House Panel Scores AF Academy 'Waste'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee slashed $279,158,380 from a supplemental money bill today and told the Air Force not to make its new academy "a monument to governmental extravagance."

It approved $1,581,590,587 of the $1,860,748,967 President Eisenhower had requested for miscellaneous programs, mainly for military construction.

Included in the total approved was 12 1/2 millions of the 35 millions requested for a new Washington airport at nearby Burke, Va., a project fought bitterly by both Maryland and Virginia senators.

The committee cut $3,332,000 from the $23,169,000 requested for construction at the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo. It expressed dissatisfaction over "the evident lack of concern for cost factors."

Some contracts have been let at costs as much as three times original estimates, it said.

The steady increase in air traffic into and out of Washington, the committee said, makes it imperative that the area have a new airport by 1960. The estimated over-all cost of the proposed new airport at Burke is 60 million dollars. The committee said the full construction cost will be amortized over "a reasonable number of years, thereby costing the taxpayers nothing."

Committee Okays Webb AFB Funds

The proposed $4,208,000 appropriation for expansion of Webb Air Force Base was approved today by the House Appropriations Committee in Washington.

The funds, if finally approved by Congress, are for construction at Webb during the year which started July 1. So far, the Air Force has declined to give details of its proposed new facilities at the local base.

Also approved by the committee were proposed appropriations of $7,603,000 for Reese AFB, Lubbock; $971,000 for Dyess AFB, Abilene, and others.

For military construction, the committee recommended $1,521,500,000 of the $1,764,500,000 requested. It complained of "a lack of coordination and agreement on objectives between the office of the secretary of defense and the three services" in the family housing field.

The committee approved $2,410,000 of the $3,875,000 the Army requested for administration of the Ryukyu Islands but rejected the entire $9,200,000 sought for a new electric power plant for the islands. It said the islands now are using less than 40 per cent of the output of the existing generating plant.

Other allotments included: Fifteen millions for disaster relief for states and local areas suffering major disasters.

$13,317,000 for the Tennessee Valley Authority, a reduction of $1,465,000.

$2,200,000, the amount requested for a U. S. trade fair exhibit of American life and industry in Gorki Park, Moscow, in the summer of 1958.

'Torture Kit'

Melvin N. Bakkerud, 21, who police say has confessed to the torture and rape of a girl in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, Calif., on the night of July 29, willingly showed officers contents of a "torture kit" which figured prominently in the attack, and which Bakkerud had in the meantime secreted in the basement of his home. The kit contained a ten-inch knife, manacles, scissors, such as were used in cutting the victim's hair, and a silk stocking, used as a mask. Bakkerud lives about a block from the park.

FHA Interest Rate Increase Stirs Talk Of Congress Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A rise in FHA interest rates, the second in eight months, brought talk today of congressional action to limit any further increases.

The Federal Housing Administration made effective today an increase from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent in the maximum interest rate on home mortgages it insures. The rate was boosted last December from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent.

The FHA discount rate for Texas will be 2 per cent.

Along with the higher rate, FHA also announced yesterday lower down payments on homes financed with government-backed mortgages. The biggest reduction applies to houses in the $10,000-$25,000 class.

Lowering of FHA down payments was greeted generally with approval in Congress. But the interest boost immediately drew the fire of Democrats who have been critical of administration monetary policies.

Rep. Rains (D-Ala.), chairman of the Housing subcommittee of the House, said "Congress must restudy the whole FHA program."

He raised the possibility he would seek to fix a lower FHA rate ceiling.

"It may well be," he declared, "that we will have to enact legislation placing some sort of reasonable limit on FHA interest rates to stop the present administration's mania for continually raising interest rates."

Rains said, "Apparently this administration cannot take any action in the financial field which does not benefit the big banking interests in some way."

Congress in past housing legislation gave the federal housing administrator authority to raise the interest rate to as much as 6 per cent. New legislation would be required to lower or raise this ceiling.

Rep. Patman (D-Tex.), chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, said FHA's action was part of a trend toward higher interest costs by the Eisenhower administration.

"They are making a mistake by increasing interest rates which enter into the whole pattern of increasing costs and increasing inflation," he declared.

On the other hand, Republicans agreed with FHA that a higher rate was necessary to keep FHA mortgage loans competitive with other financing demands in the current tight money market.

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, assistant GOP leader of the House declared, "If you're going to be able to borrow money, the rate's got to be realistic."

The increase in interest rates was accompanied by new controls ordered by Congress on loan discounts, or premiums charged by lenders to offset lower interest rates.

The new regulations apply to both old and new housing. The new discount controls were ordered both for FHA loans and for GI loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration. But no change was made in the interest rate for GI loans, fixed by law at a 4 1/2 per cent maximum.

The National Assn. of Home Builders greeted FHA's action as "welcome news to families all over America who have been trying to obtain better housing on terms they can afford."

Some private lending institutions, meanwhile, were reliably reported to be raising the open mortgage rate on conventional mortgage loans to 6 per cent.

An FHA loan now will cost borrowers 5 1/2 per cent, because FHA adds half of 1 per cent to the interest rate as an insurance fee.

mits a down payment of 3 per cent on the first $10,000, 15 per cent on the next $6,000 and 30 per cent on all the rest of the loan above $16,000 to the limit of $25,000.

Previously, down payment requirements were 5 per cent on the first $10,000, and 25 per cent on all above that amount.

On FHA loans, the discount rate in the East has varied from 3 to 4 per cent of the face of the loan—or a premium of $300 to $400 on a $10,000 loan.

An FHA spokesman said discounts charged borrowers seeking FHA mortgage financing will now be controlled to vary geographically between zero and 2 1/2 per cent.

Control of discounts also apply to 4 1/2 per cent GI loans, and the Veterans Administration immediately fixed discounts on VA-guaranteed loans at 2 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent. In the case of veterans, all discounts must be absorbed by builders.

Knowland Predicts Rights Bill Change

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) predicted after a White House conference with President Eisenhower today that Congress will change the Senate's civil rights bill before passing it finally.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, told reporters the "general feeling is that the bill is not in satisfactory form at the present time."

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, speaking with newsmen separately after GOP congressional leaders had held a weekly conference with Eisenhower, said of the civil rights bill:

"It is unacceptable to the President in the form it is now in. He intimated strongly that it didn't meet what he is seeking to obtain, the right of all people to vote."

Asked if Eisenhower had said he would veto the bill in its present form, Martin said the President made no such statement but said the bill might be vetoed unless it is materially changed.

Martin said Republicans in the House "will fight the Senate bill as it now is and hope for a reasonable compromise in conference."

The Senate reduced the House-passed bill to what is primarily a right-to-vote measure. It also provided for jury trials in all criminal contempt cases, an amendment which has drawn vigorous debate from the administration.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, told reporters he hopes the Senate will reach a final vote on passage tomorrow or Thursday. It cannot be changed in form in the Senate except by unanimous agreement, which Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said he would oppose.

"We should not keep silent," he said. "We should state the facts of the struggle and insist that the Roman Catholic Church have the same respect for Protestants we have for it."

The Roman Catholic Church does not belong to the council, which is made up of 163 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches in 50 countries.

The flare-up came over a proposed resolution, saying Protestants in Colombia, South America, have suffered "grave disabilities" and expressing hopes the new government there will "restore religious freedom."

It did not mention the Roman Catholic Church.

The Rev. K. Slack of London called the statement "timid and tepid," and theologian H. C. W. D'Espine of Geneva, also said it was inadequate.

The Rev. D. John Baillie of Edinburgh, Scotland, head of a committee that drafted it, said some "remedial action" already reportedly has occurred in Colombia, and "if we spoke too roughly, it would be damaging rather than helpful."

This touched off the Rev. Mr. Barbieri's appeal, and the Rev. Dr. John MacQuay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, said the council eventually should study fully the questions raised by the bishop.

The World Council one day must settle down and formulate a doctrine of religious liberty which this movement stands for, and take serious issue with the doctrine of Rome which is totally contrary to it," he said.

He said religious liberty "means more" at the present in Communist Czechoslovakia and Hungary than in predominantly Catholic Spain and Colombia.

The bishop of Chichester, England, the Rev. Dr. George K. A. Bell, said Bishop Barbieri's proposal "goes into deeper and bigger questions" than the council is prepared to appraise at this time.

Church Council Skirts Issue Of Catholic Power

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A demand that the World Council of Churches charge the Roman Catholic Church with suppressing religious liberties in some countries today appeared likely to be dropped.

Officials, assessing sentiment at a meeting of the council's policy-making central committee here, predicted this outcome.

The proposal came last night in an impassioned speech by Methodist Bishop Sante Uberto Barbieri of Argentina, who said religious minorities are oppressed "wherever the Roman Catholic Church is dominant."

"I have been pleading for many years for the World Council to stand up in defense of liberty in these Roman Catholic countries," said the bishop, one of six council presidents.

He termed the Roman Catholic Church a "totalitarian power" and said it forces itself on populations "not by the grandness of the gospel of Jesus Christ, but by political means and treachery."

"We should not keep silent," he said. "We should state the facts of the struggle and insist that the Roman Catholic Church have the same respect for Protestants we have for it."

Mamie Undergoes 'Minor' Surgery

Operation For 'Benign' Condition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower underwent an operation today for a "benign" condition. The White House said the operation was "not serious."

The First Lady, 60, was reported to be in "good condition following the surgery."

The operation was performed at Walter Reed Hospital by an Army gynecologist, Dr. Humbert L. Riva.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Mrs. Eisenhower entered the operating room about 8 a.m. and the surgery was concluded two hours later.

Soon after the operation, Mrs. Eisenhower was able to talk with the President by telephone. He had talked with her last night by phone and again this morning before her operation. Hagerty said the President would visit her this afternoon.

Hagerty said he was not able to describe the actual nature of the operation beyond saying it was for a "benign" condition, that it was not a tumor.

Hagerty said it has been known for "quite a little time" that the First Lady would require surgery. He added that it was not an emergency operation and that Mrs. Eisenhower had not been in pain.

Her son, Maj. John S. Eisenhower, and his wife, spent most of last evening with her at the hospital.

Hagerty read newsmen the following announcement just as the meeting of the President and the congressional leaders was breaking up:

"Mrs. Eisenhower entered Walter Reed Army Hospital yesterday. "This morning she underwent an operation for a benign condition."

"The operation, performed by Dr. Humbert L. Riva was successful. "Mrs. Eisenhower's condition is good."

