Sen. Russell Threatens Civil Rights Filibuster

Ike's Stand Brings Note Of Warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said today Southern senators will use "every weapon in our arsenal" to defeat the civil rights bill unless a jury trial amendment is adopted.

His unmistakable notice of a filibuster—although he didn't use the word—was sounded after President Eisenhower sent word to Republican senators he opposes this or any other major change in the bill's section on voting rights.

The administration measure already has been stripped by a 52-38 Senate vote of a section to empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions to enforce civil rights other than voting privileges.

The big issue now, as the Senate nears the end of a third week of debate on the House-passed bill, is whether to require jury trials in some contempt of court cases arising from the enforcement of voting rights under another section of the legislation.

Russell, leader of the Dixie forces fighting the bill, said after a conference in his office, that the Southern senators would support a jury trial amendment most limited in scope than they would like.

He said the Southern believe jury trials should be provided in all contempt cases arising under the legislation. But he added that, as "practical men," they realize that an amendment limiting jury trials to cases involving criminal penalties has "wider support."

THEY'RE LUKEWARM
For that reason, Russell said, the Southern would support an amendment offered by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) even though "it doesn't go nearly as far" as they would like.

But Russell said that if the Senate should refuse to write in a jury trial amendment, "we would resort to every means at our command to every weapon in our arsenal to try to defeat the bill."

He told reporters after the closed meeting attended by 16 Southern senators that he thought their stand in that respect was "pretty generally understood."

After a separate conference of all Republican senators, Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said Eisenhower sent word he wants the bill's right-to-vote section approved without major change.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate GOP leader, brought this word to the conference after a White House breakfast with Eisenhower.

Saltonstall, chairman of the Republican conference, said he expected the Senate to reach a vote on the jury trial issue by Tuesday. Russell said he thought a vote was likely by Tuesday or Wednesday.

GOP TO OPPOSE
Saltonstall said he expects most Republicans to oppose a jury trial amendment although he added that "no effort was made to bind anyone. No effort was made to tell anyone how to vote."

Sen. Aiken (R-Va.) who helped sponsor the Senate measure to limit the bill largely to voting rights, said he thinks the decision on a jury trial amendment will be close.

"If it is very close," Aiken said, "it will be decided by a margin of not more than five votes, and maybe only two votes."

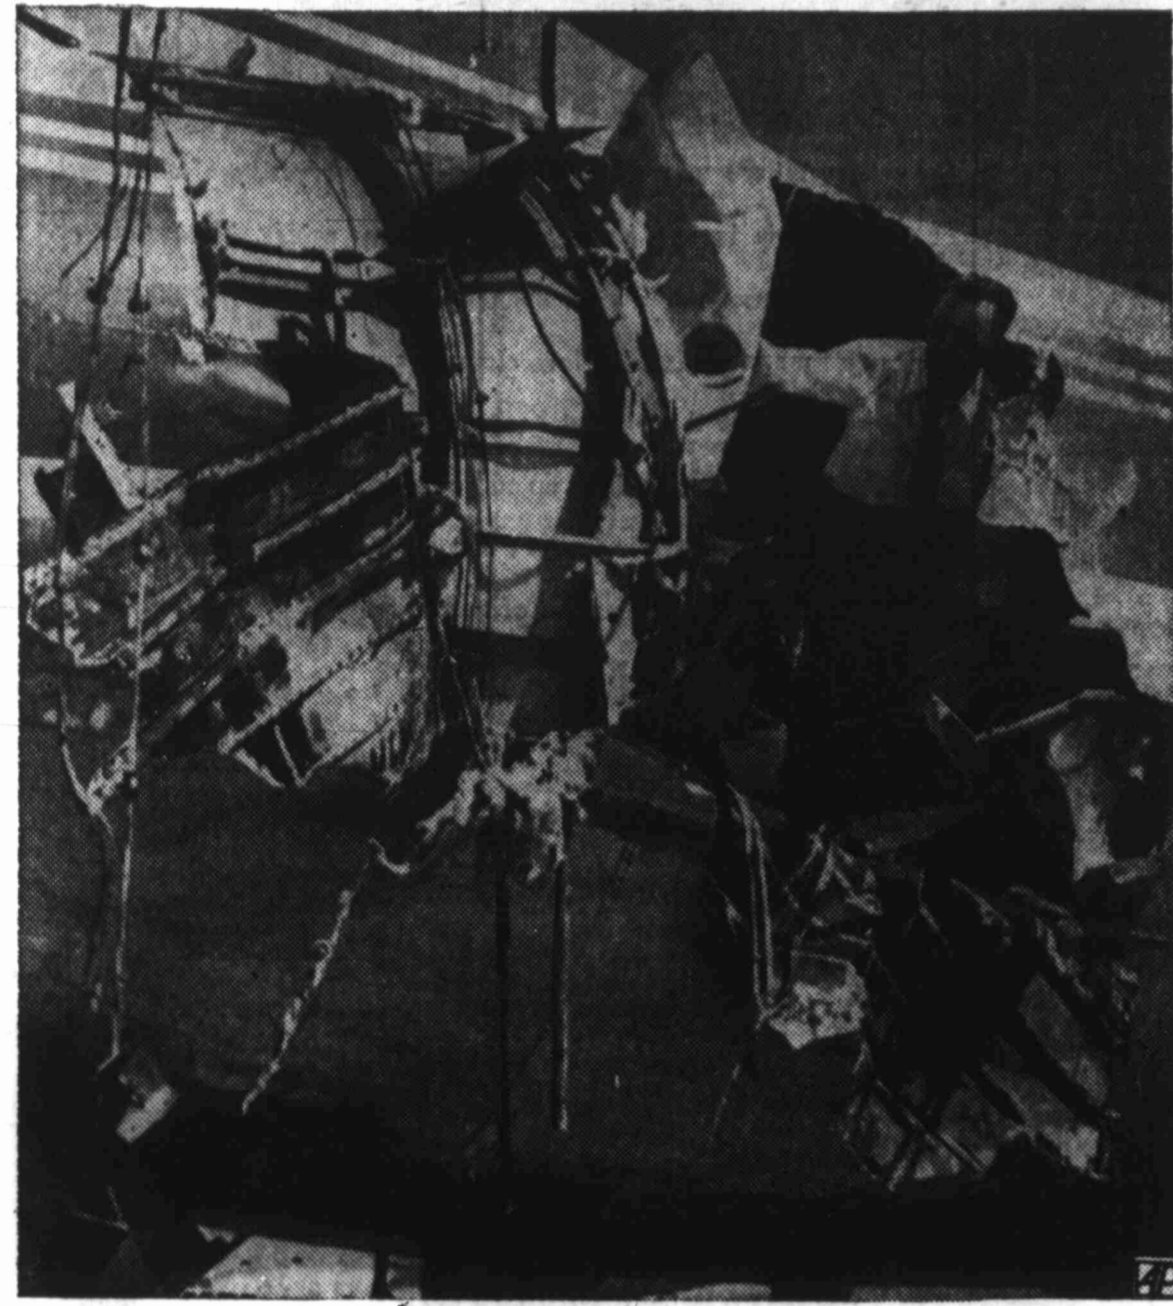

Eisenhower recently said he opposed providing for jury trials in contempt of court cases arising from injunctions obtained by the government to enforce voting rights.

Russell said that O'Mahoney's amendment "is not entirely satisfactory to me" because he feels a jury trial should be granted in all contempt cases, civil as well as criminal, arising under the legislation.

A broad amendment of this nature was approved by a 7-3 vote of the Senate Judiciary Committee, but the bill never emerged from the committee and the Senate took up the House-passed bill instead.

Russell said that some revisions might be made in O'Mahoney's amendment "to make it clearer." He said the legal points involved are highly complicated, and that during Senate debate many lawyer members have disagreed over what constitutes criminal contempt.

The amendment would provide that in any court proceeding to impose "criminal penalties for contempt" of any injunction issued under the act, the defendant shall be entitled to a jury trial. But in any civil contempt proceedings designed to obtain compliance with an injunction, no jury trial would be provided. A person adjudged in civil contempt could purge himself and be freed from jail upon agreeing to comply with the court order.

Mystery Plane Explosion

Western Airlines Chief Inspector Frank Vosepka examines a yawning hole in the side of a plane that landed at George Air Force Base, Calif., safely after a mysterious explosion in flight. Investigators are searching surrounding desert for the body of a man presumably blown out of the hole.

Desert Searched For Clues In Airliner Blast

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Investigators searched the forbidding Mojave Desert today for clues to an aerial mystery.

What ripped the jagged hole through which a heavily insured passenger vanished from an airliner?

The airline and government officials said they hoped that if they found the passenger's body and pieced together the jigsaw of plane fragments they might solve the puzzle.

