Bills On Congressional District In Committee

AUSTIN (AP)—Two bills creating the 22nd congressional district in Texas hung today in a Senate subcommittee.

In a quiet session last night the bills were shuttled to subcommittee and ordered to report back "within a reasonable time."

One by Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston would add the district to Harris County, already bulging with more people than two average districts.

The other by Sen. William Fly of Victoria would reshuffle alignment and add the district in fast growing South Texas.

The districts have not been changed since 1933.

A bill predicted by legislators in a pre-session Associated Press poll to be a top item for this session passed an important Senate committee test. This bill, approved 9-2, would put a state-paid parole system into operation and allow counties to hire probation officers.

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro wrote the bill which was recommended by the Texas Legislative Council. District judges, who have the power to probate a prisoner, would appoint the probation men.

Objections were raised by committee members that the counties should not be saddled with paying the probation officers and that supervision was in the hands of the governor's office rather than the Pardons Board.

In the House, the Water Conservation Committee approved 10-2 the constitutional amendment bill to create the state's loan service to cities and other political subdivisions for water conservation projects. A Senate committee approved previously the 200 million dollar water aid plan.

The state could loan up to one third the cost of an individual project or five million dollars, whichever is smaller. Sponsors say the state will profit about 32 million dollars from the revolving fund on interest it charges the cities.

A constitutional amendment to increase the maximum state payments to old age pensioners from $20 to $21 was approved by a House committee. In effect with federal aid, it raises the maximum per recipient from $58 to $60 a month.

The House Rules Committee assigned to subcommittee a $70,000 project to study rewriting the state constitution. Another committee was named to study a bill to make it legal for Texas to advertise its advantages.

Bracewell told the Senate group last night by 1960 Houston and Harris County would have enough people for at least three congressional districts. Jack Porter, Republican national committeeman, said "there are 13 states with less population than Harris County," adding that even with two congressmen the county would have 25 per cent more people than two average districts.

Fly's bill would make up the 22nd district from most of the present 14th district, now represented by John Young of Corpus Christi.

Texas now has 21 congressmen and one congressman-at-large, Martin Dies.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee also sent to subcommittee bills which would: Make it a misdemeanor for minors 14-18 to drive while drunk or without a valid driver's license; increase punishment for moving auto violation; raise salaries of district judges up to $2,900 a year in districts of three counties; force sale of autos in payment of judgments for damage caused by negligent operation.

The Senate State Affairs Committee sent to subcommittee a bill to set minimum salaries for cities of 10,000 and over and amend the civil service act to provide for increased vacations and sick pay.

With but five days remaining in which to meet a land-purchase deadline, the Big Spring Industrial Foundation must have a much better response to its needs than it has received if its program is to materialize.

That was the verdict this morning from J. H. Greene, veteran civic leader and chairman of the IP campaign for funds to establish industrial sites.

So far, the campaign has

Bitter Egyptian Opposition May Kill Israel Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bitter Egyptian criticism cast grave doubt today on the success of the Dulles plan for persuading Israel to withdraw its forces from Egyptian territory.

The question now was whether Israel would accept the proposal without firm U. S. assurance that its interests in the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba would be backed up by more than words.

Israel postponed a decision, expected yesterday, to ask for further information on details it considered vague.

The plan which Secretary of State Dulles presented to Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel Monday offered a United States declaration in favor of navigation through the gulf and of United Nations security measures for the Gaza Strip if Israel would pull its troops out of both those areas.

Dulles' proposition was based in part on his belief, reportedly stated to Eban, that Egypt would go along with free access of all ships, including Israel's, to the gulf and that the U. N. could be expected to prevent future Egyptian attacks on Israel from the Gaza Strip.

The State Department denied last night another report — that Dulles' assurances to Eban had included Egyptian approval of Israel's use of the gulf for shipping. The report said Egypt had given that information to U. N. officials. Dulles made no such statement, the department said.

Last night in Cairo Egyptian spokesmen struck out at the United States offer although they did not flatly reject it. The State Department had no immediate reaction to the Egyptian criticism and there was no indication that it would upset the offer as far as the United States was concerned.

There was immediate speculation in informed quarters, however, as to whether it would not seriously affect Israel's reaction.

The Israelis have made clear over several weeks that before they withdraw their troops they want "guarantees" that their shipping will be able to operate through the gulf and that they will no longer be subjected to raids from Gaza.

Ike Aide Scores U. S. Role In Oil

'No Authority' Seen For Seizure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Seaton said today the government has no authority to seize the oil industry or seek a voluntary agreement to hold down oil prices.

He added he is personally happy that a federal grand jury is reviewing the possibility of antitrust violations in the pricing field.

Seaton denied in testimony prepared for a joint hearing by the Senate Antitrust and Public Lands subcommittee that he ever told a subordinate not to answer questions of a congressional committee.

The joint committee is investigating the emergency program for oil for Europe instituted after closure of the Suez Canal, and the domestic price increases on gasoline and fuel oils which followed.

Interior's office of oil and gas is supervising the emergency supply program which is being carried out by a group of major oil companies with international connections operating under the name the Middle East Emergency Committee.

Antitrust rules have been relaxed, for purposes of the overseas supply operation, to permit such things as pooling of transport and interchange of oil stocks.

Simultaneously with Seaton's testimony before the Senate group the House Commerce Committee called his assistant secretary, Felix E. Wormser, for questioning about how effective the oil lift itself has been. Chairman Harris (D-Ark) said he expected "clarifying statements" on that point, over which there has been some disagreement in the Senate inquiry.

Speaking of the emergency program, Seaton told the senators: "Under the circumstances the great, urgent, overriding problem, when the emergency struck, was this: To get as much oil to Europe as we could, and to get it there as fast as we could."

"The problem had to be solved with the resources at the government's command. I am aware of no existing law by which the government could seize the oil industry on the existing voluntary agreement and on the provisions of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended."

Seaton said the best European sources estimate that for the first three months of the emergency oil life the continent will be getting 80 per cent of its normal requirements of all types of petroleum fuels. He said he wanted to emphasize that this is 80 per cent of normal demand and not restricted requirements under rationing.

The secretary broke the overall figure down by types. He said the Europeans figure they will get 76 per cent of normal requirements of diesel oil and other distillates, 79 per cent of fuel oil requirements and 87 per cent of requirements for motor gasoline.

Seaton said the matter of domestic prices is "inevitably of continuing interest and concern."

But the government does not even have authority to require production of the information on costs and other factors which guide industry price actions, he said.

Furthermore, Seaton said, he is advised that "voluntary agreement on oil prices generally could not now be entered into" under the Defense Production Act. He said such agreements are forbidden "except among defense contractors with respect to their military production."

Obviously referring to testimony given a House committee last week by Hugh A. Stewart, director of the office of oil and gas, that he had been instructed by Seaton and Wormser not to testify as to prices, Seaton said he is sure all officials are ready to bring out reliable public information.

However, he went on: "I need not emphasize that there are risks in a public official's expressing an opinion on a subject on which he has no information, or inadequate information. His statement, as you well know, can be mistakenly assumed to be authoritative, therefore true."

"But I have never told a subordinate not to answer the questions of a committee of the Congress. Beyond mentioning the above precaution, I should say that I am for the fullest and freest possible exchange of factual and accurate public information."

Where 14 Died

Fourteen persons were known to be dead and 13 were hospitalized after flames flashed through this 75-year-old convalescent home in Council Bluffs, Iowa. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Fire Kills 14 At Rest Home In Iowa

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—Fire that "all of a sudden" enveloped a three-story rest home killed 14 patients yesterday.

Thirteen other patients and employees needed hospital treatment, with one patient listed today as in critical condition.

All together 17 patients, 10 employees and three children of the home manager, Kenneth Patin, were carried from the blazing building, hobbled out on crutches, sped their wheel chairs onto the hill-top lawn of the 71-year-old structure or raced out on foot.

Many of the 13 found dead in the tangled mass of debris died in their beds. The 14th victim died in a hospital.

Firemen who answered the alarm within four or five minutes after it was sounded told in trembling voices of seeing one woman kneeling in prayer in her bed as flames swirled over her.

Firemen could find no survivor who could immediately tell them what started the fire. Today fire officials dug through masses of debris in a search for the cause.

The home—in which one person died in a 1942 blaze—was operating under license suspension.

Iowa State Health Commissioner Edmund C. Zimmerman said the license of Mrs. Ivy Lee Gilmore had not been renewed after an inspection Jan. 30. Zimmerman said that following the inspection he withheld renewal "pending certain corrections at the home." He did not specify what corrections had been ordered.

But the Council Bluffs public service director said he and a Health Department inspector looked over the home last month and it met requirements for fire safety. He said an automatic fire detection system was recently installed.

Fire Chief Waldo Merrill described the flames as sweeping

Dawson-Borden Livestock Show Opens In Lamesa

LAMESA — The annual Dawson-Borden Junior Boys Livestock Show began unravelling here today with the arrival of all stock to be exhibited at the stock barns at the Dawson County Fair Grounds. All calves and lambs will be in the North Barn, according to County Agent LeRoy Colgan, while all swine will be in the South Barn.

Over $2,000 in prizes will be given to the almost 200 exhibitors who will be showing about 350 animals. Judging of the swine will begin at 9:00 a.m. Friday. Lambs will be judged at 9 a.m. Saturday and calves at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. FFA and 4-H Club boys from all the schools drawing students from Dawson and Borden counties will enter exhibits, including O'Donnell and Ackery.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U. N. Steering Committee today rejected a Soviet demand for a General Assembly debate on the Eisenhower Middle East doctrine and other U. S. "aggressive actions."

Baby Shot During Strike Violence

PRINCETON, Ind. (AP)—Churches in two Indiana counties were opened for noonday prayers today for the recovery of a baby—daughter of a nonstriking worker, shot through the head.

Deaconess Hospital in Evansville reported Julia Ann Russell, 4-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Russell, still in critical condition but slightly improved.

The baby, struck by one of seven bullets fired into her parents' trailer home early Wednesday, remained paralyzed on her left side but was able to take food. She was kept in an oxygen tent.

