In Stanton Reunion Parade

A large group of youthful horsemen help bring back the pioneer spirit to Martin County's 24th annual Old Settlers Reunion Tuesday afternoon. Scene shows the parade as it came up Main Street toward the court house. Hundreds of spectators watched as the long line made its way through the main part of town. The group was led by Webb Air Force Band and the Martin County Sheriff's posse.

More Than 600 Register For 24th Martin County Reunion

By JESS BLAIR STANTON — The 24th Martin County Old Settlers Reunion came to a close at the City Park last night with a barbecue supper and short formal program. The day's activities had included registration of visitors, a downtown parade, and then the night's program. Throughout the afternoon, groups of older people could be seen gathered on the streets meeting one another and talking about the earlier days. A total of 613 people registered and bought tickets for the supper, while about 650 plates were passed out, some of which were used by holders of complimentary tickets. This compared favorably with the total number at previous reunions. However, not quite so many older people came long distances to be at the meeting. Most of the older residents now living in the county were there, but only one came from as far away as Dallas. Several came from Lamesa, Midland and Big Spring, and a few from New Mexico. The parade was watched by hundreds as it passed along most of the downtown streets. It was led by the Webb Air Force Band and the Martin County Sheriff's posse.

Among the floats were those of the Boy Scouts, The Garden Club of Stanton, Music Club, Stanton Library, and Martin County Home Demonstration Council. In addition, there were several commercial floats, numerous horseback riders and special automobiles carrying some of the oldtimers. After the barbecue, the group met for the formal program, which was presided over by Holt Priddy. The welcome address was made by Bernard Houston, who is also the outgoing president of the organization. The response to the welcome was given by George Blocker, a former Stanton resident, who has been living in Jal, N.M., for the last 13 years. Blocker, who represents the New Mexico State Legislature from his district, expressed pleasure at being back in Stanton and meeting old friends again. Mrs. Morgan Hall, the permanent secretary-treasurer of the organization, read numerous cards and letters from former residents who sent their best wishes, and also their regrets at not being able to attend. Many of them were ill or had folks who were unable to make the trip. New officers were elected by acclamation. Houston is being succeeded by A. B. Bryan, who has been vice president the past year. The new vice president is Alton Turner, while Mrs. Hall will retain her duties as secretary-treasurer. Houston said that next year would be the 25th reunion, and efforts would be made to make it the greatest of all the meetings. The reunions started in 1930, but have not run consecutively because a few were missed during the war years. Recognition of certain oldtimers in the audience was omitted this time, but it was generally admitted that Chris Peters came to Martin County before any other person still living. He was born in Germany but was brought to Stanton by his parents in 1883. There were several others in the crowd who were living in the county before the new century began. The memorial to the deceased was given by G. B. Shelburne Sr., who asked the crowd to stand in a one-minute silent prayer. He then read the names of 41 residents who have died since the reunion in 1956. Shelburne also gave the closing prayer. Afterwards many of the younger people attended a dance at the Stanton American Legion Hall. Some of the older ones went also, but mostly for them it had been a busy, tiring afternoon. After visiting awhile in small groups, the crowd dispersed, and another old settlers reunion had come to an end.

Street Seal Coat Work Scheduled

Seal coating of approximately 50 blocks of city streets will be started early next week as a result of city commission action last night. Commissioners accepted proposals of W. D. Caldwell and McMahon Concrete Company for supplying materials for the work. Caldwell will furnish asphalt and distribute it on streets to be surfaced. McMahon will deliver gravel for the resurfacing work, and city crews are to apply the gravel. City Engineer Clifton Bellamy said the project may cover slightly more or slightly less than 50 blocks. The city has appropriated $6,000 for the work, and the seal coating will be continued until funds are exhausted. Bellamy and R. V. Foresyth, street department superintendent, chose streets to be repaired on the basis of need. Seal coating is applied on a number of streets each year, with those most in need of the surfacing getting the treatment. Caldwell will supply asphalt for the work at the rate of 3 1/2 cents a gallon and will distribute it over the pavement at a cent per square yard. McMahon will deliver gravel to the site for $2 per cubic yard. Bellamy estimated total cost of the work will run about 8 1/2 cents per square yard. He and City Manager H. W. Whitney said city crews will be prepared to start the work early next week. Streets to be seal coated are in various parts of the city. The work is proposed for First, from Nolan to Benton; Bell, Third to Eighth; Eighth, Bell to Lancaster; Ninth, Lancaster to Gregg; both Eighth and Ninth, Main to Johnson; Goliad, Third to Eighth; Fifteenth, Austin to Owens; Sixteenth, Goliad to Owens; Settles, Eleventh Place to Sixteenth; Sycamore, State to Birdwell; Wood, Victory to Birdwell; and State, Third to Sixth. Bellamy said other streets will be added if funds permit.

Joint Survey Of Taxes Proposed

City officials last night called for a general "tax equalization survey" and asked county and school district boards to join in the project. Actually, the proposal for the survey grew out of a meeting of a joint city commission-school board committee, named recently to explore possibilities of such a project and submit recommendations. Ward Hall, city commissioner and chairman of the joint committee, submitted the proposal to his fellow commissioners last night. He said school representatives on the panel will ask for trustee action on the proposition at the school board meeting July 18. Commissioners quickly accepted the plan and voted to invite both the school board and Howard County commissioners court to join them in the survey. City Manager H. W. Whitney was asked to write both groups, telling them of the action. A general tax, valuation and equalization survey has been under consideration by all three taxing agencies at various times for several years. So far, no agreement has been reached for conducting the program.

Was It A Plane Or Not? 'Crash' Scene Is Mystery

BARSTOW, Calif. — The mystery of Clark Mountain—involving an intensive search for the survivors of a plane that was supposed to have crashed yesterday—apparently was solved today by a brief radio message from the scene. "There was no airplane crash," radioed Officer A. M. Smith of the California Highway Patrol to his headquarters here. "It was only a timber fire." This was the only immediate word on the strange situation and left unexplained various reports of charred wreckage and flashed messages. Earlier a helicopter pilot reported by radio that he had sighted wreckage but it was so charred that he could not tell whether there were survivors or what type of plane it was. One puzzling aspect of the case was the fact that a rescue party struggled to the area during a fierce electric storm and "as reported to have been messaged with flashlights: 'There are survivors. Help badly needed.' There has been no further word from this ground party, only the brief message from the highway patrolman. Two helicopters had been sent to the area from Nellis Air Force Base near Las Vegas, Nev.

Early Girard Ruling Likely

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court appeared likely today to issue an early decision in the case of G. I. William S. Girard. The court itself did not rule on the possibility of a decision sometime today. Neither did it indicate just when it might be announced. The question the court must decide is whether U. S. authorities may lawfully turn Girard, 21, an Army specialist third class, over to Japan for trial in its courts in connection with the death of a Japanese woman fatally wounded while gathering scrap on an army firing range last Jan. 30. Federal Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy ruled earlier that the attempt by U. S. authorities to let the Japanese try Girard would violate his constitutional rights. The government appealed this ruling directly to the Supreme Court. Mrs. Reed had been a member of the Church of Christ for 65 years. She is survived by two sons, Walker Reed and Jack Reed of Big Spring; one brother, Claude Polk, Mason; two sisters, Mrs. Maude Kothman and Mrs. Alfa Lindsey, both of Mason; eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Pallbearers will be Lonnie Bunger, Ed Love, Earl Brownrigg, Arvie Hamlin, Marvin Francis, R. V. Fryar, Herbert Fuller, and L. L. Chandler.

Russell Says Ike Against Any 'Punitive' Measure

Jury Complete For Clinton Contempt Trial

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The jury for the Clinton trial was completed today with the selection of four alternates, and the federal government prepared to begin presenting its case against the 16 segregationists. Selection of two men and two women filled the panel of 12 jurors and four alternates. The alternate jurors are: W. M. Murphy, a farmer; Mrs. Margie M. Day, Harriman housewife; Mrs. Nola Fesler, Sunbright; and Floyd Conner, 62, Lenoir City. Most of the other nine examined today asked to be excused on the grounds that they would be, as they put it, "embarrassed" in their homes or communities by serving on the jury. Some told U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor that they are friendly with some of the defendants or the defense lawyers. On trial in U. S. District Court are Northern segregationist John Kasper and 15 Clinton area residents. They are accused of criminal contempt of court for alleged violation of an injunction prohibiting interference with integration of Clinton High School last fall. Immediately after selection of the alternates, Taylor, in a voice of deep feeling, began his instructions to the jury. "You are not to talk to anyone about this case. You are not to read newspaper accounts of it. You are not to listen to radio or television about it. You are not to talk among yourselves about it," the judge said. He said they should not accept any communications by mail or telephone concerning the case. During the weeks preceding opening of the trial many persons, in and out of the federal courthouse, have received abusive and threatening telephone calls and letters. Taylor would not say whether he had received any. But the extent of feeling aroused by the case was evident by answers and statements of the jury candidates during the past three days. The 50-odd panel of prospective jurors was almost exhausted when the jury was completed. Only six names were left. An all-white jury of 10 men and 2 women was selected yesterday. Clinton High was the first state-supported secondary institution in Tennessee to mix the races. Trial of Kasper and the "Clinton 15" has been heralded as a major test of the U. S. government's power to enforce the Supreme Court's order to end segregation in the public schools.

