Runaway Missile

Shown here at takeoff is a Matador missile of the U.S. Air Force like the one which went out of control from Holloman Air Development Center, N. M., and impacted probably in Western Colorado. The missile was not carrying an explosive warhead. A spokesman at the Development Center said the burnout time for the rocket had long passed and that the missile "certainly is on the ground."

Crisis Threatens New Split By U. S., Britain

Errant Rocket Disappears In Western U.S.

ALANOGORDO, N. M. (AP) — The location of the remnants of an errant military rocket apparently may remain locked unknown in the high Rockies of Colorado or the colored Desert reaches of Utah.
Yesterday the 39½-foot-long Matador escaped remote controls operated from Holloman Air Development Center. Officials said it had about an hour's fuel left.
They said they believe it soared northwestward over five-sixths of New Mexico and probably landed in southwest Colorado or southeast Utah. The region is sparsely populated, a land where industry is based on ranching, mining, logging, natural gas and oil.
The Air Force planned to give up its search this morning for a wingspan of 27.9 feet, a ceiling of more than 35,000 feet and a speed in excess of 650 miles an hour.
Spokesmen for the Air Force said the search would be abandoned because continuation "would cost more than the missile is worth." They said it did not carry an explosive warhead and was equipped only with instruments.
Eight minutes after the firing at this test center deep in south-central New Mexico, the ground-to-ground-guided missile which is used as a tactical weapon, ran wild.
Military jets in New Mexico and Utah were sent up to try to find the pilotless missile. The search was in vain.
There were reports from individuals in southwestern Utah and in northeastern Utah that the electronically controlled missile, capable of carrying either conventional or atomic warheads, had been spotted.
Then a report of an explosion 60 miles northeast of Rock Springs, Wyo., set off a search in that area — 650 miles from Holloman. A Ground Observer Corps spokesman at Casper, Wyo., said a check indicated the report stemmed from a dynamite blast set off by a seismograph crew looking for oil.

Ike's Middle East Position Criticized

LONDON (AP) — A new crisis in the British-American alliance—only recently recovering from the split over the Suez invasion—appeared likely today over President Eisenhower's tacit approval of some sort of U.N. sanctions against Israel.
Rumbles of discontent have been sounded in British newspapers and in the House of Commons.
Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government faces the possibility of a revolt if it ultimately supports sanctions action in the United Nations. Because of parliamentary criticism of Eisenhower's stand, Macmillan held an urgent meeting last night with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. He also summoned his Cabinet today for further discussions.
The government is known to be cool toward the Arab-sparked call for sanctions. Instead it would like to see an Israeli withdrawal from Egypt combined with U.N. guarantees against future Egyptian hostilities or discrimination.
The situation poses a difficult problem for the Macmillan government which has given top priority to putting the British-U.S. alliance in good working order.
Some of the most bitter criticism of Eisenhower's position has come from the diehard "Suez rebel" group of Conservative Parliament members. Some of them have never forgiven Eisenhower for what they consider undue pressure exerted on Britain and France to halt their own invasion of the canal area last fall.

Eisenhower also is being criticized by the opposition Labor party.
Laborite Leader Aneurin Bevan complained bitterly that Eisenhower failed to consult Britain before announcing his present stand.
Another Labor leader, Emmanuel Shinwell, demanded clarification of Eisenhower's position and said "there is no reason why the House should condone any mistake made by President Eisenhower."
WASHINGTON (AP) — President George Meany of the AFL-CIO said today the big labor organization is "strongly opposed to the imposition of sanctions against Israel by the United Nations."
Meany, in a statement, said American labor finds it hard to understand "how our country ever got maneuvered into the impossible position of siding with the dictatorships and against democracy in the Middle East—with Soviet Russia and Egypt which are the real threats to peace, and against Israel which seeks only an undisturbed opportunity to build a better life for its people."

City Considers Pay Hike, Staff Revision

By DON HENRY
Possibility of a full-time city attorney, an assistant engineer and assistant city manager, plus a hint of salary increases came from a special budget meeting of the city commission Thursday night.
The commission met solely to consider the budget for the coming fiscal year, but they came to no conclusions and made no alterations to the proposed budget.
The city is thinking of revenue over $1.3 million.
City Manager H. W. Whitney prepared the preliminary figures comparing his estimates of next year's needs and receipts with the present fiscal totals. Whitney's rough draft had places for salaries of a full-time attorney and an assistant engineer, and Commissioner Curtis Driver brought up the idea of an administrative assistant.
RAISES PROPOSED
Mayor G. W. Dabney then mentioned raises for all employees. Whitney divided his report into two groups, separating the water and sewer department from the rest of the budget. He estimated water department revenue would amount to $749,100, as compared with $663,100 for the current year. Of this, $669,000 would come from water revenue, he predicted. Another $64,000 would be sewer charges.

The sale of effluent would bring $9,000, which is a drop from the $16,000 listed in the current budget.
The city estimated that total operating expenses for the department would be $553,644, an increase over the current budget which is $497,537.
Principal increase is from water purchased from CRMWD and additional supplies for the treatment department. Whitney estimated the increase in cost of water would be some $33,000 over the amount in the current budget.

DEBT SERVICE
The amount from the department allotted for retirement of revenue bonds is practically the same as last year, $98,325. The figure for the current year is $99,775.
Summarizing, Whitney showed the commission that he had estimated that the cash balance in the department at the end of this current year would be $25,763, but instead it should be about $110,000.
After subtracting estimated expenditures, Whitney said $207,131 should be left at the end of fiscal 1957-58, and from this $120,000 would be transferred to the general fund, leaving an estimated cash balance at the end of the year of $87,131.
The discussion shifted to the general fund ledger with Whitney estimating general fund revenue at $500,853, in addition to the funds transferred from the water department.
The totals, including $12,578 coming from the parking meter fund, were $745,431 available for appropriation.
HIGHER OUTLAYS
All departments would take about the same amount as last year, he predicted, except the legal, engineering, police, fire, and streets and alleys departments.
The legal budget was jumped from $2,995 to $4,425, and Whitney said this was to provide a full-time attorney. He said he had talked to Walton Morrison, current city attorney working part time, and Morrison was in favor of it. Whitney said that by adding money allotted to prosecute delinquent tax cases, the salary for the position could be raised to about $5,000.
Whitney said he thought the city would be able to hire a law student just out of college for that amount.
The engineering department's fund increase included provisions for the assistant engineer's salary plus about $500 worth of furniture requested. Whitney pegged the salary for the assistant at $5,100. Here again, he said the city would have to find a man just finishing college.
POLICE HELP
In the police budget, Whitney provided for three more workers, a clerk stenographer, an identification officer, and a janitor. He said that the chief of police, C. L. Rogers, had asked for additional men, but Whitney said he didn't think the budget would support them.
Also out of the budget would have to come $6,500 in furniture for the new building recently purchased. It will not arrive

Chilly Drizzle Leads Cold Front To City

Moisture in the form of chilling drizzle returned to the Big Spring area at 9 a.m. Friday. It was riding just ahead of a cold front which was marching across north and west Texas.
Moving in rapidly as the day advanced, the drizzle had provided .03-inch precipitation to 11 a.m. It was continuing at that hour.
It was the initial sample weather forecasts indicated, of the same sort of weather which was glazing highways in the South Plains with a dangerous coating of ice and had sent temperatures to subfreezing levels in many places in the area.
Forecast for Big Spring and vicinity promised that the same icy picture which had already struck northward was due to reach

Big Spring tonight and continue through Saturday.
The forecast for the day called for continued cold drizzle this afternoon turning to freezing rain tonight. Saturday morning should bring light snow flurries. The temperature was due to hit 25 degrees tonight and Saturday's high was not to get above 36 degrees.
The chilly weather was a sharp contrast from Thursday afternoon. The sun was out most of the later part of the day. Last night stars were visible although scattered clouds still hung in the sky. The temperature Thursday afternoon was 53 degrees and the night never cooled off below 43.
Friday morning broke gray and overcast but with temperatures no lower than the 43 minimum recorded for the night. By 9 a.m., however, the picture had changed. The lowering clouds had pushed in rapidly and the fine mist began to obscure windshields. The drizzle had intervals of increased tempo from time to time but persistently continued throughout the morning.
Meantime, the highway department reported that roads in the south plains area were rapidly approaching a "very slick and dangerous state."

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Goodnight kisses at Stowell Hall at the University of Michigan now are taboo. So is hugging.
The 18 women students of the dormitory council voted 14-4 to establish a ban after several of 450 girl residents complained of embarrassment when adult guests and parents entered the hall, a women's dormitory.
Jeannette Grimmer, president, said council members will "pass through the lounge occasionally and ask any violators of the rule to be more discreet."
Some opponents of the ban contended it would drive affectionate couples into parked cars or a cemetery across the street.

Queen Consort Named Prince

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth gave her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, a princely title tonight. Some thought it might be a step toward making him prince consort, with the added prestige that rank holds.
Announcements in the London Gazette, the court journal, said: "The Queen has been pleased to declare her will and pleasure that His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh shall henceforth be known as His Royal Highness the Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh."
The action was taken by many as the Queen's first step toward emulating her great-great grandmother, Queen Victoria, in eventually proclaiming Edinburgh her official "Prince Consort."
Victoria invested her German-born husband, Albert, with that title in 1857, only five years before his death, to give him added prestige, especially in foreign courts.
Making Edinburgh a British prince does not affect the succession to the throne. Charles is still heir-apparent.

Houston Paper Plant Blast Injures Five

HOUSTON (AP)—The explosion of a tank containing 125,000 gallons of caustic soda rocked the Champion Paper and Fibre Co. plant at Pasadena today, injuring at least five persons.
The tank was located outside the causticizing unit at the plant. The cause of the explosion was not determined at once.
A. M. Koury, industrial relations manager at the plant, reported that the fire resulting from the blast was brought under control shortly after 10 a.m., about 45 minutes following the explosion.
Only three of the injured had been identified.
They were Lee Clements, 42, of Pasadena, a pipefitter; Red Kirkland, a foreman; and Charles Coons.
Clements was the most seriously injured. He suffered caustic acid burns. He was found underneath the tank that blew up.
The paper mill employs about 1,800 persons but only a few workers were in the explosion area.
The explosion rocked an area of several miles near the paper mill. Firefighting units from Houston and other cities along the ship channel went to Pasadena. Civil defense and other volunteers were also ordered into the area to help with direction of traffic.
Firefighters were forced to use extreme caution in approaching the fire area, located near the Crown Cement Refinery.
The sheriff's department once put out a warning that there was danger of further explosion.
A spokesman for the paper company noted that there was always danger of explosion at the plant as long as there was a fire.
An appeal for foamite to fight the fire was relayed to the Sheffield Steel Mill, Humble Oil and Refining Co., Eastern States Petroleum and the City of Houston.
Streets leading into the plant area were blocked off and traffic clogged all arteries leading to the Washburn Tunnel on the ship canal. The paper mill is near the tunnel.
The causticizing plant, in which the tank was located, is an area in which caustic solutions already used dissolve wood chips are re-fortified so they can be used again.

