Prison To Pulpit

Pastor J. Jerry Cacopardo thanks 5-year-old Anna Louise DeBarl for attending services at Newark's East Side Presbyterian Church. Cacopardo, once convicted of murder, mounted the pulpit and laid bare his past. Only recently New York's Governor Harriman announced he was freeing Cacopardo from lifetime parole restrictions.

Turnpike Puts Farmer At The End Of The Road

BRAMAN, Okla. (AP) — Amos Switzer, who's literally at the end of the road, has appealed to two states for help—so far without success.

He's sick and tired of entertaining unwanted guests on his farm. The south end of the Kansas Turnpike, opened last fall, stops at the Oklahoma-Kansas border adjacent to Switzer's farm. Oklahoma has never begun work on its part of the turnpike.

There are secondary roads going off at angles from the turnpike to connect with U. S. 177 six miles to the south but fast-driving motorists have continually ignored warning signs and ended up on Switzer's farm.

"Those cars, the majority of them from states other than Oklahoma and Kansas, kept knocking over the fence at the end of the turnpike, Switzer said.

"I moved it back 50 feet . . . and still they knock it down. . . I had some cattle and every time the fence got knocked down they got loose. When they got loose they would get on the turnpike or the other road and I was liable for them. So I finally sold them.

"You know we are right neighbors. My wife and I were married in 1927 and set up housekeeping right here and it's been only the last four months we have had to lock our doors.

"These poor people run off the end of the turnpike and come down here for help. Usually that means a long-distance call to Blackwell, Okla., or Wellington, Kan., for a wrecker or an ambulance — or both—and the highway patrol.

"When we are home that's fine. But when we started to get telephone bills with a lot of long-distance calls on them, we had to start locking up when we left." Switzer has appealed both to Kansas and Oklahoma for help. Both are sympathetic but Kansas says all it can do is put up signs and Oklahoma says it is a problem for Kansas.

Negro Slain After Argument On Bus

HOUSTON (AP)—A Negro passenger was killed by a Houston Transit Co. bus driver last night in a knife-gnawing battle, witnessed in part by two police officers.

The fight and the slaying followed an argument aboard the bus.

Michigan Demos Sweep Offices

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan Democrats and their leader, Gov. G. Mennen Williams, surged to new heights in state political power with a sweep of all 10 offices at stake in yesterday's spring election.

Senatorial Election Draws Most Votes

Precinct officials were undecided whether to toss today's early voting as indicative of a light or a heavy vote.

To noon, a total of 442 votes had been cast in the special U. S. Senatorial election in the six voting places in the city of Big Spring.

The senatorial vote in the six city boxes at 11:30 was reported: Precinct No. 1, North Side Fire Station, 37.

Precinct No. 2, Washington Place School, 92.

Precinct No. 3, Main Street Fire Station, 84.

Precinct No. 4, City Hall Fire Station, 98.

Precinct No. 8, West Ward School, 64.

Precinct No. 16 Park Hill School, 67.

At the same time, the precinct officials at the City Hall fire station, where the city commissioner election was under way, said a total of 221 votes had been cast to 11:30. Only 98 of the precinct's voters had voted in the Senate race.

This figure for the city election, however, is deceiving in that it represents total town vote to that hour polled in this particular election in the one box devoted to that balloting.

Thus it is shown that the vote for U. S. senator at the hour across the city was nearly twice as large as the city vote. Voters who are balloting on the Senate race are equally eligible to go to the City Hall Fire station and ballot on the candidates for City Commission.

Last city election at which city commissioners were being chosen, only 161 votes had been polled the same hour and yet, when the vote for the day had been compiled, the second biggest city election total in history had been piled up. Hence, the observers are pondering the probability of a new record high for city votes and a moderate to light vote for U. S. senator.

Voters ballot only at the city hall fire station for the city commissioners. The voters of Precinct No. 4 are voting at the same address in the senatorial election.

No word from rural areas in the county on vote interest was available.

Polls remain open to 7 p. m. There are 16 voting places operating for U. S. senator.

A score of candidates are seeking the opportunity to serve out the unexpired term of Price Daniel, now governor, in the U. S. Senate.

Texans Vote In Light Numbers For Senator

Result To Decide Control Of Senate

By The Associated Press

Texans were voting in moderate numbers Tuesday in special election which will determine the makeup of the U. S. Senate for two years.

Reports from over the state indicated voting during the morning was light to fairly heavy.

Weather was expected to play an important part in the final tabulation. Tornado warnings were out for a large section of West and North Texas. The sun was out during the morning in sections of East and South Texas, but thundershowers were predicted in those areas during the afternoon.

Houston, home of Republican candidate Thad Hutcheson, reported a light to fairly heavy vote. Most election judges reported voting "normal" for this type of election. Voting was expected to be boosted somewhat by balloting on an increase pay issue for city firemen.

Voting was heavy in Dallas where city voters also were balloting on city officials.

At Austin long lines of voters were reported at some boxes while others had only a few votes up to 9 a. m. The heavy voting was in West Austin boxes which, in Democratic primaries, generally voted conservative.

Orange, where one of the leading candidates, Rep. Martin Dies, practiced law for many years, reported a relatively light morning vote. Officials predicted the turnout would be somewhat less than the 14,000 potential vote.

Voters were turning out in unexpectedly large numbers at Fort Worth where a municipal election was being held along with the senatorial balloting. In many precincts the balloting was running ahead of the August primary.

Kilgore reported a very light vote but expected a heavier vote during the afternoon. Showers were predicted.

Seventeen Democrats and two Republicans seek the place of interim Sen. William A. Blakley (Tex.), who was appointed Jan. 15 by Gov. Allan Shivers to serve until a successor to Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex.), now governor, could be elected. The term expires in January 1959. Blakley did not enter the race.

The high man wins the election. There will be no runoff. Democrats now control the Senate 49-47. If Texans elect a Republican, the GOP could, with his vote and that of Vice President Richard Nixon, reorganize the Senate.

The campaign generated only a casual interest among voters. Political observers predict a slight turnout of 700,000 to 800,000 votes and a close race among five Democrats and one Republican. A total of 1,827,922 votes were cast a conservative Democrat from last November.

The leading candidates are: State Sen. Searcy Bracewell, 38, Houston.

Rep. Martin Dies, 56, Lufkin Democrat now serving his second term as congressman-at-large.

James Hart, 52, Austin lawyer, a liberal Democrat, former justice of the State Supreme Court and former chancellor of the University of Texas.

Thad Hutcheson, 41, Houston attorney, Republican, making his first bid for public office. He has the endorsement of President Eisenhower, and the backing of the state Republican organization.

Ralph Yarborough, 53, Austin attorney, liberal Democrat, and staunch advocate of party loyalty, who made three unsuccessful campaigns for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He is generally regarded to have the support of labor.

State Agriculture Commissioner John White, 32, Wichita Falls, also a staunch party loyalist and a vigorous critic of Republican farm policies.

Republicans are staking their hopes of a victory by Hutcheson on the hope that the Democratic vote will be divided among the many candidates. Although Herbert J. Anderson Sr., Bastrop real estate operator, entered the race as a Republican, he is not widely known and has not campaigned extensively.

Hutcheson promised to support Eisenhower and vote to reorganize the Senate. He described himself as "a conservative, states rights, Ike-admiring, two-party Texan."

Generally the Democrats hammered at the same points in their campaigns: reduction in foreign aid, a reduced budget, tax cuts, states' rights and no federal aid for education if it means federal control.

Yarborough advocated raising the personal income exemption from $600 to $800 and increased old age pensions.

The Democrats also appealed for loyalty to Texas and the South on the Senate control issue. If a Republican is elected, Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) would be ousted as majority leader of the Senate and many Southern senators would lose committee chairmanships.

Other candidates in the race, all Democrats, are: Elmer Adams, 65, Dallas real estate man; Rev. M. T. Banks, 62, Beaumont Negro evangelist; Jacob Berglofsky, 31, Wichita Falls teacher; John C. Burns Sr., 64, Deer Park, clerk; Frank G. Cortez, 50, San Antonio mortician; Curtis Ford, 34, Corpus Christi, former state legislator; C. O. Foerster Jr., 43, Elva horticulturalist; Ralph W. Hammonds, 50, Houston insurance man; Walter Scott McNutt, 50, Jefferson, educator and one time unsuccessful candidate for governor of Arkansas; Clyde R. Orms, 33, Dallas businessman; J. Perrin Willis, 67, Rusk, agricultural economist, and Hugh Wilson, 45, Port Arthur, oil laboratory technician.

Three Democrats withdrew after the ballots were printed. They are J. Cal Courtney, Dallas, industrial consultant; R. Walter Curran, Sulphur Springs, rancher and businessman, and Charles W. Hill, Fort Worth, contractor.

Republicans Plan Congress Control If GOP Is Winner

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland of California said today the Republicans will move to take control of the Senate if Texas elects a GOP senator.

Forty-eight votes would give the Republicans control of Senate machinery including committee chairmanships, by virtue of the fact that Vice President Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer, could break a tie.

Lee Weathers Rifes Slated At Stanton

Lee Weathers, 62, former resident of Big Spring, died Sunday afternoon at his home in Van Nuys, Calif.

His wife, Mrs. Hila (Stormy) Weathers, said that he sustained a heart attack at 3:30 p. m. and died suddenly. He had suffered from a heart condition for a number of years.

Funeral will be held at the First Methodist Church in Stanton at 3 p. m. Friday with Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring, officiating, assisted by Elmore Johnson, minister of the Church of Christ in Stanton. Burial will be in the Evergreen Cemetery at Stanton under the direction of Arrington Funeral Home.

Mr. Weathers was born in Greenville on July 24, 1894. He worked for a time with Texas Power & Light and later became associated with Southern Ice as a machinist, then as engineer and was manager at Midland. He was with the ice company here for a number of years, going to San Marcos and then to Midland as manager.

Mr. Weathers was a Presbyterian, a Mason and Leonard, and was a veteran of World War I. He resigned his post at Midland because of ill health and took a place with Lockheed Aircraft Corp. as materials reclamation analyst. At the time Mrs. Weathers was manager of the Chamber of Commerce in Stanton, resigning that position to join him at Van Nuys.

Surviving Mr. Weathers are his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Jean Persons, Van Nuys, Calif.; four grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. H. O. Mason and Mrs. J. R. White, Greenville, and Mrs. Clyde Boose, Sweetwater.

Palbearers will be Cecil Bridges, Jim Tom, Finley Rhodes, James Jones, B. F. White, Guy Eiland, Stanley Wheeler and Glenn Brown. Services are being held in Van Nuys this evening and the remains will arrive in Stanton at 11:05 p. m. Thursday.

Rain May Fall In Area

The weather bureau still clung to its hope that the current weather situation prevailing over the state might provide Big Spring with what it terms "scattered thundershowers" sometime tonight.

The same prospect had been offered on Monday but failed to justify the forecast for today calls for partly cloudy and cooler this afternoon. Settling dust will be in evidence during the latter part of the day. Tonight, if the weatherman is right, there will be scattered thundershowers. Wednesday will be partly cloudy and cooler.