Hagerty said he did not plan to issue any medical bulletins on her condition. He said, however, he would make it known immediately if any complications developed.

Mrs. Eisenhower returned Saturday from a week's visit to Denver. She appeared to reporters there to be feeling well, but was accompanied on the trip by the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder.

In Denver she took part in a ceremony dedicating the new Mamie Doud Eisenhower Park. The ceremony was cut short in order to save the physical strain on Mrs. Eisenhower on an extremely hot day.

Eisenhower himself has said Mrs. Eisenhower's health is not as robust as might be wished and she has led a less active life in the White House. At various times she has rested in bed for several days.

She is known to have suffered some impairment of the heart as the result of an undiagnosed illness many years ago.

Last June, Mrs. Eisenhower spent three days at Walter Reed undergoing what was described at the time as a routine check-up. Afterward, her physician reported: "Everything is fine."

Questions about Mrs. Eisenhower's health arose in 1956 when the President was considering running for a second term. It was at that time that the President described her health as less than robust but he said at the same time that he regarded her as a well person.

Car-Banging Wife 'Loves' Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Yards of shredded fenders posed a problem today for body and fender men, the Los Angeles police, and the man and woman whose troubles led to a bang-up auto chase.

Police say it'll be up to Robert Smallfield whether to file charges against his ex-wife, Wilma, 42, for the miles-long chase in which she smashed into his new car eight times with her heavy, 1949 sedan.

Smallfield, also 42, seemed inclined to forget things. "She's in enough trouble already," he said. And though police booked her on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, they don't think it'll stick unless Smallfield brings charges.

Miss Texas And Runners-Up

Carolyn Calvert, center, Miss Texas of 1957, is congratulated by Beverly Ann Burmeister, left, of Fort Worth, first runner-up and Gaylyn Baker of Houston, right, after she was crowned at Kerrville. Miss Calvert, 18, is a 5-foot 5 1/2-inch beauty from Austin and her vital statistics are 34-24-37.

Negotiators Agree On New Wage Scale

Representatives of the bricklayer's union and local contractors reached wage agreements Monday afternoon. Not only the bricklayers, but cement finishers, tilesetters, and plasterers will be affected by the new wages.

All proposals will have to be approved by the respective groups, however, before a contract can be signed. The groups had tried in March to reach an agreement, but the union later rejected the contractors' proposal.

Fred Kasch, chairman of the Association of General Contractors labor relations committee, J. D. Jones, of the same committee, and Hugh Welch, AGC secretary from San Angelo, formed the contractors' bargaining group.

Robert Pearson, business agent for the bricklayers union, C. E. Suggs, and Joe Marasek, national union representative from Houston, were the union representatives.

After discussing the current increase in living costs, the contractors committee proposed raises for plasterers to $3.25 (now $3), tilesetters to $3, and an increasing scale for cement finishers and bricklayers.

The cement finishers will receive a 12.5 cent raise on Oct. 1, making the wage $3.625, and another 12.5 cent raise on Jan. 1, 1958, making a top wage of $3.75. Contract for the plasterers, tilesetters, and cement finishers would run through Jan. 1, 1958.

For the bricklayers, the contractors committee proposed a 12.4 cent increase (to $3.875) on Oct. 1 and an additional 12.5 cents on Jan. 1, bringing the wage to $4. This proposal would be "an extended agreement" and no length was definitely termed.

As a result of the talks, both committees must return to their organizations and obtain approval before a contract may be signed. The unions will hold a meeting here Aug. 16, and Kasch said the contractors would meet sometime before then. Whether both groups give approval to the wage increases, a meeting will be held Aug. 19 between the representatives.

This meeting will be to firm up the contracts or to report any disapproval of the proposals.

Search Abandoned For Missing Escort Of Assault Victim

FORT WORTH (AP)—Police have abandoned a search for the missing escort of a woman who said she was raped by a Negro yesterday.

Early yesterday an expectant mother, 18, told police she was raped at gunpoint by a Negro who then kidnaped her male companion.

She identified her companion as "Bill Jenkins," and police started a search. Last night, a man called Detective Chick Matlock and said: "I'm that Bill Jenkins you want. Only my name isn't really Bill Jenkins."

The man, who didn't identify himself, said the Negro drove him around after the attack and threatened him. The man escaped. The man told Matlock he had been hiding because he was married and had been out with the woman under an assumed name. He said he finally decided to call police after hearing of the search for the missing escort.

Demonstrators Set Attempt To Enter Atom Test Area

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Demonstrators against nuclear tests say they'll try to enter the heavily guarded Nevada test site today on the 12th anniversary of the first atomic bomb.

Members of the Committee for Nonviolent Action Against Nuclear Weapons were in meditation early today. Their spokesman said they will begin an early morning "prayer vigil" outside the gate to Camp Mercury, the Atomic Energy Commission's test organization headquarters.

Approximately at midmorning, according to plan, an 11-member team will attempt to enter the gate and penetrate into the restricted test site itself.

Lawrence Scott, 48, Chicago, team coordinator, said the demonstrators fully expect to be arrested, "but will stop when the arresting authority orders us to halt."

"We think the testing program is so opposed to the moral law of the universe that some of us are willing to suffer loss of liberty by imprisonment, and some even loss of life if necessary, in order to register our protest," he said.

The committee, organized in May to carry out the demonstration here, is made up of representatives from several pacifist groups. Although Scott is a Baptist minister, the committee is not officially connected with any church group.

Meantime, in the 1957 atomic test series a detonation scheduled for today was postponed 24 hours because of strong winds. There have been 10 test explosions this year, the last one July 25.

DUCKBILLING AND COOING IS TOO MUCH FOR LADY PLATYPUS

NEW YORK (AP)—Penelope the platypus has waddled out on her amorous mate Cecil in a tiff over his duckbilled and cooing. Penelope wasn't lovelic; she was just sick of love. So she packed up and pulled out of the platypusary at the Bronx Zoo.

Keepers are combing ponds in the zoo for the rare Australian mammal with the duckbill, webfeet and broad-tail. Penelope and Cecil are the only platypuses living outside Australia.

The lovers' quarrel started about a month ago. Cecil began dragging Penelope about their pool. She didn't cotton to his ways of wooing. The two were separated.

But Cecil found a way of wiggling through to Penelope's sleeping quarters in a mud bank.

In desperation Penelope promptly performed the seemingly impossible. She squeezed under a heavy wire mesh screen and escaped.

Cecil seems upset. He spends a lot of time scratching his furred head, apparently wondering where reluctant Penelope has wandered.

AMARILLO (AP)—An Abilene youth was killed and two other persons were injured yesterday in a two-car collision here. Charles Marshall, 16, was the victim.

Return From European Tour

Comedian Red Skelton and his family leave their plane at Idlewild Airport, New York, as they returned from a three-week tour of Europe. Skelton took his son, Richard, 9, a victim of leukemia, to Europe to give him a chance to see some of the places he had read about. Skelton said he left London abruptly because of criticism of his tour by what he termed a "scandal sheet." Below Red and Dick, on the plane ramp, are his wife and daughter, Valentia, 10.

New York Calls Out Student Cops To Combat Youth Crime

NEW YORK (AP)—The city's 600 student policemen start pounding beats tonight on shadowy streets where youth crime is most likely to erupt. The emergency move was ordered yesterday after a hastily called meeting of city and state officials. They met to plan a counterattack against a recent rash of juvenile crime. There have been three killings and a series of beatings and brawls involving teen-agers in the past 11 days. The young rookies will be armed with nightsticks and pistols. Each rookie's beat will be linked with two others manned by experienced patrolmen. The rookies are going into battle in such potentially dangerous areas as the Red Hook section of Brooklyn and Washington Heights in Manhattan. They will walk their beats from 6 to 12 p.m.—the critical hours for teen-age violence. The rookies are probationary patrolmen enrolled at the police academy. They were sworn in last June 28. The city's 23,000-man regular police force are under a special order alerting them against outbreaks of juvenile crime, Teams of detectives have been assigned to areas where youth gangsterism occurred recently. The department also ordered a special watch on taverns that may be selling liquor or beer to youths under 18. The meeting of city and state officials brought together Gov. Averell Harriman's State Youth Commission, the City Youth Board and Police Department youth crime experts. After the meeting, William R. Peet, executive secretary to Mayor Robert F. Wagner, made the announcement about the rookie patrolmen. He added, however: "This does not mean that more police is the specific for eliminating juvenile crime. . . . The responsibility for keeping kids out of trouble goes back to the parents," Peet said. "They should know where their children are, especially at night. Although we are doing all we can, the problem will never be solved until parents realize their responsibilities." The mayor's secretary disclosed there were 29 deaths from juvenile violence in the city in 1956. The count so far this year is 22.

Crash Of Private Plane Kills 5

MONROE, La. (AP)—A grandfather, his three sons and two grandchildren were killed yesterday when their plane crashed in an empty field. The single engine aircraft apparently stalled and dived into the soft earth, almost burying itself. Only a piece of the tail was visible. Killed were the grandfather, J. W. Johnson, 73, Monroe; William Noble Johnson, 45, and his 17-year-old daughter, Zanaastatia; Andrew G. Johnson, 43, and his 5-year-old son, Robert; and A. O. Johnson, 52, San Luis Obispo, Calif., pilot and owner of the plane.

Warmer Weather U. S. Prospect

By The Associated Press
Warmer temperatures were in the works today from the Central Plains to the western Great Lakes but cool Canadian air still held sway over the rest of the eastern half of the nation. Generally fair skies covered the East except in Texas, Georgia and Florida, where a stubborn pattern of thunderstorms continued. Scattered thundershowers were expected later in the day from the Dakotas to the West Coast and in the central and southern Rocky Mountains and Plateau regions. Cool Pacific air was edging slowly eastward into Montana and Utah. Temperatures in the cool air mass moving over most of the East ranged from the 50s in the Great Lakes and northern portions of the Atlantic Coast states to the 70s from the northern and southern Plains through the Gulf Coast.

Attorneys Continue Libel Jury Search

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Defense and prosecution attorneys today continued their search for a jury to try Confidential magazine and other defendants on charges of printing libelous and obscene material. The search has used up one 50-member panel and gone well into a second without producing 12 men and women with minds free and open enough to satisfy counsel.