Arab Bloc Pushes For U.N. Sanctions Against Israelis

By The Associated Press
The Arab bloc in the United Nations pushed ahead today with plans to ask for sanctions against Israel as a result of Premier David Ben-Gurion's refusal to withdraw Israeli troops from the Gaza and Gulf of Aqaba coastal strips without guarantees.
United States officials said they would agree to Ben-Gurion's request for further talks, but would not urge any more delays in the U.N. Assembly. The Assembly was scheduled to take up the sanctions question this afternoon.
In a speech to the Israeli Knesset last night, Ben-Gurion said Israel would call home her last troops from the invasion of Egypt if U.N. troops are stationed at Sharm el Sheikh to keep the Gulf of Aqaba open to Israel, and if it is certain Egypt will not return to commanding raiding bases in the Gaza Strip of Palestine.
As to the sanctions threat, he declared, "any attempt to compel us to accept a miscarriage of justice and system of discrimination will meet with the unflinching opposition of the people of Israel."
Dulles had offered to support the principle of freedom of shipping in the Gulf and the stationing of U.N. forces in the Gaza Strip, but Israel rejected the offer as inadequate.
Ministry leaders in Israel were dissatisfied with Ben-Gurion's stand.
They united in demanding that Israel keep her troops in the Gaza Strip and along the Egyptian coast of the Gulf of Aqaba.
Britain has let it be known she does not favor sanctions at this stage but believes the collective wisdom of the United Nations should be able to solve the problem in some more constructive way. Many of the commonwealth countries appear to share this view.
France, which has backed Israel all through the Middle East crisis, makes no secret of her opposition to sanctions. The Scandinavians also were opposed.
Even the Soviet bloc — openly hostile to Israel — opposes sanctions on the legal ground that the Assembly has no authority to take such measures.
The United States, Israel's major source of economic and financial aid, has not said exactly how it stands on the issue.
Eisenhower pictured the issue as one which now involves the prestige and effectiveness of the United Nations and he said that the U. N. has no choice but to exert pressure on Israel to compel withdrawal of the troops.

Senator Sees Middle Eastern Policy, Oil Link

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said today papers subpoenaed from the files of major oil companies "show clearly that they have an important effect on the policies of the United States" in the Middle East.
O'Mahoney told a reporter one of the papers reveals that Secretary of State Dulles had a secret meeting with executives of the international oil firms last August when the Middle East crisis was starting to boil.
He said the meeting was just before Dulles went to an urgent London conference called because of Egypt's nationalization of the Suez Canal in July.
"The papers in the possession of the subcommittee show that these major oil companies have the inside track in consulting and in knowing what our government is going to do in this area," O'Mahoney said.
O'Mahoney heads an investigation by two Senate subcommittees of recent oil price rises and the effort to supply petroleum products to Western Europe.
Some documents subpoenaed from files of oil firms already have been disclosed in the hearings. O'Mahoney said others would be made public later.
The hearings now are in recess until next Wednesday. Most of the oil companies remain to be heard.
O'Mahoney said that the plan "to provide a substitute flow of oil for our Western allies, a perfectly proper program that must be carried out, necessarily has been turned over to the major oil companies to carry out, and they have been given a sweeping exemption from the antitrust laws of the United States."
The senator said he wanted to emphasize that "the operations of the Middle East Emergency Committee—composed of major oil firms—and the Middle East resolution submitted by the President relate to the same thing.
"You cannot separate oil from Middle East policy."

Soft Drink Chokes Baby At Coahoma

A 17-month-old Coahoma boy choked on a soft drink and strangled to death Friday morning.
He was Billy Gene Stewart Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Stewart Sr., Coahoma.
Billy, who recently had experienced an attack of pneumonia, was at a laundry about 9:30 a.m. with his mother when he became strangled while drinking. Unable to help him recover his breath, Mrs. Stewart rushed to the drug store one door west.
A River ambulance was summoned but efforts at the store and by ambulance aides en route to the hospital failed to get the child to breathing again. He was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital here.
The youngster was born in Hamilton Sept. 3, 1955. The family moved here last September when Mr. Stewart became associated with B. & G. Well Service.
Besides the parents, survivors are two sisters, Norma Lee Stewart and Doris Jean Stewart; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Stewart, Avoca, and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. C. J. DeChennel, Long Beach, Calif.
Arrangements are pending at the River Funeral Home.

Negro Seamstress Plans To Remain In White Section

DETROIT (AP)—A Negro seamstress who moved into a white neighborhood says she is going to stay in her $10,000 house in spite of demonstrations against her and the white woman who sold her the property.
Ethel Watkins, 30, told newsmen last night, "I am a firm believer in prayer and I pray God that everything will be all right."
Nightly demonstrations against Miss Watkins and the former owner of her house, Mrs. Eugene Novak, were called "a disgrace to our community" by the Rev. John E. Coogan, chairman of Detroit's Commission on Community Relations.
Father Coogan issued a statement criticizing "area leaders" after Mrs. Beulah Whitty, acting director of the commission, reported the demonstrations were "beginning to take on serious proportions."

The Jesuit priest, who is head of the sociology department at the University of Detroit, said, "Perhaps the most humiliating phase of the situation is the slowness of area leaders to show the social responsibility called for to oppose and rebuke such ganging up against decent citizens."
Miss Watkins bought the house on a land contract and moved into the neighborhood Feb. 1. At first there was no trouble.
She said she noted the first sign of hostility Feb. 4 when a woman yelled at her, "Oh, those damn niggers."
Then on Feb. 6 a stone smashed the window of her front door. More stones were thrown at her house two days later and a dining room window was broken.

Mass demonstrations started 11 days ago in front of the homes of both Miss Watkins and Mrs. Novak, who lives two blocks away in the neat, middle-class neighborhood of mostly two-story brick houses.
A front door window at Mrs. Novak's home was broken. But police said the demonstrators were for the most part orderly and no arrests were made.
Miss Watkins said she became alarmed a week ago when she was told of a threat "they are going to put something in the fuel oil tank" of her house.
"I was about to give up," she said. "My relatives had left and I didn't want to stay here alone."
But she said she thought it over and she began to pray. She at-

June Allyson, Dick Powell In Separation

HOLLYWOOD — June Allyson and Dick Powell have separated.

Their friends weren't surprised, the couple reportedly had separated before the last period — not the same considered a "real" romantic union.

But a posting of the news was acknowledged at the first time last night by both Powell and Miss Allyson, who were wed 2 1/2 years ago. He is 32, she is 35.

"We have not been getting along in the past few weeks, even though we tried," conceded Miss Allyson. "I have decided that Dick and I have a better chance in the future if we are apart from one another."

Said Powell: "It's true we have not been getting along, but I thought it was worth another chance. Unfortunately, June did not agree."

Both denied that any other man or woman was involved, and both said no divorce is in prospect immediately. They have two children, Thomas, 5, and Richard, 3.

Just a year ago the couple were very different. At that time rumors of trouble between them were not by Miss Allyson with the statement: "As far as I'm concerned our marriage will last forever. I'm really in love with the man. He's so good to me."

And Powell, quoted in that "This sort of thing has been brought up by the Troubadours before and I will be again. It's stupid, because I don't know two people who are more happily married. We are perfect for each other."

It was June's first marriage. Powell has married twice previously. He is a nonprofessional. Miss Allyson's second marriage to John Haddock in 1955 ended when she divorced him in 1956.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Wrong Date Being Observed, Due To Change In Calendar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 — It's a little-known fact that George Washington's birthday is not observed on Feb. 22, but on Feb. 23. The date was changed in 1797 when the nation's calendar was altered to the Julian calendar.

George Washington was born on Feb. 11, 1732, in the British Empire. At that time, things had got to be such a mess that action was taken. A lot of thinking developed and the upshot was that it was decreed that after Sept. 2 that was the next day would not be Sept. 3 as you might think it should.

It was Sept. 24, So, Boss, George, then an up-standing young man of 20 years, already getting himself some fame and fortune in the world, suddenly found that his birthday was no longer on Feb. 11 as it had been for two decades. Now it was on Feb. 22.

And it's been there on that date ever since.

centuries, Christmas would have fallen in the midst of the summer season and the spring would have appeared when the deepest snow was on the countryside.

Things were getting pretty mixed up around the turn of the 18th century. By the time George made his debut, the powers decided it was high time to do something about it. But you don't change a calendar overnight just like that. It takes a lot of planning and international talking and diplomacy. Not to mention a lot of figuring out just what change has to be made to equalize the situation which exists.

Therefore, George made his earthly debut on Feb. 11 1732 in the time when the calendar was out of kilter with the seasons. For 20 more years until 1752, nothing was done about the muddle in the British Empire.

In that year, things had got to be such a mess that action was taken. A lot of thinking developed and the upshot was that it was decreed that after Sept. 2 that was the next day would not be Sept. 3 as you might think it should.

10th Candidate In U. S. Senate Race

By JERRY MARKIN
Associated Press Staff

A 10th candidate was added Friday in Texas' special U. S. Senate election and Secretary of State Belle Stokley was awaiting an attorney general's opinion on whether the March 4 filing deadline was legally correct.

Walter Scott McNitt, educator and author of Jefferson, Tex., Thursday became the 10th candidate in the 1957 election. He paid his $50 filing fee with Stokley's office Thursday.

McNitt, 55, who said he was in favor of states' rights, said it elected he will seek a new amendment in the Constitution limiting the terms of Supreme Court justices to six years. He also said the justices should have practical experience on the bench.

McNitt said he was against integration and giving the President too much power. But he said his main concern is to prevent what he called further encroachment by the central government on states' rights.

In Austin, the secretary of state said a question has been raised on whether the March 4 deadline is correct.

"I am asking the attorney general for his opinion in order that everyone will be satisfied," Stokley said.

Stokley set the deadline after Gov. Price Daniel ordered the special election to fill the place vacated by becoming governor.

Stokley said the law is vague as to whether or not the date on which the election was held would be counted. The law calls for a 10-day period between the deadline and the election. Thirty days counting April 2 would set the deadline March 4, without counting April 2, the deadline would be on a Sunday, March 3, when the secretary of state's office is closed.

Elsewhere on the campaign trail, State Sen. Sorey Bracewell was in San Antonio.

In a breakfast speech to supporters Friday, Bracewell criticized what he called "the federal government's unwarranted attack on the oil industry."

"What is happening in Washington can only be regarded as a designed scheme to discredit the oil industry," Bracewell said.

"Oil is being made the whipping boy for political demagogues. The recent increase in the price of crude is far less than the increase in prices of other commodities," he said.

A U. S. Senate subcommittee is holding hearings on the recent boost in crude and gasoline prices.

Settlement Reached In Baltimore Strike

NORFOLK, Va. — The last obstacle to settling the East Coast dock strike was removed early today when Hampton Roads longshoremen and shippers agreed on a new contract.

The agreement in Norfolk followed earlier acceptance in Baltimore of a general wage pattern providing 32 cents an hour wage increase over a three-year span.

Settlement in Hampton Roads had been held up because of several local issues.

Failure to reach agreement in Baltimore and Hampton Roads had kept some 45,000 workers in ports from Maine to Virginia away from their jobs after a master contract was ironed out in New York Sunday night.

The contract for Hampton Roads, covering longshoremen in Norfolk and Newport News, embraces most of the features of the general coastwide agreement. These terms include adjustments in wages, hours, welfare benefits and pensions.

Concessions by the shippers on certain local issues apparently paved the way for this morning's settlement. These included a three-week vacation for employees with over six years seniority and additional paid holidays.

William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's Assn., had ordered the striking dockers back to the piers at 8 a.m. yesterday on the basis of the tentative coastwide agreement.

However, in New York, Philadelphia and Boston, tens of thousands of rebellious longshoremen sided with Baltimore and Norfolk in open defiance of Bradley's back-to-work order.