Winds which peaked at 40 to 45 miles an hour, high drifting dust, sultry temperatures and a barometric reading which was way down in the well made the night of April 1 one that Big Springers will probably remember.

Skies were clear and the promise of moisture hopefully held out by the weather bureau developed only as a very light sprinkle which dotted dusty windshields at 7 a. m.

He was found shot to death a short time later.

Tornado Warnings Cover Texas Areas

By The Associated Press

Tornado warnings covered a wide section of Texas Tuesday. A massive storm center pushed down from the Rockies, threatening the Panhandle with its second spring blizzard in 10 days.

The Weather Bureau said the storm was expected to reach the upper Panhandle late Tuesday. Up to six inches of snow piled up in southern Colorado early Tuesday as the storm enveloped much of the same sections stricken 10 days ago.

The Amarillo weather man said the storm was expected to bring only a light snow in the extreme northern Texas Panhandle with scattered showers to the remainder of the area Tuesday night and Wednesday. Skies were clear and the weather balmy at Amarillo at midmorning.

Stockmen in the Oklahoma Panhandle were warned of heavy snows. The snow warning extended into New Mexico.

A thundershower soaked Amarillo early Tuesday and light rain fell at Galveston and Houston.

The Weather Bureau said thundershowers were forming in the Panhandle and were expected to develop southward into West Texas during the day and spread eastward. A squall line was expected to bring widely scattered severe thundershowers activity through southwestern Oklahoma and Western and Central Texas.

The tornado warning was for an area from 150 miles west-southwest of Junction to 60 miles east of Junction to Fort Worth to 70 miles west-northwest of Abilene and back to the original point. It extended for the period to 2 p. m. Tuesday.

A severe thundershower forecast was issued for portions of West and Central Texas.

AUSTIN (AP)—The House postponed its congressional redistricting fust today on the grounds it might affect the outcome of the Senate election.

By a vote of 80-46 the representative reset debate for 11 a. m. April 9.

"This is a political issue with such political dynamite in it that we should remain neutral," said Rep. Joe Chapman of Sulphur Springs in making the delaying motion.

"Our action on this bill, which would eliminate the district of Congressman-at-Large Martin Dies, might be construed as a slap at Dies. I certainly don't think that we should consider such a measure on election day," Chapman said. "Besides if Dies is elected one of us might want to run for his place."

Rep. Criss Cole of Houston, author of the bill, denied it had any political aspects. Basically the measure would give Harris County a second congressman and do away with the congressman-at-large post, created in 1950 when

Texas got another representative. "Dies has endorsed this bill," Cole said. "Let's pass this bill or kill it today."

The bill as presented to the House actually represents two redistricting plans. Cole's original bill merely gives the congressman-at-large place to Harris County. A committee substitute that has itself been rewritten would not only give Harris another representative but would shake up 10 other districts, including that of Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Fort Worth and Dallas legislators were reported joining forces to get the new congressman for their area, rather than for Houston.

The redistricting bill was approved for immediate debate yesterday by a slim 66-65 vote after the House had approved the Code of Ethics Bill (HB3) and the Lobby Registration Act (HB10).

The House also heard, but took no action on, an investigating committee report on the lengthy House probe into the ICT Insurance Co. collapse.

Dulles Denies U.S. Made Defense Promise To Chiang

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles denied today that the United States ever made a flat commitment to defend the Nationalist Chinese Islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Dulles told a news conference there was no U. S. commitment, secret or otherwise, except for that expressed in a congressional resolution adopted Jan. 28, 1955.

This "Formosa resolution" gave President Eisenhower congressional approval for a fight-if-necessary policy in the Formosa crisis.

Dulles was questioned at his news conference on the basis of a new biography's assertion that Eisenhower sent a "personal assurance" to Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek satisfying Chiang that the United States would help defend Quemoy and Matsu.

Dulles declined at the outset of his news conference to discuss the biography. But he agreed to reply to any questions based on points covered in the book.

Under questioning on one of those issues, Dulles said it is not true that the United States canceled its offer to help Egypt build the Aswan Dam in order to force an economic aid showdown with the Soviet Union.

The writer, John Robinson Beal, described the Aswan action as a "major gambit" by Dulles in the cold war with Russia.

Dulles said there were a number of reasons for the cancellation. He mentioned doubt that Egypt, burdened with arms purchases, could finance its end of the deal, the question whether this country might encounter dislike if the project failed for that reason, and the increasing alignment of Egypt with Russia.

Two Senate Democrats had demanded an explanation from Dulles on the Aswan matter.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) backed up a proposal by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) that Dulles be called before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for fresh questioning about the decision.

Dulles announced last July 19 the withdrawal of an American offer to aid Egypt in building the proposed dam on the Nile River. A week later, Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

Sparkman said in an interview he also wants to know more about a secret letter reportedly written by President Eisenhower to Chiang Kai-shek in 1955. The Dulles biography described it as "satisfying" the Nationalist China leader that the United States would help defend Quemoy and Matsu, the island approaches to Formosa.

"We were repeatedly told there were no secret agreements of this kind in these negotiations," Sparkman said.

The new book titled "John Foster Dulles: A Biography" was written by John Robinson (Jack) Beal, Time Magazine's diplomatic reporter.

The State Department disclaimed any official connection with the book, which was based partly on private interviews with the secretary.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, noted in a statement yesterday that Beal had said in the book that Dulles was not "responsible for its content."

White said Dulles saw Beal several times while the book was being written, but read in advance only some of the first written chapters which dealt with Dulles' earlier years.

Sparkman and Humphrey indicated in advance of the Dulles news conference that they won't be satisfied with anything less than an official explanation by the secretary to Congress of what was behind some of the international decisions he has made.

C-C Directors Endorse School Bond Issue, Teacher Pay Hike

Chamber of Commerce directors Monday gave their blessing to the $800,000 Big Spring Independent School District bond issue. Previously the chamber had endorsed the circulation of petitions for the bonds. Now the election has been called by the board for April 30. They also backed the provisions of HB 8 and SB 80 by which the state would increase teacher pay by $399 per annum and raise the increment from $54 to $90 per annum for the first five years. (Thereafter the increment would drop to $54 as now.) Supt. Floyd Parsons said this would make the salary for a beginning degree teacher $3,204. R. L. Cook, chairman of the highway committee, told the board that R. H. Weaver county judge, had been informed by Jake Roberts, district highway engineer, that the State Highway Department had let contract for paving

7.1 miles of road from the Big Spring-Snyder Highway past the Lake J. B. Thomas dam. The chamber road committee, together with other agencies, has been pushing for the project. Support of the chamber for the "Moonwatch" project to collect scientific data on the earth satellite was voted. Col. Charles M. Young, Webb AFB, said that the base would cooperate with the chamber, the junior college and others in this work. E. B. McCormick has been named chairman of the project. Observance of National Credit Week, April 28-May 4, was voted after Mrs. J. B. Apple presented the request. The chamber also adopted the recommendations in connection with the fire hazard inspection project April 23-24-25. Prize money was provided for this, along with finances for forms by which school pupils could check their homes for hazards. The schools with highest percentage of returns will be given awards. Prizes for a poster contest boosting cleanup week in May were also sanctioned. Walker Bailey urged good participation in the Friendship Dinner Monday evening at Sterling City. He said that 50 Big Spring men would have a like number of Sterling men as their guests. In discussing the school issues, Parsons told the board the district plans to sell only $400,000 of the total at this time. This, with $500,000 on hand, would finance a complete junior high with gymnasium, he said. He said that he hoped—although he could not promise—that there would be enough left, together with what the district might dig up, to effect some sort of remodeling at the present junior high. The remaining $400,000 was "earmarked" for future expansion of the senior high school, but it was his feeling that the board would apply the funds elsewhere if some greater need arose in the meantime. He expressed appreciation for the chamber's help in circulating the petitions signed by 222 citizens in the district.

Thomas Becomes Engineer's Aide

Pete Thomas, widely known Howard county resident and former county commissioner, has begun his duties as assistant to the county engineer effective April 1. Walter Parks, engineer, announced Monday afternoon. Thomas, who for many years was employed on the county road and bridge crew and who later was elected to the board of county commissioners, recently has been salesman for a machinery company in Abilene. Thomas will take the place formerly held by Ross Hodges. Hodges resigned several months ago and Parks has been without an assistant. The engineer has interviewed a large number of applicants.

PETE THOMAS

Thomas is to be paid $450 a month. The salary for the assistant was agreed upon some time ago between the commissioners and the engineer. Parks expressed high satisfaction that Thomas had accepted the post. "His long experience in county work, his tenure as a county commissioner and his wide acquaintance and familiarity with the county will make him of much value to my department," the engineer said. Thomas planned to go to work at once. However, he had been involved in a car accident last weekend in Abilene and spent yesterday afternoon being x-rayed at a local hospital. He said his chest was painful and that he feared he might have a fractured rib. At the county commissioners court session on Monday, Parks and Thomas were in attendance. Parks said that Thomas was willing to take the job provided that his responsibility would be solely to the engineer. The county commissioners reaffirmed their intention to follow the policy of the "unit" system—that the entire operation of the county road and bridge department would be on a countywide basis without regard to commissioners districts and that the engineer was the man in charge of all operations.

Story In Herald Brings 4 Books Back To Library

It pays to advertise. The Howard County Free Library released a report bemoaning the loss of some six books from its shelves. That was Saturday. The story was printed Sunday. Monday morning three of the missing books were in the receiving box in the lobby of the courthouse. A fourth—and a much wanted volume—was located where the "borrower" had abandoned it in a coffee shop. Result: "The Mandarins" is back on the shelf. Three specialized books on office management, college typing and kindred subjects are safe and sound in the library again. Left unreturned but still badly wanted: "Bartlett's Quotations," "Texas Almanac—1957 edition." Mrs. Opal McDaniel is hopeful that these two wandering tomes will also be returned. The same rule still applies—just drop the books in the box and that's all. No investigation, no fine, no questions asked.

County Policy On Machinery Use Revised

Howard County Commissioners, by a three to two vote, have amended their declaration of policy relative to use of county machinery and vehicles. Heretofore, the policy specified that such equipment must be used on county-right-of-way property except in cases of "emergency." There was no definition of just what constituted an emergency. Monday morning a resident requested that the commissioners use county machinery to help him dig out of drifted sand which had made the road to his residence almost impassable. The commissioners reviewed the matter. Earl Hull voiced the opinion that in his view the situation did comprise an emergency in that the resident had school children and that the sand was so bad the man's wife could not get her children to school. R. H. Weaver, county judge, argued that it was not an emergency—that the owner of the land, if he wanted relief, could contact a contractor and have the sand removed. He also said that use of county equipment on private property was in violation of the law. Red Gilliam made a motion which, in its final form, asserted that the county equipment could not be used on any property except that which the county owns—such as county roads. The emergency clause was stricken and no mention was made of any alternative possibility. Weaver contended that the commissioners would recognize a true emergency—such as a devastating flood, tornado or other difficulty—and that they would be able to deal with it. The vote was Weaver, Hudson Landers and Gilliam, aye; P. O. Hughes and Hull, nay.

