To Open Bids For Webb's 460 Houses

Contractors drifted toward Big Spring at the end of the week in anticipation of bid openings on the largest single project in the city's history. Most of them were making last minute on-the-ground inspections before submitting proposals on a 460-housing unit project which may cost upward of $7 1/2 million. Bid opening time is 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Academic Building at Webb AFB.

Injuries Fatal To Baby Girl; Mother Quizzed

Mary Bustamante, one of the nine-month-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bustamante, 213 NE 7th, died at 11:35 p.m. Saturday in a local hospital. Death occurred about 12 hours after the child was taken to the hospital by her mother, who said she fell out of her bed. The baby was thought to have suffered a basal skull fracture and was bleeding internally. Mrs. Bustamante was questioned at police headquarters during the afternoon, and officers said she still was in custody Saturday night. Frank Bustamante returned late Saturday afternoon from Midland where he had been working and also conferred with police. The couple has two other children. Mary's twin sister and another girl about 12 months of age. They were with their grandmother last night.

Six Dead, 21 Hurt In Train Collision

GUTHRIE, Ky., June 29 (AP)—A freight train rammed at right angles into a Chicago-Miami passenger train beside the Guthrie railroad station today, killing six and injuring 21, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad reported. The freight engine sliced into the side of the dining car of the L&N steamliner, the Dixieland, just as vacation-bound passengers were having their dinner. The three-unit freight diesel dived into the side of the moving diner, overturning both the car and the first diesel unit and scattering the bodies of five dead and numerous injured on the ground. The crash occurred at the intersection of two of the L&N's main lines in this small town just north of the Tennessee-Kentucky border.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week With Joe Pickle

Those who were wishing early in June for hot dry weather had their wishes come true last week. Thursday got up to 106 (the season's hottest), Friday to 102, and Saturday to 105, according to unofficial reports. On top of that, strong searing wind blew in from the southwest. Pastures rapidly lost their greenery, and even cotton farmers conceded that the weatherman was over-doing it.

Crop prospects in the main continued good despite gale-like winds a week ago which wiped out young plants in a few sandy spots. Further to the west the effect was devastating. The need was set for more moisture, for another rain within about a week or 10 days would make all the difference in the yield prospects.

We added one more to our traffic toll last week. Paul Huddleston, Amarillo, became No. 6. Although there was a mystery attached to how he got on to U. S. 87, it was conceded by officers that his death would be classed as a traffic fatality. There was little reason to suspect foul play.

The city's interrupted clean-up campaign finished with a flourish. City trucks, hauling debris free from residential areas, collected

Nickerson Loses Command, Gets $1,500 Fine

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., June 29 (AP)—Army Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. today was fined $1,500, forbidden to exercise command for one year and reprimanded for leaking secret defense data. Under this sentence by a 10-man court-martial, the guided missile expert is confined to administrative duties and theoretically can't even tell a private what to do. The court-martial panel, which could have dismissed him from the service and jailed the 41-year-old West Pointer for 30 years, required only 43 minutes to reach its verdict.

LOSES PRIVILEGES

The suspension from rank order, under the Uniform Code of Military Justice does not affect his promotion chances but deprives him of his rank privileges such as priority in the selection of quarters. The $1,500 fine can be paid either in a lump sum or by deduction of $100 a month from his pay for 15 months. The sentence is subject to review by 3rd Army headquarters in Atlanta and all the way up through defense channels to the Department of the Army. Defense attorney Ray Jenkins of Knoxville, Tenn., who was special Senate committee counsel during the 1954 Army-McCarthy hearings, said he regarded the verdict as acquittal. "The verdict," he said, "will meet heartily with the approval of the nation. 'The nation can relax and breathe easier now that this great champion of a cause has been acquitted.'"

LEAKED SECRET DATA

Nickerson, tired-looking after five days of trial, had confessed to 15 charges, that he leaked secret defense data to certain key people in an effort to have an order reversed by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson which vitally affected the Army's missile program. After hearing the president of the court, Maj. Gen. Crump Garvin of Atlanta, read his sentence the scholarly looking Nickerson snapped a sharp salute, turned and smiled briefly at his wife, Carol, as she moved forward to meet him.

Bond Election Set Tuesday

Voters will be called upon Tuesday to approve or reject a proposal to issue $50,000 in city water revenue bonds.

Polls for the election will open at 8 a.m. Tuesday and will close until 7 p.m. Judges for the election are S. P. Jones and George Mclear.

The lone voting box will be in the main fire station. The election is to finance the city's part of water and sewer lines to serve Webb AFB. The government is loaning the city a maximum of $175,000, and the city in turn must raise $50,000. The issue will be in two parts, to approve $30,000 in sewer bonds and $20,000 in water bonds. Not every qualified voter in the city will be able to vote. City officials said that only poll tax holders residing in the city limits and who have property listed on the tax rolls will be allowed to cast ballots.

Soap Box Derby Day Is Near, Final Racer Inspections Set

The world's "No. 1 amateur racing event" will have its day in Big Spring Thursday, and about 50 Big Spring, Coahoma and Colorado City boys will spend the first half of the week in preparation for the occasion.

The Big Spring Soap Box Derby, now a traditional part of the city's Fourth of July celebration, is to start at 2 p.m. Thursday. Two hours later, one of the 50 boys from either Howard or Mitchell County will have won an expense-paid trip to Akron, O, and the 20th annual All American Soap Box Derby.

Several other boys will have picked up other valuable prizes, also. But between now and Thursday, all of the boys have a lot of getting ready to do. Final inspection of the homemade racers is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday. After that, race entrants will have a few hours to correct any defects the inspectors may find. Then the cars will be impounded and placed under guard until race time.

Lloyd Wooten, who is handling preliminary arrangements for the big race, announced Saturday that all Howard County boys in the Derby must have their cars at the Tidwell Chevrolet Company lot, 1500 E 4th, by 11 a.m. Tues-

Storm Toll Put At 275 As Searchers Work On

Rehabilitation Work Starting Rapidly

LAKE CHARLES, La., June 29 (AP)—Scanning a coastal land laid waste by the fury of a tidal wave, Civil Defense officials tonight hiked their estimates of the dead in southwest Louisiana to 276 — a ghastly total which may change upward from minute to minute as the waters slowly recede, uncovering more bodies.

First Job Is To Save The Living

As it moved north the hurricane touched off heavy rains and floods that took seven lives in Illinois, three in Indiana and three in New York State. From dawn to dusk during the day, helicopters hovered low to locate survivors and bring them to refuge centers where they were fed, housed and given medical treatment. "Our first job is to save the living — then we'll get the dead," said Army pilot James E. Richards. His helicopter was one of 22 that criss-crossed inundated southwestern Louisiana throughout the day. Some of them died Thursday under savage whiplash of 105 m.p.h. winds borne inland from the Gulf of Mexico by Hurricane Audrey, the season's first. Most of the victims, however, vanished thrashing and gasping beneath a 20-foot tidal wave that thundered in behind the big storm. "There are hundreds of more bodies floating under the debris," said Air Force Maj. Joseph Carroll, directing rescue efforts in the Grand Cheniere area. Among

Most Damaging Storm In A Century

The worst hurricane in history claimed 6,000 lives when another tidal wave swept across Galveston, Tex., in 1900. But not in a century has the Louisiana coast paid such a toll to the elements. In 1856, a tidal wave wiped out Last Island, killing 320 persons. The island off the coast never was reclaimed by man. Today, it is a desolate roost for pelicans and sea birds. However, there was no thought of abandoning the latest hurricane area. Focal point of the storm was the little fishing village of Cameron, where 1,000 persons lived. Ninety per cent of its buildings were destroyed. Its only intact

Doctor Remains At Rescue Work, Own Family Missing

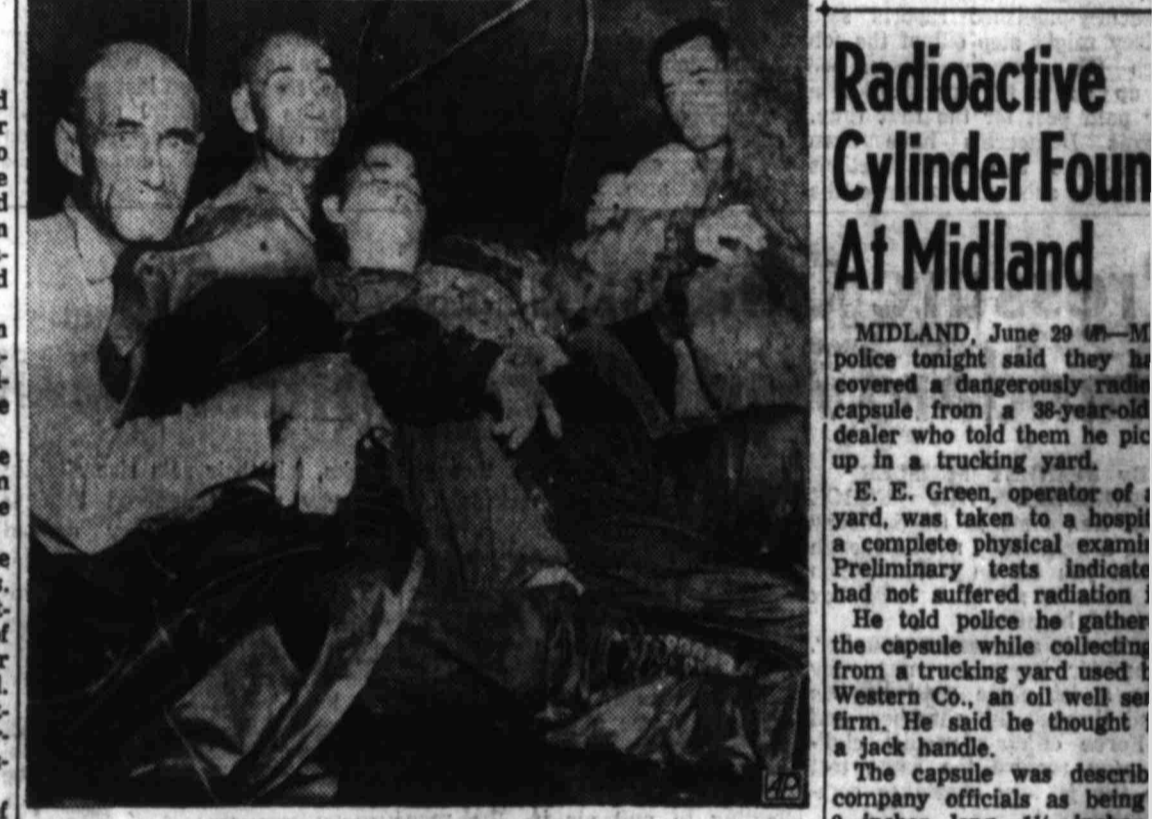

By JERRY LYNAS (Associated Press) CAMERON, La., June 29 (AP)—Many heroic deeds were performed after Hurricane Audrey and the tidal wave hit here Thursday. But the deeds of one person stand out above all else. This person is Dr. Cecil Clark, a physician and father of five children. Dr. Clark was true to the traditions of his profession as the storm was striking and remained true after the storm passed. He left his home and family to care for patients at the Cameron Medical Center a few minutes before the storm hit. At the time, his family and a nurse appeared safe enough in the Clark home. Thirty minutes later, Audrey and the tidal wave hit with full force. Mrs. Clark picked up her 3-year-old daughter in one arm, and her 2-month-old son in the other, and the nurse grabbed up a 2-year-old daughter as the home's brick walls crumbled. The onrushing 12-foot tidal wave swept, the two adults and three children away. Two other Clark children were visiting their grandmother at Oak Grove, another coastal community 12 miles away. After the storm, Dr. Clark found his home had disappeared, his wife, the nurse and the three children gone. He feared for the lives of the other two children at Oak Grove. This fear remained with him as the hours passed, but he remained on duty, aiding the injured. Yesterday afternoon, he was still helping when crews of doctors were flown in from surrounding cities. Not once did he let up in his oath to minister to those in need. Today, one ray of sunshine en-

Radioactive Cylinder Found At Midland

MIDLAND, June 29 (AP)—Police tonight said they uncovered a dangerously radioactive capsule from a 39-year-old dealer who told them he picked it up in a trucking yard. E. E. Green, operator of the yard, was taken to a hospital for a complete physical examination. Preliminary tests indicated he had not suffered radiation. He told police he gathered the capsule while collecting from a trucking yard used by Western Co., an oil well service firm. He said he thought it a jack handle. The capsule was described by company officials as being 9 inches long, 1 1/4 inches weighing about 10 pounds attached to a four-foot handle was said to have had a jacket and to be composed of radium and beryllium of the Atomic Energy Commission. First Indian Day Camp Concluded

First session of the Indian Day Camp, a YMCA recreational summer activity, concluded Friday with a camper-parents' picnic attended by more than 140 persons. Jimmy Johnson was named the outstanding camper for the period on the basis of group acceptance, cooperation, initiative and over-all participation. Boys took their parents on a tour of their Indian camps at the City Park and each of the four tribes put on a skit. They also held a council ring (inspirational and worship ceremony) and formed a friendship circle. Everett Taylor, program director for the YMCA and director of the Indian Day Camp, said the second period will start July 8, but that the only way in which additional boys could register would be for one of those enrolled to drop out. Thirty-nine youngsters took part during the first session. Activities of the camp are reflected in the pictures above. At left, Donnie Everett, one of the counselors, conducts the council ring services, while Jim McCrary, Haley Haynes and George Peacock, his colleagues, look on. At right, George Peacock shows some of the boys how to make Indian headbands. In center, the lady pause for one of the most popular parts of the day's program—the refreshment period.

Middle-Of-Road Democrats Courted By Texas Factions

AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—Texas Democrats who may be weary of the ancient feuding between left and right extremes are objects of an enlistment campaign shaping up under the State Executive Committee.

Another meeting of its finance subcommittee, acting as a tightly-knit executive body, will be held here soon to make further plans, said Jim Lindsey, Executive committee chairman.

Although the committee has employed a director of organization to work fulltime at the job, detailed work during this "off year" in politics, Lindsey has no plans to retire as chairman, he says.

Recently-published reports said Lindsey might step out of the job which the executive committee set up as a fulltime $15,000 a year paid post for the first time.

Texas Democrats have been divided into two main factions with some subdivisions since the early 1940s. These factions are generally described as "liberal" and "conservative."

The liberals have underlined party loyalty and their leadership has come largely from an original nucleus of Roosevelt New Deal Democrats. More recently there has been emphasis on labor leadership.

The conservatives were headed by such men as former Gov. Allan Shivers, who led the 1952 party bolt to Eisenhower, along with Daniel Johnson.

Daniel returned officially to the fold in 1956 by supporting the national party's presidential ticket. He retained control of the party machinery with the help of Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn.

The Executive Committee is at least two-thirds pro-Daniel, with the rest classified as liberal. There is also a full-fledged liberal organization called Democrats of Texas (DOT), headed by the national committeewoman, Mrs. R. D. Randolph of Houston. National Committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple is not affiliated with DOT.

Good sources at Democratic headquarters say the reorganized party hopes to build by enlisting local party members who have been neither extreme liberals or conservatives. They believe there are enough Texans in this classification to give the party the votes it will take to retain control of the state machinery in 1958's campaigns.

Johnson has always contended that most Texas Democrats are really in the "middle of the road" politically, with moderate rather than radical views either right or left. He premised last summer's campaign for control of the national convention delegation on this belief, and defeated the Shivers conservatives.

Arms Proposal Is Outlined For NATO Chiefs

PARIS, June 29 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen briefed the NATO Allies today on new American disarmament proposals in advance of their presentation to the Soviet Union.

NATO sources said Stassen disclosed he would present the latest U. S. plans to Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin at a formal meeting of the five-member U. N. subcommittee on disarmament in London Tuesday.

Stassen has asked for the views of the governments of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to be forwarded to him before then by Monday evening at the latest.

Zorin has objected to the "bit-by-bit" presentation of the American proposals in London. He has said the Soviet Union must know the proposals in their entirety before making any decision on naming working groups to take up the task of working out an arms reduction agreement.

Stassen, who is President Eisenhower's special aide on disarmament, was accompanied to the special NATO session in the Palais de Chaillot here by French Delegate Jules Moch, who said his government was in full agreement with the American positions.

Air Force Shows Its Modern Might

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force put on its mightiest show of force today.

It sent more than 270 war planes, including B52 H-bombers, into an aerial parade for its departing chief of staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining. He is stepping up to chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The event, at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., attracted diplomats of many nations, mostly friendly, some not so friendly.

Thundering bombers and screaming fighters cast swiftly passing shadows of their wings across the upturned face of a three-star Soviet general from the Russian embassy.

In war, the 24 B52 Boeing heavy bombers and the 96 B47 mediums which streaked past at low altitudes could have carried in their bomb bays nuclear energy equal to more than a billion tons of conventional explosives.

The planes of the Strategic Air Command showed, too, how they could reach far-distance targets (like Russia's heartland). One of the big B52's sailed low over the observers, drawing fuel from an accompanying KC135 tanker plane as it flew—to augment its standard 6,000-mile range. Three jet fighters, whose fuel hunger normally limits their range, replenished from another tanker plane.

The concentration of jet bomber power here was greater than any yet reported for Russia's annual May Day air show over Moscow.

Today's display, said an Air Force commentator at the parade, marks the "golden age of air power" and the 50th anniversary of land-based military air power in the United States.

When it was over, Twining radioed his thanks to the pilots and crews of the big bombers, fighters and transports. He leaves his chief of staff post tomorrow and Aug. 16 will become chairman of the Joint Chiefs—first airman to get that assignment.

At today's ceremony, Twining was decorated with an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Distinguished Service Medal, token of President Eisenhower's appreciation of his service as air chief of staff.

Pressure Chambers Seen As Standard Airline Equipment

By STANLEY MEISLER
BARKSDALE AIR FORCE BASE, La., June 29 (AP)—Someday buying a ticket may not be enough to take you on an airliner. You may have to sit in a huge box first—and breathe.

The box is a pressure chamber. In the Air Force no man may fly in a jet plane until he has passed through the chamber, and Air Force officials predict civilians may require the same test when the jet age overtakes commercial flying.

In the chamber, air pressure is reduced so you have the same conditions that exist at high altitudes, which means there is less oxygen in the air.

When a jet plane flies at 40,000 feet, its crew does not have too tough a problem. The cabin is pressurized as if the plane were flying at a lower altitude.

But a hole in the cabin would change all that. The Air Force wants its men to know how to breathe in an emergency, whether caused by a mechanical failure or enemy explosive.

The chambers, scattered at air bases throughout the United States can each handle 20 men. Recently, the Air Force put through a class of eight at Barksdale.

Each man wore an oxygen mask similar to that used on jet planes.

In 23 minutes, the chamber brought the men to an altitude of 35,000 feet. Breathing through the mask was not too difficult. But, as gas ballooned intestines, cramps became a problem.

Two minutes later, the altitude was 44,000 feet. Here breathing turned upside down. Instead of fighting to pull air in, the men with their oxygen masks, found the tough job was pushing air out.

The chamber stayed that high only two minutes, then dropped back to 35,000 feet, where an experiment in hypoxia or lack of oxygen was performed.

The oxygen mask was removed from one officer. He sat in the center of the chamber and was asked to take a deck of cards and separate it into four suits. For more than 30 seconds he stacked the cards accurately, then he started putting all the cards in the hearts pile. Then he passed out.

Oxygen quickly revived him. Then all others in the chamber were asked to determine how they felt without oxygen at 35,000 feet. Almost all found the room soon getting dark, their coordination then weakening and, finally, a near blackout.

The experiment was tried so each airman would know (1) his own symptoms of hypoxia and (2) the amount of time he had between the cutoff of oxygen and passing out.

For the final test, the men filed into a segment of the pressure chamber called the rapid decompression room. Here the room was pressurized at 8,000 feet. Suddenly it jumped to 21,000 feet.

The men, now without oxygen masks, felt their sets rise slightly as gray mist thundered through the room. Quickly they donned their masks and breathed oxygen.

The idea of the rapid decompression room is to familiarize airman with the sudden burst that would mean their airplane had lost its pressure.

Commercial airliners probably won't want their passengers to undergo the full inconvenience of the pressure chamber. But Air Force officials say that if airlines want to take advantage of high altitudes, passengers will need some sort of demonstration on what to do and some sort of test to prove they can do it.

Higher Price Tag Monday On Special Post Office Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—Starting Monday, it will cost you more to send a special delivery letter, buy a money order, insure a package, or use any of the other half-dozen special postal services.

Postmaster General Summerfield announced increases in special service charges a month ago, to become effective July 1. It's part of his drive to whittle down some of the 651 million dollar deficit the department is facing in fiscal 1958, starting Monday.

Under the law, the service charges are fixed by the postmaster general. The announced hikes are expected to yield about 28 million dollars a year in additional revenues.

Meanwhile, Summerfield said an extra 133 million dollars provided by Congress for postal operations in the next fiscal year "eliminate any necessity of significant curtailments in the present mail service."

The Post Office Department, like other federal agencies, must meet its expenses out of money appropriated by Congress. Money collected for postal services goes into the Treasury's general fund and is not earmarked for use by the department.

Summerfield has been trying without success for several years to get Congress to raise rates on first, second and third class mail.

Here are the increases in special service charges which go into effect Monday:

SPECIAL DELIVERY—From 20 to 30 cents for items up to two pounds, with similar 10-cent increases in the other weight categories.

MONEY ORDERS—An additional five cents on each, raising the minimum charge from 10 to 15 cents.

REPLY CARDS—From three to four cents, with the charge for each piece of mail enclosed in business reply envelopes upped from one to two cents.

NOTICES OF UNDELIVERABLE SECOND, THIRD AND FOURTH CLASS MAIL—From three to five cents per notice.

REGISTERED MAIL—Where liability is limited to $1,000, as now, an increase in the minimum fee from 40 to 50 cents, with the $1,000 rate raised from $1.75 to $2.

The department will expand this service to include liability up to $10,000, for which the charge will be $4.25. The return receipt fee will be advanced from 7 to 10 cents.

C.O.D. SERVICE—From 20 to 50 cents on items which must be delivered to a specific individual.

INSURANCE FEES—Increases ranging from five to 10 cents on items valued above $10.

CERTIFIED MAIL—An increase in the service charge from 15 to 20 cents, with the return receipt raised from 7 to 10 cents. The charge for delivery to a specified person would be hiked from 20 to 50 cents.

SPECIAL HANDLING FOR PARCEL POST ITEMS—The present range of 15 to 25 cents advanced to 25 to 50 cents.

PERIODIC CORRECTION OF MAILING LISTS—An increase in the minimum charge from 25 cents to $1. On lists having more than 20 mailing addresses, the present charge of one cent per name will be hiked to five cents.

Dog Saves His Master, Foils A Tavern Holdup

CHICAGO, June 29 (AP)—Police say a dog today foiled the attempted murder of a suburban tavern owner and enabled the intended victim to slay one of his would-be assassins.

