Surety Probers Hear Data On Pleasure Trips

AUSTIN (AP)—Details of Ben Jack Cagle's pleasure trip favors to former Texas Insurance Commission Chairman Gary A. (Chink) Smith and his no-work job for Smith's son-in-law were heard by House investigators last night.

Cage was head of Jack Cagle & Co., promoters of the ICT Insurance Co. of Dallas that has collapsed with heavy obligations, tagged as "hopelessly insolvent" by the Insurance Commission.

Smith told the House ICT Investigating Committee that he had received no money directly or indirectly from Cagle. Smith said that he did not think Cagle was trying to "promote" him for an investigation when he picked up a tab on flying trips to Santa Fe, Las Vegas, California, Havana and Houston in Cagle's private plane.

Smith was a member of the commission while Rychlik was getting $700 a month from Jack Cagle & Co. to set up an advertising and public relations office here that never materialized. The last $700 check was torn up later in December 1955, Rychlik said, on his father-in-law's advice.

Smith was under heavy fire at that time and resigned from the commission in January. He and other members of the commission were sharply criticized in connection with the failure of the U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco.

Smith said he did not consider such "favors" as the airplane trips with Cagle to be irregular. They are the "usual thing," he said, but said nobody has offered him any since he left the commission.

This brought a laugh from the audience. Rychlik, asked if he would be willing to take a lie detector test over his testimony before the committee, said that he had "rather not."

Smith's son-in-law was asked by Committee Chairman Rep. Scott McDonald of Fort Worth why Smith had advised him to tear up the last check. Rychlik said he didn't think Smith gave any reason.

"Did you think it was wrong to keep the checks?" "Well, I didn't think it was exactly right," Rychlik replied.

AF Plane Carrying Nixon To Libya Forced To Return

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—The U. S. Air Force plane bringing Vice President Nixon to Libya was forced to return to Khartoum today by a partial engine failure.

Nixon's plans to visit Tobruk to meet King Idris of Libya were shelved temporarily. He may fly on directly to Tripoli for a visit to the American Wheelus Air Base after the engine has been repaired or may change his plans further.

Before leaving Khartoum, Nixon said Sudan has not decided yet whether to support President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine. Sudanese Premier Abdullah Khalil expressed interest in obtaining

U. S. aid, principally for improving the country's roads and water supply. Nixon added that the Sudan's decision on the Eisenhower Doctrine will be made after Special White House Ambassador James Richards comes here next month to explain its details.

Nixon conferred with other Sudanese leaders, who reportedly want American aid to support the country's economy. One government spokesman declined to discuss the possibility of such a request but said that any American aid "must be made without any conditions which infringe on Sudan's independence and sovereignty."

hearings for the day with a dramatic recital by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) of the circumstances he said attended the arrest last night of James R. Hoffa, vice president of the giant Teamsters Union.

Hoffa was accused of scheming to plant an agent on the committee's staff. He was charged with violating laws as to attempted bribery of federal employees.

McClellan said the committee would meet any "challenge," and Sen. Mundt (R-SD) declared: "Goon squad methods applied to the U. S. Senate will not work."

Hoffa, in a statement, said he had done nothing wrong and would fight the charges. Once Langley had refused to answer questions, McClellan ordered the playing of the recordings. These were reportedly made secretly by Elkins, described by the committee as "king of the underworld" in Portland.

Troops Smash Revolt In Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Tank-backed troops have wiped out a bold student attempt to capture or kill President Fulgencio Batista in fighting that took an estimated 40 lives.

The government said the entire nation was calm early today. One of the dead was an American tourist. A curfew, imposed after the assault on the presidential palace in the heart of Havana, was lifted last night. Many persons, including American tourists, moved about as usual in bars, restaurants and night clubs.

Armored cars and tanks still mobilized about the palace, Batista's office and residence, were the only open signs of the trouble that erupted violently yesterday afternoon. There was no official announcement of arrests, but it was evident that police were carrying out an intensive search for participants in the attack.

In addition to the 40 persons reported killed, an estimated 60 were wounded. The dead included tourist Peter Korenda, Clifton, N.J. A stray bullet killed him as he watched the battle from the fifth-floor balcony of the Regis Hotel. His roommate, Ed R. Butts, Garfield, N.J., was wounded slightly.

Police said the rebel dead included Jose Antonio Echeverria, president of the University of Havana students' federation, and Menelao Mora, a congressman when Carlos Frio Socarras was Cuban president. The bullet-riddled body of another revolutionary leader, former Sen. Pelayo Cuervo Navarro, was found early today on the grounds of a suburban country club but it was not immediately clear whether his death had any connection with the attempt on Batista.

Echeverria was identified as a friend of Fidel Castro, young anti-Batista guerrilla leader operating in the mountains of eastern Cuba. The attack on Batista was not directly linked with Castro, but the students undoubtedly were inspired by the guerrilla campaign which the army has been unable to suppress completely.

Observers here attribute the abortive uprising to long-smoldering resentment against some aspects of Batista's regime. Cuba is experiencing prosperity, but many persons fear increased public debt and inflation. Unemployment has been rising. Cuban student groups have always been bitter about the dictatorial side of Batista's rule.

The uprising began with a caravan of buses and cars roaring into the palace plaza. A band of armed student rebels streamed off. Apparently operating under prearranged plans, one group immediately charged into the palace while other attackers took cover in nearby buildings and laid down a curtain of protective fire.

Three persons were hospitalized and several cars were seriously damaged in a series of four accidents on Wednesday and Thursday.

In Big Spring Hospital with a broken arm and head injuries is Jack Houston Payne of Big Spring. In Cowper Hospital with a head injury, is Pete Vasquez, 45, of Abilene. Also given hospital treatment was Helen Dewan Hodges.

First of the mishaps occurred at 10:15 a. m. Wednesday at the intersection of U. S. 87 and FM 176 location was in town. Patrolman Ben Walker said it involved Jessie Archer, 78, Ackery, and John Witherspoon Denton, Garden City. The two cars were damaged but neither passenger was injured.

At 2:40 p. m., 3 miles on the Andrews highway, Walker said Jack Houston Payne of Big Spring, rolled his car over three times. At 7:45 p. m. Pete Vasquez, 45, of Abilene, in a 1957 Ford pickup turned over. The accident occurred 3.8 miles on East Highway 80. Vasquez was accompanied by Pete Flores, also of Abilene. The pickup was damaged more than $1,000.

At 2:30 a. m. Thursday, Patrolman Jimmy Parks was called to investigate a wreck on FM 700. He said the driver of the car was Helen Dewan Hodges, 114 Madison. She was driving a 1951 Studebaker. She lost control of the car and it spun off the road. She was taken to Cowper Hospital for emergency treatment. The car was extensively damaged.

House Begins Whittling Job On State's Budget

Carnival Group Fined $1,153 On Gaming Charges

Combined forces of the city police, sheriff's office, highway patrol, Texas rangers and other agencies swooped down on a carnival operating near the livestock barns last night and 14 persons were booked for gaming.

Equipment which officers said represented several thousand dollars was seized from the Rocky Mountain Empire Shows which was operating in Big Spring this week in connection with the annual Howard County FFA and 4-H Livestock show.

Walter Grice, justice of the peace, assessed fines and costs in an aggregate amount of $1,153. All of the 14 persons charged entered pleas of guilty at an 11 p. m. session in the justice court room.

One of three women booked protested, "We were not told we couldn't operate."

The raid was staged by Sheriff Miller Harris, Police Chief C. L. Rogers, County Attorney Harvey C. Hooser Jr., Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney's office, and Texas Ranger John Wood. Other officers in the campaign were Deputy Sheriffs Randall Sherrod and Bill Cartwright, State Highway Patrolman Jimmy Parks and City Detective Leo Hull.

West signed the complaints and Hooser filed them before Grice. With three exceptions the fines were $75 each and costs of $19.50. The exceptions included Henry C. White, who paid a total of $24.50; Mrs. Tennie Davis, $44.50; and Richard Leon Williams, $94.50.

The others were fined and costs assessed aggregating $94.50 each. These were Don Cowan, Jack Ames, Frank O. Swartz, H. C. Reasons, Ruth McCabe, Leta Turner, Donald Barnes, William H. Sanders, Lloyd Miller, Harry B. Davis and Harry Eddels.

All paid off in cash with the exception of Miller, who said he did not have enough money to do so. He was still in jail at noon. Mrs. Turner declared that she had been told that the games were forbidden she would not have been operating.

Hoeser replied that District Attorney Guilford Jones had told the carnival and its management before the shows opened here that lawful operation was their responsibility. Jones warned the carnival people that he was not obligated to be advance censor of the shows.

Rogers reported that two young men complained that one of the carnival game operators took $35 from them Wednesday evening. Rides and other concessions at the shows were not affected by the raids.

'EXPECTANT' BRIDE TAG IS MISLEADING, CHANGE ASKED

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Vermont marriage licenses call brides "expectant," and State Sen. Hector D. Marcoux doesn't like it. Marcoux said today he will propose a bill to issue marriage licenses to "prospective" brides.

A law passed in 1951 to set marriage license procedures refers twice to the "bride expectant." Sen. Marcoux said yesterday this can lead to misinterpretation. He wants the legal wording changed to "prospective." He says that is a more "accurate" definition.

His bill will also change references to the bridegroom from "expectant" to "prospective." But Sen. Marcoux says that isn't half as important.

Teamsters Leader Faces Bribe Count

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa, reputed to be the real power in the giant Teamsters Union, was arrested last night on a charge of trying to bribe a lawyer to feed him secrets from the Senate investigation into labor racketeering. He quickly posted $25,000 bond and was released pending a hearing March 28.

Almost simultaneously the Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested Hyman I. Fischbach, 47, a Miami, Fla., lawyer, on related charges of bribery. He made bond on the spot at his Coral Gables home.

Also taken into custody, at Detroit, was Hoffa's red-haired 34-year-old secretary, Mrs. Dorothy P. Dobrescu, held only as a material witness. She was held under $5,000 bond on a detainer order which said there was a "likelihood she might flee" to avoid testifying.

Today Hoffa denied any wrongdoing and said he will "fight this case until I am cleared."

"I have been in the labor movement all my life and have had to fight labor's battles on the picket lines and in the courts against the forces opposed to trade unionism," Hoffa said.

"This is not the first instance when a labor leader has been unjustly accused."

The accusation against Hoffa, 44-year-old vice president of the Teamsters Union, was that he had hired John Cye Cheasty, a New York attorney, to get a job with the Senate committee and provide Hoffa with information from committee files. The Senate group's inquiry so far has centered on Teamster affairs.

Both the FBI and Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) said Cheasty had cooperated fully in the monthlong investigation that led up to Hoffa's arrest. Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Cheasty worked as "a double agent."

The FBI said that when Hoffa was seized, "he had in his possession documents from the committee files which he had just received."

Soon after Hoffa's arrest, he was taken before U. S. Commissioner James Splain on charges of violating the federal bribery statutes.

Splain ordered Hoffa freed in $25,000 pending a hearing before the commissioner March 28. Hoffa's lawyer protested the bond was excessive. After the proceeding, Hoffa declined comment.