NEW FUEL, TOO B58 Unveiled, But Speed Still Secret

FORT WORTH, Tex. — The Air Force today displayed its first supersonic bomber — "It's even better than we expected," a general said — and announced plans to buy more for testing purposes. Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, head of Air Force weapons procurement, said at the official unveiling of the B58 Hustler that the Convair atomic super-bomber as of now is the fastest in the world. Irvine told newsmen the Air Force has ordered 13 B58s for testing and is talking about buying 17 or 18 more. The plane is being built here by Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp. Gen. Irvine said the Air Force has found it good practice to acquire up to 30 test planes of a promising new type before deciding whether to go on with a production order. Irvine said he was unable to give a B58 cost estimate but guessed that it would be close to that of the much larger and slower Boeing B52 heavy jet bomber. Asked about the speed of the B58, Irvine said he could report only that it was highly supersonic. But he said later that it was designed to approach twice the speed of sound — "and we are already at the point where we can make it go faster than it was designed to go." "The Hustler represents one of the most significant forward steps in the history of military aviation — and through it we are made aware of some mighty possibilities," Frank W. Davis, chief engineer at Fort Worth for Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., put it this way: "The magnitude of advance in the B58 is best emphasized by the fact that it provides a greater increase in top speed advantage over the latest operational bomber than that bomber provided over the Wright brothers airplane." Development of a chemical fuel which could propel the B58 around the world without refueling also was revealed yesterday. The Olin Mathieson Chemical Co. announced in Niagara Falls, N.Y., that the fuel, known as HEF-2, would increase the range of jet engines by 40 per cent. The announcement said Olin Mathieson had perfected production of the fuel, made from a borax base, and that the company would build a 36-million-dollar plant at Model City, N.Y., to produce it. Perhaps the most unusual feature of the B58, in outward appearance, is the long, slim, disposable "pod" — a tank streamlined to a point at each end — suspended underneath the airplane. August C. Eisewein, Convair vice president and manager of the Fort Worth plant, said the pod could be a devastating bomb, a battery of cameras or electronic countermeasures equipment to nullify enemy detection radar. "The large pod under the plane allows the B58 to return home clean without the waste volume contained in an empty bomb bay and without the waste weight and volume contained in an empty fuel tank," Davis explained.

Leaders Talk On Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said after a conference with President Eisenhower today that Eisenhower's "mind is not closed to amendments which would clarify" the administration's civil rights bill. Russell, quarterbacking the legislation in the Senate, told newsmen Eisenhower is against enactment of any "punitive" measure. Eisenhower and Russell talked over the bill for about 50 minutes at the White House. Although Russell said Eisenhower has an open mind with respect to the possibility of clarifying amendments, the senator refused to express an opinion as to whether the administration will back such amendments. "The President's mind is open," Russell said. "It is not closed to amendments which would clarify the bill." In advance of Russell's conference with Eisenhower there were hints at the Senate that sponsors of the administration measure probably will consider compromises. The White House conference was set up with only a few minutes advance public notice. Proponents of the administration-backed civil rights measure started a drive Monday to bring the bill officially before the Senate. Republican Leader Knowland of California and other civil rights backers have been pushing for a vote this week on Knowland's motion to take up the House-passed bill officially, but an influential Democratic leader said this vote may not come until next week, possibly Wednesday. This source also questioned whether there would be late night or round-the-clock sessions this week to obtain a decision. HIGH LEVEL DEBATE Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas sought to keep debate "at a high level" by telling newsmen that thus far opposing sides had avoided "invektives and personalities." He said the debate so far has reflected "the Senate at its best." "We are setting a climate for reasonableness," Johnson said, adding a personal belief that "the rough and tumble of knockdown debate" could be avoided on the issue of taking up the controversial measure. Johnson appeared confident the Senate soon would reach a decision on the question of calling up the measure. But he refused to be quoted on a time as to when this vote might come. A week ago Russell denounced the measure as one which would take the South back to post-Civil War reconstruction days, and open the way for forced racial integration of Dixie schools. He called the proposal "vicious" and a "cunning" plan to go far beyond the ostensible purpose of protecting Negroes' voting rights. That was in sharp contrast to Eisenhower's own description of the measure as moderate. Today, Russell pictured Eisenhower as still "very determined" to win enactment of civil rights legislation. But the senator declined, under questioning, to say whether the President indicated willingness to revise the administration bill. DOUBTS IT WILL PASS Russell expressed doubt that the bill — already approved by the House — will pass the Senate in its present form. Asked after his session with Eisenhower whether he felt better than he did before going to the White House, Russell smiled and replied: "I can't say I do." He added that he had requested the appointment with the President to discuss the bill with particular reference to some provisions that "I regard as very extreme." At a news conference a week ago Eisenhower repeated that he felt the bill was a moderate, decent one. But he also said there were some parts of the measure which he did not understand. He expressed some puzzlement over the view of opponents that dire results would flow from enactment of the bill. He expressed readiness to talk the matter over with Russell. Emphasizing he would not quote the President directly, Russell reported today that he pointed out to Eisenhower certain provisions of the measure which, Russell feels go "far beyond the objectives" set forth by the President at news conferences and on other occasions. MIND "NOT CLOSED" It was at that point that Russell said Eisenhower's mind is "not closed" to clarifying amendments. Asked whether he had suggested specific changes, Russell replied: "I did, of course." But he added to newsmen that he was not going to be drawn into setting forth those suggested changes at this time. Asked about the possibility of agreeing on a compromise, Russell said: "That would be such an assumption that I wouldn't want to make any definite statement." Russell did say, however, that Eisenhower still "has a somewhat different viewpoint as to the purpose of the bill than I do." Russell replied "of course" when asked whether there was specific discussion of the right to vote provisions of the measure. He added that those provisions, in his opinion, are the "most objectionable" of the bill. Poes of the measure contend that section is so broad in its language that it would open the way for military enforcement of racial integration in Southern schools. Alluding to Russell's statement that the President is against enactment of any "punitive" legislation, a newsman inquired whether Russell feels that means no punitive bill will be passed. SOME EXTREMISTS Russell replied that there still are "some extremists on both sides," but added he is hopeful the Senate will not approve an "extreme" bill. Russell expressed belief that he and Eisenhower "now have a better understanding" of each other's viewpoint. As for the possibility of eventual agreement, Russell said: "I certainly don't eliminate that possibility." Eisenhower was reported yesterday to have talked over with Atty. Gen. Brownell the language the President had opted obscure. After that session administration backers said Eisenhower held to his original view that the proposal is "moderate" and desirable. The current fight in the Senate — short of a full-scale filibuster so far — is over a motion to bring the bill itself up for floor action. Among others, Vice President Nixon was reported to feel the language sponsored by the administration and approved by the House may be too stringent. This view apparently was shared by Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader. Knowland said that after the measure is officially before the Senate he will be open to suggestions for possible changes. OPPOSITION GROWS This seemed to reflect the growth of opposition among some Republicans to ramming through a measure their Dixie colleagues have said would confer "sweeping powers" on the attorney general to intervene in almost any civil rights controversy. Sen. Young (R-ND) announced at a Senate Republican Policy Committee meeting yesterday he would not vote to limit debate on the bill. Sen. Williams (R-De) told newsmen he is undecided. On the Democratic side, Sen. Bible of Nevada said he is inclined now to vote against limiting debate. Unless Southern opponents talk themselves into exhaustion in the meantime, the measure can't be brought to a final vote unless 64 senators support debate limitation.

State Begins Summing Up Of Parr Mail Fraud Case

HOUSTON — A prosecutor said today the 11 defendants in the fourth George Parr mail fraud trial "took over a mail order business" while defrauding the Benavides Independent School District of more than $220,000 in tax funds. "This is a case of subversion of a political subdivision for the personal benefit of the defendants," said Asst. U.S. Atty. Edgar O. Bottler in starting final arguments of a trial that began May 6. U.S. Atty. Malcolm R. Wilkey was to argue the case later today. He will be followed by Percy Foreman and Gilbert Sharpe for the defense. Federal Judge Joe Ingraham said he plans to send the case to the jury sometime Friday after presenting his charge. He said he will excuse the jury Sunday but will ask it to put in a full day of deliberations Saturday. "I don't have any idea you can finish on Saturday and don't request that you finish on Saturday," Ingraham told the jury. "It is an involved case. You will have 161 verdicts to return." Each of the defendants is named in one to 20 counts of a 20-count indictment returned here March 6, 1956. The jury for the 42-day trial returned on Dec. 8 verdicts of innocent on 59 counts involving four of the defendants but could not reach verdicts on the remaining 161 counts. Ineligible jurors caused two mis-

'Hero' Molotov Now A Fallen Idol

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

Who was the most "tireless fighter for the peace and security of Soviet peoples and workers of all countries?"

He is the same man who tried to "block measures to relax international tension and consolidate world peace."

Who was a "true student and disciple of the great Lenin... a great theoretician of the party... merciless enemy in his struggle with anti-party elements?"

He is the same man who led an "anti-party group" in "direct opposition to the wise Leninist policy."

The praise for Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov was printed in the 1954 edition of the Soviet Encyclopedia. The denunciation was in the statement last week purporting him from commissar's top ranks.

Molotov at 67 emerges as a grotesquely tragicomic figure. Lenin once described him as the "best filing clerk in Russia." He wound up with a super-bookkeeper's job, and has lost even that.

For the most of three violent decades, Molotov was Stalin's voice. He symbolized Russian distrust and suspicion of the outside. For 10 years he waddled through the patterns of the cold war.

The last of the real Old Bolsheviks now finds himself destroyed. He was the one man remaining in the Soviet hierarchy who could say he worked closely with Lenin—but he has become officially anti-Leninist. The upstarts he watched unconcernedly through years of purge and plotting at last have overwhelmed him.

Old "Kamenny Zad (Stone Bottom)" they called Molotov for his reputation as a tough negotiator in world politics.

Winston Churchill once described him as a man of outstanding ability, cold and ruthless. Whose "cannonball head, slab face verbal adroitness and imperturbable demeanor" cast a pall over postwar efforts to achieve a real peace.

Himself accustomed to being browbeaten by Stalin, Molotov to his subordinates was a tireless driver.

He considered himself the faithful servant of Stalin, and stood by the dictator "through peril and triumph in a succession of frightfully bloody years."

"I have no desire other than to be a real disciple of Lenin," Molotov once said. "I received my schooling under the direct guidance of the best disciple of Lenin, Comrade Stalin. I am proud of this."

He was born the son of a middle class-clerk named Serbiabin in a Vyatka province village in 1890. At 16 he was a member of the Bolsheviks. By 19 he was a veteran of czarist imprisonments and escapes. A coeditor with Stalin of Pravda before the Revolution of 1917, he was to become one of Stalin's "young men."

At 34 Molotov was in the rarefied atmosphere of the Politburo, helping his boss in the Trotsky purge. By 1930 he was Stalin's choice for premier. In 1939 he took on the added job of foreign commissar.

