denmark, Holland, Italy and Spain.

A hand-carved wood piece featuring a German farmer's wagon pulled by one horse and one ox is a typical souvenir of Germany and anyone that gets out of the country without one, just hasn't been to Germany, the Mulledys say. Another advantage of overseas duty is the experience of visiting many foreign lands with all their historic and educational sites. The many beautiful china pieces, brass articles, a trans-continental radio and two handsome Siamese cats, Damon and Pythias, are prized possessions of the Mulledy family.

Painting and wood sculpturing are hobbies enjoyed by Capt. Mulledy, while Mrs. Mulledy enjoys sewing for herself and her two daughters. The Mulledys are making a home at 2611 South Monticello.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

When the women whose husbands are connected with the T&P Railroad start out to do something it is nearly always successful. This was certainly true of the March of Dimes coffee Friday morning. Not only did the women turn out, but their husbands joined them during the calling hours.

Officers of the various auxiliaries greeted the guests and among them was MRS. BILLIE BOB FALLON who is the new safety council head. She is an attractive red-haired young woman who wore a black velvet skirt and a black velvet beret.

MRS. C. R. RHOADS wore a mink stole over a brown tweed suit that made a pretty combination. MRS. G. W. STONE was having a good time just sitting, visiting and watching the crowd. She wore a small black velvet beret, and MRS. J. H. WEBB looked pretty in a white jeweled hat.

MR. AND MRS. H. L. GAHMAN are entertaining his sister, Mrs. H. F. Lacey, whose home is in Tulsa, Okla.

Unathletic as I am, the thought of sliding across the floor is frightening, but think of flying the Atlantic to ski! MRS. ALBERT SMITH tells me her son-in-law, Wallace Cataldo, who flies for Seaboard and Eastern Airlines had a few days off so he and three of his fellow employes flew to Switzerland to ski. He lives in New York City.

Guests of MR. AND MRS. LUCIAN JONES are his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Flachmeier, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lanter all of St. Louis, Mo. They arrived here Saturday.

Saturday was a big day for MR. AND MRS. HUEY J. ROGERS when they saw their son, Morris, graduate from A&M. Morris has majored in finance. He plans to return here with his parents awaiting his call to the air arm of the Marines. James Rogers accompanied his parents to College Station.

While the plans are still in the "it-would-be-fun" state, some parents of junior and senior students at high school are tossing around some ideas for graduation entertainment.

Homework Is Fun With Record Album

AP Newsfeatures

Take a hubby-wife team, their 8-year-old daughter, several French language enthusiasts, and a few child psychologists.

Mix well.

The result? A new record album, "French for the Younger Set," just released. The album, designed for youngsters from 3 to 8, includes eight songs and games aimed at introducing small fry to a second language in a happy, playful way.

The music was written by Israel

Ross; performed by his wife, Sylvia, a nursery school teacher, and their daughter, Elise, who sings a traditional French lullabye on one disc.

The lyrics are the work of Dr. Zeldia Klapper and Deborah Johnson, both child psychologists.

Included in the album is an instructional booklet, complete with game suggestions, French vocabulary used in the songs and a pronunciation guide done by Alex de Joia, French master at an exclusive private boy's school.

Something Can Be Done About Colds

Tests made in one Michigan County Precinct

Since the average American has about three colds per year, the Battle Creek Food and Health unit gave to every man, woman, boy and girl Geriatric Plus-12 with minerals for a period of thirty days.

Results were, colds were reduced in every case that took the complete treatment. Some took no colds, some only one cold. The results were so amazing that doctors state a seventy five per cent decrease in colds.

Geriatric B-12 with minerals is sold in Big Spring, Texas by Collins Brothers and Walgreen Agency Drug Stores. See and hear sports news at 6:00 p.m. over KMD-TV. (Adv.)

Remove Ink Stains With New Method

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says that the old-time milk treatment for ink spots is not good.

The safest step on washable fabrics (except spots from ball point pens) is to soak the fabric in cool water for 30 minutes or overnight, then rub it with soap or detergent and wash in warm suds.

If a stain remains a chlorine bleach may be used on all fabrics except wool, silk, Vicara and those with special finishes. Sodium perborate may be used as a finish instead.

A piano selection was played by Cheryl Stone; Mrs. Dick Gray, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Dittloff at the organ, sang.

Miss Williamson Becomes Bride Of James Nelson In Home Rites

In a semi-formal ceremony, read in the home of the bride's parents, Janice Williamson became the bride of James Harold Nelson Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Williamson of Vincent are the parents of the bride; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Nelson, Route 2, Big Spring.

The Rev. Virgil Drewery, pastor of the Vincent Baptist Church, read the double ring ceremony before an arch of fern and carnations, with a tall basket of white gladioli on each side.

Mrs. R. L. Williamson, sister-in-law of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" preceding the exchange of vows. She was unaccompanied.

BRIDAL GOWN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street length gown, which had been made by her mother.

Of white velveteen, the dress was fashioned along princess lines with set-in pleats in the skirt. A sweetheart neckline was outlined with seed pearls and pearl roses, as were the three-quarter sleeves.

Her shoulder length veil of tulle was attached to a tiny white velveteen hat. The bridal flowers were white roses on a white Bible with white satin streamers.

A class ring of her mother was something old worn by the bride; her gown was new; she had borrowed a blue garter, and she had a penny in her shoe. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Williamson also made the dress of her daughter, Mrs. Gene Lockhart of Merkel, who served her sister as matron of honor. Her princess-style dress was of pink brocade tulle, and she carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Jimmy Smith of Garden City, a former classmate of the bridegroom, was best man.

MUSICAL DECORATION

A reception was held following the wedding rites. For the bride's table, a white satin ribbon held the musical notes of "Here Comes The Bride." This was suspended between two tapers rising from replicas of the bridal bouquet.

A lace cloth covered the table, which held a three tiered cake decorated with white roses. Crystal and silver serving appointments completed the decor.

Serving was done by Carol Seif and Janice Ernst. Marcelline Gill was at the register.

Out-of-town guests included an uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Henry of Quanah, and the bride's brother, R. L. Williamson, and Helen Anne of Altus, Okla.

For a wedding trip, the bride chose an apricot wool jersey tailored dress. With this, she used black accessories and wore a corsage of white roses from her bridal flowers.

Upon their return, the couple will make a home at 1003 Lancaster.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and worked last summer for the Big Spring Weekly News. She is now an employee of Cossden Petroleum Corporation.

Nelson was graduated from Garden City High School and is an employee of R Electric Company.

Local Woman Praises New Medicine

Dear Mr. Collins:

I read in The Big Spring Daily Herald about a tablet for rheumatism called Citru-Mix, so I decided to try it as I have what the doctors call spinal rheumatism. My back hurts sometimes until I just can't stand it. I have taken most everything for it. I have been to Hot Springs and Mineral Wells — but I only got relief while I was there.

I am glad to tell you that one bottle of Citru-Mix has given me more help and relief than any other thing that I have taken in all my life.

I am on my second bottle now and I am sleeping all night sound and up doing all my housework for a family of six.

I live at 819 West 4th St., and I will recommend it to anybody who has suffered as I have.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Ralph Harvey

The above letter was received by Mr. Alfred Collins praising the new medicine Citru-Mix, marketed under the name R-12, is on sale at Collins Brothers Drug Store at Second and Rummels and at the Walgreen Agency located at Third and Main Streets in Big Spring, Texas. (Adv.)

Princess Lines Make Frock Wearable For All

The princess silhouette continues as the favorite of all sizes and ages. When Mr. Mort does it for his junior following, he adds a special zest that gives it wearability at any time of the day or night, the hour dependent on the choice of fabric. This might be linen, cotton, shantung, faille or wool.

Easy to make, the pattern has exclusive designer measurements with precise perforations so that the soutache braid trimming on the convertible neckline and pocket flaps is simple to handle with professional finish.

Be sure to put on a petticoat so that the flared skirt has the flare it deserves.

From this chart select the one size best for you:

Size 7 bust 32 1/2, waist 22 1/2, hips 33 1/2, length from nape of neck to waist 15 1/2 inches; size 9, bust 33 1/2, waist 23 1/2, hips 34 1/2, length from nape of neck to waist 16 inches; size 11 bust 34 1/2, waist 24 1/2, hips 35 1/2, length from nape of neck to waist 16 1/2 inches; size 13 bust 36, waist 26, hips 37, length from nape of neck to waist 16 1/2 inches; size 15 bust 37 1/2, waist 27 1/2, hips 38 1/2, length from nape of neck to waist 16 1/2 inches.

