TYLER (AP) — Mrs. Autherine Lucy Foster, whose stormy attendance at the University of Alabama ended in expulsion, apparently could look forward today to smoother going at the University of Texas.

She said in an interview yesterday she would enter the University of Texas next September to study library science.

At Austin, a University of Texas spokesman said he didn't know of any legal requirements which would keep Mrs. Foster from registering. He said the university now allows Negroes in both graduate and undergraduate schools.

Report Shows Bruce Opposed To Sale Of U. S. Surplus Crops

WASHINGTON (AP) — David K. E. Bruce, ambassador-designate to West Germany, says the program for sale of surplus U.S. farm commodities to foreign countries is "potentially dangerous" to normal trade and should be re-examined. In a report published today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Bruce called the disposal program "a double-edged weapon" of foreign aid. The report, on foreign aid operations in South America, is one of a series ordered by the committee.

President Eisenhower's appointment of Bruce, a Democrat, already has drawn some Republican protests.

His comments on the surplus disposal program may add to the controversy over his selection. Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), a member of both the Foreign Relations and Agriculture committees, has labeled the report as "weak."

Aiken said in an interview that while Bruce made no specific recommendations for abandoning the agricultural surplus disposal program "his report reads like he wants to kill it."

"I'm one who thinks this program is worth all it costs us and is less expensive than piling up unmanageable farm surpluses at home," Aiken declared.

Under the program, the United States sells farm surpluses for local currencies and then loans or gives the major part of these receipts to the local governments for economic or military projects.

Bruce said in his report that while the program has many benefits for both this country and the purchasing country, it also could be dangerous to normal patterns of trade, and to the ability of participating countries to discharge other indebtedness.

"Under wise administration, it can do much to alleviate the unfortunate effects of food shortages in other countries," he said. "If used in dumping operations, it can destroy existing and normal patterns of trade beyond repair, and discourage multilateral exchanges of goods."

In discussing foreign aid generally, Bruce said he found "little merit in sponsoring a financially dubious program . . . for its supposed political effect in the borrowing country."

"Nor is it believed that aid should be extended merely in an effort to meet foreign, and especially Soviet, competition," he said.

Guided Missiles Expert Faces Trial For Releasing Secrets

ATLANTA (AP) — A 41-year-old expert on guided missiles at the Army's Redstone Arsenal near Huntsville, Ala., has been ordered by court-martial on charges he released secret information to unauthorized persons.

Trial of Col. John Nickerson, Jr., a 1938 graduate of West Point, is expected to begin within six weeks at Redstone Arsenal, where he is now restricted to the reservation.

Under Article 134, one specification alleged Nickerson sent three "secret" documents to Erik Bergaust, editor, Missiles and Rockets magazine, Washington, D.C., "a person not entitled to receive such documents and the secret information contained therein."

Two other specifications under Article 134 alleged Nickerson "wrongfully and unlawfully" said under oath he had nothing to do with getting a copy of a document entitled "Considerations of the Wilson Memorandum" to Drew Pearson, a columnist, and that he did not believe he gave a copy of the same document to John A. Baughman of the Radio Corp. of America.

Among the 15 specifications under Article 92 was one alleging fully caused the reproduction of a document containing classified defense information, the unlawful distribution of secret documents to unauthorized persons not in the military service, failed to safeguard secret defense information and that he was guilty of other acts prejudicial to good order and discipline in the armed forces.

Nickerson sent four documents containing secret defense information to William F. Hunt of the Reynolds Metals Co.

At Huntsville, Robert K. Bell, a civilian attorney for Nickerson, said that "the full facts regardless of whom it involves will be brought to light" during the trial. "We . . . feel that when the facts become known," he added "Col. Nickerson will appear in an entirely different light."

