U. S. Deputy Spirits Off Red Spy Suspect

EDINBURG (AP)—Dep. U.S. Marshal Gerald Jones left the Hidalgo County jail today with Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, a thin balding alien accused of being a top Russian spy.

Dep. Marshal George Bennett said he does not know where they headed or when they left. It was assumed they were en route to New York where Abel was indicted yesterday.

Bennett says he found a note from Jones that he was taking the prisoner but the note didn't say where or how.

Abel had been held at a detention camp at McAllen, awaiting deportation when the spy indictment was returned.

Federal Judge Allen Hannay signed at Houston late yesterday an order for Abel's removal to New York.

Able, 55, a colonel of Russian intelligence, was arraigned here yesterday on espionage charges returned in a federal grand jury indictment in Brooklyn. He is the highest ranking Red agent ever accused of spying for Russia in this country.

He had been held only as an illegal alien under the name of Emil R. Goldfus, an alias he assumed while working as an obscure photographic artist in Brooklyn.

SET FOR WAR
The government claimed in the event of war, Abel was set up in Brooklyn to receive sabotage instructions from Moscow.

Abel apparently was linked to a Kremlin master spy who was involved in the first big espionage scandal after World War II.

Four Russians were named as co-conspirators with Abel, but not as defendants. They included Vitali G. Pavlov, who headed a Russian secret police network based in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, Canada. It was broken up in 1945 after the arrest of atomic-traitor Dr. Alan Nunn May.

Indicted

Rudolf Ivanovich Abel was indicted in New York City, charged with conspiring to commit espionage for a Soviet Union spy ring.

The Canadian spy case led to the arrest and imprisonment in England of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, atomic scientist, and the arrest and execution in this country of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Each was convicted of spying.

Abel was brought here under heavy guard from the detention camp for arraignment before U.S. Commissioner J. C. Hall. He was handcuffed to two FBI agents who hustled him past a crowd of spectators, photographers and newsmen. Two other officers stood guard.

SIGNED WAIVER
At the hearing he readily signed a waiver allowing his return to New York to face the charges.

Exposure of the spy plot reportedly resulted from Reino Hayhanen's defection to the West. He was named as a co-conspirator in the Abel indictment and appeared yesterday before the grand jury. Hayhanen was described as a trained Red espionage agent who spent six years in the United States. After his return to Europe, he was said to have sought haven in the West. He was flown to New York for the grand jury hearing.

Abel was arrested as an illegal alien last June 21 in his Manhattan hotel. He had $6,000 on him at the time.

Government agents learned of his alleged spy activities later, during which time he had been ordered deported.

Found in his room at the Hotel Latham were cryptic notes, codes and the birth certificate of Emil R. Goldfus, a Manhattan infant who died in 1902.

In his studio—ironically located just across the street from the Brooklyn federal courthouse where he was indicted—government agents found maps of Baltimore, Chicago, New York, Long Island and other places. The government also said they found short-wave radios through which it claimed Abel got his orders from the Kremlin.

FICTITIOUS PATTERN
His activities as listed by the government followed the fictional spy pattern—microfilmed secrets transmitted to Russia in hollowed-out coins, pencils, bolts, cuff links and ear rings.

The government said one of his missions was to enlist American servicemen who were "in a position to acquire information relating to the national defense of the United States."

The indictment also alleged he had a particular interest in data "relating to arms, equipment and disposition of the U.S. armed forces and information relating to the atomic energy program."

Abel, dressed in a blue shirt, baggy gray slacks and jacket and a gray straw hat, seemed quite at ease during his arraignment.

While waiting for the waiver to be drawn, he was asked: "Where did you get that name—Abel: Russian?"

The bespectacled Abel chuckled and replied in a soft voice, "No, its originally from the German."

Newsman were not permitted to interview him.

Others listed as co-conspirators included A. M. Korotkov, who figured in the recent espionage indictment in Manhattan of George Zlatovski and his wife Jane, accused as members of a Soviet spy ring headed by Jack Soble, and Mikhail Svirin.

Pavlov, Svirin and Korotkov were believed to be in the Soviet Union.

Saved

Three-year-old Glenda McPhee clings to the neck of nurse Mrs. Carol Bauder of Bay City, Mich., General Hospital after her rescue from the bottom of a narrow chimney into which she fell from an attic aperture at her home. Firemen had to take apart a portion of the house's foundation to rescue the child. The girl is recovering from shock but apparently is little the worse for her experience.

Temporary Truce In Attempts To Oust Aged Rancher

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Indications today were that there is a temporary truce between aged rancher John Prather and the government.

Three deputy U.S. marshals seemed uncertain whether they would try a third day to talk him into peacefully leaving the 27,000-acre ranch the government has taken for an extension of McGregor Missile Training Base.

Three New Mexico congressmen, Sen. Anderson and Reps. Montoya and Dempsey, said in Washington they hoped all involved would "rest easy" and take no further action.

Prather, who spent 54 of his 82 years developing his ranch, on the edge of the south-central New Mexico missile range, has said officials would have to kill him to remove him.

The congressmen met for about three hours yesterday with deputy assistant Secretary of the Army Edward Bacon, Maj. Gen. K. R. Barney and other Army officials about the matter.

"We have been and will continue to offer local officers our help if they want it in warning all types of known gambling establishments to close or face padlock action."

"If they do not want help, or if the situation gets out of hand, then the state will move in."

Garrison said local cooperation has been good.

Among those warned in West Texas were managers of fraternal clubs where gambling was known to have been in progress, but it was not confined to them, Garrison said.

ABILENE (AP)—Ira Patton, 23, of Abilene was killed in an explosion and fire while trapped in his tractor yesterday.

The tractor driver, Stanley Malow, 26, of Abilene suffered a broken shoulder and cuts.

Joe Allen Jr., Negro trucker from Brownwood, tried to pull Patton from the truck loaded with brick but leaking gasoline exploded and forced him to flee.

Besides members of his family, Blake will have some other Big Springers cheering him on. Loyd Wooten and Avery Falkner will be there on the 18th, as Tidwell representatives, and Tommy Hart, sports editor of The Herald, will cover the event, being accompanied by Mrs. Hart.

The Haris are to leave here Saturday. Wooten and Falkner on Monday.

House Sidesteps Civil Rights Action

Warnings Out Here Against All Gambling

Warning to all clubs or other establishments in Big Spring where gambling in any form is permitted, to close down all such operations immediately will be issued today by a law enforcement group including representatives of the sheriff's office, the Texas Rangers and the city police.

Miller Harris, sheriff, said that he had been advised by Ranger John Wood that the latter would be here this afternoon and that visits will be made to all establishments which may fall into the general category.

Harris said the plan is to advise such places to rid themselves of any gambling equipment or activities immediately. A re-check will probably be made and the places which have not heeded the warning will be in trouble, the sheriff warned.

The program is a part of the state-wide war on gambling launched in June by the office of the attorney general, with the close-down attack on places in the Galveston area.

In Austin, State Police Director Homer Garrison Jr. explained today that the program has now moved into West Texas and the "close out or get padlock" order is being conveyed to possible violators in a number of West Texas counties.

Where possible, Garrison said that cleanup of gambling in communities would be left in the hands of local law enforcement agencies. If these fail to do the job, he warned the state would step in.

Garrison said today local officers and Rangers operated earlier this week at Odessa in spreading the word in that area, and that Rangers were working with city police currently in Midland.

"It's not anything new," Garrison said, "it has been in progress quietly all over the state since the attorney general announced his policy."

"We have been and will continue to offer local officers our help if they want it in warning all types of known gambling establishments to close or face padlock action."

"If they do not want help, or if the situation gets out of hand, then the state will move in."

Garrison said local cooperation has been good.

Among those warned in West Texas were managers of fraternal clubs where gambling was known to have been in progress, but it was not confined to them, Garrison said.

FAST-TRIGGER YOUTH SHOOTS TWO BURGLARS

HOUSTON (AP)—A youth with a fast trigger finger—and his grandmother as a spectator—sent three bullets after two fleeing teen-age burglars early today, and dropped them both.

The wounded boys, one with a bullet in his shoulder and the other with two in his back, were in fair condition.

The shooter was William Colvin, 18, who lives with his grandmother, Mrs. Emma Kretschmar, 81.

Colvin told police he was awakened about 1 a. m., when two boys parked a car across the street from his home. He said he watched them walk to a lounge, then heard glass shatter as a window was broken.

"I called police, then asked my grandmother if I could take my .22 rifle and go after them," he said. "She went with me."

Measure Gets By Senate, 72-18

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House temporarily sidestepped a decision today on what to do about the civil rights bill.

The bill, which the Senate passed last night by a 72-18 vote, was laid on the speaker's desk to give House leaders more time to sound out sentiment and consider compromise proposals.

For the time being, no attempt will be made to send the measure to a Senate-House conference to resolve differences with the bill that the House passed 286-128 on June 18. The House bill, closely following administration recommendations, is broader in scope and more stringent in enforcement provisions.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts added substance to reports that President Eisenhower may call Congress back into special session unless he gets a measure he feels he can sign.

Eisenhower has objected particularly to a provision added by the Senate to require jury trials in all criminal contempt cases in the federal courts.

Martin told newsmen that if Congress finally passes a bill that fails to meet Eisenhower's specifications he would personally recommend that the President veto it and call Congress back in November to try again.

There was backstage maneuvering to line up supporters for a compromise that would limit the jury trial amendment to cases involving only the protection of voting rights. Some civil rights advocates expressed hope that by some such compromise a bill they could consider worthwhile might be salvaged.

Backers of such a measure roundly criticized the jury trial provision, but they helped supply the votes for Senate passage of this first bill of its kind to go through the Senate in more than 80 years.

Because of the uncertainties, Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California told a reporter it was "too early to say" whether a special civil rights session might be called in November.

Other senators said Knowland had told the Senate Republican Policy Committee in a closed meeting that a special session is a definite possibility if the Senate's version of the bill is not amended to conform more nearly to Eisenhower's wishes.

Either the House or a Senate-House conference committee could make the changes, but in either case the Senate would have to approve later.

NO LIGHT ON VETO
Eisenhower declined at his news conference yesterday to shed any light on a possible veto. But responsible administration officials have said he will reject the measure if the jury trial provision inserted by the Senate is not revised.

Any such veto would be likely to be accompanied by the announcement that Congress will be called back to Washington this fall, these officials said. A special session call would be likely also, they added, if Congress decided not to act finally in this session.

No Republican senators voted against passage of the bill when the roll was called last night after nearly five weeks of debate. The Democrats who voted against it were all Southerners except for Sen. Morse of Oregon.

Morse said he could not bring himself to vote "for a civil rights bill which bears little more than the title." Calling it an "odious" corpse, he said it "raises hopes and expectations which will not be satisfied."

Five senators from Southern states, all Democrats, voted for passage. They were Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader; Yarborough of Texas; Kefauver and Gore of Tennessee; and Smathers of Florida.

DEMO DIVISION
In all, 43 Republicans and 29 Democrats voted for passage.

As it passed the Senate, the bill would authorize the attorney general to seek court injunctions to enforce minority voting rights. The House had voted for similar authority also to enforce civil rights in general but the Senate knocked this out of the measure.

The House rejected all proposals for jury trials. The Senate wrote into the bill a far-reaching provision for jury trials in any federal court criminal contempt case involving issuance of an injunction. Eisenhower said this would be "most damaging to the entire federal judiciary."

Criminal contempt generally arises from the desire of the judge to punish a defendant for disobeying a court order or for such delay in complying with it that the order becomes ineffective.

The Senate provided that juries in such cases must be open to the inclusion of Negro members.

Both bills provide for establishment of a bipartisan commission to investigate civil rights and for appointment of an additional assistant attorney general to head a new civil rights division in the Justice Department.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn of Texas was reported trying to line up sufficient votes for House acceptance of the Senate's version of the bill. Some Democrats thought Eisenhower's veto would hurt the Republicans politically.

However, Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.), leader of the forces which pushed the original bill through the House, was working to get it sent to a Senate House Conference Committee.

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, assistant GOP leader, said the Republican trend seemed to be in that direction. He said it was "kind of remote" to say whether any bill would clear Congress in this session.

Celler, who would head House conferees, said he thinks the House and Senate "would accept a modified bill limiting the jury trial amendment to civil rights cases only."

House Retreats On AF Chapel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House reversed itself yesterday and agreed to allow funds to begin a new chapel at the Air Force Academy. Then it passed a 1 1/2 billion-dollar appropriations bill, mostly to finance military construction.

The bill now goes to the Senate. The dispute over the chapel revolved around its proposed design. One House member called it a "monstrosity." On Tuesday, the House tentatively approved 102-53 an amendment to bar use of any money in the bill on the chapel at Colorado Springs, Colo.

But yesterday the amendment was knocked out on a standing vote of 147-83.

The House also rejected 150-59 a move to delete 12 1/2 million dollars to start construction of a second airport for the Washington area. The airport, to be built at nearby Burke, Va., will cost 50 million.

The bill, passed 330-75, contains $1,581,590,587—all but about 60 million of the total for military public works projects. The bill's total is more than 279 million dollars below President Eisenhower's original request.

He's Blake Talbott, who takes off by car Friday for Akron, Ohio, accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Talbott, and younger brother, Rex.

After a leisurely sight-seeing trip, the Talbotts will arrive in Akron next Thursday morning, where Blake will be given the royal welcome that is reserved for champions at the All-American race.