Walter Griffin, chief of the suburban Brookfield police, said the dog, Princess, "saved her master's life." Griffin gave this account of the fracas:

William Bates, 56, and his dog approached his car parked in front of his home and the dog began growling. The dog's action caused Bates—owner of a tavern in suburban Lyons—to draw his gun.

Bates opened the car door and the canine leaped in. A man hiding in the rear seat opened fire at Princess, giving Bates the opportunity to shoot the gunman in the head.

Two other men jumped out of a parked car nearby and opened fire at Bates. The dog rushed them and kept their attention until Bates was able to return their fire. The pair jumped back in their car and sped off.

Patrick Deely, Chicago police detective head, later identified the dead man as Frank Mustari, of Chicago, and termed him "a hijacker and slot machine bandit."

Bates was hospitalized with a bullet in his left elbow. He also was grazed by three other bullets. The dog, a Doberman pinscher, came through the shooting unhurt.

Senate May Slash New Defense Figure

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Sen. Young (R-ND) said today the administration is "bound to lose" part of the victory it scored when the Senate Appropriations Committee restored nearly a billion dollars of House cuts in the armed forces money bill.

"The Defense Department will be lucky if they don't lose more than a third of the raise," Young said. "They are bound to lose part of it."

He is a member of the Appropriations Committee which voted Friday to restore $971,504,000 of the hard cash items the House had slashed from the measure.

The committee action brought the bill up to a total of about 34 1/2 billion dollars. The Senate plans to start debate on it Monday, with prospects it will vote Wednesday. Administration forces figure the big fight will come later when conferees representing the Senate and House meet to try to work out a compromise between the two branches.

Sen. Knowland of California, Republican Senate leader, said meanwhile that he would be surprised if the White House asked the Senate to put back the full $1,220,000,000 cash cuts voted by the House.

The House had contended that even at the 33 1/2 billion level for which it voted, the budget was adequate to support a fighting force of 2,800,000 million uniformed men, trained and equipped to meet either atomic or conventional warfare. That is what the Pentagon wanted, but Eisenhower contended the House cuts had gone too deep.

The pending bill is designed to produce fighting forces to shape up this way:

ARMY—17 divisions, 9 regimental combat teams and 126 anti-aircraft battalions and other combat support units backed by a reserve of up to 697,000 reservists and national guardsmen in drill pay status.

NAVY—An active fleet of 983 ships, including 23 new ones and 10 recently converted; an air arm of 11,800 active aircraft, and packing a guided missile punch the exact power of which is a military secret. The Navy plans for 150,383 reservists in drill pay status. The bill also carries funds for construction of a nuclear powered attack air carrier.

Marines—Included with the Navy in the appropriations bill—three combat divisions, three air wings and supporting forces of 55,000 reservists.

AIR FORCE—A ready force of 123 wings by the end of the New Year, one of them missile equipped, with growing emphasis on guided missiles as both offensive and defensive weapons. Announced plans called for an inventory of about 20,000 planes, plus 31 additional wings in the air reserves. The Air Force expects delivery in the year of 101 new B52 intercontinental jet bombers, which cost eight million dollars apiece.

Several Bullfights Slated At Juarez

Afficionados will find a full schedule of bullfighting along the El Paso border for "the Taurine Week" beginning today.

At 5 p.m. today El Paso time Paco Huerta and Tomas Abaroa are fighting four bulls in the Albert Balderas ring in Juarez. At the same hour on July 4 Rocky Moody and Alvaro Camara will fight two bulls each from the El Sauz herd. On July 7, Victoriano Posada and Antonio Velazquez, together with Fernando de los Reyes (El Callao) will fight.

Uncle Ray: Young Reader Finds Interest In Turtles

By RAMON COFFMAN

Short news notes reach me from time to time. Here, for example, are lines from a letter which came from Mrs. Russell Campbell:

"On the same day that you wrote one of your articles about names, I saw an item in the paper with the heading: Bacon Announces... Pig Roast Plans. That struck me as a bit humorous.

"My mother-in-law tells of parents who were trying to decide on a name for their baby. The family name was House and the infant was a boy. They almost settled on the name of Henry when one of them happened to think that the nickname of 'Hen' might be used, and then he would be called Hen House. They picked another name!"

"Thank you, Mrs. Campbell I always enjoy interesting, or amusing, facts about names. Only the other evening I was introduced to a man with an unusual name.

"You can call us Sow, if you like," said his wife. "That's pretty close."

After hearing those words, I spoke of an incident which a reader of this column once related. A

Mrs. Hig went to a party, and was introduced to Mr. Pigge.

Another letter, from a girl named Barbara Hovis, speaks of something quite different. She writes:

"Some people don't think turtles are very interesting. At first I thought that myself. Then my cousin gave me two of them. I kept them in a fish bowl the first few months after I got them.

"Then my mother gave me a dish made especially for turtles. They eat things like bits of raw meats, insects and pieces of apple. Their favorite food, however, seems to be celery leaves. Today they tried to eat out of my hand! I have had them for eight months."

I regret that an error about Saskatchewan appeared in some editions on Monday, April 22. If you have saved the article for that date (about Indian names) will you please change the wording of the seventh paragraph if a change is needed? I should read:

"Saskatoon, the second city in Saskatchewan, also has a name of Indian origin."

The capital of Saskatchewan is Regina, the largest city in the province. get coupon

Thursday evening. Justice of the Peace Walter Grice said he will rule accidental death in the case as a result of the officers' findings.

Amarilloan's Death Is Ruled Accidental

Investigation into the death of Paul Huddleston, 46, was closed Saturday with authorities convinced the Amarillo man died accidentally.

Huddleston, owner of the Amarillo Window Cleaning Company, was found sprawled across one lane of U.S. 87 about 18 miles north of Big Spring Thursday night. His head was crushed and both arms were broken.

Jack Shaffer, chief deputy sheriff for Howard County, said Saturday that officers had turned up no evidence of foul play.

"We've completed our investigation and are convinced that Huddleston died in an accident," the deputy said.

Examination of a car owned by Edwin Wayne Hoskins of Lamesa Friday disclosed that it probably was the machine that fatally injured Huddleston, Shaffer reported.

Hoskins, who swerved his automobile in a futile attempt to miss the Amarillo man, said he didn't know whether the car struck Huddleston or not.

Hoskins was driving north from Big Spring toward Lamesa about 10:30 p.m. Thursday. Just before he met a pickup driven by Richard Bain of Big Spring, he noticed a car parked on the right shoulder of the roadway. Hoskins then saw Huddleston sprawled on the pavement, immediately in his path.

The Lamesan said he swerved to the left to try to avoid Huddleston, saw that he was about to collide head-on with the pickup, and cut back to the right, almost at the spot where Huddleston lay.

The two vehicles sideswiped, but no one in either machine was injured.

Shaffer, Investigator Bobby West, County Attorney John Richard Coffee and District Attorney Guilford Jones spent most of Friday examining the scene of the tragedy, inspecting the automobiles and attempting to trace Huddleston's movements here.

Crash Crumples Light Plane

C. D. Moore of Big Spring examines wreckage of a small plane which crash-landed near U.S. 87 just south of Forsan Friday afternoon. Second Lt. Harry E. Hendricks, 23, student officer at Reese AFB, Lubbock, was en route to Lubbock from San Antonio when the plane's engine overhauled, lost power and began to lose altitude. He attempted to put it down on U.S. 87, but traffic intervened and he decided to land in a pasture beside the road. Moore, also a pilot, saw the plane in trouble and watched it smack into the ground. He then brought Hendricks to the VA Hospital for emergency treatment. The flier suffered a severe cut on his head and numerous bruises. He later was taken to Webb AFB Hospital for observation and convalescence.

Salary Boosts For Texas U. Faculty

AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—Big boosts in the faculty salaries were approved today by University of Texas regents, applying increased funds granted by the last Legislature.

The regents also:

Said Dr. C. P. Boner, a sound physicist, is returning to research after serving since 1954 as vice president for academic affairs.

Adopted a main university budget of $14,969,733 for 1957-58 and budgets for its other branches calling for a 16 per cent increase over the current amount in total expenditures.

Ratified purchase of one million dollars in corporate bonds and a total of 46,785 shares of common stock in 49 individual companies. The aggregate of these was $3,468,318—the first venture in this type of investment since authorization by a constitutional amendment last fall.

Formerly, permanent fund investments were limited to government bonds.

Average faculty salaries were advanced in all units $500 to $1,000 in what President Logan Wilson called "a sincere effort to catch up with economic conditions."

The new salary scale provides a minimum salary of $4,000 for instructors, $5,000 for assistant professors, $6,000 for associate professors, and $7,500 for professors.

The budgets also provide for faculty expansion for increased enrollments at main university and Texas Western College.

The Medical Branch at Galveston, subject of a special appropriation by the Legislature, will get the first phase of a $1,300,000 repair and rehabilitation treatment.

Trade Councils In Hungary Are Breaking Up

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 29 (AP)—A Foreign Ministry spokesman said today most of the workers' councils, organized as part of Hungary's attempt at independent communism, have been "voluntarily dissolved."

Others, he told a news conference, exist in name only, a few are actually operating.

"We have no experience," he said, "that even the best workers' councils would have any other function than those performed by the trade unions."

Workers' councils were created in Hungary during the revolt, last fall. The Central Workers' Council in Budapest for a time challenged the regime of Premier János Kadar, whom the Russians put into office. But early in December he became strong enough to dissolve it and jail some of its leaders. Nevertheless, Kadar and his followers insisted that the councils had important jobs to do in their factories.

But today, Foreign Office spokesman Laszlo Gyarus assailed the councils as political rather than economic institutions. Kadar, in a keynote speech Thursday night, the current Communist party national conference, said they had not been a success and would have to work under the trade unions.

Football Coach Speaks At ABC Club Luncheon Friday

Al Milch, head football coach at Big Spring High School, spoke to members of the American Business Club at their regular Friday luncheon at the Settles Hotel, choosing as his subject "What The Coach Expects From The Community."

A championship athletic program requires a champion faculty, students and town boosters, Milch stated.

Sharon Enloe gave two pantomimes which were well received. Miss Enloe is a niece of one of the club members, John Davis.

Vice-president George McAlister presided in the absence of Jim Lewis, president, who is attending the National ABC convention at Augusta, Ga., along with Mrs. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Garner McAdams.

A meeting of all ABC officers and board members and incoming officers and directors, will be held at the Wagon Wheel at 7 p.m. Monday. The convales was called by Clyde McMahon, incoming president.

New officers and board members will formally be installed at the Big Spring Country Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

At Friday's session, Harvey Wooten was re-installed as a club member.

Visitors included J. B. Enlow, Mercedes, Calif.; Walt Lawson, Rube McNew, Bud Purser and Dave Albright.

Jack Wilson, new member, received his membership pin and card.

$1,500 Is Given Locally To Fund For McKnight Chapel

Local contributions to the fund for erecting a chapel at McKnight Tuberculosis Sanatorium rose to $1,500 Saturday.

Marvin M. Miller, chairman of the Howard County effort to support the project, said that he hoped to be able to close out the appeal on Wednesday.

Funds are being sought from private sources to finance the construction of an all-faiths chapel for the sanatorium located west of San Angelo. Because it is a state institution, state funds may not be used for chapel purposes.

Appeals are being voiced simultaneously in approximately two score West Texas counties.

There are 650 patients in McKnight Sanatorium, and eight of them are from Howard County.

"I feel that there are many here who would like to have a part in this undertaking to help provide facilities for a religious program at a time patients at the hospital most desperately need spiritual strength and assurance," said Miller. He asked that checks to the McKnight All-Faiths Chapel be mailed to him in care of Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

Two Fires Occur On Runnels Street

Two fires occurred Friday in two blocks on Runnels. Both calls were answered by the main station crews.

At the Grayhound Post House at 303 Runnels, an electric meter developed a small fire, but no damage resulted.

Wiring caused a blaze at the residence of Travis Myrick at 411 Runnels. Sam Stone is the owner of the structure. Small damage resulted to one room and clothes in a closet were burned before firemen extinguished the blaze.

Survivors Of Storm

Propose Troop Cut For South Korea

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—The United States is expected to propose soon that South Korea cut the troop strength of its armed forces, now totaling about 700,000 men. The reduction would be accompanied by delivery to the South Korean army of more modern American weapons, thus increasing its firepower substantially. Officials said that the result of the streamlining operation, coupled with the re-equipping of the

Doldrums Hit District Court

Activities in 11th District Court dwindled to the lowest point in several months during June, Wade Choate, district clerk, reported Saturday. Only 28 civil suits were filed during the month and 22 were disposed of. There were 21 criminal cases reported into the court, and none in that category were disposed of. Of the civil suits filed, eight were for divorces and 20 involved other disagreements. Fifteen divorces were granted during June. Four other civil cases were closed without jury hearings and one was concluded by jury verdict. The court also granted two adoption requests and Choate assisted with the issuance of five passports.

Forsan Scouts At Buffalo Trail Camp

FORSAN, June 29—Members of the Forsan Boy Scout troop were among those attending the Buffalo Trail Scout Camp in the Davis Mountains during the past week. Making the encampment were Harry King, Leader Duffer, H. K. Elrod, Sammy Barnett, Bobby Dean Shelton, Danny Henry, Paul Brunson and Tommy Seward. They were accompanied by Scoutmaster Clifton Ferguson and Assistant L. M. Duffer.

two American divisions in South Korea with modern weapons, would produce in the end more effective defense forces. At the same time the streamlining holds the possibility of eventually cutting the cost of the United States assistance program to Korea. This amounted to 750 million dollars in the fiscal year now ending, the biggest amount of U.S. aid for any one country. The policy decision to seek a reduction in over-all size of the Republic of Korea forces is reported to have been made recently by the National Security Council, under the direction of President Eisenhower. As a proposal between allies, the United States desire to see the BOK troop strength cut is subject to negotiation with President Syngman Rhee's government at Seoul.

One Wallet Lost, Another Is Found

One billfold was found here Friday and another reported lost, but they were not the same. Lt. John Barnes at Webb told police officers that he lost a billfold sometime Thursday night. He did not specify where it was lost. Later Friday, Mrs. Ray Clark of San Angelo Highway, found a billfold and brought it to the police station. In it was identification for Rita Lumus of Lamesa. Also found was a bicycle. A patrolman found it in front of Higley Wigley Grocery early Saturday morning. It is an English-type bike.

Rocks Are Used To Damage Automobile

Richard Landon, 610 State, reported damage to his auto which appeared to have been done with rocks. The windshield and hood on his 1956 Oldsmobile was damaged sometime between 7 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday. The car was parked in front of his residence, he told police officers.

New England Feels Force Of Hurricane

BOSTON, June 29 (AP)—Hurricane Audrey, hurrying northeastward into Canada and the North Atlantic, slapped New England today breaking power and communication lines and driving yachts aground on the Maine coast. With gale-churned seas and southwest storm warnings flying from Block Island to Eastport, Maine, the Mayflower II, en route from the Pilgrim port of Plymouth, Mass., to New York City, delayed her voyage and remained snug in the harbor at Newport, R. I. Audrey headed into a low-pressure system as she whirled into a Vermont county on the Canadian border. An Air Force weather station at St. Albans clocked an 80-mile hurricane wind. Audrey loosed heavy rain, mowed down trees and telephone lines and blacked out power transmission in northwestern Vermont. The Weather Bureau at Boston said southwest storm warnings were displayed from Eastport to Block Island for southwesterly winds of 30 to 40 miles per hour this afternoon, diminishing tonight. Winds of 20 to 30 m.p.h. were forecast for tomorrow. On the coast of Maine, the 40-foot yawl Cresta out of Rye, N.Y., grounded with six persons upon the south end of Monhegan Island and, in winds mounting to 40 and 50 m.p.h., a small sloop went aground in Casco Bay. Maine areas around Portland reported temporary power losses from wind-damaged electric utility lines.

Smith, pastors of the Garden City churches, said everyone is invited to the services. Leading the singing will be Rev. Woodrow Williams, Matador.

Preliminary Okay Given Grant For Dawson Hospital

LAMESA, June 29—Dawson County officials received word of preliminary approval of a $400,000 grant from the federal government for construction of a 50-bed hospital here. Dawson County Judge Aubrey Boswell received word Friday from Senator Ralph Yarborough and Representative George Mahon that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare gave the preliminary sanction to the grant. Plans for the hospital will be ready in the near future for submission to the State Department of Health. County officials expect to have final state and federal approval in time to advertise for bids in September. Dawson County voters approved $400,000 for the hospital last year.

Illegal Sale Of Drug Is Alleged

A charge of illegally selling dextro-rine, described as one of the amphetamine drugs, was filed in County Court Friday against Alfred Collins. Complaint in the case was made by Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney, and the charge was filed by County Attorney John Richard Coffee. Collins was released under $500 bond. A preliminary hearing in the case has been set for next Friday, Coffee reported. He said George Thomas, attorney for the defendant, requested the hearing.

Death, Destruction, Misery Everywhere In Storm's Wake

By IRWIN FRANK GRAND CHENIER, La., June 29 (AP)—Come with me by helicopter to Grand Chenier—a place of misery and heartache. A man watched the body of his wife being brought in on a slab from the swamps. His two children still were missing. Two men dug graves for their mother and father after wrapping the victims in sacks and covering them with white sheets. Bodies floated near the town of Creole, the third day they had been in the water. Mothers held tightly to their children while wondering if their missing children were dead. Death, the destruction, the misery and above all, the smell, was everywhere the eye could see and everywhere the eardrums went. The copters have brought out almost all the live victims of the hurricane. Now the harder task, which offers no reward, that of removing the dead, begins. Norman McCall, 35-year-old latex Marine Service Co. worker of Grand Chenier, helped the last of the victims load into copters. He and three or four other men stayed behind. McCall had a reason for not wanting to leave. "My wife's body is in a boat somewhere down the highway," he said, "and I've got to stay here and try to find my kids. They died with my wife." His children, a girl, 5, and a boy, 2½, died while McCall was away from home helping a neighbor reach safety. "I saved four people and in doing so, I lost my family," he said. He was strangely unshaken and calm. Later, when friends carried Mrs. McCall's body to a little Catholic church in the center of what was once Grand Chenier, McCall cried for a moment. As helicopter after helicopter landed, taking victims away, McCall ran to the pilot and pleaded that they take his wife's body to Lake Charles so she could be buried. As helicopter after helicopter landed, asking the few who remained if they wished to be evacuated, McCall pleaded since they had no passengers, they carry his wife's body to Lake Charles for proper burial. But the pilots had been ordered to remove the living first and they left Grand Chenier without the corpse. While McCall stood near the church which had one wall swept away, two men headed toward the swamps where one of them thought he had seen McCall's daughter. In the little graveyard about 50 yards from the church, two men dug graves for their parents. Mack Vincent, 45, and Curley Vincent, 40, dug graves while the bodies of their mother and father lay not five feet from them wrapped in pieces of sack and covered with white sheets. After the graves were dug, the brothers hammered and sawed some old pine boards in an attempt to make a coffin. The men worked quietly, but when the copters landed nearby they pleaded for help in getting their parents buried properly. Among the last to load on the copters was Sherman May, 28, his wife and children and his parents. "The wife and children are all right, but we had no water, no food and no clothes and we've just got to get out of here. We're okay but I lost two sisters," he said. As he talked, his 60-year-old mother cried over the death of her two daughters. May laid his hand on her shoulder and said: "There ain't no use crying—we could all be dead."

20,000 Structures Will Need Repairs In Orange

ORANGE, June 29 (AP)—Some 200 Texas homes and buildings were destroyed or damaged severely by Hurricane Audrey, and nearly 20,000 will require at least minor repairs, the Red Cross said today. This assessment of state losses in the first hurricane of 1957 was advanced today in a preliminary summary by the organization while broad scale rescue and rehabilitation efforts were pushed across the state line in the devastated Lake Charles-Cameron, La., sector. Storm deaths in Texas stood at

8 Million Gals. Of Water Used

Thursday and Friday's water consumption here topped the eight million gallon mark for the first time this year. Thursday's usage was the bigger, however. That day, the city consumed 8,204,000 gallons, and then on Friday, it "dropped" to 8,243,000 gallons. The high figure created almost a six-million gallon span from the minimum reading of the month. The low consumption was on June 3 when 2,597,000 gallons were used. Total month's usage through Friday was 139,845,000 gallons or daily average of 4,972,000 gallons. Thursday's high for the month and year is still well below the all-time record set on July 17, 1956. That day, the city went through 8,731,000 gallons.

Accidents Involve Two Parked Cars

Of the four accidents occurring in Big Spring Friday, two involved parked cars. The 1955 Chrysler belonging to Corda Jones, 211 Audrey, was involved in an accident at Fourth and Presidio with a car driven by Joe B. Johnston, 611 W. 4th. Billy Mancill, 1002 Eleventh, had a 1950 Mercury parked at 1004 Eleventh which was in an accident with a vehicle driven by Bobby Jolles, 405 Washington. Robert Prichard, 1308 W. 5th, and Ernest Alexander, 1010 Bluebonnet, were drivers of cars colliding at Sixth and San Antonio. Shortly before midnight, Johnny Petty, Rt. 1, and Don Cyfert, Garden City, were in an accident in the 300 block of Northwest Third.

God! If only I knew my babies were safe." Her babies were a boy, 6 and girl 7. They are reported lost. "I climbed onto the roof of our house," she said, "the next moment I was hurled into space by the wind. I don't know how, I don't remember, but I grasped a willow tree. "I clung to the tree for nearly 12 hours. All around me there was nothing but water." She buried her face in her hands. Sobs shook her body. She wanted to be alone with her suffering. Walk silently by the row of army cots bearing the injured. Then pause to talk to Louis Landry, 39, a fisherman of Creole with a brother named Willis living in Houston. "I watched my niece hold on to a tree for nine hours," he says. "I don't know how she did it after she saw her baby swept away by the waters." Landry is in anguish. His back and legs are injured. Nurses and doctors work around the clock. It doesn't seem right to interrupt them. Mrs. Bill Campbell of Lake Charles tells you about men who saw their children perish in the angry waters. "There was one man," she says with a lump in her throat, "whose wife died in his arms. He clutched her body to his bosom for three hours. These are the people who have seen the dark angel. A common bond links them. It is the bond of suffering.