After announcing Hoffa's arrest, the FBI said it had arrested Hyman I. Fischbach, 47, a Miami lawyer, on bribery charges. The department said Fischbach, who was seized in Coral Gables, Fla., was named with Hoffa in a complaint filed with U. S. Dist. Judge Richmond B. Keech.

At the same time, Hoffa's 34-year-old red-haired secretary, Mrs. Dorothy P. Dobrescu was arrested as a material witness by FBI agents who swooped down on her Detroit apartment.

She was held under $5,000 bond on a detainer order which said "there is likelihood she might flee and leave the continental limits of the United States to avoid testifying." Neither she nor her attorney would comment.

McClellan said the alleged bribe by "Mr. Hoffa is clearly indicative of the steps that the gangster elements are undertaking and will continue to undertake to hinder, hamper, obstruct and destroy this committee."

Attempt Beaten To Delay Action

AUSTIN (AP)—The House began whittling away today at a two-billion dollar spending bill for the next two years after beating down an effort to postpone action until Tuesday.

The vote was 94-37 to table the delay motion made by Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont, who has said he is a candidate for speaker of the House next session.

"This may be a good bill, but if it is it will still be good next Tuesday," Smith said. "If it's a bad bill we should have plenty of time to work on it."

The Beaumont legislator contended "They are going to try to ram this thing through today by saying that the conference committees will work out any differences. If you let conference committees do the work, you will be derelict in your duty. Your folk elected you to vote on this bill."

"There will be no rewriting of this bill by conference committees," said Rep. Max Smith of San Marcos, chairman of the Appropriations Committee. "We are going to rewrite it here today."

He said the bill had been in members' hands 10 days and before that anyone could have attended hearings.

"We did go to a good many of the public hearings," answered Will Smith, "but no one but members of the Appropriations Committee had a vote there. Do you realize that there is not a member on the Appropriations Committee from the southeast Texas area from Beaumont and Port Arthur and Orange and on?"

Numerous legislators are expected to offer amendments to the bill which calls for no new taxes. Additional appropriations could bring out one of the several tax measures already introduced.

An effort failed, 62-32, to limit debate to five minutes for pro and con arguments on each amendment offered to the appropriations bill. The regular debate time of 10 minutes per representative was upheld.

Rep. B. H. Dewey Jr. of Bryan offered the motion. He said each side would have five minutes for debate on each amendment offered. A five minute extension could be offered if approved by the House.

"I think right now we're going to apply the gag rule," said Rep. Zeke Zbrank of Daisetta. Rep. Carlton Moore of Houston said Dewey's motion "is to throttle you. This is a muzzle. I don't want to be choked to death."

When the Appropriations Committee reported out its efforts last week, Speaker Waggoner Carr urged members to continue their hard work and see if we can't get out of here in 120 days despite the interruptions.

The critical spending bill has been ready all week but gave way to more spectacular committee work on bribery and insurance investigations and on segregation legislation.

But last night everyone was decided that the major appropriations bill would be debated today. It was known a large number of amendments would be presented in an effort to change the three-pound, 287-page proposal.

Traditionally the House begins work first in trying to figure out the state's two-year spending budget. However, the Senate Finance Committee has completed its hearings and the Senate appropriations bill probably will be ready in about two weeks.

After each House has passed its version, then joint conference committees will iron out the final details before sending the final draft to the governor.

The House committee bill—which actually was a rewrite of proposals made by the legislative Budget Board, by Gov. Price Daniel, and by witnesses at the public hearings—asks a grand total of $2,072,781,874 for the biennium beginning Sept. 1. The forecast of revenue from all sources—including sizable federal grants—was about $2,372,000,000.

The recommended appropriation from the general revenue fund is $262,644,334, compared to $216,000,000 for the current biennium. It is this figure that largely concerns the senators and legislators because most of the state's operating money comes from that source.

The general fund total approved by the committee is more than the $256,000,000 recommended by the Legislature Budget Board but less than Daniel's suggested $278,300,000 budget.

The main item of increased spending was $15,700,000 more the next two years for pay increase to about 90 per cent of the state's 33,000 regular employees.

The committee's estimate of income assumed that the Legislature would reappropriate the five million dollars collected annually from the cigarette tax to the state hospitals building fund.

It also based salary increase for college teachers and employees on an estimated income of eight million dollars over the two years from increased tuition fees at the schools.

Social Unrest Is Powerful Force In Red Russia Today

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst
EDITOR'S NOTE: It has taken 49 years to produce the "new Soviet man." Where is he headed? William L. Ryan, Associated Press specialist on Russia, underlines some of the fruits of mass education causing uneasiness in the Kremlin today. It is the last of a series of four articles.

Another revolution is slowly gaining momentum in Russia today.

Forty years after the revolt against czarism and the subsequent Bolshevik seizure of power, striking changes can be noticed. Russia's present revolution is not one of violence, but of social ferment, spurred by steady though passive pressure on a regime still bent only on massive power.

Old Russia saw centuries of terror, oppression, isolation from a progressing West.

Modern Russia saw horror, famine, mass deportations, purges and executions. She experienced brief alliance with a deadly enemy, Hitler Germany, and catastrophic war with that enemy. She saw wartime alliance with the West and a violent Cold War against her former allies. She produced fantastic hero worship of Stalin, sudden destruction of the Stalin legend and now the equally fantastic attempt to restore Stalin's ghost to respectability.

Like Czar Nicholas I in 1849, modern Russia's rulers brutally crushed a Hungarian revolution.

The reasons were the same — in 1849 to save an autocrat, Emperor Francis Joseph, and in 1956 to save the rule of totalitarian communism.

INHERENT WEAKNESS

Perhaps, however, communism will become its own worst enemy. Most Russians are badly off. But many millions are immeasurably better off materially than their fathers. A conservative, property-minded middle class is growing. It is the sort of class Russia never had under czarism. Despite popular conceptions of communism, it is possible now to be a ruble millionaire, to bequeath property, to amass private goods.

This is a softening influence, a developing shield against the barbarism of the past when there was no middle class such as transformed the West.

Education in Russia is almost universal. To industrialize the nation in its bid for world domination, Soviet leaders had to educate it. Keeping this population sealed off from awareness of the outside becomes progressively more difficult.

The people have more. But they know they deserve even more. They want more of the material blessings in which Westerners made great advances. They want more spiritual benefits, more room for intellectual adventure.

for argument, disagreement, for shaping their own destinies. They are weary of lectures and strictures, of being told "it is necessary . . . you must do this . . . you must think that . . ."

They weary of being a little ashamed of their leaders. Thus the government must, for example, distort the Hungarian story and warn against "slandorous rumors." And once again, as always when the rulers worried, old bogies are trotted out. Russians are told the United States plans atomic war against them. While the motherland is in danger, an excuse exists for whatever measures the rulers adopt to counter pressure from the population.

Only a handful of Bolsheviks seized a promising Russian revolution in 1917. Possibly it was Russia's destiny, in tune with the endless seeking for an absolute answer to all questions and in keeping with a tradition of rule by terror.

LIBERTY ELUSIVE

Freedom seemed almost a negative, sinful idea to Russians. There are two Russian words for freedom. One is "svoboda," meaning freedom as applied to relations between government and governed. Russians had little understanding of the concept. The other, "volya," meant more — a sort of freedom of soul, which could be reconciled with regimentation.

Acceptance of regimentation was habitual with Russians ever since Peter the Great put large sections of the population in uniform. But Western ideas seeped in, and Russian thinkers began regarding their rulers with a sort of horror.

"Few," wrote Alexander Herzen a century ago, "know what happens beneath the shroud with which the state covers the corpses, bloodstains, military trials, while maintaining hypocritically and arrogantly there is neither blood nor corpse beneath the shroud."

The words could apply to Russia today.

Forty years ago Bolsheviks seized a revolution, twisted it, imposed upside-down czarism with regimentation, terror, slave labor, frozen prison camps, secret police. Under Stalin, the regime invited famine in order to crush peasant independence and force collectivization. At the same time it labored to build heavy industry and military might, while keeping the people poor in life's amenities.

Stalin nailed down his dictatorship by 1928, after years of fearful bloodletting purges. Before the merciless tongue-lashings of a fanatical prosecutor, Andrei Vishinsky, famous Bolsheviks paraded abjectly before their judges with fantastic confessions. Zinoviev, Kamenev, Rykov, many other Lenin lieutenants died before firing squads. So did hundreds of Red army officers. Thousands went into Siberian exile.

When the smoke cleared, Stalin was absolute ruler, a "Little Father" image of the old czars, to be worshipped as a demigod. Stalin, the dictator and World War II generalissimo, died in March, 1953.

Lesser men remained. No one of them could fill a dictator's shoes. A mutual protective league — the collective leadership — emerged after ganging up on Police Boss Beria, labelling him imperialist spy and executing him along with thousands of his dread MVD secret police organization.

Nervous over the people's mood, the leaders promised abundant consumer goods. It seemed as if the leaders felt a slow, revolutionary pressure from the growing middle class. There were relaxations of Stalinism, denunciations of Stalin. But it brought ferment, and the leaders once again had to draw the reins. HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF?

Many a Russian leader proclaims that "all roads lead to communism." But is the Soviet road leading to communism? Has it not already led to an entrenched, privileged class, interested primarily in keeping what it has and unhappy at the prospect of risking its position for the greater glory of world Marxism?

And isn't the Soviet Union really Imperial Russia in a new guise? Like Russia's last four czars, today's Kremlin eyes the Middle East and Asia greedily. Japan and Britain stopped the czars' restless push outward. Today the United States stands in the way of spreading Soviet "enlightenment."

Russian rulers many times before had forgotten their own backyard in their urge to conquest. While they concentrated on power, they built ferment within the empire itself. The most striking aspect of Russian history is the way it has of repeating itself. Will it repeat itself once more? (Last of a series.)

Dates Set For 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run

The 1957 Mobilgas Economy passenger cars competing for top efficiency honor, will go from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, Idaho, on April 14-18, it has been announced by G. L. Tate, vice president of Magnolia Petroleum Company. Officials of the United States Auto Club, which supervises the event, have divided the field of American produced cars into four classes. Winners will be named in each of the industry's traditional price classifications, low-price, low-medium, upper-medium and high-price. The class winner will be judged the sweepstakes champion.

Unlike most automotive competitive events, the strictly-regulated Economy Run matches the nation's cars in a contest that bases results on making the best use of gasoline as a measure of performance. In recent years, 98 per cent of America's automotive production has been represented on the run. Entry lists are now open to automotive manufacturers, dealers or individuals. The competing cars are delivered to the entrants after they are chosen at random by officials of the U. S. A. C. to assure that all cars are stock in every detail. U. S. A. C. officials may commandeer cars from factory assembly lines, from dealers' display rooms or from warehouse stocks. All cars will be four-door sedans or two- or four-door hard-top models.

