

Stranded

The occupants of this auto were among the hundreds who were stranded around Amarillo when a blizzard roared across the Panhandle. Less fortunate travelers were stranded in autos along the highway as snow, churned by high winds, piled into giant drifts.

USDA Says Storm Brought Benefits

AUSTIN (AP)—The U.S. Department of Agriculture figures last week's rain generally helped Texas farmers.

Describing conditions as "unusual, with some violence" the USDA said that damage from the Panhandle blizzard may be balanced by moisture benefits.

The rain slowed down planting in some areas.

Surface moisture was called ample to excessive in East Texas, with subsoil reserves building up. South Texas was the main planting area, but winds in other places were drying the fields for planting soon.

Satisfactory growth was being made by irrigated wheat, and dryland crops made further recovery in the High Plains.

In the Wichita Falls-Vernon area, wheat was in good condition. The southern Low Rolling Plains and cross timber counties reported good progress of small grains. In the blacklands and eastward, small grains continued to make good growth and prospects are favorable for excellent grain and hay crops.

Wet soil has restricted cotton planting to the south, although it's time to plant as far north as the blacklands. Even in the south, warmer weather is needed, the USDA said.

Commercial vegetable progress was checked and field work was delayed in most areas. Harvesting of Lower Valley onions was postponed due to light showers in mid-week. Spring crop vegetables, especially snap beans, cantaloupes, sweet corn, cucumbers, tomatoes and watermelons were making good growth, until they were delayed by the weekend's high winds. In Yoakum most tomato plants have been set to fields and are in fairly good condition. The same is true in the early sections of East Texas.

Most additional East Texas tomatoes were being set as weather permitted. North Texas onions continue in good conditions but need cultivating. Early plantings of Panhandle vegetables were not far enough advanced to be hurt by the blizzard.

The increase in moisture has improved the overall livestock picture. Some Panhandle calves were lost during the blizzard.

Water reserves in Central Texas were higher than they had been in many months.

In East Texas, more ranchers quit supplemental feeding altogether, with others slacking off. Feeding was also reduced in West Texas.

Although sheep and lamb marketing is above a week earlier, it is still short of last year at this time.

Handing Post To Twining No Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nomination of Nathan F. Twining—a cigar-chewing Air Force general—for chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff brought applause but little surprise within the Department of Defense.

A staunch and vocal supporter of Air Force pre-eminence in the defense organization, Twining nevertheless has been regarded by key men in the other services as a fair, reasonable and highly capable officer.

And in the Air Force itself, his popularity and accomplishments have caused him to be considered a worthy successor to the late Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg.

Twining, 59, was nominated yesterday for the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs by President Eisenhower. Senate confirmation appeared a mere formality.

White-haired, ruddy of complexion and usually chewing a fat cigar, Twining is a hearty, approachable general whose breeziness covers up much of the steel in his makeup.

A West Point graduate and a military flier for more than 30 years, he carried on aerial warfare against both the Japanese and Germans in World War II.

In July 1950, he became acting deputy chief of staff for personnel, and later that year he rose to vice chief of staff of the Air Force. He became chief of staff June 30, 1953.

In that post he has been instrumental in development of nuclear air weapons and the supersonic craft—missiles as well as airplanes—designed to deliver them.

4-H Members Have 'Satisfactory Year'

Howard County 4-H Club members have had a satisfactory year, according to Bill Sims, assistant county agent.

Actually the year is still in its childhood, but all the livestock shows are over until next fall and most of the animals have been sold.

Sims says the boys did quite well with their capons, pigs, lambs and steers. No big prizes were won, but the members won many minor prizes and placed their animals high enough to get them sold at auction. These sales always bring the boys a profit, because prices are considerably above the current market.

The next part of the year's program will be training members for the judging teams. Sims plans to have teams in livestock judging, poultry, grass, and entomology and also to present a team of rifle-men.

Unioner Facing Extortion Count

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Clyde C. Crosby, head of the Teamsters Union in Oregon, yesterday was arrested on an indictment charging him with conspiracy to commit extortion.

It is the fourth indictment which has been served on Crosby, who recently testified before the Senate subcommittee investigating labor racketeering.

He is accused in yesterday's indictment of conspiring with others to threaten damage to the property of laymen to prevent these establishments from owning their own pinball machines or from having any such devices other than those controlled by a firm favored by the Teamsters Union.

The earlier indictments accuse Crosby of accepting a bribe as a public official, of conspiring to accept a bribe, and of false swearing.