Missing was E. F. Binstock, 62, a retired North Hollywood, Calif., jeweler, last seen when he entered the plane's washroom early yesterday.

He had boarded the Los Angeles bound plane earlier at Las Vegas, Nev. Binstock was insured for $125,000.

Other passengers on Western Airlines twin-engine Conqair were frightened by a loud noise about 45 minutes later, as the plane cruised at 10,000 feet over the California desert.

One man said it sounded like an explosion—"A hell of a noise." The aircraft safely made an emergency landing at George Air Force Base, near here. The FBI and other agencies quickly stepped in.

What really happened? Officials frankly don't know. Not yet. Some, who declined to be quoted, offered this speculation:

1. It was an explosive decompression of the plane's pressurized cabin, possibly caused by bullets fired through the fuselage.

2. Structural failure might have opened up the lavatory wall, spewing Binstock into the night.

3. It was a blast from a detonated device.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators today began putting together the plane fragments found in the rugged Ord mountains about 50 miles northwest of here. It was in this same general area Air Force helicopters searched for Binstock's body.

"When we recover the body and piece together the wreckage we should have a good idea what caused the explosion," a government man said.

On Wednesday, before he flew from southern California to Las Vegas, Binstock purchased two $62,500 insurance policies, naming his wife beneficiary. He entered the lavatory shortly after the Conqair took off for the return trip from Las Vegas and was never seen again.

Crash Report Was Only Test
EGLIN AFB, Fla. (AP)—A huge C130 Hercules troop carrier made a low level test flight across country yesterday, using only two of its four turbojet engines, the Air Force said today.

Lowness of the flight and the fact two of its propellers were feathered gave rise to numerous reports over a wide area that a big plane was in trouble or had crashed at El Paso.

An Air Force spokesman said the plane flew from Eglin to Tucson, Ariz., on two engines. It refueled at Tucson last night and continued on to Norton AFB, Calif., on four engines.

Eglin said the crew was "unaware of the excitement they were causing."

Blazing Gunfire Cuts Down Mayor
DETROIT (AP)—Blazing gunfire cut down the mayor of suburban Garden City in his city hall last night. Critically wounded, he was given only a 50-50 chance to live today.

Police held a wealthy Garden City contractor who had been feuding with the mayor since they opposed each other in a 1948 election.

Shot six times while some 50 city officials and spectators stood by too horrified to act was Mayor James Tierney, 52, City Atty. Russell L. Swarthout gashed his hand on sights of the assailant's pistol while fighting off the gunman.

4 Persons Killed In Highway Crash

ROBSTOWN, Tex. (AP)—A car smashed into a Nueces County road maintainer yesterday, killing four persons instantly.

Killed were Earl Marshal, 59; his wife, Maud, about 50, both of Bloomington, Tex.; Fay Russell, 50, of Victoria, and Kenneth Marshall Jr., 18 months.

John Schumacher, 53, of Bishop, the driver of the maintainer, was not hurt.

Building Collapses On Wedding, 63 Die

CAIRO (AP)—A five-story building collapsed last night on 200 persons celebrating a wedding, killing 63 and injuring 32.

Fatma, the veiled bride in a white wedding dress, was among those killed. Her bridegroom Mansour Abdel Hamid was seriously injured.

Some Brushoff

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A woman telephoned the sheriff's office this week asking about visiting hours for prisoners in the county jail. Deputy Marion Goree told her when they were.

"Does that apply to Las Vegas also?" asked the caller.

"We couldn't tell you about that," the deputy replied.

"Hub. Some brushoff," said the woman as she slammed down the receiver.

OLD-TIMERS AT REUNION
Bon Eubank (since 1903), J. B. Ryan (1887) and A. Knappe (1886)

Pioneers Gather To Visit, Partake Of Barbecue Feast

Pioneer residents of Glasscock and Howard Counties, augmented by scores of other residents probably not properly qualified to be called pioneers, gathered in Big Spring City Park today for the 52d annual reunion of the Howard-Glasscock County Old Timers Association.

How many were on hand at noon was a debatable question. All available seats in the two covered pavilions were occupied—and most of these were folk who clearly were fully entitled to the designation old-timers. Under the trees which offered shade, dozens of others were seated.

Registration opened at 10 a.m. and no estimate on the number registered was available as time for the barbecue dinner at noon neared.

Joe Hayden, who has had many years experience with these annual reunions, said that he did not believe the crowd at that hour was as large as last year. However, roads to the park were teeming with traffic and the throng around the registration book was increasing in density rather than diminishing.

Under a broiling sun and nearly cloudless skies, a team of workers were busy slicing up 1,700 pounds of beef and goat barbecue which had been cooking all night over a fire of mesquite roots.

To one side, six huge wash kettles of ranch beans were simmering. Two even larger kettles of the traditional "son-of-a-gun" stew were declared by Melvin Choate, "ched" to be ready for eating. Coffee, black as ink, bubbled in other kettles.

Jack Wilcox and his crew were lining up mountains of bread, stacks of onions and pickles on the concrete serving table.

The oldest man to show up was forced to return to his home before the meal was served.

He was N. B. Davison, 94, who came to Big Spring in 1908. He had to leave the reunion because the heat and crowd made him nervous, it was said.

Probably the true pioneer in years residence was J. B. Ryan, Luther, Ariz., who worked for the Burton-Lingo Lumber Company and later for the railroad. He has been a regular participant in the annual celebrations for many years.

Sam Childress, Glasscock County pioneer, who came to that country in 1905, was also on hand but not taking the active part he formerly played.

Two strokes suffered in the last year have slowed him down and he had to content himself with a seat on a quilt in a shade. However, he was making up for his inactivity—he was cook for many years at these annual events—by chatting with his neighbors of the early days.

Only a few old fiddlers had reported for the contest which is on tap this afternoon but it was hoped additional musicians would be on hand by the time the program gets under way. There will be square dancing under the pavilions this afternoon.

Closing event will be a big dance at 8 p.m. at the Stampede on the Snyder highway.

Prober Urges Unionists Resign

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate Rackets prober called today for the resignations of the two top officials of the United Textile Workers on the heels of testimony that they had "misused" $128,405 of union funds.

"I think you ought to turn the organization over to someone else," Sen. Curtis (R-Neb.) told the red faced UTW Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd Klenert, in a reference also embracing the union's president, Anthony Valente.

Auditors for the Senate committee had testified union money was "misused" for such lavish living as trips to Bermuda, big theater parties and costly personal purchases—one of them a $25.20 corkscrew.

Officers Cut Down Desperate Gunman

NEW YORK (AP)—George Larned, a gunman sought for days in one of Long Island's greatest manhunts, was shot down and critically wounded by two officers in a running gun fight today after he staged a $93 cage holdup in Manhattan.

The desperate fugitive, who had been shot in the back in an exchange of fire with Long Island police 16 days ago, was felled by bullets that apparently paralyzed him from the waist down and fractured ribs.

The governor's decision is not expected until next week.

Wheeler Gets Regulation Haircut—But No 'Sidewall'

FUCHU, Japan (AP)—A. C. Donald Wheeler got a haircut today—a regulation trim at Fuchu Air Force Base barber shop.

Wheeler's court-martial conviction for refusing to obey an order to get a "white sidewall" haircut was tossed out yesterday and the 20-year-old Cortez, Colo., airman was freed from the Haneda Air Force Base stockade in Tokyo.

He had been held there three days after the court-martial sentenced him to four months at hard labor, loss of $200 in pay and demotion to private.

The court-martial penalties were all set aside by Col. Charles W. Johnstone of Reno, Nev., base commander, who said he found "legal errors" in the trial. He also said he found a "considerable change of attitude" on the part of Wheeler.

Wheeler told reporters after his release, however, that if he were given the same "white sidewall" order again he probably would "challenge" it as he did before.

That kind of haircut clips the head bare to the crown.

The airman said his hair had "gotten kind of long. . . I haven't had a haircut for five days." He took care of that today with his visit to the base barber.

Wheeler will serve the remainder of his overseas duty with the air police squadron in Fuchu. He is scheduled to leave Japan Aug. 19 for Williams Air Force Base, near Chandler, Ariz. He said he does not plan to re-enlist when his tour of duty expires in September 1958.

Wheeler had been ordered to get a "white sidewall" to match the rest of the honor guard at the Tokyo headquarters of the Far East Command. An Air Force spokesman pointed out that the special clip is a thing of the past since the command—and its honor guard—have been abolished.

Winter Wheat Still Question

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The 1957 winter wheat crop, delayed by excessive and unseasonal rains during harvest time, still is a question mark.

Chances are, authorities agree, it will come up to standard despite the heavy moisture.

But the harvest, still going on at a time when the crop usually is cleaned up, is so spotty that experts are reluctant to estimate its final quantity and quality.