He'll join about 160 other champions from all parts of the U. S. (plus Canada, Ireland and Western Germany) for a stay at Derbytown—a special camp for the boys where they can enjoy every kind of sports delight.

Blake Talbott To Leave Friday For Soap Box Derby At Akron

Big Spring's Soap Box Derby champion will be off Friday, seeking new worlds to conquer.

Or, at least, he will be after the All-American Soap Box Derby title.

He's Blake Talbott, who takes off by car Friday for Akron, Ohio, accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Talbott, and younger brother, Rex.

After a leisurely sight-seeing trip, the Talbotts will arrive in Akron next Thursday morning, where Blake will be given the royal welcome that is reserved for champions at the All-American race.

He'll join about 160 other champions from all parts of the U. S. (plus Canada, Ireland and Western Germany) for a stay at Derbytown—a special camp for the boys where they can enjoy every kind of sports delight.

He'll get to make a test run with his racer on Saturday, Aug. 17, down the fabulous Derby Downs track at Akron. And then on Sunday comes the thrilling All-American, the biggest amateur racing event in the world. Some 60,000 people will crowd Derby Downs to see the lads race for fame and fortune—and Blake Talbott is hoping to be the winner.

The All-American champion this year will win awards of a lifetime. First prize is a $5,000 college scholarship, plus a two-weeks tour of Europe with all expenses paid. Other college scholarships are available—$4,000, $3,000, $2,000 and $1,000—down through fifth place, and there are other awards down as far as ninth place in the Akron race.

Blake's racer—one of the trimmest ever to come out of the local event—has already been shipped to Derby Downs. He'll have an opportunity there to check it over and see that it's in top running condition. It's been repainted a flashy yellow, and carries the name of the Big Spring Herald as sponsor. Tidwell Chevrolet Company and the Lions Club join in sponsoring the Soap Box Derby locally, and the national event is a major project of Chevrolet Division of General Motors.

Besides members of his family, Blake will have some other Big Springers cheering him on. Loyd Wooten and Avery Falkner will be there on the 18th, as Tidwell representatives, and Tommy Hart, sports editor of The Herald, will cover the event, being accompanied by Mrs. Hart.

The Haris are to leave here Saturday. Wooten and Falkner on Monday.

Abilene Trucker Killed In Mishap

ABILENE (AP)—Ira Patton, 23, of Abilene was killed in an explosion and fire while trapped in his tractor yesterday.

The tractor driver, Stanley Malow, 26, of Abilene suffered a broken shoulder and cuts.

Joe Allen Jr., Negro trucker from Brownwood, tried to pull Patton from the truck loaded with brick but leaking gasoline exploded and forced him to flee.

Labor Terrorist Dio Lays Low As Henchmen Quizzed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor terrorist Johnny Dio stayed out of sight today while one of his top henchmen was invoking the Fifth Amendment on question after question in the Senate Rackets probe.

Bulgy, bespectacled Sidney Hodges of Brooklyn refused to tell the special Senate committee whether he helped Dio set up "phony" unions.

The investigators contend Dio used such unions as a device to extort from employers and also misused the dues of rank and file union members.

The committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), planned to call Dio later in the day for questioning about allegations from McClellan that Dio and Teamsters Union boss James R. Hoffa formed a corrupt alliance in a grab for power in New York area unions.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Dio would not come to the committee room until just before taking the witness stand, and that this might not be until the afternoon.

Abe Brier, another of Dio's alleged henchmen in setting up the phony Teamsters locals, also took the Fifth Amendment.

Kennedy, in a prefacing statement to the committee, said he was attempting to show that Dio used Hodges, Brier and others to set up a "mother local" in the union movement in New York—Local 649 of the old AFL United Auto Workers—and then assigned its officials as the key officers of "paper" locals in the Teamsters Union.

The committee contends that Dio and Hoffa worked hand in glove in getting Teamster charters for the paper or "phantom" locals, which had officers but no rank and file members except the ones that Dio fed them from time to time, and that Dio's UAW Local 649 was paying the bills for the Teamsters Union "phantom" locals.

Kennedy produced subpoenaed union documents to show, he said, that Hodges had shifted out of 649's top echelon to become president in November 1955 of Teamsters Locals 258 and 368, and secretary-treasurer of Teamster Local 284—all at the same time.

Hodges invoked the Fifth Amendment 37 times in all, while refusing to testify about any of this story.

STRANGLE-HOLD POWER
McClellan alleges the alliance gave Hoffa what he called strangle-hold power over organized labor in New York, and swelled Dio's reputed million-dollar-a-year income from labor and other rackets.

Dio, under indictment in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, was paroled from jail in New York long enough to testify before the committee. He is being held to await sentence on shaken-down conspiracy charges.

Now the Midwest boss of the giant Teamsters Union, Hoffa is considered the front runner for the union's presidency. Dave Beck the present Teamsters president, is stepping out after refusing to tell the committee whether he misappropriated hundreds of thousands of dollars of Teamster funds.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's chief counsel, said others who may testify today are Abe Brier, Sidney Aodes and Nat Gordon.

AF Plane With 67 Passengers Limp Home

HONOLULU (AP)—A huge C-97 military air transport plane carrying 67 persons limped toward Hilo, Hawaii, today with two of its four engines dead.

The Air Force said the double-deck plane—military version of the civilian Stratocruiser, was en route to Hickam Air Force Base on Oahu (Honolulu) Island from Travis AFB, near San Francisco. When trouble developed, its destination was shifted to Hilo, on Hawaii Island, about 200 miles nearer. It was last reported about 700 miles from Hilo.

The aircraft carrier Bon Homme Richard stood by in event the plane was forced to ditch.

Pacific Military Air Transport Service headquarters said the pilot, a Maj. Tyson reported he had enough fuel to land safely and "no further trouble was anticipated."

An Air Force spokesman in Honolulu said "it looks favorable for the plane to make Hilo by 11 a. m. HST (3 p. m. CST)."

The transport ran into trouble just past the point of no return—more than halfway out on the 2,250-mile flight. Two engines were feathered. Baggage was jettisoned.

Air rescue planes were sent from Hawaiian bases to escort the crippled transport.

The big plane, a Boeing, has four 3,500-horsepower engines. What caused two of them to fail was not known.

Equalization Board To Meet

A preliminary meeting of the city school board of equalization will be held next week, but the exact date has not been set, Perry Johnson, city tax assessor, said today.

Serving on the board this year are George O'Brien, Worth Peeler and Carl Stron, Johnson and J. O. Haygood, school tax collector, will meet with the board.

The meeting next week is to establish changes and to prepare preliminary valuations, Johnson said. A public hearing to review the valuations will not be held until later, however.

The public hearing will be slated 10 days from the date of mailing the valuations to property owners. At the public hearing, all property owners have the privilege to speak to the board concerning their individual valuations.

Since the city and school district use the same land and property valuations, one jointly approved board handles the matters.

Mamie's Progress Pleases Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today that Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower's doctors "continue to be pleased" with the progress she has made since she underwent an operation Tuesday.

James C. Hagerty, press secretary, issued the following statement after talking with Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, White House physician who is attending the President's wife at Walter Reed Army Hospital:

"The doctors continue to be pleased by Mrs. Eisenhower's progress. She again slept throughout most of the night with but few interruptions."

Silent Witness

Frank Easton, right, described as a henchman of labor racketeer Johnny Dio, and Easton's attorney Leon Reich, are a study in silence at a Senate Rackets Investigating Committee in Washington, D. C. Easton invoked the Fifth Amendment 85 times in refusing to answer questions about alleged associations with Dio and whether he consulted Dio on his testimony. Easton is from Brooklyn.

Slap For Queen's Critic

Lord Altrincham, right, 33-year-old Tory peer who criticized Queen Elizabeth II, is slapped by Philip Klighorn Burbidge, 64, on leaving a London television studio. The incident occurred after Altrincham told a TV audience he would not apologize for statements he made about the Queen in a magazine of which he is editor. Charged with insulting behavior, Burbidge was fined one pound—$2.30—in Bow Street criminal court. This photo was taken from television newsreel film.

Steel Price Rise Fears 'Unfounded'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roger M. Blough, board chairman of United States Steel Corp., told senators today it was "sheer economic superstition" to contend the recent steel price rise will touch off a new round of inflation.

Blough, first witness in a new congressional inquiry into the steel industry and its pricing policies, said that "viewed in its true perspective, the price of steel is amazingly low."

"Steel is not only the cheapest by far of all the common metals," he said, "but with surprisingly few exceptions, it is also cheaper—pound for pound than almost anything else you can buy."

"To put it in the plainest possible terms, therefore, let me just say that the so-called 'high price of steel' is, in my opinion, another myth, pure and simple."

Blough appeared before the Senate Antitrust subcommittee. The steel hearings at this time were prompted by the $6-a-ton price rise for the metal, which became effective July 1. This was announced first by U. S. Steel, the industry's biggest producer. Other steel producers followed suit.

Blough quoted several economic authorities in support of his arguments that the steel price boom need not be inflationary.

"NEGLECTIBLE" EFFECT

He said that Dr. Ewan Clague, U. S. commissioner of labor statistics, said last August that a rise in steel prices has only a "negligible" effect on the cost of living.

Blough said he wanted to dispel what he called a "delusion" that U. S. Steel dominates a monopoly industry or that it reaps "fabulous profits, the public interest to the contrary notwithstanding."

U. S. Steel produced 66 per cent of the nation's steel when it was founded in 1902, he said, but now its share is down to 30 per cent. As to profits, he said his corporation ranks third in the nation in assets and invested capital and

Confidential's Own Secrets Face Light

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Confidential magazine's own secrets may be exposed when its trial on criminal libel charges is resumed tomorrow.

Dep. Dist. Atty. William J. Ritz planned to present testimony by Howard Rushmore, former editor of Confidential.

The trial is in recess today so that Superior Judge Herbert W. Walker can consider other court matters.

Before the trial resumes the judge will hear arguments on a motion to quash the subpoena of actor Tab Hunter. Hunter's attorney filed the motion yesterday.

Rushmore's appearance as a witness will await completion of testimony intended to link Hollywood Research, Inc., and its operators, Fred and Marjorie Meade, to Confidential and its sister scandal magazine, Whisper.

Later the prosecution plans to read to the jury 10 articles in which Confidential purported to tell of lurid activities of Hollywood celebrities.

Confidential, Whisper, Publisher's Distributing Corp., Hollywood Research and the Meades are being tried on charges of conspiracy to publish lewd and obscene

Missile Secrecy Relaxing 'Foolish'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Asst. Secretary of Defense Murray Snyder said today it would be foolishly to relax secrecy about the launchings and performance of new missiles.

Snyder, the Pentagon's information chief, took this stand in a letter rejecting a suggestion that bans on missile information be modified or canceled. The suggestion was made July 17 by Chairman Moss (D-Calif.) of the House Government Information subcommittee.

At issue is the Pentagon policy which limits information about missile launchings to confirmation that some missile has been fired. The policy, set forth in April, also permits disclosure of whether anybody is injured when a missile explodes.

Moss told Snyder in July that this strict limitation on missile test information appeared to be an example of "excessive overclassification" and an "unrealistic straitjacket of secrecy."

Moss contended that whenever a big missile is fired from the test center at Patrick Air Force Base in Florida hundreds of civilians either see, hear or know that the launching takes place. He said that often civilian photographers are able to record the operation.

Snyder replied that much of the information obtained by civilians in this manner was "merely rumor or guess work and is not accurate or complete enough to threaten security."

The Pentagon official also said that the decisions on what information may be made public were based upon the judgment of "qual-

Rain Band Covers Much Of Nation

By The Associated Press

A band of precipitation—mostly scattered showers and thunderstorms—today extended from Florida along the Gulf Coast into Texas, the southern and central Plains states and northeastward into western portions of the Great Lakes.

Elsewhere across the country skies were generally fair.

The mid and north Atlantic coast states looked for continued warming while cool Pacific air spread into the northwestern Great Lakes.

Cool Pacific air moving east through the northern Plains triggered overnight showers from the northwestern Great Lakes region southwestward through Nebraska, southern Wyoming and northern Colorado.

Rainfall was generally light although North Platte, Neb., recorded 1.33 inches and Park Falls, Wis., had .72 inches.

BenJack Cage Leaves Brazil For Havana

HAVANA (AP)—BenJack cage, under an embezzlement indictment in Texas in the collapse of the ICT Insurance Co. flew to Havana yesterday but efforts to locate him were unsuccessful.

A Delta Airlines official said Cage flew from Brazil via Venezuela.

The former president of ICT recently stated he would return to Dallas by Aug. 8 to face the charges against him.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Joe Carroll said at Austin he wasn't surprised Cage was in Havana but that he doubted he would show up in Texas.

"I know he has considerable holdings down there," Carroll said. "He has a lawyer there who is holding a number of books on some of his companies. I sure would like to talk to him."

Carroll counseled a House investigating committee that inquired into the collapse of ICT and is assisting Dist. Atty. Les Proctor and Travis grand juries in another probe.

Cage is under two indictments at Dallas charging he embezzled $500,000 from ICT to buy insurance stock and took $100,000 from an ICT Corp. subsidiary.

There is a $123,045 U. S. tax lien against Cage and his wife. Cage has also been accused of tossing the firm's money about and living lavishly on its funds.