Shivers Is Satire Subject

NEW YORK — Texas oil, money politics and former Gov. Allan Shivers—especially Shivers—were joking subjects yesterday at the Circus Sights and Simes luncheon.

Shivers was introduced as an " Eisenhower Democrat who rides off in two directions at one time."

He was presented astride a cardboard donkey-elephant hybrid, surrounded by a gun-toting troupe of mock Texans, showering bogus money in all directions.

Shivers, who split with Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, was conducted in an unflattering semblance of his gubernatorial office. A picture of President Eisenhower beamed down. Pictures labelled "Lennon" and "Sam" were turned to the wall.

Shivers appeared to enjoy the fun of the luncheon of businessmen, lawyers and theatrical figures.

In a speech, he told some tall Texas tales.

Oklahoma Officials Held In Liquor Case

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Police Commissioner Jay L. Jones, Tulsa's highest law enforcement officer, the police chief and a prominent newspaper reporter were among 20 persons indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury.

They were accused of conspiracy to violate federal liquor laws by aiding in the importing of tax-paid liquor into constitutionally dry Oklahoma.

The indictment climaxed seven weeks of work by the grand jury, headed by U. S. Atty. B. Hayden Crawford. He said the jurors had returned only a partial report and will meet again next week. More indictments are expected.

In addition to Jones, others named included Police Chief Paul J. Livingston and Nolen Bulloch, veteran Tulsa Tribune general assignment reporter. Six other Police Department members accused in the report were Jack Gott, Leo Jackson, John E. Cole, Jim R. Harp, William T. Peterson and Oliver Stephens.

Mayor George E. Norvell, citing the "unselfish and meritorious service" rendered by the jury to the Tulsa community, immediately suspended Livingston. Lt. George C. O'Neal was temporarily appointed chief with orders to report directly to the mayor. Norvell said the other police officers also would be suspended shortly.

The single truce bill listed 30 "overt acts" allegedly performed by the defendants. The report detailed instances where it said money was given to police officers, allegedly for protection against raids or arrests.

Others indicted were: Martin Edwards, Elmer Oakley, John Hood, Lee Johnson, Fred A. Griffing and Bernard Neil Williams, all bootleggers; Don Gray, identified as a liquor dealer at Anderson, Mo., and Apolis, Kan.; Theopolis Scoggins, grocer and political worker; Clifford E. Wells, professional bandsman; John McAfee, billiard parlor operator; and Don Rucker, gambler and liquor dealer.

Harmon Phillips, managing editor of the Tulsa Tribune, released this statement: "We had noted the probable trend of the grand jury several weeks ago. At that time we discussed the matter with Mr. Bulloch and made an independent inquiry. We have complete confidence in his integrity."

Slaying Suspect, Dog Are Reunited

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—His collie dog had a brief reunion with James Parks in jail yesterday as officers prepared to take the youth back to Texas to face charges in the fatal shooting of his mother and stepfather.

The dog, Brownie, has been held in city pound since Parks was arrested Monday as a curfew violator as he crossed the border from Tijuana, Mexico.

Alcorta Once Again Awaits Execution

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Convicted wife-slayer Alvaro Alcorta was back in death row at the state penitentiary today for his sixth date with the electric chair.

His application for a writ of habeas corpus was turned down yesterday by Dist. Judge John F. Onion following a hearing in San Antonio.

Alcorta, 34, is scheduled to be executed shortly after midnight next Tuesday.

He was convicted of stabbing his wife to death in June, 1955.

Defense attorneys said yesterday they had no immediate plans for a new try at saving Alcorta. Legal maneuvers have postponed his execution five times.

Judge Onion handed down his decision after hearing testimony on the defense's contention that the prosecution suppressed evidence in keeping out of the trial information of an alleged affair between Alcorta's wife and Natividad Castilleja, star prosecution witness.

Castilleja faced Alcorta during the hearing and testified he had been intimate with Mrs. Alcorta several times in months preceding her death.

Defense attorney Fred Semann applied for the writ on grounds that information of the affair was suppressed. Castilleja told the court he did not say all the things attributed to him in a statement typed up by Semann.

Alcorta was returned to the state prison here to await execution after the decision was handed down.

FOR NEW BUILDINGS

HCJC Planning Dedication Rites

Howard County Junior College is looking toward two special occasions, trustees were told at their monthly meeting Thursday. One is the Career Day program, set for March 22 and to which at least a dozen high school senior classes in the area will be invited. The other is an open house and dedication for the new plant facilities of the college. This event likely will be sometime in April. Dr. P. W. Malone, board president, named Horace Garrett, Dr. C. W. Deats and K. H. McGibbin as a committee to help Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, plan for the dedication of new buildings, added and equipped at a cost of $600,000. At the same time, the entire plant will be opened for public inspection. The career day is designed to help high school graduates decide on vocations. Major fields in which there will be consultants and "resource" people to counsel with seniors are agriculture, business, communications, engineering, fine arts, homemaking and dietetics, legal profession, medical services, military—sciences—skilled—trades—social services, and teaching. Each of these have from two to eight sub-categories which seniors may explore.

Jess L. Nier, charged with worthless check writing, pleaded not guilty. His bond was set at $500. Regino L. Rojas, also charged with worthless check writing, pleaded guilty. His fine was fixed at $10.

Rev. Ware Tells Pilots Men Are Best 'Weapons'

"Our Most Important Weapon" was defined last night at the graduation of Jet Pilot Class 57-1 by the Rev. Jack W. Ware, pastor of St. Paul Presbyterian Church. As he told the class, "our best weapons are not the marvelous machines on which we spend millions of dollars, but the men who control them." Rev. Ware was introduced by Col. C. M. Young, who commended the class achievements. Emphasizing the importance of high moral quality and character, Rev. Ware spoke of three distinct points: honesty as being inward integrity; ability to get along with each other; and stability of mind. Closing his address he said, "Men are most important weapons: men who are honest and who can have faith in God." The honor graduate of class 57-1

Alcoholics Anonymous To Mark Anniversary

How can anybody—having already abided on earth for a half-century—just be reaching his 10th birthday? What could make a wrinkled veteran of 70 summers and more exult on attaining his sixth birthday? What cause could move a 40-year-old to celebrate his "first birthday" in company with others of more ancient vintage who've only achieved a birthday of three months? Sounds like somebody isn't sober. But there's your answer: They are sober—some of them grandfatherly guys who experience that rewarding sensation of sobriety for the first time in 10, 20, 30 years. Others are in their twenties. They're alcoholics. Some got drunk for the first time at the age of six years, some at 10, others

About $40 was taken in a burglary here Thursday. Mrs. William Epperson, 1005 E. 21st, told officers that $40 was taken from a bank in her home. She said the money was in a bank in a desk drawer. About $3 in dimes was left in the bank, she said. Mrs. Epperson reported that the bank was not broken but opened with a key. Burglars pruned the front door off the Drop Inn Cafe at 502 NW 23rd Thursday and carried away six cartons of cigarettes, two cases of beer, and four pairs of electrical clippers, police reported.

Tech had jumped into an early lead and were on top, 37-30, at the half. Yates scored 24 points and Markham 23. Tech led by as much as 20 points early in the game. The victory gave A&M a 6-14 season record. Tech has a 9-10 record.

Light Bulb-Sized Lump Of Fuel Propelled Nautilus

GROTON Conn. (AP)—The nuclear submarine Nautilus traveled 60,000 miles on a lump of uranium "smaller than a light bulb," her builders said today. The submarine, the nation's first atomic-powered vessel, soon will be refueled for the first time since she started out on her journey Jan. 17, 1955. The Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp., commemorated today the mark made by the Nautilus Feb. 4 off Atlantic City, N.J.—20,000 leagues or 60,000 miles without refueling. The 20,000 leagues is a reference to Jules Verne's fantasy written in 1870 about an undersea craft. The book—20,000 Leagues under

The fourth is still in jail here. Lupe Sapata was freed on bond of $8,000. Pablo Sapata, who was returned from Wichita Falls on Wednesday, was released when he posted $10,000 bail. Jose Armindarez, the fourth defendant in the murder case, was still in his cell in the county jail. No bond has been offered for his release. Calderon was found in a dying condition from multiple knife wounds early Sunday morning back of a boot shop in north Big Spring. Felix Lupe and Armindarez were picked up by officers soon afterwards. Pablo was arrested in Wichita Falls two days later.

CITY

(Continued from Page 1) until after the new budget is in effect. The increase in the fire department is from men added during the past year. They worked only a part of the year under the old budget but their full salaries are carried now. Also, Whitney indicated new springs and mattresses were needed for the main station, plus a new gas range. In the street department, additional men and replacement of old street signs were the added outlays, he said. $15,000 LEFT Total expenditures from the general fund amounted to $730,280, against $670,291 for the current year, he said. The figures under consideration would leave a balance of $15,151 unappropriated. He then presented a list of $35,000 in material requested by department chiefs that he felt justified. This included mechanized equipment for the bookkeeping and tax departments, truck receptacles for the downtown area, and another street sweeper. He said adding machines were needed for both the accounting and tax departments, plus $4,500 in bookkeeping equipment for the accountants. In the tax department, the equipment needed amounted to $3,750. Commissioner Lee Rogers wondered if more funds could be transferred from the water and sewer departments to help pay for the equipment. Mayor Dabney then brought up the subject of salary raises for all employees, and Whitney said that a five per cent raise for all employees would amount to about $31,000 over the year. The annual payroll is about $625,000. No concrete decisions were reached to cut anything or alter the proposed budget drawn up by Whitney. All agreed that at least one more special session to consider the city's charter would be needed. The city's charter requires a public hearing to be scheduled before the budget goes into operation.

Polish Trade Group Arrives

NEW YORK (AP)—A Polish delegation arrived today to seek credit purchases and a "large" loan from the United States. Jhenryk Kotlicki, director general of the Polish Ministry of Finance and leader of the five-member mission, told newsmen at Idlewild Airport. "We are interested in credit purchases of cotton, corn and oil seed, and also in credit purchases of machinery, particularly mining machinery." Asked whether the mission would seek a loan, he said it would. To a question concerning the amount, he replied: "It is difficult to say—a large amount."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Writer Has 'Gripe' On High Rents In Big Spring

To the Editor: Since the city of Big Spring seems to be a "national" controversy, I'd like to put in my two cents worth. The town is lovely and the schools I don't know about but my kids are below school age. But my gripe is this: Just because Webb AFB is here and there is some oil activity, why must people take half of their salaries for rent? If you have enough room to walk in, you must pay from $90 to $125 per month, and whoever led you to think Air Force people were overpaid? And just because we are with the oil field, well there is hardly anything left for other things after rent. Big Spring people are wonderful and the stores are as good as larger cities, but why not welcome more people here by lowering the rents? Sincerely, Mrs. Maxine Dooley 110 E. 15th

Washington Most Painted Of His Time

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—George Washington was the most painted, sketched and engraved American of his generation. There is some doubt as to the exact number of life portraits and sketches made of him. There is utter confusion concerning copies of originals. The market for likenesses of Washington was so lively in his time that he was often painted by men who never saw him—much to his amusement. Thus, after seeing a mezzotint of himself by a certain Mr. Campbell in Boston in 1776, the general wrote in the tone of ironic humor he relished: "Mr. Campbell, whom I never saw to my knowledge, has made a very formidable figure of the commander in chief, giving him a sufficient portion of terror in his countenance." The 18th century was the age of the portrait; the face, reflecting the character, symbolized a chief interest of the times. Hudson River patriots, New England divines, Philadelphia merchants, Virginia planters—nearly all who could afford the luxury liked to hang likenesses of themselves and their families on their walls. Most of the men who painted them were not very good craftsmen, it's true. As always, there was little money and only a small measure of fame in art. Most started as sign painters, had little or no instruction, wandered from town to town—and disappeared. There were exceptions, of course, like John Singleton Copley of Boston. And there was Benjamin West (1738-1820), a Pennsylvania farm boy who migrated to Europe and achieved world renown as court painter to George III. West's pupil included all the leading American painters until the National Academy was founded in 1826. George Washington, a man who dedicated his life to strengthening his personal character and so gave strength of character to a new nation, took a rather dim view of portrait art and refused to sit for his portrait, smacked of vanity by him. Too, it seemed a waste of precious time. But he submitted—glumly. His wife and a few friends insisted. It is fortunate for us that they did. His relationships with the men who painted him provide insight into Washington himself and the art of the age. There is space here to mention only two painters, both students of West. They are Charles Wilson Peale (1741-1827), a man of talent, and Gilbert Stuart (1755-1828), an authentic genius of early American art. Berta N. Briggs has written a warmly appreciative biography of the former in "Charles Wilson Peale, Artist and Patriot" (1952). James Thomas Flexner's "Gilbert Stuart" (1953) is a brilliant biography of the painter which synthesizes all that is known about him in a highly readable volume.

