Three-Judge Court

No Webb Comment On Payroll Cutback

Webb AFB officials, who yesterday said the Defense Department's July 16 manpower cutback order will eliminate about 40 civilians from the payroll, today had no comment on Defense Secretary Wilson's new order dropping another 100,000 military personnel and from 35,000 to 40,000 additional civilian employees.

Local authorities had received no information other than newspaper reports on the latest manpower cut. Warren Farrow, civilian personnel chief at Webb, said yesterday the July 16 cutback eliminates 62 jobs at the local base, but more than 20 of those already are vacant so that net effect here will be loss of about 40 workers.

Wilson said yesterday the latest cuts will force the Air Force to drop at least four wings, mostly in the Tactical Air Force. In addition, the Army will have to deactivate one more division and the Navy will be required to lay up more ships.

The Air Force now has 133 active wings and has been disarming slowly to the 128-wing level authorized by the current budget.

The 100,000 cut in armed forces personnel is to be put into effect as rapidly as possible with next June 30 as deadline for completing it, Wilson said.

Wilson also ordered a cut of 100,000 men on July 16. That order and the one Thursday will reduce the authorized strength of all services to 2,600,000.

The Secretary of Defense said it is "a fair assumption" that total military strength will be further reduced and that it will eventually be below the 2,600,000 ceiling established by Thursday's economy order. He said the next round of manpower economies, if decided upon, will be made in connection with the defense budget for fiscal 1959, which goes to Congress in January and becomes effective next July 1.

Wilson said the reduction in the Tactical Air Force is logical because Army strength is diminishing and the Army's new missiles are taking over a greater share of the burden of support formerly supplied by the Air Force.

Oklahoma Dems Set Off By Texas Faction

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Considerable talk at a regional party conference here yesterday was touched off by a factional dispute involving Texas Democrats.

Paul Butler, national chairman, declined to take a part.

The dispute was between the regular party organization and a group of Texas Democrats. The DOT is operating independently.

Butler said he talked to several Texans but nothing was resolved. "We want help from any group that wants to help the party," Butler added.

The regular party organization in the state is dividing its funds among national, state and local units. This was recommended by Butler.

The DOT refuses to contribute through the regular organization. It is sending all its funds to national headquarters.

The Dallas Times Herald said the factional wrangling broke out among the Texans only minutes after Butler had called for an all-out effort by party organizations and warned against factional disputes.

The newspaper said the rupture came in a closed meeting but was confirmed later by participants.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, a supporter of the DOT, added fuel, saying leaders of the state executive committee "led the Eisenhower campaign only in 1952 and under cover in 1956."

Yarborough said he wants to be friendly with both factions but he has sent his own contributions direct to national headquarters.

Both Butler and Yarborough said they hoped the factional dispute can be worked out before the 1958 elections.

Objections raised by the DOT are that many leaders of the regular group supported Eisenhower in 1952 and to a lesser degree favored him last year.

Flu Infections Here Normal For Season

Despite the upsurge of influenza—all types—throughout the state, the germ is affecting an unusual number of people in Big Spring. No Asian flu has been indicated.

Hospitals here this morning said that the number of cases of influenza is about average for the season. At only one hospital was there a report of larger numbers than expected. An exact check on the number of cases reported for the week will not be available until late today.

The City-County Health Unit makes a weekly survey on all communicable diseases, but it is not made until Friday afternoons.

Doctors at the hospitals said the cases here are probably of the regular influenza strains. Diagnosis of Asian flu takes a period of time after laboratory tests.

The flu has not hit school attendance with any force. S. M. Anderson, assistant superintendent, said today that the high school recorded its highest attendance of the new school year this morning. At the other schools, a few students were missing, but not in alarming proportions.

Officials at Medical Arts reported a larger number of flu patients for this time of the year, but all others reported the trend about the same with past years. Medical Arts reported that most of the cases were mild and only one was hospitalized for treatment.

The remainder—including the hospital at Webb AFB—could see no upsurge.

The small amounts of vaccine for Asian flu received in Big Spring have been consumed. At Malone-Hogan, the shipment was small and was used by doctors and nurses. The hospital reported it had expected another shipment Thursday, but it had not arrived this morning.

Cowper Hospital said it received a small amount earlier but it is also gone. Big Spring Hospital got some two weeks ago which has been consumed, but Medical Arts reported it had not received any.

Pharmacists here look for the vaccine to arrive in larger quantities the first part of October. However, this was speculation. Webb AFB Hospital doesn't expect any for two months.

Develops Cold Vaccine

Dr. Winston H. Price, 34-year-old John Hopkins scientist shown at work in his laboratory at Baltimore, Md., says he has developed an effective vaccine for the common cold. He claims he has isolated the first "true" virus of the common cold and that he has developed a vaccine which, in controlled tests on more than 400 persons, prevented colds caused by the virus in 80 per cent of the cases. Immunity is produced from two shots of the vaccine, the second following the first by four weeks, Dr. Price said.

Relief From Heat Predicted Today

Promise of some relief from the sultry summer weather of the last two or three days was held out in the noon forecast issued by the Weather Bureau at Midland.

Today, the bureau said, will be materially cooler than Thursday when the mercury scored 98 for high and 71 for its low reading.

Today's high should be around 82 and tonight's low should be around 64 degrees. Saturday, an even cooler day is promised, with a maximum reading of 88 forecast.

There is a possibility of what the Weather Bureau terms scattered showers for today and tomorrow. The skies are to continue partly cloudy.

Faubus Stages Walkout During Court Hearing

No Jurisdiction, Governor Claims

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Attorneys for Gov. Orval Faubus suddenly and dramatically walked out on the injunction hearing against the governor today after declaring they do not recognize the jurisdiction of the U.S. District Court.

Their walkout came immediately after Federal Judge Ronald Davies rejected their motion to dismiss the government's petition for injunctions commanding Faubus to stop interfering with the integration of Little Rock Central High School.

