Tourist Victims

Joseph Michel, 70, and traveling companion Mrs. Edith Hallock, 65, New Yorkers missing in Mexico since Feb. 20, appeared together in this picture aboard a cruise ship last year. The unidentified bodies of a man and a woman were reported found on a remote beach north of the Mexican resort city of Acapulco, where the couple had been staying prior to their disappearance.

Police Seek Body Of Slain Tourist

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Police searched Acapulco Harbor today for a floating body believed to be that of a wealthy Brooklyn widow. She and a New York attorney were slain and robbed after he had put up a desperate fight for their lives.

The body was sighted shortly after midnight, but rough water prevented its recovery.

The victims of the murder-robbery plot were Mrs. Edith Hallock, 65, and her traveling companion, Joseph A. Michel, 70, who disappeared Feb. 20.

Police said a tourist agent, Luis Fenton, 33, and an unemployed boatman, Daniel Rios Osuna, 38, had confessed during the couple's death during a nighttime boat ride, robbing them of $70,000 in cash and jewelry and dumping their weighted bodies from a boat into the sea.

Divers yesterday were unable to find the bodies.

One diver, Apolonio Castillo, 35, internationally famed swimmer, was injured when an oxygen tank burst and died early today in naval hospital. He had suffered a severe case of the bends.

Mrs. Hallock's jewels, or most of them, have been found hidden in the Acapulco garden of Fenton's brother-in-law.

Rios Osuna gave newsmen their first full account of the double killing. It varied from his original version that both victims succumbed to blows without resistance.

The burly, illiterate boatman, father of five children, said he had joined Fenton in the scheme because he did not make enough to feed his family. He worked as a handyman for Fenton and helped him conduct skin diving classes.

"Fenton promised me 50,000 pesos ($4,000)," Rios Osuna said. He charged that the tourist agent had actually "finished off" Michel and Mrs. Hallock.

"He made me the proposition a couple of days before," the boatman said, "and gave me money to buy a baseball bat and chains."

He continued: "We rented a boat from Fenton's father. The two old folks met us at Manzanillo Beach. They arrived in a taxi. They sat at the bow and Fenton sat there talking with them."

"Then he gave me the signal — he lit a lantern and then put out the flames. I sneaked up and hit the woman with the bat. She crumpled right away."

"I hit the man and he fell, but he got up and began struggling with me. Then Fenton pinned his arms back and I gave him another blow and he dropped."

"Fenton hit each of them three times with the chains. That finished them off. Blood was spread all over the bottom of the boat."

LATE BULLETIN

CAIRO (AP)—The government announced today "Egyptian administration will take over responsibility for Gaza immediately." Gen. Hassan Abdel Latif was appointed governor of Gaza and directed to take over his duties at once.

Nasser May Defy World Court On Israel Shipping

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser says he is not sure whether he will abide by any World Court ruling which would allow Israeli ships to pass through the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Nasser's views appeared in a Cairo newspaper even as Israel announced she would ignore any World Court decisions on cases brought up by the Arab states. Israel's official gazette carried this statement over the signature of Foreign Minister Golda Meir. The Nasser interview, which originally appeared in the Indian weekly Blitz, conflicted with earlier reports that Egypt would be willing to let the international tribunal decide whether the Tiran Strait and Gulf of Aqaba are international or territorial waters. Such a ruling would decide Israel's right of access to the south Israeli port of Eilat.

SEATO Conference Sets Opening Today

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—The SEATO Council of Ministers opened its third annual meeting today to intensify the eight-nation alliance's fight against Communist political and economic subversion in Southeast Asia.

Representatives of the United States, Australia, Britain, France, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan met in the green-carpeted House of Representatives chamber of Australia's Parliament Building for the three-day conference.

The council, top policy-making body of the alliance formed in 1954, was expected to:

1. Recommend that member nations keep their military forces up to present strength and intensify measures to safeguard their internal security.
2. Lay plans to keep free Asian nations from linking their economies closer to the Communist bloc.
3. Initiate a multilateral cultural program to promote mutual understanding among the member nations.

Council sources said Communist tactics in the area have been shifting in the past year from a threat of armed aggression to a wide program of political, economic and other penetration. A major Red aim is the promotion of neutralism.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles told the council it could "confidently conclude . . . that international communism now imposed upon many of the peoples of Asia is a passing and not a permanent phase."

But Red Chinese support of Southeast and Eastern Asia, Dulles said unity and strength are being developed in South Viet Nam but a serious problem remains in Laos, where "communism continues to support the Pathet Lao insurgents."

He reported "growing strength" in South Korea, Japan and Nationalist China, which are outside SEATO but connected with it through their collective defense treaties with the United States. Dulles also pointed out that the Federation of Malaya soon is to achieve independence from Britain and said "amiable and fruitful discussions are now in progress" regarding the future of Singapore.

Revolt-Torn Java Regime To Step Down

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The government of Indonesia, beset by a rash of bloodless rebellions and a financial crisis, has decided to resign on Wednesday, high government sources said today.

The informants said the decision was made after a meeting of the five parties which make up Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo's coalition government.

South Sumatra joined the spreading revolt Saturday. Lt. Col. Barlian, another of Indonesia's restless young army leaders, blasted the Sastroamidjojo government as being "slow" and "incompetent." The Sastroamidjojo-appointed governor fled to Java, it was reported.

The latest revolt caused open concern among Jakarta officials already trying to cope with rebellious groups who have seized power in central Sumatra, much of that island's northern sector and the islands of East Indonesia.

There were warnings of new defections as the sprawling nation of 80 millions waited tensely to see whether President Sukarno would carry out his controversial plan to bring Communists into the government. The rebel leaders still generally promised allegiance to Sukarno, although they demanded an end to the government of Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo.

Rumblings of discontent came from Borneo, world's third largest island and least explored territory in the 3,000-mile archipelago.

Local sources said the only thing that has delayed an outright coup in Borneo has been a political squabble among island officials. As the Jakarta government's authority shrunk to a small remaining part of north Sumatra, tottering Borneo and Java itself, word spread that the Cabinet would hold an emergency session Wednesday.

Informants said Sukarno might offer some compromise to his "guided democracy" plan which would permit him to save his own face and yet satisfy the rapidly uniting bloc of anti-Communist forces throughout the republic.

The southern provinces of Indonesia's richest island — Sumatra — withdrew their support from the central government Saturday night.

Another of Indonesia's restless young colonels headed the latest bloodless coup — fourth in 2 1/2 months — ostensibly incited by the slowness of the central government in instituting new reforms to help the outlying islands. Lt. Col. Barlian, heading the new south Sumatra junta, blasted the Java government for being "too slow" in recognizing the island's difficulties.

In each of the four revolts, rebel leaders have accused the central government of draining the bulk of their areas' incomes from exports to spend the proceeds in Java.

PRINTS? NOT EVEN HIS OWN

The city detective overlooked something when he finished his investigation of the Big Spring Hardware burglary this morning.

Detective Leo Hull investigated the burglary looking for fingerprints, footprints, and other clues that could lead to the capture of the culprit.

He did not come back with any fingerprints since the men used gloves. When he returned to the police station, he felt that there was something else that he didn't come back with. He was right; he left the fingerprint kit at the store.

Warming Trend, Showers For U.S.

By The Associated Press

Much higher temperatures and fair to partly cloudy skies and the outlook for the entire East Coast today while an active low pressure area caused thundershowers and strong winds in the central portion of the country and brought warmer weather from the Great Lakes to the middle Gulf Coast.

Considerable cloudiness, and thundershowers were forecast for the Mississippi Valley and showers and thundershowers were in the works from the Great Lakes southward to the Gulf.

Showers and cooling were expected across the Central and Northern Plains and showers and thundershowers were to sprinkle the eastern Dakotas and the Southern Plains states.

Attack Fails

HOUSTON (AP)—Police sought today a thug who attempted to attack a girl, 6, as she lay asleep in her bed. Investigators said the man broke into the home and attempted to hit the girl out of bed. He fled when she screamed, awakening her brother, 15, asleep in a nearby room.

Doomed Doctor Feels He's Lucky To Know

By EVERETT S. ALLEN
New Bedford Standard Times

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—"Illness forces me to discontinue the practice of medicine. I regret to leave my most enjoyable work."

It was Dr. Philip F. Fortin, general practitioner, speaking. A fellow doctor had just confirmed his own diagnosis. He had cancer, a primary inoperable cancer of the liver.

"That's what he said. How does he feel?"

"I feel I am luckier than the fellow wiped out in the split second of an auto accident. I am more fortunate than the thrombosis victim found dead in bed."

"I have time for reflecting, for philosophizing, for placing in order those things which always require doing in anyone's busy life."

"I also have an opportunity to extend a few encouraging remarks to the other fellow, who may now or tomorrow be experiencing something similar."

Dr. Fortin has spent 24 of his 50 years as a general practitioner, so it is only natural that most of his reflections concern the family doctor, the general practitioner he calls "the vanishing American."

He views with increasing concern the decline in numbers and apparent importance of the general practitioner and his replacement by a specialist, particularly in hospitals. He believes Americans "are not getting the best medicine in the world" because of an overemphasis on specialization.

"The future of the medical profession," he says, "rests not in the production of more doctors but in the production of more general practitioners, dedicated to the profession, who will be given full privileges in hospitals, according to their ability, training and results, with no artificial barriers."

He believes some hospitals have erected these "artificial barriers" against the GP with regulations that require the general practitioner to call in a consultant specialist because certain arbitrarily selected circumstances exist and not necessarily because the GP feels the need of doing so.

"At the hospital, the specialist increasingly is taking over more and more phases of patient care. But as soon as the patient leaves the hospital, or very soon after, the family doctor must take over again."

"The family doctor knows, or should know, all of those non-medical facts which make this patient different from any other and the knowledge of which is so vital in bringing about quick and complete recovery."