Of the four major producing states it appears Kansas will suffer the biggest production dent, followed by Oklahoma, Texas and Nebraska report good prospects.

5 Men Convicted In 'Greatest Swindle On Turnpike Project

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Five men were convicted last night of conspiracy to defraud the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission of 19½ million dollars by allegedly drilling countless "unnecessary" holes to fill in abandoned mines along the superhighway's right-of-way.

Four other men were acquitted in the case that Gov. George M. Leader has said involved "one of the greatest public swindles of all time."

One of the convicted men was former Turnpike Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale, Pa., and another was his nephew Charles W. Stickers Jr., president of a Reading, Pa., engineering firm formed in 1952 with $1,800 capital and worth a stock value four years later of more than a million dollars.

After a 42-day trial—longest in Dauphin County history, the verdicts were read nervously by jury foreman Harvey Pennell, a 73-year-old retired Williamsport coal miner. The panel of seven men and five women deliberated 3 hours 43 minutes.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Evans and suspended Turnpike Commissioner James F. Torrance of Export, like Evans a Republican, were convicted of conspiracy and of misconduct in office. Found guilty of conspiracy and false pretense were Stickers and Clayton A. Landside, former general manager and vice president of Stickler's engineering firm, Manu-Mine Research and Development Co. Paul J. McNeill, former chief financial officer of the commission, was convicted of conspiracy. In the turnpike case developed from an investigation after the Democratic administration of Gov. Leader came into office. The commission formerly had been under Republican control. Involved in the trial debate were technical engineering opinions on what was the right way and what the wrong way to fill in old mine voids and prevent future cave-ins section of the turnpike.

The state contended a contract awarded Manu-Mine in February 1955 was used by the nine defendants to fleece the commission and gain a 100 per cent profit for the firm through "made work."

Manu-Mine was hired to fill sub-surface mine voids beneath a six-mile section of the right-of-way of the turnpike extension in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties. The contract was suspended in February 1956 and the work taken over by the State Mines Department.

SEEK NEW TRIAL

Defense attorneys immediately announced they would seek a new trial and Judge Homer L. Kresider gave them 10 days to file formal motions. He ordered each of the five to post $1,000 bail within 10 days and delayed sentencing.

Acquitted were E. J. Donnelly, a partner in J. E. Greiner Co. of Baltimore that advised the commission; G. Joseph Hudert, a Greiner engineer; John D. Paul, former assistant chief construction engineer for the commission; and Theodore S. Paul, former chief legal officer for the commission. The Pauls are not related.

All nine defendants declared "No comment" to newsmen's questions about their reaction. H. G. Stutzman, attorney for Evans, said: "I think eventually we will be vindicated. I am very confident we will be vindicated."

Manu-Mine drilled more than 60,000 feet of holes to reach the mine voids with fill beneath the extension. It asked $4 million dollars for the work and had received $6,700,000 when the contract was canceled.

The prosecution, handled by Dist. Atty. Huetta F. Dowling, a Republican, and Special Dep. Atty. Gen. Vincent G. Panati, a Democrat, maintained the firm had intended to continue the work until it had received 19½ million. The contract was open-end, with Manu-Mine charging the commission $12.50 a foot for the holes that were drilled.

The cheating by false pretense convictions carry maximum penalties of $5,000 fines and five-year prison terms. The conspiracy convictions carry penalties of $500 fines and two-year terms. There is no specified penalty in the law for misconduct in office. The sentence will be determined by Kresider.

Sailor Serves From Atolls To Antarctica

By NITA HEDLESTON
Seaman Sonny Wimberly could dust off the old Navy slogan of "Join the Navy and see the world." Since enlisting in September of 1954, he has participated in two operations almost across the world from each other — from the icy wastes of Little America in Antarctica to the A-bomb tests in the Pacific last year.

Wimberly, home on a 20-day leave, is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wimberly of Big Spring. He will leave Sunday for San Diego where he says he will probably be assigned to a new ship. His old ship, the USS Curtiss, which he has been with since Dec. 2, 1954 is being "put in mothballs."

The trip to Little America lasted three months and was part of "Operation Deepfreeze II." He left on the operation in December of this year on the Curtiss and after 20 days reached Port Littleton, New Zealand. The Curtiss proceeded on to McMurdo Sound for a two-week stay and finally reached Little America where about two weeks was spent unloading supplies.

Traveling with the ship were a number of scientists who stayed at Little America. Only about 150 men were on the island and there was nothing there except ice and tents, Wimberly said. Supplies were unloaded here and a new group of men sent to relieve those at the island. The old group returned with the Curtiss to the U. S. A. Icebreakers travelled in front of the Curtiss cutting a path for the ship to follow. One of the dangers to ships in this area is getting stuck in the ice. He recalled that another ship had been stuck in the ice and had its sides torn off. The ship also had difficulty in tying up to the ice. In two attempts, each time the ice broke off so the Curtiss finally gave up and just steamed around the island.

He said that at Little America, the ice rises about 70 feet above the water and frequently breaks loose and floats around in the water, causing more danger to ships. The average temperature at Little America was around zero to five degrees above most of the time, and special clothing is required. The sun never went down while he was there, and at midnight the sun was as bright as if it was the middle of the afternoon. The water is extremely cold, he said. Once when they were approaching Little America, one of the helicopters accompanying the ship struck the ship and landed in the sea. It took about seven minutes he said to get the pilots out of the water. Any longer than that and they would have probably frozen to death.

On the trip back to "Big" America, the Curtiss stopped at an island to pick up some Seabees. The population of this island was "29 men and 3,000 penguins" Sonny was told. He saw lots of penguins and seal while he was in the Antarctic.

The A-Bomb tests which the seaman participated in were held in the summer of 1956. He could not talk much about the tests because of security regulations.

His ship had been located anywhere from five to 25 miles from the blast and he was able to feel the heat. "It was pretty hot," he added.

There were a number of photographers and reporters on his ship he said and everyone wore a special type of goggles to protect their eyes from the glare. He said that with the goggles on, he couldn't even see the sun when directly looking into it but the blast could be seen clearly.

He was stationed at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii for five months at one time and at another time sailed to Acapulco for a goodwill trip. He said that if he had his choice of where he could be stationed, he would pick Sydney, Australia because the people are so friendly there.

Seaman Wimberly has 13 more months to go before he is released from the Navy. Right now he plans to "let someone else take my place."

It seems that people are always doing something nice for the 4-H Club and FFA members. At Ackery six of A. H. Smith's agriculture students were recently treated to an extended trip with a big part of the expenses paid.

The Co-Op Gin at Lamesa chartered a bus and sent a load of students to Post, Lubbock and Amarillo, where they viewed various agricultural plants, Lewter's Feed Pens, the Palo Duro Canyon and other sights.

From Amarillo they drove to Clayton and Eaton, N. M. Then they went into the Cimarron country, stopped at Eagle's Nest and then drove on to Santa Fe.

Altogether there were 26 boys and three adults. The boys who went from Ackery were Bryan Adams, Bobby Campbell, Jerry Batson, Royale Lewis, Donald Gibson and Joe Dean Hall.

Each boy eligible for the trip had to have an outstanding record, according to Smith. This had to be as a leader or in some kind of club project. A movie was made of the trip's highlights and will be shown by one of the Ackery girls.

Almost any shower will make the moisture meet now. North of Big Spring a few miles Dock Wallace was plowing maize that was growing in damp ground, as the result of a light shower.

Wallace says it won't take much more rain to make a crop. One more would do it with the feed, though cotton will need extra water sometime in August.

Wallace is one of Howard County's senior farmers. He has been here over 50 years and has a good memory of crops and weather conditions during that time. He says this was the wettest spring he can remember. Or at least more rain fell.

Back in 1907, however, there was more dampness. The rains will be solved in a few more seasons.

Dan Brasher, new manager of the gin at Brown, says the community has prospects for a good cotton crop. Most of it is late, but there was quite a lot of moisture before the recent showers.

Much of the area, particularly west of Brown, is in deep sand. Once it gets wet, very little extra moisture is needed for a crop.

Irrigation wells are getting almost as small as eye droppers. I've seen plenty of wells pumping only 30 or 40 gallons per minute. Then this week I watched Durwood Zant's put out 10 gallons a minute.

This is the second one Zant has on his farm south of the Gay Hill School. He has a one-hand-a-half horsepower motor, pulls the water about 145 feet and pushes it through a one-inch plastic pipe to the field.

"The whole set-up cost me $700," Zant said. "It wouldn't pay off on cotton, but I think it will with blue panic and sorghum alum."

Last year with his first well of similar size he watered two acres of grass which was enough to graze 15 cattle all summer. The electric bill for each well will run less than $10.00 per month.