William Smith, Faubus' personal attorney, said "As far as we are concerned we're through."

With that, Smith and the governor's other attorneys, Tom Harper and Kay Matthews, left the courtroom and entered an elevator.

The hearing continued. Davies called for witnesses to be summoned.

The attorneys' departure came fairly early in the historic lawsuit in which the government is seeking orders to prevent Faubus from interfering further with integration at Little Rock Central High School here.

Immediately at issue is the U.S. petition for a temporary injunction in the situation in which National Guardsmen have prevented Negro students from entering the school. The government also is asking a permanent injunction.

Before leaving Harper asked to make a statement for the record.

He said "Since the respondents (the governor and the National Guard commander) do not and cannot concede that the governor may be questioned obviously they can proceed no further in this case."

"This is not to say that the respondent will not comply... with orders even though they may be made here."

Fisherman Drops Dead On Raft At Lake J. B. Thomas

SNYDER—R. A. Cox, 67, Andrews, dropped dead on a raft while fishing Wednesday afternoon in Lake J. B. Thomas.

John Harrell, Andrews, who was fishing off the same raft with Mr. Cox said that he heard his companion fall. He hurried across to the Lake Thomas Lodge and summoned aid. Mr. Cox, however, was pronounced dead by the county medical officer upon arrival of an ambulance.

Harrell was unable to operate the raft's motor and Colorado River Municipal Water District personnel brought the craft in promptly.

Tornado Warning Out In West Texas

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A tornado and severe thunderstorm forecast was issued today for parts of Texas and Oklahoma by the Weather Bureau Forecast Center. It said: "Scattered severe thunderstorms with hail and damaging surface winds and possibility of a tornado are expected in most of southwestern and west central Oklahoma, South Plains and extreme southeast portion of the Texas Panhandle in West Texas this Friday afternoon and evening from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. CST."

"The approximate area is 60 miles either side of a line from 60 miles northwest of Midland, Tex., to 20 miles north of Oklahoma City."

Telephone Workers Return To Posts

Big Spring telephone office workers and long distance operators, off their jobs for three days this week in connection with the strike of equipment installers against the Western Electric Co., were back at work this morning.

Pickets who had been posted in front of the central telephone building here left their posts when it was announced the labor dispute had been settled last night.

Western Electric is a subsidiary of American Telephone & Telegraph, which also includes Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Supervisors handled business matters and long distance telephone calls while about 65 workers were off their jobs here.

ICBM MAY BE FIRED, TOO

Gleaming Missile, Believed To Be AF's Thor, Rips Up Sky

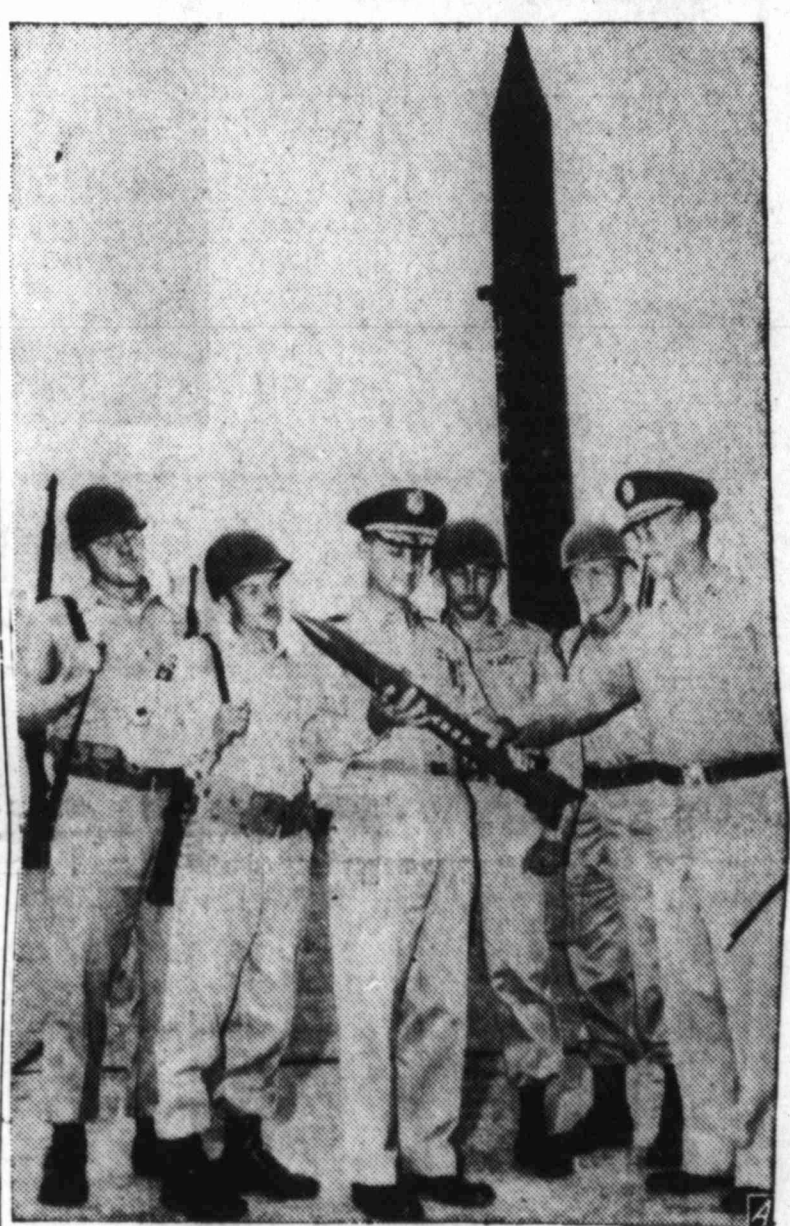

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—A big, gleaming, cigar-shaped missile, believed to be the Air Force Thor, was blasted into the sky from the missile test center at 9:25 a.m. today.

