Magazine Sees 'Discrepancies' In Steeves Tale

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Saturday Evening Post has canceled plans to publish an article on the 54-day disappearance of Lt. David Steeves in the High Sierra because of what it called discrepancies in his story.

In addition, the Air Force is making a "thorough but routine" investigation of the 23-year-old pilot's story.

Steeves bailed out of his jet trainer over the California mountains on a routine flight last spring. He was listed as dead, but 54 days later he stumbled out of the rugged mountains and told a detailed story of a harrowing struggle for survival.

A spokesman for the Saturday Evening Post said that on July 9 the magazine contracted for a story but terminated the agreement Aug. 4 after three weeks of investigation.

Steeves, formerly of Webb Air Force Base, was temporarily assigned to Bolling Air Force Base near Washington while Air Force experts check his story.

The Air Force emphasized that it is routine procedure to investigate and study any man involved in an accident.

When Steeves first returned to civilization, his wife Rita, of Fairfield, Conn., said it was "the happiest day of my life." But this week she said she was considering getting a divorce.

Congress Chiefs Set Program For Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders laid out a program today for action on half a dozen major measures and adjournment of Congress next week — if the House breaks its civil rights stalemate.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) already has closed the door to consideration by that body of any new legislation.

Republican Leader Knowland of California said that "leaving aside civil rights, if everything goes well, we should get out of here by a week from Saturday."

Despite talk of a presidential veto, Johnson said he will bring before the Senate House-passed bills to increase the pay of postal workers and government civil service employees.

He said a compromise immigration measure on which the Senate Judiciary Committee is expected to act today will be brought before the Senate, as will a revised bill to limit the availability of FBI files to defendants in federal court cases.

Johnson said the Senate will act on a bill authorizing appropriations for the Atomic Energy Commission. This measure is involved in a controversy over whether there should be a government program of construction of atomic reactors, a program opposed by the House.

City Revenue Bonds Go For 3.69 Pct.

Accepting the bid of Columbian Securities Corporation of San Antonio, the City Commission Tuesday night sold $50,000 in water and sewer revenue bonds for an effective interest rate of 3.697 per cent.

The bonds will furnish the city's part of funds for construction of the water and sewer lines to serve Webb AFB's housing unit.

Columbian Securities' bid was lowest of seven submitted. Second lowest bid came from Rauscher Pierce & Company, a bid of 3.7045 per cent. The Columbia bid calls for a rate of 3 3/4 per cent for 1956-61, and 3 3/8 per cent for 1962-67. A premium of $18.50 is offered, which will give a net interest cost of $10.169.

Panel May Slice Funds Even More

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to President Eisenhower by a 226-163 vote a compromise bill authorizing a $3,367,083,000 foreign aid program for the coming year.

The measure was nearly half a billion dollars below Eisenhower's request. It was passed by the Senate last night.

But even as the House completed congressional action on the bill, Eisenhower seemed likely to get a new jolt when a House Appropriations subcommittee votes on a separate bill needed to provide actual cash for the program.

There was talk of cutting the amount another half a billion dollars or more.

This would amount to a billion-dollar cut below Eisenhower's $3,865,000,000 request, in the face of a special presidential plea to congressional leaders Monday night.

House Republican Leader Martin (Mass) predicted that Eisenhower will have to call Congress into special session if it cuts too deep into foreign aid.

The $3,367,083,000 authorization bill, a preliminary to the appropriations, passed the Senate by voice vote last night and is due for House action today.

Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), a floor manager for the measure, said he foresaw no trouble in getting it through the House and on to the White House for Eisenhower's signature.

That would pave the way for the House Appropriations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Passman (D-La.), to vote out a money bill.

Subcommittee members were not commenting publicly in advance of their vote. But some of their private remarks about the aid program would make $2,800,000,000 seem like a federal figure to come out of the group.

Passman himself has made no secret of his opposition to the foreign aid program since it first started. Last year Congress cut more than a billion dollars below Eisenhower's aid request.

But aid supporters say a similar dollar cut this year would in effect be much more severe because Eisenhower's request, at $3,800,000,000, is already way below the nearly five billion dollars he sought for the 12 months ended last June 30.

The authorization measure is a compromise between a higher bill originally passed by the Senate and a lower one that had passed the House. Most of the long-range aid features Eisenhower sought were turned down.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) criticized the compromise measure yesterday on grounds it did not provide enough money or long-term authority for economic development loans.