Dub Coates is sold on hybrid grain sorghums. He says they will become as important down here as hybrid corn is up in the tall corn country. Coates planted hybrid seed the first week in May and it is already making grain. This figures about 75 days from planting time.

The feed was suffering from lack of moisture, but he got an inch and a half of rain last Wednesday. It may have come in time to make the grain heavier.

Coates will soon become the number one poultry farmer of the county, or at least in the number of hens. When he finishes filling the cages, he will have about 2,000 laying birds.

He says this will probably be a stopping point. If he adds any more, he will have to hire extra labor. And hiring people to tend chickens doesn't seem to pay.

They don't like the hens, or the hens don't like them, or something always happens to cut down on the profit.

Coates sells most of his eggs to local stores. He gets a higher price this way, but says it's a lot more work. In fact, everything about a chicken farm is work. A person who expects to shove some hens in cages and then sit back and collect profits should never get in the hen business, Coates says. Maybe the guy should get a couple of canaries.

Corner Shrubs Contribute To Mishap, Says Driver

Dear Editor:
Yesterday, I was involved in an automobile collision with another car and was issued a traffic law violation ticket for not yielding the right-of-way. However, I vigorously deny that I was driving recklessly or carelessly, but was a victim of circumstances: the circumstances being the shrubbery which is planted along Washington Drive and which obstructs a driver's view.

The story of my accident goes something like this: As I was approaching Dixie Avenue on Washington Drive, where I intended to make a left hand turn onto Dixie Avenue, I slowed down to where I had to shift into second gear, looked down Washington Drive, saw no car coming, looked up Dixie Avenue, saw no car coming, and then proceeded to make the turn when seemingly out of nowhere another car and mine collided, my left front bumper and headlight striking the left side of the other car which was proceeding in the opposite direction on Washington Drive.

I blame the accident on the fact that so much shrubbery along the drive obstructed my view so that I could not see the oncoming car when I looked down Washington — and I don't believe the driver of the other car saw me either, for he apparently made no effort whatsoever to avoid hitting me, which anyone would instinctively do, even though he knew he had the right-of-way.

This has broken a lifetime record for me, 30 years of driving without a traffic ticket or accident. No one was injured in the accident, but I felt pretty terrible about it, and if it should happen to someone else, there might be some injuries. I was alone in my car, as was the driver of the other car.

My object in writing this letter is to urge someone to do something about this driving hazard. I think that smaller, shorter shrubs would be just as attractive along the drive and would not obstruct the view of the motorist.

Likes Complete News On Page

Dear Sir:
I take the Big Spring Herald and I like it very much. I take two other daily papers and I want to compliment you for the best arrangement I have seen of the news. You complete practically each news item on the page it is started on. I quit taking another page news item is continued on page something or other. It takes nearly twice the time to read, besides the bother and fumbling through the paper. Congratulations.

Larson Family To Leave For Camp

Mr. and Mrs. Vincel Larson and family plan to leave Sunday morning for Ceta Canyon near Happy, where Larson will teach during the annual encampment of Districts 1 and 2 Christian Churches. The encampment, expected to attract about 200 persons, starts July 28 and extends through July 31.

Larson's subject will be "What We Believe." Dr. Jack Leggett, a member of the faculty at TCU, will also teach at the encampment and has chosen as his subject "The Layman Reads His Bible."

Rev. Ed Wilbur of Paducah will be camp director.

The Larsons will probably return here Wednesday evening.

That guilty verdict rendered by a jury at Clinton, Tenn., finding seven of a original list of 15 defendants guilty of criminal contempt of a U.S. District Court, produced what an AP dispatch from the scene described as "Tears ... accord ... bravado ... surprise ... conversation ... glum silence." depending on who was doing the emoting.

Clinton Case And Civil Rights Law

WASHINGTON. — On the surface it looks as if a Southern jury of white persons did convict seven white persons for failing to obey a federal court injunction against interference with integration in a public school at Clinton, Tenn. This is being hailed in Congress as a vindication of the right of trial by jury.

Among the convicted defendants was an outlander, a New Jerseyite — John Kasper, a rabble-rousing white supremacist, already under a year's federal court sentence for violating a federal court order against interfering with integration at the Clinton school.

The so-called 30-day forecast isn't the sort to make one stand up and cheer, for our particular area is listed in the "much above normal" temperature range. That generally means that precipitation will be light.

Daniel Clears For Retreat On Special Session

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Daniel still wants a special session of the Legislature this fall, but has left the door open for a possible back-down.

He told newsmen yesterday he still considers passage of more stringent lobby-control laws a necessity for Texas, saying he thought such legislation would be possible only at a special session.

He also said he wants to see the Legislature work out a plan to complete the water conservation program only half-finished by the regular session.

But, said the governor, he also recognizes the fact that Speaker of the House Waggoner Carr and a majority of the membership can if they insist, block a special session.

"As strong as I am for one, I am realistic enough to know that if they don't want it they can prevent it," Daniel told a news conference yesterday. "I am not going to waste money to do it if they don't want it. It would be a great disappointment to me if the speaker and House members made that indication."

Daniel would like to have a special session in October to complete business unfinished by the first regular session of his first term as governor.

He still wants legislation establishing a statewide crime commission, but he has revised his concept of it. Originally he sought passage of a measure for watchdog commission over conduct of officials on all levels of government, made up of grand jury foreman from each judicial district. The regular session gave the idea a cold reception.

Yesterday Daniel offered a new plan calling for a law study group to improve law enforcement in all areas, for submission to the special session if it is called.

Before formally calling a session, Daniel said, he would consult members of the Legislature. He said he would not consider a poll of House members now being made by Carr.

Storm Leaves 253 Casualties In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—A violent storm dumped 29 inches of rain on low-lying, thickly populated areas of Japan's southernmost major island left at least 253 persons dead today and more than 800 missing or unaccounted for.

There were 106 known injured. Tokyo newspaper correspondents radioed from the flood area on Kyushu island that at least 1,000 persons died in the city of Isahaya, 15 miles northeast of Nagasaki, and that scores may have perished in Omura, a port a few miles away.

A reporter who flew over the area said Isahaya, a mountain-ringed city of 57,000, looked "like a new sea" with only a few high points and roofs visible above the water.

"It seemed like someone had dumped the contents of a lake on us from a giant barrel," said one Isahaya survivor who was dragged to safety from the debris-choked river that flooded and poured over the city.

Railroads were washed out or blocked by landslides. Highways were closed. Thousands of homes were washed away or flooded.

The 29-inch rainfall was one of the worst rainstorms in Japan's recorded weather. The rain and accompanying violent lightning disrupted communications, leaving many areas isolated except for intermittent radio contact.

The storm began Thursday morning, let up for a few hours late in the day, and then—in the words of one survivor at Isahaya: "Suddenly an angry bolt of lightning cut the sky. Pounding thunder followed. Then the rains came. Not just by buckets full. It seemed like someone had dumped the contents of a lake on us from a giant barrel."

As the rain increased, floodwaters began pouring through Isahaya. Yasujiro Tachikawa said he watched "the dim outlines of broken houses and buses drifting by like a procession of ghosts."

Chikara Imasato, 25, the first evacuee brought to Nagasaki, said "I lived through hell. The flood reached the ceilings of my house in a few moments. Cascading rain mingled with deafening thunder and the screams of the dying. I don't know how I managed to swim in the swirling waters."

A fisherman picked up Yoko Komori, 20, clinging to a piece of lumber at sea 15 miles from shore. "I don't remember anything except that the water snatched me away all of a sudden," she told rescuers.

The Japanese navy and coast guard sent 19 fast patrol boats and landing vessels to the area to speed rescue work.

The U.S. Navy sent a helicopter to Kyushu and the U.S. Air Force ordered two more to the flood area.

Dio Found Guilty In Shakedown Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor racketeer Johnny Dio was found guilty last night in a $300,000 union shakedown conspiracy. He faces up to two years in prison.

An all-male "blue ribbon" jury found Dio and two union leaders guilty after 23 hours of deliberation, spread over two nights and two days.

Convicted with Dio were Samuel Goldstein, 41, president of Local 239 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and Max Chester, 41, former financial secretary of Local 405 of the Retail Clerks International Assn.

The defendants remained poker-faced as the verdict was announced and the jury polled.

Conviction of Dio, a 43-year-old ex-convict came as the U.S. Senate Rackets Committee was preparing to open hearings Tuesday in its probe of his activities in labor affairs.

Also hanging over Dio's head is a federal charge that he was the mastermind in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

Dio, Goldstein and Chester were charged with a deal to get the $30,000 from two jointly owned electroplating firms as the price of "labor peace." Two partners in the firms testified for the prosecution that $10,000 was actually paid out.

Dio, Goldstein and Chester were accused under a statute covering bribery of a labor representative.