Gloria Byrd-Loyd Duncan Are Married In Friday Ceremony

The First Baptist Church was the setting Friday evening at 8 o'clock for the wedding of Gloria A. Byrd and Loyd E. Duncan. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Byrd, 621 Ridgela, are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Dean, Lometa.

The double ring ceremony was read by Dr. P. D. O'Brien before an altar decked with baskets of white mums and gladioli flanked by candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Carl Morris, vocalist, sang "You'll Never Walk Alone." He was accompanied at the organ by Jack Hendrix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace and tulle. The lace bodice feaured a sweetheart neckline. The bouffant waist-length skirt was of tulle and satin and was sprinkled with appliques of lace flowers and leaves. Back interest was given by a large bow fastened at the waistline.

The shoulder-length veil was of tulle and was caught to a crown tiara of pearls. The bridal bouquet was of white gladioli and carnations.

Louise Allen attended the bride as maid of honor. Her blue satin and tulle dress was fashioned as the bride's. She carried a nosegay bouquet of pink carnations.

Serving as best man was Vic Alexander. Ushers were Leon Byrd and Phil Oliphant.

For a wedding trip to San Antonio the bride wore a tweed suit with black accessories. Her corsage was from the bridal bouquet.

After the wedding trip, the couple will make a home at 1202 Nolan.

'Know Your Schools' Discussed For The Woman's Forum Friday

"Know Your Schools" was the topic of a talk heard by members of The Woman's Forum Friday afternoon, when they met in the home of Mrs. Joe Pickle. Mrs. Charles Sweeney was hostess.

The speaker was Sam Armstrong, coordinator of elementary schools of the city.

One of the main educational problems, he told the club, is the growing population. He predicted that there will be 200 million people in our country by 1960; there will be 30 per cent more in the elementary schools by 1965 than we have at the present time.

Money is another problem in the educational field, the speaker said. The cost of schooling must come more and more from local sources. He cited the fact that of the 10 1/2 billion spent for education last year, five billion went for teachers' salaries. This must be increased, he said.

The group was asked not to criticize, but to help in the educational field. He told of two million people who have never attended school and spoke of the necessity of more help for the handicapped pupils.

There is need for more development of talent in the superior pupils, members were told, since society depends on education. The club was requested to consider education as an investment rather than an expense.

Mrs. Omar Jones led the group in a safety quiz as part of her discussion of traffic safety and drivers' education. She told of accident causes and gave directions as to procedure in case of accidents. Saying that Texas ranks third in the accident rate, Mrs. Jones gave the group ten rules for safety.

Seventeen were present for the meeting. Mrs. C. M. Boles, 1600 Sycamore, was announced as the next hostess.

Look For Quality In Chinese Noodles

Do you know what characteristics make chow mein noodles tops in quality? Possibly not, but you do know whether you like them or not. There are definite signs, however, which indicate quality in these noodles, just as there are in soda crackers and potato chips.

Leading processors of Chinese noodles maintain decided standards. Chow mein noodles should be crisp, yet tender enough to break easily. They should be golden brown in color. Also, the best noodles are slightly irregular in shape and somewhat blistered as well as have a fresh, appetizing odor.

The vacuum pack under which noodles are canned helps maintain this high quality indefinitely.

Tuesday night in the auditorium. All acts are asked to decide and turn in the name of their songs and accompanist by that time. Also, costumes and props should be completed. Tickets will go on sale for the show Monday.

Have you been in the Homemaking Cottage or labs lately? If so, you probably noticed the new equipment. This includes a new range, potted plants, bedspreads and curtains, a radio, a clock, a wastebasket, a bathmat set, and other ornaments.

Darlene Agee was named as the first place individual, with June Vaughn placing second, at the end of the Big Spring High School Intramural Archery Tournament. In the finals, Darlene won over June with a score of 52 to 45, but in total points, June captured the largest number, 254.

In the doubles, the team of Carol Lewis and Claudia Nichols, placed second with a score in the final contest of 68. Jacqueline Cox and Jo Ann Mobbs copped the second rating with a score of 56.

The new uniforms of the volleyball team arrived last week. To be issued, Monday, the suits are old gold trimmed in black. The girls open the season the last of January against Lamesa.

Did you watch the March of Dimes telethon last night? Many BSHS students appeared on the show, including the Shortcuts, a quartet composed of Helen Gray, Annette Boykin, Kathy McRee, and Sue Boykin; the Sportsmen, a singing group made up of Johnny Janak, Ronnie King, Walter Dickenson, and James Forrester; a trio of Gay Bounds, Melva Turner, and Patsy Potter; and Robbie Flowers, who did a baton twirling act.

Twenty-five members of the Bible Club met at the Baptist Camp the night of Jan. 8, for the regular meeting. The guest speaker was The Rev. Maple Avery, and Eddie Sweeney and Sue Helms were the vocalists.

The cast of the comedy, "Harvey," was announced last week by the director James Mack Godwin. Those winning the parts were Judith Shields, Sandra Sloan, Tommy Pickle, Sandra Havens, Linda Nichols, David Yater, Dennis Jones, Bobby McMillan, Ronnie Burnham, Patsy Potter, and Jimmie Simmons. Practice for the play began Wednesday and will continue until it is presented Feb. 22 and 23.

The Debate Club will participate in the year's first debate conference at Midland Feb. 25 and 26. Those attending the meeting will be Stephen Baird, Julius Glickman, Wesley Grigsby, Dennis Jones, Nita Jones, Bill Parsons, Prissy Pond, Roni Raybon, David Woertendyke, Nanci Norfleet, and Lynn Anderson. The sponsor of the group is James Mack Godwin.

Practice for the "Travelogue Extravaganza," as the 1957 Follies has been named, will begin at 7:30

Try Beef Mexicana For Buffet Supper

Supper after outdoors sports in wintertime calls for healthy fare to match the appetites created by brisk, crisp weather. Yet, if the outdoors crowd is coming to your house, there is no need for you to remain in the kitchen to prepare a bountiful meal while others are having fun.

There is a bit of South of the Border influence in this Beef Mexi-cana, due to the addition of corn, ripe olives and grated process cheese. According to home economists, the flavors will have a better chance to blend if the dish is prepared ahead of time.

BEEF MEXICANA

Ingredients: 1 pound ground beef, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 cup chopped onion, 1/4 cup chopped green pepper, 1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed tomato soup, 1 cup milk, 3 cups medium noodles, cooked

2 cups whole kernel corn, 1/4 cup chopped ripe olives, 1 1/2 cups grated process American cheese, Salt, pepper

Method: Brown meat in butter; add onion and green pepper and cook until tender. Add remaining ingredients, reserving 1/2 cup cheese. Mix well. Pour mixture into a buttered 2-quart casserole. Cover tightly with foil and place in refrigerator. Just before baking, top dish with remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for about 35 minutes.

Glenda Dudley Is Wed To Donny Q. Everett

Friday evening in Odessa, Glenda Dudley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Dudley, 1705 Donley, became the bride of Donny Q. Everett. The bridegroom is the son of J. C. Everett of Odessa.

Vows were exchanged at the home of the Rev. Ed Welch, former pastor of Phillips Memorial Church of this city, who read the informal double ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a two-piece dress of white chiffon, featuring a full gathered skirt over taffeta. Tiny rhinestone buttons fastened the bodice from the Peter Pan collar to the waistline and also trimmed the turnback cuffs of the three-quarter length sleeves.

Her hat was of white satin, rhinestone trimmed; she carried a gardenia with stephanotis in a bed of maline and satin streamers on an olive wood Bible.

Following bridal tradition, she wore an antique gold and pearl brooch, which is the property of Mrs. Bill Earley; from Betty Earley, she had borrowed the Bible, whose cover had come from the Mount of Olives in the Holy Land. The bride's dress was new, and she wore a blue garter, which had been made for her by Mrs. Frank Martin.

Attending her sister-in-law as matron of honor was Mrs. Norman Dudley of Lubbock. She wore a sheath of ice-blue, fashioned with a scoop neckline. Her pumps were in a matching shade and her small hat was of white satin.

Jimmy R. Everett attended his brother as best man.

