Is there some way to stem our tide of traffic fatalities? Until a month ago we have a reasonably good record; since then we have added four to the total, making eight dead for the year.

According to word from Sen. Ralph Yarborough, the Air Force has announced acceptance of the housing bid submitted by Williams and Dunlap a little more than a week ago.

The City of Big Spring was rushing ahead with its plans for extending water and sewer lines to the base housing area adjacent to Webb. Bids on the $50,000 revenue bonds floated for this purpose have been asked for Aug. 13.

NO WONDER HE'S OVER-CONFIDENT
Skunk has built-in chemical warfare

Skunk Obnoxious, But Has Desirable Qualities

By GORDON CREEL

No other animal in our section of the country is thought of with so much distaste as the skunk. Even a distant encounter with him gives us the impulse to turn tail immediately and run. The impression he makes on man and beast alike is so outstanding that he enjoys an aloofness in the outdoors unequalled by any animal. The skunk belongs to a fine family of animals as the minks and weasels. All of these animals not give off a powerful, suffocating odor when angry. The skunk's scientific name, Mephitis mephitis, actually means foul smell. Some one has said that chemical warfare is nothing new; the skunk has always used it to perfection.

POTENT STUFF
The chemical which he uses for his defense is found in two glands near the base of the tail. When angered, he lifts his tail and the yellow liquid is emitted in a fine spray. Immediately the liquid vaporizes and the disagreeable odor permeates the air for yards around. "One man shot a skunk 150 yards from his home, and the odor reached his home five minutes later and stayed for two days" (Arnold). Sometimes the odor may drift as far as a mile.

Everyone knows some boy who has tangled with a skunk. The tale usually runs the same. The clothes have to be burned, a dozen baths are taken to no avail and the bathroom is rendered useless because the odor has filled it. Almost inevitably the boy had been told that if he picked up a skunk by the tail it could not spray. By way of sad experience many have learned that this is not true.

DISTINCTIVE MARKING
When full grown, most skunks are about two feet long. They have a pointed head which is black with a vertical stripe. The hair is long and rather coarse. The tail is bushy and about 15 inches long. Some skunks are entirely black, but more often there are two white stripes extending from the tail to a big white spot on the head.

The skunk's front legs are shorter than the back ones, on the forefeet are long, well-developed claws. The skunk takes short slow steps and makes a double track.

This creature was given his sharp claws for a purpose — he uses them to dig his home. He is not very ambitious or even particular, for often he is found living in the same burrow that another animal forsook last year. I can remember as a child that occasionally they dened under our house. Probably the dirt was light and digging was easy there.

OVER-CONFIDENT
When the skunk decides to come out of his burrow, he just nonchalantly ambles out, usually at night. He is full of confidence; who would dare oppose? He has become so overconfident, in fact, that we would say he didn't have much sense. He isn't even clever enough to stay out of a trap or off the highway.

During the summer and fall the skunk gradually gets fat because of the large supply of his most relished food. Grasshoppers and crickets abound, and over half of his diet consists of them. Actually the skunk is no gourmet; he will eat almost anything from small snakes to grain and nuts and has even been known to eat carrion. He seems to enjoy mice and rats.

Occasionally he gives in someone's hen house and has a feast of chicken or eggs.
By the time the food supply disappears in the fall, the skunk is so fat and sluggish that he hunts a place to go to sleep. This may be his summer burrow or it may not. Often he finds a burrow already occupied by other skunks and they pass the cold weather together lending warmth to each other. He comes out for a breathing spell when the weather warms and puts in appearances in this fashion as the temperature fluctuates. His tracks are noticed during the warm spells all winter.

YOUNG BORN IN MAY
The babies are born in a neat nest in the burrow usually in early May. They have short fur which shows a sharp contrast of color. Last year a student of mine apprehended a skunk in the pasture. Impulsively he picked up an empty ink bottle lying nearby and hit her. Upon realizing he had killed her, he examined her and found that she was carrying late embryos. He dissected her and four live babies were taken. The skin of the babies was a pattern of pink and black exactly as the white and black fur would later grow.

We were attempting to feed them all sorts of formulas in our living room floor when my wife asked if their scent glands were developed at that stage. I told her they were not only well-developed but the young ones instinctively knew how to use them. I'm sure she and the boy's mother were both relieved when all four babies succumbed.

The skunk does not rely on strength, camouflage, or speed to protect him from predators. His chemical seems to be enough in most cases. His appearance is anything but a camouflage. Even at night his white stripes shine out conspicuously. His enemies simply stay out of his way.

SOME VIRTUES
The skunk has some desirable qualities. He is not obnoxious with his chemical warfare. In fact he must be made really angry before he uses it. His tail goes up in warning several times before he completely loses his temper.

"Of our large mammals, skunks certainly are the greatest enemies of insects. Skunks are particularly partial to white grubs and cutworms (Hamilton)." In New Mexico the Biological Survey turned up sufficient evidence to prove the skunk the most important natural enemy of the range caterpillar. Often skunks which have burrowed under barns completely ridged the place of rats.
There was a time when skunk fur was important to Texas. Now it is a negligible profit maker.

There is a satisfactory outlet for skunks which have been desecrated for pets. They are sold young and many people in search of an unusual pet have found them to have playful and affectionate natures.

Producing Eggs For Broiler Hatchery New Industry Here

J. L. BAUGH IN CHICKEN HOUSE
Eggs are collected four times a day

By JESS BLAIR

A new kind of poultry project, that of producing eggs for the broiler industry, was brought to Howard County this last spring. One of the three farmers raising these hatching eggs is J. L. Baugh, who farms northeast of Big Spring in the Salem community. Baugh did his own work in building a 30 by 130-foot poultry house and bought started pullets at 12 weeks of age.

Now they are 28 weeks of age and have been laying several weeks, but the eggs are just reaching hatching size. Baugh says they must weigh 23 ounces to the dozen before the Southwestern Hatchery will take them.

The last few days he has been getting over 700 eggs from the 1,050 hens, and approximately half these are being bought by the hatchery. He sells the rest to stores in Big Spring.

There are two differences between this type of operation and caged hens. These are not caged, but run loose in the big house where there is plenty of water and feed kept out at all time. Since the eggs must be fertile, about 10 per cent of the flock are roosters.

The hens are big, beefy hybrids, developed to grow a lot white meat. They already weigh about seven pounds apiece and will get heavier. They are reddish in color, though the roosters are pure white. The roosters are furnished by the hatchery, or rather rented to the poultrymen for a small fee.

During the hot weather the sides of the house are opened to let in the breeze. There is also nearly an acre lot or pasture to one side of the house which the hens can use to exercise and scratch for insects.

"I probably got the lot too big," Baugh said, "for the hens never get very far from the water and shade."
The heat has bothered some the last few weeks. Baugh has rigged up some foggers that throw a tiny spray of water down from the ceiling. It isn't enough to get the hens wet, but does cool the air. It is a type of cooling system used extensively in Arizona and California.
There are some advantages and disadvantages to this type of project, Baugh says. The main advantage is that producers have a steady egg market. The hatchery pays 20 cents above the regular diseases or cannibalism, but must check on the hens occasionally. They don't fight much, but when one hen starts running, they all begin pecking at her. Baugh must then catch the cowardly hen and put her in a special pen with some more weaklings.

All the work is done by Mr. and Mrs. Baugh. They had kept a small farm flock, but this is their first try at commercial production. Before this year their main income was from general farming.

They moved to the 160-acre farm in 1936, then in 1945 bought it. He not only farms the home place but works quite a big lot of other land nearby.

"Farming a big acreage hasn't helped much the last few seasons," he said. "We had some dry years, so I was looking for some extra money. Several of us investigated this for several weeks before starting."

"I already see there won't be any big money in it, and we didn't expect any. But I needed to find an off-season job, so it looked like a good way of making a job for myself right here at home. If it just brings in a good hourly wage, I'll be satisfied."

Two Tuberculosis Cases Reported

Two cases of tuberculosis were reported to the City-County Health Unit during the past week. Both cases are now patients in the VA Hospital here.

Other diseases reported were tonsillitis 54 cases, diarrhea 40, flu 30, streptococcal 23, colds 8, upper respiratory 8, bronchial pneumonia 5, mumps 4, measles 3, trenchmouth, lobar pneumonia, undulant fever and impetigo 1 case each.

The dry weather is bearing down, yet most crops are still giving it a good battle. A general round-up of crop conditions shows that sandy land is holding up much better than tightland areas.

Probably the driest part is near Vealmoor where both feed and cotton are growing very slowly. The wettest area may be in the Knot community, particularly along the west side in the deep sand. One farmer said they could last through this month easily and even a week or so in August without rain.

Nearly all the early feed, no matter where located, needs rain now. Cotton is growing fairly slowly, and much of the late crop only a few inches high is setting squares.

J. R. Bond, who farms nine miles northeast of Big Spring, says his crops have slowed down in growth. "We got plenty of rain," he said, "but it fell hard and ran off. If we had got these rains last December and January, we wouldn't even know we were in a drought."

Bond says every day of dry weather is cutting down on cotton yields, because late cotton should be making rapid growth at this time of year.

Conditions are much better in the counties to the north, Grady Acuff, general manager of the Keaton-Acuff Gins, says crops are excellent in Lynn Count, and very good in Dawson, Gaines and Terry, with the exception of hilled-out spots.

There are a few dry areas, but generally moisture is still sufficient. He said that farmers were doing a little irrigation in Gaines, Terry and Dawson now, but started only a few days ago.

Acuff thinks Howard and Martin are the two driest counties in this section, and says crop prospects are beginning to dwindle as dry weather continues.

Some of the better grasses that have seemingly disappeared may not be gone at all, says County Agent Charley Green of Midland. He inspected part of the "Lloyd Ranch" with owner Les Floyd and says they found some seedlings of grasses that had not been seen for several years.

"Evidently the seed had been lying dormant just waiting for the proper moisture conditions," Green said. "With some of these tiny seedlings, though, we'll need con-says there are a few caged operators doing all right, but many smaller poultrymen and particularly farm flocks owners went out of business.

"Egg prices haven't been much inducement the last few months," he said. "There seems to be a trend toward larger flocks, more automatic equipment and for the owner to get into it as a full-time business instead of a sideline."

One person who doesn't care about the double highway on U. S. 80 is Mrs. S. M. McElhatten of Westbrook. Mrs. McElhatten is in the grocery business, and it's pretty hard to sell anything to people racing through town at 70 miles per hour. The new road misses her store about a block, in fact misses almost all of Westbrook.

"I'll probably just close up when they get the highway finished," she said, "because there won't be anyone stopping."

Most of her trade is serving local people, but visitors coming through have also spent money at the store. She has been selling groceries and gasoline on Highway 80 for nearly 30 years. She and her husband came to Iatan in 1928 and put in a grocery store. It was moved to Westbrook in 1944, where it has been added to and remodelled several times.

"We're not the only ones to be hurt by changing times," she said. "The highways and super markets are putting little stores out of business in a lot of places."

Only One Bid On Webb Work

Only one bid was received Friday for utility and miscellaneous installations in support of the base housing project.

Base contracting office officials said that USAF installations officials in Washington were being contacted to see if the proposal was within the money or if new bids would be asked.

W. B. Chitney runs the store, but lives in Snyder. He says some of the best land in West Texas is located in the Cuthbert community, but only a few families are left to farm it.

The chicken business has gone into long moult in Mitchell County, according to Dewey Davis, Colorado City feed dealer. He

Coahoma Needs Five Teachers

COAHOMA, July 13 (SC) — School Superintendent H. L. Miller always spends part of every summer hunting school teachers. This one is no exception. He still needs five teachers to complete the 1957-58 faculty.

Miller says there are openings for two grade school teachers, a band director, public school music teacher, and a junior high school coach.

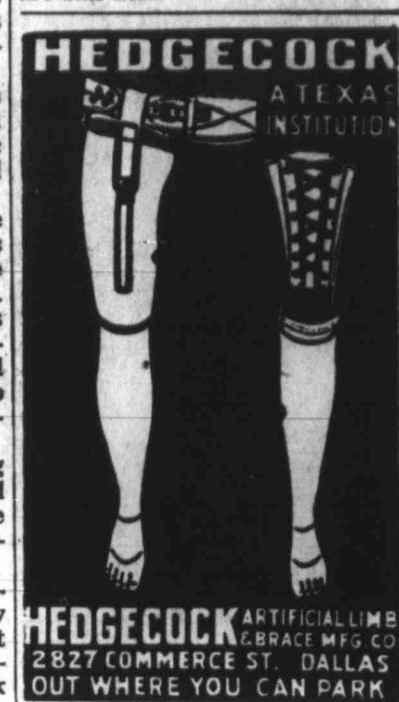

The school will have an increase of five teachers, but this was caused by consolidation with the Midway District, Miller said. Present plans are for six grades to be taught in the Midway building, while all other students will be brought to Coahoma. The two grade school jobs will be at Midway.

