New Type Atom Smasher

This is the interior of the "Hilac," new type atom-smasher unveiled at the University of California at Berkeley by the Atomic Energy Commission. Heavy fragments of matter are hurled through doughnut-shaped "drift tubes" that extend the length of the atom "gun's" barrel. The man standing at the end of the big barrel (post stripper), gives an idea of the size of the tank, 90 feet long and 10 feet in diameter.

Riots, Strike Fail To Oust Jordan's Premier

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Stone-throwing rioters and a general strike failed today to shake Premier Hussein Khalidi out of office. Mobs of youths, apparently organized by pro-Egyptian leftists swarmed through downtown streets for several hours demanding that the government resign and that Jordan federate with Syria and Egypt. Then Amman quieted. The demonstrators dispersed peacefully after suffering a few minor injuries. Troops held key positions throughout the capital but did not participate in putting down the riots. Khalidi issued orders to avoid serious bloodshed. Police, armed with clubs and equipped with straw shields, trapped large sections of the rioters and prevented them from joining forces. The strategy worked. Khalidi went to the royal palace. The 70-year-old Premier, named by young King Hussein to head a Cabinet mostly of independents only eight days ago, was reported to have told an all-party committee demanding his resignation that he would not quit. Stone-throwing rioters swarmed through Amman streets, demanding that the government resign. Security police, armed with clubs and thick shields of straw, trapped large groups of the demonstrators in the streets and kept them from joining forces. The rioters replied with volleys of rocks and stones. A general strike ordered by the

Iraq Reportedly Moves Troops To Syrian Border

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—Private reports reaching Israel today said Iraq has moved troops to areas near her border with Syria. The reports lacked official confirmation here. Iraqi troops previously have been reported near the Jordan frontier. It appeared from reports here that tension is mounting among the Arab nations, with Iraq lined up with Jordan against Egypt and Syria. An Israeli Foreign Office spokesman, Moshe Leshem, said Egypt has now "come out in the

Appeals Court Ousts Sheffield Conviction

Reversal Given Over Misspelling

AUSTIN (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed and remanded for retrial today the veterans land scandal conviction against B. R. Sheffield, principally because the name of a Texas county was misspelled. Sheffield, Brady land promoter, was convicted in Lubbock last August on a charge of passing a forged instrument and sentenced to 10 years. He was a business partner once of former L and Commissioner Bascom Giles, who yesterday was refused a parole. Giles is serving six years on convictions in the land scandal. One of the principal witnesses at Lubbock concerning a 1954 South Texas land deal was Doris Sayles, which the records show was a notary public in McCulloch County—except that it was spelled "McCullough County." "In event of further prosecution a new indictment should be sought in which the county should be correctly named and upon the trial the state should be required to prove allegations that Doris Sayles was a notary public by record showing her appointment and qualifications," the ruling said. The ruling said a remark by the trial court judge to the effect that separation of conspiracy charges against Sheffield and Giles might be a reversible error "also was a serious error and one which constitutes grounds for reversal." Sheffield was tried eight months after Giles began his prison sentence. The Court of Criminal Appeals

House, Senate Form Official Probe Panel

AUSTIN (AP)—The House joined the Senate today in setting up a general investigating committee to watch for any alleged misdeeds by legislators or state officials. The five-man probe groups with wide investigating powers also would handle any other matters that they think should be investigated. Their work will continue until the 1959 Legislature. The appointment of the House committee came a day after the Travis County grand jury heard from Texas naturopaths the names of "several other persons" who might be indicted on trying to buy or sell legislation. The Senate committee was authorized earlier. Membership of the two committees will be announced later. It was a special House committee's investigation of bribery charges that turned up evidence which is now being studied by the grand jury. Three naturopaths were subpoenaed before the jury yesterday. The next witnesses probably will be heard tomorrow.

ELSA MAXWELL ENDS FEUD WITH DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

PARIS (AP)—Elsa Maxwell, American party giver, laughingly reported today that her 3-year feud with the Duchess of Windsor had been patched up over cocktails in mid-Atlantic. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor and Miss Maxwell happened to be booked on the same passage of the liner United States from New York to France. During the voyage, Miss Maxwell said, she dropped a note to the duchess to compliment her for her work on the "April in Paris" ball in New York. After a further offering of some lilies-of-the-valley on Easter Sunday, Miss Maxwell reported, the two women got together over cocktails aboard ship. Asked if there had really been any hard feelings to start with, Miss Maxwell replied "I think you could best call it a clash of temperaments. I once wrote the duchess that we were both strong personalities, and almost a law unto ourselves." She said she suggested that perhaps they should coordinate their comings and goings so that they avoided meeting. That was in June of 1954.

Senate Passes 100 Uncontested Bills

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate passed about 100 local and uncontested bills today. Mop up action on a 300 million dollar water program 'appeared close in hand. One bill passed would exempt school teachers from serving on juries while teaching. The proposal was sponsored by Sen. Searcy Bracewell. The House decried from legislative proceedings a while to honor or Speaker Waggoner Carr. Representatives adopted a resolution stating Carr "has spoken plainly, acted directly and led this body in a manner to bring respect and admiration to his office and to give us the guidance we have so needed." Another sign that the lawmakers were looking to final adjournment came when the House joined the Senate in establishing a general investigating committee to serve until the next Legislature. The five-man committee would probe alleged wrongdoings of legislators and state officials. Proponents of the water program hope it will become the instrument which will remove the specter of drought from Texas in the future. The key to the apparent victory of the program this session, contrasted to last session, probably is due to the method of financing. If approved by the voters, the state would issue bonds bearing interest to make an eventual profit. In 1955, lawmakers locked on whether to adopt a water use tax or an ad valorem tax to pay the costs. The House yesterday passed 124 a proposed constitutional amendment, reworked by a joint conference committee, to create a 200 million dollar water development fund. The proposed Texas Water Development Board would loan money to cities, water districts and political subdivisions for building reservoirs, transportation systems and other water projects. This was expected to be whipped through the Senate with little or no opposition. The big hurdle cleared yesterday in the Senate was tentative approval of a 100 million dollar bond program to allow the state to buy space in any federal or other reservoir. An effort by Sen. George Parkhouse to push the bill through to final passage failed when a 22-8 vote was short the margin necessary to suspend the rule requiring a bill to be "read" on three separate days. He said he probably would make a last bid Monday. Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin held the floor for about two hours arguing against the bill. He contended local groups would have no control over location of sites and would allow a state agency to take title to water and sell it to others. While Lock was talking, Parkhouse grimly told newsmen: "My thinking now is that if this is killed, I won't bring up the other (the 200 million dollar resolution). If he talks till 5 p.m. I hope you give him credit for killing the water program." Later several amendments were approved. One would require permission from local water districts to locate the reservoirs. Another set the maximum amount for any one project at 6 1/2 million dollars. Sen. A. M. Aikin's amendment to cut the original 200 million dollar total in half was adopted by voice vote after Parkhouse accepted it and said he thought "the water program will prove so good, the people would vote another 100 million dollar issuance later." Lock said the amendments made the resolution "less worse" but vote against it. Gov. Price Daniel took some more verbal punches in the House on a bill to take about 11 million

Fire Inspectors Swarm Over City

Firemen, Boy Scouts, and fire inspectors were swarming over Big Spring today as the first of two days of fire inspections started. The inspectors are members of the West Texas Division of the Texas Insurance Fieldman's Association, and each one is a member of an insurance company. The fire inspection drive here is jointly sponsored by the insurance companies, the Chamber of Commerce, and the City of Big Spring. After a general meeting this morning, the men broke into 18 teams for inspection of commercial buildings, churches, and schools. Each inspection is made however only after an invitation from the owner of the building. The drive will end Thursday. Accompanying each team of inspectors are a fireman and at least one Boy Scout. Fire Chief H. V. Crocker said that only 17 firemen were off duty today, so one team of inspectors did not have a fireman. Only off-duty firemen are used. The inspectors desired the Boy Scouts so the boys could learn to spot trouble with faulty wiring and also other fire hazards. The Scouts are also helping to tag possible fire hazards. The men are placing red tags on each area where fire could be easily started, and one of the inspectors. (See FIRE, Pg. 5-B, Col. 5)

Raeburn Norris Gets New Trial

AUSTIN (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals voted 2-1 today to order a new trial for former 79th Dist. Atty. Raeburn Norris of Alice because "there was no conspiracy as alleged." Norris was convicted last Sept. 12 of misappropriating $5,000 in public funds. He allegedly took the money from the Duval County road and bridge fund. He was sentenced to two years. Judge K. K. Woodley dissented. Presiding Judge W. A. Morrison in the majority opinion wrote: "The evidence shows only circumstantially, if it does, that this $5,000 was applied by the San Diego State Bank to the payment of the renewal note of the appellant (Norris)." "The fact that witnesses did not attest the existence of the conspiracy, as the state charges in the indictment, is a strong circumstance that they would not so testify and therefore was no conspiracy as alleged."