Test Subjects Spend Days At A Time In Sealed Chambers

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON—A sealed chamber in which human test subjects—dressed something like spacemen—will live for days at a time was unveiled today by government scientists.

They described it as a new tool for research on the complex chemistry of normal and diseased living.

Out of studies in this ingenious "metabolic chamber," said researchers of the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, may come such things as new clues to the cause and control of obesity, and possibly a better understanding of the mechanisms involved in heart disease and cancer.

The Public Health Service said the chamber will enable researchers to study in greater detail than hitherto possible the intimate metabolic processes "by which human beings utilize food, air and water in the process of living."

The idea will be to give subjects diets of known amounts and composition, and through analysis of expired air and other bodily waste products, seek new understanding of the processes by which food is converted into energy and growth.

Scientists explained that in the past considerable information has been obtained on basal metabolism—that is, bodily chemistry reactions studied while the subject is fasting from food.

But they said such studies are limited in scope and that very little research has been done on total metabolism—processes taking place in the body on a 24-hour basis while the person under study is working, eating, sleeping, exercising.

Today, with the assistance of a young and healthy volunteer subject, the scientists demonstrated how the latter type studies are made possible in unique fashion with the new apparatus.

The volunteer, Jerry Duerksen, 30, of Mountain Lake, Minn., and a member of the Mennonite Church, is one of a number of conscientious objectors taking part in research of various types at the National Institutes of Health in lieu of military service.

Duerksen was resting on a bed in the sealed chamber when newsmen appeared for the demonstration, but they could see him through a picture window from the control room outside.

The chamber is about 9 feet by 10 feet and 10 feet high, large enough to permit a normal amount of activity. The subject can move about, work at a desk, exercise on a treadmill, sleep on a comfortable bed at night, or just look through a window. The clinical center which is located in nearby Bethesda, Md.

Scientists told reporters that in preliminary studies conducted so far, 24 hours is the longest any subject has been studied in the chamber, but future plans call for stays of several days at a time.

CARD OF THANKS

I take this way in thanking all my friends, relatives, nurses and doctors for the kind things they did for me while in the hospital and after.

Khrushy Warns Of U.S. War Danger

BERLIN (AP)—Russian Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev today warned that the explosion of war over Germany would bring the United States under the threat of attack from hydrogen rockets.

Khrushchev told a special session of the East German parliament the Western powers are trying to turn West Germany into a war base and are creating "an extremely serious situation."

"They want to use the German people as cannon fodder in their plans to conquer the world," the Red chieftain declared.

The speech parroted numerous other blasts from Khrushchev, Soviet spokesman, and Soviet propaganda organs. Presumably this time it was intended to scare West German voters, who, on Sept. 16, elect a new parliament and decide whether to retain the government of staunchly pro-Western, anti-Communist Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Before Khrushchev spoke, East German Premier Otto Grotewohl restated his regime's endorsement of the long-standing Soviet proposal for the withdrawal of Russian and Western troops from German soil.

DESTRUCTIVE RANGE

Warning that modern warfare could lead to the devastation of densely populated areas, Khrushchev declared:

"This (destructive power) should be kept in mind by statesmen of England, France and other countries whose areas would be in range of atomic and hydrogen weapons in case military operations start."

"Statesmen of the United States should also think about it as in our time, where rocket developments are rapid, distances cannot save any country from the effects of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

The Russian added that "all these people must think about this who refuse to follow a peaceful policy and refuse to join in a disarmament agreement."

Khrushchev fired his broadside on the second day of his week's

Oldtimers Saddened By Hardy's Death

Editor's Note—The writer of the following story is the Associated Press chief of bureau at Los Angeles. He went to Hollywood 27 years ago to report movie news for The AP.

BY HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The face of Hollywood changed some with the death of Oliver (Babe) Hardy and we old-timers who covered Movieland in the heyday of Laurel and Hardy are saddened.

Both the 300-pound Hardy, who died yesterday, and his shy, slim, hand-wringing partner, Stan Laurel, have been ill for a long time and absent from the movie lots. But we who found them interesting off-screen as well as funny on it held hopes, probably false, that they would come back.

They both talked frequently of a television series, after their quarter-century-old films reached a new generation on TV. They said they saw a new life, new glory, new fortunes. At least they talked of these things, but in their hearts they must have known they never could reach the peak again.

Both were sensitive, intelligent men, despite the buffoonery that catapulted them to stardom. In money matters, they were as unwise as most actors of the old days. They worked together for a dozen low-tax years, spending money as if it grew on trees, before they formed a corporation with a vice president to counter-sign checks.

Laurel told me in 1940 that "we haven't been so smart financially. We used to invest and then think about it." He and Babe dropped a wad in gold mines and oil wells.

Allison was an expensive luxury too. Hardy was married three times, Laurel seven times — to four different wives. In 1938, Stan said he was insolvent—"too much alimony." It is not a matter of record, but knowing Laurel and Hardy I can well believe that Hardy supported Laurel during this period.

They were teamed accidentally. Stan, who came here from England with a troupe starring Charlie Chaplin, became a script writer for Hal Roach. Babe, long-time stage actor of no outstanding fame, drifted to Hollywood. He was playing a comedy-heavy in a Roach two-reeler. An actor hired as a butler became ill and Laurel took his place. Roach, who could pick talent, saw the skinny guy as a perfect fit for the fat one. And Laurel and Hardy became a team.

Laurel and Hardy were distinguished because, unlike other comedy teams, they never had a feud. They were separated once by contractual troubles, not of their own doing, and the pictures they made apart were dismal flops. In 1949 Babe played a few character roles because Stan was too ill to work "and I need the money." But his salary went to the L&H Corp., and ailing Stan shared in his partner's pay.

Stan said yesterday when he heard about Babe: "That's the end of the history of Laurel and Hardy."

But some of us never will forget their finger-in-the-eye and brick-on-the-foot humor.

California Scraps Silent Jury System

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California's long-established "silent jury" system in murder cases goes on the scrap heap Sept. 11, replaced by a new 3-in-1 trial law.

Judges no longer will pass sentence in first-degree murder convictions, unless the defendant waives a jury trial. Instead, the jury will (1) determine the verdict, then (2) sit through a second trial to fix the penalty and if he pleads insanity (3) hear a third to determine the defendant's sanity.

This eliminates the present requirement that the judge must impose the death penalty automatically—either the gas chamber or life imprisonment—if the jury remains silent or fails to specify the punishment.

Juries at present determine sanity in a separate hearing, if that issue is involved. Otherwise, the new law is believed to be without precedent.

Republican assemblyman Bruce F. Allen of Los Gatos, who introduced the bill at the request of the California State Bar, said: "A lot of people felt it was highly unreasonable to impose the death penalty by silence. The State Supreme Court has said it doesn't feel the silent verdict is the proper form to condemn a man to death."

The new law stipulates that, in fixing sentence, juries may hear pertinent evidence of the defendant's background and character and any facts in aggravation or mitigation of the penalty.

This information now is presented only to the judge.

A high-ranking state appeals judge disagrees with Allen's contention that the law will cut trial costs. The judge, who asked that his name not be used, called it "another encumbrance on the judicial system." He predicted that in lengthy, sensational cases the second trial could well last as long as the first, thus adding to costs.

Nominated

Neil H. McElroy, who is President Eisenhower's choice to succeed Charles Wilson as secretary of defense, boards a plane at Washington's National Airport after several days in Washington conferring with the President and Pentagon officials. The President at his press conference said he was considering appointing McElroy, president of Procter and Gamble and a Cincinnati, Ohio, resident, as secretary of defense as soon as routine investigation of the Ohio manufacturer has been completed.

McElroy Is Veteran Of Public Service

CINCINNATI (AP)—Neil McElroy gets $285,000 a year for bossing 30,000 employees of Procter & Gamble Co., of which he is president. They are scattered all over the world.

And, if he wins Senate approval as President Eisenhower's nominee to succeed Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense, he'll be getting $25,000 a year as "boss" of perhaps four million, similarly scattered.

But the sacrifice, both of salary and stock holdings, is strictly in character, close friends said. Over many years McElroy has devoted at least a third of his time to voluntary public service.

Yesterday he termed his nomination "an opportunity to serve in the area of being a good citizen."

Several years ago, after Cincinnati's Community Chest had failed four times in succession to attain its multimillion-dollar goal, McElroy was approached to take over chairmanship for the drive.

"I don't like to be associated with failure," he bluntly told a committee-in-waiting. "If I take this assignment, we'll make it go."

IT WENT And "make it go" he did. The charity-and-welfare drive was generously oversubscribed and has gone over the top ever since, even though McElroy served only the one year.

Of McElroy's many talents — they range from music to business administration — there are two close associates say, that are most likely to carry him farthest in his Cabinet post: his "organization genius" and "an instinctive ability to strike people in the right way."

McElroy's biggest hobby is his family: His wife Camilla and their two sons and married daughter.

If he has one personal trait that marks him—in the words of close friends—as a "well-balanced individual," it is the ability to

Church Leaders To Visit United Nations

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—World church leaders, after the close of a nine-day conference here, visit the United Nations today.

The Christian leaders, representing 170 Orthodox, Anglican and Protestant denominations in 50 countries, ended their policy-making meeting here yesterday with a prayer: "We commit ourselves to Thee . . . confident that Thou art working more wisely and more powerfully among us than we understand. . . . We pray that Thou wilt use Thy people . . . in extending the kingdom in every place.

"Keep us all in Thy faith and in Thy fear."

In major actions during the meeting here, the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches:

1. Set in motion steps for making the 50-year-old International Missionary Council a division of the World Council.
2. Launched a long-range study into problems of religious liberty, and Protestant relations with the Roman Catholic Church.
3. Approved architectural plans for a new, 350-office World Council headquarters in Geneva.
4. Urged governments — singly or together — to halt nuclear bomb tests for a trial period, as a means of sparking international disarmament agreements.
5. Added five more member denominations.
6. Pledged "all possible help to member churches which are seeking to bear a clear witness against the evil of racial segregation."
7. Voted to retain the Rev. Dr. Josef Hromadka of Communist

Ike Aide Should Win Confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders said today that Neil H. McElroy, soap company executive, should win speedy confirmation as secretary of defense.

But he must wait at least a week and agree to dispose of his holdings in some corporations that now have defense and government contracts.

The nomination of McElroy, 52, president of Procter & Gamble Co., went to the Senate yesterday afternoon a few hours after President Eisenhower had described him as "one of the most capable men and the highest type of people that I know in the country."

He succeeds Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, 67, whose formal resignation was sent to the White House.

"He's a fine man," Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), Senate Republican leader, said of McElroy. "As far as I know there will be no trouble about confirmation."

No date was announced for McElroy's taking over the post, but in Cincinnati McElroy said it probably would be a couple of months.

It was learned that Wilson, former president of General Motors who ran into some delay before winning confirmation in 1953, already had helped McElroy pave the way for confirmation.

The veteran Pentagon chief arranged conferences with Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) and Knowland before McElroy's name

Old Glory's On Treadmill Atop Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP)—Old Glory is having its ups and downs atop the Capitol these days to pacify congressional constituents.

It's a rare day indeed when a tourist can see by the dawn's early light the banner he so proudly hailed at the twilight's last gleaming.

He is a large man, 6 feet 4, and weighs 210 pounds. He has gray wavy hair and blue eyes and plays bridge and poker for relaxation.

There was no comment from Wilson, whose formal resignation was sent to the White House yesterday shortly after the choice of McElroy was announced.

But at her vacation home near Petoskey, Mich., Mrs. Jessie Ann Wilson said, "The news looks good." Her husband, she said, "has earned a rest," and both are looking forward to a brief Michigan vacation later this month.

As a corporation executive, McElroy has been paid $285,000 a year, more than 10 times the $25,000 pay of the secretary of defense.

McElroy already has a temporary office in Wilson's Pentagon suite and has been learning the routine of the multimillion-dollar Defense Department.

Samaritan Hurt

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Florence Loverde, 45, placed a wooden table beneath a tree in an effort to rescue a stranded cat squawling in the branches. The table collapsed. Mrs. Loverde suffered a broken left leg and internal injuries. The cat climbed down unassisted and walked away.

3 Injured As Blast Shatters Orange Plant

ORANGE (AP)—An explosion that rattled windows two miles away destroyed part of the sprawling DuPont Sabine River Works plant near here today, injuring three men.

The early morning blast shook windows and woke up many residents at Orange, two miles north of the plant on the Sabine River.

A resulting fire was quickly put out by the DuPont emergency squad, officials said.

The injured were E. M. Bohannon, 33, a mechanic; Billy Smith, 25, an operator; and S. E. Herbert, 41, a mechanic.

They were burned about the face and arms when the blast shook the polyethylene section of the huge multimillion dollar plant. All three were being treated at Orange Memorial Hospital.

Harry Sutton, superintendent of employ relations, said the fire was confined. He said the unit which manufactures alathon, a type of flexible plastic, was destroyed by the explosion and fire.

No estimate was made at once of damages.

It was learned the plant would continue normal operations except for the Alathon unit.

Various sections of the huge plant are isolated from each other as a safety measure to prevent spread of possible fires and explosions. There are no buildings which would be endangered.

The blast occurred about 1:45 a.m. The explosion and resulting fire was felt and seen for several miles.

So Who'll Pay?

DETROIT (AP)—Anthony Kania was driving home from work when he met his wife Helen, who was en route to the store in her car. The two crashed into each other while driving between parked cars lining both sides of a narrow street.