Twenty members of the Ministerial Alliance of Princeton asked churches in Gibson and Pike counties to open today for prayers for the baby's recovery. The ministers issued a statement saying they "vigorously protest acts of violence" in the long strike of the Potter & Brumfield electrical relay factory here.

The International Assn. of Machinists, on strike at the plant since Nov. 5 over dismissals, offered a $1,000 reward for arrest and conviction of the person who fired the bullets. The Princeton local of the union also offered a $500 reward, saying it has never condoned violence.

Potter & Brumfield offered $2,500 rewards in the trailer shooting and in previous incidents, in which a nonstriker's cottage was dynamited and another nonstriker's home was peppered with shot.

The baby's father, a machinist, said he had been planning to quit work at the struck plant because he "was fed up with the whole business." His wife is secretary to the director of manufacturing.

About 370 workers have been passing picket lines each day to go to work in the plant, which normally employs 650 production workers, mostly women.

State Police continued patrols of the Princeton area, started Nov. 29 after stonings on the picket line. A team of detectives also was on hand, looking for evidence in the trailer shooting.

Most Texas Skies Are Clearing Up

By The Associated Press

Fog and drizzle prevailed in parts of Texas Thursday, but most skies were clearing after rains up to 4 1/2 inches.

Fog cut visibility to zero at Lubbock, one-quarter mile at Houston and 2 miles at San Antonio where drizzle fell.

Rainfall for a 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a.m. included Austin 1.02 inches, Victoria .48, Palacios .13, San Angelo .05 and Waco .01.

Soviet Union Developing Fast Long Range Missile

LONDON (AP)—The British government says the Soviet Union is developing a nuclear-headed rocket that can climb more than 100 miles into space at speeds of more than 5,000 miles an hour.

To prevent possible attack by such weapons, Defense Minister Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons, Britain must be prepared to meet it with devastating retaliation.

After hearing Sandys' report, the House voted 302-243 in support of the month-old Macmillan government's defense policies. The vote followed party lines. An opposition Laborite motion to censure the government charged waste and mismanagement in defense.

Warning that this country might "soon be open to attack by ballistic rockets," Sandys said: "There is every reason to believe the Russians have been developing a much enlarged version of the German V2 rocket but with the enormous difference that it will carry a nuclear warhead, and with a range sufficient to reach Britain from launching bases within Soviet-controlled territory."

Sandys said he is confident a defense can be provided against weapons of the type he described, but added "it would be absurd to pretend" such defense measures could be evolved quickly.

The defense minister also told the Commons (1) atomic bombs are in steady production in Britain, (2) the Royal Air Force is equipped with a substantial stock of A-bombs and (3) Britain has almost completed development of its first "megaton" bomb, the technical term usually applied to the hydrogen bomb.

Sandys emphasized the importance of continued cooperation with the United States in the weapons field.

5 DAYS LEFT Response Poor In Foundation Drive

The $18,275 raised so far in the drive is from 85 firms and individuals who bought memberships in the foundation. The campaign started with a potential of 600 members, but many have not been contacted.

"If we want the industrial foundation, it's time we were showing that desire," Greene said this morning. He suggested that persons who have been called upon may leave their money or pledges at the foundation office in the Permian Building.

New Antibiotic Is Effective In TB

DALLAS (AP)—A group of research scientists said yesterday a new antibiotic named dalcin, apparently named after Dallas since it was isolated from a soil sample collected in Dallas, is "highly effective in destroying tubercle bacilli."

He was a war correspondent for the Post and the New Yorker Magazine.

He was co-author of the movie, "The Arkansas Traveler." His prize-winning book "Hold Autumn in Your Hand" was made into a movie called "The Southerner."

His American cities series was followed by his families of America in 1949. In that same year another of his books, "My Granny Van," was published.

His wife, who was out of town when the body was found, is the former Claire Hodges. They married in 1933.

Body Of Missing Author Discovered In Icy Stream

GUILFORD, Conn. (AP)—Magazine writer George Sessions Perry told a friend today that when his arthritis got bad he heard voices tell him to "plunge into icy waters and swim to the North Pole."

Yesterday, an unusually high tide flooded a small stream in this long island sound shorefront town and broke up the ice.

Perry's body, nude except for socks, floated to the surface. A steel salesman checking construction on a highway discovered it.

The writer, 46, most noted for his American cities series in the Saturday Evening Post, had been missing since Dec. 13.

Dr. Susan Perry, the medical examiner, said the body showed the effects of long submersion but no visible marks. She would not say whether Perry's death was a suicide, she said, until an autopsy was held.

She added, however, that since Perry's body was unclad he apparently had gone into the water intentionally.

Perry's body was identified by assistant police chief George Heindol of Madison, a neighboring town. Heindol, also a writer, is the one Perry told about the voices.

Heindol and Madison Police Chief Jacob Rickert said it "appears that Perry took his own life. Heindol said Perry, who once suffered a nervous breakdown, "may have been impelled to obey voices he said he heard from time to time."

Heindol said this could account for Perry being nude. His clothing wasn't found. He was reported by his wife to be fully dressed when she last saw him Dec. 13—before she left for the dentist's.

Perry was a native of Rockdale,

Tex. He was a war correspondent for the Post and the New Yorker Magazine.

He was co-author of the movie, "The Arkansas Traveler." His prize-winning book "Hold Autumn in Your Hand" was made into a movie called "The Southerner."

His American cities series was followed by his families of America in 1949. In that same year another of his books, "My Granny Van," was published.

One of the three accidents Wednesday was a hit-and-run, but the driver leaving the accident was apprehended in less than 30 minutes, Wednesday night.

and Mayor Bob Crawley outlined improvements which would be provided under terms of a bond election on Feb. 26. The $240,000 in water bonds, together with a $30,000 residue from a previous issue, will buy the Bartlett tract which the city has under option. It also would develop five wells on this property and finance a 16-inch line to the Rountree reservoir, said Taylor.

The state fire insurance department has threatened to impose a penalty on fire insurance rates unless city fire equipment is modernized. Taylor said $50,000 would finance a fire station and two new fire trucks. Two of the present trucks have been declared obsolete by the department.

Problems Of Movie Makers Outlined At Lions Luncheon

Some of the trials and tribulations of movie-making were detailed tersely Wednesday by the executive producer of a concern which is setting up shop in Texas. Matthew Freed, vice president and executive producer of Alamo Pictures which is shaking the dust of Hollywood from its feet, let Downtown Lions Club members in on movie-making problems.

Freed said that the company could operate in Texas a lot better, more economically and be much happier than under conditions surrounding the industry in California. Currently, he is on a tour of the state looking over local situations with a view of cataloging future locations for film-making. Accompanying him here was Bill Morrow, Dallas, of Syers, Pickle & Winn.

Alamo, Freed declared, is in business to make a profit and made no picture which stood a chance of paying out. A companion organization is Alamo Distributing Company, which handles the outlets for pictures.

Although television has presented its serious problems for movie exhibitors, it has been a boon and will continue to be for producers, according to Freed. TV required some 1,300 films per year as opposed to 350 for movie purposes, he said. The requirements may increase as TV stations multiply here and in other countries.

Only one half of gross revenues for a picture come from the domestic (U.S. and Canadian) markets, he said. Freed said a picture must gross three times its cost before a profit can be returned for prints and advertising, along with distribution each cost as much as the production.

During the afternoon, Freed and Morrow visited briefly with Shine Phillips, venerable druggist-philosopher of Big Spring.

Orland Johnson, director, and other committee heads reported good progress on preparations for the annual Lions Minstrel at the City Auditorium on Feb. 21-22. Dr. Marshall Cauley, president, said that plans are still firm for the annual football banquet on Feb. 25 at Cossden Country Club.

Cotton Men Hit Lower Price Floors

LAMESA — Directors of the Lamesa Cotton Growers have leveled an attack on lower price supports announced last week by Secretary of Agriculture Benson. Benson, Senators Lyndon B. Johnson and William Blakely as well as Rep. George Mahon were sent telegrams from the growers by A. L. Moss, president.

The telegram asked a survey of all parties and contended that present levels did not reflect increased costs of production. Opposition to lowering price supports on basic commodities was voiced unanimously by growers.

Only five gins have submitted the five cents per bale from farmers and one cent per bale from ginners which was collected during the ginning season. This money is used to finance the association, which voted to continue the fees. Memberships to those other than producers and ginners is $5 per annum.

No definite word about a cotton classing office here has been received. The office, said Herbert Green, committee chairman, would operate under the Memphis, Tenn., office of the USDA.

Day Is For 'Love And Hearts,' But No One Knows The Reason

By DON HENRY

The love - and - hearts season rolls around each year in February and always falls on the 14th. But historians and romanticists cannot agree why. They all call it St. Valentine's Day, but they cannot decide when it started or which St. Valentine is responsible. This, however, does not enter the minds of department store or greeting card owners or confectioners, because they are going to have a heavy business during the season selling gifts, candy, and Valentines no matter what the history. Where the tradition started no one seems to know. It is generally accepted that it originated with a Saint by the name of Valentine, but which one? There are seven