Miller says the job of getting enough teachers is never solved until school starts, because some teachers accept jobs and then resign before school opens.

Two teachers were hired recently. They are Mr. and Mrs. Perry Moring who taught at Smyer last year. He will teach high school history, while Mrs. Moring will work in junior high school.

How To Have Bigger Fish At Home

Stock tanks such as this one on the W. D. Anderson ranch, 20 miles northeast of here, will produce abundant fish supplies if they are fertilized, says the Soil Conservation Service. The top fish, from a well-fed pond, reached 14 inches and 16 ounces in two years whereas the one below weighed only two ounces although it measured eight inches after two years.

'CHAIN REACTION'

Fertilizer In Stock Pond Produces Big Bass 'Crop'

Fertilizer not only increases crop yields but it contributes to those whoopers in your fish pond.

Not that you sprinkle fertilizer on a fingerling bass, explained Fred Potts of the Soil Conservation Service, but rather fatter fish result from a chain reaction. Fertilizer in your stock pond works just like it does on your field — it stimulates plant growth.

Still, it's not so simple as the fish eating on the water plants, for their favorite food is bluegill. The fertilizer promotes the growth of green microscopic plants known as algae. Worms consume these plants, and bluegills thrive on the abundant fatter worms.

Bluegills spawn during the summer months and tens of thousands of little bluegills come on the scene. If there has been fertilization of the pond, they probably have plenty of worms and will grow larger during February to June. This increases the food supply for bass and other fish.

Some pond owners stop fertilizing ponds to keep bluegills from spawning so much in the summer, but, warned Potts, this indirectly cuts down the bass food supply, and bass cannot grow unless they are well fed. In addition, a heavier, more vigorous bass will help prevent an over-population of bluegills by eating more during the following autumn, winter and spring.

This important "thinning" of the bluegill population begins in October, following their spawning season, and ends in early summer when the bluegills spawn again. This leaves the bass in top condition to gain maximum weight during the second summer and early fall when rapid growth is in order.

Sometime bass in ponds with plenty of bluegill food will put on seven or eight times as much weight in a two-year cycle as those in unfertilized ponds. Ordinarily the weight of fish is increased by two or three times. Technicians have demonstrated repeatedly that total weight of fish in a pond is governed by fertility of the water. Hence they advise the application of a commercial fertilizer, using 100 pounds of 8-8-4 or equivalent per surface acre of water.

The treatment causes the water to become clouded with algae. When you can see a bright object 12 inches under the surface of the water, it is time to put on another application of fertilizer.

Time to fertilize is in the summer, same as with other crops. But with fish, the real results will wait until next summer to become apparent.

George McAlister Wins Three ABClub Awards

George McAlister, vice president of the American Business Club, was literally showered with awards at the regular Friday luncheon of that organization at the Settles Hotel.

McAlister was given a trophy for having recruited the most members within a six months period; an award for being the most help to the club president within the same period, and a plaque for having headed the ABC Relays committee.

In addition, McAlister was singled out for having been the second most successful recruiter of new members in the entire country. He drew mention at the National convention held in Augusta, Ga., for that reason.

Jim Lewis, ex-president of the club, made a report on the convention. He was accompanied to Augusta by Garner McAdams.

Lewis also presented the Smitty trophy, an award presented by the National ABC committee, to the club. The award is made to the club which shows the greatest numerical gain in membership within a year. The local organization gained 39 new members during the year.

Walt Lawson was introduced as a new member while Allen Holmes and Ira Shantz were guests.

The Big Spring firemen's new drill tower looms above the spectator stands at the old football stadium just east of Birdwell Park. Workmen started putting up steel for the structure Friday and the project is expected to be finished in the next few weeks. The drill tower, four stories high, is the last phase of a fire department expansion program started with passage of a $145,000 bond issue earmarked for that purpose late in 1955. Two new fire stations, two new trucks and other equipment have been added to fire fighting facilities here. Twelve men have been added to the force. The improvements are expected to result in a lower fire insurance rate for Big Spring, but that will be determined by the State Insurance Commission.

Two Physicians Join Staff At Malone, Hogan Clinic

The addition of two doctors to the staff of the Malone & Hogan Hospital Foundation was announced Saturday.

They are Dr. I. G. Wilson, radiology, and Dr. J. H. Burnett Jr., internal medicine.

Dr. Wilson was graduated from the Tulane University School of Medicine in New Orleans in 1933. For several years after an internship at Southern Baptist Hospital, he completed his residency in radiology at Tulane in 1951. He served four years in the medical corps in the United States Army during World War II. Before coming to Big Spring, Dr. Wilson had been in private practice of radiology in Beaumont.

He and his wife, Evelyn, have two sons, Eric, 15, and David, 18. They are making their home at 610 George Street.

Dr. Burnett is a native of El Paso and was graduated from the Emory University School of Medicine at Atlanta, Ga. in 1951.

After his internship, he completed his residency in internal medicine at Emory University Hospital in June of this year. During the Korean campaign, he served with the Medical Corps in the United States Army.

Dr. Burnett and his wife, Sue, have two children, Stephen, 4, and Lisa, 2. They are making their home at 804 W. 17th Street.

Editorials To Be Discussion Topic

Editorials, as a change from the Great Books Foundation's notion of the sublime, will touch off the semi-monthly fireworks when the Big Spring Great Books group holds its next extra session July 16. The meeting is open to anyone who has either an editorial or an argument to present, and the editorials may be chosen from many publications in the world.

For the Aug. 6 meeting the group voted to discuss George Bernard Shaw's Preface to his "St. Joan." Subjects for the remaining summer sessions, which are not included in the Great Books Foundation schedule, will be chosen at the July 16 meeting.

Meetings open at 8 p.m. and are held the first and third Tuesday of each month in Room 211, Permian building.

35 Contribute Here To Fund For Chapel

SAN ANGELO, July 13 — Some 35 individuals and business firms in Big Spring have given a total of $2,025 toward construction of an All-Faith Chapel on the grounds of McKnight State Tuberculosis Hospital, 17 miles from San Angelo.

Mrs. Sam Grayson Jr., San Angelo, bonded treasurer of McKnight Area Volunteer Council, received the contributions from Marvin M. Miller, senior vice president of Cosden Petroleum Corp. He is Big Spring representative on the Chap-

Civil Suits Set For Jury Trials

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, has called 60 jurors to serve in the trial of several civil suits which are docketed for this week in his court.

How many of the scheduled matters will be ready for trial will not be known until the docket is sounded on Monday morning at 10 a.m.

Judge Sullivan completed a week of criminal jury trials last week. Next criminal docket is now scheduled for the last week in August.

Reds Get Hot Idea On Warming Arctic

OTTAWA, July 13 (AP)—The Soviet News Bulletin put out by the Russian Embassy here says the Canadian arctic could be warmed up by 25 to 30 degrees for 35 billion dollars.

The Soviet formula: Dam up the Bering Strait, pump cold arctic water into the Pacific, and let warm Atlantic water flow through the arctic.

A Canadian arctic expert's verdict: "Crazy."

Former Resident Dies In Eastland

Mrs. Louis Talley has been in Eastland where she was called by the illness and death of her uncle, R. L. Carpenter, former Big Spring and Forsan resident.

Mr. Carpenter was with Continental Oil Company for many years and served for a time as district superintendent at Forsan. Subsequently, he was transferred to manage properties in the East Texas areas and then at Whiteface, where he was retired. For a few years he and his wife made their home in Big Spring before purchasing a tourist camp in Eastland.

Spirits On A Hook

KENORA, Ont., July 13 (AP)—Bus driver Mac MacLean hooked a spirited prize while fishing in the Lake of the Woods. He hauled in a bottle of rye three quarters full, hooked by the cork, and found the contents in good condition.

MEN IN SERVICE

Pvt. Harvey G. Cross, whose wife, Nancy, lives on Route 1, Stanton, Tex., is scheduled to complete eight weeks of basic combat training with the 4th Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex., in mid-July.

Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cross, Stanton, is a 1953 graduate of Stanton High School.

Qualified in radio instrument flight recently was a Navy Ensign James H. Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Conley, 1411 Lancaster, Big Spring.

Ensign Conley is a graduate of Rice Institute. He completed his radio instrument training at the Barin Field Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Foley, Ala., and is now undergoing advanced training in multi-engine aircraft at Hutchinson, Kans.

Change In Area
Plow-Up Date
Is Requested

The Howard County ASC office has written the state office requesting that the plow-up date for grain sorghums on acreage reserve land be moved back from Aug. 1 to September 15. The reason, as explained by the letter, is as follows: "In our area grain sorghum planted for cover on acreage reserve land is now only three to six inches high and if we dispose of it by Aug. 1, 1957, we will create a wind erosion hazard. We recommend that the disposition date for this county be extended to Sept. 15, 1957, for this year only." The letter further explains that crops are unusually late because of heavy rains which delayed planting. Nearly all grain sorghum was planted in late June and will not be ready for harvest until October. Farmers who have grain sorghum (maize, begari, kafir, etc.) on cotton reserve acreage should wait awhile before destroying it, according to Gabe Hammack, county office manager. He expects an answer by Friday, July 19. If the extension is not granted, farmers will be notified immediately and will still have a week to destroy the soil bank crops.

Marvels Abound In 21st Century, But People Still People, Book Predicts

By JOY MILLER
NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Stick around for the 21st century. You won't want to miss it. Space adventures may be grabbing the headlines then — there will always be newspapers and people still will be pretty much people, with their interests centered in home, family and enough for a down payment on the latest indispensable electronic miracle. The reason you won't want to pass up the 21st century is bound up in some amazing statistics in a book called "U.S.A. in New Dimensions" being published July 15. Viewing with pardonable pride the incredible size and power of America's productive might, the book points out that if present rates continue, in another century we'll be able to produce as much in one seven-hour day as we do now in a 40-hour work week. To the 21st century worker our 40-hour week likely will seem as oppressive as we consider the 70-hour week of 1850. There's no doubt he will have a staggering amount of leisure time for pursuing recreation and new knowledge. And the piles of goods he will be able to manufacture at that accelerated rate could banish want from the planet. MORE PROBLEMS The opportunities seem unlimited—and so do the problems. Watching society meet the challenge offered by more abundance for less work could be as exciting as hurtling through space in search of unknown worlds. Neither course would be charted. But mankind's fate might depend in the long run, more on adjustment than adventure. Barring major depression or war, America's future will be shaped by the same economic system that today is the strongest and most productive in history. Its scope and dimensions are so tremendous that the Twentieth Century Fund decided to publish a new volume setting forth the measure and promise of America's resources. "U.S.A. in New Dimensions" is based on the fund's long-term economic study of two years ago, "America's Needs and Resources: A New Survey," by J. Frederic Dewhurst and associates. The Twentieth Century Fund is a 39-year-old nonprofit foundation for scientific research and public education on current economic and social questions. Thomas R. Carskadon, associate director of the fund, and George Soule, economist and author, collaborated on the new book, which is "a record of the American past, measure of the present and guide to the future." POPULATION UP What will we be like on that Dec. 31 when the hands of the solar-powered clocks point to midnight and we greet the new century with the probably indestructible "Auld Lang Syne?" The book doesn't always say specifically. In most cases, it does not project beyond 1970. But the long-term trends are there. And one thing is pretty certain: There'll be a lot more of us. In 1950 the U. S. population should be around 177 million, a hefty leap from the 153 million of 1950. With the birth rate going up and the death rate going down — the wide open spaces are destined to fill up like Main Street on Saturday night. More—and livelier—senior citizens will be around. Fifty years ago a white male child could expect to celebrate his 48th birthday. His 49th wasn't so sure. Today his life expectancy is nearly 67 years. As for the fragile females, who always have worn better, it's more than 72. And in another 50 years... The vital statistics columns will probably take on new length as marriage and divorce rates climb. Today more people, proportionately, are married than ever before in history. And married earlier, too. Maybe 21st century dictioaries will mark the word "spinster" as "archaic." ETERNAL OPTIMISTS Divorces are up to 25 per cent of the number of marriages from 5 per cent in the 1880s. Since most divorced people remarry, this not only boosts the marriage figures but indicates what an eternally optimistic people we are. Here are some other trends to ponder in relation to the new century: Right now we have the highest standard of living ever achieved by a great population and indications are it will keep on rising. Family size should be more uniform in the future. The typical family will have two or three children born fairly close together and early in marriage. Our population's movement westward—especially to the Pacific and mountain states — and from sparsely settled farm states to urban-industrial regions seems likely to continue. Families and individuals are shifting from lower income ranges into higher. The gap is narrowing between the rich and the poor. School attendance has more than doubled in the last 50 years. But more than one out of 10 fails to finish grade school. And the need for more schools and teachers increases with the population rise. COPTERS ABOUND It used to be a chicken in every pot but now it's a car in every garage and by the next century, it may be a copter in every home hangar. Right now two out of three American families own automobiles. We're the most peripatetic people on earth. In 1953, for example, altogether we traveled half a trillion miles. And the urge grows, with the emphasis on car and plane favored means of conveyance. More than half the people in the United States are now church members, giving $1,296,000,000 in 1952, compared with 300 million in 1909. This may look increasingly devout, but the fact is, the contributions amount to a smaller percentage of incomes: one per cent in 1909 to 0.6 in '52. These statistics, pointing perhaps prophetically to the future, don't include some of our most positive advances: in medicine, farming, automation. But the fund's survey, which makes no bones about various drawbacks and needs in housing, education and conservation of natural resources ends on an irresistibly hopeful note: "Our vast productive plant is a flexible manmade resource which, barring atomic devastation, will prove equal to any imaginable need." Twenty-first century, here we come.