Daniel Still Asserts He Has Backing For Special Session

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel headed for a Pennsylvania federal-state conference today, still asserting legislators will back him in a special session.

"Unless I am convinced to the contrary the session will be called," he said.

Speaker Waggoner Carr disclosed yesterday results of a poll he made among House members. Of 149 queried only 101 answered.

Seventy representatives said they saw no need of Daniel's session—planned particularly for devotion to lobbyist control and water conservation. Seventeen members said they approved the governor's plans and 12 took no position but said they thought the governor should decide.

Daniel replied almost at once that he did not think the Lubbock legislator's poll was an accurate test because it was based on "erroneous assumptions" that a tax bill would be needed.

"The money is available and I have said from the beginning that no tax bill will be submitted. That should satisfy anyone who opposes the special session for money reasons," Daniel replied to Carr.

The governor said Comptroller Bob Calvert informed him yesterday that $603,312 is available for legislative purposes.

"The last 30-day special session cost $328,000 and a similar session can be held for even less money if strict economy is practiced," he said.

Daniel flew to Hershey for a meeting with a committee of governors and federal officials to determine if some federal functions can be returned to state control. He plans to be gone until Aug. 16.

Carr made plain his only difference with Daniel was over possibilities of a tax bill to finance a special session.

"I am in favor of a strict and workable lobby control bill, not opposed to one," Carr said. "I favor continued efforts leading toward a more effective statewide water program; I am not opposed to such action."

He said he still had doubts whether such a session could be financed without a new tax or by deficit financing.

"I would fight both," he said. Carr said he based his stand on "reliable sources"—including newspaper reports quoting statements by Calvert—which "question the governor's belief" that no new taxes would be needed.

In a letter to Daniel the speaker said that if it should turn out that enough money was available for a session and no new taxes would be needed "then there appears to be no conflict between us."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Actress Recommends A Buttermilk Facial

LONDON, England—It was a pleasant surprise to run into Narda Onyx in the lobby of Claridges. She was dressed in a black faille suit with a single ornament at her throat. Her crisp white gloves and hat accented her dark hair and eyes. "You looked so different the last time I saw you," I reminded Narda. "I hardly recognized you."

Narda explained that her stomach has shrunk, and she cannot feel comfortable eating very much at one time. "Occasionally I make a pig of myself with chocolate and my face breaks out. But I can clear it in one day with an old-fashioned method that has been handed down in our family. "It's buttermilk. I take a pad of cotton, soak it in buttermilk and go all over my face, patting it well onto the places that are broken out. I let it dry thoroughly and rinse it off with warm water. I do this three times in a row, three times a day, and it is wonderful the way it clears the skin."

Teen Programs To Get Denim's Aid

On Aug. 19, the first day of National Denim Week, the blue-jean and blue-jean-denim industry of the country will launch an extended drive to help the country's 15 million "teenagers" kill the dragon of the "juvenile delinquency" label and replace it instead with a "juvenile decency" tag. Through the denim council, the industry will celebrate denim week by opening a broad drive in which they'll support and promote accredited U.S. youth organizations. Plans include a coast-to-coast juvenile decency contest open to student councils in all high schools, with U.S. Savings Bonds and "Decency" plaques to be awarded councils which have carried out the most constructive and original community projects.

Conley Keeps Milwaukee Perking In Nat'l Race

Gene Conley, who last spring figured "to have myself the best season of my major league career," then went winless for two months, has found the touch again. He's keeping the pennant-pressing Milwaukee Braves perking in the National League pennant race.

The big right-hander helped the Braves pad their lead to 1 1/2 games last night, winning for the seventh time in his last eight decisions with a seven-hitter that beat fourth-place Cincinnati 12-2.

Gilmer, Marlin Among Standout Elevens In AA

DALLAS (AP)—Lockney, Terrell, Gilmer, Marlin, Giddings, Lockhart and Angleton are considered the top teams of the Class AA Texas schoolboy football race.

There were more favorites than you could shake a stick at yesterday when high school coaches gave their views in an interview with the press at the Texas Coaching School but those seven appeared to stand out above the rest.

One thing they agreed upon was that Stamford, champion two years in a row, had apparently reached the end of the row. Stamford lost virtually all of its first string that swept undefeated for more than two seasons. The Bulldogs weren't even picked to win their district championship.

Lockney, with nine regulars among its 16 lettermen, six of them all-district performers the past season, was given slightly more prominence than the others.

Forecast Out For 1957 U. S. Cotton Crop

WASHINGTON—The Agriculture Department forecast this year's government-controlled cotton crop today at 11,897,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This first estimate of the year compares with 13,310,000 harvested last year and 12,869,000 for the ten-year (1946-55) average.

The crop was grown under rigid marketing quotas and planting allotments and also under the soil bank program offering payments to farmers for underplanting allotments. These programs are designed to help reduce surpluses.

Market speculation was that the crop estimate would help form the basis for a boost in the government price support rate under the flexible price support system. An announcement of a possible increase was expected later today or tomorrow.

The Texas crop was estimated at 2,775,000 bales. The department said the Texas crop is 78 per cent of normal and the indicated acre yield is 306 pounds.

The crop will be supplemented by reserve and surplus supplies of about 11,400,000 bales from past crops. Most is stored under price support programs.

The prospective crop is less than forecasts of market demands for the 1957-58 marketing year. The surplus supplies will be available to fill any deficits.

The department estimated the acre yield of cotton will average 416 pounds compared with 409 pounds last year and 300 pounds for the 10-year average.

The condition of the crop Aug. 1 was reported at 81 per cent of normal compared with 83 a year ago and 78 for the ten-year Aug. 1 average.

The production of American-Egyptian cotton was forecast at 95,500 bales compared with 50,300 last year.

The Census Bureau said 232,368 bales were ginned before Aug. 1. This compares with 404,845 ginned to the same date last year and 313,958 two years ago.

The condition of the crop, the indicated acre yield and production, respectively, by states included:

North Carolina 82 per cent of normal; 339 pounds per acre and production 250,000 bales.

South Carolina 76, 337 and 355,000.

Georgia 78, 379 and 460,000.

Tennessee 63, 479 and 480,000.

Alabama 80, 404 and 625,000.

Cosden Wildcat Hits Oil, Gas On Spraberry Test In Dawson

Cosden Petroleum and R. J. Caraway's venture in Dawson County, the No. 1 Lillie Worthan, found gas and oil on a Spraberry drillstem test Wednesday.

Also in Dawson, completion was announced of the second well in the Cosden Welch (Spraberry) field for a small potential. The well, Blanco No. 1, Levertet, is 10 miles northwest of Lamesa and yielded 27.6 barrels of oil on potential.

At the Cosden-Caraway No. 1 Worthan, operator recovered 1,650 feet of gas and 50 feet of 38-degree oil, plus 125 feet of drilling water on the Spraberry test. The wildcat is about nine miles northwest of Lamesa.

Quartet To Sing At Local Nazarene Church Tonight

A quartet from Bethany Nazarene College, Bethany, Okla., will sing and the institution's public relations director, Curtis Smith, will speak at the local Nazarene Church this evening.

Rev. Lawrence Cholson, pastor, said the public is invited to attend the program. Activities start at 8 p.m. in the new Nazarene Church at 14th and Lancaster.

First services were held in the new sanctuary last Sunday. Rev. Cholson said a dedication program is being planned for this fall.

The Bethany College group will appear here as a part of a tour of the Southwest.

20 Liquor Law Charges Filed

LAMESA—Twenty charges on liquor law violations were filed against six persons in Dawson County Tuesday following a series of raids carried out by the sheriff's department and the Texas Liquor Control Board.

County Judge Aubrey Boswell set bonds at $5,500 and $1,000, respectively, for Ismael Alvera, 37, charged on 10 counts of liquor law violations, and Mrs. Alvera, 32, charged on three counts.

Mrs. Estia Villieriel, 21, entered pleas of guilty to two charges and was fined a total of $400 and costs.

Robert Tavaraz, 33, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail on plea of guilty to one charge.

Pleds Not Guilty To Charge Of DWI

Only one case was before Howard County Court on Thursday morning.

Willard Sullivan, Big Spring, was arraigned on a charge of DWI after his arrest by city police. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and his bond was set at $500 which he immediately posted.

Michigan Convict Tells Of 22 Years As Fugitive

By THOMAS DYGDARD
 JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — About dusk on a December day in 1934 Roy Hunkins boarded a bus in downtown Jackson and rode to Chicago.
 He changed buses at Chicago and rode to Kansas City.
 There, in a strange city, he got a room under the name Harry E. Bennett. He got a job as a farm laborer. Later he worked as a wrapper in a shipping department, as a carpenter, as a maintenance man in an office building, and as a door-to-door campaigner in a gubernatorial campaign.
 He married and after 11 years was divorced. Then he married again. That marriage ended in a separation. He fathered a child by his second wife.
 Harry E. Bennett, laborer, husband, father, was Roy Hunkins, an escaped convict.
 For 22 years and five months he was a successful fugitive.

Fugitive

Roy Hunkins spent 22 of his 61 years as a fugitive from Southern Michigan State Prison.

His journey led to his home town of Kalamazoo, Mich., where he wanted to visit a cousin. Somebody recognized him. Now he is No. A-95371, finishing a term for armed robbery. Prison officials are checking his record on the outside the last 22 1/2 years. If it is clean, he probably will get out in a few months. He now is 61.
 "It never bothered me much that I was an escapee," he said.

During that time he told no one that he was Roy Hunkins, who had walked away from Southern Michigan State Prison while a trusty, serving 10 to 20 years for armed robbery.
 He had served five years and had 2 1/2 years to go for parole. He told no one that before his escape he had served time in a total of about 17 of his 32 years — for car theft, larceny, desertion from the Army, parole violation, and other offenses.
 Then, because of his tangled family life, he started to travel.

Leona's Truthful Nowadays—Ouch!

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Leona Gage Egan, the "queen for a day" in the Miss Universe beauty contest, apparently meant it when she promised to tell no more falsehoods.
 The tall Maryland beauty lost her U.S.A. title at Long Beach, Calif., last month when pageant officials discovered she was married and the mother of two children.
 "I'm never going to tell another lie," she reaffirmed yesterday at the Tropicana Hotel, one of Las Vegas' biggest gambling casinos, where she is rehearsing for a Sept. 4 night club debut.
 Testing, a newsman asked how she felt about gambling.
 "I don't believe in gambling," Miss Gage replied. And while a casino press agent shuddered, she added: "That's a good way to go bankrupt."

"until my little boy was born two years ago."
 Hunkins was intent on getting custody of his son when his second wife left him, but he discovered he would have to go to court to do it. After 22 years, "I finally found something I wanted to do and couldn't do it because I was a convict."
 He claims he returned to Kalamazoo to give himself up and square his record.

EDGY MOMENTS

Life on the outside had its edgy moments for Hunkins-Bennett. Twice he almost ran into men he had known in prison.
 "I saw them on the street and ducked," he said. "They didn't see me."
 Minor brushes with the law — traffic tickets mostly — rolled off his back. Nobody asked for a birth certificate. His Social Security card, in the name of Harry E. Bennett, was one of the first issued. When he was asked about military service, he replied that he never had been in the service.
 "One thing that bothered me," he said, "was guys... a neighbor or somebody I worked with... talking about some crime they had read in the paper. They would always say, 'What do you think about that?' or 'Do you think they'll catch him?'"
 "I always wanted to ask them 'What makes you think I'd know?'"
 "Those kind of questions were rapping right at my front door."

On the outside Hunkins built three houses. The first he sold to get a bigger one. The second went to his wife when she divorced him. The third was sold because his wife didn't like it.
 The future, which 30 years ago looked like alternate periods of violence and the drabness of prison for Roy Hunkins, is doubtful. He wants to return to Kalamazoo, get a job barbering, and build himself another house.
 "Coming home at night and eating a good meal and sitting down in front of the television, maybe with a beer or two — that's hard to beat."

Too Hot For Tea

FT. HOOD (AP) — The commander of the armored school at Taiwan, Formosa, was offered a hot cup of tea yesterday during his visit at Ft. Hood, Maj. Gen. Chao Chi-hsiang shook his head when the tea was handed him and politely asked, "Do you have any ice water? The tea is very nice, but Ft. Hood in August is too hot for tea."

SALT LAKE CITY — Before leaving Colorado, I spent three hours at the A&M College talking to the professors. One of them, Dr. J. L. Fultz, head of the Botany and Plant Pathology Department, told me something worth considering.

He said that as agricultural research advanced, the farmers would use less and less hand labor. As machinery put these untrained workers off the farm, they would move to the cities to become social problems.

He said this was already happening in the Arkansas Valley of southeastern Colorado, in the sugar beet sections. At one time thousands of workers were needed to weed the beets and then pull them at harvest time. Now machinery does most of it, and the workers cannot get jobs.

"When their income drops," said Dr. Fultz, "they become dissatisfied and perhaps bitter. The boys may become delinquents; counties and cities have a huge welfare load to bear, and all the while the population of these laboring classes continues to mount."
 This problem not only faces the sugar beet sections, but can become troublesome in all parts of the country. Machines are replacing men everywhere in all industries, Dr. Fultz said.
 So if a person cannot or will not learn how to operate a machine or learn a skilled trade, he will become a burden to the country and useless to himself.
 Dr. Fultz doesn't know the answer to the problem, but he says it is much more serious than most people believe.