The bill would authorize a loan fund of 500 million dollars this year and 625 millions next. Eisenhower wanted three-year authority totaling two billion dollars.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.), on the other hand, said the bill carried too much money. He said the loans from the fund actually would not be repaid by foreign countries.

County Invited On Tax Survey

The city commission is ready to talk about a tax revaluation survey at the convenience of the county, and the city manager was instructed to notify the county.

At its meeting Tuesday night, the commission said it would be ready to meet at any time. The city had received a letter from R. H. Weaver, county judge, stating that the county would meet with the city and school district concerning the revaluation survey.

The idea was brought up by the City and school board recently, and both groups have gone on record as favoring the survey. The two groups plan to proceed with the survey should the county not join.

AFL-CIO Sets Cleanup Course On Corruption

CHICAGO (AP)—The AFL-CIO Executive Council served notice yesterday that it is determined to complete action on charges of "corrupt influences" against the Teamsters before the union's convention next month.

The move against the union of Dave Beck, James R. Hoffa and 1 1/2 million members was taken after the case had dragged on for more than four months without a decision.

Charges that the union was "dominated, controlled or substantially influenced by corrupt influences" were drawn up March 29 after Beck, Teamster president, was accused of misusing about $400,000 of the organization's funds.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices committee arranged to hold final hearings Sept. 5 and 6 in Washington.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said the committee "will conclude the hearings in the Teamsters case irrespective of whether the Teamsters appear."

Meany said the Executive Council will receive the committee report Sept. 23 or Sept. 24. Then, he declared, the council will make known its verdict before the Teamsters convene Sept. 30 in Miami Beach.

The council's decision could take the form of recommendations as to what steps, if any, the Teamsters must take to remain in the AFL-CIO.

If the planned timetable is followed, Teamster leaders can make their comments or replies from their convention's speaking platform.

Hoffa, the Midwestern Teamster, boss is generally expected to succeed Beck as head of the union.

The council decided to take no action for the time being in the case of Maurice Huchesson, president of the 850,000-member carpenters union.

"We want more information," Meany told newsmen.

Lindsey, managing editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, said the two might also confer with the three faculty members involved.

He said he and Watkins have talked by telephone for two or three days with Dr. Jones.

U. S. May Let Newsmen Go Into Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration is expected to clear some American newsmen to go to the Chinese mainland later this year despite the asserted existence of a "quasi state of war" with Red China.

The phrase was used in a letter by Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter to American youths in Moscow who have been talking about traveling to the Chinese Communist capital of Peking.

Officials said that it was not intended to suggest any hardening of the already firm policy of maximum boycott which the United States has toward Chinese Communism. One authority said it was simply "the most apt description of the situation that exists."

Herter's letter raised a question about what the administration intends to do about the problem of newsmen going to Red China. State Department officials advised against confining that issue with the government's opposition to a Red Chinese trip by the Americans who have been attending a Moscow youth festival.

The specific distinction made by these officials was that newsmen would be able to report to the American people on conditions in Red China.

The Herter letter to the Americans in Moscow declared that under American policy U.S. citizens are forbidden to travel "to the areas of China under Communist control" for many reasons.

The reasons "include the non-recognition of the regime; the existence of a quasi state of war and the continued application of the Trading With the Enemy Act; the refusal of Communist China to renounce the use of force; and the illegal jailing of Americans already in China despite promises to let them out."

Officials noted that the Korean conflict involving the Red Chinese has merely been suspended by an armistice, and that regulations issued by the Treasury Department under the Trading With the Enemy Act are still applicable. These regulations in general forbid American citizens to spend dollars with the Red Chinese and also bar property transactions.

The administration is expected to let newsmen going to Red China conduct their business.

The Fulbright subcommittee obtained and studied State Department secret documents in preparation for the hearings it never held. On the basis of his own examination of the documents, Fulbright reported:

1. The United States joined in the offer to help Egypt build the dam after, not before, Egypt mortgaged part of her cotton crop for arms from Czechoslovakia.

2. The administration's decision to withdraw the offer "was made against the advice of the United States Ambassador to Egypt and the President of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development."