Because isotopes now being developed might conceivably assist his condition, Dr. Fortin chooses to regard himself as being on an extended vacation.

As a physician, he naturally takes a keen interest in his own case. In recent months, he's read extensively about cancer. He's even formulating a theory about the disease.

He recalls that in the initial stages of his illness he experienced certain symptoms reminiscent of the grippe. His theory: cancer may be caused by a virus. The same thoughts are being entertained in other research fields.

Dr. Fortin feels two rules are essential for a general practitioner.

One: "People don't get hurt or sick by choice, nor at the doctor's convenience. Doctors can't work union hours."

The other: "Before you can treat patients, you have to know who they are. I sit down and talk with them, find out what makes them laugh, cry or fear."

And, of course, he is aided in his illness by his personal philosophy, accumulated over the years. He spells it out like this: "It is not the experience of today that drives men mad. It is rather the remorse or bitterness for something that happened yesterday and the fear and apprehension of what might happen tomorrow. Let us therefore live but one day at a time."

Quake Rocks Greek Areas

ATHENS (AP)—Another strong earthquake today rocked the Volos area in central Greece. The panic-stricken population ran into the streets. No casualties were reported.

A police official said that Volos itself suffered little damage but that the few buildings in nearby Vestelino which survived last week's heavy shocks collapsed. No new casualties were reported there.

Quakes that hit the area Friday and Saturday left 1 known dead, at least 50 injured, and 25,000 homeless. About 4,000 homes were destroyed in what was called the worst earthquake in central Greece's history.

Jet Airliner In New Test

SEATTLE (AP)—A jet airliner that has flown across the continent on a test run in less than four hours took off here today with the aim of making it in 3 hours and 45 minutes.

The Boeing 707, America's first jet airliner, took off to demonstrate "the transport of tomorrow" for 32 writers on a press flight. About 20 company employees also were aboard as Tex Johnston, the veteran Boeing test pilot, lifted the speedy craft into the air with use of little more than half the runway.

The plane is on a 2,300-mile flight to Baltimore.

Showers Up To .4 Of Inch Wet City

Showers which ranged widely in volume hit Big Spring at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The precipitation varied from as much as .4 in the extreme southwest part of town to a trace at the Texas Electric Service Company plant on the northeast. Officially, the U. S. Experiment Station gauge showed .05. The rains were the first measurable moisture to fall during March. Coahoma with .52 inch was apparently tops in rain.

Ushered in by ominous black clouds and brilliant electrical display, the rain was of short duration. It had been foreseen earlier in the day and had been predicted to strike shortly after noon. However, it did not move in until after dark.

Small Tornado Strikes Central Texas Town, No Damage Done

By The Associated Press

A small tornado whirled through Jollyville, about 14 miles northwest of Austin early Monday. No injuries were reported.

Thundershowers pelted portions of East Texas and a cool front pushed into West Texas from the northwest after kicking up dust clouds in the Panhandle.

J. T. Brogdon of Jollyville said the twister passed over his place about 2:45 a.m. A porch was torn off a nearby home and a fence row of trees was damaged for a space of about 1,500 feet. Some trees were uprooted. About an inch of rain fell.

Kilgore reported .51 of an inch of rain during the night.

Records Available In Red Race Probe

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A Louisiana legislative committee plans to make available to other Southern states its findings that Communist influence working through "such instruments as the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People is a prime cause of racial disturbances."

Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the committee that conducted extensive hearings last week, said after the final session Saturday, "Creation of racial uprisings against the existing order is a principal instrument of the Communist party."

At Electra in North Texas, a blinding sandstorm followed on the heels of rain and lightning displays. The .12 inch rain ended about 3 a.m. Monday, and at 9 a.m. a sandstorm which cut visibility to a half mile blew in.

The Weather Bureau lifted a tornado and severe weather warning for a wide stretch of North Texas at 3 a.m. Monday. The warning was issued at 6:20 p.m. Sunday and had alerted points 50 miles on either side of a line from 20 miles west-southwest of San Angelo to 40 miles west-southwest of Tyler and points 60 miles on either side of a line 20 miles southwest of Childress to Tulsa.

Heavy thundershowers drenched Lufkin, Longview and Tyler Monday. Rain fell earlier in Central and North Texas. Skies were partly cloudy in West Texas and mostly cloudy elsewhere.

Gusty winds stirred up clouds of dust in the Panhandle. Visibility was reduced to 2 1/2 miles at Amarillo and to 4 miles at Dalhart.

The cold front had pushed to a point just south of Amarillo early Monday.

Earlier, heavy rain fell at Austin, Waco and Mineral Wells and showers fell at Fort Worth, Dallas, College Station and Wichita Falls.

Scattered thundershowers were forecast for all areas of Texas Monday, but temperatures were not expected to change much.

Winds with gusts to 40 miles an hour were recorded in the locally heavy thundershower areas of East Texas. Winds in the Panhandle reached 20-25 miles per hour, but were subsiding.

Dawn temperatures Monday ranged from 36 at Dalhart to 71 at Brownsville.

Prairie Dog, 'Greatest West Texan,' Is Nearing Extinction

By GORDON C. CREEL

The prairie dog is nearing extinction in Howard County. At one time the whole county was a part of the largest prairie dog town in the world. It is said that this town was 250 miles long and 100 miles wide and probably had at least four hundred million (400,000,000) inhabitants. Texas at one time had ninety thousand square miles in prairie dog towns. Howard County still has a few of the towns left as a remnant of the past. At the present rate at which the prairie dog population is decreasing, it will be only a few years at most until this animal will be extinct here.

BLACK-TAILED PRAIRIE DOG Few towns left in Howard County

Our "Black-Tailed Prairie Dog," Cynomys ludovicianus, is a rather robust little rodent of about two or three pounds when full grown. Its total length is 16 and 17 inches, including a tail of four or five inches. The tail of this animal is black on the end; hence its name. The upper parts of this animal are dark pinkish buff, sometimes approaching a cinnamon color. The underparts are grayish buff. Very little is known about the breeding habits of this animal. It is thought that these animals have only one litter of three to five young per year. These are born from the latter part of April to the first of June. The food habits of the animal make him an undesirable pest to the farmer and rancher. It is said that 250 prairie dogs can eat as much grass as one cow. Research has shown that 76 per cent of the food of the prairie dog is plants of some grazing value. The animals live in underground burrows which may go down as much as 10 feet. There are many side tunnels which make up quite an elaborate underground home. It is said that each family has three burrows in which they may flee in case of danger. Prairie dogs build a mound around the mouth of their burrows to prevent any flooding in case of heavy rains. The male also uses these mounds for a place of lookout. Every prairie dog town has a sentinel on duty during all daylight hours. When danger approaches he gives a warning bark and all animals quickly descend into their burrows. The prairie dog has many enemies but the worst is man. Animals such as the coyote depend to a great extent on the prairie dog for their food. Rattlesnakes eat large numbers, also. Legend has it that the prairie dog, rattlesnake and the burrowing owl all occupy the same hole. This is not true. Anything you see a snake in a prairie dog hole he is after a meal. The burrowing owl will also eat small prairie dogs. The term "dog" attached to its name is not a just one, for it is not related to the dog at all but is a ground squirrel. The "dog" is attached because of the bark-like sound which it makes when at one time there was a flourishing market for this large "ground squirrel." They were served in the best restaurants of the East until some railroad men made the remark — "they ain't nothing but prairie dogs." After this word spread there was no market left. Because of the "dog" part of its name, many West Texans lost a good money-making business of shipping prairie dogs to the East as a food delicacy. Perhaps it might be nice for our children if we could preserve at least one of our remaining prairie dog towns of the county as a symbol of the Old West and of the greatest West Texan of all. Battle For Gaza Strip Still On Despite Israeli Withdrawal

GAZA — The battle for the Gaza strip is still on despite the Israeli withdrawal. U.N. forces had to use tear gas and shoot in the air yesterday to disperse Arabs claiming to represent more than 1,000 civil workers employed in the strip before the Israeli invasion said they would work only if Egypt approved the civil administration set up for the strip by the U.N. Emergency Force. The rioting stemmed from the temporary administrative setup headed by Danish Col. Carl Ingholm, military governor. He named a committee of five residents of Gaza City to supervise all civil affairs in the town itself. Ingholm will preside over the council. Munir Rayess, Gaza mayor or under the Egyptian administration who was held a political prisoner for 43 days during the Israeli occupation, was asked to serve. He declined, saying that the pre-invasion Municipal Council objected. There is strong feeling among the 310,000 residents of the strip, including some 215,000 Palestine Arab refugees, against even the appearance of international control in the strip. About 300 Arabs stormed through the streets, waving banners and shouting for the return of Egyptian administration. When U.N. troops in vehicles herded the demonstrators down Gaza's main street and out of the center of town, the rioters began throwing stones. The Arabs tried to smash the gates of the UNEF police headquarters. The U.N. troops, using tear gas and firing over to disperse the demonstrators made several unsuccessful efforts to reform their ranks. No casualties were reported on either side. After the outbreak, a curfew previously ordered for 6 p.m. was moved up to 1 p.m. Sound trucks drove through the streets ordering the population to obey, but the military police had difficulty in getting the excited Arabs to comply. The clash between UNEF and the Arabs erupted while Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UNEF commander, was in Gaza for talks with his staff on plans to transfer his headquarters from the Suez Canal zone to Gaza. Burns, who witnessed the demonstration, was asked by newsmen whether he thought Communist tactics were used to foment the trouble. He replied: "I think so." In Egyptian eyes, the administration UNEF has set up in Gaza goes beyond the U.N. General Assembly's resolution setting up the international force. Burns declined to say whether the Egyptian government is demanding formally that it resume control in Gaza. He said that such questions would have to be answered at U.N. headquarters in New York. "All I know is that my orders are that UNEF takes over exclusively in the initial phase, will last 1 do not know." A similar view was attributed to Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, U.N. undersecretary and a member of the U.N. advisory commission on UNEF. Bunche arrived in Egypt yesterday to confer on U.N. problems with Burns. The general flew from Gaza to Abu Suweir in the canal zone and conferred for 45 minutes with Burns and Brig. Amin Helmy, chief Egyptian liaison officer with UNEF. The Egyptian Middle East News Agency quoted Bunche as saying UNEF's mission is temporary, that is not an occupation force, and is without governing power. The agency reported Bunche also said UNEF would stay in the Gaza Strip and at Sharm el Sheikh on the Gulf of Aqaba only as long as it is needed. He added he did not know how long that would be. Israeli settlers near the Gaza Strip borders were reported to have appealed to the Israeli army for increased protection. They said infiltrators had been slipping over the frontier from Gaza to steal valuable equipment.