The missile rose straight up for perhaps 15 to 20 miles, then curved to the eastward and kept climbing on an arc.

Rising with a flaming tail, the missile discharged white smoke at high altitude like a skywriting plane. Then as it turned on a more curving course, it left a streak of gray.

It sounded in the air like a squadron of bombers. It was perhaps half a minute after it left the launching pad before the sound could be heard.

The sky was crystal clear and the missile could be seen for at least two minutes after it left the ground.

There's Your Stinger

Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, right, shows a small model of the guided missile "Redstone" to a group of the 40th Field Artillery Missile Group (Heavy), who are part of the first U. S. Army group formed to use the Redstone missile in the field. The group has just received its colors from the general in a reactivation ceremony at Huntsville, Ala. Left to right: SFC. Harvey Wescott, of Westport, Mass.; SFC. John R. Sawler of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Col. Robert C. Gildart, commander of the unit; SFC. Marlin Meyer of San Antonio; Sgt. James Bailey of Denton, N. C., and Gen. Medaris.

destroyed for the sake of safety and security.

The public can't get closer than three miles to the security-ringed missile test center, but watchers on Cocoa Beach nevertheless glimpsed parts of tests yesterday.

Rocket No. 1 went up at 9:46 a.m. Observers reported seeing the slender missile rise eastward on a long, low trajectory and vanish in a cloudbank. Two balls of fire, possibly booster charges, flared as the rocket disappeared.

The rocket was believed to be the Snark, a guided missile. Guided missiles differ from ballistic missiles in the respect that they can be controlled in flight, after the firing.

Rocket No. 2 was not seen to leave the cape launching pads, but a loud concussion drew observers' eyes seaward at 3:14 p.m. Associated Press staffers Gene Plowden and Jim Kerlin said they saw a pall of black smoke rise from the Atlantic and drift westward.

They thought at first a boat had exploded, but later a missile test center spokesman confirmed a firing had occurred.

Quarles arrived at Cape Canaveral Wednesday on what was described as a busman's holiday. Quarles was expected to remain several days at the missile experiment station.

Gromyko Puts Blame On West For Tense Mid-East Situation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko blamed the West today for the tense Middle East situation. He declared Russia "cannot watch impassively over a situation that bears upon its own security."

The Soviet leader struck back vigorously at charges made by Secretary of State Dulles that the Kremlin was endangering peace in the Middle East by sending arms to Arab countries.

Gromyko told the 82-nation General Assembly "The Soviet Union cannot place itself in the position of an impassive observer while the Near and Middle East—a 'growing military danger' as a result of Soviet arms massed along the Syrian border and also along the Soviet-Turkish frontier."

Dulles also called on the U.N. He declared that the U. S. position on the Syrian problem is ample proof "that the Eisenhower Doctrine is completely hostile to the interests of the people of the Near East."

sure is being exerted" against Syria.

"Lately," he said, "she is being more and more frequently threatened with open military intervention."

The reason for this, Gromyko continued, "is that the people of Syria and their government refuse to submit to foreign dictation or to allow their country to be drawn into aggressive blocs."

He declared that the U. S. position on the Syrian problem is ample proof "that the Eisenhower Doctrine is completely hostile to the interests of the people of the Near East."

"It will make another useful contribution, if it would raise its powerful voice in defense of the independence of other states in the Near and Middle East and condemn resolutely the dangerous policy which is being pursued by some powers in regard to them."

He formally submitted a resolution calling upon all countries to be guided in their relations with other countries by the principles of peaceful coexistence and non-aggression and "to settle any dispute arising between them exclusively by peaceful means."

ATOM RESOLUTIONS

Gromyko also submitted two other resolutions on atomic weapons. They provided that:

1. All test explosions of nuclear weapons be stopped Jan. 1, 1958, for a period of two to three years.
2. All nations possessing nuclear weapons undertake a temporary obligation not to use atomic or hydrogen weapons for a period of five years.

The Soviet foreign minister urged the Assembly "to hold a serious discussion on the disarmament problem."

Fostering a love of good books is a precious phase of Family Companionship

"Read me a story," says the youngest. And the wise parent gives heed, however distracting the request might be at the moment. The seeds that blossom into a love of literature need early planting. Even at this age, it's not too soon to take your youngster to the public library with an expectation of pleasure — shared together. A child's first visit to the library is like discovering a new world. The rows of shelves lined with books stimulate curiosity and make an indelible impression on young minds . . . long before the child's understanding that reading makes life richer.

The life-long pleasure gained from reading is greatly dependent on early guidance and direction. It can be fostered by simple little bedtime stories, The Herald comic strips, and later on by choosing books in line with the child's interests. Reading aloud for your "Children's Hour" can be fun for children and parents alike (it's surprising the number of children's books in the library that you somehow missed in your own childhood). But more important, it provides a background of treasured memories and establishes precious family comradeship that neither time nor distance can undermine.

● As a complete family newspaper, The Herald is written and edited with YOU in mind. It finds a daily welcome in your family circle because it contains things of interest for everyone old enough to read or be read to. In addition to bringing you the news through clear and complete reports, The Herald devotes many columns to comics, leading columnists, home improvement, women's features, sports and business news; and merchandising information that help you enjoy living to the fullest.

Honestly . . . don't YOU get more out of living by reading The Herald every day?

doesn't everyone you know read the Big Spring

Cash In Hand

Detective Sgt. Edward J. Miller, right, holds a handful of money found on Lee Howard, 32, of Seattle, Wash., minutes after a teller in a branch of the Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., was held up and robbed of $6,836. Howard, found in a nearby restaurant, was charged with first degree robbery.