Many People Mourn Loss Of Children

By JOHN HARRIS Houston Chronicle Staff Written for The Associated Press LAKE CHARLES, La., June 29 (AP)—I talked with the people who have seen the black angel of death. They are here in a giant indoor sports arena. There are shadows over their hearts. An ill wind blew and took something from each of them: A child, a home, a fishing boat. Who can catalogue human values? Listen to Walter DuPuis, 21, of Grand Chenier. He is a father with an aching soul. "I was in my father's home with my daughter, Francis, 3. "The hurricane splintered the house. I clung to tree tops for three hours. "As I hung on for life, the body of my baby girl floated by." DuPuis recovered the body. A helicopter flew him, still clutching the lifeless body, here. Listen to Mrs. Cleveland Miller, 28, of Grand Chenier: "We were in bed early Thursday morning. Then a huge wave of wind and water struck our home. Yes, it was like awaking from a horrible dream. oh, including 9 men drowned in a fishing boat which went down off Galveston as the lethal hurricane still approached, a man swept away by the undertow in the Gulf of Mexico, and another electrocuted while repairing broken power lines at Orange. Officials at Red Cross in Austin said the estimates were still subject to revision. The Department of Public Safety put the Texas property loss at upward of six million dollars, including more than a million at Port Arthur and Beaumont, and $800,000 at Orange. Local estimates at Orange were still higher. Despite the heavy damage in their own state, Texans turned to for major roles in helping their harder-hit Louisiana neighbors. A number of injured were brought to the Orange Memorial Hospital. Relief was mobilized through such agencies as the Red Cross, S. M. 11 Business Administration and Federal Civil Defense Administration, and the 4th Army poured men, equipment and supplies into the Louisiana disaster area. The designation of Jefferson and Orange counties and eight Louisiana parishes (counties) as disaster areas by the Small Business Administration enabled owners of damaged homes and business places to apply for reconstruction loans bearing 3 per cent interest.

300 Inspect Big Troop Helicopter

Some 300 youngsters and adults went through an Air Force helicopter Thursday afternoon. The demonstration was staged just east of HCJC and was sponsored jointly by The Air Force, Conoco, and Whirlybirds television show. The Air Force troop carrier helicopter H-21 was here about an hour and a half. The copter was from Goodfellow AFB, San Angelo, but the trip was planned by the Air Force Advertising Section at Abilene. Other stops were made at Abilene and Sweetwater.

Woman Tortured By Holdup Pair
AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—Police said burglars threatened and tortured a woman early today for five hours, seeking to force her to say where she kept her valuables. Neighbors found Mrs. Hallo gagged and bound when they noticed a screen had been removed from a back window her house. She said the two thugs also burned her with a cigarette lighter after tying her to the iron posts of a bed. Detective Capt. K. R. Herbert said he believed the robbers had failed in their effort to locate any valuables. Mrs. Hallo, 63, who lives at the rear of her store, was

Speaker Cool To The Idea Of Special Term

AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—The idea of a special session of the Legislature in October, proposed by Gov. Price Daniel, got a cool reception today from Speaker Waggoner Carr. Carr suggested the possibility that the costs of putting on a special session itself might call for new taxes, which he opposes. It is quite possible, he said, "that the Treasury could not support the cost of a special session."

More water legislation, lobby registration, state bond refunding and crime prevention have been suggested by the governor as possible subjects for a recalled session. One of two major water-saving bond proposals was turned down by the regular session. It also balked at passage of tighter lobby control laws and left Daniel's statewide crime commission proposal stranded. Daniel said the regular session approved most of his program, but left the inference that he felt the lawmakers had passed by these other major issues. Carr emphasized complete opposition to any developments in a special session that might call for new taxes. He recalled that the regular session granted the largest appropriations in history, including teachers pay raises, and still avoided a new tax levy. "The people of this state appreciated the business-like manner in which funds were allocated and the fact that additional burdensome taxes were avoided," Carr said. He estimated the possible cost at $500,000. If the Treasury cannot support this, he said "much thought should be given to the subject of whether or not a special session is necessary and could be justified." The comptroller's office reported that the fund from which a special session's expenses would be paid now has a balance of $496,000.

Bond Issue For Webb Utilities Won't Increase City Tax Rate

Passage of the $50,000 city bond issue Tuesday will not bring additional taxes nor should it have any effect on current water rates. The election is slated to authorize bonds to help pay for water and sewer lines to Webb AFB. These lines will be needed when the housing area southeast of the present base is opened. The bonds are revenue issues and thus will not affect the tax situation, city officials reported. And a check to revenue now coming into the water and sewer department revealed that no additional charges will be needed to help pay off the bonds. When the Air Force announced it would build the 400 housing units at Webb, the government immediately announced it would need additional water and sewer facilities. This brought on a series of talks between city and federal officials which extended over a period of a year before an agreement was worked out. While these talks were in progress, a proposed route was picked out. The route of the water line will be from the Edwards Heights reservoir westward to FM 700 and thence around the northern side of

Stores Soaked By Water Line Break

A break in a water line at Second and Main caused water department crews to work some six hours before it was back on stream. The break also caused damage to nearby business establishments. The break was in an eight-inch main under the sidewalk on the north side of Second. It came about 1:45 a.m. Saturday and was reported to the police department by sheriff's deputies. Water crews were called, and after cutting off the water, they went to work. The cutoff closed all outlets from First to Fourth and from Goliad to Scurry. After closing the line, it was not opened until about 7:45 a.m. The split in the cast iron pipe ruptured a 13-foot, 10-inch section. Force of the split forced water out of the sidewalk and through the wall into the basement of the C. A. Walker Drug on the Second and Main corner. Later Walker estimated about $1,500 in surplus stock was damaged by the water. Other businesses in the area were also reported water-logged as a result of the break. No cause was found immediately, but crewmen suspected extremely high pressure in the line forced its way out a weak spot. Climb New Peak RAWALPINDI, Pakistan, June 29 (AP)—An Austrian expedition has conquered another Himalayan peak in the Karakoram range—26,440 Ft. Broad Peak. Rites In Vatican VATICAN CITY, June 29 (AP)—Solemn observances for the feast of St. Peter and St. Paul were held today in St. Peter's Basilica and two other Rome churches, where the remains of the two apostles reportedly were kept at one time.

area and also expansion in the undeveloped Edwards Estate area north of FR 700. The same is true of the sewage line, which will enable many developers south of Big Spring to have service. Broken down, these total costs will be about $90,000 for the 8,500-foot water line and $135,000 for the 23,266-foot sewer line. After consultations, the city and Air Force, drew up the contract by which the city would furnish $50,000 and the government the remainder up to $175,000. Should the work go over $225,000, the city would be required to pay the costs. But if it is less than that figure, the government will furnish the total minus the city's $50,000. The government is not giving the money; it is loaning it to the city, interest free. It will be paid back out of Webb water and sewer bills. The city will credit the government 17 per cent of each monthly bill toward retirement of the debt. The city's $50,000, if voted, will be paid off out of current water and sewer department revenue, but H. W. Whitney, city manager, said that it would not take a water rate hike to retire it. TWO ISSUES Voters Tuesday will be asked to vote for two separate bonds, a $20,000 issue for water line construction and $30,000 issue for sewer line work. The talk of increased water rates by the commission is aimed at only paying off the $175,000 without putting any bind on current operating funds. At the time the commission considered the bonds and the Air Force contract, mention was made about increasing the rates for customers using more than 200,000 gallons monthly. This rate would affect only about 30 customers, businesses and Webb AFB. At the present, a $3 minimum is charged for the first 3,000 gallons. The rate then goes to 35 cents per 1,000 gallons for usage under 100,000 gallons, dropping to 30 cents per 1,000 for the next 100,000 gallons. The last drop is then to 25 cents per 1,000 for over 200,000 gallons. If the city commission decides to make any change it would be to eliminate the drop to 25 cents and make all water over 100,000 gallons a straight 30 cents per 1,000. This, city officials claimed, would balance the 17 per cent credit out of the government's water bill.

There's Real Success Story Behind Gallant Man, Lowe

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Gallant Man, the game little Irish colt who undoubtedly wrapped up the 3-year-old championship when he broke the American record in winning the Belmont Stakes, never won the Kentucky Derby. But, he's probably more famous in his manner of losing the "Run for the Roses" when Jockey Willie Shoemaker misjudged the finish.

WILLIE SHOEMAKER

The Gallant Man story is a fantastic tale about a Missourian who went to Texas in 1928 and parlayed a service station into millions. It involves a one-time Nebraska cowboy who took a colt bred overseas by the fabulous Aga Khan, and trained him with an unswerving purpose—to win the Belmont Stakes.

"Of course, we were trying to win the Derby," said John Nerud, the dapper little trainer from Minnatare, Neb., who guides the destiny of Gallant Man and other horses owned by Ralph Lowe of Midland, Tex. "But, I have always wanted to win the Belmont, for you have to have a champion to do it."

"Mr. Lowe, Shoemaker, myself—all of Texas would have loved to have won that Derby. But it was one of those things, I never blamed Willie for standing up in the saddle, and neither did Mr. Lowe. It was one of those things that could happen to anybody."

"We had plenty of confidence in a great rider when he was retained for the Belmont." Maybe it was because Willie, who had won the Derby with Swaps, hails from Texas, down El Paso way.

There was no cause for nightmares on June 15, when Shoemaker let Eddie Arcaro and Bold Ruler set the fastest early race in the history of the Belmont. Bold Ruler tore off the first mile in 1:35 3/5, and clipped the mile and one quarter in 2:01 2/5.

The latter time, incidentally, remains the Derby record, set by Whirlaway in 1941—although on a different track. When Calumet's Iron Liege nosed out Gallant Man in the Derby May 4, his time was 2:02 1/5.

Then Gallant Man swooshed in—great—he doesn't care one little bit what you do to him. Look at him.

Lowe, now 54, migrated to West Texas in 1928 with his brother Ted from Ewing, Mo., near Hannibal. That was during the first oil boom in the Permian Basin.

He worked for Iverson Tool Co., Shell Oil, and opened a service station at Wink. In 1933 he moved to Midland and opened another service station.

He hit the jackpot in his first venture in oil drilling and producing—a 650-barrel per day well, returning $1,800 every 24 hours. He formed the Ralph Lowe Organization, and the Lowe Drilling Co. He still heads the Ralph Lowe Petroleum Co., with extensive Texas and New Mexico holdings.

In the early 1950s, he swung a deal with Magnolia, which brought him eight million dollars and put him in the forefront in the oil business. A couple of years ago he was one of the largest cotton growers in the country, with his place near Pecos.

Lowe's wife, Erma, a former school teacher, and his 11-year-old daughter, Mary Ralph, now are in Europe on a vacation.

He has about 33 horses running on American tracks, with some 60 horses in the Lowe stables with headquarters at Kent, in the Davis Mountains west of Midland. He also owns about 15 broodmares, scattered at farms in Kentucky, Texas and California.

to the lead with a quarter mile to travel in the mile and a half Belmont, and it was all over. He hit the finish eight lengths in front of Inside Tract, and Bold Ruler was third, another four lengths back. The time was 2:26 3/5 compared with Count Fleet's 1943 stakes record of 2:28 1/5, equalled by Citation in 1948.

No wonder thoroughbred racing is embracing a new darling, and Gallant Man is the greatest thing to come along for Lowe since he hit his first oil well.

He bought Gallant Man and eight other yearlings from the Aga Khan in 1955 for about $23,000. Gallant Man was rated about third best of the lot, Nerud recalled.

"He's not a real handsome horse, but there's one reason he may be

Basilio Tries Ray In Sept.

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Beaten by Ray Robinson at the conference table, welterweight champion Carmen Basilio today vowed to make it up in the ring when he fights for Sugar Ray's middleweight crown this September.

The scrappy, 30-year-old ex-Marine from Canastota, N. Y., predicted he would knock out Robinson. "I can knock out anybody I can hit and I can hit Robinson," said Basilio when informed that Robinson had agreed to meet him at a New York ballpark.

The tentative dates set by James

Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, were Sept. 16-17 at the Polo grounds or Sept. 23-24 at Yankee Stadium.

In order to meet the 37-year-old Robinson's demand for 45 per cent of the gate and home television or theater—television, Basilio yielded five per cent. Carmen had signed for 25 per cent earlier but he gave up five per cent because he was so eager to get Sugar Ray in the ring.

Norris had said he couldn't give the two fighters a total of more than 65 per cent.

"I wanted to get him into the ring and I'm glad the whole thing is settled," said Basilio. "I can make it up."

Norris expressed confidence that the fight would draw $750,000 at the gate and that the TV extra might yield another $250,000 for a million dollar gate. That would bring Robinson a gross of close to $450,000 and Basilio $200,000.

Robinson, as usual, declined to predict, saying only he expected a "very tough match." He hinted he would retire again if he wins.

Bookmakers made Basilio the 7-5 favorite even though he will spot Robinson about nine pounds, 150 to 151.

MIDDLECOFF, THOMSON HEAD BRITISH PLAY

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 29 (AP)—Golf-wise fans in this historic home of the game predicted today that the British Open Golf Championship starting Monday would be a two-man race between American star Dr. Cary Middlecoff and the defending champion Peter Thomson of Australia.

Thomson has won the last three years, taking over when bantam Ben Hogan, dubbed the "wee ice man" by the local gentry, did not defend his crown in 1954.

Since then, Thomson, 27, has gone into the tournament with the relaxed look of a champion and has played the part throughout. Even in practice rounds, Thomson has displayed overwhelming confidence.

But with Middlecoff in the field, the Aussie faces his toughest challenge during the past four years, and must face the strongest American challenge since Hogan, the master, delighted fans with his winning streak at historic Carnoustie in 1953.

Ostensibly, this doesn't bother

Dyess Defeats Webb In Two

Dyess AFB of Abilene swept a baseball series from Webb AFB here Saturday, winning, 13-7, after prevailing in Friday's contest, 10-8.

The Dusters collected 13 hits Saturday but could not contain the Dyess power.

Charles Bolen crashed out a first inning triple for the locals. Willis Knowles came in for a ninth inning home run. Nick Park-outh had a first inning homer and two singles.

Of the 12 hits the Dusters collected Friday, all were singles. Jay Hill had two of them, as did Dick Steiner and Jim Zapp.

Harris Is Named 'Boxer Of Month'

MILWAUKEE, June 29 (AP)—That feller from Cut And Shoot, Tex., name of Roy Harris today was named "Boxer of the Month" by the National Boxing Assn.

And, the NBA, in its regular monthly ratings, also saw fit to elevate him from tenth to fifth in the list of heavyweight contenders.

Harris, a school teacher, punched his way into the fistic limelight with an upset victory over Willie Pastrano of New Orleans recently. Harris also holds a decision over Bob Baker. Pastrano was ranked sixth.

Clover Bowl, Big Spring's newest athletic facility, situated on U.S. Highway 57 immediately south of town, will be formally opened at 12 noon today. The super-imposed shot above shows the sign which greets callers upon arriving at the kegging palace and a sweep of the alley. At the right, Hank Noschowski, AMF official in charge of installing the establishment's 18 automatic pin-setters, explains the operation to Ray Anderson of Abilene, a bowling enthusiast. The two are sitting behind one of the new bowling ball retrievers.

Panthers Tangle With Abilenians

The Big Spring Panthers go after their third baseball win in five starts this afternoon in Steer Park, at which time they entertain the Abilene Brown Eagles. The umpire will signal the start of play at 3 p.m.

Manager Elias Gamboa has a nominated seasoned Gus Fierro for starting mound duties. He'll have Danny Valdes and Bobby Beal for relief slab chores, in event they're needed.

Abilene will bring a good record here and should be tough to contain. A loss to the Eagles would drop the Panthers' won-lost percentages below .500.

The Panthers were to have played Midland here last Sunday but the weather cancelled out the game.

Gamboa will have an outfield composed of former professional players. They are Jim Zapp, Al Valdes and Tito Arenencia.

Arenencia is a former hurler who has been limiting his activity to play in the infield and outfield this year. Valdes is better known as a catcher. Zapp is the hard hitting manager of the Webb AFB team.

The Panthers will have Pat Martinez at first base, either Buck Drake or Andy Gamboa at second, Jimmy Fierro at shortstop, Guy Lara at third base and Sonny Dutchover behind the plate.

Admission price for the game has been pegged at 50 cents. In their last two starts, the Panthers split with San Angelo's Grayhounds, losing the first one but coming back to win the second one.

Gamboa himself will be in uniform this afternoon, in event he's needed. Tacho Martinez and Tommy Arista are other Panthers who may play.

Rifleman Smith Very Exacting

DALLAS, June 29 (AP)—Bob Smith is pretty critical when it comes to rifles. He wants his shooting irons to put every bullet in a circle the size of a half dollar at 200 yards.

Of course, to make him really happy, they'd put every bullet in the same hole at any range, but that bit of perfection is still a long way off. However, "we're getting the groups tighter all the time," the tall, athletic marksman said with a grin.

For those who think Old Betsy's mighty accurate when she'll bust a tomato can at about 300 paces, Smith said that no mass-produced rifle will approach minute-of-angle accuracy. That means, roughly, a rifle will keep its bullets in an inch circle at 100 yards, two inches at 200, and so on, he explained.

Smith's rifles are almost capable of half-minute-of-angle accuracy. With sure, deliberate movements, he assembled parts of a weird, heavy rifle with a very thick barrel.

"That other rifle I showed you has had a lot of rounds fired through it. I won the Texas Bench rest rifle shooter's championship with it this year, but its fine edge of accuracy is fading. "That one weighs about 20 pounds. This is one, I guess, will run a good deal more when I get it finished."

Malzone Spurs Boston To Win

BOSTON, June 29 (AP)—Firehose Frank Malzone, Red Sox rookie third baseman, drove in six runs on three hits including a grand slam homer today as Boston defeated Detroit 12-4.

The stubby infielder continued his blistering batting pace to help Boston tighten its hold on its new win fourth place in the American League. The victory moved the Sox a game and a half ahead of the Tigers.

Malzone brought home single runs on a double and a single in addition to the first inning slam which settled matters at the outset.

Malzone lifted his batting average six points to .327 and upped his runs batted in mark to 50—near the top of the league in that department.

Ted Lepcio and Jackie Jensen drove in three runs apiece to account for the remainder of the Boston runs.

Princess Turia, ridden by Willie Hartack, stepped the mile and one-quarter in 2:05 and paid $9.50, $1.50 and $1.50 to her backers in the crowd of 22,679 for her second victory in Delaware Park's three rich stakes for distaff members of the turf. Jack Shaffer, chief deputy sheriff, examines a steel and brass cylinder which oil field workers southwest of Coahoma thought might be the radioactive "capsule" lost by a Midland oil well service firm Thursday. Jack Sheedy of Coahoma found the cylinder on FM 321 near U.S. 80 east of Coahoma. It is still unidentified, but Shaffer said it didn't fit the description of the missing Midland cylinder. Several Coahomans breathed a sigh of relief, for they had been handling the object. Had it been the radioactive capsule, they might have suffered dangerous radiation "burns."

New System For Adjusting Of Prices May Be Taking Shape

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, June 29 (AP)—A new system for adjusting prices may be developing within the oil industry. A half dozen companies have boosted products prices. Increased labor costs, at least in part, have been passed on to consumers almost at once. The price hikes have been made despite some fears that inventories are too high. Gasoline prices were reported to rise on a number of communities in recent weeks. Like other industries, the new price adjustments are in line with a change some operators, particularly among independents, have been seeking for months. They want the oil industry to follow the practice of other industries of boosting prices in proportion to increased costs as the higher expenditures develop. Many operators contend that had such a policy been followed for crude prices the adverse reaction to a 25-cent per barrel increase in January, the first since 1953, would never have developed. Sinclair, Continental, and Gulf are among the companies which have boosted wholesale prices of gasoline, kerosene and light fuel oils two-tenths of a cent a gallon and heavy fuel oils five cents a barrel. These higher prices are required to cover the higher cost, said Harry Kennedy, Continental vice president. Gulf said its increases were "forced by recent increases in wages and other employee benefits." A six per cent wage increase, retroactive to May 1, has become a result of negotiations with the Oil Workers Union. Most companies increased salaries of non-union employees before the union negotiations were completed.

action to curtail imports is "imperative" and added that Congress would have to act if effective executive steps are not taken. The overall business activity index was up 3 per cent over May 1956. It also was up 6 per cent in April over March and gained a 3 per cent more in May over April. "Exceptions were crude petroleum production, crude oil runs to stills and electric power consumption," said Francis May of the University of Texas Business Research Bureau. For crude oil production where importers plan to bring in 1,466,528 barrels daily during June, May says, "Texas has reached a critical point in the history of a multi-billion dollar industry." May said the import figure for June — 1,466,528 barrels daily — is a $3,981 a day increase from the forecast made last month. July imports are expected to amount to 1,533,744 barrels a day, up 95,751 from the forecast. August imports are anticipated to be 1,516,894 barrels a day, up 76,263. The Railroad Commission has slashed July allowable production by 390,449 barrels a day. This allowable is nearly 800,000 barrels a day below the record high level for the last week of March.

DEEP EXPLORATION BEGUN IN NORTH MARTIN COUNTY

The Texas Company's new wildcat venture in Martin County drilled this weekend below 500 feet. At the drillsite, eight miles northwest of Lenora, Texas. No. 1 Lou Ida Hatchett drilled Saturday at 572 feet in redbeds. The location is 1,650 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines, 23-36-3n, T&P Survey. It will explore to 11,900 feet.

New Locations And Producer Reported

Two new locations and a new well were announced in the Howard-Glasscock field of Howard County this week. In the same field across the Mitchell County line, Cosden completed a well. Humble No. 1-B E. W. Douthitt is a new location 330 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from west lines, 121-29, W&NW Survey, and about four miles east of Forsan. It will try the Yates to 1,500 feet. Duncan Drilling No. 3 Mary Douthitt will drill to 1,400 feet in the Yates. It is also in the Howard-Glasscock field 990 feet from south and east lines, 116-29, W&NW Survey. NEW WELL The new well in the field is Continental No. 51-A Settles, which produced from the San Andres. The well pumped 269 barrels of oil and three per cent water on 24-hour potential. Gravity is 32 degrees. Operator fractured with 8,000 gallons before testing. The well is a mile and a half southwest of Forsan, 330 feet from south and east lines, 134-29, W&NW Survey. The San Andres perforations are from 2,440-50 feet. On the Mitchell side of the field, Cosden was to spud a well this weekend which it took as a farmout from Humble. The project is on a 160-acre lease. SHALLOW PRODUCER Cosden also completed the No. 10 Otis Chalk in the Yates section of the Howard-Glasscock field, but potential was not reported. The well is 330 feet from north and 1,681 feet from east lines, 90-29, W&NW Survey, 12 miles southeast of Coahoma. Also this weekend, Cosden had set oil string and fractured preparatory to finishing the No. 11 Otis Chalk. It is 1,850 from south and 2,341 feet from east lines, 90-29, W&NW Survey, 12 miles southeast of Coahoma. Cosden No. 12 Chalk was spudding Saturday. It is 990 feet from south and east lines, 90-29, W&NW Survey, 12 miles southeast of Coahoma. This venture completes the 220-acre lease. In Ward County, Cosden No. 1 J University drilled below 4,400 feet. Production from the Gardner line appeared assured for Cosden No. 1 Kierin, stepout in the Gardner lime field near Blackwell in Nolan County. Operator was perforating and preparing to frac opposite 12-foot of pay in the lime. There were also heavy gas shows from the Gardner sand, underlying the lime.