Junior College Registrars Hold Meeting Here

Twenty registrars and their assistants from 10 public junior colleges in as many counties in West Texas were in Big Spring Monday for an all-day conference at the Howard County Junior College. B. M. Keese, registrar of HCJC, explained that the meeting was one of three such meetings being held this week and early next week in the state. The conferences were arranged by B. W. Musgraves, executive secretary of the Texas Council of Public Junior Colleges. Musgraves, who was at the Big Spring meeting, explained that heretofore a similar meeting has been held but in the past all of the registrars from the 31 public junior colleges in the state have had to go to Austin. As a result, attendance was never 100 per cent. This year, Musgraves has scheduled three divisional conferences. The first was the one here. Tuesday a similar meeting will be in Victoria and a third and final meeting will be conducted later. Attending the meeting here were representatives from San Angelo, Clarendon, Hardin Junior College of Wichita Falls, Frank Phillips College of Borger, Ranger, Cisco, Amarillo, Odessa and Big Spring. Purpose of the meeting, Keese explained, was to go over new legislation relating to junior colleges enacted by the recent Legislature: to consider details of the annual statistical report which each junior college must file with the Texas Education Agency on Nov. 1. This report is of vital importance to the colleges since from what it reveals, the college receives state aid. Keese said that $20,000 was allocated by the state education agency to HCJC last year. The meeting opened at 10 a.m. and closed at 3 p.m. Marvin Baker, assistant to the president of HCJC, and Keese served as hosts for the meeting. Keese said that all 29 of the officials present were pleased with the meeting and enthusiastic over the plan of Musgraves to hold three meetings, geographically located, rather than the one meeting in Austin.

'Sweetheart' Labor Practices Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "sweetheart" contract allegedly engineered by New York racketeer Johnny Dio today comes under scrutiny of senators investigating improper labor-management practices. "Sweetheart" is the term used for labor contracts in which union officials and employers allegedly reach terms to benefit themselves, but which provide few benefits for the workers bound by them. Dio, also known as John Dioguardi, was convicted in a New York court last month of a union shakedown conspiracy involving two New York electroplating firms. He has not yet been sentenced on the charge. Testimony at that trial indicated that the Equitable Research Associates, Inc., which he set up as a labor consultation service, actually was a shakedown racket to sell labor peace for a price. Dio himself is expected to be summoned later as a witness. At yesterday's hearing, two alleged associates of Dio invoked the Fifth Amendment more than 50 times between them. Sleek, wavy-haired Milton Holt, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 805, refused to tell more than his name and Flushing, N.Y., address. He declined to say whether Dio actually controls this local. Holt even invoked the Fifth Amendment when Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) asked, "Do you care what you are doing—you and those like you . . . trying to obstruct the work of your government in trying to provide better working conditions?" Kennedy said Holt is under indictment on charges of lying under oath to a grand jury investigating Dio's activities. Philip Kazansky of Monticello, N.Y., prosperous looking recording secretary of Teamster Local 269, also refused to answer questions about Dio or union affairs. Both witnesses said their answers might tend to incriminate them. Another witness, Sam Getlan, swore he never had heard of a Teamsters' Union local in New York which had listed him as its president in 1956. Nor, he said, did he cast a vote recorded as having been cast by him in the election of New York Teamsters Joint Council 16. The local—No. 258—is one of seven the committee has termed ghost or "paper" locals which had officers but no members. It alleges they were created to swell the number of votes for James O'Rourke for president of the council. Each local had seven votes regardless of its size. O'Rourke was supported by James R. Hoffa, Midwest Teamster boss who is in line to succeed Dave Beck as the Teamsters' international president. Paul Tierney, a committee investigator, testified that 42 votes were cast by the seven paper locals. He said Beck issued instructions that the 42 ballots should be counted only if necessary to decide the election. Getlan identified himself as secretary-treasurer of Jewelry Workers Union Local 26, which he said is a union for coin machine operators. Getlan testified that in 1928-29 he serviced slot machines for gambler Frank Costello in New York City. Later he went to Miami where he said he was making a profit of $6,500-$7,000 a week from slot machine operators there until the machines were outlawed.

Moonwatchers To Commence Training

F. B. McCormick, president of the Big Spring organization cooperating with the man-made satellite observation program—a feature of the celebration of the International Geophysical Year—announced that a general meeting of all members will be conducted on Aug. 14 at the Howard County Junior College. He said that Maj. James V. Gilliland, who is the official instructor for the group, has been absent from Webb Air Force Base and has now returned. The meeting on Aug. 14 will be one of a series of general meetings, he explained, at which the volunteer sky watchers will be instructed in their duties. These initial meetings will be classroom sessions, he said. The meetings are to be at 7:30 p.m. Teams from Webb, from the junior college and from Cosden, as well as volunteers from the town at large, are asked to be present. From the general group, he said, a selected corps of key men will be chosen as directors of each observation team. These key men will be provided with highly specialized training going beyond that afforded to the observers in general. McCormick said that the last elements of the electronic timing equipment to be used in the studies of the satellite are now arriving and that within a month all equipment for the work should be here and in place. The observation area is just east of the Howard County Junior College. All physical facilities are already erected and in place. No definite date for launching the man-made satellite has been announced, McCormick said, but it was pointed out that extensive and comprehensive training of observers must be completed long before the actual time the teams will be needed. Any person who is interested in this unusual scientific experiment and sincerely concerned in cooperating with the program is cordially invited to attend the meeting on Aug. 14. Announcement of dates for the future meetings will be made by McCormick later in the season.

TALK ABOUT ECONOMY... FORDS COST LESS PER MILE!

Fords cost less to buy! Fords cost less to run!

No doubt about it! Model for model, right across the board, Ford cars are the lowest priced* of the low-price three. And don't be fooled by those "low prices" now being quoted for some "stripped down" models in the medium-price field. Remember, a '57 Ford equipped the way most people want a car today—with automatic transmission, heater and radio—costs hundreds of dollars less than these medium-priced cars, similarly equipped.* Any way you look at it, Fords cost less to buy. In the only nationally recognized test of gasoline economy, the 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run, a Ford Six delivered more miles per gallon than any other car entered! This, remember, was no "private test" conducted for the benefit of a single manufacturer. This was grueling competition between 12 different makes of cars, 24 cars in all . . . supervised every mile of the way by officials of the United States Auto Club. And when the rugged 1568-mile test was over, Ford led all other cars regardless of size, weight or price in the thing you want most—actual miles per gallon!

Fords cost less to trade!

Latest official auction sale figures on used cars show clearly that the new kind of Ford commands a higher price than either of its two low-priced competitors. The men who bid at these auctions are professional buyers—men whose very livelihood depends upon their expert knowledge of cars. They pay more for used Fords because they know that Fords hold up in value. Like thousands of Ford owners from coast to coast, they have discovered that Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it, too!

Staff Judge Advocate To Leave Webb For FTAF Job

Maj. James J. Vogel, staff judge advocate at Webb AFB for nearly two years, is being transferred to headquarters of the Flying Training Air Force, Randolph Field.

Maj. JAMES J. VOGEL

At Randolph, he will serve as chief of the military justice division in the office of the FTAF staff judge advocate.

His transfer leaves only Lt. Byron Chudum in the legal office at Webb. Other members of the legal staff who have left Webb recently are Lt. Robert Grew and Lt. Lester Bates.

Vogel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Vogel, Bradford, Pa. He was graduated from St. Bernard's High School in Bradford in 1930. He attended the College of Arts and Sciences at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., and was graduated from the University Law School there in 1936. He entered the practice of law in his hometown and remained there until his entry into service in 1942.

Vogel enlisted in the Army in March 1942 and served for one year as a special agent with the provost marshal general's investigation division. He was commissioned a lieutenant in the Corps of Military Police. After a short tour in Washington, D. C., he went overseas with the Allied Military Government in September, 1943. He served as the district attorney of Naples, Italy, and later as a provincial legal officer and judge in Milan and province of Sondrio. Upon his release from service in 1946, he returned to the active practice of law until his recall to active duty in 1949.

Upon recall to duty, Maj. Vogel served as the base staff judge advocate at Stewart AFB, N. Y. From there he was assigned to the 370th Defense Wing at Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich., where he

British Official To Visit Webb

Austin Wheatley, British correspondent and currently a member of the British Consulate-General, Houston, will visit Webb and speak to base personnel Aug. 21.

Wheatley, who has traveled extensively in Europe, South Africa, India, Burma, Malaya, and Canada, has been based in the United States since May, 1953, when he became the British Government spokesman for the American Southwest.

In addition to a career as a journalist and editor, Wheatley, 46, emerged from World War II with a notable record of service as an officer in the RAF. As a Squadron leader, he was awarded the MBE by King George VI in Victory Honours List. He was also staff officer to Admiral Lord Mountbatten, Supreme Commander in Southeast Asia, and served as liaison officer, RAF to the United States Air Force Headquarters, China-Burma-India Theater.

Tentatively scheduled to give two lectures during his visit here, Wheatley will speak on international relations.

New At Webb

A-1C Robert W. Paul, above, has been assigned to the Office of Information Services at Webb AFB. Paul, a major in the USAF reserve, was transferred here from Mather AFB, Calif. His military career dates back to 1936. His service has included three years as assistant professor of air science and tactics on the AFOTC staff of Maryland University.

Jess Talkin

My summer's battle with the motel keepers has started again. I don't know why I have so much trouble with these people. All I want is a nice, quiet room with an inner spring mattress, TV and maybe a washing machine to do some laundering. But try and get one for $4 and see how long you'll hunt.

So far I've been lucky. The tourist business is off so much that some motel owners don't have one fifty-dollar bill to rub against another. About the only courts that fill up every night are the big, fancy ones. The smaller ones have "Vacancy" signs hanging out all night.

The lady running this court in Greeley, Colo., says that tornadoes, floods and a cool spring have kept people at home. I can believe the part about the coolness by looking up at the mountains. There is more snow on them now than there was a month earlier last year.

The snow pack is unusually heavy and the little mountain streams are all rushing down the slope, feeding water into the Arkansas and Platte which are almost at flood stage.

The melting snow plus some heavy showers has given farmers more irrigation water than they can use. In the Arkansas Valley, which flows through the old Dust Bowl area, they are raising big crops of corn, sugar beets, potatoes, alfalfa, and almost anything you can mention except cotton. The valley is filled with Latin-American workers, and farmers are in high spirits.

The ranchers in the upland areas are not so jubilant. The spring rains greened up ranges, but when the July heat wave changed the green to brown, they found all the growth was weeds. Not much grass came back; however, pastures are in better shape than last year.