Morrison said the state could not show clearly that the $5,000 was given to the San Diego State Bank in payment for money owed by Norris. Disagreeing, Woodley wrote: "This record shows without questions that F. Saenz Jr. and C. T. Stansell Jr., a former treasurer and county auditor respectively of Duval County, signed a warrant drawn on the treasurer in the sum of $5,000, falsely reciting that it was for an account allowed by the commissioners court of Duval County at its July term 1953."

Tornado Alert For N. Texas

The Associated Press A tornado alert was issued for a large part of North Central Texas Wednesday after violent windstorms and cloudbursts with hail and up to 4 inches of rain again lashed the state. The Weather Bureau said the danger zone was bounded by a line from Dallas southwest to Waco and Lampasas, northwest to Rising Star, in Eastland County, and Mineral Wells in Palo Pinto County, and southeast to Dallas. The Weather Bureau said severe thunderstorms and tornadoes are possible up until 6 p.m. in the area. The 5 to 6 inch rains, reported in the Comfort and Medina areas of southwest Texas, were accompanied by violent windstorms and hail. A 15-foot rise was moving down the Gualupe River from the Comfort area toward New Braunfels.

Women Say Deputy Forced Them Into False Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two women testified today they signed a "false" affidavit reflecting on a key Senate racket investigation which would undergo a hearing in Portland, Ore., deputy sheriff. The deputy "denounced" the women's story as a "hoax." Deputy George Minitiely took the witness chair after hearing the testimony of the two women and shouted: "This is the greatest hoax ever pushed on the American public." The women repudiating the affidavit in testimony to the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee were Mrs. Kathleen Lucille Cooper Weeks, an admitted prostitute, and Mrs. Mary Childress who identified herself as a housewife. The affidavit, made by Mrs. Weeks, and signed by Mrs. Childress as a witness was offered to the senators some weeks ago by Mayor Terry D. Schrank of Portland and Oregon Teamsters boss Clyde Crosby. The intention was to impeach the credibility of James B. (Big Jim) Elkins, Portland racketeer who had testified that some Teamsters officials had formed an alliance with some political figures to "muscle in" on racket profits in Portland. The affidavit accused Elkins of getting money from organized prostitution and of using narcotics. He had denied that under oath before the committee. Mrs. Childress told the committee she merely had signed Mrs. Weeks' affidavit as a witness. She Compassionate Olga Barattieri, whose son, Vittorio, is missing, reads an appeal she has drafted which will be published in Chicago newspapers. The wife of the Italian consul general in Chicago has asked her 14-year-old son to "come home, or at least write or phone us." The boy disappeared while on his way to school and his parents said he had hinted he wanted to seek adventure in the Southwest.

To Star In Movie

Mrs. Mary Hosford, socially prominent wife of a wealthy Phoenix, Ariz., insurance executive and mother of four children, has been chosen for a starring role in "The Missouri Traveler," a $2,000,000 movie production. It will be her first movie experience although she majored in drama at the University of Iowa, had a radio program in Kansas City, Mo., and a television show in Phoenix. The children are M'lou, 6, and Hobby, 6, standing, and Hank, 5, and Heather, 2, seated.

Bulgarian Letter To Britain Arouses No Big Enthusiasm

LONDON (AP)—A long, amicably phrased letter from Soviet Premier Bulganin to Prime Minister Macmillan on disarmament, the Middle East and European peace aroused no perceptible enthusiasms in Britain today.

The British Foreign Office was said to consider the letter friendly in tone but not necessarily significant. Bulganin has communicated his views in long personal letters to the U.S., British and French chiefs of government at intervals since the Geneva summit conference in 1955.

British press reaction was generally cool to the Soviet Premier's latest.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik delivered the 8,000-word communication to Macmillan over the weekend. Moscow radio broadcast the text this morning.

To relieve the present "undesirable aggravation of international tension," Bulganin set forth a number of proposals. None varied greatly from Soviet policy expressed in recent months.

His main recommendations included:

1. Immediate banning of atomic and hydrogen weapon tests.

The letter recommended that the question of the tests "be separated from the general problem of disarmament."

2. New discussions of the proposal made in 1955 by the Prime Minister Eden for the creation of demilitarized "sanitary zones" in Europe. Bulganin also called for companion talks on such "corresponding" Russian proposals as that for a 1,000-mile aerial survey zone centered on the Iron Curtain. Bulganin envisioned these as steps toward an all-European system of collective security to replace the NATO and Warsaw pacts.

3. The great powers should join in "denouncing the use of force" to settle disputed issues in the Middle East.

4. British-Soviet talks to expand trade and "cultural and scientific-technical" exchanges.

"We believe," Bulganin said, "that the present tension in the Middle East is due, above all, to the unwillingness of certain circles in Great Britain and some other countries to take into account the legitimate interests and rights of the countries of the Arab world which took the road of national independence and regeneration."

It was generally assumed that Britain, following its usual practice when dealing with the Soviet Union, would consult with the United States and France before replying to Bulganin's letter.

Commission Approves Plans For Remodeling Of City Hall

Plans for remodeling the city hall were presented to the city commission Tuesday night and were approved.

The designing firm of Puckett & French presented its latest drawings to the group which Bill French said was the fifth draft. The commission after discussing the work instructed the engineers to proceed with detailed work

Board Votes To Lease Car For School Chief

Floyd Parsons, superintendent of the Big Spring City schools, will soon be using a "leased" 1957 automobile in his official travels.

The board, Tuesday night, approved an offer by Tidwell Chevrolet to lease the superintendent a car rather than buy one to replace the car which Parsons will have been driving a year come June.

Under the policy of the board, it was planned to trade in the superintendent's car at the end of the year on a new model. Bids were submitted by three dealers. Also offered was the lease plan submitted by Chevrolet.

Under this plan, Tidwell offered to take the car now owned by the school as "rental" for 20 months on a new Chevrolet air conditioned car. The dealer agrees to pay all insurance on the vehicle except public liability, to provide it with tires as needed, make all necessary mechanical repairs and, in general, maintain the car, with exception of gasoline, oil and washing.

The rental fee posted for the board is $80 per month. The board was informed that, if so desired, it could turn in the present car Parsons drives, pay $320 in cash and Tidwell would provide a new car as of June 1 and a second new car on June 1, 1958.

After discussion of the bids and the proposal to lease a car, the school board unanimously approved the latter. It instructed Parsons to close a deal with Tidwell for a two-year contract on the terms outlined.

which will later be submitted for bids.

In other matters, the commission turned to tax valuations, electrical inspections, joint city-Webb AFB fire problems, and purchase of a small roller for patching purposes.

In the plans for the city hall remodeling, the inspection department will be in the northeast corner of the first floor, and the city secretary will be in the northwest corner. The water department will remain where it is, but the tax department will move into the area now used by the city manager.

The purchasing agent will be in the area near the city secretary's office.

On the second floor will be offices for the city manager, the engineer, the drafting department, and offices for future expansion. These offices are designed for an assistant engineer, an administrative assistant, and a full-time city attorney. There is also another office which was not designated.

The city commission will occupy the area previously used for corporation court.

The city tax assessor-collector, Perry Johnson, met with the commission as it discussed tax evaluations. Dr. Lee Rogers proposed that the city change from the present 66 per cent of total valuation with a $2.05 rate, to a 100 per cent of value and a $1.37 rate which would be approximately the same cost.

Dr. Rogers reasoned that people would gripe about the high tax rate when actually it was not high when taken on a 66 per cent of total valuation. He also asked that the city confer with the school board about a valuation survey which would standardize the prices.