May Set New Voting Place

It is probable that the Howard County Commissioners Court will act Monday on a request that a new voting box be established in the north part of town. A request for such a box was read last Monday. It was apparently the sentiment of the commissioners that the plea was sound and it was indicated that it would be further studied at the meeting on tomorrow. A similar petition was made last year but the matter arrived too late for action. Any change in voting places or precinct boundaries has to be made before August under state law. The petition said that the additional voting place was needed to accommodate the Negro voters who live in the area.

After 122 Years As A Den Of Thieves, Phenix City Is Quiet

PHENIX CITY, Ala., July 13 (AP)—After 122 years as a den of cutthroats, prostitutes and gamblers, Phenix City is as quiet and respectable as a prayer meeting. Three years ago this town of 23,000 across the Chattahoochee River from Columbus, Ga., appeared completely rotten. Its infamy was spread around the world. There was nothing in the line of vice Phenix City didn't peddle. You name it, Phenix City had it—and it was easy to find. Gambling joints lined the main drag and ringed the city. Dames were available by the dozens—and they weren't exactly ladies. You could go to cock fights, view bedraggled stripteasers, get your head bashed or be rolled for your money by B-girls. Nobody seemed to care. On payday for the 50,000 soldiers stationed at nearby Ft. Benning, Ga., Phenix City was about as wild and wide open as any of the faded gold rush boom towns. Sex for sale reached the point where houses of prostitution became portable. Canvas-covered pickup trucks were directed to customers by two-way radio. Until three years ago this had been the story of Phenix City: practically from the day it came into being in 1832 as a refuge for renegades who fled the United States to the territory of the Creek Indians. On June 18, 1954, came the big blowup. Crippled, 60-year-old Albert L. Patterson, newly nominated as Alabama's attorney general, was fatally shot. He had pledged a cleanup of Phenix City. For Alabama, which long had winked at Phenix City's vice, the shooting of Patterson was the last straw. The governor at that time, Gordon Persons, sent National Guardsmen and state police into the town. They shunted local law enforcement officials aside and clamped on a lid that hasn't come off to this day. Before the cleanup was over 749

New Westbrook School
Plant Nears Completion

WESTBROOK, July 13 (SC)—Every pupil from the first to the 12th grade will enter a completely new classroom when school starts here in September. Work on the new building has moved ahead rapidly and will be completed within the next three or four weeks, according to C. L. Ashford, member of the Westbrook School Board. The district voted $240,000 in bonds to build the school house. Ashford said the only part of the old plant to be used is the gymnasium. The rest of it will be torn down and salvaged later in the year. Included in the new building will be six classrooms for grade school pupils, three regular high school rooms, library, study hall, rooms for home economics, typing and other special studies, and a teacher's room. The dining room will also be used as an auditorium. Architects-engineers for the project were Haynes and Kirby, Lubbock. General contractor was Harry E. Miller Construction Company, Lubbock. Avery To Preach
In Coahoma Revival

COAHOMA, July 13 (SC)—The First Baptist Church will open its summer revival Sunday morning with Rev. Maple Avery, former pastor of the East Fourth Street Baptist Church in Big Spring, as the minister. Wayne Nance, music director of the First Baptist Church of Big Spring, will lead singing. Rev. Mark Reeves, pastor, said services will be held daily at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. The revival ends July 21. The church also has scheduled its vacation Bible school for Aug. 5-16. Preparation day will be Aug. 2, and will feature a parade.

Husband Pins On Bars
Mrs. Diane S. Price, nurse at Webb AFB Hospital, receives her first lieutenant's bars from her husband, Dr. (Capt.) Cassie W. Price, base veterinarian. Mrs. Price, the former Diane S. Seward, is a graduate of the St. Thomas School of Nursing in Nashville, Tenn. She and Dr. Price first met and were married while assigned here. The wedding took place in the base chapel last January.

Burke, Mayer Enter 39th Annual PGA

DAYTON, Ohio, July 13 (AP)—The 39th Professional Golfers Assn. Championship starts here Wednesday with a new format, probably new faces and a new influx of spectators and some of the same old confusion that makes the PGA a thoroughly unpredictable tournament.

Instructors For Swimming Course

These young ladies have been serving as instructors for swimming courses this summer and will continue in this capacity for the last classes starting Monday. Registration deadline Friday evening found 178 registered for the final period. The YMCA reported. There will be instructions for beginners, intermediates and advanced. Several requests for entry had to be turned down Saturday morning. Counting those in the final group, upwards of 500 have enrolled for swimming this summer, and this does not include the number in the Fun Club program. (Barr Photo).

Water Production Near Record Level

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is pumping water at the rate of 45 million gallons per day to slake the thirst of Odessa, Big Spring, Snyder and other customers. During the past week production has held steady at a rate that seems certain to push July demands well past the billion gallon mark. Owen H. Ivie, production superintendent, reported Saturday. Only twice before has the system pumped more than a billion gallons in a single month — 1,046,589,000 in August 1956 and 1,044,947,000 in July of 1956. A new record is in prospect for this month. General Manager E. V. Spence gave the green light to push work on two booster pump stations which will deliver Lake J. B. Thomas water to the City of Odessa to help meet the unprecedented demands on the western terminus. Contracts have been let to the Boss Electric Company in Snyder may hit half a billion gallons which would be one-sixth of the estimated annual demand. Big Spring maintained an average of 8.5 million gallons for the last 11 days, said Ivie, and Snyder required an average of 3.2 million gallons. While this was going on, the SACROC, Sharon Ridge and Lion (Monsanto) repressuring units were taking a daily draw of 11 million gallons. Consumption has exceeded estimates partly because there have been no extensive rains at Odessa and also because the weather has turned off exceptionally hot and dry in the Big Spring-Snyder areas during the past month.

Explorer Leaders' Training Is Slated

Dates for a training session for leaders of Explorer posts have been fixed on Aug. 10-11, it was announced Saturday. Arrangements are shaping up under the direction of Dr. W. A. Hunt, district training chairman. Leslie Snow will be one of the instructors for the course which will be held at the Clyde McMahon camp at Lake J. B. Thomas. All Explorer post advisors, committeemen and junior leaders are being urged to register for this session.

Mrs. Thurman To Coordinate Hospital Work

Mrs. Doris Thurman has accepted appointment as coordinator of volunteer services for the Big Spring State Hospital. Dr. Preston Harrison, acting superintendent, announced Saturday. She will begin her new duties on Monday. For several weeks a most of the time will be spent in becoming oriented to the hospital program and needs of patients as well as in developing a program of work for the position, Dr. Harrison said. Mrs. Thurman will be directly responsible to the superintendent, but she will be assisted by Helen Colburn, Austin, who is director of volunteer services for the Texas Board of Hospitals and Special Schools. Miss Colburn talked extensively with Mrs. Thurman while visiting here two weeks ago. Dr. Harrison said that Mrs. Thurman likely will spend some time in the near future at the McKnight State Tuberculosis Sanatorium with Sue Flanagan, volunteer coordinator. The position of vocational counselor to coordinate the efforts of volunteer individuals and groups has been created in the Texas hospital system because of a wholesome groundswell of interest in helping with the program of once-forgotten people, said Dr. Harrison. Mrs. Thurman's program will be directed toward working with all groups here and in this area who want to have a part in improving the comfort, and even the therapy and rehabilitation, of mental patients. She was reared in Big Spring and except for a few years in which she and her late husband, Ira L. Thurman, resided in California, Mrs. Thurman has made her home here. She has been very active in women's club, civic and church work and is widely known throughout the area. Woman Drowns MINERAL WELLS, July 13 (AP)—Mrs. Bobby Leora Minor, 18, of Abilene drowned yesterday while swimming in the Brazos River about 4½ miles west of here.

Conference Called On Airport Plans

County officials were hopeful Saturday that final decision by the Civil Aeronautics Authority on its part in the construction of the long-delayed Howard County Airport may be in immediate offing. R. H. Weaver, county judge, received a telephone call Friday from Bob Allen, area CAA engineer, asking that Weaver, other officials and the engineer employed by the county to design the airport, come to Fort Worth early this week for a conference. Allen indicated that the CAA wants to hear from the officials and the engineer exactly what the county has in mind in the way of an airport and from his inquiries it is believed that some decision very soon may be expected from the CAA on the part it will play in the program. Weaver said that he and Louis Jean Thompson, engineer, and possibly others from the county governing body, will go to Fort Worth early this week — probably on Tuesday. The airport project has been delayed for many months waiting on the CAA to act. When the project was first broached over a year ago, it was bluntly announced that the CAA would have no financial part in it at all. As a result, the county voted $500,000 in bonds and set about planning for an airport to cost that amount. Then it was revealed that the CAA had changed its mind. It would, word was received, share in the cost of the airport to an amount which might equal as much as $300,000. Recent communications have indicated that the CAA has been advised by the U.S. Air Force that Webb Air Force Base can now be regarded as being as "permanent" as any such project can be — that plans were to utilize it as long as training of airmen is required. This untied the hands of the CAA which had been contending that money it had invested in the site now used by Webb precluded its full participation in any plan to build a new airport. This led to the impression that it is possible the CAA could come into the picture with a sum equal, perhaps, to the amount the county would invest and provide the area with a million dollar installation. Since then the application filed by the county has been shunted about in the CAA offices and no final decision has been made by the agency. Officials were hopeful Saturday that the request of the CAA for a conference with the engineer on the project might mean that the day was near when the agency would announce its plans. Meantime, the land has been purchased by the county. More than $450,000 of the half million dollars voted by the citizens is still on hand. Nearly $400,000 of this money is invested in 90-day government securities and has been bringing in an interesting amount of revenue to the county.

50-Year Term On Rape Count

DALLAS, July 13 (AP)—Thomas Bell, 17, a Negro, was sentenced to 50 years in prison last night after pleading guilty to a charge of raping a white Denison High School girl April 7. The all-white jury of seven men and five women deliberated eight hours. The state had asked the death penalty. Prosecutor Jim Bowie said that under the present system in Texas Bell would be eligible for parole within 7 to 10 years. Defense lawyers argued the jury should consider Bell's age. Bell had taken the stand and asked for mercy. "I'm sorry, I didn't know what I was doing-it all happened so quick. I pray the Lord forgive me," Bell said in a low voice. The trial was transferred to Dallas from Grayson County after several incidents of racial tension stemming from the assault occurred. Sammie Louis, another Negro charged with attacking the girl, 17, is awaiting trial here. A third Negro, 15, was sent to the Gatesville School for Boys. The girl was in a parked car with a boy when the attack took place.

Injured In Fall

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—An attractive young brunette from Chicago was critically injured today when she plunged naked from a 24th floor window of the Savoy-Plaza Hotel and landed on a 22nd floor setback. She told hospital aides she was Caroline Gleason, 24. She suffered a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Fishing Becomes A Family Affair

A FAMILY OF FISHERS are Mrs. J. W. Purser and her three children, Sharon, who is nine years old, Bob, seven, and Judy, five. To prove it, the two older ones proudly tell of the time they caught 13 fish — "by trolling, too." The children really do troll with rod and reel. They probably come by their fishing naturally, as both their grandmothers, Mrs. R. L. Cook and Mrs. J. D. Purser, are avid fishers. When the group goes out for an afternoon of fishing, Mrs. J. W. Purser is the one who manages the boat as well as tending to the artificial lures for the children.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

Section C Big Spring, Texas, Sunday, July 14, 1957 Women's News

AN UNCONVENTIONAL FISHER is Mrs. Marvin Miller, 511 Hillside, who says that she keeps her fishing gear in the living room or dining room so that it will always be handy for a quick trip to a lake or stream. Another convenience, according to the feminine Izaak Walton, is a cork kept on the line just in case she wants to sit on the bank and hold a pole instead of trolling. The rod and reel came as a result of some hinting around close to Mother's Day about how well-stocked she was with lingerie and how worn-out was her old cane pole.