The jury's verdict makes Chester liable to four years in prison and Goldstein to three years.

General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen set sentencing for Sept. 5 and ordered the three men to jail until then.

Two of the jurors told newsmen after the conviction that there had been no division over conviction or acquittal during the marathon deliberations. They said the stumbling block was confusion over the status of Chester when he solicited the $30,000.

The prosecution called Dio the "mastermind or brain" of the conspiracy.

In recent years, Dio has been operating what he calls a "labor consultant service."

Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, whose staff prosecuted the case, said the jury "has done the rank and file of labor a great service."

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Fifty cases of Asiatic flu have been reported at Corpus Christi Naval Air Station, base officials said yesterday.

They said the cases, all in the last three weeks, have recovered within from 36 hours to three days.

Dr. W. R. Metzger, director of the City-County Health Unit, said there were no known cases among the civilian population here, but said he "would be amazed if we already haven't had some of this virus in the city."

He said some cases might be unknown because the flu cannot be diagnosed without special laboratory analysis. He wrote local physicians advising them to be on the lookout.

Dr. Metzger said so far the virus has only a relatively mild effect on most of those catching it.

However, he said, "how it will affect the local population is unknown," especially in the case of infants and older persons.

The virus here was isolated by Lt. Col. Kenneth Burns, Fourth U.S. Army Medical Laboratory virologist, Ft. Sam Houston.

Burns was sent to Corpus Christi after the base asked for help.

Asiatic flu has been reported at several U.S. points following an epidemic which ravaged central and western Asia in May.

Asiatic Flu Hits Navy Base

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP)—The British threatened today to step up their air strikes against rebel-tribesmen in Muscat and Oman unless the rebels stop their fight against the British-allied Sultan.

"If the rebels don't give up," a responsible British source said, "the air attacks will be increased considerably."

The first strike against the disident tribesmen was carried out Wednesday and followed up yesterday.

The RAF said its Venom fighter-bombers hit an apparently empty fort used by the rebels at Irti with cannon fire and rockets. Yesterday's raids struck rebel headquarters, barracks and other buildings in the Nizwa area.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told Parliament in London that only military targets had been attacked by the RAF and only after advance warning was given.

"So far as we know," Lloyd added, "no casualties have taken place."

But in Cairo a spokesman for the Oman rebels said the RAF was continuing to shower bombs and rockets on Nizwa and declared "many civilians were killed and injured."

Mohammed el Harsy, representative of the rebel religious leader, Imam Ghaleb bin Ali, said British planes made 24 sorties over Nizwa yesterday and that houses were hit.

The RAF has grouped about 25 jet planes at its base in Sharjah, on the coast of Trucial Oman, for the attacks against the rebels.

British officials in Bahrain were awaiting the return of Sir Bernard Burrows, Britain's political resident officer for the Persian Gulf, from conferences with Sultan Said bin Taimur in Muscat.

Company Veteran Honored

J. A. Whitcomb receives a certificate honoring him for 30 years of service with the Empire Southern Gas Company, as Mrs. Whitcomb looks on. Making the presentation is J. P. (Pat) Kenney, Empire Southern vice president, who was in charge of a dinner Thursday night which honored all the company's 25-year employes.

Empire Southern Gas Veteran Honored For 30-Year Service

A 30-year veteran of service with Empire Southern Gas Co. and its affiliates was honored by the company at a dinner Thursday evening. J. A. Whitcomb, who has chalked up three decades with the company, and dates his work in the gas business even five years further back. Whitcomb is now production superintendent for Empire Southern at Andrews, under the Big Spring district.

He started with Oklahoma Utilities Co. (then associated with Empire Southern) in December of 1926, as superintendent of measurement. He later became distribution superintendent, transmission superintendent, and then manager of the company's properties at Bristol, Okla. He moved to the Andrews post in September, 1945. J. P. (Pat) Kenney of Fort Worth, vice president of Empire Southern, presided for the program held at the Cosden Club, and presented Whitcomb with a company pin studded with three diamonds (one for each decade of service), and a special certificate of recognition. Kenney lauded Whitcomb for his long years of faithful and productive service. The Thursday night occasion served also to honor all 25-year veterans with Empire Southern and their wives, who were honor guests. The "old-timers" include Kenney himself, and, in this district, C. H. Rainwater, manager; Les Clawson, Roy Green and Bill Beauchamp.

Nickerson, Stripped Of Rank Privileges, Sent To Canal Zone

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today ordered Col. John C. Nickerson, convicted of divulging missile secrets, to a routine job in the Panama Canal Zone. He will be deprived of his privileges of rank and command.

Nickerson, a top guided missile engineer at the Army's Ballistic Missiles Agency, will be given 30 days to report to the Office of the Engineer at the headquarters of the U. S. Caribbean Command in the Canal Zone.

An Army spokesman in announcing the action, said Nickerson's duties "will fall within the restrictions imposed by his court-martial sentence," which was imposed June 29.

A&M Chemistry Head Is Announced

COLLEGE STATION, (Sp1)—Dr. Paul Kenneth Calaway, one of the south's outstanding chemists, has been named head of the chemistry department at Texas A&M College. Dr. Calaway will assume his duties at A&M Sept. 1.

The new chemistry department head comes to A&M from Georgia Institute of Technology. He was head of Georgia Tech's Chemistry Department from 1948 to 1954, when he was named director of the Tech Engineering Experiment Station, which has a research volume of $2,000,000.

"We discussed procedural matters and some possible courses of board action," he said. "I do not know what his position will be, but what he will have to say until he has talked with all the board members. I think he will have a statement, based on the majority opinion of individual board members. I can't say just when Mr. Watkins will issue his statement."

FTC Attitude On Cigarette Ads Tougher

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission said today it is adopting a tougher attitude toward cigarette advertising claims in the light of possible links between smoking and lung cancer.

Acting FTC Chairman Robert T. Secret said House investigators that a formal Public Health Service statement July 12 dealing with smoking and health "calls for a fresh approach" to the job of policing the tobacco industry.

As the first step in tightening the rules against what he called deceptive advertising, Secret disclosed the FTC has given priority to a survey to learn whether smokers understand the meaning of cigarette advertising claims. "The results of that survey," he said, "will enable the commission to take the necessary steps to protect the public from deception in the labeling or the advertising of cigarettes to the fullest extent of the law's commission enforcement."

NOT E.P., BUT 'CAR DRIVER'

People read the headlines, E. P. Driver has learned. A story appearing in the Herald told how automobile liability insurance rates were going to be raised.

The headline said "Driver Insurance Rates Take Jump." Driver, who operates under the name of Driver Insurance (Agency), immediately became the target of calls from some patrons demanding to know why he was the only agent raising insurance rates. He's had a tough time explaining that the rate hike will affect everyone and that the headline is a "automobile driver" and not "E. P. Driver."

New Mexico Slayer 'Might Kill Again'

HOBBES, N. M. (AP)—A New Mexico lawman described today the killer of three persons as a man with nothing to lose who might kill again if the chance arose. Lea County Sheriff Jewell McAdoo, asked about the chance of the slayer committing another crime, said:

"There's a good chance he would. He wouldn't have much to lose now." Police began the tedious search for clues that might lead to the killer of two Hobbs divorcees and a young truck driver early Tuesday.

"We're checking everybody and every angle. It may take us weeks to get to it all but we will." The search for the killer of J. D. Cantrell, 27, of Carlsbad; Mrs. Barbara Lemmons, 23, and Mrs. Dorothy Gibson, also 23, was spurred by reward offers of $1,800.

McAdoo said leads were slim. Cantrell, a driver for Ferguson-Steere Trucking Co., was shot at the side of U. S. 180, about 36 miles west of Hobbs. The two young women were killed by an isolated oil field road 29 miles northeast of where Cantrell's body was found.

Cantrell was believed to have stopped his truck after seeing the women fighting off an assailant, and was slain. The killer is then thought to have forced the women to accompany him to the spot where they were killed. A motive for the deaths has not been established.

Robbery was discounted after the women's purses were found. Conservation of water is the most pressing need in West Texas now in its efforts to cope with the solution of the area's agricultural economy, Dr. Earl Burnett, superintendent of the U. S. Experiment Station, told the Big Spring Kiwanis Club Thursday noon.

He spoke briefly on the aims and objectives of the station here and explained that new facilities now being provided will enable the establishment to broaden its work and perform its functions more expeditiously.

West Texas Gets Share Of Roads

ABILENE (Sp1)—West Texas' share of the proposed federal highway program will total almost 400 million dollars, an article in the July issue of West Texas Today states.

The magazine, in an article reflecting on the effect of the new highway system on West Texas and its economy, quotes State Highway engineer D. C. Greer as saying that "1,359 miles, 47 percent of the proposed Interstate System for Texas will be in West Texas."