Fulbright said the withdrawal was "not in the best interests of the United States" for these reasons:

"First, the withdrawal of the dam offer was the direct cause of the seizure by Nasser of the Suez Canal. This action led, in turn, to the Israeli-United Kingdom-French attack, to the serious deterioration in our relations with leading allies, to the severe oil shortages in Europe, and to economic dislocations in other parts of the world. So far as cost is concerned, it was recently reported in the press that 174 million dollars has been spent under the authority of the Eisenhower Doctrine, more than our contribution to the dam would have been in 10 years."

"Second, withdrawal of the offer served to increase the influence of the Soviet Union. The Soviet toehold in Egypt has become a hammer lock on a country which otherwise might well have stayed relatively free from influence by the Communist orbit."

DEW Line Tests Indicate 100 Per Cent Capability, AF Says

POINT BARROW, Alaska (AP) — The Distant Early Warning (DEW) Line, a 3,000-mile-long chain of radar stations guarding North America's northern rim, has been operating in test for months and already has shown "100 per cent" capability, says a ranking U.S. airman.

Brig. Gen. Stanley Wray, chief of the U.S. Air Force electronic defense system, made the evaluation yesterday at a formal ceremony marking formal delivery of Dewline by the builders, the Western Electric Co., to the government.

Reds Win 2nd Guiana Victory

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — The Communists for the second time in four years apparently have won an election victory in British Guiana. But they were left without a chance of again establishing a Red government in Britain's South American colonial possession.

British Gov. Sir Patrick Renison is empowered to appoint enough men to the colony's Legislature to block any Red control.

Cheddi Jagan's Red-dominated Peoples Progressive party last night had captured six seats and another of the 14 elective seats at stake seemed assured. His Chicago-born wife Janet held a big lead unlikely to be overcome by two Democratic opponents. Jagan is a dentist of East Indian origin.

Anti-Communist Negro lawyer Linden Forbes Burnham and his candidates won Georgetown's three seats but their strength in other districts faded as East Indians, who make up nearly half the colony's population, unleashed an avalanche of votes for the Jaganites.

Of the four other seats, one was won by the minor United Democratic party and it was expected to get one more. Count of votes in the remaining two was reported favoring the Burnhamites, but an upset by the Jaganites was not excluded.

Jagan, while apparently failing to get a clearcut majority of eight seats, nevertheless registered another defeat for British influence here.

Jagan campaigned principally with attacks on "British colonial dictatorship" and demands for immediate independence.

Fulbright Scores Aswan Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) contended today that what he called Secretary of State Dulles' ill-considered decision to withdraw support for the Aswan dam gave Russia a hammer lock on Egypt.

Fulbright, chairman of a Senate subcommittee which recently abandoned its inquiries into State Department Middle East policies, planned to take the floor of the Senate for a full-fledged attack of his own.

In prepared remarks he said the subcommittee folded up its inquiry because it was obvious its three Democratic and three Republican members could not get an agreement "which would criticize the handling of Middle East affairs by Secretary Dulles."

On the basis of his own examination of all the documents, most of which were classified, Fulbright reported:

The United States, Britain and the World Bank agreed late in 1956 on a plan to give aid lend Egypt 400 million dollars for the big Aswan dam project, designed to harness the Nile River for irrigation and power.

The offer was canceled in July 1956, however, as Egyptian President Nasser pursued policies considered increasingly favorable to Russia. One reason given for withdrawing the aid offer was that Egyptian economic commitments for purchase of arms from Czechoslovakia had left Egypt unable to pay her share of the project's $1,200,000 cost.

The Fulbright subcommittee obtained and studied State Department secret documents in preparation for the hearings it never held. On the basis of his own examination of the documents, Fulbright reported:

1. The United States joined in the offer to help Egypt build the dam after, not before, Egypt mortgaged part of her cotton crop for arms from Czechoslovakia.

2. The administration's decision to withdraw the offer "was made against the advice of the United States Ambassador to Egypt and the President of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development."

Fulbright said the withdrawal was "not in the best interests of the United States" for these reasons:

"First, the withdrawal of the dam offer was the direct cause of the seizure by Nasser of the Suez Canal. This action led, in turn, to the Israeli-United Kingdom-French attack, to the serious deterioration in our relations with leading allies, to the severe oil shortages in Europe, and to economic dislocations in other parts of the world. "Second, withdrawal of the offer served to increase the influence of the Soviet Union. The Soviet toehold in Egypt has become a hammer lock on a country which otherwise might well have stayed relatively free from influence by the Communist orbit."