The Molotovs have two daughters, Svetlana and Sonya, the latter adopted.

Georgi Malenkov, now in the same boat as Molotov, was instrumental in getting Mrs. Molotov fired from her jobs before the war. Stalin, in his latter days of paranoid suspicion, sent Molotov's wife to a prison camp. She returned after the dictator died.

Though Stalin evidently turned on him, Molotov remained faithful to Stalinism. But in the unending struggle for power, this stony man turned weak.

Indicted

George Zlatovski, 47, Russian-born former U.S. Army officer, and his wife, Jane Foster Zlatovski, 45, were indicted in New York by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to transmit vital U.S. secrets to the Soviet Union and its agents. The Zlatovskis were charged with being members of a Kremlin-directed espionage ring for 17 years, even when both were supposed to be acting as agents for the U.S. They are now living in Paris and U. S. authorities are seeking to bring them back here for trial.

Inflation Holds On In Variety Of Forms

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A retired couple find they must scrimp to live — although their nestegg once promised ease, even luxury.

A factory worker or an office worker finds his pay check pleasantly fatter than 10 years ago — and then is surprised and dismayed when his bills for the same goods and services climb out of sight.

These are aspects of what goes by the name of inflation—more money around but its purchasing power dwindling.

Some feel better off under inflation, but those who save for a rainy day, those who want to build new homes, factories or schools, fear that what we have now may grow into chronic inflation and become the big bad wolf of our age.

Economists and politicians are squabbling over whether what we are seeing today is really "inflation" at all or a wage-price spiral that is just one of the consequences of past inflation.

Here are some definitions of classic inflation, of hidden inflation, of creeping inflation, of wage push, demand-pull, and profit-push inflation.

Classic inflation is the kind we had during World War II when new money and credit was created in great quantities to finance the defense effort, while output of consumer goods was cut sharply. It resulted in too much money purchasing too few goods. To keep prices from rising sharply the government tried direct controls on wages and prices.

Hidden inflation is when prices aren't changed but the quality or size of a product deteriorates — the 5-cent candy bar goes pygmy.

Creeping inflation is a term coined to describe what has been happening the last year or so—prices go up a nickel or a dime at a time first on one thing and then on another, so that the purchasing power of a dollar dwindles. In terms of purchasing power of the 1940, or "100-cent" dollar, the 1956 dollar bought only 50.5 cents worth and today's buys only 49.8 cents worth.

Wage-push inflation is what management calls the present situation where, it says, rising wage scales are pushing costs, and hence prices, always higher.

Profit-push inflation is what labor officials call the same situation. They say the urge to pile up record profits, rather than hold price lines, is the villain.

Demand-pull inflation is where supply would seem adequate except for unusual demand. This term is used today to describe what is happening to money.

The money managers point out that actually there is more money around and more credit and debt on the books than ever before in peacetime. But the demand for goods, particularly capital goods, and for credit to finance their purchase is even greater — thus pulling interest rates up, and also the price of these capital goods too.

Because money is being kept tight, the money managers say there is no "classic inflation" now.

But the average man just knows that prices are going up and the dollar shrinking — by whatever name you call it.

Tomorrow: Various causes cited for today's inflation.

2 Men Indicted In Oil Map Theft

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A San Antonio man and a Pennsylvania man were indicted yesterday on charges of conspiring to transport stolen Gulf Oil exploratory maps across state lines.

U.S. Atty. Malcolm Anderson said 2,500 stolen maps have been recovered. He said the maps were "worth millions" to the firm. They show, he said, potential oil drilling sites in southwestern United States, Canada and the Near East.

Houghton Phillips, 58, of San Antonio, and Charles Washburn, 51, of Allison Park, Pa., were indicted yesterday. Already under indictment are Edward Lieberman and his brother, Emanuel, both of New York; Odie Seagraves, Houston, and Irving Miller, believed somewhere in Canada.

Boy, 15, Tangled In Financial 'Deals'

This is the saga of a 15-year old Big Spring boy's recent adventures in high finance.

It is a record of illegal financial "deals" covering four or five hectic days and officers assert the achievements worthy of a seasoned professional confidence man.

The youth, now in county jail waiting trial before Judge R. H. Weaver, juvenile judge, is a resident of Howard County. His parents live on the Sterling City road but for some time the youth has been making his home with relatives here.

Shorty Long, juvenile officer, released the following box score of the boy's activities in the last few days before he was arrested: Bought a second hand car in Sweetwater, paying $155 for vehicle. The $155 payment was made with a hot check.

Had $36 worth of repair work done on the car — for which he paid with a hot check.

Drove the car to Big Spring where he traded it for a Dodge paying $75 difference — also with a hot check.

Traded the Dodge for a later model Mercury. Paid $200 difference in cash (via another hot check) and forged his father's name to $900 in notes.

Needed some spare change so he wrote a series of six small "hot checks" ranging in amounts from $4 to $12 which he cashed at several places in town.

Filled out a worthless check on a Midland bank, which he took to the State National Bank. There he deposited $50 and took $50 in cash. A little later, he wrote another check for $20 against his "deposit." The bank stopped payment on the check and his arrest followed.

Also, Long said, the boy picked up a ticket for speeding during the interval.

Long said that he first ran into the youth about eight months ago when he and two companions were arrested for a burglary.

The boy was released after a lecture at that time.

Comedian's Son Arrives In Europe

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Richard Skelton, 9 leukemia-stricken son of comedian Red Skelton, arrived in Europe with his family today to begin a tour of the places he especially wants to see in the old world.

Looking anything but doomed, red-haired Richard fired away with his camera at everything moving in the airport and then played happily in the restaurant during the stopover. The trip of approximately six weeks is being made while the boy's illness is in the so-called remission stage, in which the cancerous blood cells apparently lie dormant.

Buffalo Next On Graham List

NEW YORK (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said last night there's a slight chance he will hold a crusade in Buffalo, N.Y., next November if an auditorium becomes available.

His staff confirmed monthlong crusades in San Francisco for April 1958 and in Charlotte, N.C., for October 1958.

Graham told 19,000 persons in Madison Square Garden last night that "heaven would be hell on earth to some of you."

Sinners by their very nature, he said, "would feel out of place in heaven."

The evangelist said, "No man can come to the savior until he admits he's a sinner." Everyone, he said, "has a disease the Bible calls sin."

Repentance of sin and a spiritual regeneration are the way to heaven," he said.

"You can have a new life... from the moment when you let Christ in your life," he said.

The crowd increased total attendance for Graham's New York crusade to 530,000.

At the evangelist's call 568 persons made "decisions for Christ." That brought the over-all total for the crusade to 29,329.

Fierce Flames Hit Docks On Coast

GALVESTON (AP)—Fierce flames swept a boat company warehouse and docks at Seabrook, about 35 miles north of here, last night, doing an estimated $500,000 damage.

Fed by paint, rope and other highly combustible marine equipment, the fire raced through the West Muecke warehouse and leaped along rows of boats at piers alongside the building.

Mother And Daughter Meet

Actress Ingrid Bergman and her daughter, Jenny Ann Lindstrom, both wear smiles as they leave Le Bourget Airport in Paris shortly after their first meeting since 1951. Jenny Ann, 19, came to Paris from Sweden where she had flown with her father, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, divorced from Miss Bergman in 1950. Mother and daughter had a reunion aboard the plane Jenny Ann arrived in and newsmen said smudged makeup and reddened eyes showed both had been crying.

Hell's Canyon Dam Bill Being Pushed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Survival of Hell's Canyon Dam legislation—symbol of a great political and power fight—depended today on parliamentary strategy. House Interior Committee Democrats, anxious to get a Senate-passed bill through the House, planned to pit strategy against voting strength in an effort to keep alive chances for a big federal dam in the Snake River at the Idaho-Oregon border. Republicans, counting on help from two Southern Democrats, claimed enough strength to kill the authorization legislation. The proposed federal project would flood the sites of three smaller dams being built by the Idaho Power Co. with the Eisen-

Refugees Feed Reich Unity Hopes

By WARREN ROGERS JR. HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—The German who can no longer live under communism in the East and slips across to the West is keeping warm the hope of eventual German reunification. Nearly every day airplanes from Berlin, where freedom is just a subway ride from East to West, bring what the West Germans call "new settlers." They are not a happy sight; mothers with hastily packed shopping baskets and infants smelling in need of a bath; a middle-aged man who is beginning to have second thoughts about the impulse which sent him fleeing from his family; a thumb-sucking little girl whose hair should be combed. But they quicken the heartbeat of the prosperous and well-fed West Germans who see them arrive at the airport and get herded into trucks for the ride to the reception center. "But for the grace of God, there go I," said one West German who watched it. "How long must this go on?"

It has been going on since the Russians clamped an Iron Curtain on their occupation zone in Germany after World War II. In 12 years nearly 2,800,000 Germans have fled the Soviet zone and the Soviet sector of Berlin, settling in the West. Berlin is the easiest place to jump because there is considerable back-and-forth traffic. But it is an island in the Soviet zone of Germany. That is why refugees are flown out.

A visit to Berlin nowadays does not provide the contrast between East and West living conditions that it once did. The West Berliners, to be sure, are a chic lot by comparison with those of the East. The Westerners laugh a lot more and their sidewalk cafes, like their clothes and cars, are brighter and gayer. But the Easterners, despite their bent heads and grim faces, appear busy and productive.

The reason for the changed look may lie in what happened June 17, 1953. That was the date of the Berlin uprising, when the people threw rocks at Red army tanks years before the Hungarian revolt and the Polish riots. The Reds have since eased their yoke in East Berlin.

"The Communists don't want another June 17," a West German official said. "And neither do we." He explained that Germans on both sides of the Iron Curtain know reunification must come without either war or full Soviet domination. Another uprising might provoke West German action to help friends and relatives in the East. And where would that put the North Atlantic Treaty nations? Would they join with Germany in a war against Russia? It is a catastrophic thought to people rebuilding their country from the rubble of World War II. And there is the practical side of reunification. What happens to the prosperous West German economy if it suddenly is weighted down with the lagging economy of the East?