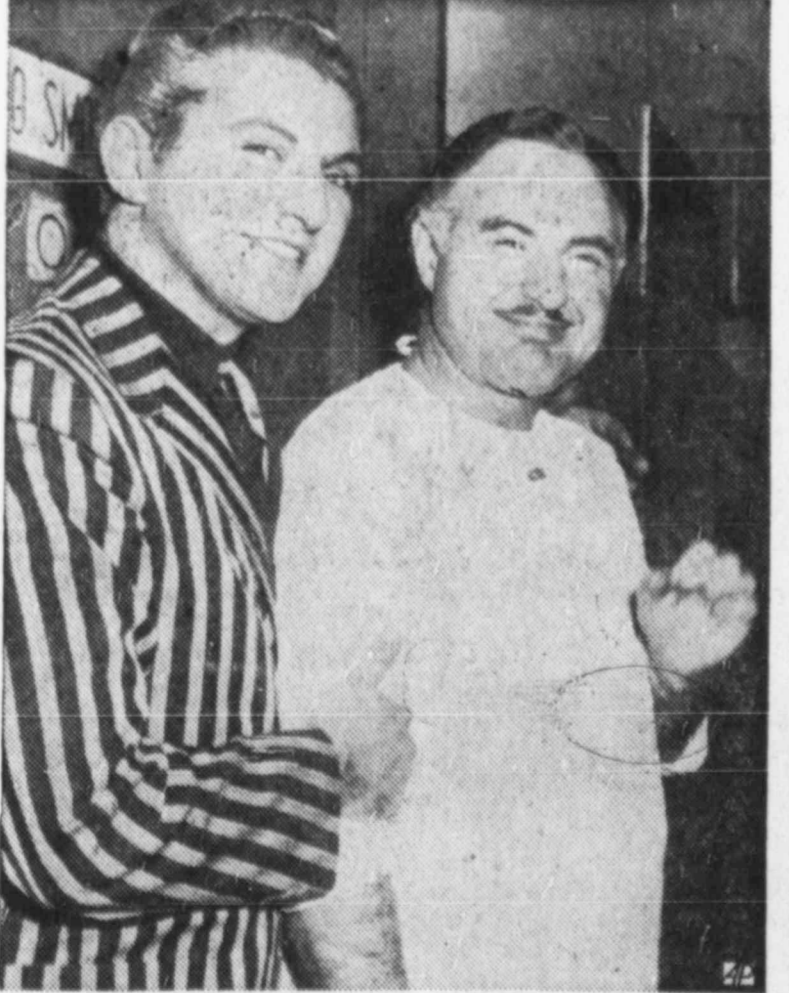

St. Valentines listed on the Calendar of Saints. One of these St. Valentines was a bishop and was killed on Feb. 14, 270, by the Emperor Claudius during the religious persecutions of the time. The custom is said by some to have started with his martyrdom. Being the general period for mating of some birds, some Valentine historians believe they always started on Feb. 14 after that. Another of the stories has the tradition beginning on Feb. 14, 240 - or 30 years earlier than the above story. Another Valentine was beheaded on that day. His claim to fame came when he healed the daughter of the jail keeper. The girl was blind. Sometime after his death, the family is said to have found a message penned by the man to the young girl, with the ending "From Your Valentine." The history of actual giving or exchanging of Valentines also is muddled. Some people believe the practice came from a Roman festival which originated in Lupercalia and which was celebrated during the month of February. This custom required that names of all young women be placed in a box and drawn out by the men. This custom lasted many centuries, historians report, if not up to the present time in remote areas. In other regions of the Roman Empire, St. Valentine's Eve was the time for drawing names from a receptacle. This tradition had it that the men selected were the women's Valentines for the day. Other books have it that no greetings were exchanged until the 15th century. And naturally, the story goes that a Frenchman instigated the idea. In the Battle of Agincourt on Oct. 25, 1415, the Duke of Orleans was captured and subsequently was taken to England and imprisoned in the Tower of London. During his tenure he bribed a guard to take a valentine message out of the compound. Who the message went to, historians do not know, nor do they know what the message said. The battle of Valentines was on for sure then, and not long after that, stern English fathers informed their eligible daughters that a valentine was the equivalent to an engagement. The valentine custom spread to the United States sometime later, but the date is now known. One hundred years ago this year, records show that about three million valentine greetings were dispatched, and about half of them were comic types. As today, there was quite a price range on the greetings. A young swain could purchase one to send his sweetie for as low as three cents or as much as $30.

Church Discovers Minister Ex-Con

ELMDALE, Kan. — Calvin Laskey had revived the Elmdale Christian Church and more than trebled its membership in the nine months he was pastor, but today he's in jail. The FBI said his record showed he'd been convicted 28 times on felony charges. Sheriff Francis Towle said Laskey himself acknowledged he had been in prison most of the past 20 years. Elmdale is flabbergasted. "He was the best preacher we ever had," said Miss Carrie Wood, 88, and a lifelong resident of this little town (population 180) in the Flint Hills of southeast Kansas. "We got value received," said George Dawson, Elmdale banker and member of the church board. "He didn't take a cent from us. That's the surprising thing about it." "I don't figure I'm out anything," said Tom Wells, farmer and insurance agent who loaned $125 to the preacher. "I think he balanced the scales by all the good he did. It might be just a case of split personality, some kind of insanity. The man was very pious." The Elmdale Christian Church almost had faded away when the lanky 43-year-old Laskey appeared on the scene nine months ago and talked himself into the pastorate. He said his name was Dean Barton and he'd been a Presbyterian preacher. The Christian Church is made up of self-governing congregations. Many of the smaller ones do not demand credentials of their ministers. Elmdale Christian grew to 70 members. When Sheriff Towle stepped in and arrested Laskey he was instructing a class of 15 who planned to confess their faith and join the church on Easter. Laskey pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of illegally marrying a couple Dec. 2. He was sentenced to six months in jail. The sheriff began to suspect Laskey after hearing one of his stirring talks to service clubs about being a prisoner of war in Korea. Laskey said he'd lost his discharge papers. He said you couldn't get duplicates. Towle knew that wasn't true. The FBI's record on Laskey dates back to a boy's industrial school at Ottawa, Canada, when he was 14. He was committed to a Montreal insane asylum after conviction of forgery in 1935 but escaped in three months. He has served terms in the Arizona and Minnesota prisons for stealing. He escaped from jail in Boston in 1945. The U. S. and Canadian armies and the U. S. Navy have desertion charges against him.

Blue panic grass is already coming out on the J. Y. Robb place southwest of Big Spring, according to E. W. Lomax who leases the farm. There are three patches of the grass comprising about 100 acres. Lomax has 35 head of cattle left and says there is no grass on the rangeland. However, with any season at all he thinks the panic grass will carry the cattle through the season without much expenditure for feed. "It might be a good idea to rest the pastures a year or so," he said, "even if we do get rain this year." Lomax said the community didn't get much rain lately, but most everyone has the land plowed.

The proposed project for raising eggs for the broiler industry appears sound. That guaranteed price for eggs is something the average poultryman doesn't have. I asked one successful farmer what he thought of the plan. "It sounds all right," he said. "Some people will make money at it; others had better leave it alone. Chickens take a lot of management, no matter what kind you're raising." Frank Lovelace says a poultryman can make some profit when eggs are above 40 cents a dozen. He is getting 46 cents per dozen for large grade A eggs now, and estimates his feed costs about 25 cents for each dozen eggs. Lovelace has 600 caged hens on his farm northeast of Coahoma. Some of them have been in production about two years and are still laying over 50 per cent. He is gradually culling out the older hens as they drop below this mark. There have been two explanations voiced as reasons for the new housing regulations for broilers. Some farmers have charged that organized labor is behind the movement, in hopes of drying up the stream of broilers into this country. This, say these farmers, will give the labor leaders a chance to organize native farm workers into unions. The other explanation, which comes from Washington, is that bad housing conditions in California brought about a revision of the rules. This source says that farmers housed the workers in unheated buildings during cold weather. Whatever the reason, if the regulations stand as written, a lot of cotton farmers won't be using Mexican Nationals this year. The northeast part of Howard County was fortunate in getting fair rains this winter. N. W. Smith, who farms and ranches near the Borden County line says his place received an inch of moisture the last rain and about half an inch during the icy weather a few weeks ago. "It fell slow," he said, "and most of it went into the ground. Right now we are in a much better shape than at this time last year." Smith has about 30 head of cattle and thinks there will be some weeds to graze in a couple of weeks. He said the fall rains brought up fillice and tallow weeds, and these are growing well now. He has his cropland plowed and thinks prospects for a crop look good, providing the spring rains come through. Bismarck Schafer, ranching about 20 miles south of Big Spring, says he has a lot of fillice on his range but it is too short to graze. The recent half-inch rain brought out some bitterweed. Schafer is one of the oldtimers of this area, having been born here in 1891. His father first settled south of town where the Garden City Highway takes off from U. S. 87. He couldn't find water, though, so he moved on to the place south of where Lee's Store now stands. It was quite a different country in those days, Schafer said. Grass was over knee high and was so tall in the flats that his father used to cut it for hay and sell it for $1 a load. Those flats are choked with mesquite now, but 50 years ago the bushes were very scattering. However, there were some old stumps which settlers pulled up and used for firewood. Evidently the area had been partly covered with brush at one time, and a great fire killed it to leave the stumps and roots. When Schafer's father came here 70 years ago, the Comanches were still roaming in wild bands. The year after the elder Schafer settled in the area, a straggling group of Indians made camp one night about a mile from the ranch house. Ranching was hard work and no play in that ago. It required lots of labor, for the whole country was open. Schafer said the only fence south of Amarillo was a long east-west drift fence a few miles south of Garden City. When a blizzard swept over the prairie, it sent the cattle drifting southward. Then cowboys from a dozen ranches would ride to the drift fence and begin the slow job of cutting out the herds and driving them back home. There were sheep, even in those days, and the biggest sheepman was an old German named Ronsky. He kept thousands of wools and herded them all the way from Big Spring to the Pecos River. His great flock of grass-grabbers was an unwelcome sight to ranchers, who often told him to move on in a hurry. One cowman in particular was angered at the invasion of sheep. He warned Ronsky that the next time the wools came across that range, he would stamp the sheepman till he became a permanent part of the landscape. Next year Ronsky brought his flocks across the range again, and true to his promise, the rancher knocked him down and started to make good the threat. A few moments later as he paused for breath, Ronsky looked

Indians Victims Of First Land Scandal

By FRANK N. MANITZAS AUSTIN — A 103-year-old real estate deal might have made the Alabama-Coushatta Indians the victims of the state's first land scandal. Asst. State Auditor Mrs. Nell Boothe says she is conducting an audit to find out who owns 1,200 acres of land believed to have been purchased by the state in 1854 as a reservation for the Indians. She says no statutes can be found giving authority to make the purchase, which was arranged by Sam Houston, a great friend of the East Texas tribe which now numbers only 294. The tribe has asked the State Legislature to allow them to rule themselves. They are the only Indians living on a reservation in Texas and are partially supported by the state, with funds administered by the State Hospital Board. Mrs. Boothe appeared before the House Hospitals Committee. Mrs. Boothe said the latest records show the tribe owns the 1,200 acres of land near Livingston, Tex. A federal grant purchased another 3,000 acres in 1927. The Polk County reservation totals 4,281 acres. All these years, the state figured it owned that land, but actually, Mrs. Boothe told the committee, "the white man has been trespassing on Indian property." She's asked Atty. Gen. Will Wilson to look into it. Mrs. Boothe said the "first land scandal in Texas" probably occurred in 1854 when the state set up the purchase. The authorization was to pay for a maximum of $2 an acre. But Mrs. Boothe says the land was bought for "less than $2 by persons who knew of the maximum and they sold it to the state for a profit." Mrs. Boothe also told the committee that no statute has been found providing authority to appropriate money for the tribe, although such funds have been appropriated for 103 years. On the land question, the tribe might solve the problem themselves. "They have saved some money," said Mrs. Boothe. "And you know what they are going to do with it? They're going to build a fence around the reservation. They're going to keep the white man out one way or the other."