When the couple left for a wedding trip, the bride wore an empire styled dress of charcoal and rose shagbark, with full skirt and short jacket. Her accessories were black and she wore a gardenia corsage.

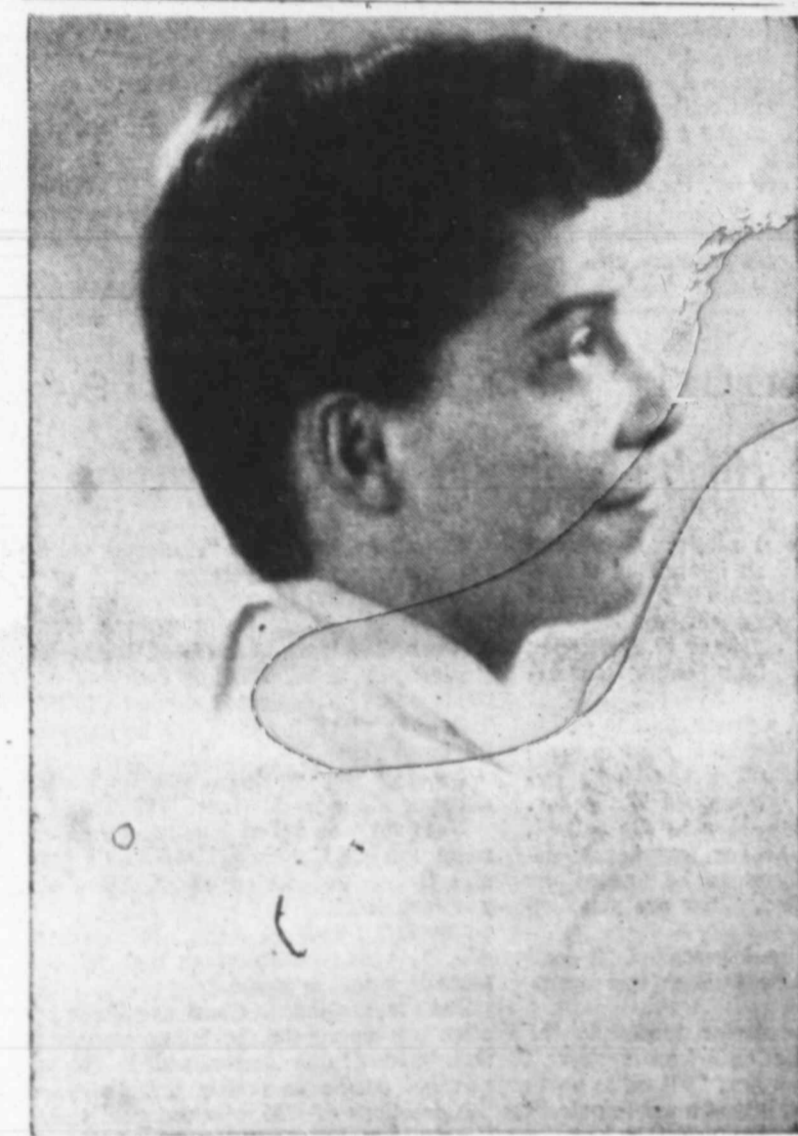

The couple will make a home in Odessa, where the bridegroom is employed by Russco. He is a graduate of Odessa High School.

The bride, who was graduated from Big Spring High School, was a member of the Rainbow Girls and Tri Hi Y. She has completed a course in the Odessa Beauty College.

Norman Dudley, brother of the bride, and their mother were present for the wedding as were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jones of Winters.

Taxes, Spending And Inflation

Every thoughtful taxpayer would do well to read the David Lawrence column on this page today, since it strikes some highly important points affecting the future tax and spending situation facing this nation.

As Mr. Lawrence cites, the most significant discussion of the new budget proposal came this past week not from the President, but from Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, who made it very plain that the new budget is not at all a healthy thing for the United States.

The Lawrence article, in quoting Mr. Humphrey, gives a very basic explanation of at least one major contributing cause toward continuing inflation. This is the fact that such a preponderance of government expenditure is going to the military, not adding to production for general consumption. The stress then, in a sense like it was in war time — more demand for consumer goods than is being produced. We are not in an actual war-time economy, but the parallel is worth noting.

The answer, as outlined by the secretary of the Treasury, is that government spending will not be cut down — and with it some form of tax relief — until more restraint is evidenced in the continuing demand for federal aid for every conceivable type of program and project.

It must have been dismaying and even discouraging to many Americans last week to read that the new budget calls for the largest peace time expenditure yet. And more, it calls for federal appropriations that appear to be the type that would add more fuel to the inflationary fire. Practically every program suggested by the President, if promulgated by Congress, means more pressure on the economy.

True, so many of these things are needed. The nation recognizes the shortages in our public school system, realizes the merit of more and better highways, and the like. But it would appear that the more government expenditures there are, the greater will be the inflationary tendencies.

The total budget figure of $73.3 billion is, of course, beyond normal comprehension. As one senator put it, "Nobody seems to care any more." He undoubtedly meant that nobody can conceive of the immensity of the budget any more. But bring it down to the Texas level and it might cure more impotency. Texas taxpayers will be required to pay out about $2.5 billion. Even Howard County, if you can fairly divide the total figure in a per capita basis, will have to be responsible for more than $9 million.

Staggering enough, and yet so valid in sight, and the odds actually favoring a heavier load, not a lighter one. Indeed, it is time for the restraint of which Mr. Humphrey speaks.

Tax Reduction Only By Restraint

WASHINGTON — There will be a tax cut in a year or so only if the members of Congress, working with the executive departments, really prepare for it in advance — and the preparations will take at least twelve months.

This unusual way of laying before the American people the problems that confront the government has already been a reduction in taxes is largely the result of the cumbersome way the federal government operates. For the budget just submitted by the President is the one that takes effect July 1 next and represents many commitments of an emergency nature already in process.

If a tax cut is to be achieved, it will be in the year 1953 when the economy in the next budget has already been satisfied. There must be a way for the tax changes and when presumably some stimulus has been gained for how much the tax collections for 1952 — a good year from an economic standpoint — will increase.

What must be fully recognized, if there is to be a tax cut, is the need for removing policies from the spending program. The pendulum has swung so far in the direction of federal aid for all sorts of projects that it will not be possible to swing it the other way without the support of an informed public opinion.

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, the man who is basically responsible for President Eisenhower's fiscal policies, said some things in his press conference Wednesday with newsmen which are as important as the passages the President transmitted in his budget message to Congress. The secretary made a realistic statement that should be noted carefully because it contains the key to the whole economic future of the United States, he said.

The billions of dollars spent annually by the government for military equipment and manpower go into the spending stream but are not matched by an increase in the production of peacetime goods, so that heavy pressure is put on the price of goods which all the people must buy.

This imbalance makes it more difficult to keep the cost of living within bounds. Monetary measures alone may not be sufficient for this task, unless the federal government makes reductions in its manpower and in its purchases which will help to increase the production of additional peacetime goods and so help to hold down prices. Moreover, the funds so released will then be available to build up the capital needed to help create the new jobs, to build the new schools and the countless other improvements required by this growing country of ours.

What this means is that there is a kind of military economy dominant today. It is based on a huge expenditure for non-productive purposes. On international issues, America has no choice, but in domestic matters, as Mr. Humphrey says, "remain both militarily and economically strong." So the real question is this: When such a pressure of circumstances over which this country does not have control is being applied, should there not be a corresponding obligation to do away with the luxuries or at least to postpone them all such time as the nation can afford them?

Mr. Eisenhower, in his recent "State of the Union" message, referred to "self-discipline" and the need for restraint by the leaders of business and of organized labor in handling prices and wages. But Secretary Humphrey speaks out some additional obligations. He says the public must cooperate in "limiting its demands upon the federal government for only essential federal functions." He calls for pruning of federal government expense all along the line and says plainly that there must be "actual and substantial reductions through improved efficiency."

If the world could be made more peaceful and armaments could be reduced, it would be an ideal situation. For the more this released would go into productive expenditure and permanent jobs. This cannot be insured, however, because of the uncertainty in the world situation. Hence, the alternative is to find ways and means of restraining and deferring expenditures — spreading them over a longer period of time.