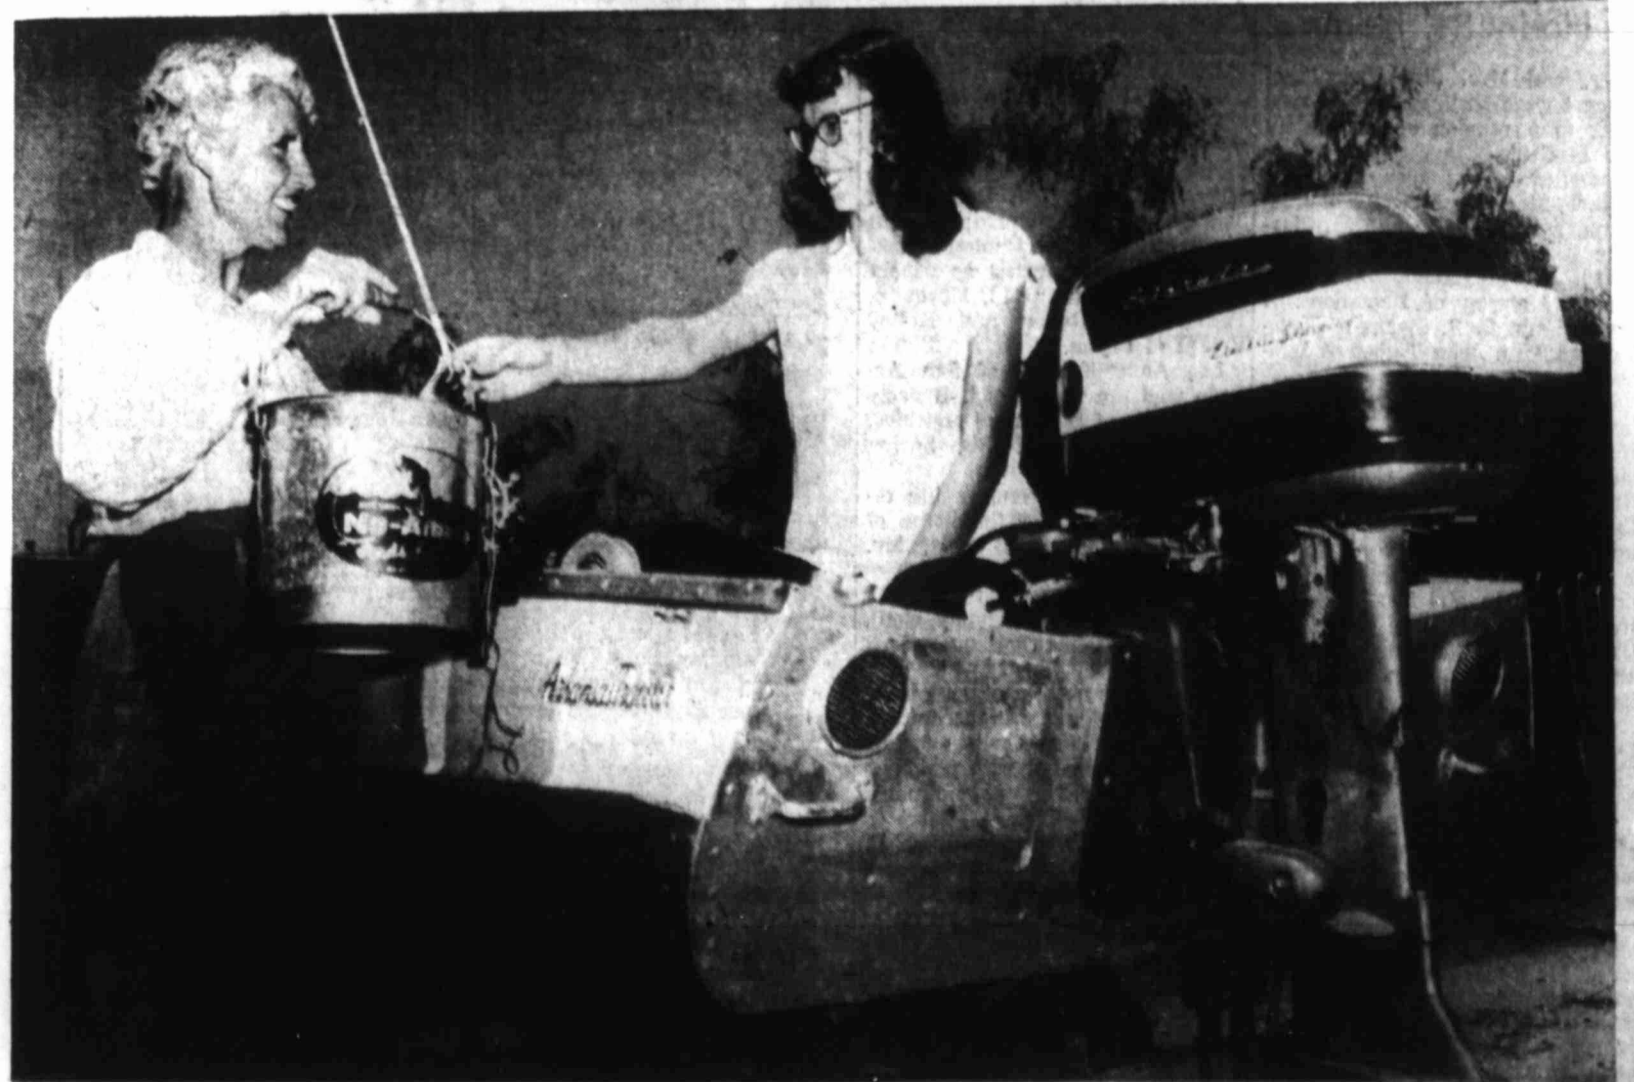

(Photos by Keith McMillin)

DRY LAND FISHING is done by Mrs. Owen Ivie, at left, and Mrs. Johnny Stewart when they are unable to get to a lake or river. After all, there's nothing like keeping in practice with that casting. Both are avid fishers, who use live bait most of the time, and don't need help in baiting their hooks. They are wearing the typical garb of "fisher women" — blue jeans or pedal pushers and a blouse. Chiquita, who holds the center of the picture, is not always this calm when there's a fishing trip in store. Seems she knows this is just make-believe.

A DOUBLE PURPOSE is served by the boat at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jernigan, 707 East 16th. Mrs. Jernigan, at left in photo below, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Howell, use it to transport their life jackets, minnow buckets, water jugs and other fishing paraphernalia to the lake. Once there, the boat can be unloaded and launched for a day or so of fishing. The women are two of the local "fishers" who find that even this kind of weather is not too hot for fishing — if the fish are biting.

Garden Ceremony Is Read For Thelma L. Clanton - David Neff

A garden wedding Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Clanton, Gail Route, united in marriage Thelma Louise Clanton and David Arthur Neff. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Neff of Wichita, Kan. The Rev. Paul A. Clanton of Joplin, Mo., uncle of the bride, read the double ring ceremony. The wedding party stood before an improvised arch entwined with greenery with wedding bells hanging from the center of the arch. Traditional wedding music was presented by Edna Neff, of Wichita, Kan., sister of the bridegroom. She accompanied Mrs. Kenneth Simpson as she sang "Because." The bridegroom sang "Always" as the bride approached the arch.

WEDDING GOWN
The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of white cotton and acetate Jacquard. The dress was fashioned on princess lines with a V-neckline in front and back. The waist-length veil was attached to a half-hat covered with lace and small bunches of flowers. The bridal bouquet was of sweet heart roses showered with carnations and streamers and was carried atop a white Bible. She wore the traditional blue garter and the penny in her shoe.

Mrs. Stephen Welsh, Lovington, N.M., sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a dress of mauve cupioni cotton styled as the bride's. Her accessories were white and she carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations. Her half-hat held a face-veil and was decorated with sweetpeas.

Serving as best man was Norman Dudley of Wichita, Kan. Ushers were Eddie Dibbens of Hempstead, cousin of the bridegroom, and Eugene Clanton, brother of the bride.

Flower boys were Kenneth Dwaine Clanton, brother of the bride, and Daniel Clanton, cousin of the bride. Max Clanton, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer.

RECEPTION
At the reception, following the ceremony, the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over pink with a centerpiece of white carnations. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Another floral arrangement of pink carnations was held in a bridal slipper of china. Names of the couple were inscribed on streamers which extended from the arrangement.

Registering the guests were Evelyn Clanton, sister of the bride, and Eva Neff, sister of the bridegroom. Other members of the house party included Yvonne Peterson, Karen Neff, cousin of the bridegroom, Joyce Bard and Gladys Oliver.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mrs. Paul Clanton, Joplin, Mo.; the Rev. and Mrs. Vester Clanton, Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Clanton, Elita and Johnny, Seminole; Kenneth Simpson, Elmwood, Okla.; Donna Jo Dibbens, Hempstead; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Norton, Nancy and Vicki, Lubbock; Don and Robert Dudley, Wichita, Kan.; Stephen Welsh, Lovington, N.M.; Dorothy Gregg and Dorothy Baker of Ackerly.

WEDDING TRIP
For a wedding trip to New Mexico and Wichita, Kan., Mrs. Neff wore a blue tailored suit-dress with white accessories.

The couple will make a home at 751 N. Mountain Carmel, Wichita, Kan.

Mrs. Neff is a graduate of Ackerly High School and attended Draughon's Business College in Lubbock. She also attended Apostolic Faith Bible School in Baxter Springs, Kan. She has been employed by Sears, Roebuck and Company in Joplin, Mo.

Neff is a graduate of North Wichita High School and attended Stamps School of Music in Dallas and Apostolic Faith Bible School. He is employed by O. A. Sutton Air Conditioning Plant in Wichita.

BRIDAL SHOWER
Mrs. Buster Shortes and Mrs. Jake Carroll were hostesses for a miscellaneous shower given Thursday evening in the Shortes home, with Miss Clanton as honoree.

In the house party were Mrs. Weldon Tibbs, Gladys Oliver and Mrs. Sonny Rogers.

Serving was done from a table laid with white linen and holding an arrangement of pink carnations in a bridal slipper of china. Names of the couple were inscribed on streamers which extended from the floral centerpiece.

The arrangement was presented to the honoree to be used on the table at the wedding reception.

MRS. RAYMOND A. BERTOLASI

Mid-Morning Rites Unite Pair Saturday

STANTON (SC) — Nelda Sue Baum became the bride of Airman 1-C Raymond A. Bertolasi in a mid-morning ceremony Saturday, in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Stanton.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William T. Baum Sr. of Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bertolasi of Rockford, Ill.

After a wedding trip to Rockford, the couple will live at 409 1/2 St. Boniface Street, Stanton. The bridegroom is stationed at Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring.

The Rev. Louis B. Moeller, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, officiated for the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Duane Connell, organist, and Mrs. Edmond Tom, soloist, both of Stanton, furnished the wedding music.

White carnations and blue shasta daisies were used to decorate the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. Lace formed the close-fitted bodice and extended into an overskirt, falling in deep points over the billowing skirt of tiny tulle ruffles. The sweetheart neckline formed of scallops of lace, was re-embroidered with seed pearls. Worn over the bodice was a lace jacket, featuring long, lapped sleeves; a stand-away collar, was fastened with tiny lace and satin-covered buttons.

A scalloped cap of sequins and pearl-trimmed lace held the bride's fingertip veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a white prayerbook and rosary, gifts from the bridegroom's mother. She carried the blue silk handkerchief which her mother had carried in her wedding, and borrowed her headress from the bridegroom's cousin, Mrs. John Landroli of Rockford.

Marsha Bristow of Stanton, maid of honor, wore a waltz-length dress of pale blue organdy, fashioned with picture neckline, tiny band sleeves and a full, pleated skirt. She wore a half-crown headpiece of tulle and ribbon with a short circular veil and carried a basket filled with garden flowers.

Diane Veruchi of Rockford, cousin of the bridegroom; Mrs. Russell E. Traugott of Big Spring, and Ima Joy Williamson of Stanton were bridesmaids, with Linda Munn of Bakersfield, Calif., cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. Patti Spier of Big Spring was the flower girl.

They were costumed like the maid of honor.

Robert Bertolasi of Rockford was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were William T. Baum Jr., of Sacramento, Calif., brother of the bride; Sgt. Russell E. Traugott of Big Spring, and Airman 3-C Fred De Andro of Chicago, Ill. Joe Thomas Milam of San Angelo served as junior groomsman. Lee Rudeseal of Big Spring, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Assisting the couple in receiving guests at the reception in the church rectory were their parents and attendants. Also in the house-party were Mrs. P. M. Bristow,

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Asbury, Johnny Bob and Julia are on a week's vacation at Possum Kingdom Lake.

Kenneth Gressett, who has been working on a ranch near Mountain Home has resigned his job to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gressett, for two weeks before entering the service on July 23.

Lamesa Guest Feted At Coffee, Luncheon

LAMESA — Mrs. Flora Barnard was the hostess Wednesday morning for a coffee, which complimented her daughter, Mrs. Charles Snure of Midland; Mrs. George Howell of New Orleans, who is spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Webb; and Mrs. William E. Watkins of Lubbock.