Stassen Reported Ready To Quit Post In Capital

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that Harold E. Stassen will leave his White House disarmament post early next year to campaign for the governorship of Pennsylvania. A Washington dispatch to the newspaper added that friends of Stassen said yesterday that the former governor of Minnesota and former president of the University of Pennsylvania has told President Eisenhower of his plan to resign. The friends were quoted as adding that the President agreed that Stassen should continue with his disarmament negotiations in the United Nations for the rest of this year. The Times story said Stassen's "political stock is perhaps lower today than at any time since he came on the national scene at the Republican presidential nominating convention in 1940," when he was floor leader for the late Wendell L. Willkie, who won the nomination. Stassen sought the presidency in 1944, 1948 and 1952. The Times noted. The dispatch also reported in part: The general feeling in Washington is that Stassen's "dump Nixon" campaign last year "all but destroyed his influence within the Republican party." For that reason, plus the fact Pennsylvania is not Stassen's native state, many political observers in Pennsylvania scoff at his chances of getting the Republican gubernatorial nomination. He has retained his legal residence in Pennsylvania.

End Of A Landmark

The entire 79-year-old main building of the College of Holy Names, Oakland, Calif., buckles and topples to the ground after workmen attached a cable and pulled. Plans call for a 23-story world headquarters for Henry J. Kaiser enterprises to be erected on the ground. The college has a new campus in Oakland.

Mars Relinquishes Spotlight To 'Big Brother,' Jupiter

By SAM BLACKBURN
Mars, reddish faced member of the sun's planetary family, who has been so much in the news and has dominated the evening skies for the past half year, is having to relinquish his honored position these nights to his big brother.

Mars gained a lot of notice last summer when he made one of his periodic visits toward earth—reaching a closeness of around 35,000,000 miles at one time. He has been on the outward journey for several months now, however, and has lost his dominance. Meantime, Jupiter, biggest of the solar system family, will soon be much in evidence in the eastern skies soon after dusk. Already, by 10 p.m. the big yellow planet is high in the heavens. In another month he will be readily watchable in the early evening hours and will hold this position for some time to come.

Bright and spectacular though Jupiter is these nights, he lacks the brilliant diamond-like lustre of Venus and it is hardly probable any observer will mistake one for the other. Jupiter is yellowish in color whereas Venus is brilliantly white. Visually, Venus appears the larger. Actually Jupiter is many, many times bigger than his beautiful sister. The nearness of Venus to the earth as compared to the vast distance Jupiter is away from us accounts for the illusion that the former is larger. Jupiter can be as far as 600,000,000 miles from the earth. The nearest it ever approaches is 360,000,000 miles. Venus, on the other hand, can be as near as 25,000,000 miles or as far away as 160,000,000. Seen through a fairly powerful field glass, Jupiter is readily noticed to have an elliptical—egg shape—form.

It is quite probable that the observer will be able to see two or more small "stars" adjacent to the big planet. If he watches long enough—say several hours—he will notice that these tiny spots of light have changed position sharply. They may even disappear or, perhaps, another will suddenly show up.

These are four of the 11 moons which Jupiter possesses. Scientists say if it was not these moons were so near and for the brilliance of the planet itself, these moons would be easily visible to unaided eyes. With a low powered telescope their movements around the planet are clearly discernible.

With higher power on a telescope, it is noticed that Jupiter has a strange darkish belt around his middle—and that the entire surface is mottled with irregular lines. It takes Jupiter approximately 12 years to make his pilgrimage around the sun—required of all of the planets. The earth makes its journey in a single year. Anytime in the next few weeks if you happen to be out of doors look to the east and a little to the south. You will readily spot Jupiter—he's the biggest, brightest and most spectacular star in the heavens.

Wilson is resting up on a Florida vacation, saying nothing about his plans. The possibility of a summer retirement arose Dec. 27 when newsmen asked Wilson if he expected to remain until congressional action on the 38-billion-dollar military budget was completed. That probably will come in the early summer. His answer then was that "my present intention is to see it (the budget) through . . . But I might change my mind, of course . . . A man never knows what is going to happen to him these days." Some are suggesting that Wilson may want to round out a five-year tenure. They emphasized his December comment that he might change his mind. Wilson plans to return to Washington Saturday. Mrs. Wilson has made no secret of the fact that she would like her husband to retire and take life easy. Talk of Wilson's possible retirement increased after he told a congressional committee that a provision in law permitting sub-draft age boys to enlist in the National Guard was "a sort of scandal during the Korean War, a draft dodging business." Eisenhower told a subsequent White House news conference that he thought Wilson's comment "unwise."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagon talk today was that Charles E. Wilson may desire to stay on as secretary of defense for another year instead of quitting sometime this summer.

Administrators To Attend Convention

Two Big Spring school officials were to leave today for Atlantic City, N. J., where they will participate in the annual meeting of the American Association of School Administrators next week. Attending the convention from Big Spring will be Floyd Parsons, school superintendent, and S. M. Anderson, director of curriculum for elementary schools. They will board a special train in Dallas for the trip to Atlantic City. While in the convention city, Supt. Parsons will confer with Alden B. Lillywhite, associate director of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, concerning school problems expected to arise with the construction of the big Webb AFB housing project southwest of the city. Parsons and Lillywhite are to confer at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, just prior to opening of the AASA convention. Parsons also is on the program for a portion of the convention. Next Wednesday afternoon he will appear on a panel discussing "The Community College, Next Step for Public Education." The discussion will deal with the relationship of a community college, such as Howard County Junior College, to secondary education, terminal training, etc. Others to participate in the discussions are Max S. Smith, vice president of the University of Michigan; T. H. Dekkor, Illinois University; S. V. Martorana, the U. S. Office of Education; Lawrence H. Shepsher, superintendent of schools at Mason City, Iowa; and D. P. Whipper, superintendent of Pontiac, Mich. The convention opens with vesper services Sunday and will continue through Thursday, Feb. 21.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE UNDER EXECUTION COUNTY OF HOWARD

NOTICE OF EXECUTION SALE By virtue of an execution issued out of the District Court of Howard County, Texas, on a judgment rendered in said Court on the 7th day of August, 1956, in favor of SPUR SECURITY BANK and against W. R. NEWSOM, BILL NEWSOM and E. L. NEWSOM, jointly and severally, in the case of Spur Security Bank vs W. R. Newsom, Bill Newsom and E. L. Newsom, No. 2263 on the docket of said Court, I did on the 13th day of December, 1956, at 11:50 o'clock a. m., levy upon the following described tracts and parcels of land situated in the County of Howard and State of Texas, as the property of said E. L. Newsom, to-wit:

Lot Nos. 3 & 6 in Block 15, McDowell addition to the Town of Big Spring, Texas, together with the improvements thereon with the personal property connected therewith; and on the 26th day of March, 1957, being the first Tuesday of said month, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. on said day, at the courthouse door of said Howard County, Texas, I will offer for sale and sell at public auction, for cash, all of the right, title and interest of the said E. L. Newsom in and to said property. Dated at Big Spring, Texas, this 5th day of February, 1957. MILLER HARRIS, SHERIFF, HOWARD COUNTY, TEXAS By M. F. Cox Deputy Sheriff

Sound System At School May Be Improved

After years of debate as to its efficiency, the sound system in the high school auditorium may be in for some alterations.

At least, school officials are investigating the cost involved in making several changes.

Trustees ordered the check this week after Supt. Floyd Parsons said would result in an adequate sound system. Parsons said he learned a lot about the equipment and its operation during the presentation of "Faculty Frolics" last week.

The superintendent's first recommendation was that the amplification equipment be moved from the projection booth at the rear of the auditorium to some accessible place on the stage. Under the present set-up, a separate telephone hookup is necessary to control amplification and microphones from the stage. This, he said, results in loss of considerable time during any program involving use of the equipment.

Parsons also proposed the purchase of three additional microphones for installation on the stage with individual power controls, construction of a cage or some other shelter to protect the amplifier, and a thorough cleaning and inspection to be followed by replacement of all defective parts.

Uncle Ray: Prussian Baron Was Early Escape Artist

By RAMON COFFMAN

Prussia used to have an "escape artist" who might have equalled Harry Houdini, the leading man of the type during the present age. Houdini made a profession of freeing himself from handcuffs and other bindings, but the man of whom I speak kept getting into trouble and trying to find a way out.

I am speaking of Baron Frederick von Trenc, who lived while King Frederick II was on the Prussian throne. It is whispered that the king grew angry when Trenc paid court to a princess, the sister of the monarch.

At length Trenc asked for the hand of the princess in marriage. He was refused, and soon afterward was sent to a fort as a prisoner. There he stayed for five months before making his first escape.

He got out of the fort by using an old trick. He tore the coverings of his bed into strips, and tied the strips together. Reaching the ground, 80 feet below, he started running. The night was dark, and in a few seconds he found his feet sinking in a mire. Hard as he tried, he failed to get free of the mud. A sentry came running to the spot, and he was taken back to the fort.

By promises of wealth or other means, Trenc later persuaded a guard named Schell to help him make his next escape. The two left the fort together, and fled to the mountains. Their object was to reach Bohemia.