The spending spree has to come to an end and a bigger surplus obtained before tax reduction can be made. And the tax cut must be used as a stimulus to the economy so as to take up the slack in unemployment arising from the transition period when manpower is reduced in armament industries and labor is changed over to productive peacetime industries.

Sum-Up

A Surprising Thing: Ike Likes His Work

By ARTHUR KESIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)— Dwight D. Eisenhower tomorrow starts another four years on what usually is called the world's toughest job.

Just one surprising change in the soldier-trumpet politician can be summed up in a sentence:

Here's a man who now appears to like his work.

At the end of each year Eisenhower has been in office newsmen have written stories summing up his triumphs and failures. In each the same point has been made: that Eisenhower was becoming more and more sure-handed in the way he handled his responsibilities.

Along with this has been an equally important change in his attitude.

After he had been in office a month, he was asked how he liked his new job. In his answer he wandered all over the world, but about the best he could say for it was, well, it has its compensations.

During those early months he had his troubles, domestic and foreign. There was Korea. There was — as there still is — the danger of steady inflation. There was discussion within his own party, especially over Sen. Joe McCarthy's of Wisconsin.

Slowly he became more at ease. Gradually he became more confident. He was trying to learn his second-term plans, he appeared to have as much fun killing them along as Harry Truman and Franklin Roosevelt had had before him.

Although he often has denied he is a politician — possibly because he's afraid it will be viewed in what he calls a derogatory sense — he shouldn't be taken too literally.

In one of the most unusual terms of politics, point out and selling himself to the people, Eisenhower twice has proved that he's a maverick.

Furthermore, he obviously enjoys it.

Some who traveled with him during the 1952 campaign thought he had little chance for this sort of thing. If that is true, he has changed his opinion.

Fiscal Policy Doesn't Support Monetary Policy

WASHINGTON — On the surface, President Eisenhower's 1953 Budget is "deflationary." It seems to contract the forces that boom-and-bust sequences are made of.

Receipts are put at $28.8 billion, expenditures at $27.3 billion in the year ended June 30, 1953. Corporations and people — war and 1 — would pay over to the Treasury $1.5 billion more than the Treasury pays out to us. That's the surplus. And a surplus is what governments are supposed to have during prosperity. To restrain it's a boon, to stretch out good times.

But in a seven-year-old budget that's a glaring surplus. About 2 per cent. It doesn't represent real restraint. Instead of easing its demands on the short supply of men, materials, and money, the government bids its own more. Expenditures go up, thus:

So the budget balloons. The farm-ers get increased help. The road-building program, which is treated as a trust fund outside the budget, calls for grants of $1,750,000,000 in the current fiscal year and $1,000,000,000 in the 1954 fiscal year. Eventually, it will set up cement, steel, sand, rock, etc. And, of course, it will absorb manpower.

That's why President Eisenhower wants schools. And when he says "in view of the present active competition for labor, materials, and equipment . . . I have asked the head of each Federal agency to watch closely the timing and construction and to postpone work which can appropriately be put off until a later date."

In his State-of-the-Union message, the President promised to "search out additional ways to save money and manpower" and urged Congress to be "equally watchful in this matter." Which hardly indicates that he's at odds with his Secretary of the Treasury.

The many people, corporations, and government agencies are trying to do too much too soon. To curb prices, inflation, the Federal Reserve Board has kept a rein on the money supply, which has remained level for a year or so.

But turnover of bank deposits has increased from 19 times a year in 1950 to 22 times. What money we have, we make work harder.

That's why Humphrey argues fiscal policy hasn't supported monetary policy. In the budget, the government further adds to the demand, which already is overrunning our economic capacity, our supply of men, money and materials.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 5:44 — "But I say unto you, Love your enemies."

Many startling words were spoken by Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount, but none more surprising than "Love your enemies." All will agree that it is a beautiful ideal, but we wonder if it is possible to attain it. Our human nature rebels against the thought of loving our enemies, for it is human to return evil for evil and to hate those who harm us.

It is the divine nature to love enemies, to make the sun rise on the evil and on the good, and to send rain on the just and on the unjust. While God blesses both, he does not have the same love for his enemies that he has for his friends; he delights in his friends but he has no joy in those who work against him.

The thought of loving our enemies is most difficult in time of war; for we are confronted with a conflict of loyalties. We love the enemies of our country? The answer is found in the conduct of God toward his enemies; he loves them but he does not aid them in their evil works against himself. Neither does God hesitate to restrain his enemies and punish them. The Christian finds no joy in war and in self-defense is compelled to restrain, punish, and defeat his enemies and their evil purposes.

Around The Rim

Cash Culture And Texans

The business of writing about wheeler-dealer Texans must be mighty good pay. Edna Ferber with her "Giant" probably hauled down the most, but every once in a while a fellow is able to sell a piece to a magazine which tears Texas and Texans apart, or at least puts 'em on the grill. The issue of the magazine always sells well in Texas, so that Texans can get their mail, and the writer surely draws his share of the profits.

There's a new piece just on the market, in case you want to buy, in the February Bulletin.

The author is Cleveland Amory, who attained some success with a couple of books called "The Last Riders" and "The Proper Business." I understand the first had to do with the decline of such playgrounds of society as Newport, and the second treated of the plutocracy of dish oil Baku. In these areas, Mr. Amory was able to describe the begonia and self-chill set, and did it very nicely, too, although some of the subjects may have worried.

But get Mr. Amory's dug down in Texas and he is unable to see the people for the oil derricks. Somebody has put the title on his article, "The Oil Falls At Home," and if this is a good pun, you make the most of it.

Whereas, in Boston and Newport Mr. Amory found white ties and tails, it must have disconcerted him some to find in Texas mostly open shirt collars and boots.

This is shameful, so the author has set about to show that Texans — the oil crowd, that is — are far, far too distant with their money.

The Bulletin writer has done more than some other magazine authors. He has named names, and hasn't created some fictional characters stuffed with exaggerated stories. The betting odds are high that some of the tales he has put into his piece about the big Texans are apocryphal, but by and large they can be taken in good humor.

Mr. Amory goes on to recite the top men in wealth, such as H. L. Hunt, Hugh Roy Cullen, Sid Richardson, Clint Murchison and Glenn McCarthy. He goes back with some references to A. T. Waggoner and Aron Carter, and gets down to naming some of the newer generation of oil operators, right in neighboring towns such as Amarillo and Midland.

He strikes rather cuttingly at the ostentation that some of the wealthy Texans may be guilty of, and then goes on to make a point that Miss Ferber did not overlook, and which he does not understand too clearly. That is the reference to the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance granted for tax purposes in the exploration for oil. The author cites this as the main reason why Texans are throwing money around like mad, and suggests society altogether to put in the real economic reasons for this lack of our tax structure. It's the propaganda like this that is going to keep on until the oil industry will find itself in a defensive position one of these days, and somebody ought to take the trouble to give Mr. Amory and his likes a lesson in taxation.

Oh, well, the big Texans are "characters" and they do make eggs. That's better than just doing stuffy rich.

What Mr. Amory seemed to make the point of his article was that Texans have more cash than culture. If he had pursued his research a little further, he could have found that a lot of us Texans have neither.

The Health-Giving Power Of Faith

Not too long ago at a veteran's hospital in the South I had an interesting discussion about the partnership of medicine and faith with a truly great surgeon. This doctor told me a fascinating story illustrating the importance of that healing partnership.

The surgeon had a young veteran on his operating table. Moments were preparing him for the operation. The kindly surgeon came in to say a word to the boy. As he stood looking down at the patient, he realized that the boy was deeply despondent. A kindly man, he touched the boy's hair and asked, "How are you feeling now?"

"Oh, yes, sir," the boy replied. "I don't think I'll ever come through this operation."

Thoughtfully the doctor turned to the attendants. "Better take him upstairs." Then he said to the boy, "I'll come up to the ward to see you in just a few minutes."

Later, sitting by the patient's bed, he began talking to him in relaxed and friendly manner about his home, his mother, his father and his hopes for the future. "Do you believe in your religion, son?" he asked.

"Oh, yes, sir," the boy answered, "and I try to practice it."

"It's a religious man myself," the doctor told him. "When I became a doctor, I dedicated myself to the Lord and told Him I wanted to help people. That is why I became a surgeon. I'm only God's servant. Every time I operate on a patient, I dedicate my hands and my mind to the Lord. I ask Him to put His healing touch upon me so that I may use my instruments with skill. I dedicate to Him all my knowledge and I dedicate my patient to Him as well."