State Oil Revenue May Drop Again

AUSTIN (AP)—State revenue from crude oil will drop about $1,775,000 a month from last year's average if production continues at the present low ebb begun in July. State officials said this would add to growing speculation that a stiff tax bill would be presented in the next Legislature. Gov. Price Daniel has said he would not submit a tax measure to the special session. Oil taxes are a chief source of state revenue. State Comptroller Robert Calvert said today the revenue problem could become serious if production continues low. His staff is compiling an estimate of revenue for the special session Oct. 1. For the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, Calvert figures showed the state collected about 12 1/2 million dollars a month from production tax on crude oil. Production for July, August, September and October will bring an average monthly income of about $10,725,000. "We don't let one high month or low month worry us in making our estimate of state revenue. We have to figure about two years in advance," Calvert said June 19 when the Railroad Commission slashed allowable production to just over three million barrels. Production runs about 12-13 per cent below the allowable. "When production drops we lose money," Calvert said. Rep. Truett Wilson of Newcastle told a Breckenridge meeting this week Texas is losing "millions in taxes because of imports." He said this points up a threat of state income taxes or a sales tax unless conditions improve. A high state official said if the low oil production continues it will "just mean that the 56th Legislature will have to find new tax sources. Many people thought we would have a new tax bill at the next session; even before oil production began to lag. Railroad Commission Chairman Olin Culberson has said that placing production below 15 days "would have serious and adverse effect upon the functioning of the state governmental agencies which rely to such a great extent on taxes collected on oil."

Mugging

Rishkesh Shaha, 33-year-old Nepalese ambassador to the United Nations, rests in a hospital bed in New York City after he suffered scalp cuts and a minor stab wound of the chest when he was robbed in Central Park. Mayor Robert Wagner joined with the U. S. delegation to United Nations in expressing regret at the attack. Shaha is reported in good condition and is expected to leave the hospital soon.

Extra Beds Up; Flu Continues State Rampage

By The Associated Press

Extra beds were set up in hallways of the overcrowded Texas A&M College hospital Friday as new cases of flu continued to spring up around the state.

Some of the new cases were definitely established as the Asian variety. Dr. Charles Lyons, college hospital supervisor at Texas A&M, said he did not believe that any of the some 450 stricken Aggies had Asian flu but he had no way of knowing for certain.

He reported 250 students were in the hospital and 200 more had been ordered to bed in their dormitories at College Station. However, he said the Aggie football team took Asian flu vaccine two weeks ago and none had been treated for flu yet.

The State Health Department at Austin said it knew of 11 confirmed cases of Asian flu to date in Texas and there likely had been more.

In addition to tests of specimens at the state laboratories in Austin, the University of Texas Medical School in Dallas and the University of Texas Medical School in Galveston have started making tests in cooperation with the State Health Department.

The 4th Army medical laboratory at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio makes tests for military personnel.

So far the laboratory at Austin has confirmed five cases of Asian flu from the Austin area, and one each from the Fort Worth, Dallas and Paris areas.

The medical school in Dallas reported it had three cases in the Dallas area. More than half a dozen high schools have cancelled football games scheduled for Friday. More than a dozen cities and towns reported hundreds of school children out sick.

Some 500 Texas Christian University students were hit by the flu in Fort Worth. University spokesmen said the virus was believed to be a non-Asian strain.

El Paso High School cancelled its Friday night game with Lamesa after a number of its team members came down with the illness. Schools closed Monday at Joaquin. Dr. L. W. Snyder, Shelby County health officer, reported between 250 and 275 school age children ill at Joaquin.

Huntsville officials estimated 264 students were absent with what was described as the common flu.

Confused By Little Rock Case? Here's The Story In A Nutshell

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Here is the Little Rock story at a glance:

Today's lawsuit: A hearing on a petition by the federal government requesting injunctions to restrain Gov. Orval Faubus from further interference with racial integration of Little Rock Central High.

The government's position: That Faubus has used the National Guard illegally in ordering it to prevent Negroes from enrolling.

Faubus' position: That he has the right as Arkansas' chief executive to call out troops to prevent violence and that he is not challenging U. S. District Court's right to order integration.

The principals: Defendants: Faubus; Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, head of the Arkansas National Guard; and Lt. Col. Marion E. Johnson, commander of troops at the school. Their attorneys are Kay Matthews of Little Rock and Thomas Harper of Fort Smith.

Federal attorneys: Dist. Atty. Oso Cobb; U. S. Atty. Gen. Brownell; attorneys Donald B. MacGuineas, chief of litigation for the Justice Department's civil division; and his assistant, Carl Eardley.

Others: Little Rock Mayor Woodrow W. Mann; U. S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies of Fargo, N. D.; School Supt. Virgil Blossom; and 19 Negro children who tried unsuccessfully to enroll at Little Rock Central High.

Only nine Negro students were troops from the school by the rebels but another registered for admission.

The background:

Aug. 29: A state judge, Murray O. Reed, grants injunction to prevent integration.

Aug. 30: Davies upsets Reed's ruling by ordering plan of integration to proceed; enjoins "all persons, in any manner directly, or indirectly, from interfering."

Sept. 2: National Guard troops appear on Central High grounds about 9 p. m.; an hour later, Faubus explains that he called out troops to preserve law and order.

Sept. 3: Some 2,000 white students attend school on opening day; street blocked off in front of school by National Guard; Negro children advised by Little Rock School Board to remain home; board asks Davies for instructions and he orders integration to proceed "forthwith."

Sept. 4: Negro children attempt to enter Central, turned away by troops. Telephoning Eisenhower, Faubus asks that federal agents stop "interference," claims agents have been tapping his telephone lines and plan to take him into custody; troops take up stations around governor's mansion.

Sept. 5: Board asks federal court to suspend integration order for an indefinite period.

Sept. 7: Davies denies board's petition, calls testimony "anemic."