J. Edgar Hoover Is Freedom Foundation Award Recipient

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, today was awarded Freedom Foundation's highest honor "for his resolute leadership against godless communism."

Hoover, head of the FBI since 1924, was among 753 individuals, businesses, organizations and schools cited in special George Washington's Birthday ceremonies for furthering "the American way of life" by what they said, wrote or did.

In a flag-draped, converted Revolutionary War barn that overlooks the hilly fields where Washington's bedraggled army spent the bitter winter of 1777-78, Hoover accepted the George Washington Award — $5,000 and a special honor medal — for making what the foundation called "the most important contribution during 1956 by an individual or group toward the improvement of the American structure of freedom."

The object of the non-profit, non-political foundation's annual award is "to honor those citizens, regardless of race, creed or economic status, for their outstanding efforts to improve public understanding and appreciation of the basic constitutional rights and freedoms inherent in the American way of life through the things they write, do or say."

Award winners from Texas included: The Odessa Junior Chamber of Commerce, George Washington Honor Medal Award for community programs, "Voice of Democracy" and "Understanding Your Taxes."

Washington (AP) — Rep. Osmer (R-NJ) today criticized as favoring the National Guard a proposal aimed at ending the Army-Guard dispute over active service.

A House Armed Services subcommittee has been considering an Army order requiring six months active duty for all new enlistees, effective April 1. The Guard opposes this basic training requirement for its recruits under 18½, the minimum draft age, contending the order would cost the Guard heavily in enlistments.

Subcommittee Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) yesterday announced a proposal to end the row. A principal feature would allow the Guard to give recruits under 18½ only 11 weeks training. This arrangement, subject to some circumstances, would continue until June 30, 1958, when the six months rule would go into effect for all.

Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, president of the National Guard Assn., promptly endorsed the Brooks proposal, with minor reservations.

Osmer, a World War II veteran who generally has supported the Army position, said in an interview the proposal is "more or less an expression of the National Guard point of view." Osmer said he is inclined to oppose the idea, even if the Army should agree to it.

The first Army reaction to the Brooks plan indicated displeasure. The Army said the plan would "defer the necessary training so far in the future that it would not correct the training need that now faces the National Guard and the Army."

The Army contends at least six months of basic training is needed to turn a recruit into a soldier. Army reservists are required to undergo such training, but National Guardsmen are not.

Besides Osmer, two other members of the subcommittee, Representatives Van Zandt (R-Pa.) and Devereux (R-Md.), also have dissipated themselves from the proposal.

However, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) chairman of the full Armed Services Committee, gave it his hearty approval.

The proposal was made public yesterday after a subcommittee meeting which reported agreement only on the idea that Brooks should seek to bring about some compromise.

It was reported that a majority of the subcommittee voted at the closed meeting in favor of six months training, but then rescinded the vote.

Osmer said that if there must be a compromise he would prefer merely to postpone the six months requirement rather than to introduce an 11 weeks training category.

Solon Criticizes Army-Guard Plan

Odessa To Speak At Scout Dinner Here On Feb. 28

Fred Gage, former mayor of Odessa and long active in the Scouting program, will address the "Together" dinner here Feb. 28.

The Together affair is designed to explain to representatives from prospective institutions what is involved in sponsoring a Scouting unit — either a Cub pack, Scout troop or Explorer post. Representatives from nearly a score of institutions will be invited to be guests of the Buffalo Trail Council.

W. C. Blankenship, chairman of the project, said that teams from the organization and extension committee would be ready to talk with representatives of interested institutions about organization procedures. More units are needed if Scouting is to reach the number of boys that it should in this district, he added.

His workers were meeting Friday noon to prepare for the Together dinner.

Minstrel Will Go On Tonight

Curtain goes up at 8 p.m. today in the City Auditorium on the final performance of the 10th annual Lions Club minstrel.

Conflicting activities cut into the opening night crowd, but officials of the Downtown Lions Club said they expected a good turnout this evening.

Vernon Pepper, Midland, substiting for Betty Farrar who was unable to appear in the production, scored a smash-hit with his monologue. Other acts included several numbers by the minstrel chorus, dances, solos and specialties. More than half the big list of prizes remain to be distributed this evening with the confectio sale at intermission.

All net proceeds from the show go to welfare, charity and community projects.

Federal Agencies Observe Holiday

Federal offices and agencies in Big Spring and Howard County were closed today in celebration of George Washington's birthday. County and state offices did not observe the holiday; banks, likewise, were open.

The post office was on a semi-holiday footing. No mail deliveries were made in the residential areas; windows at the office were closed. Box mail was put up and outgoing mail dispatched.

State laws designated Feb. 22 as a holiday in Texas but specify that observance of it by county and state offices is an optional matter.

Schoolmasters To Meet At Elbow

All administrators and school boards in Howard County have been invited to participate in a meeting of the Howard County Schoolmasters Association on Monday.

The session is set for 7 p.m. in the Elbow school cafeteria, said Doyle Fenn, president of the Schoolmasters. A program of music will be directed by Mrs. Robert Mason.

To Receive Citation

LAMESA — The local Disabled American Veterans chapter has reached its membership quota for the current fiscal year of the organization, and will receive a special citation in recognition of its achievement. As of February 1, the chapter had a total of 45 members.

Robbed Abilene Bank Teller Found Dead

ABILENE (AP)—Bob Nye, 28, a teller at the First State Bank who said he was robbed of more than $3,000 a week ago, was found shot to death here yesterday. Peace Justice W. T. St. John said he would rule suicide.

Nye's body was found in a stable outside the city limits, police said. He had been shot in the head and was sitting on a blanket, a shotgun resting in his hand.

A week ago Nye said a lone gunman came into the commercial teller's room at the bank and held him up, escaping with $3,144 in a paper sack. No one else saw the robber.

Briggs Todd, president of the bank, and cashier Lee Loper said an audit of the bank the day of the robbery report and again yesterday disclosed the accounts were in order.

W. S. Murphy, FBI agent from Dallas, said "We are continuing our investigation of the bank robbery."

Nye worked for the bank three years. His widow and two small children survive.

At the time of the reported robbery, Nye was so shaken he had to be put under a doctor's care and given sedatives.

The body was found by two secretaries at Hardin-Simmons College, Misses Jimmy Kate Tarr and Hattie Martin. They had planned to go horseback riding.

Nye's car was outside the stable. The farm on which the body was found is owned by his father-in-law, J. T. Reid of Fort Worth.

Bank officials said he did not work yesterday. His family said he left the house about 8 a.m.

The time of death was placed at about 9 a.m. by Sheriff J. D. Woodard.

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP)—Police concluded today that the burglar who took nine rifles and nine pistols from a sporting goods shop is heading for the snow country. He also took a pair of skis.

Sheep Set Off Border Conflict

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—A flock of sheep from Jordan invaded Israel last night, setting off a 20-minute exchange of fire between Israeli troops and Arab Legionnaires.

An army spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties in the exchange, in the Beersheba area, but reported two Israeli frontier policemen and two civilians were wounded in three Arab ambushes along the Jordan frontier.

The Israelis gave this report of the incidents:

1. The sheep wandered into Israeli territory near Amatsia and an Israeli army unit went out to investigate. Arab Legion positions across the border began shooting and the Israelis returned the fire. The shooting subsided after 20 minutes.
2. An Israeli frontier police patrol was ambushed near Affula, in northern Israel. In a short exchange of fire, one Israeli policeman was wounded.
3. Another Israeli frontier patrol car was ambushed near Lydda and one border policeman was wounded.
4. A civilian truck was attacked east of Haifa and two Israeli civilians were wounded.

Plane Victim Dies Of Burns

HERTFORD, N.C. (AP)—A civilian mechanic, badly burned when a crippled Navy jet fighter plane just missed a school yesterday and plunged into a garage, died last night. The pilot's body was found a few hours later.

None of the schoolchildren were hurt and school officials planned a thanksgiving service today. The Rev. Dr. Harold White, a Presbyterian minister who teaches a class in English literature, said the students wanted to offer "thanksgiving to God for sparing our lives."

The blazing plane whizzed toward this small town in northeastern North Carolina, then skidded across the empty Perquimans High School recreational area and crashed into the school's garage. It exploded, setting the garage afire.

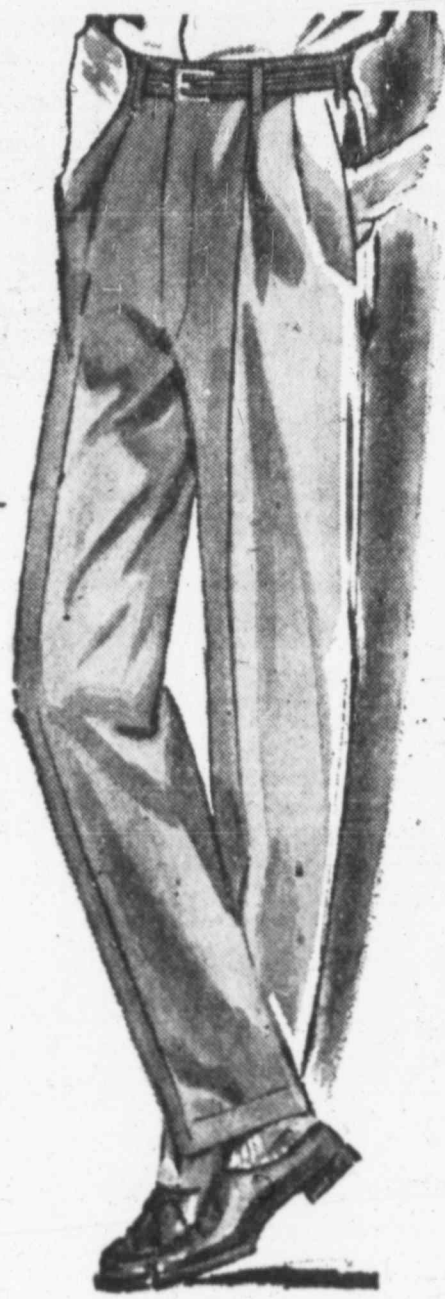

Hundreds of children in the school were due to be dismissed for classes in physical education in the recreational area 10 minutes after the plane crashed. School principal E. C. Woodard said the recreational period had been delayed some 10 minutes from its usual starting time.