Ships of the first convoy to transit the Suez Canal since war closed the waterway last November, sail through the waterway near Ismailia, Egypt. The convoy arrived in Port Said at the northern end of the canal marking a major step-toward resumption of normal operations.

Underworld Probed In Marcus Slaying

CHICAGO (AP) — Police combed the lairs of the underworld today for a clue to the slayers of today's banker Leon Marcus.

High on the list of those sought for questioning is Sam (Mooney) Giancana, crime syndicate figure to whom Marcus was known to have loaned $150,000. A note found on the body of Marcus attested to this.

Marcus, 61, who was under indictment as an aftermath of the $2½-million-dollar Hodge state fund scandal, was shot to death Sunday night and his body tossed into a vacant lot on the South Side.

On his body police found more than $300,000 in cash and checks and a copy of a receipt for $100,000 paid by Giancana. Cash in the dead man's pockets totaled more than $1,600.

Presence of the hoard of cash caused police to board robbery as a motive.

Investigators were more inclined to the belief that solution of the killing would be found in Marcus' devious financial dealings, which they said included backing gamblers and hoodlums.

The loan to Giancana, regarded by police as one of the top men of the Chicago area crime syndicate, was recorded on a receipt found in Marcus' pocket. Dated Feb. 1, 1955, it stated that Giancana had paid $100,000 "to apply on mortgage in the amount of $150,000 on the property located at 5400 N. River Road known as River Road Motel."

Investigators said the motel formerly was the syndicate's biggest house of prostitution. It was closed three years ago after a blaze of newspaper publicity and later was converted into a motel.

Marcus was chairman of the board of the Southmoor Bank & Trust Co. in Chicago. The bank, now under new management, is the one through which Orville Hodge, ousted Illinois state auditor, funneled more than a million dollars in phony state checks. Hodge was sent to prison.

Cotton Research, Promotion Urged

DALLAS — With truly adequate and hard-hitting programs of research and promotion, cotton can reign as king of fibers for a long, long time.

If, on the other hand, producers don't substantially close the gap that exists between research and promotion efforts and those of the synthetics, cotton inevitably faces a decline in its position.

George G. Chance, Bryan, president of the National Cotton Council, emphasized here today.

"Competing research-wise and promotion-wise gets to the heart of cotton's real problem," he declared in an address to the annual convention of the Texas Cotton Ginners Association.

With the right kind of program, he said, cotton's markets can be shoved upward to the point where the problem of growing and ginning enough to supply the demand would be claiming the attention of the industry.

"It is entirely possible," he said, "that within five years, normal domestic market could be up to 11 million bales and exports up to nine million, with a total of 20 million — and pointed on upward. This is the kind of market to which we can look forward if we really put research and promotion to work for us."

The program to expand markets will take years to achieve, he said, but "the sooner we start, the sooner we will realize benefits."

Chance said the current situation in the cotton industry was like "when the cows break into the corn patch. What we've been doing is driving the cows out of the patch. Then we've got a lot of fence mending to do to keep them out." Doubling the research and promotion budgets is the first step, he added.

A brighter outlook is ahead, he thought, because in 1957, for the first time in six years, domestic consumption and exports are at a rate exceeding production. Exports are expected to total over seven million bales, or triple the preceding year.

Ex-Gangster, Billy Graham Read The Bible Together

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Cohen, an ex-gangster turned nurseryman, prayed and read the Bible yesterday with evangelist Billy Graham.

"I'm sincerely interested in anything that's the correct thing in life," said Cohen.

Graham said he believes Cohen is "sincerely interested in spiritual things and leading a new life."

The two met in Cohen's hotel suite.

Cohen was once a reputed gambling czar in Los Angeles.

The pugy ex-convict was also a frequent but elusive target for gang violence. He was shot at 10 times and bombed once.

He spent four years in prison for evading $150,000 in federal income taxes.

Cohen tried haberdashery for a while, but now operates a nursery in California — "Michael's Greenhouses, Inc."

Cohen said he flew to New York just to see Graham. He said he has known Graham since 1949 and plans to attend the evangelist's New York crusade in May.

Cohen was raised in the Jewish faith, but he said he was "never a very religious person."

Oklahoma Decline Leads Oil Drop

TULSA (AP) — Daily average U.S. oil production during the week ended March 30 dropped 20,450 barrels to 7,797,025, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Oklahoma's 15,200-barrel decline to 669,900 barrels was a big factor in the loss. Texas production was unchanged at 3,330,000.

The Journal estimated 1957 production at 673,471,475 barrels compared to 650,536,090 last year.

Colorado was off 1,400 to 158,700; Louisiana, 1,400 to 1,014,850; and Arkansas 600 to 84,100. New Mexico was up 100 to 267,975.

New Executive Officer At Webb Is Decatur Native

Col. Kyle L. Riddle, veteran of 78 combat missions flown in P-38s and F-51s, arrived here Monday, to assume the duties of Wing Executive Officer.

Col. Riddle has been with the field command of the Armed Forces special weapons project since July of 1953. He came here from Sandia Base, an Army installation, where he served in the capacity of comptroller, assistant deputy commander for technical services, and chief of plans division of the operations directorate.

A native Texan, he hails from Decatur, and is a graduate of Texas A&M, class of '37. He holds a degree in finance and marketing.

Sports fans will remember the colonel as a pitcher in the West Texas and New Mexico baseball league during 1937. After the baseball season he went to work for the James Spencer Construction Co., and in the spring of 1938 he began his Air Force career. Entering the Army Air Corps as a flying cadet, he was trained at Randolph and Kelly fields, emerging as a second lieutenant on Feb. 2.

Except for a brief period as a pilot, with dual responsibility as assistant adjutant, while assigned to the 33rd Ftr. Sq., and an assignment as operations officer, 29th Ftr. Sq., he has served in a command capacity since 1940.

In Sept. of 1939, he went to Panama with the 37th Ftr. Gp., spending three years there as a squadron commander with that group and as group operations officer and a squadron commander with the 32nd.

He returned to Muroc, Calif., in October of 1942, and took command of the 329th Ftr. Gp., training detachment. Later, in the spring of 1943, he became deputy commander, 364th Ftr. Gp., there.

In December of 1943, he took Command of the 479th Ftr. Gp., at Wattisham, Eng. During the ensuing months he saw considerable action while logging 353 combat hours. He was decorated many times during this period, winning the Silver Star; DFC, the Air Medal with eight clusters and the French Croix de Guerre (with palm) among numerous other awards.

After VE Day, he was stationed at Bad Kissingen, Germany, with the Occupation Forces, where he was chief of staff, 64th Ftr. Wg., until December of 1946.

He was attended the Armed Forces Staff College and the Air War College in recent years.

Prior to his assignment at Sandia, he was commandant, Hq. TAC, served as chief of training division, Continental Air Command; and as assistant deputy chief, USAF Section, with the Joint U.S. Military Aid Group to Greece.

Col. Riddle is married, and expects his wife, Davilla, and four children to join him here about April 15. The children are Christie, 13, Dinah, 11, Davilla, 9, and Kyle Jr., age 1.

Conoco Offers New 'Royal' Gas

HOUSTON — A million-dollar advertising campaign to introduce Continental-Oil Company's new Conoco Royal gasoline, described as the "super gasoline with TCP plus," will be launched Wednesday as the company's new premium fuel goes on sale at approximately 9,000 Conoco service stations and other outlets in 27 states.

Conoco Royal will replace Conoco Super as the company's premium-grade gasoline, said Harry J. Kennedy, vice president in charge of marketing, who called the product the "greatest advance in gasoline development since the introduction of TCP.

"We have decided to continue marketing two grades of gasoline in our 27-state marketing area," said Kennedy, "following almost one year of testing three grades in the Houston market. After studying the results of the Houston three-grade test, we are assured that our new Conoco Royal can serve the requirements of all current automobiles without adding complications for our customers and expense for our dealers and jobbers."

"Conoco Royal features a revolutionary new lubricant additive for gasoline which gives oil-plating action," he said. "Discovered by Conoco research men in company laboratories at Ponca City, Okla., the new additive allows modern cars to deliver all the high compression built into them."

Kennedy reported that Conoco Royal gasoline was used by the late Ab Jenkins last summer at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, when a new stock car speed record of 118.375 miles per hour was set during a grueling 24-hour test covering a total of 2,841 miles.

Cut The Budget—Somewhere Else

The administration's unprecedented peacetime budget of nearly $72 billion kicked off widespread criticism inside and outside Congress. For the first time a press that had liked Ike in 1952 and 1956 teed off on the White House. Republican and Democratic organs alike denounced the budget as unrealistic, unreasonable, outrageous and impossible. With one accord the critics called on Congress to whack it to the bone.

Well, the House in particular has been trying to do something about it. This past week the $2.8 billion joint budget of the Labor Department and the Health, Education and Welfare Department came on for debate in that body.

Cries of outrage came from the heads of departments against laying profane hands on their share of the budget. The House whacked more than $35 million from the Labor Department's divvy, and Secretary of Labor Mitchell came fogging out of his corner with blood in his eyes. Mitchell told a news conference he would use "every means in my power" to get the cuts restored. He called the House action a "perversion of the budget process." His ire was centered largely on cuts made by the House from funds recommended by the Appropriations Committee after long hearings.

Well, there is something to be said against the sort of butcher-knife surgery made on appropriations after the matter reaches the floor. It's sort of like using a double-barreled shotgun loaded with buckshot on a chicken yard to select a fryer for dinner. Some of the most worthy causes may suffer in the general carnage.

But, hold — all is not lost. In the case of the cuts made from Brother Mitchell's department, most of them will be subject to restoration when the appropriation bill comes on for final action. In the general excitement of that moment most of them will undoubtedly be restored, or history won't mean a thing.

Individual congressmen are able to "make a record" on the floor in behalf of "economy"; is it their fault that a House with the full membership present restores most of the cuts on the final go-round?

Only a fraction of the membership was present when most of these cuts were made. For instance, a resolution to cut $1,327,000 from the Food and Drug Administration's funds was adopted by a vote of 83-82—185 votes out of a potential 35.

In all, the House excised almost 10 per cent of the Labor Department's new funds, which is what touched Brother Mitchell off. That doesn't necessarily mean 10 per cent will be missing when the appropriation bill is finally adopted. Far from it.

Some time this year, maybe in the summer or autumn, it might be a good thing to stage a motorcade over parts of the county's own lateral road improvements. It would be an eye-opener to most of us.

Let's Have A Look At Our Roads

Howard County Commissioners are asking bids for topping of five miles of lateral roads — three from U. S. 87 to Forest, and two in the Gay Hill School vicinity. Perhaps, by the time consistently warm weather returns, these two stretches of road can be given an all weather surface.

Meanwhile, work continues on other segments of the county's lateral road program. This means that county crews are preparing the grade, installing structures, and laying and compacting the base. The only hitch that we can foresee is that some property owners will fail to provide the needed roadway and thus force the county to turn to some other project where the benefited landowners are more cooperative.

Prospects are excellent that the county will have installed its objective of 20 miles of permanent road by the end of the year out of regular funds.