I spent three days in Colorado, then drove from Fort Collins yesterday afternoon to Rawlins, Wyoming, to spend the night. Wyoming is greener than it's been in years. Nearly every section has had rains all spring and summer, reservoirs are full and most of the creeks are still flowing.

At Laramie where I stopped for an hour, the ranchers are cutting native grass for hay, which is something they haven't done in several years. A livestock trucker there said ranges are in good conditions and that stocker cattle are in great demand. He said the cows he had been hauling were 150 pounds heavier than they were last year.

Laramie is on rolling land over 7,000 feet high, and it's all good ranching country. West of there the land gets more arid and more desolate until the Central Western part is a wasteland of great mesas and choppy valleys where one can see for 30 miles.
 One thing that surprised me about Wyoming both last summer and now is that it's such a bald, brushless area. They don't have anything like our mesquite. Except for the high mountain sections, even the creeks and rivers have very few trees along their banks.

I stopped at the Continental Divide and talked awhile with the elderly couple who run the station. She told me quite a lot of Wyoming lore. She said the first snow usually came in September, and that in December and January the temperature would hang below zero for days at a time.
 She said they didn't mind the cold weather so much, but when a norther blew in at 50 miles an hour, it was time to take cover. This last winter had been quite warm, and the one before it was very mild, with only a few weeks of zero weather.

In most of Wyoming they have five kinds of sagebrush, with one or two kinds being good sheep feed. I was told by two or three people that the black sagebrush is almost as good as alfalfa for sheep feed. However, I saw millions of sagebrush clumps and only one flock of sheep grazing a 150-mile stretch.

Except for the Lincoln Highway that pierces it, the land is just as rugged and unsettled as when the wagon trains creaked toward Oregon over a 100 years ago. It's a long, lonesome country that played an important part in our early history.
 Once I stopped on a hill overlooking a small river and marveled at the bigness of the landscape. To the southwest 20 or 30 miles rose the jagged mountains, while far below the winding stream could be traced by the fringe of trees that led northward between two low-lying hills.

For the moment time rolled backward, and I could imagine I was one of those old teamsters, driving a covered wagon and yelling, "Hi-Yah-h-h!" as I flung a bullwhip at a stubborn ox.
 It was a moment of beauty and reflection. Then as I started down the long slope, I saw something else—something that a previous emigrant had left behind as a warning.
 Seven little red signs like Indians in single file came slowly up the hill to meet me. As I passed each one, I carefully deciphered the lettering. Each sign had only one or two words, but the message was clear. The grim warning was there for all to heed. It read: "Substitutes will let you down. Like a strapless evening gown. Burma Shave!"
 The spell broken, I stepped on the gas.

Uncle Ray:
 Ancients Said Water Lilies Were Holy

By RAMON COFFMAN
 At about the time of my seventh birthday I saw water lilies for the first time. During a vacation, my father rowed me through a section of a lake where many of the plants grew.
 Reaching forth my hand, I tried to pick one of the blossoms, but the stem was too tough. Try as I might, I could not break the stem, so I gave up the attempt.
 Speaking in general, it is better to leave the blossoms where they are. Then they may be enjoyed by various persons who pass that way. In a special case, when water lilies start to choke a body of water, there may be good reason to pick them.
 Water lilies have been objects of interest for thousands of years. They were known to the people of ancient Egypt, who looked upon them as holy. The flowers were eaten by some Egyptians.
 In one of Homer's poems we read of certain people who ate so many lotuses, or water lilies, that they had the special name of "lotus-eaters."
 The Hindus and Chinese of long ago held the water lily in high regard. The Buddhists also told a story about the lotus, saying that the Buddha started his life on one of the blossoms.
 Yellow water lilies grow in various parts of the United States, including the valley of the Mississippi.

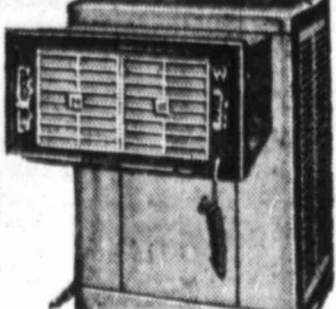

Water lilies growing on a pond. Mississippi River. Certain lakes are known for the vast number of water lilies which grow in them. One of these — Grass Lake — is only 50 miles from Chicago; water lilies grow thickly in hundreds of acres of its area.
 In addition to water lilies with yellow blossoms, there are some with white blossoms. Others have red or purple flowers.

Waterless, Helpless

Farmer Joe Addink stands helplessly as fire roars through his barn in Worthington, Minn. Addink had no water to pour on the flames. The blaze was out of control by the time firemen arrived with a tank of water. The only animal in the building, a calf, was rescued and Addink and members of his family carried some milking equipment to safety before flames gained full fury. The loft was loaded with hay. Addink, who was in his fields when the fire started, blamed it on a short circuit.

Hypnosis Useful In Dental Work

By TIM SMITH
BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—You are told to let your mind wander to pleasant things. I imagined myself in a canoe, paddling in time to some favorite music. The dentist became a sort of disembodied voice, suggesting sensations. I drifted off. . . . The technique is hypnosis applied to dentistry. The word some dentists have coined to describe it is hypnodontics. To find out how drilling can be pleasant, I went to a hypnotist, Dr. Philip Ament of Buffalo, to have two cavities filled. As part of a thorough briefing, he told me there are about 5,000 dentists trained to use hypnosis in the United States. They have an organization, the American Society of Psychosomatic Dentistry, Dr. Ament edits the society's journal. The American Dental Assn., which lists 77,804 active members among the nation's 89,000 active dentists, has neither condemned nor accepted the use of hypnosis in the profession. In an editorial in the June issue of its journal, it considered the hypnotic method at some length and said: "One of the principal reasons why hypnosis has not been accepted more readily by the profession is that dentists, for the most part, recognize it as a profoundly serious psychological phenomenon—not a procedure that may be learned in four or six or even a dozen easy lessons."

was wearing a heavy leather glove on one hand, which made it feel numb. When the numbness was established, he asked me to feel that the numbness was concentrated in a single finger. Then I was asked to touch the finger to the proper tooth, and to imagine the numbness flowing from finger to molar, until the tooth became dead to pain. When the drilling started, I felt nothing. Somehow the noise and the pressure were incorporated into my daydream. The racket became an airplane buzzing over the lake on which I floated in my canoe. COMING AWAKE When the doctor had finished, I heard him say: "Count to three, count to three out loud and open your eyes. You are awake!" I did. "When are you going to drill?" I asked. "It's all over," he said. "How do you feel?" I stepped out of the chair, exploring two new fillings with my tongue. I looked at my watch. I had been dreaming for half an hour, but I felt as if I had slept for five hours. I told him so. "That's because you were completely relaxed," he said as he cleaned up his tools. The average, intelligent person can be hypnotized in 15 or 20 minutes. After the first time, hypnosis can be rapidly re-established by the operator, because the path is familiar and the patient's mind is confident. By developing stages of suggestion, Dr. Ament says, the cooperative patient can be induced to deeper and deeper abstraction; in some way yet unknown, his mind is able to cut off sense of pain. Applied to dentistry, the doctor says, even extractions can be made and stitches taken without feeling. At the dentist's suggestion, your mouth can be made dry, with bleeding and saliva flow reduced to the vanishing point. By the same process, says Dr. Ament, a new bridge can be made to feel so much a part of the mouth that the usual period of uncomfortable adjustment is eliminated. He says a dentist sometimes can even kill a toothache over the telephone so that you can be free of pain until you can get to the office.

It's 75 Years, 11,000 Cases Since First Civil Suit Was Filed Here

By SAM BLACKBURN
Bura Higgins, wife of Charles Higgins, decided that she had taken all of the abuse off her helpmeet that she could. She marched to the newly organized district court of Howard County and through her attorney filed a petition for divorce. She accused her husband of cruelty among other things. He had profanely asserted he would no longer live with her. He also had written a passionate love letter to another woman which Bura had gotten her hands on and which she attached to her petition. The district clerk looked the petition over, picked up his pen, dipped it in an inkwell and made out the necessary entry on his docket. "Case No. 1," he wrote. "Oct. 28, 1882."

This was the first district court case ever filed in Howard County, according to the records of Wade Choate, district court clerk. Wednesday, 75 years later, Choate picked up his official stamp and filed another divorce suit—this one styled James Martin versus Carolyn Martin. The file number for this case, he noted, was 11,000. His records do not reveal whether Bura Higgins was given her freedom or not. There is no further notation after the petition attached to the passion-filled illicit love letter was stuffed in its yellow manila folder.

Just about two months after Bura filed her civil suit, the district court clerk of the good year 1882, was called upon to file the first criminal case. On Dec. 27, 1882, an indictment was returned against one Harry Wright, alleging that he robbed one Thomas Currin by force and assault of property valued at $50. The next notation in this matter was dated March 14, 1884. It was a motion by the district attorney asking the district court to dismiss the case against Harry Wright for the reason that the district attorney said he would not prosecute. "The reason for dropping this prosecution," wrote J. H. Calhoun, the district attorney, "is that Harry Wright, said defendant in this case, has been taken to New Mexico and executed." Choate thinks this was a logical reason for dropping the prosecution. In the 75 years which have elapsed since that first criminal case was filed, the district court here has recorded 3,378 criminal cases.

In the civil division, Choate noted that Cases 10,000 to 11,000 took two years to accumulate. From No. 9,000 to 10,000 consumed the period April 10, 1953 through May 7, 1955.

Fallout Stations Hold Key To Future British Defenses

LONDON (AP)—A chain of scientific stations stretching across thousands of miles of ocean may hold the key to Britain's future defenses and either settle or further agitate a worldwide controversy. The stations consist of fallout collectors and air sampling devices to check for radioactivity. They stretch from Christmas Island to Australia, with Pacific island posts at Penrhyn, Canton, Noumea, Rangiroa, Papeete, Funafuti and Nandi and the cities of Adelaide and Brisbane.

leased into the stratosphere and will come down over wide areas of the world over a long period of time. Already, however, the government and leading British scientists have released a number of what they called encouraging preliminary reports. After each of the explosions Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons that the fallout had been negligible. Other reports came from experts on the scene at Christmas Island. Air Commodore Denis Wilson, an eminent radiologist, flew through the mushroom cloud of the second bomb an hour after it was exploded. Wilson said there was no immediate fallout whatever. Dr. W. R. Cook, scientific director of the test expedition, said the fallout was comparatively negligible. Both said however, that there could be no immediate answer as to whether the bombs were truly clean.

Their purpose: to provide a final verdict as to whether the three hydrogen bombs the British exploded at Christmas Island in May and June were "clean" or "dirty." If the bombs prove to have been clean—as British scientists hope and believe—the hydrogen bomb can be called something more than an instrument of mass destruction, suitable only for use on distant enemy targets. It can be termed a tactical weapon, suitable for use even over this nation's own territory against enemy bombers and missiles and on the battlefield. A verdict of clean could influence a worldwide debate whether the testing of nuclear weapons will affect the health of present and future generations. And such a verdict could influence the U.N. disarmament talks in London, at which Russia and four Western nations are discussing whether and how a suspension of all nuclear tests could be enforced. If a clean bomb could be exploded with little or no fallout, any suspension of tests would become infinitely more difficult to enforce. The final answer on the British tests will not be known for months and possibly years. The products of the three explosions were re-

Christian Life Called 'Thrilling'

NEW YORK (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says the Christian way "is thrilling and exhilarating and gives the only true objective to life." Graham also told 16,000 persons at Madison Square Garden last night: "Modern pressures in this push button and sleeping pill age have produced the disease of anxiety. Annually we have 15,000 suicides because thousands live in a spiritual vacuum." "God meant for people to have something to be dedicated to," he said, adding that the something was Jesus Christ. On the 75th night of his New York crusade, 414 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ." The over-all total of such decisions is 43,462. Attendance now totals 1,429,300.

South Texas Gets Hard Rains

The Associated Press
Heavy rains soaked parts of South Texas Wednesday, but tapered off during the night. The Weather Bureau forecast another hot, dry day for most areas with only a few scattered showers expected to dent the heat. Brownsville got up to 2.11 inches of rain. Showers extended north and northwest about 60 miles from Brownsville. Woodsboro got 1.75 inches and Tivoli got 1.50 inches. Both are near Corpus Christi. Temperatures were mostly in the 90s Wednesday with Presidio reporting the high of 107 degrees. The low maximum was 87 at Galveston. Dawn temperatures ranged from 80 at Galveston to 69 at Lubbock.

A Rewarding Task

The hobby of crocheting a bedspread takes many long and tedious hours, but the results will be well worth the time feels Mrs. Clyde Smith. Mrs. Smith has enjoyed the recreation of crocheting since she was 12 years old. The lovely lamp pictured behind Mrs. Smith was presented to her by the women of the Amarillo church from which she and Dr. Smith moved to Big Spring. Dr. Smith is district superintendent of Methodist churches and before that held the pastorate of the local First Methodist Church during the World War II period.

Mrs. Clyde Smith Still Uses Recipe She Acquired In 1933

A recipe that helped raise six children and is now being carried over into the grandchild generation is contributed today by Mrs. H. Clyde Smith. The recipe for Raisin Nut Cookies was acquired by Mrs. Smith in 1933 from a home demonstration agent in Tahoka. Since she began using the recipe Mrs. Smith says she hasn't had a failure. On a recent visit from her granddaughter Mrs. Smith enjoyed teaching the young girl how to make the cookies.