The bribe charges stem from his membership on a commission charged with selecting a site in Portland for a proposed eight-million-dollar sports center.

Portland gambler Big Jim Elkins told the Senate that he, Crosby and others conspired to obtain options on property mentioned as a possible location for the center. Crosby, who has resigned from the commission, denied Elkins' accusations.

He tries to give every boy a chance to compete in one of these events and make the out-of-town trips. However, if too many try to compete, he holds try-outs and takes the highest-scoring boys.

He says several members will have cotton projects if enough rain falls.

A few months ago the Extension Service decided to organize 4-H Clubs in the cities. The response here has been only fair in the boys division, Sims said, with about 20 boys joining. Several boys from Big Spring already belonged to the club, though, and were among the leaders in making the livestock circuit.

The response among Big Spring girls has been almost overwhelming, and Miss Elizabeth Pace, home demonstration agent, has about 80 girls eager to form a 4-H Club.

She also has added two or three new rural clubs, with the most recent one being at Lomax. She and Sims also have a few joint clubs, or clubs where both boy and girl members take part.

Uncle Ray: Arctic Terns May Be Champion Migrants

By RAMON COFFMAN

Two months ago a large number of songbirds arrived at my Florida home and spent a day singing, chirping and twittering. Those birds flew away, in a northerly direction, but others came during the days which followed. They were returning from vacations in the West Indies and South America.

The adjutant stork is clumsy-looking, but when it rises in air, it flies very well.

That reminds me of an important fact. Instead of coming "all at once" everywhere, springtime arrives at different times in various places. Let us say that it reaches southern Florida in the second half of January. Later weeks find spring weather in southern states, and spring reaches the Great Lakes area in the latter part of March and in April.

Q. When does spring come to northern Canada?

A. Southern Canada has spring weather in April and May, but in the northern half of the land, springtime is delayed until June. There is a sort of united spring and summer in northern Canada during June. Above the Arctic Circle, June is a month of "everlasting daylight."

Q. Do most birds migrate?

A. Yes, the great majority of them make long, medium or short migrations. Extremely short migrations are made by some mountain birds. They leave the upper parts of the mountains and fly only a few miles to reach lowlands.

Q. Are plovers the "migration champions"?

A. They are near the top, although they fail to equal the famous Arctic terns. Many plovers nest in northern parts of Canada, and fly south after the short summer there. Some cut short their migration when they reach certain islands, as the West Indies, but others continue far to the south. Ten kinds of plovers spend their winters in South America.

Some golden plovers go to Argentina, but others seek out southern Australia and New Zealand as winter homes. In the South Temperate Zone, warm weather is enjoyed in January and February.

Third Of Envoy Posts Go To Wealthy 'Noncareer' Legates

AMBASSADORS ABROAD Editor's Note: It costs money to be a U.S. ambassador, as a result many qualified men never make the grade. This country's ambassadorial system is explored in this second of three articles on the Department of State.

By BEM PRICE AP Staff Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—The ambassador is the key man in the implementation of United States policies overseas.

He is the President's personal representative in the country to which he is assigned and thus the kingpin of all American activities there.

During this year President Eisenhower will appoint about 30 new ambassadors. If the appointments run true to form, the so-called plus posts—London, Paris, Madrid, Rome, Bonn, Mexico City and New Delhi—will be filled by what the department calls "non-career diplomats."

To be more exact these appointments will be political rewards and the jobs will be filled by men with substantial private means.

Traditionally one-third of the nation's ambassadorial posts are occupied by non-career people.

The new ambassadors to Paris and London already have been named.

John Hay Whitney, an American-born aristocrat with a personal fortune estimated at between $0 and $0 million dollars, has gone to London. He is one of Eisenhower's golf and bridge cronies and he also helped raise funds for the 1956 campaign.

To Paris, the President appointed Amory Houghton, chairman of the board of the Corning Glass Works. Houghton was a heavy contributor to the Eisenhower campaign.

This is not to say that the sole qualifications for non-career diplomats are wealth and party allegiance. In these days intelligence is sought too.

This U. S. political system of picking ambassadors has turned up some really top flight men, one of whom was Whitney's grandfather, John Hay. By the same token it has produced some real duds.

Those who receive the push jobs can expect to spend between $30,000 and $100,000 a year out of their own pockets for entertainment.