Some West Germans, comfortable in their new apartments and with deutschemarks clinking in their pockets, shrink from the idea of cutting back their living standards. KILLEEN, Tex. (AP)—Dry forces kept all alcoholic beverages out of Bell County Precinct 4 yesterday in a 1,282 to 538 vote.

Hypnosis Discussed

Demonstrations of hypnotism were given by Dr. Preston Harrison, Big Spring State Hospital superintendent during a talk at the Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday. Dr. Harrison's topic was "Hypnosis and Its Uses." He told how the technique is used in psychiatric treatment, and of how it is employed in minor surgery, tooth extractions and to control bleeding. Obesity and alcoholism sometimes can be controlled through hypnosis, he said. In addition, hypnosis can be utilized to increase learning. The speaker was introduced by Ben Johnson, program chairman.

Groom's 21, Bride Is 65

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—"It was just love at first sight," explained Thomas Henderson, 21, after his marriage yesterday to the former Mrs. Florence Norris, 65. "I remember when I first saw her," the grinning bridegroom said at a wedding dinner in a friend's house. "It was about two or three weeks ago when I rode my bicycle by this house. 'Last week I asked her to marry me.' Mrs. Norris' reaction to their first meeting was somewhat different. "I remember when he came by," she said. "He kept staring at me and I was wishing he'd quit and go on. "Now I wouldn't take anything for him. I sure was tired of living alone." The couple paid for their $5.50 marriage license with money saved from shelling beans at the city market. "I guess we'll just go on shelling beans for a living," said the bride, who has eight children by a previous marriage. Asked if he was planning on a family, Thomas replied, "Yes, a boy and a girl." His wife grinned but declined to comment.

A Bible Thought For Today

For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The LORD, The God of hosts, is his name. (Amos 4:13)

Bad Condition Of Illumination

The traffic fatality on west Highway 80 on Monday night was all the more tragic for it was, more than even most, so needless.

The young driver is not being blamed, for sheriff's deputies said he was apparently within the 45-mile-per-hour zone, and that the victim suddenly loomed up in front of the car. Whether the deceased saw the car no one will ever know.

Yet, for all this the accident need not have happened. Had the driver, at his lawful speed, been able to see the pedestrian, the man might well be alive.

Having graded speed zones is a good idea in most instances. Allowing a driver to slow his speed at a normal rate as he approaches a city is much safer than the sudden halting of 60-mile-per-hour traffic with a 30-mile zone.

The 45-mile zone on the western extremity of the city zone is all right—in the daytime, but at night this is something else again. There are too many buildings, too many people, along this strip—and no street lights.

Howard County's eighth traffic fatality, it would seem, was a victim of default in highway and safety engineering and in lack of illumination. He was struck, not in the lighted area, but on the darkened fringes of it. Had the crossing been attended where business buildings provided sufficient reflected light, the driver might have been able to slow or stop.

There may be other fatalities in this area unless lights are provided along the dark stretches of the highway, or else night speed limits restricted more drastically in congested areas. The present situation constitutes a hazard to both drivers and pedestrians.

Bold And Interesting Step

In an effort to curb exuberant youth who foray, plunder and maraud, the San Antonio Police Department recently was authorized to fingerprint and "mug" all juveniles arrested for any crime they could be jailed for as adults.

The authorization was given by the Bexar County Juvenile Board, composed of seven district judges and the county judge. The records will be kept in a separate place from the regular "morgue," but will be available to law officers at all times. The photos may be shown to victims of juvenile offenders for purposes of identification.

We do not know what the public reaction to this enforcement device has been, but we wouldn't be surprised if a lot of parents, youth workers and professional dogooders lift their hands in holy horror.

But when juveniles of criminal tendency openly boast that "the law can't touch" them it is high time somebody devised a system of cooling off their ardor for lawless activity of various sorts. It isn't enough that some parents—not all but some—have pampered them overmuch, but the law itself has leaned over backward to feed their ego by handing them with kid gloves, previously sterilized and perfumed.

The knowledge that they're to be fingerprinted and "mugged" if they commit an offense for which an adult can be sent to jail may give pause to many a wild-cower. It also may make over-indulgent parents stiffen their backbones in behalf of protecting the family name and reputation.

In any case San Antonio has taken a bold step, and it will be interesting to watch how it turns out.

David Lawrence

Federal Force And Social Viewpoints

WASHINGTON—What is the real point at issue in the battle over "civil rights" now being waged in the Senate? It is the possible enactment of a law "threatening the use of military force in order to obtain a conformity of viewpoint on social problems. It is the substitution of a program of compulsion and coercion for faith in the voluntary processes of reason.

It involves not solely a means of assuring voting rights—for many Negroes do vote in the South and several have been elected to city councils there—but a question of reaching into the whole social order of the South with laws authorizing the use of military power to secure "obedience" to the Supreme Court's decision on school "integration." Yet the Court itself admitted in the same decision that it was influenced primarily by sociological doctrines rather than constitutional precedents.

For the school question and the voting problem are interwoven in the "civil rights" controversy and, curiously enough, the remedy proposed would take away the civil right of a citizen to a jury trial the principle of which is imbedded in the Constitution.

abolishing slavery and this action had been accepted as legal ratification. No historian of standing in either the North or the South disputes these facts.

For 90 years there has been a virtual truce in the Northern and Southern conflict as to the scope of the Fourteenth Amendment, and the racial problems it presumably covered. Meanwhile, there has been, nevertheless, a gradual evolution with tremendous progress toward a better understanding between the races. The doctrine of "separate but equal" facilities in public schools which was upheld as the "supreme law of the land" until 1954 was a kind of "modus vivendi"—a compromise between apparently irreconcilable viewpoints yet one that actually encouraged more and more flexibility through the years.

Now the truce has been broken and, instead of trying to adjust conflicting viewpoints by letting each state or each community within a state decide for itself how it shall move toward the solution of its own social problems—a basic American concept of self-government—the confusing court decisions and the threat of coercive "civil rights" legislation are retarding progress.

"I speak in a spirit of great sadness," said Senator Russell of Georgia, Democrat, the other day in the Senate. "If Congress is driven to pass this bill in its present form, it will cause unseparable confusion, bitterness and bloodshed in a great section of our common country. If it is proposed to move into the South in this fashion, the concentration camps may as well be prepared now because there will not be enough jails to hold the people of the South who will oppose the use of raw federal power forcibly to commingle white and Negro children in the same schools and places of public entertainment."

Thus after nearly a century of debate, America is again hearing speeches in Congress about the use of military forces to back up social viewpoints. This, comes ironically enough, at a time when spokesmen for the United States in the world at large are appealing constantly for the "renunciation of the use of force" as a means of dealing with human friction.

He hand grinds corn and soybeans, puts in a little chocolate or powdered milk, and makes a meal of it and says he is satisfied.

Bert can still climb 25 to 30 miles a day through the Great Smoky Mountains. "I prefer simple ways," he says.

To understand Bert you have to know him a bit. He doesn't fit any pigeonhole you know. He never will. If he found out he did, he would change.

Bert has studied at a number of universities across the country. He worked in all kinds of dozen years with the U. S. immigration people.

He lives now all alone in a woodland building of his choice. It is a two-room cabin he built 37 years ago. It is in the area where his ancestors arrived some 200 years ago—or nearly.

Bert is slender, white-haired, widely read, and cheerfully proud that his way of life isn't for the family man.

He has a major criticism of civilization as most of us know wasted.

Crime Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the 20th century the Democratic and Republican parties—no matter what their campaign promises—have never passed a civil rights bill through Congress.

Republicans are trying it now in face of a Senate filibuster by Southern Democrats. If they win, some political careers may be affected. And Republican hopes for future election victories—based on expectation of a grateful Northern Negro vote—go up.

Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower have helped eliminate racial discrimination—by executive order. But Democrats' promises of action on a civil rights bill through Congress have been a political joke.

They couldn't, as a party, make good. Southern Democrats were always to keep up with the Joneses and Western Democrats and Republicans were willing to team up to do it, it never happened.

The outnumbered Republicans can't do it now unless enough of them, plus enough Northern and Western Democrats, join forces. That remains to be seen. Despite present excitement, passage of a civil rights bill now is far from a fact.

There is political irony in the present situation. In Congress, where they are the minority party, the Republicans are leading the way. Sen. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, is captain on the civil rights side.

He can get only political good out of this, win or lose. He is leaving the Senate next year and may seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1960. He can expect Northern Negroes, if he should get the nomination, to remember him as a man who fought for civil rights.

On the other hand the Senate's Democratic leader, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, is on a hot spot. He's a Southerner. But he's a man who also may have presidential ambitions in 1960.

If he votes against this civil rights bill his chances of heading the Democratic ticket diminish, if they're not wrecked. If he doesn't oppose it in some way—if only by trying to get the bill softened by amendments—he may hurt himself in Texas. He's been staying pretty much in the background.

He hand grinds corn and soybeans, puts in a little chocolate or powdered milk, and makes a meal of it and says he is satisfied.

Bert can still climb 25 to 30 miles a day through the Great Smoky Mountains. "I prefer simple ways," he says.

To understand Bert you have to know him a bit. He doesn't fit any pigeonhole you know. He never will. If he found out he did, he would change.

Bert has studied at a number of universities across the country. He worked in all kinds of dozen years with the U. S. immigration people.

He lives now all alone in a woodland building of his choice. It is a two-room cabin he built 37 years ago. It is in the area where his ancestors arrived some 200 years ago—or nearly.

Bert is slender, white-haired, widely read, and cheerfully proud that his way of life isn't for the family man.

He has a major criticism of civilization as most of us know wasted.

about it—and, on occasion, complain about it.

"They're in a rat race, trying to keep up with the Joneses. Sometimes I feel that it is a good thing some people work so hard.

"Our education system doesn't prepare people for the right kind of leisure. You can work, or you can live. I like to live."

Bert himself, who is interested in such momentous questions as the distribution of snakes in the 50-acre wilderness in which he built his cabin, also knows that to a disciple of nature and considered indolence there can be no spare time.

There are 50 different kinds of trees in his woodland empire, and he has grown 23 different fruits or vegetables in his garden.