Let's Get Acquainted

Knowland Sees Billion-Dollar Foreign Aid Cut

WASHINGTON — Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California predicted today Congress will cut about a billion dollars of President Eisenhower's $4,363,000,000 foreign aid request. Chairman Bridges (NH) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee backed this up with a forecast of "substantial cuts" in the economic assistance program. Eisenhower told his news conference last week he doesn't believe any "substantial cuts" can be made in aid funds "and still support the welfare of the United States and the world."

Despite this, Knowland told reporters the mutual security program is already in for "rough sledding," which he said could be made even more difficult if the administration agrees to make assistance available to Poland. Polish negotiators now are here seeking about 200 million dollars in surplus farm products, as well as loans for mining machinery and other industrial development. They were invited here under a finding by Secretary of State Dulles that Poland's present government is not dominated by Moscow.

Knowland said extension of aid to Poland could be the "opening wedge" for a Communist Marshall plan "that might involve a billion dollars a year in U.S. expenditures." "If we start giving help to Poland it would be difficult to discriminate against Romania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Hungary," he said. Sen. Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, said the negotiations may determine whether Poland moves further away from Moscow or comes more under Russian dominance. Mansfield and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) called, meanwhile, for a continuance of technical aid as part of the over-all foreign aid program. Mansfield called it "the cheapest, most effective" of all the programs. The two senators, reporting on a 30-month study of the technical aid activities, said the work should be continued both directly by this country and cooperatively through the United Nations.

Carr Expects Legislature To Approve Lobby Control Law

HOUSTON — House Speaker Waggoner Carr says he expects the Legislature to pass an effective lobby control law this session, but he warned that proposed laws on lobbyists may endanger the "basic right" of citizens to petition government.

In a filmed interview telecast over a station here last night, Carr said the "pitfall" in proposed lobbyist legislation laws may be "regulating the basic right of a citizen to contact or petition legislators."

Such a law, he said, might hinder the work of "good citizens" lobbying for good bills, but at the same time might give free rein to "the people we are really after."

Carr made no suggestions about how this danger might be reduced or eliminated and did not offer any specific criticism of lobby control bills now before the Legislature. He said lobbying practices "can be illegal or a bad thing," but added that cases of actual legislative conduct are "few and far between."

Carr said the last case of misconduct to result in charges against a Texas legislator occurred about 30 years ago. "That speaks well for the average legislator and the average session," he said. "Almost without exception our legislators are men of high character and high ambition who are well respected in their own communities."

Negro College Opens Again

ALCORN, Miss. — Alcorn A&M College opened under a new administration today to receive students seeking readmission after a weeklong boycott at the all-Negro state institution.

In doubt was the status of Clennon King, the history professor whose newspaper articles touched off the student rebellion resulting in the firing of Dr. J. R. Otis as president. King, 36-year-old minister of the Wesley (Methodist) Chapel in Hazlehurst, wrote a series of articles in the Jackson State Times. He criticized the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for having done nothing locally for the Southern Negro.

King, who wrote that the Negro as well as the white needed to learn tolerance, said he doubted the boycott was spontaneous and suggested NAACP "moved in and spread confusion."

of retainer fees from organizations which are state-regulated or interested in legislation depends strictly on the individual involved. "However, if the public feels it is a dangerous thing it should not be allowed at all," he added.

Russians Revolted 40 Years Ago, Then Were Betrayed

Editor's Note: Four decades ago the Russian people overthrew the czar and stood in freedom. A revolution soon lost to the Bolsheviks. Why did they lose it? The answer perhaps lies in the character of the people themselves. William L. Ryan, Associated Press special writer in Russia, explains what that character is in this first of a series of four articles.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

Forty years ago tomorrow a spark of freedom burst into brilliant flame in the dark of a Petrograd morning. It brought Russia to the edge of what might have been a golden age.

A revolution, first of two great 1917 upheavals in Russia, exploded March 12, at the height of a cruel European war. To history it was like a flash of lightning across a sky black with oppression. The following November it was to vanish in the thunder of a Bolshevik betrayal.

The first Russian revolution of 1917—the "February revolution" by the old Russian calendar—had nothing to do with Bolshevism. Bolshevik leaders played no part in it. It was what they chose to call the "bourgeois"—or middle-class capitalist—revolution, a rising of all the people from nobles to peasants.

Had it been permitted to live and develop, the February revolution which overthrew Czar Nicholas II might have produced a new Russia, freed from his fear and suspicion of the West, his ages-old superstitious reverence for absolute power. Instead, a Bolshevik counter-revolution in November installed totalitarianism by force. With 40 years to develop, that revolution produced what the Kremlin today calls the "new Soviet man."

Ivan, unready for freedom, succumbed to his perennial habit of submission. The "new Soviet man" is the image of the ancient Russian. Strong, tenacious, enduring and long suffering, he is—like his ancestor—impervious to misery around him but worried about misery far away. He will work until he drops for glorification of the Motherland. He is deeply patriotic, but his patriotism is a mystic love of the soil rather than respect for a government or a system.

"NEW" MAN STIRRING

Today his government is more state capitalist, in a harsh sense of the term, than it is Communist or Marxian Socialist. Its lopsided economy, bent on industrial and military might above all, faces new crises. The "new Soviet man" is stirring, not so much because of oppression as because of vague misgivings. His leaders, so long inflexible as Czar and Stalin, today are lesser men commanding neither awe nor respect.

Russians never revolted against a system. They rose in anger when burdens became too great. From Ivan the Terrible to Khrushchev the commonplace the story has been the same. When rulers feared the burden might be unbearable they relaxed oppression. From relaxation came uprisings, from uprisings, new oppression.

What makes Russians what they are? Probably it's their history—a chronicle of unending tragedy—and their deep sense of identification with their past. Their first great tragedy occurred seven centuries ago, when hordes from Asia swept across Russia all the way to Kiev, then the fountain of Slav culture. From then, the center of Russian life shifted toward Moscow. Its grand princes intrigued servilely with the conquerors, who left the Russians with a habit of total autocracy and a suspicion of outside ideas. The Russians never shook off the influence.

Revolt on the streets of Petrograd 40 years ago set in motion the historic chain of events which ushered communism into world history. The March revolt threw off ancient chains of oppression. Eight months later the Bolsheviks installed a tyranny worse than the czar's.

Through the ages Russia wrapped herself in mystery. Even in the enlightened 19th and 20th centuries, occasional travelers returning from Russia were like adventurers from another world, full of wondrous tales of a cruel and baffling land.

1,000 YEARS POOR
"We are poor with the accumulated poverty of 1,000 years," once wrote Leon Trotsky, later an architect of the Bolshevik betrayal. They were poor from 1,000 years of great and small wars, intrigues, hero saints and legendary devils, suspicion and fear, want and barbarism. Their history was pockmarked by invading hordes from Asia and predatory enemies from the west, a history of vast superstition, deep mysticism, mass ignorance. It was a history finally dominated by Moscow, whose princes restlessly pushed out their log cabin principality in ever-widening circles. The story is dotted with grandeur, blackened by oppression, constantly repeating itself.

Through it all ran mystic theme of Russia as the world's center, the Russians as the world's hope of salvation. Russian literature mirrored this quirk of character. It sung in dirges of sin and suffering, humiliation and repentance. But to her writers, Russia's wars were crusades to save others. Russia never could see the clutter of misery in her own backyard.

Russia warred on the Turks to save religious freedom, and there was no religious freedom in Russia. She warred with Poland to save peasants from the Polish nobility, but Russia's own farmers were in slavery. She expanded endlessly, bent on spreading enlightenment, and in Russia there was darkness.

ENTER COMMUNISM
A century ago an idea with the sound of Utopia came from Germany. Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels produced a manifesto proclaiming that "a spectre of communism" haunted Europe. Russian thinkers leaped at the notion. The idea suited them. It promised an absolute—Utopia—and Russians seek absolute answers. Alexander Herzen, the liberal Russian thinker, wrote 100 years ago:

"I believe there is some justification for the fear of communism which the Russian government begins to feel. Communism is the Russian autocracy, turned upside-down."
Russia drew a breath of freedom in 1917. The overthrow of Czar Nicholas II was a liberal revolution of the whole people which might have transformed rich Russia from a land of darkness and oppression into a modern, progressive Western state.

Before it could get started, the revolution was captured by a Bolshevik armed coup d'etat. Russians submitted. Tyranny once again replaced tyranny. Communism was the upside-down autocracy, more ruthless than the czars imposed. The Russians seemed more ready for it than they were for political liberty.

Like one of Dostoevsky's gloomy characters in "The Possessed," the Russian found that "after striving for unlimited liberty, I finally arrived at unlimited despotism."

Tornado Alarm Bells Installed
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Devices that will ring alarm bells when tornado-spawning squalls approach have been placed in 107 towns south and west of Kansas City.