Johnson said that the work would have to be done by May of 1958 to be effective for that year. If both were initiated, he recommended

Strange Air Incident

An unidentified Turkish police investigator looks at a window in an emergency door of the Air France Constellation through which Jack Rodney Nash, an American traveler, was pulled during a flight over Iraq desert. The window glass exploded as the plane reached 18,000-foot altitude with the sudden air pressure change apparently sucking Nash out of the plane. The Turkish investigation was made when the plane stopped at Istanbul and French aviation authorities are continuing the investigation.

Kefauver, Mansfield Urge Opening China To Newsmen

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators Mansfield (D-Mont) and Kefauver (D-Tenn) today urged steps toward opening the way for permanent American news coverage in Communist China.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference yesterday the State Department is willing to allow a group of newsmen operating on a "pool" basis to pay a one-shot visit to China if it still can maintain existing bans on travel by other Americans to that country. But he said no satisfactory way has yet been found to do that.

Mansfield, the acting Senate Democratic leader, said Dulles' idea was all right as a beginning. Under the "pool" plan, a selected number of reporters would tour China and would make their news available to all news media.

But he said this should be widened, as the opportunity arises, to permit the stationing of qualified newsmen in China. He noted the Associated Press Board of Directors had said that qualified newsmen should be permitted to report at first hand from the mainland.

"I think it would be better if the American press associations, the newspaper chains and others had the right to send their representatives to any part of the world so that the American people could receive as unbiased reporting as possible on the events in those areas," Mansfield said.

Kefauver said in a separate interview he believes the State Department should take the wraps off newsmen who have been denied visas to Red China.

"I am in favor of letting American reporters go to Red China without any limitations," he said. "It is better to get news from there through our own people than from censored information of some Communist bureau. Our people are entitled to know what is going on in Red China."

Dulles said the administration has consistently favored freedom for responsible newsmen to report throughout the world, including Communist China.

"It is not a problem of our being worried in any respect about what the facts are," he said. "The more the American people know about

K Flight Earns Top Rate For Its March Operation

The outstanding flight of the month award was won by K Flight of Section III for March.

This award was established by the squadron commander of the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron in the January of this year, and consists of a plaque which travels between the winning flights of each month's competition. The plaque has space for the engraving of the name of the flight winning the honor, and it stays in possession until won by some other flight.

K Flight, whose commander is Lt. Robt. Craft, won the honor as outstanding flight by its knowledge of flight line operation and responsibilities. This included keeping of flight records, knowledge of normal and emergency operating procedures, aircraft utilization, flying safety, and the manner for which their personal equipment was kept.

The flight also was judged on discipline and military courtesy, student and instructor appearance, condition of student BOQ area, sports participation, student punctuality in academics and the Officer Development Program, student academic grades, extracurricular activities, and student drill competition.

The award was won for the month of January by J Flight of Section III, and for the month of February by N Flight of Section I.

Yma Sumac Is Sound Effects In Free-For-All

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The piercing screams of singer Yma Sumac's five-octave voice provided the sound effects for a clothes-ripping, head-bumping, family brawl noisy enough to win the envy of filmland's best domestic battlers.

This Peruvian extravaganza took place yesterday in the $100,000 home of Miss Sumac's estranged husband Moises Vivanco, 38.

The hair pulling, face slapping, button plucking and name calling (in two languages) were brilliantly lighted by photographers' flash bulbs.

In the somewhat weird cast of characters were three private eyes, two Inca folk dancers, a collie dog and a bewildered harpist who speaks no English. The collie dog had the most fun.

On the sidelines were lots of reporters.

Too late for the festivities were a carload of policemen and three investigators from the district attorney's office.

Leading up to the Latin-American donnybrook were: Vivanco's loss of a paternity suit brought by Maureen Shea, 22, last January. He was ruled father of her twin girls, born in 1954.

Miss Sumac's suit for divorce, which followed in April.

A preliminary about Monday night, in which Vivanco said he was roughed up by two private detectives who threatened to shoot him.

But the main event was staged yesterday morning, when the 35-year-old songbird from the mountains of Peru, went to the Vivanco home to pick up some of her personal things. Sunday witnesses furnished this account of what happened thereafter:

Vivanco welcomed Miss Sumac but objected to the presence of the private eyes. Fred Otash, 220-pound detective, went down in a tangle of Peruvians a little later, when Vivanco sought to eject him with the aid of the pretty Inca folk dancers, Esmita Zevallos, 18, and Yola Rivero, 40, who said they were working as maids in the Vivanco house.

But when Miss Sumac first got there, everything was peaceful. Miss Zevallos was singing. Jose Farfan, who had arrived only an hour before from Peru, was playing the alpa, an ancient Inca harp.

Within minutes, angry words were being exchanged. Miss Zevallos shouted at Miss Sumac: "I work for you like a servant. I wish your . . . your many things. You are bad woman!"

Miss Sumac delivered a resounding backhand across Miss Zevallos' mouth.

A free-for-all melee followed. Farfan stopped playing the harp and said something in Spanish. Reporters scurried for points of vantage — and safety.

Miss Sumac's dark glasses fell off and were ground beneath another combatant's foot. This disclosed a black eye which the singer said Vivanco inflicted last Thursday.

Otash restored peace — temporarily. Then he got into an argument with Vivanco over whether a private eye was carrying a gun the night before.

"If you say he didn't have a gun you're a big fat liar!" cried Vivanco. "You get out of this house!"

Otash resisted. Another private eye, Bill Lowe, grabbed Vivanco. Miss Rivero grabbed Otash by the hair. Miss Sumac grabbed Vivanco. The collie, Prince, ran barking into the thick of the fight. Vivanco fell into a wrought iron planter. Farfan, muttering in Spanish, abandoned his harp and jumped on Otash. Then, suddenly, everybody stopped for breath.

Miss Sumac opened her mink coat and displayed bruises on a shoulder. Otash began searching for a coat button, pulled off in the struggle. Farfan said something — in Indian this time.

Then the police car raced up, followed by the district attorney's men. A truce was cemented pending today's conference in the prosecutor's office.

Miss Sumac never did get the things she went after.

Otash summed up the fight this way: "One minute I'm up — the next I'm down. I was spread-eagled. I couldn't hit anybody. Boy, it was a ball in there for a while!"

Congressman Tell Oil Men Problems Not Understood

ABILENE (AP)—Three congressmen warned oil and gas men here last night that the nation's domestic petroleum industry has a long way to go in getting its problems understood in Washington.

Reps. Omar Burleson (D-Tex.), Frank Ikard (D-Tex.) and Oren Harris (D-Ark.) addressed a petroleum conference on oil and gas taxation at McMurry College.

Ikard, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the industry is in bad repute politically because people "generally do not understand its problems."

Burleson said there are "more consumers than producers" and that the oil industry fights an uphill battle in Washington. Harris pointed to what he said were the dangers of placing too great a reliance on foreign oil from unreliable sources.

The Arkansas congressman, chairman of the House Interstate Commerce and Foreign Affairs Committee, said his committee still "does not know just why statements of alarm over short-comings in the (European) oil lift were so widely publicized early in the year."

He said a natural gas bill of which he is co-author comes up for hearings May 2. The bill would free natural gas producers from control of the Federal Power Commission.

The conference is being sponsored by the college in cooperation with the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Assn., Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn., and the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Assn.

Educator Decries 'Normality' Trend

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An educator said today that America has been neglecting its gifted children for so long that it is beginning to run short of leaders.

"Already," said William M. Cruickshank of Syracuse University, "we are having difficulty finding good senators and representatives."

"We have a desperate need for leaders, not only in politics and the military, but leaders in the laboratory, in literature, in all fields."

"We have put so much emphasis on 'normality' that we are beginning to feel the results. At this point it's almost a matter of put up or shut up."

Cruickshank, professor of education and psychology at Syracuse, and a group of others attending the convention of the International Council for Exceptional

Children were interviewed on problems connected with gifted children.

The term "exceptional" includes the physically and mentally handicapped as well as the gifted, who are generally considered to be those with an IQ of about 135 or more.

Earl M. McWilliams, vice principal of Alderdice Junior High School, Pittsburgh, commented that "people are frightened at reports that the Russians have more people making better bombs than we have."