So long as a bud burgeons, a bloom flowers, he is alert to the changing moods of nature, which, if nature be not his god, yet often in petaled splendor and bright-winged farewell, is many times his consolation.

The woodchuck is his neighbor. At the moment seven skunks live under and out of his cabin.

"We get along fine," he said. "They come out at the whippoorwill's dusk, and go back at the whippoorwill's dawn. I tell people I live in Paradise. I do."

Bert has worked in New York and Philadelphia, studied on the West Coast. But either a greenness or weakness in his being has always brought him home to his woodland cabin near the hills of his birth. He figures he has held a job only 20 of his 71 years, and some of those 20 years were wasted.

Alligator Under Suspicion Of Being A Killer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 10 (AP)—The cold blooded alligator, one of Florida's top tourist attractions, is suddenly under suspicion of being a man killer.

It has long been known that the lazy, repulsive-looking reptiles sometimes make unprovoked attacks on humans. Plenty of documented cases are on record but no clearcut case of their killing a person has been established.

But a little more than a week ago a 9-year-old boy, Alan David Rice, disappeared from his home at Eau Gallie not far from the military base where the earth satellite will be launched. Two days later his badly mangled body, with both arms missing, was found on the overgrown bank of a creek near his home.

Teeth marks on the body were clearly those of an alligator. Hunters killed an 11½-foot specimen found nearby. Inside its stomach they found the boy's arms and other parts of his body.

Within recent years a number of persons have been attacked and injured by alligators in Florida. In 1948 Martha Belle Smith suffered a broken left arm and a lacerated right hand at Weekiwahee Springs in an encounter with an alligator called "Ol' Nine-foot."

She was swimming near a palm tree under which the reptile had made his lair when he appeared and seized her right arm.

Near Fort Pierce some years ago a 15-year-old girl was seized by a gator as she swam. But the reptile released her, inflicting only gashes on both sides of her left knee. A Miami girl last year was seized by the hand by an alligator and dragged into the water but she was rescued without serious injury.

Alligators under six feet are considered harmless to man but the big fellows are due all the respect given any other large, wild animal.

It is illegal in Florida to kill or capture an alligator or to possess its native gators for a variety of reasons. Two principal ones are their value as tourist attractions and their habit of digging water holes when the swamps dry up during droughts. These gator holes are frequently the only source of water for other wildlife.

Major Task Ahead For The Red Cross

WASHINGTON—It is when the flood waters recede and the drama of disaster passes out of the headlines that the long hard pull toward rehabilitation begins. Then, too, the bills begin to come in and the biggest bill invariably goes to the American National Red Cross.

What the whirlwind of Hurricane Audrey, as it struck at the Gulf Coast and then struck inland, will finally cost the Red Cross is very low. Audrey came as the total for Audrey, along with the recent tornadoes in the Middle West, will run to at least $5,000,000.

The bill for Audrey is being presented at a time when the treasury of the Red Cross is very low. Audrey came as the climax of an unprecedented series of disasters that drained the reserves which at the end of World War II had stood at more than $64,000,000. In the two fiscal years '55-'56 and '56-'57 the Red Cross paid out $52,000,000 for disaster relief, more than ever before in its history.

This included $18,000,000 for the New England floods in August, 1955; $3,000,000 for the Puerto Rican hurricane in September, '56; and $3,900,000 for the floods that swept Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia last January. Because the reserves have been drained off the Red Cross is now asking individual chapters around the country to make an appeal for contributions to help the victims of Audrey.

What the response may be no one can predict. Special appeals may have taxed the public's patience. The Red Cross faces a crisis that suggests the method of voluntary contributions may be inadequate to meet disaster on the scale of recent years.

But the head of the Red Cross, Gen. Alfred N. Gruenther, rules out any thought of government intervention through government assistance in the work of the organization. If the federal government administers charity, he says flatly, then it is the end, with statism dominating every phase of American life. At the same time he knows he faces a very difficult problem.

In the middle of the night as the full extent of the Audrey disaster became known, Gruenther flew with Val Peterson, retiring director of the Civil Defense Administration, to Louisiana. As they stepped off the plane, Peterson explained that Civil Defense could give some assistance in rehabilitating such public works as sewage and water systems. The Federal

Around The Rim

Just Add Moisture To Forecasts

Most of us won't admit it (and me in particular), but the long range forecasting technique of the weather bureau and private meteorologist are becoming more accurate.

So far as this area is concerned, they seem more accurate than the short-range, specific forecast. I guess that's because you allow yourself plenty of leeway in looking ahead for a month.

There are a number of reasons for this better technique, availability of more data, improved methods of forecasting, better interpretation of statistics, etc.—and not last, by any means, the use of electronic computers in translating all the in-put into a probable weather trend or pattern.

A case in point is the private forecast surrounding Inauguration Day on Jan. 21. Dr. Irvin P. Krick, who has won considerable notoriety for his rain-inducing efforts, fed all the data into the computer and came up with a prediction that the stormy weather along the eastern coast would break for that one day. Sure enough, the weather broke, momentarily and as the President mounted the reviewing stand, the sun came out from behind the clouds.

The meteorologist probably contended he knew it all along, but nevertheless a lot easier because they had banked all their plans on his forecast made long in advance.

Not so long ago we depended upon how our corn fell or whether the flies were swarming badly to predict a change in the weather. Old timers sagaciously laid it on the line concerning what the weather would or wouldn't do next week or next month. Of course, they were playing hunches.

But it has become increasingly important for business to know what the weather will do. The University of Texas business review lists some examples, among them the need for a sound weather outlook when moving ponderous off-shore drilling rigs in the Gulf; contractors who need to know what's going to happen weather-wise when scheduling materials or work; even transportation and communications companies in altering plans to compensate for foul weather. Even refineries and other fuel suppliers may need to know how to direct their output to markets in view of what the weather is doing.

Contractors in Central Texas were said to have told thousands of dollars because they didn't head this spring's long range forecast. In some other sectors, builders got clipped through failure to note the temperature trends. It is suggested that you might, by keeping a gimlet eye on the weather predictions, avoid rained-out vacations. (Some of us have to accommodate our schedules to our jobs rather than the weather.)

One large swimming suit manufacturer depends upon long range forecasts in pin-pointing locales for advertising. Large bakeries in the East govern their pastry production according to the weather outlook. Once a major restaurant operator was advised, while mopping his brow, that the temperature would not get to 90 degrees, as everyone predicted, but would turn off cool instead. "Cut your salad production," he was advised. He couldn't see it, but sure enough the forecast was right and our hero was up to his neck in salads because the temperature dipped to a chilly 65.

This is all very interesting, but I'm still more concerned with an improved method which will put more moisture into the forecasts.

A Description Of Mr. 'True Blue'

Over the years, a columnist acquires several bales of mail from indignant citizens who sign themselves "True Blue American," "Red-Blooded American," "Old-Fashioned Patriot," "Pro Patria" and "All American."

And over the years, I have gotten a kind of composite portrait of old True Blue. He is, for example, a firm advocate of the brotherhood of man for everyone—except Catholics, Jews, Negroes and "lousy foreigners." In his lexicon the words "lousy foreigners" are one, and he would close the door of this country now and forever to all immigrants.

He is the son, grandson or great-grandson of an immigrant pioneer, of whom he is very proud. But, in one of his favorite phrases, "that's different." Today, all immigrants are subversive.

True Blue has even discovered that Hungarian Freedom Fighters were just lousy opportunists who were probably put up to it by the Commies. In hope the Hungarians would be admitted to the U. S.A., the quicker to undermine it.

He thinks the United Nations is composed of dirty foreign rats and his letters are always sealed with a sticker that reads "Get the U.S. out of the U.N.; Get the U.N. out of the U.S."

He knows beyond cavil that every department of government is honeycombed if not dominated by Communists. He is convinced that although the Communist party may be small in actual numbers, there are "millions and millions" of sympathizers and fellow travelers ready to betray this country the moment the Kremlin gives the signal.

He voted for President Eisenhower in '52 and '56 because he had no alternative. He is disappointed in Ike, believes he is going "pink" or else is under the dangerous influence of all the Commies who run the White House.

He believes in freedom of speech for everyone who agrees with him; the others are subversives.

He believes in freedom of worship for everyone—except Jews and Catholics who owe their real allegiance to dark powers overseas.

He believes in freedom of the press—for publications that mirror his views; the others are Communists.

He believes in freedom of assembly for everyone—except conspiratorial elements that hold views other than True Blue's.

He believes in fair play—for himself and his cronies.

He believes in justice for everyone—except crackpots whose ideas aren't identical with his.

He is suspicious of all ideas except his own.

He never refers to the Supreme Court except as "this concourse of traitors," "this Commie Court," "these treasonous betrayers," etc., etc.

He firmly believes the American taxpayer is supporting every other nation in the world and enabling "lousy foreigners" to live in idleness and luxury at the expense of True Blue and his kind.

True Blue is against dictatorship but believes it would be a good idea if some strong guy, preferably J. Edgar Hoover (the only American he really trusts besides himself) were commissioned to crack dissident heads and toss into concentration camps all dangerous thinkers—i.e., people who don't agree with True Blue.

Wilbanks, who is opening a trailer park on Harding Street just outside the city. In okaying Wilbanks' request, commissioners lifted all restrictions on tapping the water main. McElroy who found them on the seat of her 1965 Buick when she returned to the car Tuesday. Her car had been parked, she said, near Wacker's and she believes someone mistakenly thought it was another vehicle. The owner can have the keys on applying to the sheriff's office.

Respite From Heat Apparently Fading

Big Spring Tuesday had a respite from the blistering 100-degree weather which has been the rule for the past 15 days. Heavily clouded skies cut off the beams of the sun and the temperature never got beyond 95 degrees — which was the coolest "high" since June 25. The evening and night, while bearable, were not on a parity with the semblance of coolness which ruled the day. Low was 71 for the night. There were a few fleeting intervals during Tuesday when the cloud banks bore some faint promise of providing the area with a thundershower but these failed to fall. On Tuesday morning the U.S. Experiment Station had said that the past 15 days represented the longest interval of the June-July season on record during which 100 or higher temperatures had been scored. Wednesday was ushered in with partly cloudy skies and temperature was not as high as been the general rule in the forenoon of the past two weeks. However, the sun was able to get in some good licks as the clouds were scattered. The U.S. Weather Bureau, Wednesday, held out little hope that the cooler weather of Tuesday would continue. "Partly cloudy and warm through Thursday," was its forecast. However, it saw a possibility of "widely scattered thundershowers in the afternoon and evening of the two days. Predictions call for "upper 90's" for today and tomorrow.