All parts of the car must be exactly as delivered to the public. Only automatic transmission-equipped cars may be entered. The unique motor competition, tabbed in a nationwide survey as the nation's foremost stock car test, will subject the new cars to a rugged four-day drive over stop-and-go city traffic as well as long stretches of open highway. Every minute of the time of cars will be under the constant surveillance of U. S. A. C. officials to guarantee that they are driven in strict conformity with all traffic laws. The exact course is a top-level secret until all the competing cars have been garnered by U. S. A. C. officials, headed by Chief Steward A. C. Pillsbury, and are impounded at the Pasadena, Calif., headquarters of the run. Test drives over the actual course are thus limited to the final days before the run. The route selected will compress into four days of driving all the variations in highway conditions, altitudes and traffic the average motorist encounters in a full year of driving.

To provide a basis for fair determination of winning cars in all four price divisions, regardless of size, the ton-miles method will be followed. The ton-mile figure is determined by multiplying the gross weight of the car by the miles traveled and the result divided by the number of gallons of gasoline used. The sweepstakes award, the run's highest honor, will be presented to the driver attaining the highest ton miles per gallon of the entire field.

Pen Talkin

Last Friday I attended the district teachers' meet in Lubbock, then in the afternoon drove on Clovis, N. M., where I spent the night. The next day I came back by easy stages from Portales to Tatum to Hobbs, and on home. If there ever was a dry place, Clovis is it. Ranchers and feed dealers I talked to said they had been in a drought since 1948, and this winter got only a few light showers. The town is dull, many farm houses are vacant and people have been forced to move elsewhere to find jobs.

About three or four years ago they started drilling irrigation wells, but this has been a mixed blessing. The water is deep, and putting down a 350-foot well with pipe, pump and motors costs a small fortune. Because pumping expense is so heavy, farmers don't do much winter irrigation. They wait until March so some of the moisture will still be available for planting.

The biggest problem, according to a fertilizer dealer in Clovis, is that farmers don't have a cash crop anymore. During the war they grew cotton from wheat, then lost their cotton allotments to other areas. Now they put water on maize and wheat, and clear only a third as much as they could on cotton.

A lot of farmers waited until they were deep in debt and without hope before putting down wells. As a result they are paying back very slowly, if at all. The Portales country is a horse of a different speed. Though the water table has dropped slowly, the water is still shallow and farmers are doing all right. Farmers around Portales and Floyd have two cash crops, cotton and peanuts, and they are always begging for higher allotments for both. They got a seven-per-cent increase in peanuts last year and are expecting another raise soon.

This is the home of the Valencia peanut, or Big Reds, as they are called. Portales is a good place to buy peanuts. Every store has bright-colored sacks of the goobers strung out in front of the building, much like the Spanish people of Western New Mexico string red peppers. For 10 cents you can buy all you can eat, and somewhat more than a person needs, as I found out. The people are very proud of their peanuts, and won't admit that the crop might be grown in Texas and other states. No, they say, Portales is the peanut capital of the nation, and if there are any much, because his place has been too dry to raise a good crop. This was probably our error by getting the figures wrong from Norman. Anyway, we hope this straightens things out now and that both farmers raise lots of cotton and few rabbits this year.

The area southeast of Coahoma has missed out on much of the rain, says Lawrence Davis, but there is some moisture in the ground. He says the tobacco pastures are beginning to show a little green, but sandyland range is in poor condition. Some of it has blown almost as bad as cultivated fields.

Davis says tobacco grass has been the salvation of that country. Without it, ranchers wouldn't have had any grass or cover at all on some pastures. He thinks the grass will come back once the rains return, even though it appears to be gone. He said his father lived in the King-sized drought of 1917 and '18 burnt off the grass and made the area as bare as a floor. There didn't seem to be even a seed source left. Then the weather turned wet in the fall, and within a year or two the grass was as thick as ever.

Plan Essential To Profitable Operation Of Irrigation System

Do you have a plan for irrigating? How much water can you apply without waste or leaching? Can you accurately estimate the amount of moisture in your soil? Are you getting the most water for the least pumping cost? Lee H. Williamson, agricultural engineer for the Soil Conservation Service, has raised these questions at what he considers a timely moment. That is because most irrigators are pumping water in their systems now for preplanting moisture.

Uncertainty can cost an irrigation farmer money, Williamson pointed out. "In many cases if a farmer gave a negative answer to a single question, it might be the difference between a profit and a loss," he observed. GUIDE NEEDED Williamson is a firm believer that every irrigation farmer ought to develop a plan and use it as a guide in applying water. This plan, he said, should be based on soil topography of the land, amount of water available, crops to be grown, type of irrigation system to be used, time of irrigation and approximate amount of water to be applied at each irrigation.

The plan also should indicate what course the operator will take in case of pumping plant failure or a substantial decrease in capacity of water supply, he added. Williamson thinks it is a good idea to have these plans not only made but written down in advance of a start of the irrigation season. The plan should be definite but have flexibility. "More than likely you are getting along with a preplanting irrigation," he said. "Are you applying the right amount of water?"

LEACHING Too much water will penetrate below a point where it cannot be recovered by plants, he continued. As water goes into the ground, it dissolves and carries downward a lot of plant nutrients, which may be carried out of reach of plant roots if too much water is applied. Too little water applied at this time may cause plants to go into stress before the next planned irrigation.

A lot of factors go into the right amount of water — factors such as soil depth, water holding capacity of soil, and how deep plant roots are expected to go. Future applications may take into account such things as anticipated yields, land fertility, etc.

"There are several mechanical and electrical instruments on the market that will help determine soil moisture," said Williamson. "Most of these are expensive and require variable amounts and expense for maintenance. A reliable method of estimating soil moisture is the 'feel' or bell method. Details of this method of estimating soil moisture are available at the office of your local Soil Conservation District or from Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the district."

INEFFICIENCY "During a recent trip I saw many irrigation systems that were operating very inefficiently. Some of the sprinkler systems were barely discharging water with enough velocity to cause the heads to rotate. Many had leaks at joints. Some were overpowered and using more fuel than necessary. Quite a few were operating at extremely high pressures or were getting very bad distribution of water on the land. We even found several fields with dry spots. This was especially true where excessive moves of the sprinkler line were made. Main lines and sprinkler lines of excessive length accounted for much of the inefficient operation. Loss due to friction in long lines can become very expensive.

"If you have any questions or are wanting the latest information on irrigation and irrigation farming, contact the Soil Conservation Service personnel assisting your Soil Conservation District. They have a lot of valuable information and will be glad to assist you to develop an irrigation plan, determine the proper rate and amount of irrigation water to apply. They can train you in estimating soil moisture and will help you to evaluate the operation of your irrigation system, work out changes, additions to, or plan a new system."

Relays Offer Outstanding Athletes In HS Division

Tayrien Tops In Discus

Big Spring's biggest sports show in history, the 12th running of the American Business Club Relays, gets under way at 1 p.m. Friday.

High school athletes from over a wide area, part of an army of 690 boys that will be busy here over the weekend, begin preliminaries tomorrow.

University and junior college entries move into action on Saturday.

The 'name' athletes in the university division here have been widely publicized. The high school boys, on the other hand, have been largely overlooked.

One of the best bets to crack a record here is Odessa's Jack Tayrien, who has already thrown the discus 159 feet 6 inches in competition. The ABC record is Joe Irvin, Amarillo, who delivered the saucer 161 feet 7 inches in 1954.

Tayrien has hit 171 feet twice in practice this week, however. The state record is 170 feet, set by Darrow Hooper, later a Texas A & M star.

Last year, Tayrien's best effort here was 148 feet.

Some of the state's top sprinters are due here, among them Bob Pollard, Snyder; Pat McDonald, Lubbock; Ray McCown, Plainview; Ellington, San Angelo; and, of course, Big Spring's Johnny Janak.

Pollard was clocked in 9.9 in the 100 last week. McDonald has run the 220 in 21.6.

San Angelo's Eisenbach and Don DiShong of Odessa rate as favorites in the 440, although James Jacobs of Plainview and Johnny Rayburn of Brownfield could surprise.

Midland's Olan Davis appears capable of breaking the record in the pole vault. He's jumped 12 feet 6 1/2 inches — the meet record is 12'9", set by Jerry Davis of Lubbock in 1954.

Snyder entries could win both hurdle races, without causing too much surprise. Poppy Berry of the Tigers has turned in a 14.9 in the 120 hurdles while Bud Morgan of the same team has a 19.6 for the 180 lows.

Nobody may be able to push Midland's Bob Barnett in the mile, if he runs as he did in a five-way meet here recently. That afternoon, the junior completed the four laps in 4:44.5. Bob Cunningham, Littlefield; and Goose Russell, Big Spring, will be factors in the event.

Mike Smith, Big Spring, can be counted on in the pole vault and will be one of the favorites in the high jump. Smith cleared 6 feet 1/2 inches in the high jump at the Border Olympics at Laredo last week, a winning effort. W. A. Kennedy, Odessa; and Ray Garrison, Plainview, are other leading pole vaulters.

San Angelo has turned in far and away the best time in the mile relay in West Texas this season. The Bobcats have been timed in 3:27.6. The record here is 3:29.6, set by Odessa last year.

In the sprint relay, Lubbock Monterey will be a strong contender, along with Big Spring, Odessa and Plainview. Monterey has been timed in 44 flat. That equals the local record, set by San Angelo last year.

San Angelo's Ellington may prove to be the class of the broad jumpers, although Odessa's Paul Thorpe has cleared 20 feet 1 inch. Ellington has a 20' 7 1/2" jump to his credit this season. Jay Gould of Plainview will also be a leading contender in the broad jump.

In the half mile, San Angelo's Beck may be in a class all by himself. He has been timed in 2:03.8 and can do much better than that.

Odessa remains a slight favorite in the high school class.

Houston's Terrific Twosome

Jerry Smart (left), an alternate on the 1956 U.S. Olympics team in the 5,000-meter race; and John Macy (right), will represent the University of Houston in the open two-mile race, a feature of the ABC Relays, which will be held at the National AAU three-mile championship here Saturday afternoon. Macy, a Polish refugee, is the National AAU three-mile champion. He recently ran the fastest two-mile in U.S. history for a freshman. Although he finished second to Laszlo Tabari in the NYAC Indoor Meet at Madison Square Garden in New York City at the time, Macy was clocked in 8:57.0. Smart faces strong competition from Max Truex, USC; among others.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Two of the coaches in the university division in the upcoming ABC Relays here wanted to count first places only in the scrap for the team trophies.

Since it wouldn't be fair to the other two teams, however, the games committee is apt to score on a 5-3-2-1 basis.

Among writers due here tomorrow and Saturday is a representative of the Track and Field News, which is to the sport what the Sporting News is to baseball and the Golf Digest is to the links sport.

Nat Gleaton, the Abilene basketball mentor, is watching the NAIA basketball tournament in Kansas City this week.

Gleaton passed up the state tournament at Austin in order to make the trip north. He went with Shorty Lawson, who is officiating in the meet.

In Gleaton's stead, Chuck Moser represented Abilene at the recent basketball conclave here and helped (along with San Angelo's Bob Harrell) to block plans to set the 1957-58 2-AAAB schedule back a week.

The aim was to move it closer to the bi-district playoffs, in order that the champions wouldn't have so much idle time on their hands. Moser and Harrell complained that football would suffer, however. Perhaps spring training should be abolished entirely, if it is going to show all other sports around in season.

Quite probably, the Big Spring High School cagers will play practice tilts with Tom S. Lubbock and Lubbock Monterey next season.