The magazine, monthly publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, states that Greer estimates West Texas' share to be about $37,964,000 or 25 per cent of the total allotment for the State's interstate highways. Texas will receive about $1.8 billion during the next 13 to 15 years from the Federal government for the program.

The article also explains the current highway program of the Texas Highway Department. "Our highway program, including Interstate, for the present fiscal year calls for 5,083 miles of construction throughout the state at a cost of $381,000,000. Of this programed construction, 43 per cent or 2,229 miles, is in the West Texas area," Greer says in the article. He adds that the total cost for this West Texas construction will be about $128 million.

Future plans include 181 miles of multilane or expressway construction in West Texas.

Skin Keeps Water Inside Cactus Plant

By RAMON COFFMAN

The word "cactus" (meaning "prickly plant") was taken from the Greek language. It refers chiefly to plants of the New World. One kind of cactus grows in Ceylon, an island south of India, and is believed to be a native plant. Another variety has been found in west-central Africa, but North and South America have hundreds of kinds.

Tall cactus in Mexico.

Cacti have thick coverings, or "skins." These keep water from escaping, and they explain why a cactus can live through a long stretch of hot, dry weather. Even on deserts, rain falls now and then. Cacti have learned the art of storing water from each rain. They drink it up through the roots. Instead of saving for a rainy day, these plants save for a sunny day!

Cacti differ widely in height. Some of them spread out close to the ground, with the upper parts hardly an inch above the surface. Even these have sharp needles, and cause trouble to grazing animals. A human being, going barefoot, finds pain in a patch of such

Money's Still Around -- But It Costs More

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — There's still money around. You may not like the price you have to pay or the colder eye with which the banker scans your credit rating. But there's evidence today from several sources that investors will snap up offerings—when they like the terms.

Bond dealers say the reaction is favorable to the U.S. Treasury's upcoming refunding of 24 billion dollars of maturing securities with new ones bearing 4 per cent interest. Dealers expect very few of the present holders to ask for cash instead of new securities. And "rights" to the new issues are selling at a premium.

On one day alone this week, Tuesday, investors took a variety of corporate offerings to a tune of 115 million dollars. Announcement that 150 million dollars more of like offerings will be coming up soon failed to joggle the security market.

One of the nation's largest banks reports that 99 per cent of its 120 million dollars in new capital stock was gobbled up by stockholders, and employees took most of the rest.

The same day government officials expressed the view that the condition of the money market was healthy. And bankers and other lenders, as might be expected, are almost unanimous in finding tight money good for the economy.

A consumer survey shows people are well aware of the higher interest charges and squirming a little. But it finds small evidence that the higher return on savings influences consumers to save more and spend less—perhaps because their standard of living takes all they can make.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks says that the current tight money policy aimed at curbing inflation won't be allowed to bring on even a small recession. He admits the economy is spotty, but says 1957 will end up as the best year yet in many ways.

Ray M. Gidney, U. S. controller of the currency, tells congressmen that the high demand for investment funds makes the higher interest rates necessary. He denies that the rates are too high now under the circumstances. And he adds that borrowers are in better shape today to repay their indebtedness than they were a few years back.

Mortgage investment firms here see a chance of interest rates rising further in the next 90 days. One reason they cite is that government short term interest rates have now risen to 4 per cent.

Mortgage rates usually keep considerably above the government rate.

Mortgage dealers say that all across the country now mortgages are carrying 5 to 6 per cent rates. They report that in Florida second mortgages are offered at between 12 and 17 per cent interest. While money is getting tighter across the country, the lenders insist this is all to the good, since it is squeezing the speculative and fringe elements out of the market.

These views, understandably, are far from shared by everyone. Leading home builders have been

Off Site Project To Be Resubmitted

Explosives Expert Blasts Himself And Wife To Death

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An explosives expert blasted himself and his estranged wife to death in their parked auto last night. The explosion also claimed the life of an 8-year-old girl happily licking an ice cream bar.

Seven other passers-by were injured in the blast, which rocked the North Side business section about one mile from midtown.

The dead are Arthur DePew, 29, his wife Elaine, 18, and Linda Kraus.

Linda's 11-year-old sister Joan was hurled through a store window and suffered multiple cuts.

The children's grandfather Frank Panza, 55, suffered a hip laceration. He and Joan were the only person admitted to a hospital and officials said both are expected to recover.

The blast knocked pedestrians over and broke windows in a wide area.

DePew, a blaster for a construction firm on a sewage tunnel project here, parked his car just a few minutes before he met his wife in a prearranged reconciliation attempt. The couple talked a few minutes, entered the car and then came the blast.

Asst. Police Supt. Lawrence Maloney said, "There's no question about it — it's a clear case of murder and suicide."

The DePews were married only about six months ago. Police said DePew formerly had lived in Norwich, N.Y.

A week ago, Constable Louis Braunstein said, Mrs. DePew filed a surety of the peace charge against her husband after he allegedly threatened to kill her.

"He was in my office last night," Braunstein said. "He was very nervous and asked to see about getting an attorney."

The constable quoted DePew as saying: "I'll get a divorce if that's the way she wants it — but this will not be the end of it."

Daniel Scores Tech Secrecy

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel said today the closed-door firings of two Texas Tech professors was an example of the way state agencies "hurt" themselves by secret sessions.

"I realize there must be executive sessions but only as an absolute necessity," he said. "I think state agencies hurt themselves when they fail to open their sessions to the public."

The governor had been asked about recent closed meetings of the Board of Water Engineers and the Brazos River Authority.

"Take the action at Texas Tech as an example," he said. "I imagine the same decision could have been made at a public hearing. I don't see how they accomplished anything by keeping the meeting closed, except to get criticism and demands for an open hearing."

Daniel said he had not asked for a report on the action of the Texas Tech regents, but said he had heard from one of the directors "just explaining that it was not meant to be as it appeared."

Child Gains Friends In A Nursery School

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
The Associated Press
"My wife has nothing to do but take care of Phillip and the house. She even has a car of her own and she and the boy can go wherever they want. But what do you think she wants now? She wants to put the boy in a nursery school."
Mr. Caddy was having lunch with some men from the office and he went on:
"There is just no pleasing some women. Schools are O. K. I suppose, for kids whose mothers have to work, but my wife doesn't have to go out and earn money. Why can't she be satisfied to do her job, instead of palming it off on some school?"
Phillip was three and a half. He was a healthy, robust little fellow. The Caddys lived in a suburb where there were no young children. He had every imaginable toy and a big backyard with a swing and a sandbox. He and his mother spent their day together. His mother was seldom out of his sight. He "helped" her with the housework in the morning, then they would go outdoors together. Phillip was not content to play in the sandbox unless mother was close by to admire his cakes and his tunnels.

MAMMA'S BOY
Phil was very much a mama's boy. Even when they went over to a friend's house Phil stuck pretty close to mother's knee and couldn't be induced to run outside and play with another child.
When a child is a baby all his needs is mother. He needs his physical requirements taken care of. When he is sufficiently grown up to walk and talk he still needs mostly a warm friendly adult to keep him safe and occupied. But the time comes when no adult no matter how perfect can supply all a child's needs.
Children need other children of about the same age. They need to learn the give and take of their peers. They need to learn how other children feel as well as how they act. It's quite impossible for a child to learn to share when he is only with an adult. But where there are several children who have real and meaningful sharing — a most important lesson to be learned.
COMPANIONSHIP
Playmates are important for little children, not just because they have fun together but because it's an important step in education for life.
Nursery school is an ideal way for a youngster to get the companionship. It is a place where he will be with his peers and have some trained and understanding teacher keep him safe and help him get the most from the experience. He also learns that he can be safe and comfortable away from mother.
A child who lives in a home with many brothers and sisters, or in a neighborhood with scores of other children nearby is not in as dire need of nursery school as is the only child who lives in an adult neighborhood. But a good nursery school is a valuable educational experience for any child.

German Girl Learns That Going To School Is Fun

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Going to school in America is "loads of fun," even though you don't get much book learning, says an 18-year-old blonde from West Berlin, Uta Goetz. She's an American First Service exchange student.
Uta, who now has an American haircut and accent, has been in the United States almost a year, completing the senior year of high school in Mankato, Minn., and now is en route back home to Germany, along with a boatload of other European exchange students.
"Mostly I learned how to get along with people and have fun, this last year," she says. "There's not so much academic study as in Germany, but I think it's important to learn the other things too, don't you?"
When Uta gets back to West Berlin, she still will have to finish her senior term of high school there, as the German schools do not recognize the diploma she won in Minnesota. But Uta is proud of that diploma. It represents a lot of things to her.
"Things are so much different here," she says. "I lived with a minister's family in Mankato, and we had wonderful fun. I joined all the clubs in the school, but mostly I enjoyed the student council, because I realized that through this, young people could have a real voice in making important decisions on their own responsibility."
Uta was a popular addition to the Mankato high school campus, went to all school dances and entered into the life of the community, making frequent speeches describing the difference between school days in Europe and America.
"I've even been going steady," she confesses, blushing. "I didn't want to, and neither did the boy, but everyone else went steady, and so it just seemed the only thing to do. But dances weren't so much fun as back home, because everybody just dances with the same partner all evening. In Germany when I went to a dance, my parents would go with me and take me home, but at the dance I would dance with lots of boys and I really think that is better."