"I believe," he said, "that if we give the gifted full opportunity we will have not only plenty of scientists but plenty of doctors and political leaders too."

McWilliams cautioned against "coercing" gifted children into scientific or other careers, but Miss Elizabeth Kelly, Newark, N.J., said it should be pointed out that they "have a greater responsibility to themselves as well as society" than average children.

Miss Kelly, assistant superintendent of Newark schools, is president of the ICEC.

She said one reason more is not done nationwide for gifted children is that "there is just so much money to go around, and all children must get their share."

This, she said, "leaves too little for programs for the gifted."

One objection sometimes raised to placing gifted children in special classes, even part time, is that it is "undemocratic."

Cruickshank, however, said, "I am coming to conclude that this is poppycock. We don't consider it undemocratic to provide the blind and hard-of-hearing child with special consideration. Why is it undemocratic to single out the gifted?"

Judges, Big Firms Scored In Report

PHILADELPHIA — Judges don't work hard enough and a small number of lawyers have far too many cases, a team of University of Pennsylvania Law School professors say.

The professors have just completed a yearlong survey of civil procedures in the courts of Philadelphia and six other counties. The study was made by the university's Institute of Legal Research.

A spokesman for the institute said the same situation exists in many other states.

Lawyers working on the study spent several weeks as observers in Philadelphia courtrooms. They reported that judges averaged 3 hours and 56 minutes on the bench during jury trials and 2 hours and 25 minutes when hearing trials without juries.

This, the report said, was a "substantial waste of time by the common pleas courts."

Trials were interrupted by judges' out-of-town trips, faulty preparation by attorneys, telephone calls and ventilation of a courtroom, the survey reported.

The study turned up 579 cases not completed after three years and some still hanging after seven years.

The professors said 11 law firms are involved in 40 per cent of Philadelphia trial cases. The report states that judges must take more stringent steps with lawyers who have more cases than they can handle and aren't getting their clients' suits before the courts.

Pardons Board Rules Giles To Stay In Prison

AUSTIN — Bascom Giles will have to remain in prison until Jan. 21, 1959, the Pardons Board has ruled.

The former land commissioner and first administrator of the 100 million dollar veterans' land program will not be given a parole now from his six-year sentence on felony convictions, the board said.

Chairman Jack Rose said that while the parole files are never closed, new evidence would have to be brought but if the Giles case is reopened, it will not come up again automatically.

The action yesterday was automatic, taken under board rules. No hearing was held nor asked.

Ross said that after an offender becomes eligible for parole as Giles did recently, the second step is "the consideration of the kind of offense and manner in which it was committed."

"The third step is the consideration of the readiness of the community to receive the parolee," he added.

Some men's community, Ross said, may be a precinct or city, while for others "their community is the whole state. In this case we considered it a community of the state."

The board said its decision was "that the inmate serve the remainder of his term."

Giles, 56, was sentenced on convictions of consenting to accept bribes and being an accomplice to theft.

When Giles entered the penitentiary in January, 1956, he became automatically eligible for parole in April, 1957, Ross said. However, Giles donated blood in April, 1956, to the M. D. Anderson Hospital and served as a trusty. This moved his eligibility for parole to January.

Giles was author of the program under which the state financed purchase of lands for veterans at low cost and on long terms. Giles was sent to prison for acts involving him as head of the program.

Giles was convicted at Austin of being an accomplice to theft of $6,800. Later he pleaded guilty on indictments alleging he agreed to accept bribes ranging from $8,000 to $36,000 in veterans' land deals.

Burglars Found The Loot Anyway

DETROIT — Mrs. Tillie Morrin didn't trust her office safe.

So she put only a few dollars in it and kept the bulk of the firm's ready cash in filing cabinets. Yesterday burglars broke into the bar and janitor supply company.

They tried in vain to crack the safe. But they found and took every last dollar of the $3,000 hidden in the filing cabinets.

Provinces And States Carry Indian Names

By RAMON COFFMAN

Canada has three provinces with Indian names—Ontario, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Scholars agree that Ontario's name was derived from an Indian language, but they differ as to the original meaning. Some believe that it first meant "Beautiful Lake," referring to Lake Ontario. Others think that the name arose from words meaning "Waters of the High Rocks," referring to Niagara Falls.

The name of Saskatchewan was given first to a river, then to the province. The original meaning was "Fast-flowing River."

The province of Manitoba obtained its name from Ojibwa words meaning "Spirit Noise" or "Spirit Strait." The Indians were impressed by the noise made when the water of Lake Manitoba tumbled into a narrow strait. They supposed that the noise was produced by a manito, or spirit.

Q. What are the American states with Indian names?

A. They include Mississippi and Missouri, which were named after two mighty rivers. "Mississippi" is translated as "Father of Waters" and "Missouri" (among the Indians) meant "Big Muddy River."

Wisconsin's name is believed to mean "Wild and Running Waters." Minnesota has a name which, among the red men, had the meaning of "Blue Waters," referring to the many small, blue lakes. "Ohio" came from an Indian name meaning "Beautiful River," and "Connecticut" came from words meaning "Long River."

Several states were named after Indian tribes. These include Alabama, Illinois, Tennessee, Texas and Utah. With those names you may match the Algonquian, Illinois, Tennessee, Texas and Ute tribes. "Iowa" was named after the Iowa Indians.

The Algonquin name of "Michigan" (meaning "Great Water") was given to Lake Michigan, later to the state. The name of Kansas came from "Kansa," an Indian term meaning "Smoky Water," and referring to the Kansas River.

Plainview Woman Notes 100th Year

PLAINVIEW — A Hale County woman who came to Plainview to homestead in 1888, Mrs. R. M. Irick, celebrated her 100th birthday yesterday.

Mrs. Irick, whose husband died about 25 years ago, said her secret for longevity was plenty of outdoor physical activity.

Why do most Americans brush their teeth?

Brushing our teeth has become an everyday habit with most Americans. But did you know that it is not a habit with most of the rest of the world's people? And did you ever think why not?

Through advertising, manufacturers of dentifrices and toothbrushes have for years been urging the beauty, cleanliness and health benefits of their products. Today most of us brush our teeth as a matter of habit—and are better off for doing so.

Advertising keeps telling people about new or improved products, whether it be dentifrices or dishwashers. Nowhere else in the world is advertising used so effectively and extensively as in the United States—and nowhere else is there so high a standard of living. You are the one who profits most from advertising.

Advertising Benefits You!

... DON'T FORGET ...
 THE BEST BUYS TODAY ARE MORE PRECIOUS THAN GOLD

Many years ago all research was concerned with an effort known as "alchemy" which had as its aim the conversion of all materials into gold. However, today we are grateful that present-day medical and pharmaceutical products available today—the few antibiotic capsules that today can treat a case of pneumonia without worry and danger—the hormones that have allowed arthritics who were permanently disabled to again live useful lives—the insulin which now allows the diabetic to live a healthy normal life—and many, many others. Who can place a value on these? Are they not more precious than gold?

Brothers Turn Dryland Farm Into Growing Business Firm

By JESS BLAIR
The long drought that has sent hundreds of farm families into town seeking jobs didn't find the three Bodine brothers of Mitchell County an easy foe. A few years ago they were trying to make a living farming, and met the same reverses as everyone else.

They decided something had to be done. With them it was a dairy, which would be a way of utilizing homegrown feed and making a sideline income.

Today the Bodine Brothers Dairy is not only well known around Colorado City, but also their 1,500 caged hens have been added the last two years. From their drive-in market about four miles out on the Snyder Highway, they sell eggs, cream, milk and frozen hens. Also they make a cultured butter and are constantly looking for new by-products from their cows and hens.

COLLEGE BACKGROUND
The Bodines, Ed, Homer and Truman, are Mitchell County boys, having grown up in the area. Ed graduated from Texas A&M, while Truman has a degree in geology. Homer, the youngest, finished high school and took some work at Howard County Junior College. He still intends to finish college if he ever gets time.

At present the Bodines are selling about 100 gallons of bottled milk to Colorado City residents, stores and cafes. They have two delivery routes in town, making one on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and the other on the three remaining week days.

They deliver milk and eggs at the same time, also take frozen hens, cream and whatever the customer wants.

"The dairy came first," said Ed. "After that we saw we were going to be tied to the job all the time, anyway, so hens looked like a good way to raise the profits."