Officials of the New Orleans Southern Association baseball club insist the Pelicans will have to play to at least 160,000 paying customers this year, or they'll be out of business by 1958.

That would represent a 65 per cent increase in customers.

Harold Davis, the HCJC cage mentor, says Bubba Ephraim, the Negro athlete, was about the best-looking prospect he saw in action in the state meet last week.

Although in his last season of eligibility at Pecos, Ephraim isn't apt to perform for any college next year, however. Scholastically, he's only a sophomore.

Davis would also like to bring in Dale Ethridge, the Ropesville center who made it to the state meet. However, both Texas A&M and North Texas are also after the big red-head. Chances are he can just about write his own ticket.

Pat McLaughlin, who owns the El Paso baseball franchise, couldn't get his team admitted to the Mexican Central League because it is set with six members and had no prospects for another entry (outside of El Paso).

Its members this season will consist of Aquacalientes, Chihuahua, Durango, Fresnillo, Saltillo and Juarez.

Camillo Pascual, the ex-Big Springer, receives a $1,000 per annum raise with the Washington Senators this season, despite the fact that he finished with a 6-18 win-loss record, one of the worst in the league.

Camillo ranked fourth in the American League in strikeouts, whiffing 162 batters. Only Billy Pierce, Herb Score and Paul Foytack topped him in that department.

EARN TRIP TO KANSAS

San Angelo Rams Regional Winner

AMARILLO, (SC) — San Angelo College won the Region V basketball tournament here Thursday night by defeating the Frank Phillips College Plainsmen of Borger, 100-81.

The triumph earned the Rams the right to represent the Region in the National Junior College meet in Hutchinson, Kansas, next week.

San Angelo grabbed an early lead and never headed. Reserves played much of the last half.

Frank Trevino led Angelo's attack with 22 points. Phil Addison chipped in 19 while Jay Hawley and Larue Robinson each had 14. Phillips' leading threat and the winner of the tournament's Most Valuable Player selection, Carroll Willingham of Phillips, was limited to four points.

However, Audie Apple of the Plainsmen broke loose with a 26-point effort. Schreiner Institute of Kerrville turned back Clarendon, 71-68, for third place in an earlier game.

Mike Powell and Al Kloven of HCJC were named to the all-tournament team, along with Willingham and Jerry Hall, both of Phillips; Hawley, Addison and Trevino, all of San Angelo; Steve Jarman and Boyd White, both of Clarendon; and Bill Klingman, Schreiner.

2 Boys Hold Dogcatchers At Bay With Rifle To Save Pet

GALVESTON (AP) — Two boys, both 14, who held officers at bay with a rifle barrage yesterday after a dog-catcher shot at their dog were told today to "go home and get back in school and let those rifles alone." The admonition was by county probation officer George Cusick, before whom the boys, the parents of one and two dog-catchers appeared. Cusick said he would confer with Dist. Judge Donald Markle about disposition of charges of assault to murder and discharging firearms in the city limit that were filed against Robert Garcia and Charles Layman. The Galveston Tribune was flooded with calls from irate citizens in behalf of the boys. Mayor George Clough called the City Commission into an afternoon session to discuss the matter. The boys holed up in a swampy area after they said dog-catcher O'Callahan, tried to shoot their dog. Juvenile officer John Kaiser, over a loudspeaker, finally persuaded the boys to surrender. Dog-catchers — O'Callahan and Irving Brown said they were called to the area to pick up a different dog. O'Callahan said the boys' dog bit him when he tried to check it for tags and he fired his pistol to frighten it and the boys grabbed the dog and ran. Police said the boys got a 22 rifle and neighbors who heard them threatening to kill the dog-catchers called police. Officers chased them into a swampy area and fired into the air. The youths fired at the dog catchers. No one was hit. The boys were barefooted and bedraggled after a night in jail. O'Callahan told Cusick that "I started to pick up the dog and he bit me on the leg." Mrs. Ruby Dantin, mother of the Layman boy, asked: "If you wanted to catch it (the dog), why did you shoot at it?" O'Callahan replied that "I started to pick up the dog and he bit me on the leg." Kaiser said the boys told him, "We didn't want to shoot any policeman. We wanted the dog-catcher." The Garcia boy said they thought the two men were trying to drown them. O'Callahan, who weighs 250 pounds, said, "I never touched the boys. As far as I am I can't run fast enough to catch them." Mrs. Dantin said, "I feel the boys were defending themselves. The dogcatcher shot first." Dogcatchers are special policemen and allowed to carry guns. Protesting citizens told the Tribune that dog-catchers had been invading private property to pick up pets and also shooting dogs.

'Gold Star' Boy Wins Steer Title

Howard County's outstanding 4-H club boy for 1956 won outstanding honors at the 20th annual Howard County FFA and 4-H Fat Stock Show on Wednesday. Rodney Brooks, 15-year-old Coahoma lad, who won the coveted Gold Star award as the top 4-H Club boy of the county in 1956, showed the grand champion steer of the current show. His light-weight steer was accorded that distinction by Judge Calvin Holcombe, Tulla, over a field of 22 animals. It was Rodney's first championship although he has been a consistent competitor in shows here and elsewhere for the past six years. In second place with the reserve grand champion steer was Jerry Iden, young Vealmoor expert. Iden, who is 14, had scored first place in the medium weight division competition and his steer had been pitted against those of Brooks, Martha Robinson, Melvin Fryar and Margaret Newton in the runoff for the grand championship. The judge gave it the nod as reserve grand champion. Brooks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brooks, Coahoma. He has been a 4-H Club member for six years and has worked with projects in steers, lambs, capons and pigs. He is president of the Howard County 4-H Club. He is a director of the Junior Rodeo association and a member of the county livestock judging team. Iden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Iden, Vealmoor. He has been in club work since he was 10. Iden has concentrated wholly on steers and has had a number of fine animals at various shows in his four-year career. Nothing is going on at the show barns today. The youngsters are waiting for tonight and the annual auction sale at which they will sell most of their entries to the highest bidder. A barbecue is to be served at 6 p.m. to the buyers, their friends and the members of the Howard County Livestock association. At 7:30 p.m., the sale opens. Walter Britten, College Station, is the auctioneer. Placings in steer judging in order of weight: Heavy — Joyce Robinson, 4-H, first; Melvin Fryar, 4-H, second; Mae Robinson, 4-H, third; Judy Brooks, 4-H, fourth; William Conner, 4-H, fifth; Bill Tindol, Coahoma FFA, sixth; and Tommy Newman, 4-H, seventh. ## Panel Defers Action On 5 Race Measures

AUSTIN (AP)—The House State Affairs Committee deferred early today action on five segregation bills. An effort to get the bills sent to Atty. Gen. Will Wilson for an opinion on their constitutionality failed. "I just think we should have this cleared up before these bills come up on the floor for debate," said Rep. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston. Rep. Bob Mullen of Alice also said he believed the measures to strengthen state segregation laws should be checked by the attorney general. Hall Timanus, Houston attorney who was head of the advisory subcommittee which prepared a report on segregation in Texas schools for former Gov. Allan Shivers, said the bills were based on constitutional beliefs that state had a right to operate its own schools. "We found that in all Southern states except Texas, Tennessee, and Arkansas steps had been taken by the legislatures to preserve segregation. We also found that in those states where such steps had been taken no trouble developed," he said. Timanus said racial disturbances at Clinton, Tenn.; Mansfield, Tex., and Texarkana were examples. Will Morris of San Antonio, head of the entire interim advisory committee, also spoke briefly. Rep. Virginia Duff of Ferris said her bill was the "general bill we think we need the most." It would provide that local school boards would have the final say in transfers and assignments of students. Rep. Abe Mays of Atlanta said his bill would provide scholarships to private schools for students who did not want to attend integrated schools. Rep. Joe Chapman of Sulphur Springs explained his bill "to require organizations that foment strife and trouble to register with the secretary of state and tell where their contributions come from." Rep. Reagan Huffman of Marshall said that if the NAACP had not been in Texas "there would be no white Citizens Council." He warned that if the NAACP was finally outlawed in Texas it would reappear as another organization "maybe as the National Churchman of America or some such pretty name." Huffman's bill would prohibit the state or any of its subdivisions, down through the schools, to employ anyone who is a member of the NAACP. Rep. Jerry Sadler of Percilla backed a bill which would provide for local option elections before any school could integrate. "Human rights are more important than states rights," said the Rev. Kelley Barnett of Austin. The Most Rev. James Boyle of San Antonio said he spoke for the Archbishop of San Antonio and for the interarchdiocesan council of his Catholic Diocese. "It's not the color of a man's skin in the eyes of the church," he said. "There will be integration in heaven and also in hell. No Legislature can change that." R. C. Eckhardt, Houston attorney, said he spoke for the state CIO Council in opposing the bill to prohibit employment of NAACP members by the state and to require anti-segregation groups to register.

Jerry Sadler of Percilla backed a bill which would provide for local option elections before any school could integrate. "Human rights are more important than states rights," said the Rev. Kelley Barnett of Austin. The Most Rev. James Boyle of San Antonio said he spoke for the Archbishop of San Antonio and for the interarchdiocesan council of his Catholic Diocese. "It's not the color of a man's skin in the eyes of the church," he said. "There will be integration in heaven and also in hell. No Legislature can change that." R. C. Eckhardt, Houston attorney, said he spoke for the state CIO Council in opposing the bill to prohibit employment of NAACP members by the state and to require anti-segregation groups to register.

Scouts To Start Camping Tonight For Big Round Up

Scores of Big Spring Boy Scouts will be setting up a "dry run" camp this evening in preparation for the annual Round Up which begins Friday afternoon. However, a number of troops from the west end of the Buffalo Trail Council will set up during the afternoon to stay for the duration. The local aggregations will not get out of school until Friday afternoon, and this will be the case with a majority of the troops participating. Contests will start at 1:30 p.m. Friday, and before registration is complete, prospects are that more than 1,000 boys and men will be registered. The weather outlook, while perhaps on the crisp side, promises to be good for this season of the year. Sam McCorn, general chairman, said all plans are complete for this largest council event which has been going on now for three decades. Sherman Smith and his aides are ready to prepare a big barbecue meal to serve to the young visitors and their leaders at noon Saturday.

Sheriff Thanks Authorities For Help In Fugitives Hunt

Miller Harris, sheriff, said that no trace of the two men who escaped from the Howard County Jail on Monday night has been found. He said that photographs of the pair, received from Houston, are being circulated in an effort to get a clue on the direction they followed when they fled from Big Spring. Harris also said that he wanted to express his deep appreciation for the cooperation that he and his deputies were accorded by city police, the officers of adjacent counties and other agencies when word of the jail break was released. "We didn't capture the pair," the sheriff said, "but it was just bad luck and not because we did not have cooperation. I never saw such a whole-hearted response to a call for help as we were given by the law enforcement agencies. "They all turned out and they worked all night trying to find the two escapees. I am deeply grateful to every person who helped us." The two prisoners, Kenneth Neel and Harmon Neel, overpowered Joe Pierce, county jailer, and fled from the fourth floor prison at 10 p.m. Monday. When Pierce had freed himself of the ropes which were tied he sounded the alarm. An immediate blanket search of the town was launched but the officers were unable to pick up the trail of the fugitives.