Today I visited one of the biggest cattle feeding projects in the country. The Longmont Feeding pens of Greeley cover 80 acres of land and at present hold over 1,800 steers. Mr. Longmont said that at times he had as many as 25,000 on feed.

Where other feeders have gone broke, he seems to have made plenty of money. He started out

25 years ago as a poor, young farmer. He started feeding out a few cows every year and trading in them, and gradually worked his way up to about the biggest in the U.S.

He doesn't go in for any fancy feed mixes. He puts protein meal, barley, corn and other feeds separately into a truck. The only mixing done is when the dump truck tilts the feed over into the pens.

"Some of the experts laugh at my methods," Longmont said. "What I learned was from experience, but I believe our per-pound gain for each dollar spent will compare favorably with any feeding operator anywhere."

I went up in a one-man elevator to the top of the big plant, which seemed a quarter mile high, and took a picture of those 18,000 steers. It was quite a sight, but I couldn't enjoy it. There were no stairs and I was wondering what would happen if the elevator got stuck. The only way to get out would have been by helicopter.

I thought I was a Scotchman in holding down travelling expenses until I met Ben Neilson. He can stay on the road a week for what I'd spend in one day.

I met Ben along some of that no-man's land between Trinidad and La Junta. When I stopped, he was out in a borrow pit grazing his chickens. He had a string tied to the rooster's foot while the cock-a-doodler was chasing grasshoppers.

"As long as I got hold of the rooster, the hens will come back to the coop," he explained.

Neilson, a lanky six-footer, had a 1950 model pick-up loaded with two chicken coops, pots, pans, a tool kit, lantern and other things essential for a travelling man.

He was on his way from Michigan back to his ranch job on the western slope of New Mexico. Every spring Ben takes off for four months, goes to see his sister in Michigan for a month, and spends the other time just roaming around.

"They won't tend to my chickens at the ranch," Ben said, "so I just take them with me. When I saw this green spot and the grasshoppers, just thought I'd stop and let them get some fresh vittles."

Ben hardly knows what a motel is. When the weather is dry, he unrolls some quilts and sleeps on the ground. If it's raining he piles one hen coop on top of the other, and sleeps in the bed of the pick-up.

I told him he had almost everything a country boy needed except a milk cow.

"Been thinkin' about tryin' to find a good milk goat," he said seriously. "Believe I could add a couple feet to the truck bed and haul her. Be nice to have milk and eggs both."

Ben invited me to stay for dinner, as he tied up the rooster and started to build a brush fire, but I had already lost too much time, and started across the road to the car.

As I whizzed off toward La Junta, the seven hens were drifting back to the ancient red rooster, and Ben was putting on coffee water.

Just a chance meeting of two pilgrims—one a sweating peon who had tried to make every minute count for fear of starving. The other was an aristocrat of the highway, with time to meander along and gaze at the clouds hitting high-center on the snow-capped Rockies. Or if at night a cold wind swept down from the hills, he could lie in the pick-up and listen to the distant rumble of thunder mingling with the snores of the red rooster.

I hope to cross trails with Ben Neilson again some day. Next time I will stay and have coffee with him—and may flavor it with a spoonful of goat's milk.

Bypassing The Bill Of Rights

Magna Charta provided that no freeman should be taken or imprisoned "but by the lawful judgment of his peers or by the law of the land." "His peers" means trial by a "jury of his peers," a familiar phrase.

Article VI of the Bill of Rights reads: "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law," and so on.

Under the no-jury trial for persons accused of contempt of court for disobeying a court injunction restraining him from interfering with the voting rights of any citizen, as the pending civil rights legislation in the Senate provided, a person charged essentially with a civil offense could be given punishment equal to that he could have received for a criminal offense.

In essence, 51 members of the U. S. Senate thought this violated the constitutional right of every citizen to trial by a jury of his peers, and put in an amendment calling for a jury trial in such cases.

To go on with quotation of Article VI: "... ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defense."

As originally written the pending measure would have bypassed most of these provisions, and by his own unsearchable act a judge could stack a defendant deep in some jail somewhere for the same length of time, not to mention a monetary assessment, equal to that a jury of his peers might have determined—not for interfering with somebody's voting rights but for being contemptuous of the court.

This seems to smack of creating a set of artificial circumstances under which a man without reference to a grand jury, could be punished for doing something for which he had not been indicted, had not had the privilege of presenting testimony in his own defense, and had not had the protection of a jury of his peers.

Training For Government Work

Maxwell H. Gluck, a semiretired businessman, had a desire to "get into a government position" where he could "do some good." He was appointed ambassador to Ceylon, and the United States Senate confirmed the nomination without dissent or discussion. Now it is disclosed that when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee questioned him he displayed very little knowledge of Ceylon or of foreign affairs.

President Eisenhower has warmly denied that Mr. Gluck was appointed because he made a sizable contribution to Republican campaign coffers. He also declared that he expected the new ambassador to show the capacity to learn what he needs to know to do his job. The history of diplomatic appointments tends to support his confidence. Some non-experts have been most successful.

Yet few would contend that the system so long followed by both parties in handing out diplomatic posts to "amateurs" is wholly satisfactory. Certainly it is reckless "economy" which refuses to pay enough of the costs of several key posts to that career men could afford to serve in them. Spots like London and Paris are thus left to men who are endowed—we must hope—with ability as well as dollars.

The United States has been making progress over the last three decades in building up a career service in the foreign field. But its new role in the world demands even faster steps. Too few Americans are like Mr. Gluck in their desire to serve and "do some good." But foreign service may not be the place for them. If they are enlisted for it, both the appointing and confirming authorities should exercise real care.

The decision of the Senate to hold open hearings in future on diplomatic appointments should help to turn the spotlight on a matter that is neither so amusing nor so simple as most of the comment on the Gluck case would indicate.

A Man Qualified To Be An Ambassador

Once upon a time, one of the wisest men of our age told me that even a ninnyhammer could look fairly good in public if only he did his homework.

If a feller is willing to dig in and get the facts on a situation before he starts spouting in public, he can often pass for a fairly able man, in the opinion of Bernard M. Baruch. It is not Mr. Baruch's opinion that too many public and semi-public figures in his lifetime have needlessly looked like self-anointed ninnyhammers because they failed to do their homework.

These words of wisdom came to mind the other day when an Administration appointee to a diplomatic post in the Far East flunked his oral examination before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee simply because he had failed to do elementary homework. Facts available in any encyclopedia or almanac would have saved him and the Administration excruciating embarrassment.

I can forgive a man who cannot pronounce Jawaharlal Nehru's front name or even make a stab at that of Ceylon's prime minister, S. W. R. D. Bandaranaike, as this Presidential nominee for an ambassadorship could not.

But I cannot forgive an American citizen of sufficient worth and importance to be considered for an ambassadorial post who has not read the withering indictment of Russia in the instance of its murderous suppression of the Hungarian uprising—an indictment brought against the U.S.S.R. by a special committee of the United Nations last June.

The ambassadorial nominee admitted that he had not "noticed" this scorching arraignment of Russia and communism, laid on the record for all to see, although it is one of the most important public documents of the postwar era.

This indictment is MUST reading for every American. It is too late to do anything for the suffering Hungarians, but it is one more under-scoring of communism's brutal contempt for the individual and for liberty.

So if the Administration is looking for good diplomatic timber, with homework up to date, I would suggest George Abrams, 25, of Newton, Mass. Mr. Abrams, who has just finished his studies at Harvard Law School, is one of the American delegates to the World Youth Festival in Moscow.

This young man went to the Russian rally armed with the report of the United Nations' Special Committee on Hungary. Whenever he found a likely street corner in Moscow, Mr. Abrams started reading the Hungarian report to Russian street crowds.

There was always one or two Russians in the throng who knew English and could give the audience a running translation. If and when members of the crowd wanted to dispute the facts, Mr. Abrams was ready and armed for bear—Russian bear, come to think of it.

Through Mr. Abrams' missionary efforts and homework at least a few Russians found out what the civilized world thinks of Communist brutality in Hungary.

Of course, unless Mr. Abrams is a rich man and can afford to support a diplomatic post, he can't hope to be an ambassador. Fundamentally, what is wrong with the American foreign service is that the U. S. Congress and people are too stingy to pick up the full check for our diplomatic posts. Rich men must, therefore, be appointed to ambassadorial office, to pay the freight. This is real diplomacy and it begins at home.

What Others Say

You are not working for yourself when you report to your job every Monday. During a portion of every week of the year, including your paid vacation, the various taxing authorities are getting their percentage of your earnings.

Some of these taxes you only pay once a year, such as local real estate taxes. If you are a salaried worker, the federal government takes the first slice out of your wages every pay day for income taxes. Smokers pay a federal and state tax more frequently. So do motorists when they buy gasoline.

Most taxpayers know how much they pay in income taxes every pay day of every year. Few have ever figured out how many days a week they work to support the ever-expanding federal bureaucracy, the state government, and local taxing authorities.

The Tax Foundation, Inc., has worked out this mathematical problem. The answer is tough to take. An American with an $85-a-week salary works slightly more than 1½ days a week to pay his various tax bills over a one-year period.

This average person, the corporation says, spends more time working to cover his tax bills than he does for any other single purpose. Only the amounts of time spent on the job to earn money for food comes anywhere near the tax figure.

Here is how the average American's week breaks down: Food, 8½ hours; housing, 7; transportation, 3½; clothing 3; medical and personal care, 2; recreation 1½ all others, 2 hours.

Rights Bill Hit With Shotgun

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats aimed at one bird in the civil rights bill. But they used a shotgun and hit everything in sight.

They acted so hastily in amending President Eisenhower's civil rights bill—with the help of a handful of Republicans—that right now they don't know all they hit or the full effect of what they did.

At least 40 laws, many government agencies and all the federal courts are affected. That much is known.

Eisenhower reportedly will veto this bill if the House agrees to what the Senate did and sends it to him. Because of the measure's widespread and uncertain effect, it's hard to see how he could do otherwise, even though vetoing it puts him on a political hot-spot with Negro voters.

The bill was intended to protect Negroes' voting rights. It gives them far more protection than they've ever had. But its effects go far beyond voting rights.

The Eisenhower administration proposed letting the attorney general step in when Negroes' voting rights are violated. He could ask a federal judge for a court order to stop the violations.

Anyone disobeying could—after a trial on a charge of civil contempt—be jailed until he complied. Anyone disobeying after it was too late for compliance could be given a flat jail sentence for criminal contempt of court.