The Weather Bureau spotted a few of the instruments in the area last year to see if they would work properly. Now the network has been extended to communities 20 to 30 miles apart from Mound City, Mo., through Kansas and Oklahoma to south of Fort Worth.

The instruments are "pressure jump indicators." They will ring a bell if there is an abrupt increase in atmospheric pressure. H. L. Jacobson, meteorologist, explained that sharp pressure increases occur along a squall line and are symptoms of tornadoes.

Another research project, started last year, will be repeated this year. Jim Cook, a Jacksboro, Tex., pilot, will fly his specially equipped plane near storm clouds. The plane is being refitted at Dallas and will be ready for action by April.

Robert Beebe, research meteorologist, said the data Cook collected last year showed that forecasting the exact location of tornadoes "is even more remote than ever."

Dynamite-Laden 'Bomber' May Have Had Reasons
MONTREAL (AP)—Police conceded today that the weirdly masked young man shot down last Friday as he attempted to rob a bank while laden with enough dynamite to wreck a city block may have had his reasons.

They said their investigation disclosed that Andre DeBois, 25, now in a hospital with a bullet through his neck and jaw, lost a 7-month-old baby last October; suffered slight injuries in a truck accident in January; was burned out of his home in Chambly County later that month; lost his job in a Montreal engineering plant a month and a half ago; lost his father-in-law to a fatal illness Wednesday. In addition, his father had been hospitalized until Friday.

With 39 sticks of dynamite fastened to his body and wired to a contraption on his head, DeBois held a gun on employees and patrons of a Toronto Dominion branch bank for 20 minutes. Wearing a nylon stocking pulled down over his face, a false nose, dummy glasses and a bathing cap, he threatened to explode the dynamite if police tried to arrest him.

Constable Joseph Oerron finally kicked in a window and shot DeBois through the neck.

Syrian Pipeline Will Flow Again
DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Iraq Petroleum Co. announced today it would start pumping Iraqi oil for Western Europe through Iraq's sabotaged Baniyas pipeline across Syria within 48 hours. The company said the amount pumped would be 40 per cent of normal. Syrian army units sabotaged the pipeline pumping stations 127 days ago, when Britain and France launched their invasion of the Suez Canal Zone. Syria would not let the company begin repairs until Israel withdrew her troops from the Gulf of Aqaba area and the Gaza Strip.

5 Members Of Family Killed

By The Associated Press
Five members of a family of six were killed in a head-on collision near Lewisville Sunday to push the weekend violent death toll in Texas to at least 25.

Traffic accounted for 14 deaths. Killed in the wreck near Lewisville were Marvin Lewis James, 33; his wife, Lanea, 33; their sons, Larry, 9, Robert, 8, and Tommy, 1. The sole survivor of the family, Mary Alice James, 7, was in fair condition Sunday.

Also killed in the wreck was Paul Anthony Montgomery, 25, of Whitesboro.

Mrs. W. H. Magill, 58, of Alamogordo, N.M., and her granddaughter, Ollie Darlene Green, 5, of Hatch, N.M., were killed Sunday in a two-car collision near Odessa.

David Dundas, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dundas Jr. of Houston, was killed Sunday when he climbed inside a clothes dryer in the family garage and the device went into operation.

Mildred McCorkle, 17, of Andrews was killed when her car went off the road Saturday.

Heat's Off In Bus Fuss

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)—The heat is off, temporarily at least, in Augusta's dispute over proposed use of public school buses by parochial students.

Catholic parents voted 283-121 yesterday against going through with their threat to send 600-odd children into the already crowded public schools if bus transportation isn't provided by the city today.

They accepted Catholic Mayor H. Lloyd Carey's advice to wait for a court test.

Lawyers for both factions will confer on getting the test to Maine's Supreme Court.

Last Wednesday the City Council made a token appropriation of $100 to provide bus service to the city's two parochial schools — simply as a foundation for the legal challenge.

Claude Bourget, city solicitor and a Catholic, told a parents meeting they would have "absolutely nothing to gain" legally by enrolling their children in the public schools before the test case is decided.

Henry R. Albert, president of the Franco-American Club, and William Bean, 30-year-old father of six who had spearheaded the Catholic drive for bus transportation, went along with the majority. The Catholic diocese of Portland has not commented on the dispute.

Shelters Costly, Unprotective Says Civil Defense Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Civil Defense Administration says a nationwide system of nuclear war shelters would cost more than $2 billion dollars — and still protect only about 60 per cent of the people.

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson told a House Appropriations subcommittee the administration is studying some shelter proposals, but added that "we should not go off carelessly on a program of that magnitude."

He said the federal government eventually "will have to take a larger hand" in civil defense, heretofore defined by law as primarily a state and local function. He said his agency will propose that Congress make the responsibility a joint federal and local one.

CONSTIPATED? New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloot or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrift" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to re-activate it to stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONALD, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONALD's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONALD's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONALD is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONALD neither gags, bloats nor grips; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONALD exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONALD, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98¢ for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2¢ per tablet.

Houston Girl Rape Victim

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An 8-year-old girl, the victim of a rapist, was found on a bridge path yesterday.

Her father was waiting at the stables for her to finish her horseback outing.

The horse came back without a rider and the father and stable owner Manuel Green were preparing to look for the girl when an unidentified woman drove up with the girl in the car.

She told the father she had seen the child lying in the bridge path and picked her up.

The girl told her father she had been attacked. She was hospitalized for treatment after the rape was confirmed.

Kennedy Thinks Nixon Man To Beat

It was a popular saying among Democratic leaders before it became certain that President Eisenhower would seek a second term that their favorite Republican nominee would be the vice President, Richard Milhous Nixon. Their expressed belief was that Nixon would be a push-over.

Subsequent events, and a reappraisal of Nixon's strength, has resulted in placing Nixon at the head of the list the Democrats must reckon with in 1960.

That reappraisal is made in this week's Life magazine by a rising young Democratic leader, Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who came within a whisper of being Adlai Stevenson's running-mate last year.

Kennedy says flatly that in 1960 the Democrats will be matched against "A tough, skillful, shrewd opponent" in Richard M. Nixon.

"Far from being the pushover some Democrats expect," writes Kennedy, "Mr. Nixon has four well-publicized years ahead in which to increase his public stature, four years of basking in the Eisenhower charm in which to campaign for the favor of previously hostile voters, four years in the spotlight without being required, as his competitors in both parties will be, to go on record (except in rare cases) on controversial issues. It will take more than abusive statements to best Mr. Nixon—those he can read riding in the 1961 inaugural parade."

He warns Democrats that they must begin their plans for 1960 with the inescapable fact that the party took a "disastrous defeat" in 1956. While Democrats occupied an extraordinary number of governors' mansions in 1956, that fact does not obscure the party's resounding defeat on the national level.

He warns his party that it cannot move left or right merely to be distinctive, nor can it stay in the middle and expect to arouse enthusiasm among the electorate.

"The only course for the Democratic party," the senator writes, "is not to join the Whigs and Federalists in political limbo, is to move ahead responsibly, courageously, harmoniously. Under Jefferson, Jackson, Wilson, Roosevelt and Truman, our chief claim to the confidence of the nation, North and South, has been leadership."

He expresses his personal confidence in the party's future, and is optimistic about 1960.

But he warns that a start must be made now if the party hopes to stand off the opposition then.

It Was A Tough Race, Ma...

James Marlow New Pitch On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower made a pitch last year for long-range foreign aid. It wasn't a very strong pitch and he lost. This year, with some outside help, he may try again.

Congress has steadfastly clung to the idea of aid on a year-by-year basis ever since 1948 when, with the Marshall Plan, this country first set up foreign assistance on a big scale.

Economic aid is designed to help backward and underdeveloped countries. But the year-by-year arrangements prevent this country and the receiving nations from planning developments which takes years to complete. For example: river and harbor and waterpower development, or highways and railroads.

So in 1956 Eisenhower asked Congress to approve a foreign aid program which would permit carrying on some projects for as long as 10 years. He didn't ask for money for 10 years, all in a lump. But he wanted congressional promises that would make long-range planning possible.

He ran into stiff opposition and apparently backed away. Neither he nor his aides made much of a fight. Instead, he concentrated on trying to get Congress to give him the full $4,900,000,000 he has asked for one year. Congress didn't go along on that either. It cut more than a billion off his request.

But there was agreement between Eisenhower and Congress that it was time for some fairly thorough studies on the whole problem of foreign aid. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hired 11 research organizations and assigned 10 men familiar with foreign affairs to do the job.

Two different groups appointed by Eisenhower went to work. They were made up of representatives of business, labor, agriculture and the public. One was headed by Benjamin F. Fairless, steel executive, and the other, continuing advisory body, by Eric Johnston.

The Senate study reports have been pouring out in recent weeks. Most of them favor long-term aid. In the past week the Fairless and Johnston groups have reported. They favor long-term aid.

So if Eisenhower wants to propose a 10-year program again this year he has a lot of support — at least outside Congress. It's still questionable the full Congress will go along with the idea.

And right now inside the Eisenhower administration it is understood some of the President's top advisers are chilly to long-range commitments.

Cactus Jack Not Aloof Mentally

As longtime speaker of the House and eight years as vice president of the United States John Nance Garner earned a reputation for forthrightness, political wisdom and sturdiness of character.

At 88, "Cactus Jack" sits on his back porch at Uvalde and shells pecans, keeps an eye on his chickens and gives out salty comments on the world he foresees 16 years ago to all who call.

U. S. News & World Report sent an interviewer and a photographer down to Uvalde recently, and there is good news for Texans and Americans everywhere Jack Garner is as sharp as ever.

He thinks the country is in pretty good shape, physically and financially, except that we spend too much money.

"It doesn't seem to me," the old warhorse is quoted, "and I read the Congressional Record and what the President has to say in his government message and everything else the Congress and the President are trying to economize. I think they are both responsible. They are trying to find a place to spend the money."