Growing hungry, before reaching the border, they decided to go to a farmhouse to ask for food. Before getting there, they formed a plan. Trenc acted the part of prisoner, and Schell took him to two farmers, telling them that he had "caught the rascal."

The younger farmer went to get help, while Schell and Trenc enjoyed a meal. Then, pushing aside the older man, they left the farm and reached Bohemia.

The baron had other troubles and adventures during the years

"I have caught the rascal!"

which followed. After going to France, he married a Frenchwoman and spent many of the later years of his life in Paris.

'Mexican' Boy To Carry Old Glory During Pageant

DENVER (AP)—A boy of Spanish-American descent will carry the Stars and Stripes in a patriotism pageant Feb. 22 at the State Industrial School for Boys at Golden.

The program on Washington's Birthday will replace one scheduled for yesterday at the school. This was canceled after an official of the Denver chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, made the comment: "I wouldn't want a Mexican to carry Old Glory—would you?"

The DAR was the announced sponsor of the canceled program. Gunnar Soelberg, school director, said the Feb. 22 program will be arranged by teachers at the institution and a color guard of Boy Scouts will carry the flag.

Gov. Steve McNichols has asked DAR officials to refrain, for the time being, at least, from sponsoring any programs at state institutions. DAR spokesmen have declined to comment on the governor's request.

Our Economic Trouble? Can't Stand Prosperity

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Businessman Meyer Kestnbaum views the national economic situation this way:

The country's one real trouble is that it can't stand prosperity. Citizens have been spending a little too freely; so have businessmen; ditto the government.

That explains the recent stock price dive.

But the people basically are highly productive and prudent with money. So the stock drop is only symptomatic of a temporary condition.

"Five years from now, we all will be much better off," said Kestnbaum, president of the clothing firm Hart, Schaffner & Marx, and a special assistant to the President.

Financially, operations in the Big Spring school system are progressing right on schedule. With five months of the school year gone, approximately 5-12ths of the funds budgeted have been expended.

a total of $592,932.23. The budget provides for expenditure of $1,432,994.90 during the year.

The disbursements (with sums budgeted in parentheses) include administration $25,956.28 ($87,240), instruction $426,063.19 ($1,001,297), other school services $11,800.69 ($38,859), operation of plant $38,064.82 ($102,150), maintenance of plant $14,671.03 ($39,000), fixed charges $2,217.93 ($4,900), community services none ($1,000), capital outlay $19,192.51 ($31,262), and debt service $54,965.78 ($146,176.90).

Didn't Want The License, Anyway

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When examiners for the Department of Motor Vehicles asked 31-year-old John Rigby to show up for a driving test they didn't imagine he'd drive right up on their lawn.

Police said he struck three cars before his auto smashed into a fence near a branch office of the department during part of the examination.

Varied Items To Get City Commissioners' Attention

City commissioners talked of varied matters after completing the items listed on their agenda Tuesday night.

Driver mentioned the drainage problem in reporting that the county is launching some work north of the highway.

Soil Bank Hiked
WASHINGTON (AP)—The soil bank conservation reserve allotment for Texas had been increased by $7,222,000, the Agriculture Department announced yesterday.

Whitney reported that the commission needs to consider the budget which will become effective April 1. The group talked of holding a special session sometime next week, but the date was not set.

An Old—And Splendid—Custom

"Apple for the teacher" — who hasn't given one, at some time or other in a school career? Perhaps the custom of expressing fondness and appreciation to the person who shapes youth's destinies isn't as widely observed as it used to be. But to revive a heart-warming gesture, it's "apple for the teacher" time in Big Spring. Here young Donald Lee Campbell shows how it can be done, with a smile, and how to get a warm smile in return. Donald, a first-grade student at Airport School, presents this fine Washington State apple to Miss Donna Lee Frey, his teacher. Donald lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Campbell, at 208 Mobile. And just to make things nicer all around, Donald's entire room received apples on this occasion, from Bill Garvin, merchandising manager for Webb-Davis Fruit Co., representing the Washington State Apple Commission.

Old Custom Of Appreciation Made New: Apple For Teacher

There's nothing really official about this, but it's "apple for the teacher" time in Big Spring. That's because some fine, luscious fruit is on the market from Washington State—big red apples, just like the ones that used to be handed to teacher on many a school-day morning.

to The Herald from a teacher, who outlined some of the hardships confronting the classroom instructor, the defeats and frustrations that must be borne. "No wonder," this teacher wrote, "that teachers pray 'Lord, give me the wisdom of a Solomon and the analytical powers of a chief justice.'"

He Objected At The Wrong 'Bar'

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—A civil suit was in progress in Municipal Court, and a lawyer was questioning a witness on the stand.

It's a good old American custom to let teachers know that their time and talents, their energies and examples, their patience and their love, are appreciated. Big Spring observed an "apple for the teacher" week last year, and some remarkable expressions of appreciation took place. Now, the chances are that many a school marm this next week will be gladdened mightily to see some of the smiling youngsters present the traditional fruit. It can be a gesture from grateful parents, too. Last year's apple-for-the-teacher program prompted a fine letter

"I object!" cried yet another lawyer. "I object too," came a voice from the rear of the courtroom. The latter objector, despite his protests, was hauled off to jail yesterday on a drunk charge. He was booked as Beryl L. Solvey, 28, a courtroom spectator.

Mrs. Musgrove 'Juggles' Recipes To Suit Her Family's Taste

An interesting fact that establishes a good cook might be attributed to the cook's individuality in preparing recipes to suit her family.

Mrs. T. P. Musgrove is one such cook. From a basic date loaf cake recipe, she experimented for almost three years until she came up with the desired effect she was working toward.

"Test" cakes had about the most appreciative audience possible in the four men of the house. The finished product is served to them often, and Mrs. Musgrove says they seem satisfied.

Mrs. Musgrove explains the reason she doesn't use other nuts besides pecans is that they don't give the same texture to the cake. For a real treat, assemble your utensils and ingredients and prepare this delicious cake.

DATE LOAF CAKE

Ingredients:
2 cups chopped pecans
2 cups chopped dates

Chiffon Cake Will Be Good Family Treat

The universal treat — chocolate is combined for one of the best effects in this recipe for cocoa chiffon cake topped with a delicious and tempting icing.

Ingredients:

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup boiling water
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup cocoa
 $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups sifted cake flour
 $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cooking oil
7 unbeaten egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon red food coloring
1 cup egg whites (7 or 8)
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cream of tartar

Method:
Mix boiling water and cocoa; stir until smooth. Cool.
Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Make a well and add oil, egg yolks, cooled cocoa mixture, vanilla and coloring. Beat with spoon until smooth or with electric mixer at medium speed for one minute.

Beat egg whites and cream of tartar in large mixing bowl until whites form very stiff peaks. Do not underbeat. Pour into ungreased 9-inch square of 10x4 round tube pan.

Bake 55 minutes at 325 degrees F., then 10 to 15 minutes at 350 degrees F. Invert pan over neck of funnel or bottle.

When cold, loosen sides with spatula and remove cake.

Frost the cake with fluffy white icing and drizzle with melted dark chocolate.

Note: Well-beaten whites determine the height of the cake. Take eggs from the refrigerator enough ahead so they are not cold to touch.

Four the egg yolk mixture in thin layers over the entire surface of the egg whites as you fold. Fold gently, for rough handling forces out air and results in a lower cake.

Plum Cake Is Best Served Hot

If you want an interesting but easy-to-prepare dessert try this recipe for plum upside down cake.

PLUM UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

Ingredients:
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup firmly packed light brown sugar, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon cinnamon, 1 No. 2½ can (1 pound and 14 ounces) purple plums (pitted and drained), $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups sifted flour, $1\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoons double-acting powder, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon instant non-fat dry milk powder, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup syrup drained from plums, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vanilla.

Method:
Put $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup brown sugar and cinnamon in cake pan (9 by 9 by 2 inches); place in oven until butter melts; mix well. Arrange pitted plum halves, skin-side down, in even rows over sugar mixture. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup granulated sugar; beat in egg thoroughly. Stir dry milk powder, plum syrup and vanilla together. Stir sifted dry ingredients into creamed mixture, alternately with plum syrup mixture, in 4 additions; beat just until smooth. Spread batter over plums. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—40 to 50 minutes. Cool in pan on rack 10 minutes. Invert on serving plate. Serve at once with whipped cream (unsweetened or sweetened only slightly). Makes 8 or more servings.

NOTE: This cake is quite sweet; it tastes best (flavor-and texture-wise) when served shortly after it comes out of the oven.

Glove Note

The French glove making industry was established under a code of statutes received from the king in 1190.

What To Serve

What to serve with chicken or shrimp curry? Rice, of course, plus any kind of salted nutmeats, crumbled crisply fried bacon, chutney, raisins, shredded coconut, French-fried onion rings.

2 cups sugar;
 $3\frac{1}{4}$ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups boiling water
2 well beaten eggs
8 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoon vanilla

Method:
Sprinkle soda over dates, add hot water and let stand.
Cream butter, sugar; add eggs, salt, vanilla, nuts and flour to date mixture. Then combine with creamed mixture. Bake in four layers or large stem pan for $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours at 325 degrees. Ice with praline filling. Decorate with pecans.

PRALINE FILLING
Ingredients:
3 cups sugar
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup pecans

Method:
Cook sugar, milk and soda until it forms soft ball when dropped in cold water. Then add vanilla and beat until creamy. Spread on cake immediately.

Most homemakers have been faced with the problem of how to prepare the family favorites in just a little different way. Mrs. Musgrove finds this a challenging problem. Several years ago, she took some round steak from the refrigerator and decided to do something about it: this Spanish stew is the result of her ingenious thoughts.

SPANISH STEW

Ingredients:
1 pound round steak (or lean stew meat)
4 medium potatoes, cooked, peeled and coarsely diced
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped green pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped onions
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon celery seed
Dash freshly ground pepper
1 1-pound 3-ounce can sauerkraut
4 frankfurters, cut into short lengths
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 eggs, beaten

Method:
Pan-fry bacon over medium heat until crisp; drain off bacon drippings and reserve for salad dressing. Combine bacon, potatoes, green pepper, onions, celery and celery seed. Season to taste with freshly ground pepper. Turn potato-salad mixture into the center of a lightly greased 2-quart casserole. Drain sauerkraut and reserve sauerkraut juice for salad dressing. Arrange kraut on top of potato salad in border around the edge. Place frankfurter pieces on top of kraut.