College Survey Shows Cheating Is The Custom

CHICAGO (AP)—A survey of American college students indicated today that "systematic cheating on examinations is the custom rather than the exception" at many large colleges.
The survey, conducted by Philip E. Jacob, social science professor at the University of Pennsylvania, was prepared for delivery to the 12th National Conference on Higher Education.
In contrast to what the report called "generally low standards in regard to academic honesty" were findings about college students' standards of sexual morality.
"Despite the boldness of college talk, dress and outward social conduct," it said, "... in personal practice and fundamental belief students generally hold to standards which are thoroughly conventional."

Jacob cited two specific studies which he said "point up the prevailing student code of sex morality."
At the University of Chicago "an intimate discussion of moral issues with a group of freshman women showed that the girls... were more orthodox than was attributed to them by their fellow students and that talk may be more libertarian at a place like Chicago than practice."
At Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., "students by and large... attached little importance to chastity as a criterion for choosing a mate, yet few of them would justify a life of promiscuity." The majority "evidently found the canons of chastity appropriate to govern their personal lives."

Jacob's study inquired into what influence colleges and universities have on students' social, moral and religious values.
The answer, he said, is that "for the most part" they seem to have no influence at all.
"The main over-all effect of higher education upon student values," he said, "is to bring about conformity to a body of standards and attitudes of the college-bred man or woman of the American culture."
Although the "intellectual, cultural or moral climate of some institutions stands out," Jacob said, most colleges "will have to learn how to... salvage the most essential product of a liberal education—students who know what they value and why."
Although students generally seemed to profess reasonably high values, Jacob said, "it is with regard to cheating that the chinks in the moral armor of American students are most obvious."
"The situation varies greatly among institutions," he added, "but the practice is so widespread as to challenge the well-nigh universal claim of students that they value honesty as a moral virtue."

Foreign Service Men Face Probe
WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert Morris, counsel to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, said the group has asked the State Department to call two Foreign Service officers back from overseas for questioning.
Morris said Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) told the State Department he wants to question them and another Foreign Service officer now in Washington "regarding family intelligence reports helpful to the Communists in the past."

U. S. Makes Plans To Resume Aid Plans In Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials are making plans to unfreeze U.S. aid to the embattled Middle East area this month in a further effort to restore tranquility there.
All aid programs in the immediate area were necessarily suspended last fall when the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt forced the recall of 199 foreign aid officials, together with their families, to avoid injury. That left nobody in the area to administer the aid programs under way in Israel, Egypt and Lebanon.
Officials said today orders to return their posts will go out to

Daily Average Oil Production Falls

TULSA (AP)—Daily average oil production fell 34,400 barrels to 7,531,975 during the week ended March 2, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.
The Journal estimated 1957 production at 455,037,550 barrels compared to 446,759,832 a year ago.
Oklahoma was off 1,150 to 459,956 barrels; Colorado, off 650 to 158,359; Louisiana, up 1,500 to 977,500; and New Mexico, up 50 to 258,275.

Agriculture Department Says Farm Income Is Up 4 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm income the way the Agriculture Department figures it totaled $11,836,000,000 last year, an increase of 4 per cent over the 1955 income of $11,340,000,000.
But by the way some others figure it—including some Eisenhower administration farm critics—it was $11,586,000,000 or eight-tenths of 1 per cent below the 1955 estimate of $11,680,000,000.
Both sets of figures were disclosed in the department's final report today on farmers' financial returns in 1956.
The department computes farmers' net income on the basis of the amount of money farmers have left from products sold and consumed after paying production expenses. Some others, including Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), contend it should be figured on the basis of the net value of actual output during the year.
The department's estimate of 1956 income runs higher than the other because it included 250 million dollars worth of crops and livestock which the farmers sold last year from previous years' accumulations.
The record high net income—on the department's basis—was $17,191,000,000 in 1947. On the other basis the record was $17,695,000,000 in 1948.
Humphrey recently contended the department was trying to make farm income look better than it was for political reasons.
The total income of the farm population—including farm wages changes in inventories of crops and livestock, returns of farm operators from farming, and money received from nonfarm sources, such as investments—was reported at $19,784,000,000.
This was an increase of about these 199 experts sometime this month—presumably as soon as Israeli troops complete withdrawal from Gaza and Sharm el Sheikh, and the last sunken ship is cleared from the channel of the Suez Canal.