The slightly burned body of the pilot, Ens. William W. Bell, a native of Longton, Kan., was found in a field on a farm five miles from the crash scene.

A Coast Guard spokesman at nearby Elizabeth City said, "He apparently stayed with the burning plane as long as he could, then ditched it. His parachute could have burned on the way down, if he got it open."

PANCAKES

All You Can Eat, For Only Six Bits

One week from tonight—Friday, March 1—Big Spring Kiwanis Club will stage its fifth annual pancake supper at the high school cafeteria. As in other years, the theme of the supper is "all you can eat" and the purpose of the event is to raise funds for the club's program for underprivileged children. The big event will feature pancakes, bacon, syrup, butter and coffee and an order per individual is just as large as the individual can personally consume. The price per ticket is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children. The supper will be served from 5 to 9 p.m. Kiwanians are selling tickets this week and any person who likes pancakes can make a good investment by buying a ticket. The club was informed Thursday noon that all plans for the event are shaping up in excellent style. An abundance of material for pancakes, a mountain of bacon and a small sea of syrup is being assembled. Committee assignments have been made and all members of the Kiwanis Club will have a part in preparing and serving the supper. Facilities of the school cafeteria have been made available for serving the meal and all patrons are invited to make plans to be at the cafeteria anytime between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Apathy Toward Citizenship Called Greatest Threat To U. S. Welfare

Big Spring Kiwanians were admonished vigorously to mind their own business in a speech delivered Thursday noon at the club's regular luncheon meeting. The speaker was Dr. P. M. Larson, Texas Tech professor, and his interpretation of what the principal business of a Kiwanian should be was his performance as a citizen. Dr. Larson told the club that the greatest threat to the welfare and survival of the United States as a free and independent nation is not the spread of communism. Rather, he warned, it is the growing apathy of citizens at large toward their duties as citizens. Merely voting at primary and general elections is not enough, Larson said. Actually, he declared, action taken at the elections is but an endorsement of decisions made earlier by others. "Place for the citizen to manifest his true interest and concern in government, Larson warned, is the precinct meetings. That, said the speaker, is the one place in which the lay citizen can and should express himself on political issues. Yet, he said, the records show that in his own country, only three per cent of the eligible voters bothered to go to the precinct meetings; most of the otherwise well-informed and progressive citizens seemed to do not regard precinct meetings as important. College graduates, he said, with considerable credit in political science display great ignorance when questioned about the purpose and function of the precinct meeting. To perpetuate survival of free government and progressive growth, he concluded, there must be a reawakening of interest on the part of more people in their chief responsibility—that of being a good citizen. "Being a citizen is your most important business," he concluded. "Therefore, I strongly urge that

Then And Now

Here is a little girl's party dress of yesterday and today. The 50-year-old dress at left, seen at a recent fashion show in New York, inspired the 1957 dress at right. The most important differences, from a mother's point of view, are the modern dress is made of dacron and cotton so that it resists soil and wrinkling, washes in a jiffy and needs no ironing.

Modern Moppets Get Breaks With Dresses

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Little girls' clothes have changed a lot in the last four centuries — and even in the last 20 years.

A current exhibition of children's dress from the 16th to the 20th century at the Costume Institute of the Metropolitan Museum of Art points up the fact that modern mothers are the luckiest in history — at least in the ease with which they can keep their small daughters well-dressed.

Little girls always have liked to dress up in pretty, frilly party dresses, even back in the 16th century, the exhibition demonstrates. But in former days it took hours of careful laundering and expert ironing to keep those party dresses crisp and fresh, with every ruffle and flounce in place.

The Metropolitan exhibition shows children's clothes from France, England, Spain and the United States. These include miniature dresses in rich brocades, lush velvets, silks, tulle and those burruffed, lace-trimmed and lacy gowns that have been a standard for small fry party dresses for generations.

Loving care has gone into the making of all the dresses shown. The dresses of past centuries are made, of course, by hand, with yards and yards of delicate lace trims and ruffles all stitched painstakingly, and hand embroidery added as a final flourish. They are charming and beautiful, but the observer cannot help thinking how many woman-hours of labor each entails, not only for the making but for the laundering and care.

In contrast are the party dresses of today — just as dainty, just as frilly, just as delicate, but made by machine of new miracle fabrics that can be dunked in the wash basin, hung up to dry and worn without ironing, with every ruffle and frill crisp and fresh.

Today's little girls are fortunate indeed, because they can wear their party dresses every day, if they like, and their mothers can wash them out with their nylons at night, have them fresh and ready to wear the next day.

'57 Guide For Rose Buying Is Available

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The 1957 "Guide For Buying Roses" is now being distributed to rose-loving gardeners throughout the country.

The American Rose Society's members rate the performance of new roses which they have grown in their own gardens. The guide contains the names, ratings, height, degree of fragrance and color of all these roses which receive "fair" to "outstanding" recognition. As an extra service, the society will furnish upon request the names and addresses of nurseries which stock any of the varieties listed.

Chrysler Imperial, Charlotte Armstrong and Peace Hybrid Tea roses maintain their outstanding ratings for the fifth consecutive year.

Golden Wings, another outstanding hybrid tea, appears at the top of the list for the second consecutive year. Betty Prior has led the floribunda rose class for three years, and the new Spartan makes an initial outstanding showing. Paul's Scarlet Climber heads its group for the fourth consecutive year.

Loving care has gone into the making of all the dresses shown. The dresses of past centuries are made, of course, by hand, with yards and yards of delicate lace trims and ruffles all stitched painstakingly, and hand embroidery added as a final flourish. They are charming and beautiful, but the observer cannot help thinking how many woman-hours of labor each entails, not only for the making but for the laundering and care.

In contrast are the party dresses of today — just as dainty, just as frilly, just as delicate, but made by machine of new miracle fabrics that can be dunked in the wash basin, hung up to dry and worn without ironing, with every ruffle and frill crisp and fresh.

Today's little girls are fortunate indeed, because they can wear their party dresses every day, if they like, and their mothers can wash them out with their nylons at night, have them fresh and ready to wear the next day.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Hard To Recognize Self From Letter's Description

By ANNE LEFEVER

Well, somebody has fooled! And I believe it must be the list broker who included my name on a list sent to a silver company.

Recently, I received a letter from the company asking that I deliver my opinion on a pattern of stainless steel tableware which they were right on the verge of sending me.

Their reason for wanting me to judge it? (They probably had a sneaking suspicion that, once the set was in my house, I'd be too busy to return it before the deadline — and presto! I'd have to buy it!)

The reasons given for asking my opinion were that I am a person "with above average income, who has silver, likes casual living." Hitting one out of three is not bad, I suppose — I do enjoy casual living. As for my income — I never have to "wonder what the poor people are doing tonight" — I know what they're doing! The same thing I'm doing!

According to the letter, my name was selected from a list of people who order gourmet foods by mail" — Another miss! By the time I get through buying the staples at a local food store, I don't even have the three cents for a stamp necessary for the order!

Another reason the company is so anxious for my opinion is that I am among private boat owners, those who buy custom-made sporting equipment and buyers of rare books and prints.

Well, all I can say to that is that the closest I have ever come to a private boat is the one I was on last summer when I visited a cousin at Kemah; and as for the sporting equipment, I take my exercise with a hoe, rake or lawnmower — and they are definitely not custom-made!

I do have a few first editions, but they will never be rare — They've been collected over a period of years in which I have prepared book reviews, hoping all the time that I could give each one before my listeners had the opportunity to read the book themselves.

As a parting shot, the letter designated me as one of a group interested in nature conservation causes. Well, now, I suppose that might be true; that is, if you could be interested in the conservation of leaves and grass clippings in a compost bed!

Start Early With Habits Of Thrift

It's a good idea to teach a child the value of savings at an early age.

A child who gets in the habit of running to a candy store every time he gets a few pennies is on his way to becoming extravagant, child psychologists tell us.

Get him interested in a bank. He can build himself such an easy-to-make cardboard bank that may be made from a cereal box, decorated with colored paper.

When he gets a good amount help him to open a savings account, perhaps by letting the youngster go to the bank with you and see you deposit the money. He could even take care of his own bank book.

As a parting shot, the letter designated me as one of a group interested in nature conservation causes. Well, now, I suppose that might be true; that is, if you could be interested in the conservation of leaves and grass clippings in a compost bed!

New Members Introduced To Spaders Garden Club Thursday

Mrs. C. A. Tonn, Mrs. Chubby Jones and Mrs. Bill Hanson were introduced as new members of the Spaders Garden Club at a meeting Thursday afternoon. The club met in the home of Mrs. Ross Hyden.

Heliotrope plants were distributed to the group by Mrs. W. D. Caldwell.

Speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. John Knox, a member of the Big Spring Garden Club. Her topic was Roses.

Mrs. Knox recommended that the beds be prepared for roses before the plants are bought. She specified that a large hole should be made, with a layer of sand and fertilizer at the bottom.

Members were told to set the bush over a small mound of soil in the hole with the roots spread apart. Soil should be filled in and packed down well to avoid air spaces around the roots.

Prompt planting is necessary, the speaker said, so that the tender feeder roots will not be injured or killed.

Water thoroughly and mulch the bushes when they are planted, Mrs. Knox said. Sulphur was named as a good insecticide as well as an excellent addition to the soil in this locality.

Mrs. Bruce Frazier will be hostess for the next meeting, at which a film, "Growing Gardens From Seed," will be shown.

A toy lawnmower, painted pink, held an arrangement of daffodils and greenery on the tea table, which was covered with a pink linen cloth. The centerpiece was made by Mrs. Jimmy Morehead.

Twenty attended the meeting.

Collection Discussion Given For Credit Club

Mrs. E. O. Worthan was the speaker for the Credit Women's Club Thursday when the group met at the Howard House for luncheon.

Choosing the topic "You and the Collection Service," she told members that the older an account becomes, the harder it is to collect. She recommended that a company's credit manager establish a good credit policy and have a follow-up plan of collections.

Another recommendation was that old accounts be turned over to a local member of a national collection firm since the personnel is especially trained for making collections. Members were told that it is a saving in many ways to use such an agency.

Pauline Sullivan, president of the club, gave a report on the district meeting held in El Paso recently, to which she was a delegate.

A Sanction Is A Sanction

President Eisenhower has taken a firm stand behind the United Nations in its efforts to force Israel back in accordance with cease-fire terms. No aggressor can be allowed to dictate the terms of its withdrawal, he said. The President added that to permit disputes to be settled by force or arms would doom the UN.

The only avenue then is the application of sanctions (withholding of aid, services or goods) to Israel. This created something of a delicate problem, for several Senate Republicans and Democrats alike had made it fairly clear they would not countenance sanctions against Israel when Egypt, Russia, India and other countries had defied the United Nations similarly without incurring even a threat of sanctions.

Mr. Dulles' apparent effort to minimize the drastic nature of sanctions by saying that there are various kinds, some of them mid, blinks the fact that the very word "sanctions" itself has come to mean a sort of last resort, taking on the finality of an ultimatum. If the State Department can find an euphemism to make sanctions more palatable to Israel, or to congressmen who object to applying them only to weak nations unable to defend themselves in the UN or elsewhere, it will be a miracle.

A rose is a rose, and a sanction is a sanction.

Mr. Eisenhower's particular difficulty is in trying to solve the problem of getting Israel out of Egypt and the canal reopened without having to get so tough with the Arab nations that they won't accept our (apparently unwanted) aid.