"Now," he continued, "tomorrow morning I'm going to operate on you. I want you to come into the operating room realizing that you are a spiritual being at work. The team is the Lord, the Great Healer, you, a relaxed and believing patient, and I, a dedicated servant of God. The three of us together will be successful in our task."

The boy nodded; there was an understanding smile on his face.

When he was rolled into the operating room the next morning, the smile was still there. The doctor asked, "How do you feel, Bill?"

"Doctor, I feel all right," Bill answered. "I want you to know that all the team is here. Go ahead."

The surgeon did go ahead and the operation was successful. In telling me about this incident, the doctor added, "If we can get people to realize that they are the creations of One who can heal them, if only they will apply the Divine laws of health, we doctores can perform miracles of faith and healing."

As he spoke, I thought of a verse from St. Luke which I have always considered one of the most beautiful in the Bible: "And all the crowd sought to touch him, for power came forth from him and healed them all." (Revised Standard Version).

Personally I believe that this tremendous healing power is available to you and me, for it has been promised and the promise has been fulfilled over and over again. You can have it if you desire, but not without giving your whole self. It will not come unless you have real faith and can trust God. With God's help I will give up my sin; I will have done with my doubts; I will conquer my conflicts."

Ike: Popularity Vs. Influence

WASHINGTON — In the small tempo that has blown up over whether reporters and photographers shall be admitted to the meeting-in ceremony in the White House on Sunday is the old familiar drama of a President struggling against the inevitable invasion of his privacy that puts him and his family on almost constant public display.

Every President has tried to avert the flood of public stare. Mr. Eisenhower has been more successful than most for several reasons. One is that he has had not so much a favorable as an ambulatory press. A second reason is that he has had the only adequate title — that is James C. Hagerty with great skill in the art of public presentation. And in Robert McGonigley the President has had the ablest television producer in the business.

A consequence as he enters upon a second term is the paradox that he is at one and the same time the best known and the best known of Presidents, and the beneficiary of an extraordinary outpouring of press, radio, television, all the media of mass communication, he is a massive figure on the world horizon.

President Eisenhower is, in fact, almost the sole survivor of the heroes of the West who came out of World War II. He was the junior in the war years, the able and willing protégé of those who understood that tact and diplomacy were essential to the conduct of a war waged by many and diverse allies against a common enemy. He is, therefore, a lonely figure and his loneliness is accentuated by the isolation that is inherent in the most powerful office in the world.

In his absence may lie the explanation for the unchanging nature of the circle immediately around the President. The old friends, the familiar associates have remained in their places and there is every indication that the second term will be very much like the first.

But however much the President desires that the same remain the same — same faces, same setting — at times he must reflect in the aftermath of his great electoral victory of last November that the problems he confronts are also unchanging and, in a sense, unchangeable in other words, they must appear to the lonely man in the White House, for all his natural ebullience and optimism, on occasion to be insoluble in any terms politically comprehensible to him.

Take the question of aid to education. No one who looks with any objectivity on the current scene can escape the conclusion that educational standards are rapidly deteriorating. The teaching of mathematics, physics, chemistry and other subjects vital to science and technology has fallen away so fast as to give great alarm to the military and the Atomic Energy Commission where the concern for Britain to maintain America's supremacy is real and immediate.

The reasons for this deterioration are many and complicated. But one obvious reason is the lack of classrooms and teachers throughout the country. The need for Federal aid to education is demonstrable to all but those who blind themselves with easy shibboleths about government and freedom out of a past that has wholly vanished.

Once again the President in his budget message has asked for nearly a half billion dollars for grants and loans to aid education. In his speech on the State of the Union, he stressed the need to do what the last Congress had failed to do.

Yet surely having learned so much in four years about the real meaning of the separation of powers under the American system of government, as opposed to the absolutist textbook concepts of those powers, the President must know that the chances for action are, if anything, worse in this Congress than they were in the last.

If he feels deeply concerned over this area of failure — a failure not only of politics and government but of education itself — the President must at this beginning of a new term wonder at his isolation.

It was demonstrated in November that his popularity was equalled by few figures in America's history. But his influence, granted that he really desires to bring it to bear on the major problems of the time, is small.

Inauguration Gowns Show Fashion At Its Height When Each Was Worn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Feminine interest in the forthcoming inaugural festivities here centers on the gown Mrs. Eisenhower will wear to her second inaugural ball, and whether it will replace its 1953 predecessor in the "First Ladies' Hall" of the Smithsonian Institution.

The colorful collection already includes Mamie's first inaugural ball gown, a full-length creation of pink peau-de-seite studded with 2,000 rhinestones, designed by Nettie Rosenstein of New York, who reportedly is making the First Lady's gown for this year's ball.

Museum authorities looked searchingly at photographs and portraits of the first ladies and combed historic records to create an illusion of reality behind the eight glass cases of a lifelike display in period settings. There are little clues and big ones, hidden in this hall, that have a lot to say about the silent inhabitants.

Deadlier Of The Species

June Allyson's signal comes too late to prevent Ann Sheridan from spilling the beans to Ann Miller, who cocks an ear for the lush bit of gossip. The three women are among the stars of the take-off on women in general, "The Opposite Sex."

June Allyson Heads Cast In Comedy, 'Opposite Sex'

Such aspects of the female world as back-stabbing, hair-pulling, reputation-ruining and husband-stealing, are lampooned in "The Opposite Sex," continuing Sunday and Monday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre. The plot might be termed malicious, merry and musical.

The producers drafted a bevy of leading actresses for this expose of female foibles and frolics. The cast includes: June Allyson, Joan Collins, Dolores Gray, Ann Sheridan and Ann Miller, with Leslie Nielsen and Jeff Richards as the straight men.

Others in the cast are: Charlotte Greenwood, Agnes Moorehead, Joan Blondell and Sam Levene, with guest stars Harry James, Art O'Money, Dick Shawn and Jim Backus.

Dick Powell Still Gets Into The Act

Remember the subtle comedy of which Dick Powell was a master back in his acting days? He still manages to get into the act.

The fact that June Allyson, star of "The Opposite Sex," is also Mrs. Powell may have helped. Nevertheless, for a key scene in the picture, Miss Allyson shares a table in New York's noted 21 Club with three of her cronies.

On the wall right behind her is a giant-sized caricature of— you guessed it—Dick Powell.

LIFE WITH MUSIC

Ballerinas Ought To Wear Numbers

By RICHARD D. SAUNDERS
Dancers do a great deal of talking about their desire to recruit new patrons for dance events. After which they sometimes seemingly go out of their way to make it difficult for the spectators to understand what actually is going on at a ballet performance, and who is dancing what, and when—particularly in the classical repertory.

Take the classic "Les Sylphides," for example. There is no difficulty in identifying the man in the ballet, because he is the only male. But all the feminine cast dresses exactly alike, to the immediate confusion of the individual who is seeing ballet for the first time.

True, he may identify the performers later on, provided he is able to distinguish the differences between a waltz, a mazurka and a prelude, which is not always the case. But any normal person wants to know what is going on, right from the beginning, and his pleasure will be enhanced and his interest sustained when he does so.

At a recent performance, one facetious observer commented that the dancers ought to wear numbers, as at other athletic events such as ball games or track. While this suggestion was not intended to be taken literally, it was indicative of the state of mind induced in some of the auditors, at least.

Programs might be made more explicit by giving a brief description of each dancer, sufficient for recognition. But that would involve added printing costs, and programs cannot be read in the dark.

A simple, yet genial way, might be for the director, or stage manager, to personally introduce each dancer to the audience, just before the ballet, and cite that

Actress Caught Napping In Public

Only a few people can doze off in public according to Hollywood press agents. At least, this is what happened with Lauren Bacall on the set for "Written on the Wind."

In one sequence, Miss Bacall was depicted in a huge, vastly comfortable bed. Most actresses, between takes, retire to the dressing room to rest, but Miss Bacall considered her bed the better choice.

Between takes, she curled up for a short snooze despite the fact production crews were working within 20 feet of her.

dancer's impending actions. This could be done tactfully, so as not to appear patronizing.

An introduction, after all, is a gracious thing at any social gathering. There, too, it is a way to make new friends, and broaden our cultural horizons.