We have said repeatedly that this sets a pattern which may in time be followed in many counties of the state. More important, in time, our key lateral roads will be all-weather roads which will quickly bring traffic to and from the farms and ranches. Of course maintenance for paving will be increased, but it is not apt to be more — or much more — than for maintenance of dirt roads which have been subject to wind and water erosion.

Sometimes this year, maybe in the summer or autumn, it might be a good thing to stage a motorcade over parts of the county's own lateral road improvements. It would be an eye-opener to most of us.

Aid To Poland Runs Into Delays

WASHINGTON — The lights burned throughout the night in the offices where top-secret decisions are taken. The National Security Council had cranked up the machinery of government to turn out in 24 hours a decision considered of vital importance in America's struggle with the Communist empire.

All departments were brought in to make sure the decision would be properly buttoned up. On this crash emergency basis the NSC found that full aid to Poland was in the interests of the security of the United States. That was last October.

In a speech in Dallas, Tex., on October 27, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, after speaking of the effort of the Polish people to loosen the Soviet grip, went all out to promise help for peoples seeking liberation.

The American ambassador to Warsaw, Joseph E. Jacobs, early in November initiated talks with Polish officials about Poland's needs and the possibility of sending an economic mission to Washington. The Poles were, in effect, told to draw up a shopping list.

Then came a series of frustrating delays. The impetus of the full crash emergency directive of the NSC seemed to happen often with ordinary directives, to be lost in the desert waste of bureaucratic Washington.

Some blamed former Under Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. for putting roadblocks in the way. But wherever the blame lay, it was not until late February that the Polish delegation arrived in Washington.

In the interval, Poland's economy had continued to deteriorate. As dissatisfaction grows in the country, there is always the terrifying prospect of another political uprising which could bring down the same brutal Soviet intervention that occurred in Hungary. This justified the NSC's urgency.

When the Poles finally unfolded their shopping list, American officials were startled to find that it added up to about $300,000,000 for surplus grains, cotton, farm machinery and coal mining machinery. After weeks of searching in every cupboard, they had come up with an offer that added up to $25,000,000.

When the Polish request of $300,000,000 became publicly known, it was obvious the delegation could not go home with less than a tenth of that amount. Here was a stalemate, with American officials confronting the fact that funds to send agricultural surpluses abroad as well as other aid appropriations were virtually exhausted. For more than two weeks the Polish mission has marked time, paying visits to coal mines and industries in Pennsylvania and elsewhere around the country.

In the meantime, however, Dulles put the matter in the capable hands of the new Deputy Under Secretary for Economic Affairs C. Douglas Dillon. A formula has been worked out whereby the United States will offer to provide between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 in goods through loans and by accepting payment in Polish currency. At the same time, while no definite commitment for the future will be made, the Poles will be given to understand that if they return in the fall, they can negotiate for a second installment.

There is a catch in this. To find $50,000,000 or more in aid, either Dulles or the President himself must go to work to make sure that the departments with resources available turn those resources loose. That will not be easy. If enough work is done at the highest level, the Polish talks can be resumed with the hope of a successful ending.

Certainly the incentive is there. Failure could mean another Hungary, and a second Hungary enacted with all its horrors in Poland would threaten a war of incalculable dimensions.

Usurpation By 'Veep' Possible

WASHINGTON — It may startle you but—the vice president tomorrow could declare the president unable to carry out his duties and announce himself as president.

So far the two vice presidents who had the best excuse for doing that — those who served under President Garfield, who lingered 80 days after being shot, and President Wilson, laid up for 17 months — did nothing of the kind.

But what would stop some future vice president — in a situation unimaginable now, say crisis, ambition, political conflict — from trying to get the presidency by declaring the president disabled?

The biggest single deterrent would be the power of Congress to impeach him if it thought he was trying to usurp the presidency. Nevertheless, such a try-sometime is possible so long as the present constitutional gap on the presidency remains.

The Constitution says: "In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president . . ."

In that sentence the Constitution does one thing, fails to do another: 1. It gives the vice president power—to step into the presidency on a contingent basis. That is, he assumes the office if the president is disabled.

2. It fails to say who decides the President is disabled. It does not say the vice president shall or shall not make the decision. Under law, when a man is granted power on a contingent basis—and when there is no language to the contrary — the decision on when to assume that power is up to him. This was pointed out yesterday by Atty. Gen. Brownell, who told Congress: "It is a well-established rule of law that in contingent grants of power the one to whom power is granted is to decide when the emergency has arisen. Thus the vice president is constituted the judge of the President's inability."

Brownell — representing the views of President Eisenhower — urged Congress to fill this gap in the Constitution by a constitutional amendment which he proposed.

Railroad Rate Hike Plea Brings Up An Old Issue

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter
WASHINGTON, April 2 — An old issue is being revived by a petition of the railroads for another increase in freight rates.

It is the question of whether government regulation, or free and open competition, should be allowed to determine the charges that transportation agencies make for hauling goods.

Oddly enough, this issue is believed being renewed by an organization which led a fight in the latter part of the last century to bring railroads and their rate-making under government control, but which now wants what it calls "gradual de-regulation."

The organization is the National Grange, the oldest of the major farm organizations.

The Grange is pressing its arguments for less government control of railroads, trucks and other forms of transportation in connection with a railroad request for a 22 per cent boost in freight rates in the East and West and 15 per cent in the South.

The Grange, like most other farm organizations as well as the Agriculture Department, is fighting the railroad request, which is pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Grange says it has more faith in competition to protect producers and consumers than in the ability of the ICC to accomplish this.

Back in the 1880s the Grange largely started and led a fight to bring the railroads under government regulation. It charged the railroads with charging excessive rates to some shippers and some abuses. This fight led to the establishment of federal and state agencies to set freight charges.

Taking notice of its changed position, the Grange says it "makes no apology to America" for its efforts to regulate the "transportation monopoly" of former years. It explains that when it first sought regulation, there was a limited amount of competition among railroads.

The advent of today's highway system with the big motor trucks has changed all this, it says. Faced with truck competition, railroads are no longer in a position to charge excessive rates, it explains. Hence, it argues, competition between the various forms of transportation would in itself prevent overcharging.

Around The Rim

What'll They Think Of Next?

Our office dictionary isn't up to date. I can't find out what "silicone" is. It's very important. You read the advertisements, you watch the television commercials and you discover silicone is the new wonder chemical. It's used for so many things that the list is endless.

For example, they say that it is being added to chewing gum these days. Does your gum taste any different? Apparently it shouldn't affect the taste at all. The chewing texture should remain the same.

As I understand it, the silicone is for another purpose entirely — for a purpose which applies after you've chewed until your jaws are weary and have discarded the wad.

If you are typical of most gum chewers, you do one of three things with the gum — (1) you stick it under the ledge of a theatre seat or (2) you fasten it to the lower edge of a table in some coffee shop or (3) you just toss it on the sidewalk.

Along I come with my big feet. I am not looking at the sidewalk and I plunk the sole of my shoe smack down on your discarded wad of chewing gum. I have to find a place to lean, dig out a pocket knife or other tool and painstakingly pry the offending gum loose from my shoe.

Now the gum manufacturers add silicone to the stuff.

Result: It does not stick to the soles of shoes when stepped upon. Whether it will continue to stick to the bottom of movie seats or under the ledges of tables, I can't say.

When I was very young and chewing gum was a delectable to speak, one did not callously throw away one's cud when one was temporarily weary of chewing.

One parked it in some private spot and retrieved it later for a new session. Not as long as we can chastise young hoodlums by more effective methods — the silicone will have on its former capacity of adhering to the cache where it is hidden.

We progress, you see.

Two young boys, I read in the papers, placed a big rock on the tracks of a railroad. Along came a locomotive. It rammed into the rock and somehow hurled it into the air in such a fashion that it crashed into the cab of the engine within inches of the fireman's head.

No one was injured. The train was not wrecked. It could have been derailed, easily enough, but that did not happen: A dent in the cab was the sole damage.

The authorities located the boys who placed the rock on the tracks. They hauled them before the juvenile court.

And, boy, didn't that court deal harshly with those youngsters!

After talking it over with their parents, the punishment — stern and brutal as it was — was agreed upon.

The boys are to be deprived of the right to ride their motor scooters for a whole month!

What is this world coming to, anyhow? Isn't there something in the constitution which forbids cruel and unusual punishment?

If this sort of thing keeps up, the privilege of a great many youngsters to commit all sorts of deeds of violence from simple thievery to murder will be practically curtailed. If not curtailed, at least things will be made so hard on the offenders that the fun of the vandalism or whatever it is the youngsters enjoy will be destroyed.

Who knows — some irate judge may even be so low-down mean as to suggest that the father of a juvenile offender revert to that barbaric custom of a few generations ago.

You know the custom — application in generous portions of razor strap or belt in those anatomical areas most suitable for such treatment.

However, it is quite evident that such drastic action is not likely for a long time. Not as long as we can chastise young hoodlums by more effective methods — such as depriving them of their motor scooters or forbidding them from going to the movies.

How cruel can you expect society to be, for goodness sakes!

Social Security, To The Nth Degree

It is now obvious for my own peace of mind and achin' back (often indistinguishable) that I was born a quarter of a century too soon.

It is quite possible that if I had only been born 25 years later, I would never have been forced to waste my youth and beauty in merl and terl over a steaming typewriter.

There is every prospect that Congressional generosity in another 20 years will eliminate work entirely for the adult population by providing social security pensions for all citizens over 20 years of age. Such is political chivalry that the female of the species may even begin collecting her pension two years earlier.

Just a year ago Congress gallantly clipped three years from the retirement age of my sex and by fiat agreed that women should be eligible for social security payments at 62. (And it is my contention that any woman who will own up to 62 deserves a pension.)

But it develops that this move to pension-off women at age 62 is just the beginning. Now that Congress has gotten into the spirit of the thing, the big drive in the present session is to knock two more years off the eligibility age for the frail sex, lowering it to 60, and simultaneously to reduce the eligibility age for the opposite sex to 62.

From experience, the nation knows that in Congress there ain't no such animal as "too much of a good thing," especially when the giveaways benefit the voters in the home district. I think the voters can confidently look forward to steady reduction of the social security age limit by each succeeding Congress until, for all intents and purposes, work is finally abolished and Utopia achieved.

By 1980 at the latest, students in junior colleges will doubtless be specializing in shuffle board and bingo in preparation for a happy, carefree, pensioned old age at 20, when they retire to St. Petersburg, Fla.

Young people emerging from their teens will no longer have to ask prospective employers tiresome questions about job security, sick leave, paid vacations, coffee breaks and pension plans. Oldsters of 20 will merely have to show their birth certificates to a Federal agency to entitle them to full retirement benefits without ever having raised a callus.

This overwhelming Congressional itch to whittle the retirement age comes at a time when the House and the Senate, on the surface, are piously dedicated to whittling the budget because the folks, i.e., the voters, back home are on the warpath over a $72 million budget. But who, including the folks back home, was ever offended by gravity?

Indeed, Congress by continuously lowering the retirement age is going to banish two big problems. First, it will solve the problem of geriatrics and longevity, with which science is now wrestling, by making the whole population old.

And second, Congress will banish work. Don't ask me how. Congress will figure that out, too. Probably automation has arrived not a second too soon.