RENO, Nev.—When you classify gambling towns in Nevada, they're all about the same, with the only difference being in size. I can't see that Reno is much different from Las Vegas except that it's bigger. If they took away the signs, you could walk from one joint into another without knowing what town you were in.

One difference is that here the operators are all young women. They look after the slot machines, deal cards at the blackjack table and seem to run everything except the bars. There is also a more friendly atmosphere than at Vegas and not so many sharp-eyed house men who look as if they had escaped from Alcatraz.

The main difference in the two Nevada cities is that Las Vegas has "The Strip." Probably nowhere in the world are there so many big night clubs, with each one trying to become more luxurious than the others and featuring the world's highest-priced entertainers.

There is nothing like that at Reno, though they do have some well-known show people. I think Billy Daniels is here now, with Pearl Bailey coming to town next week.

There used to be a sign between Big Spring and Stanton directing the public to Harold's Club. They are scattered throughout the west, advertising it as the world's largest where 5,000 visitors come every day. I imagine it's the truth. It is a monstrous thing in size, with two floors covering about a quarter of a block. Then in the center there is a smaller skyscraper unit that rises to seven stories. It's on this seventh floor or penthouse where the night club entertainers hold forth.

On the second floor Harold has his Roaring West exhibits. I noticed one gun in particular which was supposed to belong to Wild Bill Hickok. With it he had killed several of the 45 men credited to him. In all, there are over 1,000 guns, a bar with 2,140 silver dollars welded into the top, and even seven stagecoaches hanging from the ceiling.

I don't know Harold's last name, but the story is that he and his brother and father started the club back about 1933. The old man was up in years when he changed occupations, and had been a Vermont farmer. Finally he decided a slot machine would bring in more money than a cultivator, so he came to Reno and started working with son Harold who was already here.

This is supposed to be the divorce capital of the world. I haven't found out much about that yet. I did see a lot of women from 35 to 55 who were unattached. However, they didn't seem to be worried about their approaching widowhood. Most of them were either cooling their throats at the bar or working off a few pounds pulling slot machine levers.

I just thought what a spot such a woman's ex-husband would be in if he had to pay her alimony plus the expense of Reno. The way some of those widows were spending it, they could run through with $25 a day, even if they put in un-lon hours.

After staying awhile in Nevada, I don't believe any man would want his wife to come here for a divorce. There's too much temptation to spend money and get into other kinds of trouble.

A lot of California people come over for a weekend of gaming and merry making. Many of them are Japanese, who seem to have a passion for gambling.

One white-haired old Jap, at 70 and weighing hardly more than that figure, was standing beside me when his last nickel disappeared into a slot machine. He carefully turned all his pockets wrong side out without finding another coin.

Then grinning toothlessly, he turned and said: "No more money. But next week I come back with another $20 and maybe I win the big pot."

Most people are like that. Common sense should tell them the percentages are with the house, yet they keep spending money a little at a time in hopes of getting that big win. Even if they do win a small stake they'll stay until it's all gone and some more besides.

Somehow I prefer the lonely little desert towns to places like this. Yesterday in driving part way down from Oregon, I passed through some of the most isolated country I'd ever seen. One place in particular was a stretch of sage-covered desert where the service stations were 60 miles apart.

One village I'll remember quite awhile is Jordan Valley, located in southeastern Oregon. It's a narrow little valley with a creek watering about a dozen farms, while on all sides the sage-covered hills stretch away 40 miles to the nearest settlement.

The man running a cafe told me the place was settled a long time ago, and that there were almost as many people in the cemetery as there were living in the community. The farmers irrigate small alfalfa fields and keep a few cattle. They don't make any money, but they manage to live.

"The average person thinks he needs travel and excitement," the man said, "but he doesn't. Our forefathers settled in these valleys, worked hard and never got 50 miles away from home. And deep down inside we're not any different. A roof over his head, a job, and his family and a few friends

Jail Inmates Now Get Daily Baths

The police department — proud of its new building — has established a regulation which does not receive the complete approval of some of its prisoners.

In an effort to keep the jail clean, the police department has ruled that every prisoner must take a shower bath after the noon meal every day. While some prisoners are bathing, others mop the cells and halls and dust, off the bars.

These rules, claims Sgt. Alvin Hiltbrunner, don't exactly bring shouts of joy from some of the prisoners. It does help, keep the jail a lot cleaner, he said and that is what the rules are for.