Combine sugar, vinegar, sauerkraut juice drained from can and bacon drippings. Heat to boiling point over medium heat. Add a little of hot mixture to beaten eggs; add egg mixture to remaining hot mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened, 3 to 5 minutes. Pour hot salad dressing over contents of casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350) degrees 30 to 40 minutes.

Calorie Conscious

Is your family on a post-holiday diet? They'll love frozen seafood because it's low on calories, high in taste. Home economists suggest that you brush thawed fish filets or lobster tails very lightly with butter. Sprinkle with lemon juice, salt and paprika and broil to a golden brown. Garnish with a twist of lemon. For non-dieters, serve with brown butter or tartar sauce.

Weather Report—

When you have an extra spoonful or two of cake icing, resist that impulse to lick the spoon. Instead freeze the surplus in a small freezer container. On another day you'll have a ready-made frosting for cookies or cupcakes.

For Roast Duck

Apricot preserves mixed with lemon rind and lemon juice, dry mustard and soy sauce makes a delicious sauce to serve with roast duck.

Two Jobs At Once

Mrs. T. P. Musgrove finds this situation arises many times in her busy schedule each day. Answering the telephone and being a "part time" receptionist for her husband's business, Musgrove Electric Service, calls for the sharpest budgeting of time. Many calls or callers find Mrs. Musgrove busily preparing the family's favorite recipe or fixing four cakes for a bake sale!

Kraut Dish Also Uses Frankfurters

A gala month of holidays, February also brings National Kraut and Frankfurter Week. To celebrate this event how about having this tempting kraut and frank dish?

KRAUT-ALL-IN-ONE (Makes 4 servings)

Ingredients:
8 slices bacon, coarsely diced
4 medium-sized potatoes, cooked, peeled and coarsely diced
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped green pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped onions
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon celery seed
Dash freshly ground pepper
1 1-pound 3-ounce can sauerkraut
4 frankfurters, cut into short lengths
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 eggs, beaten

Method:
Pan-fry bacon over medium heat until crisp; drain off bacon drippings and reserve for salad dressing. Combine bacon, potatoes, green pepper, onions, celery and celery seed. Season to taste with freshly ground pepper. Turn potato-salad mixture into the center of a lightly greased 2-quart casserole. Drain sauerkraut and reserve sauerkraut juice for salad dressing. Arrange kraut on top of potato salad in border around the edge. Place frankfurter pieces on top of kraut.

Prepare Special Menu For Washington's Day

February is the birthday month of the father of our great country. Feb. 22 marks the birthdate of George Washington.

Preparing special dishes around the cherry tree legend of Washington, an imaginative cook can mark observance of the day in some distinctive, yet simple way.

MOUNT VERNON CHERRY CAKE

$2\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted cake flour
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups granulated sugar
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup milk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup maraschino cherry juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons almond extract
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup hydrogenated shortening
4 unbeaten egg whites
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup maraschino cherries, chopped

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped pecans
Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Combine milk, maraschino cherry juice, vanilla and almond extract. In a large bowl, combine sifted dry ingredients, shortening and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk mixture; beat 2 minutes by hand or with mixer at lowest speed. Add remaining liquid; blend.

Add 4 egg whites and beat mixture 2 minutes. Stir in maraschino cherries and pecans; mix thoroughly. Pour into 2 greased round 9-inch cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes, or until done. Cool 5 minutes. Remove from pans and place on cooling racks. Frost with maraschino marshmallow frosting and decorate with whole stemmed maraschino cherries.

MARASCHINO MARSHMALLOW FROSTING

2 egg whites
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups granulated sugar
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cup maraschino cherry juice
Dash of salt

In the top of a double boiler combine 2 egg whites, sugar, corn syrup, cherry juice and salt. Place over rapidly boiling water. Beat frosting mixture constantly for 7 minutes with rotary or electric beater. During the last two minutes of beating, add 8 marshmallows that have been cut into eighths. Combine beating until frosting is the right consistency to spread and marshmallows are dissolved.

For an afternoon tea cherry cake bars are easy to make and simple to serve and in keeping with the February birthday.

CHERRY CAKE BARS

2 eggs
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar

Ellie's BEEF STEW

"A Meal in a Minute"

Vegetable Medley Is Delicious Dish

Feeding a lot of people? This vegetable dish will be ample.

VEGETABLE MEDLEY

Two packages (10 ounces each) frozen green peas, 1 cup boiling water, milk, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, $\frac{1}{2}$ pound mushrooms (sliced thin with caps and stems together), 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 6 tablespoons flour, 2 jars (1 pound each) small boiled onions (drained), salt, pepper.

Method:
Cook peas according to package directions in 1 cup boiling water; drain. Add enough milk to the cooking liquid from the peas to make 3 cups; reserve.
Melt 3 tablespoons butter in 9 or 10-inch skillet; add mushrooms; cook quickly, stirring often, until mushrooms are wilted. In a large saucepan, melt the 4 tablespoons butter over low heat; stir in flour. Remove from heat.

Gradually add combined pea liquid and milk, stirring until smooth after each addition. Cook and stir constantly over moderate low heat until thickened and bubbly.

Mix sauce with drained peas, cooked mushrooms and drained onions. Add salt and pepper to taste. Reheat. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

Lamp Trick

A new device that may be incorporated into any lamp permitting lighting the lamp merely by touching any part of the shade.

Sandwich Tip

Cream butter with minced chives or parsley. Use for spreading bread when you are making sandwiches of cold meat loaf or cheese.

Quick Lunch

Quick lunch: melt a cup of grated cheddar cheese in a cup of hot medium white sauce and serve with toast over hard-cooked eggs.

A Bible Thought For Today

Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will show you things to come. (St. John 16:13)

Time For Some High Level Talk

'Summit' meetings with Britain and France are certainly due — overdue, in the opinion of many — and President Eisenhower's announcement that he would meet with Prime Minister Guy Mollet the last week of this month and with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain a month later is welcome news.

The meeting with Mollet will take place in Washington as soon as Mr. Eisenhower gets caught up with his quail hunting in Georgia, and the one with Macmillan in Bermuda a month later.

Why the conferences could not have been simultaneous and en banc isn't immediately clear, for the problems that confront one confront all three in the Middle East muddle, and while France does have a special problem in North Africa, that too is inevitably a part of Western concern.

Our stake in both regions, Middle East and North Africa, is profound. Until we achieve intercontinental missiles and more global bombers, we shall need to hold onto all the bases we already have in those regions and if possible develop still more. We have just managed to save our Saudi Arabia base — for five more years unless King Saud proves more difficult to get along with than he was in Washington earlier this month — and our position with respect to the North African bases is shaky to say the least.

The Suez incident shook the Western alliance to its foundations. U.N. action and our leadership in it made it appear that Britain and France were pulling one way and the U. S. another. The rising crisis over Israel's refusal to obey a U.N. decree to withdraw its troops from Aqaba and Gaza unless she is given some sort of guarantee that Egypt won't resume the misuse of these areas to strangle Israel — may get a lot worse before it begins to get better.

A great deal of uneasiness and uncertainty regarding the future of the Western alliance could certainly be removed if Eisenhower, Mollet and Macmillan would reaffirm their joint determination to stand together in unbreakable determination not to let the world slip and slide into the Soviet orbit by default.

Any serious breach in the old accord among these nations undermines the faith and confidence the smaller nations of the Western World have in them, and subjects them to the blandishments of the Soviet Union. The U.S., Britain and France are the very symbols of the Western World's adamant stand against Russian imperialism, and the quicker these three can come to a working agreement the better. Every month, every week of delay is an invitation to disaster.

Attention To The Aesthetic

In addition to concrete and asphalt, we're going to have "aesthetics" in our new 41,000-mile interstate highway network that Uncle Sam is getting ready to build.

Administrator of this gigantic project will be Bertrand D. Tallamy, an engineer who got his ideas while serving as superintendent of public works in New York State.

His position is that "interesting" highways can reduce fatalities — possibly by as much as 50 per cent. They can be built at no more cost than the old-fashioned and demonstrably dangerous type of level road, straight and dull, conducive to monotony and that sleep feeling that often precedes an accident.

By injecting "aesthetics" into the roads, Mr. Tallamy hopes to keep drivers awake by varying the scenery.

Well, he's got something there. Some of our Texas roads stretch for what seems endless miles, as straight as the crow flies. With nothing to distract the eye or break the monotony the driver becomes drowsy and careless, both of which can result in disaster. Most of the highway fatalities that blacken our own state's record occur on wide-open, straight stretches of road with no obstruction to the view.

Most accidents happen at night, when drivers become drowsy and inattentive while the car bounces a hole in the night for mile after mile. For long distances the road may be without a curve, and as level as a billiard table. The darkness shuts out all view of the countryside and the driver has nothing to look at but roadway and the borrow ditch. At times he seems to be going down grade for minutes on end; at other times he seems to be climbing an endless ladder of darkness. If he is alone with no one to talk to his peril is doubled.

Most drivers have had the experience, under such conditions, of suddenly realizing his car has unaccountably swerved to the other side of the road and is headed straight for a culvert abutment. If he's lucky he comes awake in time; if not, curtains.

There has been some talk of regulating the use of billboards along our new interstate highways, and surely here is an opportunity to do something about it. If complete elimination isn't feasible at least they could be forced back a safe distance from the right-of-way, and now's the time to do it before the great network gets under full swing.

A Valentine For Bernard M. Baruch

There is a fellow to whom I forgot to send a Valentine. So I guess I'll just write one instead.

To begin with, he is tall and handsome, and if his hair is white today, nonetheless he still has plenty of it. That is more than I can say for some men who are only half his age, which is 86. Furthermore, he still has his waistline, something I observe in fewer and fewer men past 40. Age has not withered, custom staled nor his recent illness vilitated Bernard M. Baruch. He is a little thinner than he is wont, but he still stands six feet, four inches in his socks and he has not yet stooped to age.