In both cases—civil and criminal contempt—the judge, without a jury, would do the trying and sentencing under the administration's proposal. There is nothing new in this. Trial by judge for contempt of court has existed throughout American history.

Southern Democrats did not argue against trial by a judge alone for civil contempt. But for criminal contempt they demanded a jury trial. Some Northern Democrats, avoiding a split in the party agreed to that and then went far beyond it.

A number of laws provide for court orders—and trial by a judge for criminal contempt—but no one knows how many. The latest count, before the vote Thursday night, was 40.

Tied in with those laws are many government agencies—like the Securities and Exchange Commission, the National Labor Relations Board, the Federal Communications Commission—which depend on court orders for final carrying out of their rulings.

Also affected are such laws as the Antitrust Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act which, with the government trying to carry them out, depend in the end on a court order to compel compliance.

Around The Rim

Indian Lender-Wants Book Back

The other day a friend of mine here received a note from my former home town and in that letter, the writer mentioned me and said some very nice things about me.

The Big Spring man who received the letter called me on the phone and read me the note.

"Do you know Ed Ewell?" he asked. Do I know Ed Ewell? I'll always remember him.

Here's why: I occasionally borrow books from friends. Sometimes I return those books. Eventually, at any rate, if I happen to remember it and notice the book sometimes when it seems very convenient.

Once upon a time about 1984, I borrowed a book from Ed Ewell.

It was a copy of Sir James Jeans' "Expanding Universe."

A very hard book, if you please, to read. I got along fine with some of it but when I ran into a chapter devoted to the scientific theory that all space is curved, I sort of bogged. I re-read the paragraphs and instead of becoming more intelligible they became less so. I laid the book aside.

From time to time, I'd pick it up and try again. I never mastered it but I believe if I had had enough time I would have.

Anyway, I was making it a sort of long-range project—this trying to understand about curvature of space. I was making a little progress I think.

Well, time flitted away as it has a habit of doing. One day in 1984, or thereabouts, I had only had the book some 20 years as I remember and was still not more than half-way through it! I met Ed Ewell on the sidewalk.

"Sam," said Ed, friendly-like, "I would like to have my book back."

I raised classic eyebrows. "Your book?" I interrogated. "What book is that?"

"My copy of Jeans' 'Expanding Universe,'" replied Ewell. "You borrowed it on Sept. 11, 1984."

"I bought it for myself," he went on to say, "and I intended for my son to read it but you had it during the years when he was in school."

"If you're through with it," he said, "I'd kinda like for my grandchildren to read it."

"Well, I wasn't through reading it. I still lacked umpteen pages of being to the final chapter. As a matter of fact I was still stuck on that middle chapter—dealing with the curvature of space."

But what could I do? If the man was going to be impatient-like and want back his book that he had loaned me before I finished reading it, what was there left for me to do but return it?

So that's what I did. I took it out of the book shelf (it had been there long enough I had about come to regard it as a permanent resident), wrapped it neatly in a bit of paper.

Then I sneaked up to his office, while he was absent, and left it on the desk. The next day I warned all of my book-borrowing friends not to borrow one from Ed Ewell.

"He'll want it back," I told them, "Mebbe before you get through reading it."

Southern Leadership On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON.—The deep feeling of disillusion over the sham battle that finally killed any effective civil-rights legislation for this session is bound to be translated sooner or later into results where they count—in the polling booth.

There have already been many predictions of the effect of that midnight showdown stanching the jury-trial amendment to the civil-rights bill. But Northern Democrats, when they speak frankly in private, do not conceal their fears that the fact that only nine Democrats voted against the amendment while 39 voted for it will tell heavily against them with the votes of Negroes in 1960, if not in 1958.

The Southern generalship was superb. On the ramps Senator Richard Russell of Georgia uttered one shrewd rallying cry after another. He said some quite extraordinary things that in the heat of the controversy no one seemed ready to deny.

In the closing days of the debate he warned that if the jury-trial amendment were to be rejected the civil rights bill would apply first in Cook County, Illinois, rather than in the South. The Southerners had made much of racial disturbances in Chicago which had called for action by large numbers of police.

"If some public official in Cook County goes to persons whom he has helped to get jobs and tells them they had better vote 'this way' or else they may lose their jobs," Russell told the Senate, "he will subject himself to this harsh injunctive process because he will be threatening or coercing another person in relation to voting under the terms of the bill and will be subject to an injunction."

It happens, of course, that what Russell described is already a violation of law. No one rose to challenge this remarkable statement.

That illustrates the weakness on the Republican side. Senator William Knowland, the Minority Leader, was firm and determined in his opposition to the jury-trial amendment. But neither he nor any other Republican showed the articulateness, the persistence and the resourcefulness of Russell and other Southerners.

The chief of staff directing operations from his well-organized command headquarters was Senator Lyndon Johnson, the Majority Leader of the Senate. On the phone constantly when he was not working face to face with the doubtful, Johnson cajoled, argued, pleaded. Unity was his theme—we must show that we are not a divided party.

So much of the strategy was sham but it proved effective. Or, at any rate, it was not exposed with comparable force and vigor. The amendment thrown in at the last minute by Senator Frank Church of Idaho to insure the presence of Negroes on Southern juries trying individuals for contempt of court orders against those allegedly interfering with the right to vote was a brilliant and perhaps the decisive maneuver. It is believed to have been inspired by Johnson.

All citizens regardless of race, color or creed have been guaranteed the right to serve on juries as well as the right to vote ever since the Civil War. It is the exercise of those rights that was at stake in the civil-rights bill.

The presence of Negroes on Southern juries in contempt cases involving the right to vote would mean little, according to those who know the South well. The dominant white majority on a jury would over-awe or simply outvote the Negroes who might find themselves in the jury box.

The Church amendment was nevertheless persuasive. It helped to align some labor support behind the jury-trial provision. Actually, as Administration spokesmen argued, there are 36 areas of the law in which a Federal judge can now pass upon a contempt citation without benefit of a jury. This includes the antitrust laws and the Fair-Trade Practices Act.

As so often in the past, President Eisenhower's role is difficult to define. Republicans in the Senate say he did try to make a last-minute effort on the telephone to persuade those who were about to defect. These same sources add that some Senators—John Marshall Butler of Maryland was one—refused to take the Presidential call.

With Democrats voting four to one for the amendment Johnson may rack this up as a score for unity. But as one embittered Northerner remarked in the aftermath, "We'd better be asking ourselves: unity for what?"

The Gallup Poll

Most Voters Lean To States' Rights

PRINCETON, N. J.—President Eisenhower's belief that many of the functions now performed by the Federal Government should be taken over by the states strikes a responsive chord with American public opinion today.

Six out of every 10 voters, or 61 per cent, questioned in a nationwide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion say they tend to agree more with people who believe in States' Rights than with those who believe in greater concentration of power in Washington.

On the other hand, about one voter in five (22 per cent) believes that more problems should be turned over to the Federal Government to try to solve.

President Eisenhower, at the recent Governors' Conference in Williamsburg, Va., called for a new committee to take steps to reverse the flow of governmental power and responsibility from the states to Washington.

The new joint Federal-State Action Committee, composed of nine Governors and seven Federal officials, will hold its first session at Hershey, Pa. this weekend to tackle the complex problem.

Interviewers asked voters in today's survey: "In general, which group do you, yourself, tend to agree with more today—people who believe in States' Rights or those who believe that more problems should be turned over to the government in Washington to try to solve?"

The vote:

	Per cent
States' Rights	61
Federal Government	22
Depends on problem	15
No opinion	2

There are two especially interesting aspects in today's survey.

One is that there is little difference of opinion on the question between Republicans and Democrats today.

Although President Roosevelt's policies on the whole tended to strengthen the power of the Federal Government rather than the power of the States, a majority of Democrats today are in accord with the philosophy of government of Thomas Jefferson, arch states' rights.

The vote by party affiliation:

	Rep. Dem.	Per cent
States' Rights	64	60
Federal Government	19	25
Depends on problem	2	14
No opinion	15	14

The other interesting highlight of the survey is the vote by geographical regions of the country.

Greatest states' right sentiment today is found in the South, which went to war for states' rights 96 years ago, and in the Midwest, while the least sentiment shows up in the East, as follows:

EAST: States' Rights 54 per cent, Federal Government 29 per cent, depends on problem 2 per cent and no opinion 15 per cent.

MIDWEST: States' Rights 62 per cent, Federal Government 19 per cent, depends on problem 3 per cent, and no opinion 16 per cent.

SOUTH: States' Rights 64 per cent, Federal Government 17 per cent, depends on problem 2 per cent, and no opinion 17 per cent.

WEST: States' Rights 62 per cent, depends on problem one per cent, and no opinion 12 per cent.

President Eisenhower has said that many of the functions now performed by the Federal Government could be accomplished by the states at less cost.

It is recognized, of course, that the Federal Government would have to withdraw from some revenue fields it now occupies if the states are to obtain money to pay for these services.

Finger Magic

A set of four soft plastic puppets lets a child enact the story of Goldilocks and the Three Bears on fingers. This is a good type of toy for young travelers as there are no sharp edges to injure them.

Right Kind Of Toys Will Ease Motor Trip

If you're planning a motor trip and taking the small fry along, you'd be wise to consider the importance of the right kind of travel toys. Plan the supply carefully, with the idea of keeping the youngster entertained and quiet for a period of time in a confined space. Collect a reserve group of toys, new to the child, and bring out one when interest in familiar articles begins to lag. Space the presentations with care so that a small supply will last through the journey.

Presbyterian Group Sets School Date

Dates for the St. Paul Presbyterian Church Vacation Bible School were set Monday evening when the Women of the Church met for a business meeting. To be held from Aug. 19 to 29, the school will be concluded with a church supper and a program given by the pupils. Mrs. Charles Wilson presided for the meeting, which was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Leon Moffett.

Mrs. Jim Layman spoke to the group on the topic, "Choosing A Candidate." She stressed the importance of learning what each candidate stands for and also told the necessity of each Christian voting. A round table discussion followed her talk. Twelve members were present.

Pythians Plan For Officer's Visit

When the Pythian Sisters met Monday evening at Castle Hall, they made plans for the Sept. 4 visit of the district deputy, Mrs. Ira Ashley of Lamesa. It was announced that a covered dish dinner will honor past chiefs of the group on Aug. 19 at 7 p.m. Visits to the sick were reported. Mrs. Granville Hahn was elected captain of the degree team by the 19 members attending.