Unfortunately Nasser has tasted appeasement and he likes the flavor and aroma of the same. It's next to impossible to break a dog of sucking eggs after the first one. If the heart is applied to Israel, what of Egypt?

Ah, Is It Love In Bloom?

Portugal, an independent state for 800 years and a republic since 1910, when King Manoel II was driven from the throne and a republic established, turned itself inside out this week, to do honor and homage to petite Queen Elizabeth II of England.

An estimated one million wildly demonstrating Portuguese almost overwhelmed the Queen's carriage—first use of the royal coach since Manoel took off for the fall timer—and she was saved from being crushed when guards used the flat of their swords to drive the celebrating thousands away.

The excitement even gripped the Pope's representative, who caught himself just in the nick of time from giving the successor of Henry VIII a Roman Catholic blessing.

Portugal and Great Britain have been friends and allies for some hundreds of years, but we imagine this circumstance did not great deal to do with the fervid nature of the welcome accorded Elizabeth II.

It was romance, that's what it was. Widespread and apparently wholly inaccurate rumors about an estrangement of the Queen from her consort, the Duke of Edinburgh, had whetted public curiosity throughout the world. The Queen had gone to Portugal for a reunion with the Duke, who was returning from a four-month absence in Australia and elsewhere. The consort went aboard the Queen's plane just as it landed, remained a few minutes, and they both emerged—the Duke with a smudge of lipstick on his face.

That touched off the first of the wild demonstrations the Portuguese staged.

The Portuguese are a hard-headed, down-to-earth people, but like everybody else they can't resist that little naked god who packs a bow and arrow.

Profit Squeeze Hitting All Business

WASHINGTON — Industry is falling behind in the race with rising labor costs. The rate of profit after taxes is going down. Figures are becoming available from more and more companies, telling what happened in 1956.

This is what's back of the recent wave of worry. While it is generally conceded that no depression is immediately ahead, there are indications of considerable anxiety that unless the trend is reversed, the profit margin will be wiped out in the next few years for many companies in industry after industry. This may become true especially for those businesses unable to borrow money for more up-to-date equipment or unable to finance such purchases out of accumulated surpluses.

The story of what has caused this downward trend in profits can be given in a single sentence: Industry's wage costs have risen by 212 per cent since 1939 and, despite new machines and improved methods, productivity per man hour has increased only 41 per cent within the same period.

Unless companies can get more production out of their increased costs — either with or without new machines — the rising labor costs will inevitably wipe out profits.

The facts show that companies, large and small, are fighting a losing battle with rising costs.

Thus, sales in the U.S. Steel Corporation in 1956, as compared with 1955, were up 3.7 per cent and total outlays, including labor, rose 4.6 per cent and hence profits after taxes were down 6 per cent.

The Monsanto Chemical Company, one of the biggest in the chemical field reported sales up 3.8 per cent, expenses up 4.8 per cent and profits after taxes down 8.5 per cent.

In automobiles, the Ford Company report shows that sales were down 16.9 per cent but expenses were down only 14.5 per cent, so profits, after taxes, came down by 45.9 per cent.

The Burlington Industries, Inc., one of the largest in the textile field, had increased sales of 23.5 per cent and increased expenses of 24.5 per cent, and profits after taxes were down 6.7 per cent.

In the publishing business the story is the same — many magazines and newspapers are feeling the pinch. One publisher of a large newspaper in the East points out that newspaper has gone up from $85-a-ton in 1947 to $130-a-ton today and that another $3-a-ton increase is under way.

Meanwhile, wage costs have risen sharply. The minimum pay of an experienced newspaper reporter has gone up as much as 100 per cent. The mechanical workers have had boosts of from 65 per cent to 120 per cent since 1947. The same Eastern publisher says he is spending $2.40 an hour, on the average, in straight-time pay for all employees but that "fringe" benefits add another 51 cents an hour, so the real cost has gone up to $2.91 an hour. Equipment costs have soared, too. While advertising rates have been raised, the same publisher says costs continue to exceed the added advertising income and hence further rises in advertising rates are going to be needed if any profits are to be made. This, however, runs into the possibility of a diminished quantity of space that might be bought because the advertisers themselves face increased costs all along the line.

It would be thought that in the field of electrical appliances, so necessary in modern living, the story would be different. But it isn't. Also, the Radio Corporation of America, with a variety of television and electronic products, showed sales 7.1 per cent last year and total expenses up 8.2 per cent, but profits after taxes were down by 15.8 per cent.

In the lumber and wood industry, earnings, after costs and taxes, per sales dollar have gone from 8.6 cents in 1947 to 4.3 cents today. In furniture for the same period, the earnings figure has come down from 5.7 cents to 3.4 cents.

There are a few industries that show improvement, but the bulk are on the minus side. In all industries, small business has been proportionately hurt even more by the rising costs.

Yet, in spite of these facts, labor-union bosses feel they must force the wage scales upward and upward in order to keep ambitious rivals from driving them out of office. It's a dilemma that, curiously enough, Congress has shown a strange reluctance to investigate and expose. But until the people get all the facts, they cannot decide what the answer is or what remedy must be applied if a serious depression is to be avoided.

TV Hazards

MILWAUKEE — Nine persons were evacuated from an apartment building when a loud rumbling gave rise to fears that the furnace was about to explode.

When nothing happened, an investigation showed that a 2-year-old boy had set off the panic by turning on a television set — with the volume as high as it would go.

PHILADELPHIA — The translation service of the Federal Trade Bureau here got the answer for an advertising firm.

The company wanted a Latin inscription for a trophy cup for the winner of the firm's golf outing.

Or, a familiar phrase in the advertising world: "Well, boys, that's the way the ball bounces."

Local Unions Asked For It

WASHINGTON — Tighter control of unions at the top is one result of Senate investigations into labor union racketeering and the efforts of the AFL-CIO leadership to stamp it out.

This means less autonomy for national and local unions. But they asked for it by failing to do their own house-cleaning better.

Union welfare plans — covering pensions and other benefits — began to spring up during the war. They really blossomed after John L. Lewis won a welfare plan for his miners in 1946.

Now the billions of dollars in welfare plans are a fertile field for crooks.

This year the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO, which is made up of 140 unions, adopted and laid down for its member unions three codes of good conduct recommended by its own special Ethical Practices Committee.

President George Meany said the national unions will be expected to enforce the codes among their various local unions or face expulsion. The three codes go like this:

1. Safeguarding union funds — This bars union officials from receiving extra fees and salaries from welfare funds, requires the ouster of officials for accepting fees or bribes and calls for regular audits and public accounting of union members' trust funds.
2. Personal interests — This bars a union official from having

Town Outgrows Own Census

TEL AVIV, Israel — Hanech Nenner, the energetic mayor of Eilat, usually starts off the day asking his secretary "What's the population today?"

His town is growing so fast he can't keep up with it.

Since November, when Israeli forces broke an 8-year Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba, the tiny port has doubled its population of 850 and soon is expected to reach 2,000.

By any comparison it still is tiny. BUT Israel is making big plans and pinning high hopes on Eilat's future. Israelis envision it as a great shipping and commercial gateway to east Africa and Asia. They see it also as major terminal of a projected overland route across Israel that would be at least a partial alternative to the Suez Canal.

Eilat lies at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba on the southernmost tip of Israel. It is Israel's only access to the deepwater gulf which flows into the Red Sea 100 miles to the south. Israel owns only a six-mile stretch of shoreline around Eilat. Along the rest of the shoreline are Jordan and Saudi Arabia on the east and Egypt on the west.

For Israelis, Eilat's future depends on free navigation of the Gulf of Aqaba for their ships and the vessels of other nations.

For that reason, the Israelis are desperately determined to keep open their newly won "Gateway to the East" with its potentially rich trade with east Africa and Asia.

And for the same reason Israel, for the time being at least, is defying the United Nations by refusing to withdraw from the southern tip of Egypt's Sinai Peninsula which commands the narrow strait between the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba.

The present port facility consists of one concrete jetty, built several years ago, capable of handling ships up to 4,000 tons. The development program calls for improving the jetty to provide berthing space for three vessels at the same time up to 10,000 tons in size and dockside equipment for the mechanical loading and discharge of bulk cargo such as grain, phosphates and potash.

The closing of the Suez Canal and the simultaneous opening to Israeli shipping of the Gulf of Aqaba accentuated Eilat's potential importance as an alternative to the canal and the route around the Cape of Good Hope as well as an outlet for Israel's products and a possible new route for the supply of oil to Western Europe.

Around The Rim
'Faith Healing' Would Bear Study

Will Oursler, author of a series of magazine articles on faith healing, has made some good points in proving that faith cures actually do happen. But in not expanding on this theme, by not examining the whys or wherefores, he has missed a point that could bear investigation. (Researchers in psychology, take note.)

Oursler investigated areas in the Christian religion only. He skipped over faith cures and "faith deaths" in other religions.

Voodoo practitioners, for example, have succeeded in killing their victims, although their magic works only on those who believe-it can work. Not all these deaths could be of a psychosomatic nature, that is of a suggestive nature, because it has been shown the victim doesn't necessarily have to be aware his enemy is sticking pins in a doll and calling the doll by the victim's name.

I have seen faith cures by Buddhist priests in Korea, and there are substantiated cases of Hindu cures in India. It is well known to those of American Indian descent that tribal medicine men succeeded astonishingly.

So, faith healing is not restricted to one denomination of the Christian faith, nor for that matter to Christianity itself.

And the success of voodoo killings indicates both come from some mental phenomenon that is basic to both—that is, it is known that many or most faith cures are really but cures of psychosomatic ills, those without organic cause. Yet, it has been demonstrated that some organic illnesses can be corrected through faith healing.

A hint of the mechanism of faith healing is revealed by the "bleeding" woman of Germany, by the "idiot savant" and by what is known of hypnosis. The "bleeder" is a German woman who is incurably in-lness, reduced to the same state of helplessness as an idiot, but every year about the time of Easter, her hands bleed as did the hands of Christ on the cross. The "idiot savant," first discovered in France, is a mental condition in which the victim is a perfect idiot except for one particular area of his mind. The first "idiot savant," for example, made a daily trip to the railroad station to read the numbers on the cars. He could recite perfectly all the numbers on all the cars, along with dates, that had come into the station since he began his vigil.

A person under hypnosis can recall events almost with the dexterity of the "idiot savant." It is also possible to cause a person under trance to produce bodily changes, such as the raising of blisters on the skin without having to burn him.

What happens is that chasms are bridged between conscious and unconscious minds in hypnosis and in the "idiot savant," and between the mind and the body's biochemistry in the "bleeding" woman (and, perhaps, in faith cures.) Hypnosis, apparently, is not a strong enough factor to induce such things as spontaneous bleeding.

All these phenomena are but different facets of the same basic principle. Hypnosis, psychosomatic ills, faith healing, voodoo—all are based on the power of suggestion, a thing we all use at all times. We tell ourselves, for example, that we will succeed in a particular project, and we usually do. Or, we convince ourselves we can't possibly succeed, and we usually fail.

It might not be a waste of time to concentrate on research into the basic phenomenon behind faith healing, the mysterious power of mind that can completely control our nervous system (including the brain) and our biochemical makeup. The answer might be the "elixir" man has sought in vain since the beginning of civilization.

The New Situation On Your E-Bonds

"Will the new 3 1/2 per cent interest rate apply to E-bonds I now hold?" That's one of the many questions that have come up since the Treasury announced its intention to ask Congress for authority to increase the interest rate.