Presiding over the table were Mrs. Matt McCall, Mrs. J. H. Harp, Mrs. Roscoe Holton and Mrs. Jap Baldwin. The table featured shasta daisies as the center arrangement and was laid with white linen. Silver appointments were used.

Members of houseparty included Mrs. Dixie Lowe of Lubbock; Mrs. George Weiss of Brownfield, Mrs. Malcolm Harp, Mrs. M. R. Calhoun, Mrs. C. T. Beckham, Mrs. George Norman, Mrs. T. F. Vaughn, Mrs. Weldon Lindsey, Mrs. Clyde Brannon, Mrs. N. W. Staker and Mrs. O. W. Follis. Sue Green furnished music during the morning when 55 guests called.

A luncheon held Wednesday at one o'clock honored Mrs. Snure and Mrs. Howell. Hostesses were Mrs. Dick Collins and Mrs. Rusty Calhoun.

White shasta daisies formed the floral arrangement for the table which was laid with white linen. Twelve guests, all former classmates of the honored pair, attended the luncheon, which was held at the Collins home.

On The Garden Path

Mrs. Frank McCleskey stands on the pathway made by the 75 steps which join their home with the restful glen which the couple made by clearing some of the bushes and underbrush in a canyon back of their home. Made of concrete, the steps are bordered by flowers, both wild and domesticated, and native cedars mixed with other shrubbery.

Perfect Picnic Spot

To look at this attractive spot, one would never think it was a hop, skip and jump from town—and less than that from a shopping center. Frank McCleskey, shown at the barbecue pit, and Mrs. McCleskey have made a most restful place in the canyon, which their home borders; besides that, it is quite a haven for birds and little animals whose activities are always fun to watch.

View From McCleskeys' Window Doesn't Look Like West Texas

By ANNE LEFEVER

From a picture window in the Frank McCleskey home you can look out over such a view that you'd never think you were in "dry West Texas". Their attractive home at 1407 Ayilford is musical with the songs of mockingbirds and the whistles of redbirds, which flit up and down the small canyon back of the house.

In the canyon where trees are overgrown with various vines, both planted and volunteer, is a clearing where the couple has built a barbecue pit. Bermuda grass makes a thick carpet, while the trees add the privacy of a dining room.

Included in the grove are peach and cherry trees, with grape vines added, as well as trees which have been growing there for a long time before the addition was built up. One tree, which has died, was left standing and used as a support for morning-glory vines. Datura, or moon vines, bloom late into the morning, because of the shade from the sun.

75 STEPS To get to this restful space, there are 75 steps—I counted them!—all made of concrete by McCleskey and fitted into place by hand.

On the terraced ground at each side of the steps, you'll find a wealth of flowers, wild and domestic, all blending to make a lovely picture of color, seen from the patio or from the ground below the house.

Here, the wild flowers, gaillardia and Texas squaw weed, along with the wild purple verbena, nudges lantana, phlox, gardenias and shasta daisies for growing room. Four o'clocks and bachelor buttons make a note of purplish red among the brilliant hues of other flowers, and a honeysuckle vine clings to the trunk of a tree.

Near the house, Mrs. McCleskey has planted a Russian olive bush—rather, what was supposed to be a bush. It has been so encouraged by the kind treatment, fertilizer and water given it, that the seedling has developed into a tree. Close by is a poinciana which will be put into the ground when the couple returns from a coming vacation.

RUNNING WATER An unusual convenience for the neighborhood birds is the bath with an ever-changing supply of water. A small rubber hose constantly carries a tiny supply of water to the container, placed in the shelter of a shrub.

Wherever a tree refuses to allow grass or flowers to thrive, the McCleskeys have made use of the ever-faithful trailing vinca, and it furnishes a lovely background for a colorful, pleasing garden.

HI--TALK

By CAROL ROGERS

The social life of Big Springers has pretty well fallen into a routine at this time. It goes something like this: swimming or working during the day, and going to a movie or Chub's during the evening. Miniature golf has a place in this routine, as do the teen-age baseball games, bowling, and other sports.

Speaking of Chub's, you may have noticed that the place is closed on Thursday nights now. Some of the kids seen out there during other nights last week were Sharron Creighton, Glen Jenkins, Karen Montgomery, Roy Hughes, Jo Ann Ebling, Bobby Fuller, Barbara Shields, Charlie Johnson, Cecilia McDonald, Jerry Barron, Lou Ann White, and Gerald Lackey.

A large group of girls of the class of 1957 got together Friday night for what they felt might be the last such slumber party. Held at Danne Green's, the girls gossiped and drank cokes until the wee hours of the morning; then, they went bowling! Some of the night owls were Sue Boykin, Lou Ann White, Janet Hogan, Sue Barnes, Cecilia McDonald, Carol Rogers, Jacqueline Smith, Barbara Shields, Kathy McRee, Pudgie Gray, Londa Coker, Anita Gardner, Charlene Lansing, Darlene Agee and Sheila Holmes.

Many BSH's turned out for a real good show at the Ritz last week. Some of the kids laughing at the antics of the private in "The D. I." were Sheila Holmes, Bunky Grimes, Freda Donica, Hershel Stocks, Anita Gardner, Calvin Daniels, Lane Edwards, Lefty Reynolds, Sue Boykin, Jerry Graves, Juanell Sparks, and Donnie Bryant.

Perhaps the show gave Big Springers an idea of what lies ahead for three local boys who left Sunday to attend training. Ronnie Woolen, Jimmy Parks, and Dude Cluck are now training to be members of the United States Marine Corps.

Two girls from Abilene are visiting in Big Spring this week. One of these is Christie Smith, who is staying with her cousin, Jacqueline Smith. Christie has made quite a hit with everyone in the few days that we have known her.

The other visitor to Big Spring is Dorothy Pritchett, a friend of Brenda Barr. Dorothy plans to re-

Mrs. Odell Womack was hostess to members of the Barbara Reagan Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church Thursday evening with their husbands as guests. A barbecue supper was served on the patio to 16. Dr. P. D. O'Brien gave the invocation and Mrs. Forrest Gambill brought a devotion on "Going Forward."

Mrs. Bass To Leave For Altrusa Meeting

Mrs. A. C. Bass will leave Saturday by train for New Orleans, where she will attend the Altrusa International Biennial convention as a delegate from the local club.

The international group, pioneer in women's service clubs, will meet in convention July 21-26 at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans.

Altrusa International, which celebrated its 40th anniversary this year is a classified organization of about 14,000 executive and professional women. The 426 clubs are located in Bermuda, Canada, Guatemala, Great Britain, Hawaii, Mexico, Puerto Rico and the United States.

At the convention, two major projects will be evaluated. One, Grants-in Aid, provides grants of $250 to $750 to Asian and Latin American women for graduate study in the United States and Canada.

Since 1945, about $100,000 has been awarded to about 167 women for study.

Women of all ages are aided by the second project, Founders Fund Vocation Aid, which gives grants of from $50 to $250 for job training which will enable them to qualify for employment. More than 150 women have received about $27,000 in the four years that this project has been in effect.

LT. AND MRS. R. M. CORBETT
... daughters, Laura, Heidi, Lisa

Corbetts Don't Have 'Time On Their Hands'

The familiar quotation "An idle mind is the devil's workshop," might well be the motto for Lt. and Mrs. R. M. Corbett, recent newcomers to Big Spring. There's no doubt that they definitely believe in this adage since both have many activities to occupy their minds. For Mrs. Corbett, besides raising three daughters, Laura, 4 1/2, Heidi, 2 1/2, and Lisa, 2 1/2, plans to continue her college studies and to enter nurse's training. She has completed one year's work at the University of Tulsa, Oklahoma and plans to enroll at HJC for the summer session next week. Until she has finished nurse's training, Mrs. Corbett hasn't let the desire to help others go to waste for she has served as a nurse's aid and done voluntary work in hospitals in most of the places she and her husband have been stationed. She has also served as an assistant to doctors and dentists.

Lt. Corbett, who is a student pilot at Webb AFB, is a graduate of the University of Tulsa, where he majored in zoology. To keep in practice with his interest, Lt. Corbett spends a lot of time reading his textbooks, besides completing all the lessons of a student pilot. Sometimes if he happens upon a weird and unusual "creature" he preserves it and sends it to the zoology department at the University of Texas where he did graduate work.

Activities which the entire family can enjoy together include camping and fishing trips when the time can be found along with the right spot!

Other hobbies which Mrs. Corbett enjoys are ceramics, sewing and decorating their home.

She entered a ceramic class at one of their stations, a bit dubious that she could ever create anything! To her surprise after a few lessons, she did work that even she "could identify." Since then Mrs. Corbett has enjoyed making and painting many objects which add beauty to the Early American decor of their home.

The Corbetts have been stationed at Winter Haven AFB Florida; Shaw AFB at Sumter, S. C.; Ellington AFB at Houston and Randolph and Lackland AF bases at San Antonio. They are presently making a home at 1003 Howell.

Dinner Thursday Honors Forsanites

FORSAN — A group of employees and their families of Forsan Oil Well Service were honored Thursday evening with a dinner at the Wagon Wheel. This affair is held once every three months as a safety honor for no accidents in the machinery department. Twenty-two attended the dinner with Bob Wash in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Mary Belle Leetz and children of Valparaiso, Ind., are guests with Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Miller, Mrs. Lucille Collins and Clayton Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gilmore and Tommy were recent guests in Abilene with their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGuire.

Jerry Fowler and Edell Ratliff are Forsan boys attending the two-week National Guard training at Fort Hood.

Mrs. Hugh Tuck To Entertain HD Club

FORSAN — Mrs. Hugh Tuck will be hostess for the Forsan Home Demonstration Club Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barton and Van are in Georgetown this weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Barton.

Mrs. O. W. Scudday is at home from a visit in Monahans with her mother, Mrs. Don Limbocker, who is ill. Guests in the Scudday home are Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Scudday of Brownfield.

Winona Hall has returned home from Albuquerque, where she has been visiting for a month. Clayton Stewart was a business visitor in San Angelo Thursday.

A guest in the home of Mrs. Jewell White is her mother, Mrs. Maggie Pittman of Midland.

City HD Club Has Backyard Supper

After a demonstration of arranging food on skewers, members of the City Home Demonstration Club prepared their own supper Friday evening. The group met at the home of Mrs. Ross Callihan.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Ben Mabe and Mrs. Irwin Daniel. The hostesses gave the lesson on outdoor cookery.

Dinner was served in the backyard of the Callihan home to 14 members and two guests, Mrs. D. Johnston and Mrs. C. W. Mahoney.

It was announced that Mrs. Merle Hodnett will be the hostess on July 26 at 2 p.m.

Mrs. White Hosts Sewing Club Meet

FORSAN — Mrs. Jewell White entertained members of the Pioneer Sewing Club in her home Friday afternoon. Handwork was the diversion for the afternoon. Eight members and one guest, Mrs. Maggie Pittman, Midland, were present. Mrs. L. C. Alston will be hostess for the Aug. 6 meeting.

David Wise, a former resident, was in Forsan Thursday visiting friends. Wise is stationed in Florida with the Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gooch, Janet and Donald, have returned from a trip to Eunice, Hobbs and Carlsbad, N.M. They have had as their guests her mother, Mrs. R. E. Clemmer of Abilene, and her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Clemmer of Big Lake.

Mrs. S. C. Crumley has been entertaining her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. N. Snowden of Austin. She returned to Austin with them for a visit with other relatives.

After a visit in San Angelo, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Chambers have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Audrey Chambers, Snyder, Mrs. D. M. Floyd and Dianne Cavanaugh of Midland.

has visited here with the O. W. Scudday and M. M. Hines families. Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Fowler, Randle and Chequita left Thursday for a week vacation to Freer, Corpus Christi and other South Texas towns.

Mrs. Crain Visits

Mrs. Todd Crain of San Angelo has been a guest of her mother, Mrs. J. B. Nail, 1400 Main, for the past week. Her son, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lee Williams and children of San Angelo, spent Friday night with Mrs. Nail and Mrs. Crain accompanied them home Saturday.

Egyptians Skilled In Medicine, Pharmacy Over 5,000 Years Ago

(This article was prepared by Miss Frankie Boyd, who is a medical student in Baylor Medical College at Houston. We believe you will find it absorbing. —Ed.)

Medicine, one of the oldest sciences, had its beginning in man's earliest history and was clouded by darkest superstitions. It had close association with magic and religion.

Although the most primitive people discovered healing properties of plants, which they attributed to the gods, it was the ancient Egyptians who accounted for the birth of medicine and disassociated it from magic.

Imhotep, who lived around 3,000 B.C., is the first physician of record. He also was an astronomer, philosopher, mathematician, jurist and sociologist. Almost every scientific data — Egyptian, Babylonian, Greek or Roman — refers to his name. Greeks regarded Imhotep as a representative of their own god of healing, "Asclepius."

Most of our present knowledge of ancient Egyptian medicine is derived from histories of Manetho (a 3rd century B.C. Egyptian), the Greek Herodotus (5th century B.C.) and Pliny (1st century A.D. Roman). Much information also has come from inscriptions on Egyptian buildings, monuments and medical treatises.