Congress has appropriated 750 million dollars for military and economic aid in the Middle East during the fiscal year ending next June 30. President Eisenhower has an additional 100 million dollars to use as he sees fit.
Awaiting congressional approval is Eisenhower's request for a freer hand in spending 200 million of available funds in the area.
American officials expect the Israeli withdrawal to be swift. Likewise, they look for clearing of the Suez Canal by mid-March.
United Nations officials are negotiating with Egyptian President Nasser on some sort of interim operation of the canal pending a permanent agreement on canal tolls and other problems.
Israel has pending a request for U.S. arms, as well as an application for a 75-million-dollar Export-Import Bank loan for irrigation. Syria, which U.S. officials consider pro-Moscow, gets no U.S. aid of any kind and has been offered none.
No problem is seen in resumption of aid programs in Lebanon, with which the United States has had close ties.

Egypt had been getting farm surplus products and some technical aid, but with reference to new funds Secretary of State Dulles told a Senate committee, "We have no present plans for giving economic help to Egypt."
And he said too that "we are not contemplating picking up that tab" when asked if the United States might pay Jordan the 35-million-dollar subsidy on which it had subsisted until the British withdrew it. Other Arab countries have offered to provide the subsidy. But Dulles indicated the administration was thinking about providing some sort of economic aid to Jordan.

IF Officers, Directors Re-Elected

Three officers and five directors were re-elected by the Big Spring Industrial Foundation Monday afternoon. One man was added to the official staff.

Wayne B. Smith, Chamber of Commerce manager, was named secretary of the foundation. J. H. Greene, formerly secretary-treasurer, was re-elected to the treasurer's post.

Leroy Tidwell was re-elected to the presidency and Marvin Miller was returned to office of vice president.

Directors re-elected for three-year terms were Elmer Tarbox, Dr. R. B. G. Cowper, Truman Jones, Clyde McMahon and Tidwell. They make up a third of the board. Five are chosen each year for three-year terms.

The officers' terms are for one year.

The board decided during its session following the election that membership contributions to the Industrial Foundation will be returned to donors in case the current campaign for funds is unsuccessful to the extent that an industrial tract cannot be purchased.

Greene told the group that approximately $22,500 has been raised toward a goal of $50,000. This includes $14,730 in cash, the balance in pledges.

The foundation must raise at least $38,600 by March 20 if it is to exercise option it holds to purchase a 193-acre industrial tract east of the city.

Story Of 'The Valiant'

Norman Sant, (center), as the condemned prisoner, James Dyke, tells the prison chaplain (Richard DeVente) that he is an orphan and has no sister—that the girl outside waiting to see him is a fake—but the warden (Lt. Don Walsh) has reason to suspect that Dyke is lying to protect someone he loves.

Civic Theatre Unit To Stage 'Valiant'

The Big Spring Civic Theatre is rehearsing and will present early this spring the one-act play, "Valiant."

Cautious and bent on releasing to the public only such scripts and performances as meet the approval of their own highly critical organization, the theatre group put the cast through a typical Broadway "preview" in the Colonial Room of the Howard House last week.

T. Sgt. Dewey Magee, one of the Civic Theatre's leading performers, said after the performance: "They are good; but they need just a little polishing up—then they'll be ready for the road and nobody will need to apologize for them."

The story centers around a condemned murderer, who insists that his name is James Dyke and that he has no people, anywhere. The warden (Lt. Don Walsh) and the prison chaplain (A-IC, Richard DeVente) do not accept Dyke's story.