He has lost some of his ruddy color, but he said he'd soon have it back when he left for South Carolina the other day to spend the rest of the winter at Little Hobcaw there.

As usual, he is a fount of salty common sense and plain speaking. He was saying recently that a speculation, if it turns out to be a sound investment, becomes an investment; while an investment, if it turns sour, becomes, ipso facto, a speculation.

Uncle Sam has never had a greater friend or a more profound admirer than this man whose economic wisdom and organizational ability helped win two world wars and on whom every President has called for advice since William Howard Taft.

He began trying to alert the nation to the dangers of inflation before the end of World War II and is still at it. And when people ask him for advice about playing the stock market, he has one instant and unvarying answer: No amateur ever makes money playing the market. He has considerable proof that he is no amateur. He is still adamant against a cut in taxes until there is a substantial cut in the national debt. He cherishes a firm and old-fashioned belief that a man must be willing to stand up and be counted in any matter of public or private policy.

Wherever he sits is the head of the table. He is, indeed, a prophet with honor in his own country. It is unlikely that any American is more widely respected than Bernard Baruch. It is a pleasure just to see the pleasure in the faces of others who recognize him on the street. If he dines in public, his food grows cold while strangers as well as friends crowd around his table to shake his hand and wish him well.

Although he is the very model of a despised capitalist in Communist eyes, apparently the Communists developed a sneaking respect for Baruch when he deigned the United States plan for atomic control and fought for its adoption in the United Nations.

The Communists have steadily blocked adoption of the Baruch plan, yet U. N. delegates from the Iron Curtain countries from time to time ask if they may talk with him. Recently one of the foremost spokesmen for Russian Communism called and astounded his host, on departure, by asking for his photograph!

"But I didn't put any writing on it!" Baruch slyly admitted to friends.

When he gets tired of visitors' chatter, he quietly turns off his hearing aid, smiles and looks wise. His favorite joke nowadays is that if he were only 80, he would be able to do this and so.

The best Valentine for all his well-wishers is that, after his recent illness, he is up and about and acting as if he were a mere 79.

Lot In Common

MADISON, Wis. — Two boys born just 154 minutes apart at University Hospitals here have a lot in common.

Besides being husky youngsters weighing in the neighborhood of 9 pounds each, both have mothers with the same name — Harriet Jane Mueller. The fathers are Herbert W. Mueller and Donald P. Mueller. They are not related.

Cats Galore

STERLING, Colo. — Bud Graham got more than he bargained for when he advertised that daughter Julie's cat was missing. A steady stream of people turned up at the Graham door, each wagging a cat for Julie.

James Marlow Dulles Hasn't Sunk Yet

WASHINGTON — Confusion at times has spread around Secretary of State Dulles like oil around a torpedoed ship. This is one of the times, although he still afloat and shows no signs of sinking yet.

The Eisenhower administration, which appears anxious to make everybody happy in the Middle East, seems to be making nobody happy. It's in a box over Egypt and Israel. Dulles came up with a key which so far has opened nothing.

Israel, despite United Nations resolutions, has refused to withdraw its troops from the Gaza Strip and an area around the Gulf of Aqaba. It gave two reasons: Before it withdrew from either place, it wanted guarantees that

Hal Boyle A Child And A Bad Dog

ANDROS TOWN, Bahamas — Looking back on a splendid two-week vacation here, I wondered as we flew away what we would remember most about it.

The food that put extra pounds on us, the fish that got away, the goombay music that makes calypso seem pale, the friendly natives, the yachts we admired but had no desire to own, the nights, the sun, sand, surf and tan?

No, none. I guess the most memorable thing was the fact a dog bit our daughter.

Since Tracy Ann came to our house to stay at the age of five weeks, we have cruised or flown her south four winter vacations in a row. When you have children of your own, perhaps you can go away and have a good time without them. But when a child adopts you, you dare not leave her behind. She might adopt someone else.

We were strolling along, keeping out of the gravity bombing range of the coconut palms and feeling sorry for all our friends suffering the wintry rigors of New York City.

I saw ahead a black and white terrier standing guard at the green edge of the turf of his master's home touched the road. The dog was named Amos.

Sometimes you can sense the hidden temper of a dog by his posture as you can that of a strange person, and I called sharply to Tracy, "Stay away from the doggie!"

But she has her own mind about love. If a groupup asks her for a sign of affection, she will tease and grow coy. Yet she really has a blind faith that all things on earth love her. And, since few wise dogs

Amos really knows.

"I wanted then to let her go and see if her stubborn love could win Amos."

But I looked from her to Amos, and I knew I couldn't be sure.

"I held Tracy, warm and struggling and crying, "Let me go!" and felt for the first time really the lonely, responsibility of a parent trying to do his duty against the will of his child.

And was Tracy wrong? Only Amos really knows.

Fixing To Sue? Then Glance At This Sad Case

ALICE, Feb. 14 — Thinking about suing somebody? Well, hark to the case of Brown & Bigelow vs. the Do Drop Inn.

It was a cold day in the fall of '54 that a salesman for Brown & Bigelow sold the Do Drop Inn 1,000 calendars.

They were to be ready for the year-end carriage trade. The inn people said they specified the order didn't include mailing envelopes.

Before work started on the calendars, the inn folk cut their order to 500. Again they said they specified: "No envelopes."

But — sure enough — envelopes came with the calendars. Do Drop Inn refused the order.

In February of 1952, a Brown & Bigelow agent tried to collect a $195 bill for Do Drop Inn. It was no dice.

B&B filed suit. After some delay, the case was set in Justice of Peace Brown Fuller's court because the amount was under $200.

When the case came up, Brown said the amount would be more than $200 if attorney's fees and interest were added. He sent the case to Jim Wells County Court.

Time passed. Then county court decided that legal fees and interest shouldn't have been added to the original suit. It went back to the JP court.

Time passed. Eventually the court ruled Do Drop Inn the winner.

B&B attorneys appealed.

So back the case went to Jim Wells County Court.

It was tried recently before County Judge Walsh Storm Jr., and a six-man jury 6 years after it was filed.

The result: A hung jury.

Mr. Breger

... and, for this week only, friends, WALK, do not run to your favorite grocer for those delicious Krunchy-Wunches...

Around The Rim ... Passeth All Understanding.

Youngsters may fidget, fret, fuss, and fight in various church services, but they will pick up a lot more than adults give them credit for.

They pick up plenty of remarks they weren't supposed to hear other places too, but the ones they make about church activities are rather amusing.

One Sunday morning when a youngster came home from church, his mother asked him what he learned in the services. He replied they sang about animals. This aroused the mother's curiosity, so she asked him what animals. He said a cross-eyed bear, named Gladly.

The mother smiled and said she could remember no songs that concerned a bear, much less one of the cross-eyed variety. "Yeah, that's what we sang, 'Gladly, the cross-eyed bear.'"

The younger generation does not always get the words straight on the Lord's Prayer either. For instance, one mother once overheard her son mention something about Halloween in the Prayer. Questioned about it, he said, "Sure, isn't that what you say, 'Halloween be thy name?'"

Another child told his mother they gave mention to New York in the Lord's Prayer. She wondered where, and he told her: "Lead us not into Penn Station."

In a non-fiction I read recently, there was the story of a boy and his dad; the dad was known in the town as the Old Bloat because of his drinking habits. During an old-fashioned tent revival, the Old Bloat turned up one night with his son. After a hot sermon complete with damnation and hellfire, the invitation was given, and Old Bloat went to the mourners' bench.

While there, he got the 'spirit' (not spirits) and thereupon passed out. With the conversion of the famous sinner, the preacher shouted, "Hallelujah, get aboard the grand old boat to Zion."

This was more than the scared boy could endure, so he rushed from the service and ran home. He burst into the house and cried to his mother that they had killed his daddy down at the revival.

"They did; they did. I know they did. I heard them shout, 'Hallelujah. Get a board; the danged Old Bloat's a-dyin'!"

One of my preacher friends in another city proudly tells of his son, only four years old, who likes to "preach" using the front room coffee table as a pulpit, by the congregation. About 90 per cent of the time, the youngster preaches from the Bible's book of Temptations. (Is that the New or Old Testament?)

A preacher's son here, who is about three and a half, probably has the right idea about money, especially in these days of inflation.

His dad gave him half a dollar to put in the offering one Sunday recently, and evidently, the boy wasn't used to the denomination.

Because after the preacher dad left the room, the lad's eyes got big as he looked at the coin and told his Sunday School teacher, "Gee, this sure is a big nickel!" —DON HENRY

David Lawrence Nation Should Be United On Mid-East

WASHINGTON — The steady drive to weaken President Eisenhower's influence in world affairs continues among a group of Democrats in the Senate.

Although the Senate served notice on the world by a vote of 85 to 8 in January 1955 that the President could use military force in Formosa and related areas in the Far East without further delegation by Congress, there is a disposition now on the part of a few Democratic senators to refuse to vote for similar authority to be used in the Middle East.

This grave doubt is cast on whether the President can depend on congressional support even in the Formosa area — a circumstance that doubtless will not be overlooked by Red China and might even be the basis for an overt act to test out whether the executive now will venture to use force.

It is a mystery why the same Democrats who voted to delegate power to the President in a contingent sense in Formosa — without spelling out in detail the steps that would lead to such a decision — now are insisting that something unprecedented is being requested for the Middle East.

The action taken by both houses of Congress with respect to Formosa in 1955 was overwhelming. The resolution was not "advisory." It has the force and authorization of law. It said:

"The President of the United States be and he hereby is authorized to employ the armed forces of the United States as he deems necessary for the specific purpose of securing and protecting Formosa and the Pescadores against armed attack, that authority to include the securing and protection of such related positions and territories of that area now in friendly hands and the taking of such other measures as he judges to be required or appropriate in assuring the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores."