Answer: No. That had been considered, but the idea was rejected.

Question: If I buy a bond now, before Congress authorizes the Treasury to pay 3 1/2 per cent, will I get a 3 per cent bond?

No. The Treasury plans to put all E- and H-bonds sold on or after February 1 on a 3 1/2 per cent interest basis retroactively, if Congress grants authority to up the rate. Bonds bought now will have the old 3 per cent redemption values printed on them, but the date of purchase will set the rate. (Old bonds could be exchanged for new ones if you wish.)

Question: How does the proposed new rate on E-bonds compare with interest rates now being paid by savings institutions?

It's competitive. The proposed new bond will pay 3 1/2 per cent if held for 8 years and 11 months; the former bond paid 3 per cent and had to be held for 9 years and eight months. Even if you hold the new bond for only three years, you'd get 3 per cent.

Savings banks throughout the United States are paying an average of 2.92 per cent, according to the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. The average varies from state to state: Indiana, 1.91 per cent; Wisconsin and Ohio, 2 per cent; New Jersey, 2.63 per cent; Pennsylvania, 2.77 per cent; New York, 2.94 per cent; Massachusetts, 2.98 per cent; New Hampshire, 3.16 per cent. Savings and loan institutions usually pay higher rates.

Question: Will the new rates apply to bonds that have already matured and have not yet been cashed?

No. If you purchased an E-bond, say, in May, 1945, and it matured in May, 1955, it has been extended at a 3 per cent rate of interest for ten years, or until May, 1956. To get the 3 1/2 per cent rate, it would be necessary for you to cash in your bond and buy a new one. However, in cashing a bond, you'd pay taxes on the accumulated interest (unless, as a few persons do, you've been paying taxes on the interest as it accumulated each year). It wouldn't pay to switch unless you expected to hold the new bond for at least four years.

Question: Is the income on the new bonds taxable?

Yes. Some Congressmen have proposed using tax exemptions to make E- and H-bonds more attractive. The Treasury is certain to oppose this idea. It would be of greatest benefit to persons in the high-up income brackets. If new bonds were tax exempt, many persons would rush to cash in old bonds for new.

Furthermore, E-bonds offer this tax advantage. Persons can postpone collecting interest by not cashing the bonds. Some people don't cash bonds till they're retired and are in lower income tax brackets.

Question: Do H-bonds offer the same tax advantages as E-bonds?

No. Interest is paid semi-annually by check. The interest is taxable when received.

Question: Will the new 3 1/2 per cent rate apply to maturing E-bonds that are not cashed in?

No. Currently, maturing bonds are extended at the 3 per cent rate. However, if cash-ins of matured bonds are high, the Treasury might offer a higher rate to induce holding.

Question: What's the best time to cash a bond?

The first day of a new interest period. Interest on E-bonds is credited every six months. If you bought a bond, say, in January, then cash it on January 1 or July 1 or immediately thereafter. Then you'd get the full amount of interest for the six months just past. If you were to wait until June or December, you'd get the same amount of interest as in January or July. However, a bond about to mature should be held to the maturity date.

Fading Occupation

PASADENA, Calif. — Pasadena is one of just a few cities in the nation that still has a movie theater organist. Bill Wright is on duty for most of the shows. He reports that 30 years ago there were more than 5,000 organists playing in movie theaters of the United States. Today, he says, there are not more than 20 theaters throughout the nation using live pipe organ music to supplement sound films.

Depreciated Donkey

STERLING, Colo. — Automobiles and donkeys have at least one thing in common. Both depreciate in value from year to year. Allen Yost purchased a donkey at an annual auction sale here early in 1956 for $85. A year later the donkey was auctioned off to Ralph Runge for $50. The latter price even included $2.50 for a new halter.

Wardrobe Worry

HONOLULU — The Honolulu Community Theater is having wardrobe trouble. Needed for the next production, "The Great Sebastian," are five heavy winter overcoats.

Apparently there isn't a one in town, a theater official says.

Light Duty

MANITOWOC, Wis. — Police authorities reported the most common complaint received during 1956 was "lights out" caused by power failure.

Wrong Department

BALTIMORE — Over a fire alarm in the basement of a Johns Hopkins University building the sign said:

"Fire alarm" out of order. Call power house."

Oklahoma Has Plenty To Celebrate

OKLAHOMA CITY — Any citizen of this vast nation who can't get enough of cowboys and Indians on stage, screen, radio and teevee and who craves acquaintance with the real thing is cordially invited to saddle up and head this way.

Oklahoma, the only state ever named for a musical comedy, within the next six weeks will begin an eight-month celebration of its golden anniversary as a state, the 46th to be admitted to the Union.

From April through November, Oklahoma will be awash with Indian powwows, rodeos, frontier celebrations and historical pageantry.

Its famed Indians, many of whom are now bank presidents, industrial leaders, cattle barons and oil magnates, are refurbishing their ancestral war-bonnets in preparation for the big event, and their wives will change their diamonds for more suitable beads. Almost every tribe—and there are 60 in Oklahoma — will hold a powwow sometime during the semi-centennial. Every community plans a rodeo.

Oklahoma's famed oil men, many of whom are cowpokes at heart, are polishing up their spurs and growing beards for the celebration. And the cowpokes, most of whom own oil leases, are breaking in new levis and 10-gallon hats.

Even if it just sticks to the facts during its semi-centennial observation, Oklahoma has plenty to celebrate. Eighty years before the first permanent settlement was made in the U.S.A., Coronado crossed this state and never dreamed black gold flowed beneath its surface.

If the United States hadn't received anything else from the Louisiana Purchase but Oklahoma, the investment would still have paid off. Total cumulative oil production in this state now amounts to about seven trillion, 500 billion barrels. Or, as Glenn Condon, unofficial historian of the state and once a famous Broadway wit, puts it, "Enough oil for all the lamps of china and the furnaces of Hell."

(And, with Nasser still imitating Napoleon, it may be some comfort to know that the amount of reserves still underground in Oklahoma, including crude oil and liquid hydrocarbons, is two trillion, 300 billion barrels.)

Frankly, there is no calculating the amount of natural gas it has produced, but whatever the figure, it will be doubled during the semi-centennial year.

Oklahoma has also produced or brought to fine flower any number of famous citizens, including the late Will Rogers and Jim Thorpe, as well as the hostess with the mostes, Perle Mesta. The famed "Okies" of the Depression were also an Oklahoma product.

And no state has sheltered a finer array of outlaws, beginning with Cherokee Bill and Belle Starr and proceeding through Frank and Jesse James, the Younger and the Dalton Gangs, Al Jennings and "Pretty Boy" Floyd, to name a few.

Oh, Oklahoma has a proud heritage to celebrate, and don't think it won't.

LOGAN, W. Va. — Charlie Bias, retiring after 24 years as county jailer, figured his most vivid memory was a week-end in 1937 when 247 persons were jailed. It was so crowded that 58 men had to be put in the bullpen together. That meant standing room only — and frequent fights.

"The skirmishes kept my officers and myself busy trying to maintain a semblance or order," Bias recalled.

WHY I BECAME A MINISTER

Opportunity, Urge Led To Ministry

By Rev. LAWRENCE GHOLSON

Rev. LAWRENCE GHOLSON
Minister, Church of the Nazarene

Various factors across the years have influenced me to become ministers and spend their lives in full-time service, preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ.

Two of these factors, open doors of opportunity as a result of God's providence, and an unexplainable urge that I must, have combined to make me feel the "Woe unto me if I preach not the Gospel." The ministry for me is not just a vocation or profession, but a way of life; God's way of life for me.

It was not my privilege to have been reared in a community where there was an active church. Our home was not a home where regular attendance upon the means of grace was the common thing. Religious training and pastoral guidance was not to be had. My knowledge of the church was limited to what I could gain from some old-fashioned "camp meetings" held at points close enough to attend.

It was after one of these meetings when a small lad that I first remember having that urge to preach. I felt in my heart that I wanted to be instrumental in helping people to become happy as these preachers were. Then, I didn't know the meaning of that urge. I realize now that if proper adjustment had been possible, I would have entered the ministry several years earlier than I actually did.

As I grew into my 'teens some of the more religious minded folk in our community began a Sunday School and a Friday evening prayer meeting. When I was about 18 the pastor of the Nazarene Church from the neighboring town started coming to our prayer meetings to preach for us. This was my first real contact with a pastor and an organized church. Because of the interest shown by this minister and the encouragement I received from him, the earlier urge that I had felt became more pronounced.

When I was 20 years of age I married and moved from my community and this church contact. After only one year we moved back home and back to a more active part in church affairs. As time went on my urge to preach became stronger; so strong that I knew I must do something about it. About the time I reached a decision to abandon all and go to college to make preparations, Uncle Sam moved in and took over, not to change my mind nor my plans, but to delay for three years.

During my months in the service there was only one plan and one ambition as far as I was concerned, and that was to see the end of the war so I could return to the program that I felt provided had outlined for me. It finally came and those earlier mentioned doors began to open. An apartment was provided for me in a city that I had never seen; a job of selling, something that I had never done, opened to provide the needed support for my family; my rusty mind that had been inactive for 10 years began to function to grasp the much needed truth and instructions; opportunity for religious service was afforded; and when I finished my formal training, churches called me to be pastor.

At the present time I am thoroughly enjoying serving my people here in Big Spring. There is a passage of Scripture that I would like to leave with you that helps me to feel that my work is worthwhile. Romans 10:13-14, "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe Him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher?"

Signs of the Times

CHRIST PERFORMS FOUR MIRACLES AND REPROVES HYPOCRITES

Scripture—Matthew 14:1-16:18.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

OUR LESSON begins by telling how Herod had heard of the fame of Jesus, and was frightened because he thought the murdered John the Baptist had come back to haunt him. Herod had been afraid to slay John because he knew that he had many disciples who thought he was a prophet.

John had rebuked Herod for putting away his own lawful wife and living with Herodias, his brother's wife. He had arrested John and kept him in prison.

However, Herodias' daughter entered before him on his birthday, and in a mad moment he had promised her that he would give her anything she asked for. Her vindictive mother told her to ask for the head of John, and although Herod was sorry (and afraid) to kill John, he felt he could not go back on his promise made before his court. So John the Baptist, last of the great prophets of Israel, was beheaded.

If the Man of whom Herod had heard was indeed the ghost of John come to haunt him he knew he would die for his wickedness.

When Jesus heard of John's death he entered a ship and went to a desert spot. He had no time to mourn in solitude, however, for multitudes of people followed Him on foot, and He healed their sick. As it grew late in the day

MEMORY VERSE

"Ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times?"—Matthew 16:7.

The disciples came to Christ, saying the people were hungry and should be allowed to go to a village for food. "They need not depart," said Jesus, "give ye them to eat."

They said they only had five loaves and two fishes, but Christ told the multitudes to sit down, and he took the bread and fish, looked up to heaven, blessed and broke the bread and fishes, and gave them to the people, and all had enough to eat and there remained 12 full baskets. There were about 5,000 men, besides women and children.

The disciples were then told to get into a ship to go to the other side of the sea, and Jesus Himself went alone into a mountain to pray. Early in the morning, Christ came to the shore and saw the boat being tossed about by strong winds. The men had rowed all night and were exhausted, and under the circumstances the ship might capsize. Jesus went toward the ship, walking on the water.

Seeing this, the disciples thought He was a spirit and cried out in fear. Jesus' calm voice came to them across the tossing waves: "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid."