Sept. 9: Six Negro pupils turned away at nearby North Little Rock High by crowd of 150 white adults and students. North Little Rock was not under order to integrate and gave up its voluntary plan

Panhandle Gets Cool Air

By The Associated Press

Cooler air surged through the Texas Panhandle during the night, but the Weather Bureau said its southward movement had about halted just past Lubbock and Childress early Friday.

Forecasters could see no relief farther downstate from Thursday's temperatures, which ranged up to 106 at Presidio, 102 at Cotulla and Laredo and 101 at Wink.

Skies were cloudy in the north part of the Panhandle and partly cloudy across South Texas Friday. It was clear in other sections. No rain was reported during the night.

when Little Rock dispute started. Davies asks Cobb, Brownell to take action against Faubus.
Sept. 10: Brownell and Cobb ask for injunctions against Faubus, Clinger and troops; a U. S. marshal is permitted to pass through troops to deliver summons to Faubus for hearing.
Sept. 11: At request of Faubus, Eisenhower agrees to confer with governor.
Sept. 14: President and governor meet at Newport, R. I.; both declare that Faubus will obey "valid" federal court orders, but no concrete evidence of agreement is announced.
Sept. 19: Faubus files affidavit asking that Davies disqualify himself; governor refuses to honor federal subpoena in an unrelated segregation case.

Faubus Goes Along About The Same Despite His Hot Spot

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Through two fantastic weeks, Orval Eugene Faubus, governor of Arkansas, has been sleeping soundly, eating regularly, chatting by telephone with his college, perusing his mail, and relaxing in books about his favorite character, Abraham Lincoln.

In short, they say at the governor's mansion, "he's going along just about as he always did before this thing came up."

Faubus is pitted today against the awesome might of the U.S. government in one of the greatest political and social struggles in the history of the Republic.

Yet he seems unruffled, completely at ease. He keeps a smile—perhaps a bit starched—around the corners of his mouth.

He looks like anything but a man confronting a crisis.

This could be the crossroads of his career in politics, the long road that led from a one-man post office in the Ozark Mountains to the governor's mansion.

For when Faubus ordered the National Guard to take stations around Central High School, he touched emotions and split allegiances that go deep beneath the surface of day-to-day politics.

There are people in Little Rock who are against integration—and against Faubus.

FAUBUS ADMIRERS

Others grudgingly admire Faubus for "standing up to" the federal government—but wish it were on some other issue.

Has he gained or lost strength, politically?

His critics say he alienated the entire Negro vote (estimated 60,000) plus the liberals, plus the people who are working to bring industry to Arkansas.

As against that, other analysts are inclined to agree with his assertion, "82 per cent of the people are against integration." They say he has won statewide support if he runs for a third term.

One of his intimates says Faubus has received nearly 10,000 telegrams and even more letters since the great racial dispute broke out in Little Rock.

"He's read 'em all—and they're 98 per cent for him," the aide said.

Is he concerned about the fearful, nationwide uproar that rose in the wake of his action, not to mention the repercussions overseas?

"Sure, he's concerned, but he's more concerned about violence. He can take the criticism, but he just won't stand for any violence," they say at the mansion.

Through it all, two qualities have appeared, over and over again, in Faubus—monumental patience and a dogged, stogging manner.

He has always been that way, people say.

Faubus was born in the Ozarks, the first of three boys and four girls. His father was a farmer.

Every day, he walked five miles to and from a rickety, one-room schoolhouse, crossing that stream with the picturesque name—but not his birthplace—Greasy Creek.

He dressed like the mountain people, in overalls. "I never had a pair of waist pants on until I was 18," he says.

And he used to have the mountain twang and colorful idiom—but not any more.

When he was 18, he began teaching school.

"It's always been tough gettin' by in these hills," said his father, "even when we had the timber works. I kept books one year on every nickel all of us took in, and it was $350, and that's not much money."

MONEY WENT

"There were four years before his mother died in 1936 and Orval, he spent everything he made on her doctor's bills and helping keep up the interest and payments on the place."

Faubus was in the office of the Circuit Court clerk when World War II broke out.

He volunteered for the Army, spent 4½ years in uniform, 10 months in combat. He was decorated and promoted in the field.

Then he went into politics.

He built up a reputation for fulfilling promises to his supporters and dealing swift retribution to his enemies.

During his first campaign for governor, in 1954, he was one of four candidates, the darkest horse in the field.

"That's when you first saw that dogged characteristic," said a newspaperman who covered the campaign. "He was about to drop out. It looked as though everything was against him. But he evidently decided to stay in there and slug it out, and he won."

Specialist Hopes To Save Sight Of Acid Victim

NEW YORK (AP)—A specialist says he is hopeful of saving the sight of 16-year-old David Ozersky, partially blinded by liquid lye tossed into a Brooklyn high school classroom yesterday.

Ozersky's alleged assailant, Maurice Kessler, 17, a fellow student, is scheduled for arraignment today on a felonious assault charge.

At St. Clare's Hospital last night, Dr. Loren P. Guy expressed optimism about ultimate restoration of the youth's sight, but said it would be 10 days to two weeks before the full extent of damage to his eyes would be known.

As of last night, Guy said, Ozersky had some vision. He was suffering from lye burns of the eyes, face, neck and back.

Police termed the attack by Kessler as a revenge attack. Kessler, a Negro, had been free in $1,000 bail pending trial on a morals charge brought last summer by Ozersky, who is white.

Yesterday, Ozersky was sitting in a history classroom at Thomas Jefferson High School when a back door opened and a youth hurled a beer bottle full of lye. Another boy was badly burned, and 18 other students and a teacher suffered burns from the splattering of the searing liquid after it shattered on the floor.

A science teacher, Isidor Auerbach, rushed into the room when he heard hysterical screams coming from the pupils. One girl told police some students had opened windows of the second-floor room and were preparing to jump out.