Smith maintains an art she learned at the age of 12, the art of crocheting which she learned from her mother. Mrs. Smith is now working on her third bedspread; she has made seven tablecloths and seven stoles, besides many other items.

One spread, which took a year to complete, is an ivory colored base with about 100 brilliant red roses covering the entire spread. "The reason it took so long to complete," says Mrs. Smith, "is that the war interrupted and thread couldn't be bought."

Swiss Island Chef Heads N.Y. Hawaiian Restaurant

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
The Associated Press Food Editor
To bring exotic Polynesian food and drink to New Yorkers and their visitors, Chef Albert Stockli took several giant steps from his native Switzerland. These culinary strides have landed him in high command of the kitchens of the Hawaiian Room where he uses the knowledge and training acquired in dozens of countries.

Important in his work and travel, was Stockli's stint (before the war) with a Dutch line visiting Sumatra, Java and Bali. Indonesian chefs aboard ships were superb and he became passionately fond of their dishes. But when the sailor-cooks were silent and mysterious about how they prepared the food, Stockli kept an eye out for the ingredients in the galley and experimented until he could duplicate their creations. Nothing concerned with food preparation is too much trouble for Stockli. He still travels to taste dishes, reads about food, prowls around supermarkets, spends hours talking to cooks and epicures and constantly works in his own kitchen to originate and improve recipes. He told us that not long ago he went back to a Paris restaurant eight times and ordered the same intricate lobster dish at each session because he was determined to reproduce the secret formula.

Stockli's advice to any man or woman interested in the fine art of preparing food, is to cook, cook and cook again. Remembering his teen-age apprenticeship in an uncle's Swiss restaurant, he says: "I spent months peeling potatoes and cutting them in every possible manner. When I finally spent many more months learning to prepare them 116 different ways, I had an intimate acquaintance with this vegetable that will last me for the rest of my life!" If you want to cook a Polynesian supper, here's a recipe for shrimp fried in a crisp coconut batter that Stockli offers on his restaurant menu. For other dishes, the chef suggests fried rice with roast pork or chicken, and Rumaki; to make the latter, wrap a chicken liver and a canned water chestnut with a strip of scallion and a slice of bacon, marinate in soy sauce mixed with ginger and curry powder and broil until the bacon is crisp. For dessert, bring on a mountain of fresh fruit—melons, oranges, strawberries, fresh figs, bananas—with a flaming rum-flavored sauce.

ALBERT'S ISLAND SHRIMP
Ingredients:
1 1/2 pounds fresh shrimp or two 12-ounce packages frozen shrimp, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1/2 teaspoon ginger, 1 can (3 1/2 ounces) flaked coconut, 1 cup flour, 2-3 cup milk, 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder, extra flour, Curry Sauce.
Method:
If shrimp are frozen, thaw. Leaving shell on, remove rest of shrimp. Cut deeply down back of shrimp and devein. Mix lemon juice with salt, curry powder and ginger. Pour over shrimp, cover, and let marinate in refrigerator 4 to 6 hours, turning shrimp once or twice. Spread coconut in a shallow pan and bake in a slow (300 degrees) oven 15 minutes or until coconut is dry; stir a few times. Prepare batter by mixing the 1 cup flour, milk and baking powder; stir in 1/4 cup of the marinade drained from shrimp. Dip shrimp in extra flour, next in batter, then in dried coconut. Fry in deep hot fat (380 degrees on deep-fat thermometer) 3 to 5 minutes—depending on size of shrimp, or until cooked through and golden brown. Serve with curry sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cake Combines Two Favorites

Two family favorites — chocolate and pecans, are combined in this cake recipe. Any kind of frosting will be tasty on this cake.
CHOCOLATE PECAN CAKE
Ingredients:
Two cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 1 1/4 cups sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 1/2 squares (2 1/2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate (melted), 1 cup milk, 1 cup sliced pecan nutmeats.
Method:
Sift together the cake flour, baking soda and salt. Cream butter and sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time, thoroughly along with vanilla. Stir in melted chocolate. Gently beat in flour in 4 additions, alternately with milk; begin and end with flour. Beat only until smooth each time. Fold in pecans. Turn into 2 round layer-cake pans, each 8 inches across; prepare pans by greasing bottoms, lining with waxed paper and greasing paper. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 30 minutes. Turn out on racks; strip off paper; cool. Fill and frost as desired.

Save Calories On Salad Dressing

This salad dressing will save you calories!
BUTTERMILK DRESSING
Ingredients:
One cup buttermilk, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 teaspoons red wine vinegar, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 fresh basil leaves (minced) or dried crushed basil (to taste), salt, freshly-ground pepper.
Method:
Beat all ingredients together with a fork adding salt and pepper to taste. Just before serving add enough dressing to moisten greens and toss. This dressing is also good with sliced cucumbers and tomatoes. Store any dressing left over in refrigerator and use next day.

Mushroom, Almond Shrimp Party Dish

Most of this lovely looking shrimp main dish can be made ahead of time. Because it's easy, looks beautiful and tastes marvelous you'll depend on it for brunch, lunch and dinner parties. Basically, it's creamed shrimp on rice, but toasted almonds, pimientos and stuffed green olives are added for color and flavor. Canned mushroom soup makes the easy sauce. Whole pink shrimp garnish the top. Parsley or watercress and hard-cooked egg wedges are arranged around the edge. The beautifully garnished shrimp and rice looks dazzling when served on a large platter! MUSHROOM, ALMOND SHRIMP
Ingredients:
3 lbs. frozen shrimp in shells or 1 1/2 lbs. shelled shrimp or 5 1/2 oz. cans shrimp
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 lb. shelled almonds (about 1 cup slivered)
2 cups uncooked white rice
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
4 cups water
2 10 1/2 oz. cans condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup chopped pimientos
1/2 cup sliced stuffed green olives
3-4 hard-cooked eggs
Parsley or watercress for garnish
Method:
Thaw the shrimp if frozen shrimp are used. Peel and clean. This will take about 35 minutes for jumbo shrimp. To clean, run a knife along the back of the shrimp from head to tail to remove the sand vein. Wash in water. To cook, add shrimp to 3 quarts boiling water with 3 tablespoons salt. Bring to a boil again. Turn heat down until water just simmers. Cover and cook 2 to 3 minutes. Drain. Follow package directions for cooking shrimp if frozen shelled shrimp are used. Sprinkle the shrimp with lemon juice. Cover and store in the refrigerator, overnight if desired. Remove almond skins by placing in boiling water. Let stand until skin slips off easily. Remove the skins. Cut into slivers. Dot with butter or margarine and toast at 350 degrees F. 20 to 25 minutes or until brown. About 45 minutes before time to serve, put the rice, salt, black pepper and water in a 2-quart or larger saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid. Simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove from the heat. Allow to stand with the lid on until time to serve, at least 10 minutes. The rice will stay hot about 20 minutes. Mix together the soup, milk and Worcestershire sauce. Add the shrimp. Heat over hot water or over a very low heat until piping hot. To serve, stir the pimientos into the rice. Arrange the rice in a ring around a very large platter. Sprinkle with the olives. Pour the shrimp and sauce in the center. Sprinkle with the almonds. Garnish with the egg wedges and parsley or watercress. This recipe makes 9 to 10 servings.

Salad Uses Fresh Garden Vegetables

Top-of-the-range meat dish and a prepare-ahead salad.
GREEN BEAN AND TOMATO SALAD
Ingredients:
One can (1 pound) cut green beans, 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1/4 cup tarragon wine vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, white pepper, 1 large clove garlic, 4 to 8 small or medium-sized tomatoes, salad greens.
Method:
Drain beans thoroughly. Put the olive oil, vinegar, salt, paprika, dash of pepper in a flat container. Cut garlic into 3 or 4 pieces and add. Beat with a fork; add drained beans. Cover and refrigerate for several hours or all day, turning beans a few times in the marinade. Remove garlic. Cut tops from tomatoes and scoop out insides. Fill tomatoes with marinated beans. Garnish with salad greens. Makes 4 to 8 servings. If only 4 tomatoes are used, not all beans will be needed for stuffing; pile remaining beans on salad greens and serve with tomatoes.

NEW IDEAS: fresh from the Foremost Dairy Kitchens!
4 cool ideas for people who think they don't like buttermilk

Bet you'll like TOMATO SWIRL! Tangy and terrific! Fill glass half full with tomato or vegetable juice, then add Foremost buttermilk. That pretty swirl? Easy—all you do is run a spoon once around the inside rim.

Bet you'll like FROSTED SOUP! Take a can of cream of asparagus soup, stir in 1 1/4 cans of Foremost buttermilk—and enjoy a really new kind of chilled soup. (Try this one with pea soup or canned beef broth, too, Good!)

Bet you'll like ORANGE FOAM! Bright new way to start the day—and it couldn't be easier! Just pour a quart of Foremost buttermilk in a pitcher, add a small can of frozen orange juice concentrate; beat 'til frothy.

Bet you'll even like it STRAIGHT! Come on—try it! Say with a tiny pinch of onion salt or curry powder...and maybe a cool, crisp sliver of cucumber. Now take a sip—and surprise! See what you've been missing?

P.S. to people who already like buttermilk: You'll love Foremost buttermilk! It's smooth and tangy, with a freshly-churned flavor all its own. Low in calories, too...so you can cool off often, with all you want. Right about now, maybe?

A Bible Thought For Today

He raiseth up the poor out of the dust, and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghill, to set them among princes, and to make them inherit the throne of glory; for the pillars of the earth are the LORD'S, and he hath set the world upon them. (1 Samuel 2:8)

Civil Rights, From Different Viewpoints

Couple of names got in the news this week, in widely separated incidents, but in a manner of speaking there might be something in common for them. We stretch the imagination to think so, at least, in these days when all the headlines are concerned with civil rights.

There was John Prather, an 83-year-old rugged individual who has been living on the same New Mexico ranch for 54 years. The Army wants this ranch for a guided missile range, and has been after Prather a long time to sell it, which he has refused to do. Now the long arm of Uncle Sam has stretched out, and under-government writ, some deputies tried to take Prather off his place. He replied that they would have to kill him to make him move.

One cannot but help sympathizing with John Prather, and although there has to be a right of eminent domain for vital government projects, it is an unfortunate state when a citizen is hauled bodily off the land he spent a lifetime to develop. Then take the case of Congressman

Poage, the Texas member from Waco. It seems that Jayne Mansfield showed up in Washington, and there was the usual publicity flurry, with pictures being made. Rep. Poage got pulled into one of the groups for picture purposes, and when the excitement had died down, he turned to a colleague very blankly and asked, "Who in the world is she?"

Well, now, you could say that Rep. Poage is not keeping up with modern events, and ought to be a little better posted on what this country's attractions are.

But the push for publicity among entertainers gets disgusting at times, and we think that Rep. Poage is a pretty smart fellow for attending to the affairs of state and not devoting his interests to the picture magazines.

In other words, a fellow has a civil right not to have to swallow all the guff that's poured out for public consumption. John Prather has his property rights, we say, and Rep. Poage has his rights of propriety.

Home-Owning Made Easier

The new regulation relating to the minimum down payment on FHA-insured home loans as a means of spurring home buying among middle income families and the hike in interest rates will, in the opinion of many builders, have the desired effect.

The order cuts down-payments to almost half the former figure, and the rate in interest rate was one-fourth of one per cent, or a hike from 5 per cent to 5.25 per cent.

The higher interest rate is expected to result in channelling "a larger share of available mortgage investment funds into the financing of lower-priced homes without increasing inflationary pressures on our economy."

Since the new regulations are effective immediately, it shouldn't be long before their influence is apparent.

Rep. Rains (D-Ala.), chairman of the Housing subcommittee of the House, asserted the FHA interest rate has been raised so high "there is a serious question in my mind as to whether the whole intent of the FHA program is being nullified."

Well, other times, other viewpoints. There was a time — perhaps 30 years ago — when the interest rate on a home mortgage reached nine per cent, and actually when all the cost factors were considered, the rate would be a good solid 14 per cent.

But the quality of materials and workmanship that went into a substantial house in those days were excellent, and houses of the day are still good houses — good investments at even 14 per cent. And that was a normal cost for money in those days.

When one can be sure of quality, workmanship and desirability of location, a home is still the best investment any family can make.

Walter Lippmann Qualifications Of An Ambassador

Mr. Maxwell Gluck, our new and unfortunate Ambassador to Ceylon, is the victim of a certain blindness in high quarters. It is the notion that to have been a success in business is to have the quality and the necessary experience for being a success in public life. Indeed, there is if anything a prejudice against those who make a career in politics and in government affairs. There is little sympathy with those who regard government as a calling, and as an art that has to be learned.

So the President took it for granted that Mr. Gluck would be a competent Ambassador in a sensitive post in a critical region of the world. Why did he take this for granted? Because, said the President at his press conference, Mr. Gluck was recommended by "a number of people I respect." If the people who recommended him were aware that Mr. Gluck was a big campaign contributor, they had the tact to refrain from mentioning such a sordid consideration to the President. What then did they tell the President about Mr. Gluck? They told him that they had examined Mr. Gluck's business career, and that it was successful, that they had studied the FBI reports, which were good.

Why, then, did Sen. Fulbright's little quiz test produce such an uproar? Because it revealed so sharply that Mr. Gluck, however estimable as a person and however successful in business, had never taken any interest, not any interest, in the affairs of South Asia where he is to be a principal representative of the United States.