Drilling in the United States and Western Canada made its most substantial gain of the season last week. On the June 24 report by Hughes Tool Company to the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, 2,786 rotary rigs were shown in action. This was 87 more than for the previous week. The U. S. total was 2,564, which announced for 81 of the week's gain. Texas, with 1,040 rigs gained 58. Canada had 221 rigs going, a gain of six. A week ago the rig total was 2,699, a month ago 2,387 and a year ago 2,994.

Shallow Location Set In Mitchell

Midland operators have located a new try in the Sharon Ridge 1700 field of Mitchell County. The new location is Ector Water Company of Midland No. 2 Edmondson and is about three miles southeast of Ira. Drillsite is 330 feet from south and 990 feet from west lines, 31-7, O'Keefe Subdivision, Kirkland & Fields Survey. It is on a 140-acre lease and will drill with cable equipment to 1,750 feet. The venture is a wildcat being redrilled. It was drilled originally as the Shell No. 1 TXL to a depth of 9,920 feet and plugged and abandoned. Location is about nine miles northeast of Garden City, and a mile and a half northeast of the one-well Garden City field. Drillsite is 918 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines, 3-32-3s, T&P Survey.

Cosden Seeks Third Pay In Ector Sector

Cosden No. C-1-D University, re-entry of an abandoned Ellenburger venture, is trying over the weekend for Glorieta production between 4,500 and 4,600 feet in the Penwell field of Ector County. Operator set plug in the hole drilled originally by Buddy Fogelson to a depth of 9,000 in the Ellenburger in 1946. The casing was being perforated opposite the Glorieta in an effort to develop a third section in the field. Most of the other tests have been producing from the San Andres. The operation is on an 80-acre lease Cosden acquired more than two decades ago. It is about a half a mile from the Kloth lease where Cosden recently completed the No. 5-A Kloth, a replacement well for the No. 5 Kloth, for 120 barrels per day. Cosden No. 7 Kloth, on the same lease, completed for 108 barrels flowing. In Ward County, Cosden No. 1 J University drilled below 4,400 feet. Production from the Gardner line appeared assured for Cosden No. 1 Kierin, stepout in the Gardner lime field near Blackwell in Nolan County. Operator was perforating and preparing to frac opposite 12-foot of pay in the lime. There were also heavy gas shows from the Gardner sand, underlying the lime.

Borden Test Flows Heavily

A well in the Jo-Mill (Spraberry) field of Borden County flowed over 950 barrels of oil on potential. The producer is the Texas Company No. 15-A-NCT-7 W. L. Miller about 15 miles southwest of Gall. It is on a 940-acre lease, 1,900 feet from north and east lines, 23-33-4n, T&P Survey. On 24-hour potential test, it flowed 968 barrels of oil and only two per cent water. Gravity measured 33.6 degrees, and the gas-oil ratio is 605-1. Operator acidized with 500 gallons before taking final test. The well produced from Spraberry perforations from 7,260-312 feet. About six miles northeast of Luther, Larjo Oil and Gas No. 1-C Collins deepened to 4,471 feet in lime Saturday. The wildcat venture is 662 feet from the south and 1,971 feet from east lines, 32-31-3n, T&P Survey. It is an 8,000-foot Pennsylvaniaian test. Texaco No. 1-E Clayton, a wildcat about 14 miles southwest of Gall, progressed to 4,935 feet in lime. The explorer is drilling to the Ellenburger at 8,400 feet. Location is 2,083 feet from north and 613 feet from west lines, 44-32-4n, T&P Survey.

Howard Venture Nears Pay Zone

Operator neared production depth at a venture in the Snyder field of eastern Howard County this weekend. The project is Turner-Koger No. 1 TXL and is about seven miles southeast of Coahoma. Saturday, operator reported drilling at 2,610 feet. It is a 3,000-foot venture. The location is 330 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of the northwest quarter, 33-30-1s, T&P Survey. In the nearby Iatan East Howard field, Blue Danube No. 1 W. R. Read set four and half-inch string at 2,750 feet. The location is 330 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter, 47-30-1n, T&P Survey, and five miles east of Coahoma.

Pecos Prospector To Begin At Once

Drilling will begin immediately on a wildcat in Pecos County. The new operation is William K. Davis No. 1 Robertson about 12 miles southwest of Imperial. Drillsite is 990 feet from the northeast and 330 feet from the southeast lines, 28-10, H&GN Survey. Operator will explore to 7,200 feet.

Free World Output Hits 15½ Million

TULSA, June 29 (AP)—Crude oil production in the free world rose to a record 15,542,500 barrels daily in April, the Oil and Gas Journal said today. A survey shows the total gain of 243,500 barrels daily was achieved despite declines in the United States and Venezuela. The record production is the third in a row. Countries other than the United States produced a total of 8,001,500 barrels daily, a gain of 419,500. These same areas had passed eight million barrels only twice earlier. U.S. output averaged 7,541,000 barrels daily, down 176,000. Venezuelan production dropped 2,300 barrels to 2,921,300. Middle East output rose to within 81.3 per cent of October. Total output averaged 3,140,000 barrels daily—a gain of 375,000 barrels.

Congressmen Applaud Call For New Study Of Imports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oil - state congressmen generally welcomed President Eisenhower's call this week for a new study of oil imports. Some Democratic criticism was sounded to the action as "baited" and "delaying." Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) said the President "still further postpones decision and action by appointing another cabinet committee to determine a fact which has too long been painfully apparent both to the President and every member of the committee he has appointed. I am glad that at long last he has done that much." Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), calling for a "positive" program to control imports, expressed confidence the committee would make "a diligent attempt" to solve the issue. Rep. Steed (D-Okla.) said he feared the study would amount to "another delaying tactic" but hoped he was wrong "and something would come out of it." The President named a six-man cabinet committee, headed by Secretary of Commerce Weeks, to determine whether oil is being imported "in such quantities as to threaten to impair the national security." Under the tariff laws, he has the power to curb imports if they endanger defense - essential industries in this country. Sen. Carlson (R-Kan.) commended the presidential action and called for an early report by the committee because, he said, the situation is "critical." He said early

More Testing In Ellenburger

Operators prepared to perforate at a different depth in the Ellenburger at a Glasscock County wildcat this weekend. At the TXL Oil Company No. 1-B Glasscock Fee, operator squeezed off perforations in the Ellenburger from 9,716-42 feet but prepared to re-perforate higher in the same section. Earlier in the week, the hole produced 37 barrels of oil from the Ellenburger after operator fractured with 2,000 gallons. The oil was accompanied by 76 barrels of load oil and 67 barrels of salt water however. The venture is a wildcat being redrilled. It was drilled originally as the Shell No. 1 TXL to a depth of 9,920 feet and plugged and abandoned. Location is about nine miles northeast of Garden City, and a mile and a half northeast of the one-well Garden City field. Drillsite is 918 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines, 3-32-3s, T&P Survey.

Texas Oil At Critical Point

AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—Business barometers in Texas generally indicated "continued fair weather," the Bureau of Business Research said today, warning that "a critical point" has been reached in the oil industry. The overall business activity index was up 3 per cent over May 1956. It also was up 6 per cent in April over March and gained a 3 per cent more in May over April. "Exceptions were crude petroleum production, crude oil runs to stills and electric power consumption," said Francis May of the University of Texas Business Research Bureau. For crude oil production where importers plan to bring in 1,466,528 barrels daily during June, May says, "Texas has reached a critical point in the history of a multi-billion dollar industry." May said the import figure for June — 1,466,528 barrels daily — is a $3,981 a day increase from the forecast made last month. July imports are expected to amount to 1,533,744 barrels a day, up 95,751 from the forecast. August imports are anticipated to be 1,516,894 barrels a day, up 76,263. The Railroad Commission has slashed July allowable production by 390,449 barrels a day. This allowable is nearly 800,000 barrels a day below the record high level for the last week of March.

Population Is Red Chinese Headache

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—The China mainland groans, feeding 600 million people. Most work the land. They farm with wooden ploughs, primitive fertilizers, and the waterwheel. Nearly all are bitterly poor. The population is constantly increasing, an estimated 12 to 13 million more births than deaths per year. How will Red China support its multiplying millions? That the Communists must solve. It is potentially the most dangerous of all their problems. And this is the crux of the debate in the Free World today over the move to ease controls on trade with Peiping. Britain and West Germany intend to broaden the base of their exports to Red China. Other major trading nations may follow. The United States is holding fast to the total embargo on trade with the Reds. But there is talk in Washington about a shift in American policy. Perhaps the most important consideration is this: By widening the range of exports to China, will the free world be helping the Reds to industrialize, to create jobs, to take more people off their overburdened land, to win their race against time? The official American answer is "yes." The British feel the embargo has not seriously hurt the Communist program in China, and that ending it will not materially assist them to solve the perennial problem of want. The tidal waves of rebellion that swept China in the last century were stirred, in large part, by economic misery. Eventually, they engulfed the Imperial Government. Nobody expects a sudden rebellion against the Reds today. But a high State Department officer said: "The Chinese Communists are in terrible shape. Their five-year plan is hopelessly bogged down. They're not getting anywhere trying to industrialize. They've got trouble piling up on all sides. At Geneva, the very first thing they asked was that the American embargo be lifted. Why? Because to build factories and industry, they need things that they can't get in quantity anywhere but in the free world. In short, our policy is just beginning to pay off. It's too bad if any government comes up on the Chinese at this point." President Eisenhower said recently: "I don't see as much advantage in maintaining the differential between trade with Red China and with the Soviet bloc as some people do, although I have never advocated its complete elimination."

Week Brings 277 New Texas Wells

AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 277 oil wells were brought in this week in Texas to lift the year total to 7,989. A year ago, the total was 8,469. The commission said there were 25 gas wells completed last week, 143 dry holes, 6 oil wells brought in on unproven land, and a total 196 wells plugged. This date in 1956 there were 885 gas wells completed compared to 919 for this year. The daily allowable increased 16,825 barrels daily to 3,447,712 during the week.

OF THE COSDEN FAMILY . . .

ROBERT SATTERWHITE

This is the third in a new series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

Robert Satterwhite was born in Big Spring November 20, 1916, and has spent all his life in West Texas. When he was only eight years old, his father, who served as sheriff of Howard County about five years, was killed in a manhunt for a murderer.

Following his graduation from Big Spring High School, where he played football under former coach, now State Representative Obie Bristow, Satterwhite attended Draughon's Business College in Abilene, finishing in 1935, and completed a correspondence course with the International Accountants Society of Chicago.

After receiving his diploma, Satterwhite worked for the State National Bank here for three years, for the First National Bank in Midland a year, and for the First National Bank here for two years before joining Cosden on March 16, 1942. His first job was as clerk in the credit department, and after a year he transferred to the accounting department where, today, he is general accounting supervisor. In recognition of his ability and outstanding record, Mr. Satterwhite was, on June 19, 1957, at the directors meeting in New York, elected assistant treasurer of Cosden.

Mr. and Mrs. Satterwhite, the former Miss Bobbie Gordon, whom he married in 1937, have two children, Billy Bob, 18, a high school senior serving as senior life guard at the Cosden pool this summer, and Lana Jean, 9. They are members of the First Methodist Church.

The last 15 years have been the most enjoyable period in his life. Sitting in his spacious office, Satterwhite can recall his early days with Cosden when the offices had neither air conditioning nor window screens. "We used to eat lunch holding a sandwich in one hand and a fly swatter in the other . . . But if you're going to work in West Texas, you sure get a break working for Cosden."

This year's cotton crop will be more spotted than any in the last 10 years. In almost every community one sees cotton of various ages, and there are some places where it is not even up yet.

A lot of blowing has occurred in the sandier communities. Farmers were still planting at Lenora Thursday. Also planters were running south of Stanton and in other spots.

F. Springer who farms west of Lenora said Sunday's wind burnt 60 acres had blown out, while another one not far away was growing up in weeds. Probably the farmer got tired of planting so many times and just gave up.

Ralph White says cotton around Coahoma is beginning to grow a little faster now. There was very little damage from last Sunday's storm, but quite an acreage was lost about two weeks ago. White lost about 100 acres northwest of town then, but the crop south of Coahoma escaped damage.

A. C. Kloven, local ginmer, made a quick trip to San Angelo and Ballinger last week, and says

Few Farmers Make Decisions On Controls

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Small minorities of farmers are making decisions on federal crop control programs.

Wheat growers voted in a referendum June 20 on a marketing quota program that restricted plantings and provided a penalty tax of about $1.09 a bushel—or slightly more than the current average farm price—on grain sold or used in excess of a farm's quota.

The program was designed to hold down production during a period when warehouses were filled with surpluses. Approximately 950,000 commercial producers of wheat were eligible to vote in this election. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting was required to make the control program effective.

But of these 950,000 farmers, only about 200,000 voted—some 21 per cent. The control program got the "yes" votes of about 165,000 growers. This was about 17 per cent of the total.

In other words about a sixth of the growers determined conditions under which next year's wheat crop will be grown. The remainder in a similar referendum last December, growers voted on marketing quotas on this year's upland cotton crop. This program held the cotton acreage to less than half of what it used to be. Approximately 1,275,000 farmers were eligible to vote. But only 226,000 or not quite 18 per cent took the trouble to cast ballots.

This number, 209,000 approved the control program. They represented only about 16 per cent of the affected growers.

In an election on restrictive quotas on extra long staple cotton, 4,738 growers were eligible, but only 888 cast ballots.

A referendum on quotas on this year's rice crop brought out a slightly larger turnout. Here about 23 per cent of the 30,000 growers voted with about 21 per cent determining that controls should be in effect.

An even smaller minority determined this year's corn program. What is the explanation for this apparent apathy?

Farm officials say much of it may reflect a feeling that controls are necessary in view of agriculture's ability to overproduce, and an accompanying confidence on the part of the stay-at-homes that those who do vote will approve the restrictions.

Certainly the alternatives set before growers when they vote do not invite a rejection of controls. Under farm law as it now stands, prices of crops subject to controls must be supported between 75 and 90 per cent of parity if quotas are approved. But if they are rejected, the supports must be set at 50 per cent of parity.

This difference in the price support level doubtless has contributed to the fact that of the 50 referendums held on quotas on cotton, wheat, tobacco, rice and peanuts since 1938, only 13 rejected quotas. All but one of these were on tobacco controls, and here they covered mostly minor types. The one exception was rice in 1938.

Jet Crashes After Pilot Hits The Silk

WARNER ROBINS, Ga., June 29 (AP)—An Air Force Thunderjet from Texas crashed and burned about one-quarter of a mile from a densely populated residential area today after the pilot bailed out.

Col. Carlos Talbot of Foster AFB at Victoria, the pilot, said he had a "flameout" at 27,000 feet and couldn't restart the engine. He ejected himself at about 8,000 to 10,000 feet and parachuted down into an open field about 10 miles west of the town.

Talbot, en route from Shaw AFB, S.C., to Foster AFB, was not hurt seriously. The plane slammed to earth, burst into flames and skidded about 1,500 feet, missing a church about 300 feet.

Blue Quail's Habitat Is In The S'west

By GORDON C. CREELE

In our section of the country we are often privileged to have a look at the blue quail. Frequently they scurry across highways and scatter into the weeds with great speed.

Hunters enjoy both the sport of bagging quail and eating them as they make a rare delicacy for the table. The hunter may well feel proud of a well-earned bag because quail can run faster than a man can walk. They are widely scattered over rough country where walking may be slow and difficult.

The blue quail or Arizona scaled quail, Callipepla squamata pallida, is found all over the Mexican plateau which extends out of Mexico into southern Arizona, New Mexico and West Texas. At the mouth of canyons where underground streams provide seepage or anywhere there is moisture, quail may be suspected to be living.

LIKES PLATEAU COUNTRY

"It shuns timbered country but is characteristic of the barren plateaus where the soil is fine, loose and sandy; broad, dry, arid washes, gulches, and semi-barren plateaus of the hills where hard ground is covered with a few thorny bushes, scattered scrub oak, generally in the vicinity of water, but sometimes miles from any stream or pond." (Simmons)

In the instances when scaled quail have been observed living far away from watering places they are known to go to the water in the late afternoon. Good clear water seems to be a necessity to them.

This species has been reported in parts of New Mexico living around the ranches picking up grain left from feeding the horses, or even feeding side by side with the chickens.

WONT TRANSPLANT

Attempts have been made to transplant them to other regions but generally the efforts were failures. They were introduced into Louisiana, Florida, Georgia, and Washington without success. As far as is known the only successful effort was made at Colorado Springs, and Canon City, Colo. From these two points of release the birds have spread and increased until they are now common from the area around Pueblo eastward to the Kansas state line.

The scaled quail is much like the bobwhite in size and shape except that it is larger. It ranges from 9 1/2 to 12 inches in length. Its color is generally bluish. The feathers of the neck, back and breast are arranged in such a fashion as to appear scaled. The underparts are grayish white and some of the feathers are spotted or barred with gray. The male and female are colored alike. The pale ash head is adorned with a white-tipped crest. From this accessory to its stately carriage comes its nickname—"cotton-top."

NEST WHERE CONVENIENT

The molt into the first winter plumage occurs in September and October. It is a complete molt except for the outer primaries on each wing. Young birds are almost impossible to distinguish from adults during the first winter and spring except for these retained outer primaries. Adult birds molt partially in spring and completely in the fall.

Nests which have been found usually under shelter of some low bush. A hollow is made and lined with whatever dry grass is available. Where a haystack is convenient, they are likely to make a nest in it and lay there like a domestic hen. They have been known to make their nest under tomato vines in gardens. About two years ago Leslie Barr at Vincent found one nesting in an overturned gallon bucket near the lane which leads to his house.

PROLIFIC LAYERS

Eight to 16 smooth, oval-shaped, thick-shelled eggs are laid in a clutch. They are white or cream colored, sometimes speckled with brown. The hen incubates the eggs.

Incubation of the eggs lasts 21 days. Two or three broods are thought to be raised in a season. The babies are able to follow the mother a few hours after hatching. They are advantageously colored to blend with their surroundings. The hen employs techniques similar to domestic hens to protect her young. The food of the young consists of wild berries, seeds and insects.

The scaled quail eats more insect food than any other quail. It has been proved that this amounts to over 29 per cent of their diet, the other 70 per cent consisting of vegetable matter. The principal insects consumed are grasshoppers and ants.

EAT WEED SEED

Half of the vegetable matter eaten is weed seeds. They seem to enjoy green leaves and tender shoots. As might be expected, since they inhabit the prickly pear country, they are fond of its fruit. These fruits as well as berries of various kinds are thought to serve in part as a water substitute, especially in desert areas. It is interesting to note that crops of scaled quail examined by Texas wildlife authorities contained very small quantities of mesquite seeds.

The scaled quail is a decidedly terrestrial or ground loving bird with powerful legs which it uses for making a fast get-away. It prefers to escape by running rather than by flying. If in a flock, they sometimes follow a leader in Indian style, but more often they scatter in different directions.

SAND BATHS

They love a sandy table land where they spend a considerable amount of time dusting or taking sand baths. In the evenings they collect along small ridges and call out to each other. They congregate at night and sleep in a covey. During the day they frequently alight in trees but roost on the ground at night.

The call of this quail is not as famous as his bob white cousin to the east, but it is nonetheless distinctive. The notes are a single, low, long-drawn whistle—a nasal "pay-cos." The young make a peeping sound similar to young chickens.

NATURAL ENEMIES

Protective coloration and their behavior both serve to shield them from their enemies. But in many areas there is not sufficient cover for protection. Hawks, roadrunners, snakes, skunks, coyotes, and bobcats take their toll of these birds or their eggs. Hail, cold rains, and severe winter weather also deplete their numbers.

Probably the most important management need is stricter enforcement of the hunting limit laws. Different counties have different seasons for quail hunting, but would-be hunters should inform themselves on season dates, bag limits and shooting hours. An informed and conscientious public can go a long way toward protecting this game bird.

Harold Rosson Is Released By Army

Harold Rosson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rosson, arrived in Big Spring Friday from San Francisco, where he received his discharge from the U.S. Army. He has been stationed for 18 months in Yokohama, Japan, with the Engineers Supply Center. He plans to remain in Big Spring and go in business with his father.

Princeton's Prexy Has Lots Of Poise

By SAUL PETT

PRINCETON, N.J., June 29 (AP)—In the Ivy League, where poise is almost as crucial as unpadded shoulders, Robert Frances Goheen ranks high among men not visibly shaken by fate.

Today, at 37, Goheen is an assistant professor of classics at Princeton University. Monday, still only 37, he will rocket up through several layers of academic stratosphere and officially become president of Princeton University, the youngest such in 200 years.

"Is he scared?" "You bet I am," Goheen says. But he doesn't show it. His poise is remarkable.

On Dec. 7, 1936, when his elevation to the presidency was announced, Goheen scarcely dropped a stitch. He delivered his regular lecture in Classics 317. The only departure from prepared text was a single reference to the big event: "You know, gentlemen, standing here, I realize what I'm going to miss." With that, he returned to the subject of Athenian dramatic festivals.

After the formal lecture, he conducted his "precept"—a small student discussion group—as usual. He carried the discussion right on to the last assigned moment, left promptly and therefore arrived a few minutes late at a meeting of the university board of trustees, where he was officially informed of his promotion.

The university spent a year seeking a successor to President Harold Dodds, who retires at the compulsory retirement age of 68. Hundreds of potential candidates were screened. One, a Princeton graduate named Adlai Stevenson, might have been considered if he were younger. The faculty screening committee unanimously endorsed Goheen for his brilliant abilities as a teacher, scholar and administrator.

The fact that Goheen was graduated from Princeton in 1940 with highest honors was not held against him.

The new president could be mistaken for a graduate student. He stands 5 feet 10, weighs a trim 150, has dark crew-cut hair and dresses with appropriate casualness.

Influenza Is Most Prevalent Disease

Influenza was the leading disease reported to the Howard County Health Unit last week with 44 cases.

Other diseases were diarrhea 38, tonsillitis 18, upper respiratory 10, mumps 8, measles 7, strep-throat 6, gastroenteritis and bronchial pneumonia 4 each, gonorrhea 2 and syphilis, chickenpox, encephalitis, polio and infectious hepatitis 1 each.

JUST A MATTER OF CURIOSITY was the reason for measuring former winners of the beauty pageants presented by members of the Business and Professional Women's Club. Ruth Dyer, chairman of the entrants' committee, measures Mrs. Bob Wall to see if her size has altered since she was Miss Big Spring of 1953. She is the former Sue Zolinger. Kenda McGibbon, Miss Big Spring of 1954, waits for her personal inventory.