Ah, there's a great future ahead for Americans when all will be prematurely old and happy as kings. Life will be just one long, glorious coffee break on Uncle Sam.

Advice On How To Sell Your House

You can't judge a book by its cover and you can't judge a house by its paint job. Recently, in Philadelphia, a court annulled the sale of an $18,000 house which was ridden with termites.

The sellers had represented the infested joints, which were painted a "gleaming white," as "good as new." Fraud, ruled the court.

In spite of that decision, don't spare the paint, broom, or scrubbing brush if you try to sell your home this spring. A good impression, a spruce-up, means extra dollars when the FOR SALE sign goes up.

How to make your wares attractive is set forth in a well-arranged brochure compiled by Copy Cat Advertising, of North Hollywood, Calif. It offers the following do-and-don't advice to homesealers:

"FIRST IMPRESSIONS: A trim lawn, flower beds cultivated, trees and shrubs pruned, fresh paint, if possible, will help. For its efforts to regulate the 'transportation monopoly' of former years. It explains that when it first sought regulation, there was a limited amount of competition among railroads.

"THROUGH ANOTHER'S EYES: Pretend you are a buyer. Fix leaking faucets, warped doors, sticking drawers, loose knobs, etc.

"THE RIGHT GLEAM: Be sure everything has the necessary polish — from the kitchen pots if they are the hanging type to the table tops in the living room. A well-kept home shows that it has been properly maintained.

"NO DISORDER: Bedrooms are always important features. Tidy and neat with spreads on the beds will do the trick.

"HER HEART IS IN THE KITCHEN: Harmony between colorful curtains, counter tops, and paint will work magic. It's the lady of the house you must please.

"A SENSITIVE PLACE: The bathroom should be bright and clean and well aired.

"CLOSET SPACE: Properly hung apparel, shoes, hats, and miscellaneous articles neatly placed, make for ample-appearing closets.

"DIM LIGHTS may be romantic but not practical for after-dark inspection. Be sure all lights work and turn them on. The prospect will appreciate the glowing warmth.

"OBSTACLE COURSE: Don't make it necessary to duck, dodge, hop, or jump. Clear all cluttering objects out of hallways and stairways.

"GOOD POLICY: Prefer all questions about prices, terms, possessions, etc., to your salesman. You won't say the wrong thing and it may give you an opportunity to properly think it over.

"KEEP IN THE BACKGROUND: Your salesman can better emphasize the features of your home. . . . He knows your buyer's requirements. You'll be called if necessary.

"GOOD SHOWMANSHIP: Do not dispose of your furnishings before selling. Impressions can best be obtained when everything is in place."

Other suggestions: Don't apologize for the appearance of your home. It emphasizes what might not be noticed.

Don't have guests around. The prospect feels like "an intruder, rushes his inspection. Be businesslike, not chatty. Hyper-sociality is distracting. So are radio and TV programs. Shut them off.

Don't have animals around. Some people may feel uneasy with dogs tagging their heels or cats nuzzling up for petting. The brochure, which is distributed by real estate firms, warns against trying to escape a broker, and his fee. He knows the market, the customs, and the customers. Which makes sense. And so do the recommendations about sprucing up the place — to please the buyer's eye.

Study Of Honduras Is Continued By Auxiliary

Honduras is a country divided into two parts known as northern and southern Honduras, members of the American Legion Auxiliary learned Monday evening at their meeting. Mrs. R. D. Kramer, president of the Coahoma AIA unit, lead the second study of the Central American country. She told the group that Honduras ranged from mountains of 10,000 feet to fertile valleys. The northern part of the country is noted for banana lands, she said. Numerous rivers, none navigable except for very small craft, are found throughout the country the speaker said. She told also of the varied temperature ranges in the different parts of the country. Members learned that the rainy summer season is from May to November, while the winter is from November to May. Mrs. T. P. Musgrove discussed the flag of the country, which is of horizontal stripes of blue and white with five blue stars representing the members of the former Central American federations. The rose is the national flower she said. The coat-of-arms was presented by Mrs. R. L. Andrews. She described the coat of arms as having a shield and pyramid, representing justice, rising above the water with two castles at the base, representing the valor of the native races. Above a volcano is a rainbow signifying peace, progress and union. The Spanish inscription on the coat of arms is "The Republic of Honduras, free sovereign, independent, Sept. 15, 1821." During the business session, Mrs. Kramer explained that fundamentals of the volunteer work with the VA Hospital and urged all units to make this work their main project. Mrs. Lloyd Nichols won the capsule prize. At the April 15 meeting, the final study on Honduras will be given.

Mrs. Bill Priebe was leader for the program of Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Monday evening, when the group met in the home of Mrs. Darel Highley. Using the topic, "Enjoyment of Music," she developed the subject from a question, "In what way can music contribute most to making an art of living?" Mrs. Priebe also sketched the development of music and composers from early times through the age of jazz. Members voted to enter the Achievement Award Contest, which will be based on the cultural and social programs, on the ways and means projects and on attendance. Awards will be made at the area meeting of the sorority to be held in Lubbock during the fall. Mrs. E. C. Smith, 1729 Yale, was announced as the next hostess; Mrs. Highley will be program chairman and will discuss sculpture and painting.

'ROUND TOWN With Lucille Pickle

Dollar Day brings out the multitude like nothing else but a warm day in early spring brings out gardeners. Monday, both the sale day and warm day look place, and it seems perfectly safe to say that very few people were in their houses. Of course, the wind had to blow too hard and foul up an otherwise good day to work in the yard but it didn't keep the women from shopping - and keep parking spaces at a premium throughout the day. Three very young ladies attracted much attention here this weekend when they came with their parents to visit their grandparents, MR. AND MRS. GLENN SMITH SR. They were Sharon, Shirley and Sherrill Smith, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith Jr., who live in Odessa. Dressed alike in navy and white, they presented a most charming threesome Sunday. Their father is an instructor at Odessa Junior College and also is the golf coach. Frustration at its fullest. MRS. W. H. BAIN has been a most faithful and efficient scrapbook chairman for her club and throughout the year has kept each little item pertaining to her club's activities. "Nary" a line escaped her eyes if her club was mentioned, and she was set on having the best scrapbook at the district convention of federated clubs held the past weekend. She might have made it except for one thing which she forgot to send it in. The Bains came home from Cross Plains Sunday night where they had spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Odum and then she read about the convention and realized she never had mailed the book. She is full of woe! MR. AND MRS. LONNIE COKER and their daughters, Gloria and Londa spent the weekend in Dallas.

Westbrook Folks Have Visitors; Take Trips

WESTBROOK - Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shelton and daughters, Carla and Sherri Lynn of Knox City were visiting friends in Westbrook and Colorado City this weekend. Ray Snowden of Colorado City spent the weekend with his grandmother and uncle in Westbrook. Mrs. A. T. Barker returned Saturday from a two-week stay in Midland. She was accompanied home by her daughter, Mrs. Nathan Rogers. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Crenshaw have moved to Kent. They left Friday to visit in Mingus over the weekend before reporting for work Monday morning. Mr. Crenshaw is employed by Texas and Pacific Railway Co. Mrs. Ray Moore will accompany her parents to Kent and remain for two weeks before joining her husband in Norman, Okla., where he is to be stationed with the U. S. Navy. Benny Matlock of Farmington, N. M., spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Matlock. Mrs. D. S. Smith of Maplewood, N. J., is visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. A. K. McCarley Sr. of Colorado City. Clarence Clawson of Riverside, Calif. is a guest of his brother, E. P. Clawson and family. Mrs. Frank Oglesby visited in Abilene last week with her son and daughter-in-law, the Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Oglesby Jr. Members of the Ruth Sunday-School class of the First Baptist Church met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Edward Blakney for their monthly social and business meeting. Mrs. W. A. Bell was elected president of the class, to replace Mrs. H. H. Crenshaw, who has moved away. The class voted to help buy a crystal punch service to be presented to the church in memory of the late Mrs. Hattie Berry. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore were honored with a bridal shower at the First Baptist Church, Thursday night. Hostesses were members of the Young Peoples Class. Mrs. C. L. Eastman read the poem "A Message to the Bride and Groom." 56 registered. Guests of the Raymond Lees Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Brookshire and children of Midland and Marsha and Steve Compton of Colorado City.

Sixteenth Birthday Marked With Dinner

One of the most important birthday anniversaries a girl can celebrate was observed Monday by Fan Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Barber. Marking her 16th birthday, Miss Barber was hostess to a group of friends at a dinner party given in the Colonial Room of the Howard House. An arrangement of spring flowers, based in Easter eggs and spring hats, centered the table where 10 guests and the honoree were seated; matching place cards marked the seating arrangement. Each guest was sheltered by an umbrella, which was attached to her chair. The parasols served as favors. Part of the dessert was a cake in the shape of a butterfly, decorated appropriately. Following the party, the group attended the Tri Hi Y meeting at the YMCA. Included in the guest list were Dolores Baird, Pat Rogers, Beverly Martin, Linda Woodall, Beverly Alexander, Sue Alice Beard, Mary Jane Trego, Kaye Chadd, Mary Allen Camp and Mary Olliphant.

Methodist Guild Continues Study Of Paul's Letters

Second in a series of lessons on Paul's Letters was given Monday evening for the Martha Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church. Members met at the church to hear Mrs. H. G. Keaton discuss the book; Mrs. C. L. Rowe opened the meeting with the reading of "Lord, Let My Light Shine." Mrs. E. W. Alexander and Mrs. H. M. Rowe, dressed in costume, read from a scroll the letters of Paul to the Ephesians and Galatians. Mrs. Fred Eaker discussed the letters of Paul as adapted for the local church. The group will meet for the third and last lesson on the letters Monday evening at the church at 7:30. Twenty-one were present for the meeting.

Party Compliments Mrs. Don Peterson

LAMESA - Mrs. Don Peterson was complimented with a stork shower Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Cleburn Schofner. Mrs. Bonnie Culp, Mrs. A. J. Beckmeyer, Mrs. Hal Boyd and Mrs. Clois Shofner were the hostesses. The refreshment table was laid with a white linen cloth and featured a baby tree as the center arrangement. Invitations were extended to about 50.

Geographic Table Mrs. Sherman Adams, wife of the presidential assistant, shows a striking coffee table in her Washington home. The table, designed by Mrs. Adams, charts the route and points up highlights of a recent trip abroad.