When he was asked who is the Prime Minister of India—India being the nearest neighbor of Ceylon—Mr. Gluck said he knew who he was but could not "pronounce" the name. This was the crucial question and answer, and the result was a complete giveaway. For while the Prime Minister of India has the given name of Jawaharlal, which is indeed difficult to pronounce, he is known to all of literate mankind as Nehru.

As Nehru, he is as well known as Churchill, Stalin, or Eisenhower. As it is impossible to suppose that Mr. Gluck had never heard the name of Nehru pronounced, the presumption is that he did not know that Nehru is the Prime Minister of India. If anyone thinks that this is not significant, let him imagine how he would feel if Nehru appointed as Indian Ambassador to Mexico or to Cuba one who said he could not "pronounce" the fairly difficult name of Eisenhower.

Such a man would not be regarded as a good prospect to play a useful part in the affairs of the North American continent. For while he could no doubt be "briefed" — even to knowing President Eisenhower's middle name — what he would really need in order to qualify would be to be born again with an interest in public affairs and with a capacity to realize that the world is round.

Embarrassing as it all is to Mr. Gluck, to the President, to the Foreign Service officers who labor in South Asia, to the Ceylonese, and to Americans concerned for the dignity of their country, there is something to be learned from it. The case throws a sharp light on the problem of the appointment of non-professionals to embassies.

It demonstrates a basic rule, that the burden of proof is on the President when he goes outside the career service. What the President has to prove is that his appointee, though he is not a professional diplomat, though he is not familiar with the country to which he is going, is a man of demonstrated ability in public life. It is not enough that he has made money, that there are no black marks against him in the FBI reports, and that he has been certified by the Republican National Committee. He is to occupy a very public place in the affairs of the world, and he should already have distinction himself in public life.

This is not too austere a standard. Many of our non-career Ambassadors would qualify readily enough under it — for example, in the big posts, Mr. Whitney in London, Mr. Bruce in Bonn, Mrs. Luce and Mr. Zellerbach in Rome, Mr. Bowles, Mr. Cooper, and Mr.unker in New Delhi. The common qualification of all of them is that, while they have not had a career in the Foreign Service, some considerable part of their careers has been spent with distinction in public service.

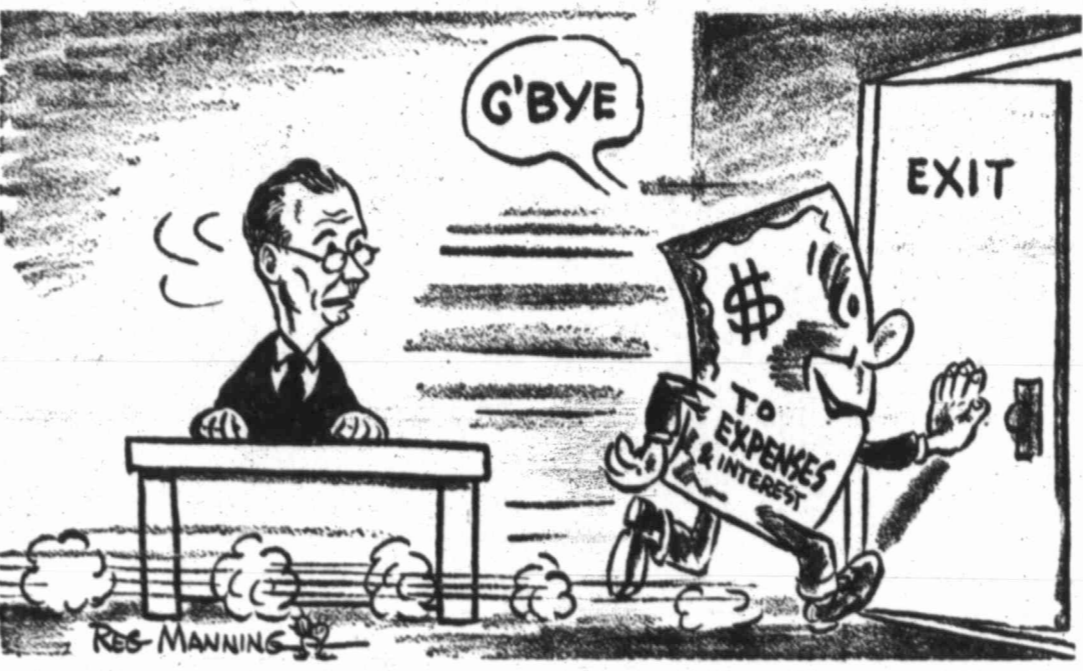

Always, however, an appointment outside the career service should be regarded as the exception which has to be justified by the special quality and the proved distinction of the candidate. Furthermore, it ought to be an unwritten rule that at least one of the major West European embassies — including now and then the highly honorific embassy at the Court of St. James — should always be filled by a career officer.

For it should never be said that the highest and most desired posts are closed to the members of the Foreign Service. (Copyright, 1957, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Insult To Injury

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—You'll never convince Geary L. Schade, 57, that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. Schade missed $120 from his topcoat pocket as he left a bar. As he returned to the tavern, two men told Schade they knew who had the money.

The two men drove Schade to a residential area, stopped the car and told Schade to put his hands up. Then they relieved him of another $200.

James Marlow Civil Rights Battle Isn't Over

WASHINGTON (AP)—So far Negroes are the winners, Southern does, Eisenhower will probably veto the bill because of a jury fight. The battle isn't over. It's trial requirement he says would reach its critical stage. This is an ABC on the fight and what lies ahead.

The bill passed by the House June 18 was a victory for Negroes, it did, there would be no civil rights law this year. The Senate late last night passed a toned-down version of the House bill. This, too, was a Negro victory. Southern could claim satisfaction from toning it down. But there will be no civil rights law at all—which would be complete defeat for Negroes, complete victory for the South—unless the House and Senate compromise on a single bill which President Eisenhower is willing to sign.

The House is unlikely to accept since the commission would have broad powers to examine discrimination and civil rights violations and report on them.

This is where House and Senate bills differ: 1. The House would let the attorney general, in addition to voting rights cases, move into all kinds of civil rights violations. For example: School segregation. The Senate threw this out altogether.

If the House insisted on retaining this provision—it's unlikely to do so—the Senate almost certainly would refuse. The result: No agreed-on bill and therefore no new law.

2. The House and Senate would both let the attorney general sue in when voting rights were violated and ask a federal judge to order the violations stopped. This is more protection than Negroes have obtained from Congress in this century. But—

Under the House bill anyone disobeying such a court order could be tried in a federal court, fined, or jailed for civil contempt or criminal contempt. For civil contempt he'd be jailed only until he complied. Under criminal contempt he'd get a flat jail sentence as punishment after it was too late to comply.

The Senate agreed to the first part of that: It would let a judge by himself try and jail a man for civil contempt. But for criminal contempt the Senate insisted a man must be given a jury trial.

NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. housewife is becoming more and more electric—or at least electricity-minded.

Did you know that about one out of every 10 American women now uses an electric shaver? This startling nugget of knowledge was disclosed in a survey which also found that 96.2 per cent of modern homes now have radios and 81 per cent have television sets.

In most families, however, father still has to mix his drinks and do the dishes by hand. Some 94.3 per cent of our homes are without blenders and 94.3 per cent have no automatic dishwashers.

Crusade for Freedom relays the story of the Romanian Communist who died and went to hell. When he arrived at the entrance, he was surprised to find two doors.

On one door was the notice, "Communist hell," and on the other, "Capitalist hell."

"Which do you choose?" he was asked.

"The Communist hell, of course," he replied. "There is bound to be a fuel shortage!"

The Bourdeau section of France, noted for its wine, is busting its buttons in pride because a survey found it had, proportionate to its population, the largest number of centenarians in the country.

In one parish alone—St. Julien—50 couples had been wed 50 years or more.

Marie Roubert, who was 104, cheered the wine producers by attributing her longevity to the fact that for over a century her diet had included red wine—and snails.

Jean Mansard, at 90, who already had nine children, married a girl of 18, who in due time bore the proud man his 10th offspring.

When he and his wife travel, A. D. Brinkerhoff of Bloomfield, N. J., likes to note down in his diary any odd or humorous signs they encounter.

Here is his favorite, posted in a tavern in rural Arizona:

EGGS
Tax 3 cents
Services of rooster 3 cents.
Wear and tear on hen 4 cents.
Total price 10 cents.

Speaking of hens, Mrs. Martha Cresci of New York City has written us about asking her daughter, Sandy, then 7 years old, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

"Oh, I know the answer to that," replied the child. "The chicken came first."

"How do you figure that?" inquired the mother.

Her daughter giggled. "I can imagine God making a chicken—but can you imagine God laying an egg?"

'Cruel Sports' Group Defends Lord Altrincham

LONDON (AP)—Lord Altrincham, whose weekend attack on the royal court stunned Britain, found a friend today in the League Against Cruel Sports—the people who side with the foxes against the aristocratic hunting set.

"We congratulate Lord Altrincham on his outspoken and forthright comments on the tweedy nature of the mediocrities who surround the present Queen," said the league's Executive Committee.

The league frequently has criticized the "upper classes" for their fox hunting habits and indulgence in blood sports. It has also admonished the royal family for what it says is its support of such goings-on.

Referring to Lord Altrincham's suggestions that the Queen "move like the times" by getting a whole new set of courtiers, the league said: "He has said something which has required to be said for a long time and it is to be congratulated on his courage. It is high time that his voice, tweedy nonentities to which he alludes ceased to exercise influences they have on the public life and social life of this country which is no longer the private prerequisite of the 'hunting, fishing and shooting set.'"

"There are other horsey, tweedy nonentities clogging British public life who think everything revolves round the hunting field and the point-to-point meeting, who could well be added to Lord Altrincham's list."

Lord Altrincham, 33-year-old editor of the National and English Review, was hooded with letters at his London home about his article criticizing the Queen's speechmaking, interests and upbringing, and those around her.

"So far it seems 50-50 for me and against," he said as he went through the pile of mail.

He said those anything revolves around the times "by getting a whole new set of courtiers as 'You are an unutterable boomer and a despicable cad, sir.'"

Typical of those in favor was the one from a university professor: "Most of this, though not quite all, I think, is just splendid and certainly needs saying."

Around The Rim Flu Epidemic Should Be Lighter

They didn't call it Asiatic flu when it invaded the world that other time. As I remember, there was no geographic designation. It was just called the flu. People died of it—or, as they now explain, from developments which were brought about by the flu attack.

I read now that most of those who died perished from pneumonia which came as an aftermath to the flu attack.

I don't know. I just recall that when a victim died, it was observed he "died of the flu."

Now, from what I read in the papers, this nation is threatened with a new flu epidemic. Scientists term this particular virus as Asiatic flu to differentiate it from the milder ailment which has prevailed each winter for unbroken decades.

From what I can figure out, this Asiatic virus is identical with the fatal malady which terrorized the nation some 40 years ago.

I was a small boy when that epidemic struck. We were living in a tiny West Texas oil boom town. The town, as could be expected, lacked nearly everything—there was little attention paid to the matter of sanitation. There were few doctors, no hospitals.

As a result folk died like flies. You met a playmate today, tomorrow you heard he was ill. A day or so later, you learned he was dead.

Somewhat, I missed out on catching the bug. I wasn't even afflicted with a bad cold throughout the entire siege.

There was only one undertaker in the town. In fact, the mortuary was a sideline carried on by the one and only furniture store.

I remember it was a regular custom of the gang of kids I ran around with to walk by this store.

At the back, the proprietor had a dingy storage area. I do not recall where he had his embalming equipment.

I do remember so many died and so rapidly that he worked day and night. Burials could not keep up with the deaths. As a result, it was a common sight to see half a dozen caskets, each containing the body of a victim, stacked criss-cross fashion, in the center of the storage area. Grave diggers became ill and died and new grave diggers had to be found. Preachers were sick and substitute ministers for services had to be called in. A parade of funeral corteges wound its way from the mortuary to the cemetery.

Doctors warn there is a probability that the current invasion of Asiatic flu may sweep across the country this fall. I read where laboratories are on 24-hour shifts producing vaccine which it is said will immunize a person from the disease.

From what I read, it seems there will not be enough vaccine to go 'round. And if there was, I am sure there would be a great many who wouldn't avail themselves of it.

This siege, if it does develop, shouldn't be as lethal as the first one. There have been many advances in medical science in the past three decades.

When the other epidemic raged, pneumonia was an almost fatal disease. Apparently pneumonia inflicted the coup de grace to hundreds of flu victims left weakened by the virus.

Today, pneumonia has been stripped of its fangs. It is as rare now to read of someone dying of pneumonia as it was to hear of someone surviving it 40 years ago.

Sanitation has improved. Sources of contamination can be better controlled. There are more hospitals, more doctors with better equipment and technical knowledge.

Thousands—perhaps millions of persons—will avail themselves of the vaccine and, if it is effective, will be safeguarded from infection.

No doubt, if the epidemic does develop, countless thousands will fall ill with the disease. And industry and commerce will suffer because of the mass absenteeism of workers.

Fortunately, we have every reason to hope and believe that even if this invasion is as bad as it can possibly be, there will be far fewer deaths.