Some of the prisoners don't like to have to bathe, he grinned, and some of them don't like the work or the shower.

Dorothy Dandridge Sues Publication

FORT WORTH (AP) — Attorneys for singer Dorothy Dandridge yesterday filed a two million dollar libel suit against the publishers of a magazine for Negroes.

The suit said the magazine's January issue carried a "libelous and defamatory article" about the Negro movie star and nightclub performer.

is all any man needs to be contented."

Yesterday afternoon I began to feel right at home while driving through a stretch of country north of Winnemucca, Nevada. There hundreds of jack rabbit carcasses along the pavement, caused by cars hitting them at night.

About an hour before sundown I began to see the long-eared jacks hopping through the sage, and occasionally one came across the road. They looked a little different from West Texas jack rabbits, though. These were about the same size, but are more of a reddish brown in color and have long, black tails. The tails look a full inch or two longer than those of Texas jack rabbits, and they hang down like a coyote's tail instead of curling up.

Why they were designed like this I do not know. Perhaps it shouldn't matter how a jack rabbit's tail is made or whether he has one at all, what with the world situation and other important matters commanding our attention.

Yet for some reason or other the thing set me to wondering. I'd still like to know why these Nevada jack rabbits have such long tails.

41 Youths Defy U. S., Leave For Red China Tour

MOSCOW (AP)—Forty-one American youths defied the United States government today and left for a forbidden tour of Red China. Just before the Moscow-Peking trans-Siberian express train pulled out, two Americans withdrew from the trip. Two others said they might decide later to catch up with the group by flying to Peking.

Jake Rosen, New York, leader of the group and organizer for the trip to the Communist-sponsored Moscow youth festival, said he would go to Peking by way of Kiev where he would first attend another Communist-sponsored youth meeting.

The U. S. State Department had issued a strong warning that the trip might violate the law. This resulted in an anxious 2 1/2-hour meeting by the Americans early in the day. Several had been wavering among the 46 who originally planned to make the trip to Peking.

The sharp State Department warning that going on the three-week, Communist-sponsored trip might lead to trouble with the U. S. law brought one withdrawal from the original list. Orville Schmidt of Frankfurt, Germany, and Marlon S.D., dropped out but two other Americans decided to go. They are Selby Tucker Jr., Pass Christian, Miss., and Dean Hoxsey, Los Angeles.

The early morning huddle of the Americans was called after receipt of a note specifically directed to them by Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter. It was delivered to their Moscow hotel by a U. S. Embassy official.

Herter said those making the trip might be violating the U. S. Trading With the Enemy Act, adding, "This constitutes a criminal offense under our law."

Civil Rights Conflict Settles Down To War Of Nerves

WASHINGTON (AP)—The civil rights conflict in Congress settled down to a political war of nerves today with House Republicans renewing talk of a special session in November to settle the issue.

As adjournment fever gripped Congress, a new move was made by Rep. Keating (R-NY) to break the stalemate and get the Senate-passed bill headed toward the House floor for a vote.

The bill, with its controversial jury trial amendment, rested on the desk of Speaker Rayburn of Texas. Objections yesterday barred direct House action, and Rayburn has not yet moved to send it to the Rules Committee to chart a new course.

Keating, chief strategist for GOP civil rights forces, addressed a letter to Chairman Smith (D-Va) of the Rules Committee asking him to take the initiative and schedule hearings on the bill.

Smith is an avowed foe of any civil rights legislation. At his committee office yesterday, aides said they did not know Smith's whereabouts.

In the likely event Smith ignores the request, Keating drafted a follow-up resolution to send the bill to a Senate-House conference for rewriting more nearly to President Eisenhower's specifications. The resolution would have to be approved by the Rules Committee and subsequently voted on by the House.

The House yesterday blocked rival Republican and Democratic moves either to send the bill to conference as Republicans want, or to accept the Senate bill along lines advocated by Democrats. Both moves required unanimous consent.

With Republicans and Democrats holding out for their respective proposals, there appeared to be increasing emphasis on GOP talk of a special session in November if the deadlock continues.

Having once adjourned, Congress could be called back in special session only by President Eisenhower—a prospect not relished by Democrats, who regard it as a potential political maneuver to place Eisenhower in the role of civil rights champion.