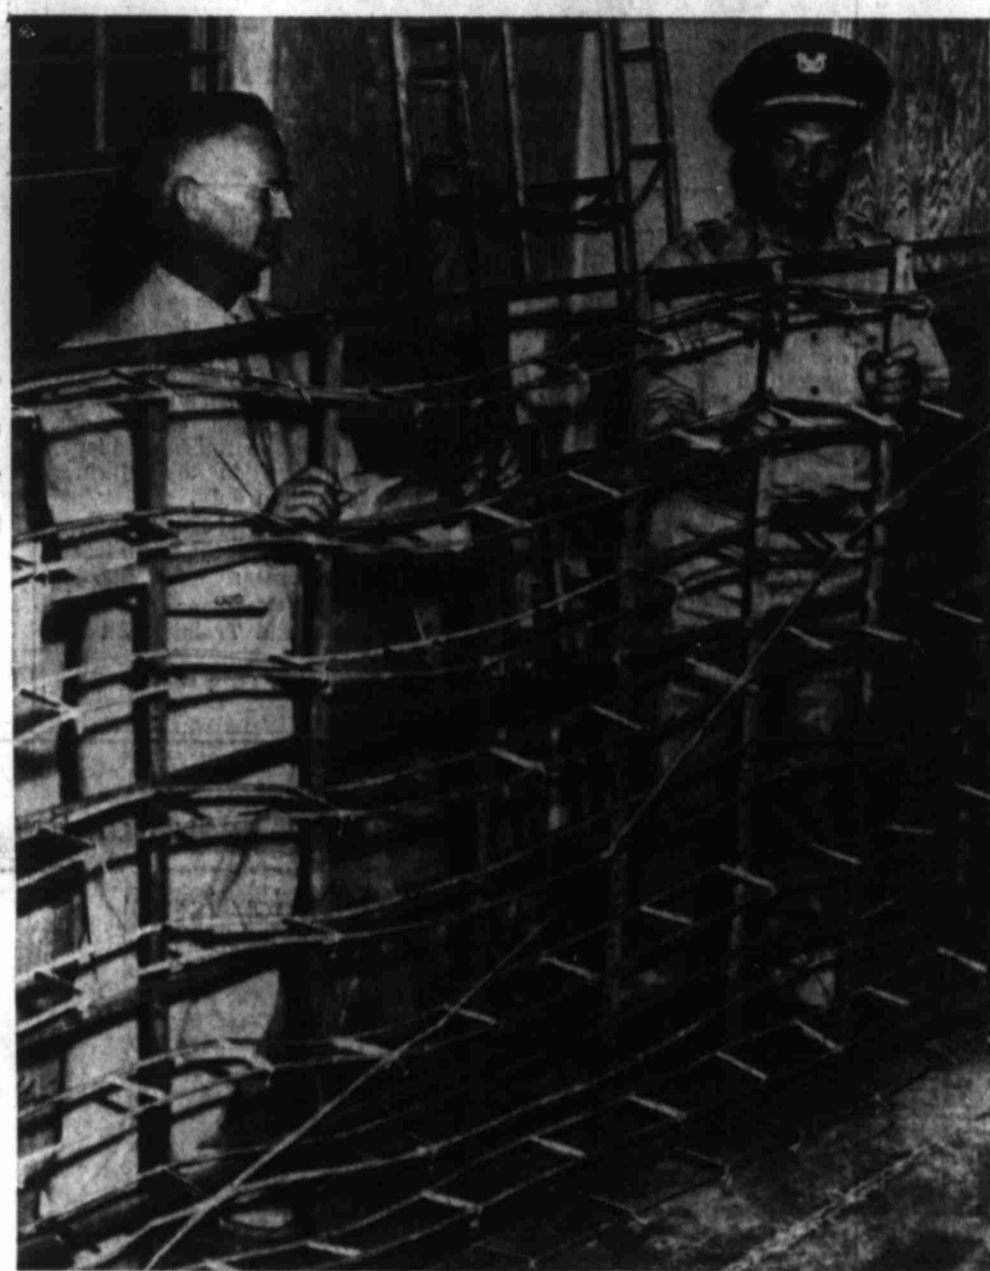

AN ANNUAL TASK for members of the Business and Professional Women's Club is the making of name banners to be worn by contestants in the beauty pageant, sponsored each year by the club. Mrs. Ruby Rowe, at left, and Mrs. Robert Smith, the outgoing president of the club, work to letter the banners with the name of each girl's sponsor. Presented in the amphitheatre south of town, the pageant always precedes the fireworks display, which is managed by members of the National Guard and furnished by the Chamber of Commerce.

THE BIG SPRING HERALD

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JUNE 30, 1957 WOMEN'S SECTION

FINAL CHECK-UP of sponsors for the Beauty Pageant is made by Alma Gollnick, at left, chairman of the sponsor committee, and Wilrena Richbourg, general chairman of the pageant. Both are members of the Business and Professional Club, which makes arrangements for the annual pageant as one of the club projects. The group works in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce which furnishes the fireworks for the display at the conclusion of the pageant.

GUESS WHAT THIS IS! You'd never recognize it, but this will be the flag of the United States in fireworks, when it is displayed on the evening of the Fourth following the Beauty Pageant at the amphitheatre. At left, Jimmy Beale, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which will furnish the fireworks, and Chief Warrant Officer Bill Eggleston examine the set-up. Eggleston, along with others of the National Guard, will have the job of setting off the various displays.

Beauties To Parade On Holiday

Topping off the Fourth of July observance here will be the Beauty Pageant to be staged at the City Park Amphitheatre Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Sponsored annually by the members of the Business and Professional Club, the pageant presents local girls in competition for the titles of Miss Big Spring and Miss Howard County.

Each contestant will be escorted by a member of the Air Force from Webb AFB. The girls and the men will be honored guests at a dance to be given at Couden Country Club Tuesday evening following the dress rehearsal at the amphitheatre.

Competing for the honor of representing the county will be Fan Barber, Sue Beard, Jeanie Bobo, Loretta Bennett, Mary Lane Edwards, Jeffie Gore, Dorothy Gregg, Juannell Sparks, Sue Boykin, Betty Pool, Wanda Anderson, Joyce Hill, Natha McMinn, Dorothy Williams, Gerry Girdner and Lavella Fletcher.

Contestants in the Miss Big Spring division are Kathy McRee, Elaine Russell, Wanda Montgomery, Mary Olyphant, Nelda Stewart, Mary Jane Trego, Virginia Johnson, Patsy Gotcher, Carol Rogers, Sue Patterson, Barbara Shields, Brenda Barr and Lynn Porter.

Also, Valjean LaCroix, Jean Fuqua, Sue Arrick, Clara Freeman, Zollie Mae Rawlins, Gail Smith, Sharon Creighton, Mary Ann Ne-

Rolapd Radebaugh and A-1C. Norman Sant. An original "production" by members of the Civic Theatre, the comedy will be presented before the pageant at the amphitheatre on the evening of the Fourth.

It's Dinner Time

Paul Lack Family Had Preview Of New Home

Recent newcomers to Big Spring, the Paul Lack family, had a preview of the town several times before they made their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lack and two children, Paul Jr., 12, and Kathleen, 6, came to West Texas from St. Clair, Mo., about 50 miles from St. Louis. Lack came out in January, but the family didn't join him until school was dismissed in Missouri.

Lack is now employed by Reed Oil Company, and Mrs. Tom Reed is his sister — thus, the numerous trips they had previously made to Big Spring.

As a matter of fact, Paul Jr. feels as though Big Spring has always been his "second home" since he has visited here every summer for several years with his aunt, uncle and cousin.

Work in Eastern Star holds much interest for Mrs. Lack and in St. Clair, she held an office for eight years. She was to have served as worthy matron for the coming year.

Other hobbies she enjoys include cooking (baking pastries is a specialty), sewing and handwork. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lack have been active in P-TA activities, and he has been active in Masonic work for many years.

Date Nut Dessert Is Easy

If you use baking shortcuts for this dessert it can be prepared in jiffy time. Those graham cracker crumbs now come packaged ready for use.

DATE NUT DESSERT

Ingredients:
One-fourth cup flour, 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup very fine graham-cracker crumbs, 1 cup thinly-sliced pitted dates, 1 cup coarsely broken walnut meals, 3 eggs, 1 cup sugar.

Method:
Stir the flour, baking powder and salt together thoroughly. Mix in the graham-cracker crumbs and then the dates and walnuts. Beat eggs in a medium-sized mixing bowl until thickened and lemon-colored; gradually beat in sugar until very thick and almost white in color. Fold in date-nut mixture. Turn into buttered baking pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven about 45 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Loosen dessert from sides of pan with spatula or knife; turn out on rack and cool. Serve warm or cold with a topping of whipped cream (slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla) if desired. Cut remaining dessert in strips and store in tightly covered container.

Note:
Snip dates crosswise into thin slices with scissors dipped in hot water; do not pack down in measuring. A 6 1/2-ounce package of pitted dates will make about 1 1/2 cups cut and measured this way. Graham-cracker crumbs now come in a 1 1/2-ounce package ready for use.

City HD Club Learns To Make Sachet

Members of the City Home Demonstration Club learned the method of making pot pourri delight at a meeting in the home of Mrs. H. V. Crocker.

Mrs. Neil Norred taught the way to use rose petals with spice and oils to make the sachet. This is not only delightful to scent linens and clothing, the group learned, but when put in jars and bottles, it is decorative.

Mrs. Crocker brought the Scripture reading from the second chapter of Luke. Roll call was answered with the name of a recipe recently tried by members.

The next meeting, set for July 12, will be in the home of Mrs. Ross Callahan, 433 Dallas, at 7:30 p.m. This is a change in the regular time of meeting.

Nelson-Martin Vows Taken In Lamesa

LAMESA — Nelva Joy Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Nelson, became the bride of Joe Frank Martin of Lovington, N. M., Saturday evening at eight o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin of Brownwood are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. W. C. Emberton, pastor, officiated for the double ring ceremony which was read at the Church of the Nazarene here.

The altar of the church was banked in greenery and baskets of white gladioli, with cathedral tapers and an archway entwined with satin streamers completing the setting.

Mrs. P. A. Dugger, cousin of the bride, sang "Because" and "Love You Truly"; she was accompanied by Tahita Neimeyer, pianist, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of pink nylon over net and taffeta fashioned with a Peter Pan collar, tiny puff sleeves, and a fitted bodice with insertions of white dotted nylon and ruffles of the same material. The full skirt of the dress also featured the dotted nylon insertions. She wore a small white hat with seed pearl trim and carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with pink carnations.

Linda Nelson was her sister's maid of honor. Her dress was a pink cotton in a darker shade than that of the bride's. It was styled with a round neckline, deep bertha collar and a full skirt falling from loose pleats at the fitted waistline. Her headband was of pink tulle, and she had a corsage of white carnations.

Darwin Nelson, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Dwayne Nelson, another brother, and Hilton Williams, cousin of the bride.

The reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth and held a center arrangement of pink carnations.

For travel, the bride chose a beige sheath dress with matching bolero. Mrs. Martin attended Lamesa High School. Her husband was graduated from Brooksmith

Man Hasn't Spoken In 31 Years

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — This talk-happy capital, where discussion and debate grease the wheels of government and chit-chat spins the party-go-round, will have a July visitor who is fluent in six languages but won't speak a word. Washingtonians need not feel slighted, however. The visitor, Sri Sadgurn Meher Baba, has kept a voluntary silence for 31 years.

An outstanding spiritual leader of India, Sri Baba will spend four hours receiving friends and disciples at the home of Mrs. James Terry Duce, wife of the vice president of the Arabian American Oil Co. He will be en route to Myrtle Beach, S. C., where a Meher Center has been dedicated by followers of his philosophy.

Sri Baba has not written anything either, except his signature, since 1925, when he finished an account of his "Divine Experience," not to be read until after his death. (Baba communicates by means of an alphabet board.)

He has explained his silence: "God has been everlastingly working in silence, unobserved, unheard, except by those who experience His infinite silence. If my silence cannot speak, of what avail would be speeches made by the tongue?"

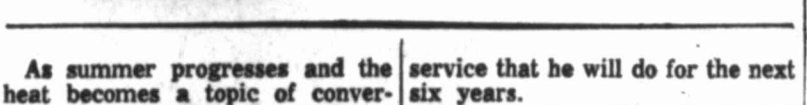

Baba, who will be on his 10th trip to this country, also expects to visit another center, "Meher Mount" at Ojai, Calif.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Mary Sue Hale

As summer progresses and the heat becomes a topic of conversation, two Jayhawk students, Julie Rainwater and Lovelle Fletcher are devoting time and talent to preparation for next year's basketball games. Serving in the capacity of cheerleaders, the girls are currently planning slogans and doing poster work to back the team.

Cleo Nunez and Dorothy Gonzales visited Frances and Esther Bueno this week, Thursday and Friday. Both visitors are from the two sisters' hometown, Fort Stockton, and both are presently attending the Abilene branch of Draughton's Business College.

Some HCJC student, both present and ex, are joined by other local boys who attend college elsewhere in working this summer for the United States Department of Agriculture. Employed by the branch of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, their task is that of measuring cotton acreage reserve and conservation reserve crops. The boys are Frank Hunt, David Ewing, Rodney Sheppard, Mike Powell, Clark Johnson, Leroy LeFevre, and Bennie Compton.

Current planning for next year's annual, The Jayhawk, is in the tentative stage. Julie Rainwater, editor, has named a beginning staff. Assistant editor is the position allotted to Richard Eagle, Bennie Compton, Rodney Sheppard, and Charlie McCarty are to serve in other staff capacities.

Tom Guin, student at Austin College, Sherman, is filling his summer days by working in the garage department at Jones Motor Co.

A University of Texas student, Glenn Rogers, has bade Texas and Big Spring good-bye for a major portion of the summer months. He is on the staff at a boys' camp in Colorado.

Sally Cowper, another University of Texas student, is attending Duke University, in Durham, North Carolina.

Expected to arrive in Big Spring any day from her home town, Post, Ann Porterfield will be a student at HCJC for the second summer session, which is scheduled to begin July 15.

Connie Fierro, who is currently working in El Paso, is planning to return to Howard County to attend school this fall.

Another local girl, Mary Lou Garcia, is attending a business school in El Paso. She is returning to Big Spring upon completing her course, to work here.

June might well be the month of brides, but this entire summer will be sprinkled with weddings of many of Big Spring's young people, especially during the month of August.

Some of the new local Mr. and Mrs. after August will be Betty Earley and John Birdwell; Laverne Cooper and Max McCullough; Marlene Mann and David Dibrell; Sharon McRee and Bill Cregar, of Tucuman, N. M.; Robert Morehead and Frances Head, of Houston.

Tommie Jo Williamson and Frank Hunt have been added to the list of July couples planning matrimony.

The two Faulkner brothers, Kirk and Ben, have certainly put the miles between each other and Big Spring. Both are doing duty in the Marine Corps far from home, Ben in Quantico, Va. and Kirk at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Kirk's service, which compelled him to leave here last Saturday, will keep him occupied for another week, allowing him to return to HCJC to attend the second summer session.

A former Marine, Kirk is merely acting as a Marine reserve, a service that he will do for the next six years.

Ben, on the other hand, left June 17 and will be away until Aug. 1. This is his first experience as a full-fledged Marine, as he is now being schooled in flight officers training. Ben's stay of reserve training will end in six months. After he finishes college, he will return to the Marines Corps for active duty.

In case you would like to inform Ben on going-ons at the home front, here is his address: PLC. Ben T. Faulkner 1653324 B Company 2nd Training Bn 5th Platoon Camp Barretto MCS Quantico, Va.

Will Be July Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Shirley, 1595 Runnels, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Donna, to Bob Newsum, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Newsum. The couple has set July 25 as the date for the wedding.

Miss Jones, Lt. Jacobus Repeat Vows In Mid-Morning Ceremony

In a mid-morning ceremony Saturday, Elizabeth Ann Jones became the bride of Lt. George Howard Jacobus at the First Presbyterian Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Truman Jones, 1204 Douglas, and Mr. and Mrs. George Russell Jacobus, Caldwell, N. J.

The Rev. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the church, read the double ring wedding vows as the bridal party stood before an altar centered with cathedral ferns.

White Grecian pedestals, topped with lotus arrangements of majestic daisies and bound with foliage, combined with huckleberry to form a background. Tailored satin bows marked pews.

Mrs. Champ Rainwater, organist, played selections of bridal music and accompanied Mrs. Don Newsum as she sang "At Dawning" and The Lord's Prayer.

BRIDAL GOWN
Wearing a gown of white imported Swiss organdy, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Short sleeves of the basque bodice, with its portrait neckline, had detailed embroidered organdy in applique and were complemented with organdy gawlets.

A bouffant skirt, attached to a deep torso, was designed with an apron effect of embroidered organdy in a floral motif, which extended into a chapel train in the back.

A circular veil of pure silk illusion was held in place by a face-framing tiara of sequins and seed pearls. On a white satin ribbon around her neck, the bride wore an antique lavalliere, which had belonged to her great-great-grandmother.

She carried a tiered Colonial bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses nestled among handmade leaves of imported white lace. This was surrounded by larger yellow roses and tied with French tulle edged in fluted satin.

Attendants were Mrs. Jay Davis of Odessa, who was matron of honor, Mrs. Roger Brown of Austin and Mary Louise Scott of Claremore, Okla., bridesmaids. The three wore sleeveless empire style dresses of white organdy with bouffant skirts over jonquill yellow taffeta slips. Tucks accentuated the v-necklines. Drawnwork of linen lace encircled the high waists which were finished with bows of yellow satin.

Satin bows of yellow also marked the open crown picture hats worn by the attendants, who carried identical bouquets of white majestic daisies in cascade with yellow lace leaves tied with yellow satin ribbon edged in silken teardrop-lets.

Lt. James M. Carson served as best man. Guests were seated by George B. Jones of Odessa, uncle of the bride; Lt. Leonard D. Egan, Lt. Richard Landon, Lt. Richard VanderWolk; Lt. Don Walsh and Richard Holway of Midland.

Susan Jones of Odessa, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in a full-skirted organdy frock over a yellow taffeta slip. Her headpiece was of yellow and white daisies and she carried a white basket with yellow rose petals.

RECEPTION
A reception after the wedding was held at the Big Spring Court-

Club. The bride's mother, parents of the bridegroom and the feminine attendants assisted the couple in receiving guests.

The foyer of the club featured an arrangement of the bride's chosen flowers in a brass Italian stand. The ballroom was decorated with columns of huckleberry flanked with Grecian columns and arrangements of daisies.

Daisies were also in the brass containers at the fireplace and at the piano. Wall sconces held white tapers and were tied with white bows and sprays of huckleberry.

Chains of yellow daisies enhanced the corners of the bride's table, overlaid with a floor length cloth of embossed organdy. The chains came together at a center arrangement of daisies in a silver epergne, while silver fern connected the wedding cake and the silver punch bowl at ends of the table. The tiered cake was topped with a small nosegay of confection daisies.

Guests were registered by Suzanne Brannon of Gainesville.

Others in the houseparty were Mrs. Ed Swift, Mrs. Milton Talbot, Kay Bonifield, Mrs. Floyd Mays, Mrs. Dan Krause, Mrs. George B. Jones of Odessa, and Mrs. W. C. Smith of Odessa.

WEDDING TRIP
A wedding trip will take the couple to New Jersey, New York and the New England States. For traveling, the bride chose a beige and white checked sheath with matching jacket. She used beige accessories and wore a brown orchid corsage.

Upon their return, the bridal pair will make a home in Midland.

Mrs. Jacobus received her associate of arts degree at Christian College, Columbia, Mo., where she was a member of Phi Theta Kappa honorary scholastic society. She attended Texas Christian University, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

The bridegroom received his bachelor of arts degree from Dartmouth College; he was a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity. He is now a pilot instructor at Webb Air Force Base.

Out-of-town guests, besides the parents of the bridegroom, were his uncle, Howard Jacobus of Caldwell, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones and Judy, Mrs. Nora B. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Haynie, Juan, JoAnn, and Janice, all of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Jones Jr. Skipper and Gary of Stamford; Mrs. Jack H. Broch of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McGaughey of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodward, W. C. Smith, Suelia and Frances Smith, all of Odessa.

Yard Chores Keep Figure Trim, Slim

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Wire Service Beauty Editor

It's a good idea to choose outdoor chores whenever you can. Beat out Dad, husband, big brother and take to the hoe, rake and lawn mower. Let them take a stint with the kitchen, test their hard-working hands to the "softening effects" of the newest detergents and the very latest varieties of mops, carpet sweepers and household squeeze sprays. Tell them they've never had it so good.

Weeding in the garden is just as good as bumps and grinds for losing excess avoirdupois at hips and waistline. Give it a good whirl.

Raking, hoeing and pruning are other release mechanisms for tired old muscles. Air out the soot accumulated from kitchen duties all winter with some deep breaths from the orchard or rose arbor.

The power mower has become a real wheel in reducing programs. New ones offer easier push and pull with "no strain and no puff" but at the same time give plenty of exercise to ankles, thighs and legs.

There is a forward wheel these days too, that manures the edges of the grass border so that even Mom can do a real professional job without getting criticism from the man of the family.

It's a good idea to treat all outside chores as a leisurely experience. You'll get all your exercise from the sheer force of application to the job at hand.

When you weed, pull with a generous effort. When you rake, put your arms into full action. When you mow, put some power behind the action. Do your chores with motion that is care as any routine exercise would be. Don't treat this experience as work. It doesn't need to be.

The main point of any successful enterprise is to enjoy it. Get yourself in that mood to start with. Feel as if you've put something over on the family to be able to get out of the house at all, and the rest will come easy.

Once you treat any of these outdoor chores as work, the entire plan will be defeated. Act as if you are going to have a wonderful time; dress in your smartest work clothes and soak up the sun and ozone with zest.

Altrusa Clubs Announce Plans For Convention

Under the theme, "Serve to Survive," Altrusa International will launch its 1957-59 program of service, when this 40-year-old organization of about 14,000 leading executive and professional women meets in convention in New Orleans, La., at Hotel Roosevelt, July 21-25.

The local Altrusa Club will be one of 428 in eight countries, Bermuda, Okla., Guatemala, Great Britain, Hawaii, Mexico, Puerto Rico, United States, to plan its work in accordance with the "Serve to Survive" program.

Two major projects of Altrusa International will be evaluated at the convention. One is Grants-in-Aid, in operation since 1945. This provides grants of $250 to $750 to Asian and Latin American women for graduate study in the U.S. and Canada. About $100,000 has been awarded to 167 women thus far.

The other project, Founders Fund Vocational Aid, started in 1953, gives grants of $50 to $250 to women of all ages (older women in particular) for vocational training or other assistance to enable them to earn a living. More than 150 women have received a total of $27,000.

Featured speaker at the Altrusa biennial convention in New Orleans will be Dr. Jose A. Mora, Washington D. C. secretary general of the Organization of American States. He will analyze crucial developments in the Western Hemisphere.

Altrusa will elect international officers for 1957-59 at the convention, and Mrs. John Nelson, Richmond, Va., real estate execu-

Jaycee-Ettes' Party

Husbands of the Jaycee-Ettes were entertained at a barbecue in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Boren Thursday evening. Following the supper, games were played by the ten couples; included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Whitney of Fort Worth.