A. I. C. Norman Sant who plays the role of Dyke, the condemned murderer, wins and keeps, the hearts of the audience with his noble pretense. The censors say that the killer must die, and although the author keeps faith with the tradition, he drives home the point that cowards die a thousand times—the valiant only once.

Janet Gonsoulin plays opposite Sant, as his sister, and Mat Bertolini is the hard-boiled prison guard.

Lt. Bob Grew announced that the election for new officers will be held on March 21.

A special guest of the group was Bernie Coughlin, of the Lions Club which sponsored the ticket sales

Jurors Unable To Agree On DWI Evidence

A jury in 118th District Court spent nearly five hours Monday evening deliberating on the fate of Troy Allen Melton, charged with DWI second offense, before it reported to Judge Charlie Sullivan that it was hopelessly deadlocked.

The jury began deliberations on the case at 5 p.m. At 9:45 p.m. it notified the court that it could not agree. Judge Sullivan checked the jury and when he was convinced there was no chance of it reaching a verdict, he excused it and entered a mistrial in the case. The jury was divided eight and four, it was reported.

Melton was the first defendant to come to trial before Judge Sullivan at the current criminal jury docket which opened at 10 a.m. Monday. A jury was selected at noon and the afternoon was consumed in the presentation of evidence by state and defense. Arguments ended at 5 p.m.

Melton was arrested last November on West Fourth Street by city police who testified they saw his car going in the wrong direction on a one-way thoroughfare. The arrest was made around 2 a.m.

Gulford Jones handled the prosecution and Clyde Thomas was attorney for the defense.

Two pleas of guilty were accepted by Judge Sullivan when court reconvened after the noon recess. L. E. McPherson, charged with forgery, admitted the charge against him. The court sentenced him to serve three years in the state penitentiary.

Manuel Chaidex pleaded guilty to an indictment charging assault with intent to murder. He asked for leniency and was granted a three-year suspended sentence.

Bunnies Wondering Where Mates Went

Last Saturday the pastured land south of Vealmoor was literally crawling with rabbits. Now they have all but disappeared, as a few lonely bunnies hop across the prairie wondering where their companions went.

The big hunt Saturday netted close to 5,000 rabbits, according to T. A. Norman, who helped sponsor the event. Around 175 hunters showed up early in the morning, and by the time the barbecue was being dished up, two or three more dozen had arrived.

Although the hunters covered 14 or 15 sections of the brushless pastures. And because the country is so flat and open, only a very few bunnies were lucky enough to escape the wall of gunfire. Norman said most of the rabbits were found in places where green grass was coming up, and also along the edge of the small grain fields.

Hunters not only mowed down rabbits, but a few skunks and one fox were killed. One coyote was known to be staying in a pasture, but somehow he managed to escape before the hunt reached his hiding place.

Rabbit hunting is sport for most people, Norman said, but for the farmers and ranchers who must feed several thousand of the critters, it is a means of saving grass and crops.

Ordinarily rabbits don't bother cotton where there is plenty of grass in the pastures, but the last three years have brought them into the cotton fields, especially along the fence rows.

Norman says that he and Ralph Proctor have lost an average of 10 or 15 bales apiece the last two years to rabbits. He agrees with a theory advanced by a government trapper recently, that rabbits don't actually eat cotton, but cut down the tender stalks to get a drink. When a stalk is nipped off, a drop of watery sap forms on the remaining stub. The rabbit cuts down a dozen or so stalks then walks back and forth from one to the other getting those drops of water.

The cost of feeding Saturday's crowd amounted to about $150, and will be divided among seven or eight farmers.

"It was mighty cheap at that," Norman said, "and we are very grateful to the hunters who helped us out. Not many rabbits are left in this area, so I don't think we'll have any trouble with them the rest of the year."

Twenty-three candidates Tuesday were officially in the race to determine the next U.S. senator from Texas.