Vincent Wildcat In Spraberry, More Testing Planned Today

Crewmen at the Standard Oil of Texas No. 1 Willis Winters wildcat northeast of Big Spring started to install a pumping unit for additional tests today. It has produced oil from the Spraberry. Wednesday operators swabbed 53 barrels of oil and 19 barrels of water in nine hours. The venture is a mile northeast of Vincent in the northeast corner of the county. Meanwhile, Continental plugged a Borden County wildcat, Continental No. 1 Jones. A new well in the Spraberry Trend Area is Slade No. 1 Schaefer, which flowed over 945 barrels of oil through a half-inch choke in 24 hours.

Greeting him, above, are Col. Raymond J. Downey, commander of M&S Group, and Lt. Richard L. Spicer, the general's nephew. The lieutenant is a member of Jet Pilot Class 57-K, which graduates April 12. His famous uncle has agreed to be guest speaker at the graduation ceremony.

Zoning Changed With Reservation

One of the three zoning changes approved by the city commission Tuesday night was passed with reservations. Involved was the area bounded by Donley, State, 20th, and 21st. The proposed zoning change would upgrade the area from two-party residences (B zone) to one-party dwelling or an A zone. The zoning board recommended that the area be changed only after streets through it were dedicated according to city specifications. The area was not actually platted for city approval but sold lot by lot. The city commission accepted the zoning board's request and the change in zones will come only after the street matters are corrected.

Lie Test Indicates McMeans Truthful

CONROE (AP)—Officers said yesterday a lie detector test taken by Dr. Robert E. McMeans Jr., who had acid hurled in his face March 5, showed conclusively McMeans was telling the truth. A sneak attacker threw acid in his face March 5 as the doctor answered the door of his clinic. McMeans had been a key witness in the Legislature's investigation of bribery charges involving State Rep. James E. Cox of Conroe and Dr. Howard Harmon, a San Antonio naturopath.

'Easy Money'
No Temptation
To Van Doren

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Before he was tripped by a relatively easy question, Charles Van Doren made some difficult decisions and came up with the right answers on the quiz program Twenty-One.

Now Van Doren has made the most difficult of many decisions—and come up with the right answer. He's turning down the easy money. He will continue to teach at Columbia University and to work for his doctorate in English literature. He is going to write what he wants to write.

Ever since Van Doren, 31, began winning money on the quiz program, he began winning the esteem and literally the affection of television viewers. He became, as they say, the hottest personality on television in this winter season.

Profitable offers inundated him. They have increased since he was defeated Monday evening by Mrs. Vivienne Nearing when he failed to remember that Baudouin is the King of Belgium. There are offers to deliver lectures in all parts of the country, offers to make recordings, to endorse an amazing array of commercial products, to make guest appearances on all kinds of TV programs.

Somebody wants him to start his own television quiz program and somebody else wants him to go to Hollywood. There was a $50,000 screen offer. (That was an easy decision; he turned it down on the telephone.) Being a "personality," Van Doren learned, can be a trying experience.

Very wisely he obtained an agent to handle these complex affairs. Now, says his representative at Music Corp. of America, he "will do nothing that is inconsistent with his career." As of this writing he has turned down every offer—except one. He will appear on NBC radio's Conversation, that excellent program which returns to the air March 21 for a regular Thursday evening series.

For one who earns $4,200 a year as a teacher, it is not easy to turn down offers of thousands of dollars. One might say, "But look at all the money he won on Twenty-One." Actually, his take-home winnings after taxes are unofficially estimated at only $38,000 of the $129,000 he won.

The point is that Van Doren is not trying to trade on his name as a popular quiz contestant. He is going ahead, rather, to make his own name as a teacher and writer.

Charles Van Doren, left, winner of $129,000 over a span of 14 weeks on the TV quiz show "21" until he was beaten by Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, gives a bit of advice to Cecil Rhodes Jr., of Cranford, N.J., who is now involved in the question-answer battle for cash with Mrs. Nearing. Mrs. Nearing, right, has already won $14,000 on the program.

Mahon Asks Views On Poage Farm Bill

WASHINGTON — Rep. George Mahon of the 19th District announced from Washington this week that hearings are in progress before the House Committee on Agriculture on a bill which would vitally affect West Texas cotton producers.

The bill, authored by Rep. Bob Poage of Waco in his capacity as vice chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, directly affects the old controversy on cotton allotments between West Texas and Central and East Texas.

Mahon said the bill would abolish in Texas, but not in other states, the provision of the existing law in regard to trends in cotton acreage, and that it would fix county cotton allotments in Texas on the basis of the past three years rather than five years as is now the law.

West Texas lost heavily to East Texas on cotton acreage allotments for the 1956 crop year as a result of the actions of the State

ASC Committee. Cotton allotments for 1957 are regarded as much more equitable. The pending bill would affect allotments for 1958 and future years.

The Poage bill among other provisions calls for a modification in the present law with respect to new grower allotments and farm consolidations.

Mahon said that he had sent copies of the bill to all county offices of the ASC and to all the farm organizations in West Texas requesting comment and asking that a representative of West Texas cotton producers who knows the prevailing views of West Texas growers on the pending bill come to Washington and join him in testifying before the House Agriculture Committee.

One of the major provisions of the new bill would require the Department of Agriculture to provide a special loan on light spot cotton. Mahon said that he did not regard this issue as controversial in West Texas as all Texas farmers insofar as he knew felt that recognition of light spot cotton by a proper loan was long overdue.

Mahon pointed out that the Secretary of Agriculture could provide this loan without special legislation and that he had joined West Texans earlier this year in personally urging Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and the Department to announce such a loan. Mahon expressed hope that this end would be achieved either by voluntary action on the part of the Department or through legisla-

LORITA AND LANELL OVERTON WITH LAMBS
Sisters exhibit two best animals at county show

Champion, Reserve Lamb Shown By Overton Girls

Two sisters stole the spotlight Wednesday in the judging of lambs entered in the 20th Annual Howard County 4-H and FFA fat stock show.

Lorita Overton, 19, won grand championship honors for the lamb division with her lightweight Southdown entry. Closely pushing her for this high honor was sister Lanell, 14. Lanell's lightweight Southdown took the reserve grand championship honors. The youngsters' animals placed in the same order in their own class competition and won the coveted top distinction over a field of 150 lambs.

The Overton girls are anything but newcomers to 4-H club and FFA competition. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Overton, who live on the Sterling City Route near the Glasscock County line. They have been in 4-H club activity ever since they became old enough to enroll and are regarded as two of the county's most enthusiastic and active members.

They inherit their zeal, perhaps, from Jessie Louis Overton, an older brother, who was one of the county's leading club members for many years. Jessie Louis is now a little too old to compete, but he still takes a deep interest in the work and serves as a stern and demanding coach for his talented younger sisters.

First 15 place winners in the lamb division at the show by classes:

Light Pinewool Lambs—Truman Wilkerson, Coahoma FFA, first; Susan Elrod, 4-H, second; James Proctor, Coahoma FFA, third; Sammy Barnett, 4-H, fourth; H. E. Elrod, 4-H, fifth; Johnny King, 4-H, sixth; Donnie Gooch, 4-H, seventh; Bobby Shelton, 4-H, eighth; Roger Fleckenstein, Big Spring FFA, ninth and Harry King, 4-H, tenth.

Heavy Pinewool Lambs—Wayne Devine, Coahoma FFA, first; Lonnie Anderson, Coahoma FFA, second; Muri Bailey, 4-H, third; Tommy Buckner, Big Spring FFA, fourth; Jackie Burkholder, Coahoma FFA, fifth; Benny Barnett, 4-H, sixth; Janet Gooch, 4-H, seventh; William Conger, 4-H, eighth; Laney Proctor, 4-H, ninth and Randall Reid, Coahoma FFA, tenth.

Light Cross Breed Lambs—Wayne Davis, Coahoma FFA, first; John Puckett, Big Spring FFA, second; Sherryn Robinson, 4-H, third; Mike Honeycutt, 4-H, fourth; Randall Reid, Coahoma FFA, fifth; Lanell Overton, 4-H, sixth; Bobby Shelton, 4-H, seventh; Roger Fleckenstein, Big Spring FFA, eighth; Kenneth Puckett, 4-H, ninth; and Carol Gene Zant, tenth.

Heavy Crossbred Lambs—Tommy Buckner, Big Spring FFA, first; James Gooch, 4-H, second; Charles Eagle, Big Spring FFA, third; George Turner, 4-H, fourth; Zena Kay Robinson, 4-H, fifth; Johnny King, 4-H, sixth; Donnie Gooch, 4-H, seventh; Frank Tate, 4-H, eighth; Patsy Gooch, 4-H, ninth; and Garry Harlander, 4-H, tenth.

Southdown Light Weight Lambs—Lorita Overton, 4-H, first; Lanell Overton, 4-H, second; Mack Robinson, 4-H, third; Joan Davis, 4-H, fourth; Rodney Brooks, 4-H, fifth; Larry Adkins, 4-H, sixth; Janet Gooch, 4-H, seventh; Ken Puckett, 4-H, eighth; Zena Kay Robinson, 4-H, ninth; and Frank Tate, 4-H, tenth.

Heavy Southdown and Southdown Crossbred Lambs—H. E. Elrod, 4-H, first; Roger Fleckenstein, Big Spring FFA, second; Muri Bailey, 4-H, third; Bruce Moore, Big Spring FFA, fourth; John Puckett, Big Spring FFA, fifth; Sherryn Robinson, 4-H, sixth; and Bonnie Richardson, 4-H, seventh.

Ministers Hit Prejudice, Call For Practice Of Brotherhood

Brotherhood is either practiced or it is nothing, two ministers told a joint service club meeting Wednesday at the Settles.

Both the Rev. W. J. McCoe, pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Dallas, and the Rev. Jack Elzey, First Methodist minister at Colorado City, lashed out at prejudices of any character. During the day they also spoke at junior and senior high schools, Howard County Junior College and at Lakeview school.

"What we need is more justice and less toleration," declared the Rev. McCoe, who was making his third appearance here as a panel member. "Toleration puffs us as pride puffs us up. If we are to have brotherhood we must begin to realize that we have a moral obligation to see that all men, who are created in the image of God, are accorded simple justice. If we give only mental assent to the ideal and do nothing about it, then we are wasting our time," Mankind, declared the Rev. Elzey.

Projecting unwarranted blame on others is not in keeping with the nobler aspects of American character, he contended, and it is out of character with man as God intended man to be.

Prejudices, he explained,

amounted to prejudgment without adequate and due examination of facts. Mere difference of others is not sufficient justification for a prejudice, he argued. Inevitably prejudice leads to hate, and hate eventually will bring on destruction. "We are a conglomeration of people," he declared, "and we need to grind our prejudices fine and sift them fine in godly understanding," he added.

"And for a unit to fight against itself is suicide," he added.

One barricade to real brotherhood was a feeling of superiority on the part of some people toward others, he said. Another trouble was the tendency to blame others for one's own frustrations and deficiencies — to make other individuals and groups a scapegoat.