Dr. Ernest Kanitz' "Sonata Breve," which is a trio for violin, cello and piano, was performed at a women's club in Vienna, last month. . . . The charming Okinawan songs in the delightful "Teahouse of the August Moon" were composed or arranged by Kikuko Kanai, and the authoritative choreography was by Masaya Fujima. . . . Chill Willis so enjoyed the taste of organ playing he had during a scene in "Giant," that he now is taking up the instrument seriously. . . . Piano teacher Florence Amber is such an expert gardener that she has sold two articles on gardening to a home magazine. . . . Andre Previn took time out from scoring "Hot Summer Night" to conduct the December concert of the Glendale Symphony Orchestra. . . . 'An Evening With Strauss' Slated As Lubbock Concert

Some of the best music from the operas of Johann Strauss, together with vocal arrangements of some of his waltzes, will be given Saturday, Feb. 2, at the Lubbock Auditorium when Civic Lubbock, Inc., presents "An Evening With Johann Strauss."

The music will be presented in concert form, with four attractive young soloists from the New York City Opera and Broadway, a choral ensemble, narrator and two-piano team.

Ruth and Thomas Martin, translators and adapters of foreign operas and operettas in English, assembled the touring company. Since the success of their English version of Mozart's "Magic Flute," produced by the Metropolitan Opera in 1941 (and revived 1956-57 under Bruno Walter), at least one of their works has appeared in New York every year, produced by either the Metropolitan or the New York City Opera Company.

Martin has been a leading conductor of the New York City Opera since 1944, and was both conductor and co-author with Mrs. Martin of the book and lyrics for the version of Strauss' "A Night in Venice," produced for two seasons at the Jones Beach Marine Theatre.

For their program, the Martins have chosen extensive portions from Strauss' three most popular operettas—"The Gypsy Baron," "Die Fledermaus" and "A Night in Venice"—plus shorter selections from "Princess Ninetta," "Prince Methusalem," "The Merry War" and "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief." In order to provide an informal atmosphere and create the proper framework for the production, the individual numbers of the program will be introduced by narrator Michael Steele, a well-known actor of Broadway, motion pictures and television.

Tickets for the Lubbock appearance are priced at $3.00, $2.50, $2.00 and $1.00, and are currently on sale at the Auditorium Box Office.

Pasternak Is Past Master At Fem Wiles

Keeping the opposite sex happy is a full time job, as most any man will admit. But producer Joe Pasternak has been doing it ever since, twenty years ago, as a waiter, he made sure that Gloria Swanson's lamb chops were broiled crisp.

Pasternak has taken on a full house with the dozen or so women he cast for "The Opposite Sex." It was up to him to keep harmony among the actresses, a notoriously temperamental bunch.

"Temperament and certain Machiavellian tendencies peculiar to the ladies are part of stellar equipment," he philosophizes. Nevertheless, he took precautions, such as keeping fresh flowers in each star's dressing room: "A happy star makes for a happy picture."

Pasternak's training in feminine strategy continued unabated as he rose to rank of producer. Back when he was guiding Deanna Durbin to fame, the teen-age prodigy once had a run-in with Leopold Stokowski, the noted conductor, who appeared with her in a picture.

Stokowski was a lesson in counter-guile when he said gently, "Tell me how you would like it done, my dear."

"Stokowski, big enough not to fear losing face, knew that the best way to manage a star was to keep her happy," Pasternak recalls.

Pasternak once accidentally knocked a girl sprawling in a studio commissary. All apologies, he took her to lunch, where she wangled a part in his next picture, even after she admitted it hadn't been an accident.

"I didn't mind," Pasternak says. "Actresses must not only know what they want, they must also work at it with wile, guile and smile. Today, executives maneuver to meet this same girl—June Allyson."

Pasternak's naivete disarms the most truculent player—even men. When Frank Sinatra was Hollywood's problem child, Pasternak approached him for "Anchors Aweigh," against expert advice.

"Frankie," he beamed, "the part I have in mind for you isn't anything like what you've ever done. This boy is shy, uncertain, your friends here might even call him a shookey. You'd be perfect for it." He got Sinatra.

'Boom Town' Plays Again

"Boom Town," one of the film masterpieces of twenty or more years ago, plays beginning Tuesday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre. Stars are Spencer Tracy, Clark Gable, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr.

The plot centers around the search for oil back in the wildcatter's heyday, and of two oil field pals who seek their fortune in black gold but end up fighting over the same girl.

More than 30 location sites were used. Some of the scenes include a blazing oil well being snuffed out by a blast of TNT, oil gushers roaring in to shoot derricks high in the air, a dive into a sea of mud to escape flying bullets, fist fights extending all the way from a boom town saloon to a plush Manhattan office.

Gable and Tracy play the men who meet in a tough boom town and form a partnership. They remain friends through adversity, even when one marries the other's sweetheart (played by Miss Colbert). They split when Gable apparently is untrue to his wife but are reunited years later when both men bury the hatchet at a time when each is wealthy from oil.

Then a siren, Miss Lamarr, enters the story to snatch Gable from his wife and Tracy resorts to a scheme of his own to rectify the situation.

Vera Vague Is No More

There's nothing Vague about Vera these days. The girl who brought wonderful nonsense to radio, TV and films has up and changed her name and taken a new lease in the entertainment world. Barbara Jo Allen has shelved her famous Vera Vague character and has taken to acting under her own name. "I had played her out," Miss Allen says of the Vague character.

'Ulysses' Is Tale Of Greek Adventurer

Thousands of years ago, a blind Greek poet first spun the thrilling tale of a great warrior and sailor who fought and won a war and then wandered the Mediterranean for ten years trying to reach home and his waiting wife and son. The film version of Homer's epic poem, "Ulysses," shows Thursday and Friday at the Terrace Theatre.

Portraying Ulysses is Kirk Douglas; Silvana Mangano is cast in the double role of the enchantress, Circe, and as Ulysses' patient wife, Penelope; Anthony Quinn plays Antinous, the most formidable and demanding of Penelope's suitors; and Rossana Podesta is featured as Nausicaa, the lovely maiden with whom Ulysses falls in love when he is shipwrecked on her father's shore.

"Ulysses" was filmed in Italy and along the Mediterranean and Aegean Sea routes over which the great Greek hero originally traveled and fought. Noted writers Hecht and Irwin Shaw helped on the screenplay.

In transferring the Homeric epic to the screen, the producers chose only the most spectacular adventures of which Ulysses told when

Jet To Screen Presley Movie

Elvis is back again. The teen-age idol's first movie, "Love Me Tender," plays Thursday through Saturday at the Jet Theatre. Co-starred are Richard Egan and Debra Paget.

The story is centered during the Civil War days and immediately thereafter. Egan is cast as the older of four brothers, leader of a group of Rebel raiders which include three of the brothers. Presley portrays the youngest who was too young for the war, and had to stay behind.

Miss Paget is cast as the girl Egan left behind and who, on hearing of the death of Egan, goes to the aid of the Rebel band. Adding to the complications is the fact that the Rebel band had taken a Federal Army payroll in the closing days of the war and, on returning, found the war was over, and so divided up the money between them. Federal agents are soon hot on their trail.

Elvis' role calls mostly for dramatics, but he does manage to crowd four songs into the film.

"Written On The Wind," a highly emotional drama, is supposed to be pretty good. Critics generally have given it a pat on the back without, however, going overboard. The movie marks the comeback of Dorothy Malone after her first attempt at stardom failed several years ago. She's considerably improved.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

"Rock, Rock, Rock" is ready-made for teen-agers and others who like rock-n-roll. It's practically all music, practically no story, and will, naturally, appeal only to those who like rock-n-roll.

"The Opposite Sex" is an up-dated re-make of "The Women" if you're aged enough to remember that one. It's a story involving the subtle cross-currents between members of a group of females, and their battles over men. It's a sophisticated comedy-drama with music.

"King's Row" is coming back this week. Based on a best-selling novel of several years ago, it features the struggles of a young psychiatrist against his narrow-minded environment in the early days of the new science of the mind. The drama is at times rather brutal.

"Boom Town" is even more ancient. All we can remember about this movie is that it is all about an oil town that grows up out of nowhere. Features Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Claudette Colbert, back when they looked much younger.

"The Vagabond King" will appeal to lovers of light opera, although this version is more of an operetta. It also has plenty of action, though not as much as Hollywood's original version.