The Middle East resolution — which passed the House by a vote of 355 to 61 last month and now is pending in the Senate — says:

"The President is authorized to undertake, in the general area of the Middle East, military assistance programs with any nation or group of nations of that area desiring such assistance. Furthermore, he is authorized to employ the armed forces of the United States as he deems necessary to secure and protect the territorial integrity and political independence of any such nation or group of nations requesting such aid against overt armed aggression from any nation controlled by international Communism; provided, that the authority herein granted shall be carried out to the greatest extent deemed practicable by the President through the United Nations, and that such employment shall be consonant with the treaty obligations of the United States and with the Charter of the United Nations. . . ."

Despite this plain language, which says the President shall be empowered to use America's armed forces in the Middle East to preserve peace and to serve as a warning to aggressors, the opponents of the resolution are insisting that it is an unprecedented delegation of power in advance to carry on war.

This is an inexplicable inconsistency. Indeed, the Senate a few years ago voted to ratify the North Atlantic Treaty itself, which makes an attack on any one of the 14 member countries equivalent to an attack on the United States. Thus Congress, through the Senate in the case of NATO and in the instance of the Formosa resolution adopted by both houses, has twice recognized the desirability of an advance grant of power to the executive. This is of transcendent importance in an atomic age, when minutes count.

One senator says that, after the events have occurred, the President can then ratify the North Atlantic Treaty itself, which makes an attack on any one of the 14 member countries equivalent to an attack on the United States. Thus Congress, through the Senate in the case of NATO and in the instance of the Formosa resolution adopted by both houses, has twice recognized the desirability of an advance grant of power to the executive. This is of transcendent importance in an atomic age, when minutes count.

Marquis Childs Painful Dilemma On Israeli Sanctions

Both the President and Secretary Dulles were asked at their press conferences last week whether this government would take sanctions if Israel did not withdraw unconditionally behind the armistice lines. The President replied that if the U. N. voted for sanctions, "we are committed to the support of the U. N." This reply does not really answer the practical question, which is whether the United States will use its own vote and its very considerable influence to enable the Arabs, the Afro-Asians and the Soviet bloc to vote sanctions.

For as the voting blocs are now aligned in the General Assembly, the United States will have the power to decide whether or not sanctions are to be voted. If the United States decides for sanctions we shall carry enough votes with us to provide the necessary two-third majority to vote sanctions. If we decide against sanctions, there will not be enough votes to pass a resolution. It is, therefore, misleading to talk about our being "committed to the support of the United Nations."

For how we cast our vote and how we exercise our influence in the General Assembly will determine what action by the U. N. we are committed to support.

The U. N. is not a tribunal which hands down decisions that we must then loyally support. We are ourselves a part of that tribunal, and in what it decides we have a deciding part. We do not have the power to decide affirmatively when the interests of the Arab, Afro-Asian and Soviet blocs are at issue. We do have the power of veto, and by combining with the Arab, Afro-Asian and Soviet blocs we have the power to cause the General Assembly to act affirmatively. We can prevent action or we can support their action. That is where we are in the General Assembly.

The controlling fact in the situation is, as I pointed out above, that the General Assembly will, as it is now aligned, exert pressure on Israel but not on Egypt. Nasser is, therefore, in a position to refuse to give any public assurances that he will cease to violate the armistice if the Israeli army withdraws.

At this writing, it does not look as if this sort of thing is going to be worked out — what with Nasser, protected by the U. N. and in a position to stand pat, what with Israel, which is a democracy, unable to stake her security on private assurances of what the President, Mr. Dulles and Mr. Hammarskjold hope and believe they can in the future induce Nasser not to do.

Is there anything else that can be done? As things stand now, if Israel withdraws she will have no assurance from Nasser that he will not wage war. Israel can get no assurances from the U. N. The U. N. will not be permitted to act. All that is left is some kind of assurance by the United States that it will do something about it all in the future.

The painful dilemma in which we now find ourselves arises from this situation in the General Assembly. The basic fact is that Israel can be coerced if we will vote to coerce her, whereas Egypt cannot, as the Assembly is now constituted, be coerced at all. Israel can be coerced if we do not exercise our veto and instead vote for sanctions. But Egypt cannot be coerced because the Arab, Afro-Asian and Soviet blocs also have a veto, and what is more will certainly use their veto.

We are in a dilemma because there have been two closely related wrongs, two closely related breaches of the law of the United Nations, and yet within the United Nations it is possible to right only one, not both, of these breaches of the law. Israel is a law-breaker because she has invaded the Sinai Peninsula and the Gaza Strip. But Egypt is no less a law-breaker because, despite the armistice, she had waged war against Israel by blocking the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba and organizing guerrilla warfare across the Israeli frontier.

The problem which confronts the United Nations and the United States is how to get Israel to withdraw, thereby ending her war against Egypt, without putting Egypt in a position to resume her war against Israel. The problem is how to prevent both sides, not merely one side, from waging war.

The controlling fact in the situation is, as I pointed out above, that the General Assembly will, as it is now aligned, exert pressure on Israel but not on Egypt. Nasser is, therefore, in a position to refuse to give any public assurances that he will cease to violate the armistice if the Israeli army withdraws.

At this writing, it does not look as if this sort of thing is going to be worked out — what with Nasser, protected by the U. N. and in a position to stand pat, what with Israel, which is a democracy, unable to stake her security on private assurances of what the President, Mr. Dulles and Mr. Hammarskjold hope and believe they can in the future induce Nasser not to do.

Lakeview Pupils To Show Talent

A rock-and-roll talent show is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday in the Lakeview Elementary auditorium by fifth-grade pupils of Mrs. Essie L. Persons.

Approximately 35 pupils will participate in the show which will include latest hit tunes, "bebop," dance numbers, skits and a "ham-bone" performance. A group from Lakeview High School also will present a number.

Admission charges will be 15 and 25 cents with proceeds to finance class projects, said Mrs. Persons.

Scouts At Lamesa Hold Annual Dinner

LAMESA — The annual parent's night for Boy Scout Troop 22 was held this week at Lamar Forest Community Center.

Included on the program was an impersonation of Elvis Presley by Jimmy Parks, movies of Explorer Scout program, and Willie DuBose's discussion of a new camp at Cal de Mundo, Nev., which the group is planning to attend this summer. Millard McDonald showed movies of last year's ski trip and final plans were made to leave Thursday for Santa Fe, N. M., on the annual ski trip. About 30 boys are planning to attend. They will return Sunday.

Approximately 95 scouts and their parents attended the dinner.

Lions Practice For Minstrel On Feb. 21-22

Orland Johnson, director, began putting the 10th annual Lions Minstrel together Tuesday evening in preparation for the Feb. 21-22 showing.

Various elements of the show have been rehearsing separately. This year's production again will feature the Howard County Junior College Choir as the minstrel chorus. It will be backed by several specialty numbers including such performers as Lt. Harvey Dice and Joyce Howard, vocalists; Nancy Norflett, dancer; Sgt. Martinez from Webb AFB, guitarist and banjo player; Julie Rainwater; and Roy Miner, former Lions district governor from Midland.

Title Needed To License Car

Mrs. Viola Robinson, county tax collector, appealed to all motorists applying for new automobile plates to make certain they bring their car title and their registration receipt with them to her office.

The plates cannot be issued legally without presentation of these two documents, she pointed out. Many who come to the office have neglected to bring the papers needed and are forced to return to their homes or offices to get them.

More than 1,500 new tags have already been sold at the office. Tags were placed on sale on Feb. 1 and Mrs. Robinson said that the demand has been greater for the plates than at any other time in her memory.

She anticipates that business will be steady for the entire period the plates may be bought. Deadline for buying and attaching the new tags is April 1.

'School Week' Plans Are Made

Plans for observance of Texas Public School Week were developed at a meeting Tuesday noon at the Wagon Wheel.

H. M. Rainbolt is serving as chairman of the activity designed to promote public interest in the schools.

Theme of the observance, which centers around efforts to get parents to visit in the schools, is "Democracy in Action." Announcements about the week will be made before the various service clubs and other organizations in the city during the week preceding. Invitations are being extended to the different service clubs to hold their weekly luncheons in the high school cafeteria during Public School Week, March 4-8.

A poster contest is being sponsored to promote visitation. Letters will go out over the signature of Supt. Floyd Parsons, inviting parents to come to schools anytime during the week. There may be a night session of some of the schools so more of the fathers can see a typical, though abbreviated, session.

Antarctic Team Escapes Crash

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica — Six Navy men arrived safely back at this antarctic base last night after engine trouble forced their plane down on the flat Ross Sea ice shelf.

They spent three hours repairing an oil leak in one of the two motors of their ski-equipped Navy R4D (C47) transport before continuing to McMurdo Sound, 260 miles to the north.

The plane was returning after flying five more scientists and two Seabees to the U. S. scientific base at the South Pole, 800 miles from McMurdo. It carried food and survival gear.

Lt. Harvey G. Speed, North Muskegon, Mich., the pilot, said he was not a bit worried during the emergency landing — his fourth in the antarctic.

Band Mothers At Lamesa Planning Spring Programs

LAMESA — High School Band Mothers are planning for the band trip which is held the Easter week end to Ruidoso, New Mexico. Tentative plans also are being made for the band banquet in April.

The annual concert will be presented about April 4 and there also will be a paid assembly. On March 2, the Golden Tornado Band will enter the West Texas Music Festival in Snyder. Mothers making the trip will be Mrs. Buster Reed, Mrs. Harley Campbell, Mrs. C. W. Duke, Mrs. John Palmore and Mrs. Henry Taylor.

Also under study is the idea of sending students to the Summer Music Camp of West State College at Gunnison, Colo., Aug. 12-23.

SPEBSQSA Leaders Assist Angelo Group

Byron Wolfe and George Larson have been in San Angelo to assist in forming a SPEBSQSA chapter.

Larson is president of the Big Spring chapter, and Wolfe is a director. The chapter meets every second Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. Next meeting will be Feb. 26.

Gunman Discovers Crime Unprofitable

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A gunman strode into a laundry and demanded that clerk Mae Jones hand over the money in the cash register. Without haste, he reckoned up the take — $35, turned a woebegone face to Mrs. Jones and said: "It's hardly worthwhile, is it?"