Keating told newsmen that Congress should not adjourn until a bill is passed at this session, but he added: "If no bill is passed this session, I shall strongly urge the President to call a special session to wind it up. This matter should be settled positively before Much the same thing was said by House GOP Leader Martin of Massachusetts, who also declared there was time to get a "proper bill" through Congress this session.

To this he added, however: "I'm willing to stay here until Christmas, or have a recess and come back later."

House Democrats, meanwhile, appeared ready to wait out their GOP rivals in the hope of passing the Senate bill with its jury trial amendment narrowed down to voting rights cases only.

As passed by the Senate, the bill gives defendants the right of trial by jury in criminal contempt proceedings arising out of violation of federal court injunctions.

The administration contends the right of jury trial would be extended into all areas of law, including labor injunctions, and would seriously impair the authority of the federal courts.

Under the terms of a compromise drafted by Rep. Celler (D-NY) the jury trial provision would be limited to cases involving voting rights.

Polish Communists Claim Strike Ended

LODZ, Poland (AP)—Communist authorities declared today the three-day-old transport strike which crippled Poland's second biggest city has ended, but many streetcars still remained in the barns.

Armed militiamen, who had been riding the cars earlier today on guard against further outbreaks, disappeared shortly after authorities said in a communique the stoppage was over.

Women streetcar workers said police fired shots into the air as they approached the main depot before dawn today. During the night a fight broke out between streetcar operators and a group of Communist party workers.

Communist authorities sent in riot squads last night to try to force settlement of the strike. Officials were openly concerned as reports spread that the Lodz dispute had touched off sympathy strikes in other Polish cities.

Communist authorities ordered the riot squads after a day of negotiations between the strikers and a mission from Warsaw had failed.

Officials and members of workers' councils who went into the transport depots yesterday to press for a settlement were hooted down. The strikers held fast to their demands for a written promise of pay increases for their lowest paid men before returning to work.

Last night, however, negotiations had been resumed between a representative of the Communist Party Central Committee and a strike delegation at the main transport depot.

Local officials finally managed to get a few streetcars on the streets early today.

At the same time, authorities pressed a fleet of about 1,000 military and civil trucks into service to replace the streetcars—the only means of public transport in this industrial city of 700,000.

The strike began Sunday after the government said it would give 50 million zlotys to boost wages of Poland's 25,000 streetcar operators. That equals 12 1/2 million dollars by government valuation, but in actual buying power it is far less. A pair of fair quality shoes costs 500 zlotys.

The strikers said 50 million zlotys was not enough and demanded that the lowest paid men be boosted from 3 1/2 to 5 zlotys an hour. Five zlotys will buy a

Rotarians Hear Morris Higley

Fellowship internationally, as reflected in the program and activities of the Rotary Club, formed the theme for an address by Morris Higley, Children, at the meeting of the Big Spring organization of Tuesday noon.

Higley is District Governor of the 573rd Rotary District.

This was his first official visit to the Big Spring club since being elevated to his position at the convention of Rotary International in Lucerne, Switzerland.

He was accompanied by his wife, Ann Carol.

Friendliness and cooperation is the lot of the Rotarian regardless of where he may travel due to the widespread popularity of the organization, Higley said. He cited examples of how his Rotary affiliation brought him friendship in foreign lands.

Special guests at the meeting were Gus Hutchinson of Arlington and Don Page, Borger.

Shine Phillips, a charter member of the Big Spring club, accompanied by Mrs. Phillips, was also present at the meeting.

Wives of a number of Rotarians were special guests.

125 Rebels Slain

ALGIERS (AP)—French officials said today 125 Algerian rebels have been killed since Sunday in a running battle near Szezza, southeast of Algiers. French losses were put at 11 soldiers killed and 15 wounded.

The U. S. moons—six are planned—will be launched on a southeast course from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Reasons for this site are explained by Dr. John P. Hagen, director of Project Vanguard.

Cape Canaveral is the site of the Air Force test missile center, and is equipped to do the launching job.

The planned U. S. orbits will take the moons over 12 sites where telescopic tracking cameras are being set up.

At least some of these tracking stations can tune in on the Russian moons. The Soviets still have not yet spelled out their plans to track the moons.

We'll See Russian Moons, But They Won't See Ours

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE, AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP)—Russia will give Americans a grandstand seat to see the Soviet man-made moons sent up to explore space.

But few Russians are likely to see American-made moons.