He went on: "I hope their motives are right. But, having served up there a long time—sometimes we get appropriations to make ourselves popular. I wish they would quit that."

The interviewer wanted to know what Mr. Garner thought of the trend of farm legislation, since the ex-vice president is a farmer himself.

"I don't know," said Cactus Jack Garner. "That's too deep for me. The point is to make farming profitable. Now, somebody figure out how you can do that. If you undertake to make farmers profitable from a commercial standpoint, they would murder you politically. You and your wife and everybody in the cities would say, 'Why, that fellow's making it cost more to live.' So you can't do it politically. And you can't dish it out to them, because there isn't any equity there. You can't dish it out and say, 'I'm going to give it to this little farmer and not going to give it to that big farmer.' You can't work it out that way."

Old Cactus Jack knocked the ashes off his cigar and went on:

"Now, they've got this land bill. I have 55,000 acres of land with cattle on them. They come along and say, 'Take the cattle off.' I'll obey the law, whether it's good or bad. That may be a good way to spend the money."

He thinks a good way to get rid of farm surpluses, which have been a stone tied to the farmer's neck for years, would be to send them to foreign countries that need them—say, a billion dollars' worth—whether you give them away or charge a nominal price. That, said the sage of Uvalde, would be the way to help our farmers.

The Gallup Poll Young Britons Want To Leave Isles

PRINCETON, N. J. — Although more Englishmen would like to emigrate from their "tight little island" today than at any time in the last nine years, the lure of the U. S. A. as a "new home" is not a very strong one for them.

Their own dominions of Canada, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa are the places where emigration-minded Britons would most like to settle.

In the latest survey by the affiliated British Institute, only one person in eight who expressed an interest in moving to another country named the U. S. as the land he would like to move to.

In light of recent fuel shortages, rationing, and other restrictions brought on by the Suez crisis, it is significant that the number of persons who want to leave the British Isles is greater at present than it has been since 1948.

At periodic intervals over the last nine years, reporters for the British Gallup Poll have posed the following question to a representative cross-section of adults throughout Great Britain:

"If you were free to do so, would you like to go and settle in another country?"

Here is the trend since March, 1948:

	Yes	No
Mar., '48	42	53
Jan., '50	35	60
Dec., '55	28	66
TODAY	41	47

The rise in the number of persons who answered "don't know" in today's survey might be seen as an indication that recent events in Great Britain — if not definitely deciding still others on the merits of emigrating — have left them "on the fence" about leaving their native isle.

The second question in the survey: "If you would like to emigrate, where would you like to go?"

The results for the 41 per cent expressing an interest in "re-locating":

	Per cent
Canada	12
New Zealand	10
Australia	9
U. S. A.	5
S. Africa	2
S. America	1
Others	2

Under the present regulations of the U. S. McCarran-Walter Act, which bases quotas on national origins of U. S. citizens, the normal yearly immigration quota for persons from Great Britain and Northern Ireland is 65,361 — the largest number by far for any one region.

Surveys in the past by the American Institute of Public Opinion have shown that persons familiar with the existing immigration laws are in favor of making them more liberal.

In a survey in June, 1955, to see how the general public — regardless of their knowledge of present regulations — would feel about the influx of European families into this country, the Institute found nearly two out of three adults approving of having a few families from Europe come to their neighborhood to settle.

Commenting on today's British survey results, the London News-Chronicle, in an editorial, said:

"Is this a cause for despair? The answer is an unqualified 'No.' Britain could never have been great without the sense of adventure that impelled men to seek their fortunes overseas."

James Marlow New Pitch On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower made a pitch last year for long-range foreign aid. It wasn't a very strong pitch and he lost. This year, with some outside help, he may try again.

Congress has steadfastly clung to the idea of aid on a year-by-year basis ever since 1948 when, with the Marshall Plan, this country first set up foreign assistance on a big scale.

Economic aid is designed to help backward and underdeveloped countries. But the year-by-year arrangements prevent this country and the receiving nations from planning developments which takes years to complete. For example: river and harbor and waterpower development, or highways and railroads.

So in 1956 Eisenhower asked Congress to approve a foreign aid program which would permit carrying on some projects for as long as 10 years. He didn't ask for money for 10 years, all in a lump. But he wanted congressional promises that would make long-range planning possible.

He ran into stiff opposition and apparently backed away. Neither he nor his aides made much of a fight. Instead, he concentrated on trying to get Congress to give him the full $4,900,000,000 he has asked for one year. Congress didn't go along on that either. It cut more than a billion off his request.

But there was agreement between Eisenhower and Congress that it was time for some fairly thorough studies on the whole problem of foreign aid. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hired 11 research organizations and assigned 10 men familiar with foreign affairs to do the job.

Two different groups appointed by Eisenhower went to work. They were made up of representatives of business, labor, agriculture and the public. One was headed by Benjamin F. Fairless, steel executive, and the other, continuing advisory body, by Eric Johnston.

The Senate study reports have been pouring out in recent weeks. Most of them favor long-term aid. In the past week the Fairless and Johnston groups have reported. They favor long-term aid.

So if Eisenhower wants to propose a 10-year program again this year he has a lot of support — at least outside Congress. It's still questionable the full Congress will go along with the idea.

And right now inside the Eisenhower administration it is understood some of the President's top advisers are chilly to long-range commitments.

Hal Boyle Solution For Frustrated Women

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Rudkin, a self-baked millionaire, has a simple answer to the problems of the world's most frustrated woman—the middle-aged American housewife.

"Start your own business," she says.

"Women ought to have more courage about going into business for themselves. A woman is under no particular handicap. In some fields—the food field in particular—she has a distinct advantage."

Mrs. Rudkin, now one of the nation's best known businesswomen, became a success because 20 years ago she kneaded some dough—and kept kneading more and more of it.

Doing the unexpected has been characteristic of her all her life. As a young girl—blue-eyed, freckle-faced, red-haired—Margaret Fogarty dreamed of becoming a famous newspaperwoman.

"I wanted to become another Nelly Bly, and travel around the world writing about its wonders," she recalled.

Instead, after studying journalism and finance at Columbia University, she wound up in Wall Street selling stocks and bonds.

Then a stock-broker, Henry Rudkin, sold her on another proposition—marriage.

In 1937 Mrs. Rudkin, by then installed in a big stone manor house on a 300-acre estate near here, had become just another in the legion of suburban housewives, busy caring for her husband and three sons. Her business career seemed over.

One night she baked some whole-wheat bread by an old recipe and a guest remarked, "It's so good you ought to market it."

"A 20-ounce loaf of bread then was selling for a dime," said Mrs. Rudkin. "I had to charge a quarter for a 22-ounce loaf."

But her stone-ground whole-wheat bread, named after the Rudkin estate, "Pepperidge Farm," caught on quickly. She moved from the kitchen to the barn, set up machinery, hired neighbor women to help her, and by the end of the year was turning out 4,000 loaves a week.

Today the firm markets several kinds of bread, rolls, stuffing and cookies. It has seven plants, 500 employees, world-wide distribution, and will do a business this year of over $15,000,000.

She feels any middle-aged woman with initiative can make a success in business today.

Around The Rim To Create Interest, Try Abstract Art

Are you bored with life? Do you yawn in people's faces? Do you have a tendency to toss a magazine aside before you've finished half a story?

Perhaps you ought to paint impressionist and -or abstract art.

The professor of art history at the University of Miami, Virgil Barker, said such works are largely responsible for a "fabulous" increase in interest in art in this country.

Barker described impressionism as an "intensely romantic and objective form that uses a great deal of distortion." Abstract art, he added, uses images that "remind us of nothing in nature."

But, he added, in the very strangeness of these forms lies their appeal. "They are hard to understand. They arouse curiosity. People want to know what is going on," he said.

Barker pointed out the increased interest in art is fantastic. Whereas, he said, an art gallery in which he worked back in 1918 used to attract no more than 5,000 visitors a year, nowadays it sometimes opens its doors to that many in one day.

Maybe they had to give away free bonbons to get them there. Or maybe it was raining outside. Barker preferred to believe it was because the citizens were trying to dig the crazy drawings, however.

At any rate, if you want to be noticed, paint anything you like from a cow to a vase of flowers — but don't explain it. Let the viewers make what they will of it.

The more mysterious your work of art is, chances are the bigger success you will become. And, if you're really looking for notoriety, grow a Van Dyke beard and wear spats. So much the better, if you put them on without shoes.

And, if you can get it banned in Boston, you'll have your ancestors bragging over the fact that you're a part of the family tree.

Some of the most renowned artists have never been able to draw worth a hoot but they were past masters at showboating. If you have self doubts, there's no law against practicing in front of a mirror.

Inez Robb The Old Maxims No Longer Hold Good

The more I think of it, the more I am convinced that all the old tried - and-true maxims of my childhood need overhauling and updating. The unprecedented strides of science and medicine in this century have invalidated most of the time-tested adages on which I cut my teeth.

Take, for example, the incontrovertible axiom that work is the curse of the drinking classes. Democracy, science and medicine between them have not broadened the base of this truism by proving that work is the curse of all classes.

It is generally agreed that all work and no play doesn't make Jack so much a dull boy as a dead Joe. In the past year, every publication in the United States has been full of grim warnings that work is a killer. It leads to tension, ulcers, schizophrenia and Russian roulette.

Science and medicine have been busy racking up proof that work, except in small doses, hardens the arteries, plays hob with the heart, flattens the arches and leads to the grave. In the meantime, Horatio Alger Jr. is whirling in his.

The general theme of all such articles today is simple: Never do today what you can put off, period. If you never put off until tomorrow what you can do today, it is tension and curtains for you. Early to bed and early to rise no longer makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise. It makes him puny, loony and cuts him down to size.