Canning Classes

LAMESA —Canning classes are now in session at the Welfare Center, according to Mrs. R. R. Townsend, in charge of the office. Classes are open to anyone wishing to learn how to can fruits and vegetables and are being taught by Mrs. J. H. Mayberry, public health nurse.

Dates For Social Are Set By NCO Wives

Social affairs for the NCO Wives' Club were announced Monday evening when the club met at the NCO Club. A coffee for newcomers was planned for Aug. 9 at 2 p.m.

Society Hears Of English Visit By Mrs. Grooms

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Federated Missionary Society met recently at the Presbyterian Church with the women of that church as hostesses. Mrs. Jordan Grooms of Big Spring was the guest speaker. Mrs. Grooms told of her trip to England made last summer with her husband on an exchange pastor plan. Mrs. Bill Cook of the Baptist Church was in charge of the games.

The next meeting of the group will be in September at the Baptist Church with Mrs. Cook as chairman of the hostess group. Mrs. Dick Mitchell, of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church will be in charge of the program and Mrs. Veron Gill, Methodist Church, in charge of games. New officers elected by the group were Mrs. R. F. Duncan, president; Mrs. Clyde Berry, vice president, and Mrs. Steve Calverly, secretary. Also during the meeting secret plans were revealed and new names drawn. Refreshments were served by the Presbyterians. Two new members were introduced, Mrs. Lonnie Rogers and Mrs. Herbert Pendly.

Noble Grands Meet With Mrs. Johnson

Mrs. Edgar Johnson was hostess Monday evening for the Past Noble Grand club of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge. Presiding during the meeting was Mrs. M. O. Hamby. The group voted to place the project money into savings. Cards were mailed to the sick members. The members adopted an orphan from the Odd Fellows Home in Corsicana. Each month they will send the boy spending money. The serving table was centered with cut flowers and refreshments featured a pink and green color scheme. Eleven members were present. Mrs. Luther Bonner, 1216 East 16th, was announced as the Sept. 2 hostess.

'ROUND TOWN With Lucille Pickle

There's one family in Big Spring that is really enjoying the breeze whether it's hot or cool. That's the family of EDWIN C. SHIVE. Mr. and Mrs. Shive and their daughter, Charlotte, have come back home after spending two months at A&M College, where he has been studying. He is the director of diversified occupations at the high school, and each summer does work at the college. This is the first time Mrs. Shive has spent the time with him, and she says they are glad to get back here where it's cooler.

PHOEBE ANN RICE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rice, and her friend, Cathy Davis of Dallas, are expected to return here today or Wednesday. Phoebe Ann has been visiting her grandparents and friends in Dallas. Cathy plans to stay here a week. When MRS. FRED McREE of Borger visited her son, William T. Mcree and his family recently, she had a real interest in the growth of Big Spring. Fifty-two years ago she came through here enroute to the Davis Mountains. The trip was made in a covered wagon and the party spent a month here resting their horses. Mr. Mcree took his mother to Dimmitt over the weekend to visit another of her sons, Victor.

Back from a two weeks vacation trip are MR. AND MRS. LEON CAIN and VIRGINIA and MR. AND MRS. EUGENE THOMAS. They toured Southern California, visiting in San Diego, Long Beach and Los Angeles and spent some time in Las Vegas, Nev.

MR. AND MRS. V. H. HAMBY and their two daughters who have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hamby, plan to return to their home in Westmoreland, Calif., Wednesday. Mrs. Hamby is a sister to Mrs. Oscar Nabors, Mrs. Ollie Anderson and J. F. Wheat, with whom the family also visited. They were guests, along with MR. AND MRS. BILL JOHNSON and their three daughters of Phoenix, Ariz., for a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Sunday. The Johnsons left Monday for their home.

Another Big Spring family who spent their vacation in Southern California was MR. AND MRS. S. L. SHRADER and NEWTON. The highlight of the trip was Disneyland.

C. G. Dittos Have Dallas Visitors

KNOTT — Mr. and Mrs. Luther Knight and Sue have returned to their home in Dallas after visiting their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Ditto. Sunday guests in the Ditto home were Mr. and Mrs. Son Ditto and family of Monahans; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Autry and children of Hobbs, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lloyd and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Buster Freeman. Mrs. J. C. Spaulding and Mrs. Johnny Shortes and son of Big Spring were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Haston and Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Irwin.

Weekend visitors in the Lloyd Nichols home in Seagraves were their daughter, Mrs. Earl Newcomer and children. Mrs. O. R. Landon and Mrs. Louis Baggett and children left Monday for their home in Houston after a two-week's visit in the home of Mrs. Landon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nichols.

Clayton Henderson, Odessa, is visiting in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Johnson.

Engaged

Mrs. Ella Weaver of Lamesa is announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Fern, to A-H Eugene Kowalczyk of Oconto Falls, Wisconsin. The wedding will take place at 8 p.m. Aug. 31, in the home of the bride's mother. The prospective bridegroom is stationed at Walker Air Base, Roswell, N. M.

Bennetts Honored At Housewarming

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bennett were honored Monday evening with a housewarming. Their new home is located in the Cedar Ridge Addition.

Host couples for the party were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rhoads, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Wiley and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hull.

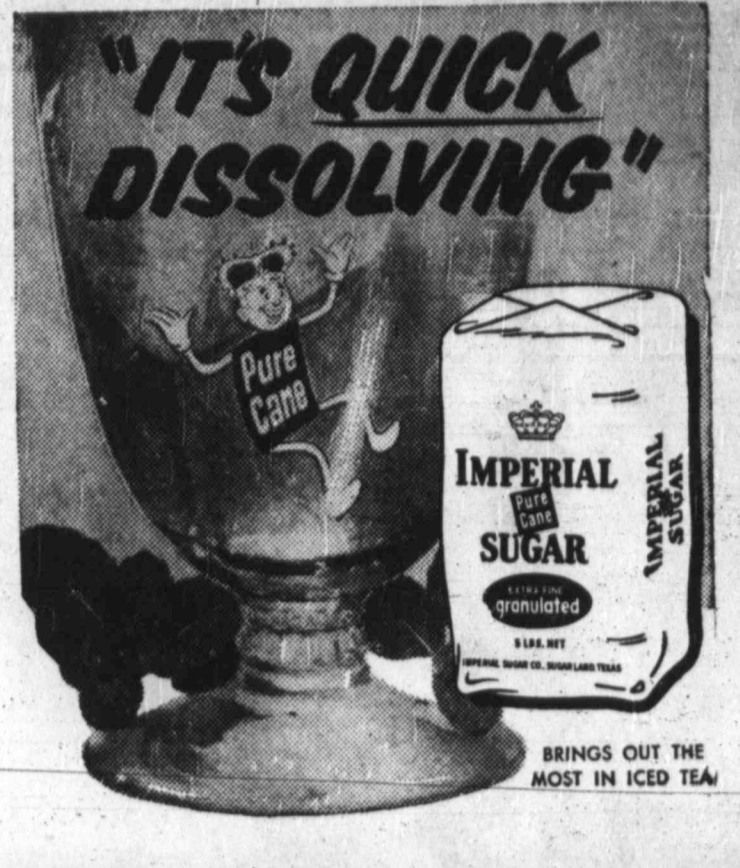

The serving table was covered with a beige and brown linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of garden flowers. Crystal and cut-glass appointments were used for serving.

Assisting with hospitalities was Loretta Bennett. Gifts were displayed in the den.

Thirty couples called during the evening.

Houston Guests

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Barker and Jed of Houston have been visiting in the homes of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cauble and their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Cauble, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Petty and Mr. and Mrs. Buster Cauble and Jeannine.

Ex-Middie Paces Scoring At Webb

Second Lt. Charles G. Curtis has the highest physical fitness test average among the 64 graduating members of Class 57-S at Webb AFB.

Curtis scored a total of 289 points out of a possible 300. He is an engineering major who graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Di Vincenzo Wins But Gene Littler Draws Applause

CHICAGO (AP)—Virtually all the top-name golf pros were girding themselves today for the start of the game's richest event—the $101,500 "World" championship.

Lloyd Mangrum's mark set in 1948, ballooned him to second place with 277, worth $2,300. Sam Snead was third with 278.

North Boasts Best Backs

DALLAS (AP)—The all-star football game of the Texas Coaching School Friday night is shaping up as a battle between the most talented backfield this contest ever saw against probably the biggest and toughest line.

The North coached by Chuck Moser of Abilene, is conceded to have the finest array of backs to appear in this game although it may not have the services of the top one of them—all-Abilene's great Lynn Gregory.

Big Spring Nationals Advance To Finals

ABILENE (SC)—It will be the Big Spring Nationals and Crane in the Sectional Little League baseball finals here tonight, with a trip to Fort Worth awaiting the winner.

Big Spring cleared its semi-final hurdle with an exciting 3-1 victory over Hereford last night. Crane later took the measure of Merkel in a slugfest, 10-6.

The Nationals managed only three hits off Billy Overal, Hereford hurler, but that was two more than Hereford got off Ricky Wisener, Big Spring's strong-armed right-hander.

Big Spring picked up two runs in the third when Alan Dunn walked, Tony Lotis doubled and Lotis scrambled home on a misplay.

That proved enough to win but the Nationals added a tally in the fifth when Jeff Brown clubbed a solo home run.

CARDS GOOD ON ROAD Strange Windup Is Due In NL Race

By ED WILKS The Associated Press With less than eight weeks remaining, that bristling National League pennant race may have a strange windup. The honored home advantage may prove to be like Jonah and the whale—it ain't necessarily so.

St. Louis, in first place by half a game, has more games remaining on the road (29) than at home (23). But the Cards are tops in the league with a 30-18 road mark for a .625 percentage.

Second-place Milwaukee has 25 left at home, 25 left on the road—but it shouldn't matter either way. The Braves are exactly the same at home (31-11) as away.

Brooklyn's third-place Dodgers are best at home with a 31-20 record and play 26 of their remaining 50 at Ebbets Field. But that home bulge is padded with a 16-4 record against the tallenders and the remaining 26 games in Ebbets are split evenly among contenders and the three-team second division.

Cincinnati splits its remaining 30 at home and away, with a 20-22 record at Crosley Field and a 28-24 mark abroad. Philadelphia has 26 remaining at home, 23 away, but the Phillies have been only slightly better in Connie Mack Stadium (28-23) than on the road (29-25).