Many Americans may see the moons of both nations. Soviet citizens will have only their own to look for.

The reason is not a "moon curtain"—it is not international. It just works out that way due to the orbits each nation has chosen.

Our moons or artificial earth satellites will travel generally east to west around the world. This means they will be visible only certain distances north and south of the Equator. The northern limit of vision could miss Russia almost entirely. It could miss Europe and many northern U. S. cities also.

But the Russians will send their moons wheeling north to south, near the poles. As the earth rotates beneath them, the moons will cross all parts of the United States as well as Russia.

Both countries plan to send man-made moons circling the earth during the International Geophysical Year. Shot up by rockets, the little metal spheres will be the first explorers of space.

Instruments and radios inside the balls will tell us how empty or cold space is, how intense the sun's rays are, how many cosmic rays and meteors flock through space.

So far the Russians have said very little officially about their moon plans. It's a guessing game whether they can launch one before we do, probably early next year.

But Prof. I. P. Bardin, president of the Soviet IGY committee, has announced the Soviet moons would be launched at a small angle to the meridian, from a yet-undisclosed spot in the U. S.S.R.

This means they will fly north and south and therefore be visible "in all areas of the earth except the central areas of the arctic and antarctic," he said.

Local Man Praises After 40

Here is what Mr. G. Frank Smith, 408 North East 12th, writes: "I have been nervous, can't sleep at night. I was just at the point I could not go. In fact, I was just tired out death."

"I am a janitor at the First Christian Church and had lots of stairs to climb each day and I was at the point I could not do my work."

"After 40 was recommended to me, I took one bottle, now I do not feel tired when I do my work climbing stairs. I am not nervous and I sleep good at night."

"I gladly give this letter to be published and was not paid one cent to write it. I'd be glad for you to phone me in regard to how good I feel. My phone number is AM 4-5189."

After 40 comes from the oysters, it is good food for all.

with an All-Electric HEAT PUMP

Cool your home in summer . . . warm it in winter . . . with one central system that uses only air and electricity!

To make your home cool as a mountain breeze, the Heat Pump operates on the same principle as conventional refrigeration-type air conditioners. It extracts heat from indoor air and pumps it outside. In winter, the Heat Pump automatically reverses itself. It uses heat extracted from outdoor air (even in below-freezing weather) to keep you warm and comfortable indoors.

All you do is set the thermostat, and the Heat Pump does the rest—summer, winter and between seasons. It switches from cooling to heating or back again automatically— even within the same day or same hour— to maintain the temperature you select.

The Heat Pump also filters out dust and pollen, circulates fresh properly-conditioned air to every room. Walls, woodwork and curtains stay clean longer, too, because the Heat Pump uses only air and electricity.

Investigate the advantages of the all-electric Heat Pump for your home or place of business. Come by our office or write us. We'll be glad to answer your questions.

Senators See Action Deferred On Postal Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two GOP senators indicated today that action will be deferred until next year on a House-passed bill to boost postal rates.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.) said that because adjournment is near, he doubts the Senate will act this year on the bill to raise the first-class letter rate to 4 cents an ounce, and airmail to 7 cents, effective Oct. 1.

Other raises also would be provided, to increase postal revenues by 1960 an estimated $27½ million dollars a year.

Sen. Carlson (Kan.), ranking Republican on the Senate Post Office Committee, said he was sure the committee would have to hold hearings.

But there were reports some Senate Democrats want to pass the bill so that a pay increase or postal workers would have a better chance of being signed by President Eisenhower.

Eisenhower has asked for rate increases but he has opposed general pay increases for federal employees at this time.

The House, which already had approved pay increases for postal workers, passed the rate increase measure late yesterday, 256-129.

Voting for it were 85 Democrats and 171 Republicans; against it were 125 Democrats and 4 Republicans.

The principal debate in the House came on raising the letter rate to four cents.

Rep. Frost (D-Idaho) said: "The Republican administration seems to have lost sight of the fact that the postal service was set up as a service to the people."

Rep. Murray (D-Tenn.), chairman of the House Post Office Committee, argued that first-class rates had not been raised since 1932. By a 106-56 standing vote, the House defeated an amendment to eliminate the raise on first-class mail.

The increases also included: Raising airmail cards to 5 cents and post cards to 3 cents.

Stormy Weather Ahead In Aviation

By WES COOK
Associated Press Staff Writer

Stormy financial weather is threatening to trim the wings of the giant aviation industry.