Competition in the market place is as lethal to man as a jigger of cyanide. This younger generation, seeking only security and not opportunity on the job, has the right idea, because he who yawns and turns away, will live to sleep another day.

According to the latest medical finding, the eager beaver in the gray flannel suit is really a gone goose. His frantic efforts to make good and get to the top of the ladder on a golden treadmill (There's something wrong somewhere with this metaphor!) will only get him the privilege of cutting out paper dolls with blunt scissors in a padded room.

Pluck and luck will still get you a buck. But if you're dead, says the new philosophy, are you really ahead?

"Get in there and pitch," "Keep your eye on the ball" and "Do or die" were dinned into my head in my salad days. Now the grim watchword is "Do and die." The command today is: Relax — don't overtax!

"Sink or swim" my elders enjoined me. The best medical advice today is to relax and tread water until the life-raft drifts by. "Ad astra per aspera" — to the stars through bars — my professors cried. Now, the medical cut out everything but the bars. Very relaxing.

"Moll and toil will shuffle off this mortal coil" is the present watchword, followed by, "The slug abed is full of lead; but then, again, he won't drop dead."

This is a real revolution in the folkways of the United States, the home of hustle and bustle. But since science says it is better to relax and hit the sack as strain puts you down the drain, the new maxim, if you would live longer and be stronger, is: Don't work — shirk!

Red Aggression To Be Met The World Over

WASHINGTON—The real significance of the Eisenhower Doctrine resolution, just passed by both houses of Congress, may not be immediately apparent to the public in these days of swift-moving events, but the lesson will not be overlooked in Moscow.

For the truth is that, for all practical purposes, the United States now has declared war on international Communism in every area of the world. America specifically has served warning that any attempt to impair or interfere with the national independence of any country in the Middle East, either by military threat or by internal subversion through economic means or otherwise, will meet with countermeasures which could involve the use of military force.

The final text of the resolution, which passed the Senate by a vote of 72 to 19 and the House by 350 to 60—more than two-thirds in each case—is much stronger than when originally proposed by the President and Secretary of State. This is conceded in a formal report of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Eisenhower administration in some ways would have preferred the original version as approved by the House, but the broad language used by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was deemed acceptable because the Senate committee report has interpreted its meaning so clearly.

Today, therefore, the Communists in both Moscow and Peking are on notice that, by an overwhelming vote of both houses of Congress and of both political parties in America, the armed forces of the United States will be used in the Far East—in accordance with the Formosa Resolution of 1955—and in the Middle East, in accordance with Eisenhower Doctrine Resolution. The Pan-American countries are protected by the Monroe Doctrine and the organization of the American States....

As for Europe, the North Atlantic Treaty has set up an organization of 15 countries whose territorial integrity and political independence are guaranteed by the United States as well as other powers against Communist aggression. The Southeast Asia area is protected by special treaties known as "SEATO."

Even North Africa comes within the general scope of the Eisenhower Doctrine. Likewise, the area covered by the northern tier of states in the Middle East, under what is known as the Bagdad Pact, can be said to be protected now by the resolution of authority just passed by Congress.

Thus, by United States aid, the whole world is fortified directly or indirectly against international Communism.

This is a momentous step in American history and a milestone in world affairs. It means that, while, as stated in the new resolution, the United States plans to act in accordance with the provisions of the United Nations charter—complying with the orders of the Security Council and the resolutions of the General Assembly—acting alone if the U. N. falls down.

This is probably the first instance in which any country has pledged itself alone under Article 51 to do what the U. N. may fail to do. But whatever action the United States takes under the new resolution this country will not be estopped from must be as a consequence of the request of the nation or group of nations desiring military assistance.

Nobody can complain now that the United States didn't make its intentions clear, as was unfortunately the case prior to World War I and World War II. American military power will be put on the scales to produce a general balance of power against the Soviets and their allies and satellites.

The basic purpose, of course, is not to take military measures, but to deter the Communists. It is a move of prevention. It conceivably could mean no steps at all would ever be taken on the military side beyond the deploying of American forces in or near the areas that might be threatened.

The Monroe Doctrine kept the aggressors of Europe out of the western hemisphere. The Truman Doctrine warned Communist aggressors to keep out of Greece and Turkey. Now the Eisenhower Doctrine warns Communist aggressors to keep out of the Middle East, just as a similar warning has gone out to the Soviet and Red China, Formosa and Japan. Meanwhile, economic aid will be used judiciously to bolster military strength anywhere that's necessary.

While the Eisenhower Doctrine pledges the United States to take certain action, it does not preclude America from joining collectively with Britain and France and any other nations in military steps, as permitted under Article 51 of the charter of the United Nations. It is a great advance and may prove the turning point in preventing World War III.

Blithe Spirits

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—From the smell of things you'd think the boys were having a high old time at City Hall. That's because the disposal point for moonshine whiskey is the men's washroom in the basement. When the condemned liquor goes down the drain the aroma wafts up to paint the premises with a genuine barroom atmosphere.

Improved Water

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The government's department of water resources plans to spend $16,000,000 in 1957 on giving good drinking water to more of the population.

Many, especially in small villages, now are forced to drink dirty and unhealthy water from tanks and rivers — and have to carry it long distances in some cases.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY Basic Dress Changed Through Accessories

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Dana Wynter's fan mail is a surprise even to her home studio, 20th Century-Fox. "I recognized her beauty and education," a top executive told me, "but I underestimated her acting ability and her sex appeal. This girl has everything! I wish I could find another 'View From Pompey's Head' for her."

Dana made a big stir on Hollywood's social scene when she captured the town's top bachelor, Greg Bautzer. When I arrived for tea at their modern home in Bel Air, she was arranging a bowl of white orchids.

"Greg sends me flowers every day just as he did before we were married," she explained, "and I send a red rose every day to his office."

Dana was wearing a high-neck, black, jersey sheath with a single white rose close to her throat. I complimented her on being nominated one of Hollywood's best-dressed actresses.

"I love clothes," she confessed. "When I was just starting my career in London, it was a challenge to look smart with a limited wardrobe. I designed a simple, black, velvet, evening dress which I wore to all the premieres. I was usually photographed, and I managed to look different in each picture by wearing an unusual stole of stiff taffeta. I kept a variety of these in lovely pastel shades. I pulled the threads at the end of the stoles into a fringe and was able to give such a contrasting appearance that no one suspected my tricks."

"If a girl plans carefully she can give a basic dress a different look with flowers, scarfs and jewelry. My extravagance, now that I can afford them, is hats. I don't mind at all going to a party if I have a new hat."

"It is so easy in this climate to be casual and to wear play clothes everywhere, but when I take time to dress carefully I find people appreciate my making the effort. No matter where a person lives, dressing neatly and becomingly as she can is basic politeness to those who must look at her," Dana went on.

Be Ingenious
Actress Dana Wynter, who is predicted to be one of Hollywood's biggest stars, has a wonderful flair for clothes. "If your budget is small, your ingenuity has to be large," says Dana. She is currently in rehearsals for 20th Century-Fox's "The Sun Also Rises."

Anniversary Observance

Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Jordan of Grandfalls celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday by entertaining more than 400 guests at an open house held at the Grandfalls Community Center. Mrs. F. A. Gibbs, 603 Nolan, joined with her sisters in assisting their parents. Seven daughters and five sons of the couple were on hand for the occasion. The Jordans have 34 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Welch - Rogers Rites Repeated In Lockney

In an informal home ceremony Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Lois Welch and C. L. Rogers repeated double ring wedding vows.

The ceremony, read by the Rev. H. B. Coggins, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Lockney, was held in the home of Mrs. Welch's daughter, Mrs. Harold Duvall of Lockney.

Vows were read before an improvised altar of white stock and emerald fern. Wedding music presented included "Indian Love Call" and "Benediction."

The bride wore an ensemble of toast color. Her accessories were also beige. She wore a purple orchid corsage.

Mrs. Duvall attended her mother as matron of honor. She was attired in a beige dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Houser Guests

Guests in the home of Mrs. Ann Houser have been her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Brinegar and Debra Ann, Miami, Fla. Mrs. Brinegar is the former Susan Houser. Also visiting has been Mrs. Houser's sister, Mrs. B. R. Keller of Houston.

Lamesa AAUW Hears Mrs. Bearden

LAMESA — Members of the American Association of University Women heard Mrs. Victor Bearden discuss lyric poetry Saturday at their luncheon meeting held at the Corral Room of Liddells. Mrs. Bearden discussed the works of Herrick, Arnold, Marvell and Longfellow.

An election of officers was also held by the group, with Mrs. Nancy Johnson re-elected president for the next two years. Other officers elected were Mrs. Buster Reed, first vice president; Mrs. Lorine Brumley, second vice president; Mrs. V. C. Bearden, secretary; Lola Mae Hewitt, treasurer; Ima Jane Brown, historian; and Mrs. T. E. Temple, parliamentarian.

As the music project for the year, the organization will assist with the spring concert of the High School A Capella Choir.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. A. J. Beckmayer and Bennie Speck. Sixteen members attended.

Beardens Visit

Mrs. and Mrs. Elvin Bearden and children visited over the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Thompson of Lamesa. The group also visited in Jal, N.M., with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler, and in Hobbs, N. M., with Mr. and Mrs. Pat Garner.

The executive board of the North Ward P-TA will meet at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the school. This is a called meeting by the president.

As a child I was told I was old for my age. When I first came to New York I wore my hair long and sleek on top. This became a key-note to my clothes.

"One day my mother saw me on TV and immediately wired me to cut my hair and look my age. I went to a beauty salon and had my hair cut and styled and it was amazing how many people told me after that what a change this made and how much younger I looked. Long hair is for teen-agers unless a person wears it in a chignon or a butterfly-wig."