Projecting unwarranted blame on others is not in keeping with the nobler aspects of American character, he contended, and it is out of character with man as God intended man to be.

Prejudices, he explained,

Honors At Sul Ross

The 1956-57 fall semester Honor Roll at Sul Ross State College lists Rosetta Williams, a junior student who attended Howard County Junior College previous to Sul Ross. Rosetta is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williams, Route 1, Knott, Texas.

Dawson Farmers Oppose Poage Bill

LAMESA—The Dawson County Farm Bureau Legislative Committee has notified Congressman George Mahon of their opposition to the Poage Farm Bill which they feel would be detrimental to West Texas and beneficial to East Texas. The Valley Farm Bureau also is opposing the measure, as are Farm Bureau organizations in West and Northwest Texas.

Rehearsals Start Monday For City's Easter Pageant

Rehearsals are to start Monday on the Easter Pageant to be presented in the City Park Amphitheatre April 21 by the Big Spring Pastors Association and Big Spring City Theatre.

Preliminary work on the production is moving rapidly. Preparation of script has been started and several behind-the-scenes posts have been filled.

Rev. William D. Boyd, St. Mary's Episcopal rector, is to be producer and narrator for the pageant. He and Mrs. Jessie Thomas are writing script and are to complete work by Friday on the first of seven scenes.

L. Bob Grew, assistant producer, and T-Sgt. Dewey Magee, director, are to write pantomime continuity for the pageant this weekend, so that rehearsals can start Monday evening on the first scene. Several members of the cast will be chosen by that time.

Plans call for the pageant to start prior to dawn, with the final scene, the resurrection, to be staged just at sunrise. The pageant will take the place of preaching services which the pastors association has sponsored in previous years.

The pageant will be the most elaborate of its kind ever staged here, and is to be the only one of any scope to be presented in this area this Easter. A crowd of 10,000 spectators is being planned for.

Others on the production staff are T-Sgt. Robert Martinez, sets and lighting; Gail Johnson, makeup; Joyce Fuller, props and costumes; Paul Ritterbrown, stage manager; and Robert C. Walker, publicity.

City Tax Payments Show $10,000 Gain

Through 11 of the 12 months of the current fiscal year, city tax revenue is almost $10,000 above the same time of 1956.

Revenue from the city tax department for the 1956-57 year amounted to $372,270.88, while it was $362,882.04 for 1955-56. The city's year runs from April 1 through March 31. The difference in the two year's totals is $9,388.84.

Principal item, of course is current tax collections. The current fiscal year total is $340,127.50, as against $334,105.68 a year ago.

February collections in the tax department amounted to $8,727.45, and of this $5,135.27 came from current taxes. Delinquent taxes in February totaled $2,692.46.

For the year, $20,250.71 has come in delinquent taxes, and $3,469.07 from interest and penalties. Occupation taxes brought in $3,118.

The city metered 90,212,200 gallons of water to customers during February, which is a decrease of 8,502,000 gallons from January but an increase of 9,152,600 over February of 1956. Water and sewer bills during the month totaled $48,618.43, which is an increase of $4,458.41 over February of last year.

Receipts in the water and sewer fund amounted to $51,925.23, slightly over the total for the same month of last year.

The city's bonded indebtedness now stands at $1,252,000 tax bonds and $1,406,000 in revenue bonds. The same two, respectively, at the end of January were $1,253,000 and $1,441,000.

General fund receipts included $1,135 in current taxes, $5,502.97 from the gas franchise, and $3,249.50 from fines and court costs in corporation court. Fishing permits totaled $125, and auditorium rental aggregated $110.

From electrical permits, the city drew $254, and $161 came from plumbing permits. Dog taxes brought in $157.25, and pound fees totaled $25.50.

At the swimming pool, nine-hole

Green Fees Brought In $116, Day-Pay Cards Accumulated $312

Eighteen-hole fees came to $25.50, and monthly golf cards totaled $50. Parking meter receipts totaled $3,440.71, as against $3,594.82 for January.

amounted to prejudgment without adequate and due examination of facts. Mere difference of others is not sufficient justification for a prejudice, he argued. Inevitably prejudice leads to hate, and hate eventually will bring on destruction. "We are a conglomeration of people," he declared, "and we need to grind our prejudices fine and sift them fine in godly understanding," he added.

This Is How It's Done

Sgt. Thomas Bauch gives instructions to his two daughters, Cathleen, 10, and Sandra, 8, on how to prepare wood for a fire. Cathleen is a member of Girl Scout Troop 37, under the leadership of Mrs. Bauch; while Sandra belongs to Brownie Troop 3-47. Sgt. Bauch is always willing to lend a helping hand toward any activities in which his daughters are taking part. And this information comes in handy, as Mrs. Bauch took the Girl Scout Troop on a cookout just this week. For today's food page, the Bauch family has combined efforts for a spice cake recipe in observance of the 45th birthday of the Girl Scouting program.

Thomas Bauches Agree That Girl Scouting Is A 'Family Affair'

In keeping with the theme of Girl Scout Week, the Thomas Bauch family believes that "Girl Scouting is a Family Affair."

Teaching girls to cook and bake has been a major part of Girl Scout training since 1912. Through the years the scout activities have come to include the entire family, and nowhere is this more true than in the kitchen.

The Girl Scout Association employs a full time home economist who has released a spice cake recipe in honor of the scouts' 45th anniversary.

The entire Bauch family, with the exception of four-year-old Deborah, takes an active part in the Girl Scouting program. Of course Deborah's age doesn't qualify her for scouting, but Mrs. Bauch says she's the troop "mascot," and eagerly awaits the weekly meeting of the troop in the Bauch home.

Mrs. Bauch is the scout leader for Troop 37, of which her daughter, Cathleen, 10, is a member. Mrs. Bauch has been in charge of the troop since September and Cathleen has been in scouts since she joined the Brownies at the age of eight. Mrs. Bauch has 16 girls from Washington Place in her troop.

Eight-year-old Sandra is a member of Brownie Troop 3-47 also composed of Washington Place girls. She has been a Brownie since September.

Sgt. Bauch is one of the most helpful men in the local Girl Scouting program. "He helps us with any assistance we need and is very cooperative," Mrs. Bauch says. During Christmas, when the scouts were making jewelry boxes for patients at the State Hospital, Sgt. Bauch assisted them and helped with the delivery. He has more recently helped with the delivery of the Girl Scout cookies. It's definitely a "family affair" when the Bauches get together on this spice cake recipe, released in honor of the Girl Scouts' birthday.

SPICE CAKE

Ingredients:
1-3 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1-1/4 cup flour
2-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs
2-3 cup milk

Method:
Melt shortening and set aside in warm place. Fat should be melted, but not hot when used. Sift dry ingredients together. Combine shortening, eggs, milk and vanilla. Add to dry ingredients and stir vigorously until well mixed. Put into two eight-inch layer pans, or into cupcake pans, or eight by twelve loaf pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes.

Bake loaf cake at 350 degrees. Youngsters trying their first spice cake can serve cupcakes or the loaf cake plain, or they can decorate the cake with the simplest kind of polka dot icing. After taking the cake from the oven, and while it is still hot, dot the top with semi-chocolate bits. Allow the heat of the cake to melt the chocolate.

This orange icing will also be a treat for those little scouts to try their hand at.

Uncooked Orange Icing
Ingredients:
1/2 cup margarine or butter
1 egg yolk
1-1/2 tablespoons undiluted frozen orange juice
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-3/4 cups of sifted confectioners' sugar

1 tablespoon milk
Method:
First, cream shortening until fluffy. Beat in egg yolk, juice rind and salt. Gradually add sugar and milk, beating until fluffy, and spread on cooled cake.
Dad can join right in on the fun of preparing this maple and nut icing for an elegant layer cake. The three ingredients include 1 cup maple syrup, two unbeaten egg whites and one fourth cup of chopped nuts.

Cook syrup until firm - ball stage. Beat in a fine stream into egg whites. Continue beating until fluffy. It remains soft enough to frost and fill one layer cake. Garnish with chopped nuts. Why not let your family say Happy Birthday to the Girl Scouts, by having them all join the preparation of this cake and icings?

Buffet Supper To Top St. Pat's Day

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Buffet supper time on St. Patrick's Day! What's on the menu? Start with a hearty potato chowder, in honor of St. Patrick, and go on to baked ham and a big beautiful molded salad - green, of course - with the fresh, sweet-tart taste of grapefruit in it.

We're giving you two recipes for the salad; one uses unflavored gelatin, the other lime-flavored gelatin. Our own taste would choose the first - but suit yourself!

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD MOLD
Ingredients:
One package (3 ounces) cream cheese, 3/4 cups canned unsweetened grapefruit juice, 2 packages lime-flavored gelatin, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 cups drained fresh grapefruit sections, 1/4 cup diced pimiento, salad greens.

Method:
Form cream cheese into 8 small balls; chill. Heat 2 cups of the grapefruit juice; add to lime-flavored gelatin with salt. Stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Add remaining 1/2 cup grapefruit juice; chill. Arrange a few of the grapefruit sections, cream cheese balls and pieces of pimiento in a 5-cup ring mold to make an attractive design. Spoon in a little of the chilled gelatin and chill until almost firm. Chill remaining gelatin until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in 1 1/2 cups grapefruit sections and remaining pimiento. Spoon into mold; chill until firm. Unmold and fill center with salad greens, remaining grapefruit sections and cream-cheese balls. Makes 8 servings.

How To Vary Eggs During Lent? Creole Sauce Peps Up Omelet

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Wondering how to vary eggs during Lent? When I was young, my mother used to serve them four different ways—hard-cooked, shirred, scrambled or in an omelet—with a sauce of which we never tired.

The sauce is one that used to appear in all basic cookbooks, and still does, under the name of "creole" or "Spanish." There are various versions of it, of course, but the main ingredients for it are tomatoes, onion and green pepper. Pep it up with fiery tabasco, if you like, as we do in the following recipe.

If your family is fond of a big puffy American-style omelet, we urge you to try the following recipe and serve our Creole Sauce with it. The omelet that results is the best of its type—it holds its shape well and yet is not too dry when you eat it.

And if English muffins are a favorite at your house, do use this suggestion for lunch: split, toast and butter the muffins; top each with a slice of cheddar cheese and broil until the cheese begins to melt; add poached eggs and Creole Sauce.

AMERICAN OMELET

Ingredients:
Four eggs (separated), 1/4 cup cold water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, Creole Sauce, parsley (if desired).

Method:
Beat egg whites with water and salt until they hold peaks that stand straight up when the rotary beater (hand or electric) is slowly withdrawn. Without washing beater, beat egg yolks until they begin to get thick and lemon-colored. Fold the egg yolks into the egg whites. In the meantime slowly heat a 10-inch heavy iron skillet until drops of water sprinkled on its surface sputter. Add butter to the hot skillet, increasing the heat a little and spreading it over the bottom and sides of the pan. Add the egg mixture; spread evenly with a spatula. Cook slowly until the eggs have puffed up and are slightly browned on the bottom; this should take about 5 minutes; to test, lift an edge of the omelet with a small spatula. Place in a slow (352 degrees) oven until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean—12 to 15 minutes. Cut part way through center a right angle to the pan handle; fold omelet over away from handle with a wide spatula. Slip from pan onto hot platter. To tilt out easily, grasp the handle in your left hand and with your right hand hold the platter close to the top of the skillet. Lift up top of omelet with a wide spatula and spoon Creole Sauce

CREOLE SAUCE

Ingredients:
Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/4 cup finely chopped onion, 1/4 cup finely diced green pepper, 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon tabasco sauce.