NATURAL COMBINATION
The cows and hens work together like cream and coffee, though they are kept separated, as required by law. The hens are kept in two large caged houses. Both houses are modern and of late design, and they also have a place to raise some of the replacements.

The Bodines get 70 per cent production from their flock. This is considered much higher than most poultrymen get. Homer, who is in charge of the hens, says they do it by rigid culling. There is a score card above each cage, and each time eggs are gathered the hen gets a mark for an egg or a zero for not paying her way.

When she misses laying for a few days, she is taken from the cages and ends up in the deep freeze. By selling the culled dressed, the Bodines have been getting from 39 to 45 cents a pound for hens, while the market price for whole birds has been less than 15 cents.

LITTLE THINGS
"It's the little things that count," Ed pointed out. "Also the difference in wholesale and retail price often makes two to three hundred per cent on the profit. When we sell eggs at 40 cents a dozen, there is a nice profit. At 30 cents like most poultrymen are getting, there is none."

Some of the little things that Ed mentioned include spreading the manure from cow lots and hen houses on fields to enrich the soil. Raising as much home grown feed as possible, buying equipment to reduce labor costs, and marketing everything possible.

"Everything is becoming specialized on the farm," he continued. "An owner must produce more and more and at the same time do it cheaper. We've found that equipment needed for a better job is always a good investment. When you pay money for labor, it's money lost. So why not buy a piece of machinery to take the place of an employee? After it's paid off, the extra work it does is profit."

EFFICIENT OPERATION
The Bodines farm about 450 acres of land, but have made short crops the last few years. Now they have a Johnson grass pasture that will furnish grazing in a few more days. They also put up silage when possible to reduce feed costs.

The whole operation is so efficiently planned that only one extra employe is needed most of the time. Dale Geiger drives the delivery truck and also helps with the milk room operations. They will of course need some farm help if they get rain enough for farming.

The brothers watch the market closely and try not to expand too fast. The only surplus they get is during the spring and early summer months when egg prices drop sharply. This spring they had to sell a few cases of eggs in San Angelo.

PLANNING AHEAD
To prevent this from happening again, they will buy chick replacements in the spring, have the young hens ready for the booming fall and early winter market. Then when the spring surplus hits, the hens will be on the downgrade and there won't be so many eggs in the summer.

"There's lots of angles to this business," Ed Bodine said. "Sometimes we think we're not getting ahead fast enough. We haven't always made a big profit, but the plant is growing, we're adding more hens and buying high-priced equipment. So if we are not getting rich, maybe we're making some progress. I know we're a thousand per cent better off than if we had kept trying to make it with dryland farming alone."

Trustees Decline School Bonds Offer

Because the bond market at the present time is weak and for the reason that there is no urgent need for the money for several months to come, the Big Spring Board of Education last night declined an offer to sell $400,000 of the bonds for 4.125 per cent.

The offer was made by Carter Johnson, who is representative of a group of bond buying houses. He has been acting as fiscal agent for the school board in the preliminary preparations for the issuance of the bonds. He explained that he had conferred with his principals and that the offer was the best he could make at the present time, in view of the unstable situation prevailing in the bond market.

His offer included cancellation of an $1,800 handling fee if his firms were buyers of the bonds. On March 7, Johnson had said his firms would take the bonds at 3.89 per cent. In the month that has passed, he explained, sharp break in the market has developed and it is no longer possible to post the original offer.

The board declined the bid for two reasons.

Floyd Parsons, superintendent, pointed out to the board, when asked for his views, that the district is in "no hurry" for the $400,000. He said that it will be October at the earliest and December at the latest before the money is required in connection with the construction of a new junior high school. The district has funds on hand from an earlier bond issue to proceed with the work and to carry it on for several months.

Furthermore, Parsons said, he was opposed, in principle, to an agency such as the board selling bonds at a "closed" sale. He favored a public sale, he explained, at which buyers at large would be invited to make bids for the issue.

Several members of the board echoed the same sentiments and the group approved a motion declining Johnson's offer and instructing that preparations be made for a general advertising of the issue at some date in the relatively near future. It was emphasized by the board that if the bids were still not satisfactory at this public sale and if the board felt an advantage to the district might accrue from further delay, that the issue might not be sold even at that date.

Johnson said that he would proceed, as fiscal agent for the board, with their instructions. However, he told them, if this plan is followed, it will be impossible for him to nullify his $1,800 handling fee. The board replied that it so understood the matter.

The school board met to canvass the returns from the bond election. The check of the ballots revealed that the issue had been approved by a vote of 492 to 55. Only one ballot, it was disclosed, had been thrown out—this being an absentee vote to which was not attached the required sworn affidavit.

The board is to use half of the $800,000 issue to augment funds already on hand to build a new and complete junior high school plant. The remaining $400,000 bonds will not be issued at this time but will be held in reserve to be employed in what school officials say will be a near future need to expand the high school facilities.

Johnson, in his statement to the board, said that rapid changes in the bond market in recent weeks have resulted in sharp deviation from its condition a month ago when he made his offer of 3.89 for the available bonds.

He called attention to an issue voted by another community which was sold early this week for 4.31. However, he agreed that "no one can anticipate what the bond market will do in the next few months but it is generally felt by bond buyers that it will get worse before it gets any better."

Benny Fiddles With Philharmonic

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra may never be the same.

Jack Benny, 39-year-old violinist of Waukegan, Ill., made a guest appearance with the orchestra last night at Philharmonic Auditorium. He played selections from Sarasate, Mendelssohn and Rimsky-Korsakoff. All three composers lost.

Such music lovers as Frank Sinatra, James Stewart, Claudette Colbert, Dana Wynter, Clifton Webb, Gregory Peck, Ann Miller and Sam Goldwyn paid $100 a seat to hear Mr. Benny's West Coast debut as a concert artist. The event was for the benefit of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Charity netted a reported $100,000. What happened to music is another matter.

More Attention To Human Element

The number of persons killed or injured in traffic accidents last year exceeded the total population of each of 25 different American states.

The total of injured stood at 2,368,000, while the number of killed is not exactly known at this time. The Travelers company in its annual statistical booklet places it at 40,000.

Collisions with other cars produced 1,686,000 injured, 15,880 dead. This type of accident, when metal meets metal, produced 70.3 per cent of the total injured, and 39.3 per cent of the total of dead.

Accidents of the non-collision type—as when a driver is doing 110 m.p.h. on a straightaway and his car just simply takes off and turns a flip or a somersault—accounted for 22.3 per cent of the fatalities and 10.2 per cent of all injuries.

Eight thousand eighty pedestrians were killed last year, or one in five fatalities. Two hundred twenty-five thousand were injured.

More than forty per cent of the fatalities and nearly 40 per cent of injuries were caused by excessive speed. Twenty-five per cent of fatalities occurred when the offending driver did not have the right-of-way—second highest cause of fatal accidents. Six point two per cent were caused by someone using the wrong side of the road. Seven point six per cent of all fatalities happened when the car simply left the road. Since mechanical failures are rare in modern cars, the presumption is that when a car leaves the road the driver rather than the machine was at fault. Drowning at the wheel is more common than most people suppose.

Reckless driving figured in 9.9 per cent of fatalities, while failure to signal or improper signaling produced 3.2.

Most authorities agree that most accidents are chargeable to drivers—the old human equation. Taking a long, hard look at the evidence piling up year after year, they have come to the firm conviction that the only way to achieve traffic safety is to bear down hard on the operators of motor vehicles.

Stiff examination of driver applicants, stricter rules relating to issuance of licenses, prompt punishment for recklessness or incompetence, more thorough enforcement of traffic laws and driver education are among the tools of safer traffic.

More and more the emphasis on education is coming to rest on the public school level. More than half the nation's high schools now have some form of youth training in this field. Youngsters who are taught safe traffic procedures are likely to follow them when they come of age. Michigan will not issue a driving license to 16 and 17-year-olds unless they have passed the prescribed driving course.

Let's Keep Up This Good Work

We would like to add our voice of commendation to the Big Spring Civic Theatre group and to all others who had a part in the staging of the Easter pageant at the City Park amphitheatre last Sunday. It was, to use the words of Dr. P. D. O'Brien, "wonderful; much better than could have been expected."