The talk turned to food and what an essential role health food plays in keeping vigorous and young.

"When I don't eat properly," Dana confided, "I find I have a lower resistance. It is so easy to start the day with a cup of coffee, grab a quick lunch and then wonder why you can hardly drag yourself through the afternoon. I have found that if I am going to have vitality all day I must supply my body with fuel to go on and plan meals to be eaten leisurely enough to be digested."

"The way your prepare food has everything to do with their being appetizing," Dana remarked. "We do a lot of entertaining and Greg enjoys having his friends in for dinner. He knows good food but I manage to please him by the way I prepare them. And then I have a secret for gaining energy quickly after a hard day at the studio which he too enjoys. I think it is the reason that we both keep in such excellent health. Several other stars use this same pick-up in tea as Greg and I do."

"Greg is in wonderful condition. He is never sick," Dana exclaimed. "He is a hearty eater and always starts his day with a breakfast steak."

"If food is a basis of feeling well," Dana remarked, "then getting enough sleep and breathing correctly is the secret of looking well. I hate to feel tired and I know how to relax. One of my favorite ways is just lying in a tub of hot water. But the greatest beautifier of all," she said with glowing eyes, "is to be in love and happy."

ENERGY SECRETS
Proper eating habits bring health and beauty. Vitality comes from long range planning with nutritional meals and excluding overprocessed and overcooked foods. In Leaflet M-67, "Betty Hutton's Energy Secrets," you'll find ways to prepare food to retain its nutritional value. Also included in this important leaflet: breathing exercises for vitality and a very special energy pick-up. Binoculars, Guns Lost To Burglars Binoculars and pistols were taken in a burglary at Big Spring Hardware sometime Sunday. The burglary was discovered this morning. Three .22 caliber pistols, three holsters, and a pair of binoculars were listed as missing this morning. The pistols were valued at $30.50 each, while the binoculars were $155. The holsters were priced at $2.95 and $3.95. Police said the burglars used a small window at the rear of the building to enter. The window was opened from the basement. After gaining entry, the burglars "borrowed" two pairs of canvas gloves from the store and used them in their work. The gloves, plus a screwdriver and a long bolt, were left in the store. Officers were unable to find any fingerprints, but footprints were located in the basement. Police said that possibly other items were taken, but they were not discovered this morning. In another burglary over the weekend, a Revue movie camera was taken from a Coke machine residence at 1907 Mittal. Thomas told officers that the family went to a movie Saturday night about 8 p.m. and returned about 11. When they returned the camera was missing. Burglars used the back door, police reported. At Kate Morrison School, $7.70 was taken from a coke machine sometime over the weekend. Burglars broke out a window on the north side of the building to gain entrance. Burglars did not get into Hull-Phillips Grocery at 611 Lamesa Sunday night. An attempt was discovered by officers, but the building was not entered.

Mrs. Hazelwood Dies In Midland

STANTON (SC) — Funeral for Mrs. Johnnie Beatrice Hazelwood, 40, wife of Lois B. Hazelwood, was to be held at 3 p.m. Monday in the First Methodist Church here. Mrs. Hazelwood, who recently underwent major surgery, died Sunday at 11:30 a.m. in the Memorial Hospital at Midland. Services were to be in charge of the Rev. Allen Adams, Methodist pastor at Loraine, and the Rev. Richard Neal, pastor of the St. Nicholas Episcopal Church in Midland. Burial was to be in the Rest Haven Memorial Park in Midland under the direction of Arlington Funeral Home. Mrs. Hazelwood was born Johnnie Collier in Travis on Dec. 27, 1916. She was married to Mr. Hazelwood in Stanton, and they made their home in the Courtney community. Mrs. Hazelwood had lived in Martin County about 30 years. She was active in the church and social affairs of the Courtney community. She was a member of the Methodist Church here. Surviving are her husband; three sons, John Wallace Hazelwood, Kenneth Burnard Hazelwood, and James Richard Hazelwood; and one daughter, Lois Ann Hazelwood, all of Courtney. Mrs. Hazelwood also is survived by her mother, Mrs. J. B. Collier, Stanton; two sisters, Mrs. Claudia Hazelwood, Midland and Mrs. Marjorie Munn, Lubbock. Pallbearers were to be Elmer Nichols, Joe Board, W. N. Orson, Duane Motley, Dr. W. B. Hardy, and Freddy Martin.

Marijuana Charge Filed Against Man

Steve Jones, 36-year-old Big Spring Negro, was arrested early this morning by Jack Shaffer, chief deputy for the sheriff's office, and Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney. Jones was charged with possession of marijuana in a complaint filed in the court of Walter Grice, justice of the peace. The officers said they found an envelope on Jones containing five homemade cigarettes which they believed to be marijuana. Jones was placed in the county jail.

Mrs. Boswell Of Ackerly Dies, Rites Set Today

Mrs. Malinda Belle Boswell, 91, of Ackerly died here Sunday after an illness of four months. Services were to be conducted at 3 p.m. Monday in the First Methodist Church at Ackerly with the Rev. Harold L. Morris, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. Roy Haynes, Woodrow. Burial was to be in the Big Spring City Cemetery under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. She will be interred beside the grave of her husband, who died in 1945. Mrs. Boswell was extremely active until she became ill, and on her 91st birthday she had prepared and served a meal to her family to celebrate the occasion. Born in Greenville on April 22, 1865, as Malinda Lynch, she was married to W. D. Boswell in Greenville on March 1, 1885. With her husband she was a retired Free Will Baptist minister, she moved to Ackerly from Comanche, Okla., in 1933. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Maude White, Ackerly; two brothers, Carey Lynch, Greenville, and George Lynch, Quitana; five grandchildren, including Mrs. Shelby Read, Big Spring; Al White, Big Spring; Owen Boswell, Cletus Boswell, Beaumont, and Edward Boswell, Stockton, Calif. Several great-grandchildren, including Mary Read and David Read of Big Spring, also survive. A son, Claude Boswell, who died in 1924, and a daughter, Mrs. Grace Brown, who passed away in 1947, preceded her in death. Pallbearers were to be Oran Rhea, Jack Harry, Dolph Rasberry, Travis Russell, John L. Rudeseal, A. H. Smith, Tom Gregg and George Rhea.

Officers Check Boys' Activities

Three youths, two of whom are juveniles and a third 19 years old, are being held in jail while officers investigate their past activities. Shorty Long, juvenile officer, said that the two younger boys claim Aztec, N. M., as their home. Their companion claims he is from West Virginia. Long said the three youths in company with a fourth boy who is being sought have been at Coahoma for several days. They were in a car which had but one license plate. The boys had no driver's license. Grover Coates, constable, investigated the quartet and was able to arrest three of the four. The other youth is being sought. Long said he had no information from Aztec relative to the juveniles. Officers are checking owner of the car in which the four boys were travelling.

Rites Set For D. P. Carr, 87

LAMESA—Funeral services were to be held this afternoon for Douglas Pickens Carr, 87, resident of Dawson County for the past 15 years. Mr. Carr, who died at 8 a.m. Sunday in a Lamesa hospital, was a retired farmer. Services were to be conducted at 3 p.m. from Higginbotham Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Monroe Teeters, Midway Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was to be in the Lamesa Memorial Park. Survivors include three sisters: Mrs. R. A. Mansell, O'Donnell; Mrs. Bill Stone and Mrs. C. C. Bloodworth, both of Fort Worth; and three brothers: Lovie Carr, Amarillo; Hubert Carr, El Paso; and A. J. Carr, Lamesa.

Twenty-five merits are required for the degree. Of some 5,000 photographs submitted, only 1,410 were accepted for display. May's photographs were "Gymnasium West" and a "Collie Girl." Brandon's photograph was "Man of God."

Accident Victim In Good Condition

Billy Jack Darden, injured in a one-car accident east of here Saturday night, was reported in good condition today. Darden, of Coahoma, sustained cuts about the head in the accident. He was pinned underneath his car which had hit a culvert between the two divided lanes and skidded about 100 feet. The accident occurred three and a half miles east of here on Highway 80. Darden was rushed to Big Spring Hospital by a River ambulance and treated for the cuts.

Sponsor To Push Bill To Kill Special U. S. Senate Election

The sponsor of a bill that would cancel the special U. S. Senate election said he would try to bring it up in the state Senate Monday. The announcement by State Sen. Charles Herring brought quick retorts by two of the 22 candidates running for the Senate seat vacated by Gov. Price Daniel. Republican candidate Thad Hutcheson of Houston called the Herring bill "unprincipled and illegal." Democrat James P. Hart of Austin said, "The Herring bill should be defeated." Herring says he will make "a strong effort" to bring up his bill that would eliminate the special election April 2 and would leave in interim Sen. William Blakley in Washington for the remaining two years of Daniel's unexpired term. Blakley, a Democrat, was appointed the day Daniel resigned to become governor. "The Pool bill seems pretty well gone," said Herring, in a reference to a bill by State Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas that would require a runoff if the leading candidate in the special election does not poll a majority over his combined opposition. "I want the Senate to have a chance to vote on the favorable committee report given my bill. I don't think it is right for a bare minority to elect a senator to represent all the people," Herring said. "It would be better to leave a man up there whom everybody likes, including the governor."