The Dodgers added their "get fat" trick against the Little Three with a 5-2 victory over the New York Giants last night in the only NL game scheduled. Cleveland ended the New York Yankees' winning streak at eight games with a 7-2 decision in the only American League contest.

The Brooks, now 2 1/2 games out of first, broke a 2-3 tie with a fifth-inning run that scored without a hit, then added two more in the seventh to overcome Willie Mays' one-man show for the Giants. The Dodgers couldn't stop Mays, who had four hits including his 25th homer good for two runs, until they had to.

CARDS GOOD ON ROAD Strange Windup Is Due In NL Race

Hereford picked up its lone tally in the fifth after Van Smith was hit by a pitched ball. Smith eventually scooted home on a bobble. Hereford put two runners on in the last inning when Wisener had trouble with his control but Rick struck out two and forced Willoughby to roll out to the infield, ending the game.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: JACK HURLEY, fight manager-promoter, discussing the upcoming Floyd Patterson-Pete Rademacher fight in Seattle.

CLIPPER SMITH, former Notre Dame football captain: "In the discussion of pep pills, I note Knute Rockne was alleged to be the first to soak sugar cubes in brandy and feed them to the players at half time."

Pitcher HAL BROWN of the Baltimore Orioles, discussing manager Paul Richards with a magazine writer recently: "Paul is watching all the time. You may be just doing some little thing wrong and not realize it. He'll send one of his coaches to tell you or tell you himself. He may even show you by throwing the pitch himself. Heck, outside of a fast ball, he can throw as well as anyone on the club."

Brooklyn's FRESKO THOMPSON, on why he doesn't think Ted Williams will take pep pills: "They're too hard to spit out."

JIMMY CANNON, New York scribe: "Never has there been such a fighter as Hurricane Jackson, no one as pathetic, no one as gay, as innocent, as sombre, as un-talented, as energetic. Always, Jackson appears to be desperately trying to destroy a silence that imprisons him. So he devises small lies to entertain himself as if the facts of his existence were unbearable."

JESS NEELY, Rice Institute grid coach: "George Johnson (the Sonora athlete who passed up a chance to attend Rice for Colorado) was the difference between having a real outstanding freshman team and just a better than average bunch. The one thing we were in need of was running backs and we were counting on Johnson."

VAN PATRICK, the radio announcer, kidding Steve Gromek about his age: "By the way, Steve, how did you pitch to Ty Cobb?"

WARREN SPAHN, Milwaukee pitcher: "There are fewer outstanding players in the big leagues than ever before. That's why you see such a big turnover. They come and they go quicker than they used to."

GEORGE KELL, Baltimore infielder: "You can't teach a man to hit. You can correct his mistakes and help him improve, but he has to be able to hit to begin with. He needs certain things: good eyesight, sharp reflexes, coordination, strength. You cannot make a hitter."

Golfer JIMMY DEMARET, commenting on his amazing comeback: "I was losing control of my nerves. That's what you lose first. I went back to work, lost some weight and practiced a lot. Now I see the clubhouse make contact with the ball. I'm hitting the ball as well as I ever did."

ENOS SLAUGHTER, Yankee outfielder: "The secret of a long career in baseball is to keep your legs in condition. I hunt every day between seasons. I now carry a lighter gun, use slower dogs and hunt in smaller fields."

Brooklyn May Be Moving Because Of Willie Mays

By DON WEISS BROOKLYN (AP)—There's no truth to the rumor the Dodgers are getting away from Ebbets Field solely to rob Willie Mays of his favorite home run target.

Solely, no. Partially? Maybe. Willie's hit 177 home runs during his brilliant career with the New York Giants and 26 have banged into the red-painted seats beyond the cozy Ebbets Field walls while Brooklyn pitchers glared in disgust.

Judge Confirms Harte-Hanks Order

DALLAS (AP)—Federal Judge William Atwell confirmed Monday an order of Saturday denying government attempts to bring records of the Harte-Hanks newspaper group before a grand jury.

The records involved the purchase by Harte-Hanks of the Greenville Morning Herald and the Greenville Evening Banner and their subsequent merger. Executives of the newspaper group had been summoned to appear before the Dallas federal grand jury. The summonses were requested by attorneys of the Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice.

The newspaper group turned over its records concerning the Greenville newspapers to the FBI with the understanding that none could be used in criminal prosecutions.

Atwell ruled Saturday that this was a correct statement of the situation and that the records could not be used.

Saturday he asked government and defense attorneys to write a formal order. When the attorneys were scheduled to appear in Atwell's chambers Monday for signing of the order, government attorneys did not appear, and an order drafted by the defense was signed by the judge.

Earlier, in a court session, government attorneys sought to gain access to the records, but Atwell cut them short.

"It doesn't take a professor of law to understand what I did Saturday and I ruled on the case then," the judge said.

Representatives of the Harte-Hanks group were present Monday to appear before the grand jury but were not called. They still could be called at any time.

The formal order said in part: "It is, therefore, the order and judgment of the court, that said restrictions and conditions [that the documents not be used in criminal prosecution] be respected and enforced and that any information obtained by the government agents through the examination of said books, records, files and correspondence shall not be used before the grand jury in any criminal investigation."

The men stationed at project bases, the general said, are on "24-hour mission . . . and are not allowed passes in general."

Then, without specifically saying the bases were atomic stockpile sites, the general named six bases scheduled to get snack bars and other off-duty entertainment facilities:

Clarksville in Montgomery County, Tenn., near Ft. Campbell, Ky.; Killen near Ft. Hood, Tex.; Bossier in Bossier Parish, La.; Medina near San Antonio, Tex.; Lake Mead near Las Vegas, Nev.; and Manzano near Albuquerque, N.M.

Although it has been general knowledge that atomic-type weapons have been stored in areas convenient to training and operational bases, inquiries as to stockpile locations have been turned back on grounds the information was classified.

Shuler, Army construction director, replied that the special weapons project was charged with providing "technical, logistical and training services" to the military.

And, he added, the project also was responsible for "all national stockpile sites" for atomic weapons and for some testing areas.

U.S. Discloses Locations Of Nuclear Vaults

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee has published testimony which may disclose for the first time the locations of six secret stockpiles of atomic weapons in the United States.

Such information has been closely guarded in the past.

Testimony released by the committee over the weekend showed the subject came up in a routine session when Brig. Gen. William R. Shuler was asked why more money was needed for entertainment at bases operated for the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project.

Shuler, Army construction director, replied that the special weapons project was charged with providing "technical, logistical and training services" to the military.

And, he added, the project also was responsible for "all national stockpile sites" for atomic weapons and for some testing areas.

Hiroshima's Mayor Urges Tests Halt

HIROSHIMA (AP)—Hiroshima Mayor Tabao Watanabe called for abolition of nuclear weapons and an end of their testing today, the 12th anniversary of the atom-bombing of his city.

Some 20,000 persons assembled in Peace Memorial Park for the annual ceremony. Standing before the white stone cenotaph built on the spot where the bomb exploded, Watanabe said in a proclamation: "It is only a foolish illusion to try to maintain peace by the might of possessing atom and hydrogen bombs, and experimenting with them."

"Present tests of nuclear weapons are undermining the existence of mankind. Radioactive elements, once taken inside the body, not only corrode from within but continue wreaking genetic havoc with the offspring."

As he concluded at 8:15 a.m.—the time the American B29 dropped the bomb Aug. 6, 1945—sirens and temple bells signaled the start of a minute of silent prayer and the release of 700 pigeons.

The crowd included Prince and Princess Mikasa, the first representatives of Japan's royal family to attend the memorial ceremony. The prince laid a flowered wreath at the foot of the memorial arch.

Watanabe laid before the cenotaph a list of 185 Hiroshima citizens who died in the past year from leukemia and other diseases more or less attributed by Japanese doctors to the bomb's radiation. The known dead from the blast is put at 99,853, but estimates of the total number of victims run as high as 260,000.

Tokyo observed the anniversary of the bombing with sirens, temple bells and a minute of silence at 8:15 for the first time this year. Shortly after, the third annual World Conference Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs opened in the capital.

In the ensuing scuffle one of the Japanese was stabbed with a souvenir letter opener and died. Ouyang denied ever having seen the weapon.

Testimony during the trial brought out that last Jan. 9 Ouyang was riding a bicycle through Kizirazu and became involved in an argument with three young Japanese men.

Huge Machine Is Problem For County Clerk's Office

Howard County clerk's office has a brand new photostatic recording machine—one it has waited long and patiently to receive.

Now the question looms—how is the enormous device to be removed from the lobby of the clerk's office through a narrow doorway and down a winding stairway to the basement where it is to be installed?

The trucking company which delivered the big parcels on Monday looked the situation over and passed. Their insurance policies forbid them to deliver so sizable an object upstairs or downstairs where there is no elevator, they explained.

There is definitely no elevator service to the basement room of the clerk's office—the stairway is the one and only way down.

Mrs. Pauline Felty, county clerk, notified the Haloid Company representative in Dallas, as he had requested, of the machine's arrival. He said he would be in Big Spring on Tuesday and ready to work Wednesday morning. She didn't mention the engineering problem which awaits.

Meantime, the huge crate stands in the lobby where the truckers left it. A companion piece, big enough, but not as large as its companion, reposes in the corridor.

The machine to replace the old and slower reproducer, was ordered in March with a promise of delivery on April 1.

It made its appearance on Aug. 5.

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 1, 1957.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 27 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, relating to the establishment of a retirement, disability and death compensation fund for officers and employees of the State.

Section 1. That Subsection (a) of Section 62, Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended to read as follows:

"Section 62 (a) The Legislature shall have the authority to levy taxes to provide a State Retirement, Disability and Death Compensation Fund for the officers and employees of the State, and may make such reasonable inclusions, exclusions, or classifications of officers and employees of this State as it deems advisable. The Legislature may also include officers and employees of judicial districts of this State who are or have been compensated in whole or in part directly or indirectly by the State and may make such reasonable inclusions, exclusions, or classifications of officers and employees of judicial districts of this State as it deems advisable. Persons participating in a retirement system created pursuant to Section 1a of Article V of this Constitution shall not be eligible to participate in the fund authorized by this Subsection, and persons participating in a retirement system created pursuant to Section 1a of Article V of this Constitution shall not be eligible to participate in the fund authorized by this Subsection, except as otherwise provided herein. The amount contributed by the State to such fund shall be the amount paid for the same purpose from the income of each such person, and shall not exceed at any one time five percent (5%) of the compensation paid to each such person by the State.