Youngsters Held As Theft Suspects

Five teenagers, believed to be from California, waited in the city jail today while police attempted to determine if the car they were driving yesterday is a stolen vehicle. Chief of Police C. L. Rogers said inquiries have been sent to the National Automobile Theft Bureau and to civilian and Navy authorities in the San Diego, Calif., area. The five were taken into custody at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday when a mechanic at Tarbox-Gossett Motor Company became suspicious of the California car they were driving. In the group are two girls, aged 16 and 18, and three boys, 17, 18 and 19 years of age. Each of the quintet has refused to give officers any information, Rogers said.

Jury Hears Cases At State Hospital

R. H. Weaver, county judge, John Richard Coffee, county attorney, and a jury were trying 46 applications for admission to the Big Spring State Hospital on Wednesday morning. The 46 cases represent the total filed during the month of June.

The Big Spring chapter is planning a membership drive here in the early autumn. Accompanying Mrs. Tripp was

C-City Considering New Police Building

COLORADO CITY — City Manager R.K. Sneathen asked councilmen Tuesday to consider the possibility of a new police department building. The Department and city court presently occupy the basement of the City Hall. The council gave Sneathen the go-ahead signal on employing an architect to make tentative plans and estimates for the new building. Sneathen said that a bond issue would be necessary to finance the project. The council also: 1) changed the block between 19th and 20th streets on Highway 101 from apartment house zoning to local business zoning; 2) approved the selection of A. G. Ballard as fire chief; 3) appointed Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, Jr., as city health officer.

Make Honor Roll At Tech

Two area students are among those making a 3.00 average, equivalent of the "straight A" card, at Texas Tech during the spring semester. Powderly G. Maxwell, a senior from Big Spring, attained that rating in the School of Agriculture, and Carolyn M. Bilberry, sophomore from Colorado City, did it in the School of Business Administration.

Power Demand Falls In June

Effects of the late May and early June wet spell are reflected sharply in the monthly report of the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative. Sale of power in June was only one-third of what it was in June a year ago. The jury began deliberating the fate of the young Spanish-American at 11:30 a.m. on that date. Flores, who took the stand in his own defense, is indicted under the habitual criminal act which makes the punishment for a felony automatic life imprisonment on conviction.

Texans Deny Abuse Of Drought Relief

RANKIN, Tex. (AP)—Charges of abusing the Federal Drought Relief Program were denied yesterday by three Texans. Denials came after Senate investigators in Washington heard testimony from A. F. Rounsaville, an Agriculture Department auditor in Dallas. Rounsaville said Monday Ed Guy Branch of Rankin received $6,495 in drought relief and Walton Poage $5,696 to which they were not entitled. Branch retorted: "That's all manufactured—not a word of truth in it. I didn't get off with any money." Poage, away on a trip to New Mexico, authorized his wife to issue a somewhat milder statement that neither he nor Branch "received one penny of government money on the feed program." As for a report to the senators in Washington that the two had been ousted as members of the Upton County Agricultural Stabilization Service Committee, Branch said: "We've been off the committee five or six months." Other testimony before the Senate Agricultural subcommittee dealt with the giant King Ranch

Water Therapy Program Slated

July 29 is the date for the beginning of the water therapy program for crippled children this summer. The program is being sponsored by the City-County Health Unit under the supervision of Nurse B. Bowen. The date has been set at this time to enable instructors from the YMCA swimming classes which end July 26 to take part in the instruction and classes of the therapy program. Around 20 children in the area are expected to participate in the program which will be held at the Westward Ho Motel swimming pool on West Highway 80. Parents of crippled children in the area may contact Miss Bowen at the Health Unit in the Reed Hotel to fill out application forms for the program.

Services Held For Acting Pair

NEW YORK (AP)—Separate funeral services were held yesterday for actress Judy Tyler and her actor husband. The young couple died in a Wyoming auto crash last week. Miss Tyler played the feminine lead in the Broadway musical "Pipe Dream." She recently co-starred in a movie with Elvis Presley. Lafayette had made several television appearances.

Three boys and three girls from Howard County 4-H clubs will be given a free trip to Lubbock on July 17 to 19 to take part in a 4-H Club Electric Camp. The group will be supervised by Assistant County Agent Bill Sims and Home Demonstration Agent Elizabeth Pace. Sims says the school is jointly sponsored by the Southwestern Public Service Company and the Extension Service. The groups will study electricity as it serves farm and ranch people, and while at camp they will also be given some project to complete. Those making the trip must be at least 14 years of age, Sims says.

Some farmers are wondering whether to spray for insects or wait and see if they get enough rain to make a crop. Entomologists say the tiny insects can do as much damage as the big ones. The fleahoppers which are now working on cotton can reduce production by a quarter of a bale per acre by ruining the squares. Experiments at the Lubbock Experiment Station proved that early season insect control could add an extra quarter bale per acre to the crop.

Aside from the cotton insects in this area, Jimmy Taylor says the aphids are found in some grain sorghum fields. However he doubts if they will do enough damage to feed crops to justify poisoning.

Reds Insist Again On Atom Suspension

LONDON (AP)—The Russians insisted again last night on unconditional suspension of nuclear weapons tests for at least two years as the first step toward a disarmament agreement. Moscow radio reiterated the demand in a broadcast supporting the stand of Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin in the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee sessions being held here. A Moscow commentator said: "A threat has been found that might set the whole (over disarmament) put right. I mean the Soviet proposal on a stop to nuclear weapons tests."

The West has insisted that a ban on nuclear weapons tests must be accompanied by an effective inspection and control plan and a halt to the manufacture of fissionable materials for military use. The United States has suggested halting H-bomb tests for 10 months, provided those conditions are met. The Moscow broadcast said the drafting of a control system would be "pointless... without acceptance by the powers of an undertaking to stop nuclear tests." This re-emphasized Zorin's statement to the subcommittee Monday. In rejecting key Western proposals, he said a conference of scientists to draft an enforcement system would be a "waste of time." The broadcast complained, however, that some Western newspapers drew wrong conclusions from Zorin's speech and said he had "good reason for his remarks."

tions are still fairly good, though rain is needed badly in areas south of Lamesa. One insurance against a hot, dry summer are the 600 irrigation wells. Many farmers are using them and others are starting. Farmers cultivating land in Sulphur Draw must set aside a number of hours each day for pulling stalled tractors out of the mud. The bottom land has blown over with sand and looks dry, but down beneath there are wet spots where a tractor will suddenly bog down hub deep. G. Tunell says there was more water in the draw than at any time since he bought the land in 1939. He has most of the land in the Sol Bank and has quite awhile left to plant it. Unless another big rain comes along, he thinks it will be dry enough in another week or two. He said his neighbors along the draw were having the same trouble. They usually send two tractors out together. The empty machine makes tracks for the loaded one to follow.

This has been an expensive, troublesome year for the irrigation farmers, says Leroy Mattingley of Tarzan. Besides having crops ruined by too much rain, the older cotton is weedy and will require a lot of expensive hoeing. He said the ground was drying out, but hardly anyone is doing any irrigation around him. He has a lake on the farm which is just now drying up enough for planting. Mattingley's crop escaped most of the severe hail, and he has quite a lot of early cotton. He said insects were beginning to work in some of the fields, but had not done much damage yet.

Water Consumption Climbing At Lamesa

LAMESA — Lamesans took full advantage of sufficient water Monday and used 2,181,000 gallons of the heretofore scarce and precious fluid. W. E. Sealy, water department superintendent, this morning reported the largest daily use in several years. Sealy predicted yesterday that Lamesans would peak at five million gallons if the hot and dry weather continues.

Czechs Promised 'No Revolution'

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev promised Czechoslovakia today that the split in the Communist bloc which "imperialist reaction attempted in Hungary will never happen." The Soviet Communist party chief spoke to a huge crowd at the Prague railroad station, formerly named for Woodrow Wilson, after he and Premier Bulganin stepped from the special train which brought them on a 24-hour whistle-stop tour across Czechoslovakia. "The Hungarian events clearly showed the real character of imperialist designs," Khrushchev declared. "Our opponents, our enemies very much wanted to subvert the unity of the Socialist camp to split it apart and then one by one to crush the peoples of the democratic order. But this, comrades, will never happen. "Never will it be possible for anybody to shake and violate our great commonwealth. The people of Socialist countries will understand that in fraternal unity and solidarity lie the most reliable guarantees of freedom and independence."

Welcoming the visitors, Czech President Antonin Zapotocky predicted their talks in Prague would "serve to tighten the unity and solidarity" of the entire Communist bloc. Zapotocky openly endorsed Khrushchev's purge of his rivals in the Kremlin leadership, saying the Soviet party's Central Committee meeting which took the action last month "showed the world how crazy and hopeless are all attempts to weaken our unity or to change our Leninist policies." Prague radio said the Soviet leaders had come to the Czech capital for "discussions of great political significance," especially since these followed so closely upon the removal of Georgi Malen-

More Rain Needed To Maintain Crops

AUSTIN (AP)—Rain is needed over most of Texas to maintain development of crops as temperatures continue to rise, the Department of Agriculture said yesterday. "In some areas, crops were wilting in those scorching temperatures," the Department said. "Sub-soil moisture was still available from soaking spring rains but top moisture got away before crops sent roots down to that deep moisture." But last week's hot, open weather proved ideal for baling hay, combining wheat and cultivating row crops, the USDA said.

In the High Plains, wheat harvest hit its peak while reaching the three-quarter mark in the Central High Plains. Wheat harvest passed the halfway mark in northern counties of the High Plains, but everywhere test weights continued to run light. The Coastal Bend milo crop had "every available man, truck and combine in the field harvesting," the report said. "Harvest of lower Valley sorghum grain neared completion. Growers were generally pleased."