Mobile Harvesters

In many areas, huge machines, capable of cleaning and packing 500 cartons of produce an hour, now follow harvesters along the rows in the fields.

New Pen

A new ballpoint pen is sterling-silver tipped recommended for graduation presents. The silver walls of the unit in which the writing ball is mounted is supposed to eliminate corrosion and prevent leakage of ink around the ball.

Nutrition Lacking

According to nutrition surveys, less than half of the children in the United States drink all the milk and eat the fresh fruits and vegetables they should.

Junior Sophisticates

MODEST NECKLINE Slim Skirt Adds Back Pleat For Walking Ease

Sophisticated is really the right word for this junior model by Anne Klein, designed with high modesty in front and a daring and surprising cutout sailor collar in back.
The body is very slim with ease over the hips and a pleat in the skirt back for graceful walking.
Miss Klein suggests you add an important pin to the collar at the left corner.
There are eight pieces in the pattern, especially sized to eliminate tiresome alterations, and carefully perforated for quick and accurate matching.
Make it now in linen, pique, embroidered cottons, shantung, rayon or silk crepe; for fall, it will win again in wool crepe, faille or wool jersey.
From this chart select the one size best for you:
Size 7, bust 32 1/2, waist 28 1/2, hips 33 1/2 inches, length from nape of neck to waist 15 1/2 inches; size 9, bust 34 1/2, waist 30 1/2, hips 35 1/2, length from nape of neck to waist 16 1/2 inches; size 11, bust 37 1/2, waist 33 1/2, hips 38 1/2, length from nape of neck to waist 17 1/2 inches.

MAKE THE MOST OF AUTO TRIP

This is the season when American families take to the road. The average family travels about 1,400 miles during a vacation by car, surveys show. Many go much further. But too often they rush to get to a destination and rush to get home. Experienced travelers offer a few tips for making the most of the drive itself:
1. Set your daily mileage goal a little lower than you'd like, to allow time for sightseeing and picnic lunches along the way.
2. Husband and wife should take turns at the wheel, with the wife taking over, at least briefly, in mid-morning and mid-afternoon.
3. To guard against drowsing at the wheel, carry some caffeine tablets in the glove compartment—good as a cup of coffee.
4. Stop earlier at night. It may take time to find accommodations, and tiredness mounts at the end of the day.
5. Pack your bags so that only one small bag each is needed for the overnight stop.

Jane Reynolds Wed To Dean Porter In Double-Ring Ceremony Friday

Jane Elizabeth Reynolds and Dean Franklin Porter exchanged wedding vows Friday in a double-ring ceremony ready by Dr. R. Gage Lloyd at the First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Earl Reynolds, 1702 Main, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Porter, Old San Angelo Highway.

CANDLELIGHT RITES
Vows were taken in front of a candlelit altar banked with moonrise arrangements of snow globe gladioli placed among cathedral palms.

Tall candelabra of French Gothic design held spiral arrangements of candles extending into a scroll type line. Appointments of conventional Gothic candelabra were interspersed amid the palms. The altar itself was marked by two large cathedral candles nestled in clipped palm foliage. The only light in addition to the candlelit sanctuary was a soft pink glow which surrounded the bridal couple.

Newel posts were done with arrangements of candles and greenery. Aisle markers were bows of white bridal satin and pure illusion.

Mrs. Don Newsom sang "I Love Thee" by Greig accompanied by Mrs. Champ Rainwater on the organ. While the bridal couple knelt on a satin prie-dieu Mrs. Newsom sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown featured a bateau neckline and cap sleeves. The slender waist topped a bouffant skirt of yards of nylon net over taffeta caught under many ruffles down the back which formed a chapel length train. The skirt was flanked by a punch bowl and a three-tiered wedding cake adorned with flowers.

Table ends were marked by fluted Grecian columns topped with arrangements of white gaidioli, the same flowers being repeated at the fireplace and atop the piano.

Other decorations were provincial wall sconces which held tall white tapers lit with white satin bows and sprays of huckleberry. Huckleberry trees created a background for the bride's table. The register table featured a crystal brandy snifter with silver trim which held a miniature bouquet.

HOUSE PARTY
Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burrell of Midland. Alternating at the serving table were Nancy Smith, Peggy Hogan and Carolyn Miller. Also helping at the serving table were Mrs. Charles Rodgers, Longview; Mrs. Harry B. Whitney, Wyckoff, N. J.; and Mrs. E. Q. Whitney Jr., Anacortes, Wash., all aunts of the bride. Lynn Porter, cousin of the bridegroom.

Women Plan To Run Town The Klahrs Have Illinois Guests

BUFFALO, W. Va. (AP) — Buffalo housewives aided by some — not all — of their husbands are on the warpath with a full slate of female nominees against perennial male officeholders.

"The weeds are over our heads, sidewalks all broken — things are terrible," says Mrs. Norma Warner, who heads the slate of nominees opposing the administration of Mayor Vernon D. Pigg.

"All we want to do is make Buffalo a better place to live," Mrs. Warner said.

"Last time there was supposed to be an election," said Mrs. Warner, "they just got together and appointed each other."

Among the five women for council is Miss Caroline Frazier, a retired school teacher confined to a wheelchair.

She names among planks in the women's platform better fire protection, natural gas service, extension of telephone service and reduced water rates.

MRS. KENNETH WAYNE VANDIVERE

Miss Sawyer Becomes Bride Of K. Vandivere

LAMESA — Standing beneath an archway entwined with greenery and white gladioli and flanked by baskets of white gladioli and cathedral tapers in branched candelabra, wedding vows were exchanged by Marion LaTue Sawyer and Kenneth Wayne Vandivere.

The Rev. Giles Hankins read the single ring ceremony at the Northside Baptist Church Friday evening.

The bride is the daughter of E. W. Sawyer, and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Vandivere of Route 2, O'Donnell. A prelude of wedding music was presented by Marion Cox, pianist, as the guests assembled. During the ceremony, she played "Always" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length wedding dress of Chantilly-type lace over satin and white tulle. It was designed with a fitted bodice and featured a band of pleated tulle which outlined the neckline. Her long sleeves terminated in petal points over the hands. A shirred skirt was attached at the natural waistline ending in a point at the center front. The skirt of lace, tulle and satin was worn over crinoline.

She wore a half hat of tulle and lace encrusted with seed pearls from which floated a veil of illusion. The bride wore a single strand of pearls and carried a cascade arrangement of red roses atop a white Bible.

Martha Lynn Sawyer was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a

Refugee Is Good Will Ambassador

FREDERICK, Md. (AP) — A success story of our times is that of Mara Eksteins, Latvian refugee and Hood College senior, who has been chosen to return to her native Europe as an American student ambassador of good will.

Mara, who became an American citizen only a year ago, has won a Fulbright scholarship for study of French at the University of Paris.

Now looking like a typical American college girl, pretty Mara has packed a great deal of drama into her short life. It began 13 years ago, in 1944, when her family fled their native Latvia during the Russian invasion of the little Baltic country. With her parents and her brother Juris, little Mara made a frenzied flight to freedom via the Baltic Sea, settling near Leipzig, Germany.

Here, Mara and her brother attended a German school, subjected to the Nazi regimentation, while their father worked as a farmer.

When the war was over, the Eksteins were moved to another international camp nearby, and found themselves in Russian territory. Once again, they fled the Iron Curtain and spent four years in a Latvian colony established by the American occupation forces.

Mara was ready to enter high school when the family, sponsored by the World Lutheran Federation, boarded a crowded refugee ship for New York. They spoke little English and at first found the New World frightening.

Now the Eksteins live in Clear Spring, Md., where Mara was graduated from high school and won a four-year scholarship to Hood College.

An honor student, prominent in extra-curricular activities, pretty and popular, Mara now is going back to Europe as a proud representative of her new country.

Roman Delicacy

Asparagus was a popular appetizer at ancient Roman dinners. As early as 200 B. C. Cato gave detailed gardening instructions that would be considered good today, except that he recommended the use of seed from wild plants.

Counting Cranberries

To estimate the yield per acre of cranberries, Cape Cod growers toss a hoop into a bog, count the berries within the hoop and multiply the berries by the number of hoops to the acre.

Appetizer DeLuxe

Count on one-half an avocado for each serving. Brush lightly with lemon juice to prevent discoloration and fill centers with thinly sliced fresh strawberries.

RAY ZENKE, who formerly lived here. They also traveled in Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nevada, Kansas and Oklahoma. While in Oklahoma, they went to the Indian reservation near Altus and watched an Indian war dance.

MR. AND MRS. MATT HARRINGTON and JANE left early Saturday for New Mexico where they hope to get in lots of fishing. Before returning home, they plan to visit MR. AND MRS. HUGH DUBBERLY in Los Alamos. Dubberly is a brother of Mrs. Harrington.

For Crispy Spareribs, Try This

Here's the secret of getting those spareribs crispy, yet tender. Try it and your family will be begging for more.

CRISPY SPARERIBS

Ingredients: Two racks young meaty fresh pork spareribs (3½ to 4 pounds), salt, ¼ cup leftover syrup from canned pineapple slices or chunks or tidbits, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons cider vinegar, 2 teaspoons American-type soy sauce.

Method: Place spareribs, meaty side up, in large rectangular roasting pan so they can lie fairly flat. Sprinkle lightly with salt. Roast in very hot (450 degrees) oven 30 minutes. Remove spareribs and pour off fat from pan. With kitchen scissors cut spareribs into individual sections of 1 or 2 ribs. Return to roasting pan, meaty side up. Stir together with pineapple syrup, sugar, vinegar and soy sauce; pour over spareribs, making sure to add any sugar that has not dissolved. Return to moderate (350 degrees) oven, basting every 10 minutes with liquid in pan, until cooked through and crispy brown (45 minutes or longer). Remove spareribs and drain on brown paper. Serve with Chinese style hot mustard and Chinese-style sweet fruit sauce (sometimes called Duck Sauce and put up in bottles).

Note: Have meatman thickest any knuckle-like bone on thickest side of sparerib racks so they will be easy to cut through with kitchen scissors.

Mrs. Haptonstall Is Honored At Shower

Mrs. Jack Haptonstall was honored Friday evening with a pink and blue shower in the home of Mrs. Robert Hill.

The mother of the honoree, Mrs. Dale Jennings of Grand Saline, was a special guest.

The honoree was presented with a corsage made of pink baby socks, blue net, pink ribbon and silver pins. Mrs. Jennings was also given a corsage.

Hostesses' corsages were of blue net with a miniature doll in the center and tied with pink ribbon. Mrs. W. L. Sandridge, a hostess, made the corsages.

Another hostess, Mrs. H. M. Jarrett, registered the 38 guests attending. The register table was covered with a lace cloth and held an arrangement of sweet peas in a blue bowl. The register book was made in the form of a cradle and was pink and blue. Mrs. Hill made the book.

Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Curtis Reynolds, another hostess.

Serving was done from a table laid with a blue cutwork cloth and centered with a cradle filled with pink roses. The cradle was nestled in white angel hair and was flanked with pink candles. Two other hostesses, Mrs. J. B. Riddle and Mrs. Dick Collier, served. Favours were miniature pink and blue cradles filled with mints.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Cecil Terry and Lavon of Lubbock, Mrs. C. C. Oliver of Colorado City and Mrs. Ronnie Gandy of Forsan.

Don't Overdo The Food

Vivian Blaine, who has been touring the country in "A Hatful of Rain," recommends eating lightly as a way to a good figure and good health.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Be Practical About Clothes For A Trip

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD — Vivian Blaine, who played the comedienne Adelaide in the musical "Guys and Dolls," both on Broadway and in the movie, caused quite a few eyebrows to lift when she decided to tour in the tense drama "A Hatful of Rain." But she opened in Hollywood to rave notices and her tour across the country was well received.

"I was Adelaide for five years," Vivian told me back stage at the Huntington Hartford Theater "and I had to prove that I could handle drama as well as comedy. I'm always being typed," this pretty blonde confessed. "For six years when I was under contract at 20th Century - Fox I had nothing but sweet, ingenue parts. That's what I liked about Adelaide. She was a bad girl."

"Going on the road with a show gives you a chance to know your own country," Vivian commented, "but I'd welcome doing a TV series and staying at home for a while."

I asked Vivian if she could give us some tips about living out of a suitcase and still staying well dressed.

"You can't do any haphazard buying," she explained. "You must anticipate the climate you are going to be in and what you are going to do. When you keep seeing new people you don't mind wearing the same clothes so you can get along with surprisingly little. But keep to neutral colors so you can interchange accessories. Avoid anything that is hard to pack, such as too full skirts or a fabric that crushes easily."

"You have visited almost every state in the union," I commented. "What compliments and what criticism can you give the American women?"

"On the whole they are very well dressed but one criticism is a failure to mature gracefully. I went to a lot of women's clubs and I felt how much more attractive a woman would look if she dressed her age instead of overdoing everything — too many curls, too much make-up, too many frills. You can't go wrong with simplicity and naturalness. Looking natural doesn't mean you don't use make-up or color your hair but that instead of doing this with a heavy hand use a subtle approach."

As Vivian was talking I watched her remove her make-up, first with soap and water, then cream, another soaping and a final treatment with lotion which she patted in with her finger tips.

"I have tissue paper skin and heavy creams are not good for me," she explained.

Vivian has an unbelievably beautiful, clear, pink and white skin.

"I inherited it," she admitted, "but I have not taken my complexion for granted. I have tried to keep it clean and not let it dry out."

"When you are traveling it is not easy because the water, especially in the Middle West, is very hard. Even my body was so dry I had to use an after-shower lotion."

"I have used many preparations," Vivian admitted, "but the best ones for me are those that retain moisture."

We chatted about food and how difficult it is to eat well in restaurants and hotels.

"Most public places overcook food," but Vivian added, "I am by nature a light eater so I never order much when I eat out."

"I feel miserable when I have too much at one time but I am healthy and I have a small appetite and therefore no weight problem," she continued, "I think most people overeat. I feel very well with fruit and coffee for breakfast, eggs, whole wheat toast and tea for lunch and for dinner, liver, steak or chops and a green vegetable and a salad. When I'm working I have fruit, ice cream or cream cheese and crackers after a performance."

As I was leaving I asked Vivian how she managed to look so rested. "I think loving your work and liking yourself is an important combination," she confided. "You have to be sincere and considerate of others if you want to live in a harmonious atmosphere."

Plans for the coming week for most BSHS'ers center around the 4th of July Pageant to be held in the amphitheatre Thursday. Preparations for this affair are really elaborate this year; they include the Miss Big Spring and Miss Howard County beauty contests, the fireworks display and other entertainment. Festivities will start at 8:00 Thursday evening.

Preceding the pageant will be several rehearsals. All contestants are to be at the Monday and Tuesday night practices. A dance for contestants and escorts will follow the rehearsal Tuesday. The dance will be at Couden Country Club.

The rodeos at Roby and Lamesa drew quite a crowd from Big Spring last week. Some of the "cowboys and cowgirls" were Rendell Hamby, Londa Coker, Billy Rosser, Lanny Hamby, Frosty Forrester, Walter Dickenson, Danne Green, and Kathy McRee.

Two Big Springers entered the Snyder golf tournament this weekend. They were Charles Johnson and Bunky Grimes.

Sheila Holmes visited in Snyder this weekend also. One of her activities was attending of the barbecue preceding the golf tournament with Bunky.

Europe seems to hold quite a fascination for Big Springers this summer as two — Lanny Hamby and Kay Wilcox — are going abroad. Lanny's destination is Paris and he intends to fly over next week. Later, he will be joined by his brother, Randell, and the boys will spend several weeks in France and other European countries.

Kay left last Wednesday for New York, where she began her voyage to England. Kay will have a tour of the continent and return home in time for all classes.

Jacqueline Smith, Danne Green, Kathy McRee, and Janet Hogan gave Kay a bon voyage party Monday night in Kathy's home. Some of the girls wishing Kay a pleasant trip were Anita Gardner, Barbara Shields, Nancy King, Lou Ann White, Londa Coker, and Carol Rogers.

The Rainbow Girls left this morning for the state convention in Dallas. At the conclusion of the convention on Wednesday the girls will visit a dude ranch near Mineral Wells and return home on Friday.

Jacqueline Smith will leave the girls in Dallas Wednesday and go with her parents to Possum Kingdom, where the Smiths will spend three days fishing and relaxing.

They will return home Sunday.

The home of Janet and Peggy Hogan was the scene of the social sponsored by the Young Peoples' Department of the First Baptist Church Tuesday night. Some of those attending the affair were Frances Reagan, Walter Wheat, Jacqueline Smith, Robert Morehead, Mark Drake, Jim DuPree and Sharon McRee.

Shower Is Given For Mrs. Watkins

Mrs. Jack Watkins was the honoree at a baby shower Friday evening in the home of Mrs. M. W. Rupp, with cohostesses, Mrs. Hollis Smith and Mrs. Gilbert Pachall.

The centerpiece for the tea table was a white bootie filled with ivory. A cake was decorated with safety pins, booties and rosebuds all of frosting.

The honoree received a corsage made of a baby's wash cloth, a rattle and safety pins tied with a white satin ribbon. It had been made by the hostess.

Fifteen attended the shower.

Dr. Ellington On Vacation

Dr. E. O. Ellington left today for a two-week visit in Orange, Calif., with his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Bowe and her two children, Dr. Ellington left with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Currie.

While he is gone, Mrs. Ellington has as her guests her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Lacey of Dallas.

OWC Activities

All future activities of the Officers' Wives' Club for July have been moved back a week because of the Fourth of July falling on the regular luncheon day. The luncheon will be held July 11 and block meetings July 18. Bridge is planned for July 25.

Golf Association

The regular monthly luncheon of the Ladies Golf Association has been postponed for the month of July, according to Mrs. A. K. Turner, president of the club. The club will meet the first Friday in August.

NO VACANCY

TOURIST COURTS FILL UP EARLY NOW
"No Vacancy" lights are burning before dusk.

'No Vacancy' Out Early As Tourists Fill Motels

By NITA HEDLESTON
Tourists who stop in Big Spring overnight will probably find that they should stop early if they expect to have a place to stay.

"No Vacancy" signs appear earlier every day. The tourist season which begins around the first of June has been increasing since that time and will continue to thrive until the beginning of school, operators say. Although it is still too early to tell too much, the motel owners say that there does seem to be a noticeable increase in the number of tourists stopping here over numbers in past summers. Some say that August will be the biggest month because that is the month in which so many families take vacations.

FULL BY SUNSET
"No Vacancy" signs appear regularly at most of the motels and owners say that they usually start putting them up around 6 p.m. Sometimes, however, the courts don't fill up until as late as 8 p.m. This time varies from day to day, owners say.

Owners with tourist courts located on Highway 90 going east and west through the city find that many of their customers are people on their way to the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico. They also find many tourists from California. In fact California seems to send more tourists through Big Spring than any other state except, of course, Texas.

Tourists are reported from all over the United States with an occasional one from Canada or Mexico, Illinois, Ohio, New York, Georgia, North Carolina and Alabama are a few of the states from which come recent tourists to Big Spring motels. One owner, said that strangely enough, they never had many tourists from Mississippi.

SOME HEADED SOUTH
Operators with motels located on Highway 87 running north and south say that most of their tourists are from Colorado, Oregon and other states to the north. Many of the tourists are on their way to San Antonio, Mexico and other points south. A few travelers from Canada every now and then stop at the motels.

Although not too many foreign visitors pass this way during the summer, travelers from New Zealand, Hawaii, Cuba and other islands have been noted during winter months. Nevertheless, no matter where the visitors come from, most of the motel owners say that their cabins are filled each night and that their "No Vacancy" signs are being used more than ever before.

Deadly Hurricane Took 5,000 Lives In Galveston

By The Associated Press
The deadliest hurricane in American annals took 6,000 lives in Galveston, Tex., in 1900. The winds were accompanied by floods.

Another hit Florida in 1928, costing a possible 2,500 lives in the Lake Okechobee and Palm Beach areas. This hurricane first had taken about 1,000 lives in Caribbean islands.

Many bodies, mostly of Negroes, became buried in submerged Okechobee mud flats and never were found. For the bodies recovered, there were some wholesale and unrecorded burials. The Red Cross estimated the number of deaths at 1,500 to 2,500.

Two years earlier, in 1926, Florida had been hit by another hurricane that caused 400 fatalities in the Miami, Hollywood and Fort Lauderdale areas.

Attorneys Are Appointed For 12 Defendants

District Judge Charlie Sullivan has appointed attorneys for 12 defendants who said they were without legal counsel but wish to plead guilty to charges against them.

Hearings for the 12 have been set for Monday in 118th District Court. All of the 12 were indicted by the Howard County Grand Jury Tuesday.

Wayne Basden was appointed to represent Richard L. Fringer, Richard A. Fappas and Lois S. Miller. Fringer and Fappas are charged with burglary of Bradshaw Studio and Miller is charged with forgery.

Carroll Smith was named to represent Marlon Ardue Wallace, Floyd Sherman and Donnie McClary. Wallace and Sherman are under indictment alleging forgery and McClary is accused of auto theft. R. H. Weaver was named attorney for Thurman E. Kenemer, Francis M. McGettes and Leroy Scarbrough, all charged with forgery.

Wayne Burnes was appointed as counsel for Laurel W. Anderson and Floyd F. Turner Jr., both charged with burglary of Brown's Trading Post.

Parents' Night Affair At YMCA

Well over 200 people, more than half of them parents, turned out Thursday evening for the Parent's Night affair of the recreation program at the YMCA.

There were 93 youngsters who gave exhibitions of what they had learned in trampoline, tumbling, and archery classes.

Meanwhile, registration for the second period of these citywide recreational activities, continued through Friday, the deadline date. Only one class, that for trampoline for girls 7-10 years of age, had reached capacity enrollment.

Girls in the figure fashioning classes gave demonstrations under Mrs. Jean Eads. Gary Tidwell, in charge of the evening's activities, directed the trampoline show for young boys and girls and older boys and girls, for the tumbling for boys, and gave a trampoline exhibition himself. Joan Young was in charge of the girls' tumbling, and modern dance routines, and Bobby Hayworth the archery.

Men 25-44 Most Likely To Be Killed

Traffic death in accidents on the highway during the Fourth of July holiday period comes closest to the man between 25 and 44 years old, the Citizens' Traffic Commission reported in calling for added safety during the period.

The CTC is joining the National Safety Council in a campaign to hold July 4 accidents to a minimum. Last year on the holiday alone, 137 persons were killed over the nation in motor vehicle accidents.

But the records show that the man between 25 and 44 is most likely to be involved in a mishap. This typical victim is usually the only one killed in the crash, either because he is alone or because the others are fortunate enough to escape death.

The accident in which the typical holiday victim dies occurs between 6 p.m. and midnight—with the odds on the 6-9 p.m. period on the night of the first full day of the holiday period.

This mishap is most likely to occur on a rural highway or in an unincorporated area, and the chances are good that the victim has been drinking, the CTC warned.