"All funds provided from the compensation of such person or by the State of Texas for such Retirement, Disability and Death Compensation Fund, as are received by the Treasury of the State, shall be invested in bonds of the United States, or in bonds issued by any agency of the United States Government, or in the principal of and interest on which is guaranteed by the United States, or in such other securities as are now or hereafter may be permitted by law as investments for the Permanent School Fund or for the Permanent School Fund of this State, under the same limitations and restrictions imposed by the Constitution for investment of those funds and subject to such regulations as the Legislature may provide. However, a sufficient amount of said fund shall be kept on hand to meet the immediate payment of the amount likely to become due each year out of said fund, such amount of funds to be kept on hand to be determined by the agency which may be provided by law to administer said fund.

"Should the Legislature enact enabling laws in anticipation of the adoption of this Amendment, such legislation shall not be invalid by reason of its anticipatory character."

Section 2. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and this Amendment shall be published and the election held as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Section 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and this Amendment shall be published and the election held as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Typist Indicted In Roommate Slaying

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Elaine Soule, a 19-year-old clerk-typist from Freepoint, Long Island, N. Y., was indicted last night by the San Mateo County grand jury on a murder charge in the slaying of her roommate.

The victim, Catherine Marie Elvins, 20, daughter of a prominent Seattle physician, was struck 26 times with a flatiron and stabbed 20 times in the chest last July 24 in the apartment she shared with Miss Soule in nearby Burlingame.

"The motive was money," Dep. Dist. Atty. Howard Hartley quoted Miss Soule as saying—a $160 check sent the victim by her mother, Mrs. Naomi Elvins, wife of Dr. Richard E. Elvins of Seattle.

The grand jury indicted Miss Soule on a charge of first-degree murder.

Independents Laud Action On Imports

DALLAS (AP)—Representatives of 18 U.S. independent petroleum associations yesterday hailed with praise recent federal action aimed at limiting crude oil imports but questioned whether present controls are adequate.

The group leaders were called to Dallas to discuss President Eisenhower's appeal for voluntary reduction of 10 per cent in oil imports.

They termed the move a "most important and constructive effort" in the interest of national security and the consuming public. Continued cooperation was pledged to bring a "lasting solution" to the imports problem.

Jury Released In Adams Tax Trial

AUSTIN (AP)—After 11½ hours of deliberation spread over three days, a federal jury was released last night after it said it could not reach a decision on A. J. Adams, 71, who had been charged with income tax evasion.

Federal Judge Ben Rice Jr. declared a mistrial and released the jury which had heard nine days of testimony about the former senior partner in the Maceo gambling syndicate of Galveston.

Adams is charged with evading about $87,000 in income taxes during the 3-year period from 1948 to 1950. The government introduced exhibits indicating Adams' expenditures and accumulation of assets amounted to more than his reported income during that period.

Adams claimed he spent money which he had on hand at the close of 1947.

In a statement following the closed session, the leaders said: "The problem of excessive oil imports is now fully recognized by both Congress and the executive branch, and a national policy on imports is established.

"Only one question remains. Are the import limits and the method of control adequate to assure the necessary development of U.S. petroleum resources?"

"We are hopeful that the import will prove to be effective. Importing companies now have both an opportunity and responsibility and we urge their strict compliance."

The group said U.S. crude output is estimated to increase in coming months by between 300,000 and 400,000 barrels per day from the present "depressed" level.

They said this "would represent substantial relief from excessive imports and should encourage domestic exploration and development."

Robert L. Wood, Midland, president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, told newsmen compliance with the President's program would be far from "voluntary."

"The program is backed up by the power of the President, and any failure to comply would be a challenge to governmental authority," he said.

William Vaughn, Jackson, Miss., IPAA executive committee chairman, said he would like to have seen the 1954 ratio maintained but felt the new program is the "best solution to be devised" for a many-sided problem.

Helon Blount In Major Role On Broadway

A former Big Spring girl, Helon Blount, has moved into the "big time" on Broadway.

Helon has been given one of the major roles, that of the comedienne, Cleo, in "The Most Happy Fella," one of Broadway's current major hits. She is succeeding Susan Johnson in the role, and her picture with an announcement of this was in an issue of the New York Times last week.

Helon had been understudy to Miss Johnson since "The Most Happy Fella" opened, and since the latter has been ill, she played the role of Cleo many times. She now goes permanently into the cast.

Helon was reared here and finished Big Spring High School. She took her first voice training under Mrs. Nell Frazier, later studied at the University of Texas.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. "Boodie" Blount, now of Austin, and is a sister of Peppy Blount, former legislator from this district and now an attorney in Tyler.

Eastern Half Of State Gets Rain

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms and light rain broke out along the middle Texas Gulf Coast and in East Texas Tuesday as a mild cold front moved into those areas.

The front was located from the Houston-Galveston area westward across South Central Texas to Junction.

Thunderstorms were reported at Houston and Galveston and College Station. All three points reported light rain.

The only rainfall reported during the night was at El Paso. The cooler air dropped temperatures across the northern part of the state Monday. Amarillo had a high maximum of only 78 degrees while Dallas had 87, its coolest Aug. 5 in 37 years.

Presidio had the highest reading in the state, 105 degrees.

A heavy rain fell at Kilgore where 1.53 inches was reported. The sudden downpour was so heavy, Weather Bureau observers said they couldn't reach their gauge to measure it for a time.

The rain boosted the Gregg County moisture total to 46.33 inches for the year compared to a 12-month average of 43.51. The five-day outlook was for higher temperatures in most sections. Moderate precipitation in widely scattered showers was predicted except in South Texas, where none was foreseen.

Ike, Wilson Deny Rift On Proposed New Budget Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the White House and Secretary of Defense Wilson have denied reports that Wilson and President Eisenhower disagree on a proposed new budget system.

"There is no difference of opinion whatsoever," Wilson said in a statement yesterday.

"Definitely misinterpretations," said White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, commenting on news accounts which said Wilson's views conflicted with Eisenhower's.

The reported difference was over a budget change bill, recommended by the Hoover Commission and supported by Eisenhower. It would provide for year-to-year appropriations by Congress for federal departments, even though some of their major projects would require money in more than one year.

Two days ago, a House Appropriations subcommittee made public a transcript of some Wilson testimony in a secret session July 1. It quoted him as saying, "I do not believe in partial financing." In his statement yesterday, Wilson said of his subcommittee testimony: "The subject matter under discussion at the time was the so-called partial financing of procurement. I made only one passing reference to the accrued annual expenditure proposal."

Under that proposal, departments would be given only contract authority for projects extending beyond one year. They now get the cash for such programs, and the appropriations are carried over from year to year.

Wilson said his department is studying means of applying the accrued annual expenditures proposal to defense procurement.

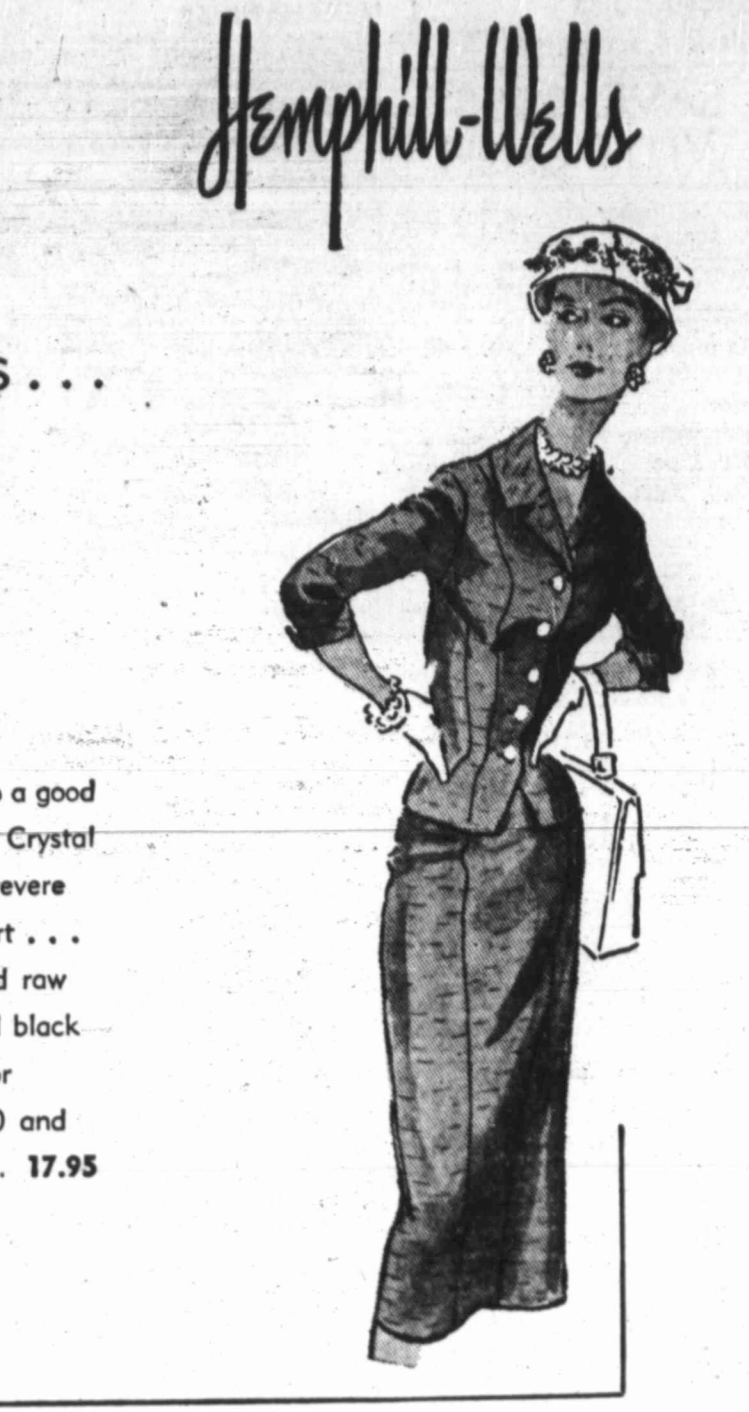

"As a matter of fact," Wilson continued, "our current determination to live within the 38 billion expenditures estimated in the President's budget last January is in effect carrying out a budget system based on accrued annual expenditures."

Before Wilson issued his statement yesterday, Hagerty had said he was told that Wilson's testimony applied to a phase of Air Force financing and not to the budget change bill.