Talented Mrs. Adams Has Many Activities

WASHINGTON - Like many wives of top government officials, with a crammed schedule of official and social engagements, Mrs. Sherman Adams still manages to devote a good share of her time to her family, her private interests and her hobbies. The gentle-mannered, alert wife of the President's top assistant admits she probably has her fingers in more pies than she should, but she is blessed with an energy, enthusiasm and efficiency of which her New England forebears would be proud. Besides, she says, "it's fun to be busy." Currently, she is wearing many hats. She's publicity chairman of an exhibit of needlework, designed and executed for the Washington Cathedral by a group of nationally prominent women, to be held April 13 through 25. She helped organize and is vice chairman of the Washington Cathedral Needlepoint Committee sponsoring the project. She has designed an enchanting needlepoint cushion for the bench in the Cathedral bride's waiting room, as well as kneelers for the Bethlehem Chapel, and has encouraged a group of White House wives to come to her home every Monday to work on other needlepoint. Among these are the wives of Brig. Gen. A. J. Goodpastor, White House staff secretary; Murray Snyder, assistant secretary of defense; Harold Stassen, special assistant to the President, and L. Arthur Minnich Jr., assistant staff secretary. Mrs. Adams, a member of the Congressional Club since her husband served a term in the House before becoming governor of New Hampshire, is a member of its program committee. In the studio she fixed up in her home, a handsomely remodeled barn and mill, the stone part of which dates back about 150 years, she has invited a group of friends to share painting lessons once or twice a week. Mrs. Stassen and Mrs. Snyder are in the group along with Mrs. Carlos Romulo, wife of the Philippine Ambassador, Mrs. Percival F. Brundage, wife of budget director, and Mrs. Robert Madison. Many of the paintings in her home are her copies of masterpieces in the National Gallery, done to "learn techniques." Original art also adorns and gives personality to her home, like the tiles topping her coffee table which chart and highlight the course of an Adams trip abroad. With her lively gray eyes, slender figure and youthful freshness, it is hard to believe Mrs. Adams is a grandmother of seven. Their names are engraved on gold bracelet discs. Her eldest daughter, Mrs. William S. Freese of Pittsfield, has presented her with four grandchildren; another daughter, Mrs. William M. Halager of Scarsdale, N. Y., with three. An unmarried daughter, Sally, teaches school in Stamford, Conn., and a son is a sophomore at Dartmouth.

Business Meet Held By Presbyterians

The Women of First Presbyterian Church met Monday at the church for a business meeting. Mrs. T. S. Currie opened the meeting with a prayer. Mrs. Lucian Jones brought a devotion from the eleventh chapter of Judges, which dealt with the subject of Jephthah. Reports were given by the chairmen of various circles. Officers reported on the work of their committees. Mrs. W. G. Wilson discussed the meeting of the United Church Women held recently in Dallas. Announcement was made that April is church paper month, and members were urged to subscribe to all church publications during this period. The group heard the announcement of the Presbyterian to be held in Odessa on April 30. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Cecil Wasson for 18 members.

Rigney Does A Slow Burn Over Reports

By JERRY LISKA

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Manager Bill Rigney has been registering a slow burn this spring over insinuations his New York Giants can't improve, or even hold, their sixth-place National League finish of 1956.

The bespectacled Rigney is convinced that the Giants will have more to offer than just heralded Willie Mays. 20-game winner Johnny Antonelli, reliable Red Schoendienst and consistent Don Mueller.

"Except for a few pitchers who haven't come along as rapidly as we'd like, our Arizona training season was very encouraging," said the man who replaced Lippy Durocher. "We got fine promise from rookie Andre Rodgers at shortstop, Gail Harris at first base, and Whitey Lockman, back from the Cardinals," continued Rigney. "Lockman could do the job for us at first base or left field."

WYWARD, McCAULEY TABLE TENNIS CHAMPS

By virtue of their close victory over 2nd Lt. Richard Z. Gerlack and his partner in the finals of the recent tournament held in the Base Gym, 1st Lt. William F. Wymard and A-2C. Hugh B. McCauley are the proud owners of a golden trophy, emblematic of the Base Doubles Championship in table tennis.

Wymard recently won the singles championship of the base. Before reaching the finals, Lt. Wymard and Airman McCauley had to go through eliminations to determine the squadron's best players. Then two matches and one forfeit in the tournament. In doubles, each player was allowed to select his own partner.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: MAYO SMITH, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies: "I think the slider is a bad pitch for kids. If a young pitcher has a fast ball, a curve and a change of pace, that's plenty. The slider is the kind of pitch you can go to when you can't get the batters out with the other stuff."

RAY CAMPANELLA, Brooklyn catcher: "I ain't gonna be no worse this year than I was last year."

FRANKLIN LEWIS, Cleveland writer: "Joe Louis said a man in the ring can run, but he can't hide. Cleveland's new manager, Kerby Farrell, thinks a baseball player should run and forget about his hide."

BOB WOODRUFF, University of Florida football coach: "I'm sure the Southeastern Conference will accept Miami as a member soon. If it doesn't, it will be making a big mistake."

ROLAND LASTARZA, the ex-heavyweight boxing contender, now trying for a comeback as a lightweight: "There's nobody around. Hurricane Jackson would be simple for some one who boxed him intelligently. Floyd Patterson is terrifically fast, but I can't see where he gets any power. I think Eddie Machen is the best of them all. He's the kind that can come along and be real good — if he doesn't take too many punches on the way up."

COACH JESS NEELY of Rice Institute, discussing his last spring football practice: "I'd say this was the hardest spring practice we've had since I've been coaching. We worked very hard, and we tried to pick out the 25 or 30 boys who showed us they wanted to play. I believe now that we have a pretty good line on them."

CARL HANSEN, National AAU president: "Americans need more exercise. . . . How can the U.S. outscore Russia in the 1958 Olympic Games? Send the Russians ten million TV sets and we'll beat them next time."

JOE WILLIAMS, New York writer: "While he is a Jaguar, a Cadillac, an attractive winter home in Miami and he is of the opinion that there is nothing nicer than a dame, nevertheless (jockey) Willie Hartack is strictly business; he doesn't drink or smoke and when the class-packed Calumet barn opens its doors at dawn, nobody has to look for him. The pocket sized Fort Knox bank book in hand, never misses."

FRED KOHLER, Chicago wrestling broker: "Wrestling is the only commercialized sport that is honest because nobody bets on it."

DARRELL ROYAL, new head football coach at Texas: "People call the Split T the 'four-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust-of-fense' and that's just what it is. But it still gets those yards for you and keeps the ball."

Plainview Game Postponed, Steers Next Play Crane

Today's baseball game, which would have sent the Big Spring Steers to Plainview, has been indefinitely postponed.

Good Graves, coach of the Plainview team, called Roy Baird, mentor of the local team, last night and told him weather conditions would quite probably be unfavorable for the game.

Too, Graves stated his team still wasn't at top physical condition. Part of the players are out for football and others are still active in track and field.

The Steers will next see action Friday, at which time they visit Crane. Big Spring currently has a 4-2 won-lost record. They've beaten Crane twice and Snyder and Plainview once each. Their two defeats have come at the hands of Snyder. Danny Birdwell was to have pitched today. He will probably start Friday's game against Crane.

Chubby Moser, ace left-hander of the Steers, is favoring a sore arm. He says he got the sore feeling while lifting weights. The Longhorns open their conference season a week from today in San Angelo.

German Decisions Bob Baker In Ten

NEW YORK (AP)—Willi Besmanoff, who came here from Germany five months ago without any fanfare, today appeared headed for a berth on the heavyweight division's elite top ten. The 24-year-old 5-10½, 194½-pound Berliner gained tremendous stature last night by whacking out a close but unanimous 10-round decision over strapping Bob Baker of Pittsburgh in a telecast thriller at St. Nicholas Arena.

Arkansas Blanked

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas opened the 1957 Southwest Conference golf campaign yesterday with a 6-0 victory over Arkansas.

New assistant football coach at Big Spring High School is Mitchell Malouf (above), former H-SU star. Malouf and his family moved here from Kermit this week.

Bovines, SMU Signing Most HS Athletes

By The Associated Press

Texas and Southern Methodist were doing best in signing schoolboy athletes according to returns from the letter of intent front.

But some of the Southwest Conference schools weren't yet ready to announce who they had obtained as the letter of intent period opened and just who will until they do.

Texas was quite active in the first day, announcing it had obtained eight linemen and one half-back. They were centers Bill Laughlin of Baytown, Jim Orse of Abilene and Bob Goodwin of Houston Milby; guards Bill Weaver of Garland and Wayne Harris of LaVega; tackles Tillman O'Brien of Baytown and Johnny Bronson of Midland, and end Armour McManus of Baytown.

Southern Methodist signed Steve Strange, Dallas Highland Park basketball star, and got these footballers on the dotted line: John Rumbley, Dallas Highland Park; tackle, Max Christian, Corpus Christi Ray, center, and John Clusing, Corpus Christi Miller, end. It also had a promise from Jack Moran, all-Arkansas tackle from Hope, Ark., that he would come to SMU but couldn't sign a letter of intent until he finished his eligibility in track.

Ben Hogan Is Man To Watch

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Dr. Cary Middlecoff and Sam Snead are winning the advance polls but a poker-faced golfer named Ben Hogan is grabbing most of the attention in preparations for the Masters Golf Tournament, opening Thursday.

"I am hitting the ball so well it scares me," Hogan is reported to have confided to a close friend this week.

Asked point-blank about the statement, the Texas hawk stiffened and said, "Who said that? My game may scare somebody but it doesn't scare me."

"I feel I am hitting the ball okay, but I'm not as sharp as I'd like to be yet. I wouldn't make any predictions."

His companions were less bashful. "I'll take him against any man in the field," said former Masters champion Claude Harmon. "Ben has been playing golf eight hours a day every day since Feb. 1. He's ready. And when he's ready who can touch him?"

Byron Nelson added: "I have never seen Ben hit his tee shots better."

Hogan shot a 68, two under par, over the Augusta National course Sunday and yesterday recorded a 70.

3 Suits Against Moore Dismissed

CHICAGO (AP)—Three suits seeking $750,000 from Archie Moore, light heavyweight boxing champion, by a Shaker Heights, Ohio, divorcee, were dismissed yesterday by Judge John P. Barnes in U. S. District Court.

He dismissed the suit on the grounds that his court lacked jurisdiction over the principals, Moore and the plaintiff, Dolree Mapp, 28, and her daughter Barbara Bivins, 12. Moore lives in San Diego, Calif.

Miss Mapp accused Moore of various malicious sexual acts in the suits filed last Nov. 28, two days before Moore fought Floyd Patterson, heavyweight champion in a title match. He declared the charges were false.

In the suits of $250,000 each, Miss Mapp, the divorced wife of Jimmy Bivins, former heavyweight boxer, claimed Moore broke a promise of marriage, beat her and assaulted her daughter. Moore and Miss Mapp are Negroes.

Ted Says Joe Louis Got Raw Deal From US, Too

By JOE REICHLER

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox followed up his blast at the Marine Corps, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft and "all those other phony politicians" today with a slap at the U.S. government for its treatment of Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion.

"Here's a guy who has been a credit to his race and his country and look at the treatment he's getting," he said. "I think it's a shame the way he's being hounded for the payment of his back income taxes."

"He'll never be able to pay all that money he owes the government. He's stuck for life. The interest keeps climbing every day and there isn't a damn thing he can do about it."

"Why doesn't the government make some sort of a settlement with him? Or better yet wipe out the entire debt. If some big-shot phony politician was in the same predicament, they'd allow him to settle it by paying two cents on the dollar."

Williams' criticism came less than 24 hours after he had been quoted by Crozet Duplantier, executive sports editor of the New Orleans States, as blasting the Marine Corps, the late Sen. Taft

Junior Teams Go To Andrews

Big Spring takes part in the Andrews Invitational track and field meet today, sending its 7th, 8th and 9th grade contingents there.