Sorghums vary widely in stage of development for the northern half of Texas but prospects were the best in years for nearly all of the state. Early corn south of Waco rapidly reached maturity. Rice made rapid growth and was being fertilized. Growers were optimistic about pecan prospects. Open weather aided cotton growers in cultivation and in the checking of insects. Moisture is

See actual road-test proof! DODGE outpulls "other two" low-priced trucks!

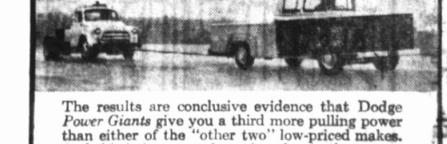

Here's the scientific way to measure the actual pulling power a truck can deliver to its rear wheels. All three low-priced trucks were hooked up, one by one, to a special dynamometer truck. Each was comparably equipped and test-loaded.

Super-sensitive gauges inside the dynamometer truck register the maximum pull of each truck at 10 m.p.h. Insets in photos above show actual gauge readings in each case. To convert these readings into pounds, simply multiply them by three.

The results are conclusive evidence that Dodge Power Giants give you a third more pulling power than either of the "other two" low-priced makes. And this is just one of a series of tests that prove Dodge is the best truck of the low-priced three.

Nat'l's Contributed Toward Own Defeat

By JOE REICHLER

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Chicago's Minnie Minozo and Detroit's Jim Bunning and Al Kaline were singled out today as the 1957 All-Star Game heroes, but some critics attributed the American League's 6-5 victory yesterday to good breaks, poor National League base running and Casey Stengel's luck.

Each side scored three times in the ninth inning. A fine throw and catch by Minozo preserved the American's second triumph in the last eight years and Stengel's second success in seven All-Star games. Minozo's double in the top of the ninth drove in Kaline with the winning run.

R. D. Ross Jr., holder of the state high school record in the two-mile cross country run, is shown above with Texas University Cross Country Coach Froggie Lovren, inking a four-year scholarship agreement with the University of Texas. Ross, last December 10 in the Invitational meet at Austin, sped the two miles in 9:15, wiping out the 9:46.6 set the previous year in the distance event. A 1957 graduate of Lamesa High School, Ross will run the half mile, mile and two mile cross country in college.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Milwaukee officials asked Roy Baird, the local baseball coach, to assist with their diamond clinic in Alpine recently. Baird, who is in school at Sul Ross, had to refuse because he couldn't spare the time from his classes.

Wilson Bell, one of the local lads who took in the school, said he "learned a lot" watching such batting masters as Paul Waner weave the willow.

Recent Southern Association attendance figures showed the New Orleans Pelicans averaging only 1,032 paying customers a game.

The league has a hot potato it doesn't quite know how to handle, now that the New York Yankees, who give the Pels their players, have indicated they don't want the club to become a road team exclusively.

Atlanta — one of the country's best minor league cities — has drawn nearly three times as many people to its home games as New Orleans.

It's hard to account for people's tastes. Recently two real has-beens of the ring, Bobo Olson and Joey Maxim, fought in Seattle and attracted $25,000 in business.

The same fight wouldn't have drawn 500 people in Boston or New York.

The Cosden Oilers of Big Spring won't be able to make it to the ISL state softball tournament at Wink this year. Too far.

The Oilers went up last weekend and twice beat the defending state titlists, Humble of Wink.

Frank Barton, the former Big Spring pitcher who now manages Wink, is going to have to find himself some new pitchers, if Humble is to be a factor in the state meet again.

The one-time Big Spring, Witty Quintana, is hitting very well for the Havana Cubans of the Class AAA International League.

Quintana, who is playing third base for the Cubans, collected eight hits in 18 tries in a recent six-game stretch and two of the blows went for home runs.

The Cubans are ailing, however, and their troubles are hurting them at the gate — they've drawn less than half as many as they did last year at this time and may not play to 100,000 for the year.

In event you've lost track of hard-hitting Bill Serena, who went from Lubbock to the Chicago Cubs, he's now with Buffalo of the International League.

If pari-mutuel betting had been legalized in Texas, chances are now that Big Spring would be the horse-racing center of West Texas.

Though much of the nation's top horseflesh is raised in Texas and many of our citizens own race horses, the Legislature has never seen fit to OK betting tracks.

There was a time back in the late '40s when Big Spring had a track and a weekend racing schedule during part of the summer. It could have been built into quite a program by now. The agencies which are constantly looking for new things to tax might have eased the load on all of us, by making pari-mutuel betting legal in the state again.

In Florida, the tax money from horse and dog tracks keeps the athletic programs at three universities going.

C. G. Griffin, the ex-Big Spring resident who is now golf pro at Brownfield, had 93 registered for his recent invitational tournament.

The meet was run in competition with several others in West Texas.

It's getting to the point where an invitational entry list of 100 or more is considered large in West Texas.

Moore, Anthony Awaiting Frank Sinatra's Offer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The fate of a proposed Archie Moore-Tony Anthony fight for the world light heavyweight championship in Los Angeles apparently rested today on a bid by singer-actor Frank Sinatra to promote the bout.

The California Athletic Commission called a special meeting here this afternoon.

They will: Approve or reject the 15-round match Sept. 11 at Gilmore Field, home of the Hollywood Baseball Club, or Approve or reject a request for a promoter's license in the name of Sinatra.

The principals agreed on terms yesterday. Opposition to the fight quickly bubbled to the surface, with at least three established clubs or promoters slated to appear before the commission.

Ready to object, not so much to the fight as to the promoter's license, were matchmaker Jack Leonard and two members of the Hollywood Legion Stadium board of directors, Underwood and Claude Cummings; promoter Cal Eaton and his wife, Alleen, of the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles, and Bennie Ford, San Francisco promoter.

Casey Living Right When He Called On Minnie Minozo

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Crafty old Casey Stengel was a winning All-Star Game manager for the second time in seven tries today, partly because things he didn't want to do turned out so well.

He didn't want to start Detroit's Jim Bunning, who was his No. 2 choice behind Cleveland's Early Wynn. Bunning retired all nine men he faced.

Casey wasn't happy with the fans' choice of Harvey Kuenn of Detroit at short, Vic Wertz of Cleveland at first and Baltimore's George Kell at third, and was determined to replace them after three innings.

That he did, but not before Wertz and Kuenn had batted in the first two runs — Wertz with a single and Kuenn with a bases-loaded walk.

No fault can be found with Stengel's replacements — Moose Skowron at first and shortstop Gil McDougald of his own New York Yankees and Boston's Frank Malzone at third. Moose rapped a double and single.

But Casey was living right when he inserted Minnie Minozo of the Chicago White Sox in the eighth for defensive purposes.

Minozo doubled home what proved to be the winning run in the ninth, then threw out Cincinnati's Gus Bell at third to help choke off a last-minute National League rally.

The crowd of 30,693 witnessed splendid pitching by young Bunning, Baltimore's Billy Loes and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, and fine fielding and timely hitting by Kaline and Minozo. They also saw several plays that will be second-guessed for many weeks.

Why did National League Manager Walt Alton decide to let Milwaukee's Eddie Matthews swing away in the ninth inning? The potential tying runs were on second and first, and with nobody out, strategy cried for a bunt.

Why did National League Manager Walter Alton decide to let Milwaukee's Eddie Matthews swing away in the ninth inning? The potential tying runs were on second and first, and with nobody out, strategy cried for a bunt.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Gus Bell stop at second on Chicago Cub Ernie Banks' one-out run-scoring single in the ninth which cut the American's lead to 6-5? Bell tried to advance to third and was an easy out on Minozo's throw to Boston's Frank Malzone.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, who had opened the National's fifth with a single, run to second on Matthews' apparent line drive hit to right field? Instead, Robinson retreated after going halfway and was thrown out at second by Kaline, who made a one-handed stab of the ball on the first bounce.

Alton, who used all but four of his 25 players, defended his own action and that of his players in a forthright manner.

"I thought about having Matthews bunt," he said. "But Eddie has good power and is a left-handed pull hitter. With that short right field porch an inviting target I wanted to give him a chance to hit that long one for us."

Left-hander Don Mossi of Cleveland, summoned out of the bullpen to relieve Chicago southpaw Billy Pierce, got Matthews on a called third strike. Banks followed with a single which would have tied the score had Eddie advanced the two runners.

"Had I known Eddie would strike out and Banks would hit that single," the skipper of the Brooklyn Dodgers said with a smile, "I would have had Matthews bunt."

Ironically, the best pitcher of the day was Bunning, whom Casey nominated to start only because Cleveland's Early Wynn, his original choice, had been used Sunday.

Bunning hurled three perfect innings, retiring nine batters in succession as Stengel's crew built up a 2-0 lead against Philadelphia's Curt Simmons.

Loes also kept the National League sluggers from scoring during the next three innings while the American Leaguers increased their lead to 3-0 in the sixth — after Burdette had stopped them in the third, fourth and fifth.

It was while the American League had opened up a 6-2 margin with three ninth-inning runs — only one earned — against Clem Labine of Brooklyn, Kaline drove in two and scored the other.

A walk to Stan Musial, May's triple and a wild pitch produced two NL runs with nobody out. When pinch hitter Hank Foiles of Pittsburgh singled and Bell walked, Mossi took over and struck out Matthews.

Banks' run-scoring single, on which Bell was nipped at third for the second out, caused Stengel to call upon his own ace reliever, righthander Bob Grim, to pitch to pinch hitter Gil Hodges with Banks, representing the tying run, on second. The Dodger first baseman drilled Grim's second pitch on a line to left field but Minozo grabbed it on the run to end the game.

And so the American League won its 14th game to 10 for the National League in All-Star competition.

Casey Living Right When He Called On Minnie Minozo

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Crafty old Casey Stengel was a winning All-Star Game manager for the second time in seven tries today, partly because things he didn't want to do turned out so well.

He didn't want to start Detroit's Jim Bunning, who was his No. 2 choice behind Cleveland's Early Wynn. Bunning retired all nine men he faced.

Casey wasn't happy with the fans' choice of Harvey Kuenn of Detroit at short, Vic Wertz of Cleveland at first and Baltimore's George Kell at third, and was determined to replace them after three innings.