For all its wealth and prestige the United States makes niggardly provisions for upholding its prestige abroad. Entertainment allowances run from $50 a year for, say a vice consul, to $12,000 for the London embassy—$300,000 for all the 269 overseas posts.

The end result is that an ambassador often has to reach into his own pocket.

One of the costs borne out-of-pocket by today's ambassadors for example, is the annual Fourth of July party to which all Americans living in the country are invited. In Paris some 2,000 show up annually. In London, the $12,000 Whitney will receive as an allowance this year will just about pay for the Independence Day party.

An ambassador also can be named from the ranks of the professional diplomats. The career man reaches the top after 20 or 30 years of service, during which he has been under annual examination as to his qualifications.

Usually the professional is confined by lack of private means to the less expensive posts and thus the smaller nations.

Periodically, someone in Washington tries fruitlessly to change this system.

In this session of Congress, Montana's Sen. Mike Mansfield is saying that the U. S. government can afford nothing less than the best ambassadors available and that it should pay for what it gets.

Mansfield has drafted an amendment to the State Department's appropriation under which the government would increase ambassadorial living expenses to the point where any man, regardless of private finances, can fill the top posts.

Mansfield believes many brilliant foreign service officers are kept out of posts for which they are the best qualified because of the present allowance setup.

He says that most other governments pay enough to get the best ambassadors available. The British ambassador in Washington, he says, had a living allowance of $75,000 several years ago and that it's probably more now.

Many State Department officials support Mansfield, but they agree that Congress probably will turn a cold shoulder to the request.

In the past Congress always has been satisfied with the system of letting politically-appointed men of wealth pay their way as ambassadors.

Non-career diplomats usually are picked from among people recommended by the Republican or Democratic National Committee, senators and Cabinet members.

The final decision rests with the President. Sometimes, selections have been a matter of whim. President U. S. Grant, for example, objected to men who parted their hair in the middle.

In our time one of the most striking examples of a non-career man at work is Chester Bowles, former ambassador to India.

The United States, at the time Bowles took over, was accused of being unsympathetic to Indian freedom.

Bowles said nothing but invited thousands of Indians to a Fourth of July party. On each table was a reprint of America's Declaration of Independence from England.

The Indians couldn't say much more.

How do we keep political appointees from fouling up the diplomatic works?

The answer lies in the structure of the department. The No. 2 man in every embassy is a career diplomat. He is the adviser and the technician.

Tomorrow: The Foreign Service Officer.

State Senate Will Consider Water Program

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate today saw the second 200 million dollar water program added to their floor-action schedule.

Approved yesterday by the Senate Water Committee, the bill (SB 2) would put into action a multimillion dollar plan to allow the state to issue bonds and purchase water storage space in federally-built reservoirs.

The bill was approved after Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin led a losing fight, asking delay on consideration of the program. He said the "main program" would be approved first.

Lock was referring to another 200 million dollar program approved by both houses but in different versions.

It would allow the state to issue 200 million dollars in bonds and loan the money to political subdivisions for the construction of dams. A joint committee is redrafting the needed legislation for the financial aid program.

The water storage space plan would need a constitutional amendment, which has yet to be approved by a Senate committee. However, approval is expected since members of the Senate Water Committee also make up the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Both plans would need the voters' approval at the polls.

An effort to increase the size of the proposed Texas Water Development Board from three to five members failed. However, the conference committee studying the financial aid plan would have to decide on what it wants.

The House said three members and the Senate five.

In other action, the Senate Water Committee approved these bills which would:

SB 29, allow the State Board of Water Engineers to issue water permits for public flood and storm waters used for the recharging of underground streams.

HB 49, create the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority composed of seven cities in four counties. The cities are Goree, Haskell, Knox City, Munday, Rule and Seymour.

HB 221, allow the Trinity River Authority to contract with cities in its area for the treatment and disposal of sewage effluent.

SB 301, allow water districts to hold elections for their creation and to issue bonds to the same time provided separate ballot boxes are provided. It also redefines the eligibility of a voter.

SB 378, allow the Beaumont Navigation District more authority in the collection of taxes. It also would allow the district to make emergency purchases without public bids.

Sergeant Holding Two Jobs At Webb

Holding down two jobs in Webb AFB headquarters is M-Sgt. Noel D. Marsalis. He is serving as non-commissioned officer in charge of the airman's branch and as sergeant-major for wing personnel.

Sgt. Marsalis is a native of Mississippi, and attended Forest Hill High School at Jackson. He first entered the military service in 1943, and after attending the Army Administrative College at Hattiesburg, Miss., went overseas.