Actually the massive pantomime came together within the space of about three weeks, although some additional time was devoted to thinking about what form it should take. Yet, the costuming and the execution of the narration (which, incidentally, was conceived and voiced) assumed a quite polished air. The vocal solo and organ work were in keeping with the high quality of the production.

There was a novel deviation from the conventional in the procession to Calvary which led through the amphitheatre and around the audience. All in all, it was most impressive.

This is the sort of thing we have had in mind in advocating a departure from the sermon type for the early morning service. The faithful will have their sermons and their pure cantatas during the regular Easter service. That something different, something colorful and inspiring will attract more people was demonstrated by the attendance — almost double the normal turnout. The quality of pageant staged Sunday most surely will attract even larger numbers next year.

We hope that the Big Spring Pastors Association, the traditional sponsor of the sunrise service, will promptly commission the theatre group to plan now for next year's service. We could only hope that more of the individual members of the association would take an active part, at least to the simple degree of arranging for a more systematic plan of receiving the offering. It may be that a portion of it in future years might well go back into the service costs as well as into financing of the high school Bible class. There were enough who wanted to give Sunday but who had no opportunity to have doubled the amount for the class and have paid a good part of the expenses of the pantomime.

Pearson In Trouble On Norman Case

WASHINGTON — Lester B. Pearson, Canadian secretary of state for external affairs, has a likeable personality and has gained many friends in official circles in Washington, but lately he has shocked a good many of them. This is because of his tactics growing out of the case of E. Herbert Norman, Canada's ambassador to Egypt, who committed suicide in Cairo on April 4th after having been publicly accused of "Communist association."

Mr. Pearson is engaged at present in the extraordinary procedure of trying to coerce the Congress of the United States by holding a club over all the security agencies of the American government. He has threatened to withhold security information in the future unless congressional committees hereafter adopt the rules which he now prescribes when they deal with information about any Canadian citizen who becomes involved in security problems affecting the United States.

Mr. Pearson's behavior has also shocked members of the Canadian Parliament who now openly accuse him of threatening to penalize the United States and of straining the relations between the two countries.

The Canadian foreign secretary at first implied in his statements and speeches that the executive agencies of the United States government leaked certain information to the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security. Now he absolves all the security agencies of any blame and concedes that the Senate subcommittee did not get its information from any security agency but got it elsewhere.

Yet Mr. Pearson, in a series of notes, threatens the American government with a loss of security information from the Canadian government. He would penalize the security agencies of the United States which have kept the faith and he argues theoretically that, because some information might be wrongfully used some day in the future, congressional committees in Washington must give up their prerogatives or else reprisals will be visited upon the security agencies of the United States government. This bold attempt by a foreign government to encroach upon the constitutional operations of Congress ignores the fact that the executive departments in our government have no constitutional right to tell the committees of the Senate and the House how they shall function.

The real issue is not what motivated the suicide but why Mr. Pearson is attempting to punish the American government by withholding security information from it unless Congress hereafter changes its procedures to suit the Canadian government. The reaction to such a course of reprisals has already aroused resentment in the Canadian Parliament.

Here, for instance, is an extract from the official transcript of the Parliament's proceedings at Ottawa a few days ago:

"Mr. Pearson: I recognize, Mr. Speaker, that nothing we could have done would have prevented the action taken against Mr. Norman by the United States Senate subcommittee because the information they gave out covering allegations going back years and dealt with by the government years ago, was secured from other than Canadian sources. Nevertheless, the experience has emphasized that we should now take steps to ensure that information received from us on these matters could not possibly be used for wrong purposes against Canadians in the future."

"This reciprocal exchange of information has assisted substantially in maintaining the security of the two countries, and the Canadian government is not suggesting that it has been improperly used by the security agencies in the United States with which this exchange takes place."

"I can also confirm that on this occasion and in regard to this matter, the information obtained by the subcommittee was not, to the best of our knowledge, obtained from any Canadian security source via a United States agency. They did not so far as we know, act on any Canadian official information. They got their own information about a Canadian diplomat from their own sources."

"Mr. Diefenbaker (leader of the opposition): Then why penalize their department for something they did not do?"

"And so the debate has raged for several days with Mr. Pearson plainly on the defensive not only because of his threat to take reprisals against the United States security agencies but because of his clumsy handling of the Norman case. He evidently did not reveal in 1951 when Norman was publicly 'cleared' that there had been a Communist background in Norman's career."

Nasser Has Us On The Ropes

WASHINGTON — President Nasser, Soviet Russia, backing Nasser, the high-handed Egyptian who took over the Suez Canal and kept it, has beaten the United States, Britain and France down to frying size.

They wanted him to agree to international control of the canal. From all that is known he hasn't budged an inch from his original position when he seized the canal last July 26.

"This is my canal and I'm going to run it my way, whether you like it or not."

The American ambassador in Cairo has talked with Nasser for weeks without visible results. Secretary of State Dulles yesterday said this country, possibly this week, will report to the United Nations on its dealings with the Egyptian.

This can hardly be more than a face-saving device. So long as they keep talking about their difficulties this country and its two big allies, Britain and France, can hope to delay admitting he has them backed against a wall.

Before Nasser grabbed the canal in July it was operated under an international agreement of 1888

— by a privately owned international company which collected the tolls from the ships passing through.

Last March, just before the canal was finally cleared of the ships sunk during the autumn invasion, Nasser announced Egypt would collect the tolls.

This was after the United States, Britain and France proposed that the tolls should be paid half to Egypt and half to some international financial agency which would hold them until there was some final agreement on who owned what and who owed what to whom.

There is nothing in sight the three allies can do to make Nasser bend. Britain and France invaded him, and had him on the ropes, but this country called off the attack and Nasser came back strong, yielding nothing, as if nothing happened.

Britain and France won't try another attack soon. And the United States won't attack.

Before Nasser grabbed the canal in July it was operated under an international agreement of 1888

Buster Keaton's Back Again

NEW YORK — "I have no sore spots," said Buster Keaton, who spent his rainy day money while the sun was still shining.

The deadpan comedian went up like a rocket, then down like an anchor into the waters of oblivion, where the solitary has-been swims all alone with their dim memories.

But at 61 Buster has bobbed to the surface. He's chipper and ranc in the chips. He bought a ranch home in San Fernando Valley with $50,000 Paramount Pictures gave him for the rights to "The Buster Keaton Story," and television magazines are waving letters at him again.

Keaton, who was given the nickname "Buster" at the age of 6 months by Harry Houdini, and outlived comedy routines for Red Skelton and other comedians of stand made by his vaudeville partners in Piqua, Kan. He was a top performer in 1917 when he gave up a $380-a-week contract with the Shuberts to accept Fatty Arbuckle's invitation to work with him in Hollywood.

"I didn't even bother to ask what the salary was," said Keaton, a short stocky man easier to jump over than to run around. "It wasn't until payday I found out it was $40 a week."

"But I didn't mind. It was fun. The fun didn't go out of it until making movies became an expensive business."

Keaton loves to recall the free-wheeling era when he, Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd were the comedy kings of their generation.

"My salary went from $1,000 a week to $3,500 a week," he said. "In time I had my own studio, and I built a $350,000 house in Beverly Hills. We used to have weekend poker parties where a man would win or lose $50,000 in an evening and either way didn't worry. He could always make another picture."

After his plummet from fame, Keaton became a writer, and outlined comedy routines for Red Skelton and other comedians of a newer day. Then came the years when there were more memories than money, and friendly hand-outs were all he had to go on.

A year and a half ago Keaton lay in a hospital, near death from a ruptured throat vein, when he received the offer for his life story.

"Four days later I was out, doing prat falls on a TV show," he said, his features relaxing into a rare smile.

Tid-Bits From The Old Notebook

This may be all jumbled, but permit me to clean a few items off the notebook.

For instance, if you want more than sympathy when you are victimized by a tornado, either get yourself seriously hurt or killed. Fred Crawford, Texas Tech sociologist, who made intensive studies of the Waco and San Angelo tornadoes of 1953, found that where a member of a family had been killed in a tornado, there seemed to be no problem of debt facing the family. . . . they received more help than did others who were faced merely with property destruction."