Stephens struck out 14 and was helped along by a three-run home run off the bat of John White.

In other action tonight, El Paso Natural Gas Company of Jal, N.M., plays Lorenzo at 7 o'clock. Midland Air Coolers, Grandfalls and the Todd Company of Odessa have been ousted from the meet, leaving Cosden, Wink, Midland National Bank, Lorenzo and Jal, N.M., to fight it out. Jal would be the Todd Company in the most one-sided game of the tournament, 21-1, despite the fact that it couldn't score an earned run.

Timing Association Holds Drag Races Here Sunday

Drag race enthusiasts from over a wide area gather here Sunday for the July program scheduled by the Big Spring Timing Association.

The gates of the drag strip, located on the western tip of Webb AFB, open at 12:30 p.m. and the time trials are scheduled to get under way shortly thereafter.

Entries are due here from as far away as Las Cruces, New Mexico.

One of the outstanding speedsters due here is James Butler of Mortin, whose Ford Ranchero has twice been challenged within the past month.

One of the protests was lodged here in each instance, it was claimed that the vehicle was not "stock." He won the protests each time they were lodged.

Last weekend at the 8-States Meet at Pampa, Butler posted a winning average speed of 99.69. That could be hard to beat here.

Jerrold Cox has been named operations manager of the local racing strip.

Spectators can again watch the races from their vehicles. Admission fee is $1 per person. For those who get thirsty or hungry, there'll be concessions stands in operation.

Bums Finally Tip Optimists

In perhaps the best ball game played in the Junior Teen-Age league here this season, the Bums nosed out the Optimists, 3-2, to keep their win-loss record unscathed.

Tom Farquhar's club scored all of its tallies in the initial inning. Bob Andrews walked and Jerry Tucker followed with a single. Both Andrews and Tucker then scored on a passed ball.

The Optimists scored in the third when Gus Ochozina walked, stole second and counted on a passed ball. They pulled within one run of a tie in the sixth when Mike Nelson reached base on a fielder's choice, advanced on a passed ball, stole third and counted when Gary Walker singled.

Joe Ramirez shaded Zay LeFevre in a mound duel which saw each hurler give up only one hit.

Ramirez struck out 11 and granted two passes. LeFevre fanned 17 and walked three. The only hit that LeFevre yielded was a pop-up that fell in between two fielders.

The Kiwanis forfeited to the KP's in what would have been the other game.

Coasters Rip Snapper Five

The Coasters took a strange hold on first place in the YMCA Summer basketball league by belting the Snappers, 62-48, in a game played here Thursday night.

Al Kloven and Charles Clark, former HCJC stars waxed warm for the Coasters. Kloven tallied 30 points and Clark 23.

Mike Musgrove scored 15 points for the losers while Albert Oglesby had 12 and Charles Johnson 11.

In the other game, the Geese trounced the Cornets, 53-43, to retain their hold on second place.

The YMCA Church Softball league has a new leader this morning.

First Baptist took over first place by turning back Temple Baptist, 8-5, here Thursday night.

First Methodist accepted a forfeit from Westside Baptist in what was to have been the other game. Camp pitched First Baptist, past the Temple nine, surrendering only three hits.

First Baptist started off with a three-run first and added three in the second. Smith smacked out two hits for First Baptist.

Quaker State Curfew Keeps Cards In 2nd

By ED WILKS
 The Associated Press

Curfews are okay for keepin' the kids off the streets, but the Sunday baseball one in Pennsylvania is keeping the St. Louis Cardinals out of first place in that National League scramble.

As is, the Cards are second, three percentage points and half a game behind Milwaukee. They slipped past Brooklyn's Dodgers 3-2 last night after the Braves were beaten 5-3 by Philadelphia.

But if the Redbirds, finally fatening up at home, could count Sunday's second game at Pittsburgh—which they led 11-2 in the ninth inning when the 6 p.m. curfew sounded—they'd be out front by two percentage points. (They completed that game Aug. 27.)

After taking two of three from the Dodgers, the Cards are a game ahead of both Milwaukee and Brooklyn on the "lost" side. The Braves, now third, are just one point ahead of Cincinnati's Redlegs, who whipped Pittsburgh 9-1 last night. The Phils are 2 1/2 back in fifth.

Sixth-place New York defeated Chicago's Cubs 5-2 in the other NL game, with Mike McCormick, the $65,000 bonus kid, winning his first in the majors.

In the American League, Dick Donovan four-hit New York for a 6-2 victory as the Chicago White Sox again moved within 3 1/2 games of the first-place Yankees. Boston swept the three-game set with Kansas City 5-3, Washington ripped Cleveland 5-2 in 10 innings, and Baltimore laid Detroit 3-0.

The Cardinals laid the wood to Don Newcombe again to break a 2-2 tie in the eighth on singles by

Water Ballet On Program Tonight

Members of the instructors staff have formed a water ballet troupe which will appear on the YMCA-City Recreation water carnival program this evening. Here they are shown going through one of their patterns. An adult water ballet is to be presented on the same card by a team of officers' wives from Webb AFB. There also will be diving, racing and other events at the free public program at 8 p.m. at the Manly pool.

AQUA QUEEN WILL BE CHOSEN THIS EVENING

The 1957 YMCA summer swimming program will have a colorful finale tonight with an aqua carnival at the City Park pool at 8 o'clock. This summer saw 1,128 youngsters participating in Y swimming activities which included the regular program, Fun Clubs and Indian Day Camp.

Diving and swimming contests, water ballet and clown acts will be a part of tonight's show along with the naming of an aqua queen from among Y swimming instructors. Added interest will be colorful costumes worn by the girls during the water ballets. Pool decorations were made by Joan Young, Edith Freeman, Gary Tidwell, Bobby Hayworth and Martha Haynie.

Mrs. George Dawson, aquatic director of the Y, is in charge of the show and Dr. P. D. O'Brien will serve as master of ceremonies. Starter for the contests will be Olen Puckett with John Dibrill and Tommy Hart serving as timers.

Candidates for the aqua queen title are Joan Durham, Wanda Boalter, Luan Lawson, Virginia Johnson, Judy McCrary, Malinda Crocker, Carol Phillips, Linda Leonard, Beth Scarber, Jean Roberts, Charlotte Marstrand, Carolyn Sewell, Sue Boles, Martha Haynie, Pat Johnson, Gloria O'Keefe and Carolyn Thompson. Runners-up for the title will serve as the queen's attendants and the remainder of the girls will be in her court.

Trophies and medals will be presented to the swimming and diving contest winners by the court.

Judges for the swimming contests will be Dr. Clyde Thomas, Bill Daves and Leroy Tidwell. Diving judges will be Olen Puckett, Tommy Hart and Al Mich, Miss Joan Young and Gary Tidwell will be recorders.

The swimming races will include back style, back stroke, breast strokes and free style for junior and senior boys and girls. The diving contest will require front and back jack, front straight and back dives along with four optional dives.

Clown acts will be performed by Lt. Allen Theilin and Lt. Michael H. Alexander of Webb Air Force Base along with Buddy Martin. Their acts will consist of comedy dives and other rib-tickling capers around the pool.

Y swimming instructors will perform mambo and Hawaiian ballet numbers. Mrs. Dawson will direct the ballet.

In addition to the ballet, a skin diving exhibition with an aqua lung will be under the direction of George Clark.

Background music will be provided by members of the Webb AFB Band. Bleacher seats to be set up for spectators will also be furnished by the air base. There is no admission charge for these seats and the carnival is open to the public.

Ramsey And Blum 2 Shots Back In Odessa Pro-Am

ODESSA (AP)—Three teams, one headed by former National Open champion Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, were tied for first at the $10,000 Odessa Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament entered its second round today.

The three combinations had 8 under par 64's in the opening 18 holes yesterday.

Bobby Cupit and Frank Wharton of Dallas, runners-up last year, and Wendy Green and Marcelino Moreno of Midland, Tex., were tied with Middlecoff and his amateur partner, Billy Joe Denton of Odessa, Ark.

A stroke back of the leaders were teams of Bud Ecton and A. B. Justice of Oklahoma City and Benny Adams and James Adams of McAlester, Tex.

Thirteen teams were tied at 66, among them the defending champions, Ernie Vossler of Midland and Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Walker Cupper and national colliage champion.