Method:
Melt butter in a saucepan over low heat. Add onion and green pepper and cook, stirring often, until onion is yellowed but not browned. Add tomatoes, salt, sugar and tabasco sauce. Simmer 30 to 45 minutes; you should have about 1 1/2 cups sauce.

over bottom; fold top down. Some of the sauce will run down appetizingly; garnish with parsley sprigs if you like. Makes 4 servings.

Lemon Herb Sauce Is Perfect For Basting

This superb sauce for basting chicken as it broils has a near perfect blend of herbs and seasonings. The sauce gives this chicken such an intriguing flavor.

As the chicken broils it is basted with a mixture of melted butter or margarine, lemon juice, minced garlic, thyme, poultry seasoning and paprika. The chicken is served over hot fluffy rice with a 1/4 if green olive slices. The sauce left around the chicken is poured over the rice and chicken platter.

LEMON HERB SAUCE

Ingredients:
1 ready-to-cook young chicken, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 lbs., cut up
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 to 1-3 cup sliced stuffed green olives

Method:
Have the chicken cut into serving pieces. Rinse in cold water. Drain. Pre-heat broiler according to directions. Melt butter or margarine in a small saucepan. Add the garlic, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, thyme, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, poultry seasoning, paprika and lemon juice.

Place the chicken (skin side down) in the broiler pan or other shallow pan. Use a pan from which it will be easy to pour the lemon sauce after the chicken broils. Spoon some of the sauce over the chicken. Place the chicken 4 to 6 inches from the heat. When brown on one side, turn so skin side is up. Spoon sauce over the chicken during the cooking. Then baste with sauce in the broiler pan. Allow 50 minutes to 1 hour for the chicken to cook. Chicken is juicier if it cooks slowly. If skin side becomes too brown before chicken is done through, turn and reduce heat.

About 25 minutes before the chicken is done, put the rice, water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper and green olives in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on until ready to serve or at least 10 minutes.

To serve, arrange the hot rice over a large platter. Place the chicken pieces over the rice. Pour the lemon sauce over the chicken and rice or serve the sauce in a separate dish. This recipe makes 4 to 6 servings.

Savory Kale Fixed With Cream Sauce

Ever cook kale with a cream sauce and season it with onion?

SAVORY CREAMED KALE
Ingredients:
One package (10 ounces) washed and trimmed kale, 1 small onion, 1 cup boiling water, 1/4 teaspoon salt, milk, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, pepper.

Method:
Wash kale in cold water; drain; cut away any tough midrib ends. Peel onion and cut in thin strips. Put kale and onion in a good-sized kettle with boiling water and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Cover and boil gently until kale is tender—about 12 minutes. Lift cover a few times and turn kale over with kitchen fork. Drain kale cooking liquid into a measure; add enough milk to make 1 cup. Melt butter in a saucepan (1 quart) over low heat; blend in flour. Add milk mixture all at once and 1/4 teaspoon salt and pepper. Cook and stir constantly over low heat until thickened and bubbly. Add drained kale and reheat. Makes 4 servings.

Baking In Glass

Foods baked in glass are usually crusty and heavily browned since most recipe temperatures are based on the use of aluminum containers. To avoid this, oven temperatures should be figured 25 degrees lower when baking in glass.

Corned Beef Is Typical Of Irish

Some very important tricks can be found in Ireland and in every kitchen in Dublin and elsewhere on the Emerald Isle. Try this typical recipe.

CORNER BEEF DINNER

Ingredients:
1 corned beef brisket
1 bay leaf
4 whole cloves
1 clove garlic
1 whole cauliflower
1 cup medium white sauce
3/4 cup grated American cheese
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Method:
Wash corned beef thoroughly and cover with cold water. Bring slowly to a boil and cook for 5 minutes. Skim, add remaining ingredients, cover and reduce heat. Cook slowly, 3 to 4 hours, or until tender. Allow 45 to 50 minutes per pound. Add additional hot water as needed.

Cook cauliflower in boiling, salted water until tender. Prepare white sauce. Add cheese to hot sauce and stir over low heat until cheese melts. Add pimiento and pour over hot cauliflower.

Ireland is famous for its beef, but particularly for its young lamb, which is used to perfection in this lamb stew. The parsleyed dumplings that go with it are equivalent to sour milk dumplings.

Tasty Tip

Add a quarter teaspoon of paprika to that pound of ground beef you are planning to shape into hamburgers.

Make Use Of National Rice Week

Did you know that rice has been in existence since 2800 B. C.? It has been the basic segment of the world's population throughout time.

Rice farmers of Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas supply most of the U. S. rice needs - with vast shipments abroad.

From March 10 through 16 the Rice Industry and the U. S. Department of Agriculture are combining efforts to encourage the consumption of U. S. grown rice. American housewives are beginning to realize the versatility, economy and taste advantages of rice.

For many oriental countries, rice has been the main substance for centuries; while in the U. S. Americans consume less than six pounds of rice per capita annually, while oriental nations consume as much as 130 pounds per capita!

A Way To Relax

Actress Helen Westcott, who divides her time between pictures and TV, tells her favorite way of relaxing. Helen appears frequently on NBC-TV's "Lux Video Theatre."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Steam Good For Hair, And Good For Body

By LYDIA LANE HOLLYWOOD — When I first met Helen Westcott she was under contract to Warner Bros. and she had long beautiful blonde hair. But when I visited her recently on the "Lux Video Theatre" at NBC-TV I was surprised to find her auburn. "This is nearer my natural shade now," Helen said, "though I was a towhead as a baby. The water out here is so hard it kept getting darker and darker so I bleached it but this meant I couldn't get a permanent. "I find bleaching hard on the hair, so I gave myself a conditioning treatment before every shampoo. Afterwards I massaged an ointment into my scalp and steamed it with hot towels. "How can you handle them?" I asked. "They burn my fingers." "I have a system for heating my towels," Helen smiled. "I open the oven door, put a dry towel on a hanger and leave it there until it is very hot, then wrap it around my head while another towel is heating. "I like to steam my body, too," Helen confided. "I was doing a picture in which I was supposedly captured by Indians and I was kept in a wigwam where water was dropped on the embers of the fire. This filled the tent with steam. The ceremony was to soften me up and beat me with branches. "It took all day to shoot this scene and when I went home that night I was so relaxed. I was really surprised because none of the usual aches and pains were there. The first thing I did on coming back to town was to find a steam bath in my neighborhood. "I tried several kinds, Swedish, Turkish and Finnish, but the methods do not vary much. I thoroughly recommend it to anyone who gets tense during the day. But it is important to relax your mind while you are in there because the mental approach to relaxing reaches all over the body," advised Helen. "In fact, look to the mind for all trouble," Helen said with great seriousness. "Not long ago I was disturbed, and I became quite overweight, though my eating habits were very much the same. Not until I had solved my problem did the weight disappear, and then my measurements returned to normal so fast it was unbelievable. RELAX AND ENJOY LIFE Tension is the thief of youth and health. Protect your well-being and good looks by learning how to relax. Gloria Swanson is a glowing example of this. Learn her routine. Send for Leaflet M-19, "Gloria Swanson's Favorite Exercises," and experience the true pleasures of relaxation. For your copy of Leaflet M-19, send 5 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald. Be sure to ask for Leaflet M-19.

Rev. Deats said "Everything we do as parents, is showing our children how we believe and our attitude about all things, whether it is good or bad. In helping our children choose a life mate our homes should be an example of what our children will want their homes to be. Our life's attitude should be a Christian love toward all fellow men. In this century this world is a neighborhood and what is happening all over the world involves us."

Nasser's Parade Of Crises

Washington's "surprise" at the sudden turn events took in the Middle East when Israel moved out of Gaza and Aqaba and Egypt made a grab for Gaza in spite of the presence of UNEF troops was a most unconvincing performance. One has to be naive in the extreme to imagine the shaky arrangement for "easing the tension" in that area was anything more than wishful thinking.

The last thing on earth Nasser and his Moscow advisers want is an easing of tensions. If this latest crisis dissolves momentarily it will be succeeded by another. There probably is a schedule of such successive crises, all mapped out and ready to roll on signal.

That is the inexorable pattern communism has followed since it became a menace to the world. Even Nasser may not know it, but he is either the ignorant cat-paw or the willing dupe of the Kremlin.

"Oil flows from Iraq to the Mediterranean again," the headlines proclaim. Syria, which more than any nation is under the spell of Moscow, wrecked the pipeline that crosses her territory to coincide with Nasser's blockage of the Suez Canal. Now repairs have been made and up to 40 per cent of the normal flow of oil is to be resumed pronto. This resumed flow of oil may actually get under way and continue until another crisis is needed, another tightening of the screws against the West is called for. Then — blooi! again. The canal has all but been cleared for resumption of shipping, but not quite. Nasser is in the position to open or shut the waterway at a moment's notice. One day he will be on the verge of throwing her open; the next day he will shut her tight.

And so it goes. Our hastily constructed and half-heartedly devised aid to the Middle East can't possibly get at the basic situation there, away down deep in the mudsills where the Communist termites are at work. The word is infiltration and once the termites have infiltrated always here, they have come to stay.

So, we go from crisis to crisis, each one finding us further and further away from our goal of stability and a form of peace in the Middle East and in the world.

The West is in retreat. Ground lost to the termites of communism is seldom if ever fully regained. In the end, what France and Britain and Israel started out to do, but were thwarted in doing, may be the only answer to what to do with and about the Middle East. Temporizing and appeasement play into the enemy's hands. Do we have to learn the lessons of the late 1930s all over again?

Spare Your Tears

Changing Times, the Kipling magazine, says in the February issue that a baby can be fed for $2.77 a week and clothed for about $30 a year, but a man doing heavy work requires about $7.37 per week for an adequate diet. The costliest mouth at the family dinner table is the boy between 18 and 20, who needs $7.59 a week for an adequate sustaining diet.

Large families are a rarity in these times, but not as much as one would suppose, to judge from the number of 10, 12 and even 15-children families that turn up in the news now and then. As since time began, most of these out-size families appear in the lower income groups, and a common question is, "How on earth can they get by, with living costs so high?"

Well, as of old, they help each other out. They go without frills. They cut corners. They eat plain but nourishing food, and the young children wear the cut-down clothing of their elders.

Back in the old days in large families the country was not what you could call pulsating with prosperity. Cotton was selling for four or five cents a pound, and a day's wage was $1 to $1.25 for 10, 12 or 14 hours. You could hardly give corn away, and $15 to $20 was a good price for a steer. You chopped cotton for 50 cents a day, and picked it for 25 to 35 cents a hundred, or even less. But hot tamales were six for a nickel and twelve for a dime — great big nourishing ones — and a huge bowl of chili was a dime with all the outside soda crackers you could eat.