Big Spring was more fortunate than many sections of the state last year, the CTC pointed out, in that only six accidents and no fatalities occurred in four days. At the present 1957 rate, however, about two accidents per day will occur this year.

The typical victim is speeding when the accident happens, and also the accident is more likely to occur on the opening half of the journey rather than the trip home.

Comptroller Agents Here Busy Collecting Varied State Taxes

A wide expanse of territory is covered by the local State Comptroller office. Taxes are collected in this district from 35 counties which keeps the four tax supervisors assigned to this area busy most of the time.

E. R. Trego has been the district supervisor of the local office since 1954. Working under him in the district are William Taylor, Big Spring; David Prieto, El Paso; Heard Reynolds, Pecos and Eugene Honea, San Angelo.

These men collected a total of $165,624.80 in the field for this district in 1956. This, however, makes up only about 35 per cent of the total amount which actually comes in from this area. About 65 per cent, according to Trego, is mailed directly to Austin.

Trego explains that most of the revenue handled directly through his office comes from delinquent taxes or from businesses which have just been established. "After we get them acquainted with the taxes," says Trego, "they usually send the money to Austin."

Eight different taxes are handled by the local office. From the money collected from each of these taxes, at least 25 per cent goes to the schools and 25 per cent to the highways.

According to figures at the local office, taxes on coin machines brought in the most revenue in 1956 for this district. The total handled by the local office for this tax was $50,978.

Taxes are levied on coin operated machines of two categories. The first is music machines which bear a tax of $5 a calendar year for a license. The second category is the skill or pleasure machine. Machines using a nickel or under require a $30 license a year, and machines which use over a nickel require a $60 license.

Second in the amount of revenue brought in by the taxes is the store license. The 1956 totals in this district for this tax were $44,272.37. This tax is a form of occupation tax which must be paid by every store, or business establishment where merchandise of any kind is sold, wholesale or retail. There is one exception. Bible stores are exempt.

Licenses are based on the number of stores owned by one firm or company. For the first store the license is $5. The license fee increases with the addition of each new store, running on up to $200 for the 51st store and over.

Admission taxes last year brought in $25,351.37. This tax is based on admission to any kind of amusement such as theatres, movies, dances, circuses and race tracks or any place where the admission charged is 51 cents or over. The tax is one cent on each ten cents.

The cigarette tax amounted to $16,099 last year. Five cents on each package makes up this tax. One cent out of every five of this is used for such institutions as state hospitals. The balance of the five cents is divided into different funds such as Old Age Pensions.

The occupation tax is based on various occupations such as carnivals, circuses, theatres, bowling alleys, skating rinks, etc. The amount of this tax varies with the occupation. Last year's total handled by the local office was $9,874.75.

The combined total collected from cosmetic and radio-TV taxes was $17,172.43. Both of these taxes are 2.2 per cent of the retail value of the articles.

The smallest amount collected on 1956 taxes in this area was from prizes and awards. This tax affects any operation in which a prize is awarded. This tax is 20 per cent of the value of the prize.

Witnesses Group To Attend 5-Day Meet In Houston

J. W. O'Shields, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, will head a group of 42 delegates from the Big Spring congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses to a five-day convention to be held July 3-7 at the Sam Houston Coliseum in Houston.

The five-day Christian convention is sponsored by the Watchtower Bible Society for Jehovah's Witnesses and is one of seven to be held in the United States this summer. An attendance of 15,000 is expected.

Delegates will be in attendance from 26 different states as well as Canada and Mexico. O'Shields said. The Houston assembly program carries the theme of "Life Giving Wisdom".

The convention will be climaxed at 3 p.m. Sunday July 7, when N. H. Knorr, president of the Watchtower Society, will deliver the public address: "Healing of the Nations Has Drawn Near."

Lamesan Leaves For Army Training

Pvt. James Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Wheeler, 504 East North 6th Street, Lamesa, departed for Fort Chaffee, Ark. Thursday for reception and basic training. Pvt. Wheeler will grant a fourteen day leave, before reporting to Fort Belvoir, Va. to attend a course in construction surveying. Pvt. Wheeler enlisted at the Lamesa Army Recruiting Station, which is manned by Sgt. Robert Martin.

Crews Working At Measuring Cotton

Several crews of surveyors are now measuring Howard County cotton acreage, according to Virgil Little of the ASC office.

He said a total of about 15 boys would be used. Some of them started yesterday, while others will not start until Monday. The measuring is being done for both cotton acreage reserve and the regular cotton allotments. Little said they would try to complete the job as quickly as possible, and will be working in various parts of the county at the same time.

A Bible Thought For Today

For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish, foolishness; but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God. (1 Corinthians 1:18).

Outlook Excellent For Record Autumn

First half of 1957 ends today and it may be a few days before statistical information on the period is complete. So far as building is concerned, the period has lagged to a marked degree. Postal receipts, on the other hand, will show a gain. The number of utility contracts will show an increase pretty much along a fixed line.

While most businessmen say they have not set the woods on fire during the first half, business has held up fairly well. Some few have shown gains, some others have dropped somewhat under the previous year's levels.

But whatever has been the picture for the first half, it seems to us that the last half promises definitely to be far busier. In fact, should the weather be cooperative, we could have the biggest autumn on record.

One of the stimulants promises to be the launching of the big base housing project at Webb. On Tuesday bids will be opened on work that could approach $7½ million. This presages a heavy construction labor demand and means increased transportation and material tempo. While this will be going on, the contract for a second junior high surely will be let ere long to set up a project running between $800,000 and $900,000. Furr Food Stores last week awarded contract for a $173,000 super-market. A $48,000 project at the U.S. Experiment Farm is largely a matter of formality now that bids are shown to be well within the money. A substantial city hall remodeling contract is coming up. Recent residential building permits exceeding $100,000 have been issued.

The State Highway Department is in the midst of a million dollar improvement on U. S. 80 west to the county line and there are prospects that another contract may be let soon on grade separations to the east. Meanwhile, Howard County may be throwing its own road building program into high gear.

Oil activity remains somewhat uncertain, and its tempo will depend to a good degree up on the domestic demand and import situation, plus discovery of new pay areas and zones. Cosden Petroleum Corporation, Cabot Carbon and Reef Fields all are continuing on a busy schedule that certainly indicates an increase rather than decline in payroll totals.

Should we receive a timely shower or two, our farming outlook will be revolutionized. It is not at all improbable that gross income would exceed $6 million as against perhaps no more than $1½ million last year.

Prospects are that Webb AFB will increase in personnel rather than diminish. This was the word in connection with a recent supplemental housing survey. Supporting this thesis is a long-range matter was the final approval by the House Armed Services Committee last week of a $4 million plan to expand the base.

The time for taking the aggressive outlook seems to be at hand.

Crippling Results Of Court Decisions

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower unwittingly opened a Pandora's box when he urged the Conference of Governors to assert the rights of the states. He said:

"Never, under our constitutional system, could the national government have wrenched away state authority without the neglect, acquiescence, or unthinking cooperation of the states themselves."

But the question now being asked is how can the states today assert their rights if the Supreme Court of the United States can pass "laws" or adopt "legislation" that takes away from the states the rights they always thought they had under the Constitution?

This capital today has in it many officials and legislators who are angry over the latest Supreme Court decisions — and many of them are in the administration itself. The President shows an outward calm and urges respect for the Court as an institution. He said, however, with remarkable restraint in his press conference this week that "possibly in their latest series of decisions, there are some that each of us has very great trouble understanding."

Rarely has there been such a sense of frustration in government as there is today as the Supreme Court goes on releasing Communists as well as various types of criminals, including a confessed agent, on technical grounds described conveniently as "individual rights." The idea that society as a whole needs protection against traitors and crooks is brushed aside, and the "individual right" is ruled to be supreme.

Congress is told by the Supreme Court that its investigating committees hereafter cannot punish the refusal by a witness to answer questions even if the Fifth Amendment isn't invoked. The edict also is issued by the Supreme Court that free speech includes the right to preach the forcible overthrow of the government and that, only when the conspiracy is well under way and there is an actual step taken to overthrow the government, can effective steps be taken to protect the nation.

The FBI and police agencies of states and cities, moreover, are worried. For the Supreme Court says detectives' reports about any witness that the defendant's counsel asks for must be made public, or the right of the prosecuting attorney to use the witness must be forfeited. The difficulties this introduces for the law-enforcement agencies of the country are incalculable.

Congress doesn't know now how to proceed with its investigations on any subject. For the Court has said questions directed to a witness must be phrased with the same explicitness and clarity as is required in a law court. The witness must be told just what the purpose of any question is before an answer need be made and then, if the witness chooses, he can regard the question as not "pertinent" to the "legislative purpose."

The Supreme Court has certainly taken away many other powers of the states in the last few years. Thus, the court feels it has authority now to say how schools shall be operated, how pupils shall be assigned, how admission requirements shall be written, and to pass upon what parents of children in a community may say in urging their children's attendance at certain schools. This amounts to virtually complete regulation of the schools under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. This power is one that the states for generations have thought was reserved to them.

Senator Thurmond, Democrat, of South Carolina, has a direct solution. He has introduced legislation to define the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. The Constitution gives that power to Congress. A law which says what federal statutes may be appealed to the high court and what actions by the supreme tribunals of the states can be accepted for appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States would be constitutional. It has been tried for brief periods before in American history.

This isn't the whole answer, but the movement to curb the Supreme Court is growing. Bills to provide for re-confirmation of Supreme Court justices by the Senate after four years of service, bills to provide for selection of only lawyers of qualified experience, and bills with other limitations are being introduced in Congress in a general revulsion of feeling against what Mr. Thurmond calls "judicial tyranny" and "judicial usurpation."

Automation

EAST LANSING, Mich. —Michigan State University has found television a better teach of typewriting than a classroom instructor.

In a test conducted by MSU's bureau of business research television-taught students, who had had no instructor in the classroom, not only learned to type faster, but made fewer errors than did students taught in a classroom. The bureau conceded the television technique's novelty might have been a factor.

Late Starter

REEDSVILLE, Wis. —Arthur Wagner took extra precautions to prevent intruders from mistaking his brown riding horse for a deer. But he wasn't quite careful enough.

Wagner kept the $275 horse in the barn during Wisconsin's nine-day deer season. Three minutes after the season closed, he let the horse into a pasture for exercise. A few minutes later, he heard a shot. He found the horse dead, shot through the chest with a shotgun slug.

Key Economists See Prosperity For Another Year

After 12 years, I am about to take a "sabbatical" from the Business Outlook to finish a book on the American Stockholder. Fortunately, I can do so in good conscience. Nine out of ten economists assure me that when I return to my column in the fall, Wall Street will not be seeking crash shelters, help-wanted ads will still bring in good revenue to newspapers, consumers will have spending money, and prosperity will be America's lot.

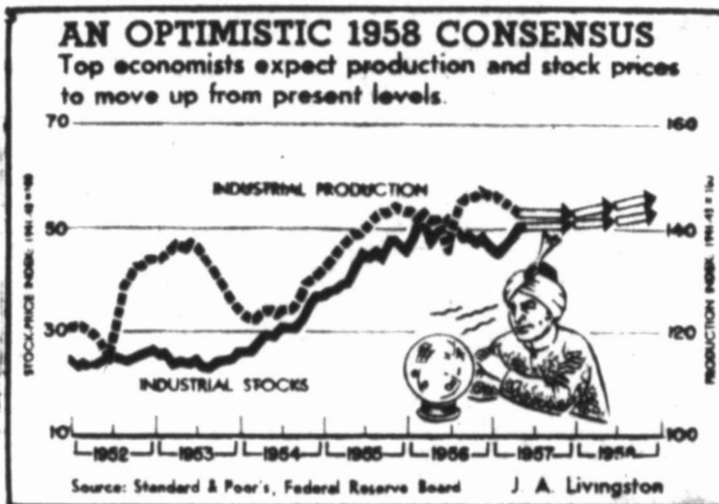

Fifty-two out of the 57 economists who replied to my semi-annual questionnaire on the business outlook confirm my feelings. My hunch has been that business would slip in the first half of 1957 and that recovery would be under way in the second half. The economists go further. They're optimistic for 1958 as well. They do not anticipate a sharp slump in capital spending—construction of new factories, installation of new equipment, and erection of new office and commercial buildings.

And these are men strategically posted for business analysis. They're associated with banks, industrial corporations, investment firms, government agencies, labor unions, research organizations, and universities. They are not influenced by business decisions, they also influence such decisions.

And, yet, there is a remarkable, perhaps alarming, conformity in the forecasts. A popular delusion has been creeping up on us—the delusion of "2 per cent a year inflation,"—the feeling that bit-by-bit inflation can occur without culminating in a speculative bust.

Although the economists expect industrial production to rise 2 per cent from current levels to the end of 1958, they expect the dollar value of all goods and services to rise by more than 4 per cent. In short, a little more little-by-little inflation. Such thinking leads to popular delusions and economic ills. Expenditures on new plant and equipment—business investment—will hold steady through 1958; but the market—the consumer—will hold steady through 1958; but the market—the consumer—will hold steady through 1958; but the market—the consumer—will hold steady through 1958.

When human minds converge onto a single track, beware!

This 2 per cent inflation theory is often said to have a "laboristic base." Labor unions are powerful. They can wrench annual wage increases from employers above increases in productivity. Yet, it has an "industrialistic base," too. If it weren't profitable for business men to avoid strikes, they wouldn't raise wages. They'd take strikes. But the market—the consumer—has paid the tab.

Thus, the economists predict that wages in manufacturing, which were $81.78 in May, will climb to $83.30 by the end of this year and $85.71 by the end of 1958. That, in spite of an expected increase in unemployment from 2,715,000 to 3,052,000 workers.

And wholesale prices will advance from the current level of 117.3 to 119.5 by the end of 1958. The cost of living will push up further from 119.6 to 122.1. But farm prices will go up hardly at all—from 243 to only 244. Industrial, not farm, prices tilt the index.

In summary, the economists expect that:

1. Expenditures on new plant and equipment—business investment—will hold steady through 1958; but the market—the consumer—will hold steady through 1958; but the market—the consumer—will hold steady through 1958.

2. Housing starts, now running at a 990,000 annual rate, will climb to nearly 1,100,000 by the end of 1958.

3. Defense spending will increase slightly. It's now running at an annual rate of $45,000,000,000; it will hit $47,000,000,000 by mid-1958; the slough off to $46,000,000,000, reflecting recent budget-cutting efforts of Congress.

4. Consumers will do what consumers are expected to do: Spend. They won't be bothered too much by tight money or low bond prices. Result: Department store sales will increase 5 per cent—from 124 to 130 in the Federal Reserve Board index.

And so, industrial production, as measured by the Federal Reserve Board index, will climb from current levels of 143 to 146, not quite up to the high recorded in December last year—147. And total output of goods and services, measured in dollars, will rise from $427,000,000,000 to $434,000,000,000 by the end of 1958—successive new highs.

What makes me hopeful, what makes me "absorb strength" from the consensus, is that slack is now appearing in the economy. Since December, hours of work are down from 41 to 39.7 per cent. Steel, aluminum, copper, newsprint, and other commodities, long in short supply, are readily available. And the drop in the bond market has served notice that new financing is going to be costly and more difficult. There's less talk of inflation and some talk of deflation. The 2 per cent inflation theory has had a setback.

The best preventative of a crash is mindfulness of the possibility!

Costly Promise

LONGMONT, Colo. —A Longmont man's promise to his two Girl Scout daughters backfired more than slightly. The man, who didn't want to be identified, told his daughters he would buy a box of cookies for every boy sold during the Girl Scouts' annual cookie sale.

In all, the two girls sold 66 boxes of cookies. The father kept his promise. He purchased 66 boxes—for $29.70.

Judicial Advice

CLEVELAND —A Cleveland juvenile judge believes there would be less delinquency if parents would stop trying to be "pals" to their teen-age children.

Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Woldman says:

"I'm sick and tired of fathers coming into court and telling me they gave their sons this and that because they wanted to be pals. 'What we need is a little of that sternness that marked the father of the Victorian Age when children knew who was boss.'"

Go To Denmark For The Fourth Of July

The oratory has been replaced by bathing beauty pageants; the firecrackers give way to Soap Box races; small groups gather in backyards instead of crowds congregating for the community picnic —

But it's still July Fourth. The reaffirmation of patriotism is missing in most places, and pursuit of pleasure appears in its stead.

There are still some sites of distinction that take on a special appeal when the nation celebrates the birthday of its independence.

One of these is Philadelphia, and I was interested to turn through a magazine the other day which brought out again what every American ought to know; that is, the special shrines in this historic city.

Stately Independence Hall is there, perhaps the nation's most venerated building. Here the Declaration of Independence was adopted; here George Washington was appointed commander-in-chief of the Continental Army; here the Articles of Confederation were ratified; here the Constitution of the United States framed.

And in Philadelphia is the home place of shrewd Ben Franklin. The Betsy Ross House is there, too, and Carpenter's Hall, where the First Continental Congress convened.

Yes, Philadelphia would be one place of note to be on July Fourth.

And another might be, of all places, Rebild National Park in Denmark. Here's the outgrowth of a little known expression of friendship between different peoples, and worthy of the telling.

Americans and Danes have been celebrating the Fourth of July together since 1912, when a group of Danish-born Americans purchased the ancient Rebild Hills adjacent to Rold Forest, one of the most beautiful sites in Denmark. They donated this land to the Danish government as a national park, with the stipulation that the American Independence Day be observed there every year. It was their gratitude for a new life found in America.

And every year, with the exception of war years, a great festival is held there. As many as 40,000 people have assembled in this beautiful 450-acre park for a colorful and stirring ceremony. The Danish Royal Family, the American Ambassador, the Danish Prime Minister and Cabinet members participate in the festivities. The program always begins with the raising of the Stars and Stripes and the Danish banner to the voices of thousands singing the national anthems. Great music and notable speeches contribute to a patriotic festival unique in the world.

There are "little" Fourth of July celebrations all over the world, particularly where service men are stationed, and where ever there might be a U.S. embassy, a consulate or a legation. These are still the same observances as they have been for years where — like in Denmark — the raising of the flag takes on significance, where the Star-Spangled Banner is sung by those familiar with the words, where the "homeland" is a cherished place.

Seems a bit of a pity that Americans should have to go to Denmark, or be sent to some other distant clime, in order to experience the old spirit of Independence Day.

—BOB WHIPKEY

Color Your Thoughts, Brighten Your Life

Last summer, when I was traveling in Europe with my family, we went to the opera in Paris. My wife is a real music lover and I, though not so discriminating, found that the opera of the evening was really wonderful.

But after the first act the man next to me introduced himself and we spent the intermission talking. He was a psychologist, and our conversation was so interesting that I almost felt annoyed when the intermission ended and the music started again. But we continued our conversation during the second intermission, and this psychologist gave me an interesting thought which I want to share with you.

It seemed that my opera acquaintance was making an investigation of the effect of color on the human spirit. He was about to conclude, after a long series of experiments, that tension, blood pressure, and heart action resulting from anxiety can apparently be helpfully affected by a proper use of the primary color blue.

For centuries blue has been associated with depression and gloom, but these experiments tend to show that in some patients' blood pressure has been reduced from ten to twelve points by the quieting atmosphere of diffused blue light.

I feel there may indeed be something to this, for when I was in Stockholm recently I became fascinated by the "Blue Twilight" a characteristic of that city. It is created through the effect of the Midnight Sun and is an amazingly blue half-light I found myself greatly uplifted by it and felt a strange sense of peace.

Later, at Chartres, in France, I talked with the man who repairs the famous windows of the ancient Cathedral there. He told me that the one color in the stained glass windows which has not disintegrated under the force of the elements is the blue created by the medieval craftsmen. He thought that a reason Chartres is so stimulating to the human spirit is because of the deep blues through which the soft and ethereal light filters into the huge church.

I am no authority on color or its effects, but I have observed that a coloration of the mind by the pure reflection of faith can bring peace and health by driving off anxiety, resentment, and other agitators of the spirit. To color the mind, simply fill the mind with thoughts of God, with thoughts of faith, of love and goodness. You can make the color of the mind strong and peaceful by daily prayer, for prayer itself is a manner of thought. You can pray your mind into good health and peace.

Marcus Aurelius, a great Roman philosopher, reminded us that, "The soul is dyed the color of its thoughts." So, the thoughts which motivate you make you either happy or sad, a failure or a success, weak or strong. You can do anything with your thoughts. You can determine the color of your mind.

Try this simple formula for coloring your thoughts with faith: 1. Read the Bible every day. 2. Make it a habit to think good thoughts. 3. Attend services of worship regularly. 4. Do good to others. 5. Live near to God in your thinking and acting.

Color your thoughts in this fashion and you will greatly brighten your life and that of others as well.

Stassen Unable To Make A Commitment

There are many signs that while Governor Stassen does have a mandate to negotiate in London, it is thin and weak and tentative. He is authorized to see whether he can work out an agreement which, when it is brought back to Washington, will have the full support of the Administration, which is divided on the fundamentals, and of the Senate, which is keeping itself aloof and uncommitted.

The negotiator of any treaty is, of course, in the position of not being entirely certain that the Senate will ratify what he may agree to. But Gov. Stassen's position is unusually precarious. For he has the Administration united behind him only in the sense that the President has made a ruling which must be obeyed, not in the sense that the opposition has been convinced and won over. The high officials who do not want an agreement at this time are being formally correct in not challenging the President's policy. But, and are exerting a powerful influence in Congress and in the press.

What has happened, I believe, is that the great underlying issues of policy, which must in the end be decided by public debate, have been debated in secret within the Administration, and have been decided but have not been settled. The underlying issues turn on whether, if an enforceable agreement to limit armaments could be reached, it would be wise to make the agreement. The really important opposition is among those who think that an agreement to limit armaments, even though enforceable, would be undesirable.

It is a pity that the case of the opposition was not debated publicly before the negotiations began in London. It may well become necessary to debate the case before the negotiations can go much further. For it is not realistic to assume, as the President does when he discusses the subject in his oversimplifying way, that the whole problem is whether the Russians will agree to some arrangement that they will not be able to violate.

Although for my own part, I would make a limited agreement, say to suspend the nuclear tests for a trial period, I do not doubt that the case against such an agreement must be recognized and answered. Otherwise, we may find ourselves in the dangerous position of rejecting an international agreement that the President has made.

There are, it would seem, two principal objections to making an agreement.

The first is that to suspend testing would be to sacrifice advantages that we now have and others that we expect to obtain in the future. Presumably we are not only ahead of the Russians in the race of armaments but the scientists think that we are within reach of advances which will put us decisively ahead for at least some considerable period of time.

The second of the principal objections is that any agreement, however limited technically, in a matter of such crucial importance as nuclear weapons will have a profound influence on all the great issues which divide the world. An effect of the meeting at the summit in 1955 at Geneva was to downgrade the international importance of issues like the division of Germany. Any substantial agreement now which covers the ultimate weapons of modern war will have a similar, perhaps a larger, downgrading effect.