The other 12 duos were: Arnold Chambers, Fort Stockton, and Ken Garrison, Odessa; J. V. Dixon and E. P. Wright, both Andrews; Bart Haltom, Fort Worth; and Jimmy Russell, Amarillo; Horace Moore and Jack Williams, both Plainview; Byron Nelson, Roanoke, and Mac Boring, Odessa; Jake Clark and Jack Clark, both Alice; W. E. Ramsey and Bobby Blum, both Big Spring; Jerry Robinson, Texarkana and Miller Barber, Denton; Harold Smith and Rocky Thompson, both Wichita Falls; Joe Walter, Altus, Okla., and Glen Fowler, Oklahoma City; Bo Winger, Odessa and Bobby Goetz, Tulsa, and Billy Maxwell and Bill Roden, both Odessa.

Bobby Maxwell and Bobby Wright of Big Spring finished with a first round 69 Thursday while the Big Spring team of C. A. DeWees and Luke Thompson wound up with an even 70.

Tobin Rote, Val Walker Are Traded To Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions and the Green Bay Packers have completed a six-player trade that brings quarterback Tobin Rote and defensive halfback Val Joe Walker to the Detroit club.

The Packers in turn receive linemen Jim Salsbury, Oliver Spencer and Norm Masters, along with sophomore halfback Don McElhenny.

Looking 'Em Over

With Tommy Hart

Alex Sandusky, who made his debut in professional football last season as a member of the Baltimore Orioles, recently was asked the difference (if any) between playing college and pro ball.

Sandusky merely opened his mouth and pointed to where two front teeth used to be.

Charles Clark, one of the standouts on the HCJC basketball team the past two seasons, is headed for New Mexico A&M.

Plainview had no fewer than 160 players in its invitational golf tournament last week, a record for West Texas amateur meets this year.

Now that Willie Mays is going great guns for the New York Giants again, he's available for speaking dates at clubs and social organizations which desire to hear him—at $500 an appearance.

Vince Amor, ex-Big Spring hurler (he played with a shaved head part of one season), is now 10-10 for the Havana Cubans of the International League. No other pitcher on the Havana staff has done as well.

Amor won only three games while dropping eight for Havana last season.

His record with the lowly Cubans inspired the desperate Cincinnati Redlegs to purchase his contract a couple of days ago.

Don't you believe that talk that Joe Louis is going to starve. True, he owes a tax bill of $2 millions plus to the government (which he can never retire) but he's being paid $20,000 per annum by the IBC and picks up side money in personal appearances and etc.

That bump on the head suffered by ex-Big Springer Gil Guerra in the Mexican league recently didn't keep the Big Cuban hurler idle for long.

Most recent records showed him with an 8-3 won-lost record. With the Mexico City Reds, Guerra recently beat Nuevo Laredo, 5-1, and balked home the only run.

Tommy Herrera, another former Big Spring pitcher in that circuit, recently fashioned a three-hitter and beat Yucatan, 3-0. The following day, he came back and stopped Yucatan dead in its tracks in a relief chore.

Remember Steve Ellis, who used to broadcast many of the major fights over radio? He's quit that endeavor to become sports director of Miami's newest television station, WPST-TV. Ellis estimates he has broadcast 1,900 fights in his time. He aired the Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore scrap in Yankee Stadium, among others.

He was also manager of Chico Vejar, the middleweight boxer, at one time.

Billy Pierce, the Chicago White Sox ace hurler, autographed no fewer than 276 baseballs during the all-star game. After the ordeal, he said he wished he had learned to write with both hands.

W. S. Goodlet, Jr., who bows out as president of the National Little League this season, says the circuit had the best set of managers this year it ever had.

The skippers were Al Valdes of the Yankees, VFW's Paul Capen, Ezra McPherson of the Gold Sox, and the Owls' Guinette Gibbs.

Gene Fletcher and Bruce Dobbs filled in capably for Valdes when Al had to work.

Cabbie Finds Big Cache, Politico Denies It's His

NEW YORK (AP)—Somebody left a bundle containing $11,200 in a taxicab and Tammany Hall leader Carmine G. DeSapio, who rode in the cab, says the money isn't his. "I'm certain I left no package, certainly not one with $11,200 in it," DeSapio told newsmen.

Ousted Miss U.S.A. Sued For $30,000 By Defeated Beauty

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mary Leona Gage Ennis, whose big bouffant hairstyle she had introduced to the Miss Universe contest and into a treasure trove, has been sued for $30,000 by the blonde beauty she defeated for the right to represent Maryland in the contest.

Mary Callie Hill, the defeated beauty, also used the sponsor of the Miss Maryland Pageant, the Walkers Academy and Fashion Guild, Inc.

Mrs. Ennis won the Miss U.S.A. title in Long Beach, Calif. last week and was among the semifinalists for the Miss Universe title when word leaked out that she was married.

"I think it was downright mean of that woman to cheat me of the big chance," Mrs. Hill said.

Her suit was filed through her mother in Superior Court.

The suit alleged that Mrs. Ennis and the sponsors "fraudulently schemed to conceal the fact" that Mrs. Ennis was married.

The contest, she said, cost her the trophy, the trip to the Miss U.S.A. contest, an automobile, a $1,000 wardrobe and the screen test which she said the Miss Maryland sponsors promised the winner.

Argentina To Have First Election Since Peron Ouster

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Next Sunday Argentina will hold its first election since Juan Peron lost his job in 1955. The present caretaker government of Pedro Aramburu called the election for a constituent assembly to determine Argentina's future government. The voting is expected to show how many Argentines still favor ex-dictator Peron, and how many support Aramburu and his allies in their campaign to amend the constitution. It also will indicate the strength of Arturo Frondizi, Radical party leader who is wooing the Peronista vote. Peron, in exile, has asked Argentines to give him a moral victory by not voting or by voting blank. When the provisional government took over, he declared illegal Peron's 1949 constitution and re-established the constitution of 1853. Aramburu contends the old constitution needs amending to prevent any elected president from becoming overpowered, to assure individual and social liberties, give provincial governments more independence, reinforce the judiciary and ban the re-election of a president. Aramburu hopes he will get enough support in the new assembly to do this. Frondizi contends Aramburu is using the election to seize control of Argentina's future. If the Radicals win control of the assembly, they will dissolve it and set up immediate general elections, Frondizi says. Bidding for the Peronista vote, he promises "ample amnesty for all political and labor crimes committed before and after September 1955" — the month of Peron's overthrow.

Friend Of Slain Women Now Wishes They Hadn't Gone Out

By VIC JAMESON
HOBBS N. M., (AP)—"I've been wracking my brain . . . I'd like to find out who it is." Hoyt Lynch, one of the last friends who saw two Hobbs women before they were killed two days ago, added: "I wish I hadn't gone to the dance, I didn't want to go. If I hadn't, this wouldn't have happened." The earnest talking former Marine, 24, sat in the hall of the Eddy County courthouse at Carlsbad as he re-told the story of what had started as a pleasant evening's entertainment. "We left the dance about 10 after one. There were just Dorothy and Barbara and me. Dorothy danced with two or three other guys. Both the girls loved to dance." The girls were Dorothy Gibson and Barbara Lemmons, shot to death in a lonely oilfield west of Hobbs Tuesday morning by a marksman who shortly before had slain a truck driver on U.S. 180. "I didn't even want to go to the dance," Lynch continued. "I drove all the night before from Grants and I was tired. We ate supper at Barbara's folks. Barbara's mother said, 'Why don't you go lie down? You don't have to go dancing.'" "But you know how women are. They kept after me to go. I shouldn't have went." Lynch said he had been separated from his wife three months. He had met Mrs. Gibson while working in Hobbs as an oilfield roughneck. He met Mrs. Lemmons when she was working in Carlsbad. "If they had been trash maybe you could understand something like this happening to them, but they were nice girls." Lynch knows Lefty Frizzell, whose orchestra was playing at the Club Morrice in Hobbs Monday night, and that was another reason why he agreed to accompany the two young women to the dance. He had to be in Carlsbad the next morning to drive a truck for a construction company. He since has lost the job, he said, "over this." "I had Dorothy call up the bus station. The bus left Hobbs at 12:30. When we looked at the clock it was 5 to one. Dorothy said 'Well, just drive you over to Carlsbad.'" The three of them left for Carlsbad, Lynch said, and he got in the back seat and went to sleep. He slept all the way. When they reached Carlsbad, he suggested they get a cup of coffee before returning to Hobbs. The girls went alone for coffee, Lynch said, because he was "too sleepy." "Dorothy drove over," he said, "and I think Barbara intended to drive back to Hobbs." Lynch left the girls about 2:13 a.m. Their bodies were found about seven hours later, riddled with bullets.