Convinced that it was indeed Christ, Peter asked to be allowed to go to Him walking on the water.

Two Big Spring Sextets Win In Local Tourney

Big Spring's Steerettes, upset in the first round of last year's meet, got off on the right foot in the 12th annual Big Spring girls' volleyball tournament here Thursday evening by churning past Pampa, 32-14.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

At least two basketball coaches in West Texas—one in the high school ranks and the other in college—are due to be pink-slipped this year.

A third was on the griddle until his team won the district championship recently.

Buck Francis, the Snyder writer, suggests that Nat Gleaton passed up the chance to send his Abilene Eagles against Snyder in basketball because of the risk of losing prestige.

Big Spring's Brick Johnson is running at guard again in spring football drills at Texas Tech. He was converted from a fullback last year.

Robert McLeod, who'll lead the Merkel Badgers against Ropesville in that 5-A-6-AA playoff game here next Tuesday night, is probably the highest scoring basketball player in the state of Texas.

I'm told he wants to go to college where he can play both football and basketball. Few athletes ever do that, anymore. If he has to do one or the other, he's apt to stick with basketball. He's supposed to be leaning toward Texas A&M.

Incidentally, Merkel and Ropesville, between them, lost only one game in regular season play. Merkel was 24-0 and Ropesville 23-1.

The superintendent of schools at Ropesville, who helped make the arrangements for the playoff here, is O. V. Fuller, who used to be in the Gay Hill, Center Point and Knott school systems.

Max Hood, the Lubbock high eger who is being pushed for all-state honors in some quarters, scored 30 fewer points than Big Spring's Jan Loudermilk in two more ball games.

Hood was active in 26 games, Jan in 24.

Billy Taegel, Plainview's high scoring guard, led District 3-AAAA in scoring although he ranked no better than eighth within the conference in field goals. Taegel was limited to 69 field goals in 12 conference games but accounted for 123 greater pitches.

When Don Faurot was head coach at Missouri, he always maintained that the split-T formation was superior to the belly series, which Big Spring used with great success back in 1933.

Now Missouri's head mentor is Frank Broyles, who Georgia Tech mentor Bobby Dodd says did much to perfect the belly play.

If the Southwestern baseball league operators are counting on touching Praxy A. J. Green for money regularly again this season, they may be disappointed.

Green reportedly is still in a bind for money and in no position to keep any club going. The Ballinger entry remains a big question mark, for that reason.

Al Milch, the head grid mentor here, says he prefers that his aides be identified as associate coaches rather than assistant mentors.

Kelly Chapman, the Tyler Junior College scoring phenom, is a native of Kentucky.

Basilio Favored To Keep Crown In Saxton Battle

By JACK HAND CLEVELAND (AP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio's slugging edge makes him a strong favorite to solve Johnny Saxton's hit-and-run style in their third title fight tonight.

O'Malley Says LA Will Make It By 1960

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles will have major league baseball "no later than 1960." So says Brooklyn Dodger President Walter F. O'Malley, one of baseball's better poker players currently dueling with the New York civic officialdom.

The pot: a new stadium in Flat-bush for the National League champions.

O'Malley predicted big league ball — not necessarily Dodger variety — for Los Angeles after yesterday's announcement of Brooklyn's purchase from the Chicago Cubs of the Los Angeles ball park and franchise in the Pacific Coast League.

O'Malley said the Dodgers presently plan to operate the Los Angeles team in the PCL. But he indicated again that the Dodgers may move out of Brooklyn.

"The Dodgers will play in a new park in 1960," he said, adding, "If not Brooklyn, then somewhere else."

The complicated deal whereby the Dodgers kicked wide the door to westward expansion of major league baseball worked this way: Brooklyn bought the Los Angeles ball park and franchise.

The Cubs received the Dodgers, Fort Worth franchise in the Texas League, but not the park or real estate. The Cubs will lease Fort Worth's LaGrave Field from Marvin Kratter, the real estate who recently bought Brooklyn's Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers will end their limited working agreement with Portland in the PCL, and Chicago may assume that agreement, said Cub President Philip K. Wrigley.

Financial figures of the wide-ranging deal were not disclosed. The transaction followed the Dodgers' recent sale of their Ebbets Field home, their Montreal (International League) and Fort Worth property for about $4,000,000.

Knott And Paint Rock To Play

KNOTT (SC) — Coach Bill Bolin has arranged a practice game between his girls' basketball team and Paint Rock, to be played in Sterling City next Tuesday night, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Knott is marking time for the first round of the regional playoffs. The Billies meet Merton in Sterling Tuesday week for the right to play in a tournament at Brownwood.

Paint Rock bowled over Sterling City, 45-6, in a practice game early in the season. Knott beat that club twice but not by such decisive scores.

FOR 6 P.M. GAME Jayhawks Invade HSU Saturday

Enheartened by a nine-point victory over Amarillo earlier in the week, the HCJC Jayhawks visit Abilene Saturday for a 6 o'clock engagement with the HSU Butters.

The Hawks, 18-7 for the season, own an 86-73 victory over the Abilene Baptists but are considerably weaker than they were at that time.

Two regulars, Charles Clark and Bobby Wardell, have departed the team along with such reserves as Tommy Black, Jerry Hodges and Buddy Mays.

Coach Harold Davis will probably start a lineup composed of Al Kloten, Mike Powell, Stan Williams, Larry Gore and Johnnie Watson.

Alvin Cochran, Wick Pickett and Max McCulloch must be ready for relief chores. All distinguished themselves in the Amarillo contest recently.

Clarendon's Bulldogs Win Over Phillips, 78 To 71

CLARENDON (SC) — Buddy Travis' Clarendon Junior College moved into a position to finish in a tie for first place in West Zone basketball standings by decision-making Frank Phillips Junior College, 78-71, here Thursday night.

By beating Amarillo here Monday night, the Bulldogs can deadlock the Plainsmen for first place. Should Clarendon lose to the Badgers, however, they will tie Amarillo and the winner in the HCJC-Odessa game for second place.

Frank Phillips now has a 5-3 won-lost record in the zone and has finished its regular season. Clarendon is 4-3.

The first two clubs in the standings earn the right to compete in

Texas League Is Due To Approve Transfer

FORT WORTH (AP) — Exchange of the Fort Worth and Los Angeles baseball franchises was expected to receive the approval of the Texas League today.

President Dick Butler was polling the league with a three-fourths vote necessary if a deal, announced yesterday, whereby the Chicago Cubs would take Fort Worth for their farm club in exchange for Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League, is to go through.

The Cubs made the deal with the Brooklyn Dodgers, who owned the Fort Worth franchise. The Cubs sold Wrigley Field in Los Angeles to the Dodgers in a move that baseball men said indicated the Dodgers planned to leave Brooklyn and place their National League franchise in the West Coast city. The Dodgers have been trying to get Brooklyn to build them a new ball park.

At the same time, Marvin Kratter, New York real estate investor who previously had bought Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, purchased La Grava Field, home of the Fort Worth Texas League club. He will lease it to the Cubs for the operation of the franchise that shifts here from Los Angeles.

Butler said five votes were needed for the Texas League to approve the transfer. Fort Worth won't be able to vote and five of the other seven members of the league will constitute a three-fourths margin.

Indicating that the Texas League will approve the transfer, Warner Lewis, general manager of Dallas, said he had already voted for the transfer. Other votes were not revealed. In fact, some may have not yet been made. Several Texas League franchises are owned by Big League clubs and the latter must cast the votes.

"As long as the change substituted one strong entry for another, we had no objections," Lewis said. "I doubt that any Texas League club will oppose the move."

The Pacific Coast League also must approve the transfer and some Texas League officials wondered if it would be given since the Pacific Coast League wouldn't want to lose Los Angeles as a member. The Pacific Coast League will meet next week to consider the matter.

But if the deal goes through there will be few changes in the operation of the Fort Worth club. Spencer Harris, who has been the Dodgers' president of the local club, has been continued in this capacity by the Cubs. Harris also said he was retaining the same staff.

Palmer Out Front In Houston Open

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Young Arnold Palmer, who says his golf is getting better all the time, led the $36,000 Houston Open into its second round today but knew that just one slip could drop him like a rock.

The 27-year-old ex-national amateur champion from Latrobe, Pa., took over when the favorites faltered yesterday to whip out a 5-under-par 67 for a 1-stroke lead. But the margin was too narrow for him to become overconfident.

Only two strokes separate nine players at the top. Among those just one stroke away are Jimmie Demaret, Doug Ford and Peter Thomson.

The 7,200-yard Memorial Park course — longest on the winter tour — wasn't so tough as 28 of the field of 158 starting the 72-hole grind bettered par. But two of the favorites — Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., and Cary Middlecoff of Dallas — had their troubles. Hebert, winner of the Texas Open last weekend, took a 73 while Middlecoff, the National Open champion, complaining that he couldn't buy a birdie all day, soared to a 74.

Palmer, a professional just three years and already a major winner — he won the Eastern Open last year and only last weekend tied for third in the Texas Open.

Uncle Ray: Howe Became Bitter After Death Of Wife

BY RAMON COFFMAN
Returning from England after two years abroad, Elias Howe was poorer than he had been before. He landed with nothing in his pocket but a British coin worth half a dollar!
Even worse was the ill health of his devoted wife, who had fallen ill with tuberculosis. She died in Cambridge, Mass., soon after the return voyage.
The death of his wife filled Howe with bitterness. He had been a man with a sunny, hopeful nature, but now he felt that the world had given him bad treatment.
Howe soon learned that various persons had started to make sewing machines while he was abroad. He studied several of their machines, and saw that they used features which were covered by his patent.

Isaac Singer watching woman work on his first sewing machine.

During his thirties, Howe started one lawsuit after another. Some of the makers of sewing machines had been skillful in selling them. One court after another supported Howe, and he was given judgments which piled money in the bank for him.

One company was known as Singer and Clark. Isaac Singer, senior partner in the concern, had improved on the work of Howe, using a more (other things) an up-and-down needle, instead of the Howe crosswise needle. The Singer machine was moved by a foot tread, or treadle, instead of with the hand crank which had been employed by Howe.

Singer and Clark paid Howe $15,000 in settlement for the use of the Howe patent up to a certain date. That was a help to Howe, but far more important was the fact that Edward Clark, partner of Singer, was a farsighted lawyer. He felt that the sewing machine had a big future.
Thanks largely to Clark's work, several companies pooled their patents. Each had one good idea or another to add to the early sewing machines.
The pool was a success. Both Howe and Singer were wealthy when they died. Singer, however, became much richer, leaving an estate of 13 million dollars.

Approximately $5,000 were taken in from the magazine sale contest which ended last week. About 25 per cent of this will be put in the treasury for use in next year's program and activities. The P-TA committee members met with the principal, Tom Ernest, yesterday to discuss the annual gift that the P-TA presents to the junior high as a reward for the magazine sales. This was our record year. Mr. Ernest said "we have the finest group of pupils in any school anywhere."

Our freshman of the week is Luan Lawson. Luan was selected district P-TA reporter in her home-making club. She also was elected at the first of the year as FFA sweetheart. She belongs to the First Methodist Church and takes part in many of its activities. She is a three-year Tri-Hi-Y member and served as its historian, her and served as its historian, she also is in the junior high choir. She was secretary of the eighth grade class and was a cheer leader that year. For all three years in junior high she has worked in the principal's office during her study hall period. She is a member of the Rainbow order and is a good student.