There were no automobiles to support, no television to pay out on installment, no automatic kitchens, no movies, no $50 fishing reels, no $50 hats and no $150 suits.

People were more leisurely in their living. They had fewer wants and practically no gimmicks. They leaned on each other, and swapped labor, and looked after their own. Washington was a far-off place, and their only contact with it was a postage stamp.

They also had fewer ulcers and fewer problems. There were fewer busted homes and almost no juvenile delinquency. The bare recital of their "hardships" is enough to move a graven image, but spare your tears. They were more fun than you have, and they were free of mankind's most debilitating disease — self-pity.

Oil Inquiry Dealing With Big Money

WASHINGTON—The scene is a familiar one—the slightly faded elegance of a Senate committee hearing room crowded to the doors—and the principals are familiar, too. It is the subcommittee investigation into the oil industry that has long since left the initial objective—to inquire into the oil-lift to Western Europe—to challenge directly the power of corporate enterprise.

The chairman, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, has spent a great deal of his Congressional career doing just this. Before World War II he headed the Temporary National Economic Committee that filled 37 fat volumes of testimony on the powers of the great corporations and those of government in the American economy. With his deliberate, somewhat magisterial manner, O'Mahoney develops the data of the vast resources of the big oil companies.

But there are two major differences this time. One is the fact that the giant companies have grown bigger than the event Senator O'Mahoney could have envisioned when he ended three years of TNEC testimony in March of 1941. Standard Oil of New Jersey is an $8 billion corporation.

A second difference is the politics of oil in the Middle East with all its urgency for the West.

Still another difference is the presence on the committee of a new Senator who finds the facts of bigness and power as exercised by the great oil companies not only new but shocking.

Senator John Carroll, who came to the Senate from Colorado on his third try, is like a determined terrier working a very large bone as he presses in committee hearings for details of the taxes and profits of the oil corporations with their far-flung holdings.

With the executives of Standard of New Jersey, Gulf Oil and other giants, Carroll has sought to establish that, thanks to the 27½ per cent income tax allowance—for a wasting asset—the foreign subsidiaries of these companies pay little or no Federal income tax.

The fact that this 27½ per cent depletion allowance can be taken not only on the profits of oil produced in the continental United States but by American companies operating overseas seemed to be news to some committee members.

While investigations produce headlines, the ratio of legislation to publicity generated by these inquiries is normally small. But Carroll is suggesting a change in the law that has thrown a scare into the big companies. This is either to reduce greatly or eliminate altogether the depletion allowance on oil operations outside the United States.

Such a threat is formidable because the real political pressure for keeping the 27½ per cent deduction comes from the independents and the small producers in the United States. Senator O'Mahoney, for example, has oil and gas producers in his state of Wyoming who would bring very effective pressure to bear if he were to go along with a move to abolish the tax deduction altogether.

But the independents and the small producers could hardly be expected to come to the defense of the big companies with their foreign holdings. For they are, in fact, enemies and the hostility of the "little fellows" has come to light in the oil hearings.

The independents have tried hard in recent years to put up tariff and other barriers to keep out foreign oil. Thus far they have not succeeded. It has been argued that any such move would have a disastrous effect on the economy of Venezuela, which has been enjoying a phenomenal boom as the result of its oil exports.

Another element in the hearings is the rise in the price of petroleum products started by the Humble Oil Company, a subsidiary of Standard of New Jersey with huge holdings of gas and oil.

The hearings have been a kind of rehearsal for the struggle soon to come in the Senate over a bill to take natural gas at the producing end out from under regulation by the Federal Power Commission. Embattled consumers in the Northern cities will be heard from then, but with the Eisenhower Administration, the Texas Senators and most others from the South in favor of the move, it is likely to be adopted.

The big headlines are, of course, going to the McClellan investigation of prostitution and labor racketeering. But the Senators conducting the oil inquiry are dealing with something nearly as interesting as sex, and that is big money and the price that every consumer must pay.

Confusion Over The Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—No budget in recent years has caused as much confusion as the one President Eisenhower handed Congress 57 days ago. He asked for almost 72 billion dollars, a record for peacetime.

What follows is a quick run-down on the confusion that spread after Eisenhower sent his budget to Congress Jan. 16:

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey at a Jan. 16 news conference indicated this was the tightest budget the administration could offer. He said:

Mayflower II Is A Lady

BRIKHAM, England (AP)—Stuart A. Upham, a weather-beaten man who believes in wood and canvas, is the builder of Mayflower II. She is a lady, Upham insists, a strong little ship which will duplicate this spring the voyage across the Atlantic made by the Pilgrim Fathers in 1620.

Mayflower II is in her essentials — looks, size and straining ropes — a copy of the sailing ship in which the Pilgrims ventured to the New World. The new vessel is a gift of the British people to the people of the United States.

Upham and about 35 craftsmen have been working for about a year and a half. Upham sizes up the ship taking final form and says with affection gleaming in his eyes:

"A proper wooden ship is the most beautiful thing man ever created."

And what's the beginning of a good wooden ship?

"The acorn, of course," said Upham. "It's honest oak that we need to withstand the corrosion of salt water, and the battering of the sea."

Upham prowls the Devon and Cornwall countryside, looking for likely trees. They ought to be about 200 years old, and they do not have to be straight and stately. A sturdy, gnarled and twisted oak gladdens his heart, because a wooden ship needs bits and pieces of strange shapes.

"We can bend wood in the steam bath," said Upham. "But then the tiny fibers which constitute the wood are twisted out of their natural shape a little, and we lose something in strength and durability. But if that twist grows naturally the wood comes into my ship in just the form it wants to be, and there's nothing like timber to appreciate good treatment."

Mayflower II is a ship of fine appearance, but not built with beauty a first consideration. It is a faithful copy, and the first Mayflower was a practical merchantman, a 180-ton freighter which hauled wine from the Mediterranean ports before the Pilgrims chartered her.

"Mayflower II is not grand as a schooner, or sleek as a yacht, but a very presentable craft," said Upham. "She's a bark, that's what she is. We put every emphasis we could into making this a rugged ship, and she will stand up to storms."

"Mayflower II is a live ship, daintily balanced and full of spirit. When we launched her last September, she slid down into the water eagerly, and then danced on the waves as if she were a ping-pong ball. Then we pulled her back into the dry dock. It's her boudoir, where we are dressing her to go calling overseas."

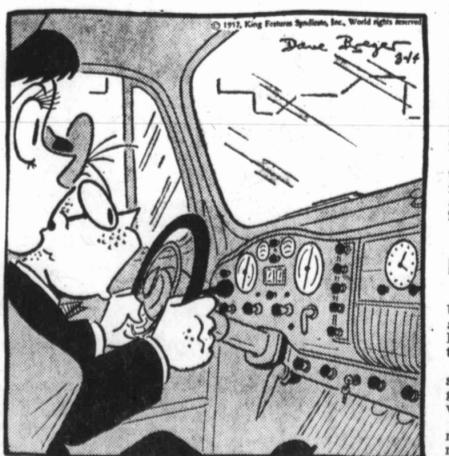

"But she's been a headache. We've never built a 17th Century ship. We had excellent designs from A. Baker, the American naval architect, but we had to feel our way along, rediscovering many of the old techniques."

Upham, who is 49, will sail to America with his ship. In his youth he sailed some of his company's fishing vessels out of Brixham.

"So I know a few tricks on a sailing ship," he said. "There is this business of fresh water, for instance. We'll sail with what we need, and there will be no distilling. But I have learned that the way to conserve water is to provide only a very small hand pump on the tanks. So our new Pilgrims will have to work hard to get a cup of water, and won't be wasting any."

Nerves Run Through Body Of Earthworm

By RAMON COFFMAN

In a broad sense, a worm is defined as "any animal having a real or fancied resemblance to an anguliform or earthworm." In this sense we speak of hundreds of kinds of insect "grubs" as worms. In a narrow sense, the name covers only earthworms—commonly known as anguliforms because they are used for fishing, or angling, with hooks and line.

Q. Do earthworms have brains?
A. Each one has a brain of a sort, composed of two little bundles of nerves. The two parts are joined by special nerves.

Q. The "head end" of an earthworm is pointed. This is important because the worm spends much of its time burrowing, or cutting, through the body.
A. Yes, it has a line of nerves extending back from the double-brain to ring after ring of the body. It needs the extra nerve cells to manage digestion and to move the body.

Q. How long does an earthworm get to be?
A. Those which we most often see are likely to have a length of from three to five inches, but some big ones in the northern hemisphere measure nine or 10 inches. Australia has gigantic earthworms which reach a length of eight or ten feet!

Q. What senses does an earthworm have?
A. It has a strong sense of touch. Groups of "touch cells," each with about 40 cells, are found on the surface of the body.

Certain tests suggest that a sense of taste also exists. The earthworm likes celery leaves better than cabbage, but it likes carrot leaves better than celery.

Without eyes, we hardly could expect an earthworm to see, but it does have "light-sensitive" cells. These give it warning when the morning light comes into the sky. Then it should stop eating and go back under the ground.

AUSTIN (AP)—Mosquitoes which transmit yellow fever in South and Central America have been found in Texas, the State Department of Health says.

The Department reported yesterday that the mosquitoes were collected from tree holes in thorny scrub in Cameron County near the mouth of the Rio Grande March 5 by its entomology section.

Yellow fever was not expected to spread through the state, the department said.

The mosquitoes' discovery was made by Dr. R. R. Eads and Neal Herron in cooperation with personnel of the Cameron County health unit and the U.S. Public Health Service quarantine station at Brownsville.

Jungle yellow fever passed through Panama during the period of 1948 to 1951 and reached as far north as Honduras and Guatemala. It has not yet been reported in Mexico.

Doc's Trial Set Monday

LONDON (AP)—Dr. John Bodkin Adams, accused of drugging rich elderly patients to death to benefit from their wills, goes on trial next Monday in London's Old Bailey Court.

The 50-year-old physician who practiced in the southeast coast resort of Eastbourne, will stand trial for the killing of an 81-year-old widow. The prosecution has also charged him with causing the deaths of two other patients.

Adams stood in the dock of the famed criminal court to hear the application for trial. He wore a blue suit and white stiff collar and bowed to the judge.

The trial had been postponed previously at the request of the doctor's attorney.

Adams is accused of poisoning Mrs. Edith Morrell in 1950 for a legacy. Her body was cremated and the ashes scattered over the English Channel.

Adams was committed to trial in January by an Eastbourne court.

Van Doren's Salary Hiked

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren, winner of $129,000 in television quiz show appearances, is getting a $100-a-year salary increase as a Columbia University instructor.

The pay boost, effective July 1, will make his salary $4,500 a year.

Tax authorities estimate that he will be able to keep only about $28,795 of his combined winnings and old salary.

Computations indicated the federal government would collect $95,622 and the New York State government $8,983 in income taxes for 1957, for a total of $104,605.

The computations were made before Van Doren announced his pay increase, of which he will receive half, or $50, in 1957. Authorities estimate he will be able to keep $3 of that.

Still another factor enters. Van Doren has written a book, "Lincoln's Commando," to be published by Harper's next month. His royalties from the book would be added to his income and figure in the tax picture.