Trophies will be awarded on the basis of the total number of points a school scores, rather than in any particular division.

Big Spring will again be at full strength when the Yearling teams went to Sweetwater last weekend, Bobby Evans of the 9th graders and Carey King of the 8th graders were not able to make the trip.

Some of the events in which Big Spring has shown the most strength — the relays and the distance races — will not be held.

Competition is due in the 70-yard high hurdles, the 120-yard low hurdles, the eight-man 800-yard relay, the 50, 75 and 100-yard dashes and the field events.

The meet starts at 1 p. m. Teams are due from Lamesa, Snyder and other area schools.

Lamar Tech Tied By Texas Netters

BEAUMONT (AP)—Lamar Tech tied Texas 3-3 yesterday in a dual tennis match. It halted a 37-match winning streak for Tech, NIAA champion.

Sammy Giammalva of Texas, a member of the U. S. Davis Cup team, beat James Schmidt of Tech 7-5, 6-2 in the feature match. Tech swept the other singles, but split the doubles.

Alphonse Halimi Triumphs Over Champion In Title Go

PARIS (AP)—Alphonse Halimi, a baby-faced little Algerian, was the new claimant to the world bantamweight boxing championship today. But he still has an argument and another fight on his hands before he can really call it all his own.

Halimi scored a decisive 15-round decision last night over Mario d'Agata, a deaf-mute from Italy, who had held the title since last June but was making his first defense.

The battle was interrupted 15 minutes at the end of the third round by a fire which broke out among the lighting installations hanging over the ring.

The fire provoked the argument about the title. Libero Cecchi, d'Agata's manager, claimed immediately after the fight that under the circumstances the referee should have halted it and called it "no contest."

Halimi's next fight involves Raul Macias of Mexico, recognized as the world bantamweight

Fem Linksters In Beaumont

BEAUMONT (AP)—Women stars of the golf trail come to Beaumont today to get in practice rounds for the $5,000 Babe Zaharias Open with Marlene Bauer Haggis on hand to defend her championship.

The 54-hole tournament opens Friday and runs for three days with $900 top money.

It will be the fifth annual tournament named for the late Babe Zaharias, Texas' most famous woman athlete. Mrs. Zaharias won the inaugural in 1953 and immediately afterward learned she had cancer. She died last year.

A pro-amateur Thursday will contribute to the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund. One woman amateur, one pro and two men amateurs will team.

The tournament this year will have both a professional and amateur division. The latter will be made up of some 30 women amateur stars from this vicinity. Clifford and Creed of Opelousas, La., who is attending Lamar Tech here, is defending champion.

Already here for the tournament are professionals Patty Berg, Faye Crocker, Mickey Wright, Bonnie Randolph, Gloria Armstrong, Wilfrid Smith, Diane Garrett and Ruth Jensen.

Due to arrive today are Mrs. Hagge, Alice Bauer, Betty Jameson, Betty Dodd, Gloria Fecht, Betsy Rawls, Mary Lena Faulk, Cathy Cornelius, Joyce Siske, Marilyn Smith, Jo Ann Prentice, Vonnie Colby, Beverly Hanson and Muri McKenzie.

CO-CAPTAINS ARE SELECTED

Jerry McMahan and Rickey Terry have been named co-captains of the Big Spring High School baseball team.

McMahan is a senior outfielder and the club's leadoff man in the batting order. Terry is a senior catcher.

Perhaps All Ned Garver Needed Was Pat On Back

By The Associated Press

Maybe all Ned Garver needed was a pat on the back. The sore-armed right-hander had been disappointing this spring to the Kansas City Athletics, who picked him up in that seven-play-off deal with the Detroit Tigers last December. In 10 exhibition innings, he had been tagged for 14 hits and 17 runs. He had walked eight.

Then yesterday, Manager Lou Boudreau got around to naming a six-man starting-pitcher list, and Garver was on it. So what happens? The 31-year-old veteran worked the first six innings of a "double-header" with Pittsburgh — an 18-inning scoreless tie — and allowed only three hits and one walk.

It was the only exhibition game played. All the others were rained out.

The A's also got their first good job from Maury McDermott, the ex-Yankee and also on Boudreau's starting six. The lefty followed Garver and gave just two hits.

Jayhawks Oppose San Angelo Rams

Weather permitting, the HCJC Jayhawks and the San Angelo College Rams play a return baseball game today at Steer Park, starting at 3 p. m.

The Hawks will be seeking revenge for a 17-3 defeat handed them by the Rams in San Angelo last week.

HJC has yet to win a baseball decision in three starts. Angelo is 1-3.

Either Don Isham or Mike Powell will start on the mound for the Hawks. Stan Williams will be behind the plate.

Bubba Balentine is Angelo's pitching nominee while Coy Lee will receive his slants.

Texas Feather To Meet Walden

HOUSTON (AP)—Ninth-ranked featherweight Paul Jorgensen signed yesterday for a re-match with hard-punching Davey Walden of Youngstown, Ohio.

The 10-round bout will be staged here April 16. Jorgensen won a unanimous decision over Walden last year.

2 More Amateurs In Open Tourney

DALLAS (AP)—Amateurs Betty Jean Martinez of San Antonio and Dale Fleming of Tulsa today entered the Dallas Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The four-day tournament, with $7,500 in prize money, starts April 11.

Flight Sections Dream Up Own Colorful Head Gear

The Easter bonnet craze or the international situation has nothing to do with a rash of colorful cheap hats at Webb AFB.

Down on the flight line personnel have been sporting tasseled berets, colorful caps, etc. For want of a better word, officials term the practice a morale factor.

Students are permitted to wear the distinctive berets or flight caps, as the case may be, upon soloing. The wearing of the gear, is however, restricted to the flight-line.

Although the practice is comparatively new here, it is customary at training bases throughout the command. At Laughlin AFB, one flight is reported to have developed a special, warm weather version, making the headgear of straw.

Section III, leaves the design of the hats up to each flight. Flight I, has adopted a blue grey denim cap; while Flight Q wears the beret with different colored tassels. The basic black is topped with a yellow tassel for instructors and a white tassel for students.

Crash Helmets also denote rank and student status. Students being required to wear a basic white helmet, instructors wear gold, flight commanders blue, and section supervisors are distinguished by their green helmets.

America Stepped Into Atlas' Shoes

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just 10 years ago this spring, America stepped into the shoes of Atlas, the strong man who holds the world on his shoulders.

The aim was to lift the non-Communist world out of reach of Russia.

Money and materials began flowing overseas in "grants," meaning gifts, and loans. Proponents of foreign aid said the great outlay was vital to the interests of the United States, not a "give-away."

A decade has passed since this began.

Today, the total American outlay depends on which set of books you examine. It is at least between 50 and 60 billion dollars.

And the end is not in sight. President Eisenhower has asked Congress for $4,400,000,000 to continue the foreign aid programs.

But today, for various reasons, many people are seriously questioning the foreign aid program. Congressmen are getting thousands of letters asking, in effect, "What did we get for all that money? When does this thing stop?"

By contrast, surveys taken recently by researchers at the University of Chicago showed a majority of people questioned approve the foreign aid programs, pretty much as they stand.

In any case, Congress is now casting up a balance sheet, reviewing the record, trying to evaluate the results of a spectacular 10 years.

Let's trace the record in outline.

Broadly speaking, the emphasis began in Western Europe, shifted to the Far East, and now to the Middle East and Africa. In form, it began primarily as economic aid and changed to military help.

The steps—

First, in March 1947, Greece and Turkey receive 400 million dollars. Armed Communists are looking down their throats.

Then the Marshall Plan. In 1948, the outlay is 5 1/2 billion. It hits a peak in the next year, $6,100,000,000.

During this period, the emphasis is on European recovery. On the theory that "poverty breeds communism," the U.S. effort is to reconstruct a shattered economy. That means rebuilding roads and communications, providing machinery and tools, "priming the pump."

1950. Fire in the sky dramatically changes the character of the American programs.

War flares in Korea. Then in Indochina. Meanwhile, the Reds have overrun China; their enemies fall back to the island of Formosa. Most important, an atomic blast in Siberia warns that the secrets of nuclear energy no longer belong to the United States alone.

Immediately, military aid takes precedence — guns, tanks, airplanes, "hardware" — for allies and hoped-for allies.

1953. Soviet Russia, still warning and scoffing at the U.S. program, suddenly steps out with one of its own. It offers both military and economic aid. The drive appears to be aimed primarily at India and the Middle East.

The Red effort is comparatively small — about 1 1/2 billion toward the end of 1956, mainly in 30-year loans at 2 1/2 per cent, with technicians known to be working in 14 countries. But it is gaining momentum, analysts report.

Today, over half the U.S. outlay goes for "military aid." About a third is allocated to a hazy category called "defense support," which is both economic and military. The rest is given to "economic and technical" assistance.

Six nations — Korea, Formosa, Viet Nam, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran — are getting two-thirds of the foreign aid funds. All but Formosa actually touch Communist territory.

That's the record. Was the money well spent?

Nobody will ever know whether Western Europe would have "gone Communist" but for American aid. Even though recovering more slowly, the people there might have chosen not to join the Reds. Who can say?

Whatever the answer, the record is clear. Western Europe today is in alliance against them. The NATO nations today pay 85 per cent of their defense costs. The United States and Canada supply the rest.

Analysts frequently cite Iran as a nation that definitely was kept out of Communist hands by American aid.

Korea and Formosa, each maintaining 20 army divisions, receive well over a billion dollars a year. Without this support, it is questionable whether, economically, they would last long.

"What's the alternative?" U. S. officials ask. "To keep that money and let the Communies have the people and the real estate?"

By no means every project has been successful. Critics charge waste and inefficiency in many places. Few people any longer think you can buy friends or allies. Did we get our money's worth?

All that exists is the record — and that can be interpreted according to different lights.

Union Racket Probers Report No Wrongdoing By Reuther

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said today his racket investigators have found "nothing to indicate any impropriety" by Walter Reuther and three other labor union officials in dealing with Nathan Shefferman.

McClellan heads the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, which has received evidence that Teamsters Union President Dave Beck used $85,000 of union funds to buy rich clothing and other items at a discount through Shefferman, a Chicago specialist in labor-management relations.

In his testimony, Shefferman had named Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, and several other labor leaders as among the several hundred business and labor executives for whom he said he had made discount purchases.

McClellan said he was releasing the report only to be fair to them because the four names had been injected "not by myself" — into the public hearings.

Beck meantime returned quietly to Washington and presided yesterday over a daylong secret meeting of the Teamsters Union's executive board.

Beck repeatedly invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination in refusing to answer the Senate committee's questions last week. The committee said it had obtained evidence that Beck had used $320,000 of Teamsters Union funds for his own purposes.

A spokesman said there was no consideration given at the meeting to the possibility of withdrawing the Teamsters Union from the AFL-CIO.

McClellan's announcement followed up his order to the committee staff to make a "diligent" search of Shefferman's records. The labor specialist had named Reuther and the others under questioning by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

McClellan said the staff search showed Reuther had made two purchases totaling $129 through empty cars on hand in each of SP's 11 divisions along 8,000 miles of track between Portland, Ore., Los Angeles, and El Paso, Tex.