Whether this would be a good thing or a bad one is the really debatable question. Does the downgrading of issues like the division of Germany, of Korea, of Viet Nam, like the rivalry in the Middle East, like the withdrawal of the Soviet Army from Eastern Europe, mean that these problems will never be solved? Or does it mean that they will all be solved in the end as suits the Soviet Union? Or does it mean that as the tension relaxes, the national and local impulses towards independence and nationalism will assert themselves?

No one knows for certain and it is foolish to be dogmatic. The future is not under our control. But as between the risks of standing pat and the risks of venturing forward, why should we take counsel only of our fears?

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 5:17 — "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." (King James Version)

"My son Hannibal will be a great general," said Hamilcar, "because of all my soldiers he knows best how to obey." The greatest soldiers of the cross have been obedient to the law of God. The Ten Commandments are rules for the building of character. Jesus did not repeal them — he fulfilled the law, and under grace and love a higher ethical life is required.

A master and slave went fishing. On their way back late at night, the master became sleepy, and turning the helm over to Moses, he pointed out the North Star and urged him to keep his eye on it. But the servant's eyes became heavy and he fell asleep, too. When he awakened, he called his master frantically, "Wake up! Show me another star. I've done run clean past this one!"

Many have lost sight of the law of God, but we can no more run past it than past the North Star. About once in a century there appears someone like Francis of Assisi who is willing to be utterly obedient, and God sees that person to make Christian history. Where is there such a person for this century?

Seeing Eye

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —A man came into A. J. Bishop's dry cleaning shop, asked for his suit, then asked Bishop to confirm the color.

"I don't see well," the customer explained. "Will you take your money from this bill and give me the change?"

Bishop made change, put the suit on a hanger, and placed it in the man's hand. The man turned, fumbled for the door-knob, and stepped outside to an automobile. He felt for the door handle, opened the door, and gropingly hung up his suit.

Then he got behind the wheel and drove away.

These seven girls are off to find a pretty place to prepare lunch and set a "Girl Scout table" on a grassy knoll. Crossing the bridge are, left to right, Cherie Sabato, Big Spring; Barbara Lacy, Abilene; Donna Kay Ross, Lamesa; Sondra Jones, Abilene; Kerrie Lee Ray, Abilene; Sabette Stephens, Lamesa, and Nancy Thomas, Big Spring.

SWEETWATER, June 29 (SC) — On a 40-acre tract eight miles southwest of here, hundreds of Girl Scouts of the West Texas Council every year have a chance to participate in many activities that fit into the adventure of living in the out-of-doors.

Sessions at Camp Boothe Oaks got under way in 1957 with a two-week period June 9-21. The campsite, developed during the past five years and now valued at nearly $100,000, was never more attractive than this year; recent rains have brought nature's own greens to their peak in beauty and brilliance.

Campers have an excellent opportunity to study nature lore this summer, along with outdoor cooking; overnight camps to adjoining properties, Lake Sweetwater and Lake Trammell; hikes, swimming, crafts, campfires, singing and stargazing.

Boothe Oaks boasts a wealth of trees, a 40-by-100-foot mess hall, swimming pool, counselor's retreat and infirmary, and a caretaker's lodge, completed just before summer camp sessions got under way.

Campers live in tents arranged in four units of sixteen girls each with three staff members, a counselor, assistant counselor and program aide assigned to each unit of girls. Every precaution is taken to safeguard the health of the girls attending; a first aider is on duty at all times and a doctor on call; drinking water and sanitary facilities are approved by the Nolan County Health Department, and food is prepared under the supervision of a qualified dietician.

The camp conforms to standards set forth by the National Girl Scouts, and at a nominal fee offers the Girl Scouts the best in camping opportunities.

There is no set schedule other than rising, retiring, meals and the rest hour for the girls enrolled. The familiar ring of the solid brass locomotive bell near the mess hall wakens the girls, calls them to meals, campfires, parties and all-camp assemblies.

In addition to the four units of regular campers, Girl Scouts who have completed the eighth grade and have two years of established camp experience form a pioneer unit. These experienced campers select their own site in the 40 acres, clear it, and set up their own unit, cook their own meals and plan their own activities for two weeks each year.

For Girl Scouts in the senior program, the West Texas Council this summer is sponsoring two trip camps. The first group, who are 11th and 12th graders, returned June 21 from a two-week camp to New Mexico. The 9th and 10th grade seniors left Boothe Oaks last Tuesday for their 10-day trip to Girl Scout camps, Carlsbad Caverns and a pack trip in New Mexico.

Margaret McAdams, West Texas Girl Scout executive director, and Ila Beth Hester, of the Taylor County professional staff, both of Abilene, are camp director and asstant camp director at Boothe Oaks.

Campers are from the towns in the 13 county West Texas Council: Abilene, Wylie, Merkel, Tye, Sweetwater, Blackwell, Roscoe, Bronck, Snyder, Ira, Big Spring, Stanton, Coahoma, Lamesa, Gail, Colorado City, Lorraine, Silver, Roby and Rotan.

Cowboy Reunion To Open Next Tuesday

STAMFORD — The city of Stamford is ready for the 27th annual Texas Cowboy Reunion that will get under way Tuesday at 11 a.m. with a colorful parade.

The Hardin-Simmons Cowboy Band will be the official rodeo band again this year. Carl Swenson who takes care of the registration of the contestants, and A. M. G. (Swede) Swenson, chairman of the rodeo events, said that entries are pouring in.

W. G. Swenson, president of the organization, is optimistic about prospects for a good show this year. The old timers' Bunkhouse is ready for them and the Round-up Hall is waiting. W. J. Bryant, parking chairman, has added space for visitors this year. Steve Bennett has the Ranch chuck wagon set up and Coy Upshaw has the old timers wagon ready for them.

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

"THEY WOODS AND TEMPLED HILLS..."

Samuel Francis Smith was a student at Andover Theological Seminary when he wrote "My country, 'tis of thee." That was in 1832, two years before he was ordained a minister.

"America" never became our national anthem—probably because it is sung to the tune of the British anthem, "God Save the King." But it has remained one of our greatest hymns, its words familiar to almost every American. In a simple, moving way it seems to express both the spirit of our nation and the faith of our churches. And in its stirring climax, addressed to the Author of Liberty, these become one.

Samuel Francis Smith, with other great Americans, taught us to seek our national welfare in constant religious devotion. He saw no denial of America's freedom—but rather its fulfillment—in the humble acknowledgment:

GREAT GOD, OUR KING!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

SAGA OF SCURRY

by Kathryn Cotten. Naylor Company.

Naturally, in order to really be interested in a book such as "Saga of Scurry," by Kathryn Cotten, one should have lived in that county or, at least, had close acquaintance with its people and its history.

How wide a sale this little volume will have is hard to say. There is no doubt about one thing, however, books such as this are important contributions to the history of a state. In years to come, undoubtedly, historians digging for data will turn through Mrs. Cotten's book to get information they need about her particular part of the country.

There are several black-and-white illustrations in the volume. Some are old photographs and others are pen and ink drawings. I am sure that the old timers of Scurry County and pioneers of this part of West Texas will find much in her text to interest them and to revive memories of the early days.

The book is actually a long collection of short essays and sketches in most instances not even loosely connected. Division is achieved by insertion of a capitalized line in either naming the person about whom the following paragraphs are written or the incident being related.

The book is roughly divided into two major sections which Mrs. Cotten dubs "Dawn" and "High Noon." The author is a resident of Monahans. She gained her first literary fame, according to the dustcover biography about here, with a novel "Tomorrow's Hero." The sketch concerning Mrs. Cotten says she won a prize with that book but the details are lacking.

She formerly lived in Scurry County—local of her new book—and after she had become a widow in 1930, she entered politics. She served three terms as Scurry County clerk. Much of her material for the book now being distributed was collected during these three years.

"Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," returning Sunday through Wednesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre, is an amusing little yarn with an unusual twist. Robert Mitchum is starred as a Marine washed up on a small, Jap-infested island during World War II, only to find the still already occupied by a nun, played Deborah Kerr.

Mitchum's character is that of a hard-boiled Leatherneck who has never seen the inside of a church, and whose knowledge of Catholics is limited to the phrase "mackerel snapper," which is the Marine term for their buddies, who eat fish on Fridays. Miss Kerr's role is about as opposite as a role can get—the young woman who has spurned the worldly life for the uncomfortable robes of the church, a woman who has never actually tasted of the joys of living. This odd situation leads to many amusing scenes as the pair attempt to survive amidst the Japs.

'Boy On Dolphin' Shows At Sahara

"Boy on a Dolphin" returns to the screen of the Sahara Drive-In Theatre Thursday through Saturday.

The title of the film is descriptive of an ancient Greek statue lost centuries before in the waters of the Mediterranean. Sophia Loren, in the role of a Greek skin diver, discovers the famed statue and exiles that the treasure is priceless. Alan Ladd, a conscientious American archeologist, learns of the find and attempts to head off Clifton Webb, a wealthy art collector who also gets on the scent. Webb wants the statue for his private collection, while Ladd seeks to return the boy on a dolphin to the Greek people.

Miss Loren is caught in the middle and must choose between the two rivals.

Explosive Drama

Columnist Burt Lancaster threatens press agent Tony Curtis in this scene from "Sweet Smell of Success," explosive drama showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Ritz Theatre.

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

New on Atlantic this week is the result of a novel idea—the featuring a series of "name" artists singing a collection of songs that give a record of their climb to success. Each entertainer is allotted an entire album of 12 numbers, some old, some new, some until now unreleased.

Perhaps the most representative of the group features Clyde McPhatter. With the vocal group, the Drifters, adding attraction, he glides through "Without Love (There Is Nothing)," "Someday You'll Want Me To Want You," "Bells of St. Mary's," and "Honey Love" in regular rock and roll fashion.

Ruth Brown, another Atlantic rock 'n' roll recorder featured in the series, has been a top vocalist for about seven years, her first big hit being "I'll Get Along Somewhere." In this album, she sings numbers including "Lucky Lips," "Old Man River," "So Long," "Daddy, Daddy," and "Sentimental Journey."

Joe Turner's contribution to the blues world is remembered as being numbers included in his album of the series. Earning him the title of "boss of the blues," they are "Corrine Corrina," "Shake, Rattle, and Roll" and "Honey Hush."

Ray Charles, another R&B recorder for Atlantic, sings "I Got A Woman," "Mary Ann," "This Little Girl of Mine," and "Ain't That Love." The latter is a current number.

An outstanding singer of rock 'n' roll is LaVerne Baker, who has recorded on Atlantic label for three years. Included in her album of this series are "I Can't Love You Enough," "The Lucky Old Sun," "Bop Ting A Ling," "Jim Dandy," and "Tra La La."

Winding up the series is an album done by Ivory Joe Hunter, artist-composer. His contributions to the project in the way of music, include "Since I Met You Baby," "A Tear Fell," "I Want Somebody," and "It May Sound Silly." Also included in the package are "I'll Never Leave You Baby," and "That's Why," two of his untold-now-unreleased numbers.

"Over the Mountain and Across the Sea" is the unlikely title pinned to a number done by an even more unlikely twosome, Johnny and Joe. The result is surprisingly, though, a rhythmic number that notes attention.

A slow and drifting melody supplied by the Ray Coniff orchestra adds distinction to the Johnny Maties recording of "It's Not For Me To Say." This Columbia recording is a local favorite coming up fine so far as popularity goes.

Many local teen-agers go for the Del Vikings singing their latest, "Cool Shake," in a big way.

Patti Page has two recordings on the market that have as yet to reach their peak of success. They are "Old Cape Cod" and "Wondering." Both are on Mercury.

Chuck Miller, Everly Brothers and Tommy Sands all have their bid in for top billing on "Bye, Bye Love," a top notcher in the majority's estimation.

"An Affair To Remember" is done by both Vic Damone, with the Percy Faith orchestra on Columbia, and Carmen Cavallaro. Both are class A recordings.

Latest by Johnny Dee is "It's Gotta Be You." This young artist seems to capture new fans daily.

"Be There At Five" is an album of conversational music for the cocktail hour—or just the listening hour, whichever appeals to you. Recorded on Mercury, the works is billed under the heading of the Glenn Osser orchestra, featuring Jimmy Crawford on drums, and Andy Ackers as pianist. Included numbers are "Little White Lies," "Don't Get Around Much Anymore," "Ain't Misbehaving," "When We're Alone (Penthouse Serenade)," and "It All Depends on You."

We can't decide the purpose of the New Fee Wee Hunt album. Its purpose could be double, but we doubt it. Solution: the listener must decide for himself. Titled "The Classics A La Dixie," Pee Wee and the orchestra change the styling of Brahms, Bizet, and Offenbach. "Hungarian Dance No. 5" is transformed into "Hunt's Goulash." Another example of the album is the transfiguring of "Quartet from Rigoletto" into a blues rendition, "Rigoletto Rock."

The remainder of the album is patterned along these lines. Is the purpose merely satire, or bringing the average music fan a foretaste of the classics?

Simplicity is the theme for the Decca album "Jeri Gently Jumps," featuring the voice of Jeri Southern. It is designed for summer listening. Tinged with blues, numbers include "My Ideal," "No Moon At All," "It Must Be You," and "Am I Blue."

The Big Town

Tammy, the girl from the backwoods, sees the "big city" of Fairville (population 1,650), and gets all excited over the mobs of people, the paved streets and the huge buildings, in this scene from "Tammy and the Bachelor." Debbie Reynolds and Leslie Nielsen share top billing with Walter Brennan.

'Tammy' Begins At Ritz Sunday

It's not often you meet a character like Tammy. She's a sweet but uninhibited riverboat doll who turns a plantation family on its ear.

Debbie Reynolds is cast as Tammy; Leslie Nielsen, a bright new star in the Hollywood firmament, as the young heir with whom she falls in love; and Walter Brennan, as Tammy's Bible-quoting, moonshine-making grandpappy.

Debbie romps (mostly barefoot) triumphantly through the fast-moving story of a child of the woods facing for the first time the perils, puzzles and romantic hazards of city life.

The plot has Brennan and Tammy rescuing Nielsen after his plane crashes in the swamp. Tammy nurses Nielsen back to health in her riverboat home, and falls for him. Then, after Nielsen leaves, Brennan is caught by revenuers and sent to jail. He sends Tammy to Nielsen's plantation to live.

Tammy's uninhibited ways puncture a few stiffed shirts and elasticize a few hardened arteries, and the old plantation will never again be the same.

Classic Hemingway Tale Shows At Jet

One of the most famous novels of modern times was Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls," a story of love, misery and war during the battle for Spanish freedom in 1936.

The movie version, now in re-release, was also hailed as one of the finest films in Hollywood history. It is essentially a love story, but is well backgrounded by the Spanish Civil War.

Hemingway wrote his novel with two his two leading characters in mind for the film version. Gary Cooper is seen as Robert Jordan, the American dynamiter whose passion for liberty brought him to fight for the Spanish Republic against the insurgent Fascists.

Hemingway took his title from a quotation by John Donne, English poet of the 17th Century, a title which is appropriate considering the way the story ends. Donne's words were: "No man is an island, intire of it selfe; every man is a peece of the Continent, a part of the maine, If a Clod be washed away by the

Gary Cooper teaches Ingrid Bergman where the noses go when people kiss. This scene, one of the most famous love scenes ever put on film, is from "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

LIFE WITH MUSIC

No Vacation For Performing Folks

By RICHARD D. SAUNDERS

Vacation time is here for most folks but not, or at least not wholly, for performing musicians and dancers. A teacher may take time off without adversely affecting his career. But an artist, like a sports player, must keep up his practice almost continuously.

A statement credited to Padrewski (and to several others) is: "If I fall to practice for one day, I know it; if for two days, the critics know it; if for three days, the auditors know it!"

Actually it is beneficial to take a little time off occasionally, for that keen edge sometimes gets a little dull, and a performer can "go stale," as the saying has it. A short time spent entirely away from the profession may prove refreshing and the individual afterwards can return to his work with renewed zest.

ADAGE IS RIGHT

But the adage that "practice makes perfect" is particularly true in art, with the addition that such practice should be intelligent practice. Just repeating the same phrase or the same motions over and over again will train the muscles, but conscious exercise is equally necessary to achieve a worthwhile result.

The wise performer will prepare for his vacation by deciding what basic exercises are essential to keep him in form, and then using these with discretion. Mental practice can be indulged while relaxing the body on a chaise-longue or a hammock. Recalling the notes is quite as important as flexing the fingers or the lungs, and every movement must be conceived mentally before it can be executed physically.

Regular practice hours, which economize time under normal conditions, can grow monotonous, and a change of pace for a while makes them seem less of a chore and more of a pleasure when they are resumed.

Having already quoted a couple of old saws, I will have recourse to one more, which goes: "Work is play you have to do, and play is work you don't have to do!"

BERKSHIRE FESTIVAL

The music of a special composer will be emphasized each weekend during the 20th season of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. The famous fete begins July 3, as Charles Munch leads the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and extends to Aug. 11. Bach will be featured at the first weekend, followed by Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Berlioz, Brahms and Beethoven. The Hollywood Bowl opens its 36th season on July 9. Paul Paray, George Solti, Johnny Green, Robert Armbruster and William Steinberg are the principal conductors, with Birgit Nilsson, Dorothy Kirsten, Marian Anderson, Erika Morini and Isaac Stern among the soloists. . . . A long-needed professional ballet company for Southern California is being developed in the Panaiell Ballet Concerto. The troupe will give its second full program in the Burbank Starlight Bowl, July 20.

Memorial Grants

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Theatre Wing's summer workshop for student performers is being assisted this year by two financial grants in memory of Gertrude Lawrence.

The workshop operates at Dennis, Mass., for 10 weeks. The Wing will use a grant of the Gertrude Lawrence Aldrich Foundation to further the overall study program, and the other fund—given anonymously—as an award to the workshop's outstanding performer.

Island Tale At Jet Theatre

"Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," returning Sunday through Wednesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre, is an amusing little yarn with an unusual twist. Robert Mitchum is starred as a Marine washed up on a small, Jap-infested island during World War II, only to find the still already occupied by a nun, played Deborah Kerr.

Mitchum's character is that of a hard-boiled Leatherneck who has never seen the inside of a church, and whose knowledge of Catholics is limited to the phrase "mackerel snapper," which is the Marine term for their buddies, who eat fish on Fridays. Miss Kerr's role is about as opposite as a role can get—the young woman who has spurned the worldly life for the uncomfortable robes of the church, a woman who has never actually tasted of the joys of living. This odd situation leads to many amusing scenes as the pair attempt to survive amidst the Japs.

'Boy On Dolphin' Shows At Sahara

"Boy on a Dolphin" returns to the screen of the Sahara Drive-In Theatre Thursday through Saturday.

The title of the film is descriptive of an ancient Greek statue lost centuries before in the waters of the Mediterranean. Sophia Loren, in the role of a Greek skin diver, discovers the famed statue and exiles that the treasure is priceless. Alan Ladd, a conscientious American archeologist, learns of the find and attempts to head off Clifton Webb, a wealthy art collector who also gets on the scent. Webb wants the statue for his private collection, while Ladd seeks to return the boy on a dolphin to the Greek people.

Miss Loren is caught in the middle and must choose between the two rivals.

Gun Duel

George Montgomery and Anna Robinson star in the action Western, "Gun Duel in Durango," showing Thursday through Saturday at the State Theatre. In the story, she has made him put down his guns, but he has to take them up again to save the girl's life, and shoot it out with a gang of killers.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

"Tammy and the Bachelor" is pure hollywood: it's a yarn set deep in the Lower Mississippi Valley, but there's no sex nor sin like in the recently lamented "Baby Doll." Matter of fact, you might even dare to take the kids to see "Tammy and the Bachelor."

Debbie Reynolds is surprisingly good in the role of an innocent backwoods doll. She manages to place her acting a notch above her previous rather mediocre roles.

Leslie Nielsen, the spaceman in "Forbidden Planet," is also known from "The Vagabond King" and "The Opposite Sex." In "Tammy and the Bachelor" he plays a young, mixed-up heir to a Southern plantation.

And then there's Walter Brennan, a past master at his kind of role — this one casts him as a Bible-quoting moonshiner, grandfather to Miss Reynolds.

Most people don't understand Burt Lancaster. Thus, a lot of people misjudge his films and his acting, and Lancaster's reputation suffers as a result.

Lancaster, without advertising the fact, is a poor man's Orson Welles. Most of his films are spoofs on the standard Hollywood product, but his lampooning is so subtle most people miss it. Thus "Vera Cruz" is to most people just another Wild West yarn in a Mexican setting.

Lancaster figured people liked blood, so he gave them an overdose. He figured they liked heroes, so he and co-star Gary Cooper hammed it up as no Saturday matinee hero has ever done.

"Vera Cruz" may be enjoyed by all kinds of people — those who like blood and thunder but who aren't a bit subtle, and by those who can appreciate a few underhanded goings-of the usual Hollywood product.

It's a good week for fans of Gary Cooper. He stars in three films showing here during the next few days, the oldest being "Unconquered," a re-release of vintage quality, another old one "For Whom the Bell Tolls," and the most recent, "Vera Cruz." This is an opportunity for the Coop's fans to compare performances and judge how well he has grown in stature over the years.

There's plenty of scenery in "Boy on a Dolphin." The main attraction, naturally, being Sophia Loren, the busy Italian beauty who had decided to spend some time in Hollywood. Then, if anyone is interested, there are some excellent underwater color shots, to say nothing of scenes of Greek ruins.

And the glory that was Greece plays a prominent part in the plot, what with Alan Ladd and a Clifton Webb vieing for Miss Loren's attention. It seems the girl has discovered a priceless Greek statue on the bottom of the Aegean Sea, and both men are after it.

"Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" provides a pleasant evening's entertainment with an unusual story angle. It's the tale of a nun and a Marine cast away on a Jap-infested isle during World War II. The story suffers somewhat from needless explanations of religious dogma, but this fault is not enough to lower the film's entertainment value.

The film version of Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls," now in re-release, is just as good entertainment now as it was in the late 1930's. It stars Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergman in a story backgrounded by the Spanish Civil War.

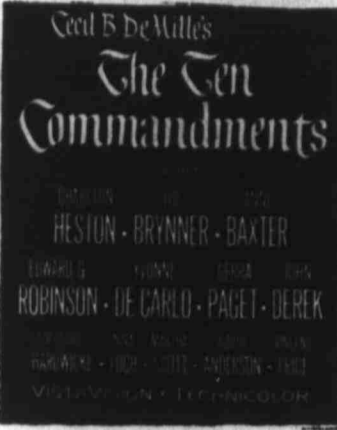

The film was re-released at the right time. The U.S., in seeking to counter Soviet Russia, is making an ally of Franco's Spain. "For Whom the Bell Tolls" will help some people remember that Franco is a dictator. Some may even remember that in World War II we made friends with another dictator to counter the Nazi threat.