During World War II, he served as chief clerk in the Top Secret Control Group at Gen. Omar Bradley's 12th Army headquarters in England. He went with the headquarters on the invasion of France and was later stationed at Weisbaden. After V-E Day he was transferred to Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters at Frankfurt, remaining there until, as chief clerk in the Emergency Return Section, he received his own orders sending him home in 1945.

After joining the reserves in 1946, he received a direct commission as a second lieutenant in the adjutant general department of the Army. Upon termination of his tour of duty in 1948, he again enlisted and was assigned as chief clerk of the Commissary, Hawkins AFB, Jackson, Miss., with the rank of technical sergeant.

When that base was closed in 1949, Marsalis went to Sewart AFB, Nashville, Tenn., as sergeant major of the medical group; serving at the same time as first sergeant.

It was there that he was promoted to master sergeant.

In December of 1950 he was called to active duty as an officer, and was assigned to Lawson AFB, Columbus, Ohio, as a group adjutant. He went to France a short time later, when the unit was transferred as a unit to Toul-Rosier. Later he served as military personnel officer, when permanent quarters were established at Spangdahlem, Germany.

After his discharge in 1953, he re-enlisted at Greenville, AFB, Miss. He has served as NCOIC, Airman's Branch, since his arrival here in November 1956.

His wife, Johnnie, works in the comptroller's office at Webb, in the same job she held at Greenville. The Marsalis have two children, Denny, 13, and Carolyn, 10. They make their home at 101 W. 17th St., Big Spring.

Elvis, Marine Shake Hands

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Elvis Presley and an 18-year-old Marine have closed the "toy pistol" incident with the agreement it was all a misunderstanding.

"He thought it was a real gun," explained the teen-agers' rock 'n' roll idol, "and I thought he and his buddy were gonna beat me up."

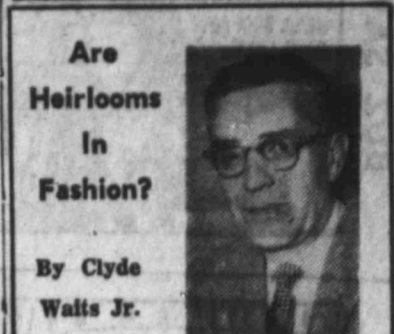

Presley, 22, and Pfc. Hershel Nixon of St. Louis met yesterday in the chambers of City Court Judge Beverly Boushe to talk things over. Later they shook hands and said everything was all right.

The singer said he whipped out the Hollywood prop pistol last Friday night when Nixon shouldered through a crowd of autograph-seeking fans. "I thought he was trying to pick a fight," said Presley.

Nixon said he and his buddy weren't hostile. "I just wanted to talk to Elvis," he said.

'Water Man Killed

ABILENE (AP)—Ross Maynard Neal, 42, of 1715 Henderson St., Sweetwater, Tex., was killed early today when his car hit a bridge railing on an overpass 20 miles west of here near Trent, Tex.

I suppose that's like asking if sentiment is in fashion any more. I remember when virtually every home had one or more heirlooms—things that had been handed down through the years from grandmothers to their daughters and then to their daughters.

Somehow we never seemed to think of men cherishing heirlooms. It was always the womenfolk. And how they loved them! An old ring or pair of earrings or maybe a watch that grandmother wore on her wedding day years and years ago.

Actually heirlooms are just as much "in style" today as ever. But maybe you don't think about it that way. Let me give you an idea. When you come here and select a ring, a bracelet, a watch or perhaps a silverware service for your family, it will be "passed down" to your loved ones and will be mellowed with age and sentiment.

I am taking this opportunity to invite you to come in and see our "heirloom jewelry". It is really beautiful. You can select anything you like, knowing that it is of Sterling character and craftsmanship—and happily you can pay for it on the easiest of terms if you desire.

Start your "heirloom remembrance" today. It will be one of the most satisfactory investments you have ever made.