It was not so when that first lethal wave washed across the nation two score years ago. —SAM BLACKBURN

Inez Robb Woman Has A Right To Seek Beauty

In the Battle of the Sexes, I am usually on the side of the angels, i.e., men. So I rejoice in the order of a California court directing a lady bandleader to pay temporary alimony to an ailing and estranged husband, a trumpet player.

But I wish to sound a warning. In their fight for equal rights, men can go too far. One did just that the other day in New York when he sought in the state's Supreme Court an annulment from his lawful, wedded wife. He sued on the grounds that she had deceived him at the time of the nuptials by not informing him that she had had her face lifted.

Chivalry, already gasping for life, probably gave up the ghost entirely when this suit was filed. The depth of ingratitude has been plumbed when a man sues a woman because she is trying to be beautiful in his sight.

Ladies, unite! You have only your husbands to lose! If this dissatisfied husband wins, it will set a dire precedent. It will only be a matter of time until that pivot tooth or those false eyelashes, forgotten and unspecified in the first warm surge of love, is cause for annulment or worse.

Victory for this malcontent can only pre-empt a time when a bride, to be on the safe side, will have to file an inventory or bill of particulars, including arch supports, when she weds.

It is sad but true: It is terribly unfair but nonetheless factual that "a man is as old as he's feeling; a woman as old as she looks." My sex is always trying to redress this balance with the dye pot, paint and powder, up-lift, a two-way stretch, and now the surgeon's knife. As long as men refuse to act their age, women aren't going to look theirs—if they can help it.

I have a hunch that a lot of women approaching middle age or past that threshold would welcome a chance to sit down and spread, rest the feet and let the silver threads riot among the gold. But no woman with a speck of spunk is going to give up and grow old gracefully when her better half, frisky as a calf in clover, is growing old as disgracefully as circumstances warrant.

If there's going to be any garter-snapping done, a sensible wife wants it done on home territory. So she begins touching up her hair, eschewing chocolates and all such works of the devil and ends, if she has the funds, by hiring a qualified surgeon to take up the slack in her face.

It was a man, you can be sure, who blithely said: "My face, I don't mind it, because I'm behind it."

But a woman does mind, especially on that bleak day when she looks into the mirror and discovers that those itchy, bitty-crow's feet have turned into a crow's nest.

All any sensible woman wants at this point are two things. First, she wants to be 35 again. That doesn't seem much to ask. She knows dozens of women who have been 35 for years and years. So she begins to dream of jacking up her old face and getting a spare. A majority of us take out this yen in chin straps, anti-wrinkle cream and mud masks.

A few, with money, take to plastic surgery. And for this a husband sues for an annulment! Read it, ladies, and weep.

For the second heart's desire a woman wants most of all, and the reason she works so hard at the illusion of youth, is her burning ambition to wind up, as her old man's darling. (Copyright, 1957, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

David Lawrence Senator George And Presidential 'Purge'

WASHINGTON—The past speaks to the present. That is one way of expressing the significance of the life of Senator Walter George of Georgia, whose death is being mourned by the whole country.

For in Mr. George's career is a poignant lesson to all those "modernists" who have been confidently demanding the vigorous exercise of executive "leadership" and punitive discipline by the President over members of his own political party. Here is the story that made political history:

The time is 1938. Franklin D. Roosevelt, author of New Deal reforms, finds Senator George, Democrat, out of tune with his legislative proposals, particularly Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to "back" the Supreme Court. Heeding the cry that presidential "leadership" must compel obedience to its commands, Mr. Roosevelt undertakes a "purge." He makes a speech advising the people of Georgia to defeat their senator for re-nomination in the forthcoming primaries.

There is nothing personal in the dispute—just a piece of political pressure to require a senator to forget his own convictions and obey the dictates of the White House. Mr. Roosevelt speaks in Georgia—in the presence of Senator George, on the same platform—as follows:

"The senior senator from this state cannot possibly, in my judgment, be classified as belonging to the liberal school of thought. . . . Let me make it clear that he (Senator George) is, and I hope always will be, my personal friend. He is beyond question a gentleman and a scholar. I am impelled to make it clear that on most public questions he and I do not speak the same language."

"I have no hesitation in saying that if I were able to vote in the September primaries in this state, I most assuredly would cast my vote for Lawrence Camp."

The people of Georgia resented the attempt to "purge" as an unwarranted interference in their affairs. They renominated and re-elected Senator George by an overwhelming vote. He continued for years to serve his country irrespective of party politics. What would have happened to the career of Walter George if the "purge" had been successful? The Senate and the nation would have lost the services of a statesman just because he chanced to disagree with a President. It is a lesson worth pondering.

The episode underlines, of course, a tendency that still prevails today in so-called "liberal" circles—the very places where it might be thought there would be unwavering confidence in the right of the people in each state to select their own representatives without coercion from the President or anybody else in the Federal Government.

But the demand which arises even now and is pressed upon President Eisenhower—that he must "crack the whip" over dissident members of his party—is due to a curious faith in presidential power.

When the late Senator McCarthy was the center of controversy, Mr. Eisenhower told his press conference one day that he had received letters from the public urging that he "remove" the Wisconsin senator from office. A year ago, when Senator Wiley was up for re-nomination in Wisconsin, there was a consistent effort to persuade Mr. Eisenhower to throw his weight behind Mr. Wiley and thus take part in the primaries. Some leading newspapers in the East editorially criticized Mr. Eisenhower for failing to use the primaries as a means of presidential or party discipline.

All this proceeds no doubt from impatience with dissenting viewpoints and involves a certain intolerance of any opposition. In the intellect which too many people, even in intellectual circles, have of a President is that of a benevolent dictator. They want power centralized in one man government, and they do not object to the doctrine that the beneficent end sought justifies any means to achieve it.

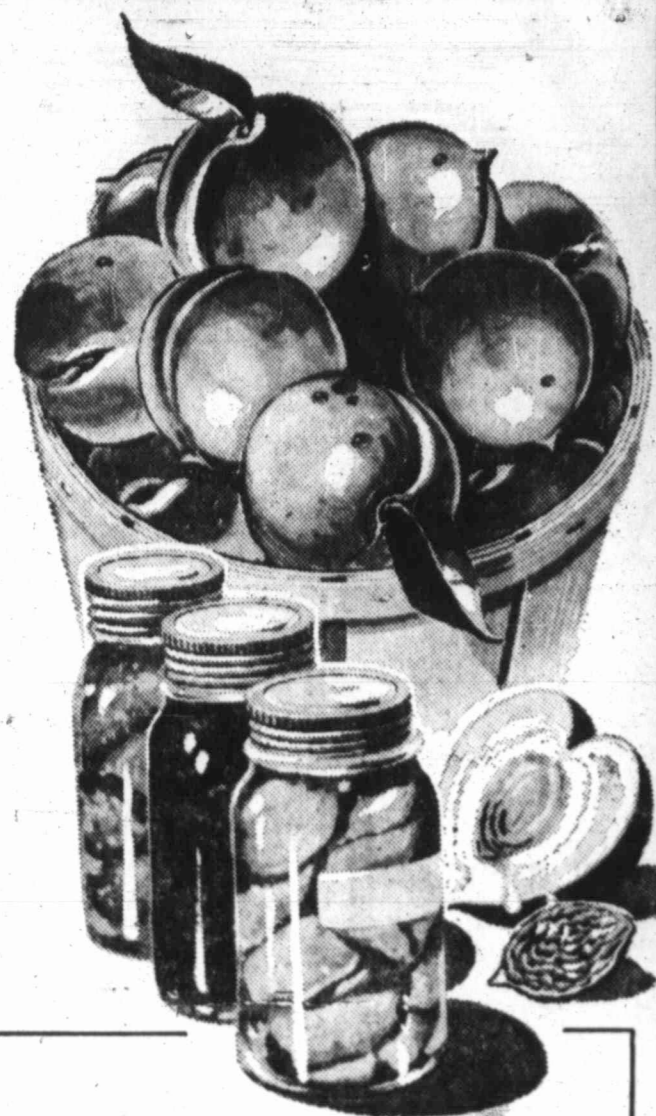

Political parties in America have survived the binding party caucus and the attempted "purges" by the Presidents. There are splinter and manage to check one another. It isn't a smooth-working machinery, but the tasks in governing 170,000,000 or more people in a democratic system are never as "simple" as they are under a dictatorship. Cumberdom in government is not too high a price to pay for the enjoyment of the blessings of democracy. (Copyright, 1957, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Re-Districting Puts Solons On Hot Spot

By TEX EASLEY
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Adjournment of Congress will start a stream of Texans homeward. The usual off-election year fence mending will start. For a few the hand shaking and speech making will have particular meaning. They are the ones affected by a bill passed this spring by the Texas Legislature realigning some congressional districts.

Harris County gets an extra congressman. Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston has indicated he will seek election from the northern half of the county. His campaign problems should be simplified.

Rep. Martin Dies, now congressman at large, hasn't said what he will do. He is from Lufkin, so he won't try to hold the seat he loses with its assignment to Harris County. He says he may run for the Senate next year against Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

Congressmen who picked up some counties under the bill, and have some political "fence constructing" to do, are Olin Teague of Bryan; John Dowdy of Athens; Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater; Omar Burleson of Anson and Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls.

By their own estimates, the counties they are gaining are much like those they already represent, primarily agricultural.

Typical was the comment of Teague, who picked up Hood, Johnson and Somervell counties: "They are made up of the same type of good people I am now representing. I have many good friends in them now, and I hope to make a lot more."

Parker County has been added to the district of Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson and Abilene.

In addition to Parker, Burleson also picks up Scurry County. Scurry, along with Stonewall, Kent, King and Haskell are being taken away from the district of Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock. These last four counties are to be added to Ikard's district.

Both Burleson and Ikard plan to get over their newly added territory as soon as possible. Like Teague, they commented on the community of interest of the counties they are acquiring with those they already represent.

Dowdy has been doing much

Mother Charged With Making Girl Shoot-Her Father

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Payne, 33, was accused yesterday of persuading her eight-year-old daughter to shoot the child's father so they would have "a better life."

Mrs. Payne was charged with murder and denied bond. Her husband, David, 38, was found dead in bed Tuesday night in their two-room apartment at Burk Burnett. He had been fatally wounded in the head with a .410 shotgun blast.

Mrs. Payne denied the charge. Besides the girl, Sharon Sue, she has another child, David, 7.

Sharon Sue told Sheriff Weldon Bailey and Asst. Dist. Atty. Gener Ritchie that her mother told her they were going to kill their father so they would "have a better life."

The mother handed the loaded gun to the girl, Sharon Sue said. The child said she then went into a bedroom, put the barrel of the gun about an inch from her sleeping father's head and pulled the trigger.

The mother said she was in the bathroom at the time of the shooting.

The children were placed in a home.

Crime Doesn't Pay

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Edward Radley, 14, tried to avoid paying a fare by attempting to enter through an "exit only" turnstile and got wedged so tightly he could not move either way. Patrolman Paul Marchese rescued the boy by loosening bolts on the turnstile bars. "I'll pay my fare from now on," promised young Radley.

Knife Collector

Mike Warren, 12, of Dallas, brandishes a wicked-looking Gurka knife from India, one of the stars of his 57-piece knife collection. The Gurka knife Mike holds has a small nick in the blade and explains its past. "It's their tradition that this knife must draw blood. So when they pull it out to show somebody, they nick their own fingers."

Dallas Youth Has A Sharp Hobby—Collecting Knives

DALLAS (AP)—Mike Warren, 12, has a hobby that makes him the envy of his pals.

He has a weird collection of strange knives from all parts of the world and many periods of history and has a battle tale to go with each.

His collection of 57 blades include scarred survivors of frontier skirmishes, foreign encounters and world wars.

Fondling a gurka knife from India, Mike pointed out a small nick in the blade and explained its past.

"It's their tradition that this knife must draw blood. So when they pull it out to show somebody, they nick their own fingers."

The lethal blade is formally christened, he added, when it beheads a steer in one chop.

Midland Boy Given 5 Hours To Live—He's Still Kicking

MIDLAND (AP)—Doctors gave Don Lockhart only five hours to live last December, but the youth, 14, is well on the way today to recovery.

They made the prediction after a .22 caliber bullet was accidentally fired into Don's forehead at close range as he and a neighbor boy, 13, played with a pistol in Don's bedroom last Dec. 17.

For 17 days Don lay unconscious.

"We never gave up hope Don would live and never stopped praying," said Mrs. J. E. Lockhart, his mother. "We know God was standing by his side."

Slowly Don grew stronger and now he is looking forward to returning to school this fall.

He left a hospital Jan. 31 without the use of his left arm and left leg. The bullet was still in the back of his head held there by a flap of skin.

With physical therapy he has gradually become able to walk and talk again. His therapist says he can play baseball by next summer.

The bullet was removed March 17. Hospital and doctor bills amounted to almost $3,000, toward which Midland folk contributed $700.

Don's father, a carpenter, says the others will be paid in full because "We are so grateful."

Unionists Indicted In Warehouse Blast

AUSTIN (AP) — Two Teamsters Union officials have been indicted a second time in connection with a blast at a warehouse here three years ago.

The indictments yesterday charged Raymond Shafer and Eddie Haas with possession of a bomb, conspiracy and arson by explosives.

Dist. Atty. Les Procter said new indictments were sought because the earlier ones were found faulty.

The two union men were charged in connection with a blast at the Austin Fireproof Warehouse. Little damage resulted.

The Austin bombing occurred during a bargaining dispute.