The first feathers flew when the Defense Department cut the Air Force budget, bringing stretch-out contracts and cancellations to many manufacturers.

Then last week, the Civil Aeronautics Board told eight major airlines in effect to tighten their budgets by turning down their request for an emergency 6 per cent passenger fare increase. The CAB Bureau of Air Operations charged that airline operations were inefficient.

Just what is happening in the aviation industry, the firms which build and fly commercial aircraft?

Short haul feeder airlines, now receiving more than 30 million dollars a year in subsidies, say they will fall even deeper in the red unless a means can be found to finance new equipment.

Shortly after the Air Force cut back its orders, North American, Douglas, Curtiss-Wright Corp. and Boeing announced they were releasing or planned to release more than 40,000 employees in the next six months.

About the only bright spot seems to be the makers of private and business aircraft who almost daily score new production and earnings records.

BIGGEST HOWL

The biggest howl seems to come from the airlines.

They quickly denied that they were operating inefficiently.

Harold Russell of Eastern Airlines said the Bureau of Air Operations report was outlandish and called it "a terrible indictment."

The strongest public criticism of the board's action came from CAB Vice Chairman Chan Gurney, the lone dissenter in the 4-1 ruling.

"The majority has not in my opinion met its responsibility," said Gurney. "In fact, the overall need is so urgent, their decision may be calamitous to the industry."

The airlines that asked for the emergency increase—Delta, TWA, Braniff, United, Eastern, American, Capital and Northwest—have reported diminishing profits for more than a year. They also have on order more than two billion dollars worth of jets and turboprop airplanes that they have yet to finance.

Four of the airlines—Capital, Northwest, United and TWA—have filed financial statements showing that they are operating in the red for 1957.

Hubert A. Schneider, counsel for Braniff, told the CAB that "if this trend continues we are headed for real trouble."

Speaking for the Bureau of Air Operations, George Cosson said the decline in airline profits was due primarily to load factors. He said the bureau considered reasonable earnings for the airlines, proper use of facilities, depreciation and taxes.

"When so considered it is clear the airlines have not supported their case," he said.

Airlines officials say an 8 to 10 per cent fare increase will be needed within the next few years or the government will have to help with subsidies. They blame higher repair and fuel bills, coupled with the fact that their planes cannot carry enough passengers fast enough and far enough to pay for the higher costs.

What makes the jet so desirable?

The International Civil Aviation Organization, an agency of United Nations, in a recent report said: "Their depreciation and obsolescence are low and their productivity is expected to be such that, at suitable load factors, the cost per passenger seat-mile or ton-mile may be lower than that of the latest, large piston-engine aircraft."

Lending urgency to the airlines search for new finances is the threat of international competition in the coming jet-travel era.

Britain only recently put its Comet II in the air to signal its return to jet operations after a series of crashes grounded the Comet I in 1954.

France has the twin-jet Caravelle, and Russia also is showing a desire to enter the field after a recent unveiling of two jet and two turboprop airliners.

It would give Soviet aviation tremendous prestige to make a successful bid to outfit foreign airlines in their own territory. And there are numerous indications the Russians will try.

FBI Agents Find Money Cache Hidden By Abel

NEW YORK (AP)—FBI agents have found $15,000 cached in a Manhattan bank by accused Soviet spy Rudolf Abel. They are reportedly hunting for much more.

Newspaper reports said Abel, a 55-year-old colonel in the Soviet secret police, may have had anywhere from $50,000 to a million dollars expense money buried in Manhattan, Brooklyn, New Hyde Park, N.Y., Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and Quincy, Mass.

Abel had $6,000 on him when arrested last June as an illegal alien. Another $15,000 was found in a safe deposit box in a Manhattan bank. The box was rented under the name of Alan Winston.

The new find was disclosed yesterday.

There was speculation that the government might put a tax lien on the money. This would call on Abel to prove that it was not earned income and thus provide a clue as to its source.

Abel still was without a lawyer to defend him on spy charges. He was given a further court postponement until Friday to try to get one.

Brooklyn Federal Court Judge Matthew T. Abruzzo said he will appoint counsel if Abel is unable to find one.

Abel was indicted last week on espionage charges that could bring the death penalty. The government said he posed for nine years as a Brooklyn artist while actually serving Moscow as a spy.