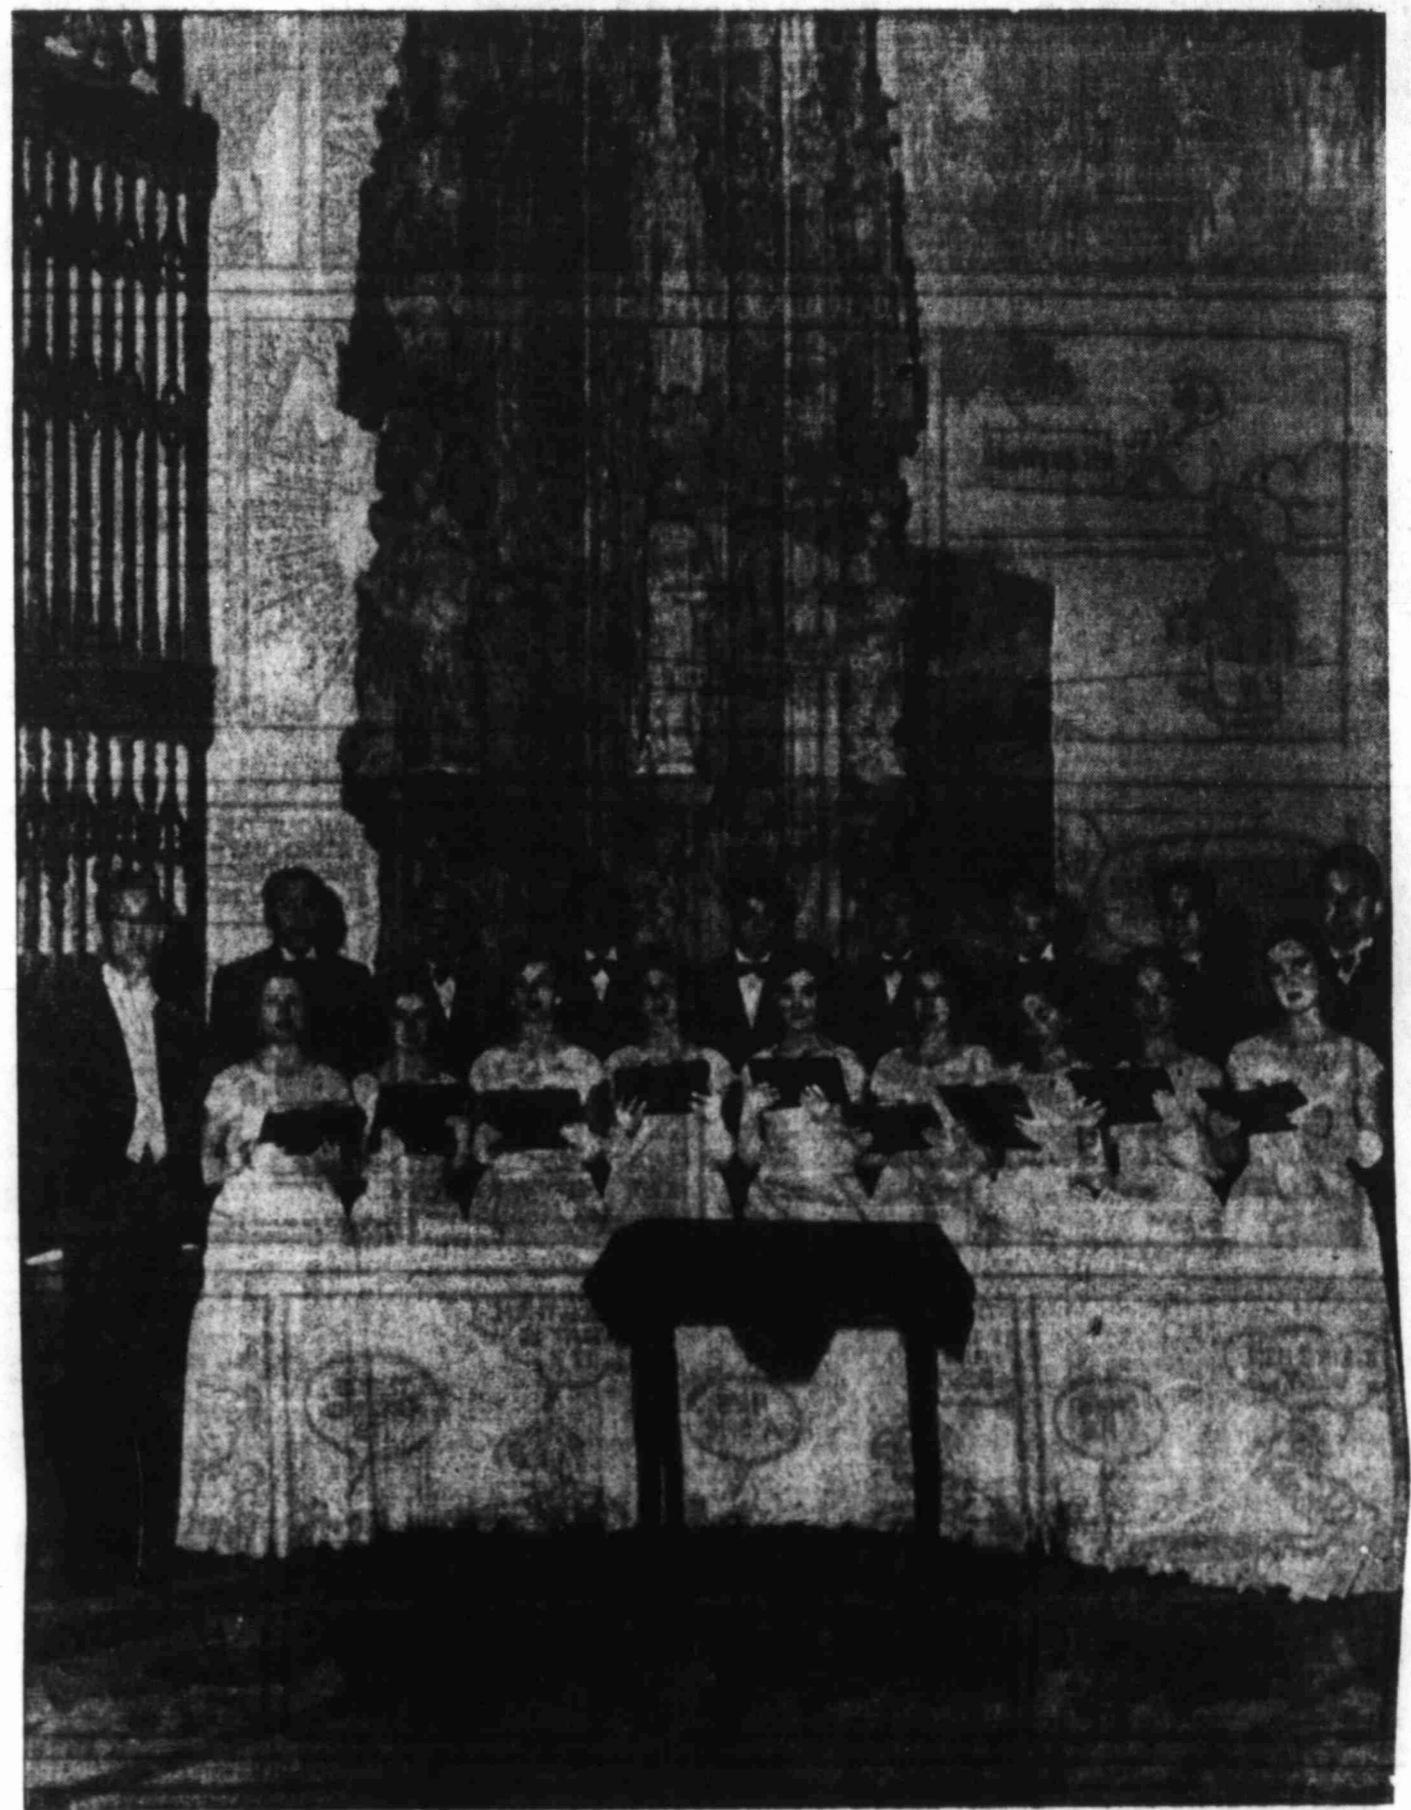

Auerbach grabbed Ozersky and rushed him into the school shower room. Then he dashed back and bathed the rest of the injured with water until ambulances arrived.

From the time that Luis Morondo founded the Pamplona Choir 10 years ago, it has been a progressive sensation.

The remarkable ensemble of 16 beautifully integrated voices was instantly acclaimed in its native Navarra and throughout Spain, fabled seat of greatest choral tradition. Successive European tours were smash hits and the choir won the Grand Prize of Honor at the International Contest for Music in Lille in competition with 186 choruses from 17 countries. Most recently, the choir scored outstanding success on a South American tour before making its first visit to the United States this autumn.

Press reviews include such lavish phrases as "absolute perfection . . . overwhelming virtuosity . . . creates the impression of a group of angels . . . the feeling of an organ instead of voices . . ." and many, many more. Many have asked for a choral group on the series, and the Association feels that it has here the perfect answer to this demand.

Uncle Ray:
Nitrogen Can Injure Divers In Deep Sea

By RAMON COFFMAN
We have spoken about the air or oxygen given to divers to enable them to breathe while under water. The air or oxygen usually comes down a tube on the order of a garden hose, but the tube is especially fitted for the use of a diver. A different tube may carry away the waste air.

Q. What about the effect of nitrogen on the diver?

A. Nitrogen is an "inert" gas. It gives nothing to the blood stream, but there is more nitrogen than oxygen in the air which people breathe in ordinary life. Nitrogen has value, however—it keeps us from "living too fast," as would be the case if we breathed pure oxygen all the time.

Divers have suffered harm from the nitrogen. At high pressure, it forces its way into the blood stream.

Usually the diver can get along with nitrogen in his blood, provided that he remains at a given depth. If, however, he is pulled rapidly to the surface, the nitrogen produces bubbles in the blood, but these are dangerous.