DODGE PowerGiants

Most Power of the Low-Priced 31. Everybody agrees . . . the main reason for buying a truck is to haul a payload. That being the case, doesn't it make sense to get the truck that's powered and built to carry the most in its weight class? Of course it does! That's why so many truck owners are switching to Dodge. Dodge gives you the most powerful V-8's of the low-priced three, ranging from 204-hp. pick-ups to 232-hp. tandems. And Dodge trucks are built especially tough to handle bigger loads. For instance, Dodge pick-ups can haul up to one-third more than other competitive makes. Dodge makes hauling these bigger loads easier, too. Shorter turning radius lets you needle in and out of tough traffic spots in a jiffy. Power steering is available on most models, and the extra convenience of a push-button transmission* can be yours only with Dodge. Think it over. After all, it's just plain good business to get the most for your money . . . and your dealer can prove the most truck for your money is Dodge. *Available in all low-tonnage and Forward-Control models.

Actual Payload Capacity	Actual Payload Capacity	Actual Payload Capacity
1825 lbs.	1400 lbs.	1500 lbs.

Facts prove the Dodge D100 pick-up beats both competitive low-priced models in payload. Model compared is a Dodge 6, 100 pick-up, 7 1/2-foot body. In larger pick-ups the Dodge lead is even greater.

Passengers Learn How Eskimos Live

By FRANK CRAWFORD
KANSAS CITY (AP)—"Now I know how the Eskimos live."

That is how Norma Duff, 26, Middletown, Ohio, one of 253 passengers, described two rugged days and nights aboard the Rock Island Railroad's Golden State Limited, buried in a snowdrift near Meade, Kan. A rescue train picked up all the passengers yesterday afternoon at Meade and stopped here for two hours late last night before continuing to Chicago.

Macmillan Heads Home

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan hurried home today from Bermuda to switch his attention from world crises to strikes threatening Britain's economy.

Macmillan left Bermuda last night, 24 hours ahead of schedule, because of the "difficult industrial situation" at home.

In all, 1,200,000 workers are on strike—200,000 in the nation's 70 shipyards and a million engineering workers in key industries. The engineering strike is scheduled to spread by stages until three million workers in 4,300 plants are out by April 6.

But only four had their passengers aboard. They were at way stations and passengers were suffering no hardships.

The Union Pacific freed its westbound City of St. Louis with 213 passengers from drifts near Winona, Kan., yesterday. The westbound Golden State Limited still was at Liberal, Kan., waiting to get away with 100 passengers to Los Angeles. The Missouri Pacific had two passenger trains (Colorado Eagles) at Horace and Holsington, Kan., one with 55 and the other with 75 aboard.

KEITH McMILLIN knows that the Chinese proverb, "a picture is worth a thousand words," is only partly true. It takes a good picture to accomplish this. So he must be technically right on his timing and light when he shoots . . . and he must shoot at precisely the moment that will make the best picture. In addition he keeps an eye cocked for composition—that is the arranging of subject matter to best tell the story.

NOT ONLY is he a reporter with a camera instead of a pencil, but he must develop his negative and print and put the picture promptly in the hands of editors. This must be done on a schedule to match the flow of production paralleling that of printers and editors.

FINALLY, he must turn the picture into an engraving so that it will print on the press. This he does by using a special electronic machine. . . . WETHER at a 3 a.m. fire or on top of a collision at high noon, Keith McMILLIN works rapidly to be your eyes and ears for the whole story.

Urges Dignity In Traffic Court

HOUSTON (U.S.)—Newton Gresham, president of the State Bar Assn., said yesterday there won't be proper enforcement of traffic laws in Texas until dignity and effectiveness are restored in traffic courts.

Among the present evils Gresham described to safety leaders is the practice of compelling defendants to listen to lectures and watch traffic safety films before their case is heard.

"Until we get traffic courts which the people respect there will not be a proper enforcement of traffic laws in this state," the Houston attorney said. He spoke at the 188th annual Texas Safety Conference sponsored by the Texas Safety Assn.

Auto Inspection Rush Under Way

Business of inspecting cars un-week, and many motorists who wish immediate service are being turned away. In other places, mechanics are having all the business they can handle.

Motorists have until April 15 to have their cars inspected and marked with the safety sticker. A check this week of official inspection stations revealed that the volume has picked up in the last ents reported that very minor adjustments were the rule on inspections. Very few of the cars need more than mere adjustments, mechanics said.

On an average, the firms reported that 30-45 minutes would be needed to have the car inspected after a serviceman could start on it. The inspection includes headlights, stop lights, license lights, windshield wipers, and the horn.

The cost of the inspection — where everything is in order — is $1.

All agreed that the rush had started, and most of the stations reported that the increase started about the middle of last week.

One motor company reported that 15 persons were turned away Tuesday, because they wanted quick service.