Secretary of State Zolle Steakley certified two Republicans and 21 Democrats for the April 2 special election which will see the top vote getter—under present rules—named to the spot formerly held by Gov. Price Daniel.

Interim U.S. Sen. William A. Blakley was asked by friends to run, but he refused.

He was appointed temporarily by former Gov. Allan Shivers.

Steakley said six other applicants were turned down because they either filed by telegram or did not supply the correct information.

They are: Leland M. Johnson, Dallas attorney; Lewis B. Foster, Dallas public relations man; Virgil E. Arnold, Houston attorney; Oakley H. Pierce, of Justin; George H. Hunt of Vernon; and W. W. (Wally) Franks of Houston. The candidates certified were in alphabetical order, Steakley said, because "it was the only fair way." He said there is no law covering placing of names on a ballot for a special election.

He said counties could draw lots for placing names on the ballots if done in open drawings "according to custom."

The two Republicans are Thad Hutcherson, Houston attorney who has the backing of the state party and H. J. Antoine Sr., Bastrop real estate dealer.

President Eisenhower also is backing Hutcherson.

Antoine said he is running as an independent Republican.

Election of a Republican could affect the present Democratic leadership in the U.S. Senate. At the present time, there are 47 Republicans and 49 Democrats. A 48-48 tie could be broken by Vice President Nixon.

The Democrats are represented by five well-known candidates and others. The best known are Ralph Yarborough, former Travis County district judge and three-time losing candidate for governor;

Queen, Prince Upset Show

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth spent a lighthearted two hours last night watching Prince Philip upset the pomp of a royal visit and laughing at her husband's jokes.

It was the opening of Britain's annual Ideal Home Exhibition, a show of household goods and gadgets. But instead of the formal inspection and polite chit-chat arranged for the royal couple, the Prince insisted on poking behind the scenes and upsetting the show.

Guided to a new kitchen exhibit, he darted behind the slick show-front and found the place in a mess.

"Darling," he purred to the Queen, "I'm glad other cooks are as untidy as we are."

One exhibit the royal couple obviously enjoyed was a demonstration of a new potato peeler by a salesman with a fast line of patter. He wisecracked with the Prince about the product, then held up the gadget and announced: "Just the thing for the wife!"

The prince and "the wife" laughed delightedly.

Charge Prepared In Ramsour Trial

EDINBURG (AP)—Judge H. A. Garcia was preparing today his charge to the jury in the murder trial of former Edinburg Peace Justice Loy Ramsour.

Testimony ended yesterday. Ramsour, 37, was charged with murder in the shooting of his son-in-law, Walter Benson, 41, of Pharr on April 29, 1956.

Mrs. James Comerford testified Ramsour told her in August 1955 that he was going to kill Benson. She said Ramsour told her Benson was shirking his responsibility.

Mrs. Comerford noted Ramsour as saying, "I've thought it over and I've decided to kill the s.o.b."

Ramsour testified during the trial that he shot Benson in self-defense during a scuffle after a family argument.

Voodoo Kit Sellers Hit Postal Snag

WASHINGTON (AP)—Distributors of a do-it-yourself voodoo kit have promised the Post Office Department not to offer the kit by mail.

In turn, the department dropped an inquiry into whether Swangren's, of Lombard, Ill., was fraudulently advertising the kit—which includes a witch doctor's pouch, straw doll, voodoo needles and "secret incantations."

A department spokesman said attention was drawn to the item by advertisements directed at "the man who has everything."

The distributor said the kit is "strictly a party gag," but promised not to use the mails to advertise or distribute it.

Medic Leaves Good Advice For Family

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A courageous young doctor who was the first to diagnose the leukemia which caused his death a year ago today has left a spoken heritage for his children.

Nine tape recordings made by Dr. Loy Judd Jr. during periods when he seemed to be recovering from the disease were released yesterday. They were directed to his children, Jacquie Ann, 9, and Loy III, 5.