Q. Do divers often find sunken treasure?

A. Not often, but it does happen. A lone diver, Alexander Lambert, went down 165 feet and brought up Spanish gold coins worth 350 thousand dollars. Another success came when a group of divers reached the wreck of the "Oceanic." They recovered money and valuables worth three and a half million dollars.

Q. How far down do divers go?

A. Those who wear diving suits usually work at depths of Diver working on sunken vessel.

from 60 to 200 feet. Fairly often they go down 250 or 300 feet. Record dives have exceeded 500 feet. Last year a British sailor went down 600 feet.

So-called "diving" in a bathysphere (or bathyscap) is different. Seated inside a large "ball," men have reached depths of more than two and a half miles.

New Pact Ends Phone Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The nationwide four-day strike of 23,800 telephone exchange equipment installers ended today with agreement on a new contract. A back-to-work movement began almost immediately.

The installers, employees of Western Electric Co., and who are members of the Communications Workers of America, were reported here to be streaming back to their tasks in the 44 states in which the strike was effective. Long distance operators, who had been observing the picket lines of their striking fellow employees, also returned.

The negotiators for the company and the union settled on pay increases ranging from 6 to 12 cents an hour plus other benefits.

The 6-to-12 cent boost had been offered by the Western Electric in recent negotiation sessions but had been rejected by the union until today.

Both sides expressed satisfaction with the settlement, reached after months of negotiations.

Alfred C. Billotte, chief negotiator for Western Electric, manufacturing arm of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., said:

"We're very pleased this is over and that the agreement is eminently fair to both sides."

Joseph Dunne, national director of the CWA's Installation unit, said increases and other benefits give the installers an hourly package of 13.2 cents. He described this as the highest settlement in the Bell Telephone System this year.