These medical scrolls were written on papyrus (a special type of paper used by the ancient Egyptians) from 3000 to 1100 B.C. Most important was one which George Ebers, a German Egyptologist, purchased in Egypt in 1872. It is a condensation of medical knowledge of that time and deals with such things as ophthalmology, internal medicine, circulatory diseases, peptic ulcer, etc. Regarding treatment, it contains 811 prescriptions and mentions 700 drugs from vegetable, animal and mineral kingdoms.

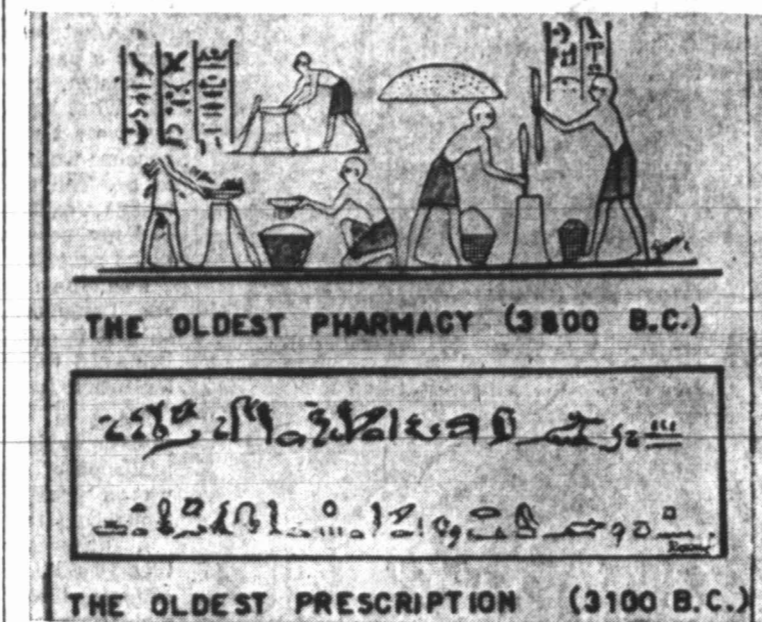

According to Greek historians, ancient Egyptians had recognized medical specialization. Names of oculists, internists, gynecologists and dentists have been preserved. The ancients even had specialists for diseases dealing with the rectum, the hair, and the integrity of the urine. Herodotus wrote that in Egypt "each physician is a physician of one disease and no more."

Another scroll, the Edwin Smith papyrus, showed that Egyptians excelled in the art of clinical diagnosis. They knew the function of the brain and its meninges and established the connection between the heart and the pulse; they also studied the heart sounds and pulse rates which were used as determinants in the well-being of a patient. This same papyrus describes their healing of fractures, the using of plaster, the cleaning and stitching of wounds.

Major surgery can be traced to the Egyptians of about 2500 B.C. Surgical instruments were found in many temples and tombs. Delicate brain surgeries such as trepanation were carried out as early as 1500 B.C.

In gynecology, they mentioned midwives and their use of the obstetrical chair. Trachoma, glaucoma and cataract, as well as external affections of the eye were recognized and treated.

The Egyptians far excelled all nations in their making and using

of drugs. About 30 per cent of modern crude drugs were known to the ancient Egyptians. They recognized the therapeutic value of many substances with their specific effect on definite organs. Substances were separated according to whether they were anaesthetics, purgatives, cardiotonics, emetics, diuretics or diaphoretics.

Their pharmaceutical preparations included gargles, snuffs, inhalations, collyria, suppositories, fumigations, enemata, douches, poultices, decoctions, infusions, pills, troches, lozenges, plasters, ointments and creams.

Vegetable drugs included castor oil, opium, murrh, colchicum among many mentioned. They also used mineral remedies such as alum, sodium carbonate and bicarbonate, sulphur, copper sulphate, and charcoal, and administered extracts of liver and other organs of animals for the disease of the same organ in man.

Dispensing drugs was an art at which the Egyptians excelled. Their media included honey, wine, milk, beer, animal fat and water. Measurements and balances were astonishingly precise. As early as 1000 B.C. a "superintendent of the office of measuring drugs" had the responsibility of standardizing drugs used by the royal household.

Pharmaceutical procedures were carried out in a room set aside in the temples for compounding medicines. Some of the storage jars are still copied today. Stemming from this specialty was a private shop operation for sale of perfumes, oils, salves, pomades and cosmetics all under inspection, of course. A perfumed pomade found in a tomb of 1400 B.C. has maintained its fragrance and pleasant odor over 3000 years.

Mummies, still in the best of condition after 5000 years of various climatic change, attested to knowledge of preservatives by the Egyptians.

Different and special jars were devised and used for various drugs, depending on whether they were liquid, snuff, ointment or pills. Papyri indicate that different medical chests were devised for home and travel. One found in the tomb of Queen Mentuhotep at Thebes contained 70 medical ingredients. Each army patrol had a transportable remedy chest to carry with it on campaigns.

Greeks, at the peak of their civilization, in the third century, looked to Alexandria for the best in medical knowledge. They rationalized it, and from Greece the knowledge passed to Rome and Europe.

Superstitions were no more than apparent in the Egyptian papyri than in many medical books of only 300 years ago.

SA Officers Train For Many Years

By NITA HEDLESTON
Officers in the Salvation Army aren't made in a few weeks or even a few years.

Six years in local training, plus a year at training college, then five years of field training must be completed before becoming a 1st lieutenant.

Among organizations at the local SA is a group called Corps Cadets which trains young people for leadership in the Salvation Army and also prepares them for entering the training college at the age of 18. Presently 14 young people are enrolled in the local Corps Cadets. Eight of these are officially accepted members and the other six are not yet officially eligible because of their age.

To belong to the Corps Cadets young people must be members of the Salvation Army and 13 to 18 years of age. Exceptions are made for those who are 12 and in the seventh grade. They must also be planning to devote their life to Christian work.

MEET WEEKLY
Meeting at 7 p.m. every Friday for instruction and leadership, the Corps Cadets are divided into two groups. The low group takes them through the first three years and then they are promoted to the higher group for the last three years of training.

After graduation from the Corps Cadets, they are presented with a pin and Bible. They are then allowed to attend training college for a year. The college for the South is located in Atlanta, Ga. While training, they are on probation and at the end of this year if they have successfully met standards they are commissioned as 2nd lieutenants. Following this they are sent to a Salvation Army unit where they train by working in the field for five years. Also during this period, they will be taking a five-year correspondence course from the college. At the end of this time if they have successfully completed their work, they in a finality are promoted to 1st lieutenants. They are at last ready to become a full-fledged Salvation Army officer.

TEEN-AGE CLUB
Another organization of the Salvation Army is the Teen-age Club which meets every Friday night at 7:30. This club is open to both members and non-members of the Salvation Army and has as its purpose the encouragement of young people to attend Sunday School and also to provide recreation for boys and girls.

Mrs. Dexter Breazeale, wife of the Salvation Army captain, is sponsor for the group. The main requirement for membership, she says is that each boy and girl attend Sunday School at least three Sundays in a month at the church of his or her choice. Boys must be 12 years of age or older and girls must be 11. Games are played and a fee of 25 cents a month is paid by each member. Presently there are around 50 members of the group.

Girl Guards is an international organization sponsored by the Salvation Army and open to any girl. Mrs. Breazeale is leader of the 16 local Girl Guards. She is assisted by Mrs. Bob Peters. Their motto is "To Save and To Serve" and their uniforms are gray trimmed in red. It is similar to the Girl Scout organization.

The Sunbeams, similar to the Brownie Scouts, wear gray uniforms trimmed in yellow and their motto is "Do Right." Mrs. Rita Rickard is leader of the 18 Sunbeams and is assisted by Beverly McNew.

The Author

Miss Frankie Boyd, the author of the accompanying article, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyd, 606 E. 15th Street. A graduate of Big Spring High School, she will be a sophomore in Baylor Medical College in Houston this autumn, and this summer is doing protein chemistry research in the biochemistry department of M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston. This story is condensed from one she prepared for the Osher Medical History Society. Miss Boyd had the distinction of being the second woman accepted into the society.

CAN YOU LAUGH AT DUCKLINGS?

Betty can laugh at ducklings. She remembers that classic of the Ugly One who grew up to be a stately swan. Betty laughs because she understands the story. She knows that some people, like ducklings, often scorn someone who is different. But she knows, too, from her religious training, that there are times when a person must face the scorn of others and be different. In fact, already she has found that a primary aim of Christianity is to change life for the better... to help the individual be different so the world can be different. Not everyone can laugh at ducklings. Some folks take quite seriously the dread of being different. For instance, there are men and women who don't attend Church, but who would like to. They simply feel awkward about breaking away from an indifference which they think is expected of them. You can make it easy for the hungry-but-hesitant to attend Church. Always invite someone to worship with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Whose Move Is It?

Pair Of Nimble Vote-Getters Go After Votes

By RONALD AUTRY
TRENTON, N. J., July 13 (AP)—A pair of nimble vote-getters each a symbol of the new look in his party—are battling for the governorship of New Jersey.

The outcome could mean presidential consideration for the winner. The election is Nov. 5. It also could be a straw in the electoral wind before the 1958 congressional elections. Only Virginia also chooses a governor this year.

But aside from the national aspects the election shapes up as a compelling battle of two politically acute, magnetic, popular personalities.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner and State Sen. Malcolm S. Forbes have been wrangling from almost the day Meyner took office in January 1954 as the state's first Democratic governor in 10 years.

Meyner has been in the position of dealing with a Republican-controlled Legislature. Forbes often has been the spokesman for the majority in the Legislature. At the same time he has been hankering for the governorship.

Resulting clashes have been inevitable. Each man has scarcely veiled his contempt for the other. Both are considered corners. Both are trim and clean-cut and apt speakers.

Meyner, a handsome man who looks much less than his 48 years, was an obscure state senator and Phillipsburg lawyer. Then he licked Republican Paul Troast for the governorship, and party leaders began to eye him.

His stock rose a year ago when he stopped Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) cold in the presidential preferential primary in New Jersey—a major setback for the Tennesseean.

LIFE WITH MUSIC Truth And Falsity Apparent To Ear

By RICHARD D. SAUNDERS
A musician friend, after listening to the iniquitous Khrushchev on television, mentioned that his voice "has a false ring in it."

Yet the ear must be a trained one, to distinguish properly, for the same musical tones used to some extent in all speech can be employed by an able speaker to hull the unwary in a manner that often seems surprising to a person who has greater perception of nuance.

Honeyed tones are part of the equipment of every politician and are adroitly employed to woo votes or win their support. The skilled orator uses his voice in exactly the same way as the skilled singer, rehearsing with equal care and battling his way upward from the bush leagues to the major circuit (the hopes).

Certain actors, on screen and stage, make careers out of voices that lack sincerity and hold an obviously false timbre. These are exaggerations, employed with dramatic ability to achieve an effect—the effect of instilling doubt of the speaker's honesty.

On the other hand, the vicious politician such as Khrushchev goes to great pains to make his voice seem hearty and true, or that is part of his deception. It is necessary for him to make the people believe him, like the lesser criminal who distracts his victim's attention while picking his pocket.

A quick ear, like that of my friend (I did not personally listen to the turpitudinous Tartar) must listen not only to the tone but to the overtones, and must distinguish between those which are inspired by true emotion and those which are developed by mere manipulation.

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

Well deserved blankets of praise are being wrapped around the most up-and-coming vocal group, the Hi-Lo's. The quartet has recently waxed two albums for Columbia.

"Suddenly There's The Hi-Lo's" and "Ring Around Rosie," which they do with Rosemary Clooney. Prior to these two, the quartet recorded for Starlight label. Two outstanding albums released by this recording company are presently coming into deserved fame.

First is "Hi-Lo Under Glass," which presents a singer's choice of singers harmonizing on "Summertime," "Birth of the Blues," and "Through the Years." The second album done some time ago on Starlight label is "Hi-Lo's I Presume" in which the boys, Gene Puering, Bob Strasen, Bob Morse, and Clark Burroughs are accompanied by the Frank Comstock orchestra. Teamwork is displayed as they miss "nary" a beat on "Stars Fell on Alabama," "Speak Low," "Button Up Your Overcoat," and "I Thought About You."

It is ironical their most devout fans are another group of male singers, the Four Freshmen. A package scheduled to break all sales records of Presley albums to date is "Loving You," which features, of course, Elvis Presley singing numbers from his new Paramount movie of the same title. Besides title song, he does a number that has received recognition as a single release, "Teddy Bear" as well as a new one, "Mean Woman Blues."