Dr. Roger J. Williams of the University of Texas, says that human chemistry determines individuality in man and that much would be gained from the study of the individual rather than the non-existent "normal man." He added that "the existence in every human being of a vast array of attributes which are potentially measurable makes quite tenable the hypothesis that practically every human being is a deviate in some respects." To recognize these would be great help in child development, education, religion, business, law, politics, etc.

Addressing the National Education Association recently, President Eisenhower made this pungent off-hand observation about what constituted a good teacher: "An individual who is very good at explaining to those who don't understand easily, and who is very good at understanding those who can't explain."

You might not think it, but one of the hardest bit commodities, surplus wise, is popcorn. Right now there are 58 million pounds more on the market than the 10-year average. . . . and this despite the fact that only 2 of one per cent of the total corn acreage is in popcorn. Trouble is, people constitute the popcorn market. Looks like we need to warm up the old skillet and pop up a supply for munching while looking at TV.

Another thing you probably wouldn't figure is that Texas is a major producer of tin cans. Last year the state turned out $56 million worth of metal containers. Since 1947, the Texas increase in cans has amounted to more than 60 per cent, says W. F. May of the American Can central division. Major items responsible for this are motor oil, carbonated soft drinks, beer, pet food, coffee, liquid detergents and food products.

Nearly every year 1,000,000 people in the United States disappear: Most of them return home soon with a sheepish look. Finances rank high on the list of reasons for taking a powder. Others are mother-in-law troubles, marital tangles and triangles, teen-age rebellion. Relatively few disappearances are from crime. Genuine amnesia is the cause of 178 out of 688,738 cases checked.

To my mind Johannes Gensfleisch zum Gutenberg has been paid a beautiful tribute to the epiphany put over the spot in which many are buried beneath the nave of an old church: "Here lies in peace among his fellow citizens the inventor of printing . . ."

A Challenge From Union Members

Three weeks ago, when the Dave Beck-Teamsters Union mess was first aired in Washington, D.C., I opened my big, fat typewriter and opined that "only a revolution sparked by red rage and indignation within the union rank and file" would lead to union reform and rectitude.

I expected an onslaught of angry letters, telling me to take a running jump into the lake minus water wings. Well there has been a deluge of angry letters, but not quite in the vein I had anticipated.

The rank and file of Teamsters is mad as hops, not so much at me as at union officials. The union writers, all of whom had the courage to sign their names, addresses and the numbers of their respective locals, are angry with me—and deservedly. I fear—in the light of further Senate revelations, mainly because I did not realize the dangers and difficulties of a revolt to the rank and file.

The first letter that brought me up short, and was later echoed in many others, said in part: "The naive of your column on the Teamsters Union verges on ignorance of unionism and its bosses. Show me a man, not today but a year ago or even two months ago (when circumstances were different than now), who would lead his fellow Teamsters to clean up the union and I will show you a dead man."

A reformer in the Teamsters, even today with all the publicity of the Senate hearings, isn't a good insurance risk. . . . But the letter that really threw down the gauntlet and that is typical of many reads: "I am a rank and file member of the Teamsters and drive a municipal sanitation truck here in (a Pacific Coast city)."

"If you were serious about this outrage and abuse by our Teamster president, Dave Beck, and others, tell me this: In the event that these men are found guilty of misappropriation of union funds to their own use, could I, as a dues paying member of this union, be allowed to file suit against these men in a court of law to recover this money they took, which is rightfully mine?"

"I am more than willing to file this suit to get our union a clean bill of health a d to keep Congress from enacting laws to kill our union. But here is my problem: I am like any other little rank-and-file member who lives from hand-to-mouth each week. I have a wife and three children to support on take-home pay of $60.73; minus union dues. We just make out."

"I am handicapped by a lack of financial means with which to show my indignation and rage at these abuses of our leaders. As God is my witness, I am just as outraged as you by these things, and there are lots more like me. But I am tied hand and foot for lack of means to act."

"Yet I feel like you threw a challenge at me in your column. So I am throwing the challenge right back at you by asking you how a little man like me can act. Tell me the name of someone with authority I can talk to and get results and not beat up."

"Unless someone can help us little guys to help ourselves in this union situation, we will just have to go on suffering these abuses. I can truthfully say that I am trying to do something in the meantime."

This is telling me to put up or shut up, as the writer had every right to do. I wish I had some better solution, but in the meantime I have sent these letters on to Senator John McClellan and his Senate group investigating the Teamsters Union. I have passed the buck, but I hope to the right people for proper action.

The Gallup Poll

More Complaints On High Taxes

PRINCETON, N. J. — While the John and Mary Does across the country were struggling with their income tax reports, interviewers for the American Institute of Public Opinion were out talking with them.

Here is what interviewers report:

1. About six out of every 10 taxpayers complained that the amount of their tax was too high.

2. If the taxpayers themselves wrote the Federal income tax bill this year, they would have families in the lowest income brackets pay about what they now pay and would ask less tax from the "big fellow" than he actually pays at present.

The typical family of four with an income of $3,000 a year would pay about $60 in Federal income taxes next year if the public set the rates. Under the present tax schedule, such a family actually paid about $65 on its 1956 income.

On the other hand, a family of four with earnings of $50,000 a year would pay a tax of about $7,900 if the public were setting the rates, whereas this family actually paid more than twice this amount — about $18,294 on 1956 income.

During the week before the April 15 deadline, interviewers asked a balanced cross-section of the nation's taxpaying families:

"Do you consider the amount of income tax which you (your husband) have to pay as too high, about right, or too low?"

The amount of taxpayer irritation today is up from four years ago, shortly after the Eisenhower administration first took office, but considerably less than in 1952 when taxes were a bit higher.

Here is the trend:

	Today	1953	1952
	Per Cent
Too high	61	59	71
About right	31	37	26
No opinion	8	4	3
Fewer than one per cent said that their taxes were too low.

A picture of what seems to the average voter to be a fair amount which should be paid at four principal income levels was obtained by the following question: "Suppose you were a member of the U. S. Congress and it was your job to set the amount of taxes people must pay in the coming year."

"Let's take a typical family of four — a husband, wife, and two children. How much do you think this family, with a total income of $3,000 a year — that is, $60 a week — should pay in personal income taxes next year?"

The same question was asked concerning incomes of $5,000, $10,000, and $50,000.

The rates the public would charge in the way of taxes next year is shown below, together with approximations of the rates which were paid under the present tax bill:

Income	If Public		Gov't. Now
	Set Rates	Taxes
$3,000	$60	$65
$5,000	$235	$420
$10,000	$755	$1,372
$50,000	$7,900	$18,294

The 1956 rates above assume that a joint return was filed for a family claiming four exemptions and using the standard deduction. The exact amount paid would vary for each family depending on special expenses and deductions claimed.

It would be natural to assume that taxpayers would always complain about taxes, whether the rates were high or low. But, in fact, this has not been the case.

The Institute's many surveys of public reaction to taxes through the years show that high rates do not necessarily bring complaints as long as the public is convinced of the need for additional revenue.

Retail Merchants Trying New Cures For Their Ailments

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The retail merchant today is trying out a number of cures for his new crop of ailments.

His troubles are: rising operating costs, shrinking profit per dollar of sales, and increased competition from new kinds of stores and new methods of selling. Some merchants are giving self-service a whirl. One observer predicts that 20,000 more stores will initiate self-service this year. Others are adding new lines and each day becoming more like the general store of yore.

While some are trying to lick their problems by getting bigger, others are seeking to entertain the customers and make them feel at home as they did in the old-time marketplace.

Downtown stores in big cities are pursuing their customers to the suburbs with branches.

The big one-stop shopping center on a main highway keeps on springing up in all parts of the land.

Merchants have discovered drawbacks—in costs or customer reaction—to each of these ideas. But shrinking profits from the old ways of merchandising spur the quest for new.

Department store net profits have dropped to 2.75 per cent of gross sales from 7.8 per cent at the end of World War II. Chain variety store profits are 3.4 per cent at latest count, down from 9.9 per cent in 1946. Drugstore earnings topped to 4.9 per cent from 8.6 per cent.

While the retail sales in general were rising 84 per cent between 1940 and 1955, department store sales were going up just 32 per cent. And supermarkets, enjoying their big era of expansion, saw sales volume rise by 371 per cent.