That he did, but not before Wertz and Kuenn had batted in the first two runs — Wertz with a single and Kuenn with a bases-loaded walk.

No fault can be found with Stengel's replacements — Moose Skowron at first and shortstop Gil McDougald of his own New York Yankees and Boston's Frank Malzone at third. Moose rapped a double and single.

But Casey was living right when he inserted Minnie Minozo of the Chicago White Sox in the eighth for defensive purposes.

Cards In Position To Take Charge

By ED WILKS

The season's half over and this could be it for the St. Louis Cardinals in that National League taffy pull, where everybody's been too busy trying to keep up to ever get ahead.

Manager Fred Hutchinson's Red-birds, the best road club in the league, are in position to take charge. They carry a five-game winning streak and a 2½-game claim on first place against the six-place New York Giants tomorrow, opening a 13-game swing through the East.

Second-place Milwaukee opens its Eastern tour at Pittsburgh in the only game scheduled tonight. Tomorrow night, third-place Philadelphia, 3½ games behind, is home to Chicago's last-place Cubs, with fourth-place Cincinnati three percentage points back of the Phillies, at Brooklyn. The Reds are five games behind in fifth — their first second division standing at the halfway point since 1948.

In the American League, the New York Yankees head into the West for 12 games with the idea of locking up the race for good. The Yanks, also 2½ games ahead, open at Kansas City tomorrow night.

The second-place White Sox are home to Washington tomorrow night, with Baltimore at Cleveland in a two-night twin bill and Boston at Detroit for a day game.

Only the Cardinals and Milwaukee have won more than they've lost in the last month among the NL contenders. St. Louis was 20-10, the Braves 16-13. Philadelphia was 14-15, with Cincinnati first place by a game a month ago — and Brooklyn 13-16.

While only 20-20 at home after sweeping four from Cincinnati last weekend to grab first place from the Redlegs, the Cardinals are 26-11 on the road, with a 17-6 record in the East. Milwaukee and Cincinnati are only 13-10 in the Eastern parks.

The Yankees, finally in gear, have won four in a row and 11 of their last 12 for a 51-26 record — the same mark they had after 77 games in 1956, although it was good for a five-game lead then.

One-Run Games Ordinary In Texas League This Year

The Associated Press

If the Texas League maintains its percentage of one-run victories there can be a lot of "it might have been" when the season is over.

Almost one-third of the 339 games played thus far have been won by one-run margins—190 to be exact.

Three more were put into the books Tuesday night as Austin beat leading Dallas 1-0 in the first game of a double-header to thwart the Eagles' bid for host spot in the All-Star Game of July 24, then Dallas won the second game 4-3. Tulsa nosed Houston 5-4 to drop the latter back 7½ games from Dallas.

Now Dallas has to win Wednesday night to get the All-Star Game (the club leading the league on July 17 is the host). The Eagles have eight games to play.

San Antonio whipped Fort Worth 4-0 to take over third place undefeated and drop the latter into fourth.

Circuit Blasts Win For Cosden

In a game distinguished by the fact that all runs came as the results of home runs, the Cosden Oilers took over first place in the YMCA Industrial Softball League by blanking Snider Gulf, 3-0, at the city park Tuesday night.

Billy Paul Thomas, Pete Cook and Ed Sproesser crashed out the round trippers for Cosden in successive innings, starting with the fourth.

The blasts backed up Troy Wetsel's two-hit pitching effectively. Jim Ward was the only Gulf player who suited Wetsel's hurling. He collected a single in the second inning and duplicated that feat in the seventh.

Wetsel fanned only seven batters, below par for him, but he had the opposition hitting where he wanted them to.

Speck Frank, who worked the first five innings for Snider Gulf, gave up three of Gulf's five hits, Jim Ward, who came on in the sixth, yielded the other two.

Gene Gross had two blows for Cosden.

In the other game, Webb AFB belted Air Installations, 10-6, in a slugfest.

Webb warmed slowly to the task and closed with a rush, getting three runs in the fourth and four in the fifth.

Hughes connected for three singles for Webb. AIO's seventh-inning attack was led by Wolfe, who had two safeties.

Cosden's record is now 6-5 and the team will try to improve upon that Thursday night in Bronco.

Helen Witt on the mound for Coahoma, had an easy time behind the 21-hit attack of her mates.

Dumpy Lendernom, Helen Neill and Betty Parrish each collected three hits for Coahoma. Ethel Trotter and Winnie Dodson each had two, including home runs.

Witt, Pauline Dodson and Gwen Rogers crashed out two hits each while Dorothy Holler got one.

Witt limited the visitors to two hits, struck out four and walked three.

Coahoma Easy Winner, 27-5

COAHOMA (SC) — Coahoma's women softball team, which has shown much improvement in recent games, lashed Sweetwater, 27-5, in a contest limited to four innings by agreement.

The home club started out with five runs in the first, added four in the second and managed 18 tallies in the third, its only other time at bat.

Coahoma's record is now 6-5 and the team will try to improve upon that Thursday night in Bronco.

Local Lassies Tourney Bound

Five Big Spring tennisists left this morning with their coach, Billie Clyburn, for San Antonio, where they will compete in the annual State Jaycee Tournament, which gets under way tomorrow and continues through Saturday.

The five are Layla Glasser, Betty Ellison, Nita Farquhar, Joan Bratcher and Shirley Killough.

Between them, the local girls won three championship and six awards in the Midland Open Tournament conducted last weekend.

The Big Spring team meets the Midland representatives in Sterling City today and will accompany that group to San Antonio.

The Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce is contributing $50 toward expenses of the local group.

Hank Aaron Even With Ruth Mark

The Associated Press

With the 1957 Major League season at the half-way mark, Milwaukee's young Hank Aaron is even with Babe Ruth's record home run pace while Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees is four behind.

Aaron, who also leads the National League in batting with .347 and runs-batted-in with 73, has hit 27 home runs in 78 games, the same number Ruth totaled in the same number of games en route to his record 60 in 1927 with the Yankees.

Mantle, the American League batting leader at .369, has walked 22 home runs in 77 games. Ruth had hit 26 in 77 games, getting his 22nd homer in his 53th game.

Kansan Out Front In Women's Play

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Twenty-seven women golfers, the last of 104 in the qualifying field, resumed their rain-interrupted rounds before championship play got under way today in the Women's Invitational Golf tournament here.

If any of the 27 shoots under 90, she apparently will be one of 16 qualifiers for championship play.

Zora Folley Wins

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Fourth-ranking heavyweight Zora Folley administered a terrific drubbing to clinch-happy Jeff Dyer last night to win a unanimous 10-round decision over the New England boxer.

Uncle Ray:

Beans Were Eaten
In Ancient Times

By RAMON COFFMAN

Beans rank high among the vegetables eaten by people. Millions of bushels of them are grown and sold each year. They have been included with meals since ancient times.

The Egyptians of long ago ate beans, and so did the Greeks and Romans. In ancient Rome the head of a family threw "black" beans over his head nine times, and repeated Latin words with this meaning:

"With these beans I redeem myself and my family."

Q. Are "black" beans signs of ill fortune?

A. According to an old superstition, black beans (that is, beans with a dark color) were an ill omen. White beans, on the other hand, were supposed to have a good meaning.

Q. What are navy beans?

A. They are a white variety of the kidney beans. Other kidney beans are of reddish, or reddish brown color. The "navy" part of the navy bean name reminds us of the old custom of taking plenty of dry beans on sea voyages before the time of refrigeration. The beans remained in good condition until it was time to eat them. Often they were cooked with salt pork or bacon.

Q. What was the original home of beans?

A. Asia probably was the continent where they first were raised and eaten. They were grown in ancient India, also in lands around India. Later it seems that white persons carried beans from Asia into southern and western Europe. Beans were taken from England to Massachusetts by Puritan settlers. Some were grown by members of that colony. In due course "Boston baked beans" became widely known.

The New World, however, had beans of its own at the time of the coming of the Spaniards. Records show that they grew in several parts of South America, also in Central America.

Scientists Produce Element No. 102

CHICAGO (AP)—Discovery of Element 102—the 10th and newest synthetic element of the atomic age—was announced today by a research team from the United States, Britain and Sweden.

The new element has the proposed name of nobelium, after the Nobel Institute for Physics in Stockholm. It was made by bombarding curium, synthetic Element 96, with positively charged carbon ions accelerated in the Nobel Institute's cyclotron.

Texas Woman Wins Award For Dietetics Work

LUBBOCK — When Miss Jerry Rivers of Lubbock entered Texas Tech as a 15-year-old freshman in textile engineering, she might have laughed at the idea of her winning a national award in dietetics — but not now.

For the young Tech graduate student and head dietitian at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital has received just that — one of two $1,000 Mead Johnson national awards for outstanding work in foods and nutrition.

"Just a little bit of the Tech engineering curriculum plus a summer in a textile plant was all I needed to convince myself that textile engineering just wasn't my field," Miss Rivers said.

However, a switch to foods and nutrition in Tech's School of Home Economics was just as convincing to Jerry — and her teachers — that she had found her field.

After graduation from Tech with a bachelor's degree in 1951, Miss Rivers joined the U. S. Public Health Service as an intern at Staten Island, N. Y.

Her record there plus her work with the Public Health Service at Fort Worth and at Tech and Methodist Hospital caught the attention of the American Dietetic Assn. Those were factors in the decision to give her a Mead Johnson award, according to Dr. Mina Lamb, Tech foods and nutrition department head.

Miss Rivers said she plans to use the funds for further graduate study at Tech. She needs only 12 more semester hours plus a thesis for a master's degree.

The Riverses are a real Tech family. Jerry has two sisters and a brother who are Tech graduates — Mrs. Pat Gardner of Houston, and Mrs. Robbie Wright and Charles Rivers, both of Lubbock. Another brother and sister, Dr. George Rivers and Mrs. Janet Ribbs of Fort Worth, also studied at Tech. The only exception is another sister, Mrs. J. H. Williams, Fort Worth, who did her work at East Texas State College.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Maureen O'Hara wants a million dollars damages from Confidential magazine, which printed an article about her in the March 1957 issue.