Those who have read Homer's works will get a kick out of Kirk Douglas' interpretation of "Ulysses." The film recounts one of the Greek philosopher's tales of the Trojan Wars, that of the Greek hero Ulysses, who spent more than ten years wandering in and out of the Mediterranean in search of his home. Matter of fact, even those who know next to nothing about ancient Greek history may find this fantasy entertaining.

"Our Miss Brooks," a film version of the noted radio-TV program, is about up to par. Features Eve Arden and most of the original cast.

Elvis is back again this week. His screen debut, "Love Me Tender," is at a drive-in this time, so he may have a chance to be heard. When the film played here before, at a downtown movie house, it was impossible to tell whether Presley could act, what with the screaming of the teen-age girls and the cat-calls of the teen-age boys.

We haven't had a chance to see "Daniel Boone, Trail Blazer," but it looks pretty good for its type. The casting, at least, follows the realistic pattern of "Jubal" in that the characters actually resemble frontiersmen.

Prices High In Boom Towns

People who complain about today's high prices may be interested in comparable prices in America's boom town days. Prevailing prices were gleaned from cafe menus and other records of a typical Western oil boom town circa 1919, for use in "Boom Town."

Corned beef is listed at $1.75; ham and eggs, $2.50; spaghetti, $1.50; meat balls, 75 cents. At the barber shop, a shave cost 75 cents; a haircut, $1.50; and shampoos depended on the price of water.

Water was on sale for $2 a barrel and it cost a half dollar just to walk on a plank across a muddy street.

Research shows that in those days rent on two unfurnished rooms came to $100 a month and a dollar was the standard price of a pound of butter, a pound of steak or a dozen eggs, while milk brought forty cents a quart.

Psycho And Sister

Robert Stack, a psychotic character in "Written On The Wind," takes out his frustration on his sister, played by Dorothy Malone. Others in the cast are Lauren Bacall and Rock Hudson.

'Written On Wind' Is Emotional Drama

"Written On The Wind," starring Rock Hudson, Lauren Bacall, Robert Stack and Dorothy Malone, plays at the Ritz Theatre Sunday through Tuesday.

The story is a study of a man who becomes incapable of living happily with his young wife. His conflict with his best friend, who loves the wife without admitting it, makes for emotional drama. Hudson is cast as the man who

By the winter of 1943-44, the Eighth Air Force, virtually paralyzed by bad weather and severe

STARS TAKE A Mud Bath

One of the more amusing scenes in "Boom Town" is the mud bath taken by stars Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy.

For this sequence, the stars had to dive head-first into a street of the stickiest, ooziest, slushiest puddle of knee-deep mud Hollywood could provide.

The scene shows Gable and Tracy meeting on a plant walk across a muddy boom town street. Neither will give way and they are about to resort to violence when a shooting puts them directly into the line of fire. They both choose the mud to being shot.

OLD NUMBER BACK

When June Allyson and Harry James jazzed it up together for an act in "The Opposite Sex," they were repeating a number that was specially written for them in 1944 in "Two Girls And A Sailor." The number represents a flashback to World War II. Name of the tune? "Young Man With A Horn."

PARENTS' PROBLEM

The struggle of a family to overcome the frustration of their youngest child's incurable deafness is illustrated in "Parents of a Stranger," on CBS Television's dramatic series, "Telephone Time" today at 5 p.m.

CROSBY WITH BILKO

Bing Crosby makes one of his rare appearances on television when he drops in on Sgt. Bilko and his zany platoon Tuesday night on "The Phil Silvers Show." Bing's brother, Everett, who manages his numerous enterprises, will also be a guest on the program.

Abilene Symphony Near Folding Stage

By MARSHALL COMERER
Associated Press Staff

Despite a steadily improving standard of performance, the Abilene Symphony Orchestra is on the brink of folding.

Inadequate financing, too few musicians and small audiences are blamed.

Lacking $15,000 to meet its budget for three remaining regular concerts and some children's concerts, the orchestra's managers are represented as determined not to go into debt to finance the remaining concerts.

The symphony held its concerts in the high school. It put on an active campaign last fall to attract concert goers.

In a move to stimulate the lagging attendance the orchestra's officers last week distributed 5,000 yellow tags and asked citizens to wear them. The tags bore the letters "LTS," meaning "Let's Talk Symphony."

Concerts have averaged audiences of 700, about 500 of whom were season ticket holders and the rest were persons buying tickets at the door and students attending the concerts on their activities cards.

A group in Marshall has organized to give permanent support to the Marshall Civic Symphony Orchestra. They adopted the name Marshall Symphony Society and ected a governing board of 27 members to perfect the organization.

Construction will be completed this month on a new concert auditorium on the Baylor campus in Waco.

Roxy Grove Hall, named for the first chairman of the Baylor Music School, is being built as an appendage to the southwest corner of Waco Hall. It is being built with a $310,000 gift from Carr Collins of Dallas.

Oil Well Fire Was Man-Made

A flaming oil gusher shooting fire 300 feet into the air, another hurling tons of crude oil hundreds of yards away, and a geyser of salt water, all under fingertip control, were among the feats designed for "Boom Town."

The spectacle had to be man-made, since not even Hollywood studios can go out and bring in a wildcat when they feel like it, nor can they risk setting fire to an existing well.

The apparatus, at the touch of a button, would make the earth shake and a column of oil roar up from the bowels of the earth, ripping away derricks, cables and pipelines. Again, at the pressure of a button, a pillar of flame was sent roaring skyward.

Each time the flaming gusher rose, it consumed 500,000 feet of natural gas and 100,000 gallons of oil. Each time it was extinguished, 300 pounds of liquid gas was sprayed from extinguisher nozzles.

Rock-n-Roll Film Feature

Teen-age rock-n-roll fans may be in for a treat with the new film, "Rock, Rock, Rock," showing Wednesday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre. The story and plot are strictly kid stuff, but the music is crazy, man.

The story tells of the tribulations of a young girl whose father has told her she must earn the money she needs for her new dress for the senior prom. It is his way of making her learn the value of money. So when the bank turns her down, she forms her own loan company.

Musical background is supplied by 21 new rock-n-roll tunes, and the following combos and performers: Frankie Lyman and the Teen-Agers; The Three Chuckles; Lovers Bakers; Chuck Berry; Moon-glows; Flamingoes; Jimmy Cavallo and his House Rockers; Johnny Burnette Trio; Connie Francis; Alan Freed's Rock-n-Roll Band; Ivy Schulman; and The Bowties.

Sun Lamp Dimmed Actress' Laughter

Filming of a scene in "Written On The Wind" had to be postponed because actress Dorothy Malone couldn't smile. She had spent several hours of the preceding day under a sun lamp and was thoroughly baked. The scene called for the actress to be gay and bubbling with laughter, but she could barely talk, much less smile or laugh.

"The Vagabond King" new film version of an old operetta by Rudolph Friml, returns to the State Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. Starring are Kathryn Grayson and the great European singing star, Oreste. Also in the cast are Rita Moreno, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Walter Hampden.

"The Vagabond King" was originally based on the adventures of Francois Villon, a poet-adventurer of 15th Century Paris and leader of the Robin Hood-like Vagabonds, who robbed the rich to give to the poor. Villon, in league with Burgundy in their wars with the Kings of France, was converted to French patriotism by King Louis XI, and led his rag-tag army skinned from the seams of Paris against the well-armed Burgundians. Villon is generally conceded to have turned the tide of battle during the Burgundian siege of Paris.

Among the songs included in the film are the now-famous "Song Of The Vagabonds" and "Only A Rose."

Abilene Civic Leader To Speak At Jaycees Banquet

Abilene's "outstanding young man" of 1946 will be featured speaker at the Big Spring Jaycees' second annual "Bosses Banquet" Monday evening.

Alex Bickley, former city attorney at Abilene and a leader in many public affairs, is the man. He is an ex-president of the Abilene Jaycees.

The local organization will present its "Jaycee of the Year" award during the banquet, which will honor employers of members. David Simms, president, will make the presentation to a Jaycee to be chosen Monday for the honor.

Simms also will deliver the president's message to the club. Oliver Cofer will serve as master of ceremonies and John Taylor will intro-

Jakie Shirley In Baylor U. Choir

Jakie Shirley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis L. Shirley, 909 Lancaster, will be among the 22 members of the 72-voice Baylor University chapel choir which goes on tour next week.