They cover subjects ranging from safe driving — "There have been more people killed driving cars than in all the wars of man" — to his chosen profession — "If you place personal problems ahead of the life of your patient, get out of medicine; it has no place for you, or you for it."

Judd awoke one April morning in 1955 with puffy gums and swollen salivary glands. The next day he ran a blood test at the clinic he and Dr. John G. Rollins shared in Prague, a small town in central Oklahoma. The test showed leukemia.

There followed months of tests and treatment at the Oklahoma Medical Research Center here during which Dr. Judd offered himself as a human "guinea pig." Various injections brought temporary periods of progress, but the experiments failed finally on March 5, 1956, when he was 33.

In the taped recording on medicine, Judd asked of prospective medical students, including his two children:

"Are you willing to get out of a warm bed in the middle of the night when you desperately need rest, drive 20 miles knowing that you will not be paid to see someone you know can await morning and the completion of your rest? If you can answer yes to this, I feel you are qualified to start the study of medicine."

Near the end of this recording, Judd said, "I would not trade the five years I have been in medicine to be rid of leukemia, and there is a fair chance that (my) leukemia resulted from the practice of medicine."

Minister Saves Daughter's Killer From Execution

DALLAS (AP)—Wesley Allen, 17, of Arlington was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge of murder in the fatal shooting of his 15-year-old estranged girl friend.

The girl, Linda Carroll Housewright, was shot to death last Dec. 21.

The youth's statement to officers and previous accounts of the events leading to the shooting indicated the Housewright girl and Cox had dated but she had broken off their relationship.

The slain girl's father, The Rev. A. R. Housewright, took the stand to recommend that the youth be given a life term rather than the death penalty.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade also recommended a life sentence.

The Rev. Housewright said he had discussed the case with his wife and Wade and he and his wife felt the youth should not be given a death penalty.

Gems Disappear From Station

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The disappearance of a heavy trunk and its expensive cargo of wholesale jewelry from a railroad station left police with hardly a lead to follow today.

The wholesale value of the merchandise was placed at $40,000 to $50,000 by Fred J. Cannon, a 62-year-old jewelry salesman for the Cannon-Schaefer agency in Los Angeles.

The 186-pound green, reinforced fabric trunk was reported missing by Cannon yesterday from the downtown Southern Pacific baggage room.

Follett Bank Thug Held At Amarillo

FOLLETT, Tex. (AP)—A lone bandit held up the Follett National Bank as it opened for business yesterday and escaped with $21,420 in cash. He was captured at a roadblock a short time later in Perryton, 40 miles west of this Panhandle community.

Police identified him as John Cranford, 24, an oilfield roughneck from Pampa, who told newsmen he was the father of four. He was jailed at Amarillo.

FBI Agent Ralph Perryman of Amarillo said the money was recovered at the post office at Darrouzette between Follett and Perryton. Cranford told officers he mailed the money and the clothes he was wearing while fleeing.

"I was hoping for a break for the last five years," Cranford said. "One didn't come my way so I tried to make one."

Bank officials reconstructed the holdup this way:

Bookkeeper Walter Frazier opened the bank shortly after 9 a.m. and was accosted by a gunman who kept him covered with a pistol until cashier Max Robertson arrived a few minutes later, and was forced to open the vault and safe.

The gunman scooped up all the cash in sight and forced Frazier and Robertson in the vault. They got out a few minutes later.

Cranford was arrested after changing clothes and getting past one roadblock, officers said.

"I was scared sick," he said. "When I made that first roadblock I thought I could make the second."

"I didn't want to hurt any of them (the bank employees). That's why I didn't lock the safe. I was afraid they would suffocate."

Asked by Loy Gould of the Amarillo Daily News about the hold-up, Cranford said, "You know how it is—every time you go to a post box you find bills. When you've got four kids you would do almost anything for them."

Perryman said officers were trying to determine whether the case was a state or federal case.

Follett is 8 miles from the Oklahoma border.