On Roulette label, Buddy Knox has released a new album that is stocked with listener appeal. Attractions within the package include "Party Doll," "Rock-A-Billy Walk," and "Rock Around the Clock." Attraction outside the package is a striking pose of the "Chris" Conner sings the George Gershwin Almanac of Song" accompanied by a number of ensembles. Labeled Atlantic, the double-record album contains 16 songs written by Gershwin and sung in the moody blue voice of Chris Conner. The album is different in that a tribute is paid the author of the numbers. Gershwin's life and tunes are briefly outlined from his Tin Pan Alley beginning, through his success with the musical "Porgy and Bess" through his final works. Casting a spell from start to finish, the album features numbers including "Somebody Loves Me," "Fascinating Rhythm," "A Foggy Day," "S Wonderful," "Liza," "They Can't Take That Away From Me," and "Love Is Here To Stay."

Striking a chord of approval, fans of Montovani are sold quickly on his version of the theme for the Mike Todd movie, "Around the World." Bing Crosby also has an outstanding version on wax.

The Coniff sound supplies orchestra backing for Don Cherry's newest, "Fourteen Karat Gold." This one most nearly resembles Cherry's success of yesterday, "Bar of Gold."

From the movie, "Tammy and the Bachelor" starring Debby Reynolds came the song "Tammy." Just as it appeared on the sound track of the movie, the Ames Brothers have recorded it for RCA-Victor. The result is well worth listening to.

TOPS ON TV New Military Pay Plan Is Topic For 'Meet The Press'

A special discussion on the proposed new system of military pay is in prospect Sunday, on the TV "Meet The Press" program. This NBC feature is scheduled for telecast over Channel 2, Midland, at 4 p.m.

Guest for the press interviewers this afternoon will be Ralph Cordier, who has served as chairman of the Defense Advisory Committee on Professional and Technical Compensation.

The committee has made recommendations for changing base of pay in the military service, with the factor of skill rather than length of service to be considered. Military leaders favor the Cordier program as an answer to the problem of keeping skilled technicians in uniform.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

Personally, I'd just as soon forget about the '20's. The book has a certain morbid appeal to me—perhaps the same sort of appeal that impels one to look on a deformed person even though there is a sharp desire, really, that one turn away his eyes.

"The Lawless Decade" could hardly be improved upon as a title for a book about these strange 10 years. This week's listing of the top selling books of the nation, fiction and non-fiction, fails to show Don Whitehead's "The FBI Story."

No longer ago than June 28, it was still in the list and on June 14, it was the No. 1 book on the non-fiction group. One wonders what happened to suddenly shunt it from the favored group. Could it have been the current publicity relative to the adverse ruling the bureau was handed on the sanctity of its files?

Or has everyone finally read the volume? Jim Bishop's "The Day Christ Died" is now at the top of the non-fiction list. Philip Wylie's "Innocent Ambassadors" is in second place, followed by "The Hidden Persuaders" by Vance Packard, and "The Turn of the Tide" by Sir Arthur Bryant. At the bottom of the non-fiction group is that documentary of Pearl Harbor—Walter Lord's "Day of Infamy."

On the fiction side, the faces are more familiar. "Peyton Place" is still king of the lot with "Scapegoat" in second place, followed by "Compulsion," "The Blue Camellia" and "The Last Angry Man."

For the older folk, it will bring up sharp recollections of the zany, utterly insane antics which seemed somehow—at that time—to be commonplace and the thing to be expected.

Work Halted On AF Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force today halted work on the multimillion dollar guided missile Navaho which it once claimed would be as good an atomic warhead carrier as a ballistic weapon.

The Air Force said the Navaho program, started in 1946, was being eliminated because of present and anticipated budget curtailments of Air Force spending.

The Navaho is a rocket launched ram-jet powered missile designed to attain a speed of between two to three times greater than sound. It was developed as an earlier substitute for intercontinental ballistic missiles on which the Air Force is still working.

There was no immediate estimate of the amount of money the Air Force has put into the Navaho program in the past 11 years although the manufacturer, the North American Aviation Co., had announced receiving a number of multimillion dollar contracts for its development.

In March 1956, former Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles, who is now deputy secretary of defense, said that the Navaho had "range, accuracy and load carrying capabilities at least as good as the ballistic missile."

Train Of Tomorrow Behind Schedule

By WILLIAM FERRIS
NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—It begins to look as if the "Train of Tomorrow" will not get here until the next day. Or maybe not until many a long day after that.

The "Train of Tomorrow," in case you've forgotten, is that sleek, low-cost, modern, speedy job which will lure passengers back to the railroads and profits back to the railroad passenger service, maybe.

Lightweight trains are being tested by several railroads. They were introduced last year with much fanfare—a little too much fanfare in the opinion of one builder.

Some of the reaction has not been favorable. A cynical breed of passengers has dubbed the lightweights "the Tin Fish" or "the Elvis Presley" because of their rock 'n' roll motion.

Many of the rails insist, however, that the results, both from the standpoint of passenger reaction and operating efficiency, have been very satisfactory. But there's one significant fact: no railroad has ordered another lightweight this year.

And there's another fact: the lightweights as originally conceived—coach trains without warm by rails or tavern cars—have undergone a transformation. They aren't what they started out to be.

One of the most vocal exponents of the lightweights was Robert R. Young, chairman of the New York Central. The Central put two lightweights in service last year.

Love In The Afternoon

Gary Cooper gets Audrey Hepburn under the table in this scene from the comedy, "Love In the Afternoon," showing Sunday through Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre.

'Bernardine' Is Screen Debut For Singing Idol Pat Boone

Teen-agers, who have been pictured in many recent films as knife-wielding, hot-rod delinquents, will find themselves more favorably represented in the comedy, "Bernardine," showing Wednesday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre.

The film's cast is headed by singing idol Pat Boone, one of the top recording artists and radio and TV star. The film also marks the return, after a 19-year absence from the screen, of Janet Gaynor. Others in the cast are Terry Moore, Dean Jagger, Richard Sargent, and Ronnie Burns, son of the George Burns and Gracie Allen of TV fame. Boone, Sargent and Burns play members of a high school group in the throes of growing up.

The story was written to give Boone a chance to demonstrate his singing talents. The numbers he sings are "Bernardine," "Technique" and "Love Letters in the Sand," the latter recently having made the Hit Parade, a rather unusual achievement for Hollywood songs.

The story also made room for exciting scenes of motor boat racing, filmed on Lake Seguro in Arizona.

Producer Sam Engel ("A Man Called Peter" and "Boy on a Dolphin") and Director Henry Levin have, in "Bernardine," attempted to present today's youth as a generation of hope and promise, not the lost generation that some believe it to be. "Bernardine" should be refreshing family entertainment.

Debut And Return

Pat Boone, noted recording artist, makes his debut in "Bernardine." The lovely Janet Gaynor, after a 19-year absence from the screen, makes a return in a leading role in this film about the more normal kind of teen-agers.

"Bernardine" should be refreshing family entertainment.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

Elvis the Pelvis has made his screen debut, much to the screaming delight of many teen-agers. Now it's the turn of his arch-rival, Pat Boone, and the world is probably the better for it.

Boone, a direct-line descendant of frontiersman Dan'l Boone, has already chalked up fame and fortune as a recording artist, with several recordings going over the million mark in sales. Boone makes his screen debut this week in "Bernardine," a tale of teen-agers not in trouble. Repeat, not in trouble. Repeat, not in trouble. I personally don't care much for the plot of "Bernardine," but because it's a lousy story—just not my type. But I plan to see the film if only to see if Boone can act (the reviewers say he can) and to hear him sing.

Also, because I, like a great many other people, admire the man. With several million teen-agers ready at a moment's notice to do whatever Boone does, the young crooner has kept his nose clean, and to the grindstone. He hasn't given up his determination to get his degree (he wants to be a teacher) from Columbia University.

ty, in spite of fame, fortune and high water. "Abandon Ship" is the kind of drama that will not set well with certain types of moralists. It is a story of a group of shipwreck victims who have overcrowded a lifeboat, and with a storm brewing, Tyrone Power, as the sea captain, must sentence some to death to save the others. The film, as might be expected, has considerable emotional impact, and is bound to leave the viewer with misgivings as to what he would do under similar circumstances.

"Destination 60,000" is another in a good series on the people who push forward and upward this nation's advance toward space flight—the test pilots, engineers and others who must build and test the ever-faster planes of tomorrow.

"Northwest Passage" is an old movie that was good in its day. It will still be worth the viewing if it hasn't been edited down too much. The story is about the Lewis and Clark expedition during the early days of the American Republic to find a trade route to Asia through the northwestern territories.

Returning films worth seeing again: "Slander," a victim of a slander magazine has the courage to fight back.

"The Rainmaker" Burt Lancaster and Katharine Hepburn in a rousing tale of a faker who turns out to have a heart of gold.

"Strategic Air Command." The story of the elite corps of the U. S. Air Force, who stand ready with massive retaliation.

"Teahouse of the August Moon." Hilarious tale of a bombing (but lovable) Army officer who gets taken by the rascally (but likeable) occupied Okinawans.

The work is being written by Noble Sissie, Eubie Blake and Flourney Miller, will span a half-century and feature dance forms from the cakewalk to rock'n'roll.

Van Johnson 'Slander' Star

Van Johnson is starred in "Slander," returning Sunday through Wednesday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre. It is the story of a radio-TV personality who has the courage to fight back against a slander magazine, even though it means his ruin.

The plot has a scandal magazine publisher seeking out a sensational story on a top Hollywood actress, but is unable to discover anything sordid in her background. Discovering that Johnson knew the actress when they were children, the publisher prepares a ruinous article on Johnson, then threatens to publish the expose unless he comes through with some dirt on the actress.

Before the story ends, ruin and even death have come to several people.

Angel Corporation Formed For Public

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of private investors in stage productions has formed a corporation to give the public an opportunity to chance the Broadway sweepstakes. The Theatrical Interest Plan Inc., registering with the Securities and Exchange Commission, plans to issue common stock to combine with private funds for overall capitalization of $880,000. TIP, its backers say, hopes to diversify investments in a number of shows, rather than backing a limited few.

'Abandon Ship' Drama Of Sea

Tyrone Power must make an awesome decision as a sea captain in "Abandon Ship," shipwreck drama playing Sunday through Tuesday at the State Theatre. Lloyd Nolan is co-starred as the mate.

The story depicts a group of survivors of a shipwreck who have crowded into a small lifeboat, too small to carry them all safely. When a storm begins blowing in, Nolan reminds the captain that, unless excess weight is removed, the boat will founder and everyone will be drowned.

It then falls to Power to make the decision as to who shall remain and who shall be dumped overboard. He finds he must make his decision, not upon personal feelings, but upon which traits among the survivors will best insure survival of those who remain in the boat. Excess human baggage must be dumped without mercy, and Power's decisions enforced at the point of a gun.

Theatre Tours Back In Business

NEW YORK (AP)—A court decision has put back in business travel services which a range of theater-going tours for New York visitors.

The city licensing department, which controls sale of duets to all Broadway shows, previously said tour agencies could not be okayed. The state supreme court ruled, however, that permits could be issued if proper controls are set up.

Theater tours have been a booming business for several years.

Air Drama

Preston Foster and Pat Conway are depicted in a scene from "Destination 60,000," a drama of the men who push forward the frontiers of American air power, showing Wednesday through Thursday at the State Theatre.

Brief Interlude For Bit Player

NEW YORK (AP)—Monumental patience finally paid Broadway Actor Wynn Pearce — briefly. Understudy for the lead role of the hit comedy "No Time for Sergeants," Pearce found himself restricted for 86 solid weeks to playing a bit part only as Andy Griffith and Charles Hohman, his successor, never missed a performance.

Acute tonsillitis finally felled Hohman and Pearce took over the part on a Saturday night. The audience gave him an enthusiastic reception. But two performances later Hohman returned and Pearce went back to his curt chores.

'Rainmaker' Returns Here

Burt Lancaster and Katharine Hepburn are co-starred in "The Rainmaker," comedy-drama returning Thursday and Friday to the screen of the Sahara Drive-In Theatre.

Lancaster is seen as a traveling charlatan who sells fake gimmicks guaranteed to bring about such miracles as making rain or preventing tornadoes. He stops in a small Western town where he meets a family in which Miss Hepburn is the only female — a rather plain woman whose brothers attempt to get her married off. Lancaster shows his human side when he convinces the woman she is really beautiful, and thus changes her life.

'Brothers' Arrives

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Brothers Karamazov," classic Russian novel best known recently because of Marilyn Monroe's men to do a movie version, is to arrive on the off-Broadway stage this fall. The version, entitled "The Trial of Dimitri Karamazov" has been done by Norman Rose.

Gen. Vaughn Still Bitter Over Criticism On Freezer Scandal

By ROGER GREENE
WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Five years ago Harry Vaughn dazzled White House visitors with gold braid and a broad field of "fruit salad" campaign ribbons on his betty chest.

In those days he was known as a brash, uninhibited, fast-talking quipster—some called him "court jester" to Harry Truman—and the most controversial military aide in the history of American presidents.

"Deep-Freeze Harry," Washington columnists dubbed Vaughn, referring to his role as a major target in the Senate investigation of influence-peddling scandals during the Truman administration.