He is one of two student directors for the group and will direct one number during performances at Shreveport, La., Lufkin, Stephen Austin College in Nacogdoches and the district Baptist convention in that same city.

The group will make the tour via Trans-Texas Airlines. The choir, which slated a concert here last March under the direction of Dr. Euel Porter, is slated to make a West Texas swing in March. This will include visits in Abilene, Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Monahans and in Portales, N.M.

Jaycee 'Week' Is Proclaimed

Jaycees are turning on the steam this week for observance of Junior Chamber of Commerce Week in Big Spring.

Mayor G. W. Dabney has proclaimed the occasion and asked for "all citizens of our community to give full consideration to the future services of the Junior Chamber of Commerce."

One of the outstanding features of the week will be the "Bosses Banquet" on Monday at 7 p.m. in the Settles.

On Thursday evening at the senior Chamber of Commerce banquet at the Cosden Country Club, presentation will be made of the Distinguished Service Award to some young Big Spring man, regardless of Jaycee affiliation.

In his proclamation of the week, Mayor Dabney paid tribute to the Jaycees as an "organization of young men through which projects of the community service is building leadership within its ranks for the future of our city." He also noted that the observance here will coincide with those all over the state and nation where chapters will be making presentations of their DSA awards.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

If you are one of the thousands who find court rooms and court trials interesting—particularly trials where the crime alleged is murder—you will get a big bargain these days at the racks where paper bound books are displayed.

The book is a reprint of "Courtroom" by that capable news reporter Quentin Reynolds which has just made its appearance. The book is a biographical study of the career of the famous Judge Sam Leibowitz of New York—probably one of the most skillful of all the famous criminal lawyers this nation has produced.

Leibowitz has played major roles in many celebrated trials in the relatively recent history of this country than any other attorney. He was a key figure in the famous Scottsboro trial, for example; had things not been bungled, Reynolds relates that Leibowitz would probably have been able to persuade Hauptmann to reveal his associates in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

This sizable book is not just an exciting recital of a dramatic lawyer before the bar; it is a careful study of how a good attorney sets about accomplishing the apparent miracles he achieves in court.

It will give you a new insight. I think, into the technique that is required to properly prepare a case and it will disclose to the reader that the amazing accomplishments some brilliant barristers are able to achieve are not the result of tricks and magic. Rather, it is shown, they are the final product of weeks and even months of careful advance study and preparation made by the lawyer.

"Courtroom" is also an inspiring story in the sense that it recites again the amazing saga of how an immigrant youth with the willpower and determination can lift himself from the bottom to the very peak of his profession in this land.

I think you'll like "Courtroom," in the event you happened to miss the book when it first appeared in cloth covers.

THE GREAT CHAIN OF LIFE. By Joseph Wood Krutch. Houghton Mifflin.

Examining the human condition from the perspective of the countryside where humans thin out and other living creatures abound, Krutch perhaps perceives and certainly by preference turns to those so-called lowlier creatures to see what light they throw on us.

He observes and reflects on the sapsucker, chipmunk, wasp, ant, bee, butterfly, the bighorn, salamander, the happy whistling cardinal and the banal, treacherous and terrifying dandelion, and draws some conclusions about man, progress, evolution, matter, about why we're here and where we come from and what we're made of.

The theory of natural selection, says Krutch, seems to be here to stay, and he grants it a role, but he thinks it leaves some parts of us unexplained. If man is the "merely material" sum of chemicals, then man's discovery of it means that chemicals discover it, that chemicals, refined and upright on two legs, speak for chemicals. This is preposterous, he says, and looks for other sources for things like Will and Consciousness.

Even though you may not agree, you note with fascination the examples which help Krutch on to his opinion—the Volex which we thank for sex and blame for death, the dandelion that dispenses with sex, the mystifying tadpole and the marvelous metamorphosis of ugly bug into lovely butterfly.

the joy in the song of birds, the disciplined and helpless ants and bees. This is essentially a good book written out of the rare combination of hard head and soft heart. And the good shows clearest when Krutch is most vitriolic; in his attack on hunters and hunting from an original article of his in The American Scholar magazine.

JOSEPH WOOD KRUTCH

GIVE US THIS DAY.

By Sidney Stewart, Norton. Some Americans summoned into the Army 16 or 17 years ago thought they were pretty lucky when they heard, at their stations in the Philippines, that it was on the other side of the world that war was breaking out.

But they were to change their minds in December, 1941, as Sid, this young author and their spokesman, tells in this shocking, almost unbearable book.

The story begins in Manila, and with Sid's friends Russ, John, Weldon, Hughes and Father Bill the priest, it continues through the Batan Peninsula campaign, retreat, surrender and the frightful march, on to Camp O'Donnell, the Davao penal colony, and then by ship or ships to Formosa and Japan, and the liberation, for Sid alone in 1945.

They began to suspect what was in store for them as they ran across the mutilated bodies of American and Filipino soldiers who had fallen into enemy hands. But the most satanic imagination could not approach the horrible realities. They went through the whole catalogue of atrocities, they lived in a chamber of horrors more than three years. They were slugged and beaten with the most pointless barbarity, they were deprived of water and food, and they were exposed deliberately, maliciously, mercilessly to endless hardships. This is as grim a recital of human abominations as you ever read.

The title is the priest's last words. But many of you readers may cavil at the theme running through these horrible pages, the theme of forgiveness. You may seriously question whether Christian forbearance applies to the particular foes these Americans encountered.

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

If the lazy, slow beat type of rock and roll is right down your alley, then you naturally perk up your ears and give a special bit of attention to tunes along the line of "Jim Dandy," by Lavern Baker or "You Can't Stop This Rockin' and Rollin'," by Ivory Joe Hunter. An extra nice piece of waxing is the reverse side of the latter titled "Since I Met You, Baby."

"Up higher and higher goes the rating of "By You, By You, By You," as recorded by Jim Lowe on Dot label. Just one record ago, this artist was unknown, as vocal artists go. Then came the big splash, "Green Door." Jim Lowe can be credited with coming up with some novel ideas in the way of popular recorded music. From the teen age-slanted movie, "Rock, Pretty Baby" comes the new Frank Sinatra number "Can I Steal A Little Love." The kids seem to love it! The flip, a ballad entitled "Your Love For Me," appears to be getting the lesser amount of attention, although it presents Sinatra in top singing form.

Added to the list of current calypso numbers is "Mary Ann," by the Hilltoppers. For this one, the boys have changed their style completely. No longer are they the smooth, polished vocal group as was evident with their releases in the past. They have assumed Benefonte personalities.

A current album by June Christy is "Misty Miss Christy," featuring the singer on the record cover in a mood of reverie. Contained are 12 top numbers by the lass. One of the most outstanding is "There's No You."

A new Ray Anthony LP record, featuring this band leader along with his orchestra members in a number of long-remembered and loved tunes, is "Jam Session In The Tower." One classic presented in this collection of standards is "One O'clock Jump."

"On The Street of Dreams" and

"We'll Be Together Again" are two numbers featured in the currently popular LP record, "Voices In Modern" by the Four Freshmen.

The Four Lads, via Columbia record, present six minutes of dreamy music in the two sides of their coming up strong new disc, "Who Needs You" and "It's So Easy To Forget." "A Girl Can't Help It" reasons Little Richard on his latest hit by Atlantic. This is a number especially prepared for the movie of the same title starring Jayne Mansfield.

The original version of "Young Love," recorded by Sonny James, has tipped well over the million mark in sales. Tab Hunter, another recorder of this popular tune, is also chalking up sale after sale with his version of the same tune. It has been argued that Hunter is attracting so much popularity because of his established reputation as an actor.

A good vocal stint is "All Dressed Up With a Broken Heart" by Jerry Vail, although it is mood-casting.

"Satch At His Best" with a new one that is really going great. Louis Armstrong describes "This Younger Generation" on Decca.

Country and Western fans are going mad about "I Walk The Line" by Johnny Cash. Also, it draws a fair pop audience. "Singing The Blues" by Marty Robbins, also aimed at C&W music lovers, is getting some rating by popular music fans, although Guy Mitchell's version is preferred by most.

Recorded in old time rag time rhythm is "I Love My Baby" by Jill Covert. It is getting notable reception.

It is Nat (King) Cole's turn at bat, and he has hit what looks to be a homer with his latest, "You Are My First Love." Decca is recording company for this new one on the market.