Senate Approves Insurance Revamp

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate passed by voice vote today a bill reorganizing the Insurance Commission into a part-time board with a commissioner as chief administrative officer. The vote came after several amendments were killed. One would have retained the present commission setup with an executive secretary. Another would have kept Commissioner John Osorio and Mark Wentz on the new board. The bill was drafted by Sen. William Fly of Victoria and contrasts with a bill submitted by the governor in the House which calls for reorganization with a full-time board. The Senate bill now goes to the House. Sen. Grady Hazlewood declared a part-time board would cause "within 15 years the greatest scandal in Texas history. It will eclipse everything that has occurred in Texas so far—the veterans' land scandals, insurance scandals and all." Sen. Charles Herring proposed an amendment which would retain the present commission setup but would allow the commission to appoint an executive secretary. A part-time board "can't come down here once a month and handle the complicated job of regulating the insurance industry," he said. Herring agreed with Hazlewood that "I hate to think of what will happen to the insurance industry in the future," if the part-time plan becomes law. In moving to table the amendment, Fly told senators that "if you are satisfied with the way the Insurance Commission is running now you'll vote for the Herring amendment. If you think that everything over there is hunky-dory, you'll vote for it." Fly's motion prevailed, 17-13. Sen. David Ratliff proposed that the two commissioners whose terms have several more years to run be named to the reorganized board. In opposing this amendment, Fly said "Ratliff trying to save Mark Wentz's job. Wentz has stood here and prevented the intention of the Legislature (1955) from going into effect." Fly's motion also prevailed, 19-11. An amendment by Sen. Frank Owen of El Paso would require the commission to move from its $7,000 monthly rental location at the International Life Insurance Building to another location. Despite Fly's objection, the tabling motion failed 7-23. Both houses adjourned until 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Rev. Moore's Brother Dies

The Rev. Fr. W. Joseph Moore, OMI, pastor of the St. Thomas Catholic Church, left Sunday for Houston on learning of the death of his brother, John L. Moore. Mr. Moore, an interior decorator and salesman for Waddell's Furniture store for 35 years, died Saturday at his home at 1433 Columbia. He had suffered a short illness after a heart attack. Mr. Moore will say a Requiem Mass and will conduct the services for his brother's funeral at Saints Church at 9 a.m. Tuesday. Mr. Moore was born in Dublin, Ireland, 61 years ago. He came to Houston at the age of 15 years and served in the 90th Division in France and Germany during World War I. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and at one time served his post as vice commander. Surviving him are his widow, Jennie D., and four children, John J. Moore Jr., Tom Moore, Mrs. Charlotte Turner, and Mrs. Rosemary Bookman. He also leaves 12 grandchildren as well as two brothers, James and Austin Hunter, Pak Park, Ill., and Fr. W. J. Moore, Big Spring; and two sisters, Miss Elvira Hunter, Austin, and Sister M. Pauline of Sunderland, England.

Judge To Hear New Trial Plea

Morris Harrell, who was found guilty of theft last week by a jury in 19th District Court and his punishment assessed at 10 years in the state penitentiary, is scheduled to make a formal motion before Judge Charlie Sullivan this afternoon for a new trial. Harrell prepared his own first motion for a new trial but on recommendation of the court, Carroll Smith, who was appointed his attorney at his trial, redrew the motion which is to be presented to the court. Harrell's contentions for a new trial allege (1) that he was indicted and convicted under the name of Morris Harold, (2) that emamination of him by Gullford Jones, district attorney, was improper and that (3) Jones' argument to the jury was also improper. Harrell is being held in the county jail. He was originally scheduled to have been taken to the state prison last week but just as the car was being loaded for the trip, he presented his hand-drawn motion for a new trial.

Demand Picks Up For Ape Paintings

BALTIMORE (AP)—Betsy, the chimp gone arty, continued her abstract dabblings today as the market for her work picked up. Betsy had her first public sale yesterday. Her paintings have sold for as high as $50 each. Zoo director Arthur Watson said there have been numerous telephone calls as well as personal inquiries about the stiff turned out by the 7-year-old chimp. Betsy finger paints. She also uses hands, tongue, elbows—anything she can get hold of to make the swirls and lines and daubs which Watson said are art museum official has termed good enough to hang with other abstract works. Watson said the money may be used to "buy Betsy a husband." Receipts from her paintings already total $145, Watson said. He's hoping for a fund of around $600 to get a mate for Betsy as well as some other animals. Betsy, who has been painting since the fall of 1953, has turned out 17 salable canvasses so far. Ten others had to be thrown away. In one big day she turned out 10 in one hour. Watson started her on painting as a stunt and because, he said, she had natural dexterity. Hard at it yesterday, Betsy first tasted a dab of green paint on the paper. Then she smeared some yellow paint into what looked like corn stalks. Then, with a raucous chuckle, she stood in the middle of the painting. She capped off this piece by grabbing Watson's head and rubbing gooey black paint into the thinning design. Watson said a Texas doctor who sent in $30 for one of Betsy's paintings probably will be sent one Watson has labeled "Shore Birds." He says you can make out rather clearly five different birds, including a bittern, a black crow, a heron, an ostrich and a bird of paradise. The $30 check came from Dr. Vincent Vermooten Dallas, Watson said.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—
Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astounding statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynal)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee. *Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

154 people were left homeless in two villages on Kauai while 4,000 others were isolated by washed-out bridges. Unofficial damage estimates ranged up to two million dollars. No direct loss of life was reported because of early warnings, but Paul O. Beam, veteran newsman, and Sarah Park, Star-Bulletin reporter, were dead in the crash of a plane photographing the waves. Gov. King said he was waiting full damage reports before asking federal aid, but had declared a 10-mile coastal stretch on Kauai a disaster area.

Quakes Continue To Shake Pacific

The Pacific's jumpy northeastern rim continued to tremble today as the result of a mighty earthquake in the Aleutian Islands Saturday.

The restless earth that sent tidal waves crashing into villages in Hawaii and Japan rumbled again at 7:20:23 p.m., Pacific Standard Time (10:20:23 p.m., EST).

The University of California seismograph at Berkeley was still registering the shock 2 1/2 hours later.

Research assistant John Denoyer said the new quake, apparently another vigorous aftershock of the Saturday quake, appeared again to be in the Aleutians.

Meanwhile, the Coast and Geodetic Survey office in Honolulu reported that Mt. Vsevidof on the Aleutian island of Unimak was belching smoke after lying dormant for 200 years. Officials said it probably had been stirred to life by Saturday's big quake.

In Hawaii, where waves ranging from 3 to 9 feet high slammed up over the beaches Saturday along northern shores of the islands, Gov. Samuel Wilder King Hours after the alert had ended in Hawaii, nine-foot waves crashed into fishing villages on Hokkaido, northernmost of the main Japanese islands. Police reported one house washed away with others wrecked and more than 50 flooded. The 3 1/2-foot wave that belatedly rolled into San Diego Bay late Saturday night yanked an 83-foot boat slip from its moorings and caused damage estimated at $5,000.

In Berkeley, seismologist Denoyer said he could not tell whether last night's aftershock, the fifth, would cause more tidal waves.

Seismologist Don Tocher said the University of California recorded another major shock for two hours this morning.

Little Chance To Halt Nasser Plans On Suez

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Western officials reportedly see little chance to block Egyptian President Nasser's drive for full operating control of the Suez Canal.

The future of the Suez—along with alternative means of transport—probably will rank high in the talks between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Bermuda next week.

Nasser presumably is relying upon Soviet backing to help him make sure the hold which he has been tightening on the Suez Canal since he seized it last July 26. The United States and many other free nations have been trying to keep some measure of operating control of the canal while conceding Egypt's ownership of it.

The newest Western move was a proposal that ships using the waterway pay tolls to the World Bank, United Nations or some other "neutral" agency. The agency in turn would pay 50 per cent of the collection to Egypt and hold the rest pending a final settlement of the claims arising out of Egypt's nationalization act.

Nasser's regime gave its answer in a statement Saturday, Information Director Abdel Kader Hatem said Egypt would not accept "any such proposal" because "it violates Egypt's rights according to the 1888 convention on the Suez Canal." He added that from now on all Suez Canal tolls must be paid to Egyptian authorities.

The Western Powers have two principal bargaining points in addition to the less direct pressure of world opinion.

For one, the United States and Britain have frozen very substantial Egyptian assets under their control. Nasser wants them released but experts here doubt they will be a decisive factor. The other is the fact that not only the nations of Western Europe but also those of South Asia and Africa and many of the Arab states themselves, have an interest in reliable transport through the canal.

Caught In Grinder

Robert Fernandez, 14-year-old butcher's helper, waits in the emergency room of a San Antonio hospital for removal of a meat grinder in which his arm was snared. Doctors had to amputate the arm which was badly mangled. Attendant at right is unidentified.

If Nasser tries to make his victory too complete, he could easily offend or frighten other Arab countries and such nations as India.

Bear Goulash
BERLIN (AP)—A zoo director in Communist East Germany is serving up some of his surplus bears as goulash in the zoo restaurant, the Leipzig Volkszeitung said today. The idea is to help ease the meat shortage, the paper said.

Get Pep And Keep Pep

With proper treatment there is no need to loose your vitality. Thousands of people will tell you that. After 40 has rejuvenated them back to normal.

People that live on the seacoast and eat oysters are real red blooded people with lots of pep—you too can have that pep you once had and one bottle of After 40 will convince you.

After 40 is sold by Collins Brothers Drug Store and the Walgreen Agency in Big Spring, Texas. (Adv.)

Giant S. S. United States holds Blue Ribbon for North Atlantic crossing—record time: 3 days, 10 hours, 40 minutes.

It takes a GIANT to bring two worlds
together . . .

It takes a giant ship to bring the old and new worlds together. It takes a giant to bring products and prospects together, too. That giant is the newspaper, reaching into every city, every day.

Because the newspaper conveys all the news from around the world—and particularly from around the corner—readers are buying more newspapers than ever—more than 56,000,000 copies daily!

Because Americans read the newspaper for news of products, too, advertisers are buying more newspapers than ever. Last year, all advertisers invested a record $3,087,800,000 in newspapers—more than was spent in radio, TV, magazines and outdoor combined!

In today's market, everyone—retailer, wholesaler, distributor and manufacturer—needs a giant to bring his products and prospects together. The newspaper will do the job economically, consistently, quickly.

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers.