Today Maj. Gen. Harry Hawkins Vaughn (ret.) is a quiet, soft-spoken church elder who likes to spend his days in old clothes puttering around the garden of his half-acre home in Fairfax County, Va.

Even now the 63-year-old general makes little pretense at hiding his bitterness over the criticism that swirled around his head through most of his seven years in the White House.

"It was pretty rough," he said in an interview. "I guess Dean Acheson (former secretary of state) has been called an S.O.B. in more dialects than I have, but he's the only one I can think of. 'Still, as Harry Truman used to say, if you can't stand the heat you shouldn't be in the kitchen. And we had plenty of heat at the White House in my day."

"DRINKING" HABITS
Vaughn was particularly irked by what he called "lies" about his drinking habits. He said he didn't even like the stuff.

"It's a funny thing. If you played poker and drank bourbon with Truman you were a hoodlum. Today if you play bridge and drink scotch with President Eisenhower you're a gentleman."

Vaughn said he had often been depicted as a raconteur of off-color jokes, but he insisted the humor that tickled Truman was clean and spontaneous.

In 1945, soon after Vaughn entered the executive mansion with Truman, a friend since World War I days, he addressed a women's church auxiliary in Alexandria, Va. In his free-wheeling style Vaughn described Winston Churchill as "a garrulous old gentleman who never says less than 20 words where 10 will do."

In 1949, a Senate subcommittee called the general on the carpet in its probe of favors to "five per centers"—the nickname given to agents who wangled government contracts for a fee, usually 5 per cent.

Witnesses pointed the finger at Vaughn as being mixed up in a wide range of transactions.

His old friend John Maragon, later sentenced to 8 to 24 months in jail for perjury, disclosed that Vaughn had received seven home freezers from a Chicago perfume manufacturer who wanted favors from the government.

DENIED WRONGDOING
On the witness stand, Vaughn admitted getting the freezers—one of which went to Truman's home in Independence, Mo.—but denied any wrongdoing.

The freezer luror had scarcely ebbed before Sen. Kern (R-Mo) got his dander up over a letter Vaughn had written to Federal Judge George H. Moore in St. Louis. The letter concerned a jenuine plea for an automobile dealer convicted of evading $139,336 in federal income taxes.

A White House statement said Vaughn had merely passed on the plea. Kern demanded an investigation, but it never came off.

How does it feel to be out of the limelight? "I'm delighted," he said. "I'd like to have been out of the White House long before I left, but Harry Truman seemed to think I was doing a worthwhile job."

"For that reason, I'd go through it all again—if I had to."

Now living on his $9,000-a-year

Army pay as a retired major general, Vaughn resides in a comfortable but far from pretentious gray fieldstone house on a hill overlooking the Potomac River, about three miles south of Alexandria, Va.

Among cherished mementoes of Vaughn's White House years is a worn grain-leather covered pocket Bible. Inside is inscribed:

"To Harry H. Vaughn, friend, comrade, adviser, military aide; read it, act on it and you'll be, as you always have, fundamentally right. Harry S. Truman. May 15, '48."

Edwin Faubion In Marine Corps Film

Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Faubion, 205 Mobile Street, were pleasantly surprised when they took in the current movie, "D.I.," the story of a Marine Corps drill sergeant.

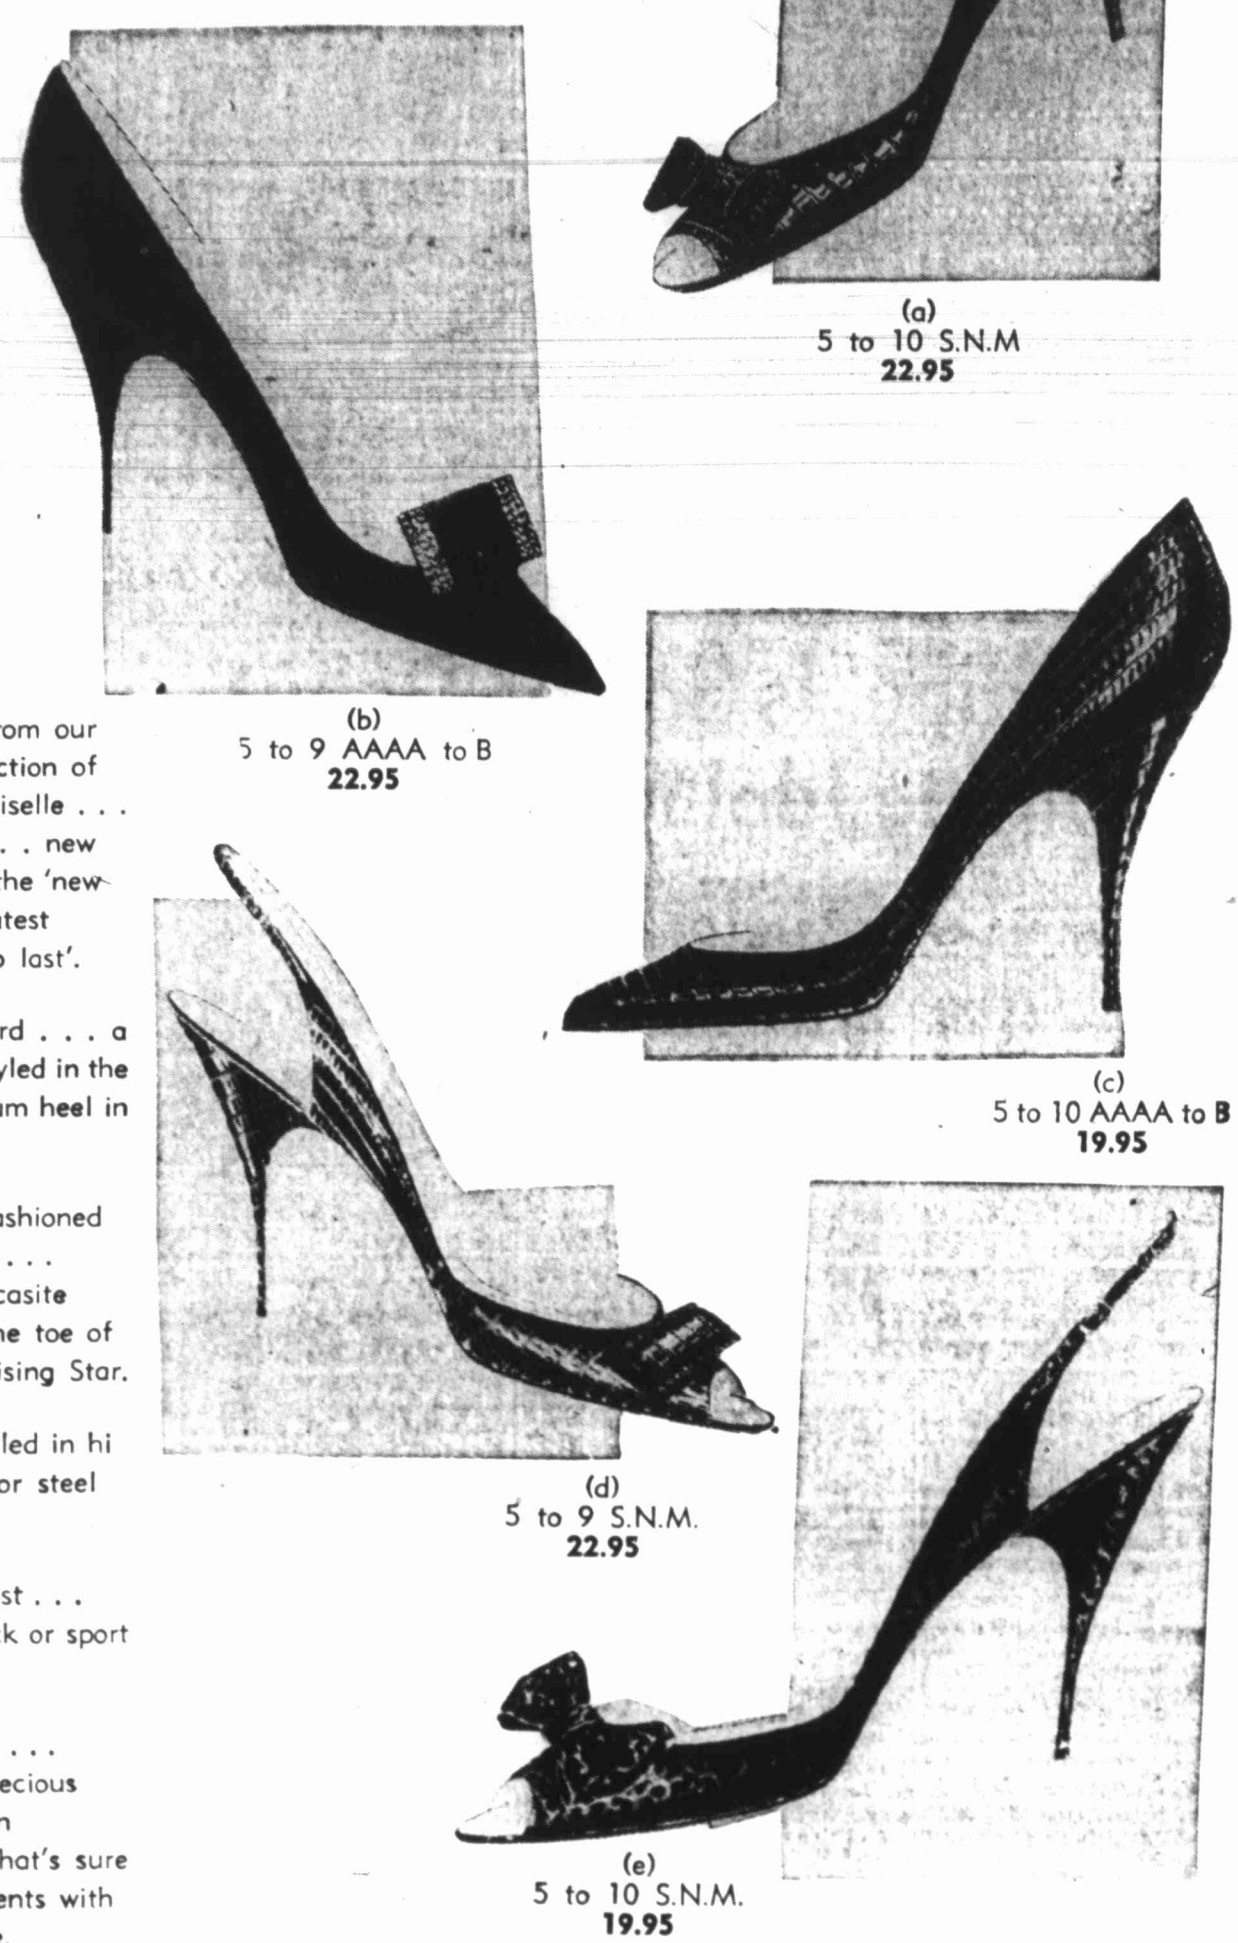

In several scenes they spotted their son, Pvt. Edwin Faubion, who is home until July 20 on leave. Pvt. Faubion was held over in boot camp an extra period in order to complete his role in the picture starring Jack Webb.

He appears in the scrub room scene, and another time in the scene where boots are washing their clothes. His close-up comes when he delivers the flag to the sub-star of the picture.

Pvt. Faubion went through the 11th grade here but took his high school diploma from Southwest Bible Academy at Waxahatchie. He entered Marine service last Nov. 8 and when he returns he will be assigned to the Philippines.

'Skin Diving' Class Offered At Webb

Something new has been added to the land of the "big spring." Though water is a scarce commodity, Webb AFB now has underwater classes!

First Lt. John S. Carroll, student officer at Webb, is teaching (free of charge) a course in skin diving with an aqua lung. The only charge is 25 cents to help defray the cost of the air.

The lessons are given on Saturday mornings at 9 and 10 a.m. They are open to airmen and officers. The classroom is the officers' swimming pool and the uniform is a swimsuit. There will be two sessions of 50 minutes each Saturday and each student gets two weekends of training.

The purpose of the course is to teach basic lung diving safely as well as survival technique in water.

Lt. Carroll got some of his experience in diving in Hawaii in 1949 where he did skin diving for Child's Marine in Honolulu. For this company, he did exhibition diving and light salvage work.

The equipment used belongs to Carroll and George Clark of Big Spring. The lieutenant states that "a beginner can start diving with only a mask and flipper fins for as little as $10 to $12, but a complete lung rig would cost approximately $120."

Several of Lt. Carroll's students are outfitting themselves completely for a two-week trip to the Gulf for some salt water diving.

Carroll and a group of his students went down to Big Bend Country and did some exploring in the Balmorhea Underwater Caverns two weeks ago and plan to return.

19 Area Teachers Enrolled At Tech

Nineteen area teachers are among 453 teachers and school administrators from six states who are enrolled in Texas Tech for the first term of the summer session.