Believers in self-service think that has a lot to do with the supermarket's growth. Gustav L. Nordstrom, executive director of the Folding Paper Box Assn.—whose members love self-service because they make packages for the goods handled in such stores—says that one out of three persons who enter department stores go out without buying anything. This, he says, seldom happens in a supermarket.

The Folding Paper Box Assn. says that while department stores are slow to change to self-service, some 20,000 other retail outlets will start using it this year.

But there's still a hard core of shoppers who want to be waited on. Some merchants hold that such shoppers will go where they get the kind of service they demand.

Average Oil Production Up

TULSA (AP)—Daily average oil production was up 102,850 barrels during the week ended April 20, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Oklahoma was up 31,600 to 634,400.

The Journal estimated 1957 production at 834,420,375 barrels compared to 800,998,780 a year ago.

Oklahoma was up 31,600 to 634,400 and Arkansas, 75 to 83,625. Losses were listed for Colorado, 200 to 153,200; and Louisiana, 250 to 952,400.

Production was unchanged in Texas at 3,205,250 barrels and New Mexico at 274,400.

Slick Considers Snowman A Vital Evolution Link

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Texas oilman Tom Slick said here today he considered the "Abominable Snowman" a vital missing link in the theory of evolution of man.

Slick and his party flew in today at the end of their reconnaissance to the Barun Valley in eastern Nepal in search of the snowman.

Slick said he came across and photographed two kinds of footprints—one resembling footprints found by British Himalayan climber Eric Shipton, and the other bearing a greater resemblance to human footprints such as his fellow investigator Australian journalist Peter Byrnes saw in Sikkim last year.

He said he is convinced there are two kinds of snowmen—one smaller—but both belonging to the same family. From his inquiries, he added, he was convinced snowmen walked erect and were therefore nearer to human beings than the gorilla.

He plans to return to the Himalayas again in September "with a larger, more expert team with greater equipment and longer time to complete an inquiry into this vital link."

Brownwood Gets Cosmic Ray Lab

BROWNWOOD (AP)—Dr. Peter Meyer, assistant professor of physics at the University of Chicago, said yesterday an experiment station is to be set up here as part of International Geophysical Year activities.

Meyer said the station will measure cosmic ray intensity and the composition of particles in different phases of solar activities. The station will be at Brownwood Municipal Airport.

Balloons will be sent up to 105,000 feet with 250 pounds of equipment. The group is to be joined by scientists and technicians from New York University with experiments to continue until about Aug. 1.

Figures In Army-McCarthy Controversy Now Scattered

By ROGER GREENE
WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP)—Lizzie Borden took an ax and gave her mother 40 whacks; When she saw what she had done She gave her father 41." Boston lawyer Joseph N. Welch says the jury was right in acquitting Lizzie, subject of this old jingle, on the basis of the evidence presented in the celebrated Fall River, Mass., murder trial in 1892. Welch made that summation as narrator in a recent televised production of "The Trial of Lizzie Borden" (ABC-TV). His appearance recalled a 36-day drama of whacks, counter-whacks and verbal blood-letting which opened on Capitol Hill just three years ago next week. That was the celebrated Army-McCarthy ruckus in which Welch figured as Army special counsel.

Almost alone of all the key figures in the Army-McCarthy furor, Welch has kept in the public eye in the intervening years. In addition to his role in "Lizzie Borden," he has appeared in several other TV productions. And last year he was named American "Father of the Year," partly for his efforts in championing the U.S. Constitution.

Even Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has faded into the background from the limelight which blazed around his Communist-hunting forays in the early 1950s. The dark-jowled Wisconsin senator, now 47, rarely hits the headlines these days.

A recent item noted that he had again been snubbed by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower. Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty confirmed that McCarthy was the only member of Congress who was not invited to White House social events during the 1956-57 season. Two weeks ago McCarthy's wife Jean failed to respond to an invitation to attend Mamie Eisenhower's spring luncheon for Senate wives.

What has happened to other headlines in the 1954 hearings? Former Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens, who bitterly argued McCarthy's charges of "Communist coddling" by the Army, resigned from his Pentagon post in June 1955 and returned to his old job as president of the big J. P. Stevens Textile Co. in New York.

Army-McCarthy gal 2 advance for April 21. Ray N. Jenkins, the jut-jawed Knoxville, Tenn., lawyer who served as special counsel for the Senate subcommittee in airing the Army-McCarthy hassle, has figured in speculation as a possible candidate for the U. S. Senate in 1960. He calls himself an Eisenhower Republican.

Jenkins recently was appointed assistant defense counsel for the court-martial of Col. John Nickerson Jr., guided missiles expert, who is accused of leaking secrets of the Army's hush-hush Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., to members of Congress and the press.

Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, 62, retired from the Army in August 1954, two months after the books were closed on 80,000 pages and two million words of testimony in the Army-McCarthy drama.

since resumed his job as president of Schine Enterprises, Inc. His wealthy Russian-born father J. Myer Schine operates a chain of plush resort hotels and movie theaters.

Schine, a close friend of Cohn and former consultant in McCarthy's Communist-hunting inquiries, figured as an off-stage pawn during the stormy Senate hearings.

The Army accused McCarthy who tangled with McCarthy over the issue of promoting and giving an honorable discharge to Army dentist Maj. Irving Peress, is now a major general. President Eisenhower recommended the promotion last January and it recently was approved by the Senate over McCarthy's strong objections.

After the Senate hearings, Zwicker was sent to the Far East in August 1954 as commanding general in southwest Japan. Since last May he has been assistant chief of staff G1 (personnel) of the U.S. 8th Army, stationed in Zama, Japan.

In a way, the Press case was the firecracker that touched off the whole Army-McCarthy explosion.

While probing for Reds at Camp Kilmer, N. J., where Zwicker was commanding officer in 1954, McCarthy publicly denounced Zwicker as unfit to wear a general's uniform. McCarthy's ire stemmed from the fact that Zwicker promoted Peress after the Wisconsin senator had demanded his court-martial as an alleged "Fifth Amendment Communist."

Stung by McCarthy's blast at a much-decorated general, the Army hit back with a formal "bill of particulars" accusing McCarthy of "browbeating" witnesses, including Zwicker.

roy M. Cohn, now 30, McCarthy's legal adviser during the hearings, resigned his $11,700-a-year job as chief aide in McCarthy's Red-hunting investigations in July 1954. McCarthy called him "the most brilliant young fellow I have ever known."

Cohn subsequently accused the press of clamping down a "news blackout" on McCarthy in the wake of the Senate hearings. He is now practicing law in New York City.

Cohn looks back on the hearings as "a colossal waste of the taxpayers' money and of the time of many officials who could have been more productively engaged."

But, he adds, "as a practical matter, it resulted in my becoming well known. I have been fortunate due in a great part to my participation in the hearings."

G. David Schine, 29, known as "the most publicized private in the U. S. Army" during the Army-McCarthy clash, completed his two-year service hitch (as a corporal) in October 1955 and has

Folsom Scores Control Idea
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Folsom today labeled as "simply a phony" the argument that federal aid for classroom construction would mean federal control of education.

Folsom said this is a "major fallacy" raised by some critics of the administration's proposal for a four-year program to provide 325 million dollars annually in grants to the states to help build more schools.

And he reiterated that opponents of the proposal who he said contend that "the classroom shortage is a myth or figment of imagination" have made seriously misleading and clearly inaccurate public statements. Reports from state school authorities, he said, show a shortage of about 159,000 classrooms.

A House subcommittee has approved a five-year 400-million-dollar annual grant program as a compromise between the administration's bill and a more liberal proposal introduced by Democrats. Action by the full House committee is expected early next month.

Independents Win Gas Plea
WASHINGTON (AP)—Temporary authorization was granted by the Power Commission yesterday for four independent producers to sell natural gas from offshore wells in the Gulf to Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. of Houston.

Tennessee also was given temporary authorization to build 107 miles of pipeline to connect its system to the reserve off the Louisiana coast. Cost of the facilities has been estimated at $16,315,412.

The commission remanded the case to an examiner to determine what rate should be allowed if permanent authority is given. It said the price level at which it was proposed that the gas be sold was the highest ever submitted to Tennessee.

Independents involved are Continental Oil Co., Tidewater Oil Co., Atlantic Refining Co. and Cities Service Production Co.