In Big Spring, the authorized stations are Cosden Service Station No. 2, Driver Truck and Implement, Fred Eaker Motor Company, Eason Brothers Garage, Jones Motor, Truman Jones Motor, Lone Star Motor, Tarbox-Gossett, Tidwell Chevrolet, and Marvin Wood Pontiac. Fowler's Service Station in Coahoma is the inspection center there.

Alsop Chevrolet, Billington Motor, Ehridge & Rhodes Motors, Wheeler Motor, and White Motor handle the inspections in Stanton, and J&J Service Station is authorized in Garden City.

Texas Pioneers In Educational Video

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (U.S.) — Growing interest in educational television points up Texas' pioneer role in the field.

The nation's first educational TV station was KUHT at Houston, on Channel 8.

The Federal Communication Commission (FCC) granted a construction permit for it Aug. 20, 1952, and in May, 1953, it went on the air, operated by the University of Houston and the Houston School District. It still is the only strictly educational TV station in Texas.

Some other Texas educational institutions are interested in television operations through the commercial station approach.

The FCC granted a construction permit March 20 to Port Arthur College for a Channel 4 station. Texas Tech has applied for a Channel 5 permit. A hearing on its request and a competing application by C. L. Trigg of Lubbock is set for April 24.

Although Texas Tech seeks authorization to use a TV channel now set aside for a commercial station, it does not propose to operate commercially. Briefs filed with the FCC show that it hopes to finance operations through enrollment of students for extension courses.

Pointing out that five 30-minute courses could be broadcast daily from 8:30 p.m. to 9 p.m., and that 500 to 1,000 students could be expected for each course (there would be four semesters or sessions annually), the Tech briefs added:

"On the basis of 250 at $20 a course, which is an extremely conservative figure, the income to the college for a full year of study will be $100,000.

"This is sufficient revenue to offset and take care of the contemplated $90,000 in operational costs, based on estimates furnished by experienced television licensees.

"This, of course, does not take into consideration the possibility of summer courses which would result in additional revenue to the college."

The Tech briefs said the station would cost $89,000 to construct, adding that this would be taken care of through contributions. It said there were "certified agreements" by Texas Telecasting, Inc., and Bryant Radio & Television, Inc., to give $50,000 to the college.

Trigg, the competing applicant for the Channel 5 permit at Lubbock, has challenged Tech's financial ability to operate a TV station.

Tech, in return, has asked the FCC to reconsider its Oct. 24, 1956 decision turning down a petition by Tech requesting Channel 5 in Lubbock be reallocated and assigned exclusively for educational use.

The joint council on educational television reports that a number of universities already are successfully conducting extension courses by television. Students periodically submit papers by mail and report persons "for examinations. The public usually may watch the courses and learn, but no credits are given unless fees are paid."

The FCC has reserved 27 TV channels in all for educational purposes and to date has authorized construction of 47 stations. Now 23 are operating.

Seventeen of these TV channels have been allocated to Texas, including that assigned to KUHT. Six are VHF (very high frequency) channels — those from 2 to 13 inclusive; the others are in the UHF (ultra high frequency) category, from Channels 15 to 70.

Other Texas cities besides Houston allocated VHF channels for educational use are Amarillo, Channel 2; Dallas, 13; Denton, 2; El Paso, 7; and San Antonio, 9. Texas cities allocated UHF channels for educational purposes, with the channel assigned to each, are: Austin, 70; Beaumont-Port Arthur 37; Corpus Christi, 16; Fort Worth, 26; Galveston, 47; Laredo, 15; Lubbock, 20; San Angelo, 23; Texarkana, 18; Waco, 28; and Wichita Falls, 16.

Only six Texas cities are involved in pending applications for commercial stations. Besides Lubbock they are:

Amarillo, Channel 7 with Southwest States Inc., and Kenyo Brown the competing applicants; Denton, Channel 17, applied for by Denton Telecasting Co.; Monahans, Channel 9 with KMP's Broadcasting Co. and Tri-Cities Broadcasting Co. the competing applicants; Victoria, Channel 19, sought by Alkek Television Co.; and Nacogdoches, Channel 19 for which East Texas Broadcasting has applied.

In addition to the construction permit granted Port Arthur College, another recent grant went to San Angelo Television Co.

Pending before the FCC is a petition for reassignment of educational TV Channel 2 at Denton for commercial use. The proposal is strongly opposed by several educational groups, including the Texas State Teachers Assn. and the Texas Commission on Educational Television.