Dunne said return-to-work messages were being sent to installers across the nation.

The AT&T has said it maintained normal long-distance service throughout the country despite the fact that many thousands of operators and other employees honored the CWA's picket lines.

Supervisory personnel handled a large part of the work load. Most local telephone service was virtually unaffected because of automatic dialing equipment.

The agreement is subject to ratification by union members.

A separate statewide strike against the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. continued today.

About 18,500 CWA members, mostly operators, struck against Ohio Bell in a contract dispute at the same time the nationwide strike against Western Electric started last Monday morning. Negotiations in the Ohio strike continue today in Cleveland. No progress was reported after two short meetings last night.

The installers strike was in 44 states and the District of Columbia, unaffected were Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Montana, where local telephone companies maintain their own equipment.

The settlement was announced by Walter A. Maggilo of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

The new terms become effective today, if ratified.

Walter W. Stroup Gets CLU Degree

Walter W. Stroup was among the 532 who were granted the Chartered Life Underwriter designation at the national conferment exercises of the American College of Life Underwriters in Detroit this week.

To qualify for this, insurance men and women must pass a series of five professional examinations and meet other requirements. So far, since its creation in 1927, the American College has conferred the CLU designation on 6,718 men and women. Usually it requires three to four years to complete the requirements for the designation.

Argentina Hard Hit By Strikes

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Thousands of workers announced sympathy strikes today in support of a walkout by public and private telephone and cable company employees, and troops kept watch as Argentina's labor troubles mounted.

Amateur radio listeners in Santiago, Chile, heard reports that a revolt had broken out against President Pedro Aramburu, but this report was denied here. One political leader who saw President Aramburu said he was concerned about the labor troubles but chuckled at reports of military difficulties.

The communications strike cut reports from the provinces here to a trickle. Soldiers and sailors look over cable and telephone offices yesterday and evicted employees who had been staging two weeks of stay-in and go-slow strikes for higher wages.

Most labor syndicates in La Plata, capital of Buenos Aires province, decided to begin progressive work stoppages in sympathy. The sympathy strikes were to begin today with one-hour walkouts and increase in length each day. Office workers here voted a 12-hour sympathy strike and metallurgical workers ordered a 15-minute stoppage.

'Disappointed' Ike Keeps Tabs On Little Rock

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower, "deeply disappointed" over continued blocking of Little Rock school integration, is keeping tabs on the showdown round in Arkansas today.

The vacationing President expects to get Justice Department reports through the day on the federal court hearing scheduled in Little Rock on Gov. Orval Faubus' use of National Guardsmen to bar Negroes from Central High School there.

Late yesterday the Newport White House made it plain the President had hoped—and perhaps expected—that Faubus would have cleared the way for integration in advance of today's hearing.

That became clear when Wayne Hawks, acting press secretary, was asked at a news conference whether the President was pleased with developments in Little Rock. "No," Hawks replied. "He is deeply disappointed that voluntary means have not been found to comply with the court's order."

Faubus conferred with Eisenhower here last Saturday.

Hawks declined comment when asked whether the President's view was that Faubus had "renege" on any promises he may have made at their Newport conference.

Hawks, White House chief of records, took over the spokesman's post during the temporary illness of White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, which was announced yesterday.

At that time neither the President nor Faubus said anything specifically about whether the governor would order the National Guardsmen away from the high school.

Kiwanians To Elect Officers Next Week

Big Spring Kiwanians will elect new officers for the ensuing year at their meeting on Thursday of next week, it was announced at the luncheon meeting of the club yesterday.

A nominating committee, headed by Harve Clay, former president, submitted a slate of candidates for the club's consideration.

It was pointed out that additional nominations may be made from the floor before the election. As a general rule, however, the report and recommendation of the nominating committee is tantamount to election.

The committee nominated Jack Alexander for president; Sherman Smith, first vice president; Dalton Mitchell, second vice president.

Nominees for the board of directors are:

Roy Black, Sam Blackburn, Bob Heine, George Larsen, Floyd Parsons, Jack Roden and Merle Stewart.

The program for the day was devoted to a check of plans for the observance of annual Kids Day in Big Spring. This annual event, scheduled for Sept. 28, is jointly sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and Webb Air Force Base.

Bob Heine, general chairman, called upon the numerous committee chairmen for reports on their plans.

Current program calls for a bus trip to Webb by all youngsters who desire to make the trip. This event will be Saturday afternoon, Sept. 28 with Big Spring Junior High School as the starting point. At the base, the Air Force officers have arranged an elaborate schedule of events.

A feature will be the recognition of the base commander for the day and the WAF staff officer for the day—a boy and girl to be chosen from the high school student body largely on scholastic attainment. After the visit the youngsters will be returned to the junior high school.

That night, at the old football stadium, an elaborate program featuring the coronation of the queen for the day will be presented. There will be special music, selections by the junior high school chorus and other events.

After the coronation—the queen to be chosen from nominees from all of the elementary schools and the junior high school—a football game between two elementary school teams will be played.

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

REMEMBER ?

Being a child isn't nearly so much fun when it's happening, as it is when you look back on it!

Somehow we remember, when we get a little older, just how much better strawberry shortcake tasted then, and how special each day seemed. We forget the scraped knees, the hurt feelings, the times when we were naughty and got punished!

Most of us belonged to some particular church in our childhood. Looking back, it often seems like it was the best church in the world. Yet... like so much of what we remember of childhood... it wasn't, really — BECAUSE ALL CHURCHES ARE WONDERFUL.

"In My Father's House Are Many Mansions." Jesus wasn't speaking of earthly houses. Yet, on earth, God has many mansions too. Your church... anybody's church... is one of them.

Go to Church this Sunday, especially if you haven't been for a while. You'll find that going to church now is a lot better than just remembering the church of your childhood.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