Until now railroads have had to depend on men with the "right feel."

A good car distributor, Lyons said, was made by years of experience giving him "the right feel" of the situation on what places really need help and which ones are just shouting and can really help themselves.

Now they think they have it licked.

Starting July 1, Southern Pacific expects to put in full operation a new electronic computer system to keep an up-to-the-minute check on where its empty box cars are, and where they are needed, said James W. Corbett, SP operating vice president.

"The surprising thing is that we don't have this kind of information," said L. E. Hoyt, assistant to the SP's general manager.

"Nor does any railroad in the country, so far as we can develop."

Hoyt estimated SP's ownership costs on its average of 36,000 box cars in 1955 at 36 million dollars, computed at $2.75 a day.

He said SP's out-of-pocket costs for 250 million empty car-miles in 1955 amounted to 15 million dollars, conservatively computed at 6 cents a mile.

Cutting down the time box cars are empty, and idle, Hoyt said, will chop "into staggering inventory costs" and "premium storage on an extremely expensive track."

Hoyt joined L. J. Lyons, SP's superintendent of freight car service, and C. J. Feeney, industrial operations research manager at Stanford Research Institute, in reporting on SP's new car control plan before the Railway Systems and Procedures Assn. in Chicago today.

About 200,000 punched cars will be fed each week into an IBM data-processing machine in San Francisco. At the end of each week there will be a forecast of future car movement based on for that "LIKE NEW" look.

Car Registrations Far Ahead Of 1956

A considerable number of Howard County car owners who waited too long to buy their 1957 car tags were in the office of Viola Robinson, county tax collector, Tuesday morning making amends for their oversight.

Some were signing affidavits that they had not operated their automobiles since March 1 when the tags were placed on sale. Others, unable to utilize this excuse, were paying a 20 per cent penalty on their plates. Those who were willing to sign the affidavit they had not been using their car in the past month were allowed to buy their tags at the regular price.

Monday, as anticipated, was a busy day for the tax collector's office. Most of the business, naturally, was in car plates. Gross collections for the day in the office were $18,227.42. Of this total, $17,342.22 was for plates. The remainder was for automobile sales tax and transfer fees.

A quick check of passenger car plates sold to date indicates that the county is approximately 2,000 ahead of the number on this same date a year ago.

Mrs. Robinson said that her books show 10,793 tags for passenger cars issued. The county plates now being sold are deep into the third letter combination series assigned to this county.

Records show that 400 plates with the prefix CW, 9,990 "CX" plates and nearly 500 of the "CY" series have been issued.

On April 2, 1956, the office had issued 8,766 passenger car tags.

No total on the number of truck, trailer, motorcycle and other special tags sold is available.

Mrs. Robinson said that the doors to her office were closed at 5 p.m. Monday. The patrons on hand were admitted up to that hour and the office lobby was jammed.

She and her deputies completed their work with the assembled belated buyers at 7 p.m.

Pack 10 Cubs Receive Awards

Larry Sage, son of Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Sage, received his Webelo award as a climax to the Blue and Gold banquet for Pack No. 10 Monday evening.

The affair was held in the basement of the First Baptist Church, sponsor of the pack. Mothers provided the copious dinner, and Dr. Virgil Cauley, clubmaster, presided over the meeting.

"If you want somebody to be a great man," said B. M. Keese, H.C.J.C. registrar, who made the principal talk, "then you have to start out by being a great boy. If you want to grow up to be a courteous man, then you start now by being a young gentleman."

Dr. Cauley gave special recognition to Mrs. R. L. Dean and Mrs. G. L. Wilbanks as den mothers. He also presented Bobcat awards to Grady Wilbanks, Louis Thompson, Deats Baird, Kirby Horton, Russell McCullen, Bobby Dean, Jerry Parks, Tommy McCann, Steve Gray, Austin Biffard, Ward Stevenson, and Derrell Lane.

Wolf badges were presented to Grady Wilbanks, Deats Baird, Kirby Horton, Bobby Dean and Jerry Parks, and arrow points went to Richard Cauley, Derrell Lane and Bobby Dean. The denner stripe went to Ward Stevenson. C. A. Stevenson, former clubmaster, conducted the ceremonies by which Larry Sage was graduated into Boy Scouting.

Also presented by boys from Den No. 1 and Den No. 2.

Beal Services Set At C-City

COLORADO CITY—Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Kiker & Son Funeral Chapel for Ralph Elwood Beal Sr., 66, who died in a hospital here Monday after a two-month illness.

A life-long resident of Colorado City, Mr. Beal was born here Aug. 25, 1890. His parents were early settlers in Mitchell County and since their deaths, he had managed the Beal Ranch. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Rev. Jack Elzey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will officiate at funeral services. He will be assisted by Rev. Charles Thomas, Garland Baptist minister. Interment will be in Colorado City Cemetery under direction of Kiker & Son.

Mr. Beal is survived by two sons, Ralph Elwood Beal Jr. of Garland and John D. Beal of Ackerly; two sisters, Mrs. D. H. Snyder and Mrs. John H. Arnett, both of Fort Worth; and four grandchildren.

Scouting Capital Funds Drive Opens

The Buffalo Trail Boy Scout Council kicked-off a capital funds campaign Monday to provide more camping facilities for a growing boy crop.

For practical purposes, most of the funds raised locally would be pointed toward development of Camp Ed Murphy on the northwest shore of Lake J. B. Thomas, said Roy Sturum, campaign coordinator. No quota has been set for the various communities, but if towns and cities shoot at three times their annual Chest or United Fund contributions to Scouting, the over-all, 3-year objective of $298,000 can be met, he said.

In 1947, when the last capital fund drive was held to provide the 6,000-acre Boy Scout ranch in the Davis Mountains, there were 3,000 boys in scouting in the council. Now there are 8,000 boys in the council in scouting, and by 1950, there will be 12,000.

This is why an urgent need for expanding camping facilities exists, he said.

Camp Ed Murphy would be developed as an aquatic camp and would cater primarily to Scouts in the eastern end of the council. At the same time, extensive improvements would be made at the Scout Ranch to enable it to serve an increasing number of Scouts each summer. Provision also is being made for replacing the temporary barracks buildings housing the council headquarters with more modern and adequate buildings.

Although cash contributions will be gladly accepted, Sturum stressed that appeals are being made for participation on a 3-year pledge plan.

The campaign will be carried in three divisions headed by Dub Caldwell, advance gifts; Grover Cunningham Jr., business; and Scout family, Joe Pickle, Dr. W. A. Hunt is the general chairman.

Two Difficult Juvenile Cases Due In Court

R. H. Weaver, juvenile judge, will have two difficult cases to settle when he convenes juvenile court, probably on Wednesday morning.

Shorty Long, juvenile officer, said that one of the cases involves a 14-year-old Big Spring boy who was turned over to the juvenile officer because he persisted in an attempt to run away from home.

The boy, after he had been placed in custody of the juvenile officer, recited half a dozen or more instances where he had rifled cars. In one case, he took $32 from a car; in another he stole a flashlight and other property. He described, Long said, each incident in detail.

He has not previously been in the hands of the authorities. Long said that the boy voiced his wish to be sent to Gatesville, rather than be forced to return to his home.

The second case concerns another youth, whose home is in San Angelo. Long said that this boy had been in much difficulty with the law in that town. He has made threats against his parents, Long said, and actually attempted to shoot a woman who had been in charge of him in another town.

Long said that the gun failed to fire. The youth was picked up for taking his grandfather's car and bilfold here.

The second case concerns another youth, whose home is in San Angelo. Long said that this boy had been in much difficulty with the law in that town. He has made threats against his parents, Long said, and actually attempted to shoot a woman who had been in charge of him in another town.

Budget-Cutting Drive In House Moves At Slow Pace

WASHINGTON (AP)—A budget-cutting drive that started with a snail's pace into its sixth day in the House today.

There were no indications when, if ever, it would resume the momentum that cut $16,800,000 in three days from committee-recommended 1958 appropriations for the Labor and Welfare departments.

Appropriations committee members handling the bill appeared in no hurry to speed the measure along. Their hopes were that adverse reaction to last week's cuts might build up to the point that the House would reverse itself later in the week on final rollcall votes.

Protests from individuals and groups interested in projects affected by last week's amendments reportedly were increasing in volume.

The House spent four hours yesterday debating the $2,800,000,000 measure. At the end of the day it had covered six lines of the 43-page bill without making a single change. It beat proposals to cut $13,950,000 from federal payments to school districts and to change the formula under which the payments are made. Districts affected are those whose pupil census has been swollen by operations of the federal government.

Last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the House adopted 12 amendments cutting $15,473,100 from Labor Department funds and $1,327,000 from Welfare Department allotments. Two others were defeated. Announced goal of the budget-cutters was to trim from 75 to 100 million dollars from the bill in addition to the 118 millions pared by the Appropriations Committee.

Boy Tortured Before Death

OMAHA (AP)—A teen-age boy's mutilated body was tossed on a country road near here early today and sheriff's deputies said the youth apparently was tortured before he was slain.

His right hand had been burned off, apparently, with an acetylene torch, Coroner George Sullivan said.

The victim was identified as Donald Martini, 16, of Omaha. Officers said the boy had a minor police record.

The body was found near a hospital about 10 miles west of Omaha.

Officers said there was no immediate explanation of where or why the youth was tortured and killed.

Martini's feet also had been burned.

His body was clad in blue jeans, a yellow T-shirt and a lightweight outdoorshirt.

Air Force Team Probes Fatal Wreckage Of Bomber

DICKSON, Tenn. (AP)—Investigators from nearby Sewart Air Force Base are pouring over scattered wreckage of a Memphis-bound B25 from Langley Field, Va., which crashed near this middle Tennessee town yesterday. Six persons were killed. Four survived.

Late last night Sewart probers said there was no clue as to why the revamped World War II bomber suddenly went out of control and plunged from about 8,000 feet.

The four survivors, three of them civilians, bailed out. The plane was en route to Memphis, where its occupants were to take part in a supply conference opening today.

The Air Force listed the dead as Col. Theodore R. Wright Jr., 36, Hampton, Va., chief of the Air Lift Division in the Tactical Air Command Doctrine Directorate and instructor-pilot of the flight; Lt. Col. Alan D. Moore, 37, Hampton, Va., Col. Wright's assistant and pilot of the plane; Lt. Col. Jacob R. Hamilton, 38, Warwick, Va., copilot; Lt. Col. Harlan C. Butt-rill, 42, Hampton, Va.; Maj. John W. Browe, 41, Hampton, Va.; and A.I.C. Ernest Chandler, 22, Hampton, Va., crew chief.

Dr. William Jackson, to whose clinic the four survivors were admitted, said accounts he obtained indicated the tail section probably was blown off and that the four men hurled from the plane "pulled their rip cords automatically."

The survivors were 1st Lt. Robert C. Momeier, 23, Isle of Palms, S. C.; John Swampson, 45, Hampton, Va.; Haskell Daniels, 41, Hampton; and Jack M. Evans, 28, Messick, Va. The civilians were listed as "experts in International Business Machine work."
